THE SUMMERLAND-NARAMATA FERRY.

The statement made in Victoria to the effect that the Provincial Legislature have been considering taking off the ferry running between Summerland and Naramata will come as a matter of some surprise here, and we do not think any good reason can be shown for such a suggestion.

We do not think there should be the remotest danger of this needed service being taken off, but we should none the less see to it that its value is enhanced by a little more recognition than it seems to have hitherto received.

HOOLOGANISM.

We have, on a previous occasion, deemed it necessary to make some criticism of the rough element from an outside point which sometimes has intruded itself in entertainments presented here.

A writer in the Farmers' Magazine says of the country weekly, that there is no newspaper deserving better at the hands of the farmer.

Trial shipments of B.C. apples routed via Panama Canal to England were handled with such success that it is now practically a certainty that this business will be much enlarged during the coming season.

There has been a very satisfactory growth in the population of this province during the past year, if the usually reliable index of school attendance still applies.

Miss Olive Hayes, well known to Women's Institute members, and who has been connected with the Home Branch of the Soldiers' Settlement Board has resigned, and accepted a position with the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

PROF. EASTMAN HEARD HERE

However, his influence is seen to recede down through the centuries, inspiring the "Project of Perpetual Peace," thought out by the Abbe de St. Pierre a century later, and may be traced in Czar Alexander's conception of a Holy Alliance, and Napoleon's federative scheme, recalled during the solitude of St. Helena.

Reverting to the Project of St. Pierre the speaker pointed out that, like the "Christian Republic" of Henry IV., it was a league of sovereigns and not of peoples, and would, under certain circumstances, have become a combine of rulers against their subjects.

along the same lines, and theory and fact were fast becoming ripe for revolutionary application. It came with the French Revolution, which was at first as universal in scope as religion and as pacific as Christianity.

which differed from the "Project" of St. Pierre in that it dealt with conditions in a modern spirit. He condemns standing armies as economic burdens, and causes of wars of aggression waged in order to get rid of the burden.

The Holy Alliance of Alexander I. of Russia was based on the precepts of Christianity, Justice, Charity, and Peace, and was joined by all European rulers, England, the Pope, and Turkey only remaining aloof.

Meantime a new and invincible force had been operating ceaselessly towards the internationalizing of daily life. This was the Industrial Revolution, which, by means of increased production and various inventions, was changing world conditions.

In the evening Professor Bars again spoke on the subject of pruning, treating it from the point of view of the scientist, and showing the reasons for certain procedure, and was succeeded by Mr. M. S. Middleton, who gave a practical demonstration of correct methods.

There must be some mistake in my examination marking, I don't think I deserve an absolute zero," complained the student.

"Neither do I," agreed the professor, "but it's the lowest mark I'm allowed to give."

FRUIT GROWERS HEAR LECTURES

A little small dry grain at night. The bigger the range the better the chicks. He advocated separating cockerels from pullets at seven weeks, and said the poultry keeper must expect to lose on cockerels.

The speaker referred to the fact that the number of hens to-day was smaller by some millions than a few years ago, but that there was an increase in British Columbia which is especially suitable for the keeping of poultry.

The series of Horticultural lectures was resumed in the Parish Hall at 2 p.m. Wednesday, the afternoon addresses being by Professor Bars, and Mr. W. T. Hunter.

Mr. Hunter's address dealt with the matter of the best varieties for planting in the Valley for the future markets, and deprecated the addition of more trees of the less valuable sorts.

In the evening Professor Bars again spoke on the subject of pruning, treating it from the point of view of the scientist, and showing the reasons for certain procedure, and was succeeded by Mr. M. S. Middleton, who gave a practical demonstration of correct methods.

The course of lectures now finishing in the north end of the Valley, is said to have brought together more growers than ever before.

Some men are born with black eyes, others have to fight for them.

SCHOOL MEETING AT NARAMATA.

The school situation in Naramata, which has been the cause of much difference of opinion in the community culminated last week in the calling of a school meeting on Friday night to discuss the advisability of fitting up an extra school room and engaging a third teacher.

The school, as at present conducted teaches all grades from the receiving class of little ones of 6 years old to the 2nd year of high school, inclusive, two teachers covering this wide range of classes. It had been hoped last term that the attendance of the lower room would, during the term, reach the required number, 40 pupils, to make it possible to obtain the Government grant as a help toward the salary of a third teacher. This attendance mark, however, has never been reached, making it necessary for the district, if it desired the third teacher, to pay the salary entirely out of its own funds.

The conviction of many of the parents, that their children were not receiving sufficient instruction under existing circumstances, resulted in the circulation of a petition, which being signed by a majority of the ratepayers, led to the calling of the meeting.

Proceedings opened with a full attendance, Mr. R. H. King being in the chair. Mr. Rayner, secretary of the School Board, was provided with estimates of the cost of providing for a third teacher, and fitting up a room for the remainder of the term, and for the ensuing year. He also placed before the meeting the chances of being able to obtain the Government grant for a third teacher next year.

Discussion on issue was animated and differences of opinion were advanced with some warmth, but the chairman kept the debate well in hand. Arguments on both sides were for the most part presented with clearness and moderation. After ample discussion a resolution was put by Mrs. Campbell Robinson that the trustees be instructed to engage a third teacher. This was seconded by Mr. J. Lyons, and carried by a vote of 43 to 15.

Mr. Rayner and Mrs. Rounds, trustees, apparently interpreted the vote as a motion of censure, and handed in their resignations.

The meeting then adjourned. Mrs. Fosbery and Miss Cartwright of Summerland were in Naramata on Tuesday, the guests of Mrs. Dean Walters.

Several Naramata residents went down to Penticton on Monday evening to enjoy the last dance to be given in the Valley this winter by the Banff orchestra. Among these were Mr. Bud Rounds, Mr. Earl Hughes, Mr. Billy Robinson, and Mr. Campbell Robinson.

Mr. J. M. Robinson and Miss Gwen Robinson spent Friday of last week in Summerland.

Mrs. Nuttall and Mrs. Simpson were hostesses at a whist drive held last Saturday evening in the Unity Club in aid of Unity Club projects. The first prizes were won by Mrs. Howard Rounds and Mrs. Kenyon, and the consolation prizes by Mrs. Dan MacKay and Mr. Harold Mitchell. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, and a pleasant evening passed by those in attendance.

Mr. Eldon Smith is returning shortly to Saskatchewan for the summer. His wife and family will remain with Mrs. M. B. Smith for some time.

Professor Mack Eastman, who is in charge of the History Department of the U.B.C. was a week-end visitor in Naramata, the guest of Mrs. Amaron. Prof. Eastman was finishing a short trip which he had undertaken at the request of the University Extension Committee, having lectured during the week at Salmon Arm, Armstrong, and Vernon, and being due to speak at the Forum in Summerland on Sunday. A special ferry was arranged for to take a party over to the Summerland lecture, those going being Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Lyons, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Amaron, Miss Standen, and Mrs. McConkey. Prof. Eastman may return in the spring and hopes by that time to have his lecture on Soviet Russia perfected. Other University speakers may be sent out shortly, and it is to be hoped that Naramata will make arrangements in time to receive them.

Mr. Ewing gave a very interesting address on Japan on Sunday afternoon, illustrated by lantern slides, the church windows being darkened by green curtains in order that the lantern might be used.

NARAMATA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE.

The Women's Institute held its monthly meeting in the Unity Club on Tuesday afternoon. Arrangements for Clean-Up Day were placed in the hands of the Executive. Mrs. Nuttall reported that material had been ordered for the cemetery fencing. A resolution of sympathy was passed to Mrs. Young, who is at the Summerland Hospital, recovering from an operation. Mrs. Rounds was appointed to see Mr. Taylor of Kelowna with regard to getting him to give his bird lecture in Naramata.

The feature of the afternoon was an address by Mrs. Walters on Child Welfare, remarkable for its original and vigorous thought. Mrs. Hayward entertained the gathering with two humorous readings, while Miss Marjorie Green sang two songs very acceptably, accompanied by Mrs. Green.

The Association was pleased to have as visitors Mrs. Fosbery and Miss Cartwright of the West Summerland Institute, who spoke shortly before the close of the meeting.

Mrs. Routh entertained at tea on Tuesday afternoon of last week, her guests being Mrs. D. O. Hughes, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Morrish, and Mrs. McConkey.

The Ladies' Aid of the Church spent a pleasant and profitable afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lyons on Wednesday. Progress was made in the sewing undertaken by the Association and tea was served by Mrs. Lyons.

Mrs. D. O. Hughes spent Friday in Summerland, attending the W.C.T.U. meeting in the Baptist Church.

The Unity Club held its regular monthly meeting on Friday in the club room. It was reported that almost enough funds were on hand to furnish a ward in the Hospital. Miss Marjorie Green sang during the afternoon and Miss Kathleen McConkey danced an Irish jig, accompanied by Mrs. Green. Mrs. Dan McKay was hostess for the afternoon.

The final score of 12-8 in favour of the University in the second game played on Saturday night between that team and Naramata hardly represents the trend of the play throughout, Naramata leading at half time by 7-2, and being still in the lead until within a few minutes of time. Miss Estelle Amaron was handicapped by a sprained thumb and ankle throughout the play. It is possible that the University team may visit Naramata for a return series of games.

The Wednesday afternoon lectures were delivered by Professor Bars, and Mr. W. T. Hunter. The professor's talk was on the subjects of pruning and cultural methods in general, the trend of his remarks being to show the close inter-relationship between all branches of cultivation. He described the various ways in which sustenance was assimilated by the different parts of a tree, and pointed out that unless the methods of cultivation were made to co-ordinate, the best results would not be obtained. The speaker illustrated many of his points with diagram, and held the interest of his audience from beginning to end.

Mr. Hunter's address dealt with the matter of the best varieties for planting in the Valley for the future markets, and deprecated the addition of more trees of the less valuable sorts. He claimed that there was already enough of the Newtown Pippin planted, and this statement brought forth considerable discussion many growers contending that they had fine results from this variety, and found it profitable. Mr. Hunter, however, maintained his position, and said that several varieties of apples now in the Okanagan should be grafted on. He later gave an exposition of the science of proper thinning, showing the why and the wherefore of certain operations. In the evening Messrs. Grant and

No. VI.—MUSICAL PECULIARITIES

A musician on being introduced to a stranger said, "I hear you are a music writer." "I am sir," replied the stranger. The first musician then added—"I am glad to make your acquaintance as I am afflicted in the same way."

One of America's most noted song writers was Stephen Foster whose chief title to fame is "The Old Folks at Home" and "My Old Kentucky Home." Stephen Foster would often ride up and down Broadway on a 5c bus seeking inspiration for a song.

Theodore Thomas, the pioneer conductor who did more to educate the American public than any other musician, was wise in his day. He was always on the lookout for dainty tit-bits of music, and would take infinite pains to make them effective. He arranged Schumann's Traumerlei to end with muted strings to decrease to the extreme and instructed the strings to continue drawing the bow across the strings without making a sound. The audience imagined it still heard the sounds floating off to an immeasurable distance, till Thomas broke the spell by quietly laying down his baton.

Regarding singing classes, I read a most interesting account of one of the first singing classes and how it was conducted: Mr. Cheney says, I was one of the class in 1790 in New Hampshire, the session being held at the home of one of the members and sometimes in the schoolhouse, boards being placed across the kitchen chairs to answer for seats, in form of a circle, with the singing master in the centre. The master commenced by saying now follow me up and down, he would then sound a note and we would sound the note after him. At the close of the session the singing master agreed to give instruction for one shilling and six pence per night and take his pay in Indian corn. The men members paid for the tuition while the girls supplied the candles for lighting purposes.

It has been said that musical inspiration does not attack all musicians in the same way. Here is one that I think is the strangest origin of any composition that I can recall. It is that of Scarlatti in his "Cats Fugue." The composer often had his favorite cat on his shoulder as he sat at the spinet. One day the cat became scared at something and springing from his shoulder ran across the key-board and away, but in her flight she struck several notes on the keyboard which Scarlatti afterward made into a fugue in her honor.

Brahms, the great music master, hated lionizing but he certainly possessed a high sense of humor. Once when being entertained by some of his friends in a Vienna restaurant the landlord brought on his best wine with this remark: "Here is a wine that surpasses all others, just as the music of Brahms does all other composers." "Well," said Brahms, "take it away and bring me a bottle of Bach."

In a recent article in the Musical Quarterly, the writer tells of some strange methods for inspirations such as:—Haydn took refuge in prayer and rosary; Beethoven in the open air and nature; Mozart in paper and ink; Wagner depended on costly robes of silk and velvet saturated in rich colors; Dumas declared that a fine quality of paper was a real source of inspiration to him; Tschalkowsky needed air and trees; Halevy the noise of the tea kettle; Strauss wine and cigars, or a game of tarok; Suppe a good dose of snuffing tobacco; Donizetti was at his best when fixing his eyes at a distant point; Thomas when lying in bed; Balzac when clothed in a monk's cassock; and Gluck when at his piano placed in the midst of an open field in the sunshine.

THE MAORI QUINTETTE GIVE ENJOYABLE ENTERTAINMENT.

(Held over from last issue).

Monday evening at the Empire Hall was essentially Maori night, the native customs of this interesting people being graphically presented in song and story by representatives of five distinct tribes. The speaker for the quintette was Mr. H. V. Papikura, who told of the origin and growth of his race as far as it can be traced back, and also delighted the audience with musical selections, rendered in a very fine tenor voice. The Maori race were the original people of New Zealand, and are of Hawaiian and Polynesian descent, though their early history is obscure. The entertainment given here constituted a picturesque and interesting presentation of native habits of olden days, including the war dance which invariably preceded the tribal engagements of those times. Their rendering of the songs and legends of their race showed quite clearly an inherent musical gift, and the large audience in attendance thoroughly enjoyed its brief excursion to Maori land.

With a wild shriek the train dashed through the country station without pausing. "I say, porter," cried a startled passenger, waiting at the station, "isn't that the 4.15 to Newtown? Why didn't it stop here?" The porter shook his head. "It don't stop here now, sir," he explained. "The lady engine driver has quarrelled with our station mistress."

The Winding Trail

A Counterfeit Presentment

Our friend "Lucian" in The Week End, seems to have strayed a little from his usual path of accuracy of deduction. The occasion is an offshoot of a discussion which was waged a few years ago concerning the alleged misrepresentation of natural history facts by certain writers of animal stories. The late Theodore Roosevelt was, I believe, characteristically decided in his denunciation of those whom he called "nature fakers," and it goes without saying that Col. Roosevelt knew a good deal about animals. Friend "Lucian" lately referred to one of these writers, C. G. D. Roberts, and his remarks brought a letter from Professor Ganong, a well known botanist and natural history authority, who chides him for his apparent approbation of spurious animal stories of the sort condemned by those who really know the animal world. The professor says in part, "The reason I write is to say that you, like so many, have entirely missed the point of the scientific criticism made of Roberts and other nature writers a few years ago. It was not in the least that scientific men objected to having animals made the heroes of romance. The matter to which they took exception rested entirely on the claims of these writers to have made long and careful observational studies of the habits of animals, thereby providing an accurate fact basis for the obvious fiction of their stories. This claim was distinctly made by those writers. Those who know animals know perfectly well that the fact basis of their stories is not correct, while those who know the men are aware that they never made the studies in the woods necessary to the extensive understanding of animal habits which appear in their books."

In his reply to this letter, Lucian says: "This is explicit and scientific. But it does not apply to those who are not concerned about any personal claim which Roberts and others may make to knowledge of the habits of animals. . . . It seems to me that the same criticism has been made of writers of animal fiction that Howells and others made of Dickens. They say that there never were such people as the people of Dickens. In the same way it is insisted that there are no such animals as the creations of Roberts."

No, it is not in the same way at all. There are, in fact, several important differences. To begin with, the fact that Howells, and others, did not recognize the types of character drawn by Dickens, by no means implies that those types were unreal. It more probably means that Howells, and others, were too dull of perception to recognize them. Dickens himself has told us that the real Mrs. Nickleby, talking with the author, remarked on the impossibility of such an absurd creature existing! But putting that part of the matter aside, the vital difference remains, that Dickens never at any time laid claim to special knowledge which he did not possess, whereas the "nature fakers" most certainly did. I know, by various tokens, that Lucian loves Dickens as much as I do, (although he can't love him more), and I wonder he does not see the injustice of this analogy. The animal writers lay claim to scientific knowledge which they know quite well they do not possess, and their stories are therefore not pure fiction at all, but fiction based on a spurious foundation. We delight in the fairy tales of Hans Andersen, knowing them to be fiction. If their writer had claimed a false basis of fact for them, they would disgust us. And therein lies the essence of the whole matter.

The Rift Within The Lute

There seems to be a natural law governing most organizations which prevents absolute unanimity, even in matters which should be of undivided interest. Possibly this law is a wise precaution against stagnation, and an incentive to healthy emulation, but sometimes it seems more likely to create weakness instead of that strength which is said to be the result of unity. Such an instance may be noted in the recent refusal of the Association of Eastern Boards of Trade to affiliate with the Provincial Association. If there is any gain of strength in united representation, it appears only reasonable to look for the best results in an undivided Association, and one can hardly agree with the implication that the interests of one end of the Province are diametrically opposed to those of the other. But such was the stand taken by the majority of the Kootenay boards at the late Penticton convention, some of their speakers putting their objections into language which may possibly have pointed a moral, but most certainly would not adorn a tale. "Hogging" is an expression which lacks in elegance a great deal more than it gains in force, and to many people would speak volumes—but not in the direction intended by the speaker.

If we are really to spend our summers at odds with the sun, we shall at any rate be consistent in the matter in the future, provided Canadian municipalities fall in line with the request made by the Railway Association. The great objection to daylight saving as hitherto practised, was the lack of uniformity observed in the process, whereby no person really knew what time to call it. If the Canadian railroads operate on the new time between given dates, and all municipalities follow suit, confusion and annoyance will be reduced to the minimum, and old Sol may wink at the decision to ignore him.

Peachland Doings

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Suddaby enjoyed a short visit last week from an old Alberta acquaintance in the person of Mr. Reeves, who arrived on Wednesday evening, leaving again on Friday.

Mr. W. L. Williams spent a few days of last week visiting out of town going south on Tuesday evening and returning on Saturday.

Mr. R. Walters of Summerland spent Wednesday visiting in town and returning on the evening boat.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald and Mr. Kennedy were visitors to Westbank on Thursday, going up by boat in the morning and returning by auto in the afternoon.

After a few days spent looking around points in the southern end of the district Mr. Lanning returned to Peachland on Thursday morning. Mr. Lanning had recently come in from Chaplin, Sask., representing another prairie man who is looking for a more suitable climate and place to settle. He has some places in sight which suit him pretty well and hopes at a date not very far distant to be able to settle among us. He is making use of an old trade between times of looking around the place and has renovated, cleaned and repaired a number of organs in the district.

Mrs. Kudelka enjoyed a visit from her son Mr. Frank Johnson who arrived on Thursday evening's boat last to spend a few days here before resuming his journey to Seattle where he expects to take up business training. He joined up in the U.S. army for the recent war and was unfortunate in losing a thumb and two fingers of his right hand, which interferes with his following his former trade in the automobile business.

Mr. R. J. Hogg left on Friday morning last en route for Victoria where he goes to attend the Municipal convention being held there. Mrs. Hogg accompanied him on the trip.

Mr. J. Hyde and Dr. Buchanan were passengers north on Friday morning last to spend a couple of days in Vernon.

Mrs. Mussen is enjoying a visit from her granddaughter who arrived last week-end to spend a few days in Peachland.

The Banff Orchestra spent Saturday evening in town last week-end and quite a large crowd assembled in the Orange Hall to trip the "light fantastic." They all reported the music excellent. There were quite a number of out-of-town visitors on the occasion, some from Penticton, Summerland and Westbank. The members of the orchestra were taken south again on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. F. R. Jeffords of Penticton came up for the Saturday evening dance in the Hall and remained over visiting friends here till Monday evening when she returned by boat. She was accompanied home by Mrs. and Miss Myrtle Keating, they returning on the following Wednesday.

Visitors to Kelowna from here on Monday last were Mrs. Murdin, Mr. Hardisty, Mr. and Mrs. E. Aitkens, and Mr. C. Somerville, all returning in the evening. Mrs. Murdin brought home a good report of the improvement being made by Mr. Murdin in the Kelowna Hospital.

Mr. Mangin returned home on Monday day morning last after a short visit down the lake.

Having decided to make a change for a while Mr. and Mrs. Brinson Sr. left on Monday evening last to reside in Penticton. They will be quite close to their son who settled in that city last year.

Mr. Bert Robinson paid a short business trip up the lake on Monday morning last, returning on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Little of the Okanagan United Growers came in on Monday evening's boat last to operate and demonstrate the Hardie Sprayer which came in recently for the Union here. He gave a demonstration in front of the Municipal Hall just previous to the commencement of the horticultural meeting being held there immediately following. The sprayer comes highly recommended to the growers for several reasons. Being operated by a 1 1/2 h.p. engine attached, which is giving satisfactory service, it gives a maximum of power at a minimum of cost. It is quite easy with this machine to get a sufficiency of force for spraying, which is absolutely necessary if we are going to control the various pests. Being furnished with a low set truck with broad rim wheels for easy haul through the orchard it makes a good outfit for use where required for side hill work.

Mrs. K. C. Tallyour and Mr. A. J. Miller were passengers north on Tuesday morning's boat last.

Mr. Martin has purchased the home and property of Mr. A. E. Drought at Trepanier, and Mr. Drought and family expect to move to Westbank and settle on their property there.

The horticultural meetings advertised by poster were held here on Tuesday afternoon and evening, and were well attended by the growers of the district. The speakers were Mr. R. H. Helmer, superintendent of the Experimental Station, Summerland, subject, Orchard Cover Crops, also Irrigation. J. A. Grant, Markets Commissioner, Victoria, subject, Markets and Marketing. W. T. Hunter, District Horticulturist, Department of Agriculture, Vernon, subject, Varieties of Fruits Recommended for Planting, also elimination from the orchard of non-profitable varieties. H. H. Evans, District Inspector, Department of Agriculture, Vernon, subject, Control of Insect Pests and Diseases. J. R. Terry, Chief Poultry Instructor, Department of Agriculture, Victoria, subject, Poultry Keeping for the Fruit Rancher. It would be foolish to try to rehearse with any measure of detail the lectures as given, for the readers of these columns who are interested to any extent with the particulars of the subjects in question were all in attendance at the meetings and heard these facts first hand. On the other hand were we to give a detailed report of the meetings, it would take up more space than we could rightfully ask in our paper, especially when these same lectures are being given to other districts as well. Suffice it to say that the growers were well repaid for the time spent in listening to the various subjects discussed and the many interesting facts brought before them by the speakers. Mr. Tait of Summerland came up for the occasion and was present at the meetings.

Word has recently come to town announcing the arrival of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John McLaughlin Jr. at Toronto, Ont. Mother and baby were fine when word was last received.

Mr. and Mrs. Zolds and family came in from Vancouver recently to live in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hohensee and family. They were formerly residents at Rumsay, Alta. While here they were attracted by the place and have bought the Urquhart property for a home and also bought out the butcher shop and business from Mr. W. Fulton. Mr. Zolds left on Tuesday evening's boat to return to Vancouver to clean up some business before taking charge of the business here.

Some men have a regular Sunday morning attack of homesickness when the church bells ring.

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only. Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres before receiving Crown Grant. Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, on account of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per acre and records same. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years, or required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesteads; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company. Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stampage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT
The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the late war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for 5 years. Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS
Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfillment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole or original parcel, purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole area. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

GRAZING
Grazing Act, 1919, for systematic development of livestock industry provides for grazing districts and range administration under Commission. Annual grazing permits issued based on number ranged; priority for established owners. Stock owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits for settlers, campers or travellers, up to ten head.

FOUNDERS IN CANADA

ON Place d'Armes in the City of Montreal stands a monument to Sieur de Maisonneuve who, landing near this spot in the year 1642, founded the settlement which is now the City of Montreal.

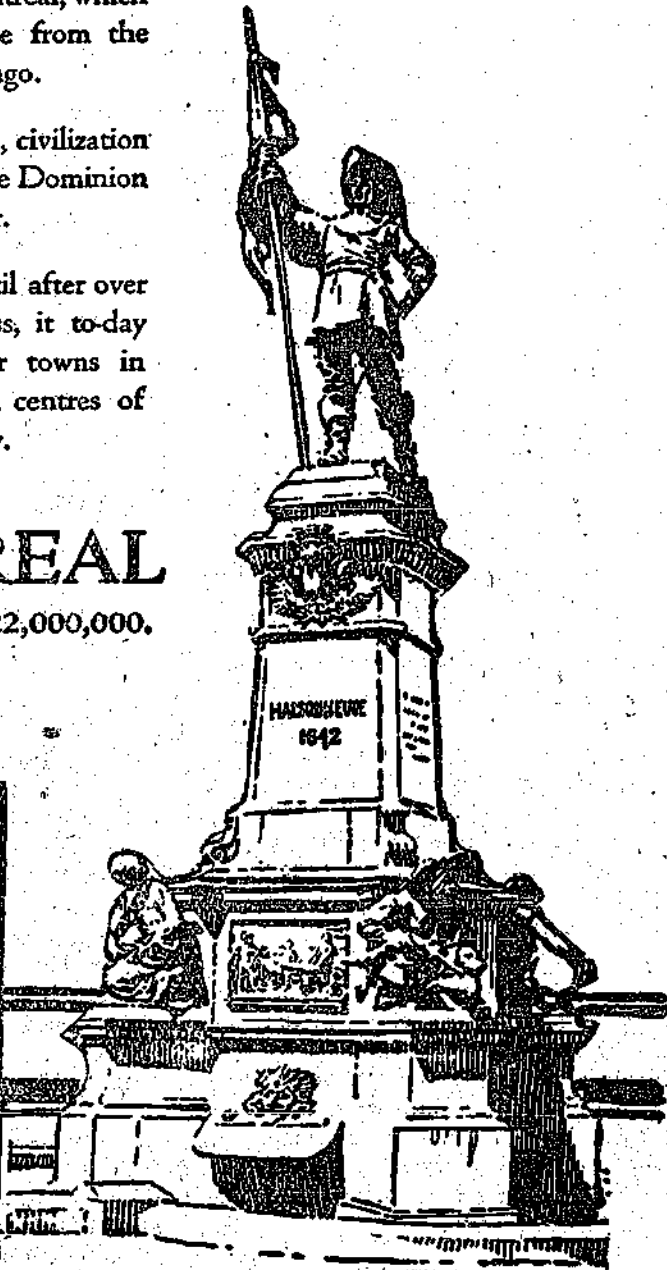

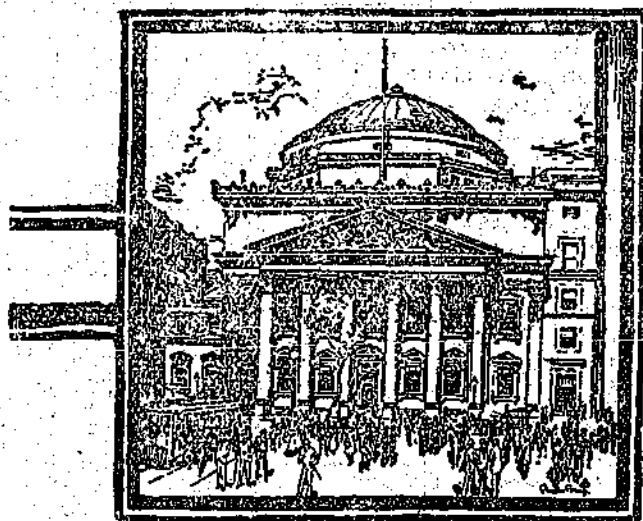

Facing Place d'Armes stands the Bank of Montreal, which opened its doors for business a short distance from the same spot over one hundred and three years ago.

From the Settlement founded by Maisonneuve, civilization has spread to the east and west until to-day the Dominion of Canada extends from Halifax to Vancouver.

Likewise the Bank of Montreal has grown, until after over a century of steady and conservative progress, it to-day has Branches in all of the cities and larger towns in Canada, with offices in the principal financial centres of the world, and correspondents in every country.

PROF. EASTMAN HEARD HERE

the afterwards famous Art. X of the League.

The next concrete expression towards peace was seen in the Hague Tribunal, which met in 1899 with an attendance of twenty-six nations. The object of the gathering was to formulate some means of restricting the growth of armaments, but this aim was checked by the attitude of Germany. But the Conference was not a total failure. The tribunal was set up, and the machinery set in motion. In 1907 the Second Conference was called, and forty-four nations responded. It revised and codified the rules of war, and sought to classify disputes subject to arbitration. Twenty-four issues were named but were all opposed by Germany and Austria. The meagre results were a great disappointment, but some still held to their faith, and we saw certain features of the Hague procedure adopted at Geneva only a few weeks ago.

The coming of the Great War seemed a negation of all that had been accomplished, but in the last resort, was due to the lack of adequate international organization, which might have been at least a deterrent. The one last hope seemed to be in the gathering power of anti-military minorities, which might soon agree to join hands across the frontiers in a general strike. But this hope flickered and the deluge came.

The frightful results drove men the world over to seek for means to provide permanent settlement. In 1917 President Wilson put forward to the Senate a suggestion for a "League of Peace," and the following year Lloyd George advocated the creation of some international organization to limit the burden of armaments and diminish the probability of war. The last of Mr. Wilson's fourteen points outlined such an organization, and in February, 1919, the first draft of the Covenant was presented to the Versailles Conference. As it now stands it is largely an Anglo-American product, and resembles in particular the "Twenty-one suggestions" of General Smuts. Terribly handicapped by the absence of America, the chaotic conditions of Europe, and the overlapping activities of the Supreme Council, the League has none the less accomplished a good deal already. The Council and the Assembly have analogous and sometimes concurrent powers. The Council retains its supremacy in fact, but there has been emulation between the two bodies, and therein lies the hope of the future. The Assembly must grow in attributes and dignity and power. It must ultimately become the "Parliament of Man." When popular opinion is sufficiently strong, then national governments will bow to its decision.

In conclusion, the speaker said, "I believe in the ultimate triumph of a League of Free Nations, because it is a goal towards which human society is evolving. You and I, as factors, no matter how slight, in the formation of Canadian opinion, are inevitably helping or hindering the realization of one of the loftiest ideals of Religion and Humanity."

Following the close of the lecture, which was warmly applauded, Mr. Jack Logie raised the question of the inclusion of Russia within the League. Professor Eastman said in reply that, when it is found that Russia possesses a settled government with which to negotiate, doubtless she will be admitted to membership.

A pleasing feature of the meeting was the fine rendering by Mr. F. Graham of "The Trumpeter."

THE SUMMERLAND TELEPHONE COMPANY.

The people of Summerland and many residents of other sections of the Okanagan have watched the development of the Summerland Telephone Company since it was organized seven years ago with more than usual interest. The occasion for its formation was one that stirred the whole Valley, and in two or three other centres, citizens made more or less progress towards forming similar companies, but only in Summerland was the plan carried through to completion.

Threatened with monopolistic control, a big increase in rentals, and with little assurance of any great improvement of the then unsatisfactory service, the citizens of Summerland refused to submit. Since its establishment the larger company, which it was organized to supplant locally, involved the Summerland company in an expensive lawsuit, seemingly for the purpose of crushing it, but due to the loyalty of our people it survived, and as shown by the financial statement recently issued, the company is now in splendid condition, though not making large profits which is not its aim, but rather that the people might be given efficient service at a reasonable price. The saleable assets of the company total almost an even $30,000. The liabilities, including mortgage and unpaid dividends as at 31st December last, which have since been paid, total $9,160.00, making a surplus of assets over liabilities of $20,830.58. As the paid up capital is only $17,601, it will be seen that each $100 share is represented by a net asset of nearly $17 above par. Truly a very satisfactory showing, in view of the troublous times through which the company has passed.

THE MUNICIPALITIES' SHARE.

Promised increased revenue from profits to be derived from the municipal sale of liquor cannot be considered a very certain asset by the municipalities. The Provincial Government which is much in need of money is evidently planning on holding most of the revenue that may be derived from the Provincial venture into the liquor business. According to the present reading of the bill, all the revenue from permits will be retained by the province. One-half of the profits, a very uncertain sum, is to be distributed among the municipalities. These in turn will be required at no small expense to enforce the new law, but the Government reserves the right to establish a reserve fund from the profits. This may be large or small, and it would appear that only what remains of the net profits after setting aside a sum for this will be divided with the municipalities. It is apparent that the sum that may be received from this source is a very uncertain quantity, and may be found barely sufficient to meet the additional police expense.

APPLE ADVERTISING.

The following resume of an address delivered to New York apple growers will be read with interest here, particularly as the same general principles apply to marketing.

"You apple growers furnish one of the most striking examples in this country of intelligent men failing to make use of the one thing that could turn disaster into success," George A. Cullen, vice-president of the North American Fruit Exchange, said a few days ago at a meeting of the New York Agricultural Society, at Albany.

"Why do California growers successfully invest $750,000 in advertising to create an appetite for the citrus fruits, while New York growers invest practically not a cent to create an appetite for some of the finest fruit produced on the face of the earth?"

"Think of the Pacific Coast raisin growers investing $500,000 a year in advertising, and the prune growers $350,000, while the New York State farmers apparently try to keep it a secret that they produce the finest of seed potatoes and maple syrup.

"There is a further and exceedingly important use for advertising by the grower. That is in constantly keeping the customer informed when his products are available, or to be available, when they are abundant and when they are or should be relatively cheap at retail. This has real practical value in stimulating consumption.

"Why then does not the grower keep his public informed daily of the state of the market? Why should the department stores use about one-third of the space in each day's papers to tell their public about their goods, while the grower leaves it to some Government agency or other belated crop report source to print the market quotations on perishable goods (of all things!) in some obscure corner of one page."

RETAIL MERCHANTS AT TORONTO.

Newspaper Advertising Endorsed.

Advertising was the chief topic of discussion at the final session of the annual convention of the Ontario Retail Merchants' Association of Canada here yesterday. Harris Vineberg, of Montreal, declared that one of the greatest factors in organizing a successful business was unquestionably the utility of newspaper advertising.

A resolution was passed suggesting to the Dominion Government that "if any further change in the method of collecting taxes for the purpose of this country paying its war debts, the tax be made at the source of supply, namely, upon the manufacturer and importer, and that this tax be passed on to the retail merchant so that it could be absorbed in his cost."

The definition of a mad world is one in which some urge increased production while others close down mills on the excuse of overproduction.—Omaha Bee.

Peachland Doings

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

Major Hardisty went north Wednesday morning expecting to be a few days out of town.

Miss Bradbury, Penticton, spent Wednesday with her people here, returning on the afternoon boat.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKinnon returned to their fruit ranch home here last week, after spending a portion of the winter on their Westbank property clearing land.

Mrs. Willis and Mrs. McDonald left on Wednesday morning's boat to spend the day in Kelowna, expecting to return on the evening boat. They were joined for the day by Mrs. Geo. Hewlett of Westbank. These ladies are not only moderationists, but considered thoroughly temperate; however, they missed the return boat for home. It was not enough to miss the regular boat, but missed the regular ferry across the lake and had to get a special ferry to bring them across and they spent the night at Westbank, coming on home by boat the following evening. On arrival here they looked the very essence of sobriety.

Miss Rogers of the staff of the Summerland Hospital is holidaying in town recuperating after a short illness. She is a guest at the home of Mrs. Vivian.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruffles and son arrived on Thursday evening of last week to settle on the lot which they bought here, and formerly known as the Frede lot. They expect to have further members of the family join them later.

George Robinson was a passenger south to Summerland on Thursday evening for a short visit. He returned Saturday morning.

Miss Ilyva Mordin spent last Friday visiting her father in the Kelowna hospital.

Mr. Lanning left on Friday morning to return to Saskatchewan. He stated before leaving that he hoped to be able to make arrangements to return and settle here.

Miss Lily Cousins arrived Friday evening to spend the week-end at home.

Mr. Jack Wright returned Friday evening after a few days spent visiting other points in the Valley with his brother Mr. Kenneth Wright of Sault Ste. Marie, who was looking about with a view to locating. It is quite possible that he may return and settle in Peachland.

Mr. Thos. Bell had his house across the lake burglarized recently when he was absent from home and on his return found that he had been relieved of some valuables in the line of rings, razors, some clothing and bedding. A party was seen passing that way in a boat and was suspected of being the guilty one. Mr. Bell phoned the Provincial Police and they got busy on the case. The stolen goods were discovered in a vacated boat further up the lake, but the boat was beached and full of water and the goods were considerably damaged. Mr. Bell was called to Kelowna to identify the goods which proved to be his, but as yet no word has been heard of the boatman.

The apple grader which has been used in the local Union the past two seasons has been sold and was shipped out on Saturday. The new one has not yet arrived.

The following resolution was passed at a recent meeting of the directors of the Peachland Fruit Growers' Union: "That shareholders be asked to pay up the uncalled capital, or such part thereof as they can on their respective shares, and that any portion of such share capital so paid bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent."

Mr. Duncan of Westbank, having recently returned from a trip to the Coast came down on Saturday evening's boat to visit his sister, Mrs. H. McDougall, over the week-end.

Mr. Sam McGirr has been placed in charge of a piece of flume work for the irrigation committee, to carry the irrigation water across the portion of the flat passing the Lang pre-emption, in place of a piece of ditch which is very porous and where there has been a great waste of water. It had been proposed to line the original ditch with cement, but this was found to be too expensive, hence the building of the flume. Mr. Jas. Michael has charge of the work of making ready the right of way for (Continued on Page 6) big co-operative organization of the several local unions, but there had been further co-operation between the O.U.G. and other shipping concerns through the working of the Traffic and Credit Association, which had enabled the growers to realize the price asked for their fruit. He told how that the Wenatchee district is now organizing on a similar basis as is this Valley. The United Growers, by virtue of their size and strength and the fact that they are on the market practically throughout the year, were able to compel buyers to live up to their contracts despite a falling market. Mr. Lowe spoke very optimistically of the outlook for the coming season.

Mr. W. H. Hayes, one of the directors of the Union, and president of the Summerland Storage Company, addressed the meeting at some length on the urgent need of providing storage space, and told of the aims and objects of the Storage Company. The Union now owns a block of land on the shore near the Union building, and is acquiring another lot which will enable it to have an unbroken strip of property connecting with the present building. Plans for a two-story building having been prepared and growers were urged to give full support to this movement by subscribing to the capital of the Company, dividends on which are practically guaranteed through a leasing contract with the Union.

Votes of thanks were extended to the visiting officers of the O.U.G., the retiring directors of the Union, and the members of the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary, who had provided the lunch.

At a meeting of the directors held

WILL ASK FOR FEDERAL GRANT

The tender of W. Mack for painting the exterior of the Municipal building, for $122 was accepted, his being the lowest of three tenders.

The Clerk reported having received title from the Registry Office to the part of Block 28a D.L. 455, which is to be deeded to the Fruit Union under arrangement with the Naramata Supply Company.

The offer of R. Barkwill for the repurchase of Bl. 1 D.L. 1177, formerly owned by him was accepted, the price being $700.

The Sanitary Inspector reported with respect to complaints of septic tanks emptying on to Beach Avenue. He was instructed to advise the owners that the water must be taken care of.

The works committee was requested to make repairs to Peach Orchard gulch road and to the grade above the Union ice house.

It was after 11 o'clock when the Council adjourned, having been in session from shortly after 1.30 with little more than an hour for dinner.

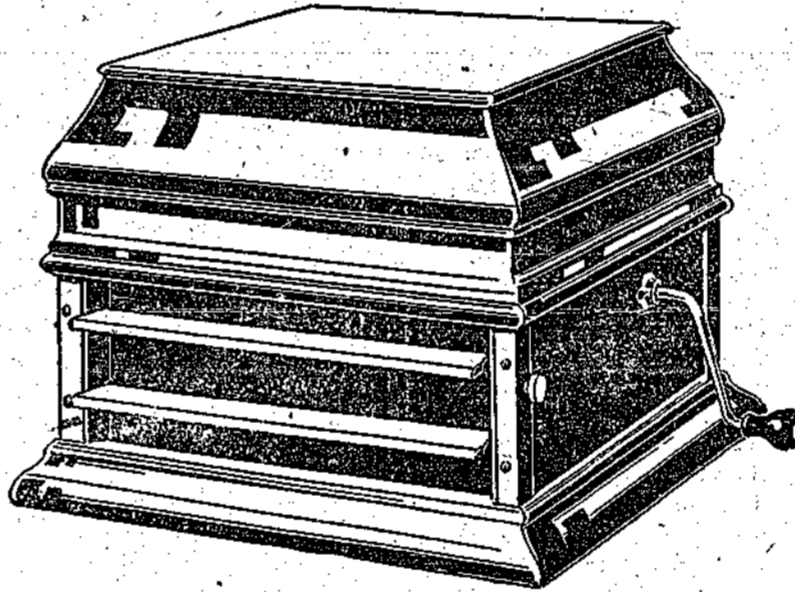

Last Friday afternoon, the 1920 officers were all re-elected, as follows: President, E. R. Simpson; Vice-president, W. H. Hayes; Secretary, T. G. Beavis; Secretary to the Board, G. Thornber.

Summerland Fruit Union now has seven shares in the O.U.G. and the seven directors of the Union are accordingly shareholders in the Central. Who will represent Summerland on the Board of Directors of the O.U.G. will be decided at the annual shareholders' meeting of the central body to be held at an early date. Pres. E. R. Simpson has held that position for several years.

Pity the Poor Tax-payer

The matter of taxation is becoming serious. Municipalities, schools, and hospitals are all looking to the Provincial Government for more aid, and the Premier of that Government says that he is already "sweating blood" in the endeavour to make both ends meet. We can of course allow something for the Hon. John's vigorous way of expressing his feelings, but having done that, we can still feel reasonably sure that there is at least a foundation for his lament. What the situation really means is that the high cost of living has re-acted on the cost of being governed, and the question is when will conditions begin to change. While the war was in progress we accepted the continuous advance of everything as a natural sequence, but the curious fact that for two years after the armistice, many commodities continued to rise, and are to-day, despite some recent drops still higher than in 1918, is certainly disconcerting, and seems to provide matter for thought. One feature which stands out prominently is the steady increase in cost along certain channels which automatically offsets the easing off in others. Express rates, for example, have lately increased from 20 per cent. to 35 per cent., and we have to assume that the Railway Commission, in permitting this advance, had before them substantial evidence of the necessity for it. But the general public fail to see any recent happenings to warrant such additional burden. Again, we are told that the tearful onion is a drug on the market, that the once haughty potato is going begging for a home, and that the farmers are getting such a poor price for their wheat that some of them threaten to strike, but with it all, does the man who travels find any of these things work to his advantage? Is he able, for example, to get a reasonably good dinner on a railway dining car for less than $2.50 or thereabouts? He is not. The merchant is reducing prices on certain things as the wholesale market permits, and the careful householder can discern an appreciable increase in the purchasing power of a dollar, but in the case of our different administrations and our public utilities it seems to be diminishing. What is the reason? We hear a good deal about Government extravagance, and doubtless there is plenty of room for economy in that direction, but we cannot lay everything on the shoulders of our legislators. They are not to blame for increased freight and express rates, for instance, nor can they be hauled over the coals for the prevalence of unemployment; their share in that unfortunate matter being the task of providing for the unemployed and money with which to pay them. The cause lies deeper than the sins of any government—it is to be found in the general disturbance incidental to the economic re-adjustment going on all around us, and the unequal shrinking of values. The contention that wages must remain high while prices recede, is untenable, and until it is abandoned we may expect to see the administration costs of our provinces, our municipalities and our public utilities continue to rise, and our taxes necessarily follow suit.

The Coming of Eve

We know on Kipling's authority that the female of the species is deadlier than the male, and it has been remarked in these notes more than once that women have shown themselves more than a match for the ruffian with a revolver, but these particular points are trivial when measured against the undoubted capability for administrative work of sorts shown by our women of to-day. We find them refreshingly full of practical good sense concerning moderation issues, they sometimes head the poll as political candidates, and in some particularly enlightened communities, they have actually been deemed worthy of admission to membership on Boards of Trade! In the Old Country they have a good record as magistrates, especially in cases dealing with juvenile offenders, and they will no doubt make an equally satisfactory showing as members of juries, which is to be their next step. The realm which has always seemed to me as one in which they shine pre-eminently, however, is church work and social improvement generally. If we enquire into the financial end of many religious organizations we shall frequently discover that the mortgage which invariably ornaments a church building for a certain period in its history, is generally lifted by the steady, unremitting efforts of the Women's Auxiliary, the Ladies' Aid, or some such organization. And these and kindred indefatigable bodies also come to the aid of good works of various descriptions, sometimes taking hold of local problems which badly need handling, but which would remain untouched for ever were it not for the women. For my part, I have so much faith in their indomitable energy that I expect some day to see a phalanx of femininity descend upon Shaughnessy Avenue and straightway so transform it that the traveller of tomorrow will say, "This place, that was desolate, is become like the Garden of Eden!"

It is hard to realize that, twenty years ago, the notion of permitting a mere woman to vote, was an absolute heresy.

NARAMATA BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

The Naramata Board of Trade held its regular monthly meeting in the Unity Club on Monday evening, Mr. F. Manchester gave a report of the Good Roads Convention and also the Associated Boards of Trade meeting of Eastern B.C. held in Penticton lately. Mr. Manchester said that as a result of a clash of opinion between those who desired the Hope-Princeton route and those who favoured the Fraser Valley Canyon route as a part of the B.C. highway, it had been decided to press upon the Government the completion of whichever route was found most desirable from a standpoint of economy of construction and value, and importance of country opened up. There was a general unanimity of opinion however in regard to the desirability of completing the construction of the 12 miles of road necessary to open a road between Kelowna and Naramata. A resolution of the Kelowna Board of Trade to this effect was endorsed. Considerable dissatisfaction was voiced with regard to the winter ferry service between Naramata and Summerland. A resolution being framed calling for three trips a day summer and winter, this resolution to be forwarded to the Government.

The question of putting the old fire fighting apparatus in shape for service was referred for investigation and possible action to a committee composed of Mr. Salting, Mr. Campbell Robinson and Mr. Gerald Roe. Mr. J. M. Robinson reported concerning the Kootenay power service, that Naramata would probably be able to have electric light from this source by fall. Mr. Manchester reported that there would probably be an extension of the telephone service on the north benches this summer. The matter of a "clean up day" was placed before the Board by Mrs. J. M. Robinson, and Mr. Weaver and Mr. F. Manchester were appointed to co-operate with the representatives of other societies in making arrangements. Mrs. Robinson also announced that material for the cemetery fencing had been received and Thursday had been set apart for work at the cemetery. The members of the Board signed their willingness to be on hand to help with this work.

band orchard to a lady from the middle west for the sum of $5,000.

Dr. Kydd of Cluny, Alberta, who has been on a trip through British Columbia, motored up from Penticton on Sunday to pay a visit to Mrs. Wm. A. McConkey of Naramata. Dr. Kydd, after practising for 12 years in Alberta states that B.C. looks like a little bit of Paradise to his prairie bred eyes. He may return to take up a practice at the Coast shortly.

The Naramata Supply store has lately acquired a new manager in the person of Mr. A. T. Horswill, lately of North Vancouver. Mr. Horswill is well acquainted with the interior of B.C., having lived at Hedley for some years. He will bring his wife and family here shortly.

MORTGAGE SALE.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE of the powers of sale contained in a certain Indenture of Mortgage dated the 27th day of December, 1910, and made by Frank Cornwell Napier, which will be produced to the purchaser at the sale, the lands therein mentioned, that is to say: Firstly—Block 2, in the Subdivision of Lot 475, Map 288; and Secondly—Block 42, in the Subdivision of Lot 475, Map 161, both in the Osoyoos Division of Yale District, will be sold by private treaty.

The said lands are situated near Summerland, B.C. and the Mortgagees are informed that there are about 14 acres in the first parcel and about 9 1/2 acres in the second parcel, and that there is a small dwelling house and outbuildings on the second parcel. Tenders for the purchase of the two parcels either separately or together will be received by the undersigned up to and inclusive of the 15th day of March, 1921. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. For further particulars and terms of sale apply to G. A. HANKEY & CO., Ltd., 29, 32 Vernon, B.C.

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre. Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only. Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims. Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportional improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim. Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum on each year.

Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required. Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesteads; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions. For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by an individual or company. Mill factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage. Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the late war. This privilege is also made retrospective.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for 5 years. Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920. SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS

Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown Lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfillment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole or original parcel, purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole area. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

GRAZING
Grazing Act, 1919, for systematic development of livestock industry provides for grazing districts and range administration under Commissioner. Annual grazing permits issued based on numbers ranged; priority for established owners. Stock owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits for settlers, campers or travellers, up to ten head.

The On-we-go Girls Club held its monthly meeting at the home of Miss Kathleen McConkey on the evening of March 4th. After the business session, which was presided over by Miss Myers, a short examination on the month's work was held. Later, the girls, who were dressed to represent flowers, entertained themselves with guessing the various impersonations, and tea was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Logie and Miss Grace Logie of Summerland passed Saturday in Naramata, the guests of Mrs. Campbell Robinson.

An event greatly enjoyed by the younger children was the masquerade party given on Saturday afternoon by Miss Mary McConkey and Master Robert Robinson in the Naramata Hotel. The small host and hostess, dressed to represent the King and Queen of Hearts, received their guests in the dining room of the Hotel, where games were entered into with great zest under the direction of Miss Grace Logie. Much merriment arose among the children in the effort to recognize their well-known playmates in their unwonted disguises. Supper was served in an adjoining room, the table being decorated with green tissue paper and wild holly. Favors folded in each child's serviette shared in attention with the good things to eat, till play was resumed again in the big dining room. The guests and their costumes were: Misses Alice and Lois Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb; Miss Pixie Waterman and Masters Victor Waterman and Reggie Bromley, Berengaria of Navarre and her two pages; Percy Hancock, Little Bo-Peep; Margaret Nuttall, fairy; Meredith Routh, clown; Philip Rounds, clown; Billy Ameron, Swiss patriot; Dorothy Bayne, Irish girl; Ada Bailey, lady; Isabel Bailey, clown; Jack Cash, shuttlecock; Pauline Morrish, fairy; Claudia and Beatrice Smith, Gold Dust twins; John Atkins, Robin Hood; Colby Atkins, Buffalo Bill; Arthur McConkey, Chinaman; Kathleen McConkey, court jester; Katharine Robinson, Mother Goose; Margaret Hogg, Red Cross nurse; Winnie Lee, Red Cross nurse; Walter and Murray Lee, pierrots; Molly Rayner, Queen Alice; Violet Lawrence, carnation. Masters Buster Mallory and Roy Partridge were also invited guests.

Mrs. J. M. Robinson entertained at tea in the rotunda of the Hotel for the mothers who had accompanied their children to the party.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING PAYS CALIFORNIA GROWERS

By Prof. C. I. Lewis of Oregon.

At the Annual Convention of the B.C. Fruit Growers held at Nelson last month, one of the principal addresses heard by the delegates was that of Prof. C. I. Lewis, of Oregon, who is perhaps one of the best posted men on co-operative marketing in the North-west. His talk, for he speaks without notes, bristled with facts relating to the advertising and selling of food products, especially those that are perishable. Some of the many interesting points brought out by Prof. Lewis are given here:

The progress of California during the past decade has been remarkable, that State increasing in population over a million or 44 per cent., and being surpassed by only one other state in the Union in numerical increase, namely, New York. California is the fourth in the Union to-day in agricultural output and sixth in bank clearings. I spent the month of September in California studying its remarkable development. One is quickly forced to the conclusion that the tourist travel and the agricultural development are the main factors which have developed that state. Many believe that the tourist is responsible for all the prosperity, and while this travel brings millions of dollars into the state annually, it must be borne in mind that the tourist section is in the southern part of the state at Santa Barbara, Long Beach, San Diego and Riverside.

The tourists did not plant 250,000 acres of citrus fruits, 200,000 acres of cotton, 200,000 acres of raisins in the vicinity of Fresno; did not dredge the Sacramento River for 50 miles; erect huge dykes; cover them with paved highways; and plant one of the most productive, profitable fruit belts in the world, the orchards of which can be inherited or married but not bought. The tourists did not drain the tule lands and plant the rice north of Sacramento; the tourists last year did not ship out from that state $60,000,000 of citrus fruits, $60,000,000 worth of raisins, over $100,000,000 worth of canned goods, and a total aggregate of horticultural products of over half a billion dollars. Much planting is going on all over the state. Raw land in fruit districts is at least $300 an acre and few orchards are for sale as low as $1,500 an acre.

Mr. George Hecke, Commissioner of Horticulture from the State of California, has stated that the greatest factor in the development of California's agriculture has been the state wide marketing bodies which, he states have contributed more to the wealth and prosperity of California than all other factors combined. There are over twenty of these state wide marketing bodies in California, but I can only discuss a few.

California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

It has been stated by some that the co-operative movement in California is still new, is still in the experimental stage. The California Fruit Growers' Exchange started 27 years ago, at a time when the output was less than 2,000 cars. Yet most of the sales were in the "red." (That is the grower had to pay the freight, because his fruit had not brought enough to pay that and the selling charges). In the early days there were a few locals that did the picking and packing. The selling was in the hands of a few dealers who failed to develop adequate markets. The locals joined together and formed the Association which today has 10,500 members, handling $60,000,000 worth of business. They have 216 locals which do the grading and packing; 20 district exchanges which help a group of local market, obtain cars, and furnish general information needed; and a central exchange or clearing-house which makes collections, advances money, issues daily bulletins, and handles 82 special salesmen in the field. The cost of selling oranges last year was 6 and 7 to 10 cents a box. Including all the advertising it makes the total cost of selling and advertising only 2 per cent. This organization owns its own timber, runs its own mills and box factories, and handled $8,000,000 worth of supplies for its members last year. It has consistently reduced freight rates and icing charges, has been the one factor to put through adequate tariffs; and has sent investigators to the Mediterranean and Japan to investigate the cost of growing citrus fruits in those countries. It is spending this year over $750,000 in advertising the Sunkist orange, the best known orange in the world today, having the widest distribution. Twenty-seven years ago they standardized their orange pack and grade and have maintained their high standard ever since. Some people say it is easy to organize orange growers but it is not easy to organize handlers of perishables. To refute this statement I shall say that there are four or five in California. There is the California Fruit Exchange of Sacramento, which handles 6,000 cars of pears, peaches, cherries and apricots, the most perishable fruits, and is handling the same at a cost of only two per cent. That this organization is a great success is testified by the fact that it is now 20 years old and it likewise owns 10,000 acres of timber, its own box factories, and furnishes and supplies to its members cheaper than they could get them elsewhere. Eleven years ago almonds would bring only two cents per pound. The almond growers organized and today there are 4,000 members controlling 90 per cent of the tonnage. This year they did over $4,000,000 worth of business and the total selling cost was only two and twenty-eight hundredths per cent. They are splendidly financed, have a modern five storey concrete building at Sacramento, spend a quarter of a million dollars a year advertising and have greatly increased the distribution and consumption of almonds by making it a product we eat all the year round instead of only during the holidays. In 1913 this organization started in business when only 40 per cent of the walnuts eaten in this country came from California. In 1918 they had increased the consumption to 65 per cent. They immediately standardized a cracking test guaranteeing the purchaser 85 per cent of the full meats of the proper grade. By doing this they made the Blue Diamond brand of walnuts (The "Cracking" Good Walnuts) the best standardized brand in the world. They crack all the culls, grade them and sell them to the confectionery trade in vacuum pack. They make the shells into charcoal for the poultry trade, a suction machine draws all broken fragments from the shells giving them a walnut powder for the bakery trade. This organization has 8,000 members controlling over 80 per cent of the walnut output. There are today 67,000 acres of bearing walnuts and 19,000 non-bearing. They are through their advertising and marketing, laying plans continually to take care of the new acreage as it comes into bearing. That is something we have never done in the Pacific North-west and our growers will never be permanently successful until they organize in big groups and inaugurate a market policy which will take care of increasing tonnage. The walnut association spends $300,000 annually in advertising. Like all the California bodies they do not advertise only for a brief time, but they advertise 12 months in the year in order that they may move the produce from the grocery man's shelf.

Peach Growers' Association.

This body was organized four years ago. At that time dried peaches were bringing only two cents a pound. In four years they brought together 6,500 growers controlling 40,000 acres of peaches. This year they sold

THE "FLU" Dare Not Return

The "Flu" will certainly get a warm reception this winter if it dares show its ugly head in our peaceful midst, for the people are confident now that they can deal it such a smashing blow it will never survive. In every village, town and city in Canada, families are fortifying themselves with the greatest "Flu" ammunition known to science—Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture. Colds, coughs, etc.—the advance guards of Flu—are met with withering fire, and relief from these troubles is sure every time. One hundred thousand Canadians are only too willing to testify to the great healing power this remedy contains. It has conquered coughs of 35 years' standing. It cannot fail to do for you what it has done for others. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose, as it is sold under a money-back guarantee to banish coughs, colds, bronchitis, bronchial asthma and prevent you from getting the "Flu." It is not a syrup, but a scientific mixture, 20 times stronger than any other cough cure. One dose gives instant relief. Price, 75 cents. Take no substitute. None genuine without my signature. Ask your druggist.

their entire output of 24,000 tons, which brought their growers $8,000,000 or $340 a ton, or 17 1/2 cents a pound, in contrast to the former price of two cents a pound. They are spending a quarter million dollars advertising each year.

Associated Raisin Company.

Beginning with 1889 up to seven years ago the raisin growers of California went through much the same vicissitudes and uncertainties that the apple men have experienced in the North-west in the last 15 years. The raisin growers made the mistake of only organizing to pick, grade and pack their fruit without selling it through their own sales organization. It was not till 1913 when they formed a sales organization which controlled its own sales force that they were successful. Today they have 10,500 members controlling 200,000 acres of raisins, handling $60,000,000 worth of business or 88 per cent of the entire tonnage. The first year they were in business they were confronted with 30,000 tons of unsold raisins out of a total crop of 140,000 tons which the raisin dealers had been unable to sell and which spot goods threatened to bear down the prices of the new crop. This organizing started advertising, spending $117,000 the first year. By 1917 the crop had jumped to 326,000 tons and not a raisin unsold. The first year the association found that there were only 700 tons being consumed annually by the bake shops of this country. In four years they pushed the tonnage consumption in the bake shops to 45,000 tons. Land values increased immediately and vineyards increased from $50 an acre to $1,250 in value. When we stop to remember that 40 per cent of the members are Armenians and that among the remaining there is a generous representation of Slaviks, Italians, Portuguese, Greeks, Japanese, Chinese and Negroes, it would make the Anglo-Saxon descendants in the North-west blush with shame when they stop to realize how such a group in California, lacking racial ties, racial traditions or common ideals have united together to form an organization that is one of the most remarkable in the history of co-operation on the Pacific coast.

Prune and Apricot Growers' Association.

This organization is only four years old. For ten years previous to this date, prunes had only averaged three cents a pound in price to the growers. This year the association sold its prunes at the highest average price ever realized by prune growers, 19 cents for the 30-40 and other sizes in proportion. There are over 19,000 growers in the organization controlling over 80 per cent of the tonnage. They are conducting an extensive advertising campaign, spending over $400,000 this year. Prune growers all over the Pacific Coast have to thank this association, for without this advertising campaign it would have been impossible to move the tonnage. H. G. Coykendall, general manager of the association, was asked whether he believed in advertising. He said, "Do I believe in advertising? I certainly do; and I am going to give you a very fine example. I was able to sell in one day this year over 100,000,000 pounds of Sunsweet prunes, our advertised brand, but did not have a demand for a single pound of the growers' brand, a high grade brand but unadvertised." This year the association is hitting the small prune and has put three new products on the market, prune bread, prune coffee cake and prune spice cake. Master bakers have been sent throughout the East to teach the bakers how to make these products, and already as a result thousands of tons are being sold for this purpose. It is interesting to note that only organized growers controlling their own sales forces seem to have the tonnage, the organization and the vision to develop new markets, to find new uses for the product and to avoid market gluts.

There are many types of organizations. No two of the ones described are exactly alike, yet they are all successful. There is no one way to organize. One has to take into account local conditions. Yet there are certain fundamentals which all have adopted in their organizations.

Success Means Marketing Own Products.

First, they learned early in the game that to merely grade and pack their fruit would not get them very far. It was only when they formed their own sales departments and did their own selling through their own agents that they became permanently successful. They all standardized their pack, practically all establishing purchasing and supply departments: they are all well financed; they have all reduced the cost of selling till it is now about 2 per cent, and they all are advertising. The total aggregate of advertising is worth $2,000,000. They are all working on the basis of organizing the commodity rather than the mere locality; and they are all being backed to the limit by the bankers and business men of California. I asked some of these men what they thought of co-operative bodies. They said, "Mr. Lewis, we are 3,000 miles from our market. The individual under such conditions is lost. It was not till our growers got together in large groups, standardized their products, advertised extensively and sold their own products themselves, that California horticulture was placed on a profitable basis."

Five Year Marketing Agreement.

It has also been shown that the five year marketing agreement is absolutely essential to success; that all co-operative marketing bodies formed in California in the last ten years have this agreement. It has also been shown that all these bodies that are so successful today needed four or five years to perfect their organization. At the end of three years several of these very successful organizations were thought to be failures. The North-west has made the mistake of trying to organize on one year contracts.

History in North-west.

Mr. Lewis then sketched briefly the development of apple growing in the North-west in the last 20 years; how in the period up to 1912 we planted hundreds of thousands of acres without developing any marketing organizations adequate to handle the increased tonnage. How in the period 1912 to 1913 growers passed through depression, throat cutting and disorganization. He pointed out that strong locals such as the Hood River Association and the Horticultural Union of Yakima, saved the industry, and had the North Pacific fruit distributors had the vision to form a five year contract the industry would be far ahead of what it is today. However, he said, the jealousy of growers, their desire for immediate results, and their unwillingness to sign a five year agreement wrecked every attempt which was made to organize the growers on a broad basis. He showed how the Fruit Growers' Agency Inc., did a great work by closing pools early, eliminating consignment, stopping for the time being throat cutting, establishing new markets, etc., but that no adequate means had been made to finance the agency and keep it alive. During the past three years certain of the old troubles and wrong practices have been creeping in, and the fruit growers of the North-west today find themselves improperly organized to meet emergencies such as have arisen this year.

Salvation is Organization.

The salvation, he said, is for every district to organize at once to get control of a large percentage of the tonnage; to not only do their own packing and grading, but their own selling. It is only in this way that the growers can maintain their independence. Realizing that the California growers were working on the right track, we started a year ago last August and formed the Oregon Growers' Co-operative Association. In this time we have formed an organization of 1,600 members controlling 28,000 acres; we have erected $400,000 worth of buildings, packing 95 per cent of our fruit in community pack; called the first state wide grading and packing conference in Oregon; established our own sales department and traffic department; have done business with 15 canneries, 24 banks, have helped the growers to put through legislation national and state wide; have made sales which will bring our growers the highest average price ever received in the state; have established our own representatives in many markets; have greatly reduced the cost of selling and packing; have established a brand and are spending $30,000 in advertising the first year. We are already working in close harmony with the Hood River Association; the Big Y Association, and the Washington Growers' Packing Organization at Vancouver, which is a co-operative organization of prune growers in Clark County, controlling 80 per cent of the prunes in that state.

Export Marketing.

As regards marketing, Mr. Lewis went on to show that in European marketing they are saving the growers this year from 18 cents to as high as 50 cents in handling and selling costs, and as an example of the marketing efficiency already developed cited the example of the Fall pears. In September, when fall pears were selling on the auction markets of the East at a low figure the Association withdrew its tonnage, placed it in cold storage, and has been selling it steadily since early November. As a result, in the first week of November, three cars of Bosc pears were sold in New York for $6.85 a box at a total selling cost of less than $1.00. A few days later a car of Nelis brought at New York $6.50, and a car of Nelis in England $7.10; and they had beaten all competitors in the same market in the same grade and pack of fruit.

In conclusion Mr. Lewis urged the growers to organize, saying that they never could stabilize, organize and market their produce satisfactorily until they did get together and form a strong association.

The new flume, there being some rock work to do.
 Rev. Isaac Page motored up from Penticton on Sunday accompanied by Messrs. King and Fummerton, Mr. Page to fill his appointment in the Baptist Church.

Mr. Murdin has regained enough strength after his operation in the Kelowna Hospital to permit of his returning home on Monday, Mrs. Murdin having gone over to accompany him. He is doing well and gradually gaining strength.

Mr. and Mrs. Tremble returned on Monday evening, after a short delay en route, caused by a snow slide on the line. Their effects are following from Calgary and they hope to get settled shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Weitzel Sr. and son arrived Monday evening, their goods having preceded them. They are guests of Mr. John Brinson awaiting the tenants' vacation of the property they purchased recently, the old Polard cottage on Beach Avenue.

A little accident occurred on Beach Avenue, on Monday afternoon when several dogs chased a couple of passing autos. They fell in behind the first auto and the driver of the second had the one of two choices, to hit three dogs or to hit one dog. The unfortunate dog was Mrs. Clarence's "Scott," and he was hurt so badly that he had to be shot.

After a visit here with his mother, Mrs. J. Kudelka, Mr. Frank Johnson left Monday evening for Seattle.

J. Tait and R. Walters of Summerland were visitors to town on Monday afternoon.

Mr. R. J. Hogg returned Tuesday evening from his visit to Victoria.

Mr. Fawcett spent Tuesday evening in Naramata, returning Wednesday morning. On his way down he fell in with Mr. Scaife, one of Peachland's former residents, who spent some time here in the early days as a boat builder. Mr. Scaife was interested in news from town.

Having purchased the Orange Hall

Mr. Kudelka is having it moved from its present site to the front end of the lot, only turned lengthwise with the sidewalk and across the adjoining lots which he recently purchased from Mr. M. N. Morrison. When in its new position he intends to turn it into three suites for renting furnished. This will fill a long felt need for persons coming in just for a short vacation, who wish to keep house without having to buy a whole house-keeping outfit.

A clipping from a recent Manitoba paper gives the following account of a reception tendered Miss Naomi Moore, a sister of Mr. R. A. F. Moore, formerly a resident here, but lately of Princeton, also a cousin of Mr. T. H. Boothe of the Penticton School Board: A very happy event took place in the private drawing room of the Prince Edward Hotel, Brandon, Monday evening at 6.30, when the staff of the Central School, the Superintendent and Supervisors of the schools, entertained at a dinner party complimentary to Miss Naomi Moore, who has recently completed twenty years of splendid service in Brandon School. A model of the Central School surrounded by twenty red candles centred the dinner table. Red carnations were the floral decorations used while place cards and menu cards suitable to St. Valentine's Day also added a touch of color. Mr. B. A. Tingley, principal of the Central School, very ably and humorously held the position of toast master. The toast "The King" was spoken to by Mr. Black. "Our Guest" was proposed by Mr. Alfred White, who spoke of how people are just beginning to appreciate the teaching profession as a life work. He eulogised the wonderful personality, cheery optimism, unflinching sense of humor of the guest of the evening, all of which he said are used so successfully by her in helping the mental growth and all round development of her pupils of the adolescent age. Miss Moore ably responded. The "Central School" was proposed by Miss Noble and responded to by Miss Flora Fraser. Following the toasts two minute stump speeches were made by every guest. Each one present also contributed a short character sketch of some other guest, which caused great amusement. Original songs in honor of the guest were sung and created much merriment and comment. A most enjoyable evening was brought to a conclusion with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The Peachland Women's Institute held an afternoon tea in the Municipal Hall on Friday, March 4th, which was very well patronized not only by the ladies of the town and community, but also by quite a representation of the men folk. ## SITUATION IS CRITICAL HERE

School Inspectors to Report on Lack of Class Room Accommodation.

Mr. J. B. deLong of Vancouver, Inspector of High Schools in British Columbia, and Mr. A. R. Lord of Kelowna, Inspector of Public Schools in the Okanagan district, were visitors to Summerland this week, both in their official capacities, and as the result of their visit, the critical condition of the local schools with respect to building accommodation is likely to be drawn more emphatically to the attention of the public. From what we have learned, Inspector deLong will send in a report to the Department practically insisting that the High School be not continued in the present quarters, as to do so will endanger the health of the pupils.

Public School Inspector Lord, in an interview with The Review, stated that Summerland was now in a worse position with respect to school buildings than any other town in the Valley. From what he knew of the proposed plans for the new Central School, he was disposed to favor them. He was not at all in favor of the big expensive two storey brick buildings such as have been erected in other towns in the Valley. They were very nice and imposing in appearance, but not at all necessary. One of the best rooms in which he had ever taught was in a wooden structure.

With regard to school plans, we understand that the board has already written the Provincial Architect seeking his advice, especially asking his opinion on the question of putting up a two storey building, and that he suggest plans for same.

CONDEMNNS ROAD POLICY OF PROVINCE

Much Waste of Money and Continued Bad Roads Is Result.

Writing of the Provincial road policy, the editor of the Kelowna Courier who, we believe, is usually disposed to favor the Oliver Government said recently:

Without regard to politics, we are genuinely glad that the member for South Okanagan, in his speech delivered in the Assembly last week, made an attack upon Government methods of carrying out road work. The present administration has made no improvement in the methods of the Bowser regime, and the same old foolish plan is followed of doing a whole lot of work at one time—generally at the wrong season of the year—and then letting the roads fend for themselves without patching or repairing until they get into a hopelessly bad condition. With the same appropriations, meagre though they may be, if a system of road patrol was maintained throughout the whole year, with quick repair of ruts and mud holes, our country roads would be in much better condition than under the method of lavishing money on them for a month or two and forgetting all about them for the balance of the year.

The plan of attempting to administer road maintenance from a central authority at Victoria is cumbersome and inefficient, and the work should be entrusted to local Road Boards in districts not suitable, from sparse population or other reasons, for organization into municipalities. The Government should hand over to such boards, duly elected by the property owners within the respective districts, all real estate taxes collected within such districts and should also empower them to make a levy up to a certain maximum mill rate, when authorized to do so by a vote of the taxpayers in the same manner as is now done in rural school districts. Free of dictation from Victoria, the evils of patronage and the whims and fancies of government road superintendents and foremen, each district would be responsible for working out its own salvation in road matters, and it is beyond doubt that the available funds would be administered much more economically and efficiently than at present.

A man may forget to wind his watch but the flight of time goes on just the same.

TRAGIC ENDING TO ARSON CASE

The death of Mrs. I. H. Jones, late proprietress of Syndica House, Naramata, occurred last Saturday at the Penticton Hospital. Her death was the tragic ending of a court case which has occasioned more than usual interest in this section of the Okanagan. Following the recent disastrous fire at Naramata, a charge had been laid by the Provincial Police against Mrs. Jones of having started the fire. Her preliminary hearing was adjourned on Wednesday the 9th when the accused collapsed in court and was removed to the hospital, suffering with hemorrhage of the lungs. It is said that she had been in a serious condition of health since the previous Wednesday, when the charge was formally laid against her. It had not been generally known that the deceased was suffering from tuberculosis.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, the 16th, at Penticton.

TAX IS SOUND IN PRINCIPLE

Hospital Tax Should Tend To General Improvement Of Health.

Writing to the Victoria Colonist on the subject of general taxation for the maintenance of the hospitals of this province, a citizen of the capital city says:

Years ago in the district of Alberta where I lived for many years, the doctor started a plan of free medical advice for one dollar a month, sick or well, households at a fixed rate, operations and maternity cases at a reduced rate to subscribers. The results were excellent for the doctor and for the public; other doctors envied him for his assured income, and, on the principle that "a stitch in time saves nine," the public health was better, and the doctor's work easier. Later, a municipality in southern Alberta adopted the idea with advantage to all. A medical or hospital tax is doubtless sound in principle and scriptural, but it possibly carries with it the idea of free medical attention, or hospital treatment, when required, and there is little doubt from experience that if these were free there would be less need of either, except for accidents, but at the same time, there are some objections to it.

Regarding a straight hospital tax, it must be remembered that there are many cripples and permanent invalids, confined to their houses, and unable to work, to whom a hospital tax will be hard unless free medical attention goes with it. If it were to the interest of the doctors to keep us in health rather than cure us when ill, more attention would be given to food and diet, and a study made of all that makes for health from childhood to old age; in the same way we helped by government grants and trained professors, study the bodily welfare and health of our animals, as if the monetary value of healthy animals is greater than that of healthy citizens.

STIRLING & PITCAIRN MAKE ASSIGNMENT

Pioneer Fruit Shipping Concern Withdrawing From Business.

Stirling & Pitcairn, Ltd., of Kelowna, have made formal announcement of assignment for the benefit of their creditors, stating at the same time that their assets show an excess over liabilities to the public of more than $40,000.

The Company will make no effort to operate their packing houses this summer.

This pioneer fruit shipping concern of the Okanagan had built up a highly deserved reputation for integrity and square dealing which will result in their being greatly missed by their numerous customers and employees.

It is understood that the assignment is the result of the long drawn out suits instituted by Mr. Kidston, of Coldstream, which after going through the courts in this country was won by Mr. Kidston before the Privy Council.

The products of B.C. farms and factories will compare favorably with any imported. Every time a purchaser gives them preference it is aiding the development of the Province.

Two Year Term For Councillors

Elections Early in December is Another Proposed Change.

Municipal Nominations, in all probability, will be held the first week in December and elections one week later. This was one of the subjects discussed at the recent convention of the B.C. Municipalities at Victoria, and was before the private bills committee of the legislature a few days ago. The cities of Victoria and Vancouver are also asking for this change.

Locally the fixing of an earlier date for elections, and the taking of office by the new council promptly on the first of January will be of considerable advantage. Up to the present much time has been lost in defining a policy, and preparing a programme for the new year's work, especially in connection with the irrigation system is time deemed very essential. Quite naturally a retiring council does not care to lay down a program, or to tie the hands of a new council by such, no matter how much they may think it justifiable.

Another change proposed by the convention, which will overcome this latter difficulty, is that councillors and aldermen shall be elected for two years, part of the board retiring each year. This will result in a continuity of policy not otherwise possible.

FATALLY BURNED

Woman Loses Life at Vernon. Serious Fire at Oyama.

While working in her kitchen on the Muttie Ranch near Vernon, Mrs. W. Harrison's clothes caught fire. Screaming she ran from the house, her clothing ablaze. Her husband, who was pruning nearby, ran to her assistance, but she was burned so severely that she died shortly afterwards. The accident occurred on Saturday, the 5th.

Damage amounting to nearly five thousand dollars was caused Tuesday night at Oyama, when the home of W. H. Rea, the Post Office, and vacant store was burned to the ground. The fire started about half past eight in Mr. Rea's home.

EAST SIDE ROAD WOULD COST HIGH

In reply to questions in the Provincial Legislature by Mr. J. W. Jones, M.L.A., the Minister of Public Works stated that a survey had been made for a road between Naramata and Okanagan Mission, the cost of same being $7,387.83. The estimated cost of the said road is $372,823. To his questions "Has the Government undertaken any work on the said road?" "If not, when is it the intention of the Government to proceed?" the reply was that no work had been undertaken, the matter being under consideration.

A company has been organized at Nelson to manufacture matches. A tremendous amount of money is sent out of British Columbia every year for matches. British Columbia has the wood and other essentials, and there is no reason why British Columbia workmen should not be able to benefit from the manufacture of the matches that are used in the province.

ROAD FOREMAN IS DISMISSED

T. J. McAlpine no longer holds the position he has held for several years in connection with the roads of the South Okanagan electoral district. His removal from office is said to have been the culmination of differences between him and District Engineer Gwyer, under whom he has worked. Current report has it that Mr. McAlpine will be given another position. It is not known who will be appointed to the vacancy his removal has created.

W.C.T.U. SILVER MEDAL CONTEST

Successful Efforts of Amateur Elocutionists.

Under the auspices of the W.C.T.U. a very successful silver medal contest was held in the Baptist Church, West Summerland, on Monday evening, March 14th.

The President, Mrs. T. J. McAlpine occupied the chair, and gave a few words of welcome to the large audience, who by their presence manifested their deep interest in the children taking part, and the cause they represented. Mrs. McAlpine also spoke a few words of encouragement to all the contestants. While only one could win, all were contributing greatly to their own benefit and the benefit of their cause.

The meeting was opened by the singing of a hymn and prayer by the Rev. W. A. Alexander, which was followed by a very interesting and varied programme. The following artists contributed to the programme. Soloists: Miss Dodge and Miss Barkwill. Instrumental music: Miss Whiteford, Miss Ella Morrison, and Miss Alma Lott. Violin Solo: Miss S. Whiteford. Duet: Miss Lott and Miss Alma Lott. Excellent music was also furnished by a ladies' quartette, and a double mixed quartette.

The principals in the evening's entertainment were the elocutionists, of whom there were six, and if we are to judge from the efforts of this evening, we think in the near future Summerland will not need to send to any Lyceum Bureau to furnish material for a good evening's entertainment. Those taking part were the Misses Phyllis Freeman, Lilian Hunt and Irene Harris, and Masters Stanley Foster, Harvey Wilson, and Campbell McAlpine. The judges were Mrs. Coulter White, Mrs. Chas. Schwass and Mr. Jas. Shepherd.

After considerable deliberation the judges announced Master Campbell McAlpine as the winner, who recited in an excellent manner, "Is the Young Man Safe?" A close second was Miss Phyllis Freeman, there being a difference of but one point.

A very enjoyable evening was brought to a close with prayer by the Rev. Jas. Dunlop, and the singing of the National Anthem.

Lazy men bump up against a lot of criticism, but they usually live long and contented lives.

Kootenay Power Decision Soon

Company Investigating Proposal That It Extend North to Vernon or Further.

Municipal authorities in the several centres expect soon to have a definite answer from the West Kootenay Power Co. with regard to extending their power line up the Valley. Since the recent meeting of municipal representatives with the manager of the Company, (strong representations have been made from Kelowna and Vernon to the effect that there is sufficient business available there to warrant the Company building to the northern end of the Valley. The Company has been investigating, and the decision with respect to this end of the Valley has been left in abeyance until the situation covering the Okanagan as a whole has been considered.

Trout Creek Water Community Ready With Money.

At a meeting of the Trout Creek Water Community held the evening of March 10th, the general outline of the terms under which the Municipality would consider a proposal to enlarge the water system in that section as outlined in our issue of last week, was accepted. The Community has asked that an engineer make an estimate of the proposed extensions, and a committee was appointed to go over the ground with the engineer and make suggestions as to location, etc.

Already a canvass of the district has been made for the sale of the municipal debentures which would have to be marketed to provide the necessary capital, and over $5,000 has been promised.

WAS RESIDENT OF WINNIPEG

The death of Mrs. W. A. Taylor occurred on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Mann, Peach Orchard, about an hour before the arrival of Mr. Taylor who had been summoned from Winnipeg.

Accompanied by her only son, William, a lad of about 14 years, Mrs. Taylor came from Winnipeg last November to the Okanagan, suffering from tuberculosis, spending the first three months at Kelowna, afterwards coming on here.

The patient failed very rapidly during the last few weeks, and her mother, Mrs. Coates, of Vancouver, and her husband were advised last week of her condition. Her mother arrived in time to be with her four of five days.

Mrs. Taylor was about 36 years of age, and leaves the one child. The body after preparation was sent from here Wednesday morning for burial at Winnipeg, the bereaved husband and son leaving at the same time.

PRICES FALLING AT MODERATE RATE

Wage Scale Re-Adjustments Proceeding With Little Friction.

Of business conditions in Canada today the Canadian Bank of Commerce in its Monthly Commercial Letter for March says:

The steadiness and orderliness of liquidation in Canada has created a measure of confidence which will greatly aid further progress towards normal conditions. For, although deflation is taking place, it cannot be said that the readjustment has been too rapid or that business casualties have been as numerous as was at first anticipated. The most outstanding sign of deflation is the reduction of the bank note circulation in January by $22,528,766, and a decline during the same month of $37,313,879 in commercial loans. Prices continue to fall at a moderate rate, and buying by the public is still relatively cautious. Unemployment is on a scale above the normal and would be acute if the policy of distributing available work among all hands were not generally followed. Instead of laying off workmen and operating their factories by a smaller number at full time, manufacturers are employing as many as possible at part time. Meanwhile the readjustment of wage scales is proceeding without giving rise to an abnormal number of disputes.

The cost of carrying on business, however, is still onerous, particularly as a result of taxation and transportation charges. From the former there is for the present but little chance of relief; on the other hand it should be possible to effect such changes as will reduce the cost of moving merchandise from one part of the Dominion to another. In 1920 this service cost $100,000,000 more than in 1919, of which a very large proportion is attributable to operation costs. The lack of adjustment in transportation costs to correspond with that taking place in many spheres of commercial activity, constitutes a serious obstruction to trade.

HOSPITAL BOARD IN SESSION

Make Amendments to By-Laws. Changes in New Building. Matron's Report.

Thirty-six patients received treatment at the Summerland Hospital during February, and in the same period there were two major and six minor operations performed at the local institution, according to the report of the Matron submitted at the regular meeting of the Hospital Board last Monday afternoon, the total number of days' treatment during the month being 332. Miss Johnson, the matron, also reported the resignation of one of the nurses, Miss Rogers.

The Hospital Board has been considerably handicapped by one or two clauses in the by-laws of the organization, one of which fixes the date of meeting, and another which has made it impossible to make alterations in the by-laws because of the fact that a full meeting is required. A special call was sent out to all the directors for last Monday's meeting so that this latter clause might be altered, and that the date of meeting might be more under the control of the Board. As altered, the by-laws provide that a meeting of two-thirds of the Board shall have power to make amendments to the by-laws after notice of motion having been given at a previous meeting. Another change made in the by-laws in one altering the fixed date of meeting to once every month and on call of the president. A third clause was amended to include the two directors appointed by the Municipal Council. The Reeve has always been a member of the Board ex-officio.

Business in connection with the new building occupied considerable time. One matter dealt with was the acceptance of what was considered a generous offer on the part of the contractor to finish the outside of the concrete walls, the matter of style, color, etc., being left with the building committee. Another was the decision to build an additional two rooms in the basement for the kitchen staff.

FERRY TENDERS ARE INVITED

In calling for tenders the provincial Department of Public Works is asking for alternative proposals for the Kelowna ferry covering the period of one year and three years. The ferry will be required to make 4 round trips, 7 days in the week for the six summer months, and two round trips (Sundays excepted) during the winter six months.

For the Summerland-Naramata ferry, tenders for one year only are invited. In this instance, the Government prescribes a schedule giving three round trips from April to September inclusive and two round trips during the winter.

The passenger rates have been increased from 10 to 25 cents, or from 15 tickets for one dollar to 10 tickets for one dollar.

FINAL SESSION OF OPEN FORUM

Editor R. J. McDougall of the Penticton Herald will speak at the Open Forum on Sunday afternoon on the subject, "Modern Tendencies of the Canadian Press." Much interest in this subject was created by the reading of a paper at the Forum some weeks ago, and we can assure our readers that Mr. McDougall's address will be both interesting and instructive. Following his remarks, the subject will be open for discussion.

This will be the last of the Forum meetings for this season, and it is anticipated that the attendance will be large.

More than $100,000 is spent each year in British Columbia for crushed fruits for sundae. This means that the farmers and fruit growers in some localities have a market of $35,000 annually in B.C. In 1920 the proportion of this trade that went to the farmers of British Columbia was $570,000. The other $34,430 went to growers who do not live in B.C.

There's always some hardship about these reducing exercises. —Eagle, Brooklyn.

For Better Commercial and Social Conditions in Small Communities of Northwest

Expert Tells How he Would Build Up Smaller Centers, With Happy and Prosperous Citizens.

"Stick to your own home town; make it so attractive to live in and to do business in, that your young men will stay in it and prosper with it." This is an extract from a remarkable address delivered recently to the Community Club of Corvallis, Ore. by Mr. Herbert Cuthbert, executive secretary of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association, comprising B.C., Washington and Oregon. Mr. Cuthbert advocates a movement to include each community in the Pacific Northwest, sponsored by its local commercial organization, leading citizens, and newspaper, to make the town cleaner, more attractive, and more up-to-date in appearance, not only to hold its own people but to attract settlers, to keep business at home and to enlarge the opportunity of the citizens for enjoyment of life and of profitable business and employment. Mr. Cuthbert promised that the Association would assist in getting the movement started in any community. The following are some of the points of his address:

The prosperity of a state as a whole depends upon the prosperity of each individual part of it. It is not sufficient that the larger cities should increase in population and in volume of business transacted in them. It is of equal, if not greater, importance that every small community increase in population, in production and in general business.

If every rural community can produce more, can procure more settlers, more residents, it will mean more local prosperity, a greater buying power, and will add to the wholesale business and general commerce of the larger cities, hence the entire state will advance and prosper.

It is the aim of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association to develop every portion of the state from within as well as from without. There is no better way of doing this than to seek to create a forward movement in every community, no matter how small it may be.

STICK TO HOME TOWN.

The starting point for such a movement is to have every person already in the smaller communities determine to stick to his own home town, to grow up with it, and to become a booster for it. It is better to be a prominent citizen in your own community than to lose your identity in a big city. If we can eradicate from the minds of the residents, and particularly of the children, the idea that there are greater opportunities, and that it is pleasanter to live in a large city than in their own town, the foundation of the future prosperity of that town is already laid.

During my trip east I heard one speaker make the statement that ninety years ago the population of the United States in the largest cities was 4 1/2 per cent. of the whole, and 95 1/2 per cent. in the smaller cities and rural districts. Twenty years ago the largest cities had grown to 33 per cent., while to-day they have 50 per cent. It is estimated that if this rate of exodus from the country districts into the larger cities is maintained, in twenty years 80 per cent. of the entire population will be in the larger cities, leaving the rural towns and districts almost without population. He also stated that in a public school in one of the smaller cities all the boys and girls who contemplated remaining there always were asked to put their hands. Fifteen per cent. of them did. He asked those who contemplated at some future time leaving their home town and district to live in the larger cities to raise their hands, and 85 per cent. of them raised their hands.

LOSING BUSINESS.

He also stated that the business of these rural districts, through the activities of the mail order houses, was going to the larger cities not in their own state, but to other states of the Union, in the same proportion. I am going to take the liberty of suggesting some of the means by which this can be checked. There are many ways which will suggest themselves. I might mention just two or three. The painting of their homes and stores that require paint, the cleaning up of every yard and vacant lot which needs it, the straightening of all fences that are good and the renewing of all fences that are dilapidated and an eyesore, the planting of every front yard with shrubs, or flowers, and the offering of small prizes for the best improvement that has been made during the year in all matters of this kind. I don't claim that this can be done all in one year, but it can be started and if this progressive movement is carried on, it will not be long before that town is entirely changed and has become a thing of beauty and a delight to those who live in it, and to those who pass through it.

INCREASING LOCAL BUSINESS.

Now, as to increasing the business of that town. Let every storekeeper practically throw all his goods out on the side walk, clean up his store, fix his shelves and his show windows, paint them if necessary, and kalsomine the store, and then put them back in a systemized and methodical manner so that to his customers and to strangers his store has taken on the appearance and attractiveness of any store its size in the larger cities.

Let him sell as far as he can at the same price that the people would have to pay elsewhere. Let him carry an up-to-date line of goods, even though his quantities may be very small, but wherever he has a small line of goods let him put the greatest possible stress on the fact that he can procure in the shortest possible time anything that he does not happen to have in stock, just as well as if the people themselves, and much better in fact, ordered it from the mail order house.

Improve the hotels and restaurants, no matter how small they may be; let them get a reputation for putting up a first class meal, no matter how simple and how plain it may be; let it be good and appetizing. If your hotel is not adequate, see that a new one is promoted and built, because the tourist travel of the future is going to be sufficient to make a first class hotel that is suitable to the needs of a community, pay a reasonable return on the investment.

INFORM THE PUBLIC.

If there is a newspaper in the community, let the business men support it. Don't let its existence depend upon outside advertising which lures business away to other centres, but see to it that it carries every inch of advertising that business men and local corporations can stand so that its readers may be educated and informed of the possibilities of doing business at home.

Buy your paint, your varnish, the materials and tools required in the improvements I have suggested, in your home city, and bought by your dealers from wholesalers in your own state, and manufactured, if possible, within the state.

Let the whole community inaugurate athletic sports, establish tennis courts, bowling greens, baseball and football grounds and have their youngsters playing at something in an organized and healthful way. Keep their minds and their bodies busy, either at work or at play, from daylight to dark.

And, then, let each one of these

Halt! Who goes there? Someone with a cough. Pass friend! Stop cough you are under arrest. Thousands of such arrests are being made every day in all parts of Canada. Too long have coughs and colds evaded justice and caused untold suffering to humanity, but at last they have been cornered and overpowered by Canada's famous cough detective—Buckley's Bronchitis Mixture. Did you ever hear of this wonderful remedy? Why, everybody is talking and writing about the great work it is doing in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, etc.

The following is one of thousands of letters received:—"Kindly accept my sincere thanks for the benefit my wife derived by the use of one of your bottles of Buckley's Mixture. For over thirteen years she has suffered acutely. After spending dollar after dollar upon various remedies, no relief was obtained. Hearing of your most marvelous remedy she decided to give it a trial and I am glad to say one bottle has made her well. communities intermingle with their neighbors, all having the same thought, the same ideas, the same objects, and institute an interchange of social features by having combined dances, combined parties, so that they will add variety and change to their weekly social life, and institute friendly competitions in athletics, tennis, etc., between picked groups from each community.

TO THE FARMER.

Just a word to the farmers of these communities. How many of their children are looking forward to leaving home for the same cause I have mentioned? I wish I could take some of them into the rural districts of England where in many of the counties, such as Devonshire, for instance, the country life is the most desirable of any life in the Old Country, where the homes are most attractive and the children have their own tennis courts, their own ponies and are engaged by a small remuneration to do their own particular work on the farm within reasonable hours. There is nothing that has destroyed country life more than to make the children work from daylight to dark without any hope of remuneration, and without any home amusements or recreation.

I have briefly sketched a few of the things which might be done to develop the home town and the rural district. Many others will suggest themselves to my audience and to the people at large.

And now, where does this association come in assisting to develop the home town and the rural district from the outside?

WANT TO STAY.

Why, gentlemen, every time a family in an automobile, or on foot, or who arrive by train, come into, or pass through that little town, they will fall in love with it, and they will say, this is the cleanest, the brightest, the most attractive town I have been in. I want to stay here a little while, I want to see the surrounding country, and eventually they will say, this is where I want to live.

The Pacific Northwest Tourist Association is spending a small revenue, compared with the objects for which it exists, in the most effective publicity that is being carried in today in the United States. It is attracting thousands of people every year both by automobile, by train and by steamship, into Oregon, Washington British Columbia. It is for us to sell our states while they are here, and there is no better way of selling them than to impress upon our visitors the one truth which we all believe, that there is no other place in the United States or in Canada in which life is so well worth living as it is in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia. If the ideas I have ventured to submit to you are carried out, this fact and this truth will be more emphatic than it has ever been before, and we will soon have a very much larger population and a very much increased prosperity throughout this beautiful land of ours.

BERRY GROWERS HAVE ORGANIZED

Small Fruit Men Propose to Create New Markets and Expand Old Ones—More Acreage This Year.

With an anticipated increase in production the small fruit growers of the Lower Mainland and the Island have organized into the B.C. Berry Growers' Association, with headquarters in Vancouver, with a view to creating new markets and expanding old ones. Many returned soldiers have entered the small fruit business, and a larger acreage than ever before will be producing for the coming season.

Nine local bodies have thus far joined the organization and applications for membership are coming in from all parts of the province.

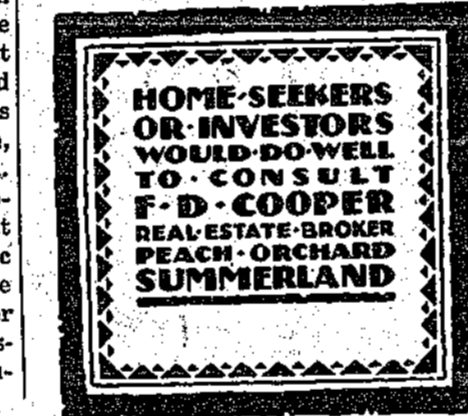

Must Face New Conditions. New conditions have to be faced to-day with reference to the jam manufacturers. Up until recently the jam factories bought up the cull berries, but with a public demanding the best ingredients in their jams, the growers are confronted with the necessity of supplying the best grade of berries to the factories, as well as to the retail trade. It is estimated that there are about 2,800 acres planted in small fruits in British Columbia, and the value of last year's crop was approximately a million dollars, an astounding increase over previous seasons. This year's will be greater than ever.

The personnel of the executive includes Mr. W. J. Manson, managing director and president of the Hatzie Mercantile Exchange; Mr. G. H. Moody, secretary and treasurer; and Mr. H. A. McNaughton, of the Gordon Head Fruit Growers' Association.

SOIL BUILDING. Use of Barnyard Manure in Building Up An Orchard.

By R. H. Helmer, Superintendent Experimental Farm, Summerland, B.C.

The use of barnyard manure over cover cropping is quick action, provided it can be procured at reasonable cost. Six dollars per ton laid down in the orchard can be paid without considering it excessive. The actual value of nitrogen phosphates and potash that are present amounts to approximately one dollar and fifty cents per ton, but it as a soil builder that manure pays for itself.

Spreading at the rate of five tons per acre is advised as larger amounts have a tendency to dry out the land and retard growth rather than help it.

Manure is easily incorporated into the soil and so forms humus, hence it makes an excellent breeding ground for the various nitrogen fixing bacteria so essential for the best results with legumes later on. These bacteria will still further build up the phosphates and potash when we deem our soils need them.

The defects of continual clean cultivation are felt by many and we have frequent calls for the quickest method of building up our orchard soils, so an outline of what we feel is the quickest and safest methods may help some of our orchardists. If possible fall plough, discing the land. Apply manure during the winter.

ter at the rate of five to ten tons per acre. Disc this well in the spring before ploughing, this not only makes it easier to turn under but mixes soil and manure to a certain extent as well. When ploughed, broadcast three hundred pounds of nitrate of soda per acre and work it well in during the spring. Keep this clean cultivated; this conserves moisture and helps further to rot the manure. At the end of July or August, plant to hairy vetch at the rate of forty lbs. of seed per acre, plough in the spring.

Manure alone could be made to supply the humus though keeping our orchards in clean cultivation for years, but the cost would be prohibitive and we would eventually have to resort to some cheaper method.

If after thoroughly building up our soil we find it impossible to put our orchard into alfalfa mulch we can from time to time add five tons per acre of manure to establish the mulch quickly and supply plant food to stimulate the alfalfa. If you have no suitable place to store manure to keep it from heating, get it into the

Insure Against Hail

The various hail storms in the Niagara District last summer should be good hail insurance advertising. In the State of Washington, which is visited sometimes by hail storms, many of the apple growers carry hail insurance. Last year most of their policies expired at midnight, September 30. At 9 p.m., that date, or three hours before the policies expired, a hail storm visited the Wenatchee Valley and did some damage. The insurance was still in effect and the growers afterwards were paid substantial sums for the losses incurred.

—Exchange. soil as soon as possible in warm weather. By getting the manure safely under ground you will lessen the household nuisance and conserve valuable plant foods in the soil which otherwise will be wasted on the air.

PEACEFUL PENETRATION

No. 1.—B.C. AND THE CHINESE

By H. Glynn-Ward in Vancouver World

(Published By Permission.)

Ten years ago certain silk and curio stores on Granville Street were regarded as rather attractive patches of the Far East in a western town; the atmosphere itself, the pig-tailed celestial in black, who served his customers was looked upon as no less curious than the goods displayed. These have now become flourishing concerns with rows of white girls at the receipt of custom behind the counter.

There was a time when Europeans would have snorted with disgust at the idea of a white girl working for a Chinese coolie (for the better class of Chinese do not emigrate), but British Columbia sees nothing derogatory in the idea, and in the upper country there are more whites working for Orientals than Orientals working for whites.

The little backyard plots outside the town, wherein the Chinaman grew enough vegetables to hawk from door to door and undersell the white man, have become a concerted industry, a monopoly of the market gardening trade. All this has happened with such slow stealth and with so little fuss and palaver that one has scarcely noticed the progress—until too late.

Ten years ago two or three Chinamen began to rent land on Lulu Island,—to cite an instance nearby—little by little they have bought the white man out (if one can designate as "white" those hybrid Iscariots who have a hand in such loathly transactions) until the greater part of the island has passed irredeemably out of our hands.

In the Lillooet, the Agassiz and Ashcroft districts plots as big as 20,000 acres have become the property of companies of Chinamen, who are the biggest potato producers of B.C.—and accordingly control the spud market.

They have a genius for organization which is uncanny. Wherever a few are gathered together they meet in council every night and no man knows what transpires therein, one can only judge by resulting facts. The Chinese vegetable growers in the Okanagan have wires sent to them every morning from the central markets in four provinces—and adjust their prices one cent or one half cent lower to gain a control. Their celery is on the market three weeks before anyone else's.

As with gardening, so with laundry work, so with every trade that calls for labor on a big scale; they are beating us at our own games. Not for nothing is their civilization thousands of years older than our own. They have learnt things—such as the futility of strikes, and the basic fact that the prosperity of the whole lies in the loyalty of the individual.

And because the voice of the few cannot break through the torpid indifference of those who will not see we drift on toward the edge of the precipice with the Oriental pushing behind. And because the country is under the sway of little men who make laws for the good of the party and not for the people, and capitalists who live by the rule of the Devil take the hindmost, nothing has ever been done to stop the influx from the Orient.

Not even the head tax, for like all measures induced by greed for gold it failed of its purpose and became more of an incentive than a preventive. Chinese financiers formed companies on the strength of it to promote emigration by the hundred, put up the money for the head taxes and took a lien on the wages of the emigrants for years to come, out of which they repaid themselves plus a hearty interest.

The coolie who earns 10c. a day in his own country would naturally hasten overseas to earn 30c. with an assurance of fabulous wealth after a term of years. As the head tax was raised so were the wages of the Chinaman in direct proportion.

With the passing of years has come not only wealth to the coolie but knowledge and confidence wherewith to compete against the white man in business. So are they running neck and neck with him in the grocery trade and trafficking with millionaires in the lumber business—creeping in slowly, stealthily, surely. "Me washee for you, but your children washee for my children," is the keynote to the future.

One wonders what the effect on the morals of the whites will be the co-education of whites and Orientals. The East has a standard of morals incompatible with those of the West. The children of the various wives of John Chinaman are growing up alongside our own. Which of their characters will predominate and which be swamped by reason of its impressive youth?

Go to the capital city of the province and see how great a part of it belongs to the Chinese. A man sitting in a hotel window amused himself by counting the numbers of nationalities that passed within the hour; only one out of every seven was a white man. But "war heap good, killee plenty white man" was another remark that might be cogitated.

So we drift along the lines of least resistance on to the quick sands. The tide that is coming in with such inexorable certainty is yellow. What color will the ebb tide be?

There is great danger, my brothers, much of it and close at hand. We hold this land in trust for our sons to come, and the ghosts of our forefathers who spent their lives in making it, of our brothers who gave their lives to keep it, are watching that we fail not in our trust.

If it passes out of our hands it will be because we have proved ourselves less worthy to keep it than that other race which is slowly pushing us out.

ter, in charge of the Home Branch of the Land Settlement Board at Vernon to give demonstrations on April 10th and 11th. Her subject for April 10th will be "The use of Commercial Patterns and How to Adapt Them to Various Sizes and Figures," and for April 11th, "The Canning of Meat, Fish and Poultry." As there were sufficient members to have another director on the executive Mrs. Dryden was elected to this position. The following committee was appointed to buy kitchen equipment with the proceeds of the tea held for that purpose on March 4th: Mrs. Keating, Mrs. Needham, Mrs. R. E. Taylor, Mrs. Lingo, Mrs. A. W. Miller, and Mrs. Drake. Mrs. Buchanan gave a most interesting and instructive paper on "Functions of the Stomach" which was much appreciated. She had examples of sick-room cooking to illustrate her remarks. The meeting enjoyed a solo by Miss Betty Buchanan entitled "Eye-Lo," and a recitation by Miss Frances Clements, entitled "Going After the Cows."

On Friday evening, the 11th, a surprise party was held at the house of Mr. Albert Drought, Trepanier, to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Drought and family who are leaving shortly to live in Westbank. A very enjoyable evening was spent, dancing and cards being indulged in, ending up with a supper, cakes, etc., having been brought by members of the party. All voted the evening a great success and were glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to wish Mr. and Mrs. Drought every success in their new life at Westbank. Amongst those who formed the party were Mr. and Mrs. W. Charlton and family, Mr. W. Ortt, Mrs. Spears, Major K. Taiyoor, Miss Monteith, Mr. Greata, Mr. and Mrs. Iverson, Capt. H. Mangin, Mrs. Hamilton, Mr. A. West, Mrs. Martin, and Miss Gamble, Mr. and Mrs. Oakley.

Miss R. Law returned home Saturday morning after a short time spent in Summerland.

Mr. and Mrs. Cutbill and Mr. and Mrs. Tremble motored to Kelowna on Saturday and on their return brought Mrs. W. Lupton to visit her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. Aitkens. She returned by boat the following Wednesday accompanied by her father.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton of Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta, arrived here Saturday evening on their return home after a tour to the Coast and California. They stayed over Sunday and Monday to look over the district, and, as many have done before them, they took a fancy to property here, and may possibly come back to settle. While here they visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Wilson.

On Saturday Mr. J. Kudelka purchased from Mrs. L. D. McCall her lot which adjoined the lots he had previously purchased from Mr. Morrison, which now gives him the entire block lying between the lane back of Mr. L. D. McCall's home and the hill. He has had the Orange Hall moved from where it used to sit and turned lengthwise to Second Street about midway across the front end of the lots comprising the block. This gives him a much better view from his residence now that the Hall is low enough to look over, and it also shows his residence off to good advantage from the town and lakefront.

Mr. Zolds returned from the Coast on Saturday, accompanied by two more of his family. It is not yet definitely decided whether he is going to take over the butcher business or not, but it is quite possible he will.

Mr. Grantham paid town another official visit this week.

Mr. J. Kudelka left on Monday morning for his old home on the prairie to attend to some business. He expects to be away a week or ten days.

Friends here regret very much the news received by Mr. and Mrs. J. McLaughlin of the severe illness of their son-in-law Mr. Dave Kirkby at Vancouver. Mrs. McLaughlin left on Tuesday morning to go down to assist her daughter.

A son was born on Tuesday morning last to Mrs. Burkett Robinson at their home here. Both doing nicely.

Mrs. R. O. McCall and son Carlton of Penticton came up on Tuesday morning to spend the day with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. MacKenzie and family, returning home on the evening boat.

Mrs. Hogg returned on Tuesday evening after a pleasant visit to the Coast.

Mr. Thos. Elliott's brother from Gault, Ont., arrived Tuesday evening to remain in Peachland with his brother for some time.

May Engage Public Nurse

Miss Mary Aad McKenzie, Director of Public Health Nursing in the University of British Columbia, addressed a public gathering in the Municipal Hall here on Thursday evening the 10th. A fairly good representation of the citizens were present to receive information on the subject of Public Health Nursing in rural communities. Peachland, having had the question under consideration for some time, was anxious to have more particulars before taking action. The speaker told of the needs of the community in regard to a district nurse and outlined the special training given to graduate nurses to fit them for this work. At the close of the address many asked questions, and all were ably answered. It was moved and seconded that the following Public Health Committee be formed to canvass the community and if satisfactory results were obtained to proceed to arrange for a nurse to work conjointly with Westbank and Peachland, as it has been learned that many of the Westbank people are anxious to have the service: Mrs. Dryden, Mrs. Keating, Mrs. Murrin, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Hogg, Mr. Clarke, and Mr. McCall. Miss McKenzie spoke in Westbank the following evening.

Mr. Tremble's car of settler's effects has arrived and the owners have settled in their new home. He has brought with him a Ford truck with body suitable for fruit.

Mr. Harrison was a passenger south on Wednesday evening, returning the following morning.

Major Hardisty and son Dickie returned Thursday evening after a few days spent out of town.

Dr. Andrew, of Summerland, paid town a visit on Thursday, coming up by auto. He was accompanied by two of the Summerland Hospital nurses who returned by boat in the evening accompanied by Miss Rogers, also of the staff, who was returning home after a holiday spent here, a guest at the home of Mrs. Vivian.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McCall and son Willie motored to Summerland on Thursday to visit friends.

Mrs. Morgan left on Friday morning for the prairie to look after her business interests for a short time.

Mr. Jack Wilson brought from Kelowna on Friday a good looking milch cow.

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald and family were passengers north on Friday morning. Mrs. McDonald remained several days visiting friends up the lake and returned Monday evening.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Municipal Hall Friday, March 11th. Arrangements were made for Miss Mas-

PROGRESS AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS.

Among the publications that have just reached us is the Twentieth Annual Report of the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. A casual glance at the report reveals much food for thought, and we are glad to notice that progress is being made against tuberculosis in our midst. Education and sound propaganda are bound to have a goodly influence upon the daily habits of the community. Particularly instructive is the address of the President, Hon. Dr. Schaffner, which reviews the stages of tuberculosis from its first description by Hippocrates, long before the Christian era, to the present. For many centuries, he points out, the disease was believed to be hereditary and incurable, but today scientific research has established that it is not only preventable but curable if taken in its early stages. Hon. Dr. Schaffner lays great stress on the importance of education on the subject, alluding to the common school teacher as one of the most powerful agencies in this regard, and he urges the earnest co-operation of all classes as the most effective means of eradicating the disease. Dr. George D. Porter, Secretary, reviews the work of the year and tells of a decrease in the death rate from tuberculosis in Canada of thirty per cent. in the last twenty years, due chiefly to lessened infection, better living conditions, and earlier treatment. There are also interesting addresses by other prominent authorities on tuberculosis, besides reports from all the sanatoria and local societies in Canada.

Already a number of Canadian cities have decided to follow the lead of the railways by adopting "daylight saving" during the coming summer.

Intense interest has been developed in the alleged Swiss discovery of a cure for tuberculosis since the recent decision of the British Government to make a thorough investigation of the discovery known as the "Spatilings cure," from the name of the discovering scientist. The Canadian Government is also making every effort to learn the true value of the serum, how it is to be distributed, and arranging that Canadian soldiers will be among the first to receive it should it prove successful.

Two hundred thousand dollars in a year as a tax on bach- elors was collected last year by the city of Montreal. This one way of helping to finance schools.

THE EXPERIMENTAL FARMS SYSTEM.

Remark has several times been made in Parliament and elsewhere that the splendid work performed by the Experimental Farms System of Canada is not nearly so widely known and appreciated as it should be. In the Agricultural Gazette of Canada for January there appears an outline of the system and the tasks in which it is engaged. The Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa is the headquarters of the twenty branch or auxiliary farms and stations. It is stated that there is one farm in each of the provinces of Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Ontario, two in Nova-Scotia, four in Quebec, two in Manitoba, three in Saskatchewan, two in Alberta, and four in British Columbia. There are also two sub-stations in Alberta, two in the Yukon, and one in British Columbia. In addition, working with the system are tobacco stations at Farnham, Que. and Harrow, Ont. At all of these experimental and research work of national importance is carried on. Eighty illustration or demonstration stations have also been established in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Quebec, Alberta, and Saskatchewan. Each branch of agriculture is dealt with in actual experiment, and the results are made public through the press and by means of addresses, demonstrations, and exhibits. In short every effort is made to encourage, advance and benefit agriculture, the basic industry of the country.

CANADIANS SHOULD KNOW THEIR COUNTRY

Every Traveller Should Be A Missionary Of Its Advantages—Information Available From The Commission Of Conservation.

A knowledge of one's country should be the first essential of the patriotic citizen's education. Without this knowledge, he is neither prepared to advocate its advantages nor to defend it from depreciatory criticism. Canada has much that her citizens should be proud of, but, unfortunately, this fact is not as well known as it should be by her citizens. Every Canadian should know what Canada's forests, mines, fisheries, wild life and waterways represent to the country. Many thousands go abroad every year and a very large number spend a portion of the winter season in southern climes. Each and every one of these travellers should be a missionary for Canada, spreading knowledge of its many advantages.

This information is available for the asking, the Commission of Conservation being authorized by Parliament to secure and compile information on Canada's natural resources and to advise the public of the same. The Commission has available many valuable reports, two of which, "Water-powers of British Columbia," and "Forests of British Columbia," have been but recently issued. They are handsomely illustrated and contain much valuable information on that western province which it would be of advantage to the resident of eastern Canada to know. These reports may be had on request.—Conservation.

Charitable persons speak one to another; uncharitable persons speak one of another.

NEW APPLE SORTING SYSTEM PROVED OUT

Co-operative Community Association Devises New Method and Has Success.

An original system of sorting apples has been worked out and put into successful operation in the new $120,000 plant of the Spokane Valley Growers' Union, an incorporated, co-operative community association of fruit growers on the irrigated tracts lying just outside the city of Spokane in the beautiful Spokane Valley.

The capacity of the plant is 3,500 packed boxes a day and the Union began the apple harvest of 1920 by investing $65,000 in apple boxes and $30,000 in paper, which has doubled in price since the purchase. It has on hand $5,000 in spraying materials. Apple receipts last season totalled $450,000.

One of the difficulties encountered under the ordinary system of hauling was bruised and stem punctured fruit. Shipments left the plant in apparent good condition, only to be found defective in eastern apple centres. In an effort to attain perfection, the manager, Edward Pierce, evolved his own sorting machinery and handling system.

The orchardist delivers apples in boxes at the east end of the building and the whole method of handling from this on is a "conveyor system." Endless and innumerable moving belts take on every operation and almost eliminate lifting and handling.

The box from the orchard is placed on a broad moving belt elevator which carries it to the packing room on the third floor of the building, unless the packers are not ready for the consignment, in which case it is stored in the basement. Each grower's fruit is kept separate and sorted and packed as a unit. This is made practicable by the accuracy and efficiency of the Pierce system.

On the incline belt the box enters the long sorting room and may be removed at any one of the cross sections, where sorters work, and assembled within their reach. The sorter lifts the apples carefully from the box and places them on the belt in the sorting troughs. This entirely eliminates punctures and bruises when the fruit is handled under the method of dumping and piling. The sorting apparatus consists of 10 small belts moving from the sorter, in troughs, to larger belts running at right angles the entire length of the room. The 10 smaller troughs allow for extra grades in three sizes; common grade in three sizes and culls.

The slow moving belts carry the apples along in full sight of the sorter before they have gone too far. At the end of the troughs, the apples drop to a little trap door of light pine which opens and allows the apple to fall onto the main conveyors. The opening of this little door registers on a counting machine installed at the end of each trough. When the sorter starts one grower's consignment he takes readings on the counting machine and at the finish again takes them; in this way the grower knows just how many of each grade he delivered. If the farmer wants the culls they are returned to the

China, a Fruit Market.

The United States Department of Agriculture is calling the attention of the fruit growers of the country especially the apple men, to the opportunities for developing a market for American fruits, both fresh and dried, in China. The enormous population of China is referred to and the fact that the mass of her people are fruit lovers. While the wealthy class in China has been the largest consumer of imported fruit, it is pointed out that the wage-earning ability of the Chinese is gradually increasing and that before long the mass of the Chinese people will be ready to buy foreign fruits.

There's a suggestion in this for our British Columbia fruit growers, and perhaps for eastern growers as well. The rate of duty on fruits is not sufficiently high to interfere with the development of the trade. For original boxes, otherwise they are diverted along the main conveyor and sacked and sold to the vinegar works.

Unfair Discrimination

I note that the Reeve of Summerland, in his report to the Council concerning the Government attitude as to financial assistance, referred to a remark from someone that this district was being penalized for returning an opposition member in the last election. This remark was, I think, given as an expression of individual opinion only, but I may say that I have recently heard statements along that line which went much further than the region of mere opinion. There seems to be very little room for doubt that there in an element of vindictiveness in the legislative atmosphere at Victoria, which constitutes a potent addendum to the fact that this is "the morning after" the election, and not the eve preceding. We are, unfortunately, all familiar with the little pre-election baits which are noticeable during an election campaign, and we know they are not peculiar to this province, but a calculated policy of discrimination after election is quite another matter. As an expression of political rancour it is beneath contempt: as an indication of the political honesty of an administration it falls very far short of what the people have a right to demand. A government is elected to administer the affairs of its territory with absolute impartiality. The shameful phrase "a pull with the government," and the opposite expression "on the wrong side," should have no place in the conduct of public affairs. That they are applicable to the Government of a province which calls itself "British" is a paradox of itself, since British politics are admittedly free from any such ugly stains. Nevertheless it is a fact pretty well known that British Columbia politics have for years been a byword and reproach. The vital question now is how long this state of things is to continue, and that question can only be answered by the people themselves. So long as they are willing to tolerate it, so long will it continue. When they insist on clean administration, free from party discrimination, they will certainly get it, since no administration can long resist united public opinion.

The Mystified Stranger

"When is a box not a box?" The reply, "When it's a Post Office," seems at first rather obscure, but it was the only solution arrived at by a bewildered stranger who was in search of a certain ranch some way up this Valley, and who was instructed to follow the road until he came to a certain Post Office (which I will call Bloomfield), and then turn to the right. Full merrily he cranked his trusty Ford, and drove blithely on, looking for the curl of ascending smoke from the postmaster's chimney, but the minutes passed and the road showed no signs of habitation. Still onward he sped, but building saw he none. At long last he overtook a hardy son of the soil, and held him with his glittering eye, the while he demanded the whereabouts of the elusive establishment which handled His Majesty's mail. The information that he had passed it five miles back seemed quite inexplicable, but the light of innocence beamed from the eyes of his informer, and he turned himself about and went back on his own trail, this time carefully noting the miles on his speedometer. The specified distance was covered, but still no signs of the building he sought. There was, however, a crossroad, and on one corner a dry goods box nailed to a post, and our searcher descended to discover if it bore any legend which might help him in his extremity. It did—on its plain unvarnished front, inscribed with a deplorable lack of artistic skill, but legible to behold, were the words "Bloomfield Post Office." The mystery was solved—His Majesty's Post Office for Bloomfield was neither more nor less than a dry goods box!

Latter Day Critics

The critic is always with us, and is one of the most valuable factors in the world of affairs—when his criticism is of that sort which is called constructive. But of late we are getting a little too much of that kind which does nothing but find fault and pick out the real or fancied weak places in the policies or persons criticised. Mr. Asquith has lately become a past grand master in this sort of invective, and has thereby beclouded the close of a political career which was otherwise good. Another and less prominent person who is going the same way, is Sir Phillip Gibbs, formerly a very capable war correspondent, but now a self-appointed critic of the British Government and the Allies in general. This gentleman gave Germany much moral support just before the calling of the Reparation Council by declaring that the Allied demands were preposterous, and would bankrupt Germany, and, with her, the whole of Europe. Sir Phillip's new title seems to have got into his head, and he will doubtless become a little more discreet presently.

The very latest appearance is that of a writer who calls himself "A gentleman with a duster," and who seems to think he is appointed to give the world some really correct estimates of certain men generally considered more or less competent in their several departments. Balfour comes off pretty badly in his list, whilst Lloyd George is a "man of straw," and the late Earl Kitchener was a "painted lath." These judgments, from a writer who professes an intimate knowledge of inner circles of public life, but whose identity is said to be unknown even to his publishers, will carry very little weight so far as they concern men still living, and actively striving for the world's betterment. And his criticism of a great soldier who is not here to defend himself, carries its own condemnation.

Rounds and Rayner Are Re-Elected

Another Teacher for Naramata Public School.

The re-election of Mrs. Howard Rounds and Mr. Rayner by acclamation was the outstanding feature of the school meeting held on Friday, March 11th, in the school house.

The two trustees who had resigned at a previous meeting, explained that they had done so, not because of disapproval of the policy of employing a third teacher, but because the action of the ratepayers in circulating a petition to call a school meeting for this purpose instead of simply approaching the school trustees for action along this line had appeared to them as showing a lack of confidence in their elected representatives. They explained that the employing of another teacher called for the expenditure of money already in the treasury, which therefore could not be voted by the trustees without recourse to a ratepayers' meeting.

In reply it was stated by those responsible for circulating the petition that they had interpreted the School Act differently, and had deemed the calling of a ratepayers' meeting a necessary preliminary to the engaging of the third teacher.

The special meeting was adjourned on this business being completed, and a general meeting considered a variety of suggestions brought forward in the interests of the school. It was decided to call a meeting at an early date to consider the matter of continuing transportation for the children from the south benches after the expiration of the time arranged for in March. Mr. King introduced the subject of a proper water supply for the school, and this will be looked into. The formation of a school library was discussed, and a donation of $5 being offered by Mrs. Cash for this purpose, further donations were promised: a set of Parkman's History of Canada, from Mrs. Aitkins; $5 from Mr. King; and a Book of Knowledge on behalf of the Women's Institute by Mrs. M. B. Smith. A committee consisting of Mrs. Cash, Mrs. Aitkins, and Mrs. Campbell Robinson was appointed to canvass for other donations from the residents of the community; and to then act with the school trustees in choosing books.

Miss Elsie Brodie, on the evening of March 14th, was the guest at a farewell party given in her honor at Mrs. Ameron's by her classmates in Sunday School. The evening was pleasantly passed in games. Refreshments were provided by the girls. Miss Brodie left on Tuesday morning with her parents to live at Okanagan Centre.

Mrs. Duke and her niece, Miss Chapman, arrived on Monday night's boat from Okanagan Centre. Mrs. Duke will assume the management of the Syndica Hotel, and is planning various alterations and improvements with the aim of making the place more up-to-date and increasing its service to the public.

Mr. Thomas Scaife, well known to the people of Naramata, has returned to the district, and is staying at the Syndica House. He is employed at present in overhauling Mr. J. M. Robinson's houseboat, and will probably remain in Naramata.

A new enterprise in Naramata, and one which will be much appreciated, is the establishment of a boot repair shop in the small building beside the Supply Store by Mr. Hauck.

Mr. Rogers, who has been confined to the house for about ten days, having cut his foot with an axe, is able to be out again.

Miss Marjorie Matheson, of Kelowna, is spending a week with Mrs. F. Manchester.

Mrs. Jones, lately in charge of the Syndica House, died in the Pentiction Hospital on Saturday night, of hemorrhage of the lungs. The funeral took place on Wednesday.

St. Patrick's Day will be celebrated by the Women's Institute holding a tea at the Unity Club. Irish songs, Irish costumes and Irish dances will be on the programme for the afternoon, and tea will be served.

Mrs. J. A. Noyes and Mrs. D. O. Hughes spent a short week-end holiday in Peachland and Summerland, visiting Mrs. McDougall and Mrs. Gray.

A sad occurrence took place at the end of the week in the death at Summerland of Mrs. Taylor, of Winnipeg, who had come here in the hope of regaining her health. Mrs. Taylor was a guest of Mrs. J. M. Robinson for a few days last fall. Mr. Robinson went over to Summerland on Sunday to condole with Mr. Taylor, who had just arrived from Winnipeg.

A well attended meeting held under the auspices of the B.C.F.G.A. took place in the Unity Club on Monday evening. Mr. Helmer was present and gave a forceful and illuminating address on cover crops. Mr. Helmer gave as the result of careful experiments extending over many years a pronouncement on the great value of alfalfa as a cover crop. He gave facts and figures with regard to the great amount of nutriment supplied to the soil by this cover crop, and advocated its general use. Mr. Tait spoke on fruit pests, with special reference to the blister mite, mildew, and aphid, and detailed methods of dealing with these.

Some discussion took place with regard to forming a local under the Okanagan United Growers, instead of operating as at present, in connection with Summerland, and a committee was appointed to go into the matter of comparative cost, etc., and report at another meeting to be called in the near future.

The population of the Japanese Empire, according to a census taken last October, is 77,005,510.

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesteads; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company. Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the late war. This privilege is also made retrospective.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for 5 years.

Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependants, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS

Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown Lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfillment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole or original parcel, purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole area. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

GRAZING

Grazing Act, 1919, for systematic development of livestock industry provides for grazing districts and range administration under Commissioner. Annual grazing permits issued based on numbers ranged; priority for established owners. Stock owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits for settlers, campers or travellers, up to ten head.

Financial Strength

THE principles upon which a Bank is founded, the number of years it has been in operation, and the policy followed during these years—these features, combined with its present standing, form the criterion of the strength of a Bank.

The Bank of Montreal began business in the year 1817, with a modest capital of $1,250,000, and for over a century it has followed a conservative—aggressive policy until to-day its capital and reserve fund total $40,000,000 and its total assets are in excess of $560,000,000.

GRADING TERMS HURT APPLES

Canadian Fruit Handicapped By More Attractive Grade Names of U.S.A.

That the very name given the grades of American boxed apples "Extra Fancy," "Fancy" and "Choice" sells the U.S.A. product on the British market in competition with British Columbia apples of high grade is pointed out by Mr. J. Forsyth Smith, Canadian Trade Commissioner. In a bulletin just received he says:

The attention of boxed apple shippers has been strongly called to the aid given to the selling of the lower grades of Western American boxed apples by their attractive grade names, Fancy and Choice. Undoubtedly British Columbia No. 2's are constantly hampered by the suggestion of inferiority conveyed by this grade name, while American Fancy grade, escaping any such imputation, not infrequently makes as much as Extra Fancy for desirable counts. Thus in Glasgow on December 9, British Columbia Newtowns No. 2 sold at 18s. to 19s., when Oregon Newtowns, Fancy and "C," were both selling at the same price, 21s. to 23s. 6d.; B.C. Winesaps No. 2 sold at 17s. 6d. when Washington Winesaps, Fancy, were selling at 18s. 3d. to 18s. 6d.; B.C. Jonathans No. 2 sold at 16s. 6d. to 16s., when Washington Jonathans, Fancy, were selling at 16s. 6d. to 17s. 6d.

A concrete instance of trade feeling in this connection will be illuminating. A British Columbia apple exporter was recently being introduced to the Liverpool trade. In the course of remarks dealing with the box apple situation, the future prospects for the lower grades were under discussion. The broker made the uncompromising statement: "I do not think No. 2 boxed apples should ever be shipped to this country." His attention was at once called to the fact that large quantities of Fancy and "C" grades were constantly coming forward, and that, in the case of the former frequently, and of the latter occasionally, the prices realized for sizes 150 to 175's were either equal to or only slightly below those for the same sizes of Extra Fancy, and quite commonly superior to the prices for Extra Fancy, sizes 96 to 125. "Oh," he replied, "I was speaking of No. 2, not Fancy or 'C' grade." Such was the effect of attractive grade nomenclature on the mind of a prominent dealer constantly handling boxed apples. It was a new idea to him that Fancy and "C" grade apples, if packed in Canada, would come forward, in accordance with legal requirements, as No. 2 and No. 3.

When the boys assembled for their game of ball, Bobby, the pitcher, was missing. Jimmy was sent to investigate.

"Is Bobby at home?" he asked the sister who answered his knock. "Course he is," she answered. "Don't you see his shirt on the line?"

NEXT WEEK'S WORK IN THE ORCHARD

BY R. H. HELMER, Supt. Experimental Station.

Get out your cultivators and give the old mare a few more oats. If we could only see the Golden Dollars tinkling out of our cultivators and harrows we would use them earlier and more often each year.

Remember this—when the crust that usually forms on our soils during the winter is broken up it allows every snowfall and rain shower to penetrate the soil easily and deeply. It also overcomes soil washing on sidehills.

When nitrate of soda is being used sow this broadcast as soon as possible now and cultivate in. Hot-beds should be started now.

CANADIAN HAPPENINGS

CHRONICLED IN BRIEF

Vancouver. — Movement through this port has commenced of an order for 2,700 tons of Alberta wheat for San Francisco mills.

Vancouver.—The whaling season just closed has been one of the biggest catches in several years.

Trail, B. C.—The daily capacity of the copper refinery of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company has been increased to 50 tons.

Trail, B. C.—The output of the Canadian Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's smelter here for 1920 is valued at $8,161,200, as against $7,942,191 in 1919.

Calgary.—The little town of Monitor, on the Lacombe-Kerobert branch of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is proving the Mecca of American oil men.

Winnipeg.—Plans for drainage work on one million acres south of Winnipeg at a cost of $1,750,000 were considered at a meeting held here recently by the Red Deer Improvement and Drainage Association.

Montreal.—It is reported that a loan of several million pounds will be made by the British Government to the Government of the Dominion of Canada with the object of assisting emigration.

Fort William, Ont.—With 137,590,590 bushels passed through the elevators, Fort William and Port Arthur lead all points on the American continent in the amount of wheat handled in 1920.

Medicine Hat, Alta.—In all probability, a plant for the manufacture of stooking machines and stook loaders will be erected here in the near future by the Hiltz Stooking Machine Company.

Regina, Sask.—One hundred and seventy-three English girls arrived in the city last year under the auspices of the Local Council of Women.

Regina, Sask.—Tentative steps for the establishment of a provincial rural credit system were taken recently by the Provincial Treasurer in suggesting that the Canadian Council of Agriculture commence an expert examination into the possibility of developing the Canadian banking system to meet the requirements of agriculture.

most admirable one, was not created to meet the demands for agriculture, and the system of management leaves it to the head office to grant loans, whose officials are not always in a position to judge the merits of the applicants.

Milk and its products in Canada during the year 1919 were valued at $253,000,000, with exports at $56,000,000, according to J. Ruddick, Dominion Dairy Commissioner.

St. John, N.B.—Large shipments of grain have been coming in here during the last few weeks. Grain elevators are filled to capacity.

Havelock, N.B.—A cement plant with an estimated value of over one million dollars, and to give employment to more than three hundred men, is to be located here.

Halifax, N. S.—Apple shipments from this port to all parts of the world have been very heavy during the past month. In January, 119,044 barrels of Nova Scotia apples were shipped to markets in the United Kingdom.

THE FALL OF A LEAF. One of the most beautiful processes in nature is the fall of the leaf. This is not, as is commonly supposed, brought about by the inclement weather of the autumn.

Many odd and bizarre uses for the airplane have been suggested and tried out, but the extermination of mosquitoes by their use is perhaps the oddest proposition yet proposed.

A GOOD SPORT.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox. I was a little lad, and the older boys called to me from the pier. They called to me: "Be a sport! Leap in and swim!"

I was a youth, and I heard the older men talking of the road to wealth. They talked of bulls and bears, of buying on margins.

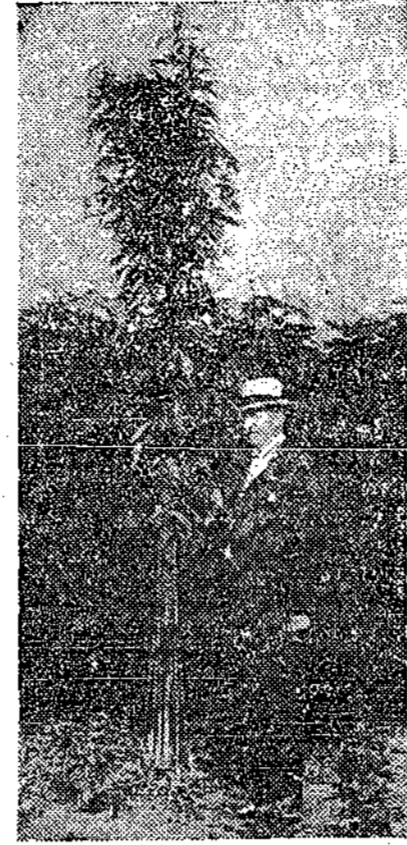

But now I wish I had not gone that way. Yes, I wish I had lost it all. For it was the wrong way, and pushed me to my fall.

I was a young man, and the gay world called me to come. Gay women and gay men called to me crying: "Be a sport; be a sport; fill our glasses and let us fill yours."

Oh, the madness of youth and song and dance and wine, Of woman's eyes and lips, when night dies in the arms of dawn!

And now I wish I had not gone that way. Now I wish I had not heard them say, "He is a sport, a good sport." For I am old who should be young.

WHAT GOOD ROADS MEAN TO BRITISH COLUMBIA

Wm. K. Stewart writing in Farm and Home truly says a man hasn't got to go to California or thousands of miles away from British Columbia to find out the value of good roads.

"I do not think that the farmers of British Columbia or the citizens of this province in general regard paved roads as an investment. But the conditions are very similar to British Columbia, paved roads are considered a splendid investment.

"The fact of the matter is that they have learned after building a few hundred miles that it paid them from the outset as the value of the land was not only increased but the value of production was increased.

twelve thousand miles. The life of the auto has increased doubly. Saving on time is another great consideration. In an hour or an hour and a half a man can deliver his produce to the nearest station seven or eight miles away and be back again at work.

"We in British Columbia think we have some tourist travel particularly on Vancouver Island, say over the Malahat Drive. Malahat Drive, which the people of Vancouver value so much, would be regarded as a joke in Washington.

"There are at least ten tourists in Washington to one in British Columbia on account of good roads, and so far as the scenic beauty is concerned Washington cannot compare with British Columbia.

"I think our people here should wake up and see where they are at. The older parts of Ontario where they built permanent roads years ago, are now the most advanced, not because land is better but because of the facilities for moving their produce and enhancing their pleasure and they will find that the same conditions will prevail in a newer country such as British Columbia.

"The people who got the good roads first will be the ones that will enjoy the greatest measure of prosperity and enjoyment.

Two-fifths of the total catch of fish in Canada was taken in British Columbia waters during 1919, and the industry gave employment to nearly twenty-one thousand people, according to statistics compiled by a prominent fishery operator. The year 1920 was equally strong in financial returns, though the actual catch was somewhat lower.

PEACEFUL PENETRATION

II.—BRITISH COLUMBIA AND THE JAPANESE.

By H. Glynn-Ward in Vancouver World

(Published By Permission).

Between the Orient and the Occident there is more than a mere ocean, there is a Great Divide, intangible and insurmountable. The leopard cannot change his spots any more than a white man can be Orientalized or an Oriental be brought to live by the customs and laws of the European. The morals of the one are neither worse nor better than the other; but they are different. So different that an attempt to combine them can result in nothing but disaster.

Marriage between Orientals and whites has never been known to produce anything but degradation for both, because it is an unnatural thing. Therefore, as the Japanese can never in a thousand years assimilate with whites to produce a race desirable as future Canadians, their influx into the country and the hold they are taking thereof is unwise and undiplomatic.

This very question was raised early in the century when the number of Japs pouring in to the Pacific coast roused considerable feeling both in the States and in Canada; and in 1907 when Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the then postmaster-general, went over to Japan to bring about a "friendly agreement" as to restricting immigration, it was agreed that the number of Japanese entering Canada should be limited to 400 a year.

But capitalists—to whom the Japanese are far too valuable to be denied—have not been disinterested enough to support the Government in keeping to this arrangement. In the year 1918-1919, no less than 1,178 Japanese were allowed into Canada, four-fifths of them staying in the province.

Since July 1, 1920, Canada has received 19,886 Japanese, and these figures are last year's. Within the last fifty years the "Empire of the Rising Sun" has developed from a tourists' dream of almond blossom and chrysanthemums into one of the three leading powers of the world.

The envoys of this eastern empire have progressed individually and collectively equally well overseas. The handful of houses where they make their headquarters has grown in a few years to a Jap town rivaling the proportions of Chinatown and spreading to all four points of the compass. Only last week a Japanese paid $16,000 for a lot on Main Street. Their stores—not only of native but of European merchandise—are to be found all the way up Granville Street, the chief street of the chief town of the Province, as far as Twelfth Avenue.

To quote just one fact showing the enormous growth of Japan in world trade: Fifty years ago she had but fifty ships, aggregating a gross tonnage of 18,000 tons; at the end of 1920, she had 1,418 steamers in service, totalling 2,325,266 tons. This phenomenally rapid growth has its counterpart in the growth of her industries in British Columbia.

Even the law admits to having issued 62 per cent. of the fishing licenses to Japanese last year and (as all moderationists know) the law in B.C. cannot always answer for the facts. The number of Jap fishermen steadily increases in inverse ratio to the stock of "sockeye" and a white fisherman dare hardly show his face at the mouth of the Fraser in the season.

Lumber mills and mines are owned and worked by the Japanese and 50 per cent. of the small fruit produced on the north side of the Fraser Valley (the heart of that industry) is produced by them. In the Hatzic district alone, where two or three Japanese bought land eight years ago, there are now between 40 and 50 Japanese landowners, and so far from the Oriental working for the white man, the positions are reversed and every season shows increasing numbers of white men and girls competing for service under the all too successful Japanese growers.

In Japan, the foreigner, until recently, was only allowed to live in certain specified areas, and although a law has been made allowing foreigners to buy land it has never been brought into force, so it is still impossible for the white man to become a landowner in Japan.

The population in Japan is 356.1 per square mile, that of the States is 31.0, and that of Canada is less. Being crowded out of her own country, therefore—and for the last fifty years her population has increased at the rate of 400,000 a year—the law of nature demands that she spread herself over countries less crowded.

We cannot assimilate with either the Japanese or the Chinese, so the question is, can we combat the law of nature? Or shall we find ourselves obliged to move out to make way for the Oriental?

Why The East Wants Daylight Saving

Within a few weeks, the question of daylight saving will probably once more become the subject of more or less heated debate in which business men, city fathers, farmers with cows to milk, mothers with children of school age to look after, and last but not least, railroads with time tables to print and trains to run if possible to the minute, will demand to have their say. The advocates for daylight saving will point out that in England the economy in coal consumption effected by daylight saving during the summer months amounted to $2,500,000, whereas the dairy farmers of the middle west protest that the morning dews and the natural milking time for cows cannot be regulated by clock, while in the North-West where the summer sun shines eighteen or twenty hours a day the mother of seven children wishes to goodness that the darkness and the hour for bed time came twice as soon and lasted twice as long—what she wants is a darkness-saving law.

The demand for daylight saving however, is most insistent in Eastern Canada and the Eastern States and for every insistent demand there is usually a real reason. The reason apparently is that the so-called standard time in force in the area in question varies considerably from the mean sun time upon which the actual length and intensity of daylight is based. Standard time is a convenient artifice established in order to secure uniform time for neighboring communities or places. The sun is travelling from East to West and the noon hour originally travelled with it, but it was found advisable to fix definite areas in which the noon hour and other hours should remain the same for the convenience of the operation of railroads and telegraphs and the transaction of business wherein contracts involved definite time limits.

Such standard time was adopted for the United States in 1883 on the initiative of the American Railway Association, and as the time of the civilized world is by general consent based on Greenwich, England, the meridians selected for the division of the various standards were fixed at the 60th, 75th, 90th, 105th and 120th degrees west of Greenwich, Atlantic standard time theoretically extended from the 60th to the 75th meridian and Eastern standard time from the 75th to the 90th meridian; Central standard time from the 90th to the 105th; Mountain standard time from the 105th to the 120th; and which was Pacific standard time. These times were adopted by law in a number of the individual States, but municipalities have not all followed suit as public sentiment and habits proved more potent factors in fixing the time standards for localities than have State Statutes.

Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, on the Eastern boundary of Atlantic time zone, have used that time for thirty years or more, but it was not until 1908 that New Brunswick, which was in closer contact with the New England States, finally by Act of its legislature adopted Atlantic standard time officially for that Province.

The situation was complicated, particularly in the Eastern States and Eastern Canada, by the railways themselves, where in actual practice it was found necessary to fix the time-breaking zones at terminal or division points. As branch lines have been constructed, the carriers have extended on these the standard time observed at the junction point or upon the main line. There are instances where the branch lines radiate out of one zone into another, thus introducing a time at variance with the theoretical time of that zone. The contention of the railways is that time should be changed only at the points at the terminal of train dispatching districts, when train crews are relieved. They claim it is hazardous to require train crews to change from one standard operating time to another during a trick of duty, and impracticable to have train dispatchers operate trains under two standards of time.

Conflict between the States which have adopted Eastern standard time has been strictly upon the 75th and 90th meridians and the railways which have found this to be not sufficiently elastic, has naturally resulted, as for instance in the State of Vermont, when a Bill has been introduced into the House of Representatives in which one section reads:—

"A common carrier engaged in commerce within this state or between this state and any other state or territory shall not change its time schedules for the movement of trains within the state in order to accommodate itself to conditions outside the state arising by reason of the adoption of any other standard of time by any other state."

Then again the demand for daylight saving has complicated matters. The United States Congress last year passed an Act which defeated the general adoption of the proposed daylight saving, whereas the States of New York and Massachusetts adopted daylight saving, and the New England railroads, in order to reconcile the conflict between the Federal Act and the State Acts of Massachusetts and New York, ran their trains on standard time, but one hour earlier than they otherwise would. The Canadian railways fell into step with the American railways, and in doing so were supported by the municipalities of many of the larger cities which had adopted daylight saving. Now it is noticeable that the demand for adoption of daylight saving time by the larger towns and cities is almost exclusively confined to Eastern Canada, New England States and the City of New York. On examination, this appears to be due to the fact that Eastern Standard time which theoretically extends only between the 75th and 90th meridians has been carried in actual practice a very considerable distance east of the 75th degree. According to this meridian places all of the Province of Quebec, and all of New England, New York City and part of New York State in the Atlantic should belong to the Atlantic Time Zone, and if this time were reinstated there would be little or no call for daylight saving now. The railways have carried Eastern time too far east, and the States and Provinces and Municipalities which have adopted the same time for the sake of uniformity are realizing that this does not correspond with natural time. On the railways, Eastern standard time is carried from Gaspe in Eastern Quebec to Fort William in Ontario, a distance of 25 degrees or 1200 miles instead of the 711.70 miles of 15 degrees.

On eastern standard time as at present maintained in New England and Quebec, the sun rises from May to September two to three hours before the average person is about in the morning, and sets at an equally unserviceable hour. Hence the natural demand for daylight saving legislation in these parts. If New England, Quebec and the Maritime Province were to adopt Atlantic standard time, which is their natural specific time, they would save hundreds of thousands of dollars all the year round for fuel and light, and incidentally the agitation for daylight saving would be buried in oblivion.

BUSINESS INTERESTS

HEAVY FIRE LOSERS

Charged With Greater Portion of Fire Waste—Need for Enforcement of Drastic Legislation.

Canada closed the year 1920 with a fire loss of approximately $27,400,000, equal to $3.42 per capita on an eight million population, or $17.10 per family—a new record, and one worthy of much thought.

An analysis of this fire loss discloses certain facts which are not creditable to the business life of the country, and which account, in part, for our high cost of protection in Canada, as compared with Europe. One-half of the fire waste was due to 72 fires, practically all in commercial property. Fires causing damage of $10,000 and over numbered 801, and these again were largely in business property.

A question which every business man should study is, "Why these fires?" Are we more interested in what we earn than in the means by which we earn it?

Are we so intently watching sales that we cannot devote sufficient attention to the plants which make the sales possible?

True, the average business man carries insurance, but this is charged up to cost of production, and the people pay the insurance. Is it fair to the public, however, to charge more insurance cost than necessary owing to failure to protect the plant from fire?

With modern methods of fire protection available, no business man should be permitted to increase unnecessarily the cost of living through neglect or carelessness in eliminating fire dangers. Section five of the Criminal Code as amended says: "Every one is guilty of an indictable offence, and liable to two years imprisonment who by negligence causes any fire which occasions loss of life or loss of property." The rigid enforcement of this section would probably do more to reduce the fire waste than any other influence which might be brought to bear.

The world man owe every man a living, but it takes a hustler to collect it.

MOTOR TAX AND ROAD USE.

Pronouncing the present motor tax as complicated and unfair a writer to the correspondence column of an exchange suggests a percentage tax on the purchase price of every tire instead of a tax based on price, weight, and age of car or truck.

The idea has much to commend it, as under the present method the man who uses his car but little pays as much as the one constantly on the road.

LETTERS FROM THE FRONT.

Few war books published in any country can compare in excellence of taste and beauty of workmanship with this memorial volume recently published by The Canadian Bank of Commerce.

A preface by Sir John Aird, General Manager, shows how heavy a toll the War took of the nation wide institution whose destinies he helps to direct.

A very valuable feature is to be found in the many pages of fine-toned portraits, not only of the dead but of survivors who were awarded military honours.

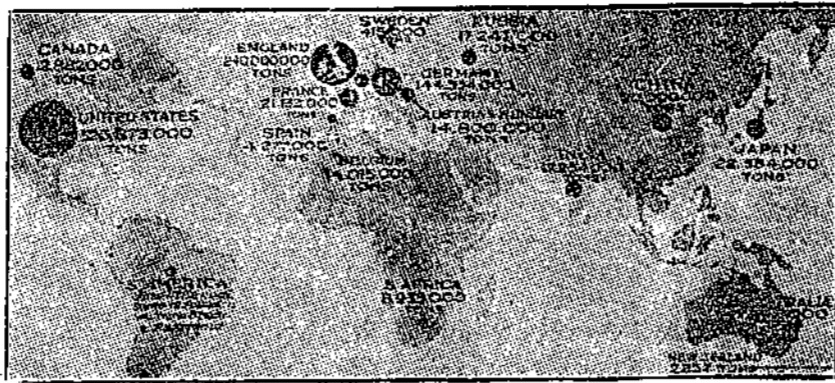

The wealth of sturdy manhood portrayed. A few from the west had friends here in Summerland.

The volume gets its title from a happily inspired plan which originated with The Canadian Bank of Commerce during the War.

In scanning the list of names it is impossible to overlook the large number of enlistments from the Western branches of the Bank.

To the lover of well made books "Letters from the Front" is a joy indeed, and its publication was undertaken as a tribute due to those who served it records.

LOCAL PAPER SHOW WINDOW OF COMMUNITY

Its Value To Neighborhood Depends On Local Merchants.

"One of the best indications of the business spirit of any town is the advertising columns of its local paper," said a successful business man recently.

"Every time I learn of a merchant who does not believe in advertising, my mind goes back to a store in which I worked when a boy.

"Then the store had a musty, dusty odour, and well it might, for its back shelves were piled high with goods that had accumulated each year.

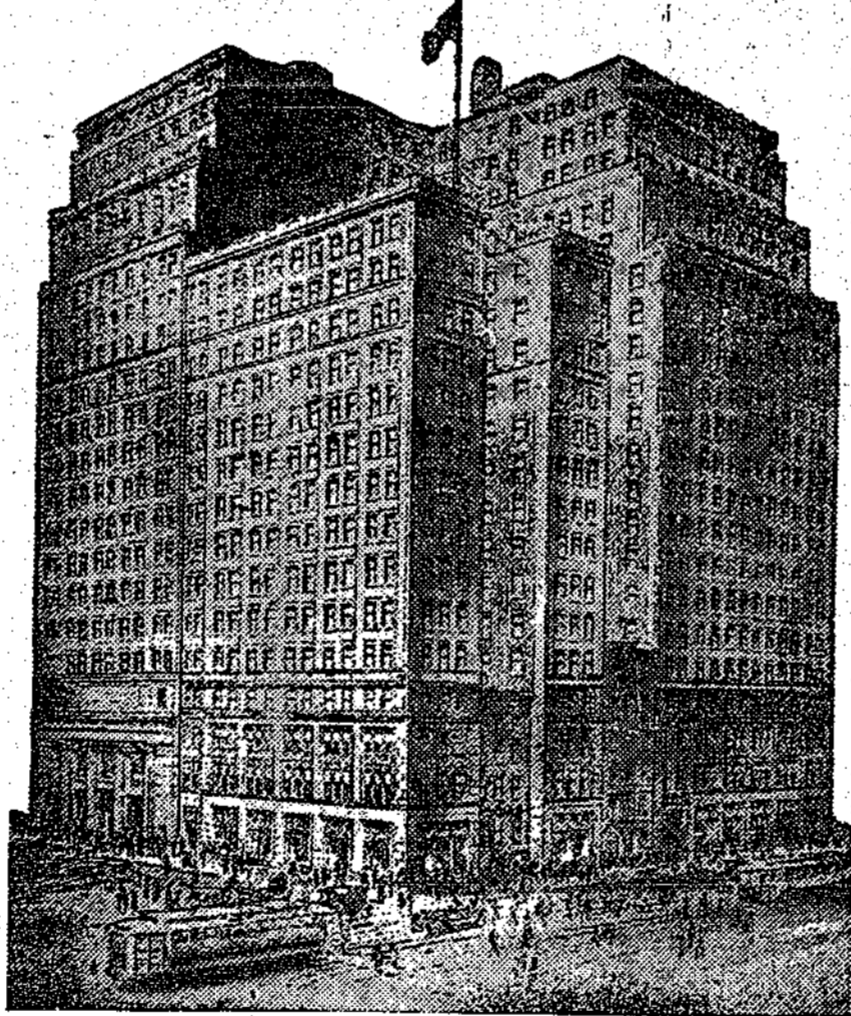

these poorly lighted dusty regions in the back of the store. The merchandise had found a permanent home.

"The sore is still running—but the proprietor is gone. To-day it is doing a large business, for the man who secured it when my old boss had to relinquish it, advertises.

"This merchant's credit is good. He does not require much accommodation, but at any time that he does, his bank will oblige him, for he is progressive."

The incumbent of an old church in Wales asked a party of Americans to visit his parochial school.

New York C. P. R. Building

lems and emergencies, which continually arise in connection with the fruit industry. Emergencies such as tariff, express rates, sugar shortage, etc., have already shown up, it is certain there will always be more to face.

With better organization and a strong reserve fund in the bank, however, fruitgrowers can look forward to the future with considerably more assurance than in the past.

This can be had through the wholehearted support of every grower, in this district, and through the whole this district, and the province, of the Association, which has already done so much for the growers—The B.C. Fruit Growers' Association.

Recommendations in connection with roads include suggestions that men be appointed to watch the roads during the spring freshet; that graders be used frequently in order to prevent washouts; that all gravel be screened or crushed; that a certain proportion of the appropriation for roads be set aside for permanent improvement, such as hard surfacing, and that work should be done by contract wherever possible.

After a salesman had sold a big order of goods to the Scotch buyer for a Chicago store, he sought to make the Scot a present of a box of cigars.

On the members of your committee comes the burden of the work. They are shouldering this because they realize the vital necessity to the fruit growing business of having a strong reserve account.

You will be asked (if not already a contributor) to sign a simple agreement authorizing your shipper to deduct amounts as above from your annual crop proceeds, and pay the amount so collected to the Secretary of the B.C.F.G.A.

NEW "CANADA WEST" BOOKLET

The Review has just received a copy of a new "Canada West" booklet from the Publicity Branch of the Department of Immigration and Colonization, Ottawa. The booklet gives an accurate description of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, particularly with respect to opportunities for farmers. There are many illustrations and double-page maps in four colors of each of the four Western Provinces and of the Dominion.

The "Canada West" booklet has been prepared especially for circulation amongst persons in the Old Country, who would be interested in becoming farmers in Western Canada. Any reader of this paper may have copies of "Canada West" sent to his friends in the Old Country who are contemplating coming to Canada, by sending their names and addresses to the Director of Publicity, Department of Immigration and Colonization, Ottawa. No charge is made, either for the booklet or for postage on it.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

Ladies wore bustles. Nobody had a silo. Nobody swatted the fly. Nobody wore white shoes. Cream was five cents a pint. Most young men had "livery bills." Cantaloupes were muskmelons. You never heard of a "tin Lizzie." Milkshake was a favorite drink. Nobody cared about the price of gasoline. Farmers came to town for their mail. The hired girl drew $1.50 a week. The butcher threw in a chunk of liver. Folks said pneumatic tires were a joke. Nobody "listened in" on a telephone. Strawstacks were burned instead of baled.

WHAT JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING DOES.

Mounted officers were called upon to keep crowds off the trolley tracks in front of one department store when they ran a dollar day sale which was expanded into a three days' sale event. The city fire marshal was called out to supervise the handling of the crowds inside the establishment, and so many women fainted that an emergency Red Cross first aid corps was organized to take care of the bargain hunters.

Yet the manager and advertising man say they did nothing unusual to attract trade, save to advertise and to fill their windows to the roofs with goods on which the cut prices were marked in plain figures, so that all could see just what was offered. In fact, they gave the entire credit for the success of their dollar day event to newspaper advertising.

The advertising carried was of the same type as that visualized in windows. The space taken was used up to the limit, with box effect copy, to show what was on sale and the price. The week before the sale page advertisements were run and the public was informed the goods were on view in the windows. The publicity and the display co-operated to arouse the interest that it was calculated would develop, and when the store opened its doors on the original dollar day the clerks were swept off their feet by the crowd.

In the scramble inside the store a number of women fainted and a first aid corps was organized to look after them. It was discovered that they could not begin to meet the demand for goods that their sale had created and they extended the event another day. The second day also proved inadequate and it took a third day to meet the calls for merchandise.

The experience is considered a remarkable demonstration of the pulling power of intelligently directed advertising. The manager reiterated his opinion in discussing the sale that the full credit for the crowds which swamped the establishment and which brought in two months' business in a day belongs to the newspapers. While the firm has always been strong in advertising campaigns, it declares that it will have even larger appropriations in the future.—Exchange.

Not only are manufacturers, wholesalers and farmers meeting Oriental competition in the markets of British Columbia, but the printing establishments are now faced with similar trade opposition. Orders are being solicited in British Columbia for printing to be done in Japan. Printing is a highly skilled trade, and Canadian printers cannot be expected to work for the same wages that a Japanese compositor can exist on in Japan. It is likely that an effort will be made to induce the Government to compel all foreign printing to be marked with the place of origin.

Large numbers of milk cows will be purchased in Canada and the United States for distribution throughout the dairy districts of British Columbia, if plans which at present are being considered by the British Columbia Dairymen's Association are approved. It is estimated that there is a shortage of at least a hundred thousand cows in the province, also that there is a pressing demand for these animals among new settlers.

FOOD VALUE OF SPROUTED GRAINS.

For centuries the Chinese have recognized sprouted grains and seeds and have used them in many of their dishes. Chop suey, which contains sprouts of rice or beans, is a far better food than is commonly believed. The value of it lies in the fact that sprouting, like malting, makes the starch more digestible. Sprouted grains, beans and peas afford necessary vitamins and are satisfactory substitutes for many of the expensive fruits and vegetables.

A little girl had questioned her grandpa almost incessantly since supper-time, and now that her bed-hour had arrived she had one more question to ask. "Grandpa," she said, "were you in the ark?" "No, my dear," he replied. "Then," said she, "how came it that you wasn't drowned?"

"We in British Columbia are a peculiar people," declared a delegate to the Boards of Trade Convention at Vancouver. "We think that the people of other parts of the world are more capable than we are; that the workmen somewhere else are more competent than those in this province. This is evidenced when we would rather choose an article of foreign manufacture than one made by our neighbors. Remember how it was argued that B.C. could never build ships. To-day there are no finer steel vessels afloat than those we build. It is the same all the way through. We are just as capable and just as skilful—or more so—as the people elsewhere—but we lack confidence in ourselves."

Scientific Irrigation to Barren Business Newspaper Advertising is to Business Enterprise what irrigation is to barren lands. It is a vital necessity. The land has in it the source of fruitfulness. The water alone is required to render it fertile. Thereafter the thing is a matter of industry on the part of the planter. Supply does not create demand nor does demand create supply—in the first instance. Both are created by Desire; the fruit of Suggestion. Your Newspaper is the most effective channel to propagate the IDEA of Desire and the means of satisfying it. The upkeep of Demand—the cultivation of a sensitive and responsive ground, or the REACTION of it, is another phase of the subject. That is the province wherein modern advertising operates. All the great merchants you ever heard of were, and are, bountiful users of Newspaper Advertising. Eaton, Wanamaker, Marshall Field, Selfridge, Harrods, Hudson's Bay Company. Isn't that your cue? ## .. The Winding Trail ..

The High Cost of Dying

We have got more or less hardened to the high cost of living in these days, and have at least the hope that matters will improve—if we can wait long enough. But the high cost of dying is another thing altogether, and seems to add insult to injury. The case of a young man who was recently killed while working on the Oakalla prison farm affords an instance of exorbitant charges which seems absolutely amazing, and certainly calls for the enquiry which, happily, appears to be imminent. The death of this lad, being the result of an accident on Government work, entailed some compensation to his next of kin, and a grant of $1,500 was made to the mother. But no such sum was received by that beneficiary—$75 was deducted as balance due on the boy's fine, $432 was paid to the undertaker for funeral expenses, and $500 handed to a solicitor, presumably for legal costs of some kind. The remaining $493 was the net amount which the mother actually got, and if the undertaker could only have figured out a few more little items, or the lawyer added a retaining fee to his trifling bill, that moiety might also have disappeared and the account squared to the satisfaction of all parties—except the bereaved mother, who does not seem to have counted for much in the whole transaction. It is satisfactory to know that an enquiry is to be held into this affair, and it is to be hoped that it will be thorough enough to disclose, amongst other things, what department of public accounts was guilty of paying such obviously inflated charges without searching investigation. The member for New Westminster, who very properly called the attention of the Legislature to this incident, claimed that those persons responsible for such fees should be called on for "a decent explanation, if they have one to offer;"—public opinion will probably go farther than that, and demand a prompt refund of excess profits.

Two Object Lessons

If I remember rightly a grower of onions somewhere up north was lately proceeded against for dumping a lot of these pungent vegetables in a spot where they were held to be a public nuisance. The circumstances which led to this injudicious disposal of surplus stock do not much matter. The point is that the grower had lots of onions to sell, and could find no market for them. Bearing this fact in mind it seems quite curious to read the details of another onion transaction entered into last season, having for its foundation the placing of a contract by a B.C. firm for a thousand crates of onions from Australia! As far as the moral of these two incidents is concerned, the fact that the Australian shipment arrived two months late, and was refused, is merely incidental. The feature of general interest lies in the apparent inconsistency of bringing from a far country a class of produce which is extensively grown in our very midst. Doubtless the difference in season entered largely into the matter, but even so there seems to be a certain analogy between such importations and the superfluous carrying of coals to Newcastle.

A second transaction reported from Vancouver last week concerns the importation of a car of apples from South of the border, and its rejection by a provincial inspector as being infected with that deadly pest the codling moth. These apples will go back to the shippers at their expense, and we can sympathise with them on their loss. But had the Government inspector been a trifle lax in his examination, this province might have been invaded by a foe which every apple grower has learned to dread, brought here in a consignment of fruit which is a special product of British Columbia!

These two incidents seem to carry their own moral, which is that we unreasonably import into this country a great deal of produce which might be dispensed with.

Changing the Strain

A very decided difference is noticeable in the refrain now being sung by the boards of trade in the eastern section of the province. The fortissimo vigoroso discord lately heard has now diminished to a pianissimo legato movement, which is much more soothing to the ear. It may be that this change is partly due to the action of the Provincial Association in selecting the Mayor of Nelson as one of the vice-presidents of their organization, or it is possible that some members of the eastern body are somewhat ashamed of the harsh notes recently evolved by some of their colleagues. Be that as it may, the Associated Boards of Trades, whether Eastern or Western, will probably agree that the latter movement is more agreeable than the former. A passing dissonance possibly has its uses, in general affairs as well as in the realm of music, but it can easily be overdone, as it most certainly was in the incident referred to.

ST. PATRICK'S TEA.

The Women's Institute of Naramata celebrated the 17th of March by holding a St. Patrick's tea in the Unity Club house. The room was appropriately decorated in green, shamrock, harps, and other emblems significant of St. Patrick's Day being used in profusion. The tea table, centred with a harp outlined in green was specially attractive. Several little boys and girls dressed in green and white were in evidence among those who served. Mrs. J. M. Robinson and Mrs. Howard Rounds poured tea for the first hour, and were succeeded by Mrs. Wolstencroft and Mrs. Fred Simpson. Among those who helped serve were Mrs. T. Kenyon, Mrs. D. O. Hughes, Miss Dorothy Arnold, Miss Marjorie Green, Miss Vera Partridge, Miss Salting and Miss Margaret Mitchell. A candy stall was conducted by Miss Dorothy Arnold and Miss Florence Lyons.

A varied and interesting program was given during the afternoon. Mrs. Walters kindly played while the guests were assembling, and later rendered two vocal solos which were much appreciated. Miss Dorothy Arnold sang "Mother Machree" and Miss Kathleen McConkey sang "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," and danced an Irish jig. Miss Standen gave a humorous reading. Mrs. Green played the accompaniment.

Visitors from Summerland noticed in the gathering were Mrs. Guy Brock, Mrs. Gray and Miss Gray, Mrs. Carlisle and her son, and Mrs. Andrew.

The sum of $25 was realized from the tea and will be devoted toward one of the projects undertaken by the Institute.

Mrs. M. B. Smith moved last Saturday to the new home recently built for her on her fruit lot. Mrs. Eldon Smith and her children have taken up their residence with her for the summer.

Mrs. Campbell Robinson, recently appointed as the third teacher on the staff of the Naramata Superior School, assumed her new duties on Monday morning. An additional room was secured by the School Board in the down town section and has been fitted up to accommodate the new class, and playground space is being prepared beside it.

Various shrubs and plants are being sent to Naramata for the beautification of the school grounds, is the information contained in a letter from Mr. Gibson, playgrounds inspector, to Mr. Rayner, secretary of the School Board.

Misses Dorothy and Gladys Robinson, who have been spending an extended holiday with friends in Vancouver, arrived home on Thursday of last week.

A one time resident of Naramata, Mrs. Mabel Lyons, was a visitor here last week for a few days, staying with Mrs. Mallory. Mrs. Lyons who has been spending a month at the Coast, intends staying for some time in Pentiction before going back to her home in Winnipeg.

Mrs. Wolstencroft is visiting some friends in Pentiction.

Among those who went over from Naramata to attend a dance in Summerland last week were Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Robinson, Miss Dorothy and Miss Gwen Robinson.

Miss Enid Rayner returned last week to Naramata, after an absence of more than a month visiting friends at the Coast.

Mr. C. C. Aitkins returned home early last week after an absence of nearly a month, during which time he visited many eastern points.

Mr. Frank Hughes returned on Friday from a protracted stay in Vancouver.

Many residents of Naramata went down to Pentiction to attend the funeral of Mrs. Isabella Jones on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Interment took place from Baker's undertaking parlors to the Pentiction cemetery.

Mr. W. J. Robinson and his little daughter Jean, and Mr. S. Peacock of Summerland were visitors to Naramata on Saturday.

Mrs. Baker of Vancouver is visiting her son, principal of the School here. Mr. Baker's little daughter came up with her from Vancouver.

A whist drive was held in the Unity Club on Friday night of last week under the auspices of the Women's

Black Predominating.

It is natural that since automobiles have found their way into every part of the world, the drivers would vary in appearance, and in attire or lack of attire, according to the customs of the countries in which the motor car is called to do service. If you were to walk along the road leading from the west coast of equatorial Africa several hundred miles into the interior, for instance, you might see a motor truck, plowing through the jungle, and in the chauffeur's seat driving with peculiar and cheerful abandon, would be a West African native. And from the appearance of his driver's uniform, it would be evident that the high cost of clothing would bother him not one whit. These natives become full-fledged chauffeurs within two or three weeks from the time they see their first motor vehicle. The trucks, of which there are about 200, maintain regular schedules as feeders to a large steamship line plying between West African ports and Europe and America. They are loaded with men and supplies on the inland trips, and with cocoa products, palm oil, hides and rubber when bound for the coast.

PRINTING PRICES

EAST and WEST

During the recent dispute in Vancouver between employing printers and employees, references were made to the fact that higher prices would force Vancouver printing orders to Ontario where wages were lower.

This catastrophe has been averted.

But, do you know, those same prices that were to have tempted Coast orders to the East are being quoted by us?

Some weeks ago we adopted a scale of printing prices that is being very extensively used in the cities and towns of Ontario, and in many of the centres of the Middle West and Eastern States.

With modern equipment and a full range of papers and other printing materials, we are in a position to do your work well and expeditiously and at

Prices that are Right
