Wenatchee Apples Are Bringing Good Prices-- Even Culls In Demand

Manager of Big Sales Organization Gives Prices

HIS FIRST VISIT TO B. C. OKANAGAN

Head Northwestern Fruit Exchange Believes Can Serve B. C.

Delicious apples are now selling at $3.35 to $3.50 f.o.b. Wenatchee for Extra Fancy, and Fancys are bringing about 50 cents less with another drop of 50 cents on C grade. Extra Fancy Jonathans are selling f.o.b. at $2. to $2.10. There is a spread of 25 cents between the grades in this and practically all other varieties except Delicious.

This is the information given The Review by Mr. Norton W. Mogge, manager of the Northwestern Fruit Exchange, Wenatchee. This organization, though privately owned, is the biggest apple marketing organization in the States and handles the famous 'Skookum' brand and also the pack of other co-operative and many private concerns. This is Mr. Mogge's first visit to the British Columbia Okanagan and he is keenly interested in the fruit industry on this side of the line.

Apple Deal Looking Good

Questioned as to the prospects for the apple grower in the northwest states, Mr. Mogge informed The Review representative that the apple deal looked very good for everybody. There is a keen demand at good cash prices and all sorts and qualities of apples are finding a ready market. In addition to the prices quoted above, Mr. Mogge stated that Spitz are now bringing $2.25 and that any Winesaps yet sold were going out at a like figure with a strong indication for even better markets. Even the so-called cull apples are bringing good prices. They are packing from these a fourth grade which includes apples with a slight bruise, stem puncture and small fruit. These are wrapped and packed in boxes. Fourth grade Delicious are bringing $2., Jonathans, $1.25, f.o.b.

Big Shortage of Winter Apples

To an inquiry as to the market in the eastern states, Mr. Mogge stated that there had been a heavy crop of early varieties in Virginia and New York state, but speaking generally, there was a big shortage in late apples. Further, the Wenatchee district will ship but 8,500 to 9,000 cars as compared with 15,500 in 1923. The Yakima district will have 8,000 as against 15,400 last year. Gooding moth had been a big factor in greatly reducing the output, the Jonathans suffering the most. Delicious were shorter than any other one variety, there being only 700 cars in the Wenatchee district as compared with 1,500 cars a year ago.

Mr. Mogge was much interested in (Continued on Page 6)

CLOSE GATES ON RESERVOIR

Dams Closed To Catch Winter Water For Next Season

Coun. R. Johnston, chairman of the water committee, combined a hunting expedition in the hills with a visit to the irrigation storage dams on Aconas Creek and Deer Lake.

While there he attended to the closing of the gates in both those dams. Next week will probably see the closing of the gates on the several dams at the headwaters of Trout Creek. Several members of the council are contemplating making a trip at that time to the headwaters district. Canyon Creek is never closed until spring as it is considered unsafe to close the gate in the fall and there is never any difficulty in filling this reservoir with the spring freshet.

C. P. R. IS BUYING O. K. BRAND APPLES

The C. P. R. dining cars and news departments are buying Okanagan apples for all their lines west of Winnipeg. Extra fancy apples for dining car and news department and lower grade apples for cooking and baking have been arranged for. McIntoshes were shipped and stored at various points along the main line. These will be followed by other varieties which will be put into storage so that as required through the winter they will be available.

This not only provides that much additional market but means much in the way of advertising the O. K. brand, which is specified on the menus.

Large quantities of vegetables have also been procured from various points throughout the valley.

GRANTED ABSOLUTE DECREE OF DIVORCE

An absolute decree of divorce has been obtained by Mrs. C. M. Borton who had entered action for separation from her husband, L. S. (Pat) Borton. The plea was made on statutory grounds and for desertion. The case came up for hearing in the supreme court in Vancouver on Monday. Mrs. Borton was represented by W. C. Kelley, who left here on Saturday and returned Tuesday morning. No defense was put in by the respondent. Mr. and Mrs. Borton at one time resided here. He is said to be living in the east since leaving here. Mrs. Borton has been at the Coast.

WILL PUT YOUR NAME ON VOTERS' LIST

A Stark has been appointed a provincial election commissioner and will be glad to add to the voters' list the name of any qualified person. There are all too many citizens who seem quite indifferent to the subject of the rights of the franchise, but, nevertheless, some of these very people are ready to kick up quite a fuss if, on election day, their names are not found on the voters' list. To have a share in controlling the destinies of this country is no mean privilege, one which every person so qualified should value highly.

STARTS WORK AT RESERVOIR

Will Feed One Of Domestic Water Mains From Springs

Before proceeding with the work of augmenting the domestic water supply by diverting some of the Prairie Valley springs into the eight inch main, it was necessary to obtain permission of Mrs. Van Allen to cross the corner of her property with the pipe. In a wire received Tuesday morning from Toronto, Mrs. Van Allen replied to a letter from the municipal clerk giving this permission and the work will be proceeded with at once.

The water coming into the reservoir is barely sufficient to make up for what is being drawn out with the result that the water in the reservoir is still at an unsatisfactorily low level. It is hoped that when the spring water is turned into the eight inch main the level of the reservoir will steadily rise.

British Columbia and Alberta fresh eggs will make their first appearance on the British Market when the Furness Pacific liner, which sailed from Vancouver last weekend, reaches the United Kingdom. Eight hundred cases of eggs were taken on board at Vancouver.

2 boxes pears, 3 boxes of apples, 4 crates peaches and 3 crates cantaloupes, 1 crate plums and 3 crates of grapes, a total of 10 packages. The society wish to thank all who have contributed fruit and in other ways given help, and in particular Mr. Alex Smith, who conveyed the fruit to the express office, Mr. D. L. Sanborn, who had charge of the whole business, and the modest person who provided boxes, but whose name is unavailable, also those who turned out to pack the fruit.

BANK STARTS ACTION AGAINST LIQUIDATOR

Seeks To Have Its Claim Given Preference Over "Pink Notes"

A matter of considerable interest to many of the fruit growers of the Valley has arisen in connection with the liquidation of the Okanagan United Growers, Ltd. The ordinary creditors of this concern consist almost entirely of the holders of the working capital notes, which are usually referred to as "pink notes."

Another claim has been lodged with the Trustees by the Dominion Bank under a guarantee given by the O. U. G. Ltd., of the advances made to the Summerland Fruit Union for the year 1922 by the Bank. The trustee, Mr. M. G. Wilson, ruled that the claim under this guarantee would rank as an ordinary claim, along with the noteholders, and notified the Dominion Bank accordingly.

In response to this notification the Dominion Bank has launched an action in the supreme court, Vancouver, to compel Mr. Wilson as liquidator, to allow the bank's claim a preference over the noteholders. Should this be allowed by the court, the position of the noteholders will be rendered very much worse than it was supposed to be. The Dominion Bank has not as yet been able to arrive at what its claim is under the guarantee. The guarantee is for $140,000, but the claim, when adjudicated, will be for a considerably less sum.

In the meantime this litigation puts the prospect of any dividend to the noteholders out of the question until the matter is finally disposed of. The contention of the Dominion Bank is that the pink notes represent capital, and, therefore, cannot rank as ordinary creditors.

MARKETING APPLES OF FOURTH GRADE

Crop Estimates Cut And Prices Move Up--Growers Get Quick Returns

Okanagan (Wn.) Independent of Sept. 20th published a report on apple crop and markets for that district that were of interest to our readers and gives an intimate glimpse of the situation in the Washington section of this Valley.

The Independent's story reads: Returns for the first carload of Jonathan apples have been received by the Okanagan Growers' Union, eleven days after the car left Okanagan destined to Chicago. This instance and other prompt returns covering Winter Banana apples indicate a far better marketing condition for the 1924 apple crop than has prevailed for a number of years.

The Union has shipped 26 cars to date, 22 of which have been Jonathan. Packing of early Delicious has commenced and the first carload went forward yesterday (Friday), ten days or two weeks earlier than the customary opening shipment of this variety.

Pine handling has been given the fruit so far this season. Jonathans have been sent forward regularly with a record of 24 hours from tree to car, and with proper icing are bound to reach the markets in excellent condition.

Government market reports indicate an upward trend in the market prices. Crop estimates have dwindled consistently and there is an increasing demand for apples. Extra fancy large Winesaps have already gone as high as $2.10 while the same (Continued on Page 6) been proclaimed a public holiday. Monday, November 10th, has day throughout Canada, Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day combined. For the past two years Canada's annual day of thanksgiving and the commemoration of the signing of the Armistice have been fixed on the same day.

WALTERS TO MARKET SWEET POTATOES

Sweet potatoes grown by H. H. Thompson, Peachland, are now an item of importance in the markets. Mr. Thompson has appointed Walters, Limited, of Summerland his marketing agents, through whom he will sell approximately twenty tons of the sweet tubers.

After experimenting for several years Mr. Thompson has developed a very fine variety, particularly well adapted to local conditions. This year he has about two acres planted to sweet potatoes. He proposes to plant about ten acres to sweet potatoes next year.

A delegation from the Automobile Club of B. C. is urging the provincial government to build in one season the Fraser Canyon link of the trans-provincial highway.

PENTICTON GROWERS PAID FOR APRICOTS

Apricot pools have been closed at the Penticton Co-operative Growers' packing house and cheques were sent out last week to the growers. The net returns to the producers were 4 1/2 cents per pound for No. 1's and 3 1/2 cents per pound for No. 2's.

Last year the Penticton Co-operative paid 3-1-3 cents and 2 1/2 cents per pound respectively for No. 1 and No. 2 apricots.

UNDERGOES HURRIED OPERATION AT COAST

Edgar Hobbs, who left here a short time ago for Vancouver, to enter University, was obliged to undergo an operation for internal gotre last Friday. His sister, Miss Thelma Hobbs, left here on Sunday for the Coast and latest word is that he is making good recovery, though he will be in the hospital for about two weeks yet, and will, no doubt, be obliged to lose this year at college. Miss Hobbs expects to return on Saturday to resume her work at the Kaleden school, which in the meantime is in charge of her brother, Harry.

HAS EXCITING HUNTING TRIP

Veteran Sportsman Has Little Time Left For Rod Or Gun

Mr. E. F. Sanborn had a most unusual series of misfortunes befall him when he went hunting last week. His intention was to make headquarters at Deer Lake but on finding no snow falling there he came down to a lower altitude and made camp at the dam in Garnett Valley. That evening he tethered his two horses but in the morning neither could be seen. He started to walk towards home but caught the absconders near the Adams ranch in Garnett Valley.

The following evening, after tying the horses to a tree, he had to contend with the strong wind scattering his fire among the dry pine needles. He finally had to put the fire out entirely. In the morning one of the horses had again made good his escape. With the remaining one he pursued and caught it.

The same day he was fishing from a punt anchored in the centre of the Garnett Valley reservoir, when the craft capsized. Despite his heavy clothing and the cold water he was able to gain the shore and is none the worse for his experiences.

NEW MARKET FOR OKANAGAN ONIONS

New Zealand Cancels Order California Onions--Takes Okanagan Bulbs

Owing to the action taken by Okanagan shipping firms to secure a market for the onion crop in New Zealand, the price of this commodity, which at the earlier portion of the season was expected to drop, has stiffened considerably throughout the Canadian West and there is every likelihood of the present satisfactory market price keeping up, says the Kelowna Courier. This shipping of onions to New Zealand is a new departure in this valley's export business, which may have far-reaching results in the future. About eight hundred tons have thus been exported already this season, out of a normal crop, and if the onions arrive at their destination in good condition and the embargo New Zealand has placed on California onions owing to the foot and mouth epidemic there is maintained, the prospects for future business of like nature will be excellent.

NEW ZEALAND IS BIG BUYER

Large Shipment of Okanagan Apples and Onions on Liner

Canadian-Australian Royal Mail liner Niagara, which sailed from Vancouver on Wednesday, September 24, took 9,500 boxes of Okanagan apples and 8,000 cases of Okanagan onions for New Zealand.

Commenting on this shipment The Vancouver Daily Sun says: This is the off season in New Zealand for apples, but this year the demand for British Columbia apples is much greater than last year as is shown by the big shipment on this steamer.

The onions are going out to take the place of California onions that were to have been sent to Auckland but refused at the last minute because of the dangers from the foot and mouth disease in that state.

The Automobile Club of B. C. is investigating the possibility of having the Fraser canyon taken over as a national park.

WASHINGTON'S APPLE CROP HALF THAT 1923

The combined apple crop of the Wenatchee-Okanagan and Yakima districts is now estimated by Wenatchee and Yakima shippers at between 16,000 and 17,000 cars, which is slightly less than one-half of last year's production.—Oroville Gazette.

WASHINGTON GROWERS FIGHTING FREIGHT RATES

At the request of state apple growers the department of public works experts are aiding a fight before western railroads to obtain a reduction in east-bound apple shipments. The permanence of the industry depends upon better distributing rates, it is claimed.—Okanagan (Wn.) Independent.

LONDON EATING MORE APPLES

Appetizing Displays Have Revived Custom of Eating Apples in Public

A London correspondent reports that the apple trade has been considerably stimulated by the attractive and appetizing displays of British Columbia and other colonial growers at Wembley. The custom of eating apples in public is said to have been revived. The question is asked: "Why should an apple lover be forced by custom to carry his bag of apples hidden under his arm to his inner office and eat them unobserved, as if he were violating the Eighteenth Amendment? "Hot Dogs," ice cream cones and oranges are devoured publicly by the millions and nothing is thought of it. The Bank of North America gives out the amazing figures that metropolitan New York is now consuming yearly sixty pounds of oranges per capita. Friends of the apple should swing into defensive action. The apple has many advantages. Its iron content is right close up to that of spinach; as a "snack" between meals, it is unexcelled; and, what's more, it can be eaten in public view with more grace than can the orange or the grape. So London has decided.—Grand Forks Gazette.

FALL RESULTS IN BROKEN RIB

H. W. Tavender Laid Up As Result of Fall From Ladder

As the result of a fall from a ladder last Thursday H. W. Tavender suffered a broken rib and considerable shaking up. Mr. Tavender was picking fruit in his orchard and the ladder he was using was placed on a side hill. While right at the top of the ladder, it in some way overbalanced and Mr. Tavender dropped about fifteen feet to the ground. Though complications were at first feared, it is now believed that beyond the broken rib and a slight tearing of the tissues there is no more serious injury. Though he will probably be confined to the house for about three weeks, Mr. Tavender is making good progress toward recovery.

AND HENRY FORD IS RIGHT

"The local paper is the small town's greatest asset. No town should fail to appreciate its local paper to the extent of a liberal patronage."—Henry Ford.

The influence of the small town newspaper upon the town and its business is often underestimated by business men themselves. The newspaper represents the town to the outside world, fairly or unfairly. Nothing speaks better for a town than a newspaper that is well supported by the business men, and nothing speaks in louder terms against the town than a newspaper that is struggling for existence and which has little or no advertising patronage from its home business concerns.

If the business man has a good, live newspaper in his town he should never let that newspaper go to press without his name in its columns in an advertisement. We make this statement without any selfish motive. The Review has a fairly good advertising patronage for which we are indeed grateful, but if every business concern in this community would advertise with us regularly that fact would not make us rich by any means. There is no such thing on the globe as riches for the country newspaper man. He is a kind of a work horse for the community that doesn't get and doesn't expect as much remuneration for his labors as other men receive who do not do the town and community as much good as the newspaper is able to do, and as the newspaper does do gladly and willingly.

Lots of men and some business men do not appreciate their local paper as a thing of value except to the owner of the paper, and that is where their vision needs doctoring. The newspaper travels, and is the town's only representative that is always working at the job.

MAKING BETTER CITIZENS

Our flag should fly over every school throughout this country every school day. Childhood and impressionable young should know their nation's colors, and something of that flag etiquette designed to express proper respect. But true appreciation of the flag rests on a broader foundation. There must be understanding of the ideals for which it stands; comprehension of the struggles and sacrifice that have sustained it in emergency, and knowledge of all the worthy principles it symbolizes. That is a large lesson for the schools to teach, but it is a part of their purpose of making better citizens.

WE ARE DEPENDENT UPON ONE ANOTHER

Everywhere people are coming to realize more and more how interdependent we are upon each other. The only individual who is self-sufficient is a hermit.

The keynote—the foundation of civilization—is the family. We all concede that. And we're coming to realize that our own community—is a home town family—simply the family unit a little bit extended through neighborly cordiality, friendship, and pleasant social intercourse.

Common goodwill and recognition of our human obligation is a deeper currency than any money system ever invented. But it is also to our advantage on the material side of life—it redounds in better practices, living conditions, more generous impulses. It makes Summerland a better place to live in.

Let's make our community unit closer knit. Let's be generous with our goodwill—realizing that the prosperity of the individual is directly reflected in an added prosperity to our community.

From Our Exchanges

THE HOME NEWSPAPER

Cumberland Miner: What tells so readily the standard of a town as the appearance of its newspaper? The enterprise of the citizens is depicted by its advertisements, their liberality by the very appearance of the local newspaper. Some papers show a good solid, healthy foundation; others show a striving to contend with the grappling hundreds around them, trying to wring out an existence from a close-knit community.

A newspaper is like a church; it requires fostering in the beginning and for a few years, and then it walks alone and reflects credit on its location. Take your home paper. It gives you more news of immediate interest than foreign papers; it talks for you when other localities bellow; it stands up for your rights; it advocates everything that tends to prosper its town and improve the conditions of all dwellers therein; you always have a champion in your home paper and those who stand up for you should certainly be sustained. Therefore, it is to your interest to support your home paper, not grudgingly, but in a liberal spirit, as a pleasure; not as a duty, but as an investment that will amply repay the expenditure.

MANY BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS AT FARM

Experimental Farm gardens, despite the dry weather, are still very beautiful, especially those in the centre of the lawns. They are, however, fading rapidly now and any one who wishes to see them in their beauty should visit them soon.

One bed, which is conspicuously beautiful, is that of the bloom grasses. The carnations are also very fine, while the display of single and fringed petunias are especially noticeable this fall. A brilliant cluster is that of celosias, which shows a great variety of color, while the borders of the plots, particularly the brilliant blue lobelia and yellow gages are now at their best. The perennial borders, with the exception of the blue campanula, are past their best. Roses, though not so beautiful as earlier in the season, still show several fine varieties, the Dean Hole, Mrs. William Christy Miller and the Capt. Christy. The cluster roses of the Baby Orleans are now in full bloom. The everlasting flowers, especially the statice, a blossom very similar to the red clover are at the height of their beauty while the Earbary hedge, just changing color, is an unusually attractive sight.

PUPILS SPEAK OF FORMER TEACHER

Memorial addresses for Rev. Dr. Everett W. Sawyer, well known in Baptist educational circles throughout the Dominion, whose death occurred last week at Woodstock, Ont., were made on Sunday evening at the Fairview Baptist church, Vancouver. Those who paid tribute to his memory and sterling character were W. C. Kelley, Summerland, Mrs. J. W. DeB Farris, L. L. D., a student of Doctor Sawyer at Acadia College, Dr. T. H. Boggs, Ph. D., of the University of B. C., and the pastor, Rev. Arthur S. Lewis, D. D., all of whom had been closely associated with the deceased during his work as teacher in different institutions throughout the Dominion. With the exception of Mr. Kelley all these had studied under Dr. Sawyer.

A Scotswoman once applied to a solicitor for advice. After she had detailed all the circumstances of the case, the lawyer asked her if she had stated the facts exactly as they had occurred.

"Ou, ay, sir," she replied. "I thought it best to tell you the plain truth; you can put the lees till' yoursell'."

IN THE SWEET BYE-AND-BYE

"Keep Introduced" -- His Advice to Retailers

Editor of Retailers Publication Advises Dealers of Best Way To Attain Success

'Why use space in a small town weekly.' This question is answered in a manner interesting to the retailer by the editor of "Canadian Grocer" an unexcelled publication devoted to the welfare of the grocer and general retailer. His comments on this subject follows:

The best kind of advertising for all kinds of supplies is newspaper advertising. Consider for a moment the condition under which a newspaper advertisement reaches the man for whom it is intended. The reader of a small town daily or weekly usually reserves the perusal of his paper until such time as he can do so without being interrupted by something else. Most newspaper reading is done in the evenings after supper, when the cares of daily toil have been for a short space set aside.

It is read, as a rule, under the most comfortable circumstances; by the fireside in the winter and on the lawn or verandah in the summer.

Being comfortable and free from interruptions, the reader's mind is also receptive. And for this reason, items of news or advertisements which would receive but scant courtesy in a hasty perusal, under such circumstances as have been above alluded to, receive a fair amount of attention. The newspaper advertiser, therefore, reaches the man he is after—the buyer—under the most favorable of conditions. It is even better than a most favorable personal interview for this reason. All persons—or pretty nearly all—are prone to argument, and if you apply personally to a man whose mind is neutral upon the subject of your interview, even though he has any amount of leisure at his disposal, he will take a mighty lot of convincing. Particularly is this the case when an attempt is being made to make a sale of an article in which the person canvassed is not interested already. If he is already interested the case assumes a different aspect, and a personal interview, properly conducted, is by no means without its effect.

In the matter of photo supplies, it is comparatively easy to interest those who are amateur photographers in your supply department. A well worded announcement will, in most cases, do the trick. This much is evident from the fact that the amateur needing the goods only wants to find out where they may be had with the least amount of trouble and expense. But in getting after new devotees to the art of photography and including in them a desire to make photographs, a deal of thought must be given to advertising. The advertising in almost all kinds of goods must be known as "educative." For that kind of advertising nothing can surpass the newspaper. A man must be receptive if he is to be educated to anything, and the newspaper, in the majority of cases, is read at a time under circumstances which render the readers peculiarly receptive.

It is to be hoped that every reader of his trade paper has got out of the stick-in-the-mud state of mind where he is content to sell what he is asked for without troubling himself to reach out after the people who don't ask for anything, but who would if only persuaded to do so. This paper has at all times encouraged the use of good advertising, and careful readers of its columns should by now have had considerable advertising experience. They will know what is meant by educative advertising.

Take a generous amount of space for your business, and carry on a campaign in a general way. If it is ossible illustrate your copy with good cuts. Perhaps some of these may be obtained from the jobbers on loan, at the cost of postage or express. It may be possible to get an article written by some local enthusiast, telling of a holiday trip, the chief feature of which was snap-shooting, bear hunting, or an article which would pertain to your business or include the goods you sell. If no dealer's name is mentioned, and no allusion is made to the commercial side of the business, it would not be out of the way for the editor of your advertising medium to run this as a space of legitimate and interesting reading matter. Contemporaneously with such an article, written in good style, strong persuasive copy should be run in your regular advertising space. The effect of such a combined attack would be very strong indeed.

To make newspaper advertising really effective and well worth the money invested in it, there is nothing like having for a motto "keep hammering." By this means, and frequent changes of copy, your name can become familiar to every reader, and yet every announcement read with interest. Introduce yourself to the newspaper reading public as a dealer, and—keep introduced!

FORMER STATION AGENT VISITOR FROM SOUTH

Fred Oliver, K. V. R. station agent here for about three years, was a visitor to Summerland on Monday, calling on the present agent, Mr. J. W. Rutherford and his wife. Mr. Oliver resigned his position here and went to California, where apparently he has prospered in the real estate business, in which he was engaged before taking up railroading. He and Mrs. Oliver left home by motor in July and have been touring extensively in this province, having gone as far north as Prince George. They are going directly from here to their home in Wilmington, Cal.

Britain and the Continent Visited

By Editors of Canadian Weeklies

Written for The Review by Hugh Savage, Editor of Cowichan Leader

You will be wanting to know something of the present conditions of the great battlefields, to which I have devoted so far only a passing reference. We "did" them from Lille and, frankly, the method, preforce adopted, was not what one would willingly choose. Belgium and France exhibited to us not simply signs of recovery, but far more. That stage is already well behind them. The great port of Antwerp is extending to handle a business twice as great as in 1914. The Belgian fields are tilled with consummate skill and the resultant crops would open the eyes of Canadian farmers. Then, the high industrial establishments are simply roaring along. Their refitting and re-equipment spent busy days in British engineering shops just after the Armistice, but today these British machines, run by workmen who rally work, and are not bound to short hours and "ca canny," are turning out textiles and engines which are successfully outstripping similar British-made articles in many markets.

Our brief call at Southampton showed us unemployed lounging about the public parks. In our ten days on the Continent we saw no evidence of anyone being out of work.

The French captains of industry by whom we were welcomed wished us to see what France was doing industrially. They were full of appreciation for what Canada and Canadian soldiers had done for France, but it seemed to me that, among all classes, the war and its memories had been relegated to the background and stark business had long been the first consideration. This, perhaps, was inevitable and as it should be.

Our two days in the Ypres and Vimy regions thus became a mixture of being conducted through huge industrial plants, feted and wined, and being rushed in high charabancs over the cobbled roads, pausing, for a few brief moments only, at places hallowed as the scenes of bitter suffering, great deeds and noble sacrifice by our own flesh and blood.

This procedure seemed akin to sacrilege. The first morning was swallowed up in industrialism, but the afternoon enabled us to say that we had seen the great mine craters of St. Eloi, the ridge of Messines, climbed the long steps which form part of the Canadian memorial (uncompleted) at Sanctuary Wood, paused for twenty minutes in Ypres, and swept through scores of villages whose names are as household words to many who will read this.

Returning to the "old world" everything seems to be so much smaller than one remembered or imagined it to be. The places of which we read in war days are much closer together than one thought. There are no hedgerows. At the roadside a ditch is all that marks the division.

You see, in farm garden and field, great square blocks of concrete—gun emplacements and pill boxes, but of the litter of war there is now scarcely a trace. Here and there a curved piece of corrugated iron, odd pieces of barbed wire, or buildings of former, constitute almost the sole reminders. What would surprise the former tin-hatted legions, could they gaze on the landscape of 1924, is the enormous number of fine buildings, clustered in towns bearing historic names or, scattered amid the fields. Brickyards are everywhere in evidence. The result is seen in houses of red brick, roofed with solid, rounded tiles of the same hue.

Reconstruction of the towns is not entirely completed, but the end is not far off. Smashed roofs and scattered masonry are becoming rarer daily. But, alike in almost every hamlet and town, there now stands a memorial, elaborate or simple, to the fallen of that place who died for France.

There are fine crops in the fields which for long bore trenches and shellholes and rain of high explosives. The living are scattered far. The dead, for the most part, sleep in ordered rows in places set apart. A great Canadian, whose son will be remembered when the swords of other men are forgotten, has created an on-during memorial to these deathless armies. You cannot see poppies in his setting or in the growing corn in English fields without a heartstab of remembrance.

By the new masonry of the memorial at Sanctuary Wood there are shellholes, covered with oval-looking scum of liquid. Vimy Ridge, on which we stood a few minutes, is left just as it was. On the side from which came the British attack the trench system still shows up in the chalky earth. We swung to the right and so climbed on to the flat top. Roosting in a trench, my hand touched the nose of a shell. It was much desired by French chauffeurs, but I left it there. I learned from one Frenchman that Americans, in particular, are carrying their desire for souvenirs to abominable limits. In another sector, said my informant, even human bones have been carried away by visitors.

Vimy is the gift of France to Canada, and some precautions should be taken to prevent any of its relics from being disturbed.

It was misty over the former German lines, but on the ridge were daisies (symbols of empire), flowers like buttercups, and what seemed to be Canada thistles. You pick your way still over strands of wire, past shellhole and trench. It was sunny for a space and larks were singing. We drove to Arras past a cemetery where 25,300 Germans lie, each beneath a black cross. I have not yet mentioned our own cemeteries, although we stood in one near Hell Fire Corner, and saw many others, some still with acres and acres of wooden crosses—veritable forests of sacrifice.

You will realize that this rush and hurry did not make for a satisfactory view of the battlefields. For me there came three memorable hours of pilgrimage, alone with a former member of a Canadian Highland battalion. We let our party entrain at Arras, for Paris, and, having chartered a car, set out to visit a friend's grave.

Our driver was a former English soldier. He is like many others who are settled in and about Arras and Ypres, have their families and homes there and are "making good." We went first to the offices of the Imperial War Graves Commission, and there found the area superintendent, Lt.

VISITS SOLDIERS' GRAVES IN FRANCE

Review Contributor Bereaved By Death of Aged Father

There was a break last week in the very interesting series of articles covering the visit of a large number of members of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association to the Old Country and Europe. The interruption was caused by the very regrettable death of the father of the British Columbia editor, Hugh Savage of Duncan, who has been contributing these articles.

Mr. Savage remained in England because of the illness of his aged father, Mr. Richard Savage of Stratford-on-Avon, whose death occurred on Friday, August 29th. The late Mr. Savage was a Shakespearean student and writer and was in his 78th year. He was librarian and secretary of the Shakespeare Birthplace Trust and deputy keeper of the records of the Corporation of Stratford-on-Avon.

Mr. Hugh Savage's article published in this number is perhaps the most interesting of any of the series. Certainly it will be to those who lost relatives or intimate friends on the battlefields of France.

A red-headed Irish boy once applied for a position in a messenger office. The manager, after hiring him, sent him on an errand in one of the most fashionable districts. Half an hour later the manager was called to the phone, and the following conversation took place:

"Have you a red-headed boy working for you?"

"Yes."

"Well, this is the janitor at the Oakland Apartments, where your boy came to deliver a message. He insisted on coming in the front way, and was so persistent that I was forced to draw a gun."

"Good heavens. You didn't shoot him, did you?"

"No, but I want my gun back."

HIS ADVICE IS WIDELY SOUGHT

Fred. P. Mann, a retailer in Devil's Lake, North Dakota, has the distinction of selling more merchandise than is sold in any store of equal size in the world. Because of his success, he is much in demand at meetings of retail merchants. Here is a short extract from one of Mr. Mann's speeches:

"I would feel I was tied hand and foot, if I failed to tell the public through the home paper what I have to sell. The best time to advertise is when times are hard or business is bad and your competitor either curtails his advertising or is not advertising at all. I believe the newspapers of this country are the greatest business builders the world has ever known. I have tried to do business without printer's ink as well as with it, and my conclusion is that the merchant who thinks he can prosper without advertising his goods, is foolish."

He is in charge of hundreds of cemeteries, containing from a few scores to many thousand graves. Let me say here that no parents or relatives in Canada need worry about the resting places of their sons or friends. A permanent staff of men is employed in replacing, as fast as can be, the old wooden crosses with permanent headstones, on which are carved the regimental badge, name, rank, and other particulars of the fallen.

If you so wish you may obtain the old cross by writing to the Imperial War Graves Commission, London, England, and giving the particulars. This, of course, can be done only when the crosses have not been destroyed or already replaced. They will save them for you if it be possible.

We drove "behind the lines," past the farm houses which many of you know. They are still in the "original," with all that connotes in sanitation. At Aubigny there is rising ground dominated by a windmill. You go down a sunken road, through a curving village lane, and presently pass up through the cemetery gates, and emerge on the rise.

This is the old cemetery, with its ornate memorials and tributes of Catholic piety. Linked to it is the "Communal Cemetery Extension," where several hundred British soldiers rest. It is a "finished" cemetery, and so you may be interested in what it is like. The lowering sun flooded it with light, and, straight at the end of the central path struck full on the great Cross of Sacrifice with its shaft embossed with the Sword of St. Owen.

SYNOPSIS OF

PRE-EMPTIONS
 Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emption is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emption are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emption must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

For more detailed information see the Bulletin "How to Pre-empt Land."

PURCHASE
 Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $10 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESTEAD LEASES
 Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesteads, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES
 For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING
 Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

The drawing to an end of another fruit season induces a few reflections concerning certain features of the marketing end.

FRUIT MATTERS One of these is the surprisingly slow death of that easy but fatal system known as shipping on consignment. The fruit growers' friend who sends out weekly reports from Calgary, and intersperses them with occasional pieces of advice, last week had a few words to say on this subject, the gist of his remarks being the folly of giving a free hand to persons of whom they know little or nothing, and meekly accepting whatever returns may be sent them for their produce, even if it is a bill of costs. He points out that there are no facilities for checking up the accuracy of these returns, since no receipts are given for fruit which may be dumped, and no means of discovering how much or how little of the consignment may, or may not have been sold under market price. Of course, we hope that all brokers are honest, but even so there is a curious inconsistency in the mind of the shipper who cannot trust his own local organization, yet will cheerfully put himself in the hands of a distant broker who can send him as much or as little as he pleases, and whose returns cannot be disputed. The consignment system is workable where the fruit is sold by public auction at recognized centres—where it merely passes through the hands of a dealer who is responsible to no one but himself, it is sheer folly.

A breaking of faith which is said to have prevailed to some extent in certain districts this year, and which is vaguely described as bootlegging, is, I think, largely accounted for by the absolute necessity of growers to have some ready money to keep them going, coupled with the inability of their local co-operatives to make advances on the fruit shipped. This evil will diminish steadily with the financial strengthening of the associated bodies, and will eventually die a natural death. There are always, in every organization, a small percentage of members to whom this sort of evasion of contracts is the breath of life under any circumstances, but their number is limited, and, given workable conditions, the great majority are loyal. As a matter of fact, if it were not so, no association of any kind could exist.

There is another matter in the marketing problems which seems worth referring to. How far have the different organizations of growers gone in an endeavor to secure the trade of such widely distributed concerns as The Hudson's Bay Co., P. Burns, and other aggregations of retail branches? The turnover of fruit in the Hudson's Bay branches alone must be very large, and would constitute a valuable outlet for the produce of Associated Growers. The prosperity of the Okanagan Valley means something to these firms, and it would be interesting to know whether they have been approached, and if so, with what results. The vision of a chain of Hudson's Bay stores making a speciality of O. K. apples is an attractive one—has any well organized effort been made to realize it?

August and September are months of excursions and alarms for the honey bee, being the period of year when an individual protective THE LITTLE wearing protective BUSY BEE garb and wielding a smoker and hive tool, ruthlessly takes toll of the harvest so laboriously gathered during the summer. I often wonder just what is the state of mind of a colony after being robbed of two thirds of its crop, and left to adjust itself to the altered conditions of its hive. It would be rather farfetched to suppose that there is an inherited memory of days when the taking of the honey meant the destruction of the bees, and that present day workers comfort themselves with the reflection that conditions have vastly improved since then. It is more likely that the robbed community instinctively laps up any honey split in the process of robbing, and then proceeds to make itself more comfortable for the winter. And in the interval before cold weather, it may look around for a chance to rob some weaker colony, since the bee is a confirmed robber of her fellows when nectar is scarce. It is at those times, by the way, that occur most of those displays of anger we occasionally read of. A colony in process of being robbed by other bees never submits tamely, but fights to the death in defence of the common store, and at such times the combatants are quite impartial in their attentions to anything which comes in their way. I have seen infuriated bees during such a battle, and we know it is not uncommon to read of horses stung to death when unlucky enough to be around at such times. It is not often, however, that these outbreaks lead to such a sequence of happenings as I lately heard of. It seems that a travelling menagerie unwittingly entered the area of one such disturbance, with the result that a number of mules which were drawing the cage of his majesty King Leo, promptly became targets for the stings and arrows of a cloud of enemies. In the wholesome kicking which ensued, the lions' cage was damaged to such an extent that the entire family were able to achieve unexpected freedom, and straightway disappeared in an adjacent forest. The subsequent lion hunt was said to be exceedingly interesting and prolonged.

"A Snapper Up of Unconsidered Trifles."

 The Winter's Tale,

It is a curious fact that between bees and horses there seems to be a natural antipathy which is easily aroused. There is probably something about the smell of a horse which is repugnant to the bees, although they do not attack without some provocation. An instance of latent antagonism on the other side was related to me by a lady who once kept a few colonies of bees in her orchard and also owned a horse which would have incurred the severe censure of Mr. Volstead had the two been acquainted, seeing that he had a great liking for cull apples which had reached the approved stage of fermentation. At times he would find a box of such lying around, and would then develop all the regrettable symptoms of a pronounced debauch. An invariable feature of his unseemly exhilaration was a deliberate onslaught on the beehives, made however, with a fine calculation for his own personal safety. He would carefully judge his distance, with one swift kick send a hive cover flying into the air, and gallop to the far side of the orchard before the half grown bees realized the affront which had been put upon them. Thus the same stimulant which prompted the mischief, also produced the caution which evaded punishment, and this seems distinctly inequitable. We must write it down as one of life's little ironies.

HAVE MORE WATER AT PENTICTON

Restrictions in the use of domestic water for sprinkling purposes were lifted early last week by the Pentiction municipal authorities. Rains, particularly in the hills, from which the municipality receives its water supply, made this possible. In fact, sufficient water came down the creek to permit some to be distributed through the irrigation system and it is believed that a sufficient supply for a good fall irrigation will be available.

USE AND STORAGE

TAKE NOTICE that Peachland Irrigation District, whose address is Peachland, B.C., will apply for a licence to take and use 200 acre feet and to store 200 acre feet of water out of Wilson Lake, also known as Mile Creek, which flows southeast and drains into Peachland Creek. The storage dam will be located at the outlet of Wilson Lake. The capacity of the reservoir to be created is about 200 acre feet, and it will flood about 20 acres of land. The water will be diverted from the stream at a point about 2 1/2 miles west of Silver Lake and will be used for irrigation purpose upon the lands described as District Lots 2538, 812, 1184, 1183, 1185, 1800, 400, 221, and 2534. This notice was posted on the ground on the 22nd day of September, 1924. A copy of this notice and an application pursuant thereto and to the "Water Act, 1914," will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Vernon, B.C. Objections to the application may be filed with the said Water Recorder or with the Comptroller of Water Rights, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C., within thirty days after the first appearance of this notice in a local newspaper.

OLIVER RANCHERS FORBID SHOOTING

Pentiction Sportsmen Resent This Order To Keep Out

Sportsmen who have returned from hunting in the Oliver district report that a large majority of the ranchers at Oliver are posted "No Shooting." In reply to enquiries made while in Oliver, they claim they were informed that the ranchers had posted their places against the members of the Pentiction Game Association, which the ranchers consider, had "bucked" the growers.

This idea the members of the Game Association are at a loss to understand they say, because the Oliver growers have on several occasions been promised every help possible and the association has done everything possible along that line. It has been pointed out that last winter many appeals for feed for the birds were received from Oliver, and the members of the association feel if the Oliver ranchers are going to close their places against them they will be unable to render them any assistance in future.—Pentiction Herald.

He Omitted To Tell Us What His Wife Said

But Thomas K. Kelly, of Minneapolis, a very successful business man, in addressing a retail merchants association covering many small southern towns, a few days ago, told a story that is exceedingly interesting. In part it was as follows:

A few weeks before my fortieth birthday, which was several years ago, my wife, handing me a good-sized bunch of letters one morning, the letters being addressed and stamped, suggested that I drop them in the mail box on my way to the office. I wore my raincoat that morning, as it happened to be raining, so I slipped the letters in the pocket of the coat, and, upon arriving at the office, I placed the coat in my locker, and forgot all about the letters. I did not wear that same coat again for several weeks, and that's where my trouble started.

Those letters happened to be invitations to my fortieth birthday party. The evening of the party came, the stage was all set. The dinner was supposed to be at 6:00 p.m., but nobody showed up. We waited until seven, but my friends failed to arrive, then lo and behold, my wife said to me, "Do you recall a morning some few weeks ago when I gave you those letters to mail? They were the invitations to your party." Immediately the thought struck me, "By golly, those letters are in the pocket of my raincoat at the office."

That incident reminds me of an old friend of mine who was in to see me the other day. He told me about a motor trip he had taken, driving from Minneapolis up North for a few hundred miles. It happened to be on a Saturday. He visited several towns on his trip, calling in at many stores, and he remarked to me, "Do you know there were about two stores in each of the towns I went through that were 'busy'—the other stores didn't appear to be doing much of anything." That caused him to investigate, just as a matter of curiosity, so I asked him the names of the towns he visited. I then wrote to the newspapers in each of the towns and requested that they send me their papers of Thursday or Friday, before the Saturday when my friend called at these stores. That solved the problem. I found that in four out of five papers the other retail merchants in the towns where my friend had visited had failed to advertise in the newspapers, inviting the public to their store that Saturday, and the public not receiving an invitation, did not come, but the busy stores had invited them with a neat, effective ad. attractive in style and chuck full of common sense, and, naturally, that is where they went.

So the stores that failed to receive their friends were like my birthday party—the crowd didn't come.

I venture to say that in all the failures of retail merchants the last three years not twenty per cent of these same merchants advertised religiously in newspapers, whereas, if they had, their investment in newspaper advertising would have brought sufficient trade to prevent a great amount of their losses.

We are not handicapped today in unfolding our business the same as our forefathers were who were compelled to depend chiefly upon personal exploitation of the individual, for the circulation in those days was very small.

First of all the newspaper has circulation. A single newspaper will often cover from 60 to 80 per cent of the homes in its territory. (The Review covers more than 90 per cent). Advertising space in that paper will give a much greater return per dollar spent than will any other form of advertising on which postage is spent.

Second, people are accustomed to reading the paper. It is not difficult to get their attention as in the case of the circular letter, the booklet and other forms of direct by mail advertising.

Third, and best of all, it is timely. The advertiser is able to appeal to his audience by frequent advertisements.

The retail merchant, the minute he starts figuring on selling merchandise, has got to start figuring on the advertising that is going to do it.

Advertising certainly has many sides. It can scream, talk, or whisper, it can attract the eye or befuddle it. It can be an interesting story, or uninteresting piffle. There are just as many kinds of advertising as there are things to advertise. There is the sincere kind that breathes honesty and truthfulness, and which carries the reader right through to the end, and then again—there is the kind of advertising that says, "Beware, I am just trying to attract attention; I don't mean what I say, and I don't intend to make good on the extravagant claims I am talking about."

Newspapers, however, are not in the habit of publishing misleading advertising, and for that reason the public has unlimited confidence in newspaper advertising.

The retail merchant who will figure on spending two per cent of his gross receipts for newspaper advertising and one-half of one per cent for direct mail advertising, such as letters, post cards, etc., and prepares this advertising the same as if he were talking to his customers when they come in his store will have no need to complain about quiet trade.

You may say, "How can I educate myself to write advertising?" I know many successful merchants who have gained their advertising education through reading and studying good trade publications which publish splendid articles in every issue. No one can prepare advertising for the goods you own and offer for sale as good as yourself. The merchant who is open-minded and visualizes his opportunity, getting his sub-conscious mind in working order, is not going to experience dull trade.

I am a great believer in taking my newspaper as a partner in my business. Every newspaper has hundreds of ideas that are workable and profitable that they are only too glad to pass on to retail merchants—a newspaper is a clearing house of ideas especially pertaining to retail business and I wonder some time if we try to get as close to our newspaper as we ought to, as they would like to be with us. If you are interested in your newspaper they will be interested in you.

The manufacturer, wholesaler or jobber who backs up his salesman with newspaper advertising finds practically 75 per cent of the salesman's work is already done when he goes to call upon a prospective customer, through the advertising that has already preceded him, the prospective customer already having a very good idea of the merchandise through the advertising.

The crying need today is more advertising!

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM LIMMER

News was received here by telegraph early Tuesday afternoon of the death at Victoria of Mr. William Limmer, for some years a resident of Summerland. He came here from Hazel Hill, Nova Scotia, eleven or twelve years ago. Until then he was employed with the Commercial Cable Company at their station at Hazel Hill, N. S., spending about sixteen years in the service there prior to which he was with the same company for a short time in New York. It was because of ill health that he was pensioned off by the cable company just prior to his coming west.

Mr. Limmer was for a time associated with the Angove & Stinson Co. Ltd., but his health would not permit his taking an active part in the business and he sold his interest in that concern.

Mr. and Mrs. Limmer and their youngest daughter have been living in Victoria for about four years. He is survived by his widow, and three daughters, Mrs. C. C. Chittenden, formerly of Penticton, now in Vancouver; Mrs. Muir Stuart, Summerland, and Miss Alice, with the finance department in the provincial offices, Victoria.

It is hardly fair to expect that bright goods can be sold by dull advertising.

W. J. Mack returned to Vancouver on Tuesday after spending his vacation with friends here and at Kelowna.

 Expressions of Views on Current Topics

Editor, Summerland Review,
 Dear Sir:

As one of the Co-operative Growers, it seems to me that it is about time that the Growers received a little information as to what is going on both in their Central and Local Organizations.

The great authority on co-operation (Mr. Sapiro) laid it down as one of the cardinal points of successful co-operation that the Central should keep in close touch with its Growers. Is this being done? I venture to say it is not. It was often said of the old O. U. G. Ltd., that it was a close corporation, but in my opinion it was an open book compared to the secret methods of the present organization. Are they afraid of the truth? It looks mighty like it. Do the growers realize what this government certificate of inspection is costing them? I do not mean the $5.00 which is being charged per car, but the loss to the grower in the excessive grading of his fruit to obtain the certificate. I venture to say that not less than 20% of the money value of the Grower's fruit is being lost to him and no corresponding benefit being got either by him or by the Associated Growers.

What have they got to say about the prices that are being hawked around by the different buyers of fruit in the Southern end of the Valley, prices which we know we cannot hope to obtain from the Associated, judging from the figures that our apples are being sold at; not sold, but rolled to certain quarters on consignment, which we were told was never going to happen again. I figure that selling through the Co-operative, and standing by it, will cost me 25% of the value of my crop this season. I should just like to ask the gentlemen who compose our Executive at Vernon how long they expect that the Growers will go on under those conditions.

Yours truly,
 MATT. G. WILSON.

J. W. Harris was honored by fellow members of the bank staffs at Princeton on the occasion of his twenty-first birthday on Tuesday of last week with a very pleasant social evening in the rooms over the bank of Commerce, according to the Princeton Star. Jack spent last weekend at his home here.

Editor, Review,
 Sir:

Mr. Jack Logie's naive remark that the Summer School seems to have met with disapproval in some journalistic circles is not strictly correct. The Summer School as a vehicle for the advancement of Arts and Crafts could scarcely be disapproved by any person—the offensive feature was the unwarrantable permeation of its programme with Communist stuff which was entirely out of place, and repugnant to most normal people. And the detail (of which I was quite unaware) that a certain lecture was not given in the Log Cabin is quite immaterial. The entire Syllabus was advertised in The Canadian Statesman to be given in that place, and that is enough.

If Mr. Jack Logie does not understand why communism and Marxian and Fabian Socialism, as advertised were unwarranted features of the Log Cabin programme, I would remind him that the pottery in that building, is, or was, subsidized by the provincial government and it will hardly be claimed, even by the Local Federated Labour Party, that the administration at Victoria supposed it was later to be exploited as an aid to the promulgation of Bolshevism. The practical amalgamation of the pottery industry with the activities of a few local Socialists may be exceedingly adroit, but it could hardly commend itself to the provincial government, or to the taxpayers whose money was used to pay for expert instruction in the beginning. The British Columbia Art League has no connection with Communism, and should not be used as a carrier of communistic disease.

"Diogenes" of The Vancouver Province hopes that there "is enough sane public opinion in Summerland to neutralize such nefarious missionary efforts." It is a friendly aspiration, which, fortunately can be satisfied. When a much heralded international Communist lecturer can attract no more than a mere sprinkling of three dozen auditors in a community of two thousand people, no fear need be entertained for the sanity of that population in general, especially as some, at least, of the audience were antagonistic, and others probably present out of mere curiosity.

Yours very truly,
 AUTOLYCUS.

BUYING ONLY ORCHARD RUN

Vancouver Firm Picks Up Quantity of Apples Here

Schwartz Brothers, of Water Street, Vancouver, are buying a quantity of apples in this district. One of the members of the firm has been here for some time and has bought the apple crop of several orchards, according to his own statements. Whenever he buys he takes the entire crop and it is understood that he is bidding only for the free fruit, taking none that is under contract. The apples are bought orchard run and crated. This package Mr. Schwartz condemns vigorously. He declares that all apples should be boxed and, if orchard run, should be so marked.

In a statement to The Review, Mr. Schwartz declares that he is here to

PURE BRED STOCK ARRIVES HERE

There have arrived in Summerland several high class pure bred Jersey heifers, that mean much for the betterment of the dairy industry here. These animals have been brought here through the calf club organized several months ago and have been purchased for members of the families of R. V. Agur, T. Joy, W. Beatrice. One for Willie Gartrell has not yet arrived. R. Johnston has also bought a pure bred Jersey heifer from C. M. Barton, secretary of the Jersey Breeders' Association.

PEACHLAND DOINGS

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dryden motored to Vernon last week where they spent a few days. During Mrs. Dryden's absence Miss Dorothy Clements took charge of the Municipal office.

Fishing and hunting seem to be the order of the day among the young people, and others who have the time and inclination. There have been a goodly number of grouse gotten this year.

Picking of the apple crop is pretty well up to date and the staff at the packing houses have been able to keep well up with the fruit as it comes in. On the Greta Ranch Mr. Long expects to finish picking this week and will soon complete the packing also.

After the weekly prayer meeting in the Baptist Church on Wednesday evening of last week members and adherents held a short birthday social, but the principal reason for the gathering was to make a presentation to Miss Murdin of a mission jubilee pin in recognition of cheerful and faithful service rendered the church during years when she was much of the time without fellow workers of her own sex and age. There happened to be a number of the members and adherents celebrating birthdays during the month of September, among them Miss Murdin, so this gave rise to the birthday social. Miss Murdin entered into the enthusiasm of arranging the special event, quite unaware of the social part of the program she would figure in and it came as a complete surprise to her when Mrs. Buyea, president of the mission circle made a very fitting address and called on Miss Murdin's class of boys to make the presentation. She was very much touched by the gift and although under the circumstances it was hard for her to reply she showed her appreciation in a few suitable remarks after which a few others present made short addresses. Lunch was then served by the Septemberites, who were the hosts of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Sadler and family motored to Westbank on Friday afternoon to visit friends.

Mrs. Jones and daughter Edith returned on Friday after their eventful hike to Vancouver and return. They returned in fit form after enjoying a splendid outing. We will not say further, as we have reason to hope we will get a more detailed account of their outing when they have rested and time to get their notes in shape. They say they would not have missed it for a great deal.

Mr. Burket Robinson moved down from Westbank on Saturday with a week's provisions, expecting to spend that time working on his ranch here.

Mr. J. McKinnon spent Saturday on a business trip to Kelowna.

Mr. Powell, who has been spending a couple of weeks vacation here with his wife and family who have been spending the summer here, at the home of Miss M. Smith, returned to the Coast, leaving on Sunday by stage.

A very interesting debate took place in the Central School on Friday afternoon last, among the pupils of the principal's room and those of the High School. The subject chosen was, "Resolved that picture shows are demoralizing." Gerald Elliott was voted to the chair. Russel Palmer was chosen captain for the affirmative and Gordon Morrison for the negative. The affirmative was strongly supported by Russel Palmer, Annie Taylor, Edna Cudmore and Myrtle Barber. Russel Palmer brought to mind that in the picture shows when children and even grown up people do wrong things, they usually get off without being punished, or without being caught, leaving a bad impression on the minds of the children who saw it. Annie Taylor spoke of the dangers of infection of diseases, claimed that the intense bright light on the screen weakened the eyes, especially of children and that there is a great danger of fire. Edna Cudmore related that children will even steal money to pay their way into the show. Then too, they learn bad habits from seeing them done by actors on the screen. Myrtle Barber brought forth very strong arguments wherein she said it was a waste of money; that criminals never get punished; which sets a bad example for the children who saw it, leading them to commit crime, such as theft and even murder and kidnapping such as was witnessed by the recent case at Chicago. The negative was supported by Gordon Morrison, Francis Clements, Lizzie Topham, Mary Sadler and Lillian Palmer. Strong arguments were also brought forth on

TROUBLES OF MELON GROWERS AT OLIVER

Grower Tells of Some of Difficulties Producers Contend With

Stories of the difficulties growers of cantaloupes in the Oliver district are experiencing have been told here by visitors to that district. Last week The Princeton Star, telling of the arrival of a grower there with a truck load of one thousand melons, his first and only load this season, as compared with several such loads a year ago, publishes the story of this grower's experience as follows: He informs the Star that it will be his last as cantaloupe grower very scarce and he had to go over a considerable district with a fine tooth comb in order to get enough to make a load.

We honestly thought that our old friend was quite going to break down as he explained how it happened. As fast as he planted the seed in the spring the field mice followed his trail and dined sumptuously on them. Some few seeds did hatch but the grasshoppers thought the vines were for their sole and only benefit. Then the camel's back was broken—it was the last straw—when myriads of Hungarian partridges (commonly called "huns") that infest the district raided the patches and feasted on what fruit (or is it fruit) did come to maturity.

MARKETING APPLES OF FOURTH GRADE

Unable to find a market for culls, Manager Nyberg set the machinery in motion to find sale for apples packed fourth grade. With a satisfactory deal promised, he commenced rehandling Jonathan culls Thursday, eliminating wormy fruit and bruises that would not keep for several days, and packing out the balance. Light stem punctures, which culled a large percentage of apples, were not barred in the fourth grade and the packed fruit is much more attractive than C grade on account of high percentage of color. Reaching the consumer promptly, it is expected to return a good profit to the growers instead of being a clear loss.

According to the call for "4th Grade" stamps at the Chronicle office there is a rising market for this grade of apple. Ads in the Wenatchee World also bid for this class of fruit.—Omak (Wn.) Chronicle.

WENATCHEE APPLES BRING GOOD PRICES

(Continued from Page 1) the marketing of apples on this side of the line and asked if their organization could help the growers if they came into Canada or would the fact that they were American be a detriment. He was told that there is one American combination in the Canadian fruit market which, justly or unjustly, has not the goodwill of the B. C. fruit growers. The visitor was confident, however, that his concern could handle our export apples, particularly McIntosh and other high grade varieties going into the American market to the better satisfaction of our growers than they can be marketed through any other channel. As he was going from here to Kelowna and Vernon, the suggestion was made that Mr. Mogge take up this latter question, particularly, with the sales manager of the Associated.

MRS. H. G. FISHER IN PAINFUL ACCIDENT

While walking in the park Sunday afternoon, Mrs. H. G. Fisher suffered a broken ankle. Taking her dog with her, Mrs. Fisher was entering the park from the south, going down the hillside and in some manner was tripped by the dog. There was no one near and the scene of the accident was some distance from the road, toward which Mrs. Fisher moved as best she could in an effort to get help. After some time she succeeded in drawing the attention of Ralph Blowett, who hastened with his pony to advise Mr. Fisher of the accident and call a doctor.

Mrs. Fisher was taken to the hospital, where it was found that the small bone of the leg had broken just above the ankle. Later that evening she was removed to her home.

SEE THAT YOUR GOODS ARE MADE FOR SERVICE. SALES WILL SURELY FOLLOW.

this side of the debate, but not enough to balance the points brought out by the others and the decision was given in favour of the affirmative. Mr. Beaumont, principal, acted as judge.

FLYING MATCH HEAD SETS DRESS ABLAZE

Mrs. Geo. S. Drewett had a narrow escape on Saturday when her dress caught on fire. She was about to start a fire and struck a match which failed to ignite. It was not until a minute or two later that Mrs. Drewett discovered that her dress was ablaze. The head of the match had separated from the wood in igniting and lighted in the folds of her dress. But for the timely assistance of Miss Barkwill, who was in the house for a few minutes, Mrs. Drewett might have suffered serious injury.

The moral, according to Mr. Drewett, is to be careful as to what brand of matches you buy, as others have had similar experiences with the brand which they had been using. He tells of a neighbor who quite by accident set on fire the cover crop in his orchard by using matches with the same trait. Fortunately the fire had not got beyond control when discovered.

IN PARIS

THE PARIS subsidiary of the Bank of Montreal is situated in a quarter rich in historic interest. From a lofty column in Place Vendôme the statue of Napoleon looks out upon an imposing square the construction of which began in 1686 under authority of Louis XIV.—a square which has witnessed many of the city's greatest demonstrations and which now mirrors the social and business life of Paris.

Here, in the heart of the capital of France, the Bank of Montreal in 1919 established a subsidiary office in the Ritz Hotel Building. In February, 1922, the business of this office had become so extensive that enlarged quarters were opened near by at No. 6 Place Vendôme.

CHOICE APPLES FOR IMPERIAL FRUIT SHOW

Fine Collection of Best Varieties to be Exhibited at Birmingham by Associated Growers

The fruit exhibit from the Associated Growers of B. C. Ltd., which was forwarded on Saturday for display at the Imperial Fruit Show to be held at Birmingham, England, from Oct. 24th to Nov. 1st, was a truly magnificent lot of fruit, which cannot fail to advertise widely the Okanagan district in the Old Country, says the Kelowna Courier.

The main exhibit consists of eight boxes of each of the following varieties collected from orchards in the undermentioned districts: Wealthy, from Salmon Arm; Snow, King, Stark, from Penticton; Newton Pippin, Golden Russet, Greening and Baldwin from Summerland; McIntosh, Jonathan, Cox Orange, Spitzenburg, Wagner, Spy, and Delicious from Kelowna; and Blenheim Orange from Vernon. This will all be entered for competition in the "Overseas Section" and most of the varieties shown will also, automatically, come under the special "British Columbia Section."

Special Exhibit Apart from this exhibit, two others went forward, one of twelve boxes of Kelowna McIntosh for competition in the "British Empire Section" as dessert apples, and twelve boxes of North-West Greening, from Summerland, for competition in the same section, as cooking apples.

In addition, and to all intents and purposes as pleasing to the eye, one hundred boxes of mixed varieties of apples were added, shipped for display purposes only, so that the whole shipment is a small apple exhibition in itself and is bound to prove an enormous attraction to fruit importers in England's main industrial district.

The collection of this fine display of fruit was not an easy task and reflects great credit on Mr. Charles Little, of Vernon, who had the responsibility of assembling it. Equally good work was done by Mr. H. N. Potter, of Penticton, to whom the packing of the fruit was entrusted. It may be stated that the manner in which each variety was packed was super-excellent. The fruit was all assembled here and the sorting and packing occupied six to seven men from the 17th to the 26th of Sept., the collecting from the various orchards having taken still longer.

The Kootenay district is preparing a similar display of apples, which will enter into competition with this exhibit at the Imperial Fruit Show.

BUYING WINDFALLS

Apple growers will be interested in the advertisement of Swartz Brothers in this issue, asking for windfalls of many varieties. It is said that this firm has a market for many carloads of these apples.

EXHIBITS 1923 APPLES

Fruit Shown at Wembley Still in Fine Condition

F. R. E. deHart, recently returned to Kelowna from London, where he was in charge of the big Dominion government fruit exhibit at Wembley, brought back with him some apples which have created considerable interest. These apples were on an exhibition last week at the Kelowna fair. They were all of the 1923 crop and had been shipped to England and put on view at the Empire exhibition, where they were viewed by over a million people.

Mr. deHart brought them back to show British Columbians how well our apples will keep. When shown at Kelowna they were firm and unshrivelled. Large crowds swarmed around this display.

MEIGHEN TO SPEAK IN SUMMERLAND

It is learned on good authority that the Hon. Arthur Meighen, former premier of Canada and now the leader of the Opposition, will speak in Summerland and at other Okanagan points during the present federal by-election campaign.

INVESTING IN VALLEY MINES

Properties At North End of Lake Drawing Capital

During the past few months considerable interest has been shown in the mining properties throughout this part of the province, and various mining men have visited the district to examine and report on the claims which have been developed sufficiently to enable engineers to form a fairly accurate idea as to the prospective value, says the Vernon News.

The parties holding an option on the White Elephant mine at Ewing's Landing on which considerable work was done during the past couple of years, have exercised the same, and on Monday last, made a second payment to the owner, Archie Clark, through A. O. Cochrane who had negotiated the deal. It is anticipated that work will proceed at once in making a complete test of this mineral deposit, which experts "size up" as having all the earmarks of a big producer. This deposit seems to be of rather unusual formation, and if it has depth and continuity will be a money-maker, as the ore is of very high grade.

Mr. Cochrane has also interested capital in again developing the Cherry Creek hydraulic claims, upon which work will be commenced early next year. With equipment which is contemplated, this also should prove profitable, as there is every indication of good value if the ground can be properly worked.

BANDSMEN ARE NEEDED HERE

Recruits are needed for the Summerland Band, which hopes to begin practice soon. Through removal from the community the band has lost several members, the greatest deficiency being among the cornet players. Any experienced bandman will be welcome, no matter what instrument he plays and it is the intention of the leader to open a beginners' class at an early date. Telephone or personal communications on the subject will, we are sure, be welcomed by J. W. S. Logie, secretary of the band. Mr. Logie has requested The Review to ask all who have instruments to please return them to him.

FAVORS MORE RIGID FRUIT INSPECTION

Suggests California's Formula to Meet Outside Competition Might Help B. C.

Discussing the question of the disadvantageous situation in which B.C. fruit growers are placed through the Washington fruit reaching the markets in this province about two weeks ahead of the home grown fruit, the Vancouver Sun states:

Because Washington and Oregon fruit ripens some two weeks earlier than the local product, imported strawberries, onions, raspberries, peaches and apples every year take the heart right out of the British Columbia market.

This earlier ripening period across the line puts the British Columbia fruit consumption just about two weeks ahead of British Columbia fruit production, with the result that all the season-opening high prices go to outside fruit farmers instead of to local fruit farmers.

California had the same problem and solved it in a typically Californian way. Florida has superior oranges to California, but Californian business men sat down and figured out that California fruit was good enough for Californians. Various methods were discussed, but the one finally selected was the Inspection Act which, operating on the principle that California could not afford to harbor the old Florida fruit fly, set up such rigid inspection standards that Florida growers could not profitably compete with native California fruit farmers.

Now, if a fine big state like California thinks it is in the public interest to have its people eat California fruit, how much more necessary is it for a little struggling province like British Columbia to have British Columbians eat B. C. fruit, especially when we have nature working, in the form of an earlier season in the south, against us.

PUT APPLES IN DOLLAR PARCELS

Vancouver Sales Expert Says Small Package Is Needed

"Apples must be put up in dollar packages if they are going to meet with any greatly increased demand in this city."

This was the very suggestive statement made to a representative of The Review this week by the head of one of the advertising agencies in Vancouver. He prefaced this declaration with the remark that a survey made by his organization showed that only one household out of thirty-five bought apples by the box and the tendency today is more and more toward small purchases.

Bought singly or in lots of one pound or two at a time the consumption of apples is nothing like it would be if there were in the house the larger package of apples. This the advertising man fully recognized but he declared it is impossible to persuade but a small percentage of housekeepers to accept apples in as large quantity as our standard box. He would have the fruit-packed orchard run, but was not prepared to advise as to the shape or style of package, which with its contents must be sold by the grower at a price that would permit its being retailed at the convenient price of one dollar.

PUBLISHERS HOLD MEETING

Newspaper Men in Annual Session—Praises The Review

British Columbia Press Association, which includes the dailies and weeklies of this province, met in annual convention on Friday and Saturday last in Hotel Vancouver. At the same time, upon invitation of the B. C. Publishers, the Alberta Press Association met in an adjoining room for their own association work, and with the B. C. Association for discussion of general subjects.

The publishers were taken on a cruise around the harbor on the Vancouver harbor commissioners' motor power boat, accompanied by Col. Kirkpatrick, chairman of the commission and members of his staff. This was an exceptional opportunity for the Alberta and interior publishers to learn more of the facilities of Vancouver's harbor.

The entertainment provided included a dinner given by F. J. Burd, manager of the Vancouver Daily Province, whose reputation as an entertainer is more than province wide and who was largely responsible for the success of the convention. The publishers were also guests for an evening of the Orpheum Theatre.

It was not all play however, and many hours of good profitable work were put in. Some excellent addresses were heard and many subjects of interest to the publishers were

MORE APPLES BUT TOMATOES ARE OFF

Kereveos Has Very Poor Crop of Tomatoes—Labor Shortage

Canners at Kereveos describe the present year as an off one as regards the tomato crop, according to the Princeton Star. The fruit is not up to the usual standard either in respect to quality or size. There is also a scarcity of help at the Kereveos Cannery where only white girls and women are employed. The Co-operative is also short of apple packers. Apples are maturing this year nearly two weeks earlier than usual. They are of splendid quality and the yield will be considerably in excess of first estimates; the damage from late frosts not being nearly as great as at first thought. Mr. Richards of the Co-operative states that instead of their original estimate of 70 cars they will have about 110 cars to handle last year they shipped 80 cars.

ARE DESTROYING STREET LAMPS

Some person or persons are guilty of wilfully destroying the street lamps, probably using them as a target in gun practice or possibly by throwing stones. The municipal electrician states that he is determined to stop this practice and immediately he gets enough evidence to warrant laying the charge, that summons will be issued.

PASTOR IS GOING TO NOVA SCOTIA

The Rev. Z. L. Fash and Mrs. Fash plan to leave here on Monday, October 27th, for Hantsport, N. S. Mr. Fash has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Baptist church in that town. He received the invitation by telegram on Saturday, September 27th and had scarcely sent his acceptance when he received another call from an Annapolis Valley church.

ALBERTA GROWING

In the last eighteen years Alberta's population has increased four-fold and the grain production has increased twenty-fold. The total agricultural products of Alberta in 1923 were worth $229,000,000.

discussed by eminent among them being questions on the general subject of improving the news papers of the province and rendering better service to advertisers and readers. Dean Spencer of the School of Journalism, University of Washington, gave some valuable advice and help. In an examination of the weekly papers of this province he paid The Summerland Review very high compliment, pronouncing it a model of what a country weekly should be.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Hugh Savago, Duncan; 1st vice-president, J. A. Bates, White Rock; 2nd vice-president, R. E. White, Summerland; secretary-treasurer, Bon Hughes, Courtenay. Other members of the executive are W. A. Ellerton, Rossland; H. M. Walker, Enderby; R. D. Cumming, Mission City and J. G. Quinn, Prince George.

O.U.G. INVOLVED IN INTERESTING COURT CASE

Suing for Payment of Shipment of Onions, Claim Countered

There is now in the supreme court a case of considerable interest as the result of action taken by M. G. Wilson, trustee of the O. U. G. Ltd. against Robertson, Morris & Co. Ltd., Vancouver.

Facts, briefly, as given The Review, are that the O. U. G. shipped the defendant five carloads of onions and were paid for but one carload, suit being entered to obtain payment for the other four. Defendants claim that they acted simply as agents for J. W. Morris & Co. of Seattle and that the action should be against them. The Seattle firm are applying to come in as defendants and as plaintiffs by way of counter claim for failure to complete contract, claiming that they ordered ten cars of onions and that the O. U. G. failed to make delivery. As against this the O. U. G. states that Robertson, Morris & Co. failed to give shipping instructions.

The trial will probably come up in November. K. M. Elliott is counsel for plaintiff.

PRESENTED WITH CASE OF PIPES

Dr. E. C. H. Windeler was the recipient last Friday evening of a case of pipes, presented to him on the eve of his departure for the east by the members of the local G. W. V. A. Dr. Windeler, as vice-president of the association, was in the chair, and when Ned Bentley, with suitable words, handed him the token, he was completely surprised.

Dr. Windeler has been local representative of the S. C. R. and as such has been of great assistance to "the boys," particularly in upholding the rights of pensioners. He has also taken an active part in the work of the G. W. V. A.

Following the presentation a small concert was given when Ben Newton and F. Mossop rendered solos and G. Y. L. Crossley and C. J. Amm recitations. Army yarns also had their place.

Dr. Windeler left here Wednesday morning for Toronto with the intention of locating in the east. For the present Mrs. Windeler will remain in Summerland.

ENDERBY FAIR A FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Enderby fall fair committee has a balance on hand of $130.64 after closing its books following the annual fair. Four hundred and seventy-two dollars and twenty-five cents was taken in at the gate. Total receipts were $829.46, one hundred dollars of which was donated by the city council.

MORE WATER IN RESERVOIR

Diversion of Spring Will Be Insurance Against Freeze Up

Recent showers, though light, have materially improved the local situation with respect to the domestic water supply. For some days the quantity of water in the Prairie Valley reservoir has been increasing until now it is well over the pipe line. For several weeks there was a steady drop in the supply, until the main which feeds the pipe system was less than half submerged.

Though not immediately needed in the maintenance of the domestic water supply, the spring water below the reservoir will be carried to the eight inch main as planned some weeks ago. This relatively small expenditure is well justified by the fact that it will insure against a shortage that may be occasioned during a protracted spell of freezing weather, when the flow from the creek to the reservoir may be greatly diminished.

Canada possesses the world's largest pulpwood resources.

PRESERVE THE WEEKLY.

With all the arguments that are advanced in favor of a daily newspaper, still we contend that the weekly publications, not only in our own province, but throughout the country, are deserving of the whole hearted support of the public.

We cannot forget the fact, that years ago, the weekly was the pioneer, and out of that has grown the great daily of today.
 Some near-sighted writers feel that with the dailies covering the field there is little need of the weekly. This is a narrow view to say the least.

The weekly newspapers are community builders and should be liberally supported in every locality where they are published. We would be the last to advocate people giving up their weekly publications in order to take a daily, for then the only tie would be severed in the home field.

In British Columbia we have half a hundred weekly publications, each serving the community. The big city daily in a city the size of Vancouver, cannot report the local events, in the places where these weeklies are published, and consequently it fails to take their place.

The Vancouver Province is a paper that is read county-wide and yet we do not hesitate to say that the weeklies in the province fill a place that the daily cannot. People take the daily because it gives them the markets and the activities in the nation daily; but there is always lacking those close-up personal relations that are a part of the community life in the smaller centres. Then again, what would the province of British Columbia be if it were to eliminate the excellent weeklies that are playing a major part in moulding public opinion.
 Each locality has its own problems to solve, and the daily publication, not being in close touch or understanding the issue, is utterly at sea in trying to take the place of the weekly.

We appeal to the people everywhere, to take their home weekly as the first best bet, and then if they want to keep in closer touch with the world through market reports and other telegraphic news, next consider the daily publication.

The greatest newspaper men in the history of Canada, have been those who have edited weekly publications at one time or another. They have been pioneers in the newspaper field, and in this day and age, when people are looking for bigger things, they must not overlook the brilliancy of the writers of today who give their message weekly to the reading public.

Those who are considering giving up a weekly, and subscribing for a daily, should weigh very carefully their decision in this matter, for once the home community publication is eliminated through lack of support, it will be a serious loss to that locality. In smaller places where two or more weekly publications exist, there should be a merging however, with a view of giving the people the very best weekly edition possible.

DON'T BANK ON IT

It is all right to listen to campaign speeches, but we advise farmers of the Okanagan to depend upon their own work and not upon promised agricultural relief measures for the next year's income.

If you don't believe in newspaper space and printers' ink as business getters, then you had better take lessons in how to succeed from the man who failed.

TOO MUCH "HOME WORK"

The educational survey in progress throughout the province will go a long way toward solving the question of the present school curriculum.
 Much interest is manifested and the survey should evolve some plan whereby the large and irksome amount of home work would be eliminated.
 The idea of a child spending four or five hours each evening under artificial light "getting his homework" is a relic of another age and should have no place in modern school practice. A little study should be insisted upon if the pupil's eyesight permits without injury, but there is too much of it in our schools. This practice has grown until parents often wonder what teachers are for and what they do to earn their money. With pupils doing six hours' study in school and four at night, making a total of nine or ten hours, and the annual per capita cost of education continually rising with no apparent rising in the efficiency of the pupils is something taxpayers should investigate. Our legislators spend thousands of dollars and months of time squabbling over trivial matters, while business of importance is allowed to drag along year in and year out.

Of course the school question has many ramifications and while it is easy to criticize it is not easy to offer constructive criticism. We are almost convinced that there is not enough attention paid to the essentials and too much to that which is lost in after life. It develops that only 5 per cent of those taking courses in agriculture return and follow that avocation and this country with its magnificent resources depends largely upon foreigners to cultivate the land, while Canadians leave the country by thousands.

We have no patience with the little fellows who prate about the cost of education—if there is something to show for it. When one considers that we spend twelve millions in booze and six millions on race horses every twelve months, the matter of school costs pales into insignificance.—Trail

LIBERTY IS YOURS!

What a small world Old King Tut ruled! With all the wealth of the Pharos, even HE was miserably chained to his own back yard by the meagre methods of transportation.

The automobile of today has made princes of us all. Once, only a few years ago, you read about William K. Vanderbilt's "White Ghost," bought in Europe. He was tearing up the highway at the terrific speed of 35 miles an hour—the last five imaginary.

Now you can go out and buy an automobile for the price of a second class horse and buggy—and you can, if foolish, go faster than Willie K. ever did in his "White Ghost."

Do you give yourself freedom to move where and when you will—or are you chained to circumstances? Liberty is yours if you want it. When you buy a car—a new one or a good used one—you purchase freedom. It's worth it.

DO YOU SUPPORT YOUR NEWSPAPER?

There is nothing that calls attention and draws people to a town equal to a good newspaper. In order for a man to make a good newspaper he must have the patronage of the people among whom he lives. If he has halfway support it stands to reason that he must make a poorer newspaper, and in doing this every man in the town and surrounding country has to bear a portion of the loss. For this reason, if no other, the man who tries to make a good newspaper, should have the support of his own people, all of whom reap fully as much benefit from its efforts as he does himself.

WHAT IS HAPPINESS?

Happiness I have discovered is nearly always a rebound from hard work. Happiness loves to see men at work. She loves self-sacrifice. She will be found not in palaces, but lurking in corn fields and factories and hovering over littered desks. She crowns the unconscious head of the busy child. If you look up suddenly from hard work you will see her, but if you look too long she fades sorrowfully away.

What this country needs more than anything else is men that can think straight—men that can reach conclusions based on intelligence and knowledge. Not on ignorance and prejudice. The nation is crying for men that can neither be caught by the glittering spider-web of Bolshevism nor blocked by the reactionary's wall of selfishness and stupid precedent.

Some people never have any respect for gray hairs until they have acquired a few of their own.

Most men would be willing to earn their money honestly if it didn't take so long.

Dr. E. W. Sawyer AN APPRECIATION

The large place that the late Dr.
 Everett W. Sawyer held in the esteem of those who had been associated with him in the work of Christian Education and in the work of the Kingdom was shown at the funeral services conducted at the home of his father-in-law, Mr. George Parker, Woodstock, Ontario, on Monday, September 22nd. The pastor of the First Baptist church, Rev. Joseph Janes, conducted the service, and was assisted by Dr. J. H. Farmer and
 Dr. E. M. Kierstead, both of Mc-Master University, and Rev. S. Everton, of Woodstock College. Favorite passages of scripture of the deceased were read by Rev. E. Everton, some of his favorite hymns were sung, and Mrs. Janes sang the beautiful hymn, "Sleep on, beloved."

Rev. Jos. Janes paid high tribute to Dr. Sawyer. He spoke of his work in Woodstock College, where he was universally beloved by his fellow-teachers and by the students.
 In the first Baptist church he had rendered faithful service as deacon, and his work as teacher of the bible class had been of the highest order.
 His sound judgment, his integrity, his unflinching interest in the Lord's work, his courage and optimism, his faith in God, made him of great service in the college, the church, and the community. Mr. Janes also read the following telegram from Acadia University, to which Dr. Sawyer had given twenty-three years of service.
 "Governors and Faculty of Acadia University extend sincere sympathy to you and the family in your great loss and sorrow. Dr. Sawyer was a highly esteemed teacher and worker here, and many students will remember his faithful work in their behalf."

Dr. Farmer spoke of the character and work of Dr. Sawyer, whom he described as a man of sound Christian culture, who had given his life to the work of Christian Education.
 Thousands of students had come under the influence of his personality, and had been blessed thereby. Dr.
 Farmer referred especially to the real and thorough scholarship of Dr.
 Sawyer, combined with genuine Christian character. With these, there was humble dependence upon Christ, through whom he had now obtained the victory.

Dr. Kierstead, who had known Dr.
 Sawyer for fifty years, spoke with intense feeling, and referred to the

OPENS TOMORROW LLOYD IN "GIRL SHY"

Bashfulness that bubbles over with laughter will arrive in town tomorrow when Harold Lloyd's latest feature, Pathemcomedy, "Girl Shy," opens at the Rialto Theatre, where it will be shown both Friday and Saturday.

Lloyd has hitherto given to the screen many humorous novelties in his varied characterizations, but in "Girl Shy" he promises to outdo his previous laugh efforts with his portrayal of a very bashful small town boy, who made a secret study of girls, and the more he studied them, the more he feared them. It is a really novel role, and should be full of fun, because Lloyd has by this time achieved a reputation for never disappointing his many followers.

place that Dr. Sawyer would hold in the history of the Baptist denomination as an educationalist of the first rank. Brilliant as a student in Acadia and Harvard Universities, he had given rich service as a teacher through nearly forty years, in Acadia University, Okanagan College, and Woodstock College. "He rendered invaluable service to the church and to the country. His work is ended, but his influence goes on.
 He has entered into the more immediate presence of the Redeemer."

"Per Aspera ad Altiora" was a motto chosen by Dr. Sawyer which will occur to many readers of this who knew him during the last years, and in sorrow will find cause of rejoicing that he has attained victory.
 They will remember at this time those who must feel the sense of loss most keenly, his widow, Mrs. Ada Parker Sawyer, of Woodstock College, Ontario; his sons and daughter,
 Bernal W. Sawyer of Halifax, Nova Scotia, Edmund A. Sawyer, of Sea-forth, Jamaica, and Mrs. W. M. Armstrong of Vancouver, B.C.; and his sister, Miss Laura E. Sawyer, librarian of Perkin's Institute, Watertown, Massachusetts.

The above appreciation of the life and work of the late Dr. E. W. Sawyer has been furnished The Review by Rev. S. Everton. Mr. Everton is his covering letter refers to the former residence of Mrs. Everton and himself in Summerland: "There

MAKING PROGRESS

Peachland, B. C.
 Oct. 4, 1924.

Dear Sir,
 I was very glad to see the letter from Mr. M. G. Wilson in your last issue. As a grower I am very much disappointed that more first hand information is not given out from headquarters. Surely the growers are entitled to know what is going on and it cannot be expected they will give the loyal support that is expected if they are kept in the dark as to the working of the Association. If the Association is to succeed it must trust its members. Also we must get in closer touch with consumer and drop off a few profits between producer and consumer. We believe a big improvement has been made in operating expense. Keep up the good work and make our Association a big success. With best wishes for the Association and Growers.

Yours very truly,
 REYNOLDS HARRINGTON.

THE LOG CABIN

West Summerland, B. C.
 Oct. 7, 1924

Editor Review,
 Summerland, B. C.,
 Dear Sir:

The following letter has been sent to the Editor of the Daily Province and although it has not as yet been published, I am still living in hope.
 "I wish to take exception to certain statements in your paper with regard to the work of the local branch of the B. C. Art League. No attempt has been made or will be made to associate the League with any other organization whatever except in so far as various public bodies are represented on the executive committee. It would be just as logical to say that the Episcopal Church is identifying itself with socialist propaganda because the Labor Party sometimes uses the Parish Hall.
 "The Log Cabin is open for all community purposes and the Art League is in the position of a tenant as well as the other organizations which make use of the building and grounds from time to time. As the members of the Labor Party cut the logs and did most of the work in building the Log Cabin so that the Art League might have an exhibition and sales room, it would seem a simple act of courtesy that they be accorded the same privileges which the owner of the property extends to the general public.

 "If, as your contributor states, there are any people in Summerland who will not support the Art League on that account, the writer is of the opinion that they are much better outside as they are too narrow minded to be of any use to a community effort such as the League undoubtedly is."

It is true that the School Board owns a half interest in the pottery kiln but as it is available for night school classes and as these have always paid a good profit, I fail to see where the ratepayers need to worry. Mrs. Henderson has been severely criticized for speaking of Russia when she had only been there three months but Autolyus and Diogenes are very free at finding fault with an organization of which they evidently know very little and it is doubtful if they have ever set foot in the Log Cabin. The whole crime of the Labor Party's Summer School consists in the fact that they had the temerity to discuss subjects which will be the main theme of contention at the next British Election and the Canadian people are going to hear all sides of the situation whether it suits Autolyus and Diogenes or not.
 As Autolyus seems to be still worrying about the attendance he will no doubt be pleased to know that Mrs. Henderson is filling the largest theatres in Vancouver and speaking to audiences of over one thousand people. He will also be gratified to learn that in accordance with the highest ethics of journalistic fair play, the daily newspapers are as silent as the tomb with regard to her meetings.
 Hoping that Autolyus is the same, I am,
 Yours sincerely,
 JACK LOGIE

 Mrs. R. Boswell and son Bon arrived on Friday last to join Mr. Boswell and take up their residence in Peachland.
 Mr. and Mrs. Vernon of Vancouver arrived on Saturday by motor and were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Harrington whom they had visited on a former occasion.
 Miss Doris Bradbury came up from Penticton on Saturday morning's boat to spend a week and vacation with her people. She returned to Penticton on Monday evening.
 "Fire Prevention Week" is receiving due consideration in Peachland. Posters are up in prominent places and literature is being distributed. Principal Boswell in the Central school with the assistance of Elie Chief H. E. McCall is seeking to develop through the medium of the school pupils an enthusiastic spirit for fire prevention. On Tuesday afternoon the principal called the three rooms into one and after giving the pupils a short talk on the great need for this measure he called on the chief who was also present to make a few remarks. The children were asked to take the literature, and other information gained, home with them and discuss the serious problems and facts with their parents with a view to interesting the entire community and getting real Fire Prevention.

Publicity and Prosperity

Local and Provincial

By H. W. HARRINGTON, Secretary, Bureau of Provincial Information.

One of the greatest factors in the business world is publicity, and in any enterprising business organization the appropriation for advertising bulks largest in the overhead expenses. The mere spending of money for this purpose does not mark any organization as progressive or efficient; the value of the publicity in relation to its cost is the thing which counts. The baking trade advertises extensively. "Buy bakers' bread"; the appeal has its effect, and John Doe, who advertises his "Peanut bread", secures a new customer. The trade appeal induced the consumer to buy bakers' bread; John Doe's advertisement told of a specific local bread; and between the two both John Doe and the baking trade in general benefited. "Save the surface and you save all" is another example of the thought that I wish to convey.
Co-operation Needed
 British Columbia is the biggest business in the Province; it is the Province itself, and the business of advertising it is of importance to all residents, shareholders in the company. In selling its goods, not to and for the sole benefit of individuals, but for the profit of all, publicity must take a foremost part. Publicity of the most effective kind, returning full value for every cent expended is what is wanted; and to ensure the greatest possible results co-operation is imperative. The lesson of "buy bakers' bread", and "save the surface", should be taken as the base of operations; all publicity forces should be marshalled, and a concerted plan of campaign mapped out. It is not necessary for any units to lose their individuality, but co-operation of effort would increase the effectiveness of British Columbia's, at present, unorganized publicity.
 Competition often leads to errors of judgment which might be prevented. Brown Brothers naturally try to sell their own shoe polish and do all in their power to keep Black and Company's goods out of the market. But if in their efforts to force their own goods on a reluctant customer, they turn him against Black's polish, and he purchases a foreign article instead, both firms lose. Foreign trade is advanced at the cost of Canadian industry, and the aggregation of such cases means that less money is available for the purchase of Black's and Brown's polishes by unemployed consumers.
Should Hold Settlers
 In selling a country, (not in the base sense) local interest, naturally and rightly, is the first consideration. The log-hut community of Lone Dog Creek wants to boost the great advantages of its location and natural

SYNOPSIS OF

PRE-EMPTIONS
 Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emption is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emption are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emption must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE
 Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $1 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMEBSITE LEASES
 Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased on a homestead, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES
 For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING
 Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administrator under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

The Pedlar's Pack
 By AUTOLYCUS

One of the illustrated weeklies had a very funny frontpiece lately, depicting a florid gentleman with a forty six inch waist and a chest breathlessly going through a prescribed daily dozen exercise course to the accompaniment of appropriate music delivered from a phonograph record. I think Mr. John Carlyle must have had this picture in mind when he wrote "There is as much nonsense written about exercise as about any form of human activity on earth." It may be granted that a man who has to carry around a burden of thirty or forty pounds of superfluous fat is justified in trying to reduce it—his mistake is in believing that strenuous exercise is all that is needed to accomplish that end. It is said that the late Joseph Chamberlain was exceptionally averse to even the ordinary physical exertion of walking, and would always use a hansom cab in preference, yet we know he was of spare habit, without an ounce of excess weight. His case was, of course, one of those exceptions which go to prove a rule, and does not imply that reasonable exercise is unnecessary. But most men can get all they actually need in the course of their daily round; and Mr. Carlyle's complaint is against the deflection of strenuous effort made without any good reason or result.

His article brought to my mind Wilkie Collins' novel of "Man and Wife" in which one Geoffrey Delamayn was used as a character to "point a moral and adorn a tale." Delamayn was an amateur athlete whose anger was aroused on one occasion by the friendly caution of a medical man who had noticed certain indications of over-training, quite unconsciously revealed by the subject. Readers of this once famous story will remember that, in a race in which he hoped to retrieve certain financial difficulties, Geoffrey, at the crucial moment, collapses, and later finds his health seriously and permanently impaired. The novel raised a great outcry among athletic enthusiasts, but many instances can be produced to support the stand Collins took on the subject. Excessive physical culture of the kind encouraged by vivid pictures of young greek gods posing to display abnormal muscle development, has undoubtedly been responsible for many a subsequent breakdown in general stamina; the heart being called upon to pay for over production of sinew. Where is the sense of developing abnormal lumps of muscle at the expense of the fountain of energy, and of what use or ornament are they when developed?

Those English speaking people who had the misfortune to be born during the reign of Queen Victoria are evidently to be pitied; THAT EARLY VICTORIAN and the fact MENTALITY that they themselves do not know it only makes the matter worse. If they were even partially aware of their mental deficiency there would be some hope for them, but he that is ignorant and knows not that he is ignorant is in hopeless case. Futurists, cubists, communists, and other enlightened persons of that kind, look upon the Early Victorian with pity, but they recognize clearly that his case is beyond human help, and that he must be left in his smug self-complacency. Not for him is poetry minus measure, rhyme or reason, pictures without the curve of beauty, novels destitute of decency, or even the rosy dawn of world wide government by a guileless proletariat—directed from Moscow. It is very sad to think of those bright people, content in their foolish clinging to fundamental principles, and blind to the glorious of the New Era, in which the wornout shibboleths of the past will disappear, lost in the general overthrow. There is but one saving clause, which is the truth, that the Victorians (and probably the Georgians and many later generations) will all be gone before the new order of things materializes. Meantime, they may manage to live in blissful contentment, appreciating at their proper value such Victorian writers as Dickens, Thackeray, Hardy, Eliot, Rens, Blackmore, Carlyle and Froude, and brackling with them such later teachers as show themselves worthy.

By the way, I include Dickens in the list with fear and trembling, since Mr. W. L. George has damned his books with the superior assurance of one who knows. However, it will be time enough to heed Mr. George's denunciations when he himself produces anything one hundredth part as good as the work he disparages. And that will never be.

The battle cry of "Buy in your own province" was a short time ago shouted in the highways and byways more persistently than it is today, having given ground to a cry of discrimination in favor of the east. Both these war cries have more or less reason behind them, but there is an aspect of the matter which seems to be too little considered. We can only buy British Columbia goods if they are produced or manufactured, and there appears to be room for a good deal more enterprise than is apparent on the surface. Many commodities might conceivably be turned out in this province which at present can only be bought from outside. I will refer just now to one line of industry concerning which I happen to be personally interested as a user. If any of our Canadian provinces need containers for fish, fruits, jams and honey, it should certainly be British Columbia, which produces all these things in great quantity. Yet, so far as I can discover, there is not a single factory turning out glass jars of any description, while the official Directory of Products manufactured by B. C. Industries gives an American firm as the one and only concern which manufactures tin cans in the province. The demand for these articles must be immense, and, unless there is any insuperable obstacle in the way, it is hard to understand why British Columbia factories cannot supply it. Why should a B. C. house-keeper have to use sealers made in the United States to preserve B. C. fruit, or a beekeeper have to seek far and wide to get honey containers? It may be that the official Directory is not complete (although my copy is up-to-date) and that factories of the kind referred to do really exist in the province. If so, I have as yet failed to locate them, and must suppose that they are far far too coy and shrinking for the ordinary buyer to discover.

 "There's just one kind of a man or institution that cannot afford to advertise—the one that has not honest goods. Advertising and 'the goods' go together. Neither is of value without the other. Without advertising the best goods will not, as a rule, reach the public. And without honest goods, advertising will bring no permanent success—nor will any other operation. But together they make an unbeatable team."

The prisoner was accused of forgery. "But, my Lord, this is ridiculous. I can't even sign my own name." "Don't worry," said the judge, "you're not charged with that."

SUITABLE IMMIGRANTS AVAILABLE FOR CANADA

"I am more than ever convinced that Canada offers finer prospects than any other country in the world for industrious and thrifty people who are looking for a place to establish homes and make a living." These were the words of W. D. Robb, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, when he arrived from England by the White Star Dominion liner "Megantic" a few days ago. Mr. Robb, who has charge of the department of colonization and development in addition to his other departments of the railway, has just returned from a tour of England, Scotland, Belgium and parts of France, where he has been reviewing the possibilities for obtaining settlers. He is firmly of the opinion that the north of England and Scotland, especially the latter, has a large number of potential immigrants of the right type for Canada. Holland, also, offers a good field, Mr. Robb believes.

WATER NOTICE
 USE AND STORAGE

TAKE NOTICE that R. E. Verrier and H. G. Detjen whose addresses are West Summerland, B. C. will apply for a licence to take and use 500 acre feet and to store 500 acre feet of water out of an Unnamed Meadow and creek which flows easterly and drains into Trout Creek, about 1 1/2 miles above its mouth. The storage dam will be located at the natural outlet of the meadow. The capacity of the reservoir to be created is about 600 acre feet, and it will flood about 50 acres of land. The water will be diverted from Trout Creek at our present headgates, and will be used for irrigation purpose upon the land described as lot 2887 and part of lot 2888 O. D. Y. D.

This notice was posted on the ground on the 29th day of July, 1924. A copy of this notice and an application pursuant thereto and to the "Water Act, 1914," will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Vernon, B. C. Objections to the application may be filed with the said Water Recorder or with the Comptroller of Water Rights, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B. C., within thirty days after the first appearance of this notice in a local newspaper.

 Applicants.

The date of the first publication of this notice is 18th September, 1924.

WATER NOTICE STORAGE

TAKE NOTICE that Dominion Department of Agriculture, whose address is Ottawa, will apply for licence for the storage of 300 acre feet of water out of Crescent Creek, also known as Paul Creek, which flows easterly and drains into Trout Creek, about two miles below No. 1 Summerland reservoir on Trout Creek. The storage dam will be located at Crescent (or Paul) Lake. The capacity of the reservoir to be created is about 300 acre feet, and it will flood about 150 acres of land. The water will be diverted from the main stream at either the headgates of Summerland municipal system, or about 100 yds. above the Kettle Valley Railway Bridge over Trout Creek at the Dominion Experimental Station, and will be used for irrigation purpose upon the land described as Dominion Experimental Station, Part of Penticton Indian Reserve No. 1.

The licence applied for is to supplement a right to take and use water as per Licence No. 6402.

This notice was posted on the ground on the 21st day of August, 1924.

A copy of this notice and an application pursuant thereto and to the "Water Act, 1914," will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Vernon, B. C.

Objections to the application may be filed with the said Water Recorder or with the Comptroller of Water Rights, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B. C., within thirty days after the first appearance of this notice in a local newspaper.

CONSIGNMENT SHIPPER AT MERCY OF BROKER

Evils of Consignment Shown by Report from Prairie Markets. Says Vernon News.

Commenting on the "evils of consignment," the Vernon News says: "If anything further were needed to impress on the growers and shippers of fruit the necessity of close co-operation, and harmonious and united action in marketing their fruit, the reference to this subject in the Grant report which appears in another page should drive this home in no uncertain manner. This paper has on every possible occasion urged co-ordination of effort, preferably in harmony with the Associated Growers, but in any case in some measure of co-operation, to the end that distribution might be more thorough, that overlapping might be avoided, and in order that fruit be fed to the markets at proper periods and in adequate but well regulated quantities.

"The evils of violation of these principles are clearly indicated in the report in question for the indiscriminate 'dumping' of fruit on the markets, on a consignment basis, has frequently been the cause of a demoralized market, the result being that even those who have been the cause of this have lost out. Where there is no liability as to the amount that shall be paid, and where there is little chance of a proper check-up being made, the shipper is absolutely at the mercy of the broker; and while we do not wish to intimate that brokers are any more dishonest than any other business people, experience has proven that such faith has many times been misplaced and grossly abused. In any case consignment leaves too many liberties to the buyer, or to the broker, and until growers realize the folly of such action it will be very difficult to improve conditions in the fruit industry, no matter how competent or well-intentioned any association may be, nor how hard it tries to get results. It is, after all, up to the growers themselves, and this should be impressed on those who have not yet realized it, on every possible occasion."

Why the Laughter?

Late on Saturday night, a young divine received a wire from his bishop ordering him to preach the next sermon at a certain church. This church was unknown to the young man. Nevertheless he prepared his sermon, took the train, arrived and preached duly.

He preached on the text, "Without money and without price," and to his astonishment and annoyance every time he quoted this text—and of course he had to quote it pretty frequently in the sermon's course—the entire congregation shook with suppressed laughter.

After the exercises were over the young divine asked one of the vestrymen the meaning of all that unseemly mirth.

The vestryman gave a loud guffaw and said: "Our own minister—the one whose pulpit you are supplying—is named Price, and he absconded yesterday with a large sum of money."

There is a preacher who should have his salary raised for making the following announcement from his pulpit: "Brethren, the janitor and I will hold our regular prayer meeting next Wednesday evening as usual."

There won't be any old business to keep, if you fail to cultivate new trade.

With one terrific split the rolling ship sunk slowly down beneath the waves. All the passengers were thrown into the sea and among these were two Jewish gentlemen, who happened to be clinging to the same spar. After floating about in this way for some time they both felt very exhausted. Toward the end of the second day, however, one of them sighted a ship, and with renewed hope, he cried to his companion: "Ikey, I see a sail!" "Yat good does that do us?" replied Ikey. "Ve ain't go no samples."

FEEDING OF BEES

(Experimental Farms Note).

Two of the essentials for good wintering of bees are young bees and ample stores. To secure the first, young bees, a natural fall flow or an artificial flow produced by feeding is required to stimulate blood production. If ample stores are lacking, they must be provided by feeding.

The feed supplies may be either a honey or sugar syrup, and in making the latter none but the best of white granulated sugar should be used.

For stimulative feeding, a light syrup of approximately one part honey or sugar to one part water is best. This syrup may be given to the bees in various ways, but the one most generally used is the honey pail method which consists in inverting a 5 or 10 pound honey pail of syrup over the frames; the cover of which pail has 3 or 4 holes in it pierced by a fine nail.

Colonies wintered in cellar should weigh 60 to 65 pounds, without hive cover and those wintered outside 70 to 75 pounds. Any deficiencies should be made up by feeding one pound sugar for every pound lacking in stores. The syrup given in this case should consist of 2 parts sugar to one part water or 5 parts honey to one part water and should be fed from 10 pound honey pails, as above described, each pail having 40 to 50 small nail holes in the cover. Feed may be given either hot or cold. When fed hot, however, there is a greater danger of granulation but the syrup is more readily taken by the bees.

Feeding should be done about the first of October, as rapidly as possible and in the evening to avoid disturbance.

FOR WASHING HAIR

An excellent soap jelly for washing the hair is made by shaving a bar of castile soap and dissolving it in about an equal amount of water with a teaspoon of borax for every pint of water.

A LESSON IN CHURCH FINANCING

There's a certain negro pastor down near San Pedro who recently evinced a genius for high finance. At the Sunday services he announced that a certain brother had retired to rest the night before without locking the door of his chicken house and on rising in the morning he found that all his chickens had disappeared.

"I don't want to be personal," he added, "but I had my suspicions who stole dem chickens. I shall be glad if de man who took dem will not put any money in the box when it's passed around, an' den ah'll know if mah suspicions am right or not."

"Now breddern," announced the pastor after the collection, "I doan want your dinner spoilt by wonderin' where dat brudder lives who doan lock his chickens up at night. Dat brudder doan exist, mah frien's; he was a parable for de purposes ob financing."—Los Angeles Times.

"Father," said little Algernon, "why has my hair grown so much longer than yours, when yours has grown so much longer than mine?" "Exit father!"

"UNCLE JOE" WRITES PRINCE

Welcome in Jingle Form Acknowledged by Heir to Throne

J. J. Atherton, who left here early in the summer, is still in the military hospital in Vancouver, suffering with a complication of nerve and stomach troubles, brought on by his war experiences. He thought he had finally conquered this trouble before he came to Summerland in May of last year. Seen in Vancouver on Monday by a representative of The Review, he jokingly referred to the fact that he was in the ward with the mental patients. He was quite proud of the fact that he had just received a letter from the Prince of Wales, acknowledging one of his jingles, reproduced here:

WELCOME EDDIE! PRINCE OF WALES

Son of a mighty father! Prince of a kingly king!
Bonniest one with a place in the sun, a toast to you I bring.
"May your sun be ever smiling; may your subjects be loyal and true; May your best girl dance with you every chance
May she stick to your "Nibs" like glue;
May your troubles be like falling water, that disappears with the tide, May you ever set manly fashions; may you one of these days learn to ride!"

When you smile through the fogs of Vancouver, and you visit us guys in your car
At the "top of the house" look us over, in the ward where the "Nut" cases are.

Though you sit on the throne of the mighty; with a seat in the Lords of course, Yet I'm wondering since you became England's prince, why you can't keep your seat on a horse.

POPULAR SPEAKER COMING HERE

Many, particularly those who have heard him before, will be pleased to note the announcement in another column that Rev. J. B. Rowell will speak here on Wednesday evening next. Quite a number heard this eloquent speaker at Penticton in July and it is through the efforts of some of these that arrangements have been completed to have Mr. Rowell speak in Summerland.

He is a man of wide experience in Britain and Europe as well as in this country and he has gained considerable reputation as a brilliant and very interesting speaker. Members of the local Orange lodge, under whose auspices he will speak, are congratulating themselves on their good fortune in obtaining the services of Rev. J. B. Rowell.

A colored preacher was comparing the church to a ship. "Now, brethren," he went on, "when you have de ship ready and de sails all up, what does yo' need fer to make de sails fill out and scoot de ship right along into de hebenly harbor, huh?" "Wind," said old Dencor Simpson in a low tone.
"Jesso! Porzakely!" continued the pastor. "Brudder Simpson will please air' into wid his high hat an' raise de wind."

B. C. APPLES IN THE MARITIMES

Eastern Paper Makes Interesting Comment on N. S. And B. C. Fruit

St. John, N. B., Telegraph-Journal editorially comments on the apples of the east and the west thus:

A prominent Nova Scotia fruit grower from Berwick, who has for twenty-five years been Secretary of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association, told The Halifax Herald that only certain varieties of apples lent themselves to box packing. Three of them at least, the Delicious, Winesap and Jonathan, are favorites in British Columbia, and they are the rosy checked, uniform apples that may be seen in the shop windows in St. John, Halifax and other cities and towns in the Maritime Provinces. Mr. Parker says that the Maritime Province climate is too dark and dull to produce that desirable color and that the only kind grown here that can be bought to good advantage are a few Gravensteins and McIntosh Reds. This makes plain what we have all been wondering about, as to why the far-famed apples of the Maritimes are not shown and sold in the stores of the Maritimes. We pay big prices for Ontario and Western fruit and the dealers say that they can be boxed and prepared just for that kind of a market. It is something to find the Secretary of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association admitting that the question of flavor has been overstressed and that Nova Scotia apples have not the finest flavor in the world. The English market requires low grade apples and the Province of Nova Scotia is in a position to produce and sell them. They bring good prices overseas and Mr. Parker, in making this statement, produced as proof the fact that the Berwick Fruit Chamber has shipped this year 40,000 barrels, only 20 per cent of which were No. 1's, 15 per cent No. 2's, 25 per cent No. 3's, and the remainder were domestic. British Columbia, he says, ships nothing but No. 1's to England, the excessive freight rates making it necessary to ship only the superior kind of apples.—St. John Telegraph.

FARMERS HEAR FINE PAPER

Interesting Results of Poultry Experiment at Farm

There was a good attendance at the regular monthly meeting of the Trout Creek Farmers' Institute on Monday evening last. Mr. S. F. Sharp gave a very interesting demonstration on the packing of apples and pears. The various packs were clearly explained and methods of wrapping, the different oil papers in use, the amount of bulge necessary and the methods of obtaining this bulge.

Mr. Sharp was followed by Mr. D. G. Denny who gave a demonstration on dressing poultry and preparing birds for the oven. After the bird was finished it certainly presented a neat and finished appearance and it was remarked that such birds would invariably find a ready market. Mr. Denny hinted that in some districts it is usual to stuff birds all ready for cooking, and when such birds are disposed of, at say 50 cents a pound, the stuffing included, it will readily be seen that this presents a further margin for profit. Mr. Denny gave some useful information on experiments which had been conducted during the winter months of 1923-24 at the Experimental Station and details of these experiments are given below.

GREEN FEED EXPERIMENT

16 birds, six months
(1) Check—No green feed, 1644 eggs. Profit over feed cost, $29.11.
(2) Dry alfalfa leaves (16 lbs per month) 1679 eggs. Profit over feed cost, $30.28.
(3) Mangels, 16 lbs per month, 1746 eggs. Profit, $31.74.
(4) Epsom salts, 2 pounds per month, 1695 eggs. Profit $29.41.
(5) Apples, 3 every other day, cut-in halves, 1724 eggs. Profit, $32.28. Mangel pen consumed 30 lbs. more feed than apple pen, which explains the better profit of apples, even although they laid 22 less eggs than mangel pen.

GRAIN FEEDING EXPERIMENT

18 birds
Equal parts by weight of (1) Cracked corn, wheat and whole oats, 1621 eggs. Grain cost per 100 lb. 2.00. Profit $26.39. (2) 2 parts wheat, 1 part oats, 1660 eggs. Grain cost per 100 lb. 1.82. Profit $28.66. (3) 2 parts oats, 1 wheat, eggs 1627. Grain cost 170. Profit 30.70. (4) 2 parts cracked corn, 2 parts wheat, 1 part oats, eggs 1869. Grain cost 2.07. Profit $1.07.

Remark: Although the feed of No. 4 pen was higher than the others they made the best profit because of increased egg yield.

YARD RANGE VERSUS CONFINEMENT

18 birds
Yard range, 1869 eggs. Profit $31.07. Gain in weight 1 lb. 10 oz.
Confinement, 1704 eggs. Profit $27.09. Loss in weight, 3 oz.
In conclusion, it would seem that the best conditions would be maximum range combined with apples, in reasonable quantities, and two parts cracked corn, two parts wheat and one part oats (good oats) as a grain feed for pullets in winter.
These represent one year's test only so that they must not be taken as conclusive, but they would certainly indicate that apples are an excellent green feed if not in too great quantities, and as grain ration two parts cracked corn, two parts wheat and one part good oats can be highly recommended.

Two women were quarrelling about ages. At last, as if to end the dispute, one of them turned away and said in a very conciliatory tone: "Let us not quarrel any more. I at least, have not the heart to do it. I never knew who my mother was! She deserted me when I was a baby, and who knows but that you may have been that heartless parent?"

RULES FOR TABLE SETTING.

In setting a dinner table the plate should be an inch from the edge of the table directly in front of the person to be served. A "cover" is the space allowed for each person, which should be about 20 ins. The chair should touch the table-cloth or come to the edge of the table. The knife is at the right with the edge toward the plate, the spoons at the right of the knife, the fork at the left of the plate. All silverware should be an inch from the edge of the table.

If in doubt which piece of silver to use for a course, "eat in"—that is, use the fork or spoon laid farthest from the plate for the first course, and the others in succeeding order.

The glass should be laid at the tip of the knife, and only 3/4 full. Bread and butter plates are not used at a formal dinner; at other times they are put either at the tip of the fork or above the napkin. The napkin should be placed with the fold toward the plate. When you fold or unfold your napkin, do it under the edge of the table. Do not unfold it all the way if it is a large dinner napkin; half way is proper. It should be laid in the lap, not tucked into the clothing as one too often sees it at restaurants, at belt, breast or chin.

The cup and saucer comes to the right of the silver, with the handle to the right. Like the plate, it is an inch from the table edge. Never leave the spoon in the cup. Many a tea or coffee stain on fine linen has been the result of this social error. The spoon should lie in the saucer at the right.

If you use individual salt dips, they should be in front of the plate (at the top), or if there is one for each two guests, between the plates at the top. The nut dish is also before the plate. A place card with the guest's name on should be against the nut dish or on the napkin.

Before using, the butter spreader may be placed across, above the top of the plate, but when used it goes on the bread and butter plate across the right side, with the blade in.

FARINA PUDDING

When there are only two to be served, it is sometimes hard to plan a simple dessert. Farina pudding may be made by slowly pouring a heaping tablespoonful of farina into a cup and a half of boiling milk that has first been stirred till it is whirling, then stirring all the time. Add a fourth of an even teaspoonful of salt, cook five minutes, then set in another saucepan containing boiling water, cover, and cook 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Flavor with lemon or vanilla, turn into cups, and serve cold with sweetened cream.

PORK CHOPS WITH SAUCE ROBERT

If you like pork chops this is a nice way to serve them. Trim neatly and have ready finely chopped onion and parsley, with which to sprinkle both sides of the chops, also salt and pepper. Beat them lightly with a broad knife or wooden paddle to make the parsley mixture and spice stick. Then dip each chop in slightly beaten eggs, roll in fine bread crumbs, let stand 5 mins., dip in melted butter and roll again in the crumbs. Arrange them in a wire broiler and broil 5 to 7 mins, over a clear fire.

Chop 2 large onions fine, put in a steppan with a tablespoonful of butter, and cook very slowly until it is well colored. Add a tablespoonful of flour, stir and brown again, then add slowly a cup and a half of beef stock and 2 tablespoonfuls of vinegar. When the sauce is smooth and thick simmer it down to 1 cupful and add a scant teaspoonful of mustard, salt and pepper to taste.

Pour this around the chops when they are broiled, after they are on the platter.

A LUNCHEON MENU

If you do not know what to have for luncheon, why not try a menu like this? First: Scotch broth in cups; then baked beans in little individual pots, cold meat with pickles, brown bread sandwiches, a potato salad. For dessert, vanilla ice cream with either spice cakes or crisp cookies. Serve coffee with crackers and cheese at the end.

ABOUT KITCHEN FIRES

Someone has said the kitchen is like the power-house of an electric railway. The comfortable cars fly fast over smooth rails, but the passenger sitting on his comfortable seat rarely gives a thought to the power-house. The motorman keeps his eye on the track, his hand on the power lever, but even he rarely thinks of the power-house. The kitchen fire is really the motive power of a large part of the household machinery.

Where there is an electric range, with buttons to turn plainly marked for the varying heats, or even a clock automatic control, there is no excuse for the cook's failures; but where wood and coal must be relied on, or even gas, that must be watched and turned up and down, it takes patience, skill, and experience to get uniform results that bring a reputation for being "a good cook."

Now Say Okanagan May Not Have Branch Canadian National

Officials State Senate Wishes To Have C.P.R. Take Over Line.

NORTH OKANAGAN GREATLY INCENSED

No Construction Until Heads of Railways Dispose of Question.

Recent news dispatches reveal a surprising situation with respect to the projected Okanagan branch of the Canadian National Railway. It is officially stated from Ottawa that "the Senate made a condition in passing the Kamloops-Kelowna branch line bill, that no construction should take place until an attempt had been made by the presidents of both the C. N. R. and C. P. R. to make a sale of the property to the C. P. R. These negotiations have been in progress, which has delayed construction."

Hearing something of the alleged "condition" Grote Stirling, president of the Kelowna Board of Trade, wired Sir Henry Thornton, president of the C. N. R., as follows: "Rumors are again rife that Kelowna may be left in the hands of the C. P. R. by sale of branch line to them. This would be extremely unpopular in the Valley. Can you reassure us?"

Mr. Stirling received the following reply from Sir Henry:

"Before passing bill for this branch the Senate instructed the two railways to endeavor to find a solution that would give the most efficient service at the minimum cost to the country. See Senate Debates, pages 695 to 697. When the bill was passed it was on the understanding that it was (sic) enabling powers to put the Canadian National Railway in the same position as the other road, and with the understanding that the negotiations would be continued and fully developed. Certain proposals have been made to the Canadian Pacific Railway and we are still awaiting their reply. Not in a position to say more at present."

"H. W. THORNTON."
In view of the activities of the boards of trade and other organizations in the northern end of the Valley with a view to early completion of the Okanagan branch, it is surprising that this condition prescribed by the senate is only now coming to light. Momentarily, these people have been looking for an announcement of resumption of work after years of delay. Presumably the Senate desired to give the C. P. R. an opportunity to shut out any competition from the C. N. R.

SAYS POUND LAW ABUSED

Citizen Complaining That Animals
Impounded Just For Fee

Complaining that the poundkeeper had entered on to private property, rounded up three of his horses and taken them to the pound, J. J. Mitchell made the statement before the municipal council on Monday that the provision made in the pound by-law that anyone taking animals to the pound would be compensated was an injustice. For years he and his neighbors, he said, had put up with a good deal and he claimed that there were people who were rounding up animals out on the range and bringing them into pound just for what money they might make by so doing.

At first he took the stand that the poundkeeper should not do more than operate the pound, but later he conceded that it was quite in order for the poundkeeper to gather up any stray animals on the roads. The general view of the council seemed to be that no person should enter on to private property for the purpose of impounding animals unless the owner of the land so requested or laid complaint.

A prolonged discussion ended by the matter being referred to the pounds committee with instructions

CHUTE LAKE MILL HAS GOOD SEASON

Chute Lake box factory, which was operated during the past season under the direction of M. G. Wilson, for the O. U. G. Limited in liquidation, was closed down a few days ago for the season. Men were immediately put to work in the timber limits controlled by the mill for the purpose of getting out an ample supply of logs for next season. It is understood that the box factory experienced a very satisfactory season and will show a profit on the year's operations.

ORDER PUMP AND ENGINE

Fail to Locate Water in Sufficient
Volume On Paradise Flat

Further tests with a Mansfield's water finder reveal the fact that there are underground streams of water widely scattered over Paradise Flat, but unfortunately the instrument indicated that none of these were of sufficient volume to warrant the expense of digging. The best showing was close to the Mountford home.

The instrument, which is the property of Gen. Harman of Kelowna was borrowed for the purpose and tests were also made on the former Wright property at the mouth of Garnett Valley. There, an underground stream of fair volume was indicated. This, doubtless, comes down the ravine back of the house, now the property of A. Goldring, and will be ample for all domestic requirements and can be tapped high enough up to supply a gravity system.

Speaking generally, the instrument verified the earlier findings made by Walter Wright by the willow method.

On Monday the council decided to order a new pump and gasoline engine to replace the present pump and engine, which has been used for some years to provide the Paradise Flat district with domestic water during the winter. The cost of pump and motor would be approximately $450.

WILL TAKE CENSUS OF B. C. ORCHARDS

Five years ago the province took a census of the fruit trees in all the fruit growing districts and it is learned that another census is planned for this fall.

W. H. Robertson, provincial horticulturist, and M. S. Middleton, district horticulturist, were visitors to Summerland this week, conferring with J. Tait, local representative of the department, on the proposed census and other matters pertaining to horticulture.

POLITICAL MEETING AT NARAMATA

C. E. Dickie, member at Ottawa for Naramata, will be one of the speakers at a political meeting at Naramata in the by-election campaign. The Liberal-Conservative candidate, Grote Stirling and J. W. Jones, M.L.A., will be heard on this occasion. There is the possibility that Dr. S. F. Tolmie may be able to be present. Full particulars of the meeting are given in another column.

BOX FACTORY IS CLOSED FOR TIME

Pacific Box Company closed down their Summerland mill a few days ago, having filled all the orders on hand. The mill was running again for two or three days this week and it is hoped that further orders will come along that will make it possible to operate for some time before winter.

to make regulations for the smoother operation of the by-law.

WOULD RELIEVE LAND OF SCHOOL TAXES

Municipal Council Favors Income Tax For School Purposes

That some method must be devised for relieving land owners of the cost of financing the schools appeared to be the unanimous feeling of the council, when a resolution from the Union of B. C. Municipalities was submitted for their endorsement.

In substance this resolution asked that the province take over the schools and that the necessary money for carrying them on be raised by income tax. After some discussion and considerable hesitation the council decided not to endorse the former but gave their approval to the latter suggestion.

CHANGING LOCATION OF DOM. WATER MAIN

Leaks in the domestic water main passing through the St. Stephen's church property will necessitate laying a fresh section and the abandoning of all that part of the main crossing the property.

The leaks, which have been developing for some time, can not be repaired and, after consulting D. Dickson, in charge of pipe lines, the council on Monday decided to lay a new pipe along the creek bed at the rear of the rectory. The present pipe passes under the rectory and close to the church.

APPLE PRICES MOVE UPWARD

Associated Growers Withdraw Former Quotations—New List Issued

Apple prices everywhere are moving upward, with a very material stiffening of prices on the later varieties, particularly the better grades. Some days ago the Associated withdrew all quotations and have now issued new prices on apples. The new prices, which are given below, are f.o.b. shipping point.

Delicious, Ex. Fancy, per box, 3.00; Delicious, Fancy, per box 2.50; Delicious, C Grade, 2.00; Delicious, in crates, 1.35; Northern Spy, Fancy, per box, 1.75; Stayman Winesap, Ex. Fancy, 2.00; Stayman Winesap, Fancy, 1.75; Rome Beauty, C Grade, 1.45; Jonathan, Ex. Fancy, 1.90; Jonathan, Fancy, 1.70; Jonathan, C Grade, 1.45; Winter Banana, Ex. Fancy, 1.85; Winter Banana, Fancy, 1.60; Assorted, Comb., 1.45.

SELLING HORSES

Instead of putting the municipal team out for the winter, the council on Monday decided to sell the horses and equipment, believing that any team work can be carried out more economically by hiring.

MUNICIPALITY PUTS $7,000 INTO LANDS

Accounts totalling $12,017.87 were examined and passed for payment at Monday's meeting of the council. $5,900.73 of this sum represents the investment of the municipality in lands acquired at the last tax sale. In addition, $1,000.00 is charged against popular bids in last year by the municipality. The school accounts took $2,098.70. The balance, approximately $3,000 was for municipal expenditure.

MUTUAL APPOINTS LOCAL REPRESENTATIVE

Mutual Fruit Company, Limited, which did business here prior to the re-organization throughout the Valley, has appointed M. G. Wilson local agent. It is the purpose of the company to wind up its business as soon as possible and Mr. Wilson's chief duty will be the collection of monies advanced to growers in 1922.

COLLECTING NUTS FOR FEDERAL DEPARTMENT

J. U. Gottatly was in Summerland on Tuesday gathering samples of nuts for the Federal Department of Agriculture. These will form part of several collections of fruit which will be sent to Canadian trade representatives in foreign lands.

ASSOCIATED ASKING FOR LEGISLATION

Want Act That Will Strengthen Contract With Grower

Associated Growers of B. C. Limited have made formal announcement of their intentions to make application to the legislative assembly for an act for the purpose of curing all formal defects in and all formal objections to the validity of all contracts entered into by the Association.

There are four different forms of contract, known as series A, B, C and D, respectively. These include three-party contracts, in which existing locals were included, providing for organization of new locals and two-party contracts between Associated and individual growers. These contracts provide that when it is proved that the grower has delivered any fruit or vegetables otherwise than in accordance with the contract, the court shall forthwith restrain by injunction, delivery of such grower's products otherwise than in accordance with such contract and shall also make an order commanding the grower to deliver his produce in accordance with the provision of the contract. Presumably, the object is to strengthen any weakness in the existing contracts pertaining to investment.

PHEASANTS PUT OUT PHONES AND LIGHTS

Frequent Shorting of Wires by Birds
Is Cause of Much Trouble.

Much trouble has been caused the manager of the Summerland Telephone Company lately by pheasants flying against the wires, thus interfering with connections and putting phones out of commission. On a recent occasion no less than seven out of eight trouble calls from telephone subscribers were found to be directly attributable to these birds. It is stated that over ninety per cent of the trouble calls in the district are caused in this way.

Pheasants also cause the municipal electric light department considerable expense and annoyance.

GOOD APPLES ARE DEMANDED

Coast Market Very Dull on Low Grades—Prices Up.

Never has he seen such great variations in prices of apples as now exist in Vancouver, stated Carrol Swartz, after his return early this week from Vancouver. Wrapped and packed Kings, Wealthies and other early apples are being sold by the jobbers as low as 40 and 45 cents a box. These are being bought by peddlars.

McIntoshes of poor color, orchard run, are also meeting with slow sale. Some apples of this variety costing $1.50 to $1.65 are going out from the warehouses at $1.35. Jonathans of poor color and small in size were being offered at $1.40, though costing the wholesalers more, but were not moving. At the same time, Mr. Swartz says, apples of good color are meeting with ready demand. His firm had a car of Jonathans opened at nine o'clock Saturday morning and before noon many of them had been sold at $1.00, $1.55 and $1.50 in large lots.

Mr. Swartz had gone down to the Coast with samples of windfalls of little known varieties and returned with instructions to include those with those varieties for which he advertised last week. He is shipping a large quantity of windfalls to a products company at the Coast, which will use them in the manufacture of mince.

Sparking of the potato market Mr. Swartz says that his firm are buying Kamloops Gems at $32 a ton, Vancouver, and that those were selling to the trade at $35. The onion market was weak. The best Okanagan grades can be had at $42. Vancouver, Bay of Fundy.

PAYING GROWERS FOR EARLY FRUIT

Walters, Ltd. Issuing Statements for Early Apples And Peaches

Walters, Limited are sending out this week statements covered by cheques in settlement of clingstone peaches, early apples and Transcendent crabs.

Net returns to the growers will be as follows: Peaches, No. 1, 88c; No. 2, 63c; No. 3, 35c. Transcendent crabs, 65c. Astrachan, Yellow Transparent and Duchess apples, basis Extra Fancy, $1.45; Fancy, $1.20; Fancy and "C", 97 cents; lower grades, crated, 70c. Gravensteins, wrapped, $1.23; crates, 81c.

HAD TO SWIM AFTER BOAT SANK

An interesting story of the experience of two local young men while on a hunting expedition is going the rounds. Each having obtained the loan of a gun, they rode out to Brent's Lake in the Shingle Creek district to hunt for water fowl. Finding a boat moored there, they made use of it and so greatly absorbed were they in their pursuit for birds that they paid little or no attention to the fact that the boat was taking in water. It was not until too late that they realized their position, when the boat went down some distance from shore, which, fortunately both the lads reached safely but minus their guns, birds and boat.

ONE BULLET —THREE BIRDS

Peachlander Gets Two Hawks and Bird with
.22 Rifle.

(By our correspondent.)

Mr. Arthur Chidley has made a rather exceptional record in marksmanship. While doing his morning chores he noticed a small hawk hovering over a little bird, apparently intent on making a meal of it. Higher up another and larger hawk was hovering, seemingly unnoticed by the lower hawk. It seemed inevitable that something was about to happen, so the observer got his .22 rifle and sought out a suitable place from which he could take a shot if the occasion came. Suddenly the small hawk made its pounce on the bird and at the same moment the large hawk swooped down on the two below. All three apparently came to earth at the same instant and Mr. Chidley fired just as they struck. When he got over to where the birds landed, about fifty yards distant, he found all three dead. The bullet had done its work with the two hawks, but apparently had not touched the small bird. Mr. Chidley brought the birds to town and exhibited them to a number of people, among them your correspondent. He hopes to have the three birds mounted.

CHOIR IS LOSING A VALUED MEMBER

Members of the choir of St. Andrew's church last Thursday evening presented Miss Alma Lott with a beautiful fountain pen and gold ever-sharp pencil, as an appreciation of her willing assistance at all times with the choir work.

The presentation was made at an informal social gathering of the choir held after the regular choir practice on Thursday evening, games and contests were enjoyed and a splendid supper served. Miss Lott, who is leaving shortly for Vancouver, has been a valued member of the choir here for several years and was always ready to help willingly in the church and Sunday School.

DEER ARE SEEN ON LAKE ROAD

Deer are reported to be quite plentiful on the lower levels. Monday morning, Edgar Walker, motoring to Peachland, passed two bucks, a doe and a fawn on the lakeshore road. They were quite tame and he was within a few feet of the fawn and does with the car.

Canada has one of the highest tides in the world—50 1/4 feet—in Nool Bay, Bay of Fundy.

Propose Raising Thirty Thousand Dollars By Municipal Debentures

ONLY THREE DAYS!
SCHOOL NEXT WEEK

Summerland schools will be closed Thursday and Friday of next week. When the Governor-general, Lord Byng of Vimy, visited Summerland, he made the request that the school children be given a holiday on his behalf. The teachers' institute will be held next week at Kelowna and the school board has decided to grant the governor-general's request and also give the teachers a day. By having one follow the other, full advantage can be taken of the teachers' meeting by members of the local staff.

MUNICIPAL VOTERS' LIST NOW OPEN

Get Your Name on Now—or Don't Kick
Later

Each year, at the time of annual municipal elections, there are a number who are dissatisfied because their names are not on the municipal voters' list. According to provincial law, only the names of registered owners of property are automatically placed on the list. The fact that a person's name was on last year's list is no assurance that it will be there this year.

Holders of trade licenses and those who have paid poll tax—these latter being classified as householders—are required to file a declaration before the end of October. All must be British subjects and, in the case of householders, must have resided in the municipality since the first of January last. As before intimated, these declarations must be taken each year and filed with the municipal clerk not later than the 31st of October.

With reference to this subject, the municipal clerk states that he believes fully fifty more names could be added to the list if these persons would take the trouble to complete the necessary declarations. Official notification is given in another column.

HON. DR. MANION TO BE HERE SATURDAY

Hon. R. J. Manion, a former member of the Conservative federal cabinet, is to be the principal speaker at a public meeting to be held in Rialto Theatre on Saturday, October 18. Mr. Manion is a former cabinet minister, a returned soldier and a splendid speaker. Mr. J. W. Jones, M.L.A., will also speak and Mr. Grote Stirling, the Conservative candidate. There will doubtless be a large attendance to hear Mr. Manion and the other speakers.

PLAN TO HOLD FAIR NEXT YEAR

Directors of the Agricultural Association had a short business meeting last night. It is the intention to make an early start next year for the holding of a fall fair. Speaking this year of fairs, J. Tait said that some growers had been holding apples for a fair this year. He expressed the gratitude of the directors for the thoughtful action of those growers.

OCCIDENTAL PRICES ON EARLY FRUITS

Statements showing net returns have been issued to growers by the Occidental Fruit Company, Limited, covering the cost and early peaches. According to them, No. 1 costs bring the growers 4-13 cents; No. 2, 4-0 cents. Triumphs and like classes of peaches net 5-3 cents for No. 1, Yellow St. John, No. 1, 5-0; No. 2, 2-5 cents.

The Occidental company expects to have all its apples in by the end of this week and another week should see their packing season over.

That Sum Necessary Say Councilors to Rebuild Garnett Valley Flumes.

FORMER SUBMITS HIS ESTIMATES OF COSTS

Mains on Both East and West
Must Be Replaced.

Several miles of fluming at the upper end of Garnett Valley must be replaced before the next year's irrigation season opens. For some years the municipal council has been facing the inevitable, but because of the cost efforts have been made each year to patch up the system so that it might serve for another season, but the limit has been reached. In fact, so bad has the flume serving the west side become that it can be filled at the intake and the water will have again all reached the creek within two miles of the dam, according to members of the council.

At the regular meeting of the council on Monday, foreman Tomlin submitted a brief report on the work necessary to be done. The west side of the valley is served by one system and the east by another. On the west there are 170 acres coming under the flume; while practically all of the lower part of the main has been replaced, there is a long stretch at the upper end which has been there since the system was first built. There is about 1,000 feet near the Taylor property to be replaced and 9,240 feet of old fluming at the upper end. No. 36 metal fluming is recommended by the foreman for all this work.

His estimate of the cost for the metal, lumber hauling and labor is $1.20 per foot complete. One thousand feet which can be laid in the old flume will cost considerably less.

If the system on the east side is to cover the 208 acres, foreman Tomlin would start at the upper end and follow the existing line and drop to the middle ditch near Dunsdon's. From the intake, which is at the old dam, to the concrete section on the Liddell property, is 5,430 feet and from the concrete to the Greenhow lot there is another 9,440 feet. No. 36 fluming is recommended for both sections. He would cross the Greenhow property with an 8-inch pipe.

Mr. Tomlin further proposes to pick up some smaller flume, now in use, and laid last year, and move it down between the Greenhow property and Adams corner, another 1,470 feet. Some 300 feet additional steel fluming must be put in the Paradise Flat main and a section near the Jas. Road property rebuilt.

WOULD RETAIN WATER CONTROL

Reeve Favors One Ownership
And Sale of Water By Municipality

That the municipality should keep control of Trout Creek and its tributaries and all storage sites on that watershed was the view of Reeve Campbell as expressed at the meeting of the council on Monday, when it was reported that Messrs. Detjon and Verrier had amended their application for storage rights by reducing the quantity to be stored to 250 acre feet instead of 500.

The reeve would prefer selling water rather than have others construct storage dams on the creek. The municipality has been applying water users outside the municipality limits with water and getting no revenue, according to the reeve. Making a charge for stored water delivered to those users would be preferable in his view to permitting them to do their own storing.

Objections had already been filed by the council with the water branch at Victoria to the granting of the application to Messrs. Detjon and Verrier.

OUR HOME MARKETS

"Why is it that we cannot get Okanagan melons in the Kootenay district?"

This question was put to the editor of The Review by the editor of the Rossland Miner, who declares that all the melons consumed in his city as well as in other centres in the south-western part of the province, are shipped in there from Spokane. Most of their cherries and a quantity of other fruits come to them through the same channels.

Speaking before the Canadian Club in Vancouver on Monday that world known trader, Capt. Robert Dollar, told the business men of the Coast city they would never get trade unless they went after it. He told of an instance of one of his ships taking on board two thousand tons of wheat, which was unloaded at Hong Kong. At the same port practically the same tonnage in flour was taken on board for a distant port. He could not understand why the shippers of the wheat had not gone after the order for flour.

Apparently this explains the situation with respect to melons in the Kootenay district. Before the building of the K. V. R., that section of the province was almost exclusively tributary to Spokane, and travellers from that city still enter that part of our province. Retail prices are high and would permit a profit to the shippers. Evidently we are passing that market by for the more distant and possibly less remunerative markets of the prairie. The Review would be glad to help shippers to get into closer touch with Eastern provincial markets before next season.

AN APPEAL TO OUR ADVERTISERS

LIVING IN COMPARATIVE LUXURY

Those who grieve over conditions in this part of the world and pine for the return of the boom days might hearken with profit to the Hon. P. C. Larkin, High Commissioner for Canada to Great Britain, who is now in the Dominion. Mr. Larkin declares that Canada is the most prosperous country on the face of the globe. He speaks in terms of the material things which Canadians enjoy. The people of no other country in the world, he says—not even excepting the United States—are, on the average, able to buy the necessities and luxuries of life to the same extent as the people of this country.

Mr. Larkin's statement indicates that the people of Canada can and are buying. The idea that business today is closer to normal than it was during the days of inflated prices and inflated profits is emphasized, and it would appear to be a question of adjusting business to conditions rather than of waiting for conditions to adjust themselves to business.

The High Commissioner is familiar with world conditions. He speaks from knowledge when he says that in no other country are the individuals as good buyers as they are in Canada. If buying power is improved through increased income from crops and other sources, well and good, but the business concerns which have adjusted themselves to conditions rather than waiting for conditions to change will not be finding the depression so acute.—Grand Forks Gazette.

USELESS PROFANITY

The trouble with profanity is not so much that it is wicked, as that it is just plain dirty. It is not so much that you shock religious people as that you disgust decent people, that we object to. Swearers are behind the times. They're holdovers from a former century. Nowadays anybody who swears is set down at once as being coarse and vulgar. The young man who wants to succeed needs to take advantage of everything that may help him on. And swearing will be a black mark against him in any job he may have. And if he wants to associate with the right sort of girls he must keep his talk clean. Nobody wants a swearer in the office nor in the workshop, nor on the train, nor in the hotel. The only place swearing fits is the saloon. Swearing means you don't know how to talk. Your vocabulary is limited. It is the sign of ignorance. Swearing means weakness. You will notice that forceful men, whose words carry weight, use simple plain words. When you swear it shows your impotence. It is the petty refuge of the helpless. If you can help a thing, help it, if not, keep still; anyway don't swear.

THE SCHOOLS AND BEER

Most persons who have given serious consideration to the problem of promoting the welfare of the community as it is affected by the liquor question, will agree that it is desirable that the rising generation have a sound education in regard to the primary scientific facts relating to the action of alcoholic liquor upon the human body. This is not a subject that involves prohibition or "antibition," beer by the glass or barring the bottle. It is merely a question of enabling the rising generation to make its start in life with an accurate knowledge, and vivid consciousness, of what are really the consequences of the use, in larger or in smaller quantities and in its many varied combinations of the drug alcohol.

The habitual use of this drug as an ingredient in beverages at least so far as those who have become accustomed to it are concerned, may be claimed as a right by such as have a desire for it, under more or less of restriction—every one nowadays agrees that some and probably a great deal of restriction there must be. But very few of those who do so claim the right for themselves would wish that their children should not fully understand to what they were committing themselves before they acquired the taste in their turn.

The petitions that are now being circulated in the town, asking the Educational Survey Commission to press upon the Government to provide for the thorough instruction of all children in this matter, from their earliest school days, should surely receive the signature of every good citizen, and we trust that they will not fail to do so. Armstrong Advertiser.

WINTER SPORTS

Cowichan Leader.—The season for winter sport is approaching and the question of success is uppermost in the minds of those interested.

Success may be of two kinds. It may be measured by the results obtained, or simply by the satisfaction derived through seriously attempting to play the game, win or lose.

A happy combination of both, however, may be attained through the players working together and, to achieve this, a serious omission in most games—indifference to practice—must be overcome.

Time and again games have been spoiled for the players themselves and also for the spectators by individuals donning a uniform when quite unfit to stand the strenuous pace which most games impose.

The old copy book headline, "Practice makes perfect," aptly applies to sport and is a positive necessity if success is to be assured throughout the season. Without practice professional sport would not exist but because of it people are willing to pay and pay well for the privilege of watching experts in their particular game.

Amateur sport can be made as successful and more interesting if the players will but keep themselves fit and practice together more.

LET'S STOP THE DRUNKEN AUTO DRIVER

Those who persist in ignoring the difference in the enormity of their offence now and what it would have been fifteen years ago, should be made to realize it by the imposition of penalties commensurate with the crime. In no other way can the driver under the influence of liquor be driven from the road, and until he is driven off and kept off there is no safety for the public. A fine means little or nothing to the average offender in this respect. The loss of license is a greater deterrent against a repetition of the offense than a fine, but not as efficacious as a jail sentence, followed by the deprivation, would be. It is time to make the roads safe for respectable people.

THERE IS A LAND.

There is a Land that we must love,
A North Land, wide and fair,
A Land of Pine and Maple Trees,
And beauty everywhere;
And there free hearts have found a home
And space to still be free,
Fronting the morrow confident
In Her high destiny.

When the leaves are crimson,
When the fields are white,
When the woods are green in spring,
Or bathed in Summer light,
Be sure we love her dearly
Her woods, Her streams, Her Flowers,
This Sunny Pine and Maple Land,
This Canada of ours.

And Oh, Her skies are bright and blue,
Her waters bright and pure,
There's balm within Her Forest shades
All world-worn men to cure;
The wholesome Sea is at Her Gates,
Her gates both East and West,
Then is it strange that we should love
This Land, Our Land, the best?

When the hills stand dreaming,
When the Winter's here,
When the slumbering earth awakes,
Or Summer crowns the year,
Be sure we love Her dearly,
Her woods, Her streams, Her flowers,
This sunny Pine and Maple Land,
This Canada of ours.

GRADING HIGHER THAN "SKOOKUM"

Wenatchee Visitors Comment on Grading Standards Maintained Here.

That apples are being more severely graded here than they are by the packers of the famous "Skookum" brand was the statement made by two visitors from Wenatchee, Messrs. Smith and Miller, who are employed by the Skookum people.

They motored up from the southern fruit centre, combining a brief holiday with a tour of inspection. The above statement was made by them after they had visited the Co-operative packing house and watched the grading of apples for shipment under the government inspection certificate.

LECTURES ON PROTESTANTISM

Rev. J. B. Rowell, of Kamloops, Speaks under Auspices of Orange Lodge.

The Baptist church was crowded last evening to hear Rev. J. B. Rowell's lecture entitled "How I escaped from being burned alive in Protestant England." He spoke not against Catholics as individuals, but told of the great effort the church of Rome is making to regain power. The speaker made the statement that it was the determination first to subjugate England and then the rest of the world would follow easily, and to attain this end they are sparing nothing. It is understood that a Roman Catholic priest may be ordained, secretly or otherwise, into the ministry of any Protestant church provided that he introduce Romanism. As a result of this there are today many leaders in the various Protestant denominations in the Old Land who are actually Catholics and who have been true to their mother church and introduced Romanism, not suddenly, but in such a subtle manner that it has crept upon the people unnoticed and it is now practically impossible to tell the difference between many Protestant and Catholic churches. This does not cover a few exceptions but it is a general thing. During the time when people were breaking away from the church of Rome and forming Protestant bodies the Church not only sanctioned but undertook the persecution of all dissenters. When once the Protestants gained sufficient numbers laws were enacted with respect to the Roman Catholics. At a later date such of these laws as gave the Catholics unequal rights were removed, but not satisfied with that they have been working to gain the upper hand when no such tolerance would be shown Protestants by them. As indicative of this intolerance Mr. Rowell read several extracts from Church authorities which stated plainly that it was equally correct to do away with a heretic (and all Protestants are classed as heretics) as to dispose of a wild beast doing damage.

From this Mr. Rowell gave his own experience. He and another were travelling around in England speaking for the open Bible, which is contrary to the teaching of the Roman church. In one town where he was speaking, he had at his back an iron fence. The first evening he was treated with rotten fruit and rotten eggs and was threatened by a lady armed with huge talpans. He applied for police protection which was granted. Not to be foiled of their prey the Catholics, he said, placed one man in the crowd who was to throw a taper immediately a person from behind drenched the speaker in oil. Signals or something miscarried for the taper preceded the oil and he escaped.

Another evening his partner was answering questions of two gentlemen following one of their meetings. The conversation not ended they walked towards home. When in a dark spot these two men slugged him and left him for dead. Such are the measures taken against anyone daring to openly speak against the Roman church.

Although several attempts have been made to make a change in the law it is still impossible for any inspection of convents. They are outside the jurisdiction of British law and stories of what is carried on behind these barred doors do them no credit, said Mr. Rowell.

The speaker covered many points one of which was the sending by the British Government of an envoy to the Vatican at Rome, and that envoy receives a greater salary than a first lord of the admiralty.

The recent visit of the King and Queen of the British Empire to the Pope also had a great significance according to the speaker. All this was for the overthrow of Protestantism. The church of Rome has also stated its intention to place one Protestant country against another to their mutual destruction and the speaker had his views on the cause of the Great War, hinting that it was the first movement in this direction.

ASSOCIATED REPLIES TO M. G. WILSON'S LETTER

Vernon, B. C. October 9th, 1924.

Editor, Summerland Review,
Dear Sir:—

There appeared in your issue of October 2nd a letter over the signature of Matt. G. Wilson, severely criticizing the Associated Growers Limited and its supposed methods, in which statements were made which we find it hard to believe a man of Mr. Wilson's experience can honestly endorse.

He complains of what he terms the secret methods of the organization, and implies that the men selected by the growers to transact their business—presumably selected because they were men in whose integrity and intelligence the growers had confidence—are afraid to tell what they are doing with the trust placed in their hands.

At this season of the year the grower is interested in only one kind of information: He wants to know what he is going to receive for his fruit. Unfortunately, no man connected with the fruit or any other business is wise enough to answer that question, and no one knows this better than Mr. Wilson. We know what prices are prevailing today but no one can foretell with any accuracy what they will be a month from now. We are not selling all our fruit in one market at a fixed price and conditions in each market change from day to day. When one market is temporarily filled up we must make our sales elsewhere until the demand revives. The final pool prices may be materially affected, favorably or otherwise, by conditions no man can foresee. Every local and the director in every district is kept informed by weekly circular of the trend of the markets, the movement of the crop, and prices prevailing from time to time. The markets commissioner's reports, containing similar information, are published weekly in the Valley press. On this one vital question on which all the growers' interests centre, they are already in possession of as much information as it is possible to give them at this season.

While results are the one thing of primary importance there are no doubt some growers who would like to be informed in advance of every move of the game. Perhaps Mr. Wilson will tell us if, when engaged in mercantile business, it was his custom to issue a daily or weekly circular to his competitors informing them of the details of the business he was doing and carefully explaining his plans for the future. The general manager, of any corporation, who undertook to conduct his business on such lines would soon be looking for another job. The Associated Growers is a business corporation, competing in the markets of the world against the most efficient organizations that training and long experience could produce. The fact that we are a co-operative institution does not make us independent of the fundamental laws of trade, and it is not one of those laws that we should lay all our cards face up on the table and bet against blind hands.

Mr. Wilson cites the present system of government inspection at point of shipment as one of the crimes against the grower for which the Associated is responsible. His statement that this inspection is causing a loss of 20% to the grower is so absurd it seems almost a waste of time to deal with it. He refers elsewhere in his letter to Mr. Sapro as the great authority on co-operation. Mr. Sapro never made an address or wrote an article on co-operation in which he did not emphasize the necessity of a standardized product as the first essential to successful merchandizing, and every other writer of authority on co-operative marketing is agreed on this point. The minimum standards for boxed fruits are fixed in Canada, not by the Associated, but by the Dominion Government. Mr. Wilson knows, or should know, that for the past ten years the standard of all co-operative packing houses in this valley has been higher than the government requirement. This year the inspection he complains of is made by government inspectors whose standards are the minimums fixed by the Fruit Marks Act. How then, can the grower be losing 20% by "excessive grading" of his fruit? Even if the reckless statement contained a grain of truth, by what process of reasoning does he make the Associated responsible for the effect of a law to which they are obliged to conform?

There is a similar looseness in Mr. Wilson's reference to the wonderful prices being "hawked about by buyers of fruit in the southern end of the Valley." It is probable that during the season the Associated will have sold a larger volume of fruit than all of these buyers, at prices that will compare very favorably with theirs. Small quantities are always being sold by the Associated as well as other shippers at comparatively high prices, but are any of these so called "hawkers" prepared to buy the whole crop at these prices?

The last paragraph of Mr. Wilson's letter makes a most insidious attack on the Associated in the implication that their fruit is not being sold but rolled on consignment. It is an old saying that a half truth is worse than a falsehood, but when the grain of truth is so small one needs a microscope to see it, the statement becomes difficult to classify.

Any one with even a superficial knowledge of the fruit business knows that, in the absence of cold storage facilities, soft fruits cannot be held at point of production to await orders. Our salesmen and brokers are working hard, at all times during the season to keep us supplied with fruit orders, but if fruit is ready for shipment and no firm order in hand for that particular assortment, it must roll, in which case the whole organization is put to work to sell while the fruit is in transit. During the soft fruit season now closed almost every car rolled in this manner was sold at firm prices before arrival only in very exceptional cases have any been placed on consignment that arrived in good condition.

With apples, although less perishable, we have an almost equally difficult problem. We have, especially in the Kootenays, a number of very small packing houses at widely separated points, where there are no facilities for holding even a small quantity of fruit after it is packed. Many of the varieties are not suitable for cold storage and it is seldom that one of these houses can load a car to specification of any order on hand, nor can this often be done by assembling. These cars must be rolled and effort made to sell in transit. Sometimes with a particularly undesirable assortment this cannot be done and the car arrives at Winnipeg unsold. It can go no farther and the accumulation of very few such cars will have a disturbing influence on that particular market. This occurred for a short time in the month of September and is probably the foundation for Mr. Wilson's reckless charge of wholesale consignment. Even in these exceptional cases there is no consignment. The fruit is sold by our own Winnipeg salesman for the best prices that can be obtained. If Mr. Wilson can suggest any practical method of avoiding occasional rollers under the conditions existing in the smaller districts we will be very grateful to him.

It is not the intention of the Associated to enter into any controversy in the columns of the press over the transaction of their business. Mr. Wilson's letter is such a flagrant example of the misleading statements and misinformation so often circulated that we have used it as an illustration to our growers of the folly of giving any consideration to such attacks. The Associated Growers was formed because 80% of the fruit growers of the Province were convinced that in successful co-operation lay their only hope for prosperity. A perfect marketing organization cannot be built in one season nor in two, neither can the facilities necessary for the best handling of the crop be created without money. Whether or not the Associated has done all that could be done in this direction the fact remains that co-operation must succeed if we are to survive, and the surest way to make success impossible is to destroy confidence by the circulation of injurious propaganda.

We all realize that we have far to go to reach anything like a perfect organization but every loyal believer in co-operation is honestly desirous of profiting by experience and working constantly toward that goal. Suggestions for improving efficiency are always welcome, but it is a queer mentality that would tear down the whole structure in the blind hope that out of the wreck would spring, full fledged, a perfect creation.

The fact that Mr. Wilson's letter was published simultaneously in every Okanagan paper from Vernon to Pentiction can bear but one interpretation, that it was written with the deliberate purpose of injuring the co-operative organization. That it was a poor weapon, unworthy of a man of Mr. Wilson's intelligence, only makes its publication more difficult to understand.

E. J. CHAMBERS
President.

NARAMATA NEWS

Current Events of Town and District

The first political meeting of the coming election made necessary by the passing of the late J. A. McKelvie, was held in the Naramata Hall on Thursday evening when Hon. Dr. King and the Liberal Candidate, Mr. D. B. Sutherland addressed the electors. There was a good attendance and the speakers' addresses were received with interest.

The Anglican Service on Sunday afternoon was taken by Mr. Cope of Summerland, who gave an address on the subject of the future life. Mrs. Solly presided at the organ. The congregation included several friends from across the lake.

Miss Hilda Love of New Brunswick, niece of Captain Languedoc, is a visitor to the Languedoc ranch.

Mrs. M. M. Allen spent the weekend at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Armistage.

The extension to the wharf is now well on the way to completion, giving an extra stretch of 54 feet on the north end, with a width of 12 feet. This will provide a convenient landing stage for the Naramata-Summerland ferry, and will eventually form part of the wharf extension recommended for next year by the government engineer, Mr. Doncaster.

The members of the Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Lyons on Thursday, there being a good attendance. Mrs. F. Young presided, and refreshments were provided by Mrs. J. Smith.

Considerable work has lately been done at the dam by the opening of a channel to direct and secure much water which has hitherto spread over adjacent swampland but will in future go to augment the controlled supply.

The packing house is very busy just now, handling the volume of fruit being brought in, and the boxmakers are working overtime to keep pace with the demand.

Mr. A. C. Patterson has moved up into the house owned by Miss Wright. Mrs. Cross has been under the weather with an attack of influenza, but is recovering.

THE WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

Summerland Women's Institute resumed monthly meetings Friday last in the Parish Hall, with a fair attendance.

The British Columbia Products Bureau is offering prizes to school children for essays on—"The value of Buying British Columbia Products," for children 14 years of age or over, and—"The Resources and Industries of British Columbia," for children under 14 years of age.

As a further inducement for local boys and girls to enter these competitions, the Women's Institute is offering two prizes—$3.00 and $2.00 for the best essays.

A donation of five dollars was voted the Crippled Children fund.

NEW CURE FOR COLDS

The chlorine treatment is simple. You simply remain in one small room for an hour. In the case of the government clinics at Washington, the tediousness has been relieved by providing books, magazines and newspapers. Also the development of a portable apparatus by means of which chlorine can be administered to a single patient permits a sufferer to rest comfortably in his own home or office while undergoing treatment. Despite the fact that chlorine was used as a war weapon, there is no reason why the most nervous person should fear to take the treatment. It would require about 100 times the strength of chlorine that is used in the treatment before there would be danger in breathing the gas.

When the patients are seated, a valve is opened, and a small amount is fed from a glass cylinder containing chlorine in liquid form. An ordinary electric fan beside the inlet pipe circulates it through the room. When the treatment ends all the chlorine-bearing air is driven out by fans.

The apparatus consists of a small glass cylinder, capable of holding a little more than a quart of liquid chlorine. When a valve at the top is opened, chlorine escapes through rubber tubing to a glass cylinder filled with a salt solution. Thence a simple siphon causes the chlorine to pass in jets into the room through glass piping.

A single treatment—enough for seven persons—simultaneously costs about seven cents.—Robert E. Martin, in Popular Science Monthly.

The only girl who can afford to look homely is the girl who has plenty of money.

Mrs. Lipssett gave a further talk on Parliamentary Rules "Motions" being her chosen topic at this meeting.

Mrs. M. Tait, Convener of Women's Institute work and method gave an interesting talk on the subject. She brought forth many ideas for furthering the work.

The hot lunch problem for school children during the cold months was discussed but no definite plan adopted.

After a motion to adjourn tea was served and with it jellies donated by the W. H. Malkin Co. Limited, Vancouver.

Strawberry Originally Known as "Strayberry"

The name of the strawberry is explained by some as applying to the custom of throwing straw on the ground about the plants to keep the fruit clean of the dirt of the soil. The truth of the matter is that the name is not strawberry at all. Originally this fruit was called the "strayberry," from the habits its runners possess of rambling feet away from the parent plant. Gooseberry, again, has nothing to do with "geese." The bush owes its name to its long thorns, resembling those of the gorse, and was originally "gorseberry."

ZINC POISONING FROM GALVANIZED IRON

Four thousand galvanized iron buckets were recently distributed as premiums in a certain American city and this was followed by an epidemic of zinc poisoning. "Galvanized" iron is simply iron coated with zinc, and food containing fruit acids, or even milk, acts chemically on this metal, producing poisonous salts. Moral: Beware of zinc containers for food or drinks.—Ex.

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emptions is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emptions are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emptions must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes: minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued, and numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free or partially free permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

* * * * * The Winter's Tale, Scene II, Act IV

Since the appearance of my article on industries which should be here but are not, I have come across a few items which CONTINUING offer a very fair excuse for some further observations.

The first in order arises out of a statement by the Hon. Arthur Meighen recently made at Melfort, Saskatchewan, to the effect that two thousand factories have closed down in Canada since 1921. The editor of The Melfort Journal, commenting on this statement in the current issue of his paper, says:—"This declaration was promptly challenged, and said to be absurd. Well, the Journal has before it a list of the industries, and finds that Mr. Meighen was not only not exaggerating, but that he was well within the mark. The number of industries that have shut down since 1921 is not 2000 but actually 2,372." He then proceeds to give details of the list by provinces, the figures for the four western provinces being as follows: Manitoba 118 factories, Saskatchewan 52, Alberta 58, and British Columbia 239. When we keep in mind the fact that the population of B.C. is less than any of the other provinces we must be struck with the apparent excess of losses here, and it should be well worth while to make some effort to find out the cause with a view to applying a remedy. Mr. Meighen was of course making a political speech (just as Mr. Mackenzie King is also doing), and ascribes these Canadian losses largely to lowered tariffs and lack of protection to our own industries. Mr. King will doubtless say something quite different, and this not being a political column, I leave the matter there, Mr. Meighen obviously has the support of plain facts, and the stubborn evidence of cause and effect at his back. But there are other contributory features worth considering. I need not allude to freight rates, since that iniquitous burden is in fair way of being lifted—I prefer to dwell a little on the question of slackness on our own part, and will use the words of a correspondent to "The Saturday Tribune" of October 4th, to illustrate the position. This correspondent has revisited the city of Vancouver after fourteen years of absence, and finds it "a great disappointment." He says, "Here is Vancouver that ought to be the industrial and maritime hub of our western Empire, without sense enough to build factories, open industries, force out ruinous competition, have its own smelter and blast furnace, and possess a payroll bigger than Seattle and Portland put together." This is plain speaking, but has the merit of putting the situation very accurately. There is too much complaint and too little self help. British Columbia has its future in its own hands, and can be whatever it chooses to be. But it must give up its habit of querulous complaining at the mere or less imaginary antagonism of the rest of the Dominion, and turn its attention more closely to the work which lies at hand waiting to be done.

And here is another little matter. This morning the partner of my joys and sorrows handed me a cardboard gap she had just taken from the mouth of a cream container, and invited me to read its lettering. With the exception of the actual name and telephone number it read thus: "Blank Dairy. Pasteurized milk. Phone 0000. Made in U.S.A." Is it really the case that a British Columbia Dairy, selling B. C. milk to B. C. people, finds it necessary to have its container caps made and printed in the United States? If so, there is room here for one more industry!

A significant commentary on the subject dealt with above may be found in the fact that we cannot even run our own farm journal, but AND A POSTSCRIPT, have to apparently depend on a publication said to have been taken over by American interests. No criticism is coming to the concern which controls "Farm and Home" and the "United Farmer" and now publishes it as a paper tributary to the "Vancouver Sun." It is just a matter of legitimate business as far as the publishers are concerned. But it does not seem particularly creditable to us that we are unable or unwilling to run a representative farm journal for ourselves. There would appear to be a certain sardonic humor in the spectacle of "The great farm journal of British Columbia" being controlled by United States publishers, and forming a vehicle for the banalities of Frank Crane and everlasting clippings from the "Sun" as representing "what other papers say." Certainly there is a lighter side to be found in the personal column, of the advertising section, and a reader so disposed may force a smile at the "loneliness" of the "pretty maiden" of Florida, who can find no man to take her to his heart, although she is worth $60,000. But that sort of thing soon palls, and after all, it isn't genuine agriculture, but merely an offering of what an American might call "peaches" for the matrimonial market!

Just a few words concerning another possible factor in industrial failure. I refer to the habit of so many people of publishing P.P.S. criticisms of the organizations which they themselves have been instrumental in establishing for the betterment of conditions in their own particular industry. We are all more or less familiar with the sort of thing I mean, and if we take the Associated Growers of B.C. as an instance, it will be quite typical. From time to time we read letters from members of this organization, pointing out what they consider to be faults or shortcomings, and find it hard to realize that they are written by persons who are shareholders in the concern, and should therefore be anxious to see it succeed. The question as to the justice or injustice of the criticisms is not material—the point is that they should be made to the central office of the organization, and not spread broadcast in the press for the delectation of opponents. Criticism so spread is destructive, in that it breeds ill-feeling and dissatisfaction, often to no good end, whereas the same suggestions, addressed to the proper quarter, would probably be of value in the gradual building up of increased efficiency. The old proverb, "It's an ill bird that fouls its own nest" seems to apply very aptly here.

CANADIAN LAW IN REGARD TO RAFFLES

(By Dr. J. G. Shearer, General Secretary, Social Service Council of Canada.)

The following Canadian Press despatch appeared recently:

"PORT ARTHUR, ONT.—Acting on instructions from the Attorney-General, the Provincial Police are taking steps to close down all games of chance. The first to be affected here are two church organizations, which had sent automobiles on to the streets with banners advertising raffles. The banners were removed by the Police." Two years ago certain elite ladies of a great patriotic society decided to raffie an automobile in London, Ontario. They sold tickets at one dollar each. Their prospects for a rich harvest were bright. Again the Attorney-General interfered when informed of the proceedings by a local citizen. The Crown Attorney investigated, found that while the ladies had good intentions they were ignorant of the law, and were heading straight for a criminal offence. He advised them that if they proceeded he would prosecute them just as other offenders. They desisted. The raffle was called off at the last moment.

A curling club in Halifax is selling tickets for the raffie of an automobile to be disposed of at the Exhibition.

These are mere samples of what is common. Frequently, if not usually the offences are due to ignorance of what the law says.

What is the law regarding raffles? Raffles like lotteries are prohibited. There is one exception which is very frequently misunderstood.

The law (Sec. 236, S.S. 6 b.) of the Code reads:

Raffles for prizes of small value at any bazaar held for charitable or religious object, if permission to hold the same has been obtained from the city or other municipal council, or from the mayor, reeve or other chief officer of the city, town or other municipality wherein such bazaar is held, and the articles raffled for thereat have first been offered for sale and none of them are of a value exceeding fifty dollars.

These permitted articles are subject to several conditions. (1) They cannot be held at anything but a bazaar. (2) Only at a bazaar held for any charitable or religious object. (3) Only articles of less value than fifty dollars can be raffled. (4) Even these articles cannot be raffled unless they have first been offered for sale at the bazaar. (5) The official permission of the Council, mayor or other head of the municipality must be obtained for the raffie after the articles have failed to sell.

Churches have no special privilege over individual or other organizations.

The instances given at the beginning of this article are clearly violations of the law and criminal offences. From all the information he has been able to gather the writer is of the opinion that the great majority of raffles held are undoubtedly violations of the Criminal Code, and that this is due to ignorance on the part of those holding them of what the law says as to what is permitted and what is not. It is to save well meaning people from putting themselves in the position of criminal offenders that this article is written.

It is not lawful to hold raffles in shops or stores, or at fairs or athletic meets, or anywhere but at bazaars and then only at bazaars if those are held strictly for a charitable or religious object. Of course the operation of wheels of fortune and other gambling devices cannot be carried on at such bazaars. Only raffles are allowed and only of articles of small value previously offered for sale and not sold.

Good citizens will do well to make sure they understand what is permitted and what not before venturing into a raffie of any sort. All this is said purely from the viewpoint of what the law is. In addition it should be noted that from the standpoint of ethics a raffie is a gambling act even when it comes within the law and will not be practiced by those who draw the line at gambling.

WILL OPERATE CANNERY IN B. C.

Tariff Forces Big Californian Concern to Start Business Here

What's in a name? It is difficult to put the true value on a well established name or brand, but an instance of what a valuable asset an advertised brand becomes is contained in the announcement that one of the most prominent California canning companies is making arrangements to can its brand of fruit in this province.

Despite the tariff against the California product, there still exists in Canada a big market for this advertised brand and the packers are making arrangements to take over a jam factory at Mission, B. C., and will use berries grown in the Fraser Valley. Nothing has been given out as to whether peaches and other fruits will be packed in this province by the California Company.

Local Happenings

S. Bosworth of Toronto is the guest this week of his uncle, J. Rowley and cousin, Mrs. T. C. Orr.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Leslie on Wednesday morning, October 15th, at the Summerland Hospital.

Unloading car Drumbheller coal. Price $11.25 at the car; delivered from car $12. Okanagan Lake Boat Co., Ltd.

Her parents have just received word from Brandon that Ella Bowering has received a scholarship on her last year's work in Brandon College.

Representatives of the Baptist churches in the Okanagan-Kamloops district are meeting today and tomorrow at Penticton in annual convention.

As foretold in these columns a fortnight ago, M. G. Wilson has been appointed a notary public. He has received his certificate of appointment.

Miss Mona Bleasdale went over to Nelson on Sunday to attend the marriage of Miss Irene Eckford to Mr. Bob Taylor. She returned Wednesday morning.

The pipe having been laid and the weir finished, it is now possible to feed the 8-inch main running down through Prairie Valley from some of the springs under the reservoir.

There was recently received from the Department of Education by the Summerland school board a nine foot flag, which is to be raised every morning in front of the high school building.

According to word received here, the death occurred recently at their home in the southern states, of Elsie Riley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Riley, former Summerland residents.

The marriage took place recently at the Coast of Mrs. Marjorie Foster to Mr. William H. Snow of this place. Mr. and Mrs. Snow returned a few days ago and will make their home here.

Misses Grace and Zanda Garnett left on Wednesday morning for Alberta, where they have obtained schools. Both received word on Tuesday night of their appointment, Grace to Walsh, Alta., and Zanda to Hilda, Alta.

The winter schedule for the Okanagan Lake Boat Company's ferry service goes into effect on November 1st. Under this the afternoon ferry leaves Summerland at 3.30 and Naramata at 4 as is shown by the regular advertisement.

Attention is drawn to the advertisement of the Summerland Co-operative Growers, asking that members bring in their windfalls, beginning Monday of next week. Definite markets have been obtained for these apples at reasonably good prices.

Miss M. Dancer went up to Peachland on Sunday, where she plans to spend at least a part of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hayes went up to Kelowna last Saturday to spend the weekend with their daughter, Mrs. C. W. Loes, there. Mr. Hayes returned on Monday.

Latest word received by his family here is to the effect that Edgar Hobbs, who recently underwent a serious operation for gonorrhea at Vancouver, is making splendid progress. He left the hospital last Friday and is now able to take a short walk each day, though still under medical care.

Mrs. Dr. Saunby, of Victoria, gave two most interesting talks on Sunday at the Lakeside Methodist church at morning and evening services, on her work during the eighteen years which she spent as a mission worker in Japan. A special children's talk was also given in the morning address. Mrs. Saunby, who is a brilliant woman and an eloquent speaker, was much appreciated by all who were fortunate to hear her addresses.

Receiving a report that the cement walk in front of the building occupied by A. B. Elliott and the Better 'Ole needs repairing, the council on Monday referred the matter to the public works committee to make what repairs were necessary.

DR. E. W. SAWYER MEMORIAL SERVICE

Touching references were made to the life and work of the late Dr. E. W. Sawyer in a memorial service held last Sunday evening in the Baptist church.

Dr. Sawyer was for ten years a resident of Summerland, as principal of Okanagan College, and took an active part in community work. He served for a time as chairman of the municipal school board. The pastor, Rev. Z. L. Fash, who knew Dr. Sawyer as a teacher at Horton Academy, Nova Scotia, paid tribute to the sterling character of the man.

As an intimate friend and classmate as well as a neighbor during Dr. Sawyer's residence here, G. J. Caultier White gave briefly more intimate glimpses of the spirit and character of Dr. Sawyer.

Appropriate music was rendered by the choir.

HALLOWE'EN COMING

In a fortnight or so Halloween will be here, and already plans are being made for entertainments that night, the last night of the month. It gets its name from that fact that it is the night (or evening) before All Hallowmas, or All Saints' Day. For some hundreds of years, strange customs, practices and charms have been practiced on this night, and though superstition is not so common as it used to be, still we may find those who honestly believe that a girl who will take a candle at exactly midnight and go into a dark room and look into a looking glass, will see peering over her shoulder the face of her future husband!

It is impossible to trace the origin of many of these superstitions, and none of them seem to have any connection with All Saints' Day. But they give unlimited opportunity for fun at a party, and provide the hostess with a wide choice in decorations and program. Black and orange are usually the colors chosen—probably on account of the orange of the pumpkins of which the goblin heads are so often made, by scooping them out and cutting faces and inserting a lighted candle so the boy may carry it out, to look through neighbors' windows and scare the little folks inside! These pumpkins, and witches and black cats cut from black paper cloth, the witches kettle and broom, black bats, witches' hats with pointed crowns, and the wise old owl who isn't afraid of the witch or her cat, are the chief figures used at this season. Ghosts are also popular, because of the "scary" element.

BLIND FATE

One way of having fortunes told at a Halloween party is to suspend from strings in a doorway, a few inches apart, a tumbler to signify spinsterhood, a coin to indicate wealth, a candy heart to indicate a sweetheart, a stone to indicate a hard road to travel, etc. Then blindfold the player in the middle of the room, turn her around three times fast, face her toward the door, and have her walk through with one hand stretched out. The thing she touches with her hand will indicate her fortune for the coming year.

TAFFY TO PULL

By Halloween it is cold enough weather for a taffy pull of the good old-fashioned sort. Here is a recipe from Alice Bradley, one of the teachers in a famous school of cookery.

1 cup sugar; 2-3 cup corn syrup; 1 1/2 tablespoons butter; 1-3 cup water. Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the sugar and corn syrup and the water, stir it until the sugar is dissolved. Then bring it to the boiling point, and boil without stirring till it makes a hard ball in cold water. Pour it on a marble slab or white agateware tray which has been wiped over with a piece of damp cheesecloth to moisten it slightly. Before the edges have time to get hard, fold them over into the centre. This keeps the candy soft. But disturb the candy as little as possible so as not to make it sugar, and spoil its pulling qualities. When it is cool enough so you can handle it without burning your hands, knead it until it is firm, add such flavoring as you choose (perhaps peppermint to some, lemon to other, maple to still another piece) then pull it over a hook or with the two hands, until it is white, cut it with scissors into bars. It can be wrapped in squares of oiled tissue, if you want to make it beforehand. But half the fun of taffy is the making it, and much will be eaten before the time comes to put it on buttered plates.

SALT WATER TAFFY

A recipe for salt water taffy includes 1 1/2 cups brown sugar; 1/2 cup corn syrup; 3 tablespoons butter; 1/2 cup cold water; 1 1/2 teaspoons salt; 1/2 tablespoon glycerine, and 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla. Put the sugar, syrup, butter and water in a saucepan or iron kettle; boil, stirring occasionally, to the hard ball stage. Add the salt and glycerine and pour it out to cool enough to handle. Pull it till it turns light colored, adding the vanilla a little at a time as you pull. Pull it out into round sticks and cut in small pieces with scissors, and wrap in waxed paper or spread on sheets of it or on a buttered plate.

VINEGAR CANDY

If you want a different candy to pull, you might try another recipe: 2 tablespoons butter; 2 cups sugar and 1/2 cup vinegar. Melt the butter in an iron kettle or saucepan, then add the sugar and vinegar, stir till the sugar is dissolved, washing down any sugar crystals on the kettle sides

PEACHLAND DOINGS

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

Fire Prevention Day was recognized in the Peachland Central School by a special program, given in the principal's room, where provision was made for seating pupils of all three rooms and also visitors. There were a number of parents and others interested visitors present. Reeve Lang, chairman, gave a short address. Other speakers were: Principal Boswell, T. A. Sadler and H. E. McCall, assistant fire marshal. The principal had arranged a program: "Oh Canada" by the whole school; Recitation, Ruth Brinson; Song, group of entrance class girls; Recitation, Myrtle Barber; Song, 2 part, by four entrance class girls; Recitation, four juniors; Songs, by the juniors; Solo, Helen Wright; Recitation, Jimmy Young. These numbers were interspersed with the addresses and greatly pleased the visitors who expressed their appreciation by congratulating the pupils and principal. Following were the visitors signing the school register:—Mrs. Dryden, Mrs. Murrin, Mrs. A. W. Miller, Mrs. Bulyen, Mrs. Dorland, Reeve G. Lang, Mrs. Hyde, Mrs. Sadler, Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Knowles, Mrs. Boswell, Mrs. J. L. Elliott, The Rev. T. A. Sadler, Mr. G. W. McBean, Mr. H. E. McCall. The pupils showed keen interest in the addresses dealing with fires and fire prevention and the older ones took notes preparatory to writing an essay which is to be judged. It was felt by those present that the efforts to emphasize the great need for fire prevention, had not been in vain. A very pleasant afternoon was brought to a close by the singing of "God Save the King."

Mrs. Bothel, of Vancouver, a former friend of Miss S. A. Dimock recently came in to assist in the Harrington home with the care of Miss Dimock who has been confined to bed and chair practically all the time of late.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Thornber of Summerland motored up early in the week to attend a special meeting of the Baptist Church. They remained over the next day visiting friends.

The local pound has again come into prominence, as also have some of the range horses. There were a few locally owned horses and some Westbank Siwash horses impounded, but they have all been claimed and the pound is cleared again.

The regular meeting of the Peachland Women's Institute, on Friday afternoon last, was opened with the singing of the Institute ode. Mrs. Smalls, convener of the library committee gave a report to the effect that a hundred books had been taken from the library lists and these will be replaced by others, some new and some second hand. Interesting articles were read by the secretary from the Agricultural Journal and the Canadian Farmer. A resolution moved by Miss M. Smith, seconded by Mrs. Gummow was passed unanimously regarding a law to protect a woman in the case of a husband mortgaging their property. Mr. Cooper, accompanied by Mrs. Lambly, gave two delightful violin solos. Mrs. Bulyen, accompanied by Mrs. Jones sang a solo which was much enjoyed. Mrs. H. E. McCall gave an amusing reading which caused much laughter. The roll call was answered by "your favorite hour for rising in the morning." After a delightful tea served by the hostesses for the day the meeting closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

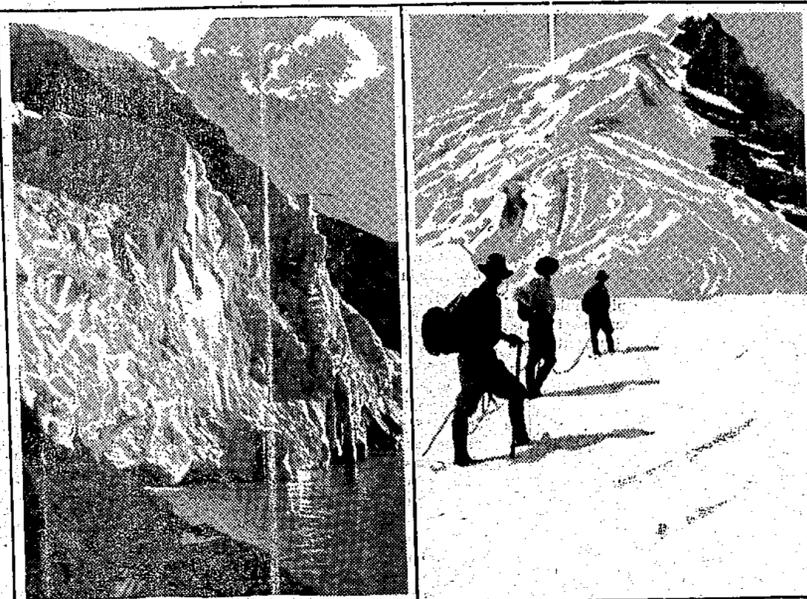

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. McBain who a short time ago purchased the former residence and drug store site of Dr. and Mrs. Nash, returned from Vancouver and are now getting settled in their home. They motored through from Vancouver and had a pleasant trip.

Mrs. Bert Robinson of Westbank was a week end guest of Mrs. L. D. McCall.

The McCutcheon family and Miss Dancer of Summerland motored up on Sunday last and were guests of Mrs. House. Miss Dancer remained to spend a few days with Mrs. House.

CLIMBING THE MONARCH OF THE ROCKIES

MOUNT ROBSON, 13,068 feet high and the queen of the Canadian Rockies, was scaled several times during the annual camp of the Alpine Club at Berg Lake. The Tumbling Glacier (left) on the north side of Mt. Robson, is the only true tumbling glacier known to exist in the Canadian Rockies. On the right is seen a party of climbers making their way over the ice-field on their way to Robson's towering summit.—C.N.R. Photos.

Mr. and Mrs. Dryden, accompanied by Mrs. Dorland and Mrs. Murrin left by motor on Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Dryden for Vernon and the others for Kelowna.

The following taken from an American paper refers to a daughter of a local family: At the request of the Red Cross Miss Ruth White, instructor for undergraduate nurses at the General Hospital of Everett gave two lectures with demonstration on First Aid work at the Island County fair at Langley Friday and Saturday. Both talks were attended by large and attentive audiences. Mrs. Benjamin Irvine, Executive Sec'y of the Home Service section also attended the fair to serve ex-service men who might wish to enter Government Claims. Eight Claims were filed with her during the two days. The Red Cross representatives had not been on the grounds more than twenty minutes when Miss White in Nurses Uniform was hastily summoned to administer First Aid to an eight year old boy who had fallen and fractured a wrist. He was cared for and sent to Everett later for surgical attention.

Mrs. Saunby, wife of Dr. John Saunby, of Victoria, both of whom spent many years in missionary work in Japan, addressed a meeting under the auspices of the Women's Mission Society, at the home of Mrs. H. McCall. There was quite a number present and all felt well repaid for attending, as Mrs. Saunby was a very able and pleasing speaker and in the very short time at her disposal gave an extremely interesting talk on the work she and her husband have been engaged in during their life in Japan. She had been brought up from Summerland by Summerland friends, and as it was necessary to catch the afternoon ferry for Kelowna where she was scheduled for another meeting the same day it was necessary that the Peachland meeting be called early, and had necessarily to be hurried. The Rev. T. A. Sadler kindly motored Mrs. Saunby to the Ferry.

Mr. Bert Robinson passed through this week on his way back to Westbank after having spent another week doing some improvements on his ranch west of town.

Mrs. W. Lambly and her mother, Mrs. De Beck were passengers north on Tuesday morning to spend the day visiting.

Mr. S. H. Murrin spent Tuesday on a business trip to Kelowna.

The Rev. J. B. Rowell, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Kamloops, addressed a public meeting in the Municipal Hall on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Orange Lodge. The subject of his address was "The Vital Difference between Romanism and Protestantism" and "Why the need for Organized Protestantism". There was a fairly good attendance, but owing to the fact that there were two other important meetings in town the same evening a number were detained who otherwise would have been present. Mr. Rowell gave a very able and inspiring address and while dealing with the above subject explained the real altruistic spirit of Orangeism, which is Protestantism. While in town he was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. McCall.

The local liberal association held a meeting on Tuesday evening in connection with the coming federal election. Notices are out announcing a public meeting on Friday evening at which the liberal candidate, Mr.

cover. His firm is looking for a strong market for late apples.

The only salvation of the Okanagan Valley, said Mr. Swartz, continuing his conversation, is the growing of first quality fruit of standard varieties. Even good heavy yielding trees of off varieties should be removed. Thinning, pruning and good orchard practice that will assure first quality stuff must be followed.

"If I were a grower and could not sell for cash or at least get a good advance, I would certainly be a member of the Associated," said Mr. Swartz. Even though co-operative members may not net as much now as independent growers, they are financing themselves and building for the future. He considers that his firm, by entering the field and paying cash, is not in the least injuring the co-operative movement.

PUTS HIM AT WORK DIGGING POTATOES

V. M. Lockwood accomplished something out of the ordinary when he succeeded in converting a commercial traveller into a farmer and sportsman, even though for a brief period.

G. H. Kennery, representing a motion picture supply house, made one of his periodical calls on the manager of the Rialto theatre last Thursday morning. The latter persuaded him to spend the afternoon on the Lockwood ranch in Garnett Valley, where he helped dig potatoes. Later, in compensation for his assistance, he had the opportunity of shooting a rabbit and a grouse, the first in his experience.

D. W. Sutherland, Col. Edgott and others will speak.

The Masonic lodge held its regular meeting in the Masonic Hall on Tuesday evening. Although the regular meeting it was also special as the lodge was visited by one of the higher officers.

SUMMERLAND MUNICIPAL SCHOOL BOARD

Night School Classes

Commencing 1st Nov., 1924.

It is proposed to hold the following classes for the winter term:

Commercial Course (including typewriting, book-keeping, commercial arithmetic), Dress designing, Basketry, Pottery (including hand moulding and modelling, wheelwork, firing and glazing), wood working, metal working, weaving and homospun.

Fee for each course $5.00 the term

Applications for enrollment should be made to: J. W. S. Logic, West Summerland, or C. P. Nelson, Secretary, West Summerland.

While it will be for the next year's council to carry out this work, the present board, realizing that there would not be time enough after election to prepare and submit a by-law, will the debentures and buy the material, gave the clerk instructions to have the necessary by-laws prepared with a view to submitting them to the ratepayers for approval on the date of the annual election.

Canada's Premier to Speak Here on Saturday

Hobbs Is Nominated For Boys' Parliament At Annual Conference

Lads Greatly Benefitted by Three Day Program at Penticton.

SUMMERLAND BOYS ELECTED OFFICERS

Report of Conference As Given By the Official Scriptor.

Those Summerland lads who attended the boys' conference at Penticton last week returned full of enthusiasm and glad they were so privileged. For the following report of the conference The Review is indebted to A. Shelly Knowles, scriptor.

The conference of the Tuxis boys of this district opened at Penticton on Friday evening last and continued until Sunday night. The boys were registered and given tickets to the banquet Saturday night, after which they all joined in a sing-song.

Rev. D. M. Perley in a short address gave the boys an idea of the conference, and Morrison Fish, gave an address of welcome to the visitors. Rev. W. R. Brown led in the devotional period. Directly after this the big chief, Mr. Taylor Statten gave a very interesting talk to the boys. The boys were then billeted and went to their respective homes.

Officers Elected
On Saturday the meeting opened at 9 a.m., Mr. A. J. Bowrick presiding, the devotional service being led by him. Election of officers for the conference resulted as follows: Grand Praetor, Harry Hobbs, Summerland; Deputy Praetor, Morrison Fish, Penticton; Comptor, K. Fish, Penticton; Scriptor, Shelly Knowles, Summerland.

Rev. A. E. Roberts gave a short speech showing the boys the books on Tuxis work, and Mr. Taylor Statten explained the installation of officers who were then duly installed by the "Big Chief." Rev. A. E. Roberts also gave an interesting talk on the provincial parliament for boys, and Mr. Statten explained the plans for the national parliament for boys.

Hobbs Nominated
On the motion of Bert Pride, seconded by Roger Woodburn it was resolved that the Boy Scouts be invited to the banquet. The meeting then adjourned.

The afternoon session was opened at 2.05 by devotional service led by the Grand Praetor. Mr. Statten explained the revision of the program for the boys' work, and Rev. A. E. Roberts gave a short talk on badge requirements. The groups then got together to decide for candidates for parliament, the following being nominated: Harry Hobbs, Y.R. Square, Summerland; W. B. Pride, Falcon Square, Penticton.

Boys' Banquet

The banquet on Saturday night was thoroughly enjoyed by all. After the toast to the king proposed by Mr. H. H. Boyle, toastmaster, Ewart Bowring proposed a toast to the Boy Scouts which was replied to by Earl Foreman. Rev. Mr. Roberts gave a report on the afternoon athletics, the Pineapple team winning. K. Fish proposed a toast to the C. G. I. T., which was replied to by Miss Daisy Porter.

Mr. Statten then led in a sing-song which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. J. Woodburn proposed a toast to boys in other countries, after which Rev. D. M. Perley gave a talk on boys in other countries. H. Hobbs proposed a toast to the teen age boys of Canada which was replied to by Mr. Statten.

On Sunday all the boys were at church with their respective hosts, and in the afternoon they attended Sunday school. After Sunday school there was a mass meeting in the Baptist church, when Mr. Statten gave a heart to heart talk to the boys. Rev. A. E. Roberts closed the meeting with prayer after which the

STREET LIGHTING STILL RESTRICTED

Authorities Do Not Know When the Transformer is Coming

"When are we again to have street lights?" This is the question being frequently asked but when put to the municipal electrician by a representative of The Review the answer received was anything but satisfactory.

After many months of correspondence and negotiation the company which manufactured the transformer and sold it to the municipality agreed for a consideration to take back the burned out transformer and rebuild it at their plant near Toronto. They are to return it and put it in place. When this will be done, recent inquires from the municipal electrician to the Vancouver office of the Canadian General Electric have failed to bring out.

At present only a very limited street lighting service is being maintained.

WAS CARRYING OUT BY-LAW

Committee Finds Poundkeeper Adhering to Municipal Law.

Summerland municipal pound committee met on Saturday with the poundkeeper and discussed the complaint which had been laid before the council last week and referred to the committee.

The poundkeeper resented the charge that he had in any way abused the pound bylaw and declared that in fact he had at no time done more than carry out his obligations as poundkeeper. In the instance referred to, he had first received a complaint before rounding up the horses. As to the statement that animals on the range had been rounded up and brought in to pound, poundkeeper Thompson said he knew of no such instance.

Coun. Wm. Ritchie, chairman of the pounds committee, states that had the pound bylaw been examined there would have been no need of referring the matter to the committee, as the bylaw explicitly instructs the poundkeeper to enter on to private property when necessary to gather up any animals roaming at large.

OLD-TIMERS TO HOLD SOCIAL

Big Gathering Planned for the First Thursday in November.

Have you been fifteen years in the district? If you have, you are an "old-timer" and are eligible for membership in the old-timers' club soon to be organized.

There will be many good old-timer stories related at the big social and get-together meeting of the earlier residents announced in another column to be held in Empire Hall two weeks from tonight. The announcement is your invitation to be present. No other invitations are to be sent out. Every man who is an old-timer is asked to bring his wife, even if she has been here but a short time and vice-versa, the newcomer whose wife has resided here for fifteen years or more is expected to accompany her.

There will be singing, speeches, stories of the early days, plenty of good eats and a good social time. Turn to the last page for your invitation.

GIVING ORCHARDS LATE IRRIGATION

Is Slow Process with Limited Amount of Water Available

Foreman Tomlin finds that he has undertaken quite a chore to give the orchards of the district a late irrigation and he is hoping for a good rain. All last week water was being drawn from the reservoir through the pipes to water the Jones Flat area and the supply at the reservoir was brought down as much as it seemed advisable to reduce it. This week the Trout Creek water is being sent through the south main and of course is not being utilized to again bring up the reservoir.

When the reservoir again fills water will be turned into the north main.

GATES CLOSED AT HEADWATERS

Start Storage Season with Less Water Than Year Ago.

Coun. R. Johnston, chairman of the water committee, and Foreman Tomlin returned on Saturday last from a visit to the headwaters of Trout Creek. While there they closed all the gates in the reservoirs and filled the openings which had been made in beaver dams.

Questioned as to conditions at headwaters, Coun. Johnston told The Review there was about the usual flow of water running through the dams. These had all been drained this year, something quite unusual. Last year there was about a foot of water in No. 1, a foot in No. 2 and 18 inches in No. 3 and Whitehead Lake had not been opened at all. In other words, this year's storage season is being entered without any reserve supply of water in these reservoirs as compared with the above mentioned quantities in the dams at the beginning of last winter.

As pointed out by Coun. Johnston, all will depend upon the precipitation during the next few months, as to how well the dams are filled next spring.

BANK SEEKING PREFERENCE

Would Have Its Claims Given Priority Over "Pink Notes."

Is the Dominion Bank to have preference over holders of "pink notes" given grower members by the O.U.G. This is a question that will be settled by court when an action in which the Summerland Fruit Union in liquidation is directly concerned is concluded.

Instead of issuing notes direct to small producers, to cover the sum received by the O.U.G., a blanket note was given to the local, which covered all deductions amounting to less than one dollar from grower's accounts. The Summerland Fruit Union's claim against the O.U.G. on these "pink notes" totals $2,055.50. The Union, while receiving the note from the O.U.G., paid the growers rather than issue small notes. When the O.U.G. Limited went into bankruptcy, the Union filed its claim for the above sum with the official trustee, M. G. Wilson, by whom the claim was allowed.

The Dominion Bank is now asking a court order expunging the proof of claim filed by the Summerland Fruit Union against the O. U. G. Limited estate. The case is down for a hearing on October 20th but there is a possibility that it may be adjourned.

K. M. Elliott is solicitor for the Summerland Fruit Union in liquidation.

P. O. Minnich went in the hospital on Sunday for an operation, from which he is making good recovery. Mrs. Minnich, who has been visiting at the Coast, arrived here Sunday morning.

PREMIER KING TO SPEAK IN EMPIRE HALL

Will Be Heard in Support of D. W. Sutherland, Liberal Candidate.

OTHERS PROMINENT COMING WITH HIM

Local Committee Preparing for Large Gathering of Citizens.

Rt. Hon. W. L. McKenzie King, premier of Canada, who has been making a tour of the west, will visit Summerland on Saturday of this week. The premier has been through to the Coast and is just starting back through southern British Columbia.

Those Liberals concerned in the by-election in this county have succeeded in having the premier speak in several centres in Yale and, accompanied by several other prominent men, he is to be here on Saturday afternoon. Arrangements have been made that will permit everyone to hear the premier and other members of his party speak. Particulars of this event, together with arrangements for free ferry service between Naramata and Summerland are given officially in another column.

Accompanying the premier are Hon. J. E. King, M.D., Minister of Public Works, Hon. P. J. Cardin, Minister of Marine and Fisheries and Hon. Hal B. McGiverin, of the Senate. Mayor D. W. Sutherland of Kelowna, the Liberal candidate, will be heard at the same time.

BRITISH COLUMBIA APPLES FOR SWEDEN

Effort Being Made to Open Market There.

Sweden may become an important market for British Columbia apples. Efforts are being made to develop a new market there, steamship lines out of Vancouver taking an active interest in the opening of this market.

An initial shipment of one thousand boxes is being sent to Stockholm and it is believed the Swedish market will greet the new commodity warmly and that an increasing and permanent source of sale will be added to the established markets.

SUCCESSFUL SALE BY HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

Over ninety dollars was cleared by the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary on Saturday afternoon, as the proceeds of a sale of work and home cooking held in the Parish Hall. The sale had been arranged to dispose of the goods remaining from the bazaar held some time ago, and a home cooking stall was added and afternoon tea served.

Canada has the largest agricultural implement industry in the British Empire—the Massey-Harris, Toronto.

TWO CANDIDATES NOMINATED TODAY

Nominations for member of parliament for Yale county, British Columbia, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late J. A. MacKelvie, M.P., closed today at 2 p.m. W. C. Kelley, returning officer, was at the Summerland police court from 12 until 2 for the purpose of receiving nominations.

Grote Stirling of Kelowna, B.C., civil engineer and fruit grower is the Conservative candidate, his official agent being Edwin Clyde Weddell, Kelowna, barrister-at-law.

The Liberal candidate is Daniel Wilbur Sutherland of Kelowna, merchant; his official agent, Rae George Ritchie, Kelowna, barrister-at-law.

Lad Had Uncomfortable Experience While Picking Apples

Feeling that he had a close shave, and rightly so, a lad who was picking apples last Saturday tells of an uncomfortable experience when the tree in which he was working was hit by a .22 bullet. He heard the discharge of the rifle and the whizzing of the bullet through the air as it passed directly over his head and lodged just above him in a limb of the tree.

Some careless hunter, indifferent to what was beyond, no doubt missed his aim in firing at a pheasant, and only by good fortune escaped being the author of a tragedy.

INSTAL WATER TANK AT FARM

Big Concrete Reservoir Provides Gravity System for Fire and Lawns.

By the building of a large tank, the Dominion Experimental Station is providing an ample supply of water for fire protection and the running of sprinklers, etc. The tank, which is just being completed, has been built on an elevation west of the railway line and measures 20 by 20 by 10 feet inside. It is of reinforced concrete with a roof of concrete on reinforced concrete beams. Its capacity is 25,000 gallons.

All farm buildings are now supplied with domestic water from the Summerland municipal system and it is the intention to continue with this service, but the big tank will provide a reserve of water with good head which may be used in case of fire, particularly during the winter and will lighten the drain on the municipal system for lawn sprinkling purposes.

Foundation and shelter have been provided for a pump which will fill this tank, drawing from the open tanks at the edge of the garden, which are filled by the municipal irrigation system or the farm's pumping plant or both.

WORK STARTS ON DAIRY BARN

Dominion Experimental Farm Building a Model Dairy Plant

Work has been started on the erection of a model dairy barn on the Dominion Experimental station. It will be located on the top of the hill south of the stockyards, but a short distance from the horse barn and the big haystack. The building will be 30x54, the first story 9 feet high and the hay loft above 24 feet high.

The barn will have a full concrete foundation, concrete floors, mangers and gutters. It will have fourteen stalls and four pens. The building will be finished with drop siding and will have a shingle roof. The most approved method of ventilation will be adopted with air shafts to carry in the fresh air and others to draw off the foul air.

In connection with the barn there will be a granary, 10 feet by 18 feet. Later a silo will be added as will also a root cellar.

The materials have been purchased, tenders having been asked, a Vernon firm being the successful bidder. Practically all the lumber will be Coast material.

Until recently comparatively little attention has been given at the farm to dairy work, but Supt. Hunter has added several pure bred Jerseys of high class, which will be the foundation for a herd of really good stock. These animals and several heifers which have been brought in by the Jersey calf club will soon greatly improve the standard of dairy cows in this district.

Stirling Makes Good Impression In His First Appearance

PASTOR'S WIFE IS GIVEN FAREWELL

Women Make Contribution to Mission Fund.

Annual thanksgiving day was observed on Tuesday by the W.M.S. of the Baptist church, in connection with their regular business meeting. About twenty were present, and about twenty-eight dollars received for the missionary thanksgiving fund, with further donations promised.

Report was given by Miss Belle Spencer of the meeting held last week in Penticton of the Baptist association of the Valley. Mrs. C. H. Gayton read a splendid paper on the needs of the mission field, while another paper written by Mrs. W. Daniel of Vancouver on Stewardship, was read by Mrs. McAlpine.

A few words of farewell to Mrs. Fash were spoken, this being the last meeting to be held by the W.M.S. before her departure for the east.

LOCAL SCHOOLS WIN MEDALS

Essayists Make an Excellent Showing in District Contest.

Summerland schools did wonderfully well in the essay contest under the forestry branch of the provincial department of lands, the high school taking second district prize and the public-school first senior and second and third junior.

The province is divided into several forestry districts, Vernon being the centre of this district. The prescribed subject of the essay was, "Forest fires, their effect and how to prevent them." Prizes were offered by the department for each district, which is divided again into three groups, the high schools, and senior and junior in the public schools.

Local Prize Winners
Edith Cunliffe of the Summerland high school, took the second prize in the high school group, being awarded a bronze medal. Eileen Tomlin won the first prize for senior public school and a silver medal. Naomi Kercher succeeded in winning the second prize in the junior public school group. She also gets a bronze medal. Third prize goes to Victor

RESIDENCE FOR SUPERINTENDENT

Fine Two Storey Frame Building to be Erected Soon.

Dominion Experimental Station is to have its long promised residence for the superintendent. Plans are now being prepared for a two-storey building, 35x48 feet. This will be located east of the log building, provided for accommodation of the public, and will have a most magnificent outlook.

A concrete basement of the above size will be provided. There will be a verandah and a balcony on the east side overlooking the lake and on the west there will be sleeping porches. As implied above, the building will be of two storeys and is to be of colonial type. Though the plans have not been definitely decided upon, there will be approximately five rooms on the first floor and five on the second. The outside finish will be of clap boards with shingle roof.

Canada has world's richest nickel and asbestos mines.

Realize Valley's Great Loss in Death of J. A. MacKelvie.

PROTECTING FRUIT AGAINST DUMPING

All Speakers Deal with This Subject Vital to Fruit Growers.

Three excellent addresses were heard Saturday afternoon at the opening of the political campaign here, when Hon. Dr. R. G. Manion, M.P., J. W. Jones, M.L.A. and Grote Stirling, Conservative candidate, addressed a public meeting at Rialto Theatre. J. M. Sutherland occupied the chair and introduced the speakers.

Feeling tribute was paid by all three speakers to the late J. A. MacKelvie, M.P., whose sudden death has occasioned the present by-election campaign.

Mr. Stirling's Speech
The thorough knowledge of political subjects, particularly those affecting the Yale district, shown by the candidate, Mr. Grote Stirling, considerably surprised the audience. It was with terms of greatest respect and admiration that he reviewed briefly the excellent work which had been done by the late Mr. MacKelvie, for his constituency, the arduous work undertaken by him in connection with the Okanagan branch of the C.N.R. being the probable cause of his untimely demise.

Conditions of unemployment throughout the country were dealt with by Mr. Stirling. The very unsatisfactory and alarming conditions he attributed to the policy of the present government. The speaker strongly denounced any suggestion of annexation to the United States, which, he said, was a movement favored by many of the government party; independence and closer empire relations being other government suggested alternatives as remedies for the present unsatisfactory conditions.

Reciprocity
Mr. Stirling spoke on the history of the two chief political parties and their policies. Reciprocity arrangements as advocated and pressed by the Liberal party he denounced as unworkable. Were such an arrangement entered into between Canada and the United States, there would be a very material change in manufacturing and commercial conditions. There would almost always be an atmosphere of uncertainty and ultimately, when the period of reciprocity ended, there would very probably be a decision in one country or the other against renewal and chaos would result.

Anti-Dumping
Mr. Stirling went very fully into the question of protection of Okanagan's fruit industry against the indiscriminate dumping of American low grade fruit on to the Canadian market in years of surplus. The Liberals, he said, claimed they had created the anti-dumping law, but he said, they had never used it. Surecharges of duty were based on "fair market values" but when there was a glut of fruit this market value was nearly all and the duty no protection.

Was Effective
In 1920 the Conservative government put in force a new measure which provided that the protection be based on cost of production. This measure was found to be very useful and was used for our protection. In 1921 the Liberals came into power and almost immediately repealed the anti-dumping clause and for the first part of that season, we were without protection, despite the fact that assurances had been given that this clause would not be interfered with.

Minister Approved
During a visit to the Valley of the Minister of Customs, he was pressed with the necessity of protection. (Continued on Page 6)

DIRECT TO CONSUMER.

Devoting a whole page to the subject, Farm and Home, Vancouver, in a recent issue, detailed the success attained by a fruit grower in building up a huge mail order business. Much praise is given him for his achievement and, commenting editorially on the subject, under the heading "Why not others?" Farm and Home says:

Any grower possessing the necessary knowledge and business ability can proceed to build up a similar business.

But it is probable that a great percentage of growers, for one reason or another, will continue their present marketing methods. Many are not desirous of undertaking innovations.

For the man who is equipped and qualified to enter into a mail order business, it is obvious that there is no better system of marketing than direct from producer to consumer. Co-operative marketing is the next best method and must remain the main dependence of the average grower.

Direct to the consumer marketing does no harm to the efforts of the co-operators, as it is neither dumping, price cutting nor consigning. It would be an ideal circumstance if every grower could conduct his own mail order business and dispose of his entire crop in that manner each year.

That being impractical at present for the majority, co-operative marketing must be the mainstay of the industry.

GRANDMOTHER'S COOKIE JAR

Grandmother's Cookie Jar! The very words are delicious. Your mouth waters for the crisp sugary confections, and the snappy ginger variety, and the richly toothsome ones with nuts and fruit all through them. Here is a recipe my mother carefully penciled on the flyleaf of grandmother's cook book, when she was a little girl and had her first lessons in housekeeping from grandmother:

COOKIES

2 cups of sugar; 1 cup of butter; 1 cup of milk; 1 teaspoon soda; 1 teaspoon of Cream of Tartar.

Another recipe grandmother wrote in the book herself and named for mother (she was Victoria Marie, called Vickie for short) is as follows:

VICKIE'S COOKIES

1 cup butter; 2 cups sugar; 3 eggs; 1 teaspoonful soda; 2 teaspoons Cream Tartar; Mix very soft.

Saleratus cookies grandmother made as follows:

SALERATUS COOKIES

1 cup sugar; 1 cup cream; Butter the size of a butternut; 1 egg; 1 teaspoon of saleratus.

Grandfather-liked Crullers. She made them for him as follows:

1 egg; 1 cup of sugar; 3 spoons of butter; 3 of sweet milk; soda the size of a pea.

Another cruller recipe I find penciled in a tiny, old-fashioned script on the edge of one of the pages is like this:

CRULLIES

5 eggs; 1 cup sugar; saleratus; 1 spoonful of sweet milk.

FOURTEEN PASSENGERS BUT ONLY ONE FARE

Fourteen persons were transported a long distance a few days ago on one railway ticket. They travelled from Jewell, Iowa, through Illinois, Wisconsin and up to Saskatchewan. Mrs. Frank Scott had purchased at Jewell one ticket for herself and thirteen children, intending to visit relatives in the prairie province. When the conductor came along and asked for the tickets she handed him one. When he inquired if they were all her children or if it was a picnic, Mrs. Scott produced a family Bible to show that they were all hers. She has been married less than ten years and has nineteen children, all boys. There were five sets of twins. The thirteen children that were with her were all under five years old and were entitled to ride free.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS GERM IS DISCOVERED

Infantile paralysis, which has been very prevalent in southwestern Washington, has made an appearance at Okanogan, Washington, but the county health officer states officially that there is very little danger of any more cases appearing. The officer has on hand a supply of infantile paralysis serum sent by the famous Mayo Brothers hospital,

VERNON GRANITE AND MARBLE COMPANY

according to the Okanogan Independent.

A specialist at the Mayo hospital is confident that he has discovered the infantile paralysis germ. The serum prepared to combat it is being distributed gratis to physicians on request, the only requirements being that transportation charges be paid and a full report submitted on cases treated. From these cases it is expected valuable medical conclusions may be reached and the success of the serum determined.

Prince of Wales' "Little Grey Home in the West"

WHERE THE ROYAL RANCHER LIVES

THE PRINCE AND HIS 10 GALLON HAT

THE PRINCE'S THOROUGHBRED SHEEP

After having enjoyed about as much privacy as the proverbial goldfish during the international polo games near New York, the Prince of Wales retired to the quiet and seclusion of his Canadian "Little Grey Home in the West," 25 miles from High River, Alberta, a station on the Canadian Pacific, to rest for a few days, recreate and work far from curious crowds, reporters, still photographers and "movie" men. It is very pleasant, no doubt, to be the most popular young man in the world, but about once a year the rolling hills and rich prairie land of his "E. P. Ranch" call the Prince of Wales, Baron Rotherow or "Davy Windsor," as they refer to H.R.H. in Alberta, back to the land.

The prince is a real farmer and rancher, and is honestly endeavoring to improve the breed of horses, sheep and cattle in Western Canada. His pure-bred, imported animals and their offspring have won many prizes in competition at live stock shows in Western Canada, not because they were from the royal ranch, but because they were the very best exhibited. Since he bought his 4,100 acre ranch in Alberta in 1910, the prince has been sending to it the best stock he could secure in Great Britain, and every year he sells at auction the surplus animals for the benefit of live stock breeders in the western provinces. The Earl of Minto, who has a big ranch near-by, does the same thing. Also, King George loans the prince some of his best animals for the stud. "It's a neighborly kid," said one of the members of the Alberta Shorthorn Breeders' Association. "When he comes out here we don't chase him as they do in other places. We just let him ride, and next thing you know he has all of us neighbors in as his guests, and treats us just as a neighbor. He wants to meet all the ranchers who are his neighbors, and there isn't a thing about ranching he doesn't want to know. His ranch is no fad. He is running it for the benefit of Canada first, and second for the purpose of making the "E. P. Ranch" a business venture, just as any level-headed man would do. When he is on the ranch he wears a 'ten gallon hat,' the same as all of the cowboys, and he does his work daily like any other ranch hand. 'Regular feller,' that's what we call him, 'regular feller.'"

MR. WILSON REPLIES TO PRES. CHAMBERS

To the Editor Summerland Review.
Dear Sir,-I was glad to see that Mr. Chambers, the president of the Associated Growers, Ltd., has replied to my letter of the 2nd October as he is a gentleman for whom I have always had the utmost respect, although I regret that he should have condescended to sneer at my intelligence and question my veracity, and make false imputations as to my motives, which are the usual accompaniments of a weak case. I can afford to ignore such tactics, as I have all along, since I had any fruit to ship, been a steadfast supporter of the co-operative organizations. That I voiced the opinion of other growers besides myself has been made perfectly evident, as can be seen from the letter of the Coldstream Ranch which appeared in the same issue of the Vernon News as Mr. Chambers's reply.

Mr. Chambers asks me if, in the course of my mercantile experience, I submitted all my proposed plans to my opponents. No one ever suggested that the Associated should do anything of the kind, but I can tell Mr. Chambers this, that I never tried to keep my co-partners in the dark as to what I was doing, nor lost my temper with them should they venture to criticize my actions; he seems to forget that we co-operators are all co-partners with him.

With regard to the question of loss caused to the growers through the action of the Associated in demanding certificates of inspection with each car, I have nothing to withdraw. From personal experience I know that the loss was there. It is perfectly true that I am aware that the co-operative organizations were supposed to pack above the government grade, but the fact remains that when this car certificate was called for in almost every packing house in the Valley, hundreds of boxes of fruit were turned down as not being up to grade by the inspectors who had to sign these certificates, with the result that the packing houses had to tighten up the grading, and a corresponding increase was made in the apples that were shipped either in crates or as "C" grade, causing heavy loss to the growers. If Mr. Chambers was not aware of this, then he ought to have been. The independent shippers did not ask for anything else than the usual government inspection, with the result that they had not the same trouble, and their growers are not suffering as the co-operative growers are doing. Had the car certificate been made compulsory on every shipper there would have been no cause for complaint, as then we would all have been in the same position, therefore, I maintain that my statement that the Associated are responsible for what has happened was absolutely correct.

With regard to the rolling of cars, the number rolled was not so microscopic as Mr. Chambers would fain have the growers believe; I know that there was a considerable number rolled in September. I am perfectly aware that in the fruit trade there are certain times when it is an absolute necessity that rollers be sent out, but I would like to point out that the O.U.G. was fiercely condemned by the men who tore it down and put the Associated in its place for this very thing. They told us that they would never roll a car, that they would rather let the fruit rot on the ground or in the packing house. Certainly we know that they were talking nonsense, but it is only human nature to feel a certain amount of gratification in the fact that the man who so condemned you have found through the force of circumstances that they had to do the very thing they had condemned in others. I see that the executive talk very often about the very serious problems that they have encountered. These problems are the same as those encountered by the first co-operative concern in the Valley, and are the same today. They have not been solved, and the chief one, the peculiar marketing problem of the prairie, will never be solved until they do what any sensible manufacturer would do who finds himself with a large and increasing production, sell his product to the wholesale trade through his own salesmen.

When I wrote my first letter the growers in Summerland were aware of what their cherries, apricots and early peaches had realized, and certainly the prices were most disappointing, and compared very unfavorably with those paid by the independents. If this was the best the Associated could do in a year of undoubted scarcity, it does not promise very well for what they would be able to do in a year of bumper crops. Mr. Chamber's principal grievance with me is that I published my letter in all four papers of the Valley. I think it is the duty of a passenger on a ship, when he sees danger ahead, to warn as many of his fellow passengers as he can, especially when the captain and officers seem to be oblivious to the danger, and seem to be chiefly concerned in obtaining legislation to compel them to remain on board the ship.

I wish the Associated Growers ever increasing prosperity, but I venture to say that they will never succeed as they hope to, unless they have a body of satisfied growers. Personal abuse will never stifle criticism, and I would suggest to Mr. Chambers that he should add courtesy to his many other estimable qualities.

Yours truly, M. G. WILSON.

VANCOUVER MEN BUY MINE

White Elephant Property on Okanagan Lake Brings Over $100,000.

Sale of the White Elephant gold mine near Ewing's Landing on the Okanagan Lake to a group of Vancouver business men is announced. The price is said to be more than $100,000.

Work is reported to have started last Friday by the new holders under the name of the Okanagan Premier Mining Company. A contract has been let for the sinking of a shaft on the ore and drifting to block out the ore body.

The property, which is composed of six claims, includes the Highflyer claims 1, 2, 3, and 4.

Reported to be about 40 feet in width, the ore body has about 8 feet of high-grade telluride ore running through it, upon which present efforts are being devoted. Average value of the low-grade ore has been reported as about $14 or $15 a ton and of the higher grade about $40. Some silver is contained in the ore. The mine will work all winter.

VETERANS PLAN FOR PEACE ANNIVERSARY

Vacancies on Executive to be Filled -United Church Service.

Secretary R. S. Jackson of the G. W. V. A. having resigned his position because of leaving town, it will be necessary for the veterans to select another for his position. The departure of Dr. Windeler leaves the position of first vice-president open. Dr. Windeler was also one of three trustees. These two vacancies will also have to be filled.

The veterans are making preparations for Armistice Day. Arrangements are already under way for a united church service to be held on Sunday, November 9th. This annual united service has now become an established event. Poppies manufactured by disabled veterans will be put on sale on the 8th, distribution being made by the Baptist C.G.I.T. on behalf of the local G.W.V.A. A dance on the night of Thanksgiving is also being planned.

SYNOPSIS OF

PRE-EMPTIONS
 Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emption is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timber land, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emption are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emption must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE
 Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES
 Unreserved areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased on homestead conditions upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES
 For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING
 Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the same administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

The Pedlar's Pack
 By AUTOLYCUS

It is a well known fact that great discoveries have frequently been made by accident, and could almost be classed as by-products of experiments or events which had no apparent relation to them. It would be quite refreshing if it were ultimately found that the reported British arrest of seven Chinese generals should be the basis of the long sought remedy against war. The theory is simplicity itself—take away the heads of the army and all is confusion in the ranks. If someone had thought of this plan in 1914 and arrested Messrs. Hindenberg, Ludendorff and Co. we might have been spared much trouble, but the thing is so simple that it escapes consideration. Mark Twain had a scheme for General Trochu to get out of Paris in 1870, but he said, "I am convinced that he would never think of escaping on a raft floating down the River Seine!" It is only fair to say that Trochu was quoted by Mark to the effect that if he had had the Twain map of Paris he could have got out easily, there being absolutely no obstacles in the way. The artist explained this by relating how every now and then, his graving tool would slip and carry away whole rows of fortifications which he could not replace, and he admitted that rather than go to the trouble of engraving a new map he would cheerfully have left out half the country! However, this is a digression.

If we are to believe Dumas, there was a forcible seizure of General Monk accomplished by the redoubtable D'Artagnan, who conveyed his prisoner to the coast of France in a fishing boat, and made his release more or less conditional on a promise to aid in the restoration of Charles the second. This abduction, however, was a secret affair, and is, I believe, only to be accepted on the authority of that delightful romance "Twenty years after," history being quite silent in the matter. We know that Monk actually did support the restoration, but—D'Artagnan's share in the episode must be regarded as apocryphal. The arrest of the Chinese generals has more substantiation, and seems to infuse in the proceedings an element of the police court which is eminently British and full of common sense. In the latter respect it offers a decided contrast to the Chinese warfare itself, of which no one seems to know the why or the wherefore.

If the League of Nations can eventually develop into an international police force along the lines suggested by the recent interference in China, we may yet see unnecessary warfare considerably discouraged.

The Daily Province is authority for the statement that Vancouver will next month ship 5000 tons of wheat to Vladivostock, this being the first shipment of that commodity from this country to Russia. An editorial on the occasion remarks that sending wheat to Russia seems like sending coal to Newcastle, which is true, but the writer does not touch on the real cause of the present Russian shortage. He says that in the days of Czarism more grain was sent out than that country could afford, the inference being that the importation today is owing to a raising of the standard of living in Russia. Yet we know that for a long time the United States felt it to be a duty on their part to ship wheat to that land to cope with its famine stricken condition. The two things cannot agree, and the logic of facts demonstrates indubitably the truth of the persistent reports of the reluctance of the Russian grower to produce wheat in excess of what he expects to realize on. In other words, when the peasant found that his surplus grain was being practically confiscated by the government for the use of the communist brotherhood, he promptly declined to sow more than enough for his own family needs. Following that widespread revolt came a partial crop failure, and famine was the inevitable result. So far as the world in general is able to know, the confiscation has been considerably modified, with the natural result of increased acreage under cultivation, but it is quite evident that production is not up to requirements. This conclusion is so obvious on the evidence that it seems quite unnecessary to hark back and blame Czarism for excessive exports of the years gone by. Generally speaking, a country's exports are a reliable guide to its measure of prosperity and why it should not be so where Russia is concerned is not very clear. It is much more reasonable to admit that that unfortunate country has been turned topsy turvy by the insanity of communist dictators, and that it is slowly recovering its equilibrium in direct ratio to its return to sane conditions.

The same editorial goes on to point out that there is a great opening to supply the demand for manufactured goods, and that if Vancouver "plays her cards skilfully" she should get a fair share of the business. Well, if we are to compare the operations of trade with the manipulations of a poker game, it is quite justifiable to refer to the risk of an opponent's four-flushing, and to suggest that in all business transacted with a country which thinks nothing of repudiating its past debts, the trader should make fairly sure that he will be paid for his goods. The article referred to makes mention of the British loan tentatively promised, but, seeing that the chances of that ill advised agreement being ratified are exceedingly small, it is out of the question to rely on it. Vancouver will doubtless get its share of trade in all markets available for cultivation and does not need to take any risks out of the ordinary course.

LEGAL RIGHTS OF LANDOWNERS TO PREVENT SHOOTING

Section of Game Act Which Bears Upon Question.

As the pheasant shooting season is now on, the following quotation from the Game Act in respect to the rights of land owners to prevent shooting on their property will be of interest to many sportsmen in this district:

Rights of Land Owners
 "Sec. 12 (1). No person shall at any time enter, with any firearm or trap in his possession, or permit his dog to enter any growing or standing grain or upon any cleared land or land under cultivation, not his own, without the permission of the owner; and no person shall at any time hunt, shoot or trap, or with any firearm or trap in his possession go upon any enclosed land of another without permission of the owner, lessee, or occupant thereof. 'Enclosed land' in this section shall mean any land enclosed by a fence, water or other natural boundary, or by a dyke or ditch upon which notices that such a boundary are posted along said dyke or ditch at intervals not more than three hundred feet apart, or partly by fence and partly by water or other natural boundary, or dyke or ditch as aforesaid, and in use for agricultural, pastoral or horticultural purposes or for breeding any animal protected by this Act. The word 'fence' in this section shall not necessarily mean a lawful fence as defined by Statute, but shall mean any fence whatsoever."

BETTER AIR CONTROL GIVES MORE MILEAGE

Automatic control of the air that should be mixed with fuel to produce maximum efficiency for the automobile motor is achieved by an ingenious magnetic coil device attached to the generator of the car, and containing an air intake that leads through a pipe to the intake manifold.

The air intake is regulated by a valve attached to the magnetic armature and works against an adjustable spring.

When the engine speeds up, the generator increases the power of the magnet, opens the valve, and admits more air into the intake. Similarly the valve closes as the motor slows down. This apparatus, it is claimed, will increase gasoline mileage from 30 to 90 per cent.—Popular Science Monthly.

in a strange town or a strange hotel, although he has never had such an experience, and is quite unable to think of any basis for the recurring vision. There may, in cases of the kind, be an inherited fear as a possible explanation and the surmise opens the door to unlimited conjecture. But, for the most part, dream-land remains an unexplorable country.

AUTOLYCUS.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF DREAMS

The most beautiful verse in one of the most beautiful hymns ever written, reads thus:—

"Time, like an ever rolling stream,
 Bears all its sons away;
 They fly, forgotten, as a dream
 Dies at the opening day."

The simile of a dream dying with the coming of daylight is perfect in that dreams linger in the memory indefinitely, just as do our thoughts of those who have gone, however faint the impression become by the lapse of time. The shadow of a dream persists, even though "a dream itself is but a shadow." The psychology of dreams is a fascinating subject, and has always been a source of speculation to man. We are happily past the time when dreams were held to be definite warnings of events to come, and look upon them as symptoms of physical or mental disturbances which may in many instances be controlled. But it is interesting to analyze the medley of visions which sometimes pass before us in our sleep, and trace them back to certain occurrences, or impressions of the day. They will often be found to reflect our waking thoughts, and piece themselves together in such fashion as will admit of later disentanglement. The most baffling dreams are those which in some cases recur over and over again at uncertain intervals, and yet appear to have no foundation in our daily life. A friend of mine has for many years dreamed repeatedly of losing himself

 Town and District

A Conservative rally was held in Naramata Hall on Monday evening, when the electors became acquainted with Mr. Grote Stirling, conservative candidate for Yale. Mr. A. C. Horswill presided as chairman. The speakers were Mr. Stirling, Mr. Dickie, member for Nanaimo, Mr. J. M. Robinson, Mr. J. W. Jones, M. L. A. and the Hon. Dr. Tolmie. Mr. Stirling made a very favorable impression on the audience, which fully appreciated the facts and arguments advanced by him, and later by the other speakers. Dr. Tolmie read some remarkable figures on the one-sided balance of the tariffs as between the United States and Canada and this country and the States, and dwelt on the folly of continuing such a condition. The meeting closed at 10.30 with the singing of the National Anthem.

WOMAN SPEAKER AT ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Generous Collection at Annual Thankoffering.

The annual thankoffering meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. was held in the church Tuesday evening, Rev. W. A. Alexander in the chair. After the opening prayer, and singing of a hymn, Mrs. S. A. MacDonald rendered a beautiful sacred solo, in a very pleasing manner, much to the delight of the well filled church.

The chairman introduced Mrs. J. A. Dow of Kelowna, who gave the address of the evening. Beginning with the work of the first missionaries, she showed, step by step, how the movement had evolved to its present gigantic enterprise, supporting colleges, schools, hospitals, dispensaries, etc.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Dow for her practical enlightening address. A generous collection, amounting to about seventy-five dollars, and the singing of another hymn and prayer by Miss Sinclair, brought the meeting to a close.—Cont.

Stirling Makes Good Impression

teeting the fruit industry against dumping fruit and when he returned to Ottawa told the government that assistance must be given. The new measure again made the "fair market value" the basis and left its enforcement entirely in the hands of the cabinet. Mr. Bureau, Minister of Customs, is likely to be replaced. What will be the view of the new minister, asked Mr. Stirling, who is likely to be a Progressive?

He quoted Mr. McBride, Liberal member for Kamloops, as opposing justice to the Okanagan. Hon. Dr. King had also voted for his party against protection for Okanagan fruit.

Why Elect Him?

My opponents will ask you, said Mr. Stirling, what help can you expect if you return an opposition man? The needed protection can only come from the government and the government receives its instructions from the electorate. A vote for his opponent would be an endorsement of the present government's policy.

Mr. Jones, speaking in support of the Conservative candidate, said that Mr. Stirling had been selected because he was specially qualified to represent this riding. For twelve years he has been a fruit grower in the Okanagan. He is a scrapper, has backbone and the "get there" habit. He knows and will press home to the government the problems of this district.

Progressives Control

Canada is ruled at present by a minority government. Progressives having the balance of power. The ideal of the Progressive party is tariff reduction, looking to free trade. Millions of dollars have been invested in our fruit industry which had received protection from the Conservatives when tariff was increased from 13 cents to 30 cents a box. We all know what the country is suffering under and of the tremendous exodus of population. One hundred and eighty-two thousand people emigrated to the United States last year, according to United States official records. Probably the figures were more nearly a quarter of a million. Twenty-six thousand went from British Columbia. Are our mothers going to stand for this? It is time our young people were able to make a comfortable living without going to the States. Exodus has steadily increased since 1921 and the first half of 1924 showed no improvement. In six months 96,825 had gone to the States. Immigration to the States in three months was 13,748.

Factories Close

The exodus was due to unemployment, export of raw material being one reason for this. One thousand three hundred and forty-one factories had been closed down in the two years since the McKenzie King government came into office. The speaker quoted a number of figures to show the great reduction in employment and payrolls.

Mr. Jones also dealt with anti-dumping and referred to his efforts to get a resolution through the provincial house asking the federal government to give protection to Okanagan fruit against the dumped American fruit. Last year 1,068 cars of American fruit came into the prairie provinces, as compared with 952 the year before.

Clause to Remain

In the spring of 1922, shortly after the King government was elected, Mayor Sutherland of Kelowna, now Liberal candidate, and ex-mayor Coasitt of Vernon, were sent down to Ottawa to demand that the Meighon anti-dumping clause or similar legislation be kept in force. When they returned they gave their reports to their boards of trade, Mayor Sutherland stating at Kelowna that the government had no thought of making any change. The cabinet, with the exception of Mr. Floding, were all high tariff men. There was no danger of the anti-dumping law being abolished. This was in March and in May the damage had been done, with the result that importations were considerably increased. Yet, said Mr. Jones, Mr. Sutherland says that no man can do more for Yale than can he.

The Conservatives believe in a moderate protective tariff. Hon. Dr. King at Nanaimo the other day said his party is not protectionist, but Liberal. They are prepared, said Mr. Jones, to allow the American fruit to come in.

C.N.R. Branch

The late Mr. MacKelvie had pressed strongly for the Okanagan branch of the C.N.R., prior to the election and again after the King government was elected. He had put up a wonderful fight. No man had worked harder for this branch line, unless it was Thos. Bulman. Mr. Sutherland, said the speaker, has added his name to these two. My mind goes back many years, and I wonder just what he did.

The Okanagan wants the C.N.R. branch line because it will open the central and northern part of British Columbia for our fruit. That section is now supplied with American fruit. It will give us access to a much wider market. Mr. MacKelvie had put up a wonderful fight and when he died there were many who felt heart sick. Mr. Stirling as president of the Kelowna board of trade, worked day and night to get the measure through. The bill passed the Commons and went to the Senate and was approved 56 to 12, practically every Conservative senator voting for it.

Caused Amazement

Continuing, Mr. Jones said they felt that the matter had then been settled and expected a return to fairly rosy conditions. Sir Henry Thornton, when here, had told Mr. Stirling that tenders would be called for the building of the Okanagan branch when he returned to Montreal. There was great amazement when information was received recently that the matter was the subject of negotiation between C.N.R. and C.P.R. There were absolutely no strings to the bill as it passed the Commons and Senate. The government was simply passing the buck, declared Mr. Jones. The Senate had been told by the government representatives in that chamber that the King government would not mind if the bill was turned down.

Stirling Will Fight

Sir George Foster, Conservative, had declared that in the interests of the Canadian National, of the fruit growers and the country generally the Okanagan branch should be completed. Mr. Sutherland will try to make out that Conservative senators voted against the bill, but the vote 56 to 12 was definite enough. Mr. Sutherland himself is only halfhearted in respect to the line. The speaker asked the people to judge Mr. Sutherland in relation to anti-dumping measures and his attitude toward the C.N.R. It is all the more necessary, declared Mr. Jones, that we have a gentleman of the calibre of Mr. Stirling to represent us. You will have to weigh up the two men. Consider the vital matters affecting us. A riding never loses anything in opposition if it has a fighting representative. Much better to have a man of this type than a government party man who may be afraid to voice his views lest he offend his party. If you vote for Sutherland you will endorse the Liberal-Progressive alliance.

Mr. Jones referred briefly to Dr. R. G. Manion as an ex-soldier, one who had served in the Meighon cabinet as Minister of the S.C.R. and who, in that capacity, did excellent service for the returned men.

"Valley of the Gods"
Dr. Manion is a very brilliant and fluent speaker. He had been on the platform with many new candidates, but he had never met one who had a better grip of his subject than has Mr. Stirling. He had deep sympathy for the constituency in the loss of Mr. MacKelvie, who always knew whom he spoke and never spoke without having something to say. He was greatly respected in the House.

Touching upon the beauties of the Okanagan, which he was visiting for the first time, the speaker said it might well be called the Valley of the gods.

Why Oppose King?

Dr. Manion advanced a number of reasons why a government representative should not be supported: the most inefficient government Canada has ever possessed; 100 per cent failure to carry out pro-election promises, such as cash bonus to returned soldiers, who had found it more difficult to get fair dealing under the present government. High cost of living has not been brought down as promised. Trusts, combines and murders were to be wiped out. Economy was to be brought about but the speaker quoted statements of the finance department for six months ending September 30th, to prove the contrary. Revenue had been reduced but expenditures increased. Three millions had been paid for a C.N.R. office building in Paris, where the C.P.R. rents; four millions for another in London.

Inefficiency

In support of his claims of government inefficiency, he referred to the Act establishing a wheat board, so impracticable that a man could not be found to take the chairmanship at any price. Legislation to regulate lake freight rates drove all the American boats from Canadian waters until finally the government had to plead the American ships to come back and ignore the law. The Liberals accused the Conservatives of being a government by commission, but they had spent a million dollars in royal commissions, more than the Conservatives had spent in ten years.

Government to Blame

There was no one to blame but the government for the failure to build the Kamloops-Kelowna branch line. There was no mention in the bill of dealings with the C.P.R. Clause 7 authorized the government "to proceed forthwith" (this was July 14th) and also empowered it to make advances from the consolidated fund for building the line. The only reason the line is not being built is because the government is not disposed to build it. They may now, as a bribe, promise to build the line or may even put some men to work.

Protectionists Proper

No section of Canada requires protection as much as the Okanagan. The entire country would progress under reasonable protection. Germany and United States, for some years the most highly protected countries in the world, made the most rapid advances, overtaking England. United States bars out our products and yet the Progressives would admit theirs and they tell us we must compete with the world or go out of business. Lower tariffs will mean more unemployment. Fifty mayors in Ontario recently appealed to the province for help to care for their unemployed. "The cheapest countries are the poorest in the world, the dearest the most prosperous. We want work and wages. Lower tariffs will wipe out our industries, including fruit growing. We must have protection against cheap foreign labor and this the Conservatives will give. If Mr. Stirling is sent to Ottawa he will be free to get up and fight for the Okanagan.

Australian Fruit

Dr. Manion quoted from a const paper a list of articles which the government proposes to admit from Australia on lower tariff. They include eggs, butter, meats, lard, tallow, cheese, tomatoes and other vegetables, canned fruits and jams. How anyone can vote against Mr. Stirling in view of this the speaker could not understand. A vote against Stirling will be endorsing the King policy with respect to the branch line, anti-dumping, the wiping out of the duties and lower tariffs on Australian products entering this country in competition with our own.

boys went quietly out.

Closing Session

Sunday evening after the usual service there was a final meeting of the conference. H. Hobbs (Grand Praetor) gave his impressions of the conference, followed by M. Fish who also gave his impressions, stating that he was sure it had done all the boys good. Following this the Scriptor's report was called for. The Comptor afterwards gave the financial standing of the conference.

Mr. Statten gave an interesting talk to the older people about boys, and also to the boys themselves. A collection was taken to defray what little expenses there were. The boys were asked to join hands and sing "Blest be the tie that binds, after which Rev. A. E. Roberts closed the meeting with the benediction, and the Grand Praetor stepped forward and declared the Pentecost conference of Tuxis work closed.

LOCAL SCHOOLS WIN MEDALS

Waterman, who is given a certificate. As noted above, these pupils were in competition with others throughout the entire Vernon fire district.

In addition to the medals and certificates, each winner received a personal letter from the chief forester. The medals bear the words, "Forest protective prize essay," and engraved on each is the name of the winner. The reverse side of the medal bears a relief picture of a forest and mountain view.

Audrey Reynolds submitted an essay which would have also won her a medal, but for the fact that she was not eligible due to her father being firewarden.

On Monday afternoon the lady members of the board, Mrs. Solly and Miss Sinclair, officiated at the presentation of the medals. A brief speech was made by Mrs. Solly and the medals were distributed by Miss Sinclair.

from Canadian waters until finally the government had to plead the American ships to come back and ignore the law. The Liberals accused the Conservatives of being a government by commission, but they had spent a million dollars in royal commissions, more than the Conservatives had spent in ten years.

Government to Blame

There was no one to blame but the government for the failure to build the Kamloops-Kelowna branch line. There was no mention in the bill of dealings with the C.P.R. Clause 7 authorized the government "to proceed forthwith" (this was July 14th) and also empowered it to make advances from the consolidated fund for building the line. The only reason the line is not being built is because the government is not disposed to build it. They may now, as a bribe, promise to build the line or may even put some men to work.

Protectionists Proper

No section of Canada requires protection as much as the Okanagan. The entire country would progress under reasonable protection. Germany and United States, for some years the most highly protected countries in the world, made the most rapid advances, overtaking England. United States bars out our products and yet the Progressives would admit theirs and they tell us we must compete with the world or go out of business. Lower tariffs will mean more unemployment. Fifty mayors in Ontario recently appealed to the province for help to care for their unemployed. "The cheapest countries are the poorest in the world, the dearest the most prosperous. We want work and wages. Lower tariffs will wipe out our industries, including fruit growing. We must have protection against cheap foreign labor and this the Conservatives will give. If Mr. Stirling is sent to Ottawa he will be free to get up and fight for the Okanagan.

Australian Fruit

Dr. Manion quoted from a const paper a list of articles which the government proposes to admit from Australia on lower tariff. They include eggs, butter, meats, lard, tallow, cheese, tomatoes and other vegetables, canned fruits and jams. How anyone can vote against Mr. Stirling in view of this the speaker could not understand. A vote against Stirling will be endorsing the King policy with respect to the branch line, anti-dumping, the wiping out of the duties and lower tariffs on Australian products entering this country in competition with our own.

PEACHLAND DOINGS

A Weekly Chronicle Furnished By Our Local Representative.

Dr. Tolmie and Mr. Norris of Kelowna made a short call at Peachland on Monday and met members of the local Conservative association in connection with the forthcoming federal by-election. They were motoring southward.

The Misses K. and J. Baird, of Stanford, Conn., cousins of Mrs. Wm. Douglas, are spending a short time visiting in the Douglas home. They came this way on a tour taking in the Coast cities.

Mrs. Vivian and Mrs. Lingo spent Tuesday in Kelowna.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. was held at the home of Mrs. P. N. Dorland. Mrs. Bulyea led the devotional exercise, choosing for her subject, "Prayer," especially as it could be applied in connection with the plebiscite to be taken on Thursday, October 23rd, on the liquor question. Mrs. Dorland was appointed superintendent of the scientific temperance instruction department of the local union. Details of arrangements for a lecture to be given by Mr. Kelley sometime in November were left to a committee to work out.

The Rev. H. Feir, B.A., Presbyterian minister at Oliver spent the week end here and assisted the Rev. T. A. Sadler with the service in Westbank Sunday afternoon and the evening. On Monday evening the church social held in the municipal hall was well attended, almost to the capacity of the hall. Mr. Feir also assisted on the program for the evening. There were choruses by the members of the Women's Circle; selection by the choir; violin solos by Mr. Cooper accompanied by Mrs. Lambly; vocal solos by Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Elliott and a reading by Mrs. Dryden, entitled "A Scotch Sermon." Mrs. Hyde officiated at the piano for the choruses and also during the serving of refreshments. Another feature of the program was a number of selections on the gramophone, by Mr. McBean, among them being the message of the King and Queen; song, "God bless the Prince of Wales" and the address of the Prince of Wales on "Sportsmanship." Quite a number of Westbank friends motored down for the occasion. The ladies served sandwiches, cake and coffee.

Mrs. Winger and her two daughters Doris and Katie came up from Penticton on Saturday to pay a short visit to their Peachland home. They motored up with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Moore and daughter Annie, who visited relatives here and at Powers Creek.

Mr. G. A. McBain is making quite a change in his new property, by having the front house, the original Nash drug store, cut in two and moved further back on the lot. W. D. Miller, Waldriff, Mills and Williams did the moving.

Dominion Farm Employee Instantly Killed When Struck by Falling Tree

Nelson Hardy Victim of Dismal Accident in Hills On Monday.

COMPANIONS GIVE STORY OF ACCIDENT

Body Brought Out on Pack Horse Accompanied by Stricken Wife.

Struck by a falling tree, Nelson Hardy, an employee of the Dominion experimental farm, was instantly killed on Monday afternoon about two o'clock, while at work at the storage dam being built by the farm on Crescent Lake, near the municipal reservoirs at the headwaters of Trout Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardy, who had been married just before coming to Summerland, joined the staff of the local farm the first of April last, coming from Agassiz, where Mr. Hardy had been employed on the Dominion experimental farm.

Eye Witness Tells Story

Brent, in his own words, gave a very complete story of the accident. The men were cutting trees standing near the dam and shortly after one o'clock felled a big pine which the men were busy trimming and cutting up where it lay across the dam, when another tree fell without warning.

According to Brent, he had cut into this latter tree, which was dead, and found it sound and Mr. Hardy had stated that they would tackle it next and use it for firewood. Five of the men were working on the green tree when Wm. Inglis shouted, "Look out," and Brent in his evidence stated that, looking up, he saw the dry tree falling toward the men. Four of them jumped the green log and ran and when he started to run he saw Mr. Hardy in a stooping position as though still clearing up brush.

Wind Blew Down Dead Tree

Koefe told much the same story, although he had not actually seen Mr. Hardy struck, but an instant after noticed him down and was the first to reach him. He was lying about four or five feet from the broken end of the tree. The wind had started up and had caused the dead tree to fall. The roots were rotten although the trunk was sound. The jury members were Wm. Johnston, foreman, T. A. Walden, J. C. Melvin, V. M. Lockwood, Horace Road, and Alex. Smith.

Sweeping Victory For Conservatives

Growers Get Returns for Plums, Peaches and Early Apples

Occidental Fruit Company have sent out settlements this week for plums, Crawford and Elberta peaches, Gravensteins, Kings and Hyslops. They paid the growers the following prices: plums 1s 3.6 cents, 2s 2.7 cents, peaches 1s 5.3 cents, 2s 4 cents, Hyslops EF 2 1/2 cents, F 2 1-3 cents, Gravensteins wrapped 2 1/2 cents, crates 2.2 cents, Kings wrapped 2 1/2 cents, crates 2 1/4 cents.

STREET LIGHTS FOR CHRISTMAS—PERHAPS

News Received of Intended Shipment of Transformer

Coun. Bristow, chairman of the electric light committee, reported at the meeting of the council on Monday that no information of the shipment from Toronto of the street lighting transformer had yet been received. A letter to the electrician from the Vancouver office of the manufacturers dated October 23rd, also stated that no news of shipment had been received there.

MAY EFFECT A BIG SAVING

May Not Rebuild Section of Flume in Garnett Valley—To Get Estimates.

Elimination of the main flume on the west side of Garnett Valley for a distance of about a mile and a half from the intake down the valley was debated at the regular meeting of the council on Monday. Several members of the council had been up the valley to adjust some differences with J. Damsdon, in connection with the system and it was then that Mr. Damsdon made the suggestion that the east flume be enlarged to carry the entire quantity of water, the necessary amount for the west side being carried across in a pipe at the municipal property known as the Glennie lot.

The suggestion carries several advantages. It would eliminate the maintenance of a second flume for that distance, save cost of most expensive construction and would do away with the trouble now experienced in providing crossings. There would also be but the one flume for the ditchman to traverse. As against this there would be the cost of enlarging the eastern channel and providing and laying the pipe. By rough figuring the several members of the council estimated a saving of three or four thousand dollars in construction and all agreed that there would be an annual saving in maintenance.

MUNICIPAL FUNDS ARE WELL INVESTED

Further Sum to be Used in Purchase of Dominion Bonds.

Five thousand dollars of municipal sinking fund moneys will be invested by the council in 1944 Dominion bonds, bearing interest at 4 1/2 per cent, according to pending arrangements. The purchase price will be about 97 1/4.

In connection with the investment of municipal sinking funds the report of the treasurer is interesting. The average yield of the money invested in various securities is 4.95, practically 5 per cent, a gain of practically 1 per cent over the required revenue from this source.

PAYMENT TO GROWERS BY CO-OPERATIVE

Statements Cover Balance of Early Fruit and Vegetables.

PAYMENT ON ACCOUNT MADE ON MCINTOSHES

Finances in Much Better Condition—Local Pool Aids Settlement.

Summerland Co-operative this week distributed $26,000 among members, this being the second payment this month. The earlier payment totalled about $17,000. Prior to that between $8,000 and $9,000 was distributed, for earlier fruits. This indicates a marked improvement in the condition of the Co-operative, as last year the first payment was not made until along in November.

Statements sent out this week cover early apples, early pears, plums, peaches, tomatoes, cucumbers and peppers. There was also a payment of 50 cents per box on account of McIntosh apples and a final payment of 1 1/4 cents on Bing cherries.

Here are some prices paid the growers: Duchess F .96; C .69; cr. .67; Early Harvest F $1.30, cr. .79; Liveland Raspberry F $1.18, cr. .61; Red Astrachan F $1.21, C .72, cr. .66; Sweet Bough F $1.30, cr. .69; Yellow Transparent F $1.09, cr. .70; Pears: Bartlett F $1.76, C $1.45; Boussock F $1.57, C $1.34; Clapp's Favorite F $1.71, C $1.43; Flemish Beauty F $1.76, C $1.45. Plums: Black Diamond 1s .77, 2s .50 1/2; Bradshaw 1s .76, 2s .54 1/2; Damson .88; Grand Duke 1s .68, 2s .52 1/2; Green Gage .88; Netarine 1s .88, 2s .63 1/2; Pond Seedling 1s .70, 2s .51 1/2; Tra-gedy .76; Yellow Egg 1s .69, 2s .51. Peaches: Bello of Georgia 1s .97 1/2, 2s .74 1/2; Champion 1s .77, 2s .53 1/2; Crawford 1s $1.00 1/2, 2s .93; Elberta 1s $1.06 1/2, 2s .81 1/2; Yellow St. John 1s .93 1/2, 2s .56 1/2. Tomatoes, pool No. 7 $1.03 1/4; pool No. 8 .51; No. 9 .31 1/2. Cucumbers .28. Peppers .81 1/2.

Packing charges have all been deducted from above figures. Capital investment deductions are included. These are for central and local combined, seven cents a package on apples and pears, and three and one-half cents on plums and all other packages.

Those growers who delivered their fruit to the upper warehouse received one cent per package less than above

VALLEY FRUIT WINS AGAIN

Exhibit of Associated Makes Clean-up at Imperial Fruit Show.

First reports from the Imperial Fruit Show indicate that the Associated made almost a clean sweep in the matter of prizes. With sixteen entries the growers' organization took fourteen firsts and one second prize, only one entry failing to score.

In the British Empire section, consisting of two classes, dessert and culinary, the Associated was awarded first prize in both classes, taking the dessert class with McIntosh Red and the culinary with Rhode Island Greening.

In the overseas section the Associated entered in fourteen classes and took twelve first prizes for the following: Wealthy, Snow, McIntosh, Jonathan, Cox Orange, Spitzenberg, Yellow Newtown, Wagner, King, Northern Spy, Greening, Delicious. Blenheim Orange was awarded second prize for that variety.

No further details have been received but it follows from the results given that in addition to the gold medals, the Associated will receive approximately $115 in cash prizes, and will have to their credit one winning of the Silver Challenge Cups, which must be won two years in succession or three times before they become the property of the winner.

Considering the increased competition, there being three times as many entries from Canada as in 1923, this is a remarkable achievement and should be a valuable advertisement of our fruit in the British markets.

MEIGHEN SPEAKS HERE TOMORROW

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Conservative opposition in the Dominion parliament, will speak in the Empire Hall tomorrow, Friday afternoon in support of the Conservative candidate in the Yale by-election.

Mr. Meighen is a debater of exceptional ability and a very interesting speaker and undoubtedly will attract a large audience. He was heard here once shortly before the last Dominion election.

With both the premier and the leader of the opposition giving their explanations of their different policies, the political situation should be clearly placed before the electors.

Generally speaking the financial condition of the Co-operative is greatly improved over that of last year. Of a credit of $80,000 arranged with the bank early in the season only $80,000 was borrowed and this had all been paid back some weeks ago. The local pool, it is stated, has contributed to the better financing and to earlier payments to growers. Local pool terminates with the early fruits and does not apply on apples.

COUNCIL IS SELLING MORE OLD BUILDINGS

Offers for Two Barns Near Empire Hall Accepted.

Tenders from three or four citizens, privately invited, for two stables, one north of the Empire Hall and the other east of the Chinese laundry, a few yards west of the hall, were considered by the council on Monday.

The offer of P. Laidlaw to pay twenty dollars for the former was accepted, as was the offer of G. H. Doherty of thirty dollars for the one near the laundry. In both cases they are to remove the buildings and clean up the lots.

TEACHERS OF VALLEY HOLD CONVENTION

Large Number Assembled at Kelowna for Annual Meeting.

REPORT ON INTER-SCHOOL SPORTS Many Phases of Profession Discussed—Some Excellent Speeches.

The annual convention of the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Association was held in Kelowna on Thursday and Friday, October 23rd and 24th, with an attendance of about a hundred teachers.

The proceedings opened with the annual business meeting of the Okanagan Valley Schools Athletic Association, at which reports were adopted and a new executive elected. The very successful track meets of last year were briefly discussed, and the treasurer reported a small cash balance in the bank, but arrangements for next year's meet were left for the special meeting called each spring. The new executive consisted of president, L. B. Boggs, Penticton; secretary-treasurer, R. Lyons, Penticton; and a committee composed of one delegate from each public, superior and high school in the Valley.

The members of the O.V.T.A. then gathered in the auditorium of the public school for registration, appointment of committees, and other business. Owing to the shortness of

WOULD SAFEGUARD MEADOW PROPERTIES

Land Will Be Flooded Unless Creek Channel Enlarged.

That the channel of Prairie Creek through the meadows will have to be cleared and deepened before the full flow of the creek is turned back to its winter course was the statement of Coun. Johnston at Monday's meeting of the council. With Coun. Smith he had examined the channel and, though only carrying a portion of the water, it was found to be at the point of overflowing at several places. Much of the water is now travelling through the irrigation canal and this will have to be changed when frosty weather starts.

To save the properties from being inundated, considerable work is necessary. The council agreed that the municipality should stand a portion of the expense of cleaning out and deepening the creek channel.

The discussion ended with the decision to ask the owners of the properties affected to meet the council next Monday afternoon. Messrs. Agur, Dale, Rippin, Campbell and Inayoshi and Kodama are those concerned.

If requested by lot owners, arrangements will be made by the municipality to give property along Prairie Valley ditch a late irrigation.

BULMAN FAVORS SUTHERLAND

Would Let Liberals Have By-Election as An Appreciation.

Liberals throughout Yale district are rejoicing over the published statement that Thos. Bulman, president of the United Farmers, a well known and active leader among fruit growers and a lifelong Conservative, has come out flat-footedly in favor of the Liberal candidate.

At a meeting at Ellison, near Kelowna, Monday night, he was called upon to explain certain technicalities regarding the anti-dumping regulations of the present government. In his remarks he called upon fruit producers to consider their own interests and to send to Ottawa a representative of the government that has done more for the fruit growers than any other.

Mr. Bulman is quoted as saying: "In a by-election in which fiscal policies are not at stake, it is well to look things squarely in the face. We know what the government has done for us and now it is asking us what we think of what it has done. In my opinion, it is absolutely necessary that we should reciprocate the treatment we have received."

CONDITIONS REVERSED

It has been customary in the past for Eastern pulp mills to ship apple wraps to B.C. but the tide has turned and these paper wrappers suitable for fruit covering are now being shipped from New Westminster to Montreal in fairly large quantities.

Story of Disaster Told By An Occupant of Wrecked Car.

BOMB PLACED UNDER PETER VEREGIN

Passengers of Ill Fated Car Thrown to Ditch Beside Railway.

Latest News: Nine are dead as the result of the blowing up of the C. P.R. Nelson-Vancouver train yesterday morning. That it has been definitely ascertained that the bomb which caused the wreck was placed directly under the seat of Peter Veregin, is stated on good authority. One of Veregin's legs was blown off.

Five are dead and another reported last night to be dying and fifteen others are seriously injured as the result of an explosion in the day coach of the K.V.R. westbound train due here Wednesday noon. The terrible calamity occurred at one o'clock Wednesday morning while the train was moving very slowly about two miles this side of Farron, near the summit between Castlegar and Grand Forks.

John McKie, M. L. A. of Grand Forks and Peter Veregin, the Doukhobor leader, are among the dead. A Doukhobor woman, a Doukhobor man and another man among the dead have not been identified. Harry Bishop of Nelson is reported dying. The list of injured contains the names of several Doukhobors.

According to an official statement issued by D. C. Coleman, vice president of western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the explosion was caused by some human agency within the car, either intentional or accidental. That the wreck was not caused by the explosion of a gas tank beneath the car has been proven by investigation. It is the general opinion that a bomb intended for assassination had been placed in the car. Provincial police, railway officials and Doukhobors were on the scene yesterday investigating the possibility of a plot to destroy Peter Veregin, the Doukhobor leader. His body was taken to Brilliant, the Doukhobor colony near Nelson.

A special train conveyed doctors and nurses from Nelson to Castlegar to meet the sleeper in which dead and wounded had been placed and sent back to Nelson. Other victims were brought west to Grand Forks and are in hospital there.

Only the day coach was damaged and it was consumed by fire which followed the explosion.

Mr. McKie was on his way from Nelson to his home at Grand Forks. At the provincial election in June last, he defeated E. C. Honniger, city Liberal member and C. A. S. Atwood, provincial in the Grand Forks-Greenwood contest.

F. W. Shavor of Kelowna, one of three survivors of the accident who continued their journey westward beyond Grand Forks, passed through Summerland early Wednesday afternoon. He was suffering considerably but related briefly to The Review what he knew of the accident.

It occurred about midnight, about two miles west of Farron, a little station on the summit between Grand Forks and Castlegar. The day coach in which he was riding was practically filled with passengers and he is very confident that a bomb or similar instrument of destruction placed within the car was the cause of the wreck.

He believes that he was not unconscious more than a half minute but when he recovered his senses, he found himself on a section of the wall of the car which had been forced outward but was still adhering to the frame. Almost instantly the car was ablaze, the fire being fed by the illuminating gas. Near him was an elderly man who was calling for help, and whose grey hair was already singed with the fire, and he pulled him out and the latter rolled off the

Premier W. L. McKenzie King Heard By Large Audience in Empire Hall

Emphasizing the point that the contest in Yale is only a by-election and that it will not result in the defeat or election of any party, Premier King, before a large audience in Empire Hall on Saturday, asked that the hand of the government be strengthened in order to make possible the carrying out of his western policy and also as an endorsement, expression of goodwill and response to what he has done for the west and which he outlined in detail.

Empire Hall was well filled at two-thirty, the hour of the meeting, but, unfortunately, there was considerable delay in the arrival of the premier and his party from Kelowna with the result that quite a number had gone away before the meeting opened. Minister of Public Works Dr. J. H. King was the first to arrive, about 8.30, and spoke until the arrival of the premier a little later. Much of Dr. King's statements were covered again by the premier, who was introduced by the chairman, J. R. Brown, as a worthy successor of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Premier Honors Late Member

Referring to the occasion of the by-election, the premier expressed highest appreciation of the late J. A. MacKielvie, M.P., as a citizen and a public man. He had taken a prominent part in the affairs of the country, was a great public servant and foremost citizen.

This is a by-election, continued the premier, and you are not called upon to decide the fate of the government but your own fate. You are asked to decide whether it is to your interests to send someone to assist us in our policies for the west or one to oppose us.

Referring not to make any promises the premier went on to tell something of what his government had done for western Canada. When asked to form a government following the last general election, the premier said he had found a serious situation, because he had received so few supporters from the west. The question was would he form a cabinet from the east or would he try to give representation in the cabinet to every province.

Western Men In Cabinet

Mr. Motherwell, elected from Saskatchewan, was a man of experience and he chose him as Minister of Agriculture. There was not a Liberal from Alberta and the Progressives were not willing to vacate a seat to open the way for a cabinet representative. Finally a seat in the Quebec province was found for Mr. Stewart of Alberta and in this way that province was given a seat in the cabinet. There were three Liberals returned from British Columbia, but none with any large experience.

Mr. and Mrs. Reader

Did you ever stop to think that this newspaper is YOUR newspaper?

Well, it is!

The editor and all his force are working for YOU. They want to build the kind of a paper that YOU want. Why not help them?

What kind of news do YOU like?

What feature in the paper interests YOU most?

What features don't YOU like?

These are simple questions, but they are BIG questions with the editor.

He is spending his time and money every day and every week to make this newspaper the kind of a paper that YOU want in your home.

Why not co-operate?

If something in the paper pleases YOU tell the editor.

If there are articles that don't interest YOU, tell him, too, and tell him why.

No two communities are alike. The editor is all the time studying his community and people.

A word from YOU now and then would help wonderfully.

If YOU have any suggestions send them in.

This is YOUR paper. Let's make it the best paper of any community in the province.

THE FREIGHT RATES.

Okanagan fruit growers will not regret the action of the railway commission in forbidding the favored railway rates from certain points in the east to certain western centres. On the first of this week the extra handicap placed on our fruit by the calling into effect early in July of the Crow's Nest agreement was removed by order of the railway board.

Preferred rates given under this agreement have afforded Ontario fruit an unjust advantage over the product of the Okanagan. Had ours been a bumper crop we would have suffered greatly under the disadvantage. The agreement has outgrown its usefulness to any part of the country. What is needed and what must come in justice to all is a thorough revision of rates east and west. None of us will wish to see those rates so far reduced that the C.P.R. cannot make reasonable profit. In order to leave them a just margin, rates in the east may have to go up slightly in order to give the prairies and this province a square deal.

FOR BETTER MOTOR REGULATIONS.

There can be no general objection to the suggestion made to the Attorney-General by the Automobile Club of British Columbia that all drivers of motor vehicles be licensed. Only in this way can those drivers who are a menace to public safety be kept off the roads.

The club is also asking that magistrates be given power to suspend and cancel a driver's license for breaches of the Motor Vehicles and Highway Acts. The establishment of provincial traffic police and of special automobile courts, as sought by the club, may not meet with as general approval, particularly in the interior. Possibly the need of such for the Coast district may be recognized.

Another commendable move is the effort being made by the club to have the speed limit in British Columbia the same as in nearby states, twenty miles in incorporated municipalities and thirty-five miles on country roads. Variations in speed laws, which a tourist finds, or may not find, as he is passing from district to district, are very confusing and he may innocently find himself in court.

Universal approval will be given the suggestion of the club that the law impose penalties for blocking traffic by slow moving as well as standing vehicles. Other commendable measures are: abolishing of stickers on windshields; standardization of headlights; spotlight regulations, incorporation of hand signals in the Act and establishment of universal right-of-way regulations at intersections.

FAVORITE HYMNS AND THEIR WRITERS

"Onward, Christian Soldiers" (Copyright)

Although we have on this continent as many public holidays as they have in England, if not more, they have some which are little known here, and one of these is Whitsuntide, which falls seven weeks after Easter.

On Whit-Monday, 1865, the children from two small villages were uniting in a school festival. Among other events of the day there was to be a procession, and those in charge were anxious to have a hymn with such a good swing that the young people would heartily join in singing as they marched along. The clergyman of the Anglican church in one of the villages was Rev. S. Baring-Gould, and as he had already written several hymns which people liked, he was asked to write one for the Whit-Monday procession. His response was the stirring hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers." It has been a great favorite with old and young ever since. When first it appeared in "The Church Times" in 1865, there were six stanzas; but one of these has since been omitted.

The author was one of the most versatile and industrious of men. He wrote a very large number of devotional books, and others of a theological nature. In addition to this, he also published for a long time one novel a year, and wrote many articles on general topics.

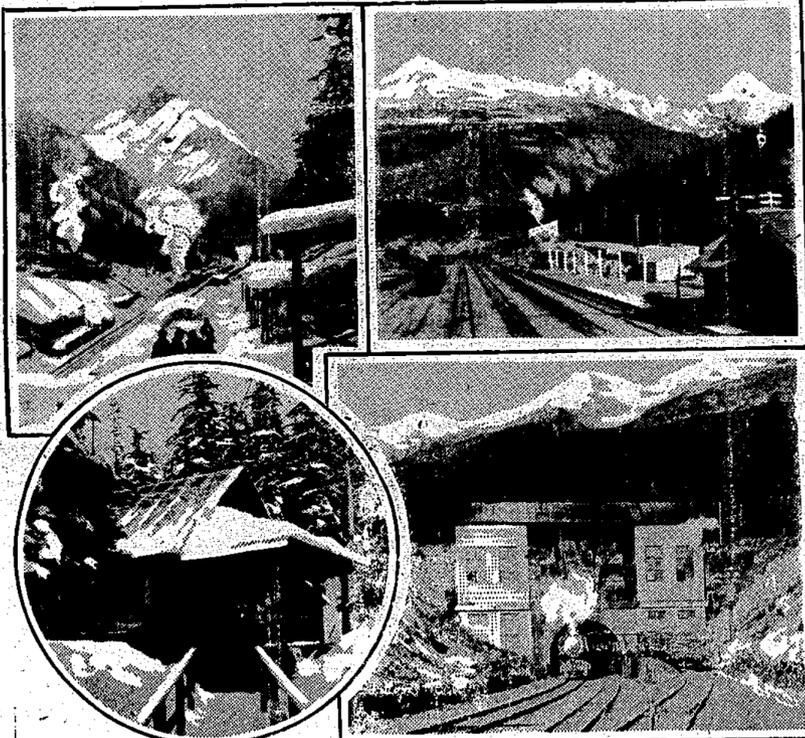

The varied nature of his publications indicates how very wide were the interests of the author. All his work was done with a pen, and without the aid of a secretary. He often did his best work, he states, when he felt the least like work. He never waited for inspiration, but plunged determinedly at his task.

Baring-Gould did not live in a large city. Practically all his life was spent in a few villages, the greater part in a parish where the entire population was only 266. This village was Lew Trenchard, to which he was appointed vicar in 1881, and he remained there until his death in January, 1924. He wrote a great many hymns, the best known of which are, "Onward, Christian Soldiers"; "Now the Day Is Over"; "On the Resurrection Morning"; "Through the Night of Doubt and Sorrow"; "Daily, Daily, Sing the Praises" and a large number of others which are still in use.

Dr. Louis Benson, the famous musical critic, thinks that one reason for the great popularity of "Onward, Christian Soldiers" on the American continent, was the fact that it first appeared here at the close of the Civil War. The martial spirit engendered by the war, together with the magnificent tune for the hymn, which was written by Mr. Arthur S. Sullivan in 1871, accounted in some degree, at least, for its immediate popularity and the abiding place which it seems to have in the hymnology of the church.

LINING THE CONNAUGHT TUNNEL

Upper left.—In spite of heavy snowfalls and severe weather the work of lining the Connaught Tunnel is continued throughout the winter months. The cloud-wrapped heights of Mount Abbott and Ross Peak stand as western sentinels of the little town. Upper right.—Glacier, B.C., showing Mount Macdonald, 9,022 feet, through which the five mile Connaught Tunnel passes. Eagle Peak, 9,353, is in the centre of the picture and Mount Sir Donald, one of the most beautiful peaks in the Canadian Rockies, with an altitude of 10,000 feet, is on the extreme right. Lower left.—The resident engineer's bungalow, built among great evergreens on the banks of the Illecillewaet River. Lower right.—Western Portal of the Connaught Tunnel, showing the fan house and the two huge 14 ft. steel fans which ventilate the "big hole."

High up on the crest of the lofty Selkirk with half a dozen of the finest mountain peaks in the world hunching their snow-clad shoulders about its rows of trim brown houses, lies the picturesque town of Glacier on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway through British Columbia. Three and a half miles distant from this little construction centre, which has virtually been engulfed into being through the lining of the Connaught Tunnel, hangs the great Illecillewaet Glacier on the slopes of Mount Macdonald and two miles nearer nestles Glacier House, the annual mecca of thousands of summer tourists.

Few of the surrounding peaks at Glacier are less than 9,000 feet in altitude. The famous Cheops, Mount Sir Donald, Ross, Eagle and Abbott peaks encircle the little settlement. In winter time a blanket of snow enfolds town and mountains alike. In spring the brilliant yellow slide lilies follow the even-sloping snow line as it climbs higher and higher up the mountain sides. Life is enlivened in the summer time by the crowds of guests who throng Glacier House and transforms the scene again with generous splashes of orange, crimson and russet.

Common interest in the great engineering project under way has brought about a very definite community spirit at Glacier. For almost every youngster's daddy works in the big tunnel in one or other of the various branches of work which the lining demands, and every household is regulated by a schedule of working hours which begin at 5 a.m. and end at 1.15. Half a hundred children attend the little brown school house and various clubs for the grown-ups provide interests of a recreational and cultural nature.

Engineers, foremen, carpenters, machinists, drillers, electricians, laborers and train crews make up the wage earners among the 500 residents of Glacier. Single men live in a well ordered camp. Here, as in the little homes where the men with families live, all the conveniences of a modern city are enjoyed including electric lights and running water piped from a nearby mountain stream.

The lining of this five mile tunnel, the longest on the American continent, with a steel reinforced concrete jacket represents one of the most interesting engineering projects now under way anywhere in the world.

Beneath 6,000 feet of mountain the Connaught Tunnel cuts under Mount Macdonald between the stations of Connaught and Glacier. With the opening of this underground short-cut in 1918 the Canadian Pacific Railway overcame the many difficulties which the old Rogers Pass route had presented. Track curvature to an amount corresponding to seven complete circles was eliminated; the summit attained by the Railway was reduced by 652 feet; the trackage was shortened by four and a half miles and more than four miles of snow sheds which had been necessary on the slopes of Mount Macdonald were dispensed with.

The lining of the "big hole" was begun in 1920 and when this work is completed the Connaught Tunnel will stand as one of the finest and most complete engineering jobs in the universe. Undertaken in the name of safety, the Connaught Tunnel has always been a "safety first" proposition. Throughout its construction days, during the eight years it has been in operation and the four years that it has already taken to line it, it has been singularly free from accident.

Nearly 500,000 sacks of Canadian cement will have gone into the lining of the Connaught Tunnel when it is finished. Practically all the machinery used in the work is Canadian made, including the huge compressors and powerful motors. The four types of reinforced steel collapsible forms, which are used in the various stages of the lining process, came from a western Canadian plant and the Sydney E. Linkins Company, B.C., Limited, construction engineers are in charge of its lining.

The tunnel's concrete jacket is completed in sections 22 feet long, each section taking about four or five days to prepare, when it is sometimes necessary to do considerable blasting, one day to fill with concrete and three days in which to set. Six complete sets of forms are at work within the tunnel which means a completed section for every working day in the week, or a total of 132 feet in six days.

More than 100 powerful flood lamps illuminate the tunnel at these six working points. Owing to the remarkable ventilating system, which in itself is one of the most interesting and important features of the tunnel, working conditions are excellent. At the western portal two great steel fans, driven by two 300 h.p. four cylinder semi-Diesel engines, turn at the rate of 256 revolutions a minute driving a brake breeze through the five-mile length of this great underground passage. The ventilation thus created makes it possible for trains to pass through the tunnel with practically no discomfort to passengers and for workmen to remain at their tasks for eight consecutive hours without detriment to health or vigor.

One comes upon many surprising things in the course of a walk through the great double-tracked tunnel. Grains of wheat fallen from the thousands of cars of Canada's 1923 bumper crop which have passed through on their way to the port of Vancouver have taken root for many yards within each portal and the tiny field mice ever in search of provender scamper across the tracks within the very heart of the tunnel. At two points in the tunnel wall doors lead through the solid quartzite rock to the pioneer bore and here in this miniature tunnel one finds two brilliantly illuminated and immaculate "white lunch" White capped chefs preside in these underground restaurants dispensing steaming bowls of soup and fragrant coffee to the small army of workers who are bringing to completion the lining of the Connaught Tunnel.

Refugees Fleeing from Turkey Endure Terrible Hardships

Some 50,000 Armenian orphans owe their lives to the generosity of the English speaking peoples. Great Britain, Canada, Australia, and the United States have for some time past been co-operating in the sending of money, food and clothing for the relief of the 200,000 orphan and destitute children which the war has left as a legacy to Armenia.

During the war nearly one million of our Armenian allies perished through war, deportation and massacre. After hostilities ceased, the Armenians relying upon the pledge of the allied governments that the future of Armenia should be decided upon the principle of self-determination, returned to their homes in the interior of Turkey. Their hopes were disappointed, Armenia was handed back to Turkey, and the massacres and deportations occurred again. Since the order has gone forth that all Christians must leave Turkey, refugees have been arriving by the thousands at the sea ports, in a pitiable condition from exposure, hunger and disease.

It is estimated that there are 200,000 orphan or destitute children without home or country of their own. 50,000 are being properly cared for in the orphanages provided by the relief organizations in Greece and the Holy Land. The rest, herded in refugee camps under indescribable conditions, are being given some measure of relief. In one instance the funds of the relief organizations were so limited that all that could be done for the refugees was to buy fields of grass for them and turn them in to graze like so many cattle.

During the next few months a special effort is to be made by the Canadian Armenian Near East Relief in order that the many children still uncared for may survive the winter. The British Columbia committee (headquarters 223 Winch Building, Vancouver) has as its officers Rev. C. C. Owen, chairman, Mr. W. H. Malkin, treasurer and Rev. Alex. Thomson, secretary. Please make all cheques payable to the Canadian Armenian Near East Relief.

"OLD PETE" FOUND IN UNCONSCIOUS CONDITION

Pete Peterson, quite a well known character around the lakefront here, may have been the victim of foul play a few days ago at Penticton. Pete, who spent a year or two around here, has not been about here for some time. He was found in an unconscious condition in the lane at the back of the Penticton post office with his face cut and bruised and the skin broken on his arms, where they struck sharp shale when he had fallen. He remained in a partially unconscious condition for some hours after removal to the hospital. It is said that he was treated to strong drink, and it is possible that this was the cause of his condition.

THE ASSOCIATED
 Peachland, B.C.,
 October 22, 1924.
 Editor, Summerland Review.

Sir,—As a fruit grower and one who signed a "contract" with the co-operative, I have noted with considerable amazement an advertisement appearing in the Kelowna Courier and dated the 8th day of October, wherein public notice is given to all and sundry that the "contracts" of the Associated Growers are "formally" defective. The intention of the co-operative appears to be to apply to parliament at its next session for power to enforce these so called "defective contracts."

What is the object of the management of the Associated in applying to parliament to get the right to force the shareholders in the various locals to hand their assets over to a concern which admits by its aforesaid actions has no legal right thereto, and which from past experience has certainly shown by the returns it has obtained for the growers it is not entitled to morally?

If such measures are to be taken by what stretch of imagination does the Associated think it will be able to get the growers to renew the contracts in 1928?

Furthermore, if the Associated can with the aid of parliament force unwilling growers to sell and deliver their produce to it what is to stop it from at some future time obtaining the right from the legislature to force every grower in the Okanagan Valley to sell through it irrespective of whether there is a contract with, or a willingness on the part of, the grower so to do?

The effect of such methods is nothing more or less than coercion, and everyone knows forced authority never pays as it has the effect of stifling confidence. "One volunteer is better than ten pressed men" any time. But further and far more serious is the effect such actions will have on the values of fruit lands in the Okanagan Valley. Who is going to take a chance on purchasing lands with the intention of selling his produce where he pleases and at the same time run the risk of being forced to sell to a concern against his will.

It seems to me if we are to allow such methods as these to be forced upon us it will be just a matter of time before we shall lose all right to personal liberty, and be subject to the authority of a dictator in all our personal dealings.

It is therefore the duty of all shareholders and growers to raise their voices in protest against such action as the proposed Act contemplates and to memorialize the legislature against the passing of the proposed legislation.

Yours truly,
 J. McKINNON.

Big Shipment of Apples For Australia-N. Zealand

New Trade Agreement with Australia Expected to Develop Large Exchange of Fruits Between B.C. and Antipodes.

Vancouver. — Twenty-three thousand boxes, roughly thirty-three carloads of British Columbia apples were shipped via Vancouver last week on the Makura for the New Zealand and Australian trade. This shipment takes up the entire refrigeration space on the boat. They are for delivery before the New Year, which comes on midsummer in the Antipodes. By that time the greater part of the home-grown apples will be used up, and until the new crop comes available the sister Dominions in the South must depend on imported supplies. Most of those will be from Canada.

Greater Produce Exchange
 This is really one of the initial developments in the movement inspired by the Canadian-Australian trade agreement for a greater exchange of commodities from the two countries. The season being directly opposite, Australia and New Zealand will use the fresh fruits from Canada when their own crops have been used up, while Canada will make greater use of the Antipodean crops in the months when the home supply is exhausted.

Produce dealers in Vancouver expect to see a considerable amount of Australian apples coming to Canada next summer. The comparatively low Canadian production this year

Scotland, especially the latter, has a large number of potential immigrants of the right type for Canada. Holland, also, offers a good field, Mr. Robb believes.

Blessed are they who were not satisfied to let well enough alone. All that the world is today we owe to them.—Nuggata.

DISTRICT MEETING OF BAPTIST CHURCHES

Summerland Man Elected President At Annual Session of Association

The association of the Baptist churches of the Okanagan and C.P.R. main line towns held in Penticton recently proved an entire success. Encouraging reports were brought from each of the churches, telling of the spiritual, numerical and financial progress.

The address to the association was given by the president, G. J. C. White, Summerland, who spoke on church membership, reminding them that people are not to be received into the church as passengers in a life boat, but as sailors to work.

The program included very interesting items, among which were "Ourselves," being roll call and reports from the churches; "Our Neighbors," being an interesting discussion on those about us and our responsibilities to them; "Our Stewardship" was presented in a vivid and forceful address by Rev. M. L. Orchard, Winipeg, secretary of the Baptist Union, in which he spoke not only for our responsibilities but also our opportunities which we should acknowledge and meet. Under the head, "Our Young People," the C.G.I.T., B.Y.P.U. and Sunday school work were dealt with by Mrs. Wm. Cooper, of Penticton; Rev. A. J. Bowbrick, Penticton, and A. S. Matheson, principal of the public schools, Penticton, respectively.

The women's session, the consideration of our women's work, was full of interest and told of self-sacrifice and devotion to the Lord's work.

The association sermon was preached in forceful style by Rev. S. W. McKinnon of Vernon. Dr. J. W. Litch, Vancouver, brought an inspirational message on "Our Province," in which he showed the opportunities for a larger work for destitute places where the gospel is not being preached.

At the splendid banquet provided by the ladies of the Penticton Baptist church, sixty delegates sat down. The meeting proved to be a real spiritual blessing and will be long remembered.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were, president, G. J. C. White, Summerland; vice president, Rev. J. B. Rowell, Kamloops; secretary, Rev. J. S. Pirie, Kelowna.—Cont.

Half of life's unhappy endings could be avoided by not demanding too much.

SYNOPSIS OF

PRE-EMPTIONS
 Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditions upon residence, occupation and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emption is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 5,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 8,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emption are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emption must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

PURCHASE
 Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price of first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

Mill, factory, or industrial sites on timber land, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES
 Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, this being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES
 For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 500 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING
 Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits are available for settlers, campers and travellers, up to ten head.

 The Winter's Tale,
 Scene II, Act IV.

An analysis of the financial operations of nations, provinces or municipalities would reveal some features which in a general way pass unnoticed. The average taxpayer, looking at the list of demands made upon him, utters a few remarks relative to the subject, and in the end supposes that if we want the conveniences of modern life we must expect to have to pay for them, and lets it go at that. If he were in a position to delve into details of expenditure he would probably be greatly astonished to discover that a very large percentage of the taxes he is called upon to pay goes to meet interest on the debts owing by his municipality, his province and his country at large. And he would also be disturbed to find that the volume of interest does not decrease with years, but as a matter of fact grows by what it feeds on. Some "horrible examples" along this line are given in "the oldest agricultural paper in the world" by one Harry O'Brien, who seems to have unearthed some official records of certain American cities calculated to bring wails of anguish from the taxpayers thereof. The gem of the collection is perhaps the instance in which the town of Bellaire, Ohio, built a waterworks plant in 1875 at a cost of $100,000, and has since that time paid $249,000 interest on the loan raised for the building, and is likely to go on paying, since the balance of the principal owing still amounts to $85,000. Another Ohio city which appears to have outrun the constable is Painesville, which this year will have to spend eighty-nine cents of every dollar of its income in payment of interest and sinking funds. This means a further deficit at the end of the year, estimated at $22,000. These cases are only two out of many which have been investigated by Mr. O'Brien, and included in the first of a series of articles on the subject. We may hope that no town in this or any other province of the Dominion of Canada would show up quite so badly, but we can rest assured that we are paying away a lot of good money as interest on loans which might well have been avoided. It is a good thing to be reminded of the cumulative character of interest on borrowed money—we all know it in a hazy sort of way, but rarely realize its full importance unless confronted with some startling figures. If Painesville, Ohio, for instance had realized that the beautiful high school it lately built at a nominal cost of $485,000 will by the time it is paid for burden its taxes with an additional $360,000 interest, it might possibly have modified its estimates. From interest on civic borrowings to exchange on bank cheques may be a very long step, but the two things have a certain relationship through the fact that they are both forms of taxation without tangible return. Cheques handled by two different banks necessarily call for some charge, just as money lent is entitled to fair interest. But, in the case of small cheques especially, the charge seems too high. If a postal note for $5 can be issued at one Post Office and paid at another for a nominal charge of four cents, and a money order up to $10 for seven cents, why it is necessary for banks to charge fifteen cents for the same amounts on cheques drawn on one bank and passing through another? On a small cheque this means three per cent as against something less than 1 per cent charged by the Post Office, and is too much, whether paid by the sender or the receiver. It may be said that small sums should be sent by postal order, but that is no answer, seeing that one reason for banking is the benefit of being able to remit money with the minimum of time and trouble. I have been thinking about this matter for some time past, and have about decided that, unless the banks mend their ways, I shall have to withdraw the dollar and a half or thereabouts which now and then stands to my credit in the branch establishment enjoying my financial support.

The Salmon Arm Observer the other day made some very pertinent remarks concerning the cynical handling of parliamentary duties by certain writers of the Press Gallery at Ottawa, pointing out that the tendency of their work is consistently destructive, and calculated to create an unfair impression in the minds of any readers who take them at their face value. This is a subject on which I have touched more than once in my notes, and some three years ago I took the matter up with Mr. Costain, then editor of MacLean's Magazine, which I then considered, and do still consider, one of the worst offenders in the matter. I enclosed a copy of one of my articles on the subject, and received a very courteous letter in reply, in which, while admitting a certain ground for criticism, the editor claimed that "a somewhat breezy handling of political doings was found to be more popular than a matter of fact record, and also pointed out that the articles were at least impartial, and hit both parties equally. Presumably it is good business for a publication to cater to the public taste, but personally I decline to believe that the general Canadian public really enjoys the continual contemptuous disparagement of the men they have elected to run the business of their country. There is a lowering of standard in such articles which certainly is not justified, and which must necessarily have a bad effect. In one such article, dealing with the speech from the throne in April, the writer jeered at the dulness of debate, and represented the "country and press joining in a low, anguished moan of 'How long, O Lord, how long,'" and only supported by "an occasional electric flash that held out promise of better things." Those better things included "whispers of scandals with ministers involved." In the same article the writer tells of a now record being established when "both the mover and seconder of the address rang in the claims of their constituencies for a slice of the public plunder." Now we all know that the country is not anxious for "scandals with ministers involved," nor does it consider that an application for a branch line railway a demand for a "slice of public plunder," but this writer tacitly assumes that such is a fair estimate of popular opinion, and certainly helps to lower the standards by his inference. The articles are, as a matter of fact, neither critical nor humorous, but merely smart in a superficial way. The test as to their lack of humor is found in the fact that they leave a bad taste in the mouth, as it were, which real humor never does. And it is unfortunately true that the artist who illustrates them does not inject any real fun into his drawings to mitigate them. He is perhaps not to be blamed for that failure, since artists who can caricature without stinging are few and far between. "Toby" who illustrated Punch's "Essence of Parliament" for so many years, burlesqued the personalities of members without one ill-natured line, and our

DIVERSION AND USE

TAKE NOTICE That The Corporation of the District of Summerland, whose address is West Summerland, B.C., will apply for a licence to take and use 20,000 gallons (daily) of water out of Prairie Creek which flows north easterly and drains into Okanagan Lake in District Lot 455 Summerland.

The water will be diverted from the stream at a point on roadway east of Lot 10, Map 219, Summerland, and will be used for Water Works purposes upon the land described as District Lots 476, 475, 474, 675, 455.

Municipality of Summerland. This notice was posted on the ground on the 29th day of October, 1924.

A copy of this notice and application pursuant thereto and to the "Water Act, 1914," will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Vernon, B.C.

Objections to the application may be filed with the said Water Recorder or with the Comptroller of Water Rights, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C., within thirty days after the first appearance of this notice in a local newspaper.

Corporation of the District of Summerland, applicant.

By F. J. NIXON,
 (Municipal Clerk) Agent.
 The date of the first publication of this notice is 30th October, 1924.

The petition for approval of the undertaking as per section 72 of the Act will be heard in the office of the Board of Investigation at a date to be fixed by the Comptroller, and any interested person may file an objection thereto in the office of the Comptroller or of the said Water Recorder.

GOVERNMENT MAY HAVE SEED FARM

Plan is to Make B.C. Independent of Foreign Growers.

British Columbia's government may take steps in the near future to establish in this province a vegetable, fruit and flower seed industry which will make the province independent of foreign farms and gardens for its supply of certified seeds, it is stated by C. Tice, provincial agronomist.

Before British Columbia will become self-sustaining in seeds for agricultural and floricultural purposes, says Mr. Tice, it will be necessary to have located somewhere in the province cleaning machinery for seeds. These are costly, inasmuch as a different machine is needed for almost every variety of flower, says Mr. Tice.

Only the absence of such machinery prevents the province from taking advantage of its own abundant supply of seeds. The government is understood to be considering the introduction of such machinery to British Columbia.

On the recommendation of Foreman Tomlin the municipal council has agreed to give the municipal cottage occupied by A. W. Hobbs two coats of paint. Engaging of a painter was referred to the reeve.

PROMPT PAYMENTS MADE FOR APPLES

Okanogan, Wash.—Cash has been received by the Okanogan Growers Union for the first 27 cars of apples sold this year. The net returns, after the selling charge of the Northwestern Fruit Exchange, Skookum advertising and inspection costs have been deducted, are on a basis that will leave a good profit for the growers, say the Independent.

The shipments included Jonathans, Winter Bananas, Grimes Golden, King Davids and one car of Delicious. Cash returns on the 27 cars averaged 19 days from the time the cars left Okanogan.

MUNICIPALITY DISPOSES OF HORSES AND OUTFIT

Municipal team, harness, wagon and sleighs have been sold to O. Battye, proprietor of the sawmill at Shingle Creek. The price agreed upon was $225. Mr. Battye to deliver lumber to the municipality to that value. In the meantime the clerk holds a collateral note.

PUMPING PLANT ORDERED FOR PARADISE FLAT

Coun. Johnston, in a report to the council on Monday, stated that he had given instructions for the ordering of a pump and motor for the winter domestic water service for Paradise Flat.

The Farm Greenhouse

By R. C. PALMER,
 Assistant Superintendent,
 Dominion Experimental Station,
 Summerland, B.C.

A small greenhouse might be operated to advantage by many of the fruit and vegetable growers of British Columbia. The seasonal character of the operations conducted in our horticultural sections leaves time for a certain amount of greenhouse work.

Greenhouse management is a highly specialized branch of horticulture. More skill is required to force plants under glass than is the case when mother nature is allowed to mature the crops in her own good time. Accordingly the amateur will do well to start on a small scale and extend his operations as he gains experience. If he follows such a procedure there is no reason why any grower who is successful in raising flowers and vegetables in the field, cannot operate a small greenhouse with profit. By so doing he can employ his spare time to advantage growing crops out of season when they are relatively high in price. A little greenhouse space facilitates the raising of such field crops as tomatoes, peppers and egg plants which require to be started under glass. Again, many of the annual flowers most valuable for the beautification of the home grounds must be given an early start in the greenhouse if they are to obtain their full glory.

For the average fruit and vegetable grower to whom the greenhouse is merely a "side line," elaborate buildings and extensive heating equipment are neither necessary nor advisable. A very humble house and a good wood heater can be made to perform wonders. This has been demonstrated this past year at the Summerland Experimental Station.

In the early winter of 1923 after the autumn work in the gardens was completed, Mr. Aveson, the farm gardener, constructed a greenhouse ten feet wide and twenty feet long, with a small potting shed at one end. The walls and benches were made of rough lumber, and the roof of old hot-bed sash. With this meagre equipment Mr. Aveson had lettuce ready for the table in April and cucumbers in June. He raised enough tomato plants to set out two acres, besides growing hundreds of house plants and thousands of bedding plants which have made the farm gardens a delight to the eye all summer. The house is now bright with chrysanthemums and anyone who is interested in seeing what can be done in cramped quarters by a man who knows how to grow plants under glass will be welcomed at the Summerland Experimental Station.

THE PRINCE OF WALES AT JASPER

H. R. H. THE PRINCE OF WALES spent a delightful day in the Canadian Rockies when he visited Jasper National Park, where he was a guest at Jasper Park Lodge. Here he is shown being greeted by Col. S. Maynard Rogers, Park Superintendent, on the arrival of his special train at Jasper Station on the Canadian National Railways.

TYPHOID CAUSES DEATH AMONG CREW

Freight Boat Taken Off Service Because of Sickness

C. P. R. freight steamer Okanagan was ordered laid up yesterday, allegedly by health authorities. Typhoid has been prevalent on the ship for some time and, according to current report, two deaths have occurred. Several of the crew are in hospital at Vernon, some seriously ill. It has been satisfactorily established that the water used has not been the cause.

side into the darkness. He then ran into the pullman, immediately behind to summon help and the people there hurried to the assistance of the injured. Mr. Shaver was bleeding at the mouth, nose and ears and was still suffering, when he reached here, considerable pain in the chest, the result, he thinks, of the concussion. He and others got many of the wounded into the sleeper and others, less seriously hurt, went or were taken into the baggage car just ahead of the wrecked day coach.

Doctors and nurses were sent for, but shortly after the accident, a pusher came along and hitched on to the pullman and took it back east to Nelson, those in the express car being brought this way as far as Grand Forks. Mr. Shaver could give little idea as to how many were killed and did not know the names of any other than Peter Veregin. One woman and he thought several other, were also killed and it was his opinion that some bodies were burned in the wreck.

The car was moving along at a fair speed when the explosion occurred and most of the passengers were thrown off to one side into what seemed to be a cutting, the side of the car opening before them with the force of the explosion.

Mr. Shaver and two young Irishmen, recently arrived from the Old Country, were the only passengers of the wrecked car to come beyond Grand Forks. He felt that the doctors had so much to do that he would receive better attention from his own the time available the president's address was omitted and the other business was at once proceeded with. After reading and adoption of minutes and reports of committees, Miss E. McNaughton, Kelowna, was appointed chairman of the nominations committee, L. B. Boggs, Penticton, of the pooling committee, and S. A. MacDonald, Summerland, of the resolutions committee. Messrs. C. W. Lees and A. G. Smith of Kelowna had previously been appointed by the president to attend to all local arrangements.

The meeting then adjourned to the Wesley Hall where an excellent banquet was served by the Ladies' Aid of the United Church. Mr. L. B. Boggs acted as toastmaster. The toast to the visitors, ably proposed by Mr. Fulton of Vernon, was responded to by Dr. G. G. Sedgewick, head of the department of English at the U. B. C. and by Mr. John Kyle, provincial organizer of technical education. The former spoke on "The Teacher as a Corrupter of Youth," ironically pointing out the uncomfortable and even disastrous effects that would probably ensue if all teachers conscientiously carried out their duties of teaching people to think, and of inculcating high ideals of character and duty. He explained that since it is also the business of the teacher to prepare their pupils for the world in which they have to live, it is necessary to bear in mind that for success in life one must accept the present order of things without thinking too deeply about them and with-

PEACHLAND FRUIT CROP HARVESTED

The Rowcliffe packing house has completed operations for the season and the manager, Mr. George Barber, moved back to Kelowna on Friday with his wife and family.

P.F.G.U. practically finished the pack on Saturday last and the staff dismissed. There may be a few small lots yet to come in. There have been between seventy and seventy-five carloads packed by the Union this season. Nine carloads of apples are packed and ready for shipment as soon as ordered.

Miss D. Buck and Miss I. Murdin closed their divisions in the Central school to attend the convention in Kelowna on Thursday and Friday, of the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Association. The principal Mr. R. Boswell, continued with his pupils, as he was not attending the convention.

Mr. H. E. McCall motored to Summerland on Thursday evening, on a combined business and pleasure trip, returning Friday evening.

Mr. E. Cudmore and Mr. E. Williams, his assistant in the general store, motored to Westbank where they spent Thursday afternoon, the half holiday.

The Veterans' Hall was the scene of lively activities on Thursday evening when some of the young people of Summerland, including the Lockwood orchestra, motored up and assisted to put on a dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Bulyea left by Friday evening's boat to spend the week end with friends in Summerland and hear the address of Premier King on Saturday.

Miss Edith Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Heighway and daughter Peggy and Mrs. Smalls spent Saturday in the Orchard City.

A number of citizens motored to Summerland on Saturday afternoon, despite the heavy rainstorm, and heard with interest the address of Premier King.

Mrs. Johnston of Westbank motored down to Peachland on Sunday afternoon last to attend the regular service in the Baptist church.

Mr. Vernon Winger drove up from Penticton, where he has been employed for some months past, and is assisting his father about the place.

He expects to return again shortly.

One of our fruit grower citizens Mr. E. E. Eddy, left on Monday morning to return east to take up his conductor's run for the winter months again. Mrs. Eddy and their son Ormand are remaining here.

Mr. and Mrs. Dryden motored to Vernon on Monday to spend the greater portion of the week, Mr. Dryden being there on business. During his absence Miss Dorothy Clements is in charge of the municipal office.

Mr. E. Cudmore, Nelson Keating and Earl Murdin were visitors to Kelowna on Monday.

H. Miller assisted Major MacDonald this week on a trip up the North Fork of Deep Creek. They left on Monday morning, Mr. Miller taking the provisions in by pack horse.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Aitkens and Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Tallyour returned Monday evening after a short visit out of town.

Miss M. Smith, Mr. J. McKinnon and Mr. J. E. Kerr spent Wednesday in Kelowna.

Mr. R. J. McDougall, Vancouver, formerly of Penticton, recently joined a hunting party comprising the Longs and H. Miller, former hunting companions. They spent some days in the tall timbers, but since their return we learn they were not extremely fortunate. Mr. McDougall returned to Penticton on Saturday.

Dr. Ross Gray, Strathmore, Alta., is spending a short time here at the Murdin home.

Mr. S. H. Murdin, a hunter of renown in Peachland's hunting history, showed the boys what he could still do when he left town early one morning last week and after spending a somewhat arduous day in the vicinity of the Glenn, came home in the evening with a set of horns and nice piece of meat attached thereto. Hunting fever ran high then for a few days.

C.P.R. HEAVY BUYER OF OKANAGAN PRODUCTS

R. L. Lowe, commissary agent for the C.P.R., has contracted with the Associated Growers for a supply of nearly 400 tons of Nettle Gem potatoes for the dining cars and hotels for the territory west of Winnipeg. A few weeks ago he contracted for a large quantity of apples for dining car, hotel and news dealer service.

Martha and Elizabeth Theakstone, twin sisters, died recently in England on the same day, after having lived together for 92 years.

W.C.T.U. LOCAL HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met at the home of Mrs. J. O. Steeves last Friday afternoon, the vice president, Mrs. McAlpine, occupying the chair.

The meeting opened by singing "Jesus keep me near the cross." Mrs. Mitchell then took charge of the devotional exercises from Ephesians, chapter 6, verses 4 to 11, then gave a splendid and helpful talk on "Intercessory Prayer," after which a number of the ladies led in prayer.

The roll was called, each member responding by a verse of scripture. The usual routine of business was then dealt with.

It was moved and seconded that Mrs. Conway take charge of the program for next meeting, and Mrs. Mitchell the "Current Events."

Miss Margaret Ritchie sang a very beautiful solo, entitled, "The Saviour Himself is our Shepherd," which was enjoyed very much.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Steeves and daughters served a very dainty tea, and the social hour was enjoyed by all.—Cont.

Current Events of Town and District

The members of the Unity Club held their regular monthly meeting on Friday afternoon, Mrs. J. M. Robinson presiding. There was a good attendance.

Mr. Walter Lyons of Penticton was in town on Tuesday and stayed at the home of Mrs. J. C. Lyons. About twenty Naramata residents took the trip across the lake on Saturday afternoon to hear Premier Mackenzie King.

The union service on Sunday afternoon was taken by Rev. H. J. Armitage, who preached on the text, "Art thou He that should come, or do we look for another?" Announcement was made of the supper to be given on Thursday by the Ladies' Aid. Mrs. Lyons presided at the organ.

Dr. Williams of Vernon, the victim of the unfortunate shooting accident here last week, is reported to be holding his own. Three transfusions of blood have been given. Messrs. J. M. and W. J. Robinson journeyed across to Summerland on Wednesday on receipt of word that their mother was seriously ill.

Dr. J. P. Hasard, Penticton, told of examining the body. The skull had been broken into multiple fragments from the base of the skull to the top of the nose and death was instantaneous. There were no other marks of violence found on the body.

Accidental death was the verdict of the jury.

Body Taken To Agassiz

The body was brought out some miles on horseback to Mazama station, the journey being made in the dark, the party arriving there about two o'clock Tuesday morning. Mrs. Hardy also boarded the train at that station and on it were her sister, Miss Williamson, and Mr. Hardy's cousin, J. R. Atkinson, both of whom had left Vancouver the night before, having received news of the accident.

The body was taken to Agassiz on Wednesday for interment.

Mr. Hardy is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Grace Williamson, of Vancouver; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hardy of Agassiz, and two brothers, James and William. His parents were amongst the earliest residents of Agassiz and he attended the first school in the district.

Those who have been working at Crescent Lake for the Experimental Farm are Clark Wilson, Nelson Hardy, Ferd. Brent, U. Keefe, W. E. Smothers, Fred Gibson, Ted Stevens, Edson Miller, W. Inglis and Nelson McIntyre.

Mr. Wilson, informs the Review that the work was nearly finished and they had planned to have Mr. and Mrs. Hardy return to Summerland next Monday.

YOUNG PEOPLE UNITE IN SOCIAL GATHERING

Baptist Y.P.S. Entertained by Young People of St. Andrew's.

St. Andrew's Y.P.S. entertained the members of the Baptist Young People's society on the evening of their regular social gathering on Monday in the church hall. The program took somewhat the form of a 'Halloween party' and appropriate decorations in the shape of witches, black cats and owls adorned the walls, while numerous Jack o' Lanterns were also in evidence. There was a splendid turnout of young people, over fifty in number, and games and contests were enjoyed. A curio corner of much secrecy proved entertaining. Following a piano duet by Misses Florence Campbell and Margaret Munn all sat down to a splendid lunch, much credit is due the entertainment committee for the success of the evening.

Premier King Heard By Large Audience

ence in public life. He finally picked on Dr. King and asked one of the others to make way for him. In view of this treatment of the west, in thus providing cabinet representation, the premier appealed for support.

As in some other countries, the present government has not a majority in the House. It is trying to carry on fairly and justly and get support. In a recent division it received the largest majority of any government since Confederation.

Huge Debt Following War

It is easy to finance when the country has lots of money, said Premier King. What you can do depends on the money at your disposal. The heavy public debt of Canada is like a mortgage on a farm. It totals $2,347,000,000 and the interest on this is $137,000,000 annually. There were other large fixed expenditures such as pensions, land settlement, S. C.R. and provision for soldiers' dependents, totalling $50,000,000 annually. The railway obligation was great. Dr. King, in speaking on this subject, had stated that annual fixed expenses were $300,000,000 and that the interest on the public debt was larger than the total budget before the war.

Continuing, the premier said that vast loans had been made during the war and that $1,670,000,000 remained to be paid. He claimed that his government had balanced the budget and showed a surplus last year. $25,000,000 would be taken out of the treasury on the first of November to reduce the debt. A fresh loan to retire maturities on November first had been made at lower interest which would effect a saving of $3,000,000 yearly.

Protection Against Fruit Dumping

On the subject of protection against dumping, Premier King asked if the present government had not administered the law and answered his own question by stating that Mr. Bureau (Minister of Customs) has well administered the Act.

The premier then spoke at some length on the subject of the Kamloops-Kelowna branch of the C.N.R. Of the twenty-six railway bills before the Senate, some were thrown out and others passed. To other conditions were attached. There was no rider in the Okanagan branch bill. The subject had been discussed by the Senate committee with Sir Henry Thornton, who was told that before the bill was passed he should see the C.P.R. with a view to making some arrangement, it being the opinion of the senators that the C.P.R. could serve the territory. Mr. Thornton, anxious to get the road built, consented to meet Mr. Beatty. It was on this understanding, said the premier, that the Senate passed the bill. Negotiations with the C.P.R. were started after Sir Henry Thornton had returned east, following his recent western tour.

The C. P. R. and Okanagan Branch

Since coming west the premier had telegraphed Sir Henry for information on the subject and had received the following telegram, which the premier read from the platform: "October 21, 1924. Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Vancouver, B.C. (via Ottawa). In regard to Kelowna branch: As you will doubtless be aware from information sent you recently by minister of railways, the senate attached a definite restriction obligating us to try to come to an amicable arrangement with the Canadian Pacific Railway which I feel in honor bound sincerely to carry out, if possible.

These negotiations are now in active progress and will be settled one way or the other in not to exceed three weeks.

A primary factor which will be included in any contract with the Canadian Pacific Railway is a guarantee on the part of that company that they will furnish transportation facilities equally satisfactory to the community as though the Canadian National Railway built its own line. Falling an agreement with the Canadian Pacific Railway we will move actively in the construction of the line in not less than three months.

Having started negotiations with the Canadian Pacific Railway for the reason above given, I feel I must allow a reasonable time for some conclusion to be reached.

H. W. THORNTON. Another telegram from the head of the C.N.R. gave the premier permission to make public the above telegram. The government, said Premier King, wants this road to be built.

Cheapering Costs Of Production

The speaker next dealt with the fiscal policy of the country, the big national debt, the need to reduce taxation and to turn the country's railway liability into an asset. The needed money must come from increased production. All wealth comes from four sources, agricultural lands, forests, mines and fisheries, to which he said, he might well add furs, which might come under the head of forests, and water powers. Production of wealth from these sources are our basic industries. To get the wealth out of these sources two things are necessary, labor and capital, or the implements of production. The policy of the government is to bring down the cost of production and the price to the consumer.

The premier then read a lengthy list of figures showing reductions in duty which had been made by his government on farm implements, fertilizers, spray materials, farm machinery and tools, poultry equipment, machinery and equipment used in mining and lumbering. On the basis of last year's crop the saving to the Okanagan Valley in the reduction on shooks, nails and paper would be $50,000. If we can cheapen the cost of production, argued the premier, we will help the manufacturer and transportation companies. Particularly will it help the country in its export trade.

External Relations

Premier King then touched upon the external relations of Canada and, stating that he had been condemned because he was not imperial enough, said if being imperial meant favoring central government for all the empire, he was not imperial. There was no stronger Britisher than he. His desire is to see the empire grow and develop, but each section must manage its own affairs and can best do so. When some common question arises, there should be some arrangement whereby all will work together. He favored remaining within the empire rather than becoming a separate nation. Becoming part of the United States would not help the Americans or us. Living side by side with that country as we do, without defence lines, we are setting a fine example to the world and advancing human interests.

In closing the premier said that the government candidate, Mr. Sutherland, was well known and respected, an able and efficient public servant. A vote for Mr. Sutherland would help the premier and the government to further the interest of the district and province and would come as an expression of goodwill.

Dr. King on Public Utterances

Dr. King, in his speech, referred to the statement of Dr. Manion that the present government was the most inefficient government that Canada had ever had, and pointed out that Canada's trade had been extended, that she had a favorable trade balance of $200,000,000. A business firm in this position would be highly efficient and the speaker claimed that the government record showed the highest type of efficiency.

Mr. Jones, he said, had been dilating on the loss of people to the United States. This, said Dr. King, had been going on for many years, up to about 1900. From that to 1911 people were not going south but many Americans were coming this way. From 1911 to 1914 there was a stagnation and people moved out. It was not expected that men who had been through the war would return to the stagnant conditions of life which many of them had experienced before enlisting and it was but natural that they should move about. He believed the policy of the present government will remedy this stagnation and people henceforth will remain at home. Business conditions are not so good now in the United States as they were for a few years. He quoted a prominent United States man as saying that of all the countries that went into the war, Canada was in better shape than any. The fact that our dollar is at par is a proof of this. The talk of Mr. McElghon and others, he said, was enough to drive people out of the country. Instead, they should be encouraged. Try, we are highly taxed, but we assumed the burden willingly.

MRS. FASH HONORED BY MISSION CIRCLE

Given Life Membership in Baptist Branch on Eve of Departure.

Following the regular morning service in the Baptist church on Sunday, the ladies of the congregation assembled in the ladies' parlor, where Mrs. G. J. C. White, as president of the Mission Circle, presented Mrs. Fash with a life membership in the W.M.S. of the Baptist church, together with her membership pin. Mrs. Fash made a very feeling reply and expressed her sincere appreciation in being remembered in this way.

Mrs. Fash, who, with Mr. Fash, left early this week for the east, has been a very active worker in the mission circle during her residence here and will be greatly missed. In making the presentation, Mrs. White expressed the regrets of all the members in her departure from Summerland and wished her every happiness in her new home.

out being handicapped by too high a standard of character and honesty. Mr. Kyle, the next speaker, carried on the same ideas by pointing out how without thought the institutions of our world gradually become corrupt like a stagnant puddle, needing a freshening and revivifying current of ideas and ideals to sweep away that which was dead and useless. The addresses of both Dr. Sedgewick and Mr. Kyle were enthusiastically received by their auditors.

The toast to the B. C. Teachers' Federation was proposed by Mr. D. McIntyre, Summerland, and responded to by Mr. Harry Charlesworth, the secretary of the Federation, who gave a most lucid and interesting address on the aims and accomplishments of the organization, naming some of its many friends, and answering the criticisms of its few enemies.

In the interval between the speeches music was provided by Messrs. McGinnes, Smith, Griffiths, and Daniel. The termination of a very successful evening was provided by a dance in the 'Elks' Hall.

Friday morning was taken up by sectional meetings of the teachers, where various educational problems were discussed. In the high school section a good deal of time was spent on the topic of entrance examinations. The presence of Mr. Charlesworth proved of great assistance, and he undertook to lay before the commissioners of the present educational survey the results of the deliberations, which were briefly that the present system was unsatisfactory, but that the meeting did not favor a return to the old style examinations. The senior grade teachers heard the report of Mr. Mathieson, Penticton, on the committee appointed last year to prepare a spelling list for the public schools. Mr. Mathieson then gave an excellent address on "Project work in the public schools" for which he was tendered a hearty vote of thanks.

The junior grade and manual arts sections were addressed by Mr. Kyle on "Manual Arts," and Inspector Hall spoke to the rural teachers' section on the management of rural schools.

On Friday afternoon addresses were given in the auditorium to all the teachers by Messrs. Charlesworth and Kyle. The former spoke mainly on the subject of security of tenure of teachers, giving many instances of their having been unjustly deprived of their positions, and explaining the efforts of the Federation to have a written form of contract prescribed by the Education Department. The second speaker, Mr. Kyle, made a plea for the reorganization and amplification of the present courses of study to bring them more in touch with modern life, and to give more scope for the varying talents of different children to find expression.

At the general business meeting which followed, the nominations committee proposed the following executive for the ensuing year: president, C. W. Loos; 1st vice president, Miss E. McNaughton; 2nd vice president, L. Howlett; corresponding secretary, A. G. Smith; recording secretary, Miss E. Davies; treasurer, A. S. Towell; rural school representative, Miss Owen. All the above except Mr. Howlett of Rutland and Miss Owen of South Okanagan are from Kelowna, it having been found convenient to have all the executive residing in one centre. The report of the resolutions was then read, and the convention adjourned after votes of thanks to all those whose assistance had made it so successful.—Cont.
