Summerland Weather Report

The snowfall totaling seven inches spread over the three days, February 26th and March 1st and 2nd, was a very unique experience for this district. A fall of not less than five inches of snow was recorded at the Dominion Experimental Farm here on Saturday, March 1st. A fall of 2.4 inches had occurred on Thursday, February 26th, so that there was a total fall of practically seven and a half inches lying on the ground at one time. The cold spell of Saturday and Sunday when the thermometers went down to eight and nine above zero quickly moderated, and the snow is now fast disappearing under bright warm sunshine. This heavy fall of snow is generally welcome, except for the inconvenience it causes to wheeled traffic. Its melting will add considerable moisture to the soil and the seven inches fall here has meant a much greater fall in the mountains, and will be that much additional assurance of a water supply for the irrigation season.

The weather report from the Experimental Station for the week ending March 4th is given below:

Feb.	Max.	Min.	Rain	Snow	Sunshine
26	29	19	.00	2.4	0.0
27	30	16	.00	0.0	0.5
28	16	15	.00	0.5	1.8

RECEPTION TO RETURNED MEN GREAT SUCCESS.

Following the repast of good things a number of toasts were proposed and responded to. Those who remained to enjoy the dance afterwards were so numerous as to almost overcrowd the spacious floor.

Mr. G. Thornber, the subject of whose address was "King and Country," took the occasion to compliment Mrs. Hogg, secretary of the club, who, he said, had done so much for the boys overseas. Mr. Thornber would have us drop the terms English, Canadian, etc., and think of ourselves as Britishers. As Britishers we were proud of our boys. He suggested a "heroes' day" to be observed throughout the Empire.

"Our Guests," was the subject of a brief address by Mr. R. H. Helmer, who said that while they were our guests to-day, to-morrow they will be our neighbors. We must remember how to treat them as neighbors, and to help and encourage. Our welcome must not be exhausted until all are down to the routine of civil life again.

Dr. Andrew, in his address on the subject "Our Guests and Nursing Sisters," expressed the gratitude of all those who have served in any capacity including the sisters. They went away as independent men and women not as professional soldiers. We must try to assimilate them into private life. Many had undergone hardships, and we must exercise patience. Some of them may expect too much, and they too must exercise patience. Our government is doing better for the returned men than any other country. It was easy here to assimilate our men. We knew them all, and they had left places in our community life to which they could return. We must remember what they did and what they suffered. The same spirit remains with them, and with that spirit we need have no fear of such upheavals as are occurring now in Europe.

The vocal solos rendered by Miss Brown, Mr. Fred Graham, and Mr. T. G. Beavis were greatly enjoyed, each being encored. A splendid reading, appropriate to the occasion, was given by Mrs. C. J. Duncan, and as an encore she gave a witty alphabetical reading working in the names of many local citizens much to the amusement of her audience. Not the least enjoyable feature of the program was an excellent tableau of the allied nations, participated in by Misses Ruth Graham as Britannia; Thelma Hobbs, Canada; Carol Graham, Columbia; Gertrude Elsey, France; Miss Braun, Italy; Miss Wallock, Russia; Miss Gertrude Angwin, Japan, the national anthem of each country being sung and, as a final scene, all were assembled in a pleasing group. The beauty of the effect was considerably marred because of the imperfection of lighting arrangements, the spot light which was used at a previous occasion having added much to the effectiveness of the scene.

CLASSIFICATION OF SOIL AND DUTY OF WATER.

asked that a waste flume be put in at the penstock, where the water is diverted to the Farm in order to take care of possible overflow.

The Bank of Montreal asked that arrangements be made for the acceptance of drafts made on the municipality, but the corporation has no power to accept drafts or make similar obligations.

Coun. Kirk reported that the irrigation flume east of Giant's Head had been broken in several places by loggers. This matter was referred to the constable.

Coun. White brought up the question of irrigation rates for the coming year. It would soon be time to issue the usual notices. With the possibility of increased maintenance cost it will also be necessary to raise an additional $3,300 to cover sinking fund and interest on the recent issue of irrigation debentures. After some discussion as to whether the irrigation rates should be raised or the additional charges provided for by general taxation the matter was left over until next Monday's meeting.

WEDDING

Ferguson-McLaughlin.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Methodist Church, Peachland, on Friday, February 28th, at eleven o'clock, by Rev. J. A. Rowland, when Miss Olive J., only daughter of Mr and Mrs A. D. Ferguson was united in marriage to Mr John McLaughlin, youngest son of Mr and Mrs J. McLaughlin, both of Peachland.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, rendered by Mrs J. Hyde.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of ivory satin draped with georgette crepe, with the usual veil and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of pale blush roses and white carnations, and wore the groom's gift, a pearl and diamond pendant.

Her cousin, Miss Verna Town, attended as bridesmaid, looking sweet in a gown of old rose crepe-de-chene, black velvet picture hat with rose tulle crown and streamers of black velvet ribbon. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Sgt. T. McLaughlin, brother of the groom, acted as best man, while Sgt. G. McDougald and A. Ferguson were ushers.

The church was tastefully decorated for the occasion with lilies and ferns. Being the first bride in the Peachland Methodist Church, Mrs McLaughlin was presented with a Bible from the officials of the church.

After the ceremony about forty guests were entertained at the home of the bride's parents, where a dainty buffet luncheon was served. The bride's travelling suit was a taupe silver tone with which she wore a pink chiffon waist, white velour hat and white boa. Amid showers of confetti the happy couple left on the boat for a short honeymoon trip. They will later reside in Peachland.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a pink cameo ring, and to the best man a set of pearl cuff links.

Mrs Jas. Hay and her son Austin left last Saturday night en route for Vancouver, where they go to join Mr Hay, who has a home located for them in South Vancouver. The family made many friends during their stay among us, and all regret very much to see them leave.

Rev. H. D. Riggs of Kelowna spent the week-end in town again to supply in the Baptist Church.

Mr John Robinson recently disposed of his fruit lot here to his brother George and the latter has moved on the place expecting to live on and work the lot.

Mr H. Hardy left on Monday morning last for a vacation trip of a couple of weeks. While away he expects to visit Halcyon Hot Springs and Banff.

Mr Martin, of Crehan, Mount & Co., spent a day or two in town this week in an official capacity as auditor.

Miss Hand, the Principal of the Public School, got quite a pleasant surprise on Monday morning last when her mother, quite unexpectedly, arrived to pay her a visit for a week or so.

After spending a few days with his sister here, and renewing old acquaintances in Peachland, Johnnie Seaton went south on the Monday afternoon boat. John expects not to have to go away for his discharge now, having been informed that they would send it on to him.

AN EVEN CLOSER BUSINESS and social relationship between Naramata and Summerland will result from the change of policy of the Department of Works in the method of subsidizing the ferry. In the past the government has offered a subsidy of $1,000, specifying the service required, and has asked for tenders, asking the applicants to state the price they would charge the public under the specified conditions. This year, as will be noted by an advertisement elsewhere in this issue, the Department is fixing the schedule of rates and is asking each applicant to state the amount of grant he will require to give the specified service. With a passenger rate of 10 cents, 5 cents for children, and a settler's rate of less than 7 cents, travel back and forth across the lake should be greatly stimulated. The rate on freight has also been fixed. Parcels under 25 pounds will be carried free.

THE NEED OF A COVERED RINK for skating and for curling has long been felt in Summerland. The Agricultural Society are sorely in need of a large building close to the agricultural hall for the purpose of providing for live stock during exhibition days. A recent suggestion that a building be put up to meet both these needs has much to commend it. Built close to the south edge of the park such a building would get very little sunshine during winter, and would well preserve the ice for skating and curling. The Agricultural Society has had the erection of stock sheds under contemplation. Through the co-operation of the society with curling enthusiasts and skaters, with perhaps some assistance from the municipality, say in the way of preparing the ground, the providing of such a building may be accomplished without great difficulty.

"TURN TO THE RIGHT" will some day be the rule of the road in this province. To a very large proportion of the citizens the fact that the House at Victoria a few days ago unanimously declared itself as in favor of changing the rule of the road from the left to the right will be received with satisfaction. An expression of opinion is all right so far as it goes. Action is now required. Probably never again in the history of this province can the change be made with as little inconvenience and at as low cost as now.

THE GOVERNMENT is to be congratulated on its wisdom in appointing Mr R. G. L. Clarke as a member of the Soldier Settlement Board. There is no man in the province better qualified to fill such a responsible position than is Mr Clarke, who in all his business affairs is most efficient and conscientious, and who has a thorough grasp of the fruit industry of this province.

BECAUSE OF THE CLOSE business relationship between Canada and the United States, Canada must of necessity fall in-line with many practices adopted by the country with the larger population or suffer inconvenience. The fact that the United States congress did not repeal its daylight saving legislation which means that "Daylight Saving" will again be practiced in the United States makes it almost imperative that Canada continue the daylight saving plan of last year.

Labor Government Really Does Things

In Queensland it has Reduced Prices and Improved Conditions All Round.

Do you know that in one of the countries of the British Empire a real Labor Government has been in office since 1915?

Do you know what that government has done? It has:

1. Reduced prices, which rose 100 per cent. under Liberal Government in 1914-1915, almost to the pre-war level.
2. Nationalized the sugar industry and reduced sugar prices by 50 per cent. Set up State butchers' shops and reduced meat prices by over 50 per cent.
3. Started State Fisheries, broken the ring of fish dealers, and reduced fish prices by 66 per cent.
4. Nationalized the timber industry, reduced prices, and worked the industry at a profit to the people.
5. Set up a State Legal Department, affording legal advice to the workers at nominal fees.
6. Developed State Banking, and thus provided cheap credit and enabled houses to be built and lot at low rents.
7. Opened up State coal mines, iron mines, iron and steel works, oil wells, etc., reduced prices, and made a profit for the people.
8. Socialized the hospitals, and driven out the curse of charity and pauperism.
9. Established widows' pensions for all widows and orphans, and carried out the endowment of mothers.

10. Executed public works by direct labor, thus eliminating the contractor and greatly reducing the cost.

11. Set aside land for returning soldiers, and given them training on State farms at good rates of pay.

12. Made generous provision for disabled soldiers.

13. Resumed the ownership and use of much land which had been allowed to pass into the hands of profiteering combinos, and worked the land for the benefit of the people.

14. Greatly increased the pay of all State employees, thereby causing a general rise in wages.

15. Been abused and reviled by all the capitalist parties and interests.

16. Been triumphantly returned to power at a second general election by a more than two-to-one majority.

The Canadian Department of Fisheries and the United States Bureau of Fisheries are planting chinook salmon eggs from the Pacific coast in the St Lawrence river system.

A fruit rancher near Yakima refused $3.80 per box a few days ago for 3,400 boxes of extra fancy Winesaps which he still holds, the price he asked being $3.90.

$15 per ton is the price which the canneries at Kelowna are said to be offering for tomatoes this year, as compared with $20 last year, and $16 the year before.

Plans are in preparation for the erection of a new and high-class opera and moving picture house in Kelowna to replace the old house which was burned about a year ago.

COURT OF REVISION HEARS APPEALS.

that unearned increment should be taxed as is now being done in Alberta, and is being proposed for Manitoba. If this tax had been imposed in the past Summerland would have had more money than it would know what to do with. He also said that there are men in the community who are earning good salaries who are not paying one cent towards the municipality. Coun. Campbell asked if Mr Kelley would not be willing to drop his appeal in view of a complete new assessment having been proposed.

The court sat until after two o'clock, adjourning an hour for lunch. Mr Kelley's appeals were all given careful consideration, and after much discussion it was unanimously agreed that the properties he had appealed on were not unfairly assessed with respect to nearby properties. This disposed of all the appeals.

Working And Saving.

"Every workingman a capitalist and every capitalist a workingman," as Sir Herbert Ames recently said, is one of the results hoped for from the War Savings Plan. The workingman who saves thereby becomes a capitalist, so it is quite within the reach of all workingmen to become capitalists. In doing so they become better off and better able to face the future.

Every capitalist should also be a workingman. Canada has no place for idlers. No matter how well off he may be, the man who will not work is a detriment to the community. The more a person becomes an investor the more likely is he to work.

Through buying War Savings Stamps the workingman may easily become a capitalist, for he thereby becomes an investor. He buys something that pays well—4 1/2 per cent. compounded half-yearly—and backed by the best security in the world, for there is nothing better than Canada.

SCHOOL BOARD APPOINTS NEW PRINCIPAL.

Mr Tait asked what the board proposed doing with the Town school, whether it would be replaced with a new building or the present building remodelled. He doubted if any expense on the present building was advisable. Mr Marshall declared that no provision had been made for a new school building. Mr Tait also said that the opening of a domestic science department would crowd out the class now using the room provided for that purpose. What was the board going to do about it? He favored a rearrangement so as to provide for these pupils in the Central building.

Referring to recent editorial comment in The Review, Mr Garnett endorsed the suggestion that the principals should meet with the school board, to which Chairman Gartrell replied that the trustees should also visit the schools. Mr Gartrell also suggested that swings, merry-go-rounds, etc., should be provided for the little ones as there are now no accommodations of that nature in the school grounds.

St. Louis Fur Exchange Buys Direct From Trapper.

Due to certain complaints being brought to the notice of the St. Louis Fur Exchange, 7th and Chestnut Streets, St. Louis, Missouri, U.S.A., of unsatisfactory grading of furs as made by some of the advertising fur houses of that market, where in January over ten million dollars worth of furs were sold, they are now also receiving shipments of furs from the trapper direct, and are recognized and registered under license P.B.F. 30 with the U.S. War Trade Board and all of the Collectors of Customs, thus insuring free passage of furs when addressed to them with the words "Raw Furs of Canadian Origin" on the package or shipping tag. Their advertisement appears on page 4.

Legislation and Our Legislators

News of a Week in the House of Assembly
As Viewed From The Press Gallery.

Legislative Press Gallery, Victoria, March 10.—The holding of a provincial prohibition convention at Vancouver has turned general attention to the work of the legislative public accounts committee which, at the instance of Opposition members, has been delving into the question of the audit of the prohibition department accounts. Controller General Moutat was before the committee last week, and in reply to questions put to him by Opposition Leader Bowser admitted that although W. C. Findlay took office in November 1917, and the fiscal year ended on the following March there had been no audit of his books nor any inventory of his stock until December of 1918. As a result of the audit and inventory, belated though they were, the scandal leading to the dismissal of Findlay was discovered. It came about through the finding of a copy of a letter in Findlay's records, said the controller general. Mr Bowser was about to question the controller general as to how long after the finding of this letter copy Findlay had been dismissed, and also as to some of the circumstances surrounding the letter in order to clear up the suspicion of higher ups, but the committee majority barred the way to further enquiry, taking the ground that the committee could not conduct a prohibition enquiry in view of the decision of Mr Speaker Keen when he declined to accept a motion for a select committee for this purpose because it meant the expenditure of public money and only the government could bring in such a motion. It was also contended by the government members of the committee that the probe of the public accounts could only extend to the accounts for the fiscal year 1917-18 and not after that date. The Opposition members promptly proposed to get the scope of the committee widened so that its enquiry could be brought up to date. Controller General Moutat said that despite his own suggestions Findlay was permitted to go ahead with a set of books different from those used in other departments. Finally after the audit and the subsequent scandal Moutat put in a system of counter check books in the government liquor stores in order that there would be some tab kept on the stocks. Assistant Controller General Wright was before the committee, but he refused to answer most of the questions put to him, as a result of which the chairman scored him severely.

The subject of boat purchases has been quite prominent on the legislative order paper during the past week. Some of the purchases of the government have been rather interesting, particularly because of the sudden necessity for repairs in the case of each craft purchased. For instance there is the old boat "Beaver," which formerly ran between New Westminster and other points on the Fraser. It was owned by the C.P.R. A man named Jackman of Victoria, a former liquor dealer, optioned it from the C.P.R. at $8,000 and offered it to the government at $10,000. Somehow or other the company got wind of the offer and declined to continue the option, eventually selling the boat itself to the government for the ten thousand figure. The "Beaver" was to be used as a ferry between Ladner's Landing and Woodward's Landing on the Fraser, but has been on the repair ways for over a year. The total cost has run up to $26,000, with another $10,000 to follow, and it has not yet made a single run as a ferry. Then there is the nine car ferry bought from the Great Northern for P.G.E. service at a price of $18,000. It was altered to an eleven-car barge, an increase of two cars capacity at a cost of $15,565. A steam tug was bought in Seattle for the P.G.E. service for $24,000 plus duty of $7,800. It has been on the repair ways since its purchase, and the repair bill has already reached $11,117.

Replies to order paper questions show that the Land Settlement Board in 1918 loaned $165,150 to farmers of the province. The salaries and expenses of the commissioners run to $80,000 for the same period.

The new grazing commissioner McKenzie, who came from the United States to take charge of the grazing lands of the province, is paid a salary of $800 per month. He is now applying for citizenship papers.

The spruce enquiry proposal of the Opposition leader did not get very far in the legislature last week, the government refusing to adopt it by a vote of 29-12. Mr Bowser had desired the appointment of a select committee to investigate a complaint that J. R. Morgan & Co. had been allowed a spruce permit on property which was to be crown granted to James Adam. Morgan firm had originally negotiated with Adam for the spruce, but later got a permit direct from the government, and Adam thus lost about $5,000, that being the proposed purchase price during the negotiations.

Pte. Giolma had the unique distinction this week of being one of the very first men in a B.C. Legislature to have a notice of resolution refused by the speaker, so that it never came before the House at all. His motion was that the House express the opinion that it had been wasting too much time in petty partizanship and political philandering, and should at once take up the important problems of the day. Mr Speaker Keen decided that the motion was a reflection upon the dignity of the House, hence it never appeared upon the legislative order paper.

Lieut. Hanes had no luck at all last week. Day after day he brought up resolutions asking for P.G.E. enquiries of one sort or another, or else dealing with returned soldier issues, but with almost monotonous regularity they fell by the wayside. Either Mr Speaker Keen ruled them out of order or else the majority defeated them. The North Vancouver member declares that he intends to persist, however.

The new soldier member, Kenneth Duncan of Cowichan, has made his appearance in the House. His seat had originally been with the soldier party. Later it was moved over to the government side. When he took his place in the legislature from overseas he promptly had his desk moved back to a position with the other soldiers, declaring that he was elected as an independent soldier candidate and not as a government supporter. There are now eight Conservatives, five soldiers, one socialist, and a couple of independent Liberals in the legislature, as arrayed against about thirty regular government supporters.

One of the most interesting bills of the session is the new initiative and referendum measure. So far it has had a troubled course, meeting many opponents and but few supporters. The Opposition leader said it was cumbersome and ineffective. There were so many trimmings about it that it could not be used, and in any event the principle was entirely unBritish because the duty of preparing and passing legislation should lie with the men chosen for that task. They should not "pass the buck" back to the people. It was paper legislation of the worst kind, he contended, and its principle would go a long way towards destroying responsible government, although there was doubt in his mind, he said, if it would ever be used. He went into the bill in detail to show that any referendum initiated under it could not become law before 1922 and possibly 1923. One thing it lacked also, he said, and that was the recall. If only there was some provision for a recall then the people at large could follow out the natural sequence and recall the present administration. Mr Bowser said he would be quite willing to have a 75 per cent. petition made obligatory for this so sure was he that the recall would be successful. J. H. Hawthornthwaite, socialist, said that the measure was a fraud in every way. In principle it was bad, in practice it was worse.

Several other members scored the new baby bill, Attorney-General Farris and J. S. Cowper have been its defenders so far. The Attorney-General, whom the Opposition leader had described as the "wicked member" of the government, took up the question of expense, and said that simply because an inflated referendum might cost $150,000, as Bowser had claimed, was no reason why the people of the province should not have the right of direct legislation if they cared to exercise it. If the percentages of petition and vote were too high in the measure they could be changed, he pointed out.

Victoria, Week ending February 28.—Just what degree of preference should be shown to returned soldiers was a subject which engaged the attention of the legislature for several sessions this week. When the members finally emerged from their debates it was found that the government had declined to accept the principle of a guarantee of their old jobs to returning civil servants, but was willing to promise preference in the service "insofar as the efficiency of the department would permit." There were several acrimonious discussions on the resolution of Pte. Giolma of Victoria asking that returned civil servants be given a guarantee that their old positions or others as good would be here for them. The Opposition and the soldier party stood together against the government, but on the final division the government forces carried the day on a vote of thirty to thirteen. The opposition and soldiers charged that the government should be under a sacred agreement to keep every man's position for him. Premier Oliver replied that the administration was always ready to show preference to returned soldiers, but had to consider the efficiency of the service as well. He contended that the old government had not done right when it promised to make up the difference in pay for all men in the civil service who went to war. This rule should apply to every volunteer if it applied to any, he considered, and he pointed out that it looked like an attempt to bribe the civil servants into volunteering. Opposition Leader Bowser retorted that the payment by the government of differences in pay had been merely to set a good example to other employers of labor. The crown had naturally felt, he said, that its own employees should be cared for, particularly as most civil servants were underpaid. With the defeat of the soldier resolution in favor of an amendment by Hon. D. McLean that the existing orders in council on the subject be followed there also fell by the wayside an amendment of the premier himself containing the qualification about "insofar as efficiency will permit." The premier withdrew this in favor of the amendment of the Minister of Education which was introduced, according to its opponents, to make the most of the bad hole into which the premier's amendment had apparently dropped the government. Later in the week the premier gave notice of a lengthy resolution proposing in general terms that the House express the opinion that all returned soldiers are entitled to every preference not only in the public service but with private employers. This hardly meets the

Music Lovers Amazed by Edison's Daring Test

All told, 2,000,000 music lovers in Canada and the United States, on more than 1,500 different occasions, have gone to one of their local theatres filled with curiosity regarding a startlingly novel musical recital to which they had been invited.

In each case they have come away amazed at the almost unbelievable demonstration which had taken place before their very eyes, and ears—the most daring test of a phonograph or talking machine ever made. They saw a noted Edison artist stand beside

The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph with a Soul"

They heard the instrument sing in the artist's voice—in other words, re-create her voice. Presently the artist herself began to sing note for note with the instrument. Musically trained ears strove in vain to distinguish the faintest shade of difference between the actual voice and the Re-Creation. Then, suddenly and without warning, the artist ceased singing, leaving the instrument to continue the air alone. Only by watching the artist's lips did the audience know that she had ceased singing and that they heard the instrument alone. This is the famous Edison Tone Test.

Only Edison makes this test. Only Edison can make this test, because only the New Edison actually re-creates the human voice and the music of human-played instruments with every tone quality and every shade of expression. Ordinary phonographs, and talking machines, merely reproduce.

If you have not been fortunate enough, to witness an Edison Tone Test, you may at least hear Edison's wonderful new phonograph at our store. Make the time to suit your convenience.

Owing to illness, Miss Hand, principal of the Public School, left for her home in Vancouver on Thursday afternoon of last week. She was accompanied by her mother, who had come to visit with her for a short time. Miss Hand felt that if she continued the work that it would be sure to result in a breakdown of health, and asked the board to accept her resignation. In doing so they found it necessary to close the room for the time, hoping to be able to get a teacher by Easter.

After enjoying a pleasant and quiet honeymoon in Penticton for a week, Mr and Mrs John McLaughlin, Jr., returned on Thursday morning of last week to take up their residence here.

Mr J. E. Kerr and his mother, Mrs H. McDougall were passengers to Kelowna on Thursday morning of last week. Mr Kerr returned in the evening, but Mrs McDougall remained over for a few days, returning on Monday last.

Mrs Burkett Robinson and family were passengers to Westbank to spend Thursday of last week, returning on the afternoon boat. They were accompanied on the return by Mr Robinson, who had been spending a couple of days there.

Mrs W. Coldham and her little boy were passengers south on Thursday night, returning in the morning.

A number of young people arranged a charivari for the newly-weds on Thursday evening expecting to pull it off at the McLaughlin home. There was no little disappointment, however, when it was found out that Mrs McLaughlin had contracted a severe cold and was not able to entertain. They were entertained to a pleasant time nevertheless. We are glad to be able to report that Mrs McLaughlin is improving nicely.

Passengers to Kelowna and return on Friday of last week were Mrs A. Town and Albert; Mr N. S. Davidson and Mr Jeffords.

views of the soldier party, however, as it demands that the government give an absolute guarantee insofar as returning civil servants and the civil positions are concerned.

The House arguments on this subject have, from the standpoint of strategy at all events, driven the government into rather a bad corner. It is not doubted that the government members of course have the interests of the returned soldiers at heart, but the premier has in the minds of many of the members assumed too dogmatic an attitude, and instead of gracefully accepting such resolutions of this character as are brought up by the soldiers has repeatedly refused them and replaced them by motions of his own. The consequence has been that the soldier party is becoming more and more estranged from the administration. It is a common thing now to find the soldier members and the opposition lining up together as one man.

Opposition Leader Bowser's attempt to have a committee of the house formed to investigate the prohibition administration in the province was ruled out of order by Mr Speaker and the appeal to the house against the ruling was lost by a vote of 27 to 11, the soldiers supporting the opposition. Mr Speaker Keen's ruling was that the Findlay matter was before the courts, and in any event such a resolution meant the expenditure of public moneys, therefore it could only come from the government.

Mr Bowser argued in reply that there was plenty of precedent for such a resolution, such as in the P.G.E. enquiry, the plugging probe, and other house investigations, going as far back as twenty years ago, and many of them initiated from opposition resolutions. Insofar as the court phase of the matter was concerned he pointed out that the Legislature was above the courts and should not be restricted in any way in whatever enquiries it might wish to undertake into the administration of one of the government departments. However, despite the arguments of the opposition the resolution died a natural death when the house majority upheld the speaker's ruling.

Lt. Hanes of North Vancouver came forward again during the week with two more P.G.E. resolutions. One of them asked for a commission to enquire into P.G.E. campaign contributions but was ruled out of order on the ground that its substance had been contained in a motion defeated a few days before. The other, asking for the production of copies of records in connection with the deal between the government and the railway company by which the line became provincially owned was defeated by 22 to 16. This is the closest vote which the house has yet seen since the new government came into power. The opposition and soldiers voted together and Mrs Ralph Smith with two or three other government members came to their assistance. The point of the motion is that there should be an enquiry into the allegations that the government has allowed the P.G.E. interests to get away with about three quarters of a million of equipment which under the terms of the agreement was to pass into the hand of the administration.

Information with respect to the cost of the special assessors appointed last summer has been tabled in the house. It shows that the cost of the special assessments has been almost $51,000, as compared with the estimate made in the appropriations last session of $30,000. The new initiative and referendum bill has been down. It follows the Liberal platform promise of direct legislation, but it is so framed that it is doubtful if the measure can be utilized except by some highly organized interest. For instance, to get a vote on any bill suggested from a section of the public a petition of 25 per cent. of the electors of the province is required. This must have not less than ten per cent. of the electors in any one riding out of at least three-fourths of the constituencies of the province. When the referendum is taken it must obtain three-fourths of the votes polled until it is held at the time of a general election when a straight majority will be sufficient. The Legislature will have power to submit bills to the people of its own volition without any petition, and these bills will automatically become law unless within ninety days after the session a petition of 15 per cent. of the electors asks for a vote on them. The new bill will provide a vehicle for a vote on the prohibition question, probably following a petition from the moderation interest. If the moderationists can get up a sufficiently strong petition and can get the vote taken at the next provincial election a bare majority will be sufficient to retain the present system or to defeat it.

The Opposition continues to flood the order paper with questions about dismissals, appointments, purchase of government stores through private individuals, and all other conceivable questions where it believes it can score the administration for partizanship or negligence.

The Opposition is also now on the trail of what it believes to be a spruce scandal in the north in which it is claimed that a firm close to government members there was permitted to take advantage of an order in council and usurp the spruce holdings of a private individual without any payment to him. A select committee of enquiry is now being asked. Little progress is yet made in legislation. The budget will not be in for another week. The House should run till the end of March.

Trees' Fruiting Habits.

(By Prof. B. S. Brown)

Many varieties of apples and pears for various reasons bear only every other year. This condition is not uniform the country over, but is more common in the fruit sections of the north and east than in the south or west. The same is true but to a less extent of the stone fruits. The causes are somewhat varied, but are mostly the result of climatic environment in which the trees are grown. The biennial bearing habit is apparently not an inheritable trait, but when it once becomes fixed in the life of the individual there is little that can be done to change it.

In the fruit sections where the climatic conditions favor the setting of a crop every year, the biennial habit does not exist. In those sections where frosts and rains interfere with the set of fruit, the life processes of the tree are thrown out of balance and the tree gets into the habit of over-working one year and recuperating the next. A normal tree develops fruit buds for the next year at the same time it is maturing the present crop. When there is no fruit to mature, an over supply of fruit buds is prepared for the next year. When the time comes, if conditions are favorable, a heavy crop sets and the tree puts forth all its efforts to mature it. This causes such a heavy drain upon the energy of the tree, that no fruit buds are formed for the next crop. After a few years the habit generally becomes fixed and the tree continues as a biennial bearer.

If the trees are properly pruned and the fruit thinned, while they are young, the habit can be prevented to a large extent. When a heavy crop sets on a young tree, it should be thinned enough so it will not be over-burdened and can develop fruit buds while maturing the crop. If frost destroys the blossoms, then the grower should reduce the vigor of the trees by cropping the orchard or by giving less cultivation. A heavy pruning in the years when a crop is expected will tend to reduce the amount of fruit and increase the wood growth. Early summer pruning during the crop year will often stimulate fruit buds. As the trees grow older the habit becomes fixed and it is hardly worth while to attempt to correct it.

That a heavy crop actually reduces the number of blossoms formed for the next year can readily be proved by observing and counting those that appear through two or three years. Instances are not uncommon where scarcely a dozen blossoms developed on trees that matured a heavy crop of fruit the preceding year. In one case one-half of the tree had been grafted to a Gravenstein while the other half was of the original variety. For some unaccountable reason each half of the tree chose opposite years for their heavy crop. In the spring it presents an odd appearance by one half being in heavy bloom while the other half scarcely develops a single blossom. The next year the process is reversed.

This tree is now about 25 years old and to the writer's personal knowledge has behaved as described for the past five years. No certain

SUMMERLAND TROOP BOY SCOUTS.

O. F. Zimmerman, Scoutmaster. Headquarters, College Gymnasium. Meets every Friday evening at 7.30 p.m.

Orderly Patrol for March, Lions.

Friday last the Kelowna Scouts gave us return games in basketball. They arrived 20 strong under Scoutmaster E. C. Weddell, via the "Sicamous," and were met at the wharf by the Scoutmaster, Patrol Leaders, and Scouts, and taken to Hotel Summerland where Mrs. Downton had prepared the dining hall to receive our guests. Two of our best Scouts, our president, Rev. H. A. Solly and vice-president, Dr. F. W. Andrew, presided at the table. After all had done full justice to the excellent dinner, we took our visitors by motor to the scene of action. Notwithstanding the bad condition of the roads the gymnasium was crowded. The first match was between the 3rd teams, which was won by the visitors. It proved to be the fastest, cleanest, and best played of the three matches. The visitors won on their merit, having the best of the team work, which always wins in the end. Mr. E. C. Weddell refereed.

The second game was played between the 2nd teams. The play was fast from start to finish, rather inclined too much to roughness, and only now and again resulting in any combination plays. The local team won by the score of 10-6. Mr. C. D. Denton refereed.

The main interest centered in the 1st teams, which were very evenly matched, in fact it looked like Kelowna's game to within the last minute or so when Summerland shot a goal which won them the game by one point, 10-9. The local boys started the scoring, but Kelowna soon found the basket and from a free shot lead until near the finish. Right after half time Kelowna scored which gave them a explanation can be given. As there is some slight difference in the blooming time of the two halves, it is possible that frost may have come at such a time as to destroy the fruit on one side while the other escaped. First that it indicates that the formation of fruit is not wholly a question of nutrition; second that the food supply of the tree is directed first to the needs of the maturing crop.

lead of four points. The local team then seemed to play harder and pulled up even, but Kelowna scored on a free throw and led again, and it was just at the last that Warren Gayton found the basket which decided the match. It was really anybody's game from start to finish. Mr. E. C. Weddell umpired, and Mr. C. D. Denton refereed.

Although Summerland won both games in Kelowna and at home, Kelowna are not satisfied that they are the better team and want another game, which, no doubt, our boys will be very glad to play.

After the games the visitors were billeted around with friends for the night. Saturday morning the boys met on the hillsides and had some good bobbing. At two o'clock the Kelowna Scouts left by the "Skookum" amid cheers and snowballs. P. L. Alex. Smith, Scouts Warren Gayton and Bob Phinney made the trip up the lake with them, returning the same night with Capt. Roe.

We wish to thank Mrs. Downton and her helpers for all their trouble and work in regard to decorating the tables and for the very excellent dinner which was more than appreciated, also those who provided their motor cars up to the gymnasium, and also to our many friends who so kindly entertained our visitors over night.

Now that basketball is pretty well over, it is time we got down to more of our Scout work, which, owing to the influenza and cold weather, we have rather neglected. Mr. Pentland has kindly consented to take a class in physical instruction. It is also time that we got down to work in regard to our concert, for, no concert no camp.

Each Scout will be expected to turn out every parade night.

The Busy Bee

Shipping bees by the ton is the business now engaged in by a Canadian-born resident of California, J. E. Wing. Beekeeping has been a life long hobby with him, for at the age of twelve he had 162 colonies of bees. Queen rearing has been his special vocation. Mr Wing now has 1,300 colonies of bees. His annual output in the past has been 20,000 packages. Recently he sold bees in packages totalling 60,000 pounds besides 2,000 queen bees, the price for this order exceeding $15,000.

Local Member Condemns Bill

Initiative and Referendum of No Use Under British Plan of Govt.

Victoria.—A comprehensive survey of the question of so-called direct legislation, with an analysis of the present initiative and referendum legislation before the Provincial House showing that it was un-British and ineffective comprised the substance of an interesting speech in the Legislature the other day by J. W. Jones, member for South Okanagan.

He referred to the progress of direct legislation in Switzerland pointing out that the initiative had seldom been resorted to there and in the canton of Zurich in 24 years only three initiated laws had been enacted and they were of doubtful value. The average vote on 20 referendums in Switzerland was 58 per cent. The result, he claimed, is that laws passed by the national legislature are reversed by an actual minority of the electors.

"It cannot be denied that the Swiss people have shown a want of wisdom in adopting a system of initiative which places all our institutions at the mercy of the demagogues," he quoted from an address by the ex-president of Switzerland.

In the United States where the initiative and referendum was popular in some quarters, Mr Jones showed that there was little connection between the executive and the legislature, and all bills were private members' bills. The responsibility for legislation was thus diffused, and as a consequence much of it was badly drafted. In New York State 4,000 bills were introduced in one year as compared with 800 in the British House of Commons. As a consequence of the existing system in many American states, the statutes there received a mass of crude, obscure, sinister and perverted legislation every year, requiring the courts to go behind the language and guess at the intent. In Oregon it had been shown that the cost of direct legislation was high in proportion to the results achieved. The Oregon constitution had been seriously weakened, its safeguards destroyed, and its existence threatened by an actual minority of the voters. President Wilson had once been quoted as saying, "If we felt that we had genuine representative government in our state legislature no one would propose the initiative and referendum in America."

Mr Jones said that while Alberta and Saskatchewan had both passed direct legislation bills the prohibition referendum was the only one taken in the former province, and Saskatchewan had not yet operated its act.

"Why this bill at present in B.C.?" he asked. "There is no necessity for the initiative and referendum. Our legislation on the whole has been for sound government and morality. The power of corrupt interests is not possible today with the people so keen to their own needs. So far as the present government is concerned the greatest criticism is as to its administration and its lack of initiative. The electors will deal with that phase shortly."

"Our legislation at present is promoted by local members voicing the expression of public opinion as given out by boards of trade, farmers and women's institutes, mining conventions and other organizations after questions have been thoroughly discussed and digested. Our system has developed leaders of public thought and movements who are looked up to and trusted by the people. They are men who have given their time to study problems and reach correct solutions. These are troublesome times to attempt legislation of this character, taking away powers from the elected representatives of the people and placing them in the hands of a minority of the electorate."

Mr Jones told the House that the bill had been a plank in the platform of the late Premier Brewster but had never been passed upon by the people.

"It is idle to say that there has been anything in the nature of a

Women Addressed On Tuberculosis.

Dr. Andrew Gives Paper to Women's Institute.

The Women's Institute met in the regular March meeting at the Parish Hall on Friday afternoon. It was Irish Day, coming so near the time honored 17th, and the members were to have responded to the roll call with quotations suitable for St. Patrick's Day, but the response was not as generous as it might have been. The item of chief interest on the program was a paper on tuberculosis by Dr. F. W. Andrew. This proved both interesting and startling with its astounding facts. The speaker urged the importance of preventing incurable cases of this disease coming into the Valley, the establishment of sanitariums for curable cases, the intelligent treatment of incipient cases believing that they can be cured if treatment is begun in the early stages. The training received in a sanitarium is invaluable to the patients' welfare teaching them to care for their own health and remember the safety of others. It is hoped that Dr Andrew will give a second address on this subject at another meeting of the Institute.

He expressed gratification on learning that the Institutes are specially interested and ready to work for bettering conditions and stamping out the white plague. Mrs Kelley gave the monthly lesson on political education, including in her remarks interesting extracts from Green's history on the beginning of responsible government in England.

Okanagan Needs Regulations For Tuberculosis

That no tubercular patient should come to this province from other parts of Canada without first providing some guarantee as to hospital or other expenses, was the opinion expressed by Mr. W. A. McKenzie, opposition member for Similkameen, in the House last week. Mr McKenzie described the Okanagan as a haven for tubercular patients, stating the government should do something toward furnishing ample facilities in this Valley for looking after such patients. The institution at Kamloops was not sufficient to meet the need, there being at present not less than fifty-six cases on the waiting list for accommodation there. He believed the provincial secretary should get in touch with the health department proposed to be established by the Federal Government in order that proper steps should be taken to control the coming of tubercular patients to this province.

Fruit Prices Will Be Maintained.

Mr Savage, of Plunkett & Savage, the well-known wholesale fruit house of Calgary, was a visitor to Summerland this week, the guest of Prof. W. T. Broad. Mr Savage has just returned from the south where he has been touring the fruit districts, and while in Arizona placed an order for twelve carloads of tomatoes to fill orders until the B.C. tomato season opens. Mr Savage states that fruit prices are not likely to drop for several years, and predicted that apple prices would be well maintained. Stating that his firm likes B.C. stuff, Mr Savage says that they will buy as much as they possibly can in this province. They have already placed substantial orders with Prof. Broad and with other Okanagan shippers.

The provincial government is reported to have made some provision for an assured water supply to several districts in this Valley by setting aside certain sums for assisting irrigation companies, the amounts being: for the Okanagan Securities Co., Naramata, $10,000; Peachland Township Co., $5,000; Kelowna Irrigation Co., $20,000; for a new system on Scotty Creek, Kelowna, $13,000; ditch at Rutland, $8,000; The White Valley Co., Vernon, $14,000.

Council Determined That Main Ditches and Flumes Shall be of Ample Capacity.

Buying and Selling Real Estate.

R. Pollock Now Acting Clerk. Another Long Session. A Month's Municipal Bills.

Spending the morning as properties committee and the afternoon and evening in regular council session and as water committee the members of the council put in another long day on Monday.

During the morning the rather extensive list of real estate holdings was given some consideration, and recommendations were prepared for presentation to the council. There is still much work ahead of the committee in the classifying of the various properties, putting a price on them, and making arrangements for their sale.

The regular session of the council opened with the appointment of Collector R. Pollock as acting clerk. Monday's meeting was almost unique in the fact that there was but one visitor during the day. Mr A. E. Smith, who came to inquire as to how soon the council would want delivery of a Ford truck which it was decided at the previous meeting would be purchased.

An inquiry from a man on the prairies respecting real estate holdings of the municipality was referred to the clerk to be answered.

To a letter from Mrs J. C. Arkell urging that the owners of shacks in the vicinity of the municipal office be required to put in brick chimneys, the clerk was instructed to state that the council proposed taking up shortly the question of building regulations and restrictions.

An application from the Adams estate for irrigation water on a small piece of land under the Garnett Valley ditch but immediately outside municipal boundaries was referred to the water committee.

The offer of Alex. McLean for the sale of his lot, formerly the Richardson lumber yard property, to the municipality for $1,500 on terms covering three years was accepted. The need of more stable accommodation, with provisions for storing hay when it may be had at most advantageous prices, and the need of the room now occupied as stables next the municipal office has made it desirable that better stable accommodation be obtained.

The McLean property has a stable on it which the municipality has been using, and to which needed additions may be made. The property will also give much needed yard storage for poles, concrete forms and sundries equipment.

Several applications were received for positions of ditchmen, and Acting Clerk Pollock was instructed to write the ditchmen of last year to learn if they wished their former positions, the purpose of the council being to make a recommendation to the engineer of men who are qualified and efficient for the work.

Upon recommendation of the properties committee the council decided to transfer to A. Steuart title in Block 84 D.L. 455, known as the Kopp lot, and adjacent to Mr Steuart's orchard, for a cash price of $700, this sum being sufficient to cover the claims of the municipality against the property and for certain expenses in connection with it.

The committee's recommendation that Block 16 in D.L. 3397, a piece of land between the Pollock and Nelson properties, mostly mountain side, be sold to R. Pollock for $600 was also accepted. This amount will pay all claims of taxes and rates in arrears and will leave a margin of profit above other expenses.

A small lot, in what was known as Hillpark Gardens, much of which has reverted to the former owner, Mr Hill, will go back to him upon payment of all claims against the lot, about $80.

The clerk was instructed to prepare deeds for these three properties. Chairman Kirk of the water committee, urging the importance

W.C.T.U. Convention Passes Number of Resolutions.

Mrs T. J. McAlpine and Mrs T. J. Garnett returned last Friday night from Vernon where an interesting program covering Wednesday and Thursday was carried through at the 12th annual convention of the Okanagan district of the W.C.T.U. These ladies were delegates from the local branch of the W.C.T.U.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs Robt. Arnott, Armstrong; Vice-President, Mrs T. J. McAlpine, Summerland; Secretary, Mrs F. Doherty, Vernon; Treasurer, Mrs H. W. Swerdfager, Kelowna.

Among the resolutions passed was one commending the government for their action in passing measures in the interest of women and children. Another demanding strict enforcement of the prohibition act. Another recommending mothers' pensions. A demand for equal rights for women in municipal elections included a right to qualify on property registered in her husband's name. Pointing out that infant mortality was twice as high in the country as in the cities a resolution asked the government to provide nurses for rural districts and another asked for the establishment of a bureau of health in B.C. such as they have in Washington.

An audited statement of the receipts and expenditures on the Red Triangle Fund for the year will be published in newspapers and magazines within a few weeks. This statement will show where all the money contributed by the Canadian people came from and how it was spent.

TEACHING THRIFT AT HOME.

IN THE TEACHING OF THRIFT it is impossible to overestimate the importance of the home. In the producing of permanent results along this line the home can do more than any other agency. This is because the wife and mother not only regulates the expenditure of the household, but further because through example and precept she does much to shape the minds of the children on this subject.

It has been said that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, and there is a great deal of truth in the statement. It is equally true that the rising generation will be industrious and thrifty in proportion as the children are taught at home the necessity and value of these qualities.

Much may be done through advice, but possibly the best way to train the Canadian child in thrift is through the introduction of the War Savings Plan into the home. Four dollars buys a War Savings Stamp, and 25 cents buys a Thrift Stamp. Sixteen of the latter are exchanged for a War Savings Stamp, on which the government pays 4 1/2 per cent, compounded half-yearly. W.S.S. should find a place in every home.

YANKEE TRIBUTE TO JOHN BULL.

IN A RECENT ARTICLE in the Philadelphia Ledger on "Our Debt to Dauntless John Bull" it is pointed out that "England was no more a military nation than America when the war began. She learned to fight by fighting—and dying. We are profiting to-day by her tragic experiences. They first fought defensive actions with all the dogged courage for which the British are famous. Then they created that early turn in the tide which released the series of Allied offensives that finally sent the Germans back to the Hindenburg line, and beyond. They rose to the rank of a full military partner of France—and there is no higher rank.

"For all this they paid. There is hardly a home in Britain which does not have its unvisited grave in France or Belgium, not a street on which the permanently maimed do not limp to unaccustomed tasks. And the figures show the percentage of casualties from the Mother Country exceeds the percentage from the overseas dominions, thus disposing of one of the vilest, meanest, and most dastardly lies of the whole Satanic German propaganda."

"England's contributions outside the western front," continues this American article, "have been worthy of a great nation, even if they stood alone. Her navy has kept the seas free for the commerce and the troop transports of the Allied world. It has bottled up the German navy from the first. Her ships have coaled, fed, and munitioned the Italians—for a time fed and munitioned the French—brought legions and food supplies from the seven seas. We are proud of our own swift shipment of troops to the firing line during the days of the soul-shaking danger this last summer; but well over half of them went in British bottoms conveyed by British warships.

"Then, where have not the British fought? The Suez was in danger. It was the British that protected it. There were German naval stations in the Pacific. The British mopped them up. Russia asked help by way of the Dardanelles. The British tried to give it. Intervention was needed on the Tigris. The British supplied it. The British were at Saloniki. British ships were in the Adriatic. The British colonial troops freed Africa from the Germans. British diplomacy steadied the Moslem world when the Turkish Sultan and his Sheikh-el-Islam proclaimed a holy war. The British to-day are moving south from Archangel, and are at Vladivostok. But no one save the German intelligence department has known, or ever will know, half of what Britain has done.

IN ORDER TO QUALIFY FOR ELECTION in the new Jewish State in Palestine the candidate must be able to read, write, and speak Hebrew, and we believe similar qualifications are required in an elector. Jews who are expected to migrate to Palestine from many countries will be required to drop the language of the land of their nativity and adopt the Hebrew language. Should not a similar standard be fixed in Canada, outside perhaps the French speaking section? Every elector and candidate for public office should be able to read, write, and speak English.

THESE AWFUL MYSTERIES.

THE AUGUST MYSTERIES surrounding the administration of Commissioner Findlay are still inscrutable. Mortal eye must not see these records of a sacred ministry, mortal ear shall never hear the story revealed. Criminal reports have been hardly permitted to lift the fringe of the veil that hides these solemn secrets. Commissions of enquiry are warned away by the "procul este, profani" of some higher authority forbidding the apocalyps. Even the Legislative Assembly, supposed to have unlimited right of inquest, is halted when it seeks to penetrate this region of silence and doubt. Of old there were mysteries which only priests of the sacred oracles could know. But these were open and palpable spectacles compared with the Findlay mysteries, which are unlawful for man to utter.—Vancouver Province.

CANADIAN PRODUCE and manufactures have now a great advantage in the British market over the products of countries outside the British Empire. British Board of Trade regulations insist that only goods of British Empire origin shall be exempted from the rigid regular restrictions which were imposed in continuance of war time trade regulations. Canadian exporters and manufacturers thus have a big opportunity. That they are not slow to realize this opportunity is apparent in the report from London that there are now over twenty representatives of Canadian exporters in Great Britain.

IN THE ESTIMATES recently brought down in the House, copies of which are to hand, provision is made for the salaries of a horticulturist and two assistants. Last year there were three assistants. Three inspectors were also provided for, the total salaries and travelling expenses being $15,800. The inspection and fumigation of imported fruit and nursery stock will require $13,480. For expenses in connection with the control of fruit pests, which is comprised of material, labor, supplies, etc., $15,000 is provided. For entomology and plant pathology $7,160 was voted for the salaries of plant pathologist, temporary assistants, laboratory supplies, and travelling expenses.

THE WATER BRANCH of the Provincial Department of Lands will cost, according to the estimate voted for the current fiscal year, $39,840 as compared with $31,280 last year. The salary of the controller of water rights has been increased from $4,000 to $5,000. The staff of the branch include a chairman and a member of the Board of Investigation, a chief engineer at $3,000, seven other engineers with salaries ranging from $1,980 to $2,400 each, four assistant engineers at $1,800, and one assistant engineer at $1,500.

TWO PROVINCIAL HIGHWAYS connecting the Interior with the lower mainland will be realized in a short time according to the opinion of some at Victoria who are familiar with the situation respecting the building of a highway between the upper and lower countries. The government already has information on the proposed Hope-Princeton route, and the prevailing opinion seems to be that the completion of this route will first be undertaken. Engineers are to be sent over the Fraser Canyon route which is favored by Kamloops and neighboring districts. With the information which the engineers will obtain the authorities will be in a position to compare the two routes. It is felt, however, that eventually both routes will be built.

LOCAL MEMBER CONDEMNNS BILL.]

public demand for this class of legislation," he quoted from newspaper comment on the bill. "The Legislature could far better occupy itself with solving the growing difficulties of the problems of repatriation than in wasting time in the discussion of freak legislation."
Reading from a speech by the late premier on this same subject he quoted, "I do not think this initiative will be much used in British Columbia, however, because every member will watch the public attitude and forestall the initiative by moving for the legislation which he perceives there is a demand."

The South Okanagan member claimed that the bill was entirely too cumbersome and the machinery for its operation was too clumsy for use in a province having a population so widely scattered and possessing so many diversified interests. The cost of circulating propaganda which apparently was to be assumed by the government would be enormous, a referendum costing not less than $150,000, as bills, ballots, and arguments would be sent to every voter. A referendum at election time would throw outside questions into politics and would militate against the justice of the vote. The submission by the government of alternative measures would not be found to give satisfaction. The province would simply be filled with propagandists and special pleaders. In the speakers' view the initiative and referendum would be objectionable because of the possibility of bringing class legislation and the encouragement of demagogues. The voters had greater confidence in the qualifications of their legislators who were supposed to know something about the measures made into law. The referendum would diminish the members' sense of responsibility.

Dealing particularly with the various clauses of the bill he pointed out that the government had apparently made a definite attempt to have the measure more or less unworkable. For instance a vote of 75 per cent was required for the passage of any referendum not submitted at the time of a general election. Twenty-five per cent of the electors were required as signatories on any petition. Thus 75,000 persons would have to sign initiative petitions. Petitions must have not less than ten per cent of the electors in at least thirty seats of the province as well as the 25 per cent of the total.

In bringing in such a measure, wrong in principle, and probably unworkable in practice, the government he charged was simply shirking its responsibility for legislation and in other words "passing the buck." The authority of the legislature, as a British institution representing the people should always be maintained, and unBritish ideas such as the initiative of legislation direct from interested voters should be decried. The member made a good point in his argument when he asked the government how it was that the recall had not been added. He supplied the answer himself by suggesting that too many government members would promptly have recall petitions launched against them, hence their desire to escape this particular feature of direct legislation.

482 head of cattle were purchased in Alberta last year by the British Columbia Department of Agriculture for distribution among the farmers, the cost being $23,578.

Holds Optimistic View of Fruit Growing Industry

In reply to questions asked by The Canadian Horticulturist, Prof. M. Clement, of Vancouver, secretary of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association, expresses the view that there is reason to believe that during the last four years Canada has lost a large number of trees, and has very materially neglected a great many of the older orchards. For this reason he would not be surprised if production for the whole of Canada during the next three or four years is much below the average for a similar length of time immediately preceding the outbreak of the war, especially as large plantings have not been made anywhere. A year and two years ago, a noticeable change took place in the attitude of growers as a whole in British Columbia. Here and there new orchards are being top-worked, winter-injured trees are being removed and small plantings are being made of suitable varieties. This, he believes, indicates that growers look forward to the future with considerable optimism, a view in which he shares.

So long as the home and pre-war export markets are available there is no reason why, for the next few years at least, growers should be pessimistic. There is also a possibility of development of markets in the Orient for western fruit.

Over fifteen million people have died from influenza, or, as it is frequently termed, black plague. This total is larger than the total of all the killed in the wars of the last three centuries.

Legislation and Our Legislators

News of a Week in the House of Assembly
As Viewed From The Press Gallery

Legislative Press Gallery, Victoria, March 17, 1919.—The budget debate is in full swing in the Legislature and this stage in the proceedings of the House marks an approach towards the end of the session. Hon. John Hart made his formal speech as minister of finance last Wednesday, discussing for more than an hour the general financial policy of the administration. The minister pointed out that the estimated revenue for the fiscal year ending on March 31, 1920, was $10,209,960, as contrasted with an estimated expenditure of $13,313,303, giving a deficit therefore of approximately $3,100,000. The estimated revenue for the year which closes at the end of this month was $9,900,055, and the estimated expenditure $12,101,935, a deficit being shown of about $2,200,000. The deficit for the next fiscal year will therefore be about $900,000 greater than the estimated deficit for the present fiscal year. Public works for the next fiscal year were estimated at $1,619,879 for roads, streets, bridges, and wharves, a sum very little in excess of that estimated for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1919. The minister of finance also announced that in addition to the ordinary estimates the government would float a loan bill of three and a half millions for trunk road expenditure, Sumas reclamation, development of northern settlement areas, irrigation conservation, and the Southern Okanagan soldier lands. There is also a bill for a million and a half for housing, but most of this money will come from the Dominion Government.

Hon. Mr. Hart deprecated the necessity for deficits, but said that the revenue would not meet the expenditure despite the fact that appropriations for public works, etc., had been cut and taxes had been raised. The minister implied that the taxation burden was more popular among farmers and others than was generally thought.

The only opposition speaker on the budget last week was W. A. McKenzie of Similkameen. He took the government to task for hanging up a public works sack of $1,619,000 without saying in the estimates what each electoral district would receive from this amount and how the money would be spent. A big general fund of this description gave too great an opportunity for playing politics and switching expenditures here and there to suit political needs, he said. He also urged that the government give more detail with regard to the million and a half proposed loan for trunk roads as an emergency fund. This was also too big a sum, he contended, to be left hanging in the air for every member and political supporter to reach after.

The opposition last Friday filed a want of confidence motion which is being debated this week. It relates at great length the various scores on which the opposition contends that the government has lost the confidence of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. It is charged that despite promises of retrenchment and economy the government had filled up the civil service list with new appointees from Liberal ranks, has created new commissions for the purpose of giving away jobs, has legislated by order-in-council although formerly decried this practice, has failed to meet the needs of returned soldiers in regard to preference in positions, has greatly increased the overhead cost of the public works department, although actually cutting down the amount of work done, has done little or nothing in making loans to farmers, has failed in extending the province's lumber markets, has merely dealt in paper legislation with regard to mineral improvement, has made a botch of the administration of the prohibition act, has raised taxation without furnishing adequate returns, and has omitted to do many things which as a business-like administration it should attend to.

The most exciting debate of the week was that on Friday afternoon in connection with an opposition motion to extend the scope of the public accounts enquiry. Some time ago Opposition Leader Bowser brought in a motion for an enquiry into the administration of the prohibition department. It was ruled out of order by Mr. Speaker Keen. More recently the opposition got at the internal workings of the department through the public accounts committee although of course an enquiry by this committee could not cover the activities of the late prohibition commissioner outside of the accounts of his office. The committee had before it the prohibition accounts up to the end of March, 1918, but complained that these were not sufficient seeing that Findlay was appointed in the fall of 1917. The opposition members asked that the accounts up to the delayed audit taken at the first of last December when Findlay was dismissed be presented. This was objected to by the government majority on the committee on the ground that there was no precedent for going beyond the fiscal year which had expired. It was shown that no audit of Findlay's books or inventory of his liquor stock had been taken until the first of December, although it should have been obtained about the end of March in order to complete the fiscal year. Government members declared that the records showed that the government had not lost a dollar through Findlay, the only thing which was wrong being that a few cases of liquor appeared to be missing. This explanation of course dealt with the conduct of the department and not with Findlay in his relation to the illegal importation of liquor into the province by private interests.

There was a heated argument in the House when the opposition moved to extend the scope of the committee enquiry. The motion was defeated by the government 25 to 18. Attorney-General Farris demanded that the opposition make a definite charge against his department. Opposition Leader Bowser replied that he had tried to get a complete prohibition enquiry but the government had refused. He claimed that the administration should have no objection to bringing the enquiry of the public accounts committee right up to the time Findlay quit, instead of leaving it at March 31, 1918. If there was nothing wrong in the department the government would come out of the enquiry creditably, but to decline an investigation was to create a suspicion in the minds of the public that all was not well. Furthermore, it was apparent that Findlay's wrong-doing outside of his department took place during the summer, hence the desirability of the public accounts probing the internal workings of the department for the summer months.

Frondege Farm, the country place of Griffith Hughes, owner of the Victoria Times, which was given to the government for five years, crops up regularly in the House. After spending about thirty thousand dollars on the place the government at the close of one season's operations turned it back to Hughes. The opposition filed questions the other day designed to show that a northern B.C. man named Silverthorne had purchased four horses from the government off the farm at $700, giving his note for them. Then he sold three of the animals for $1,200, but has apparently not yet paid the note to the government. After selling the three for $1,200 Silverthorne is now asking $300 for the fourth, showing a fair margin on his deal.

The initiative and referendum bill was passed second reading last week and is now in the committee stage. There has been a good deal of dissatisfaction with it from both sides of the House, and there is every chance of committee amendments. It is contended that the bill is in such shape that it is unworkable. Then of course there are those members who regard it as un-British and unconstitutional.

The settler's rights act, a stormy petrel of provincial politics, is also through second reading. This measure is certain to be refused assent by the Lieutenant-Governor, hence the claim by the opposition that its passage is merely grand stand play, and it will have no practical effect. The chief criticism of the opposition appears to be that, following the passage of the act of 1917, the government had more than a year in which to deal with the settlers' claims to undersurface rights in the E. & N. railway belt on Vancouver Island, but only took up two of them, these two being ones in which the Granby Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. were interested. The other 178 was not touched. Then after the lapse of about a year Ottawa disallowed the legislation. Hence the appearance this session of a new bill.

The House last week passed the premier's motion of thanks to the soldiers. An opposition amendment to give "immediate practical relief" was rejected.

Peachland Doings

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

Mr J. Tait of Summerland spent Wednesday of last week in town.

After spending a short time in Summerland, Mrs Estabrook, Sr., returned to Peachland, again on Wednesday morning of last week.

After receiving his final discharge from the service, Ben Gumow returned on Wednesday of last week ready to take hold in the orchard.

Our local constable spent a day last week on the trail of some Siwash who had been reported to have been killing deer out of season, but as yet has been unable to locate them as they had moved their camp.

It is quite like old times to see the familiar face in town again of Mr James Miller. It is possible that Mr Miller may go back on his land up Trepanier Creek.

Mr Richard Walters of Vernon came in on Thursday night of last week to take over the management of the Peachland Fruit Growers' Union, following Mr J. G. Robison, and has taken up his quarters at the Edgewater Inn.

We have just recently heard of a house plant rather worthy of mention, even though it is a little late in the season. Mrs R. Harrington is the proud possessor of the plant, it being a Christmas cactus. At Christmas time it had two hundred and ten blossoms out at one time, and bloomed luxuriantly for about a month. It is not hard to imagine what an exquisite addition it made as a decoration placed in front of the Christmas tree.

The regular meeting of the municipal council was held on Wednesday, March 12th, at 2 p.m., with Reeve R. J. Hogg, Councillors Powell, MacKenzie, Pope, and Taylor present. The roads committee submitted a detailed estimate of proposed expenditure for the year. It was decided at this meeting to publish an honor roll of killed and wounded in the next issue of Gold Stripe. The following motions were carried: 1. That the council subscribe for one copy of the Municipal Journal, same to be left at the municipal office. 2. That the report of the Victory Loan Committee be adopted, and that their requests be acceded to. 3. That the reeve, chairman of fianance, and clerk are hereby authorized for and in the name of the corporation to draw, accept, sign all documents, and do all the necessary business on behalf of the said corporation with the branch of the Royal Bank of Canada at Peachland, B.C. 4. That the accounts amounting to $199.40 for the month ending 28th Feb., 1919, be paid. 5. That leave be granted to introduce by-law to provide for the fencing of land being By-law No. 71. Leave being granted, By-law No. 71 was introduced and read a first time and after discussion it was decided to further consider this By-law at the next regular meeting.

The Women's Institute held their regular meeting on Friday, March 14th, with thirty present. Rev. J. A. Rowland gave an address on "Reconstruction," which was very much enjoyed by the audience. The president, Mrs W. Dryden, gave an interesting paper on "Conducting Meetings," containing many helpful suggestions. The audience were also favored with a solo by Mrs Tewart, and one by Miss Francis Clements, both accompanied by Mrs Vivian. The Institute expect to have Hon. J. W. Gibson, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, to give an illustrated lecture on "Agriculture," on the 3rd of April.

Mr J. Brown was a passenger down the lake on Friday night of last week, returning on Saturday morning.

The Farmers' Institute were called into meeting on Friday, March 14th, the principal business being the election of officers for the year, which resulted as follows:—Mr R. J. Hogg, president; Mr L. D. McCall, vice-president; Dr Buchanan, secretary-treasurer; Messrs H. Williams, O. and A. N. Pope, directors. A resolution was passed asking the executive to confer with the executive of the Women's Institute with a view to holding a fall fair.

Mr Olson has returned to Peachland to spend a short time with the Iversons at the Townsite.

Having resigned his position here as manager of the Peachland Fruit Growers' Union, Mr J. G. Robison with his wife left by auto on Saturday morning last for Vernon. Mr Robison had not definitely decided on his next position when he left. We are sorry to lose Mr and Mrs Robison from the community for they were always ready to lend their assistance to anything got up for the benefit of the community.

Mrs Lupton and two of her little children came in on Saturday night's boat to spend the week-end here with her people. She and the little boy returned to Kelowna on Monday morning, but the little girl remained over.

Mr W. D. Miller visited town again last week-end, returning south on Saturday evening's boat.

After spending his temporary leave in town a guest at the Edgewater Inn Mr Wesley Waldriff left on Monday morning for the Coast to get his final discharge. Wes expects to return to Peachland when he is through down there.

After spending a very pleasant holiday in the East with her brother, Mrs H. K. Mitchell returned to town on Monday night feeling much the better for her trip and vacation.

Mrs D. J. White and her daughter Mrs Hendrickson were passengers to Penticon on Monday night last, expecting to be away for a short period.

Mr Richards of Kelowna and his brother-in-law, Mr Savill of Vancouver, were visitors to town this week, spending Monday night and returning to Kelowna on Tuesday morning's boat. Mr Richards is connected with the firm of Messrs Burne and Weddell, of Kelowna.

After spending a few days in town Mr Jas. A. Miller left again on Tuesday morning last.

It is reported that Mrs Morgan and her daughter, who spent a few weeks here last fall and since then have been visiting in the south, are coming back to Peachland for a time.

Messrs O. and A. N. Pope have just sold their lot on the lakeshore south of town to Harold J. Hobson, of Winnipeg, Man.

A rather heavy wind on Monday last took down four poles on the electric light line from Trepanier Creek to the Townsite, which cut the lights off that section of the community till J. McLaughlin took a gang out and repaired the line on Tuesday.

The Women's Institute treated the people of the community to an Irish concert and social in the Orange Hall on Tuesday the 18th of March. There was an exceptionally good turnout on the occasion, there being somewhere in the neighborhood of two hundred as near as could be estimated, and the receipts at the door were $43.25. There were a few minor expenses to be paid out of those receipts and the balance is to be held in the Institute funds, and later to be used for the Soldiers' Memorial Fund if needed. The evening's program proved a grand success, and every one present seemed to enjoy themselves to the full. There were solos recitations, readings, instrumentals, piano, violin, and hanjo, and a dialogue. The hall was tastefully and appropriately decorated for the occasion. After the program, lunch was served in quite a unique manner, each individual lunch being served in a small Irish hat made and decorated for the purpose, in white and green. The executive regretted very much that they did not have a large enough supply of hats as the turnout was much larger than anticipated. However, they served the balance as best they could under the circumstances. The only thing to mar the congeniality of the affair towards the close was an inopportune dance forced on as a final after the program and lunch. This was staged by a few of the over-enthusiastic dance promoters despite the fact that there was quite a strong sentiment against its being held on this occasion, and the majority of the executive of the Institute were opposed to it. It is to be hoped that the result, which is already evident, will be sufficient to prove to the over-enthusiastic, and others perhaps as well, that the time has come, that in order to maintain harmony throughout the community these functions be kept distinctly and entirely separate.

The local Victory Loan Committee recently held a meeting at which it was decided to turn the amount of commission allowed the committee here on the last loan over to the monument fund, and the money is placed in the local bank for that purpose. The amount is one hundred and forty dollars.

West Summerland, March

The Editor, Review, Summerland. Dear Sir,

In your issue of February 21st, you report me as having appeared before the school board with a complaint against the late principal of having used remarks tending to discourage my son who is one of his pupils, from taking the entrance exam. Your report is quite correct. Mr Lees comes back in your issue of Feb. 28th, with what is tantamount to an admission of the charge, in that he makes no denial, but seeks by dodging round the stump to justify the practice and therein beguile your readers into the belief that there is no truth in my statement. The inability of Mr Lees to make any denial would make the statement a fact. Where is the untruth?

I understand that Mr Lees was haled before the board some time ago on a similar charge and got away with a promise of reform. Short memory I presume.

Quite true we have a compulsory school law, and therein the teachers' duties are defined. I am informed that the board requested Mr Lees to keep them duly informed in writing of all cases of non attendance. I am also informed that he has not done so, not even in the case of a child who only spends "one out of every two school days" in attendance. Why this apparent neglect of duty? Favoritism. I am sure I have nothing to thank him for. No, just did not wish to stir things up for personal reasons. It is alleged that Mr Lees has, on more than one occasion, had in his employ on his fruit ranch during school term, boys, who according to this same school law, should have been at school. In respect to the above irregularity the act is defective, not through any fault of the framers of the act, but who would have thought three short years ago that the duties of public school teacher would have been merged with the arduous and as events have shown more important responsibilities of fruit ranching. "One is simply amazed that in a community like this such practices should be permitted to go unquestioned."

It is quite evident from the "street talk" the board has the popular endorsement of the parents and ratepayers in accepting Mr Lees' resignation, even at this time. A good bluffer requires two outstanding qualities, nerve and good judgment. One who seems to have very little of the latter quality, relying mainly on the former quality, would be well advised to cultivate more judgment. Mr Lees' great desire, as expressed by himself, was to have that resignation accepted. I certainly helped to bring about the fulfilment of his desires, and have no apology to make. I hardly ventured to expect any great public expressions of gratitude from the recipient of the favors, yet I fully expected he would have had enough

SUMMERLAND TROOP BOY SCOUTS.

O. F. Zimmerman, Scoutmaster. Headquarters, College Gymnasium. Meets every Friday evening at 7.30 p.m.

Orderly Patrol for March, Lions. Only a fair turnout last Friday night owing to the bad road conditions and weather.

After roll call communications were read from Mrs Hogg thanking the Scouts who assisted the Home Comfort Club at their reception to the Returned Soldiers, also from E. C. Weddell, thanking the Troop and also all who entertained the Kelowna Scouts when down playing basketball.

We were surprised and very glad to welcome our old P. L. Bernard Taylor back. Summerland and old friends look pretty good to Bernard.

We are very sorry that Scout Bobby Phinney is leaving. A good Scout and a good sport, we will miss him very much. We hope his stay in Penticton will not be too long, in the meantime he will remain on the roll with leave of absence.

Mr Pentland and Mr Verier took the Troop in drill and put the boys through some good marching, etc. On Monday afternoon Mr Pentland started a class in P.T. (Physical Training), and on Friday night he will give the second lesson, and Mr Verier will start a class with the younger Scouts. It is important that every Scout attend each class for missing a lesson will upset the class work.

Four new boys were taken on, namely, W. Nicholson, C. Chisholm attached to Lions, and Ivor Harris and Alex. Munn attached to the Beavers.

The news that Hotel deGrub, Oroville, has changed ownership will be of interest to many readers of The Review. The new proprietors are George W. and Frank Bartell, both Oroville men, the former proprietor of a garage, and the latter of the Wonder Store now closing out. Mr and Mrs Grub will continue to reside in Oroville.

OBITUARY.

Following is the report of the death of Mrs. Mary Neate of Regina, mother of Mrs. F. C. Dunnett, of Kamsack, as it appeared in the Regina Leader of Feb. 4:

"The death occurred of Mrs. Mary Neate on Friday night at the residence of her youngest daughter, Mrs. Harry Harding, 901 Athol St., Regina. The deceased suffered an illness of a very short duration and succumbed to an attack of heart failure. She was born at High Wycombe, England, in October, 1852, and was the eldest daughter of the Rev. Henry Needle, a widely known minister of the Methodist faith who preached for more than forty years in various circuits in the north of England. She was educated at High School, Liverpool, and graduated at South Bank College, York, and for several years held important teaching appointments. In 1903 the family came to Canada and settled in Lumsden. She was endowed with many and varied accomplishments, and was the happy possessor of an affable disposition and very magnetic temperament. Her loss is mourned by her husband, Jno. A. Neate, Regina, and nine children still living. They are John Lockhart Neate, Mrs. A. W. Farrow, Mrs. E. O. James, Mrs. F. C. Dunnett, Mrs. F. A. Whitfield, Mrs. F. R. Waller, Mrs. J. A. Covington, Mrs. C. D. Ellis, and Mrs. H. Harding. Another son, Arthur Henry Neate, was buried in England.

The funeral service was held in Rae St. Methodist Church, Rev. Davidson officiating. Many floral tributes were in evidence.

Illustrating what one patriotic and enthusiastic school principal has done to encourage the habit of thrift among his pupils and incidentally showing what others can do to further the success of the War Savings Campaign, Mr. James Gordon, Principal of the Kelowna Public School, has organized a scheme for the benefit of his own scholars. Every Thursday the children bring their quarters to the school and purchase Thrift Stamps, Mr. Gordon buying sufficient from the local bank to satisfy requirements. When the pupil has acquired 16 Thrift Stamps, these are exchangeable for a War Savings Stamp. The total sales are published in the local newspapers each week, and thus the children and their parents are kept in touch with the progress of the War Savings plan. Mr. Gordon commenced with a very satisfactory week, and confidently predicts increased returns as the interest has grown considerably.

LOYALTY IN EDUCATION.

KIOSK! IS THE WORD A FAMILIAR ONE, though almost forgotten? Residents of Summerland of five years or more will recall the time when much was being said in favor of the Kiosk, then being put up at Sicamous, as a valuable opportunity to advertise the Okanagan. Mr. Lowe, in charge of the commissariat of the C.P.R. at Sicamous, made a proposition at that time to the towns of the Valley that he would take charge of and properly display any exhibits sent him. For a time there was an active response. Then interest in the display waned, and finally the shipments of samples from several points ceased altogether.

But because these districts went to sleep on the proposition and failed to contribute to the Kiosk, did not put the Kiosk out of business. Attention is drawn to this by the Okanagan Commoner, which says that it only made it more difficult for Mr. Lowe to make the exhibit distinctly representative of the Okanagan, as it was originally intended that it should be. Mr. Lowe continued month after month to keep the Kiosk well supplied with Okanagan fruit, vegetables, grains, etc. He continued all during the war years to keep up the standard of the exhibit, and he has been frequently complimented for having the neatest, most artistic Kiosk display on the whole C.P.R. railway system.

To do this has meant great personal effort on the part of Mr. Lowe, with very little assistance from any section in the Okanagan. Individual growers here and there, realizing the great possibilities of the publicity project and desirous of assisting in a good thing, continued to contribute samples of fruit, vegetables, etc. But for the most part, the fruit displayed by Mr. Lowe in the Kiosk he has had to buy, and pay the highest prices for it. In this the Valley shipping and packing organizations do not appear to have played the game. Both growers and shippers have profited by the advertising done through the Kiosk but have not contributed to its support nor aided in the good work done through it. The purchases made by Mr. Lowe the past season—and 1918 was the poorest of tourist years for the C.P.R.—amounted to the sum of $38,672. And these purchases were made exclusively in the Okanagan.

Another feature of the Okanagan's fall down has been its publicity—or lack of publicity. In the Kiosk at Sicamous to-day one can find pamphlets telling all about the prairie provinces, but not a printed word about the Okanagan. Mr. Lowe is credited with the statement that during the San Francisco Exhibition in 1915 he handed out twenty-two hundred pieces of prairie publicity to interested enquirers, and not a pamphlet, booklet, or printed page of any description was available on the advantages of the Okanagan. For the past year or two he has not had a page of printed matter from any Okanagan point that he could give to travellers. At the same time there have been stacks of pamphlets always on hand telling of the advantages of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Here is a work for the Valley Boards of Trade. Now is the time the Okanagan should start a campaign of publicity. Thousands of people are looking to British Columbia as their future homeland. They must be supplied with the information they require. Any locality not prepared to furnish this information must expect to be passed up. No matter how excellent the natural advantages of the locality, it is the intelligent use of printer's ink that is the deciding factor.

OBJECTION MAY WELL BE TAKEN to the motion picture service furnished the public of this province and for that matter of all Canada. The discussion in the House on this subject will, we trust, lead to definite improvement. Major Burde, M.C., spoke truly when he said:

"There is entirely too-much American stuff in the pictures. The censor should cut them out, because the youth of the province will take their history of the war from what they see in the films. We see nothing but the American army winning the war, and the Stars and Stripes waves all over the place in great spread-eagle bursts. It is seldom that in our province we can find pictures of the Canadian soldier, who was in the fight from the beginning. For one Canadian soldier picture you will find fifty American shows, most of them fake from beginning to end. And these pictures are giving our youngsters the false idea that the Americans really won the war for the Allies. I have a high respect for the qualities of the American officers and men I saw in Europe, and I know that this 'we-did-it' stuff does not come from the Americans who fought."

The explanation that British and Canadian film production fell off during the war while American production increased may be correct, but we are glad to note the Attorney-General's promise that the government will prepare to take drastic action to effect a change.

A day or two earlier the Minister of Education admitted to the leader of the opposition that his department had been made aware of complaints regarding some school text books, alleged to be of a pro-German nature. Too much care cannot be exercised in guarding against the introduction of insidious propaganda in this country such as is said to have been going on in the school books in the United States for some years.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that the Provincial Government proposes spending considerable borrowed money on provincial roads, followed by the report that the Dominion Government will assist provincial governments up to 40 per cent. of the cost of construction of main highways, will doubtless mean that the Okanagan highway, one of the principal thoroughfares of the province, will come in for some much needed improvements. The straightening out of dangerous curves, the widening of the road bed, and converting the highway into a more permanent structure are pressing necessities which we may now hope to have accomplished.

FOR THE PURPOSE OF ASSISTING in the recovery of the strength of Canada, commercially and financially, following the strenuous years of war the Canadian Trade Commission, a branch of our government, is inaugurating a "buy-at-home" campaign in recognition of the principle that every dollar sent abroad takes that much from the strength of the country. This is the same principle that this journal has frequently placed before its readers with respect to the more local business situation. The Canadian Trade Commission is at the same time making an effort to have the country prepared to meet its home demands with local products. Herein is a suggestion which perhaps might be acted upon by those who cater to the requirements of our local consumers, many of whom must send their money away through force of circumstances rather than inclination.

Legislation and Our Legislators

News of a Week in the House of Assembly
As Viewed From The Press Gallery.

Legislative Press Gallery, Victoria, March 24.—“Overtaxed and Overgoverned, British Columbia” was the subject of a lengthy and exhaustive budget speech by Mr. J. W. Jones, member for South Okanagan in the Legislature last week. Mr. Jones ran the gamut of criticism of the present administration, referring particularly to the growing civil service, the increasing taxation and the purchase of the Southern Okanagan lands. His speech was admittedly one of the clearest and most complete made during the session and stamped him as one of the logical speakers of the House.

The member from the Okanagan said that the province was overloaded with high salaried officials, boards, and other departmental adjuncts to the detriment of the already over-burdened taxpayer. He quoted figures to show that the Liberals although promising retrenchment had in reality created a veritable potlach for the faithful followers, and so far as could be seen from results, efficiency was by no means obtained.

He agreed that there were many difficulties facing the government, but they had been created to a large extent by the rash promises which the Liberals had made. He expressed his pleasure at seeing that it was not intended to inflict any considerable amount of additional taxation upon a people already paying more than they could readily stand. Appearances indicated that the government was able now to borrow money at about the same terms as the old administration obtained funds in 1916 although the price since that time had rapidly increased. Despite this ability to borrow, and the fact that the government was taking advantage of it to some extent, and was thus following the suggestion repeatedly made by the opposition he was sorry not to find something in the estimates he said for a continuance of the work of the University of B.C. at Point Grey, or for additional help to the Tranquille sanatorium.

There was little intimation, he went on, that the administration was attempting to carry out its pre-election promises of economy and abolition of patronage. Party friends had been given all the fine positions with high salaries, while the old-time servants had not been increased.

“British Columbia is certainly hopelessly overgoverned,” declared Mr. Jones. “With a total estimated outlay for this year of over thirteen millions and an emergency vote of three and a half millions in addition to the total estimates it is clear that the grand total expenditure will be in excess of sixteen millions. Then we have the provincial debt of twenty-three millions, and there is the municipal debt of $106,000,000. British Columbia's population is not more than 400,000, which means a per capita debt of about $312. This is compared with a per capita debt of $4.70 for Ontario, $12 for Alberta, and $8.45 for Saskatchewan. This year's proposed grand total expenditure can be compared also with the total of nine millions for the last year of Conservative administration. Let us see what has happened to the civil service costs in the meantime. To-day civil service salaries total $2,299,500, and to this should be added travelling expenses of public servants of $236,80, making an aggregate of nearly three times the amount spent on the civil service in 1913. Yet, in the pre-election days the Liberals were fond of saying, ‘‘It takes a lot of grease to keep the Bowser machine running.’’ How about the ‘‘spruce grease’’ needed now and applied so liberally?”

The speaker pointed out that 77 motor cars were needed to carry the officials of this government about the province.

He quoted from a report of a special committee of the Vancouver board of trade which investigated conditions during the past year, and which arrived at the opinion that the present government had not yet shown any signs of the much-needed retrenchment.

The budget clearly revealed, he said, that every industry in the province was apparently being taxed to the limit. At the same time there was an increase in the number of high salaried officials. The expenditure statement revealed that party heeled were being kept quiet by good jobs. There were many fresh importations of Liberals also from the prairies, but the reliable civil servants long in the employ of the province were still at their old salaries if they managed to keep their jobs at all.

“Every organized body of business is objecting to the tremendous overhead expense of running the province,” he maintained. He referred to some of the salaries such as that of $8,000 to Agent-General F. C. Wade, $4,000 to the deputy minister of lands, $5,000 to the comptroller-general, $5,000 to the water controller, $3,600 to the new grazing commissioner, and $4,000 for the new deputy minister of agriculture, one time Liberal member for Pincher Creek. It was remarkable how many of the new high-salaried men were former Liberal members or Liberal candidates he pointed out. A new post of legislative counsel had been created at $4,000 per year, despite the promise of the attorney-general to eliminate extra counsel expense. The members of the land settlement and workmen's compensation boards were to receive handsome increases in salary. Such illustrations were sufficient, he believed, to indicate why the overhead expenses of government were constantly mounting, and to explain the strong objections of the tax-burdened farmer.

Discussing the question of land tax sales, Mr. Jones read from a list of papers which had published tax sale advertisements for the government. The total advertising had amounted to $42,500, and the lands sold at the sales only reached $102,000. The big outlay went chiefly to the Liberal press such as Prince George Citizen, advertising $10,400, proceeds of sale $4,239; Fernie Leader, $2,454, proceeds of sale $5,740; Interior News $2,665, proceeds of sale $3,019; Prince Rupert News $3,997, proceeds of sale $6,483; Revelstoke Review $1,808, proceeds of sale $864; Vancouver Sun $8,089, proceeds of sale $7,078.

The member said that he regretted that the agricultural imports of the province, capable of being produced here, had totalled $22,000,000, of which meats aggregated five millions, poultry one million and a half, dairy products over four millions, grains seven millions. It was time, he declared, for a proper agricultural policy which would show results. But any lack of results which B.C. might display at present would not be due to lack of machinery. The land settlement board was certainly one evidence of superfluous gearing. It had cost in salaries and travelling expenses more than $28,000, during the past year but had only loaned $165,000, at a profit to the board of but one and one-eighth per cent. One of the directors drawing $3,600 had loaned $5,700 in the year; another drew down $3,800, and loaned $9,000. All were strong party followers, and doubtless that was why they were now to have their salaries increased. Not a single settler was placed on the land by the board during 1918, said the speaker.

He took up a portion of his speech replying to strictures of the minister of lands regarding the speaker's connection with the Central Okanagan Lands Co. at Kelowna. He declared that the minister's statements had been far from accurate and his figures were quite misleading. The recent purchase of the Southern Okanagan lands was also taken up. Much high flown talk by the minister of lands with respect to what the government had done for the returned soldiers, still remained a talk, he pointed out. The fact remained that nothing was ready for the men to go on. He considered that an explanation of the Southern Okanagan land purchase was overdue from the minister. His story had shown that several large concerns had inspected this 22,000 acre tract but apparently did not desire to take it up on account of the heavy expense of irrigating. With a proper system the land would be valuable, but experts had figured out that only 7,500 acres could be irrigated by gravity, with 2,500 through pumping from 25 to 150 feet. The cost of irrigating this property as well as surveying, etc., and the first purchase price of $350,000 would be little short of $3,000,000. Because of the great cost per acre, therefore, the land could hardly be considered as a returned soldier proposition. Mr. Jones wanted to know why the minister of lands bought the property for $350,000 when the area was carried on the company's books in 1913 at $28,087. Last year the Southern Okanagan Land Company's total real estate was put at only $169,000 as a book value. Supplies for the work would have to be hauled a long distance, there was no rail transportation, big syphons would be needed for the irrigation system, and three power pumping stations would be required. Taken altogether, the Southern Okanagan lands would not be for soldiers but for persons with a competence who desire to live in a general climate and who can afford to buy high priced land.

Always remember that the farmer and the working man and the office man are just as dependent upon the business man as the business man is on them. It is a strictly mutual game, and should be fairly played.

It is from an actual photograph of Anna Case of the Metropolitan Opera singing in direct comparison with her own voice on the New Edison.

“But what's remarkable about this?” you ask. The amazing fact is that no human ear can distinguish the artist from the instrument; so perfect is the Re-Creation. This is what we call the “tone test”. And it proves the truth of the Edison Company's claims about

It proves that the instrument does re-create, not merely imitate. Hundreds of these tone tests have been conducted. More than 2,000,000 people have attended them. A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

Mrs R. C. Lipsitt of Summerland was a visitor to town last week spending from Wednesday morning to Friday afternoon with her sister, Mrs J. B. Robinson.

After spending a day in town giving instruction in orcharding, Mr J. Tait took the boat here for Westbank on Wednesday morning of last week.

Mr Jas. A. Miller returned to town on Wednesday night of last week.

There was a special meeting of the school board called last week at which the board accepted the application of Mr MacLeod for the principalship of the public school. Mr MacLeod arrived from the Coast on Saturday night and took up his new duties on Monday morning.

The annual meeting of the Peachland Fruit Growers' Union was held in Orange Hall on Wednesday night of last week, and partially owing to bad roads there was not a very large attendance. The financial statement for the 1918 season was read by the secretary and was apparently very satisfactory from the fact that it was unanimously adopted. Several matters of interest were discussed, among them the shortage of orchard boxes in the rush of the picking season. Some contended that the Union should supply more boxes, and others contended that the growers should purchase a fair supply for themselves. However, one of the speakers for the board of directors assured the growers that the matter would be carefully gone into at the next board meeting. The board of directors for 1918 were re-elected. The chairman assured the growers that it was the wish and intention of the board to in every way possible look after their interests. Mr Thos. Powell, representing the central, spoke to the meeting, giving extracts and data as to the work of the central and showing wherein the co-operation was strength. Mr J. Tait of Summerland was present and was given a few minutes to address the meeting and touching on spraying he informed the growers that it was compulsory to spray stone fruits—peaches, apricots, plums, and prunes—and that any person failing to do so would have their trees cut down by order of the authorities.

We are sorry to report that Mrs N. S. Davidson was taken quite ill and has had to go down to the hospital at Summerland for a time. Miss Kate Miller accompanied her down on Wednesday night of last week and returned on Friday morning.

Mr A. N. Cutbill was a passenger leaving for Vancouver on Thursday morning of last week on a short business trip.

Mr Kincaid of Kelowna spent a couple of days in town last week returning home on Saturday last. While here he was the guest of Mr A. Town.

Mr A. N. Pope paid Summerland a short visit last week, going down on Thursday night and returning on Saturday morning.

Friday morning of last week saw some of our summer residents return to take up their duties on the lots. These were Mr and Mrs P. N. Dorland and Master Hugh. Mr Dorland expects to remain for a limited time getting some of the rush work done in the orchard, but Mrs Dorland will remain for the summer. On Saturday night they took the boat south to spend the week-end in Penticton, returning on Monday morning bringing with them Mr R. J. McDougall's two children, who will remain here with Mrs Dorland.

Mrs Hendrickson returned home from Penticton on Friday morning of last week.

Mr R. J. Hogg was a passenger north, spending the day on Friday of last week.

Another of our over-seas boys to return last week was Mr B. B. Scroggins, being accompanied by a friend, Mr Wilde. In talking with some friends that evening Mr Scroggins expressed himself as having appreciated a very great deal the boxes which had been sent him by the Peachland Comfort Club. He stated that these were the only ones he had received.

After having been down to the Coast for his final discharge Mr Burkett Robinson returned to his home here on Friday night of last week.

Saturday morning last saw quite a passenger list northbound, there being about twenty-six in all. Quite a large percentage of this number went over to Kelowna, part to play and others to witness the basketball game between our team and the Kelowna boys. Those who saw the game state that it was a good one, and considering the chance our boys had they put up a good showing—the score resulting in 18-14 in favor of Kelowna. The boys are arranging for a return game here.

Charlie Morrison came down from Kelowna with the basketball boys to spend the week-end at home here. He returned again on Monday morning.

The Girls' Handicraft Club with many of their young friends met at the home of Mrs W. D. Miller on Tuesday, March 25th, to shower one of their members, Miss Mary McLaughlin, who is to be married this week. The house was tastefully decorated, and many useful and pretty gifts were received by the bride-to-be. Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs A. Town, Mrs Ferguson, and Mrs Jack McLaughlin.

Peachland, B.C.,

Review, Summerland.

Dear Editor,

Would you kindly allow a little of your valuable space to answer our "scribe" of last week, re "The Inopportune dance forced on the Ladies' Institute," etc.

I am not one of "the over-enthusiastic dance promoters," but might be classed one of the "over-enthusiastics." However, the statement of the correspondent is entirely false, inasmuch as the dance was not "forced on the executive," and to the "over-enthusiastic," there was nothing known of any objection to the dance.

If "the majority of the executive were opposed to the dance," they certainly did not make their opposition known until after the dance was over.

Any parties who objected to the dancing sure had the privilege of going home after the singing of "God Save the King." But, on the other hand, the kickers seemed very much to enjoy the dance from a spectator's point of view, and most of them at least stayed until the finish.

The fact of the matter is the so-called "promoters" paid their two dollars for the rent of the hall separate from the Institute, and the kickers, so to speak, were not in the least averse to taking the money.

When the program was finished, lunch was over, and they sang "God Save the King," the Ladies' Institute had finished their part of the evening, and I don't see that they had the authority to stop the dance. However, had they "objected" there is no question but their wishes would have been acceded to.

As to "the result, which is already evident in the community," I am sorry to be forced to state that in order to satisfy some of the chosen few, one should go to church one day in the week and back-bite his neighbors the other six. In fact there are some in our midst who do their own thinking but refuse others the same privilege. The sooner the community gets in a condition where they will let each one think for themselves, without "petty jealousy," the sooner we will be in a position to "maintain harmony throughout the community."

Again thanking you for your valuable space.

I am,

Yours truly,

F. R. JEFFORDS.

March 24, 1919.

Editor, Summerland Review.

Dear Sir,

In reply to a certain statement made by your correspondent in the last issue of the Review concerning the dance held after the concert given by the Women's Institute, "that it was forced on in opposition to the majority of the executive," is an extreme prevarication.

Your correspondent evidently did not interview the executive, but went entirely on his own views, and those of some other narrow-minded people of the community.

The correspondent would like to give the impression that the dance was "forced on the executive of the Institute," when, as a matter of fact, the hall was rented separately by the so-called "over-enthusiastic dance promoters," the ladies of the Institute having nothing whatever to do with the dance.

If the correspondent had waited to interview many of those present, he would have found that instead of marring the congeniality that everyone who stayed thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Those who objected to dancing had the privilege of going before the dance commenced.

Any representative of the people as a correspondent, either show their ignorance or narrow-mindedness by placing their personal views ahead of those of the community at large.

As to the "result already evident" spoken of by the correspondent, it is apparent only to himself and a few religious fanatics. The result as others see it, was a fitting ending after the program and lunch.

As to "maintaining harmony in the community," it would seem impossible as long as we have a correspondent that misrepresents conditions, as misrepresented in this case. We trust, in future, the correspondent will acquaint himself with some of the facts at least before making such untrue statements and by so doing, promote discord among an otherwise peaceful community.

Thanking you for your valuable space,

We are,

Yours truly,

"OVER-ENTHUSIASTIC DANCE PROMOTERS."

To Link Highways.

The improvement in the road from Kelowna to McCullough and on to Carmi is just now receiving special attention from the Kelowna Board of Trade. It is said that the road from Kelowna to Carmi is now in a passable state and only requires surfacing to make it fit for automobile traffic. When completed this road will form a connecting link between the northern end of the Valley and the Boundary and Kootenay district. It is said that the construction of a section of road only five miles long in the south-eastern part of the Province would give easy access to the prairies and provide a highway which would very quickly be extensively used by travellers. A memorial asking the government to make an appropriation to cover the cost of this work has been sent to Victoria by the Kelowna Board of Trade.

A Golden Harvest.

Sweet clover is just beginning to come into its own in the farming business and the growing of it for seed is apparently profitable. It is reported in the press that a farmer at Kippen, Ont., harvested 146 bushels of clean seed off 18 acres, which he sold at $15 a bushel. That represents a total of $2,190 or at the rate of $121 an acre. Such returns, however, are apt to last only so long as few people know about them.

Work will be started on the C.N.R. Okanagan branch at an early date according to information received at Kelowna. Work will commence at the Kamloops end of the line.

Claiming to be the centre of the fruit growing district of the Okanagan the Kelowna Board of Trade is asking that a horticulturist be given headquarters there in preference to Vernon as at present.

The old postage rate of two cents on letters and one cent on post cards will be brought into effect in United States on July 1st next.

News For a Newspaper

Suggestions to Those Who Are Uninitiated.

Any news that goes into a newspaper must be given by someone who knows the piece of news, to the editor or someone connected with the newspaper. Some piece of news is born every minute in every community, and if the newspaper knew of this news and considered it the proper kind of news for publication, it would be published. Many times the reader of the newspaper will glance through the pages and then say "There is nothing in the paper to-day" and yet that very individual undoubtedly knew of certain happenings, maybe trivial in their nature, that if he had told the editor regarding them would have materially increased the news feature of the paper.

It is true that the average individual does not appreciate what is news and in consequence is unable to give any news to a newspaper and therefore keeps his lips sealed when asked if he knows any news. That is the case here just the same as in every village, town or city in British Columbia, or in every other portion of the civilized world.

An exchange has made some suggestions for the guidance of people who do not fully understand what is news, as follows:

IF ANYBODY HAS

- Died
- Eloped
- Married
- Left town
- Had a fire
- Embezzled
- Absconded
- Sold a farm
- Had a baby
- Been arrested
- Come to town
- Cracked a safe
- Bought a home
- Robbed a house
- Become engaged
- Committed suicide
- Delivered an address
- Raised an unusual crop
- Returned from overseas
- Been injured in any way
- Been taken to the hospital
- Been charged with a crime
- Laid in a stock of whisky
- Fought with a police officer
- Built an addition to his house
- Stolen a dog or a friend's wife
- Suggested a new idea for the city
- Moved from one home to another
- Or Obtained discharge from active service

Anything of this kind is news, and if you will write us, telephone No. 39, stop us on the street and tell us what you know along the line of the various items referred to above, you will confer an everlasting favor on the Editor, as well as on your friends and neighbors.

Daylight Saving goes into effect in the United States on Sunday, March 30th. In Canada the adoption of the plan for the coming season seems to have been definitely dropped. So much opposition has been manifested by farmers in certain sections of the country the Union Government is not disposed to bring the plan again into effect.
