Newspaper Men Get Eye Opener in Boat and Motor Excursion through Valley

Journalists Royally Entertained Everywhere and Shown Something of Orchard Areas—Will Go Home to Tell Readers of Glories of the Okanagan and Boost for Consumption of British Columbia Fruits.

Many columns of free publicity for the Okanagan will result from the visit here last week of the newspaper men of Alberta and British Columbia.

The glories of our scenery, the extent of our orchard tracts and the delights of our tree ripened fruit will be emphasized at much length out of genuine enthusiasm contracted, especially by the Alberta visitors, during their three or four days' stay in the Okanagan. There were, too, a number of editors of British Columbia papers who, until last week, had but a faint conception of our fair Valley, who will have considerable to say of the products of its orchards, the beauty of its scenery and the hospitality of its people.

Okanagan publishers in 1914 had about completed arrangements for entertaining the newspaper publishers of Alberta and British Columbia in August of that year, but when Germany started on her rampage, all thoughts of the convention were abandoned. The gathering at Vernon last week was the fulfilment of the 1914 program.

Both the daily and weekly newspapers of Alberta were represented, one delegate coming from as far as Peace River. British Columbia visitors included several from Vancouver Island and from as far north as Vanderhoof.

Okanagan publishers are greatly indebted to the boards of trade, women's organizations and many others for the generous manner in which they entertained the visiting members of the Alberta Press Association and the B. C. and Yukon Press Association.

Joint and separate business sessions were held in the Court House at Vernon on Thursday afternoon and evening and on Friday morning and afternoon, when some very excellent addresses were given on several phases of the publishing business, some of them dealing in a very helpful manner with the responsibilities of the editors of the weekly press. A short time was also given to an expert who dealt with the subject of costs and cost finding methods principally dealing with the weekly cost of publishing a newspaper.

Following a motor drive up the Coldstream Valley or in other sections of the Vernon district, the editors and their wives and relations who accompanied them, were taken to the Country Club at Kalamalka Lake, an ideal spot, where a delightful lunch was served on the lawn under the trees. This was followed by an informal program of speeches and singing. Later, the club provided orchestral music for dancing. For the ladies of the party and those of the men who wished to attend, tickets were provided for afternoon and evening entertainments at the Empress Theatre on both Thursday and Friday.

The club rooms of the Vernon Club were also open to the visitors, who, at the opening session had been welcomed to the city by Mayor Costerton, and the Alberta publishers were given a hearty welcome to the province by Dr. K. C. MacDonald, M.L.A.

Leaving Vernon at 8.45 Saturday morning, the party was conveyed directly to Kelowna by the S.S. Okanagan. There they were met by numerous waiting cars, which spread about the district, some going in one direction and others in another, as the time allowed was not sufficient to cover more than a small part of the district. At 12.30, dinner was served in the Aquatic Club by the citizens of Kelowna, the ladies, of course, taking the leading part. Orchestral music was furnished during the stay at the Aquatic Club house.

A few brief speeches were indulged in and like some of the speakers at Vernon, Mayor Sutherland, of Kelowna, impressed upon the Alberta visitors the economic relation of the two provinces. B. C. is the natural market for much of the product of field and farm and coal mines of Alberta, while the people of B. C. look to Alberta for markets for their fruit, lumber and fish. Unless Alberta bought from B. C., the people of B. C., would not have the wherewithal to buy Alberta products.

Leaving the Orchard City at 1.45, the jolly party continued south and arrived at Summerland two hours later. The time between Kelowna and Summerland, as between the Landing and Kelowna was spent mostly on the decks enjoying the scenery and sunshine.

All too brief was the time allotted to the citizens of Summerland for giving the visiting members of the press a glimpse of the orchards of the district, but many, when they returned to the boat, expressed surprise and delight in the extent of the orchard area and the beauties of the district.

At Pentiction, cars were waiting, and a tour was made about the district which included Dog Lake and a run over the benches.

At the Aquatic Club the party were the guests of the Board of Trade, and the ladies of Pentiction had another bounteous repast prepared.

Until the departure of the boat at 9 o'clock, the visitors had the freedom of the city, tickets having been provided to the dances at the In-cola Hotel.

Sleeping accommodation had been provided on the S.S. Okanagan and after breakfast at Vernon, those going both east and west were taken in coaches attached to a fast-freight going to Sicamous.

Fruit in abundance and in great variety was literally kept before the visitors throughout their stay in the Valley.

Great credit is due to the Okanagan United Growers for the splendid display of fruit made by them and they certainly deserved and received the gratitude of the visitors for keeping them well supplied. At the Vernon Country Club a table had been tastefully laden with fruit.

WAR PRISONER GIVES UP FIGHT

Mr. H. Fletcher Loses in Long Fight Against Disease—Has Military Funeral.

As a result of illness contracted while a prisoner of war, Mr. H. Fletcher died at the Summerland Hospital on Friday. A semi-military funeral was accorded him, the service being conducted under the auspices of the local G. W. V. A.

Mr. Fletcher was born at Buxton, Derbyshire, England, 35 years ago, and came to Canada in 1908. Enlisting in 1914, he was taken prisoner by the enemy in 1915 and spent three years and eight months in different prisons in Germany. He returned to Canada about a year ago, and later bought a ranch near the K. V. R. bridge, overlooking Trout Creek Canyon, where he and Mrs. Fletcher have resided until his removal to the hospital a few weeks ago.

The funeral service was held at St. Andrew's Church, Rev. W. A. Alexander officiating, burial being in the cemetery at Peach Orchard.

Officers of the local G. W. V. A. acted as pall-bearers and were Ned Bentley, F. J. Nixon, W. Atkinson, S. Bartholomew, S. A. MacDonald and A. B. Morkill.

The coffin was covered with the Union Jack, with the trench hat and medals of the deceased on top, and was followed by the returned men of this district, who turned out in good numbers. While the remains were taken, into and out of the church, these brother soldiers stood at attention, and during the service Ben Newton sang a solo. At the graveside the "Last Post" was played by George Guy.

MONDAY NEXT IS LABOR DAY

Monday next, September 4th, is Labor Day. Stores and business offices generally will be closed, though following Sunday as it does, it will be impossible for packing houses handling perishable fruit to suspend work for the holiday.

The duck shooting season begins on Saturday and no doubt many will spend the holiday with their guns. No local program of sports has been arranged. Many motorists will no doubt take advantage of the week-end and holiday to visit their favorite camping and hunting ground.

SHOOTS GRIZZLY AT SHINGLE CREEK

Pentiction, Aug. 30.—A full grown grizzly bear was shot this morning near the house of an Indian, Eneas Saule, who lives about nine miles out of town, on the Shingle Creek road. Eneas came into town this morning with his eight-year-old son, who, he said, was the one who had shot the bear. The bear was coming down toward Saule's house when the boy shot him through the lungs. This shot did not stop "Bruin" and the boy fired again, the second shot passing through the animal's brain.

DRAWING FROM RESERVOIR ON CANYON CREEK

Hot Weather Caused Falling Off of Flow in Trout Creek—Showers Welcomed.

The irrigation reservoir on Canyon Creek was opened on Tuesday night. The warm weather of last week-end had the effect of rapidly cutting down the flow in Trout Creek and the municipal authorities decided to open the Canyon Creek reservoir in order to maintain the supply in the main canal.

Cooler weather and showers this week have done much to maintain the flow from several sources. When the showers came on Wednesday, the reservoirs at the head of Trout Creek were about exhausted. The Canyon Creek reservoir is always the last to be tapped on Trout Creek. There is still a fair flow coming from the Garnett Valley reservoir.

On Wednesday the Fruit Union office staff moved into their new quarters south of the Storage building, where they will have better accommodation than afforded at present, in addition to which the vault recently erected will also be available.

MARKET OUTLOOK IS BRIGHTER

Better Prospects of Reasonable Prices for Main Apple Crop.

M. G. Wilson, President of Fruit Union, Makes Some Forecasts.

Peaches which have been arriving at the Union are running very small, according to Mr. M. G. Wilson, president of the Fruit Union. He attributes this principally to insufficient thinning.

Peach prices are likely to rule low, according to Mr. Wilson, who stated that the season had promised well, but the fruit situation in the United States had broken the market. Canneries had started out with offers of five cents a pound for canning peaches, but while he could not state what the growers would receive, Mr. Wilson thought it would be approximately 2 1/2¢.

Thanks to the canneries controlled by the growers a much better price than this would be paid for apricots. Having the O. U. G. Fruit Products Co. plant to which to divert a considerable part of the crop, the O. U. G. was better able to control the price. He expects that from 5¢ to 6¢ will be paid the growers for "cots."

The cherry crop has been a good one both in quality and quantity and while the pools have not been closed, Mr. Wilson predicts a price of about 9¢ for best varieties.

That apples are likely to be the best source of revenue and that later varieties will bring reasonably good prices, is the hope expressed by Mr. Wilson. Recent developments have tended to strengthen the market for late apples, and it is believed that the chaotic condition of the market will be entirely removed before winter apples are rolling.

LIGHTING SERVICE WAS INTERRUPTED

A "short" on one of the main feeders in the electric light system at Pentiction was the occasion of frequent interruptions in the service here on Wednesday evening.

Each time the electricians there connected up with the Kootenay Power Co.'s mains, the breaker was blown, which cut off the lights here. This interruption continued for some hours until the trouble in the Pentiction circuit was finally remedied.

PREPARING FOR APPLE SHOW

A short meeting of the directors of the Agricultural Association was held on Wednesday evening, at which matters in connection with the coming fair were dealt with. Arrangements were made to complete the canvass of the various districts before the end of the month.

SCHOOLS WILL OPEN ON TUESDAY NEXT

Summerland public and High schools will begin the fall term on Tuesday next immediately following Labor Day.

Until the new Central School Building is ready, the old building will be used by Principal MacDonald and his staff, and the High School, in charge of Principal Lundie will hold classes in the Methodist Church and Men's Club building.

Contractor Carson confidently predicts that the new building will be ready by October. When ready the High School will move into the present Central building.

MAY BE COMPELLED TO SCREEN DITCHES

The question of whether all irrigation ditches will have to be screened in order to prevent the destruction of fish is a matter which will probably become a live question in the near future. The Dominion fish authorities have taken this matter up. In this connection there is a fortune awaiting the genius who can produce a practical screen, one which will prevent small fish from getting into the ditch and at the same time will not block up the ditch.

CODLING MOTH INVASION IS NOW UNLIKELY

Prompt Action of Officials Has About Removed Immediate Danger From Infection.

Discovery last fall of the codling moth at the Dominion Experimental Farm had the effect of creating a near panic among the fruit growers.

Very gratifying are the answers received from time to time to questions by The Review with respect to this menace. Up to the present but one single worm has been found, although a most vigilant watch has been kept.

Following discovery of the moth at the Farm, a quarantine area was established, and every tree within that area was banded and has been carefully inspected. It is now believed that the moths found at the Farm last fall were a few of a late brood which had escaped from freight cars on the railway siding there. There is every reason to believe that danger from this infection will be entirely removed.

In order to obtain financial assistance necessary to make the exhibition a success, and a committee was appointed to wait on the council in regard to the annual grant.

Okanagan Fruit Growers are own Worst Business Enemies say Committee

Prices Cut More by Competition Between Okanagan Shippers in Open Markets Than by American or Eastern Consignors, is Statement—Growers Working in Conjunction With Shippers and Distributors.

Recently a committee was appointed by Okanagan fruit growers to help in effecting closer co-operation between shippers and in other ways attempt to better conditions for growers.

Below is the first report of the committee to growers, which covers fully several phases of fruit shipping and marketing:

Report of Growers' Committee.
The growers are no doubt expecting to hear something from their committee regarding the present marketing situation and general conditions. The following report is presented by the executive committee.

Following the appointment of the growers committee of seven, at the close of the meeting held in the Kelowna theatre, an executive committee consisting of Messrs. L. E. Taylor, A. R. Harmon and C. R. Bull was appointed.

The special objects of this committee may be stated to be:

1. To act as a watching committee on behalf of the growers.
2. To attend meetings of the Traffic & Credit Association.
3. To investigate any complaints made by shippers regarding breaches of faith on the part of other shippers.
4. To report to growers anything which may take place detrimental to their interests.

It was originally intended that the members of the committee should take it in turn to attend the meetings of the Traffic & Credit Association, but it was decided by the association that it would be more satisfactory if, for this season, the same three members would act as the executive committee as they were conversant with the work already undertaken, at the same time the association agreed to allow a substitute if at any time one of the members of the executive committee could not attend. The association pays the actual travelling and hotel expenses of the three members of the executive.

It was made quite clear to growers

WAS RESIDENT OF VANCOUVER

Mrs. Thomas Lafferty Dies at Paradise Harf—Buried Here.

The death of Mrs. Thos. Lafferty, of Vancouver, occurred on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. M. G. Wilson.

The deceased came to Paradise Ranch two months ago in ill-health, hoping to be benefited by the Okanagan climate. For a time she seemed to improve, but during the last few days, the paralysis from which she had been suffering, became rapidly worse.

A son and daughter had been with her at Mr. Wilson's ranch and her husband came in last Wednesday to remain for a few days. Another son at Troy, Montana, was telegraphed for but arrived by motor from Wenatchee after his mother had passed away.

The funeral was held at 9.30 on Monday morning, interment being at the Summerland cemetery.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. Hugh Sutherland, a well-known contractor of Winnipeg, and her husband manager at Vancouver of the National Pole Company.

During a recent thunderstorm at Salmon Arm, a lad of 15 was struck by lightning. His father and uncle, nearby, rushed to him thinking he was dead, but in a few moments he had recovered consciousness, and within an hour was in practically normal condition. The only way in which this rapid and complete recovery can be accounted for is that in falling the boy cut his hand with a knife he was holding at the time the lightning struck him.

ers from other sections of the province that the growers' committee as constituted, was purely a local one and that it did not wish to assume the position of a representative committee of all growers.

Owing to the lateness of the season and the difficulty of calling a representative meeting of growers from all parts, it was decided with the approval of many growers from other sections that the local committee should act as a representative committee for this year, with an executive as outlined above. It was suggested that the best means of appointing this committee next year would be by election at the annual meeting of the British Columbia Traffic & Credit Association, which is to take place at Kelowna in January next.

The above explanation of the constitution of the committee is given so that there may be no misunderstanding on the matter. The executive committee have attended five meetings of the Traffic & Credit Association, and have held many meetings themselves. In addition, this committee is in daily touch with marketing conditions and have devoted a considerable amount of time to investigating complaints, etc.

Traffic & Credit Association.
It is a pleasure to be able to report that the relations between the committee and the association have been most cordial, and it cannot be denied that the influence of the growers has done much to hold the shippers together.

The committee cannot emphasize too strongly the importance to the growers of having such an association of shippers properly functioning. Apart from regulating matters of internal economy, the association forms a medium through which shippers can get together for the discussion of marketing problems and formulate schemes for their mutual advantage and that of the growers.

A new step has been taken by the association this season, in inviting jobbers to attend two of their meetings in order to get their views on the marketing problems and to obtain their co-operation to a greater extent than formerly.

The last meeting, held on the 15th and 16th of August, was attended by representative jobbers from the prairies and Vancouver, as well as a number of growers from various parts of the province. It was noted with surprise and regret, that many of the leading jobbers of the prairies were not represented. This meeting brought out questions of the highest importance to growers and which the committee wish to deal with in detail.

A very lengthy discussion took place on the marketing question. It was agreed on all sides that much of the trouble last year was caused by the shippers starting out with prices higher than the market warranted. This resulted in the backing up of fruit and a consequent consignment market with steadily decreasing prices. It was decided that conditions this year made it necessary to start the market on Wealthies at a low price in order to encourage consumption and clean up this variety before McIntosh came on the market, by which time it was hoped that conditions on the prairies would be materially improved, and it would be possible to obtain at least a small margin for the growers over the cost of production for Macintosh and later varieties. As has already been reported through the press, the opening price on Wealthies was fixed at $1.40 for No. 1's and $1.00 for crates consisting of 2's and 3's. It was pointed out very strongly by your committee that these prices were considerably below the cost of production, but in view of American competition and for the reasons given above, it was decided that such low prices were a necessity if the market was to be established on a firm basis for this season. The growers might note that the Washington

Duck Shooting Opens Saturday, September 2nd

According to a recent order-in-council, the Game Act, which defines the open season for game birds and furbearing animals, divides the province into three districts, one of which, the Easterly District, includes "all that portion of the province situate and lying to the east of the summit of the Cascade Range, and south of the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway."

For Mountain Gout in that portion of the province south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the open season is from Sept. 16th, 1922, to December 15th, 1922, both dates inclusive.

The open season for Bear dates from Sept. 1st, 1922, to June 30th, 1923, both dates inclusive, provided that no bear shall be trapped in any part of the province.

Mule Deer only may be hunted in this district from September 16th to December 15th, 1922, both dates inclusive.

South of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the open season for the trapping of muskrats is from January 1st, 1923, to March 31st, 1923, both dates inclusive.

Greater and Lesser Yellowlegs, may be hunted from the first Saturday following August 31st, in any year to a date three months and fifteen days later, both dates inclusive, viz., Sept. 2nd, 1922, to December 17th, 1922.

For Geese and Brant, the open season starts from the first Saturday next following August 31st in any year to a date three months and fifteen days later, both dates inclusive, viz., from Sept. 2nd, 1922, to December 17th, 1922.

Grouse and Ptarmigan (except Prairie Chicken, Sharp-Tailed and Pinnated Grouse) may be hunted in this district from Sept. 23rd to October 31st, both dates inclusive, while the open season for Quail is from October 21st to November 5th only, both dates inclusive.

Pheasant cock birds only (except Golden and Silver Pheasants) have only a short open season starting on October 21st and closing November 5th, both dates inclusive.

It should be noted by sportsmen that only the particular big game, furbearing animals, and game birds named, are allowed to be hunted in the Eastern District of the province before-mentioned, which includes South Okanagan.

The bag limit for big game is three deer, all of which must be of the male sex, and three bear (other than grizzly) of which only one is allowed.

In the South Okanagan and Similkameen Electoral District and Salmon Arm Municipality, the daily bag limit for cock pheasants only is four, and the total bag limit 12. For quail, the daily bag limit is 10, and the total bag limit 50.

Throughout the province, the daily bag limit for ducks is 20, total bag limit 150. Geese daily bag limit 10, total bag limit 50; Brant, daily bag limit 10, total bag limit 50.

Black Breasted and Golden Plover and Greater and Lesser Yellowlegs, daily bag limit is 15 in the aggregate of all kinds, total 150 in the aggregate.

Twenty-five is the daily bag limit for Wilson Snipe or Jack Snipe, while the total bag limit is 150. The daily bag for grouse, however, is limited to 6 grouse of any one species, not more than 12 of all species, and the total bag limit is 50.

Every person shall upon request of any constable furnish satisfactory proof to him of the dates on which any big game or game birds were killed or taken.

The prohibitions of the Game Act as to the buying, selling and having in possession of big game are removed in the case of bear in this district from September 1st, 1922, to June 30th, 1923, both dates inclusive.

THE FARMER AND THE RAILROAD WORKER.

The railroaders insist on a certain "standard of living" David Friday, president of the Michigan Agricultural College, states that the persons engaged in railroad transportation number less than 4 1/2 per cent. of the total working population of the United States and in 1921 received 7 per cent. of the nation's purchasing power, while the farmers, numbering 26 per cent. of the working population, received less than 20 per cent. of that same buying power. The figures for Canada would no doubt point to a similarly significant conclusion.

What the farmer did with that 20 per cent. of the nation's buying power is admirably told in a letter by a farmer's wife to the Macon, Ga., Telegraph. Last year they sold $772.06 worth of cantaloupes, paying $611.20 to the railroads to get them to market and netting $160.86. They sold $1,029.50 worth of watermelons, paid the railroads $865.90 and netted $163.60. They sold $2,922.77 worth of peaches, the railroads got $2,109.62, the picking and packing cost $671.25, and they netted $141.90. Their total "profits" came apparently to $466.86, but out of this came the cost of fertilizer, spraying material, etc., and the farmer's wife is begging her husband to give up the business—go on strike, as it were—declaring they were working only for the railroads.

She wants to know if the farmer as well as the railroad man is not entitled to some kind of "standard of living."—Financial Post.

SAFETY FIRST

"Safety first" is a good maxim in most things, but particularly so in relation to the investment of money. The rich may afford to speculate and to take the risks attendant on high rates of interest. Those whose means are moderate must be careful to see that there is absolute security in their investments. For such there is no other form of investment which takes such a high rank, combining absolute security with liberal interest, as the bonds of the Dominion of Canada. Holders of Dominion bonds bearing five and a half per cent., maturing December 1, 1922, can re-invest their money at the same rate of interest by exchanging the old bonds for new ones running for either five years or ten years, as the bondholder may prefer. Arrangements for carrying out this exchange can be made through all chartered banks.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, the Commissioner of Health for the City of New York, told the members of the New York Press Club last week that measles could be wiped out in 48 hours. If every case were isolated for two days, said the Health Commissioner, that would be the end of the disease. Surely a statement of such importance shows more clearly than ever how important it is to make a proper appropriation, so that the health authorities may dominate space in the newspapers to talk to the people on matters of health and sanitation. There is danger in British Columbia when a case of bubonic plague breaks out in Western Asia. The interesting fact is that the danger can be eliminated if our parliamentarians will arouse themselves.

There is seldom an elevator for those who are coaxed in "on the ground floor."

He who knows and knows not that he knows is asleep; awaken him. He who knows not and knows that he knows not is simple; teach him. He who knows not and knows not that he knows not is a fool; shun him. He who knows and knows that he knows is wise; follow him unto the end. This is an old proverb of the Arabs.

EDDICATION.

That ignorance is refreshin', some people seem to think, but I shall never use it as my customary drink. . . . You'll hardly find a pizen that's deadlier than this—it makes me hoppin' mad to hear that "Ignorance is bliss." I don't expect to ever be prorated as a fool, or hear myself referred to, as the kin-folk of the mule—I stick to eddication, as a heap the safest plan to cultivate the nobleness that makes a bigger man. . . .

A surface-eddication, I hardly could endorse. . . . You can't sock wisdom on a man like rubbin' down a horse. . . . You don't heap knowledge on yer skin, the same as liniment. . . . You swaller, an' digest it, or it's never with a cent!

You can garner information with a keen-observin' eye, an' store it in yer attic, till you need it, by-an'-by. . . . You can eat a chunk of wisdom with an appetite that's smart, and it never swells yer head up, nor solidifies the heart. . . . So, I take my eddication, by the good old-fashioned plan, which puts it in the system, instead of on the man!

and was kept replenished as fast as the guests responded to the invitation to help themselves. Even more artistic and tempting was the large table on the "Okanagan," which but for the large supply in reserve, would have been quickly depleted. Fresh supplies of fruit were taken on at Kelowna and again at Summerland. Despite the seeming surfeit, the generous boxes of assorted fruits handed to each of the visitors as they boarded the boat at Summerland were accepted with gratitude. These boxes were handed out by a committee of ladies, each box containing a printed card conveying the compliments of the fruit growers of Summerland. Some of the Alberta editors were heard to say that they had eaten more fruit in that day than in any one year of their lives.

The public and citizens generally of the Okanagan are indebted to the Canadian Pacific Railway for their very generous treatment accorded the members of the press. Prominent officials were on hand to see that everything possible was done for their convenience and comfort, and it is certain that the Alberta and British Columbia newspaper men will long entertain happy memories of the Okanagan, the products of its orchards and the excellency of its railway and lake service.

B. C. publishers have been invited by the Alberta Press Association to hold their next annual convention with the latter at Jasper Park, located on the Canadian National Railway, in the foothills of the Rockies and which is becoming world famous as one of Canada's national play grounds.

In conversation with a representative of The Review, Mr. W. J. Huntingford, editor of The Star, Wainwright, Alta., ex-president of the Alberta Press Association, expressed the hope that the business people of Alberta and British Columbia could be shown the desirability of getting together in such close relationship that the produce of the two provinces could be exchanged to practically the exclusion of similar produce from other countries. "We in Alberta," he said, "should get into our minds a great deal more of this 'buy in B. C.' stuff, and a united effort should be made to get the people of British Columbia better acquainted with our produce."

"This trip," he went on to say, "is probably the greatest eye-opener men such as myself and other members of the association could have had. The vast difference between the produce of the prairies and that of the valleys to the east and south of British Columbia is so magnified at this time of the year that it is beyond a capable and fair expression of opinion. While believing our own fair province of Alberta is most attractive, with its fields of golden grain, being, as it is, practically the break-basket of the world; yet we would not consider ourselves eligible to vie in attractiveness and productivity with the magnificence of what can be truly termed, from a fruit growing point of view, a veritable Garden of Eden."

Other delegates said the task of conveying to their readers, upon their return to their editorial desks, anything like an adequate impression of what they had seen, would be almost a staggering one. One stated the people in his district would be entirely unable to grasp anything about the orchards and fruit growing, but they would open their eyes when he told them he saw alfalfa standing ready for the third cutting on August 26, and that a fourth cutting would be made before frost.

CARD OF THANKS.

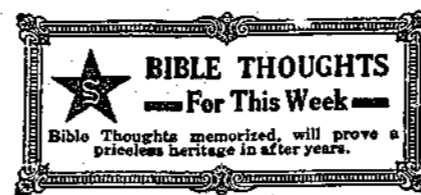

We wish to thank the many friends of Summerland community who have tendered their sympathy for us in our great bereavement. Clifford was taken from us at a time when his life was filled with great promise. The parting for the present causes pain and grief, but we believe fully in the Christian hope. For those who have simple faith in God, death opens the door to a larger, more beautiful and perfect life. The sympathy of friends helps in times of sorrow to maintain courage and hope till the shadows clear away and we see our beloved one again face to face.

SOME HINTS ON PICKING APPLES

The first consideration in picking apples is to handle the fruit carefully. Apples should never be dropped into the picking receptable, but should be placed in without dropping. When allowed to drop the apple that drops is bruised and usually all of those that it strikes in the bottom of the picking bag are bruised. Packing apples even with a small bruise on them is often the cause of decay setting in and is the chief reason for so many re-packs which are very expensive and eat up growers' profits.

Apples are required with stems on. When the stem is pulled out the skin is usually broken and the length of time the apple will keep is shortened. Instruct pickers to get the apples with stems and leave the spurs on the tree.

Windfalls should never be mixed with fruit picked off the tree, but should be picked up separately. If any are to be packed, packing should be delayed for several days in order that any bruises will show so that they may be properly sorted.

AUGUST THINNING TO ELIMINATE 'C' GRADE

(By T. I. Jones, Farm Bureau Thinning Leader, in Farm Bureau News.)

Just because we have given the trees a good thinning and are ready to go fishing, we should not give up the fight now when we have the hardest part of the fight yet to win—the elimination of the culls and C grade apples. When we broke up the clusters and thinned to distance we hoped to get rid of the LITTLE apples, and most anybody could do that kind of thinning, but now we must take off the apples that show scars, sunburn, lack of color, and so forth.

It is safe to say that we shipped 3,000 cars of C grade apples last year and 1,000 cars of little apples—too small to pack—that we lost money on directly. Also they had a tendency to weaken the demand for better grades, thus lowering the price we got for them. This year it is a question whether we can ship any C Grades at all, but we are bound to have some, so let us make the amount so small that we won't have the C Grade problem on our hands next year.

Every rancher ought to take off five boxes of C Grades per day during August, which means 125 boxes per ranch, figuring 1,000 ranches in the Wenatchee district, this means over a million boxes of C Grades and culls off the trees and in the alfalfa where they belong, and not in the packing sheds to give us grief all the season.

We are having a fight against the wormy apple and it pays to keep on looking for him. August requires the most expert thinning of any month we have and it will pay the most for the season's crop. However, it won't help the next year's crop—early thinning is the only way to do that.

Thin early and especially keep after the C Grade during August.

RECITAL PROGRAM PROMISES WELL

Arrangements have been completed for the concert recital to be given in Empire Hall, Sept. 14. Mrs. Herbert McGregor, of Penticon, elocutionist, will assist Mr. Vincent Fink and Mr. Harold Etter.

Mrs. McGregor is a reader of considerable ability. She is a gold medalist in elocution from an eastern university and has appeared on the concert platform in all the principal cities of Western Canada and the Middle States. She has received very flattering press notices from all her engagements and is well known in all the towns in the Valley.

Mr. Fink has studied with Holroyd Paull, of Vancouver, and Ferdinand Fillion, Toronto Conservatory. In addition to appearing in concert and recital work in Vancouver, the Kootenays and Spokane, he has played on several occasions in Toronto, having had the honor of being the soloist at the annual concert of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, Convocation Hall.

The Toronto Daily Star in speaking of Mr. Fink, says: "Mr. Fink played with fine spirit and with all finished technical skill and efficiency," at Convocation Hall, Toronto, 1921.

Harold Etter is a pupil of J. D. A. Tripp, of Vancouver, the well-known Canadian exponent of Leschetizky. In addition to concert solo and accompanying work, Mr. Etter has a church organ experience covering 12

Boy Scout Column

1st SUMMERLAND TROOP B. P. SCOUTS
Headquarters, The Gymnasium.
Scoutmaster, Capt. H. H. Creese.
Meets every Friday evening at 7.30 p.m.

In future, weekly orders will be announced in this column and scouts are requested to make themselves acquainted with them.

Next Friday evening the troop will meet at 7 o'clock in the Ellison Hall, for a "corn boil" at Crescent Beach. Those not on time are invited to try walking.

Last Friday was one of the best turn outs yet with only five absentees, so that a good evening's work was possible. It was quite a novel sensation for some of the boys to do sentry work in the woods in the dark, but the cordon they stretched around headquarters was so good that of the four "spies," only one managed to break through.

We are delighted to hear of the appointment of our S. M., Captain Creese, to the district commissioner-ship. His territory will include as far west as Princeton and south to the border.

(The Diary Continued)

Saturday, July 8th—

I awoke this morning and got up and for a few moments couldn't decide what had happened when at last it struck me that the smoke had cleared away and for the first time we can see across the lake.

Pete gave us a real good morning at P. T., and made us feel quite ready for a swim afterward.

It was with the deepest regrets that we said good-bye to Instructor Payne, who left us today. We only wish he could have stayed longer and we will all miss him badly.

Captain Creese arrived back this afternoon, bringing another tent with him as the troop is rather cramped.

Tonight we had a mighty good camp raid—the best yet. S. M. Creese was in charge of the raiders while A. S. M. Harris was in charge of the guards.

The raiders chased all over the mountainside and led us a merry chase.

While doing a 100-yard sprint after Whiteford, Allen tried a fancy dive, landing on his ear in a rock pile several feet below the road. However, apart from being badly shaken up and slightly damaged in parts he was all right and with the assistance of the troop leader managed to crawl down the cliff into camp, where first aid was given.

We think Ken is qualified for a chiropractor from the way he gave treatment.

Billy Mack came in to night for the week-end, so we have quite a full house now.

Sunday, July 9th—

I awakened this morning at the usual time to wonder what had happened to the bugler, when it suddenly flashed upon me that it was Sunday, so with a deep sigh of relief I rolled in again for an extra hour's snooze. There was no strenuous work this morning apart from eating some of Earl's pancakes, and at 11 o'clock our chaplain, Mr. Solly, arrived to conduct a camp service.

Services in camp are entirely voluntary but when the services started we were all there. It was a good service, even if it was out of doors, and the sermon was enjoyed by us all.

We were expecting a large crowd of visitors in the afternoon, but the dull day kept many away so that 35 was the total. Major Croil and his good ship arrived in the afternoon and offered to take a load for a ride. Of course the O. C. had to send the three leading patrols and so

I managed to be left. I didn't want to go, anyway.

We had a quiet camp fire for a change tonight and several visitors enjoyed it with us before departing.

Monday July 10th—

"Get out of bed! Get out of bed!" What a call—and don't we hate it. The rocks we sleep on always seem like down when that reveille goes. I think the best call is the "Cook House." At least it always gets the boys on parade the most quickly.

This morning I managed to persuade the instructors that I was a good enough man to pass out of the tenderfoot stage, so this afternoon am strutting around a full-fledged second-class scout. The Orangemen have asked us to give a display at their field day, Thursday, so Pete gave us a thrilling hour this morning.

We managed to lead in inspection this morning. We ought to have, because I spent all early morning washing my pants, and even the O. C. had a kind word for me for doing it. I heard one of the next patrol get severely reprimanded for losing some of his buttons, so I am going to make sure of all mine before tomorrow.

This afternoon we did some more decorating of the grounds and I am sure they cannot be improved on. My blanket is almost worn through with carrying sand for the pathways.

We didn't get much of a campfire tonight as Mr. Jupiter Pluvius was among our guests. However, when Bernard and George arrived the rain disappeared and we were able to enjoy a small fire and the eats our visitors brought us.

Oh, horrors! Have just been told I am on breakfast fatigue. What a horrible thought to go to sleep on.

Tuesday—

The chief cook ought to be severely reprimanded for the ungentlemanly way in which he aroused me this morning, and whilst stepping on my P. L.'s chest whilst looking for my socks, was literally thrown out of my home.

There were only twelve eggs for breakfast and 45 all wanting one, but a camp cook has to be prepared for such emergencies. A little flour, a little milk and they were all fooled.

After polishing up the pans and scrubbing the tables, I was told my services were no longer required. I was polite enough not to retort that I thought it was time for a reprieve anyway. I found out that it doesn't pay.

Being a second-class scout now I can try for badges, so decided to pick out an easy one for a starter, so chose the marksmanship. It looks easy in the book, but after I had hit three piles besides the one on which the target was, I was kindly told to try a pop-gun and save ammunition.

However, I got back on the S. M. this afternoon. I did get my swimmer's badge, but the captain tried with a shirt that was several sizes too small and it simply refused to come off over his head. We carefully counted the bubbles that rose to make sure he hadn't died of apoplexy or some other terrible thing known only to the medical fraternity, but after manfully struggling, the shirt won.

Just to spite us, however, he went and passed his athlete's badge and I am still trying to add another foot to my standing broad. I can manage 7 ft. 6, but 8 ft. 6, no. (To be Continued Next Week)

The discovery of part of a whale's head near Vernon over 30 years ago is still the cause of discussion and argument as to how it originally got there. This relic has for some years past been kept by Mr. Leonard Norris at the Court House, Vernon. The generally accepted theory is that at a very remote period of the world's history—many thousand years ago—the Okanagan Valley was an arm of the ocean. It is pointed out that marine shells of various kinds are to be found in several parts of this district.

USE LIVE STEAM TO PREVENT INFECTION

Every precaution is being taken by the management of the O.U.G. Fruit Products Limited, Vernon, to prevent codling moth infection of orchard boxes sent there from this district. E. R. Simpson, manager of the Summerland Fruit Union, has received a letter from Mr. W. J. McDowall, manager of the products company, which states: "In order that there may not be any possibility of infection of boxes from the codling moth, we have made arrangements whereby all orchard boxes sent up here will be treated with live steam under the supervision of the government horticulturist."

Correspondence

To the Editor of The Review:

Dear Sir,—The Review being the only means of local publicity one has, I will ask again for a short space.

I am not surprised at the reception of the question met with by Mr. Workman in those residents with whom he has talked. What does surprise me is that these gentlemen, or any who favor employment of Orientals, will not publicly justify their actions and views. I have never seen in these columns a letter favoring this policy of Oriental employment or land ownership, nor have I heard it defended on the public platform, and I would ask any one who approves of it to speak up and say so through the medium of your columns, Mr. Editor, and to explain how it benefits the country. So convinced am I of the fallacy of that belief that I count it as detrimental to the community, province, Dominion and empire, wherever it is practised.

Touching the docility of the inscrutable Oriental, may I say that he is satisfied by conditions such as no white man should be required to endure. I refer financial and living conditions. But should something occur to earn his disapproval he will be found very "clannish" and the employer may find his employees quitting in a body, just as surely as any white help.

An instance occurred not long ago with a Kelowna packing house which, if I remember, capitulated in face of the threat to work for another "house."

But, Mr. Workman, I fear you have touched on the forbidden topic in referring to "the men who came back." We know that when we are not prepared to accept all just as we find it, and say thank you kindly, we are a nuisance and a blot upon the earth, for Mr. Kipling, in "Mr. Atkins," of Barrack Room Ballads, wrote years ago what is equally true today. But I, knowing of the politically manufactured disruption in our ranks, had purposely omitted reference to that section of the community, realizing from experience the utter futility of butting a concrete wall. Thousands of my old comrades have accepted the same view, but I would remind my fellow citizens that it is not without mental reservation that they do so.

I have eagerly anticipated this week's Review, thinking to read therein accounts of an independent meeting on Monday night and a Board of Trade meeting on Tuesday night last, at both of which one understood there was to be discussion of the question. Two reasons seem possible: First, that no account was given to the press; second, that the whole matter was considered of minor importance and unworthy of further attention. There will be, as Mr. Workman wishes, plenty more taking the matter up—aye, and very actively, too—once it is realized that it is the affair of each individual. That state will only arrive with continued publicity.

I have seen copies of The Summerland Review in distant and unexpected places, and it would be interesting to read the views, of the more scattered readers, be those views what they may.

Thanking you, Sir, in anticipation, I remain,

Yours truly,
ERROLL GRIFFITH.
Naramata, Aug. 25, 1922.

To the Editor of The Review:

Dear Sir,—With reference to Adam Workman's second letter in your last issue, concerning the "Oriental Question," he states that he has discussed this difficult subject with several business men of Summerland and finds that nearly all are inclined to shy off the wages question entirely, but lay great stress on the alleged inability and disinclination of the white laboring man to stick to his job. He further states that this is a calamity under which he has suffered too long.

I would ask Adam Workman to go a step further and discuss this matter with some of the so-called capitalistic fruit growers in our district, who have larger properties on their hands than they can work single-handed and are, therefore, just as dependent on outside help as a bank or any public institution is dependent on its staff. There is one large fruit ranch between here and Peachland which, I believe, almost solely employs Oriental labor, and there are others. Now there is nothing truer than the old saying that "blood is thicker than water," and I firmly believe that every white employer, without exception, would rather employ white labor than Oriental if there were not some very material advantage in employing the latter.

Under existing conditions I do not think that wages play any part in this subject at all, for we have placed the Oriental on such an impregnable pedestal that he demands the same wages as a white man and usually gets them, or if not renders better service for the wage he receives than a white man in the same position. Can Mr. Workman suggest any other reason?

As things are going at present it would seem that before many more years have rolled by the Oriental will be running the Okanagan and other parts of our British Columbia as well. Who is to blame Not the Oriental, for we ourselves would probably do exactly the same thing under like circumstances. No, sir, we, or rather our government, are entirely to blame for allowing the Oriental to gradually acquire the best of our lands. Not only is he acquiring our lands, but I have noticed on more than one occasion that he is employing white labor.

In fruit-growing there are many tedious and monotonous unskilled jobs that should be done to acquire the best results, but which in the majority of cases are left undone simply because, under existing conditions, the grower cannot afford the present high price of unskilled labor, without still further increasing his loss account.

Both the working as well as the businessman of the Okanagan is almost entirely dependent on the prosperity of the fruit-grower and with cheap and reliable rough labor available, bringing in its turn greater prosperity, there would be more work all round for the white man who is willing to give an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

How would it be, therefore, to throw open our gates to the Oriental coolie, under indented labor, but before this is done, make sure that our government legislates to prohibit any more Orientals from acquiring property. Can a white man go to China or Japan and acquire title to property? I think not.

In conclusion, I would like to state that I do not wish for one moment to depreciate the white working man as a whole, for there are many splendid fellows, but there are unfortunately also many who wander from one job to another without giving satisfaction and unable to stick to anything for any length of time.

Trusting I have not encroached too much on your valuable space, I am, Sir,

Yours faithfully,
"ADAM FRUITGROWER."

Peachland Doings

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

The Rev. Mr. Saddler, early last week, attended a meeting of the Presbytery being held in Summerland.

Mrs. and Miss Needham entertained a number of their friends at afternoon tea on Tuesday of last week in honor of their guest, Mrs. E. M. French, of San Francisco, a girlhood friend of Mrs. Needham.

Mrs. J. Michael, Miss Isabelle Ekins and her two little brothers, George and Norman, spent Wednesday in Kelowna.

Mr. W. D. Miller lost one of his cows last week, it having rolled over a cliff and landed on the lakeshore road south of Deep Creek.

A corn roast was given by Mr. Jas. Duncan, of Westbank, to a few of his Peachland friends and relatives. The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Dorland and son Hugh, Mrs. H. McDougall and her sister, Mrs. E. P. Roe, of Naramata; Mr. J. E. Kerr, Mrs. L. D. McCall and her sister, Mrs. R. Houston, of Starbuck, Man.

A party and dance was held in the Orange Hall on Wednesday evening for a few of the girls and boys about to leave to return to the teaching profession after their vacation, or to continue their educational career. There was a goodly attendance, all came prepared to make a jolly evening of it, and apparently there was no disappointment on that score. The music was excellent. The ladies supplied eats and the boys ice cream and they all had a good time.

After a pleasant vacation in Alberta with his married sister, Ray Harrington returned home last week.

Quite a party of folks, many of whom were visitors to town from prairie points, got together on Wednesday of last week, hired the big Kadelka truck, with its many seats, and took a run down to Summerland. They landed up at the Experimental Station about mid-day, where they camped for lunch and after enjoying the sights and hospitality of the station for a short time they turned toward their original objective—the climbing of the Giant's Head. Many of the party made the top and were rewarded with the fine view therefrom, while some of the party were content to take in the view from a somewhat lower altitude. They must have enjoyed a splendid outing for they are not done talking about "the fine time they had." Some of the party had visited Summerland on previous occasions and were much surprised and pleased to note the many changes and the advance the district has made.

The repair work being completed at the power house and the cement being considered sufficiently set to again operate the plant, the lights are again in evidence, much to the pleasure of householder and pedestrian alike.

After a very pleasant visit here with her old friend, Mrs. Needham, and her daughter, Mrs. E. M. French left on Thursday to return to her home at San Francisco.

On Thursday evening of last week C. E. McCutcheon had to take the extreme edge of the road when passing another car on the lakeshore road, in consequence of which his car wheels went down the bank and stalled his auto. It was not until the next morning that he was able to have it running again. From what can be learned, the driver of the passing car "hogged" the road, forcing Mac over the edge. This is a common practice with a great many motorists, and cannot be too strongly condemned. Courtesy on the road is just as necessary as in the home.

On arriving the young people soon constructed a table and set forth a very enjoyable tea, after which games of every kind were played. NOTICE GROWERS' ATTENTION !!

There is a rumor going around the district that the Broder Canning Company are paying more for tomatoes in Kelowna than they are paying here.

This is entirely unfounded, and we challenge any individual to produce evidence to the contrary. $17 per ton is the price here and at Kelowna. We have contracted at Kelowna for 130 acres and at Summerland, 140 acres, and the output up to the present is 14 cars from Kelowna and 4 cars in this district. Consequently, were it not for the fact that 7 cars have been sent to the cannery here from Kelowna, we should not have been able to pack any appreciable amount at all.

The growers here were given the privilege of shipping semi-rips up to the 15th August, and we would be glad if all growers of tomatoes would kindly make an effort from now on to send in all the red-ripe tomatoes they possibly can, as it is not a paying proposition for us to keep shipping from Kelowna, and pay the additional freight charges from that point.

Should the growers hope to have us build a cannery here they must give us their support and co-operation. We realize in a good many instances that the patches are not ripening fast, but we do ask the growers under contract to now give us all possible supply.

Thanking you for your kind courtesy, THE BRODER CANNING CO., Ltd. Per A. G. Williams.

OKANAGAN FRUIT GROWERS ARE OWN WORST BUSINESS ENEMIES

price on Extra Fancy Jonathans is now $1.40.

The question of packing more apples in crates, which has so often been brought up at growers' meetings, was discussed with the jobbers, and the consensus of opinion amongst the jobbers was that the demand for this package was limited, as was also the price which the consumer would pay for it, and that if an orchard run grade only was packed the resulting returns to the grower would be less than under the present system of packing. It was decided that a standard grade should be established for crated Wealthies and the support of the Dominion Inspector was obtained to this end, although being an open package, crates have no legal grading specifications. The object in view is to have a standard grade which will give the consumer good cheap apples without marbles or culls.

Seeing that the growers are forced to sell their produce at less than the cost of production, it was felt that the consumers should be protected against exorbitant charges which might be made by the retailers. The jobbers expressed willingness on their part to reduce their charges of handling to a minimum and suggested that it would be good business to advertise the price at which the consumer should be able to purchase the fruit from the retailer. It is intended to carry out this suggestion.

Dumping. Growers are doubtless fairly conversant with the changes made in the Anti-Dumping Act from various reports which have appeared in the press. Growers are under an obligation to Mr. Bulman for the fight which he put up on their behalf at Ottawa during last session, and also to Mr. MacKevie, M.P., and Mr. McBride, M.P., with other members from British Columbia, who so ably championed the cause of the fruit industry.

Very definite assurances were received from the government that the amended Anti-Dumping Act would be enforced to the full and we are able to state that the government have at last, after receiving very strong representations on the subject, taken steps to stop the dumping, which has already seriously affected our markets. It may be mentioned as examples of what has been done by our American competitors to ruin our markets, that tomatoes have been imported into Vancouver and the prairies at 30c per crate; peaches at 45c and now Wealthies are being offered from Michigan at 50c per bushel. Onions have been offered as low as $14.00 a ton; "C" grade apples are quoted at 70c to $1.00; P runes are offered down to 45c; plums in 4-basket crates as low as 80c. The Department of Customs is investigating the fair value of fruit for customs purposes and fruit is only being allowed entry on condition that the dumping penalty be guaranteed in case it should be shown later that the invoice price is below the fair value.

At the Vernon meeting the endorsement of the jobbers was obtained to the stand taken by the B. C. shippers and growers on the question of dumping on the understanding that the government would be pressed to name the fair market value for duty purposes as soon as possible.

Market Competition. This may be divided into three headings:

1. Internal competition.
2. Competition from other parts of Canada.
3. American competition.

In the view of the jobbers the first is by far the worst competition that B. C. growers have to fear. The worst factor is the shipment of fruit and vegetables on consignment, by irresponsible firms or individuals. It may be well to explain just what effect such shipments have on the jobbers. The jobbers, or wholesalers as they are, have a legitimate position in the marketing circle; they employ travellers to solicit orders from the retailers and they buy produce in car lots for distribution to these retailers; they have to have warehouses in which to store the produce and must pay for haulage from the railway and again to the railway from the warehouse, when re-shipped to country points. For this service they make a charge of from 15 to 25 cents per box and in addition have to stand the chance of bad debts and slow collections.

Many growers consider that the jobber can be done away with and the fruit sold direct to the retailer, but we are convinced that this is impossible under present conditions and where a large part of the business is done at country points. The high rates on L.C.L. (less than carlots) shipments would more than offset the charges paid to jobbers.

Many growers and some small shippers may say that they find it quite profitable to deal direct with the retailer or consumer and this cannot be denied, but the matter must be looked at from the broad point of view of the whole industry. How would it be possible, for instance, to find distribution for say 350 cars of Wealthies by such methods? A few thousand boxes might be disposed of in this way, but what is to happen with the balance? The jobbers would not be interested in them as owing to the reduced number of their customers it would not pay them to send out their travellers to solicit orders. The result would be that a part of the crop might be sold at a fair price and the balance given away and the growers would get nothing.

Consigned Fruit.

Now to consider consignment shipments and their effect on the market. On a firm market the jobbers will buy and pay outright for produce on an f.o.b. basis, knowing that their competitors cannot buy at a lower price and so undersell them. Under such circumstances what happens when cars begin to be shipped on consignment? The jobber to whom the produce is shipped on consignment can sell it for what he pleases, he makes his commission on whatever price it sells at, and if he puts the price lower than that at which other jobbers have purchased outright, he can easily dispose of it and pocket his profit. The jobber who has bought outright has either to keep off the market or sell at a loss to meet the competition of the consigned produce. It is natural that under such conditions jobbers will not purchase outright, knowing that if they hold off they can get what they want on consignment.

Some will no doubt think that in any case the jobbers will pursue this policy, but this is not the case, as all responsible jobbers would sooner deal on a firm market, when they know they can sell their goods at a price which will not be undercut by some other firm. The jobbers want a steady market, then they can push their distribution; on a consignment market they cannot do this, as witnessed last season.

There are various ways a consignment market can be brought about. In the first place the demand may not meet the supply and in consequence the produce may back up at the shipping end with the result that it must either be stored or sent to the market on consignment in the hope that by the time it gets there the demand will have improved. In the case of perishable produce there is practically no option but to consign it and sell it for what it will fetch. In the second place, there is the deliberate shipment on consignment, which is generally practiced by irresponsible growers or shippers and it is these that do irreparable damage to the market. Such firms or individuals have no established channels through which to sell their produce and have to take the chance by consigning it.

Some individuals, who often hail from the prairies, find it easy to dispose of a few cars amongst their acquaintances and perhaps are able to charge them enough to return them a handsome profit, but they give no consideration to the effect that such business has on the general market.

Bulk Apples.

The jobbers have complained bitterly about the shipping of bulk apples by free line shippers from the Okanagan Valley for the last few years. These generally consist of wind-falls and culls, which are only fit to be made into by-products and their sale on the prairies reacts very seriously on the sale of our good fruit.

We fully realize that it is a great temptation to many growers to sell their windfalls and culls in this way, it costs them nothing and it looks like easy money. But do these growers think at all of the effect the sale of such fruit has on the market and do they calculate what their loss will amount to on their good fruit? The remedy for all these ills is in the hands of the growers themselves and unless they make up their minds as a whole to sell only through the properly recognized channels of trade and to look at the matter from a broad point of view, they have only themselves to blame if the market becomes demoralized and they get nothing for their fruit.

The growers have a mighty lever if they like to use it and use it properly. Under the present system of selling on commission to the shippers the growers have a right to demand that their produce shall be properly handled and if not they have the remedy to apply the following season. The shippers realize this and they would be foolish to allow themselves to be found wanting.

Co-operation in packing and handling may not appeal to all growers, but co-operation in organizing and stabilizing the selling end should appeal to every broad-minded grower and your committee cannot too strongly urge the necessity of such action at the present time. Personalities must not be considered in viewing the broader issue of the success of the industry as a whole and any firm or individual working against the interests of the whole should be dealt with without fear or favor.

The committee take this opportunity of once more bringing to the notice of the growers the importance of all shipping firms being members of one central organization such as now exists—the Traffic & Credit Association. Growers are asked to give this matter their very earnest consideration, so that next year we may have an united body.

The second form of competition, viz., that from other parts of Canada, has already been brought home to B. C. shippers this season. For a time the prairies as far as Calgary were flooded with Ontario tomatoes, shipped by express and sold in many cases for less than the express charges. Berries and soft fruits have also been a serious factor in our prairie markets and we are liable to have keen competition in other lines, although the difference in freight rates within certain territory gives us the advantage. The lesson to be learnt from the competition from Eastern Canada this season is the need for closer co-operation between the growers of the East and West, they made no money nor did we.

The third form of competition, viz., that from the States, is one which will always have to be reckoned with and as long as the competition is along fair lines we have little to fear, but should dumped fruit be allowed to enter our markets we might as well pull up our stakes and divert our energy to other channels.

Many people cannot understand why the Americans should wish to dump fruit on our markets. The reason is simple. Their season is considerably ahead of ours and they are able to realize a good price for their produce, when the glut comes in their own markets they are only too anxious to off-load a portion of their surplus, generally of the low grade, in Canada and thus relieve their own markets, causing the price of the higher grades to keep up to a remunerative level.

Oriental Produce.

The committee wish to impress upon growers of vegetables the very serious menace which exists in their midst. Not very long ago a Japanese organization, believed to be from Vancouver, offered the trade on the prairies 40 cars of onions and tomatoes from 175 acres on consignment. Mark you, growers, this was an offer of a straight consignment deal and think what effect this would have on the onion and tomato market. There is no confirmation of this deal having been accepted by any responsible jobbers. There is, however, ample evidence that Oriental produce is being consigned in large quantities to the prairies and also that it has had a very serious effect on the market, in fact, it is the reason why growers today are only getting 1 1/2 cents per lb. for their tomatoes and in many cases shippers cannot handle them at all. It may interest growers to know that P. Burns, Limited, have been retailing these Oriental consigned tomatoes at 50 cents per crate in Edmonton, and this at a time when tomatoes were quoted at about $1.00 f.o.b. Okanagan. These tomatoes are being shipped from Kelowna. The remedy of this state of affairs is again in the hands of the growers, although possibly not for this season. It is for all owners of land who rent outright or on half shares to Orientals to insert a clause in the lease that the marketing of the lessee's share of the crop should be in the hands of the lessor. Unless this is done next year there is no hope for the white grower being able to compete with the Oriental in the growing of tomatoes and onions. It is the thin edge of the wedge this year and will be the thick edge next year unless the growers take the advice now given.

With this in view, growers are asked to refrain from leasing or renting on shares to Orientals for the coming year until a new form of agreement now being prepared by the Traffic & Credit Association is available.

The jobbers have been asked to refuse to handle this consignment business and so help the situation, but their attitude is that it is better for it to be handled by responsible firms than by unscrupulous dealers, who will only further demoralize the markets.

The committee intend from time to time to publish further reports for the information of growers and in the hope that growers may be aroused to a sense of their responsibility and learn to take an active interest in their own business.

Kelowna, Aug. 26th, 1922.

There is considerable complaint among motorists that there are few signs put up at the junction of roads in the lower Okanagan. People from the States and from long distance points can hardly be expected to be conversant with roads they have never travelled on before, and the matter is well worth the attention of the provincial road authorities.

Night School Petitioned For by Young People of This Community

Trustees Taking Matter Up With Department—Preparing to Occupy New Building—Will Have Electric Fire Alarm and Call Bells—Mr. B. B. Robinson, Instructor in Agriculture—Classes Two Days a Week.

Further progress in regard to the completion of the new school building was made at the meeting of the School Board, held on Wednesday evening, at which Chairman S. F. Sharp presided, with Trustees Inglis, Darke and Campbell present. Principals Lundie and MacDonald also attended, the former accompanied by Mr. B. B. Robinson, the newly-appointed instructor in agriculture.

A mimeograph machine for the use of the school staff was recommended and its purchase approved. Chairman Sharp submitted to the meeting a petition from a number of young people asking for the formation of a night school this winter. After considerable discussion it was decided to write the department for further information on the subject, and also communicate with Mr. J. Kyle, supervisor of technical classes, asking him to attend and meet the board and pupils in regard to the matter.

The time is drawing near when, according to Secretary Bowering's report of conversation with the contractor, the formal opening of the school will be possible and it was decided to write the Hon. Dr. McLean, Minister of Education, Victoria, to perform the opening ceremony and also endeavor to obtain the attendance of Dr. A. W. Dennis, president of the B. C. School Trustees' Association, for the occasion. As intimated in The Review last week, the school will be ready for occupation by the first week in October, and the secretary was instructed to give thirty days' notice of vacating the Methodist church premises from the 15th September, in order to give the necessary time for removal of the high school paraphernalia to the present central school building.

Reports as to progress was received from Clerk of Works Jenkinson, showing the total amount of work done as $21,450.00. A special requisition for payments under the provisions of by-law amounting to $16,316.85, which included $15,000 to the contractor, was approved and the secretary instructed to hand same to the municipality for payment.

It was decided to place felt on the floor above the manual training room, in order to eliminate as much noise as possible, and the board was informed that the contractor had offered to do the work if the trustees supplied the necessary material, which would be but a small item of cost.

The question of plastering the concrete foundation outside the building was discussed, and it was decided to have this done at a cost of about $75.

The secretary introduced Mr. B. B. Robinson to the board as the instructor in agriculture appointed by the department. Mr. Robinson, who was formerly at Vernon, comes strongly recommended by Mr. J. W. Gibson, and it has been arranged that the classes at Summerland will be held on Thursday and Friday afternoons, the third year students taking instruction on Thursdays and the second year on Fridays.

Quotations on blinds for the new building were submitted but the secretary was instructed to obtain further prices and submit same at the next meeting of the board.

Principal MacDonald drew the attention of the board to the fact that there were children of school age who had not returned to school, and pointed out that although these children may be wanted to work by their parents, the board had no authority to countenance their absence from school. It was decided to give the absent ones a few more days' grace, after which steps would have

NO FLOW WATER IS AVAILABLE

Government Gives Up Idea of Irrigating Bench Land on Reserve.

The project for the development of the bench lands on the Indian reserve at Penticton has been virtually abandoned, it is stated. The lack of available flow of water, together with the high cost of storage is given as the reason for the decision apparently reached by the government concerned not to proceed with the scheme at the present time.

To go ahead with the development of this bench would require selling land there at a price between $400 and $500 per acre, it is said. This is regarded as prohibitive for farm land. Although the bench portion of the reserve comprises about three thousand acres, not more than one-third of it could be irrigated. The existing records on Trout, Canyon and Shingle Creeks take up practically all of the flow water available, hence almost the entire supply required for the reserve bench

WILL BE FILLING LONG FELT WANT

During the week the C. P. R. pile driver has been driving piles along the inside of the railway spur which extends to the storage building. These piles are just at the edge of the tract of land covered by the buildings destroyed in the big fire.

It is stated that these piles will be planked and that the C. P. R. lots, until recently covered by the Fruit Union buildings, will be graded and tracks laid to provide much needed additional loading accommodation.

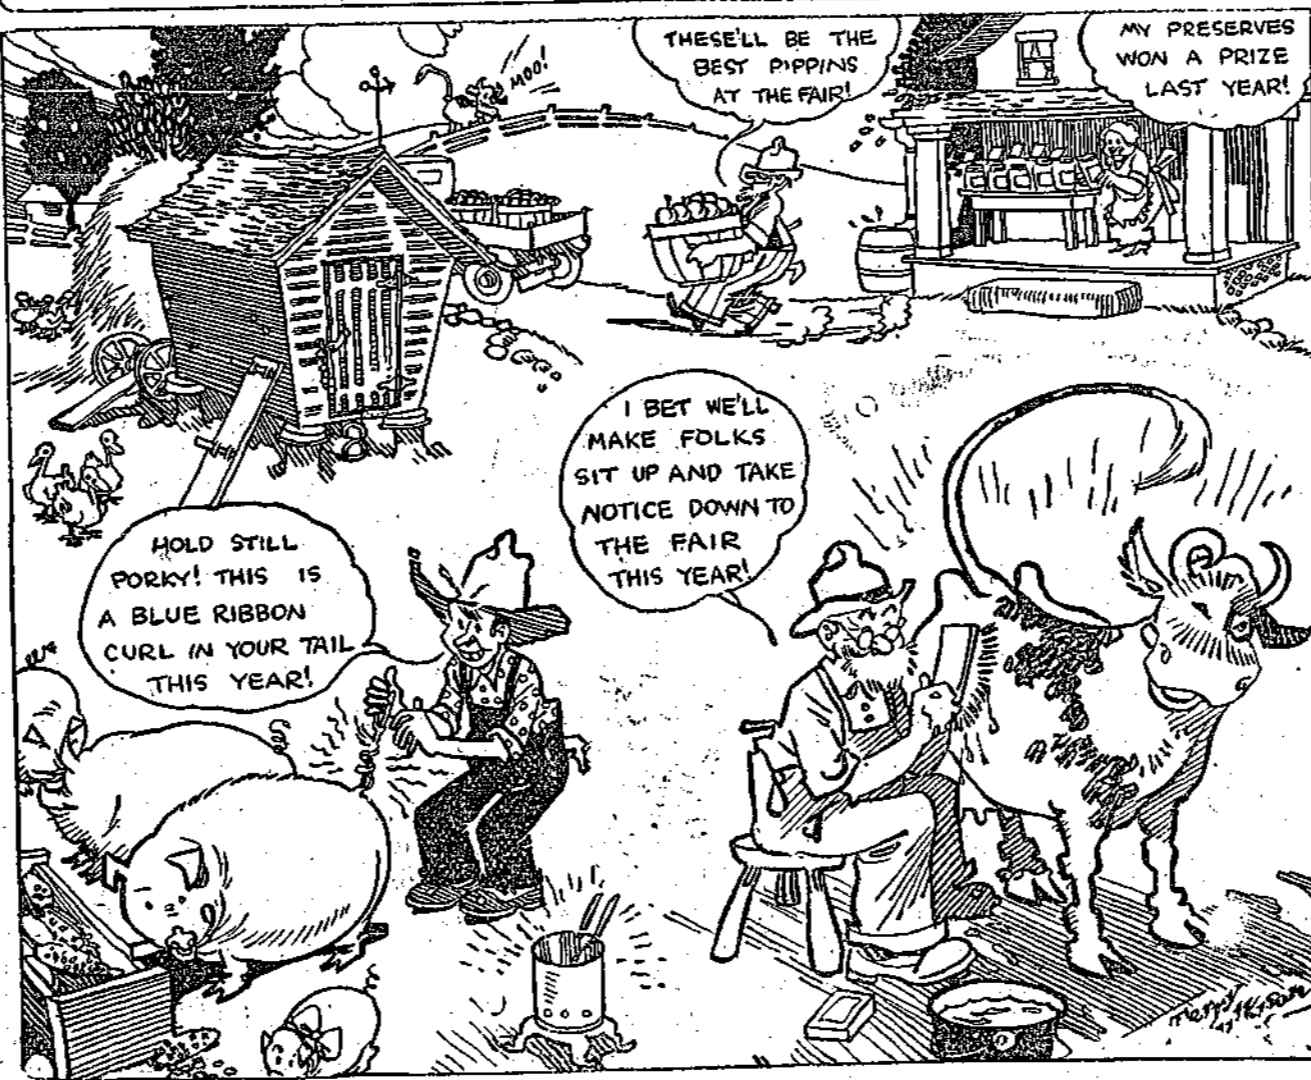

FORMING LAKE ACROSS HIGHWAY

Much to the inconvenience of residents of that neighborhood, water is now covering the road between A. E. Rose's and the G. S. Drewett property to a considerable depth. This part of the road has been wet or under water much of the time and recent showers have added to the trouble. Land adjoining the road is, of course, flooded as well.

From this point a pipe line was laid some years ago through to the canyon, but it has apparently become obstructed or is insufficient to carry off the volume of water running on the flat.

PREPARING FOR THE FALL FAIR

"FREE LANCE" IS KILLING THE FRUIT MARKET

This is Emphatic Statement of Markets Commissioner—Shippers Must Co-operate.

On the subject of the "free lance salesman and his effect on fruit prices," Mr. J. A. Grant, B. C. markets commissioner, says:

Conditions on the prairies are improving slowly from a financial standpoint. Many shipments of pears, peaches, plums and apples are arriving from Washington. Mostly all varieties shipped in are in direct competition with B. C. and the same applies to Ontario shipments. If competition against other parts were the only difficulty, it would be rapidly solved, and B. C. would be in possession of the "lion's share" of all prairie markets. Jobbers complain that they are losing money instead of making it in what should be their harvest time. The reason is, there are too many "free lance" shippers in B. C. who sell for circles of growers, and the chief point in their sales seems to be getting a little below the co-ordinated shipper's price. If they do not authorize this direct, the houses they consign to proceed to do it—the result is the same. The fault does not lie in the number of shippers, but in their "free lance" tactics. A lot is heard about "dumping Washington fruit here," and this is true to some extent, and will be regulated within a few days by the application of the dumping clause. When it does apply, conditions will not improve, due to uncontrolled consignments. B. C. growers will not be able to make ends meet until they have a stronger check upon their "free lance" shippers, and those they consign to. Some of these shippers are members of the Traffic & Credit Association. It appears that a controlled distribution of all B. C. fruit shipped to prairie points is needed, not so much to secure higher prices, but, for the purpose of preventing those to whom it is consigned from breaking the market unnecessarily, and to secure intelligent market information. Some brokers for our B. C. growers are importing fruit in our season from Washington in direct competition with B. C. grown fruit. They have reasons for this. It shows that much consideration is needed in arranging for marketing amongst B. C. organizations to correct this chaos, and make marketing less of a gamble, both to dealer and shipper.

PHEASANTS CAUSE DAMAGE IN GARDENS

Farmers' Institute Hear Excellent Paper on "Fruit Picking"—Thinning Pays Best.

The regular monthly meeting of the Trout Creek Farmers' Institute, held on Monday evening last at the school, was very well attended. Several questions of vital interest to the community were discussed including the proposed district exhibit at the fall fairs and the damage caused by the pheasants in vegetable gardens. The paper for the evening was "Picking, How and When," by S. F. Sharp, and this proved both interesting and instructive. Mr. Sharp contended that no operation in the orchard pays so well as thinning, as this is the best guarantee of a maximum of No. 1's. At picking time it is often advisable to go over the tree two or even three times, picking only the best developed and best colored fruit, giving the remainder a better opportunity to mature. A big percentage of the fruit sent into the packing houses at the present time is graded No. 2, and this could be avoided by proper orchard management.

LOSE 200 CARS APPLES BY HAIL

Omak District of Okanagan Valley Suffers Heavily—Some Insurance.

Hail, on Wednesday of last week, reduced the estimated output of the Omak, Wash., fruit district by 200 carloads of apples. Omak is the big apple producing district of Okanagan County, Wash. The apple crop there this season was estimated at 1500 carloads and the storm has reduced that to 1300.

On Wednesday, August 30th, there were several very heavy storms, in fact, old-timers of the Omak and Okanagan districts say the downpour exceeded anything that they had ever seen in that part of the country. Between 5 and 6 on that evening, during one of the heavy rainfalls, the northeast part of the Omak front benches was visited by a terrific hail storm, bringing ruin, or nearly ruin, to a score or more of fruit growers, who had suffered ill-luck for several years and were looking forward to harvesting their first good crop. One orchard alone was estimated to have 20,000 boxes.

Practically every cost of production had been incurred, the only remaining ones being that of picking and packing. Several thousand dollars had been spent during the early part of the summer in thinning the crop on these orchards. It is stated that but four of those who suffered carried hail insurance.

According to descriptions gathered at Omak, the ground was for a time covered two inches deep with hail. (Continued on Page 6)

GIVES WARNING AGAINST EARLY APPLE PICKING

McIntosh Not Yet Ready and Picking Now Would Damage Reputation of Variety.

A warning against a repetition of the mistake of last year is issued by W. T. Hunter, District Horticulturist, with respect to picking of McIntosh apples. He says: "It is anticipated from advices received that McIntosh picking will probably start this week. If this occurs their movement at such a time to the market will have a very bad effect on the movement of Wealthies." McIntosh are not ready for picking and those responsible for the marketing of our fruit are urged to check, if possible, the desire of a few growers in the Okanagan Valley to pick this fruit prematurely and by so doing not only hurt the movement of Wealthies but damage the reputation of our McIntosh."

EXCEPTIONALLY HEAVY YIELD OF B. C. HONEY

The provincial apiarist has issued the following statement as to the honey crop in B. C. this season:

"There is an exceptionally large yield of honey of first-class quality in nearly all parts of British Columbia this season. It is anticipated, therefore, that the wholesale price of the home-produced article will be around 25 cents per pound. When purchasing honey, buyers should be careful to see that it is properly labelled 'British Columbia Honey,' in accordance with the provisions of the Apiaries Act. The Apiaries Act also stipulates that all honey offered for sale other than British Columbia, must be labelled 'Imported Honey.'"

DATES ARE FIXED FOR FALL FAIRS

For the purpose of distributing the necessary government judges throughout the province to adjudicate the prizes in the various exhibitions to be held this fall, the department of agriculture has divided the province into circuits.

Circuit No. 1 includes the whole of Vancouver Island where fifteen fairs will be held during the month of September, the exhibition at the capital city being from Sept. 18 to Sept. 23.

Circuit No. 2 takes in the lower mainland, where twenty fairs were arranged for, Vancouver being included. The remainder numbering nineteen, will take place in the month of September, New Westminster dates being Sept. 11 to 16.

Circuit No. 3 includes the Okanagan district, where exhibitions will be held at Lumby, Sept. 14; Falkland, Sept. 16; Armstrong, Sept. 19-21; Pritchards, Sept. 20; Penticton, Sept. 20-21; Kelowna, Sept.

Summerland Girl Drowns While on Way to Visit Her Relatives Here

Miss Anna Lister and Mrs. Thos. Steed of Revelstoke, Victims of Accident—Car Slipped Off Edge of Road Into Summit Lake—Mrs. Steed's Body Recovered by Diver—Still Searching for Body of Miss Lister.

26-28; Salmon Arm, Sept. 27-28; Peachland, Oct. 3; Naramata, Oct. 6, and Summerland, Nov. 1-2.

Circuit No. 4 takes in the Kootenays, where 15 fairs are billed during September and October, Nelson being on Sept. 20-22 and Grand Forks, Sept. 28-29.

Circuit 5 covers the northern interior of the province in which eight exhibitions are named during September. Prince George holds a fair on the 4th to the 6th, and Prince Rupert, Sept. 12 to 16. Quesnel, Fort Fraser, Terrace and Smithers are also slated for fall fairs.

While on her way to Summerland to visit her sister here, Mrs. A. J. Beer, Miss Ann D. Lister, a former Summerland girl, met her death by drowning.

Miss Lister, for several years, has been matron of the Revelstoke hospital, and the accident in which she and another of the motoring party were drowned, occurred about eight miles west of that city. In the car coming to the Okanagan were Mr. Thos. Steed, secretary of the hospital, his wife, daughter Miss Lida, and young son, Wilton; Miss Lister, and Donald Adams, a C. P. R. engineer.

According to information so far received here, the party was proceeding west along the new Revelstoke-Okanagan road. Mr. Adams was driving, and in meeting a car, turned out rather widely, with the result that the car slipped off the edge of the road and slid down into the deep waters of Summit Lake, close beside the road. The car immediately sank, carrying with it Miss Lister and Mrs. Steed.

Summit Lake at this point is only a few hundred feet wide and skirting the opposite shore is the C. P. R. track. It happened that train No. 14 was coming along from Vancouver at the time and the accident was witnessed by the engineer. The train, of course, stopped, and railwaymen joined with Mr. Shotton and others to assist in the rescue, but the women were down in many feet of water and were drowned before they could be reached. Allison Shotton, son of the fisheries inspector, dived several times in an effort to reach the women. Dr. J. H. Markland and two provincial constables hurried out to the scene from Revelstoke.

After repeated efforts, the assistance of a professional diver was obtained, and late on Wednesday afternoon it was reported that Mrs. Steed's body had been recovered, but up to the time of going to press, no information had been obtained of the finding of the body of Miss Lister. Mr. A. J. Beer, her brother-in-law, left here by car on Monday for the scene of the accident.

Miss Lister came here from Scotland about 12 years ago with her parents, and other members of the family, and for a number of years resided on their fruit orchard in Prairie Valley. She had many friends here who were shocked to hear of her untimely death.

The parents, Rev. David and Mrs. Lister, are now residing at Nanaimo, and a brother, David, is in Pittsburg. Two other brothers, Frazer, now at Bella Coola, and who will shortly be attending the university, and Ernest, in a bank at Prince Rupert, have more recently left Summerland.

FIRST CHEQUE FROM MOTOR LICENSES

Municipal Treasurer F. J. Nixon received on Tuesday from Victoria, a provincial government cheque for $924.11, being Summerland's portion of a third of the motor taxes collected by the province during the fiscal year 1921-22. This is the first time the municipalities have been given a share of the motor license fees.

Peachland receives $254. Each municipality receives its share of the apportionment on the basis of 50.85 cents per head of population.

In preparing estimates early in the year, cognizance was taken by the municipal council of this source of revenue, and the cheque received will be applied to offsetting the apportionment made for roads in this municipality.

MANY LEAVE TO TEACH SCHOOL

There was quite an exodus of young people from Summerland last week-end. Beside those mentioned elsewhere as going to Normal school, there were twelve or more who left to take up teaching in different parts of the province. Below is a more or less complete list of teachers, together with the names of the places to which they have gone: Miss Thelma Hobbs, Kaleden; Miss Edith Bristow, Nakusp; Miss Susie Wallock, Nakusp; Miss Alva Garnett, Westbank; Miss Ruth Graham, Nanaimo; Miss Jessie Moffatt, Vernon; Miss Kathleen Brown, Vernon; Miss Lucy Hargraves, Glenora; Miss Belle Vanderberg, Naramata; Miss Jean Caldwell, Fairview; Mrs. Roy Eley, Agassiz; P. C. Tees, Vancouver; Joe Gayton, Kelowna.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES IN ORGANIZATION

S. F. Sharp, chairman of the School Board, has been appointed to the executive of the newly-formed Okanagan District Branch of the B. C. School Trustees' Association. Among the subjects discussed at the convention, held at Vernon, was the charging of high school fees to outside pupils.

Mr. John Kyle, provincial organizer of manual training, gave an instructive address on "Progressive Points for School Trustees," which aroused much interest, as it dealt with the small amount of financing night schools required.

BAPTIST CHURCH CALLS PASTOR

At a meeting of the Baptist Church last Thursday it was decided to extend to Rev. L. F. Wallace, of Lawrencetown, Annapolis Valley, Nova Scotia, a "call" to the pastorate of the Summerland church.

At the time of going to press, it is not known whether Mr. Wallace will accept the invitation, or can obtain release from his present duties with the Maritime Home Mission Board.

They call them fall hats because the women fall for them.

The easiest way to be reconciled to age is to observe a few young simpletons trying to act smart.

ANOTHER SLIDE AT MELLOR'S

Okanagan Highway Blocked By Third Slide at This Point.

The Okanagan highway north of Summerland was blocked from 5 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon until 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, by a land slide at H. C. Mellor's.

This is the third large slide that has come down at that point, but fortunately it did less damage to the Mellor property than did either of the other two. On this occasion about 150 feet of fluming was torn away; a few small trees broken and other lesser damage was done.

Though the road was opened about 3 o'clock on Wednesday there was still much work to be done to remove the quantity of earth that came down from the face of the cliff above.

Campers at Crescent Beach desiring to make their way into town on Wednesday, were obliged to leave their cars on one side of the obstruction and arrange for other vehicles to meet them on the south side.

CANNERY CONTRACTS.

In a letter published by the Board of Trade in our current issue, the statement is made that the people of this community, whose word has been pledged in writing with the Broder Canning Company, have not maintained their business honor by complying with the provisions of their contract in spirit and letter.

As pointed out by the Board of Trade, the latter persuaded the company to come to Summerland, and took upon itself to assure them of the support of the growers, and contracts at a stated price were solicited and obtained by the cannery, upon which they formed their decision to erect a factory at this point.

Apart from the existence of documentary evidence which would give the company every opportunity of enforcing their claims, it is the bounden duty of every one who has made such a contract to fulfil its obligations regardless of the fact that a possible increase in returns may be made by selling through other sources. Under the agreement made, each grower was allowed up to the 15th of August to sell independently of the cannery, but after that time all tomatoes contracted for became the property of the company and should be delivered to them, nor should it be necessary for legal action to be taken to obtain redress. The shipping of carloads of tomatoes from Kelowna to keep the factory going, owing to the lack of local supply which in itself would be more than adequate, is a speaking testimony of the breach of confidence displayed by the local growers, and would justify the Cannery Company in refusing to operate here another year. A cannery is a necessity to us, let us retain it.

CANADA AND HEARST.

During the stressful days of the Great War the Hearst publications were denied entrance to Canada, and rightly so. Since the withdrawal of the embargo these same publications are to be found on every newstand throughout the Dominion and are bought by Canadians who do not seem to realize the danger lying in perusal of the insidious attacks upon every British or Canadian ideal which are contained in every issue of a Hearst journal, be it daily, weekly or monthly. Some of the attacks are open and all are scurrilous; but the open attacks only appear where they can appeal to the ignorance or hatred of the reader. These attacks have been recently directed against the crown and the royal family, usually lies cut from whole cloth, but sometimes piffing stories dressed to bring British institutions, customs and manners into disrepute. The journalistic demagogue who makes it an object to continually poison the wells of public intelligence and who controls the policies of the Hearst publications, is the gravest menace that true democracy has to deal with and the greatest enemy of continued peace between the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon race.

There is altogether too much scope allowed for the circulation of the Hearst propaganda in Canada, and there seems to be no means of putting a limit to its poisonous activities except through advance censorship by Dominion authorities. Every issue of any journal published outside of Canada for circulation within the Dominion should be subject to a censorship which would delete stuff such as appears in some of the papers and magazines which at present freely circulate misinformation and falsehood concerning Canada and things Canadian.

If Canada is to develop a true nationality it must be done along Canadian lines, not along lines indicated by men like Hearst and his hirelings.—Kamloops Telegram.

PUBLIC AND ADVERTISING.

Government figures, says a contemporary newspaper, prove beyond dispute that business revival is marked—but by business revival is meant manufacturing and production. Retail trade has not yet caught up. It continues thus:

Close analysis of the situation discloses that the retailers have lagged because they have failed to put into the minds of the people a feeling of confidence that prices have reached the bottom and that better times are at hand.

It is amazing how few retail merchants in the smaller towns realize the value of educational advertising. They are so close to the picture they fail to see its perspective. They look for the immediate dollar and in grasping at the shadow they miss the substance.

The value of advertising is cumulative. Indeed, that is its greatest worth. Eastman has actually advertised the word camera out of the dictionary and advertised the trade-marked name Kodak into the dictionary.

The day of misleading advertising has passed. The public has come to see advertising in the light of news, and it is news. The merchant who advertises tells his story frankly to the public, knowing he will be checked up and courting investigation of his statements and prices.

The advertisement of today is not the subject of suspicion. It is the merchant who is afraid to tell his story over his signature that the public regards with doubt, and properly so.

The boom in retail trade awaits only a little thought on the part of the merchant, plus the fundamental knowledge that advertising is an investment and not an expense and a duty owed to the public whose support is sought.

The whole business structure of the nation depends on advertising. Increased business means greater production, lower first cost, a larger turnover, increased buying, and consequently a saving to the buying public.

The public should support merchants who advertise because they are the constructive force that helps to keep the costs down.

If the average fruit-grower is to hold his place in the sunshine of prosperity he must use his brains.

Some women can't look other women in the face and are unable to resist the temptation to look them in the back after they have passed each other; but what a joke when the same motives actuate both.

Poem by Uncle John

A CATCHY THING.

I run across a puzzle in the paper, t'other day, and though I never try 'em, I read 'em anyway. . . They get 'em up so artfully, to ketch a feller's eye,—with a premium fer the answer, if you want to make a try. . . They put a string of letters, with a third of 'em left out, which all would spell a Statesman that we all had heard about. . . By fillin' in the vacancies which they had hid away, I could earn a hundred dollars, which they'd be glad to pay.

I found it mighty easy to complete the statesman's name. —in fact, it was so easy I considered it a shame to take them fellers' money in an underhanded way—but I sent 'em in the answer, to see what they would say. . . Well, they fired me back a circular, which said I guessed it right, but a hundred other fellers had beat me out of sight. . . They said sech wondrous talent ort to make a feller rich,—an' offered me the agency of salve to cure the itch!

CHICAGO FRUIT MARKET WAY OFF

Here is a report from Chicago on the American fruit and vegetable situation:

America, with its greatest fruit and vegetable crop, is losing millions of dollars in apples, peaches, plums and potatoes daily because of lack of markets. An investigation at Chicago, the nation's market centre, showed commission houses accept only the select or fancy grades, which are often sold as ordinary to get them on the market before they perish. Great quantities of fruit are rotting on the ground due to high freight rates, combined with a bumper crop in every section of the country.

The American Fruit Growers, Inc., which, until this season, did a large national business, has been forced to turn back hundreds of cars on the shippers, H. A. Clure, an official of the corporation, told the United Press. An example of the loss cited by Clure was 30 carloads of potatoes on track here, from Idaho. These potatoes sell for from $1.40 to $1.50. The cost of getting them to market is about $1.45. The grower is lucky if they are not sold at an actual loss.

Apples from Nebraska cost one shipper of five cars from 4 to 19 cents per bushel. They were a fancy grade, but commission men claim they would not sell above 65 cents per bushel, which was below the freight and packing costs. Michigan crops are enormous. Several commission houses admitted sending growers cheques for sums ranging from one cent to one dollar in payment for carloads of fruit after freight and brokers' charges were deducted.

Canning factories in Michigan and Wisconsin are working at top speed trying to preserve huge fruit crops of those states.

A Michigan shipper of a carload of peaches to the Chicago market was notified by the commission house that after selling the fruit, he still owed 3.45 toward paying the freight charges, the sale prices having failed to cover the costs. "I am sending you another car of peaches in payment of the bill," the grower replied.

A Presbyterian Next Time.

Little Mary Lou, aged 6, had always been an ardent Methodist, but was one day persuaded by a small playmate to visit a Presbyterian Sunday school. She was enthralled by the new surroundings and was especially infatuated with the charming young teacher, who had so cordially invited her to come again. "I'd like to," said Mary Lou wistfully, "if I didn't have to go to my own Sunday school. But do you know, if I had my life to live over again, I just believe I'd be a Presbyterian."

GREENHOUSE INSECTS

Advice by Entomological Experts as to Their Control.

"It has been estimated that if all the progeny of a single rose aphid were to survive, they would at the end of the 300 days be equal in weight to the population of China sevenfold," which means that there would be in weight of this one small insect several thousand million pounds! The bulletin from which this quotation is taken treats of "Insects Affecting Greenhouse Plants." The estimated value of crops grown annually in greenhouses in Canada is upwards of three million dollars, and that of the area under glass covers about six million square feet of space. It will, therefore, be admitted that the importance of the industry warrants a study of the insects preying upon greenhouse plants, and of the means whereby they can be kept under control. Remedies of a simple kind are suggested in the bulletin, and the methods of their employment are described. Hydrocyanic-acid gas fumigation can be utilized to control such insects as white fly, plant lice and thrips. The habits and characteristics of every known greenhouse insect are described in text, which is well illustrated. The insects are divided into three classes, namely: leaf eating insects, of which fourteen are dealt with; sucking insects, of which there are seven, and boring or root-destroying insects, of which there are also seven. In addition, the history is given of ten animal pests, such as spiders, slugs, mites of various kinds, earthworms, etc., and of their predacious enemies and internal parasites, which come under the head of "Natural Control."

An Accomplished Girl.

"This is a nice canoe, isn't it, Maud?" said the tall, dark young man.

"Very nice, indeed, Charlie," replied the pretty girl sitting in the stern.

"There's just one objection to it," said the young man.

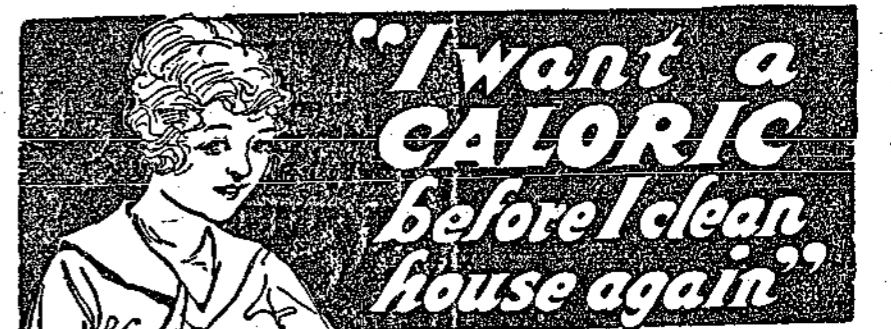

"Indeed! And what is that?" asked the girl.

"Oh, well, you see, if you try to kiss a girl in this canoe there's great danger of upsetting it, and then both the fellow and the girl would be thrown into the river."

"Oh, indeed," said the girl reflectively. And she sat silent for a while.

At length she remarked softly: "Charlie, I can swim."

Hundreds of thousands of women, every spring and fall, must face the drudgery of house-cleaning.

They know that heating stoves and pipe-furnaces fill their homes with dirt, and smoke up the curtains and wall paper, and they want to get rid of these out-of-date methods.

The patented Caloric Pipeless Furnace keeps the fuel, kindling and ashes in the basement—and thereby largely eliminates house-cleaning.

We sell the Caloric on the basis of "Satisfaction or money back." A splendid time to get a Caloric is just before you clean house. The next best time is just after you clean house so that your house may stay clean.

See us at once and learn why more than 125,000 users in Canada, Alaska and the United States prefer the Caloric to any other method of heating.

Correspondence

Impressions, Depressions and Suggestions of a Rancher's Wife.

To the Editor of The Review:

Dear Sir,—This is all about an apple crop from a rancher's wife's point of view. I must say I haven't long been a rancher's wife, neither have we long had a crop. In fact, this is only the second year the ranch has been in bearing. It (the ranch) had a wonderful crop last year, but I wasn't frightfully thrilled. I had an idea that apple trees, upon attaining maturity, always did have crops and wonderful ones at that. Neither was I duly interested at the disposal thereof. I was told that there was an organization called the Union, into whose packing houses the crop was deposited, that there beautiful girls with bobbed hair, packed the aforementioned crop in nice, clean papers and nice, clean boxes, and that after a while another organization, which apparently "bossed" the Union, and was called the O. U. G., sent one's husband a nice fat cheque, whereupon one lived comfortably and happily for the rest of the year and rejoiced in the fruits of the earth.

But it was not so. No fat cheque materialized. A mere miserable pittance found its way into the household coffers, whereas I naturally enquired why it was not so.

And I was told in many ways and at various meetings that the boss organization had a wonderful and all-powerful salesman, who received $10,000 a year and unlimited expense money and could not sell fruit. He could and did let the Americans into our market and he allowed an American storage company (in New York) to collect tons and tons of our money from us by storing apples that were going bad; and he let some more Americans in Minneapolis play about with thousands more of our money and some potatoes, so that we lost our money. I have forgotten what happened to the potatoes. I 'speak they went bad, too. This salesman is an American and philanthropic.

He is our salesman this year as well. But we can all be quite comfy in our minds for I have it on the expert opinion of our president that he is a very good salesman. He has sold all our fruit at cut prices this season and the president of the O. U. G. go around with him to see that he does it and everything is very nice and chummy.

The "boss" organization is philanthropic, too. It lends money, which can't be shown on the yearly balance sheet, for a company to make "shuck" out of jack-pine up in the hills back of Naramata. Some of the members of the O. U. G. have shares, I have heard, in the jack-pine mill.

"Shuck" is the material out of which the apple boxes are made. I thought the word meant "bosh" at first, and that the mill was manufacturing O. U. G. propaganda. But it was not so. Things are not what they seem.

This year, when I saw my husband spraying and sweating and harrowing and discing and thinning and getting thinner, and worrying over money matters and heard him swearing loud and long, I thought and listened and I went to meetings also. All of the men that spoke at the meetings were nice looking; sort of fat and well-fed, you know, and they talked of dollars in the thousands with the utmost nonchalance and didn't seem a bit worried about money. They had decent cars and their suits looked quite new. So though I hear all kinds of rumors about the poor price fruit is fetching and about our brilliant salesman meeting American prices to our loss, and consoling to Winnipeg jobbers, still I take no notice. I feel sure the fat cheque must come along. All the men on the platforms looked so prosperous and spoke so plausibly—mean pleasantly. They also stilled, so men say.

But I really should like to know why "toots" and salesmanship are apparently so inseparable. I am always hearing of the two in connection with each other. It seems there is a strong and not-to-be-severed friendship between the two operations. Notwithstanding the equality of the sexes, I have never heard of "toots" in connection with women. I think it would be just awfully nice, if the women ranchers and the rancher's wives elected a woman to go on the directors' board and go on "toots," too. I do believe in equality in everything—"toots" and cards and all the fun of the fair.

Women are not supposed to be mathematical but I think if they had an accountant or some clever man to explain what happens to the thousands and thousands of dollars that are spent yearly by our various organizations, why they might do as well as our present representatives. I shouldn't think it's very difficult to O. K. expense accounts and unsecured loans.

They might get some nice new suits and a decent car as well. I am sure Lady Astor and Mrs. Nellie McClung would endorse my humble opinion.

GWEN CASH.

To the Editor of The Review:

Dear Editor,—Being a newcomer here, I do not know what sort of arguments were going on before, but I have seen the letter of Mr. E. Griffith, in The Review of 18th inst, and wish to point out a few of the mistakes made by him.

The first point I would like to mention is his loose use of the words "Orientals and Asiatics." I presume that Mr. Griffith chiefly meant Chinese when he used those words, but as it stands, these terms include both the Japanese and the Chinese. Of course Mr. Griffith is not the only one that uses this term Oriental, and its similes, loosely, but it is a fault to be found in nearly all the people that discuss this question. In fact, this fault is so common that we find it hard to realize its importance.

This is a point that all of us who discuss this question must keep in mind. Japanese and Chinese are subjects of two distinctly different nations, and hence, the international complications that may arise from the laws affecting them, will also be different. Apart from this legal standpoint of view, there are many reasons that they should not be treated together. Chinese are notorious for the traffic and employment of drugs, while the Japanese are entirely unconcerned about them; Japanese are said to be extremely patriotic toward their motherland, while the Chinese do not seem to have any patriotism at all. These are examples. Indeed, a careful study of Japanese and Chinese will disclose the fact that they are mentally and spiritually, two different people, with different customs, moral conceptions, and psychologies. As to their racial origins, the number among the world's anthropologists that classify Japanese as of Aryan origin is constantly increasing, and it has now become almost a settled fact so far as the American anthropologists are concerned. Perhaps the only similarity between them is their facial features, but this cannot be a reason for treating them together. If anyone tries to make a reason out of this, he cannot but be affected with instinctive prejudice, which every true Canadian and Christian hates. Thus, the Oriental problem in Summerland should not be treated as one problem, but as two different questions; one affecting the Japanese farmers, the other, the Chinese laborers that have recently entered here.

Turning the point of discussion a little, I next wish to say a few words on Mr. Griffith's idea of the assimilation. First of all, assimilation is a question of biology and psychology, not of politics. I do not know what the profession of Mr. Griffith is, but I am sure he is neither a biologist nor a psychologist. In case my supposition is correct, a doubt arises as to the origin of his assertion that Orientals are non-assimilable. I presume that he has received the information from the speeches and articles of politicians. I admire the way he pays attention to the current questions, but cannot but oppose his policy of taking for granted that what the politicians say on all questions are correct. Assimilation is not a question of politics, as I have already stated, and hence they are no authority on that question. In biology, it is a fact, ever since the days of Charles Darwin, that people, as well as all organic beings, cannot but assimilate to their surrounding conditions, and it is an equally solidly established fact that people's mind evolve influenced to an astonishingly great extent, by surroundings. Turning the viewpoint from theoretical to practical, I have personally conducted a close study of the assimilability of Japanese, and have come to the conclusion that they are one of the most assimilable peoples of the world, and my statement is endorsed by all the professors that have studied the Californian Japanese, such as Dr. Tishberg.

There is still one other point that I wish to comment on. When Mr. Griffith stated "they depreciate the value of property in any place in which they settle," he was showing his ignorance as to the Japanese farmers in this Summerland. I sincerely advise him to look into the matter. Next, when he stated that this "may be proved by each individual asking himself whether he would prefer a circle of Oriental neighbors round his backyards to one of white men," he was doing nothing but to inflame our inherent weakness, namely, the prejudice. Is this not against our principles of Christian humanity?

Thanking you for your kindness for allowing the public a space in your paper, and sincerely expressing my delight to see men like Mr. E. Griffith paying so much attention to the current questions, I remain,

Yours very truly,
S. COBE.

Summerland, B.C., Aug. 30, 1922.

To the Editor of The Review:
Sir,—All who appreciate the economic or aesthetic value of game in this district were delighted with the marked increase of the mule-deer last season, and the unusual quietness of the does proved that the clause protecting these was fairly well observed. Remarkable, too, was the number of rifles left in the hills to send out an occasional report after the season was closed.

Also, the Blue and the Ruffed Grouse that we saw dwindle almost to the zero point, are increasing, and are this summer comparatively numerous about here.

Now and again an impatient sport with a rock or two is seen admiring a quiet covey; listen, and a yarn of hard luck is spun that should wring the heart and send one weeping away.

But what can be said of that which hides itself and 12-bore under the respectable cloak of a motor-car and comes into these beautiful hills to blight them with its foul-tongued muzzle.

British Columbia has done well, I think, in appointing a game conservation board, but observation leads one to presume that the game laws are particularly for the law-abiding, others, with the exercise of very little art may go potting whenever so disposed.

Peachland Doings

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished by Our Local Representative.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Keyes had a short visit from Mr. Lyle Mitchell, of Fort William, Ont., recently. Mr. Mitchell is a nephew of Mrs. Keyes and stopped in on his return trip from the coast to see his aunt, whom he had not seen for years.

Quite a party of visitors left Peachland on Thursday evening for Edmonton, via the K. V. R. The party comprised Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Elliott and family, Miss Campbell and her young nephew, the Misses Smith and Miss Lang. These visitors were more than delighted with the vacation spent here and all voiced the intention of coming again at their first opportunity. Mr. Elliott left some permanent improvements to mark his having been here, these in the nature of much needed brush clearing on Fourth street and a very well laid out and neatly constructed cement walk from the sidewalk into his sister's property. It is to be hoped he will always feel the same energetic spark when he hits town.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Barber, of Salmon Arm, last week paid a short call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Keyes. While here they spent a little time at their fruit lot and took away with them some of the product of the same. They motored down and took a short run down to Pentiction before returning home.

One of Peachland's peach growers has reason to feel highly elated over the praises he has been receiving for some of his peaches. One of the fruit inspectors stated that they were the best peaches he had seen anywhere in the Valley. They were produced by Mr. Evans on the old Maple Point lot and weighed as high as ten ounces each.

Miss Alice Cousins left last weekend for Chase Creek, where she has accepted the school for the coming term. It is not far from the community where she has been teaching for the past term.

Visitors up the lake on Saturday last were Earl Murdin, J. McKinnon, Mr. Carson and Master Joe Hyde and Mr. Wm. Douglas.

Miss Noble, whose application has been accepted by the school board as teacher for the primary department, arrived on Saturday morning's boat and has taken up residence with Mrs. E. House. She has recently completed her Normal training, having taught for a while before taking her final Normal course.

Councillor McGirr has been talking up what a good many people in Peachland feel quite in favor of. It is the matter of cleaning up and improving the park with a view to making it a suitable and convenient tourist camping ground. Mr. McGirr contends that it would make a good asset to the community.

Peachland growers have been fortunate this year to have as good a supply of irrigation water as has been available. The supply is still keeping up quite well, both in the Peachland irrigation district and also in the Trepanier section, which assures ample irrigation for this season.

After a pleasant holiday season spent in Manitoba among old friends Mrs. Murdin and her daughter returned home on Saturday. Miss Murdin is resuming her work on the teaching staff in the Central school.

Speaking Directly Into The Transmitter

Clearness and distinctness of speech is, of course, the foundation of a satisfactory telephone conversation.

The transmitter of the telephone is the result of years of study and experimentation by telephone engineers. It is of delicate adjustment and its fullest effectiveness can only be obtained through proper use.

The lips should not be more than an inch from the transmitter, and the voice should be clear, not loud.

Speak directly and distinctly into the mouthpiece. This will mean your satisfaction and that of the person with whom you are talking.

Tennis was the principal feature of amusement for the afternoon, at which several of the players in the party took part by making up different sets. The others in the meantime arranged themselves in groups about the lawn overlooking the tennis court and while enjoying a social chat watched the activities of the players. After this, lunch was called and a jolly crowd seated themselves around a collection of dainties which had been provided for the occasion, and spread on tablecloths stretched on the lawn. Lunch over, and while the waiters were having their linings, the rest of the party enjoyed themselves in various ways, some in quiet chat and others at games. As the evening shadows fell the call came to go indoors and the remaining portion of the time was spent in song, interspersed with a recitation by Mr. C. G. Elliott and a speech by Dr. Rogers. The party broke up feeling that they had spent a very pleasant evening.

The Cannery. To the Editor of The Review: Sir.—Mr. A. Lock, local manager, has informed the Council of the Board of Trade that a large percentage of the growers here are failing to live up to their contracts with the Broder Canning Co., Ltd., in fact, some have not yet delivered a pound of tomatoes at the cannery. The board realizes that the Broder people could take legal action to protect themselves but that, of course, would be a calamity from the point of view of the community as a whole as it would necessarily result in the cannery discontinuing after this year. At the present time the cannery would have to stop operations were it not for the tomatoes received from Kelowna in quantities three times as great as that received from Summerland. This Board had not a little difficulty in persuading the Broder people to come here and took upon itself the responsibility of assuring them that the Summerland people would give them their hearty support. In violating their contracts the Summerland growers will be breaking faith with this board. We can only urge most strongly upon the growers the necessity of performing their contracts in every respect and encourage the Broder people by our support and co-operation to build a large cannery here. It is of the utmost importance to Summerland that the growers deliver the goods immediately, otherwise, we are assured by the Broder Canning Co., Ltd., that they cannot operate here another year. Yours faithfully, SUMMERLAND BOARD OF TRADE Summerland, Sept. 7, 1922.

At Omak and Okanogan enquiries brought optimistic replies, the impression being that the railway strike will be settled in time to handle their apple crop. Delicious is one of the first varieties to be picked in that district, and a start will be made on these within the next few days. The Omak district shipped nearly 1,000 cars last year and until hit by the hailstorm last week, expected to ship 1,500 carloads this season. Present estimates are 1,300.

1st SUMMERLAND TROOP B. P. SCOUTS Headquarters, The Gymnasium. Scoutmaster, Capt. H. H. Cressie. Meets every Friday evening at 7.30 p.m.

(Diary Continued from Last Week)

Wednesday— Evidently this afternoon is going to see a big affair, as I notice headquarters' laundry is all hanging out, and speak it softly, they are pressing their shirts.

Mr. English's truck arrived for us at 2 o'clock. A Ford will do almost anything, but it will not carry 45 boys, so a passing truck, fortunately, was able to take in the surplus. We arrived at the picnic in due course and am afraid we interrupted an interesting speech in announcing our arrival, but then we had to.

After giving our little turn, which seemed to be fairly well received, we had a well-earned dip and then "blew in" the $5 Mr. Elliott had handed over to the S. M. for the troop. The officers got back to camp first, having commandeered the "Colonel's" famous "Lizzie," and it was with great joy we saw the supper ready.

After supper we repaired to the football field, where many a battle has been fought. I managed to get into the forward line, but Rhodes happened to be a full-back on the opposite side. There is no passing Rhodes. He has a wonderful swing. I know it—he hit me twice, but somehow always manages to hit the ball as well. It seems funny that the side the S. M. is on always manages to win, though I am sure I always put up a much better game.

We discovered some more talent at the campfire tonight. The boys are all coming out of their shells. I just discovered what a wonderful reciter I am, but no one else has. Even the S. M. tried to sing tonight, so the scouts all retired.

Thursday—

Today we were all given orders to get busy on test passing, so the notice board showed pass lists in ambulance, marksmanship, rescuing, athlete and even first-class. Some tried their scout pace, or a mile in 12 minutes; walk 20 and run 20, but only one managed to make it. All the others came in too soon. We had two games of football today, Mr. Solly being referee for the evening.

Friday, July 14— The last full day in camp. What an appalling thought. I feel as though I could stay here forever, but the Gods deem otherwise, and the cherries are ripe.

We managed to get in some more test passing and am just beginning to realize the full significance of the scout movement. Everyone is much quieter today—the same thought of having to break camp running through everyone's mind. However, we all thank heaven we have been allowed two such gorgeous weeks.

The camp fire tonight was a gorgeous success. Everybody made the most of it and the poor officers were nearly driven crazy with questions as to what time the trucks were coming, etc.

The last night in camp is generally a free-for-all, but not this time. We were all asleep at the usual time.

Saturday, July 15— Revellie this morning went earlier than usual and we went through our regular routine of flag lowering and prayers before breakfast. We took our last look at the orders, and then started in to strike camp.

We thought we would get off inspection, being the last day, but it was stricter than ever—even our kits being gone through. It was a good idea because most of us had lost stuff, and most of us had found some, so that everything extra went into H. Q., and it became a regular lost and found bureau. I found my missing toothbrush and one shoe, and turned in a hairbrush and looking glass, so everyone was happy. The first truck arrived at 10, and stones, and the orchards with vetch and alfalfa cover crops looked as though the ground was buried under snowdrifts. At least one large irrigation ditch became choked with the hail, causing the ditch to overflow. The hailstones not only destroyed the fruit but tore the leaves and cut the bark of the trees. A few miles further down the valley the tracks of the Wenatchee-Oroville branch of the Great Northern were buried and it was not till Saturday that trains were again running. Off to the southeast, at Bridgeport, much damage was also done by the storm.

Though hailstorms are not frequent, it is quite common for fruit-growers there to carry hail insurance. A representative of The Review, who visited Omak on Sunday, was told that there had been a hail storm in that district seven years ago. Twenty-five dollars per thousand is the rate fruit-growers there are paying for hail insurance.

The kits packed on board. Then, with a living load, Mr. Campbell drew out.

I was chosen to stay for the second truck, so stood watching them go, singing merrily, but every head turned in the direction of camp until the corner was reached. It was with a queer feeling that I turned and strolled back into camp. What a change in a few minutes—the buzz and babble of 40 boys had disappeared and only the several left for the final clean-up were sitting on the wharf, feeling, I am sure, much the same as I.

When I begin to sum up my feelings as regards the scout movement and why I have had such a wonderful time at camp, I can only say that there is a feeling of brotherhood, a companionship, between officer and man which exists in no other movement. As I look over my record card and see the work I have accomplished at camp—work in such a form as to be pleasant—and think of what I have learned and the good pals I have made, I can only fervently say: "Thank God I am a Scout!"

NEW INSPECTOR FOR OKANAGAN

A new school inspector for the Okanagan district has just been appointed by the Department of Education, Victoria, in the person of T. R. Hall.

Mr. Hall was former supervisor of public schools and principal of the high school at Kamloops, and has already made a trip over his new territory, besides spending some considerable time at Victoria in preparation for his fresh duties.

SQUIRRELS PLAY HAVOC WITH FRUIT

Residents of Kaslo, B.C., and district are having considerable trouble with squirrels this year, much damage being done to the fruit trees. In addition to molesting the fruit crop much damage is being done by the little pests cleaning out the young birds, robins in particular, the nests being despoiled by these marauders.

The squirrels get into the apple trees, bite the apples and mark them, cut the stalks and let the apples drop. This year the apple crop is particularly heavy and will stand a lot of thinning but the fruit growers declare that the squirrels in their "thinning" operations are picking out and spoiling the largest and most perfect fruit.

At New Denver the destruction of birds has become so noticeable that the provincial police are enlisting the services of the boys to destroy the squirrels in large numbers. A similar effort is being made in Kaslo.

IMPROVING DAMS AT HEADWATERS

Work has been started this week on repairs and improvements to the municipal reservoirs at the head of Trout Creek. Number two dam is to be strengthened and a change made in the spillway. For the more economic handling of material a light tramway will be built along the crest of the dam. A channel to divert to number three dam, which, with number two, is above the feeds into number one, water which has been flowing direct to number one and running to waste when that dam has filled, will be dug. The number three dam has not been filling so that the extra water which it is capable of holding will be that much extra in storage.

The work at headwaters will be done under the direction of Coun. Johnston with R. C. Mitchell as foreman. They went up on Wednesday with men, horses and equipment.

U. B. C. STUDENTS PLAN CAMPAIGN

Many Signatures Secured to Monster Petition for New Buildings.

Favorable reports have been received from Vancouver as to the progress of the campaign which is being carried on by the students in favor of more adequate accommodation for the University of British Columbia. At a mass meeting of almost a thousand of the students, held shortly before the close of the last session, it was decided to undertake a campaign of publicity with regard to the needs of permanent quarters at the site at Point Grey.

The first stage of the campaign was to consist in the securing of 25,000 names to a petition that the government take some action to proceed with construction of the necessary buildings at an early date. Each student pledged himself to secure at least 25 names during the summer vacation. It was felt that this would test out public feeling on the matter and would pave the way for a more intensive campaign after college reopened in the fall. The committee in Vancouver which has been working on the scheme during the summer reports that the petition forms have been coming in very well and that the people of the province are evidently in favor of a proper university being established in British Columbia.

The next stage of the campaign will begin in about a month's time, when the students return to their studies. They will send out student speakers to various parts of the province to bring the matter before the attention of the people; they propose setting up a miniature press bureau to spread broadcast through the newspapers of the province news and facts regarding the university; and they plan to enlist the support of Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, Boards of Trade, Farmers Institutes, Labor Unions, and other public bodies to further their project. It is hoped by these means to arouse public feeling over the matter, that the government will be stirred from its apparent policy of apathy towards the university and will give this important educational matter the attention which it deserves.

Wenatchee Offers Jonathans at $1.25—Strike is Affecting Market.

Something of the demoralized condition of the American fruit market is revealed in a recent Wenatchee despatch, published in the "Chicago Packer." It reads:

Wenatchee.—Complete demoralization marks the apple market here. With the Winter Banana crop almost ready to take off the trees, hardly any cash sales have been made to date. Many growers have given up hope of selling for cash and are signing up with the marketing organizations or placing their crops with dealers on commission.

Quotations of Jonathans f.o.b. cars, which started out at $1.65 have dropped to $1.25 and few are being sold at that price. Some organizations and dealers are offering them at less than the above figure without success. The highest cash offer yet made on Winter Bananas was $1.75 to the grower, and this was quickly withdrawn as the dealer received all he could handle within a few hours. For Delicious, $2 is asked by growers for extra fancy, while other varieties are in proportion. Winesaps are in a stronger position than any others. The crop is short and there is still plenty of time for the market to improve before harvest, some crops have been sold at $1.50 for extra fancy to the grower. Never before since 1914 have conditions been as bad here as they are today. The strike and the expected failure of the railroads to move the crop is the final stroke and has disrupted the apple market here. However, Great Northern officials state that they did a year ago, and that they can furnish sufficient refrigerators to handle the crop satisfactorily.

It is predicted here that more than one-half the apple crop will go East unsold this season, either on consignment, into cold storage or in tramp cars. The one optimistic feature as viewed by local dealers is that the low opening prices of apples is sure to stimulate consumption and make a better market later on.

CLOSE CONTRACT FOR EXTENSION

J. J. Blewett Successful Bidder for Building Giant's Head Road Light Line.

Work is to be started shortly on the extension of the electric light lines from S. B. Snider's to Garnett's corner along the Giant's Head road. Four tenders for the contract were received by the municipal council and considered on Tuesday. The Power Company has given the municipality the privilege of running the extension on their poles.

The lowest tender was that of J. J. Blewett for $785.35 and was accepted and the clerk instructed to have contract closed at once. A condition of the contract is that the work must be completed by Oct. 14. Other bids were: O. Atkins, $860.50; Pentiction Electric Co., $861; McSwain, $968.

The estimate given the council by T. P. Thornber, the municipal electrician, was $877.

APPOINTED TO B. C. UNIVERSITY TEACHING STAFF

J. Allen Harris, Summerland School Boy, Will Be Instructor in Chemistry.

Allen Harris leaves here shortly to take a position on the staff of the University of British Columbia. In view of his consistently good work at the university the president recently offered him a post on the staff, faculty of arts, as instructor in chemistry. Needless to say he was quite elated with the offer and immediately accepted it.

It may be news to quite a number of our readers that the position which Mr. Harris goes to fill has just been vacated by a former Summerland school pupil, Miss Ruth Fulton, who graduated from the university since removing from here to Vancouver with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Fulton, some few years ago. Miss Fulton goes to take a more important position on the staff of a California university.

Allen and his elder brother Howell are, we believe, the first Summerland students to take their degrees after passing through both the public and high schools of Summerland, and beside bringing much credit to himself, Allen is winning some distinction for Summerland in having gone straight through the public and high school and on to his university staff. May he meet with continued success.

OIL IN ARMSTRONG.

Armstrong.—Drilling for oil was started on Friday at Lansdowne, near Armstrong. For two weeks gangs of men have been erecting the derricks and making preparations for sinking the wells. American capital is behind the development. Men from the California fields are in charge of the operations.

TWO OLD-TIMERS OF OKANAGAN PASS ON

J. S. Pringle and G. R. Lawes Dead in North End of Valley.

Two of the oldest residents of the Northern Okanagan Valley passed away last week. Both men had resided in this locality for over 35 years; both were 76 years of age, and they died within 24 hours of each other.

John Sidney Pringle, born at Melrose, Scotland, in 1846, came to Canada at the age of 7. He settled in Lansdowne, near Armstrong, in 1885, and erected most of the houses in that early Okanagan centre. Prior to 1885 the late Mr. Pringle was well-known at Victoria and New Westminster. He is survived by two children.

George R. Lawes, who gave the name, Enderby, to the settlement formerly known as Belvidere, was laid at rest Wednesday. Twelve months ago Mr. Lawes was injured by a fall from his wagon, and since then had suffered intense pain. For the past six months he had been confined to the hospital.

Mr. Lawes came to the district 35 years ago, and resided in Enderby ever since. For many years he took an active part in local development. He is survived by his wife, five daughters and two sons.

WEEKLY LETTER ON VALLEY FRUIT CROP

Horticulturist Makes Report on Conditions in the Several Fruit Centres.

Okanagan crop movements and prospects are covered as below in the district horticulturist's weekly news letter:

Vernon, Sept. 8.—The weather has been decidedly cooler the past week with several heavy rains. Wealthies are now moving heavily. McIntosh are expected to be in about the 13th.

Italian prunes are moving heavily and are of excellent size and quality. Pond's Seedling plums are beginning to move.

Early Crawford and Elberta peaches are beginning to move freely.

Kelowna, Sept. 6.—The weather has taken a change, the nights being very cool with bright sunny days. Wealthies and Prunes are the principal fruits coming in to the packing houses. The canneries are still working to capacity and weather permitting, the pack should be a record this year.

McIntosh apples are ripening fast and will be moving in quantity next week. The middle of the month will see them at the peak. Jonathan apples promise to be a good crop and are expected to move towards the end of the month. All other varieties are sizing and coloring well.

Keremes, Sept. 7th.—Wealthy and Gravenstein apples are now finished. Some few McIntosh have been picked.

Early Crawford peaches are nearly all picked and the Elbertas are starting in fair quantities.

Wickson and Black Diamond plums are being shipped. Fourteen cars have already been shipped from here this season. Large quantities of tomatoes are being delivered at the canneries.

Pentiction.—A few Wealthies are being shipped. Kings and Jeffries are passing through the houses. The first McIntosh were observed passing through one of the packing houses in this district on the 6th inst. A considerable quantity of Flemish Beauty Pears are being shipped, while Duchesse are commencing to arrive at the packing houses.

Crawford peaches are about finished, a few Elbertas are being moved through the houses.

Italian Prunes are moving heavily and are a good sample.

Summerland, Sept. 6.—Cox Orange, King and Gravenstein are moving in considerable quantities and are a good sample.

Bartlett pears are nearly over; Flemish Beauty are being picked and are a good sample.

Crawford peaches are nearly finished and the picking of Elbertas is commencing.

Pond's Seedling, Black Diamond, Wickson plums, and Gages are moving through the packing houses.

QUALITY WAS UNEXCELLED

Fruit Sent to New Westminster From Here Was of the Finest, But

More Varieties and More Attention to Arrangement of Display Needed to Bring Home First Prize.

Summerland 870 points
Vernon 880 points
Pentiction 930 points

This is the result of the judging of the district fruit-exhibits sent to the Provincial Fair at New Westminster. Ben Saunders, who returned Thursday morning, was enthusiastic over the comparative quality of the fruit sent down by Summerland. He says that the stuff packed by J. Lawler was perfect. His chief regrets are that more time was not spent on preparing the exhibit and in arranging it in the booth. A larger number of varieties and more attention to display would have brought Summerland the first prize. Vernon had five men and Pentiction four for several days fixing up a background and arranging their displays, both of which, he says, were very elaborate.

Here are the points won by the three districts, those of Summerland being given first; Vernon, second, and Pentiction last:

Apples: 175, 175, 185; Pears, 110, 95, 105; Plums, 65, 70, 65; Peaches, 60, 70, 75; Grapes, 60, 60, 70; Crabs, 40, 40, 45; Plates, 285, 280, 295; arrangement, 75, 90, 90.

The exhibit of the Summerland Experimental Station is described by Mr. Saunders as a highly creditable one.

HOPE-PRINCETON ROUTE A CERTAINTY

Speaking in connection with the report of J. G. Sullivan on the P. G. E. Premier Oliver states that the government has definitely settled on the Hope-Princeton route for the missing link in the trans-provincial highway. It is a definite answer to the advocates of the abandoned railway grade.

It is said there is little chance of the line being abandoned from Squamish to Clinton and the grade being used as the route of the trans-provincial highway. While this was considered by the department of public works and once was thought feasible, it is now a certainty that the "missing link" in the provincial highway system will prove to be the route from Hope to Princeton.

Hon. J. H. King, now federal minister of public works, and former incumbent of that office in British Columbia, decided upon the Hope-Princeton route and if he had remained in office in the provincial government the work would have been commenced this year. Now it is expected that the chosen route will be accepted, but with detours from the original plans, so as to avoid the higher altitudes of Allison Pass.

HARVESTING BIG WHEAT CROP OF HIGH GRADE

Reports From Prairies Continue Favorable—Wheat Moving in Good Volume.

Crop conditions throughout the country are covered by a bulletin just issued by the Bank of Montreal as follows:

General.

In the prairie provinces reports generally continue satisfactory and crops being harvested under favorable conditions. Wheat is coming forward in good volume and continues to be a high grade. Scattered showers in Saskatchewan and rain in Southern and Central Manitoba districts since Tuesday have delayed harvesting. Ontario has a large proportion of the heavy crop of grains under cover. Quebec province has practically completed the harvesting—crop above the average yield. Crop conditions generally are good in the Maritime Provinces.

SOMETHING ON DUMPING OF AM. FRUITS

Weather varied, cool at nights with slight frost. The market has steadied in Washington for peaches and prunes and advances have been made from 5c to 10c per crate. Yakima Bartlett pears (except those in storage) are over. Spokane quotes $1.75 per box for what they have left. The fruit movement from B. C. is heavy. British Columbia shippers are hindered in shipping cars owing to the slow ripening of the Elberta peaches. We see some on this market from Osoyoos of good quality, but small in size. Peach orchards should be well attended to in cultivation and fertilizing as our sizes are usually under the Washington average. A car of Bartlett pears arrived in Calgary late last week from Hatzic, these were marked No. 2. The pack was poor both No. 1 and No. 3, being included in it; they retailed at $1.95 to $2.00 per box. More attention to pack and grade is needed. Vernon shipped some No. 1 and No. 2 Bartletts and our opinion of them is that the No. 2 were the best, the No. 1's were not in that class. The best Bartletts that we have seen on this market were shipped from the Okanagan Valley. The variation in quality is so great that it becomes impossible to fix a value on the best or the worst. B. C. plums are offered in volume, mostly undersized for the variety and prices are low. Wealthies are arriving in bulk, a little off in color, due to picking early. Apart from jobbed Duchesse apples at 80c per box, and 200 Burbank plums at 50c per crate this market is cleaning up nicely.

MARKETS COMMISSIONER TELLS OF SOME RESULTS OF U. S. CONSIGNMENTS.

The raising of rabbits for commercial purposes is now an industry of some magnitude. The commercial rabbit is not just the ordinary "cot-tail" of the bush. Just as there are certain "standards" of dogs and horses, so there are of rabbits. At present there are about 40 recognized standard breeds.

The largest association now operating has about 25,000 members throughout the whole of North America.

A White Flemish rabbit, adjudged to be the finest specimen in America, has his life insured for $1,000. Rabbits are registered and pedigreed and records kept just the same as are horses, cattle, etc. But the breeding of standard rabbits for show purposes is only a side line.

Rabbits are bred for meat and fur. Rabbit fur is very rarely, if ever, advertised as rabbit fur. Nevertheless, rabbit pelts have a ready market. And it will surprise most people to know the uses to which they are put. It has the peculiar quality of lending itself to the imitation of many of our most expensive furs. It is used to imitate such aristocratic furs as ermine, sable, seal, chinchilla and white fox, furs which are out of the power of the majority of people to buy.

Many neckpieces are made from fur of the rabbit. In fact, rabbit pelts make up well over 75 per cent. of the furs worn today, and most of them are made up so that only an expert can tell them from the genuine article.

The general objection to rabbit furs is that they lack durability. This is somewhat unfair to poor bunnies. As on many animals there are two kinds of hair on the pelt of the rabbit, a soft, downy wool lying deep near the skin and a long, thick rough hair which extends over the down and acts as a protection. But in order to imitate the various high-priced furs, these long hairs are either clipped or plucked. Thus the down is robbed of its outer protection and the fur is weakened. No wonder the rabbit fur is said to lack durability. If the outer feathers of the goose are plucked, the soft down will soon disappear.

ABANDON HOPE OF RECOVERING DROWNED GIRL

All Efforts to Find Body of Miss Lister Fail—Believed Lake Will Be Her Grave.

Hope of recovering the body of Miss Anna Lister from the waters of Summit Lake, near Revelstoke, has been abandoned.

Mr. A. J. Beer, brother-in-law of the deceased young lady, returned from the scene of the accident a few days ago after a most thorough search had been made and the body of Mrs. Steed, the second victim of the accident, had been found. A diver had been engaged and he went down many times to different depths, but he found the task a most difficult one because of the nature of the lake bottom which became disturbed by his slightest motion, rendering the water all about him black and opaque. From his experience he gave it as his opinion that the cold water of the lake would not give up the body at any time.

There are many in Summerland who will mourn with her relatives here and at the coast the untimely termination of a bright young life.

OFFERING REWARD.

Some person or persons have been deliberately destroying street lights on the gulch road and at the Mercantile corner, according to a report made to the police commission. After consideration, the commission decided to recommend to the council that a reward be offered for information that would lead to the conviction of the culprit. This recommendation was acted upon by the council on Tuesday and the clerk instructed to advertise the offer.

75 PER CENT OF FURS MADE OF RABBIT SKIN

Bunny Hides to Imitate Ermine, Seal, Sable, Chinchilla, White Fox, Etc.

The incident referred to was a recent collision of the Roe car, driven by Clifford Roe, and the car of A. E. Rose, driven by the owner, and in which Coun. Kirk was also riding.

As described by Coun. Kirk, Mr. Rose was proceeding west along the Giant's Head road and was on the down grade approaching the Dancer corner, when he noticed the Roe car just swinging around the corner on the wrong side. Feeling that otherwise a collision was unavoidable, Mr. Rose pulled off to the left side, clear of the travelled road, but the other car moved in the same direction, with the result that the larger car badly damaged Mr. Rose's right running board and mudguards. The front of the Roe car was also damaged. Coun. Kirk argued that even if the Roe car had been on the wrong side of the suggested twenty-foot strip there would have been plenty of time to avoid an accident.

Punishment for driving around a corner faster than ten miles an hour rather than limiting the margins of the road, seemed to be the plan favored by other members of the council.

It is reported that court action for damages has been taken by Capt. Roe against Mr. Rose.

PARADISE FLAT GETS NEW TANK

With a view to effecting a saving in the cost of supplying Paradise Flat with domestic water during the part of the year when irrigation water is not running, a new tank will be installed there.

This subject has been a frequent matter of discussion at council meetings and on Tuesday Coun. Kirk reported on some quotations for knocked-down wooden tanks and recommended the purchase of one. The old existing tank is wasteful of water, which has to be pumped, and is at too great a height, which further adds to the cost of operating. With the new tank in its proposed position it will be possible to fill it from the irrigation ditch just before the ditch is closed, thus saving that much pumping.

The new tank, which will be circular in shape, will be ordered from a pipe manufacturing company at the coast.

CAR COLLISION BEFORE COUNCIL

Councillor Kirk Proposes Plan to Avoid Surprises at Road Corners.

An automobile collision, in which one driver went to the wrong side of the road after he was convinced that to remain on his own side meant a crash with the approaching car occasioned quite a discussion at the regular meeting of the council on Tuesday, when the subject of better regulation of traffic was introduced by Coun. J. A. Kirk. In this instance, Coun. Kirk claimed, the accident was due to the fact that one of the cars was hugging close to the fence line and on the wrong side of the road when about to negotiate a corner. He suggested that all traffic be kept in a strip of twenty feet along the middle of the roadway by the placing of stones or other obstructions along the edge of the twenty-foot road. This, he said, would prevent cars going too close to the edge and being hidden by trees and shrubs along the fence line.

SUMMERLAND HAS PUBLICITY

Attractively Displayed Exhibit at Sicamous is Splendid Advertisement.

A most interesting and arresting advertising feature is to be seen by the travelling public and tourists at the junction of the Okanagan Valley branch with the main line of the C. P. R. at Sicamous.

At the time, about 7 p.m., that the representative of The Review visited that place, the display of fruits in the special building on the platform, was lit by electric light.

On drawing nearer to make a closer examination of the exhibits, The Review representative was pleasantly surprised to find himself studying an illuminated photograph of his home at Summerland, in which the lakeshore town was depicted as

ALBERTA AND BRITISH COLUMBIA.

A better understanding of the problems of the other and a better spirit of co-operation is sure to result from the visit to the Okanagan by Alberta newspapermen and the return visit to be made next year to Alberta by the B. C. journalists.

Here is what one of the Alberta editors says through his editorial column:

One of the things with which we were impressed while in the fruit growing sections of British Columbia last week was the dependence of the fruit grower and of the whole as well as the lumberman and fisherman of the coast province on the prairie provinces, and particularly Alberta as being the nearest geographically.

People living on the prairies seldom realize how interdependent the provinces of Canada are, one on the other, for their business and their markets. One often hears the remark passed that if this or that article were admitted from some other country free how much better conditions would be, without much thought being given to whether in stimulating trade with other countries or procuring certain things at a little less cost for ourselves we should throw a boomerang which would reflect on ourselves.

The people of British Columbia look to the prairie provinces as a market for their fruit, fish and lumber, and just in proportion to prosperous conditions on the prairies do they enjoy prosperity in our neighbor province. The B. C. people at the present time are intensely interested in the wheat crop here, for they know that when we have good crops they have a market for their fruit, and when crops are poor here fruit sales fall off and only a meagre price is obtained to reward them for their year's labor. American competition has been keenly felt by the farmers across the mountains, who are strongly protesting against unfair methods of United States shippers, who, after capturing the early market, dump their second grades across the line at prices at which our own growers cannot compete.

Alberta farmers raise wheat and other products which are largely bought by the farmers of British Columbia and it is good business to study one's customers' viewpoint in order to promote one's own business. The dependence of the provinces on each other is a subject that has not received the attention it should in times past, but is one that should be given more thought in the future. Only by so doing can we build up a Canada that will be united, strong and self-contained.

DOMINION FRUIT COMMISSIONER.

Mr. Geo. E. McIntosh, Transportation Specialist, has been promoted to the position of Dominion Fruit Commissioner, succeeding Mr. C. W. Baxter, resigned. In his early life Mr. McIntosh was engaged in journalistic work in Lambton County, and took an active interest in the development of the fruit and vegetable industry. In 1911, at the request of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, Mr. McIntosh conducted an investigation into marketing conditions and transportation facilities for Ontario fruits, continuing work along this line on behalf of the Ontario Fruit Growers until 1917, when he was appointed Transportation Specialist in the Federal Fruit Branch. In conducting this work he has been in personal contact with the fruit and vegetable growers, shippers and carriers from coast to coast, and has become thoroughly familiar with the marketing problems of the various provinces. On account of his intimate knowledge of general marketing conditions, Mr. McIntosh is well fitted to take over the duties of Fruit Commissioner.

USING THE NEWSPAPERS.

C. H. Sawle, editor of the Omineca Herald, says that a newspaper, whether a weekly or a daily, is regarded as the one institution in the world which continues to draw manna from Heaven, and thus exists purely for philanthropic purposes.

Owners of newspapers discovered some years ago that the crop of manna was a failure and that there was no seed for further sowing. In other words the press was so put in the brow-sweating class. In recent years the press has endeavored to impress upon the public the difference between advertising and news. Some success has been achieved, but nothing like general success.

Every person, every business and every institution loves publicity favorable, but there are countless thousands who still ask for free publicity. The general public cannot conceive the number of requests for free advertising that the weekly press receives each week, not only from local sources, but from governments, political parties, manufacturers, corporations of all kinds, most lawyers, and wild-catters.

The press asks only for fair consideration. When money is to be made through publicity that is advertising, then the press is entitled to be paid for its services.

There are two classes of free advertising seekers, viz., the possessors or representatives of wealth who figure that their own estimate of their own importance will over-awe the press; the next big class is the timid who have no faith in themselves, ideas, ware or products, but hope to ride in at the expense of somebody else. Both classes are finding the press is no longer conducted without a cost system.

The fair, square, open and above board advertisers find the news columns of the press always open to them, in fact, the press goes out of its way to advance their interests.

One of the greatest pleasures the press has is advancing the interests of individuals, corporations or institutions. But the press is a business and there are certain things money is needed for, such as wages, overhead, living expenses, and then of course there are taxes—strange isn't it? Yet many had an idea the press lived by good deeds alone. The Herald tells you that running a paper is no Garden of Eden existence. And so does The Review.

Fruit growers who cultivate horse-sense will eventually harvest dollars.

After all is said and done, the fittest place for man to live is where he lives for men.

Old "They Say" is the champion liar of this and other communities. Don't listen to him.

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished by Our Local Representative.

The bath houses supplied by the Women's Institute for the benefit of the bathing public have been placed in position. The girls is on the beach in front of The Edgewater Inn and Mr. J. H. Clement's store. The boys is placed on the beach in front of Messrs. Drake & Cudmore's general store. They were erected by Mr. A. W. Miller at the request of the Institute and were built on skids, so they are portable. The younger generation have already been enjoying their use. They fill a long-felt need.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamby and son have been spending several days in town, Mr. Lamby, sr., working in the interests of the B.C. Nurseries. While in the district they have been guests at the Edgewater Inn.

Mrs. L. D. McCall and family had a pleasant, but short visit, last week-end from Mr. and Mrs. Carlton McCall, of Winnipeg, Man., who have been taking a vacation, during which time they visited coast points and called here on their return trip. Mr. McCall was a brother of the late L. D. McCall.

Mr. W. J. Robinson, of Summerland, paid Peachland a flying visit on Friday of last week, motoring up and back.

Mrs. Little, of Wenatchee who, with her husband, now deceased, owned and lived, a few years back, on the fruit lot now owned by Mr. R. Harrington, passed through town with a party of friends who were motoring up as far as Vernon. She met a few old acquaintances and was interested to learn of the doings in their former community home.

On Saturday, Sept. 9th, Mrs. A. J. Miller, president of the W. A. of St. Margaret's church, assisted by the members, gave a 15c tea on the beach below her house. The afternoon being fine, there was a good attendance of townspeople as well as of W. A. members and a very pleasant time was spent. The sum of $16 was added to the fund for painting the outside of St. Margaret's church, as a result of the afternoon's efforts.

Miss Pearl Gellatly, of Gellatly, was a visitor over the week-end at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Sadler.

Mrs. Tinker spent the week-end out of town returning home on Monday morning's boat.

Mrs. T. and Mrs. J. McLaughlin, Jr., are spending a few days in Kelowna hospital undergoing minor operations. Mrs. T. with vein trouble and Mrs. J. with throat trouble. They went over on Saturday last.

Mrs. K. C. Tallyour, of Trepanier townsite, has visiting her two of her sisters, Mrs. Tallyour and Miss Torrent, of Ontario. It is rumored that they are stars on the tennis court.

Mr. C. W. Traves, of Grand Forks, spent a day in the community this week looking over the various hatches of chickens in the poultry raising contest. He had a car and took a load of the boys and girls who had entered the contest, and while making inspection and taking particular interest in the contest, imparted a considerable amount of information for the benefit of the youngsters. He advised them that they could cull out and kill off some of their poorer cockerels, keeping track of them so that they would receive their proper marks for them. They are to exhibit them later in the fall, when all marks and points will be summed up and the prizes awarded. This competition is being carried on by the Department of Agriculture, through the schools, Mr. Harris, principal of the central school, having looked after local arrangements for the Peachland contest.

Mr. S. Stephens, of Vancouver, was a recent visitor in town and after sizing up the local conditions, he is making arrangements to open a bake shop and confectionery store in the building formerly occupied by the branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. He is going back to Vancouver, expecting to return in about a week's time and will be assisted in the business by his wife. It is a number of years since Peachland could boast a real bake and confection shop, not since the time Mr. Angus was burned out, and the citizens are quite pleased with the outlook.

Mrs. Bert Baptist's little girl, Cleo, had the misfortune to get severely burned on Tuesday last, by pulling over a dish of boiling fruit on herself and then falling into what was spilled. She was badly scalded on the back, both arms and one leg. She was taken to the hospital as soon as they could get her in shape to move and last news is that she is doing as well as can be expected.

Gordon McDougald and Bert Keating returned to Kelowna on Monday to report on duty at the bank after the week-end holiday.

Mr. R. J. McDougald and family, of Penticon, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Dorland. They were accompanied by a friend, Miss A. Rogers, of the Penticon teaching staff. They motored up and on their return took Mr. Dorland down with them to enable him to report on duty on the Sicamous at Penticon on Monday morning.

Mrs. Bell and her little girl, who have been visiting in town with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. White, left on Monday morning for Vernon to visit friends and relatives for a month and return to continue her visit in Peachland for a further period.

Mrs. R. Walters and baby returned to their home in Kelowna after a short visit in town, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Smalls. They expect to move to Nelson before long, Mr. Walters having already gone to fill a position there, still in the fruit business.

Mrs. E. Shoultz, of the Eastern States, accompanied by Miss E. Mills, were among the arrivals in town last week-end and are guests of Mrs. Shoultz's brother, Mr. L. Mills.

Boy Scout Column
 1st SUMMERLAND TROOP B. P. SCOUTS
 Headquarters, The Gymnasium.
 Scoutmaster, Capt. H. H. Creese.
 Meets every Friday evening at 7.30 p.m.

It has been the sad duty of the troop, this last week, to bid farewell to one of our finest scouts in the person of Patrol Leader John Denike. Coming to us some three years ago, Johnny successfully passed from tenderfoot to second and from there to Patrol Leader. His work has been good, too good, in fact, as his place will be hard to fill. Johnny was one who lived up to his scout ideals and set an example that the boys of his patrol were proud to follow. We wish him the best of luck at his new task and though sorry to lose him, cannot help but feel glad because we know he has taken the right step. We expect big things of Johnny and we will not be disappointed.

Next Friday will be the investiture of new scouts. The troop will parade in full uniform with staff. Patrol leaders especially are asked to make a point of being present, also all those who have not yet taken the oath.

Last week the troop had the unusual excitement of two corn roasts, the first one being in the nature of a farewell to Johnny Denike; the second one being a regular picnic. Even if the slide did cause us to walk it couldn't stop the parade and those scouts who didn't show up missed a real feed.

The troop is shortly to lose several of its members for the winter in the persons of Second Louis Smith, Second R. Munn, and Instructor Ronald White, all of whom will be returning to their studies at the university, also A. S. M. Allen Harris, who will be leaving to take up his appointment in the university. There will be a shortage of officials this winter which will be a welcome change. A. S. M. Harris's place will be filled by Rover Mate R. S. Jackson; new assistants in the persons of F. W. Stewart and A. G. Smith. Mr. George Guy and Mr. W. R. Payne will continue their good work as instructors, with Gordon Blewett as tenderfoot instructor.

With an executive consisting of Dr. Andrew, Rev. Mr. Solly, Mr. A. B. Morkill, Mr. J. M. Sutherland and Principal S. A. MacDonald, and the above staff, it certainly looks like a promising winter's work.

CUPID'S KNOTS.

The marriage was solemnized on Friday, Sept. 8th, at 6.30 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hilborn, 1618 Bank street, Victoria, B. C., of Miss Susan Stephen, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stephen, of Peterhead, Scotland, and Mr. F. Harold Hilborn, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hilborn.

The ceremony was performed by R. W. C. Frank, of Hampshire Road Methodist church.

To the strains of the "Wedding March," played by Miss Eva Hilborn, only sister of the groom, the bride entered the drawing room, which was beautifully decorated with flowers, leaning on the arm of Mr. J. L. Hilborn, father of the groom. The bride made a charming picture, wearing her wedding gown of ivory satin and georgette with a rope of French pearls, the gift of the groom, and carrying a sheaf of white asters and pink sweet peas.

After the ceremony the guests repaired to the diningroom, which was garlanded with cream roses and greenery.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Hilborn left amid showers of confetti for their home on Shelbourne street, Victoria, the bride wearing a smart suit of gabardine, with hat to match.

BEST APPLES FOR GROWING

Government Bulletin Gives Valuable Hints to Okanagan Orchardists.

A great deal of valuable information regarding the classes of apple trees which give best results in the Okanagan Valley is contained in a bulletin issued by the provincial department of agriculture, a copy of which has been received by The Review. The bulletin, which was compiled by W. A. Middleton, of the University horticultural department, compares the records of twenty-five varieties of apple trees in 189 different orchards over several periods of years. No attempt is made to draw hard and fast conclusions, as it was considered that the records were not complete enough to justify this.

Choice is Difficult.
In the past, Mr. Middleton says, the study of the different varieties of apples has received no small share of attention from orchardists and horticulturists, and at the present time this is still one of the most interesting and important subjects connected with the fruit industry. So many arguments can be advanced, both in favor of and against the exclusive production of the numerous varieties of apples now grown, that it is difficult to decide on the relative merits of the outstanding varieties, and to advocate the planting of certain ones to the exclusion of the others.

Some varieties are markedly influenced by variations of local climatic and soil conditions, whereas others are capable of thriving under quite a wide range of conditions. It is obvious, then, that while some consideration must be given to the results accomplished in the case of a particular variety in any given district, nevertheless the general yielding power of a variety and its market value must always be carefully taken into account if greatest returns are to be expected.

Yield records collected for the different varieties show considerable fluctuation; and this suggests that these same varieties, growing under favorable conditions and receiving good care, are capable of producing much larger crops than the averages shown would indicate.

Likely to Be Favorites.
After comparing the average yields, grades, prices and returns, the conclusion arrived at is that the varieties likely to increase in production are: Delicious, Duchess, Gravenstein, Jonathan, McIntosh, Rome Beauty, Snow (Fameuse), Stayman Winesap, Wealthy, Winter Banana, Yellow Newtown and Yellow Transparent.

While those likely to decrease in production are: Ben Davis, Canada Baldwin, Cox Orange, Gano, Grimes Golden, Jefferies, Northern Spy, Ontario, Spitzenburg, St. Lawrence, Tompkins King, Wagener and Winesap.

In order to be able to take full advantage of the extended marketing season of apples, it is desirable, the bulletin states, that the Okanagan should be producing early, medium and late varieties. Only those, however, that are generally known and in demand by the public should be considered for commercial plantings. The growing of other sorts not well received on the market tends to reduce the price of the better varieties, because, in order to dispose of them at a fair price, they must be sold with the better varieties in mixed cars.

Over one hundred different varieties of apples are grown in the Okanagan Valley, but the majority of these are not grown in large quantities. The number of varieties grown for commercial purposes would not exceed twenty-five. In the course of time, however, even this number will decrease, until only those are left that are the most profitable; for, in a specialized fruit district like the Okanagan, only the best varieties will survive, the poor ones being eliminated under keen competition.

Correspondence

To the Editor of The Review:

Dear Sir,—Though I am not quite clear on the point, it appears to me that Mr. S. Cobe takes exception to my inclusion of the Japanese in the term Oriental, or Asiatic. Now, whether or not these peoples are of Aryan descent does not affect the fact that Asia is their domicile. Regarding this question of descent there may be theories, there generally are on most questions, in opposition to that usually held. There are, of course, two branches of the Aryan race, or Indo-European—the western comprising Europeans (excluding the Turks) and the eastern, ancestors of Armenians, Persians, Afghans, Northern Hindustans. Their primitive seat is thought to have been Central Asia, whence they migrated northwest. The remnant who did not go northwest, extended south through the Himalayas, with the exception of a few who did go to Persia and no farther.

Now the Ainos, occupants of the north and central portions of the main island of Japan, numbering now hardly over 16,000, are thought to have migrated from the mainland, via Kurile, and show themselves as probably northern Mongolians of a low calibre. There was a second migration of Mongolians of a higher development, but these two had points in common in their language, habits and methods of government.

All this is so far back that even did the Ainos show European lineage, Mr. Cobe's argument (granted in part) would hold good as to the effect of environment and conditions.

I may say that while not making a profession of biology or psychology both subjects are of keen interest to me.

This appears to me a digression, however, for it surely does not affect the main contention that neither Chinese nor Japanese is suitable for occupancy of British Columbia contemporaneously with ourselves. Mr. Cobe, himself, admits that each is a problem in itself. I prefer to consider them two branches of the same problem—for the average man cannot bother with the finer distinctions—he is too busy.

Far from taking my ideas from political speeches without digestion, I generally find something which does not fit my own ideas. I must differ from Mr. Cobe again, inasmuch as I claim that complete assimilation must include the political side. As long as these races cannot throw over their old national customs and traditions, how can one expect them to absorb our hopes, aspirations and habits? What, for instance, does either race care for our Empire, and how about intermarriage between our Dominion girls and the Oriental?

Thirdly. As a resident of Naramata and Summerland for a few years, I am aware that the Japanese have some excellent ranch land, well cared for, which from the production point of view I cannot think, or intend to imply, is deteriorated. I was referring to the social aspect. Multiply those few scattered Japanese farmers by a few dozen and I think my contention will be found proven. In fact, there is, and has for years, been opposition to sale of ranches to Orientals. Why? And if justified, why stop there?

Fourth. Blind prejudice is unreasoned, therefore faulty; but if realization of duty to those of one's own race and color, though it be in conflict with one's (national) treatment of other races; be prejudice at all, it is of another calibre and, I claim, justified. Christian humanity surely "begins at home," for we have not yet reached the position of universal international brotherhood which I, for one, would so like to see. I have been at pains in a previous letter to explain that I am not anti-Oriental other than as their "peaceful penetration"—familiar phrase—affects this land we live in.

May I thank your correspondent for his attention, and you, Mr. Editor, for courtesy of space.

Yours truly,
E. GRIFFITH.

SOUR MILK AND CREAM

Healthful and Satisfying Uses to Which Both Can Be Put.

Miss Helen G. Campbell, demonstrator and propagandist for the Dominion Dairy and Cold Storage Branch, has enriched the knowledge of her fellow countrymen and women in the uses of milk by writing Circular No. 6, "Why and How to Use Cream," Circular No. 7, "Why and How to Use Cottage Cheese," and Circular No. 8, "Why and How to Use Buttermilk," all of which have just been issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and can be obtained for the mere formality of addressing a request to the Publications Branch, Ottawa. These circulars are supplementary to Miss Campbell's pamphlets, "Why and How to Use Milk" and "Why and How to Use Cheese," and like those publications, contain a number of recipes that are well calculated to help in the thrift and economy of the household by suggesting delicacies for the families and for either the robust or the invalid.

In the olden days when milk or cream soured it was supposed to be fit only for the pigs, but Miss Campbell shows that while the taste of both in its raw state may be impaired, the usefulness and healthfulness of either are not only not destroyed but in reality are not lessened to any material extent. For instance, among the recipes for the uses of cream are four to which the condiment can be put after it has soured, while sour milk is the essential component of cottage cheese and one of the most refreshing of all summer drinks—buttermilk. As regards cottage cheese, which can be made in any home with but little labor, Circular No. 7 points out that while it is both wholesome and delicious, its use, under the name of "curds" was much more common in our grandmother's day than it is now, and that no food was more generally relished. Not only are methods given in the circular for the making of cottage cheese, but seven or eight savory dishes are described in which it is the primary element. In similar manner are supplied in Circular No. 8, besides a brief treatise on the value of buttermilk as an invigorating food, a like number of uses to which it can be delightfully and satisfyingly put. The old saying "Drink buttermilk and live to be a hundred" is quoted, and emphasis laid upon the digestibility of buttermilk by the very young and the very old.

Ears are back in style and surprised at what they hear.

What Do We Want?

By Mabel K. Walters.

Why did we come here, and why do we stay? Different answers from different individuals of course, but before we do any more complaining we might do well to consider these queries.

Had my demand been a life of comparative ease and comfort, I should have staid where I came from; and the chances are that within a few years I should have been left a widow with not nearly enough children. Lo, look at me now! My husband is brown and sturdy—and why shouldn't he be when he has gone bareheaded and barefooted for twelve years. Children? Why I possess a reasonable number of them and they are thriving beautifully upon apples, mountain air and scenery; and they look lovely (to their mother) in made-overs.

So much for why we are here. Why do we stay? We have no car "decent" or otherwise, no clothes but khaki and a few duds made out of flour sacks. If these things were absolutely indispensable to us we might go to some place where we would be able to have fine feathers, splendid cars, and superb roads upon which to drive into large towns where we could show off these evidences of our prosperity. We might, for instance, go down on the edge of the desert and have a vineyard. The raisin growers have a first-class organization. Their salesmen earn their salaries for the industry is stable and the cheques to growers are substantial and regular. Why don't we go? The biggest reason is because our neighbors would be Swiss, Italian, Portuguese and the like. How many of us appreciate the friends and neighbors we have here? Where else in a rural district would we find settlers the equal of our Okanagan people? Some of us who were genuine pioneers (not the kind you read about) have known the pleasure of sharing our first fruits and vegetables with the newcomer, who in turn would be most generous with Christmas cake sent from "way across the pond. In the days when there were no motor cars, no telephone or Sunday ferry some of us have lain "in the valley and the shadow" waiting long hours for another day to dawn before a doctor could be summoned. Then's when we learned the meaning of the word "neighbor."

If we are real desperate about selling fruit to the people who live on the prairies we must either go down in Washington where they have a proper organization or else get busy and perfect one for ourselves. The prairie people are human, and just as good Canadians as we are; but they prefer the Washington fruit and will continue to do so. There's a reason! We must all of us discover the reason, stop chewing the rag and saw wood. One inefficient salesman is as futile a goat to hang our failure on as a brass Buddha. I believe some method of reaching the prairie markets with our superior fruit, at prices satisfactory to all concerned, is already in the bud. In the meantime I have one blessing that those wickedly clever American growers can't take away from me—some twenty miles of scenic grandeur that is mine to adore and revel in by day and sometimes at night I get up to watch wonderful silhouettes when the moon is at the right angle. I enjoy the song of the meadowlark more than the sound of a motor horn. I joy in the satin of poppies, the velvet of pansies, and the plumage of our native five birds is more to me than Paris millinery.

There seems to be quite an epidemic of airing one's ignorance and prejudice in our home paper, and as I am very susceptible to such contagion, shall proceed to fall in line. My pet prejudice is against cars. I'll tell you why! Very many more cars will mean better roads, which in turn will mean more taxes, and what will poor Adam do then, poor thing? I think it much more important that our taxes go to support the standing army of experts to tell us how to grow fruit. One year we are told to hurry up and get in alfalfa, and just as we have it nicely started we are told to ditch that idea and put in vetch. We are given a schedule for spraying, the next year we find it was a mistake and we get a new one. We are told that borers in the roots of the trees have a one-year cycle. All you folks who have crawled around on your hands and knees and have a first hand acquaintance with those reptiles come on and laugh with me! We are told that because of the advanced season in the South Okanagan we should pick our McIntosh in August, then a couple years later we are told to pick the Macs later—oh, much later. We should hang onto our teachers and advisors and be content with our nice picturesque trails. Another drawback about good roads, if we should have them, would be that our peaceful landscape would be all littered up with the cars of those vulgar American tourists, and they would be carelessly scattering their dirty silver dollars all over the place. They would gobble up our scenery in great gulps, secretly envying us while they patronize us.

Some of us have been here almost from the first when the acreage was all dotted over with freshly painted white posts bearing, as we supposed the promoter's initial. We have been through things together—pioneer hardships sweetened with wholesome work and the delicious plans of what we would be able to do next year. "Next year" is a great joke with some folks now, I know; perhaps it's a habit, but I honestly believe in "next year" as much as ever and I'm going to stick it out till I go to my narrow stony bed under the greasewood and sage.

The more we give to a place, the more we love it and cling to it. We have painted with our own hands some beautiful orchards. They should be valuable to someone sometime. We have given the place native children and they are being reared in such a way as to enable them to hold their own against the invading Japs. According to a recent contributor it is wicked to hold any prejudice against the Japs but quite all right to ooze it in chunks and gobs against the poor Chink. Well, it is a mighty good thing for us that the Chinaman's religion and patriotism is not the same as ours for if it had been none of us would be alive to talk about it. As history stands the Chinese preferred to kill off their own flesh and blood so that they would not be obliged to war on other nations for the sake of territory and "expansion." After all the other nations of the world, gone mad with commercialism and patriotism, have warred each other off the face of the earth, then the Chinese will have a bit of breathing room and will probably spread out. Meanwhile we might do well to keep an eye on the wily little fellow from Nippon. He is much more clever than we are and has a great time laughing at our pomposity and stupidity behind our backs. When it comes to the assimilation business I expect it would work out just the same with one kind of Ori—well what the Sam Hill shall I call them?—as with another. Let me give those interested in Mendel's law, biology and kindred subjects a true story:

The only Chinaman I ever knew was employed by the U. S. Customs as interpreter. He wore Occidental (terribly shaky about that word) clothes and spoke English in such a way as to gladden the ear of the most straight-laced purist. But in all essentials he was a Chinaman. A product of the most ancient and most perfect civilization on this planet, he was bound to be interesting and he was charming as well. He married a Boston blue-blood and the marriage was very happy and successful from the standpoint of esthetics. But oh, dear, such a funny family! The firstborn developed into a replica of the maternal grandmother. From her aristocratic bearing, yellow hair, chilly blue eyes to her blue-veined lilly white hands she was a fac-simile of grandpa. When the son came he was the darlingest little color symphony, all black and yellow, that I ever saw. He was as unblendable as his sister, but pure Chinaman. He was just as dear and charming as his father, while the sister was always so pruny-primsy, I wanted to slap her face.

I forgot to tell you about the new kind of Adam that has not yet been heard from in the recent avalanche of free copy assailing our editor. We have been told that we Adam Idjits have been struggling, sacrificing, waiting, hoping and standing by loyally to support an organization which is rotten from stem to core; and that while we have been upholding the empty shell that the executives and operatives have run off with all the albumen. I think we Adam Idjits would be downright mean and narrow not to be willing to pay upwards of a dollar a box to grow our fruit so we could give lots of people good jobs and assured incomes. The Union is not so bad as painted for this very summer they demonstrated their reluctance to hog all the selling end of the industry. Whenever there were 'cots and peaches the operatives could not make money on they liberally allowed us the privilege of going out and trustling our own market at the nearest cannery.

We Adam Idjits have been told that in time our lovely orchards will be sold out from under us for taxes. I still have a remnant of faith and loyalty left, and loads of courage and I'm not going to believe it till it happens. All this faith and loyalty that has not padded our bank accounts is not wasted. It has been good for our souls, and we can take it with us when we graduate into the next sphere—where we can not take flippers and silk stockings.

What Do We Want? I want to be able to pay cash for everything I get, pay for my Review in advance, have my home beautified, have more pictures, music, books and enough of the long green left over to provide the children with the education and training their different tastes demand.

On Friday, Engineer Grover will fix the angles for the metal fluming on the south main and it is the intention to lay as much metal fluming as possible this fall. SUMMERLAND WEATHER REPORT

Below is a report furnished by the Dominion Experimental Station here for the week ending Tuesday:

Before Police Magistrate Hutton, the Fruit Union, a few days ago, was found guilty of exposing for sale seed which contained weed seeds. During a recent visit to Summerland an inspector, suspecting that hairy vetch seed at the Union building contained weed seed, sent a sample to the official seed analyst at Calgary, where the existence of the foreign seed was established. Action against the Union was accordingly taken, but the findings were that the Union had innocently offended and were offering for sale the seed as it has been received and only costs were imposed.

Some small repairs to the dam on Canyon Creek have been authorized by the council. The work will be done this fall. Water to the depth of two inches was running over this dam when it was opened recently.

Mr. W. R. Lawrence was a business visitor to Summerland on Monday. Since selling his Garnett Valley property, last June, Mr. Lawrence has returned to railroading and is now with the K. V. R. and living at Pentiction.

Mr. Eschoo, a native of Persia, educated in Toronto, is to be the speaker at St. Andrew's church on Sunday evening. Mr. Eschoo, has been driven out of his native country because of his religious beliefs and tells in a most interesting manner of the conditions in Persia.

Special railway fares to several of the provincial fall fairs have been granted by the C. P. R., among the places so favored are Kelowna, Armstrong, Nelson and others. One fare and a third is the price, which in the case of Kelowna reduces the price of the ticket from Summerland and return from $2.50 to $1.85.

Shortage of tin plate at the plant of the can manufacturers at the coast is likely to have a serious result with respect to the canning of fruit here and elsewhere this fall. It is said that it is very doubtful if cans can be had, although we are advised by the Broder Company that every effort is being made to buy cans in the States. The local cannery is now closed awaiting tins.

At the regular meeting of the hospital board on Monday, the resignation of Miss Wilson, of the hospital nursing staff, was regretfully accepted. Miss Wilson asked to be relieved of her duties in the Summerland institution on October 11th. She goes from here to take the more responsible position of matron of the Francis Lake hospital.

Attention is directed to the program of the Rialto theatre, published elsewhere in this matter. It is apparent that the management are to be satisfied with nothing but the best that is to be had and that the public appreciate the efforts of the theatre people to give them good pictures is evident from the increased patronage which the Rialto is now enjoying.

The provincial road foreman, Mr. J. C. Arkell, is giving the surface of Shaughnessy avenue a coating of sand. From the southern boundary of the municipality to Peach Orchard has for long been about the roughest section of the Okanagan highway and it is generally hoped that this stretch of road will be put in the condition its importance requires.

Mr. J. Rowley returned on Monday from Toronto and other eastern cities where he has been for about two months. Mr. Rowley was for many years a resident of Toronto and since coming west, about ten years ago, has heard much of the rapid growth of that city, but he was scarcely prepared for the transformation he saw after his arrival there. Toronto is now credited with a population of over half a million.

Complaining that Coun. Kirk was neglectful of the interests of his neighborhood, G. S. Drewett waited on the council on Tuesday and asked that immediate action be taken to drain the road between his property and that of A. E. Rose, which has been under water for some time. The matter had already been before council and later in the day it was decided to have the present pipe cleared by pushing a small pipe down through it and later, when the water is drained off, to put in a larger pipe laid to a better grade. Though the road is quite safe, Coun. Kirk informed the council that car drivers are avoiding the spot and are going round by way of Zimmerman hill, which he says is in even worse condition than formerly. The mail car goes through the pond every day.

An extension of the electric light lines to serve the Plant and Campbell houses, near the Baptist church, has been authorized by council. Another approved extension will serve the homes of S. Nolan and T. R. Whitfield, and a third the home of T. Figgis.

To an enquiry made of the municipal council as to whether there would be any objection to his being given a record on a spring from which water is now run onto the Balcombe ranch, Mr. R. V. Agur has been advised that this is a feeder of Prairie Creek and that objection would be made if the record were applied for.

On behalf of the members of the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary, The Review has been asked to publicly express the gratitude of that organization to the members of the Young People's Society of St. Andrew's church and particularly those who took part in the play, "The Poor Married Man," repeated last Thursday in the Empire Hall.

The Better 'Ole restaurant is now running under new management. A two-year lease of the business has been obtained from the owner, Mr. Scott Danks, by Mr. C. B. McCallum and Mrs. Hannington. The latter will continue in her present capacity but the business will be run in close co-operation with Hotel Summerland, which, it is considered, will be of value to the restaurant and a convenience to hotel patrons. The deal was made through the office of Mr. G. Y. L. Crossley. Already some changes and improvements have been made that will be appreciated by patrons.

On behalf of himself and other residents of Ninth street, Rev. H. E. Livingstone wrote asking the council to put a street light in the position of a lamp removed some time ago or some such position as would light the street leading to the parsonage and Ninth street, above the Dominion Bank. He pointed out the fact that there was now a stream of water running down the street that is very objectionable and which cannot be seen after dark as the lights are now arranged. The reve favored turning the spring water into existing drains and a change will be made in the position of the light on the corner so that it will light the side street.

MARKETS HAVE STRENGTHENED

Report From Markets Commissioner is More Cheering—Competition Lessens.

ELBERTAS IN DEMAND

More of This Variety Should Be Planted Where Early Ripening Will Take Place.

Prices are moving upward, according to Mr. J. A. Grant, Markets Commissioner, who says:

The produce market has strengthened perceptibly and the movement to country points is better than it has been for a long time.

The Washington competition is getting past and prices over the line are rising. The movement from B. C. this week has put them in the shade, and it looks as if their competition was over for a season.

Tomatoes are still in a low rut, struggling to come back without much success. They are selling wholesale at 50c to 60c and may reach 75c.

Pears are higher in price with good demand. Apples are moving freely at popular prices. Early this week a half car of Duchesse apples of good quality, wrapped and packed, were slaughtered here, they retailed in the Groceries stores at $1 per box.

Giving away apples at below cost of transportation and handling, always upsets the market. We cannot call this a sale.

Elberta peaches are in heavy demand. We need more Elbertas from B. C., and they should be planted in the districts where early ripening will take place.

We call attention to the heavy importation of peaches from over the line, in this week's correspondents reports, to show that Elberta peaches are in demand far beyond the B. C. supply.

B. C. Plums have been in weak demand and have been sold at slaughtered prices in many cases. Demand from country points for all fruits has strengthened. Country movement is exceptionally encouraging.

INCIPIENT FIRE FOUND IN TIME

Blaze in One of Group of Wooden Buildings Discovered by Passerby.

In all probability another conflagration in the lake front section was narrowly averted last Saturday morning. Shortly before 8 o'clock on that morning, Mr. H. H. Dean, foreman of The Review Publishing Co.'s printing plant, was going past the carpenter shop of Messrs. Gale & White, on Shaughnessy avenue, when he noticed a blaze inside the shop, the door of which was open.

MANY RADIO CONCERTS HEARD

Local Tests Brought News and Music From Seven States and Alberta.

The two radio men, Messrs. E. A. C. Sawyer and T. P. Stobart, of Vancouver, who have been conducting experiments in the Valley the past few weeks, had excellent results Monday and Tuesday nights, from antenna erected on the Rialto theatre, West Summerland. A parlor sized Magnavox Loud Speaker, used with two-step amplifier apparatus, made it possible for all who listened to catch music and voice from California, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and Calgary, Alta.

New station 6XB, operated by the Mercantile Trust Co., corner Kearney and Lombard streets, Telegraph Hill, San Francisco, came in loudest of any station received. Music and voice was loud enough to fill entire theatre, and audible outside closed doors. Salt Lake, Portland, Seattle and both stations in Calgary also came in quite loud.

At present there is very keen competition between these different stations to see which can broadcast the farthest and also provide the best entertainment. The different broadcasts at present consist of high-class instrumental and vocal music, short news items, baseball scores, speeches, bedtime stories for children, weather, time, financial news, and the First Presbyterian church services from Seattle.

Messrs. Sawyer and Stobart are anxious to interest Okanagan people in the erection of a broadcasting station at one of the larger centres. Such a station would provide nightly programs for Okanagan owners of small, cheaper receiving sets. Such a station could be erected for less than a thousand dollars. At present to catch outside points it is necessary to have quite a powerful receiving apparatus.—Cont.

WILL ASSIST IMMIGRANTS

Committee Named by Board of Trade to Promote Further Settlement Here.

MAIL SERVICE. Board Would Have Vancouver Mail Sent by Express on Noon Train.

Pointing out in a resolution to the Board of School Trustees the menace to life of school children that the road now dividing the municipal school property will be, the Board of Trade, at the regular meeting on Tuesday, asked the trustees to take action to have the road diverted.

Better mail service between here and Vancouver was again up before the board. At present, mail for the coast is made up at the upper post office at 5 p.m. and at the lower office at 9 p.m. and despatched by boat next morning. Any later mail must be taken to the letter box at the wharf up to boat time. Secretary K. M. Elliott was instructed to take the matter up with the superintendent of postal service with the request that mails be made up at both post offices and sent by express to Vancouver.

It was pointed out that advice of fruit shipped by express on the noon train could not be mailed with the shipment and would now reach Vancouver some hours behind the fruit.

Some one introduced the question of the unpleasant odor from the tomato refuse at the cannery; but after an informal discussion, the subject was dropped without any action being taken.

Roeve J. R. Campbell, R. H. Helmer, superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Station, and G. H. Inglis, real estate agent, were appointed a land settlement committee to work with the provincial land settlement board and the office of the agent-general of B. C. in London. This committee was appointed at the request of the Associated Boards of Trade of B. C. Its function is to supply information about the district, for which purpose questionnaire forms were sent with the request, and to supply photographs and also

MUSIC LOVERS ARE DELIGHTED

Concert-Recital in Empire Hall Last Thursday Evening Was of High Order.

Music lovers of Summerland who attended the concert-recital given on Thursday evening in the Empire Hall by Mr. Vincent Fink and Mr. Harold Etter, assisted by Mrs. Herbert McGregor experienced an exceptional treat. The hall is a large one and another concert in the district on the same evening rather reduced the size of the audience but those present were most appreciative and thoroughly enjoyed each of the splendid items performed.

Mr. Etter opened the program with Rachmaninoff's Prelude, in which difficult selection, his mastery of technique and elegance of touch, were well displayed. His other two solos "The Two Larks" and "Le Cavalier" were equally pleasing to the audience. As an encore to the latter item, he played one of Chopin's waltz. Mr. Etter also acted as accompanist during the evening.

The solo "Zigeunerweisen" (gypsy airs) by de Sarasate, played by Mr. Fink in the first half of the program was marvellous. This is a weird and wonderful piece of music in which the artist's double stopping was splendid. "Livesfreund" by Kreisler in the second half was equally good and must have required of the player much hard work and many hours practice. "On Wings of Song" and "Capricciolette" though not such masterpieces of music, were very pleasing and much enjoyed by the audience.

Mrs. H. McGregor captivated the audience by her costume monologue "Hagar." This is a wonderful piece of elocution, founded on the Biblical story of Abraham turning his bondswoman Hagar and her small son Ishmael out into the desert with a small loaf of bread and a cuse of water. The artist's recitation and action were so realistic that the scene was readily depicted before her audience. The humorous reading "The Mustard Plaster," was much enjoyed. In it Mrs. McGregor conveys the actions of two small boys in a delightfully human fashion. Her little musical reading, "Out, Where the West Begins," with accompaniment by Mr. Etter was charmingly pretty.

All the artists deserve great praise for the high-class and excellent performance. And as work of this kind is not displayed every day, those who were unable to be present will certainly feel sorry not to have been able to avail themselves of the rare opportunity afforded them.

The full program is as follows: 1—Piano solo, Prelude, Rachmaninoff, by Mr. H. Etter. 2—Readings, selected, (a) Angelina, Dunbar; (b) "Out Where the West Begins," by Mrs. H. McGregor. 3—Violin soli, (a) Capriccio, Mendelssohn; (b) Viennese Melody, Kreisler; (c) Caprice Viennois, Kreisler; (d) Zigeunerweisen (gypsy airs) de Sarasate, by Mr. Fink. 4—Reading, "The Mustard Plaster," Fielding, by Mrs. H. McGregor. Interval. 5—Piano soli (a) The Two Larks, Leschetizky; (b) Le Cavalier, Fantastique, Godard, by Mr. Etter. 6—Violin soli, (a) Andante, Mendelssohn; (b) On Wings of Song, Mendelssohn; (c) Menuett in G, Beethoven; (d) Liebesfreud, Kreisler, by Mr. Fink, with encore "Mighty Lak a Rose," Nevin.

Two different bids are asked for. One to raise the height of the concrete core three feet and fill back

Monday, November 6th, has been officially proclaimed the national Day of Thanksgiving. STORES ENTERED AT NARAMATA

Letters From Post Office and Goods From Two Stores and Theatre Missing.

TWO ARRESTS. One Man is Alleged to Have Confessed Taking Furniture From College Here.

Following the burglary of the post office at Naramata and the stealing of goods from the store of the Naramata Supply Co., Ltd., Tuesday night, two arrests have been made. Both prisoners are comparative newcomers in that town and were for a short time living in Summerland.

For some time goods have been mysteriously disappearing from different buildings in the community and revelations following a police raid are said to have uncovered some of the missing material, though the letters, between twenty and thirty, taken from the post office, and the goods stolen from the Supply store, have not yet been found.

A thorough search for the missing material was arranged by the local constable, F. C. Manchester, and, accompanied by the mounted and Provincial Constable McConnell, a shack occupied by John Hayes and Chas. McPeak, was visited about 4 o'clock Wednesday morning. There a dresser, identified as property of the college here, was found and in it goods alleged to have been stolen from the Home Theatre and the store of J. W. A. Block. The only occupant of the building was Hayes, who was arrested and accused of stealing. It is said that he admitted that the dresser had been taken from the college in Summerland, but that it was his intention to return it. The other things, he said, belonged to McPeak. The latter was arrested Wednesday in Penticton.

It is stated that both the Supply and the Block stores were opened by key.

The Block store was entered about two weeks ago and silk stockings, men's socks, gloves, towels, etc., taken. Goods missed from the Supply store include tobacco, candy, razors and some small change from the cash register.

MANY STUDENTS GO FROM HERE.

In proportion to population Summerland probably takes the lead of all the Okanagan towns in sending forth young men in the interests of education. In fact, it is doubtful if there are as many from any Valley centre attending college or normal schools or in the teaching profession as from here.

Already the names of about thirty have been given in these columns of young people who have gone elsewhere to teach or to train for teaching.

This week, Blanchard Munn and James Marshall have gone to Eastern Canada to continue their studies, while Russell Munn, Ronald White, Louis Smith, Donald McIntyre, Roy Elsey and Allen Harris go to the University of B. C., the latter as one of the instructors.

R. Palmer, of the Experimental Farm, is going to the university for a post-graduate course. A. E. Richards, also of the Farm, will graduate this year as will also Wm. Mathers, who has been assisting Mr. Palmer. John Nelson, after a few months at the Farm, has decided to take a three years' course in agriculture and will go to the university. Harold Etter, who has been assisting John Tait in the hunt for fruit pests, will continue at the university.

Mr. Richards is president-elect of the students' council.

PIANO RECITAL IS RARE TREAT

Home Theatre Presents Artist of Exceptional Talent—A Successful Season.

Those who were fortunate enough to hear the Russian pianist, Henrietta Michaelson, in concert on Thursday evening at the Home Theatre, Naramata, realized more than ever the value to the district afforded by Mr. Carroll Aikin's theatre and the operations of the Canadian Players. Miss Michaelson, without question, proved herself the most able pianist who has ever performed here. This was the last entertainment of the season to be staged by the Canadian Players, and it is not too much to say it was the crowning triumph of their work.

The audience from first to last was held as if in a spell by Miss Michaelson's wonderful interpretations of some of the world's masterpiece compositions. She appeared to catch the very soul of the piece she was rendering and sympathetically transmitted it to her hearers.

Her program opened with four items of a lighter nature than the majority of her selections. These were Handel's "Harmonious Blacksmith" (theme and variations); Couperin's "soeur Monique"; "Le Coucou," by Daquin, and "Prelude and Fugue," C minor, by Bach, and proved very popular with the audience. They were followed by Beethoven's "Sonata," E flat major, Op. 31, No. 3, a much heavier number, in which the differences in the various movements were splendidly brought out.

Miss Michaelson's best effort of the evening was Cesar Franck's "Prelude, Aria and Finale." In this the setting of subjects and counter subjects was brought out with amazing clarity, but it is a piece which requires to be heard several times before the hearer can appreciate its true depth.

The final set of the program was entirely from Chopin's works, those selected being "Four Etudes," Op. 25; "Mazurka" in C sharp minor; "Impromptu," F sharp major; "Prelude" in C sharp major, Op. 45, and two ballads, F major, Op. 38 and F minor, Op. 52. Throughout all of these Miss Michaelson's light and shade work was more brilliant than were the subtle influences of the softer passages.

The "Ballad" in F major, although much lighter than its companion, was very popular with the audience and its rendering was particularly nice in statement, the melodic themes being picked out and held as it were in suspense over the accompaniment. The "Ballad" in F minor, coming as it did at the end of the program, must have been a severe tax on the energies of the pianist, but it was splendidly executed and much appreciated. This was evidenced by the applause which ceased only when Miss Michaelson responded to the encore with Chopin's "Mazurka" in C minor.

UNION PAYING TWICE A MONTH

New Plan of Financing Crop of Members Has Been Adopted.

Under a new arrangement the Summerland Fruit Union is this season making semi-monthly payments on a count of fruit sold through that organization by its members.

This week the fourth payment will be made. Twice each month the central selling agency, the O. U. G., advances to the locals a percentage of the estimated returns for fruit sent through the agency. As soon as possible after the receipt of this the Union apportions this payment among its members, issuing cheques or crediting accounts as the case may be.

In this way considerable money is being put in circulation in advance of final settlements, but at the same time a safe margin is being retained until each pool is closed.

It is expected that final settlements will be made within the next few days for all cherries.

SUMMERLAND WINS TENNIS SERIES

Defeats Kelowna on Own Court—Work of Dodwell Praised.

(Kelowna Courier) After a series of matches, consisting of men's, ladies' and mixed doubles, played on the grass courts of the Kelowna Club, the Summerland visitors were victorious by a score of five matches to four.

The court generalship of Mr. P. G. Dodwell, the Summerland star, was keenly appreciated alike by the players and the spectators. The Summerland players commented most favorably on the condition of the grounds and stated that for accuracy and surface the courts were second to none in the province.

The following players represented the Kelowna Club: Mrs. Mantle, Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Wilson, Miss Dorothy Leckie, Messrs. Grote Stirling, St. G. P. Baldwin, G. E. Seon, H. G. M. Wilson and Capt. Jervis.

Summerland was represented by: Mrs. G. R. Hookham, Miss Brough, Messrs. P. G. Dodwell, A. C. Turner, E. R. Faulder and R. G. Russel. Mrs. Faulder and Mrs. Turner accompanied the party.

Two days were spent in Kelowna. A match was also played with Kelowna on the hard court, resulting in a draw.

TO DEAL WITH FREIGHT RATES

To deal with the subject of freight rates effecting this province the Associated Boards of Trade of B. C. is to establish a freight traffic bureau. The provincial government has promised an annual grant of $3,000 provided the boards of trade contribute a like amount.

Summerland has been asked for the modest sum of ten dollars, with the suggestion that the local board of trade collect that amount among the shippers directly concerned in lower freight rates or rate adjustments.

NARAMATA REAL SUMMER RESORT

J. M. Robinson Proceeding With Pre-War Plans for Beautiful Lakeside Town.

NEW GOLF LINKS. These and Country Club to Be Adjunct of Hotel Naramata to be Re-opened.

If J. M. Robinson's plans are successful, Naramata will speedily develop into the chief summer resort of the Okanagan. Mr. Robinson is now dealing with interests which propose to take over the hotel and lakeshore property and also a 300 acre site on Mill Creek, near the Hancock ranch. This site is to be developed as a golf course and will be operated in connection with the hotel property as a general country and golf club.

Dave Black, of the Shaughnessy Golf Club, Vancouver, was a visitor to Naramata recently and laid out a nine hole course on the acreage. The course will be about a mile and a half north of the hotel. According to Mr. Black it will be the sportiest course in the province. Later it will be developed into an eighteen hole course.

Mr. Lawrence, one-time manager of the Hotel Summerland, and more recently a resident of Spokane, is spending some time at Naramata. He stated this week that a start had been made upon the erection of Mr. Robinson's new residence, which will be situated near the Unity club house and south of the hotel building.

NEW MAIL BOX.

Since the fire which destroyed the C. P. R. station and with it the mail box there, any persons wishing to assure that late letters would go out on the early morning boat have taken advantage of the courtesy of the Hotel Summerland management and have been leaving letters at the hotel to be taken to the boat the next morning. On Wednesday of this week a new letter box was placed on the western end of the temporary station building on the government wharf.

NO TIN PLATE—CANNERY STOPS

Strike on U. S. Railways Delays Delivery to Coast Can Company.

BUYING IN EAST. Canneries Throughout Province Likely to Suffer Until Supply Improves.

Losses being suffered by growers of tomatoes and fruits that were destined to the canneries are directly attributable to the railway strike in the United States, according to information given The Review. The canneries of his province are practically all supplied with tins by the American Can Co.'s factory at the coast. That factory depends on the eastern or central states for the large amount of tin plate it consumes. Interruption in delivery of the tin plate by the strike has made it impossible for the can factory to keep up with the demand.

The Broder cannery here, after being down for a few days has again been packing tomatoes, using up what gallon cans were in the plant and an odd car or two that have come in from the coast. When operating, a carload of tins last the cannery not more than two days. The same company's plant at New Westminster has been closed from the same cause. There are now rolling for the cannery here two carloads of cans coming from Ontario and others are looked for from the coast.

Other Okanagan canneries are reported to have been compelled to suspend operations temporarily, and others of them are likely to be without tins in a few days.

INTERDEPENDENCE OF B. C. AND ALBERTA

Alberta Editor Says Two Have Everything to Gain by Free Exchange.

Commenting editorially on his visit to the Okanagan during the recent press convention, the editor of the Chronicle, Chauvin, Alberta, says: "One thought that has been impressed very deeply upon the mind of the editor as a result of his trip to British Columbia, was the interdependence of the two provinces of Alberta and British Columbia upon each other.

"Ignoring for the present the radical and fundamental differences of political outlook, we will briefly observe the economic side of the question.

"Alberta differs from her two prairie sister provinces in being nearer to the Rockies and the Pacific ocean. Alberta is of more park-like nature and in consequence is more adapted to the dairying and

WIDENING ROAD ON LAKE SHORE

Section of Summerland-Penticton Road Being Improved Now Unsafe.

That part of the Summerland-Penticton road south of the boundary of the South Okanagan-Similkameen districts is being very much improved. For some time it has been the better part of the road and the contrast will be much greater unless considerable work is done on the northern half.

Last week and this Mr. McLellan, the foreman on the roads south of the above mentioned boundary, has been widening the road, cutting back the most protruding points and smoothing out the surface to which he has been giving a moderate crown.

Users of the road will sincerely hope that the Summerland end will be similarly treated. There are now many places in which it is practically impossible for two cars to pass and the surface is exceedingly rough.

Until the new work on this road has set, we would advise all motorists to avoid going too near the edge. Already several cars have gotten into difficulties by approaching too close to the edge.

A TIMELY WARNING.

Bishop de Pencier will have the approval of most British Columbians in the line which he took at the meeting at Hamilton recently of the Canadian Clubs in relation to the Oriental question in this province.

It was necessary for Canada's welfare, his lordship argued, that no more Orientals should be admitted into the Dominion than we could Canadianize. He added significantly that unless we were willing that our sons and daughters should marry Chinese and Japanese, we had no right to admit Orientals without number. This puts the matter, robbed of any camouflage, squarely before the public.

The argument has been nearly worn threadbare by constant reiteration—at the conference of the Canadian Clubs at Winnipeg last year emphasis was laid upon it in just as pronounced a fashion—but it is none the less true that, except in rare instances such as that of the brilliant author and writer upon Japan, Lafcadio Hearn, the Occidental and the Oriental cannot successfully intermarry. That should end the argument.—Vancouver World.

In the eyes of modern girls some rich men are too old to be considered eligible, while others are too eligible to be considered old.

Benjamin Franklin said that a bible and a newspaper in every house, a good school in every district—all studied and appreciated as they merit—are the principal support of virtue, morality and civil liberty.

Merchants and advertisers may well remember the truth of Byron's statement that words are things; and that a small drop of ink, falling like dew upon a thought, produces that which makes thousands, perhaps millions, think.

Nesbitt & Forster's Garage and Filling Station

W. H. Snell, successor to H. W. Brodie as General Passenger Agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, headquarters at Vancouver.

Mr. Snell's appointment as general passenger agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Vancouver, is in accordance with the company's policy of educating its officers that they may be entirely familiar with the Canadian Pacific system at large, and qualified for greater responsibilities.

Mr. Snell has had considerable experience in passenger traffic, both in Canada and the United States. He entered the service of the Canadian Pacific in 1888 as clerk in the treasurer's office, in Montreal, and since that time has filled various positions, being chief clerk to the district passenger agent at Boston; travelling passenger agent New England territory; eastern passenger agent, New York; general agent, passenger department, New York; and in 1915 was made general passenger agent, Eastern Lines, at Montreal, which comprises all lines in Canada east of Port William, and Canadian Pacific agencies in the United States, Denver, Colo., and east.

Those who know him predict a successful administration of his new responsibilities.

STORAGE OF VEGETABLES

(Experimental Farms Note). Winter storage of vegetables is an old question often discussed, but apparently not yet well understood. To store the crop seems a comparatively easy task, but to guard against heavy loss while in storage is sometimes quite a problem even for the most experienced growers.

Some of the first and most important factors influencing the keeping of vegetables in storage are to see that the vegetables are free from disease, well grown, fully matured and free from injuries such as bruises caused by careless handling at harvest time. If these important points are kept in mind and carefully attended to at the time of selecting the material for storage, much worry and subsequent loss in dollars and cents will be avoided by the grower later on.

For the storage of such crops as beets, carrots, potatoes, cabbage, celery, parsnips and turnips, a properly constructed, frost-proof cellar should be available, with adequate ventilation to keep the temperature as constant as possible around 36 deg. F at all times during the storage period. By no means should a storage cellar become excessively damp, because excessive moisture favors the development of many of the common diseases attacking vegetables in storage, and more especially when in warm, ill-ventilated cellars. Moderate-sized, slatted bins or crates should be used for the storage of roots and potatoes, while cabbage can be stored on slatted shelves or in bins. Celery is usually stored in the root cellar. The plants are stripped of all rough leaves and placed in an upright position on moist sand, more sand being placed around the roots. However, where only small quantities of vegetables are to be stored for household use, and a basement is available, a compartment or room should be provided therein, of such construction as to exclude the heat from the furnace and with suitable vents in the wall to provide good ventilation. It is not advisable to store a great quantity of cabbage or turnips in the cellar of a dwelling house. A good earthen floor in the storage room is to be preferred to cement. Where an earthen floor can be had in a well constructed vegetable room, it is seldom necessary to store the carrots, beets, parsnips and potatoes in sand, because, as a rule, sufficient moisture will escape from the floor to keep the air moist enough to prevent the vegetables from withering up. Onions require quite different conditions, while in storage, to the other varieties of vegetables. A dry, cool, dark room is best suited for

WHAT A TELEPHONE OPERATOR KNOWS

During the nine years' operation of the Summerland telephone a great many questions have been asked, indeed, it would make a very interesting volume if it could be put into print. However, as no record has been kept, I will have to trust to memory for some of the questions we have been called upon to answer.

It is the general impression that Central gains most of her information through the rubberneck key on the switchboard, and during the time between calls, which are often ten or 12 to the minute, she will be able to pick up the names of those present at the last tea party, or any other information that might come in handy later on. In order that the public may be perfectly clear on this matter, come up to the office between 9 and 11 any morning, if Central is not too busy doing crochet work or interested in Eaton's catalogue, she may be able to tell some of the questions she has been called upon to answer. However, for the benefit of those unable to come, I will note only a few questions we have been called upon to answer within the last few days as I remember them:

Ans.—"10.15."
"Say, don't give me the time in figures."

"Central, I want to go out on the boat, will you call me about 5 o'clock in the morning? My alarm clock is busted."

"Say, Central, will you put me onto Dr. Andrews' house?"

Four o'clock a.m.—Central, did you call me?
Central—"No."
Subscriber—"Oh, I guess it was the alarm clock."

"How is the boat?"
"How is the train?"
"How is the time?"

"Central, do you see my boy Tommy down at the wharf?"

"Central, will you give me heaven?"
Ans.—"They have no phone."

"Central, who sells coal in Penticton?"

Sunday morning, 10.30.—"Central, what is that bell ringing for?"

Say, Central, what's the matter with you? Give me Mr. Atkins.
Ans.—"The line is busy."
Subscriber—"*!#!!"

WHY NOT OKANAGAN PEACHES FOR THE PACIFIC COAST TOWNS

(Fraser Valley Record)

A recent visit to the Okanagan and the opportunity of seeing the many beautiful orchards at Vernon, Kelowna, Summerland and Penticton, where peaches reach their perfection in taste, color and quantity, would lead one to ask the question, Why are not Okanagan peaches sold in the towns of the Fraser Valley in preference to the California product? There is a reason, and our patriotism to the home grown product, it being equal to the foreign product (in this case it is superior) leads the writer to believe there is "something rotten in the State of Denmark." What is this something? Who is responsible in the coast cities?

Those who attended the banquet at the Mission Hotel on Monday evening heard the minister of agriculture reiterate the fact that millions of dollars were spent each year for the importation of fruit and other food products into the province. The question arises: Is it necessary that this importation should take place each year owing to the fact that the same article of food is not grown in B. C.? Or is the importation made in defiance of the fact that there is plenty of the home grown fruit, such as peaches, but those responsible for the distribution are also responsible for the importation?

There are other kinds of fruit, besides peaches from the Okanagan, that meet the foreign competitor on the market. Why should peaches meet competition, when there is abundance of peaches grown in the Okanagan Valley—peaches that the lady of the house would much prefer to have for eating and preserving purposes?

Vancouver is the greatest distributing centre for the Fraser Valley. Do the wholesale fruit men realize what an injury they are doing their province when they bring in California peaches, with an abundance of Okanagan peaches that can be placed on the Vancouver market in much less than twenty-four hours after the order is placed? Or do these men give a "tinker's damn" if the B. C. fruit lies rotting on the ground, and the grower thus so handicapped that it puzzles him how to carry on? Sure there is something wrong somewhere!

The good ladies of Vancouver and the Fraser Valley generally are patriotic enough to buy, and they have the say in this matter, B. C. fruit when it is equal to the imported fruit. They know the Okanagan peach is equal, if not superior to the California peach. The other day the writer happened to be in a store when a lady, who was looking for preserving peaches, asked the clerk if he "had no peaches from the Okanagan." His reply was that the wholesalers had sent only the California peaches.

Do the wholesalers want to see the province forge ahead, or do they care so long as they get their commission?

When the question of anti-dumping clause came before the Vancouver Board of Trade last winter, it was claimed that—well the board kind of side-tracked the issue, they were not responsible (?) for a certain committee of the board.

It would appear that the same people who fathered the campaign against the anti-dumping clause are also responsible for the California peach crowding out the Okanagan peach.

Somebody tried to inform this paper by circular a few days ago that there was a strenuous campaign on in the province to get the people to buy the "Made in B. C." products. What this paper wants to know; What the fruit grower wants to know, and what we all want to know, is why this does not apply to the Fraser Valley small fruits? Why it does not apply to potatoes, hay and all other products of the B. C. soil? Apparently the "Made in B. C." campaign does not include the "Grown in B. C." product. More's the pity!

Thus the business of the province is being ruined. The farmer cannot sell his produce to good advantage owing to the unpatriotic action of the wholesaler, who asked (a mild word) the consumer to purchase foreign potatoes, foreign hay and foreign everything else of the kind that is produced by the B. C. farmer. Wonder if that is why Timothy Eaton's catalogue finds such an important place in so many farmers' homes? He follows the idea, buy any place except at home.

To make this province prosperous and happy the "Grown in B. C." campaign must go side by side with the "Made in B. C." campaign. Then will the farmer and fruit grower cooperate with the business men who are at present boosting the "Made in B. C." product. When a man who tills the soil is down and out of luck his purchasing power of "Made in B. C." product is mighty limited and his wish to patronize those who do not patronize him ranks at least ten per cent. below par.

Let us get together. Let us boost just as hard for the "Grown in B. C." peaches and other farm produce as we are expected to boost for the "Made in B. C." produce. Thus build up a province with a happy, contented people. Importing when the home grown can be utilized seems a poor gambling game.

FRUITS BEST GROWN HERE

Horticultural Branch Names Varieties Best Suited to Each District.

Fruit varieties to be grown in the several fruit districts of this province, as recommended by the horticultural branch of the provincial department of agriculture are listed in a circular now being distributed by the department, a copy of which has come to The Review.

No less than ten different divisions of the province are made, the territory generally included in the Okanagan being divided into four—Shuswap Lake and Armstrong benches, Vernon and Oyama, Okanagan Centre, Kelowna and Westbank, Southern Okanagan and Similkameen.

Here are the varieties of fruits advised for this district: Cherries—Bing and Lambert, with Tartarian or Republican for pollination.

Plums—Peach, Bradshaw, Climax, Tragedy, Green Gage, Danson, Italian Prune.

Peaches—Yellow St. John, Early Crawford, J. H. Hale, Elberta.

Apricots—Mookpark, Blenheim, Tilton.

Pears—Flemish, Anjou, Dr. Jules Guyot, Howell, Bosc.

Apples—Gravenstein, Jonathan, Delicious, Rome Beauty, Stayman, Winesap. Jonathans as fillers only. Stayman in Summerland, Naramata and Penticton only. Winesap in Osoyoos and Keremeos only.

A number of varieties now grown in this district are advised for sections farther north where varieties recommended for here cannot be grown to profit.

HIS GLIMPSE OF SUMMERLAND

Vancouver Island Editor Tells His Readers of What He Saw Here.

In his description of the trip through the Okanagan, made by the newspaper men of Alberta and British Columbia, Hugh Savage, editor of the Cowichan Leader, says:

"At Summerland a genial colonel attempted to palm off some Victoria visitors as 'peaches' of the local brand. There is dust in this delightful spot, likewise the Dominion Experimental Farm, whose superintendent, through his writings, is not unknown to Cowichan folk.

"There was no lack of real peaches at Summerland. The farther south you go down the lake, the more 'tropical' become the fruit varieties. Cantaloupes and apricots, cherries and tomatoes, so it goes at Summerland and Penticton.

"Perhaps the most illuminating fact about Summerland is the new $80,000 storage plant the orchardists have put up themselves. They could not raise the money in Vancouver, so they raised it among themselves."

Locating Canada.

"Where is Canada? Is it near Montreal?" Rev. W. Bowman Tucker, of the Montreal City Mission, says that he was asked this question in Liverpool during his present visit to Great Britain to raise funds for his mission. This almost eclipses the experience of Miss Cora Hind, the western journalist and authority on agricultural subjects, who was compelled to register as an alien in an English provincial hotel, although she explained that she was a Canadian.

PASSING EVENTS

LOCAL, PERSONAL, SOCIAL & OTHERWISE

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hermiston spent last week-end with friends at Oliver.

Finest quality home grown meats are featured by Devitt's market in their regular space in this paper.

Mrs. W. P. Secrest, Miss Edna and John Secrest, of the Fairview district, were visitors to Summerland last week-end.

Mrs. C. P. Evans, with her two children, has gone down to Brandon to visit her sister. She left here on Monday morning.

Miss Thelma Hobbs, who is in charge of the public school at Kaleden, came up from there on Friday and spent the week-end at her home here.

Next year the annual convention of B. C. hospitals will be held in Penticton, according to the decision at the convention recently held in New Westminster.

Miss Lucy Hargreaves and Miss Alva Garnett spent last week-end at their homes here. Miss Hargreaves is teaching at Glenrosa and Miss Garnett at Westbank.

Mrs. Ralph White and two youngest children, returned Tuesday evening from St. John, N.B., where they have been visiting with Mrs. White's parents and other relatives.

When early this week it seemed that war might again break out, quite a number of local men, former officers, wired headquarters offering their services.

Messrs. C. W. Lees and Joe Gayton, both of the Kelowna public school staff, motored down from the Orchard City on Friday and made the return trip on Sunday.

Rev. C. H. Smith, formerly of Ontario, and now a resident of Eburne, B.C., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. C. White. Rev. Mr. Smith will speak at the Baptist church on Sunday.

Mrs. M. E. Cameron, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Schwass, left on Monday morning to return to her home in Saskatoon. Going with her as far as Calgary, Miss Schwass will visit there for a time.

The case of the Summerland Fruit Union, vs. Lyons, Naramata, in which the Union is suing for alleged breaking of contract, came up for hearing in the county court on Tuesday. Adjudgment was granted pending settlement outside of court.

On Tuesday evening a number of boys, members of the St. Andrew's church congregation, were guests at dinner of Rev. W. A. Alexander and Mrs. Alexander. Those so honored were the boys who are leaving soon to study at the university or elsewhere.

In St. Andrew's Church last Sunday evening, Rev. Mr. Eschoo, a Persian, described in a very graphic way, the persecutions being suffered by the Christians in that country and told of the terrible massacre, in which many thousands were slaughtered by the Mohammedans.

Rev. H. A. Solly and Mrs. Solly returned last Friday from Portland. They made the journey both ways by motor and Mr. Solly describes the trip as a most enjoyable one. British Columbia has got to change its policy, he says, if it is to keep up with the Americans in providing roads and getting a share of the profitable tourist traffic.

An opportunity to send apples for Christmas to friends in Great Britain is being offered by R. Pollock. One can arrange to have Mr. Pollock supply and deliver the apples, or the grower may provide the apples and either pack them himself or have them packed for him. Mr. Pollock's advertisement is published in our advertising columns. 763,4,5

Mr. J. H. Roberts, of the Bank of Montreal, returned on Friday from Princeton, where he had been relieving the manager while the latter was on his vacation. On Monday, Mr. H. Fisher, manager of the Naramata office of the Bank of Montreal, started on his vacation and Mr. Roberts is in charge there. Later he will relieve Mr. Winter, manager of the West Summerland office.

Winger vs. Baptist was a Peachland case before the county court on Tuesday. According to the plaintiff, he sold on trial a gasoline engine to the defendant, but the latter had not returned the engine nor paid for it. Variation from the price agreed upon was claimed by the defendant, who asked that the case be adjourned, because his child had been badly burned and he wished to be at home. Adjudgment was allowed.

Mrs. J. B. McLaren, of Victoria, is here on a visit to her niece, Mrs. T. B. Young.

Mr. W. C. Kelley attended a sitting of the county court in Penticton on Tuesday.

Jack Wark, the seven-year-old son of Dr. A. E. Wark, of Vancouver, came in a few days ago to remain for a time with Mrs. Theo. Hermon.

According to a traveller tomatoes are being retailed at railway stations on the prairies at 25c a pound and peaches at four pounds for a quarter.

Mr. A. G. Williams, representing the Broder Canning Co., New Westminster, and Mrs. R. Broder and Mrs. M. A. Jones, of that city, were guests at Hotel Summerland on Monday.

Satisfaction in service rendered is one of the pleasures of business. Such is what Messrs. Downton & White find in giving their customers the best obtainable. This is referred to in their regular space in this number.

Dr. W. A. Vanderburg and Mrs. Vanderburg and young son, of Hamilton, Ont., are visiting here at the home of Mr. Edgar Vanderburg, the former's uncle. From here they will go on to the coast and down to California.

Jas. Marshall will leave next Monday to continue his studies at Guelph Agricultural college. Charlie Daly, a former Summerland boy, son of Rev. C. H. Daly, now of Ladner, will go to Guelph at the same time to enter on his second year's work.

Early this week, in compliance with instructions, a start was made to move the temporary buildings erected by the C. P. R. on the government wharf to the new C. P. R. wharf, but the work had only commenced when orders were received to stop.

Louis Smith went down to the coast by Thursday's train. He will spend a few days at Ladner with a former Summerland chum, Stewart Daly, before going to Vancouver to enter the university. Stewart Daly, it is learned here, is going east to enter a university.

Blanchard Munn left here on Tuesday morning for Montreal where he goes to take a course in medicine at McGill university. Blanchard has already completed the two years in arts, which is required of every medical student, having been for that time at the University of B. C.

A large number of young people of St. Andrew's church congregation were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Munn on Monday evening. Many of those present are leaving to continue their studies elsewhere, among them being Blanchard Munn, who went out the next morning for McGill university. Russell Munn leaves on Sunday next for the U. B. C.

Last Friday morning the ss. Okanagan took from here the northbound passengers, leaving here about 8 o'clock. About 45 minutes later the ss. Sicamous called and took on mail and express matter. The reason for the change from the usual routine was that the Sicamous had been chartered to carry a party of Montreal business men and a number of British members of parliament up the lake. They had arrived at Penticton late the evening before and were landed at Kelowna Friday morning. Lunch was served at Oyama and after a tour of the Vernon district they proceeded to the coast.

TROUBLE IN THE EAST.

The trend of events during the few weeks in Asia Minor, culminating in the complete rout of the Greek forces, cannot fail to have a most far-reaching effect upon the Moslem population of Western Asia and Northern Africa. India, Egypt and Arabia have discontent rife among the Mohammedan element of this population, fostered in part by the state of internationalization put upon Constantinople and the degradation of Turkey by the Treaty of Sevres, and in part by foiled ambitions for full self governments and creation of autonomous Arab and Mohammedan states. It is most truly to be hoped that pacific arguments may be of avail and avert a state of war.

The state of Islamic feeling is now in nowise humble and fear is rightly entertained that a furtherance of hostilities in Asia Minor and military action of Britain against the Nationalist party of Turkey, though it may be very distasteful to Britain, may well set light to the fuse of trouble in India, Arabia and Egypt, both in territories administered by Britain and by other European states and not unlikely to have as an early fruit massacres and despoliation on an unprecedented scale in many centres of Mohammedanism.

Let no man think that this rumor of conflict is one of interest only local to its centre of trouble, it is the hairspring of trouble over a widespread area and may, unless handled with the utmost tact and conciliation coupled with a determined unity of front amongst Christian peoples, readily develop itself into a conflict of Christian against Mohammedan; of sane government and safety of life and freedom of opinion against the cruel darkness of oppression which has marked the progress of the disciples of Mohammed since early times. Such a conflict has potentialities of world upheaval such as the late war in Europe could not compare, and to those who have first hand knowledge of Mohammedan fanaticism and cruelty it will be readily realized the swath of unspeakable crime and brutality that may yet be cut. Canada is a country of Christian ideals and standards and if war with Islam must result, let her not be afraid to show it with a certainty of voice and let her stand beside Britain now to show Islam that the Empire has one voice in Christian idealism and will protect minorities wherever her flag flies.—Cont.

this crop, where the temperature can be kept around 34 deg. F. By no means should onions be stored in a cellar, except where it is possible to maintain a dry, cool atmosphere.

Squash and pumpkins should be stored in a dry, moderately warm room, where a temperature of .50 deg. F can be maintained. Particularly careful handling is necessary at harvest time if this crop is to be kept for any length of time. Place the squash or pumpkins on shelves or on a table, in a single layer.

BUSINESS GROWING

Attention is directed to the special summer sale being put on this week by the Grocerteria. For two weeks special bargain prices are being offered.

Asked this week how he found business, Mr. Rumball, the manager, expressed satisfaction in the manner in which his business has been growing. During the past few weeks he has experienced a very pleasing increase in business and in his advertisement he expresses his feelings with respect to this increase and attributes it to the growing interest the public is taking in his advertisements.

Mr. Rumball says there is more money in circulation now than earlier in the season. Evidently he is out to get his share of the increase in business that is resulting from increased cash circulation.

DISLOYALTY IN CO.-OP. CIRCLES

American Fruit Grower Magazine Tells of Some of Opposition Methods.

Troubles which are confronting the leaders of the co-operative fruit marketing movement in the Okanagan are but typical of what is being experienced by managers of similar organizations elsewhere, judging from the following, an item recently published in "American Fruit Grower," and which has been handed The Review as being of sufficient general interest to warrant reprinting here. The American Fruit Grower says:

"The favorite form of opposition of those opposed to co-operative marketing is to attack the management. Sometimes they will not come out directly and attack the officers, but do it in an indirect way by talking to some member, or a competitor will approach an independent grower and fill him full of woeful tales concerning the co-operative. This same agent will often visit banks and business men and try to shake their confidence. This form of attack must always be expected by co-operative bodies.

"The second form of attack is to have some disgruntled members become angry and talk to non-members and other people concerning their own organization's business. This is always a fatal mistake and almost invariably the talker becomes sorry for his actions as he realizes they are far reaching and destructive.

"The management of a co-operative body has a very difficult position to fill. Both those in and out of the organization do not realize the problems he often is called upon to face. It must be borne in mind that conditions the past two years have been very difficult—that many a manager has had to take a business which was not very well financed and which was simply in the period of organization, and if under these conditions he has weathered the storm, he is to be congratulated.

"Work with your manager, co-operate with him, give him helpful suggestions—or if you have criticisms to make, go to him direct. In this way you will build up your organization and strengthen it.

WIT'S REPUTATION GOES TO HOSPITAL

How They Shielded Geo. H. Ham From Fearful Thoughts Following an Operation.

No man in Canada has the reputation of equaling Geo. H. Ham, of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., as a raconteur and a wit. Sir Thomas White once called him "a great national asset."

Mr. Ham added that he was glad that Sir Thomas had fortunately not forgotten the "et." Even in the hospital undergoing an operation for appendicitis, Mr. Ham sustained his reputation, as his best story, probably, will show.

When he lost consciousness, he says, his last thought was "This is eternity."

"When I recovered from the effects of the opiate, I found myself in a darkened room, and wondered where I was and what it was all about. The kindly-natured nurse quickly discovered that my consciousness had returned, and came to my bedside, and then I remembered everything. "But why this dark room? It was early morning when they operated on me, but now it can't be night."

"No, it isn't," she seriously responded, "but we were afraid of the shock you might get."

"Why, what shock?"

"Well, there was a big fire just across the street, and we were afraid if you awoke, and saw the flames, you might think that the operation hadn't been successful."

mixed farming which in turn has made Alberta the province of more permanent country homes. Alberta has two cities, Calgary and Edmonton, each of which are larger than any two Saskatchewan cities. Again Alberta has an added advantage over her sister prairie provinces in the possession of lumber, coal and oil. Her nearness to the eastern slope of the Rockies, and her warmer northern watercourses give her these great assets.

"Through these Rocky mountains, which we are prone to regard as natural barriers, there flows an ever increasing bulk of merchandise. This volume of business is easily capable of being greatly extended. East of the Rockies we have coal, dairy products and grains, all of which are in demand in British Columbia. West of the Rockies there is little coal, but there are vast productions of fruits that we cannot produce. The seaboard of British Columbia needs a larger share of the Alberta business.

"Briefly, Alberta and British Columbia have everything to gain and nothing to lose, by gaining a closer acquaintance of each other and a more free exchange of each other's products."

The local board was asked to send a representative to Vancouver to, with others, take up with dealers there the question of handling Okanagan fruits in preference to American. Finances would not permit of complying with this request.

The secretary was asked to meet the municipal council and take up with that body the question of the charge against the board of trade now on the books of the municipality, being for $85, the balance of a sum of $200 advanced in 1921 to help finance the district exhibit at New Westminster. Mr. Elliott had understood to do this, provided that he was permitted to admit to the council that the board had made a mistake as to its understanding with respect to this advance. He will ask that the municipality make the board a grant for this amount.

Two new members were elected, Messrs. T. G. Walden and C. B. Winter.

CAMPAIGN TO CLEAN UP ALL M'INTOSH CROP

Plan To Put Entire Crop in Hands of Consumers is Proposed

WILL STORE APPLES Direct Shipments Said to Have Serious Effect on Apple Prices

There has recently been inaugurated a special campaign to make a quick clean up of the McIntosh apple crop of this province.

Mr. Thos. Bulman of Kelowna is credited as the prime mover in this campaign and the recent action on the part of the Federal Government to impose a dumping charge on apples imported at unfair prices has encouraged the movement.

Mr. Bulman during a recent visit to Vancouver interviewed the Vancouver Board of Trade with the object of enlisting the sympathies of that body in the proposed campaign. He found those he met were eager to help and it was quickly arranged for a deputation of Okanagan fruit shippers, growers and business men to visit Vancouver this week to present the case before a special gathering of the Vancouver Board including representatives of the whole sale and retail trade.

The plan outlined and which is said to have been acquiesced in by the fruit handlers is to fix the price to consumer at $2.50 per box and to the shipper at $1.60 for No. 1 McIntoshes. This entails a severe pruning of the handlers' usual profits, but it is believed that if the dealers live up to their promise it can be carried out and the market for McIntosh thus tremendously expanded.

Asked this week his opinion of the proposed campaign, a well known local shipper approved of the idea but expressed doubt if even the price of $2.50 would be maintained. In fact he said, he had it on good authority that imported McIntoshes were quoted at $2.25 almost immediately after the above arrangement had been agreed upon.

FAILED TO BURY MEAT OFFAL—FINED

Before Police Magistrate Hutton on Friday last, Bernard Taylor was charged with dumping butcher's refuse on the Municipal Nuisance Grounds without burying same, and was fined $10 and costs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarke, witnesses told of the very offensive smell coming from the Municipal dumping plot. Taylor pleaded guilty but declared he did not know that the regulations required the burying of meat refuse.

ADDING FURNITURE AND FOOTWEAR TO STOCK OF MAIN STORE

Butler and Walden Brothers are this week moving their stock of furniture and footwear from the Kelley Block to their main store. By rearrangement in the latter building, wall and floor space has been provided for the additional stock and by amalgamating their selling force, they expect to be in a better position to cater to their customers in all branches. Announcement of the change is made in firm's regular advertising space in this number.

A FORMER PASTOR IS VISITOR HERE

Rev. A. Henderson and his daughter, Miss Cathleen, were visitors in town this week. Mr. Henderson was for several years pastor of the local Methodist church. Latterly he has been living on and operating a small fruit ranch in the Chilliwack district and it is apparent that he finds this a healthful occupation as he looks many years younger than when he

SOFT ROAD EDGE CAUSES ACCIDENT

New Earth Gives Way. Mack Car Turns Upside Down on Lake Shore

While returning from the south Sunday evening, William Mack and family met with misfortune on the road between here and Pentiction. Their car was being driven by their son, W. J. Mack, when they met a car southbound. The latter pulled off to the side of the road and stopped but it was on a section of the road which has recently been widened, and when the Mack car turned out, the soft earth gave way under the outer wheels causing the car to roll over on its top on the beach. None of the occupants received more than minor injuries and the car suffered only a broken windshield and top. After being righted and pulled on to the road by R. H. English the next morning, it came home under its own power.

PERJURY CASE COMES BEFORE MAJOR HUTTON

Osoyoos Man Recently Acquitted on Liquor Charge Again in Court

Charged with having committed perjury at his recent trial at the Pentiction Police Court for unlawfully selling liquor, by swearing to the effect that having gone to Pentiction from Osoyoos on July 29th, 1922, he did not return till July 31st, 1922, Arthur Claughton was before Justice of the Peace, Major H. H. Hutton, on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

F. R. Anderson, of Vancouver, appeared for the prosecution, and M. M. Colquhoun, of Pentiction, represented the defendant.

Some little hitch occurred at the beginning of the session owing to the court stenographer's evidence in the liquor case referred to not having been attested and court was adjourned for a short while to have this oversight amended.

Thos. E. Denny, Provincial Constable under the Liquor Control Board was the first witness called, and gave evidence as to the execution of the warrant for Claughton's arrest. Some attempt was made by counsel for defendant to intimate that the witness had made a mistake between the defendant and his brother, but this was not substantiated by Denny, who affirmed the defendant Claughton was the man he saw in Osoyoos on Sunday, July 30th last.

John McCormick, another Provincial Constable also gave evidence along similar lines as to the presence of Claughton at Osoyoos on the Sunday mentioned.

John DeRosiers who keeps a store and restaurant at Osoyoos upon being called, testified to seeing the defendant.

APPLYING ANTI-DUMPING CLAUSE

Results of Visit of Ottawa Official to Washington State And This Valley

"NOT DUMPING" Was First Report Sent to Ottawa. Further Investigation Brings Order to Collect Sur-charge

On receipt of a telegram dated Sept. 6th from Hon. Jacques Bureau, Minister of Customs, to the effect that the special officer investigating fruit conditions in Washington had found a satisfactory home market and no evidence of slaughtering or dumping, the B.C. Traffic & Credit Association at once got in touch with the officer in question, Mr. Thomas W. Moutat, and induced him to visit the Okanagan, which he did on Sept. 9th, 10th and 11th, and was speedily discovered that there had been some misunderstanding of his reports at Ottawa.

After discussing the matter with a number of shippers and the Growers' Committee, a meeting was held at the ranch of Mr. Thomas Bulman, Kelowna, on Sept. 10th at which, after further full discussion, Mr. Bulman and Mr. R. M. Winslow, Secretary of the Traffic & Credit Association, were appointed a committee to meet the Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, then in Vancouver Dr. K. C. McDonald, M.L.A., was subsequently added to the committee, who at once proceeded to Vancouver and on Tuesday, Sept. 12th, laid the whole question before Hon. Dr. King and Senator Bostock, meeting with a very cordial reception.

Mr. Moutat made a personal report to Senator Bostock of his observations in Washington.

As the result of the interview, telegrams were dispatched to Ottawa the same night by Hon. Dr. King, Senator Bostock, Chief Inspector of Customs Busby, Mr. Moutat and others, and on Wednesday afternoon the Collector of Customs at Vancouver received a wire instructing him to proceed forthwith to collect dumping duties on the basis of Mr. Moutat's figures, on all importations of peaches and onions since August 24th.

Chief Inspector Busby has advised that, this step having been taken, the whole machinery will immediately be put in action to collect all duties due on the basis of Mr. Moutat's figures since importations were accepted for entry subject to amendment. Mr. Busby will personally visit all the important Customs points in Canada as quickly as possible, to insure the enforcement of dumping duties on all fruits and vegetables covered by Mr. Moutat's investigation.

Tomorrow is the stone over which many a business man has stumbled.

CHANGE OF DATE

For some months The Review has been publishing on Thursday afternoon, though the date of the paper has been continued as Friday.

The change was made in the interests of our advertisers, so that they might get their store news before our readers in plenty of time for week end business. The change has been so satisfactory to both advertisers and to readers, who are now able to learn in ample time for week end shopping of what is being offered by merchants, that we have decided to continue to issue on Thursday and beginning next week the paper will be dated Thursday.

In connection with this change in date, we trust it will remind our advertisers that the paper goes to press one day earlier than formerly and that they will let us have their changes of copy in good time. Otherwise it is impossible to publish on time. By making it a practice to prepare the week's advertisement on Monday or earlier, this can be done. We require that all changes be in the printers' hands by Tuesday noon at latest. This is no earlier than is required by other papers with larger staffs, in fact some of them publishing on Thursday will not accept changes after Monday noon.

The co-operation of our advertisers in making The Review of the greatest possible value to them and to the community is requested by

ROUTE CHOSEN FOR ROAD TO COAST

Will Utilize Much of Old Trail Over Mountains

Now that the route for the connecting link of the Trans-Provincial Highway between the Coast and the Interior appears to have at last been definitely decided on, it may interest motorists and others to know what is exactly meant by the "Hope-Princeton Route." There are three possible routes between Hope and Princeton, but the one adopted as presenting the least difficulties and as the least expensive either to build or maintain takes the following course: From Hope to Cayuse Flats on the Skagit via the old sappers' and miners' road, thence east following the Skagit river, via the Allison pass down the Cambie river to the Gibson pass, thence down the Similkameen river to Princeton. The elevation at the Allison pass is 4,450 feet. This route is 79 miles long, being longer than the old "Dewdney" route, but shorter than the "Cleveland" survey. The new highway will utilize the work done in early days by the sappers and miners out of Hope and also part of the work done several years back on the Cleveland route, near Princeton. The general expect-

WHARF READY FOR STATION BUILDING

Yard Improvements Will Make More Loading Room—Filling Adds to Yard Space

The Canadian Pacific railway gang which has been here for some weeks rebuilding the wharf and yard trackage left for the north this week.

During the past week or two considerable filling and grading of the ground formerly occupied by the Fruit Union building was done. The material used was obtained from the base of the cliff on the opposite side of the road. The removal of this material has improved the street considerably, somewhat straightening out the road which had been built around a slide some years ago, and also cleaning off the inner edge of the sidewalk. Some material that will better resist the action of the water will be used to fill in the outer edge of this property which will make an excellent site for additional team trackage.

Work on the erection of the new station building is expected to commence at any time.

CHAUTAQUA NEXT WEEK

Program is of Very High Order Says Director C. W. McQuillin

Chautauqua is again with us and Director C. W. McQuillin, who is in town, assures another splendid program. The dates of Summerland Chautauqua are October 2, 3, 4, 5. Program will be given in the Empire Hall.

The Chautauqua program is varied in its appeal to the community. The whole is made up of lectures and musical entertainment. Dr. A. D. Carpenter is well known throughout the Canadian West as an orator and lecturer of high rank. He is a scientist and astronomer and delivers two lectures on the second day. The afternoon lecture is entitled, "The Energy of The Universe," and in the evening he speaks on "The Nearness of God." Both lectures are scientific in nature, but far from being dry and uninteresting. He is entertaining as well as instructive. It was only due to repeated requests from local committees that Dr. Carpenter has been brought back to Western Canada.

The third day's program will be given by "The Berkley Sextette," a group of six young ladies, each a soloist, who have composed themselves into an orchestra of the first magnitude. They will give two concerts on the third day, each varied by classical, popular and special number. This aggregation will long be remembered for their pleasing entertainment.

Other features on the Chautauqua program may be found on the programs distributed throughout the town and country.

The bringing of Chautauqua to Summerland is a big undertaking on the part of the local committee. It requires from them a sacrifice of their time and energy at this period of the year when it can be ill afforded. The only return made to them is the satisfaction of having brought to their neighbors and community a force of educational value both to the old and young. You can show your appreciation of their efforts by buying a season ticket when you are canvassed. Remember a season ticket entitling you to admission to seven programs costs you $2.50, whereas a single admission ticket will cost you 75 cents. All season tickets must be bought before Monday noon, October 2nd.

SHIP EIGHT CARLOADS IN A DAY

Eight carloads of fruit were shipped from the C.P.R. yard here on Saturday, making a full barge load. This is the first occasion this season on which a full load has been taken from here.

Shippers are complaining of not being able to get cars as fast as they require them. It is reported that there is a scarcity of cars throughout the whole Valley.

Some folks will stoop pretty low to win a political job—but sometimes it is necessary for them to do so in order to be able to look their opponents in the eye.

MAXIMUM DUTY ON U.S. APPLES NOW 54 CENTS

Values For Import Have Been Fixed by Customs Department

NEW CLAUSE Former Protective Clauses Against Dumping Replaced by Another in Customs Act

For duty under the dumping regulations of the Federal Government, values of apples have been fixed as follows:

Extra fancy, medium to large per box $1.60
Extra fancy, small and fancy, med. to large 1.35
Fancy, small and C grade 1.10
Jumble pack, unwrapped (225 and smaller) 1.00
Combination extra fancy and fancy 1.45
Combination fancy and C 1.20

The maximum dumping duty that may be charged on these is fifteen per cent. This, in addition to the regular customs import duty of thirty cents per box.

Similar values have been put on other lines. Some of these are: Pears, 1's, $1.25; C grade, $1.00. Peaches, $1.00. Plums, 4 bskt., 60c; standard crate, 50c; suit case, 45c. Tomatoes, 20-lb., 35c. Fifteen per cent on these is the maximum dumping charge.

It will be seen that the maximum protection our apples have against the dumped apples of best grade from Washington is fifty-four cents. Whether, if Washington shippers are disposed to sell extra fancy at lower prices, as would appear from Wetchee quotations given under another heading, the dumping charge will be lowered to fifteen per cent of whatever that price may be is not quite clear, but so it would seem.

Under the anti-dumping clauses which were repealed by the new government at Ottawa last session, the customs department collected whatever difference there might be between the price charged by the foreign shipper and the price fixed as being a fair one to cover the cost of production plus a reasonable profit.

Following a strong protest against the withdrawal of this protection, the following clause was substituted and is now a part of the Canadian Customs Act:

"47 (a). If at any time it appears to the satisfaction of the Governor-in-Council on a report from the Minister of Customs and Excise, that natural products of a class or kind produced in Canada are being imported into Canada, either on sale or on consignment, under such conditions as prejudicially or injuriously to affect the interests of Canadian producers, the Governor-in-Council may, in any case or class of cases, authorize the minister to value such goods for duty, notwithstanding any other provisions of this act and the value so determined shall be held to be the fair market value thereof."

WENATCHEE QUOTES VERY LOW PRICES FOR ALL VARIETIES

Growers of the Wenatchee district are selling packed apples to cash buyers at very low prices, according to quotations gleaned from the Wenatchee World of September 16th, and it is rumored here that even these low prices are being cut by sellers anxious to dispose of their pack. The prices quoted are: Winter Bananas, extra fancy, 120's, $1.50 and $1.60; fancy $1.25; C grade 75c. Delicious, extra fancy, $1.60 to $1.75; fancy, $1.25; C Grade 75c to $1.00. Jonathans, extra fancy 75c to $1.00; fancy, 60c to 75c; C grade, 35c to 50c. Rome Beauty, Grimes Golden, and similar varieties, extra fancy, $1.00; fancy, 75c; C grade, 50c.

LOSING BUSINESS

Those who are watching the development of the tourist traffic in this part of the continent are appreciating more and more its importance and what it means to business in those parts which are enjoying a share of it.

Recent improvements to the main highways in the State of Washington have brought thousands and thousands of dollars into that state from the east and south and motor tourists are not satisfied to stop at the boundary. The fame of British Columbia is spreading, but many have refrained from crossing over the line because of reports of unsatisfactory road conditions. The change in the rule of the road has removed one big obstacle and more tourists than ever before are coming this way, but we are getting but a small share of the money that would be ours if we had better roads.

The movement to provide the necessary roads is of first importance to our business men, but if realized, will be of material benefit to everyone. Only by concerted action can the improvements necessary be brought about. The meeting to be held in the Parish Hall on Friday evening of this week for the furthering of this movement and electing delegates to the important convention to be held in Kamloops next week should be well attended. Summerland has the attractions which, if properly advertised and with good roads, will bring much added business to the community.

B. C. FIRE INSURANCE RATES

British Columbia Fire Insurance premiums for five years past amounted to $20,500,000; fire losses amounted to $6,200,000, or thirty-one per cent. Premiums in the four eastern provinces for the same period amounted to $131,000,000, and fire losses to $70,000,000, or fifty-two per cent. Partial records available for periods previous to 1915 indicate the same ratio, says an exchange.

No doubt there is some good reason why insurance companies have been allowed to charge 42 per cent. higher rates in British Columbia than elsewhere, continues our contemporary. Certainly the 17 per cent reduction just announced by the local Board of Underwriters, is no explanation, unless it is to be taken as an acknowledgement that they have been willfully allowing their companies to overcharge the British Columbia public. In dollars and cents the amount overpaid for this five-year period is $3,825,000, and every dollar of this money, except commission brokerage, went out of the province.

British Columbia is desperately fighting to establish the principle of equal charge for equal services in respect to freight rates. Until this principle is secured and present discriminations eliminated in every line, the province cannot hope to compete with the rest of Canada.

Just where do the insurance agencies stand on the question of this principle?

THE PRAIRIE CROPS

Optimistic reports as to crop conditions on the prairie have been received by The Review from a recent visitor to the principal cities and country districts there.

While it is true that in quite a number of places a very light crop is recorded, the returns from those parts of the prairie in which there is any crop at all are exceeding all expectations, even experienced farmers being agreeably surprised. From all reports it was expected that a fifteen bushel average would be the result but in almost every instance, from twenty to twenty-five bushels to the acre are coming through the separators. Prices, however, are very low at present, and there is a tendency on the part of the farmers to hold their grain, while rumors of war in the East are slightly raising the Winnipeg price, and tend to confirm them in their action.

One noticeable feature of this year's wheat crop is the uniformity of grade, there being a predominance of No. 1 hard with very little No. 2 wheat and practically none of No. 3. Taking conditions altogether, including the splendid threshing weather which has existed, the prairie farmer is feeling pleased with his season's work, and should there be anything like a reasonable increase in the price of wheat, there is no doubt whatever but that the purchase of British Columbia fruit will be tremendously increased this fall, there being an insistent demand for apples etc. at a fair price.

A careful survey of the windows of the stores in the various cities is rather surprising says our informant in that the fruit offered for sale is of a distinctly inferior quality to the grades as packed at this end, and would almost lead an observer, familiar with conditions, to believe that inferior grade fruit is being put into packages marked with No. 1 grade for the purpose of misleading the public. Whether this be so or not, it is certainly disappointing to notice the almost entire absence of what the fruit growers in the Valley recognize as No. 1 grade, although the boxes in which they are displayed are stamped as such.

Pat Burns, after racing through the ranching country feels certain the cattlemen are unduly pessimistic over their prospects, and cheerily assures them "they will get through all right." . . . Wonderfully how easy it is to be optimistic when you're a millionaire—AND IT'S THE OTHER FELLOW'S CROP HAS FAILED!—Farm Journal.

ILLUSTRATION STATIONS

Resume of the Work Being Done in Seven Provinces.

During last year 86 illustration stations were conducted under the Dominion Experimental Farm system, namely, eight in British Columbia, twelve in Alberta, twelve in Saskatchewan, thirty-two in Quebec, ten in New Brunswick and twelve in Nova Scotia. Three additional stations have been selected in British Columbia and in Saskatchewan for cropping this year. In the conducting of these stations, farmers set aside certain areas for demonstration purposes and undertake to co-operate with the officers of the division in the methods of cultivation adopted. It is not only to the soil and crops that attention is devoted, but the dairy herd and poultry also come in for consideration. Special efforts are made in the restoration of the soil, in the introduction of new crops and increased production by the old ones, in illustrating the value of good, pure seed, in showing the importance of keeping farm accounts, in demonstrating the benefits derived from the systematic rotation of crops, in the growing of clover seed, in proving the value of drainage, in encouraging the growing of corn, in methods of growing and harvesting sunflowers, in summer fallow treatment, in the growing of alfalfa, in encouraging the production of fall rye, in the cultivation of a farm garden, and, in short, in helping and aiding in anything likely to result in an increase of information and of profit.

In the annual report of the Illustration Division for 1921, recently published, and which can be had on application to the Publications Branch at Ottawa, a record of the work is given and instances are related of the results achieved, and the benefits derived. Of course in all the work undertaken, special regard is paid to the possibilities and necessities of the particular district in which a station is located. In this connection it might be noted that while a good deal of attention has been paid to the cultivation of the sunflower for forage purposes in the Prairie Provinces, it has hitherto received little consideration in the Eastern Provinces, but that now, through the work of the Illustration Stations, the sunflower promises to prove valuable ensilage crop in Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, particularly for those districts to which corn is not well

ILLUSTRATION STATIONS IN B.C.

Their Purpose and What is Being Done in the Interests of Better Farming

Mr. A. E. Richards, supervisor of illustration stations in this province, whose headquarters are at the Dominion Experimental Station here, writes thus of the illustration stations in B.C.:

The Division of Illustration Stations falls under the Experimental Farms Branch of the Federal Dept. of Agriculture. Mr. John Fixter, of Ottawa, the Chief Supervisor of illustration stations in Canada. Headquarters of this division in B.C. are at the experimental station, at Summerland, under the direction of Superintendent E. H. Helmer.

At present there are eleven stations in British Columbia, extending from Smithers, in the Bulkley Valley, to Armstrong in the south.

The illustration station serves as a medium between the experimental farm and the privately owned farm. Its purpose is to carry out in a practical way the results of research and investigational work conducted on the experimental farm.

Information gained on the experimental farm along the lines of crop rotations, drainage, liming, methods and rates of seeding, relative values of different varieties of crops and the importance of performing certain cultural operations is demonstrated on the farmer's own land. It aims to show that such practices can be applied profitably by the farmer. The cost of production per acre of all crops in the work are ascertained.

The land in which this work is demonstrated must be favorably situated, preferably of wide frontage, on a well travelled highway, where it will be in evidence to the farmers of the district. The farmer selected to carry on this work agrees to rent a portion of his land and perform on it cultural and harvest operations under the direction of the Provincial Supervisor.

Special features of the illustration station work include:

Seed production, growing of forage crops, building up the poultry flock, and improvement of the home garden.

The operator will discuss his rotation and other features of the work with any farmers interested.

A field day will be arranged annually when work is fully established to which all farmers in the district are invited. Problems will be discussed and the value of the rotation demonstrated.

LEARN TO LET GO

One of the most practical and absolutely truthful bits of philosophy that has appeared in a long time, was recently published in Medical Talk, on the wisdom of "letting go." Says the writer:

If you want to be healthy—just let go.

That little hurt you got from a friend, perhaps it wasn't intended, perhaps it was, but never mind it. Refuse to think about it.

Let go of that feeling of hatred you have for another, the jealousy, the envy, the malice, let go all such thoughts. Sweep them out of your mind, and you will be surprised what a cleaning up and rejuvenating effect it will have upon you, both physically and mentally. Let them all go; you house them at deadly risk.

But the big troubles, the bitter disappointments, the deep wrongs and heart-breaking sorrows, the tragedies of life—what about them? Why, just let them go too. Drop them, softly, maybe, but surely. Put away all regret and bitterness, and let sorrow be only a softening influence. Yes, let them go, too, and make the most of the future. Then that little pet ailment that you have been hanging onto and talking about, let it go. It will be a good riddance. You have treated it royally, but abandon it; let it go. Then talk about health instead, and health will come. Quit nursing that pet ailment, and let it go. You will feel better.

It is not so hard after once you get used to the habit of it—letting go of these things. You will find it such an easy way to get rid of the things that mar and embitter life that you will enjoy letting them go. You will find the world such a beautiful place. You will find it beautiful because you will be free to enjoy it—free in mind and body.

Learn to let go. As you value health of body and peace of mind—just simply let go.

Bee keeping is being carried on very successfully in the Fraser Valley and it is claimed that in the region around Matsqui there is the finest sequence of wild flowers in the North American continent. The Langley district also is coming to the fore as a great honey producer.

NEW FERTILIZER ACT.

An Outline of Its Provisions for Guaranteeing Genuineness.

So far as the farmer is concerned, probably the most important measure passed at the last session of the Dominion Parliament was the Fertilizer Act, 1922. This Act, which takes the place of a measure passed in 1909 and amended ten years later, is intended to further assure the purchaser of fertilizers that he is getting the article he desires and pays for. The old Act defined a fertilizer as any manufactured manure that contained nitrogen, phosphoric acid or potash. The new Act prohibits the sale of any article as a fertilizer that does not contain 12 per cent. of these elements, singly or combined. It must further include, as minimum quantities, atomic nitrogen 2 per cent., phosphoric acid 5 per cent., potash 2 per cent. This makes it unlawful to sell, under the name of fertilizer, lime in its various forms, or any other soil conditioner that does not conform to the requisite conditions here quoted. Basic slag or natural rock phosphates, or a mixture of both, do not come under these provisions, but they must be guaranteed to be genuine as described by the seller. Annual registration of each brand is required, except the fertilizer be manufactured according to a prescription signed by the purchaser, or the following when sold in a pure state: Nitrate of soda, 15 per cent. nitrogen; sulphate of ammonia, 20 per cent. nitrogen; superphosphate (acid phosphate), 16 per cent. phosphoric acid; natural rock phosphate of stated origin, 25 per cent. total phosphoric acid and 80 per cent. fineness; sulphate of potash, 48 per cent. potash soluble in water, and muriate of potash, 48 per cent. potash soluble in water. The registration forms for all fertilizers coming under the requirements of the Act can be had on application to the Seed Commissioner at Ottawa.

Each bag or package must be plainly labelled in not less than 11 point print as to the contents and with the name of the manufacturer or importer. If the fertilizer is sold in the province of Quebec the required information must be given on one side of the package in French and on the other side in English. The Act is under the administration of the Dominion Minister of Agriculture, who has the power to make such regulation as he may think necessary in the carrying out of its provisions. Both a copy of the Act and of the regulations can be had free by applying to the Publications Branch, Ottawa.

An important provision is that any inspector acting under the "Seed Control Act" or the "Feeding Stuffs Act," can be required to examine any sample of a fertilizer submitted to him that is thought by the purchaser not to be up to specifications; also that applications for such inspection can be addressed, Dominion Seed Branch, Truro, N. PLANTED FIRST APPLE TREE ON THE PRAIRIES

In Ontario the horticulturists, a few years ago, put up a monument to mark the site of the first McIntosh Red apple tree. In Manitoba they reverse the process by honoring the man rather than the tree, and by doing it while the man is still alive. At the recent convocation of Manitoba Agricultural College the portraits of four men who have greatly helped western agriculture were hung in the convocation hall and their names inscribed on the college roll of fame. Those honored were Dr. S. A. Bedford, Brigadier-General Hugh N. Dyer, and Messrs. J. W. Scallion and A. P. Stevenson, all well known agriculturists. The last named was honored for his success in fruit growing and as being the one who over forty years ago, planted the first apple tree in Manitoba. In addition to his work in connection with fruit trees, Mr. Stevenson was one of the earliest believers in the work of planting sheltering belts across prairie farms and about the farm buildings, and for over twenty years has been one of the tree-planting promoters of the Dominion Forestry Branch. When he began, it was generally believed that trees would not grow on the prairies, and much of the progress of the work in the early days was due to Mr. Stevenson's enthusiasm and to experience gained on his own farm near Morden, Manitoba.

The provincial bounty on gophers is a thing of the past, having been out of force since the 20th. In this connection it may be of interest to note that a Greenwood man holds the record for the largest number of gophers destroyed this year, 901.

West Summerland, To the Editor of The Review: Sir,—Noticing in last week's Review a resolution of the Board of Trade to the School Trustees, to have the road between the school properties closed, we the undersigned as ratepayers would like to protest against any movement of the kind. Would it not be cheaper to fence the school properties than building a new road. It is a well known fact that the high school and the public school children never play together, also, if the principals have any authority at all, we are sure the children can be kept off the road.

In all Summerland there are not many straight pieces of road, this is one of the few left, and if it comes to a municipal vote on this matter, we are sure the ratepayers of Summerland will see that this movement is and unnecessary expense, when there are other things like our irrigation system that need to be attended to in a worse way.

Thanking you for your kindness in giving this space.

EDITING THE REVIEW.

Getting out this journal is no picnic. If we print jokes, folks say we are silly.

If we don't, they say we are too serious.

If we publish original matter, they say we lack variety.

If we publish things from other papers, we are too lazy to write.

If we stay on the job, we should be out rustling advertising.

If we rustle for advertising, we are not attending to business in our own department.

If we don't print contributions, we don't show proper appreciation.

If we do print them, we are accused of filling up with junk.

Like as not some fellow will say we swiped this from an exchange.

So we did.

If a boy earns 10 cents he wants it; he is not willing to trust the richest man alive.

GRADING ONIONS AND POTATOES

Provisions of An Act Passed at This Year's Session of the Dominion Parliament.

A measure that was passed at this year's session of the Dominion Parliament that so far has attracted little attention, but which is of prime importance, is the "Act to Regulate the Sale and Inspection of Root Vegetables." This measure provides for the establishment of standard definitions and grades for potatoes and onions; the grading of potatoes as "Canada-a," "Canada-b" and "Canada-c"; the grading of onions as fancy, choice, standard, boilers, and samples; the special markings of bags, barrels, crates, or carloads of potatoes or onions; the obliteration of any marks on packages when used a second time; a penalty for falsely marking packages; the establishment of a standard barrel for potatoes; the sale of vegetables by weight; the prohibition of sale for human food of diseased or rotten potatoes or onions; and the proper filling of barrels. The Act does not apply as regards grading to new potatoes when shipped between June 1 and September 30, to seed potatoes, or to green onions. Nor does it apply to any potatoes or onions for export where compliance with the provisions would prevent the sale or export to any foreign market.

Issued in 1917 and Maturing 1st December, 1922.

CONVERSION PROPOSALS

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE offers to holders of these bonds who desire to continue their investment in Dominion of Canada securities the privilege of exchanging the maturing bonds for new bonds bearing 5 1/2 per cent interest, payable half yearly, of either of the following classes:

- (a) Five year bonds, dated 1st November, 1922, to mature 1st November, 1927.
- (b) Ten year bonds, dated 1st November, 1922, to mature 1st November, 1932.

While the maturing bonds will carry interest to 1st December, 1922, the new bonds will commence to earn interest from 1st November, 1922, GIVING A BONUS OF A FULL MONTH'S INTEREST TO THOSE AVAILING THEMSELVES OF THE CONVERSION PRIVILEGE.

This offer is made to holders of the maturing bonds and is not open to other investors. The bonds to be issued under this proposal will be substantially of the same character as those which are maturing, except that the exemption from taxation does not apply to the new issue.

Holders of the maturing bonds who wish to avail themselves of this conversion privilege should take their bonds AS EARLY AS POSSIBLE, BUT NOT LATER THAN SEPTEMBER 30th, to a Branch of any Chartered Bank in Canada and receive in exchange an official receipt for the bonds surrendered, containing an undertaking to deliver the corresponding bonds of the new issue.

Holders of maturing fully registered bonds, interest payable by cheque from Ottawa, will receive their December 1 interest cheque as usual. Holders of coupon bonds will detach and retain the last unmaturing coupon before surrendering the bond itself for conversion purposes.

The surrendered bonds will be forwarded by banks to the Minister of Finance at Ottawa, where they will be exchanged for bonds of the new issue, in fully registered, or coupon registered or coupon bearer form carrying interest payable 1st May and 1st November of each year of the duration of the loan, the first interest payment accruing and payable 1st May, 1923. Bonds of the new issue will be sent to the banks for delivery immediately after the receipt of the surrendered bonds.

The bonds of the maturing issue which are not converted under this proposal will be paid off in cash on the 1st December, 1922.

W. S. FIELDING,
Minister of Finance.

CANADA NOT SUBJECT OF BARTER

Could Not Be Given to U.S.A. in Payment of British Debt

Some Facts, Not All of Them Known to Canadians, Told About Canada From an American Pulpit

Some Sundays ago, when the possibility of the United States accepting Canada from Great Britain in payment of debt incurred during the war was being generally discussed the following extremely interesting explanation of Canada's status was given from a pulpit in a north central city of the U.S.A. It makes very interesting and instructive reading.

"Arrested by the intelligence that a prominent public official has outlined a policy and proposition for the settlement of England's ten billion war indebtedness to the United States by accepting Canada in payment, I am unable to refrain from making some observations which I trust will be startlingly illuminating and revealing.

"Canada was the first colony of any empire in all the world's history to come to national self government without revolution, bitterness, hatred, and unpleasant divorcement.

"Canada holds the most strategic position for Anglo-American unity in the English speaking world. She supplemented nature's gift of location by sensible evolution and development.

"Canada marched through half a century of heated, fierce, political, internal struggle, up to nationhood through the British North American Act of 1867. In and through that act it was published to the parliament of Britain and to the world that Canada would accept the right of a free people to govern themselves.

"Canada is a nation and freedom is her nationality," said Sir Wilfrid Laurier at a meeting of dominion premiers in England.

No Tax to England.

"Canada has not paid a red cent of tax either directly or indirectly to the English treasury for half a century. Canada has not made a contribution by direct or indirect assessment for the maintenance of the British navy, army, the royal household, or even of the king himself—not a cent. More than that, there is not enough power in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, there is not enough power in the British war office, in the admiralty, in the government, in the imperial parliament to remove a single dollar from the Canadian treasury, to remove a single son from a Canadian home, for any service of any kind anywhere under the sun. Nor does Britain decide to exercise that kind of power, even though she had it.

"Canada has national independence and self government within the British commonwealth of nations, enjoying the right of a free people to govern themselves such as could not be surpassed anywhere in the world.

"Canada was not approached by Britain during the war for one dollar nor one man. Britain could not exercise any power of coercion or conscription in the Dominion of Canada.

"Canada by her own free will and choice and by deliberate action of her responsible government endorsed and authorized by the Canadian people of all political affiliations declared to the world that the right of a free people to govern themselves belonging to Belgium as well as Canada. This declaration of words was registered and sealed by the costly—yea priceless—blood of Canada's sons, who, to the number of approximately half of the best she could breed, voluntarily faced civilization's foe and to write a page of heroism scarcely surpassed in the annals of history.

"Any man who has not heard that George III. is dead and his policy of the Divine Right of Kings and illogical burdensome taxation which was answered by the colonists in a revolution a century and a half ago is abandoned.

"Any man who talks about a British yoke on Canada while he asks why does Canada not strike for freedom, I would ask freedom from what? There is nothing in the realm of citizenship or of national aspiration and of democracy that is not now in Canada's possession.

"No less a scholar and statesman than John Bright said during the debate in the Imperial Parliament in 1867: 'The doot is wide open for Canada's withdrawal, for Canada's independence, and even for Canada's union with the United States.'

"Canada deliberately, independently, and with malice afore-thought sent her sons to face the Huns, not as an English, but a Canadian Army—Jack Canuck and Tommy Atkins shoulder to shoulder.

"Canada sent her accredited representative to the foreign capitals as a member of the British Commonwealth of nations. Canada, when the treaty of peace was to be signed

Peachland Doings

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

The Rev. A. Henderson and his daughter, Miss Cathleen were recent arrivals in town to spend a short vacation here, visiting relatives and friends.

Recent word from Teddy Topham at the Summerland hospital where he has been since the accident, is to the effect that he is getting along nicely. Teddy got a pretty bad shaking up, in fact had a narrow escape when his horse took fright when he was bringing a load of fruit down to the packing house and when it bolted some of the boxes on which Teddy was sitting slid off and threw him between the horse and the front of the wagon. It is thought that the wheel went over his leg and broke one of the bones just below the ankle, and the king bolt which sticks down below a piece must have caught him in the back and neck in passing over him and gave him a pretty bad cut in the back and also in the neck.

His shoulder was also somewhat bruised and hurt, but we are glad to say he is making good progress toward recovery with no serious ill effects developing.

Mr. Jack Hamilton, who spent his summer vacation here, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Morsh, left recently for Gull Lake, Sask., where he joins the teaching staff of the school.

After spending a pleasant visit here with her parents and sister, Miss Mary Miller left this week to be in Vancouver ready for the commencement of the fall term in the University of B.C., where she expects to take a seven months course in district nursing.

Another Peachlander leaving this week was Mr. Joe Morsh, who has been spending several weeks with his people here and has gone back to resume his course in the University.

WITHDRAWS FROST FROM ATMOSPHERE

Mr. Ross, an orange grower, of Parkerville, Cal., has recently perfected a machine for the withdrawing of frost from the air, and it has been tried out by the U. S. Government with satisfactory results. Mr. Ross believes that his invention will be not only of great benefit to the fruit-growers, but that it may be used to advantage in the wheat fields. It is claimed that each machine will reduce the frost eight degrees over a twenty-five-acre field.

It is reported that a Vienna doctor has succeeded in transplanting eyes from one animal to another.

THEY READ THE HOME PAPER FIRST

Some of 'em read fiction; some of 'em read the solid stuff. Some of 'em read the American, Snappy Stories, and the Cosmopolitan. Some choose Popular Mechanics, Review of Reviews, and other such educational literature.

The little shelf in the current periodicals' room that houses the little country-town papers is always in demand.

Whether John Jones married Mary Smith—if they're the John and Mary you happen to know—is a lot more important to the average stultic than Edison's latest invention; and that the basketball team from the home town defeated its neighbor means more to him than the big league news or a first-class love story.

Of course the important world news interests them, too, but, after all, familiarity and relationship are bigger drawing cards for the readers' interest than importance or value as judged by the world.—Kansas Collegian.

DANGERS OF DEFORESTATION

When by reckless tree-cutting the forest cover is removed from hills and mountains, nothing is left to hold the rain—no layer of living roots, mosses or other vegetable growths mixed with decaying leaves, to act as a sponge and retain the moisture. Thereafter, in consequence, the rainfall runs off in torrents, and the streams to which it should afford a regulated supply throughout the year are flooded in winter and dried up in summer. Incidentally, the soil is washed away and the hillsides, once beautiful with fresh growing verdure, become so much barren desert.

In this way the water supply of certain areas of country has been practically destroyed. The forests of the hills and mountains are natural storage reservoirs. Destruction of these reservoirs means ruin to the farmers in the valleys and on the prairies.

J. L. Boardman says: "The law of all harvest is to reap more than you sow. Proof of this is easy in advertising."

"They Don't Answer"

When the telephone operator says, "They don't answer," it is after sincere endeavor to get your party. She cannot compel an answer.

The party called may be unwilling to leave a particular household duty—may be in another part of the home beyond closed doors—may be chatting with a neighbor—may be marketing—may be slow in answering. Strange, but true, calls are sometimes designedly unanswered.

Telephone records show that the great majority of "don't answer" reports come from residence calls. In business, where it is a matter of dollars and cents, it is always the assigned duty of some one to be within sound of the telephone bell.

"They don't answer" is the statement of a situation absolutely beyond the control of the telephone operator.

ADVERTISING HAS COME TO STAY—CAN'T GET AWAY FROM IT.

(Imperial Oil Record)
Let us ruminate for a little on advertising, an art which is perhaps the most important cog in the wheel of industry.

History backs up the poets, as witness the old Roman who, after he had cleaned up his enemies put the following "ad" in the Roman Eagle, "Veni, Vidi, Vici," (I came, I saw, I conquered), so that anyone needing a good "general" would know where to apply.

In still later times the announcement in the theatrical press "The Yanks are coming" was, we are assured, sufficient to induce a great boom in transportation from Belgium and France to Germany, and inaugurate that "Back to the Fatherland" movement which caused a slump in German Victory bonds.

Imagine, if you can, what life would be without advertising. Your morning paper would probably consist of a column and a half, your favorite weekly would be trimmed down to its covers and little else; your wife would be ignorant of the fact that electric washers were now $199.50 instead of an even $200, or that "Pale Pills for pink people" had cured a Hamilton woman (photo attached) of sitting up for her husband on lodge nights.

Gone would be the poor man's picture gallery which adorns our waste spaces, the street cars would cease to carry pictured passengers, in every stage of undress, on which the mere male fixes his eye so that he may ignore the young lady, somewhat similarly attired, who hangs onto a strap; the army of artists in word and picture, who make advertising a means of keeping body and soul together, would be deprived of their livelihood and swell the ranks of the unemployed, who, cut off from their only source of amusement, the reading of advertisements for "help wanted," would rise in bloody revolution and bring the world in ruins about our ears.

You can't get away from it! Advertising has come to stay and it behooves us to bend and fashion it to our own uses, for, like fire, it is a good servant but a bad master. This last statement is beyond controversy. We have known occasions on which a perfectly healthy subject sat down to digest the facts set forth in a patent medicine "ad" and before finishing the job was rushed to the hospital and operated on for gall stones, appendicitis, fracture of the skull and housemaid's-knee. We have seen otherwise sane and loving womenfolk, rave scratch and bite to gain the counter where, according to the "ad" silk hose were down to unprecedented figures were assured of sylph-like beauty at bargain rates. Otherwise practical business men have, at the lure of real estate agent, purchased "town lots" in the centre of a howling wilderness and words fall to describe a tithe of the hair-brained, lost-to-reason escapades that have grown out of the word-pictures of that modern Ananias who specializes in Oil Prospectus' fiction.

So much for advertising as a bad master, but as a servant let us hasten to realize its worth. Think of that weighty volume emanating from one of our departmental stores, which has become justly famous as "The Homesteaders' Bible"; consider how your bodily, household, spiritual and mental needs are made the object of column upon column of solicitation for the privilege of ministering to them. If there is anything you crave, from a railroad engine to a wife, you can see the merits thereof set forth in detail, with the price, dimensions and specifications, in the all-powerful, all-engrossing and ever-present advertising pages of any paper, magazine, book or similar object you care to lift, whilst the blank walls, roofs, boardings and electric signs strive with each other to shriek aloud your needs and point you to the desirable haven where they may be attended to.

Advertising, then, being conceded a premier place in modern business, it stands to reason that such a powerful aid is not ignored by Imperial Oil, Limited. As our company has expanded and built itself into our national existence, until Canada and Imperial Oil are practically synonymous, so have the merits of its products been bruited abroad by every device known to the advertising fraternity. In studying some of these masterpieces one is struck by the note they strike (which is perhaps only natural). There is an assured, solid, mid-Victorian and highly cultured tone about them that, we imagine, would appeal more to the obese owners of luxuriant limousines

Charles McPeak, one of the two men arrested on the charge of being implicated in the recent burglaries at Naramata, is wanted by the Cranbrook police, according to reports. As he answers the description of one of the same name wanted there on a charge of theft, the Cranbrook police have asked that he be handed over to them when the cases against the two are disposed of here.

John Hayes, one of the two men arrested in connection with the Naramata stealing was before Police Magistrate Pope in Pentiction on Monday and at the request of Provincial Police Chief Carter of Vernon, was remanded until Friday afternoon. Chief Carter explained that the prisoner's companion McPeak had made his escape from jail and because of this asked for the remand which was granted.

By invitation of Mr. Edmund Sawyer, a number of citizens attended a demonstration of the radio- phone at the Rialto on Monday evening. Parts of the program being broadcasted from a number of stations over a wide range were heard. After remaining with one station for a short time, Mr. Sawyer would change over and pick up another. Those heard were all the way from Calgary to Los Angeles.

The sale of the Clayton property, next to the Barnes lot, behind the Baptist Church, consisting of two acres, comprising eight lots was effected this week through G. Y. L. Crossley office to W. N. Mower, of New Westminster. Mr. Mower who has been staying with his friend Dr. Pirie for the last few days returned on Wednesday to the Coast, and expects to move on to the property in the spring when he plans building a house.

While making repairs and improvements on the main dam at the head waters of Trout Creek it was discovered that the pipe under the dam was cracked. This necessitated sending in some more cement and will require several days more work. Coun. Johnston who was up at the scene of operations came down on Wednesday and had the cement sent in on Thursday. The men will probably finish the work at the first of next week.

Lloyd A. Miller, son of F. S. Miller, of Trout Creek, left Saturday morning by boat for the Prairie to spend a few days with his brothers. Later he will return to college at Anderson, Indiana, to continue his studies.

Charles McPeak, who with John Hayes was arrested in conjunction with burglaries at Naramata made a break from jail on Monday morning. It was while Provincial Constable McConnell was giving Hayes his breakfast that McPeak made his dash for liberty, and is still at large.

There is a probability that the Pacific Starch Products, Ltd., will establish a plant in the northern end of the Okanagan Valley, Enderby or Armstrong, for the manufacture of potato starch, which will be taken to their New Westminster plant to be refined. There they make dextrine, glucose, potato flour, etc.

An interesting find was made on the lake shore a short while ago by one of our young people when bathing. Scraping up the sand under the water, this young lady discovered an old fashioned cuff stud on which was inscribed the date 1905, and was apparently a prize at the sports held on the 24th May of that year. Possibly one of our readers may recognize this find.

E. R. Butler had the misfortune this week to step on a board which had a nail in it, the consequence being that his boot was pierced and the nail went right through his large toe, causing a very painful wound. Special care had to be taken to disinfect the affected part owing to its depth, but after treatment by the doctor, his foot is doing nicely, and he is able to attend to business in his office.

Municipal Clerk F. J. Nixon is taking his vacation a few days at a time. On Wednesday of last week, he and Mrs. Nixon and their young son left here by motor and made the circuit around by Princeton, Merritt, Kamloops, Vernon, and Kelowna, returning home Sunday afternoon. Mr. Nixon describes the trip as a delightful one, with roads in fairly good condition most of the way, and the scenery was magnificent.

Hill's Bar, once a well known locality in the days of placer mining in the "sixties," has a promise of becoming again a prominent spot on the map, a very rich gold-quartz lead having recently been staked there. On the discovery being made a man from Hope staked off the whole available ground as a townsite, so that the prospectors who made the discovery had to secure his permission to build a trail to their claim. Hill's Bar is about eight miles from Hope and about three miles from the railway station of the same name on the Canadian National Railway. Some 16 claims have already been staked along the "strike" of the lead, and preliminary development has been started.

fendant in the morning and also several times in the afternoon of July 30th.

Mrs. DeRosiers, wife of the previous witness, gave evidence as to seeing the defendant several times on the afternoon of Sunday, July 30th.

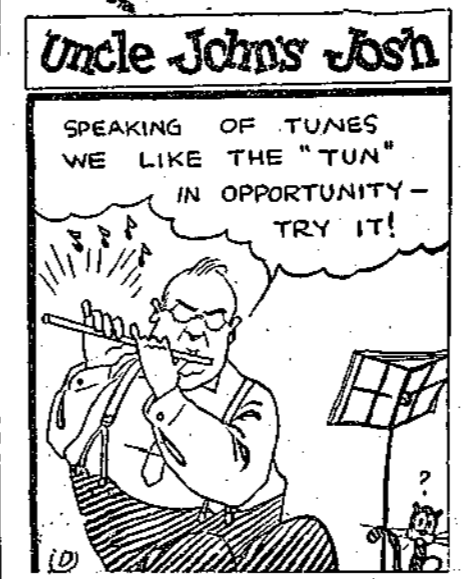

William Montgomery, postmaster at Osoyoos, testified to seeing A. Claughton about seven o'clock in the evening of the Sunday referred to. He did not remember seeing defendant's brother Milton that day.

Jos. Goldsmith, cook in a survey camp near Osoyoos, who stated that he knew the accused, told the court of seeing the latter on Sunday, July 30th last, when he was pointed out by Mrs. DeRosiers.

Mrs. Edith May Richter, a resident of Osoyoos for a number of years stated that she saw the defendant standing in front of his place about fifty yards away, while she was standing at the door at her own home. On being questioned, witness admitted seeing defendant's brother, Milton, also on that day.

Miss Lowery who was subpoenaed at Vancouver, and for whose evidence court was adjourned till Thursday morning at 10.15, confirmed the evidence of the other witnesses as to seeing the defendant in Osoyoos on the 30th July, and stated that the accused drove her from Osoyoos to Pentiction on the morning of July 31st last.

The accused was committed for trial without bail.

RECOMMENDS THE OKANAGAN

This is from the Strathmore, Alta., Gazette, following the editors' visit to the Okanagan:

"For those who are contemplating a holiday in B.C., we would recommend the Okanagan. It is less than 300 miles from Strathmore, and it offers a complete change from the prairies. The tourist trade being only a sideline with the people of that district, the hotel rates are not boosted up to the extent they are in some of the other tourist resorts.

"The success of the Okanagan district is entirely based upon irrigation. Without it production on any commercial scale would be unprofitable. Water is brought for great distances at heavy cost, but it is assuring big crops.

"The fruit growers of B. C. are faced with much the same problems as the people of the prairies, that of receiving a profitable price for their product. They have endeavored to solve it by means of co-operative marketing associations, and have been successful to some extent. But the big competition on the prairie comes from American orchards, the fruit from which is marketed two to three weeks earlier than the B. C. product, and fetches the best prices. By the time the B. C. fruit is on the market the American second grade fruit and culls are being sold at lower prices. The B. C. growers contend that if we here would only wait a little longer for our fruit we could get it all from Canadian orchards, buy as cheaply and keep our money in Canada. Up till this year a measure of protection had been extended to the B. C. grower, but we understand that it is not in effect this year.

"As B. C. is a heavy buyer of prairie products and will be a still greater as it develops, it would seem like sound business for us to buy their products and assist them, especially as our friends to the south have placed heavy tariffs on our grain and beef.

"The people of British Columbia are anxious for the good will of the prairie dwellers. They feel that there have been misunderstandings in regard to politics and trade which have affected the majority of each. Their marketing problems are much the same as ours and they want our co-operation."

PLENTY OF CANS BUT CARS FEW

Kelowna Women Make Oriental Help Unnecessary at Canneries

Contrary to current report, there is no shortage of cans at either of the Kelowna canneries and one is not expected to occur. The rush of work at both factories is at its very peak, but both managements are confident of being able to handle the crop, especially as the ladies of Kelowna have responded well to the call for help and it will not be necessary to employ Oriental labor. There is, however, just at present, a shortage of cars, which may seriously affect the packing houses, if it continues. Up till recently the service has been all that could have been desired, and it is expected that this situation, which might become a very grave one for both shipper and grower, will be relieved in about three days' time. Just now, however, some of the packing houses are getting uncomfortably loaded up with packed boxes, the crop of McIntosh being rushed into town very rapidly. Fortunately the earlier varieties of fruit have been mostly shipped. At the present shippers would be glad to get any kind of cars, there being little likelihood of frost hurting the shipments while in transit.—Kelowna Courier

PICKING FRUIT TOO EARLY

Complaints were made in many cases to a recent visitor to the prairies that the soft fruit received there arrives too green.

Our informant states that on a number of occasions he was offered peaches too green to eat and found that this was a common occurrence to purchasers on the prairie. This is a fault that should be remedied by those in charge of packing houses who appear to be unaware of the fact that a day or two longer on the trees would be a great advantage to the fruit and give better results to buyers who naturally expect to be able to immediately consume their purchases.

CHIMNEY BLAZE BRINGS OUT BRIGADE

Although luckily there was no material damage done, and the services of but a few helpers were required, it was very pleasing to note the immediate response of all those within hearing to the call of fire, the road to the scene of the fire being thick with loaded vehicles containing fire-fighters in the course of a few seconds.

The boys with the hose reel responded quickly, but were advised that their services were not needed before they got half way to the Johnston home.

PAVED ROADS MEAN SAVING IN GAS COST

Various experiments have been made by different authorities to determine the amount of "pull" necessary over level stretches of different types of roads, different standards of conditions of these roads and over different grades, states a bulletin on Motor Vehicles issued by the Dominion Department of Railways and Canals, highways branch.

In a series of experiments with average conditions to find the various resistances, twice the distance was made for the same amount of gasoline used in travelling over the paved surface than in travelling over the improved road earth. In other words, the saving of gasoline as between these two types of roads is approximately 50 per cent.

Every motorist is called upon to pay "bad roads" taxes in the form of repair expenses and other necessary expenses in the operation of a motor. So every operator of an automobile is interested in road conditions. The extent of this interest is seen when it is stated that, assuming that the average operator travels in a season 5000 miles, if he makes say, 10, 15 or 20 miles per gallon of gasoline, his purchase during the season, at 40 cents a gallon will amount to a sum ranging from $100 to $200. It is clear that if all the roads over which he operates his car were uniformly good, his annual saving for this item alone would amount to $50 at least.

Should all the main travelled roads of the Dominion be given hard surfaces, the annual saving to the 460,000 odd registered owners of motor vehicles in Canada, assuming that all users participated in the benefit of the improvements, and having no regard to savings from lubrication and repair expenses, would amount to $23,000,000.
