Public Meeting Called For October 25 to Hear Memorial Parks Plans

Residents of Summerland municipality will be asked to attend a public meeting on Friday, Oct. 25, to voice their opinions on the proposal to commence a commemoration drive in this community to erect the Memorial Parks project at a cost of nearly $25,000. These park projects, a park-playground on the board of trade property in West Summerland and an athletic park on the old Drake lot, one mile from the centre of the business district would be installed as Memorial parks, honoring those who have fallen in the two world wars and also those who served their country in time of need. An energetic committee has been working on this proposal for the past four months and last Friday definite plans and estimates were presented to the committee.

Express And Mail Service Under Fire

Mail and express service in Summerland came under discussion at the Retail Merchants Association monthly meeting last night in the Nu-way hotel annex. Complaints regarding the paying of pickup delivery charges from the railway stations here to the points of delivery in the business section were heard from various members. It was decided that letters should be written to the C.P.R. and C.N.R. pointing out that Summerland merchants are paying more for delivery of express parcels here than merchants in other parts of the province, where the railway companies deliver express parcels free of charge.

Tag Day Meets With Success

Under the sponsorship of the Women's Institute, a sum of $224.50 was collected on Saturday, Sept. 28, in aid of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. This was away above any previous effort on behalf of the blind and was mainly due to the organization work of the W.I. and the high school girls who made the actual canvass of the community. These girls, with the assistance of two others from the elementary school, worked in relays on the streets of West Summerland, in the packing houses and processing plants, and in lower town. The girls were Pat Golay, Betty Cameron, Louise Washington, Leona Soderquist, June Ross, Shirley Wilson, Beverly Fleming, Joan Howard, Doris Cristante, Barbara Metters, Ruth Kliz, Dorothy Blacklock, Doreen Stewart, Joan Daniels, Ruth Gallagher, Maureen May, Stella MacDonald and Joyce Smith.

Bank Account To Municipality

The bank account operated by the Summerland U.B.C. Alumni Association for the Summerland Scholarship Fund has been turned over formally to the Municipality of Summerland as official trustee. It was stated here this week that this does not mean that the drive for funds is over, as there is still a sum of about $700 needed to provide capital which will ensure an annual bursary of $250. The total is placed at $4,500. This scholarship fund will now be handled by the municipal council, insofar as official banking transactions are concerned, but

Business Men Seek Better Services Here

Better street lighting and better police protection will be sought by the Retail Merchants' Association when it sends a deputation to wait on the municipal council on October 15, the October monthly meeting decided last night. This deputation, which will consist of President Len Hill and William Laidlaw, will be assisted in its presentation to the council by President Reid Johnston, of the Summerland Board of Trade, who was appointed last month also to meet the council.

It was the consensus of opinion last night that this community has grown to such an extent that a policeman for the municipality alone is a necessity. Such a move will be advocated to the council if it was intimated. Besides more adequate street lighting up to eleven p.m., the merchants are seeking assistance in obtaining better lighting for their windows. At the instigation of Chairman Len Hill, the merchants will endeavor to have their members install light switches outside their front doors if the council can appoint a watchman who would make nightly rounds and switch off the window lights at 11 o'clock.

Huge Moose Shot By Fred Gartrell

Mr. Fred Gartrell and his son, Mr. Lloyd Gartrell, accompanied by Mr. H. McCall, of Vernon, were recent hunters to Deadman's Creek, east of the Cariboo district, where they spent a week's vacation, fishing and hunting. Mr. Fred Gartrell bagged a moose with a 50 1/2 inch antler spread, and which weighed 750 lbs. when dressed. A good sized buck was also shot by the party, who report good fishing in the vicinity.

More Interest In Night Classes Is Sought Here

There seems to be little interest among Summerland adults for operation of night school classes, A. K. Macleod, high school principal informed The Review this week. Unless further interest is aroused, there is little likelihood that the classes will be feasible. School District No. 15 is endeavoring to arrange these night classes and will make arrangements for the instructors if the groups of fifteen or more are formed.

Death of S. P. Thomas Great Loss to Veterans

Summerland and the entire South Okanagan mourned the loss this week of a citizen who, more than any other person in this community, assisted returning war veterans to rehabilitate themselves on "civvy street." After a week's illness, Sydney Phillips Thomas, President of the Summerland branch of the Canadian Legion, passed away on Sunday, September 29.

For some time, the late Mr. Thomas had been troubled with a heart ailment and he suffered a relapse early last week which culminated in his death last weekend. Although not a charter member, the deceased man interested himself in Legion work shortly after Summerland branch No. 22 was organized. Since then he had held many executive offices, including that of social chairman for five years. On three different occasions, Syd, as he was popularly known, occupied the presidency of the local branch. He was the presiding officer on his demise. Besides his work in the local branch, Syd was a prominent worker in the South Okanagan Legion Zone, and was a zone representative for two years, on the provincial command, his main work being in connection with pensioning. But even more than his Legion work, the late Syd Thomas had become well known for his work on the Summerland Rehabilitation Committee as general secretary. Two nights a week he interviewed returning men, finding out their wants and desires, Loss of $25,000 Claimed in Fire Which Takes More Than Two Hours to Control—Entire Building and Stock of Apples Complete Loss. Some Machinery Saved.—Firemen Lauded for Saving Surrounding Buildings and Confining Blaze to Plant.—Lack of Wind Saves Retail Area From Huge Loss.

Fire, breaking out just after the lunch hour, completely gutted the T. B. Young evaporating plant and threatened the entire business district in West Summerland, on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 2. Loss is roughly estimated at $25,000, including the building, a large portion of the machinery and stock. The conflagration, one of the worst in the history of West Summerland, caused a terrific heat and threatened surrounding buildings, including two residences and a large barn, situated just a few feet away. Members of the Summerland Fire Brigade fought valiantly, assisted by dozens of other citizens and have been lauded on every hand for their efforts in keeping the blaze confined to the one building. The walls did not cave in, but more than half the roof collapsed, but still the sparks were confined to the building area itself. This plant is one of the landmarks in the West Summerland district, the first part of the structure having been erected in 1911.

Hardly Any Wind

Fortunately for the surrounding buildings, there was hardly any wind prevailing when the fire broke out and while the firemen fought to control it. The huge billows of smoke and the flaring flames went straight up in the air and few, if any, sparks were scattered.

First alarm was turned in at 12:15, when the siren called the firemen from their lunch. As soon as possible the hose was reeled out and huge volumes of water sprayed onto the building. Pressure from the hoses remained good throughout and once all the hoses could be brought into play the danger to the surrounding buildings was lessened considerably. Smaller types of garden hose were used by neighbors to dampen the roofs of the surrounding buildings and prevent danger of spreading. For more than two hours firemen battled the stubborn blaze before bringing it under control. By that time, half the roof on the rear portion of the building had collapsed and the upper storey had been completely demolished. The Summerland Box Co. sent down part of its fire equipment to assist in quelling the blaze. Saved Records. The office and the front of the building were untouched by fire but were ruined by water and scorched by the heat, which became intense at times. Office records were rescued and it is believed that the entire office equipment was saved. A large safe in the front office remained untouched. The fire is believed to have started in the furnace room and spread with amazing quickness.

PLANS COLD LOCKER

"It's too early to state any definite plans, but I am thinking of tearing the building down and rebuilding a structure for a cold locker plant," declared T. B. Young, to The Review this morning. Mr. Young had been making plans for such a storage unit for some months and had ordered some of the machinery, with a view to creating this plant once this evaporating season was concluded and B.C. Fruit Processors, Ltd., took over his processing equipment. Now, he will be able to make an earlier start on the cold locker plant and expects to have it operating for next summer's trade. Mr. Young also stated that there was little insurance carried on the building and intimated that he would have quite a loss in this respect.

Throughout the back portion. Worker's had quit work at 12 o'clock noon and the first alarm was sounded fifteen minutes later. In a matter of minutes huge sheets of flames were licking hungrily up the walls and great billows of smoke emanated from the roof. There was never any hope of saving the building, so quickly did the flames spread, but firemen concentrated on keeping the fire within the building and keeping the walls from sagging outward. At the very rear, across a narrow lane ten feet wide, a large barn is situated. Water was sprayed on this structure at regular intervals and the only damage done to it is loss of old shingles dislodged by the water pressure. Pools Are Saved. All the floors are a total loss, investigation has revealed, while (Continued on Page 8)

Stresses Danger to Business Area From Fire

In view of the danger to the business section of the community, it would be unlikely that the municipality would allow an evaporating plant or any other similar industry to rebuild in such a location, declared Reeve W. R. Powell in discussing the disastrous fire of Wednesday afternoon which destroyed the T. B. Young evaporating plant in West Summerland. His Worship pointed out the danger to surrounding business stores yesterday afternoon. "If a wind had been blowing at the time, a far greater loss would probably have accrued, he considered. "It would be too dangerous to the community to allow a plant of this nature to be built so close to the business district," he considered.

Reeve Lauds Fire Department On Work Yesterday

"The fire department fought the fire with remarkable skill and showed very able work," declared Reeve W. R. Powell to The Review last night in discussing the evaporating plant blaze. "The quick despatch with which they brought their equipment to bear on the fire and the fact that they were able to keep the blaze from spreading was very commendable." Like comments were heard on every hand in Summerland yesterday afternoon and today. At the monthly meeting of the Retail Merchants Association last night, a vote of commendation on the fire department's work was passed with unanimous approval. "It was a remarkable bit of fire fighting," was the way J. C. Robson summed up the situation, and the members agreed. At the same time, retail merchants expressed the thought that further fire fighting equipment is necessary to provide greater protection for the town. Several members expressed the thought that a fire engine is a necessity here, in order that the fire hose and other equipment can be brought to play on fires with greater despatch. It was pointed out that a board of trade committee had been working on this subject for some time and had submitted a brief to the municipal council.

Valley Teachers Meet Next Week

Summerland school teachers are making plans to attend the annual convention of the Okanagan Valley School Teachers' Association, to be held in Kelowna on Wednesday evening, Oct. 9, and all day Thursday and Friday, Oct. 10 and 11. It is anticipated that there will be a large attendance of teachers from all parts of the valley as these sessions will be of prime importance to these instructors in advancement of their school curriculums, it is stated. In conformity with the School Act, Summerland schools will be (Continued on Page 4)

National Film Board

Summerland has an opportunity to better itself and obtain some interesting and educational data from a service provided by the National Film Board, if a local organization will undertake to sponsor the movement.

Throughout the province, community groups are building up film libraries on a circulating basis and are providing countless evenings' enjoyment in so doing. Organizations and smaller groups are benefitting from this adult education service which can be provided at a small cost.

Summerland schools will soon have a projector for their own use. At present, Penfiction schools are loaning Summerland a projector for part of each month but no use is being made of this machine apart from school hours.

With school board permission, the new projector could be utilized most nights of the week, provided competent management was provided. Projectionists could be trained by the National Film Board and could operate the machine for public meetings, social gatherings and other functions throughout the winter months.

For an expenditure of $200 per year, Summerland could own films of its own and participate in the huge circulating film libraries which are being accumulated throughout British Columbia. The Film Board and the Extension Department of U.B.C. are assisting in this move.

Films on nearly any subject under discussion can now be provided through this service, adding greatly to the enjoyment of an evening meeting and providing education of a worthwhile nature.

Summerland is missing a good bet in not participating in this service. Once a month the Film Board shows a series at the Legion hall, but this service could be available every night of the month if the proper organization was undertaken. There is also a field representative of the Film Board in the Okanagan for the special purpose of training projectionists and servicing machines in communities which are participating in the scheme.

This is a project which could easily fall within the scope of the board of trade, or some other public-spirited group.

THE Feminine Front

Muriel Hurry

It is always a pleasure to see a group of happy, carefree children, and in a modern, advanced hospital in Vancouver, live a large group of the happiest and most mentally normal children that I have seen. Formerly the Crippled Children's Hospital, and now known as the Children's Hospital, until recently, only children to the age of 14, with bone disorders were admitted. However, a large new wing is now under construction which will house spastic paralysis victims, and other ill children who need treatments which the hospital can provide will also be admitted.

Entering the hospital, one would wonder where the sick children were kept. In large, sunny wards with cheerful nurses always in attendance, children play about the floor or rest contentedly in bed with a large assortment of toys to amuse them.

During the many hours I have spent in the hospital, I have never seen an unhappy child. Even during the most difficult first days of admittance to the hospital, when the child is in the isolation ward, separated from his loved ones and in a strange environment, the cheerful, loving nurses manage to keep him in a contented frame of mind.

The children are not penned into beds and rooms but, when able run about the halls, visiting with one another, helping the nurses and maids, and attending the modern classroom, where a teacher sees that the little patients do not fall behind in their educational requirements.

In a large, heated swimming pool, paralyzed victims exercise, as part of their required treatment the year around. One of the most modern surgeries in the west has seen many miracles performed among malformed or crippled kiddies. Long outdoor porches where children spend many happy hours, and in the back garden, a miniature playhouse, filled with child-size furniture, helps to keep the patients happy and contented.

The large coast hospitals are at present over-crowded and under-staffed, but at the Children's Hospital there are no signs of these conditions. All children are contented, well cared for and are the recipients of the most excellent medical attention available. Any mother who leaves a child within the doors of the Children's Hospital does so with the assurance that the child will receive the highest standard of medical attention and the most loving personal care that is possible to obtain for him.

Our youngest son, four years of age spent many months there, lying on a frame, and with a constrictor to assure that he did not move his back. Yet whenever we saw him, he was happy and contented, and after a four-months' absence returned last week to the hospital for a month's session, with no qualms, and with only memories of the loving care that he received when a patient there.

Although I am not very fond of large cities, it is often possible there to obtain a glimpse into human nature that small-town life does not always disclose.

While waiting in a small sub-station in Vancouver for a Marpole tram, one recent Sunday, I whiled away a half-hour wait by shamelessly watching and listening to my companions.

A genial Chinese was avidly stealing drinks from a large bottle which he generously offered to pass around among the half-dozen waiting passengers, one old man offered anyone interested a sure cure for eczema, arthritis, or what have you, and insisted on passing out cards advertising his wonder product.

In a secluded corner, a young couple, apparently brother and sister were discussing the love life of an aged father. Apparently the father had tentative matrimonial intentions, which cropped up fairly frequently. The current affair involved a woman who "drank," and thought the old man was too quiet for her tastes. Another aged passenger was a religious fanatic who had, mistakenly, and to the sorrow of all, taken a wrong car, and was whiling away his spare time by passing out religious tracts, and attempting to save the soul of the thirsty

CORNERSTONE FOR A HOUSE OF LIFE

by---

Gove Hambidge

This is the fifth and concluding part of Gove Hambidge's interesting article on the aims and objects of FAO.

They say the movement for better food and better nutrition has been going on almost everywhere in the world, in one way or another. It is all tied in with what people used to call, about the time of the last war, "an expanding economy." That means people can afford to eat better, so they do. Manufacture and trade are booming. There has been no big depression for a long time. Best of all, everyone looks forward to a long period of peace, and some believe there will never be another war.

It seems to be life itself that is expanding, especially for the hundreds of millions who in the past had so little of it.

FORESTERS AND FISHERMEN

So far as food and agriculture are concerned, such things as I have described are all within the range of work laid out by the delegates of the 42 nations who founded FAO at the Quebec conference. Indeed, much more was included in their recommendations.

Each region and each country has its own special problems, some of which will come to your mind as you think of them in turn: the South Pacific countries . . . the Oriental countries . . . the Near and the Middle East . . . the Mediterranean countries and those in Africa . . . the Balkans . . . Middle Europe . . . Scandinavia . . . Western Europe . . . North America . . . Central America . . . South America.

Some countries are chiefly concerned with commercial agriculture, others chiefly with production for home use. The backgrounds of the people, the equipment they have, and the natural resources of the land are vastly different in different places. Some problems are far more difficult than others and will take much longer to solve. But in all cases progress is possible, either in such typical ways as I have mentioned or in others equally worth while.

A great deal can be done with fisheries. More than almost any other foodstuff, many of the world's poorer people lack good protein, which comes mainly from animal products. Fish are one of the best foods for good protein, yet in many places they are hardly used at all. Developing fisheries and fish marketing, and inexpensive ways to process fish so they will keep well, would help to give millions of people a more generous and healthful food supply than they now have. The fishermen would gain by it, too.

And just as there can be progress in supplying more and better food and other farm products there can be progress in supplying more forest products for houses, furniture, paper and many other things of which there is not enough.

Today in large parts of India there is no wood even for fuel: The peasants have to burn cowdung, which is badly needed to fertilize the land. In China there are terrible floods partly because the forests have disappeared from the hills so that nothing stops the water from pouring down the slopes into the swollen rivers, carrying millions of tons of precious soil with it.

Many more forests should be planted in the world. Those that we have should be better managed so they will go on supplying our needs from generation to generation instead of being wasted as they so often are now. On the other hand, in South America and some other places there are vast forests, now hardly used at all, which could help enrich the people of those countries. And the forest workers would gain by this.

START THE BALL ROLLING

How can such improvements in production and trade be brought about? How are millions of people going to get more food and better living conditions? What part will FAO play?

First, I want to make one thing clear. Because of the size of the task, it would be easy to think of FAO as a huge organization with vast funds and the power to order all kinds of changes in world affairs. It is not. No organization could be big enough to run the world's farms, forests, and fisheries and manage the exchange of their products. Nor could nations grant it such powers.

FAO will be a small organization. For the first five years it will have a modest budget of $5,000,000 a year. At that rate, it could run for about eighteen years before costing as much as it costs to build a single great modern battleship. It can investigate problems, seek out the facts, and make reports and recommendations to governments about what needs to be done. But it cannot go into different countries and carry out the recommendations, or force the governments to carry them out.

That is not what is needed. The nations—the people and the governments—must do these things themselves, of their free will.

What they need is to be able to act together. No one country can be secure and prosperous very long nowadays unless the world as a whole is secure and prosperous. The war proved that. And no one country, by itself, can do the things that need to be done to build a secure and prosperous world. But these things can be done if all countries work together.

Let us suppose that A, B stand for the less developed countries, where well over half of the world's people live. These countries have few industries, and millions of their citizens are hardly able to produce enough food to keep themselves from starving, let alone all the things they should have. Let us suppose that Y, Z, on the other hand, stand for the highly developed countries. They have great technical knowledge and their people are able to produce much more of some things than they can use themselves. If Y, Z would get together with A, B to enable the latter to advance all the countries would gain. The people in A, B would soon be able to produce much more of what they need, and they could buy much more of what Y, Z produce.

Or again, consider only the more highly developed countries, Y, Z. Let us say that each is trying to live by itself and produce almost everything its people need, as so many countries tried to do between the two great wars—and will try to do again if war threatens. There are some things each country can produce efficiently and cheaply; other things it can produce only at great cost; and some things it cannot produce at all. By trying to do everything for themselves, the people in each country have to go without what they cannot produce at all, or find substitutes; and they spend so much on the things they can produce only at great cost that it keeps them poor. If Y, Z would get together and agree to exchange goods on a bigger scale, the people in each country could do what they are able to do best and most efficiently, and all the countries would be better off.

In each of these cases, working together is what is needed. By working together, the nations can all advance—the rich and the poor, the developed and the underdeveloped. The total wealth of the world, in terms of food, clothing, houses, and everything else we need, can be greatly increased, and all people will have more of it. The total health and happiness, too, can be greatly increased, and all people will have more of them. There is an enormous dammed-up demand for the things that mean better living. It can be released by raising productive powers, where they are now so low.

The nations must have some means of making a start and working together. They have set up FAO as one of those means. FAO need not necessarily be a large organization. Once such a movement gets well started, it will go along with increasing speed by itself, like a big rock which needs only a push to send it rolling down the hill.

Yet we must not forget that the rock is huge. To get it started will take the combined efforts of people of sense and goodwill all over the world.

THE WORK OF FAO

Science is a method of discovering facts which are true for everyone everywhere, regardless of race, color, creed, nationality, poverty, or wealth. Anyone with enough scientific training can discover these facts. Anyone with enough knowledge should be able to use them; selfish interest and old thoughtways and customs are the chief things that stand in the way. This situation defines the advantage FAO will have and the difficulty it will face.

Because science is truly international, FAO can get experts together from all countries to work on world problems or problems in any one country. The difficulty will be to change thoughtways and customs and break down selfish interests so that what the scientists find out can be fully applied.

Changing thoughtways and customs will be a long hard task, calling for much persuasion and education. Breaking down selfish interests must be done by the force of public opinion, in each country and all countries. The aims of FAO must be so wholly in the interests of the people, so sensible, and so widely and favorably known that it will be backed Chinese.

I was rather sorry at this point to see our long-awaited tram come rattling up.

by public opinion everywhere. In setting up FAO, the nations agreed to work together to bring about freedom from want for their people. They agreed to report regularly to one another on their progress in a world conference to consider what has been done and what further steps can be taken. The eyes of the world will be upon governments to see what they do to live up to these aims.

The staff of FAO will be mainly scientists and other experts in nutrition, agriculture, forestry, fisheries, economics, marketing, statistics, education. There will not be a large number in the organization itself, but it will have the help of many others all over the world. Groups of them will serve on committees and on missions which will go out to study conditions in different countries and regions. Often, too, FAO will call conferences experts to deal with problems they can help to solve.

Thus, FAO will bring together the best skill and experience in each country for the service of all countries. That is the way much of its work will be done. Through FAO, in which all of them are members, the Y, Z countries and the A, B countries can get together for the development of the latter. FAO will make it possible to mobilize technical aid and advice, equipment, credit, and whatever else is needed. FAO can also bring the Y, Z countries together among themselves, and with all other interested countries, to work out trade arrangements and production plans to meet world needs, ways of using so-called surpluses, and other difficult problems.

Meanwhile, FAO will be giving its member countries many kinds of services. In particular, it will constantly be gathering facts and figures about the need for the products of farms, forests, and fisheries in different countries and about the present and future supplies of these products all over the world. These facts will be the basis for international agreements and action.

Many projects will require large-scale use of up-to-date scientific knowledge. FAO will be a world clearing-house of this knowledge, in nutrition and in all branches of farm, forest, and fisheries production and marketing. It will help in hundreds of ways to get this knowledge more rapidly spread and used all over the world, with such results as I have tried to describe earlier.

A HOUSE OF DEATH — OR A HOUSE OF LIFE

FAO is not the only international organization that will be bringing nations together to deal with great world problems. If it were, it might not get very far. True, food and agriculture are the primary concerns of man, but they are by no means the only ones. They are closely tied in with finance, industry, commerce, and many other things. Progress in one field depends on progress in all the others.

Thus FAO will work closely with its related agencies within the framework of the United Nations organization—with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, the Economic and Social Council, the world trade organization, the world bank, the world labor organization, the world health organization, the world organization concerned with education, science, and culture.

An increasing range of problems will be dealt with internationally through these organizations. As they succeed and become more widely known, people in each country will learn more and more to consider their own needs in relation to those of the people of other countries. We will think and act more and more as citizens of the world, with a world conscience and a world public opinion.

This is not visionary. We must bring it to pass or drift into world conflict far more deadly than the last. Shall we make the earth a House of Death or a House of Life, where there is good living and health and peace for ourselves and our children? In founding FAO, the first of the new world organizations, the nations chose the latter course. It is well to begin with the primary needs of human beings, about which so many people can agree. If we can cooperate to supply those needs, it will be easier to work together for other more complex and abstract ends.

The cornerstone for a House of Life has been laid. Governments and international organizations must work together to build this house. But even that will not be enough. It is the people themselves, all over the world, who will be the real builders, through their understanding and support, their words and deeds. Whoever and wherever you are, you must help to lay the bricks and drive the nails for the House of Life.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

Mr. P. G. Dodwell attended the annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees Assn. at Prince George last week. The sessions concluded on Sept 23 after three days of strenuous discussion. Trustee Dodwell accompanied Chairman T. F. Farnley and other trustees from Penticton School District 15, who motored to the northern B.C. city.

St. George's Is Wedding Scene

WESTBANK — Lily Myrtle, youngest daughter of Lily A. and the late Stewart J. Hewlett, became the bride of Alexander Reid Macklin, of Langley Prairie, at a lovely wedding ceremony performed by Rev. Canon F. V. Harrison, at St. George's Anglican church in Westbank Sept. 28. The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, A. Johnson, looked beautiful in a traditional floor-length dress of white satin with a veil of embroidered net. Her flowers were pink carnations and maiden hair fern.

The bridesmaid, Miss Jean Carter, of Penticton, wore a gown of pink taffeta and net while Miss Frances Macklin, sister of the groom, wore a similar gown of blue. Their flowers were gladioli and fern.

Attending the groom was Harold Hewlett, brother of the bride. Ushers were Bill Hewlett and Robin Drought.

During the signing of the register, Miss Gweneth Reece sang, "Because." Miss Joy MacKay was the organist.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Community hall. Rev. Harrison proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded with a few well-chosen words.

Mr. and Mrs. Macklin will reside in New Westminster.

ELECTION SURVEY

R. H. Carson, chairman of the special legislative committee appointed to inquire into the B.C. Elections act, has been in Victoria during the past week, dealing with matters appertaining to a revision of the act. He reported that the returns from the questionnaire sent out to citizens, shows a very strong trend toward the institution of a system of obligatory voting. This trend of public opinion will be given most careful consideration by the special committee.

DEPUTY APPOINTED

Mr. J. V. Fisher, assistant deputy minister of finance since 1934, has been appointed deputy minister of finance to succeed Mr. H. N. Wright who retired from that position on September 30, it is announced by Hon. H. Anscomb, minister of finance.

Mrs. N. O. Solly returned on Monday from a Vancouver visit.

Summerland, B.C.,
Sept. 30, 1946.

Editor, The Review:

I would like to take this opportunity to voice my opinion of the reply by the municipal council in regard to a letter written to them by my brother, Mr. Paul Pohlman. In this reply, which was printed in your paper, dated Sept. 26th, Councillor Wilson made the statement that: quote, "the bottom of the hill needs to be smartened up."

Now, we may not have homes to compare with that of Councillor Wilson, but we do our best to keep our homes the way they should be. Perhaps Councillor Wilson is not referring to our homes. If not, then it must be municipal property that he means and if so, I quite agree with him. One place that does need smartening up and, by the way, which is also in Peach Orchard district, is our municipal cemetery. This is not only terrible, but a disgrace to the municipality.

Perhaps Councillor Wilson would like a tourist camp right in front of his front door. He may like cars coming in and going out all night long. I, for one, would not, and I am sure the rest of the people living in the Peach Orchard district would not either. What is wrong with the Ellison Hall grounds? This is another place that needs smartening up. Why could some returned man not have been given permission to build a tourist camp here.

I do not own property in Summerland at the present time, because not needing the property I did own, I sold it to someone who did need it. I do hope that when the right place is to be had that I will some day soon own property here again but I can assure you that it will not be next door to a tourist camp.

Very Truly Yours,
H. W. POHLMAN.

MRS. FOSBERY REPLIES

West Summerland, B.C.,
Sept. 26, 1946.

Editor, The Review:

If the saying, "Silence gives consent," be true, the supporters are many of my proposal to extend the principle of the money by-law observed by local governments to cover certain important disbursements of the federal government.

We are living in a dangerous age. The greatest danger is not that of an attack from abroad. Can A. P. Dowdy, who says he enters even a newspaper discussion in fear and trepidation, say exactly where the enemy he fears resides, and what is most likely to precipitate a conflict?

He reflects: "It seems that the best way to prevent war is to prepare for it." I cannot point to any instance in history when preparation for war averted a conflict. Indeed, an army arrayed for battle is like youth "all dressed up and nowhere to go." Some diversion must be provided or domestic disturbance ensues. The diversion arranged by the authorities in various countries is some exploit great or small, designed to add territory for the benefit of commercial interests backing the governments. Those who initiate the project are called, in English, "EMPIRE BUILDERS" (in large capitals, symbolic of what they get out of it), while the boys who do the job are "Tom-mies," and the dupes who pay the bills are "the common people."

This precisely describes what occurred at the turn of the century when Great Britain jauntily attacked the Boers of South Africa to secure for British interests the diamond mines of the Rand. Many other nations are guilty of similar crimes. Why? Because those in authority, both religious and political rulers, throughout the ages have misused their power to conscript men for evil and selfish purposes.

Canada has not actually "made war" any nation. True, she has fallen in line behind Great Britain. The appeal to support "the Mother country" has never failed. Aware at last that mother can be at time an exceedingly tiresome old woman, Canada is providing herself with diplomatic representation in world capitals, Chamberlain, Churchill and company having proved too uncertain as arbiters of her fate. C. No. 1, you recollect, rather favored Franco and flirted a bit with Hitler. Now C. No. 2 thinks an alliance between France and Germany (if torso and limbs of that dismembered criminal could be reunited to function ferociously) might be advantageous, presumably if C. No. 2 supplied the head. I say emphatically, that the North American member of the British Commonwealth should not fall in line for that ghastly betrayal of its people's patriotism. Fortunately Mr. Churchill does not represent the British people at the moment.

"Silly" is too weak a word to apply to war. War is out-moded, I agree. Nations equipped with modern weapons cannot safely continue as independent states. Military alliances are suspect; nervous tension becomes unbearable. There is an "incident": the bugle blows; at it again, Hooray! Something to live for now! Red Cross and all that.

War is a disease. Divide the word to find its meaning. Disease. Nervousness arising from suspicion of the motives of our fellow men leads to an aggressive attitude that induces insult or actual violence. To be prepared nationally is no longer sufficient. World neighbors are similarly prepared.

To say with sad conviction, "War is inevitable. It has always been; it will always be," is an admission of defeat. What would be the value of a doctor so faithless as to say: "Cancer, T.B., Arthritis, Syphilis, etc. are incurable." He would be repudiated by his profession, scorned by the public. Leaders of medical science are studying prevention as well as cure.

What can we do about war?

PROSPECTORS WARNED

Hon. R. C. MacDonald, minister of mines, issued a warning this week to all prospectors drawing their attention to the fact that mineral claims should not be staked in areas reserved for military purposes. In January, 1944, a reserve for military purposes was placed on a mile-wide stretch of crown land on either side of the Canadian-Alaskan highway and the projected right of way of any of the following proposed highways: Prince George to Fort St. John via Pine Pass; Prince George to Dawson Creek via Pine Pass; Vanderhoof to Fort St. John via Manson Creek and Pine Pass; and Prince George to Dawson Creek via Monkman Pass.

We can abandon all attempts to handle international problems in national parliaments. We can construct a world court with a fully equipped police force to scrutinize every aggressive move and take preventive measures. We, as citizens footing all bills, can refuse to supply the funds for war, and offer to supply in generous measure all that is necessary for the maintenance of a force for world order.

The U.S.A., the British Empire, U.S.S.R. and France together are strong enough to maintain this organization. Indeed, any three of them could do it, but the more nations contributing the better for all. Other countries in both hemispheres would undoubtedly wish to assist in this work, while Germany, Italy and Japan, when sufficiently recovered from their recent brainstorms, could be received as members if they wished to participate in the building of a better world in which all men could live in security.

Are we soft enough to allow the Zaharoffs, Deterdings, Montague Normans and their successors in string-pulling, to forever put on their putrid puppet shows and pocket the profits?

Please assure Mr. Dowdy that a scrawny neck matters little if what it supports makes good use of its opportunities.

Faithfully Yours,
SARAH L. FOSBERY.

PRIVY COUNCIL CASE

The Privy Council has yet to set a date for the hearing of British Columbia's case to determine whether or not it has authority to tax the E. & N. Railway alienated lands, stated Hon. E. T. Kenny, minister of lands and forests. During the past week, a delegation of C.P.R. officials and logging operators met the Executive Council to present their objections to any move that might be made by the Provincial Government to impose a tax on alienated lands in the railway belt.

Ross McLachlan Relates Life of War Prisoner

Experiences in a prisoner-of-war camp for more than two years until being released by the Allied drive into Germany, were detailed in an interesting address to the AOTS club at its first monthly meeting of the fall season at the St. Andrew's church hall, Thursday night by Ross McLachlan, well-known Summerland man.

Mr. McLachlan is an ex-R.C.A.F. type who was a crew member of a Halifax bomber when it was downed near Arnheim.

When captured, Mr. McLachlan spent a week of solitary confinement, was visited by a fake Red Cross official and interviewed by the German intelligence officer before being sent to East Prussia to the main P.W. camp which at that time held 3,000 prisoners, a population which was increased nearly ten times before it was abandoned.

Mr. McLachlan touched lightly on the more gruesome aspects of life as a P.W. and gave many amusing sidelights of his life. The prisoners made their own life at camp and apart from the twice daily roll-call, the dogs and armed guards who patrolled the camp, were not molested to any degree, he stated.

His camp had a radio set which provided the daily B.B.C. news, and which was never detected by the Germans. In fact, not more than half-a-dozen prisoners ever saw the radio, so cleverly was it concealed.

Sports occupied a great portion of the prisoners' time, and well-operated leagues of cricket, basketball, rugby, volleyball and baseball were run. The camp had a pipe band, a well-equipped library, a hospital with two doctors and held weekly church services for both Protestant and Catholic religions.

Costumes could be rented from Berlin for camp plays, while orchestra concerts were regular features. The prisoners built themselves a theatre and there could be heard some splendid debates, as well as gramophone recitals.

Mr. McLachlan stressed the benefits of the Red Cross Society which provided most of the amenities of life through the Geneva offices.

In his stay at this camp only two or three prisoners were shot and few of the inmates became demented, he related. Russian prisoners were used for camp labor fatigues. The prisoners were always warned well in advance of the Gestapo visits and these Gestapo inspectors were the only Germans who ever confiscated any cigarettes or chocolates. The latter supplies were always handy as bribes for the regular guards.

In July, 1944, with the Russians approaching ever nearer, the prisoners were moved into Poland and then to Hanover. On this march, cigarettes proved the main means of barter and if they still were in need of food they were allowed to forage for themselves, Mr. McLachlan stated.

In April, 1945, with tension mounting and the Germans realizing they could not hold out much longer, the prisoners spent a month on the road, being kept just ahead of the advancing Allied troops. About half the prisoners escaped and there was little control by the guards.

Most of the danger came from Allied planes which could not distinguish them from German troops and strafed them from the roads. The prisoners lived off the land, stealing when they had to or bartering with cigarettes if they obtained a supply.

The German attitude had changed considerably by that time, Mr. McLachlan declared, and the Canadians were well treated. For the last few days, when the Allies were all around them, the prisoners took over German vehicles and had "the time of their lives," driving around at will and seeing considerable country.

But finally they were despatched to England and finally to Canada, Mr. McLachlan concluded.

Mrs. Wm. Johnston, of Chapman Camp, was a recent visitor at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hack. Mrs. Johnston has now gone on to Vancouver, where she will visit with her sister.

Valley Teachers

closed on Oct. 10 and 11 to allow the Summerland teachers to attend this parley.

Among the foremost educationists to address the convention will be Dr. M. A. Cameron, author of the famous Cameron Report, which was adopted by the department of education this spring for the province of B.C., and Dr. W. N. Sage, of the department of history, U.B.C. Many other specialists will address general and group classes.

In connection with the convention, a sports session will be held to discuss inter-school sports throughout the Okanagan.

Only inter-school tournament on the agenda for the fall is a proposed Okanagan schools soccer tournament. However, Summerland will not be able to enter this tourney if a soccer ball cannot be found. Teachers have endeavored in vain to locate a soccer ball in good condition but their efforts to date have been fruitless, and it now appears that Summerland lads will not be able to participate.

WILL BE CHARGED

As a result of an accident on Saturday evening, on Peach Orchard Hill, James L. Evans, of Peachland, is to be charged in local police court with carrying passengers on a truck without the necessary fixed seats and sideboards. This truck conveying some persons to the dance here, and a taxi driven by Walter Carter, Summerland came in contact on a curve, the platform of the truck ripping off the door handle and denting the side of the taxi. Damage to the taxi is estimated at $100, while there is no damage to the truck.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McCulloch were recent visitors from the coast, to the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Monro, Peach Valley.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE SENDS TOKEN GIFTS

At the monthly meeting of the Women's Institute, held on Sept. 18, Mrs. Collas presided, in the absence of Mrs. Magnus Tait.

It was the unanimous wish of the members that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mrs. Tait in her recent illness and that a gift of appreciation, in the form of a suitable book, be sent her for all she has accomplished on behalf of the W.I. in the past years.

Mrs. Collas reported to the meeting that Mrs. MacDonald had acted as a committee of one to place jars in Summerland stores for collection of funds for fruit juice for Britain.

It was the decision of the meeting to send apples to the Solarium, these apples to be despatched by Oct. 11.

The meeting also heard a report from Mrs. Collas on the work of the Memorial Parks committee.

Butterfat Production Record Here

Many are familiar with Calgarth Starlight's one-time world's record for lifetime butterfat production, but few realize that this cow is responsible for another remarkable near record, i.e. dam and two daughters' lifetime butterfat production, states S. R. Noble, assistant, animal husbandry and forage crops, Summerland Experimental Station.

With the completion of her nine-year-old record of 10,817 pounds of milk and 591 pounds of fat, Summerland Standard Glow moved into the elite 4,000 pound fat class. Summerland Standard Glow is a daughter of Calgarth Starlight and sired by Oxford Sultan Standard. Oxford Sultan Standard is a grandson of the 3 star Standard of Oaklands and sired by the 3 star imported-dam Wonderful Standard. The dam of Oxford Sultan Standard was the imported cow, Oxford Sultan Spangle, who was sired by the one star Oxford Sultan of Oxford.

Another daughter of Calgarth Starlight, Summerland Hamlet Starlight, is also in the 4,000 pound class. With the completion of her last record at the age of fourteen years, Hamlet Starlight has a lifetime butterfat production total of 6,125 pounds. Her records are especially interesting as nearly all of them have been produced on three teats. Summerland Hamlet Starlight was

A.O.T.S. Plans To Continue Junior Sports

Continuation of its work among junior sports organizations in West Summerland was promised by the monthly meeting of the AOTS club at its first fall meeting, held Thursday night in St. Andrew's church hall with President J. R. Butler in the chair.

Les Gould, as chairman of the projects committee reported that a successful softball and baseball season had just been completed, the AOTS having sponsored the girls' fastball and junior boys' baseball.

On Friday evening, Sept. 20, the AOTS had been hosts to these younger players at a weiner roast at Powell Beach. Nearly sixty young people attended.

Thanks of the girls' softball club for the co-operation of AOTS members in coaching and managing the team this season was expressed in a well-worded letter read to the club from Doreen Howard, girls team captain.

Mr. Gould expressed the hope that a junior ball league comprising teams from Summerland, Peachland, Penticton, Naramata and Oliver will be organized next year, with play being on Saturday afternoons.

Junior hockey will be given a boost here this winter if the rink on the board of trade grounds is put into shape. The AOTS group pledged itself last Thursday to assist in organizing teams and a league here if possible.

Rev. H. R. Whitmore is rounding up juvenile basketball players for play each Monday night. He will be assisted by other AOTS members and some senior players. Another ball is to be purchased for these players.

Mr. Whitmore told the club that this year's junior team is entirely comprised of youngsters who commenced their basketball activities under the AOTS juvenile group. This will be the third year these lads have played together and it is expected they will make a good showing.

Other projects being undertaken by this energetic group includes cleaning the church grounds, providing ushers for Sunday church services and interesting young people in hobbies for their winter evening hours.

Chas. Smith returned to Summerland last week from a business trip to Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. James Aitken have returned from a holiday spent in Vancouver and Victoria, where they visited friends and relatives.

FRUIT EXPORT

Hon. L. H. Eyres, minister of trade and industry, has announced that approximately 10,000 barrels of British Columbia raspberries in S02 solution for the United Kingdom ministry of food had already been loaded at New Westminster this year, and that a third and last loading before the end of the month would take about 400 net fruit tons of green-gage fruit pulp also will move on the balance of the contracts. This year's United Kingdom contracts will return about one million dollars to the Fraser Valley. A small tonnage of raspberries has also been secured from the Okanagan area.

Miss Theresa Guidi has returned from Banff Springs Alta., where she has been employed since early spring.

NANNUK, ESKIMO MOTHER, who brought her eight-months-old son to Winnipeg for hospital treatment, expresses her delight over seeing the National Film Board's film of Expedition Musk-Ox, in which she recognized many of her own people.

Mrs. Lena Dyki, of Vancouver, was a visitor for several days last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hurry. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Clark returned on Monday from Vancouver, where they spent a two-weeks' holiday.

New Radiator Department Now Opened

'True' Story Of Wedding

Something new for the motorist in the southern interior has been announced by Nesbitt and Washington, of West Summerland, which firm has just installed a complete radiator department. Mr. Bill Downton, former Summerland resident, who has been in charge of the same type of department in the Kelowna Motors, has returned here to handle this work.

This is the only radiator repair department operated between Kelowna and Nelson and will provide a service for motorists throughout the South Okanagan and the Kettle Valley district it is stated by the garage owners, Carl V. Nesbitt and Tommy Washington.

Radiators can now be cleaned, flushed, repaired or re-cored in the Nesbitt and Washington garage. The latest in equipment has been installed the electrical work being undertaken by George A. Graham, while the plumbing and fitting requirements were installed by the Summerland Sheet Metal and Plumbing Works.

Cleaning of the radiators is undertaken in a caustic soda bath which is heated electrically. All grease and paint is removed by this bath and the radiator is completely cleaned by this process.

The next step involves an oxalic acid bath, which is also heated electrically. This acid is pumped through the radiator under pressure and gives the inside of the radiator a complete flushing.

Then, the acid and other particles are removed with water and air being forced through the radiator at 150 pounds pressure.

Final steps involve a test tank, filled with water, which indicates if the radiator is in need of repairing and finally, the radiator is sprayed with rust-resistant paint, a special gun being used for this work.

If the radiator is in need of repair, soldering is carried out to provide a leak-proof job.

Also included in the equipment is a flush gun which can be used in cases where the radiator is not removed from the car. Both the radiator and the block can be flushed in short order by this process.

PUBLIC WORKS DIFFICULTIES

Further evidence of the difficulties confronting the public works department in carrying out its extensive and comprehensive program of undertakings was revealed for the second time this year when no bids were received for a road contract which normally would have attracted spirited competition. Tenders were called for the construction of 2.3 miles of new road to Seymour Park in the North Vancouver district. When the deadline came for the opening of tenders, none had been received. This was due, apparently, to the fact that contractors are experiencing extreme difficulty in securing labor and materials.

MATURITY TO BE REPAYED

A $2,000,000 Province of British Columbia 6% debenture issue will mature on October 1, it was announced by Hon. Herbert Anscomb, minister of finance. This maturity will be paid off in full from debt redemption provisions specifically established in connection with this issue. The debentures were originally sold on Oct. 1, 1921, under the provisions of the Highway Loan Act of 1920, and were sold by the province at a cost of 6.38%.

Dr. Wilf. Evans was a visitor to Summerland over the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Evans. He returned to the coast on Sunday evening.

The following account, alleged to be a "truthful story of a wedding," was reprinted in the Calgary Herald from a Wisconsin, U.S.A., daily.

Truth and Consequences

Some years ago an interesting experiment was conducted by Robert Quillen, then editor of The Fountain Inn (South Carolina) Tribune. Mr. Quillen, irked by complaints that his paper often colored or distorted facts, decided to write a 100 per cent truthful account of the wedding of a young couple in his home town. After stating the names of the bride and groom and the place of the wedding, Mr. Quillen bravely wrote:

"The groom is a popular young bum who hasn't done a lick of work since he got shipped in the middle of his junior year at College. He manages to dress well and keep a supply of spending money because his dad is a soft-hearted fool who takes up his bad cheques instead of letting him go to jail where he belongs.

"The bride is a skinny fast little idiot who has been kissed and handled by every boy in town since she was 12. She paints like a Sioux Indian and drinks corn liquor when she is out riding in her dad's car at night. She doesn't know how to cook or keep house.

"The house was newly plastered for the wedding and the exterior painted thus appropriately carrying out the decorative scheme, for the groom was newly plastered and the bride newly painted.

"The groom's pants were held up by pale green suspenders. In addition to his jag he carried a bunch of keys and his usual look of imbecility.

"The young couple will make their home with the bride's parents—which means that they will sponge on the old man until he dies and then she will take in washing."

Sum Of Money Is Returned To Owner

Miss Mae Bennest, nurse on the staff of the Summerland hospital has had her faith in the honesty of her fellow-residents confirmed this week when she lost a purse containing $115 and valuable papers, and the wallet returned within the space of a few hours.

The loss was reported by Miss Bennest to B.C. Police Constable H. Cartmell as having occurred between West Summerland business district and her home in lower town, near the C.N.R. wharf, on Sunday, Sept. 29.

Her valuables were picked up by Misses Joyce Hauser Strom, Alta., and Audrey Sanders, Camrose, Alta., employees at the Summerland Co-Op.

Evaporating

the conveyor systems are a tangled mess. The peelers, however, situated in the northwest corner of the plant are only scorched and do not appear to have been damaged to any appreciable extent, except for charred pulleys.

Furnace equipment and other machinery is a total loss.

Mr. Young values the building at $8,000, and this is considered to be a total loss. The portion facing on Kelly street was first built in 1911 and has been added to at various times since then.

Machinery has been placed at $6,500 and about two-thirds of this has been destroyed.

Stock of apples stored ready for processing and already processed has been valued at $12,000 by Mr. Young.

This makes a total loss of some $25,000 in round figures.

Loss of Payroll

This evaporating plant employed a crew of 22 for the season and operations only commenced in the past month. The total output of the plant this year was to have been 1,500 tons of cull apples, and the payroll would have amounted to some $30,000.

No further evaporating can be conducted from this plant this season and plans for the future are still obscure.

Last spring, Mr. Young made a deal to sell his plant to the new grower-owned and -controlled B. C. Fruit Processors Ltd. and was operating the plant for that concern, it is stated, although the final deal for the machinery was never consummated and no money was paid over by the grower firm, Reeve W. R. Powell, director of Processors Ltd. told The Review yesterday.

A deal had been projected and Mr. Young was operating the plant for the processing company. The latter firm had insured the stock in the building up to $15,000 and Mr. Young states that the stock at the time of the fire was valued at $12,000.

The building is owned by Mr. Young and the machinery is actually still his property as the processing outfit had not yet taken it over, but an agreement to purchase had been made.

Owners of two nearby houses, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wright and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Peterson removed their household belongings as it was thought for a time that there was little hope of saving these dwellings. However, the fire was kept from spreading to them.

Hundreds of Summerland citizen business area to watch the zens crowded into West Summerland spectacle, and assist where they could, not only the fire department but neighboring owners who took precautions in case the fire spread.

Few classes in the schools operated yesterday afternoon as the students continued to watch the blaze until it was well under control and most of the periods had elapsed.

this community and Legion members from all parts of the South Okanagan zone and from Kamloops were in attendance. The Boy Scouts Association was represented by Don Fisher and Gordon Blewett.

At the burial service in Peach Orchard cemetery, the Legion portion of the service was conducted by Vice-President Gordon Smith. The Last Post was sounded by John Betuzzi and each Legion member filed past the graveside to deposit their poppy in commemoration of their departed comrade.

Pallbearers consisted of six past presidents of the Summerland Canadian Legion branch, namely Dr. H. R. McLarty, S. A. MacDonald, C. E. Bentley, Harold Smith, J. E. O'Mahony and Wm. Atkinson.

Tom Charity, one of the deceased's closest friends, carried the Legion wreath. Penticton Funeral Chapel was in charge of funeral arrangements.

Million Mark Is Goal For Export

With shipments totalling 820 cars for the week ending Sept. 23, there has been a total of 6,626 cars of fruit and vegetables shipped through B.C. Tree Fruits, Ltd., this season, reports A. K. Loyd. At the same date in 1945 total car shipments were 5,135, and in 1944 they amounted to 5,631.

Delicious packing is going ahead at a rapid rate at Oliver, while Jonathan picking, with some Delicious, is occupying the industry in this area.

From Kelowna north, McIntosh occupy the limelight and there is an even greater congestion in the packing houses than would normally accrue, due to the crop over-running its estimates and the shortage of rails and shooks.

Prunes are now cleaned and the only soft fruit being shipped now is the d'Anjou pear.

Shipment to the export market is increasing in tempo, and if sufficient ships can be provided, Tree Fruits hopes to move a million boxes of apples to the Old Country markets by the end of October.

There is an increase in demand for B.C. apples from U.S. markets, which are now firming after an unsteady start on early apples.

Members of the Summerland volunteer fire brigade and other willing helpers are pictured here pouring water into the blazing inferno which was T. B. Young's evaporating plant in the heart of West Summerland business district, shortly after noon on Wednesday, October 2. The entire building was gutted, apart from the front office and a small portion of the northwest corner, with a loss estimated by Mr. Young to building, equipment and stock of some $25,000. The fire department has been complimented on keeping the fire confined to the building, as the blaze threatened the entire main business section of West Summerland.

Lorne Perry Is Chosen To Aid Returned Vets

An appeal for funds will be made to the general public, all local organizations and the municipal council, it was decided at a meeting of the Summerland Rehabilitation Committee, held on Monday evening. It is hoped that $1,000 to $1,200 will be raised to carry on the work of the committee for a second year. First year's expenditures amounted to $1,700.

Lorne Perry has been appointed general secretary to replace the late Sydney P. Thomas, whose services in this regard had proved so valuable in the past.

As soon as Mr. Perry has been able to familiarize himself with this type of work he will continue Mr. Thomas' interviews with returned men and women twice weekly.

Between 100 and 145 returned veterans have been interviewed monthly by the committee secretary during the past year, the committee was told on Monday, making a total of approximately 1,500 interviews.

If these returned men had had to make that number of trips to Penticton to interview the nearest D.V.A. representative, the cost to the returned soldiers would have been at least $3,000, the committee has pointed out.

It was also estimated that the 300 returned men and women, and their families, who reside in Summerland district expend annually about $100,000 in business stores in this community.

The rehabilitation committee plan to wait on the municipal council next Tuesday, October 15, to appeal for further grants in aid of the committee work.

Re-establishment credits, veteran's land act, priorities, pensions, medical and other treatment, waiting returns benefits, educational and vocational training, legal advice and quota applications are all dealt with by the committee secretary when dealing with veterans' problems on their return to "civilian street".

The committee has agreed that this is an essential work which must be continued for many months, if not years, to provide returned men and women with a service commensurate with their needs and in appreciation of their efforts for their country.

GO TO HOSPITAL

All donations of fruit and vegetables which are brought to St. Andrew's and Lakeside United churches on Thanksgiving Sunday October 13, will be forwarded to the Summerland hospital, it has been announced by Rev. H. R. Whitmore.

Postmaster Requests Help

Mr. J. H. Bowring, West Summerland postmaster, has stated this week that business men here would assist the sorting and distributing of mail considerably if they would refrain from depositing end of the month account letters in the mail slot in the evenings.

When this type of mail is sorted on top of mail for outside points it complicates the sorting considerably and gives the staff considerably more work in getting the train mail for the coast ready in time, he points out.

It is understood here that there has been no response to the post office department's tender for mail delivery from the post offices in West Summerland to the evening train westbound.

This work has been undertaken by Gordon McDougall, rural mail delivery official, but he wishes to discontinue the trip.

Ray Moore Is Teen Town Top

Raymond Moore was the unanimous choice of Summerland Teen Town when a reorganization meeting was held on Friday evening last, as Deputy Mayor, replacing Rhoda Mason for the balance of the season, as she is unable to carry on her duties as Mayor.

Four councillors were also selected, these being Alfred Kita, Jack Dunham, Shirley Harvey and Doris Cristante.

There was a good turnout of teenagers, and they appeared to be enthusiastic for the future of the organization.

W. Grant, on behalf of the Legion, offered the Teen Towners an opportunity of organizing a five-pin bowling league, and some forty members signed to participate.

Tomorrow night, the Teen executive meets to consider further plans for the fall and winter season.

After the business session last Friday, a successful dance was held.

Two Hundred Feet of Fire Hose to be Added To Brigade Equipment

Another 200 feet of 2 1/2-inch fire hose will be purchased by the West Summerland Fire Protective Association as soon as possible for use in this district, it was decided at a meeting held on Monday evening.

In addition, a fog nozzle will be ordered to provide further modern equipment to the department.

When this association was organized there was available some 600 feet of hose which had seen twenty years' service. Some 200 feet of new hose have been added since that time and now this equipment will be doubled, it has been decided.

This expenditure is costly, as hose of this description is valued at $1.75 per foot, which means an outlay of $350. The association has decided to expend all its possible revenue for the year in an endeavor to give this district an added fire protection.

Eight practices have been held to date by the volunteer fire brigade and the turnouts have held a high average, Wm. Beattie, association secretary, reports.

Last year there were sixteen practices held. Since June of this year the rate of pay for practices has been raised from fifty cents to one dollar per practice.

Although there were five outbreaks of fire in the West Summerland area last year up to November 30, the only fire to date in this district for 1946 was the disastrous T. B. Young evaporating plant blaze. This loss, however, is far in excess of the loss registered in 1945.

Outside the district, the fire brigade answered calls to five fires so far this year, with a total cost to the brigade of $73.50. The municipality has reimbursed the brigade for this cost. In 1945 there were nine calls answered, Mr. Beattie reports.

All members of the fire brigade are insured under a public liability clause in case of any injury when attending fires or practices.

J. R. Campbell is president of the association, while the actual fire fighters consist of the following: Fire Chief Ed Gould, Joe McLachlan, Fred Dunsdon, B. T. Washington, Ted Dunsdon, Lester Arkell, Percy Thompson, Roy Gilbert, A. McLennan and John Gloyd.

Besides the larger size hose, the fire district has been handed the ARP 1 1/2-inch hose for its use. There is a great strain produced on this hose after the water leaves the ARP pump and in order to preserve this type of hose the municipality has agreed to purchase one hundred feet of rubber-covered hose.

This type has been on order for some time and the brigade is hopeful that it will soon arrive to supplement the equipment.

GIFT PRESENTED TO BOX FACTORY EMPLOYEE

On Wednesday afternoon Ross Fitzpatrick, whose marriage will take place this Saturday, was the recipient of a gift of a satin comforter and a wool bed throw from his fellow-employees at the Summerland Box Co. Henry Kuhar, plant foreman, made the presentation.

Following the presentation, Mr. Fitzpatrick wished luck and happiness to his fellow-workers, who sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

William Grant New President Of Legion Here

William Grant was the unanimous choice of the Summerland branch, Canadian Legion, as president to succeed the late S. P. Thomas, when the monthly meeting of the Legion was held last night. Mr. Grant has been second vice-president and this post will now be filled by Allan Calvert.

First Vice-President Gordon Smith declined the office in face of difficulty in devoting time from his position in the municipal office.

Plans were laid for a social evening on November 11, and a committee with Sandy Caldwell as chairman, was appointed to work with the Legion W.A.

The executive was also instructed to make the necessary arrangements for the commemoration service on November 11.

Tributes to the late S. P. Thomas were read from the president of the South Okanagan zone and from the provincial command, both groups expressing their regret at the passing of one who had played such a prominent part in Legion affairs.

The zone meeting is to be held in Penticton on Sunday, October 13, at which six members of the Summerland Legion executive will attend.

An appeal was read from the Summerland Rehabilitation committee for funds to carry on their second year. The Legion voted $100 towards this work and also ordered that a letter of appreciation should go to this committee expressing the Legion's gratitude for the fine work being undertaken in assisting men to re-establish themselves in civilian life.

By unanimous consent, C. E. "Ned" Bentley was chosen Pensions Officer. He will carry on the work undertaken by the late president.

A sports committee recommendation was adopted by the meeting and $150 voted to the promotion of junior sports in Summerland this winter. Half this money will go towards promoting the junior basketball team and the other $75 is to be devoted to promoting interest among juniors in badminton play. George Fudge has offered to coach juniors and give them a helping hand in establishing themselves in this pastime.

Another expenditure authorized by the meeting was for the purchase of a public address system. This will mean a cost of approximately $100.

Police Seek Burglar Entering Local Stores

Provincial police have made an exhaustive search in the past week for a person or persons who have entered or attempted to enter three places of business in West Summerland. Sgt. Halcrow, in charge of the Penticton detachment, has assisted the local police officer, Constable H. Cartmell, in the search for the marauders but no result was reported last night.

Sometimes between the closing on Wednesday night and reopening Friday morning, a dressing gown and coat were stolen from the Adorable Gown Shops.

On Thursday evening, the burglar alarm at Laddlaw & Co. sounded, but no sign of any missing article could be found.

Saturday evening, it is believed that Hill's Ladies' Wear store was entered and two ladies' suits, valued at $50 each, were taken. This theft was not discovered until late Sunday evening.

No sign of any entrance by force could be discovered and it is presumed that the burglar used a small piece of thin steel or a piece of celluloid to pry open the locks on the doors.

On Sunday, Mrs. C. M. Blay found a lady's coat on the driveway of her Giant's Head road home. This was found to be the property of Hill's store, being the only shop in the district which handles this particular brand of dress.

Late Sunday evening, Mr. Hill laid some flour inside the entrance to his store. On Monday morning, footprints were discovered in the flour, indicating that again an entrance to the store had been made. However, no evidence of any missing articles could be found.

A vigilant search of the district has been carried out by the police and any suspicious vehicle travelling throughout the valley has been given a search but no trace of the missing articles has been found.

School Pupils Visit Big Dam

Twenty-six students of the senior class in the Summerland High school were guests of the Rotary Club of Summerland on Sunday, Oct. 6, on an educational and highly interesting trip to Grand Coulee Dam.

These reports a delightful day's outing and expressed their gratitude to the Rotarians who made it possible for them to see the gigantic dam project.

The party left Summerland at 6:30 Sunday morning and crossed the border at 8 o'clock, opening time for the customs office. About three hours were spent at Coulee Dam, listening to a lecture and then being guided through the immense power plant.

They returned to their homes on Sunday evening, some of the party being back by nine o'clock.

Drivers of the Rotary cars which made the trip, were Alan Butler, Dr. H. R. McLarty, Dr. R. C. Palmer, Frank Pollock, Mr. Bedford, C. J. Huddleston, Jack Lawler, C. J. Huddleston and Joe McLachlan.

Two of the teaching staff, H. Evans and C. Wilkin, also accompanied the students, while a number of Rotary Annex also enjoyed the day's outing.

It was a beautiful fall day, with plenty of sunshine all the way, which made the trip that much more enjoyable.

SMITH'S SPORT SHOP

Mr. Chas. Smith has officially opened his new store, located in the Greyhound ticket office, in West Summerland, and this new business will be known as Smith's Sport Shop.

Besides sports lines, he will carry a number of novelty articles, kiddie toys, costume jewelry and many other articles. The inside of the premises has recently been redecorated and the entire store presents a neat, bright appearance.

New Record Set As Over Thousand Cars Shipped In One Week

In shipping 1,050 cars in one week, up to last Saturday, October 6, B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., grower central sales agency has set up a new record in fruit and vegetable movement from the Okanagan. A. K. Loyd, general manager, of Kelowna, informed The Review yesterday. Never in past history of apple movement has such a volume of fresh fruit rolled onto the markets of Canada, United States and Great Britain as left the valley in that seven-day period.

Coupled with this announcement comes the story that the demand for Okanagan apples in the main centres in Canada remains at a high point. McIntosh Reds are in steady demand and the market is taking huge quantities as fast as they can be packed and shipped.

Shipments for the season are also more than 1,500 cars ahead of any previous season, totals up to October 6 being as follows: 1946, 7,705 cars; 1945, 5,644 cars; 1944, 6,149 cars.

Snows and the last of the early sundries are going out with the McIntosh while some bulk Jonathans, mainly hauled No. 3 grade, are also being shipped to the domestic market and the demand is good.

Sundry pears are cleaned up and the balance of the d'Anjou variety is continuing to go out at a steady pace.

Demand is greater than the supply of grapes this week, the sales agency reports.

Lack of ships is causing a lag in the shipments of apples to the export market. Most of the deliveries are going east by rail and the railways have been experiencing a shortage of ice to keep these perishable products at the proper temperature in transit.

By the end of the month, Mr. Loyd expects that a number of ships will be available at the coast to take deliveries of B.C. apples for the United Kingdom markets and speed up the export shipments.

There has been no movement of B.C. apples to Brazil as the maritime strikes in the United States have prevented shipping from taking the deliveries as expected.

In eastern Canada, the demand for B.C. apples remains strong despite the amount of locally-produced apples on the market. Mr. Loyd attributes this demand to the quality standard maintained by the growers and shippers of B.C. apples.

Only blue spot on the entire horizon right now is the windup on Hyslop crabapples and the last of the Wealthies. These have become a drag on the sale, agency and there is little likelihood that these supplies will ever meet any demand.

Another good news feature is that the end of the nail shortage is in sight. Tree Fruit, was informed this week that two cars of steel rods have left Hamilton for made into nails. Tree Fruits has Vancouver where they will be a high priority in this supply.

In the meantime, the sales agency was able to obtain 269 kegs of nails from other sources and this supply will be sufficient to tide over the industry until the new arrivals reach here from Vancouver.

The box shock situation from Kelowna north is still touch and go, but is alleviated to some extent by the number of bulk shipments which have gone out from the valley. All the No. 3 hauled from the prairie points are going in bulk shipments, which cut down the demand for boxes by eight hundred for each car.

Singers Club In Annual Meeting

Plans for the 1946-47 season of the popular Summerland Singers' and Players' Club will be formulated on Tuesday, Oct. 15, at the high school, when the annual meeting will be held.

This group has as its aim to provide for its members an opportunity in choral or dramatic activities and will continue to operate on these lines. This is one of the most successful organizations in the community and members are looking forward to another big season.

The executive hopes that the club, drawing from Summerland's enlarged population, will include many new members, both young and old, for its singers' and players' sections.

Solo, as well as group singing, will be featured in the musical section, under the direction of Bud Stewart, while an excellent three-act play is to be produced this fall under the direction of H. Dempster.

The dramatic section provides scope for the actors, both experienced and inexperienced, as well as those who are interested in make-up and stagecraft.

Labor Office To Close At End of Month

Unless some emergency arises, the Dominion-Provincial farm labor office, operated in Summerland by Wm. Beattie, will close on Oct. 31. The Review learned this week.

This action will be taken on orders from W. MacGillivray, director for B.C. of the Dominion-Provincial farm labor service, which has been operating on behalf of the farmers and labor for several seasons in agricultural sections of the province.

However, Mr. MacGillivray has stated that the service will be continued another season, commencing as usual on April 1. It is doubtful if the service will be available in 1948.

If necessary, Mr. Beattie has informed the B.C.F.G.A. that he will carry on this farm labor service into November, but it is doubtful if the necessity will arise, as most of the apple picking in this district will be finished by the end of this month.

At the first of the week, Summerland district fruit orchards were short fifteen pickers to harvest the big apple crop. Mr. Beattie was endeavoring to obtain help. He was also seeking fourteen more women workers for the canneries in the district.

The smaller canneries will probably close about the end of the month but the Summerland Co-op cannery will operate into November and there is a possibility it will continue until about November 30, it is said.

Mr. Beattie has stressed once more that the fruit grower must provide accommodation if he wishes to obtain harvesting help as a regular thing.

"If the grower hasn't the accommodation we cannot do anything for him," declared the farm labor officer. Reliable help can be obtained for the entire season if suitable housing is provided by the farmer but without any means of accommodation the grower cannot depend on help when he wants it.

Mr. Beattie stressed that the orchards which wished extra help at the start of the week were mainly those which did not have picker's houses.

Rifle Club At Kamloops Meet

D. L. Sanborn was the top Summerland representative at Kamloops last Sunday when eleven members of the local rifle club made the trip to participate in the annual Kamloops Challenge Shield tourney. Dewey totalled 98 out of 105 possible, but W. W. Ryan, Vernon copped the high aggregate honors with a neat 101.

Vernon's No. 1 team scored a total of 480 points to walk away with the shield, Kamloops being second with 470 and Summerland's No. 1 team, comprised entirely of members of the Dunsdon family, was third with 460 points, just one marker behind.

Summerland's No. 2 crew, topped by Dewey Sanborn, was next with 455 points, followed by Vernon No. 2 with 434, Kamloops No. 2 with 423 and Vernon No. 3 with 420.

Only Summerland prize winner was Mr. Sanborn, who obtained second prize in the sweep at 200 yards, scoring 34 out of a possible 35.

Poor light on the 600 yard range resulted in generally lower scores.

Summerland No. 1—G. M. Dunsdon 96, P. S. Dunsdon 94, F. W. Dunsdon 94, A. R. Dunsdon 94, Ted Dunsdon 91.

Summerland No. 2—D. L. Sanborn 98, B. T. Washington 93, F. G. Anderson 92, H. Dunsdon 89, W. Nelson 83.

D. Wetzel, with a total of 90, was the eleventh Summerland man and he competed with Vernon's No. 3 team.

EDITORIAL

Buy Summerland

In the advertising columns of this issue readers can find a message from the Canadian Legion, Summerland Branch No. 22, urging all the citizens of Summerland district to patronize their local merchants and refrain from participating in mail order house intrigue.

Now, this may seem, at first thought, rather a peculiar tangent for an organization such as the Legion to take. But get down to the basic fundamentals of the case and you will find that there is every reason why such a message should be sent forth from the Canadian Legion.

This group of veterans is a cross-section of the community in which we reside. There are farmers packing house workers, electricians, carpenters, ordinary laborers, merchants and some housewives. Nearly every walk of life in the community is represented by this group of returned men and women who rallied to their country's cause so they could return and join once more in community life.

As they are such a composite lot, then they have every right in voicing their opinions about the proper conduct of those who comprise this community. And they have come right out with the story that they believe all citizens of Summerland should support their local retailers, and merchants generally, in their day-to-day purchases.

These Legion men and women are not fooled by the gaudy pages of mail order catalogues. They realize that if they want the best type of service, if they want merchandise at reasonable prices in conformity with the ever-rising cost of consumer goods, if they want to know that they are getting quality when they lay down their hard-earned money . . . then they will shop in the community to which they belong.

Every citizen in a community owes a certain debt to the place of residence of his choice. He owes it a debt of loyalty. He is earning his living in the community. He is living next door to those who have invested their capital to provide him with a service at a reasonable profit.

If those who always believe that far pastures look greener would only analyze the situation, they would soon realize that they are only robbing themselves, as part and parcel of their community, when they send their weekly wages to some far-off part which contributes nothing to the every-day life of their choice of abode.

Think again before you invest your money in some far-distant city where none of the interest thereon can possibly come back to you.

Sydney P. Thomas

"He will be hard to replace."

Such a statement was repeated hundreds of times in Summerland last week when word was received of the death of Sydney P. Thomas, President of the Canadian Legion Branch No. 22 and General Secretary of the Summerland Rehabilitation Committee.

Surely there could be no finer tribute to a man who devoted most of his life to the betterment of his fellow-citizens. For a quarter of a century, the late Syd Thomas worked to aid his fellow-man, especially those who had returned from serving their country in time of need.

Between the wars, Syd Thomas became known as the chief adviser of those veterans who needed pension assistance and other benefits from governmental departments. He gave of his advice unstintingly and there was never a veteran who was not given the benefit of his store of knowledge should he require it.

When veterans of World War II commenced their trek back to "civvy street," Syd Thomas was again on tap, readying himself with countless hours of study of veterans' affairs legislation and regulations. As a result, scores of Summerland district men have found the path towards rehabilitation smoother than they expected.

In many other lines of endeavor, Syd Thomas proved himself the type of citizen who makes for a better community. He will, indeed, be hard to replace and many a veteran who still needs advice and a helping hand towards getting on his feet

Fire Prevention

Last week's disastrous fire which wiped out a Summerland industry, T. B. Young's evaporating plant, is an object lesson to residents of this community. It was fortunate that there was no wind or the loss, estimated at $25,000, could have been ten times that figure.

In the interests of the community as a whole, there should be more attention paid to the good work being carried on by the volunteer fire department. This handful of men has worked hard to assist the entire populace and provide a protection for which they receive but a pittance. In fact, it would hardly be possible for a community this size to remunerate these men from a monetary standpoint for the amount of prevention work they accomplish.

This is Fire Prevention Week in Canada and there is no more fitting time to pay tribute to the West Summerland Fire Protection Committee. The result of their efforts last Wednesday afternoon stands as a tribute to their conscientious endeavor. The main portion of the business district is specially thankful for their valiant work.

A small committee and ten men comprise this fire fighting group. They have planned carefully with a minimum of expenditure to provide better fire fighting equipment. They are hoping to add to this equipment shortly.

Several weeks ago, the Summerland Board of Trade fire committee presented a brief to the council giving a number of views on increasing this community's protective equipment. To date, there has been little attention paid to this report. In view of last week's threat to the community, it would be well for the municipal council to consider this report at an early date and endeavor to plan for the future.

The council promised this committee an opportunity to discuss the report jointly, but to our knowledge such a meeting has not been held. It is time this action was taken.

We agree with Reeve W. R. Powell's contention, as published in last week's issue, that a factory of the nature of the evaporating plant which was destroyed, should not be built so close to the business section.

Such a plant creates a fire hazard far in excess of the ordinary retail business. The council has been wise in saving property in lower town for industrial purposes and wherever possible industrial plants should be located on property removed from the main residential and business districts.

From a straight fire protection standpoint, it would be wise to adopt a zoning by-law which would indicate the areas where industrial plants could be erected.

THE Feminine Front

Muriel Hurry

The highlight of this week for the women of Summerland will be the Fashion Show, to be held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Saturday, Oct. 12. Thinking that a little advance information would be of interest, I have made a few inquiries about the show and find that it will be run along the lines of the modern shows in the larger cities, with a fashion commentator to explain the points of interest in each gown, and with a wide variety of outfits and shoes to be modelled.

Approximately 15 models, including several children, will show the fashionable frocks and outfits of two of the leading gown shops of West Summerland while a local shoe store will supply the shoes worn by the models.

The Linnea will show wool suits, crepe afternoon frocks, and a striking jumper and blouse outfit. Evening gowns will also be shown by the Linnea.

From Hill's will come nationally-advertised, branded lines of dresses, Billie Burke wools, Rosalye crêpes, and a selection of 'teen styles. Doree hats will also be shown by Hill's, who exhibit sports attire, suits and coats. Both shops will supply accessories to match the outfits that are modelled.

The Family Shoe Store will display its latest styles in fashionable footwear for ladies and children.

The Fashion Show, which is to be held under the auspices of the Women's Institute, will last 30 to 45 minutes and although all the details have not yet been decided upon, it is probable that two showings will be necessary, as the women of the district have shown a keen interest in the undertaking, and a large turnout is expected.

This is the first fashion show of this type which has been attempted in West Summerland, and it has been pointed out by the dress shops that it is a little late in the season for the event, as their choice stock has been picked over, or already exhibited in their display windows.

But if enough interest is shown by the fashion-conscious women of the district, it is possible that a gala show, on larger proportions, of spring and summer styles, may be arranged for the coming Easter.

As a purely local venture, the women of Summerland should be quick to support such a showing. Sponsored by a local women's organization, with clothes, accessories and shoes by local shops, and with local girls as models, the Fashion Show will go far toward pointing out to the local women the fact that clothes can be of the same excellent cut and style as the clothes purchased in the neighboring, larger towns.

Most discriminating eaters look upon the lowly vegetable marrow, as tasteless, but one of my family's favorite meat and vegetable dishes makes good use of the marrow, which is now in season.

To prepare a medium-sized vegetable marrow, peel it whole, cut it lengthwise, and scoop out the seeds. Then stuff with a filling of ground steak or hamburger, mixed with onion and egg, and after tying the two halves together again, in the form of a whole marrow, bake until tender in a medium oven. Slice in rings when serving, and you will be surprised at how this economical and appetizing dish will appeal to your family. We are fond of baked potatoes as an accompanying vegetable to this dish.

News from the

MEAT DONATIONS

According to the Food Information Committee, total meat coupon donations since the move was inaugurated in British Columbia last spring, have now passed the million mark for the whole of Canada. In the first two weeks of September coupons turned in to Local Ration Boards numbered 301,685, which enabled the Canadian Meat Board to ship abroad sufficient meat to provide one week's ration for more than 600,000 people in the United Kingdom.

BUTTER EXPORTS

Every once in a while some citizen takes his pen in hand and writes to the papers, alleging that large quantities of Canadian butter have to be shipped overseas. Recently, a correspondent of the Toronto Star made the astounding assertion that 1,500,000 pounds of butter had been shipped to Latin and South America and even Alaska!

How far he was wide of the mark is shown by an official statement of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that only 100 pounds, or two boxes, of butter had been shipped to Alaska, and that was to meet the needs of a small community which could be conveniently reached only from the Canadian side.

As regards Latin America, exports amounted to 300 pounds, or five boxes, and this went to Colombia for the use of a group of Canadian nationals in that country.

The only other place to which Canadian butter is exported is to Newfoundland and the British West Indies, which have always drawn a considerable part of their requirements from Canada, and the total export in this direction is about one per cent of Canadian production.

STRIKES CAUSE SOAP SHORTAGE

The current Canadian soap shortage is the direct result of industrial disputes at Canada's two major soda chemical plants, and not due to poor supplies of oils and fats, which are considered satisfactory," F. H. Lehberg, oils and fats administrator of the Prices Board, says.

Mr. Lehberg pointed out that if it were not for the acute shortage of caustic soda, so important to the soap industry, Canadian soap manufacturers would have equalled if not exceeded the 1945 production of 255,000,000 pounds. Many manufacturers are now making soap on a 35 per cent production basis of last year and if they do not receive sufficient supplies of caustic soda in the near future, production will be practically at a standstill, Mr. Lehberg said.

Montgomery Books Donated To U.B.C.

Two very valuable books written by Field Marshal Montgomery, have recently been given to the library of the University of British Columbia.

These books were presented from the office of the prime minister of Canada. One is entitled "Normandy to the Baltic," and deals with the exploits of the 21st Army in the second world war; the other, "El Alamein to the River Sangro," is concerned with the famous 8th Army.

Printed for private circulation in the British Army of the Rhine, these books are not to be quoted and circulation of them is very restricted.

Another interesting gift to the library recently, is the presentation by Dr. R. A. Wilson, former head of the University of Saskatchewan's department of English, of his translation from the old English of "The Tale of Gamelin."

USED CAR FINE

Earle R. Newman was fined $100 and costs at Chilliwack, for selling a used passenger car at a price higher than the maximum fixed, and failing to file with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board the statement of sale. He pleaded guilty.

Bottle Shortage Serious Reports Everard Clarke

The critical situation facing all dairies in the South Okanagan was outlined to the Summerland Review by Everard Clarke, of Vernon, this week. He is well known to all dairy producers of the South as the secretary of the Interior Dairymen's Association.

According to Mr. Clarke, the day is coming when some families will not get their morning milk because of a milk shortage, but on account of a bottle disappearance. Mr. Clarke said there had been a disappearance of approximately 4,500 NOCA milk bottles since June 13, when the present volume of milk started to come from Vernon.

Where are the milk bottles? This is a mystery of the first order. Mr. Clarke says the average milk consumer is conscientious and dependable about returning milk bottles. Some, unfortunately, are not so precise about keeping the bottles in circulation. Perhaps there are literally hundreds of milk bottles in Summerland today that are not circulating with their daily contents of that most essential food, essential for all.

Milk bottles are not obtainable today by any milk distributor because of the strike in the Brunner Monde soda ash factory at Ahmetsburg, Ontario. Soda ash is a "necessity" in making glass. All reserve stocks of milk bottles were cleaned out weeks ago. No more can be bought for six months at the earliest, provided the strike ends soon. If the strike continues there will be an unavoidable tie-up in milk delivery.

In any dairy plant there is a daily milk bottle wastage. Mr. Clarke says the average daily bottle breakage at the NOCA plant in Vernon is 30 bottles per day, or approximately 900 bottles per month. In modern washing of milk bottles they are placed in a machine which soaks them in a strong alkali solution at a temperature of not lower than 145 degrees Fahrenheit.

Bottles receive this treatment for 40 seconds. Then they are rinsed in a chlorine sterilizing solution also for 40 seconds. The second temperature is also 145 deg. F. The stresses caused in this method of washing causes a fracturing of a certain percentage of bottles which, if they do not break at that time, do break shortly after.

Daily plant wastage can't be avoided and means that the number of milk bottles available in the Okanagan is getting less every 24 hours. Unless consumers will dig into the cellars, hunt everywhere about the house, and find more bottles, the day is coming when milk can't be delivered.

All dairy plants in Canada are greatly alarmed, Mr. Clarke says. In Vancouver, all dairies went on a "bottle-for-bottle" basis with their customers about the first of September. This system is in effect in the Interior now and must be carried out in order to continue milk supply as long as possible.

Asked by The Review about the butter situation, Mr. Clarke says there will be a shortage again this winter. Butter production in Alberta is down 74 per cent compared with the same date last year. Output of churns at Vernon, Enderby and Salmon Arm is greatly decreased from last year. These are the chief local sources of supply. The reason is that farmers are refusing to milk cows because they do not consider their returns for churning cream are fair.

Mr. Clarke, in addition to his dairy activities, is also editor of the Cream Collector. It is a widely recognized dairy publication which has been published for 21 years. He said he thought Summerland is to be complimented on the establishment of a good local paper. No rapidly growing community should be without its own paper which is essential to the community. The Summerland Review compares most favorably with other papers in its class, Mr. Clarke declared. He said to help the community, everyone should co-operate with the paper and let them know about interesting Summerland happenings. The paper is a mirror which will reflect the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Max McKechnie and their nephew, Johnny Maddison, were recent visitors to Mt. Park, Alta., where Mrs. McKechnie and Johnny will remain to visit relatives. Mr. McKechnie returned to Summerland last Thursday.

U.B.C. Finds Employment

The employment bureau at the University of British Columbia has found permanent positions for 77 graduates since April of this year. Of this total, 66 were men and 11 women. Most of the positions for both were in the field of business and commerce. Teaching was also high on the list, and the engineering field for men.

The first man to be placed by the bureau was Norman Edward Cooke, B.A.Sc., '45, who is a research chemist with the Pacific Fisheries Experimental Station in Vancouver. There were several placements in journalism and public relations.

Major J. F. McLean, supervisor of the U.B.C. Employment Bureau, stated that permanent placement of graduates this year was actually a side-line, and that the chief concentration was on summer and part-time employment for students.

However, this year, the bureau plans to feature the placing of graduates in permanent positions. Graduates of former years also seek positions in this manner through the U.B.C. Alumni Association. Five of them were placed this year.

Co-operation with the National Employment Service has proved exceedingly valuable in making contacts particularly through the professional and executive branch.

PINEAPPLE PRICES

Slight adjustments have been made in the maximum prices of canned products and pineapple juice, according to an announcement of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Owing to the increase in the O.P.A. prices, adjustments had to be made to allow Canadian importers to obtain canned pineapple. However, because of the recent restoring of the Canadian dollar to parity with the U.S. dollar, the actual increase in prices is less than one-half of one per cent over the present prices.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Holmes have returned from a ten days' motor trip which took them to many prairie points, including Banff, Calgary, Edmonton and Saskatoon.

Drs. A. W. Vanderburgh, W. H. B. Munn, and F. W. Andrew attended a convention of the Southern Interior Medical Association in Penticton on Wednesday, October 2.

HASTINGS STREET.

"Yes, but he has the money"

How often has that comment come to your mind when you have admired a handsome new barn or other evidence of prosperity on a neighbor's farm?

But have you considered that you, yourself, need no longer postpone necessary improvements to your farm and home?

The money to put up a new barn, to buy new machinery, to install labor-saving appliances, inside plumbing, hot running water—to make your farm a better farm—to make your home more comfortable—to make your family the happier... may be yours through the Bank of Montreal's farm improvement loan plan.

It is Mr. H. E. Woodford's business—his favorite business—to help farmers smooth out their financial problems. Mr. Woodford, local manager of the B. of M., has helped many go-ahead farmers to better farming, better living and better profits. His attitude is: "When you ask for a loan at the B. of M. you do not ask a favor."

Music Recital Here Oct. 18

Music lovers in this district, and there are many of them, will have an opportunity to hear two top-notch artists on Friday, Oct. 18, when Beth Morrison, pianist, and Daphne Carapata, violinist, will appear at the Oddfellows' hall in a joint recital.

An excellent program by famous artists has been selected for the evening performance and the sponsors, Harris Music Store, Penticton, and the Bulletin office, West Summerland, hope that a large number of young people will be in attendance.

Beth Morrison studied for two years at the Royal College of Music in London, England, as one of three scholarship winners from Canada and in 1931 she was awarded the Vancouver Women's Musical Club scholarship. She has studied with Gertrude Huntly Green, Victoria; Jan Cherniasky, Vancouver, and Marmaduke Barton, London, Eng.

Daphne Carapata has thrilled audiences not only across Canada but in Belgium, with her violin interpretations. Belgian critics extolled her remarkable talent, exceptional technique and beautiful tone. When but a small child she was placed under the guidance of Jasper Sutcliffe, the favorite pupil of the great Joachim. At the age of 14 she studied in Brussels with the eminent Belgian violinist, Desire Defauw, now conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Later she went to Paris for further study with Jean Galamian, a celebrated Russian teacher.

WEST SUMMERLAND PHONE 4

"It is my personal opinion that a great many of the regulations now in existence under the War-time Prices and Trade Board will come off by next March," declared G. R. Matthews, secretary of the B.C. division of the Canadian Retail Merchants' Association, in addressing Summerland retailers at a noon luncheon in the Nu-Way hotel annex on Monday last.

"The public has accepted the set prices because the government has said they are right, but if it hadn't been for the labor situation and the tie-up in production, we would have lost a lot of the regulations by now," he declared in dealing mainly with the grocery trade.

"When these orders come off, think twice before you go away from the present mark-up key," he urged grocery men. This mark-up key has been of great value to the retailer, he believed, and if a grocer cannot make a reasonable profit under this system, then it is time the grocer investigated his method of doing business and found the root of his trouble.

Later in his talk, while dealing with men's wear, Mr. Matthews remarked that "when labor gets back on the job you will be amazed at the quality of goods which can be turned out quickly."

He stated that manufacturers are keyed up to mass production and they want to turn out the quantities of goods which were produced during war years. Retailers will have to watch their step when mass production becomes a reality and articles are again in abundance, he warned.

"Two years from today you will be thankful you organized and have such a national organization as the Retail Merchants' Association," he prophesied to the retailers.

This association is incorporated under a special Dominion act, and operates in every province of Canada. It was recognized by Donald Gordon, head of the W.P.T.B. in 1941, and the two bodies have worked closely together ever since.

Mr. Matthews lauded Mr. Gordon and his associates as "big men" who, if the retailers were prepared to be fair, had facts to back up their statements and were ready to fight for their just rights, would give them every consideration possible.

"These men are so big they admire you for fighting them to gain your just ends," declared Mr. Matthews.

The speaker outlined several moves in the past year which had benefited the meat dealers across Canada when the W.P.T.B. had issued orders which would have been detrimental. The Retail Merchants' Association had fought these regulations and when they had the facts the W.P.T.B. had modified their demands.

In dealing with paper supplies, for wrapping articles, Mr. Matthews stated that nothing further could be done, in face of government policy, but the R.M.A. had been able to obtain a concession for the meat dealers, who can expect increased supplies to wrap their perishable products. Other retailers can expect even fewer supplies of wrapping paper in the future, he warned.

For a time, the Dominion government had considered making a stock pile of cloth from which standard patterns of suits would be made up for returned men. This would have been a great blow to the independent retailer across Canada, Mr. Matthews pointed out, and the R.M.A. fought this proposal successfully. As a compromise, the priority system was adopted and while it was not wholly successful, he believed it was a superior system.

Service stations and garages now have government legislation which is helped in collecting accounts. Through the efforts of the R.M.A., a garage owner can register an account at Victoria and a type of lien is made against the car which was repaired. If the car owner does not pay his account within a reasonable length of time, then the car can be seized by the garageman.

Dress shirt supply is hopeless, the speaker said, and there is little likelihood that there will be any increase in production for quite a time.

Mr. Matthews outlined efforts being made by the retailers' group to put a stop to unethical practices which flourished prior to the war, in the home appliances line. Both the manufacturers and the retailers have established a committee to design a code of ethics to guide the sale of radios, washing machines, etc.

He also told of a move by the Manitoba government to offer appliances to persons in rural areas at a 20 per cent discount off prices by retailers. The Manitoba government is now attempting to make a deal with manufacturers but so far have not been successful and therefore cannot fulfil their promise to the farmers.

If such an action was allowed to go unchallenged, the retailer of appliances in Manitoba would be dealt a severe blow, said Mr. Matthews, who believed that this was unfair competition for the government to go into the business of merchandising appliances.

He also outlined proposals which have been made to the Dominion and provincial governments for consumer credit legislation, which would be based on the same lines as regulation now in existence under W.P.T.B. rules of a deposit of one-third on articles being purchased. What the amount will be set at will be decided by a neutral umpire, he considered.

In conclusion, Mr. Matthews stressed the importance of retailers maintaining attractive layouts and providing the best possible service for their customers.

The merchants' organization in B.C. is considered the best in Canada, he said.

A public relations committee is being set up in every community in B.C. for the purpose of dealing with problems affecting the various classifications as regulations from Ottawa cease.

The Summerland committee consists of the following, with E. R. Butler as chairman: Men's wear, W. A. Laidlaw; ladies' wear, L. H. Hill; groceries, Les Rumball; meat, Roy Wellwood; shoes, Mel Ducommun; appliances, H. Shannon; furniture, Norman Holmes; hardware, E. R. Butler.

A case of interest to the lumber industry was recently heard in Vancouver when Edgett's Limited, 615 West Hastings street was fined $2,000 as a result of charges brought by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The firm pleaded guilty.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board charged Edgett's Limited, with issuing false invoices in respect of sales of lumber to the United States, and making misrepresentations to the timber controller.

The Board produced evidence that twenty-three carloads of lumber had been shipped to California invoiced as cottonwood, whereas the actual cars contained maple and alder. Cottonwood is not subject to export quota regulations and may be shipped in any quantity. Export of maple and alder was restricted to 40 per cent of production.

The board, therefore, claimed that the Canadian public had thus been deprived of lumber which should have been available to them and which was exported as cottonwood to the U.S.A.

Counsel for the company claimed that the penalty should not be severe as its export license had been cancelled for six weeks, and it had already been fined by the Department of Customs for false export declarations.

Home Canning Price Adjusted

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced that maximum prices of canned fruits and vegetables produced and packed by home canners have been adjusted. The new prices became effective Sept. 18.

Board officials point out that in keeping with previous price relationship, home canners' product, will be sold at prices slightly less than those fixed on products packed by industrial canners.

Industrial canners' prices have already been adjusted to compensate for the amount of subsidy formerly paid and it is desirable now to adjust home canners' prices and thereby maintain the normal differential between prices of licensed and non-licensed canners, the Board explained.

Mr. Lloyd McMillan and Mr. Walter Carter were visitors to Princeton at the weekend.

Law And Order Flouted Says Hon. Grote Stirling

The 1946 session of parliament beginning in March and ending on August 31st, brought forth many important pieces of legislation dealing with vital post-war problems, with the rifts between management and labor receiving a goodly share of attention. This is part of the overall picture given in a statement by Hon. Grote Stirling, M.P. for Yale, who returned to his home in Kelowna after dissolution of parliament.

Mr. Stirling found the session a lengthy one, but in point of time taken it was not the longest in recent years. Failure of the Dominion-Provincial Conference to reach an agreement was partially responsible for parliament starting in March instead of January, he said.

He reported more committee work had been undertaken this year than in the past, and he dealt at some length on the important work of the Committee on Industrial Relations, particularly as it affected the steel strike. He believed that as a result of the discussions the gap was being narrowed "between what the union asks and what the companies are prepared to pay."

"Law and order," Mr. Stirling says, "is being openly flouted" in the steel strike. With the government now provided with the power to take its own strike vote among the steel strikers and non-strikers, and if it uses this authority, it "will dispose of the assertion frequently made that only a fraction of those employed at Stelco were in favor of a strike."

"Some of the other points dealt with concerned the Committee on Veterans' work; the National Flag design, which still has a rough road ahead, in his opinion; the estimates and the work of the Senate.

The strange thing about the Budget of 1946 was that the comparatively slight lightening of the burden of taxation is not to apply until 1947, he thought.

"Many people got the wrong notion that the task of the Committee on Industrial Relations was to settle the steel strike. That was not its purpose. Its purpose was, in these days of industrial unrest, to provide the public with an opportunity to hear the views of those principally concerned, in the presence of each other, for it was often alleged by Labor that it had not had that opportunity to meet the principals on the other side.

"Most of the witnesses dealt directly with the steel strike, and it was as a result of what transpired in the committee that a conciliator was appointed. He was not successful, but discussions which grew from that seem to be narrowing the gap between what the union asks and what the companies are prepared to pay.

"One recommendation of the committee was, that the Government should provide itself with power to call a vote of the union members concerned, before or during a strike, and an Order-in-council to that effect has been passed. If this power is used in the steel strike, it will dispose of the assertion frequently made that only a fraction of those employed at Stelco were in favor of a strike.

Meanwhile, law and order is being openly flouted, as 2,500 men were virtually held in the Hamilton Steel plant by the actions of pickets, which are certainly not peaceful.

The heaviest committee work was that done by the Veterans' committee. It held 50 meetings, sometimes twice a day, and 14 bills were introduced and passed, making further provision for the members of the services.

"The report of the committee to recommend a design for a National flag was presented to the house early in July, but the government did not see fit to bring it forward for discussion. The reason for not doing so was, very likely, that considerable debate might follow, and it may very well be that a bill will be introduced at the next session describing the Red Ensign with a gold maple leaf on a white background, just as advised by the committee, and that will be the time for debate.

"The estimates were not given nearly enough time for discussion. The tendency is to get on with other work which the government may consider more pressing, but even so, several measures of a highly contentious nature were left on the order paper, notably one to give further wide powers to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and one to perpetuate in peacetime an information service, which many consider would become a channel for propaganda for whatever government was in power, as well as being unnecessary.

"The Senate had just treated the Foreign Exchange Control Bill pretty roughly, and had made 67 amendments in it, but the government considered the bill so necessary that it accepted the amendments in toto, which was an unusual thing for the government to do.

"The Senate has continued to exercise its function of reviewing legislation sent to it from the House of Commons, and although by the lapse of time, there is now a strong Liberal majority in the Senate, yet it brings keen consideration to bear on its most useful work.

"The fact that business was begun but not completed, just means that more work was placed before parliament than it could digest within a reasonable time. Next session should begin in the third week of January, or the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act will expire on March 31st, and it will be necessary to put into legislative form such powers as the government considers it wise to continue before that date."

GORDON WAUGH, one of Montreal's radio "hams", broadcasts from a 500-watt amateur radio station. Waugh, a former member of the R.C.A.F., is one of the local amateurs of the new organization of ex-R.C.A.F. personnel who are establishing a coast-to-coast hook-up to take over in the event R.C.A.F. line communications break down. The group will also be available for the passage of non-commercial messages for other organizations in the event of an emergency.

CHAIRMAN APPOINTED

Dr. R. H. Wright has been appointed head of the chemistry branch of the B.C. Research Council. It is announced by Hon. L. H. Eyres, chairman of that council. Dr. Wright is an outstanding graduate of the University of British Columbia and was formerly associated with the chemistry department at the University of New Brunswick.

MILK IN RESTAURANTS
Wartime Prices and Trade Board issues a warning to restaurant operators that no increase in the price of milk sold by the glass is permitted. Withdrawal of the producers' subsidy of 55 cents per hundredweight may mean an increase in the milk price to householders but this is a matter for the provincial milk boards to decide. Milk by the glass in restaurants is still under the control of the Board and no upward price change can be made without formal application to the Board.

Pringle Award Now Placed

The Flying Officer, Rev. George Robert Pringle Memorial Bursary, one of the most coveted special name awards, has been won by John Oliver Wheeler, a fifth year applied science student, it was announced last week by the president of U.B.C.

The bursary was endowed by friends and associates in memory of the late Flying Officer George Pringle, popular U.B.C. athlete, who was killed on active service overseas in 1943.

To be eligible for this award the student must show evidence of academic ability, sterling, unselfish character, and active participation and leadership in university sports.

A student in geological engineering, Wheeler has had a good second-class average throughout his university career. Last year he was awarded the G. M. Dawson Scholarship for highest standing in his course.

Since entering U.B.C. he has been an active member of the English rugby team, and last year was captain. His enthusiasm and good sportsmanship played a large part in the success of the team. He is from Banff, Alberta.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S Social Welfare Programme

BRITISH Columbia's social legislation is designed to promote the welfare of children, individuals and families, suffering from various social needs. Some of the most important Acts are:

SOCIAL ASSISTANCE ACT

Social allowances, general medical services, drugs and other types of assistance may be granted under the terms of this Act. The Act has been designed to make legal provision for those who cannot be granted assistance under other more specific Acts, with the result that no one who is eligible should be denied necessities essential to maintain or assist in maintaining a reasonably normal and healthy existence.

MOTHERS' ALLOWANCE ACT

Under the terms of this Act, provision is made for the granting of an allowance to mothers with children under the age of sixteen years, and under certain conditions under eighteen years, who are widows or who cannot be supported by the husband for certain specific reasons.

OLD-AGE PENSION ACT

This Act enables the Province to make provision for persons seventy years of age and over under the terms of the Federal Old Age Pension Act. Persons who are not eligible under the terms of this Act may be granted comparable assistance under the "Social Assistance Act."

CHILD WELFARE

Child welfare legislation includes the Protection of Children Act, Children of Unmarried Parents Act, Adoption Act, Boys' Industrial School Act, Girls' Industrial School Act and the Juvenile Delinquency Act, and entails the protection and care of dependent or neglected children; placement of children in adoption homes; and care and treatment of delinquent children.

British Columbia's programme is the most outstanding and the most generous in Canada. The services available to those in need, at our district offices in unorganized territory and in municipalities, are the most comprehensive in the Dominion.

Ward Rates At Hospital May Be Raised Soon

Summerland Hospital Board will be represented today at the regional hospital conference in Kelowna, when main discussion will centre on a proposal to raise the ward rates in Valley hospitals and also seek an increase in the per capita grant from the provincial government.

Results from this conference will be submitted to the annual convention of the B.C. Hospitals Assn. in Vancouver next month, it was stated at the monthly meeting of the local hospital board on Tuesday evening.

When ward rates are raised, the hospital contract fees will also have to go up, probably to $18 per year, it was intimated, although no definite action was taken here this week. Kelowna and Penticton hospital contracts have already been raised to that amount, it was said.

Increase Staff

There is a need for an increase in the local nursing staff, Matron Huenichen and Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, house committee head, told the board. Miss Riley will be leaving at the month end and her place will be taken by Miss Pearson, but with the present regulations calling for an eight-hour day further additions to the staff are becoming a necessity.

Nurses at the local hospital have not complained of their hours, Mrs. Atkinson declared, but they are working too many hours each day and present conditions cannot continue much longer.

Work on the new hospital addition and nurses' home is progressing, it was said, while the architects, Gardner & Thornton, Vancouver, informed the board they would base their fees on the original estimate of $28,000, rather than on the present figure, which will be about $39,000, due to increased building costs.

Dave Dickson Recipient Of Gold Watch

Twenty-five years' faithful service to the Municipality of Summerland brought a token appreciation to Dave Dickson, formerly with the water department, when Reeve W. R. Powell made a presentation to the former municipal servant of a gold, engraved pocket watch on Tuesday afternoon just prior to the regular council meeting.

This watch was presented by Reeve Powell on behalf of the Municipality of Summerland for faithful and long service rendered on its behalf.

"Few people have the opportunity to have lived long enough to give such faithful service as Mr. Dickson," Reeve Powell declared, also wishing him many long and happy days ahead.

More Positive Tests Shown In Water Here

Attention of the council was again drawn to positive tests being found in water from the reservoir and in West Summerland, in a letter read at the Tuesday afternoon session of the municipal fathers, from H. W. Black, sanitary inspector for the Okanagan Health Unit.

Five tests were made last month at the reservoir and five more in West Summerland and they were all positive, Mr. Black declared.

In the face of this report, Municipal Clerk Nixon was instructed to obtain all necessary data relative to the installation of a chlorination system for West Summerland's water supply.

Two tests out of five were positive when Mr. Black tested the water supply in lower town. He attributes this to a common drain which was installed many years ago by residents of Summerland and which he claims is too close to the municipal water supply.

Mr. Black recommended that this common drain must be removed but did not state who should undertake the work.

The municipal council took the stand that as the drain had been installed by private residents, Mr. Black should take the necessary steps to see that those residents have it removed.

CARRIED PASSENGERS

Before Magistrate H. Sharmar, in Summerland police court, James L. Evans, Peachland, recently paid a fine of $2 and costs for carrying passengers in a truck without fixed seats and without regulation sideboards.

Better Police Protection And Street Lighting Asked By Delegations

Better police protection and more adequate street lighting were urged on the Summerland council Tuesday afternoon by a deputation representing the Summerland Board of Trade and the Retail Merchants Association. At the same time, it was announced that the British Columbia Police have served notice that they will be terminating their contract with the municipality at December 31, with a view to reviewing existing costs. An upward trend in the policing costs is indicated in the police move, the council believes.

Tied in with the question of better police protection is the establishment here of a provincial government sub-agency which has been sought by the council for some months.

Reeve W. R. Powell informed the council and the delegation that although there has been no answer from Victoria on this latter subject the still has hopes that some action will be taken. The police official here has a large part of his time taken up with clerical duties to the detriment of straight policing duties, it was stated.

Does Clerical Work

In discussing the B.C. Police termination of contract, letter, the council declared that Summerland municipality is now paying $374 towards policing costs. The one B.C. policeman not only does clerical duty here but his territory extends to Peachland on the north and Jura to the west.

"For the past month we have been trying to bring this position to a point where it is more satisfactory to Summerland," declared Reeve Powell in detailing the connection between a government sub-agency and better police protection.

His Worship suggested at this point that Summerland did not need a full-time man, but Councillor F. E. Atkinson interposed the thought that this community may have increased to a point where a full-time police official is needed.

"Police service is not satisfactory now and something has to be done," declared Councillor Atkinson.

Municipal Clerk Nixon pointed out that the contract between the municipality and the B.C. Police says that this area will be properly policed. The clerk believed that if the present policeman will not go out after five o'clock, except in an emergency, as had been stated at the meeting, then this could not be called proper policing.

"This termination of contract gives us a fine opportunity," declared Reeve Powell, "as they are asking for an increase in payment for something which we don't think we are getting value for now."

Poor Protection

When President Reid Johnston, of the trade board, arrived, he made it clear that his organization was not "running down" the police constable himself, but considered that the municipality is receiving poor police protection.

Rowdiness and excessive drinking at dances, and disturbances on the streets after six o'clock were stressed by Mr. Johnston as conditions which pointed to "poor police protection". He considered that a police official should attend dances and make his presence felt around the streets at night.

"I think the ratepayers would even go so far as to ask for another policeman on duty here," Mr. Johnston considered, but

Final trap shoot of the season was held on Sunday, October 13, with some eighteen enthusiasts competing in a tournament for prizes donated by Laidlaw & Co.

Allan Eley with a score of 21 out of 25, was the high score winner of the day, being closely followed by Tom Nelson, second prize winner.

In handicap shooting, Dewey Sanborn annexed first award with V. M. Lockwood being second prize winner.

Alf Johnston took first prize in the quail shoot event.

Flow Of Water Gushes Out Of Cliff

Serious loss to several orchardists, including Councillor Harvey Wilson and T. P. Thornber, may result from the outbreak on Sunday morning of a fast-running body of water of unknown origin at the base of a high cliff below Mr. Wilson's orchard property.

It has been estimated that a volume of water measuring 1,200 to 1,500 gallons per minute has been pouring from this new outlet. This rate has been kept up since early Sunday morning and there is no sign of abatement.

Various theories have been propounded but the origin of this flow was undetermined at press time. Most logical theory tendered is that the flow emanates from Prairie Creek and has been created by some disturbance below ground level which has opened up a former creek bed, long since covered over.

It is stated that disturbances in the earth were noted about ten days ago by residents in that vicinity. Earth tremors were noted at that time and there is a possibility that these disturbances have shifted strata levels to allow an old channel to be re-opened. Mr. C. B. Howe, engineer from Penticton, was brought to Summerland on Tuesday and Wednesday but has not been able to determine the origin.

Tests are being made, including the placing of chloride of lime in Prairie Creek and also a dam at one point on this creek.

When the water gushed forth on Sunday morning it created a hazard to the Gulch road and to the main highway at lake level. However, the water is now being carried away in a drainage ditch down the Gulch and is emptying into the lake through an old culvert near the C. F. Evans boathouse.

Cracks in the cliffside near the tunnel where the water is gushing out have appeared this week and it is feared that a large portion of orchard land may be carried away unless the source of this new water supply is discovered and means to stop it are found.

Building Down Due To Lack Of Supplies

Lack of material for the building trade is plainly shown in the September monthly report of Building Inspector Roy F. Angus to the council on Tuesday. During that month 17 permits for a total value of $9,865 were taken out.

However, the picture for the first nine months of 1946 is a bright one, as the estimated total of building construction in that period is $224,865, mostly in new residences and alterations and additions to homes already established.

From April 23, when permits were first issued until September 30, there have been 162 permits issued or a total amount of $198,680.

September figures were as follows: Dwellings 9, $8,200; commercial buildings, all; alterations, additions and garages, 8 permits, $1,065.

Urge Plebiscite To Decide Future Of Peach Orchard Park

Summerland's trade board went on record Thursday evening last as favoring the urging of the council to consider placing a plebiscite before the local rate payers to determine, once and for all, what are their wishes regarding Peach Orchard Park.

Last spring, a straw vote was sought by the council after a Vernon business man wished to purchase a portion of this park for tourist camp purposes. He later withdrew his offer.

On Tuesday afternoon, President Reid Johnston, on behalf of the trade board, placed the recommendation before the local council and received from Reeve W. R. Powell the assurance that "we'll try to figure out some scheme to determine the wishes of the people."

Committee Report

It was the board's recommendation, based on a report submitted last Thursday by the tourist and publicity committee, headed by Chas. Smith, that the public should decide if it wishes a portion of Peach Orchard Park given to private enterprise for tourist camp promotion.

This tourist committee stated that tourist accommodation in the Okanagan is still far from adequate and especially is this so in Summerland.

"It is the committee's opinion that this question [use of the park] has not been settled to the satisfaction of all persons in the municipality and that a definite answer, one way or the other, whether a portion of this property should be opened for commercial enterprise of such a nature should be obtained.

"If the ratepayers show themselves sufficiently in favor of giving up this property for a tourist campsite, then the Board of Trade should endeavor to interest private enterprise to develop this project with a view to bringing more tourist dollars into the community," the report concluded.

Before the council President Johnston stressed the lack of accommodation here for tourists.

Reeve Powell replied that the Vernon man who had first negotiated for the park had assumed more than he was entitled to.

Also, the council had been urged by the Legion not to dispose of this property to other than returned men.

"Who will we sell the property to if the ratepayers wish to dispose of the park?" queried the Reeve.

Leave To Council

"I think we could leave that in the hands of the council and rely on their good judgment," replied President Johnston, who again pointed out that the trade board was only requesting that the ratepayers be given an opportunity to express their opinion on the subject.

"I feel that the people of Summerland in ten to fifteen years might be sorry that they lost their park," declared Reeve Powell. "Opinions of people change in five to ten years, you know," he pointed out.

"However, we will consider this request and probably favorably," he assured the trade board prexy.

It was pointed out that the straw vote last spring was an involved one and that a plebiscite this time should be as simple as possible so that there would be no question regarding the decision reached.

WANT LAKESHORE FRONTAGE

Mrs. L. Plunkett sought council advise on Tuesday regarding the possible acquisition of lakeshore frontage for 100 feet south of her residence in Summerland. Municipal Clerk F. J. Nixon stated that a Penticton man is also thinking of acquiring similar lakeshore frontage and creating a fill for the purpose of building a homesite.

Collect 96.4 Per Cent Of Tax Assessments

Although tax collections have been made a month earlier than previous years, 96.4 percent of the assessment was collected by Tuesday, October 15, in time to escape the ten percent penalty imposed yesterday morning. It is estimated that this figure will be increased by the year end.

In 1945, with a lower assessment figure and a longer period in which to pay these tolls, a higher percentage return was made. Although figures for November 15, 1945, were not available in the municipal hall yesterday, the total tax collections for the year up to December 31 1945, were 97.8 percent, or $37,296.69.

Assessment figures for 1946 were set at $51,000.72, of which 96.4 percent or $49,164 has been collected.

This indicates an increase in tax collections this year, to meet rising general and school costs of $11,868.

Next week figures on irrigation collections at the municipal office will be available, Gordon Smith, tax collector, informed The Review yesterday.

F. M. Stewart Heads Xmas. Tree Body

For another season, Francis Stewart has agreed to head the Summerland Board of Trade Christmas tree committee, it was announced by Chairman George Parry at the October meeting Thursday night. He is empowered to pick his own committee members. Christmas gifts will be presented to local children of pre-school age and in grades up to and including Grade 5, it has previously been decided. He will bring in a report to the November meeting on his committee's progress.

Singers And Players Open Fall Session

Opening meeting of the Singers and Players Club for the fall season was held in the high school on Tuesday evening, with an attendance of forty interested members. Both the singers and players groups started preparations for their new season's work. During the intermission, the new school projector was tried out and films of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and of scenes in B.C. were much enjoyed.

Practices will be resumed on Tuesday evening and any persons interested in either section are being invited to attend.

TALK TO ROTARY

W. H. Ribelin and F. M. Buckland, Kelowna, were visitors to Summerland Rotary Club last Friday and gave an account of their recent attempt to take pictures of rock drawings in the western portion of the Similkameen.

Valley Fish Hatchery To Be Located Here

Provided suitable property can be obtained from the municipality, the proposed fish hatchery for the Okanagan will be erected at Summerland this winter by the B.C. Game Commission, it is announced here following representations made on Tuesday to the local council.

Granville Morgan, fisheries officer in Summerland, informed the council that the Government authorities have chosen Summerland as the best site in the interior for location of this fish hatchery, because of the even water temperature provided by the spring in the lower town.

Every game club in the Okanagan and also in the Similkameen sought this hatchery for their particular location, but Summerland was chosen as the best site by an independent observer, Dr. W. A. Clemens, University of B.C. biologist, who visited here early in September.

C. H. "Jimmy" Robinson, fisheries supervisor at Nelson, will be here tomorrow to go further into plans for the hatchery formation. It is understood that the present small-scale hatchery will be greatly enlarged, with the addition of a refrigeration plant, food grinding equipment, rearing ponds, and several other buildings.

Cancel Lease

The Game Commission is endeavoring to obtain municipal property at the present hatchery site, which was once a street and. This lot, which has a 60-foot frontage, is leased now by the Penticton Fish, Game and Forest Protective Assn. This body has informed the council it would cancel its lease in favor of the game

Community Hotel Is Trade Board Proposal

That the Summerland Board of Trade should interest itself in the establishment at an early date of a community hotel for Summerland was the recommendation of the board's tourist and publicity committee report, presented on Thursday evening by the chairman, Chas. Smith.

The trade board agreed to the suggestion, adopted the report and ordered that further data on the subject be gathered by the projects committee, working in conjunction with the tourist and publicity group.

"Although there is one hostelry in existence here, it is not designed to attract the better class of travelling public which could be induced to tarry in the community," the report declared.

"A new community hotel should have incorporated a dining-room service which could cater to the needs of local business men and visitors to a greater degree than is possible in existing cafes and restaurants.

"Without such accommodation, this committee feels that the district is turning away thousands of potential dollars which could be expended for the benefit of the community as a whole, by attracting more of the travelling public to spend time in Summerland."

EDITORIAL

The Board of Trade

There was a keynote of progress emanating from discussions and reports submitted to the Board of Trade last Thursday night. And not the least of this discussion centred around the need for a community hotel.

Shortly after The Review commenced publication we advocated such a step and we are still of the belief that such a project is a necessity for the community.

Other centres have obtained the assistance of their more stable citizens, who have invested sums both large and small in such a project. It could happen here just as easily. There are sites available near the centre of the business section which would be ideal for such a purpose.

Such a hostelry need not be pretentious and it need not be large. But it should be attractive, comfortable and be permeated with that air of warmth which is so much a part of everyday life in Summerland.

And a proper dining-room, suitable for luncheons and banquets, as well as catering for the needs of business men and the travelling public who wish more privacy and comfort than can be found in the ordinary restaurant, is a necessary part of such an hotel.

We hasten to say once more that in advocating such a step we are not casting any aspersions on existing businesses. They are adequate for their design and the purposes they serve. Their cuisine is, on the whole, above reproach.

But that does not detract from the fact that Summerland is in need of a modern stopping place for its visitors. If property could be obtained near the proposed Memorial park play-ground, it would be a great incentive for families to come to Summerland during the summer months.

Such a proposal could be made into an economic business, given the proper forethought in construction and the proper management. Let us hope that the committee appointed by the Board of Trade last week, will not let any grass grow under its feet in setting into motion a plan to provide Summerland with a modern hostelry suitable for its growing needs.

Peach Orchard Park

There is a divergence of opinion in this community regarding Peach Orchard Park. Many of the old-timers believe that it should remain as a park property and be developed by future councils into a lovely playground and camping site.

Then, there is another point of view which says that Summerland has enough space set aside for parks purposes and that a portion of Peach Orchard park should be released for commercial purposes . . . tourist camp construction.

There is merit in both viewpoints and the issue could be argued at length without either side giving way to any degree.

But the Summerland council did ask the ratepayers, in a straw vote, how they felt about the park. But the questions were not clear-cut and the result of the straw vote still leaves everyone undecided as to a future move.

In all fairness to both sides, the Summerland council should put the question to the ratepayers once and for all. Let the ratepayers at the next election decide if they wish to keep the park as such or release it for tourist camp purposes.

The Review would like to see additional tourist camp accommodation provided for this community. Summerland needs such a project badly. But, at the same time, many communities wish in later years that they had held on to all the land possible for parks purposes. Many have to re-purchase property at greatly advanced prices in order to give children space in which to play.

There may be enough space already allotted for such purposes to suit this community for years to come. If the majority of the people feel this is so, then they will vote in that direction.

But whatever the result, give them a chance to express their wishes on this subject.

The Little Dog Laughed -- historically!

Help The Vets

Summerland as a whole and the Rehabilitation Committee in particular, can take a great deal of justifiable pride in the announcement made this week by President Reid Johnston, of the Summerland Board of Trade, that this community has shown the way to the rest of Canada in providing a service to returning war veterans and assisting them in re-establishing themselves on "civvy street."

Mr. Johnston quoted Robert Macnicol, secretary of the provincial command of the Canadian Legion, whom he met in Winnipeg last week, as stating that this district has provided a service second to none in Canada.

Main tribute in this work must go to the late Syd Thomas, who devoted a great deal of time to assisting veterans obtain their re-establishment credits, their pension claims, waiting returns benefits, medical treatments, educational and vocational benefits, and dozens of other benefits which only one versed in the multitude of regulations can know how to deal with properly.

A strong committee, under the chairmanship of Dr. R. C. Palmer, assisted the late Mr. Thomas in his endeavors, but it fell on the latter actually to provide the service necessary if veterans were to receive a "square deal" upon leaving the services.

But the work is far from through. Lorne Perry has been selected as general secretary and will continue the main work, with the exception of pensions claims, which has been taken over by C. E. "Ned" Bentley, on behalf of the Canadian Legion.

The Rehabilitation Committee needs nearly $1,200 to carry on the work in its second year. Fifteen hundred interviews were handled in the first year and the number is not diminishing even now.

Half this amount will be subscribed by the Summerland council and the Canadian Legion, it has already been intimated, while the Board of Trade and other community groups are considering further donations.

But the general public will have to come to the assistance of the committee with donations if the necessary finances are to be raised. There are many persons who have not contributed in a financial way to assisting the veterans to re-establish themselves.

It is not a large sum which the committee now needs to assure a properly-financed second year. Only a small portion of the population, contributing a dollar or two each, which would not be missed, would provide ample funds. Don't let "George" do it.

THE Feminine Front

Muriel Hurry

The small-town weekly newspaper is the pulse of every village in America. Each week within its pages, you will find, faithfully chronicled, the births, deaths, marriages, and major events of the community. If the Smiths have visitors, or Mrs. Jones goes to the coast, the pages of your weekly will tell you all the details.

A great deal of work, worry and heartache go into the making up of the weekly paper, but a great deal of satisfaction is also felt as each paper rolls off the press.

But writing for a newspaper is never just routine business. It is always interesting and thrilling to record the major events in the lives of people who are familiar to you. I always put a lot of time and care into wedding write-ups, as they are one of the things about a wedding that is saved and cherished for a life-time, to be tucked away in boxes with old family treasures.

Of course, the newspaper accounts never whisper of how the groomsman fumbled the ring, or that the groom's voice was inaudible. Or of how the bride, contracting hay fever from her roses, sneezed three times during the ceremony.

And if old Ezra, the janitor of the poolroom, who died last week, was a drunken wastrel most of his life, and beat up his wife and starved his kids, he will sound like a saint when you read his obituary in your weekly paper.

However, apart from incidents like these, your little paper records the news of the community for posterity, correctly, and with impartiality.

There are very few people who read the weeklies who realize how much work goes into the little paper. The writing is but a small part of the toil involved. The uninteresting routine work is done by the mechanical staff, the unsung heroes of the newspaper staff. The printers and the linotype operators are a vital and very necessary part of the industry. There is a lot of very hard work goes into the ads that you scan. And every letter that is written by the reporter, is typed on a complicated key-board by the linotype operator. There are not many people who realize that it takes a seven-years' apprenticeship to become a printer and linotype operator.

It is true that community spirit shrinks as a small town grows. And community spirit is of great benefit to any village, large or small. There are too many people, as a town grows larger, who let the burden of community planning fall on the shoulders of a few ever-willing workers. Even in clubs and organization, it seems that there are a few willing workers who do all the hard work that the many benefit from.

As a community, Summerland has as big a share of community spirit as any small town. But there is no reason why the many who do not co-operate in public activities, should not join the ranks of the workers. There is much room for improvement in community activities in Summerland, as witness the atrocious condition of the Peach Orchard cemetery and the neglected condition of Ellison park.

There is still a great deal of work to be done in the community, but if we could start with a fall clean-up of the Peach Orchard cemetery, it would at least be a step in the right direction.

Eight Out of Ten Will Buy

The slogan of the Canada Savings Loan, which opened on October 15, is simply and directly an expression of the will of the Canadian people. Over the period of the war years, Canadians acquired the habit of saving through Victory bonds and war savings certificates. It is a habit which they like because, when a cross-section of bond buyers and war savings certificates purchasers were questioned recently about their potential support of the new Loan, signified they would be in the market.

Before the question was propounded many people, realizing their ninth Victory bond payments would soon be completed, began to ask how they could continue to save systematically and at a good interest rate.

This public expression is a good one. It shows that people are thinking of both the present and the future. The need of the present to prevent inflation and when there is a shortage of consumer goods, such as now exists, every dollar spent unnecessarily is potentially an inflation dollar. Every dollar saved is not only non-inflationary but anti-inflationary.

The need of the future is security—security against illness, lack of employment and other troubles which beset the path of humanity. A financial backlog gives that sense of economic security so essential to peace of mind. With this peace of mind, people can whole-heartedly concentrate on their jobs, their ambitions and the lighter things, such as hobbies, sports and so forth, that make for a well-balanced life!

During the next three weeks, Canadians should bear one thing in mind—there will be very little direct contact between Canada Savings Loan personnel and prospective bond purchasers because no elaborate organization has been set up.

It will be up to every individual to use his initiative except in the case of large firms where an internal canvass will be set up, and personally or by letter contact his nearest investment house, trust company or bank and arrange for bond purchases.

October 15 is the opening day of the Canada Savings Loan and investment houses, trust companies and banks are putting their organizations at the service of bond purchasers.

Large business firms and establishments, with the help of key investment firms' personnel, are setting up internal canvasses similar to those of the Victory Loans. This is being done at the request of over 1,000,000 Canadian workers.

In many cases smaller firms are making similar arrangements and allotting a member of their staff to take bond applications.

These may be purchased by cash or through bank financing. Canadians who do not come into these categories are invited to contact investment houses, trust companies or banks and make known their own arrangements. In very few cases will there be any direct appeal by a salesman.

The new bonds bear 2% per cent interest and are guaranteed redemption at par value at any time at any chartered bank of Canada or any branch office. These bonds are non-callable, non-transferable and non-assignable and mature on November 1, 1950.

Plan Travelogue They Say "I Do" Across 3,000 Miles For Okanagan

Plans for the Okanagan travelogue, to be published as a Valley-wide tourist publicity booklet, are being formulated by the Okanagan Valley Tourist bureau, the Summerland Board of trade October meeting was informed on Thursday. This publication and other publicity-seeking plans mean an expenditure of $1,100, it is stated.

Another session of this bureau is being held in Kelowna on Wednesday, Oct. 23, and W. M. Wright will be the Summerland representative in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Staroszik and son, Harold, and Mrs. Wm. Predoga, all of Rimby, Alta., who were en route to Vernon, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Huff.

Two English girls, EDITH DAVIES, 18, (left) of Coventry and AUDREY MAWSON, 19, (right) of Leeds, were married by transatlantic telephone to two former United States soldiers at a relative's home in Leeds, England. The girls are shown here exchanging wedding vows with the bridegrooms, George Strange, 24, and Verne Griffith, 28, of Flora, Ill. A wedding cake awaits the conclusion of the ceremonies. Edith's mother placed the wedding ring on her daughter's finger after her marriage to George Strange, while Audrey's father pinch-hit for Verne Griffith. The grooms in the double wedding were at the other end of telephones in Tusculumbia, Alabama.

P. G. Dodwell Airs Views On Setup As Provided By Consolidated School District

P. G. Dodwell, well-known Summerland has paid $50,000." school trustee, who is a member from this area on the Pentiction School District No. 15, was claimed by the Pentiction Herald news columns last week to have caused a flare-up in the board's session on Tuesday, Oct. 8.

Mr. Dodwell did take exception to several of the methods which had been adopted by the board and its individual members in carrying out routine business, he informed The Review this week.

He also took exception to a recent visit of Board Secretary K. J. Palmer and School Inspector J. J. Burnett to Summerland and interviewing the school bus contractors and a number of parents regarding the operation of the Summerland school buses, without first making any attempt to contact the Summerland members of the board.

Mr. Dodwell has stated that he feels it would be common courtesy for the school inspector to have informed the Summerland members, Trustees Dodwell and Roy F. Angus of their visit and its purpose.

Not In Contact

"We are not in contact with school affairs as we should be," was Mr. Dodwell's remark to The Review, in reviewing the new set-up wherein Summerland, Pentiction, Naramata, Kaleden and Allen Grove are all consolidated in the one school district.

"We lost our secretary from the start, and it is only lately that we have been recompensed in this regard," Mr. Dodwell continued, referring to the recent appointment of a paid secretary to assist the two Summerland principals, at a cost per month relative to that formerly paid to the local school board secretary.

Summerland should be represented on all committees in the school district setup so that the local representatives can make themselves conversant with all phases of the work as they did in the past, Mr. Dodwell believes.

At present, he cannot make himself sufficiently conversant with various trends in order to vote properly on subjects as they arise, because the Summerland members are not kept informed, he states.

Army Huts

This resulted in a temporary impasse last week when Summerland trustees were asked, with the rest of the board, to approve the possible purchase of army huts from Vernon camp, at tentative expenditure of some $30,000. One of these huts has been allocated for Summerland and the other two for Pentiction.

Mr. Dodwell did not wish to vote on this subject as he had not had any opportunity to get the views of his school principals. He felt that the Pentiction committee which went to Vernon to view the buildings, had had ample time to acquaint the Summerland members with its findings.

The Summerland trustees also wanted time to ascertain if the purchase of these temporary structures might endanger the proposed building program of a junior-senior high school here, from the viewpoint of the educational department.

School Inspector J. J. Burnett was not present at the Tuesday meeting.

However, the Pentiction district board went on record as favoring the immediate purchase, if possible, of these army buildings as temporary classrooms. One hut would provide six classrooms, it is estimated, with ablution rooms and heating facilities in-between the two portions of construction.

Financial Side
H. A. LeRoy, Pentiction trustee, is quoted as having told Summerland trustees: "We have sacrificed our property in Pentiction this year, in order to see that Summerland was in satisfactory condition."

Trustee Dodwell states he replied that: "You have to sacrifice a great more to make up for the $7,000 of Pentiction school debt which has been shouldered on to Summerland municipality this year, and will continue until

Alf McLachlan Talks On Park Projects

"I never served on a committee in which I felt so much enthusiasm from the participating members," declared Alf McLachlan, in reporting to the monthly meeting of the Board of Trade last Thursday, concerning the Memorial Parks committee.

He told the members that the three main sub-committees drafting estimates, and details of the two memorial parks projects and the finance group had their plans well in line and the stage was set for the public meeting on Oct. 25.

Francis Steuart inquired if the hockey rink would be available this winter and he was told that this would be a question to decide between the parks committee and the trade board when it was known if the public plans to support the parks' project.

DAILY TRIP TO PENTICTON

FIRE BRIGADE WORK DRAWS PRAISE FROM UNDERWRITERS

W. M. Wright told the Board of Trade meeting on Thursday that a representative of the Fire Underwriters' Association visited Summerland following the T. B. Young fire on Oct. 2, and expressed his gratification of the volunteer fire brigade's work in keeping the fire confined to the building. He considered that it was work which would have done credit to a brigade with much more equipment than is available here.

GOES TO WINNIPEG

Reid Johnston, popular president of the Summerland Board of Trade, attended the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Winnipeg last week. He left on Sunday, Oct. 6, for this conference, and represented the Pentiction Board of Trade, as the only trade board in this district which is affiliated with the parent body. He also unofficially represented the Southern Interior Boards of Trade, as well as the local trade board.

Mrs. A. Hurry was a week-end visitor to Vancouver, where she went to accompany home her small son, Ronald, who has been a patient in the Children's hospital there for the past three weeks.

Kelowna Site For Growers' Convention

Kelowna has been selected by the British Columbia Fruit Growers' association for its 58th annual convention on January 21 to 24, the executive has announced following a recent session.

Three towns had originally bid for this convention, Kamloops, Kelowna and Vernon, but accommodation problems eliminated Kamloops and Vernon from the list.

Approximately 150 delegates, fruit officials and other official visitors will be in attendance, while the actual number of delegates will number 70, representing 3,555 registered growers of tree fruits.

One of the most important matters to be presented to this convention will be the wider spread between grades. A widening of the spread between "C" grade and fancy and extra fancy is projected this season as a step towards implementing the wishes of the 1946 annual meeting. Delegates will be asked whether they want this spread widened in 1947.

Removal of duties, or a substantial reduction of duties on pipe and fitting, for orchard sprinkler systems will be sought by the growers' body in an appeal to the government at Ottawa. This type of system is coming into more general use but the pipe and fitting which, so far, are made only in the United States, carry a heavy duty. Application for relief will be based on a two-point argument that the equipment is essential for agricultural purposes, and that it is not manufactured in Canada.

Information is being gathered by the growers' head office in respect to hail insurance with a view to exploration of the feasibility of wider insurance at lower cost.

George A. Lundy, Oliver, has been appointed a member of the bor committee, replacing Albert Millar, Oliver, who resigned because of pressure of other business, it is stated. J. R. J. Stirling, B.C.F.G.A. presy, is also chairman of this committee, with L. R. Stephens, shippers' secretary, is the committee secretary.

The B.C.F.G.A. will inquire from Victoria why a rebate is not given on trailer licences, the same as tractor licences when trailers and tractors are used in combination on the highway, for seasonal hauling.

Montrealers received their first taste of winter on Oct. 1 when a storm left 17 inches of snow in its wake — an all-time record for this time of year. The snow bowed trees to the ground and brought vehicular traffic to a virtual standstill.

Would Rename Roads Here

Suggestion that roads in Summerland be renamed after old-time pioneers of the community met with enthusiasm when Dr. F. W. Andrew spoke to the monthly meeting of the board of trade last Thursday evening.

Following this topic, J. E. O'Mahony considered that a new map of the municipality should be considered in the near future. Dr. J. C. Wilcox considered that every farmer should have his name on his gate to facilitate the finding of property by strangers.

CLAIM GOES TO ARBITRATION BODY

Summerland municipality has again become involved in claims against it for a former inmate of the Home of the Friendless. Municipality of Burnaby has been endeavoring to have the local council assume responsibility for a woman who was once in the local Home but who has since become a charge at Burnaby.

The local council has continued its stand that it does not assume any responsibility for inmate of the Home, as it has no say in who will be admitted.

Burnaby municipality has taken the case to a Board of Arbitration, which is headed by E. C. Bracewell, assistant to the Minister of Municipalities.

Municipal Clerk F. J. Nixon was instructed on Tuesday to inform the board of the Summerland municipality's case in not taking any responsibility for this woman having lived in this district, claiming that she was not self supporting when she arrived here.

Holy Child Church Scene Of Local Couple Nuptials

The Holy Child church, West Summerland, was the scene of a charming wedding on Saturday, Oct. 12, when Alice Therese, younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. Menu, was united in marriage with Ross Arthur Fitzpatrick, only son of Mrs. Ted Tinkler, of Summerland.

For the double ring ceremony, the bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. John Menu, was lovely in traditional white satin, fashioned with lily-point sleeves, a sweetheart neckline, and a full skirt, which was gathered to the long torso of the full-length gown. Her chapel veil fell softly from a Tudor headdress and her bouquet was of deep red roses and fern. For her jewelry, the bride wore a gold locket, set with sapphires, and a gold watch with white gold mountings, both gifts from the groom.

As her only attendant, the bride chose her cousin, Mrs. Frank Arnusch, who wore blue lace over taffeta, with a headdress of blue velvet and veiling. Her bouquet was of pink and white carnations and fern.

The groom was attended by Mr. Frank Arnusch, and Father Morris, of Penticton, performed the rites.

The reception for the young couple was held at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wignall, where they were assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. John Menu, gowned in black crepe with sequin trim, complemented with black accessories, and by the groom's mother, Mrs. T. Tinkler, who also wore black with accessories to match. Both Mrs. Menu and Mrs. Tinkler wore corsages of pink carnations and fern.

The bride's table was centred with a beautiful three-tiered cake, which was flanked by tall tapers in crystal holders.

The toast to the bride was proposed by her brother, Mr. John Menu, and was aptly responded to by the groom, Mr. Frank Menu, also a brother of the bride, proposed the toast to the bridesmaid, to which the groomsmen responded.

Following the reception, which was held for the families and intimate friends, the happy couple were hosts to many of their wide circle of friends for the evening hours, during which the guests were entertained with dancing and a social evening.

For a honeymoon to valley points, the bride donned a grey tailored suit, with grey hat and black accessories.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick will make their future home in West Summerland.

Food Freezing Tests Told To Trade Board

Aims and work of the consumers' section of the marketing service of the Dominion department of agriculture were given an outline to interested members of the Summerland Board of Trade at the I.O.O.F. hall on Thursday night last when Miss Laura Pepper, section chief, and Miss Casselman, both of Ottawa, were the guest speakers.

Miss Casselman has been carrying on experiments in frozen food production at the Summerland experimental station for the past four months in the interests of the consumers, while Miss Pepper arrived last week to review the results of the tests accomplished.

This consumers' section work is divided into two parts, Miss Pepper informed the meeting, first being to show Canadian consumers, housewives, restaurant and hotel owners, and all other types of consumers, different methods of using products produced in Canada; and secondly, to carry on experimental work which will be of benefit to those consumers, housewives, restaurant and hotel owners, and all other types of consumers, different methods of using products produced in Canada; and secondly, to carry on experimental work which will be of benefit to those consumers.

Through a press service, radio material and field workers, the consumers' section is advising the Canadian consumer about the results of the tests being carried out.

Consumer Important The consumer, Miss Pepper advised, is an important person. Canada has spent a great deal of time in producing foods to suit an export demand, and whereas this is a vital work, there is another important market right at home which must be developed.

The consumers' section is trying to look on agriculture as in normal times, when surplus goods will be on the market, and is experimenting to find new methods of preparing these foods for consumption. The section is working towards satisfied customers, Miss Pepper added.

With the introduction of cold storage, freezing of foods has become quite popular with the housewife, who wants to grow vegetables and fruit, freeze them and store them in the lockers. "We want to show the housewife how best to process these products," stated Miss Pepper. She stated that a large number of inquiries had been received about freezing of poultry and meats, and experimental work will be undertaken on these subjects, especially poultry.

Beekeepers are asking that tests be made of their product and this work has been commenced.

One point which experimenters have found is that foods produced in various parts of the country need different treatment when being prepared, so this adds to the work of the experimentalists, Grade-Connellous.

In other ways, the section is helping housewives by providing data on how to prepare cut-up chicken, the buying of foods and distinguishing grades. The public is becoming more grade-conscious, she said, and the section hopes that the variations in grade nomenclature between varieties of products can be eliminated to a great degree.

Experiments are also being made in quantity foods on behalf of cafe and hotel owners. "We know there is a great future ahead for this consumers' section."

tion which, we hope, will develop into a division soon, and we are gratified with the co-operation received from the manufacturers, industrialists and other departments of agriculture," she concluded.

Miss Casselman dealt mainly with the experiments she and her fellow-testers have been carrying out in the past few years, especially in freezing. A year ago there was little Canadian information available for the housewives in the field, although some data was available from the U.S. Last year, experiments brought out several facts, and these were published for the benefit of the housewives. These are being retested now. Points which were tested included blanching, packing, container types and varieties.

Results of these tests indicate plainly that freezing retains color, flavor and texture of the fruit and vegetable. Miss Casselman stated. Glass sealers, especially if they have straight sides, heavily waxed cylinder boxes, and rectangular shaped cartons with bag linings, are the best types of containers. Tin cans prove fine for everything but rhubarb, and enamel tins are good for red fruits.

All authorities agree that the products must be blanched before freezing, while there is no appreciable difference in the results between dry and brine pack, but the dry pack is easier to handle.

Only blueberries, gooseberries and cranberries do not need syrup or dry sugar, Miss Casselman stated.

Both speakers spoke feelingly of the excellent co-operation they have received from Dr. R. C. Palmer, Mr. W. E. Atkinson, Mr. Strachan, and others at the Summerland Experimental Station.

Miss Casselman was introduced by Dr. J. C. Wilcox, Miss Pepper by Dr. R. C. Palmer, and the two speakers were given a hearty vote of thanks by Mr. J. E. O'Mahony.

At the Summerland hospital on Sunday, Oct. 13, a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Percy Miller Trout Creek.

Recommend Same Grant To 1947 Council

Recommendation to the 1947 council that it set aside a grant of $500 for the Summerland Rehabilitation Committee, was made by the Summerland council on Tuesday afternoon, following the hearing of a delegation from the committee consisting of E. R. Butler, Dr. F. W. Andrew and Reid Johnston.

Mr. Butler and Dr. Andrew dealt mainly with the work of the committee on behalf of returning veterans and presented figures on estimates for the second year of operation. It is believed that $1,200 will be needed to finance this project for the next twelve months.

The council has already granted $500 for the committee's work in its first year, on the recommendation of the 1945 council and a similar proposal is being passed on to next year's municipal fathers.

Dr. Andrew stated that the committee would welcome the appointment of a municipal auditor to prepare the annual statement for the Summerland Rehabilitation Committee. The council took no action on this line.

Mr. Johnston quoted Robert Macnicol, provincial command secretary, Canadian Legion, whom he met in Winnipeg while attending the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention last week.

"Summerland's work on behalf of returning veterans is an outstanding example in Canada," Mr. Macnicol was quoted by Mr. Johnston in addressing the council. The Legion man considered Summerland is doing a splendid job for its returned men.

"We should carry on this work so that the vets can continue to get a square deal," was Mr. Johnston's thought to the municipal council.

WESTBANK — Dr. Harding, mayor of Kelowna, on Town, met some of the Westbank school students on Thursday night Oct. 10, and answered questions regarding the Teen Town which the teenagers of Westbank hope to organize. Mrs. Springer, an adult advisor, also present at the meeting, said that the co-operation of everybody is needed if a Teen Town is to be started.

New Head For Health Unit

Being a director of a health unit covering an area of several hundred miles is no easy task for any woman, but Dr. G. Lillian Hutton is probably hoping that the Okanagan's famous fruit will keep the doctor away if people eat "an apple a day."

Dr. Hutton, who succeeds Dr. D. B. Avison as the Okanagan Valley Health Unit's medical health officer, has arrived in Kelowna and officially took over her new duties on Saturday, Oct. 5.

A woman of retiring disposition—she looks around thirty-five or fortyish—Dr. Hutton thinks of Vancouver being more her home than Ontario, where she received her high school and university training.

Since being discharged from the armed forces, she has been stationed in Victoria with the Provincial Department of Health, although her recent appointment was retroactive to September 1 of this year.

Born in Ontario, Dr. Hutton received her early education in that province, later attending the University of Toronto, where she graduated with a degree in medicine in February, 1945. During the next year she interned in the Vancouver General hospital, and the Army Medical Corps, being stationed in Vancouver. She was in the armed forces only a few months, however, as she later accepted a position with the provincial department of health.

She has no major changes in mind, but for the time being will "feel her way around" and visit the various points in the Okanagan.

Miss Laura Pepper, chief of the Consumers' section of the Home Economics branch, Ottawa, who has been surveying researches at the Dominion Experimental Station here left on Sunday for Vancouver. From there she will return to Ottawa by plane.

Mr. Lloyd McMillan is spending several days at Shute Lake.

Swim Classes Report Given Trade Board

Fred W. Schumann received enthusiastic applause from the Summerland Board of Trade monthly meeting last Thursday evening on presenting his report on the trade board annual swim classes, held during the summer. It was evident that this small, but energetic committee's work was much appreciated.

Mr. J. E. O'Mahony introduced the subject of life-saving and to this, Mr. Schumann replied that this phase of water instruction would probably be part of the agenda for next season.

Work of the Red Cross was stressed in providing standard water safety instruction and it is hoped this body will introduce exhibitions of life saving to Summerland in the summer.

"It was a wonderful piece of work," declared Chairman George Perry in commenting on the swim classes report, which was as follows:

REPORT OF BOARD OF TRADE 1946 SWIMMING CLASSE

In late June, a Board of Trade Committee was formed to supervise and conduct Swimming Classes at Powell Beach. This committee was comprised of Len Hill, Mel Ducommun and Fred Schumann.

At a committee meeting, Transportation, Registration, Equipment and Instructors were discussed. It was decided to carry on much the same as in 1945. Forms were printed for registration, these had to be signed by the Parent before a child was enrolled into a class. In the course of the season there was an enrollment of nearly 200.

Transportation was arranged through White and Thornthwaite and Smith and Henry with the buses. Tickets were obtained and 10c was charged per trip for each child to help defray the cost of operating the buses. No further charge was made by the bus companies and the committee feel, that a letter should be sent to White and Thornthwaite and Smith and Henry, thanking them for their kindness and help in seeing that the children arrived at the Beach.

A great deal of work was done on equipment at the beach. Three rafts were built by volunteer labor. Two of these rafts are 8 feet wide and 50 feet long and extend into the lake between piers driven by Mr. Knuff, of Penticton. These rafts are 75 feet apart and a connecting raft 5 feet wide (which has been built), will join these two rafts to form a shallow pool, 50 by 75 feet. It is proposed that two more rafts be built in 1947 and extended to give a deep water pool, also 50 by 75 feet, the two pools then would be in the form of an "H." Aside from the rafts there was a deal of work done on the beach to assist the instructors.

The problem of Instructors became quite serious, and it is felt that more consideration will have to be given to trained instructors for the future. Through the kindness of Miss Lavelle Day, Miss Evelyn Vanderburgh, Miss Inglis and Miss Bernice Elliott, who volunteered to help instruct the girls, the instruction of the girls was fairly well taken care of. Miss Day, Miss Vanderburgh and Mr. Schumann spent three days in Penticton taking an Instructors' course, put on by the Red Cross Society. This course proved very useful throughout the summer in coaching the children in the rudiments of swimming and water safety. Men Instructors were Tim Hill, Harold Guest and Fred Schumann, also mention should be Bernard Taylor, Gordon Beggs and Mel Ducommun, who were a great help with roll call and beach supervision.

The Red Cross Society are sponsoring a water safety and swimming program, which is a real asset to swimming classes. They will help provide equipment and assist in planning classes, also provide examiners to give exams, in three groups, Junior, Intermediate and Senior tests, providing crests and pins to those passing. These tests are standard throughout Canada and the United States.

The 1946 classes we feel were a real success. Joe McLachlan, Francis Stuart, George Perry, and the Packing Houses were a real help throughout the season in helping with material and labor beach equipment.

Recommendations will be handed to the Board at a later date for the 1947 classes as it is felt that a great deal more can be done to make these classes even more successful by further organization and the experience gained this year.

Respectfully submitted,
F. W. SCHUMANN.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. D. Jewell and daughter, Noraan, left on Saturday, Oct. 12, for Vancouver, where they will make their future home.

Red Cross Sets Date For Drive

TORONTO, Oct. 10.—Plans for a $5,000,000 National Red Cross appeal in the month of March, 1947, for its peacetime work throughout Canada, were announced today by Arthur L. Bishop, chairman of the society's national executive committee.

Decision to hold a campaign was made at a recent meeting of the national executive committee, where it was established that a $5,000,000 budget represented an absolute minimum of funds required to finance the program.

In making the announcement, Mr. Bishop stated: "From its great wartime undertakings the Canadian Red Cross society has emerged at the foot of its strength. That strength must not be wasted. A wide programme of service to the people of Canada, embracing many important fields of endeavor, has been planned. These plans can become reality only with the whole-hearted support of the Canadian people. We will be counting on that support when the time comes."

It is planned that the $5,000,000 budget will finance many peacetime services, including a national blood transfusion service, the construction of more outpost hospitals and the maintenance of those already established, aid to veterans, and other services, such as Junior Red Cross, nutrition, first aid, swimming instruction, and disaster relief.

Word has been received of the birth in New Westminster on Oct. 6, of a daughter, Elizabeth Jean, to Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Canning. Mrs. Canning is the former Jean Munn, of Summerland. Mr. Canning is a member of the teaching staff of the Howay school, and they now reside at 690 Graham street, New Westminster.

FARM WORKER WINS BEAUTY CONTEST — Nellie MacGregor (right) of Montreal, has been chosen Miss Western Ontario. She left her office job here early in the summer to work on a farm affiliated with the Ontario Farm Service Corps and she entered the contest, held in Windsor in conjunction with a firemen's field day, as Miss Kingsville. Nellie MacGregor is 19 years old and is five-foot-five. She plans to return to Montreal this fall with her contest awards totalling more than $1,000. She is shown here with Exaltia Gaudette, of Parkview, Ont., the runner-up.

Capacity Crowd Views Styles At Institute Fashion Show

The Women's Institute Fashion Show, held on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 12, in the I.O.O.F. hall, drew a record attendance of about 250 women, many of whom were forced to stand while watching the 23 mannequins model nearly 50 outfits.

The mannequins, all of whom were local girls, or women, entered the attractively decorated hall to the left of the stage, and while they posed there, before proceeding down the aisle to their exit, the fashion highlights of each gown were drawn to the attention of the audience by Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, who acted as fashion commentator.

The Fashion Show was opened by Mrs. M. E. Collas, as acting president of the Women's Institute, and after the show, which lasted almost an hour, refreshments were served.

Gowns and outfits were from local shops, Hill's Ladies' Wear and the Linnea, while shoes to match all outfits, were provided by the Family Shoe Store. Costume jewelry was provided by Hill's Ladies' Wear, while hats and accessories to match all outfits were from both Hill's and the Linnea.

The hall was decorated with seasonal flowers for the affair and music was provided by Mrs. Thelma Nicholson.

Among the several evening gowns modelled was one of black taffeta, modelled by Mrs. R. Spencer, which was fashioned in the off-the-shoulder style, with fitted bodice and full skirt. A cameo necklace and bracelet completed this evening outfit, which was one of the loveliest shown.

Several very attractive suits were shown: a coral rose wool, with a smart pleated shoulder treatment, with black hat and accessories, was modelled by Mrs. L. McMillan, while Nan Thornthwaite modelled a Sue Foster original in green, with a modified military shoulder, nipped-in waist, and black blouse. Hat and accessories were to match.

Mary Trofimenkoff looked very smart in a two-piece bronze wool suit, with a lumberjack jacket, and a cherry-coke plastic bag.

Little Jo-Anne Hill and Daphne Woodford were charming in winter outfits, one in royal blue and the other in the new grape violet shade.

Maureen Peterson modelled a children's suit in hunter's green wool, with a fitted jacket.

A Teen Age model frock which won first prize in a recent fashion show in Montreal, which featured wide tucks at the shoulders, unpressed pleats in the skirt, and a wide belt with natural wood met on Thursday evening.

people, was modelled by Rhoda Ritchie.

Many smart coats, were modelled, including two fur coats, one of which was a sable with box shoulders, modelled by Mrs. Alma Peterson.

Those modelling were Mrs. Short, Mrs. Woodford, Mrs. L. McMillan, Mrs. Marg McAfee, Mrs. H. Borton, Mrs. R. Spencer, Mrs. H. Kuhar, Mrs. Alma Peterson and the Misses Rhoda Ritchie, Noreen Anderburg, Lafella Day, Pat Blacklock, Nan Thornthwaite, Beverley Fleming, Mary Trofimenkoff, Audrey Prior, Carol Graham, Marilyn Wade, Maureen Peterson, Jo-Anne Hill, Daphne Woodford, Jean Johnson and Anne Solly.

Kelowna Wedding Interests Westbank

WESTBANK—A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the United church manse in Kelowna on Saturday, Sept. 28, uniting in marriage Lillian Irene second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fenton, of Westbank, and Leslie Robert Clements, formerly of Toronto.

Given in marriage, by her father, the lovely bride chose a beautiful, suit of Queen's blue with navy accessories. Her corsage was white carnations and maiden hair fern.

Attending the bride was her sister, Miss Betty Fenton, who chose a suit of royal blue with black accessories and a corsage of pink gladioli and fern.

Following the ceremony, the couple left by bus for a honeymoon in the southern part of the valley. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Clements will reside in Westbank for a while and then travel to Toronto where they will make their home.

A "Sadie-Hawkins" party was held in the Westbank school on the evening of Oct. 4. Proceeds will go to the Teen Town which the students hope to organize.

Thousand Labor Placements Here

W. Beattie, labor replacement officer in the Summerland district, informed the trade board on Thursday evening in the Oddfellows' hall that to that date 1,006 placements had been made in the Summerland packing houses, canneries and orchards, through his office of the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labor Service.

This is a big increase of some 240 placements over that of 1945, he declared.

Again Mr. Beattie declared that the grower must provide accommodation for his workers if he is to be assured of help during the harvesting season. Mr. Beattie also stressed the need for some setup where the orchard and plant workers could obtain suitable meals.

His department would assist in providing cooks and financing their employ if the local industry would arrange the necessary setup to feed the men and women who are brought in to the district during the busy season, he stated.

This employment officer stressed the help of similar officers in other Okanagan cities and towns and thanked the press for its assistance.

Before the meeting adjourned, Mr. Beattie was given a hearty vote of commendation for his efforts on behalf of the fruit industry. E. C. Bentley proposing the action.

Mr. George Raich, of Princeton, was a visitor for several days last week at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Newton.

Fifty Attend Board Meeting

An attendance of some fifty members was recorded on Thursday evening when the Summerland Board of Trade held its October meeting, guest speakers being Miss Marian Casselman and her chief, Miss Laura Pepper, of Ottawa, of the Consumers' Section, Marketing Service, Department of Agriculture.

Mr. George Perry, board vice-president, was in charge of the meeting in the absence in Winnipeg of President Reid Johnston. A delightful supper was provided by the local Rebekah lodge.

Letters of thanks for board cooperation were received from T. J. Kane, local ration board officer, Penticton, and from Virginia Wileman, for the board swim classes conducted last summer.

A contribution of ten dollars was ordered sent to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. This brings the total amount contributed to this charity to nearly $265, as the tag day alone brought in a sum of $242.50.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Menzies, of Vancouver, spent a few hours of Sunday, Oct. 13, visiting friends in Westbank.

Need For Reserve Army Is Stressed By B.C.D. Officer

VERNON—Outlining the past, present and future of the Okanagan Valley's "own regiment," Major D. Kinloch, O.C. "A" Squadron, B.C. Dragoons, addressed a luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club recently. He used this means of appealing for understanding and support of the Reserve Army in peacetime.

"The Canadian Army has always relied to a considerable extent on its reserve army," said Maj. Kinloch, "but to keep this functioning in peacetime we sometimes had to endure the epithet, 'Saturday night soldiers' and other remarks not so polite. Yet when war came, reserve army men became the admired leaders of the Canadian Army."

The valley unit was an example of this attitude. In 1908, Messrs. Copley Thompson, Price Ellison and J. E. McKelvie formed an independent "Squadron of Horse," known as B. Squadron Okanagan Mounted Rifles, and later authorized as the 30th B.C. Horse, with headquarters in Vernon. During the Great War, it was amalgamated with an independent squadron from Victoria and became known as the 2nd Canadian Mounted Rifles. They returned from France and Flanders with a brilliant record.

After the war, under Col. Johnston, the name was changed again, to the B.C. Mounted Rifles, non-permanent, Active Militia, and as Maj. Kinloch put it, "managed to carry out considerable training as horsed cavalry in all three of the valley towns (Kelowna, Penticton and Vernon) without the majority of the citizens firing out."

Because the government would not spend the money, the regiment had only the strength of a squadron, uniforms were "so shabby that one was ashamed to be seen in them, and training and tactics were ludicrously out of date. It took us nearly three years of war before we were in any condition to meet the enemy."

When they did go into battle the B. C. Dragoons proved themselves worthy successors to the Canadian Mounted Rifles. They numbered 825 at full strength and suffered 3,000 killed, wounded and missing. They led the 5th Canadian Army Division through the Hitler Line in Italy and later, the Gothic Line and on to Ravenna. They also spearheaded the break-through in the Arnhem sector in Holland.

"I am not boasting," continued Maj. Kinloch, "when I say that in many parts of Canada, England, and the continent, the Okanagan Valley is known because it is the home of the B.C.D.'s, the McIntosh apple having slipped into second place."

Now, the regiment is back to the peacetime, part training system. They are to be given all the assistance possible from the regular army; they are to be given all the equipment they can handle and training facilities are to be improved.

"We all hope that peace endures forever, but we have no assurance that it will, and I feel that we must face the fact that some day we may have to fight again, and if we do, Canada and particularly British Columbia, may be the battle ground," said Maj. Kinloch.

The 9th Reconnaissance Regiment will train as many men as possible in the use of weapons and in the art of reconnaissance, so that they may be prepared for the defence of this district, and eventually of B.C.

"This plan can be a success," said Maj. Kinloch, "only if there are trained men and officers available who are willing to give time, and especially if the reserve is given the maximum support and co-operation from the civilian population."

WILL PROVIDE GRANT

Summerland Board of Trade asked its executive on Thursday standing and present a report for standing and present a report for the November meeting as to the size of grant it is capable of giving to the Summerland Rehabilitation committee. The meeting was in favor of the grant but the amount could not be decided upon.

There are a keen, enthusiastic number of young men joining the regiment, but there is a great need of officers.

"Sometimes I have to implore men to turn out to parades. It seems like saying, 'Stand at ease, please.'"

WOULD SCATTER SEEDS
The idea of planting seeds and shrubs alongside the roads of Summerland, especially along the lakeshore, in order to beautify the area and provide a more attractive scene for the travelling public, was voiced to the Board of Trade at its October meeting by W. M. Wright on Thursday night. This plan will be considered at a later date.

Better Police

agreed that a sub-agency here would probably relieve this necessity to some extent.

"The board of trade asked some time ago that a sub-agency be sought for Summerland and the council said it would look after this question. Do you want to continue to press for this service or do you want to throw it back in the lap of the board of trade?" queried President Johnston.

Mr. Bill Laidlaw, representing the Retail Merchants' Association gave his body's backing to the trade board plea for better policing.

Dealing With Victoria

"We have negotiated with Victoria for a sub-agency but there is nothing fruitful yet," replied Reeve Powell. "We still mean to do everything possible but if we need the assistance of the board of trade we will certainly seek it."

He believed that it would mean a considerable expense to have another policeman here but what is needed more is a policeman to do police work alone.

Mr. Len Hill, Retail Merchants' prexy, pointed out that the trade board and his group are a cross-section of the community, and he believed that these groups want better police protection, "even if it costs more money."

At this point, the delegations were informed that their wishes would be given serious consideration when the new police contract is brought before the council by the B.C. Police, probably within the next month.

Street Lighting

Tied in somewhat with the police question, was the request from these two bodies for better street lighting. Mr. Len Hill was spokesman on this subject and declared that the Retail Merchants had asked that the council's attention be drawn to the "disgraceful state of street lighting" in the West Summerland business section.

At the same time, the merchants are desirous of coming to some arrangement whereby they could keep their window lights on until late evening and have them switched off by some person regularly employed for this purpose.

Such a person could also check doors of business houses, to see that they are locked. "This is the only place I have ever been that didn't have the stores checked nightly and the lights turned off," declared Mr. Hill.

He stated that it did not make any difference to his association if the policeman was instructed to perform this duty or someone was appointed for the job by the council, in co-operation with the retail merchants.

Window Lights

This association has made a canvass of the business section and every merchant had agreed to install window lights with an outside switch if an arrangement for their turning off could be reached.

To these suggestions, Reeve Powell replied that the merchants should first indicate their goodwill by leaving on their store lights.

Some years ago, the council had offered an extremely cheap rate to the merchants if they would leave their lights on all night, but they had turned "thumbs down" on the offer, His Worship pointed out.

Councillor Harvey Wilson suggested that store lights could be left on all night without any more expense than would be involved in the employment of a man to switch them off.

Councillor Eric Tait considered that the streets should be brightened but there must be co-operation shown between the merchants and the council. If the merchants would do their share in keeping their windows lighted, then he felt the council would agree to improving street lighting.

Reeve Powell terminated the discussion with the council thanks to the committees for their presentations. He was of the opinion that some effort should be made to provide better street lighting provided the merchants would show the way by their individual efforts.

FINED IN COURT

Glen McEachern, Robert Bradshaw and Albert Vance appeared in Summerland police court last week, charged with carrying loaded firearms in an automobile, contrary to game act regulations. They were each fined $2 and costs by Magistrate H. Sharman.

CLASSIFY JERSEY HERD

Of interest to local dairymen is the announcement from the department of animal husbandry at the Summerland Experimental Station that Professor H. M. King, head of the animal husbandry department at U.B.C., accompanied by Oliver C. Evans, fieldman for western Canada Jerseymen, will visit the local station on Friday, October 18, to classify officially the Jersey herd. The classification will commence at 8:30 o'clock on Friday.

Vol 1, No. 21. West Summerland, B.C., Thursday, October 24, 1946.

U.S. Maritime Slows Down Export Valley Apples to U.K.

Due to the lack of shipping, caused in the main by the U.S. maritimes strike, car loadings of Okanagan apples have dropped in half in the past week. However, definite commitments on Canadian ships have been received by B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., central sales agency, and there will be a big movement of export apples between now and November 5. One thousand cars will be loaded for export in that period, Roy Boothe, of the sales staff, states.

Canadian demand for apples continues fairly strong and the picture is still bright despite the heavy crop which is being handled. From Kelowna north the McIntosh and Jonathan crop exceeded its estimates from twenty to thirty percent, but in the Summerland area, due to the hail damage and heavy culling therefrom, there will be little change in the estimates as given at 533,000 boxes.

Two Houses Up

B.C. Fruit Shippers and Occidental houses here state that their tonnage will go over estimates by ten to fifteen percent but other packing houses indicate that they will reach estimates only or be under about ten percent.

It is expected in some sources that the interior apple crop will be close to 9,000,000 boxes while more optimistic heads say it will exceed that figure. The revised government estimate issued in September gave the Okanagan crop alone at 7,430,210 boxes, but it will certainly be well into the 8,000,000 class, while the rest of the interior may bring the grand total to 9,000,000.

Last year the crop totalled 5,262,338 boxes in the Okanagan, while the previous record yield was in 1944, with a production of 8,013,558 boxes.

Box Problem Eased

In the Summerland district the box shortage is nearly over for the season and all the crop will be boxed when it is picked. Some of the growers will be through harvesting by this week and practically all growers will have finished picking by October 31. Only one house has been short of boxes in the past week.

Another week may elapse before all the apples are under a roof and free from frost danger. Milder weather in the past few days has alleviated the danger of frost damaging the remainder of the crop and if this weather continues boxes will be available for all the crop in the orchards and all the fruit will be under cover undamaged.

On Monday, the Kelowna Courier issued a statement that between 12,000 and 14,000 boxes of McIntosh apples will be left on the trees of one grower alone because of the box shortage.

This statement has been refuted by responsible officials in Kelowna in conversation with The Review last night. They state that the box shoox situation is not perfect yet but there is no reason for any such quantity of fruit being left on the trees because of the shortage of boxes.

The nail and wire shortage is also at an end in this locality, the latter being relieved by the efforts of L. R. Stephens, box shoox committee secretary, who located a supply of wire and distributed it to Okanagan houses last week.

Kelowna Worse

Kelowna district is hit worse by the box shoox situation than Summerland, it is conceded, as the McIntosh and Jonathan crops exceeded the estimates by a large degree. Winesaps are the only variety in the valley which will not come up to estimates.

The strike last spring created most of the shoox shortage and has caused great inconvenience, especially in the Kelowna area, but it is anticipated that all the crop will be cared for, although later than is normally the case.

Packing houses in Summerland will be operating full shifts into January in order to dispose of the crop, local managers state. This will provide an extra payroll for the community which will be greater than normal seasons, it is expected.

Canneries Close

Canneries are now slowing down but the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Cannery expects to continue operations until the end of the first week of November, with a crew of 70 to 80 being employed.

Milne's cannery closed operations last week-end, while Barkwill's cannery expected to close last night.

Most of the female employees of these canneries will be taken into the packing houses, it is expected and will help relieve the shortage of help which has been experienced this season.

Although some orchardists have been hard-pressed for labor at times, through the efforts of the labor office here their demands have practically all been met with despatch, it is stated.

ORTHODOX RUSSIAN CHURCH IS TOPIC

Rev. H. R. Whitmore, as guest speaker at the Fall Thankoffering meeting of St. Andrew's Federation, in St. Andrew's hall on Wednesday, Oct. 23, gave an inspiring and enlightening message on the orthodox church in Russia, from the early 900's until 1914, when the Russian people began to recognize the Christian church and the benefits derived therefrom.

Mrs. S. A. MacDonald, president, was in the chair, while Mrs. L. Pudge rendered a lovely solo. Tea and a social hour concluded the meeting.

Entire Home Is Lost In Early Morning Fire

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Guest and their small child were left homeless early Sunday morning, October 20, when a blaze of undetermined origin destroyed their home on Shaughnessy avenue, Summerland, next to White and Thornthwaite's garage.

The entire house and all furnishings, and personal clothing belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Guest were completely destroyed. It is believed that defective wiring may have caused the blaze.

The fire alarm sounded here at 3 o'clock Sunday morning and in a short time nine out of the ten fire fighters from the brigade responded to the call. Two streams of water were pumped from the lake to contain the blaze but it had obtained too much of a start to save any portion.

Sheets of flame were issuing from the windows when the fire brigade arrived on the scene.

Mr. and Mrs. Guest and their child were visiting friends and were just leaving their home when the alarm sounded. Mr. Guest, on his arrival, endeavored to save some of their property and valuables, but the intense heat and smoke drove him from the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Guest had offered the house for sale last week at $3500, while they valued their furnishings at a minimum of $1,000. Only a portion of this loss was covered by insurance.

They had obtained a small house in Kelowna and had planned to move there in the near future. Mr. Guest owned and operated the grocery store in lower town now known as Faser's Grocery; he having sold it a short time ago.

Mr. Guest is a veteran of World War II.

Friends and other well-meaning citizens instituted a benefit fund on behalf of the luckless family and donations of clothing, furnishings and monetary gifts have been left this week at Butler and Walden's and White and Thornthwaite's, as well as the local packing houses.

Tow Line For Ski Club Is Big Project

With prospects for a busy season ahead and plenty of winter sport, the Crystal Ski Runners, Summerland's ski club, held their annual meeting recently and elected Don Agur as the president for the coming year.

Completion of the new ski cabin and installation of a tow cable, 900 feet in length, are two of the main projects before the club this winter and an ambitious program has been arranged.

When the cabin is finished and the cable in place, the Ski Runners anticipate they will have one of the best winter sports on record here.

Bill Snow has been chosen as vice-president, with Miss Gwen Atkinson as secretary and Bill Laidlaw treasurer.

Walter Powell has been selected to head the tow committee, which is composed of most of the older members of the club, while the cabin committee chairman is Bill Snow. Assistance of the A.O.T.S. is anticipated to help finish the cabin, the annual meeting was told.

Finish Foundations

Last Sunday an enthusiastic group of volunteers formed a work party and finished the cabin foundations, besides doing considerable work on clearing stumps and rocks from the downhill run.

All the materials, with the exception of some nails, are available for an early completion of the cabin, if sufficient help from club members can be obtained on these work parties.

At the annual session a vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Findlay Munro, who has provided property for the ski hill and cabin site. Hill captain this year is Phil Munro, who will direct progress of the skiers.

Big Public Meeting on Memorial Park Project Planned For Nov. 1st

Definite plans for a big public meeting have been laid by the Summerland Memorial Parks Committee to hear the proposal to erect two memorial parks in Summerland in honor of those who served in the two world wars. This public meeting will be held at the Oddfellows hall, on Friday evening, November 1st.

Councillor F. E. Atkinson, chairman of the memorial parks group, will preside over this meeting, which is being called to ascertain the public's wishes in regards to these park projects.

It is planned by the committee to build a park-playground on the board of trade property where the baseball games have been held this summer, while an athletic field is being proposed for the Drake lot, one mile from the centre of the business section in West Summerland.

Estimated Cost
These two projects, plus necessary maintenance until they have been completed, are estimated at a cost of nearly $25,000. It is the committee's plan to raise this sum of money by voluntary subscription, provided the public meeting gives the necessary support.

A great deal of work has been accomplished by the sub-committees and complete plans, plus estimated costs, are available for presentation to the public session.

If public acclaim for the proposal is received, canvassers will be appointed for thirteen districts covering the municipality. A drive to raise the necessary funds will be instituted between November 11 and 30, it is agreed.

Last Friday evening, Mr. Ed Butler was appointed treasurer for the campaign. He also acts as chairman of the finance committee.

Owing to pressure of business, Lorne G. Perry has been forced to proffer his resignation as committee secretary. His successor has still to be appointed.

The finance committee, with the addition of S. A. MacDonald and Alf McLachlan will appoint the canvassers for the districts.

Short Drive
Once public approval to the plan has been given it is hoped that the drive will be a short one and that the entire district can be canvassed by the end of November so that it will not be dragged out as has happened in other communities in the Okanagan.

These park projects will be erected as a Living Memorial from Summerland residents to war veterans, both those who did not come back and those who were fortunate enough to have served their country and returned to civilian life in both wars.

INCREASED GRANT

To offset the increasing cost of maintenance, the B.C. government is to be asked to increase the grants to interior hospitals, the Okanagan regional council of the B.C. Hospitals Association agreed unanimously at Kelowna last week. The grant of 70 cents per patient day has remained the same for 13 years.

Secretary J. E. O'Mahony, Board Member Mrs. F. E. Atkinson and Matron F. Huenichen attended this session from Summerland.

SURPRISE PARTY AT TROUT CREEK

On Wednesday, October 16, a surprise party was held at the Trout Creek home of Mr. Cliff Hall, honoring the birthdays of Mrs. Ada Milne, Mrs. John Embree and Mr. Mark Embree. The program consisted of games, contests, recitations and music.

After the program, a dainty lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Mark Embree and Mrs. W. Milne. The table was centered with a prettily-iced birthday cake. Twenty guests were present for this festive occasion.

J. H. Bowering Retires Oct. 31 From Post Office

Nearly thirty years of service in West Summerland as postmaster, will come to an end on Thursday next, Oct. 31, when J. H. Bowering's resignation from this post which he has held since January 1, 1918, will be effective.

Mr. Ross McLachlan has been informed by the postal authorities in Vancouver that he will be sworn in as acting postmaster to replace Mr. Bowering until a permanent successor is named.

The civil service commission has posted advertisement in the community this week, asking for applications for the position of postmaster here. The position is open only to patrons of West Summerland post office and it is understood that Mr. McLachlan is considered the likely successor to Mr. Bowering.

Previous to 1918, Mr. Bowering worked in post office circles here as an assistant to the late James Ritchie, Sr., West Summerland's first postmaster. In 1918, he took over from J. E. Phinney, now a resident of Penticton.

The first post office was located in the building now occupied by J. A. Read, and later was moved to the building at present housing Verrier's Meat Market. Then for 13 years, the post office was located in the I.O.O.F. hall building.

The present post office building was acquired by Mr. Bowering in 1920 and he moved the post office there that year. Seven years ago, he built the adjoining apartments.

Ill health has caused the retirement of Mr. Bowering from his position. He has been crippled for some time and last May he tendered his resignation, feeling that a younger man back from war service could now be found to take his place.

The war period created a terrible burden on the already-taxed post office facilities here, as there were many extra duties, such as sale of war savings stamps, registration of enemy aliens, and many other similar tasks which are required now.

Erosion Created by Flow of Water Cause of Grave Concern Here

No definite clue as to the source of the steady flow of water emanating from the base of the cliff below Councillor Harvey Wilson's orchard has yet been found, although various engineers have investigated this mysterious body. There has been no abatement of flow since the stream first gushed forth early Sunday morning, October 13. Five different tests were made by Water Foreman E. Kercher and others on Prairie Creek but there has been no sign that there is any decrease in the flow of that creek, indicating that this is not the source.

Puzzles Experts

The mystery is still puzzling experts throughout the Okanagan but most water officials agree that it is hardly likely that it comes from a large pocket of irrigation drainage trapped for years in the cliffs under the orchard lands.

It is now thought by most persons that the water must be emanating from a creek farther back in the hill formation and has been brought out from its present location by a shift in rock and dirt formation. Another alternative is that a new spring has developed in the cliffs and has suddenly come to life.

C. C. Kelley, soil survey expert, Kelowna, has been investigating this week and has expressed the opinion that the government should provide a conservation fund to take care of a situation of this nature.

No such fund is available now and unless the flow can be stopped the erosion will continue at a rapid rate with disastrous results not only to orchard lands in the vicinity but also to existing roadways.

Loses Fruit Trees

Already several of Councillor Wilson's fruit trees have toppled over the edge as the cliffside recedes. A large number of other trees are in imminent danger of being destroyed with the crumbling clay.

It has been estimated that 1,000 cubic yards of clay are being dislodged daily and are being swirled away in the muddy stream.

The rate of flow of water has been estimated at 1,000 to 1,500 gallons per minute and there has been no decrease in this amount for the past twelve days.

Could Stop Erosion

Mr. Hodgson, manager of the Oliver project and an engineer with wide experience in erosion work, investigated the situation yesterday. He states that by tunnelling the erosion of the cliffside could be stopped, but it would require expensive machinery and would be a terrific undertaking. The Review has been informed. There is a possibility that unless this erosion is stopped, or unless the source of the water supply can be found and diverted, a huge gully which might reach clear back to Giant's Head road could be created.

Such a possibility endangers the municipal road system in this section of the orchard lands of Summerland.

Both D. K. Penfold and Alex Marshall of the Water Rights branch, Kelowna, are at the coast but attempts are being made to have one of these officials return here to report on this unique situation.

Co-operation of the lands department of the B.C. Government is being sought in this connection.

Hallowe'en Handout Is School Plan

S. A. MacDonald, principal of the elementary school, has announced this week that plans for Hallowe'en will take much the same form as in the past two years.

Those persons who do not wish to hand out candles, or similar trappings this Hallowe'en can give the youngsters who make their call, prizes of money.

This money will be used for a two-fold purpose this year, part to the school sports fund and secondly to the proposed Summerland Memorial Park, Committee fund.

Each youngster who taps on the door in his or her district this Hallowe'en will have tickets valued at one cent. For each cent donated by the householder, the youngster is to hand over a ticket.

Three prizes for each grade in the school, from Grade 4 up, will be presented to the youngster who turns in the most money prizes, Mr. MacDonald states.

In past years, the Hallowe'en funds have been handled with the co-operation of the Kinsmen's Club shell-out campaign but this season the school has decided to handle the project on its own.

Irrigation Rate Payments In Excess Of '46

Despite an increase in rate of approximately ten percent this year, irrigation levies collected at the municipal office up to October 15 showed a decided boost over collections for the entire year of 1945, it was announced this week by Gordon Smith, collector.

On a levy of $44,328.58, the municipal irrigation rate collections up to mid-month amounted to 97.175 percent or $43,073.52.

For the entire year of 1945, the collections of irrigation rates, on a total levy of less than $40,000, amounted to 95.7 percent.

Present irrigation rates range from $18 for one acre to $12 for eight acres, on a sliding scale.

Usually irrigation rate collections are less than tax collections, but this year proved an exception as the tax collections amounted to 96.4 percent, as was announced in last week's issue of The Review.

Labor Office Will Be Closed Here Next Week

William Beattie, in charge of the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labor Service, confirmed to The Review last night that the labor office here would be closed on Thursday, October 31, as was previously intimated.

As practically all the crop will have been harvested by that time, and additional labor from the orchard, will be going into the packing houses, where required, there is no necessity of keeping the office going longer. Mr. Beattie states.

W. McGillivray, B.C. director of the service, visited Summerland this week and confirmed Mr. Beattie's appointment in charge of the office for the 1947 season. This is expected to be the last season this service will be offered the growers by the two governments.

The coast official also stated that next year there will be no provision for cooks or for transportation of labor to and from the orchards, as has been the case in the larger centres during the past season.

A grant was provided by the governments to provide cooks and transportation for orchard help but this will cease and will not be renewed another season, stated Mr. McGillivray.

Orchardists will have to help themselves more in future, both in organizing to provide communal meals for their help but also in providing proper accommodation for the workers on the orchards, Mr. McGillivray intimated while here.

Night School Is In Operation

Night school classes in photography and automobile mechanics got under way at the high school on Wednesday of this week. There was a good turn-out of citizens to commence the courses of instruction which are offered under the sponsorship of the school board. The courses, which will likely continue until the end of March, are under the able guidance of local instructors. Mr. Leslie Gould is giving the course in automobile mechanics, and the course in photography is being given under the joint supervision of Mr. H. H. Robson and Mr. W. Clark Wilkin.

There has been a last-minute rush of applications for a course in woodwork. This has brought the number up to the minimum of 15 required to start a course. Woodwork, therefore, will be on the programme starting Wednesday, October 30.

EDITORIAL

Rationing And Restrictions

G. R. Matthews, Canadian Retail Merchants' Association secretary sounded a word of warning to both consumers and retailers when he gave as his personal opinion in Summerland recently that most of the restrictions on consumer goods would be lifted by the end of next March.

When Canadian consumers look south across the international border line and see the havoc created there with the lifting of ceilings and restrictions and the high points to which prices are soaring, they are thankful that the government has seen fit to continue restrictions in this country longer than many thought possible.

People in business are sick and tired of government intervention and regulations. But they realize that it is for the common good that these are enforced. And most fair-minded persons who are content with a reasonable profit agree that these restrictions have been necessary.

Although the war is over, the economic war has just begun. The government has been faced with labor's attempts to raise its take-home pay to a level near that enjoyed when war production plants were operating on full schedules and it was not a necessity to produce goods for war use at a low cost.

At the same time, the thousands of other wage and salary earners, not in the ranks of organized labor, would have to pay the penalty if consumer goods costs were allowed to soar to meet the increased demands of labor.

Thus, to keep production of any kind going, the government has been forced to meet some of labor's demands, and to keep the main body of consumers in line restrictions on price ceilings have had to be maintained.

It will be a sorry day for Canada if the main bulk of price ceilings are lifted before production regains a more or less normal level. As in the United States, prices will skyrocket and consumer goods will go away beyond the reach of the average wage earner.

Regardless of how much we dislike government intervention in free enterprise, until we have regained some portion of our production levels in this country so that the law of supply and demand will force reasonable price controls, the government must continue to maintain ceilings.

Once manufacturers have begun to turn out the consumer needs in sufficient quantity the law of supply and demand will regulate the price structure.

And one more danger will then be to the fore—that of over-production. Mr. Matthews also warned that when industrialists can obtain sufficient labor they will be able to mass produce in the same manner as they geared themselves in wartime.

By attempting to export a large part of Canada's production at present, when domestic needs cry out for more products at home, Canada is pursuing a far-sighted policy. When the time comes that mass production is reached, those markets in far countries which are being built up now will be the saving grace of Canada's economic system.

Continuance and growth of those export markets will then mean the difference between continuing prosperity or a drop back into a depression similar to that experienced in the 1930's, or worse, if that is possible.

A Christian Spirit

To those critics of this community who have been complaining that the old comradeship spirit is dying out with the increasing growth in population, comes the ready response this week to the efforts to help an unfortunate young family who lost all their belongings in a fire.

Early Sunday morning, the house of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Guest was gutted and they lost all their possessions. It mattered not that this young couple was not widely known here nor that they had been planning to leave shortly to make their home in Kelowna.

By Monday, a spontaneous campaign was started and subscription lists, opened at Buller and Walden's and White and Thornthwaite's and also in the packing houses. Not only have monetary contributions been coming in, but generous citizens have been giving bedding and articles of wearing apparel and furniture.

This campaign will run until next Monday, when it is expected a generous neighborhood will have shown its spirit by assisting those who were in need of help, having lost all their possessions.

Mr. and Mrs. Guest will be leaving Summerland shortly for their new home in Kelowna, but we guarantee that this manifestation of the proper Christian spirit will endear this community to them for the rest of their lives.

THE Feminine Front

Muriel Hurry

The harvest season in the valley is drawing to a close. The fruit crops are nearly all picked, garden produce is in, and canning is finished for another year.

The crops in this first post-war year have been abundant, and with the return of almost all our boys and girls from war duties, there are many thankful hearts in the district.

It has always seemed to me that, even with so many blessings to make us happy and thankful, we Canadians are inclined to be a morbid people. Or perhaps it is just human nature in general. We are more apt to count our troubles than our blessings. And troubles are generally what we make of them. We will dwell upon and brood over small, inconsequential irritations until they are magnified out of all proportion. Worry does nothing but increase trouble, which should be attacked as a knotty problem, and as such, unravelled.

As a people, we are too liable to forfeit our happiness, because we are too engrossed with our worries. Worrying is a habit which grows to obsess a person, and is very difficult to break. A great many people actually enjoy worrying, although they would deny it vehemently if accused of it. However, as soon as one worry has erased itself, these worriers always seem to be able to find another irritation to concentrate upon.

If people would put half the energy and concentration that is wasted on worthless worries into more useful channels, we could be a happier and healthier race.

We are living now on the threshold of a new and wonderful era. The dark war years are past and, although there are many lessons learned from them, that we should not forget, there is a bright and happy future ahead, and we should strive to make the coming years as happy and fruitful as we can, and it is in our power to do so, if we can put aside the little distractions and selfish worries, and work together for a freer and better world, where class hatred and intolerance, listed among the greatest causes of war, are things of the past.

The current shortage of soap is a great problem to the women of Summerland. There are no really good soap substitutes and with a family of small children, it is very difficult to manage.

As a partial solution to my own problems, I have stretched washdays farther apart, cut the amount of soap used in half, and added a few spoonfuls of a prepared ammonia, which softens the water and stretches the amount of soap necessary. In dishwashing, I have cut out the use of soap altogether, and just use the ammonia, while all woollens are now washed in Woolfoam. Bon Ami, or similar products can be used for a myriad of the cleaning jobs that soap was often used for, such as woodwork, sinks, baths, stoves and pots and pans. In washing floors, a little lysol in the water, plus a very little soap, will clean them spic and span.

The Country Editor - - -

(By LESLIE C. WAY, Publisher, "The Canadian Weekly Editor"—in an address to the Advertising and Sales Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade.)

"THE COUNTRY EDITOR." What does he mean to you and me? What does the Country Editor mean to British Columbia? What does he mean to Canada.

In attempting to answer these questions, I do hope that what I have to say will cause you to appreciate the tremendous influence and importance of the men who publish and edit our weekly newspapers. I hope that you will go back to your offices this afternoon with a little better understanding of just why the Country Editor does mean a great deal to YOUR businesses—to YOUR city—to your Province, and to the nation at large.

Let me quote the remarks of a Saturday Evening Post editor who says that if he wishes to gain first hand knowledge of what people are thinking or doing, he turns to the weekly press . . . again, the editor of the Regina Leader-Post had this to say: "People who do business throughout the province and men occupying public positions, would do well to pay closer attention to what they read in the weekly newspapers. Grass roots knowledge is a mighty valuable thing to have . . ."

Our own Premier, Hon. John Hart, told me last year that he reads the weeklies of B.C. in order to learn how and what the people of the country are thinking and doing.

You know, big city politicians do a lot of prating about democracy, but the men who are really doing something about it are the country editors. For the Country Editor deals in fundamentals . . . he knows what he's writing about because of his very personal and intimate touch with the grass roots people and the grass roots problems of his community and the country.

Big city newspapermen . . . labor under an illusion about the life of a Country Editor. I've had them say to me, "You weekly editors sure lead a soft life. All you do is get out a paper on Thursday and then go fishing the rest of the week . . ." It all sounds very nice, but, brother, it's just a wild dream. Far from having a soft life, the Country Editor is just about the longest and hardest working man in this country. He works long and hard not only for the good of his own business, but for the good of his community, for the good of his province and for the good of Canada.

You'd understand more readily what I mean if you were to go out and spend a day or a week on a country newspaper. You'd soon find that the Country Editor's day is filled from early morning till late at night with the many and varied problems of his community. For instance, he starts out to the shop on Monday morning figuring he has a clear day ahead of him . . . and just as he settles down to business, the phone rings. Maybe it's the town clerk, or the board of trade secretary, or the secretary of some other local organization. The editor can't skip the meeting because he's usually the most important man there . . . I could tell you of one actual case where the local editor was chairman of 13 community organizations at one and the same time. He's that obliging chap they refer to when they say, "Let George Do It"—and, for some unknown reason, poor George does it.

His busy day goes on throughout the week right up to Saturday night. I almost forgot—somehow during the week he manages to find the time to get out his paper and manage his business.

For some unknown reason the Country Editor is looked upon as a source of information and advice for the whole community. Actually, he has to be an Emily Post, a Father Confessor, and a Dorothy Dix all in one.

It might interest you to know that there are 61 weekly newspapers in B.C., compared with only 9 dailies. And I'm proud to say that B.C. weeklies are recognized as the most progressive in Canada. For several years they've won the lion's share of awards in the annual competitions across Canada, sponsored by their national association (Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association). This year, our B.C. weeklies led the field in the whole Dominion. I think you'll agree that this record is one of which British Columbians may well feel proud.

We need to be reminded that out there beyond the confines of our city—out there at the crossroads of our country—in the small towns and villages—live 52% of B.C.'s population. Too often, except of course, at election time, we forget that there in the Fraser Valley, in the Kootenays, in the Okanagan, in the north country, on Vancouver Island, and up the coast . . . there are hundreds of thousands of living human beings whose accumulated purchases keep the wheels of industry—YOUR industry, gentlemen—turning in the city.

This fact is all the more apparent when we look at the national scene. Did you ever stop to realize where Canada's population lives? According to the last Dominion census, out of Canada's total population of 12 million people (in round figures), only 5 million live in the cities of over 10,000 population. The remaining 7 million—or 62 per cent of the total population of Canada—live in the small towns served by Canada's 800-odd weekly newspapers.

These are the people who buy the goods you manufacture or distribute. These are the grass roots people who buy your goods to the tune of nearly 2 billion dollars a year. These are the people who help so much to make a big city. Too often do we forget this, too. I cite these figures just to emphasize that the country newspaper is an important institution in the lives of over 7 million Canadians. These millions of Canadians depend upon their hometown paper, not only for the news of their community and for advertising news, but they depend upon their local paper for the country editor's guidance on important local and national issues.

Their community paper is something that LIVES with them throughout the week. And while they may disagree with their editor's opinions, to them their local paper is gospel . . . which brings to mind the story of the bachelor editor who lived at a boarding house. One morning at breakfast his landlady argued with him that the weather had not been conducive to a good potato crop. The editor differed; he argued that all indications pointed to a bumper crop. That day he ran a story in his paper predicting that a bumper potato crop would be harvested. When he sat down to dinner that evening, his landlady apologized to him—when he asked, "Why are you apologizing to me?" she replied, "I'm sorry I was so stubborn this morning; I was wrong. I see in the paper that we'll have a bumper crop . . ."

Unlike his brothers of the city press, the Country Editor deals with his readers in a very personal way . . . and that explains the tremendous influence and force of the country press in the life of our nation. The Country Editor is a human being who writes about men, women, children, and things that he knows. He shares the confidence of his readers and he believes that the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule have neither been repealed, improved upon nor modified by modern advances. Country newspapers do not succumb to false aims. The Country Editor, because of his close and personal touch with the grass roots people and their problems, is human enough to share in the beliefs of his readers in constitutional government. He's a man who feels that this country needs only ONEism . . . and that is good old true Canadianism. The mass hysterias which sometimes excite and mislead city people, fade into mildness before the calm common sense of the countryside. And amid all this calm and reasoned thinking, our friend the Country Editor stands out as the guiding influence.

Sure, I'll admit that weekly newspapers make mistakes but this only supports the point I have been trying to make—that the country editors are very human. Doctors, you know, make mistakes, too—but they bury theirs. The poor old editor has to parade his mistakes in public where all can see them.

Why does he do it? Well, I like to think it's the knowledge that he's doing something real and useful for his fellow-men . . . the knowledge that he is building his community and his country . . . and is contributing his part to upholding our free and democratic way of life.

For just as long as there is in Canada a free press . . . the hometown country editor will continue to express the true voice of the people. And by speaking their thoughts and hopes through the medium of his weekly newspaper—in a thousand communities from coast to coast—he will express their aspirations for a finer, more united and a more Canadian Canada. I leave this thought with you . . . we of the city can take a leaf from the country editor's notebook. Like the country editor, we, too, must start to think . . . and to ACT . . . in FUNDAMENTAL, GRASS ROOTS terms . . . if we are going to build that better, that finer and that more United Canada for our children and our children's children.

THANKS FOR SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Joan Bennett winner of the first Summerland Scholarship award of $250, wrote the municipal council last week, expressing her thanks to the council and those who contributed to the scholarship fund. She expressed her pleasure at being a student at U.B.C., which is a "wonderful life."

Need Garbage Receptacles

According to a report from H. W. Black, sanitary inspector, as from Oct. 1, every residence and place of business in West Summerland in and near to the main centre of community life, must have proper garbage containers installed.

These garbage containers must be mounted on four-foot stands and have proper fly-proof covers. From residences, contents of the garbage containers must be removed every two weeks, restaurants must have their cans emptied twice a week and garages once a week, his report stated.

The council was in the dark as to any further regulations who would install these containers, or who would undertake the regular trips to empty them and dispose of the contents.

POWELL BEACH WAS POPULAR THIS YEAR

Magnus Tait, who was appointed by the council as caretaker of Powell Beach, reported to that body last week that the improvements to bathing facilities had been appreciated by the public this year. He noted that a large number of out-of-town persons had taken advantage of the beach area there and had returned on several occasions.

Co-operation of dog owners, once they were informed that canines were becoming a nuisance, was much appreciated by Mr. Tait, his report stated.

The council has asked Mr. Tait to see that all movable articles on Powell Beach are stored for the winter months.

Smile, Please!

HON. PAUL MARTIN, Canadian Secretary of state, head of the Dominion's delegation to the United Nations Economic and Social Council, in session at Lake Success, New York, poses for the official photographer immediately before the session opened. The Canadian delegation is expected to take an important part in many of the questions which are scheduled to come before the council.

WANT ROAD IMPROVED

Hilda M. Lloyd and other nearby residents sought council action last week for improvement of the Pleasant Valley road before winter sets in. This letter was referred to Roads Foreman Les Gould for attention.

LEASE CANCELLED

Formal cancellation of the lease held on municipal property by Sunoka interests here was given at last week's council session. This paves the way for purchase of the land by Consolidated Enterprises Ltd., Vancouver, on behalf of the Sunoka company.

LENGTHY COUNCIL SESSION

Accounts totalling $10,961 were passed for payment by the council on Tuesday, Oct. 15. This was a lengthy session which did not terminate until after 6.30 o'clock, having commenced at 2 o'clock that afternoon.

BILLED FOR DAMAGES

On August 23, a truck belonging to F. H. Bassett, Penticton, went into a drainage ditch in Peach Valley and in attempting to get on to the road so damaged a water pipe that it had to be replaced. The council rendered an account for $30 to the Bassett firm, but the insurance company of Caperley, Rounsfell & Co., has formally stated it could not acknowledge this claim. The council on Tuesday, Oct. 15, decided to inform the insurance firm of the complete details as it did not believe the Vancouver outfit had been given correct facts of the claim.

Mrs. John S. Ritchie, celebrated her 80th birthday at her home here recently. For the occasion she was visited by her brother, Mr. Peter Ronald, and his wife, of Seattle; also Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Smart, also of Seattle.

ASSUMES RESPONSIBILITY

W. Arnett has reopened the question of the municipality cutting down three trees which he claims are doing damage to fruit trees and vegetables on property belonging to Mrs. Arnett. He offered to assume responsibility for any damage caused to his fruit trees in the felling of the elms, so the council has agreed to reconsider this job. Disposal of the trees after felling is the only holdup in the accomplishment of this work now, it was stated.

THANKS MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

The Canadian Legion has thanked the council for its co-operation in having a portion of the street closed for the annual carnival, held on a Saturday night and which proved so successful.

TRADE BOARD GRANT

Alf. McLachlan, on behalf of the Summerland Board of Trade, sought council assistance on Tuesday, Oct. 15, in the matter of taxes on the board property, site of the proposed park-playground, and the bill rendered the board from the municipality for electric light poles used in construction of swim rafts at Powell Beach. The council authorized a grant to the board equal to these amounts, which totalled more than $40.

WANTS TO BUY LOT

The municipal council informed C. T. Alexander on Tuesday, Oct. 15, that it would consider his application for a lot on the south Prairie Valley road, above Mrs. Hermiston's property, and inform him later the sale price and if the council would agree to dispose of this land.

WILL CUT TREES

Walter Gould was granted council permission on Oct. 15 to cut and haul wood from trees killed by the Prairie Valley fire in August, near the reservoir. Mr. Gould will pay the council 75 cents per cord for this wood, but he must make sure that his activities do not interfere with the water supply in any way.

UNDERTAKE FALL WORK

Water Foreman E. Kercher was given council permission on Tuesday of last week to proceed with a plan of clearing the trail to Trout Creek headquarters, investigate the flume en route for any necessary repairs and also to repair the spillway dam at Thirst, which was reported some time ago as having shown signs of a leakage.

BUY BURNER CONTROL

On Tuesday, Oct. 15, the municipal council agreed to purchase from Woodward's Ltd., in Vancouver, a thermostatic control for the sawdust burner in the police office, at a cost of $24.95.

Mr. Edward Walton has purchased the home formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. D. Jewell, and will move there in the near future.

Women's Institute Hears Talk On Work For Blind

J. C. Hembling brought a message from the Canadian National Institute for the Blind to the monthly meeting of the Women's Institute, held on Oct. 11, in the Parish hall, with an attendance of 22 members and guests. Mrs. M. E. Collas presided.

Samples of the work done by blind people were displayed at this meeting by Mr. Hembling, who was accompanied by a totally blind teacher, Miss Horn. The latter demonstrated the Braille system of communication and working among the blind. The talks proved extremely interesting to the W.I. personnel.

The meeting was informed that through W.I. efforts, $242.50 had been raised at the tag day for the blind, held earlier in the month. On behalf of the blind institute, W. P. Ogilvy wrote a letter to the W.I. for its efforts on this tag day, and expressed the hope the Institute would carry on another year.

Ten boxes of apples had been donated for the Solarium and were awaiting shipment, the meeting was informed.

L. H. Hill, Summerland Board of Trade secretary, wrote the Institute expressing thanks for the help in distributing Ration Book No. 6.

Special note was taken of the W.I. Bulletin, which asked that an allocation of thirty cents per member be made for the Memorial fund. The local W.I. acceded to this request and moved that $7.50 be forwarded to the provincial secretary, Mrs. Calder.

Mrs. H. R. McLarty reported visiting the Local Ration Board at Penticton only to find that sugar coupons for organizations have been cancelled. The collecting of spare meat coupons is welcomed by the Institute. These are to be turned in to Mrs. McCutcheon, who will forward them to the Ration Board.

Mrs. Magnus Tait thanked the members for the book and card sent to her as a remembrance.

JOHN H. JAMES FUNERAL FRIDAY

A native of Gloucestershire, Eng. John Herbert James, aged 69, passed away here on Monday afternoon, Oct. 21, after a month's illness. Funeral service will be from the Church of God, Trout Creek, on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the Peach Orchard cemetery.

Born in England, the late Mr. James came to Saskatchewan in 1912 and took up farming until three years ago when he moved with his family to Trout Creek, Summerland.

Besides his wife, the late Mr. James leaves three daughters, Mrs. D. Younghusband and Irene, in Summerland and Mrs. T. Clarke, Melford, Sask.; and seven brothers, C. W. James, Summerland, two brothers in Vancouver, one in Alberta, two in England and one in Africa.

Concert Proves Educational

Music lover of Summerland had an opportunity of hearing two exceptionally-talented artists on Friday, Oct. 18, at the concert given in the I.O.O.F. hall by Daphne Carapata, violin, and Beth Morrison, piano.

Unfortunately, the capacity of the hall is limited but what it lacked in numbers the audience more than made up for in appreciation. An interesting feature was the number of children present, who listened with evident enjoyment to the masterly interpretations of classical numbers.

The program included excerpts from Handel, Sonata in E; the Allegro, Andante, Rondo, from Symphony Espagnole, Lalo; Sicilienne, Bach; Caprice No. 13; Pagannini-Liszt; a beautiful He-brew melody by Bazzini; piano numbers, three Chopin pieces, Rhapsody in G Min. Brahms; Spinning Song, Wagner-Liszt; Irish Lullaby, Barron; Passepied, Delibes; Impromptu, Arensky; Scherzo, Tsejaikowsky.

As encore numbers the violinist gave The Flight of the Bumblebee, Rimsky Korsakoff; Ave Maria, Schubert; while the pianist gave On Wings of Song, Mendelssohn, and Spanish Dance.

The concert will stand out as one of the highlights in musical circles here. The hope was expressed in several quarters that somewhere in the not too distant future, Summerland may possess a hall worthy to accommodate concerts of this class. Contrib...

TRY TO IMPROVE CORNER AT SCHOOL

Council action is to be undertaken on the road condition near the Summerland schools. Recently, shale was placed at this corner, just off the hard surfacing, but this has been spread by cars over the black top and will have to be removed, it was stated on Tuesday.

Councillor F. E. Atkinson was entrusted to confer with Roads Foreman Les Gould and plan a drainage bed which, it is hoped, will alleviate the water condition at this corner after every rain.

CELEBRATE THEIR 55th ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. E. Q. Atkinson, of Penticton, prominent pioneers of the south Okanagan, celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary on Thursday, Oct. 3. A dinner was held at the family residence for the 12 immediate members of the family, and during the evening, many old friends of the family paid their respects to Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson were married in Vancouver on October 3, 1891, and came to Penticton in April, 1907. Mr. Atkinson came to Penticton from Okanagan Landing on the old "Aberdeen," and is the only surviving original pioneer who first broke the soil for fruit ranching on the Penticton benches.

Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson have three sons, R. N. and A. P. Atkinson, of Penticton, and Councillor F. E. Atkinson, of Summerland.

APPROVE APPLICATION

Electric light applications were approved by the council last week from the following: Mrs. Darnett and J. Dunn, J. H. Bennest, R. W. White and E. R. Edmunds, M. McKechnie, A. Likei, T. B. Young, I. Seigrist, Mrs. E. M. Gillespie, F. Vollmuth, J. Y. Towgood. Domestic water applications approved were: M. McKechnie, Mrs. Darnett and J. Dunn, R. W. White and E. R. Edmunds, R. W. White, A. M. Temple and C. Dunbar.

RAISE REMUNERATION

Monthly remuneration for R. A. Eckersley, caretaker at the municipal hall, was raised by the council last week to $35 in the winter months and $20 in summer. He had previously been receiving $22.50 per month in the winter.

Mrs. A. B. Elliott Christening Service Receives Honor At D. H. Munn Home

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Munn received the names of David James, at a christening service held at the home of his parents on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 13. Rev. H. R. Whitmore officiated at the ceremony.

The rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion with bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and Virginia creeper.

The top layer of his parents' wedding cake, which was served to the guests following the other refreshments, formed the table centre for the reception which followed the christening ceremonies. Mrs. H. S. Lewes presided at the urns, and Mrs. W. H. Munn and Miss Ruth Innis, of Kelowna, assisted in serving.

Guests included Rev. and Mrs. Whitmore and Angus, Mrs. G. Atkinson, Mrs. H. S. Lewes, Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Mahony, Mr. and Mrs. G. Ewart Woodlams, Mr. Bert Gilchrist, Mrs. Basil Steuart, Miss Beth Innis, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Charles with Lorna and Douglas, and Dr. and Mrs. W. H. B. Munn.

FRIENDS BID ADIEU TO JEWELL FAMILY

The following figures were quoted as to the use of sugar: In one year distilleries used 79,800 pounds; breweries 1,394,529 pounds and wine production, 100,000,000 pounds.

Mrs. G. Perry, president of the Baptist Mission Circle, closed the meeting with prayer and a cordial half-hour was spent over the tea cups.

A party from the Experimental Station, including Dr. R. C. Palmer, Dr. J. Wilcox and Dr. D. V. Fisher, were visitors last week to Westbank, where they were inspecting the area being opened up there for veterans' settlement. Mrs. W. H. D. Jewell.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S Social Welfare Programme

BRITISH Columbia's social legislation is designed to promote the welfare of children, individuals and families, suffering from various social needs. Some of the most important Acts are:

HOSPITALS AND INSTITUTIONS

Numerous social needs are covered by the Hospitals Act, Mental Hospitals Act, Provincial Home Act, Provincial Home for the Aged Act, Provincial Infirmary Act and Welfare Institutions Act. These Acts pertain to the treatment of persons suffering physical or mental illness; custodial care of the aged and infirm; institutional care for those who are chronically ill or incapacitated. Included in the programme of care of the mentally ill is the Mental Hygiene or preventive work of the Provincial Psychiatric and Child Guidance Clinics.

TUBERCULOSIS INSTITUTIONS ACT

Special allowances and services to patients suffering from tuberculosis, and their families, have recently been developed and expanded.

SERVICES AVAILABLE TO THE PUBLIC

A Field Service Staff of trained social workers is maintained throughout the Province. In order to serve the public, members of the Field Service Staff are strategically located and the individual social worker is trained to deal with all phases of social assistance. They are required to use every available community resource in fulfilling their duties and they are supported in their work by counsel and guidance of the specialist in charge of specific types of assistance at headquarters.

British Columbia's programme is the most outstanding and the most generous in Canada. The service available to those in need, at our district offices in unorganized territory and in municipalities is the most comprehensive in the Dominion.

School Board Chairman Answers Criticism Of Setup By P. G. Dodwell

Dr. T. F. Parmley, chairman of Penticton School District 15, has issued a formal statement as chairman of the consolidated board, in reply to criticisms of the new set-up given by Trustee P. G. Dodwell, Summerland, and reported in the news columns of The Review of October 17 last. Following is Dr. Parmley's statement.

Consolidated School District

Last April, by a provincial enactment, Penticton, Summerland, Naramata, Kaleden and Allen Grove were merged as one school district, to be called Penticton School District No. 15. The old Penticton School Board was not consulted. The present school board, which incidentally is a temporary one, was set up in conformity with the act and has been endeavoring to carry out its duties to the best of its ability.

Summerland Transportation
In order to give Summerland pupils adequate and safe transportation it was necessary to incur bus carrying charges almost double those of last year. All bus contracts have to be submitted to the Department of Education and approved before the 50% grant is paid. The Department of Education questioned two of the short bus trips and instructed the inspector of schools to investigate and give a personal report. In order to get the actual facts he arranged to go over the routes in question with the board secretary and with the principal of the elementary school. Together with these same gentlemen he also called on the two bus contractors and discussed the matter with them. No parents were interviewed at all as was stated by Mr. Dodwell.

The inspector is not under the school board and carries out his department's instructions with or without reference to the school board as he deems is necessary. He does not assume the role of special pleader for any district and I presume investigates and reports as a department official. In the case in question he did not consult me as chairman of the board, nor would I have expected him to do so, but I am glad he consulted the persons who could give him the definite information he required.

It is interesting to note that the bus routes in question have been approved by the department and Colonel Burnett speaks highly of the co-operation he received from our school officials and the two contractors.

Secretary of the Board
There is only one secretary of the board and he is its executive official. He does not now, nor ever did, assist the principals of the schools in their school work. This is not his work nor is he qualified to do so.

In order to give the principals aid with compilation of supervisory material and school routine matters, school boards generally place a full-time or part-time stenographer at their disposal. The Summerland school principals have never had this assistance, and it was felt by the new board that they should have the same assistance, comparatively, as the Penticton principals have been enjoying for many years. The Summerland principals arranged for this help and are now enjoying it.

It comes as a surprise to find that Mr. Dodwell did not grasp the significance of the appointment of the school stenographer for the Summerland schools.

Board Committees
There are three committees. These are finance, building, appointments, and in addition, there is a school board representative on the Health Unit Board.

Mr. Dodwell is chairman of the appointing committee, also a member of the building committee, and the representative on the Health Unit Board. Mr. Angus is a member of the finance committee. Summerland is, therefore, well represented on all committees.

Mr. Dodwell knows this and it is hard to understand why he states otherwise. If he does not know what is going on, I am sorry.

All committees report and recommend to the full board so that all members are conversant with particulars and vote on all business transacted. This, I believe, is in line with common sense and business practice.

It should be noted that when the consolidation first took place it was the intention to disturb the practice in the various areas as little as possible so that the board members would retain direction over their school affairs much as they had done. This arrangement was not possible, however, as Mr. Dodwell stated flatly that he was a very busy man and could not find time to carry on as in the past. He intimated that as there was now a full-time secretary, this official should shoulder the work formerly carried on by board members. This is exactly what has been done and will be done; the board will decide policy and its executive officer, the Secretary-Treasurer, will carry it out. It is a retrograde step for laymen when elected to a board of trustees to attempt to take over the duties of officials trained and paid to do the work. This, as a general rule, leads to confusion and procrastination.

Transportation for Senior Matric Pupils

In the past, and even now, no senior matric class has been possible in the Summerland High School. It has cost the parents of senior matric pupils a great deal of money in fees, in board, and in transportation charges in the past to send their children away from home to continue their education, and the board determined that Summerland pupils should have the same opportunity, as the pupils in the other parts of the school district. Accordingly, transportation was arranged for the senior matrics from Summerland to Penticton. This transportation cost is $7.00 per day for the seven pupils and of course, the department pays 50% of this amount. This means a net cost of $3.50 per day for the school district, or 50c per pupil per day. For a 192-day school year, which is the average, the cost to the district per pupil would be $96.00. Mr. Dodwell did not give a correct account of this cost.

The district board operates to give the best possible educational opportunities to all pupils in the district regardless of where he or she lives. Each and every one of us on the board should be just as interested in pupils, say from Allen Grove, as we are in those from the areas where we might happen to reside. I am not a Penticton municipality trustee but a Penticton District No. 15 trustee. It would be well for all of us to remember this and not speak of "breaks" for any one group or area.

School Board Bank Account
Under the School Act, Sec. 63 (5) it lays down, "Sec. 63 (5) In the case of a large municipal school district, the Secretary-Treasurer of this board shall, upon the order of the board, set up and keep an account for the whole school district, to be known as the 'Board of School Trustees' Account,' etc."

The Secretary-Treasurer, by arrangement, draws funds from the Summerland municipal account four times a year, which periods are March, June, September and December. Penticton is treated in the same manner with payments drawn at different times. Because of the inconvenience of cheque exchange charges, the Secretary-Treasurer made representation to the Bank and had these waived for cheques cashed in Summer-

The money, practically all of it, drawn from Summerland, returns there in the form of teachers' and janitors' salaries, school and builders' supplies, etc. Mr. Dodwell has had the regulations explained to him on more than one occasion and he could easily confirm this by reference to his School Act. No useful purpose can be served by continual argument re this matter in board meetings as there is nothing the board can do about it and time for discussion of other vital school affairs is thereby wasted.

Army Hut Accommodation
The school accommodation in Penticton and Summerland has definitely reached a stage of crisis. Even basement rooms are all in use and in Summerland a temporary outside room and an improvised room in the high school have had to be built this past summer. More rooms must be found by next September, 1947.

In Penticton, there is by-law money available for a new high school addition, but the board feels that the contract prices are too high and material too scarce and inferior at present and have decided to try and postpone new buildings for from two to three years so as to get the best value for the taxpayers' money. This means resort to erection of inexpensive frame buildings at a gross cost of approximately $1,600.00 per unit, or $800.00 unit net cost to the district after receipt of the 50% grant from the government. It is expected that about twelve of these would be needed at least.

At a board meeting on August 12th, 1946, the question of securing army huts from Vernon camp was discussed and it was agreed that steps should be taken at once to ascertain if these would be available soon for civilian use. It was thought that these huts could be used for school accommodation at a cheaper cost than erecting buildings of new material. The Secretary was instructed to write to War Assets Corp. requesting information on this point, and this he did. A reply received August 23rd, and read to the board on September 10th stated that these buildings had not yet been declared surplus and advised watching the newspapers for the information required. It would seem from all this that all members of the board, and this would include Mr. Dodwell, were aware and conversant with the policy to acquire army huts if possible.

cipal authorities to the effect that the Vernon army huts had been declared available for civilian purchase on a priority basis for housing and school purposes. Consequently, the chairman of finance, Mr. Riddell, the chairman of buildings, Mr. LeRoy; Reeve Lyon, architect who drew the plan, for the Summerland temporary building, Mr. Kenyon, building contractor who was to advise on sectioning and moving costs, the school inspector, who was to advise on suitability, and myself visited the Vernon camp, Sunday, September 29. After considering all angles and advice the board members decided and recommended to the board that the army buildings should be procured if comparative costs as against new frame structures were favourable. Costs of purchase from War Assets Corporation, hauling costs, and sectioning and rebuilding costs will all have to be determined before any definite action can be determined by the board.

However there is another aspect to be considered and this has been overlooked by Mr. Dodwell or, on the other hand, he perhaps is not too conversant with his School Act. It is that a money bylaw for the expenditure will have to be presented to the people of the area before a positive move can be made. The ultimate decision will rest with the people. Those of us experienced in these matters realize the necessity for alertness in this undertaking if we are to have accommodation for our pupils next September in view of the present building outlook.

Summerland New School Buildings

One of the first problems to be dealt with by the area board was the question of a new building programme for Summerland. A new junior-senior high school and a four-room addition plus administrative suite, to the elementary school are required. Because of the necessity of speed in order to accommodate the expected increased enrolment which our inspector for the last two years has continually warned us to expect, it was suggested that a local architect be employed to draw plans or at least those for the elementary school addition. The Summerland trustees opposed this and requested the same architect as had been used for the Penticton new school. In view of this, the board employed the architect noted, whose office is in Vancouver and who is extremely busy, and he is presently engaged in planning the structures. Just when the plans will be ready is hard to say but judging from the Penticton experience they will take at least one year. Everything possible will be done to hasten the construction as the elementary section in particular could be filled even now with present enrolment.

School Finances

The total school costs of the district are apportioned by the Department of Education on the basis of assessment values between the various areas. At present, Penticton pays 62%, Summerland 25%, and Kaleden, Naramata, Allen Grove together, 13%. It is true that these costs include also the interest and sinking fund of Penticton school indebtedness amounting to approximately $28,000.00 this year. However, it must not be forgotten that the buildings to be erected in Summerland will cost in the neighborhood of $400,000.00 to $500,000.00 gross when completed and the costs of these will be borne in the same ratio as above so that Summerland will pay only 25% of the cost of its own buildings.

Conclusion

Our main concern is for the education, welfare and interests of our boys and girls residing in the district. The board will do its best to give as up-to-date a system of education to its charges as exists in any part of B.C. All parts of the district will be served alike and I am sure that any fair-minded person, if he or she was to examine what has been done since last April will concede that a great deal has been done. Much more has to be done this coming year and our constructive energies will be taxed to provide adequate educational facilities for our children in view of shortages.

Today, we read of Dominion-Provincial disunity and apparent need of co-operation and understanding among the nations. We become impatient when it appears that seemingly small differences cannot be reconciled on these levels. In our small sphere of endeavor the differences which arise pale into insignificance, comparatively speaking. Surely we can conduct our school district affairs without discord especially when the work is for the well-being of our children which means ultimately the well-being of our nation.

As chairman of the board, and I know that I am speaking for five-sevenths of the members, I wish to assure the people that the district board will function broadly in the interests of all areas and without parochial bias. Only in this way can we hope to carry out the duties imposed on us by the Provincial Legislature.

Acting Postmaster Ross McLachlan is a well-known young Summerland war veteran, who spent more than two years in a prisoner-of-war camp in Germany, after being shot down from his plane. He was released near the end of the conflict when the Allies invaded German territory and returned to his home in Summerland in July, 1945. In August he received his discharge and went into the local post office as assistant to Mr. Bowering.

Inspector Middlemiss, of the postal department in Vancouver, visited West Summerland this week and tendered the regret of his office at the resignation of a man who had served the community for such a length of time.

Mr. Bowering, with Mrs. Bowering, recently moved to their new home on the approach to the Station road, while Mr. and Mrs. McLachlan and their infant daughter, are now occupying the former Bowering apartment adjacent to the post office.

LIGHT CONNECTION BILL UNDECIDED

Summerland council still hasn't decided on the proper amount which Mr. Joe Sheeley should pay for a recent electric light connection. When this work was first estimated by Electrical Foreman T. P. Thorner, it was not thought that it would amount to much more than the $110, but when the work was actually accomplished an account for $205 was rendered Mr. Sheeley.

The council feels that Mr. Sheeley should not be shouldered with all this cost as other users whom the council cannot claim payments from, were benefitted

Tow Line

The club announced, also, that a cable 1800 feet in length has been obtained, which will provide a tow of 900 feet. A local tractor has also been obtained and the mechanics in the club are busily engaged in planning the operation of this mechanism.

It is planned to install a smaller tow to the beginner's hill, as well, this winter.

Membership now stands at approximately 35 seniors and the same number of school students, and it is expected that this number will be boosted considerably when the cold weather sets in.

An entertainment committee consisting of Miss F. Heunichen, Mrs. Frank Pollock and Mrs. Lloyd Shannon has been chosen, first function being the big dance scheduled for Ellison hall on Friday, November 29.

Teen Town

(By J. D.)

Well, kids, here it is—our own column. Here are some activities, past, present and future. On this coming Friday, Oct. 25, there will be a dance, commencing at 8 o'clock. Let's make this one as good as the last, kids.

On Nov. 5, throughout the valley, there will be the annual "Saddle Hawkins" dance. This means Summerland, too and if you know what we had in store for you, I think that everyone from 2 to 42 would try to get in. This dance will be a costume dance only and anyone wanting to come must have a costume. Anyone without a costume must pay a fine of fifty cents to get in.

On Oct. 11, we held a councillors' meeting at Rhoda Mason's home for the purpose of electing officers for the various committees, announcement of which will be made later.

Well, that's all for this week, but be sure to see this column in the November 7 issue of The Review.

Bank Shortens Farmers' Hours

LOW-COST LOANS MAKE FARMING EASIER.

New labor-saving devices, new farm machinery and new appliances, designed to shorten working hours and lighten farm chores, are now appearing on the Canadian market. With them are coming, such modern comforts and conveniences as inside plumbing, hot running water, washing machines, and other devices to lighten the housewife's burden. Many of these improvements have already found their way to Canadian farms and homes. The Bank of Montreal has played an important part through its farm improvements loans in making this post-war equipment immediately available. If the problem of financing is preventing you from getting your share, a Bank of Montreal loan at low interest rates may be the answer.

H. E. Woodford, manager of the Bank of Montreal, will be glad to review your plans with you. He will show you in a practical way what is meant when he says: "When you ask for a loan at the Bank of Montreal, you do not ask a favor."—Adv.

Soccer Tournney Won By Oliver

Oliver high school captured the southern zone of the inter-school soccer tournament at Penticton on Saturday when they registered three wins and a draw to eke out a narrow win over Rutland, who had three wins.

Penticton won two and drew one, while Summerland had one win with Princeton none.

Summerland's lone victory came at the expense of Princeton, with a 1-0 victory, while Penticton conquered the local squad by a similar score, and Rutland and Oliver scored wins by 2-0 counts in each case.

The local lads have had little opportunity to practice this fall, due to a lack of a football until two weeks ago. It is five years since Summerland fielded a soccer team in inter-high competition.

Ed Kita gave his team the only victory by converting a penalty kick. Jim Hack's performance in goal was outstanding for the local soccerites.

Basketball To Open Season On Saturday

Summerland's favorite fall and winter sport makes its opening bow at the school gymnasium this Saturday when the first basketball games of the season will be played, featuring Penticton seniors and intermediates, traditional rivals of the Summerland Merchants and under 21's.

With such a huge volume rolling onto the domestic market, demand on the prairies has slackened somewhat but Tree Fruits Ltd. officials state they believe this is only a temporary lull.

U.S. Mart Drops However, the United States market shows signs of weakening particularly on Delicious sales and there was a downward trend on auction sales this week of 50 cents to 75 cents per box.

Whether this reaction will be felt on the Canadian markets is a matter of guesswork yet, it is said, but sales officials are confident it will not have much effect.

Between 35 and 40 cars of one grade Delicious have been shipped from the Okanagan and have drawn favorable comment from prairie wholesalers.

On Friday a price increase of seven cents per box on most of the better varieties of Okanagan apples has been allowed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

BADMINTON WILL START SUNDAY

Badminton, always a popular game in this district, opens its fall and winter season next Sunday afternoon when the annual general meeting and election of officers will be held.

COURT OF REVISION Reeve W. R. Powell and Councilors D. Taylor and Eric Tait will comprise the court of revision of the voters' list, at the municipal hall, on Friday, Nov. 15, at 10 o'clock.

Plebiscite To Seek Decisions In December

"Are you in favor of selling a portion of Peach Orchard Park for tourist camp purposes?"

Such will be the wording of the plebiscite on which the ratepayers will be asked to render their decision when the civic elections are held in December.

The necessary readings for this bylaw will be voted on by the council at its next two meetings and then the question will be placed before the voters.

On Monday the council debated for some time as to the wording, as it was thought that some persons might want to vote on the question of selling the whole park. In the final analysis, however, it was decided to limit the question to one simple phrase which would provide a definite, direct answer.

Decision to place this question before the ratepayers has been taken by the council following a request by the Summerland Board of Trade that the question of disposal or retention of the park be settled once and for all.

Change Holiday Another plebiscite for the elections in December will involve the changing of the legal store half-holiday from Thursday to Wednesday afternoon.

Last spring, the Summerland Retail Merchants Assn. sought council approval to place this bylaw before the ratepayers, but it was decided that it could not be voted upon until December.

On Monday, the council took the necessary steps to have this plebiscite included in the December voting program.

There has been no request made to have the closing day extended to the entire day but only for the afternoon. At present, the stores are compelled by law to close on Thursday afternoon and the Thursday morning closing is by mutual agreement, without any compulsion.

Peachland Up In Arms Over Plan To Move School To Westbank

Formal protest against the selection of Westbank as the site of the proposed new high school for the west side of Okanagan lake from Peachland to Westbank and Bear Creek is being lodged at Victoria with the Department of Education.

Coupled with this protest will go a request that School Inspector A. S. Matheson, Kelowna, be moved to another school district.

Protest meeting was held at Peachland last Thursday evening when an investigation into the entire situation was sought.

Mr. Bennie returned last week from Vancouver, where he was elected vice-president of the B.C. Basketball Assn. With the return of war veterans the cage sport is undergoing a rejuvenation throughout the province and some strenuous competition is expected.

Penticton seniors have a stronger lineup on paper than last season, with Bill Bennett, former Summerland star, back in the fold and turning out regularly.

Summerland has all its last year's players back again with the exception of Don Johnston.

George Clark is the captain and moving force of the squad, while he will have with him on the defence Norman Thompson and up forward there will be Bob Scrivner, Rocky Binigoni and Jackie Walsh.

DR. F. W. ANDREW NEW CHAIRMAN

Dr. F. W. Andrew has been chosen as chairman of the Summerland Rehabilitation Committee to replace the original chairman, Dr. R. C. Palmer, who has been forced to resign owing to pressure of other work.

Dr. Palmer was the original chairman of the combined Legion-Board of Trade rehabilitation committee when this work was first undertaken in this community and was the unanimous choice when a community committee was decided upon a little more than a year ago.

Dr. Andrew was publicity head and accomplished a great deal of work in this respect since the inception of the movement. It is proposed that his place be taken by Rev. F. W. Haskins.

A general meeting will probably be held towards the end of December when other officers will be chosen or re-elected as the case may be.

SPECIAL POLICE FOR HALLOWE'EN

To assist Police Constable Cartmell in policing Summerland this evening, Halloween, the Summerland council has arranged that two special constables will be paid by the municipality.

Each youngster is to hand over a cent ticket for every cent handed out by householders.

The usual Halloween tricks are expected to be perpetrated but citizens hope that no malicious damage will result from the wanderings of the youngsters and those not so young.

GRANT HOLIDAYS

Two weeks' holiday with pay has been granted Gordon Blewitt, of the electrical staff, by the Summerland council.

Mr. Smith presented this report some weeks ago but the council has not implemented its decision to get together with the trade board committee and consider its recommendations for increased fire protection for the municipality.

On Monday, the council decided to hold this meeting in the near future.

will vigorously oppose any and all further action compelling children to go to Westbank, it having been pointed out that facilities are adequate to look after the teaching of children here in Peachland, thus eliminating the unnecessary hardships in transporting to and from Westbank, which for the children who live some distance from school will mean going to school and returning home in the dark during the winter months.

On Friendly Terms During the past two weeks there was a flare-up between Summerland and Penticton over differences of opinion on the operation of Penticton School District No. 15.

The Kelowna board has pointed out that the decision in favor of Westbank was made after a survey of three school inspectors, as well as another survey by three board members.

Peachland Protest Peachland's protest to the school board follows:

"We, the undersigned ratepayers, parents and guardians of children in School District No. 23, in the Municipality of Peachland, hereby protest the findings of a committee appointed by the Kelowna Board re proposed school site, and

Hope For Big Crowd At Memorial Parks Meeting On Friday

Tomorrow evening, at the I.O.O.F. hall, the stage is set for one of the most important meetings of the year, when the Summerland Memorial Parks Committee will present its report and seek support in its endeavor to raise a sum up to $25,000 to provide a Living Memorial for Summerland in the form of a park-playground on the board of trade property and an athletic field on the Drake lot.

Groups Endorse

Most of the big organizations in Summerland have already endorsed the proposal to provide a Living Memorial for those who fought in the two world wars. These organizations include the Canadian Legion, Board of Trade, A.O.T.S., Women's Institute, Rotary Club, and Retail Merchants Association.

Speakers from these organizations have been requested to present the views of their membership.

Main interest will centre around the park-playground adjoining the main business district in West Summerland. Here, the municipal council proposes to erect its new municipal hall. The cenotaph, if the plan carries through, will be transferred from the school grounds to the centre of the playground.

The entire area will be planted to lawn, shrubbery and trees will adorn the premises, while portions will be set aside for the erection of swings and other forms of amusements for youngsters, including a wading pool.

Provision for a public restroom has been made at the northwest corner of the property, while the skating rink will be extended and facilities expanded greatly. Provision for a small softball diamond, a basketball court and a roller skating rink has been included in the plans.

At the Drake lot, a baseball diamond, with turfed infield and seeded outfield, plus a football field and a quarter-mile running track have been laid out on paper, along with the necessary bleachers, dressing rooms and dugouts.

It is the committee's plan, if the public meeting gives its stamp of approval and the necessary funds can be raised, to maintain these two parks for a period up to five years, when all planned improvements will have been concluded and two finished parks can be handed over to the municipal council for yearly maintenance and improvement.

Chairman's Views Chairman F. E. Atkinson, in a recent interview had this to say to The Review:

The committee selected to develop plans for the Board of Trade park and the Drake lot, as memorial parks, has given a great deal of time and thought to this project since last May. Sub-committees were appointed for planning the Board of Trade park and estimate the cost. A third committee was appointed to plan the Drake lot development and estimate the cost.

The committee now feels that it has brought this project to a stage of development where it should be submitted to the residents of the District for their approval and suggestions and the canvass started. Our conclusions in the committee have always been unanimous and we feel that as the committee is made up of representatives from many of the town's organizations, that it is a good cross-section of the people's wishes in this matter.

We feel that in establishing living memorials that will be of use to the small children, to the youth and to the people of more mature years, that we are providing a real service to the community. We feel, too, that members who served in the armed forces would want a memorial of this nature. Consequently, I would greatly appreciate your presence at the

CANNOT SUPPLY POLES

Hewlett Bros., Westbank, had agreed to deliver poles to the municipality this fall but owing to sickness and other difficulties, the council was informed on Monday that Mr. Hewlett would be unable to fulfill his contract.

Councillor Harvey Wilson and Foreman T. P. Thornber will visit Westbank in the near future to investigate the situation.

B.C.F.G.A. To Draw Plans For Labor Program

Summerland local of the British Columbia Fruit Growers Assn. will be asked to decide on its labor program for 1947 when the annual meeting is held on or about November 22, J. Y. Towgood, local chairman, announced this week following a meeting of the directors.

The general membership will be asked to decide which of two programs it wishes to follow.

Program 1 would consist of carrying on the local labor office as in the past two years, with a box deduction of one-tenth cent to cover the cost. There is a carryover of $139 from this year's operations and a tenth of a cent would amply cover such a program.

Program 2 would involve considerably more outlay, with a limited plan for central accommodation of orchard labor in the form of a hostel where meals could also be provided.

This would probably cost two or maybe three cents per box to operate successfully but would make provision for enough labor to tide the growers over their harvesting season, it is thought.

There is still another alternative, that of operating a straight labor office with a greatly-restricted service and without any further deductions per box.

If a suitable hall can be obtained, the annual meeting of the B.C.F.G.A. will be held here on Friday afternoon, November 22.

Game Official Here To Settle Hatchery Site

Game Commissioner J. G. Cunningham met the municipal council on Monday afternoon for further negotiations for the erection here of a modern fish hatchery on the site of the present hatchery and adjoining property.

The provincial government has allotted $12,000 for this expenditure this year and a further grant is expected to be made in 1947 to conclude the project.

One portion of the lot adjoining the present hatchery, with a 34-foot frontage is being offered the game commission at a cost of $350. This land has been under lease to the Penticton Fish and Game Protective Assn. for fish cultural operations.

"Water was the most important factor in deciding where the hatchery would be placed," explained Mr. Cunningham to the Summerland council. "Summerland has the best water, always providing there is no pollution."

Mr. Cunningham stated that a refrigeration plant, the hatchery buildings and accommodation for the caretaker would be included in the plans. He hopes to have the buildings finished with imitation log siding, which he believes would provide an attractive appearance.

Due to lack of materials it is doubtful if any construction work can be started this year but Mr. Cunningham hopes to commence the buildings early next season.

Beside, the property price, the council informed the game commissioner that a large water supply is available, with outlets for three-inch or two-inch connection in place. If a three-inch connection is required the cost for this water would be $10 per year, while up to a two-inch pipe would call for a cost of $50 per year.

POPPIES

... for remembrance

(By DOUGLAS SMITH, in The Legionary)

THAT little red poppy which makes its annual debut on Saturday, Nov. 9, that little flower of jacquered muslin and silk, has an intriguing background.

Manufactured in Montreal and Toronto at Vetcraft shops, the work is done by the skilled hands of disabled veterans who are unable through their disabilities to compete in the commercial market. Some work in the shops while others, too handicapped to leave their homes do the job propped up in bed.

A simple looking thing, that poppy, but each individual one is shaped and produced by skilled workmen.

Said one "old sweat" of nigh three-score years, "There was a time when I hated the sight of that Flanders Poppy. We saw 'em when they were real, and to us they represented a graveyard flower. Now, bless 'em, they are the means of my livelihood"

And this is true. To quote a number of ex-servicemen, it is their only form of income. The horrors of war reach far into the years, and the body and brain of man can stand only so much punishment.

Many of the veterans discharged apparently physically fit in 1919 began to crack up in later years. That Jerrie "whiz-bang" which exploded so close near Mons, it didn't seem to do much damage then. Those nights of sleeping in bone-chilling mud... a tot of rum seemed to fix up things at the time. But as time and age crept on it took its toll. It wasn't a thing that one could pin down and prove for a pension, but it was there just the same.

And so in 1923, under the Soldier Civil Re-establishment setup, the first Vetcraft shop bloomed and blossomed forth poppies, so that the people of Canada could contribute and help these men and their dependents.

HELPING THE DESTITUTE

During the depression years the demand upon the Canadian Legion from destitute veteran families for assistance became terrific. The sale of poppies, in those trying 30's naturally suffered, but somehow the Legion carried on and many a family managed to see it through due to the Poppy Fund.

During the war years the Vetcraft plants found that they too, were caught in the shortage of material. Precious rubber used for our mechanized armies became unobtainable and so the windshield poppy, which depended on a rubber suction centre, disappeared. Now things are brightening up and this year the familiar large poppy will be found on thousands of auto windows throughout Canada.

The stamen centre of the small poppy, which was purchased exclusively in Czechoslovakia, disappeared when the brittle, concrete heel of the Nazis invaded that country. Vetcraft switched to using green fibre, solving thereby that problem.

Lycopodium, which is similar to twitch-grass, faded from the market and so, nothing daunted, the veterans switched to using magnolia leaves imported from Florida. This year a limited quantity of lycopodium is showing up again and it serves to make a more attractive looking wreath.

THE METAL SHORTAGE

The metal shortage presented a grave problem because the wreaths were based on wire rings, but again they came up with a specially made wooden ring and the work was carried on. "It was tough going," said T. E. ("Tommy") Smart, foreman of the Vetcraft plant on Munro street in Toronto, who has been supervising and making poppies for 13 years.

Greatest thrill the workers in the Toronto shop got was in making a special wreath for the King and Queen during their visit to Canada in 1939. Said Tommy, "Everybody in the shop had a hand in it, and it was made especially from oak leaves, which is the way they make them in Great Britain. We were certainly proud of that one." And so that its memory may linger for posterity, a large colored photograph of the wreath hangs in a frame in a place of honor in their office.

THE OLD SUPERVISOR

In the Montreal factory on Pine St. West, P. J. Bush, who hails 72 active years and is affectionately known to the veterans as "P. J.", has been supervising the job for 16 years. Belying his age, P. J. said, "I get down here every day, summer and winter, and I hope to keep on doing so, but just in case one of these days I shouldn't be able to make it," and he shrugged his broad shoulders suggestively, "I have with me a young fellow that I'm breaking in and he'll carry on."

Appreciating that the cost of living has risen considerably, the veterans in both plants were recently given an increase in wages.

Meantime, the plants maintain their all-year-round schedule, and while all the orders are filled for the 1946 delivery they are now busy making others for 1947. In 1945, nearly 4,500,000 poppies were sold and this year, in anticipation of still greater sales, they have stepped up production by 20 per cent.

Operated under the supervision of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the Vetcraft shops play a large part in maintaining needy cases. The Canadian Legion, while undertaking no responsibility in the financing of these shops, nevertheless has been entrusted with the business end of poppy sales. The sales of these poppies go towards taking care of destitute veterans, irrespective of whether they are Legion members or not, and all work is voluntary without any remuneration.

of the municipal bodies here. There are some steps which we have criticized from time to time and, we believe rightly so. But the final test is at the polls.

If the municipally-elected representatives of the people have turned in a good year and wish to run for office again, then the voters will indicate their satisfaction by returning them again. If the ratepayers are not satisfied or think that some other representative could turn in a better task as their representative, then they will indicate this preference by their ballots.

But whatever the result, let us have a brisk election campaign and, above all, an overwhelming percentage of voters marking their ballots at the polls.

Public Meeting

Tomorrow evening, Friday, November 1, there is being held one of the most important meetings of the year in this district. It is the public meeting which will decide if Summerland is to proceed with a Living Memorial to honor those who served in the two World Wars.

For many weeks, public-spirited citizens have been preparing plans and estimates for the two park projects which comprise this Living Memorial — the park-playground on the Board of Trade property and the athletic field on the Drake lot.

These plans, with the estimates for necessary expenditures and maintenance over a period of the first few years, have been carefully prepared and indicate an expenditure of close to $25,000.

If this proposal is to find the necessary support in this community, then such approval should be voiced at this public meeting. Those who are not in favor of the plan, and there must be some who are not sure of its feasibility, should be present to voice their opinions.

We are certain that the parks committee wants to have all sides of this proposal threshed out in open session. The committee has already expressed its desire that a clear-cut expression of public opinion be voiced tomorrow evening.

This is a big expenditure for a community of this magnitude, even though Summerland has grown considerably in the past few years. On the average, to raise a sum of $25,000, every man, woman and child will have to subscribe eight dollars, or twenty-five dollars per family.

Some question will probably be raised if Summerland can afford such an expenditure. Is Summerland big enough for this project? Other communities with three and four times our population have set objectives for their Living Memorial campaigns at four and five times as great.

The most attractive feature of the proposal is that the committee is looking to the future. This project is not a cold stone Memorial. It is a useful Memorial. It will provide facilities for healthy sport, for relaxation in beautiful surroundings, it will provide a playground for the youngsters of today and tomorrow, keeping them off the streets and providing them with innocent amusements for their pleasure and benefit.

With such objectives in mind, the monetary side of the question fades into the background. This plan is building for the future to provide a growing community with parks, playgrounds and sports fields commensurate with a prosperous and energetic district.

Whatever the result of this proposed campaign, the hard work of this committee of public-minded citizens deserves a record turn-out to hear the proposals tomorrow night. Without such support these energies will have been expended in vain.

Civic Elections

With the rush of harvesting at an end, ratepayers can now turn their minds to their elected civic bodies. In only six weeks the municipal elections will be at hand and voters will be urged to go to the polls to select a reeve, two councillors and one or two school trustees.

Every person who owns registered property, is a licence-holder or who pays a poll-tax, if they have registered their names on the voters' list by today, should start pondering who they would select to operate their municipal affairs.

Too often, the ratepayer sits back with the "Let George Do It" attitude and then grumbles throughout the year because he does not like the actions of the civic body. But if that ratepayer did not take a hand in selecting those civic officials, then he has no right at all to raise his voice in praise or criticism. Such a ratepayer is not a public-minded citizen.

Whatever the result of the municipal elections, there should be a decided interest taken therein. It is a healthy sign if all seats vacant are contested. Too much complacency indicates at times that municipal affairs are being operated in a manner satisfactory to all concerned, but too often it means that the voters are just too lazy to take a hand.

We do not mean to indicate by this that we have any fault to find with the operation

HEALTH INTERNATIONAL

Canada co-operates with the United States authorities in connection with the examination and certification of supplies of drinking and culinary water in use aboard common carriers engaged in international traffic, as well as in examination of dining cars operated internationally.

United States authorities are supplied with reports and certificates, concerning water supply sources in Canada which are used by U.S. common carriers entering and operating in various parts of the Dominion. Similarly, reports and certificates concerning water supplies located in the United States and used by common carriers operating in international traffic, are supplied to Canadian health authorities.

This is only one phase of the co-operation which ensures the highest standard of health protection on this continent.

SAFE MEDICINES

Under the Proprietary or Patent Medicine Act, Canada maintains constant surveillance of the field of remedies, to ensure maximum protection for the purchasing public. The Canadian people annually spend millions of dollars for prepared medicines, which comprise varieties of brands of liniments, lotions, ointments, pills, powders, syrups, tablets, tonics, etc., of both domestic and foreign manufacture.

Canada prohibits false, exaggerated or misleading advertisements in respect of such products, and there are certain diseases for which no medicinal preparation is granted registration. Potent drugs are listed in a schedule of this important Act, and dosages are fixed by a medical board, within reasonable limits of safety.

In connection with this work, the federal authorities maintain a constant check on recommendations, or remedies, appearing on labels, wrappers, circulars, and in literature and newspaper advertisements, as well as in radio announcements. This work is facilitated by the co-operation of the reputable drug manufacturers and by close liaison with press and radio outlets.

CARBON MONOXIDE

Burning fuel produces carbon monoxide—a deadly gas. If ventilation is faulty, in factory, garage, or even at home, carbon monoxide may escape and contaminate the air. Industrial health authorities of the Department of National Health and Welfare Ottawa, say that carbon monoxide strikes without warning. Pointing out that good ventilation is the best protection, they urge careful check of ventilation systems periodically, check of furnace pipes and drafts and use of approved respirators around possible sources of carbon monoxide.

"Although carbon monoxide has no smell, it is commonly associated with odorous gases and fumes given off by burning fuel," says the authority. "Headaches and dizziness arise from a variety of causes, but, when these symptoms occur in the presence of gases and fumes from burning fuel, they may indicate an early stage of carbon monoxide poisoning."

"Never run engines indoors, without adequate ventilation. First aid treatment prescribed for victims of carbon monoxide: remove the victim to the open air, keep victim warm and quiet; if breathing has weakened or seems to have stopped, apply artificial respiration. Whenever poisoning is suspected, immediate first aid is essential, and no time should be lost in calling a physician."

WELL-FED CHILDREN

Those mothers who are plagued by their children, demanding attention throughout the day, may find a word of wisdom in a reminder from the Child and Maternal Health division of the Department of National Health and Welfare, that a "fed child is a happy child."

No matter how busy a mother may be, she should find time at the beginning of the day to serve a substantial breakfast. The value of a well-balanced morning meal is illustrated in the performance of all members of a family, but is particularly noticeable in the behaviour of the younger ones. If youngsters have had a hearty breakfast, they will be less likely to worry for a "snack" between meals. They will play happily and need less attention, so that mother can get on with her other chores.

At a little after nine, on most mornings, I hear clatter on our back porch, followed by a thumping at the door. This is the signal for which Ronnie, my four-year-old son, is waiting. With a wild chorus of welcome he opens the door to admit a small bit of atomic energy, topped with a mop of golden curls, and wearing an angelic but greatly misleading grin.

This lovable little imp, who is the third of my neighbor's four daughters, is two years old, and answers if she feels in the mood, to the name of Bonnie.

Her usual abrupt morning greeting consisting of "Huuwoah," being over she makes a solemn appraisal of the remnants of the breakfast table. If any toast remains thereon, her next utterance is "Wanna pie a toast." Once these necessary morning amenities are over, the serious business of morning play can then be launched upon.

Bonnie and Ronnie play remarkably well together, and are very affectionate. In appearance they are exact opposites. Bonnie is a towhead with innocent blue eyes, while Ronnie has dark hair and immense brown eyes in which a gleam of mischief is usually noticeable. Their favorite game is the serious and lengthy business of playing house. They have their own interesting, if startling, version of this game, which has many adaptable variations. Instead of playing the usual children's game, mama and papa dolls for babies, Bonnie climbs on Ronnie's bed and is the "baby." Ronnie is the "mother" and tucks her in and fixes imaginary bottles with loving care. And as the "baby" usually ends up by getting the chicken-pox, Ronnie then bravely sheds the role of mothhood and emerges as a dignified medico.

Of course, a tea party is called for and is always a very impromptu affair, made necessary whenever their stomachs feel in the mood.

This kind of play goes on until Bonnie's mother and I get together for our mid-morning coffee, when Ronnie, who is convalescing from a major spinal operation and still wears a cast, has his morning rest. At this time he does not sleep, so Bonnie often climbs upon his bed beside him, and they tell long and complicated stories.

Several months ago, when another little baby girl was added to Bonnie's family, my older son wisely undertook to explain to the young innocents the mystery of life. The long explanation of wise seven-year-old startlingly began: "God took a pile of bones and measured them all so that they were the same length." And after that explaining in gory detail how the necessary organs were added, he informed them that God entrusted the stork to take the babies to the hospitals where they were collected by the mothers. This original version was accepted as gospel truth by the wide-eyed young ones, and I guess that whenever they look at Baby Diana, they still picture God as busily measuring out little piles of bones for babies.

Christmas is drawing near again. And once more I have made all sorts of resolutions about doing my Yuletide shopping early. And, as per usual, I shall probably be frantically shopping on Christmas Eve again. But I envy the wise ones who start before Christmas to collect gifts. They are able to choose gifts that are useful and suitable to the lucky person on the receiving end and following the holiday season, their pocketbooks do not look so empty and hungry as those of the unwise shoppers are apt to do.

Those charged with leading the fight against this killer of mankind credit their achievement to concerted effort and full appreciation of the menace facing them. They believe that we will see conquest of Tuberculosis in our generation. The work has been inspired by scientific inquiry which led to discovery that TB can be cured and even eliminated entirely as a threat to humanity.

Owing to the recent removal of the producers' subsidy on milk, an increase of five cents a pound has been allowed on casein, according to an announcement of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. As casein has never been under a uniform price ceiling before, any person selling casein now may add five cents a pound to the price at which he legally could have sold it immediately prior to October 7, 1946.

SEVEN MILLION TREES ARE PLANTED

Further expansion to the Government's reforestation program is being carried out with the additional planting of 7,000,000 young trees at the B.C. Forest Service nursery, near Duncan. These trees will be used in 1948 to replant logged-off areas near Duncan and other Island points. The Green Timbers Nursery, New Westminster, will have a crop of 4,000,000 trees ready by next February. These, together with the 7,000,000 trees of the Duncan nursery, will augment the operations of private logging companies, it is announced by Hon. E. T. Kenny, Minister of Lands and Forests. Concurrently with this program of reforestation, the forestry department is working to reduce fire hazards on forest lands by clearing trails and constructing new ones so that fire fighters will have greater access to danger areas.

The Mail Box

EMPIRES FOR LOOT

1027 Galloway St., Pacific Palisades, Cal., Oct. 10, 1946.

Editor: The Review:

May I, an ex-Summerlander, still a Summerlander at heart, enter the discussion opened Sept. 12, at your invitation, by Mrs. Fosbery? Whether we ordinary folk are to be periodically and arbitrarily dragged out to kill other ordinary folk is a matter I will speak out on publicly or privately, wherever I have the opportunity. The British in me will not take it "lying down."

The history of us humans has been a story of empire building—Persian, Byzantine, Roman Spanish, Dutch, Russian, French, British, Italian, German and, yes, American empires.

They were built for loot (if we face honest fact), loot in slaves, livestock and works of art during centuries and in our times, rubber, oil, tin, gold, diamonds, coal and plain old real estate. They were built for the benefit of wealthy families of conquering nations, not for the good of the natives; slum dwellers did not benefit from the loot. John Doe and his wife provided what has been dubbed "cannon fodder," i.e., sons fed to the cannons. Afterwards, they paid for this slaughter. Frequently they paid those who promote war and profit by them.

Empires were built by bloody naval and military "aggression." Thus the French and British, after "beating each other to it" all over the world, notably in India and CANADA, apparently decided they might never see the last round; they thought it better to "divvy-up" Africa, for example, and exclude Italians and others if possible.

Germany, being only a mess of feudal states until a brief 80 odd years ago, got a late start. Like the British, they lacked living room, and like the British, French, Japanese, Americans, etc., they cared little how they acquired living room—plus markets—or how much. The super wealthy worship greed in spirit and God not in truth. Profits are more important than intellectual integrity.

Meanwhile, wars grew bigger and bigger. In very recent times, national conscription was born. Conscription equals chattel-slavery-to-Mars. Are we "free?"

WORLD WARS arrived. In number one, we gave sons, brothers and sweethearts to Flanders Fields for DEMOCRACY. Then we built centotaphs like the one Summerland and chanted "Lest we forget." Our rulers did forget. In the peace treaties they made large empires larger and small empires smaller. They sowed seeds of World War Two. My beloved fellow Britishers, Canadians and Americans were worshipping the golden calf whilst mocked "visionaries," President Wilson and others were returning from communion with God carrying the tablets of belittled "idealism." Idealists were on the scaffold, fighters were on the throne.

When World War II arrived, the plain people were told they were fighting for the "four freedoms." Two years ago, I asked a Santa Monica gathering of approximately 80 people, "How many believe we are fighting for the four freedoms? Please raise hands." Two-thirds of the group raised hands. "Now," I said, "of those who have hands up, how many know the four freedoms? Please stand." Two people stood up; the others, with faces aghast and mouths open, pulled hands down. They had not thought about it. Newspapers had informed them what they were fighting for.

World War II was not over before whisperings grew loud, here in the United States about World War III. "We'd have to lick the Russians, too. And, we must have penicillin conscription now."

Newspapers told us the Allies were unprepared for World War II; the obvious, therefore, was "Get ready for World War III." This, despite the great pre-war preponderance of British, French and American navies, and immense French and Belgian land forces backed by smaller, but multiple, British, American and Empire armies, conscripted before hostilities started. Did anyone ever doubt America would be in the war, too? True, there was sectional unpreparedness but nothing in the over-all picture to equal what has been represented. The English-speaking peoples had crushing numbers to back the French and Belgians and ready as quickly as transportation could take care of them, probably. Some say French Nazi treachery alone toppled the Maginot line!

Whether or not one other thing is certain: Germany did not arm in secret. She armed with great fanfare and invited the Allied dignitaries (witness Lindbergh) to see her Panzer divisions, etc. British and American Nazis assumed that the anti-comintern-German-Japanese-Italian alliance was to be turned on Russia. They armed that alliance with trucks, oil, scrap iron, etc., and staged "Munich" with it. They had been calling the hated Russians Atheist, Anathema, etc.—for throwing out the profit system. Now, they would use Germany and Japan for castpaws. But the best laid plans "gang awry" many times.

World War II (a decade in which destruction has exceeded production) is over. More notaphs will be built and John Doe must pay for the slaughter again (to whom, is never asked). We did stop some of the Nazis with the war; thank God. And thank Churchill and Roosevelt. I recall reading in Mein Kampf o "The nobility of the sword" and the "principles of aristocracy." How that book jeered at Parliamnts, yet had nothing but praise for English-speaking empire builders. Quit westward struggle, th book argued; turn to the Russian Ukraine where "Providence" had placed a corrupt and chaotic order over an immense land and where hated Jews had inaugurated an unholy system.

There are German, French, British, Italian and American Nozi at large, and hard at work, teaching the "nobility of the sword," promoting a new anti-comintern pact.

The road to peace was never though "being prepared for war, as it seems," to quote from some writers. That is the road of an armament-race which inevitably leads to war.

Disarmament, universal disarmament, is still the road to peace and greatest security for common people. "China" will be quoted, by opponents. But the adjective "universal," before disarmament will be evaded. There could have been no Pearl Harbor incident of terrific, sudden and treacherous land invasion of Russia if there had been no vast navies or armies.

Here in the United States we are still living off a war-economy finding unemployment by appropriating 18 billions for DEFENCE—the hypocrisy of it! We are still building market empires, for profit.

We know that with abundant inspection in all countries, by UNO, secret rearmament can be prevented—arms manufacturers won't like it, however. We know, too, we can solve unemployment by providing our unemployed the means to create their own food, clothing and shelter instead of supplying it to them at public expense and at a profit, or giving them work in war.

Before the war, Russia posed total disarmament. We English speaking peoples turned it down, and World War-II—seeds were again sown. Now, let us challenge Russia to live up to her prewar idealism and all alike withdraw armies and navies to home lands. There, section by section, each in proportion, each at the same date, by UNO direction, destroy armies, atom bombs, navies and air forces.

Let the UNO take care of PEACES in an unarmed world in stead of taking care of WAR in a world armed to the teeth. Speak up, Summerlanders! Remember Longfellow's words: In the world's field of battle, In the bivouac of life, Be not like dumb, driven cattle! Be a hero in the strife!

Act—act in the living present! Heart within, and God o'erhead. A. J. BEER.

UNUSUAL OFFICE: When Ration Book No. 6 was recently distributed, the city of Grand Forks, B.C., had possibly the most unusual distributing centre in Canada. The books were issued from an old undertaking parlor, and the display cabinets of caskets were used as tables for the workers. Of course, the circumstances led to the expected wisecracks. Said one visitor: "Ration books must now be a dead issue." Another remarked: "Thank goodness, there is some life in here at last."

Mystery Water Run Lessened This Week

The mysterious flow of water from the base of a clay cliff below Councillor Harvey Wilson's orchard, which has caused so much concern here in the past eighteen days, has diminished considerably this week and is now only a quarter of the size of the original stream which started flowing on Sunday, Oct. 13.

It is reported that a short quake or tremor was felt on Monday morning in that vicinity and this may have caused a partial cessation of the rapid flow.

Attempts have been made to stop the erosion of the cliff face with brush, stones and sandbags and this work has been temporarily successful. Some clear water has been obtained and it is hoped that with the diminished flow further erosion will cease.

If the water recedes still further this winter it is hoped that some permanent tunnelling can be accomplished. No more trees have fallen from Mr. Wilson's orchard this week, it is stated.

Report to Council
Acting Reeve F. E. Atkinson reported to the council on Monday the steps which were taken to combat this mysterious water eruption. The municipal employees did considerable work in this respect, not from any legal obligation, but for the community welfare, Councillor Atkinson pointed out.

Engineer Chas. Howe, Penticton, assisted by local Water Foreman E. Kercher, placed dams on Prairie creek but no loss of water flow was measured there.

C. C. Kelley, soil survey expert from Kelowna, visited the area and stated that if the flow continued unabated the erosion could easily, in time, take out Councillor Wilson's orchard, his two houses and the domicile of Mr. Clarke nearby.

Major Hodgson, of the Oliver land project, was brought in to investigate this new water course and stated that a timbered tunnel was feasible but would be an expensive proposition.

Then D. K. Penfold, of the water rights branch, and H. W. Stevens, government engineer, Kelowna, inspected the site and the latter offered the assistance of government equipment at Penticton if the local officials wished to combat the erosion.

Theory of Flow

Main theory now expounded, Councillor Atkinson reported, is that an original creek channel, with a subterranean flow, had been opened, probably by a disturbance in the earth. A large basin of seepage water had congregated there and this caused the main part of the flow.

Now that there is only a quarter of the water pouring forth, it might be feasible that the drainage water had been taken off and this is now a normal flow from creeks farther back in the hills.

Water Foreman Kercher reported to the council that a resident on Capt. Temple's orchard had felt a distinct tremor on Monday morning about six o'clock. Whether this had any effect on the new channel and caused the lessening of the water flow on Monday was a matter of conjecture he stated.

ELECTRIC BILL CUT

Because of the improvement in service to other users, and in the face of a lack of an original estimate, the Summerland council on Monday agreed to allow a rebate of $100 to J. S. Sheeley on the cost of extending electric light service to his residence. The cost to him had originally been billed at $205, but the account will now be pared down to $105.

NO STREET LIGHT

Because of the lack of wire, no street lighting can be provided the Free Methodist Church, the Summerland council decided on Monday, after hearing a report from Electrical Foreman T. P. Thornber. The wiring is needed for connections to houses.

WILL NOT SELL LOT

On Monday, the council decided not to sell a lot to D. Lanson, as it is being used as a road end and might be required in the future for further road expansion.

The immense Okanagan Fruit Crop, brought to its present level mainly by improved fertilization, can be maintained only by continued application.

Summerland Recommends:

"Use Nitrogen sufficient to produce 12 inches of terminal growth annually."

HOW BEST TO DO THIS?

We do not recommend complete mixtures—in the very few cases where potash is required it should be purchased separately to fortify Trail products.

We Recommend:

AMMONIUM PHOSPHATE 16-20
On All Cover-crop Orchards

A cheap source of Nitrogen and phosphate, the latter to add the cover crop—which in turn becomes the cheapest of all sources of Nitrogen.

AMMONIUM NITRATE

For particular cases of inadequate growth or on clean cultivation. Now a cheaper per unit source of Nitrogen than Sulphate of Ammonia.

It Pays To Fertilize Every Tree

ST. STEPHEN'S IS WEDDING SCENE

A quiet wedding ceremony was performed at St. Stephen's church, West Summerland, on Saturday evening, October 26, when Rev. Canon F. V. Harrison united in marriage Miss Phyllis Young, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Young, Vancouver, to Alfred George Thompson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson, Summerland.

Only immediate relatives of the young couple were present for the ceremony, which was performed at 8 o'clock.

West Summerland, B.C.,
Oct. 15, 1946.

Editor, The Review:
Many interesting subjects have been brought to the fore and written about and published in "The Mail Bag" of The Summerland Review. May I, as a citizen of this municipality of Summerland, express an opinion.
Why is so little attention paid to the upkeep of our cemeteries? Are they just dumping grounds for our dead? The weeds, sweet clover, etc., are allowed to grow rank as long as the rains last in the spring, then the summer suns burn them brown and they present a place of "utter desolation." Would we allow our lawns, etc., to get into this sort of condition? Are there no public-spirited citizens left among us who care about making these last resting-places of the citizens (who lived within our bounds in the past) spots of sad beauty?
Much could be done in order to make these places a credit to all of us, by the installation of a water system, levelling off graves, laying out walks, seeding the graves and walks to lawn grass; planting flowers and shrubbery and remodelling hideous tombstones and using bronze or cement markers laid flat at head of graves. Appoint a committee to see that there is someone there to attend to the cutting of grass, pulling of weeds, watering, etc., through the growing season. Penticton's and Kelowna's cemeteries are being well taken care of. Why not ours, too.
Truly yours,
MRS. WM. McCLURE.

Tenants Saw Daylight!

The occupants of two flats in Montreal miraculously escaped death or serious injury when the side wall of the dwellings crashed into a vacant lot. The photograph shows the scene shortly after the crash. The occupants of the lower flat, forewarned, moved furniture to opposite side of the building as may be noted in the picture.

Power Commission Acquires Building

Negotiations have been concluded by the B.C. Power Commission with the War Assets Corporation to acquire the modern power house building erected by the army on Canadian National Railway land at Terrace. It is proposed to obtain a long-term lease from the C.N.R. for the site of this building and to erect therein three generating units, now under construction by the Vivian Engine Works. The new distribution system in Terrace is near completion.

The new power house at Smithers is ready for installation of power units being constructed. A line crew has commenced the reconstruction of the Smithers distribution system and extension to Telkwa.

Foundations for the new power house at Vanderhoof are completed and a beginning has been made on erection of the building.

In connection with the Campbell River development, cement is now being used in the concrete head dam at the rate of 10,000 sacks per week, which thus far has been the limit of the available supply. Work has started on the division of Campbell River to permit the pouring of the section of the concrete dam in the river bed.

The contractors for the transmission line are setting footings for steel towers.

Spread Between Grades In Pools Under Discussion

The British Columbia Fruit Board has issued a circular to shippers regarding spreads between Grades in Pools.

During the years when the five pre-war figures have been the basis for calculating apple pool prices, the actual spreads between grades in the five-year average have appeared in final pool prices, states the circular, dated Oct. 3. Before the war, spreads between grades were fairly constant, regardless of whether prices were higher or lower. Fluctuations during those years were fairly narrow.

Pools in recent years have frequently closed at double the pre-war levels with the result that there now seems to be lacking a sufficient incentive to persuade the grower to do everything possible to produce high grade apples.

This subject has been aired at 25 district grower meetings and at the B.C.F.G.A. annual meeting of directors at which a resolution was passed recommending that the spreads between the grades be widened.

The War Measures Apple Committee has considered ways by which the desired end could be reached. It was felt it would not be advisable to adopt a fixed spread, as to what would be right in a year of high prices might be wrong when pools closed at lower levels.

Consideration was given to making the spreads between grades vary to correspond with

SEEK CONTRACT WITH KOOTENAY

KELOWNA — The Council will write to the West Kootenay Light and Power Company requesting a new electrical contract at a lower rate.

This was decided at the weekly meeting, held Monday, Oct. 21, after Alderman Jack Ladd pointed out that the City of New Westminster had negotiated a new contract and had passed the saving along to the consumer. It was stated, however, that the recent reduction granted to Kelowna electrical users is still greater than allowed at the coastal city up to a certain point.

Alderman Ladd said a total of 3,000,000 kilowatt hours had been used last year at a cost of $80,000. This year he thought the city will pay around $80,000, and that if the householders get all the electrical appliances they want, it could easily run to around $100,000.

the difference between the average five-year pool price for each year.

As an example of the actual 1945 pool prices for McIntosh and Winesap, and what they would have been had the spreads been altered as suggested, is the following:

Extra Fancy Macs, actual prices 1945 season, 1.9463.

After increasing spread between grades by 120 per cent, 2.1147.

Extra Fancy Winesaps, actual prices 1945 season, 2.5497. After increasing spread between grades by 120 per cent, 2.698.

There are similar differences right through the Fancy to Cee and Bulk.

Members of the War Measures Apple Committee are of the opinion that the method suggested would answer the purpose as nearly as any that could be devised.

Spreads between grades come very close to those in the ceiling prices authorized by the W.P.T.B. at which much of the crop has been sold recently.

The Committee is of the opinion that to make a change to this extent in one year might cause some hardship to growers, and that longer notice would enable them to alter their cultural practices to produce higher grades.

It has been decided that spreads between grades will be increased to one-half of the extent suggested this season.

The subject will be discussed at the next convention of the B.C.F.G.A.

INVESTIGATE FLOODING

Premier John Hart and the Hon. E. T. Kenny, Minister of Land and Forests, are deeply concerned over the decision of the International Joint Commission in granting the Seattle waterworks commission the right to build a dam to store water for their waterworks system. This storage dam will flood an area of 7,800 acres of land in British Columbia.

Mr. Kenny left Victoria for Hope to look over British Columbia timber lands that would be flooded by the power projects on the Skagit river. The amount of compensation to be paid the province has yet to be determined.

RAILWAY WATCHES

Ration Administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced that effective October 21st, railway employees' are no longer required to have an essential certificate to purchase a standard railroad watch.

CHEDDAR CHEESE

All cheddar cheese manufactured after October 12, in the provinces of Quebec and Ontario, which is purchased from manufacturers by wholesale distributors and wholesale buyers, must be held in storage and may not be sold or disposed of by them except on written instructions from the administrator of dairy products, Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces. The board will require wholesalers and wholesale buyers to report all purchases and manufacturers to report all sales. It is expected that these steps will result in a more equitable distribution of this type of cheese, the board states.

School News

(By LING)

Amid the hail, sleet and rain last Friday, we held an inter-house track meet. Contestants from both House I and II turned out in full force. The major events were: the 50-yard dash, the 75 and 100-yard dashes. Then one or two of the braver students tried a little hurdling and with good results, too. When the time came for the boys' 440-yard dash, three contestants calmly started walking on the track. There was no need to hurry, they knew they'd score points eventually. (Such sportive-spirit boys!). Relays were the next item and both boys and girls did exceedingly well. The broad and high jumps were next but by that time most of the fairer sex had fled to the school (can't say that I blame them, either.) Soon all eyes were focussed on board—finally there was a loud cheer—House I had done it! The score—House I, 169; House II, 165. Congratulations House I.

Clubs are again "going strong" at Summerland High school this year. The Camera club was formed, Ed. Kita president, and Marjorie Yamabe, secretary. We are all looking for some good pictures, kids—don't disappoint us!

Miss Morrison directs the Handi-craft club and its officers are Joan Hermiston as president, and Noreen Anderburg as secretary. The Library club, under Miss Aubrey's direction, is making good progress. (Keep up the good book reviews!) The Badminton club is to be started just as soon as racquets are obtained. (I hope it'll be soon.)

Tomorrow night is our big Halloween dance. See you there, kids!

Many thanks to the Review for giving us this space and we hope all will enjoy "bits of life" at the Summerland High school.

CANADIAN FASHION

COCKTAIL DRESS with the new dipped hemline. Designed by Alfandri in black crepe, it is embroidered all over with clover leaf motifs in sequins. Worn with ostrich feather hat, it is right for cocktail parties but quite out of place anywhere before five in the evening.

TAILORED SUIT by Shrybman of Montreal, in grey striped worsted. Simple of line but smart, it is perfect for office wear and can be dressed up with a gay scarf a piece of costume jewelry and a pretty hat for after office wear. This suit retails inexpensively.

Vernon Offered Street Lighting

VERNON—A proposal for modern, improved street lighting in Vernon was made by T. M. Gibson, manager of the local office of the B.C. Power Commission at last week's council meeting. If accepted after study by the electric light committee of the council, the power commission will cease selling merely electric power for city lighting and will provide a complete and improved system at cost.

In assuming complete responsibility for the street lighting service, Mr. Gibson said that the Commission would embark on a three-year program of replacing the present outmoded, inefficient fixtures with the most modern type lamps. The commission would assume all capital expenses and be responsible for operation and maintenance.

Cost to the city would be based on fixed charges for the service, including interest on the investment of the commission, depreciation and sinking fund reserves to retire the capital debt in 40 years.

To this would added operating expenses of administration and maintenance plus the actual cost of the electrical energy used. These expenses would be calculated at a flat rate per lamp per month, depending on the size of the lamp. The city would also pay for replacements of the glass-ware in the fixtures.

NEW APPOINTMENTS

Provincial Archivist Willard E. Ireland has been named as provincial librarian, succeeding C. Y. Morrison, who has been appointed superintendent of extension services for the Public Library Commission, a new position, it is announced by Hon. Dr. G. W. Weir, Minister of Education. Frank O. Morris, assistant surveyor-general of British Columbia, has been appointed chief of surveys, division of the Lands department, Hon. E. T. Kenney has announced. The appointment follows reorganization of the branch necessitated by the retirement of F. C. Green, surveyor-general, and the appointment of N. C. Stewart as his successor.

MOSQUITO CONTROL REPORT IS GIVEN

Last season, with a rising lake level, was one of the worst in history in the control of mosquitoes, the annual report of the Trout Creek Mosquito Control Association told the council on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 15.

However, with the use of DDT, the amount of oil used was cut down and made for easier operation, while the use of experimental quantities of a British formula, 666, was greatly advantageous, the report states.

It is hoped that larger quantities of 666 will be available commercially next season so that the control work will become easier. The rising lake level meant that large areas were flooded and increased the amount of control considerably.

Dr. James Marshall, government entomologist, helped the committee considerably in loaning his turbine sprayer for control work and also providing quantities of the British formula. His work and that of the Summerland Experimental Station were praised by the committee.

New Citizens to Hear Their Responsibilities

C. E. Bentley proposed to the Canadian Legion this month at the regular October meeting of the Summerland branch, that more attention should be paid to those seeking citizenship in Canada and that every effort should be made to acquaint these new citizens with the responsibilities they are undertaking when seeking rights in this country.

To this end, the Summerland branch has agreed to seek support from the Dominion and Provincial commands to study the broadcasts on citizenship of the American Legion and adopt them for presentation on Canadian networks and by any other means. "Before these people become citizens they should be told their responsibilities," declared Mr. Bentley, in presenting his resolution.

His idea met with unanimous response from the membership. Miss Esther Lamb of Victoria, who arrived on Monday, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Walden.

RED CROSS TO HOLD REGIONAL MEETING HERE

The third annual regional meeting of the Red Cross associations throughout the valley, will be held this year in West Summerland, on Wednesday, Nov. 27.

This is the first time that the regional meeting has been held in the Summerland district, and it will be attended by delegates from Vernon to the U.S. border. It will also be open to the public.

There will be afternoon and evening meetings, with arrangements being made by the local branch to serve tea and supper.

Delegates, who find it necessary to stay overnight will be billeted in Pentiction.

Guest speakers, who include many prominent officials of the Red Cross in B.C., will be Col. C. A. Scott, Red Cross Commissioner for B.C.; Mr. P. McKergow, provincial president of the Red Cross; Mrs. Goddard, provincial chairman of the Women's Work Committee of the Red Cross in B.C., and Mrs. Mawer, chairman of the train service and welcome home committee.

BIG ROTARY NIGHT

On Saturday evening, at the Oddfellows' hall, a successful auction sale and bingo contest was staged by the Rotary Club of Summerland. Reid Johnston proved an energetic and enthusiastic auctioneer and none of the big crowd which packed the hall was safe from his badgerings. Funds raised by this event covered the expenses incurred by the Rotary club in taking a party of school students to visit the famous Coulee dam.

VANCOUVER GIRL IS BRIDE AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The Summerland Baptist church was the scene of a charming wedding on Saturday, Oct. 26, with Rev. F. Haskins officiating, when Kate Louise Temple, formerly of Vancouver, was united in marriage with Thomas H. Racicot, of Summerland.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Louis J. Desrosier, was gowned in pale pink, with white gloves and accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of carnations and fern.

The groomsmen were Edward Racicot, while Gordon Racicot acted as usher.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Maybelle Wilkin sang, "True Love," accompanied by Mrs. Birch.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Legion hall, where the bride's table was centred with the traditional wedding cake. The toast to the bride was proposed by Edward Racicot, with the groom cleverly responding. Several telegrams of congratulations were received by the happy couple during the day, including one from England.

For a honeymoon to northern valley points, the bride donned a smart tailored grey wool frock, with which she wore an aqua green coat and black accessories.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Racicot will reside in Summerland.

Guests were the Misses Laura Maddison, Eileen and Laurel Desrosier, Rev. and Mrs. F. Haskins, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Desrosier, Edward and Gordon Racicot, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Monro, Mrs. Robert Richards, Mr. Norman Richards, Mrs. Birch, Mrs. Maybelle Wilkin, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Racicot.

meeting on Friday, November 1, at 8 p.m., and your approval and financial support of the project as it will be outlined.

Reid Johnston, president of the trade board, commented as follows: "Without a question of a doubt this is one time in the history of Summerland that the citizens as a whole can show their appreciation to our boys who have served overseas, and fought for freedom for this wonderful country of ours."

"The Summerland Board of Trade is 100 percent in support of The Memorial Park."

At present time, Reeve W. R. Powell had not returned from his coast trip and his views on the public meeting could not be obtained.

PROFITS DEPEND ON UP-TO-DATE FARM EQUIPMENT

"It is a recognized fact that without the use of up-to-date equipment your farm cannot give you all the profit it should," said Mr. H. E. Woodford, Manager of the Bank of Montreal, in discussing farm financing.

Modern farm machinery, materials for extensions and repairs, pumps, motors, and milking machines, adequate electrical facilities—these are the things, he said, which are absolutely necessary for maximum farm profits.

"The purchase of these profit-making aids may seem to be beyond your immediate financial resources," Mr. Woodford continued. "If so, the Bank of Montreal would like to help you, for the farm improvement loan plan, has been designed to meet just such circumstances."

"Taking advantage of this low-interest plan will enable you to own any of the modern appliances designed to increase profits of your farm."—Adt.

ASK SUPERVISION AT LOCAL DANCE

Police supervision at the Summerland Rehabilitation Committee dance at the Ellison hall on November 15 is being sought, it was revealed at Monday's council session, when a letter from the organization asked that the police constable "supervise the dance."

It was the council's opinion that the organization itself should "supervise" the dance inside the hall itself but the constable should check any infractions of the liquor act or any rowdiness outside the hall. If any disturbance is created inside the hall, then the constable could be called in it was suggested.

The suggestion was made that the police commissioner at Victoria be asked to instruct the local constable concerning this request, but yesterday, Municipal Clerk F. J. Nixon informed The Review that arrangements had been made without this recourse.

MRS. A. A. COWAN DIES AT HOSPITAL

A resident of Summerland for over 20 years, Aluvina Annie Cowan, widow of the late A. Cowan, passed away in the Summerland Hospital on Saturday, October 26, at the age of 73 years.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Cowan, who was born in Ontario, were held on Tuesday afternoon, from the Summerland Baptist Church, with Rev. F. Haskins officiating, assisted by Rev. Millenseifer, of the Church of God.

Interment was in the Peach Orchard Cemetery.

Mrs. Cowan is survived by a daughter, Mrs. D. Davis, of Vancouver, and two sons, Arnold, of Summerland, and Orville, at present visiting in Pentiction. Her husband predeceased her in 1924. Burial was in the Peach Orchard Cemetery. Mrs. Cowan was born in Ontario, were held on Tuesday afternoon, from the Summerland Baptist Church, with Rev. F. Haskins officiating, assisted by Rev. Millenseifer, of the Church of God.

Your Harvest Dollars...

If orchard profits came easily, it wouldn't matter too much how carelessly they were invested.

But, do they come easily? No, of course not.

Hence the wisdom of discussing your investment problem with someone able to advise intelligently.

Mr. Nares comes to Summerland each Wednesday. He will be glad to call and discuss this vital question if you will let him know by phone (collect) on Monday or Tuesday.
