

End of Summer Swimming

Above are two pictures of the Board of Trade swim classes as they appeared last Thursday afternoon in the final tests at Powell Beach. Top picture shows the intermediates ready for the start of the tests and being given last minute instructions from the Red Cross examiner. There were so many juniors to be tested that the float in the bottom picture is half submerged.

Dr. W. A. Clemens, University of British Columbia biologist, visited Summerland on Monday, Sept. 2, and reviewed the fish hatchery. He was impressed with the local water supply, which is obtained from a spring and never varies in temperature.

Dr. Clemens was appointed by the B.C. Game Commission as a neutral investigator and visited Shuswap Falls, Salmon Arm, Vernon, Kelowna, Summerland and Penticton.

He was accompanied on this trip by Game Commissioner G. H. Cunningham and C. H. "Jimmy" Robinson, fisheries supervisor at Nelson.

All fish hatcheries in the province were formerly administered by the dominion government, but five years ago these concerns were taken over by the provincial game commission, along with all sport fishing activities in B.C.

For years, fry has been released in interior streams and lakes, but it has now been determined that better results would be obtained by raising fry to fingerling size before distribution is made.

It is for this purpose that the provincial hatchery is to be established in the interior. Similar hatcheries to the proposal are already established at Stanley Park, Vancouver; Lloyd's Creek, Kamloops; and Nelson.

Cost Thousands

Such a hatchery would mean the appropriation of many thousands of dollars, as a refrigeration plant would have to be installed, as well as food grinding equipment, and several buildings constructed, including the actual rearing ponds.

The Okanagan fish derby, which was a successful event for several years, set aside $2,000 for the improvement of fishing in the interior, and this money may be utilized to defray a small portion of the expense of a B.C. fish hatchery.

As so many districts were endeavoring to obtain the site of the new hatchery, the game commission decided to appoint a neutral man to select the best site, and chose Dr. Clemens.

The U.B.C. biologist would not make any comment while in Summerland but it is known he was favorably impressed with the possibilities here.

Announcement of the choice of site is expected in the next few weeks, following the return of Dr. Clemens and Commissioner Cunningham to the coast. All the proposals with the exception of Princeton had been investigated when the party reached Summerland on Monday.

Mr. Miles will be specifically concerned with DDT analysis and will continue experimental spraying tests against codling moth.

He will be here until the year's end, and by that time the entomological department expects to have a fairly complete case against the moth, as far as the effectiveness of DDT in control work is concerned.

Two Red Cross instructors from Penticton, Misses L. Colquhoun and Kay McRae, were asked to take charge of the tests, along with Fred Schuman, Summerland, who passed his Red Cross trials earlier in the summer and became a qualified instructor.

Three seniors of a group of six passed the senior tests and will be qualified for the Red Cross senior swimmer certificates. They were Earl Ingalls, Bernice Elliott and Lois Sharp. Lois is only 18 years of age and made a splendid showing despite her extreme youth. This senior test called for 300 yards continuous swimming, divided into breast or side stroke, back crawl or back stroke and crawl or trudgen. Then the contestants were called upon to go 25 yards on their back using their arms only, 50 yards on their backs being propelled by legs only, do a surface dive and swim 15 feet under water, shallow and running dives, and 10 minutes treading water. Finally they had to pass a water safety knowledge test.

Nine intermediates were successful in their tests, which were of a similar nature to the senior, with shortened distances. The continuous swim was 120 yards.

Successful intermediate candidates were Joan Daniels, Freda Daniels, Irene Menu, Carol Raincock, Joan Dickson, Shirley Schumann, Vora Miller, Joan Macdonald and Geoffrey Solly.

Juniors tested numbered 34 and of those 27 were successful. This test was as follows: Jump into deep water, level off, 15 yards' swim, turn about 15 yards return, elementary back stroke of 15 yards, two minutes treading water, floating or swimming in one place, and finally a water safety knowledge test.

Successful juniors were: Muriel Weltzel, Marjorie Wing, Sharon Dowds, Phyllis Menu, Harvey Smith, Gordon Underwood and Carey, Laurie Klix, Melvin Mit-

Donald and Geoffrey Solly.

Military Training

When the world conflict was in its most despairing throes, popular topic of conversation centred around the need for compulsory military training. By far the vast majority of Canadians talked loudly and for long stretches on the need for compulsory military training of one or two years' duration for Canadian youth.

It was the majority opinion then that youth would be benefited by such a move. Military training would provide a discipline which seems to be lacking in many homes. Such a training would build young Canadians into hardier and sturdier citizens.

And besides that, such a program of training would act as a safeguard against the nation being caught so unprepared as it was in 1939.

But what of 1946? Not only has such discussion faded into the background but the armed services of the country would appear to be slipping back into the same state as in the '30's. Even a year after the cessation of hostilities a uniform appears an oddity.

It is a well-recognized fact that the Canadian army has not been able to keep in its ranks the number expected and in a large number of cases, militia units have dwindled to a meagre few.

Surely we are not going to allow the permanent force to revert to its pitiful handful? Surely we are not going to look again on the reserve force as the "Saturday night soldiers?" Unthinking persons in the '30's scoffed at the N.P.A.M. and its endeavors to keep alive a modicum of military organization. But it was that tiny handful of militia men who formed the main nucleus for the powerful Canadian army and the people of Canada should be forever thankful to that small but determined group.

Not only must Canada decide soon in favor of compulsory training for all its youth, but we must press for an elevation in the status of the Canadian paid soldier so that the profession can attract more of the proper type who will be willing to make such endeavor their life-work.

It is essential for the welfare of the country that we are not caught napping again.

Community Service

In the past two months we have been able to do two small services to the community which have brought thanks to the paper but also reflect the co-operative and public-spirited attitude of Summerland citizens.

Earlier this summer, the school trustees were desperate for accommodation for the new members of the school staff. The Review commented editorially on this condition and sought the co-operation of any person who could assist in housing new teachers, so that local children could obtain the best instruction possible.

At a recent meeting of Penticton School District 15, Trustee Dodwell remarked that following The Review editorial, the local trustees had received numerous calls and offers of assistance. The problem had been solved in short order.

A month ago, bathers and picnic parties at Powell Beach were bothered with dogs running at large and creating a public nuisance. The Review published this fact and asked for the public's co-operation in keeping canines under control.

Last week, Magnus Tait, who supervises this popular summer beach, informed The Review that since this plea was given publicity there have been practically no dogs at large there.

The Review is happy that it has been able to perform a public service. Its editorial and news columns will always remain open to act in the public benefit.

Labor Solves Its Problem

Decision of Okanagan packing house workers that they would not be dictated to by international bosses who were ordering them to act contrary to their own wishes and desires has been welcomed by the entire Okanagan. The packing house employees have formed their own union, have broken from the C.I.O.-C.C.L. group and will seek a formal association with the Canadian Congress of Labor for the purpose of sending delegates to conventions.

This was a hard decision to make and was only taken after weeks of careful discussion. Meetings were held in all locals and they were all well attended. It was a majority decision by a wide margin.

Handling of perishable food products provides a different problem from that of ordinary labor adjustments. Peaches and pears cannot be left for indefinite periods, because employees will not work more than 44 hours. And there is not sufficient skilled labor nor sufficient accommodation for employers to consider double shifts.

Packing house workers realized these problems and appreciated that if they went out on strike or caused shut-downs in any manner, it would not be their immediate employers—the packers or shippers—who would be the main sufferers, but it would be the growers who would ultimately have to stand the loss.

One other feature of the employees' move may finally work to their advantage in providing them with a strong and united union. With the packing house workers in an Okanagan union divorced from international aspects, those packing house groups who refused to join before may now be agreeable to making one united body.

Summerland packing house workers turned the cold shoulder to union packing house organizers before, but they may now feel more friendly to the movement. It would be to the employers' advantage to have a strong, well-organized packing house workers' union, centred in the Okanagan, knowing that they would have to deal with men who have the industry as a whole at heart, rather than a union dictated to by paid organizers from across the line.

Considerable comment was aroused among the business men of West Summerland on Saturday night when the main business section was lighted for the street carnival. Many suggestions were offered that the council should continue those lights. The business section could certainly use more illumination.

CORNERSTONE FOR A HOUSE OF LIFE

by---
Grove Hambidge

On Monday, September 2, the second session of F.A.O. opened in Copenhagen, Denmark, with Hon. James Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, representing Canada, assisted by Dr. E. S. Archibald, director, Dominion experimental farms; Dr. J. F. Booth, economics division head; H. H. Hannam, president, Canadian Federation of Agriculture; Col. J. S. Robertson, agriculture commissioner for Canada in the U.K., and many others.

In this issue of The Review, we present the first section of an article on the organization, aims and ideals of this international body, written specially for F.A.O. by Grove Hambidge. Further installments of this article will appear in subsequent issues of The Review.

In October, 1945, at the beautiful city of Quebec, in Canada, the governments of 42 countries joined together to form a new world organization, the Food and Agriculture organization of the United Nations. It is called FAO because those are the initials of its name in the English language. The member nations created FAO to help people attain three things all men want—good living and health and peace.

If we are to have good living and health greater than most people have now, there is no better place to begin than with such things as food and clothing and shelter, which everyone needs. If we are to have peace, the people of all lands must learn to work together for these things.

Food and the materials needed to make clothing and to build houses come for the most part from the world's farms, fisheries, and forests. It is here that we need to begin making improvements if we are to produce enough for everyone.

FAO has been set up for this purpose. It will help nations to work together to improve the farms, fisheries, and forests of the world; the markets where the products of the farms, fisheries, and forests are bought and sold; the trade in these products among nations; and the health and well-being of the people.

Many men and women in many lands have come to believe this is one of the things that most needs to be done all over the world in the next few years. I shall try to tell you briefly why. It will help to explain what FAO means to you.

WORLD VIEW

First I will suppose that you can go high into the air in a rocket ship and look down upon mountains, rivers, lakes, and seas and farms, forests, towns, and cities. Not only can you view the whole panorama of the slow-turning earth down below; I will suppose that you also have a device that enables you, by pushing a few little buttons, to look into the homes of people and see what they do and how they fare.

HOW THE PEOPLE LIVE

Here is the first thing you see: Just as the countless stars in the heavens are scattered far apart in some places and clustered thickly together in others, so are the two billion two hundred million people on the earth. In the Americas, Africa, and Australia, they are in general widely scattered except for the little spots where they have crowded together in towns and cities. But in Europe and Asia, the people in many large areas

THE Feminine Front

Muriel Hurry

The summer vacation is ended. Children are bouncing off to school. Placid housewives have turned into packers and pickers, frantically trying to squeeze household duties and canning into a too-short day. The town is buzzing with strange faces, cannery or other fruit industry workers. September is the Okanagan's busiest month.

September also seems to be the Okanagan's happiest month. The harvest is rolling in. Things are going pretty well on schedule, despite the dark fears of recent months. Contrary to expectations at the time of the recent woodworkers' strike, and even with the bumper crop expected, it now looks as though there will not be a serious shortage of box shooks. Despite the tragic hail storm of last July, the 1946 fruit crop is expected to be of a record yield. Strained faces have relaxed, worries have been eased. Nothing has turned out as badly as has been feared. Nothing ever does.

Perhaps this winter we can even afford the fur coat that we have wanted for years. According to an authority at the recent fur show here, the newest fashions in furs for milady are in shades of grey, and silver Russian squirrel will be definitely the leading fur this winter.

Fur coats with tuxedo fronts are still very popular, and push-up sleeves are being featured. Matching fur muffs with plastic trim are a smart accessory and, of course, the fur-trimmed hats are the perfect complement to the fur coat of your dream.

Among gowns, pastel wools will be this winter's rage, according to advance fashion trends, and the smartest styles are still the simple styles.

The wisest hints in helping you to buy your new fall wardrobe is to buy your gowns, suits and top coats with an alert eye to the color and cut that suit your individual appearance. Then let your character express itself by going berserk over accessories. For instance, a smart grey frock may be dressed up for gala occasions with green trim and accessories, and toned down for more solemn affairs or office wear with a switch to navy trim. Grey and green are a smart color combination this fall, as are all combinations of very contrasting shades. The thankfulness in all women's hearts at the cessation of the dark war days is expressed in these new and courageous color trends. Somber colors will be as unpopular this fall and winter as a jealous woman.

Several years ago, the smartly dressed woman had very little choice in clothes in West Summerland, but with the well-stocked gown shops now here, even the woman with the most discriminating taste can find a complete wardrobe to suit her fancy and pocketbook. As with groceries, it pays to shop for clothes in your home town.

seem to be as thickly clustered as the stars in the Milky Way. You would find if you could count them that two thirds of all the people in the world are packed into these thickly settled places.

As you observe what the people are doing, you see that over the world as a whole two out of every three are working on the soil and the sea—on the farms, in the forests, in the fisheries; and that most of these are on the farms. But again the count is very uneven. In the crowded places—parts of Europe and most of Asia—you see almost everyone toiling with bent backs on the farms—seven, or sometimes even nine, out of every ten working people. This is true, too, in some of the more thinly settled places, such as South America. But in others, notably much of North America, the United Kingdom and Northwestern Europe, you see very few on the farms, not more than two or three out of every ten.

In these places most of the people work in the factories and offices of the cities and towns.

TOO MUCH POVERTY

Now as you drift along in the upper air, you look more closely into the affairs of these people. Peering down into their homes, you see that most of the two billion two hundred million are poor. Most of them do not have enough food to eat or enough clothes to wear or enough of anything else for decent living. You see that there is much suffering and sickness because of the lack of the necessities of life, and especially the lack of enough good food.

The greatest hunger and poverty is in those places, particularly in Asia, where most of the people are working with bent backs on the farms, each trying to get his own food directly from the soil. Death comes in the end to all human beings, but when these people die they are still young men and young women—most of them not over thirty, many even younger; and many infants perish. Even in their short lives, great numbers never have strong, healthy bodies. They are racked and weakened by such diseases as tuberculosis, anemia, rickets, beri-beri, pellagra, because they do not get enough good food. Sometimes famine visits some of these crowded places. No one has any food for them. Gaunt men and women and children lie down by thousands to die.

In those places, notably in much of North America and parts of Europe, where fewer people work on the land and each has more land to till, you observe far more prosperity. The farmers produce much more than they and their families can eat or wear, so they have a great deal to sell to the workers in the cities and towns. These in turn make things the farmer needs and sell them to him. The people in general have more food and better food, and more of all the other things that make life comfortable. There is less sickness, too, and the people live twice as long as those in the poor and crowded parts of the earth. Most of them reach sixty, and many are Hale and hearty well beyond that age.

Still, life is not by any means perfect even in those places. A good many people are poor. A third of them never have as good food as they should have. Those who lack enough food do not starve, but neither do they have full health and long life.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION COURSE

A four-year degree course in physical education has been approved in principle by the senate and the board of governors of the University of British Columbia. Full approval has been granted to the second year of this course, which will be offered for the first time in the coming 1946-47 session. The course for the upper years and the degree to be offered will be decided at a later date.

WANTS TWO LOTS

Consolidated Enterprises Ltd., wish to purchase two lots in lower town, Summerland, for Sunoka Fruit Products Ltd. These two lots are under lease to the Sunoka company and buildings have been erected there. Before a formal purchase can be transacted, the council will have to obtain a release from the Sunoka company, it was decided last week.

POLIO EXPERIMENT—Dr. Howard A. Howe (left), one of a group of research scientists at the John Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health, and William J. Bender, technician, say goodbye to chimpanzee Yogi. Yogi was one of six chimps used in experiments to develop a vaccine against infantile paralysis. However, he has since built up such an immunity to the polio virus that he can't be used in the project any more.

B.C. FARM HELP

The Honourable Frank Putnam, minister of agriculture, announced during the week that as a result of representations made by his department, a quota of the 4,000 Polish war veterans being brought from Britain to Canada have been secured to work on British Columbia farms in order to alleviate the farm labor shortage.

BLACKTOP SCHOOL WALKS

Summerland council gave its approval on Monday, August 26, to a proposal from Penticton School District No. 15 that the sidewalk blacktop around the schools be treated while the municipality still has some hard surfacing material available. Roads Foreman Les Gould will be instructed to proceed with the work as soon as possible.

As this is being written, Summerland's ball club had not made any decision regarding a possible protest of its game last Sunday with Keremeos. Last Sunday's ball game was a heart-breaker for big Bill Evans to lose as he pitched heads up, ball most of the game and limited Keremeos to one hit.

Despite Summerland's nine clouts, three of them doubles, only one run could be squeezed across. Keremeos went into the lead in the first frame when Campbell, lead-off man, hit Keremeos' only single. He stole second and scored on a close play at home on Walters' roller.

The Similkameen lads went ahead, 2-0, in the third when Laughlin walked, went to second on a passed ball and stole third. He came home on another steal while Evans was looking out the window.

Summerland's lone counter came in the seventh. With one away, Walsh doubled scoring on George Clark's two-bagger. Vandburgh singled to right field and Clark tried to make home but was nipped at the plate, thus ending a chance to knot the count.

In the last of the seventh, errors on Biagioli and Clark allowed K. McCord to score a 3-1 lead which they held to the end.

Summerland's fleet-footed base runners weren't on their toes last Sunday, as six times they were caught trying to stretch extra bases. In the fourth, Taylor singled but was caught out between first and second. Hanks was safe on an error in the outfield, went to second on Thompson's single and was caught out at third base. Thompson also died at third on Walsh's grounder, and no runs came across.

Clark, Thompson and Taylor were the heavy Summerland hitters, but their efforts were scattered and the local lads could not come through in the pinches.

DITCH TO BE RE-OPENED

When H. Westerlaken bulldozed his property some weeks ago, he partially filled in a ditch which carried away drainage water. On August 26, the council's attention was drawn to water conditions arising as a result of the ditch being filled in and has requested Mr. Westerlaken to replace the ditch.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Garneau, of Princeton, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. McPherson.

Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Underhill, of Kelowna, were recent visitors at the home of Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Day.

Old-Time Agent Is Returning

Although DDT has proved such a powerful agent in the control of flies and insects, pyrethrum and rotenone, the two well-known substances used in agriculture and domestic sprays, have by no means been supplanted. They were practically munitions of war and were in short supply for civilian use during hostilities. Supplies are now on the way to regain their normal position in the trade.

Pyrethrum, variously known as Persian Pelliory and Dalmatian flowers according to their place of origin, came originally from Dalmatia, in Yugoslavia, but after the First World War the trade was monopolized by the Japanese. Later a high quality flower was developed in the British Kenya Colony in Africa, and during the Second World War a source of supply was developed in South America. At the present time, Kenya supplies are coming forward and, with anticipation of a good crop this year, it is expected that the position will soon be at normal.

Rotenone, which is derived from derris, sometimes called tuba, originates in the East Indies. It is also obtainable from cube and timbo which grow in South America. Now that the war is over, East Indian supplies are once more obtainable, but they are going mostly to the British biting and sucking flies and other Isles. The South American supplies are more or less confined to the tive against warble grubs, from American continent, and, now that which warble flies emerge,

SCHOLARSHIP FOR PENTICTON GIRL

Happiest girl in B.C. today is Miss Sara-Lee Tidball of Penticton. She is the winner of a special university entrance scholarship for junior matriculation students. Announcement of the precedent-making award was made today by the Board of Governors of U.B.C.

Miss Tidball ranked second among the students competing for the scholarship in her area.

In spite of illness, she sat for every examination, and what is more, achieved very high class standing. During the English composition exam she was forced to leave before half-time. In this brief period she had completed three-quarters of the paper—and when the paper was marked had made 80 per cent.

CONFER HONORARY DEGREE

An honorary degree of doctor of laws will be conferred on Dr. S. J. Willis, former superintendent of education for B.C., at the autumn congregation on October 30, it was announced today by the president, Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, of U.B.C. Superintendent of education for 25 years, Dr. Willis retired from office in 1945.

A MESSAGE To All Canadian People

There is in Canada a branch of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR UNIVERSAL FINGERPRINTING, the Canadian Headquarters is situated in Montreal, P.Q., with branches throughout Canada and Newfoundland.

THE FOUNDING OF THE ASSOCIATION

The Association was founded by Mr. George LaBelle of Hartford, Conn., for the purpose of educating the public as to the real value of UNIVERSAL FINGERPRINTING, and in 1944 appointed Mr. F. E. Fenn of Montreal, P.Q. for the Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland.

The NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR UNIVERSAL FINGERPRINTING has been spreading throughout Canada ever since, it is a private Association because it receives NO Federal, Provincial or Municipal subsidies.

It is a private Association performing a public service it is public service as its sole aim is to "educate the public as to the real value and benefits of UNIVERSAL FINGERPRINTING."

This program will probably consist of house-to-house canvases, lectures, visits to schools, and factories, newspaper and magazine articles, and a variety of campaigns.

ELIGIBILITY FOR MEMBERSHIP

Any Canadian is eligible for membership—No charge is made for membership cards—the Association is wholly dependent for its operation on the voluntary contributions of its members.

PERSONNEL IN CANADA

Mr. F. E. Fenn, a 1935 graduate of the Institute of Applied Science, has been advocating UNIVERSAL FINGERPRINTING for many years through the medium of newspaper and magazine articles.

His personnel will consist of one Newfoundland Director, nine Provincial Directors, and numerous City Directors. The Provincial Directors will be appointed by Mr. Fenn, Dominion Director, while city Directors will be appointed by the Provincial Directors—All these being voluntary workers and chosen from the membership.

If you are a Canadian citizen, the type who can lead others, have a liking for organization work or only desire to become a member there is a special opportunity in this Association for you. We ask you to consider it today.

OPERATES ON NON-PROFIT BASIS

This Association operates on a non-profit basis. It has nothing to sell, it is purely educational—if you have any finger print question or questions pertaining to UNIVERSAL FINGERPRINTING, send them in and they will be gladly answered without cost or obligation.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION SERVICE

The National Association for Universal Fingerprinting is an ardent apostle of Herchel, Glaton, and Henry, and as such is elevating the Science of Finger printing from the air of the felon and the prison cell. Finger prints are a God-given right to humanity and a blessing in disguise to everyone. The general public are not thoroughly familiar with this Science and the good that is in it for them. We have undertaken the task to let them use it.

A SHORT HISTORY OF FINGERPRINTING

Finger prints centuries ago, were used as a personal mark of distinction on private documents and literature. Centuries later this Science was developed and used to record the criminal. Now after a period of perfecting this Science it is again the privilege of the deserving and moral citizen to use it as a protection to himself to society, and to the well being of all concerned and that concerns him.

There are many so called identifications on the market which serve as identification only as long as they do not get separated from whom it is supposed to identify. A pocket card on which appears a name is only good in a very limited capacity, and where a person is already known. The National Association card enables the individual to take advantage of a Science brought about by the mysterious working of God and human nature, which no man doubts.

There is not a person that can truthfully show us that they are not in need of real identification at times, whether once or many times in a life time. The person does not realize this to its full value due to the lack of knowledge on the matter. The well informed will not hesitate to be finger printed. Let it be understood right at this point (contrary, possibly to your own conclusion) that the National Association's records or information is not used in a criminal capacity but for the individual's protective identification.

HOW TO OBTAIN THIS SERVICE

This service obtainable to you WITHOUT COST. However, we like members to make a voluntary contribution of at least three dollars for their membership to help defray the costs of carrying on our work. However, no one has ever been refused membership because of failure to contribute. This service is scientific, novel, infallible, and an asset, especially when compared to other services. It is the last in identification, issued with commercial use in view, for the use of thinking and honest people. It is too good for the criminal and protects you against him.

Credentials are not true credentials as they can be subjected to false or fraudulent use. The National Association's credentials when they are issued to anyone, is a true one of that person.

The form below is for your convenience. Send it in to the Dominion Director, Mr. F. E. Fenn, 2655 Coleraine St., Montreal 22, P.Q.

Memorial Gym Site
At U.B.C. Approved

Proposed site of the B.C. war memorial gymnasium, to be erected on the U.B.C. campus, has been approved by University authorities, it was announced today.

A huge two-way sign, carrying the motto "Tuum Est—It's Up To You," has been erected at the corner of University Boulevard and Wesbrook Crescent, close to the spot where the $500,000 structure will be built.

This motto, perennial challenge to generations of U.B.C. students, will greet the 8000 undergraduates when they return to the campus in the fall. Plans are already under way to resume their campaign for a provincial memorial to all B.C.'s youth who served in two world wars.

Students and graduates are confident that their "drive" will go over the top with an all-out province-wide appeal, and that they will be able to begin construction in 1947.

The B.C. memorial fund has now reached a total of $150,000.

Mrs. S. Angove returned last Thursday morning from a visit in Vancouver, and has taken up residence in the house formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Clark.

Valley Fastball
Title At Stake
Over Weekend

East Kelowna fastball girls, without a single defeat to blemish their record this season, are coming to Summerland this Sunday to play the local fastball lasses in a two out of three series for the Okanagan championship.

Summerland was winner of the Southern Interior Fastball League, defeating Penticton two straight games in the playoffs.

Now the local gals are challenging East Kelowna for the valley honors. Game is expected to kick off at 2:30 on the local grounds.

Doreen Howard will likely be on the mound for the Summerland girls, backed by the usual lineup which took them to the top of the heap in southern valley play.

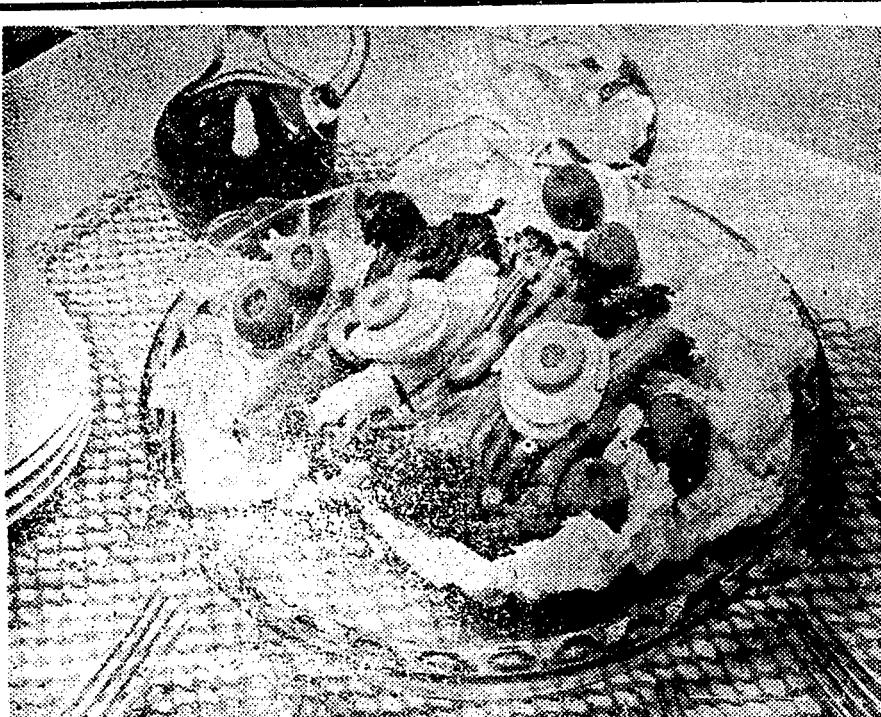

East Kelowna is reported to have won the league schedule in central Okanagan without a loss and then defeated Vernon for the north and central titles.

Thirteen local boys were successful in recent junior first aid examinations held by the Summerland branch of the St. John Ambulance Association. Certificates for these successful candidates have now been received here and have been handed out.

Winners were as follows: Leslie Abernethy, Billy Allen, Harry Daniels, Keith Haskins, Robert Keibel, Jim Logie, Lorne Logie, Michael Maier, Jack Miller, Graham Munn, John Palmer, Ronnie Ritchie and Daryl Weitzel.

TREES WILL REMAIN

Water Foreman E. Kercher reported to the council, August 26, that it would be an expensive item to take down three trees on the road allowance near the bank house. W. Arnett had made a request two weeks ago that these trees be removed because of the damage to adjoining property where growth of potatoes and cherry trees is suffering. The council will inform Mr. Arnett that it cannot accede to his request at present.

THIS WEEK'S RECIPE

Broccoli Salad. Tiny whole pickled beets, cucumber chunks and quartered tomatoes may replace the olive garnish in the picture above, sent in by Louise Price Bell.

Broccoli Salad

One small bunch broccoli, 1 egg, hard cooked, 6 stuffed olives, or tiny whole pickled beets, quartered tomatoes or cucumber chunks,  $\frac{1}{2}$  head lettuce. Wash and separate broccoli, place in a 2 quart saucepan, cover with boiling water, add a teaspoon of salt and cook until tender.

Drain and place in refrigerator until cold.

Place in a glass pie plate on lettuce.

Cut egg in thin slices and place on broccoli.

Arrange olives around edge of lettuce, using about two sliced ones to garnish salad.

Serve with vinegar or French Dressing.—Louise Price Bell.

Winona Margaret Munro Is Bride At St. Stephen's*ENGLISH BRIDE IS GUEST OF HONOR

St. Stephens Anglican church, West Summerland, was the scene of a charming wedding, with Canon F. V. Harrison officiating, on Saturday, August 31 when Winona Margaret, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Findlay Munro, Meadow Valley, became the bride of Owen David Ellis, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Ellis, of Comox.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Phillip Munro, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Ruth Dale.

Traditional white in flowered organza was chosen by the attractive bride, and the lovely gown was fashioned with a long torso and a full skirt, short sleeves with puffed effect, a row of small buttons at the back, and a sweetheart neckline. Her long veil was of white silk net, with a headdress of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of red carnations and white asters, with heather and fern. The bride's only jewelry was a pearl necklace and earring set, a gift of the groom.

The only attendant of the bride was her sister, Miss Sybil Munro, who was dressed in peach moire taffeta, with a smart bustle effect and long waist. Her headdress was of peach ostrich feathers and veiling and her bouquet was white and pink carnations, heather and fern.

The groomsman was Mr. Cyril Pollock, of Comox, who was a friend of the groom during overseas service. Don Johnston and Don Agur were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Nilson, where the rooms were attractively decorated with seasonal flowers, and the bride's table was centred with a lovely three-tiered cake.

The mother of the bride was dressed in pastel blue crepe with matching hat and accessories and she wore a corsage of carnations and fern.

Mrs. Ellis, mother of the groom chose a gown of soft shade of ashes-of-roses, with grey hat and accessories, and her corsage was also of carnations and fern.

Mrs. A. K. Elliott and Mrs. Isabel Nelson presided at the urns, while serviteurs included Miss Joan Ellis, of Comox, Miss Isabel Borg, of Britannia Beach; Mrs. E. J. Jones, of Vancouver, and Mrs. J. Hale of Pentleton a sister of the bride.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Stewart Jackson, of Pentleton, and was responded to by the groom.

During the reception, several wires and long-distance calls of congratulations were received by the young couple, including a long-distance call of congratulation from the brother of the bride, Donnie Munro, of Montreal.

The bride's bouquet was presented to her mother.

For a honeymoon by motor to Banff, the bride donned a princess blue dressmaker suit, with white blouse and brown hat and accessories. The young couple will return to Summerland via U.S. points, for a visit before proceeding to Comox, where they will make their future home.

PLenty Of WATER

Surprise was registered by Summerland council when it received a report on Monday, August 28, that Thirlk dam was at a height of 30 feet on August 24. Such a body of water still available this late in the season in years gone by was unheard of. The spillway has only been opened nine inches, the report stated.

Leaching Of Soils Takes Away Minerals

When the rock material of the earth is ground up by the action of water wind or glaciers, and the fine material so formed is deposited over the surface of the earth, we call it "soil," says J. C. Wilcox of the Summerland Experimental Station. Mr. Wilcox explains that the original soil consists of particles of gravel, sand, silt and clay, all obtained from the ground-up rock material. It also contains a certain amount of soluble minerals.

When the soil is first formed, some of the soluble minerals may be leached away. During the succeeding centuries, more minerals are brought into solution from the soil particles, and more leaching away of these minerals will occur. The principal agent causing this leaching is rainfall. Where the rainfall is heavy, leaching is heavy and where the rainfall is light, leaching is light. Thus, in arid or semi-arid areas there is a much better chance of the soil being rich in minerals than in the more humid areas.

In the southern interior of British Columbia there is a large area that can be classed as "semi-arid," with an annual precipitation ranging between six and 16 inches. Here the leaching is much less than it is farther west in the province, where precipitation is much heavier and the semi-arid soils are therefore richer in certain minerals.

Among the minerals affected are some that are needed by plants. For example, potassium, phosphorus and calcium are comparatively plentiful in the semi-arid soils. So also is sodium, which may even become too highly concentrated in some spots for normal plant growth. Plants are therefore not as likely to suffer as they are in the more humid from deficiencies of these minerals. Moreover, there is seldom any need to apply lime to the soil by way of fertilizers.

This does not mean that no deficiencies in plant nutrients are encountered in the southern interior of British Columbia. As almost all of the soil is low in organic matter, nitrogen and boron, some fertilizer is necessary right from the start. Moreover, where irrigation is practised the minerals are gradually removed by leaching, so that eventually it may become necessary to apply an increasing number of minerals to the soil by way of fertilizers.

Purchase Sprinkler
For Station Orchard

Purchase of certain trees in the Kootenay area to conduct more exhaustive research into the "Little Cherry" virus disease is being arranged by the B.C. F.G.A. Repayment will be guaranteed by the Dominion agricultural department.

Plant pathologists Dr. H. R. McLarty, Dr. Maurice Welsh and Fred Andison have been conducting exhaustive experiments in the Kootenays and will now be able to continue their survey to a conclusion.

In a similar manner, the establishment of a sprinkler irrigation system in the entomological orchard at the Summerland experimental station will be speeded up in order to co-operate with Dr. James Marshall, in charge of this orchard.

The Misses E. M. and F. H. Howden, who have spent the last two months at their summer home, "Blue Acres," Trout Creek, left at the week-end, via Seattle, to return to their home in Vancouver.

U.B.C. To Campaign At Fairs This Fall

U.B.C. is "going to the fair" this autumn.

For the first time on record, the University of British Columbia will display its wares to various communities of the province at the annual fall fairs to be held early in September.

The new scheme of bringing the university to the people is part of the "Know Your University" campaign being undertaken by U.B.C. during September and part of October.

Display booths, showing what the university has done and is attempting to do to serve the moods of all the people of B.C., will be set up at fall fairs in Langley, Alberni, Chilliwack, Armstrong and South Burnaby.

The U.B.C. tour of local fairs is being sponsored by the Department of University Extension under Dr. G. M. Shrum, and members of the department will be on hand to answer queries on new courses, practical research, extension services and the university in general.

An exhibit will be pictures showing recent developments of the campus, outlines of new courses being offered, and samples of group courses offered by the extension department.

Mrs. O. Maisonneuve is visiting her mother Mrs. J. L. Logie.

U.S. Navy's Largest is Rolled Out

Here is the Lockheed Constitution, largest plane ever built for the U.S. Navy as it was taken from its hangar for a preview at Burbank, Calif. It will make its air premiere within the next few days. The 92-ton airplane is expected to attain a speed of 300 miles per hour with a 6,000-mile cruising range. Its four engines put out 12,000 horsepower and double decks carry 163 passengers plus crew, or a useful load of 35 tons. An idea of the size of the Constitution can be gained by comparing it with the plane at right, a Lockheed model 12, an eight-seater job.

Packing House Workers Break With International Union - Form Own Group

Fruit and vegetable workers affiliated with the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) have broken away from that body and have set up a union of their own in the Okanagan Valley, which will be known as the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers' union. The new union is composed of eight locals in the Okanagan.

Following several weeks of highly confidential negotiations between employers and employees in the Valley's fruit-packing industry, the break was decided at a convention of union representatives in Penticton.

It is understood the new union will apply to the Canadian Congress of Labor to set up an organization with autonomous rights, affiliated in convention with the C.C.L. President of the new union is J. W. Blogg, Penticton; first vice-president, E. Green, Oliver; second vice-president, Earl Gray, Vernon; secretary, S. Knibbish, Okanagan Centre. Mrs. T. Attwood is a member of the executive.

Decision to form a new union was unanimous among fruit and vegetable workers. "Members want to run their own affairs instead of having outside dictation."

It is a case of democracy working from the bottom up and not from the top down," an official declared.

Under the new set up, the union will pay three cents a month per member to the C.C.L. instead of 75 cents.

Issue Statement

Asked the reason why the Valley workers broke away from the U.P.W.A., an official stated that the union may run the meat industry, but that the situation is different in the Valley in view of the fact that the farmer enters the picture in addition to the employer and the employee.

In the meantime, full agreement has been reached between the Fruit and Vegetable Workers' union and the labor negotiating committee of the fruit industry.

Following is a statement issued by the negotiating committee:

"Wage rates negotiated earlier this year will remain in effect. The hours of work between June 1 and November 30 will, in accordance with Orders 46 (1946) and 47 (1946) of the Board of Industrial Relations, be nine (9) hours per day and for the balance of the season, December 1 to May 31, eight (8) hours per day. It is, of course, understood that the nine-hour day will apply only when condition warrant and the eight-hour day and forty-four (44) hour week will be extended to the workers as long as harvesting and packing conditions permit."

"Complete agreement has been reached with respect to the interpretation of the annual holidays act as it affects employees in the fruit industry."

"Plans are being made immediately to set up labor-management production committees in each of the main shipping centres where production problems will be freely discussed between employees and management."

"A measure of union security is being extended to the union, which it is believed, will prove to be of benefit to all factions in the industry."

J. R. J. Stirling, president, B.C. Fruit Growers' association, in a prepared statement, made the following comment:

"I consider the completion of working agreement between the fruit industry and its employees as a big stride forward in the right direction. Both the workers and representatives of the industry are to be congratulated on what they have accomplished and I feel sure they have laid the foundation for complete co-operation in the industry for years to come."

"The setting up of labor-management production committees should provide for discussion of problems that continually arise in the industry and I feel sure these committees will be the best insurance against misunderstandings and disputes. I am wholeheartedly behind the plan."

QUERIES ELECTRIC BILL

J. S. Sheeley approached the Summerland council on Aug. 20 to enquire into a bill he received for electric light extension at a cost of $205. No estimate had been given when the work was projected, he stated, and he had been led to believe that the amount involved would be much lower than the municipality's account now indicated. He also stated that three other nearby residents benefitted from the improved service provided but they had not been asked to share in the cost.

The council noted the objection and will question Electrical Foreman T. P. Thornber

B.C. Peach Crop Up 200 Per Cent This Year

Hundreds of thousands of bushels of peaches are now on the markets throughout Canada from the orchards in Ontario and British Columbia. The Ontario crop this year is estimated at 1,566,000 bushels, about 250,000 bushels more than in 1945 and about 548,000 bushels more than the 10-year average; and the British Columbia crop at 670,000 bushels is 206 per cent above the 10-year average crop of 219,000 bushels.

With the recent increase in sugar ration it will be possible for more peaches to be canned both in the home and in commercial canning plants than has been the case in recent years. Peaches take less sugar than any other fruit. Peaches can be served on the menu in numerous ways as fresh fruit and they can be pickled and made into marmalade.

Of all the fruits grown none is more luscious or more healthful as food than peaches. Scientists say Canadian grown peaches have an incomparable flavor and quality.

Oppose Sale of Beer And Wine In Cafes

VERNON—Imbibing habits of the British, Americans and Canadians came up for discussion by the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association at their meeting in Vernon on August 22, when reference was made to a recent newspaper report that Attorney-General Gordon Wismere favored the English pub.

Alderman E. B. Cousins, Vernon, was opposed to any move to authorize the sale of beer and light wines in cafes or restaurants in B.C. He thought this would be the outcome of Mr. Wismere's reported preference for the "pub system" and proposed a resolution to head off action along this line. "I'm against it for fear the situation would become like that across the line," said Alderman Cousins. He told how "everything but good Scotch, unfortunately, was sold in one-half of the service stations where he had stopped in the United States.

"That's alright," commented Robert Lyon, Reeve of Penticton, "they were just selling two different types of lubrication, one for machines and one for humans."

"I'm all for the friendly atmosphere of the Old Country pub system," said F. W. Scott, Mayor of Kamloops, "but there is an altogether different attitude here. You sit down in a Canadian beer parlor and see how many you can put down in the shortest space of time." Mayor David Howrie was not too sure about the English pub.

"Perhaps it has changed since I left Scotland, or perhaps it was different up there," he said, "but in the town where I lived, there were 18 licensed houses for a population of about 2,000 people, and on a cold night, it was a pretty wild town."

Mr. Lyon and J. H. Johnson, councillor of Penticton, thought that Mr. Cousins' motion was jumping the gun. They preferred to wait until Attorney-General Wismere made some definite move, and if it was for the English pub system, that would be all to the good.

A motion opposing any sale of beer and light wines in cafes or restaurants in B.C. was passed by a narrow margin, with four or five men abstaining from the vote.

Miss Norma Inglis, of Vancouver, was visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Inglis, last week.

Editor, The Review:

I think that some of our new residents may not know of the value of the public library here.

With longer evenings approaching, they could have such pleasure if, on their Saturday shopping tour, they called in at the Union library on the high school grounds, and took home an armful of books for their families enjoyment through the week-end.

The children's books are especially delightful and there are many that could not be afforded by the average family.

All that has to be done is to ask the librarian to make out a card for each member.

In addition to the books now in our branch, we have the right to request the use of any book in the whole Union library which covers many towns in the Okanagan, and in this way we gain access to more than twenty thousand books.

As well as novels and books of adventure, there is a travel and biography section; also books on handicrafts and drawing, etc., on gardening and the drama.

So Summerlanders, do use and enjoy your public library this winter. It is one of the community's best assets.

VERNON—Life of a 25-year-old veteran of the R.A.F. ferry command, came to a tragic end on Friday, Aug. 23. Robert Filtness, president of Valley Air Services, with headquarters at Vernon, was burned to death when his light plane burst into flames while landing in a stubble field short of the airport runway, and an 82-year-old Vernon resident, Edward Lloyd, died of shock half an hour later. It was surmised Filtness was knocked unconscious in the landing. When men were able to approach the charred ruins of the plane, they found his wife and two small children alive in the cockpit. ### Labor In New Zealand

Labor in New Zealand has come to an impasse. It is facing some hard facts and with the forthcoming general election in November it is in an embarrassing position. In a recent issue of Canadian Life Insurance Current Topics, some pertinent facts were reproduced, mainly emanating from G. P. Walsh, considered one of the leading socialist experts in that country.

Mr. Walsh has bluntly warned labor that no further reduction in working hours or increases in wages is practicable; no stoppage of production because of industrial disputes is permissible; subsidization to control prices and maintain wages has reached the saturation point.

"It is now labor's responsibility to work for maximum production and anything which stands in the way is contrary to the interests of the (labor) movement," Mr. Walsh bluntly states.

Wellington Jeffers, correspondent of the Toronto Globe and Mail, describes Mr. Walsh's sudden down-to-earth report as having caused a sensation in New Zealand. He states the Federation of Labor has accepted the situation with grace, but the government is highly embarrassed because it had been promising larger salaries to the civil service and greater benefits to everyone. Farmers, already discontented because they found themselves paying heavily for social security and industrial benefits, are paying much attention to the Walsh report.

The report states that New Zealand controls and shortages have banked up a tremendous reservoir of idle money and the country has been famous for its objectives in wage levels and living standards. But, Mr. Walsh has pointed out that these benefits are useless when the effect has been to lessen the production of consumer goods to distribute and of exportable goods to pay for imports.

"Shorter working hours," said Mr. Walsh, "would simply mean greater shortages of both essential and luxury goods; workers would simply be idle when they should be producing the things needed for civilized lives. Subsidies have gone their limit and there is no longer an incentive to efficiency."

"Profit margins have been cut to the limit and any further trimming would simply put manufacturers out of business."

Canadian labor should study closely the effect of labor's stand in New Zealand. Canada is suffering from lack of production, mainly because of interruption by labor strikes. If Canada is to continue to prosper and if we are to avert a depression in this country, a conciliation with labor will have to be effected by the government, the labor code will have to be brought up to date, and production of consumer goods, not only for Canadian consumption but more for export, will have to be brought to its proper level.

MUSCLES AND MACHINERY

As you go on with your survey, it is plain that, for one thing, there are too many people on the land in the poor and crowded countries. Each family has only a bit of soil, which can scarcely be made to yield enough to feed and clothe them no matter how hard they work. At best, there is never more than a mite left over to sell to anyone else. So they cannot buy much.

You notice other great differences between the poor and the more well-to-do countries, especially in the way the people do their work.

A farmer in the poor countries uses only his own muscles, aided by one or two simple tools—a primitive plow, a grub hoe. He can tend only a little ground between dawn and darkness, and that little with infinite labor.

A farmer in the more well-to-do countries uses many complicated tools and machines, each of which enables him to do the work of ten men, twenty men, fifty men, or even more. In stature and strength he is still an ordinary man, but he has the power of a giant, and he strides over the land as it were with seven-league boots, sowing, cultivating, harvesting.

He also has another kind of power, a power to change living things. He mixes a certain dust in the soil and the plants grow faster and bigger. When hungry insects threaten to devour his crop, he blows a fine mist over it and the insects perish. He sows special kinds of seeds which grow into healthier stronger plants that yield more food. He has ways of destroying the invisible things that make plants and animals sick and die. He knows the secrets of so breeding his livestock that generation by generation the offspring are better and produce more than their parents.

In the old days this would have been called magic. But it is not magic; it is science. Magic was uncertain, and few men, if any, could use it. Science is certain and it can be used by anyone. It extends knowledge far beyond what men knew before and thereby enables them to do things that were once impossible.

WANT AND WASTE

But you note that though the people in these countries are better fed, live longer, and enjoy more of the comforts of life, they have troubles of other kinds.

The farmers can now produce so much by using the new knowledge science has given them that many live in constant fear of producing too much.

There is good reason for this fear. Remember that most of the people work in shops and offices, so that in general each farmer has to grow not only the food his family needs but food for several other families as well. He can do this only by using machines and other things that multiply his own physical power many times over. But the machines and other things cost money. Unless he can sell what he grows to the other families for enough to pay all the costs plus something more to live on, he cannot go on producing.

That is what happens all too often. There are times when many of the people working in shops and offices do not have jobs, or have jobs that pay very little money. They cannot buy much from the farmers. Then the farmers have great quantities of food and other products that they cannot sell, and the price even of what they do sell goes very low. So they in turn cannot afford to buy much of what the people in the factories make, and more of the latter lose their jobs.

Under these conditions, much food goes to waste. Finally the farmers cut down production. Their machines are idle. Many even lose their farms and homes.

Yet the people who do not have jobs and those who have jobs that pay very little money need this food; and the millions of half-starving people on the other side of the world need it even more. But it does them no good because they cannot afford to buy it. And it does the farmers who produced it no good because they can neither use it all themselves nor afford to sell it for what the others can pay.

This condition sometimes spreads like a plague among the nations.

Then some dictator may decide that the only way out is to start a war. He decides that his country will take by force what it seems unable to get in any other way. The people are the more easily persuaded because war at least makes jobs for everybody. But modern war, as we have just seen, scatters death, suffering, and ruin over most of the earth.

Looking at the world as a whole you may reflect that it is time to end this waste and tragedy. Mankind can do ever so much better.

I have tried to show you, through this imaginary journey, why so many people believe that something decisive must be done about food and agriculture.

During the past hundred years or so, science has given us immense power to create better conditions of living. Science has made it possible for us to produce much more than we ever could in the past, to wipe out hunger, to conquer disease, to lighten our toll, and to enlarge our understanding of ourselves and our knowledge of the world in which we live.

As yet we are using only a small part of this power; more than half the world is still bowed under a great weight of poverty, hunger, disease, and ignorance. This weight is a drag on the others, and as long as it exists their progress will be held back. They may even, through revolutions and wars born of bitterness and a sense of injustice, lose what they have gained. Thus not only conscience but self-interest demands that the benefits made possible by science be shared by all the world's two billion two hundred million people.

THE Feminine Front

Muriel Hurry

The modern woman, whose life has been broadened since the days of her grandmother, with the addition of radio, more advanced education and greater time for reading and recreational purposes, feels that the attitude toward women which relegates her strictly to the family circle, is outmoded. However, this attitude is still frequently observed, and although a great number of women are content with only their home-making activities, there is a majority who need interests outside their homes. Most talented or broadminded women have husbands and families with the same characteristics, who would soon lose interest in the woman of the family if she did not progress with them.

In one of the leading women's magazines an editorial writer states that "the domestic role damages women's capacities for functioning within society at large."

Is there a cure for this situation? The cases involved are so varied that it would be impossible to give any advice to women as a whole, but women's clubs and organizations are a great aid to the mother who needs outside interests, and there is usually a solution to any difficult problem if one searches carefully enough.

Marriage should not be an institution wherein one of the contracting parties takes possession of the other's life, to such a degree that individual identity is lost. And outside interests for women are a complete necessity if such is not to be the case. Many broken homes would be intact today if the woman of the family would have been able to rise above her household drudgeries and give her husband the mental and spiritual companionship that any man needs. No woman can do this if she does not have the opportunity to live a bit of her life apart from her family and home, no matter how dear they may be to her.

In this modern world of competition, women are playing a leading part in all important functions. Do not be a wisher. Be a doer.

Each Wednesday, one of my favorite phone calls for news is to the local hospital for the list of births for the previous week. And I have been more and more amazed as recent weeks have passed and all the births have been girls. In over six weeks there have been more than a dozen births, with only one boy, born about six weeks ago. And in watching the birth lists in coast dailies, I have also noticed a great predominance of girls. I thought that if I mentioned the situation, Mother Nature might take note, and send a few boys along by press time.

In a recent column by Penny Wise, I ran across a recipe for which I have been looking for years. It is for whipped cream, icing, or Venetian icing; and although rather hard on the rationed goods, is worth filing for future use.

Place in a bowl, 4 tablespoons of butter, 6 of icing sugar, 2 of hot and 2 of cold water or milk, and flavor to taste. Beat with an egg beater until white and creamy like whipped cream.

Nearly 200 Miles Of Road Surface

In the face of very great difficulties imposed upon the department by the shortage of supplies and manpower, the public works department this year will have maintained 16,000 miles of roads out of a total of 22,000 miles, in addition to doing considerable surfacing and new construction, it is announced by Hon. E. C. Carson.

In addition to the 16,000 miles of maintenance undertaken, approximately 170 miles of bituminous surfacing work will have been completed by the end of the season. To date, 130 miles of this program have been finished, the minister added.

More than 400 miles of new construction are under contract at an aggregate cost of $14,000,000 and the work is progressing satisfactorily on all projects, considering the difficulties that have been confronted.

Non-delivery of equipment which is on order from special funds authorized by the Legislature has been the chief handicap in the public works department program of maintenance and surfacing. The department is experiencing its greatest difficulty in bridge repairs and replacements, due to the shortage of steel and timber. However, every effort is being made to overcome this difficulty.

Miss Summerland

Two More Days Left To Obtain Ration Book No. 6

Although the Summerland Board distribution of Canada's ration of Trade is nominally in charge of the ration book distribution this week, the actual work of the distributed in September, 1942, campaign is being undertaken by out with the aid of hired assistants and the costs were $153,879. Book No. 2, distributed in March, 1943, for 26 weeks, was put out by volunteers and the distribution cost dropped to $22,135. Book No. 3, distributed in August, 1943, lasted 32 weeks, and was given out at even less cost—$16,260. Book No. 4, distributed in March, 1944, also for 32 weeks, cost $18,497. Book No. 5, distributed in October, 1944, was put out at a cost of $13,525, but lasted for 95 weeks. The total cost of this last book, including printing and distribution and other charges, works out at one and nine-tenths of a cent per book.

Mrs. Magnus Tait and Mrs. M. E. Collas are the committee heads who are supervising distribution. The Board of Trade is responsible for the work but it was found impossible to obtain the needed volunteers from the ranks of that body.

Dates for the distribution have been definitely set for Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, September 11, 13 and 14. Thursday has been skipped as the I.O.O.F. hall, where distribution will be made, is not available today.

One of the greatest examples of public service in Canada has been the distribution of the ration books in recent years. With the exception of the first book, this has been done by volunteers who have given their time to this form of public service. There are 600 local ration boards in Canada, of which 54 are in British Columbia, and it is the public spirit of thousands of British Columbia citizens which makes it possible to distribute the books with a minimum of red tape.

The new Ration Book No. 6 has a yellow cover. The coupon design is smaller than previously used. In the new book are two sheets of sugar coupons, two sheets of butter coupon, two sheets of meat coupons and three spare sheets. In designing and producing the new ration book precautions have been taken to make counterfeiting highly dangerous, if not impossible.

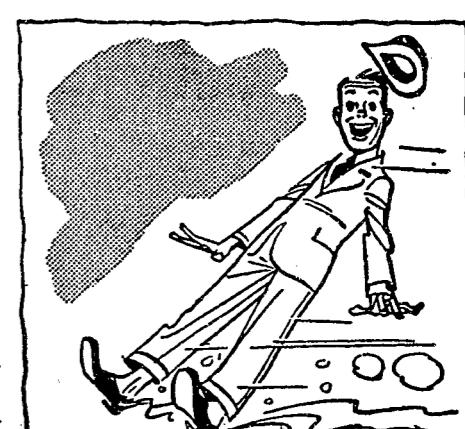

The address to be given on the card means the usual address of the book-holder. If the applicant is on vacation at the time of distribution he may go to any distribution point to get his book, but he must give his regular address on the card.

Persons who do not get their books while distribution centres are open will not be able to obtain a new book until after September 29. Late-comers will find themselves unable to use two meat coupons, two butter and five sugar-preserves coupons which become valid on September 10 and 26, as it will not be possible for them to obtain new books until after those dates.

There is a special reason for not being late this time. If you do not get your book on the advertised dates you may have to wait until September 30th. On September 19th, Book No. 6 will come into use, and on that date five sugar/preserves coupons will become valid—S26, S27, S28, S29 and S30, and also meat/coupon M51. Again on September 26th, butter coupon B26 and meat coupon M52 will become valid out of the new book.

An example of how volunteers have helped to reduce the cost of Stanley Cross, of Vancouver, spent the week-end in Summerland, where he was visiting old friends. Mr. Cross was a resident of Summerland several years ago.

The woman in the home is taking this problem very much to heart, as well as the "man on the street." Mrs. Fosberry commented to The Review this week. "The women today are not going to continue to raise children that they may be sacrificed on the battlefields because of the selfishness of world leaders," she claims.

Mrs. Fosberry's contention is that the approach to government leaders should be from a monetary angle. She would limit the hand of government by making it impossible for government to raise money to finance war unless the people as a whole have an opportunity to vote by plebiscite on the subject.

She believes that if the government is warned beforehand that it will not be given a carte blanche to finance a world struggle, then government leaders will move slowly before plunging a country into a state of war.

The Summerland woman has presented a suggested petition, which she believes should be circulated in Summerland as a start of a similar petition going out throughout Canada. Her suggested petition reads:

"We, the citizens of Summerland, B.C., in its constituency of Yale, respectfully notify our representative in the Canadian House of Commons that we shall resist by every means in our power all tax levies imposed by the Government of Canada or any action involving the sacrifice of human life and property, if the need for such action has not been conceded by the electorate through a plebiscite in which universal franchise is granted."

"And we request our representatives to convey immediately this decision to the Government of Canada."

The Review will welcome any comments from its readers, through the Mail Box, the letters to the editorial column, on Mrs. Fosberry's challenge. It is pointed out that Mrs. Fosberry's suggested solution is not necessarily that of The Review, but this publication will be interested in the commentary thereon.

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

A Physical Fitness Programme FOR British Columbians

THIS Province is an acknowledged leader in Canada in the field of Physical Education and Recreation. Compulsory Physical Education in the schools from Grade One to Grade Twelve has long been in operation, and the curriculum is based on sound educational philosophy. In 1934, the Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir, then Minister of Education, inaugurated in the Province the first government-sponsored Recreational Classes. Today, this programme is operating under the jurisdiction of the Department of Health and National Welfare.

Scope

The school program consists of gymnastics, agilities, stunts, athletics, tumbling and apparatus, rhythms and recreational activities. Intramural programs are stressed to ensure maximum participation.

The Community Recreation embraces all of these activities with additional emphasis on recreational games, conditioning exercises, hobbies, arts and crafts.

Teachers of School Physical Education are given general and specialized training during teacher-training years, summer sessions, and through in-service courses. Instructors, coaches and leaders for community recreation centres attend in-service courses throughout the year, and refresher courses are held during the summer months.

Policy

Throughout all ages the activities chosen are those suited to the physical capacity of the individual, his interests, the maintenance of his organic vigor, and the wholesome use of his leisure time. Communities are encouraged and advised in the organization of Community Centres. This Department aids Community Centres and Clubs already in existence and offers help in supplying and training leadership, and in furnishing equipment. Assistance is given in the planning of recreational and sports facilities, Community Centres, playing fields, swimming pools, playgrounds and equipment...

Community Responsibility

On the Community level of the implementing of the National-Provincial program there must be a sharing of responsibility in the provisions of recreational opportunities by the respective communities. The recreational requirements of the communities can be supplied effectively and economically only through the fullest co-operation of all local groups. A number of communities throughout the Province are co-operating successfully in such plans.

For the Future — Be Fit B.C.

The objectives of this program include: Every school a gymnasium and playing field. Every child in a summer camp. An outdoor program for every adult. Every British Columbian a swimmer. A recreational program for the whole family. Adequate leadership and facilities in every community.

A full attendance of pupils is sought for the Sunday morning classes, at 11 o'clock.

Peachland Nuptials of Wide Interest

KELOWNA — Before the city will endorse the Kelowna Board of Trade's action in requesting the C.P.R. to give the S.S. Sicamous to the city, for museum purposes, city fathers want a definite understanding where the boat will be placed and what organization will look after maintenance of the vessel.

This stand was taken at last week's city council meeting after the Board of Trade requested that aldermen endorse its action. Majority of aldermen felt they should know something more definite about the future plans for the boat, otherwise it may develop into a derelict.

Relation Of Local Woman Dies At Coast

Word has been received by Mrs. C. J. Amm of the passing of her brother-in-law, Mr. J. H. McDonald, of New Westminster.

The late Mr. McDonald had vacationed in Summerland and had many friends in the district. He was well known in coast lumber circles and was a leader in charitable organizations.

Mr. McDonald was a member of the mission sent by the Canadian government to Australia and New Zealand to study trade relations, and he later addressed the Summerland Board of Trade on this subject.

Death came to Mr. McDonald on Tuesday, Sept. 3, at the age of 68 years.

Mrs. Amm and her sons, Jack and Bill, left on Tuesday, Sept. 3, to attend the funeral services, which were held on Thursday, Sept. 5.

A daughter was born at the Summerland hospital on Sunday, Sept. 1, to Mr. and Mrs. Steve Jonori.

Warner Humbles Peachland By 14-9 Count

PEACHLAND—Penticton Senior "B" baseball team placed itself in a strong playoff position by defeating Peachland on Sunday, Sept. 1, 14-9. The margin of victory was even more than the score indicated as Warner's "Nothing Ball" had the Peachland boys baffled.

Penticton took the lead in the first inning as Moore doubled and scored on Dagg's single. Moore's double was his first hit in a perfect string of 6 for 6, with four doubles and two singles. Two more runs in the second and three in the third gave Penticton 6 to Peachland's lone tally.

The game was never close from the third inning as Penticton steadily increased its lead.

Bud Gourlie might have been the hero of a closer game as he staged a Frank Merriwell finish in the ninth. With three on base in the ninth, two out and two strikes, Bud hit a long line drive to left-centre that went for a home run and four runs. But the gap was too great and the game ended, 14-9 for Penticton.

Penticton played a sound game throughout, battering three Peachland pitchers, Gourlie, W. Cousins and Clements for 20 hits, including 7 doubles, while committing only two trivial errors afield.

Children's Home at Coast Is Topic

Miss M. Johnstone, grand mistress of the right worshipful grand lodge of B.C., of the L.O.B.A., paid an official visit recently to the Hope Lodge No. 912, West Summerland. She was accompanied by Miss Williams, past grand mistress and a member of the board of governors of the Loyal Protestant Home for Children in New Westminster, and Miss Spies, all of Vancouver.

This distinguished visitor spoke on various items of interest in lodge work, while Miss Williams gave an interesting talk on the work of the Home. There are now 74 children in this institution, mostly from broken homes. There are no orphans nor any children for adoption.

These children attend public schools in New Westminster and are dressed as any normal children. In leisure hours they are busy at games under supervision, and their various duties, Miss Williams stated.

Cost of running this home last year was more than $30,000, this sum being met from board money from the children's parents, teas, raffles, tag days and legacies from sympathetic citizens; also by donations from such organizations as the Orange lodges, Eastern Star, Rebekahs, I.O.O.F., etc.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Hope Lodge on Sept. 3, members agreed that the making of patchwork quilts for the home would be part of the fall work, it was also agreed to pay freight charges on any apples donated for the Home, as has been done in the past two years.

Mrs. W. J. Broderick was named in charge of a committee to collect any fruit donated for this cause.

AVERT TIEUP OF ELECTRICAL SERVICE

Tie-up of the city's electric light and power service was averted last week when representatives of the Kelowna council agreed to sign a new working agreement submitted by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (A.F.L.), which calls for substantial wage increases all-along-the-line. City fathers were notified several weeks ago that unless the city come to some terms with the electrical workers, the entire electrical staff would resign at the end of this month. Meeting in committee, J. N. Ross, business manager of the electrical union, and R. G. Clements, conciliation officer, conferred with Mayor James Pittigrew and members of the city council. Talks were conducted on an amiable basis, and the city agreed to sign the new agreement after discussing the whole matter.

Mrs. B. T. Blagborne Is Guest At Shower

Mrs. B. T. Blagborne, who recently arrived from Ipswich, England, was the guest of honor on Friday evening, Aug. 30, at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. E. Kercher, who was co-hostess with Mrs. L. Taylor.

The twenty-eight guests present spent the first part of the evening playing an amusing game, followed by a "Welcome to Summerland" by Mrs. D. Taylor, after which a nicely decorated wash-tub containing many gifts, was carried into the room by Mrs. K. Elliott and Mrs. Kercher.

Following the opening of the gifts, refreshments were served, after which, three beautiful bouquets of gladioli were presented to the guest of honor, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. E. Reid, who have also just recently arrived from England.

A daughter was born at the Summerland hospital on Friday, Aug. 30, to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mc-

Lachlan.

Mrs. J. E. Holroyd, of Vancouver, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Fudge.

F. M. TESTS HELD IN OKANAGAN

Several frequency modulation service tests, to determine its adaptability for the Okanagan, have been made recently by CKOV engineers. Good results have been obtained in most places, but in locations in the hills reception was cut badly, Fred Weber, radio engineer at CKOV reported.

Theoretically, F. M. is supposed to be a straight beam, line of vision broadcast, but tests here showed that there are reflections and skip points, by low-lying or behind-barrier receivers.

Mrs. J. E. Holroyd, of Vancouver, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Fudge.

P.G.E. RAILWAY

Hon. Herbert Anscomb, minister of finance, has been appointed a director of the Pacific Great Eastern Raisway, it was announced by Premier Hart. Mr. Anscomb fills the vacancy caused by the death of Hon. R. L. Maitland, K.C. Mr. Anscomb has been in public life for a great number of years, having been first reeve of Oak Bay, later mayor of Victoria, then member of parliament and in the coalition government as minister of trade and industry, minister of public works and now as minister of finance.

Trap Shoot Urge Support for U.N.

Sandy Munn was top man in the weekly trap shoot with 21 points out of a possible 25, on Sunday morning last. The expected match between Penticton and Summerland did not materialize as Penticton was unable to field a team. Alan Elsey was second with 20 points.

Two teams shot on Sunday, that of Bill Nicholson, C. Tooley, A. Elsey, Lloyd Day and Bill Nelson being winner with 88 points.

The losers, with 83 points, consisted of Sandy Munn, Tom Nelson, Bud Steuart, Alf. Johnston and Dewey Sanborn.

Mrs. Don Ceesford of Courtenay, was visiting here for a week recently with her husband, who is employed in Summerland at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Nilson, of East Kelowna, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Johnson at the weekend.

Calls Trout Creek Bridge "Death Trap"

Roads occupied their usual top position when the Summerland Board of Trade entertained the Associated Boards of Trade of the Southern Interior at the I.O.O.F. hall here last night.

One of the most important stretches under fire was the Osoyoos-Greenwood road, over Anarchist mountain. This portion of the southern transprovincial highway was labelled a disgrace which could not be negotiated by any vehicle without the utmost difficulty.

As a result of President W. E. McArthur's ardent pleas, the meeting endorsed a Greenwood resolution seeking immediate improvement, alterations where necessary, with the ultimate aim of providing a hard-surfaced highway.

C. G. Bennett, Penticton, considered that the boards should go a step farther and aim towards making this route the transprovincial highway, part of the trans-Canada road.

"This is one of the worst pieces of road in the province," was Mr. McArthur's observation.

Mr. McArthur is mayor of Greenwood and is also the president of the associated boards. Mr. Weatherley, also of Greenwood, is secretary, having been chosen recently when R. B. Wallace was called from that town.

Okanagan Falls sought support for the building of an alternative route on the east side of Skaha Lake, between that community and Penticton. The boards were sympathetic to the need for such a road, especially in the winter when icy conditions make travel on Waterman's hill nearly impossible, but considered that support at this time would not be in line with the government policy of improving existing highways first.

Basis of this quota would be the ration book distribution figures which were assembled last week.

Since 1941, when population figures were tabulated, Osoyoos claims to have trebled its population.

Penticton is nearly doubled and Summerland is nearly in that position, various speakers pointed out last night.

Special emphasis will be placed on canned milk, dairy products, soap and soap products, in making this request to the prices board.

Fastball Girls Play Final Game Here Sunday for Valley Title Against East Kelowna

Fighting grimly from an 8-1 deficit, Summerland fastball girls made a brilliant last minute stand at Kelowna park last Sunday afternoon, to defeat the East Kelowna girls, 12-10, and even the Okanagan Valley championship series at one game apiece. This was the first defeat of the season administered to the East Kelowna amazons, and it was a well-deserved victory for a fighting group of players. Final game of this series will be played on Sunday afternoon at the Summerland grounds and should prove one of the best contests of the year.

Had Hurling Edge

Doreen Howard, captain and star pitcher for the victors, had a definite edge on the hurling duties over Orsi, Kelowna chucker. She did not walk a player and would have been much more in command of the situation if given better support in the first three innings.

It was a wobbly start for the Summerland girls, as they yielded four runs in the first canto and another four in the third. It looked like a sudden end to the championship series, but the northerners did not know the fighting spirit of the local lasses.

Muriel Barr played her best game of the season and vied with Ward for scoring honors, each girl crossing the plate three times.

It was Helkert, however, who brought down the house with a driving homer in the eighth, with two on bases. This took the heart out of the Kelownians and spelled their ruin. The count was then knotted at 10-all and two more Summerland runs came across before the rally could be stopped.

Ward First Scorer

Ward scampered around the bases for the first Summerland count in the second frame. The visiting team was shut out from then until the sixth, when Lewis and Barr got on the paths and came home on hits by Day and Klix, the former scoring on Glaser's hit. At the end of the sixth the count was 8-4.

Another three runs by Tada, Barr and Ward in the first of the seventh brought the Summerland team within one run at 8-7, but in the last of that frame East Kelowna put over another marker.

But in the eighth, Helkert's homer, scoring Klix and Tada before her, and runs by Barr and Ward clinched the game. East Kelowna managed to score one more single tally in the last of the eighth, but that was all for the evening.

A large crowd of Summerland supporters attended the game at Kelowna and a number of Kelowna rooters also supported the visitors in their defeat of East Kelowna.

THOUSAND BOXES OF PEARS

W. R. Powell, Summerland's reeve, and his son, Walter, who are believed to be among the biggest pear producers in the Okanagan, have established a record for the valley. In the first week of September, these two orchardists shipped 1,000 boxes of pears to the packing house.

CONTEST CLOSING OF STORES IN VERNON

Labor Union Calls on U.P.W.A. In Valley To Stop "Slander"

Vernon Safeway Stores will contest Vernon's all day Thursday closing bylaw. They served notice on the city that they intend to appeal to the Supreme Court to quash the bylaw as ultra vires.

J. W. Wright city clerk, received the notice on September 4, just one day before the deadline for submitting objections. The bylaw was finally passed on August 5, and after one month legal proceedings could not be instituted.

The notice was signed by G. Coole, manager of the Vernon branch. It was handed over to C. W. Morrow, M.L.A., city solicitor.

Mr. Morrow explained that legal proceedings against the bylaw have not begun. The city has received only "notice of intention" to make application to the Supreme Court.

Action of the United Packing House Workers of America in "slandering" local officials of the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers' union has been denounced by the Okanagan Valley Labor Council following a session in Kelowna on Sunday September 15, with a demand that such "innocentes" be withdrawn. In a prepared statement from W. H. Sands, Kelowna, representative of the labor union, the resolution passed on Sunday is being submitted to the international and national offices of the U.P.W.A. and to the national office of the Canadian Congress of Labor. This denunciation is a result of the break-away made by fruit and vegetable packing house and cannery workers from the U.P.W.A. and the formation of the Federation union, which is autonomous in the Valley and is affiliated for representation purposes only with the C.C.L.

Democratic Voice

"In all past negotiations with the employers, it has always been the policy of these unions that final decisions would be made by the membership at large . . ." declared the union statement, in reviewing the steps which led to the formation of the new Federation union.

"After our affiliations with the U.P.W.A.-C.I.O. and during the last negotiations with the employers we found that our local autonomy was being challenged. By this, we mean that the final decision would not be made as heretofore, by the membership and negotiating committee, but by international representatives of the U.P.W.A."

As a consequence, meetings were held throughout the valley and all locals voted practically unanimously to withdraw from the U.P.W.A., the statement declares.

Penticton Conference

At a conference in Penticton the following was determined:

"That we will support the ideals of organized labor.

"That we have no idea of setting up company or independent unions.

"That we want an organization set up in this valley to be known as the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers' union, controlled by the workers of this valley.

"That we apply to the C.C.L. for affiliation on a three cents per member basis. (This has already been done and we expect a reply shortly.)

"That when all workers in the valley are paying into our Federation we can possibly lower our membership dues."

"We think these facts should make it clear in the minds of all citizens of the Okanagan Valley that proper democratic procedure has been used to withdraw from the U.P.W.A. and to set up the Federation," declared Mr. Sands.

Question Action

"Now that we are all clear on this point, we question the actions of international U.P.W.A. representatives in carrying on a campaign of slanderous innuendoes.

"When we realize that it has taken six years of hard labor to build these organizations to the point where they are today, by people who have worked in the industry for years, and when we also consider that these same international men are supposed to be good trade unionists, we do not understand how they hold the responsible positions they occupy today," concluded Mr. Sands.

The official resolution voiced the fear that if such accusations went unchallenged, it would destroy not only the fruit and vegetable workers' union, but all other unions in the valley.

Pioneer Dies At Age of 86 Here

The death occurred on Friday, Sept. 13 of John Moffat, pioneer of Summerland, at the age of 86 years, 6 months.

Mr. Moffat was born in Cambridge, Ontario, and in his early twenties went to Manitoba, where the family settled on a farm near Souris.

He married in 1892, and moved to Brandon in 1905 where he lived for ten years. He then moved with his family to Victoria where they resided for eight years and came to Summerland in 1921 where he had made his home, on a small fruit ranch overlooking the lake.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Annie I. Moffat, residing in Summerland, he leaves one son, James A. Moffat, Seattle, Wash.; two daughters, Mrs. Alfred W. Johnston, Summerland, and Mrs. Robert A. Grant, Kelowna. (One daughter, Marjorie Karr, deceased, 1928); six grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren, and one brother, Mr. James A. Moffat, of Elgin, Man.

Rev. H. R. Whitmore officiated at the funeral service held Monday, Sept. 16, at 2:30 o'clock, from the Lakeside United Church.

A beautiful solo, "Crossing the Bar," was sung during the service by Mrs. William White. Interment was in the Peach Orchard Cemetery.

Palbearers included Wm. White,

E. Korated, C. Harvey, F. Brind,

V. Charles and C. J. Clarke.

Night School Classes May Be Held Here

Tentative plans for the formation of night school classes in Summerland were made at the Penticton School District 15 session Tuesday evening in Penticton. If sufficient interest is aroused classes can be arranged in a wide range of subjects.

No definite courses were laid down for Summerland, but it was stated that a number of teachers would be available if classes of fifteen or more could be collected.

Fees would be nominal and assistance in financing the classes would be forthcoming from the provincial government.

Trustees P. G. Dowell and Roy F. Angus, with Principals S. A. MacDonald and A. K. Macleod are meeting this week to further plans for these classes.

In Penticton it is proposed to operate night classes in woodwork, building inspection, sewing, practical English and mathematics, choral singing, drama, stagecraft, typing and child psychology.

An arrangement may be worked out to interchange teachers between Penticton and Summerland for night classes.

Big Increase In Hospital Admissions

Another indication of the advancement in population of Summerland was given by the Summerland Hospital society on Tuesday evening, at the September monthly meeting, when President S. A. MacDonald announced that up to date there had been 43 more patients admitted than for the whole of 1945.

There were sixty-five patients admitted in both July and August, with the total at 447 for the first eight and a half months of the year, whereas in 1945 total admissions were 404.

"It was only a few years ago that admissions for the entire year only came to about 200," wistfully remarked President MacDonald, evidently thinking back to the days when hospital administration was not so complex.

More than 400 hospital insurance contracts are in force now, and the board plans on commencing a drive to boost this membership.

Work Progresses

Work on the new hospital addition is proceeding at a fast clip under the contract of W. M. Jenkins and the hospital officials expressed their pleasure with the progress being made. Foundation of the new nurses' home has started as well, and the only shortage of material which is liable to hold up the building in the early stages is that of galvanized iron, for the whole of 1945.

This material is extremely scarce right now and Mr. Jenkins has been unable to locate a sufficient supply, the board was told by Capt. J. E. Jenkins, board member.

In the house committee report, the need of another nurse was mentioned by the matron, Miss Heunichen, while Secretary J. E. O'Mahony stressed that the minimum wage regulations calling for a 44-hour week had created a staff problem which has been hard to overcome, due to the lack of help.

Want Hundred Boxes

One hundred boxes of apples will be sought by the board from fruit growers in this district, to store for the winter months. O. J. Blundale offered the board cold storage accommodation for these apples, and donations of fruit and vegetables can be made to the hospital or to the B.C. Fruit Shippers' Ltd. plant.

Cooking apples, such as Sais, Wagmans, Staymans and Newtons, were mentioned as being especially welcome, while a few McIntoshes would not be amiss. Carrot seeds and parsnips are also needed to augment the hospital supplies.

Distribution of Ration Books Made To 3,404 Residents of District

In three days residents of Summerland district to the number of 3,404, visited the ration book distribution centres from Wednesday to Saturday last week, to receive their new ration books. This is a large increase over any previous distribution and is considered to be indicative of the big influx of persons into this area. This is practically the peak of employment in Summerland and a number of those who obtained their books here are only temporary residents. However, it is estimated that 3,100 of this number can be classed as fairly permanent residents of this district.

Both West Summerland and Summerland centres were completely out of ration books by noon on Saturday. Both places had gone to Penticton for further supplies but that point also ran out.

Practically every district in the Okanagan found a shortage of books thus giving an indication of the greatly increased population throughout the Okanagan.

Penticton distributed 9,318 ration books to its municipal residents.

When ration book supplies gave out, volunteer workers took out the green slips of the old cards and tabulated them. These green slips went to F. H. Kane, local ration administrator in Penticton, who, in turn, forwarded them to Kelowna, the main centre, where books were despatched by mail.

Kelowna informed Mr. Kane on Tuesday that most of the Summerland books were going forward by mail that evening. It is expected that most of the missing books will be in the hands of local residents by this evening, as the first of the new ration issue is available in local stores tomorrow, Friday.

In West Summerland, 2,448 books were distributed, with another 228 accounted for in books not issued, for a total of 2,676. The lower town distribution was 698 books, with 30 more not able to obtain books on the spot.

These figures show a total of 3,404 books for Summerland district.

West Summerland distribution was handled by a Women's Institute committee, headed by Mrs. M. E. Collas, while the lower town was handled at the post office by C. Noel Higgin.

Fred Anderson, 84, Best Shot At Rifle Meet

High aggregate for the day and the Shaford cup at the Summerland Rifle Club field day last Sunday morning went to one of the oldest competitors, Fred G. Anderson of Penticton, who topped all competitors with a high score of 98. Mr. Anderson is 84 years old.

A former Summerland resident, Fred Anderson has been coming here each Sunday morning to compete in these weekly rifle shoots and is one of the best-liked members of the club.

High aggregate for the season's best six shots was garnered by G. M. Dunson, who had a high average of .05 out of the possible 100. He won the bronze medal.

Second high aggregate for the season went to A. E. Scott, with .03 5/8 average. Second high aggregate for the day was won by P. S. Dunson after a close shoot-off with D. L. Sanborn, both having scored 92 points.

Over 200 yards, F. G. Anderson captured the high scoring prize with .02, P. S. Dunson's .01 being second best, this competitor again having to compete with Dewey Sanborn for the prize.

Ed Gould's .03 was sufficient to capture high score for 500 yards, but only after shooting off with G. M. Dunson and B. T. Washington, who had tied him at that figure. Second high went to C. J. Williams, who had a lead in the identity of the thieves.

SURPRISE THIEVES RANSACKING CAR

W. S. Nield, accompanied by his son Stanley Nield, surprised two men ransacking the former's car in West Summerland on Sunday evening. A tussle ensued and two marauders escaped but one man left his hat, while another received a scrape over his nose. A vest pocket camera was stolen from the Nield car, B.C. Police Constable H. Cartmell reports that the case is being investigated and that he has a lead as to the identity of the thieves.

W. R. Powell, Summerland's reeve, and his son, Walter, who are believed to be among the biggest pear producers in the Okanagan, have established a record for the valley. In the first week of September, these two orchardists shipped 1,050 boxes of pears to the packing

EDITORIAL

Summerland's Population

Figures shown by the distribution of ration books in this municipality last week indicate that the local population has increased to nearly the 3,500 mark. This is a big step forward from 1941, when the Dominion census figures for this municipality were 2,003.

In five years, Summerland has increased its population by seventy per cent over the figures provided at that time. In other words, Summerland has kept pace with the growth of the rest of the Okanagan in the past half decade.

Public-spirited citizens would do well to ponder these figures and realize what they mean. They mean that Summerland is suffering from growing pains. They mean that Summerland has risen from the status of a small farming community with a small shopping centre into a healthy and prosperous centre which needs a great many additional services.

These citizens who undertake public service must look forward to the next five years and plan capably and well for the advancement of local services.

In retail lines, Summerland citizens are better cared for than at any time in previous history. There are flourishing meat and grocery stores, the ladies have ample opportunity to select the latest fashions from well-stocked ladies' ready-to-wear stores, furniture and hardware as far as wholesalers can supply, is available in this district.

There is no need for any shoppers to go farther afield in search of their day-to-day household and personal requirements. Men's wear and jewelry, photographic requirements, boot and shoe repairs, and choice of a number of busy and well-managed garages,

But there are certain services definitely lacking. If a resident has occasion to need forms or information from a provincial government agency, then a trip to Penticton is necessary.

If thirsty citizens wish to replenish their liquor or beer supply, then it requires a trip of twenty miles to quench their thirst.

Summerland has one policeman, who is not employed as a local patrolman but has a district covering a wide territory. A community of nearly 3,500 persons deserves better in the matter of police protection.

Yet, with that population, to drive down the principal business section in the later evening, one would imagine it was a country lane. The lighting is far from adequate. In fact, it borders on the disgraceful.

Sidewalks are few in number in this community and a program of construction will be necessary to keep pace with the growth of the area.

And, of course, much has been said of the roads in the past few weeks. The council has long realized that it must spend thousands of dollars on a complete overhaul of its existing means of travel.

Most of these improvements are going to call for the expenditure of a considerable amount of money. Taxes will probably have to go much higher than at present. The municipality will probably have to issue debentures and borrow large sums to be paid back over an extended period.

It has been done before and is fast becoming a necessity again. When the community needed huge sums to bring its irrigation system into proper repair and provide sufficient water for its fruit trees, the money was borrowed.

Now the farmers have been well provided for and the interests of the business people and the many who depend upon this fast-growing business section here must be given the proper attention.

It costs money to suffer from growing pains, but when those pains develop, then there is only one thing to do—provide a remedy to eliminate them. That is what Summerland must do without any further delay.

The Mason Trophy

Once again the Penticton Herald has captured the supreme honors in the Canadian Weekly Newspaper field, the Mason trophy, emblematic of the best Canadian weekly in Canada with a circulation of more than 2,000 paid copies. This is the fourth occasion that this high honor has come to the Herald and is the second year running that a British Columbia paper has been so judged, the Vernon

Residents of Penticton can be justifiably proud of their home-town newspaper. It is a newsy, well-composed sheet which covers a wide territory and provides a diversification of interests which richly deserves this award. The presswork and make-up are one of its many outstanding features. Its editorial policy is sound, dealing not only with matters of local interest but providing a sound judgment on national and international affairs.

The Review is extremely glad of the opportunity to offer its congratulations to Editor Grev Rowland and his staff on their achievements and also to Editor Frank Harris and his Vernon staff who produced the second best paper in Canada this year

THE Feminine Front

Muriel Hurry

Wartime and post wartime shortages have been taken by the majority of Canadian women with fortitude and tolerance. With the widespread starvation conditions in European and Asiatic countries, it seems that Canada is a land of plenty. Our children are still strong and well nourished, as well as warmly dressed and safe.

Although we may remember, with nostalgia, the well-stocked shelves of pre-war stores, there are not any essential foodstuffs that are unprocureable, and a great many luxury items still line the store shelves today. Several war-brides, new citizens of Summerland, have pointed out the fact that Canadian rations far exceed the skimpy rations of the British Isles, where conditions now are worse than during the war.

When, as we use the first coupon of our new ration books, we dream of the days when shortages and rationing are no more, bolster your morale by being thankful that we live in the rich and fertile Okanagan valley, but, gosh—girls, one CAN dream, can't one?

According to American fashion designers, the women of western Canada are not style conscious. This accusation arises chiefly because the women of western Canada refuse to follow the new American fashion trend for longer skirts. The answer seems to lie in the fact that Canadian women are very independent and if they really feel that the shorter skirts are more attractive, then their skirts will remain shorter at the risk of being called dowdy, if need be.

This streak of independence is to be admired as a national trait in women, and as such should be fostered. Women should have the courage to defy, either as a united front, or independently. A character who follows without questioning, in the wake of the leader with the loudest voice, does not make a good citizen.

At the recent funeral of a very dear friend, I was shocked, when seeing for the first time, the condition of the Peach Orchard cemetery, that the citizens of such a broad-minded and modern community, could allow such a disgrace to exist in their midst. It is a beautiful location for a cemetery, atop of a hill with the lake in the distance. But there was no other virtue to commend it as a burial ground for loved ones. Overgrown with weeds, dry and brown and windswept, with no touch of color or beauty to alleviate the harsh sadness of a cemetery, the whole place appeared the most dejected and forlorn spot that it is possible to imagine.

It would take very little work by a public-minded community to make this last resting-place of our loved ones into a cemetery of neatness and dignity. Let us pay our last respects to the ones who rest in that cemetery by ensuring that their graves are attended with alert and vigilant care.

and the best in 1945. At that, the Vernon News fell behind only one point in the judging.

This is a great tribute to the Okanagan Valley as a whole, that it can produce two newspapers of such merit, in competition with more thickly-populated districts of Ontario and Quebec, and is also a tribute to the loyal support accorded by the citizens to their home-town paper. Without such support, it would be impossible for these newspapers to rise to such heights.

CORNERSTONE FOR A HOUSE OF LIFE

by---

Gove Hambridge

This is the third part of Gove Hambridge's interesting article on the aims and objects of FAO. This article will be continued next week.

BIRTH OF FAO

Though this brief survey is much too simple, it brings out conditions that experts from 44 countries agreed are true when they met in 1943 at the United Nations Conference on Food and Agriculture at Hot Springs, Virginia, U.S.A. They agreed that these conditions must be changed by worldwide action, and they made broad recommendations about what needs to be done.

They did not want these recommendations to be empty words, so an Interim Commission, with representatives from each of the 44 countries, was set up in Washington, D.C., to make plans for a permanent United Nations organization through which nations could work together to carry out the recommendations. Two years later the work of the Interim Commission resulted in the setting up of the Food and Agriculture Organization at the Quebec conference.

FAO was the first of the new, permanent United Nations organizations to be born. Its aim, in its own field of work, is to help free the power of science for use by all men and to expand it further by pressing to search for new knowledge.

AIMS OF FAO

When I try to think in the most basic terms of what the nations need to do through FAO, these are the things that stand out:

To make good nutrition, good health, and good standards of living for everyone—the goal of world politics in food and agriculture, forestry and fisheries.

To drive toward this goal in two ways—

By enabling the third of the world's people in the technically advanced countries, who can now produce so much, to make their full contribution to world needs;

By enabling the two-thirds of the world's people who can produce so little for themselves to produce more.

To speed the work by keeping science pushing out to new frontiers in the development of the earth's resources and man's capabilities for his own betterment.

Each of these very general statements would embrace many different activities of FAO. I shall try now to show how some of them might affect you. You will have to imagine that it is a few years in the future and that you are four different persons in turn.

FIRST FARMER

You are a peasant in a land where for many generations there has been little change in the ways of farming.

Lately you have been using something you had never seen before—the magic dust called fertilizer.

The yield from your land is better. Not only do you have more to eat—there is even something left over to sell.

And there is a ready market for it. For you and the people of other neighboring villages have been building a road, a good hard new road, the like of which is seldom seen in your country. The work has given you some extra cash; but even better, the road leads to a town where a clean new market has been set up. Not only farm stuff is sold in the town. Small industries are now flourishing in several of the villages roundabout, and the town merchants are eager to buy what they make.

Rumor has it that a larger industry, a factory is soon to be built in the town. Two of your sons have been talking about it a great deal. They want to go there and get work. Well, why not? With these two gone there will be fewer mouths for the little farm to feed and more food for those who are left.

You will not miss the labor of the two boys so much, either. For you are beginning to get better tools so that you can do more in a day than you used to. At first you were suspicious of these new steel tools; maybe they would poison the land. But one of the men in the village whom you most respect tried them. Since they worked well for him, you finally made up your mind to try them, too. They are good. They came from a far-away country.

Once you would have had to sell yourself to the moneylender at bloodsucking interest rates if you wanted to get anything like that. Now there is a cooperative bank that lends money to farmers at reasonable rates. A godsend it is.

You first learned about it from a young man in a nearby village who goes around among farmers showing them new ways to do things. You might be suspicious of him, too, but he is one of your own people, and he seems quite sensible. He went away to a government school to study new ways of farming so he could teach others. He says thousands of young people are now going to such schools each year, and bringing what they learn back to the villages.

He says more and more farmers are learning how to improve their soil and keep it from washing away, how to use better tools, and how to grow some new crops, including some vegetables they didn't have before. They even make the hens lay more eggs.

Some of the things he tells you sound too good to be true, like that story about the great river valley where a huge thing is being built which will run by water and will send light and power along little wires to every farm for many miles around. A big world bank loaned the government money to build it. Can a man believe all that?

But the things you have been able to try are all right. You have more money and more to eat and your clothing is not in rags. You don't get so tired and don't seem to be sick so often. Your wife says the same thing. She has a stove to cook on now.

(To be continued next week)

CONDITIONAL SALE CONVICTION

Breakwater Site Is Difficult To Locate Here

First conviction recorded in Vancouver for violation of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board conditional sale regulations resulted in a fine of $25, imposed on the Singer Sewing Machine company.

The charge was that a customer wishing to purchase a sewing machine had been told that she would also have to buy a sewing cabinet—price $25.25; a sewing stool at $9.35, and some notions at $10.00. Such conditional sales form a violation of Board order No. 302. The company pleaded not guilty and said it had given strict instructions to its employees not to impose any conditions in respect to the sale of sewing machines. Magistrate W. W. B. McInnes accepted this evidence, and held that the employees had committed the offence in an "excess of zeal." He therefore, imposed a nominal fine of $25 and $5 costs.

WANTS HOLIDAYS

Les Gould, road foreman for the municipality, has requested his annual holidays from September 16 to 29, inclusive. In Sept. 11 the council agreed to these dates.

For Service In All Kinds of GENERAL TRUCKING

PHONE 17

PAY FOR SAWDUST

Mrs. B. Harvey asked the Summerland council on Wednesday to pay $150 for repairs to her garage and $6 for damage to sawdust ruined in her basement the result of seepage from a municipal flume. Water Foreman E. Kercher stated that the seepage had caused dirt to fall against the garage at least four years ago and if a complaint had been made then, the damage now resulting would not have occurred. He had told Mrs. Harvey a year ago he would recommend payment for the sawdust and the council agreed to pay this part of the account but it could not accept responsibility for the garage damage.

Miss Joan Bennett left last week for Vancouver, where she will attend U.B.C.

DRIED DATES

Little increase in retail prices will result from recent adjustments in the ceiling price on dates, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said.

Board officials explain that over the past few years Canada's total supply of dates from the eastern hemisphere has been bulk purchased by the government and sold to the Canadian trade.

The bulk purchase plan has now been discontinued. Individual importers are now bringing in their own supplies and as numerous smaller importations now replace the bulk purchase, the import port cost is slightly higher.

Ceiling prices have been adjusted slightly to cover the importer, officials state, but the resulting increase in prices to the public will be small.

REEVE IS ABSENT

Reeve W. R. Powell was absent from the council session on Sept. 15, having been called out of town on a business trip. Councilor F. E. Atkinson was named acting reeve in his absence. The Monday session was adjourned until Wednesday afternoon, when the balance of the council business was discussed. Reeve Powell was present for this meeting.

No Part of Canada Needs Air Service More, Trade Board Told by H. B. Morley

"No part of Canada needs direct air service more than the Okanagan Valley and we must continue to press Ottawa until we obtain it," declared H. B. Morley, Penticton, to the Associated Boards of Trade of the Southern Interior meeting in Summerland last night.

The Penticton board secretary gave a brief but direct outline of the situation regarding the campaign to obtain a Vancouver-Lethbridge air franchise with mail contract and he received the meeting's commendation for his presentation.

At present, the Capilano Airways Ltd. is considering accepting the post office department's offer of a mail contract, despite a much lower rate than applied previously to starting companies.

If the Capilano company cannot operate on this figure then Mr. Morley urged all boards to trade in the southern interior to get behind Penticton in an attempt to have one of the TCA planes service the Okanagan area by coming into the Penticton airport once daily.

Three months ago, Mr. Morley outlined, the Air Transport Board signified that the Capilano company had been offered the contract. However, the post office department only offered 12½ cents per mile, whereas other starting companies had obtained fifty to sixty cents.

Later the guaranteed load was boosted to 150 pounds which meant an equivalent of 22½ cents. Recently TCA was dropped from 45 cents to 15 cents, approximately.

Then, the Air Transport Board, evidently owing to a change in government policy, had turned down the applications of all three companies desiring the franchise, Mr. Morley continued.

(Other competing companies included Okanagan Airways Ltd., president of which is Brant E. Bergstrom, of Summerland. This company has appealed the A.T.B. denial.)

But such a wave of protest ensued that Hon. Mr. Howe, Minister of Transport, agreed on the floor of the House in Ottawa that if the Capilano company was prepared to accept the post office figures, then the board would agree to the franchise being granted.

"The Capilano company is considering this proposal," Mr. Morley stated, although it has appealed the decision of the A.T.B. The company is considering if it can take a chance on the mail contract price due to the big increase in population.

"There is a feeling throughout the whole valley that we deserve better air service than we have now," continued the Penticton man. "We really feel that TCA could give local service at a far lower cost."

"Within one hour of Penticton airport 50,000 persons reside, while there are more than 85,000 people in the Okanagan alone, equivalent to the population of a large city. No part of Canada needs air service more than we do."

"The Post Office department hasn't shown itself sympathetic," he continued, "but as we pointed out to an official this week, there has been no inducement given us

Calls Trout

The boards promised to notify the government of the need for this new route, once existing highways are put in first-class shape.

Trout Creek bridge came in for considerable criticism, and was called the "bottleneck of the Okanagan highway," and a "death trap" by T. B. Young and Reid Johnston, respectively, of the Summerland trade board.

The meeting promised to assist Summerland in its plan to have the bridge improved in accordance with the general highway program.

Another Summerland move, for the alteration of the Peach Orchard road from the south to the north side of the ravine, in order to escape icy conditions all winter, met with unanimous approval.

These two Summerland resolutions had been passed at a previous session of the boards but no correspondence could be found on these subjects. It was determined to press once again for these improvements.

Summerland, Penticton, Okanagan Falls, Oyoyog and Greenwood boards of trade were represented at the session last evening. A delightful banquet was served by the Summerland Robakah Lodge to nearly sixty guests.

Summerland Board President Reid Johnston introduced President McArthur following the banquet and welcomed the delegates to the session.

President McArthur and former secretary Wallace had made a three-day trip throughout the southern interior, at their own expense, and presented a detailed report on the operations of each trade board. The chairman considered such a trip should be undertaken by each incoming president annually.

to use air mail from the valley to date.

"Strong pressure is necessary to push this through, but if the Capilano company doesn't take up this contract, then the whole valley should join in pressing TCA to take up the service," he concluded.

The Associated Boards pledged their support if such a move should be necessary.

"WAR IS SILLY"

West Summerland,

Sept. 16, 1946.

Editor, The Review:

Since you invite comments on Mrs. Fosbery's suggestion for maintaining peace, I step forward hesitantly, in fear and trepidation, to speak my little piece.

We all join with Mrs. Fosbery in trying to do everything possible (almost everything) to prevent our Canada from being involved in another war. But it strikes me that her suggestion would not work — except for our enemies. Can't we even fight in self-defence?

If Vancouver were bombed by an enemy, (are such things impossible?) would we keep our fighter planes grounded and allow the enemy to escape un molested, until King Mackenzie called an election? When the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor, should Mr. Roosevelt have taken time to have a plebiscite to decide whether to fight or apologize? When the Nazis invaded Holland and Belgium, should their governments have said: "Tarry awhile Hitler, we want to hold an election."

A government that didn't have the power to carry on a war would be a timid government, whose foreign policy would be one of appeasement. Remember the days of Mr. Chamberlain and Munich?

We don't want that to happen here. It seems that the best way to prevent war is to prepare for it. International politics resembles poker—you have to bluff at times, but always be sure you have at least three aces in your hand if called.

We can only imagine one possible enemy at present (Peru?) and a policy of politeness and timidity doesn't seem the proper method to use. (Hey! You didn't have an election first, Mr. Stalin!). We tried to appease Germany, Italy and Japan and we had to fight them all—and all at once.

War is silly and out-moded. It should have gone out when gunpowder was invented, for it was then it lost its glamor. When one thinks that a rocket-bomb launched in Spokane could knock those seventeen apples off my Winesap tree, then I'm "agin" it.

Perhaps it would help if our foreign policy was shaped by men who knew what war really was. The men who landed on the beaches and carried the bayoneted rifle. The men who were at Casino, Caen and Hochwald Forest. Not the generals and other brass-hats but sergeants and lower in rank. Our national leaders may stand at Dieppe with tears in their eyes, and dedicate a monument and see a forest of crosses, but they still don't know what war is.

Now, Mr. Editor, have I stuck my ignorant neck out? Well, it is thin and scrawny, and has little value!

Yours truly,

A. P. DOWDY.

Keremeos Is Scene Of Lovely Wedding

At the Keremeos United church, Keremeos, on Thursday Sept. 12, Rev. R. P. Stobie officiated at the wedding of Josephine Grace Emily, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Walker, Quathiaski Cove, B.C., to Donald Albert Huntley, second son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Huntley, well-known residents of Oliver.

The bride wore a full-skirted long white nylon dress and waist-length veil with a coronet, and carried a shower bouquet of red roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Phyllis Walker, in pale rose sheer with toning head-dress of gladioli and carrying a shower bouquet of mauve and white asters.

Little Marilyn Robinson was flower girl in pale yellow net over green taffeta. She carried a nosegay of garden flowers, with carnations in her hair.

Rex Huntley was best man for his brother and the ushers were Verne Huntley and Ward Smith. The church was beautifully decorated with gladioli en tone.

During the signing of the register, Rev. M. Warne, accompanied by Mrs. Warne, sang, O Perfect Love.

The reception was held in the lovely garden of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. B. M. Clarke.

For the trip to northern sections of the province, the bride donned a nigger brown coat and accessories over a pale blue dress.

Glenn Pollock was host to 12 of his little friends on Tuesday afternoon, on the occasion of his sixth birthday.

Constable W. W. Hemingway and Lloyd McMillan spent the weekend on a fishing trip to Osprey Lake, where they report excellent fishing.

Kelowna — Okanagan Bartlett pears delayed the departure from Winnipeg of the private plane of Field Marshall the Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, Chief of the Imperial General Staff. The plane was delayed over twelve minutes, all because of the Okanagan pears.

The story behind the incident is that Monty was about to enter his plane at the Winnipeg airport when he happened to remark to his aide, "I'd sure like some nice pears. Could we get some?" A hurry-up call was made from the airport to the home of Carl Wens, a Winnipeg fruit merchant. "A dozen big Okanagan Bartletts ready to eat? The store's not open yet . . . the staff is not here . . . I've not had my breakfast . . . haven't even shaved . . . but if Monty wants Okanagan pears — well, Monty'll get 'em."

A basket was packed. No selecting or picking over was necessary, of course they were Okanagan pears. The Wens' truck sped to the airport; a steward ran with the fruit to Monty's big Dakota, which stood with engines idling, waiting for the pears. As they were handed in the door, the pilot gave it the gun and the aircraft nosed into the wind. It was airborne twelve minutes later than scheduled, all because of the pears. So the plane left, carrying eleven extra fancy Bartletts. Yes, eleven Bartletts. Monty ate the twelfth as the Dakota roared down the tarmac.

Tag Day For Blind Sept. 28

The battle for world freedom is over. But another battle is still being waged . . . for the freedom of those who cannot see.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is seeking help to fight this battle and is staging a tag day in Summerland on Saturday, September 28.

"Your money will be used for the education of the blind, to teach them to take care of themselves, to read, to work, to gain and hold a self-supporting place in this country," stated a representative to The Review this week.

"To be specific, here are a few of the many things your money will do for the blind: Secure employment for hundreds of blind Canadians in factories operated by the institute, and in general industry; help start blind people in businesses such as tobacco stands, canteens and news stands; educate blind people through talking books and Braille books loaned free by the institute's library and publishing department; help blind people who work in their homes, selling their products largely through the Sales Room Department of the institute; give special help in prevention of blindness to people who might otherwise become completely sightless.

"In addition to rendering every possible kind of free service, the institute, through its activities, enabled blind Canadians last year to receive earnings and other cash assistance totalling over one million dollars.

"As a Canadian, and as a compassionate human being, you should help the sightless people to 'see', help them to regain their self-confidence by giving them a chance to work.

"Give what you can, and when you give, think how much you would gladly pay to keep your own sight," the official concluded.

NEW FURNACE —

As the old furnace is now beyond further repair, Penticton School District 15 decided on Tuesday evening that a new furnace, at a cost of about $1,000 will have to be purchased as soon as possible for the Summerland high school.

Although the board does not wish to spend any more money than necessary on additions to this old building, which has been named as unfit for proper classroom accommodation, it was considered that the new furnace could be utilized in the new junior-senior high school, when it is erected.

Consideration is being given to a recommendation that the Summerland school gymnasium floor be sanded and repaired. A committee is to report on the cost of this work.

W. Armstrong, who rushed through the work of altering and extending the existing buildings and rooms in time for school opening, was given a hearty vote of thanks for his efforts by the school trustees when they met last week.

The new manual training room, built outside the elementary school, has now been occupied although some further work has to be done. The new room in the high school is occupied but not completely finished, while the new basement rooms in the elementary are all finished.

Although the Summerland schools are crowded to capacity and makeshift rooms have had to be utilized, the situation here is not as bad as other centres.

In Kelowna, the school auditorium has a class in the main seating portion and another class on the stage. Two classes in Penticton are using cafeteria tables, as no desks or seats have arrived for their use. Oliver is said to be as crowded as Kelowna or Penticton.

Frank Young, of Melville, Sask., has been a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Heichert.

OGOPOGO PLAYED IN 12-FOOT WATER

VERNON — On Tuesday morning, Sept. 10, at least four residents of Okanagan Landing saw the Ogopogo about 150 feet from the shore in front of the Tourist Hotel.

Those who saw the monster are Mrs. C. Barr, Mrs. Elsie Madden, Mrs. C. Clements and a Vancouver visitor, G. E. "Bud" Anderson, of Vernon, also had a good view of ogopogo.

Rod McIndoe saw the "wake" of his passing.

The facts on which the above persons, the first three of whom are now residents of Okanagan Landing, agree are that at 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday morning Ogopogo passed the Tourist Hotel, having a big time in about 10-12 feet of water, splashing, surging and "steaming" his way towards the Kinmen Beach. All agree on the huge head seen above the water, and "two humps" of his body. Questioned as to speed, one eyewitness said she thought he was going at 60 miles an hour, or "very fast."

The lake was clear and calm, with the weather settled and sunny, so it was no hallucination caused by waves, ripples or other reasons, say eye-witnesses.

Promote More Tourist Trade In Summerland

More interest in promoting tourist trade for this municipality is to be taken by the Summerland Board of Trade, it was decided on Thursday night at the monthly meeting in the I.O.O.F. hall.

Special attention is to be paid to the signs directing tourists to visit West Summerland business district and divert the traffic through this municipality.

The rock cairns at the entrances to the municipality are to be re-decorated and further work will be undertaken on the new sign at the top of Peach Orchard hill.

In order to promote tourist trade for this district, President Reid Johnston has appointed a committee consisting of Chas. Smith, chairman; John Glyn and J. R. Armstrong to investigate this question and bring in recommendations.

Co-operation of garage men and cafe owners in advising tourists of attractions in Summerland was advocated.

Summerland trade board has been invited to participate in activities of the recently reorganized Okanagan Valley Tourist Bureau. A meeting of this bureau was held last evening in Kelowna and Walter M. Wright was appointed the local board delegate to that function.

The board has agreed to assist the bureau with a cheque for $25, and if a favorable report is received from Mr. Wright the local body may see fit to raise the amount.

It is the bureau's aim to publish an Okanagan Valley tourist folder embracing all features of the valley from Enderby south to Osoyoos, Penticton, Kelowna and Vernon. Trade boards are being asked to contribute $300 each towards this program.

Therese Menu Is Shower Guest

Miss Therese Menu, bride-elect of early October, was the guest of honor on Thursday evening, Sept. 12, when Mrs. Frank Arnusch and Mrs. Jack Wignall were co-hostesses at a miscellaneous shower at the home of the latter.

The rooms were beautifully decorated for the occasion with seasonal flowers, pink and white streamers and white bells.

The bride-elect, who was seated in a decorated chair which matched the color-motif of the room, was presented with the many and useful gifts in a decorated clothes hamper.

Following an evening spent playing appropriate games, the guests enjoyed a delightful luncheon served by the hostesses.

Those present were the Mesdames L. Shannon, Chas. Smith, Stan Taylor, J. Glyn, M. Feterer, M. Hurry, H. Pilkington, F. Jacobs, A. Seno, F. Menu, W. McClure and the Misses Doreen Howard, Chris Jackson and Belva Jacobs, and the hostesses, Mrs. F. Arnusch and Mrs. J. Wignall.

Gifts were also sent by the Mesdames Delmar Spalding, Wm. Strachan, Verna Stevens and the Misses K. Broadbent and Gladys Dolan.

A lovely corsage of red roses and fern was presented to Miss Menu by the hostesses during the evening.

Shower for Hazel Pollock Is Held

A miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Hazel Pollock, a bride-elect of the coming week, was held on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 12, when Mrs. Jennie McDonald, Mrs. Nettie Shannon and Mrs. Helen McLachlan were hostesses at the home of the former.

The many gifts were presented beneath an umbrella decorated in pastel mauve and white.

Following a social afternoon, the 28 guests present enjoyed a lovely tea served by the hostesses.

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. B. Munn have returned from a Vancouver visit. They were accompanied there by their daughter, Barbara, who will attend Crofton House for the coming term.

Husky JOHN H. O'REAR, of Chattanooga, Tenn., described as having suffered a serious injury when he was run over by the rear wheel of a five-ton road roller. His most serious injury was four broken ribs. Doctors described his escape as miraculous, for his chest was as flat as a pancake.

NEIGHBORS ASSIST BURGLARS WITH CAR

Neighbors of Councillor F. E. Atkinson are wearing a rather sheepish air these days, as they recently assisted a man, suspected of having burgled the Atkinson home, to get a stolen car from the ditch and proceed on his way.

It is believed that the driver of the car, with a companion, went to the Atkinson home on Saturday evening, Aug. 31, while the Legion street carnival was in progress, to obtain a shovel to get the vehicle out of the ditch.

This car is said to have been stolen from George Lampard, Penticton, and has since been recovered in Vancouver.

When the two men found no one at home they ransacked the Atkinson home and stole an electric clock, electric razor and a gold ring. Later, the razor was located on Granville street near the telephone office, where it had been dropped when a car door was opened.

In the meantime, well-meaning neighbors discovered the car stuck in the ditch and assisted the two men to get it back on the road. It wasn't until some time later they found that they had assisted the alleged burglars of the Atkinson home.

CAR INTO DITCH

Westbank — Miss Jill Springer and her niece Diane Springer suffered slight injuries on Friday evening when the car Miss Springer was driving skidded off the wharf-hill road into a ditch.

Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Day left today Thursday, on a motor trip to California. They will travel via the Salt Lake and Grand Canyon route and will visit relatives in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville Morgan left by motor last week, to visit friends in U.S. points.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schumann will leave at the week-end for the coast, where Mrs. Schumann will visit in Vancouver, while Mr. Schumann will attend an insurance agents' convention at Qualicum.

Friends of Mrs. Magnus Tait will be sorry to learn that she has been a recent patient in the local hospital. Although Mrs. Tait has now returned to her home, she will be forced to give up her public activities for the present.

Seek Mail Carrier Service In Valley

Two Okanagan communities are planning on carrier postal delivery before Christmas this year. Kelowna and Penticton. Through the trade board and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, every effort is being made in Penticton to clear the way for mail delivery, especially before the Christmas rush commences.

In Kelowna it is thought that carrier delivery will be available for that city by the end of October, as the civil service has advertised for applications for the position of postal carrier there, and these must be in Ottawa by Sept. 24.

Also, the postal authorities are appealing to Kelowna persons to get their house numbers up and their letter slots in. Postal heads are also advising Kelowna persons to advise all their correspondents that they should henceforth put the street address as well as the post office box on all mail.

In Summerland, tenders are being sought for the delivery of mail to and from Summerland post offices to the Kettle Valley trains, which arrive at 12:50 a.m. and 5:35 a.m. fast time westbound and eastbound respectively.

Would Improve Fish Lake Road

Improvement of the Fish lake road and a proposal to build a scenic highway to the top of Giant's Head have been urged on the provincial government public works department through W. A. C. Bennett, M.L.A. for South Okanagan, by the Summerland Board of Trade.

Due to illness, the public works minister's visit to this district has had to be postponed, but when he does come here, these matters will be discussed with him, trade board members were informed last Thursday, at the September monthly meeting in the I.O.O.F. hall.

Chapman & Son, Mazama, wrote the Summerland board requesting that some consideration be given to improving the Falder-Princeton road. There is an ever-increasing use being made of this road, the Mazama firm states. This question will also be discussed with the works minister.

CANNOT SELL LOT

Mrs. Lauzon approached the council on Monday to make an application to purchase a lot immediately south of her cafe in lower town. The council informed her that this property is being held for industrial purposes and it could not make such a sale at this time.

CHANGE MEETING TIME

As a number of the new veterans' wives wish to join and are unable to attend in the afternoons, the Legion W.A. has decided to change its monthly meeting time to 8 o'clock on the second Monday of the month.

W Arnett, who has been requesting the council to remove three trees near the bank house, because of damage which is being caused to fruit trees, will be informed that the trees can only be removed with danger to the orchard, and that the council does not feel it can make the expenditure needed to haul them away once they are felled.

Make Plans For Trade Board Cage Sport This Winter

Forty eager and prospective basketball players turned out at the school gymnasium on Thursday evening last for an organization meeting of the Summerland Basketball club, but owing to conflicting meetings there were few who could be considered as executive material able to attend.

As a result no officers were elected and the meeting was adjourned until Monday evening, Sept. 23, when further action towards organizing for the winter season will be taken. This session will also be at the school gymnasium.

From present indications, senior "B," intermediate "B" and junior boys' teams are ensured for this season, while there is a strong possibility that intermediate "A" boys and intermediate "A" girls' teams will be forthcoming.

There is a wealth of talent among the young people here which bodes well for a continuation of the cage sport in this community.

Rev. H. R. Whitmore was also present on Thursday and has agreed to carry on his good work among juveniles, if he can obtain support from one or more seniors in actual coaching work.

Andrew Bennie was in the chair on Thursday, in his capacity as club manager last season. A financial report was read and indicated that the club is in a sound position, having increased its surplus from approximately $60 to $114.

However, there are certain capital expenditures which must be made this year in the way of strips and additional balls and other equipment. The junior boys are badly in need of new outfits, while the seniors' makeshift strips will have to be replaced, it was felt.

If a number of older Summerland citizens can be interested to guide the destinies of the club, it was felt on Thursday, that a big year is in store for basketball in Summerland this fall and winter.

CONSIDER TRIP TO GRAND COULEE DAM

Summerland Rotary club executive is considering a proposal to transport the two highest grades of high school students on an inspection of the Grand Coulee Dam. Recently, the Penticton Rotary club sponsored this tour and it met with unqualified success.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wignall were week-end visitors in Vancouver.

Trade Board Monthly Meet Covers Topics

Less than forty members were present for the September monthly meeting of the Summerland Board of Trade, but a considerable amount of business was cleared away in the two-hour session.

President Reid Johnston urged a good representation for the Associated Boards of Trade session, held in Summerland last night. The meeting appointed President Johnston Vice-President George Perry and T. B. Young to be delegates to this meeting.

The trade board went officially on record as favoring the parks committee move to call the park project on the board of trade property The Memorial Park.

The late J. H. McDonald, whose death was announced in New Westminster recently was well-known to trade board members, as he addressed the local board and also paid the entire cost of the publicity cairns at the entrances to the municipality.

President Johnston informed the board that he had sent a wreath on behalf of the board, to the McDonald funeral.

A letter of thanks is to go forward to the Women's Institute, in appreciation of that group's efforts in distributing ration books. The Summerland Board of Trade was responsible for the distribution but the Women's Institute actually carried out the work, under supervision of trade board secretary, Len Hill.

Christmas Tree

Francis Steuart led a discussion on the annual Christmas Tree project of the board. He pointed to the big increase in school population here and felt that the board could not undertake as large a project as in previous years.

It was decided that Christmas tree gifts would not include children in grades 6, 7 and 8 this year. Even with these grades eliminated, there would still be nearly as many gifts to hand out as in previous years, it was felt. Last year, 675 packages went to local children of school and pre-school age.

John Tait Replies

John Tait, a charter member of the board and a past president and secretary, wired the monthly meeting from Victoria following his departure for the coast, where he will make his future home.

President Johnston expressed the board's regret at the departure from its midst of Mr. Tait and informed the gathering that a suitable presentation had been made to Mr. Tait before he left for the coast.

Mr. Tait's telegram follows:

"Sorry have not had time to write to thank members of board before meeting. The present (engraved desk set) is greatly appreciated by Mrs. Tait and myself; you have our thanks. It has always been a pleasure to work with board members these many long years and my wish is as far as possible, you keep up the good work. I shall always be interested in whatever work the board is doing."

TEXT BOOK DISTRIBUTION

During the past two weeks, the text book branch of the department of education has been busy distributing thousands of text books to schools throughout the province. Last year this branch of the government service distributed $400,000 worth of text books. This year, it is expected that the figure will reach $500,000.

Mr. Tony Ulrich, of Vancouver, who is employed in Summerland, at present, will spend the remainder of the picking season at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aart Advoaat.

MUST SUB-DIVIDE

WINNER of the title her mother had in 1919, Ruth Lenfestey will be Miss Michigan 1946 at the Miss America contest in Atlantic City next month. A former book keeper, Ruth is 5 feet 4 1/2 inches tall, weighs 120.

These Devices Save Farm Labour

Among the farm labour saving devices assembled or invented by the Engineering Section, Field Husbandry Division, Dominion Experimental Farms Service, are many items of auxiliary utility, quite apart from the plans and specifications for heavier farm machinery. For example, full information with detailed plans and specifications may be obtained for making necessary articles for poultry, such as, a range water unit, self-waterer, feed trough, water fountain, mash feeder, feed mixer, range shelter, and a roost and pit.

For sheep there are single and double feeders and for hogs there are a hog breeding crate, loading chute, feeding troughs for all sizes of pigs, self-feeder, pig creep, weighing crate, green feed rack, alfalfa feed rack, hog feeding platform, and farrowing pen. Among miscellaneous articles are a harrow dumping device, a breeding stall and bull pen for cattle, feed alley cart, home made anvil, wagon jack, fly trap, hog holder, seed treater, potato cutter, potato sorter, handy farmyard cart, and a low slung wagon. As in the case with heavier farm trucks, tractors, and other machinery full information with plans and specifications may be obtained by writing to, or visiting if convenient, the Engineering Section, Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

SPONSOR SPORTS

Summerland Canadian Legion is considering the sponsoring of a number of junior sports organizations in Summerland. A committee with Bob Spencer as chairman, has been appointed to investigate this angle. Other members are R. Grant, George Fudge, J. R. Armstrong and Mr. Bertram.

Big Increase

One delegate is to be sent to the annual convention of the B.C. Hospital association in Vancouver from Nov. 12 to 16, and Secretary O'Mahony will be the likely representative.

Patient Is Pleased
Judge W. C. Kelley, a recent patient in the Summerland hospital, wrote the board that, "I never paid out money with more pleasure," in sending his cheque to cover his hospitalization. "The matron and staff of nurses, I consider, have a most supreme attitude in caring for the patients and go the second mile in their efficient efforts for the patients' welfare," he declared.

Five new beds have been ordered for the hospital, three of these to be placed in the new addition to the men's public ward. Cost of these beds has been placed at $486.75 plus freight, but two have been donated by the local Rebekah order and the Hospital auxiliary.

T. M. Croil suggested that some effort should be made to provide a proper waiting room for visitors to the hospital, while it was also pointed out that the medical men need office space for consultations and chart inspections. These two additions were considered essential by the board but will have to wait until it is known how the financial situation will be for the balance of the year.

BOOST INSTEAD OF KNOCKING

VERNON—A change in attitude towards roads and highways in the Okanagan was advised by Harold Pope, assistant district engineer, who spoke at the Rotary Club luncheon. Mr. Pope was recently transferred to Vernon from Courtenay. "You boast about the weather in the Okanagan Valley, but when you speak of the roads, you say you have the worst," said Mr. Pope. "Why not boost the highways instead of knocking them? If you think the roads are poor here, you should go to the Island. You haven't any idea how bad they can be."

WANT TRAFFIC LIGHTS

KELOWNA — Installation of traffic regulation, "stop and go" lights along Bernard Avenue, at Ellis, Pendozzi and Water Streets, has been suggested by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as a solution to what they described as the noon-time and 5 p.m. traffic problems at these corners.

Paint the entire unit to harmonize with the rest of the room. To add a final filip, put gay decals on cabinet doors and on window valance.

WESTBANK BOXING DRAWS 300 FANS

Westbank — Westbank Memorial Fund was boosted again on Friday, Sept. 13 by a card of exhibition boxing staged in the Community Hall by several local talents and visiting fighters from all parts of the valley.

Highlighting the evening was a fight between Hank Eggle, Pacific Coast champion and August Ciancone, B.C. champion in the same class. Eggle, a Keremeos boxer, and Ciancone, a Kelowna Pro-Rec instructor fought two rounds to a draw before a crowd of three hundred.

Among the numerous bouts was a fight between Clarence Walker of Westbank and Gibbow from Vernon. Walker, who took the championship in his class (146 lbs.) at Vernon last July, proved superior or against the southern lad, as the fight was called a technical knock-out in the second round.

Fast and able, Kelowna's Albert Bianco took a hard fought technical knock-out bout from Golden Gloves champion George Fenton of Westbank in the 160 pound class.

Kaname Araki successfully upheld the title he earned at Vernon last July, defeating Emilieck from Kelowna, a novice in the ring who worked for $107,050.

nevertheless put up excellent competition against the more experienced fighter.

Bill Wilcox, chief pro-rec instructor from East Kelowna, was referee and seconds were J. Wilcox and H. Haagstrome, both of Westbank.

PROVINCIAL NORMAL SCHOOL

The largest enrolment since 1930 is reported by the Provincial Normal school which has registered 110 students taking training for the teaching profession, states Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir, minister of education. This is the first time since the war that the normal school building in Victoria has been used for this purpose. During the past four or five years, it has been used for a military hospital. It is notable that a large increase is reported among male students taking the teachers' training course.

CONTRACT LIST

The public works department has awarded to General Construction Company of Vancouver the contract for reconstruction of the highway between Lonsdale avenue and Blue Mountain road. Gen. Kaname Araki successfully upheld the title he earned at Vernon last July, defeating Emilieck from Kelowna, a novice in the ring who worked for $107,050.

M. Dunsdon.

Ted Dunsdon was the crack shot at 600 yards, but again a three-way tie occurred, Dewey Sanborn and A. R. Dunsdon just missing out in the shoot-off. In this case Dewey Sanborn won the second prize.

Five teams of five men each were chosen to shoot off for the Powell Cup, donated to the Pacific Coast Militia Rangers by Reeve W. R. Powell for inter-company competition and turned over to the club this year.

Ted Dunsdon's team won the trophy, his helpers being D. Weitzel, F. G. Anderson, E. Walker and L. Shannon.

To complete the day, an interesting sweepstakes shoot-off was held on the 600 yard range. For the tyros, H. M. Simpson won first prize, followed by Joe McLachlan and D. Weitzel. In the open, A. R. Dunsdon topped first prize, with G. M. Dunsdon second and H. Dunsdon third.

Tyro high score winners were: 200 yards—1, R. A. Fredrickson, 31; D. Weitzel, 30.

500 yards—1, G. A. Graham, 30; after a shoot-off with H. M. Simpson, second.

600 yards—1, D. Spalding, 28, after a shoot-off with E. Walker, second prize.

For the windup shoot of the season this coming Sunday morning, Kelowna, Vernon and Armstrong will be competing here against the local sharpshooters for the Summerland shield.

Individual scores last Sunday follow.

Donna Haskins Wins District U.B.C. Bursary

Donna L. Haskins, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Frank W. Haskins, of Summerland, has gone to the University of British Columbia this week, the recipient of the first annual award of a $200 bursary, offered for north and south Okanagan by the Grand Lodge of B.C. the Grand Encampment and the Rebekah Assembly.

Rev. Haskins is minister of the Baptist church in West Summer-

This is the first occasion the Oddfellows and Rebekahs have offered this award, and this bursary is one of six being offered to "any student in any year of any faculty." Each bursary has a value of $200.

Other districts in which these bursaries have been granted are Vancouver Island and Powell River, Greater Vancouver, New Westminster and the Fraser Valley, the Kootenays, and the main line of the C.P.R. east of Chilliwack and northern B.C.

G. H. Campbell, secretary of the I.O.O.F. Bursary committee, advised Donna Haskins that she is the first recipient in this district. The young Summerland girl, who had planned to attend senior matriculation classes in Penticton, left on Monday, Sept. 23, for Vancouver to enter U.B.C.

Action of the Summerland I.O.O.F. lodge, especially members Allan McKenzie and Carl Nesbitt, was responsible in obtaining this bursary for this Summerland girl, it is stated.

School Principal A. K. Macleod and S. A. MacDonald assisted in the recommendation.

There are four Summerland girls now in attendance at U.B.C. these being Joyce Elsey, Phyllis Dawson, Donna Haskins and Joan Bennett the latter being the first winner of the Summerland Scholarship fund award of $250 to assist in attending the University.

These four girls are graduates of the 1946 junior matriculation class from the Summerland High school.

It is stated here that the I.O.O.F. award was made on a basis of all-round ability scholastic standing and general interest in school activities being considered.

Mr. Black asked that notices warning persons that they cannot trespass on land adjoining the reservoir be posted. He would be willing to institute prosecutions once sufficient warnings had been posted, Mr. Black stated in his communication.

The council has decided to post such signs, warning against trespassing, fishing and watering animals in the reservoir.

TECHNICOLOR FILM

A new motion picture entitled, "Okanagan—The Valley of Plenty," has just been filmed in the Okanagan in technicolor. This winter to acquaint the people of Canada with the fruit growing district of British Columbia buyers and consumers of Okanagan fruit will be given a picture of the modern system of packing.

Summerland Team Wins Windup Rifle Shoot

In competition with teams from Kelowna and Vernon, Summerland's No. 2 team, headed by P. S. and F. W. Dunson captured the Summerland Shield at the local rifle range last Sunday, in the final shoot of the Summerland Rifle club for the season. The winning quintette marked up a score of 87 out of a possible 525.

Kelowna sent one team, while Vernon sent another and a combined Vernon-Armstrong squad to compete in Summerland's final shoot of the 1946 season.

F. W. Dunson was winner of the grand aggregate prize, scoring 97 out of a possible 105. He was tied for this honor by P. H. Dunson and A. E. Scott, but won in the shoot-off. Scott took second prize.

Scoring 34 out of 35, P. S. Dunson was top man over 200 yards, with A. E. Scott's 33 placing him in second spot.

Over 500 yards, P. S. Dunson also captured first prize, with 33 points, but had to shoot off with W. H. Hall and W. Leeper, of Vernon. Chas. Hawes, of Kelowna, and L. Shannon, Summerland. W. Leeper was second place man.

F. W. Dunson also scored 33 over 600 yards, while A. E. Scott took second place having been tied by F. G. Anderson and Ted Dunson.

Detailed team scores, in order of merit follow:

DELEGATION SEEKS DOMESTIC WATER

Need for domestic water for Peach Valley residents was again brought to the Summerland council's attention on Monday when a delegation headed by Elmer Johnston was in attendance.

With Water Foreman E. Kercher busily engaged in working out estimates of cost, it was decided that the least cost involved would be approximately $100 to each of the six persons desiring new connections.

To supply this district, a lengthy extension of pipe will be necessary, involving approximately $1,200 in pipe cost and labor.

It was pointed out that this cost might be materially reduced if the applicants could join together and arrange to have the pipe installed themselves.

With Mr. Johnston were E. H. Bennett, Harvey Mitchell, Alf McLachlan, A. A. Fenwick Mel Monro and Jim Holler.

Cagers Make Further Plans For Season

Summerland Basketball club elected officers on Monday night at the school gymnasium and made preliminary plans for an active season which will involve four teams, at least.

Tentative practice nights, which must be approved by Penticton School District 15, are Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays. On Monday evening, the juveniles, under the care of the AOTS, with Rev. H. R. Whitmore in charge, have use of the gym until 9 o'clock, when the senior "B" club takes over.

On Tuesday evenings, the juniors, intermediate "B" and intermediate "A" girls have their practices for an hour each, commencing at 6:30 o'clock. On Thursday nights all four teams will have a work-out.

J. R. "Tim" Armstrong was named president of the Summerland Basketball club on Monday, with Joe McLachlan as first vice-president and Gordon Beggs, second vice-president. Mrs. J. McLachlan continues as secretary, and Earle Wilson was named as treasurer.

Andrew Bennie will be the club manager and will have the handling of the senior "B" team.

Coaches of the four teams and playing captains of the senior "B" men's and girls' teams will comprise the executive. Besides Mr. Bennie, coaches will be Gordon Mountford, girls; George Clark, intermediate "B"; and Jim Hack, seniors.

Last week, the Okanagan Valley Labor Union denounced the efforts of the U.P.W.A. in endeavoring to disrupt the new Federation. Gordon Beggs has been named strip manager, while a transportation committee of Joe McLachlan chairman, with Fred Dunson and Gordon Beggs, was chosen by the executive.

Both the senior "B" and junior boys' teams are in need of new uniforms and the club has been empowered to obtain costs and endeavor to arrange the financing of these purchases.

MAKES PROTEST ON ASSESSMENT

G. W. Johnston protested to the council on Monday, by letter, against his 1946 assessment. His notice of assessment, received in 1945, gave no indication of a change in taxation and he considered that it was unfair for the Summerland council to decide to tax on improvements without giving due notice prior to the court of revision.

Municipal Clerk Nixon pointed out that when the assessment notices were sent out last year the council had not come to any agreement on the basis of taxation for 1946 as it had no power to make such a decision.

Memorial Park Session Friday

Further plans for Summerland Memorial Parks, the park-playground on the Board of Trade lot and the athletic field on the Drake lot, will be formulated on Friday evening at the municipal council chamber.

Councillor F. H. Atkinson will be chairman of the session, when it is expected that preliminary estimates of these projects will be submitted.

Fairly elaborate plans of the two projects have been drawn up by the two subcommittees, which were appointed two months ago.

It is expected that a public meeting to discuss the committee's voltage regulator, although one is expected here this fall.

The Keeley company has also been endeavoring in the past few months to obtain the necessary equipment, but so far without result.

Labor Union Front Is Quieter With Absence of U.P.W.A. Officials

With the departure from the Okanagan this week of W. Symington, international representative of the U.P.W.A.-C.I.O., fruit men in the Okanagan believe that threatened labor troubles among the fruit and vegetable packing house workers have now diminished and there is little likelihood that the newly formed Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers Union will be disrupted further. The Federation was formed after the packing house employees broke away from the United Packing House Workers of America-C.I.O., claiming that their autonomy was threatened by direction of international representatives.

W. Sands, Okanagan Valley representative of the Federated Unions, was singled out for attack by representatives of the U.P.W.A. at meetings held in the Kelowna district this week and last week. Also under the firing gun were L. R. Stephens, a member of the negotiating committee between the employing shipping houses and the workers, and the Federated Shippers Assn.

At a meeting of the Kelowna Growers Exchange with its employees last Thursday evening, the entire setup was discussed at length, with nearly a hundred employees being present. Questions were answered for nearly an hour and a half and it is reported the employees appeared satisfied with the status of the Federation of Packing House Workers Unions at the conclusion of the meeting.

At least there has been no further complaint received by any of the packing house management from the workers since that time, it is believed.

All packing houses which formerly had employee affiliation with the U.P.W.A. are now under the Federation, it is stated, as well as the Canadian Cannery (Western) Ltd. employees in Penticton.

In Kelowna, however, employees of the Canadian Cannery plant remained with the U.P.W.A. and that local held a session last week and elected a new slate of officers.

Pamphlets deriding the new Federation were circulated last weekend and these also reached Mr. Stephens' and the shippers' federation severely. Some of the charges which have been hurled were that the fruit and vegetable workers' union executives are being paid by the shippers' association and are betraying the workers of the valley.

Last week, the Okanagan Valley Labor Union denounced the efforts of the U.P.W.A. in endeavoring to disrupt the new Federation. Gordon Beggs has been named strip manager, while a transportation committee of Joe McLachlan chairman, with Fred Dunson and Gordon Beggs, was chosen by the executive.

This morning, Mr. R. H. Livingstone, controller of lumber for the Interior of B.C., visited Summerland and conferred with George Perry, manager of the Summerland Box Co. Mr. Livingstone was accompanied here by Mr. Stephens.

The local box factory was able to obtain another crew of men and instituted a double shift, commencing last Monday. The first shift works from 7:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m., and the second shift commences at 5 p.m. and continues until 2:30 a.m. with breaks. Both shifts are eight hours duration it is said.

Alteration of Oroville Dam Expected to Help Lower Level of Lake

Alteration of the Zosel dam, at Oroville, Wash., has been ordered by the International Joint Commission, in an effort to alleviate flood conditions in the Okanagan Valley and allow for a swifter run-off of water from Okanagan river and Osoyoos lake.

The owner of the dam will carry out these alterations at his own expense, the commission dictates.

This commission order dates back to July, 1943, when the first hearings were held in Penticton and Oroville. The commission itself was set up under the provisions of Article IV of the Treaty of January 11, 1900, to give consideration to effects of dams, dykes, bars and other formations in the Okanagan river upon the levels of the river or in Osoyoos lake.

As a result of the 1943 meetings, a special board of engineers consisting of C. E. Webb, district chief engineer, Dominion Water and Power Bureau, Department of Mines and Resources, Vancouver; and F. M. Venthan, district engineer, United States Geological Survey, Tacoma, Wash., was set up.

Further meetings were held at Osoyoos and Oroville last June and it was decided that the Zosel dam sometimes raises the level of Osoyoos lake to the detriment of the levels farther north in Canada.

EDITORIAL*Ration Quotas

Osoyoos Board of Trade had a good idea last week when it suggested to the Associated Boards of Trade of the Southern Interior that pressure be brought to bear on the Wartime Prices and Trade Board for a redistribution of ration quotas in the Okanagan.

Rationed goods are based on 1941 populations. In other words, Summerland is obtaining quotas based on a population of 2,000 persons, whereas the population now is 3,400.

Osoyoos is even harder hit, as the population there has tripled since 1941. Penticton estimates its population is nearly double that of five years ago and so it goes throughout the popular Okanagan Valley.

In wartime, Edmonton and Prince Rupert had large increases in population, due to influx of American troops and others employed in building trades necessitated by war measures. The quotas of those cities, it is stated, were raised by the Prices Board. And they are still being maintained, even though the troops are gone and so are the civilian workers.

It is recognized that Saskatchewan's population has decreased considerably in the past five years. Yet that province is maintaining the same ration quotas as were first fixed.

Recent travellers to Saskatchewan report rationed goods in plentiful supply. Stores have lots of canned milk, soap, butter, and other goods which are so sorely needed in more plentiful quantities here. Some recent visitors to that prairie province even report men's shirts and sox on the counters in plain view.

Such an event in the Okanagan or for that matter anywhere in B.C., would be enough to cause a stampede of clamoring purchasers.

If the rationing of goods is to continue, and there is plenty of evidence that the end is nowhere in sight, then the Wartime Prices and Trade Board must make a redistribution for the Okanagan and for all of B.C., if it is to play fair with British Columbia.

This province has had a big influx of new residents. They are going to stay if it is at all possible. But they and the older residents have a right to their fair share of the consumer goods which are being produced today, small as that production is at present.

It is time the people of B.C. obtained a fair "break" in this connection.

Pedestrian Travel

It is only common sense to walk on the left hand side of a road, but it is surprising to note how many persons refuse to recognize this fact and trudge along with their backs to on-coming vehicles.

If a person walks on the left hand side, cars coming toward them are plainly visible and easily avoided. When walking on the right hand side, approaching cars on that side come from the rear and, as the human has no eyes in the back of his head, then there is a constant danger to the pedestrian.

Parents should instill this habit of common sense in their children. It should be a part of the school curriculum. Parents and other grown-ups, even if they have no regard for their own safety should at least set a good example to the children by walking on the proper side of the road—that is, the left side.

Home Front Appeals

Two worthy charities are appealing to Summerland residents this week for assistance to carry on their recognized efforts. The Salvation Army's Home Front Appeal is aimed to raise $2,000,000 across Canada, and has already commenced its drive, while the Canadian National Institute for the Blind will hold a tag day in Summerland on Saturday.

Anyone who enjoyed the privileges of Salvation Army canteens in Canada or overseas during the war needs little reminder of the splendid work of this great group. Now that the one conflict is over, the Army is carrying on its efforts on the home front, working for the poor, the ill and the erring.

It is a worthwhile appeal and one which should find ready response from all and sundry.

On Saturday, the Institute for the Blind is seeking support for its needy members, in trying to create a "new world" for the blind.

There is a world of light to be brought to a blind person through his other senses, if he is taught to "see" it. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind opens the door into this new world so that the blind may work, play and live the kind of lives that make them an asset to their community. Your help is needed in this work.

CORNERSTONE FOR A HOUSE OF LIFE*THE Feminine

Muriel Hurry

The advertisements in modern publications have a positive genius for catching the feminine eye. If the ad writers could only feel the envy of a busy farm wife when exhausted from a long day of chores she picks up her favorite magazine, hoping for a few moments' relaxation, and sees a dashing cut of an exotic blonde, clad in a flimsy garment with bare midriff, and casually pouring cocktails on a terrace overlooking miles of green lawn. Beneath the picture, if you could bear to continue, are the words, "Harem in Hollywood—Shades of the Shah, Harem pajamas for terrace dining, in softly draped rayon jersey."

And a little farther down on the page, an alluring blonde with a secretive smile, reclining in a slinky black nightgown, proclaims, "Dreamy Nylons for Sleeping Beauties, frothed with fabulous Chantilly Lace."

Any woman who is human, unless both her youth and her figure have long been a thing of the past, would feel positively green.

But except for the occasional dream, the majority of women are happy just to be a wife and mother. It is an occupation that brings much more satisfaction and contentment.

Much has been written at the present time of the problems of child-raising, since juvenile delinquency has become a national poser. Child experts advise that the busy and happy child rarely gets into mischief. It seems to me that the habit of reading is a simple solution to this problem. A proper reading habit could have a great deal of influence on the shaping of a child's character. There are many children who are avid readers, and most children could become habitual readers if their literature was carefully selected and edited by a sympathetic adult, with an alert eye to the child's greatest interests.

Most children are fond of poetry and it is a very painless method of teaching morals to a child. Good art and literature are symbols of good breeding and background, which could be instilled into children at an early age. But literature should not be pounded and crammed into the child. Rather his tastes in literature should be tactfully felt out and then the best procurable books in these lines placed at his disposal. As his mind develops, his tastes in reading will broaden, and his character and schooling will both be strengthened by this additional learning.

It has been pointed out in the columns of The Review that the services of a public library are at the disposal of the citizens of Summerland with a wide variety of books to suit the varied tastes of all the family. This public service will be put to good use by the wise parent, both for his own reading satisfaction and that of the family.

Gove Hambridge

This is the fourth part of Gove Hambridge's interesting article on the aims and objects of FAO. This article will be continued next week.

SECOND FARMER

You are a farmer in a small country where agriculture has long been highly developed.

Before the last world war, almost everyone in your part of the country raised wheat along with other crops. The government wanted you to, partly because the nation had to be able to feed itself in case of war—and bread is the staff of life. So there were tariffs and quotas and other schemes to prevent wheat from being imported, and you were paid a subsidy to grow it. By the time the bread reached the market the cost was high, so the poorer people could not afford to buy much is in the way of food.

Things have changed. Milk prices are now so good that many farmers have increased their dairy herds and find it pays to grow fodder crops on the land they formerly used for wheat. The co-operative creamery has added new products to the old staple butter—such novelties as fresh cream, ice cream and special cheeses.

Farmers also raise more hogs and chickens and buy quantities of feedstuffs imported at reasonable prices from abroad. Some grow specially bred crops for seed to sell to other countries. Many are using a large acreage for vegetables. Some are putting in fruit trees. There is a co-operative canning plant and you have heard that next year they will add equipment to freeze the berries and other special crops that do so well in your district.

There is a good sale for your produce. Industry has been expanding a great deal since the war. Everybody has work, wages are good, and it seems that the people in the cities can't get enough milk and meat and fruit and vegetables and eggs. There has been quite a revolution in the way these things are handled too. Big cold-storage plants have been going up, and plants for pasteurizing and cooling. The markets are clean and up-to-date.

It means you have to be rather fussy about your own products. Government regulations make you arrange your cow barn and handle your milk just so. Vegetables and eggs and fruit are graded nowadays more than they used to be a few years ago.

All this is part of a general change. You have always prided yourself on being a good farmer, like your father and his father, but there are advantages now that they didn't have—advantages brought by the spread of new scientific developments. You have need of plants, specially bred for your part of the country, high-yielding and resistant to diseases. There are now insect sprays and dusts that do a wonderful job in cleaning up some of the worst pests. You can get good veterinary services nearby. Your livestock are fine specimens; some of them are the result of artificial breeding from sires much better than you or your neighbors could afford to own. The animals are thrifty, too, on the ration, you give them, carefully worked out by scientists. Finally, there are some improved machines, made specially for small farms, that help mightily in getting the work done.

In making these changes you have had some help. Experts from the experiment stations have given you advice in managing your soil, selecting seed, and so on. You belong to a thriving co-operative which performs a useful service in buying and selling. Credit arrangements for farmers are better so that you can improve the farm without stinting your family so much.

Life seems better for everyone. The most important thing is that you can plan for a sure future. You don't live with the constant fear that war will wreck everything in five or ten or twenty years.

THIRD FARMER

You are the owner of a huge wheat farm in a land where commercial crops are grown on a large scale.

It would not be boasting to say that your farm is one of the most efficient in the world for wheat production. The soil is deep and rich and the land level; in summer, a sheet of golden grain stretches away as far as the eye can see. For plowing, tillage, planting, harvesting, you use powerful machines that move over the ground like marching factories. You apply the latest findings of science in the production of your crop. You can produce it at the lowest cost per bushel, and you are proud of that fact, for it means cheap bread for mankind.

Yet you can remember the time, not so many years ago, when this ability to produce great quantities of food at a low cost seemed more of a curse than a blessing. The existing markets were glutted with wheat. You would have been ruined if the government had not tried various schemes to help producers in your position. Finally, they even paid you regular sums of money in return for agreeing you would not produce more than a certain amount each year.

Now, production is in full swing on your farm, and you expect it to continue to be. There has been international action which opens up the world's markets for such staple products as wheat from the areas best adapted to growing them. Those areas that could grow those products only at a high cost have been largely put into other crops for which they are better suited. Whenever there is an oversupply from the efficient areas, it is taken off the regular market by international agreement and special arrangements are made to sell it to countries where many people are still poor and hungry is still a threat. Thanks in part to this action, there is now no famine anywhere in the world. And with a sure market at a reasonable price, you are able to continue producing all you can produce efficiently and make a better living than in the old days when it was a gamble from year to year.

Indeed, agriculture as a whole is more prosperous. There has been great stimulus to production as a result of international action after the last war. You have followed the whole movement with intense interest and as a leading member of a big farm organization you have taken part in several international conferences and served on one or two committees of specialists.

Your son, who is a scientist in one of the big agricultural colleges, is even more enthusiastic than you are. He has travelled to various countries on international missions sent out to study difficult problems, and he reports that there is great activity in improving production and in scientific research. Almost everywhere, he says, the results can be seen in higher standards of living.

HOUSEWIFE

Finally, please imagine that you are a housewife in a factory town in one of the countries where industry is now rapidly developing. You are neither well-to-do nor poor but somewhere in between. The family needs all your husband earns to live on, and food is the biggest item in your budget.

You pay a good deal of attention to food not only for that reason but because you are keenly aware of its importance to the health of your children and your husband and yourself. There has been a widespread movement during the last few years for better nutrition which has had its effect on you and most of the people you know.

You read in the newspapers and hear over the radio and at meetings about its good results. For instance, all expectant mothers and those nursing babies now get milk free if they can't afford to buy it. If necessary they can get some other foods free or at low cost, too. Doctors say that as a result many more infants are healthy and normal at birth and there are many fewer dangerous and difficult births. Just getting the right food has given both the babies and the mothers a better chance in life.

Most schools now serve the children a wholesome, well-balanced meal at noon-time without charge, and in many cases the younger ones get extra milk between meals. You are sure that has helped a great deal in keeping your own children glowing with health and full of energy. Looking back on your girlhood, you remember that you were not blessed with such health, and you can't help feeling that a good deal of the difference is due to the way you ate compared with the way your children eat.

At the factory where your husband works there is a lunchroom where he, too, gets a good, hot meal at a small cost. The old-time cold lunch that every man used to take with him to work has just about disappeared.

With so much talk about nutrition, there has been a great deal of improvement in the markets in your town. Vegetables and fruits that you could hardly ever get except for a while in the summer are now sold the year round. There is more meat and fish and eggs, and they are of better quality. Good canned foods are plentiful. There are new products, like dried milk, and some of the stores carry frozen foods. With all this variety, people's eating habits have been changing quite a lot.

(To be concluded next week)

RATION BOOKS STOLEN

VERNON—On Saturday Sept. 14, '46 new ration books and a portable typewriter were stolen from the office of Capt. H. P. Coombes, ration book officer, while that official was absent for ten minutes. Entry was gained from a rear door which was unlocked, although the front door had been locked. By midnight, 28 of the books and the typewriter had been recovered and Ronald Graham arrested on a charge of retaining stolen property.

MRS. FOSBERY'S CAMPAIGN

Summerland, Sept. 16, 1946.
Editor, The Review:

Everyone must surely agree with Mrs. Fosbery that some effort should be made by Canadian citizens — ordinary or extraordinary — to help prevent another world war; believed by many persons to be imminent. Is Mrs. Fosbery's suggestion practical?

Not having explored any avenues of tax evasion, I am not averse to being shown the way along the seductive trail, but what shall I meet in the end? Stern measures might be taken by an irate government to force any return to the straight and narrow path.

Can we really help to prevent war by non-payment of taxes? Has a government on the warpath no other sources of revenue? Like Rosa Dartle—I ask for information.

Personally I should like to see a determined effort on the part of Canadian citizens to force the government to take the manufacture of all armaments and war materials out of private hands so as to eliminate the making of huge profits out of the "blood, sweat and tears" of the nation. If this were done internationally war would probably die a natural death.

Also, I would advocate that conscription of all wealth should precede conscription of manpower and that the successful enforcement of the latter should depend entirely on the thorough enforcement of the former.

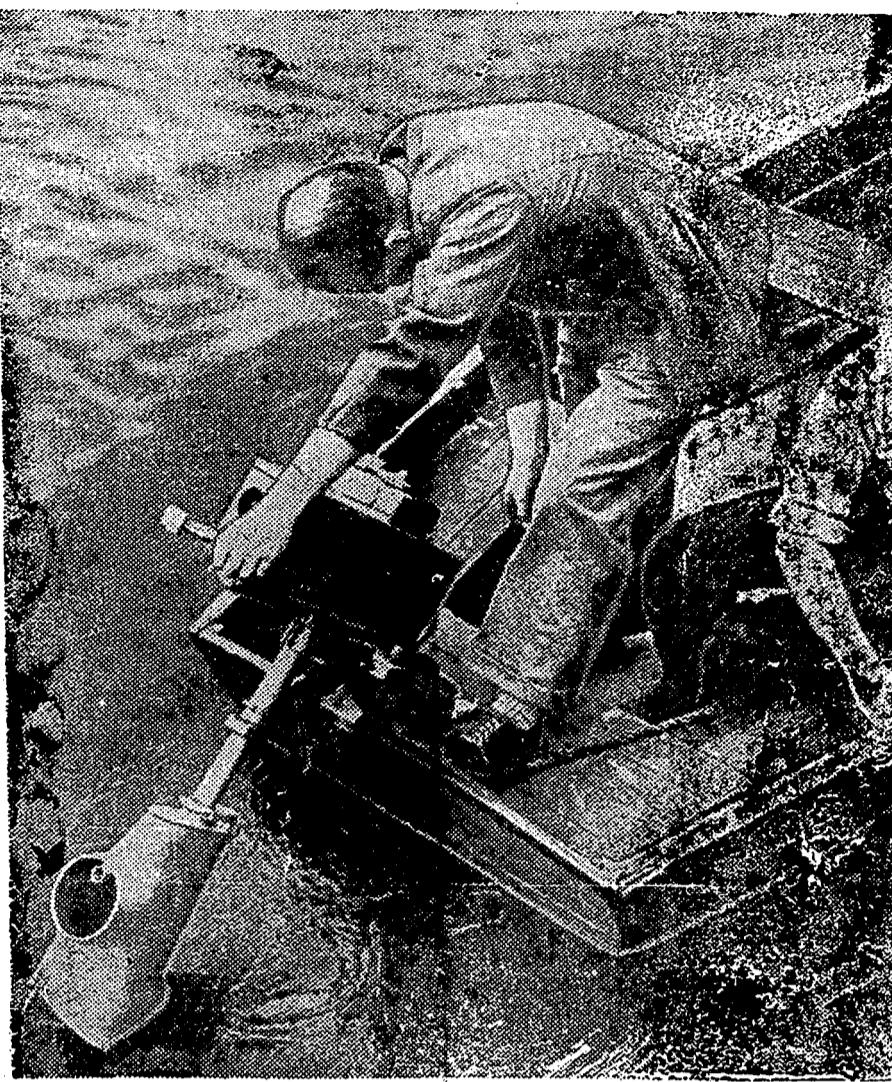

If Canada is to be the arena of the next international show-down, would our assailants give us time to handicap our government by withholding taxes? Would they hold their horses while we held our plebiscite?

I imagine that the appearance of belligerent planes in our skies or battleships off our coasts would send most of us berserk and the rest of us, not only lifting our eyes to the hills but our legs also — witness the undignified exodus from the coast after Pearl Harbor.

If Mrs. Fosbery is sure her plan will work, I'm all for it and—not too far behind it.

LILIAN V. PLUNKETT.

R. M. PARKINSON, former Rolls-Royce engineer, is shown fixing a new type of motor to a small rowboat previous to a test run on the River Thames at Kew, London. It is a "water-jet" outboard motor. Intensive work is being carried out in Britain to apply gas turbines to ship propulsion.

Ceiling Apple Prices Raised When Box Shook Is Boosted

Ceiling price on apples has been raised five cents per box coincident with the raise of 16 per cent in the price allowed the manufacturers for box shook, it was announced last week.

This box shook rise means that growers will now pay 27.55 cents per box, compared with the former level of 23.6 cents. A short time ago the box manufacturers in the interior petitioned Ottawa for an increase in box levels, due to the increase in labor costs following the I.W.A. strike settlement.

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board would not allow this increase until the manufacturers presented properly audited figures to back up their demands.

An auditor was appointed and has since reported on his findings, with the result that the prices board at Ottawa has allowed the claim.

Although the rise in ceiling prices on apples by five cents may offset the shook boost, A. K. Loyd, head of Tree Fruits, points out that effective prices are those which may be obtained on open markets.

It may not be possible to obtain the full ceiling price on all varieties, Tree Fruits officials indicate, but the fact that an increase may be allowed gives an opportunity for the grower to offset some of the rising costs of production.

Present varieties are selling below ceiling levels, but when the main fall and winter varieties come on the market it is possible that ceiling prices may be maintained.

There has been a re-shuffling of prices on all apples throughout Canada, with the B.C. product being raised and eastern apples being reduced a like amount, so that the two ceiling levels have now been brought closer together.

This year, storage allowances have become effective as from Sept. 23, instead of Nov. 1, as was the case last year.

One of the big drawbacks to greater production in the shook deal is the scarcity of nails. In some districts the situation has become acute and has caused a real headache for the B.C.F.G.A. box shook committee, Secretary L. R. Stephens, Kelowna, reports.

The fruit industry has a high priority on the steel rods from which nails are manufactured but with the lengthy steel strike these rods have become almost non-existent.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Walden are spending two weeks' holiday at the coast.

Mac Coloring Still Behind Usual Run

On Sept. 17, the Horticultural News Letter, issued by the department of agriculture at Vernon, states that McIntosh harvesting has just begun in the Summerland - Peachland - Westbank area, delay being due to unusually slow coloring. One or two growers have been spraying with Parathione to avoid untimely dropping.

Jonathan and other red varieties are developing well and showing good color the report states, while most of Wealthy crop is harvested.

Italian prunes are practically harvested, while sundry pear varieties of Bosc, Claireau and Anjou are being packed. Elbertas are cleaned.

Canneries are operating at full capacity, cleaning up the peach deal before prunes and pears. They report that peach quality has been good this year although there was a high water content in the peaches this season, presumably due to the more plentiful moisture from rain in June and early July.

Insect damage has been light this year and growers seem well satisfied with the spray program adopted, the report states. Chief damage to the apple crop was due to hail as blemishes and bruises are now showing up and reducing grades.

Penticton area also reports that codling moth is not nearly as severe as last year and damage from mites is lighter than usual.

In the Oliver-Osoyoos area, all stone fruits have been picked and Jonathan and Delicious picking will commence soon. The overall picture on codling moth is good although some orchards show considerable damage; a similar story is told of Pacific and European Red mites.

In the northern part of the valley, labor shortage for McIntosh picking poses a considerable problem.

FERRY REVENUE WELL UP

KELowna — Gross revenue from M.S. Pendozzi, the Kelowna-Westbank ferry, has shattered all previous records during the first eight months of 1946, with a total of $40,747.90, which is $14,000 more than for the same period in 1946. Each month this year has shown an increase in ferry revenue, both over the preceding month and over the corresponding month in 1945 and 1944.

Completing of the Powers Creek-Peachland-Drought's Hill road in the South Okanagan district will be accomplished by November 30. It is anticipated that this means this roadway will be hard surfaced before the winter season sets in. All the major construction work has now been completed.

More than thirty major highway projects are under construction exclusive of all minor improvements and maintenance of roads bridges and ferries and protection works it has been announced jointly by Premier John Hart and Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works.

Some magnitude of these undertakings may be gathered through statistical information which has been prepared in connection with the various contracts.

Clearings for these projects total 4,238 acres; solid rock excavations total 1,314,162 cubic yards; other materials to be excavated to total 9,835,556 yards; concrete to be poured totals 27,941 cubic yards; timber to be used totals 2,147,102 feet board measure; steel to be used totals 1,803 tons; gravel surfacing totals 1,152,530 cubic yards; and culverts to be built total more than 18 miles.

Of the projects now in hand, the following will be all completed

Hope of this district that some attention will be paid in the near future to the Trout Creek bridge, has been diminished this week with the announcement by Premier Hart and Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works, that it will not be possible to complete the renewal of many bridges that are now inadequate for traffic.

Shortage of materials has been blamed for this condition, as wire nails and spikes are all but unobtainable, with the result that it is difficult to carry on with some of the work.

Associated Boards of Trade of the Southern Interior reiterated the demand for rebuilding of the Trout Creek bridge when the third quarterly session was held in Summerland, on Wednesday, Sept. 18.

by November 30 of this year, Mr. E. C. Carson states:

Shawnigan-Mill Bay road in the Esquimalt district; Powers Creek-Peachland-Drought's Hill road in the South Okanagan district; Vernon-Lumby gravel surfacing in the North Okanagan district; Huntingdon-Abbotsford "C" street in the Chilliwack district; Comox Road reconstruction in the Comox district; Central Arterial highway in the Dewdney district; Spences Bridge-Cache Creek in the Lillooet district; Chase revolution in the Salmon Arm district; Haslam Creek bridge in the Cowichan-Newcastle district; Kootenay Lake ferry in the Nelson-Creston district; Castlegar ferry, in the Rossland district, and the Harrap-Long Branch ferry in the Nelson-Creston district.

Hope-Princeton

The Hope-Princeton highway is the second largest project of the public works undertakings and involves the construction and reconstruction of eighty-one miles. The work is very heavy, especially the section through the Cascade range.

Section "A" extends from Hope to Skagit river at Mile 28. The contractors on this section have made a determined effort to complete as much work as possible this year. By November 30, there is every chance that they will have completed forty per cent of the work. Since they have opened up the work in so many places, it hand.

The big steel and concrete bridge at East Pine is manned by a competent crew with every hope that the substructure will be completed by November 30. The superstructure steel will be erected early next spring. This is a major project in itself, involving quite difficult underwater work.

With respect to more minor projects, the public works department states that the Princeton-Hedley work, 22 miles is showing good progress, with 60,000 yards excavated to date. It is expected grading on the Hedley-Keremeos road 20 miles will be finished this year.

The Kelowna-Westbank second ferry of modern steel construction, with the same design and capacity as the present boat, is now in course of construction at the shipyards in Victoria. No announcement as to the date of delivery has been made.

PROFESSIONAL AID TO TEACHERS

In September, 1944, the Provincial Department of Education presented to teachers in the rural schools of British Columbia a magazine designed to give them professional advice and assistance, and to keep them in touch with new developments in the field of education. This publication, THE RURAL SCHOOL, was received with enthusiasm and from all parts of the Province came requests that it be sent also to teachers in the schools of cities and district municipalities. This is now being done, and the magazine has become the Official Publication of the Provincial Department of Education. It is now called BRITISH COLUMBIA SCHOOLS, and there are two quarterly editions during the school-year, one for elementary school teachers and one for secondary school teachers.

This publication is designed specifically to help the teachers of this Province. It provides a direct link between the schools and the Department of Education in Victoria. In its pages are outlined the latest professional development in the field of education and in teaching techniques. It provides teachers with information concerning new professional books and supplementary text-books, educational magazines, and the best sources from which they may obtain teaching aids and materials. The magazine also contains news of important developments and changes in education in British Columbia and in Canada as a whole. As it is the official publication of the Department of Education, notices to schools and information concerning curricular changes and new text-books appear in its pages.

BRITISH COLUMBIA SCHOOLS is sent free of charge to every teacher in the Province. Subscriptions will be received from other interested persons or groups such as School Boards and Parent-Teacher Associations. Rates are $1.50 a year for each edition.

Enquiries should be addressed to the Editor,

SETS PEAR RECORD

Reeve W. R. Powell has drawn to The Review's attention that in the first week of September he and his son, Walter, harvested and shipped to the packing house 10,250 boxes of pears. This is believed to be a record for ship-

Fastball Valley Title Goes To East Kelowna In Third Game Here

By a decisive 15-5 count, Summerland's fastball girls bowed out of the Okanagan Valley championship race at the Summerland park last Sunday when East Kelowna triumphed in the third game of the pest of three series.

Four innings of tight ball went by last Sunday before the visiting girls hit their stride and when the dust lifted, they were ahead, 7-0. The decision was never in doubt from then on but the local lasses fought hard, just the same, and didn't say die until the final out was made.

Better hitting power told the tale for East Kelowna, while the visitors also had an edge on general infield play. Thompson, visiting catcher, was the general behind all the plays, and her sparkling play meant a lot for the victors.

Orsi walked more batters than her opponent, Doreen Howard, but her deliveries just couldn't be hit as far or as often by the Summerland girls.

At shortstop, H. Harvey proved a tower of strength for East Kelowna, handling seven put-outs without an error, while M. Perry, at second, took care of another seven plays without a mistake.

Two three-base hits spelled most of the ruin for Summerland, as they came when the bases were crowded in the fifth and sixth frames. Those extra base clouts made a lot of difference to the ball game.

First score came in the fourth when Muriel Barr, who otherwise played a bang-up game, booted a hard-driven ball. A. Harvey singled to bring in the run.

Orsi had started out in wobbly fashion, walking three in the first two frames, but the hitting strength wasn't there to bring the runners around.

In the fifth, Summerland fell apart, as the complete batting list went around. A. Harvey's triple just about sealing the doom. Six runs came across to make the count 7-0.

Another three came in the sixth when Rehlinger drove one deep into centre field when the bags were loaded, bringing the total to 10-0.

In the eighth, D. Perry came around on Day's error and Glaser's passed ball. With two out, East Kelowna's base umpire made a particularly bad call at first base for what would have been the end of that half, with the result that three more runs came across.

Summerland at last came to life in the last of the eighth when, with one away, Barr drove out a smart single to score Lewis. Ward singled and Howard's high fly to centre allowed Barr to come home free. Day singled and both Ward and Day came home on Klix's double to end the scoring and leave the count at 14-4.

Both tame put runs across in the ninth, but the ball game was over. Klix gathered in four nice catches to share defensive honors with Muriel Barr. Lewis had five chances which she accepted with item should have stated 8 o'clock out a fumble, while Helkert, be on the second Tuesday of each sides playing her usual good game month.

BASEBALL CLUB HAD SUCCESSFUL YEAR

After a highly successful playing season, of a greater length than in average years, the Summerland Baseball Club has also experienced a fairly successful financial year, A. K. Elliott, club manager told The Review on Wednesday.

When the season started, the club was faced with about $70 in bad debts of several years' standing. Not only were these paid off but the club will start the 1947 season with a balance of about $40.

New uniforms were also obtained this year, due to the cooperation of Summerland merchants, and these will be available for another year at least.

Mr. Elliott is desirous that all persons having baseball uniforms should turn them in to his store at once so that they can be cleaned and put away for the winter.

Fast Time Ends This Saturday

On Saturday, Sept. 28, fast time ends in all sections of British Columbia which adopted it this summer. At midnight, clocks go back an hour and this province reverts to Pacific Standard time. The main line area from Salmon Arm to Kamloops went off fast time a month ago but the Okanagan remained until now, along with Vancouver, Victoria and other sections.

POSTPONE MEETING

As the next council meeting date would have fallen on Thanksgiving Day, Monday, October 14, the council has decided to meet next on Tuesday October 15.

WON'T FELL TREES

As W. Arnett will not accept any responsibility for damage done to his fruit trees, and does not wish to use the wood which would be available the Summerland council has decided to inform him that it cannot proceed with the work of felling three trees near the bank house, as requested by Mr. Arnett. The council feels that some danger might accrue to the adjoining fruit trees if these three shade trees were felled now.

Girls' basketball has been started with Mr. H. Evans coaching. A good team is promised. If a football can be obtained, Summerland High hopes to enter a team in the soccer tournament which takes place in October.

An order for a moving picture projector has been placed but it has not arrived. In the meantime a projector belonging to the Penticton high school has been borrowed.

Many clubs and other activities have started again, and many new ones have been formed. Good luck to the S.H.S.

NIGHT SCHOOL CLASSES

There is widespread interest in Night School Classes which, it is proposed, will be sponsored by School District No. 15. In order that interest may be more definitely gauged, a variety of subjects in which instruction could profitably be given, is listed below.

Residents who would like to receive instruction in these subjects, in classes to be held in the Summerland schools, are requested to complete and mail the attached questionnaire to Summerland High School, West Summerland, B.C.

The courses listed here are only suggestive and are by no means exclusive. If there is a sufficient demand for any other course, a class may be arranged, provided that a suitable instructor can be obtained.

It will be appreciated if all questionnaires are returned at an early date. Please mark envelope "Night School Classes."

U.B.C. AGRICULTURE

FACULTY OPENS

STOP WATER DISPOSAL

Disposal of water from the Milne cannery through an abandoned municipal pipe to a vacant lot will be taking gully some distance away, will agriculture at the University of have to be discontinued, the Summerland council decided on Monday. A large percentage of this enrollment will be veteran students who stated that the smell emanating from the ground where the water is allowed to gush forth had brought complaints. The Milne cannery management has explained that this water was from the cooling system and did not contain refuse of any description. Use of the pipe has now been stopped and this water is being directed to the Milne orchard property. The Review was told.

To handle this record enrollment and to carry out the faculty's plan of general expansion in the curriculum, five new highly qualified men have been appointed as associate professors.

As associate professor in the department of dairying, Dr. J. J. R. Campbell, B.Sc. (U.B.C.), Ph.D. (Cornell), will assist Dr. Blythe Eagles in regular classes in this field and will also take part in the teaching of the new course in Food Technology.

In the department of animal husbandry, Dr. C. E. Phillips, V.S., D.V.S. (Ontario Veterinary college), will devote most of his time to instruction in this type of work. His main interest, however, will be in fur-bearing animals in which he will conduct a three-unit course. He will also be available for extension work and consultation in this new field.

Dr. Alex. J. Wood, B.A.Sc., N.S. (U.B.C.), Ph.D. (Cornell), has been appointed associate professor in the department of animal husbandry, to give instruction in animal nutrition, a phase of work which is being expanded by the university. During the war, Dr. Wood was with the Fisheries Research Board.

New faculty member in the department of agronomy is Dr. A. C. Rowles, B.Sc. (Sask.), Ph.D. (Minnesota), formerly of the Agricultural college at Guelph. He will conduct special work in soil survey and research.

Recently appointed as associate professor and acting head of the new department of farm mechanics and agricultural engineering, is Professor J. R. W. Young, formerly of the University of Saskatchewan where he obtained his B.Sc. and M.Sc. degrees. During the war he was on service with the navy and saw action in Sicily, North Africa, Italy and Normandy. He will organize the work of this important department.

Mr. Freeman Reid, of Vancouver, is spending two days in Summerland visiting his mother, Mrs. M. Reid en route to Edmonton.
