

FEW APPLICATIONS FOR ELECTRIC LIGHT EXTENSION ARE RECEIVED

Garnett Valley Submits Proposition for Extending Electric Light Service to Cover All That District—Only District That Really Desires Extension of Utility.

NO NEED TO BUILD FENCES

This is Opinion of Fence Viewers Recently Appointed by Council—Herd Law Applies to Whole District—Light and Hospital Debentures Sold—Change in Gulch Road Has Been Mutually Agreed Upon.

Garnett Valley is the only district outside the area at present covered by the electric light service that really desires an extension of that public utility. At least, that is the conclusion one would naturally draw after perusing the chart prepared by Mun. Clerk Nixon, indicating those lots for which applications have been made for the service.

As instructed by the council, the clerk had advertised for applications from any and all who desired to be connected with the electric light system and at Friday's meeting of the council Mr. Nixon presented a report in the form of a map of the municipality on which was marked each lot for which application had been received. Possibly 50 per cent. of the probable users at Trout Creek Point had applied and here and there scattered over the front benches east and south of Giant's Head, the map showed a few requests for service. There was but one from Jones' Flat and half a dozen from the upper end of Prairie Valley.

Garnett Valley seems to have gone about the matter in a systematic way, and presented a petition for the service signed by 19 residents. This petition further requested that the proposed extension be built up the middle of the valley and promised that a right of way would be granted for this purpose. This would considerably reduce the cost to the municipality of making the extension and would also save no inconsiderable amount in the total to the users as it would bring the pole line closer to the homes. The applications were all turned over to the electric light committee, which will investigate the feasibility of granting the requests.

The City of Victoria presented a resolution with respect to provincial finances and asked for the endorsement of Summerland council. The correspondence was filed. Mr. J. W. Jones, M.L.A., wrote acknowledging the receipt of a resolution from the council with respect to obtaining the right to build flumes and ditches on the public highways, and promised to give this his support, and pointed out the desirability of including in any such bill provision for repairs or damages that might result to the highways.

Mr. R. S. Monroe was given the right to cut down certain trees along his fence line, he to pay at the rate of $1 per cord for the trees. G. W. Johnston wrote asking for particulars of estimate for extending the domestic water service to his property and also an estimate of the revenue. The clerk was instructed to forward same.

The treasurer reported that the last issue of electric light debentures had all been subscribed for and he was instructed to advise the applicants that payment would be received on December 1st. The clerk also read correspondence from the Royal Financial Corporation accepting the remaining debentures of the last hospital issue on the basis of 7 1/2 per cent. less the usual brokerage commission of one per cent.

Through a request from Jas. Fyffe the council had appointed R. Johnston, J. Dale and Charles Wharton as fence viewers. Following a report that no action had been taken with respect to a fence asked for by Mr. Fyffe, the clerk reported that he had made enquiries and learned that the fence viewers had looked into the situation and were of the opinion that they could not order the building of the fence. Two reasons were given, the herd law now in force in the district, and also that the act respecting fences prescribed only that class of fence that was in common use in the district. As the herd law had made it unnecessary to maintain fences, the fence viewers did not feel that they could order Mr. Fyffe's neighbors to build fences. Though no resolution was put through, the council apparently acquiesced.

Foreman Tomlin presented a report covering the present condition of the irrigation system and pointing out where repairs and improvements were necessary. This report was turned over to the water committee, which will present a report at an early date covering this as well.

Plans covering a change in the location of the Gulch road were presented for approval. The change is in front and immediately east and west of the J. Rowley house. The present registered plan provides for a direct turn to the south just above Mr. Rowley's house and thence east and takes in about half of the land covered by the Rowley residence. The new plan follows closely the travelled road, cutting out the jog and taking pieces off the front of several lots held by the Development Company. The change is one mutually agreed upon between the Development Company, the municipality and Mr. Rowley, thereby extricating the latter from a difficult position.

Water jumping over the spillway which conveys the water from the irrigation main to the reservoir had undermined the spillway last week for a distance of about 40 feet along the west side, reported the foreman. The damage was quickly repaired and the spillway saved from breakage. Foreman Tomlin also reports that the winter pipe line has burst at a point where it crosses under the main irrigation canal.

JAPANESE SAWMILL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Lantern Hung on Gasoline Engine is Said to Have Been Cause.

Through the burning of the sawmill back of Shingle Creek, owned and operated by George Naruke, a Japanese, it may be that several Summerland people will lose.

The mill was a small one with the usual rotary saw and carriage, an edger, trimmer and a planer. A thirty-five horse power gasoline engine was used for motive power.

Just how seriously the machinery was damaged it has been difficult to learn, but it is said that the planer suffered the least and that practically all the metal parts can be used. The motor, which is the property of T. B. Young, is being brought down for repairs.

Naruke proposes rebuilding. A lantern is said to have been hung on the magneto of the engine to keep it warm over night and was the cause of the fire, the gasoline tank exploding.

The plant was insured for $3,000.

OKANAGAN SHIPPED 4339 CARS TO DATE

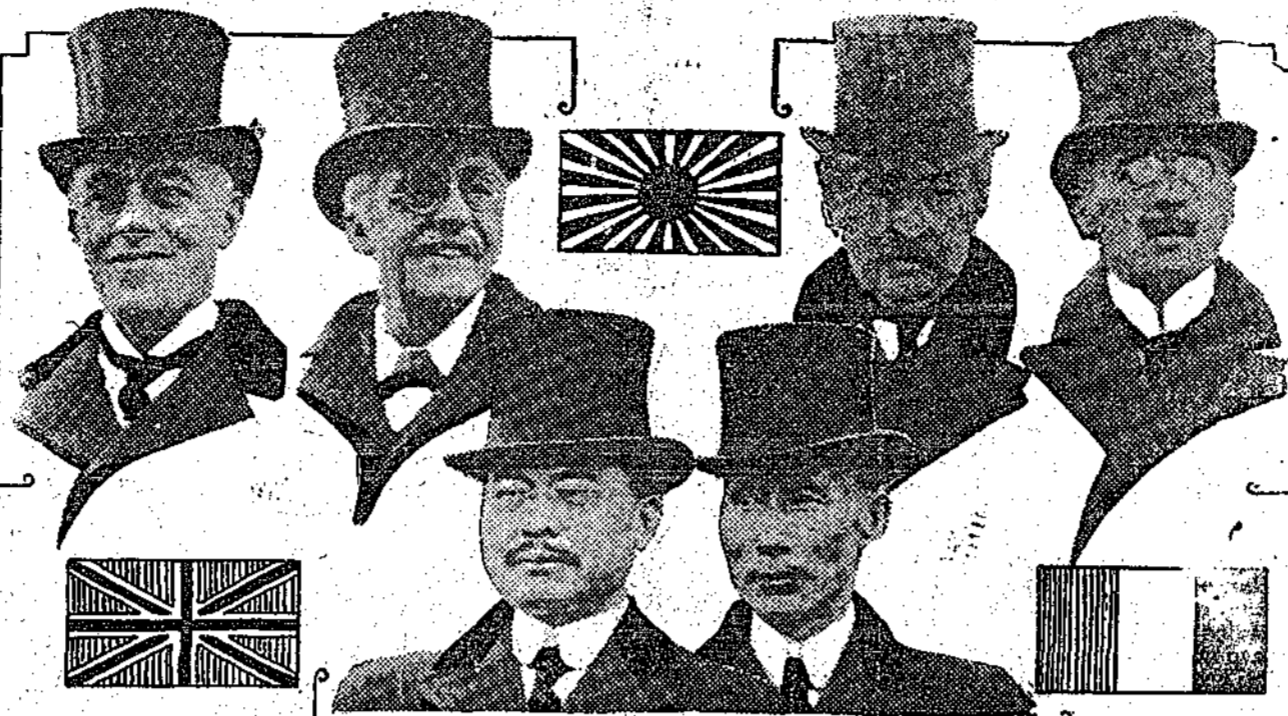

This is Volume of Business of Members of Credit and Traffic Association.

Shipments of fruit and vegetables handled through the organizations comprising the Traffic and Credit Association for the season ending November 22, amounted to 4339 cars, according to the report of the department of agriculture. There are a few cars still to be shipped from Creston and the Kootenays and also from Grand Forks. It is estimated that there are still 250 cars of apples in the Okanagan, including Salmon Arm, to be shipped.

Vancouver has approximately 45,000 boxes of apples in stock and Victoria 15,000 boxes.

PARENT TEACHER NOW ORGANIZED

Inspector Lord Describes Benefits of Association—Committee Formed.

A well attended meeting was held in the Parish Hall on Thursday evening, Nov. 24th, the object being, if thought advisable, to form a local branch of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Mr. D. J. Welsh, principal of the High School, occupied the chair. The chief address was delivered by Mr. A. R. Lord, inspector of public schools for the Okanagan, who, in a masterful and interesting way, set forth the various factors entering into modern education. The three main points dealt with were: First, the equipment, such as grounds, buildings, etc. The grounds must be spacious, level and suitable for the exercise of healthy games. The buildings must be well constructed, well lighted and well ventilated. The health of pupils must be protected at all times by providing proper conditions. Second, the teacher. Mr. Lord laid great emphasis upon this part of his address, naming those qualities which he considered most valuable in a teacher, such as personality, knowledge and aptness in teaching. Other things being equal, Mr. Lord pointed out that the teacher with the higher qualifications was the better teacher.

The last point of the address dealt with the curriculum, in which Mr. Lord pointed out how the present course of studies had been arrived at. Subjects were chosen with great care, according to their value in developing the natural gifts and character of the student.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Lord for his able address.

Mr. Welsh outlined the nature of the Parent-Teacher organization and indicated what it could accomplish in this district.

After considerable discussion it was unanimously decided to proceed with the formation of the association.

The following officers were duly elected: President, Mr. J. R. Campbell; vice-president, Mr. Don Davidson; recording sec'y, Miss Elliott; corresponding sec'y, Mrs. Lott; treasurer, Mrs. W. J. Robinson.

The meeting adjourned with the singing of the National Anthem.

The next meeting of the Parent-Teacher association will be held in the latter part of January.

CHRISTMAS MAIL TO OLD COUNTRY

Citizens are advised to mail their Christmas parcels and letters to relatives and friends in the Old Country, before the first week in December, to ensure delivery by the 25th. The charm of a present or the message contained in a letter is lost, or at least partially so, if it arrives late.

The parcel post mails are made up in Winnipeg to be despatched via Halifax, from which port the sailings are on December 3rd and 10th. To assist the local postoffice staff, it is requested that the public will mail their parcels and letters, whenever possible during the afternoons, thus facilitating the making up of outgoing mails. Some fellers lose their best friend by marrying her.

MacKELVIE HAS SECOND MEETING

Addresses Audience in Rialto Theatre Along Same Lines as Speech in Empire Hall.

OPPOSITION POLICY

Sutherland for Tariff But Party Not, Says Speaker—The National Railway Question Discussed.

In spite of the rain which fell on Saturday evening there was a good attendance at the Rialto theatre to hear Mr. J. A. MacKelvie, the National Liberal and Conservative candidate, speak on the political issues of the day.

C. P. Evans, president of the local association, introduced the speaker, and Mr. MacKelvie was listened to with rapt attention by his audience as he laid before them the issues of the day in a clear and concise manner.

Although a large part of his address was very similar to what he had said at his previous meeting in the Empire Hall, a full report of which was given in The Review of the 18th November, the speech, which occupied over an hour, was well received and punctuated with bursts of applause. Speaking of his campaign last year, Mr. MacKelvie stated that after a vigorous and clean fight the contest was concluded with Col. Edgett and himself the best of friends, and he added, Col. Edgett will cast his vote this time for the Meighen candidate.

Commenting upon his opponent in the present campaign, the speaker stated that the situation was a different one, and that although he had nothing but kindly feelings towards Mr. Sutherland, still he had nothing else to do but to criticize his policies and to say some uncomplimentary things about his leader, Mr. MacKenzie King.

Taking up the question of the tariff, Mr. MacKelvie again urged upon the electors the absolute necessity of retaining protection on fruit, and predicted the worthlessness of Okanagan lands in a few years, should the Liberal party get into power. If, he said, there is one part of Canada vitally interested in the tariff question it is British Columbia and especially Summerland.

The speaker pointed out that although Mr. Sutherland had declared himself as in favor of a tariff on fruit, it was ridiculous to suppose that he could swing his whole party round to his opinion and change the policy adopted by the Liberals in August, 1919.

Declaring that the railway situation was the result of the Liberal administration, the government candidate failed to see in what way Mr. Borden could be blamed in the matter, as was charged by the opposition, considering that Mr. Borden was opposed to the undertaking of more transcontinental lines. Some people suggest that the government should have scrapped these railways, but Mr. MacKelvie pointed out that to have done so, would have been to spoil our country's credit, besides putting cities and whole farming districts out of existence. Mr. Sutherland's idea is to accept the Shaugnessy proposal and turn the railways

DRIVE PROPOSED FOR EXTENSIONS

Local Phone Company at Public Meeting Favor Further Capital Being Raised.

Though the meeting was called for the purpose of discussing with those presumably most interested, the question of improved telephone service in the business district of West Summerland, there were very few in attendance at the Telephone Company meeting last Friday night in the Parish Hall.

At present a number of business phones are on party lines and the service is inadequate because of the fact that there are insufficient wires extending from the central to that section.

Mr. H. C. Mellor, president of the company, occupied the chair and explained fully the position of the company and the need for extensions. He hoped before the meeting adjourned some scheme would be devised by which conditions would be improved. The cable running from the power dam to a point near the Bank of Montreal must be lifted and put on poles. Though the best advice had been obtained, experience had shown that it had been a mistake to bury this cable. There are now several pairs of wires in the cable out of business or giving interrupted service because of the peculiar action of the soil on the lead casing of the cable. With the cable on poles these wires could be again brought into service. Fourteen pairs of wires could also be extended from the Campbell corner, where the cable line branches to serve the Giant's Head district.

The cost of this work is estimated at $1200 and the directors would like to undertake it at once, but cannot do so unless the money is assured. He suggested a further sale of stock to provide the additional capital.

Discussing the financial standing of the company, Mr. Mellor stated that the subscribed capital had never been up to the original capital of $6000 in excess of paid-up capital. This extra money had been provided by a loan. The income from rates was only sufficient to carry on and pay a dividend, not enough to provide additional plant. The speaker suggested that if the general users were willing to pay 50c per month extra rental, the company could borrow the money with which to make the extension.

Another way would be to get the municipality to take over the system, as was the original intention. This he believed would effect a saving as one electrician would run both the electric light and telephone systems. The company was organized because the municipality had not then the power to own and operate a telephone system, and there was a tacit understanding that when the municipality obtained the power to do so, it would become a municipal utility. He believed the shareholders would accept municipal bonds in payment.

If additional shares are not sold, or the rates increased, or the system taken over by the municipality, another alternative is to sell out to a company or individual with enough capital to provide the extensions. He declared that the Summerland Telephone Company had saved the Okanagan $150,000 and the people of Summerland from $12,000 to $16,000 or more by entering the field at the

EXPERIENCING DELAY COMPLETING NEW HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER LINES

Still Carload of Material to Arrive From the East Before Line Can Be Completed and the Kootenay Juice Turned In.

DECEMBER TWENTIETH IS NEW DATE

Power Company Making Every Effort to Give Service at Earliest Moment—Municipality Still Awaiting Delivery of Transformers—Route for Pole Line Within Municipality Has Been Established.

Mr. P. R. Brown, engineer with the Okanagan Water Power Company, this week has been surveying the route and marking the site for the poles for the new power line from Trout Creek Canyon to the distributing point near St. Stephen's church. By an arrangement with the electric light committee of the Municipal Council we understand the power company will use the municipal poles from A. Steuart's property in to the centre, and in return, the company will do some construction work along that section for the municipality.

Because of difficulty in obtaining right-of-way, the pole line will not run directly north over the knoll between the K. V. R. bridge and Garnett's corner as originally surveyed, but will follow round by way of the road.

It would now appear that Kootenay power will not be available to Summerland and Pentiction until close to Christmas. Though the power company has been energetically pushing the construction work in connection with the extension up the valley and good progress has been made, unavoidable delay in the delivery of some necessary equipment is likely to interfere with the plans of the company, so that the juice will not be available until the middle of December at the earliest.

Difficulty experienced by the manufacturers in securing tanks of the right size for the transformers being manufactured in the east is the explanation of the set-back.

The car carrying these transformers and all other parts was to have left the east this week. Another car of equipment despatched from Hamilton has arrived at Pentiction, and includes substation machinery comprising lightning arresters, main switch, switch gear, etc.

The transformers are expected about December 12th or 14th, and in the meantime the other machinery will have been installed and everything possible done towards the completion of the lines with the exception of the installing of the transformers. December 20th is the date now set for completion of the system.

Difficulty in obtaining delivery of some of the necessary equipment is delaying the altering of the local electric distributing system as provided for by the recent bylaws.

Municipal Electrician Thornber expects the wire and some other pole line hardware this week, but notwithstanding assurances of prompt delivery, no information has at the time of writing been received that the transformers and street lighting equipment have been shipped from the east. In the meantime, wiring and other work that can be done will be pushed forward so that everything will be in readiness for the other equipment when it arrives.

The power company, early last week, marked the positions for the poles from Trout Creek canyon to the distributing point at the power dam, and it is expected that the line will be in readiness for the juice as soon as the big transformers arrive at the stepping down station.

DAILY MAIL TO OSOYOOS SOUGHT

Desirability of Extending Service to Oroville is Also Pointed Out.

Pentiction.—Settlers in the Osoyoos district, aided by officers of the Pentiction Board of Trade, are endeavoring to obtain daily mail service from this point through to Oroville to replace the present semi-weekly mail to Osoyoos.

Although there is a daily mail service in operation by stage between Pentiction and Fairview, mail to Osoyoos is only carried twice a week. There is no mail service whatever by stage to Oroville, despite the fact that the stage which carries the mail to Osoyoos runs through to the American town. Mail for American points from Pentiction is carried on the railway to Grand Forks and is thence transported three times a week to Spokane, etc. If it went by way of Oroville it would go south from there daily on the Wenatchee train. Thus letters to Spokane would reach that point at least two or three time it did, and preventing another company obtaining an absolute monopoly. He felt sure that the people would not wish the company taken over by the larger one. The system had greatly outgrown the anticipations of the most optimistic who, when it was started, thought at some time there might be 300 phones connected with the local switchboard, but the number had now grown to nearly 400.

Started with the idea that every subscriber should be a shareholder, he now showed that there were many, particularly newcomers, who did not hold stock in the company. A general discussion followed, in which it was shown that there were quite a few business men and others who should be interested in the company. None of the banks had been asked to subscribe. The majority present seemed to favor a drive for further capital and it was agreed that an organized effort along these lines might be made at an early date. With the exception of one year, dividends have been paid on the shares and Mr. Mellor pointed out that the present value of the utility would be much above par value of the shares.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL TEACHER ENGAGED

Mrs. D. J. Welsh Agrees to Carry on Till Christmas to Avoid Break in Routine.

Following the resignation of C. W. Matheson, teacher at the High School, at the end of last week, hurried arrangements were made for Mrs. D. J. Welsh to take over his classes, so that there would be no break in the work of the pupils. This arrangement, it is understood, will be for the balance of the present term till the Christmas holidays.

Mr. C. E. Milley, who is now at Normal School, has been engaged to take the situation left vacant by Mr. Matheson and will commence his duties when school opens in the New Year. Mr. Milley is a recent graduate of the University of British Columbia, and is a specialist in chemistry.

days quicker than under the present arrangement.

Pentiction formerly had a mail service direct by stage to Oroville, but it was cut off soon after the outbreak of the war. It is understood that the American postal authorities would pay part of the cost of such service, in which case the expense of taking mail to Osoyoos daily would naturally be reduced to some extent.

With the development of the south country it is felt by the settlers there that they should be in daily mail communication with Pentiction and that Pentiction and Oroville should also be in daily touch with each other for the benefit of all B. C. and Washington points communicating with each other through this valley.

The matter of increasing the daily mail facilities now existing between Fairview and Pentiction, to cover Osoyoos and Oroville as well, is being taken up with the post office authorities at Vancouver.

A Grand Old Sea Empress

When the Empress of Japan sailed from Vancouver for Yokohama, Kobe, Nagasaki, Shanghai and Hong Kong a short time ago, she started on her one hundred and fifty-fifth voyage. A voyage in steamship parlance is a round trip, or, in other words, until the ship returns to her home port again. The distance from Vancouver to Hong Kong is 7,291 miles, or a total of 14,582 miles to be covered on each voyage. When the Empress of Japan arrived at the port of Vancouver, she established a record for Trans-Pacific voyages. With the completion of her one hundred and fifty-fourth voyage, the Empress of Japan had covered 2,500,000 miles in the Canadian Pacific service, or equal to nearly one hundred times around the globe. In computing this record, there is not taken into her account her four years' war service.

The Empress of Japan was built at the yards of the Naval Construction and Armaments Company at Arrow-Furness, and arrived at Vancouver in 1891. She is a steel twin-screw steamship, three masts, two funnels, of 6,000 tons, is 455.6 ft. in length, 51.2 ft. in breadth, and 33.1 ft. in depth, 100 A-1 according to Lloyd's Register, and is noted for her trim yacht-like appearance. She has enjoyed greater popularity during her entire career than almost any of the smaller class of steamships on either the Atlantic or Pacific.

For thirty years the Empress of Japan has been in constant service without a single mishap to mar her record. Although in her day she was considered the finest of her type afloat, and for two decades was "Queen of the Pacific," she reinquished that honor only when the speedier and larger Empress of Russia and Empress of Asia were added to the Canadian Pacific fleet between Vancouver and the Orient. It is a tribute to the builders of the early days when it is known that the ship's original boilers are still in her hull and doing good service. In fact, the Empress of Japan still maintains a speed of 16½ knots an hour, and on October 8 she made 387 miles in the twenty-four hour period. The Empress of Japan accomplished the last trip from Yokohama to Vancouver in a little less than 12 days, allowing for the meridian day. Some of the crack American liners which have recently entered the Pacific service are considered to have excelled themselves when they cover the distance in from 14 to 15 days.

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

Memorial in Position.

The last portion of the Peachland Soldiers' Memorial monument was put in place on Monday afternoon, November 28th. It is what is known as a granite obelisk, made out of British Columbia granite taken from Nelson Island. The height is 21 feet and the weight eight tons. The concrete base is 8 feet 6 inches square at the bottom and brought in to 4 feet 6 inches at the top. The first granite base is 4 feet 4 inches square and 3 feet 2 inches high. The faces of this section are slightly concave. The shaft, which sits on this is 15 feet 6 inches high, 1 foot 8 inches square at base and tapering to a point at top. The monument has been erected by the Art Monument Co., of Vancouver, B.C., they being a returned soldier company. Mr. J. Whitworth, of Vancouver, secretary of the company, attended to the erection of the monument in person. The site is in the centre of the street between the Edgewater Inn and the home of Mr. L. D. McCall, just a few yards toward the hill from the sidewalk on Beach avenue. The monument looks very well, indeed, and Mr. Whitworth is quite enthusiastic over the position chosen by the committee for the site and believes, with little effort, the street could be made into quite a beauty spot and kept in harmony with the monument. Considerable of the labor was volunteered by citizens and special mention must be made of members of the committee, Mr. A. J. Canada for the Canadians

What Is To Be Canada's Destiny?

Shall it be that through the destruction of the Tariff as proposed by both Crerar and King, the development of Canada is to come under the domination of the United States, to be followed by gradual financial domination and as a consequence, political domination?

OR

Is Canada's destiny to be that of a great free nation within the British Empire group of Nations, developing her boundless resources of mine, river, water power, forest, and cultivating her millions upon millions of acres of arable land? Is her development to surpass that of any other nation?

Shall her manufacturing industries develop her minerals and raw materials into implements and goods for the benefit and comfort of her people and for foreign trade? Shall she become a self-contained nation within the Empire, her great railways interchanging, the products of factory and farm among her own people, and her ships sailing every sea?

Shall she maintain her integrity within the Empire and protect her farms and factories against unfair competition from foreign countries?

IF THIS IS TO BE CANADA'S DESTINY THEN CANADA NEEDS MEIGHEN.

On December 6th, Canada should once again protect her farms, her factories and her workmen against the unsound theory of Free Trade, and should hold fast to her reasonable Protective Tariff, her national entity and her British connection.

On December 6th Canada should declare with no uncertain voice that she will not tolerate the false trade theories of visionaries and group leaders which tend toward her economic destruction, toward the separation of her people and the weakening of the ties that bind Canada to the British Empire.

On December 6th Canada should demonstrate unmistakably to the outside world her fixed determination to keep Canada for the Canadians.

On December 6th Canada's destiny is at stake.

Current Events of Town and District

Mr. J. A. MacKellie, government candidate for this district in the Dominion election, addressed a meeting in Naramata Hall last Friday on the issues of the election.

Mr. MacKellie emphasized the tariff as being the paramount issue before the country and indicated its importance to the fruit-grower by contrasting the position of the fruit-grower here before and after the imposition of a tariff on fruit in 1916. Other industries, he contended, should have a like protection in order to prevent their being crushed by the competition of the much larger industries to the south of the boundary line.

The charge that the present government was under the thumb of the capitalist was refuted by showing that the income tax recently was $69,000,000, most of which had been collected on incomes of considerable size, and 98 per cent, of which came from the urban centres, the home of big business. The charge of militarism was met by showing that the vote of $11,000,000 for defence, was approximately the same as the vote for the same purpose in the last year of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's regime, when costs were much less than at present.

Mr. MacKellie reviewed Mackenzie King's attitude toward the war and conscription, and closed with a tribute to his leader, Mr. Meighen, whom he described as a man head-and-shoulders above any other at Ottawa, of absolute sincerity, and eminently fitted to guide the destinies of Canada in the troublous and critical times through which we are now passing. He spoke of the favorable impression made by him in England recently, and claimed that the holding of the Washington conference was at least partly due to his influence exerted at that time.

Mr. J. M. Robinson occupied the chair and the meeting, which was not very large, gave Mr. MacKellie an attentive and sympathetic hearing.

Miss Wilson and Miss Standen entertained the girls of the two junior divisions of the Canadian Girls in Training at the home of Mrs. Haywood, on Tuesday evening, when a pleasant evening was spent in games and other activities.

The chief business transacted at the monthly meeting of the Unity club on Friday afternoon consisted in making arrangements for the holding of a dinner and dance.

Mrs. Greene played a piano solo during the afternoon and Mrs. Aitkins gave an interesting address on the little theatre, reading freely from an article by Maurice Brown, "The Temple of a Living Art," published in "Drama," and interspersing with her own comment.

Mrs. Frank Rounds and Mrs. Harwood Rounds were hostesses for the afternoon and served tea, while a social hour was spent by the members.

Mrs. Dean Walters, who was seriously ill, and Mrs. W. H. Irvin, who was also confined to her bed by illness, are both able to be about again.

Capt. and Mrs. Languedoc left Tuesday for Quebec and other Eastern points, to be gone till next March.

Mrs. Stokes has returned home from the Summerland hospital with her baby daughter and is slowly regaining strength.

The Naramata Athletic and Gymnastic club started the season's activities on Saturday evening with a dance in Naramata Hall, for the purpose of raising necessary funds for rent, etc. They will use Pavilion Hall during the winter, and practising has already begun there. Any one who would like to take part is asked to give his or her name to Mr. Frank Hughes, president, or Mr. Cyril Raynor, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper left on Wednesday of last week for De Roche, where they will visit Mr. Cooper's brother, proceeding later to Victoria and other coast points for the winter.

Mrs. Gillespie, who has been visiting here for a few months at the home of her son, Mr. F. Manchester, left on Monday for her home in Battle Creek. She goes by way of Toronto and other Eastern points, where she will visit friends.

MIRACLE PICTURE OF 1921—HARDING SENT BY WIRELESS!

Twenty minutes after this moment during President Harding's speech at Annapolis, the accompanying picture was ready for publication in Paris, over 3,000 miles away!

It is not a perfect picture, but IT IS THE FIRST SENT BY WIRELESS and after the first has been sent, as an experiment, there is nothing left to do but to perfect the process.

Incidentally, this is the first time that the picture here shown has been printed in an American newspaper. Popular Science Monthly obtained it from Paris, and this newspaper prints it herewith simultaneously with that magazine, by special arrangement.

The pioneer in photography by wireless is M. Edouard Belin, a Frenchman, and it was his radio apparatus that sent the accompanying picture from Annapolis, Maryland, to Paris, France, a few weeks ago. He has been experimenting for years with machines for sending photographs by telegraph, and he has sent numbers of them over the wires and by cable. Finally, this year, he invented an apparatus to send them by wireless. He brought his machine to America, and when he learned that President Harding was to make a speech to the naval cadets at Annapolis, he connected it with the big wireless station there.

The result was that a paper in Paris had a photograph of the President speaking BEFORE he had concluded his address 3000 miles away.

Correspondence

The Editor Summerland Review:
Dear Sir,—In a recent issue of your paper the following paragraph appeared and as it was entirely erroneous, I ask you to publish in your correspondence column the following letter received from Mr. Norrington on the subject, and which should help to rectify the matter in the minds of your readers. Thanking you for doing this.—

I have to acknowledge receipt of your letter of the 19th instant complaining of the following statement, which appeared in your local paper recently:

"Another matter dealt with while on the spot was a complaint of J. Dunsdon that the municipality had repaired more fluming than was necessary and had billed him with same, following the breaking of the flume by firewood which he had rolled down the mountain side. Foreman Tomlin reported that Mr. Norrington felt that the council had done very fairly by Mr. Dunsdon and that the latter should build a chute over the flume."

The particulars are given in a way which certainly is rather misleading.

My saying that I considered the municipality was dealing fairly with you was in reference to the offer that Mr. Tomlin told me the municipality had made you, that four lengths of the flume would be taken out this fall to enable you to get your logs out. This appeared to me to be a fair way of handling the situation, for the present at any rate, and you appeared satisfied with it.

As regards the matter of payment for damage done by you to the municipal flume, last year, I could offer no opinion without an exhaustive enquiry, and I considered this did not come within the scope of my work. The courts are provided for settling disputes of this kind.

The question of the construction of chute was, I believe, broached by you and my opinion was that the construction of such a chute was entirely at your option.

I have sent a copy of this letter to the municipal clerk.

Yours very truly,
O. F. D. NORRINGTON,
District Engineer.
Yours truly,
J. DUNSDON.

Editor Review:

Dear Sir,—We have read and heard of late quite a lot re codling moth and fire blight, very interesting (if I may say so), as far as it goes, but both these orchard pests are not with us to any serious extent, and every one should be well up in how to handle and control fire blight. Codling moth is a more serious proposition and hard to, at first, find. Who found it at the farm, I wonder, and when was it spotted and in what form?

Now for my point. How is it never a word is spoken by Mr. Hunter and his colleagues of two pests very much with us, and doing much damage—blister mite and woolly aphis. Should they be winter sprayed; if so, with what? Could not the Department of Horticulture, in cases where spraying is to be done, provide outfits to do required work at once, owner finding what department is unable to.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

Montreal.—Canadian bond issues continue to find their way to the United States, another $70,000,000 having been disposed of there within the last couple of weeks. These include $4,750,000 Province of Manitoba, $1,800,000 Province of Nova Scotia and $2,000,000 Province of British Columbia. The total Canadian bond sales for the ten months ending October is $295,000,000, of which 50 per cent. found their way across the line. Between now and the end of the year the Dominion Government will pay out nearly $50,000,000 in interest on Victory and other bonds.

DOMESTIC WATER RATES COLLECTIONS.

It has been the practice of the Municipalities of Summerland and Penticton to collect domestic water rates quarterly. Recently, at the request of the Municipal Clerk, the Summerland Council decided to make semi-annual collections, holding the property served directly responsible for payment.

In this connection it is interesting to note that last week the Municipal Council of Penticton changed from quarterly to monthly collections, the object stated being to lessen losses that were experienced through the quarterly method of billing.

Apparently there is no thought there of making the landlord responsible for water supplied tenants.

ADVERTISEMENTS AND NEWS MATTER.

All newspaper publishers experience the same trouble as Editor Rose so deftly handles in the following editorial in his last issue:

Our rural correspondents are constantly being asked to insert notices of an advertising nature in their news notes, and for various reasons they have found it difficult to refuse, with the result that their matter usually contains advertisements which, if handed in separately to The Courier office, would be charged for. We have decided that this must come to an end, and in future any such notices will be published in the "Announcements" column only, at 15 cents per line.

Many people seem quite unable to distinguish between news matter and advertisements, and they seem to consider that an announcement of a coming event is news; it is not, it is an advertisement pure and simple. On the other hand, a report of an event that has taken place is news.

Others labour under the belief that the fact of being subscribers gives them privileges of free advertising, but they probably do not realize that the subscriptions barely pay for the paper and ink and that if it were not for the advertisements there would be no Courier.

Our correspondents have been placed under certain responsibility in the past as to the acceptance of notices, but we are advising them that we are now relieving them of such, and that only strictly news matter will be published in their notes in future.

"THE SHAME OF THE WORLD."

A publisher, about to sell the writings of a noted scolder, in book form, advertises its contents as "the shame of the world." In other words, it is deemed attractive, for money-making purposes, to blazon over the country the fact that the world has shame.

What's the matter with us Twentieth Century folk anyway? Why is it that so many of us are always knocking something, always looking for the bad in everything, always ready to believe that wrongs are advancing on us, always suspicious of some abomination or other?

The "shame of the world," forsooth! Most certainly there is shame in the world—always has been and always will be as long as it is inhabited by human people. But there is ten thousand times more chastity, ten thousand times more good on this earth than there is shame, and there always will be—BECAUSE THIS EARTH IS INHABITED BY DECENT HUMAN PEOPLE.

Rules are made to have exceptions. There is no rule where there is no exception. The human heart in the mass is sound and moral and lovable. In only the exceptional human is the heart shameful. And that's all there is to it.

Habit does a lot of things. Habit will even change the heart. If it is going to be a habit with the mass of us to look for shame, cussedness and general infamy, we may be sure that the filth will cling to us and it may even turn into a cancer afflicting the whole.

Big Game Hunters on Long Trail to Yukon

Are you planning to hunt big game in the Yukon this season? If so, have you engaged your guides? If you have not, lose no more time in doing so. Guides are none too plentiful in the far north and both guides and transportation are being booked by what promises to be the biggest bunch of hunters that have gone to the Yukon. A report has just come out from one of Yukon's best known guides, to the effect that caribou are more plentiful than heretofore known and are ranging in great droves. The two principal districts are the Klunne-White River and the McMillan River sections, the start for either is made from White Horse. McMillan district is reached by an all-water route, the White River wholly by land. Outfitting should contract for services as early as possible. Hunting in the Yukon is an expensive sport, but this makes it all the more attractive to the sportsmen who can afford it. The limited number of hunters who visit this vast, rich country are sure to get good bags. Head guides command from $12 to $15 per day, while second guides, cooks, canoe men and helpers get from $7 to $10 per day. The cost of a Yukon hunting trip will total from $3,500 to $5,000 for a fifty day trip. This sum is, of course, exclusive of cost of transportation in reaching the Yukon, which includes a three and one-half days voyage by way of the Inside Passage along the coast of British Columbia from Vancouver to Skagway.

A THANKSGIVING HYMN.

When ripeness crowns the fruitful fields, and the bins has took their toll, a million comforts stand revealed to cheer our inmost soul. And so, this fittin' hour has come to doff our lids and say, "These blessings pure from a Higher Power inspires Thanksgiving Day."

We ain't been what we might abeen, such weaklings are we, nor realized the state we're in, so close to eternity! And therefore it becomes us well, with these poor forms of clay, to sanctify the place we dwell with glad Thanksgiving Day.

Contrite because of wrongs we've did, repentant knees we bend, well-knowin' that no deeds is hid from the blessed Lord, our friend. . . . Considerin' what he'd done for us, our best is but meager pay. Let's tell him so, in harmony plus, this glad Thanksgiving Day.

From Uncle John's

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1921.

What a wonderful fellow that man is who "never makes a mistake." You know him. We all have at least one on our acquaintance list. He cannot conceive that it is human to err, and therefore he permits no one, from the wife down, to doubt anything he says or does. A characteristic of this mighty man is that he insists on personally doing everything that is to be done in his vicinity because there's nobody who can do it right, or anyhow as well as he. We just simply hold our breath in fear of what will happen to the community when he dies. Of course, everything will go to smash. Of course!

There are too many of us who are always saying "I ought to do this" or "I ought to do that." Boys, don't get into that habit; it's too risky. You may easily become a failure through it. The real man says "I shall do this" or "I shall do that."

That Word "Afford."

When a merchant talks about "affording" advertising, he is getting ready for the live merchant to take his trade away from him. Attention is directed to the basketball games to be held in the College Gym on Thursday, December 8th, when Summerland ladies, intermediates and seniors meet the corresponding Kelowna teams. For particulars see our advertising columns.

The dance given by the Ladies' Hospital Auxilliary on Thursday was well attended and much enjoyed by all, and over $50 was cleared towards hospital expenses. The music, under the direction of Mr. Peck, was of the usual excellent standard.

Mr. and Mrs. W. White arrived in Summerland this morning from Moncton, N.B., having gone through to the coast and returning by way of K. V. R. At present they are guests at the home of Mrs. White's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. English.

At the exhibition held in Montreal a short while ago by the Canadian Women's Handicraft Guild, the name of Mrs. W. Kerr, of Summerland, is mentioned in the Montreal Star as the winner of a prize for the most original piece of work done in wool. Mrs. Kerr's entry was a market bag of her own design, and as the competition was Dominion wide, congratulations are in order, in which The Review joins.

Rev. J. S. Pirie, for three years pastor of the Kerrisdale Baptist church, is coming to Summerland next week with the intention of making his home here, having resigned his pastorate. Considerable publicity was given his church recently through their purchasing and moving from Coquitlam a church building, referred to in the coast papers as the Baptist Ark, because of the long voyage it made by way of the Fraser river. Mrs. Pirie is a cousin of Mrs. J. H. Bowering, and they have visited here in past seasons.

Mr. Stahlschmidt, who has been with the Canadian Bank of Commerce since Mr. Bird's accident, has been removed to Vancouver and Mr. W. B. Wilson has been sent here from the Esquimalt Branch, Victoria.

Although there is no snow on the lower levels there has been a heavy fall of snow in the hills. The Review was informed this week by R. Johnston that there was about a foot of snow in Meadow Valley and 18 inches at Fish Lake.

An excellent program has been arranged for by the Rialto Theatre for the next few weeks. A number of the features are of the first order, and are costing the management quite a sum. They are securing these first-class pictures, believing that they will be fully appreciated by the theatre-going public.

The activities relating to the Xmas season are already in evidence. This week the babies' branch of the Women's Auxilliary of St. Stephen's Church assembled and forwarded to the Indian Mission at Hazelton, B.C., a large bale of toys. Until this work was taken up by the little ones three years ago, the Indian children at Hazelton had never seen a Christmas tree, and much credit is due to the thoughtfulness of those responsible for that work.

SELL LAND FOR WATER RATES

New Order Will Remove All Doubts as to Municipal Right in This Respect.

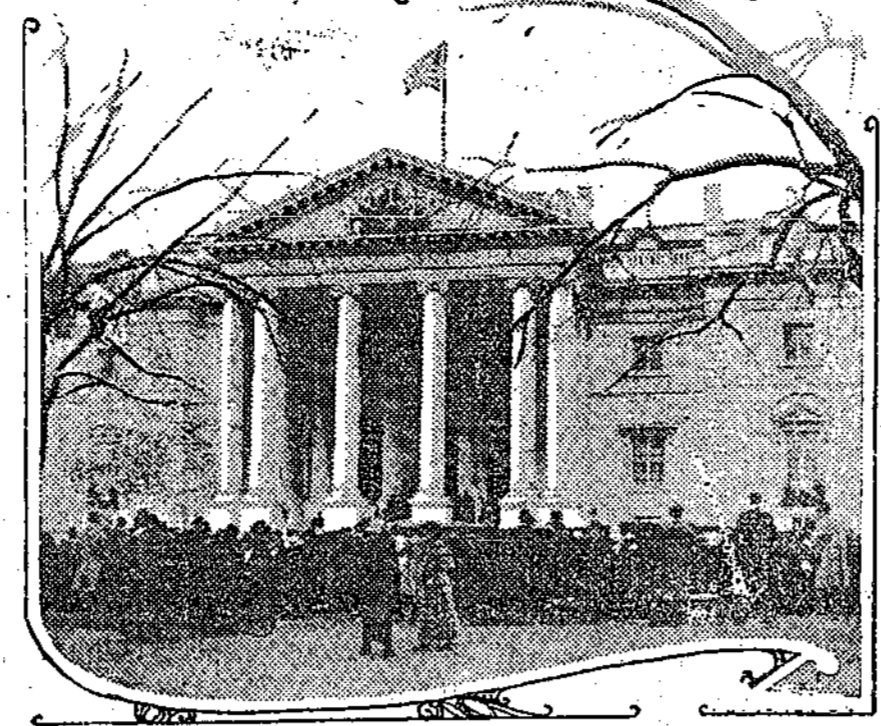

Any doubt as to the rights of municipalities to sell land for arrears of irrigation taxes is being removed by the action of the provincial authorities.

Says the Penticton Herald in a recent issue:

"It appears that doubt as to the true situation in which the municipality stands with regard to water and irrigation matters will soon be cleared up. Communications were received on Monday evening at the meeting of the municipal council from the water rights branch of the department of lands dealing with the matter. The first communication demanded the payment of fees in respect to rentals amounting to $1725.97. The second included a conditional conveying license No. 5728, dated November 14th, 1921, issued in respect to the municipalities irrigation rights."

The above mentioned license definitely establishes the right of municipalities to sell land for non-payment of irrigation rates.

CANADIAN NEWS

Saskatoon, Sask.—Until two years ago Saskatchewan imported carloads of eggs periodically but this position has rapidly been reversed since then and the province finds it necessary to find outside markets for their heavy annual surplus of eggs. The bulk go to Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal. A new Egg Marketing Act provides for rigid inspection before export.

Moose Jaw, Sask.—A special train of livestock, including thirty cars from the Matador ranch near Wiseton, left recently on their way to England. The Matador consignment is part of ninety cars from the same ranch destined for export trade. Cattle shipments from all over the west to the British Isles are increasing rapidly.

Calgary.—In the view of officials and others who are keeping in close touch with the movements in and out of the United States and are familiar with conditions as between the United States and Canada, increased immigration into Western Canada from the middle west and Northwest is expected to be marked in the next year or two, perhaps for a longer period, according to despatches from Washington. Agricultural depression following the purchase of "high priced lands" by many farmers is given as the principal reason.

Windsor, N.S.—A car containing 500 cases of evaporated apples has been shipped to Antwerp by the Nova Scotia Evaporators, Limited. The shipment went via Montreal. There is a prospect of a further movement of this commodity through New York.

Kentville, N. S.—Orchardists of Nova Scotia have just completed the gathering of one of the largest and cleanest crops of apples in the history of the province which will run up to a million and three-quarter barrels, worth $5,000,000 to the growers, according to George E. Graham, general manager of the Dominion Atlantic Railway. The trees, he states, are going into the winter in excellent condition with fine prospects for the next season.

Winnipeg.—Manitoba's population has increased from 461,190 in 1911 to 613,008 in 1921, an increase of 32.92 per cent., according to the census figures just issued. The City of Winnipeg's population is now 178,364, compared with 136,035 in 1911, an increase of 31.12 per cent. The City of St. Boniface increased from 7,483 in 1911, to 12,816 in 1921, an increase of 71.20 per cent. Brandon increased from 13,839 in 1911 to 15,359 in 1921, an increase of 10.89 per cent. Portage la Prairie increased from 5,892 in 1911 to 6,748 in 1921, an increase of 14.60 per cent.

Winnipeg.—Beaver farming can be promoted to a source of revenue amounting to $500,000 annually to the farmers of Manitoba, according to Colonel J. G. Rattray, Commissioner of Manitoba Provincial Police. He states that the depredations of beavers on private lands can be checked and the colonies transformed into valuable beaver farms if the farmers utilize the existing statutory regulations for their preservation. Closed seasons on beaver have resulted in the establishment of many new colonies of the valuable fur-bearing and have also demonstrated that the beavers will thrive well in settled districts. There has been great interest shown throughout the western provinces recently in establishing beaver ranches.

EXHIBIT APPLES FROM TREE PLANTED IN 1826

Vancouver, Wash., Claims It Is Oldest Bearing Tree in the United States.

Vancouver, Wash.—Apples of the famous old apple tree growing in Vancouver barracks are being exhibited at the fruit exposition in Seattle. The apple tree was planted in 1826. So far as known, it is the oldest bearing tree in the United States. The seeds for the old apple tree were brought around Cape Horn in a sailing vessel in 1826, by Hudson's Bay Trading company officers, and planted the following spring. Thirteen trees grew, but all have died except one which still is fairly healthy. It is fenced off in the barracks. Specimens of the apple have been secured and wax duplicates made for the Smithsonian institution.

ALICE LAKE STARS IN "THE GREATER CLAIM"

"The Greater Claim," a Metro special starring adorable Alice Lake, comes to the Rialto Theatre on Saturday, as the feature attraction. This story will be welcomed by the many who know Alice Lake's splendid achievements. She plays the part of Mary Smith, the Follies beauty, married by young and wealthy "Chuck" Everard. The latter is kidnapped by his irate father and shipped to sea, and Mary takes to Broadway's cabaret life, in revenge. Then her child, through strange circumstances, becomes adopted into its grandfather's home, where it proves the means of reconciliation, but only after a shrewd Solomon's choice foils the intrigue of two adventurers.

U. S. APPLE CROP SHOW A DECREASE

Barrel Apple States Are Less But Box Section Record Increase.

Washington. — Commercial apple yields are reported as 13,563,000 barrels by the November 1 estimate of the Bureau of Crop Estimates, a decrease from last month's figures of 1,203,000 barrels. This has come despite the increase, which is shown in the box apple producing states and has been caused by a reduction of the prospects in the barrel producing sections. The yield of commercial apples in the West and Northwest, which comprise the box apple section, will be 11,632,000 barrels, according to the estimate, with the diminishing production in the barrel sections now figured at but 6,931,000 barrels. The present 13,563,000 barrel yield is in contrast with a commercial crop last year of 26,272,000 barrels and in 1919 of 26,223,000 barrels.

The agricultural yield, which includes both farm and commercial crops, is estimated November 1 as 102,290,000 bushels in contrast with 240,442,000 bushels as the final estimate in 1920 with a 153,238,000 bushel estimate in 1919.

PROVIDES FURTHER FOR MUNICIPALITIES

New Bills Give Increase in Motor Licenses and Race Course Tax to Municipalities.

Victoria.—According to bills introduced in the legislature by Hon. John Hart, minister of finance, all the tax, estimated to produce $250,000, collected from the pari-mutuels, is to be divided among the municipalities. The increase from motor licenses, which is expected to be about $400,000, is also to go entirely to the municipalities. In the bill, which provides for a tax on pari-mutuel winnings and amusement tax in connection with race meets, there is a provision that the minimum amount which can be collected by the government as an amusement tax is ten cents. The pari-mutuel tax will be five per cent. on all money placed.

WHAT IS GREATEST WEAPON AGAINST DEFEAT?

"Mickey" Illustrates Attainment.

The great asset a sense of humor is to life, through every hardship and suffering, joy and sorrow, is wonderfully illustrated in the famous photoplay "Mickey," to be shown at the Rialto Theatre, next week. In bleeding France, in England, Belgium—in fact in all Europe they have borne their burdens because they can grin, too. Their newspapers can even joke about the gravest hardships.

Mickey, a lonely waif, with all circumstances against her, proves that her endurance triumphs only because it is supported by her own natural appreciation of the humor of situations. She knows how to separate the petty from the really big things in life, and how to laugh away the small while accomplishing the great things. Mickey graphically shows that she has learned, even under the most strenuous trials, to see the humor of it all, and to laugh genuinely—the greatest weapon against defeat.

Mickey is a mischievous little girl, bubbling over with a sunshine and joy that is contagious. She is weighed down with cruelties that might have broken and scarred many, but she knows how to laugh through her tears. She is continually looking for something funny in every situation. Just as Pollyana looks for something to be glad about even in the worst predicaments.

Mickey and Pollyana, however, illustrate two distinct types of philosophy. Mickey keeps advancing, she is never just satisfied and content with things as they are. Yet she is always smiling and happy with the very joy of just smiling.

Whether we know it or not, we all believe to a certain extent in the Mickey philosophy. If we did not, if we could see only the utter grimness of things as they really are in so many tear-stained countries, if we could not pick out the bright and sunny spots in these war-ridden lives, we would just naturally have to die of grief, or insanity. Measure yourself. Have you ever thought to what degree you are a Mickey philosopher?

SOME CANADIAN AUTHORS OF TO-DAY

If any evidence were required of the growing interest in Canadian literature, one need only point to the remarkable progress of the Canadian Authors' Association, which already numbers over seven hundred members, although it was organized only eight months ago. So far as poetry is concerned, Canada ranks exceptionally high in the world of poetry, with names such as Bliss Carman to her credit. In the world of fiction Arthur Stringer, Ralph Connor, L. M. Montgomery, Basil King, Bertrand Sinclair, Isabel Ecclestone Mackay, Madge Macbeth, and Frank L. Packard, are only a few of an army of popular novelists. Life on the prairies has been admirably depicted by Janey Canuck (Judge Emily Murphy), Nellie McClung, Robert Stead, and Sargeant Ralph Kendall with his stories of the North-West Mounted Police. Among those who have written of the life of the wild, Charles G. D. Roberts, Arthur Heming, W. A. Fraser, Archie P. McKishnie, and Ernest Thompson Seton, at once come to mind, while Stefansson is one of the world's greatest explorer-authors. Marshall Saunders, who wrote "Beatrice's Joe" is famous as a sympathetic interpreter of animal life. F. W. Wallace is one of our best known authors of sea stories, and H. A. Cody has an immense following among boys. Among the humorists, Stephen Leacock and Peter McArthur stand exceptionally high. The chief object of the Canadian Authors' Association is to create a wider interest among Canadians themselves in their own literature. It has an official organ called the "Canadian Bookman". It has helped to organize Canadian Authors' Week for the third week in November, in which libraries and bookstores will make special displays of Canadian books, and it has conducted a vigorous campaign for the improvement of Copyright conditions in Canada.

BASKETBALL

Superior footwork through better acquaintance with a slippery floor and a more intimate knowledge of the position of the baskets, seems to be the chief reason why our local players had to take a bad "jacking" on Monday, when they journeyed to Kelowna to try their skill against the city teams, although being "sports" our boys and girls are bound to admit they were beaten fairly by their opponents.

The results of the games, 22 to 5 in the case of the boys, and 15 to 7 in the case of the girls, tend to show a little superior work on the part of the latter, for which we are glad to give them credit, but these figures are expected to be just exactly reversed when the Kelowna teams journey down to Summerland next week, bringing their senior, intermediate, and ladies' teams for a try-out on home ground.

Leaving in the afternoon the local young people, accompanied by quite a few supporters per Capt. Roe's boat, had a good time at Kelowna, finishing up the evening with a dance, and got back to town in the early hours of the morning.

A communication has been received from Penticton and it is expected that a league will be formed between that city and Summerland, Naramata and Kelowna.

THE NEWSPAPER

There are some people, says a contemporary, who take the view that a newspaper is a garbage bucket into which anything may be dumped. Mistake No. 1. There are some people who think that a newspaper is published only to serve their selfish interest and throw the harpoon into the other fellow. Mistake No. 2. There are some people who think that a newspaper should print what is obviously advertising matter without a single cent of compensation. Mistake No. 3. There are many other similar mistakes with regard to the publication of a newspaper, but these will answer for the moment.

A newspaper is not duty bound to print anything that it doesn't want to print. There is no rule that requires it to print something of absolutely no news value just because somebody wants it printed. It is not obliged to effusively laud some person where laudation is not earned, nor to lambaste some individual where adverse criticism is not deserved. It is not printed for the purpose of satisfying selfish motives. There is not the remotest reason why it should give away its space to somebody who is running something for monetary benefit.

The mission of a newspaper is to print news of general interest. Advertising is not news. Something concerning a single individual is not news. An article skinning some private enemy or opponent is not news. Numerous other things of a like nature that find their way into a newspaper office are not news. It is not hard for a trained newspaper man to draw the distinguishing line. It is not hard for anybody to draw the distinguishing line if they will stop a moment and give the matter logical thought.

True it is that a newspaper gives away much, especially where charity is concerned, but it does not follow that the publisher should adopt charity as an established custom and open the door freely to all comers. Space is the only thing that a newspaper has to sell, and the publisher who gives it away is no wiser than the merchant who gives away a hat or a suit of clothes to the man who comes into his store and asks for them.

Port Arthur, Ont.—A record was made here recently in loading a grain cargo. The steamer Westmount docked at 6.30 p.m. at the Saskatchewan elevator, loading was commenced at 7 o'clock, and at midnight 335,000 bushels of grain were in the hold of the ship. Only four scales were used in loading.

$170,000 REALIZED BY SALE OF POPPIES

Ottawa.—More than $80,000 will go to the French Children's League as a result of the Poppy Day campaign in Canada, carried through under the auspices of the G. W. V. A., is was announced at Dominion command headquarters. At the same time $90,000 remains in the hands of the various branches of the association to be used for the relief of unemployment among returned soldiers during the winter. These funds will not be used for any other purpose. The success of the campaign can be judged by the fact that more than 1,050,000 poppies were sold.

NOT SO INNOCENT AS WOULD APPEAR

That appearances are sometimes deceptive seems to be the case in regard to James Brown, who, it will be remembered, some weeks ago held up the cashier of the Bank of Oroville, and was subsequently captured within a few hours by the Canadian Police, and afterwards sentenced to the penitentiary from eight to fifteen years. At the time of his capture, the gun-man gave the impression that he was new to the game, but according to the Okanagan Independent, Brown came near to making his getaway before being taken to Walla Walla. By some means he had procured steel saws and a file, and succeeded in filing off a bolt on one of the doors of the jail, and but for the presence of his guards would have probably made his escape.

PROPOSE TO GET POWER FROM SHUSWAP FALLS

Armstrong.—Hydro-electric power from the Shuswap Falls near Enderby, is being strongly advocated for the North Okanagan valley. Unlimited power is known to be available at this immense cascade, and business men of Salmon Arm, Enderby, Armstrong and Vernon are interesting themselves in a practical plan to develop it.

It is doubtful if any one city or town in the north end of the Okanagan valley could profitably establish and operate a plant at Shuswap Falls but the proposal to incorporate that section of B. C. into a single hydro-electric county and issue bonds on the credit of the combined territory, sounds feasible. In this way necessary capital can be raised and a system covering the whole territory can be installed.

The press of the North Okanagan is widely advertising the proposed union for hydro-electric purposes and it is confidently expected that arrangements will shortly be entered into for the establishment of an immense power plant at Shuswap Falls.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CLARIFYING WATER

People who use cisterns for storing water during the winter, will be interested in the following methods of clarifying, which are recommended by the state water survey of the University of Illinois as having been found entirely satisfactory.

Dissolve one half pound soda ash in one gallon of water. If only washing soda is available, dissolve about 1 1/2 pounds. Add one half pint to each 30 gallons of rain water.

Dissolve one half pound filter alum in one half gallon of water. If only ordinary alum is available dissolve one pound. Add one quarter pint to each 30 gallons of rain water.

These two solutions added to a colored cistern water will in 24 hours remove the coloring matter and give a clear water. A sediment will settle in the bottom which must be kept from the clear water above.

If the water can be treated on a large scale in a cistern dissolve one pound of alum in a pail or more of water and one half pound of soda in another pail of water and add to the cistern. Care must be taken not to stir up the sediment which settles on the bottom.

WE'RE ALL LOPSIDED.

There is scarcely a man or woman who has not one shoulder a little lower than the other. The low shoulder is generally the right, for the droop is caused by using one hand and arm more than the other. Usually the muscles of the right side are better developed than those of the left; but, curiously enough, the left foot is often larger than the right.

As a rule the right eye is better than the left, whilst if we wish to catch an indistinct sound, it is always the right ear that we turn towards it.

MacKELVIE HAS SECOND MEETING

over to the C. P. E., but that is not the policy of his party, said Mr. MacKelvie. What is needed is more business, more population, and more production and these railways will become a great asset to Canada.

Asserting that this country owes Sir Joseph Flavelle more than it can ever repay, for the way in which he handled his position during the war, the speaker went on to describe how the government, who had been charged with being tied up to the big interests, had only allowed the packers a profit of 7 per cent, which no one could say was unreasonable.

Scoring Mr. MacKenzie King on his war record, Mr. MacKelvie pointed out the outstanding statesman-like qualities of his leader, and asked for the support of the electors of Yale on the 6th December because he was supporting the policy laid down by the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

The singing of the National Anthem and cheers for Mr. MacKelvie brought an interesting meeting to a close.

Take Needle From Heart.

Modern science triumphed over what once would have been a fatal accident when a small sewing needle was removed from the heart of two-year-old Dawson Sardles of Minneapolis. The youngster is expected to recover.

ALL FOR ONE—ONE FOR ALL.

Now that the Dominion election is over, and the frothing and fuming of the political pot has simmered down to nearly normal, and the strong partisan spirit so prominent during pre-election days has no more excuse for being, it will be well for the citizens of the whole of Canada to settle down to the plan of working as one body for the prosperity of the Dominion, by giving the government chosen on Tuesday a fair and impartial trial during the tenure of their office.

True, there are those who are disappointed with the results of the election, and are inclined to think that Canada has acted like a spoiled child in repudiating the late government, while on the other hand there are those who rejoice in an apparent "restoration of good old times." Whether this be so or not, remains to be seen, but one thing is pretty sure, that Canada is still the same old grand country, the pride of her residents, and still has statesmen capable of steering the ship of state and wise enough to be guided by the wishes of the Canadian people. That we can depend on sane business judgment to prevail in such matters as the tariff on fruits we can rest assured.

ALWAYS A BRIGHT SIDE.

I used to think the Devil dwelt in subterranean den, and stoked his hellish fires to melt the stubborn souls of men. I used to picture out the fiend, in childhood's fertile dreams, and almost fancied I could hear his scorching victim's screams. . . . Therefore, I lived a decent life, and always toted fair; I think I've done enough of good to keep me out of there. . . . But still, in spite of all I've done, and all I've said and wrote,—in spite of others' heavy loads, that I have had to tote,—I sometimes can't evade the thought, how easy 'tis, to slip, and scoot into the Devil's joint, and terminate my trip. . . . If that should be my mournful end, I'd try to grin and bear it,—but I know a few old stingarees who will be on hand to share it.

MAKES PLEA FOR STARVING RUSSIA

Soviet Sympathizer, Recent Visitor to Russia, Endorses Russian Government.

On behalf of the Canadian Famine Relief Committee for the drought-stricken in Soviet Russia, Mr. J. Knight addressed a fair gathering in the Rialto theatre on Wednesday night.

Mr. Knight, who has been associated with the Labor movement for a number of years, recently returned from a visit to Russia, where for a few months, he was the guest of the Soviet Government.

In making his plea for the starving people in the famine stricken area, the speaker described the appalling conditions prevailing in the country, and told how, with fifteen millions slowly starving to death, from two to three millions would not be saved even with the strenuous efforts made by the relief committee in Canada and the United States.

Outlining the conditions which led up to the present state of affairs in Russia, the speaker blamed the attitude and actions of other nations as contributing to a large extent to the distress prevailing in the soviet country, and asserted that it was really not an act of charity but of duty on the part of the civilized world to come to the rescue of Russia in its distress.

The speaker continued at some length on the general conditions in Russia as he found them. The disorders and bloodshed since November, 1917, he attributed entirely to military adventurers with the aid of outside gold. He claimed that the Soviet was the most powerful and stable administration in the world, and that, in spite of their terrible sufferings and hardships, the people were not only satisfied with the administration but were a unit in support of Lenin and Trotsky. Some people, he said, blamed the Soviet for the conditions in Russia, but he assured his audience these conditions prevailed in spite of the Soviet and not because of it.

Describing some of the details of the administration, he explained that under Lenin about 200,000 Commissioners had been appointed, each one he asserted, a genius in his department.

At the close of the address a committee was appointed of J. W. S. Logie, A. B. Elliott, T. Herman and R. Pollock, to take charge of local contributions and forward them to the headquarters of the committee. Whatever opinions might be held regarding the views of the speaker, his appeal for the starving Russians met with a ready response, the sum of $50 being contributed by those present.

COMING TO RIALTO.

A sledge-hammer blow is delivered against conviction on circumstantial evidence in "The City of Silent Men," the new Paramount picture, starring Thomas Meighan, which is shown at the Rialto theatres this week. The production is founded on John Moroso's novel, "The Quarry." Mr. Meighan plays the role of a small town youth who is made the tool of murderers and sent to the prison for a crime of which he is innocent. The photoplay shows prison life in all its phases and is a throb with heart interest and appeal. Mr. Meighan has in this one of the strongest roles he has portrayed in many a month and he is ably supported by such players as Lois Wilson, Kate Bruce, Paul Everton, George McQuarry and Guy Oliver.

A Gift That Lasts for a Year.

There can be no more acceptable present to former residents of Summerland, Peachland or Naramata than a copy of their old home paper. Those who have relatives or friends who formerly made their home here should subscribe for a copy of The Review to be mailed to those friends and relatives. It is a present that lasts throughout the year, and a most valuable present to the recipient even if the cost is not great. Residents could send the paper to relatives at a distance even if those relatives have never lived here, for the paper takes the place of a letter and everybody is careless about writing, anyhow. Then the item of advertising the towns and valley should be taken into consideration. Send the paper this month.

Champion and Belle of Georgia are netting growers 84c and 51c for ones and twos, respectively, while for Triumphs, 74c and 40c is being paid.

HEAR LIBERAL CANDIDATE HERE

(Continued from Page 1). The Indians should be grouped on one or two reserves and the remainder of their land used for the benefit of the soldiers, the Indians, however, to get all the benefits of houses, schools, churches, etc.

Mrs. McGregor, of Penticton, followed with a brief address, chiefly directed to the ladies, outlining their rights and privileges in relation to provincial and federal elections.

L. W. Makovski followed, and in a very humorous and entertaining manner, discussed some of the leading questions of the campaign.

Dealing with the railroad situation he told his hearers that he felt all along there was something wrong with the development of the land, and when he discovered that, last year, 118 millions went into the national railway system, he thought he had found the explanation. Discussing the various proposals in connection with the railways, the speaker said that Sir Joseph Flavelle's plan was to form a company, giving the government common stock each year for the annual deficit and preferred stock for the capital expenditures.

According to Flavelle's figures, last year's operating deficit was $36,000,000, to which must be added eighty-two millions in fixed charges. He contended that Sir Joseph wanted to hand the railways back to the same boards the country had rescued from ruin in 1917. All these directors were also directors of other companies supplying railways with materials, etc. The speaker referred to the propaganda for public ownership of railways and declared that it looked to him very much like a scheme for milking Canada. He cited the case of Flavelle as being on the board of the railways and also on the directorate of protected industries supplying equipment to the national railways. He thought that, if we could get the railway question satisfactorily settled we would soon be able to capture much of the export trade recently lost by the United States.

The meeting terminated with the singing of the National Anthem.

Even a wise man can't always tell when a woman laughs whether she really means it or is merely trying to show off a dimple to advantage.

NORTH OKANAGAN MAY INCORPORATE HYDRO-ELECTRIC

There is talk of North Okanagan, unorganized and organized portions, incorporating as a county for the purpose of issuing bonds and developing and operating a hydro-electric plant. Of this the Commoner, Enderby, says:

"All indications point to the proposed county incorporation for hydro-electric development idea being taken up readily by the North Okanagan, and a meeting of mayors and Reeves and other business men may be expected to be called as soon as the project can take definite shape.

"Men are beginning to realize what such a project would mean to this district. With every municipality and all the territory between linked up under one hydro-electric system, with an abundance of electric energy for manufacturing, transportation, heating, lighting and power purposes, the possible, probable, development of the Valley is seen to be beyond compare.

"All the problems which the towns and cities within the district are now faced with would disappear, and a clear road to rapid development would be opened not only for the incorporated municipalities and towns, but for the present unincorporated territory as well.

Some years ago the Shuswap Falls power site was taken up by the Coquitlam Power Company, an off-shoot of the Canadian Northern Railway. The C. N. R. fell into the hands of the Dominion Government and is now operated as the Canadian National. With the other assets of the C. N. R. all rights of the company in this power site should come back to the people, since the people have had to assume the debts of the defunct railway promoters."

Victoria, B. C. — The announcement that the zinc production of the Trail Smelter, Canadian Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., this year will be the largest in the history of the plant has been received with much interest in British Columbia mining circles. The output is said to be nearly 50 per cent. above that of last year. A market has been found in the Orient, important shipments having been made to the East recently, thus relieving the surplus stock situation.

Canada has the largest agricultural implement industry in the British Empire—the Massey-Harris, Toronto.

To the Editor of The Review:

Dear Sir,—In answer to "Ratepayer."

The codling moth was found by the assistant superintendent in horticulture, in the fall, when harvesting apples. It was found in the larva stage in the apple. It was at once sent to Vernon to be classified, as the codling worm is very hard to distinguish from other worms not so destructive to the apple and I would ask "Ratepayer" and all other orchardists to do likewise if they find any apples with worms in them and notify Mr. Tait, local inspector, at once. As soon as found, every wind-fall was picked up and destroyed and all boxes that might harbor any worms were burnt. This pest, if we hope to control it, must be looked on as the most dreaded of all orchard pests, fire blight probably coming next in importance owing to the rapidity with which it spreads and the difficulty in controlling it.

"Ratepayer" could not have attended two very well advertised and important meetings, one last February when blister mite was very thoroughly discussed, and woolly aphids was also taken up and again in November when Mr. Hunter told us that another series of meetings will be held in the near future to discuss other matters. Ricker mounds of codling moth will be on view in schools and other public places for education of growers. Life history and control methods will be taken up at our next meetings. "Ratepayer" would be well advised to get in touch with Mr. Tait, who has done good work with blister mite control.

At a recent meeting of the Okanagan Horticultural club, the spray calendar was revised and will probably be published at an early date and I only wish "Ratepayer" had signed his proper name, as then we could have made a point to get in touch with him and advise him on proper methods and we would have had his name for a revised calendar. Your Provincial and Dominion Officers are at your service for advice and help—write, phone, or better still, come and see us, as we are trying to serve the valley.

Yours very truly,
R. H. HELMER,
Superintendent.

To the Editor of The Review:

Dear Sir,—I wonder if your correspondent, "Ratepayer," has taken a reasonable interest in the various horticultural and allied lectures and meetings which have been run here by the government departments? If so, then he must have heard both "blister mite" and "woolly aphids" discussed and their treatment given. The last meeting addressed by Mr. Hunter was called purely for the discussion of "codling moth" and "fire blight," but had "Ratepayer" been present he could have had his doubts dispelled as regards treatment of his two particular troubles, as many questions in no way related to "codling moth" or "fire blight," were asked and replied to.

I do not understand how citizens of Summerland can remain in doubt as to the treatment of any known tree trouble with the Dominion Experimental Station actually at hand. A phone call will get all the information required, and it is a matter of amazement to me that any fruit grower, without special technical training, should risk tackling any doubtful orchard problems without making use of the expert advice to be had—it won't cost him anything, but rather will add to his income.

Yours faithfully,
"SWAT THE BUG."

To the Editor of The Review:

Dear Sir,—In regard to the electric light utility. In last week's Review you state: "Garnett Valley is the only district outside the area at present covered by the electric light service that really desires an extension of that public utility."

I think you are in error in drawing that conclusion, and, furthermore, I think it is unjust to the remainder of the municipality to draw such a conclusion. I have a very different opinion. I think that practically the whole of the community would like to have electric light installed in their homes and along the public roads. The resulting applications for electric light are no more than might have been expected after the statements which were made at the recent public meeting. The impression went forth at that meeting that the cost of installation in any but the nearest districts, would make that utility prohibitive to those ratepayers and, utterly disappointed, they dismissed the possibility of having it from their minds.

The recent cryptic announcements concerning applications, etc., gave no clearer hope. I do not scruple to declare, Sir, that the policy of the council in regard to the so-called electric light utility is seriously at fault.

"A municipal utility should be for the use and benefit of the whole municipality, and the estimates regarding the cost of the same should cover the needs of the municipality as a whole; and the 'tail-enders' should not be penalized, but should have full benefit of such utility at the same cost as the others. Good light in the home and through our public thoroughfares is an absolute necessity, and without a doubt the whole of our splendid municipality was expecting that a comprehensive scheme covering the whole would have been brought forward. Instead, we find to begin with, that the original users are offered better light and power at a lower cost, while the other taxpayers of the community were scared with the idea that the cost of putting the light to their particular homes must be borne by themselves, and after they had paid such cost the poles and wires would become the property of the municipality; and this, in addition, to the cost of wiring their own homes. But, it will be said, the council have recently adopted other plans. Have they? It is then up to them to make clear what those plans are.

How can we expect applications to be sent in, in large volume, when the council itself is not clear as to what it is prepared to do? Perhaps someone can explain the following statement which was the closing up paragraph regarding the electric light utility given in The Review: "The applications were all turned over to the electric light committee, which will investigate the feasibility of granting the requests."

Apparently the council does not know as to how far they can go in "granting requests." Why then, ask for more? Probably if the whole municipality requested electric light 50 per cent. would be turned down as not feasible. Why this negative attitude in regard to public utilities? Why not arrange for all to take electric light at the best figure possible, and then ask everybody to assent to the plan? The utility belongs to the municipality now and the whole of the municipality has a perfect right to all of its advantages.

It may help matters along considerably if somebody who knows would answer the following questions through the medium of your valuable paper:

1. Is it the intention or policy of the council to distribute electric light through the whole of the municipality?
2. Is it their policy to provide poles and wires to each individual house requiring light, free of charge, or to the nearest convenient point of the individual property?
3. Will the rate per kilowatt be the same to all domestic users through the whole of the municipality??
4. About what is the rate likely to be?

Everybody wants to know the answer to these queries. Upon the answer to one or all of these questions many decisions will rest. Until these points are settled by the council in charge, they cannot be handed out to the public. And until the municipality at large has this knowledge we cannot expect many applications for light.

It should also be remembered that possibly many will have to wait for some time before they can send in their application, as they will have to face the cost of wiring their homes and purchasing the necessary fixtures, for not all can afford this expense at the present time.

In conclusion, may I plead for a broader and more comprehensive policy in dealing with our municipal utilities and for more sympathetic dealing with the individual requirements of ratepayers on the part of the present and future councils.

Yours truly,
OLIVER E. MANN.

To the Editor of The Review:

Dear Sir,—I suppose that all of your readers who are members of the Summerland Fruit Union have received a copy of a circular letter dated Nov. 30th, from the Organization Manager of the O. U. G. I have ventured to write to Mr. Barnes with regard to the third heading of his letter, "Delayed Returns," expressing the view which I take, as a small grower, on this question and his handling of it. Quite possibly my opinions are entirely wrong and, if so, I shall be very pleased to be corrected and to hear or read the views of someone else. My object is not to make an attack on the O.U.G. or on any local union, for I believe that without them our industry would collapse; but I feel that this season they are standing on dangerous ground and that the discussion of this important point may produce some suggestion which may help them across it. With this aim in view I enclose a copy of my letter to Mr. Barnes and would ask you, if you consider it of sufficient general interest, to be so courteous as to give it publicity.

Yours faithfully,
W. V. B. WEBB.

The Organization Manager,
O. U. G.:

Dear Sir,—I have read with much interest the various circular letters recently issued by you on behalf of the O. U. G., and more particularly so that of the 30th ult., in which you deal with the three criticisms most usually directed against our present co-operative organization. With your treatment of the first two points I think that most members will be quite ready to agree, but in dealing with the third, "Delayed Returns," it appears to me that you scarcely grasp the point of view of the small grower, at least. I am, therefore, taking the liberty of writing to you to point out what I believe that point to be, and as I do not pretend for a moment to be the spokesman of the small grower, I am forwarding a copy of this letter to the editor of the Summerland Review in the hope that others may be induced to give their views. I am sure that publicity can only tend to strengthen the position of our organization, an object which we all have at heart.

In the first place the question of "Delayed Returns," in my opinion, at least, is the most important of the three points, although you dismiss it in a few lines. The small grower is generally satisfied, I believe, that the selling agent is doing his best to get a good price, but he wants the money and he wants it early. This is really no new condition arising out of the state of this year's market, as you suggest. It is a complaint which has been heard every year from the beginning. I do not believe that other houses, working on a commission basis, give any better results as a general rule, though they may do so occasionally; but I am quite sure that the cash buyer is and will be, unless steps are taken to meet him, the greatest cause of disunion amongst the growers. The prospect of spot cash, or cash on the 15th of the following month, is often an

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

The class standing of the intermediate grade in the Central school for the month of November is as follows: Sr. Third—1st, Harold Brinson and Arthur McCall tied; 2nd, Alice Wright. Jr. Third—1st, Edna Cudmore; 2nd, Teddy Clements. Sec. Reader—1st, Phyllis Drake; 2nd, Ephie Brinson. The examinations in the other grades as reported for October have not been held yet, but will be reported after the examination.

A number of young people were entertained for an evening of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. White and family, when a pleasant time was spent in social intercourse.

Miss Simmins, of Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., who spent a few weeks in Peachland during the past summer, returned on Tuesday of last week and is again visiting Mr. and Mrs. Hackett.

Miss Bertha Bradbury spent a few days visiting her parents and the family last week, returning to Penticton on Saturday.

After completing the erection of the Soldiers Memorial Monument in Peachland, Mr. Whitworth left on Wednesday evening to return to Vancouver. While here he made arrangements with Mr. H. E. McCall and Mr. F. Topham to represent the Art Monument Company and sell and erect stones for them.

After having spent the summer here following his arrival from England with his wife, Mr. Wm. Bell, son of Mr. Thos. Bell, well known to many Peachlanders, left on Thursday of last week, accompanied by Mrs. Bell, for Moose Jaw, Sask.

Mrs. A. McKay and Mrs. Grantham and son Jack, went up the lake on Thursday morning. The former returned in the evening while the latter returned on Saturday accompanied by Mr. Grantham.

Following a sudden illness, which overtook her on Wednesday evening, Mrs. Trimble left on Thursday morning for the hospital at Kelowna. Mr. Trimble accompanied her, returning the same evening. We are pleased to be able to report she was able to return home on Saturday evening, much improved in health.

Mr. J. A. MacKellvie, M. P. for Yale, addressed a public meeting in the Orange Hall on Thursday evening last when a goodly number were present to hear the various points of issue discussed. Dr. Buchanan was in the chair. The audience gave the speaker a very attentive hearing, and when a vote of thanks was extended to him he replied that he considered in reality the thanks was on the other side, and stated it gave him much pleasure to have been given such an attentive hearing.

Manager and Driver Thos. McLaughlin, of the Lake Shore Stage route, has taken a partner into the business whom he will probably train for a mechanic and chauffeur, but not just yet, as he is a little too young, being a young son, born on Friday of last week.

Mrs. H. McDougall went down on Friday evening to visit her sister at Naramata, Mrs. Roe, who recently returned from a trip east. Mrs. McDougall returned home on Monday.

Mrs. Seaton arrived Saturday morning to remain here for a time.

Sam White returned home on Saturday evening after an absence of several months, part of which time was spent at the coast and part on the prairie. Sam expects to remain here for some time.

The soldiers' memorial committee, at a meeting last week-end, decided to unveil the monument on Monday, December 12th. They are preparing a program for the occasion.

Mr. C. G. McDougald, B. Keating and Mr. Ekin, three of our citizens who are holding positions of business in Kelowna, spent the week-end here at their respective homes.

Mr. Harris, principal of the Central school, returned on Monday morning after having spent the week-end at his home in Summerland.

Mrs. J. L. Elliott returned home on Tuesday morning after a week-end visit to relatives. She was accompanied on her return by Mr. W. Rogers, of Edmonton, who is paying a short visit here a guest at the Elliott home.

At the poll in Peachland on Tuesday, there was quite a representative vote when 213 out of 259 polled their vote, giving the government candidate, Mr. J. A. MacKellvie, a lead of 85. Dr. Wm. Buchanan acted as deputy returning officer; H. E. McCall, poll clerk; Messrs. G. Lang overwhelming temptation to a small grower to break away from his union.

I cannot see that a five-year contract between union and grower provides any remedy for the delay in returns. Such a contract would, I daresay, influence the banks in financing advances in anticipation of sales, but it has no bearing that I can see on the question of advances in anticipation of collections. These are two separate and distinct propositions, or so I should suppose, although you couple them together. The former system of advances always appears to me to be rather a mixed blessing and in practice is very liable to abuse, but I do not wish to say much on that point. There can surely be no great difficulty, however, in inducing the banks to finance advances in anticipation of collections, even with a system of one-year contracts, and this would seem to be the natural way of providing for early returns to the growers. I can see, of course, the possibility, in fact the probability, of money so obtained being required for other purposes, since our working capital is so small. Should that be the case I would suggest that the next best thing would be to tell the grower frankly what he might expect to get eventually. I am aware that there would be difficulties in the way, such as rebates, pools, and so on, but an intelligent forecast could surely be made which, though not quite the same as hard cash, would be at least a great convenience to the growers and would put a stop to the rumors and misinformation referred to in your opening paragraph.

Apart from the question of financing advances, I am convinced that it would be a mistake to insist on a five-year contract. I do not think that the average member will care to bind himself for such a length of time, whilst the potential new member is almost certain, in my opinion, to be antagonized at the outset and driven into the arms of our competitors.

Yours faithfully, W. V. B. WEBB.

Laid 325 EGGS IN HER PULLET YEAR

Invermere, B. C., Experimental Station Has White Wyandotte With Great Record.

Mr. R. G. Newton, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station at Invermere, in the Kootenay country, is authority for the following:

"Lady Dot," a White Wyandotte pullet, leg band No. D. 3, at the Dominion Experimental Station, Invermere, B.C., completed her yearly record on October 31st, producing 325 eggs during the preceding 365 days. She was hatched on March 25th, 1920, and commenced to lay in October. She was placed in a permanent laying house and trap-nested from November 1st. The following is her monthly egg production for the year:

Table with columns for month and number of eggs. Nov. 27, Dec. 27, Jan. 27, Feb. 27, March 29, April 27, May 27, June 29, July 31, Aug. 31, Sept. 30, Oct. 17.

Total ... 325

During the four winter months "Lady Dot" produced 108 eggs, which is more than many pullets do in a year. Commencing on May 18, and continuing until October 17, a period of 153 days, she produced 150 eggs. "Lady Dot" did not go broody during the year, but commenced to moult on October 11th, and quit laying on the 17th. No trap-nest record of her eggs prior to November 1st, 1920, was kept otherwise her yearly record would have been more. As an individual she is, if anything, small for her breed, but is the most active bird in the flock.

All stock is trap-nested at the Experimental Station, and from the best layers we make up our breeding pens for the coming year. These are mated with males whose dams have also been high producers. In season we try as far as possible to supply the demand for cockerels and hatching eggs.

and R. J. Hogg, agents for Mr. Sutherland, and Messrs. A. J. Miller and A. Smalls, agents for Mr. MacKellvie.

After several months on the prairie, Neil Evans returned home on Tuesday evening and will probably spend several months here.

Master Dickie Hardisty returned home on Tuesday evening after having enjoyed a trip to Edmonton with his grandmother from Kelowna.

Mrs. W. Charlton returned home last week after a month's visit to Vancouver.

Naramata News

D. W. Sutherland Heard.

Mr. D. W. Sutherland, Liberal candidate, and his campaign manager, Mr. L. W. Makovski, on Friday afternoon, addressed a well-attended meeting in Naramata Hall. Mr. Kelley, of Summerland, also spoke in support of Mr. Sutherland's candidature, pointing to his return year after year to the mayoral chair in Kelowna, and to the excellent financial position now enjoyed by that town as evidence of Mr. Sutherland's ability, and the confidence placed in him by his fellow citizens.

Mr. Sutherland, who followed, referred to his position as an owner of land both in Kelowna and in the orchard land beyond its bounds, establishing the point that his interests were identical with those of the growers of the Okanagan. He defended Mr. MacKenzie King, paying tribute to his industrial work and influence with labor, exerted through the Rockefeller Institute, as materially aiding the advance of men and supplies to the front and quoting the "Veterans" statement that the aspersions cast on the Liberal leader, with regard to his work, were a malicious absurdity. In answer to the charge that the Liberal party would, if returned, abolish the tariff, he directed attention to the Laurier tariff, which was reduced by the Borden government, and claimed that what the Liberal party intended was to abolish the special privileges enjoyed by some manufacturers and equalize the tariff. He stated that the approximately 12 1/2 per cent. enjoyed by the fruit growers did not compare with the 35 and 40 per cent. protection enjoyed by some eastern manufacturers.

Mr. Makovski, at one time an editorial writer on the Province, spoke on the railway situation.

Mr. Armour occupied the chair and introduced the speakers.

Summerland vs. Naramata.

The first basketball game of the season played against an outside team, took place on Monday night, when the Summerland team played the locals. Naramata girls won by a score of 14 to 4, while the Summerland boys won by a score of 30 to 15. The new members of the girls' team made a good beginning, but the surprise of the evening was the unexpectedly good play of the Naramata boys, who were not much more than beginners at the game, but though outclassed by their opponents, made a good effort. Their team work improved toward the latter part of the game. The girls lineup was Summerland—Gwen Harris; forwards, Hazel Stewart and Eva Shields; guards, Dorothy Tingley and Ida Shields. Naramata—Centre, Margaret Symons; forwards, Dot Partridge and Nessie Rushbury; guards, Lila Young and Dorothy Robinson. The boys' team was: Summerland—Centre, Bill Angove; forwards, George Guy and Warren Gayton; guards, Mike Clay and Alden Peck.

The Ladies' Aid of Naramata church held a sale and tea in the church basement on Saturday afternoon with satisfactory financial results, realizing over $100 from the efforts of the afternoon.

Mrs. E. Duke, of the Syndica hotel, who has been in uncertain health for some time, is in Vernon for a short rest. She will return at some time during the week.

Mrs. Geo. Weaver returned on Wednesday of last week from a month's visit in Calgary with her daughter.

Philip Rounds, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rounds, was the victim of an accident on Saturday last cutting his forehead deeply above the eye as the result of a fall. Dr. McGregor, who was called from Penticton, stitched the wound, Miss Gwen Robinson assisting as nurse.

An unusual incident, which might have proved dangerous, took place on Monday afternoon, when the gas-pipe in Mr. Aitkins' car ignited. Miss Doris Lawrence, who had taken off the filler-cap, was met by a burst of flame, which caused her some slight burns. She put out the flame by throwing dirt on it, and no further trouble transpired.

On Thursday evening of last week a meeting was held in the Unity Club, for the purpose of organizing a Naramata Conservative Association, when the following officers were elected: Honorary presidents, Mr. J. W. Jones, Mr. J. A. MacKellvie; president, Mr. A. Horswill; vice-presidents, Mr. Geo. Weaver, Mr. J. A. Noyes; secy.-treas., Mr. F. C. Manchester; executive, Mr. H. Rushbury, Mr. G. Routh, Mr. H. Mitchell. It was decided to admit lady members free of charge.

It takes three years to tan a walrus hide properly.

BASKETBALL

The results of the matches played off with Naramata Senior and Ladies' teams were both to be expected, and although the girls did not win their game, they have nothing whatever to be ashamed of in holding their opponents down to 14 goals, as it is conceded that Naramata has a splendid girls' team, and it will be remembered that last year they made such good headway that a trip was made to the coast to meet the university team there. Go ahead, girls, and keep your courage up, and make up your mind that by good playing and combination, you will reduce the difference when you next meet Naramata.

A large number of supporters went over on the ferry boat to witness the game, and found a good floor, and good bunch of sports who, however, were not so heavy as our lads, but nevertheless took their licking gamely.

The teams lined up with Summerland using the same players as at Kelowna and the results were as follows:

Ladies' team, 14-4 in favor of Naramata. Seniors, 30-15 in favor of Summerland.

BASKETBALL PLAYERS VISIT TO KELOWNA.

Of the recent visit of Summerland basketball players to Kelowna and the games played, the Kelowna Courier says:

In spite of the heavy snowfall on Monday night, a large attendance of enthusiasts witnessed the basketball games played at the Roller Rink between the Kelowna and Summerland men's and ladies' teams. The home players showed distinct superiority throughout, the ladies winning their match by a score of 17 to 7 and the men inflicting even a heavier defeat upon their opponents by 22 to 5.

During the first half of the ladies' game the play was slow and uninteresting but it livened up later on and the match finished with some fast work on the part of the Kelowna girls. On the contrary, the men's game was fast from the beginning. The Kelowna boys were in great form and, although the visitors put up a good game, they had no show.

Mr. Dick Parkinson satisfactorily refereed both games.

Great Power Plant Planned.

Contract has been let for test borings in the bed of the Columbia river at Priest Rapids to determine the location of an immense power dam, according to reports from Seattle. It is said that probably $100,000 will be spent in this preliminary work, and if the tests prove the feasibility of building a dam at the rapids, a big eastern corporation, which has the power rights there, proposes to install a monster hydro-electric plant capable of developing 300,000 horse power. Plans of the company contemplate the building of a big industrial town near their plant and the selling of cheap power for irrigation, which would make possible the reclamation of tens of thousands of acres of fertile land.—Groveville Gazette.

HUBAM CLOVER PROMISES MUCH

New Annual Clover Seed From Here May Be Much in Demand.

Hubam, the new annual clover, continues to attract more than ordinary interest, and Canadian grown seed is now for the first time on the market.

The plant was discovered about three years ago by Prof. Hughes, of Iowa State College, and the name Hubam is a combination of the names Hughes and Alabama. The plant is practically the same as biennial sweet clover, but completes its cycle of growth in one season, hence the remarkable interest taken in it.

The seed last year was put on the market in Canada at $11 per pound, but will be available this year at about $4.

Hubam is said by many farmers to be one of the greatest crops ever given to the Canadian farmer. It needs a good long season to mature the seed, and for that reason British Columbia farmers should have a wonderful opportunity for growing its seed for the prairie or other markets. The demand for the seed is said to be extraordinary.

"As a honey crop it cannot be beaten, experts in that line assert, and as a pasture, hay or soiling crop it has a sound future."

WEDDINGS

Long—Weir.

A very pretty home wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. Charles Steuart, Summerland, on Wednesday, December 7th, when Mrs. Steuart's sister, Miss Mary E. Weir, of Penticton, became the wife of Richard Long, of Prince Rupert. Only the immediate relatives were present, the Rev. W. A. Alexander, of St. Andrew's church, officiating. The bride was very handsomely gowned in Alice blue silk, and the bridesmaid, Miss Allison Henderson, of Penticton, wore a blue shot-silk. The groom was supported by Mr. Jas. Weir. After the ceremony a very dainty buffet lunch was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Long took the noon train for Vancouver, amidst the usual shower of confetti and rice. They will reside at Prince Rupert.

"I Like YOU, Santy!"

Christmas Programmes in Summerland Churches

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

The Christmas season finds St. Andrew's congregation full of plans and activities in every department.

The Methodist and Presbyterian sections have each held successful social gatherings of late, in order that the newcomers may become acquainted with the members of their respective denominations.

A union social is now spoken of as one of the features of the New Year.

A special committee of the united congregation has been appointed to complete the interior of St. Andrew's Hall. The work will be done early in the New Year.

The choir is now busy practicing Christmas music.

The Sunday School, which has now an enrolled membership of over 200, is in the midst of a Christmas concert. Besides choruses by the whole school, each class, from the beginners to the Junior Bible class, is expected to provide two items for the program.

The C. G. I. T. groups have a share in the concert. The girls will be dressed in camp uniforms, each wearing their respective group colors, and will give a number of C. G. I. T. songs, also their group yells.

The C. G. I. T. girls also sent a Christmas package to the Rescue Home in Vancouver.

The Y. P. society purpose continuing their present method of program—devotional, missionary, literary and social evenings. During the holidays there will be a social evening for the members who have been absent. A "Watch Night" is suggested to see the old year out and the New Year in.

The "Willing Workers" Mission Band are having a sale of work and home cooking for the benefit of their own mission work. They have already elected their officers for the coming year.

Summerland Baptist Church.

Christmastide is returning with its usual accompaniment of increased social activities. A Merry Christmas, however, makes merry the heart of the worker, and the busier people are, the happier they feel. The spirit of Christmas is the child-spirit. Santa Claus, by the wave of his mystic wand, makes us all children again, and the child carries social activities with a light heart.

Friday night (23rd) is the great night. The children meet at 7.30. They provide their own entertainment in recitations, songs, dialogues and choruses. At some quiet moment Santa Claus will appear in Christmas dress to disburse a Christmas tree containing gifts for all and send us to our homes in peace.

Sunday morning at 10.30, there will be a special Christmas service. The theme will be "The Song of the Angels." There will be Christmas music. Speaker, Rev. Jas. Dunlop.

Sunday evening at 7.30, the choir will render a Christmas cantata entitled, "The Shepherd King."

Tuesday, Dec. 20th, the Baptist Young People's Society will hold a Christmas social to welcome the returned members and rally the home forces. The male members of the pastor's class will provide a concert program to be followed by games. The senior members of the C. G. I. T. will serve refreshments. This will be the girls' debut as an organization, in church service. Twenty-seven of the girls in October organized themselves for training for service. Under the able leadership of Miss M. Harwood and Miss R. Dale, they have become loyal and enthusiastic, and with the young men, hope to make the last social the best of the Christmas social events.

St. Stephen's Church.

On Christmas Day the service at St. Stephen's Church will be: Holy Communion (plain) at 8 and Holy Eucharist (choral) with short ad-

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT IN THE LOCAL STORES

Merchants Making Every Effort to Satisfy Requirements of Their Customers.

The claim has been repeatedly made that, if the buying public would make a closer examination of the different lines carried by our local stores and having regard to the quality of the goods offered, contrast the prices with the figures quoted by the large mail order houses and competitive stores at other points in the valley, the inspection would lead to a more loyal support of our merchants.

A general survey of our stores was made by a representative of The Review this week and we extend to the merchants of Summerland our sincerest congratulations on the enterprise ability and foresight they have displayed in preparing for the demands of the Christmas trade.

The Mercantile Store.

The sale being conducted by the Summerland Mercantile Co., and the special cash discounts offered by them on practically all of their lines present an excellent opportunity to secure goods for the Christmas season at rock bottom prices, and shoppers would do well to consider the attractive prices submitted. Details of the sale will be found on the last page of this issue.

At Finley's.

An entirely new feature in Christmas activities among our storekeepers is the reception being held by Santa Claus for the children in Finley's store on Wednesday, the 21st. We congratulate Mr. Finley on his enterprise. The reception is sure to be a delight to the kiddies. Mr. Finley's selection of goods covers a wide range, with prices to suit all purchasers. His attractive window display includes gentlemen's ties, sweaters and shirts, and among many attractive offerings, an excellent selection in fancy waists, skirt lengths in silk, etc.

At Butler & Walden Bros.

With their two stores, Butler & Walden Bros. are featuring an extensive selection specially prepared for the Christmas trade. Besides an excellent window display of silver, they have on view a splendid assortment of pyrex goods, casseroles, pocket knives, smoking sets, some very fine cutlery, direct from England, electrical goods of all descriptions and many other articles including some very fine combinations, put up as Christmas boxes.

At A. B. Elliott's.

extensive stock carried by A. B. Elliott, his display of china, glass and fancy goods is worthy of special mention. With a selection covering a wide range of needs and interests, it would well pay our readers to inspect his stock before completing their Christmas purchases.

At Beer's Shoe Store.

With his usual enterprise and foresight, Mr. Beer has on display a stock covering a wide range in boots, shoes, leather goods, etc. His artistic window display, neat and attractive in design, includes a splendid assortment of comfortable, dressy bedroom slippers, gloves, mitts, travelling bags, ladies' handbags, etc., while the interior of the store, laid out to advantage, shows splendid offerings in boots, shoes, slippers, gloves, belts and the usual stock related to his business.

At Summerland Drug Store.

No Christmas shopping would be complete without a visit to the stores of the Summerland Drug Co. It is quite impossible in our limited space to enumerate the extensive range of goods offered. It is, however, quite safe to say that in French ivory and leather goods, kodaks in various sizes, perfumes, eversharp pencils, fountain pens, toilet sets, writing cases, etc., the prices are most reasonable and within reach of all. Mention should also be made of the Brunswick Gramophone, undoubtedly one of the best machines on the market and the up-to-date selection of Gramophone records, recently secured for the Christmas trade.

At Rowley's Jewelry Store.

Probably at no time since he opened up business has Mr. Rowley offered such a large selection as he is submitting this Christmas season. Among many articles of beautiful design, his offerings in glass and hand-painted china call for special attention, and we feel satisfied that a visit to his store will solve some of the problems of Christmas shopping.

At the Grocerteria.

The Grocerteria with their usual foresight, have arranged for large supplies in all the good things that contribute to the Christmas dinner. Artistically arranged and grouped to the best advantage is a splendid window display of dates, figs, mixed nuts, candies, bon-bons, Jap oranges, chestnuts, grape fruit, grapes, clus-

Peachland Doings

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

The service for the dedication of the war memorial in the village of Peachland was held on Monday, December 12th, in the afternoon.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather it was considered unwise to try to conduct the service at the memorial grounds as intended, and the first portion of the service was conducted in the Municipal Hall.

Reeve Hogg acted as chairman. The service was opened by the singing of the hymn, "O God, our help in ages past." The music for the occasion was provided by piano and five violins. Then followed the Invocation and Confession of Sins, conducted by Rev. F. A. Coad. Rev. Isaac Page read the scripture lesson from Psalm 96. Rev. F. A. Coad led in the Lord Prayer. The dedication and prayer was the next item on the order of service, to be led by the Rev. H. A. Solly. Owing to bad roads Mr. Solly had been unavoidably delayed on the way from Summerland and the order of service was changed in the hope that he might arrive in time. The gathering sang the National Anthem, followed by "O Canada," and Rev. Isaac Page led in a prayer of thanksgiving. The chairman called on Mr. Page for a ten minute address. Following this the gathering sang the hymn, "O God of Love, O King of Peace. The service was adjourned at this point to gather at the memorial grounds. Rev. H. A. Solly had arrived and took his place on the platform, which had been erected for the occasion, the Municipal Councillors, Clerk, Dr. Buchanan/School Trustees, Rev. F. A. Coad and Rev. Isaac Page also taking places on the platform. Mr. Solly gave a short address, followed by prayer, after which Mr. Wm. Dryden, municipal clerk, unveiled the monument. During the unveiling those gathered around recited a prayer in concert. Mr. Solly then pronounced the benediction.

There was a large crowd present for the entire service. The children marched in double column from the school to the hall and then to the memorial grounds, being conducted by the teachers. The following is a list of the names of the boys who made the great sacrifice and whose names will be dear to Peachlanders for years to come, and by means of the beautiful monument in their honor will be kept before the eyes of the coming men of the community.

Died on Service—E. McKay, E. F. Shaw, A. F. Seaton.

Died of Wounds—H. Urquhart, J. H. Morrison.
Killed in Action—N. A. Pope, G. H. Needham, H. Birkett, R. Laidlaw, J. Jackson, H. W. Vivian, F. Chapman, C. O. Needham, W. M. Dryden, D. A. Seaton, A. Theobald, C. W. Sutherland.

Two beautiful wreaths and a spray were placed at the foot of the monument by the G. W. V. A., the Women's Institute and the Morrison family.

After a short visit here with Mr. and Mrs. Hackett, Miss Simons left on Tuesday of last week for Penticton to remain for a time, her people having settled there.

A gang of men started work on the government wharf last week to do some needed repair work on it. They are putting in new caps and stringers where needed and new planking. The work is being conducted under the supervision of Mr. Nelson and the gang comprises both local and outside men.

Mrs. K. C. Tallyour returned on Wednesday after a short visit up the lake.

Mr. R. A. F. Moore and Wes. Ramsey returned from the coast on Wednesday. Before going to settle at Penticton they tarried long enough to do a little deer hunting, and they succeeded in bringing down game.

Mr. Wm. White returned home on Thursday after having relieved a butcher, who was indisposed, in Kelowna for a few days.

The concert under the auspices of the Peachland Women's Institute was held in the Orange Hall on Thursday evening last. The greater portion of the entertainment was supplied by Summerland talent in the persons of Messrs. Blackaby, Riley and Banton, accompanied, for the musical selection, by Miss Ruth Dale.

A few friends of the performers accompanied them on their auto trip up. The solos on the program were rendered by Mr. Riley and Mr. Banton and they, with Mr. Blackaby, gave some trio selections—vocal. Mr. Blackaby gave a couple of monologues. Rev. F. A. and Mrs. Coad contributed to the program with violin and piano. Mrs. J. L. Elliott and Mrs. J. Wright sang a duet, accompanied by Mrs. Coad at the piano, while Mr. Coad played the obligato on the violin. Mrs. Jones, formerly known and always appreciated by Peachland audiences, rendered two vocal selections. The hall was well filled with an appreciative audience and the institute added to their treasury thereby about $40. A vote of appreciation and thanks was tendered the Summerland performers for their contributions to the evening's entertainment.

Mrs. R. A. Shaw and daughter, Mrs. Craig, were up the lake last week, returning Friday evening.

Mrs. H. E. McCall enjoyed a visit last week-end from a cousin, Mrs. H. Shafer, of Detroit, Mich., who is making a short tour of the west. She left on the Monday morning boat for Vancouver. Mrs. Shafer was greatly pleased with the Okanagan, stating that she considered it the nicest part of the country she had visited on her trip thus far.

After a trip east extending over a few months, Mrs. Leverington returned home on Friday.

After several months here, guests at the Edgewater Inn, Mrs. Grantham and son Jack, joined Mr. Grantham to return to their home in Vancouver.

Miss Myrtle Keating was a passenger south on Friday evening to visit friends in Penticton.

The annual meeting of the Peachland Branch of the Women's Institute was held on Friday in the Municipal Hall. Miss M. Smith was appointed president; Mrs. Dryden, vice-president; Miss Ilva Murdin, secretary-treasurer, with the following directors, Mrs. Smalls, Mrs. Gum-mow and Mrs. A. W. Miller.

Dr. and Mrs. Fish, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Eph. Brinson, of Penticton, motored to Peachland on Sunday last, returning home the same afternoon.

Miss Bertha Johnston, of Summerland, came up on Monday morning to visit Miss E. Williamson.

Mr. W. T. Jago, organizer for the Orange association, was in town this week on an official visit to the Peachland lodge. While here he attended a degree meeting of the Trepanier Lodge, A.F. & A.M., held on Tuesday evening.

Naramata News

Current Events of Town and District

The election of officers was the chief point of interest in the business at the regular meeting of the Women's Institute in the Unity Club on Friday afternoon. Arrangements were made for Mrs. McGill's lecture, to take place the following week, word being received from the University Extension committee and also from Mr. Harkness, of the Social Service Council, that Naramata would be included in the itinerary of their speakers in the future. Mr. Harkness also wrote that the blunder which prevented our hearing Dr. Buchanan, lay with him. A board of directors for the coming year was elected as follows: Mrs. Howard Rounds, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. A. Horswill, Mrs. Campbell Robinson and Mrs. Bruce Cash.

Mrs. Aitkins and Mrs. Ameron gave each a five-minute talk on the spirit of Christmas, Mrs. Aitkins referring to the fact that the latter-day commercialization of the Christmas spirit had robbed the day of its spiritual significance. Miss Gordon, who was also to have spoken, was prevented from attending.

After the business was over, the executive served tea and a social hour was spent, Miss Lila Young entertaining with a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Greene.

Mr. J. M. Robinson left early in the week for Calgary, on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowes, who came here in the spring from Edmonton, taking up their residence in the house vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Greene, are leaving shortly for Kansas City, and are at present holding a sale of their household goods in preparation for leaving.

Mr. and Mrs. Angell are also holding a private sale of their furniture, in preparation for leaving for Calgary. They have been residing for a few months at Louminder Ranch.

It will not have escaped the notice of those who pass along front street that an artist has arisen in our midst. He has modestly refrained from attaching his name to his work in the manner of Christy, Underwood, Fitzmaurice, Le Messurier and others of contemporaneous fame, but Naramata will stoutly acclaim his right to a place in the very front rank of those who follow the art of illustration and caricature. Incidentally we would not hesitate to prophesy that Naramata organizations will do their bit toward preventing this talent from rusting in disuse. Let it not hide under a bushel.

Mrs. E. Duke returned at the end of the week from a short visit to Vernon.

The Canadian Girls in Training met on Friday afternoon in the basement of the church. Mrs. McConkey gave a short address on the "Spirit of Service." The girls will undertake to prepare a chorus and a dialogue as their contribution toward the Christmas entertainment to be held between Christmas and New Year's.

The pavilion is in constant use these days for basketball practice. The senior girls' team is practicing steadily, expecting to play the Summerland girls again in their own "gym" shortly. Various juvenile teams—both boys and girls—are also being organized and trained.

A whist drive, in aid of library funds, was held on Thursday evening, Dec. 8th. Rather bad weather contributed to a somewhat sparse turnout, those who were there enjoying a very agreeable evening. Over $8 was realized. Mrs. Rushbury won the lady's prize and Mr. Boles the gentleman's. Mrs. Howard Rounds, Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Aldridge were hostess for the evening.

Very interesting times are pending in basketball circles. At a meeting held recently in Penticton, the basketball fraternity decided to launch a Southern Okanagan league. Summerland, Penticton and Naramata will each contribute a boys' and girls' team, and 18 games will be played in all, the first of the series to be played here on Wednesday night, when Penticton teams will play the locals. Another event, which we owe to the enterprise and initiation of the local athletic organization, is a coming visit from the U. B. C. girls' basketball team. This organization were champions of B. C. last year. They will leave Vancouver on the 27th, and will stay about a week in Naramata. While here they will play the girls' teams at Penticton, Summerland and Naramata.

Little Bobby Watson was the victim of a severe blood-poisoning as the result of a seemingly harmless splinter in his hand last week. Dr. Afleck was called from Penticton, and opened the slight wound to the bone, and after some anxious days the boy's temperature went down, and he is now convalescent. Miss Gwen Robinson was in attendance as nurse.

ALL INFECTIOUS DISEASES MUST BE REPORTED

The failure of some citizens to report infectious diseases was discussed at some length at a meeting of the Board of Health, held on Friday evening. The medical health officer, Dr. F. W. Andrew, asked that some publicity be given to the regulations prescribed by the Health Act, and as a result a circular will be issued to be distributed in the schools and elsewhere.

The medical officer pointed out that there was no abattoir in the district, and that the Health Act required that meat dealers must, on request, give an affidavit as to where the meat they sell has been slaughtered, and that the sanitary inspector must be permitted to inspect the slaughter houses whether within or without the boundary of the municipality where meat sold within the municipal limits has been slaughtered. It was decided that the sanitary inspector should familiarize himself with the regulations and give this matter his attention.

The sanitary inspector presented a report covering, among other things, complaints with respect to the sanitary conditions around the West Summerland business centre. The health officer pointed out to the board that section 57 in the sanitary regulations of the provincial board of health enacts that "no person shall let, or occupy, or suffer to be occupied, as a dwelling or lodging, any room which has not appurtenant to it, the use of water closet or earth closet constructed in accordance with these regulations." Four different places were mentioned to the board which did not comply with these regulations, and the secretary was instructed to point out these facts to the owners.

Instructions were also given the sanitary inspector to have earth closets and outbuildings cleaned up. The health officer pointed out that by a recent amendment to the Health Act, theatres must now provide toilet accommodation. Pit closets are not permitted by the health regulations, and the appointment of a scavenger to care for box closets was suggested by the medical health officer, but it was finally decided to leave this to be arranged for by the owners of tenants for the present.

Dr. Andrew recommended a thorough fall clean up each year as well as a spring clean up. As the official year of the provincial board of health ends on June 30, a full report will be presented to the local board of health by the medical health officer at that time.

CHURCH SALE IS LARGELY ATTENDED

A sale of work by the Methodist Church ladies, held in the parlor of Lakeside Church on Saturday afternoon, was very successful, and the south end of Shaughnessy avenue was a busy corner as the cars and other vehicles unloaded their occupants at the church steps. The parlor presented a very animated scene, with Mrs. Livingstone and her C. G. I. T. girls in charge of one stall; Mrs. A. Walden and Mrs. Wilson looking after the sale of home cooking, and Mrs. Harold Smith and Mrs. Thornber using their best efforts to dispose of the useful articles on their apron stall. Afternoon tea was served to all comers, with the assistance of the young people, and they were kept busy by the crowd who attended, a large number of whom were from the benches. As a result of their efforts the ladies made about $190.

STERLING EXCHANGE RAPIDLY IMPROVES

The sterling exchange shows decided improvement lately, an encouraging sign of the times, and jumped from $4.48 on December 9th to $4.59 on December 12th, thus bringing the British sovereign to within 25c of par value. The fact that Canada does such a large business with her cousin across the line, makes it pleasant to know that the discount on Canadian money across the border is now only about 8 per cent, with every probability of being reduced again shortly.

GROWERS SIGNING 5-YEAR CONTRACTS

C. E. Barnes Tells Vernon Fruit Union Members of Its Advantages and Benefits.

A new idea in co-operative organization contracts insofar as the valley is concerned was outlined at the Vernon Fruit Union meeting held in the court house on Friday, by C. E. Barnes, the organization manager of the Okanagan United Growers.

Mr. Barnes told of the success with which he was meeting in signing growers on the five-year contract basis. This was being carried out in California with great success and wherever he had approached growers in British Columbia they had given their approval.

In Grand Forks, Washachin and a number of Okanagan shipping centres the growers were signing the new agreements which would greatly help the parent organization in financing and in other ways carrying on its business.

The speaker pointed out that in California financing was made much easier, for when the union had a five year contract with a grower the banks were more ready to advance loans. They knew that the association was not a yearly affair, but rather a permanent institution organized for the betterment of the industry and in the interests of the growers.

The idea was approved by the meeting judging by the hearty applause with which Mr. Barnes' address was received.—Vernon News.

POULTRY MOVIES GET BIG HOUSE

The Parish Hall was filled to capacity—about 130 people being present—on Monday evening when W. H. Fairley, Dominion poultry promoter of B. C., accompanied by C. W. Traves, provincial poultry instructor, with a moving picture outfit and four reels, gave a splendid demonstration of the business of poultry raising in all its branches.

R. H. Helmer occupied the chair. Introducing their subject by some excellent views of Ottawa and the experimental farm located there, the two experts in the two succeeding reels emphasized in a very systematic manner the absolute necessity of maintaining only thoroughbred flocks, bred for production. Pictures were shown on the screen contrasting in many ways the active producing birds with the sluggish fowls not paying for their board, and much valuable information was given as to the best methods of determining and selecting the best birds for egg production.

The most approved styles of housing and up-to-date methods of caring for poultry were also illustrated, pictures being shown of the trapping plan, etc.

One of the most important items of the program was the last reel devoted to a study of co-operative marketing. It was explained that produce, developed along strictly practical and business-like lines, had reached a high state of efficiency in this system of marketing poultry the Province of Ontario. The get-together movement had resulted in a higher grade of eggs, the lowering of costs of production, with resultant higher prices to the farmers. Quotations submitted showed a difference of 22c per dozen between the first and last grades.

Discussing this question, one of the speakers explained that the export of last year of over 7,000,000 dozen eggs, by strict grading and inspection, had yielded Canadian shippers from 15c to 20c a dozen higher than export shipments from the United States.

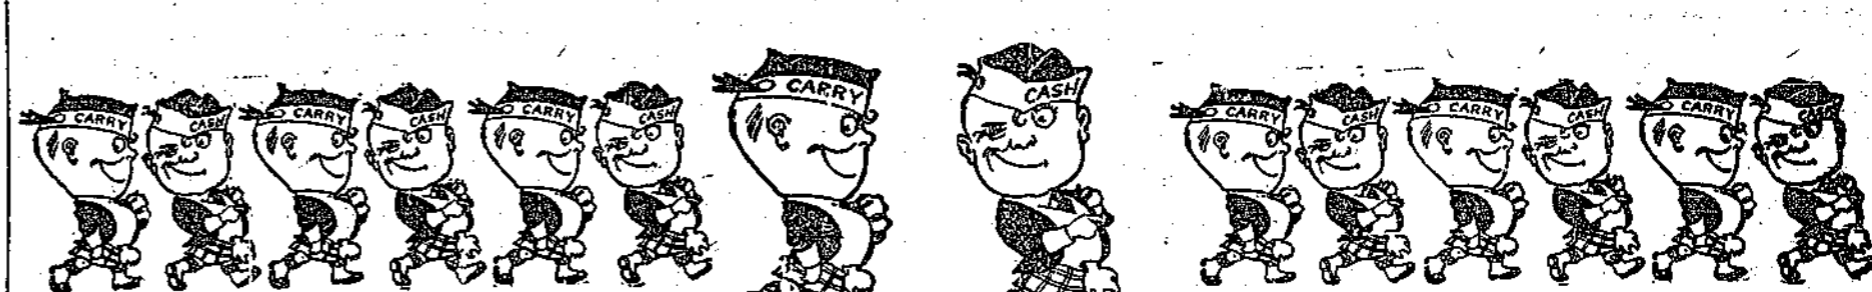

Much credit is due the Farmers' Institute and the provincial department of live stock for their enterprise in arranging the demonstration.

SLIDES DELAY COAST TRAINS.

Owing to mud slides on the Coquihalla Pass the arrival of trains east-bound from Vancouver on the K. V. R. was considerably delayed at the beginning of this week. The train which left Vancouver on Sunday night was unable to get through the Pass and returned to the main line, where it was consolidated with Tuesday's train at Spence's Bridge, arriving here about noon on Wednesday. Monday's train had also to be diverted, arriving late Tuesday night.

Mrs. J. H. McGill, judge of the Juvenile Court in Vancouver, who was to have addressed a meeting under the auspices of the Summerland branch of the Social Service Council of B. C., on Tuesday evening, had left Vancouver on Sunday night and as she did not arrive in Summerland until Wednesday, the meeting had to be postponed.

According to latest reports, O. Atkins is making satisfactory recovery from his recent accident. For a few days his condition was rather critical, his nerves suffering badly from shock.

A meeting of the executive of the B. C. F. G. A. was held at Sicamous on Saturday last. The usual routine business was transacted and preliminary arrangements made for the annual convention, which is proposed to be held in Victoria on January 18, 19 and 20. This will be the first occasion in several years the convention has been held at the coast.

Attention has been called to the advertisement of the Board of Trade in this issue, calling a public meeting of ratepayers in the Parish Hall, for the evening of Tuesday, December 20th. Many of our citizens have expressed a desire for a meeting of this nature and in the absence of a ratepayers' association or similar organization in the community, the Board of Trade, as the most representative body, have called the meeting.

MUST SLOW DOWN AT STREET CORNERS

Amendment to Motor Vehicles Act Also Provides for Protection of School Children.

During the last session of the legislative assembly an amendment was made to the Motor Vehicles Act looking to the greater safety of pedestrians and others.

This amendment provides that any person driving a motor vehicle on any street or highway in any city or municipality shall, in turning a corner or approaching a crossing or intersection, or even driving through a lane or alley, slow down to ten miles an hour or less.

For the greater safety of school children, the same rule applies to anyone driving past a school, where signs are displayed to warn the driver. It is considered that the observance of these regulations will further help to prevent accidents.

DEMAND FOR LAND WAS NOT BRISK

Enthusiasm was entirely lacking at the sale of irrigation lands in the Oliver district, held a few days ago at Penticton. The sale was conducted by J. W. Clark, of Victoria, on behalf of the Department of Lands. Nineteen fruit lots and one town lot were disposed of at a total price of $57,680. One hundred and nineteen fruit lots and seventy-nine town lots were up for sale. In nearly all cases the properties were disposed of at the upset price, averaging nearly $300 per acre.

We understand that Mr. Lawler will continue with the Union for some time, and that no appointment will be made until after the annual meeting of the Union members in January.

Dr. J. S. Pirie, of Vancouver, came in on Tuesday from the coast, accompanied by his wife and family. BUILDING STORAGE DAM AT KALEDEN Engineer Robertson and Other Men From Summerland Now at Work on Reservoir.

Several Summerland men are working on the storage dam being built at the head of the Kaleden irrigation system on the Marron Lake road, about five miles from Kaleden. This work is being done under the direction of R. K. Robertson who, with Mrs. Robertson, recently removed from Summerland to Kaleden.

The site for the dam has been cleared and much of the excavating done. The digging of the trench for the concrete dam is being carried out this week, and if the weather conditions are favorable, concrete work will be started in a few days.

The dam, when finished, will be about 300 feet in length, and will raise the level of Marron Lake seven feet. This lake is about a mile long, and probably averages about one-fifth of a mile in width.

W. R. Shields is one of the men from here on the work, others being Messrs. Sharpe, Taylor and Kingsley.

VOTERS' LIST 1922 HAS BEEN ADOPTED

Municipal Voters' List for Coming Elections Passed Upon by Court of Revision.

The court of revision on the municipal voters' list sat on Saturday afternoon. The session was but a brief one, as the applications for enrolment were few. Two names were added to the list, Rev. W. A. Alexander and James H. Ritchie. No requests were made for removal of names.

There are still quite a number of residents who are without a vote solely from the fact that their titles have not been registered, the franchise still remaining with the former owners.

GETTING READY FOR EXTENSIONS

Council Gathering Essential Data on Cost and Revenue on Many Additions to Power Distributing System.

At last Friday's meeting of the municipal council, the electric light committee presented a report covering extensions to the lighting system for the Garnett Valley district, along the Giant's Head road to Garnett's corner, and from a point near the K. V. R. bridge down to Trout Creek Point. About 15,000 feet of pole line will be required to serve all the applicants in the Garnett Valley district, and if all the householders on the list contract for the service it is anticipated that it will be possible to build this line.

The residents of Garnett Valley have promised that the municipality will be given a right of way for its pole line along the bottom of the valley. It will cost less to build the pole line along this route than if the roadway were followed.

The preliminary figures submitted by the electric light committee are encouraging with respect to extensions on the Giant's Head road and Trout Creek Point. A few more users on each would bring the extensions within the schedule adopted by the municipal council. It is hoped that still other districts can be included in an extensions program, which will be submitted later to the ratepayers.

It would appear from statements made at the last sitting of the council than many citizens are holding back their applications realizing that it will be spring before the service can be extended to them, and as they are not particular about having the light during the summer months, they are deferring action for the present.

Chairman Kirk, of the water committee, is still working on details of a report to be presented to the council at an early date on repairs and improvements to be made to the irrigation system, including both capital and maintenance. At last Friday's meeting of the council, he intimated that a meeting of the water committee would be held at an early date to deal with these. At the request of the council, he had looked into the possibility of giving Mr. George Johnston domestic water connection on the pipe line serving the Zimmerman property. This pipe line is supplied through a regulating valve at Mr. G. J. Coulter White's corner, and upon investigation he had found that the level of this corner was below that of Mr. Johnston's home, making this plan impracticable.

The finance committee reported having placed a conditional order for the purchase of Victory bonds with sinking fund monies. At present the market price of these securities is higher than for some time, but should the 1924 bonds drop to 97.5, the order will be executed.

An intimation from the Board of Trade that a ratepayers meeting would be held on the 20th to discuss municipal matters, brought up the question of making such the annual ratepayers meeting, in place of the meeting usually called in January by the reeve and council. This would dispose of the rush attendant with the effort to have the financial statement ready for the January meeting, a return of which is not required by the provincial government before the end of March. Nothing had been done toward preparing reports and the matter was dropped for the time being.

The West Summerland Women's Institute submitted a proposal that Ellison Hall and Park be somewhat remodelled with the idea of making it a community centre for games, concerts, meetings, etc., and asked that the municipality arrange for heating, lighting, seating and a water service. It has been proposed on several occasions that the pillars down the centre of the hall be removed. The communication was referred to the Agricultural Society, which organization has charge of the hall.

H. Read was granted permission to instal a gasoline pump on the street in front of his new garage, its continuance being subject to the pleasure of the council.

A building on the edge of the canyon at Paradise Flat, the property of the municipality, was sold to E. T. Mountford for $25.

There is no registered plan of the road from St. Stephen's Church east to a point near the Bloomfield property, the road being a part of the Nixon and Wilson properties. As Mr. Wilson is having his property subdivided, the council on motion, authorized a survey of the road for plans to be registered at Kamloops.

A complaint was made that the telephone company was not giving a full service on Sundays, contrary to the agreement with the municipality, and after some discussion, on motion of Councillors Kirk and Scott, the clerk was instructed to notify the telephone company that they are violating the agreement in respect of hours of service and ask them for an explanation. Coun. Thornber took the stand that an ample service was being given and that to insist would mean making Sunday work for another operator.

Messrs. F. J. Nixon and Geo. Sinclair were appointed returning officer and deputy returning officer respectively, for the annual municipal elections, at which reeve and four councillors will be elected, also one police commissioner, for the years 1922 and 1923, and a full school board, part for two years and part for one year.

SCHOOL CONCERT

The school concert to be held in the Gymnasium on Friday, December 16th, promises to be one of the most interesting features of our Christmas activities. The children, under the direction of their teachers, have for weeks passed been preparing for the event and, as the entire net proceeds are to be devoted to the school library account and towards the purchase of playground equipment, a record attendance is expected.

BASKETBALL

That the series of matches arranged by the local basketball players with Kelowna, and played off at the Gymnasium on Thursday last occasioned great interest, was attested by the gathering of over 300 spectators, who filled up all the available room possible for onlookers, and cheered to the echo every good piece of play not only on the part of our own teams, but also those of the visitors.

Coming down the lake on the Sicamous, which was a little late, the various quintettes were conveyed to the hall by Bernard Taylor, and within 15 minutes after arrival, the first teams lined up and commenced the intermediate game, with Referee R. S. Jackson in command. Both sides worked hard and played good ball, Louie Smith showing up particularly well, with Adams and Taylor doing yeoman service. Time was called with Kelowna winners by 12 goals to 8.

Before the crowd had hardly time to take their seats, the local girls took their places in the arena to contest honors with the Kelowna Ladies and for a while the play was very fast, every endeavor being made by Summerland to retrieve their fortunes after the results of the Kelowna trip. Despite, however, the excellent efforts of Gwen and her colleagues, backed up by the hard work of Ida, the Kelowna team proved more than they could manage and once again the visitors left the field winners by 8 to 2.

The piece de resistance of the evening was the senior match, between Kelowna and Summerland, and great things were expected of the home team in order to wipe out their defeat of a short while ago at the city up the lake. From the start the game was fast and furious and under the stress of exertion could be felt the grim determination of the local boys to achieve success on their home ground, the result of which was that Summerland during the first half of the game put in nearly all of the 15 goals scored by them, while at the end of play Kelowna had only managed to make 4. The home team won on their play, which was a splendid combination all through, a fact which was conspicuous by its absence in the visiting team, while the marksmanship of the local players was a great factor in making up the score. With a little improvement in midfield work, Summerland boys should make a good showing in the valley this winter.

After the game was over, the Kelowna teams were the guests of our local young people at a dance and supper at the Parish Hall, where refreshments, donated by Simpsoc & Gowans, Summerland Mercantile Co., The Grocerteria and A. B. Elliott, were served by the girls. After a very enjoyable social time, the party of about 50 from Kelowna were conveyed by Capt. Roe to Penticton by boat and put aboard the Sicamous to make the morning trip, having declared themselves more than delighted with the good time they had had in Summerland.

The Review learns from Manager Guy, that the following schedule has been arranged for the Summerland Basketball teams, seniors and ladies' matches having been included in each case:

Ladies and Seniors.

- Penticton at Naramata, Dec. 14.
- Naramata at Summerland, Dec. 19.
- Summerland at Penticton, Dec. 22.
- Penticton at Summerland, Dec. 27.
- Summerland at Naramata, Jan. 2.
- Naramata at Penticton, Jan. 5.
- Penticton at Naramata, Jan. 11.
- Naramata at Summerland, Jan. 16.
- Summerland at Penticton, Jan. 23.
- Penticton at Summerland, Jan. 30.
- Summerland at Naramata, Feb. 1.
- Naramata at Penticton, Feb. 6.
- Penticton at Naramata, Feb. 13.
- Naramata at Summerland, Feb. 20.
- Summerland at Penticton, Feb. 23.
- Penticton at Summerland, Feb. 27.
- Summerland at Naramata, March 3.
- Naramata at Penticton, March 6.

It is hoped that not only the younger people will make it a point to attend these games but that the young-old people who remember their own athletic days, and know what it means to a team to have a crowd to cheer them on, will also make it a point to turn out on basketball nights and show their interest in good healthy sport.

ter raisins, etc., while in the annex, to complete the purchases for the festive season, one may secure turkeys, geese, ducks or a supply of beef, mutton, lamb, veal or pork.

At Read's Garage.

Recognizing that many people have a difficulty in the selection of their Christmas gifts, and realizing that, after all, no gift is so acceptable as something that is useful and practical, something which can be given for every day use, the enterprising proprietor of Read's Garage is featuring for the Christmas trade such lines as spot lights, hood covers, tool kits, motor meters, tire chains, tire gauges, etc., and we feel sure that a visit to his garage and inspection of his stock will be time well spent.

At Downton & White's.

We understand from Downton & White that they have made arrangements to have for sale for the Christmas trade not only the usual supply of turkeys, geese, etc., but some very choice beef, mutton, lamb, pork and veal.

At Simpson & Gowans'.

Besides an excellent selection of attractive goods secured for the Christmas trade, Simpson & Gowans are making a special feature of ladies' wear and dry goods at prices that will surely compel attention. Practically all of this stock was taken over from the Summerland Supply Co. at 50c on the dollar, wholesale prices, and as it is being sold on a cash basis, at the same figure, it will be readily seen that bargains of an exceptional nature will be secured.

At Stark Supply Co.

Doing business on a cash basis as they are, the Stark Supply Co. are in a position to quote very attractive prices in all their lines. Alert to the possibilities of the Christmas trade, they have this week made a special feature of furniture, making prices that should appeal to everyone.

At G. K. Devitt's.

With an excellent supply of turkeys, geese, ducks, etc., together with the usual lines of beef, mutton, lamb, pork, veal, etc. Mr. Devitt is equipped to meet all the demands of the Christmas trade in these lines, and his customers can rest assured of having all their wants satisfactorily met.

Altogether we feel that our stores are equipped and stocked to give the best possible service to our citizens and we ask for our merchants the cooperation and loyalty of all shoppers during the busy Christmas season.

Methodist Church.

With Christmas drawing near, the spirit of the season makes itself manifest in our church life.

At the Lakeside Church, special efforts are being put forth to make Christmas Sunday service particularly inspiring. The service will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. H. E. Livingston, who will speak on a subject appropriate to the occasion. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. T. J. Beavis, will render anthems, "Joy to the World," by Lorenz, and "Peace on Earth," by Simper. A chorus will also be contributed by the male members of the choir.

The Sunday school children are busy preparing recitations, choruses and dialogues for their Christmas entertainment, when Santa Claus will address the young folk and distribute his usual good things.

The church desires to extend all the season's greetings.

COUNCIL FIXES LIGHTING RATES

Net Price to Consumers Will Be Higher Than Had Been Anticipated.

For the purpose of passing upon the current month's accounts so that the municipal books might be closed by the end of the year, a meeting of the municipal council was held on Tuesday afternoon, with all members present except Coun. Kirk.

It was decided to call a meeting of the ratepayers on Saturday, January 7th, when financial and other reports will be submitted.

Upon the recommendation of the electric light committee a new schedule of lighting rates was adopted. The average consumer will pay 14c per kilowatt, less 10 per cent. if paid by the 20th of the following month.

The reeve expressed disappointment that these rates were so much higher than had been anticipated, fearing that the rate would not encourage consumption.

In this Coun. Scott concurred. Coun. Bristow thought that it would be better to start at the higher rate and endeavor to get it down after a few months.

A recommendation of the electric light committee that the Telephone Company be given permission to cut down poplars on the roadside west of the McGown property, was adopted.

An application for the extension of the domestic water service, signed by C. R. Comber, A. Ibbotson, T. Whitfield and S. Nolan, was laid before the council.

Jas. Ritchie presented an account for $680 for shale, at 20c per yard, alleged to have been taken by the municipality from his property on Giant's Head.

GREAT LIBERAL VICTORY GAINED

Summerland High School Election Returns the Liberal Candidate.

That a change of government was greatly desired was overwhelmingly expressed in the results of the election, held a few days ago, when the popular Liberal candidate, Charlie Clark, went to the head of the poll, leaving his opponents far in the rear.

At the nominating meeting, held a week previously, this young aspirant for honors easily secured the convention from four other candidates, while his opponents, George Wilson, Conservative; Orrville Dunham, Progressive; and Arthur Gartrell, Labor, were the pick of their several parties.

Owing to the increase in the number of children attending from Prairie Valley, it was arranged that Smith & Henry make the trip with a larger conveyance, the price of each trip being advanced to $2.50.

HAS BIG INCREASE IN APPLE TONNAGE

Fruit Union at Vernon Handles Increasing Volume of Apples and Other Fruit.

K. W. Kinnard, manager of the Fruit Union, at the meeting of growers, held on Friday afternoon, quoted figures showing how the tonnage that went through the packing house of that organization had increased during the past three seasons.

In addition to this quantity the following other fruits had been handled: Crab apples 91,590 boxes; prunes, 66,275; pears, 6,679, and plums, 34,299 packages.

KELOWNA TO VOTE ON POWER BYLAW

Resolutions authorizing the mayor and city clerk to execute the agreement with the Okanagan Water Power Company, and fixing a date for a vote of the ratepayers, were passed at the last meeting of the Kelowna City Council, when Friday, December 30th, was appointed for the poll to take place.

It was also decided to hold a public meeting before the date of poll for endorsement of the council's action, in order to explain the terms of the agreement to the people, who, it is expected, will sustain the council by a large majority.

Canada has the largest grain mills in the British Empire.

The candidates before presenting them to the returning officer, Geo. Dewar, who, before finally accepting them, obtained the necessary fee of $200 in each case as required by the act.

The returning officer was assisted by Deputy Returning Officer George Graham and Poll Clerk Cyril Taylor and Alvin Wilson, while scrutineers Colin Chisholm, Mabel Shields and Margaret Munn were appointed to challenge any unqualified voters.

Deputy Returning Officer George Graham was in charge of the ballots, which were of the prescribed form, and handed same to the applicants for votes, after the names of the latter had been duly recorded by the poll clerk, who ascertained that the persons applying were on the voters' list.

On being handed ballots, the voters were required to enter the booth and mark their papers with the pencil supplied. As the voting proceeded, great excitement was aroused and there was much speculation as to the probable winner, each party feeling sure that their candidate would win, and when the poll closed, the ballots counted and it was announced that the Liberal candidate, Charlie Clark, was elected and would later take his seat at Ottawa in the next parliament; it was felt by the supporters of all parties that Summerland would be well represented through the candidate who had obtained such an expression of confidence by the large majority accorded him.

"COME RIGHT IN, UNCLE SANTY!"

PUBLIC SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT

Excellent Program Enjoyed by a Large Audience in College Gymnasium.

To the children, the evening of Friday last marked two important events in their career, namely, the closing down of studies for the Christmas holidays, and the occasion of the long worked for concert. To the parents and friends, it also appeared to be a red letter day, from the way in which they turned out to see the performers, the Gymnasium being well filled quite half an hour before advertised time of commencement, and by the time the curtain went up, fully 700 people were in the hall.

Chairman Tait, in a few remarks, caused considerable amusement by stating that he had not much to say, and knew that the audience would appreciate that fact. He gave particulars as to the number of pupils attending both public and high schools, as compared with the previous year, and spoke of the additional accommodation provided which, however, still left much to be desired from a health point of view.

The first number on the program, a large number of which had been made by the pupils and were distributed at the door, was a school chorus of about 100 girls, who very sweetly sang the Christmas favorite, "Good King Wenceslas," after which Willie Thornber recited "Little Willie's Hearing," which caused much amusement. Following this, the boys of Division 5 and 6, gave a drill in costume, which was one of the features of the evening, and was given a second time on request. The boys were dressed in colored suits as gnomes, and the manner in which they went through the evolutions of the drill showed much attention on their part, and a great deal of teaching on the part of their instructor.

One of the prettiest items of the evening was the sketch, "Sleeping Beauty," given by the little ones of Divisions 7, 8 and 9, and the teachers, Miss Banks, Miss Elliott and Mrs. Denton, are to be congratulated on their success. The King (John Theed), the queen (Doreen Howis), prince (Ronald MacKay), princess (dna Baker), witch (Marianne Orr), and good fairy (Audrey Reynolds), who were the principals, carried out their parts in a very admirable manner, and received much applause from the audience, who were charmed with the quaint dresses and earnest manners of the little actors.

A recitation by Dorothy Lott, entitled "The Teacher," was followed by a chorus from Divisions 7, 8 and 9, and a recitation by Donald Orr, which was very well and distinctly rendered. Divisions 3 and 4 gave a short sketch, and the school chorus sang "Holy Night," after which Eric Johnson recited "Grumble Tom."

The girls of Divisions 5 and 6 were seen in a very smart drill, the movements of which were followed with interest, the dresses of the performers being pretty and tasteful.

Wilbert Devitt recited "Soap the Oppressor" in a very creditable manner, which caused much amusement to the spectators, but did not succeed in bringing a smile to the face of the reciter. The closing sketch by Divisions 1 and 2, was a negro knockabout farce, which fully earned its name, giving great delight to the school children and performers alike, and indeed, some of the grown ups found themselves laughing involuntarily at the ridiculous antics of the "coons." It was a part admirably suited to boys of that age, and they certainly carried out the instruction of their teacher, Mr. Davidson, in an excellent manner.

With a school chorus and the National Anthem, the concert closed, and the children were taken home by their parents and friends, tired but happy, with their thoughts dwelling on the next big item, "Santa Claus." Space does not permit mention of all who took part but at the same time it was pretty hard to single out any particular item better than the rest. One thing very noticeable was the splendid singing of the school chorus of girls, which was nicely balanced, the altos especially being heard to advantage.

Miss Dale and Miss Banks worked assiduously at the piano and no small measure of success is due to their efforts, while Principal S. A. MacDonald seemed to be in his element amongst his numerous little friends.

K. V. R. TAKES OVER DEPOT AT PRINCETON

Ever since the K. V. Railway was built into Princeton their business there has been handled through the Great Northern depot and by a G. N. agent and staff. Recently a change took effect. Kettle Valley officials are now in charge and will act as agents for the Great Northern.

The change is due to the policy of the G. N. company to reduce operating expenses wherever possible and also to the fact that while the station has been run on a fifty-fifty basis, the business of the Kettle Valley has lately been greatly in excess of that of the Great Northern. Further, the K. V. have lately been anxious to close their down-town telegraph office and have the work all done at the depot. This was not acceptable to the G. N. company, placing as it would, extra labor on an already over-worked staff.

The change has revived the old suggestion that the Kettle Valley intends to take over the Princeton-Orrville section of the V., V. & E., but there does not appear to be any grounds for the rumor.

DIAMOND DRILL AT WHITE LAKE MINE

Summerland Syndicate Pushing Development of Promising Property.

Mr. Glenville A. Collins, consulting engineer of Vancouver, was a visitor to Summerland a few days ago, and gave The Review an interesting interview on the progress being made on the coal mine property of the White Lake Collieries, Ltd., a Summerland syndicate.

Diamond drilling was started on Thursday of last week by Boyles Bros., of Spokane, who have been given a contract, and Mr. Collins has been visiting the property to indicate the points where drilling was to be done. He says the company are going about the development work in the right way, and that they will be producing heavily in a short time. Already a number of good workable measures have been definitely located, and Mr. Collins states that he would not be surprised to see a town of 1500 people at the White Lake colliery within two years.

The coal is of a semi-anthracite nature, and is described by Mr. Collins as the best coal so far discovered in Canada, containing 78 per cent. carbon and 6.5 per cent. ash. He predicts that the property will be one of the richest coal mining propositions in the province.

Asked for some reasons for his optimism, and if geological formations justified same, the engineer, with paper and pencil, described the valley as a large saucer with layer upon layer in saucer shape of coal seams, the edges of which showed all around the edge of the saucer-shaped valley. Six or seven workable seams had been located, and there are indications of up to 14 of these layers of coal.

Mr. Hookham and his associates are to be congratulated upon the promising appearance their property is making.

Sunday School Institutes.

Institutes will be held at Naramata, Pentiction and Summerland during January as follows: Pentiction, January 13th; Summerland, January 19th, and Naramata, January 26th.

These meetings will consist of two sessions each, opening at 2 o'clock in the afternoons, and 7.30 in the evenings.

Good music will be provided for evening sessions.

All meetings will be open to the public.

An interesting and profitable time is assured all who attend. Programs will appear later.

GETS FIRST CHEQUE OF LIQUOR PROFITS

Half This Sum Goes Into General Fund and Half for Hospital Purposes.

Municipal Treasurer Nixon received from the provincial government, Thursday morning, a cheque for $1176.48, being Summerland's share of the profits from the sale of liquor up to September 30th.

Altogether $200,000 is being apportioned on the basis of population. It is reported that the first apportionment is only approximate, pending the 1921 census figures. Summerland's share is based on a population of 2000. The Act requires that half of the sum shall be expended for hospitals. The other half goes into the general fund.

Peachland is awarded $229.53, Pentiction $1764.70, Kelowna gets $1470.59 and Vernon $1764.70.

H. S. PUPILS HOLD SOCIAL GATHERING

Enjoy Good Time at Games Following Close of School Term.

Taking advantage of the holidays and in accordance with the spirit of the season, the pupils of the High School arranged a very pretty and successful party among themselves, which took place on Wednesday evening at the Parish Hall.

In a methodical manner, the scholars gained first the approval of Principal D. J. Welsh to the undertaking, and then formed themselves into committees to arrange the various parts of the entertainment, and obtain the use of the hall for the occasion.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the young people gathered and with the exception of a short time given to a supper, which was provided by the girls, the whole of the evening was spent in various games, which provided plenty of fun. Time soon passed, and it was with much regret that the hour of departure came round all too soon, and the scholars wended their way home well pleased with the success of their program from start to finish.

The party was chaperoned by Mrs. A. Walden and Mrs. P. Knowles at the request of a committee of pupils, and helped much in forwarding the management of the entertainment, and at the closing time, saw to it that each of their charges left for home, before putting out the lights.

CONTRIBUTE CENT PER BOX TO FIGHT CODLING MOTH

Pentiction Members of B.C.F.G.A. Resolve to Give Financial Support to Campaign.

Pentiction.—Pentiction growers will give one cent a box on all apples and pears shipped from here each season to fight the codling moth. This was the decision reached at a meeting of the local branch of the B.C.F.G.A. at the Municipal Hall on Friday afternoon. About sixty growers attended.

D. A. Budge, representative on the association executive outlined the present situation with regard to the codling moth and strongly appealed to the orchardists to come to the aid of the departments in combating this pest.

A resolution was passed as follows: "We, the undersigned fruit growers of Pentiction, pledge ourselves to contribute up to the amount of one cent per packed box of apples and pears per year as Pentiction's contribution to fight the codling moth infestation in the Okanagan Valley. The method of collecting the money is to be decided by the B.C.F.G.A. convention at Victoria in January."

Although Pentiction is not itself at present seriously threatened, some of the other valley districts are experiencing the inroads of the codling moth and the orchardists here feel that unless the valley takes up the matter as a whole, it will not be long before the pest is scattered broadcast through all the Okanagan fruit areas.

All local growers are to be asked to sign the resolution, to which quite a number affixed their signatures at the Friday meeting.

MEETING URGES NEW BUILDING

Ratepayers' Meeting Discusses School Situation—Candidates for Civic Honors.

The urgency of the local school situation with respect to needed additional class room accommodation, was practically the only subject under discussion at the public meeting, held Tuesday evening, in the St. Stephen's Hall.

Due, no doubt, to the cold weather, there were only fifty or sixty present, but it was nevertheless a fairly representative gathering. The meeting was called to order by J. C. Freeman, president of the board of trade, under whose auspices it had been called, but after explaining the purpose of the meeting, Mr. Freeman asked that a chairman be appointed and the Rev. H. A. Solly was elected.

The purpose of the meeting was to bring out candidates for civic honors. Mr. Solly urged the importance of the school question, declaring there was no other subject so important as the education of our children. Public schools give all an equal chance and there is a very onerous duty on the part of the school board. They must plan to spend money to the best advantage in providing necessary class rooms.

Following a lengthy discussion, a resolution proposed by Coun. G. Thornber, seconded by Geo. Graham, was adopted to the effect that the incoming board of school trustees be requested to obtain estimates on the most economical type of building, keeping in mind such matters as health of the pupils, efficiency, etc., and that the type of building selected be one which can be added to from time to time.

It was shown that six or seven additional class rooms should be available on February 1st and that probably eight will be required after the midsummer holidays. Coun. Thornber stated that he had been advised by an architect that satisfactory class room accommodation could be provided at a cost approximately of $2000 per room. He believed a by-law for a reasonable sum would carry, particularly if submitted along with an irrigation bylaw.

Mr. J. R. Campbell stated that it had been realized that we must have a new school building and the new trustees should get to work early and get all details and submit them to the people.

Jas. Ritchie advocated a type of building that would be of such appearance as to be a distinct credit to the community, declaring that an attractive building would be a great advertising feature. People coming to the Valley were going to the centres where the best school accommodation was provided. We should not build schools that will condemn the community by their outside appearance. He questioned whether the proposed building was good enough.

Coun. Thornber advocated taking care of the present and declared that if our children were given efficient schooling, this will in itself be good advertising. In this he was supported by C. J. Huddleston and others.

Mrs. Bentley brought out the information that the present school rates were $48 for an average ten-acre lot, not a high price, she thought, for a year's schooling, even for only one pupil from each lot.

Among others who took part in the discussion were Capt. Temple, C. H. Tate, A. E. Cline, J. C. Freeman and F. J. Nixon, the latter suggesting that a referendum might be submitted to the ratepayers at the annual elections, when several questions might be put.

The policy of the meeting was to list only the names of those who were present and consented or were known to be available for civic honors. Mr. J. R. Campbell consented to serve as reeve, providing the present reeve was not seeking re-election, or he would act as councillor.

Among those proposed for councillors were R. Johnston, W. Ritchie, B. Steuart, G. L. Salter, Councillors Scott, Kirk and Bristow.

For school trustees, J. R. Campbell, Mrs. Bentley, B. Steuart, J. L. Whiteford, G. Inglis, O. E. Mann, W. T. Broad and Trustees Sharpe and Zimmerman.

For police commissioner, R. Johnston.

Several of the speakers favored councillors serving on the school board.

A Christmas Story.

On Thursday of every week in the three years since he had left home, Jim Ogdensby had written to his mother, and on the same day he had received a letter from her. In all that time he had never once mentioned his father, though he had often thought of him. But Mother had always made a mention of Dad. It had always been the same until today. "Dad is well." This time it read, "Dad is brooding over something, Jim, and he won't tell me what it is. He says he feels all right, but he is very quiet, and doesn't seem to hear what we say to him sometimes. Seems to like to sit and brood. I'm afraid for him, Jim."

He slipped the letter into his pocket, turned off the light at his desk, and sat in the semi-darkness of the office of the financial institution where he was beginning to make his mark. The windows of the room overlooked one of the main streets of the city. The street lamps, and the thousands of lights from windows and advertising designs, lit up the thoroughfare. Hurrying throngs, growing larger with every minute, were sweeping by; it was nearing the hour when most of the city's industries would close for the day.

The crowds, the bustle, the noise, and the lights combined in the making of a spectacle that had always fascinated and appalled him since he had left home, determined that the city should give him place and wealth. He was wrestling both from it as others, country born and bred, had done before him. But he had never softened toward it, never taken it to his heart. To him it always seemed so callously indifferent, so imperiously proud, so certain in the end to crush out of those who professed to love it most, all that was best and noblest.

Some day he would go back again to the country, to the open that called to him, to the woods he knew, to the fields, to the smell of good earth and the feel of it beneath the feet, to everything that had made life worth living. What did they know, who dwelt in the cities, of the "life" that they talked so much about?

Yes, some day he would go back, but not to the house where he was born, the home he had loved and often longed for. He pictured the restful orchard, the silvery river where he had learned to swim, mother's flower garden, the big barn yard, the little sisters who had wept so bitterly when he had said good-bye. He would see them too, some day, but he would not go back there until his father would say that he had been in the wrong, that he was sorry he had lost his temper and struck him—almost a man grown—for taking the "flivver" to the school picnic, without asking permission to do so. Dad must write and say that he was sorry, or ask Mother to say it for him, or else—he drew back his head with a sudden jerk. Or else what? Did he mean, he asked himself, that he would not go back until Dad did? And he loved Dad, too. There was no doubt in his mind on that point, when he tried to analyze his feelings. But he could not forget that blow. There must be an understanding about that.

A knock at the door interrupted his thoughts. He switched on the lights, calling out "Come in," as he did so. There entered Miss Bettie Dalton, dainty, brown-haired, brown-eyed, who was stenographer to himself and Charlie Morrison, another rising employee.

"Mr. Ogdensby," she began, somewhat diffidently, "It's just two weeks to Christmas and I would like to spend a few days around that time at my home. Mr. Morrison is willing that I should have a few days if you are."

"Certainly, certainly," he said, "make whatever arrangements you choose. Guess we'll manage to get along for a few days." Some impulse moved him to ask: "Is your home in the country?"

"Yes," she said, "near Ogdensby." He started and stammered, "Then I ought to know you; that place was—it was—named after my folks. I don't remember anyone of your name around there."

"No," she answered, hesitatingly. "My real name is Bettie Dalton Hamilton. I've always taken my Auntie's name—Dalton—in the city.

Dr. Paton says women ruled in 2500 B. C. This makes 3321 years they have held office.

Christmas comes on Sunday, thereby losing a holiday. It's a hard winter.

It may be true short skirts will be worn longer but it looks like long skirts will be worn shorter.

I live with her here, and she's very good to me."

"Then I do know you—or at least your family well," Ogdensby said, "Why, you used to play with my sisters. You were a tiny little tot though."

"Yes," she smiled at him. "I remember you well; when I was in the junior class at school, you were passing out. I remember an old copy book of yours, I found after you left school. It had some verses in it that you had copied; one of them always appealed to me."

"What was it?" he asked. "I'll type it out tomorrow, if you don't mind," she said quietly, "and now if you have no more letters, may I go?"

"Yes—oh of course—yes—yes," he stammered, rising awkwardly and opening the door for her.

The next morning he found on his desk the typewritten verse she had promised him. He grinned as he took it up furtively, with the thought that it might be from some love song or ballad. Then he read it, once, and again, and a flood tide of sweet memories swept his very soul. In intervals of leisure during the rest of the day he said that verse to himself, softly and lingeringly.

"The city streets are fair and bright, The city folks are gay; Their hearts to joy attuned are Upon this Christmas Day; But far beyond the city streets In fancy do I roam, Across the fields and down the lane, That leads away back to home."

That afternoon he wrote a long letter to Dad. It was an outpouring of heart, frank, natural, full of the things a father might want to know, of what his boy was doing, and he would it up with the declaration that he would be home for Christmas, and in the spring would come back to stay on the farm, as they had planned it together in the happy days, if Dad would have him.

The next morning there was a letter from Dad, the first he had received since he had left home. It had crossed his own. It was a short affectionate appeal to Jim to spend Christmas at home, to forgive a hasty decision and a hasty blow. "Mother is worrying about me now, Jim," it went on "because I'm worrying about you. And that's all that's the matter with me, lad, truly. Bodily I'm fit, but oh! Jim—life is short at the best."

There was a song in Jim Ogdensby's heart that day and for many a day thereafter. It was almost loud enough for others to hear, a day or two before Christmas, when he boarded a train for the tedious day's journey that would take him home.

Miss Bettie Hamilton was a passenger, too, and her brightness and friendliness added more stanzas to the song of his heart. The journey that had promised to be wearisome was, after all, a rather jolly one. Jim made certain, in a man's clumsy way, that Bettie would rather live in the country than in the city, and that she was still fancy free. And looking at his stalwart figure and frank face, Bettie was sure that he would be a fine partner to travel with along the broad highway of life.

The whole Ogdensby family was at the station to meet Jim. He kissed them all—Dad included—without embarrassment or shame. Mother wept a little after they reached home, but her tears were not of sorrow. Dad said little, but there was a wonderful light in his eyes, a glow on his face, and deep emotion in his voice when, as they parted at Jim's bedroom door, he uttered the familiar benediction, "Good night, lad, and God bless you."

Before Jim was up in the morning, his mother slipped into his room and sat on the bed as she used to do when he was a youngster. She talked of many things, and finally asked in a casual way about Bettie Hamilton and her work.

Then Jim told the story of the verse the girl had written out for him. His mother listened without comment, but as she went downstairs she said to herself: "He's in love with her already. I wonder what he'll say when she tells him some day how she and his own mother arranged that he should see that verse?"

Have a right merry Christmas and a royal good time.

As we grow older, let us be more thankful that the circle of our Christmas associations and of the lessons that they bring, expands! Let us welcome every one of them and summon them to take their places by the Christmas hearth.

Let us try to imagine what a scene the world would present if all men the earth round could have and enjoy one perfect Christmas—one day in which the Christmas spirit should manifest itself in every human heart in all its happiest, truest, largest meaning. What a foretaste of the millennium such a day would be.

CHRISTMAS MUSINGS.

There are warmer hand-shakings on this night, wrote Alexander Smith, than during the by-past 12 months. Friend lives in the mind of friend. There is more charity at this time than at any other. Poverty and scanty clothing, and fireless grates come home to the bosoms of the rich and they give of their abundance. The very redbreast of the woods enjoys his Christmas feast. Good feeling incarnates itself in plum pudding. The Master's words, "The poor ye have always with you," wear at this time a deep significance. For at least one night on each year over all Christendom there is brotherhood. And good men, sitting amongst their families, or by a solitary fire like me, when they remember the light that shone over the poor clowns huddling on the Bethlehem plains 1900 years ago, the apparition of shining angels over head, the song, "Peace on Earth and Good Will Towards Men," which for the first time hallowed the midnight air—pray for that strain's fulfillment, that battle and strife may vex the nations no more, that not only on Christmas eve, but the year round men shall be brethren, owning one Father in heaven.

Christmas eve! The wondrous Santa Claus comes to the children with thee. What visions of dolls, games, books, candies, and lai sorts of goodies; drums, trumpets, whistles of all sorts of squeaks and discordant blasts, and the wonderful Christmas tree with its brilliant lights, gay colors, and mysterious packages, some of which may contain the long-wished-for skates or the huge jack knife. It is all enchantment, all the color of the rose, the rainbow that spans their young lives. Not all the agony in the manger, all the wonder of the story of the Star of Bethlehem, of the following and guiding of the wise men to the lowly cradle of the coming King; not all the sad beauty of the old, old story can fully satisfy the juvenile heart like these. But are we not children of a larger growth? In spite of the solemnity of the occasion, in spite of its deep and tender meaning, the gifts and goodies and merry-making are all dear to us, children in heart as we are.

Let them tear Santa's white beard off at the Sunday school festival and growl in his bearskin coat. These are only his disguises. The steps of the real Santa Claus you can trace all through the world and when you stand in the last of his tracks you will find the Blessed Babe of Bethlehem smiling a welcome to you.

There is only one way to make a white Christmas even though there may not be a flake of snow in sight. Let the whiteness be in your heart. Put aside all thoughts of guile. Forget all the big or little bitterness you may be entertaining against some other person. Cast out all envy, all covetousness, all unkindness. Endeavor to harbor in your heart only such thoughts and feelings as the Nazarene knew when he dwelt by Galilee. Cultivate human brotherhood. Practice Christian charity. Look beyond and above your workaday horizon. Get out of yourself. Get into the heart of others.

In olden days there existed in many places a belief that the girl who was not kissed under the mistletoe during the Christmas season would not be married during the succeeding year. In such localities kissing a girl would be a positive kindness. There is a story of one damsel who, to make sure, wore mistletoe on her hat.

The person who shall do the most to cheer the hearts of the needy poor will have the merriest Christmas and the happiest New Year. Try it and see.

BASKETBALL

The first official basketball games of the newly-formed Southern Okanagan league (Summerland, Naramata and Penticton) were played off in Naramata on Wednesday, December 14. The game between the men's teams resulted in a victory for Penticton with a score of 39-8, while that between the ladies ended in favor of Naramata with a score of 13-8.

The ladies' teams were evenly matched and put up a very snappy exhibition, playing good ball throughout. Naramata got off to a good start, and kept their advantage all through the game, in spite of the aggressive forward play and vigilant guarding of the Penticton ladies. The game ended with Naramata showing a safe margin in the lead. The men's game, which followed, was quite a lively and exciting struggle. The Naramata boys, though considerably outweighed and out-classed, put up a hard defensive fight and their forwards were considerably handicapped by the greater weight and longer reach of the Penticton guards, while the superior combination and shooting ability of Penticton's forward line, kept their lighter opponents guessing. However, with a bit more practice, especially in shooting baskets, it is hoped Naramata may get its own back in a future game. Needless to say, the end of this contest left Penticton with considerably the longer end of the score.

Mr. Ellis, of Penticton, refereed both games. Refreshments were served in the Naramata hotel, by courtesy of Mrs. J. M. Robinson and daughters, and the evening's entertainment ended with a social session in which all mingled, closing with the best of good will on both sides and promises of a reversal in scores at the next game.

The men's line-up was: Naramata—Don Salting, Gordon Williams, Dick Lawrence, Harold Symons, Teddy Signour. Penticton—Ralph Brown, Victor DeBeck, Bobby Phinney, Mr. Smith, Dr. Turner; spare, E. Adams.

The girls' line-up was: Naramata—Margaret Symons, Dorothy Robinson, Margaret Allen, Nessie Rushbury, Lila Young; spare, Dot Partridge. Penticton—Edith Mitchell, Lillian Beatty, Frances Gibson, Norma Lus-menaing, Eleanor Mahoney.

Gone, But Not Forgotten.
"Are caterpillars good to eat?" asked little Tommy at the dinner table.

"No," said his father; "what makes you ask a question like that while we are eating?"

"You had one on your lettuce, but it's gone now," replied Tommy.—Exchange.

Current Events of Town and District

The Southern Okanagan is in the grip of what it calls winter. In Naramata the thermometer reached the level of 5 degrees above zero on Sunday night, the lowest level reached during last winter. Combined with a strong gale from the north, this does not make pleasant weather, and indications point to a further fall in temperature tonight—Monday. The usual consolations are being exchanged: "It's bad enough here, but think of those miserable wretches who don't live in Naramata!"

The school-closing exercises on Friday afternoon attracted a large number of the parents of the children, as well as the members of the trustee board. Senior and junior classes were assembled in Miss Wilson's room, but both rooms were gay with Christmas decorations, Christmas trees, and exhibitions of work done during the year. Mr. King, chairman of the school board, spoke a few words, after which a very well rendered program was put on by the children, Norman Hauck acting as chairman. The numbers given by the junior room were: Address of welcome, Rosemary Hardman; carol, "O Little Town of Bethlehem"; recitation, "Arthur McConkey"; song, "Jack Frost," eight children; a visit from St. Nicholas, by the class; song, "The Squirrel," Lloyd Iverson; "The Christmas Stocking," Bob Munro; recitation, "Christmas Bells," fourteen children; song, Bruce Dobie; carol, "Away in the Manger."

The school closing exercises at the Trepanier and Central schools proved a great success. Miss Elliott of Trepanier; Miss Cousins, of the junior department of the Central school, and Miss Murdin, of the intermediate department had arranged programs, among their pupils which were very well carried out in each department. Each had a Christmas tree nicely decorated and loaded with treats for their pupils, and as it turned out not only the pupils received surprises, for the scholars had been quietly busy and produced some pleasant surprises for the teachers in the way of dainties and remembrances. There was a large number of interested grown ups in attendance and all were loud in their praise of the work done by the teachers and the deep interest they were taking in their work.

The following is the class standing for December:
Senior Department.
Entrance Class—Margorie Brown, 869½; Frances Clements, 852; Ivy Law, 788; Minnie Robertson, 778; John Morsh, 735; Beatrice Topham, 733; Geoff Drought, 710; Eddy Williams, 705; Wallace MacKenzie, 704.
Junior Fourth Grade—John Johnson, 778; Jack Hyde, 731; Henry Wilson, 728; Annie Taylor, 727; Elizabeth Topham, 726; James Clements, 712; Isabelle Taylor, 710; Gordon Morrison, 707; Ruth Brinson, 702.
Intermediate Department.
Senior Class Average—Arthur McCall, 91; Margaret Harrington, 88; Irvine Ashley, 87; Ida Buffle, 86.
Second Reader—Willa Elliott, 89; Margaret Alpaugh, 87; Frank Brown, 87; Phillis Drake, 87.

The C. G. I. T. met in the church basement on Friday afternoon, Miss Wilson and Miss Standen being guests of honor on this occasion. They were presented with handsome boxes of writing paper by the girls of the department, and many regrets were expressed at the fact that circumstances forced them to leave the district. Mrs. Aitkins spoke very interestingly to the assembled girls, and at the close, tea was served.

The Women's Auxiliary held their annual sale of work on Saturday afternoon in the Unity Club, sewing, home-cooking, candy and Christmas tree novelties finding a ready sale. Tea was served on the verandah, which had been screened in by canvas for the afternoon. This made the clubroom less crowded than last year, and so contributed to the convenience and comfort of the sellers and buyers, but unfortunately the day was cold, and those who took tea found the verandah chilly. A sum of over $120 was realized from the proceeds of the afternoon. Mrs. Horswill was in charge and was assisted by Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Manchester, Miss Gordon, Mrs. Rayner, Mrs. Cross, Miss Gwen Robinson and others. Rev. H. A. Solly was present and spoke a few words in declaring the sale open.

One-half the trouble in every community, comes from the fact that so many people have not the capacity to keep their mouths shut. We have two ears but only one tongue which is suggestive of the fact that we should hear more than we tell. By the power of a secret divulged families, churches, neighborhoods and even nations fly apart. By the power of a secret kept, great charities, reformatory movements and Christian enterprises may be advanced.

COAL

THERE is no time like the present to prepare for the future. Coal bought and placed in the bin not only gives one a "comfy" feeling about the coming of winter, but its good business. There is a material saving in the cost in buying the winter's fuel supply early in the season.

Let us fill your bin at once with the best all service coal that can be had. We have a car ordered and will be in position to supply your coal requirements in good shape at prices same as last year. Quality same as last year.

Friday, December 23, 1921

Once more the festive season has rolled around and Christmas, with all it means, will soon be with us again, bringing the old and familiar message, "Peace on Earth, Goodwill Towards Men," which still stands true in spite of much that happens.

In all those things that may be for their material and moral welfare during this festive season, the staff of The Review wish their readers and advertisers an abundance in addition to

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

CHRISTMAS.

Christmas is not a day or a season, but a condition of heart and mind. If we love our neighbors as ourselves; if in our riches we are poor in spirit and in our poverty we are rich in grace; if our charity vaunteth not itself, but suffereth long and is kind; if when our brother asks a loaf we give ourselves instead; if each day dawns in opportunity and sets in achievement, however small; then every day is Christ's day and Christmas is always near.—James Wallingford.

OUR OWN OKANAGAN.

Below is a word picture of the Okanagan and Naramata, by Agnes C. Laut, taken from a very readable article in MacLean's Magazine, entitled "Little Theatre of the Hills—Canada," in which that well-known writer uses the spirit behind the Home Theatre of Canadian Players, Naramata, as emblematic of the new Canadian spirit and in which she offers much good advice, and points the way to increased prosperity for Canada as a nation.

"Picture a long, narrow lake, blue as the Mediterranean or the Gulf of Mexico, lying between two long chains of rugged opal gray mountains with the primrose tints of rainbow slants, before and after the sun is at its zenith. Imagine an atmosphere as soft as Italy's, or Florida's, as clear as Denver's. On the terrace hillsides are orchards and gardens—orchards and gardens countless with little bungalow villas and red and green tiled roofs breaking the sweep of tense green.

No, these are not the orange groves of Italy, nor the almond ranches of California, though they might be either—if either, more Canadians would make pilgrimages to see this little theatre built in the amphitheatre of our own British Columbia, which most of us ten years ago used to regard as about 3000 miles away from anywhere; and right in the heart of this valley is the little Theatre in the Hills, dedicated to the Canadian spirit and built on faith in that Canadian spirit."

ORIENTAL SEGREGATION

That the Kelowna City Council have been asked to consent to the erection of a church building in the neighborhood of Chinatown in that city, for the sole use of the Japanese population, has a significance that cannot be overlooked, especially in view of the fact that the Orientals have already subscribed $5000 towards the building.

While we have no wish to unduly depreciate our Asiatic citizens, we feel that it is unfortunate that they should be in the Valley in such numbers as to be able to press the advisability of such a proceeding, and it only goes to show the secret strength of these little people, who have so insidiously worked their way among us. Since, however, they are here, it is no doubt just as well that they be segregated to one part of each community, as, industrious and praiseworthy these people may be, it is sure that they will never be received on an even basis with white people, one reason being that they will never assimilate as do European nations, and another, although they may become naturalized Canadians, they are still subjects of the Japanese Empire, to whom they are liable for military service at any time. What cannot be cured must be endured, but there is no doubt it is the earnest wish of every British Columbian that the influx of Orientals into this province could be checked, as this problem is large and formidable enough as it is.

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS TREE.

Many years ago—very many years ago—a small party of men landed from an open boat on a rocky coast. The men came from Palestine and the inhospitable shore was the shore of barbarian England.

The party was headed by one Joseph of Arimathea and he came to tell the people of England, for the first time, of Jesus, who died for men and women.

The natives would have nothing to do with them—would not listen, or go near them, or give them food. For days they travelled, chill and hungry until, despairing, Joseph sank down. As he did so, he thrust his staff into the ground. To the amazement of the pilgrims, the stick began to bud; the buds turned into leaves and fragrant blooms unfolded before their astonished eyes.

"It is a sign from God!" said Joseph. "He bids us have courage. Let us settle here and preach about Jesus." They built a rough house and chapel alongside the little tree and many years later that house was replaced with beautiful Glastonbury Abbey.

But the tree lived all through Joseph's life and long after, and it is said that it blossomed every Christmas Eve.

Such, friends, is the beautiful legend of the world's first Christmas tree. And that is why our little children's Christmas tree cannot be of bare branches, but must be green—blooming. Blooming, as blooms the eternal love of the man of Galilee for all humanity.

HOW EVERY MAN CAN HELP.

How many of you men under whose eyes these words fall, know of a boy just growing up who seems to have no ambition; who either goes dully through his days or is plainly as reckless of the things of tomorrow as he was of the things of yesterday.

Are you, who knows such a boy, too busy, sir, to take a real interest in that growing young fellow? Don't you know that what that boy needs as much as anything else at his stage in life is a friendly advance from somebody older; that he needs advice not given as mere advice but quite plainly from a sincere desire to be of SERVICE to him and to his future?

Do not feel that the boy's father and his mother are enough. God knows that they try to do their best by their boy, but the fact is father and mother have been advising and governing him all his life and the young fellow takes it from them as a matter of monotonous duty and dull home routine. When he is 16 to 18 or 19, he needs something more; he needs a rub from the world without, and if the rub is friendly, good-natured and manly, all the better for the boy.

Man, the touch you give that boy acquaintance may mean a good citizen or a bad citizen a few years hence. Forget his surliness; forget even seeming stupidity—they may be masks that cover the yearning for an understanding heart.

But whatever you do, Mr. Busy Man, take notice of your neighbor's growing boy when he is in your vicinity or when you meet him. A cheerful word and a smile will go a long way even if you haven't time to stop and talk to him as one man to another.

CHRISTMAS MEDITATION.

Long years ago, good tidings came
Of Peace—Good-will—to Men
In this glad hour, it comes the same—
To every heart—that precious Name—
As hallowed—now—as then.
Let myriad souls as one—rejoice—
A legion Anthems raise—
Acclaiming Him, with heart and voice,
Our Faith—our Hope—our Life—our Choice,
Let all that liveth—praise!

Yet shall it be a solemn hour—
The Christ-child's natal day!
Lest Mammon's dreadful war-clouds lower—
Lest demons come—in fiendish power
To put our Christ away—
Great God! From this—our mortal ken—
Drive every doubt today—
Let "Peace on Earth, Good-Will to Men"
Be all-triumphant—Now—as Then—
In His Dear Name—we pray!

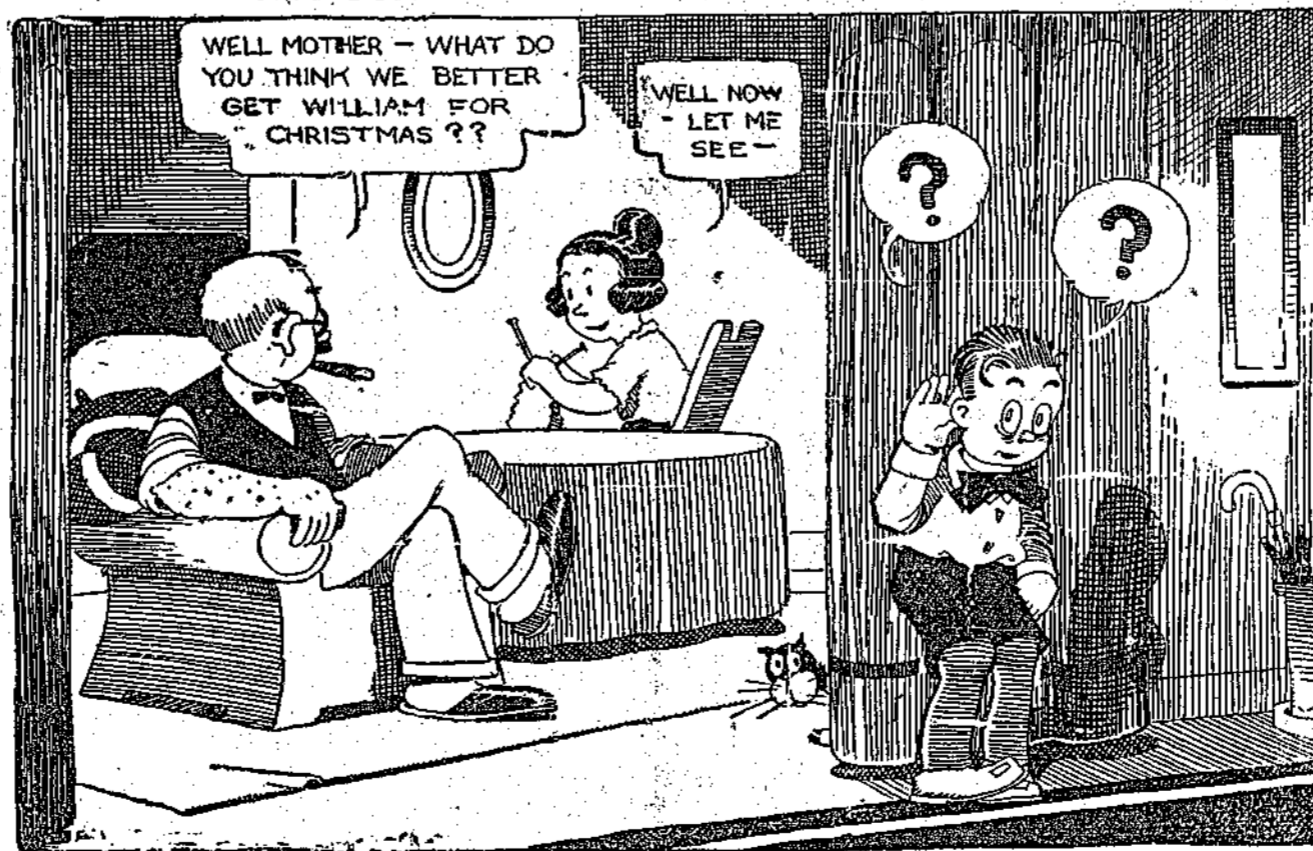

THE PASSING SHOW

The pirate thrives on his victims' lives, an' revels in boundin' health; he knows no strain of the bed of pain; as he lolls on his couch of wealth; he feels no sting that the fierce winds bring, nor scorch of the blazin' sun; an' the starvelin's groan or the widder's moan, they never annoy him none. . . . An' when he dies, there points to the skies, a mighty sejestive stone, that marks his rest till the final test, when the soul comes into its own.

An' the saint strives hard fer his scant reward, an' faints be-times with his load; he trusts his God as h eaves his blood on his bubbles burst, an' laughs at the festerin' sore; he struggles on, an' knows when he's gone, he'll never come back no more.

When he boards the ship at the final trip, there's nobody seems to cry,—but some proclaim that he won the game,—can somebody tell me why?

THE WOMEN'S INSTITUTES.

At the regular meeting of the West Summerland Women's Institute, the prize-winners in the recent Christmas story competition were announced, Amy Smith coming first, and Ralph Purvis, second, while Edna Knowles and Dorothy Tomlin got special mention. The two prize stories were read, both receiving most favorable comment from the members present. The prizes, unfortunately not having arrived, will be presented at a later date.

Mrs. J. P. Barnes read an excellent paper in British Dominions, the idea being a tour, with the most interesting information about each place, as one came to it. At the close a vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Barnes.

Tea was served following adjournment.

The December meeting of the Summerland Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Lipsett.

Mrs. MacDonald read a paper on "Musical Instruments." She described some of the ancient stringed instruments and also touched on the many modern makes. Mrs. MacDonald also spoke on great pleasure derived from vocal music, especially some of the great oratorios which have been wonderfully rendered.

The flag presented by the Continental Publishing Co. is now completed with 'he names of those who fell in the Great War attached thereon.

The members are highly pleased with the flag and will have it on view in some prominent window.

After the business a very social time was spent "over the teacups."

PEACHLAND NOTES

Death came rather suddenly this week to Mr. Wm. Van Seymourtier, commonly known as "Old Charlie," a Belgian, who has lived here for some years and owned a small lot in front of Mr. Thos. Elliott's home. For some time he has not been enjoying good health, but recently has been somewhat improved till Monday evening, when he took down suddenly and passed away. Arrangements are being made for his funeral.

The cold snap which we have been experiencing for the past few days brought with it the usual troubles, with frozen water taps and pipes, and every effort is being made to keep the mains and fire hydrants running free.

A number of the young men have been busy for the past few days and evenings, an announce the fact that they have a good rink under way, down where many a pleasant evening has been spent in former years—the old cement pipe factory. They are fixing the place up with a view to having more comfortable quarters at the edge of the ice.

Mr. Atkinson, manager at the Union, is away for the Christmas holidays and Mr. A. Henderson is looking after the business in his absence.

One of our town motorists is coming out shortly with something new in the car line. Mr. Earl Weitzel has been spending a lot of his spare time at the Crystal Garage of late and will soon be sporting a "Studa-ford." It will possibly embody a portion of Lizzie's tin, but have the elegance of the celebrated Studa-baker, and is decidedly of Irish descent, so look out for it.

Canada has the largest railway yards in the world operated by one concern—the C.P.R. at Winnipeg, with 258 miles of sidings.

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1921.

Anti-religionists seize on the evidences of the beginnings of animal life, as found in solid rocks that must be untold millions of years old, to refute the Bible story of the creation by Got. They forget that Genesis was written in an age that thought fancifully and by men who spoke in representative terms. The truth is that there is nothing in the highest or the deepest modern science to disprove that God created the original substance which became animal bone and muscle and brain, and gave it life, and in His own good time invested it—the human section of His creature creation—with a deathless soul. It doesn't matter in the slightest how many millions of years ago these events took place.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Owing to the resignation of the first assistant in November and consequent changes in the teaching staff that had to be made in order to carry on the work, the regular term examinations were postponed, much to the delight of the pupils, till the end of January. At that time, however, a thorough and careful test will be made of the standing of each pupil.

The first year, under Mrs. Welsh, has been making good progress in the various subjects. Miss Miller is now teaching all the Latin and will continue to do so next term. It is expected that a new teacher of science will be secured in time for the opening of school after the holidays, January 3rd.

The work of next term includes for the third year especially the formation of a literary and debating society, the object being to secure greater fluency in expression and readiness in debate. For want of a proper assembly hall, these debates must be held in the class room. The subject matter for the most part will be taken from the literature and history studies. The principal has outlined to the class a plan that promises much in the way of development.

The teachers and pupils appreciate very much the interest that has been taken in the school by the Women's Institute. The donating of prizes for a Christmas story, stimulated greater interest in this form of composition. The second year is to be congratulated on having the two winners, Amy Smith and Ralph Purvis, in its ranks.

Miss Miller left on Saturday for Matsqui, where she will spend the holidays.

Mr. Welsh and son, Clifford, went down to the coast on Monday, while Mrs. Welsh is visiting in Vernon and Enderby.

Mr. Wilfred Payne, B.A., of Vancouver, who, on the recommendation of Inspector DeLong was offered the position of science master at a salary of $1800, has wired his acceptance to the secretary, Mr. Bowering, and will begin his duties on January 3rd.

In discussing Shelly's "Chorus from Hellas," the other day, the class came to that line, "As an eagle fed with morning"—and one of our literary lights suggested that the bird had breakfast on scenery.

No, Russell, we have since consulted several good authorities and find that the average healthy eagle prefers a more substantial breakfast of something like a sheep or so. Incidentally we found that some eagles are very fond of children.

A gentleman rushed up to Mr. Welsh the other day and shook him vigorously by the hand.

"My name is Mr. —," he said, "Pleased to meet you, Mr. Welsh! My son took Latin from you last year."

For a moment our worthy principal was puzzled, then, recollecting: "Pardon me, sir," he said, "your son was exposed to Latin, but he did not take it."

Bright Prelim—"I was just thinking—"

Sarcastic Matric—"Oh! I thought I heard something rattle."

The other day we saw the advt. of a local shoe store which ran something like this: "Boys, you can choose your shoes here as safely as your parents'."

Well, well! In our day we weren't allowed to choose our parents.

WEDDINGS.

TEES—ANGWIN.

A wedding of great local interest took place on Wednesday evening in Kitsilano Baptist Church, Vancouver, when Miss Gertrude Wilmot-Angwin, only daughter of the late Dr. J. Wilmot-Angwin and Mrs. J. Wilmot-Angwin, of Summerland, became the bride of Mr. Percy Curran Tees, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Tees, of Calgary. Rev. N. McNaughton performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by Mr. H. G. Estabrook, was gowned in a French model of ivory chamoisee satin and rich Maltese lace, heavily embroidered in seed pearls in lotus flower design, with a graceful veil worn in Juliet fashion, held in place by a pearl bandeau embroidered in pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white carnations, freesias and maidenhair fern.

Miss Marie Lapsley acted as bridesmaid, attired in a smart frock of Orchid Georgette and picture hat of black sequin. She carried a sheaf of mauve chrysanthemums.

Little Miss Margaret Estabrook, as flower girl, wore a chic frock of rose petal pink silk and tulle, and carried a silver basket of pink and white carnations and asparagus fern. The groom was supported by Mr. Tommy Johnston and Mr. Howell Harris. Mr. John McLeod and Mr. Alan Harris acted as ushers.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. J. Dobson and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Herbert J. Vance sang "All Joy Be Thine."

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. H. G. Estabrook. Later the young couple left on a trip to the south, the bride travelling in a smart suit of blue gaberdine over a Georgette blouse, embroidered in iridescent beads and wearing a smart blue hat and ermine stole.

On their return they will take up residence in Fairview, Vancouver.

British Columbia's honey crop for 1921 amounted to 809,074 pounds, according to W. J. Sheppard, provincial apiarist. At 29 cents wholesale a pound the current crop is worth $86,631. Apiculture increased during the year from 1896 to 2072, and hives from 9539 to 10,329.

In the past ten years the number of poultry in Alberta has increased from two and a half million to four and a quarter million, nearly 100 per cent., according to the provincial minister of agriculture. Previously the local market consumed practically the entire production, but at the present time a steady export trade of eggs to Great Britain is being built up.

Beginning with January 1st, substantial reductions will be made in the wages of Fruit Union employees, according to authentic reports. Not only has a heavy cut been made in the monthly wages, which is described by one official as in keeping with the times, but the rate for casual labor has also been reduced to 30c per hour. These rates will, of course, be subject to change by the new board when elected.

Boy Scout Column

Headquarters, The Gymnasium.

Scoutmaster O. F. Zimmerman Meets every Friday evening at 7.30 p.m.

LORD BYNG'S MESSAGE TO SCOUTS

"Canada will be what young Canadians make it. In the making of Canada always keep in your minds the law and the principles of scouting."

BYNG OF VIMY, Chief Scout for Canada.

Lord Byng was once a tenderfoot scout. He passed the different tests like any other scout, became a leader, a scoutmaster, finally a commissioner. And it was his splendid work of many years in scouting that won for him his Silver Wolf. It is of interest to note that the rank of Silver Wolf is the highest achievement that can be attained in scouting. It is only awarded for some distinguished conduct, such as life-saving, or other service of a high order.

The presentation of a large number of proficiency badges at a recent parade represented an important item in the winter's work of our local troop. From the number and variety of the badges, it will be seen that some very hard work has been put in by the boys. The training required to pass the necessary tests for these badges is work of a real constructive nature and the experience gained a decided asset.

At some future date we hope to explain in detail just what these badges mean and give an outline of the examinations for the different badges.

SANTA CLAUS HERE ON SPECIAL VISIT

Among the many activities and social events of the Yuletide season the reception given by Santa Claus in Finley's store on Wednesday afternoon will be long remembered by the children as one of the outstanding events of 1921 Christmas.

Seated in an arbor of artistic design, specially prepared for the occasion, Santa, in his first visit of the season, fairly entranced the children with his genial presence, and the kindly manner in which he presented each kiddie with his bag of candies. The very atmosphere seemed to breathe the Christmas spirit, and much credit is due Mr. Finley for his enterprise and thoughtfulness in arranging this treat for the children. Altogether about 200 bags of candies were distributed.

MEADOW VALLEY ENJOYS CONCERT

The Meadow Valley school was the scene of a pleasant entertainment on Saturday night, the occasion of the annual school concert. The excellent manner in which the songs and recitations were rendered, even by the smallest, bespoke the thoughtful care that Miss Murray had given.

To make comparisons would be, perhaps, invidious, but "The Fairies," sung by Marion Lee, Eunice Downing and Annabel Woods, and "Daisies," by Annabel Woods, were perhaps the prettiest items.

A short play, "Robin Hood," was also given.

At the close of the concert, Santa Claus made his always welcome appearance and with many a merry quip and jest, distributed the parcels from a well loaded tree, which was provided by liberal donations from the members and employees of the Lumber Company.

Santa, having made his exit, the ladies served a bounteous supper, after which dancing was enjoyed for a short while.

The chair was most acceptably filled by that genial old-timer, Mr. Findlay Munro.—Com.

Real Enterprise.

On a certain evening last autumn a group of farmers sat around the stove in the general store and joined in a general and heartfelt complaint about the ravages of the potato bugs.

"The pests ate my whole potato crop in two weeks," said one farmer.

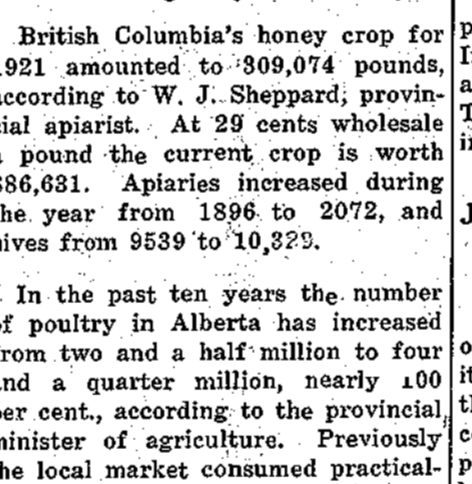

"They ate my crop in two days," said a second farmer, "and then they roosted on the trees to see if I'd plant more."

A salesman who was travelling for a seed house cleared his throat.

"That's remarkable," he said, "but let me tell you what I saw in our own store. I saw a couple of potato bugs examining the books about a week before planting time to see who had bought seed."—Chicago Daily News.

A Christmas Story With a Moral

It was Christmas Eve. The prairie farm lay bathed in moonlight. The deep snow lay all around and the bright stars made a most appropriate setting for Christmas. One could imagine Santa Claus with his reindeer team saying to himself: "This is the kind of Christmas weather I like." Inside the farmhouse everything was very cosy and comfortable. For ten years Bill Morgan and his kind-hearted wife had toiled incessantly and now they were beginning to see the result of their labor.

It was almost bedtime, but the excited children had begged to be allowed to stay up till their Daddy came home. He had gone to town for a few last moment requirements. The pretty Christmas tree was standing in one corner of the room, the parcels from each to each tied and labelled in the childish handwriting. For weeks before the children, five in number, had studied the various mail catalogues, and many an hour was spent in deciding which present the others would like and whether their small store of pocket money would buy all they wanted. This money had all to be earned by various chores. It made each gift of so much more value, when the giver felt that it was of his own earning and not just a heedless gift bought with his parents' money. Often the children and especially Bob, the third son, eight years old, and full of mischief, derived great pleasure by wrapping the parcels so as to make it look quite different from the article it contained. This year he was giving a knife to John, his oldest brother, and the parcel looked as if it were a big book, the Christmas number of Chums, perhaps. He had wrapped Baby Beth's small ball in paper after paper, each tied with a string. His funny little face often wore a smile as he thought of some other practical joke to play on his brothers and sisters.

John was a quiet, steady boy of fourteen and very thoughtful in everything he did. Mary, the exceptionally nice child, was two years younger. Then there was Bob, the torment of the family and Bill, named after his father, and very like his big brother John, whom he worshipped. Last, but not least, there was Baby Beth, a wee tot of three, but the darling of the family. She was to be the recipient of by far the most presents. Everybody had something for her and much to their delight, Mary and her mother had been busy dressing a lovely doll for her. This had to be done in the evenings, after she had gone to bed, and everybody felt interested because neither mother or Mary could join in the games of the evening. However, each garment was gradually completed and added to the wardrobe. Then John suggested that he should make a box to hold her clothes; and Bob, not to be outdone, said that he could make a bed if mother could make the bed-clothes. Little Bill was set to string a necklace of beads.

There had been a great consultation as to what mother's present should be, and at last a very cosy pair of slippers was chosen, while Dad was to get a pipe and tobacco. A great big goose was dressed and ready for the pan; the pantry shelves groaned under the weight of many puddings, pies and cakes. All day the children had been making candy and now all were bathed and ready for bed. They made a happy little group about the kitchen stove, each with a stocking ready to be pinned to the top of his or her bed. Mrs. Morgan sat rocking Beth in her big rocking chair, listening all the time for the sound of sleigh bells above the sound of children's voices. It was Mary who heard them first and a wild rush to the door was quickly turned into a wilder retreat as Bill Morgan came slowly in, a veritable snow-man, trying to catch and "bear hug" any one in reach.

"Too bad to mess all the floor," he said, "but it is clean snow," and failing to catch any of the children, he enveloped her in his snow coat till the children rushed to the rescue.

"Now, Dad," she said when quiet was restored, "the children are already bathed and have just been waiting to say good-night," but as she spoke she saw a quiet, set look come over his face and she knew that there was something amiss.

He sat down in his chair, and the children gathered around. "Wait a minute," he said. "Before I say 'good-night' I have a little tale to tell you, and he huskily cleared his throat. "All of you know Tom Walker."

The children's eyes opened, of course they knew Tom. He had worked for them and had married Jane, the hired girl, six years ago. And they all knew Tommie and little Jessie Walker. They lived only four or five miles away, and five little heads knodded emphatically.

"Well, I was in the store and Dr. Johnson came in and said that last night they got another little baby girl. The doctor said that Mrs. Walker is too sick to cook any Christmas dinner and you know boys, that Tom's crop was frozen. Dr. Johnson says that he saw no Christmas preparations, for Tom is too anxious," their father continued.

It was enough. They all saw what their Daddy meant—"share up the good things." They looked at mother, then at Dad, and mother said, "How can we get them over?"

"The horses are still hitched," said Dad.

"Out, again? That is hard luck," replied mother.

"Pooh! That's nothing."

"Can I come, too," asked John.

"Yes, if your mother will let you."

So immediately a big basket was brought and everything necessary piled in. Bob was very frightened mother should suggest the goose, but was much relieved when she said that a large cooked ham would be better. Pies, cakes, cookies, candies, nuts and oranges were packed in, and then a little present for each.

"What about Baby Beth's doll?"

"No," said Dad. "His wee sweet-heart must not be left out." And mother's slippers? Ever resourceful Dad said that they would be too big for Jane, which reply brought a sigh of relief from Bob. But Dad said he wished he had something for Tom, and Mary, with a quick look around at the others, said: "Daddy, we bought you a pipe and tobacco," and her lip quivered.

"Well, say, that's good of you, and if you don't mind I'll spare them. Meanwhile, mother crossing to his desk and taking out his check-book, asked: "How much shall I put in his pipe to smoke?" Well she knew how little she could spare it, but her big generous heart was not to be denied. The basket packed, John and his father sped across the prairie, and leaving it on the step, waited not for thanks.

It made the Morgan's Christmas much less in material wealth, but richer in spiritual blessings. Nor were they totally unrewarded, for after church they called for their mail, and a great, big, lovely parcel had arrived, and everybody knows what grandmother's parcels contain.

The above, written by Ralph Purvis, was awarded second prize in the competition held by the Women's Institute a short while ago.

To the Editor Summerland Review:
Dear Sir,—I read with considerable interest the sentiments expressed by Mr. O. E. Mann regarding the furnishing of electric light and power to the community. I heartily endorse the stand he has taken and believe that the electric current should be furnished to all householders within the boundaries of the corporation upon the same terms.

The policy pursued by former councils in regard to domestic water service has been grossly unfair to many householders, who were near and yet just far enough away not to get it unless they paid for the main themselves, besides their own private piping, which sometimes amounts to considerable outlay. I had to put in 900 feet myself to get the water to my house and barn. When the present Telephone Company took over the telephone service they have, in the course of time, extended the service to every householder who wanted it. They are justly proud of the number of phones which are in service.

The policy of the Telephone Company should be applied to the electric light and power service. Let all be served alike and the costs pooled among the community as a whole. Otherwise there will be continual discontent.

If it pays to put in poles and wires for telephone service I can't see why it should not also pay to do so for electric light.

Hoping that the incoming council will adopt a liberal policy in regard to electric light service, I remain,
Yours truly,
R. S. MUNRO.

Teacher's Fault.

A school teacher received the following note: "Dear Madam,—Please excuse my Tommy today, he won't come to school because he is acting as timekeeper for his father, and it is your fault. U gave him a example, if a field is 5 miles around how long will it take a man walking three and one-half miles per hour to walk two and one-fourth times around it? Tommy ain't a man, so we sent his father. They went early this morning, and father will walk around the field and Tommy will time him, but please don't give my boy such examples again, because my husband must go to work every day to support his family."

"Have you a little fairy in your home?"

"No, but I have a little miss in my engine."

VERNON FRUIT GROWERS DISCUSS SEASON'S MARKETING OPERATIONS

Executives of Their Union and of the Okanagan United Growers Explain Many Points in Question---Marketing Difficulties.

Several phases of the fruit shipping business common to the valley and of special interest to all growers who ship through the O. U. G., were discussed at a meeting of the members, held in Vernon a few days ago. The Review is indebted to the Vernon News, from which the following report of the meeting is gleaned.

What had been rumored would be a "very stormy meeting" of growers who ship through the Vernon Fruit Union, on Friday afternoon, proved to be a most successful gathering at which everyone seemed anxious to solve the ever-present marketing problems.

It had been rumored that prices to the grower would be small this year compared with what they expected, but when General Manager W. J. McDowall, of the Okanagan United Growers, read the returns which would be paid for certain varieties much satisfaction was manifested.

Sales Manager "Charlie" Lowe, in reviewing the season's marketing difficulties, read telegrams from the firm's representatives in New York, who were optimistic as to the selling of the 350 cars which the association has in that city. "The markets are improving," read the Gotham message and there was every expectation that good prices would be realized.

A number of Coldstream growers, headed by L. A. Cresset Kent, peppered the officials with questions, humorously described as the "Coldstream thirteen points on which definite information was asked and given."

At the conclusion of the meeting it was evident that the cloud of uncertainty had been cleared away, and a really successful get-together heart to heart talk had resulted in a closer understanding between the growers and the officers of the Union and the O. U. G.

The O. U. G. President Mutrie, of the O. U. G., replied to Coldstream's question No. 2, and said that at all times there was a lack of interest in the organization by the members in commenting on the reason that more definite information was not being given to the growers. If this were done competitors would learn of the policies and undertakings of the firm. This was not desirable. There was too much misunderstanding, he continued, by the growers not understanding the marketing of fruit in all its ramifications.

In reply to a question relative to the high telegraph and travelling expenses, Manager McDowall pointed out that the fruit business was practically all done by wire, which resulted in high wire charges.

B. C. Traffic and Credit Association. The B. C. Traffic and Credit Association. Is this now necessary? was question No. 4.

Mr. McDowall replied and told of the organization of the association in 1919 by valley shippers, who saw in this body an opportunity to stabilize credit, traffic and many other matters of importance to every shipper.

"Before the association was organized one shipper was played against the other, but today we present a solid front," he asserted.

He referred to the preparation of the case laid before the tariff commission. By co-operating in this way the valley was successful in withholding the increase of 80 per cent. in express rates, while a year later when a similar application was made by the express companies, the B. C. Traffic and Credit Association fought the 40 per cent. increase and the former was granted but half what they asked from the railway commission.

The cost of the association to the O. U. G. was but $262.50 per month, and for this small amount the growers had been saved thousands of dollars on the purchase of supplies, the greatest savings it was pointed out were in paper, nails and boxes.

Mr. Lowe said that the saving affected by the Traffic and Credit Association on boxes alone amounted to $240,000.

Growers' Sales Agency. The work of the Growers' Sales agency offices and how they had solved the selling problem on the prairies was thoroughly gone into by Mc. McDowall and Mr. Mutrie and it was shown that the earnings from these offices from business other than from the valley, was helping in a great measure to cut down the selling cost to Okanagan Union shippers. This year the earnings from this outside business will be three times that from the O. U. G. account, it was stated.

longs to us," declared Mr. Laidman, "and if any of the men leave the force their positions would be filled by us," in answer to a question as to who controlled the offices.

The Budget System. Much discussion followed the reading of the question relating to the submission of statements showing estimates of the current year's expenditures to the locals before being acted upon. The handling of a perishable commodity like fruit made it difficult to follow out this idea, it was stated. Oftentimes the directors had to act quickly and if any matter of policy or action had to first be referred to the locals the organization might have its business held up pending decisions.

Mr. Kent thought that some machinery should be provided for supplying more information to the growers and while he realized that the directors were doing their best to serve the institutions, nevertheless he believed that more information should be given.

At this point a resolution was submitted which was proposed and seconded by Mr. Giles and Col. Edgett respectively, that the O. U. G. institute a budget system to be submitted quarterly, in which would be outlined matters of policy and appointment of officials, these to be referred to the unions before being acted upon. This was carried.

He paid a high compliment to Mr. Barnes, the organization manager, for securing the business of the Doukhobors.

Many Difficulties. "Charlie" Lowe in telling of the season's marketing difficulties, said that on some cars of fruit the organization would not realize the freight charges. Returns on some consignments of Duchess had only been received a week ago, hence the impossibility of giving the details of the Duchess pool to the growers.

The prairies had only taken 40 per cent. of their usual requirements of apples this season and other markets were in much the same mood, which made selling a very difficult problem. Prices also were away down, which reacted to the disadvantage of the grower.

He was emphatic in declaring that more stringent regulations should be enforced regarding grading and packing, and said that too many cars of immature fruit had been rushed to the market. He advocated the adoption of American pack and grade rules.

On shipments to the United States the growers' interests would be well protected and to confirm this statement Mr. Lowe read telegrams from the company's New York agents, in which the opinion was expressed that good prices, it was expected, would be realized.

Payments Will Be Slow. Mr. McDowall told the growers payments would be slow, due to the large quantity of apples on which definite returns had not been received. This too, he explained, means a financing problem that was being successfully met.

Mr. Kinnard in discussing the wages paid to employees, intimated that the scale would be further reduced in line with the general decline in commodities.

The meeting was quite harmonious and while at times there was some differences of opinion, answers to all the questions on which information was asked, were given to the evident satisfaction and approval of those present.

SYNDICATE LOSES COSTLY STALLION

Mercer, the champion pure bred Percheron stallion, which was purchased by a syndicate of Lumby farmers last spring and captured all prizes at the fairs in the Okanagan Valley during the summer, is dead from colic, according to the Vernon News.

The syndicate paid $10,000 for the animal, purchasing it from Laysell & Parr, of Calgary.

It is understood that Mercer was fully insured.

Two of a Kind.

"Why don't you get rid of that mule?" asked one Virginia ducky of another.

"Well, yo' see, Jim," replied the other, "I hates to give in. Ef I was to trade dat mule off he'd regyard it as a pussual victory. He's been tryin' fo' de last six weeks to get rid of me."—Harper's Magazine.

My Christmas in the Sunny South.

EARLY in December, 1916, on returning home from college, I found awaiting me an invitation from an old school chum to spend my Christmas holidays in the "Sunny South." After due consideration, it was decided that I should accept, which I did by wire, and a few days later I found myself in what is said to be the oldest city in America, Pensacola, Florida, where I was met by my chum, Stanley Kenward, and introduced to his family.

After showing me over the city which, to a Northerner, seemed a curious and wonderful place, Stanley unfolded his plan, which was to take a trip down the west coast of Florida, in his motor launch, the "Petrel."

To one who had been born and brought up on the broad prairies, one can readily imagine how this proposition appealed to me. I quickly agreed, and was taken at once to see the "Petrel," which I found to be a good-sized launch. It was well equipped and capable of carrying ten or twelve passengers. Stanley quickly completed his arrangements, loading on plenty of "grub," tents, fishing tackle, and guns, and on the morning of the twelfth we were off.

Our crew consisted of Stanley, the skipper, Lem Lickery, the guide, two negro servants, Sam and Mike, and myself a passenger. I might say that Mike, although he had an Irish name, was not of that race, although he had many of its characteristics; just as we were about to swing out from the pier, with the exclamation, "lawd-a-massy, dis chile done forgot his snuff," he leaped wildly to the pier, and vanished around a corner. However, he soon returned, and we got away.

It was a lovely morning. The balmy sea air; the mirror like waters of the bay—smooth as oil; the shores lined with evergreen trees; the Gulf of Mexico opening up ahead of us; the city, with its many white walls, behind us; the many and varied kinds of ships in the harbor; these all combined to make a picture that I can never forget.

After leaving Pensacola Bay we steered south down Santa Rosa sound, between the island and the mainland, making many stops and nosing up several creeks and bayous.

Finally, after leaving the sound, and while cruising down the Gulf, we came to a narrow opening, into which we turned, and to our surprise we found that we were in a large bay about four miles wide, and twenty miles long. Our careless turning through that narrow opening led to as odd an experience or adventure as one could wish, and added spice and zest to our holidays.

On rounding a point about six miles up the bay we came upon quite a large town called Panama City, beautifully situated and very picturesque. Farther up we ran into another town, Lynn Haven, a pretty little place. Across the bay we visited South-Port, a saw-mill town, and the port terminus of a railway running north through the state.

The scenery all along the bay was magnificent; the fishing, "the best ever."

We loafed up the bay, crossing from one side to the other and back again, camping, fishing, rowing, tramping, thoroughly enjoying ourselves, until we were about to return, when we noticed a creek which seemed to come out of the solid woods.

Upon an examination of it we were surprised to find that it was large enough to carry the launch, so we started up it. It was like floating through the woods. Magnificent live oak trees, covered with hanging moss, stately bay trees, wonderful magnolia trees, covered with their wax-like flowers, and with their branches interlocking overhead, the waters of the creek, deep and silent, all combined to make a picture, grand and at times awesome.

We followed up this creek some three or four miles when, on rounding a bend, we came upon a large rambling ranch house, where we landed and were met by an old Southern gentleman, who introduced himself as Mr. Kells, owner of the ranch. Stanley introduced himself and me, and explained that we were from Pensacola and Canada, and were spending our Christmas holidays cruising and camping. Mr. Kells invited us to make his home our own for as long as we cared to stay, which kind invitation we gladly accepted.

We were introduced to Mrs. Kells and taken through the rambling old house, with its long rooms, low ceilings and old antique furniture, the whole seeming to date away back in the dim past.

Following a true southern dinner, fried chicken, yams, ockra, greens, cane molasses and coffee we were shown over the ranch, which seemed to be in a run-down condition, although showing that at one time it had been a fine place.

Gathered around the old fire-place in the large sitting-room that night, many stories were exchanged, our host finally relating to us his family history. He said the ranch was settled by his great grandfather, and had been held by the family ever since. In slave days it was very prosperous, but since the negroes were freed it had not paid and had dwindled down until he and his wife had little left to live upon except a few things they grew, and fish and oysters.

The talk then turned upon the bay and I remarked the narrow entrance from the gulf, and said it would be an ideal place for a boat to hide. This started the talk on pirates, when Mr. Kells told the following tale:

"At the time when gold was found in California, it was all shipped through the Gulf of Mexico. Pirates were plentiful, and St. Andrew's Bay was their favorite rendezvous. Their largest ships could be securely hidden in the creeks and many stories are handed down of their doings, and many claims are made of hidden treasure."

"At that time one of the Kells family either joined or was captured by pirates, and became one of them. He managed to get control of some gold, deserted the ship and made his way to St. Andrew's Bay. He made the land but was so closely pursued that he hid the gold and although not captured, he was badly wounded. He succeeded in getting home, but was too far gone to tell where he had hidden the gold before he died."

"We had decided to spend Christmas Day at the ranch, so the next day or two was spent in trips into the woods and up the bayous, fishing, and shooting. On the last day before Christmas, Stanley, Vickery and I took the canoe to explore a creek which we had not yet visited, not far from the ranch. We had ascended it about two miles when we found the stream was obstructed by a large oak tree that had fallen across it. Leaving the canoe, we walked around the tree and were surprised at the large hole left by the roots when torn out. Noticing something odd, I dropped down into the hole and excitedly called to the others to follow."

Lying partly hidden, was a small box with iron bands rusted off. I attempted to lift it, but it took the three of us to raise it out of the hole and place it in the boat. We lost no time in getting to the ranch and calling Mr. Kells, we got axes and bars and after considerable effort broke the box open. Imagine our feelings when we saw it was full of yellow gold-dust! Lying on the top was a piece of birch bark with the two words, "Tom Kells," written upon it. Without a doubt we had stumbled onto the pirate's hidden gold.

There is not much more to tell. The Kells were overjoyed at their sudden good fortune. They insisted that we take part of it, but we consented to take only a small amount, which we divided with Vickery and the negroes.

Christmas was a happy day for us all. The next day we bade our friends good-bye and made a speedy return to Pensacola, where I spent a day or two. I then went straight home, to continue my studies, thus ending my 1916 Christmas holidays in the "Sunny South."

The above, written by Amy Smith, was awarded the first prize in the competition held by the Women's Institute a short while ago.

AN ECHO OF THE FIRST CHRISTMAS.

Within the Temple Court the eastern sun
Cast, like a ray of gold, upon the wall
Its parting ray, or e'er the day was done,
And evening shadows gathering like a pall Grew deeper still.

A solemn hush lay brooding over all,
When, sudden, from the shadow's dark retreat
Is heard a voice, and answering the call
Hastes Nathan in, the shepherd lad, to greet
The kindly scribe.

For at the Levite's feet he oft had learned
God's law to know and David's psalms to sing:
And patriot zeal within his heart had burned
At thought of their great Hope—Messiah: King
Who was to come.

"O Bethlehem, that in Judah are not least,
Rejoice, for out of thee shall come a king—
Israel to rule!"—so spake the Hebrew priest,
Old Levi, to the boy who, listening
Seemed lost in thought.

Long years had passed and Nathan, older grown
Still held the promises of God were sure,
While through the watches of the night so lone
On Judah's hill his sheep he kept secure,
Within the fold.

While, his companions slept, how oft the prayer
Throbbed in his heart "Come, O Emmanuel, come,"
"What if He came tonight?"—so mused he there,
When, suddenly, with terror stricken dumb—
He fell to earth.

For o'er the hills so calm and still, a light
Unearthly in its radiant glory shone;
And lo, the angel of the Lord, all bright
In heavenly beauty stood and looked upon
The shepherd band.

Oh, sore afraid the shepherds were, but he
With tidings of great joy dispelled their fears,
"In David's town the Saviour ye shall see;
For Christ the Lord in human flesh appears,
The world to save."

So spake he, when, with great triumphant shout,
An angel chorus filled the air with song:
"All glory be to God on high," rang out
In notes sublime: "Good will all men among"—
"And peace on earth."

And as the heavenly music fainter grew,
The Good News given, the angel chorus passed—
Their glory fading—from the shepherds' view,
Who, filled with joy and wonder, knew—at last Messiah had come.

Then fell a reverent silence on them all,
Till, filled with thoughts of boyhood's Temple-days,
Spake Nathan, "Now most clear do I recall
How say the prophets—"God, a King will raise From David's town."

"To Bethlehem let us hasten, then, to find
The Christ who hath been born"—and at his word
They followed him, nor stayed their flocks to mind,
And to the city came, and found their Lord,
So long foretold.

No stately palace-dome loomed o'er His head;
No courtly throng before Him bent the knee;
But in a stable rude He made His bed:
Within a manger—in humility—
The Christ Child lay.

What joy and rapture filled each wondering mind
As at His feet the shepherds humbly bowed,
Then, as their way they went, their flocks to find
The Good News oft they told, and sang aloud
Jehovah's praise.

"Oh, that Ben Levi had been with us then"—
"Would that he but had seen this glorious night"—
Beat in the heart of Nathan, as again
His flock he tended while the stars shone bright
O'er Judah's hills.

And catch the echo of the angels' song
Once more, upon the Temple Court, the night
Had fallen, and within his lowly room,
Upon his couch, old Levi lay, his sight
Fast falling, while towards the silent tomb
His feet drew nigh.

Faint and more faint became his laboring breath
When, sudden, as though listening to a call,
Himself he raised upon the couch of death,
And on his raptured face there seemed to fall
A sweet content.

Then low the anxious watchers o'er him bent
To catch his dying words e'er life should cease;
And from his lips there fell in voice long spent,
"Glory to God"—"Good will to men" and "Peace" Messiah has come."

For he, with child-like heart and quickened sense
Had caught the echo of the angels' song,
And with its music in his soul, passed hence
His voice to join with the triumphant throng
Before the Throne.

Ah! In these days of mad, discordant strife,
When passions rule and Duty is forgot;
With sordid pleasures jaded—with sin rife,
The wearied Race—befouled with greed's dark blot—
Seeks ever Peace.

O, friend, be not cast-down, though dark thy way:
Shall we not find the Peace we've sought so long?
For child-like heart and quickened sense, then, pray
This Christmas morn.

CHRISTMAS IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Young People in Local Churches Enjoy Festive Programs.

On Friday evening the Sunday School of the Baptist Church held their annual Christmas treat, when one of the most attractive and interesting programs ever prepared by the various departments of the Sunday School was submitted to a large gathering of friends.

Mr. W. C. Kelley, the superintendent, occupied the chair.

After the opening exercises the junior school, in a beautiful chorus entitled, "The Christmas Bells," opened the program, followed by Buster Hunt, who, in a very happy little poem entitled, "Merry Christmas," extended to everyone the greetings of the "Yuletide Season." "Away in a Manger," a duet by the Misses Gwen and Margot Riley, proved one of the items of the evening, while little Gordon Patterson, a tiny tot of three, recited the story of "Mary's Little Lamb." In his "Sing a Song of Christmas," Master Billie Borton expressed the wish of many of his little friends for a more permanent residence of Santa Claus, while a very pretty song by the beginners entitled, "I've Been Good," assured the audience that Santa Claus would certainly come as the reward for their good behavior. One of the most humorous numbers of the evening was the recitation by Geo. Fudge, wherein he related the experiences of "The Careful Messenger."

In a long and varied program, contributed entirely by the children, we have not the space to give an account of each item, but mention must be made of "Christmas Customs in Many Lands," presented by the girls of Mrs. Ritchie's class. Dressed as representing different countries, and each one relating the Christmas customs prevailing in the land represented, Florence Clark appeared as Canada, Chrissie Pollock as Scotland, Marion Hatfield as England, Florence Campbell as Wales, Jessie Monro as Norway, Dorothy Tomlin as Spain, and Vera Walker as Holland.

Among many items the dialogue, "Mother Goose's Christmas," by the junior school, was splendidly rendered, some of the impromptu remarks by Santa Claus, represented by E. Hobbs, causing much merriment. Mention must also be made of the very humorous dialogue by Chas. Clark and Edgar Walker entitled, "Father William Questioned," and the action piece, "Upside Down," by four junior boys, which provoked much merriment.

At the conclusion of the program Santa Claus appeared, and after briefly describing his experiences travelling from his home at the North Pole, where, when he left, the thermometer registered 99 below, he distributed numerous gifts from the Christmas tree to the members of the Sunday school.

Miss Ruth Dale presided at the piano, and the greatest credit is due her and also to Mr. Blackaby for the careful manner in which the children were trained for the various numbers.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GIVES CONCERT

Lakeside Church Entertains Santa Claus at Concert and Christmas Tree.

An entertainment given by the little ones of the Methodist Church Sunday school on Friday evening, followed by a Christmas tree, was greatly enjoyed by the large number present, the church building being well filled. Recitations, dialogues and songs followed each other in quick succession, one particularly pleasing the audience being a song entitled, "Tick Tock," sung by Tommie Mack, Ronald Thorner and Frankie Walden. In fact, these little fellows were induced to repeat it during the evening by special request.

A dialogue entitled, "Dr. Cureall," was well executed by some of the older children, and considering the short time allowed for practice all the children did exceedingly well.

Mr. H. C. Mallor occupied the chair during the concert, after which Santa Claus made his appearance and distributed the good things from the tree, and also received messages from

THE CHILDREN AS TO WHAT THEY WANTED FOR CHRISTMAS, ONE LITTLE FELLOW TELLING SANTA IN A LOUD VOICE, AND WITH EVIDENT PERFECT FAITH, THAT HE WANTED "A GUN TO SHOOT STONES."

PRESBYTERIAN SCHOOL CONCERT

Interesting Program of Items Given by Sunday School Children.

On Wednesday evening the Presbyterian Church was filled to capacity when a large and representative gathering assembled for the annual Christmas treat of the Sunday school.

Mr. J. L. Logie occupied the chair.

An excellent program was submitted, the rendering of the various items showing great care in the training of the children. The program was as follows:

1. Chorus—"Merry Xmas."
2. Song—"We're Not Santa; Beginners."
3. Motion Song; Primary.
4. Recitation—Gordon Lott.
5. Song—"A Xmas Gift"; Girls.
6. Song—"We Are Little Tots"; Beginners.
7. The Dude Song; seven boys.
8. Recitation—Donald Orr.
9. "Santa Claus Will Come Tonight"; Dorothy Lott.
10. C. G. I. T.—March and songs.
11. "Song of the Golden Day"; Girls.
12. Japanese Parasol Drill.
13. Hymn; Japanese Class.
14. Chorus—"Bethlehem Lullaby."
15. "The Star of Bethlehem"; Intermediate Class.
16. A Class in Elocution; Girls.
15. Sketch, "What is Christmas."
17. Pantomime—"Nearer My God to Thee."
18. Chorus—"Holy Night."

HAS REMARKABLE ESCAPE FROM HARM

Car Goes Over Side of Telephone Hill, Falling to Road Below.

A remarkable escape from serious injury occurred on Monday when W. J. Robinson in his Oldsmobile backed over the side of the hill just south of the Telephone Company's office, and was brought up short by hitting a telephone pole at the foot of the incline, thereby saving the car from turning turtle and pinning him underneath.

It appears that Mr. Robinson was ascending the hill and in endeavoring to change gears, stalled his engine and started to slide backwards, his emergency brake not working. Under the circumstances he had no control of his machine, the trouble being further augmented by the ice which covered the road at that point, and he was unable to avoid going over the side, the car coming to a stop on its side against an electric light pole beside the sidewalk on the lower road.

The car was not damaged as much as at first expected, the top saving the body of the automobile to a very large extent. The former was completely spoiled, while the radiator cover was badly bent, otherwise the machine appears to be none the worse for the adventure. Mr. Robinson was tangled up in the seat, but with the help of a few passers-by managed to extricate himself without being injured in any way.

Advertising Signs Forbidden.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Indiana State Highway Commission has published an order forbidding advertising signs of any character on the roads of the state highway system after July 1, 1922. The only signs permitted under the order will be the ones designating the roads and detours, railroad crossings and other signs of the State Highway Department or of the Hoosier Motor Club, and similar organizations.

HIGH SPOTS IN THE WORLD'S LIFE DURING THE YEAR 1921

MESSAGES FOR THE NEW YEAR FROM SUMMERLAND PASTORS

In Optimistic and Cheerful Strain Local Ministers Write on the Outlook for 1922.

Dawn of a New Year

Rev. W. A. Alexander.

Most nations have some great epoch-making event from which their reckoning of time is calculated. The Babylonians, Egyptians, Romans, etc., had each their own central fact from which they reckoned time.

The Jews date years from the institution of the first Passover and the deliverance from Egyptian bondage. So Christian nations calculate time as either before or after the birth of Christ. Nineteen hundred and twenty-two years ago, according to our reckoning of time, God became incarnate in Jesus Christ. That was a moment of great importance to the world. The date on our newspapers, the heading on a letter, speaks eloquently, though silently, of this great event.

The Christian churches have always observed in some fitting way the passing out of the old year and the issuing in of the New Year.

We say farewell to the old year and leave its worries, losses, sadness and ills, behind; and welcome the New Year with hopefulness.

The "pie-crust" resolutions so frequently made at New Year's, are often of mushroom growth and last but a day.

The Bible story says—"In the beginning God." The Christian church begins 1922 with a week of prayer.

"Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness." If we give God the first place in our lives all will be well. "Forgetting those things that are behind and reaching

A Guid New Year

Rev. James Dunlop.

The only man who is a greater positive danger to the community than the pessimist is the optimist. Mentally the pessimist turns the pleasing prospect of the community into a howling wilderness. The optimist, on the other hand, turns the community into a fool's paradise. Wild schemes of the foolish optimist brought on the "slump" and ruined the credit of the west for twenty years.

The pessimist buys an oyster feeling sure that he will die of ptomaine poisoning. The optimist feels sure that every oyster he buys will contain a pearl of great price. The realist buys the oyster as an oyster. He may get a fortune or get poisoned. He may get both or neither. He does know that he is getting something to eat, and he is satisfied to take things as they really are. The optimist who falsifies facts in order to paint a roseate picture, is a public danger and a communal nuisance.

As we stand near the threshold of another year, we can well afford to be realists, and see the hard facts of life as they are; for all the facts indicate that the year 1922 is breaking upon us as the best year since 1914.

The struggle of the past few years has falsified all the predictions of bankers, economists and politicians. Predictions have not come true, the wisest apparently were merely making guesses in the region of the unknown. The lesson of the past is to keep to the fact and let the prophets go their way. What are the facts?

Wild political dreamers have been disillusioned. Experiments had to be made; these were made in all sincerity. They have been in most cases miserable failures. The failures strengthen the hands of the great multitude of loyal and sane social workers who believe that we are on the eve of better days.

The insoluble problems of capital and labor are still with us, but industry in 1921 saw bedrock. Commerce and industry are now on the way home. The pound sterling is coming back. We are over the peak.

The political sky is clearing. Whether we think of Washington, Ireland, Japan, France or Russia, the political situation is improving. Best of all, the spirit of good will is among men. This means more to the nations than victory in a great war. Sooner or later this had to come. The river of life never runs back. The bird of prosperity may fly in a circle; but her flight has a spiral corkscrew movement. She never comes back to where she started. History moves in circles; but history never repeats itself. There is a cos-

FEW SEEKING RE-ELECTION

Three Councillors Willing to Serve Again—May Be Entirely New School Board.

With the approach of the New Year, the attention of the community is being turned to the coming elections of reeve, councillors, police commissioner and school trustees.

While various names have been suggested outside of the present reeve, council and school board, we understand that some members of the present council are open for nomination again. Reeve White, however, owing to the increasing demands on his time, has stated definitely he will not be in the field.

Interviewed by a representative of The Review, Councillors Scott, Bristow and Kirk stated they were willing to stand again, but Councillor Thorner was not in a position to make any definite statement.

The members of the School Board, however, seem to be a unit in their decision not to stand again, unless assured of support by the ratepayers in the matter of securing further school accommodation. It would be a matter of great regret if the 1922 board did not include some of the former trustees, experienced in the control of the educational affairs of the community, but it seems to be the unanimous opinion of the 1921 board that, in the absence of a definite pledge by the ratepayers to pass a bylaw for a new school building, an entirely new board will have to be elected.

Looking to the East

Rev. H. E. Livingstone.

Once, the writer stood overlooking the sea, with his face towards the East, before sunrise. An exceptionally dark cloud overhung the horizon; but little by little the cloud became tinted with golden hues, until the scene became one of exquisite beauty.

As the New Year approaches the world horizon seems as if beginning to undergo a similar transformation. The dark, depressing clouds, that overhung for so many years, are giving place to hopes of a brighter day. This is seen particularly in great international changes which are the result of, and are made possible by higher ideals and aspirations taking form in the souls of humanity.

Many influences are contributing to such advances, but the creative forces are moral and spiritual.

The development of such forces should, therefore, be the aim of every philanthropic institution and individual.

That will be the ideal inspiring Lakeside church during the coming year, in its constituency. It does not exist to be served, but to give the highest service to our community and the larger world. Each will find a welcome. Each can render service.

Therefore, to all, our church extends best wishes for a bright and prosperous New Year.

CANTATA GIVEN BY LOCAL CHOIR

"The Shepherd King" Appreciated by Large Audience in Baptist Church.

Sunday evening worship at the Baptist church took the form of a sacred cantata, "The Shepherd King," by J. Lincoln Hall, which was exceedingly well rendered by the choir of 22 voices, under the able leadership of G. R. S. Blackaby, assisted by Mrs. and Miss Dale.

In spite of the inclement weather the church was well filled and a musical treat repaid the congregation for attending.

Following the solo, "O Holy Night," by W. James Banton, and "There Were Shepherds," by Frederick Graham, the choir took up the cantata, which dealt with the events at the Nativity in a very beautiful manner, where Frederick Graham in "O City of the Shepherd King," was especially pleasing and Miss Carrie Graham in "And Lo the Angel," was heard to advantage, as also was Mrs. W. C. Kelley in the contralto solo, "Sleep Sweetly Little Child of Mine."

"But Thou Bethlehem," tenor solo, by W. James Banton, was well rendered.

For a small choir the chorus work was very praiseworthy, particularly in "Glory to God in the Highest," and the closing item, "Amen Hallelujah," being handled in a spirited manner.

Reeve White, however, owing to the increasing demands on his time, has stated definitely he will not be in the field.

Interviewed by a representative of The Review, Councillors Scott, Bristow and Kirk stated they were willing to stand again, but Councillor Thorner was not in a position to make any definite statement.

The members of the School Board, however, seem to be a unit in their decision not to stand again, unless assured of support by the ratepayers in the matter of securing further school accommodation. It would be a matter of great regret if the 1922 board did not include some of the former trustees, experienced in the control of the educational affairs of the community, but it seems to be the unanimous opinion of the 1921 board that, in the absence of a definite pledge by the ratepayers to pass a bylaw for a new school building, an entirely new board will have to be elected.

MASONS INSTAL NEW OFFICIALS

Joint Ceremony for Summerland, Pentiction and Naramata Lodges.

Tuesday evening was a big night with the local Masons, when the installation of Masters of Orion, Trepanier and Summerland Lodges took place in the Masonic rooms at West Summerland.

The ceremony of installation was conducted by Wor. Bro. Morley, of Pentiction, with the help of a number of past masters from the latter town.

Among the visitors were the Rt. Wor. Finley Fraser, deputy district grand master, and Wor. Bro. Jenson, wor, master of Hedley Lodge, in addition to which were a large number of members from the three lodges. Altogether there were about 35 present for the ceremony, after which a move was made to the Summerland Hotel, where an elaborate supper was spread, followed by a short program of toasts.

One feature of the evening which gave great satisfaction, was the excellence of the supper and service, and all present were unannounced in their praise of Mr. C. B. McCallum's endeavors in this direction.

LOCAL ENGINEER WOULD CONTROL

Lake Up to Same Level as Year Ago—Kelowna is Concerned.

Better control of the level of the lake, with a view to avoiding the flood conditions that prevailed last spring, was discussed by the Kelowna Board of Trade at a recent meeting.

The Kelowna Courier says in part: "Mr. Grote Stirling, of the Roads and Transportation Committee, took the opportunity to remind the board that nothing further had been heard in regard to control of the level of Okanagan Lake which, he said, was now up to the same level as at the same time last year, and action would be necessary to avoid a repetition of the conditions that obtained on the low-lying lands last summer. At his request, the secretary had already written to the department at Ottawa asking for further information as to what measures were to be taken for control. It was important that the responsibility of looking after lake level should be placed in the hands of a local official acquainted with all the facts and conditions instead of under an engineer at Nelson, hence the board should urge the appointment of the local hydrographic engineer to take charge."

COMMUNICATIONS

To the Editor of The Review: Dear Sir,— I plead for a broader and more comprehensive policy in dealing with our municipal utilities and for more sympathetic dealing with the individual requirements of rate-payers on the part of the present and future councils."

"The policy pursued by former councils in regard to domestic water service has been grossly unfair to many householders."

I quote from letters which have recently appeared in the correspondence columns of The Review and I venture to place my case before the citizens of Summerland and ask their verdict. You who are fortunately placed with domestic water in your houses, imagine yourselves suddenly deprived of this utility and compelled to carry every drop of water required for domestic purposes up-wards of a quarter of a mile; can you imagine such a position? I have existed under such conditions since I took up residence in Summerland, nine years ago. When I bought my land and built my house, I was given every encouragement in the belief that the domestic water pipe would be extended, but my numerous appeals, extending over nine years, have fallen on deaf ears. Occasionally I have seen a faint glimmer of hope but other exigencies have arisen and this has been extinguished. And yet, I do not live out in the wilds. This extension can be made for $1000 (one thousand dollars); the annual revenue would amount to $98.40—almost 10 per cent. on the outlay. I think the financiers of Summerland have made less profitable investments than this, but still the representatives of the municipality have been either unable or unwilling to grant me—and others whom this extension would serve—the privilege of this utility which is an absolute necessity for decent existence. Surely there should be some means for providing for cases of this nature. Apparently no money has been raised for domestic water extension since 1910. Are those who have been trusting enough or blind enough to take up land off the pipe line laid out 12 years ago to be deprived of this public utility forever? I venture to hope that this is not the selfish attitude of the citizens of Summerland, a municipality which claims to be progressive, but still, nine years is a big slice out of a man's life. On turning to the financial statement for the year ending December 31st, 1920, we find that domestic water and irrigation water finances are combined, but taken separately the domestic water account would appear to be fairly healthy. The total revenue from this source is shown as $14,574.27. Against this is $4,006.43 maintenance and operating; $3,205.47 interest on money raised for domestic water purposes and presumably a portion of the item shown as discounts, leaving a net profit of something in the neighborhood of $6,000 (six thousand dollars). Apparently this goes to relieve the general taxation, but is this a square deal while cases such as I have outlined above exist?"

Yours very truly, GEO. W. JOHNSON.

Have An Object In Life. The Old "Un"—"Pluck, my boy, pluck; that is the one essential to success in business."

The Young "Un"—"Yes, of course, I know that. The trouble is finding some one to pluck."—London Opinion.

Your attention is called to the change in the advertisements in this issue and also to the new ones. The merchants of our community appreciate your trade and take this means of telling you of any bargains they may have to offer and also to announce the arrival of new goods which are placed at your disposal and inspection. By closely watching the columns of this paper you will learn the names of our business men who invite you to deal with them and you can rest assured that they will treat you right. A merchant who does not care enough for your trade to ask you to visit his store and who does not inform you of the many bargains he may have to offer is hardly worth your patronage. The progressive merchant will always let his customers know of the arrival of new goods at once, and the way for our merchants to do this is through the columns of this paper which goes into almost every home in the district.

To the Editor of The Review: Dear Sir,—In common with others who attended the public meeting, held in the Parish Hall on Tuesday evening of last week, I quite thought the meeting was convened for the dual purpose of selecting possible candidates for municipal honors, and of hearing something of the policies such possible candidates would advocate.

This idea, however, was ruled out by the chairman, and after numerous names were mentioned, he decided, on his own initiative, to open a sort of conversation on the new school question, and refused to allow any discussion whatever on any other subject.

Those of us who left our homes on that bleak evening in the expectation of hearing a good discussion on the most important of all municipal questions—that of irrigation—were sorely disappointed.

The school question is important, certainly. But it has had its chance, it has been put up before the rate-payers on two occasions and has not been carried. It would be the wisest policy to let it rest for a while. I cannot see but that an injury will be done to the whole question in resurrecting it in connection with the coming municipal elections.

The chairman declared there was no other subject so important as the education of our children. It is a mistake, to my mind, to put the matter so. At the present time there is a matter of greater importance even than the education of our children. During the past three years the number of orchards planted and being cared for have materially increased in the municipality. The greater number possessing orchards are entirely dependent on the product of those orchards and they have no other means of subsistence.

If they cannot get sufficient irrigation water to make their orchards paying propositions, they will be forced to move somewhere else, and they will take their children with them.

There is nothing gained by shelving the question or by obscuring it behind another. Summerland growers have not been getting enough irrigation water to properly care for their orchards, and this shortage has become so acute as to be a positive worry to a large number of rate-payers. To them, therefore, there is no subject as important as that of securing an adequate supply of irrigation water.

I do not hesitate to declare, Mr. Editor, that we want men nominated and put on the coming council who are seized with the supreme importance of that one question of irrigation, and who will be determined to solve the problem for the coming season.

We have got to settle the minds of the rate-payers in regard to this question before they will be willing to vote in favor of borrowing $30,000 for a school such as will only provide for present official requirements.

It may be that money will need to be borrowed for irrigation purposes, and it will be difficult enough to secure this, for there is no use denying that these are hard times for all who have not good salaries to depend on. The public mind is engaged with the necessity of economy in every direction, and it would seem that large expenditures of public money upon anything but absolute necessities are unjustifiable.

In conclusion, I think it should be remembered the present students do not suffer any lack of educational facilities at the present time, through the want of a large and imposing looking school, as they have the same teachers now as they would have in a modern school. Sundry inconveniences are suffered, but it has not yet been shown that the educational results have materially suffered.

Many people at the present time are suffering great inconveniences through the lack of irrigation water. There are many improvements in the municipality that we would like and most of us would like to see a fine imposing structure giving every facility for the most efficient training of our children, but the time is hardly ripe yet for such an expenditure.

Yours truly, OLIVER E. MANN. Cock-Sure.

BULB CULTURE

A bulletin entitled "Bulbs and Bulb Bloom" has recently been issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa as a result of experiments carried on at the Vancouver Island Experiment Station. At present Canada imports a large quantity of bulbs from Holland, and Mr. Lionel S. Stevenson, the superintendent, has demonstrated that the production of bulbs, at any rate in that part of Canada, is perfectly feasible. The bulletin advocates the more general use of bulbs for winter flowering in country homes. A glass house is not necessary. Given a good basement and plenty of window space in the living or spare rooms of an ordinary dwelling, where the indoor temperatures are not permitted to register more than six degrees of frost at any time during the winter, and any housewife may have abundant bloom from November to April. The Roman hyacinth and Paper White narcissus can be had in bloom for the Christmas season, followed by Dutch bulbs in succession, as desired, throughout the winter. All are easy to grow. Lists of good varieties of tulip, narcissus, hyacinth, lilies and of the minor bulbs are given, along with instructions for growing, both indoor and out. Methods of propagation are also described.

Bishop Hoss said at a Nashville picnic: "The religious knowledge of too many adults resembles, I am afraid, the religious knowledge of little Eve. "So you attend Sunday school regularly?" the minister said to little Eve. "Oh, yes, sir," said she. "And you know your Bible?" "Oh, yes, sir." "Could you, perhaps, tell me something that is in it?" "I could tell you everything that's in it." And the minister smiled. "Do tell me, then." "Sister's beau's photo is in it," said little Eve promptly, "and ma's receipt for 'vanishin' cream is in it, and a lock of my hair cut off when I was a baby is in it, and the ticket for pa's watch is in it."—Detroit Free Press.

The Passing of Lord Mount Stephen

Lord Mount Stephen is dead, aged 92 years. He passed away peacefully on November 29th, 1921, at his residence, Brocket Hall, Hatfield, Hertfordshire, dying painlessly of sheer old age. Lord Mount Stephen had been living in absolute retirement for many years.

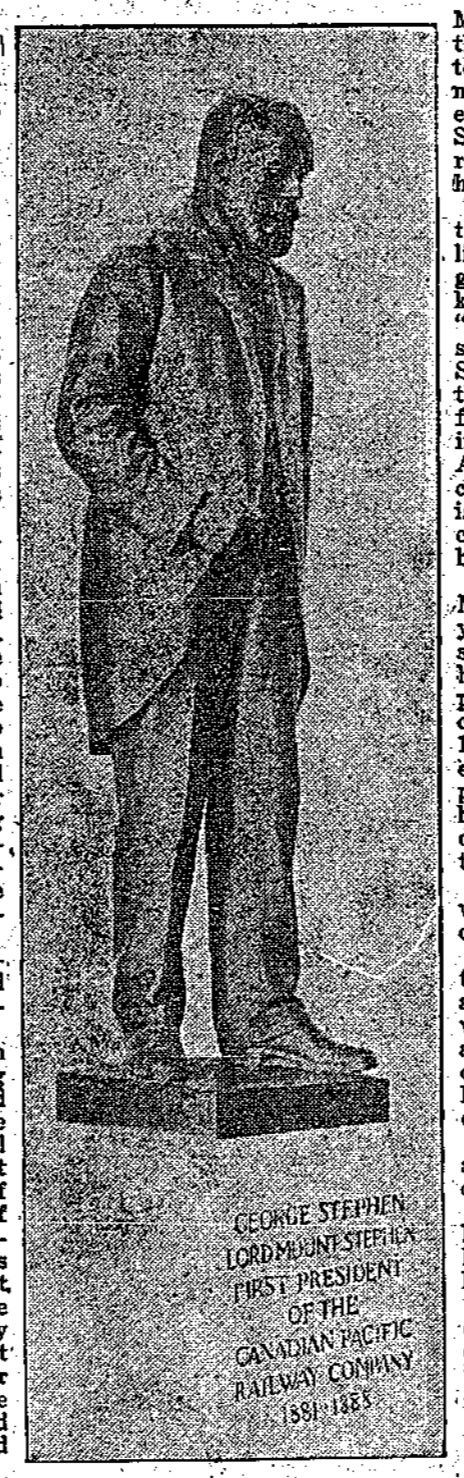

George Stephen was a Scot, born in 1829 at Dufftown, Banffshire, and his educational advantages were confined to what the parish school afforded. Leaving school at the early age of fourteen, he was apprenticed to a draper and dealer in dry goods in Aberdeen. Having completed his four years' apprenticeship, like many in the northern land, he made his way to London, where he joined a well-known firm which still exists under the shadow of St. Paul's Cathedral.

It was the middle of the 19th century when George Stephen, then 31 years of age, reached Canada in company with his cousin, Donald Smith (afterwards Lord Strathcona). In Montreal he entered the service of his cousin, William Stephen, who was in the dry goods trade, and three years later he went into partnership under the style of William Stephen & Company. Years of steady hard work followed. In 1862 the senior partner died, and George, acquiring the whole business, began to manufacture cloth. This proved remunerative and he soon devoted his entire efforts to it, relinquishing the wholesale trade.

George Stephen was elected a director of the Bank of Montreal, and in 1876 he was chosen a vice-president, and later as president. The name of Lord Mount Stephen will be chiefly remembered as being associated with the conception and the carrying to completion of the C.P.R., the pioneer transcontinental railway. He joined the small but determined and optimistic group of men who had accepted the offer of the Government to build the Canadian Pacific Railway. He was its first president in 1881, and the first annual report was printed on one sheet of notepaper and signed by George Stephen. It was fitting that he should be its first president, for he had put his all into it, for one thing; for another, he had unrivalled driving power; and, again, he had genius for method and detail.

A year after the completion of the C. P. R., George Stephen was created a baronet. He built himself a magnificent home on Drummond St., Montreal, in which he took great pride, especially in the conservatory, built after the English style, as well as in his picture gallery, which he devoted much attention to. In thinking of the public welfare of the community, Sir George Stephen at that period displayed great generosity.

Sir George Stephen resigned the presidency of the C. P. R. in 1893, in which he was succeeded by the late Sir William Van Horne, who consolidated, and at the same time extended the service and earnings of that great corporation. Three years later, in 1891, he was created a baron by Queen Victoria, when he assumed the title of Lord Mount Stephen, and crossed the Atlantic to settle down in England. In his beautiful home, Brocket Hall, Hatfield, Herts, near which the Salisbury family reside, he for many years entertained notable personages and devoted himself to the promotion of philanthropic movements. Lord Mount Stephen was twice married, his first marriage taking place in 1853, to Anne Charlotte, daughter of Benjamin Kane. In 1897 he was united to Glen Tufnell, daughter of the late Captain George Tufnell, R.N. There was no issue of these marriages; but Lord Mount Stephen adopted a daughter, who married a son of the Northcote family in England. It is of interest to note that although in his valedictory to the C. P. R. shareholders, Lord Mount Stephen excused his retirement on the ground of health, he lived for a period of thirty-three years thereafter, or the span of another generation. Much regret was expressed in C. P. R. circles when the death of Lord

Mount Stephen became known. All the flags from one end of the system to the other were placed at half-mast, and a laurel wreath was placed on the statue of Lord Mount Stephen which stands in the waiting room of the Windsor street station here.

"It was a cause of great satisfaction to Lord Mount Stephen that he lived to see his 'baby' grow into the greatest enterprise Canada has ever known," said Lord Shaughnessy. "There was a great personal friendship between us," continued Lord Shaughnessy, "which deepened as the years advanced." Discussing the fact that Lord Mount Stephen was in his 93rd year, and that Mr. R. E. Angus, who had been so intimately connected with Lord Mount Stephen in his 91st year, Lord Shaughnessy commented: "I am only 68; quite a boy compared with them."

"I was first associated with Lord Mount Stephen in 1882 nearly forty years ago, shortly after the construction of the Canadian Pacific had been commenced by the company, but my relations did not become at all close until the end of 1884. From that time until he retired from participation in the company's affairs we were very close business and personal friends. Indeed, our very warm personal relations continued to the end. Lord Mount Stephen was a man with imagination and initiative, coupled with probity and courage.

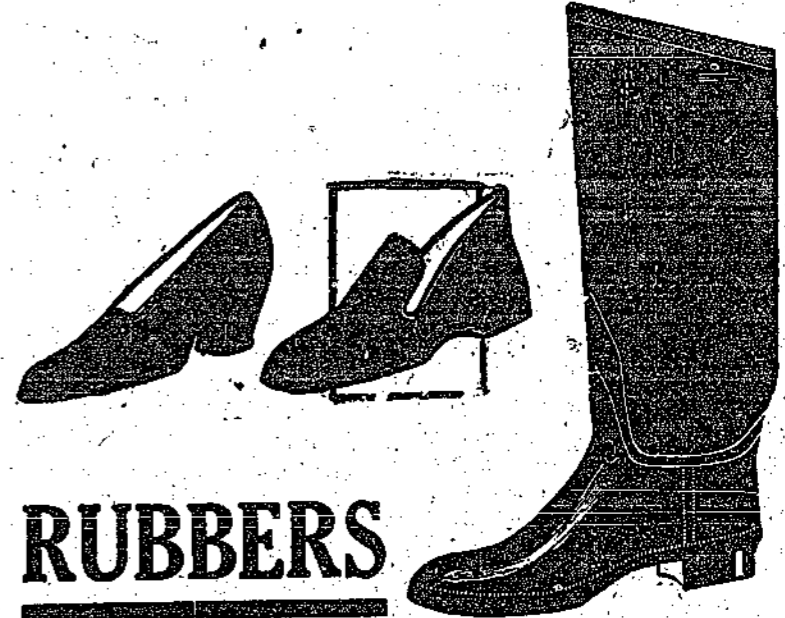

"During the construction of the trans-continental line he had many anxious hours, and there were times when his personal fortune, as well as that of his colleague, Lord Strathcona, was placed in jeopardy in loans to the company in its dark days.

"My most intimate connections with him were in 1884 and 1885, when the Government, after the first loan, were loath to provide any more money. It was during that emergency that he and Lord Strathcona furnished the requisite funds from their own fortunes; at a considerable sacrifice, no doubt, because they had to sell other securities that they held to raise the money. Finally the Government did make a further loan of $5,000,000, which saw the company through, and enabled it to get along until Lord Mount Stephen, or George Stephen, as he was then, had succeeded in selling the company's first mortgage bonds through Baring Brothers.

"Just as soon as the company received payment for its bonds, the whole debt to the Government was paid. He had said he would repay the loan, and did so. But if he had adopted modern methods he would probably have tried to borrow more money instead."

FALL IRRIGATION WORK.

(R. G. Newton, Superintendent Dominion Experimental Station, Invermere, B. C.)

While very little irrigation is required earlier than May or later than August, it is advisable that water be available and be used with judgment by the irrigator in the fall. On large irrigation systems it has been found that only a little over 2 per cent. of water is used later than August, and this amount largely on hay and meadow-land.

Alfalfa should not go into the winter with the soil saturated with moisture or winter killing will result. It is well, however, to apply a small amount of water to the alfalfa in order that it may have a fair growth to go into the winter, as it will hold the snow more readily and afford better protection.

How often when we go on the land in the spring we find that the stubble or sod that was ploughed under the previous autumn has not decomposed, and instead of having an easily worked up soil we have a soil full of sods and stubble. This soil is not only hard to prepare as a seed bed, but is often very open, and dries out quickly. Before ploughing your stubble or meadow, give it a thorough irrigation and it will not only plough more easily and well, but the sod or stubble that is turned under will start to decompose at once. Fall ploughing, while not irrigation work, tends to decrease the water requirements and materially increases production the following year.

Aside from the irrigating itself, there is considerable irrigation work to be done in the fall. During the summer you have, no doubt, found areas that are hard to irrigate, and you have planned to remedy this when you had time. Do not put this off until spring, as then the work comes on you with a rush and these difficult areas will be left until another year. Possibly it is only a little scraping or levelling, or it may be a bit of fluming that is required. The main thing, however, is to do it this fall so as to be ready when irrigation commences next season.

Ditches and laterals are constantly filling up with sediment, or the sides of the ditches are being gradually washed away. The fall is the time to remedy these evils in order that the soil will have the winter to set before being used again. Flumes, weirs, gateways and culverts frequently need repairs, and this is best done when the water is shut off in the fall.

Many farmers have very little idea of the amount of water that they apply to the various crops. This can be overcome by installing weirs at various points on their irrigation ditches. The Cippolletti weir is the most commonly used, and tables can be obtained showing the discharge in acre feet per hour, so that the farmer can readily ascertain the amount of water applied to his fields.

These few pointers will, no doubt, remind many farmers of other odd jobs that require attention in connection with the irrigation system. The time to do these jobs is during the off-time in the fall and not when your time is fully taken up as it is in the irrigation season.

When a man is unable to bear misfortune he is indeed unfortunate. One of the poorest excuses for a

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT IN THE HEN HOUSE

Not a Fad and if Coupled With Attention It Will Pay Handsomely.

(G. W. Miller, in Farm Magazine.)

The value of artificial light in the laying pens is no longer an experiment, and every hen-house in Canada should be equipped so that it can be artificially lighted in the short days at all seasons. It is not contended that artificial light materially increases the number of eggs a hen will lay in any year, but it is a fact beyond dispute, proved over and over again in official tests at government stations in Canada and the United States, and in hundreds of commercial and private plants the continent over, that it does increase very materially the winter egg yield when eggs are highest in market value.

Electricity or Lantern.

Electricity is the most convenient form of artificial light, but just as good results can be obtained with high candle power coal oil or gasoline lanterns, several good makes of which are now on the market. Satisfactory results may be obtained with even an ordinary farm lantern and a reflector.

Artificial lighting was first suggested by a Buffalo, U. S., physician, away back in the 80's of the last century. His friends and neighbors laughed at him, and poultry experts shook their heads in derision. Nature had ruled, they said, that the domestic hen should lay her largest supply of eggs in the warm spring months, and laying in any other season was against nature. But the Buffalo doctor was getting winter eggs when his neighbors were not, and after a few years even the poultry experts began to sit up and take notice. Prof. Rice, of Cornell University, was one of the first official poultrymen to test artificial light, and from the very first test down to the present he has found it advantageous. Other poultry professors took up the problem, including Prof. Graham, at Guelph, and the predictions of the Buffalo doctor have been verified in every case.

Port Arthur was one of the first places in Ontario, if not the very first, to try out the experiment. A number of back-lot poultrymen in one section of that city arranged for the lighting of their coops in the short days of the year, with the result that for the first time in the history of the city at the head of the lakes new laid eggs could be purchased in the dead of winter. The use of artificial light spread in Ontario very quickly, until today there is not a large commercial plant in the province, or very few of them, that does not use it. All of those who use it, without exception, have found that it materially increases the supply of eggs in winter time, but has a tendency to decrease the production somewhat in the spring months. In other words it increases the supply when eggs are retailing at a dollar or more a dozen and lessens when the price drops to fifty cents or less. This materially increases the income from eggs, even if it does not increase the number produced when spread across the twelve months.

hen-house the writer ever saw is in the village of Calabogie, south of Renfrew. It is owned by a hotel-keeper there and in it he keeps thirty or more hens. This man paid a visit to a large commercial plant in the neighborhood that used artificial light. He was very incredulous of the story that had reached him that they were getting eggs in large numbers there in the biting-cold days of December and January, and went over to see for himself. What he saw was even greater than he had been told. Eggs were being brought in by the painful and several cases were being shipped each day.

The next fall he put a 60-candle power light in his make-shift hen-house, and early in December his pullets began to lay and they laid all winter in as plentiful quantities as they had been accustomed to in the warmer days of spring.

"That was the first time I ever got an egg from my hens in winter," he told the writer. Since then, many of his neighbors and several of the surrounding farmers have adopted artificial light in their henhouses, with similar results.

And when the question is considered in a scientific way, it is quite reasonable to expect just such results as are obtained. All our domestic fowl had their origin in the warm tropical countries of Southern Asia, where the daily periods of daylight and darkness and nearly equal the year through. They are so constituted that it is practically impossible for them to eat enough in the eight hours or so of our winter days to provide for bodily heat and egg production. Their crops are not large enough to hold sufficient food. When the hen goes to roost at 4 o'clock or thereabouts of a winter afternoon, the food supply she consumed beforehand is all gone about 3 o'clock in the morning, and she shivers on the roost until it is light enough to get off and get a fresh supply. It is hardly reasonable to expect a hen to produce eggs under such conditions. As a matter of fact, she does not. This condition may be partially overcome by well-built, warm poultry houses, but no abundant supply of eggs can be obtained in the winter months without the aid of artificial light. From hens confined in the usual type of laying house found on the average Canadian farm they cannot be obtained at all.

Attention Pays.

But the farmer must not assume now that all he has to do to get winter eggs is to place a light in his laying house—to make the feeding day of the hen conform in length to that of her native home in the tropics. She must be given attention. After all, that is the prime factor in high egg production. All the other factors can be analyzed into that.

The hens must have warm houses, with the ventilation as carefully regulated both winter and summer as in a well ventilated living room. They must be well fed, with regularity and some consideration of the temperature, and their feed should be in much greater variety than the farm hen usually gets.

Just what can be done with close attention is proven by the laying record of a poultry farm located not far from Toronto. On this farm no artificial light was used, but otherwise the hens were given every attention. There are 900 hens in this flock, and they produced as follows:

November	3,944	eggs
December	8,153	"
January	10,606	"
February	10,237	"
March	13,916	"
April	14,307	"
May	14,480	"
June	12,040	"

A portion of this flock was trapped, and several of the hens had gone well over the 150 mark in the eight months. One had reached 184 eggs in that time. The average price obtained for these eggs was over 70 cents per dozen. These hens are producing for their owner a net profit of considerably better than $3 per hen from the sale of table eggs alone. Results such as this can readily be secured on any farm in the country if the hens are given attention.

Easier to Spell.

Young Arthur, the pride of the family, had been attending school all of six weeks, and his devoted parent thought it was high time he should find out how things were running. So he asked one afternoon:

"And what did my little son learn about this morning?"

"Oh, a mouse. Miss Wilcox told us all about mouses."

"That's the boy! Now, how do you spell mouse?"

It was then that Arthur gave promise of being an artful dodger. He paused meditatively for a moment, then said:

"Father, I guess I was wrong. It wasn't a mouse teacher was telling us about. It was a rat."

Wealth is a burden that is easily dropped.

Here is the scene at Newport News when America's latest and most powerful dreadnought, the West Virginia, was launched the other day. In the picture, the ship is just entering the water. If completed, West Virginia will cost over forty million dollars, but if the Hughes plan is adopted by the nations, it will be scrapped.

Hail to 1922

Last week we had the pleasure of wishing our many advertisers and readers a Merry Christmas, and from what can be learned that hope has been verified.

Now we once more make our bow and extend to our readers our best wishes for a Happy and Prosperous New Year. We may not be able to learn just as quickly whether this hope has been consummated, but all indications point to the dawn of a better era during the coming twelve months, not only throughout Canada, but also the whole world.

If we will all go forward in the coming months with at least a residue of the "Goodwill" brought about through the Christmas spirit, with the earnest intention of every one to "Do as he would be done by," then we may look forward optimistically to a brighter and better year than we have ever known before. Let us remember that

There is so much good in the worst of us, And so much bad in the best of us, That it little behoves any of us, To speak about the rest of us.

READING THE BIBLE.

At Harvard the Bible and Shakespeare have been made the subjects of compulsory study, the faculty having recognized that in these times there exists a tremendous popular ignorance of the Good Book. In spite of its constantly increasing sale, in spite of the good work of the Gideons, the Pocket New Testament League, and kindred organizations, the average man has only a vicarious knowledge of the contents of the Bible, which he mistakenly associates with the repressive gloom of the Puritan Sabbath.

Familiarity with the text is of inestimable help to all who are called upon to display occasionally their ability in the use of language, whether in spoken or written form. In it will be found a text for every sermon, an adornment for every tale, a striking sentence for every speech, a point for every argument. It is an inexhaustible mine for every public man; Lloyd George seldom makes an important address without some apt Biblical allusion, which is more or less familiar to his hearers—a distinct advantage over a quotation from the classics, which always smacks of pedantry, and is quite likely to be over the heads of the audience.

In these days our public men might do worse than delve in the literary treasures of the Great Work. They will find much to help them impress the multitude and, if their minds are not too set on worldly things, who knows? They may also find inspiration to higher ideals in the service of the state.—Vancouver World.

SEED PRODUCTION ADVOCATED

The difficulties of importing field root and garden seeds during the war led to the production of these seeds in Canada, and proved that we have in this country conditions of soil and climate that are entirely suited to these crops. During war years the seed producing business of Europe became somewhat demoralized. Mr. Geo. H. Clark, Seed Commissioner for Canada, who has recently returned from a tour of some of the European countries, discovered that, because of highly disturbed conditions in France and some other countries, very little effort is being made towards re-establishing the seed producing industry. Considering the highly favorable climate for seed production in Canada, and especially in British Columbia, Mr. Clark has expressed the opinion that field root and garden seed production will yield a good living to growers in the Pacific Province, who are competent and willing to give the necessary attention to the industry.

Few people realize that 26,445 Canadian ex-service men have been established on the land and are nearly all making good; that Canada's waterpower development represents an investment of $475,000,000, while the power produced would otherwise require 18,000,000 tons of coal yearly; or that nearly 88 per cent. of the world's supply of asbestos comes from the Province of Quebec. The Natural Resources Intelligence Branch of the Department of the Interior, has just issued a revised edition of "Compact Facts," which contains in concise form, information regarding Canada; its area, population, trade and industries; their extent, capital invested wages paid, values of live stock, principal crops and amounts produced; mineral resources and present production; also forest resources and forest products. Copies of the booklet are available on application to the Superintendent, Natural Resources Intelligence Branch Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Uncle John's Poem

HAIL, NEW YEAR!

Hello, Youngster,—Glad ye're comin'! Been a-lookin' sharp fer you; old year's chariot's gone a-hummin'—Welcome, Nineteen-twenty-two! Don't commence to act contrary, cause yer cradle's cold an' wet,—Babies born in Janooary don't look pretty when they fret! In the lap of Peace an' Plenty, you got lots of chance to grow. . . . You'll be bigger'n Nineteen-twenty, when you're six months old, or so. . . . We're expectin' great things of ye,—Make our fondest dreams come true! Won't ye try to make us love ye,—fetch us flowers, an' honey-dew? May be some that dreads to meet ye, as they think of fruitless years. . . . I myself, would hate to greet ye, through a veil of blindin' tears,—but the spirit, all-endurin'—must not falter—must not grope,—Let the New Year, reassurin'—hand us Faith an' Love an' Hope.

TURN TO THE RIGHT.

When you come to the place where a fork in the road busts suddenly onto yer sight, don't hesitate none as you carry yer load, but bravely march off to the right! No matter how stony or hilly the track, oh how painful the travellin' appears. . . . We're makin' this journey to never come back, an' we number the mile-posts by years. . . . The pilgrim that falters, or turns to the left, on the glitterin' path that is fraud, will wake up some mornin' to find him bereft of honor, of conscience,—of God! Then turn to the right at the forks of the road—there's no other pathway so sweet. . . . The Master's approval will lighten yer load,—there's a crown, when yer journey's complete.

From Uncle John

The Royal Arms of Canada.

Canada entered the Great War a country of somewhat doubtful and uncertain standing. She emerged from the conflict a nation, secure in her independence, standing firmly upon her own feet, the equal in council of the bodies politic of the world.

This status she won by force of arms, by the glorious achievements of her sons upon the field of battle, where, from the outset, she played a nation's part. Her people's gradual conception of this subtle change grew throughout the years of hostilities, and upon their termination Canada set her feet in the ways of peace-time progress, instigated by a new national pride and in a new consciousness of her own greatness.

It is probable that out of this recognition of new birth sprang the desire for a new coat of arms, which should be distinctly emblematic of the Dominion, and which has resulted in the new Royal Arms recently adopted. These are a variant upon the Royal Arms of England, the countries of England, Ireland, Scotland and France being represented on the shield, supported by a lion bearing the Union Jack and a unicorn, bearing the ancient arms of France. Beneath is the motto "A mari usque ad mare." (From sea to sea.)

Thus the new insignia illustrates the relationship of the Dominion to the British Empire and perpetuates the two great races which have formed the main sources of the origin of her people. Fithly the motto suggests Canada's vast extent.

Writing on this subject, Prof. Percy E. Nobbs, of McGill University, says: "Whilst the feeling of the Canadian people would appear to be decidedly against titular honors and the interest in personal coats of arms is slight, many Canadian cities and towns have adopted their own coats of arms, these in some instances being registered at the College of Heralds in London. All the provinces, both new and old, have beautiful and appropriate coats of arms, duly granted, and used to the full by provincial governments both as decorations and on occasions as flags.

"The Federal authority has, however, up till recently, been less well furnished, and the maple leaf, the beaver, the arms of the first four provinces to federate marshalled together on a quartered field, and, last but not least, a marshalled coat of arms of all the nine provinces have all been used as a symbol of sovereignty in a rather indiscriminate fashion."

Now, however, a uniform emblem is decided and granted for all time, to symbolize the confederated provinces of the Dominion of Canada wherever seen or encountered.

The democratic spirit which permeates the Canadian people does not favor private titles or the universal pomp of heraldry or any phase anomalous from that true democracy which is Canadian national life. But Canadians take pride in their country being so dignified in its possession of insignia which, at the one time, symbolizes independent national status, the Empirical partitive, and the unification of races.

WHEAT CROP OF THE OKANAGAN

This Year's Production Nearly Double That of 1920—Mostly All Shipped to Coast.

The Okanagan wheat fields made a yield this year higher than that of any year in their history.

The total production of the valley amounted to about 150,000 bushels against an output last year of 80,000 bushels. The acreage capable of producing grain in the Okanagan country is limited owing to the enormous output of fruit from that district but weather conditions were ideal this season and the farmer got his crop away to the markets when prices were at their best.

The nearly-double output this year was not occasioned by any great increase in the amount of acreage placed under wheat during 1921, but is ascribed almost entirely to the improved weather and the assistance given by the transportation companies in shipping the wheat out of the country to points where the best prices could be realized.

With the exception of about five cars of select wheat for milling purposes the entire Okanagan crop was shipped to Vancouver.

It had been the custom of the farmers of the Okanagan to plant more winter wheat owing to the condition of the weather at seeding time and for this reason about 60 per cent. of the wheat grown in the Okanagan is used for poultry feed, the other 40 per cent. going to the milling plants for pastry flour.

Where white seed, blue stem, or forty fold, all of which are similar to seeds from which Washington and Oregon export grain crops are produced, are used, the product is easily disposed of to the milling companies thus obviating the necessity of importing grain from the United States to meet the demand for pastry flour from the domestic market.

bought grain for pastry flour from Eastern Canada at a very high price, which was enhanced by the cost of hauling a long distance by rail. Then the centre of purchase moved to Washington and Oregon and for several years the British Columbia pastry flour milling industry has been dependent on the United States for its flour.

At first the Okanagan wheat was used entirely for poultry feed, but more recently the farmers have been planting Marquis seed similar to that used on the prairie and have been putting it in the spring with the result that the weight of the Okanagan wheat crop is gradually changing from low grade winter wheat suitable only for poultry feed to a spring wheat which markets at a much better price than that destined for poultry only.

Winter wheat is in no demand for export, but spring wheat which the Okanagan country is capable of producing is eagerly sought in the Orient. It is especially adapted to the manufacture of macaroni and other glutinous commodities which Oriental industry has recently turned to with more than ordinary favor and interest.

Not only is the Okanagan country giving to the more settled southwestern part of the province its complete supply of poultry feed and pastry flour, but it is demonstrating to the other districts that it is possible to grow a good grade of pastry flour-making wheat.

Based on the experience of the Okanagan country many farmers going into the more central parts of the country are taking up mixed farming instead of applying themselves entirely to the industry of cattle raising. These mixed farms do not mean the concentration of all efforts along one line and if the cattle market is slack the farmer can rely to a certain extent on his wheat or vice versa.

Grand Prairie is seriously handicapped in the matter of marketing as it is now necessary for the farmers to drive 30 miles to Kamloops with their wheat before they can get it marketed. This thirty miles in means an overnight stay and a thirty-mile drive out the next day. When the Canadian National railway builds its line to Vernon this line will run through Grand Prairie and will obviate the necessity for such long hauls to point of shipment. There is room for three times as much wheat to be raised in the Grand Prairie district as what is now grown and it is expected that with the construction of this line to Vernon, bringing the railway along the face of many farms, that in 1922 the output from this district will run to about 250 cars. At the present time the marketing centres for interior grown British Columbia wheat are Enderby, Armstrong, Vernon and Kamloops.

AMERICANS FIX PACK AND GRADE

Slight Changes Are Made at GATHERING RECENTLY HELD IN SPOKANE.

According to the Spokane Chronicle, the proposition to cut the number of grades down to two, failed at the pack and grade conference, held in connection with the annual meeting of the Washington State Horticultural Association at Spokane.

Slight changes in the 1921 grade and pack rules governing northwest apples were recommended to fruit growers for 1922 by a committee representing apple districts of the state at the meeting.

The committee recommended that the extra fancy grade be the same as in 1921; that the apples of this grade be sound, mature, clean, well-formed and free from all blemish.

The committee recommended that the second grade, known as the "fancy," be permitted to have one sting and shall include only good mature apples that have characteristic color to the extent of, not less than 10 per cent. of their surface area in all varieties, except Rome Beauty, and the light striped, blushed, yellow and green varieties, which shall have no color requirement. They must be free from such defects and injuries as to impair their natural keeping.

The committee recommended that the "C" grade be governed by the 1920 rules which include all merchantable apples free from infection and which do not permit bruises as did the 1921 rules. Apples showing the effects of freezing will not be admitted into this grade. Apples of this grade can not be marked "choice."

A special recommendations committee, made up of Spokane and Yakima growers, submitted a recommendation to the conference that the "C" grade be known as "Grade No. 3," and that there shall be some slight changes between the "C" and No. 3 grade.

The general committee recommended that there be a fourth grade known as the unclassified, but the Yakima-Spokane committee held out for three grades only. The proposed fourth or unclassified grade is made up principally of cull apples.

The Yakima-Spokane committee recommended standard apple boxes with an inside measurement of 18 inches in length by 11 1/2 inches in width, by 10 1/2 inches in depth, and, if made of wood the ends shall not be less than three-fourths of an inch thick and the sides not less than three-eighths of an inch thick.

Bravo.
Jenkins and his best girl were motoring a considerable distance to see one of the last-round cup ties, and the margin of time was very short.
With about twelve miles to go, he bade defiance to all police traps, and, turning to the girl of his heart, exclaimed: "We're going at fifty miles an hour. Are you brave, dear?"
The girl, as she swallowed a quantity of dust, replied, with emotion: "Yes dear; I'm full of grit!"—London Tit Bits.

A plan for drawing trade to a town that has been successfully worked at several points might be adopted to advantage here. The plan is as follows: An agreement was reached between all the merchants whereby they offered special sales on certain days, each merchant selecting some special line of goods upon which he made a lower price than usual. Thus one dry goods house would sell gloves at a special price, while another would offer bargains in dress goods. One hardware merchant would reduce the price on skates. Every line of business was represented and care was taken that no conflicts occurred. The bargain day was extensively advertised, the names of the merchants and their special sales being in all cases stated. The public far and near responded in a most gratifying manner and the merchants were well pleased with the plan. The idea has already been carried out in many places.

HOW'S THIS FOR HAIR LIFTING?

Stepping off a limited passenger train going 60 miles an hour sounds like suicide, but railroad scientists are experimenting so that people can be transferred from swift trains to local trains. A trolley track runs parallel with the main line. The trolley car, operated with powerful motors, speeds up as the limited approaches, and when both are under the same rate of momentum, a trap connection is let down from the platform of the trolley car to the platform of the train car and the passengers pass over. The trap is then raised, the motorman slows down to a stop at the next station and the transferred passengers alight. We print the above picture, by special arrangements, from the coming issue of Popular Science Monthly.

SOMETHING FARMERS SHOULD READ

The farmer being a business man—a seller of goods—he ought to advertise just as all other successful business men advertise. He, too, will be successful in that little business matter of winning bank accounts when he advertises liberally and intelligently.

But a first-class way to find out that "advertising doesn't pay" is to advertise unintelligently. One of our justly noted farm magazines prints two advertisements that illustrate this point very clearly indeed.

John Smith having ten very fine Holstein cows, and being nearly out of feed, ran this ad in his nearby town paper:

FOR SALE—Ten cows. Price reasonable. John Smith, Plodtown.

Then John sat down and waited. There was nothing arousing, or interesting, or attractive or appealing in that ad. Moreover, it didn't tell the facts that farmers wanting to buy cows wanted to know: A few letters came to John, every one of them asking questions. Some even desired to know what was the matter with the cows that he was trying to sell "reasonably." John had to write back answers to all the questions and then a few more letters came back asking more questions. Meanwhile, the feed gave out and John had to sell in desperation for less than two-thirds the value to a neighbor who knew his predicament.

Our magazine editor says that Tom Jones put the following ad in his country town paper:

FOR SALE—Ten heavy producing grade Holstein cows, five years old. Price $100 each. Fresh in September. Forced to sell on account of feed shortage. Tom Jones, Peptown.

During the next three days Tom got several acceptances of his offer—right off the bat—providing the cows were as he represented, of course. The farmers who read his ad didn't have to ask questions. The ad told all they wanted to know and they accepted when the appeal was fresh in their minds.

Now Tom's ad cost twice as much as John's—probably 50 cents more. But Tom got $1000 for his cows, and John got only $650 for his.

Unintelligent advertising may not pay, but intelligent advertising always pays—ALWAYS.

AND THERE IS NOTHING HARD ABOUT IT. JUST WRITE AN AD THAT YOU YOURSELF WOULD LIKE TO READ IF YOU WERE LOOKING OVER THE ADVERTISING COLUMNS.

Don't be miserly with your words; in the long run they cost almost nothing. But don't waste them either, folks. Tom didn't.

Might Be Either.

The daughter of the house had just returned from a visit to her cousins, during which she had become engaged to a rising young man whom she had met at the home of her relatives. To her mother she was extolling the virtues of her intended.

"Oh, mother," she exclaimed, "he's just grand! So square, so upright, so highly polished. Why, in his notes there is such a sympathetic tone that sometimes I imagine I am reading the music of the gods!" "Mercy's sake, child!" interrupted her mother, "are you talking about a young man or a piano?"—London Tit-Bits.

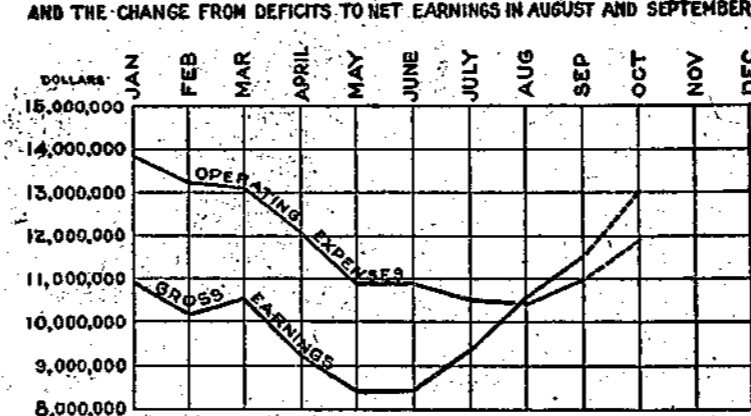

What Could Be Fairer.

A young woman from the east, who married a Seattle man recently, had a novel experience when she engaged her first Chinese cook.

"What's your name?" she asked, when the preliminaries had been settled. "My name Hong Long Soo," said the Celestial with much gravity. "And I am Mrs. Harrington Buckingham," said the new employer. "I am afraid I shall never be able to remember your name—it's too long. I shall call you John." "All right," returned the Chinese man, with a suspicion of a smile, "Your name too long, too. I call you Charley."—Seattle Times.

WHY THE MERCHANT?

Under the above heading one of our able exchanges says there are some things in life that pass human understanding, and one of these is the habit people have when they want to build a church, erect a Y. M. C. A., pay an evangelist or do other things of a public nature which costs money in towns of this size they expect the business men of that town, the merchants on the street, to bear the big end of the expense of it. No matter how many men there may be in the town not in business and with oodles of money, the merchant is the fellow who is bled the hardest, because he happens to have a stock of goods and because, mainly, he seeks the patronage of the public, and the implication is at least, that if he does not "dough up," he will lose a portion of it—an implied blackmail. The merchant, he pays the freight, and then the tight-wad, the fellow with the money he is going to take with him, sits back and enjoys the benefit of the other fellow's enterprise and liberality.

Why, will someone tell us, should the merchant always be milked? What is the logic of it? It surely is not because he is rich, for that is seldom the case. He is harassed from more sides than any other man in the business world. The mail order house takes some of the business that belongs to him, bad roads and bad weather keep his trade away, he has to carry on his books a lot of dead beats, often who wear good clothes, smoke good cigars and galavant around while he has his nose to the grindstone. And then, to cap it all, when he does get a dollar and sixty cents in the till some fellow comes around and gets it to help send a missionary to the Hot-Swits, provide for the orphans of Swiss naval officers at Dahomey, or some one of a thousand other things. And he falls for it and does without things himself to keep his share, while the village tight-wad holds on to his money the tighter and enjoys the benefit.

This paper hopes to see the day come when all things done now by

WINTER EGGS—HOW TO GET THEM

New laid eggs may be as scarce this winter as usual, and if extra attention is not paid to getting the laying stock into condition and housed early, the supply of eggs may be even less.

Though it is now too late to begin to prepare for early winter eggs, it is high time to make the best of what we may have. The beginning was made last spring when the pullets were hatched, for only the early pullets can be depended on to give eggs during November and December. The hens and the late pullets as a rule, will not lay many eggs until the end of January and February. It is, therefore, from the well-matured pullets that the early high-priced eggs may be expected. There are a few things that, if not already attended to, should be done without delay. These may be summed up as follows:

1. Keep no stock that will be non-producing.—Kill off the old hens that will not lay until late spring. Mark the immature pullets and all surplus cockerels. Give the rest of the pullets every opportunity to develop and to get into laying condition before winter sets in.

2. Have the winter quarters comfortable, and give plenty of fresh air without draughts.—The pullets should have gone into their winter houses before November 1, and if they did not, get them in as soon as possible. The unnecessary handling or changing of pullets from one place to another, just when they are about to lay, is disastrous, and in some cases will retard laying for several weeks. Have the houses clean, disinfected and whitewashed. See that the glass is free from dirt and cobwebs, and the cotton free from dust, and mended, and, if too far gone, replace it.

3. Do not feed sparingly, but judiciously, it does not pay to stint the layers.—Feed them grain in a litter on the floor and, as the weather gets colder, increase the quantity of litter. In addition to the grain, see that they have either a hopper, with dry mash constantly before them, or, if preferred, give it in the shape of a moist mash once a day.

Be sure the stock is right; give good wholesome feed in sufficient quantities; provide bright and well ventilated houses, and see that everything is kept clean and sanitary. By this means, with the addition of up-to-date selling methods, wastage will be reduced to a minimum, and winter egg production should leave a good margin of profit.

F. C. ELFORD, Dominion Poultry Husbandman.

Sis—Boom—Woo!

Farmer—College education sure does pay. Take my boy just home. Went right into the field where that savage bull is kept. The bull started for him. The boy just stood pat and gave his college yell.

Friend—Well, what did the bull do?

Farmer—He joined in with him. Now they're regular pals.

public subscription can be done by taxation. That is the only fair way. Then all the people would pay for the things from which all benefit.

Naramata News

Current Events of Town and District

The recent special school meeting, held to discuss the question of the high school, decided to keep the high school room here, instead of arranging for tuition at Pentiction and the transportation of students there, and back. The latter course was recommended by the trustee board, who estimated that it would be the least costly plan, as well as affording greater advantages to the students. Much interest was evinced in the question, a large number turning out to the meeting in spite of the very severe weather prevailing at the time. The debate was spirited, Mr. Partridge, Mr. Armour and others opposing the proposed plan, which was finally voted down. The trustees feel that the proposal was in the best interests of the school and the community, and that when the project is considered and understood in all its bearings that there will be a reversal of opinion.

The contract for transportation of the children of the south benches to school has been awarded to the Mitchell Bros. at the same price as has prevailed in the past.

Much regret being expressed at Miss Wilson's resignation at the end of the term, a petition was circulated among the parents of the children in her room asking her to reconsider her resignation. It is hoped that Miss Wilson will find it possible to return. If not, the trustees have several applicants with whom they are keeping in touch for both the senior and junior rooms. Mr. Copley, it is understood, will return to the high school room.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Robinson gave a Christmas tree party for some of the small friends of their son and daughter, Robert and Catherine, on Christmas Eve. Norman Hancock, appropriately costumed, delivered the presents from the tree. Various grown-ups were privileged to watch the fun and even participate in receiving mysterious parcels from Santa Claus. Mr. Fred Manchester was the grateful recipient of a much-needed stick of chewing-gum, and the other adults fared equally well.

The Syndica Hotel celebrated the holiday with a real old-fashioned English Christmas dinner, one long table down the length of the dining-room replacing the many small ones. A number of people in addition to the regular guests took advantage of the opportunity to forsake the week-long struggle with their frozen water pipes and dine in leisure, peace and plenty at Mrs. Duke's well spread table. Conversation and Christmas songs in the lounge filled in a pleasant evening afterwards.

It is learned with regret that Miss Enid Rayner, who intended leaving shortly to enter the Vancouver General Hospital as a probationer, was taken ill last week with rheumatic fever and is still confined to bed.

Percy Hancock is spending the Christmas holidays with his parents, and will leave again early in the New Year for school at Kelowna.

Mr. and Mrs. Lumsden and Mr. Carr Lumsden, of Vancouver, are expected in Naramata to spend the week-end with Mr. Gerald Lumsden at his ranch.

Owing to the postponement of the meeting of the Unity Club and the severity of the weather, the projected New Year's party and masquerade has been postponed till a later date.

The chief event being looked forward to at present is the U. B. C. girls' basketball team, who will be here early in the week and will play an exhibition game with the local team on Wednesday evening.

A Second-hand One.

I've fussed at it and worked at it; I've grabbed the crank and jerked at it. I've backed it up and jacked it up; I've often well nigh hacked it up; I've bullied it and worried it; And humored it and hurried it; Day after day in vain I've worked; In sunshine and in rain I've worked. I cannot find a blasted thing That's wrong with that dodgasted thing.

It seems to have no fault but one—No power on earth can make it run. I've sounded it and pounded it; These many weeks I've hounded it; I've probed its inward mystery; I've sought and learned its history—A worthy one, as told to me; Until the thing was sold to me; Then viciously and arrantly It up and died, apparently; Though sometimes there's a flickering Of life, which sounds like snickering. 'Tis plain it doesn't need repairs. The thing that never needs is prayers!—Walter G. Doty.

"THE HONOR SYSTEM" COMING; ALL-STAR CAST.

"THE HONOR SYSTEM" WILLIAM FOX PRODUCTION

"The Honor System," the film drama which William Fox is to produce at the Rialto Theatre next Saturday with an all-star cast, is described as a triumph in photoplay production. When Mr. Fox set out to produce "The Honor System," which is melodrama pure and simple, his object was not to attempt the ultimate of the cinema, but to give to the motion picture public a great and most gripping human drama. The story is laid in the mining town of Howling Dog, in Arizona, near the Mexican border. In taking these scenes R. A. Walsh proved himself a director-genius. He has pictured the border foray in all its thrilling interest. The spectator can see the hordes of Villa swooping down on Howling Dog, the hasty organization of the terrified citizens for defense, the daring ride of the hero for assistance, the wild dash of the U. S. regulars to the rescue, and the utter rout of the bandits. The all-star cast contains the names of Gladys Brockwell, Miriam Cooper, Milton Sills, George Walsh, Charles Clay and others.

BASKETBALL

A change to milder weather helped to fill the Gymnasium on Tuesday evening, when our local basketball team met their opponents from the lake-end municipality in a Southern Okanagan League game.

From the start promptly at 8.15, it was evident that the Summerland girls were outclassed by Pentiction on almost every point, and as the game proceeded, the aggressiveness of the latter in checking soon made itself felt, and showed on the score sheet. Undoubtedly the hardest worker on the home team was Ida Shields who, with her sister, did the giant's share of the work for Summerland, the rest of the team seeming to be almost apathetic at times. Such a game as was played by the visiting team was good training for our local girls, and it is to be hoped that they will endeavor to put a little more spirit in their work at the next meet.

The defeat of the Pentiction intermediates by the Summerland quintette was perfectly justified by the play presented to the spectators, and the home team are to be congratulated on the splendid exhibition of basketball produced. The combination and checking were both good, the Adams boys being a host in themselves, while Louis Smith and Bernard Taylor never wittingly lost an opportunity of trying to score. The match resulted in a win for Summerland by 13 to 8.

There is no doubt that the play exhibited by the seniors in their game against Pentiction seniors was the poorest yet seen and not in the same class as at the Kelowna contest. It may not have been so, but to the onlooker the local boys appeared to know that they were up against a good team and were just a bit rattled, the supposition being somewhat justified during the first half of the game by the wild shooting in the play around the basket, and the hurried way in which our boys got rid of the ball without waiting to use any judgment in throwing to their partners. After the interval the team seemed to settle down better, and some good play by Gayton and Guy, backed up by Stewart, somewhat redeemed the poor showing previously made. Pentiction certainly won on their merits by 14 to 5.

A large number of spectators gathered to see the games, the coldness of the hall being the only drawback to standing over two hours to witness some very exciting moments.

CANADIAN NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Montreal.—W. L. Clark, of the Pacific Steamship Company, at a meeting of the United States Shipping Board, made the assertion that thirty-eight United States railroad lines were controlled or influenced by Canada.

Montreal.—The Department of Labor's report covering the situation in October, indicates that month to have been one of the most gratifying in its various features experienced for some time. A somewhat greater volume of employment was noted all over the Dominion; there was a decline in the cost of living and little time lost due to industrial disputes.

Montreal.—The provincial census of the Province of Quebec gives the provincial population at 2,503,548 and that of the city of Montreal as 758,045.

Ottawa.—The Canadian system of taxation is being made the subject of special study by members of the United States House of Representatives and Senate who arrived here on November 30th for the purpose. The party consists of about fifty members of Congress which will spend three days studying under the guidance of the Department of Finance. The operation of the sales tax will be made the subject of a special study.

Toronto.—There are 175,000 farms in the Province of Ontario, according to an estimate of the provincial department of agriculture. The value of farm lands, buildings, improvements and livestock is fully $1,700,000,000. In the value of field crops for 1918, Ontario with $363,909,778, exceeded in value any of the other provinces of the Dominion. In 1919 the value of field crops according to the Bureau of Statistics, was $273,507,000.

Victoria, B.C.—A marked recovery in gold mining in the Province of British Columbia for the first ten months of 1921 is noted in the report of the Dominion Assay office here. During the ten-month period there was deposited $2,569,979, as compared with $1,808,970 for the corresponding period of 1920, an increase of $761,009. For the month of October, this year the gold receipts were $512,265, as against $228,276 last year, an increase for the month of $283,989.

Vancouver, B.C.—A new market for Canadian granite is being developed by the Granite Island Quarries of Jervix Inlet, British Columbia. Sample blocks sent to Australia and New Zealand were very well received, because of splendid coloring and freedom from rust stains and from them have come the orders. The last ship to Australia carried a comparatively large consignment.

Vancouver, B.C.—It is reported here that a number of Canadian capitalists have under consideration the project of constructing a large elevator at Kobe, Japan. The movement of Canadian wheat which commenced this fall to Japan is responsible. So far 750,000 bushels have been booked to that country.

Red Deer, Alberta.—Three carloads of dinosaur bones have been taken from the Red Deer fossil beds this season. Twenty-five specimens went to the University of Alberta and University of Toronto; and 18 to the Geological Survey which will be added to the government collection at Ottawa. Some of the dinosaurs dug out of the rock-like clay are 30 feet long.

Edmonton.—The establishment of a finishing station in Belgium, Holland or France for finishing Canadian cattle prior to their being slaughtered and delivered as fresh beef to London and other British Centres is proposed.

posed by the Alberta Minister of Agriculture. In these countries a shortage of livestock and surplus of pasture is said to exist and these cattle could be brought to the pink of condition after undergoing the long voyage. Canadian grain would be shipped overseas for this purpose.

Quebec.—To meet a sudden dearth in the New York market, which had been growing for some time, 200,000 eels, valued at $100,000, were shipped from Quebec to New York. They travelled in three specially constructed barges, so arranged that water could flow in and out of the vessels at all times, keeping the fish alive.

Montreal.—On January 18th, the Montcalm, the new liner of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd., will leave Liverpool for St. John on her maiden voyage. The vessel is a geared turbine with two funnels, 566 feet in length, 70 feet in breadth, and 51 1/2 feet in depth and will have accommodation for not less than 520 cabin passengers and 1550 third-class passengers. The Montcalm will be one of the largest steamships in the Canadian service with a speed of 17 knots per hour.

Creston, B. C.—All records for lateness in ripe tomato shipping were broken this year, when the season closed with an export of fifteen crates of the ripe grade from the R. J. Long ranch on October 25th.

Maple Creek, Sask.—The area devoted to winter rye in Saskatchewan this year totalled 1,038,607 acres, an increase of 600 per cent. over 1920. There will also be a big increase in next year's crop, it is expected.

Winnipeg.—Building contracts issued in Western Canada during the month of October totalled $4,092,200, distributed as follows: British Columbia, $2,155,100; Alberta, $879,100; Saskatchewan, $471,200; Manitoba, $586,800. The month's total compares with the corresponding month in 1920 very favorably, when the total amounted to $2,987,400, and in 1919 when the total was $2,687,300.

Moose Jaw, Sask.—Recently a new record for a grain moving train was created when a Canadian Pacific engine pulled 110 fully loaded cars of wheat, comprising 165,000 bushels, eastwards towards the Great Lakes. The train was nine-tenths of a mile long and weighed approximately 6888 tons, exclusive of the engine and the caboose.

Vancouver, B.C.—Rumors in grain trading and shipping circles here have it that the United Grain Growers, Ltd., intend to build a big elevator in Vancouver to take care of the wheat to be shipped to Europe via this port.

Halifax, N. S.—Forty-two Sable Island ponies have arrived here on the government steamer Lady Laurier. A number of these animals are taken from Sable Island every year and sold by the Dominion Government.

St. John, N.B.—Upwards of $6,000,000 have been allocated by the Anglo-Persian Oil Company for the purpose of developing the oil shale deposits in New Brunswick. The company intends to erect a 5,000 ton plant, from which it is hoped 60,000,000 gallons per annum may be obtained from the deposits. The estimate is made that there is enough shale in the series to supply five plants of 1500 ton capacity each for 50 years.

THE CARELESS SMOKER

(Apologies to Kipling)
By Harris A. Reynolds, in "The Open Road."
A fool there was and his pipe he lit.
(Even as you and I)
On a forest trail where the leaves were fit
To become ablaze from the smallest bit
Of spark—and the fool he furnished it
The day was windy and dry.

The forest was burned to its very roots,
Even beneath the ground,
With the flowers, the birds and the poor dumb brutes,
Old hoary oaks and the tender shoots
Which might have made logs but for such galoots Allowed to wander round.

The lumberjack has now passed on
His pay-day comes no more
And the screech-owls haunt the camp at dawn
Where the cook's tin pan woke the men of brawn,
But the mill is silent, the trees are gone,
The soil and the forest floor.

A deadly sight are those hills of rocks
Which once were beds of green
No hope for the human, no food for the flocks

The floods must be held by expensive locks
And the harbor is silted to the docks,
The ships no more are seen.
But the fool smokes on in the forest still,
Leaves camp-fires burning, too,
While the patient public pays the bill
And the nation's wealth is destroyed for nil;
