SUMMERLAND, B.C. JULY 1, 1911

Whole No. 151

Council In Evening Session Final Reading of By-law No. 34. Polling Day and Stations Fixed.

Hotel Situation Discussed. Letters of Protest to Railway Commission re Kettle Valley Railway Route.

The Municipal Council held an extra session Saturday evening last. With the exception of Councillor Brown there was a full attendance of the board.

By-law number thirty-four, "The District Municipality of Summerland Hospital Aid By-law, 1911," was given its third reading. This by-law provides for the raising on debentures seven thousand dollars for the new hospital building. It will also add to the total tax levy some $350 annually for interest on these debentures and $235.07 as a sinking fund to meet the debentures when due, in all $585.07 yearly.

Elsewhere in this issue is published a full copy of the bylaw which the ratepayers will be asked to vote upon on Thursday July 13th. The polling places were fixed as follows:—

- Wards 1 and 4—Municipal Hall.
- Wards 2 and 3—Municipal Offices.

THAT RAILWAY.

In view of the apparent determination of the Kettle Valley Railway to build their line as directly west as possible from the foot of the lake, keeping outside the limits of the municipality, the Council decided to enter a protest to the Canadian Railway Commission, and a letter to that purpose was drafted. The Clerk was instructed to forward the letter to A. D. Cartwright, Ottawa, Secretary to the Commission, now sitting at Winnipeg. He was also instructed to mail copies of this letter to the Hons. Martin Burrell and Price Ellison.

Mr. J. M. Robinson was present to discuss with the Council some means of arriving at a mutual agreement re his company's claim for the Hotel. He stated that unless some means was devised for rebating or making up the amount the water and light department were charging, his company would be compelled to close the hotel on October 1st, for the winter months at least. He felt that all the facts should be put before the people, and the opportunity given them to vote as to whether or no they wished the Hotel to be carried on and were willing to help support it to a certain extent. He was sure that Summerland did not wish to be placed in a similar position to that of Peachland, where they now see the absolute necessity of a good hotel service, and in order to obtain it many with temperance sentiments are signing a petition to grant a town license to enable a good local hotel to make ends meet.

The clerk reported having received legal advice to the effect that the Council could not legally make any special rates for water and light.

The matter was again referred to this attorney to ascertain if some legal means of meeting the situation could not be devised.

Rev. G. O. Fallis, of Penticton, preached both morning and evening at the Methodist services here last Sunday. It was the fifth anniversary of that denomination in Summerland, and special services were held. The Presbyterian services were withdrawn for the day, and the two congregations united for the day.

POPULAR CITIZEN MARRIED.

Mr. A. H. Steven went north early this week on an important errand. He journeyed as far as Sicamous Junction, there to meet his mother, sister and uncle, who have come to British Columbia to reside, and also to meet his fiancée, a young lady from Wick, Scotland. The plan is for the party to stay at Armstrong, where, after a day or two of rest, the young lady and Mr. Steven are to be married. The party is expected to arrive in Summerland early next week, how and when has not yet been made public, but whenever they arrive Alex may be sure of a very hearty reception.

Mr. Charles A. Bodie, of Vancouver, and his brother-in-law, Dr. R. Law, recently of China, have been spending the week at Naramata. They gave Summerland a call on Wednesday. It is understood that they are the "advance agents" of several families who are desirous of locating in the Okanagan, and that negotiations are pending for the purchase of quite an extensive tract from the Summerland Trust Company's estate at Chute Creek, or North Naramata.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS.

Alex. English has gone to Winnipeg for an extended visit.

Rev. F. W. Hardy preached at Naramata on Sunday morning. The new church edifice there is soon to be opened for service.

Mrs. W. Estabrook and Miss M. G. Estabrook spent the fore part of the week at Kaleden, the guests of Capt. and Mrs. Hatfield.

A "Chautauqua Vesper Service" will be held in the Baptist Church, Summerland, next Sunday evening. Special leaflets on which is printed the order of service will be used on that occasion.

Among the real estate sales recently put through here was that of block four lot 974, a plot of ten acres, one of John Davidson's holdings. The lot is planted with trees now one year old. The price is stated as four thousand dollars. G. A. McWilliams was the selling agent. Mr. McWilliams has also recently sold six town lots at prices ranging from $250 to $300, and situated near his residence.

Rev. A. W. MacLeod preached at Peachland on Sunday morning, and at Penticton in the evening, filling the pulpit of the Rev. G. O. Fallis at the latter place.

Copies of the Prize List for the Fall Apple Show are now being distributed. Any person who has not received a copy by mail, may obtain one on application to R. Pollock.

Mr. G. W. Moffatt, real estate agent, of Calgary, is having a cottage erected on his lot on Jones Flat. Mr. Moffatt is expected here next week with his family, and will spend the summer here.

The Review was asked this week of the law respecting Sunday labor. We are informed that a citizen was seen on Sunday last plowing in his orchard. It would be regrettable were this to become a common practice here, but we have no fear of that. However, it is hoped that it will not be continued. It is resented by a number of citizens who would be disposed to take action were it continued.

On Saturday last, shooting also took place on the shorter ranges, and on Monday, a few members of the Penticton Rifle Association came up by motor car to get in some practice on the long ranges, and were joined by some of the local boys.

Irrigation Expert Coming.

Prof. R. Allen, of Oregon, to be in Summerland July 22nd.

Afternoon Demonstrations of Irrigating and Evening Illustrated Lecture. Mr. B. Hoy also Lectures on Timely Topics.

The Department of Agriculture announces a series of supplementary Farmers' Institute meetings, which will be conducted by Professor R. W. Allen, Superintendent of the Umatilla Irrigation Experiment Station at Hermiston, Oregon, assisted by Mr. B. Hoy, Assistant Horticulturist at Vernon.

It is the intention of the Department to make Professor Allen's demonstrations in the application of water practical, and adapted to local conditions. Professor Allen will have sufficient time to acquaint himself with the problems of each district, and it is expected that much good will accrue from his demonstrations and evening meetings, especially as there is great need for practical information on this subject in British Columbia, as in Oregon.

The general program will be as follows:

- Kamloops, Fruitlands, July 10.
- Kelowna, near town, 12.
- Rutland, 13.
- South Kelowna, 14.
- Okanagan Centre, 15.
- Vernon, Woods Lake, 17.
- Coldstream, 18.
- Vernon, North, 19.
- Okanagan Landing, 20.
- Summerland, 22.
- Peachland, 24.
- Grand Forks, 27.

Afternoon and evening at each of the above mentioned.

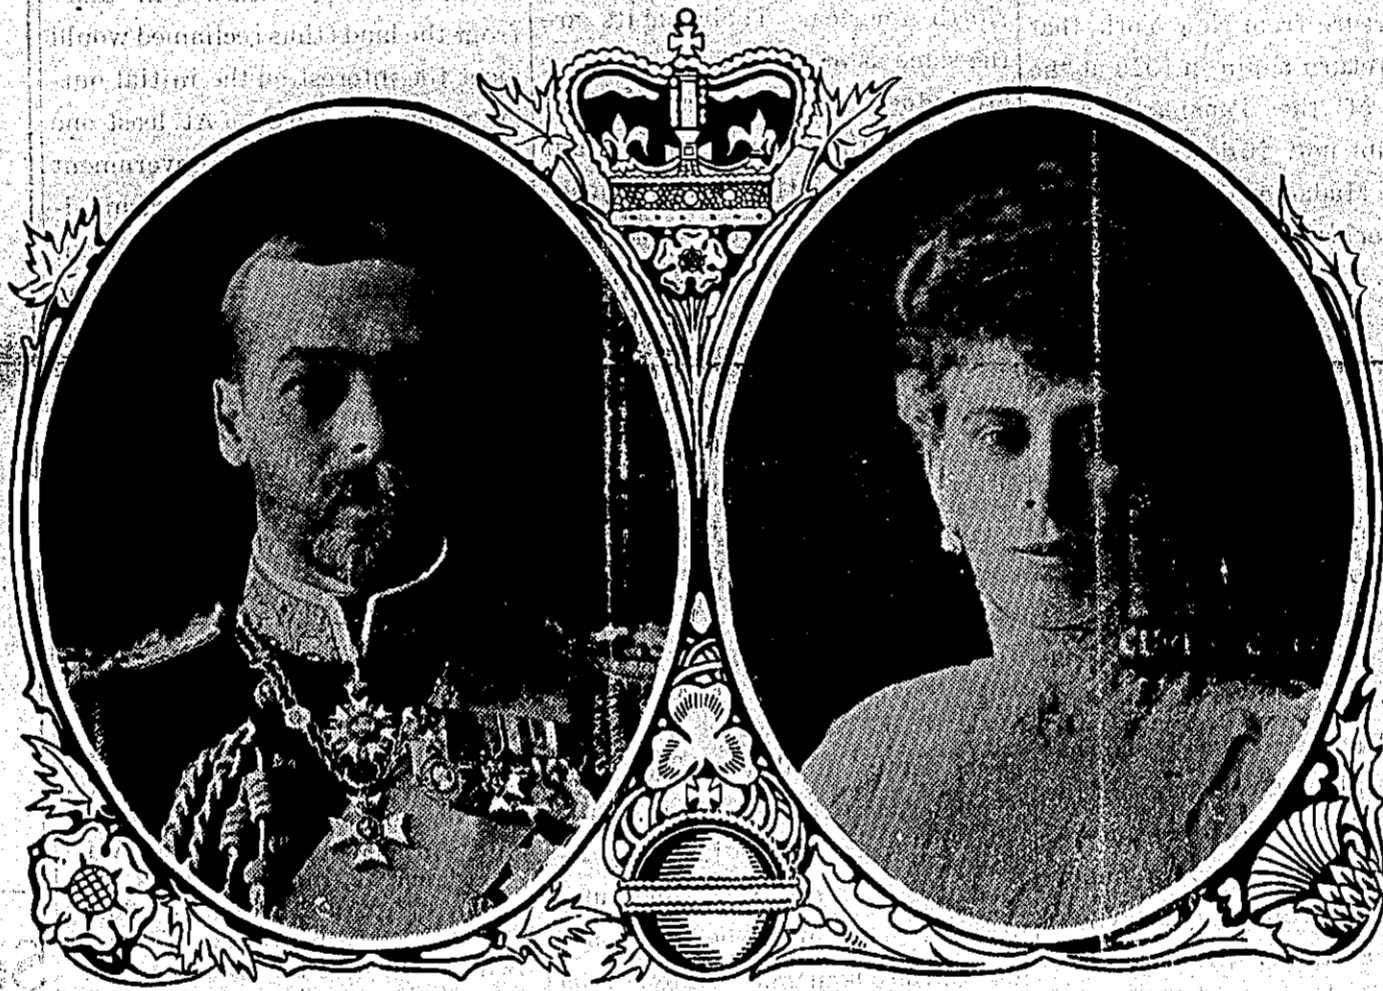

On each afternoon Professor Allen will give a demonstration of the relative advantages of deep and shallow furrows, and the proper distances apart for furrows, the percolation of water through the soil, and the economical application of water. He will also discuss many of the problems which come with the distribution and use of water.

In the evening, Professor Allen will lecture on the broader aspects of irrigation, particularly the relation of irrigation water to soils and the problems of seepage, alkali, etc. These lectures will be illustrated by lantern slides, showing the application of water by different methods, and general irrigation scenes in Oregon.

In the evening, Mr. Hoy will also lecture on timely cultural topics for orchards, including the use of cover crops, summer pruning and the handling of fruit. The Department of Agriculture, in making arrangements for this series of meetings, expects that the importance of the subject and the high standing of the principal speaker will result in a large attendance of those intimately interested in the application of water.

PROVINCIAL ROAD BUILDERS IN TOWN.

Jas. Michael, of Peachland, has arrived in Summerland with a crew of road makers. This gang was immediately put to work widening and repaving the Lakeshore Drive between here and Penticton, beginning at Agur's bonthouse, and working south. About one thousand dollars will be spent there and some five hundred will be spent on the same drive northward at Crescent Beach.

OUR NEWLY-CROWNED KING AND QUEEN.

COUNCILLOR BROWN AND WARD ONE.

Some citizens of Ward I. have been complaining because of the repeated absence of their representative, Councillor Brown, from the Council Board. The Review was able to have a short interview with Mr. Brown this week. He certainly seems like a busy man, and states that he is having much difficulty with his Indians in his census taking, and though he has been working day and night, and covering an immense territory, he has not been able to finish on time. Referring to his absence from the Council meetings he regretted this very much, and stated that had he known the work of census taking of the Indians would fall to him as Indian Agent, he would certainly not have undertaken to act as Councillor again this year. He expressed a willingness to resign if someone else would act, but otherwise, after Monday's meeting (July 3) he hoped to be in regular attendance and would look after the interests of his ward.

The local packing house of the Okanagan Fruit Union is receiving daily more orders than it can fill. A good price is being paid for cherries, which is about the only fruit moving at present.

Mr. Sauter and his company of local actors did not go to Kelowna as advertised. It is reported that some disagreement over the use of the scenery there was the cause of their cancelling the engagement.

Is the sporting spirit in Summerland on the wane? We not only have no war canoe crew, but the canoe itself will be a matter of history if allowed to pound on the shore as it has been doing for some days.

The strawberry and ice cream social was held on the lawn at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Smith, last Tuesday evening, by the Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church was well patronized. The social was given in connection with the fifth anniversary of the Methodist Church. During the evening a short musical program was given. The proceeds amounted to over $50.

Another of our local real estate men has joined the millionaire class and purchased an automobile. This time it is Mr. G. A. McWilliams who has grown tired of the more modest and slower means of transportation. Mr. McWilliams' recent purchase is a "Brookville 80" touring car, and while the Review has not yet had an opportunity of seeing this car in service, we are informed that it is an excellent hill climber. The engine is of the four cylinder type, and while rated at 30 h.p. develops considerably more power than many cars of that rating.

Rev. Dr. Craig and wife, of New York City, have been inspecting the "Peach Bolt" of the Okanagan. They were attending a Church Convention at Seattle, and having heard of the famous Southern Okanagan have come to see for themselves. Several days were spent by them looking over Summerland and Naramata with a view to purchasing, and while not yet fully decided, they are much impressed with the possibilities of our district.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

That dream of an Imperial Parliament may one day be an accomplished fact, but it is undoubtedly a long way off. The lack of any shaped policy as the result of the Imperial Conference just closed in London indicates that there are many and great obstacles to be overcome before an Imperial Parliament can be formed. The result of the deliberations of the conference was a distinct disappointment to the press of England. It is apparent that the ultimate object of the conference is no nearer accomplishment today than it was before the conference convened.

Perhaps too much was anticipated. Undoubtedly the results of past conferences along this line were for the time forgotten. Twenty-seven years ago the first meeting looking to a closer commercial union of the different parts of the Empire was held, when a gathering of the leading members of both Liberal and Conservative parties was held in London under the presidency of the late Hon. W. E. Forster. The result of that conference was the formation of the Imperial Federation League. A practical plan of federation, prepared by a special committee of the League, was presented in 1892. It recommended the establishment of a Council of the Empire on which the chief self-governing colonies should be represented, including India and the Crown colonies. This Council should deal with Imperial Defense, to which each part of the Empire should contribute. The adoption of the report marks the end of the stage of general discussions without any definite plan, and the beginning of the period for taking steps to bring the matter to an issue. The work of the League belongs rather to the first than the second stage, and as the members differed as to the best plan to be followed, it was decided to dissolve the League at the end of 1898, in order that there might be complete freedom in deciding on practical steps.

Conferences since held have not been able to decide upon a practical scheme by which the plan of the Imperial League can be carried out. The keynote of all the conferences has been loyalty to the Mother Country and a determination to maintain British colonial solidarity, but farther than this, nothing of consequence has been accomplished. Critics of the project doubt if the Mother Country would permit herself to be out-voted by a combination of her colonies, or whether each part would be willing to aid the others in matters not directly affecting itself. The various colonies have different tariff systems, some strongly protective, and it is doubtful if these will ever agree to the free trade preferences of England, or whether England would modify her policy to please them. In this respect, at least, the position taken by Sir Wilfred Laurier, the eldest member of the last conference, was quite in line with that previously held by statesmen of past conferences.

CAPRICIOUS SARAH.

Madame Sarah Bernhardt has just completed another tour of the United States, and on Friday last sailed from New York to her home in France, $340,000 the richer for her seven-months' tour of the country. The gross receipts of the tour were $916,000, of which amount three hundred and forty thousand nearly fifty thousand a month for the seven months she was away from her home.

This is a marvellous record of a marvellous woman. At the age of 67 years she is able to appear upon the stage in a tour covering seven months and present such drama as will not only astir but draw record houses in all of the large cities of the United States, something unheard of before.

It has often been asked what is the secret of Sarah Bernhardt's youth. Each tour she has made in the past ten years has been put down as her "farewell" by all but Madame Bernhardt herself. And now she tells us, on taking her departure from New York, that she will return again in 1915 at the opening of the Panama Canal. And, doubt not, if death does not intervene Madame Bernhardt will be in America on schedule time. Her tours can be counted upon as regularly as the reappearance of Halley's comet. There is this difference in favor of Madame Bernhardt: she does not dim with each successive appearance nor does she disappoint.

Forty-two years ago Madame Bernhardt achieved her first triumph as the Queen of Spain in "Ruy Blas" and won a warm tribute from Victor Hugo. She has been a conspicuous character on the stage ever since, and it is said of her that she still retains the happiness and youthfulness of a girl.

Her's is certainly a well-rounded life and is indicative of what can be done when the days are filled to the brim with useful and elevating effort, for in addition to her stage work Madame Bernhardt is a sculptor of much excellence and a painter of skill.

SIR WILFRED THEN—AND NOW.

It is difficult to harmonize the public utterances of Sir Wilfred Laurier on the question of reciprocity, whether we agree with him now or agreed with him up to within the past few months. The records speak for themselves, and they show plainly that until within the past few months, Sir Wilfred Laurier firmly set his face against any policy which would draw Canada into the commercial system of the United States. Speaking in the House of Commons in 1899, Sir Wilfred said: "If we know the hearts and minds of our people at present, I think I am not making too wild a statement when I say that the general feeling in Canada is not in favor of reciprocity. There was a time when Canadians would have given many things to obtain the American market. There was a time not long ago when the market of the great cities of the union was the only market we had for any of our products. But, thank heaven, these days are past and over now. We are not depending upon the American market as we were at one time."

Again, in addressing the Manufacturers' Banquet in Montreal in November, 1901, Sir Wilfred said: "I will send no more reciprocity delegations to Washington, and it is possible that they may come to us. If they do, we will teach them the lesson they have taught us, and we shall treat them with all politeness." Sir Wilfred Laurier attended the Imperial Conference in 1907. On that occasion he expressed himself in almost the identical words in the House of Commons in 1899, and at the Manufacturers' Banquet in 1901. Here are his words: "If we were to follow the laws of nature and geography between Canada and the United States, the whole trade would flow from north to south and from south to north. We have done everything possible, by building canals and subsidizing railways, to bring the trade from west to east and east to west, so as to bring trade into British channels. All this we have done, recognizing the principle of the great advantage of forcing trade within the British Empire. There is no boundary line except a purely conventional one over the whole territory of North America. Their habits are the same as ours, and therefore we are induced to trade, and cannot help it by the force of nature; but so far as legislation can influence trade, we have done everything possible to push our trade towards the British people as against the American people. There was a time when we wanted reciprocity with the United States, but our efforts and offers were put aside. We have said goodbye to that trade and now we put all our hopes upon the British trade."

CREDITABLE PUBLICATION.

The second number of The New Empire magazine, Mr. S. N. Daney's publication, has just been issued. It is a very creditable number, not to the publisher only, but also to the Okanagan Valley as a whole. Mr. Blake, whose work as editor of the Penticton Herald won for him the friendship and respect of all readers with an eye looking to the fuller development of the Okanagan Lake section, has taken a position on "The New Empire." With such able assistance Mr. Daney should quickly bring his publication into the front rank.

Speaking editorially of the action of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in featuring Okanagan fruit in its dining car, hotel and boat service, the New Empire brings this point home to our fruit growers. "The erection of a cooling house and shipping depot at Steamboat Junction will largely facilitate the handling of the product and it behooves local shippers to give the most serious attention to the early preparation of the fruit. From Montreal to Vancouver, both in the hotels and in the dining cars, as well as on the steamers, the travelling public will have the opportunity of enjoying the fruits of the Okanagan Valley, and this, must inevitably mean a mighty publicity force. That the fruit growers will rise to the occasion and give every encouragement to the railway company we have no doubt, for after all, it is to the betterment of their own interests as well as the interests of the district to do so.

GOVERNMENT IRRIGATION.

Concluding a well-written article on "The Biggest Irrigation System in Canada," in the New Empire, Mr. J. A. MacKevlie says: "There are at least 250,000 acres of some of the most productive land on earth within the bounds of the Okanagan, all of which can be made to blossom as the rose by the application of water. Much has been done in this direction; but much more remains to be accomplished. This district lends itself particularly to schemes of this nature. In every section of it there are mountain streams, the water of which goes to waste during the spring freshets, and which will some day be impounded and stored for the use of man. But in most cases this entails expense far beyond the reach of the owners of the land, which would be thus benefited. In the arid and sage brush districts south of the international boundary this difficulty has been overcome by the annual expenditure of millions of money by the government in irrigation works. Many believe that this policy will yet be adopted by the government of British Columbia. It would undoubtedly be a good investment as the revenue which would be returned in taxes from the lands thus reclaimed would meet the interest on the initial outlay many times over. At least one member of the present government of British Columbia is a warm advocate of this plan. The Hon. Price Ellison has on more than one occasion lifted his voice in favor of governmental control and operation of irrigation works. It is not by any means improbable that he and those of his way of thinking may yet see some of their cherished plans carried into effect."

 In presenting this company to the public the management is thoroughly convinced that the individual qualities of these musicians and entertainers will be quickly recognized. LOCAL OPTION MEETING.

Drs. Archibald and Spencer Deliver Addresses

Considering the fact that there is a possibility in the near future that the temperance advocates of this community may be called upon to stand by their principles, the attendance at Wednesday evening's meeting, in the Baptist Church, Summerland, was surprisingly small. In fact, if the strength of the cause is to be gauged from the numerical turn-out at its gatherings, temperance sentiment in our town would not appear to be strong. But we know it to be otherwise; and though there were, perhaps, but thirty people present last Wednesday evening, yet the strength of their convictions went a long way toward compensating for the small attendance.

Rev. G. J. C. White, president of the Summerland branch of the Local Option League, presided, and after a brief devotional service and a few introductory remarks, called upon Dr. Archibald, of Kamloops, to read the address he had prepared for, and submitted to the Kelowna Convention the previous day.

Dr. Archibald had entitled his paper "Alcohol, and its relation to health and disease." A medical practitioner himself, he therefore spoke with authority, and he pointed significantly to the fact that the use of alcoholic medicines was now almost universally condemned by the members of his profession. He emphatically stated that there was no such thing as "hereditary alcoholism," that no one was born into this world with an inborn craving for liquor; but it was an acquired taste, and once acquired, cultivated, not for its usefulness to the physical or nervous systems, but for its pleasing palatal and narcotic qualities, and the temporary feeling of stimulation. Alcoholism undoubtedly impaired the physical and mental efficiency, and in people were now recognizing that in this age of growing intensity, man needed keen, unimpaired faculties, more than ever before. Again, statistics showed that the immediate descendants of the drinker were not physically healthy, but strongly subject to nervous disorders, erysipelas, and other ailments, from which tendencies the offspring of temperate parents were more immune. Another sign that his medical brethren were aware of the deadly effects of alcohol could be seen in the modern treatment of tuberculosis, the first step in which was to absolutely prohibit further consumption of alcoholic beverages on the part of the patient.

Dr. D. Spencer, Provincial Superintendent of the Local Option League of British Columbia followed with a strong address. On every hand he saw great reason for encouragement. The movement he lauded was now receiving careful consideration and thought from all classes of responsible men, and as a result doctors, merchants, lawyers, professional men, were all to be found on the temperance platform, convinced of the benefits that would accrue to any community from a more temperate populace. Summerland, he said, had a provincial reputation as the largest non-licence town in B.C., and he hoped that with her expansion she would not lose that enviable distinction. Dr. Spencer very strongly refuted the statement that a hotel without a bar was not a remunerative proposition with good management. Hotels in Victoria, Vancouver, and all through the United States proved the falsehood of this assertion. He also tacitly denied that more illicit liquor selling was carried on in places not so favored. If this were so, why did not the liquor interests advocate prohibition and so increase their trade. As typical prohibition cities he instanced Riverside and Berkeley, both thriving California cities of 15,000 and 40,000 people respectively, where he had personally investigated conditions, and found that the business men of both towns unhesitatingly declared in favor of prohibition. What he demanded for this province was Local Option—the voice of the people immediately concerned to decide for a license or none. What could be more contrary to the spirit of "British liberty" than a refusal of this just demand? In conclusion, Dr. Spencer saw a great awakening on every hand, which called for a more vigorous prosecution of the work. There need be no fear that if all did their share in the furthering of the cause that our province would be lagging in the great national forward movement in the direction of temperance and moral reform.

NEW INDUSTRY IN TOWN.

Jam Factory In Peach Orchard.

During the latter part of last year, Mr. C. F. Garnett came to the Okanagan District looking over the proposition with a view to commencing a jam factory. After visiting many points on the lake, he ultimately settled on Summerland as being the most suitable place for his purposes.

During the latter season, the factory was run on a small scale, more or less as an experiment, and it proved out to the satisfaction of the proprietor.

This year a company has been formed, and they are doing things on a much larger scale, being prepared to accept strawberries, raspberries, plums, prunes, crabapples, currants (black and red), sour cherries, etc. These will all be accepted at the factory, and the proprietors wish it to be known amongst our fruit growers, that they will accept now and in the future all the strawberries and raspberries they can produce—these two being what are termed "straight lines" by the wholesale supply houses. The sale of the other small fruits as jams, depends solely upon the factory being able to supply the right quantity of these two "straight" lines.

Seeing that the fruit forwarded to the factory does not necessitate the cost of crating and shipping, and the trouble thereto attached, one can readily see what an important addition we have in our midst in the Jam Factory.

A bad wash-out has occurred on the Lakeshore Drive between Summerland and Penticton. Autos have not been able to use the road for some days.

C. Edmund Bentley went to Keremeos on Wednesday in W. J. Robinson's car. He was accompanied by his parents and two friends.

When potatoes are inclined to go black after boiling the following is a good plan to improve the color, and make them floury: Pare an hour before cooking, and put into enough cold water to entirely cover. At the right time place in fresh cold water with some salt and a tablespoonful of milk, let them come to the boil, and then simmer for the rest of the time required for cooking.

The climate and conditions that are best for apples are best for man.

The Yukon is navigable for 2,100 miles, but is very shallow across its delta, which is about seventy miles in width. There are places four hundred miles up the river where the Lualaba could navigate with ease, for there are soundings which show a 90 foot channel in a mile wide river.

DON'T MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY

Opportunity knocks at every man's door, but very often we slam the door in her face. I have for sale one acre lot all fenced and planted in three year old apples, pears, apricots, plums and peaches. Also one 3 acre block partly planted in three year old apples, pears, cherries, plums and peaches, all just coming into bearing.

As I am leaving Summerland, these properties will be sold on very easy prices and terms to suit.

These sub-divisions are within 15 minutes walk of either Summerland or Parkdale stores, are composed of a rich deep black loam, with no alkali and no stones.

They are easily irrigated by flume, and overlook the Okanagan Lake where the steamers can be seen passing to and fro.

For the man who cannot afford to buy and run a large estate; for the man who just wants a delightful little home of his own that he can afford to buy, and pay for on his own terms, that he can care for without trouble in the evenings—these lots are ideal. They will bring him a profitable income should he desire to sell, and prove a good speculation should he ever keep them.

DON'T LET THIS OPPORTUNITY ESCAPE YOU

I shall be pleased to show this property to you whether you feel that you want to invest or not. None need feel that they are under any obligation to buy.

Stomach Agony Try The Dutchman.

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion will Vanish. Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas, biliousness, sour stomach, fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, bad taste in mouth, foul breath, nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves that question daily.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of Mi-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to the Summerland Drug Company this very day and get a large box of Mi-o-na tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of Mi-o-na tablets is only fifty cents, and the Summerland Drug Company guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back. Thin or lean, or scrawny people will find in Mi-o-na a maker of flesh and blood, because it causes the stomach to extract more nutritious matter from the food, which quickly enriches the blood.

THE BOY SCOUTS.

The Boy Scouts assembled downtown last Monday evening as pre-arranged. The promised demonstrations by Dr. C. M. Smith were not given because of the showers. However, a race was run off over a 1/2 mile course, to enable Scout Master Borton to choose the four fastest boys. These are to participate in the relay race to be held at Penticton on the 1st of July. The winners were: MacLeod, 1st; Stevens, 2nd; Elliott, 3rd; McCullough and Angove tied for fourth place.

After this, they repaired to the Men's Club gymnasium, where they indulged in a game of basketball. Then, after being put through a drill the boys were dismissed.

Tenderfoot examinations will be held next Monday evening at the College gymnasium at 7.30.

Frank Williams has been engaged semaphore signalling instructor for the corps.

It is proposed to have a field day and concert sometime about July 20th. The afternoon will be spent in games and other sports and it is expected that the ladies will provide a supper for the boys. After the supper, the prizes won during the afternoon will be awarded.

These prizes it is hoped, will be donated by some interested citizens. Jack Tait, who will act as secretary for the day, is ready to receive these donations. During the evening the boys will give a concert and at the close the Excelsior Bible Class of the Summerland Baptist Church will present the boys with a burgee and colors—the Union Jack.

DIDN'T GET HOME TILL MORNING

Three members of the local band, Messrs. Harrison, Borton and Turner, are to assist the Penticton Band, July 1st, and went down Tuesday evening to practice with them. They engaged George Gartrell to take them down in his boat, and though the lake was somewhat boisterous, they had a safe and quick voyage down. The local musicians boarded the boat for the return trip about eleven o'clock. All settled down for a hurried trip home, but, lo, the engine refused to do duty. This was considered quite a joke on the engineer, who cranked and worked diligently to get an explosion. Twelve o'clock came—one o'clock—and some of the boys began to view it other than as a joke. Somewhere just before dawn the engine did start, and the boat was pointed northwards. It had not travelled far when it again came to a standstill and refused to go any farther. It was then found that an oar, the only remaining means of propulsion had been left on the wharf. The boys' surprise was great and their spirits thereby revived when Mr. Gartrell plunged overboard with the painter and towed the boat to shore. The few remaining hours before daylight were spent on board the steamer "Okanagan" and the homeward trip made aboard a more reliable craft.

The Intercolonial Railway of Canada has recently arranged to lease for a period of 99 years some thirteen branch railways, ten of which are in New Brunswick.

Construction will start this year on the Pacific, Peace River and Hudson Bay Railway, from Fort Churchill to Port Simpson. Survey parties left last week and every effort will be made to have the line in operation within the shortest possible time. Montreal, New York, Toronto and Scotch capitalists have joined those of Western Canada in financing the project and now have all the required money available.

NATIONAL FESTIVAL DAYS.

The Editor,
The Summerland Review,
Summerland, B.C.

Dear Sir:
I am rather sorry you are having no Coronation Day celebration. This is a great pity when you consider that in most towns and cities known for their progress, some kind of celebration takes place. True, you have been most unfortunate on Victoria Days, but don't you think that this was the fault of your people themselves?

You have in the Summerland Hospital Ladies Auxiliary as charming, as splendid a body of workers as any place can have. We have been favored to have them over here on several Regatta Days and the way they worked, the way they catered for the hungry crowds, and carried out the whole thing, was simply marvellous, simply wonderful. Everybody was pleased, everybody was delighted, everybody was satisfied. The ladies went home dead tired, but they carried away with them the admiration of one and all over here. Now, if your ladies can accomplish such great things, why should not their fathers and their husbands, their brothers and their cousins and their—ahem—sweethearts, be able to form on National Fete Days, a committee to draw up a truly national programme, and so make the day a really elevating one, a real national British holiday. On Victoria Day, in commemoration of the great Queen, Victoria the Good, for instance, what could be nicer than to give the Sunday School children a real jolly treat, a nice outing, beginning by singing some of those old, sweet Christian hymns, which never sound sweeter than when sung by youthful voices. Let tea and buns, oranges or nuts follow, also children's games, and suitable sporting events for children, and let the day be wound up for the grown-ups by a good concert interspersed with the national songs such as "God Save the King," "The Maple Leaf," "The Bay of Biscay," "Rule Britannia," "The Red, White and Blue," and others. The rest of the concert need not all be classical, but it should be free from all vulgar songs, or songs of doubtful propriety. On days like Victoria Day, or this Coronation Day, it should not be forgotten to teach the young Canadians the meaning of these days, to teach them what patriotism is, what loyalty means and what great advantages are enjoying by being brought up and educated in a truly free land such as this glorious Dominion. Free because it is one of those dependencies beyond the seas of which the royal title speaks, and over which the king of Great Britain rules, and because its government and its parliament is a copy of that government and that parliament which have been in force in the Old Land for hundreds of years, a kind of government which is the best of all governments, because it is government by the people, for the people.

We read a lot in these days about being swallowed up ere long by the United States of America, if this reciprocity arrangement were to become a fact. But the danger, Mr. Editor, lies much nearer, namely in the country and its people becoming assimilated with American ways, instead of preserving the old piety, the good old English ways, which have been left them by their forebears, the love for the Old Country, for its institutions, for its king, for its flag. Never mind that some of the words in the national songs, are, (according to American ideas) inane, out of place, out of date, and want moderniz-

ing. They roused the enthusiasm of former generations of Britishers to fever heat, and were ever dear to them. They will do very well for a good while longer and if the nation should think fit that they should be modernized the people can do that themselves, they do not need others to do it for them.

So, teach your young ones on National Festival Days their meaning, and delight the grownups with an opportunity of singing the old national songs which in all past times have had a great meaning for their fathers and grandfathers, and will have the same meaning to their descendants for many a generation to come, please God.

Let one and all join me on this coronation day in the old historical cry,

PRO REX ET PATRIA.

$500 in Gold For Apples.

One of the prizes to be awarded at the "American Land and Irrigation Exposition" to be held at the Madison Square Gardens, New York, November 3 to 12, is offered by Howard Elliott, President of the Northern Pacific Railway, who will give a prize of $500 in gold for the best twenty-five boxes of apples—any variety or varieties, a single variety to a box—competition open to the world. The conditions are:

The facts regarding the fruit as asked for by the judges, must be sworn to and attested by two witnesses. The fruit must be exhibited by the actual grower or his authorized agent. The grower must own the land or be the proprietor by virtue of lease or crop-sharing system of cultivation. Condition of fruit as to size and weight, appearance, perfection of type, method of packing and date of picking will govern in the award. The Competition is NOT open to dealers or any other than bona-fide growers, as heretofore stated. The twenty-five boxes may be all of one variety, or of several varieties—the latter is preferable and will no doubt act as a factor in the award, since variety helps the display, generally speaking. There must be but one variety in each box, however.

MARY'S CLOTHES.

Mary had a little lamb—
'Twas Persian—on her coat;
She also had a mink or two
About her dainty throat;
A bird of paradise, a tern,
And ormine made the hat
That perched at jaunty angle
On her coiffure—largely rat;
Her tiny boots were sable topped,
Her gloves were muskrat too;
Her muff had hands and tails of half
The "critters" in the zoo;
And when she walked abroad I wooed
She feared no wintry wind;
At keeping warm was plain to see
She had all nature "skinned,"

TIMELY ADVICE.

R. M. Winslow, Provincial Horticulturist, On The Thinning Of Large Fruits.

(concluded from last week)

WHEN TO THIN.

The proper time to thin large fruits is the month of June and the early part of July. The thinning of pears on Vancouver Island is done in May and early June.

HOW THE THINNING SHOULD BE DONE.

This question is one depending on many factors and one to which no definite answer can be given, but generally speaking, if the following principle is kept in mind the grower is not likely to go far wrong.

1.—While experience is evidently the chief factor in deciding, there are, however, a number of practical hints which will help to secure good results.

2.—The more rational method is for the grower to decide for himself just what yield of fancy fruit the tree can carry in accordance with the above rule.

3.—The first move in thinning is to take off the deformed, diseased and insect-infested fruit. In fact remove anything which, from its present appearance, cannot become a high-class apple.

4.—Only one apple or pear should be left on each alternate spur. Fruit hanging at the end of slender branches rarely grows to a full size and so should be removed.

5.—Apple blossoms are born in clusters, of which the central blossom opens first and produces the largest apple. This central apple is always more typical of the variety than are the outside ones.

6.—Plums are usually thinned to about two inches apart, though the actual distance, as with apples, depends very much upon the variety and district, and must be decided by the experience of the grower.

7.—Cherries, Apples and Crab Apples, are seldom, if ever thinned.

The only apparatus required for thinning is the customary fruit picking ladder, a bag if there are any infested or diseased fruits to be gathered and destroyed, and a pair of thinning scissors.

Naramata Notes:

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Wells, from Detroit, Mich., are holidaying in our town.

Mr. G. B. Cudham has accepted a position as clerk in the Hotel Naramata and has resolved to become a permanent resident.

Miss Short, of Ottawa, a daughter of Mr. Tom Short, has come west to spend part of the summer in the Okanagan.

The census enumerator, Mr. Murch, of Penticton, was in town on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Two students from the local school, Miss Lois Wells and Master Roy Boothe, wrote on the Entrance Examination this week in Summerland.

Miss Lillian Mason and her brother, Mr. Howard Mason, reached Naramata on Saturday evening from England. They were welcomed by their sister, Mrs. Captain Languedoc.

The report that the time table of the steamer "Okanagan" is shortly to be altered is welcome news to every resident on the lake. There never seemed to be any good reason why the boat should leave Penticton at 5 a.m., since there always appeared to be hours to loaf away at the Landing or Vernon.

The dedicatory services of the new church are announced to take place next Sunday. There will be two meetings, one at eleven o'clock in the morning and the other at seven p.m. The pastor, Rev. G. O. Fallis, will be assisted by the District Superintendent, Rev. Jno. Robson, from Vernon. There will be special music furnished by the choir, and Mrs. Walters will likely be the soloist. Then on Monday evening, Rev. F. W. Pattison will deliver a lecture entitled, "Signs of the Times." This is to be followed by a social time in the basement, during which ice cream, cake, etc., will be dispensed by the ladies. All are invited to attend and it is earnestly urged that every resident make an effort to attend this, the very first service of its kind in Naramata.

The patriotic program carried through at the School on Wednesday afternoon last—June 21—was a pleasing success. First, was the saluting of the flag by the whole school. As the colors were slowly raised, the school rose and recited with appropriate gestures:

"Hail! flag of the Empire, our joy and our pride,
Honored and loved o'er the world far and wide,
We salute thee, and pray that for ever thou'lt wave
Upheld by the Loyal, the True, and the Brave."

After this, Miss Vera Palmer sang "Britannia, the Pride of the Ocean"—the school assisting in the chorus. This was splendid. Here followed certain compositions by the Senior Fourth class on Coronation Topics. A patriotic address by J. W. A. Block, Esq., in which stress was laid on the strength and wide extent of the British Empire of which we are a part—was followed by a short speech by Mr. J. S. Gillespie, chairman of the Board. Another chorus followed, "The Maple Leaf" by the School, in which two of the very little tots, Miss Margaret Mitchell and Ralph Boothe, were introduced as the king and queen of Maple Land. The girls all wore wreaths of maple leaves and all carried a fresh maple bough. Mr. J. M. Robinson, the founder of the town was present and delighted everyone by his able and comprehensive speech. Prizes were then distributed to pupils for meritorious work, and after the final chorus—The National Anthem—all repaired to the grounds to witness a flag drill by the school. Mr. C. P. Nelson, Photographer, of Summerland, was present and obtained a number of pictures of the gay throng.

Mrs. Myers is spending a few weeks in Summerland with friends.

Miss Williams, daughter of Mr. T. Williams, of town, came in this week from Vancouver where she has completed her full year's training at the Normal School.

Extensive alterations are now in progress at the local wharf. The old wharf is being lowered three feet—a much needed improvement—the capacity is being doubled and provision is being made for the construction—in the future—of warehouses in the centre of the structure.

THE KELOWNA CONVENTION.

Mesdames R. C. Lipsett and W. R. Shields, Revs. Jas. Hood, F. W. Hardy, F. W. Pattison, and G. J. C. White, Dr. E. W. Sawyer, and Mr. C. S. Stevens, were the Summerland delegates to the Kelowna Local Option Convention this week.

The following were elected as officers for the ensuing year for the Okanagan District Convention: Mr. C. S. Stevens, Summerland, President; Mr. Glover, Vernon, Vice-President; J. Dilworth Harrison, Kaleden, Secretary; Mr. Ball, Vernon, Treasurer.

The program as published in advance was carried out in practically every detail.

Among the matters of particular interest that were discussed was a resolution asking the provincial government to introduce into the schools a Health Reader dealing with the influence of alcoholic drinks upon the human system. A strong committee, previously appointed for the purpose, had been studying the various text-books of this nature, and now in use throughout the world, and had chosen a certain publication as being best adapted for use in B.C., and it was accordingly suggested to the government.

Another resolution to be presented to the government is one asking that a Local Option Clause be inserted in the Liquor License Act, or, if preferred, in the Municipal Clauses Act.

Local News Items

The Excelstor Bible Class of the Baptist Church spent a very pleasant afternoon and evening at the Trout Creek summer camp of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Stevens on Thursday last. About twenty were conveyed thence by road and water, and enjoyed themselves till nightfall with outdoor amusements and an alfresco tea.

A certain citizen expressed his views very decidedly against the custom of "treating." He stated that he believed that Summerland citizens generally cared very little how much alcoholic drink certain individuals consumed, but when they went about the town offering the bottle to numerous fellow citizens, as was done recently, the matter assumed altogether a different aspect. "How does he" (speaking of a certain instance) "know how many of us have come here to get away from this stuff, and then to have it put before us in this manner!"

Although the authorities have had their attention called repeatedly to the Canadian thistles seen growing in several places about town, nothing has yet been done to remove them. It is to be hoped that the thistles will be cut down as they are now going to seed and will soon be on a fair way to spreading and becoming a great nuisance over the district.

The local tennis team went to Kelowna Tuesday morning. The various Valley clubs are all represented there, and are playing in a tournament embracing the district. The play will extend over several days and the local team is not expected to return till Saturday night.

A Bad Bungle In Telephone Service.

Severance of Local System and Trunk Line Causes Much Inconvenience. Messenger Service Only.

No Likelihood of an Amicable Adjustment Yet in Sight.

Perhaps the chief topic of general interest about town for some days and certainly one that materially concerns the business people of the whole community is the break between the local telephone system and the long distance wires. For a full week anyone wishing to send a telegram or to hold a conversation with a person in a distant town has had to go to the offices of the government system so styled, to do so. To all, this is a great inconvenience, no matter how close the places of business may be to the long distance offices, for one may go there a number of times before he gets a clear line. To the man who is some distance away it is particularly annoying, for though he may have a phone beside him at his residence, he suddenly finds it of no use in the sending and receiving of long distance messages, and its value in some instances is thereby considerably reduced.

The break occurred when the Government Telegraph and Telephone service office was removed from the building used by the local telephone company to the Post Office on July 1st. Expressions of dissatisfaction have been general, some even going so far as to carry the matter to the Council, claiming that the local Lakeshore Telephone Company were not giving a satisfactory service and asking the Council what action they proposed to take.

Mr. C. S. Stevens, manager of the Lakeshore Telephone Company was interviewed by the Review and was quite ready to state his case, seeming quite satisfied that no blame can be attached to his company for the inconvenience suffered by his patrons.

For the past six years Mr. Stevens has acted as Superintendent of the Government Telephone system, under the Department of Public Works, at Ottawa. One of the conditions, Mr. Stevens states, under which he acted, was that he was permitted also to manage his own company's affairs until such time as the business of one or the other became too large for one supervisor. Mr. Stevens said that that time has already arrived as the Lakeshore Telephone Company's business has attained such proportions as to require all his time. Because of this, he arranged with the Department to relieve him on the first of May last. It was not, however, till the latter part of the month that he was finally relieved. Under his superintendency, the long distance or Government local agency has been in the same building, with the superintendent's office in the Lakeshore Telephone Company's building, here. When the new superintendent took charge, Mr. Stevens states that it was arranged with the local company to retain the operating room at a monthly rental of $10.00, and also, with the young lady who acted as local agent, to continue her services, so that, as far as the local service was concerned conditions would continue as previously. It was not till the 15th of June when Mr. Stevens says he received a letter from the acting superintendent to the effect that the local office would be in the Post Office on and after 1st of July, that he became aware of the fact that any change was contemplated. This letter did not state that the services of the local agent, who was also interviewed

Postmaster Hayes was questioned about the matter, but was not inclined to be quoted, fearing matters might not be bettered thereby, particularly as to any element of personal feeling. He corroborated the facts as above stated in regard to the installing and removing of the phone, which he had put in for his private use, stating that this was solely for the convenience of himself and daughter, so that they might communicate one with the other when one was at home and the other at the office, and to enable them to call up those at home at any time. The putting of the phone in the office was known to the Review at the time, but Mr. Hayes requested that the fact be not made public, as it was not intended for public use. He says that he assured Mr. Stevens that he did not purpose using it for the transmission of messages and later, when he was presented with a contract with the following clause added, he took it as a personal insult, questioning his integrity, and refused to sign other than the regular contract. This is the "ridiculous" to which the Postmaster took exception. It is expressly agreed between the parties to this contract that this line is not to be used for the expedition of delivery of telegrams emanating from long distance lines. Mr. Hayes takes the stand that he should not be asked to sign a contract any different from that required from any other user of the service, and that if he misused the phone the company would only then have cause to bind him by special conditions.

Asked as to why there had not been the usual connections made with the local system, Mr. Hayes replied that he did not know. His superintendent had received a letter from the manager of the local company dated June 17th, a copy of which had been forwarded to him. In this letter Mr. Stevens is reported to have said that after the superintendent had moved the office from the company's building, he (Mr. Stevens) would have a toll line nickel in the slot machine installed in the new office for the convenience of the agent, this to take effect July 1st, 1911. Why this had not been done Mr. Hayes did not know.

The Review suggested that since the connection had not been made it might be to the best interests of his system that the superintendent or other official, formally apply for the local connections do not much concern the government, they feeling that in providing the service they do in delivering messages to any town, that they have done all they should do, and that any means of a local convenience should be arranged for locally.

Mr. Hayes states that the government system has an office in Summerland and is prepared to do business with the local system, which is desired, would be simply and solely for the benefit and convenience of the subscribers to that system. "As a matter of fact," said Mr. Hayes, "I have heard in my time of a good many applications for connections with trunk lines both telephone and telegraph, some of them not successful, but I have yet to learn of the reverse situation."

"A notable case which comes to my mind was that of the Bell Telephone Company, of Port Arthur, Ontario, whose application for connection with the C. P. R. wires was refused. This was before the Railway Commission of the House of Commons for a long time, for years, I think, but was finally decided in favor of giving the connection desired by the local system.

The Review endeavouring to learn of the rules of the government in regard to the delivery of messages over their wires, finds that the Public Works Department's instructions to agents in incorporated communities are to deliver by messenger or otherwise to addresses within half a mile radius of the office. Outside of that must be provided for either by the receiver or sender. Such a service is now being given here. In view of the above, any movement for an improvement seemingly must come from a local source.

In a later conversation with Mr. Stevens, he told the Review that, with the permission of the Government agent, he purposes installing the slot machine in the long distance office immediately on its arrival. Also, as a part of this instrument there would be a plug attachment enabling the agent to give subscribers close connection with the trunk line. Asked as to the toll on the incoming "collect" telegrams, he said that in no case would any charge be made to a subscriber, and only on prepaid messages would tolls be charged. He had already notified the C. P. R. superintendent at Vancouver and the government superintendent at Kamloops of the intention of the local exchange to charge these tolls.

TEACHERS ENGAGED.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of School Trustees, the applications for positions on the teaching staff were received and dealt with. The application of Mr. Hunting, formerly of the Vernon High School, for the principalship of the High School here was accepted.

Douglas M. Brown, recently of the Underby teaching staff, was the successful applicant for the principalship of the Public Schools.

SUMMERLAND FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The attention of the Institute members and fruit growers generally is directed to the Irrigation Demonstration, to be held on the Colwell Orchard, Block 83, Lot 455, by Prof. R. W. Allen, Superintendent of the Umatilla Experiment Station, Hermiston, Oregon, on Saturday afternoon, July 22nd, at two o'clock.

As the irrigation problem is one in which we are all vitally interested it is expected that a large number will avail themselves of this opportunity to observe the effects of deep and shallow irrigation, and to learn some valuable lessons from this demonstration by the eminent authority as Professor Allen. Please remember the place and date.

SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

Twenty-one pupils including two from Naramata wrote on the entrance examinations of High School last week. Results will not be known till the end of the month, but it is expected that a large percentage will pass. If so, the number in attendance at High School next year should be very satisfactory. Departmental examinations are being held this week for Junior and Intermediate grades of the High School. There are in each thirteen candidates. Mr. Henry, of McGill University came here in the interests of the Education Department and arranged the examinations. These are being conducted by Principal E. Wilson, of the Armstrong High School.

Ratepayers' Demands For Audit Granted.

Monthly Band Grant Temporarily Withheld. No Action Taken In Hotel Matter.

Reeve Must Vote. Domestic Water Extensions And Road Repairs Ordered.

The Municipal Council met in regular monthly session Monday morning. Reeve, Ritchie, and Councillors Thompson, Lewis and Dunsdon were present.

A number of communications were read, and with few exceptions acted upon. The request of J. G. Malla for permission to erect a tent on the lakeshore was granted and permission was also given to T. Collinge to build a boathouse and landing pier near the creek at Peach Orchard.

HOTEL ACCOUNTS.

The report of the citizens' committee appointed to look into and report on the Hotel light and water account was presented. This report was in the form of a financial statement drawn up by the committee from the Company's books. At a previous meeting the legality of the Council's action in making any concessions to the Hotel was questioned. At Monday's meeting a letter from Messrs. Billings and Cochrane suggesting a way out of the difficulty was presented. No action was taken in the matter, however, but it is expected that it will be finally dealt with and an answer given the Company at an early date.

The following accounts with the Finance Committee were passed for payment:

J. L. Logie, Salary	$60.00
G. Thornber, Weed Cutting	$25.00
Supply Co., Rental	25.00
Review Company	67.25
Hospital, 1810 Light	37.75
Total	$190.75

The legality of allowing the Summerland Band a monthly grant was questioned. It was claimed by the Reeve that a certain clause in the Act which was read gave them authority, but some of the Council took a different view of the matter, and after some considerable discussion the grant was withheld for the present until advice is received. It was moved by Councillor Lewis and seconded by Councillor Dunsdon that the Clerk be and is hereby authorized to get legal advice as to the right of the Council to grant aid to the Summerland Band.

When the motion was put, all but the Reeve voted upon it. The Clerk desired a full vote and backed up his contention by again reading from the statutes, claiming that each member of the Council, including the Reeve must vote upon every motion. The motion was again put to the vote and lost. Messrs. Ritchie and Thompson voting against, and Messrs. Lewis and Dunsdon for the motion.

A TIE VOTE.

This deadlock was made possible by the absence of Councillor Brown, thus leaving a quorum of four. It is the purpose of the mover to make the motion again at the next Council meeting. It was stated that a tie vote, necessitating the throwing out of a motion, is a very unusual situation at the Council meetings, and it created considerable interest and amusement.

CHARTERED ACCOUNTANT ENGAGED.

The resolution of the Ratepayers' Association to the Council, which was published in the Review under date of June 10, was read. There was some little discussion on this but it was generally conceded that the ratepayers' requests should be attended to. A motion put by Councillor Thompson and seconded by Councillor Dunsdon authorized the Reeve to engage a chartered accountant to audit the books of the Municipality, including last year's accounts.

A grant of $35.75 was made to the General Hospital to cover the amount of the water and light account for 1910.

WATER EXTENSIONS.

The urgent need of some of the Trout Creek ward residents for a domestic water service was brought up by the Reeve, and this brought on a general discussion as to the expending of the funds held for such purposes. The following motion bearing on this work was passed: That the Board of Control be and is hereby authorized to go on, at the earliest possible date, with the following water extensions: A pipeline from G. J. C. White's, of 5,900 feet more or less, running south to A. G. Munn's block and north the necessary length. Also a pipeline to Dr. Munro's block to the Saunders block, lot 3640, and the putting of a cement, core, and steel gate, and pipe in the Garnet Valley dam; and that the extension of the irrigation system on lots 1078, 1194 to all lots now under existing water contracts be made.

ROAD WORK ORDERED.

The Public Works Department was also instructed to proceed with the repairing of roads, between Elliott's store and the end of Prairie Valley. Some seven hundred dollars is to be spent and a like amount on the road between the West Summerland branch of the Supply Company's store and the end of Garnet Valley. A further amount of five hundred dollars will be expended when the committee shall find necessary. These amounts—$1,900 in all—together with some $600 already expended, takes up the amount allotted to the Council by the Provincial government for roads. It was not till one o'clock that the business of the day was completed, when adjournment was made till Monday morning, July 10.

NEW CAR BROKEN.

J. J. Mitchell has had as yet little opportunity to enjoy his new Brockville touring car, and this, seemingly, through no fault of the car itself.

It appears that he accompanied by the chauffeur from the Kolonna agent who was delivering the machine to the buyer was homoeward bound with his new purchase. They had not proceeded far when they met a lady riding horseback, and as her horse was somewhat misbehaving itself, Mr. Mitchell attempted to apply the emergency brake. In doing so, he suddenly reversed the engine instead, and at the same moment the chauffeur reached over and speeded up the motor. Another wrong move. The sudden reversing under increased power broke the driving shaft badly.

"Do not stretch horses. To give the garment that much destral stiffness iron it, while it is damp, and until it is perfectly dry."

FOREST PROTECTION.

In a recent address at Vancouver, the Hon. W. R. Ross explained lucidly the importance of better protection from fire of the great timber resources of the province and outlined the government's policy in dealing with the problem. In this address Mr. Ross said that while the newspaper men of the province were never tired of telling of the tremendous commercial importance of the natural resources of the province, he felt that the public interest in these resources had not been awakened sufficiently from the standpoint of the real property value of these resources to every individual citizen in the province. This, he said, was particularly true in regard to the timber wealth of British Columbia. "Every British Columbian," he said "in his capacity as citizen is an owner of timber—standing timber, merchantable timber—timber that already pays one-third of his taxes and every year provides the public treasury with two and a half million dollars for opening up the country, timber that provides one of the most marketable public endowments that any nation has ever had."

"My criticism," he went on, "is that the average citizen knows next to nothing about all this; takes little interest in a great property in which he is a shareholder, and that the press do not do enough to arouse his interest," and he added that he would like to see more general knowledge and more lively discussion about matters of forest policy.

In this connection it will be interesting to note that the total revenue derived from the timber cut in the year 1910, together with the timber licenses and other fees paid by the lumbering industry, amounted to $2,056,644. In view of this great annual yield of the lumbering industry to the province these remarks of the Chief Commissioner of Lands are particularly to the point:

"And what are you doing to protect your forests? What has anybody done in the past? The answer is just this,—nothing was done in the past, and in spite of our efforts as a government, you, as citizens, are doing very little now. Forest property has been treated, and is still treated, with shameful and hardly believable neglect."

"Careless campers will light fires in the brush and leave them to spread and devastate stretches of our choicest timber; conflagrations will be sown broadcast by defective locomotives and logging engines in spite of every effort of the Government to detect and punish the persons responsible. Tenderfoot ranchers will 'take chances' and be virtuously astonished when the putting out of their fires costs thousands of dollars of public money."

Many an honest citizen will conceal what he knows about the cause of bad forest fires for fear of making an enemy of the man who started it, or in order to "let the poor fellow down easy." People will stand looking on at forest fires and wonder when the warden will arrive to fight them or try to hold him up for fancy wages when he asks their help. By the end of the season careless citizens will have shot several million dollars' worth of our natural resources out of existence—into smoke. All this will happen, and the reason for it will be carelessness—just rank carelessness.

"This is our great weakness as a people—we are careless about our great inheritance of timber, and we tolerate each other's carelessness. Public opinion is all-important in the prevention of forest fires. Orators may thump the drum of eloquence; governments may strive to do their utmost—as the present government is doing—to save the forest, but in the long run success depends upon a very commonplace matter—the amount of care the average citizen can be induced to exercise when using fire near the woods; care with matches and burning pipes and cigarettes; care with camp and clearing fires; care with donkey engines and locomotives. Every man, woman and child in the province can do a little to help protect the forests.

"Moreover, in British Columbia, the lumber and timber owners have not organized themselves into voluntary fire protective associations as the lumbermen of Washington and Idaho have so successfully."

BEE KEEPING IN OKANAGAN.

No "side line" for the Okanagan orchardist is as good a revenue producer or as interesting to engage in as that of bee keeping. The market for the product is ready and almost limitless, and the crop, not being perishable, can be handled without loss and with the certainty of profit. Bee keeping is not only a profitable industry of itself, but adds very largely to the output of the orchard, for it is well known that the homely bee is the best insect pollinator. It would seem, therefore, that the orchardist without an apary in his orchard is losing at both ends of the string—losing the profit that there would be from the product of the bees and losing because of the lack of the proper pollination of the fruit blossoms.

F. Dundas Todd has just issued, through the Department of Agriculture, Bulletin No. 30, dealing with the subject of Beekeeping, which should be studied by beekeepers throughout the province, and those contemplating getting a start in the industry. In this bulletin, Mr. Todd gives a wealth of information on the subject, covering every stage of the industry, from the start of the first hive to the feeding of the bees and the care of the hives and the marketing of the honey. Summerland is credited with the greatest number of beekeepers of any city in the province, the following being mentioned: F. J. Nixon, Miss V. Cartwright, R. Pollock, M. Tait, B. H. Sherk, A. Fraser, W. H. Hayes, T. P. Thornber, A. Steuart, J. Gartrell, Alf. Aveson, F. W. Bentley, B. H. Sharp, H. Bristol,

T. Niven, J. Dunsdon, Dr. Sawyer, Rev. G. J. C. White, Geo. Sinclair.

WORKING ITSELF OUT.

All thinkers and readers of the weighty books have been more interested or less in reading the works of Prof. Rudolph Encken, the great German philosopher, and one of the greatest living today. Prof. Encken recently visited England and in an address in London on the subject of "Religion and Life," allied himself clearly on the side of the many prophets who have arisen of late to tell us that Christendom is emerging from the materialistic, mechanical age into a new epoch of religious faith.

"A change is coming in England and Germany," he said. "We are on the eve of great things in religion. Materialism is on the point of working itself out as a theory of the universe and of life. New convictions and values are arising on the horizon, and the old hindrances are beginning to crumble down when confronted with the new Christian idealism. I believe that, in spite of all opposition, the future belongs to Christianity if Christianity remains true to its inmost kernel. That is the only condition for its conquest of the world. Christianity must recover what belonged to its very nature at its source, and what has remained alive in it along the ages, in spite of the many alien forms which have interweaved themselves in this spiritual substance. But great changes will have to take place in the form of Christianity. The old form does not correspond any longer to the demand of the universal situation of the world. If Christianity will in the future remain tied to the old forms, it will not achieve for humanity what it can and ought to achieve."

HONORING A FRIEND.

Hon. T. Mayne Daly, late Police Magistrate of the city of Winnipeg whose death took place ten days ago, was a man of great sympathy, great wisdom and great faith. His love for and his faith in his fellows, and particularly the "down-and-out," made him the recognized friend of the friendless, the father of the weak and wayward. No finer tribute could be paid the man than the many expressions of love which came spontaneously from the poor as they looked upon the remains lying so white and still in the black casket. There were many little incidents which proved how deeply was the late magistrate loved by the people, and most noticeable among these was the number of ladies who brought their children. The Winnipeg Telegram tells of one tired and worn little woman dressed in a shabby dress of rusty black, which had evidently been put on for the occasion. She lifted up her little girl of seven years and whispered, "Look, darling, he's only asleep now, but papa and ma will see him again some day. But for him your papa would not have been with you now."

One old colored woman stopped for rather a long time by the casket and was gently asked to move away by the officer as the crowd was growing larger every minute. "Why sure," she answered, "what'll we do now? He understood us. He stood for us, too. Amen." The appointment of Hon. D. M. Walker, late senior county judge of Winnipeg, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Magistrate Daly, is one that tells of the people's love for the dead magistrate as well as indicating the esteem in which Judge Walker is held by the city of which he has been resident for forty years. All who know Judge Walker cannot fail to see in his acceptance of the office the tribute he would pay to his departed friend of years standing.

MR. BORDEN'S POSITION.

There can be no mistaking the feeling in the west in regard to reciprocity. If Mr. Borden's reception at Winnipeg recently is indicative of anything it is that the people of Canada are in hearty accord with him on the reciprocity question. And Mr. Borden has not minced matters in stating his position. He is unalterably opposed to reciprocity, first, last and all the time. This stated, Mr. Borden then places himself on record in the matter of other legislation considered beneficial to Canada. There is nothing extravagant about Mr. Borden's promises. He calmly states what he will do if called to power by the Canadian people.

"Those who know Mr. Borden," says the Winnipeg Telegram, "know that he would not go back on any promise he made if he could, and those who do not know him may rest content that from the manner in which these promises were made that he could not go back on them if he would. He, and with him, the Conservative party, are on record in no uncertain manner. This is no light thing when it is remembered that the pledges of the party cover the transfer of their land and resources to the three western provinces, the extension of Manitoba's boundaries, the immediate construction and government ownership and operation of the Hudson Bay Railway, government ownership and operation of elevators, and the establishment of the chilled meat industry.

These things, all in line with Canada's national development, are a pretty fair substitute in themselves for the stale cookey of reciprocity at which Uncle Sam has been persuaded to allow the Canadian child to nibble, so long as the Canadian child is good according to what Uncle Sam's idea of goodness is."

Boy Scouts Capture Hold-Up Man.

Mr. George Bell, Chief of Police of Red Deer, Alberta, was shot by a masked highwayman last week and may die. George Munro, a tallor, and a printer named Grant were on their way home when a masked man pointed a gun at them and ordered them to hold up their hands. They did so. The police chief came upon them suddenly and made a dash at the robber, who turned and fired, the ball going through the officer's abdomen.

Within six hours of the shooting the Boy Scouts of the town rounded up Arthur Francis Kolly and the police think they have their man.

After a visit from the Rev. J. W. Aitken, Kolly admitted his guilt and penned a letter to Chief Bell asking his forgiveness, saying he did not mean to shoot him, but only fired to scare him.

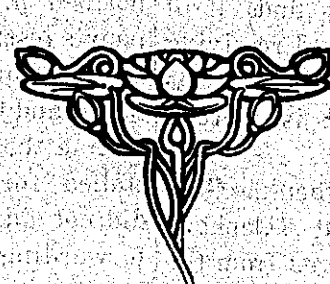

Use hot water for all things that grow under ground, such as potatoes and turnips, and cold water for those growing above ground.

Apple orchards are better nurseries for citizenship than the decks of battleships or military camps.

MUNICIPALITY OF SUMMERLAND.

BY-LAW NO. 34.

A By-law to raise $7,000 to aid the Summerland Hospital.

WHEREAS it is deemed expedient in the interests of the District Municipality of Summerland to grant $7,000 in aid to the Summerland Hospital;

AND WHEREAS it is necessary for the purpose aforesaid to raise by way of loan upon the credit of the said Municipality the sum of $7,000 payable on the first day of August, A. D. 1911, bearing interest in the meantime at the rate of five per cent. per annum, the principal of such loan when raised to be applied for the purposes aforesaid;

THE BOY SCOUTS.

It has been remarked that the Boy Scouts played a very prominent part in the Dominion Day celebrations at Penticton last week-end. The first aid to the injured, and the life-saving demonstrations given by the troop of that town proved the usefulness of the boy scout in times of most ordinary emergency; and thus the movement has earned the right of existence by its proven utility. And an organization that at so early a stage in its development can show such usefulness, would certainly appear to have a promising future.

One feature of the Boy Scouts' part of last Saturday's celebrations in our sister town was a half mile relay race by teams of four representing the Summerland and Penticton troops. The local team, consisting of Messrs. MacLeod, Steuart, Stevens and Elliott well upheld the reputation of their town by winning the race with a margin of some sixty or seventy yards, each individual runner gaining on his opponent. The prize was a cash premium of $8.00.

About thirty turned out to last Monday's drill in the College Gymnasium, and entered enthusiastically upon their exercises. Scout Master Borton gave them some marching formations and instructed the scouts to bring their staves with them to the next drill. These staves, six feet long and about one inch in thickness, must be made by the scouts without any assistance. Rev. Jas. Hood gave the boys a few words of earnest exhortation, and Frank Williams, semaphore signal instructor, put them through their first semaphore drill. Four scouts also tried their tenderfoot test.

There will be a meeting of the Local Council this evening, (Friday), at eight o'clock, at Mr. Pattison's, Shaughnessy Avenue, and an hour previous to this meeting, the scouts will gather at the same place to carry out a program that has been prepared for them.

Two big events loom up in the near future for the local troop. Preparations are already on foot for the holding of a Field Day, about two weeks hence, on the College Campus, West Summerland, when athletic events and various scout contests will be carried out for prizes generously donated by the business men of the town.

Then during the first week of August the troop, joined, it is expected by the Penticton Scouts, will camp at Trout Creek. Regular military discipline will govern the campers, and all who have participated in encampments of this nature know the good time that is in store for the boys. Full particulars of these two events will be announced later.

Another example of the hold the Boy Scout movement has taken upon the world is seen in the announcement that the University of California has added to its curriculum a course in Scouting, to train young men to become Scout Masters. The course will go thoroughly into the activities of the Boy Scout organization, and will equip men in the methods of handling boys and developing them along the lines worked out by the leaders of the Boy Scout movement.

Miss Adelaide Hayward returned from a brief holiday with Peachland friends.

Mr. R. H. King is having a fine large verandah added to his spacious bungalow.

Mr. W. J. Robinson was a business visitor to town on Wednesday.

Mr. W. W. Mitchell has a fine carriage added to the equipment of his ranch.

The Post Office Department are advertising for tenders to carry the mail in Naramata to and from the wharf.

Mr. D. Wilkins, senior, of Penticton was in town on business on Tuesday.

Ho! For the Thirteenth of July! What about it? Why the picnic by the Unity Club ladies. Next Thursday on Mr. Robinson's spacious Summerland grounds. Every preparation is in progress, and if weather conditions are favourable, —and they will be, for don't we live in the Okanagan?—there should certainly be a big jolly holiday spent. Next Thursday, July 13.

NARAMATA'S FIRST CHURCH DEDICATED.

The dedicatory services of the new church last Sunday were carried through without a hitch—if we except the absence of Rev. Jno. Robson, district Superintendent, who was unavoidably obliged to preach elsewhere. However, Rev. Mr. Miller, of Penticton, who assisted the pastor more than pleased everyone who had the pleasure of hearing him at both services. The special music provided by the choir left nothing to be desired. In the morning Mrs. Danks, of Penticton, sang "Nearer My God To Thee," and an anthem, "Hark, Hark, My Soul," in which Miss Williams took the solo and Mrs. Walters the obligato, were well received. In the evening, Mrs. Walters sang "The Gates of Heaven" very acceptably indeed. Both services were well attended, many coming from Summerland and several from Penticton.

On Monday evening, the lecture "Signs of the Times," by Rev. F. W. Pattison was one of the finest intellectual feasts ever served up to a Naramata audience. The talented speaker was introduced by Mr. J. M. Robinson, who had been called to the chair for the occasion. At the close of the lecture, Mr. F. A. Sindaband sang "The Garden of my Heart," by Reed, in splendid voice, Mrs. Languedoc playing, as she did also for the Sunday services, in her accomplished style.

Surprised At Laurier's Position.

Attorney General Hughes, acting premier of the Commonwealth of New Zealand, describes Sir Wilfred Laurier's foreign treaty proposals as entirely opposed to the Imperial idea and a direct negation of that principle.

The Sydney (N.Z.) Herald says: "We are with Sir Joseph Ward in his astonishment at Sir Wilfred Laurier's fear that a standing committee of representatives of the overseas dominions would involve Imperial interference. We maintain that the same autonomy would exist as now with the added power of co-operation with Great Britain. Under present conditions there is no connecting link between meetings of the conference and no authority to throw out details."

Messrs. Byre and Cathill, of Peachland and Penticton, are opening up a branch of their feed business in Kelowna. They have rented the old tobacco warehouse on Ellis street and are putting in a large stock of hay.—Record.

DON'T MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY

Opportunity knocks at every man's door, but very often we slam the door in her face.

I have for sale one acre lot all flumed, fenced and planted in three year old apples, pears, apricots, plums and peaches. Also one 3 acre block partly planted in three year old apples, pears, cherries, plums and peaches, all just coming into bearing.

As I am leaving Summerland, these properties will be sold on very easy prices and terms to suit.

These sub-divisions are within 15 minutes walk of either Summerland or Parkdale stores, are composed of a rich deep black loam, with no alkali and no stones.

They are easily irrigated by flume, and overlook the Okanagan Lake where the steamers can be seen passing to and fro.

For the man who cannot afford to buy and run a large estate; for the man who just wants a delightful little home of his own that he can afford to buy, and pay for on his own terms, that he can care for without trouble in the evenings—these lots are ideal. They will bring him a profitable income should he keep them, and prove a good speculation should he ever desire to sell.

DON'T LET THIS OPPORTUNITY ESCAPE YOU

I shall be pleased to show this property to you whether you feel that you want to invest or not. None need feel that they are under any obligation to buy.

Stomach Agony

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion will Vanish

Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas; biliousness; sour stomach; fullness; nausea; shortness of breath; bad taste in mouth; foul breath; nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves that question daily.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of Mi-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to the Summerland Drug Company this very day and get a large box of Mi-o-na tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of Mi-o-na tablets is only fifty cents, and the Summerland Drug Company guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back. Thin or lean or scrawny people will find in Mi-o-na a maker of flesh and blood, because it causes the stomach to extract more nutritious matter from the food, which quickly enriches the blood.

THAT CANCELLED PERFORMANCE

(From The Kelowna Courier). Kelowna, B.C., June 24, 1911. To The Editor, Kelowna Courier.

Sir,—It is with much regret that I am obliged to cancel the performance of "The Importance of Being Earnest," at Kelowna to-night.

The reason is this: Last Tuesday I came to Kelowna and arranged with certain members of the Dramatic Society for the loan of scenery necessary for the play. Everything was arranged as I imagined satisfactorily; but to my surprise, when I arrived on Friday to make final preparations I was told that under no consideration could we be permitted to have the scenery that I had been led to believe would be placed at our service. I was shown some very old scenery and told we might have that, but I naturally refused it. A committee meeting of the Dramatic Society was hurriedly called, which decided that we could have the garden set at a charge of $25. I should certainly have paid all expenses in connection with the scenery, but that a courteous offer should suddenly be turned into a business arrangement, and that only after my decision to cancel the date, was hardly what I had anticipated. I think a telegram or a telephone message telling me of this alteration of plans was not too much to expect.

I greatly regret causing any inconvenience to those playgoers who may arrive at the Opera House to-night, to find no performance, but I trust they will see how the situation stands and forgive me for my share in the matter.

Yours faithfully,
WILLIAM SAUTER.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In connection with the subject matter of the above letter, we have interviewed Mr. D. W. Crowley, vice-president of the Kelowna Musical and Dramatic Society, and he has assured us that if any arrangement was made by Mr. Sauter for the use of the "Iolanthe" scenery, it was without the sanction of the officials of the Society, as it was not their intention to lend it to anyone, and it had been stripped off the battens and carefully put away for future service. A large assortment of other material was placed at the disposal of Mr. Sauter, free of charge, including the scenery which a Summerland company had found quite satisfactory in "The Brixton Burglary," some of the Brandon Bros. canvas and the scenes used in the plays presented by the Legge Willis Co.

When it was ascertained that Mr. Sauter was dissatisfied the committee meeting was held, as stated by him, and it was decided to offer the use of the "Iolanthe" scenery for $25, this sum being regarded as barely enough to cover the cost of mounting the canvas on the battens and taking it off again for storage, besides necessary repairs and wear and tear. The Society would have preferred not to lend the scenery at all, irrespective of the charge for it, but they made the offer to Mr. Sauter with the view of meeting his wishes as far as possible and at the same time protecting themselves against loss.

Mr. Crowley is of the opinion that the circumstances did not warrant Mr. Sauter in cancelling the performance, to the disappointment of many playgoers, especially as the members of the Society had busied themselves to secure a bumper house for the Summerland artists, and he points out that, while any amateur players from Summerland or elsewhere are welcome to use such scenery here as can be spared, it is not the practice of the Kelowna Musical and Dramatic Society to borrow scenery when they play away from home, but they take their equipment with them.

Some housekeepers prefer a piece of ordinary screening to all else for a flat iron.

A FLY CATECHISM.

In North Carolina the following "Fly Catechism" is distributed to the children:

- 1.—Where is the fly born? In manure and filth.
- 2.—Where does the fly live? In every kind of filth.
- 3.—Is anything too filthy for the fly? No.
- 4.—(a) Where does he go when he leaves the vault, the manure pile and the spittoon? Into the kitchen and dining room. (b) What does he do there? He walks on the bread, fruit and vegetables; he wipes his feet on the butter and bathes in the buttermilk.
- 5.—Does the fly visit the patient sick with consumption, typhoid fever and cholera infantum? He does, and may call on you next.
- 6.—Is the fly dangerous? He is man's worst pest, and more dangerous than wild beasts or rattlesnakes.
- 7.—What disease does the fly carry? He carries typhoid fever, tuberculosis and summer complaint. How? On his wings and hairy feet. What is his correct name? Typhoid fly.
- 8.—Did he ever kill anyone? He killed more American soldiers in the Spanish-American war than the bullets of the Spaniards.
- 9.—Where are the greatest number of cases of typhoid fever, consumption and summer complaint? Where there are the greatest number of flies.
- 10.—Where are the most flies? Where there is the most filth.
- 11.—Why should we kill the fly? Because he may kill us.
- 12.—How shall we kill the fly? (a) Destroy all filth about the house and yard; (b) pour lime on the vault and on the manure; (c) kill the fly with a wire screen paddle, or sticky paper, or kerosene oil.
- 13.—Kill the fly in any way, but kill the fly.
- 14.—If there is filth anywhere that you cannot remove, call the office of the board of health, and ask for relief before you are stricken with disease, and, perhaps, death.

An Awful Mistake.

The summer holidays were over and Christmas was coming on. Little Willie had developed a great longing for a bicycle. Two or three months before Christmas Willie began to close his evening prayer with a request for a bicycle. The weeks passed and Willie faithfully made the supplication each night. Finally the Day of Days arrived. The parents had heard the earnest prayer at the close of each day and the appeal could not be ignored. But the father believed that Willie would be safer with a tricycle than with a bicycle, and a tricycle was found at his bedside Christmas morning.

Willie wakened and saw it there. He rubbed his eyes, rose up and looked it over. There was no expression of jubilation. Everything was quiet. He sank back upon the pillow again, completely disheartened. There was no sound in his head. In a little while he sat up in his bed and looked the machine over a second time. Finally he flung himself upon the pillow with an exclamation that was almost a sob: "Oh, GOD," he cried, "didn't you know the difference between a bicycle and a tricycle?"

ALL HONOURS TO SUMMERLAND.

Local Tennis Team Brings Home All Cups and First Prizes. A Four Day Tournament For Championships.

At the first annual tournament of the Okanagan Lawn Tennis Association, held at Kelowna from June 21 to 30, the Summerland teams were singularly successful in winning all of the five challenge cups competed for, together with all of the first prizes and one second prize.

The following will show the events and winners.

Gentlemen's Singles—P. G. Dodwell, challenge cup and first prize.

Ladies' Singles—Mrs. E. R. Simpson, challenge cup and first prize.

Ladies' Doubles—Mrs. E. R. Simpson and Mrs. E. B. May, challenge cup and two first prizes.

Gentlemen's Doubles—P. G. Dodwell and R. F. Theod, the fine solid silver cup, value $200, with two first prizes.

Mixed Doubles.—P. G. Dodwell and Mrs. E. B. May, challenge cup and two first prizes.

The two second prizes in the Ladies' Doubles were won by Miss Higgin and Miss P. Higgin, thus making a total of five challenge cups and eight first and two second prizes coming to Summerland in this competition, leaving only six second prizes amongst the balance of the contestants from Kelowna, Penticton, Vernon, Enderby and Okanagan Mission.

The representative players sent by Summerland were: Messrs. P. G. Dodwell, R. F. Theod, E. B. May, and F. A. C. Wright; also Mrs. E. B. May, Mrs. E. R. Simpson, Miss Higgin and Miss P. Higgin. It is only fair to say, however, that the success attained was mainly due to the very fine play of Mr. P. G. Dodwell.

A small cinnamon bear cub was the centre of attraction on the wharf on Monday, says the Kelowna Courier, when the "Okanagan" came in. He had been captured by Mr. A. Dobbin, and after only a week or two's captivity seemed quite tame, submitting to be led about on a chain and smelling noses in a most amiable way with an inquisitive dog.

Kaleden Comments

Mr. Foss, of Okanagan Centre, paid a business visit here this week with a view to buying property. He was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hatfield.

On Friday, the day school brought its term to a close. The Trustees' representative was pleased with the general proficiency and progress shown, and warmly praised the methods and ability of Miss Perdie, the school mistress. The following girls deserve special mention: Iva Simpson, certificate for good conduct; Velma Simpson, certificate for regular attendance; Gertie Preston, certificate for general proficiency.

On Monday evening at eight o'clock, Rev. F. W. Pattison, of Summerland, lectured to a large gathering of Kaleden people, in the School room, on "Signs of the Times." So well-known and popular is this lecture becoming that one need do hardly more than mention the title and express warm appreciation of both the subject and the lecturer's admirable style of delivery. The lecture is truly suggestive rather than exhaustive, and gives unlimited opportunity to the individual to develop each theme touched upon.

The Local Option Convention held at Kelowna on Tuesday the 27th ult., was attended by Mr. J. Dilworth Harrison, as delegate from Kaleden, who was appointed Secretary during the Convention. Many places—from Kamloops to Keremeos—were represented, and a general encouraging tone marked the reports of delegates who, with one voice, spoke of progress in the face of varying opposition. The following were appointed by the Nomination Committee, for the ensuing year, to carry on progressive work among the fourteen leagues: between Enderby and Kaleden: Honorary President, A. L. Fortune, Enderby; President, C. S. Stevens, Summerland; Vice-President, J. W. Glover, Vernon; Secretary, J. Dilworth Harrison, Kaleden; Treasurer, Jos. Ball, Kelowna. Dr. Spencer, of Vancouver, Superintendent of the British Columbia Local Option League, well-known for his strenuous life and labors in the cause of moral and temperance reform, reported much progress in the past twelve months' work, but appealed for increased organized effort and additional funds to carry on the campaign. Many valuable papers and addresses were contributed and helpful discussions entered into.

Dominion Day commenced with ideal weather in the Southern Okanagan. Nearly all the people in our community trekked for Penticton, by road or water, the majority preferring the trip up the lake by motor launch, row boat or canoe, to the drive by road. Suffice it to say the day was thoroughly enjoyed by us all, the light rain which fell late in the afternoon scarcely detracting at all from the pleasures of the sports. The Boy Scouts played a part in the field entertainment, and attracted much interest. The feeding arrangements in town were good, also the refreshment department on the grounds, and the Penticton Band, with a happy selection of pieces, beguiled the periods of interval to the general satisfaction.

Each merchant and citizen should feel personally interested in any matter that affects for good or ill any particular industry in the town. If he is short-sighted he may think it concerns only the owners of the property in question; but one who looks to the future will realize that his own well-being is contingent to a lesser or greater extent upon the prosperity of all the concerns that go to make up the town's industrial element, and not even one can be lost without an consequent ill effect upon business.—Chintam Gazette.

The Cost of a Box of Apples.

The Wenatchee World says: G. C. Eikelberner takes serious exception to the statement of Peter Hovland as to the cost of producing a box of apples. Mr. Hovland's estimate was 86 cents. His figures were $300 per acre for interest on the investment, rent, taxes, harrowing, cultivation, fertilization, spraying, etc., with 36 cents additional for marketing expenses. Mr. Eikelberner in his estimate cuts out the expense of plowing, cultivating and fertilizing, holding that the growing of clover or some other cover crop in the orchard takes the place of fertilizing and makes the orchard more productive. His total estimate is about 61½ cents, divided as follows:

Eight per cent. on $2,000 valuation	$160.00
Water rent	1.50
Taxes	10.00
Pruning (average)	5.00
Brush hauling	1.00
Spraying	10.00
Irrigating	5.00
Total	$192.50

Figuring 600 boxes to the acre, this would make a total expense of about 32 cents. Added to the 32 cents are the marketing charges, as follows:

Packing	$0.07
Hauling	.01½
Box, nails and making	.13
Paper	.02
Nailing	.01
Orchard hauling	.02
Picking	.03
Total	$0.29½

This makes a total expense of 61½ cents per box. P. W. Lawrence kept very careful track of his expenses last year and they amounted to 61 cents per box. Other growers have been making a careful estimate for years past, and it is safe to say that the cost of growing and marketing a box of apples ranges between 50 and 60 cents.

Seeds of Insanity.

Seeds of insanity lurk in certain headache powders and other chemical preparations still being sold daily throughout the United States and Canada, despite the pure food and drug act, according to a statement made by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the bureau of chemistry, department of agriculture.

The defect in that law, as pointed out first by Chief Justice Clabaugh of the district supreme court, Washington, was deplored by the renowned food expert. The necessity for further legislation to correct the law so as to protect the public from manufacturers of such preparations was strongly emphasized by him. Permitting manufacturers to sell their products, derived from the most deadly drugs, without informing the consumers in plain, certain terms of the exact nature of the preparations, was the burden of the lament of Dr. Wiley.

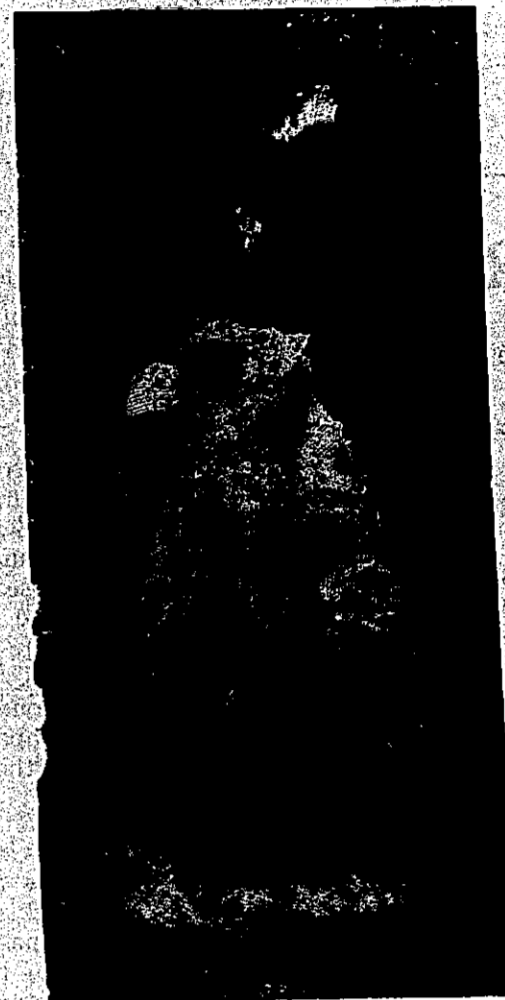

Headache powders and other remedies containing morphine and cocaine were especially referred to by Dr. Wiley as productive of insanity. There are said to be numerous patent medicines on sale through the land containing more or less of those drugs, and, according to the government expert, each and everyone is a menace to consumers. The effect of such preparations on the mind was declared by Dr. Wiley to be entirely unsuspected by their users. This unfortunate ignorance was attributed by the expert mainly to the alleged suppression by the proprietors of the name of the parent drug from which they are derived with the willful design of deceiving the public.

THURSDAY'S CONCERT.

The Cartwright Concert Co. provided themselves very pleasing entertainment at their concert given in the Empire Hall, Thursday evening. The program was bright, amusing, of excellent tone, and of a quality that would not be out of place at a church gathering. The impersonating by Mrs. Cartwright was highly amusing, and as a violinist, Mr. Cartwright is an artist of high order. The company was certainly deserving of a larger audience than that which greeted their appearance on the stage. Probably not more than half the seating capacity of the hall was occupied, but those present spent a very enjoyable evening.

Manager Garroway of the Okanagan Fruit Union, Limited, was in town this week. There is to be one sign bearing the name of the company and above that will be placed the "Summerland" sign.

The Bon Ton Barber Shop is giving up the agency for the Revel Stoke Steam Laundry. The reason given is the very unsatisfactory treatment Mr. Woods receives as agent and the irregularity of the delivery of the work by the laundry. This is to be regretted, as no matter how unbusinesslike and unreliable as to the return of work, the laundry has certainly been turning out excellent work.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Stevon arrived in Summerland on Monday from Armstrong, where they were recently married. The Okanagan, in honor of our distinguished citizen and his wife, gave three blasts as she approached the wharf, where a number of friends awaited their arrival and gave them the customary shower of rice. They were conveyed by automobile to the residence of Jas. Ritchie, and in the evening a supper was held in their honor. They are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie for a few days.

The Mission Circle of the Baptist Church spent a very enjoyable afternoon and evening at Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Stevens' camp, Trout Creek. They were joined by a number of gentlemen at supper. It proved also to be the tenth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Stevens' wedding, and congratulations were in order. Those present speak very commendably of the manner in which they were entertained and of the substantial and abundant repast spread for them by Mrs. Stevens under a broad canvas canopy.

A team belonging to F. H. Holo met with a very unpleasant experience this week, and only very narrowly escaped a very serious accident. Water had been seeping through to his lot through a leaky pipe and had saturated a considerable portion of soil to a great depth. Both his horses got badly mixed in this and were only removed with considerable difficulty. Chains were placed about their necks and they were pulled out with the assistance of G. J. C. White's team. After a good application of water from a hose they seemed little the worse for their experience.

THIEVES AT WORK.

Thieves have been getting in some very effective work of late among the orchards of Summerland. No less than three reports of wholesale fruit stealing have reached the Review in the last few days. Not only is the grower robbed of the fruit, but there are many instances of wanton destruction of the trees as well. The only way some growers have been able to realize on their cherries has been to pick the fruit when very green. In one case at least the grower has been losing flowers and plants, the latter being taken away bodily, roots and all. Even the rhubarb plants did not escape, what must have made up very large bundles being stolen. It is to be hoped that some quick and effective means will early be devised whereby an immediate stop shall be put to such a low, despicable practice.

The British navy has just taken a step unprecedented in its history. The two cruisers Rainbow and Niobe are to be total men of war, contrary to all marine traditions. Grog has always been part of the standard rations, being a concoction of one part rum to three parts of water, but no such luxury is to be permitted on the two ships mentioned. In the olden days, in fact down to 1830, the daily allowance to each man was a gallon of ale and half a pint of rum. The quantity has been greatly modified, but it certainly never entered any tar's head that the time was coming for total abstinence.

Rumors to the effect that Mr. Michael's road crew which had been working for a few days on the Lake Shore Drive between Mr. Agur's cottage and the gateway opening to the property of the Lakeside Dairy Co., were to be removed to the Crescent Beach section, brought expressions of dissatisfaction from the Councilmen. They estimated that not more than $300 had been spent on the lower section, and they had been promised that $1,000.00 would be expended. They thought that the road should be widened as far as the far-famed Gartrell orchard. They were particularly anxious that this should be carried out without delay as it is a road much travelled by tourists and visitors generally, few coming to Summerland who do not express a desire to see this, our old est orchard. It was arranged that some of the Board interview Mr. W. A. Lang, the Superintendent of Government Roads, with a view to having this work put through, if possible. When the meeting adjourned, it was arranged that they should meet again in the afternoon and go down and inspect the road recently constructed by Mr. Granville Morgan, now known as the Zimmerman Gulch Road, being an extension of the road previously ending at the Zimmerman ranch, and running down to the Shore road opposite the dairy property. Mr. Ritchie's auto took the party to the top of the hill, and the Councilmen walked down the new road, carefully inspecting it as they proceeded. At some points it was thought that the road should be widened, but apart from this the road seemed very satisfactory. It was a very difficult place through which to construct a safe road, but with the precautions which have been taken to avoid possible wash-outs, the road should be a permanent one and very convenient for residents of the district. Mr. Ritchie's heavy auto made the descent without making any impression on the newly constructed thoroughfare.

At the morning session of the Council, the Clerk was again asked if he had received from Mr. R. H. English the fines imposed and collected by him as magistrate during 1910. To this the Clerk replied that though he had written to Mr. English relative to the matter, no reply had been received.

THE BOY SCOUTS.

The Summerland Scouts' assembly in force at Mr. Pattison's house, Shaughnessy Avenue, on Monday evening. They repaired to the lakeshore where Dr. Smith gave an interesting demonstration of the resuscitation of a person apparently drowned. Eighteen Scouts tried their "tenderfoot" tests, and all passed, so that more than half the troop has now passed this stage. Next Monday evening, drill will be at the College Gymnasium, and Col. Cartwright is to be present and will inspect the troop and give them a short talk.

The sports committee has been getting to work and arrangements for the Field Day, on Saturday July 22, are now practically complete. The Penticton troop is expected up, and thus the sports will furnish an inter-troop contest. The following list of events has been arranged:

- 1.—100 yards, open senior.
- 2.—220 yards, junior.
- 3.—Hop, step and jump, open senior.
- 4.—Wheelbarrow race, open, one senior and one junior.
- 5.—220 yards, open, senior.
- 6.—100 yards, junior.
- 7.—High jump, open senior.
- 8.—8-legged race, junior.
- 9.—Relay race, Summerland and Penticton, teams of four.
- 10.—Obstacle race, open, senior.
- 11.—Broad jump, open, senior.
- 12.—Potatoe race, junior.
- 13.—440 yards, open, senior.
- 14.—Throwing the baseball, open senior.
- 15.—Wrestling, 120 pounds and under, one representative from Summerland and Penticton.
- 16.—Tug of war, teams of eight, Summerland and Penticton.

The "open, senior" events, may be entered by both Summerland and Penticton Scouts over the age of 18 years; "junior" events are open only to Summerland Scouts of thirteen years and under. All Summerland entries must reach Mr. Jno. Tait, by Friday evening, July 21, while Penticton entries will be received up till Saturday noon, the following day. Field events will commence promptly at 1.30, and prizes donated by the business men of town will be awarded. If the co-operation of the ladies can be secured, a supper and the presentation of prizes will be held in the College Gymnasium the same evening. Every Scout should enter heartily into these sports and make the afternoon a success.

C. S. Stevens Gives Further Explanation

Of Telephone Situation. Present Govt. Superintendent Was Advised From Ottawa to Change Local Agent.

Summerland, B. C., July 8, 1911.
The Editor,
The Summerland Review,
Summerland, B. C.

Dear Sir:
The writer has no desire to have his name appear in print or to rush into prominence in the matter of the present telephone bungle or to get into any tangle with the present agent of Government telephones. In justice to our Company I think I should straighten out some matters appearing in your issue of July 8, which is a matter of public concern. You caption your statement "A Bad Bungle in Telephone Service," and that one phrase is more comprehensive than the three and a half columns which have been written. That word "bungle" is a most convenient term. I must congratulate you on the general statement of the case from our Company's standpoint. Will you allow me to state just a few facts with which I hope there will be no necessity for my name appearing again in print in connection with the matter.

For six years, up to January 1st of this year, it has been a matter of convenience that joint agencies should be established in this upper country between long distance, and local companies. At Kamloops, L. A. Palmer (now superintendent of Government Telegraphs) was local agent of the B. C. Telephone Company, and also Government Agent; at Vernon, the long distance agency is held by the Okanagan Telephone Company; at Kelowna, H. H. Millie owns the local exchange, and is long distance agent. When the writer came to the Okanagan to engage in the local exchange business, he appointed Mr. McDougall of Peachland, Mr. Hayes of Summerland, and Mr. Layton of Penticton, as local agents of our company because he had previously appointed them agents of long distance lines, and it was very desirable that our local office should be where long distance could be had.

I notice in your third column you say, "Seemingly, local connections do not much concern the Government," etc. If, by the Government, you mean the present management, under Mr. Palmer, this explains why we find ourselves in the position we are to-day. If I might be allowed to say so, this was not my policy when Superintendent of the Government lines as the following instance will show.

On December 6, 1910, the B. C. Telephone Company, Vancouver, wrote me that they were dispensing with the services of Mr. L. A. Palmer as their local agent on January 1st, and intimated a desire to have me dispense with his services and make their company local agents, so that continuity of exchange between local subscribers and long distance could be had. On December 10, I replied declining to dismiss Mr. Palmer as he was satisfactorily handling our business. In the same letter I stated that whatever was done, we wanted a connection on their exchange so that the people of Kamloops could have the privilege of long distance connection. On December 14, they wrote agreeing to a connection in accordance with my wishes. On January 1st, when Mr. Palmer left their employ, we got our position on their board, and Mr.

Palmer continued as local agent Government lines, until he was appointed as my successor. Under my superintendency, I saw that the exchanges from Kamloops down, gave us a position on their boards. That policy, might now be changed, but I doubt it.

I notice you quote local agent as saying he didn't know why the "nickel and slot" machine had not been installed. Surely you have mis-quoted him. In addition to writing manufacturers for pay station machine, I wired several houses. The first message Mr. Hayes delivered me on July 1st, was from the Winnipeg House, that they had no slot machines in stock. I then wired our house in Chicago to express the telephone station. This message I personally delivered to Mr. Hayes. I think such messages should be self-explanatory as to why our machine as not installed. Ever since we knew the long distance office was to be removed from our building, we have done our best to get this pay station machine here. With telegrams, and paying express on such heavy articles from Chicago, it will cost us three times what it would have been known that the local office was to be taken from our building. Fifteen days is not much time to wire and write from house after house and then find that they haven't in stock what you require.

Allow me to correct you in regard to rules of the Department re the delivery of messages. Rule 41 reads: "Messages must be delivered free within one mile of the receiving office; beyond this limit actual cost of delivery shall be collected." Rule 42: "If the services of a special messenger are found to be required, and the charges for same have not been provided for, the sending office must be promptly notified by telegraph of the cost of delivery, and that office shall collect for special delivery." This is precisely what our company will insist upon and why we have ordered a pay station machine. If our plant, which is worth approximately $25,000, is to be used by the Government for the delivery of their telegrams they must pay for it, as we pay them for their services to us. They collect, of course, from the sender of the telegram for any special delivery charge. This explains why when we installed a "phone in the Post Office, we demanded, in lieu of the pay station machine, a guarantee that the line would not be used for delivery purposes. It is assumed by all carriers of telegrams that the party paying the tolls is the party interested in its delivery. This is why Rule 42 places the responsibility of collecting delivery charges at the sending office and it is for this same reason that we informed the Review that telegrams received "collected" would not be charged for delivery from our lines if the recipient was one of our subscribers.

But I have already taken too much of your valuable space. One word about the local agent. The ex-agent, I feel, has been shabbily treated. That the superintendent at Kamloops could have thought that I was agent is mere twaddle. How could I be agent of a line and at the same time superintendent? When my head office was at Kamloops, I appointed Mr. Hayes as agent. He resigned January 1st this year. I then appointed Miss Florence Hayes. In the early part of the year I had an opportunity to better her position and of giving her an opportunity to study telegraphy, which she was desirous of doing. I offered her a

A Growing Industry Of Much Importance.

Another Local Market For Summerland's Orchard Products. The Jam Factory in Peach Orchard.

Down in Peach Orchard there is being developed an industry which will mean much to the fruit growers of Summerland, and will be, if present plans are carried out, a valuable addition to the industries of the town.

Mr. C. F. Garnett came into the Okanagan Valley more than a year ago, and went about quietly investigating the possibilities of the various districts with a view of engaging in this trade, and after looking over the situation finally selected Summerland as the most promising spot, and forthwith erected a plant in which to manufacture jams, jellies, marmalades, etc. Last year he did little more than make a start and get familiar with the conditions of the country, and learn the markets both for the purchase of his supplies and the placing of his output.

He is now thoroughly satisfied as to the possibilities of such an industry here, and not only has he satisfied himself, but he has convinced others, both as to the profits to be had from the undertaking and also as to the great benefit it will be as a first-hand market for the products of the district. Some of our local capitalists have gone in with Mr. Garnett, and there is now in process of incorporation a joint stock company with an authorized capital of $25,000. While some of the stock will be held by people in Britain, much of it will be disposed of locally, and the business will be managed at this end.

It is expected that the factory will soon be shipping their product in car-loads to different points in Western Canada.

The company is prepared to handle fruit in any quantities. The manager states, that no lot will be too small or too large for their acceptance. The fruit brought to them is weighed and the receipt given both for the quantity and price which will be paid. At the end of each month these cheques are cashed. The jam factory has been paying ten cents per pound for strawberries nine and ten cents per pound for raspberries, ten cents per pound for black currants, eight cents per pound for other currants, and six cents per pound for sour cherries. While some of these prices are not as great as might be obtained elsewhere, the manager impressed upon the Review the fact that the sellers were not taking risks as they did in consigning fruit, that there were no packing or shipping expenses, and that the same care in selection was not required, as fruit too ripe or mixed in quality for shipping, was equally good for the manufacture of jams.

How much of a benefit this new industry will be to many of our growers will depend upon how much of the larger fruits the factory can take. By this we mean such fruits as peaches, apricots, plums, etc., and when asked how much of this fruit he could handle, the manager stated that it depended upon how much of the small fruits were brought to the factory—particularly strawberries and raspberries. Wholesalers are always ready to purchase strawberry and raspberry jam in almost unlimited quantities, but will not place straight orders for peach and plum jams. They will, however, willingly purchase a considerable quantity of these in order to obtain a certain proportion of the small fruit jams. Manager Garnett states that there is good money in small fruits at the prices which they offer and thinks that the growing of strawberries, raspberries and black currants will become general with orchardists here, particularly in view of the fact that these will help sell their own ripe ones first.

When asked if there were any particular varieties preferred for the manufacture of his product, he mentioned that the Boscog/Giant black currant was probably the best variety of that fruit, although the Black Naples was also good. The black currant is preferred to either the red or white. Among the raspberries he thought the Cuthbert was best adapted to their purposes. Of the sour cherries, both Morilla and Montmorency were good. They are also ready to take blackberries if offered in sufficient quantities to make up jam in lots worth offering. Of the larger fruits any peach with a yellow flesh is acceptable, but the white fleshed peach makes an unsaleable article. The factory will also be ready to receive crab apples in any quantity, as well as prunes and plums. Among the latter the Damsen and Green Gage are preferred.

In discussing the question of such an industry, proving profitable the Review asked if the season for operating would not be a very short one. The reply was that, beginning early in June the whole staff would be engaged for months in making up the various fruits as they came along. This would keep them busy until probably late in October. Then there would be the labelling, casing and marketing of the season's output, and following these preparations would be made for the manufacture of marmalade, a special quality of which the company proposes manufacturing. This will be carried on in February, March and April, leaving on ly May to prepare for the making of jams for the next season.

If the people of our district purpose giving this industry the support which it seemingly deserves it is necessary that the setting out of plants for the growing of small fruits be proceeded with at once, and it will be pleasing news to Manager Garnett to learn that during the next month many strawberry plants have been set out. The fact that peaches will be a comparatively light crop this year will give many an opportunity to devote considerable time to strawberry planting, which they might not otherwise have had the time to do.

SUMMERLAND FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

On Saturday evening, July 22nd, at eight o'clock, Professor R. W. Allen, who will conduct the Irrigation Demonstration at two o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, will address a meeting in the Hall of the Men's Club. His lecture will deal with the broader aspects of irrigation, particularly the relation of irrigation water to soils, and the problems of seepage, alkali, etc.

Mr. B. Hoy will also address the meeting. All friends who are interested in fruit growing are cordially invited both to the above meeting and to the Demonstration by Prof. Allen in the Colwell Orchard, at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, the 22nd inst. These will be rare opportunities for our fruit growers to gather valuable information from an expert in this branch of horticulture.

THE TELEPHONE MUDDLE

Whatever the desire of the subscribers of the local telephone system, and laying aside all personal feeling in the matter of local prejudice, if there be any, there can be but one solution to this telephone muddle.

At Summerland, where the local system is of much greater service, when connected with the long distance line, it is of very great importance.

It is unfortunate that this matter should have taken the course outlined in the last issue of the Review. We think when the question has been weighed from the viewpoint of cold, sane business, it will be apparent to both Manager Stevens and Mr. Hayes that the real thing to have been considered was the convenience of the public.

Without calling upon outside considerations, or quibbling over the individual rights of Manager Stevens or Mr. Hayes, or endeavouring to settle the dispute as to the wisdom of Manager Stevens inserting a special clause in the contract, or the right of Mr. Hayes to refuse to sign the contract with its special clause, it must be apparent to both of these gentlemen as well as to the public generally that already too much has been made of the muddle.

It is not a question for the Municipal Council nor the patrons of the local telephone system to decide. It is a matter that Mr. Stevens and Mr. Hayes should settle, and settle quickly. It must be conceded that any delay will only add to the difficulty and deprive the public of the service that the Lakeshore Telephone Company and the Government line should give.

LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE

Perhaps to many of us the familiarity of the scene has caused it to lose its charm, but to the visitor—the person looking for a home surrounded by everything beautiful that Nature can give, and backed up by a climate unsurpassed in the world, the lake district of the Okanagan Valley must offer very great attraction. And, if we are to base our argument upon conditions which have bottomed the building of every other home resort, we must reach this conclusion: that Summerland and Naramata will one day be the home of the wealthiest and most intellectual home community in the Dominion of Canada.

The delightful climate of this lake district—the balmy days and cool evenings—the delight of scenery and the shimmering sunlight upon the rippling surface of the waters of the lake—the soft mellow moonlight upon the rolling hills—and the quiet home evenings under the bowers of flowers—all tend to attract the class of people to whom such conditions and environments appeal.

We cannot escape it if we would. We have witnessed the building up of wealthy home communities in other climes. We have seen the scrub oak covered hills and valleys, rocky parched and barren, the wild lizard and jack-rabbit and only inhabitants, transformed as if by magic into beautiful homes and gorgeous flower gardens, fruit and nut orchards. And here, where Nature has been so lavish in her endowments, what shall we see? What shall we not see?

The homes now made and in the making are but the forerunners of that which is to be, that which we now see in its incompleteness is indicative only in a measure of that which is to follow. While there is no doubt that Summerland always will hold the proud position accorded to her as the first city in the Peach Belt of the Okanagan, we shall see at Naramata the beauty-spot of the Lake. And the day is not far distant when to this bright, beaming child of health and healthfulness will come hundreds to bask in the sunshine and play upon the sandy beaches with the children which, after all, is the best of medicines for soul as well as body.

CANADA'S GRAND OLD TORY

Sir Charles Tupper, the last of the fathers of the Dominion, was in the thick of the Coronation pageantry in London. He was among the most vigorous and enthusiastic of those who cheered King George to the crowning. And Sir Charles is an old man. In years he is ninety.

There were many incidents during Coronation week in which Canada's aged statesman took part. In one of these he was the central figure. That was the unveiling of the memorial in memory of Canadian Confederation, at the Westminster Hotel, in the very heart of London, and this was, in a sense, one of the most dramatic episodes of Coronation week. In this very room, half a century ago, gathered a group of men who smoothed away the final obstacles which threatened the federation of the Canadian provinces into the Dominion, and Sir Charles Tupper was one of these men.

He alone of the fathers of the Dominion remains with us. Old Sir Charles is, and strenuous as have been his days, he still has the spirit of the old Dr. Tupper of the years that are past. It is said of him that when he arose to speak the flash of the warrior was in his eye, and the same challenge of the "Blue-nose" was in his voice, as in vehement, declamatory sentences, he declared his faith in the future of the Canada he had helped so much to build.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier paid a fitting tribute to the work of Sir Charles Tupper as a constitution builder when he spoke thus at these commemorative services: "During the 44 years since Canadian Confederation, there has been only one amendment of an important character, and that came without friction and to the satisfaction of everybody. I say to Sir Charles Tupper in your name and mine, 'Well done, good and faithful servant.'"

COMMISSION OF CONSERVATION

The Second Annual Report of the Commission of Conservation for the fiscal year ending 31st of March, 1911, has just been received. It is a most valuable document, dealing as it does with the most important problems in the up-building of a nation. It deals clearly and concisely with such important questions as legislation re forest fires, development of the water power of the Dominion, progress in agriculture and mining, unsanitary housing, and all working problems leading up to the great work of conservation, not only of the country's natural resources, but also of the health and comfort of the people.

After telling of the agricultural work in Ontario by the Government, the report says: "And what is the result? Farmers who were indifferent or opposed to Government interference, and who criticized the expenditure, have become enthusiastic, the attendance at practical demonstrations has increased in an astonishing degree, and there is an awakening along agricultural lines such as we have never known before. There is something in the agricultural air that indicates progress. Intensive agriculture and specialization in production are noticeable, and where this movement is permanently fixed, there is a decided increase in farm values."

Considering the question of unsanitary housing, the report says: "The evils of improper housing and the deleterious effect of their continuance upon the individual, both as affecting his health and his morals, are now generally acknowledged; but that we should be able to say that considerable of what has been written in respect to unsanitary housing in Europe can be applied to Canada, comes perhaps as a surprise to many who may have considered that in this fair land of ours, it was impossible for such evils to grow up. It is quite true that the evil does exist, and perhaps to a greater extent than we are free to admit."

That, in the making of a nation, history repeats itself as regards housing conditions, is shown by several interesting extracts, from which we take the following. Referring to Winnipeg's foreign population, James S. Wadsworth, in "Strangers Within Our Gates," tells this one: "Stanilau Yabonovich is a teamster. He owns his own team, and his wife goes out cleaning. They own their own house and several lots. They live in two rooms, and have five rooms. The furniture consists of three beds, a table, two chairs, a stove and some boxes. The attic is full of pigeons. This, the report says, is not an isolated case, and it is such conditions as these that the Commission of Conservation must tackle."

Mr. A. C. Plummerfelt, member of the British Columbia Forestry Commission, directs the attention of the Conservation Commission to the forestry problems of B. C. "Let me summarize the situation as it existed in 1905," says he. "By that year, about one and a half million acres of the Crown timber lands had passed by sale or by railway grant into private ownership and out of Government control; another million acres had been transferred to lessees. Probably thirty million feet of standing timber had been alienated. Neither of the two forms of tenure secured to the people of the province any satisfactory share in the future value of stumpage they parted with for any future increase in the value of these two and a half million acres would benefit the private lessee or purchaser and not the Government. As it was very evident that the value of British Columbia timber would rise greatly in the years to come, it was most desirable that some better method than lease or sale should be discovered for disposing of the crown forestry. To quote the words of our report, 'the legislative problem was solved in a most ingenious manner. In the year 1905, the Government threw open the timber lands of the whole province. It invited individuals to join it in a partnership in each and every square mile of the Crown forests. There was no sale, no auction, even no lease. The incoming partners were asked to sink no capital. The investor was merely asked to register a formal application to become a partner with the government in the timber on such-and-such a square mile of the province—and the partnership was his. Stated in these attractive terms, the procedure sounds like some wild story of a commercial fairyland, where timber lands and wealth are given for the asking, but the truth is that a number of sound and useful 'strings' were attached to these British Columbian gifts. In fact, the idea of a gift was entirely absent from the mind of the provincial Government. The Government freely admitted investors into partnership in Crown lumber, it is true, but it did so absolutely on its own terms, and it frankly admitted that only the future rise in stumpage and lumber values would enable it to say what these terms should be. A royalty of 50 cents a thousand feet is the charge, and the annual payment of about one and three-fifths cents per thousand is required. Upon these extremely moderate and equitable terms nine million acres of timber lands were taken up within three years. The revenue derived by the Government from this source during the year 1910 amounted to $893,508."

Thus it will be seen that conservation in British Columbia means something. It means the application of ordinary business principles to natural resources; it means action and not mere talk; it means the expenditure of large sums of money in a sane businesslike way. It is very much more than sentiment. Horticulture is a science not a guess.

J. L. LOGIE, Collector.

British Columbia's Premier.

A writer in the Ottawa Evening Journal makes some striking remarks upon the characteristics which make the Hon. Richard McBride the leader of men and the most popular premier that he is. Speaking of the personality of the several leaders well known in Canadian politics, this writer says:

"And this leads us to Richard McBride, prime minister of British Columbia, the conservative 'Man of Destiny,' the unknown quantity of the Pacific slope, the star of politics whose orbit has not yet been plotted by the reportorial astronomers of the azure field of Canadian Conservatism. 'I believe,' said an M. P. last night after the fine speech of the British Columbia statesman, 'that an appearance and personality such as his, will carry a man farther than a golden tongue like Foster's or a brain like Cartwright's.'"

"Look at Laurier," he continued, "warming up to his subject, 'Laurier isn't an intellect, he is a personality. I have watched politics for years and I have seen the Liberal party in some tight corners. What happens? I mean or infer no disparagement of the prime minister when I say that time and time again he has gone to men, who in sheer analytic intellect, are undoubtedly his superiors, and yet with a phrase, a pat on the shoulder, a smile, he makes them recede from positions which all arguments that the intellect of the world might muster could not accomplish. We are all here worshippers, star worshippers. Hero worship is the last stage of civilized equivalent of superstition.'"

Perhaps it was the Pommery and not the member for McKittick that was talking. And yet as McBride spoke in his calm, boy-like voice, without a gesture, without any oratorical rise and fall of voice, simply, conversational and effortless, it achieved an effect, it riveted an attention that is the ultimate ambition and effort of oratory.

The most wonderful fact about McBride is his hair. Gray and grizzled it covers his head in a wave so wonderfully thick as seldom to be seen in an Anglo-Saxon. But in spite of the fact that Laurier's hair is chiefly a fringe—and a recollection—and McBride's is as described, it is this feature that causes two men out of three to comment upon the resemblance between the two men. Perhaps Sir Wilfrid makes the most of his remaining locks, or perhaps both of these gentlemen are partial to a statesman's cut; however it is, from profile or back view McBride might be Laurier's second self.

Yet the faces are unlike. Laurier has the mouth of an artist, mobile, curved and a chin that is sensitive rather than strong. McBride on the contrary has lips as straight and unexpressive as the stone carving of the great Sphinx. And his chin is a surveyor's right angle. Strong, acrocy driving power are there, but little of diplomacy, of art. Or, putting it another way, which may seem somewhat imaginative, the qualities which Laurier seems to express by the lower portion of his face, McBride conveys by eyes and forehead.

DOMESTIC WATER TROUBLES.

Of late there has been considerable trouble with the domestic water service, particularly in the lower sections. In some instances the pipes have had to be taken up and cleaned out. In each case it has been found that the trouble was due to saw-dust in the pipe. Upon making inquiry the Review was told that this trouble had existed for some time, and even though there has been no more saw-dust put into the head works, trouble is likely to be had for some time, and perhaps more serious than has yet occurred. There seems to be a large quantity of this foreign matter in the headwaters and large mains, and from time to time bodies of it become dislodged and rush into the lower pipes and branch lines, completely clogging them in some instances. The working of man of the valves is also interfered with, causing inconvenience and annoyance. The trouble and inconvenience caused is serious enough, but when viewed from a sanitary point of view, it is very evident that the nuisance should be stopped at once. It is to be hoped that the local authorities can handle this matter satisfactorily, without being compelled to refer it to the Department at Victoria.

Kaleden Comments : Peachland Notes :

On Sunday July 2nd, Rev. Dr. Spender, of Vancouver, Superintendent of the British Columbia Local Option League, visited this town, accompanied by Rev. F. W. Auvache, of Penticton, and conducted the three o'clock Baptist Church service. At the close of his address he urged on his congregation the claims of the temperance cause in the Province, expressing his gratitude for the help accorded him in the past, and exhorting to constant vigilance and earnest endeavour to keep this locality clean and untainted. A collection on behalf of the Local Option work was taken, amounting to $11.40.

Mr. Tavendale of Glasgow, a friend of Mr. T. Park, has arrived here from Vernon, where he has been staying. He has received contracts to paint our new Central School and Mr. O. E. Tomlin's house.

Last Monday, the 3rd inst., Mr. George Purvis, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. W. P. Simpson, took boat and train for Vernon, and was there quietly married to Miss Louise Horseman, of New Brunswick, who since Christmas has been teaching at the Hatiz School, B.C. We warmly welcome Mrs. Purvis into our midst, and wish for her and her husband long years of happiness and blessedness.

Alfalfa has been largely sown on Mr. Ritchie's improved orchard lands here, under the able direction of Mr. H. Whittaker, and is making a very satisfactory growth. A considerable acreage has yet to be sown this year, and a large amount of fresh land has been cultivated in preparation for sowing and tree-planting next year.

Mrs. N. K. Simpson and her daughter Marjorie, stayed with friends in Penticton last week-end after attending the sports on the First. They returned home on Tuesday.

On Saturday a.m. at ten o'clock, the annual School meeting under the chairmanship of Mr. Jas. Ritchie, was held in the temporary Schoolhouse. The retiring trustee Mr. A. S. Hatfield was re-elected, and financial business was discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hatfield left this morning in the motor launch "Ripple" for Summerland. They will spend a week up the Valley, visiting also Kelowna and Vernon.

Mr. Reginald Tate, an esteemed resident of this place, has received the important appointment of manager of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy's Summerland estate, and left Kaleden this week to take up his duties, followed by the hearty good wishes of his friends.

SUMMERLAND FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The attention of the Institute members and fruit growers generally is directed to the Irrigation Demonstration, to be held on the Colwell Orchard, Block 83, Lot 455, by Prof. R. W. Allen, Superintendent of the Umatilla Experiment Station, Hornistown, Oregon, on Saturday afternoon, July 22nd, at two o'clock.

As the irrigation problem is one in which we are all vitally interested it is expected that a large number will avail themselves of this opportunity to observe the effects of deep and shallow irrigation, and to learn some valuable lessons from this demonstration by so eminent an authority as Professor Allen. Please remember the place and date.

A company to be known as The Western Press is being organized to print and publish papers in various parts of B. C. Papers will be published at Vernon, Revelstoke, Nakusp, Phoenix and several other towns.

(held over from last week). Miss Eva Black, of West Summerland, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Hugh Williams.

Miss A. E. Elliott and Master Ronald spent Wednesday in Kelowna.

Messrs. MacDonald, Reekie, and Allen, of the Kelowna Farmers' Exchange, were in town last Saturday looking over the fruit prospects for this season, with a view to placing a man here representing their Exchange if the outlook warrants.

Mr. Fulton, of Vernon, is conducting the High School examinations this week. The young folks looked pretty serious some days.

Mrs. Henry Burch, of Kelowna, is visiting her sisters, Messdames J. L. Elliott and Jno. Wright.

Miss Adelaide Hayward, of Naramata, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Wright, over Sunday.

Master G. W. Robinson is spending a few days with relatives in Summerland, recuperating after the strenuous life of the last few weeks in preparation for the entrance examination.

Mr. Jas. Garroway, manager of the Okanagan Fruit Union, spent Wednesday driving over the district, and arranging for the handling of fruit.

Mr. Bert Elliott met with a painful accident last week, falling, through a mis-step, on his lip and chin against a small iron wheel. Fortunately the jaw was not broken, though a most painful wound resulted.

Mr. W. Bennett was in town this week soliciting orders for Coldstream nursery stock. We understand that he secured a large number of orders.

A large number attended the Strawberry Festival given last Friday evening by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church. A very pleasant evening was spent and quite a satisfactory sum was netted by the ladies for church purposes.

Preparations are well under way for the third annual regatta to be held here July 20. The Canoe boys are out practicing, and the various committees are busy arranging the various details for the day. All are anticipating a fine day's sport.

position at Vernon which she accepted. I then appointed Miss Nora Tiffin, and Miss Tiffin's name appears on the third page of my transfer of superintendency, among the list of agents, as agent at Summerland. When you use the word "bungle" you hit the nail on the head. Mr. Palmer, I believe, was advised from Ottawa to make a change in agents. For six years I managed the Government lines with a free hand, that being one of the conditions upon which I accepted the position. From recent developments it would appear that the management is now in Ottawa, and that the Senator of this district is the advisor of the departmental manager. Hence the "bungle." Yes, that word is particularly appropriate.

As soon as our pay station arrives, I will make application to install in the Post Office. If granted or not, we have done our best to give the people what they have always had and what they should never have been deprived of.

Thanking you for the space which closes the matter as far as we are concerned.

DON'T MISS THIS OPPORTUNITY

Opportunity knocks at every man's door, but very often we slam the door in her face.

I have for sale one acre lot all fenced and planted in three year old apples, pears, apricots, plums and peaches. Also one 3 acre block partly planted in three year old apples, pears, cherries, plums and peaches, all just coming into bearing.

As I am leaving Summerland, these properties will be sold on very easy prices and terms to suit. These sub-divisions are within 15 minutes walk of either Summerland or Parkdale stores, are composed of a rich deep black loam, with no alkali and no stones.

They are easily irrigated by flume, and overlook the Okanagan Lake where the steamers can be seen passing to and fro. For the man who cannot afford to buy and run a large estate; for the man who just wants a delightful little home of his own that he can afford to buy, and pay for on his own terms, that he can care for without trouble in the evenings—these lots are ideal. They will bring him a profitable income should he keep them, and prove a good speculation should he ever desire to sell.

DON'T LET THIS OPPORTUNITY ESCAPE YOU
I shall be pleased to show this property to you whether you feel that you want to invest or not. None need feel that they are under any obligation to buy.

A Snap In Acre Lots!!

For the purpose of disposing of his remaining acre lots before removing to Revelstoke, and as an inducement for an immediate sale, Mr. Robson has authorised us to state that no advance in price will be made until the 12th of August, when the price of each lot will be raised $50.00

These Lots are all planted, are situated within a few minutes walk from the Central School, the Church, Post Office and Store at West Summerland, and the domestic pipe line is conducted past two sides of the property.

For the man who may not be in a position to invest in a larger holding the prices and terms on these lots afford an unequalled opportunity, and, as a speculation, these values cannot be duplicated in Summerland at the present time.

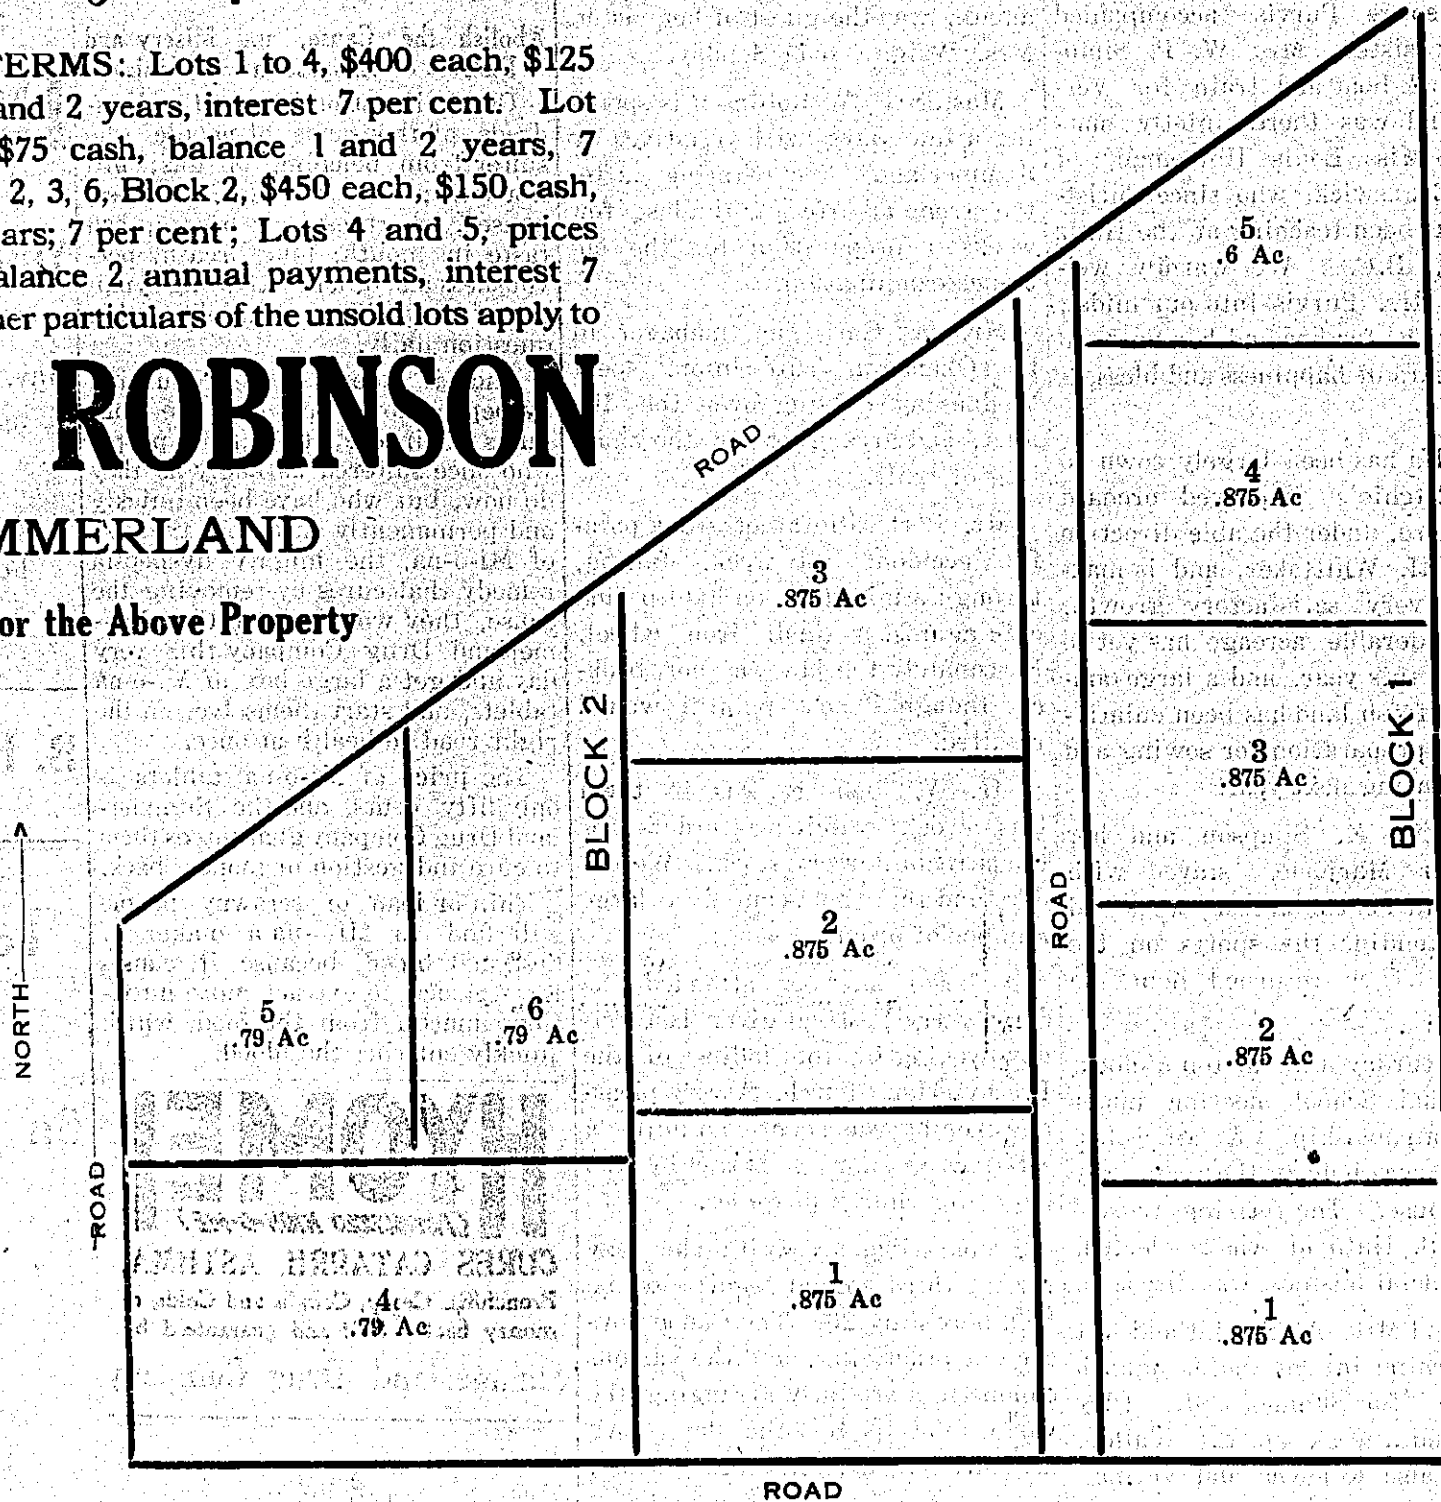

The following is a plan with the number and acreage of each lot:

PRICES, AND TERMS: Lots 1 to 4, $400 each, $125 cash, balance 1 and 2 years, interest 7 per cent. Lot 5 Block 1, $210, $75 cash, balance 1 and 2 years, 7 per cent. Lots 1, 2, 3, 6, Block 2, $450 each, $150 cash, balance 1 and 2 years; 7 per cent; Lots 4 and 5, prices $600. Cash $175 balance 2 annual payments, interest 7 per cent. For further particulars of the unsold lots apply to Profitable Small Fruits.

Strawberries may be grown for two cents a quart. I have raised 400 crates per acre, but 200 crates is an average yield. Raspberries may be grown for four cents per quart; yields vary from 60 to 150 crates per acre. Blackberries can be grown cheapest of all—one cent per quart, and yields from 60 to 120 crates per acre. Other fruits may be grown cheaply, such as grapes, gooseberries, currants, cherries, plums, pears, peaches and apples, the latter of which, with a selection from early to later ripening varieties, will of themselves supply fruit nearly the whole year. Raspberries bear the second year after planting. I have tested over twenty-five varieties of the black sort, and Kansas and Cumberland lead. Cardinal, nearly purple, yields fairly well; few of the red varieties yield paying crops; would advise planting them only close to a city market. The blackcap raspberries have made me the most money during the past twenty years, and with better markets every year. Blackberries bear the second year after planting. Early Harvest is not as yet excelled by the newly introduced early sorts, and leads for profit. Kittatinny fifteen to twenty-five years ago was in the lead, but of late years it rusts too badly, and I would not plant it. Snyder is hardy; I never knew it to rust or winter kill. Some new sorts promise well, but it is better to go slow than fast in planting new varieties. Peaches, pears, plums and cherries will begin to bear the second or third year; mulberries, which begin to bear the second or third year, should be planted in the poultry yard, as the birds prefer mulberries to cherries. Apple trees will commence to bear the fourth and fifth years, like other fruits, owing to varieties and care.—Jacob Faith in Colman's Round World.

Some Pertinent Questions.

Mr. Ben H. Morgan, F. S. S., writing in the United Empire, the Royal Colonial Institute Journal, on the question of Empire Trade relations, concludes a strong article with these remarks:

If the British Empire is to be an actual and abiding reality instead of a sentiment we must have a common interest in its material development. In other words, we must unite in matters of trade, industry, finance, and shipping, for their efficient organization, defence and development. A legitimate material self-interest is an enormous force.

"As a nation we have never considered the defence and promotion of Empire trade, industry, finance and shipping as a whole. We have never made it a matter of national concern and organization. Is British trade declining in India? Is Australia seeking to extend her business connections with Germany, Austria, Belgium and France? Is Canada arranging for a nearer market for her food products and raw materials? Is New Zealand arranging to send her butter, wool, and other products to America instead of to us? Why are the Crown Colonies sending their raw products to Hamburg instead of to London to an increasing extent every year? Is Empire trade being driven into foreign channels through the action of shipping rings? Is British industry being crippled by foreign trusts. Would industrial banks help us to secure Colonial contracts as they helped Germany to get the order for the Victoria Falls power equipment? Why do we buy food-stuffs and raw materials from foreign nations when the overseas dominions can supply all our needs? Why are we not taking steps to divert the flow of British emigrants and capital from foreign lands to Empire territories? There are merely a few of the questions of current interest which should be dealt with by an intelligent and watchful government charged with the defence of the Empire's interests."

A schoolboy was asked to explain the formation of dew. His answer was: "The earth revolves on its axis every twenty-four hours, and in consequence of the tremendous pace it travels it perspires freely."

J. L. LOGIE SERIOUSLY INJURED.

An accident which might very easily have resulted in a fatality was caused by the presence of a cow on the roadside and the shying of a horse. J. L. Logie, Clerk to the Municipality, and daughter, were driving down a hill Tuesday, when the horse suddenly became alarmed by the moving of a cow in the brush by the roadside, and reared, falling over on its back, overturning the rig and throwing out the occupants. The falling of the horse and the sudden jerking of the reins threw Mr. Logie with great force against the fence, his head coming into contact with it with considerable force. His back was also severely bruised and he received a general shaking-up, but fortunately no bones were broken, and it is hoped that by remaining quiet for a few days, he will recover from his mishap. Miss Logie, though much bruised, escaped any painful injury.

Naramata Notes:

Mr. D. B. Niblock, one of Calgary's most successful real estate men, spent the week-end in town, the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Niblock.

Mr. W. R. Bartlett journeyed to Peachland on Tuesday to inspect his fruit orchard. He reports that there are practically no peaches and that the apple crop is a very light one indeed.

Mrs. Morsch, who has for over a year been conducting a ladies' and children's furnishing store, has announced her intention to put in a small but select stock of groceries in the near future.

A valuable work-horse on Rakedome Ranch had to be shot recently as a result of one of its legs being broken by a kick from another animal.

Mr. D. MacKay was a business visitor to Penticton on Tuesday.

Mr. J. M. Robinson, accompanied by his two sons, Messrs. Will and Campbell, took the trail, with Captain Languedoc, on Monday on a trip of inspection to the work in progress at the upper lakes. Mr. Robinson is well satisfied with the work so far as complete.

Anyone interested in tastefully kept orchards would be well repaid for any trouble it might cost to visit Kenwood, the Niblock orchards, a little south and east of town. Mr. F. J. Young, who this year is in full charge of the property, besides looking after the trees in first class shape, has added a fine lawn surrounded by a choice assortment of flowers.

"The Greatest Need of Naramata," was the topic at the morning service conducted by Rev. G. O. Fallis last Sunday. This greatest need was a holy, well-directed zeal for the cause of righteousness in general and for our neighbours in particular. In the course of his remarks on the Sabbath observance, the reverend gentleman said that "the very first marks of the splendid citizen is that he keeps the law of the land."

The young ladies of the Sigma Delta Club are this week receiving the congratulations of their many friends and of our local band in particular for the success which attended their efforts in getting up a band benefit dance on Tuesday evening. The hall, though not crowded, was well filled, and a fine programme was thoroughly enjoyed by the followers of this fascinating amusement. The music was furnished by Mrs. Boothe, pianist, assisted by Mr. Reg. Boothe with trap-drums.

Besides the usual Naramata audience there were a number who came up from Penticton by auto. Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wells, from Detroit, Mich, guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wells, of town, were present also. Mr. Wells delighted the crowd by a couple of violin solos. Mr. H. P. Wilson played a Highland Schottische and the Lancers on the accordion. During the evening the refreshing drinks accompanied by choice cake and sandwiches were dispensed. The receipts of the evening were way above the sanguine expectations of the Sigma Deltas.

"The difference between a cow and a milkman," said the man with a distressing memory for old jokes, "is that the cow gives pure milk."

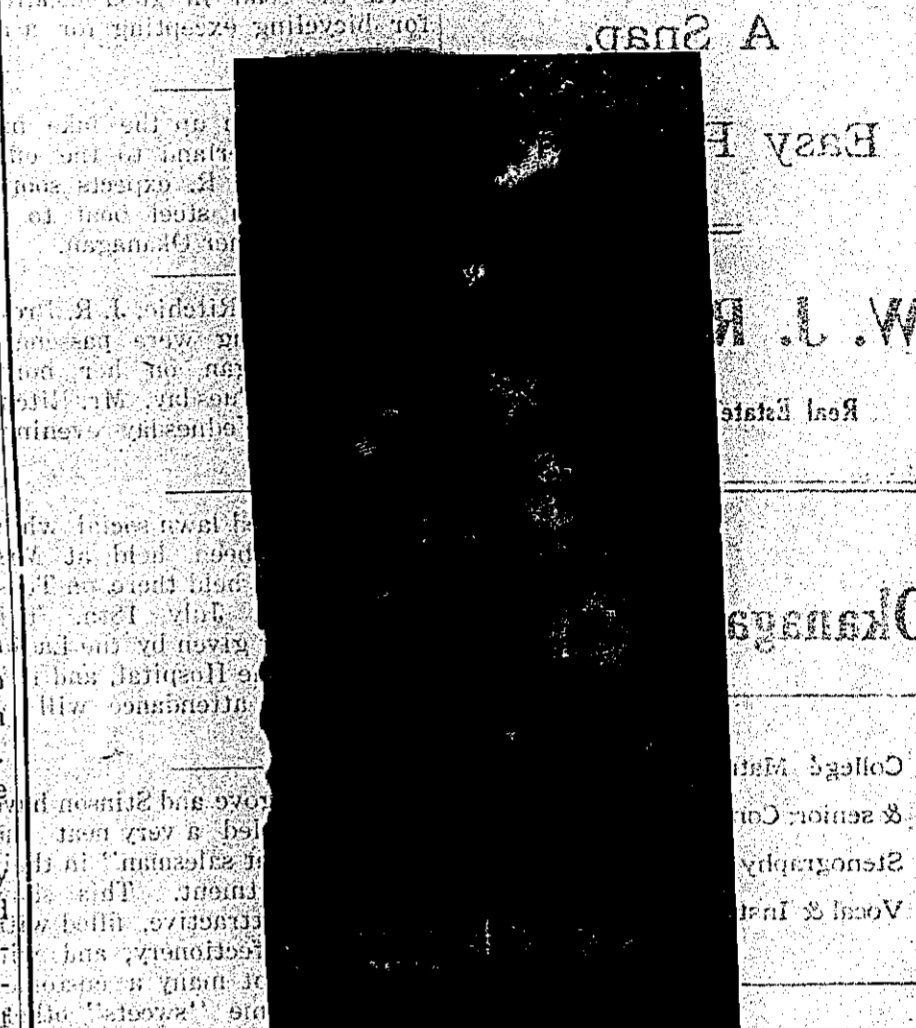

"There is another difference," said the milkman pointedly; "the cow does not give any credit."

Messrs. Angove and Stinson have recently installed a very neat and pleasing "silent salesman" in their grocery department. This show case is very attractive, filled with high-class confectionery, and will no doubt tempt many a customer to purchase some "sweets" otherwise unthought of.

While riding horseback Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. W. Arnett had the misfortune to be thrown to the ground. Her back was painfully injured and she received a general shaking up. It is anticipated, however, that she will be able to be about again in the course of a few days, and it is hoped that she will be none the worse for her unpleasant experience.

The Review learns upon good authority that Superintendent Palmer of the Government Telephone Service is looking into the alleged grievance of the young lady who until recently acted as local agent of that service. He claims to have understood definitely that Miss Tiffin was an employee of the local company assigned to the long distance work. If he can justify the act he will probably pay her an additional month's salary.

The widening and grading of the lakeshore drive is being continued along the old route and if the sum appropriated for that purpose holds out it is expected that the improvements will be continued as far down as the Gartrell orchards. This will be very welcome news to the residents of that district who became quite alarmed upon hearing that the work was not to be carried beyond the Dairy gate.

The government pile-driver which has been making some extensive repairs and additions to the wharf at Naramata, is now at Summerland for repairs. While definite instructions have not arrived, it is expected that before she leaves here a dock and approach for the "Maude Moore" will be constructed. She will also drive piling for a slip-way for the launching of boats from our local boat factory. From here it is expected that she will go up to Paradise Ranch.

Mrs. Jessie Hood returned a few days ago from the coast. She was accompanied on her return by Mrs. William Garnett, who was until recently a resident of Garnett Valley, and whose late husband at one time owned all that section of Summerland. After visiting friends here Mrs. Garnett will proceed to Toronto. There she will join a party of missionaries who are soon to go to India. Mrs. Garnett's sister, Dr. Wallace, is on the staff of one of the missionary colleges in India, and Mrs. Garnett expects to remain there a year with her sister. Dr. Wallace's engagement was for a period of five years, which will expire about a year hence. She will then return to Canada with Mrs. Garnett.

Mr. R. Thompson Tinn and wife from Vancouver, have been looking over the Okanagan and are now staying at the Hotel Naramata. They have already paid Summerland a visit and pronounce themselves greatly delighted with the Southern Okanagan. It is probable that Mr. Tinn will purchase some orchard property either at Summerland or Naramata before leaving the Valley.

Rev. F. W. Pattison started on a vacation Wednesday morning last. He will attend the Baptist Convention at the coast and then purposes taking a sea voyage, sailing from Vancouver and going as far as Honolulu. His many friends will be pleased to know that he is taking this much needed respite and trust that he will return thoroughly reinvigorated.

Sometime ago the Review reported that an offer had been made by the Band to give open air concerts at West Summerland, provided suitable accommodations were furnished. This offer was made at one of the Council meetings, but no action was taken at the time. The Review recently inquired if anything had been done towards providing the accommodations asked for, but was informed that the matter was still in abeyance.

Mr. R. S. Falcon who for some time past has managed so well the Summerland property of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy is retiring from that position. He and Mrs. Falcon purpose spending the coming winter in Southern California. Mr. R. G. Tate, from Kaleden, has already assumed the management of Sir Thomas' estate. Mr. Tate is a Montreal man, the son of Sir Melbourne Tate, late Chief Justice of that city.

"THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH."

The 12th of July was an unusually quiet day in Summerland. The town was almost wholly deserted. Several other towns about the lake were in the same condition. The Orangemen were celebrating the "Glorious Twelfth" at Penticton, and many of their friends celebrated it with them. What with "Glorious" weather, good boat accommodation, and the attractions which were offered, it was little wonder that the Steamer Abredeon carried a large consignment of passengers from Summerland. All pronounced the day a most enjoyable one. Unfortunately our local baseball team met with defeat at the hands of the Penticton nine, and Kelowna's lacrosse team suffered a like fate. The Summerlanders were returned by the Abredeon about 8.30 o'clock, and the crowd that disembarked seemed thoroughly satisfied with the day's outing.

WILL YOU HELP SEND THE BOYS TO CAMP?

It is expected that about forty boys scouts will attend the camp to be held at Trout Creek, from July 31 to August 5, both days included. Details are now being worked out, and the final arrangements announced next week. The boys will provide their own blankets, eating utensils, while accommodation, board, and other necessities will be furnished. Tents are being loaned from the military authorities at the coast and will be sent down from Vernon, the nearest military station. The commissariat department presents the greatest difficulties, but with a little assistance from a generous public there is no doubt that all will work out well. It has been estimated that 50 cents will keep a boy in camp for a day, so that, roughly speaking, about $100 will be required to keep the camp going for a week. Is that too much to pay for the enjoyment of forty boys for a week? Donations to the camp fund will be very gratefully received by Chas. A. Marshall, Box, 17, West Summerland, who is the honorary secretary-treasurer of the local branch of this movement. The committee in charge are confident that there will be a generous response to this appeal, when the worthiness of its object is considered. Provisions, etc., will be provided out of this fund. Gifts of goods, such as potatoes, oatmeal, sugar, etc., in bulk, will also be very acceptable. Will everybody help send the boys to camp?

For the benefit of those interested, we may state that this camp will be run on model military lines. An ex-militia cook has been engaged, and good, plain, healthy fare and lots of it, will be provided. Experienced officers will camp with the boys and have absolute

The Hotel Summerland, until recently the property of the Summerland Development Company, has also been acquired by Mr. W. J. Robinson. We have not yet been able to learn Mr. Robinson's plans as to the future of the Hotel.

Provincial Government

Versus A. Richardson

Witness Admits Under Oath Putting Saw-dust in Pipe-Line

Many Witnesses Called. Magistrate Censures Municipal Council. Expressions of Dissatisfaction Are General.

An investigation by order of the Provincial Attorney General of the complaint that saw-dust was being put into Trout Creek recently culminated in a complaint being made against A. Richardson, to the effect that saw-dust from his mill on Trout Creek was being placed therein. The first complainant to the Provincial authorities was the Municipality of Summerland, and the action taken by the Province against Mr. Richardson was for violating the law pertaining to the placing of saw-dust or other refuse in waters inhabited by trout, etc. The case was tried by stipendiary Magistrate G. F. Guernsey, Penticton, in the Council Chamber, Summerland, on Monday afternoon. Magistrate English, being so closely interested in the matter, felt that he might not be able to decide without prejudice, and hence called in a fellow magistrate to try the case. While, as stated above, the case was the Province versus Richardson, more stress was put on the feature of the presence of saw-dust in the municipal domestic service than of the pollution of Trout Creek.

The information laid against him was read to Mr. Richardson, who entered the plea of "not guilty." The first witness called was Dr. C. M. Smith, who was duly sworn, and testified as follows: "I am the Medical Health Officer for the Municipality of Summerland, and I have received no complaints about saw-dust or other foreign matter in the water pipes, but I have in regard to the water used for domestic purposes. I have not examined the water flowing into the reservoir from Trout Creek. I have fished in Trout Creek, but caught no fish. The sample of water from the reservoir was good potable water."

F. J. Nixon, sworn: "I am familiar with the water system. I have been conversant with the system for the past five years as office man. I know there is saw-dust in Trout Creek, for I saw it today between 10 and 11 o'clock." Cross examined by the defendant, he stated that he did not test for saw-dust in the reservoir. It was possible for saw-dust from the Creek to get into the pipes by passing through the reservoir, but it would not be possible for sawdust to get into the domestic system below the reservoir from the saw-dust heap on the old mill site. "I ordered a screen to be placed in the main ditch from Trout Creek, to ascertain if any saw-dust were in the ditch. This was done June 20 by Robert Mitchell and an assistant. The mesh of the screen at the intake was about 1/4 in. and would not stop saw-dust."

Richard Carew, of Penticton, was sworn. He worked last fall in the Municipality of Summerland, laying the main pipe. Robert Mitchell, Harry Everett and others worked with him. When asked if any sawdust was put into the pipes after they were laid, he replied in the affirmative. They procured saw-dust in the old mill yard, and used about two sacks. When asked what their idea was in putting it in, he replied, "We were experimenting on corking that pipe, you see." He had done the same in Okanagan Centre, and it had worked well. He had not seen any saw-dust in Trout Creek at any time.

Robert Mitchell, sworn: "I examined Trout Creek this morning and last Saturday. The screen was put in on June 20, and saw-dust was found on that day, but none was found either to-day or last Saturday. I worked at the putting in of the new pipe at the intake. When asked if he saw any saw-dust being put in this new pipe, he refused to answer, but when told by the magistrate that he had no choice in the matter, but must answer any direct questions that were put to him, he stated that he had seen some put in to stop leaks. Three sacks had been put in at the head of the pipe. This had been done by Richard Carew. The saw-dust caught in the test screen looked like new cut sawdust. He did not think that the contractor knew that any saw-dust was put into the new pipe.

William R. Shields, having been sworn, stated that he lived near the end of the domestic water pipe, and he had trouble three times with saw-dust in pipes, about the first of May, again about a month ago, and more trouble within a week. The saw-dust was black and in lumps.

James M. Sutherland, sworn: "I am a resident of Peach Orchard, within two hundred yards of the end of the pipeline. I was troubled with saw-dust in the pipe last December and January, but the worst trouble has been within the last five weeks. Water service was on and off for three weeks. I fished in Trout Creek above the reservoir about two years ago and caught trout, but caught none when fishing this year.

Archlo Rutherford was sworn, and said: "I live at Prairie Valley, and have worked on the main

Peachland Regatta

Splendid Program Carried Through in First-Class Style.

On Thursday, Peachland celebrated by holding their Third Annual Regatta. Dame Nature was in her best mood, the lake being ideal for water sports of every description, and Old Sol was smiling the whole time. Though light costumes were the order of the day, to keep cool was a difficult matter.

The wharf was decorated with bunting, and looked very gay, and in the centre the ladies of Peachland had had erected, refreshment booths, which were heartily patronized, the refreshments being of a light nature and very much appreciated. For their labor the ladies received a good many dollars for the organizations for which they were working.

About five hundred people were present, all in the gayest of moods. From Kelowna the Aberdeen arrived and landed a large crowd. Penticton was well represented, Mr. Gahan's launch, the "Gwendoline," bringing a full compliment of passengers, as also did Mr. Connor's launch, and one or two lesser gasoline craft. From Naramata, Mr. J. M. Robinson's launch, the "Naramata" arrived with the houseboat in tow, with a great number of residents of our sister town aboard. From Summerland, a few journeyed up in the Okanagan, and two or three smaller boat loads also put in an appearance.

To keep the crowd in the best of humors, and help along the gaiety, the Committee had engaged the Kelowna Military Band of fourteen instruments, under the direction of Bandmaster Kendrick, and they dispensed music of martial character which was much enjoyed by all.

The various contests were judged by Mr. W. T. Shatford and Mr. G. R. Mason, both of Penticton, and in a few of the events they had no easy task, and particularly was this the case in regard to the diving competition, for which there were many contestants.

Out of eighteen events, as advertised, four were called off owing to insufficient entries, and these were the Swimming Race for boys under 15, the Mixed Double Canoe Race, Aquatic V. C., and the Spar Fight. The list of events run off were well conducted, and the committee, and its energetic secretary are to be complimented upon the dispatch with which they carried through their program.

There were five war canoe races, the senior, for the Robinson Shield and medals, 15 paddlers, Kelowna being an easy winner by about nine lengths. The junior race, eight paddlers and captain was also won by Kelowna, both canoes at the turn being fairly level, but Kelowna came ahead at the finish by two lengths. The senior race, 15 paddlers, for the Foresters' Cup and medals, was a very hard race, and although Kelowna again won, by three lengths, it seemed as if Peachland had a chance if they had only had the grit they have shown in past seasons. For the Lang Cup, 15 paddlers were again to the fore, the same canoes contesting, and though Peachland went right ahead at the get-away, they were last to turn the bouys, and again they let Kelowna easily win the trophy by about four lengths.

The mixed race, four ladies and five gentlemen created especial interest. It was a great race and very spectacular; the crowd from Naramata on the houseboat cheering their crew right heartily. The contesting crews were Naramata, Peachland and Kelowna, and they arrived home in the order given.

The other races were more general, the contestants being from Kelowna, Naramata, Peachland and Summerland, and fairly good entries were the general rule.

The Boys' Swimming Race, for those under twelve years of age was won by H. Kenting, W. Buchanan coming in second. The diving competition was participated in by seven contestants, and the competition was keen. After three dives each, long, standing and running, J. P. Bourne of Kelowna was declared winner, W. Tweedy of Summerland second, and G. A. Batchelor, Peachland, third.

HOSPITAL TO BE CLOSED?

Public Meeting to Discuss Situation.

A meeting of the Hospital Board was held on Wednesday evening, and items of importance were discussed. The principal business of the evening was the discussion as to the best policy to pursue in regard to the future of the Hospital. The Board decided to call a meeting of the Hospital Society and of the citizens generally on Monday evening next, the 24th inst, at 7:30 o'clock, to receive a recommendation from the Board to the effect that the Hospital be closed, and, if necessary, to consider a future policy for this institution. This meeting is to be held in the Council Chamber, Shaughnessy Avenue, and as the subject is of vital importance to all citizens, it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. At this meeting the treasurer will submit a statement of the present financial condition of the Hospital Society. The whole subject will be thrown open for general discussion.

MID-SUMMER WEATHER.

A bit of the heat wave that has so prostrated the east has reached us here in the Okanagan. But it has not brought with it the discomfort and suffering felt elsewhere. While the thermometer readings for several days were fairly high, the nights were comparatively cool, and with the lack of humidity it can truly be said that we have been "enjoying" beautiful summer weather.

Sunday, the 19th inst, was our warmest day. Following are the official readings for the 12th to the 19th, inclusive:

Engineer Brookson, of the Kettle Valley Railway made a short visit to Summerland this week.

Prof. R. P. Baker is making a short visit to Summerland, and is the guest of Walter M. Wright. Mr. Baker has been unusually busy of late on his pre-emption in Meadow Valley.

W. J. Robinson has returned from a business trip to Winnipeg. Mr. Robinson states that in all his experience in the west, which began in 1879, he has not seen such a crop as is being produced on the prairie this year. All the way across the prairie the grain looks particularly healthy and vigorous and is heading well. There is no doubt in his mind that the prairie provinces will all have crops this season much beyond the previous record.

The single sculling race, for which there were four entries was won by J. Gellatly, F. Bywater being second.

The open swimming for men was won by T. Buchanan, Thorne coming in a good second.

For the single canoe race there were only two contestants, R. W. Stevens of Kelowna, and H. Nuttall, of Naramata, Stevens winning out.

In the Double Sculls, R. Laidlaw and F. Bywater came in first, and A. Miller and J. Vieny second.

The Relay Swimming Race was followed with great interest, the race being very fast. Three teams went in for the race, and the Peachland team, composed of T. Buchanan, J. Buchanan and R. Laidlaw were the winners, the Kelowna team coming second.

The Double Canoe Race had two entries for the trophy, and R. W. Stevens (Kelowna) and H. Nuttall (Naramata) were the winners.

The mixed double sculls were won by F. Bywater and V. Pele, L. Aitkens and M. Lang being a good second.

This event concluded the program and the crowd dispersed, voting the day as one well spent, and thoroughly enjoyable in every way.

Long Distance Telephone Agent Explains His Position.

Denies all Responsibility for the Present Situation. Says he can do Nothing to Improve the Service.

Summerland, B.C., July 15, 1911.

The Editor,
The Summerland Review,
Summerland, B.C.

Dear Sir:

In your issue of this week appears a somewhat lengthy letter on the local situation in regard to telephone connections, in which my name appears with a frequency which is almost alarming to a man of retiring disposition like myself.

However, I would like to touch on some points therein. I must positively refuse to be drawn into a personal discussion in the newspaper on these matters; the discussion as far as I am concerned being closed before it is commenced, and that is one of the several points of difference between the writer of the aforementioned letter and myself.

In the same issue there appears an editorial in regard to which my position is different, and to a part of which I take very strong exception, and that is the way in which you link up my name with that of the Managing Director of the Local Telephone System, leaving the inference that by some act of omission or commission I am in part responsible for the fact that there is now no connection, and that I might, if I only would, do something to end the trouble.

You mention the contract which was not signed as having some bearing on the matter, when the end sought to be attained by said contract was to absolutely shut out any possibility of the 'phone concerned being used to repeat messages or in any way facilitate long distance business, you know that. If said 'phone had been left here, and a simple switch put in, and the embargo on its use withdrawn, the subscribers of the local telephone system could all this time of waiting for more expensive and elaborate equipment, which seems to take so long to secure, have had all the advantages of connection with the long distance lines.

At the present time, at the side of the table at which I write, there is a set of wires which lead through to the switchboard in the operating room of the Lakeshore Telephone Co., the wire from which my unfortunate private 'phone was removed.

There is another set connected up with the long distance lines; a common everyday telephone, and a switch, the one that has been in use for the purpose for the last few months, for instance, are all that is required to make a working connection, and any man who can use a screw-driver and twist a wire can make the connection and end the trouble in fifteen minutes.

Yes, it is a "bungie" alright, and it is a mighty fine word, when properly applied.

And let me say again, if naked when this condition of affairs will terminate, I would reply in all sincerity as I have been quoted as having done before, I DON'T KNOW.

Yours truly,
W. H. HAYES.

What a superb thing it would be if we were big enough in soul to see no slights, accept no insults, cherish no jealousies, and admit into our heart no hatred — "Hello, Central, give me the Long Distance, please!"

LOOKING BACKWARD.

It sometimes does us good to turn back a century or two in the pages of history and find therein an object lesson for life—as it is—or as we would make it in our day and time.

When the Canary Islands were discovered by Europeans in the fourteenth century they were found to be inhabited by the Guanches, a Berber tribe, the men "extremely tall and handsome," and the women "strong, virtuous and full-breasted." Skin jerkins and palm-leaf shirts, moccasins and fur cap were their clothing, and they fed on meat and gollo fish and cheese, and milk was their drink.

When these Guanches were alone and untutored by civilization they lived an ideal existence. Though they were physically strong they were gentle. To kill an animal degraded the killer, and rich and poor alike lived up to the national precept, "Associate with the good, help and aid all." "I swear to make everyone happy," the king swore on his coronation. This, indeed, seems to have been the one aim and object of the tribe, and, if the reports of those who first visited the Islands are to be believed, they succeeded most admirably, for in their balmy climate life seems to have gone on like Sir Thomas Moore fancied in his Utopia.

Since the Canaries fell into the hands of Spain and the "civilizing" influences of the Europeans began, the Guanches have fast degenerated and modern writers now tell us "the land is held mostly in large estates and the peasants generally are very poor, and emigrate in large numbers to Cuba and other West Indian islands."

Thus do we see how those who once solved the riddle of happiness were driven by civilization into cruelty, carnage and rampant superstition, and are to-day almost a forgotten race.

FOREST FIRES IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

A bulletin recently issued by the Forestry branch of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, pays a high tribute to the fire laws of British Columbia and says:

"A large portion of the province of British Columbia is yet unreached by the fire protective service. There is a growing demand among the lumbermen for a more extensive patrol and it is likely that the organization, which is very effective as far as it goes, will be considerably extended. There is under consideration the purchase of two gasoline launches to enable the patrol of the large areas of the most valuable coast timber which, on account of the extremely rough nature of the country, cannot be reached in any other manner. As British Columbia has the most valuable forest area in Canada, has a climate most favorable to forestry, large areas of land fit only for the production of timber, a public revenue largely dependent upon timber and a surplus of several millions of dollars in the bank, accumulated by the sale of timber, it would seem most business-like and wise for the province to spend larger sums of money in fire protection and to establish a forestry department.

"For the season of 1909 there were employed by the government one chief warden, 36 deputy wardens, and 86 assistant wardens. These men report in their territory 489 fires, none of which reached serious proportions. Eight hundred and fifty men were engaged temporarily in extinguishing fires. The total cost, exclusive of sums expended by Crown agents, was $40,000.

"The fires reported covered 70,000 acres of slashings and timberlands. There were destroyed or damaged over 8,000,000 feet of timber, 300 to 400 piles, 4,000 posts and a quantity of shingle bolts, cordwood and railroad ties.

"Forest fires also destroyed or injured 30 fruit trees, a government bridge, and about $7,000 worth of fencing, machinery and miscellaneous improvements.

"To encourage obedience to the law, 57 suspects were arrested, 26 of whom were convicted and fined to the extent of $800, with four cases remanded for further trial.

"The British Columbia fire law is one of the best, if not the best, in Canada. One especially good feature is that all settlers contemplating clearing land are required to get written permits from the nearest authority. Two thousand five hundred and thirty of these permits were issued and only 99 incipient fires were reported from settlers clearing land."

CENSUS TAKERS CARELESS.

Complaints about the carelessness of census takers are not few, nor are they far between. The task of taking the census is at best a large one, and was sure to cause more or less complaint, but there does not seem to be any good excuse for some of the errors made. Various communities are discussing the advisability of having a civic census taken. A Montreal dispatch states that there have been a disquieting number of complaints concerning the taking of the census. In that city alone a blunder has been discovered whereby a part of St. Denis ward with some 400 inhabitants was missed altogether.

It is just as well for every community to watch its own particular census, and if any considerable number are missed, to report the omissions before it is too late to have the errors rectified.

SOON TO MEET AGAIN.

Parliament soon will meet again. The country does not particularly need any more reciprocity debating, but the probability is that we will get it. A way of getting around it and at the same time permitting the other business of parliament to proceed uninterrupted is suggested by the Canadian Courier. "What is wanted," says that journal, "is just a little frankness. If Mr. Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier will get together, they might settle the whole business in a few sentences—something after this sort. Mr. Borden might say: "Well, Sir Wilfrid, are you still determined to put Reciprocity through?" When Sir Wilfrid replied: "Certainly," then Mr. Borden could answer: "Sorry to have to say it; but we feel it our duty to employ every constitutional means to prevent you." Oh, very well," Sir Wilfrid could counter; "have you any preference for an election date?" Then Parliament could vote as much Supply as is needed to carry the country over the elections, proceed to some other measures for which the people are waiting, adopt a Redistribution Bill when the census is ready, and then "open the ball."

It is pointed out that what the country ought to be saved from is the expense of a purely obstructive debate. The Opposition should be given, and indeed, cannot well be denied, the fullest chance to say what it wants to say; and the Government should put up the best and most convincing defence it can muster. But when all that is done, then the rest should be taken as read."

MORMONISM IN CANADA.

In the recent numbers of the Canadian Courier, Nan Moulton has been giving a series of articles on Mormonism in Canada. These articles, while interesting, and no doubt much read, tell of something existing yet not practiced. At least, not so far as anybody knows, or apparently cares.

After all, the really important thing as regards the Mormons of Canada and their religion is that they have given the Canadian prairies an object lesson in agriculture, are sober, orderly, intelligent, progressive, law-abiding, and mind their own business. The nearest anybody has ever come to it is a guess, and while the guess may be safe, still it will hardly do as evidence in court.

"But how do you know?" asked Nan Moulton of her informant: "We know as well as we know we breathe or the sun shines, but if the woman won't tell, where is your proof? It is like this: An attractive girl is noticed not going out with the young people, nor receiving the masculine attentions that are her due. You wonder, and the Mormons say 'Oh, she is now the wife of —' (and the name follows). By-and-by the girl goes down to Utah, to College, it is announced. Post-graduate courses keep her there, and, a few years later, some one from Alberta visiting Logan or some other Mormon settlement in Utah suddenly comes upon the lady with two or three children, and perhaps the ecclesiast from Alberta, too." The principals in most of these stories come from Raymond, the men risen to ecclesiastical eminence, the girls often stenographers from some of the other towns.

- Between Me and Hank -

Mother Nature knows what she is about. And she knows man better than he knows himself. Man, pushed by adversity and the demands of home and society, longs for an ideal condition, where he will be relieved of these demands and have nothing to do but "sit and sing his life away," with never a care and naught to cause pain or perplexity. This is the average man's mis-conceived idea of the ideal. And there are few of us who are not prone to accept it to a greater or lesser degree. But Nature knows better. She knows that man, left to himself, with nothing to do but seek the satisfying of his own personal desires, becomes the most miserable and most useless creature created by God. Pushed to do his best, struggling all the time, he thereby builds up within himself a creature of usefulness.

Compare the Genius with his brother the Loner, the Idler, the Spendthrift: in appearance the last named may outshine him; the Genius may be passed in the street by the mob carrying the Idler on its shoulders; but place them side by side, the Idler and the Genius, and set them to work and you will quickly see the God appear. The Genius will create God in his own image. The Idler will do as much, I hear you say, and I grant you this, but in the end which would you tie to?

What is the secret of it all? Just this: the Genius has recognized the fact that God is found in the struggles of life; while the Idler has sought to turn himself into God. The Genius long ago learned to find God in his work; in the useful things of life; and in finding God there he found himself. For, bless you, Annabelle, did not God make him in his own image?

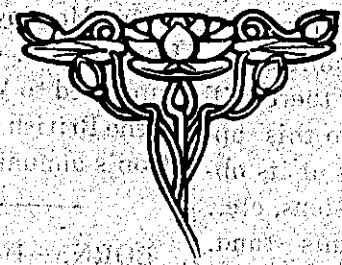

It is the finding of oneself that marks the turning point in every individual life. Henceforth we are God in the chrysalis. And, by slow degrees, through much effort—perhaps much sacrifice and sorrow, we shall evolve more into the likeness of God as we recognize the relationship.

Naramata Unity Club Outing.

"A Trip to the Great Oracle."

Naramata was very strongly represented in Summerland on Thursday afternoon of last week. Altogether three trips of the commodious launch "Naramata" and one trip of the ferry "Maude Moore" were necessary to convey the party hither. The occasion for the invasion was the lawn social of the Unity Club, a very strong Naramata organization, which outing was held on the spacious grounds of Mr. J. M. Robinson on the hill overlooking the lake at Summerland. The number who came over to enjoy the afternoon is indicative of the heartiness with which Okanagan residents enter into their pleasures. During the afternoon an impromptu program, highly pleasing and entertaining, was carried out on the lawn. Mrs. Gillespie, president, acted as chairwoman, and in a few well-chosen words explained the aim of the Club. Somewhat of an innovation was the paper read by Miss Chambers, describing a trip of the Club to the Shrine of an Oracle in the fastnesses back of Naramata. This is represented as having been found in a floating can, by several young ladies who were rowing off the shore at Naramata. This mysterious document is published in full below. Recitations were given by Mrs. Block, jr., Miss Mitchell, and Mrs. Salting, and a short address by Rev. Jas. Hood, of Summerland. A very generous repast was served by the ladies of the Club, and was temptingly spread upon large tables placed comfortably beneath the shade trees. After luncheon had been dispensed a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Robinson. This was responded to by Mr. Robinson in his pleasing manner. An immense circle was formed and "Old Lang Syne" and the National Anthem were sung. More than one hundred and fifty persons joined hands in this circle. All pronounced themselves delighted with the outing and with the royal manner in which they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Robinson.

A TRIP TO THE GREAT ORACLE.

Ladies! Do you remember when you were young, reading of the old Grecian Oracles and of their clever answers to any questioning person who came to their shrine?

All that the person would have to do would be to travel to the Shrine, state his question sincerely, and he would receive an answer. Perplexed generals went in time of war. Maiden's smitten by Cupid's dart hovered near, receiving their final answers.

How you used to wish that such an opportunity was afforded you to have such puzzling questions as, "Will he come to-night?" and "Is he in earnest?" and scores of others answered in a satisfactory manner. Do you know that the opportunity is yours? Just back of our little town of Naramata, about six miles along the trail leading to the dam, and a little to the left, lies a secluded spot that you may have passed by unnoticed. Had you been less hasty and explored a little you would have found a path leading through a dense clump of bushes and terminating before a wide opening in the rock.

Imagine if you can, our Unity Club laboriously trudging to this spot. See the string of ladies, armed with walking sticks, plodding through the dust with a baking hot sun above and the perspiration streaming down their faces. The line is headed by its Honorable President, Mrs. Gillespie. Close behind her we see Mrs. Block, arrayed in a glaring red uniform and jauntily carrying a trumpet, from which issues sweet strains designed to aid the ladies in their plumb. Through the clouds of dust come the cries of, "No resting here, step along lively," from the Girls' Club, who are acting as the policemen of the day.

The weakest spot in the line, and where the policemen have most of their trouble, is a squad composed of Mrs. Wolstencroft, Mrs. Hancock, Mrs. Alexander, and Mrs. Lewis Block, who, puffing energetically, have the honor of bearing a stretcher, upon which are enthroned Mrs. Julis Block, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Niblock and Mrs. Hayward. The bearers refresh themselves by playing forfeits and saying "Heavy, heavy, heavy, hangs over our heads." Think of their troubles; but here is another case. Poor Mrs. Wellband, with her inseparable high heels and French parasol, stumblingly makes her way carrying a huge hatbox in which reposes the latest addition to her millinery stock. Trouble arises now among the police force as their one sentimental member, Adelaide, so far forgets her duty as to lag along the way, picking daisies and pensively murmuring, "He loves me, he loves me not."

Breaking into the hubbub comes the cry of the leader thundering down the line, "Cheer up, ladies, we're nearly there!" Mrs. Robinson, half-way down the line takes up the cry and gaspingly sends it on. It finally reaches Freda and Lois, whose excuse for always bringing up the rear is "tight shoes." Away in the distance might be seen a crowd of young men, who curiosity has gotten the better of them. Bessie, perceiving this immediately drops back with Freda and Lois. When she thinks no one is looking she shyly waves her handkerchief to them. At last they come to the space in front of the opening. It is queer, but after all the trouble they have taken to get there no one seems to want to ask a question. We hear exclamations of "Go on, haven't you got your question ready?" "No." "You go." "I don't want to."

"Well, Mrs. Walters is the one who got us to come here, make her go first." Hesitation on Mrs. Walters' part, but as the ladies insist, she yields. She puts it bravely, "Kind Sir, will you tell me the best protection against rattlesnakes?" Out of the mysterious opening comes the deep, judicial voice, saying, "Use only hip-boots and a hoe." With a sigh of relief she steps back with her sister, Harmonyites. My! What a hubbub followed! Everybody wanted to go next. As the contestants would give up to no individual, and the ladies from the benches having more persuasive powers, they marched victoriously forward, and with one accord placed the burden of their existence before the Oracle. "Hill-climbing is so hard, when will we have street cars?" Slowly and ponderously came the answer, "Patience is a virtue supposed to be found only in women."

Warily and resignedly the bench ladies withdrew, one of them remarking, "Those mutterings sound strangely like Mr. Boothe," her opinion being confirmed by the furtive glances which Mrs. Boothe kept casting toward the opening. Maida Williams steps out asking, "Ladies, if I may, I would like to ask a question." Before such meekness the ladies could not refuse, so shyly she asked the Oracle, "How will I get my Armstrong?" "Massage treatment will gain for you the coveted treasure."

Up marches Mrs. Wells with grim determination on her face. "Mr. Oracle, I want to know when my future son-in-law is going to split my wood." Quoth the Oracle, "Nevermore."

No one stops to see how she takes this disappointing answer, for their attention is drawn by the wild shrieks for mercy coming from the young men, whom the policeman have found lurking around the Shrine. They are forcibly brought before Mrs. Gillespie, who is to decide their fate. She thinks such a weighty problem should be decided by the Oracle. So demanding silence, she gravely states, "Sir Oracle, in this age of woman suffrage, what are we staunch and true suffragettes to do with these mere men mortals?" Evidently the Oracle was not a suffragette, for with one tremendous BOOM! it burst forth in a cloud of hot ashes, brimstone and smoke, that took the party off their feet, and bore them on and finally dropping them with a dull thud and "Here we are, ladies and gentlemen, how do you do?"

AN UN-NEIGHBOURLY PRACTICE

The practice of some of our citizens of allowing their cows and sometimes horses to roam at large, or of tethering them on the roadside, is one which frequently causes considerable inconvenience and annoyance; and sometimes, as in the case of the recent accident to our Municipal Clerk, it has more serious results. In some outlying portions of our municipality, domestic water is obtained through the irrigation flume, and here and there about the district this water is carried along in open ditches. Instances have been called to the attention of the Review where citizens persist in tethering their cows where they contaminate the water by wading through the ditches. To say the least, those who persist in this practice are very inconsiderate and the authorities are perhaps equally to blame in not enforcing the pound laws. Unless this practice is speedily stopped there may be an outbreak of disease especially among the infants, and citizens will wonder why such a thing should occur in such a healthy locality. With ordinary care and the enforcement of the laws of the community such trouble could be avoided. At the same time it may be said that the pound law was not enacted with the view that it should be rigidly enforced, but more as a weapon to be used when necessary. When due consideration for one's neighbours is had there can be no reason why in some places the good growth of fodder by the roadside should not be utilized. But if the leniency shown by the authorities is persistently abused, it will be necessary that the law be strictly enforced.

SUMMERLAND FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

On Saturday evening, July 22nd, at eight o'clock, Professor R. W. Allen, who will conduct the Irrigation Demonstration at two o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, will address a meeting in the Hall of the Men's Club. His lecture will deal with the broader aspects of irrigation, particularly the relation of irrigation water to soils, and the problems of seepage, alkali, etc.

Mr. B. Hoy will also address the meeting. All friends who are interested in fruit growing are cordially invited both to the above meeting and to the Demonstration by Prof. Allen in the Colwell Orchard, at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, the 22nd inst. Those will be rare opportunities for our fruit growers to gather valuable information from an expert in this branch of horticulture.

Problem of Household Help

Solution Offered by Colonial Intelligence League.

The following letter from the British Columbia representative of the Colonial Intelligence League will perhaps offer some solution to the difficulty which is now experienced in the Okanagan and the province generally in obtaining household help of any kind. Miss Dorothy M. Davis, 2 The Nicola, 1020 Nicola Street, Vancouver, is ready to furnish leaflets etc., with full information as to the Organization, its objects, etc.

Dear Sir:

As the Representative in British Columbia of the Colonial Intelligence League, I beg to send you our leaflet, and would earnestly ask your interest and sympathy in this Imperial and practical movement.

We aim not merely, nor even primarily, at the immediate benefit of the educated women for whom we hope to find suitable careers in the overseas Dominions, but quite as sincerely at that of their employers on this side, and at the ultimate advantage of the countries which have been calling on the Motherland to send over its daughters.

There are waiting in England now over a hundred women and girls of the very best type, sifted by this League from among (at present) four times this number of applicants, who share the eagerness of their brothers to find new scope for energies and abilities in the new lands: Home-helps, Nurses, Dressmakers, Teachers, Secretaries, Typists, etc. These are of two main classes—those who have a little money of their own, and those who are entirely dependent on their earnings. In either case, each one of them is not only thoroughly qualified in her own line, but is also able and willing, if necessary, to undertake successfully domestic work of any kind. We pledge ourselves to supply only the most capable, and impress upon each applicant that efficiency is essential and that the incompetent and amateurish are utterly useless here. We propose to deal chiefly with the country districts, but shall also send girls to posts in towns whenever the conditions are suitable.

We therefore invite applications to us for women-workers of all sorts, besides those already enumerated, dispensers, expert poultry and flower farmers, dairy women, milliners, governesses, confident that our guarantee as to their ability and general character will prove wholly justified.

And in thus finding work for our applicants, we pledge ourselves only to send them to posts we have investigated and can guarantee reliable and offering adequate remuneration.

I shall be most grateful for any help in this work and information as to reliable openings.

Yours faithfully,
DOROTHY M. DAVIS,

Representative, C. I. L.

Stomach Agony

Abolish the Cause, and Misery and Distress of Indigestion will Vanish

Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people who suffer from belching of gas; biliousness; sour stomach, fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, bad taste in mouth, foul breath, nervousness and other distressing symptoms, are asking themselves that question daily.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of M-i-o-na, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to the Summerland Drug Company this very day and get a large box of M-i-o-na tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.

The price of M-i-o-na tablets is only fifty cents, and the Summerland Drug Company guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back.

Thin or lean or scrawny people will find in M-i-o-na a maker of flesh and blood, because it causes the stomach to extract more nutritious matter from the food, which quickly enriches the blood.

CO-OPERATIVE STORE A PROBABILITY.

Some time ago a committee of citizens was appointed with a view to looking into the practicability of forming a co-operative association to operate a supply store. Last Saturday night another meeting was held and reports received, and it was decided to go ahead with the proposition. The following permanent executive was appointed:— A. Steuart, chairman; D. Lister, secretary treasurer; A. Steven, F. J. Nixon, Thos. Dale, J. Steuart, C. Quipp. No building has as yet been secured, but it is understood the above-named executive committee will take up its duties at once.

A BAD RUNAWAY.

Another driving accident which fortunately had no disastrous results occurred Monday. Mr. B. H. Sherk and young son were driving out to his camp, where he is conducting clearing operations some eighteen miles back, and had nearly reached his destination, when, as they were going down a hill, the team became excited and attempted to get away. Mr. Sherk had them pretty well under control when a wheel came off the democat, throwing both him and the boy out. The lad was thrown under the wagon, but escaped uninjured. Mr. Sherk was not so fortunate. He received a bad cut under the eye which necessitated several stitches, and also received a general shaking-up. The team dashed wildly down the hill and continued for about a quarter of a mile, completely demolishing the rig and strewing along the way the load of provisions which it contained. The wild dash of the horses was only stopped by one of them coming into contact with a tree and falling to the ground. There was nothing of the wagon and contents worth bringing home. Mr. Sherk will probably be confined to his home for a few days.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION MEETING.

The Southern Okanagan Poultry Association recently held its annual meeting. C. N. Borton was re-elected President, and the various Vice-Presidents were also re-elected. The resignation of Walter M. Wright as Secretary was accepted, and C. P. Nelson was elected to that office.

The report of the year's business was ordered to be sent to the Live Stock Commissioner of British Columbia, with the request that the provincial grant be continued at the same figure as last year, or increased if possible. During the year the Association of necessity incurred some heavy expenses, among them being the purchase of some three hundred exhibition coops, which, of course, are now the property of the Association, and which will be of service for some years. In view of all these expenses it is not strange that the year's balance sheet should show a deficit of $65.00.

The officers hope that by the end of this year they will be able to show at least a clean sheet. C. N. Borton, W. Bently, H. Bristow and W. J. Ross were appointed a special committee to solicit additional members. As the annual membership fee is but one dollar per year, it should be easy for this committee to sufficiently increase the membership to make the Southern Okanagan Poultry Association a very influential organization. The Association is completing plans with a view to becoming somewhat of a commercial organization for the mutual benefit of its members, especially in the co-operative marketing of the products of our local poultry plants.

Dishes which have become brown and burnt from baking in the oven may easily be cleaned after they have stood a while in borax water.

ADVERTISE

A Snap In Acre Lots!!

For the purpose of disposing of his remaining acre lots before removing to Revelstoke, and as an inducement for an immediate sale, Mr. Robson has authorised us to state that no advance in price will be made until the 12th of August, when the price of each lot will be raised $50.00

These Lots are all planted, are situated within a few minutes walk from the Central School, the Church, Post Office and Store at West Summerland, and the domestic pipe line is conducted past two sides of the property.

For the man who may not be in a position to invest in a larger holding the prices and terms on these lots afford an unequalled opportunity, and, as a speculation, these values cannot be duplicated in Summerland at the present time.

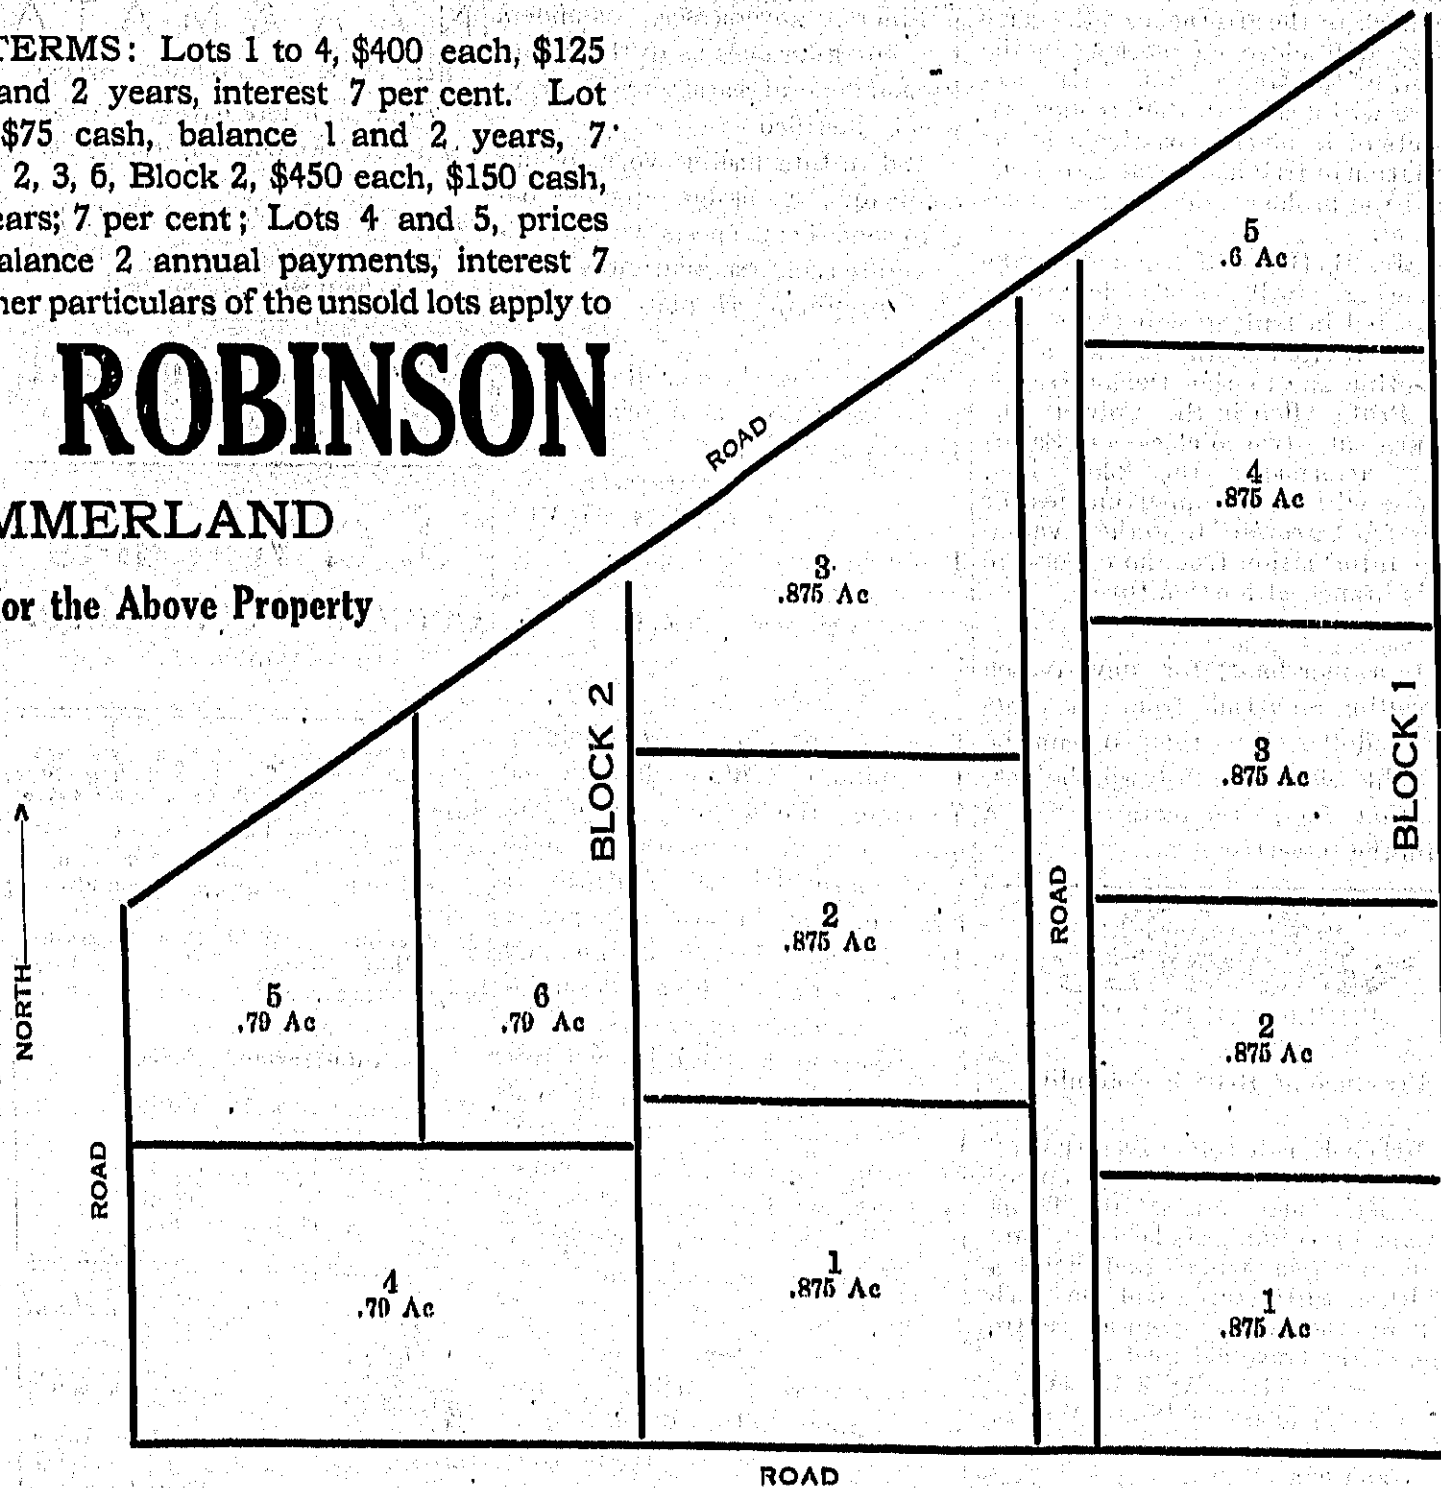

The following is a plan with the number and acreage of each lot:

PRICES AND TERMS: Lots 1 to 4, $400 each, $125 cash, balance 1 and 2 years, interest 7 per cent. Lot 5 Block 1, $210, $75 cash, balance 1 and 2 years, 7 per cent. THE BOY SCOUTS.

Quite a lot was done last Monday evening. After some drill by the Scout Master and a little semaphore drill, the troop was inspected by Col. Cartwright who also gave them a short talk. This was followed by the presentation of badges to those scouts who had passed into the "tenderfoot" stage. Twenty-four of the boys have earned these badges. The Scout Master then appointed three Patrol Leaders, naming D. Steuart, C. Adams and J. MacLeod as being most worthy of this distinction.

On Wednesday evening, the troop was divided into patrols, according to locality and size. Two additional Patrol Leaders, V. Merrill and G. Dalé were appointed. Entries for the sports were also received and the tug-o-war team chosen.

Everything indicates that the Field Day to-morrow, (Saturday), will be a big success. All scouts who can be requested to be at the College Campus at eight o'clock to help get the grounds ready, and to make final arrangements. The tug-o-war team to represent Summerland will be chosen from the following: D. Steuart, J. MacLeod, C. Stevens, G. Dale, K. Elliott, C. Adams, G. Roberston, W. Mumm, R. Steuart, W. Angove. In the 120 pounds wrestling, J. MacLeod will represent the local troop. The team for the relay race will be the same that won so easily at Penticton on Dominion Day.

At a recent meeting of the Local Council of the Baden Powell Scouts, several matters of importance were dealt with. The official title chosen for the troop recently organized here is "No. 1 Troop, Summerland Boy Scouts." Arrangements were made for the securing of the necessary scout suits, and financial matters were also discussed, ending in the appointment of a finance committee. While there has already been a very generous response to the call for the necessary funds to thoroughly establish this now very live organization, yet more funds would be desirable. Subscription lists have been placed at both branches of the Bank of Montreal, where donations may be paid, or funds may be sent direct to the secretary treasurer, Mr. Chas. A. Marshall, West Summerland. The governing council asked the Review particularly to state that any person interested in this world-wide movement will be very welcome at any of the Monday evening gatherings.

CAMPING TIPS.

Now that camping time will soon be here, lots of boys will be glad of a few hints on making themselves comfortable in camp. The best sleeping set-up is a shirt or a sweater, a pair of flannel shorts and long stockings. This, with a blanket, will be found warm and comfortable. Another way of sleeping is in a sleeping bag. All that is needed is a blanket and some sheets of thick brown ditch since May 1st last. He noticed saw-dust in the Trout Creek dam today, and in the gravel at the dam and on the side of the creek. He saw none in the reservoir, however. The saw-dust above the dam looked fresh.

PROVINCE vs. RICHARDSON.

James J. Mitchell was sworn. He said: "I was at Trout Creek to-day at the dam, with Messrs. Nixon and Rutherford, and found saw-dust in the creek above and at the dam, and could take it up in hand-fuls from the stones and shore of the creek. The saw-dust was partly old and partly new, mixed."

Joseph Arkell was sworn and said that he was a constable for the municipality, and that his instructions from Mr. Logie were to report any complaints made to him to Constable Tait.

Reeve-Ritchie was then sworn in. He stated that complaints were made to him of saw-dust in the new pipes in the lower part of the system, and also on Jones Flat. He learned that the saw-dust was coming in from Trout Creek and he instructed Mr. Nixon to have these cloth put in the flume. As soon as he was informed that saw-dust had been found, he telephoned Dr. Andrew, as health officer for the unorganized district outside of the Municipality, in which the saw mill is located. He was at the mill a week ago, and they were carrying saw-dust across the creek by a carrier. This carrier was open on the top and it looked as though boards had been recently put on the sides. The saw-dust is deposited in a hopper on the opposite side of the mill and hauled away from there. Saw-dust could be seen on each side of the creek beneath the carrier.

John Tooth, sworn, said: "I am the Provincial Constable for the Vernon district. I was at Richardson's mill on the 9th and 10th inst., and examined the mill carefully. I found that the saw-dust carrier in returning brought back more or less saw-dust which the wind would blow into the creek. I was at the intake pipe this morning and brought back three samples of saw-dust." These samples were placed on exhibition. The first, a very black, decayed-looking sample was taken, out of the creek in an eddy at the intake. A worse looking sample was taken a quarter of a mile below the intake. The third, principally sand and gravel, was taken from the flume near the reservoir. He saw lots of decayed vegetable matter, dead trees, leaves, etc., at the reservoir, but no trace of sawdust. He learned that the reservoir was used as a skating and curling rink. Constable Tooth stated that his opinion was that the reservoir was in a very bad state, not being cleaned at the shores. This closed the case for the prosecution.

For the defense, William Carr was sworn and testified that he was foreman at Richardson's mill and had been over since the mill was built in 1909 and started operations the following year. Precautions were taken in the building to comply with the Act re refuse, with which Act he was familiar with. There was no saw-dust or refuse allowed to go into the creek. He examined the creek for more than a mile below the mill and saw no saw-dust.

Robert Powers was the next witness. Asked if he had ever seen any saw-dust in the creek, he said that he had never seen any. This completed the case for the defense, and the court was cleared. The evidence was at once considered by Magistrates Guernsey and English, and in about five minutes Mr. Richardson and Constable Tooth were recalled, and the judgment of the Court given, which was that the case be dismissed and each side to pay its own costs. The magistrate stated in his remarks that if the Municipality of Summerland had made reasonable investigations they would have saved the Provincial Government a good deal of expense and trouble.

About town general dissatisfaction is expressed. It was expected that this case would be conducted with a view of learning if there was saw-dust in Trout Creek. It developed into an investigation of the prevalence of saw-dust in Summerland's domestic water main which was proven, but the investigation did not definitely fix the blame, at least to the satisfaction of the citizens. Are we to have a continuance of the nuisance? And if so, who is to be held responsible? Or is the trouble now at an end? This is what mostly concerns the public.

SUMMERLAND HOSPITAL.

Summerland,

July 20th, 1911.

The Editor,
Summerland Review,
Summerland, B.C.

Dear Sir:
I shall be much obliged if you can find room for the following letter of thanks, on behalf of the Hospital Board.

The Treasurer of the Summerland Hospital has just received a handsome cheque amounting to $51.85 from Mr. William Sauter, on behalf of those ladies and gentlemen who played so ably in that very enjoyable piece "The Importance of Being Earnest," and in the name of the members of the Board, he wishes to express appreciation for this very valuable assistance.

In Mr. Sauter's letter, he regrets that the cheque is not larger, but we can all guess how tremendously a first performance must run into heavy expenses, especially when no amount of trouble and expense are considered too much in order to put on as first class staging as we saw on the night of that performance. I might mention that the fee for that play for one night alone is $25.

I am sure we all look forward with pleasure to the next piece produced under Mr. Sauter's able guidance.

Yours sincerely,
E. B. MAY,

Hon. Treasurer,
Summerland Hospital.

VANCOUVER MARKET REPORT.

The following is the market report for the week ending July 15th. The supplies were large and regular and the market had a good week. Strawberries $2.50 to $3 per crate. Rhubarb (slow) 60c to 75c per box. Potatoes, new, $2.50 to $3 per sack. Broilers $4 to $5 per doz. Hens $7 to $10 per doz. Pigs 8 weeks, $4.50 to $5 each. Hay $16 to $20 per ton. Cabbage 3c per pound. Raspberries, small size, $2 to $2.25 per crate.

The horse sale on Saturday was well attended and there was a large number of entries. Bidding was brisk and the prices obtained were good.

NOTICE.

A Public Meeting of the Summerland Hospital Society will be held in the Council Chambers on Monday evening, the 24th inst., at 7:30 o'clock, to which all citizens are urgently invited.

A recommendation from the Board to close the Hospital will be considered and voted upon, and other important business transacted. Every reader of this notice should attend.

Senator Kirchhoffer, who has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. J. M. Sutherland, has returned to his home in Brandon.

Wm. Cross, of Winnipeg, has been spending a few days in Summerland. Business in connection with his eleven-acre lot in Prairie Valley was the occasion of his visit.

A small parcel was found on the new wharf some time ago. It remained uncalled for at the C. P. R. offices, and when opened lately, was found to contain a ladies tweed skirt. If interested, inquire at the C. P. R. office.

One of the best situated and most beautiful pieces of property in Naramata, is 35 acres belonging to Mr. John Niblock, of that town. Mr. Thos. Peacock, father of Mrs. W. J. Robinson, has just completed negotiations for the purchase of this beautiful home and orchard.

Mr. C. D. Kerr, who for some time has acted as teller in the Summerland branch of the Bank of Montreal, has recently been transferred to the Victoria branch of the same institution. Mr. Fletcher, of Hosmer, B.C., is expected here soon to take up the duties of teller.

More names of Summerland residents who were not called upon by the census enumerator have been given to the Review during the week. If there are yet others who were not counted, as residents of Summerland, and who were residing here previous to the 1st of June we shall be pleased to have their names.

What might have proven a disastrous fire was discovered at the sawmill north of Naramata very early last Tuesday morning. The Okanagan was just approaching Naramata wharf when the fire was noticed by some on board, and without delay she steamed up to give assistance. When she arrived, however, the mill crew had the fire well under control. It is understood that the damage was not very great.

We publish below a more detailed result than we had space for last week, of the polling on By-Law No. 34, otherwise known as the Hospital Aid By-law:

The Ladies Hospital Auxiliary held a very successful lawn social, on the spacious grounds surrounding the residence of Rev. H. A. Ly. About thirty ladies were present. Ordinary business was first proceeded with, and this was followed by a tea. Among those present were several girls, and these young ladies have arranged to meet at the home of Mrs. R. C. Lipsett on Tuesday next, to organize a Junior Auxiliary in connection with the already existing Ladies' Auxiliary.

Mr. John Borton, father of the popular proprietor of our local plumbing establishment, has recently returned to Summerland. Mr. Borton came here some three months ago with his eyesight greatly impaired. Previous to coming here he was manager for some years of the plumbing and heating department of Bourne Bros. at Revelstoke. About two months ago he went to Vancouver and underwent an operation for the removal of a cataract in his right. This operation, which proved highly successful, was performed by Dr. Glenn Campbell. Mr. Borton's physical condition is now so satisfactory that he contemplates engaging in business for himself.

At the County Court, held in Penticton on Friday last, a case of local interest was tried. This was W. H. T. Gahan, Penticton vs. W. C. Kelly of Summerland. Both plaintiff and defendant are solicitors and it is quite unusual for those of the profession to sue one another. As told to the Review the case came about as follows: Some time ago, Mr. Gahan appeared here in the interests of some parties who were defendants in case in which Mr. Kelly was plaintiff, and which, we understand, was gained by Mr. Kelly. Mr. Gahan's clients refused to pay him and he demanded remuneration from Mr. Kelly, which was refused. Mr. Kelly looking upon the claim as a "hold up," and he determined to stand suit rather than pay up. Action was taken by Mr. Gahan, and the case came up last week as stated. The hearing occupied half a day. Mr. Gahan was represented by Attorney McIntyre of Kamloops. Mr. Kelly defended his own case. At times the argument was heated, and each flatly contradicted the statements of the other. After considering the evidence, the Court dismissed the case, with costs in favor of Mr. Kelly. Another case of interest here was that of McKenzie v. Logie. This, however, was adjourned until the next sitting of the Court, owing to the inability of the defendant to be present due to his recent accident.

The Summerland Boat Works, Messrs. Shields, Hatfield & Clark, proprietors, have just launched a large cruiser. She is a craft of 35 feet keel and 8 feet beam, with a V transom stern, and is provided with ample freeboard. Her timbers are of oak and she is planked with cedar. The interior is divided into three compartments, the engine room, cabin and cockpit, the latter being in the stern. The cabin is being finished in white enamel with clear oak window frames, etc. The combination cabin with which she is fitted, while perhaps not so graceful as the modern hunting cabin, is very comfortably arranged. She is fitted with a gasoline tank of sixty gallons capacity, and has a double steering gear so that the craft can be handled either from the cabin or the cockpit. Her motive power will be ample, as her engine is a three cylinder, 18 horse power, 4 cycle, medium duty Fairbanks Morse motor. The engine is fitted with a double system of ignition, each system being completely distinct and separate from the other, even to two sets of spark plugs, one for each cylinder. Attached to the engine is a high tension magneto, and the boat will be fitted with a storage battery, and a direct current dynamo for charging the battery and to furnish light. The cruiser is being fitted with electric light throughout, including a large searchlight. The engine control is all placed immediately in front of the wheelsman, making her very easy to handle. The boat has been built to order for W. E. W. Mitchell, of Kelowna, who is to be congratulated on the possession of such a staunch, comfortable craft.

Expert Horticulturists Visit Summerland.

Local Fruit Growers Are Given Some New Ideas.

The Importance of Proper Irrigation is Emphasized. Summer Pruning, Cover Crops, Thinning and Soil Cultivation are Essential.

The horticultural specialists, Prof. R. W. Allan and Mr. B. Hoy, who are touring the province under the supervision of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, arrived in Summerland on Friday of last week. Saturday forenoon was spent in looking about among a number of orchards and learning the methods used by our local orchardists, and getting information as to the varieties of soil, contour of the land, etc.

Though the afternoon was a pretty warm one, there was a fairly representative gathering at the Colwill orchard, where an irrigation demonstration was to be given. There Prof. Allen went into the matter of irrigation very thoroughly and answered a number of questions put to him. Quite a number of new ideas were put forth, which, no doubt will be utilized by our progressive fruit growers.

The Professor was very emphatic in urging that a thorough preparation of the land should be made before the trees are planted, and that irregular surfaces should be graded down. This, he contended, would be a great saving for all years to come in time and labor necessary for irrigation.

A very good suggestion about the setting out of sidehill orchards was made by the Professor, the method being one which apparently has not been adopted here. Instead of laying out the sidehill in regular rows as is generally done, his plan would be to lay out rows, irregular if necessary, so as to follow along a line of easy grade for irrigating. Along these ditch rows trees could be planted which would be regular when viewed at right angles to the ditch lines, and this arrangement would greatly facilitate the matter of applying water. One and a half to three per cent. grade would be sufficient, much depending on the nature of the soil. In lieu of an engineer's level, the Professor described a home made tool which made a very simple and yet very effective and convenient one, with which the ditch lines might be run along the hill side. While this irregular lay-out might not, at first thought, seem good, Prof. Allen stated that the deviation would not be as great as might appear. A sidehill plough is best adapted to the work.

Another suggestion which was received with a good deal of interest by some of the growers, was the plan proposed for the fluming of irregular lots. Prof. Allen described how that a lot with its lowest part running through the middle, and the highest parts along the edges, could best be flumed. Ordinarily, a flume on each side, or along one end with longer ditches would be used. But the Professor showed how that a flume might be run down the middle, following the lower grade and ditches run out at a suitable angle. This would leave only the upper corners unreached by this system. Then where there is a ridge along the middle with the ground sloping down on each side, a flume could be placed along this ridge, and instead of allowing the water to run directly down the slopes, ditches could be run at acute angles from the flume carrying the water, back towards the highest part of the ridge, making the descent for the flow of water very easy.

The depth of the different irrigation furrows was also discussed. As was shown by the Professor, this all depended upon the nature of the crop and the condition and texture of the soil. For an average soil in an orchard with trees thirty feet apart, he advised furrows an equal distance right through, that is, if the soil would permit of furrows ten feet apart. The first would be five feet from the tree, the next fifteen and the next twenty-five, or five feet from the next row, which would bring the next ditch on the other side of the second row, ten feet from the third ditch of the first series. With shallow soil, or soil with a gravelly subsoil, more frequent applications of water must be made, with the furrows closer together and the water applied for a shorter length of time. In no two orchards, Professor Allan stated, were conditions likely to be the same, and no fixed rule could be given. Each must study his own soil, its depth, the nature of the sub-soil, etc., and apply water according to the conditions found. Water must be applied so that all the soil beneath the dust mulch is thoroughly moistened, and hence the necessity for the furrows at frequent intervals. By having the furrow fairly deep the water will reach out and down without saturating and caking the dust mulch. At the same time care must be taken that the soil is not so filled as to prevent the admission of the air to the roots of the trees. It is well to have the water go down deep so that the roots of the trees will of necessity go deep, rather than follow along the surface.

Prof. Allan, when questioned, said he would not recommend the keeping of permanent irrigation ditches, as they would interfere with cultivation and admit of evaporation.

Too much water was bad for the trees. Just as little as is required by the tree should be used, and that amount kept in the soil as long as possible by frequent cultivation. The finer soils would receive and hold the greatest amount of water, while the more open soils require more frequent applications with closer furrows. The Professor discouraged late irrigation, that is, in so far as summer irrigation is concerned. So long as water is applied the tree will continue to grow new wood which will not be sufficiently matured to withstand the winter frosts.

Late irrigation in a new way was suggested, the commonsense of which seemed to appeal to many of the listeners. The Professor stated that while it was advisable that irrigation cease some time in August, it was not well to have the tree-roots too dry during the winter. This, he stated, could be overcome by an application of water to the soil after the trees had become dormant, and yet not so late as to run any risk of freezing. The time for this application would vary according to locality. In this way, he contended that the trees would winter much better with less risk of winter killing, and also that the trees would be in better condition for growth the following spring.

Professor Allan also took up the topic of cover crops together with the question of the advisability of growing crops between trees. One of the greatest objections to the growing of field crops of any kind in the orchard is the necessity of keeping the upper soil moist, which would tend to induce the tree rootlets to come to the surface, thus making them susceptible to the winter frosts. Another objection was that the tree roots and the crop roots were of necessity contending with one another, and both must suffer. There were three different plans under which the orchard soil could be treated, namely:

A sod cover.
Constant clean cultivation.
The use of fall cover crops.

The objection to the first was much the same as to the growing of field crops, and to the second he objected on the grounds that the surface would completely change in its nature, due to the constant exposure to the sun and air, and any humus that it might contain, would, in all probability, be carried away by the wind. The ideal plan seemed to be for a thorough cultivation in the spring when the soil was not too wet nor yet too dry to be readily broken into small lumps rather than into fine dust, and that this condition should be maintained until the last application of water. Then a cover crop should be sown and allowed to remain on the ground until the following spring. This would be a considerable protection to the roots and would hold snow and help to store up moisture in the soil for the winter, and the ploughing under of such a crop would be a very material benefit to the orchard soil and the trees. When questioned as to the advisability of using alfalfa, he strongly discouraged its use in the orchard. When once it was established it was very hard to eradicate. It would largely depend upon the object in view as to what cover crop should be sown. For increasing the amount of nitrogen in the soil, nothing is better than clover. If for cover crop and to increase the amount of humus, rye is an excellent agent.

Mr. Ben Hoy followed Professor Allan, and gave his views on the summer pruning of peaches which he had noted in the morning in a number of orchards. He thought that a great mistake was being made in cutting out so much of this year's growth. The talk soon became a general one, and a large group gathered about a peach tree and the discussion was continued for some time, both as to the best methods of pruning and when to prune. Mr. Hoy does not believe in making summer pruning a general practice, and where necessary it was a little early yet to undertake the work. If summer pruning is practised, it should be done just before the dropping of the terminal bud, so that there would still be some sap to flow to and strengthen the remaining buds. If the pruning was done too early it would only result in the production of shoots or suckers that would not withstand the winter. He contended that there was not much trouble in this locality to get a sufficient quantity of fruit-buds to form, therefore it would be unnecessary to summer prune for fruit. In the younger trees, pruning by pinching off the buds might in some cases be a benefit in helping to form the tree.

THE EVENING SESSION.

At the evening session, which had a fairly good attendance, Mr. Hoy addressed the gathering on "Timely Topics." He again touched on the matter of summer pruning, which he said must be practiced with great care if satisfactory results are to be obtained. There would be one of two objects in summer pruning: either for shaping the tree, or for fruit. He advised great caution in doing this work.

In reply to a question as to the advisability of summer pruning the Northern Spy, Mr. Hoy stated that this variety would stand it better than any other tree.

To another question he replied that young trees should be trimmed down to about twenty inches, and no limbs should be allowed to grow nearer the ground than fifteen inches.

He then discussed the advisability of thinning for larger, more uniform and better colored fruit. He stated that it was natural for apple trees to produce fruit every other year, and if a tree was allowed to continue without thinning this natural trait would assert itself. He contended that the numerous spurs could not produce both apples and new shoots. Apples should be thinned to from four to six inches, according to the variety and the size required. The time to thin is the latter part of June or the first of July.

Mr. Hoy reported that he had found very few cover crops being grown in Summerland. He advised sowing all such crops this fall as they were needed if the soil and trees are to be kept up. His advice as to the best system of orchard cultivation was along the same line as that which was given by Prof. Allan during the afternoon. A cover crop when sown late in the season would take up the plant life of the soil that might otherwise be blown away, and also hold moisture and snow. He advised sowing the cover crop late in August about the time of the last irrigation, and said that the crop must be ploughed under early in the spring.

Among the leguminous plants suitable for cover crops were clovers, vetches, peas, beans, etc. Clover would probably be the most practical. The non-leguminous are rye, fall wheat, etc. He thought that rye was the best of the latter class, as it put an abundance of humus into the soil.

Naramata Amateur Athletic Association Regatta

No. 2 of the 1911 Series a Decided Success.

Large Crowds. Good Sports. Exciting War Canoe Races. Great Enthusiasm. Delightful Weather.

On Thursday afternoon, the Naramata Amateur Athletic Association held their second regatta of the season.

The weather was all that could be desired, with just sufficient breeze to temper the heat of the day, and the result was a good crowd assembled together at the famous watering place of the Sunny Okanagan.

The Aberdeen from Kelowna and Peachland, and the York from Penticton and Summerland deposited each a good load of passengers.

The Maude Moore plied a few times between Summerland and Naramata, and motor boats galore from all points on the lake were in attendance.

From the wharf to the grand stand visitors stopped to admire the grounds of the Hotel, which are at present in splendid condition, and every credit is due to those who are responsible for this glorious show of flowers and shrubs.

At the grand stand everything was splendidly arranged for dealing with the large crowd, and though not so large a crowd as we have seen, still the stands were fairly well filled. The reason of the shortage was that the C. P. R. instead of charging the advertised rates, as arranged for, charged full fare, with the result that many who were on the wharves at the towns mentioned, all ready for the regatta, wended their way homeward before they would pay the fare asked by the C. P. R. The following was read from the Judges' Stand, and the Regatta Committee are going to take the matter up with the C. P. R.

"The Committee of Arrangements learn that the people of Kelowna, Peachland and Penticton were charged full fare by the C. P. R. As arrangements were made with the C. P. R. for excursion rates, and guarantees signed, if each town will appoint its own representative, and take a receipt from the Purser of the Steamer, acknowledging the number of fares, and mail the same to the secretary, Naramata Amateur Athletic and Aquatic Association, the matter will be taken up with the C. P. R. and endeavors made to secure a refund."

It was some considerable time ere the regatta got fairly started, but once under weigh, the events went off in good order.

The Judges were Mayor Sutherland, Kelowna, Reeve Garroway, of Peachland, and Councillor J. R. Brown, of Summerland.

The Sailing Race was declared off, there being no entrants. In the Single Canoe Race, only two put in an appearance, Stevens of Kelowna, and Campbell of Naramata, the former proving an easy winner.

The Double Sculling race was well matched, but G. Barkwill and J. Rowley, of Summerland, proved too strong for H. Mulford and Capt. Languedoc, of Naramata. The winning boat covered the 1/2 mile in 2 min. 37 sec.

The Double Canoe Race was good fun, two entries, and Stevens and Nuttall were victors. Campbell and Cruikshank were very game losers. They shipped a load of water at the turn, and paddled well on towards the winning post, when their craft, unlike most of the very temperate people of the Okanagan, got too full, and went under. The owners swam ashore, and a motor boat rescued the canoe.

The War Canoe race of 15 paddles for the Robinson Cup, proved a very one way win for Kelowna. The Peachland crew broke a paddle at the very start, but they were handicapped accordingly.

The Motor Boat race was a handicap, seven competitors having to go round the course to get their handicap. In the actual race six were disqualified for coming in away ahead of the time of their trial spin, and Mr. Hancock, of Naramata, was the successful competitor. One of the contestants got into difficulties at the first lap, and had to be towed ashore.

The race for the Single Sculling class was a very good one, and G. Barkwill, of Summerland, shewed that a long, steady stroke is the winner every time. Mr. Denniston, of Penticton, was the second, and H. Mulford of Naramata, made a good third.

The mixed War Canoe race of nine paddles was a very close one. At the start Kelowna headed out first, but did not keep their lead. The splendid paddling of the Naramata crew proving too strong, and the latter won out by just the nose of the canoe, amidst great excitement, and much yelling.

The Relay Swimming Race was a great attraction, and the Peachland team were the successful competitors, Kelowna following.

The Tilting event was the source of much laughter, and was a most enjoyable feature of the program. There were four competitors, and Messrs. Cruikshank and Campbell were the winners. The nine paddle War Canoe race was won by Peachland, by about three feet, Kelowna being the other competing team.

In the Diving competition, Mr. Bourne of Kelowna gave a splendid exhibition, winning out on all three dives, Messrs. Waddle and Errington being second and third respectively.

A Tug-o-War was arranged, and some good sport was provided here of an impromptu nature, but none the less thoroughly enjoyed by all. The competing teams were Naramata Saw-mill, Penticton, Kelowna and Naramata. The mill and Kelowna won their heats, and ultimately the Kelowna boys won out altogether, and were presented with a very pretty cup for their staunch pulling.

During the regatta, the Summerland Band played very lively music which was thoroughly enjoyed, and from 6.30 to 8.00 they adjourned to the lawn in front of the new Hotel, and there entertained the numerous diners being attended to within the spacious building.

The Hotel, surrounded as it is by beautiful flower gardens, was one of the principal centres of interest, especially towards supper time, when an excellent meal, tastefully served was provided there. The dining room, furnished in mission style, looked very attractive with its flower decorated tables, which seat over forty persons at one time, and which were so well patronized that crowds were waiting their turn in the hall. The hall and staircase are quite an interesting feature of this hotel, being designed and finished in excellent taste, the colors quiet and rich, and everything in restful harmony. The verandah is wide and shady and an additional sitting out place is found in the conservatory, at one end of the dining room. Upstairs the bedrooms and bathrooms open off long corridors forming a sort of Maltese cross, and having a fine balcony over the verandah. Altogether, the new hotel is quite an acquisition to the district.

When the sun went down in fiery splendour on the last of the regatta and the visitors were setting off for their various homes, the Naramata young folks set ablaze a long row of bonfires which they had built on the shore. Their lights were seen far out on the lake looking like a fine exclamation lit up with brilliant lamps. A dance in the evening which was thoroughly enjoyed by those in attendance brought the jollifications to a close.

Fire Sweeps Giant's Head.

Last Friday's Electrical Storm Starts Conflagration.

Flames Rage While Officials Cvil as to who Should Take Charge.

The event of the week in Summerland, no doubt, has been the fire on Giant's Head mountain. This fire had its origin in the electrical storm last Friday which passed directly from east to west over the mountain. The storm, while it lasted, was an unusually severe one for this community, and along the line of Trout Creek there was a heavy downpour for a few minutes.

Lightning struck on the eastern face of the mountain, and ignited a log which was lying on the mountain side. The blaze was noticed by some residents of this section, and they climbed the slope and buried the burning log, thinking thus to extinguish the fire. The log continued to smoulder, however, and on Sunday night a small blaze could be seen. Early Monday morning there were indications that the fire was spreading, and a message to that effect was sent to the Municipal Office.

As too often occurs in the official world, there seemed to be no clear knowledge as to whose duty it was to assume charge, and with it there was the official hesitation lest some one might be interfering with the duties of another. In the meantime the fire was having everything its own way and continued to spread with marvellous rapidity.

Under the new fire regulations of the Provincial Government, Summerland is in the unfortunate position of being in two fire districts.

The northern portion of the municipality belongs to the district of which Peachland is the centre, and over which Mr. R. J. Hogg is fire warden. The southern portion is divided from the northern by an imaginary line running due east from Ninth Street, past the northern side of the Hotel. This section comes under the jurisdiction of Mr. S. Sutherland who has charge of the district of which Penticton is the centre. It was understood that Mr. R. H. English was the local representative of both these men, with instructions to notify either of any trouble in his particular district in this vicinity. Upon this understanding, Reeve Ritchie, when informed of the fire, immediately advised Mr. English.

Mr. English, however, refused to take any action upon the grounds that he was no longer connected with the Department, and also that the fire was within the Municipal limits; and not knowing the division between the two fire districts, a wire was sent to Mr. Hogg, of Peachland, notifying him of the blaze, and later he was telephoned for, but he had already left for Summerland. Upon his arrival here, Mr. Hogg found that the fire was out of his jurisdiction, and while quite willing to be of any assistance, was loathe to take charge of another's territory. He accordingly sent a telephone message to Mr. Sutherland, fire warden at Penticton to the effect that there was a fire on Giant's Head, and asking him to come at once. In the meantime some citizens were at work doing the best they could, and some kind advice was given them by Mr. Hogg, as how best to handle the fire.

Mr. Sutherland, upon his arrival here, finding the fire was within the municipal limits refused to take charge, contending that the Municipality should handle it. Finding that things were in such a mix-up, volunteers were called for by Reeve Ritchie, and Mr. Watson, road foreman was given charge. By this time it was Monday evening, and the fire had assumed alarming proportions. It was all above the water line and the greatest danger was the constant rolling of burning logs down the slopes. A large crew of men were procured, and teams were put to work ploughing furrows round the base. A great deal of hard work was put in during Monday night. On Tuesday the fire gradually crept down towards the north-east, and at one time was within a hundred yards of the Skating Rink. The point of greatest danger about that time was Alex Steuart's stables, and matters became so serious that all the stores at West Summerland were closed at noon on Tuesday to allow all hands to turn out and fight fire. More ploughing was done and fires set to check the larger blaze. By Tuesday night the worst of the fire was over, but all the week burning logs continued to roll down and mountain side and a constant patrol had to be maintained.

As the story is told by R. H. English, he had a telephone message from the Water and Light Office on Monday morning, saying that there was a fire on Giant's Head, and that the Department had sent two men down to protect the flames, and asking Mr. English to send more men to help extinguish the fire. Mr. English thought it surprising that the officials of the Municipality apply to him, as he had had nothing to do with such work since resigning his position as road foreman months ago, and in any event, he questioned if the provincial Government would assume any responsibility within an organized municipality. However, he referred them to Mr. Hogg, of Peachland.

WHOSE RESPONSIBILITY?

As to who should assume the responsibility of stamping out a bush fire, when it occurs within an organized municipality has been the question, and it has seemingly been decided by the municipal officials that the provincial government is not relieved of any responsibility by the fact that the danger has presented itself within such a district.

The damage caused by the fire has not been very great. Much of the standing timber will not be seriously injured, the fire being mostly among the fallen wood and bush.

During Monday and Tuesday nights, particularly the former, the myriad of small fires dotting the southern, eastern and southern sides of the great mound, made it an object of great interest and attraction to those who were not more materially concerned. Viewed from anywhere on the lakeside the mountain with all its glowing fires looked much like a well-lighted city, set on the top and slopes of a great hill. Probably it was much more suggestive of some of the great hills upon which Seattle is set as viewed from the Sound by night than of anything else.

LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE CONNECTION SOON.

Manager C. S. Stevens, of the Lake Shore Telephone Company, in conversation with a Review representative early in the week stated that he expected the pay station which he had ordered for the use of the long distance office to arrive on Wednesday or Thursday's boat. He has already obtained the permission of the long distance agent to install the instrument, and has arranged for a suitable connection for local subscribers. After this instrument is installed, the subscribers of the local exchange will simply call up central and ask for connection with the long distance office. When it is required a direct connection with the trunk line can then be had.

The Summer Messenger of Death.

(By Grace Williamson Willett, in The Woman's World.)

Experts declare that 5,000 out of every 7,000 from the summer diarrhoea would be prevented by the destruction of the flies. Today the fly is regarded as one of the most dangerous animals on earth. He is probably responsible for more sickness and death, especially among the children, than any other single agent. Health departments all over the United States are bent upon exterminating him. A national fly-fighting committee has been established. Bureaus and committees use educational methods.

BREEDS IN FILTH.

All through his life the fly persists in his dirty habits. He feeds upon refuse in the street and then slips into the nursery where your baby is sleeping. He breakfasts in a pig-pen, drinks from a cess-pool and dines in unspeakable places. Then, attracted by a garbage can outside your door, he comes to spend the afternoon in your kitchen.

He hurries to the breakfast table with us, crawls over the toast and sips the cream. He drops into the coffee cup, and in an effort to get out again leaves behind him a few thousand bacteria he has brought with him from your neighbor's garbage can. He samples the meat the butcher neglects to keep in the ice-box. He tastes the fruits and vegetables exposed on the sidewalk stands. In fact, he noses about into everything.

As many as 6,000,000 bacteria of many kinds—typhoid and tuberculosis predominating—have been found on a single fly. A fly that was caught in a Chicago outhouse was found to be covered with typhoid bacillus. Last summer, consumption germs were thick upon the flies for some distance around the Dunning hospital near Chicago. You are criminally negligent if you allow even a few flies in your home. There may be cholera infantum germs on a single fly that will bring suffering and death to your baby.

RULES FOR FLY NUISANCE.

Keep the flies away from the sick, especially those ill with contagious diseases. Kill every fly that strays into the sick room. His body is covered with disease germs.

Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulate on or near your premises.

All refuse which tends in any way to fermentation, such as bedding straw, paper waste and vegetable matter, should be disposed of or covered with lime or kerosene oil. Screen all food.

Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered and the cans cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime.

Keep all stable manure in vault or pit, screened or sprinkled, with lime, oil, or other cheap preparation.

See that your sewerage system is in good order, that it does not leak, is up-to-date and not exposed to flies. Pour kerosene into the drains.

Cover food after a meal, burn or bury all table refuse.

Screen all food exposed for sale.

Screen all windows and doors, especially the kitchen and dining room.

Burn pyrethrum powder in the house to kill the flies.

Don't forget if you see flies, their breeding place is nearby filth.

It may be behind the door, under the table or in the cuspidor.

If there is no dirt and filth there will be no flies.

If there is a nuisance in the neighborhood, write at once to the health department.

The Okanagan Fruit Union is having its name placed upon the warehouse at West Summerland, and the "SUMMERLAND" sign will soon be placed on the packing house down town, over the name of the Union, on the side facing the lake.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Mr. Roy Phtnney, while engaged at his work in the Supply Company's store at West Summerland, had the extreme misfortune to receive serious injuries. He and his father were moving some cases when Roy received an internal injury that will probably incapacitate him for many weeks. He is now confined to his home, and must remain on his back for some time at least.

FUNDS FOR THE COLLEGE.

Judging from the reports published in some of the coast papers, some of our citizens have gotten the impression that the Baptist denomination of the Province are furnishing their College located here with $30,000. Nothing quite so good for the institution has come about. The denomination in this Province is linked with the Baptists of the prairie provinces, as a Western Canada Convention. This organization has an educational section which is just now completing the raising of some $50,000, for the Baptist College at Brandon, and at the last meeting of the Convention it was suggested that $30,000 be raised for the Summerland institution. The educational board of the province accordingly applied to the Convention of representatives of the various provincial churches for permission to canvass for this amount among the churches, and this permission was granted. The educational secretary will accordingly take up the work at an early date, in British Columbia, with the object of getting subscriptions for a total of $30,000 to be paid within three years.

Dear Sir:

Who put the saw-dust in the water-pipes?

The information that has been produced in this matter is of more than passing interest. The story, briefly, is as follows:

The Reeve, owing to the state of public feeling, placed the matter in the hands of the Provincial Health Officer, and I was charged with the offence. The evidence produced at the investigation showed that the saw-dust was put into the pipes by municipal employees to make tight joints. Now the pipe contract either does or does not set forth the manner in which the joints were to be made; if it does, why did not the Council see that the work was supervised properly and tight joints made before the job was taken off the contractor's hands. If it does not, how is it that the Council entered into such a loose agreement, and have in consequence a pipe line that will be a continual charge to maintain in an efficient state? What should we, as a community, do in the matter? Are we to go to the expense of lifting the pipe line to remove the saw-dust, the presence of which is a menace to the public health, as shown by the action of the provincial authorities, or are we going to run chances, and at the same time endure the inconvenience of clogged pipes?

When the Council, or rather the secret section of it, known as the Board of Control, learned of the leaky joints, did they authorize any particular method of making them tight? If so, did they recommend saw-dust? Or did they leave the matter to the foreman? If so, is the foreman the proper man for his job?

Why was I selected as the scapegoat, when the sin plainly lay at the door of the municipal authorities?

The answers to these questions, if they can be obtained, will, I think, be of advantage to the ratepayers.

Yours truly,
A. RICHARDSON.

WEST SUMMERLAND FIRE BRIGADE CALLED OUT.

A small fire which suddenly assumed alarming proportions brought the recently organized fire brigade at West Summerland hurriedly into action early this week.

The Misses Spencer had been burning some rubbish, and the wind which sprang up from the north-west carried the flames into some brush and onwards towards the business houses at West Summerland with alarming rapidity.

The fire alarm was sounded by the ringing of the church bell and the brigade quickly got into action. Further help was obtained from those fighting the Giant's Head fire, and in all some sixty men were engaged amid much excitement.

Two tent-houses which were directly in the line of the fire were picked up bodily with their contents by the small army of men, and carried to places of safety. It was not long, however, before the fire was subdued and the men dispersed.

But this was not all, for about midnight the alarm was again sounded, and Captain Steven Phillip's brigade was again called into action. The strong wind which had sprung up during the evening had fanned some smouldering embers which had been overlooked, but it did not take the brigade long to finally extinguish the blaze.

FAREWELL GATHERING.

Presentation to Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Estabrook.

A large number of friends gathered on Reeve Ritchie's lawn on Tuesday evening last to bid farewell to Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Estabrook, who with their family, left for Vancouver on Thursday morning. Previous to his appointment to the Superintendency of Baptist Missions in British Columbia, Mr. Estabrook was pastor of the Baptist church here. His work now covers the province, and he is under the direction of the Convention of Western Canada. The evening was very pleasantly spent, and farewell addresses were listened to from Rev. G. J. Coulter-White, on behalf of the Summerland Baptist Church; Mrs. White, on behalf of the Ladies' Mission Circle; Dr. E. W. Sawyer, on behalf of the College; and Mr. C. S. Stevens, on behalf of the citizens of Summerland. During his address, Dr. Sawyer presented Mr. Estabrook with a purse containing a substantial amount in cash, this being contributed by the members and congregation of the Baptist church as a token of the esteem in which they hold their departing friends.

In reply, Mr. Estabrook regretted the necessity of leaving Summerland, but stated that his work required much of his time in larger circles, and in order to be with his family as much as possible they had concluded it better to make their home in Vancouver.

VALUABLE TROPHIES ARRIVE.

A small shipment of considerable value recently arrived in Summerland. It was the trophies won by the Summerland Lawn Tennis Club at the Kelowna Tournament.

The challenge cup, otherwise known as the Wynch Cup, for the gentlemen's doubles, and won by Messrs. P. G. Dodwell and R. F. Theed, is a very handsome piece as well as a valuable one, probably costing all of $200. It is of sterling silver, and stands 21 inches in height on an ebony pedestal. This cup is to be played for each year and held by the winning club. It is beautifully engraved on the front, and on the back is the year and the names of the winning players and club. The Shatford cup, while considerably smaller, is also a very pretty one. This is the challenge cup for the gentlemen's singles, and was won by Mr. P. G. Dodwell, and if won for three successive years becomes the property of the club. Another fine cup was put up by the Summerland Club for the ladies doubles. This was won by Mrs. E. B. May and Mrs. E. R. Simpson. The Vernon club had also put up a cup of very neat and pleasing design for the mixed doubles, which was won by Mrs. E. B. May and Mr. P. G. Dodwell. Another cup, but one which becomes the property of the winner after one victory, was that for the ladies singles, which was won by Mrs. E. R. Simpson.

These cups are all on view at the local Jewellery Store, and they are well worthy of inspection. The Summerland Lawn Tennis Club may well feel proud of its achievements, and must feel that they are amply repaid for their hard practices.

In addition to these cups, a number of first prizes were captured by the Summerland players—all that were offered, in fact.

DOUBLE-HEADED OPPOSITION.

There promises to be some interesting political alliances in the approaching election campaign. For instance, the Victoria Colonist says Messrs. Monk and Bourassa are stumping Quebec together in opposition to the Laurier government. The unusual feature of the case is that Mr. Monk opposes reciprocity and Mr. Bourassa favors it. If they both speak on the subject from the same platform on the same occasion, the audience will be in the position of the darkey who heard the preacher say that there were two ways: "One leading to everlasting destruction and the other to eternal perdition." Thereupon the darkey ejaculated: "In dat case, dis nigger'll take to de woods."

ANOTHER "CRISIS" IN ENGLAND.

When the press of England cannot bring on a "crisis" in politics, the day will be hum-drum and unprofitable. Ever since the present fight between the House of Lords and the House of Commons started two years ago, there have been daily reports of a crisis, and the end is not yet. One would think that the present attitude of the Asquith government was revolutionary, and that this was the first time the limitations of the House of Lords was ever brought into question. But as a matter of fact, the House of Lords has been called upon the carpet of British politics many times, and each time the Lords have "fought to the last ditch," and then capitulated to the popular demand for a more democratic government.

Last Thursday the Parliamentary Bill with the amendments, by the House of Lords passed its final reading, and was sent back to the House of Commons on Monday for acceptance by that body of the Lords' amendments. Mr. Asquith has repeatedly stated that the government would not submit to any amendments by the House of Lords, therefore the Lords cannot reasonably anticipate anything but the return for their acceptance of the original measure submitted by the House of Commons. And, if the Lords still refuse to accept the expressed will of the people through the Asquith government, then it will remain for Mr. Asquith to demand the appointment of additional peers as members of the House of Lords who will pass the original bill framed by the government, over the heads of the opposing peers.

This attitude is, of course, in a sense revolutionary, but it seems to be the only way of dealing with the House of Lords. As early as 1832, the Reform Bill was carried in the British House of Commons by which the position of the House of Commons as the final repository of the nation's sovereignty was definitely settled, and the House of Lords retired into the background, stripped of its right to share with the Commons the custodianship of the national sovereignty. Henceforth the House of Lords has been an organ of the government merely, its chief function being equal participation in the legislative power. In addition to this position, the House of Commons is a perpetual constituent assembly for revising the Constitution. Theoretically the House of Lords may share this power equally with the Commons, since constitutional amendments are passed like ordinary statutes; but the events of 1832 settled the question of the supremacy of the Commons in the domain of Constitution-making, and whenever they insist upon a change in the organic law, especially if the electorate has pronounced upon it favorably, as they did last December, the Lords must consent to it.

HEAR THE OTHER SIDE.

In a speech at a joint banquet of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publisher Association, held in New York, on April 27th, President Taft said:

I have said that this was a critical time in the solution of the question of reciprocity. It is critical because unless it is decided now favorably to reciprocity, it is exceedingly probable that no such opportunity will ever come again to the United States. The forces which are at work in England and in Canada to separate her by a Chinese wall from the United States, and to make her part of an imperial commercial band reaching from England around the world to England again by a system of preferential tariffs, will derive an impetus from the rejection of this treaty, and if we would have reciprocity, with all the advantages that I have described, and that I sincerely and earnestly believe will follow its adoption, we must take it up now, or give it up for ever."

ORGANIZED PLAY.

(From The Toronto Star)

The Boy Scouts, the Girl Guides, the public playgrounds—all these are manifestations of the idea of organized play. It is not an entirely new idea. It is rather an adaptation to new conditions of the sports on the village green and the games in which, in English boarding schools, all boys are expected to take part. The distinction between work and play is after all only arbitrary, as is shown by the classic instance of Tom Sawyer making the other boys pay for the privilege of whitewashing a fence. Whitewashing, painting, building, are as good fun as breaking windows and other forms of destruction and mischief into which boys are likely to drift for want of guidance. There is more genuine pleasure in taking a snapshot of a bird on a nest than in converting a creature full of life, warmth and beauty into a corpse. The Boy Scouts find that it is as amusing to do an old man or woman a kindness as to mock at the infirmities and add to the miseries of age.

What is being done now is a part of the progress from barbarism to civilization. The barbaric notion made school teacher and child natural enemies. The boys were to be pounded into unnatural quietness and rigidity and into performing irksome tasks, the more irksome the better. The moment the masters' eye and hand were removed the boy's own barbaric instincts asserted themselves. He would fight, tyrannize over some smaller boy, or annoy his natural enemies, the grown-up men and women. These were the good old days as they really were, not as they are seen through the enchanting mists of time.

Of course there were mitigating circumstances. Human nature and human kindness asserted themselves in parents, teachers and children, and softened barbaric and stupid tradition. Modern ideas, it is said, lean towards sentimental weakness. But the moderns have grasped some sound principles—that play and work are not separated by a sharp line of demarcation—that play may be made instructive and constructive, and work attractive; that the teacher may be the companion and not merely the "master" of the child; and that play may be organized. Mistakes are being made, as they always will be made in a stage of transition, but the modern movement is heading the right way.

- Between Me and Hank -

It generally gives me a pain when I hear good men and women tell of the "sacrifice" this one made for that, but much more when I hear from the pulpit the wail about the "sacrifice" made by Jesus Christ for his brother man. To think that men should be so blinded by custom as to delude themselves into believing that service means sacrifice, is to me the highest of folly, and a most unfortunate thing for the development of the race. I once heard an eminent clergyman preach a sermon on the terrors of the Christian life. He went on to say that from the cradle of what he characterized as man's second birth to the grave, the Christian's life was one continuous line of trial and tribulation, sacrifice and disappointment, and in the end, "the faithful—scarcely are saved"! It was a gloomy picture and I wondered what must have been the condition of the preacher's digestive apparatus.

What has been your experience, reader? What has been the experience of those faithful souls we all have met at one time or another in life's journey, whose lives have been and are spent in the service of humanity? "My yoke is easy, my burden light," said He, the Prince of Saviors, and thus other saviors coming after him also have spoken. Why then do we insist on making the yoke grievous and the burden heavy? All is gain, all is joy when we live a natural life among our fellows. To act justly and with mercy, doing our simple duty daily because it is our duty is better than sacrifice.

Take the testimony of those men and women the world over, whose lives have been a practical exemplification of the principles of brotherly love; whose object in life is to serve; do they complain of what it has or might cost them? Do they complain of laborious days of sacrifice and sorrow? They do not. They never know the meaning of the word sacrifice—those manly men and womanly women. Every moment, every hour, every day, they live quietly, joyfully, sincerely—always ready to act in the service of somebody—no pining for something better; no room; no desire for more joy; no thought of reward, here or hereafter. They seek to serve. That is all. And their reward is in having done something for another. They have no quarrel with God or their fellows and the matter of salvation—that is a sequence!

"Every man's work," George Elliot tells us, "pursued steadily, tends to become an end in itself, and so to bridge over the loveless chasms of his life," and what is true of the individual is as true in a larger measure of the community.

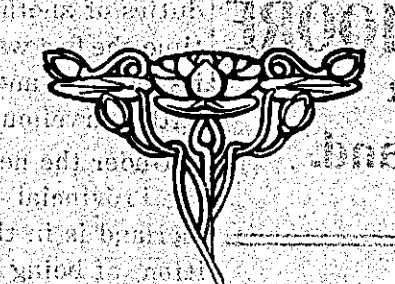

THE CREED.

Whoever was begotten by pure love,
And came desired and welcomed into life,
Is of immaculate conception. He
Whose heart is full of tenderness and truth,
Who loves mankind more than he loves himself,
And cannot find room in his heart for hate
May be another Christ. We all may be
The saviors of the world, if we believe
In the Divinity which dwells in us
And worship it, and nail our grosser selves,
Our tempers, goods, and our unworthy aims
Upon the Cross. Who giveth love to all,
Pays kindness for unkindness, smiles for frowns,
And lends new courage to each fainting heart,
And strengthens hope and scatters joy abroad,
He, too, is a Redeemer, a Son of God.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Mr. Hoy was also asked to give a short talk about the cherry slug. He stated that this pest was the easiest to control of any of the insect pests. The use of arsenate of lead, 2 pounds to 40 gallons of water was very effective as a spray. The bugs could also be killed by throwing fine dust among the leaves. Aphid spray was also good, but the arsenate of lead solution is undoubtedly the best, as it stays on the longest, and as the slug was a biting insect, it must of necessity feed upon the poison, adhering to the tree. The spraying should be done as soon as the slug is seen. The cherry slug also inhabits the pear tree. Mr. Hoy stated that the insect was produced from the egg of the saw-fly, and entered the ground at the base of the tree, emerging later as a matured saw-fly. The saw-fly places its egg under the epidermis of the tree.

Mr. Hoy then threw upon the screen a number of views which were explained and commented upon by Professor Allan. In this talk the Professor took up much the same line as in his afternoon talk, but as the supply of carbide was small he had to hurry over the pictures.

Irrigation Convention

The Fifth Annual Convention of the Western Canada Irrigation Association is to be held in the city of Calgary, Alberta, on August 8th, 9th and 10th. Arrangements are being made to have recognized experts in irrigation and kindred subjects address the convention. A large number of delegates are already promised and it is hoped that every body interested in practical irrigation will be present. According to the basis of representation established by the convention, two representatives may be sent by each Agricultural Association, two by Boards of Trade or similar organizations, and two each by all towns, villages or rural municipalities, to be appointed by the Mayor or Reeve. The names of the delegates should be sent as early as possible to the secretary, John T. Hall, Brandon, Manitoba. It is necessary for each delegate to buy a single ticket and at the same time to procure a standard certificate from the agent, to the effect that the purchaser is a delegate to the convention. Delegates must register and hand in their certificates immediately on arrival in Calgary. These will be returned to the delegates, and entitle him to a reduced rate home. It is of vital importance that the representatives from all the west should get together and discuss their problems and the possibilities of the future in regard to irrigation.

Mr. James Ritchie's new business block which has been occupied for some time by G. L. McWilliams, Druggist, is being finished with a cement block veneering. This will give the new block a very substantial and pleasing appearance.

Kaleden Comments

Miss Finlay is visiting friends in Summerland this week.

Mrs. Lapsley is spending a few days with friends in Summerland.

Mr. Elsie, of Calgary, was in town for two days this week, in inspecting his property here, and during his stay visited the Falls, accompanied by Mr. Jas. Ritchie.

Miss Dora McAllister, of Winnipeg, came home last Saturday, her parents meeting her at Penticton. Miss McAllister is a certificated school teacher, and we not only welcome her into our midst, but trust that ere long she may receive a new appointment in the work to which she is devoting herself.

Mr. C. O. Foss, of Okanagan Centre, is again in town on business, and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Seaman Hatfield.

Mr. Arthur B. Francis, who recently arrived from Banbury, England, left for Kelowna on Friday, accompanied by his friend, J. Dillworth Harrison, whose guest he has been. He hopes to settle in business in the latter town. Mr. Johnston was also a passenger to Kelowna the same day where he expected to meet friends.

Mr. J. H. Ker, of Medicine Hat, engaged in the B. and B. Dept. of the C.P.R., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hatfield. He is a friend of Miss Wilson, our much respected Postmistress.

Last Sunday in the absence of the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Miller, of Penticton, conducted the 3 o'clock Baptist service, and was accorded a hearty welcome by a large and interested congregation. His visit was much appreciated and it is hoped by many that he may have an opportunity of coming among his friends here again and at no very distant date. The Rev. F. W. Awauche was absent at the annual Baptist Convention, Vancouver, of which he is secretary this year. The 2 o'clock afternoon Sunday School services were held out of doors, last year's shaded church seats being occupied by the scholars.

Last Sunday evening a large gathering of young people was to be found at the Ranch House by the kind invitation of Mrs. Greaves and Mrs. Babbit. A most pleasant time was spent, singing heartily the old favorite hymns, the company also being refreshed with fruit and cooling drinks.

Our new Central School is now in the hands of the painters and appears to be a structure of which we may be justly proud, erected on a nice piece of property generously donated by Mr. Jas. Ritchie.

The fruit trees are for the most part making a wonderfully rapid and healthy growth this season, amply fulfilling the high expectations of the lot holders.

Naramata Notes: The Boy Scouts.

"Hotel Naramata" is rapidly taking its place amongst the tourist hotels of the west.

For a full account of the regatta of Thursday, kindly refer to the front page of this issue.

Naramata has a new name, "The Queen of the Okanagan." That sounds nice doesn't it, and we guess it must fit, we like it so well.

Mrs. S. M. Pittman, formerly of this town, but more recently of Kaleden, renewed acquaintances here Thursday.

Mrs. Hancock, sen., who has been a guest for some little time past at the home of her son, Mr. E. H. Hancock, left last Friday for her home in England.

It is something worth noting that people who travel the world over are ready to declare that our climate is similar to that of sunny Italy or the better parts of Florida.

The Contract for cement walk and ornamental cement fence in front of the Hotel Naramata is nearing completion. Mr. J. C. Williams, our local cement man has charge of construction.

Mr. E. F. Randolph, landscape gardener, from New York, has come into town to lay out the grounds in connection with Mr. Robinson's proposed new Naramata residence.

It is probable that Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Peacock will take up residence some time this fall at "Kewood," the property recently acquired from Mr. John Niblock.

Mr. F. E. Udell, president of the Provident Chemical Works, of St. Louis, Mo., and his wife have been spending a week at Naramata's new tourist hotel. They are both quite charmed with the Valley and our beautiful Okanagan Lake. From Naramata they go to Banff, and from thence home to Winnipeg.

Mr. John Niblock has decided to remove to Victoria in the near future. This is not a sudden notion upon the part of Naramata's prominent townsman. It is thought that the more humid atmosphere of the coast city will be more conducive to his general health, and that the change of climate is necessary, if not imperative.

Last Friday evening Hotel Naramata was the scene of a very pleasant social event. The occasion was a dinner-dance given by Messrs. Collas and Suckling of the Bank of Montreal, Summerland. Tables in the form of a double cross decorated with pink carnations and smilax were laid for twenty-eight guests. The banquet was followed by a dance, the music being provided by Messrs. Jones and Harrison, of Summerland. The following is the list of the guests: Mr. and Mrs. Acland, Mr. and Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh, Mr. and Mrs. May, Mr. and Mrs. Higgin, the Misses Higgin, Miss Young, Miss Sutherland, Mrs. Agur, Miss Cooper, Mr. Will Robinson, Miss Robinson, Messrs. Cordy, Ed. Bentley, Long, Knox, Villiers, and Sauter.

The "boys" of the S. C. Smith Lumber Company's mill north of town were at home to their Naramata friends on Friday evening last, entertaining at a dance in the Opera House. A large number of guests were present and a thoroughly enjoyable time was spent. Not the least important item on the evening's program was the luncheon which was pronounced by every sufferer in town as being actually better than they could do themselves. The music was furnished by Mrs. Bootho, at the piano, assisted by Mr. Roy Bootho, with trap drums. At the close a vote of thanks proposed by Mr. H. J. Wells for the very excellent evening's entertainment was most heartily responded to and was followed by three cheers for "the boys."

Although the Penticton troop was unable to come up and take part, the Boy Scouts Field Day last Saturday was carried through very successfully. The inter-troop wrestling and relay race were withdrawn, and also the obstacle race, but the rest of the events were pulled off with good entries, the local boys entering into the contests with a vim that surprised and pleased everyone. There were no long delays between the different events, and in this respect the sports were ahead of anything that has been held locally for some time; and, as a rule, the events were well contested. Quite a number of interested spectators were present.

The boys turned out in the morning and prepared the grounds, and the sports commenced about two o'clock. The afternoon was warm and the refreshment booth did a good trade with its ice cream and soft drinks.

In the senior events, Douglas Stuart carried all before him. He entered eight events, and was placed first in them all, though he and his partner were disqualified in the wheel-barrow race, and he surrendered the first prize in the high jump to the next best, J. MacLeod. In addition, Stuart captained the winning tug-o-war team. All the events were well entered and contested, but the most popular was the junior potatoe race, which had to be run off in three heats, W. Clark ultimately proving the winner. All the jumps provided, keen competition; the junior broad at first resulting in a dead heat.

The prizes were very kindly distributed at the close of the sports by Mrs. R. M. Ross.

The following is a list of the events and prize winners:

- 100 yds. senior: 1st, D. Stuart; 2nd, K. Elliott.
- 220 yds. junior: 1st, J. Keen; 2nd, W. Clark; 3rd, P. Williams.
- Hop, step and jump, senior: 1st, D. Stuart; 2nd, J. MacLeod.
- Wheel-barrow race: 1st, J. MacLeod and H. Phinney; 2nd, C. Adams and J. McIntyre.
- 100 yds. junior: 1st, J. Keen; 2nd, W. Clark; 3rd, H. Harris.
- High Jump, senior: 1st, J. MacLeod; 2nd, H. Phinney.
- 3-legged race: 1st, H. Phinney and P. Williams; 2nd, Clark and Ritchie; 3rd, V. Merrill and L. MacLeod.
- Broad Jump, senior: 1st, D. Stuart; 2nd, K. Elliott; 3rd, J. MacLeod.
- Broad Jump, junior: 1st, D. Ritchie; 2nd, Arkell.
- 440 yds. handicap: 1st, D. Stuart; 2nd, J. MacLeod; 3rd, K. Elliott.
- Potatoe Race, junior: 1st, W. Clark; 2nd, L. MacLeod; 3rd, V. Merrill.

Throwing the baseball, senior: 1st, D. Stuart; 2nd, J. MacLeod. Tug-o-war: D. Stuart's team beat J. MacLeod's team.

The Sports Committee of the Field Day desire to thank all those who so generously donated to the Prize Fund, thereby helping to make the day such an unqualified success, and also those who assisted at the sports in various capacities.

The Vernon and Penticton troops will camp together at Naramata next week. If it can be arranged, the local troop will visit them there, and the inter-troop contests, postponed from last Saturday, will be carried out.

All scouts who are to participate in the camp will meet at Scout Master Borton's store, Shaughnessy Avenue, at SIX A.M. on Monday morning next, July 31. From there they will be conveyed to the camp at Trout Creek. Any parents who care to donate vegetables, groceries, canned goods, or commensals of any kind, if they will send them down by the scouts on Monday morning, their contributions will be thankfully received. Donations are urgently needed.

It has been decided to throw the camp open to the public for inspection, on Saturday, August 5th, when all interested will be welcomed. It is hoped that a good number will avail themselves of this privilege. If possible, the camp will be made an annual feature, so that all criticisms or suggestions will be considered for future use.

College Notes.

At the meeting of the Executive of the College Board held last Saturday, Ray Palmer Baker, M.A., was appointed to the position of Vice-Principal of Okanagan College. Professor Baker will have full charge of Ritchie Hall, and all matters connected with the conduct and discipline of that building, and in the absence of the Principal will act as his substitute. The new Vice-Principal has had considerable experience in the East as House Master in a large preparatory school, and is well fitted for the responsibilities he now assumes. Some changes will be introduced into the discipline of Ritchie Hall, by which the students will be given a certain part of the responsibility for maintaining good order and studious habits. These changes, it is confidently expected, will add materially to the disciplinary value of residence in Ritchie Hall by developing a manly self-restraint and a lively sense of personal responsibility.

Professor A. J. Perry, after two years absence at Chicago University, where he has been specializing in English, will resume his work in the College at the opening of the College year. Professor Perry's return will be welcomed by all friends of the College.

Professor D. H. McIntosh is spending his vacation in Germany where he is pursuing studies in his line of work. He will return in time to begin work at the opening of the College on September 20th.

The Convention which lately met at Vancouver has heartily endorsed the Appeal of the College Board to the churches for $30,000 within the next three years. Canvass for this amount will begin immediately and it is hoped that the work may be finished by the end of the calendar year. The College is attracting more and more attention each year and enlarging the circle of its influence each term the students return home. It is now a recognized factor in the influence of our province.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS.

The results of the entrance exams. for the high school were made public at Victoria this week, and the list of the successful candidates was furnished Mr. Robson by the Education Department.

While the number who passed the exams. were disappointingly small, an explanation will make the disappointing results seem less unsatisfactory than might otherwise appear.

Hitherto the pupils, in order to obtain entrance to the high school, have had to write what is styled the "rural" examination papers, but this year however, the Summerland students were required to write on the "urban" examinations. These are considerably harder than the rural, and require somewhat more mature minds than could be expected among those who wrote on these exams. The average age of the students passing these examinations is 15 years. With the Summerland candidates the ages averaged not more than 14, some being only 12, and several 13 years of age. The youngsters were very ambitious however, and though a number failed, they should not be discouraged. There were eleven papers to write, the perfect mark on each being 100, thus making the highest possible total 1,100. Following are those who were successful in passing the examination with their total marks:

- Jean McIntyre 639.
- John MacLeod 626.
- Banche Babbitt 617.
- Howell Harris 559.
- Marie Arkell 555.

Game Protection In British Columbia.

By an Order-in-Council recently passed by the Provincial Government, the future use of automatic guns by British Columbia sportsmen has been prohibited from September 1st next. These guns have only come into general use during the past few years, and have been particularly favored by duck hunters, who, thus armed have been enabled to slaughter the water-fowl wholesale. The general opinion is that their use is the reverse of sportsmanlike, and the action taken by the Government will meet with the cordial approval of true sportsmen in all parts of the country.

By a second Order-in-Council a closed season for sheep during the ensuing two years has been prescribed in the districts of Yale, Okanagan and Similkameen; and another year of immunity has been granted to wapiti in all parts of the mainland, as from September 1st. The wapiti of Vancouver Island are already under special protection.

JULY "ROD AND GUN."

"Following the Fur Trails," a story of the far north of interest to every Canadian, opens in the July number of ROD AND GUN IN CANADA, published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ontario. In this story Mr. R. J. Fraser, who is engaged on the Hydrographic Survey, relates interesting incidents of the eight months' stay of the party engaged in survey work in the neighborhood of Hudson's Bay and tells of an attack upon the Camp by Polar bears. He gives particulars of the fine trapping in which the party engaged and the excellent results of this part of their work. The strenuous outward journey from Fort Nelson to Winnipeg supplies excellent reading. There is much variety in the other stories, both fishermen and hunters receiving due attention and stories and experiences from the far East as well as from the far West are included. They hunt on horseback in British Columbia showing the difference in the conditions prevailing in that province and those existing in Eastern and Central Canada. There is much more of interest to every sportsman in this number. It should be found in every summer camp, no pleasant or companion for whiling away a pleasant hour is needed.

And if these same doubting dyspeptics could only read the thousands of sincere letters from people who once suffered as badly as they do now, but who have been quickly and permanently cured by the use of MI-O-NA, the mighty dyspepsia remedy that cures by removing the cause, they would go to the Summerland Drug Company this very day and get a large box of MI-O-NA tablets, and start themselves on the right road to health at once.
The price of MI-O-NA tablets is only fifty cents, and the Summerland Drug Company guarantees them to cure indigestion or money back.

A reader of Dr. Johnson has stumbled on this bit of wisdom, which he thinks applicable to the suffrage question: "Nature has given women so much power that the law very wisely gives them little."
This is interesting and timely now as it has been learned that the suffrage societies throughout Canada are preparing a reorganization scheme with a view to perfecting and strengthening their, several clubs and starting a hot campaign for women's votes next winter.

WHO'S WHO IN CANADA

MR. R. L. BORDEN. Canada and especially Nova Scotia lost one of its most distinguished lawyers, when Mr. R. L. Borden was made leader of the Conservative Party.

Mr. Borden's courteous, sincere and genial manner wins for him a host of friends. It is probably owing to this that he has only been insulted in the House twice.

In his personal habits Mr. Borden is extremely regular. He is a total abstainer, but is fond of his old briar pipe. This distinguished politician has nourished many literary dreams.

When his turn comes to take over the reins of Government, he will be able to rise to the occasion and expend all his energies for the successful advancement and betterment of Canada.

Advertise In The Review.

A public meeting called by the hospital board, was held in the Council chamber, Monday evening last.

The president, Mr. W. J. Robinson, was in the chair, and after the minutes of the last meeting had been read and passed, the president stated the object of the board in calling the meeting.

Mr. Clouston, another member of the board, stated that he felt that there was an opposition towards the hospital that would not warrant their continuing it, and he positively declined to act further on the board.

In reply, the president stated that he thought the present institution, with such small facilities, should not be continued, when a larger institution could be run at no greater loss, and as far as he was concerned, he was finished.

Mr. Hespeler thought that the president was mistaken, and that the people did want a hospital. The reason for the adverse vote, he believed, was not that they did not wish the institution to be continued, but that they were afraid of the cost of the new building, and its maintenance.

Mrs. R. C. Lipssett, as president of the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary, made the announcement that the ladies had voted upon the subject and were unanimous that the present building should be kept open, and that the present board should continue in control.

A statement of the financial standing of the Hospital Society was called for, and a statement from May 1st to July 1st was read by the secretary.

Four Members of Board Resigned, but Will Act for Present Year. President Robinson Complains of Lack of Public Support.

draft at the bank of $479.58; outstanding accounts, $458.15; total liabilities, $932.71; less balance due by patients to July 1st, $467.90. This leaves a net deficit to July 1st of $464.81.

Mr. H. C. Mellor stated that no doubt the board found it quite a task to carry on the hospital, and probably felt a little discouraged at the result of the recent plebiscite.

Mr. Robinson then consented, in view of the pressure brought upon him, to continue for the rest of the year, with the understanding that he would not be able to give as much of his time as formerly, and also that money must be provided to put the institution on a firmer footing.

Mr. Robinson stated in reply that the Anderson house had not been found suitable for hospital purposes, and it had been thought better to remain in their present premises until they could get a building adapted to hospital requirements.

A motion was made by Mr. J. M. Sutherland that Messrs. Mellor, Hespeler, Lipssett and English be elected to the board in lieu of the four resigning.

PROPOSING TO A GIRL.

German Professor Gives Statistics About the Gentle Art.

A German calculator says that 86 per cent of the suitors press the hand of the fair one, 24 per cent conclude their avowal with an embrace, 4 per cent kiss the hair, 2 per cent kiss the hand, 2 per cent fall on their knees, and 20 per cent are so nervous that they feel a lump in the throat which they find almost prevents speech.

Ten per cent of the men are so overcome that they cannot speak at all, but open and shut their mouths without producing a sound, and 2 per cent make their proposals standing one foot.

As regards the women, 60 per cent sink helplessly into the lover's arms, 30 per cent blush and hide their faces, 1 per cent faint away, 4 per cent are genuinely amazed, 14 per cent gaze silently into the suitor's eyes, and 1 per cent run away to tell a girl friend.

The great statistician, however, omits to tell us how he obtained his figures.

HOUSE NUMBERS.

Germans Started the System in Berlin.

Before the advent of the house number, only business signs, coats of arms, and house names marked the different buildings. Then, in London, for instance, one had to look for Mr. Jones, should he desire to call upon that man, in say, "Whitechapel, not far from the Blue Boar."

As they proceeded, therefore, the numbers grew higher, the height to which they attained being limited only by the supply of houses. The first house they numbered was number one, the last the number that betokened the total number of houses in the city.

FAMOUS FOLKS.

The Queen of Spain has started a campaign against the promiscuous kissing of children.

Mr. John Burns possesses the last photograph of Mr. Gladstone that the great statesman ever signed.

The King of Greece collects door-handles. He has some thousands.

Sir Joseph Ward, the Prime Minister of New Zealand, began to earn his living in the New Zealand Postal in a merchant's office.

The Czarina of Russia is fond of swimming, and when staying at the St. Petersburg Winter Palace indulges in the recreation in a splendid bath of white marble.

Lord Roberts strongly believes in "lucky days." "Bohs" lucky day, on which he has experienced most of his good fortune, is Tuesday.

One of the proudest moments in the life of Princess May is said to have been, as quite a baby, the late King Edward lifted her on to the back of Persimmon and led her round the paddock at Sandringham.

BAD FOR BARBERS.

Among the many suggestions made for commemorating the reign of King Edward VII, the quaintest is that now put forward by Captain MacIlwaine, R. N. Captain MacIlwaine's suggestion is that the men of the British Empire, following the example of the late King, should put their razors aside, and proceed to grow their beards.

Mr. E. B. May, another of the resigning members, said that he was willing to remain on the board, but not as treasurer. Mr. Clouston followed with a promise to remain for the present, if Mr. Robinson continued to act as president.

Mr. Robinson then consented, in view of the pressure brought upon him, to continue for the rest of the year, with the understanding that he would not be able to give as much of his time as formerly, and also that money must be provided to put the institution on a firmer footing.
