Wind Does Damage Fighting Fire On Imperator---World's Biggest Steamship.

No more reassuring test of a great modern steamship could have been had than was given by a fire that started in a lower after compartment of the world's biggest steamship, the Imperator, at her dock in Hoboken, where she had arrived from Hamburg. The fire was confined to the compartment where it had originated, and although it cost the life of the second officer of the vessel and destroyed provisions worth $15,000, it did no damage whatever to the ship beyond blistering the steel walls of the compartment.

This picture, taken on one of the decks aft of the biggest ship, shows how the firemen, aided by members of the ship's crew, fought the flames in the provision room by running hose down the provision well through the hatch.

Though deeply regretting the loss of Karl Gobrecht, the officer who so gallantly lost his life, the Hamburg Line found in a final casting up that it had much on which to congratulate itself. For one thing the fire strongly buttressed the company's claim that the vessel is as fireproof as human ingenuity can make her; for another it brought for the first time into notice the remarkable equipment with which she is fitted for such emergencies.

TOWHERE IN THE ENTIRE WORLD ARE THERE GREATER INDUSTRIAL ADVAN-TAGES THAN AT INDUSTRIAL MISSION.

As Gary is to the Middle States; as Lowell and Lynn are to New England; as Jersey City or Paterson are to the Eastern States, so will INDUSTRIAL MISSION be to all Western Canada, the throbbing, humming, heart and soul-centre of manufacturing industry.

HERE ARE SOME INTERESTING FACTS -SOME "REASONS WHY."

INDUSTRIAL MISSION is located at and is part of MISSION CITY, B.C.—the very heart of the famous Fraser Valley in the most perfectly developed area in Western Canada.

INDUSTRIAL MISSION has the cheapest electrical power for manufacturing purposes on the North American continent.

INDUSTRIAL MISSION is the junction point of four Canadian and American railroads. On main line Canadian Pacific, at the head of deep water navigation on the Fraserriver, assuring unexcelled rail and water transportation. INDUSTRIAL MISSION has all Western Canada and the Orient as a market. It will occupy the same position as an industrial district as the famous Okanagan Valley does to-day as a fruit and farm district.

YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO OVERLOOK INDUSTRIAL MISSION.

Unquestionably, lots in INDUSTRIAL MISSION are the greatest investment in Western Canada. They will treble in value at the opening of the Panama Canal.

From London to the Okanagan.

Impressions of a Fleet Street Journalist

II.—By L. V. MILLS.

I BEGIN to fear the fascination of the Valley! What is the mystery in the charm of these blue hills and the bluer waters which lie in their embrace? Do they cast some spell upon visitors and residents alike; is it merely the magic of their beauty or something even more subtle still? Just before I sailed from England a Canadian in London said to me, 'You will find this curious state of affairs over the seas. New arrivals in Canada begin at once to save and scrape together every penny possible in order to return home. By the time they have the amount of a return ticket saved they no longer have any desire to quit!" This significant remark set me thinking, and though I have only been three weeks in the Happy Valley (this is my own name for the Okanagan-I have patented it, please) I am already beginning to realize its meaning.

The most frequent remark made to me since my arrival in the Okanagan is a polite query as to the length of my stay, and when I hesitate to put a time limit to anything so delightful as my experiences in the Happy Valley, my interlocutor wags his (or her) head in a wise way and says, "Ah well. I came here for a year-I've been here twelve years," or "I came for a two months' visit, and I've—er—bought a little proposition up here, and well, I guess I'm stopping," or "Oh, you dont know? Well, I can tell you. You'll never go back." All these sayings have aroused my curiosity, I seek the interpretation. The true one seems that the Valley casts its spell over each newcomer weaves around him some subtle net of fascination, of silken, but toostrong-to-be-broken threads, and finding peace and peaceful occupation in the Last West—here he pitches his tent for good and aye. And should he wander away for a time, in a year or so he comes back, a penitent wandering sheep, to the fold.

I am as yet a "tenderfoot" and cannot speak with any inner knowledge of affairs in these bright little settlements growing on the verge of a Columbian Lake, but impressions crowd thick and fast upon me every hour. I have steeped my heart in the exquisite peace and stillness of your Valley (the spell grows—I almost wanted to say "ours"). I have feasted my eyes on its sunny beauty. I have met and talked to many kindly, hospitable people, and with the impetuosity of a newcomer I have allowed myself to come to conclusions. One believes instinctively in the happy future of this growing community.

What if life is strenuous for men and women alike? What if the sunny days are full of toil, and there is but little time to waste on conventions and artificialities? What if there is sometimes lack of many things which have grown from luxuries to necessities among dwellers in big cities. Okanagan is a land in the making, a country with its history yet to be written, a piece of Columbia that is out to contribute its own huge slice to the great future of Canada. Lucky the men and women allowed a finger in so glorious a pie! "The welfare of all must be the aim of everyone' was a text quoted in Summerland on Labor Sunday, and it seemed the right motto for the Okanagan to set up in big type, and take as its watchword.

Labor Day was a brand new Bank Holiday for me! Soberly and sedately it seemed, the folk here enjoyed their holiday on that first cool silver day of September. I recalled the riot of Hampstead Heath—the revellings of concertina-led bands; the heat and turmoil of every great railway station and every place of amusement away in far off London, the exhausting program of the English toilers' Bank Holiday, and I sighed for them, and wished them the contemplative rural joys of Labor Day in British Columbia. Incidentally, it appears, quite a number of workers went on working, and peaches were gathered and apples garnered on Labor Day. Work is part of the daily program of play out here, evidently, and the Canadian worker is keen against losing any Woman's suffrage in the Okanagan? Not a fair question to fire at a newcomer and a woman? I hasten to reply that the warmest feminine advocates of the Vote for Canadian Women is of so vastly different a type to the militant suffragist in England that any comparison between the two is futile and useless! The suffrage extended to women in Canada means a power of altogether different significance to its force as it might influence the Imperial Government of "The Old Country." The English suffragist may find some of her arguments repeated in the mouth of the Canadian suffragist, but I do not find a fierce woman's revolution afoot out here. Perhaps you are more akin to nature and know her wisdom better out in the West. A beautiful prayer "For Women who Toil" was prayed in a Summerland place of worship on Labor Sunday, and for me it summed up the Canadian ideal for the state of its womenkind. I have mailed it home to a certain society of English women with which I am connected. (More Impressions Next week).

OCEAN FREIGHT RATES.

Probably there is proportionately more goods imported from across the Atlantic by Western Canada than by the East and certainly this portion of our broad country uses more space in transatlantic traffic than does the more populous East. The question of ocean freight rates. is therefore of even more importance to us.

The action of the Government in making a prompt inquiry into the increase in these rates in recent years has therefore met with commendation from all parts of the country.

H. L. Drayton, K.C., Chairman of the Railway Commission, has just returned from the Old Country where he has been making a thorough investigation into the subject and taking the matter up with the British Government with a view to co-operation between the two Governments to compel some control over rates such as the Dominion now has over the railway rates in Canada.

Just how serious is the increase in rates is shown by the following recent report by F. A. C. Bickerdike, the Canadian trade commissioner at Manchester.

"During the past few years charges have increased regularly each season for the carriage of goods between Canada and the mother country. Of late, however, the rise has been more rapid. For instance flour from Canadian ports to Liverpool has advanced from 9.75 cents per 100 lbs in 1911 to 17.67 cents last year, and grain from 6.97 to 13.92 cents On crockery from England freights have advanced from 17s. 6d. to 22s. 6d., on hardware 20s. 6d., 20s. to 27s. 6d., and on cotton goods from 22s. to 30s. It is understood in this district that the British Government and the Government of the Dominion the Valley of a party of visitors mograph from cars loaded here are about to investigate the matter.

Chairman Drayton has just returned to Ottawa from England pert, Mrs. Chapman, wife of Judge up as high as 70 degrees. The freight rate question will, it is understood, be finally disposed of. A ters to Sir Chas. Tupper. #### Two Little Sailor Princes And Their Sister.

The three royal children of Spain (1) the Prince of the Asturias, and heir apparent to the throne; (2) Don Jaime, the deaf and dumb baby prince, whom it was recently said Helen Keller, the famous American blind girl would go to Spain to teach, and (3) the Infanta Beatrice.

The two little princes love the water. Both would be sailor princes, as is evidenced by the costumes they wear. The photograph was taken at Santander beach, near Madrid; where the children frequently go to walk, accompanied by their nurses who are shown in the picture. Whenever the three royal babies saunter along the beach; secret agents, secret police, or military attaches to the royal household hover somewhere in the vicinity.

New Branch Of Agriculture.

Seemingly a new industry of considerable proportions is being introduced in this Valley, and if dogs' and wild animals can be kept in abeyance there should be no more profitable branch of agriculture than this, the raising of sheep. In the northern part of this Valley there is at least one flock of large proportions which is shortly to be increased to a total of 3,000, and in a smaller way we hear of this branch of agriculture being introduced in the South Okanagan. There is an excellent local market throughout the Valley for a large quantity of lamb and mutton. At the present time lamb is being shipped from the southern part of the Valley as far as Kelowna.

Contributions from anyone having fruit and vegetables will be gratefully received by the hospital.

Concrete is the best building material

BROAD statement—Yet literally true. The aim of man from the beginning has been to make his building materials as nearly like natural stone as possible. The great labor required to quarry stone led him to seek various manufactured substitutes. The only reason he ever used wood was that it was easiest to get and most convenient to use. Wood is no longer easy to get. Like most building material, its cost is increasing at an alarming rate. creasing at an alarming rate.

The cost of concrete is decreasing. So, from the standpoint of either service or economy, Concrete is the best building material. Canada's farmers are using more concrete, in proportion to their numbers, than the farmers of any other country. Why? Because they are being supplied with a coment of the highest possible quality, which is sures the success of their concrete work. The secret of concrete's popularity in Canada lies in the fact that while we have been advertising the use of concrete, we have also been producing, by scientific methods, a coment so uniformly high in quality that the concrete made with it gives the complete satisfaction our advertisements premised.

Concrete would not have been in such universal use today, had an inferior grade of cement been supplied. Insist upon getting Canada Cement. It is your best assurance of thoroughly satisfactory results from your concrete work. There is a Canada Cement dealer in your neighborhood.

Messrs. Roy White and Laurence Hatfield of Summerland spent the early part of the week in town, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dan. White.

Mr. Chas. Somerville left on Thursday morning for Southern Manitoba, where he will engage in harvesting and threshing for a couple of months.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Clements and three little children left for Vancouver on Thursday morning. This is the first holiday Mr. Clements has taken since he came here, and we hope it may prove beneficial to all of them.

A citizen's picnic was held at Camp Hewitt Flat on Labor Day. The feat of climbing the almost perpendicular side of the Pincushion was performed by nearly all, except a few who remained on the Flat to prepare refreshments, for which the climbers returned with hearty appetites.

Labor Day, being also the first day of hunting, was a holiday enjoyed by most. Mr. McGraw succeeded in securing a deer behind the Pincushion, several grouse were tagged while Mr. Ernie Aikens came across a bear, which was enjoying a sleep behind a log. It assumed the erect position and came a step or two towards him. when he raised his shot gun (being armed for grouse only) and made a run towards it. It turned immediately and ran, we can imagine that Ernie heaved a sigh of relief.

A pleasant time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McColl, saying good-bye to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. McKenzie before their departure for Edmonton and regions beyond. Music and games were followed by refreshments. A handsome locket and chain were presented by the choir of the Baptist Church to Mrs. McKenzie as a slight token of remembrance of the many happy occasions of their meeting. The gathering separated wishing Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie much happiness and prosperity in their new home.

The Gurney-Oxford Attracts Madam To The Kitchen

THE GURNEY-OXFORD has a large following of fashionable cooks who dip into the culinary art simply for the pleasure they derive from trying dainty recipes previously not attempted. They are all most enthusiastic supporters of the Gurney-Oxford because it contains many exclusive devices that make a perfect cooking equipment.

Its oven is evenly heated in every corner to insure deliciously dainty cakes, golden brown biscuits, and light flaky pastry. A special Divided Flue carries the heat to every hole on the range. The top is perfectly smooth and clean, requiring noblack lead polish.

But most important is the Economizer. It is a small lever that moves around a series of six notches giving the exact degree of heat required for any particular dish. The heat of the range can be shut off and the kitchen kept cool between meals by turning the lever to a certain number.

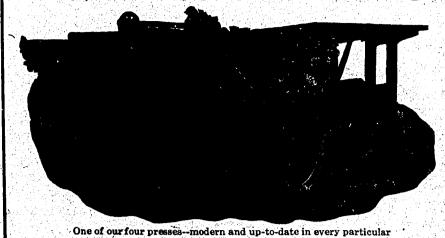

The fire is held at a low ebb on a special Reversible Grate until a baking oven is required. Then the necessary heat can be obtained quickly by simply turning the Economizer lever to another notch.

Such control as this enables many smart women to invent some very tempting dishes which they set triumphantly before their friends. It will pay you to investigate the Gurney-Oxford...

The Big English Market.

Some Of The Obstacles To Be Overcome.

Australasia's Success And B.C.'s Opportunity.

By Mr. J. O. ROBINSON.

A few days ago my father and I took a trip across England, to the encient city of Bristol. We were accompanied by Hon. J. G. Jenkins and Major Norton, two ardent imperialists, the former being ex-Premier and for many years Agent-General, and the latter the present Trade Commissioner for South Australia. The district through which our train passed is devoted principally to grain and mixed farming, and the trip had the effect of dispelling the delusion under which I had labored. that England is no farming country. I was surprised to see those massive fields of yellow grain, with soil so fertile that the average yield per acre frequently reaches forty bushels. In spite of the fact that the great proportion of England is used for farming purposes, it goes but a small way in feeding her millions of subjects, and the nation has to depend on imports from other countries. It has been said that should the shipping be stopped for the period of but a few days, London would be reduced to the stage of starvation. The truth of that statement one can hardly doubt, when you realize the extent of supply of foodstuff necessary to feed the millions of hungry mouths. The result is that producers and growers at nearly every corner of the earth look to London and the United Kingdom for their market, and there, they find that if properly managed, a never-failing demand for their products. The prices are steady and the cash is always forthcoming.

In regard to market, there is no doubt but that the prospects for the fruit grower are very bright. When you consider that it is not an uncommon thing to sell fresh peaches at half-a-crown or about sixty cents each, you will realize that the demand is indeed great. Apples, when properly put on the market, bring such a price to net the grower a very handsome profit, while the Californian is prospering on the returns he gets for canned fruits sold in London.

The question is vital to the future of the Okanagan, and if our fruit could be firmly established on this market, there can be no doubt about brilliant success. Unfortunately there are some difficult obstacles to overcome, not the least of which is the unscrupulous commission merchant. More than one man with his consignment of goods has come here, and escaped with little more than his hide. The people of Australasia faced these conditions some years ago, and their ever-alert and progressive government faced the issue, acting quickly and effectively. The effectiveness of their action is evidenced by the good prices received by the farmer for his products, and the continual clamor for his goods on the English market, whereas formerly they were flatly refused and ruin seemed inevitable. The secret of their success lay in the appointment of astute and bright trade commissioners, and in Major Norton, South Australia surely got a "live wire." To hear him relate his experiences and investigations at Covent Garden sounds like a fairy tale. He fought them and fought them hard, with his eye on the seling to prevent any slaughtering of his goods. Finally he was told by the wholesale men that his goods were not wanted, there being no demand for them. He then went around and exhibited at horticultural shows, and with the aid of some small dealers, soon had the people asking for his wares. This spirit was carefully fostered, with the result that the demand grew, and soon the big wholesale men came begging him to sell to them.

Major Norton has brought prosperity to the farmers of his state, but he still sees greater things ahead, and consequently is working harder than ever. A short while ago he was offered a great increase in salary by some commission merchants, thus he resigned his government position, but his merits were fully appreciated by South Australia with the result that big inducements lured him back into their employ. On his return to the service, with the aid of some prominent Australians, among whom is Hon. J. G. Jenkins, a comprehensive definite scheme has been set in motion which is destined to settle once and for all this knotty problem. It was originated by New Zealanders with the cooperation of some of Bristol's most prominent and wealthy citizens, who with the broad ideas of bringing back to their city the once proud position as the chief shipping port of Western England, and fostering imperial over-seas trade, extend their services and money in a somewhat charitable manner. The Australians saw the force of this scheme, consequently the organization has been extended to embrace them.

Since coming to England my father has been carefully and thoroughly studying conditions of the English market, with the view of seeing that British Columbia, and especially Okanagan fruit shall be established in England, and thus sharing some of the excellent prices which prevail. It was soon seen that, as a medium, Covent Garden is hopeless if our growers wish to get fair returns, and action by our government such as the appointment of an efficient Trade Commissioner became apparently advisable. Not having the advantages of such an official the investigations were carried on, with the result that the largest fruit dealers were interviewed, until finally he came into contact with the Apprentions. Immediately the change for our fruit presented with the Australians. Immediately the chance for our fruit presented itself, hence our trip to Bristol.

Fortunately for Canada the harvest season is opposite to that of Australasia, consequently our fruit does not come into competition with Austraiasia, consequently our truit does not come into competition with theirs. They have thus, being good imperialists, lent an attentive and sympathetic ear to our story, and the outcome will probably be that they will be quite willing to further expand their scheme into a world-wide one, in order to embrace Canada, thus opening the doors to the splendid opportunities of an organization which is the result of years of work and experience of experts of the most progressive government of

If the operation instituted by a private individual mainly on behalf of the district, which we think is unsurpassed anywhere, are brought to a successful issue, tangible prosperity will be assured, because the products of the soil will find a safe and sure way to the most coveted of all markets where there is almost no danger of a glut, and where prices are always good, backed by good substantial cash.

THEATRICAL PERFORMANCE AT lott" by Mr. Sauter was well re-EMPIRE HALL.

"The Summerland Players."

A capital performance of two crisp playlets, wih a musical interlude, was given at the Empire Hall last night, Thursday, by the "Players" of Summerland, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Soames of Kelowna.

A good audience thoroughly appreciated the presentation by a clever caste of Sydney Grundy's well - known "In Honor Bound," and "The Man in the Street."

In the first playlet, the scene set in "A Room in Sir George Carlyon's House," was charmingly arranged, and the unravelling of the slight but human and interesting plot, was admirably carried out by Mr. Sauter, as the cynical and strong barrister, Sir George Carlyon, and the three local amateurs who assisted him. Mr. Sauter, as an actor, easily fills the stage alone, and his conception of the part of Sir George was a remarkably clever one, and somewhat reminiscent of Sir George Alexander in his happiest moments.

ing and graceful Rose Dalrymple, ing scores for the day were: and Mrs. Fetherstonhaugh as Lady Carlyon, and Mr. Oliver Villiers as Philip Graham, though not convincincing, did their best to support Mr. Sauter.

In the musical interlude which followed Mr. Alex. Bentley's songs were enthusiastically received. Lodge Summerland Mr. Bentley is the possessor of a fine and mellow baritone, which he uses with admirable restraint and expression, and he was delightedly encored. Miss Phyllis Higgin proved a most sympathetic accompanist. A reading of "The Lady of Shal-ceived, and the incomparable music of the famous poem was admirably rendered with a musical accompaniment by Miss Phyllis Higgin. Miss Higgin is a clever pianist, but did not realize the restraint necessary for the illustrative accompaniment of a recitation, and Mr. Sauter was consequently at a little disadvantage.

Distinctly forceful and clever was Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Soames' production of "The Man in the Street." Mr. Soames interpretation of the hopeless old vagabond Jabez Glover, was a delightfully realistic effort, every detail in make-up, gesture, and facial expression being admirably faithful to life. Mrs. A. L. Soames as Minnie Adare, acted very gracefully and well, and has a most charming stage presence. Mr. Sauter's Philip Adare gave further proof of his talent as an actor of the first order.

The Piano We Give Away

DESCRIPTION OF PIANO

FINISH

We furnish this Piano in either Oak or Mahogany finish MANUFACTURER'S DESCRIPTION

The dimensions of the above Piano are as follows: height, 4 feet 9 inches; length, 5 feet 2 inches; depth, 2 feet 4 inches; weighs, boxed ready for shipment, about 800 pounds, and the material and workmanship are of the best. The cases are finished in Mahogany or Oak, double veneered inside and out to prevent warping or splitting. The Piano has 71-8 octaves, repeating action, three pedals, full iron frame covering wrest plank, and built up pin block of five different layers of hard maple, direction of grain alternating in successive layers to prevent to the greatest extent possible the Piano getting out of tune.

The three strings in unison with over strung bass, splendidly pitched scale and excellent sounding board produces the rich, deep, even tone peculiar to the Upton Pinno, and so much striven for by manufacturers of high class instruments. The brackets, pedal guards, hammer rail, and continuous hinges are all heavily nickel plated. The case itself is highly polished, making a first-class artistic instrument in finish, appearance and tone.

By comparison this Piano will be found better, heavier, and more artistic than most Pianos on the market to-day. Each instrument is fully warranted.

MANUFACTURER'S WARRANTY

The above Pinno is warranted to give perfect satisfaction for a period of ten years, provided it is not exposed to extremes of heat, cold, wet or dampness.

Pretty Wedding at Press Errors Presbyterian Church

A very pretty and simple wedding ceremony took place at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, when Miss Evelyn Margaret Higgin, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.N. Higgin, of Prairie Valley, was united in marriage to Mr. G. R. Hookham of Summerland.

It was a glorious September morning for so happy an occasion, and the church was bright with golden sunflowers and purple asters and the feathery green of asparagus, decorating the platform and organ.

Rev. C. H. Daly officiated, and the congregation consisted mostly of the relatives and some friends of the bride and bridegroom. Miss Logie, presiding at the organ, played appropriate bridal music, and the ceremony was of the simplest possible nature. Miss Higgin, who was given away by her father, made a very pretty bride in her quiet little suit of pale grey whip cord, with revers of apricot silk, and a hat of biscuit straw trimmed with deep crimson and pale pink roses.

There were no bridesmaids, but the bride's sisters were both present, and the bridegroom was supported by Mr. A. F. Cotton as best

A Summerland Correction.

Threatened Action For Libel.

Sensational and rather visionary

eports emanating from Penticton

have from time to time been appearing in the Vancouver Daily Province and other publications. These reports, evidently written by one who has not had a practical knowledge of conditions, are doing much injury from the wide publicity they are receiving not only to the fruit growing industry of Penticton but of the whole Valley as well. While these exaggerated stories have been read with general surprise, but little further attention has been paid to them. There appeared in a recent number of the Province another one of these pernicious stories which has, however, caused much resentment. The Summerland Board of Trade has looked upon the story of the wholesale loss in peaches as one that should not go undenied, and the following telegram was sent on Thursday to the Vancouver Daily

Emanating from the same town is a widely circulated story of the fruit shipments to be made this year by the Okanagan, a portion of which is credited to each district. The writer states that Penticton will ship 150 cars of fruit and Summerland but 125. Why these frequent and persistent digs at Summerland? If nothing but the facts, the plain uncolored truth, were given no objection would be made. This statement, we believe, should not go undisputed, and the Review has therefore obtained an accurate and reliable compilation of figures showing shipments from the two towns last year. These are as follows in round numbers:

Fruit Summerland Penticton Cherries 2460 boxes 540 boxes Apricots 3200 boxes 500 boxes 51 cars Crabs 2100 boxes 250 boxes 3700 boxes 150 boxes Tomatoes Pears 325 boxes 75 boxes 3940 hoxes 300 boxes 13,700 boxes 3000 boxes Apples

The above are the shipments made by the Okanagan Fruit Union during 1912, and the Union han-Penticton's crop, and probably nearly that proportion of Summerland's output. It is estimated that this year the shipments from the two points will be about in like proportion.

NOWHERE IN THE ENTIRE WORLD ARE THERE GREATER INDUSTRIAL ADVAN-TAGES THAN AT INDUSTRIAL MISSION.

As Gary is to the Middle States; as Lowell and Lynn are to New England; as Jersey City or Paterson are to the Eastern seen of the city as we drove along, but we saw enough to know that States, so will INDUSTRIAL MISSION be to all Western Canada, it resembles the towns of the old world much more than our modern the throbbing, humming, heart and soul-centre of manufacturing cities of the west. In fact one could with very little difficulty imagine

HERE ARE SOME INTERESTING FACTS -SOME "REASONS WHY."

INDUSTRIAL MISSION is located at and is part of MISSION CITY, B.C.—the very heart of the famous Fraser Valley in the most perfectly developed area in Western Canada.

INDUSTRIAL MISSION has the cheapest electrical power for manufacturing purposes on the North American continent.

INDUSTRIAL MISSION is the junction point of four Canadian and American railroads. On main line Canadian Pacific, at the head of deep water navigation on the Fraserriver, assuring unexcelled rail and water transportation.

INDUSTRIAL MISSION has all Western Canada and the Orient as a market. It will occupy the same position as an industrial district as the famous Okanagan Valley does to-day as a fruit and farm district.

YOU CANNOT AFFORD TO OVERLOOK INDUSTRIAL MISSION.

Unquestionably, lots in INDUSTRIAL MISSION are the greatest investment in Western Canada. They will treble in value at the opening of the Panama Canal.

Close Shave With Iceberg.

Interesting Week At Sea.

By Mr. J. O. ROBINSON.

That most absorbing study of English life and customs, and the keen enjoyment which one derives from visiting so many ancient buildings and places which are the landmarks of the history of our forefathers, must necessarily sooner or later come to an end. My visit of nearly five months terminated on the thirteenth of August, when I suddenly decided to return to Canada. After two busy days of almost frantic shopping, I took a train from Richmond for Euston Station where I said good-bye to my people, and boarded an Allan Line special train, which made close connections at Liverpool with the S.S. "Victorian," a 12,000 ton ocean liner.

It is a fine large boat with spacious and comfortable accommodation, a first-class cuisine, and great wide decks. At the docks one could see all the bustle and excitement which is always occasioned by the departure of the steamer for its long voyage across the ocean. Thousands of people swarmed the wharf to say good-bye to friends, many, no doubt, leaving home for the first time, to perhaps replenish dissipated fortunes, or to make new ones in Canada, the land of promise. As the great liner slowly left the dock, we looked down on a sea of human faces, the most of them trying to hide grief and emotion at that critical moment. As we got farther away, and consequently out of earshot, handkerchiefs were resorted to, with the result that the landscape was simply white with silk and cotton. Those who were crowded behind, and who were consequently not so visible, tied that most useful article to the more useful umbrella and hoisted them up, waving them like flags. The more energetic and enthusiastic followed the boat along the docks, and as far as we could see with the naked eye the friends left behind stayed on the wharf to watch the "Victorian" slip over the horizon.

That evening at dinner the saloon was crowded with people, who chatted vivaciously with newly made friends sitting at the same table, but during the night the boat pitched somewhat, and the enthusiasm with the majority was notably lacking next morning at breakfast. As a matter of fact, several hasty exits were made to the various cabins, whose occupants surrendered themselves to the tender mercies of stewards and stewardesses for a few days.

Our boat took the northern route, through the Belle Isle Straits, and as we approached Newfoundland it became much colder, necessitating heavy coats and brisk walks around the decks. On the fifth day out of Liverpool some excitement was caused amongst the passengers by sighting some huge icebergs. It was a pleasing sensation to see something against the horizon besides water in the shape of waves. They were of various shapes and sizes, the most curious being a good image of an enormous cat gazing intently in the direction of our ship. Not far from it a whale made its presence known by playfully spouting water up into the air. All day long we passed these fields of ice.

After dinner the dangers of icebergs were forgotten when the passengers assembled in the first-class dining saloon to listen to a concert given in aid of a charitable association which cares for children of sailors lost at sea. Under the circumstances the performance was of a high order. The first half of the concert consisted of recitations, singing and instrumental music by violin, 'cello and piano. In the interval the chairman appealed for subscriptions to the cause of charity, and he was answered in a generous manner. For the second part of the show the stewards and employees on the boat were the artists. They provided amusement in the nature of a minstrel show by singing songs and tellng jokes, and wound up the evening by music produced on mouth organs, tamborines and bones, which they were pleased to call the rag-time band. Next morning we heard that while the concert was in progress the boat, which was moving very slowly, came right up against a huge iceberg, and a collision was averted by reversing one engine and driving the other full speed ahead.

After passing through the Belle Isle Straits and coming into the Gulf of St. Lawrence, a marked change in the temperature and height of the waves for the better was noticed. Faces of poor sailors were seen on deck for the first time, and a spirit of congeniality, almost amounting to hilarity, became general. Next morning at eight o'clock a two-funnelled revenue cutter met us off Rimouski, and took a few passengers with the mail. From that time the trip up the river in the smooth water, aided by bright sunshine, was magnificent. The scenery can hardly be surpassed anywhere for its beauty. The sight of land was celebrated by tournaments of shuffle hoard, potatoe races, needle and thread races, pillow fights and sports of various kinds to provide laughter and amusement.

At six o'clock in the afternoon we came to Quebec, and the sight of the ancient city and fortress is one not soon to be forgotten. The sun was getting low, and at the end of a long beautiful day our ship came to the old port. I could not help but think that it must have been in the evening of such a day as this that the old weary French voyageurs first came up the St. Lawrence and picked out that steep cliff as an ideal site for a fortress. For dinner that evening most of the first-class passengers went up the steep hill in ricketty old cabs to the Chateau Frontenac. The sensation we felt on standing on solid ground was decidedly exhilarating, and this feeling was accentuated by the sight of C.P.R. cars again. As it was dark not much could be

At six o'clock next morning the ship weighed anchor, and proceeded on its way up to Montreal The scenery continued beautiful and even more interesting as the river became narrower, thus making navigation more difficult. It was a great sight to see an immense ocean liner forge full speed ahead up a narrow channel, taking the twists and turns as artfully as a river boat. Finally we came into sight of our great shipping and commercial city, Montreal. Here our ocean voyage came to an end, and we said good-bye to the friends we made on board who were going in many different directions to as many different parts of the continent after going ashore.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 12, 1913.

IT IS WITH RELUCTANCE that we have opened our news columns for the discussion of an unpleasant subject, namely the persistent knocking, whether intentional or unintentional, by our neighboring contemporary, of Summerland and Summerland's orchards. The folly of such action is too apparent to need emphasis. Heretofore, though frequently urged to deny a number of statements, we have refrained from discussing the visionary stories which have from time to time appeared. We have been loth to believe that our fellow editor would intentionally publish statements for the purpose of belittling a neighboring town, as he must realize that the greatest injury will result to the knocker. Another reason for withholding any condemnation is the fact that the editor who permitted these stories to appear in print is a young man, and a recent arrival in the Valley, who perhaps has not come to a full realization of conditions as they exist. This week the whole matter has been discussed by us with the editor in question, and we are confident that he has not published the information given him with the intention of doing injury. We are, however, of the opinion that his informants have been neglecting no opportunity to get into print matter which they foolishly thought would, by injuring a neighboring community, reflect to the credit of their own.

THE EVER PRESENT problem of the Oriental question has been fearlessly but very carefully faced by the Westminster Presbytery and a resolution passed at a recent meeting and forwarded to the Provincial and Dominion Governments embraces in most comprehensive fashion every phase of the subject. As the work of the Presbytery influences all that wide territory—the entire mainland coast—this resolution is most valuable and significant. "An honest attempt to see the situation in all its bearings" well describes the broad minded, deeply sympathetic and clear-brained attitude of the Presbytery. The resolution oughly canvassing the district for rounded by ten acre lots separately calls attention to the manner in which the future well-being of Canada is vitally affected by the question, and emphasizes this great point that the civilizaton of the East and the West have for centuries moved along such widely divergent lines that different social and economic tions which are being circulated for farming and the growing of small questions make a rapid mingling of the Orient and Occident fraught signature. with dangerous consequences, especially in the laboring classes of both. Economic conditions in this country are disturbed, and the standard becomes lower and lower when the proportion of the Oriental population the fight was on. He wished it and is an enthusiast in land develand competition becomes greater, and the Orientals will defeat their understood that he bore no ill feel- opment. He says he does not agree own purpose—to improve their conditions. That the Occidental's ing toward those who are signing with the plan of "sitting down and centuries of evolved democratic institutions compare vividly with the autocratic rule to which the Oriental races are accustomed builds another great barrier, so: "the latter's presence in any great numbers temperance principles and could val, and thoroughly believes in the constitutes a serious menace to democratic institutions, and the unity afford to go no further. An inti- future of mixed farming in this of the nation." "This Presbytery would therefore urge that an understanding be arrived at between our government and the various governments interested that until the proportion of Orientals to Occidentals in British Columbia is one to thirty of the total population, no Orien- objected to having liquor for sale says in this Meadowland proposition tals excepting bona-fide merchants and students be permitted to enter in the hotel and yet wanted the they intend to take advantage of or reside in Canada." These emphatic words conclude the resolution.

AS PASSED by the United States Senate on the 9th, the tariff bill will bring about a reduction of practically twenty-eight per cent., which is four per cent, greater than would have resulted had the bill as ized something would be done by of good fruit bearing trees than it was passed by Congress been put thru the senate unamended. This will be a direct benefit to Canada, probably greater than could have resulted from reciprocity and without the undue sacrifice that that proposition demanded.

TRADE on the Pacific, it has been said, will soon rival that on the Atlantic. Certain it is that Trans-Pacific traffic is increasing rapidly. The C.P.R. is increasing its service, Japan is putting on more and larger ships, and now we hear of a new Russian service to be inaugurated some time this month between Siberia and British Columbia. Three steamships will be placed on this route, between Vladivostock, Prince Rupert and Vancouver.

HERE'S A PRECEDENT created by the Department of Marine and Fisheries that might well be followed by the Department of Agriculture. A booklet entitled "Fish, and how to Cook It," has just been published with the purpose of increasing the consumption of our native fish. "Apples and How to Use Them," with a description of the staple varieties, when they are at their best and to what use each may best be put, together with a number of recipes would, if generally distributed, at once increase the consumption of the king of fruits.

MORE new settlers arrived in Canada from Great Britain and fewer from the United States during the first four months of the Canadian fiscal year than during the same period last year. Slightly more than a quarter of a million has been added to Canada's population in that period by immigration. The figures for the four months-April first to July 31st-show an increase of twenty per cent, from all countries-250,906 as compared with 209,642 in the four months of 1912. Immigation from Great Britain totalled 99,101, from U.S.A. 30,040. For the four months last year these totals were 83,318, and 65,900 respectives was very favorably impressed with tively.

SOME ONE asked us the other day if Great Britain was not being outdistanced by some of the other nations. If trade statistics are any indication, she is not only not losing in the race, but continues to further outdistance her nearest competitor. A very healthy condition of trade, notwithstanding the "tightness" of money, is shown by a table just issued by the British Board of Trade covering the first four months of the curent year. Inceases in imports and exports in Great Britain, United States, France and Germany are shown as

|---|---------------|-----|--------------|--------------|
|   | Great Britain |     | $53,000,000 | $91,300,000 |
| , | United States | •   | 17,000,000   | 16,400,000   |
|   | France        | -   | 14,500,000   | 29,000,000   |
|   | Germany -     | _   | 17,900,000   | 26,800,000   |

Every part of the Empire has a growing trade, our own Dominion showing an increase of $26,900,000 in imports and of $21,800,000 in exports, a total greater than any of the others, with Great Britain the only exception.

A DOLLAR BILL that in 1900 was worth one hundred cents is now worth but sixty-six cents, according to a Commission appointed by the British Government. The finding of this Commission is that the cost of living of the working class has in Canada increased fifty-one per cent. since 1900, and who is there will dispute it? The figures given out by the commission do not compare living expenses in one country with those in another, but they do show that the increase for the period has been greater in Canada than elsewhere. It may be that it cost proportionately less here in 1900, and that the cost of living in Canada is only now getting up to the level of some of the other coun-

Unfortunately figures for the United States are not given for 1912, but in 1905, the only other year shown, Germany's increase was 14 per cent., United States, 13 per cent., and Canada's, 11 per cent. In 1912 Germany had reached 30 per cent, Canada, 51 per cent, with U.S.A. not given. In Great Britain and France the cost has increased 15 per cent. in the twelve years, and in Australia and New Zealand 16 per cent. The compilers admit great difficulty in getting the necessary data, so that there may be some slight discrepancy in the figures given.

The following interesting and significant paragraph appears in the Vancouver Daily Province of Sept. 10th. Such timely official hints carry good value to agriculturists throughout the province. 'Within the next few days every member of the Vancouver Board of Trade will receive a letter asking that each one do all in his power to help out the British Columbia fruit-growers by using, in so far as possible, only fruit grown in the province. The letter points out that any money sent down to the fruit growing districts in the United States does not help to develop this province, whereas money spent here helps British Columbia and British Columbians."

A table license is an entering wedge, with liquor in the house legally it would be hard to keep it from guests at all times, and from the public generally. Price of eggs, 42 cents per doz. Pen temperatures, highest 94 degrees; lowest 48 degrees; mean 65.4 degrees. Very fair weather has been experienced during the month; rain fell on two occasions only. For the first time during the contest Class II. have produced more eggs during the month than Class I. Considering the hot weather, and this being the natural moulting season, the month's yield must be considered good.

This month's record shows the leaders in Class I. to be so near to each other that the finish is still in doubt. Any pen in the first six may change places before October 2nd. The present competition has been remarkable for the way in which the leading pens have fought for the mastery all the time. In looking over reports of other contests it will be noticed that the leading pens have been always a long way in the lead, and a great difference shown in the totals. During this contest, pens have been able to pass each other frequently by producing a very small number of eggs in excess. In Class I., it may be noted that among the first six there are three different strains of Leghorns, all of which are excellent. Pen 17, at the eleventh hour, takes a rest (3 of the birds are practically bare of feathers), and allows Pen 4 to occupy second place. Pen 5 appears to be challenging Pen 15 for premier position. Pen 14 has to share sixth position with Pen 1 (Anconas). Pen 6 moves up two places.

In Class II, Pens 32 and 39 still remain in the lead, with Pen 31 lessening the distance almost daily between second and third, and incidentally increasing the lead over fourth. Their performance of 124 eggs during the month helped them considerably. Pens 22, 23, 30 and 40 also moved up. It is remarkable that the first four places in this class were up till last month held by four different breeds. Pen 26 laid 16 eggs during last three days of month, with only five birds, six eggs being laid on one day,

Total eggs to date: Class I.-17,082; Class II.-14.,503. Grand total: 32,485. Eggs for month-3,489; Class I.-1,674; Class II.-1,815. Average egg production per bird, 135.3; leading Pen per bird, 175,6; lowest, per bird, 71,

Equal Heat In Every Part of The Gurney-Oxford Oven

Every woman well knows the bad results from constantly opening the oven door to move a cake to another shelf or turn a pan of biscuits. Often the shifting or the cold air striking in proves utterly disastrous to her baking.

The Divided Flue on the Gurney-Oxford range equally distributes the heat to all parts of the oven which is regulated to the exact temperature required by means of the Economizer. This wonderful time-labor-and-money-saving device controls the heat of the whole range. It is worked by a small handle which moves around a series of six notches. The housewife soon learns that by moving the handle to No. 1 she has a very hot oven, to No. 3 a moderate oven, and that No. 6 checks the fire so as to burn scarcely any coal while she goes out shopping On her return she simply moves the handle to the number that gives the required heat and the result is prompt. Of inestimable value also is the Broiler Attachment and the Special Grate.

But a most delightful feature about the Gurney-Oxford is its constant bright and shining appear-

It has a smooth polished top that never requires black lead and is thoroughly sanitary. For years stove experts have been working out woman's problem in the kitchen and the Gurney-

The REVIEW Job Department From London to the Okanagan.

Impressions of a Fleet Street Journalist

III.—By L. V. MILLS.

I FIND further confirmation of my fears expressed last week with regard to the subtle fascination of the Happy Valley. By some unwritten by-law the dust of Summerland, Peachland or Naramata is never shaken from one's shoes! To me there is a deep significance in the simple fact that a newcomer to the Valley is recognized by the degree of anxiety shown for the immaculate shininess of one's footgear. A genuine resident ceases to trouble about such small details of life! "It is good Summerland dust" is one's perfunctory apology for appearing besprinkled as from a storm in a Sahara. The dust of Summerland is as properly characteristic of the fruit Valley as is the peat bog of Ireland, or the heather-scented turf of Scotland or Devonshire. 1 have reached that stage of experience in the Happy Valley where I no longer desire to shake its dust from off my feet!

I have just opened a great batch of English illustrated newspapers which were posted to me from London somewhere about a fortnight ago. Since their dispatch from that palace at St. Martin's le Grand which is London's New General Post Office, golden'August in the Valley has merged into silver September; the maple leaf has, under my eager eyes, begun to paint the hillsides with splashes of autumnal crimson; the luscious harvest of the peach has begun to wane; the first windstorm has whistled up the blue length of the Lake, and shaken the first rosy apples from the trees—and I—alas for the faithlessness of the London lover!—am more absorbed in these changes in the world of nature, than in the production of Bernard Shaw's new play, or the latest prank of the militant suffragists!

The cry of "Back to the Land" has been ringing in the ears of every Londoner for the last ten years, and while it is being partly answered by the establishment of Garden Cities and suburban growth, there is no complete satisfaction of the hunger and thirst for a wider, freer life, that is tormenting townsmen in the Old Country. The way of emancipation from the cramping conditions of city life from the shackles of conventionality lies over the trackless path across the Atlantic from England to Canada, and thousands are seeking and finding it yearly—some of us have found it "From London to the

A vivid realization of the complete uselessness of many details of everyday life has seized me since I arrived in the Happy Valley. Many things, which but a short month ago I considered sheer essentials to existence, I have already learned to regard as mere superfluities. This is the first lesson of the true colonist, and it is simply a delightfully exhilarating lesson in the learning. The most fantastic nonsense is written by the ream in London about "The Simple Life," and since I sailed down the still waters of the Okanagan on a quiet August day, I have felt quite a contempt for certain opinions thereon which I once valued. Those who know not the Happy Valley have not even begun to learn the real interpetation of that glib phrase, "The Simple Life." I do not think I am saying too much if I describe life as it is lived in the cosy bungalow and sometimes tent homes up and down the lake shore, as the ideal Simple Life. Without suffering a Spartan rigor, life is trimmed here of many superfluities, and it is certain that the gospel of the dignity of labor is not only preached but vigorously practised. After only a month's knowledge of social conditions existing; shall we say, in Summerland-I am prepared to throw down this challenge. Let the most discontented, specimen of the much-written-about suburban wife or daughter exchange her stucco villa home in Putney, Wimbledon or Clapham, for a snug little four-roomed bungalow of Douglas fir on the Okanagan—try one month of the new life, and she will be for ever cured of discontent. She will learn many useful lessons, and some of them will be, no doubt, hard—She may at first whimper for her upper circle seat on a first night—She may be appalled when confronted with a washing machine and a recipe for baking Canadian bread—but she will find an extraordinary tonic in it all at the end of every day. The pure breath of the pine-scented air will unfit her for again breathing the conventional winds of-even Clapham Common, and the "domestic problem" will be solved for her in the most complete,

I should be sorry to afflict the Happy Valley, or bring any disturbance into its lovely peace, but I am conscious of a great desire to set a round dozen of England's "superfluous daughters" (I mean those who hanker for emancipation) down in the Happy Valley, and let them slowly realize the old ideal of a woman's share in the building up of life, the old ideal re-modelled by Canada's happy and healthy womanlife, the old ideal re-modelled by Canada's happy and healthy womanhood. Miss Canada is as keen as mustard on having "a good time," and she gets it, though she bakes bread and bottles peaches and runs a carpet sweeper in the intervals Some of the disheartened and superfluous young city men whose lives are spent between apartments in Balham and an office stool in Broad Street, or a counter in Oxford Street, might likewise find some answer to the eternal problem "How to make the best of Life," if they tried the Okanagan recipe for "The Simple Life." If making roads and tilling the ground, even for many toil-Life." If making roads and tilling the ground, even for many toilsome hours, is not a more manly existence than measuring off silks for languid ladies in a London draper's shop—well it is at least the sim pler life!

Too much has been already said of the car of apricots and peaches which was condemned at Vancouver some weeks ago. The Herald revives the subject with the follow-ing statement: "As a matter of fact only a very few of the peaches in the car in question were from Penticton, a good many of them being from Summerland and other points." This mis-statement of facts has so angered a number of our citizens that the Board of Trade has been urged to take action against our contemporary for libel, and it is understood that a solicitor has been instructed to proceed forthwith. The Review has it from unquestionable authority that "the car that went to Vancouver and was condemned contained peaches from Penticton only."

Another story appearing in the same paper says that the Penticton Fruit Union now has the contract for supplying all the C. P. R. hotels from Victoria to Banff with peaches and other fruit, and that it also supplies all the C.P.R. dining cars west of Calgary, and further that these contracts were formerly held by growers in Summerland and Peachland and were transferred owing to the fact that a better quality of fruit could be secured at Penticton than at any other point in the lake country. This too has been equally authentically denied. Much fruit has been supplied the C.P.R. from Summerland for several years. The C.P.R. is now making these purchases through the United Growers. While it is not improbable that some of the fruit supplied may be obtained from Penticton it is never-the-less a fact that shipments are being made from here regularly by the Union for the C.P.R.

Mr. Frank Callender, of Vancouver, came in on Tuesday night last to enjoy the hunting season with old friends here. He retains a very soft spot in his heart for Peachland.

On Tuesday morning, while engaged in helping to make a road into the Piggeries, Harold Miller had the misfortune to cut his foot just below the instep, necessitating a trip to Peachland to the doctor, who put in several stitches. Harold is resting quietly now, but will have to take a holiday for a while.

A W.C.T.U. social was held at Mrs. Town's on Tuesday evening. The franchise question and answer, in which every lady took part occupied much of the evening. This was followed by a short program consisting of songs by Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. J. L. Elliott, and a recitation, "Kentucky Belle," by Irene Elliott. Mrs. Chilton presided at the piano. W. A. Lang gave an address on things in general, especially touching on the work the C.PR.. has done and is still going to do in town.

Notes on Fire Blight

(Bacillus amylovorus).

By J. SYDNEY DASH, B.S.A., Plant Pathologist.

IN THESE NOTES, the etiology and pathogenesis of the organism causing Fire Blight will not be dealt with, as these have had their share of attention at lectures and otherwise; growers, therefore, are very well acquainted with the nature of the disease. We wish rather to confine ourselves to a few gentle reminders in regard to methods of

CONDITIONS NOW.

At this time there is very little fresh twig infection taking place. A few diseased twigs are showing here and there because growers have neglected to remove them. Many cankers, however, continue to exude infectious material. Ants may carry this to wounds or bruised surfaces and fresh "holdovers" are produced. We have frequently noticed that wounds or bruised surfaces often result from pickers climbing the trees; this practice should always be avoided as much as possible. Any rains that come now will also wash the exudate to cracks, crotches and other suitable places where the organisms will form cankers and winter over. Bacteria are also settling back from blighted fruit into the spurs and wood. While aphids are not abundant, as in the earlier part of the season, yet some are still present in the orchard and may do some harm if they happen to get in touch with infectious matter of any kind. The foregoing, then, are, in the main, the conditions we have to consider at the present

CONTROL MEASURES.

The importance of summer cutting has been clearly demonstrated during the past season. There is absolutely no doubt about it, that properly conducted summer cutting results in the saving of many large limbs which might become diseased by the spread of the germs downwards in the bark. By properly conducted summer cutting we mean the removal of infected twigs and limbs at a point about twelve inches below any visible signs of infection. We say twelve inches below because this, as a general rule, is a safe distance; but it must be remembered that the germs are sometimes found beyond that. Scalping is permitted on limbs of fair size and on trunks of trees only, if the cankers are not too extensive. The scalping of small branches, ringing, or any other fancy devices must be considered as a loss of time and

In the fall, every individual grower should start a campaign of his own. Every tree must be carefully examined and all cankers removed before next spring. Small branch cankers often escape notice. Where cankers on the trunks are very extensive the tree should be taken out, especially where the roots are likely to be infected, as is frequently the case. We must not forget to mention the absolute necessity of disinfecting all tools used with Corrosive Sublimate, one part to one thousand of water. Cuts and wounds should also be disinfected, and when dry, covered with white paint. Growers are sometimes neglectful in taking these precautions. Another point to be remembered is that the Corrosive Sublimate must be kept in glass jars, as if kept in tin receptacles there is a chemical reaction and the mixture loses its disinfecting properties. We have found many growers erring in this regard. A jam jar is found very convenient for the purpose, as a piece of wire can be attached for fastening to the belt when going through the orchard. The removal of cankers must be followed up by proper orchard sanitation. All fallen fruit should be taken away, buried or destroyed. as a large number will contain the germs of the disease. Apples contain a large percentage of water, consequently will take some time to completely dry out; the organisms remain vigorous therefore under such conditions, and the apples are a source of infection. They may become covered by the snow in the winter, and it would seem highly probable that if there is sufficient food material and moisture left in nem the organisms may again become active in the spring, producing infectious material for visiting insects to take away with them. If we are to fight blight successfully, we must grasp at every apparition of a preventive measure and take no chances. Also, let us see to it that all suckers remaining at the roots, and which should have been taken out during midsummer be removed as soon as possible. Burn up any prunings that may have have been previously overlooked, and see to it that the whole orchard presents a sanitary appearance, free from brush and rubbish of all sorts. A good spraying with lime sulphur, winter strength, is of great benefit, and be prepared to follow this up in early spring with such sprays or combination of sprays as will, among other things, keep the aphids in check. Remember that sprays have no effect directly on blight, but they act indirectly by the suppression of insects which are instrumental in the spreading of blight. Such precautions as have been mentioned are the only means of effectively controlling this disease.

GENERAL REMARKS.

In attempting to keep in check any outbreak of blight, it must be borne in mind that it is far better to leave the blighted parts untouched than to have them carelessly or unintelligently cut, for such conditions only help the spread of the disease. The growers of Summerland have suffered a geat deal in this regard, and were it not for the assistance given by the Government gangs, the situation would have been a grave

PEACHES BY EXPRESS.

THE LETTERS from our Calgary correspondents, Mr. S. J. Fee, and Messrs. W. T. Broad, J. A. Nolan and George W. Morfitt will be read with great interest by all concerned in the peach industry. None of these gentlemen, with the possible exception of Mr. Nolan, who is a wholesale fruit dealer of Calgary, need any introduction to our readers.

That a rapid means of transportation at a moderate rate is one of the chief needs of the peach grower has always been the opinion of the Review. The proposition, however, that the growers should be the ones to make the first move, particularly at this period in the history of fruit transportation, does not seem necessary. The C.P.R., of which the Dominion' Express Co. is in reality a part, must be thoroughly conversant with conditions and the advantages that would accrue to the soft fruit business if such a plan as that proposed by our correspondents were adopted, and we believe that the Dominion Express might very well make an experiment along these lines, if experiment it might be termed. However, if the first move must come from the grower, steps in that direction should be made at once. We see no reason why negotiations to this end could not be carried on by the manager of the growers' organization, the Okanagan United Growers, Ltd., with the proper officials of the Dominion Express Company. There is no doubt that this organization would welcome any such co-operation from the transportation company.

To read the joint letter, particularly the latter part of it, one would conclude that it would be only a fool capitalist who would continue in the growing of peaches. While the basis on which the arguments are placed are correct, some of the figures used are greatly misleading. When selling peaches through the Union the local union retains (not charges) 10 per cent., and the selling agency retains 5 per cent. per package. In addition, the Central Agency retains 3 per cent. as working capital, which is really only borrowed, and is returnable with interest. It is also expected that when the season's business is wound up a good portion, probably more than one-half, of the 10 per cent. retained by the local Union for operating, will be returned to the grower, as will also a good portion of the 5 cents per package held by the Selling Agency. This would mean that when peaches are sold for $1 f.o.b. shipping point, that 18 cents in all would be retained, not including cost of packing. Of this 18 cents, 3 cents is returnable to the grower with interest, and is secured by a note, while of the remaining 15 cents the balance over and above actual expenses will later be returned to the grower. The matter of brokerage does not enter into the case as the goods are sold at a price f.o.b. shipping point.

, Notwithstanding the incorrectness of the figures used there is every reason why co-operation from the Express Company, as suggested, would result in better prices for the grower and larger volume and equally profitable business to the transportation company and greatly reduced prices for the consumer, resulting in much greater consumption.

STOP THE LEAKS.

IN THE successful managing of any business and particularly in the manufacturing line, it is essential that a careful watch be kept on the more obscure and seemingly little things in order that here and English novelist is concluding his been a very serious accident. #### . . . . . DISHONEST PACKING.

THERE ARE STILL some people in Canada who need to learn with the best look-out point in the lesson that honesty is the best policy, and that any departure from it will react both on the individual and on the nation. One of the most unpatriotic crimes a man can commit is that of bringing his own country into disrepute through cheating. Canadian apples were not arriving in good condition. The color of the fruit was unsatisfactory, with an excess of moisture in the fruit. Other dealers in British and foreign markets are compelled at times to make more serious complaints of deliberate misrepresentation in the packing by placing the good fruit on the top. Sure it is an old trick of the trade, not necessarily confined to Canada, but every time it is played Canada suffers in prestige and character.

BE CHEERFUL.

THE HEALTH is affected strongly by the quality of one's thoughts. This is coming more and more to be recognized by our best physicians. We cannot live by bread alone and life in all its departments is largely ruled by spirit. Of this, spirit is the very life principle which helps us to conquer disease and then keeps us well. All the most skilful doctor can do is to help this life principle. So we must avoid fear and worry and think kindly of our fellow-men. A fretting over life's little things will effectually blot out all the pleasures of existence, while gratitude for our blessings and a bright faith in the future will keep us not only well but happy. In this are the true riches of life, not the wealth which may be gathered into banks.

And so life's greatest blessings are the simple things which may be cherished in the plainest homes by the most unassming people.—Ex.

Indian Princess Married In London.

HAD FIRST TO BE ADMITTED INTO THE BRAHMA RELIGION-THE FAITH OF HER HUSBAND.

Princess Indira, the beautiful daughter of the Gaekwar of Baroda, was married in London recently to Maharajah Kumar Jitrendra Narayan, of Cooch Behar. The bride, who is twenty years of age, had to take part in three ceremonies. After she had been admitted into the Brahma religion—the faith of her husband—at her hotel, a move was made to the Paddington registry office, where the civil ceremony was performed. This over, the wedding party returned to the hotel where the third ceremony took place. No photographs were allowed to be taken while this, the Indian rite—was in progress, but the couple courteously re-enacted it.

This photograph shows them re-enacting the Indian rite of sitting with their hands entwined beneath a chain of everlasting flowers.

BRITISH COLUMBIA PEACH GROWING.

The Editor, Summerland Review. Dear Sir:

The Dominion Express Company can save the peach industry of

It must be admitted that the pre-Why? First, it takes several days trial proves satisfactory. to pick, pack and assemble a carin order to make what is called "a mixed car." Third, when loaded it must pass through a broker, then through a wholesaler, and lastly through the retailer's hands. Each of these middlemen must have his profit. Then if there is anything left it goes to the producer. When all these charges and expenses are paid there is very little left for the grower, in fact so little that it is not worth while growing peaches at present from the growers' point of view, and unless conditions of marketing are changed growers will in most cases cut their peach trees down. Marketing peaches does not pay now.

To handle through the present system the peaches must be picked green in order to stand the delay in reaching the consumer by freight. They do not reach the consumer in that fine-flavoured, juicy condition that they should, a condition that, if met, would greatly increase the demand for such fruit. Although we are without an inexpensive marketing system, the demand is still greater than the supply, and here is just where the Dominion Express Company can get in their good work and benefit themselves and growers and cousumers at the same time. The present freight rate on car loads is practically twenty cents a crate, and then an additional ten cents local freight from distribution points to smaller towns. It is these smaller towns that in the aggregate make so great a business. If the Dominion Express Company would make a flat rate on peaches of thirty cents per crate to all points in Alberta, that would equal the present freight rate, and save the handling by the different middlemen. The grower could then himself or by his association express his peaches direct to the retailer or consumer as soon as he had a few cases ready. The Dominion Express Company would find their business increased on those lines by from five hundred to a thousand per cent. The growers, shipping by express direct to retailer or consumer, would be able to ship his peaches in their best condition, and to build up a profitable demand. Every peach now left to rot on the trees or on the ground would find a ready and profitable market. The reduction need not be made on any other fruits than berries, cherries, peaches, apricots and plums, and perhaps some perishable vegetables.

S. J. FEE, Manager Vernon Fruit Co., Calgary.

Why it is the Best Range Procurable

It stands to reason that the Perfect Control foundry of national reputation for its equipment of the most notable hotel, restaurant, and institutional kitchens throughout the Dominion, also makes the best range on the market for the home kitchen.

This Gurney-Oxford range is the result of over seventy years' experience and experimental study of improvements to benefit the woman who toils in the kitchen.

Even Bakings

By means of a Divided Flue Strip, the heat is divided evenly over the top and down the back and sides of the oven. A pan of biscuits in the front and back of the oven will brown with perfect evenness without having to change their places many times during the baking. The two back lids of the range also receive an equal cooking heat that will boil two kettles at the same time.

The entire range is controlled practically by one handle, called the Economizer. It turns around a series of six notches to determine the exact degree of heat required. Such control saves time, fuel and labor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE HOTEL WILL CLOSE.

To the Editor, Summerland Review.

I have decided to close Summerand Hotel October 1st. Before making this definite announcement had an interview with representatives of the anti-license party to whom I gave the facts of the case. Two years ago I purchased Summerland Hotel to keep it open, and to keep liquor out. I have spent four or five thousand dollars in order to keep Summerland a temperance community. I alone have borne the expense of keeping it thus and I feel that I am not called upon to do it any longer. I told them that I was willing to take my share of the cost of running a temperance house if the temperance people would bear their share and pay for their principles.

The representatives said they would call their committee together and meet me the following day at my home at three o'clock. I was at home at the hour appointed and when none of them came at a quarter to four I called up one of them and asked if they were coming. He replied, "No, as the committee representing the temperance people of the community had decided that they would do nothing in regard to the hotel—that is, financially." So I feel that both sides have their rights, the canvass will go on and the people will have a chance to say whether Summerland will go forward or back. As for me I will no longer pay for the temperance sentiment of the whole community.

We find the Dominion Express Company is sympathetic, and we are assured they will reduce the express rate if they can be given an adequate increase in the volume of peaches expressed. At present freight charges to towns in Alberta average some thirty cents in all for boxes of peaches sent in car lots, reckoning freight charges, icing and transhipment from the point of distribution. The present express rate is forty cents and upwards to points in this province. If the express company could be assured of a certain increase in the volume of express it would decrease this charge voluntarily. We suggest, therefore, that growers go to work to ask for a flat rate for peaches of thirty cents to points in Alberta.

The middleman is not necessary to this trade. He has his proper place and function, but here, under present conditions, he is a hindrance, and is killing the peach industry. One of the leading middlemen of Calgary assures us it scarcely pays him at present to handle such perishable fruit as peaches, berries, cherries, apricots and plums, and he advises direct dealing with retailers and consumers. Let us all get to work to do this at once.

Yours truly,

GEO. W. MORFITT.

Calgary, Sept. 16, 1918.

(See editorial comment.) thirty cents to points in Alberta. The grower could then trade direct with retailers and consumers, and cut out the charges of the middlemen. He could send direct middlemen. He could send direct and speedily, the best flavored and suitably ripe fruit. His trade would increase tenfold, for the demand for such fruit is not one-tenth supplied at present, His profits would be enhanced by the reduction of the middlemen. His freight charges would be about freight charges would be about or what they are now, while equal to what they are now, while quarter of a million dollars was he would benefit by greater demand paid in fares.

and quicker service than by freight cars. We must press for a flat rate of thirty cents to all Albertan points and a corresponding rate in proportion to points in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Take for instance one town in Alberta, and see how this works out. The demand for peaches by express is about one hundred and fifty boxes a season, while the town demands at least two thousand. But this supply is hard to obtain and only at intervals can it be had. and then by cars and slow freight. Make the express charges equal to the present freight of about thirty cents per box, and without a doubt retailer and consumer would prefer a larger supply and better fruit than can be had now. The country trade of Alberta is far greater proportionally per head, and far more profitable to the grower than Calgary or the city trade. Then let growers intelligently and energetically cater for it, and all will be benefitted, and the peach industry of B.C., now in a critical state, be saved. It is up to the growers to combine and to act at once. Petition the Dominion Express Company for this reduction and for a dat rate. Work up a trade individually and by associations to meet the great demand. Help yourselves if you want Heaven to nelp you.

At present with charges of ten per cent. to the local union, ten per cent. to the selling agency, five per cent. to the sinking fund, and five to ten per cent. to a brokerage for handling stuff from the Okanagan in Alberta, it is ruinous to continue peach growing. Here are charges of some 35 per cent. for nandling fruit and truck, and there are still left freight and icing charges and retailers' profits before the grower can get a cent. With peaches selling at a dollar, the brokerage charges to members of the associations are some 35 cents, railway charges and transhipment about 30 cents, and retailers' profits about 20 to 25 cents more. ### Should Be Disciplined

The interest—almost paternalwhich the C.P.R. is taking in the Okanagan was again shown by the the grossly misleading story which prompt action of Mr. W. B. Laniappeared in its columns a few days gan, General Freight Agent, in earlier and which received wide response to the false report emanatpublicity, telling of tons of fruit ing from Penticton to the effect going to waste-in Okanagan or- that an immense quantity of fruit was rotting in our orchards. Mr. Lanigan immediately got in touch with Winnipeg's biggest retail store and arranged with them to handle peaches by the carload, and telegraphed the Okanagan United Growers and the various local unions tendering assistance. There being no truth in the report, except that there were some unsaleable varieties of peaches, and some peaches of the saleable varieties too small to market, due to lack of attention, neglect in thinning, and otherwise, the Growers were in the happy position to report that they had more orders for peaches than they could fill. The following message was dispatched to Mr. Lanigan from the Okanagan United Growers: "Thanks for kindly interest. Peaches running very light this week. Unable to fill present orders. May advise you later."

In confirming his telegram and acknowledging the reply Mr. Lanigan said, "Some person ought to be disciplined for sending out reports of this character from the Valley. It will certainly have the effect of deterring people who might have the intention of going to the Valley and making a home and a living by growing fruit."

The subject chosen was his own safety, for his bemused mind was full of a recent accident, and he was anxious to assure those interested that his life was secure. It was, however, found impossible to get a connection with Summerland quickly enough to satisfy the impatient talker. Further, a respected townsman, who is not altogether averse to a joke, so encouraged and sympathized with the would-be "Talker on the Tele-phone," that it was not long before he became overcome with the urgency of his case, and nothing would do but he must get across the lake with his story in person. The distressed Swede was accordingly helped aboard the "Maud Moore," and in transit across the quiet waters of the lake, fell into a profound sleep, and dreamed of, a great disaster, of which he was the sole survivor! Awakened at Summerland he scrambled ashore and before nightfall had told his harrowing story to many keenly interested hearers. And the tale was believed by many. The conclusion of the Great Accident Hoax has been already related!

They received immense applause from the thousands of spectators assembled to greet them. As they passed along the line of march it was generally remarked that the law-abding manner in which this demonstration was conducted was far more pleasing and satisfactory than the riotous manner of conducting such celebrations or outpourings by the militants in England, and consequently, instead of antagonizing the public by such display of organization these three thousand suffragettes won many converts to their cause.

Proposed Big Union Growers Hope For Of Apple Shippers.

Growers Of Four North-Western States Would Organize Big Protective Association.

With a view to organizing all apple shipping associations, independent shippers and growers of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana into a big protective organization similar to the Citrus Protective League of California, a meeting of several hundred of those concerned will be held in Spokane on Thursday, November 20, in connection with the sixth National Apple Show and Fruit Products conference.

So-called fruit politics and all matters affecting marketing methods will be eliminated at this conference, which will deal with matters in which all north-western fruit growers and shippers have a common interest, such as transportation, legislation, standardization of grading, packing and packages and questions of control and elimination of fruit pests and diseases

An investigation has been carried on by the laboratory of the London Lancet into the extent and way in which various aluminium cooking vessels were affected by the usual articles of food and flavoring materials used in cooking. The only case in which a derogatory result worthy of consideration was obtained was in the use of Aggregatebaking soda, and this should therefore be avoided. Impressions of a Fleet Street Journalist

IV.—By L. V. MILLS.

Comparisons are always rather dangerous things to deal with, though indeed our lives are ruled by them. I have been living in a world of comparisons ever since my arrival in the Happy Valley, some of them so strong and forceful that they have upset many of my most favored theories! I have already talked of the vivid comparisons in the climate and the world of nature that have been delighting me for the last few sunny weeks, and while the sun shines so goldenly from the sapphire September sky, and the ripe fullness of harvest seems to mellow the air, I would dare venture to mention other mere material comparisons. It is a happy moment to do it. I should like also to say here, before I proceed further, that any enthusiasm I betray as to nature's lavish gifts bestowed on the Happy Valley, any admiration for the glory of "God's own Country," as I heard fair British Columbia called before ever I saw her, are sincere. Those whom long residence has made blind to the beauties of the place they live, in cannot justly estimated mate the effect produced by the Happy Valley on a newcomer, and that newcomer a lover and worshipper of nature in all her aspects, and it really is not just to term a lover's enthusiasm insincerity!

While I was still busy packing trunks and saying farewells in the "Old Country," I was favored with a great deal of advice from a great many friends. "Giving advice" is one of the favorite recreations of one's friends: Mark Twain found that out long ago. All those who had been in Canada—and a good many who had not—felt it their duty to instruct me as to the condition of things in this vast and impressive continent. "You see, you'll find everything so very different" said some. "You will find it not very easy to adapt yourself to a new life,"said several others. "It's such an uncomfortable thing to uproot all your own particular ideas and re-adjust them in a new country," said one particularly anxious adviser. Then there was a kindly person who had been out in the Happy Valley before, and he felt himself indeed qualified to speak as guide, philosopher and friend, so he warned me, "You must not be too English, you know! I was English when I sailed and I became a Canadian within twenty-four hours." (A remarkably quick transformation that even my adventurous spirit dare not com-

Now, I listened politely and attentively to all my advisers and I remembered, deep in my heart all the time the old saw, "Those whose empire is an island are always insular in mind." I determined that never would it be through me that anyone should cast the slur on that beautiful little green island by thinking of the word "insular" while a traveller from it "was around!" I have been in a perpetual state of astonishment—delighted astonishment for the most part—ever since that moonlit August evening when I looked up at the shadowed heights of Quebec from the deck of an ocean liner. (Astonishment is a splendid tonic, mental and physical!) I believe I shall continue to be astonished as long as I live in this astonishing country. The vast areas, the fragrant airs, the feeling of "newness," the profound realization of human insignificance when compared to nature's own amplitude—the pioneer pluck of the people, the passion for labor, the happy recklessness of the Canadian disposition— (yes, even the Summerland dust) —have all astonished me. But what has astonished me most—and here I get back at last to my "comparisons"—is a sentence I heard during my first week in the Happy Valley. "Well, you see, she can hardly understand, though she is quite a sensible Englishwoman."

"English-Canadian-Canadian-English," I murmured over and over to myself in mute astonishment," "What on earth does that mean aren't we all English—or well, am I a Canadian at heart—or not sufficiently English that this thing should be." I thought about this for some hours, and then as became a sojourner in the Happy Valley, began to ask questions. "Why?" I asked of a kindly Canadian woman who looked as if she might answer my question mercifully, "Is there really any line drawn here between people of one nation, and if so-

She looked at me wonderingly and she said in a voice as bewildered as mine, "Why do you, an Englishwoman, stand there and ask a Canadian that question?" Now that has made me feel as if I want to get up a good big tourist party, consisting of all the folk in the Happy Valley, Canadian and English (if so it must be) and let us all take a trip together over and around that dear little shining beautiful "piece of turf whose bosom peeps above the sea," as someone has put it—for six months and then ask them again the question, "Why?"

The Happy Valley is set in a fruitful corner of beautiful Columbia, with a great desolation not many miles from it, the vast winds that sweep over the Rockies descend on it, its social life is or should be, governed greatly by the climatic conditions—which are so wonderful—so those who live in it must perforce be thinkers as well as toilers. There is but one great principle that will most happily govern our life while we dwell in it—unity of thought and action,

The English maple is shedding its yellowing leaves at this very moment on the green turf of a dear little spot I know in the "Old Country," while the same queen of the forest is burning in autumnal splendour all over British Columbia. The English rose that dies in June, is blossoming more beautifully than I have ever yet seen it, in some gardens of Summerland. There is really no standard by which we can compare them—they are the same—yet different. I look at a Happy Valley girl as she passes me on the shores of this blue lake that I love already with a deep—or perhaps I should say sincere—affection. Her cheeks rival in bloom the peaches in the Valley orchards, for there is a stalwart young man not long from "the little green island" beside her, and the Empire of Home is surely somewhere in their future. Are there any distinctions where a greater Empire is concerned?

The first emigrants from the heart of the Greatest Empire, to this Empire Overseas were the grandfathers—and in many, many cases the fathers of young Canadians. If it is that the great winds that blow over the new land annihilate projudice—it should also be that they annihilate all comparisons.

BIGGEST MEAT EATERS ARE AMERICANS—NOT BRITISH.

Americans are the biggest meat eaters in the world. They eat more beef per capita than the British do. Figures for meat-eating in 1909, just made public by the buréau of animal industry of the Department of Agriculture, show that the per capita consumption of meat for that year in the United States was 162.20 lbs., divided as follwos (fractions omitted): beef, 80 lbs.; veal, 7 lbs.; pork, 67 lbs.; mutton and lamb, 6 lbs.; goat meat, .13.

Over in England, where they boast about "good old roast beef," the per capita for that product is only 56 lbs. Moreover, the total eaten by the American is exactly the same as for the Briton-47 per cent. Inhabitants of the "tight little isle" make up their total by eating 26 lbs. of mutton a year, as against the Americans' 6 lbs.

The Hand That Moves The Lever Saves 162-3 Per Cent. of Your Coal Bill

Here is the opportunity for the housewife to deal the high cost of living question a hard jolt without any effort on her part.

The way is to make sure that her new range is controlled by a Gurney Economizer, which will save 1 ton of coal in every 6 burned in an ordinary range.

The Economizer is to the stove what the control lever is to the engine or automobile. Without control neither is efficient.

With the Gurney Economizer it is possible to quickly vary the heat of the oven. Various foods require different temperatures. The Economizer keeps this desired temperature absolutely uniform.

It also means that when cooking is over, you may have a cool kitchen and still have your fire going — while you can have the fiercest heat in a few minutes by a slight pressure on the lever.

If you possess a Gurney-Oxford your advantages are innumerable. The Divided Flue means heat for every hole on the stove. The New Special Grate guards the lowest fire. The Broiler exposes every inch of the coals.

These features are exclusively "Gurney-Oxford."

It will furnish your kitchen handsomely—it will do your work adequately.

Growers of "Spuds" Fight For Market.

Ashcroft Farmers Attempt To Oust American Potatoes Here.
