Accident at the Garnett Valley Mill.

A most distressing accident occurred at the Summerland Lumber Co.'s mill, Garnett Valley, shortly before closing down time on Thursday night, when a Japanese employee of the mill had his hand and part of the forearm sawn nearly blem each year.

Full particulars of the accident cannot be learned, but it would by over 100 representative men seem that the Jap was wearing a from business and farming interpair of mitts much too large for ests of the Pacific North-west, it him, and while working the trim-mer a mitt was caught and pulled that the producers of apples must the arm across the rapidly revolv- co-operate upon matters of distriing saw, making a very ragged cut bution, transportation and utilizaalmost through the forearm just tion of by-products. #### Penticton Turns Down Telephone Company.

Refuses Permission to Run Trunk Pole Line Through Town.

Manager Dobie Says Can Do It Anyway.

At a recent meeting of the Penticton Council a letter was read from the Okanagan Telephone Company asking for permission to run a pole line for the long distance wire through the Municipality. The Council refused to give its consent, principally because of the dissatisfaction with the rates charged by the company for toll line messages.

The company had some 65 men just outside the municipal limits ready to continue the line across the municipality to the exchange, but the refusal necessitated the dismissal of most of them. Access to the central was, however, had by means of the government telegraph poles.

Norman Mitchell, who is freighting for one of the construction camps, reports having seen a cougar while on one his trips far up on the line. It's tracks examined later confirmed his suspicions. But a domestic cat reported lost from our community, we might point out a coincidence.

The real work on the tunnel above the Shute Creek road will soon be under way. The contractors, Bacher & Harmont, report that ground has been broken for it this week. Up to this time they have been clearing the south approach. Work on the north end will begin as soon as the crosssections are given.

An unusually pleasant evening was spent at the New Year's Ball. The weather prevented any but local attendance. Everyone was surprised as to the large number present. The hall was nicely decorated, and the New Year announced to the dancers by an alarm hidden in the decorations, which "went off" at the magic moment.

It would be as well for poultry keepers in our town to see that their poultry houses are pretty well secured these nights. . Mr. Mulford had a visit from a chicken thief one night last week, who carried off two or three of his best pullets. Apparently the object of the theft was not to secure a dinner. There is no doubt that other motives prompted the act.

Miss Margaret Gordon, who has been in charge of an Indian hospital near Edmonton for the past three years, has given that work up to reside on her fruit lot in Naramata. The lot, east of that of Mr. T. H. Boothe, has been planted to small fruit this past season. She will have a house built as soon as porsible, Mr. George Cook already making for its building. Surely we are all glad to welcome Miss Gordon as a permanent resident.

"Economics of Forestry."

Toronto, Ont., Dec. 31.—Dr. for successfully arranging the West and Canada. A completely new set of statistics on the development of Other Canadians doubtlessly will forestry practice all over the world, be recognized in the distribution and in particular Canada, will be embodied in the new work.

Dr. Fernow's principles can be stated briefly as follows:

1. Forests grow to be used. 2. Not all forest growth is desirable and to be maintained, i.e., where the forest grows on lands suited to agriculture.

3. In the virgin forest there is practically no growth, for timber rots as fast as it grows.

4. Forests are self-perpetuating. Nature will produce forests if man does not destroy them.

5. The forester is needed to direct the work of Nature; to see that no rot, no fire loss occur, and that the best growth conditions are maintained.

6. Forest crops are slow crops. In Canada, for instance, it takes from eighty to one hundred years to produce a crop of saw logs.

7. Forestry is the business of the state or municipality, since it is profitable only in the long run.

Besides renting 750 sq. ft. of display space the government has subsidised 1250 sq. ft. to be used by civic and municipal bodies to the extent of $2.00 a sq. foot. This grant enables the Progress Club to dispose of display space at half the amount asked under the original arrangement.

Have the courage to wear thick boots in winter and insist on your wife and daughter doing the same. Have the courage to do without that which you do not need, however much your eyes may covet it. Have the courage to speak to a friend in a "seedy" coat, even though you are in company with a rich man and richly attired.

THE girl with a sweet little voice need not feel discouraged because she has no opportunity to sing in grand opera. She can give great pleasure by being a songbird in the home nest.

THE real business of life is the making of a happy home. When you come to sift the whole chaff of exstence, everything goes to the wind but the happiness we have had at home.

THE home that possesses a cheerful wife and mother is not only a veritable haven of rest, but the safe harbor whose beacon light will guide her bread winners safely past all rocks and shoals with unfailing certainty. The woman whose cheerful spirit can take that "brave attitude toward life" that enables her to bear courageously the inevitable burdens of her life's environment; that strengthens her determination not to fret or worry those who, for her sake, are fighting the hard battles in the world, has reached that altitude that proclaims her price above rubies; and her influence and example are not felt only within the limits of the four walls she has made the unassailable bulwark of state and society, a happy home, but reach to those she knows not of.

THERE is an old proverb, "home is home, be it ever so homely," but home should not be made any more homely than necessity requires. The family fireside should be associated, in the minds of the young people, not only with stern requirements of duty, but with a sense of pleasure. It is not enough to drill our sons with the severe discipline, in all the formalities of rigid virtue. They should be taught not only how to keep straight, but how to bend, since it is not in the power of nature to undergo a perpetual tension. Provision must be made at home for relaxation as well as work, for pleasure as well as duty. If such provision is not made there, it will be, as it is too often, sought

NOBODY can be called a good housekeeper or a good cook, who spoils things in preparing them for the table. If it is only to prepare a dish of sliced cucumbers it should be done just so. A haphazard style of cookery that hits sometimes and misses others, never wins laurels for the cook. It should be right every time, as we expect the dressmaker to make our dresses and the tailor to make our coats. When the husband and boys come into dinner, they should find food they can enjoy, so that they can feel that the old proverb, "God sends meat, but the devil sends cooks," does not apply to their house. The fare may be simple and plain, and comprise very few dishes, but is well prepared, neither over-salted, nor over-peppered, nor burnt, nor slack baked, nor stale, nor sour, the family can enjoy a peace that poor cookery does not dispense.

SLEEP A MEDICINE

The cry for rest has always been louder than the cry for food. Not that it is more important, but it is often harder to obtain. The best rest comes from sound sleep. Of two men or women, otherwise equal, the one who sleeps the best will be the most moral, healthy, and efficient. Sleep will do much to cure irritability of temper, peevishness and uneasiness. It will restore to vigor, an overworked brain. It will build up and make strong a weary body. It will cure a headache. It will cure a broken spirit. It will cure sorrow. Indeed we might make a long list of nervous and other maladies that sleep will cure. The cure of sleeplessness requires a good clean bed sufficient exercise to produce weariness, pleasant occupation, good air and not too warm a room, a clean conscience and avoidance of stimulants and narcotics. For those who are overworked, haggard and nervous, who pass sleepless nights, we commend the adoption of such habits as will produce sleep; otherwise, life will be short, and what there is of it sadly imperfect.

WHAT PROGRESS HAS BROUGHT US.

land would not prove an unmixed blessing. One of the curses it has graph: brought to us is drunkenness; and it is high time that this insidious menace that now threatens our respectability was grappled with. To are many stations much higher than the ordering of a home, yet men," the shame of twentieth century morality must it be confessed that in the wake of progress follows the liquor traffic. This infamous business is now smearing our community, hitherto almost unsullied It thrives on inaction and takes root firmly while temperance talks of it with bated breath. Here is a test for principe; but our principles are equal to it.

Not many months ago a drunken man on our streets was—to the credit of Summerland—an exceedingly rare sight. Now the shameful spectacle is all to frequent. To cope with the situation a jail has been built and a police officer appointed. But in this case, surely above all others, pevention is better than cure: Why not strike at the root of the vocation.' matter, instead of accepting the situation as one that must be endured?

We know that the victims of liquor that offend us are, for the most part, unfortunates from the railway camps. They are not men in a position to have the stuff, that their distorted appetites crave for, shipped in on their own account. It is therefore reasonable to suppose that someone is supplying their wants. In other words there is illicit liquor selilng being carried on in Summerland. In thinly veiled deflance of law, and in gross violation of popular sentiment, this business is going on in our town, and, further, it appears to flourish.

At present the field of operations is confined for the most part to those connected with railway construction work. But who can say it will stop there? When the thin edge of a wedge is secure the rest follows, slowly but surely. Must we wait till the liquor reaches out and claims some of our men before we rise to stamp it out? Surely the state of affairs now calls for sharp and fearless action. It is intolerable to think that the main street of the front section has already such a reputation that not a few women fear to traverse it after nightfall. Drunkenness and crime are cause and effect to a large extent, but it is inexcusable delay to wait till some wanton outrage rouses the public indignation.

The Review does not altogether endorse the outspoken sentiments of the correspondent whose letter was published last week. To charge any body with countenancing this business is a serious accusation. is not the duty of the church any more than it is the duty of any moral and respectable citizen to take the initiative, and the law cannot deal with rumor, however well founded. It must have concrete instances of law breaking, then it can be relied upon to do its part conscientiously. There are local organizations which work against the liquor traffic, but no blame can in any sense be attached to these bodies because an unhealthy growth has appeared in our midst. There is, however, a heavy responsibility facing them, and the question is whether the whole community will help to bear them and bring the issue to the only possible conclusion.

Here is certainly a pertinent matter for the forthcoming public meeting. It is only a matter of time before the seriousness of the situation becomes patent to the most apathetic; but delays are always dangerous, and to dally with time in this case will prove expensive. It is easier for our town to save its moral reputation than it will be to build up that precious reputation afresh, and, in the meantime, we are losing ground.

government—an oppression of the people by the people. To create to different species. competition is the objective view, "and through competition, lower rates of interest." To kill a monopoly is also the reason given for refusing local connection with the government line.

Our Philosopher

THE NEW YEAR.

"A friend stood at the door; In either tight-closed hand Hiding rich gifts, three hundred and three score; Waiting to strew them daily o'er the land. Even as the sewer. Each drops he, treads it in, and passes by; It cannot be made fruitful till it die. Friend, come thou like a friend, . And whether bright thy face. Or dim with clouds we cannot comprehend: We'll hold our patient hands, each in his place,

And trust thee to the end; · Knowing thou leadest onward to those spheres

Where there are neither days, nor months, nor years."

Miss Mullock, in this beautiful poem gives our ideas better than we can express them. The idea of each day being a gift, hidden from us until its hour comes, is a pretty thought. So many gifts, so much time to use for either profit or loss, and so many hands are held out eagerly for the coming days, looking for them to bring happiness, or gain of some kind. The spirit sometimes grows faint before the unknown future, consequently it is enuogh to take one day at a time and try to make that good. It is hard enough even then and sometimes it is best to go hour by hour. One day at a time, taken up bravely with its duties faithfully done as they come, its trials patiently borne, its temptations firmly resisted, its cross cheerfully carried, its joys rightly used, and its gladness gathered from every hour as it passes on. Instead of making many resolutions at the first of the year to be quickly broken, let us strive to meet each day bravely, and take what it brings unquestioningly:

> "Oh, hang some lamp like hope Above the unknown way, Kind year to give our spirits freer scope, And our hand strength to work while it is day."

The Suffragette and the Home-Maker

A very readable article on the home-maker as idealized by Englishmen of old and the wide difference between her and the modern suffra-It was clearly foreseen that the coming of the railway to Summer- gettes recently appeared in the editorial columns of the St. John Tele-

> "Although demonstrative women have come to believe that there says the writer, "will always insist in believing that that calls for the very highest talent. They have idealized home-making ever since the day of poor Eve. A seventeenth century writer in speaking of 'Country Contentments,' says: 'Our English housewife must be of chaste thought, stout courage, patience untired, watchful, diligent, witty, pleasant, constant in friendship, full of good neighborhood, wise in discourse, but not frequent therein, smart and quick of speech, but not bitter and talkative, secret in her affairs, comfortable in her counsels, and generally skilful in the worthy knowledge which do belong to their

"The homely virtues loved by Gervase Markham, who writes the above, may not be popular to-day, but there is only one who has excelled him in picturing the virtues of home-making. That man states his ideal in more easy flowing poetry, 'She layeth her hands to the spindle, and her hands hold the distaff. She stretcheth out her hands to the poor; yea, she reacheth forth her hands to the needy. She is not afraid of the snow for her household; for all her household are clothed in scarlet. She maketh herself coverings of tapestry; her clothing in silk and purple. Her husband is known in the gates when he sitteth among the elders of the land. She maketh fine linen and selleth it; and delivereth girdles unto the merchant. Strength and honor are her clothing; and she shall rejoice in time to come. She openeth her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness. She looketh well to the ways of her household, and eateth not the bread of idleness. her children rise up and call her blessed; her husband also, and he

"The type extolled by both these writers is so rare as to possess a high survival value, and the time may soon come when the price will be ar above rubies. As the English have always been fond of the delights of the table, Markham gives much attention to the viands which it was the business of his ideal to furnish. He believed that the best way to reach a man was through his stomach—a comfortable belief which has a more solid foundation than all the theories of the schools and the schoolmen. The literature he writes certainly heightens the sense of living. An age of exhausted nerves and dyspepsia will be discouraged at the exuberance of this menu, which he prints in plain English: First course: Gravy soup. Remove, chicken and bone. Scotch collops A giblet pie. A fine boil'd pudding. Roast beef, with horse radish and pickles round. Second Course-A turkey roasted. Three woodcock with toast, a tansy garnished with orange. A hare with a savary pudding. A buttered apple pie hot.' All these viands were set out on the table at once, for virile digestions enjoyed the sensations evoked by the close continuity of so much food.

"Fashions have changed, and many of the women of England prepare for Christmas by pouring acid and ink into mail boxes to destroy their contents, making the just and unjust suffer alike through their depredations. The men have changed less. Undisturbed by the Zeitgeist, or fire alarms, or the Bergson philosophy, they have remained true to the roast beef of Old England, and the plum-pudding of King Alfred. The bulk of the people have been loyal to the national ideals. Perhaps it is because there are so many cooks to-day who like Daedalus, cook to Trimalchio, can make 'a fish' out of a sow's belly, a wood HOW we have been misjudging the Okanagan Telephone Company! pigeon out of bacon, a turtle dove out of a ham, and a chicken out of a How stupid of us not to have seen the point until pointed out by its piece of pork, and that so many sensible things and customs are being re-instated manager. Lincoln was consumed with a desire for education. He walked six miles to borrow a grammar, and after returning home with the precious prize, burned one pine knot after another while he studied its problems. He did not dream of the White House in those toilsome days and nights when his enthusiasm urged him on. Who shall say it was not the early enthusiasm that made him the liberator of millions of his fellow men and a here of every boy the civilized world over?

Boys are always dreaming about genius, of what it can accomplish, and wondering why they do not have it. They do not understand, perhaps, that enthusiasm is the right hand of success, and that persistency performs mirrades. They do not realize, as you do, that the great majority of men who have risen to be superintendents, managers and proprietors of great businesses, found their first opportunity at the bottom rungs of the ladder, and in their boyhood desires and pleasures,

He thought the manual training idea was generally favored. He also had hoped to hear from the ratepayers on this occasion, and suggested that it might be possible to bring the matter up at the public meeting for the discussion of municipal affairs, to be held on the 10th inst. There would probably be a representative gathering then, and perhaps the time could be taken to bring this question up. Failing that, a meeting at West Summerland might give the trustees some guidance.

S. H. Adams also approved of the introduction of manual training, believing it to be a good move. He had spoken to several ratepayers regarding it, but they had opposed it, feeling the financial stress. It was not the principle that had aroused the opposition, however, but rather the unwillingness to assume any further financial responsibilities for a year or two.

Dr. J. P. McIntrye also spoke in support of the move. Manoal training was a good foundation fur any calling a boy might afterwards turn to. It was sound mental and physical training. The boys would have something to turn to during their spare hours, and they would be kept out of mischief by something worth while. The introduction of manual training into our schools would give Summerland another attraction for the family of settlers, and place our town in the front rank of educational pro-

SOME DISCUSSION.

Speaking of the financial aspect, Mr. White pointed out that during the past year there had been some heavy expenditures, such as the work on the grounds, and the purchase of conveyances, that would not occur next year, and these items reckoned up would almost equal the cost of the establishment of the new feature. He had personal knowledge of some advantages that boys with this training had received. Hand and eye were trained to work together, and surely it was essential in a country like this for every boy to have a knowledge of tools, and the commonest woods and metals. Secretary Logie expressed himself forcibly in favor of the scheme. More practical school work would produce better citizens. The idea would go forward when the people fully understood its significance. There was nothing he would welcome into the schools more than manual training. No methods were too progressive for Summerland and he would certainly welcome a training that would make practical and thorough artisans of the boys. too theoretical, and here was a splendid opportunity to introduce

If the financial manage-And take notice that after the ment presented any difficulties, perhaps payment to the government might be spread over two or three grounds be cleaned up and fenced, in order that the children might not have to play out in the road in danger from passing traffic.

W. J. Robinson said that the only reason more had not been done with the Town School grounds was the uncertainty of its future. He foresaw the necessity not very far ahead, of a larger school building for this section, as Mr. White had mentioned. The interior of the school had received attention, but regarding the exterior it was wise not to expend more than was absolutely called for until plans had been more definitely made for the future.

There was some further discussion on school matters, and when Chairman White asked for a definite pronouncement upon the question of manual training for the local schools being introduced during the coming year, there was only one dissenting vote.

Much disappointment was felt at the small gathering. It was thought that the meeting had been well advertised, notices having been published in the Review, and announcements having also been posted in various buildings at Summerland and West Summerland. Further opportunities will be sought to lay the matter before the ratepayers, for the attendance at Monday's meeting would not warrant any forward step being taken. It is hoped that upon these occasions parents and ratepayers The widow who marries the will gather in sufficient numbers second time doesn't deserve to be to give the trustees an indication of public feeling.

Good Progress in Railway Construction.

Steel Laid On Three Sections. Trains Running On Two.

Lake Service Probable.

With some 3500 men engaged in connection with the construction of the K.V. Railway, very satisfactory progress is now being made. From Midway, the eastern terminus of the K.V. line, work has been completed as far west as Carmi, 46 miles, and that section is now being operated under an order of the railway board. Between Penticton and Summerland work is nearly finished, the steel having been laid, leaving only some ballasting and a few finishing touches yet to be done. From Otter Summit into Merritt the track is completed, and that Glasgow and Belfast; at the office section too is being operated under an order of the railway board.

continuing from Midway through Carmi the line will run in a northwesterly direction for 76 miles to the summit between the Kettle and Okanagan Valleys. That section is at the Royal Horticultural Society's being graded and should be ready hall, Westminster, the British for steel early next summer. After Columbia Government was awarded crossing the summit the line will turn south-west, and between that point and Penticton there will be 59 miles of rail.

Grading in the vicinity of Naramata is well advanced, but as there is some tunnel work on the slope east of the lake, steel laying will Tuesday made conditions rather not likely be completed until fall or unpleasant for lake traffic, though perhaps later. The short cut between Coldwater Junction and Hope, a stretch of 52 miles, which will save a long detour round through Merritt and Spence's Bridge, has been laid out, and the first 18 miles are now under construction, the remaining 89 miles is that section which will be built and operated jointly by the K.V. and G.N. ### Results of Poultry Judging.

SUMMERLAND, B.C., JANUARY 10, 1913.

Excellent Scoring of Local Birds.

Keen Competition For Cups, Which Are Well Distributed.

Having attained highest honors as a fruit-producing district Summerland is fast forging ahead in another department of agriculture, namely that of poultry. A most creditable display of birds was that shown at the exhibition held by the Poultry and Pet Stock Association on Wednesday and Thursday of this week at Ellison Hall. The general average in quality was excellent and most of the birds were locally owned, there being a number of birds, however, shown from Naramata, Peachland, Penticton, Okanagan Mission and Armstrong.

The long rows of coops being uniform in size and style of construc tion hepled much in giving the exhibit a tidy and pleasing appearance. There were four long rows of birds running from one end of the hall to the other, and two rows across each end of the hall. The judging was done by the latest "Standard of American Perfection," and some remarkably good scores were made. Among the varieties which were represented by high scoring specimens were brown leghorns, silver spangled Hamburgs, white rocks, and white leghorns. Judge Edwards pronounced the brown leghorns as the best in the province, and the silver spangled Hamburgs, which were very strong, as undoubtedly in the same position. A Rhode Island Red cockerel, the property of H. Bristow, came in for special mention from the judge. Mr. Edwards also pronounced the Pekin ducks as excellent.

Speaking generally of the show Mr. Edwards pronounced it as a very creditable one. He thought, however, the date was too near that fixed for the Provincial, which probably explained why there was not a larger number of entries from outside. He expressed himself as surprised at the beautiful cups offered for competition, and made special mention of the very efficient manner in which Mr. C. P. Nelson filled the position of secretary.

Following is a list of prize-winners. Those from outside points being, H. Vince, Penticton; Bennett & Taylor Okanagan Mission O. B. Holden, Peachland; J. M. Shreck and A. H. Mulford, Naramata

Cutting Out The Middle Man

The problem of the middleman -his virtues and his faults-like the poor—has been with the apple growers from away back. The middeman is absolutly dependent upon the grower and retailer for his business. If jobbers refuse to pay the grower a reasonable price for his product, he not only weakens The main trouble is the big retail each or both, but himself as well, which brings dissatisfaction and destruction.

Two years ago a Hood River grower suggested a plan of putting man." out travelling men and selling apples direct to the retailers, thus eliminating the middleman. This plan has not met with favor, and has not as yet been tried. Last month a shipping company in Hood River peddled apples in one-layer boxes from house to house in Portland. This action did not meet with the approval of the jobbers or the retailers of Portland.

There is one large association in the North-west this season trying out a plan of cutting out the middleman. There are no brokers handling the output of this con-It is whispered in fruit circles that this plan is not a success. The reason is not given, and at all time keep in touch with but it is suggested that avoiding the retailer's stocks and the conthe middeman creates considerable sentiment against the company, which may reflect more harm than good in different markets where competition is so keen. In other lines of business the passing of the middleman may be possible, but in the fruit business his retirement is a very serious movement.

JUGGLING THE FIGURES.

While in Penticton recently the manager of the Okanagan Telephone Company gave the paper there some figures in reference to toll line if the tension becomes too great a rates that will perhaps have the effect of deceiving some. company's scale is a graded one, the prices being according to distance:

By a clever arrangement of figures he makes it appear that the company charges $2.40 for 8 three minute conversations, while the government charges $2.00 for 8 one minute conversations. Then he proceeds to figure all government line messages as three minute conversations, adding ten cents for each additional minute making it appear that the people's line charges $3.60 as against his $2.40.

It will take more conjuring than this to convince a Summerland user that a message costing 60 cents, with a three minute minimum, is cheaper is than a government line message at 25 cents for one minute. | face of the cavity must be cut 35 cents for two, or 45 cents for three minutes. That the comparisons away. Hollow potatoes are also Mr. W. Sauter will play the part would be more frequently 60 cents against 25 cents is evident from the fact that 85 per cent. of the messages spoken over the government line are 1 minute conversations, and about 10 per cent. 2 minutes. about this condition is in the main and Mr. Collas. Sixty cents for 3 minutes is 20 cents per minute, a reasonable rate, but you'll pay the Okanagan Telephone Company the 3 minute price for a half minute talk. Further, it may be said that the company is, and has been geting the cream of the fee, even when the people's line is patronized, by "soaking" the people 10 cents for every message transmitted risk of a certain proportion of to them over the company's local lines.

That the management was not satisfied with this is because they thought they saw an opportunity for further "fleecing," if only a monopoly of the business could be obtained, and the prices raised. This is why they refuse local connection with the people's line, and why they are further seeking powers for their company. And why not? They are in business to make money.

THE PROVINCIAL AUDIT.

The announcement by the Attorney-General that a measure will be introduced this year for the establishment of an independent audit, is in line with the statement made by Mr. Bowser last spring. It is his intention to make the auditor-general independent of the executive. He will be an officer of the legislature, and may only be removed by that body, and only for cause established. In short the status of the 22.35 provincial auditor will be like that of the auditor-general of Canada, or the same officer in Great Britain.

We understand that, so far as possible, accounts will be subject to audit before payment, and that the officer will be in a position to hold up any account until he is satisfied that it is correct. The Dominion admits exceptions, as when public officers in distant places are obliged to make immediate payments. Members of the Geological Survey, for instance, and certain other officers are given credits, and their accounts are audited after payments. But the amount paid before audit is a mere trifle compared with the total outlay. It will probably be found possible in British Columbia to follow this system, and so far as it is possible it will undoubtedly be done. As the current revenue and expenditure of British Columbia are equal to those of Ontario, and greater than those of any other province, it is fitting that this province should adopt the most exact and careful financial methods.-News-Advertiser.

The Editor, Summerland Review.

Dear Sir, Kindly permit me a brief reply to the communications appearing over the signatures of W. J. Robinson and G. D. Marson in the last issue of the Review. It is regretable that both gentlemen should have weakened a case, not any too strong, by palpable misrepresentation. For instance, Mr. Robinson asserts that I charged citizens holding positions of "public trust and official responsibility with being implicated in the opera-tion of 'blind pigs.'" This I emphatically deny. Mr. Marson asserts that I obviously place the people using his poolroom in a class having no claim to respectabiilty, which is an inference as false as the other. Mr. Robinson's assumption's have no basis, in fact, he assumes my entire ignorance of the conditions prevailing in his restaurant and poolroom. If Mr. Robinson was as strong in the department of Exegesis, as he apparently is in that of Pastoral Theology, he would have known that it was to the accredited religious leaders of His day-His brother pastors if you will—that Jesus Christ said: "Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?" Is not a dough-face as respectable as a snake? Mr. Robinson may rest easy in the assurance that the pastors of Summerland are well able to take care der, especially a self-constituted sanguine about Dr. Friedmann's of themselves, do not need a defenone, and that if there is anything discovery, and details of which he coming to me from the outraged ministerial concience of Summerland. Yours Respectfully, A. W. McLeod

The Editor,

Summerland Review. Dear Sir,

As the case in the Small Debts Court reported in your issue of Decomber 6th has been settled out of Court, I should be glad if you would publish the following facts, that your readers may be better able to understand why the case went to Court at all. The plaintiff was engaged in England as a lady-help, and not as a servant and her wages were arranged accordingly; her journey being taken into consideration. She was treated as one of the family, and practically did what she liked, and was therefore offered, and accepted, wages as an amateur and not a professional. The wages agreed on were paid onch quarter, and accepted without a word of dissatisfaction, and without any request for an increase.

This proceeded without a word till within six days of completing 18 months, when the plaintiff gave notice to leave in six days. She left in three days, and then on the plea that the contract was null and void, not having been signed in B.C., claimed at a higher rate of wages from the commencement of the engagement in England, that is 18 months back. My contention was that having accepted a regular wage without any question at the time of each payment, it formed a basis or contract. As regards these payments I was aware the contract was null and void, as was also the plaintiff, as we had discussed the matter openly over a year ago, and although she had undertaken to sign again if necessary in B.C., I preferred to leave it as an honorable agreement.

The plaintiff's contention that she was entitled to any wage she chose to ask back over a period of 18 months during which time she had received regular wages, merely because there was no legal contract, would involve hundreds of employers of labor who have no contracts, and I considered it a monstrous position to put an employer in.

This was the reason I refused to pay the higher rate and the only reason. I should have preferred it to have been settled by the Court in Penticton, but as the plaintiff has decided to bring her claim of $219 down to $55.00, namely my wife's original offer, I had no reason for enforcing my appeal.

> Yours Faithfully, C. Garnett.

GROWING TRADE WITH AUS-TRALIA.

The Apple Market.

Ottawa, Jan. 6.—Some interest ing figures dealing with the trade between Canada and Australia are furnished in a report received at the department of trade and commerce from Mr. D. H. Ross, Canadian Trade Commissioner for the Island Continent. During 1911, as is always the case, the balance of ladies of that place. trade was largely in favor of Canada, our exports to Australia amounting to £844,233, while we took from Australia products to the value of £118,284. The increase of Canadian exports to Australia was ing. approximately £42,000, while the increase in the Commonwealth's exports to Canada was £18,000.

Mr. Ross remarks that the increase in exports to Canada would have been more pronounced had there been more cold storage space available in the Canadian-Austraincreasing quantities of "Made-in-Canada" goods. Agricutural implements, motor cars and paper from Canada are prominent features of the steamers' manifests, there being a growing market for these products of the Dominion.

Dealing with the shipment of apples from the Pacific coast to Australia, Mr. Ross says:

"The Canadian-Australian steamers have recently brought forward some consignments of apples from Vancouver. It is impossible to state what proportion was from Canada or the United States, as the manifests and documents merely show points of origin as Vancouver. The fruit landed in a bare market and should have realized good returns for the shippers."

Turn idle hours into concrete fence posts

EVERY farmer finds himself now and then with a few idle hours in which both himself and his help must look for "odd jobs" to keep them busy. Use these hours to make concrete fence posts. You can make a few at a time, storing them until needed. Then when you want a fence in the new field, your posts—everlasting, concrete posts are all ready to use. The making of fence posts is only one of scores of every-day uses for concrete on the farm described in the book,

Two painful accidents have been recently reported from the camps. From Hildebrand's camp a bookkeeper, named James, had a bad fall while on horseback, resulting in a dislocated shoulder; while a workman at Brandt's camp has a broken and badly crushed leg, caused by rolling rocks.

The high winds are responsible for considerable disturbance in our community. On New Year's night the "Okanagan" was prevented from landing here, as a result three of our worthy citizens spent the night in Penticton, and later, in making the morning stop, she ran into the dock and broke it up badly. One morning stop was cut out entirely.

That the fruit growers of Naramata are trying to meet and solve their various problems was shown by the goodly number present at a meeting held last Friday night for the purpose of organization. Mr. H. J. Wells was appointed chairman and Mr. Pushman secretary of the meeting. The organization is to be known as the Farmers' Institute, and to meet on Friday of each week. It was decided to take steps in securing demonstrators and speakers on Fruit Growing. The next meeting will be held on Friday night in the Naramata Hall, and it is hoped that more will be present to elect permanent officers and discuss any other questions of interest to the organization.

CLIPPING THE HORSE.

Much difference of opinion exists as to clipping the horse. Leaving out of the account our own experience, and giving only the judgment of men who have had charge of large numbers of horses and been close observers of them during winters both when 'clipped and unclipped, a few things may be said that are beyond controversy:

1. If you are going to clip your horse do it during November, not later. Horses deprived of their cont before it has stopped growing Going to Build? will put out sufficient hair to afford a little protection. If clipped after the coat has stopped growing, the horse will go through the winter with scarcely any coat at

2. Hardly ever should the heavy draft-horse be clipped.

3. The hair on the legs should be left as a protection against rough weather and wet, muddy roads.

4. Clipped horses must be care-

5. A horse that will thrive and do his work well without swenting easily does not need to be clipped. 6. It is cruel and inhuman to clip any horse and then not give him the best of care. 7. Private carriage horses, if clipped, should be protected, when driven about the streets, with loincloths.-F.H.R. in "Our Dumb

In Montreal, Toronto and other cities, one sees in the newspapers on Saturdays display advertisements of growing size, intended to attract, not members only, but others, to the churches. that transpired at the rather slimly attended meeting called by the Council to discuss Municipal affairs., and which was held in Empire Hall last Friday afternoon. All the members of the Council were in attendance and took part. A statement of municipal finances was read by the Clerk, to which was appended a short report from the auditor.

Some criticism of last year's Council was made by several citizens, and explanations or answers bers of the board. The only one from the Municipal hall, other than the Clerk, who attempted anything like a speech was Coun. Robinson, who went quite fully into the subjects touched upon.

After a pretty full discussion of affairs pertaining to the Council. the matter of introducing manual training into the schools of Summerland was discussed, and met with approval from those present. Following this was a short report from H. C. Before sitting down Municipal Clerk Logie urged that ratepayers do not ask the Council for extensions and imwere more favorable for the floating of Municipal debentures.

While lower prices must be expected, profits can be raised by closer attention to the manufacture of by-products and the reduction of the cost of production. He wished to correct an idea that had got about that poor organization had been respongoing forward satisfactorily, if slowly, and it was the breakdown of the organization in the United States this year that had hampered the markets. He urged the establishment of canneries and evaporators in every district, and the further co-operation of the growers, and was confident that well considered requests of such a body as the Fruit Growers' Association would receive good support from the Government, who were doing everything in their power to help them.

WANT BUSINESS MEN.

The Review is not disposed to participate in civic politics, especially when matters of vital interest to the life of the community are not involved. Recent developments in the contest in Ward II., however, seem to justify press comment. Let it be understood though, that it is from no personal choice between the two candidates remaining in the contest, or for any other personal reason, that we now participate. To get men of business, men trained in the methods and customs of the world of business and finance to take a hand in municipal government has always been difficult. This is common experience in all municipalities governed by councils, and one of the chief reasons of dissatisfaction, and of changing to the commission form of government, with men of business experience appointed at good salaries.

The electors of Ward II. have now the opportunity of benefitting Empire Hall has secured an attracthe municipality by returning a man of acknowledged business ability tion de luxe for Saturday, evening, to the Council, one fully capable of looking after their ward interests, and big enough to serve the whole municipality, and, too, he is keen to serve.

The other candidate has frequently been heard to say that he does not want the position, and being indifferent, beside lacking in the qualifications in which the other excells, it seems but right that the new candidate should be given the opportunity to show his ability.

SEEKING INFORMATION.

Recently the Okanagan Jam Company, Ltd., sent through the mail to all fruit growers of the district a printed tabulated form, asking the grower to supply certain information respecting the fruit crop. This company, which has only now become established on a saistfactory basis, is planning for material expansion during the coming season. In order, however, to lay plans to the best advantage, it is essential that they have the information as to what fruit is available, and where it may be found. The company, in addition to very materially enlarging its jam department, is soon to install an evaporating plant for the preserving of peaches, apricots, etc. Dried prunes will probably be one of their lines. By filling in the form, as requested by the company, the grower in no way binds himself or pledges his crop. As speedily as information can be gathered and tabulated it will be done, and when plans are completed later, contracts for all or part of crops will be asked for. Information re prunes, cherries and small fruits particularly are essential. No harm can be done by furnishing the company with the information they seek, and much good will doubtless result.

EVER DRAWING.

That British Columbia and the Western Prairies continue to be an ever-increasing attraction is again proven by recent doings in English real estate, which has of late been very active, rivaling even the Canadian business in volume of turn-over and number of sales. Probably the determination of the Briton to break up his great land estates is partly responsible for this increased activity, but the chief cause is, without doubt, the opportunities Western Canada affords. During the last six or seven months one firm alone has disposed of landed estate to the value of $16,000,000, principally the properties of peers and country squires. All classes in British life are responding to the appeal of the Dominion. Each week throughout the sailing season proper the steamers of the Canadian Pacific Railway and other lines sailing to Canadian ports, have conveyed members of both Houses of Parliament, bankers, heads of investment houses, directors of industrial and insurance companies to an extent that is surprising. Even society women are coming?? to engage in fruit growing or ranching on the prairies.

KING GEORGE AND THE BIBLE.

Among the statements recently made by one of those writers who claim special knowledge respecting the habits and the mode of life of the great, is one to the effect that King George reads a chapter of the Bible every day, as he promised his mother he would do, thirty-two

There should be nothing really remarkable about this statement, because study of the Book of Books is natural to every person of Christian training desirous of making the most of himself and performing well the duties thrust upon him by circumstances and his station in life.

To what other book can he look for guidance in difficulties or equal solace in sorrow; the reading of what other book will to the same extent enable him to keep a calm mind and a courageous heart amid the clamors of his time?

The statement respecting our King's daily Bible reading has drawn from the New York Times a tribute to the Bible that bears testimony to the fact that even in this feverish age of getting and doing the Book that formed the foundation of the libraries of our pioneer forefathers and often the libraries themselves, still holds its place among thoughtful people.

"There is not," says this New York writer, "a complaint of the Municipal Offices, present hour, not a human condition of all those proclaimed as now and strange, for which some sufficient equivalent may not be found in this wonderful collection of the histories, chronicles, and poems of Israel and Judah. That a reigning monarch of this twentieth century has the good taste and the inclination to read in his Bible, must be gratifying to all who have feared that religion was losing is hold on the people. King George sets a good example for his subjects.

"One cannot do better than to read the Bible, and it is beyond question that one who reads it, earnestly and with appreciation, every day in the year, can do no intentional harm to his fellow-men."

The statement respecting King George's practice, if it accomplished nothing else, served a good purpose by drawing from the New York newspaper he lines just quoted.—Montreal Standard.

MANUAL TRAINING.

In the absence of the chairman of the school board Trustee Robinson asked that the meeting express an opinion on the matter of introducing manual training in the public schools.

He said that we have attending our schools children who will, in the near future, do honor to Summerland, and we must give them every chance, and urged the introduction of this branch of education, explaining the benefits to be derived therefrom. It was pointed out by Trustee Robinson that only a small part of the expense would be borne by the ratepayers, as the Department of Education paid most of the expenses. He was followed by Coun. Lewes who opposed the proposition, giving increased expenditure as his reason.

J. L. Logie, as Secretary of the School Board, urged the immediate introduction of the new branch, stating, at the same time, that with this included the cost of the schools would be no greater than 1912's total, when some extra expenses were incurred. With the exception of two or three dissenting voices the motion was unanimously carried favoring manual training, providing the total school estimate did not exceed four mills.

Some complaints were made in reference to the heating apparatus in the Central School.

CANNERY QUESTION.

H. C. Mellor, addressed the meeting on the cannery question, declaring that each and every candidate for Council should be pledged to try to get legislature empowering the Municipality to grant the cannery free water and freedom from taxation for a period of years. He called upon Coun. Lewes who refused to commit himself.

Mr. Mellor thought the cannery matter should come before anything else, as it was essential to the business life of the community. In this he supported by Coun. Robinson who readily pledged himself to encourage the cannery. Objection had been made by G. W. McLaron that in so doing they would be encouraging a monopoly. Mr. Robinson admitted there was a monopoly, but we were not big enough to break it. The grants asked for would be a comparatively small matter, and until the people of Canada are far enough educated to realize that they are master of the situation monopoly will exist. Coun. Dale thought this a most important question, the cannery would give needed additional revenue to the fruit growers. He would be favorable to the proposi-

A GOOD TIME ASSURED

CONDEMNS INDEPENDENT MARKET

Extract from Letter of F. W. Bentley, P.O. Box 944, Victoria, B.C., 12th Jan., 1913.

I was sorry to hear from Thomson of the apple tragedy in England. In a way I think it is a very good thing. I never have approved of independent selling in unknown markets. This should bring home Monday, Jan. 27th, at 3 p.m. the folly of it to Summerland fruit growers. If independents could know market conditions it might be all right, but they can't. The sooner they get to realize this, and the colossal risks they are running, the better it will be for them.

B.C. Fruit Growers have yet to learn that their only hope of salvation lies in "co-operation" in its broadest sense. They have got to get together in trustfulness, find a competent manager for their Union. and then go to it and give him all the help he needs. It seems futile to pay a man who has made a study While I appreciate the honor of the fruit business a big salary I also recognize the responsibiland then buck him. Everyone seems so confoundedly scared of helping the Union out, and so ready to blame even when it is doing its best.

I met men at the Fruit Growers' Convention who told me that conditions across the line are far worse than they are in B.C. It has been a bad year all round—due to an enormous crop badly handled The crop has exceeded the present marketing facilities. I think you Okanaganites would do well to have your manager along—find out what was wrong last year—how you can best help him this coming seasonput it on paper and act on it.

As soon as ever I have money enough I shall go back to fruit growing. I am homesick for an orchard.

MANGR. H. L. GARROWAY READ PAPER ON MARKET PROBLEMS.

Among the addresses given at the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association was one given by Mr. H. L. Garroway, Manager of the Okanagan Fruit Union.

Mr. Garroway began with statistics showing the enormous output which must be handled within the next few years, when the 30,000 acres now planted in the province all come into full bearing. The During the term of my office estimate is that in 1915, 2,500 carloads of fruit will be shipped probably increase to 50,000 and 100,000 by the same years, unless it is found that the older orchards are diminishing their products, as is undoubtedly the case in the Eastern and Middle West States.

The disappointment of growers at their returns from the past crop was not unnatural, Mr. Garraway remarked, but if they had studied the subject they would have found no cause for apprehension for the future. With their young orchards, they had done quite as well as There was undoubtedly need for cheaper rates of transportation for profits on the peaches, or, in fact, believed that it was the retailer ize this. The press could do a great deal toward this by publishretailers were making from 110 to 300 per cent. profit, and, when charged with it, owned that they had to give credit often to dishonest customers, and they had to make the honest customer pay for the other man.

To improve conditions growers must co-operate, and, in formulating any plans to this end, they could save much time and money from a study of what was being dono along these lines by the Americans, who had been buying their experience for years and paying dearly for it. Their organization had broken down last year, but they were at work already perfecting it; and this province must lose no time in putting machinery in motion to obtain equally efficient organization against the time when the Americans would have perfected theirs. The enormous output he already referred to as coming would make it all the more necessary. He did not believe in trying to do away with the wholesaler, with his enormous machinery for distribution already in existence. He would rather see the grower co-operate with the wholesaler and so make use of him.

The Okanagan Lake Boat Co., whose services in our community means to us, promptness, accommodation and reliability, is advertising a contest that is creating no little interest in this portion of the Valley. In the latter part of next month the Boat Co. will launch and place in public service their beautiful new passenger boat; and it is with a desire to secure a fitting name for the new vessel that the contest has been arranged. The pressing need for a large and more speedy vessel for local transportation shows not only the rapid development of the company under the present management but is as well a reliable indication of the commercial progress of the community. To all who have seen the boat in the process of its building it seems that the company has more than met the demand. They are putting at the public's disposal a boat not only of great utility but one handsomely fitted out with every comfort and convenience. Surely with such a pleasing subject we should all be inspired for the naming of it. In addition to the honor of naming the new boat the winner of the contest will receive as a reward free transportation between Naramata-Summerandand Penticton. Three prizes will be given. All this is but another evidence of the push of the company which is giving us a service whose advantages we may well be proud.

As there appear to be difficulties in some instances with regard to the filling up of these forms; possibly the following explanation as to their object, may be of assistance to growers.

The first object the company has in view is to get some idea as to the quantities of the various fruits likely to be available this season.

The second is to let them know which growers have the different kinds.

With this information they will have something to go on, and can then formulate their plans and see how much of that fruit they will be able to handle.

Last season several of the smaller growers expressed a hope that, another season the company would give them a chance of dealing with MRS. JAS. The information we ask is not idle curiosity. We have only recently extended our jam plant, and it is to be further extended before the season. An evaporating plant is being got together, and will also be ready, and besides contemplating other means of

AUDITORS' REPORT.

Summerland, B.C. January 4th, 1913.

To the Reeve and Council,

District Municipality of Summerland.

Attached hereto, and forming part of this Report, find:

(A) Statement of Receipts and Disbursements. (B) Statement re Public Utilities.

(C) Statement of Board of School Trustees.

(D) Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

We have made a quarterly audit of the Municipal Books, we have found all receipts duly accounted, and all disbursements duly vouched. The work of the City Hall Staff is excellent, and, in our opinion, as efficient as can be found.

The finances of the Municipality are in the best shape they have been in for a considerable time.

We will advise the Council to exercise strict economy this year, and borrow as little money as possible until the money market looks better. as, in our opinion, the difference between par and selling price, is too great to tax the ratepayers for money from which they derive no benefit. Respectfully submitted, (Signed) CREHAN, MOUAT & CO., Chartered Accountants and Municipal Auditors.

A THOUSAND MILLIONS

CANADA'S total trade for the twelve months of the past year passed the billion dollar mark by a little over five and a half million dollars. Final or detailed figures will not be available for some weeks yet, but the returns received so far by the Trade and Commerce and Customs Departments show that the billion dollar mark has been well passed. As compared with the Dominion's trade for 1911 this represents a gain of nearly $189,000,000, or 23 per cent. Imports for the past twelve months totalled approximately $654,000,000, while exports amounted too nearly $352,000,000. The gain in imports was nearly $140,000,000, while exports increased by nearly $49,000,000. Only one country in the world rivals Canada in the percentage of trade growth during the past few years, namely Argentina. By the end of the fiscal year it is expected that Canada will have reached tenth place among the countries of the world in respect of total trade. The Dominion's trade has doubled within the past six years, and trebled within the past thirteen years.

BENEFITS OF PARCELS POST.

THE Parcels Post that the government put in operation in the United States January 1st, will have results much like those of the first telephones. It will carry conveniences of the city to the country, and the fresh produce of from the students ranks. When stayed enjoyed it very much. The the country to the city kitchens direct.

If the country lass has a skirt she wishes dyed or a feather curled she will send them to town. If the rural housewife has a pair of blankets she wants dry-cleaned, she can send them to town in a parcel with a parcels post stamp affixed. Maybe she will send a dozen or so eggs or a pound of butter along to pay the bill. How can the parcels post authorities know all this so far ahead? They don't know it ahead. England has been doing that sort of thing for years. They've studied it in England. In London they send waists, curtains and linens to Scotland to be laundered. The parcels post makes was desirable that a number of it practical to send fine laundry work far into the country where there fruit growers go from here to Musical Selection are communities that specialize in that business. The Londoner gets a better profit by the trade.

Another use of electrical energy, made possible by the Edison improvement, is the little freight trucks canneries, which option expired being used for the first time this winter at the Atlantic freight terminals of the C.P.R. at St. John. The first three crates supplied to the reputed leading fancy grocer here, realized 38 cents per dozen. A better customer has since been secured. During this period packed eggs were retailing at 35 cents to 40 cents per doz. Wholesale complaints have been received from local poultrymen relating to this matter. The first month's yield exceeded last year's total for the same period by no less than 610 eggs, the exact figures being: last year, 717 eggs, and 1327 eggs during the past month.

In accounting for the better showing this year, much of the credit is due the owners of competing pens. Much better judgment has been used this year in selecting pullets. At this period last year no less than nearly a dozen pens were moulting, caused by sending pullets which were in full lay at time of shipping. This year the only feathers noticed in litter are chick feathers.

Better housing arrangements have also assisted. The weather has not been very propitious. On account of this the birds have only been allowed out on one or two occasions. The additional floor space provided this year, together with better light and ventilation, has helped considerably. Given plenty of pen room, together with a palatable ration, green food, plenty of water and exercise, fowls will thrive, and prove more profitable than those allowed out in all weathers.

In Class I, the following pens started to lay on dates enclosed in parentheses: Pens 5 and 10 (14th); 2 and 12 (18th); 3 (21st); 11

The occupants of Pen 8, owing to their youth, have grown considerably during the month, and greatly relish the dry mash.

Pen 10 was received several days late, owing to another competitor failing to forward birds. Quite a few tinted eggs are laid by several Pens in Class I. Pen 12 lays good-sized eggs, by no means the smallest in the class.

In Class II, the following Pens started to lay on dates given after Pen Number: Pen 29 (15th); 33 and 39 (18th); 35 (20th); 21 (21st); 37 (23rd); 24 and 31 (26th); 34 (27th); 32 (30th).

Pens 21 and 26 produce exceedingly large eggs. Three Pens have not laid yet in this Class. Pen 28 has developed considerably during
