Plans for Beautifying Lake Shore and Park.

R. Edgar Randolph, New York Landscape Architect Engaged to Arrange Preliminary Plans.

Dams to be Built on Aeneas and Trout Creeks.

A short session of the Council was held on Saturday evening last. This was called by the Reeve to take up several matters that required immediate attention.

The water supply getting somewhat low the Board of Control were authorized to expend a sum of money not exceeding $500.00 for investigation and development work necessary for storing water in Aeneas Creek for irrigation purposes, and they were further authorized to expend an amount necessary for the further storing of water on Trout Creek, also for irrigation purposes.

It was proposed that Mr. R. Edgar Randolph, the New York landscape architect who is now at Naramata laying out the grounds on which Mr. J. M. Robinson purposes erecting a new house, be consulted while here as to the best plan of procedure for beautifying the lake shore and park. A sum not exceeding $100 was allowed for this purpose. Mr. Randolph will prepare photographs and reports which will be helpful for the forming of an intelligent plan of general improving and beautifying.

Hill's Line Coming.

J. J. Hill's G.N.R., or to be more exact the V.V. & E. railway appears to have taken a new lease of life. A contract for construction work near Princeton which it was feared had been called off altogether has been revived and engineers with machinery are now preparing for construction. Reports from the south are that a line projected by the same company to run north will soon become an accomplished fact. This is expected to at least touch the Okanagan lake. No doubt the fact that the Reciprocity Bill has been finally passed by the U. S. Government is the cause of the Hill line's desire to get in early on Southern B.C. territory.

With the G. N. railway either tapping the lake at the South or running along the lake shore, and the Canadian Northern running from Kamloops at the head of the lake, railway competition resulting in increased facilities may be expected. There seems little doubt in the minds of those in a position to know that these two companies, the Great Northern of the U. S. A. and the Canadian Northern will soon be jointly operating in the Okanagan Valley. It is probable that steamboats will be the connecting link between the two lines of railways, the Canadian Northern touching the lake at its extreme northern end and the Great Northern at the southern.

AGRICULTURAL HALL.

Work has been begun on the new Agricultural hall, which is being erected in the Park in Peach Orchard. As announced last week, Nelson Bros. have secured the contract. They have given J. G. Robertson a sub-contract for the cement and mason work. R. H. English is now engaged in doing the excavating for Mr. Robertson. The main building is to be of 2 storeys 100x40 ft. The lower floor is to be frost proof, and will be used as a public ware-house. The floor above will be used for exhibition purposes. In the front of the building and attached to it, will be another structure 24 x 18 ft. This will contain the offices, etc. The Agricultural Society estimates that the building will cost when finished something less than $6,000. The contract requires that the work be completed by October 1st.

Survey of Railroad to Kelowna.

The preliminary survey of the Kettle Valley Railway has been finished to the South Kelowna Land Co.'s dam, and the party engaged in the work are now retracing their steps towards Penticton and making the final location. It is not considered probable that any active construction work will be carried on in this neighbourhood until next spring. The location obtained is regarded as very satisfactory to Mr. Gourlay, the engineer in charge, as it eliminates the costly tunnels and bridges entailed by the survey made last winter at a lower altitude. The survey work from the South Kelowna dam to the Kettle River is being actively carried on by another party, and it is hoped to have all the line finally located before the end of the autumn. So far as this district is concerned, the final location of the Kettle Valley puts the line, when constructed, entirely out of reach, owing to the high altitude at which it traverses the Mission Range.—Kelowna Courier.

Inaccurate.

The recent issue of the "New Empire" has the following paragraph: "The Summerland Development, of which Mr. James Ritchie is the president, is planning re-organization. The directors of the company will meet this month for this purpose. This company has large holdings in Naramata, which are being divided into fruit lots. The orchards which were only planted last year are looking exceptionally fine this summer."

Mr. James Ritchie has no connection with the Summerland Development Company. Mr. J. M. Robinson is the President. And further the Summerland Development Company have no holdings at Naramata. The Summerland Trust Company, an altogether different company and controlled by different interests, were the founders and promoters of Naramata. We cannot understand how the New Empire, whose news items have been pretty accurate, could have been so misinformed.

The Boy Scouts in Camp Having a Glorious Time.

Expect to Break Up Camp on Monday.

Saturday is Public Inspection Day.

The camp has materialized. And in its realization it has quite come up to the anticipation the boys had conjured up. All the boys had been looking forward to and planning for this event for some time. And already voices have been heard asking to stay over the week-end. No complaints have reached the ears of the officers and no discontented campers have been heard of.

Visitors have paid surprise afternoon and evening visits and have expressed themselves quite satisfied as to the care taken of the boys and also as to the location of the camp, and the cooking arrangements. The camp was inspected on Tuesday by Dr. C. M. Smith, who approved the domestic arrangements and left instructions and apparatus for dealing with any accidents or illness that might arise. Needless to say every effort is being made to avoid such happenings. The Doctor pays frequent visits and personally inspects the boys.

The cooking arrangements are in the hands of J. McGuire, a camp cook of much experience. Two boys are told off as his assistants every day and enter into their duties with a zest which would show that housekeeping ability is by no means confined to the gentler sex. "Jim" the cook is a decidedly popular character and his meals have been voted "dandy" by all his boarders. Here is a typical day's menu: Breakfast—Porridge and milk, bread, butter, bacon, apple sauce, coffee. Dinner—Scotch Broth, boiled beef and potatoes, preserves, bread, tea. Supper—Rice pudding, bread and butter, jam, cake, tea.

The meals are well varied and everyone is served with as much as they need. The officers eat the same meals as the boys as a rule. Biscuits and cheese are served out to the boys in the tents, just before retiring for the night. The meal hours are, Breakfast, 7 a.m.; dinner, 12 noon; supper, 5.30; biscuits and cheese 9.30 p.m.

Cleanliness is a prominent point in camp. Three bathing parades are held, 6 a.m., 11 a.m., and 5.30 p.m. Although attendance at these parades is not compulsory, every boy turns out. No more than three baths per day are allowed, excepting under special circumstances. The eating utensils are thoroughly cleansed after each meal, including all cooking pots and pans. The water supply is from the pump at Mr. G. Williams premises. Fresh milk, bread, meat and vegetables are obtained every day. So the food department is well looked after and Quartermaster Tait and the cook deserve much credit. The boys are not burdened with monotonous drills during the day. Ample rest is allowed after the meals and no drill lasts longer than an hour. As far as possible, the drill are held in the cool hours of the day in a shady dell between the camp and the lake. The camp guard consists of two boys under a corporal guard and sentry duty is kept from 6 a.m. till 10 p.m. The guard change every day.

Hoisting and lowering the colors is a regular part of the day's routine. The boys stand at the salute under the flagstaff and sing the National Anthem while the colors are being lowered. The flag is hoisted at sunrise and lowered at sunset.

Thirty-three boys were brought to camp on Monday morning in the boats kindly provided by Messrs Stark and Logie. After a light lunch camp was pitched. There are nine tents and they have been placed under the trees only a few yards from Trout Creek and quite near the lake. Three officers, Scout Master, Assistant Scout Master and Quartermaster are in residence with the boys and a hospital corps consisting of six boys under Corporal G. Logie has been organized. The latter have had nothing more serious than small knife cuts and wasp stings to deal with so far.

Most of the boys will be in attendance at the Bulyea Point picnic on Thursday afternoon and a display of staff and ambulance drills will be given. The projected visit to Naramata will probably be put off till next week. The Penticton and Vernon troops remain in camp for two weeks.

That the boys are enjoying their experience—and the officers too—there is no doubt. Saturday, August 5th will be Public Inspection Day and it is hoped that the public will fully avail themselves of this opportunity to see for themselves the conditions under which the camp is run. Visitors are welcome all the time, but Saturday will be their special day.

No account of our camp life would be complete without a few words regarding the generosity of the people of Summerland in general. The appeals to the public for practical help in the way of groceries, provisions and such like have indeed been met generously and the officers desire to thank all who have so kindly contributed to the camp provision fund, as well as those who have provided transportation accommodation, etc. Their help is much appreciated. Thank you! Come and see us Saturday.

COMING!

One of the most virile stories of recent years and at the same time a splendid picture of ranch life in the Canadian West before Indian raids were a thing of the past, is "A Tenderfoot's Wooing." The Canadian novelist, Clive Phillips Wolley, has produced characters strong and true and genuine and his knowledge of British Columbia is evident from the treatment of the atmosphere in which he places the men and the women whom he has created to delight the reading public.

The Review has secured the exclusive right to publish this story for this district, and will shortly begin its publication in serial form. As the scene of the story lies wholly in the B. C. interior, you will surely want to read it.

If not already a subscriber, order the paper to be sent to you at once. A personal call, letter, postal or phone will secure it.

Don't delay, you will want the first chapters.

SHARP-THORNTWAITE.

Popular Young Citizen Marries Young Lady From the Home-land.

The consummation of a romance which had its inception while the groom was on a visit to the Old Country, was witnessed in the delightfully informal marriage of Mr. Sydney F. Sharp, a successful Summerland fruit grower, to Miss Lizzie Thornthwaite, late of Cocker-mouth, England. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large gathering of friends, by the Rev. F. W. Hardy, D.D., pastor of the Summerland Methodist church. The interior of the church was tastefully decorated for the occasion by Mr. Martin Beavis and Mr. Robert Barkwell. A lovely archway of greenery being especially noticeable, while the choir rendered selections and the leader, Mr. Thos. Beavis, sang "Love's Old Sweet Song." Mr. Percy Thornber officiated at the organ in his usual brilliant style.

The bride looked charming in a gown of ivory satin, trimmed with embroidered ivy leaves, entered the church, leaning on the arm of her brother, Mr. Harry Thornthwaite. The bridesmaids who looked very sweet, robed in embroidered batiste and pique hats, were Miss Ruby Tiffin, Miss Nora Tiffin, Miss Edith Sharp and Miss Ethel Brown, while the groom was supported by Mr. H. C. Howie.

The supper was served at the home of Mrs. J. Robert Brown, on Beach avenue, where covers were laid for 30 guests, and a thoroughly enjoyable evening was spent till a late hour, when the bride and groom, amid hearty wishes, drove to their beautiful home at Trout Creek. The presents were numerous and costly.

DANGEROUS FIRE THREATENED NARAMATA.

Naramata, Aug. 3.—A forest fire, two hours ride up the mountains, that might have developed into a very serious conflagration but for the prompt action of those in authority here, was noticed and checked on Sunday afternoon.

Shortly after the first appearance of smoke was noticed, Fire Warden Nuttall, with a force of men were soon on their way with a pack horse bearing necessary shovels and provisions for three days.

These were followed later on by the Penticton Fire Warden, S. Suttorland, who took with him a few additional recruits from the benches.

Mr. Nuttall afterwards stated that a delay of another hour would probably have resulted in the destruction of the immense spruce forest so familiar to those who have ever visited the upper Inkos and that once that part caught fire, no power on earth could have prevented its destruction.

Who is to blame? We don't know. It might possibly be due to the carelessness of one of the Japs who are still at work on the construction at the upper lake.

Will Summerland Get The K. R. V. Ry?

Council in Special Evening Session Discusses Situation.

Reeve Authorized to Take Further Means to Secure the Line.

It is evident that the Kettle Valley Railroad has no intentions of coming into Summerland unless some official pressure is brought to bear on the company, or they receive a subsidy from the municipality.

A preliminary route was run by the company's engineers which was duly filed with and approved by the Railway Department at Ottawa. This route came across Trout Creek, around the side of Giant's Head and out through Garnett Valley and westward through Meadow Valley.

Later the company applied to the Department of Railways and Canals for permission to revise these plans and make the new route follow up Trout Creek and north westward to Opey lake.

July 24th was the date set for the hearing of the case at Ottawa. Upon this being made known to the Summerland Municipal Council they at once wired Ottawa for a postponement of the hearing to enable them to learn the reasons for the change and if necessary to prepare argument showing why the railway should be compelled to go through Summerland.

A meeting of the Council was called for Monday evening last, and a communication just received from the Minister of Railways was read, and with it a statement of the railway's reasons for avoiding Summerland. They have made as strong a case as possible, and in comparing the preliminary route with the one now decided upon by the railway, the president claims that to bridge Trout Creek would cost a quarter of a million dollars, and, while the grade of the Summerland route is a little better, the road would be lengthened by some 19 miles if the Summerland route were followed. Nothing was said of the route proposed by the Reeve of the Municipality. There was a full attendance of the Council, and all admitted that to a person not familiar with the ground a convincing argument had been put up by the railway company, but they did not at all satisfy the board that a route through Summerland was not practicable. The date of hearing was postponed for three weeks and the case will come up again on Aug. 14th. All the members of the council felt that the matter should not be allowed to drop and an unanimous vote was passed authorizing the Reeve to take what steps he thought necessary to present a good case for the Municipality at the hearing before the Railway Department.

CAN LAURIER MAKE GOOD?

Parliament was dissolved last Friday. The general election will take place on Sept. 21st.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier wisely accepted the only course open to him.

Can he deliver?

President Taft made a strong fight in support of the Reciprocity Agreement, and finally the bill passed.

It is now up to Sir Wilfrid. Can he make good?

We do not believe he can. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is not the idol of the Canadian people to-day that he has been in the past. Interest in him is waning. He cannot sway the electorate as of old. Questions are asked, even by his own party workers, and they demand an answer. This is particularly true of the Reciprocity bill.

And in view of Sir Wilfrid's expressed views on reciprocity a year or two ago, when, we believe, he was closer in touch with the heart of the Canadian people, and the position he is taking to-day, we fail to see how he can hope to carry the country on the reciprocity issue now presented.

"GET ACQUAINTED."

"Better Fruit" publishes a fruit dealers edition of that excellent magazine in the July number, and the information therein contained should be of certain value to every fruit grower. One strong point made by the editor of "Better Fruit" is that there should be a better acquaintance between grower and dealer, and what is good for the fruit grower across the line in this respect should be good for our own fruit growers and dealers.

The dealer will become familiar more with the products of each particular section, which will be to his interest and, we might add, at the same time to that of the grower. The grower will become better acquainted with the dealer and learn what kind of a man he is. No one can deny that it is easier and more satisfactory to do business with a man you personally know than with a man you have never seen.

THEN AND NOW.

Sixty years ago the first Reform Bill passed the House of Commons. It was introduced by the second Earl Grey, and aimed to abolish the abuses which had grown up in regard to the representation in the House of Commons. Parliamentary corruption had become notoriously prevalent. The Duke of Norfolk alone had eleven seats for "rotten boroughs" in his gift, while other boroughs and even many of the cities had no representation at all. At that time the House of Lords passed the bill after the opposition was overcome by the King giving to Earl Grey written authority to create as many peers as might be necessary to secure the passage of the bill.

In many respects the present parliamentary crisis in England resembles that of 1831-32. Its only solution is frankly admitted by the London Telegraph: "Let us deal frankly with the facts," says the Telegraph, "however unpleasant, and with the alternatives, which are no less unpalatable. The first fact is that the Coalition has won, and means to exact the full fruits of its partisan victory. There is a triumphant majority in the House of Commons. It will hold closely together, because it must so hold together in order to survive. It has no scruples of political majority. The bill is its absolute minimum, and there are large and powerful sections in its ranks whose only quarrel with the revolution it contains is that it is too mild. The Government, for the moment, are in an impregnable position, they cannot be driven out of it as long as the Parliament Bill remains unpassed. The fact is the peers are in fetters. They must yield. They have fought well enough for honor. Where the Duke of Wellington thought it no shame to give way, Lord Lansdowne and his colleagues need not hesitate."

PRINCETON CEMENT WORKS.

Never in the world's history has there been such stupendous operations undertaken with Portland cement as are now witnessed in America. The growth in the manufacture of this imperishable building material has been phenomenal in the past decade. Since the inauguration of the rotary system of burning, and the tube mill system of finishing, the daily output of the American manufactures alone exceeds the total daily output of the world ten years ago. And the demand for Portland cement exceeds the supply to a greater extent to-day than it has at any time since the material was brought into structural use.

There seems to be no limit to the structural uses to which Portland cement can be put. In water or out of water; in the open air or under ground it makes no difference to its serviceability.

The demand for cement in the Okanagan has been supplied from the coast in the past, and much delay has been occasioned from time to time in getting the material here. It will therefore be good news to the Okanagan towns to learn of the progress being made at the B. C. Cement Co.'s works near Princeton. In the New Empire for July it is reported that "The British Columbia Cement Co., organized in 1910 to acquire from the United Empire Co. deposits of materials suitable for making Portland cement, and to erect and equip works for its manufacture, is proceeding with the erection of the necessary building prior to putting in the requisite machinery and other equipment. The locality of this company's enterprise is on One-mile Creek, at a distance of about two and one-half miles from Princeton, Similkameen.

"The company will use the rock system of making cement, the rotary system of burning, and the tub-mill system of finishing; also the rotary system of drying coal and Fuller mill finishing. The raw materials for the manufacture of cement, consisting of limestone, shale, clay and coal of the roasters, all occur in close proximity to each other, and within a few hundred yards of the site of the manufacturing works.

The buildings now being erected under the direction of Mr. J. A. Osborne, the company's engineer, are the main building, 60 by 200 feet; engine room and power house, 60 by 114 feet, and coal house (in which the coal will be pulverized,) 34 by 64 feet. These buildings will all be constructed with masonry walls and wood-trussed roof, covered with corrugated galvanized iron. The foundations of stone in cement concrete have been completed, and the work of building the lower section of the walls, two or three feet in width, is well advanced."

Simon Skuttsworth & Co., European buyers of American fruits, of Liverpool, Eng., write to the "Better Fruit" magazine: "As regards the package, you have come to exactly the same conclusion that we ourselves have reached, and we have been recommending the very things which you suggest. For an export package, too great a swell is disadvantageous. A tight pack, with a half inch swell and the same thickness at top as at the sides, would in our opinion make the ideal export package." There seems to be a point here that our apple packers for export should make a note of, if they have not already made the discovery.

Ridley, Holding & Co., London, Eng., have this to say of the London apple market: "The outlook for the apple business in England is very promising and the British public is gradually, though surely, recognizing the fact that the apple is no longer a luxury but a necessity, and apples are now consumed in almost every home. This is encouraging news for those who have orchards soon coming into bearing, and proves an adequate answer for those who hold pessimistic views of the future in reference to a possible stage of over-production."

A prize of twenty-five twenty-dollar gold pieces is offered by President Elliott, of the Northern Pacific railway, to the apple grower who will exhibit the best twenty-five boxes of apples of any variety or varieties at the American Land and Irrigation Exposition, to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, Nov. 3 to 12, 1911. The contest is limited to bona fide growers or proprietors of orchards any where in the world. Another opportunity for our Okanagan apple growers!

The steps recently taken by the C. P. R. to give a better service over the Shuswap and Okanagan branch, and to better handle the traffic on the lake, shows a broad and comprehensive policy and indicates that the company is wise to the fact that the welfare of the railroad depends upon the welfare of the territory tributary to their road and served by it.

- Between Me and Hank -

To be imbued with the spirit of happiness is the greatest blessing a man can have, no trait one may acquire adds so much to the character, and none there can be which brings so much happiness and comfort to the world. In the community life, in business, in the home, in the presence of the helpful person is felt above that of the person's every other talent or acquirement, for in every condition he or she has something to offer that will aid somebody in some way.

We are told that in the native haunts of the monkey, these peculiar animals live in organized colonies, regulated and governed something similarly to civilized man, and that in these colonies there is to be found the exercise of a spirit of helpfulness excelling even that of our boasted civilization. In the monkey bridge we see an exemplification of this spirit. When a colony of monkeys has to cross a difficult stream, the stronger males of the colony are detailed to run a bridge across the stream. Climbing a high tree on the river bank they entwine their tails about each other—monkey to monkey—until the string is long enough to reach a tree on the opposite bank. They then swing across and make fast, and over this living bridge the weak and the females and the young are carried. Then the bridge gang swing down and the colony is safe on the opposite bank.

This, it seems to me, is a splendid example in helpfulness. The reward of faithfulness to each is the safety of all. In the human family and in community life we have witnessed some of the results of a similar helpfulness. We have seen the father and mother stand shoulder to shoulder in the home and bravely battle for the welfare of the little ones, and as the boys and girls advanced to manhood and womanhood they have stepped unselfishly into line and lent a hand to brighten the burden of the parents and of each other. Progress and prosperity to all were the results.

And the same spirit worked out in community life cannot fail to carry all high up on the crest of prosperity's wave to the goal each and all are seeking.

AUDITOR AT WORK.

The auditor which the Council at its session of July 1st, authorized the Reeve to engage, has this week taken up his work on the Municipal books. The Reeve secured the services of Mr. Crehan, a chartered accountant from Vancouver. He will make a thorough audit and report to the council.

A reader of Dr. Johnson has stumbled on this bit of wisdom, which he thinks applicable to the suffrage question. "Nature has given woman so much power that the law very wisely gives them little."

This is interesting and timely now as it has been learned that the suffrage societies throughout Canada are preparing a reorganization scheme with a view to perfecting and strengthening their several clubs and starting a hot campaign for women's votes next winter.

Stomach Agony

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion will Vanish.

Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas, biliousness, sour stomach, fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, bad taste in mouth, foul breath, nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves that question daily.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of Mi-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to the Summerland Drug Company this very day and get a large box of Mi-o-na tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of Mi-o-na tablets is only fifty cents, and the Summerland Drug Company guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back.

Thin or lean or scrawny people will find in Mi-o-na a maker of flesh and blood, because it causes the stomach to extract more nutritious matter from the food, which quickly enriches the blood.

MR. ENGLISH AND THE HOSPITAL

In the Review's report of the public meeting recently held to discuss hospital matter, Mr. R. H. English was quoted as having said that he was opposed to the hospital. Mr. English informs the Review that we got a wrong impression from his remarks. The facts are as stated by Mr. English that he had been accused of being opposed to the hospital, and it was to this accusation he referred. When asked as to his stand in the matter, he said that at its inception he was opposed to the leasing of the building which has since been used as a hospital, and at that time advocated the erecting of a small building to which additions might be made from time to time. When the public was recently taken, he states that he voted for the new institution, and believes a great mistake was made in turning down the proposition. It will be hard to get such liberal offers again either from the Provincial Government, in the way of a suitable building site, or the furnishing of the various wards.

PREFERS S'LAND TO PARADISE.

A former resident of Summerland recently very unexpectedly returned to friends here. The great dane which has been the property of Mrs. MacPherson was recently taken to Matt. G. Wilsons ranch at Paradise, on the other side of the lake. The barrier of five or six miles of water was not as great as her desire to return to our shores and she was not long in undertaking the journey.

Send Names to Census Office.

The Review has been receiving from time to time names of Summerland residents who have not been visited by the census enumerator. We have just received a circular from Ottawa stating that "The Census Office earnestly desires that the name of every man, woman and child in the country, as well as all other information called for in the schedules, should be recorded as the statute and the instructions require. But lest there should be an inadvertent omission on the part of any enumerator, the Office respectfully invites the co-operation of the public for the completion of a full census. To this end persons who believe or suspect that they have not been taken are asked to notify the Chief Officer of the Census at Ottawa, giving their names, post office address, street and number if residing in cities, towns or villages or concession and number of lot if residing in country places. Letters containing information of this nature are postage free, and if it is found that such persons have not been enumerated in the returns made to the Census Office means will at once be taken to remedy the defects through the local officers who were employed in the work and who are responsible if any mistakes have been made in their respective enumeration areas."

It is likely they will be accompanied by several friends.

A foal belonging to W. Ritchie, which had followed its mother down to the C. P. R. dock on Monday morning, and fell into the water. There was excitement for a little while, but finally a boat was procured and the colt was towed around to shallow water, where it soon reached a place of safety by its mother's side. It is folly to allow a young colt to follow its mother on the road.

THE NEW PHASE.

It must have been quite two a.m. when I was awakened from my slumbers by a voice, apparently from heaven.

"Nah then, funny, wot yer gettin' at there?" was the burden of its speech.

It was, by oral evidence, Matilda. Matilda is our Domestic Permanency, my wife's proud boast to outsiders, her domineering tyrant in the house. Matilda's bedroom was above ours, and she was evidently talking out of the window. "I could imagine the gargoye effect."

"With you great boots," continued the voice, "a-treadin' over our flowerbeds, an' what good you think you're doin' or ever will do in the catchin' line with them feet."

A pause, evidently for breath. Who was this Romeo? Had I been less comfortable I should have got up and looked out of the window.

"And I'll thank you to stop flashin' that there gratted light up at my window. What you think you're goin' to see at this time o' night I don't know. No, I ain't got me tarara on. Wot's that? Winder left open, wot's the master come down? Not 'im! Not if there wasn't twenty burglars 'e wouldn't. 'E's too snug in 'is bed. With 'is feet on 'is 'ot bottle."

During breakfast a terrific crash from the kitchen reduced my wife to tears. I rang the bell fiercely—I always got as far as that—and an akimbo form appeared.

"It's yer Uncle Josiah's dessert-service gone, and if I won't a stayer I should give notice immediate, own'to shock"

"But what was my best china doing" began my wife feebly.

My blood was up.

"Look here, you'll take a month's notice and go!"

I was eyed with a stony stare.

"Oh, Matilda, we couldn't dream of parting with you!" protested my wife hastily; and with an indescribable sniff the stayer disappeared.

And every attempt at giving notice had elicited the intention of going straight to one of our most intimate friends.

"And we couldn't refuse a good reference after six years; and think what she could say about us!" wept my wife.

I hastily agreed, remembering the small hours of that morning.

"Amelia," I demanded, suddenly, "what do we pay Matilda?"

"Oh, hundred and twenty-five dollars a year and her keep must be quite another $250."

"Then if we pensioned her on $250 a year we should save. Besides Uncle Josiah's china."

"But she'd never leave—she's too accustomed; 'is it likely she'd leave this house which she practically owns, for two rooms?" Besides, she'd go to Mrs. Robinson-Jones."

"Perhaps if she found a loving heart," I suggested. An idea of meteor-like brilliance occurred.

"But this is a 'No Follower' place."

I rang the bell firmly.

The look of silent scorn which preceded withdrawal could only mean "I could have had them any time I liked in spite of you."

That day I called at the police-station and inquired for the man who had been on night duty in our secluded road. I was directed to a busy crossing, and there in command of the situation was Romeo.

I grasped his hand warmly.

"Are you a married man?" I said.

He looked at me sadly.

"So heavily in the morning, sir?"

I saw his point and hastened to clear myself. He was not a married man, he was not even casting an eye.

"Though, there's a many."

I hastily agreed.

"Give me a young woman with sperrit," he went on. "Now, there's a female I encountered last night on professional duty."

I shook both hands—he had met me half-way. It was soon arranged. Robert was to woo and win Matilda, in consideration whereof he was to receive $250 per annum for the term of his natural life.

He was naturally suspicious. I cited breakages and incompatibility of temper.

"But, of course, a policeman—"

I insinuated.

"I'll see to that, sir," he replied genially.

The wooing was short. My wife and I became adepts at coughing and rattling the kitchen door-handle before entering and with fiendish intent stocked the abode of the couple with crockery. The marriage settlement, so to speak, was drawn up in black and white.

For a year after our villa was the abode of joy. We obtained a treasure, who was only a moderate stayer, we entertained our friends, even seemed to save money.

And then we went abroad in summer, and in consideration of Matilda's changed character as shown by the entirety of her own household crockery, we installed her and Robert as caretakers and gave the treasure a month's holiday.

On our return we were met by Matilda, who, as per contract, was to have left the house the morning of our return.

"Where's Jane?" faltered my wife.

"The gal has gone. Likewise box and brown paper parcel, owing to words over filthy cupboards left behind. There ain't no cause to look blue. Robert and me can stop till suited, as man and wife. 'E's 'andy at doin' bits of jobs in the garden when off. And you may be thankful as there's no encumbrances an' I can come. As the registrar young person sees to me, 'There's not many in these days as is stayers.'"

That was some years ago.

"And that Raven, never sitting, still is sitting, still is sitting."

No applications for the place have permeated, I pay them $250 a year, they live rent free on the fat of the land, and he draws policeman's pay as well.

But one can get used to everything.

Snap In Acre Lots!!

For the purpose of disposing of his remaining acre lots before removing to Revelstoke, and as an inducement for an immediate sale, Mr. Robson has authorised us to state that no advance in price will be made until the 12th of August, when the price of each lot will be raised $50.00

These Lots are all planted, are situated within a few minutes walk from the Central School, the Church, Post Office and Store at West Summerland, and the domestic pipe line is conducted past two sides of the property.

The following is a plan with the number and acreage of each lot:

PRICES AND TERMS: Lots 1 to 4, $400 each, $125 cash, balance 1 and 2 years, interest 7 per cent. Lot 5 Block 1, $210, $75 cash, balance 1 and 2 years, 7 per cent. HARD ON FATHER.

Croquet Season Is Opened Again and Papa Knows.

Again the croquet season is with us.

One notices it first when papa comes home from lodge. He slips in the side gate and walks across the lawn so, as not to disturb the log. He weaves his way carefully toward the door where a light is dimly burning.

There is a slight touch on his right leg about four inches above his ankle. He doesn't notice it.

The next instant he is on his face, his nose investigating the intricacies of a flower bed, while with his other hand he upsets a stand full of flower pots.

"What in the lovely, charming, pleasant and agreeable circumstances is this?" asks papa.

"The dog bays a mournful answer to the moon. A window is opened and a sharp voice says: 'Come in the house, you fool, before you fall over another croquet wicket!'"

Then father knows the croquet season is on and he announces at breakfast next day that if Willie forgets to bring in the wickets at night he'll burn the darned outfit.

For the next few weeks the boys and girls come over and plant their heels in the flower beds and play rover among the geraniums. In the evening, sometimes, pap will play a game with mamma just to square himself for the nights he goes to lodge.

THE KING'S THRONE.

Hard to Say Which is the Real Throne.

The King may be said to have a suite of thrones—or shall we say a set of "occasional thrones?"—on each of which he probably sits at least once. Certainly he only sits on a single occasion upon one of them—that is the Coronation Chair in Westminster Abbey—the worm-eaten, battered, lion-footed old oak settee which contains the Stone of Destiny, and upon which all the King's predecessors since Edward II. have been crowned. That chair might, perhaps, claim to be the throne of the Empire, as it is infinitely the most ancient, and inasmuch as the King must sit upon it to be crowned.

It is not, at all, likely that the King would sit upon it often; even if it were in his "ain angle-nook," because it is an extremely uncomfortable chair. It stands, year in and year out, in the chapel of Edward the Confessor, where it was first placed by Edward I., and it is only removed for the Coronation, when, covered with gold brocade, it is set under the lantern, between the choir and the altar.

Probably the throne most familiar to the public is the great creation which stands upon a dais in the House of Lords. It is often mentioned in the newspapers quite apart from the opening of Parliament—the only occasion upon which it is actually used as a seat. Often a phrase like this occurs: "Mr. John Burns, who is greatly interested in this bill, listened to the debate from the steps of the throne." A beautiful rail separates this "Royal seat of Kings" from the faithful peers.

BRITISH STANDARD BEARER.

Lieutenant Harrison, the tallest officer in the British Army, will carry the standard of the Royal Horse Guards Blue in the Coronation procession. The standard was presented to the Blues by King William on August 18th, 1881, Queen Adelaide's birthday. The last time it was carried was the first Jubilee of Queen Victoria, when the Queen went from Slough to Windsor.

AFRICANS LIKE UNIFORMS.

Much money is made out of cast-off police uniforms. Quantities are bought by African traders and exported to various parts of the "Dark Continent," where they are exchanged for palm-oil, ivory, skins, and other merchandise. It is by no means an uncommon sight to see a swarthy savage dressed in the uniform of a policeman, and wearing the regulation helmet of the force.

Stories of the Prince of Wales.

Many quaint and amusing anecdotes are related of the Prince of Wales as a small child, one being that he and his sister and brothers were invited out to tea at some Court lady's house, and when the hour for departure came he could nowhere be found to say good-bye to his hostess. On investigation it was discovered that he had hurried downstairs alone to secure what he considered his proper place in the carriage.

It is also reported of him that, on his first attending afternoon church one Sunday, he remembered how often he had been told to thank his entertainers for their hospitality; so on this occasion he looked anxiously about for someone to be grateful to. The only person who came handy was the vergor, who, rather to his consternation, had his hand grasped by the little prince, and was informed in a childish voice:—"Thank you so much for a very pleasant afternoon!"

Ben's Logic.

"Ben," said his friend, waking up from a reverie in which he had been gazing abstractedly at the shiny expanse of Ben's skating-rink-for-logs, "is there nothing you could do to get your baldness?" "Ben," by the way, is only forty. "No, lad!" he replied, with decision. "Fifteen years ago I was courtly strong, and I tried lots o' things. But about that time t' Prince of Wales—Edward, you know—came to open t' new hospital, and I said to myself as soon as ever I saw him 'tittin' his hat to t' crowd, 'Ben, my lad, the can give it up as a bad job and save thy brass. If there was one 'ud cure a bald hood they'd ha' cured his.'"

John Jacob Astor was fined 40 shillings in London for auto speeding. He's an Anglo-americano now.

Local News Items : Naramata Notes :

Thomas Collinge, who has been in the employ of the Review Printing and Publishing Company, has severed his connection with that concern. It is understood that Mr. Collinge purposes engaging in another line of business here.

L. Russell Williams has been engaged by the Review Printing Co., to take charge of the printing department. Mr. Williams, as a printer, is well known, and he will no doubt well maintain the standard of quality and artistic workmanship which has been set by the Review's job printing department.

Miss Margaret White and Miss Helen Sawyer, president and vice-president of the newly organized Girls' Auxiliary of the hospital, have already taken up the work. They will start out on Monday to canvass for subscriptions towards the maintenance of the hospital. It is necessary to raise some $700 in order to enable the board to continue the institution. These young ladies have been asked to get, during their canvass, an expression from each citizen, as to whether they desire to have the hospital continued or closed.

Elsewhere in this issue we publish a request from Ottawa, that all who were overlooked by the Census Enumerator, send their names direct to the Chief Officer of the Census at Ottawa. Since this has been put in type, the Review has had a letter from the Census Commissioner of the district, Mr. W. R. Knowles of Vernon, promising to send a man here to look into any omissions. He is to call at the Review office for any information we can give him. Will all those who are not sure that they were enumerated, kindly notify this office with out delay by phone or otherwise. Mr. Knowles thinks this would be much better than reporting to Ottawa. He is also desirous of having the work performed here as thoroughly as possible.

Mr. V. Taylor, proprietor of the business of Taylor & Co., manufacturers of and dealers in leather goods, has sold the business to Mr. A. G. Beer, of Winnipeg. Mr. Beer was associated there with his brother in a similar line of business. The transfer was made the 21st of July. All accounts with the firm up to and including the 20th, will be collected by Mr. Taylor. The new proprietor will collect the accounts beginning with July 21st. Mr. Taylor wishes to express his thanks through the Review to the many citizens who have so liberally patronized him during the years that he has been in business here, and hopes that those who have open accounts with him will assist him to speedily wind up his affairs by settling their accounts at the earliest possible date. Mr. Taylor solicits for the new proprietor the same liberal patronage that he has received, and assures the purchasing public the same care and attention to their wishes. Mr. Taylor also pays the liabilities of the company to July 20th inclusive.

The Royal Lilliputian Opera Company, a very clever band of thirty young people ably presented the comic opera, San Toy, to a well filled house in Empire Hall, Wednesday night. The performance of the youngsters was greatly appreciated. It is easy to predict that at least half a dozen of these young people are likely to become stars in their profession. The title role was carried by Miss Pearl Carlyle, "the Australian favorite" a pretty maiden possessing a pleasing stage appearance and voice of good quality. Little Frank Jones was the comedian of the evening and kept the audience in a constant state of laughter, bringing forth frequent applause. Little Baby Grace, a tot of not more than five years of age, only captured the house and her singing was highly pleasing. Baby Grace was encored again and again.

Mr. J. M. Robinson went out on Wednesday on a business trip to Vancouver. He expects to return Monday evening.

Miss Simpson, of the hotel staff, has resigned her position and left this week for Kelowna where she purposes opening up a ladies' hair-dressing and manicuring parlor. Her many friends wish her every success.

Mrs. Wellband and family purpose removing to Vancouver about the 20th of August. They will take up residence in the handsome home recently secured by Mr. Wellband in Kitsilano.

Twins! Twins!! Yes, twins, twins. Calves. That's the sensation at the Trust Company's barn this week. The cow is a splendid specimen of the pure bred Jersey and is the special property of Mr. J. M. Robinson.

Mr. Alexander has purchased a splendid acreage property from R. M. H. Turner. The plot contains one and a half acres and was nearly all set out in 1909 with peach trees. It is Mr. Alexander's intention to commence building a house thereon right away with the hope of occupying it for the early fall.

A party of four sun-browned tourists to whom the romance of the western trail has appealed passed through here on Wednesday of this week, stopping long enough for luncheon at Hotel Naramata and on their journey to Kelowna. They were all splendidly mounted and had two pack horses in their train. Those in the group were Miss Ethel Islam, of Spokane, Mr. St. George P. Baldwin, of Toronto, Miss Ella Paston and brother, Mr. Charles Paston, of Cliffs, Wash. They had already been four weeks on the trail. They will probably return by canoe, starting from Kelowna.

The Sunday schools, Methodist, Presbyterian and the two Baptists, all joined in holding their annual picnic at Trout Creek on Thursday. It was a royal day for the little ones. Plenty of sport and plenty of food and drink, even the ice-cream and lemonade were free for the asking.

A badly damaged buggy is the result of a runaway Thursday afternoon. Dr. Andrew's horse was impatient to get home and, getting a call, came down the Anderson hill at a lively gait and along past the Supply Co.'s store, up past the bank, where the buggy was overturned, and continuing was captured at the front of W. J. Robinson's house on the hill.

Gorge Graham of West Summerland, who has been ailing for some time, is making favorable progress.

The Hotel Summerland is now the property of Mr. W. J. Robinson, he having taken it over on August 1st. Mr. Manchester continues as manager until Sept. 1st, upon which date Mrs David Bentley takes charge.

The various schoolhouses through out the Municipality are being stripped of their furniture which is being removed to the New Central School.

A meeting of the Co-Operative Society's committee was held Saturday evening last. Business in connection with the opening of the proposed store was transacted but the Review could learn nothing for publication. Definite announcements will probably be made at an early date.

As far as they went the work done by the Government road making crew has been very beneficial. The widening and grading of the road running towards Trout Creek is very much appreciated.

Kaleden Comments : Naramata Notes :

Miss Wilson, our postmistress, is spending her holidays at Summerland.

Mr. J. R. Kerr, one of last week's visitors, has returned to Medicine Hat.

Messrs Redstone and Short of Penticton are visitors in town this week end.

Mr. Jas. Ritchie has bought a second and smaller motor car, which made her trial run down here this week.

The pile driver from Penticton is expected on the Lower Okanagan Lake on Monday, when the construction of three wharves will be commenced, superintended by Mr. J. Davis.

A pleasant evening was spent at the Tomlin house by a large gathering of friends last Sunday. These unconventional Sunday "sing songs" have become a distinct feature of Kaleden and brighten the day for many of our young people.

Mr. A. S. Hatfield sold for Mr. Frank Hamson his peach orchard to Mr. G. O. Foss of Okanagan Centre. The former owner took considerable pride in this piece of property, his constant care having very gratifying results in the splendid growth and healthy appearance of the trees.

Mr. Harry Tomlin, building contractor of Summerland, came into town this week and is busily engaged preparing accommodation for his men, preparatory to commencing work on Mr. J. C. Findlay's house, Mr. James Ritchie's bungalow and the new hotel.

Mrs. Babbit, whose health has for some time given her friends considerable anxiety, left for the Coast on Wednesday accompanied by Mrs. N. K. Simpson and Messrs. W. P. Simpson and W. Greave. A valuable helper in the Baptist church here, and an energetic worker in all good causes, we wish for Mrs. Babbit a speedy and complete recovery.

"Have you any rattesnakes at Kaleden?" is the anxious enquiry of friends from distant parts. Yes, occasionally we can oblige, though their presence is becoming increasingly rare. This very fact lends added interest to a stirring incident of the past week, brief details of which may well be placed on record. Miss McAllister who has recently arrived from Winnipeg and is living at home with her parents in their town house, feeling the quietness of her new surroundings in contrast to her former life of activity, soon longed for some excitement and sighed for "the unusual" to happen to enliven the monotony. "Oh, that I might kill a rattesnake!" she was heard to say one day. The opportunity was not far to seek; scarce had the last word died on her lips, when her mother outside called out fearfully that one was close at hand and she feared the safety of the chickens. Scouting both danger and glory, out rushed Miss Dora and arming herself to the teeth with stones, hurled the missiles fast and furiously at the eight-rattled venomous reptile. The scene reproduced an old Bible picture, that of David and Goliath, for Miss Dora succeeded in wounding her opponent in the forehead in no uncertain way, and came out of the fray (maybe) heated and breathless, but covered with glory. An elderly friend on hearing of her daring spirit, remarked that if he were to marry again, he would like to have a girl who was brave in the presence of both rattesnakes and mice. Far from consternation reigning in the poultry yard, the chickens had lined up on either side during the royal progress of the serpent and his death served to increase their interest tenfold. Miss Dora's former school children will be the proud possessors of the eight-rattle trophy.

Miss Ora Williams has accepted a school at Springbrook, B. C., and will leave shortly to assume charge.

In the report of the entrance results published in the last issue the name of Roy Boothe, of Naramata, was inadvertently omitted.

Mr. Jack Robinson is gradually regaining the use of his ankle which he had sprained a few weeks ago, during a football scrimmage.

Mr. and Mrs. John Niblock left on Monday evening's boat for Victoria, where, as announced previously, they have decided to take up residence.

Mrs. J. M. Robinson entertained in the private parlor of the Hotel Naramata at an afternoon tea in honor of Mrs. Niblock prior to her departure from town.

The Penticton Lumber Co. have resumed operations at their last winter's camp. They have now undertaken the heavy, and somewhat dangerous task of hauling the winter's cut down to the lake near Aikin's Point.

The Penticton Boy Scouts under the direction of Scout Master Miller went into camp here on Tuesday, coming up on the 'Greybird'. The boys will probably remain in camp for about 10 days. On Sunday they will attend service at 11 o'clock. The address will be delivered by the boys' own Master, who, by the way, is the Rev. Mr. Miller, who created so favorable an impression at the opening services of our new church.

A few important changes in management were announced August 1st in the staff of the Trust Company. The Lakeside Hotel and Pool room will in future be managed by Mr. F. A. Sindabad, while Mr. G. B. Purdume's place as clerk in Hotel Naramata will be taken by Mr. H. Herndon, or Harry, as he prefers to be recognized. Mr. Purdume has accepted a position temporarily on the staff of the Summerland Review.

There were two services on Sunday. The regular service at 11 o'clock at which Mr. Fallis spoke on "The Immortalities of The Bible" and an evening service in the grand stand led by Mrs. Gillespie on "The Religion of The Future." Both addresses were well attended and both, though widely different in character, showed clearly the direction of religious thought to-day. These evening addresses by Mrs. Gillespie are to be a regular Sunday night feature, at least for the summer months.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF SUMMERLAND PEACHLAND AND NARAMATA

Vol. 4, No. 2

SUMMERLAND B.C. AUGUST 11, 1911

Whole No. 157

The Boy Scouts.

The first annual camp is over, but its memory will remain till the next one. Contrary to the expectations of many, the rain did not dampen the enthusiasm of the youthful campers, and on Sunday the general expression of feeling was "wish we could stay another week." For many of the scouts this was the first sojourn of any length under canvas, but it will certainly not be the last. As one boy put it, "this camp life tastes like more." There is no doubt that one great reason for the success of the camp was the esprit de corps with which the boys entered into it, and this made the task of the officers comparatively light. With this experience to profit by, the next Summerland Boy Scout Camp will be even more of a success.

It was originally intended to break camp on Saturday afternoon, for it was thought that by that time the boys would have had enough of it. But towards the end of the week the pleadings to stay till Monday became so clamorous that, on a vote being taken, it was decided to stay under canvas over Sunday. Full permission was given any who did not wish to remain, to leave camp on Saturday, but only three availed themselves of this permit, and one of these was called home sorely against his own inclination. The same day, however, two more scouts arrived to stay till camp broke.

While we are always glad to see the rain come down in Summerland, yet we could have wished a short postponement of the downpours which marked the close of the camp week. The tents held out and kept the sleeping quarters dry but at the same time, there was necessarily a good deal of inconvenience suffered, and we all felt that it was decidedly unfortunate that the rain and the camp—both good things—should come together. But the scouts, true to their principles, did not allow climatic conditions to interfere with their enjoyment.

Quite a number of visitors came to camp on Saturday, the day which had been set apart as Public Inspection Day. As many more put off their visit till Sunday, and then had to stay at home on account of the rain. Everyone who came was pleased with the orderliness of the tents, and the decorative effects around them. Outside of their respective tents the different patrols had worked their names in small stones, and erected camp grates, chairs, etc., and in some instances floral decorations had been made. This work gave rise to the comment frequently heard that such a camp had never been seen before. The boys themselves deserve all the credit for this, since they started the work on their own initiative.

The Sunday Church Parade, held in the rain beneath the flagstaff, was well attended. Revs. Hardy, Hood, Solly, and White participated, and the service, though brief, was impressive, the unusual circumstances adding to the effect. One feature of the camp life that appealed strongly to the scouts was guarding the camp. During the week no one succeeded in gaining admission to the camp without intelligence of their approach preceding them. Several visitors made attempts to enter the camp unobserved in the evenings, but none eluded the vigilance of the "flying patrols" who watched the approach, and the guards posted round the camp at intervals.

Kaleden Comments

Mr. James Ritchie's new Hotel here, for which we have been expectantly looking is now materializing, and foundations have been dug out, and cement work commenced. Two barge loads of material, one of cement and one of lumber have been brought down the lake by the Southern Okanagan Transportation Co.

Mr. and Mrs. McDormer recently from England, arrived with the intention of locating a home in Canada. During the week they motored over from Summerland and inspected property in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Tomlin are spending this week-end at Naramata where their eldest son is in camp with the Boy Scouts. Miss Dora McAlister, heroine in the recently reported snake episode, is keeping house for Mrs. Tomlin in her absence.

Mrs. Pitman, wife of our much respected head chef, after a prolonged period of illhealth and medical treatment at Seattle, has at last come among us again, looking healthy and strong. Mr. Pitman met her at Kelowna, and brought her down in his motor canoe "La Belle."

Mr. R. L. McAlister, of Greenwood, B.C., engaged at an electrical power plant in that town, is on a visit to his parents here. He is no stranger in Kaleden, having been here two years ago, when he assisted in the construction of Mr. A. S. Hatfield's handsome residence.

The fortnightly gathering of the Ladies' Mission Circle was held this week at the home of Mrs. W. P. Simpson.

Mrs. N. K. Simpson, Messrs W. P. Simpson and W. Grieve, returned from their short visit to the coast this week.

Mrs. Meurden of Peachland has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Ritchie, of Summerland, who are residing here this summer.

Mrs. Dr. Angwin and daughter, Gertrude, motored over from Summerland last week, Gertie remaining for two or three days, staying with her friend, Marie Lapaley.

On Monday morning, directly after breakfast, camp was struck. Tents were taken down, bundles were packed, and the boys arrived in town about the middle of the morning, feeling sorry that the week had gone so quickly.

Once again the officers of the Summerland Troop, Boy Scouts, desire to thank all those who in any way contributed to the upkeep of the camp. The gifts of provisions, etc., were so numerous, that to acknowledge each individually would be a big task. Had the donors seen the enjoyment of the boys they would have felt amply repaid. Especial thanks are due to the Summerland Supply Co. who so kindly loaned the tents the boys slept in; also to Mr. Stark, who so frequently placed his launch at the disposal of the officers; and to Mr. O. Smith, upon whose land the camp was pitched.

The Scouts will meet as usual on Monday evening next in the College Gymnasium. All should be in attendance promptly at 7.30. The Scout suits are expected any day now, and if they arrive any time before Monday, they will be available for distribution at this meeting.

J. L. Logie Resigns Collectorship.

Councillor Doubts if Money Appropriated for Garnet Valley Road was Expended Thereon.

Auditor's Report Adopted. Electric Light Plant Loaded to Full Capacity. Coun. Dunsdon Insists That Saw-dust in Eneas Creek Must be Stopped.

The Council met in regular session Monday morning last, with a full board present. After the reading and passing of the minutes of the meeting of the previous month a number of communications were read and acted upon. The Board of Works was appointed a committee to adjust all applications for rebates, and report to the Council, there being several such applications presented at this meeting.

The same committee was also instructed to enquire into the conditions relating to the purchase of land for cemetery purposes. An offer had been received from the Summerland Development Company to sell land adjoining the present cemetery in Peach Orchard, and in addition to this the committee will endeavour to arrange for another adjoining piece.

A letter was read from Dr. Smith objecting to the sanitary arrangements which the C. P. R. were making at their terminal docks. In this letter he stated that he had refused them permission to erect a building which they had sent here until certain conditions were complied with.

Enquiries were made of the Council of their plans for the destroying of weeds in different sections of the Municipality.

T. P. Thornber was present to enquire of a proposed increased water service for the power house. He stated that a good many citizens were desirous of installing electric light if the power could be obtained. The Reeve thought that with the present system, no more water could be furnished the power house, at least till the end of the irrigation season. His suggestion was that data should be obtained and plans prepared for a general extension of the electric light service, and that these plans should be submitted to the new Council to be acted upon. It was impossible to further extend the electric light service without funds being raised for that purpose.

J. L. LOGIE RESIGNS COLLECTORSHIP.

The Reeve then read a formal notice of the resignation of J. L. Logie as Collector. This resignation was accepted. Thereupon a motion was passed "that Fred J. Nixon be and is hereby appointed Collector and Accountant for the Municipality in place of Mr. Logie, resigned."

The report of the Audit by Messrs. Crehan, Mout & Co., of the Municipality's accounts was read. This report was received and adopted. The financial statement had been presented to the Council on Friday evening previous, and had been thoroughly discussed at that meeting.

A letter from W. J. Robinson was then read. In this letter Mr. Robinson stated that he had acquired the Hotel and that it was his intention to make it a paying institution, if possible, and he asked the Council to grant him permission to use the waste water from the spring which now supplies the town with domestic water. Mr. Robinson proposes building a dam some short distance above the laundry, with the idea of developing sufficient water power to generate power for lighting the hotel. This, he pointed out, would greatly relieve the Municipality's power plant. The proposition was very favorably received by the Council, and the Board of Works was appointed to arrange details with Mr. Robinson. Mr. Thornber, who was still present, thought that this change would make available sufficient power to satisfy the private citizens who were asking for connection with the electric light system.

GARNET VALLEY ROAD.

Councillor Dunsdon complained of the condition of the Garnet Valley road. He stated that the Council had promised to spend some $700.00 on the road, and he was sure that $700.00 worth of labor and material had not been put on it. The road had been built originally for $900.00, and if $700.00 had now been expended he was sure that value had not been received. This matter was allowed to stand over until the next meeting, when details of the expenses would be furnished.

SAW-DUST IN ENEAS CREEK.

Councillor Dunsdon also strenuously objected to the continued prevalence of saw-dust in Eneas Creek. He could see no reason why saw-dust should be permitted there any more than in Trout Creek. A number of families had to depend on Eneas Creek for their domestic water supply, and all the summer the water had not been fit for such use. Mr. Dunsdon complained strongly of the continuance of the practice of the mill owners, and declared that something must be done immediately. At the request of a member of the Council, he made the following motion: "That the Council instruct the constable to take such action as is necessary for the prevention of saw-dust being permitted to wash into Eneas Creek from the saw-mill. This motion was adopted unanimously."

The Clerk was authorized to approve of sub-division of Lot 3, Block 20, Lot 455, and also of sub-division Block 28, Lot 478, provided the same complies with the Registry Act and the regulations required by the Council.

The Council then adjourned to meet again on Monday August 14th.

Local News Items.

Dr. Andrew and Mr. Stark are building summer houses side by side off Beach Avenue. These buildings are being erected on piles, and are some distance from the lake shore.

Miss Evelyn Brown who recently wrote on the examinations for second class teaching certificate, has now secured her license in this class. Miss Brown has already been engaged to teach a school at Lower Nicola.

W. C. Kelly is erecting a warehouse on his lot opposite the new Presbyterian Church. This warehouse will be leased to Thos. B. Young, and will be used by him in his flour and feed business.

J. J. Mitchell is now the possessor of a new auto a Brockville "30" touring car. We recently reported Mr. Mitchell's meeting with a misfortune of breaking the driving shaft in the car purchased some weeks ago. This was returned to the agent and a new car shipped direct from the factory furnished him instead.

Landscape Architect Randolph has been busy this week making plans for improvements along the lake shore and for the park. In the plans for the park he has made provision for baseball grounds, etc. Plans for the shore are in some instances quite extensive, but are such as can be worked out gradually, and with a definite plan in view, much more intelligent work can be done. Mr. Randolph's plans and reports have been handed in to the Reeve and will no doubt be discussed by the Council. Mr. Randolph is delighted with the location of our town and with our climate. Conditions here have awakened within him, a New Yorker, a strong desire for Reciprocity.

BORN.—To Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Theed, on Tuesday, August 8th, a son.

Mrs. Percy Thornber is visiting friends at Revelstoke. She left home on the 5th, and will probably be absent for about two weeks.

A LESSON FROM THE TOMB.

They say the world is round, and yet I sometimes think it's square; So many little hurts we get From corners here and there. But one sad truth in life I've found While journeying to the West: The only folks who really wound Are those we love the best.

The man you thoroughly despise Can rouse your wrath, 'tis true; Annoyance in your heart will rise At things mere strangers do. But those are only passing ills; This fact all lives will prove The smarting wound, which aches and thrills, Is dealt by hands we love.

The choicest garb and sweetest grace, Are oft to strangers shown; The careless mein, the frowning face, Are given to our own. We flatter those we scarcely know; We please the fleeting guest, And deal many a thoughtless blow To those we love the best.

Love does not grow on every tree, Nor true hearts yearly bloom; Alas, for those who only see This truth across the tomb; But soon or late the fact grows plain, To all through sorrow's pain, The only ones who give us pain Are those we love the best.

THE FIGHT OF HIS LIFE.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will in the next six weeks put up the fight of his life, or he will sit back and rest his case with the people.

It is difficult to see where he is going to get his support to carry through the reciprocity pact. The manufacturers of Canada are opposed to it; the railroads of Canada are opposed to it; the fruit growers of Canada are opposed to it; the stockmen of Canada are opposed to it; the commercial interests of Canada are opposed to it; and the grain growers of Canada do not seem to think enough of it to get out and make a fight for it.

Where is Laurier's support to come from? It is said that the fisheries of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia are for the agreement, though it is hardly probable that the Liberals will carry enough of the constituencies in these provinces to make up for their losses in Quebec. The Northwest grain provinces are also claimed for Laurier, and it is probable that the government will go out of the Northwest with a majority, though not a solid majority.

There is a nice play of politics now going on. It is apparent that Sir Wilfrid desires to make Ontario the fighting ground of the campaign; while Mr. Borden and his followers have set their hearts upon opening wide the breach in Quebec.

It has been observed that the date selected for the general elections, September 21, is within four days of being the anniversary of the great Conservative victory of 1878. That election took place on September 17, so that a few days before the coming election will occur the thirty-third anniversary of the triumph of the national policy. The coincidences are striking throughout. It was then a battle of protection, of the building up of the home market against a policy which decried it and looked to closer relations with the United States. It was held just prior to the advent of a member of the royal family to Rideau Hall.

AWAKENING OF THE EAST.

"For four thousand years China has been the same unchanging empire, entirely self-centred and self-satisfied, with a profound contempt for anything foreign. Yet to-day she, too, has turned her face from the past and begun to learn from other nations. The changeless has given way to the changing, and the changes are bewildering in their number and variety. She has made a more radical adjustment to modern conditions within the last five years than has any other nation. Those who have studied the great changes that came over Japan will remember that she made no such advance in the first ten years after she began to adopt Western civilization as China has made during the last five years. * * * President Lowry, of the Pekin University, regards the change as 'one of the most sweeping and radical revolutions ever effected in any great nation in the history of the world.'"

A book has just come from the press of the Student Volunteer Movement for Foreign Missions, under the title "The Decisive Hour of Christian Missions." It was written by John R. Mott, of Edinburgh, Scotland, and was compiled from statistics and correspondence received and investigations made in connection with the Commission appointed at the World Missionary Conference held in Edinburgh in June 1910, of which Mr. Mott was chairman. The lines quoted above are from this book. Mr. Mott tells of this marvellous awakening of China only in connection with his account of the awakening of Japan, Korea and the other countries and peoples of the Far East. To-day a network of telegraph and railway lines covers the countries that five or ten years ago were asleep in the arms of the Chinese dragon. In 1895 there were but 200 miles of railway in all of China; to-day there are 4,170 miles in operation and 9,000 miles projected. In thirty-six hours one can go from Peking to Hankow, in the heart of China, whereas the same journey only a few years ago used to require forty days by Chinese carts.

What the awakening has been in a commercial sense is indicative of the character of the educational and religious awakening, and this feature is looked upon as the most satisfactory. Without it, the commercial awakening of the East would be a menace to the rest of Europe if not the world.

But with this great awakening, in China and elsewhere, there is carried into these countries the worst of the Western vices, and the natives seem prepared to adopt the vicious practices of the West more quickly than they do the elevating influences. This, of course, is not new, nor are these countries showing a different tendency in this regard than has characterized the advance of civilization in our own country.

It is a stage in the process of evolution that all nations and peoples must pass through, and out of which comes the broader and fuller civilization.

NARAMATA'S REGATA.

It is regrettable that there should have been the misunderstanding in the matter of rates to Naramata's regatta, two weeks ago. The public spirited citizens of our sister town across the lake are the most hospitable people, and the larger the crowd to enjoy their hospitality the better they like it. They have made a reputation in the past for doing big things and doing them right, and it must have been a great disappointment to them to have to submit to the discourtesy shown them by the C. P. R. in the matter of rates. Commenting on this phase of the celebration the Vernon News strongly says: "The one thing only tending to throw somewhat of a damp on the celebration was the action of the C. P. R. in refusing to sell tickets at the excursion rates announced on the posters. At the various lake points from which came visitors to Naramata, the greatest indignation was expressed at the high-handed proceeding on the part of the company, and a great many people, who had expected to take part in the regatta, refused, on principle, to pay the price. It is indeed difficult for the mere outsider, uninitiated into the intricacies of monopolist management, to understand what a great corporation can possibly expect to gain, in the long run, by pursuing a policy by which it systematically antagonizes the public and renders itself liable to the severest popular criticism. No one in the Okanagan any longer cherishes the foolish delusion that the C. P. R. is the servant of the people, — there have been too many unmistakable evidences to the contrary — and it is becoming very clear that we must no longer expect from it even the common courtesy of living up to definite arrangements. Antagonism and not conciliation is to be its attitude towards the public."

APPEALING TO PASSION.

It was more the politician than the statesman speaking when Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in his public statement regarding his decision to submit the matter of reciprocity to the people on September 21, criticized the Opposition and endeavored to throw the blame upon Mr. Borden. Nobody knows better than Sir Wilfrid that Mr. Borden was but carrying out the purpose of the Opposition. Had Mr. Borden failed to compel an appeal to the country on the issue which means so much to Canada, he would not have been doing his duty to his party nor to the nation. It showed a weakness in the Premier. He did not have to offer an excuse for his action. It was the only thing left open for him to do.

The Premier's talk about preventing the majority from ruling is hardly what might be expected from him. The Conservative minority in the House was not called upon to "let the majority rule" especially on a question so important as this. If Sir Wilfrid is returned to power on the reciprocity issue it will then be time enough for the minority to subside.

"RUN ONLY FAIRLY WELL."

The Commission of Conservation, reporting the agricultural survey of 1910 says that of the area visited 38 per cent. was under field crops in British Columbia; 29 per cent. was in unbroken pasture and 33 per cent. in woods. Speaking generally of conditions found in British Columbia the report says: "Very little grain, with the exception of oats, is grown. Dairying is carried on to a large extent, and soiling crops are grown largely. Many grow mixed peas and oats for hay. Every year corn is coming more and more to the front. Clover is one of the great crops here. Fruit growing is increasing. The poultry industry is carried on here on a very large scale. This is a very profitable business and one which is increasing in popularity each year. In the Okanagan district the farms on the whole are run only fairly well, and the farmers could obtain more from their land by scientific rotation of crop. Farmers do not know enough about artificial fertilizers to use them to the best advantage. Weeds were allowed to grow unchecked on public roads, railways, and vacant lands."

In this report two points are mentioned which apply more or less unfortunately to conditions in our district, though hardly with greater emphasis here than elsewhere in the Okanagan. One point is that "the farms on the whole are run only fairly well," and the other that "weeds are allowed to grow unchecked."

These conditions are noticed by comparison. We fail to recognize them when we become familiar with them. But when one visits other districts where the ground is more thoroughly worked and the orchards better taken care of, and the roads and vacant lands are kept clean of weeds, the fact of our own neglect is flashed upon us and we see our selves as others see us.

THE GREAT PEACE MOVEMENT.

The London Nation gives a sidelight on arbitration that is deserving of close consideration. It is written by Mr. L. T. Hobhouse, probably one of the household of Baron Broughton.

"If the bulk of the British press is for ever advertising German efficiency, it is conceivable that the advertisement, all unsolicited and unpaid for, may be worth something tangible to Germany. It is not outside the bounds of possibility even that some of our customers impressed by our emphatic self-depreciation, may think of giving the Germans, whom we acknowledge to be our superiors, a chance. * * *

* It is difficult to resist the suspicion that the underlying conception of this country as a power no longer confident in its own strength, is an element to be reckoned with in casting the horoscope of the Arbitration Treaty. I am afraid that Americans, though the proposal emanated from them, are not so much interested in this treaty as we are. I am afraid that, though they would not say it outright to an Englishman, they are a little inclined to see in the enthusiasm which has been manifested in this country something more than the pure and unadulterated desire to advance the cause of the world's peace."

"And he gave it as his opinion, that whoever could make two ears of corn, or two blades of grass to grow where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind, and do more essential service to his country than the whole race of politicians put together."—Swift, Gulliver's Travels.

It is to be hoped that the steps taken by the Reeve and municipal council to check the determination of the promoters of the K. R. V. railway to give Summerland the go-by and the construction of that line from the lake out through Garnet Valley and westward through Meadow Valley, will be effective. It is, nevertheless, a hopeless task unless Summerland and the property interests to be benefitted by the road have something tangible to offer the company as an inducement to come. This is one of the tantalizing things about the construction of a railroad—it is built where the men who spend the money on it want it; and another tantalizing thing about it is that the men who spend the money on it demand the best they can get out of it, in the way of bonus, yard room, etc.

The Municipality of Summerland could not spend a few hundred dollars to better advantage than to get from Mr. Raudolph, the landscape architect, plans for the permanent beautifying of the Summerland lake shore and park. We have here a spot that by Nature could not be more grandly situated; and the planning and working out of properties, on the plateau of the Summerland cliffs could not be more charming, whether viewed from the lake or from the hills above the plateau. But Summerland's lake shore and the general "first impression" surroundings are not such as would inspire enthusiasm, and are distinctly out of harmony with the splendid development of the properties on the hill. There is scope here for grand development, and the longer it is delayed the deeper will become the bad impression created, and the more difficult it will be to "rub out" the impression which travellers get who know Summerland only from what they see on the lake shore.

Stomach Agony

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion will Vanish

Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas, biliousness; sour stomach, fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, bad taste in mouth, foul breath, nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves that question daily.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of Mi-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to the Summerland Drug Company this very day and get a large box of Mi-o-na tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of Mi-o-na tablets is only fifty cents, and the Summerland Drug Company guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back. Thin or lean or scrawny people will find in Mi-o-na a maker of flesh and blood, because it causes the stomach to extract more nutritious matter from the food, which quickly enriches the blood.

Or better yet, call and see us.

:Naramata Notes:

Mr. J. M. Robinson returned this week from the coast cities.

Miss Brunton, of Vancouver, has recently accepted a position as housekeeper for Hotel Naramata, entering upon her duties last week. Miss Brunton comes to Naramata very highly recommended, and it is hoped that the expectations of the management may be fulfilled.

The plot of ground immediately north of the Naramata Supply Company's store has been broken up and fenced preparatory to being levelled off and beautified with grass and flowers.

J. S. Gillespie accompanied by Mr. D. Manchester visited the upper lakes last Saturday where a force of Japs are busy building a cement sluiceway to control the outlet of the dam. The work is well under way and will be completed inside of a month.

The new cement walk from the wharf up past Hotel Naramata on First St. adds very much to the smart appearance of the street. It is probable that another year may witness the extension of this walk up along the lake beach. The whole work is most creditable indeed and Naramata is fortunate in having men on the ground capable of showing such skilled workmanship.

From the reports coming in from time to time of the numerous herds of deer frequenting the vicinity one might safely predict a good season for hunting this fall.

It is probable that a gent's furnishing store may be opened up shortly in building now in course of erection by D. McKay on the Avenue.

Miss Gladys Robinson entertained the Girls' Club on Monday evening in a charming way. After a delightful trip in the "Naramata" as far north as Chute Creek, the girls were treated to luncheon on the verandah of Hotel Naramata, where the regular session of the club took place. Miss Evelyn Brown of Summerland and Miss Neta Short of Ottawa, who is spending a vacation with her father, Mr. Thos. Short, at "Rakadome" were among the special guests of the occasion.

The Kolowna regatta attracted a goodly number of visitors this week. On Tuesday Mr. Robinson's houseboat, towed by the "Naramata" started on the pleasure trip to the northern town, bearing a number of guests of the occasion, among whom were Mr. Crowe and Miss Crowe, of Toronto. In the forenoon of the same day a small party journeying from Penticton, splendidly mounted, stopped for breakfast at Hotel Naramata. These were, Miss Gladys Eyre, Miss Keddell, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Do Beck, Mrs. Tollman.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. Miller wishes to express to the Naramata friends on behalf of himself and the boys their thanks for the many little acts of kindness and words of appreciation accorded them during their stay near town.

Mrs. A. H. Steven, Mrs. Steven and Miss Steven were guests on Tuesday of Mrs. G. W. Wolstoncroft. They were accompanied by Mr. Craig who was over inspecting Mr. Stevoh's valuable lot south of town. The whole party expressed delight with the appearance of our town especially with the hotel and grounds.

BORN.—To Mr. and Mrs. H. Mulford, on Friday August 4th, a daughter, still born.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Tomlin, of Kaledon, spent the week-end at Naramata the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lyons.

Is there a crutch hoodoo in town? Looks like it, doesn't it? First it was Mr. Gillespie on a crutch suffering from the shaking up occasioned by a mix-up with a fractious broncho; next Mr. Jack Robinson assumed control of a pair of crutches after an unfortunate football scrimmage, and now it is Mr. Dean who moves about with labored effort, as a result of a sprained ankle. "Jimmie" must cultivate the grace of patience for a few days.

NORTH NARAMATA BEING SURVEYED.

Naramata, Aug. 10.—North Naramata, the new sub-division situated about four miles farther up the lake is now being surveyed by men working under Mr. F. H. Latimer, of Penticton. This will be welcome news to all parties immediately concerned but more especially to those who already have their trees ordered for this fall or for next year's planting. Regarding the putting of water on the sub-division it is probable that some of the longer stretches of ditch work may be undertaken this season.

CLUB HOUSE FOR NARAMATA.

At a special meeting last Friday evening of the Unity Club, held on the spacious verandah of Mrs. Robinson's apartments at Hotel Naramata some very important business was transacted. The chief item was a decision to accept a very generous offer of Mr. Robinson to build a club house for the ladies costing in the neighbourhood of $1,000 on a lot facing on the beach valued at $500, which he donates to the ladies provided they will agree to take the building off his hands when completed and pay him the bare cost of construction. The ladies have their finances in excellent

PENTICTON BOY SCOUTS BREAK CAMP.

Naramata, Aug. 9.—After ten or eleven pleasant days of life on the lakeshore, the Boy Scouts from Pentleton have broken camp and dispersed to their homes. Throughout this period the boys have conducted themselves in a manner highly creditable to themselves and their leaders and to the organization of which they are a part.

The time was spent in boating, bathing, scouting and in playing baseball, to say nothing of the military drill from day to day and the rather strenuous physical drills. The lads attended to their own cooking and dish-washing taking turns in squads at this routine work.

Mr. Miller who has been in charge of the camp has been ably assisted by Messrs. Pittman and Edwards, the latter a Scoutmaster of considerable experience obtained in England. Mr. Edwards came up on Sunday and conducted the boys to and from the eleven o'clock service. There were many visitors from Pentleton this week to see the boys in camp.

It is announced that Mr. Morgan the master plumber from Toronto, who is credited with the installation of a highly successful heating system in Hotel Naramata, has decided to remove in the near future to Kamloops, having bought out a business in that town. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan will hear with regret of their removal from our midst, but wish them every success in their new venture.

To his Worship The Reeve, and Councillors of the Corporation of the District Municipality of Summerland, B.C.

Gentlemen:

This is to certify that we have examined and checked the books, vouchers and records of the Municipality, for the twelve months ending December 31st, 1910.

Attached hereto, and forming part of this report, find:

- (a) Statement of Receipts and Disbursements.
- (b) Statement of Assets and Liabilities.
- (c) Profit and Loss Accounts of Municipal Owned Public Utilities.
- (d) Schedule of Sinking Funds, disclosing amount that should be at the credit of said funds, as at 31st December, 1910.

We have compiled statements "a", "c", "d" from the books, vouchers and records of the Municipality for the period under review.

We have compiled statement "b" from the books, vouchers and records, as well as using information given us by the Municipal Officials.

With further reference to statement "b" of our report, we find that the cost of the assets were not recorded in a ledger, year by year, hence we were compelled to accept estimated values, but after careful investigation, we are of the opinion that said values are fair and equitable. Subject to the foregoing remarks, it is our opinion that the statements herein referred to, are true statements and correctly represent the financial standing of the Municipality as disclosed by the books, vouchers and records as at December 31st, 1910, as well as from information given by the Municipal Officials.

We beg to call your attention to the following matters:

- (1) A rebate has been allowed on all school taxes collected during the year 1910. This being contrary to Section 151 of the Municipal Clauses Act, we have carried forward the amount, thus rebated, as arrears of taxes, and have requested the Collector to collect the amount from the taxpayers who received the rebate.
On checking the Collector's Roll, we find that less than $1.00 has been charged to certain taxpayers, the assessed value of whose land was less than $100.00, whereas Section 114 of the Act provides that the minimum taxation in respect of real property within a Municipality, shall be $1.00 per annum.
Kindly have this corrected in 1911 collections.
- (2) The Assessment Roll for the year 1910 does not disclose the fact that it was either revised or confirmed by the Court of Revision.
- (3) The Collector's Roll does not disclose that any list of arrears, certified under oath, has been made out—see Sections 146 and 147 Municipal Clauses Act.
- (4) Some real estate was purchased from one of the Councillors during 1910.
- (5) The Assessor deserves credit for the efficient manner in which the assessment is made and the various parcels of land brought into their proper places on the roll, thus preventing the omission of the assessment of any parcel of land in the Municipality.

We recommend:

- (a) That strict precaution be used in the granting of rebates, after the date fixed for the granting of such rebates.
If any case arise, otherwise than is provided for in the Act, such case can be brought to the attention of the Council to be dealt with at their discretion.
- (b) That the Accounting Department of the Municipality be placed under one head.
- (c) That proper attention be given to the distribution of accounts, having due regard for Capital and Revenue expenditure.
- (d) That all monies be placed in the Bank as received, so that the Bank lodgements and the cash received be always in agreement.
- (e) That the School Board expenditure be handled in the same manner as any other disbursement.

Concluding, we wish to state that we have opened a ledger for the Municipal Accounts, as set forth in statement "b" of our report.

(Signed) Crehan, Mouat & Co., Chartered Accountants, Municipal Auditors.

Council Hold Extra Session.

Big Sheaf of Accounts Passed

An adjourned meeting of the Council was held on Monday morning. Councillors Lewes, Dunsdon and Thompson were present, with the last named in the chair.

A letter from Mayor Husband, of Vernon, was read, relating to the development of electric current for the different Okanagan towns, and asking that a meeting of representatives of the various communities be arranged to discuss plans for same. The Reeve was authorized to arrange with Mayor Husband for a meeting to discuss the question of electric power.

A communication was received from Mrs. David Bentley asking the Municipality to furnish water for her property. As the law will not permit the Municipality to put water on lands outside of the municipal limits, the Clerk was instructed to notify Mrs. Bentley of the Council's inability to comply with her request.

R. W. Deans wrote asking the Council to sell the old Pelton water wheel and dynamo now in the Power House, and if willing to sell, to put a price on same. While a price was not fixed at the meeting, the Clerk was instructed to inform Mr. Deans that they were willing to sell.

A committee appointed to report on W. J. Robinson's request for permission to erect a dam near the hotel reported favorably.

Mr. J. D. Kennedy, of the Portage La Prairie Lumber Company, came before the Council, complaining of a charge made in 1909 for ploughing under weeds on his properties. He not only objected to the charges made but also to the method of destroying the weeds. His contention was that the weeds should have been cut down and not ploughed under, and he refused to pay the bill. And further, he intimated that he had a case for damages against the Municipality for ploughing his land without his permission.

TWO SUMMERLAND DELEGATES FOR CHICAGO CONVENTION.

Western Canada Irrigation Convention Asks For Government Conservation of Water.

The Fifth Convention of the Western Canada Irrigation Association was held at Calgary on the 8th, 9th, and 10th of this month. There were present some seventy or eighty delegates from British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan. Summerland was represented by Messrs. R. H. Agur and C. H. Cordy.

Some good organization work was done and the Convention was in all a highly successful one. Mr. C. W. Peterson, of Calgary, is President of the Association. His Hon. Lieutenant-Governor Bulyen, Honorary President, was also in attendance, as was also Martin Burrell, M.P., and a number of other public men. The mayor of Calgary gave the Convention an address of welcome. This was replied to by Mr. C. H. Cordy.

The delegates were well entertained by Boards of Trade, etc., and were also taken by special train to the large irrigation dam which the C. P. R. have built at Basano, some ninety miles east of Calgary. The dam alone cost three-quarters of a million dollars.

During the three days of the Convention, a number of resolutions were presented, and general discussion followed.

One resolution pointing out the fact that the problems and questions in connection with irrigation in British Columbia, are widely different from those of the prairie provinces and vice-versa. It was resolved to form separate associations for this province and for the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, which will remain affiliated with each other. Separate conventions will be held in the different provinces.

Another resolution criticized the recent Order-in-Council greatly restricting the area of the Rocky Mountain Park, and thus reducing the natural means for conserving water needed on the prairie watershed, and it was resolved to ask that the boundaries be extended to cover the original area or to greatly augment the fire guardian service.

Another resolution was to call the attention of the provincial Governments to the important matter of the practical duty of water for various crops, and urging them to carry out "a thorough system of investigation to determine the duty of water in the different provinces for the different crops, so that such duty may be determined by appropriate exactness." The Convention also urges upon the Dominion Government the importance of making the necessary appropriations and providing the necessary staff to continue in an intelligent and systematic manner the work of gauging all streams of water supply, and the location of all sites suitable for reservoirs for the storage of water, initiated a number of years ago.

It was the opinion of the Convention that the Agricultural College and College Farm to be established by the Province of Alberta, should be situated in a district where irrigation by gravity may be practised.

One of the most important resolutions was moved by C. H. Cordy, and was very favorably accepted by the Convention. It was as follows: "WHEREAS, the conservation of water for irrigation purposes by companies and individuals as at present carried out does not admit of the whole available area in each district being brought under cultivation;

AND WHEREAS the conservation of water by the Government would be the means of developing such areas to the fullest extent, assure absolute permanency of supply and materially increase the security to bond holders;

BE IT RESOLVED that the governments in which such districts exist be urgently requested to give the matter their serious consideration and to put such system into operation at the earliest possible date.

A general convention of the Irrigation Associations of the continent is to be held at Chicago next summer. Messrs. R. H. Agur and C. H. Cordy were appointed representatives for British Columbia at that Convention.

VALUABLE PRIZES FOR FALL SHOW.

Additional Presentations to Agricultural Association.

Since the Agricultural Association published their prize list, they have been presented with several valuable prizes to be competed for at the coming exhibition.

The best of these no doubt is a handsome Gurney-Oxford Chancellor range. This has been presented by the Gurney Foundry Co.,

Municipal Accounts Revised.

Auditor Grehan Lectures Council on Municipal Government.

Praises the Work of Assessor Logie. A Quarterly Audit to be Made. F. J. Nixon is Now Accountant.

The auditor has come and gone, the audit has been made, and everybody interested feels easier. The Councillors express themselves as delighted with the audit, and the standing of the Municipality as shown. The auditor's report was accepted almost without comment and his recommendations complied with. We published last week the report in full.

The Council, upon receipt of the communication from the Ratepayers' Association asking for a full statement for 1910, and an audit of the books for that year, immediately authorized the Reeve to engage a Municipal Auditor. The firm of Crehan, Mouatt & Co., Chartered Accountants, who audit the books of many of the municipalities of the province, was engaged by the Reeve.

Mr. Crehan, head of the firm, and an expert in this line of work, arrived in Summerland on the 1st, accompanied by two or three others of his staff. A week was spent at the municipal offices, and a thorough audit made. A detailed statement of receipts and disbursements, assets and liabilities, and also a statement of the various public utilities was drawn up.

A meeting of the Council was called for Friday the 4th, and there Mr. Crehan gave what amounted to a lecture on Municipal Government. This lecture was a very valuable one and will be of material help in the work of the Council and its officials. A few irregularities, omissions and mistakes were found, but these, he felt sure, were all due to lack of experience.

In issuing the tax notices for 1910, the Collector had offered a rebate for prompt payment on the School taxes. This, it was pointed out, was illegal. The Municipality could only levy an amount sufficient for School taxes and this amount must be collected in full. Mr. Crehan has instructed the Collector to issue new tax bills which will not only withdraw the rebate for this year, but must include the arrears of 1910. This rebate will be treated this year as arrears of taxes.

Another matter which the auditor claims is not in order, is the fact that the Collector's Roll does not disclose that any list of arrears has been made out.

Mr. Crehan congratulated the Council on the Assessor we have here in the person of Mr. J. L. Logie. He stated without hesitation that he is the best Assessor he had come across in all B. C.

Some real estate was purchased from one of the Councillors during 1910, but as no objection had been made, this was now quite in order.

Mr. Crehan strongly objected to the system, or lack of system, of book-keeping which he found, and asked that the accounting department of the Municipality be placed under one head, and he recommended that Mr. Nixon be appointed to this position. Upon receiving assurance that his recommendation would be acted upon, he stated that he would open a new set of books, and give Mr. Nixon instructions how to keep them. This recommendation has already been acted upon, and Mr. Nixon is now in charge of a complete new set of books.

Messrs. Crehan, Mouatt & Co. have been engaged to audit the books for 1911 as well, and have already done some of the work while arranging the new system. It is their purpose to return again in October, and make a quarterly audit, which will be followed by another quarterly audit three months later. This is received as welcome news by many of the ratepayers who have realized the necessity of making a good start in municipal accounting. The Municipality of Summerland not only has the usual municipal accounts of taxes, etc., but owns public utilities of considerable value and earning capacity, making it very essential that an up-to-date accounting system be used. Expressions of satisfaction with the action of the Council are general.

CONSERVATIVE DELEGATES TO KAMLOOPS.

A meeting of the Summerland Conservative Association was held Monday evening in the rooms over Borton's Plumbing Shop, with Mr. Hector Sutherland in the chair. Mr. Sutherland gave a short review of the political situation to date. He was followed by Mr. J. L. Logie, who gave a pointed address against reciprocity.

It was at first thought unnecessary to send delegates to the Kamloops Convention as Representative Burrell would not wish the local associations to be put to that expense, and the political situation, in his writing, seems such as not to require any great organized effort to return Mr. Burrell. However, the Association showed a great deal of fighting spirit and felt that these conditions were good reasons why a strong representation should go from here, as well as from other points. Accordingly, eleven delegates were appointed to attend the Convention meeting at Kamloops on the 17th inst. The following were appointed: Messrs. D. H. Watson, H. Sutherland, R. C. Lipssett, J. L. Logie,

H. C. Mellor, S. M. Young, R. H. English, C. J. Thomson, W. J. Robinson, A. Richardson, C. N. Borton.

COMPLETING THE CENSUS.

Ever since the Review learned that a complete census of Summerland had not been obtained, we have kept the matter agitated, and were successful in having the census enumerator return to go over the ground again. He spent two or three days at Summerland last week and it is hoped now has a complete list of Summerland's residents. The district has been found unusually hard to cover.

TOBACCO FIELD DOING WELL.

There are some two hundred tobacco plants growing on John Tait's property at Trout Creek, and they are doing remarkably well. Mr. Tait has carried out instructions in reference to irrigating. The ground has only been irrigated once and that immediately before setting out the plants. Mr. Tait invites all who are interested to inspect the plot.

Generous Offer For Hospital.

Mr. C. N. Higgin Offers to Become One of Ten to Donate $50 Each.

Following is a letter recently received by the Treasurer of the Hospital Board, which letter was accompanied by a cheque and contains an offer to find a further amount of $50.00 provided that ten others will do the same.

Balcom, B. C.

August 1, 1911.
Hon. Treasurer of the Summerland Hospital.

Please enter Mrs. Higgin and myself as annual subscribers of $5.00 each to the Hospital Funds, and find herewith my cheque for $20.00 for 1910 and the current year.

I quite sympathise with the dis-appointment of the Board at the recent vote, and should have myself been glad to see the more adequate provision which was contemplated. The timidity of our fellow townsmen at the increase in the Municipal interest bill which would have resulted from the erection of the new buildings, even though such interest would only have been slight, is, however, easily understood, in view of the great difficulty many households will have during the next twelve months in meeting their present rates. Their position in the matter, therefore, is also one that calls for our sympathy—especially when one bears in mind that it is the less wealthy members of the community on whom the benefit of the proposed Hospital Extension would chiefly fall.

I am very glad to learn that the Board agreed to continue in office. It was made abundantly clear that the vote given was in no sense whatever intended as one of want of confidence.

As it is incumbent on us all to make a special effort at the present juncture to ease the financial position of this most necessary institution, I shall be prepared to find fifty dollars towards the deficit, provided that ten others will do the same.

Yours faithfully,
C. NAPIER HIGGIN.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES' MEETING.

New Central School Building Completed.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of School Trustees held recently business in connection with the new Central School building occupied much of the time. The building was inspected and Contractor Harvey's account was ordered to be paid. A committee was appointed to arrange for oiling the floors, placing the furniture, securing blinds, etc.

The application made by Mr. Douglas Brown for the Principalship of the Central School had been accepted at a previous meeting, and

Mr. Brown notified. Prior to receiving the notice, however, he had accepted a position elsewhere. Mr. Hugh McDonald, who taught for three years at Enderby, and more recently at Revelstoke, has been appointed to the position.

It is the purpose of the board to improve and beautify the grounds of the new building. The secretary was ordered to advertise for tenders for caring for the school buildings.

FRUIT AT VANCOUVER EXHIBITION

No doubt a number of the fruit growers of the Southern Okanagan contemplate sending apples, etc., to the exhibition to be held in Vancouver, August 28th to September 4th. To those who purpose exhibiting, the following letter may be of interest, and it may also serve as an inducement to others to send exhibits.

Vancouver, B.C., August 3, 1911.
Summerland Review,
Summerland, B.C.

Gentlemen:
In order to secure a few representative exhibits from your district in commercial packages of Fruit. The Vancouver Exhibition Association have decided to act as selling agents for any fruit sent to our exhibition, and any fruit entered in the ordinary way, and shipped prepaid to the Vancouver Exhibition Association, will be placed on competition and at the close of the Exhibition we will sell it to the very best possible advantage and will guarantee the best market price for same, remitting promptly to the shipper the proceeds of the sales and any prizes won. In doing this the exhibitor will have no further trouble with his fruit and will get all the advantage of the Exhibition besides probably opening up connections for the disposal of the balance of his crop.

Trusting you will give this matter such publicity as you possibly can, I am

Yours respectfully,
H. S. ROLSTON,
Manager and Secretary.

Mysterious Willard Coming.

Willard, known from coast to coast as "The Man of Mystery" and his splendid Company come to the Opera House, here on August 22 and 23. In speaking of this attraction the Calgary News Telegram says "Never in the theatrical history of Calgary has a better attraction appeared at the Lyric than Willard and his all star company. Playing as it does at such cheap prices it is no wonder that standing room is at a premium each evening. If you go to-night and don't think you get your money's worth come around and lick the aforesaid critic."

Willard played for nine nights at the Lyric in Calgary and broke all records for attendance at the prices. This company will appear here in Summerland for two nights, next Tuesday and Wednesday, August 22 and 23; prices 25 cents, 50 cents and 75 cents.

KEEPING UP-TO-THE-MINUTE.

The Auditor's report adopted by the Municipal Council at its last meeting makes several recommendations which should and no doubt will receive the careful attention of the Reeve and Councillors. There is one suggestion the auditors did not make which we believe should have been made, and that is that a report of the year's financial business should be made at the end of the year and not three or six months late. There is no reason why the business of a municipality should not be kept up-to-the-minute the same as the business of any other institution. Many of the Valley cities, if not all of them, have adopted the quarterly audit system, which has been found to work admirably. It gives the Reeve and Councillors a better chance to intelligently handle the public funds; allows them to know at all times just how the finances stand, and compels the accounts to be balanced at regular intervals throughout the year.

NARAMATA PROGRESSIVE.

It is a pleasure to note in our Naramata Notes from week to week, the various forward steps taken indicating the character of the advance being made. The opening of the picturesque hotel this spring, the completion of a cement sidewalk from the wharf to the hotel running along the beautiful hotel gardens, the completion of the church building and the soon-to-be-erected club house; these, with the many other general improvements which are being pushed forward, all indicate the high standard set for Naramata by the promoter. Not an improvement is to be made, nor a step taken that does not bear the impress of quality. Naramata's growth may be somewhat slower than that of some of the more advanced communities on the lake, but there will be a charm about it not possessed by any other.

HOUSE OF LORDS SUBSIDES.

By a vote of 131 to 114 the House of Lords last Thursday adopted the Veto Bill forced upon it by the Democracy of England. And thus the great constitutional struggle, which began nearly two years ago, is ended. To save the "Upper House from being swamped by Liberal peers, the Lords took the "hemlock"—lemon as we would say to-day—handed to them by the people of England through Premier Asquith. Their final struggle ignominiously indulged in two weeks ago when they howled down the Premier of England in the House of Commons, did not bring upon them any more credit than they deserved. No doubt they felt at the time that such an exhibition of their displeasure would cause the people of England to shiver in their booties, but there was no such quaking. Premier Asquith stood calm and serene, knowing that he had at his back every nonconformist in Britain, and he was prepared to take the next step in the reformation of the House of Lords. New peers would have been appointed by the King forthwith had he not received the assurance that the Veto Bill would be accepted by the House as now constituted.

This is the characteristic revolution of the Englishman. Two years ago the nonconformists of England backed up Premier Asquith and David Lloyd-George in their stand against what has been termed the arrogance of the "established" order as represented by the House of Lords. The Lords refused to accept the will of the people as then expressed and an appeal to the country was again made. Speaking through his ballot the Englishman again said that he did not believe he was mistaken in knowing what he wanted. He was in revolt against the Lords and that established system which they represented. It was difficult for the House of Lords to realize this, but they had to come to it, for an Englishman in revolt is as unmovable as a mountain of adamant.

CANADA'S BANKING SYSTEM.

In an interesting paper read to the Institute of Bankers at the London Institution recently, Sir Edmund Walker, President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, compared the banking system of Canada with that of the Motherland, and gave figures to show how successful the system has operated in Canada. Between 1867 and 1910 the loans by Canadian banks had increased from over fifty-five millions to over eight hundred and eighty millions. Since 1880 no failure had occurred in which the note issues had not been paid in full, while out of twenty banks which had been completely liquidated since confederation the total loss to note holders and depositors amounted to no more than four and a half millions. In other words, the loss to creditors in over forty years has been a trifle over two-fifths of one per cent. of the present liabilities of the banks. There is bad banking in Canada as in other new countries, but nowhere in the world are banks as a rule more definite and careful in the establishment of credits. Since 1867 the Canadian deposits have increased to over one billion dollars, which indicates the country's growing prosperity.

TRANSMISSION OF TUBERCULOSIS.

When the Government Inspector condemns a herd of dairy cows after being subjected to the tuberculin test, the hardships upon the owner of the herd is considerable, and there are occasionally complaints that such measures were not deemed necessary years ago, and are being executed with unnecessary severity. But a recent report of the Royal Commission on Tuberculosis tends to confirm the absolute necessity for such stringent measures. The Commission was instructed to inquire and report with reference, (1) Whether the disease in animals and man is one and the same; (2) Whether animals and man can be reciprocally infected with it; (3) Under what conditions, if at all, the transmission of the disease from animals to man takes place, and what are the circumstances favorable or unfavorable to such transmission.

In the final report just issued the chief points are that (1) both human and bovine tubercle bacilli may be present at the same time in human beings, but only the bovine bacillus has been found in cattle. (2) Though the liability of animals to infection from man could be tested by direct experiment, man's liability to infection from animals could only be a matter of inference. The general result of the experiments instituted by the Commission is to show that the bovine type of bacillus is more virulent than the human; but that, speaking generally, mammals and man can be reciprocally infected with the disease. (3) Man must clearly be regarded as being susceptible to the infection from at least two or three types of bacillus the human and the bovine, while the unmodified avian bacillus may be regarded as a factor in the production of human tuberculosis.

As a general conclusion, in view of the whole evidence adduced, the Commission felt called upon to declare the necessity of administrative measures for obtaining security against the transmission of bovine tubercle bacilli by means of food. In the interests of infants and children, the members of the community most endangered, it is urged that existing regulations for the supervision of milk production and meat preparation should not be relaxed, but that the Government should cause the enforcement, throughout the kingdom, of food regulations, planned to afford increased security against the infections of human beings through the medium of articles of diet derived from tuberculous animals.

TARIFF AND RECIPROCIDITY.

What answer can a man give who advocates the adoption of reciprocity—free trade—between the United States and Canada, in the face of the fact, acknowledged by the British Parliament, that there are seven million persons in England constantly on the verge of starvation? We doubt if reciprocity will have any effect in reducing the cost of living in Canada or the United States, for the reason that reciprocity is proposed only on raw materials, and it is not in the price of the raw material that the cost of living is increased. But granting for the sake of argument that the price of certain commodities may be reduced by the operation of reciprocity, what then?

When we compare the prices in England with the prices prevailing in the West, we cannot fail to recognize the great difference in England's favor, so far as the prices of commodities are concerned. But on the other hand when we consider the rate of wage paid in England to artisans and mechanics and laborers of every kind, we note that while the actual cost of living in England may be less, the actual difference between the rate of wage paid in Great Britain and Canada, make the cost of living really higher there than here. What good is it to a man to reduce the price of commodities to him if at the same time we take from his pay envelope a great deal more than the difference marked in the price of the commodity? Will anyone say, even the Englishman who understands his country best, that free trade is a blessing to England. And England is pre-eminently a country adapted to free trade, since it is, to a very large extent, dependent upon foreign countries for the raw materials which are there manufactured into the finished product.

Britain's poor were never poorer than they are at the present time, and Britain's rich were never richer—and it all has come about under free trade.

What would be Canada's position if reciprocity were to come into force now? At the present time and under the existing policy of reasonable protection we see the American manufacturer forced to come across the line and establish factories here in order to get easy access to our raw materials. Under reciprocity in raw materials these manufacturers could and no doubt would make use of their American factories and workmen to manufacture our raw materials, which our growers would be forced to sell upon a free market, into the finished product, and the finished product would be shipped back into Canada and sold with the import duty added.

All tariffs are paid by the people who make them. When we tax ourselves to raise revenue by levying a tariff on this commodity and that, we do so to assist in a general way in the development of the country's industries and to conserve our resources. This is good business. But when we lay our resources open to the inroads of another country duty free, and then tax ourselves to use the article manufactured across the line out of our own raw material, we play the fool.

This is exactly what the American manufacturers are hoping for. The Canadian consumer pays the Canadian tariff. The American manufacturer pays the American tariff or crosses the line and manufactures in Canada. Under reciprocity there would be no tariff on raw material, hence the American manufacturer would have a free hand to play the American producer against the Canadian producer, and at the same time the Canadian consumer would have to pay the tariff on the manufactured article just as he does to-day and always will do.

BOTH PARTIES WERE RIGHT.

In a very fair-minded editorial appearing in the Canadian Courier, the editor of that journal claims that in their treatment of the reciprocity offer from the United States government both parties in the Canadian House have been living up to their doctrine. He says:

"Speaking purely personally, I am one of those who believe that both political parties have acted fairly in regard to this question of reciprocity with the United States. Considering the record of the Liberal party and the opportunity which came to it a few months ago, it was bound to accept the United States reciprocity offer. As a party, the Liberals are free traders. There may be more theory than practice in their free trade notions, but their opportunities have been limited. They embraced eagerly the first opportunity to get more practice into their theoretical record. The manufacturers and other protectionists have no right to be angry with the Liberal leaders. Sir Wilfrid has been polite to the manufacturers always, but politeness is one of Sir Wilfrid's characteristics. The Liberals gave the manufacturers justice and always will—but nothing more.

Similarly the Conservatives were quite within their rights in opposing reciprocity. All this talk about preventing the majority from ruling, such as has appeared in the leading Liberal newspapers, is pure buncombe. The Conservative minority had a perfect right to block reciprocity and to demand an appeal to the country. It is the very essence of our parliamentary system that no broad national policy shall be modified or changed until after the opinion of the people shall have been ascertained at a general election. There have been times in Canada when that principle has been overlooked by both parties. An extra general election involves much trouble and expense, but that is a small price to pay for the education of the public on a measure which makes the second important change in our fiscal policy since 1878. That the Government has yielded so promptly to the demand of the Opposition indicates that the Liberal leaders are not prepared to exorcise the rights of the majority in the House beyond a reasonable point."

Stomach Agony

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion will Vanish. Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas, biliousness, sour stomach, fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, bad taste in mouth, foul breath, nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves that question daily.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of Mi-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to the Summerland Drug Company this very day and get a large box of Mi-o-na tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of Mi-o-na tablets is only fifty cents, and the Summerland Drug Company guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back. Thin or lean or scrawny people will find in Mi-o-na a maker of flesh and blood, because it causes the stomach to extract more nutritious matter from the food, which quickly enriches the blood.

through their local representative, C. N. Borton. This range is one of the latest models, with warming closet, drop door for oven, and water reservoir. It also has the new style of broiling top and thermometer. This prize stove has already arrived, and is now on exhibition in Mr. Borton's window. It will be presented for the best five boxes of winter apples, five varieties.

The Department of Agriculture is also putting up prizes. There will be first, second and third prizes, of $15, $10 and $5 respectively for a packing contest. This contest will be conducted in the exhibition hall during the exhibition. The judging will be done by R. M. Winslow, Provincial Horticulturist, and his assistant. This competition will probably not be open to professional packers. There will be another contest for packed fruit, with first, second and third prizes of $15, $10 and $5, in which the fruit may be packed elsewhere than at the exhibition, but the competition is open only to members of the packing school conducted last spring. Full details of these competitions will be published just as soon as they are received by the Agricultural Association from the Department.

Through Thos. E. Moore there has been received from the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. donations of flour for prizes. For the best pan of home-made bread made from Five Roses Flour, there will be given two forty-nine pound sacks of flour. Second and third prizes will be one sack each.

The Columbia Flouring Mills Co., of Enderby, are offering prizes for bread made from "Moffett's Best," first prize, two forty-nine pound sacks, second prize, one forty-nine pound sack.

SIR DONALD MANN

The world respects a self-made man. It still more honours, and venerates a generous one of this type, one who uses his dollars not alone for selfish accumulative purposes but expends them for the betterment of his country and its people. In the end he shares more largely in the prosperity he has created than anyone else. Sir Donald Mann is Canada's foremost example of such a man. His upward career has been meteoric and reads like fiction. He has had a life full of adventure. His activities had their origins in places where a man was what he was and where no weakling could prosper. It was an indomitable energy and a fixedness of purpose which brought Sir Donald Mann to the top of the ladder. His early training moulded the character of the future Railway King. The place of his birth, Acton, Ontario, hood days made the man, who has was but a small village. His boyhood things. He soon found farming did not offer enough scope to his latent abilities and transferred his energies to the lumber business. A man of his stamp would not be a failure. At the age of 21, the then plain Donald Mann had already risen to the position of foreman.

The West was at this time making its appeal for men of the right sort. Its lure seized Sir Donald and in 1879 he went to Winnipeg. This made him. By 1880 he was a contractor building portions of the C. P. R. contracts between Whitemouth, east of Winnipeg and the Selkirk Mountains, occupied him till 1885. It was shortly after this date that the famous partnership of MacKenzie and Mann was formed. Amongst many other important works, this company built the Calgary and Edmonton, the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake and Saskatchewan Railways, as well as the C. P. R. short line through Maine. By 1889 the firm had become so eminent and well known that it was offered railway contracts in Panama, Ecuador, Peru and Chili as well as in China. Sir Donald Mann after visiting and carefully examining all these places decided to decline all the above projects.

It was then that Sir Donald began his now great railway system. He formed its nucleus by purchasing the charter of the Lake Manitoba Ry and Canal Company. From this has grown The Canadian Northern Railway system embracing upwards of 5,000 miles of line through the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Quebec and Ontario. Today Sir Donald Mann is Vice-President of the Canadian Northern, the Canadian Northern Ontario and the Halifax and Southwestern Railways. All of which have reached their present high standing through his energy and genius.

Sir Donald Mann's work has chiefly consisted in directing construction. In this branch he has achieved an unsurpassed reputation for speed, efficiency and economy. Perhaps even more important has been his success in convincing public opinion that legislative aid to his projects would be for the public benefit. It is through this diplomacy and tact that his great systems have achieved their remarkable success. Canada has and will prosper still more through the efforts of Sir Donald Mann's fertile mind.

George Ham Sees Again.

Just to be friendly the Grand Trunk Railway people invited George Ham to be present at a banquet they gave recently to a party of New England ticket agents, whom they had brought up to Montreal from Boston in connection with their new line to Providence. The banquet dragged along, as such affairs frequently do, until towards the end, G.P.R. George was requested to make a few remarks. After telling one or two of his choicest stories, he thought it would be no harm to put in a word about his company's steamships.

"You've heard about the Empress of the Pacific," he told them, "and you've also heard about the Empress of the Atlantic. But I tell you, we've just bought out the Dominion Atlantic and we're going to build a line of steamers to run out of your port of Boston second to none in the world."

The Bostonians present here began to cheer enthusiastically and nothing would do but they must give three cheers for Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, George Ham and the C.P.R.—right at the Grand Trunk banquet.

Next morning when George met Sir Thomas and told him about the ovation, the president remarked slyly, "Well, George, when are you going to build those ships?"

As for Cy Warman, the Grand Trunk's professional humorist, when he was asked about the banquet by a friend, he replied, "Humph, to blazes with the banquet—ended up with cheers for Shaughnessy."

RUSSIAN THISTLE.

There has recently been introduced into this district, a new, very nasty and dangerous weed. How it has been introduced is a disputed question. Some claim that it has spread from the south, but the general and more probable theory is that it has been introduced here in the hay or grain imported from the prairies. In any event it is assuming such large proportions that immediate steps will have to be taken to irradiate the weed. Unless such early steps are taken this new tumble-weed will have gained such a foothold as to become a serious menace and an expensive proposition to remove.

We publish below a full description of this obnoxious weed, as given in "Farm Weeds of Canada." And by the way, this is a very valuable publication, fully describing the various weeds and illustrating them by color-plates. This book may be had from the Supt. of Stationary, Government Printing Bureau, Ottawa. Price $1.00.

RUSSIAN THISTLE (Salola Kali L. var. tenuifolia G. F. W. Mew). Other English names: Russian Tumbleweed, Russian Cactus. Other Latin names: Salsola Tragus L., Salsola Kali var. Tragus Mog.

Introduced from Asia. Annual. Bushy, of a prickly appearance, due to the long, thin, thread-like, prickle-tipped leaves which characterize the young plant, and the short triple, spiny bracts on the flowering branches of the older plants. It varies in appearance at different stages of growth. The young plant is dark green: the slender leaves, about two inches long, drop off soon after the seed is formed. The somewhat spherical branched top of the mature plant, when broken away from the root, is blown about by the wind and scatters its seeds widely. It is not a thistle and could be more appropriately called a tumbleweed. Flowers solitary, borne in the axils of the leaves.

THE SEED is about one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter, cone-shaped, the large end concave with a well marked protuberance in the centre of the cavity. The coat is thin and transparent, showing the grayish-brown, coiled germ. It is generally enclosed in a papery envelope, the divisions of which are winglike and help to disseminate the seed.

TIME OF FLOWERING: July to September; seeds ripe by August.

PROPAGATION: By seeds. The seeds are distributed by the tumbling plants, which are driven by the wind. As the seeds do not shell readily, they are carried long distances.

OCCURRENCE: Abundant in several localities in the dryer parts of southern Alberta and Saskatchewan, chiefly along roadsides, fireguards and in neglected fields. Frequently found, though not seriously troublesome, in the eastern provinces.

INJURY: Russian Thistle is a large, succulent weed and thrives where the land is too dry for other plants. It thus uses up moisture where it is scarcest and most needed. Owing to its stout woody character and sharp spines, it is almost impossible for horses to work where it abounds, unless their legs are well protected. It is hard on harvesting machinery and wasteful of binder twine.

REMEDY: Hand-pull whenever practicable. Harrowing growing crops is an effective remedy; it is easily killed when young by this method. The harrow should be applied just before the grain emerges from the ground and again when the crop is three inches high.

Where winter wheat is grown successfully, there is little difficulty with Russian Thistle, as it is very susceptible to frost and plants started in late summer will be destroyed before they produce seed. Spring crops should never be sown on land that contains live Russian Thistle seeds unless there is sufficient moisture in the soil so that the crops will be strong enough to crowd out the Russian Thistle. Work on Summer-fallow should begin early, not only to conserve the moisture but because these plants, if allowed to become full grown, are so cactus-like as to make it almost impossible to put horses among them.

THE MUNICIPAL AUDIT.

Summerland, B. C. 15th August, 1911.

The Editor, The Summerland Review, Summerland, B.C.

Dear Sir: It appears that the recent action of the Council in publishing the Statement of Municipal Accounts for the year 1910 and the report of Messrs. Crehan, Mouat & Co. covering this statement, places me in a false position.

The facts known are, that presumably without criticism or any recommendations I passed the statement of Municipal Accounts for 1910 as published some time since, while in the report of Messrs. Crehan, Mouat & Co. certain recommendations are made, which in brief mean that the present system is unsatisfactory and that the Office Department of the Municipality should be re-organized.

As the result of this there has been some rather severe criticism of my work as Auditor. I quite agree that there is apparently ground for this, although I wish it might have been made to me personally, or an explanation could have been asked for through the medium of your paper.

For fear lest this might increase, I wish to distinctly say that I reported on the Municipal Accounts, and the report of Messrs. Crehan, Mouat & Co. and my findings are in line. While I referred to several matters which I considered of some importance, the point I sought most to impress upon the Council was the necessity, in my opinion, of a change in the whole system of accounts.

I hope that it may not be needful to refer to this matter any further, and feel that I should never have been under the necessity of making this explanation at all.

Yours faithfully, C. P. NELSON.

Kaleden Comments

Mr. B. S. Hatfield and family, of Summerland have been staying with Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hatfield for a few days.

The Maron Lake Government Road is now under construction under the direction of Mr. J. Davis, of Okanagan Falls.

The pile driver, having completed its work at the head of the Lower Okanagan Lake, has reached Kaleden this week and commenced operations in the construction of a 180 foot wharf.

An interesting event in the history of the Findlay family took place here last Friday. The foundation stone of Mr. J. C. Findlay's new house was "well and truly laid" by Mrs. Findlay, a sealed bottle containing a list of the names of all persons present, together with date of said ceremony, being deposited in a cement block. Besides numerous local celebrities, the Misses Moore and G. Gayton, of Manitou, and Mr. Craig, of Vancouver were present. At the conclusion, a group photo was taken by Mr. Wm. King, of Summerland.

A croquet tournament which has been causing considerable excitement and pleasure for the past few weeks, on Mr. J. C. Findlay's grounds, was concluded last Tuesday, the honors in the final match falling to Miss Archina Preston and Mr. W. Greaves, against Miss Iva Simpson and Mr. Judson Findlay. No one was more surprised at the result than the winners, their opponents having everything in their favor, and it was considered, some advantage in skill.

The growth of fruit and vegetables at Kaleden this year has been most gratifying. Apricots planted this spring have put on nearly five feet of growth, two year old plums six feet, while peaches, apples and grapes have come up to all expectations. A few two year old apricots have produced a little very delicious fruit much to the delight of the owners.

Miss McLean of Rosslyn is a visitor at the McAlister's for a few days.

Last Sunday evening was very pleasantly spent by a number of musical friends at the home of the Findlays.

EXHIBITION OF TENDER FRUITS AT VANCOUVER.

R. M. Winslow, of the B. C. Fruit Growers' Association, Says That Good Opportunity is Afforded to Cultivate Coast Market.

Victoria, August 7, 1911. One of the problems which the grower of summer fruits, such as plums and peaches, must face, in securing a wide distribution for his product, is the successful entrance to the market of Vancouver.

Though the consumption of fruit per capita in the Coast cities is not as yet as great as that in the Prairies, and though prices on the whole will not average as high as in the interior points, it is a fact that the Coast offers a large and remunerative market for the fruit grown in the province. Access to this market has not, however, been particularly easy for the British Columbia grower, especially from the interior districts, very largely because these cities are accustomed to looking to the American side for their supplies.

The National Apple Show last November did a great deal to show the coast markets, that our province is producing apples of the highest quality, and in large and increasing quantity. The publicity, given through the National Apple Show, will be a great feature in the development of the coast market for British Columbia apples.

No such publicity has as yet been given our tender fruits in these markets, but it seems that a favorable opportunity presents itself through the Vancouver Exhibition, to be held August 8 to September 4 next.

We understand from the secretary of this Exhibition, that exceptional facilities are offered for the shipment of peaches, plums, early apples, etc. This being the case, it seems an exceptional opportunity to give our fruit this very desirable publicity in Vancouver.

We would suggest that the fruit growers of the Province, generally, who realize the significance of the Vancouver market, and who are in a position to exhibit, correspond with the secretary of the Vancouver Exhibition, with a view to so placing their fruits on display before the consumers there.

Yours very truly,
R. M. WINSLOW,
Secretary, B.C. Fruit Growers' Association.

The Willard Company Coming Here.

At the Empire Hall, Summerland, on Tuesday and Wednesday August 22 and 23 the Willard Company will be the attraction. This company comes here with the stamp of approval of the largest cities throughout the Northwest. The show is known as "The Show That's Different." It is a distinct novelty offering two hours of fun, laughter and amusement. Besides being one of the world's greatest magicians and illusionists, he introduces many tests in mind reading, hypnotism and other novelties. Each evening Willard will introduce his famous growing test. Standing erect he is able to increase his height from seven to nine inches and to extend his arms from twelve to fifteen inches. This is no illusion but an actual fact. He is also known as "The Human Telescope." In Calgary, at the Lyric Theatre, when this company played for nine nights the house was crowded nightly. Popular prices will prevail here, 25 cents, 50 cents and 75 cents. Reserved seats on sale at the Drug Store. A complete change of program will be given each evening.

An Exhaustive Work.

One of the most valuable publications of the year is the volume just issued on "Lands, Fisheries, Game and Minerals," by the Dominion Commission of Conservation. The book, representing as it does a great deal of exacting research work, makes available to the average man a mass of instructive and entertaining information otherwise unobtainable by him. As a reference work for the journalist, the student of public questions and the well-informed man on the street, it will be found of no small value. It is a large volume of some 525 pages, substantially bound in cloth and fully illustrated throughout with maps, diagrams and two-color photo engravings.

SHOULD HAVE ADVERTISED.

Two instances showing the results of lack of advertising occurred recently. On the second day of the Kelowna Regatta, the Okanagan was an hour later than usual docking at Summerland on her north ward trip. Many asked why this was, and thought that the boat had met with an accident. It appears that the later hour was made for the purpose of taking passengers to the Regatta. Had the columns of the Review been used to announce this change, there is no doubt that many more would have purchased tickets for Kelowna.

The Jolly Entertainers from the Children's Home, Des Moines, recently gave a performance in Empire Hall. The attendance was not satisfactory, due announcement not having been made. Here again is where the Review columns could have been of valuable service.

Council Meets in Extra Session.

Discusses Long List of Extensions to Municipal Water System.

The Council met in extra session on Saturday evening to receive and discuss the list of extensions, improvements, and repairs proposed by the Board of Works. The chief difficulty is the need of funds, or rather, that the fund now available for extension work is not likely to be sufficient to carry through all the extensions and improvements desired. Each requirement was taken up individually and discussed, and either approved, thrown out, or referred for further information.

We publish below a detailed copy of the requisition list, together with the decision of the Council on each item.

While it will be noted that most of the requests were approved, still it is not probable that all this work will be accomplished this season.

The Council believe that provisions should be made for the storing of more water than the present dams will hold, and much of the work along the pipe and ditch lines depends on the quantity of water in reserve. It is hoped, however, to either build a new and better dam on Trout Creek or some of its tributaries, or enlarge the present one, and also arrange for the further storage of water on Aeneas Creek. With the larger amounts of water in reserve, the plans for extensions and alterations will be carried out with better results. Just what will be done in the matter of storage dams depends on the reports which will be made by Engineer Latimer shortly.

18.—Flume in shale on south side of Giant's Head, requires either enlarging or replacing with cement lining. Approved, with cement lining.

19.—Present connection to 8-2196 should be replaced by flume and pipe. Referred to Board of Works.

A NEW TOWNSITE.

R. W. Deans, Balcomo, is undertaking some large development work on his properties adjoining Trout Creek. In an interview Mr. Deans stated that he had now under his control 10,000 acres. He has already applied for a water license for the purpose of developing power. He states that he expects to ultimately develop power to the extent of 10,000 horse-power. The power site will be close to the Richardson Mill, on the opposite side of the creek. Mr. Deans' intention is to soon erect and operate a finishing mill, and he will also transmit power into the mountains to rough-saw the lumber, and will have electric current available for distribution for light and power.

It is Mr. Deans' purpose to settle the land under his control by people with capital who will have had experience in controlling and directing workmen. He already has in view a number of men of means. They will bring labor from the Old Country who will work at what he calls a fair price. The men will also be given a chance to branch out along their own individual lines. Mr. Deans purposes going to England this winter to put his propositions on the markets there.

OF INTEREST TO POULTRYMEN.

The secretary of the S. O. Poultry Association has recently received an enquiry from Messrs. W. H. Gunn & Co. of Vancouver.

This firm is sending out letters enquiring as to the possibility of importing a car-load of breeding stock for the districts throughout B.C. They state they believe there are many poultrymen and others who would like to secure breeding stock at a nominal figure. They, of course, have an interest in the distribution of the poultry industry, as they are a commission house, making a specialty of dairy and poultry supplies.

Their idea is that the importing of a car-load of good breeding stock would mean a good deal towards increased production in eggs and dressed poultry, and at the same time they claim it would not interfere with the sales of breeding stock of our present breeders.

They wish to learn through the secretary of the local association the number of birds that would be needed by members and non-members of the Association.

The birds that they would supply would be Banded Plymouth Rocks, White Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, and possibly Single Comb White Leghorns. The price per bird approximately $3.50 each.

The secretary of the Association, C. P. Nelson, would be glad to have the opinions of all interested persons.

4.—Extend pipe line to Lots 16 to 28-675, 2,220 feet. $1,150.00. Approved; not for this season.

5.—Cleaning up around Reservoir. Approved.

6.—Lateral north of Jones Flat, Lot 1178. Nothing decided on.

7.—Fencing Reservoir. Approved.

8.—Trout Creek Point, Irrigation and Domestic Water Scheme Dam only Approved.

9.—Garnett Valley pipe line. Deferred for the present.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.

Naramata Aug 24—What proved to be a narrow escape from drowning, occurred last Thursday afternoon while Mrs. McKay and three young ladies, Irene Morgan, Adelaide Hayward and Lulu Brown (Peachland) were in bathing. The two former being unable to swim were keeping at a safe depth, when all at once Mrs. McKay stepping into deep water screamed to Miss Morgan who reached out and grabbed her hand and attempted to hold on. At this time Miss Brown came to assist but was grabbed by Miss Morgan and went down. But Miss Hayward was more successful for by this time the alarm had been sounded and help was at hand and all three ladies were rescued without having caused anyone serious inconvenience.

Laurier's Haste Unnecessary.

Washington dispatches say that were Canada willing to wait a short time she would probably obtain from the United States nearly all the concessions in the reciprocity bill without yielding a single concession in return.

While the wool and farmers' free list bills will be vetoed by President Taft, it is plain that there will be considerable tariff revision at the regular session of Congress beginning in December.

The administration itself will recommend a complete revision of the scientific data furnished by the nonpartisan tariff board.

Realizing that the President will veto any bills enacted at this session, the Democrats have decided to abandon their efforts after he has acted on the wool and free list bills, but they are prepared for general tariff revision at the next session. They will revise the tariff from top to bottom. They will not stop with wool and cotton revision, as will be recommended by the President, but will go further and revise the steel iron and all schedules involving the necessities of life, and including all the products of exchange between the United States and Canada.

While this general tariff revision will provide lower duties on imports from all nations, Canada will obtain the benefit of the revision without making the concessions called for by the reciprocity bill. If the people of Canada approve of reciprocity at the polls and the agreement is ratified by Parliament, Canada will be giving to the United States great advantages in return for lower duties that might be had for nothing by waiting.

Martin Burrell Opens Campaign.

Brief Resume of His Speech at Public Meeting at Kamloops.

On the evening of Thursday, August 17th, after a busy day in the convention, Mr. Martin Burrell addressed a public meeting at Kamloops. The opera house was crowded to standing room only, and the meeting was most enthusiastic. At that meeting Mr. Burrell sounded the slogan upon which he will fight the campaign to victory in this constituency.

When Mr. Burrell was called to the front by the chairman he was greeted by a burst of applause that almost swept the house from its feet. Mr. Burrell was in fine metal and his masterful arraignment of the Liberal Government and its policy was listened to with close attention, the speaker being repeatedly interrupted by round after round of applause.

In opening his remarks Mr. Burrell said that the Opposition had done what no Opposition in the history of Canada had ever done in forcing a strong government backed by a powerful majority to submit their policy to an appeal to the people. He denied that there had been any obstruction on supply or any impediment placed in the way of the country's business. The promulgation of the reciprocity pact was the sole reason for the Opposition fight.

"Would you deny that we were right in insisting that the people should have the final say in a matter so closely affecting their welfare and severely threatening the destiny of the country?"

Mr. Burrell said the Opposition was blamed by the Liberals for forcing on the elections before redistribution, but the truth was that the Conservatives had offered to vote supply for a time sufficient to enable the government to complete the census, and would also assist in passing a redistribution bill as soon as the next session was called, provided the government would hold over the reciprocity pact until an appeal to the people could be made upon the increased representation.

This was not agreed to, and the fact was the house was dissolved in a panic.

The speaker criticised severely Sir Wilfrid's stand at the Imperial Conference, and said he doubted if the Prime Minister represented

Canadian sentiment in regard to Imperial affairs. Mr. Burrell said he believed that reciprocity is one of the greatest disintegrating forces which could be brought to bear upon Imperial unity. He then presented most forcefully the reciprocity pact from its various sides, showing, as he believed, that reciprocity would act solely in the interest of the American manufacturers and directly against the building up of Canadian industries and the development of the country.

So far as the fruit industry was concerned he believed that in time the orchards of B.C. would survive the treaty, but the blow would be felt for years and would work an unfair hardship upon those who had invested in fruitlands in this province. The Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Fisher, had admitted in the house that reciprocity would deal a severe blow to the B.C. fruit industry, but by what right did the government attempt to justify its action?

Discussing reciprocity from the Imperial side, Mr. Burrell said it endangered Imperial relations between the Dominions and was a death blow to Imperial preference. "Once tied up by this pact," said Mr. Burrell, "you cannot say when you will get out or where it will lead you. What will be the result if at the end of two years the United States puts the tariff wall up again? Business upset, trade channels again diverted, home market demoralized, inter-provincial trade to reconnect, and touch lost with our British customers! It is sheer lunacy to risk it." Only a short time ago Premier Laurier himself, in the House, said that "the best way to maintain pleasant relations with the United States was to be independent of them." The same argument used by Sir Wilfrid when the United States protested against the French Treaty and threatened tariff reprisals could be used now. "They are 90 millions, we are only eight millions. If we are stiff with them they might be stiff with us."

Mr. Burrell's closing peroration was a masterpiece, and the house rose en masse and cheered the speaker to the echo.

MR. BURRELL'S POPULARITY.

One would have to be blind indeed not to see in the enthusiastic reception given Mr. Martin Burrell at the nominating convention held last week at Kamloops, more than the formal greeting of a party convention to its chosen delegate. The moment Mr. Burrell stepped into the convention hall he was greeted with hearty applause from all parts of the house, and when the Hon. Mr. Ellison proposed the name of Mr. Burrell be voted on informally the cheers that went up from the delegates should have been most gratifying to Mr. Burrell. There was a warmth of admiration evidenced for the man that could not be mistaken. There was a confidence shown that found for its foundation more than the unselfish labor of the candidate in the party's interest. There was the unstinted expression of loyalty to the man back of the candidate that carried with it the sincerity of the men back of the party. It was, indeed, a very striking example of the influence of a man not a politician in a convention of men not politicians in earnest about party and country.

UNPARDONABLE INSULTS.

It is doubtful if the House of Lords could have done anything which would have brought upon them so much censure and could have so surely sealed their fate as did their regrettable hoodlumism of July 24th. Public Opinion (London) speaking of the affair has this to say:—"For the first time in the history of Parliament, the Prime Minister of the day—the chief adviser of the Sovereign—was, July 24, refused a hearing in the House of which he is the leader. Scenes of violence have in the past broken out in the Commons, but never within memory a scene at once so violent as this and so prolonged. Questions hurried through were over at half-past three. The Prime Minister entered, and from that instant onwards disorder, save for one significant interval (when the Ministerialists allowed Mr. Balfour to speak without interruption) reigned supreme. Then the speaker suspended the sitting. Nor was this all. 'It is painful,' said the special representative of the Westminster Gazette, 'to have to record that gross and unprintable expressions of the most offensive character were banded about by excited Tories, who, it is charitable to suppose, had lost their heads as well as their manners. Mr. Asquith would have the sympathy of every decent man in the country—Liberal or Conservative—if the public were made aware of the unpardonable insults to which he was subjected at the hands of some of his opponents.'

"At the time of writing the only definite results of this scene in the Commons appear to be the enthusiastic consolidation of the Ministerial party under Mr. Asquith's leadership, and the hopeless division of the Unionist party."

OUTLOOK FOR MR. BURRELL.

In his speech accepting the nomination of the Conservative Convention last Thursday at Kamloops, Mr. Burrell said he had reason to believe that his majority would be fully 1000. "Sixteen hundred," ventured a party leader. And this was the number set upon by the convention members.

Sixteen hundred!

To bring this about will require work on the part of every member of the party in Yale-Cariboo. To say that the fight is one-sided in this riding and that work and organization are not required is to court defeat. It seems impossible to think of a Liberal victory in Yale-Cariboo. If, as Sir Wilfrid Laurier insists, reciprocity is to be the only issue from start to finish of the campaign then the Liberal candidate in this electoral district cannot hope to carry any number of votes.

Mr. K. C. Macdonald, the Liberal candidate, is recognized as a straight, clean political fighter. He can be counted upon to do his best to win. But he is working against great odds. The logical result of the Taft-Fielding reciprocity pact is that more and more the United States will take Canadian raw materials, enjoy the high profits of manufacturing them and send the finished articles of commerce back here for Canadian consumption. This is so well recognized that it needs no argument to demonstrate. This policy can be counted upon to be bitterly opposed by Westerners, Conservatives and Liberals alike, and Mr. K. C. Macdonald will find himself without a log to stand upon in his fight in support of it.

RECLAIMING THE DESERT.

The Reclamation Service undertaken by the National Government of the United States has worked wonders in the past few years, and the half has not yet been told. The recent completion of the Roosevelt Dam in Arizona, by which, when the canal service connecting therewith is completed, more than two million acres of land will have been reclaimed, has centered attention upon this important phase of the government's conservation policy.

When we consider the magnitude of that government's undertakings in this direction, and remember the enormous acreage reclaimed and what it will mean when these vast acres are put in the hands of the fruit growers and intensive farmers, we cannot but admire the foresight of such men as Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot, to whose unceasing efforts this mighty undertaking was brought about. Not only for what it has meant in the interest of Canada, for surely we cannot long sit by and see these arid wastes transformed into fertile fields and prosperous communities by our neighbors without seeking by similar means to reclaim the desert lands of Canada.

In carrying out the objects of the Reclamation Act passed by the Congress of the United States, and embodying the ideas therein contained in feasible structures, there have already been built reservoirs for conserving the waste waters and having a capacity such as would cover four and one-half million acres with water one foot deep. These dams and reservoirs have been built at Okanogan and Yakima, Washington; at Umatilla and Klamath, Oregon; at Orland, Truckee-Carson and Lake Tahoe, California and Nevada; Blackfoot, Sun River, Flathead, Huntlay, Milk River and Fort Peck, Montana; also a pumping station on the Missouri River to reclaim a vast territory in North Dakota. The Reclamation Service extends over Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, South Dakota, and Nebraska, in all of which states reservoirs have been built or are in the course of construction.

To distribute this water to the land, or take it from various streams, there have been constructed nearly 350 miles of canals of large size, that is to say, carrying over 800 cubic feet per second, while in smaller canals or distributaries there are several thousand miles. The tunnels by which the water is carried under mountain masses or through obstacles aggregate in number 70, with a total length of 100,000 feet. The material excavated in building the canal system has aggregated 60 million cubic yards of earth, and nearly 5,000,000 yards each of loose rock and solid rock. In building the dams and other structures there have been used over a million barrels of cement.

The only dam constructed by the hydraulic hill method by the Reclamation Service was that across Salmon River, Washington. It is a thousand feet long and sixty-four feet high, and waters about 8,650 acres of land. The building charge is $65 an acre, and the annual operation and maintenance charge $2 per acre. In the various units of the Yakima project a total of half a million acres will be reclaimed. In the States of Montana, North and South Dakotas, and Northern Wyoming, the total acreage reclaimed will be over one million acres. In the Idaho district something over 240,000 acres of land will be reclaimed. The Uncomfahgre project, Colorado, waters 150,000 acres, and the Reclamation Service has planned a canal which will furnish water to 60,000 acres of irrigable land from the flow of the Grand River. Under the North Platte River project some 350,000 acres in Wyoming and Nebraska are to be watered.

Numerous smaller projects are either built or in the course of erection, which, coupled with that reclaimed by the great Roosevelt Dam on the Salt River, Arizona, brings the total acreage of reclaimed land up to 3,085,000 acres.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS AS SOCIAL CENTRES.

In the American Review of Reviews, Mary J. Mayer writes of the use and the misuse of public school buildings, and in doing so leaves much to be thought about. "Not many years ago," she says, "we closed our schoolroom doors at four o'clock, and allowed them to remain closed on Saturdays, Sundays, and during the summer vacation. In other words, an immense amount of valuable property belonging to the people, and needed by the people, was put to only half of its possible use. Now we are changing all that; we have waked up to the fact that the schools may and should be a common meeting ground, and the movement for a wider use of the school plant is spreading over the country. At present, in more than one hundred cities of the United States, school buildings and property are being systematically used to further the social life of the people.

"One direct result of a widespread awakening in the city of Rochester to the requirements of good citizenship is the organization of social centres for adults. The Rochester Board of Education has equipped three of the schoolhouses with gymnasiums, shower baths, travelling libraries, chairs, tables, and dishes. Men hold athletic gatherings, and women fence in the gymnasiums; and men's and women's clubs meet in the schoolhouses for lectures, debates, dances, songs, or a general social evening which includes all of these features.

"The example of Rochester in using the schools to further a more intelligent and efficient public spirit is followed in other cities. It was preceded, in fact, by that of the Home and School League of Philadelphia, composed of parents and teachers who meet in fifty schoolhouses for lectures, entertainments, and the discussion of educational problems. And the Boston Home and School Association is using twenty-two schools for similar purposes.

A PLEA FOR INDEPENDENCE.

Now that dissolution has come and a general election is in sight, it is timely to consider the question of independence in politics.

It is an age of parties. The party spirit never ran higher. Everyone belongs to some party or other, most of us because our fathers belonged to them. Yet there is a glimmering of the dawn of independent thinking.

When one comes to think of it there is no sense in supporting Reciprocity because one's party fathers it. Neither is there any reason in opposing free trade with our neighbours to the South simply because one's party takes the stump against it.

What we require to do is to study every public question on its merits and act accordingly. In other words, we need independent thinking by individual citizens. So many of us put our thinking out as we put our dirty linen, the only difference being that the linen comes back cleaner, while the thinking usually gets soiled.

It is folly to let either party leaders or newspaper editors do our thinking. I have known men who in every other way would have resented it as an interference with human rights if one had presumed to even suggest a certain line of conduct, who would vote for the biggest idiot at large or the blackest rascal unhung if only he was their party's choice.

Similarly there are men who will as blindly accept whatever legislation their party passes and condemn as unaccepting the projects of the other side.—British News of Canada.

:Naramata Notes:

Mr. S. Armstrong, formerly with the Kettle River Valley Railway survey party, but more recently with the Trust Company here, has accepted a position with the C.N.R. near Huntersville, B.C., and left last week to take on his new work.

The appointment of Mr. Howard Rounds, the expert stenographer till recently in the office of the Trust Company here, to a similar post with the National Cash Register Co. of Vancouver, has resulted in the removal from town of a very popular young man. Mr. Rounds will be very greatly missed in social, musical and sporting circles, in all of which his presence has meant much. His many friends join in wishing him the best of success in his new sphere.

For the past week or so a long wreath of smoke like dust has appeared at intervals on the wide stretch of road south of town leading from the lumber company's camp in the mountains to the lakeshore just west of the Aikins property. At this latter point the logs are being unloaded from seven immense truck wagons and dumped into the lake. So far the teams have averaged 25,000 feet per day, and at this rate of going it will occupy about two months to convey the winter's cut to the lake. Many of the logs are of immense size, and the difficulty and danger of thus handling the output is considerable. However, every precaution has been taken to safeguard men and teams from accident, and it is earnestly hoped that the work may be terminated without any casualties.

Our local dramatic artists are busy on a play for presentation to a Naramata audience in the near future; but, as the advertising man says, WATCH THIS SPACE GROW.

Mrs. H. J. Wells entertained at a five o'clock tea one evening recently in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Wells, of Detroit, Mich., who, with her husband, has been spending a fair share of the summer season holidaying at Naramata.

Mrs. S. M. Pittman, of Kaleden, has been renewing acquaintances in town this week, the guest of Mrs. C. W. Johnson.

On the occasion of Mr. Robinson's return from the coast cities he was accompanied by a number of Toronto relatives, who have been touring the West for the past three months. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Ike Hutchinson, Miss Hutchinson and Miss Kate Boothe. They came prepared to check up many of the stories previously heard of the famous Okanagan, and have been led to exclaim that "the half has never been told." Mr. Hutchinson has expressed himself as being delighted with the spirit of the West, and has made several dips into the real estate dish en route and will probably pick up something in the Okanagan before long. Mr. Hutchinson's party started on their return trip east on Tuesday taking the Arrow Lake district through British Columbia and via the Lake route from Fort William.

Miss Lulu Brown of Peachland after a pleasant vacation spent with her aunt Mrs. D. McKay of town returned to her home on Saturday's boat.

Miss Gladys Robinson is this week receiving many expressions of consolation as she is the next accident victim, being laid up with a sprained ankle.

Mr. T. H. Boothe has purchased the residence of Mrs. T. R. Wellband who is removing to Vancouver very shortly.

"And the desert shall blossom as the rose." What has that to do with Naramata? A good deal—ever visited Duncan Munroe's fruit lot? A year ago it was a desert, much of it rock. To-day, you would forget everything at the sight of his orchard his garden and his flowers. The air is laden with the perfume from his flower garden. All honor to Mr. Munroe. This is one case, and only one, but there are others for you lovers of the this fruit proposition to inspect.

Naramata peach orchards are only just beginning to bear. This year Mr. W. W. Mitchell has apparently the prize orchard. Besides being one of the oldest in the place, and as a consequence shows to very fine advantage at present. This year he is picking a very fine crop, not only of apples, but of peaches also.

Mrs. Gillespie entertained on Tuesday afternoon of last week in honor of her daughter-in-law Mrs. M. D. Manchester, who is leaving for California early in September. The reception was the largest of its kind ever held in Naramata for some time, there being upwards of a hundred ladies present, many coming by ferry or private launch from Summerland. Tea was presided over by Mrs. Julius Block and Mrs. George Wolstencroft, coffee by Mrs. J. M. Robinson and Mrs. Lewis Block. Several young ladies assisted in the serving, these being, Miss Robinson and sisters Dorothy and Gladys, Miss Wells, Miss Lois Wells, Miss Irene Morgan, Miss Vera Palmer, Miss Chambers, Miss Grace Wilson. The color scheme in the living room was crimson and green, that of the dining room was yellow with a centre piece on the table of California poppies with heavy vestoons of smilax draping the sides. The staircase was banked with palms and yellow astors.

Mr. Morgan is busy installing a hot-water heating system in the Bungalow at "Rakodom." Upon completing the contract Mr. Morgan contemplates moving with his family to Kamloops.

There will be a turkey shoot in Naramata on Labor Day Monday Sept. 4th. The general plan of which so far as can be stated at present is to have three classes one for gentlemen, at 35 yards, one for ladies at 30 yards with two specials: one bird to be shot for at 40 yards by the 10 best marksmen and one bird to be shot for by the three persons who have taken the lowest scores.

Mrs. A. B. Allen entertained a party of friends one evening last week at a game of bagatelle in honor of Miss Orca Williams prior to her departure to Springdale where she enters upon her duties as a full fledged pedagogue. Amongst those present were: Miss Orca Williams, Miss Maida Williams, Miss Short, Miss Mason, Messrs T. Short, W. Wallace and R. Lochart, G. Williams.

The annual Sunday School picnic took place on Thursday afternoon on the lake beach and a genuine good time was spent. A full account of the races and other events is held over till the next issue.

Mr. Jack Robinson returned on Saturday night from Kamloops where he attended the Conservative Convention.

The dance in the Opera House on the 17th inst. under the auspices of the Sigma Delta Club was declared by the patrons another distinct success, numerically, socially and financially. Among the number of outsiders was Mr. Tom Slattery of Vancouver who happened to be in town on business.

Stomach Agony

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion will Vanish

Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas, biliousness, sour stomach, fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, bad taste in mouth, foul breath, nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves that question daily.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of Mi-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to the Summerland Drug Company this very day and get a large box of Mi-o-na tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of Mi-o-na tablets is only fifty cents, and the Summerland Drug Company guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back. Why I Am A Canadian

By ARTHUR HAWKES

Did it ever occur to you that there are two classes of Canadians?—those who couldn't help being Canadians and those who could. I would be very proud to belong to the couldn't-help-it class. But I belong to the other, and I would like to tell you why. I am a curiosity in patriotism. There are tens of thousands like me, most of them unrecognized. I want to find them, so that they may be encouraged to find themselves.

Patriotism? Yes, sir, Patriotism is "Home Sweet Home" on a grand scale. Listen:—"Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, 'This is my own, my native land'?" Listen again:—"The centurion told the chief captain, saying, 'Take heed what thou doest, for this man is a Roman.' Then the chief captain came and said unto him, 'Tell me, are thou a Roman?' He said, 'Yes.' And the chief captain answered, 'With a great sum obtained I this freedom.' And Paul said, 'BUT I WAS FREE BORN.'"

There is a glory of the native born—the thrill that passes through your heart and down your spine when the sacramental element of your nativity makes its subtle, compelling appeal to your mind. I know what it is; but not in Canada. If you have it, cherish it; be exceedingly glad when it comes to you. Pass it on.

To us who enjoy only the blessing of adoption, who have given our native land a second place in our affections, is there even a glory for us in Canada? Can you—the native born—tell what it is? You can't, because you haven't had our experience.

We need not envy you, the native born; you need not envy us, the British-born. We are meet for one another, to conspire to make Canada a great reputation as she is great in extent. And so it becomes you to inquire why I am a Canadian, and to think well upon my two answers.

One—Because you asked me to be a Canadian. I hope to be quite humble in expanding this answer, because I've had worthy people come to me and say, "We have found that British people are not welcomed here," and because I want to speak the truth in love. Personally I have never felt the slightest sense of not being welcome in Canada. Many years ago I moved from the South to the North of England, and I felt ever so much more a stranger north of the Trent than I have ever felt north of the St. Lawrence. Very thankfully I testify that never since I landed at Quebec, twenty-six years ago, have I said a word against conditions in Canada. Never a word has been said to me personally that I could resent. But there are others.

I know a man who has become as keen a Canadian as I have, who, with his wife, began life in Ontario on a farm. They are good people, who do good to others and who are already better off than they ever hoped to be in England. They left the farm because they were continually subjected to nagging about their nationality. For the sifs of others they were called "chirpers" and other names. You asked us to come. The Government has spent millions and millions of dollars in inducing British-born people to forsake friends and homes and traditions and places consecrated by sacred dust, and help to build up Canada. The Dominion has become prosperous because the immigrant, the chirper, as well as the capitalist, has arrived. Never forget, brother, that he was besought to come by you, through such people as Lord Strathcona and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. These great men have looked for assets for Canada; for an impetus to your prosperity. Be gentle in your attitude to the people who come from the same land that your ancestors came from. Let patience have her perfect work in you, in them. Ask yourself how you would get along if you were dumped into a Yorkshire manufacturing town and sent to work in a mill, and expected to become a Yorkshireman in five or six days.

Two—I am a Canadian because I know Canada. They know not England who only England know. They know not Canada who only their province know. The Englishman who finds himself, say, in Southern Saskatchewan, for a year or two, and who visits the Old Country, says, "In Canada they do this and that." He will describe an ox harness, for instance. He does not know that in Nova Scotia they strap a yoke tight to the oxen's horns; and they also shoe each ox with eight iron shoes. To him the little bit of Canada he has seen is the whole of Canada.

Will you forgive me if I state the simple truth that a great deal of Canadian pride is nourished on a little knowledge of Canada. We can't all know the country, because if everybody would stand still at the time there would be a standstill to industries on which the country prospers. That means that there is something of a responsibility upon those who have seen much of the country to help the less fortunate to realize what a noble future it may make its own.

It was by a fortune I never deserved, that I went through the mill of pioneering in the West between 1885 and 1891, and that, after fourteen years' absence I came back, journeyed for three months all over the country, and finally settled in Toronto; and that in six years I have travelled a hundred and forty thousand miles between Halifax and Victoria.

Of deliberate choice, then, I brought my family to Canada. They do not want to go back to the land of their birth. We do not speak of England as "home." This is our home. We want no other. Our settlement has been consecrated by the advent of a little Canadian-born girl, who began life sturdier in body than either of her sisters. She will be able to sing of Canada as her native land. I am glad of it. You see, we combine the British-born and the Native-born. And behold it is good—very good.

Canadian Nationality In Double Harness

By ARTHUR HAWKES.

You cannot wisely consider Canadian nationality without keeping in the front of your mind the division of Canadians into those who couldn't help being Canadians and those who could—the native-born and the immigrant.

Don't be scared by the immigrant. It is bad for you and worse for him. And don't think you know all about the immigrant host and their country just because you lived a green Englishman from a city, who didn't know how to put a collar on a horse.

Perhaps you never saw a Doukhobor, or a Galician, or a Bukovinian, or a Ruthenian. Thousands of these people, scattered over the prairies are Canadian citizens just as much as you are, you lucky great-grandson of great-granddaughter of a United Empire Loyalist.

They will vote on Reciprocity two thousand miles from where you are. One of these days a full-blooded Doukhobor will sit in the House of Commons. I have an excellent friend in the Saskatchewan Legislature—a Ruthenian—who couldn't speak a word of English a few years ago. It isn't far, you know, from the Assembly to the Commons. The Chairman of the Licensing Commission of the Province of Saskatchewan is a German who came from the Fatherland to Minnesota, was naturalized, and elected a senator, left Minnesota for Saskatchewan, and was naturalized again.

The largest place of public assembly in Port Arthur is owned by Icelanders. In Vancouver I could take you to a Chinese theatre where two performances daily are given. The Japs is almost as numerous as the Chinaman in the salmon fisheries of British Columbia. The Hindoo's turban has become a commonplace on the Pacific Coast.

Down in Nova Scotia travellers not infrequently hear people speak of going to Canada, when they mean another province in the confederation of which Nova Scotia has been a constituent for forty years. On the prairies you will find a foreign flag exalted; I had almost said worshipped, in uncounted homes. At Red Deer, in deference to foreign sentiment, they stopped singing songs in harmony with the flag that has these thousand years braved the battle and the breeze. Canadian nationality is marching in double harness; with these imported elements in the team.

I tell you Canada is infinitely more than an Ontario concession line, a little red school house and a Loyal Orange Lodge. What is to be done about the amazing medley of kindreds and tribes and tongues which I have hinted at, and for which the Bible Society prints the Scriptures in seventy different languages? And, mind you, there is more than the differences of race and language between you and your fellow-citizen from the South of Europe who flourishes alongside the South Saskatchewan. He comes from a country you never saw to a country you have never seen, and he knows nothing of the distinctions of the country you inhabit. The prairie country and the mountains are apt to produce people different in their make-up from the dwellers in the east.

A high railway official who came east two years ago, had never seen apples growing on the trees. The non-English speaking people who have come to the country where he was born are twice as unfamiliar with the east as he was. It is something of a job in Canadian development to get all those people up there to live like you live, think like you think, and see things as you see them. And they are Canadians with full rights—citizens. Their children are the native-born, even as your children are. What do you think about it?

What ground can we line them up on so that they will stand where we stand, and be governed by the same well-springs of patriotism that move us? You perceive it must be broad ground on which to stand, and a big high ideal at which to look. And don't forget this—the imagination of their children must be nurtured. How can anything be accomplished in face of the tremendous differences between them and us?

Somewhat, soon, we have got to get all Canadian citizens thinking about the same thing. We have got to have a common ideal about our country—their country, speakers of broken-English; owners, absolute owners of Canadian soil, that they are. They must be helped to become good Canadians.

But what is a good Canadian? Answer me this—What do you mean when you stand up and sing "God save the King"? The King is on the other side of the ocean, and you perhaps are a thousand miles from salt water. On the other side of the world people are singing "God save the King" exactly as you sing it. What have you to do with them? What have they to do with your Bukovinian fellow-citizen over on the Saskatchewan?

It is a mighty curious thing this Canadian nationality in the progress of which you have harnessed yourself with the crowd of aliens to your ideas who have come to the Dominion from all the corners of the earth. You are sure about your own Canadianism. But what about theirs? It is up to you; for you asked them to come in, you know.

Suppose you talk it over with those Scotch and English fellows of your acquaintance. And ask your Irish friend to talk about it.

CHAPTER I. A Bad Start

"I am afraid that you are a poet, Miss Clifford." "What do you mean, Mr. Anstruther?" "To be polite to a young lady with an imagination. Did you not tell me when I was in Larkshire, that it never rained in British Columbia? Don't you remember how blue your skies were when you were six thousand miles away from them? May I be permitted to ask if this is a fair sample of your Eden?" The speaker, a tall, slight man, of not more than twenty-three, stood beside an up-country cart, the collar of his waterproof coat turned over his ears, a wet cigarette drooping from his lips, and an icy sleet storm driving into the back of his neck, in spite of his endeavors to keep it out. "Every line of his thin, well-bred face expressed discomfort and disgust, whilst the smartness of his get-up emphasized the roughness of his surroundings. The ladies he was addressing, in spite of the disadvantage of sex, seemed infinitely more in their element than he did.

"Does it never rain in England, Mr. Anstruther?" "Yes, but we admit it, though I never saw anything like this in that much-maligned country. I suppose this is what you call a blizzard," and he dug his heel irritably into his horse's ribs to turn that animal's quarters more emphatically upon the slanting deluge.

At this moment a man rode up on a ragged-looking cayuse, plain headed, and not too straight in the shoulder, but quick and handy as a cat.

This man looked at the speaker with a scarcely concealed sneer upon his weather-stained face.

"It's no good staying here, Mrs. Rolt," he said to the girl's companion. "This won't let up before dark, and it's going to turn cold. Shouldn't wonder if we got the blizzard that gentleman talks about."

"How far is it to Brown's, Jim?" "Can't say exactly. Pretty Dick says we are off the trail. I guess he's right."

"What is this then that we have been following?" "A watering trail seemingly. I've not been this way myself for years, but the tracks all break up different ways a bit farther on."

The month was early October, and in October the weather may be perfect upon the northern cattle lands or it may not. There is a whisper always; sometimes a threat of winter in the air. Even in summer, in spite of the glorious sunshine, you cannot quite forget that winter reigns here at least half the year.

That morning the long undulating uplands had been stretches of sunlit purple, royal in coloring, boundless in extent, with fair brookeries of pure gold where the cottonwoods shed their leaves in the little wet gullies; now, in the grey of coming night, these uplands were wild, colorless and desolate as a stormy sea, void and without shelter.

It was a dreary outlook for the two women in an open rig, drawn by two utterly worn out horses, but it was Mr. Anstruther who roared it.

"Do you mean to say, Combe, that you don't know where we are?" he asked impatiently. "We ain't in England, Mr. Anstruther, and we forgot to order milestones when we heard you were coming," retorted the other, his color rising.

"No, we're not in England," Mrs. Rolt put in hastily, "we are in Jim's own country, and if we are off the trail for a moment, it does not matter a little bit. Which way, Jim?"

Jim's face relaxed at once. Like a high-spirited horse he flinched at the least touch of the curb, but the light hands of his Boss's wife could do what they liked with Jim Combe, the foreman of the Risky Rancho.

"I'm afraid we can't make camp to-night where we meant to. I got fooled by the weather myself. Didn't calculate on a rainstorm before morning, nor on its turning so plaguey dark, but I know you won't whine if you do get wet. You can't hunt and keep dry all the time. If you let the Indian drive and follow me, I'll get you to Riley's oow camp in no time. It's rough shelter and bad going, but it's better than this," and he shook his braids and moved on ahead of the cart.

"Do you mind very much, Kitty?" Mrs. Rolt asked her friend. "Not a bit, dear, if you can keep the peace between those two. They're just spolling for a row. What a vile temper Jim has developed since I went back to the Old Country. It's not like him."

Mrs. Rolt smiled mysteriously behind the folds of her hood, but she spoke only to the horses. "Get up, mare. Keep close to Jim. He can see through anything."

Kitty looked a question, but Mrs. Rolt's face was so innocent of any arriere pensee that the girl said nothing, but just cuddled down into her wraps to endure, as well as might be, the long and dreary drive over unbroken prairie, into and out of ravines, which by daylight would have seemed to English people impossible for any wheeled vehicle.

However, ranch horses and rancho rigs are used to such work, and the Rolt's pair scrambled safely through the ravines, though the cart swayed at perilous angles sometimes, and the water slopped about on the floor of the cart making it impossible to keep the feet dry.

After an hour of this the horses began to balk badly, and the cold increased, so that what had been sleet became hail, stinging like the lash of a whip.

"Do you really think that it is any good to go on, Mrs. Rolt?" asked Anstruther, speaking for the first time since his spar with Combe. He was wet to the bone by this time, had lost all confidence in an Aqua Scutum, and had been down two or three times, his big English hunter being as much at sea in this country as its rider.

"Do you think that it is any good to stop here, Mr. Anstruther?" The figure only half visible in the darkness ahead, reined in his horse and waited. He was too far in front to have heard, and yet Mrs. Rolt was afraid. Jim's hearing, like all his faculties, was keen as that of a wild thing.

"I don't believe that that fellow knows a bit where he is," muttered Anstruther angrily.

"I don't suppose that he does exactly, but he will find his way if we let him alone. None of us could do that in this darkness."

"You trust him wonderfully, Mrs. Rolt."

"We have known him a long time. Haven't we, Kitty?"

But the girl had nothing to say. Perhaps her sympathy and her experience were not at one. Anstruther growled something under his breath, and the procession moved on again at a foot's pace.

"Well, your horses seem to have had enough of it, if you have not, Mrs. Rolt," he said at last, as the pair balked resolutely at the foot of an exceptionally steep pitch. "Get up, you brutes," and the angry man laid his whip savagely across the quarters of the nearest horse.

It whined but stood still. Again the whip fell, and the horses backed so that the cart nearly turned over.

"Stop that, Mr. Anstruther." There was an angry ring in the lady's voice, but he was too savage to notice it.

"Pardon me, Miss Kitty and yourself cannot stay here all night. The brutes must be made to go, and dismounting, he proceeded to make them.

But he was hardly on his feet sooner than Mrs. Rolt was out of the cart, and as his hand rose with the whip in it, he was caught by the wrist, and held as firmly by those thin white fingers as if it had been a man who held him.

"You forget yourself, Mr. Anstruther. These are my horses, and I'll manage them myself. Go on and ask Jim to wait for us. Kitty and I can do without your help, thank you."

Anstruther raised his hat with a muttered apology, and did as he was bid, wishing himself back in England and pretty Mrs. Rolt at the devil. What he asked himself, did women want in such a country? However, unless he was very much mistaken, she would be obliged to call him back to those horses before he had gone very far. Such ill-bred brutes could not be made to understand anything, but the whip. But Mr. Frank Anstruther was very much mistaken. Polly Rolt was not only a superb horsewoman—as good with cattle, her husband boasted, as any cow-boy—but she loved them and understood them; understood them because she loved them. So she stood close in the deep mud and driving hail, passing her fine, soft hands over the wrenched flanks until some thrill of her gentle nature had soothed the poor beasts.

Then she stroked their drooping ears, and took the mare's muzzle into her arms, putting her face down beside the beast's, and talking tender nonsense which beasts understand.

"Drop the reins altogether, Dick," she commanded. "Now, old boy, come along, come on, inside, up there, up!" and with her hand on the mare's neck she led the way up the steep bank, the horses going with her where no whip could have driven them.

From the top of the bank a tiny speck of light showed ahead in the driven gloom.

"Jim has camped, I think."

"Just in time to save my life," said a desolate voice from the box seat. "I say, Mary—"

"Yes!"

"Let Mr. Anstruther down easily. You were pretty hard on him."

"Not half as hard on him as he was on poor Boss," snapped the other.

"I know, dear, but he is in a strange country, and things are not going well for him. He isn't a muf, really, and yet everything has gone wrong for him so far."

What Polly Rolt answered, only the winds know, but her face cleared as she drew up at the little log cabin, beside which stood two dripping horses.

"I made it, you see, Mr. Anstruther," she called in the slang of the West, "so I will forgive you. Now come and help us out of the cart. Kitty is too water logged to move without assistance."

Anstruther hurried to the cart, and putting his waterproof over the wheel, helped Mrs. Rolt daintily to the ground, as if her skirt had not been one half alkali mud already.

But she tried not to laugh, and pretty Kitty, her face flushed rose pink, and her eyes bright with the weather, made amends, loaning a trifle more than was perhaps absolutely necessary on the supporting arm and whispering:

"Never mind Polly. She doesn't mean it, but the Boss himself dare not flog the horses when she is near."

CHAPTER II. Two Stages of Development

When Anstruther had taken the ladies baggage into the cabin, a miserable log hut with a mud roof adorned by a few antlers, he turned to unharness the horses.

His fingers were numbed with cold, and none of the buckles were where

THE WILLARD ENTERTAINMENT.

A One Man Company. Yes, He Grows!

The much advertised "Man of Mystery" show materialized here on Tuesday and Wednesday evening in the Empire Hall, but in spite of the wide publicity which had been given, the attendance both evenings was not large. The "All Star Company" turned out to be Willard the Mysterious and his hypnotic subject, but Willard was a company in himself. His slight-of-hand, mind reading, hypnotism and mimicing were all exhibitions up to the average. During the second day of his stay here Mr. Willard had the misfortune to injure his left hand and this greatly handicapped him in his magic art. Nevertheless he was still able to mystify his audience. The "Yes he Grows" item was presented both evenings and apparently Mr. Willard has solved the difficulty of adding one cubic to his stature. He seemed to add some four or five inches to his height, and even more to his length of arm in the presence of two witnesses on the platform and in full sight of the audience. The mind reading, though perhaps an actuality, was not sufficiently conclusive to appeal very much to the audience. The hypnotism, however, caught on, and in this direction Willard succeeded in producing the usual ludicrous effects upon the voluntary subjects. The Johnson-Jeffries fight pictures were not produced owing to some defect in the machine, and it is safe to say that they were not very much missed.

BISHOP OF NEW WESTMINSTER PAYS SUMMERLAND A CALL.

Ten Candidates Confirmed on Sunday Last.

Bishop de Pencier of New Westminster paid his first visit to Summerland. He arrived by launch from Penticton at noon, and was met at the wharf by the Rector. In the afternoon a reception was held at the Rectory in spite of the inclemency of the weather.

The Bishop was celebrant at the service of Holy Communion at eight o'clock on Sunday, and at the eleven o'clock service administered the apostolic rite of confirmation to ten candidates.

His impressive address was listened to with wrapt attention by a very large congregation.

During the afternoon Mr. Stark kindly took his lordship to Peachland.

Mr. J. Young, of Winnipeg, after a summer spent on his fruit lot here, has returned to the Prairie City, to wind up his business preparatory to moving out here permanently.

The home of Mrs. F. J. Young at "Kenwood" orchards was the scene of a very pleasant gathering last Friday afternoon of a big crowd of Unity Club ladies. The ladies are busy preparing for the building of their new club house. So "Nuf said."

Shakespeare is credited with saying "who steals my purse steals trash." The Fruit grower says: Who steals my fruit steals cash." The other day, it is said, two ladies driving towards Penticton while passing a certain man's orchard, crossed the fence and deliberately picked from a young and promising tree the owner's FIRST FRUIT. Think of it. Now if it were boys that did it one might excuse them on account of their ignorance and thoughtlessness. But besides! There is one consideration. The parties were strangers. It is to be hoped that this fruit pilfering may not become a nuisance to the Naramata people.
