Flags

Summerland, along with the rest of the country, celebrated Canada Day, July 1. Throughout the broad country, villages, towns and cities were bedecked with streamers, flags and bunting, to commemorate this consolidation of nine provinces into one unit.

Summerland did not have a celebration on Monday. It has always bowed to its neighbor, Penticton, and assisted that municipality in its commemoration of the event, choosing another day of the year to bring the townfolk together.

Summerland was a drab sight on Monday. One lone flag waved in the slight breeze, in front of the Bank of Montreal. Nowhere else along Granville could there be seen any sign that this community, along with the rest of the Dominion, was celebrating its proudest day.

Even one of the chief Dominion Government offices in Summerland, the Post Office, presented a drab and bare appearance with no bunting of any kind.

The Review was noticeably lax but, being only a month old, possibly some excuse could be rendered for its non-festive appearance.

It could be suggested at this time that the Retail Merchants' Association or the board of trade could well foster more civic pride in the community and endeavor to have the main business section of West Summerland dress up for the next festive occasion.

Teachers' Problems

Never was the need for an apartment block and more suitable housing accommodation more apparent in this community than at the present time.

Last week, Penticton School District No. 15 met in Summerland and among the subjects discussed was that of staff problems. There are a number of new teachers to be brought here this year, partly due to resignations from the staff and partly because of enlarged enrollment.

The entire subject was aptly dropped in the lap of the community by School Inspector J. N. Burnett when he said: "This problem has gone beyond the school board. If the people of Summerland wish good teachers to instruct their children, then they must stand ready to co-operate and suffer a little inconvenience in order that suitable housing accommodation be provided."

The situation is that suitable replacements and additions to the staff are available, if houses or rooms can be obtained. Several of these proposed staff members are married and have families. They will not come here unless they can find homes or sufficient room in larger homes so that their families can be properly housed.

So the school board is leaving it to the community. If the parents wish their children to receive the best education and instruction available, then they will have to provide the accommodation for the teachers.

Trustees P. G. Dodwell and Roy F. Angus would be very pleased, we are sure, to hear of any such accommodation.

Community Hotel

Last week a Vancouver business man called on the editor of The Review. A business man from Vernon, who has occasion to visit Summerland nearly every week, dropped into the office. Various other persons from outside points have called in recent weeks and they all had the same story.

Why hasn't Summerland a small hostelry so that visitors may obtain a suitable room for the evening and a meal in quiet surroundings.

With all due respect to present accommodations in the existing hotel and restaurants, there is still a need for more pretentious accommodation here. Existing facilities are excellent for the service they can provide, but it is not enough.

A small community hotel of twenty to thirty rooms, is becoming a must in this centre, and vies with the need for more tourist cabins. With the low cost of owning property and improvements here it would seem to be an ideal investment if properly managed.

Every day valuable money is being turned away from Summerland to the neighboring districts because there is no place for the traveller to stay. This is a situation which needs remedying as soon as possible, and heads of civic enterprise should take a hand in its correction.

: Dr. Palmer's Dream :

Dr. R. C. Palmer, Superintendent of the Summerland Experimental Station, provided the chief address to the graduating class of the Summerland High school at the first graduation exercises ever held here. His address took the form of a dream wherein he was a king, ruling over this beautiful and extensive province. His thoughts and ideals left a deep impression on the minds of the students and are herein recorded:

I sat in a magnificent council chamber. Before me there was a great round table of Douglas fir and on the table a small silver bell of exquisite workmanship.

As I sat there I thought of the terrible years of depression; years when the wheels of industry turned at only half speed for want of markets, although great numbers of people were in need of shelter, clothing and goods of all kinds . . . years when farmers left their fields untilled because there was no demand for their produce, although multitudes of people were suffering from lack of adequate food . . . years when young, able-bodied men rode the freight cars because there were no jobs for them in this land which is so richly endowed with resources awaiting development.

Then I thought of the past six years of war; years which have brought tragedy, grief and privation to the homes of almost every family represented here today and yet years which have brought jobs to everyone willing to work. Years when industry has operated double shifts and farmers have tilled every available acre in their efforts to supply the tremendous demand for all manner of products.

I thought, surely it is not beyond the wit of men to devise a political and economic system under which we can have both peace and prosperity at one and the same time. Now that I am king, I must do something about this. But I will need good advisers: men of vision, of energy, of initiative, men who have the capacity to enthuse and inspire and unite my people in the pursuit of great objectives.

First I must have the advice of a great educator who will direct the dissemination of knowledge among my people. So I rang the silver bell. Immediately an immense genie appeared, who bowed low and said: I am the slave of the bell . . . command and I will obey."

"Bring me Sir Kay Macleod," I said. Straightway Sir Kay appeared, clad in presidential gown and bearing in his hand a microphone.

I said: "Hail, Sir Kay, you have done well to bring your microphone for I need your valuable assistance in conveying knowledge to my people. I plan to appoint you director of education in this province over which I rule. But, first, tell me the procedure which you would follow if I conferred this honor upon you."

Sir Kay spoke up and said: "I will foster research in order that the bounds of our knowledge may be extended. I will encourage the study of science in order that the resources of our province may be developed. I will promote the study of the liberal arts in order that the minds of our people may be enriched."

I said: "Sir Kay, you have spoken well, you may proceed with this important work, but remember to make good use of your microphone for I expect you to broadcast knowledge to each and every one of my people.

"I count on you to acquaint even the least of them with the five R's. Of these five R's I consider the fourth and fifth of equal importance with the first three. They are, of course, the rights and responsibilities. You have my authority to inform my people that they have certain rights . . . the right to work, the right to rest, the right to recreation.

"But for each of these great rights they must also assume equally great responsibilities, that of doing a full day's work for each day's pay received; of taking an active part in the affairs of their communities, their cities, their province, dominion and the empire in which they reside. In short, they have the responsibility of making the very best possible use of the minds and bodies which God has given them."

Then I thought, I shall need a man to advise me regarding the great problems of production; a man with experience and energy and initiative. So I rang the bell and said to the genie: "Bring me Sir Richard Yamabe."

And there was Richard, clad in a suit of overalls and carrying in his hand a pencil case. I said: "Hail, Sir Richard, you do well to bring your pencil case for I have important work for you to do. I plan to appoint you director of production, but tell me first what action you will take."

Sir Richard said: "I will harness the great rivers throughout our land, the Columbia, Thompson, Fraser and Campbell. With cheap electric power so obtainable, I will develop the mines, the forests and the fisheries of this rich province.

"As for agriculture, I will produce cheap fertilizer with which to enrich our fields. I will convey electricity to homes throughout the rural areas. This will bring relief from drudgery to the farmer and his wife. It will also create a great market for the products of our workshops and factories."

I said: "Sir Richard, you have spoken well, but remember to keep your pencil case with you always for every great idea must be converted into plans and blue prints before it can be put into practice."

Then I thought, I will need a man to advise me regarding the great problems of consumption and distribution. I will need a satisfied consumer.

"Who would be better for the job than my old friend Sir Myles Dodwell." So I rang the bell and Sir Myles appeared wearing a broad smile and carrying in his hand a tape measure.

I said: "Hail, Sir Myles, you have done well to bring your tape measure. Pass it around your ample waist." He did so and read off the figure 72. "All is well, your index of rotundity indicates that you are a satisfied consumer, well qualified to act as director of consumption and distribution in this province. Tell me how you will proceed to maintain full employment and a high standard of living!"

Sir Myles said: "That is quite a simple matter. All that is necessary is to keep buying power well distributed throughout your people and maintain it equal at all times to their productive capacity."

I said: "That sounds logical, but just how would you bring about this highly desirable situation?"

Sir Myles replied: "I would call a conference of all leaders of industry and leaders of labor. After they had discussed the problems involved over a period of weeks, and agreed to disagree, I would call in Sir Donald Gordon and instruct him to run the show."

I said: "Sir Myles you are assuredly a great administrator. You have the unique ability of being able to select for difficult work men who are more capable than you are yourself. Proceed with your plan, but remember to carry your tape measure with you, for if your index of rotundity should reach 75, there is serious danger of inflation.

Then I thought I must have a bright young lady to advise me regarding the great problems of social welfare, and I thought of Lady Joan Bennett. I again pressed the silver bell and the genie summoned Lady Joan immediately, wearing a nurse's uniform and carrying a baby's bathtub.

I said: "Lady Joan, if I entrust you with the health services of this great province, what innovations will you make?"

Lady Joan replied: First of all I will institute prenatal care of infants so that our children will be born healthy; I will make sure that young mothers know how to clothe and feed their children so that they will grow up strong and well; I will introduce health and accident insurance which will cover all workers in the province and will care for the aged and infirm."

I said: "That is a splendid program, so away you go and put your plans into operation." And Lady Joan sailed away in her bathtub with a string of diapers flying in the breeze.

Then I thought, I have made provision for the mental and physical welfare of my people, but there is still some thing to be done if we are to create that bright new world to which we are looking forward for man is more than flesh and blood and intellect and emotions. Man is a spiritual being.

Accordingly, I must have someone to advise me regarding the spiritual welfare of my people. I rang the bell and Sir Sherley MacDonald appeared, attired in the robes of an archbishop, walking slowly down the aisle with twelve choir boys behind him bearing an immense stepladder.

"Hail, Sir Sherley, you can't fool me with all this pomp and splendor. I know full well that beneath those gorgeous raiments you are still the same honest, God-fearing man who used to be principal of the Summerland elementary school. It is for this very reason that I have selected you to perform supremely important duties in the province. Ascend this stepladder which you have brought."

When Sir Sherley reached the very peak I said to him: "Look now upon my people and tell what you see."

And Sir Sherley replied: "I see a multitude of people. They are moving rapidly but because they are moving in many directions they are getting nowhere fast. They are bound to earth by great bonds of hatred and intolerance and greed and selfishness and the lust for power."

I said: "Sir Sherley, you see clearly, look now at the heavens and tell me what you see."

"I see the way that our people must travel to free themselves from their earthly bondage. I see a simple slogan in letters of light across the heavens. This slogan contains only seven small words. Each word by itself is of no importance. But when taken together and arranged in their proper order, they constitute the very foundation of the Kingdom of Heaven on earth. The seven words were arranged in their proper order over nineteen hundred years ago. They were arranged by a humble carpenter.

"The seven words are: 'Do as you would be done by.'"

And with that, the archbishop disappeared in a blinding flash. Having regard to the peculiar character of my dream, I think that I should explain that I accept no responsibility whatever for the views expressed by the characters therein. Their opinions are entirely their own.

I think I should also make it clear that any resemblance between the characters in my dream and people now present is entirely coincidental.

In concluding his address, Dr Palmer urged the graduating class to work hard, play hard and laugh heartily. When the going is tough . . . "Just start to sing," as you tackle the thing that cannot be done, and you'll do it.

What Others Say About Us

(The Kelowna Courier, June 6.)

This week, the Courier is pleased to be able to extend felicitations to the newest member of the Okanagan news-proprietors, J. R. "Tim" Armstrong and George Fudge. The Review, we understand, will publish its first issue this week.

The Courier's interest in the new venture is a little more than academic, as both Messrs. Armstrong and Fudge are former members of The Outlook staff. Mr. Armstrong was reporter and news editor of The Courier from 1936 until he enlisted in 1941, while Mr. Fudge relied on the linotype during the holiday period for several years.

Knowing its institutions it is quite safe to say that in The Review, Summerland will find itself with an aggressive weekly giving full news coverage to the community and quite prepared to fight community battles. As a team, Messrs. Armstrong and Fudge should prove very effective, and Summerland should benefit accordingly.

Starting a newspaper today means overcoming great obstacles and Messrs. Armstrong and Fudge have already encountered many. They will encounter more. But they have youth and enthusiasm and, if their efforts on behalf of the Summerland community are appreciated they will overcome the obstacles. Summerland is fortunate in having these aggressive men enter the community; that a live newspaper is an asset to any community is a recognized fact. However, a newspaper can serve the community only in the ratio that the community appreciates and supports the newspaper. Working together, the people of Summerland and The Review can achieve much which will redound to the advantage of the municipality and its citizens.

(The Revelstoke Review)

A copy of the new Summerland Review reached our desk this week and we hasten to extend our best wishes to the war veteran owners, J. R. "Tim" Armstrong and George R. B. Fudge, and to congratulate Summerland on having a newspaper of its own after a lapse of 20 years. Judging by the many fine expressions of appreciation by Summerland business men and service organizations, the rapidly-growing community on Okanagan Lake is quite conscious of the value of this new newspaper.

The Red Cross rooms in the parish hall have been closed for the summer and it is requested that a full attendance be on hand for the opening in September, as there is a full quota of work scheduled.

Mrs. W. Morrice, of Vancouver, is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. A. G. Bissett.

Two New School Buses Increase School Costs

Two new buses will greet Summerland school children when the fall term rolls around in September, according to plans now being formulated between Penticton School District No. 15 and two Summerland firms, Smith and Henry and White and Thornthwaite.

These two firms are being asked to submit their tenders for the bus runs, and subject to Victoria's approval, they will be given the contracts.

According to preliminary figures submitted by these bus contractors, the new bus service will mean an increase in cost of $22.45 per day. Many more school children will be accommodated with the increase in service and they will all be seated.

It is planned that both high and elementary pupils will be accommodated in the school buses, which do not pick up any passengers within a mile and a half of the school.

The new buses which these firms are purchasing will be 55-passenger vehicles, capable of seating three on each seat and seven across the rear. They will be steel-body buses and will be of the latest construction, built for safety and comfort of the passengers, it is stated.

White and Thornthwaite plan to operate three trips to Trout Creek daily; two trips via the hospital hill and lower town, on a basis of $18.50 per school day on a five year contract. Included in this will be one trip by the bus now in use to pick up overflow from lower town and Peach Orchard.

It is anticipated that the Trout Creek runs will pick up 58 school children and 91 from the other run. Last year, with one bus, some 120 children were crammed into the runs.

Smith and Henry plan to scrap their oldest bus and purchase a new 55-passenger one and would thus also operate two buses. Figures presented to the school board on Thursday evening in Summerland were: Prairie Valley, seven-mile round trip, 60 passengers; Giant's Head, 64; Garnett Valley, more than 50; another short trip to Giant's Head, to pick up some 20 children, on a route of about two miles.

This firm estimates that the new bus will travel 23 miles each day and the old bus will go 24 miles. A tender of $24 per day for this service is being submitted by Smith and Henry, which is an increase over the existing cost of $12.50 daily.

It was pointed out that no high school pupils could be picked up by Smith and Henry before, as there was no accommodation for them.

The small bus which is being discarded has been in operation for 14 years.

If there are any teachers who live a long distance from the school and have no transportation of their own, they will be allowed to ride in the school buses as supervisors, the school trustees agreed last week.

Written tenders are to be submitted to the school district by these Summerland firms and approval of the board is obtained, they will be forwarded to the department of education for approval.

West Summerland, B.C., June 26, 1946.

Editor, The Review - Last week your paper published a letter from Mrs. Arnott, of the Temperance league and, after reading it and discussing it with a few of the younger women in town, I decided to give my views of the matter in question.

I'm an average Canadian housewife, we've an average young family and an average income. I, myself, do not drink or smoke, but it's purely a matter of taste, not a case of Puritanism.

My husband joined the army seven years ago and did his share, but he did not stop and question the people at home to see if they approved of him fighting for them, or whether they would rather have a strictly temperate man to fight a non-alcoholic war for them.

He thought at the time he went that it was his duty to protect his and everyone else's right to live a decent life the way he saw fit for himself and his family.

Now, he's told, if the Legion has a beer business, he'll ruin his family financially, corrupt his children morally and probably die the death of an acute alcoholic. Don't you believe it!

Personally, I like to see my husband go to the Legion, fight the war over again, have some beer and generally have a night out. So I'll put my name on their list and if everyone was honest with themselves, I'm sure they will do the same.

Thank you for the chance to air my views.

Mrs. L. H. Ramsay, Jr.

Mrs. John Dunbar, of Hamilton, Ont., and Miss Madge Cartwright, of Oshawa, Ont., were guests early last week with Miss Marion Cartwright.

Apples And Pears Sizing Well Says Crop Report

Armstrong, Vernon, Okanagan, Winfield and Okanagan Centre As reported, June 28: Since our last report weather conditions have been variable, with a number of days being cool, with intervening showers.

In the orchards all trees are making rapid growth and excellent sizing of the fruit. With the exception of prunes the drop is about complete. The thinning of stone fruits is about finished, as also is this operation on early apples. There has been a fairly heavy drop in some blocks of McIntosh and Delicious and though the crop promise is fairly high it will be below the record crop of 1944. The early sweet cherries are now moving into local markets and Bings are coloring fast.

In small fruits, showery weather is interfering with strawberry harvesting and also the keeping quality of this berry. The first raspberries are now on the market and this crop appears normal. In the black current acreage there has occurred a heavy crop over the past two weeks, which will result in considerable yield reduction from earlier estimates.

In the vegetable acreage the general growth is very good with exception of a few of the heat-loving crops which are being held up by cool conditions. Seasonable vegetables are moving in increasing quantities.

In general, farm crops growth is excellent, winter wheat and rye show a heavy stand and are now in or past blossom, spring grains are doing well and the dried pea stands never looked better. Cutting of first crop alfalfa is well advanced and stands are heavy, the wet weather is interfering considerably with the harvesting of this crop. Grass, hays and pastures are in good condition.

The general past situation is quite favorable with no serious outbreaks of any of the pests, though aphids and red mite of apple are now becoming more numerous. More entries of codling worms are noticeable at this time, but the general situation with this pest appears more favorable than in the past two seasons. There is still, however, lots of time for serious injury from this pest and growers are advised not to slacken at all on their spray applications. Mildew though not as generally severe as in 1945, has still caused considerable damage in some blocks that did not have control sprays or a sufficient number of them applied at the proper periods.

Kelowna

As reported June 27. The weather, since the last report, has been cool and showery.

Apples, pears and other fruits are sizing well and trees are making good growth.

A few early processing cherries are being harvested. Picking will increase rapidly and harvesting of Windsors and Royal Annes will be general next week. Bings will be ready for the fresh fruit markets in about eight to ten days.

Early vegetables are available for market. Lettuce is past its peak.

Summerland, Westbank and Peachland

As reported June 26. Since the last news letter, the weather has been exceedingly variable. The period began with several days of sultry weather and occasional storms, and then changed to hot, dry days. However, this past few days have been cold, dull and with occasional rain showers.

Good tree fruit growth has taken place during the past two weeks. Early cherries are being harvested for processing. The lighter crop of Bings is sizing well and some trees are a most ripe.

Nevertheless, the bulk of the Bing crop will not be ready for a week. Damage to cherries from rain has been very slight. Thinning of peaches is completed in most orchards. Thinning of apples and pears is continuing. Sizing of apples and pears has been good.

Ground crops have made excellent growth during this cooler weather. Onion fields are making splendid growth. Tomato plant growth has been slow in some sections but these is a general freedom from disease in this crop. Early potatoes, early cabbage, cauliflower and head lettuce are being harvested in home gardens. The movement of hot house tomatoes is now at its peak.

Orchard pest activity is still below normal. There are few signs of codling moth damage so far. Some Blister Mite is evident where orchards did not receive the appropriate spray. Fungus diseases have received a stimulus from the recent cool days and showers. Powdery Mildew is present to some extent in Jonathan and some pears.

Penticton, Naramata, Kaleden and Keremeos.

As reported, June 25. Since the last bulletin the weather has been cool and showery. This district was shaken on Sunday, June 23, by an earthquake, but no great damage was caused.

In the orchards some cherries are splitting this season, Foyak Annes a little more than most varieties. Growers are finishing their fourth cover spray for Codling Moth. Thinning is general in stone fruits, and should be finished in about a week's time. Some cherries are being put through the processing plant and canneries, and this should be in full swing by July 3.

All the orchards are doing extremely well this season and all fruits are a wonderful size for this time of year.

Okanagan Falls, Oliver and Osoyoos.

As reported, June 25, the temperature since the last report has varied from being unseasonably cool to being moderately warm. There have been frequent light showers. There was a short hail storm on the afternoon of June 14, but the damage caused was negligible. On the whole, the weather this season has been conducive to growth.

Growers are winding up their Codling Moth sprays for the first brood and the control throughout the district is good. The thinning of stone fruits and pears is about completed and apple thinning is proceeding.

The early cherries have been cleaned up and the main crop, Bing variety, is moving in volume. This fruit is of fine quality and well sized. The showers of the past two weeks have been followed by cool weather and a remarkably small amount of splitting has resulted.

Although not serious throughout the district, there is more than the usual amount of peach mildew showing up. The Elberta variety seems especially affected. Black aphid of peach, which is rarely found in this district, may be found in the odd orchard. In the ground crop line the shipments at present consist of cucumbers, potatoes and cabbage.

Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Taylor and daughters, of Vancouver, are spending the summer with taken place during the past two weeks. Early cherries are being Taylor.

1946 is an all-important year FOR CANADA'S TOURIST BUSINESS

MILLIONS OF AMERICAN VISITORS are expected to come to Canada during 1946 for their post-war vacation.

It won't always be easy to accommodate them. We still have our crowding and shortages. We are still in the aftermath of war. This is the very reason we should all take special care to be courteous and considerate to our guests this summer.

This year, of all years, we must maintain the reputation we have won for true hospitality.

YOU MAY NEVER SEE A TOURIST, BUT... tourist dollars flow to you. The grocer, the garage man, the farmer, the office worker—everybody benefits directly or indirectly from tourist spending, and the extra work and income it creates. Last year, tourists in Canada spent more than one hundred and fifty million dollars. In the years ahead, as our ability to handle tourist traffic grows, who is to say how big this business may become? For Canada is in an enviable position—a natural vacation land next door to the most travel-minded nation in the world. This is an all-important year! It may be difficult in many ways yet it holds great promise for the future.

THEY'LL BE TALKING ABOUT US... We want them to come again. We want them to tell their friends: "We had a marvellous time in Canada!" By making them truly welcome, we can win millions of enthusiastic salesmen for Canada—"satisfied customers" who will pass on to many times their number the story of Canadian hospitality and of Canada's unlimited attractions as a vacation land.

Bride-Elect Shower

Mrs. Harry Brown and Mrs. Howard Milne were co-hostesses at the home of the latter, on Wednesday afternoon, June 26, at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Ruth McLarty, a popular bride-elect of mid-July. For a clever and original presentation of the gifts, the bride was given a letter instructing her where to search for articles to assist her in her future household.

The beautiful and effective decorations were entirely floral. For a delightful tea with Mrs. George Perry and Mrs. D. L. Milne at the urns, the table was centred with tall tapers.

Of the many useful gifts received by the bride, and for which appropriate thanks were given, and especially thoughtful gift to the bride, who will make her future home on the other side of the continent, was the lovely framed picture of the Baptist church.

Servitures for the tea were Mrs. Blake Milne, Mrs. Clark Wilkin and Miss Mary Vanderburgh.

About 30 ladies of the Baptist church were present at the shower, and out-of-town guests were Mrs. Theo. Gibson, Vernon; Mrs. Viola Clark, Penticton; and Mrs. N. Shipley, of Pasadena, Cal.

Mrs. G. McMaster was a week-end visitor to Summerland from Vancouver, returning to her home on Tuesday evening.

BILLED WITH COST

Summerland council has decided that any damages to municipal roads caused by irrigation overflow must be made by the orchard owner responsible. Recently, one road was inundated on a Sunday from water believed to have come from Mr. Bloomfield's orchard. He will be billed for two hours work to repair this stretch of roadway.

COMMISSION SITTING

Under Dean F. M. Clements, the Royal Commission on Irrigation is due to commence its hearings in the council chamber at Vernon on Friday, July 19. Briefs are being presented by irrigation districts throughout the Okanagan and by the B.C. Irrigation Association.

Holy Child Church Setting For Nuptials

In a ceremony of traditional solemnity and beauty, held in the Holy Child Church, West Summerland, on Saturday morning, June 8, with Father Morris, of Penticton officiating, marriage vows were exchanged between Elsie Rose, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Bonne, of Fort Garry, Man., and Francis John, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Arnusch, of West Summerland. The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. John Menu, was exquisitely gowned in ivory satin, en train, with lace insets in the sleeves, yoke and train. The full length veil of embroidered silk net cascaded from an original and attractive headdress of Belgian style, complimenting the ancestry of the bride. The bride carried a lovely shower bouquet of deep-toned roses, accented by a background of maidenhair fern and baby's breath.

The groom was supported by Mr. Adorno Biagioni, while ushers were Mr. A. F. Menu, and Mr. Alex Sperling, Kelowna. The church was charmingly decorated for the occasion with a pastel floral arrangement, and the altar was covered with Regal lilies, and tall tapers. As the parents of the bride were unable to attend the ceremony, but sent a telegram of congratulations and affection, the bride's mother was represented by Mrs. John Menu, who wore a gown of gold crepe, cut on princess lines, with black accessories. Mrs. Arnusch chose an attractive two-piece frock of powder blue and white, with navy accessories. Both Mrs. Menu and Mrs. Arnusch wore corsages of pink and white carnations with maidenhair fern. The organist for the wedding was Mrs. J. Kloster, of Penticton. Following the wedding, a small reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, with relatives and intimate friends of the young couple attending.

MRS. JOHN MOTT IS HOSTESS AT SHOWER FOR BRIDE-ELECT

Mrs. John Mott was hostess on Tuesday afternoon, July 9, at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Grace James, a bride-elect of the coming week. For a novel presentation of the gifts, the bride cut her way through a maze of pink and white streamers to a decorated chair beside the fireplace, which was filled with gifts. After an enjoyable afternoon a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her three daughters.

WILL NOT SELL H. Scherston, of Enderby, who will be coming to reside in Summerland shortly, has made a bid for lot 5, block 35, district lot 455, south of the property he is occupying. However, the council decided it could not sell this lot as it will probably be needed by the industrial workers in the packing houses nearby.

PAY SURVEY COST

September 23, 24 and 25 are the dates set for the annual Union of B.C. Municipalities convention at Harrison Hot Springs this year. So far no member of the Summerland council has signified his intention of attending.

SEALED TENDERS

addressed to the undersigned, marked "Tenders for School Building," will be received up to 5 p.m., Thursday, July 18th, 1946, for the erection of a small school building on the school grounds at Summerland, B.C.

Plans and specifications may be seen at the Municipal Clerk's Office at West Summerland.

Construction must commence immediately after awarding the contract and be completed ready for occupation by August 24th, 1946.

The lowest or any tender may not necessarily be accepted.

The Secretary, Board of School Trustees, Penticton, B.C.

Council Talks On Editorial

"Your theory is right but it is hard to put into practice," was Reeve W. R. Powell's opinion on Monday, June 24, when the Summerland council discussed the Review's editorial of June 20 issue, which suggested a court of revision should be set up to revise all municipally-owned land which is to be sold so that standard values could be placed on all properties.

Councillor Tait introduced the subject by suggesting: "I think you have something there," in speaking to The Review editor. Municipal Clerk Nixon pointed out that such was the practice in former years. "It is all right if you keep the list revised, but it fell behind and became useless," he pointed out.

The chief magistrate stated that there are only a few properties left in Summerland under municipal disposal which are of any general value and most of the lots are only useful to persons who have adjoining property.

"It's just rag and bobtail stuff," he commented, "and only of interest to a certain few." Several more properties were disposed of and offers made on June 24. H. Peterson offered $450 for lot 24, D.L. 441, and this was promptly accepted by the council on the understanding that not more than three acres would be made available for irrigation water.

Mel' Munro has a five-year lease, expiring in 1947, on lot 13, map 2433, at $2 per year rental. This is pasture land and a good deal of it is under water. He wished to purchase this property as he expects to put up some temporary buildings.

The council, because of the water condition, did not wish to sell this property, but has offered a lease for ten years at the same rate.

H. Westerlaken appeared before the council to purchase a swamp property below his present holding, which has been rented to L. Smith. The council decided to investigate the lot and would come to a decision at its next meeting.

Councillor Wilson voiced an objection raised by Capt. A. M. Temple to the council sale of a lot last week to R. J. Bangma. Capt. Temple's property is below the acreage disposed of to Mr. Bangma and, because of the steepness of the hillside, he considered that it would not hold the water but would flood on to his property.

Water Foreman Kercher will investigate this complaint and the council will deal with it at a later date.

The Strike

Summerland's box factory is practically at its peak once again. The workers have obtained their 44-hour week and have received a ten cents per hour wage boost. Boxes are being produced and although there will be some hardship in finding sufficient containers for the big 1946 crop, the difficulties are not insurmountable.

But nearly five weeks of unemployment for more than fifty Summerland men have been lost. Between $8,000 and $10,000 were lost to the community in payrolls and allied employment costs.

It has been estimated that at the new rate of ten cents per hour more, it will take eight months of work to retrieve the losses.

On many sides, the layman wonders if the interior mill workers needed to go out on strike at all just because the coast woodworkers decided on this course of action. Could not a similar solution have been arrived at by sensible negotiation without imperilling the entire fruit industry which is the life blood of this Okanagan Valley?

And then again, why could not the government have acted at the end of two weeks as they did in five weeks? Why should there have been such a lapse of time before the government recognized its duty and stepped into the picture?

There are rumors in the Okanagan that other groups of industrial workers are planning to strike, before the crop has been packed. If such a catastrophe comes to pass the fruit industry will be dealt a crushing blow.

It would be well for the grower executives to act quickly now and endeavor to intercept such a move, if it is to come to pass.

Coming of Age

There are a few persons in this befuddled world who are so engrossed in their own endeavors that they fail to appreciate the beauty of flowers. And here in Summerland the lover of beauty has ample scope to marvel at the wonders of nature as portrayed by the wide variety of flowers and shrubs.

Most homes in this district have an abundance of color in their gardens. The soil and sunshine have produced flowers which are second to none in the world. But the prevalence of these colored show-pieces is not alone due to the hand of nature.

For the past 21 years the Summerland Horticultural Society has fostered competitions, has given advice, distributed literature and aided generally in the betterment of the Summerland gardens.

Next week this society is coming of age and is being reorganized after a lapse of general activity during the war years. A big general meeting of interested flower-lovers is being held to revive the hard-working group and lay plans for a continuation of the excellent campaign to brighten the district homes and gardens.

As in every similar group, there has been a small nucleus which has accomplished most of the work and has continued year after year to work for the good of the society and the community as a whole.

But in few such societies has there been such tangible evidence of the good work, as with the Summerland Horticultural Society. One has only to look around to see the evidence on every hand.

Main competition sponsored by this society in the past has been the Flower Show. Before 1940 it was recognized as the premier floral exhibition in this province. This year will see a revival of this famed show and with the help of the community as a whole it is hoped that once again the annual display of the district's best flowers will top all expectations.

Twenty-one years of endeavor seldom produces such fine results as in the case of the Summerland Horticultural Society.

Building Bylaw

Report of Roy F. Angus, Summerland building inspector, to the municipal council this week indicated that the new building bylaw has not met with as much opposition as was at first expected. When the proposal was aired in the spring, it was thought by some that needless red tape was being introduced in this district and that the bylaw would only impede the already hampered building trade.

But a building bylaw, properly drawn up and administered, is for the protection of the community as a whole. True, in some instances it calls for additional expense and some hardships, but in the main its policy is correct.

Old-timers in this municipality can well recall the disastrous series of fires in the lower town which threatened to wipe out the entire business district. There was inadequate fire protection and the buildings had not been constructed with a view to preventing the spread of fires.

The Summerland building bylaw, as it was passed in April, is a step in the right direction, but it is only the groundwork for even more stringent restrictions in the future.

Faults in existing buildings cannot be remedied now but the bylaw can see that mistakes in the past are not repeated. There are too many buildings in the business district which are constructed side by side, with no protection against fire hazard.

It would be a big mistake to continue building in this community without the protection of fire walls between buildings. What added costs there are at the time for the contractor would be repaid in lower fire insurance rates in years to come.

Summerland has felt the benefit of better fire fighting equipment now with some reduction in insurance rates, but it could be benefiting a great deal more if a building bylaw restricting the erection of fire traps had been enforced years ago.

The Shirt Situation

Why is there not enough shirting fabric now to keep Canada's 40-odd shirt factories operating at capacity. Why aren't they turning out shirts at least equal to peacetime production? For one thing, practically no English shirtings are coming over at all as they did in peacetime. Several of our factories used to depend almost entirely on English fabrics. Now, they have to get it from Canadian production and Canada's cotton textile allocations from the U.S.

The U.S. herself is short of fine shirtings because of a record domestic and international demand—and because of serious labor shortages in the spinning industry, leaving her with depleted stocks of fabrics. Canada is trying to import just as much shirting fabrics and shirting yarns as the U.S. will spare her. No matter how much more fabric we are capable of turning out in this country, the Canadian supply is not sufficient for our needs.

In 1943, for instance, Canada was able to import more than eight million pounds of cotton yarns from the U.S. This compares with three million pounds which was all Canada could obtain from the U.S. in 1945.

What Others Say About Us

From the "Editorial Jottings" of the St. Mary's Journal-Argus, St. Mary's, Ont.

We were pleased to receive in the mail this week a copy of Volume 1, Number 1, of the West Summerland, B.C. Review. When we were out in the Okanagan Valley in March we had the pleasure of meeting the prospective manager of the new weekly, Capt. George Fudge, who had just received his discharge from the army. The Summerland constituency has three thousand people with other contiguous municipalities, so that there is lots of room for a good newspaper. Years ago, our old friend, Ralph E. White, fresh from his native New Brunswick, published a paper at Summerland, but moved on to a larger field at Kamloops, where he has developed a great business. George Fudge, who is a Summerlandian, probably learned the business with Ralph White. He and his partner, J. R. Armstrong, have all the earmarks of clever newspapermen and we hope to hear great things of the Review. The newspaper started off with twelve pages, packed with local news, editorial comment and live advertising. Somebody picked up the copy of the new sheet before we had a chance to look up the advts. of those enterprising West Summerland merchants, Laidlaw Bros. (sons of Bill and Peg) and Butler & Walden.

Spring started with a vengeance out in British Columbia. On the same mail with Vol. 1, No. 1 of the West Summerland, B.C. Review, came the first issue of a live new monthly, "The Canadian Weekly Editor," date-lined at Powell River, B.C., and published by a young Canadian newspaperman, L. C. Way. This bright periodical rightly claims to be the only journal published exclusively in the interests of the Canadian weekly newspaper field. The first issue is replete with live articles of comment and news of the weekly papers. It brings with it to our editorial room the atmosphere of the enterprising Pacific Province. As we turn the pages we can almost detect the odor of crocuses and snowdrops, as we saw them in February, as we basked in the sun coming over the mountains.

West Summerland, B.C., July 5, 1946.

We had a picnic today. Who? The ants and me. Paradoxically, "the ants and me" is perfectly good English, while "me and the ants" would be very wrong.

The picnic was held in what is known as Peach Orchard Park—an unpardonable euphemism. Like many residents of this district, I had not been in the sacred spot for some years except in passing through to Ellison Hall. With the eyes of a stranger, studied it and with the mind of a stranger formed an opinion of Summerland anything but complimentary to those in positions of authority.

Peach Orchard Park is a disgrace to the municipality. The building that serves as a kitchen and shelter from rain is in deplorable condition. The stove lacks an oven door. Names of local residents and visitors deface the walls and portals. Tables are dingy and grimy, benches likewise. Some lie broken. All about dirt and untidiness reign. Across the road on the clearing, cardboard pie plates, beer bottle covers, cigarette boxes, branches and bark, litter the landscape, while a garbage tin to which rubbish has occasionally been consigned by orderly guests, filled to overflowing and never emptied, has given up in despair, collapsed in shame, spilling its offensive contents afar, in keeping with the general appearance of this Cinderella among Okanagan parks.

Some weeks ago I signed a paper favoring the sale of part of the park site for a tourist camp. Tonight I would sign a paper commanding the sale of the whole property to some individual or company willing to develop it as its natural beauty warrants.

In recent years, individuals who hold tracts of land for purposes of sport or recreation, have been subject to attack. In Great Britain "estates" have come into the hands of the state, and are now the estates of "the people." Their condition is the business of every citizen and their development should be subject to the public will.

If state, provincial or local governments fail in their duty in the administration of public property, holding it in a natural—or worse—condition, individuals with energy and initiative have every right to demand that it be handed over at a fair valuation, to private enterprise, to be developed in accordance with the laws governing all business.

To private landowners we say: Use it or allow someone else to do so. To public landowners we say: Make it fit for public use or allow someone else to do so.

It is said that more than one offer has been made to establish a good tourist camp on the park site. Objections have been voiced by residents who seldom visit the pitiful place. After our picnic (the ants and me) I say emphatically that no tourist camp worthy of the name could injure the reputation of Summerland as much as the Peach Orchard Park in its present plight. No decent occupant of the area would dare to expose to view articles unlisted above seen in that place today.

Cinderella had a fairy godmother who recognized her possibilities. With her help, Cinderella was transformed from a grubby kitchen maid into a beautiful and desirable princess. Advance, fairy godmother! Sarah L. Fosbery.

WESTBANK

WESTBANK — Among the many new-comers to the Westbank district are Capt. and Mrs. Norman Rudolph and their six-month old son, Peter. With Jack Gellatly, Capt. Rudolph will engage in propagation and research work in connection with walnut and other Canadian grown nuts of commercial value. Both Capt. and Mrs. Rudolph served overseas in the Canadian Army, the latter as a nursing sister.

They are accompanied by Mrs. Rudolph's sister, Mrs. Kenneth Bruce of Vancouver, who served with the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service in Toronto and Washington, D.C. From Washington she flew to Germany to attend the Potsdam conference, winning the distinction of being the only Canadian girl at the conference. On her return she spent a leave with her sister in England, later returning to Canada and the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hylton, 1275 W. 20th Ave., West Vancouver.

Capt. Rudolph, who had driven 3900 miles from Ottawa to Westbank, states that he thinks the Okanagan is unsurpassed by any that he has seen during his travels in Canada and the U.S.A.

The Dominion Horticulturist from Ottawa was a visitor at the Gellatly Nut Nursery on Saturday, June 22. Accompanied by Mr. Mann, he had been making a tour of the Okanagan Valley from Salmon Arm south.

The annual picnic for the Westbank school children was held at the Bay picnic grounds on Tuesday, June 25. The weather turned cool and cloudy, which was a great disappointment to the children, who had been planning on spending much of the time in the lake.

Mrs. Earl Armstrong of Kamloops is a visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. Harold Cornish.

A miscellaneous shower was held on Friday evening, June 28, at the home of Mrs. Washington Brown, for Miss Eileen Smith of Kelowna, whose wedding will take place on Saturday, July 6. The gifts were presented in a realistic miniature schoolhouse, which had been prepared by Miss Joyce Rolph. After the gifts had been admired by many former friends, who were present, lunch was served by the hostess, Harold Menzies, the groom-elect and Miss Smith were on the teaching staff of the Westbank school before joining up in the armed forces.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Callies of Wayne, Alta., were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hoskins last week en route from Vancouver to their home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Russell, of Vancouver, are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hoskins.

Interest in war canoe racing has taken an upturn in Summerland during the past month but still more paddlers are needed to make up a strong senior crew. Don Tait reports this week.

Practices have been held on Thursday evenings but plans for an additional practice night on Mondays are being made. The war canoe practices start from the old government wharf in Summerland.

EDITORIAL

Roads

Summerland, generally, has met with relief the council's announcement that two of its roads are to be hard-surfaced. Soon motorists and pedestrians alike will be free from a plethora of dust and pot holes on the Giant's Head and Station roads. That is all to the good.

These two sections of Summerland's divergent road system are badly in need of surfacing and are believed to have more travel than any other roads, with one possible exception.

It is too bad that this work could not have been started many weeks before. Criticism in this community has been rampant over the condition of the roads, but to be fair to the municipal authorities, they could not go ahead with their road program any sooner.

In order to place hard surfacing on highways with any degree of permanency a suitable type of crushed rock is a vital necessity. Summerland had no rock crusher until a few weeks ago and it was only in the past couple of weeks that the new machinery has been able to produce crushed rock in the desired quantities.

Now, Summerland is equipped with all the necessary machinery to hard surface its roads, with the exception of a roller. And a roller can be rented from Penticton municipality, council members state.

But there is one section which needs as much attention as the roads which are to obtain the first hard surfacing quota. We refer to the Granville and Hastings roads in the West Summerland business area.

No matter how a municipality is constituted, the business area is the main show-piece. Merchants here have endeavored to brighten their stores with a painting spree. Many-colored signs have added to the display. And yet, the overall picture is spoiled with the dust and refuse collecting on the main business streets.

In our opinion, the Summerland council should consider, seriously, including in its program the surfacing from sidewalk to sidewalk of its business streets.

Such a consideration was mentioned last week by one council member, but the council did not include it in the original surfacing program. As there is no chairman of a road committee in the council, the reeve is responsible for the road maintenance and improvement, for the council as a whole is the roads committee. The reeve may have an ace up his sleeve and a plan to extend the announced program, but if so, he has not made any statement.

Let us hope that the good work now started will not stop with the surfacing of the Giant's Head and Station roads. If the material is available, and the council has been assured that such is the case, then as much of the road system in this municipality as possible should be treated.

Of course, this is an expensive proposition. But there would be few ratepayers in this district who would object to the council borrowing money to improve the roads. Summerland has suffered badly through the war years for lack of good roads. Now the opportunity is at hand to put in permanent roads throughout the district.

It would be expensive at the time but the council would save considerable money in the long run with the decreased cost of maintenance.

And Speaking of Roads

There is one small stretch of highway in this district which causes more anguish and produced more expletives from traveling motorists than any other in probably the whole of Canada.

We refer to the Peach Orchard hill, at a spot about one-third down from the West Summerland corner. There is a stretch of only some fifty feet which is fast becoming a menace to travellers.

The rest of the highway is in fairly good condition and the hard surfacing is intact most of the way down the hill. Cars are inclined to go a little faster than usual down the smooth surface. Suddenly the unwary motorist strikes this unsurfaced portion riddled with ruts. He tries to brake down but it is too late. There is no warning of this condition and his car swerves and bumps over the ruts.

Provincial highway authorities should take action at once to remedy this situation. This particular short stretch has been a cause of annoyance for years. It should be remedied in a permanent manner . . . and fast.

Red and Blue Beef Prices

Wholesale ceiling prices on beef of red and blue quality will be reimposed on July 20th at levels varying from one to two cents per pound higher than those in effect prior to May 27th, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces.

Board officials explained that this action was taken following meetings with various sections of the industry over the past few weeks and stressed the fact that it had nothing whatever to do with recent changes in the status of O.P.A. regulations in the United States.

The Board suspended wholesale ceilings from May 27 to July 20 on red and blue brand beef, to encourage marketing of top-quality cattle and, with this regulation terminating July 20th, also expressed confidence that they would be able, in spite of many difficulties to have the new pricing schedule ready to go into operation when the Suspension Order terminated.

The new schedule of wholesale prices will be accompanied by a varying adjustment in retail pricing in the different zones on red, blue and commercial qualities. This will mean that on many retail cuts there will be no advance in price, while on some of the better cuts of higher qualities there will be an increase ranging from one to three cents per pound. In a number of zones there will be no increase in consumer prices on any cut.

The adjusted prices for the various zones on red, blue commercial beef will allow for the difference in freight rate costs between various zones, and will provide for a more equitable distribution. The revised maximum retail prices will provide the retailer with definite mark-ups which the Board feels will be acceptable to the trade.

It was announced at the same time that the maximum prices for carcasses and sides of spring lamb in effect during the period, May 1 to July 11, will be extended to August 31.

Provincial Fish Hatchery

Establishment of a provincial fish hatchery for the Okanagan Valley has been mooted for some time and representatives of the provincial fish and game commission are studying conditions in various parts of the Valley to determine the best possible site for such a project.

One of the essentials for fish-hatchery work is cool water which does not vary in temperature to any appreciable degree.

Granville Morgan, well-known Summerland fisheries expert points out that Summerland has the only natural water supply of sufficient quantity in the Okanagan which fits this requirement.

Where the present Summerland trout hatchery is located, Mr Morgan's pride and joy, there is a natural spring of pure water flowing into Okanagan lake. It has never been known to change temperature or volume of flow as long as it has been watched by local residents.

There have been many changes in irrigation and drainage in the past thirty to forty years, yet the flow from the spring remains constant. No matter how warm the temperature becomes in summer, the water remains cold and clear.

No one knows where the spring originates, but it appears in the gulch about 200 yards west of the cannery in Summerland. There it boils up in a small area and serves many of the lower town residents with water for domestic use.

The cannery and the hatchery draw heavily from this spring, but despite the increase in usage in the past few years, there has been no change in the main flow. It never varies and remains at 50 degrees temperature summer and winter.

With such a water supply available and such a steady, constant source, the provincial sport commissioners will have to travel a long way before they can find a more suitable spot for the provincial fish hatchery.

What They Thought

Several copies of The Okanagan Lyceum, the official monthly publication of the students of Okanagan college former Baptist college in West Summerland, have been presented to The Review by H. O. Tavender. In November, 1912, this small magazine changed from a twice-yearly to a monthly publication. An editorial of that issue, just two years prior to World War 1 may prove of interest in the present time. It was entitled, "The New Era," and follows:

How often have we heard during the past months, the phrase, "I would rather live in the next twenty-five years than in any other period in the world's history." We have heard it from the lips of great men, we have read it from the pen of the mighty. Is this brief utterance fraught with great purport and significance? Is it visionary or prophetic, or is it clarion, the call to preparation? The past decades have been wonderful but is the future to so surpass them they will be overshadowed?

It is not always true that every consecutive age has been greater than the former. Periods of progression have been followed by periods of retrogression. It is also possible that this may be found true again. But a mighty band of prophets have appeared and they prophesy with no uncertain sound concerning the future.

On hearing this statement, our first question is: "Why?" On the impulse of the moment, many would reply: "Because of Science." Perhaps no word has been more limited than science; yet, perhaps, it is the broadest of all. During the past days science has been unfolding to the world things which were wonderful and seemed to be unnatural, but which soon became ordinary and natural when constantly handled.

Yet, though science has advanced from height to height, moral and social conditions on this old world of ours continue much the same. As science and invention banish some existing conditions, following in its wake we have a new and more perplexing condition to deal with. Surely in this fact we have cause for wonder. Why should the unfolding of new natural laws be a cause of change only and not a real help to greater and greater happiness in the human family?

The period that is now prophesied is not only to be different but to be the brightest of all, the most glorious, an epoch of true progress. For men rarely by choice desire to live in a poorer world. We must look elsewhere for a complete answer to this question, "Why?"

In no age has man's responsibility been so emphasized as in the present. From pulpit, platform and press, powerful currents are going forth, arresting men in every walk of life. All are being called upon to realize their individual and collective responsibility to each other. Slowly, but surely the world's conscience is being awakened. Leaders and others are realizing that the motto which has always dominated the world must be changed and a new one substituted. Competition must give way to Co-operation.

In the past, science and invention have always walked hand in hand with the competitor. As we look to the eastern sky, shaking off its gloom before the glorious sunrise, the present age, looking to the gloom of social conditions, sees the sign that always heralds a glorious day. The results of science must and will be given to the world under the banner of co-operation. An awakened conscience will demand it absolutely and will impell men gladly to do it. . . . Then the brightest area will prevail. The spirit of the humble carpenter is at last being understood and accepted.

There is the call to preparation in this brief statement. Before the world as a whole will unfurl the new banner, the individual must unfurl it above his own head. Every man should understand that as he expects to receive from others so others expect to receive from him. All men have within their power a something which can and ought to be given to the world. Then the preparation must begin. Development can only take place upon this foundation.

That the members of the race should ever be at war with one another in the various departments of life is surely not God's plan and purpose. Often it has been said: "Competition is life," but this is false. In reality, competition is death. Too much is lost in competition and too little gained. In co-operation, nothing is lost but much is gained. Unity and strength are inseparable. When this new banner shall have been completely unfurled by the winds of progress a new and nobler era will have dawned.

Don't be superstitious —

The drawing of a will does not forestall a short life. There is probably scarcely any subject of comparable interest and importance on which the average man is so ill-informed as the making of his will—yet a very large proportion of estate litigation could be avoided if every person would give attention to this vitally important matter.

Have your Solicitor draw your will, review it regularly and relieve your dependents of expense and worry.

APARTMENT BLOCK

Formation of a building syndicate and the erection of a modern block which will cost well into six figures to erect, was announced in Kelowna last week by the syndicate's spokesman, W. A. C. Bennett, M.L.A. The building will overlook Okanagan lake and will be situated on Abbott street between the Jones boathouse and the Kelowna Sash and Door factory.

Co-operation With United Church Aired

Sixty-five clergy and lay delegates from the Okanagan, as well as east and west Kootenay, attended the Synod of Diocese of Kootenay in All Saints' Church, Vernon, recently. The program was a lengthy one.

In his charge to the synod, Most Rev. W. R. Adams, archbishop of Kootenay, referred to the question of fuller co-operation with the United church, and the discussions taking place between the leaders of both churches.

"Nothing has as yet been finally agreed," stated Archbishop Adams. "Nothing in the way of union is now contemplated. Nothing except examination and discussion of the plan will happen for at least two years. It is a scheme of co-operation, safeguarding and retaining both bodies as separate units, though none can tell what might be the eventual issue a generation or two later."

Dr. R. H. Trumpour, principal of Anglican Theological College, Vancouver, addressed the synod on the work of training young men for the ministry, and outlined briefly plans for the future.

That the Anglican Advance Appeal has been successful in Kootenay Diocese, in that 90 per cent of its quota has been raised with the remainder pledged, was a statement by the archbishop. This is a matter of great satisfaction to both clergy and laity, and an expression of thanks to Archbishop Adams for his "inspired leadership" was recorded.

REFUSE TO ASSUME COST OF INMATE

Again the Summerland council is being billed for a portion of the upkeep of a former inmate of the Home for the Friendless, who is now in an institution at the coast. Municipality of Burnaby is requesting Summerland municipality to share in the cost.

The council, on Wednesday, reiterated its stand that it does not assume any responsibility for persons brought into this district as residents of the Home and has refused to pay this account.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rogers, of Arrow Park, B.C., were guests on Tuesday and Wednesday with Mrs. I. C. Schwass.

The annual meeting of the Laymen's Order, Diocese of Kootenay, was held in All Saints' parish hall. Chairman of the meeting was Mr. Pellet, of Kelowna, with Mr. Coldicott, of Trail, acting as secretary. Among the parishes represented were:

Trail, Cranbrook, Salmon Arm, Grand Forks, Penticton, Kelowna, Kimberley, Oliver, West Summerland, Rossland, Falkland, Edgewood, Nelson, Westwood, Fernie and Vernon.

The chairman called for discussion of the forming of men's clubs in the parishes throughout the diocese. Some men's clubs have been going for quite a number of years, others are just starting. A number of suggestions were made pro and con. Mr. Gorse, of Salmon Arm, gave a resume of their work and undertakings there which received a lot of favorable comment from the other delegates.

The work of the laymen was outlined, which included helping the clergy, building up the Sunday schools, looking after church attendance, assisting in spiritual work and increasing the number of members in the Laymen's order.

It was suggested at the meeting that the delegates attending the session go back to their various parishes and discuss with their fellow members the work that is to be done to help to build up the church.

The meeting concluded with the election of officers for 1946-47. Mr. Pellet, of Kelowna, was elected president and Harry W. Tyrell, of Vernon, as secretary.

Recommend Dam Removal From Oroville Site

As a result of a two-day session of the international joint commission in Osoyoos and Oroville recently, a recommendation is to be forwarded to the United States government that a sawmill dam at Oroville be dismantled to allow for a freer flow of water from Okanagan river.

If this recommendation meets with approval, the high level of Okanagan lake may be settled and the flood conditions which have caused so much damage to private enterprise in the Okanagan be alleviated.

Excavation of the river south of Penticton would also have to be carried out in conjunction with the dismantling of the Oroville sawmill dam, D. K. Penfold, Kelowna, water rights official, has stated.

Mr. Penfold states that the Oroville dam was built in 1927 without the permission of the joint commission and he has been advocating its removal ever since 1932.

There would be no need to change the minimum level of the lake below 99.5 feet, if these recommendations are carried out, as the run-off would be much faster, Mr. Penfold states.

According to evidence produced at the enquiry, Mr. Penfold stated that the dam has resulted in the water backing up into Canada. He stated that Osoyoos farmers have demanded that the Osoyoos lake be lowered two feet from its present level. When the international joint commission makes its recommendations to the American government, it will also suggest that a more flexible dam be constructed. With the excavation of the river channel below the American border, Osoyoos lake would be capable of discharging water at the rate of 3,000 cubic feet per second. At the present time the discharge is between 1,200 and 1,400 cubic feet per second. During ten days, up to June 27, Osoyoos lake dropped about five inches, but there was still two feet of water covering the meadows.

Prevent Floods. With the dismantling of the Oroville sawmill dam, and the excavating of the Okanagan river bed south of the border, the provincial and federal governments would have no alternative but to excavate the Canadian side of the river if annual flood conditions are to be overcome.

The Penticton dam is capable of discharging about 950 cubic feet per second, and if work was started on excavating the river bed, it may mean that a new dam would have to be constructed at Penticton.

Mr. Penfold thought that the dam may merely have to be redesigned, but in any event it should be in a position to take care of a discharge of 2,500 cubic feet per second.

Questioned as to whether lowering of the lake would interrupt shipping on the Okanagan, Mr. Penfold said that if the flow of water south of Penticton was increased, he thought there was no need of lowering the lake below the present minimum of 99.5 feet. He pointed out it would also be unnecessary to do any dredging near the railway barge wharves as there would be greater control of the water going through the Penticton dam. He thought if the flow was increased south of Penticton, it would be a simple matter to control the level of Okanagan lake.

Mr. Penfold was unable to say when the work would be started by the Americans after the Commission made its report to the American government, although it was reported that the U.S. Army engineers may undertake to do the work.

Summerland Girl And Kamloops Man Exchange Marriage Vows Here

Beneath a beautiful arch of pink and white streamers, fashioned in a clever crossed design, and covered with pink and red rambler roses and white bells, marriage vows were exchanged between Grace Marion, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. James of Summerland, and son of the late J. N. Burgoyne James Lloyd Burgoyne eldest and Mrs. George Murdoch, of Kamloops.

The wedding took place at the Free Methodist church, West Summerland on Friday evening, June 12, with Rev. W. F. Angell officiating.

The church was decorated for the occasion with pastel streamers, and the altar was covered with colorful seasonal flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in traditional white, and her lovely floor-length gown was fastened with a brocaded satin bodice, with a net skirt and brocade and net sleeves. Her shoulder-length chapel veil fell from a halo head-dress, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and fern.

The bridesmaid was Miss Emily Mott, gowned in blue, with a taffeta bodice, from which fell a long net skirt, applied with taffeta floral inserts.

The flower girl, little Carol James, niece of the bride, was dressed in peach net with a ruffled jacket and carried a basket of roses.

The groom was attended by Leonard Taylor, of Kamloops. Ushers were Rev. J. James and Fraser Smith.

During the signing of the register, Miss Eleanor Stewart, of Kelowna, gave a very lovely rendition of "The Wedding Prayer."

Following the ceremony, a reception for 35 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers and flowers.

The mother of the bride assisted in receiving the guests, and was gowned in blue, with white hat and accessories. Her corsage was of pink and white carnations. Mrs. Murdoch was dressed in a grey and white striped suit, with navy and matching accessories. Her corsage was also of pink and white carnations.

An attractive lunch was served to the guests, under direction of Mrs. Gerrie, of Peachland, and servitors were Misses Marion and Laura Mott. Rev. Angell proposed a toast to the young couple, and a solo, sung by Miss Eleanor Stewart, was greatly enjoyed.

During the reception a long distance call of congratulation was received by the bride from her friend, Miss Sylvia Taylor, Kamloops.

For a honeymoon trip by motor to Harrison Lake, Vancouver and other coast points, the bride wore a dark rose afternoon frock, in a smart design, with a moss green topcoat and brown and gold accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Burgoyne will make their future home in Kamloops.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Rev. and Mrs. Joseph James and family, Grindrod; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Murdoch, Miss Melva Hughes, Leonard Taylor, Bud and Dale Burgoyne, all of Kamloops; Rev. and Mrs. C. Stewart and Miss Eleanor Stewart, Kelowna; Mrs. Frank Burgoyne, Vancouver; the Misses Emily and Marjorie Mott, New Westminster; Mrs. Gerrie, Peachland; Leslie Stewart and Miss Barbara Robinson Kelowna.

If You Are a No.1 Citizen You will look after No. 1...

THIS is not selfishness, but the realization that a community is no better, no sounder than its citizens. The welfare of our community—Canada—depends not alone on those charged with the government of the country, but on each of its citizens—12,000,000 strong.

Today, that welfare is menaced by the danger of inflation. Already, millions in lands devastated by war suffer misery because of it.

Inflation, to the citizen, means simply less and less value for his dollar... his living costs soar as free and careless spending drives up the price of goods still in short supply.

War always brings the threat of inflation in its wake... only the prudence of the people can keep it in check.

How? Mainly, by conservation... by buying only those goods which are in fair supply, and by saving money for the day when goods now in short supply will be readily available.

This helps to keep prices steady—to keep your dollar at its real worth.

This means that, if you are a No. 1 citizen, you will rigidly avoid black market purchases and you will save money by

- building up your savings account; keeping up your insurance; buying Government bonds and War Savings Certificates; holding whatever of these securities you have bought.

This is conservation—the first requisite for personal security—the first attribute of good citizenship.

Juveniles Pay Cenotaph Cost

Three juveniles were assessed $10 apiece to pay for the damages done to the Peachland Cenotaph and were also made to pay $2.50 court costs each when they were found guilty by Juvenile Court Judge G. A. McClelland at Peachland recently.

The three convicted youngsters pleaded not guilty when they were brought into juvenile court by B.C. Police Constable H. Cartmell, of Summerland. However, the Penticton judge declared that the evidence was sufficiently strong against them and he convicted them of the charge.

It was stated that the lettering on the cenotaph at Peachland was badly defaced by the youngsters, who used rocks to damage the memorial.

TRADES' LICENSE

Albert Cromers appeared before the Summerland council on Monday of last week, seeking a lowering of his agent's trades' license which is now $25 every six months. Acting Reeve Atkinson, however, pointed out that business houses have had their license increased and they will have to pay considerably more in improvement taxes next year, so he did not feel Mr. Cromers was being unduly penalized with the higher rate.

So said the Sun Life Agent when he delivered my son Bill's Junior Adjustable policy — but he didn't have to tell me that. I know what a help it would have been to me if, when I was twenty-one, I had been given a life assurance policy that could be continued as Whole Life, Life Paid-up at 60, or Endowment at the same age, for as much as five times the original amount without increasing the premium. Especially when that premium was based on rates for a child. I didn't have this great advantage, but I'm making sure my son has it. How about you?

It was agreed that more sessions should be held in winter months, as well as during the spring and summer.

The executive of 1942, which has never been replaced, will continue to function until the next annual meeting. E. H. Bennett is president, with W. Snow vice-president, Mrs. M. E. Collas as secretary and Mrs. Magnus Tait the treasurer.

Two fine reels of colored film showing scenes of flowers, shrubs and general interest pictures of this district were presented on Tuesday evening by Dr. Palmer. He was given a vote of thanks for his effort.

Mr. Nar May, head gardener at the station, led a discussion on gardeners' problems. He warned those building new homes not to throw the residue from basement excavations onto soil where lawns are to be prepared. He also urged gardeners to visualize the needs of their gardens ten years from now when planning new plantings.

Mr. May also spoke of experiments being conducted with 2-4-D, an insecticide which kills all broadleaf weeds including the dandelion. He stated that excellent results have been obtained in eradicating dandelions, while the grass is actually helped by applications.

Announcement that the annual summer flower show would be held this year on August 22 was made by President Bennett and details of the exhibition were given to the members.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carey left on Friday evening's train for a two weeks' visit in Vancouver, Victoria Haney and Princeton.

Mrs. A. Biollo and children, of Trail are spending an extended holiday with Mrs. Biollo's sister, Mrs. C. Ongaro. Mr. Biollo was also a visitor for two weeks with his brother and sisters-in-law, in Hapy Valley, returning to his home in Trail on Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McNeil and son, of Vancouver, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bisset.

Miss Dorothy Butler left on Monday night for Vancouver, where she will join Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Beer, former Summerland residents, and with them will motor to their home in Los Angeles, where she will visit with her friend, Miss Catherine Beer, for three weeks.

The L.O.L. and L.O.B.E. (Orange Lodge) report an enjoyable picnic on Sunday at the local Experimental Station. There were about 40 present and some from Penticton also attended. Games and sports were enjoyed and a basket picnic was the crowning event of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. John Snider and small son Robert, of Pullman, Wash., were guests on Tuesday, July 16, of Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Palmer, at the Experimental Station. Mr. Snider is the extension horticulturist for Washington State University.

EMPLOYEES OF BOX FACTORY HONOR TWO MEMBERS

Two employees of the Summerland Box Co. who recently joined the ranks of the Benedicts were recipients of gifts on Wednesday afternoon from their fellow workers.

Mr. George Perry, box factory manager, on behalf of the workers, made the presentation of two bed throws to Claude Haddrell and Elmer Reid. Such presentations were the custom before the war years but for the duration they had been discontinued.

This presentation was the first to be held since 1939, and took place during the afternoon break period on Wednesday.

Both men were overseas during the war years and while away Mr. Reid married an English girl. His bride arrived in Summerland only two weeks ago. Mr. Haddrell came back to Summerland and exchanged marriage vows on his return.

Tree Fruits

ter weather has come. Orchard pests are well under control in the district. Because of the recent rains and wind and a shortage of spray outfits a good many of the growers are behind on their codling moth control program. Despite this, few moth entries have been seen as yet.

Mildew continues to be evident on apples, pears and some peaches.

Kelowna reports that early potatoes, cabbage and onions are available for market and the first brood codling moth spraying is over. Apples and pears are sizing well but there is a great deal of thinning still to be done. Early apples are also appearing in Kelowna houses.

Penticton reached the peak of Lambert harvesting last week-end and expects that apricot movement will start in ten days' time. So far, the control of codling moth has been excellent, but in a few orchards European Red Mite is showing, although it is not yet serious. There has been no Pacific Mite in Penticton district orchards.

Heavy losses through splitting of later Bing and Lambert cherries are reported from Oliver and Osoyoos areas. Early apples are now moving in volume from the south and packing has started on Ryland and Kaleden apricots, expecting to reach volume by this week-end.

Potatoes, tomatoes, cabbage and cucumbers are being shipped and the cherry deal is completed.

In the northern section of the Okanagan all tree fruits have shown excellent growth and the trees in general are showing high vigor, with the drop in apples and pears completed.

Labor conditions are still a serious problem in many orchards and the thinning schedule is behind in some cases.

Early potatoes are showing heavy yields and are going out in carload lots. Small quantities of field tomatoes will be available next week.

Raymond Johnson is a patient in the local hospital.

Municipal Hall

using the beach and surrounding area.

At the outset on Monday, Councillor E. M. Tait stated that the only improvements possible to date on Powell beach have been the cleaning of the beach and clearing of underbrush. Lack of supplies had held up the erection of kitchens and repairs to bathing cubicles and tables.

After considerable discussion it was arranged that further attempts be made to obtain supplies for the necessary additions there and on Wednesday work was proceeding on the kitchen.

Two small stoves have been purchased for the kitchens and two more are on order. They are expected to serve the purpose for the next two years, when they will be replaced with larger stoves, if they are available then. A painting program is also underway at the beach and the diving boards will be either repaired or taken down as they are not in good condition.

Draws Fire

Councillor Tait suggested that the council should have a man employed for at least six months of the year on park maintenance and improvements. Several other suggestions were also made which would mean more of a drain on the municipal purse strings than has been the habit in the past.

These suggestions drew the ire of Reeve Powell who pointed out in angry tones that the council cannot be expected to do everything.

"We're doing our best and that is all we can do," His Worship replied. "We are trying to be fair to everybody. It's all very well for people on the outside to come around and say do this and do that. Some of these people are trying to make the council look foolish and I for one will not stand for that."

Reeve Powell pointed out that it is not a year since the cessation of hostilities. In the war years no improvements were carried out and the people agreed that they should not be done.

And yet, now that the war is over, citizens are expecting the council to accomplish all manner of things with a limited supply

PLAY BASEBALL AT RUTLAND TODAY

Summerland's ball club moves to Rutland today to participate in the annual Rutland sports day. There will be three teams competing there with Kelowna and Rutland playing off for the right to meet Summerland in the final game.

Rutland is in top spot in the South Okanagan league, having dropped only two games all season in regular league play. However, the Summerland lads trimmed the northern team decisively here on May 24 and will be out to try and repeat the performance.

It is proposed that Summerland travel to Princeton on a Thursday afternoon in the near future to play an exhibition game.

of money, he continued. In a few moments the air was cleared and the parks committee continued its discussions on what can be accomplished this year to provide some accommodation for Powell beach. It was deemed almost impossible to improve Peach Orchard park this year, although an attempt may be made to eradicate some of the poison ivy which is rampant.

Serious Loss To Fruit Area Here Averted In Sunday Blaze

Thousands of dollars investment in Summerland orchards, especially in Prairie Valley, were threatened on Sunday afternoon and evening, July 21, when a brush fire broke loose from the vicinity of the municipal dump and covered a couple of hundred acres before it was brought under control. Fortunately, the wind did not veer and the fire was mainly contained in rough land. Only damage done was to a small amount of municipal flume and flume belonging to Major Tweedy and the loss has been estimated at about $100.

Cause Undetermined
Cause of the fire has not been determined but is believed by municipal authorities to have started from a pile of refuse dumped alongside the Shingle creek road near the spot set aside for the municipal dump.

Shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon notification of the fire was received by E. Kercher, municipal water foreman. He immediately went to the scene and endeavored to battle the blaze but it had gained too much headway.

Members of the West Summerland fire brigade were called out, along with other volunteers and they worked to a late hour on Sunday evening before it could be controlled.

On Monday, due to falling trees and sparks over a wide area, a blaze started anew but municipal crews obtained control within a few hours.

Summerland municipal council, sitting on Monday afternoon, ruled that Major Tweedy would be given assistance to obtain irrigation water as soon as possible, but Reeve W. R. Powell declared firmly that the council, by this action, was not admitting any responsibility for the conflagration.

Water Foreman Kercher told the council on Monday that he considered the fire started at a corner of Shingle creek road where refuse had been dumped indiscriminately.

Jumped Reservoir
The wind was blowing from the north and west but only a square of 200 feet was burning when he arrived early in the afternoon. While he tried to get assistance the fire jumped the reservoir in a flash and started to spread.

The Kettle Valley Railway track was threatened for a time but the fire did not actually cross the line.

about $100 damage to flume had been created by the fire, the municipal flume having been damaged to a value of about $72 and Major Tweedy losing about $75 worth of flume.

By re-routing the portion burned out, Mr. Kercher believed that Major Tweedy could be saved some replacement expense, with no general loss of service from the municipal line.

The water foreman was instructed to proceed with flume repairs as soon as possible.

Mr. Kercher was uncertain if the blaze started within the municipal limits. According to the former boundary, it was outside the municipal area but it may have commenced within the block purchased by the municipality for a dump, he declared.

Sid Thomas To Attend D.V.A. Meeting

With the entire expenses being undertaken by the Department of Veterans' Affairs, a provincial conference on veterans' rehabilitation will be held at Harrison Hot Springs late in August and will be attended by Mr. Sid Thomas, of Summerland, it was announced this week by Dr. F. W. Andrew, president of the Summerland rehabilitation committee.

Only twelve veterans were reported returning to Summerland last month, which is a natural slowing up, but the assistance rendered to those who returned previously goes on steadily and smoothly, Dr. Andrew states.

Last month, three veterans took up small holdings and four undertook vocational or special training with the assistance of D.V.A. Others were assisted with their pension claims, in obtaining glasses, medical and dental treatment.

Mr. Sid Thomas, general secretary, Summerland citizens' committee, today appealed to the people of Summerland to support the current campaign relating the skills acquired by veterans in the services to civilian occupations.

"The men and women who left this community to serve their country at a time when they were sorely needed, are needed now by every employer in Summerland," Mr. Thomas said.

"Summerland employers can benefit directly from the experience of those who have returned with increased maturity, new skills and a broader concept of citizenship. These young men and women have learned much during their absence from Summerland."

Mr. Thomas said he felt that Summerland employers had done

Teachers Want Higher Wages

Okanagan school teachers are pressing for higher wages and it is understood that Okanagan school boards have agreed to arbitrate. C. D. Ovaus, Vancouver, has been appointed arbitrator but the school boards must each appoint their own arbitrator.

Under the school act the teachers may unite for arbitration but each board must arbitrate on its own. The Kelowna school board has agreed to arbitrate but which district will initiate the arbitration has not been determined.

There is a possibility that one district will reach a conclusion and the other boards will agree to the finding.

The salary schedule presented by the teachers calls for a higher scale than is laid down in the Cameron report. It is understood that the school boards consider a counter proposal of the basic salaries of the Cameron report plus an increase of $100 in September and a similar amount in January.

This proposal the teachers declined and the stage was set for arbitration.

Big Horn Goats Re-appear Here

Several Rocky Mountain big horn goats, which have been considered extinct in this area, have recently been spotted by Summerland residents.

According to information received by The Review from Roy E. Smith, of the Garnett Valley district, two of the male goats have made a temporary home at the foot of a large rock knoll behind his house. On three of four occasions Mr. Smith has been able to study the animals, and has definitely identified them as genuine Rocky Mountain big horn goats, which have long been considered extinct, except in their native habitats.

Several residents of Garnett Valley are reported to have taken snaps of the goats.

A report from Lewis Johnson that one was clearly seen at the Canyon Lumber Co. mill is verified by Neil Johnson, who was also present at the time.

Mr. Smith reports that the goats are unusually tame, and will allow humans to approach quite near to their adopted home, and will stand and watch Mr. Smith at his work about the farm.

In their native Rocky mountains, the only place that is lawful to hunt these animals, they are considered very wily, and are often stalked for days by big them as a great prize.

Two Losses For Ba Teams

Summerland took a severe trouncing on Thursday afternoon, July 18, when the ball squad played Kelowna in the final game of the Rutland Sports Rally. Kelowna had defeated Rutland, 6-5, and then clouted two Summerland hurriers for a 16-4 win. Walsh and Strachan were the unlucky Summerland twirlers who were soundly punted.

Last Sunday, another Summerland team, the Japanese, lost to the Rutland Japanese by a 10-7 count. Summerland had a 6-0 lead early in the game but weakened badly at the finish.

Webster Hopeful For Future - C.C.F. Rally

Hopeful signs for the future was the topic chosen by Arnold Webster when he addressed the Summerland C.C.F. rally and picnic at Powell Beach on Sunday afternoon. This well known C.C.F. candidate made a distinct impression on his listeners when he reviewed Canada's prospects in post war years.

Mrs. Dorothy Fraser, Osoyoos, and Mrs. Webster were two other speakers in the afternoon program.

Mr. Webster referred to Canada as part of a world in a state of revolution, and asked his audience to consider Canada's problems in relation to world happenings.

"There is a small body of privileged people standing in the way of Canada's progress," Mr. Webster contended, but it is a healthy condition when people show that they understand the implications of what they say.

If the governments of this country are to be held responsible, then they must be given the power to achieve these responsibilities, he contended.

"It is a hopeful sign that you (Continued on Page Eight)

Fastball Girls Beat Penticton

Summerland girls fastball squad came another step closer to the top of the heap last Sunday when they turned back the league leading Penticton nine with a decisive 11-3 victory.

A fair-sized crowd was in attendance despite the extreme heat of the afternoon.

Summerland has an average of .500 with two wins and two losses, crowding Penticton girls, who have three wins and one loss, that of last Sunday. Summerland now has two games with Oliver, home and home, to finish the schedule before the playoffs begin.

Muriel Barr went four innings on Sunday but was then relieved by Doreen Howard, who held the visitors hitless for the rest of the contest. In left field, Klux pulled off a couple of smart catches, which were the highlight of the local defensive play.

At the end of the fourth, Penticton was ahead 8-7 but Summerland knotted the count in the fifth and went ahead with another in the seventh and two more runs in the eighth to clinch the contest.

Oliver plays here on Sunday afternoon for the last home game of the league schedule in Summerland.

Instructors Take Swim Lessons

Four Summerland swimmers are attending instructional classes in Penticton this week under the guidance of the Red Cross society. The classes are being held from July 24 to 27, inclusive, and are for the purpose of giving instructors the best methods of coaching students in swimming.

F. W. Schumann, one of the active board of trade swim class committee members, leads the Summerland contingent, accompanied by Misses Lavella Day, Mary Vanderburgh and Bernice Elliott.

Instructors from all parts of the South Okanagan are participating in these classes.

WANT RATES OF PAY

Salmon Arm city has requested Summerland municipality to supply it with the rates of pay given here for various classes of municipal employees. The Summerland council, on Monday, agreed to provide this information as an exchange of information.

Apple Crop May Top Peak Year of 1944 Say B.C. Tree Fruits Men

With the ideal growing weather created by heavy rainfall in June and part of July, B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., believe that the 1946 apple crop will be comparable, if it does not exceed, that of 1944, when the all-time high of nearly 8,000,000 boxes were harvested. The Review was informed yesterday from Kelowna. Latest estimates from the horticultural branch of the provincial department of agriculture showed a crop of 7,153,160 boxes, but it is believed now that this amount will be exceeded by several hundred thousand. Another estimate is being ordered and will likely be available next week.

Electric Meter Policy Agreed To By Council

On Monday afternoon, Summerland council came to an understanding on the electric meter installation in this municipality, a subject which has caused considerable discussion over a period of time.

In the future the council will continue its policy of insisting that a building which is to house more than one tenant must be wired for separate meters. This has been the practice with all new buildings being erected here in the past months.

However, there are a number of buildings which have been erected for years and which would have to be re-wired if this policy was insisted upon, and the council decided this would be too much of a hardship.

In lieu of this condition and to continue its policy, the council has agreed to amend its electric light bylaw to provide that owners of buildings housing more than one tenant will either re-wire, or each tenant will be charged the minimum for electricity each month and the owner of the building will be assessed for the amount of electricity used in the month according to the meter reading.

Owners who have more than one building on their premises which take municipal electricity will be required to install meters in each building. It is felt by the council that in such cases no extra wiring is required and that separate meters should be installed to form a fair basis for all owners.

This entire question was introduced by T. P. Thornber, electric light foreman, who wished the council to lay down a policy for him to follow.

He was instructed to acquaint all property owners affected verbally with this council policy and if no action is taken within a reasonable length of time, he will inform them by letter that their electricity will be cut off.

Councillor F. E. Atkinson took a determined stand on this question and wished the council to give some continuity to its policy so that here would be no hardships for any particular property owners while others, because they were established years ago, were able to evade the recent more stringent restrictions.

Reeve Powell, after hearing all discussions, summed up the wishes of the council members with the result that the bylaw will be amended.

Business House Changes Hands

Another change in the business life of West Summerland took place this week with the sale of the shoe repair and general men's merchandise store of W. H. Jewell to Tom Fisher, former Penticton business man.

Mr. Jewell has conducted this business here for the past twelve years and is well-known throughout the area. He is also a keen fisherman.

Mr. Fisher came to Penticton in 1935 and entered the shoe repair business. He joined the armed services, returning to the South Okanagan following his discharge a year ago. He re-entered business life in Penticton but disposed of his business when he had the opportunity to come to Summerland.

Rifle Scores Suggests South Main Program

G. M. Dundson was again the head scorer over three ranges at the Summerland Rifle Club shoot on Sunday morning. Over 200, 500 and 800 yards he scored 90 points, of the possible 105. P. S. Dundson and Dewey Sanborn were tied for second slot with 82 each.

Other scores follow: G. M. Forster, 82; H. E. Dundson, 81; F. W. Dundson, 80; A. R. Dundson, 70; J. McLachlan, H. Dundson, 70; A. W. Moyle, F. G. Anderson, 74; J. S. Sholley, 72; W. G. Snow, 64; H. O. Taylor, 60; G. D. Taylor, H. M. Simpson, 60; R. A. Froderickson, 57; W. C. W. Fosbery, 53; H. H. Dundson, 40; J. D. Spalding, 40; Bob Scriver, 34.

After a residence in Summerland district for the past eleven months, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Rugge left this week for their native land, the Netherlands. Before leaving Canada they will be spending nearly a month visiting in Quebec. They will make their headquarters for their stay in the Netherlands at Gronigen.

APPROVE APPLICATIONS

Electric light applications from C. J. Henderson, J. Wolff, F. Emory, J. Vollmuth and J. S. Sholley, the latter two for cement mixer operations, were approved by the council on Monday afternoon. A domestic water application for Mrs. R. B. Inglis also met with the council sanction.

A. M. Temple wrote to the council on Monday and inferred that he would be willing to pay half the cost of placing salt on a stretch of 100 yards of municipal dirt road to alleviate the dust nuisance. This work cannot be contemplated until after the asphaltting program has been completed, the council decided.

EDITORIAL

Municipal Hall

There is a good deal of food for thought in Reeve Powell's suggestion, which appeared in last week's issue of The Review, that the proposed municipal hall and library building should be located on the Memorial park playground in West Summerland.

This playground site has been obtained by the Summerland Board of Trade in trust until such time as it has been developed. There are 3.4 acres to be developed, including the present baseball diamond and the skating rink and sidehill.

The council owns the corner property directly opposite the I.O.O.F. hall and had earmarked it for the municipal hall site. With the road allowance adjacent, an entranceway ninety feet wide would be available for a park entrance and car parking purposes.

This outstanding area south to the park proper could be hard surfaced and a proper entranceway provided for The Memorial Park. Passersby on Granville would have a clear view of the municipal building but the municipal centre would not actually be encroaching on the business area.

Then, the playground and park area could extend around and behind the municipal building and would provide a magnificent setting for the public building.

There some persons who believe the building would take up too much of the playground area, but actually there would still be nearly three full acres left for development.

Memorial Park

Summerland's acceptance of the memorial park plan, which has been given considerable publicity in the past two months, is an indication of the fine spirit which exists in this municipality. Although there were many who had plans for a bigger memorial for the veterans of the past conflict, there is developing a unity of thought which is refreshing.

Under the chairmanship of Councillor Ted Atkinson, a strong committee has been developed to carry out the plans for this park-playground to a point where a concrete proposal can be placed before the rate-payers.

Enthusiasm is being kept at a high level with reports being made to civic bodies by their representatives on this committee. When concrete plans are formulated a rate-payers' meeting will be called and the entire proposal will be laid before the community.

Then, a drive for funds will be made to develop the park-playground as The Memorial to Summerland's brave men and women who entered the armed services, to withstand the advance of the Nazis.

It is also planned to move the cenotaph from its present location and place it in the memorial park.

Youngsters of the present day, youngsters of the future and men and women who desire a cool spot to tarry awhile, and those who have an eye for the beautiful, will revel in this project which has such a suitable foundation—a memorial.

It is not the present plan to develop the park with flowers and shrubs, which would mean a great expense to the municipality in annual upkeep. Rather, the park and playground would consist mainly of shade trees, lawns and borders which can be kept up with a minimum of care.

Walks would be hard-surfaced, so the main upkeep would consist of watering and cutting the grass and borders.

The memorial park committee is not going to rush into this plan without a great deal of time and thought. A concrete proposal will be drawn up and then it will be presented, probably late in October. By that time the readers of The Review will be given all the details. They can come to the public meeting and air their views. And then, when they are satisfied that this is the best scheme to support in the way of Summerland's memorial, they will be given an opportunity to subscribe to its development.

When that time comes, we feel sure that Summerland citizens will rise to the occasion and show this public-spirited committee and the returned veterans that they are willing to back their efforts, and that they appreciate the effort that has been expended on their behalf.

Visit To Garbage Dump

"Potatoes by Carload, Cabbages by Ton. Spoil in Toronto." . . . I don't believe it," declared the Woman Who's Always Positive, waving the Canadian Press clipping indignantly at the local sanitation superintendent.

"Why not?" asked the veteran of two world wars, who had much first-hand acquaintance with garbage dumps.

"Toronto is just like this city—like any other city in Canada—even though it's larger," said the Woman Who's Always Positive. "We never waste food like that here, I'm sure. Ever since the Government 'Save Food' campaign started our women's organizations have done everything possible to co-operate. We're all following the advice sent out by the Food Information Committee. Every housewife wants to help. Most of us turn in our meat coupons, use less bread don't waste anything. Then how can our garbage dumps . . . ?"

"Let's look at one of our local dumps, madam," interrupted the harassed sanitation superintendent.

There are more fragrant spots than a city garbage dump on a warm summer's afternoon. As driver after driver with his laden truck came in with his day's collection, and she watched the quantities of unspoiled foodstuffs piling up, the unwilling visitor became more and more disturbed.

"This is open season for people to impose on the garbage man," one wiry little man informed her. "Some of them don't even know that there are twice as many collections during the hot weather. We waste more time gathering their stuff together than on the actual door-to-door round. And what they waste! I've seen kids along the road in Holland who'd live well on food like that."

"But everyone knows how badly food is needed overseas," remonstrated the Woman Who's Always Positive.

"So what?" the veteran replied. "With so many of these people money lies heavy in the pocket. Most Canadians have never gone without enough to eat, and when you don't know what it's like to be hungry, it's easier to throw away good food."

The supervisor of the city dump did little more to cheer the visitor. "Naturally, there's always more waste in warm weather," he explained to her. "Perishable fruit and vegetables, lettuce, waste of some of that sort of stuff, is understandable. But potatoes, cabbages, turnips—that's waste of food which would keep—and feed people who haven't even enough bread. We get bags of potatoes dumped out here, and the other day there was a full load of watermelons thrown out, because of some price hold-up."

"But never bread? Surely not bread?" asked the visitor. "Never bread?" The dump supervisor stared. "Lady, I know that the papers have been telling us for months that millions of people haven't enough bread to keep them alive—but we still get bags of it every day, loaves still in their wrapping."

"I suppose," he added, philosophically, "that there will always be the haves and the havenots in this world, and the have-nots will always be looking for the crumbs from the haves' tables. But what I'd like to do," he added a trifle grimly "is to have the people who fill garbage cans with good food, see what the European children scavenge to keep them alive. They wouldn't like it. I hope they'd be ashamed. While thousands of men, women and children face starvation in European countries, this city . . ." the Woman Who's Always Positive read thoughtfully from the Canadian Press despatch, as the sanitation inspector drove her homeward.

"This city," repeated the superintendent, thoughtfully. "This city, madam, any city in Canada. There are many people who are doing a fine job of food conservation, I know, but there are many others who just don't seem to think. Seems to me by this time every Canadian family should know that every bit of available food thrown away means less for the people in the famine countries, to whom our simplest meals would seem like banquets. What's that Food Information Committee slogan? 'Share with the hungry.' It's worth remembering."

Labor's Political Action

Under the heading, "Guide to Political Action," the B.C. Lumber Worker, official publication of the I.W.A.-C.I.O. District Council No. 1, prints a strong editorial feature which indicates the political trend and thought of organized labor in this province. Herewith is the editorial feature:

Now that the strike is over and the big economic struggle is simmering down to a fight for conditions on the job and the implementation of the contract, our membership must come to realize that labor's second weapon, political action will have to be used.

It should be obvious to our members that only in those instances where we had men representing labor in municipal and civic governments were we able to get response, endorsement of our demands and support for the strike. This, then, is the lesson: TO SEE TO IT THAT LABOR MEN ARE ELECTED TO ALL GOVERNMENTS, MUNICIPAL, CIVIC, PROVINCIAL AND FEDERAL, so that the case for labor can be equally considered with that of big business.

The first job, then, is to re-establish Political Action Committees and it is no good setting up committees unless there is work for them to do.

(a) Price Control. The immediate, pressing thing to be done is to fight for the retention of price control and restoration of control on prices of those goods on which ceilings have already been listed. Protest should be made on the hoisting of the prices of logs which, on reliable information, we know to be $7 per thousand on No. 3; $5.05 on No. 2 and $5 on No. 1, as well as railroad ties being boosted $8 per thousand.

(b) Abolishing P.C. 9884. The Canadian Congress of Labor adopted a policy whereby the trade union movement would fight their wage battle along with abolishing P.C. 9884, the wage control order which was a wartime measure but for which there is no longer any necessity. P.C. 9884 set wages at the 1941 level and only allowed for increases where gross injustice could be shown and where the raise in wages would not cause any rise in the prices of the goods produced.

The I.W.A. strike was the spearhead in the wage drive and in the drive to abolish P.C. 9884. As a result, P.C. 9884 was amended to give a better opportunity to labor to get their just demands in the way of wages. Had the rest of the labor movement been in action at the same time, P.C. 9884 might have been abolished. Order-in-Council 1908 needs to be amended and to be made into a permanent federal law and the Canadian Congress of Labor and all its affiliates have requested the Government to amend it and make it a

POWER COMMISSION

The B.C. Power Commission has completed the erection of poles for the connecting line between Peachland and Westbank and the stringing of the wire conductor is well advanced, it has been announced by Premier John Hart. It is expected to have the small hydro-electric plant at Peachland and the large Diesel plant at Westbank working in parallel about August 1. The foundation has been completed for the new Diesel power plant at Smithers and work has started on the foundations for the new power house at Vanderhoof.

Gordon Bell Hears Story On Box Shook

At Kelowna on Saturday, July 13, Gordon Bell, controller of the interior box shook industry under the department of labor, became fully acquainted with the problems of production facing this important industry. Shortage of boxes in some districts, particularly Kelowna and Kamloops, may cause bulk shipments of apples, it was stated by growers' representatives, while a half-million boxes are being sought at Vancouver to supplement the supply it will be possible for the interior to produce before the harvest has been completed.

Mr. Bell first met the box manufacturers, one of whom was Mr. George Perry, manager of the Summerland Box Co. Then the coast visitor met the box men and the growers' shook committee and later in the day he conferred with the growers alone. Following the conferences, L. R. Stephens, a member of the box shook committee, stated that Mr. Bell was fully acquainted with the urgency of box shook requirements. "He was also informed of the restricted production due to shorter hours brought about by the fact the mills are operating 44 hours a week, whereas last year they were operating 54 hours under the exemption provided for shook mills in the fruit belt," Mr. Stephens said. This means a reduction of approximately 20 per cent. On top of this, the five to six-week strike makes it impossible for some mills to supply the total requirements in time for fruit harvest, Mr. Stephens said.

The fruit industry has been forced to secure a little over half a million boxes from Vancouver to partially meet the emergency, but the situation is list' serious. It is likely that shipments will have to be made in bulk and arrangements made to use cannery lugs to harvest the crop, he remarked.

Regarding the recent wage increase agreed to between the I.W.A. and the lumber operators, this was recently approved by the war labor board. According to one fruit official, the wage boost is expected to result in an increase of five cents per box to the grower if the application made by mill operators is granted by the wartime price and trade board for a price increase. The ability to carry on operations depends upon the application made by the operators for increased prices, as it was stated many mills are now operating in the "red" since the 44-hour week came into effect. Overhead costs have increased due to the shorter hours of work, a mill official declared.

The Kamloops mill is threatening to close down altogether if the price board does not agree to an increase in the price of box shook to reimburse the manufacturers for the extra wages being paid.

INSPECTORS MET

School inspectors from various parts of the province and officials of the department of education met from July 18 to 20, in Victoria, under the chairmanship of H. L. Campbell, chief inspector of schools, it was announced by the department.

The chief discussion was the difficulty of school administration which has developed since the redistribution of school districts was carried out in April under the terms of the Cameron report.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Use of a small portion of the Vernon military camp as a vocational training centre was suggested last week by vocational training officials at the coast, and the plan, if adopted, is to utilize the completely equipped ordnance workshop there. Classrooms and living accommodation have already been set aside for this purpose.

Les Gould Pounded Out of Box as Rutland Triumphs

Batting the Summerland warhorse, Les Gould, out of the box in the third inning, Rutland managed to stave off a late Summerland rally to keep top place in the South Okanagan ball loop last Sunday by a 6-5 count. Five runs from seven hits and a couple of costly miscues by Walsh at third base were the deciding factors in the first three cantos.

Bill Evans relieved Gould and pitched heads up ball, limiting the Rutlanders to four hits and one run for the balance of the contest. This defeat at Rutland means that Summerland has dropped another rung down the league ladder as Pentiction downed Kelowna last Sunday and has stepped ahead of the locals.

Just a month ago, Summerland was riding the crest of a lengthy win streak and headed the South Okanagan loop. Now, however, the locals have gone down to fifth place in the league standing, just the halfway mark.

Summerland is also in a bad way as far as pitching strength is concerned. Les Gould felt right last Sunday but he couldn't put them where Rutland bats couldn't tick them. He was hit freely and hard, yielding a double, triple and a home run.

Jimmy Strachan is washed up for the season, it is believed, because of a nervous stomach disorder. Bill Evans will be occupied with irrigating for the next few weeks, he says, and is not likely to be present when the Sunday games roll around. Ken Stewart just about pitched his arm away against Princeton in his first appearance and there is about the lineup of the hurling staff. It is a black look-out for the ball brains trust to figure out.

Ahead at Start Andy Kitsch, caught one of Gould's deliveries right off the bat at Rutland on Sunday and made a nice single, scoring the leaders' first run when Walsh booted Lingor's roller and then overthrew first base.

With one down in the second frame, Rutland went two ahead when Stewart lifted a knee high ball into right field and rounded the paths at a jog trot for the complete circuit. It was the longest hit poled this season by any of the senior "B" players.

An error by Walsh, a double by Koga and Wostradowski's triple scored three runs in the third when Ritehey brought the latter runner home with a single. Gould knew it was time to quit.

Evans held the northerners to one run for the rest of the game. Bullock scoring in the fourth when he walked and was brought across by singles from Koga and Lingor.

It wasn't until the sixth that Summerland started to find Henry Wostradowski's offerings. Thompson was safe on a fielder's choice, advanced to second as Biagioni grounded out, stole third, and scored on Evans' single.

One more run came across in the seventh when Walsh singled sharply and came across on Taylor's clean hit. This looked like a big inning with two on bases and only one down, but Amm nicked one which Koga gathered up and Thompson was called out on a low ball which brought a howl of protest against Umpire George Reith.

Nearly Tied Score In the final frame, Summerland nearly caught up but failed by one run. Walsh again started things with a single, while Taylor was hit by a pitched ball. Amm singled sharply to right field where Jim Clarke let the ball go past him and Amm never stopped until he had made the complete circuit.

With two down and Biagioni on second, Evans had a chance to tie up his own ball game, but he nicked a high ball and Koga gathered in the fly for the third out.

Henry Wostradowski was in

PUBLIC WORKS MINISTER TO VISIT

Hon. E. C. Carson, provincial minister of public works will visit the Okanagan shortly and will discuss with the B.C.F.G.A. executive the possibility of a link from central Okanagan with the Hope-Princeton highway. The most direct route for such a road is said to be from Peachland, through Thrisk to Princeton. The B.C.F.G.A. had requested that such a link be surveyed.

OGOPOGO AGAIN

Mrs. E. L. Hamilton, Peachland, has been added to the long list of persons who are believed to have seen the famous Ogo-pogo, the Okanagan's famed sea monster. She is reported to have seen Ogo in the vicinity of the C.N.R. wharf at Peachland, but only obtained a brief glimpse before he disappeared into the depths.

good form on Sunday and whiffed the bill past eight Summerland hitters.

Comic highlights of the game came in the eighth when Stewart fell to the hidden ball play, Biagioni's specialty. The Rutland base umpire, Wostradowski, didn't see the play and wouldn't call it, but when Biagioni was leading the Summerland team off the field in protest, Reith over-ruled the decision and called Stewart out at second base.

Wostradowski quit his umpiring role and sat on a bench for the rest of the game.

Sportsmen Seek Pheasant Opening Same As Coast

Opening of the pheasant season in the interior will coincide with that of the coast, if requests of interior sportsmen are agreed to by the B.C. game commission. Twenty members of the Summerland Fish, Game and Forest Protective Association were told at a meeting held in the I.O.O.F. hall on Tuesday evening.

Such a move would have a tendency to keep a large number of the coast hunters out of the interior and give more shooting to interior sportsmen, it is thought.

President Snow reviewed the business of the interior association convention held in May at Clinton, where he and V. M. Lockwood were Summerland delegates. He expressed confidence in the interior group and hoped that it would be strengthened to give a united voice for interior sportsmen.

Bar .22 Rifles
A definite move was underway at Clinton to bar the .22 rifle from the woods. Trappers are definitely in favor of this suggestion as poachers can now use the excuse that they are after squirrels when they enter the woods. Trappers say that beaver, deer and Canada geese are being slaughtered needlessly by these poachers.

Game Commissioner J. G. Cunningham replied that an educational program would have to be instituted before the public could be persuaded to such a course.

Along with the season opening recommendation on pheasants, it is proposed that the daily bag for the first five days would be two cocks with the daily bag for the rest of the season being four, total bag to be 20 birds.

Deputy game wardens were suggested by home clubs' delegates at Clinton but difficulties of obtaining court convictions were pointed out. Summerland delegates suggested that clubs should go on record as favoring their members reporting any infringements of the fish and game laws.

Only on Vancouver Island and one small area of Kamloops at a high altitude will there be any grouse shooting this year, according to interior recommendations.

Quail season will likely be the same as last year but prairie chicken and Hungarian partridge will be closed.

Fewer Ducks
Reduction in the season length and the bag limits has been strongly recommended for migratory birds as despite efforts of Ducks Unlimited there is a serious decline reported by Dominion authorities.

Deer season is suggested from September 15 to December 31, with many advocates for a later opening, on October 1. Sportsmen are also advocating the elimination of slugs and shot in shotguns for hunting deer.

Netting of kokanees in Okanagan Lake is to be abolished, while fish limits are to be brought down to ten fish daily with a total limit of 25 pounds. Mr. Snow explained that this recommendation is the result of American parties taking huge quantities of fish out of lakes with no regard to conservation.

He told the story of one party of Americans at Peter Hope lake, who canned 756 cans of fish during their stay. Now it is proposed that no fish can be smoked or canned at the lakes but must be taken home.

Commission Problems
Mr. Snow explained that the fish and game commission is faced with a big problem in trying to satisfy four different trends of thought. There is the problem of the American tourist who is sought as an aid to the economic situation; that of conservation of game, the fact that guides need the tourists' remuneration in order to exist, and there is the home sportsman who wishes to obtain his share of the hunting and fishing which abound in his province.

Salmon Arm is to be the home of the next interior convention, with Oliver being next in line. Gordon Toombs, of Penticton, is planning to establish junior sports clubs in the interior to foster interest in the "teen-agers." Summerland club is planning to admit teen-agers with an honorary membership up to 18 years of age.

A new constitution is being drawn up for the local club and will be presented at the next general meeting.

Eight pair of crows and magpies were killed by youngsters since the last general meeting. Roy Gilbert reported on Tuesday.

Suggests Route
George Haddrell led a discussion on the proposal to build a road from Brenda lake, above Peachland, to Penaske lake. This route was recommended at the interior convention and has long been sought by sportsmen of the central Okanagan area, as a short route to the Nicola country.

Mr. Haddrell contended that a better grade is possible from Siwash creek to Galena lake and along a string of small lakes which would give good fishing all the way.

Mr. Snow thought that these lakes would be fished out in three years if such a road was built, but Mr. Haddrell did not agree and continued to press his case for this alternative route.

Oliver sportsmen have been most keen on the Brenda lake route but Mr. Haddrell stated that he had persuaded a number of them recently on the feasibility of his suggestion.

Cricket Score In Baseball Win

PEACHLAND—Peachland unleashed their big hitting guns Sunday, and when the smoke had cleared away, had vanquished Cawston by a score of 20-3. In rolling up this cricket score, Peachland pounded out 22 hits, including 4 doubles and a home run. The result was apparent from the first inning as Peachland scored in every inning except the sixth. Cawston managed to collect only three hits off Harold Cousins, who struck out twelve.

In the first, Gummow singled, went to third on two successive infield outs and scored on V. Cousins' single.

Sutherland doubled in the second to score Fulks and Ferguson, making the score 3-0.

In the third, H. Cousins doubled and scored on brother Dan's single.

From there on, it was a score-keepers' nightmare as the runs kept pouring in.

The apex of scoring was reached in the seventh when six men scored on five hits, a walk and an error.

Cawston scored their first run in the fourth as Beck tripled and scored on Dan Cousins' error. Cawston added their last two in the sixth on a hit, 2 errors and an overthrow.

Dan and Verne Cousins led the hitting as both collected four for six.

IRRIGATION ENQUIRY

Dean F. M. Clement, the one-man commission studying irrigation, will hold a sitting in Penticton on July 31. He held an enquiry at Vernon on Friday, July 9, and opened his hearing at Kelowna on July 24. Although Penticton is expected to attempt to introduce a brief, it is unlikely that this will be allowed, as Penticton's irrigation debt is on the open market and is not carried in part by the provincial government. A similar situation exists in Summerland. The irrigation royal commission was appointed by Premier Hart.

Councillor At Peachland Out

PEACHLAND—Resignation of Councillor J. Cameron brought about a special meeting of the Peachland council on July 22. Councillor Cameron has resigned because "it was impossible to carry on . . . harmoniously."

The council has appointed Councillor Fred Topham, Jr. as head of public works, succeeding Mr. Cameron and Councillor Charles Whinton as his substitute.

Cause of the resignation involved failure of the council and ex-Councillor Cameron to agree on several aspects of public works, notably the placement of a culvert below Lot 7, the old Ferguson place.

An election to fill the vacancy is pending with no definite date as yet announced.

Sidewalks will not be constructed this year in Peachland, it was revealed on Monday at the meeting following correspondence with Matt Hicks, who had contracted to build the walks. Mr. Hicks stated the impossibility of the project this year. The whole matter was shelved for future discussion.

No action has as yet been taken regarding campers on the bench. The case is still in the hands of the solicitor, E. C. Weddell, Kelowna.

ANOTHER LOCAL FOR KOOTENAYS

The Kootenays are to have another B.C.F.G.A. local with the organization of growers in the Canyon - Lister - Husheroff section, John S. Hall, Kootenay-Greston executive member told the B.C.F.G.A. executive last week in Kelowna.

One problem which has been causing Kootenay growers some concern is that of the "little cherry" a virus disease. Dr. M. F. Welsh, Summerland, and Fred Anderson, Vernon entomologists, discovered that certain trees which were affected last year show no indication this season.

Mr. Hall stated that one tree showed affects of the disease on one side and the fruit on the other was fully formed.

PICKERS' WAGES

District councils of the B.C.F.G.A. are meeting throughout the Okanagan with a view to standardizing picking wages, following the visit of William McGillivray, supervisor of the Dominion-Provincial emergency farm labor service. Following the meeting of councils, a joint conference of representatives of the districts will be held to endeavor to reach a Valley-wide understanding.

N. GEORGE RUNIANS

Assistant superintendent of the Bank of Montreal's western division, who has been appointed superintendent of that division with headquarters at the bank's head office in Montreal.

Successively attached to the superintendent's departments at Regina and Calgary for seven years, and an inspector with headquarters in Winnipeg for four years, Mr. Runians served for a time as assistant manager of the main office of the bank in Mexico City. Following this he was, in 1934, transferred in this same capacity to the bank's main office in Vancouver, and was later attached to the western credit department of the bank in Montreal. After four years with this department, he was promoted to the post of assistant superintendent of the western division in 1943.

Mr. Runians, whose territory covers the Prairie Provinces, British Columbia and the Yukon, will work in conjunction with the bank's resident superintendents at Winnipeg, Calgary and Vancouver.

FIRST WOMAN THROUGH PANAMA IS VISITOR HERE

One of the most interesting visitors to the Summerland district for many years is Mrs. Stephen Witt, who makes her home with her daughter, Dr. Dorothea Witt, in New Orleans, and is at present a guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ewart Woolliams, at their Trout Creek Point home.

Mrs. Witt, with her husband, spent 35 years in the mission field in Central America. They were 15 years under the Jamaica Baptist Missionary Society, first on the Cayman Islands, in the Caribbean Sea, and then at Costa Rica, the most southerly of Central American republics. This was followed by 20 years in Panama, under the southern Baptist Convention.

In Panama, Mr. and Mrs. Witt had several churches, working mostly among the West Indians who had been brought down from the West Indies to work on the Panama Canal, then in the process of construction. Mrs. Witt and her husband were in Panama during nearly all of the construction days.

Mrs. Witt was on the first vessel to go through the completed locks. She had the thrilling experience of seeing the waters of the Pacific meet and mingle with the waters of the Atlantic there for the first time. The family watched the formation of Gatun Lake, which was made by damming up the waters of Shagres river.

One of Mrs. Witt's daughters became a medical missionary, and spent ten years in the Belgian Congo. The first section she was sent to was the furthest outpost under the northern Baptists, in the west central district. Dr. Witt was the natives' first doctor, and the only one they had ever seen, except the witch doctors. It is with this daughter, Dr. Dorothea Witt, that Mrs. Witt now makes her home, in New Orleans.

FACULTY OF MEDICINE

The prospect of establishing a faculty of medicine at the University of British Columbia to take care of the 125 prospective students who are waiting and hoping for such an establishment, took on a rosier view after a conference between Premier John Hart and Dr. Norman MacKenzie, president of the university. Following the submission of a report by Dr. C. E. Dolman after his visit east, it was intimated there was little likelihood of the faculty of medicine being established for at least a year, but following the conference, the premier, it is likely that a fresh approach to the problem will be made with a view to utilizing existing hospital facilities in Vancouver, rather than waiting for the time when a university hospital could be constructed.

Regulations governing gross weights and dimensions of vehicles used on the public highways are to be enforced again following the relaxing of controls during the war, it has been announced by the Honorable E. C. Carson, minister of public works.

EXTEND ELECTRIC LIGHT SERVICE

Following the procedure being adopted by the municipal council, it was agreed on July 8, to extend the electric light system to provide service to A. H. Kiebel on his new sandhill lot. Cost of the extension will bring the total expenditure on this particular line to $645.20. Of this amount the municipality absorbs $330, leaving $315.20 to be shared by Mr. Kiebel and the two previous users on the line.

Mr. Kiebel's share will be $105.07, while the two other users will be refunded $37.60, as they paid a higher percentage when the original portion of the service was installed.

Other applicants for light services received council approval on Thursday, July 4, and the Summerland boys' team won, with a score of 12-8. The girls, who were short of players, didn't do as well.

GROWERS' CONVENTION

The annual convention of the B. C. Fruit Growers Assn. will be held in either Kelowna or Vernon next January, the executive announced last week.

In the month of June, $180 in court fines and costs were paid in to the municipal exchequer, the monthly report of B.C. Police Constable H. Cartmell reveals. There were seven court cases with one remanded to July. Another case, which commenced in May, was settled last month with payment of a heavy fine.

Three persons faced Magistrate Sharman on charges of intoxication, two charges of breaking and entering were heard, while two other charges involved assault and speeding.

The Summerland and Penticton Teen Towns played softball on Thursday, July 4, and the Summerland boys' team won, with a score of 12-8. The girls, who were short of players, didn't do as well.

DANGER! Forest Fires Ahead

FOREST fires are a hazard—a deadly and costly hazard that affects all of us here in British Columbia. Each year, despite careful vigilance on the part of our Forest Rangers, hundreds of thousands of dollars damage to our forests is caused by downright carelessness.

Your own common sense will warn you that incalculable damage can be inflicted on heavy growth timber by an improperly extinguished match, cigarette or camp fire.

This is especially true during the summer danger period. In the vicinity of forest lands, be particularly vigilant and exceptionally careful.

KNOWN IN OKANAGAN

Vernon—Miss Agatha Chapman, Ottawa, who was named by the royal commission on espionage as an organizer of "cells," from which agents were recruited or information communicated is a daughter of Mrs. E. P. Chapman, of Vernon, and of the late Judge Chapman. She is well known in the northern part of the Okanagan.

C.P.R. Line Would Cost $360,000

To connect Penticton and Kelowna with an extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway along the water's edge would mean an expenditure of $3,600,000, the executive of the B.C.F.G.A. was informed at its session last week in Kelowna, in correspondence from President D. C. Coleman.

The railway head was replying to a resolution passed at the 1946 growers' convention last January, which recommended the building of this railway extension from Kelowna south, so that a continuous north and south rail link could be provided throughout the Okanagan.

Mr. Coleman declared, however, that the C.P.R. is improving its lake service by adding a third large tug, which will be in commission within two months.

Executives of the C.P.R. have given the railway extension idea serious consideration, Mr. Coleman announced, but he pointed to many serious factors which would have to be studied. If the rail link was built along the water's edge, the cost would be $3,600,000 and would involve taking over considerable orchard land.

Then, if an alternative route were considered from a point southeast of Kelowna, heavy grade would have to be overcome.

The entire question will be discussed with key men of the Okanagan fruit industry when Mr. W. M. Neal, senior vice-president, visits the Okanagan soon.

No comment was made by President R. C. Vaughan, of the C.P.R., who stated that officials of his company would discuss a request for extension of the Canadian National to Penticton in the near future.

MILITARY BUILDINGS

Certain buildings and equipment at the big Vernon military camp have now been declared surplus, according to advice received last week from War Assets Corporation in Montreal. The B.C.F.G.A. executive is watching the situation carefully with a view to some growers obtaining buildings for orchard labor accommodation.

Want Extra Storey For Growers Bldg.

An extra storey to provide accommodation for growers attending conventions and meetings at Kelowna, was the suggestion of J. G. Campbell, Salmon Arm, at Kelowna last week when the growers' executive discussed the big new B.C. Tree Fruits, Ltd., building now being constructed.

Such an addition would provide a solution to the present acute accommodation problem, Mr. Campbell suggested.

A. K. Loyd, B.C. Tree Fruits general manager, reviewed some of the difficulties of such a plan, stating that the cost involved would exceed figures set for the cost of the building.

The executive asked Mr. Loyd to keep the suggestion under surveillance in the event that developments might make its implementation desirable.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Thomas, who were en route by motor, from their home in Lanigan, Sask., to Vancouver and Victoria, were visitors on July 8, with Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Mayert and Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas.

Reversal of Form Old Country Brides Shown in Petition Give Views on Canada

It was a forced petition of thanks but in any case it registered appreciation of the civic body's efforts.

Such was the news given Summerland council last week by Reeve W. R. Powell, in touching on the subject of laying dust by means of salt applications.

At first the reeve said that he had received a petition of thanks for the council's work instead of the usual petition of protest over a condition in need of remedy.

But, when pressed for further information, he relented and explained that he had practically "hi-jacked" the petition.

It came about in this way. The reeve had received complaints regarding the dust nuisance from an interested party. The road was fixed but no praise for the work was forthcoming.

So the reeve met this interested party on the street one day. He queried him about the dust condition and found it was entirely satisfactory.

"Well, why didn't you thank us for the work?" queried the chief magistrate.

"We should have," admitted the interested party, getting somewhat red in the face. "Well, thanks anyway, it was a good job."

"That's not good enough," retorted the civic head. "You raised a petition asking to remedy the dust nuisance. We fixed it, so you can jolly well get up a petition thanking us for the work."

P.S.—He got the petition signed by six interested parties.

TOURIST ACCOMMODATION

With more than 600 tourist camps now in operation, a total of 75 new tourist camps are now under construction, it was announced by Hon. Leslie Eyres, minister of trade and industry. The B.C. Travel Bureau, however, issued a warning that at the beginning of next season this province will have to step up promotion in order to secure tourists. High standards of accommodation will have to be maintained in order to keep tourists in the province.

Labor's Political Action

Labor Code for Canada.

A strike is mass action on the economic front, withdrawing our labor power from industry. It is a serious step to take and labor very carefully estimates when a strike should take place and uses strike action as a last resort to gain its just demands.

Political Action is also mass action and must be taken equally seriously by organized labor and can be just as effective to accomplish what we set out to do in the field of social and labor conditions.

Responsibility for the kind of work getting under way lies first of all with the District Officers, secondly with the Local Officers, thirdly with the Sub-Local Officers and Job Stewards. But the responsibility is equal! GET INTO ACTION NOW!

Serious Loss

cleared up by presstime, The Review was informed.

Did Not Use Dump

Mr. Kercher also told the council that it was his opinion that inflammable material had been dumped indiscriminately in the area and not in the spot designated for such purpose by the council.

A fairly brisk wind was blowing on Sunday and if it had altered slightly, the fire would have come down Prairie Valley with resultant loss to many orchards and homes, he explained.

Major Tweedy attended the council meeting on Monday to report his property loss and state that he could not carry on his irrigation until some replacement was made.

Last week, he claimed, a fire was smouldering in the municipal dump.

Later, Mr. Kercher told the council that a forestry official had visited the area last week and no fire was burning on that occasion. Councillor Eric Tait had passed the dump early Sunday morning and had not noticed any conflagration.

Summerland council decided to make no comment on the situation until further information as to the possible origin could be obtained.

Workers at the fire have declared their gratitude to Mrs. M. E. Collas, who arrived on the scene in the early evening with coffee for the volunteer fire fighters. Later, Mrs. Dodwell and party also provided refreshments for the weary men.

PRICES ON TANKS

Prices are to be obtained on 250 and 500-gallon tanks to hold diesel fuel oil for the Summerland municipal road department, the council agreed on Monday afternoon.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. T. Charity wish to announce the engagement of their only daughter, Margaret Hetlie, to Mr. Charles Louis, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Jacobson, of Pentiction. The wedding will take place on August 21, at St. Stephen's Anglican church, at 3 p.m.

Wedding

The attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Evans provided the setting for the marriage of their only daughter, Letitia May, to Mr. Robert D. Spencer, of Victoria, B.C.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. W. Haskins, at noon, on July 20. The bride was charming in a gown of white net over taffeta, and carried a bouquet of red roses and heather. Relatives and close friends were in attendance.

Following a honeymoon trip to Vancouver Island, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer will reside in West Summerland.

Out of town guests included Mrs. H. Lezier and son Harold, of Hamilton, Ont.; Mrs. A. G. Duncan and Miss Betty Duncan, Vancouver.

DEBENTURE SALE

Sale of sinking fund securities to meet $30,000 worth of irrigation debentures which will fall due shortly was arranged by the municipal council on Monday. Municipal Clerk F. J. Nixon was instructed to proceed with his plan to sell provincial government bonds to the Bank of Montreal and credit the sinking fund of the municipality.

DO NOT WANT PITS

No interest was evinced by the Summerland council on Monday last over the Gordon Robertson and W. Haddrell gravel pits. Councillor H. L. Wilson asked if the council wished to make any deal for them but as the rock crusher now in operation is not mobile, the council agreed that no use of these pits could be made for some time.

BREAK STREET LIGHTS

Reports that street lights on the Gulch road are being broken was made to the city council, on July 8, by electrical foreman Percy Thornber. He was instructed to purchase or have made some metal grills to protect the bulbs.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Renrice Williams and Dr. Earl R. Williams wish to thank their many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy and the many floral tributes proffered during their recent sad bereavement in the loss of husband and father, the late A. E. Williams; also, special thanks to Dr. O. W. Vanderburgh and nursing staff of the Summerland hospital.

Webster Hopeful

and I are in a world astir, a world placing more emphasis on co-operative action for the benefit of all people concerned. The future belongs to the people who hold such views as you will find expressed in the C.C.F. party."

The Okanagan impresses one with the fertility of its land, he continued, and is only one portion of Canada which has great natural resources and tremendous power in industrial equipment.

"We are in a position to perform capacity production in foodstuffs, and we also have millions of skilled workers, including scientific farmers. This is a hopeful condition to act upon."

People are quick to learn, he pointed out, referring to the many youths who learned quickly the skills of piloting planes. He stressed the development which could be undertaken if this type of youth is given an opportunity to assist in the development of the country.

Mr. Webster also pointed to the better standards of education attained by all persons. People today have more serious thoughts and there are a greater number with a political understanding.

He believed that people are not voting now for personalities but for public policy, as advocated by the candidates and their party.

Newspapers and periodicals came in for a searching and critical review by Mrs. Dorothy Fraser, referring particularly to those newsmen who state they are unable to obtain information from Poland and other European countries because of so-called "iron curtain."

Mrs. Fraser believed this situation was not correct and referred to writers as Ross Munro, who was quoted as claiming in only one instance was he ever barred from complete freedom of action and writing in travelling around Russian Germany.

The speaker stressed that although Great Britain and U.S. papers claimed their correspondents could not obtain access to these countries, it was actually their own governments who barred the way, and not the foreign powers who were blamed.

Mrs. Fraser also cracked down on some of the large city dailies which, she stated, are endeavoring to lead their readers through editorial writings to believe things which are not founded on fact.

She also referred to the taxation of co-operatives as an unfair practice, claiming that grain company executives had campaigned "unscrupulously" against these concerns.

In conclusion, Mrs. Fraser advised her listeners to sift their own reading and endeavor to learn which correspondents are reliable. She also urged that letters to the editorial columns be used as much as possible.

"Can we afford to lose the C.C.F. in B.C.?" was the topic of Mrs. Webster's short, impromptu speech. She urged her hearers to work on a long-range plan, with conquests in the next elections as their goal, and yet not to neglect the routine work which is necessary for successful organizations.

The South Okanagan C.C.F. organization was commended as one of the most energetic in the province.

F. R. Ganzveld was chairman of the rally and introduced the speakers. About 150 attended the rally and participated in swimming races and the picnic after the lectures.

SEND BILL FOR ROAD

Summerland council, sitting on Monday afternoon, decided to repair the road past W. Bloomfield's property and send the account to the Interior Contracting Co. in Pentiction. Councillor Wilson stated that the road badly needed fixing as the Pentiction firm's vehicles had impaired the surface when hauling gravel and dirt for the C.P.R. fill in Summerland.

cleared up by prestime, The Review was informed.

Did Not Use Dump
Mr. Kercher also told the council that it was his opinion that inflammable material had been dumped indiscriminately in the area and not in the spot designated for such purpose by the council.

A fairly brisk wind was blowing on Sunday and if it had altered slightly, the fire would have come down Prairie Valley with resultant loss to many orchards and homes, he explained.

Major Tweedy attended the council meeting on Monday to report his property loss and state that he could not carry on his irrigation until some replacement was made.

Last week, he claimed, a fire was smouldering in the municipal dump.

Later, Mr. Kercher told the council that a forestry official had visited the area last week and no fire was burning on that occasion. Councillor Eric Tait had passed the dump early Sunday morning and had not noticed any conflagration.

Summerland council decided to make no comment on the situation until further information until further information as to the possible origin could be obtained.

Workers at the fire have declared their gratitude to Mrs. M. E. Collas, who arrived on the scene in the early evening with coffee for the volunteer fire fighters. Later, Mrs. Dodwell and party also provided refreshments for the weary men.

PRICES ON TANKS

Prices are to be obtained on 250 and 500-gallon tanks to hold diesel fuel oil for the Summerland municipal road department, the council agreed on Monday afternoon.
