

Dave McNair Warns Co-ops They "Played With Fire" In 1948 Soft Fruit Deal

"You have been playing with fire here, as the compressor capacity of your cold storage will not take out the field heat fast enough in any large quantity of soft fruits," warned Dave McNair, sales manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., in a short address to grower-members of the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Assn. in the IOOF hall last Friday afternoon.

The popular sales manager emphasized that he was not endorsing or opposing the co-op management plans for a new cold storage and packing plant, but he pointed out a great many factors which point towards a need for increased facilities for handling the future crops.

He also warned that there will not always be the ready sale of soft fruits enjoyed this season, once the austerity program in connection with U.S. dollars is lifted and the B.C. soft fruit has to compete with Washington's earlier imports.

As to the United Kingdom market, Dave McNair declared that "we cannot expect the U.K. market to re-open to Canadian apples until 1952, at least, we are reliably informed."

"The type of product we are offered has so much to do with the sales end of the industry," Mr. McNair emphasized at the outset of his talk. "We are pressing to have your products handled in a manner that they will realize the most on the market."

He considered Summerland fortunate in having a diversification of crop, as against the Kelowna area which has a great preponderance of McIntosh, which depends on the packing houses at one time.

Referring back to the spring months, he reminded his listeners that a ten-million box crop was predicted and as a result five new cold storages were started in Kelowna. Four of these are now in operation but production only amounted to two-thirds of the first estimates.

"But even with four new cold storage plants we are still wondering how we can cope with the situation," declared the sales agency official.

Going back over the past soft fruit season, Mr. McNair told of a new pack of faced 15-pound lugs used for cherries and shipped to the eastern Canada markets. This effort created problems in the packing houses, he declared, but it was a question of providing this more popular-sized lug or endeavoring to ship all the cherries in 40-pound lugs onto the prairie markets with a resultant downward revision in price returns.

Pretty Nearly Scorched
Dealing with pears, Mr. McNair believed that every point in the Okanagan is lacking in facilities to handle the production of pears possible in the next five years.

The sales manager reminded the growers of the claims they had to pay in 1946 on pears and declared: "You were pretty close to scorching this year," he added. "If you can't remove the field heat from 30,000 boxes of pears, then you are not properly equipped."

"You escaped a loss on pears this year, but pears at $3 a box are a pretty valuable asset to you."

Post Office Alterations To Start Soon

There will be no new post office building in West Summerland but the present building will be modernized and improved greatly, Mr. Gordon Ritchie informed the board of trade on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Ritchie stated that he would have been interested in a new post office if another site on Granville street had been offered. However, he is going ahead with plans for renovation of the present building.

Kenyon & Co., Penticton contractors, have been placed in charge of the building renovations which are expected to commence this month. If the work can be rushed through before the Christmas mail starts to pile in then an attempt to do so will be made, otherwise only a portion of the changes will be made this year with the balance of the work being undertaken early next year.

It is unlikely that the outside building changes will take place before January, Mr. Ritchie stated. Mr. Ritchie also told the board that the changes in the outside appearance of the post office building will provide a more modern looking structure.

Postal authorities and the public works department are said to have given their authorization to the changes and arrangements are being made to increase the lobby space, as well as the operating space for the post office employees.

The entire original building will be taken into the post office proper, Mr. Ritchie states. Part of the building has been utilized as living quarters by Mr. Ross McLachlan, postmaster.

He will continue to live in the rear portion of the property until his new home is completed.

Mild Case of Scarlet Fever

Miss Joan Appleton, local health nurse for the Okanagan Valley Health Unit reported on Tuesday that a mild case of scarlet fever has occurred in this district during the past week.

All the usual health precautions have been taken and there is no cause for alarm, Miss Appleton states.

In another column may be found details of the small pox vaccination clinic which will be held next Tuesday, Nov. 9. Any mother who wish to consult the nurse about their children but do not wish to have their children vaccinated are asked to see Nurse Appleton after 4:30 o'clock, on that day.

Important Freight Rate Hearing In Kelowna Next Monday, Nov. 8

Next Monday, November 8, at Kelowna, representatives of industry and business throughout the Okanagan will gather to make representations to the board of transport commissioners for cancellation of the mountain differential on freight rates.

Led by the Kelowna Board of Trade, lengthy briefs are being presented to indicate that the Okanagan Valley is being penalized in its shipments and in its receipt of goods by this differential in freight rate charges.

Definition of mountain differential is that freight, carried through the Rocky Mountains from Canmore, Alta., to Hope, B.C., is charged 1 1/2 times that which is charged on the prairies.

Start Work on Tearing Down Rotten Wharf

Dominion government workmen have been busy for the past week dismantling the old wharf in lower town.

This work was undertaken by the public works department of the Dominion government following representations made by the Summerland Board of Trade that the wharf presents a menace to the public generally as it is in a rotten condition.

Mr. Ted Dunsdon is in charge of tearing off the decking from the wharf and it is expected a pile-driver will be brought to Summerland to remove the unsightly piles. There is practically no lumber left of any useable value, Mr. Dunsdon is reported to have declared.

At a board of trade executive session held on Tuesday evening, it was decided to write the Dominion engineer at New Westminster, suggesting that when the equipment is in the Summerland district, an attempt should be made to remove the remains of the piles of a former wharf which was located off the site of the present fish hatchery.

Assn., has been instrumental in compiling an immense amount of material for presentation to the transport board on Monday.

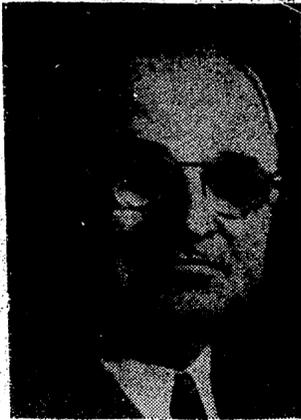

Boards of Trade throughout the Okanagan have been asked to assist in compiling information and President F. W. Schumann of Summerland board took an active part in this regard.

On Tuesday, the local trade board arranged for two or three members to be present at the sitting in Kelowna to be ready to assist the Kelowna board in any presentations made, if necessary.

Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer, who is leading B.C.'s fight for elimination of the differential, will come to the Okanagan on Sunday to confer with valley officials in the local presentations.

He is assisted by C. W. Brazier, well-known Vancouver lawyer.

Hospital Directors Raise Ward Rates One Dollar per Day Starting First of November

Faced with rising costs and a bank account which has practically dropped out of sight, despite the $7,000 on the books, Summerland Hospital Society has decided to raise its ward rates by one dollar each, effective November 1.

This decision was reached last weekend, after various directors were contacted by person or telephone and the situation explained. The decision will be ratified at the next meeting of the society, on Tuesday, Nov. 16.

Public ward rates in the hospital will now be $5 per day instead of the previous figure of $4. Kelowna recently raised its public ward rates to $6 per day.

The private wards in the general hospital will be $6 and that figure will also apply to the semi-private rooms in the maternity wing. The private ward rate in the maternity wing is up to $7 per day.

Each of these new prices means an increase of $1 per day, hospital directors point out.

It had been thought that the hospital could carry on at the old rates until the new year, but collections have been so poor that it could be seen that some drastic action would have to be taken.

Without making some effort to break even, the new provincial hospital insurance plan would "take a dim view" of the hospital presenting a deficit at the beginning of the new scheme, it has been pointed out.

Every effort is being made to collect back accounts and keep the hospital functioning under the present system, directors state.

The local insurance plan continues to function until December 31, when it goes out of existence in favor of the province-wide scheme.

In connection with the government scheme, Dr. J. M. Hershey, commissioner, gave a short address to the Western Canada Institute for hospital administrators and trustees on the subject of Women's Aids to B.C. hospitals.

These organizations have for many years played an indispensable part in the hospital family and their contributions have set an excellent pattern for community service, he said.

"It is true that a government-sponsored plan for hospital insurance has been launched here in British Columbia but the hospital is still, just as it always has been, a community responsibility. The need for your help and participation still exists, in fact they have greater value than ever."

"The fact that the Government is now taking a more active and progressive part in welfare problems does not alter the fact that it is dependent for success on the public's co-operation. It still needs and values the continued contributions of such an organization as yours."

"I hope that when you return to your parent bodies you will carry the message that the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service is depending on your continued support and co-operation. We, on our part, will give you every assistance in this branch of welfare work in which you have taken so much interest."

First Concert Of Brass Band Well Attended

First concert of the newly organized Summerland Brass Band was held at the Rialto theatre last Sunday afternoon before a fair-sized crowd. An excellent program of musical numbers was offered by the band and assisting vocalists while the band coffers were enriched by a silver collection amounting to about $38.

Reeve Reid-A. Johnston acted as master of ceremonies and informed the audience of the numbers to be played.

The Rialto theatre was loaned to the band for this performance, with no charge, by Manager M. A. Metropollt.

Mrs. Lionel Fudge and Mr. John Menu enhanced the band numbers by two vocal solos each which received hearty applause.

Following O Canada, a march, the Jolly Tars was played as the first of three marches on the program. Other marches were Under the Double Eagles, and The Referee. A waltz was chosen, entitled Apros-Vous and a serenade, Stilly-Night. Overtures were Magneta and Saskatchewan, while two hymns chosen were Son of My Soul and Abide with Me.

Remembrance Day Service at High School Grounds

Memorial service on Remembrance Day will take the usual form, with the ministerial association taking the service at the Cenotaph at 10:45 o'clock on the morning of November 11.

The Cenotaph will not be moved prior to that time, nor will the new plaques containing names of those who fell in the 1939-45 war be ready.

In the evening, the Legion W.A. has planned a large banquet for Legion and W.A. members at the Ellison hall, a custom which was popular for some years but was discarded lately.

Legion members, and all war veterans will parade at the high school on Thursday morning, Nov. 11, Alan Calvert requests.

New Packing House and Cold Storage Renovation Cost Co-op $200,000

Proposals to expend nearly $200,000 to renovate the present cold storage and packing house plan and to build an entirely new packing plant on a fill in Okanagan lake east of the present Co-op buildings, were placed before nearly a hundred members of the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Assn. by their president, E. M. Tait and their manager, George Washington, on Friday afternoon at a general meeting in the IOOF hall.

As this was not a properly constituted meeting no agreement could be reached, but it had been called for information purposes only. No voice was raised in disagreement with the scheme.

This scheme, which has been evolved by the co-op management, calls for the present building to be turned into cold storage entirely, with the new building to house the packing operations and also provide additional cold storage space.

It was pointed out on Friday that the co-op has 75,000 boxes of fruit in common storage, a condition which will be detrimental to the condition and sale of the apples if they have to remain in storage over a long period before going on the market.

Dave McNair, Tree Fruits sales manager, addressed the meeting on market trends of the past year with some predictions concerning the future.

President Eric Tait, in introducing the co-op directors' plans for improving facilities, told his growers that every possible avenue has been exploited but the only feasible method which can be evolved is to make a fill in Okanagan lake for the new packing plant.

Two separate operations have been planned, the renovation of the present plant into a cold storage building and the erection of a new packing house on a fill in the lake.

Cold Storage Renovation
When diagrams of the proposed building program were produced, it was shown that the south part of the building would be entirely devoted to cold storage, with the machinery installed in the centre in the bottom two floors, with cold storages pace overhead and in the two top floors of the north section. The two bottom floors of the north section would be devoted to common storage.

The proposed packing house would have a large receiving room on the south end, connected with belt from the cold storage plant, while the remainder of the building would be divided into five bays, with the grain in three of these bays, and the other two bays apricots and cherries would be packed in season and the space could be used for storage later in the season. New office space and cafeteria would be housed at the north end of the packing plant.

Cost $197,000
Costs quoted by co-op officials amount to $197,000 but it is considered that this is an outside figure and costs will probably not run as high.

Breakdown of these costs is as follows: New packing house, $100,000; fill in lake, $10,000; cold storage building renovation, $10,000; re-wiring, $10,000; conveyors, $5,000; pallets, $10,000; new wipers, $2,000; cold storage and new machinery $40,000; other repairs and alterations, $10,000.

Against the cold storage costs, it is estimated that a government subsidy of about $15,000 will be possible.

Financing would be arranged through the bank, growers were told, with the term being over twenty years. A five-cent per box depreciation charge would finance the annual payments, it was considered.

Pallet System
Considerable discussion ensued regarding the proposal to institute a pallet system of loading boxes from the trucks into the warehouse. Mr. McNair, Tree Fruits sales manager, warned that a 100 percent palletization was not considered feasible, but should probably be confined to the unloading off trucks and not included in plans for operation in the cold storage itself.

This new method of unloading boxes has been introduced now in Kelowna and is working fairly satisfactorily, although many "kinks" have had to be ironed out. The pallet machines take 48 boxes at a time.

George Washington, co-op manager, in a lengthy talk to the growers first outlined many of the troubles the co-op management experienced in handling this year's crop.

This Year's Troubles
Cherries and 'cots were badly split but a number of split cherries were shipped after packing and "we got away with it," he declared. The peaches stretched over a longer season than usual, due to cool weather, and maturity was not good, special trouble being experienced with Rochester's.

However, if there hadn't been cool weather when the bulk of the peaches arrived, the cold storage facilities would

Library at Lower Town Will Open Next Wednesday

Next Wednesday evening, Nov. 10, at 7:30 o'clock the new union library quarters at the Lakeside United church, to be operated for the benefit of lower town residents, will be opened by Mrs. M. Foulkes, chief librarian for the Okanagan Union Library.

Books are being brought to this new library office by Mrs. Foulkes and the library will make its start next week.

It is expected that the branch will remain open one afternoon and one evening each week, but the definite times have not been established.

The church is supplying facilities free of charge and the bookshelves have been installed by Mr. H. Lemke at no cost.

An earlier story on the organization meeting held last week for the operation of two new library units at lower town and Trout Creek is contained on another page of this issue.

Hallowe'en was Comparatively Quiet With Only Minor Damage Reported

Hallowe'en in Summerland was comparatively quiet, although some small reports of rowdiness were received over the weekend.

B.C. Police Constable T. Thorsteinson states that only one report of any damage was received at his office, a car having been overturned outside the Nesbitt Motors garage.

Most of the pranksters confined their activities to Saturday night and the sound of firecrackers exploding could be heard from all parts of the district. The main business section of West Summerland sounded as if it was under siege for part of the evening.

Youngsters with their Hallowe'en masks and costumes, paraded through the area collecting funds for school sports and equipment purposes in the annual Handout campaign.

Collected $265
Principal S. A. MacDonald reports a ready response from householders and a total of $265 was collected for school purposes.

Hallowe'en parties on Friday and Saturday nights were held in many private homes, while two dances were staged on Friday evening.

one by the high school and the other a combined Hallowe'en frolic, staged jointly by the LOBA and the Old-Time Dance Club.

Towards midnight on Hallowe'en, a party of rowdy boys, believed to be well up in their teens, tore down some fences on the Station road and did some other minor damage.

On the whole, however, there was no extensive damage and property owners heaved a sigh of relief once the weekend was over and decided that the younger generation is probably a little better behaved than those of other years.

Reports from other interior centres state that a similar type of Hallowe'en was enjoyed there, with little damage being done.

Seven divisions of the Summerland elementary school participated in the Handout campaign, with Patsy Menu of Division seven taking the top award for the competition. The winners by divisions were Div. 1, June Hong; Div. 2, Harvey Carey; Div. 3, Edward Martin; Div. 4, Russell Hurst; Div. 5, Ann Beggs; Div. 6, Marilyn Wade; Div. 7, Patsy Menu.

Poppy Day is Saturday

When Poppies flame again in Autumn's splendour,
Each scarlet blossom whispers to the heart.

Ending the veil from pain-filled yesterdays,
Enriched with shining Valour; set apart,
Made glorious by heroic self-surrender,
Even to Death by strange and bitter ways.
Magnificent — the Nation's gallant sons;
Beneath the Flag flung golden Youth away,
Envisioning a peaceful, happier Day;
Remember them! the Poppy's saga runs.

These were beloved, high-hearted, valiant, young;
Honoured they rest the quiet fields among,
Hushed forever with their proudest peers,
More radiant, immortal through the years.

WE QUOTE this verse by Winnifred O. Brass in this month's issue of The Legionary, as a reminder of Remembrance Day, and also to serve as an appeal to all readers to be generous on Poppy Day, November 6.

Throughout the land, the little red poppy will go on sale this weekend and lapel buttonholes will be adorned with these small reminders of those veterans who gave up their lives so that we should live.

The red poppy of Flanders Field is also commemorative of other battle-fronts in the more recent conflict and serves as a reminder of those who paid the supreme sacrifice in both world wars.

But there is another and possibly more "down to earth" reason why the poppies should meet with a ready response on Saturday.

These flowers are manufactured in Canada by veterans who have been incapacitated in the wars and who are not able to undertake a normal existence nor seek ordinary employment.

These veterans are employed in the Vetcraft shops and their sole livelihood is derived from the sale of the little red poppies. When you drop your coin into the poppy fund box you can realize that you are assisting materially a cripple or disabled veteran to enjoy a certain amount of freedom from financial worry.

So, when you wear that red poppy this weekend, you will remember the dead, but you will also be benefitting the living.

"Free Opportunity" System

ONE OF the larger companies operating in British Columbia has been conducting a campaign for some time on the merits of our present democratic system. We refer to the advertisements which appear every other week in this
of B.C. Ltd.

This company has decided to let "real people talk". These people are bringing a message concerning the "Free Opportunity" system under which we operate. Their messages, so far, pack a punch and have a real meaning.

We commend this company for its enterprise in bringing these messages before the readers of the weekly press in B.C. and we suggest to our readers that they scrutinize these messages and digest the thoughts expressed.

Industry Expansion

GROWERS who ship through the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Assn. were told some plain facts last Friday when they gathered to hear their executive's plans for expansion of cold storage and packing facilities.

It is an ambitious program which has been outlined by the co-op officials, and many growers probably gasped somewhat when sums totalling $200,000 were placed before them. But when they weighed the facts concerning tonnage here with the amount of cold storage space available, they had reason to pause and consider for a moment.

Dave McNair showed conclusively that Summerland is lagging behind the rest of the Okanagan in cold storage space and his statement that the additional space in the co-op scheme would present no danger of being "top heavy" in relation to production was agreed upon by those who have studied conditions thoroughly.

Production in this area and throughout the Okanagan is on the increase. There is no gain-saying that fact, and if weather conditions had been right for the production of fair-sized fruit this year the industry here would not have been able to cope with the situation.

The co-op growers alone must decide what program they are to follow in relation to their building expansion plans, but it would appear to us that by planning now to take care of any emergency in the future is good business.

There are some who view the prospective increases in packing house capacities with alarm and maintain that the growers will need this money in years to come. But if proper facilities are not provided and there is a heavy loss in damage claims from improperly cared-for fruit, then the annual building levy could be consumed many times over, to the detriment of the growers' pocketbook, where it really hurts.

It is regrettable that there is little likelihood of the United Kingdom market being thrown open for at least four years. The struggle to market our apple crop will be increasingly difficult. The period of marketing will have to be spread over a longer period. That means that the fruit must be kept in cold storage for a longer period.

Adequate cold storage facilities, properly managed, seems to be the only answer to the marketing of fruit in the best condition possible to obtain the most of the markets will bring.

The co-op is looking ahead quite a few years in its building expansion program, but we believe it is wise planning. We must have increased facilities to handle a bigger tonnage.

The Inside Story

By AGROLOGIST

It is over two years now since I began writing these notes under the pen name "agrolgist".
During that period several people have asked me the exact meaning of the word. I have replied glibly "scientific agriculturist" or "one trained in the sciences relating to agricultural research and education." Actually, I do not know of any concise definition which gives the full meaning of the word "agrolgist". On the other hand, I have met quite a number of people who fulfill the specifications.

For example, I know a young lady who operates a bulb farm. When I called on this lady a few days ago she was already hard at work planting bulbs although it was not yet 8 o'clock in the morning. She was much too busy to stop work to talk to me. Accordingly, I offered to give her a hand.
As we worked we chatted, and our conversation went somewhat as follows:

Agrolgist: I note that you have a grand pile of peat bales over there. Just what do you use this material for?

Young Lady: We mix the peat with the soil in preparing the bulb beds for planting.

Agrolgist: I see a heap of manure. Evidently you keep cows.

Young Lady: No, we do not raise dairy cattle; on the other hand, we do buy all the manure we can persuade dairymen to sell us. We use this as a mulch over the beds after the bulbs are planted.

Agrolgist: And what is that heap over there?

Young Lady: That is sawdust which we use as a mulch around our shrubs and along the pathways.

Agrolgist: Do you use any commercial fertilizer?

Young Lady: Yes, we use a great deal, especially nitrogen. We find that additional nitrogen helps to rot down the mulching material. We also apply nitrogen to our compost heaps.

Agrolgist: I notice that this soil is mellow and easy to work. Was it always this way?

Young Lady: Oh no, when we cleared this land and undertook to develop a bulb farm fifty years ago we had two types of soil to deal with—very heavy clay and coarse gravel. Both these soils have responded favorably to application of large quantities of organic matter, with the result that they are now more fertile and productive than they were when we began.

Agrolgist: Did you say that you cleared this land fifty years ago?

Young Lady: Yes, it is now fifty years since we came here.

Agrolgist: I hate to be impertinent but would you mind telling me how old you are?

Young Lady: I don't mind a bit—in fact I am quite proud of my age. I will be seventy-seven next birthday. What is of more importance, my inner clock informs me that it is now high time I went over to the house and prepared tea for my labor crew. I find that people are much like plants; in order to get the best out of them you must keep them well supplied with food.

In this day and age when one hears so much about soil erosion and soil depletion, it is most heartening to find a farm on which the soils have better tilth and higher fertility today than they did fifty years ago. Surely a young lady of seventy-seven summers who makes such good use of the findings of science in operating her farm has earned the right to be called an "agrolgist".

Eventide Homes For Senior Citizens

(By Edna L. Page, Assistant Inspector of Institutions, Social Welfare Branch, British Columbia Department of Health and Welfare)

Ed's Note: There has been much speculation locally about establishing an elder citizens home in the Okanagan or, better still, a number of homes in various sections of the Okanagan. The board of trade went on record last spring concerning the need for some such establishments and endeavored to interest the Associated Boards of Trade of the Southern Interior, without much apparent success.

From a perusal of this article, it would indicate that the best chance of success is for Summerland municipality to establish its own home, by taking over a large home, renovating it, and providing accommodation for the elderly citizens who are in need of care.

It would appear from Edna L. Page's article that the provincial government could be persuaded to take an interest in the setting up of such an establishment, and possibly it could be operated at no loss with old-age pensions and contributions providing the necessary day-to-day expenses.

We suggest that it would be a worthwhile scheme for the municipal council, with assistance from the trade board, to investigate.

About 11 years ago the government of British Columbia, recognizing that old people needed care and protection, passed the welfare institutions licensing act. This act provides for the licensing of all homes wherein two or more old people in receipt of some form of social assistance, including old age pensions, are given care.
Homes so licensed must meet the required standards and are open for inspection at all times.

These homes accept for care only persons who are up and about.

homes for senior citizens throug-out British Columbia. In making plans for the care of old people the fact that they wish to remain near relatives and friends and among familiar surroundings must be taken into consideration. Realizing this, many municipalities in the province, as well as religious and other groups, have recently opened homes for their old people.

The municipality of Langley about three years ago opened "Langholm". Surrounded by four acres of lovely farm land, the home is a modern two-storey white stucco building with wide glass-ed-in porches across the front.
There are several comfortable sitting rooms and private rooms for each of the 28 guests.

Kensington House, the Surrey municipal home, is a large rambling farm house and few if any changes were necessary to make it comfortable for old people. There is a large bright living room with cheaterfields and many arm chairs and here on dull days a fire burns cheerfully in the fireplace. The bedrooms, which are for two or three beds, are spacious and airy.
The home accommodates 14 guests.
As this is a 17-acre farm, three or four cows are kept which supply the home with milk and cream.
There are also a flock of chickens and a large vegetable garden.

In the Okanagan Valley at Kelowna is the David Lloyd-Jones Home. This is a large old house located at a quiet spot on the main street amid shady trees within walking distance of the post office and city centre. A comfortable sitting room is provided for 14 guests. Meals are served in a large dining room and a real family atmosphere prevails.

suit the needs of elderly persons and is under capable management. In Prince Rupert is the "Pioneers Home", a new and modern building for 20 persons. It was opened late in 1947.

The Danish people were the first national group to provide a home for their old people. "Dania", a fine home ideally located in the rural community of Burnaby, was opened in 1944. A large and comfortably furnished living room accommodates the guests and their visitors. In the cool dining room looking toward the mountains and the lake, excellent meals are served. There are bedrooms for one, two or three persons. Each is comfortably and attractively furnished. A fine garden surrounds the house where on warm days afternoon coffee is served amid the shady trees and flowers. Several times during the year the Danish people gather at the home for picnics and suppers and to celebrate their country's Independence Day. Two small modern cottages have been built on the grounds for married couples who have reached the age of retirement. More cottages will be built in the future. This home has accommodation for 24 guests. There are no rigid rules or regulations with regard to admission, but preference is given to persons who are Danish by birth or by marriage.

A fine old residence was recently bought by the Icelandic people as a home for their senior citizens. Opened only a few months, there is already the full quota of 25 guests and a waiting list. This home is ideally situated near the streetcar, a park and a shopping district. There are 18 large rooms, 10 of which are bedrooms with accommodation for two or three persons. Each bedroom has a fireplace and there is a bathroom between each two bedrooms. Persons of all nationalities are admitted but preference, of course, is given to Icelandic people.

The Swedish people are at present building a home for their older group. Located in North Vancouver, the building is a two-story structure and is to have a ramp instead of stairs to eliminate climbing, a large reception room and a workshop. Cottages are also to be built for couples able to do their own housekeeping. It has been planned to accommodate about 50 people. The Norwegian group also have plans for a home for their aged.

The Jewish home for older persons of that faith was opened in Vancouver two years ago. Funds for the home were raised by the Jewish Men's Cultural club and this organization is still providing the money to operate the home. This home was formally opened on July 7, 1946, during Vancouver's Golden Jubilee celebration by the well known comedian, Eddie Cantor.

Buchanan Memorial Lodge at New Westminster, a home for 52 elderly women, was opened by the Salvation Army in 1946. The home was a gift of the late Mr. R. S. Buchanan, for many years a resident of New Westminster, in memory of his wife. Built on a hill surrounded by lawns and gardens this modern white stucco home with its green shutters looks down on the Fraser river. Much thought and understanding was put into the planning and furnishing of this home. There are comfortable sitting rooms and glassed-in porches. There are many private and semi-private bedrooms as well as rooms with three beds. There is a long waiting list for admission.

Up the Fraser Valley at Yarrow is the Mennonite Home. This home is for older persons of Mennonite faith but persons of other religions and nationalities are welcome. It is a modern building, well equipped and staffed to accommodate 20 people. Recently the Anglican church in Vancouver bought property to open a home for aged women. The United church is also giving thought and study to the problems of housing for the older group. Many of these homes have very active women's auxiliaries who look after the recreational and occupational needs of the old people. Concerts, movies, trips, transportation and materials for handicrafts are provided by the auxiliaries.

In recent years the provincial government has encouraged the establishment of homes for older people. Where the ownership is municipal or official it has generously contributed toward the cost of construction of the home. Success of these homes is due to the fact that there are few, if any, rules and regulations.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

On October 29, S.H.S. held a barn dance at the IOOF hall, celebrating Hallowe'en. The dance was a great success and many festive students turned out for the affair.

Ghosts and Goblins howled their welcome as the many students flocked to the hall, dressed as "Farmers" and "Farmer-ettes".

Refreshments were served and prizes were awarded during the evening's activities. A good time was had by all and it is hoped that for future school dances there will be as good a turn-out as we had this time.

Last Saturday Summerland travelled to Kelowna to play Rutland for the Valley soccer championship. The team played well, but was outclassed by a superior Rutland team and beaten 2-0.

This year's team was one of the best Summerland high has ever produced, partially owing to the excellent coaching of Bill Sherwood and the boys' P.T. instructor, Mr. Durick.

Mrs. J. C. Wilcox Elected President Of United Church W.A. Presbytery

Summerland United church women were hostesses on Thursday, October 28, when the Kamloops-Okanagan Presbytery Women's Association held its annual meeting at Lakeside United church. Nearly 60 women from all parts of the valley gathered on that day to further the women's work of the church.

St. Andrew's Service Club was responsible for the luncheon served to the visiting and home delegates at noon hour, and that club's very good choir highlighted the following devotional period with two choral presentations to the accompaniment of Mr. Percy Thornber at the organ.

An interesting 15-minute panel discussion on "The W.A. and the 'Teen-Age girl'" was conducted by Mrs. T. F. MacWilliams of Kelowna, with Miss Gertrude Patmore, who is well qualified to enlarge upon the subject by her background of work among young peoples' groups.

Miss Patmore, who is leadership instructor for the Christian Education branch of the church, was the main speaker of the day, and interestingly outlined the work being done at Naramata by the Youth Training school.

Mrs. J. C. Wilcox of Summerland was elected president on the new slate of officers for the coming year, with vice-presidents Mrs. Jack Long of Peachland, and Mrs. Phelps of Oliver. Mrs. James Marshall, Summerland, was appointed recording secretary, and another Summerland member, Miss Rosalie Smith was elected corresponding secretary. Mrs. Harris of Keremeos is the incoming treasurer.

Missionary to China Tells of its Many Problems

The annual Thankoffering meeting of the St. Andrew's Women's Federation was held on Thursday, October 21.

The business of the Federation was disposed of first and a letter of thanks from Mrs. Allan McKenzie was read, for a gift of money from the Federation to the CGIT group.

Some beautiful articles of knitted clothing were on display, these to be sent to China for the Missionaries to distribute to needy cases, as there is no Red Cross society in China.

The meeting was then given over to Rev. Geoffrey Smith, guest speaker, who is a missionary in West China.

He gave a very clear, instructive talk on life in China, and the work the Church of Christ is doing in that vast country.

He told of the unity of the Christian churches, resulting in one Chinese church; the value of the study book, "West of the Ganges"; the differences of climate; the huge population, with so few churches and Christians the transportation difficulties; coolie labor, instead of machinery, most things made by hand; superstition, ignorance, no teachers, spread of vice, gambling, immorality, how difficult it is to establish Christian homes.

The church seeks to establish hospitals, baby clinics, medical colleges, nurses' training schools, Bible classes and evangelistic work to help the people.

Inflation handicaps the work, and there is a great need of prayer.

Mrs. S. A. MacDonald thanked the speaker for his most interesting address, and the meeting closed.

All boys are requested to turn out to the meeting on Friday, Nov. 5, in the school gym. We want to discuss a return visit from Naramata Troop and also to arrange for sale of poppies for the Legion on this coming Saturday.

Each year the Scouts sell poppies, which is a Troop "good turn" as well as saying Thank you to our sponsors, the Summerland branch of the Canadian Legion. The proceeds from the sale of the poppies go to the Legion Relief Fund to help needy veterans and their families.

In the past, the people of Summerland have always responded generously to this appeal, so buy a poppy from a Scout on Saturday.

Mr. W. W. Borton has offered to conduct a series of classes for Scouts wishing to earn their plumber's badge. This is a most useful badge for any boy to earn, and Mr. Borton is a top-notch instructor. We will arrange for classes on Friday evening.—D. V. Fisher.

not have been sufficient to take out the field heat. This situation was more emphasized in handling pears, as 30,000 had to be handled in six days. Pears generate heat, Mr. Washington explained, and this fruit had to be brought down from 68 degrees to 31 degrees in a few days. If the weather had been hot it would have been impossible, with the compressor capacity of the present cold storage plant, to bring the fruit down from 85 degrees in ten days, let alone five. "You have to take the field heat out of matured fruit and you must have the compressor capacity to do this," Mr. Washington explained. There were no claims on the pears this year but there were complaints of uneven maturity. In the next three to five years the pear tonnage here will be increased considerably and will present a big selling problem, with a consequent longer period of storage life required.

another 5,000 boxes were still in the orchards. "When we finish getting in our apples we should have room to operate economically," he insisted, pointing out the cramped conditions existing now. "We are into one bottleneck after another." "We are in the gambling business more than the packing business," Mr. Washington emphasized at another point, declaring that it will be three weeks to a month before all the 75,000 boxes of apples in common storage are moved into cold storage. "This could mean a loss of a lot of money in a hurry," he warned, urging the growers to look ahead to the future and build for the next twenty years. After dealing with the proposed new building and renovations, Mr. Washington went into a lengthy explanation of the pallet system of loading boxes, and also dealt with other "kinks" in the hauling system and gave recommendations for an improvement next year. Mr. Washington declared that the co-op growers have two choices: 1. Operate as at present and pack on a very economical basis, with the danger of losing out on quality of production; or 2. Operate on a slightly higher packing charge and have the assurance that "we can give you service and you won't lose any of your fruit." "We propose to build this packing house so that we can guarantee the best possible packing service and you will have your fruit in cold storage," he continued. "Considering details of the proposed building plan, the growers were told that the projected fill would be the least expensive course in the long run and the best solution if the right material is used. Mr. Washington declared that the co-op has been trying to get the CPR to put in storage space for its cars so that the area in the vicinity of the co-op would not be so congested. The CPR had wished to put in a fourth track but this would extend the packing house farther into the lake with an increase in cost, Mr. Washington declared. "The CPR should put in proper facilities for car storage without using our facilities for storage," Mr. Washington told the meeting. Near the end of the discussion, President Eric Tait declared that the building program would mean five cents per box on the packing charge.

Large Group on Trip to Princeton

Summerland residents descended upon Princeton en masse yesterday, when a large group of Oddfellows and Rebekahs journeyed to the Similkameen town to attend the district association meeting. Among those attending were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ritchie, Mrs. F. Schumann, Mr. and Mrs. John Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bleasdale, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kean, Mr. Reg Kersey, Mrs. E. T. Washington, Mrs. Don Orr, Mrs. B. Raincock, Mrs. C. DeKnight and Mrs. W. G. Gillard.

Dr. Maurice Welsh and Mr. David Waddell returned on Monday from Creston, having finished their season's work in the Kootenays in the interest of pathological and entomological investigations.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Peters have leased the Hunt home on Prairie Valley road, and will take up residence there this week.

More Than Hundred Attend Eastern Star Annual Tea-Sale

Worthy Matron Mrs. Annie Dunsdon received more than 100 guests on behalf of Summerland chapter No. 63, Order of Eastern Star, on Saturday afternoon, October 30, when the chapter held a tea and sale of home cooking at Oddfellows' hall.

The hall was effectively decorated with the colors of the order, with the large centre table, lace-covered and set off with silver-sconced candles, surrounded by prettily-appointed small tea tables. Mrs. Mae Ward, Mrs. Marjorie Famchon, Mrs. Helen Munn and Pouting during the afternoon were Mrs. Ruth Wilson.

Reeve Johnston was called upon to draw the winning ticket for the raffle of a dressed doll, which was won by Mrs. Isobel Tavender. Mrs. Hannah Borton had charge of the raffle.

Convenor for the highly successful tea was Mrs. Amy Beggs. Home cooking convenors were Mrs. Nellie Stent and Mrs. Velma Feltham, while Mrs. Jewell Marshall and Mrs. Margaret Wilson, were in charge of the candy booths. Mrs. F. Stark and Mrs. E. Long were cashiers for the afternoon.

Vaccination Clinic Set for Tuesday

Dr. Helen Zeman, medical director of the Okanagan health unit, will hold a special vaccination clinic on Tuesday, Nov. 9, from 2:30 to 4 o'clock, at "the elementary school, for pre-school children. This vaccination provides protection against smallpox, is a simple procedure and leaves hardly any scar.

The protection which this vaccination provides lasts for five to seven years, it is stated.

Through the co-operation of parents in having their children vaccinated, smallpox has practically been wiped out in Canada but if this precaution is neglected a single case, gaining entrance from another country, might cause a dangerous epidemic, local health officials claim.

Barbara Munn is Hostess at Party

Miss Barbara Munn entertained a large group of the younger set on Saturday, October 30, at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. E. Munn, Celebrating Halloween with games and dancing at the enjoyable party were: Misses Marion Richards, Julia Hack, Mary Ward, Shirley Wilson, Beverly Fleming, Betty Holmes, and Messrs. Peter Holmes, Jack Dunham, "Joe" Elliott, Wally Day, Bob Richards, Denny Hack, Jim Hack and David Cruickshank. Coming from Pentiction to join the fun were Messrs Wally Elman and Bill Hotson.

STRESSES TRAINING IN LEADERSHIP

Busy Miss G. Patmore, who came to Summerland last week to attend the Kamloops-Okanagan Presbytery Women's Association meeting held at Lakeside United church on Thursday, October 28, remained over on Friday to address three other meetings in the community, including the Rotary Club which is reported elsewhere in this issue.

The leadership instructor for the Christian Education Branch of the United church met with the Sunday school teachers of St. Andrew's on Friday afternoon, when she gave them many pointers on getting and maintaining the interest of the young folks during their weekly hour of religious instruction.

On Friday evening Miss Patmore addressed the teachers of Lakeside church, when she showed slides illustrating modern equipment and methods for Sunday schools.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Wakelin have sold their home on the Station road and left last Sunday to reside in Vancouver. The place has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Johnson, formerly of Monte Lake, who are taking up residence here in the near future.

Guiders Guests Of Company for Hallow'en Party

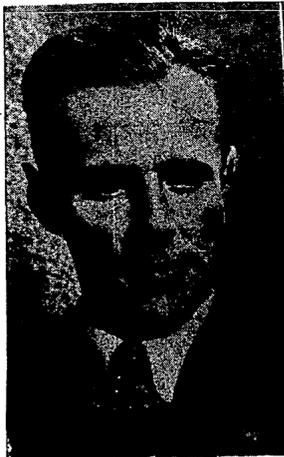

Girl Guide captain Mrs. Betty McIntosh, and her staff of Guiders were appreciative guests at a Hallow'en party given by Patrol leaders and Girl Guides in the parish hall on Friday, October 29.

The entertainment took the form of a supper party, with the hostesses gleefully putting their leaders through a series of rough and tumble games and contests afterwards. Truth and consequences occasioned many a laugh at the expense of the "consequencers", as when Miss Gweneth Atkinson was impelled to roll an apple across the hall by the tip of her pert nose.

First prize for costuming went to Miss Elizabeth Theed who, with blackened teeth portrayed a most life-like "tramp". Awarding of second prize presented a problem, as it was won by Misses Phyllis Adams and Eileen Birbles linked into one costume to represent a two-headed clown.

Patrol leaders who organized the highly successful party were Misses Shirley Wilson, Eileen Birbles, Ceone Ayre, Mildred Derosier, Mary Lou Rempel and Ellen Brandstrup, and guests were, besides Captain McIntosh, Guiders Elizabeth Theed, Phyllis Hill, Dorian and Irene Blagborne, Joan Huva, Joan Marshall and Gweneth Atkinson.

Harry "Pop" Dunsdon Finds Many Changes On Visit to U.K.

Mr. Harry "Pop" Dunsdon returned last week from a visit of several months in England. He had not been back to his native land since 1902, when he returned to Garnet Valley in Summerland where he had pre-empted property in 1890.

Mr. Dunsdon says that he has seen many startling developments in this valley in the past fifty years, but they are no more rapid than he found in familiar places in England, where former fields are now built up solidly with houses and "chimney-pots" everywhere. Summerland's old pioneer was not impressed with the English apples on sale at high prices in England. Average size is one to one and a half inches in diameter and a two and a half inch apple is something special, he reports.

England's austerity program provides a dismal fare for everyday meals and Mr. Dunsdon believes that many families would not have obtained sufficient food if parcels had not been sent from Canada. They are really welcome in the Old Country, he reports.

Mr. Dunsdon travelled to and from England on the R.M.S. Aquitania and reports a very pleasant passage.

Former Pastor Here Passes Away At Rossland

ROSSLAND—Death came swiftly, without warning, to one of Rossland's senior citizens Monday morning, Oct. 25. The Rev. Charles Howard Daly, an outstanding Canadian churchman, passed away at his home.

At the age of 79, after 55 years as a worker for Christ, Mr. Daly was active and interested in life and the church until the very day of his death. He had attended services at St. Andrew's on Sunday, giving his cheery greeting to many who were his parishioners for a number of years. Shortly after breakfast the next day he collapsed in his home. Death was practically instantaneous.

Born in Napanee, Ontario, in 1869, Mr. Daly graduated from Queen's university, where he majored in arts and theology. He was ordained into the Presbyterian church in 1893, and continued his ministry after union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches into the United Church of Canada in 1925. He served many parishes in Ontario before coming west in 1912. In British Columbia he served West Summerland, Prince George, Ladner and Haney before coming to Rossland.

The late Rev. Daly came to Summerland in 1912 and remained here for three years before going to Prince George.

For nine years prior to his superannuation he was incumbent of St. Andrew's United church here. During this period he was honored by election to the presidency of the British Columbia conference of the United Church. Following his superannuation he served three years in Lillooet before retiring to Rossland to make his home.

Although physically small and frail in appearance, Mr. Daly was possessed of an energy and vitality which amazed even his family and friends during the past few years. The same zeal which had marked his ministry in the early years seemed to continue unabated long after his retirement. During the war years he thought nothing of supplying pulpits in the district, even travelling as far as Grand Forks on many occasions.

Respected By All
Mr. Daly was of the clergyman class which has been described as "the salt of religion". Zealous always for the good name of the church, he was unsparing both of himself and his church board in furthering the work of the Kingdom as he saw it. His ministry was never a "comfortable" one, and he was one with St. Paul in sacrificing tact, diplomacy and all the "niceties" if they obscured the truth. He could be blunt and uncompromising when integrity was at stake, yet an innate and characteristic kindness and love of his fellow man commanded the respect of all, friends and opponents alike.

He will be sadly missed in his Right-of-Way For Light Line Is Approved

Councillor F. E. Atkinson reported progress to the council on Tuesday, Oct. 26, on a matter which has been before the electrical light committee for the past year and a half.

Early last year, the council entered into negotiations with Mr. W. A. "Bud" Steuart regarding a right-of-way through the Steuart orchard for an electric light line.

Such a power line would eliminate a number of unsightly poles on Granville street and would improve the power service to garages and plants along both Granville and Hastings, besides the B.C. Fruit Shippers Ltd. plant. The line would extend from the church, where he could be found at every service following the scripture reading from his own Bible, his lips murmuring the words that he had known by heart for so many years.

He leaves his three sons, Charlie, Edward and Dr. Stuart, and 11 grandchildren. Mrs. Daly passed away in 1945.

St. Andrew's was crowded to capacity for the funeral service, which was conducted by Rev. T. B. McMillan and Rev. Peter Henderson, D.D. Mr. Henderson spoke to the large congregation as a friend of long standing of the Daly family, having been present at Rev. Mr. Daly's first induction in western Canada.

eastern portion of the Steuart orchard along the park to a spot immediately behind the Nesbitt Motors garage.

Mr. Steuart has expressed his willingness for this line to be constructed but the Royal Trust Co., which is handling the Steuart estate, has not made any official pronouncement, although it is understood that company agrees with the plan. The council is contacting the Royal Trust in Vancouver over this matter to try and speed up the project.

The electric crew, with the addition of other employees, is carrying out the work of laying line along the sidewalks on Granville and Hastings and conduit across the streets in preparation for the new light standards. This work commenced on Monday.

Big Crowd at Hallowe'en Frolic

More than 200 persons attended the big Hallowe'en dance at Ellison hall last Friday evening which was sponsored jointly by the L.C.E.A. lodge and the Old-Time Dance club. It was a highly successful evening and the big crowd enjoyed itself to the utmost.

The prize drawing saw Mrs. P. Swatsky, with ticket No. 495 win the first prize of $20 and Mrs. G. G. Peters, with ticket No. 332 take the second prize of $10.

Careless handling or maintenance of heating equipment caused $7,390,000 damage by fire in Canada during 1947.

Resident Here Twelve Years Laid to Rest

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. H. R. Whitmore from St. Andrew's United church on Tuesday, November 2, for Mrs. Agnes Wilson McLachlan, who passed away in Summerland hospital on Saturday, October 30, after a short illness.

Mrs. McLachlan, who was born Agnes Wilson in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1875, had resided in Canada for 43 years, and had spent the last 12 years of her life in Summerland. Prior to that time she had lived in Redcliffe, Alberta, where she was active in church and community work. An ardent Rebekah, she many times held the post of Noble Grand in her home lodge, and in 1918 was awarded the coveted "Jewel" in recognition of her services.

Surviving her are one son, Ross McLachlan of Tilley, Alberta, and two daughters, Mrs. P. Rand, Wellington, V.I., and Mrs. C. E. Raincock of Penticton. There are three grandchildren including Don Rand of Summerland, and several sisters and brothers in Scotland.

Pallbearers were Mr. L. Rumball, Mr. W. A. Steuart, Mr. Kenneth Steuart, Mr. G. A. Laidlaw, Mr. Edward Smith and Mr. W. S. Ritchie. Interment was in Peach Orchard cemetery, with Summerland Funeral Chapel in charge.

Grease traps installed in the kitchen will hold the grease contained in dishwasher and will prevent clogging of drains.

Why Mrs. A. S. Dennis, Vancouver homemaker, believes in our democratic free enterprise system.

"THERE'S ONLY ONE ANSWER TO HIGH PRICES! COMPETITION AMONG BUSINESSES" SAYS MRS A S DENNIS

"In bringing up five children, I've had a lot of experience in getting the best buys on everything from cribs to cornflakes.

"I've found that competition has always given me the prices I wanted to meet my weekly budget . . . one store trying to do better than the other on price or service to get my business.

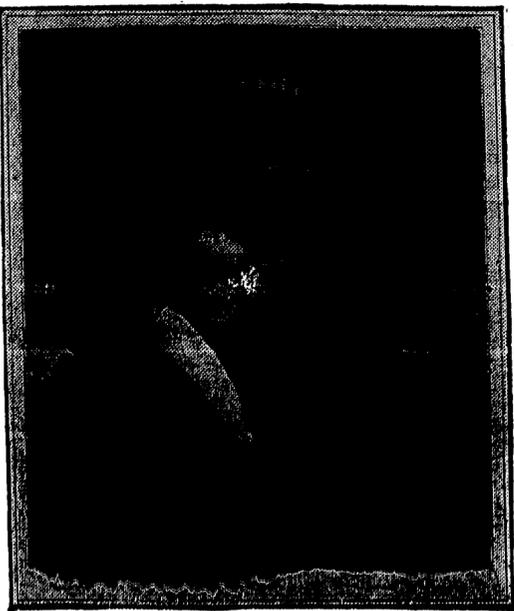

"That's why these Socialist and Communist theories don't make sense to me. If the government took control over pretty nearly everything, I'd only have one place to buy . . . no real choice of merchandise, and I know what that would mean. Higher prices and poorer service. Take it or leave it.

"No, prices will come down when businesses start to compete with each other again for our trade. That's why I believe in our democratic free enterprise system. It encourages the sort of free competition among industry that will bring prices down. It has offered me, and it will continue to offer me better value across the counter than any system of government control."

Extend Union Library Branches To Trout Creek and Lower Town

Summerland is the first municipality in the Okanagan Union Library area to have three branches, and was warmly commended by chief librarian Mrs. Marion Ffoulkes on its community initiative in asking for and promoting this extension of its library facilities.

At a meeting held in the union library here on Tuesday afternoon, October 26, with Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh on behalf of the school board, Magistrate H. Sharman for the municipality, and Rev. H. R. Whitmore, Mrs. H. R. McLarty, Mrs. F. E. Plunkett and Mrs. J. Y. Towgood as interested parties, arrangements were finalized for the opening of a branch library in Trout Creek and another in Lower Town.

Mr. Bert Parrot has donated space in the warehouse attached to his store and service station at Trout Creek, and in Lower Town the United church has donated the use of Lakeside church parlor.

Mrs. H. R. McLarty will be volunteer branch librarian in the Trout Creek branch, and Mrs. F. E. Plunkett has taken on the responsibility for the Lakeside branch. Volunteer helpers from both districts will assist these ladies in their task of caring for, listing, dispersing and collecting the 100 or more books which will be made available to each district.

Reference books and children's books will be kept for the present at West Summerland, for reader availability to school children.

Each branch will be open for one afternoon and evening weekly, with the Trout Creek branch scheduled to start operating on November 10. The Lakeside branch will open at approximately the same time, although there is more work to be done there in preparing locked cupboards and equipment.

Mrs. Ffoulkes pointed out that members are not confined to their local branch, but may procure books from any one of them. The cards are interchangeable, and anyone may take out a card, a point she has found obscure in many places. The general impression seems to be that a card holder must be a property owner, but such is not the case.

Another point Mrs. Ffoulkes wished made clear to union library members was that any book required by a subscriber and not on library shelves may be obtained upon request.

"The Open Shelf", an excellent circulating library for rural benefit in Victoria, is open to union members, also.

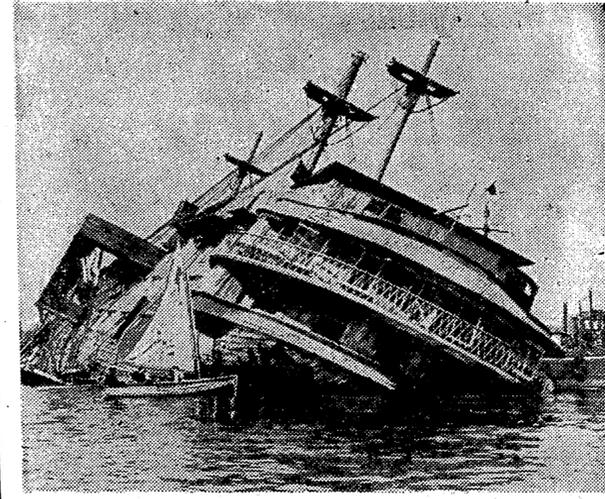

Mrs. Ffoulkes felt that Summerland's branching-out was a big step forward in union library work in this area. She remembered that before gasoline rationing curtailed car mileage, Mrs. J. Y. Towgood had carried books back and forth from West Summerland to Trout Creek, in order to bring library facilities to that area. Now, in the manner of Mohammed and the mountain, the library has come to Trout Creek instead of Trout Creek having to come to the library.

By the end of November, 650 feet of three-inch cast iron pipe ordered more than a year ago will be forthcoming for the Sergeant subdivision, the council was informed last week by Gordon & Belyea, suppliers. In the meantime, however, most of the original applicants for property in this subdivision have abandoned their plans and the council is seeking information regarding this project.

In this respect, Councillor C. E. Bentley suggested that the council should have some power in regulating subdivisions, so that no plans can be passed until it is certain that services can be provided the property.

The century-old wooden training ship "WORCESTER" leans wearily into the Thames River after it turned over and sank just off Breakers Yard. The 74-gun ship, which was laid down in 1839, was first used as a Coast Guard vessel. Later, in the service of the Thames Nautical Training College, the wooden ship served as training ground for more than 5,000 cadets in the Royal and Merchant Navies.

Main Line Vegetable Growers Are Urged by 'Jock' Stirling to Organize

KAMLOOPS—Organize to get a bigger share of the money the vegetable sells for in the store, was the gist of the advice given members of the Kamloops Growers' Association in the Elks' auditorium to hear J. R. J. Stirling of Kelowna, president of the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association.

He stressed the need for organized marketing, in order to secure the best monetary returns for the growers, and outlined what had been done in this way among the fruit growers of British Columbia. He suggested that the vegetable growers organize on a similar basis.

The fruit and vegetable businesses, Mr. Stirling pointed out, are fundamentally different. In the fruit business one was in it for life, while in the vegetable business this is not the case.

There is also the difference that the fruit growers are empowered by law to designate a sales agency, whereas under the vegetable marketing act the vegetable control board itself is the agency. He outlined the structure of the BCFGA which is divided into five districts with 25 locals, and has a total of 3700 members.

There is only one way to organize such an association, Mr. Stirling emphasized, and that is for a big majority of the growers to demand it. There is no use, he said, in going before the authorities, or passing resolutions for presentation to the government, unless the spokesmen could prove that they represented "all the growers". This he said, had been required when the other fruitmen had asked federal cabinet ministers at Ottawa for a national marketing act.

"Collective bargaining" and "co-operation" are very necessary to solve the primary producers' problem. He advised "rugged individualists" to stick their own ideas and co-operate with their fellows to secure better conditions for the marketing of their products. Appoint three sane vegetable men, he suggested, and let them go as ambassadors to the conventions. But do not be too critical of their efforts.

Mr. Stirling's address brought many questions from the audience about the best methods of obtaining stable prices for potatoes and other vegetables. His answer was always that only by organization of the majority of growers with a unanimous spirit in support of one another could they hope to achieve their objective.

Sucha Singh, president of the association of vegetable growers, was chairman of the meeting. Charles McGillivray, secretary of the association, also was present.

Players Try Out for Parts In Production

Spontaneous laughter rang out over and over again in a class room at the high school on Tuesday evening, Oct. 26, as the preliminary reading toward casting of "I Remember Mama" progressed. John van Druten's play adaption has lost none of the gently nostalgic humor of Kathryn Forbes' best seller of several years ago, and the readers found themselves carried away with pleasure in their lines. This play is the players' section of the Singers' and Players' club project for this season.

Only two copies of the play were available for this first reading but, nothing daunted, Director Lacey Fisher took the auditioning members through several scenes. The atmosphere was necessarily informal, with the players giving a good imitation of a football game "huddle" in their close-grouping around the two books. Mr. Fisher had perforce to draw upon his excellent memory in order to sketch in background and tempo of each scene as it was read.

Mrs. Lorne Perry read "Katrin" throughout the evening, while three "Mamas" were called upon to read various parts of the scenes, being Mrs. J. Y. Towgood, Mrs. Robin Russel and Mrs. I. Mason. Mrs. A. K. Macleod read "Aunt Trina", Mrs. N. O. Solly was the evening's "Aunt Jenny" and the third aunt, "Siegfried" was read by Mrs. Russel and Mrs. Mason in turn.

Mr. Allan McKenzie took a shot at both "Mr. Hyde", the refined non-paying boarder, and at "Uncle Chris", the terrifically good-hearted head of the family. Mr. Blair Underwood was "Papa" throughout.

Fortunately for the director, the high school publication was in the making, with a number of students working in the school. So when he wanted four teenage parts, he quite literally "fished" them out of the group of young people. Ruth Nesbitt and Pat Broderick took turns at reading "Kristin", John Birch read "Nels", and Elaine Miller was the evoker of much of the laughter as she read "Dagmar's" delightful lines.

There will be several more evenings of reading before Mr. Fisher allocates the parts, and the club hopes more players will turn out to try for parts in this mirth-provoking play.

Culvert Bridge in Park Installed

Work of installing the new culvert bridge over the creek in front of Ellison hall in Peach Orchard park has now been completed, with the exception of hand rails on both sides of the culvert and on the parking side of the creek.

Quite a portion of the "hump" in front of Ellison hall has been removed and the ground levelled, showing a decided improvement to the grounds, the council was informed by Councillor Eric Tait on Tuesday, Oct. 26.

Crushed rock has been laid on the new parking area created.

A.O.T.S. Club Entertains Red Sox Baseball Team, Junior Champions

Highlights of the October meeting of the Summerland AOTS on Thursday evening was the presence of Summerland's famous Red Sox baseball team, also of evidence of their playing ability in motion picture.

Nine of the ball boys had supper as guests of the AOTS, which originally sponsored them, and were introduced to the 45 members present by their coach, and AOTS sports leader, Les Gould.

After the supper, served by St. Andrew's W.A., films of the Red Sox in action were shown by Frank Kuroda and Arthur Matsu, who had recorded them for posterity. Other subjects were included in the films, which were much enjoyed by the audience, and colored shots of apple harvesting were especially admired.

The business part of the meeting included a report by Wendell Schwab that he has about twenty-five boys and as many girls turning out to Monday night basketball practices, and needs some help, which the club tried to arrange for him.

Bowling was the only other sport mentioned, as this is somewhat in between seasons, but almost all interested members of the club were already enrolled in some of the bowling leagues.

Ernie Bennett reported that the first Saturday in November had been set as a clean-up day for Peach Orchard cemetery, and in the ensuing discussion the need of a municipal parks board was again brought up.

In one of the humorous reports characteristic of the AOTS club, Herb Pohmann reported that the Lakeside church had received an offer from Mr. Smith to look after its grounds and flowers, and prospects for church grounds' beautification there were good.

President Gordon Beggs announced that D. R. Poole, general secretary of AOTS clubs in British Columbia, will be present at the November meeting. There was some discussion about its regular date conflicting with the 'Night in Vienna' concert being brought in by the Rotary, and it was finally decided to try to have the November meeting at 6:15 instead of 6:30 to enable members to attend the concert if they wish.

School Youngsters Assist Crippled Children's Fund

More than $23,610 in all types of medical aid provided by B.C. school children in the past 13 months speeded the recovery of 93 crippled children throughout the province.

The funds were donated to the B.C. Junior Red Cross crippled and handicapped children's fund up to the end of September by 88,724 members.

Largest expenditures were hospital charges totalling $20,050 and doctors bills amounting to $2,524. Transportation costs took $498 with the balance being used for special nurses, accommodation and varied appliances.

Total of these expenditures exceeded by $5,280, the amount donated by children during the 1947-48 school year. Balance of the money was taken from the previous year's surplus of $8,020.

Types of cases treated included 33 orthopaedic, 20 eye ailment, seven spastic, four needing dental surgery, three plastic surgery, five surgical and six needing varied medical aid including radium treatment. Total number of days spent by the children in hospitals was 3,323.

Junior Red Cross enrolment increased during the 1947-48 school term by 10,137 from the previous year's figure of 8,587. Number of branches increased by 90 with enrolment fees up $165. Balance on hand in the crippled and handicapped children's fund is $2,961.

Beavers are Left High and Dry

No. 4 dam was being held up to such a height by beaver dams that a dangerous situation had arisen so the dam was opened for three days last month, Water Foreman E. Kercher's report on headwaters conditions told the council last week.

The net result of this action is that the beaver dams are now high and dry.

It was suggested that the council should arrange with Chapman and sons at Mazama to trap these beaver and remove them from the vicinity of the dams. There is no use in blowing their huts, Mr. Kercher declared, as they will only build more.

Road Improvement Is Being Sought

The municipal roads committee is being asked to investigate the possible improvement of roads in the Paradise Flat-Peach Valley area so that the school bus route can be relocated to pick up a number of children nearer their homes.

Mrs. Harvey Mitchell, on behalf of residents in that district, addressed the council on Tuesday, Oct. 26, and declared that the school board had turned down their plea for route alteration on the ground that the road to be traversed is too steep and dangerous.

Rotarians Told Of Indians' Need For Extra Care

Miss Gertrude Patmore, of the Christian education department of the United Church, held the special interest of the Rotary Club of Summerland at the Nu-Way Annex on Friday evening as she took members on a trip up the west coast on a visit to outposts and Indian settlements, with side visits to other points of interest.

The visitor, who gives instruction in leadership training, and guides Sunday school teachers, camp leaders and directors, stressed the great need for more teachers, more medical men, more nurses and other facilities for the far-flung outposts along the sparsely-populated west coast.

She also dealt for a moment with juvenile delinquency, and spoke of a recent visit to the women's jail located at Prince George where the majority of inmates were young women or girls.

"It is a very short step between going that way (to jail) and being a good citizen", emphasized Miss Patmore. "It's up to everybody to provide things for the young people to make them see the way to a better method of life."

"It's a great thing to be working with young people," she added.

Dealing with the Indian settlements, Miss Patmore told of great work being accomplished by doctors, nurses and teachers for the natives, but there are not enough of these helpers to make the work really effective.

"A lot of work is being done but we have to do a lot more," she stated.

Indians and their children are dying every day from T.B. mainly because of lack of care.

Miss Patmore described one trip up to Prince Rupert and Hazelton, with an unexpected plane voyage from Rupert to the Queen Charlotte islands.

Findings of Scientists on Cull Storage are Being Used Extensively

(Experimental Farms News)

When the consumer purchases a crisp, juicy apple in March he seldom realizes that a history of careful storage has been responsible for the fine condition of the fruit. If that apple had not received prompt and suitable cold storage, it would have become over-ripe months earlier.

Apples keep best at around 30 to 32 degrees F. and must be cooled promptly after picking. To obtain this temperature mechanical refrigeration must be provided. Whether it be a small household refrigerator or a 500,000 box apple storage, heat is transferred from the fruit being cooled through the intervening air to the coils containing chilled refrigerant.

The modern method of achieving rapid heat extraction from fruit is by means of a centrally located coil room from which air is circulated by a fan through the room or rooms containing the fruit. After passing over the fruit the air, which has risen in temperature owing to absorption of heat, is returned to the coil room, where it gives up its heat to the refrigerating coils and is again discharged at a low temperature over the fruit.

Various duct systems are used to facilitate circulation of the air in the cold storage rooms. During the past two years a comprehensive study has been made of the duct system in operation in a number of the large-scale commercial fruit storages in the Okanagan and adjacent valleys. This study has been directed by technical personnel of the Dominion Experimental Station, Summerland, says Dr. D. V. Fisher, pomologist, and has been made possible by a $5,000 annual research grant provided by the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association.

The information provided by this investigation has revealed that duct design and methods of operation have very important effects upon air circulation, which in turn influences the speed and uniformity with which the fruit is cooled.

The findings of this research are already being used extensively in the construction of new storage houses and in the modification of existing duct systems. It is expected that these changes in construction and operation of air distribution ducts will result in greatly increased efficiency of fruit storage houses.

VERNON PROPOSES VALLEY AIR TRIPS

VERNON—Citing their proposed operations for a non-schedule, passenger air service from Kamloops through to Penticton linking up with Canadian Pacific Air Line east and west flights, officials of L. and M. Air Services Ltd., of this city, presented evidence to the public hearing of their application to the Air Transport Board in the Court House Tuesday, Oct. 26.

The hearings were presided over by G. H. MacDonald, representative of the Air Transport Board, stationed at Ottawa. All evidence given was recorded and will be transcribed. It will then be referred to the Air Transport Board proper.

"The Okanagan area has, up until the end of the war, seen very little of aircraft. The public is not fully air-minded. Our idea is if we put in a non-schedule service and are allowed to quote a definite between point tariff, the public will become conscious of this form of transport." So said R. H. "Dick" Laidman, president of the company, when presenting evidence at the hearing.

The proposed service would touch at Kamloops, Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton. "The route is a very good operation, not over hazardous terrain and would provide much speedier transportation," Mr. Laidman continued.

Sister of Accident Victim Lives Here

Miss Tillie Rouck was called to Vernon on Friday, October 26, up on the sad news that her sister, Miss Betty Rouck was killed in an automobile accident when an automobile dropped 150 feet to the bank of the Fraser river after plunging through a bridge east of Hope. Miss T. Rouck is an employee at the Sunoka Fruit Products Ltd. plant here and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Rouck, reside at Vernon.

There were three other victims of this tragic accident, Clark R. Greenaway, Cloverdale; John C. Ver, Whitehorse, Y.T.; and Jean Kopp, Vancouver.

Payroll Deduction Plan Booms Sale of Series Three Savings Bonds

Railway employees have purchased series three bonds totalling $12,000,000, an increase of 71 per cent over 1947 applications.

"Latest national figures, released at press time, show that Canada Savings Bonds, series three, have won new popularity, particularly with the wage-earner who is buying more bonds than ever by payroll deductions.

End of week tabulations show bond purchases totalling $72,892,750, an increase of $24,000,000 over 1947 figures.

Dominion payroll applications number 352,000 compared to 298,000 at the same time in series two issue.

A faster moving campaign and the fact that many companies which had strike troubles last year, are now enjoying good labor relations is given credit for the increase.

"In British Columbia the picture is changing hourly," stated L. F. Worsley at the weekend. "Companies which thought canvass was practically completed have received a pleasant surprise as last minute applications pour in."

"Belief of companies, employees and bond officials that people owning bonds are better citizens has been unmistakably revealed by this enthusiastic demonstration of faith in the future of Canada. Knowing a financial back-log in the form of bonds is instantly available in time of emergency has had a most heartening effect upon the sale of bonds."

"An interesting thing revealed in many B.C. plants is the number of New Canadians and D.P.s who are buying their first bonds by the payroll method."

Sale of series three bonds at banks will be available to the general public by outright purchase or monthly payments until further notice.

Appointment as Bargaining Agent Sought by Union

Department of labor has notified School District No. 77 (Summerland) that the Okanagan Valley School Employees Federal Union is requesting authorization as bargaining agent for school employees in West Summerland, exclusive of teachers and office staff.

The school board had no notification that local school janitors were joining a union and will withhold any answer until more details are obtained.

"If the employees don't want it then we should object," declared one trustee at last week's school board session.

Another trustee jocularly enquired if the trustees could join the union and Chairman Dodwell replied that the school boards will have to "join something" soon, evidently referring to the organized demands of the teachers for salary increases.

It was also reported that despite the decision for a green roof on the elementary school, this color roofing is not available and a red roof will have to result.

Rotary Auction This Saturday to Be Varied in Scope

Sleight-of-hand, the Summerland Brass Band and hundreds of worthwhile objects will be competing for top attention this Saturday evening at the Rotary Club of Summerland third annual auction to raise funds for community purposes.

Reeve Reid A. Johnston will again be auctioneer and the Rotarians have promised him a wide variety of objects to be knocked down under his hammer. Each Rotarian has been told he must bring at least five articles to be auctioned on Saturday and the list is said to be an imposing one.

Mr. Ernie Hanham, of Penticton, will be back again this year to show some more of his magic tricks which proved popular last year. The Summerland Brass Band will play selections in the hall anteroom during two intermissions in the hectic game of bidding for the many articles.

An electric ironer is being given away to the holder of a lucky ticket, during the evening.

Calls for Work on Baptist Church Hill

W. M. Wright on Tuesday, Oct. 26, sought council assistance in improving the pathway alongside the road up the Baptist church hill which he said is so covered with loose rock that it is impossible for baby carriages to use the pathway. Foremen Les Gould and E. Kercher were asked to improve this situation.

Refuse Containers Here by Mid-Month

Interior Advertising Co. Ltd., has informed the municipal council that the long-awaited refuse containers will be available for local business streets about the middle of November. Kelowna council recently informed the advertising company that some definite date of delivery would have to be named or the agreement would be cancelled.

Two Big Bylaws Billed at Vernon

VERNON—On Friday, November 12, Vernon taxpayers will be asked to vote on two money by-laws.

One is for $285,500 for new school buildings, as well as alterations, additions and equipment to existing structures in the city. It is 54.8 per cent of the $520,000 total to be raised by School District No. 22 for the proposed million dollar school building program. The Department of Education will make a grant of $520,000.

The second bylaw is for $39,000 for the installation of an adequate electric fire alarm system to serve all areas within the municipal boundaries of the City of Vernon.

A third bylaw in the city, that for $20,000 to build a rotunda for the Vernon Civic Arena, was to have been presented at the same time as those for the school program and the fire alarm system, on November 12. However, delay has forced the bylaw to be held over until a later date. It is at present in the hands of B.C. Bracewell, Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs.

All Transportation Costs on U.E.F.B. Food Purchases to be Borne by British Government

"Give Britain Strength" is the slogan adopted by the United Emergency Fund for Britain in its nation-wide appeal which is gathering strength across the country as Christmas-time approaches.

Money obtained by this fund will be used to purchase food in bulk in Canada to be shipped to warehouses in Britain for parcel distribution to the needy as qualified by the UEFB advisory board council.

The campaign officially opens on November 14 and continues to December 5.

Sir Andrew Jones, head of the British Food Mission in Canada declares the United Kingdom is compelled to restrict her dollar imports to her dollar holdings. The ration system will, therefore, be held to the dollar purchasing level, which means a subnormal diet for the British people for some time to come.

It is the aim of the UEFB to increase voluntary food shipments from Canada to make up part of the deficiency, particularly for the needy.

The UEFB advisory council is guided by the Countess Mountbatten of Burma, as the active head, while others include the Countess of Limerick and the Dowager Marchioness of Reading.

In Canada, the UEFB drive chairman is Lady Eaton. Major Kenneth S. Grills, secretary of the British Advisory Council of the UEFB, visited Toronto last week and has flown back to London to complete plans in Britain for the distribution of food sent over by the fund.

Major Grills reported that the British government has granted an additional concession to UEFB by offering to defray all expenses for shipments from warehouses in Britain to distributing welfare agencies in the United Kingdom.

This further reduces UEFB shipping costs for the British government has already accorded free ocean and inland freight, warehousing and handling, as well as exemption from duties or excise taxes. This last concession means that the UEFB can place the qualified goods into the hands of the recipients at no cost for freight or handling.

Meanwhile, UEFB machinery is being set up to handle used clothing donations, which will get the same courtesies given food shipments. However, it is stressed that UEFB will not be prepared to handle used clothing until the early part of next year. A plan is being projected whereby all of the UEFB medical supplies, and, where feasible, the used clothing operation will be conducted in conjunction with the Red Cross.

Kenney Reports on Flood Rehab Work

VICTORIA—In a survey on flood rehabilitation work outside the Fraser Valley, Hon. E. T. Kenney, minister of lands and forests, reported that 840 cases out of a total of 886 reported have been investigated and are either being dealt with or have received rehabilitation benefits.

Good progress has been made in the repair of houses and other organizations for flood fighting have been made up by the province.

Shortage of Iron, Steel Causes Buying

Faced with the possibility of an extreme shortage of iron and steel, Summerland council last week looked over a list of electrical department requirements, including a number of transformers, which amounted to $4,177. Decision on placing of this order was deferred until further information is gathered.

Hay Mulch is Aid to Production Of Pear Trees

(Experimental Farm News)

Heavy hay mulch has greatly influenced production in Bartlett pear trees at the Dominion Experimental Station, Saanichton, B.C., according to E. R. Hall, assistant in pomology.

Hay mulch was applied to a plot of four trees in March, 1942, at the rate of 15 tons per acre. Each year additional mulch material has been added to maintain the mulch at a constant depth.

At the same time a corresponding plot of pear trees has been kept under clean cultivation with a winter grown cereal crop cultivated out each spring. All trees were planted in 1917 and spaced 20 feet by 20 feet.

Total yield from the four trees under hay mulch treatment for seven years was 9,415 pounds of marketable fruit compared with 5,897 pounds from the clean cultivated plot. Increase in production of mulched trees in this experiment over unmulched trees amounts to 125 pounds of marketable fruit per tree each year.

Allowing for a 50 per cent breakdown of mulch materials each year, individual mulch consumption of each tree would be 150 pounds of mulch. Placed on a cost basis of $20 per ton (including labor), cost of mulch per tree would be $1.50.

Increase in the value of the crop through the mulch treatment would be $6.25 (125 lbs. at 5c) with pears at the cannery price of five cents per pound.

Labor required in the maintenance of mulched areas depends largely on the freedom of the mulch material from seeds at the time of application. The entire surface area of the plot area was covered rather than a circular area around each tree. The general effect of mulching has been to throw mulched trees into regular bearing after the first few years while trees under cultivation continue their usual "on" and "off" year habit.

DECEMBER 27 IS LIKELY HOLIDAY

VICTORIA—December 27, the Monday following the Christmas weekend, likely will be declared a holiday in British Columbia.

This will give workers a three-day break for the holiday and they will not then lose out by the fact that Boxing Day, a statutory holiday, falls on a Sunday.

The provincial cabinet has not yet officially discussed the subject since Christmas is still a long distance away, but a government official says it could be expected that December 27 will be proclaimed a holiday.

Medical Men Fear Regimentation Under "State Medicine"

Dr. W. H. B. Munn who, with Mrs. Munn, drove to Vernon on Oct. 22 to attend the annual meeting of the Interior Medical Society, reports an interesting meeting, with emphasis by the 35 attending doctors, representing the area from Revelstoke and Kamloops South, being placed on the new government hospital insurance scheme.

Dr. Whitehead of Vancouver, secretary of the B.C. Medical Association, gave a report on this new scheme, which he termed feasible, and one that led naturally to a complete health insurance plan, something most doctors were looking forward to, as it would mean a more equitable distribution of community medical care costs.

Medical men as a whole, however, feared the much-mooted "state medicine", which they feel means complete bureaucratic government control with regimentation of all doctors. Such a step would by its very nature destroy individual initiative, lowering the caliber of medical treatment, and proving detrimental to further enlistment into the ranks of the medical profession, doctors stated.

Scientific papers were given by two of the Okanagan doctors, Dr. H. J. Alexander of Vernon, and Dr. John Gibson of Penticton, who gave a paper on tick-borne diseases.

The 1949 meeting will be held in Kelowna, with Dr. W. F. Anderson presiding.

UEFB MOBILIZES TO GIVE BRITAIN STRENGTH IN COLD WAR TO WIN THE PEACE

REASON FOR UEFB

By centralizing buying and transportation, including delivery at destination, substantial savings can be effected. The scattered efforts of many can be channelled into an efficient single stream of relief, without a loss of individuality as to persons, groups or organizations.

MORE AID PER DOLLAR

For example: the cost of placing a ready packaged 10 lb. parcel in the hands of a recipient in Britain, exclusive of content purchase price, is approximately $2.50 at present, whereas through UEFB concessions the comparable cost would be 37c to 79c. This economy does not include the very substantial saving which bulk purchasing effects.

The gallant people of Britain are suffering today because they are determined to win the cold war. They are the only nation in Europe fighting with body and mind to vanquish the spectre that haunts the Old World.

Their health is being weakened, their efficiency impaired, by the tremendous restrictions they have imposed upon themselves. They stand in danger of being defeated by undernourishment.

Why? Because Britain imports four-fifths less goods than before the war, yet exports more than half as much again as in 1939.

Says the British Ministry of Food:

"... we are living on marginal nutritional standards, and there is cause for anxiety lest this should be having adverse effects on physique and health... Everything you can send us is wanted and urgently wanted."

If the British people go under, YOU and all of us, will feel the effects. We need a strong Britain to help fight the cold war. Give generously to UEFB—TODAY.

GIVE BRITAIN STRENGTH!

Send your cash donation to your Provincial headquarters. It is deductible from taxable income.

UEFB offers the best means of making your aid to Britain effective now.

UEFB is a voluntary organization set up to collect, forward and distribute aid to the undernourished people of Britain. UEFB purchases supplies in bulk. The British Government supplies free transportation. The UEFB British Advisory Council assures that your dollars will buy what is most needed for those who need it the most.

Although UEFB cannot at present handle used clothing, arrangements are being made to do so early next year.

Suggests Training Film Library To Boost Sports in Okanagan

Norman Barton, of the extension department of UBC and Mr. W. F. Goodland, Okanagan representative of the National Film Board, will be in Summerland next week and expect to meet the Summerland Film Council on Wednesday afternoon, November 9.

It is anticipated that one of the chief discussions will centre around Mr. Goodland's suggestion that the Okanagan and Similkameen should promote the purchase of training films on various types of sports.

Mr. Goodland suggests that one area from Summerland south to the border and into the Similkameen could organize to purchase films showing the latest methods of training athletes to attain higher standards in their chosen fields.

Each film would cost $50, but Mr. Goodland believes that with the proper organization in schools and among service clubs a valuable library of athletic films could be built up, for the benefit of the younger generations coming along.

There are a great number of films available of various phases of basketball, baseball, volleyball and other sports. There is a dearth of hockey films but Mr. Goodland is writing east in an endeavor to interest the National Hockey league in promotion work of this kind.

Visual aids in training can be of great benefit to teams and their coaches and can foster a better brand of sport among the young people of the Okanagan, he declares. Principal James Logie obtained training films for his high school track and field team at Kelowna last year and the results showed that his athletes benefitted greatly from the knowledge imparted on the screen.

Rutland Plays Better Soccer To Capture Okanagan Title By 2-0 From Summerland

By a 2-0 count Rutland won the Okanagan high school soccer championship last Saturday at Kelowna, defeating Summerland high, winners of the South Okanagan title. Rutland thus retains the Soguel cup and will be given a chance of a trip to Vancouver during Christmas week to compete for the B.C. schools championship.

Although Summerland battled hard all the way, Rutland was definitely the better all-around team, the players having a weight advantage which told heavily.

A high wind also baffled the players on many occasions and really caused both Rutland goals, which were of the "flake" variety. However, the northerners were good value for their win.

At the halfway mark, Rutland led 1-0 and scored again in the second period to put the contest on ice.

Summerland missed the services of Ernie Jomori on the forward line, Ernie having been put out of competition when he received a nasty kick in the contest with Oliver on the previous Saturday.

Don Adams played heads up soccer between the sticks for Summerland and saved nearly certain scores on nearly a dozen occasions. On the defense Basil Thornthwaite played a terrific game, especially in the last fifteen minutes.

The entire team was slow to warm up and did not show to as good advantage as the previous Saturday until the final minutes of play.

Summerland's lineup was as follows: Adams; B. Thornthwaite and Keith Haskins; Wally Day, Morris Bolton, Earle Bryden; Frank Kato, Dennis Hack, Francis Gould, Sam Jomori, Bob Weitzel.

Many Contestants To Come Here for Big Trap Shoot

Biggest trap shoot in the interior this year will climax the Summerland Trap Club 1948 activities on Remembrance Day, November 11, when the best shots from nine interior B.C. points and Tonasket, Wash., are expected to compete.

Sixty turkeys and forty hams form the major prizes which will go to the competing marksmen in this all-day affair which is believed to be tops in turkey shoots.

Kelowna, Vernon, Lumby, Peachland, Penticton, Oliver, Osoyoos and Copper Mountain trap shooters are expected to be here next week to fire at the elusive pigeons for the turkeys and hams. Shooting will commence at 9 o'clock and continue through until 5 o'clock.

The local club's headquarters are located near the top of Prairie Valley, where a well-constructed lodge has been erected this year. This lodge will accommodate a large number of interested spectators besides the competing marksmen.

Also located at this spot is a 22 range, which will be in use as well as the trap shoot.

An international flavor will be added to the day with the expected arrival of a number of crack shots from Tonasket, Wash. Dr. Lloyd Day, president of the Summerland club, has visited the Tonasket club on a number of occasions and extended an invitation to its members to come north on November 11.

Joe Maddison Kills Lynx in Hills to West

Joe Maddison bagged an unexpected trophy last Sunday afternoon when he shot and killed a female lynx, a rare animal to be found in the lower foothills of the Okanagan Valley.

The animal measured 3 feet 2 inches from nose to tail, while the length outstretched from the tips of the paws was five feet two inches.

Mr. Maddison and H. R. J. Richards were travelling in the latter's car along a narrow trail on the ridge between the Peachland dam and Brenda Lake when they rounded a corner and spotted two lynx crossing the road.

Mr. Richards slammed on his brakes and Mr. Maddison leaped out of the car and started in pursuit of the animals, who endeavored to lose themselves in the thick underbrush. Mr. Maddison's shot killed the female but the male took to a high tree, where he was not easily spotted until it was too late to take a shot.

There was a heavy snowstorm in progress in the late afternoon, the kill being made about 4 o'clock.

Vernon Hoopsters Open Season at Gym Tonight

Inter-City Bowling League to Include Four Valley Teams

Inter-city bowling will not commence until Sunday, November 14, Ken Winterbottom, Kelowna, president of the five-pin association, informed The Review this week.

It had been planned to commence next Sunday but Penticton bowlers will not be ready to start for another two weeks.

An attempt was made to obtain sufficient teams to divide the Okanagan into two sections but Vernon has dropped out and so the league will continue with four valley towns competing.

Two Kelowna alleys, two from Penticton and one each from Summerland and Oliver will be competing.

Each alley will field two men's teams and two mixed teams, the five-pin loop being planned to operate throughout the winter months, it is stated.

Play is restricted to members of the league, who must take out membership cards before play

This evening at the school gymnasium the curtain will be rung up on the 1948-49 hoop season.

Three strong Vernon cage teams are due to appear here tonight to take on the local teams sponsored by the Summerland Basketball Assn., which include a girls' squad, intermediate B and A boys.

The Int A's will go up against the Vernon seniors while the Int. B's will play the Vernon A's in return matches for those played at Vernon on October 23. The girls' game, which opens the evening's card at 7 o'clock, is the first of the year for either team.

Jack Walsh has taken charge of the local A's, while Jim Hack alternates between the club management and coaching duties of the B's. Both these teams are due to make a strong bid for interior honors this year and if they will stick with their practices they are expected to go a long way.

commences, it is pointed out. There will be no charge for the Sunday games as such and no fees can be collected on the playing days.

Processors Club Elects Officers

Summerland canning concerns were hosts to the Processors Club, which embraces canners and processors from Vernon to the border, on Wednesday afternoon. The morning was devoted to a review of two new plants, the Canadian Canners new concern in Penticton and the Cornwall Canning Co. plant in Summerland.

Following lunch at the Nu-Way Cafe, the processors adjourned to the IOOF hall where a variety of subjects was discussed with Ewart McLaughton of Osoyoos as chairman.

Possibility that a cutting demonstration will be staged for the benefit of growers to indicate maturity of fruit essential for proper processing was discussed, while the grades needed for cannery purposes also came under view.

The canners' short course will again be held in Vancouver next February, the meeting was told.

Ralph Bulman of Vernon is presenting a brief from the processors' angle to the board of railway commissioners at Kelowna next week and highlights of this brief were reported.

L. J. Kelly of Kelowna selected as the new president of the club for 1948-49, with Keith Stackhouse of Oliver as secretary and Blake Mine of Summerland as executive member.

Next meeting of the club will be held at Kelowna on December 15.

be taking risks with," he emphasized.

Mr. McNair also prophesied that once the dollar restrictions are removed there will not be as free a movement of soft fruit as this year. He pointed out that the Okanagan crop has been sold in its entirety, but Washington still has pears on hand and is offering them at $1.50 less than the Okanagan pears sold for.

Longer Season

"The problem of marketing apples looms very large in the years ahead, and the highest level of markets can only be maintained by spreading the season as long as possible," Mr. McNair continued, in turning to the apple marketing difficulties.

"The only way is to have the fruit properly cared for and harvested, and put in cold storage in a proper shape.

If apples remain in common storage for three to six weeks all the storage life of the fruit is gone, and cold storage will not rejuvenate them. Cold storage will only keep fruit in good condition if it is in good condition on arrival, he pointed out.

Mr. McNair declared that, in the care of apples, the industry must look towards marketing a proportion, in good condition, as late as June.

Cold Storage Space

Dealing with cold storage facilities, Mr. McNair declared that Penticton has 665,000-box cold storage capacity, with an estimated crop this year of 720,000. Kelowna has a yield of 2,860,000 boxes of apples and has 2,500,000 boxes of cold storage space.

On the other hand, Summerland, with an estimated production of 580,000 boxes, has only 311,000 boxes of cold storage space.

"There is no danger of being top heavy in cold storage facilities in relation to production here," he informed the co-op growers regarding their plans.

Turning to the Jonathan crop, Mr. McNair reminded that last year this variety was packed from late September until late November. The result was a "very poor job with a very good product."

Repeat Orders

This year, 375 cars of Jonathans have already gone to market with only 40 to 50 cars left to sell. The market has been quite satisfied with the pack and condition of these apples and the trade is happy.

"These Jonathans went to the United States and are producing repeat business," Mr. McNair declared.

"The whole apple packing picture is changing," he continued, "and the whole valley is faced with revamping its production methods."

The sales agency has been advocating color, quality and the elimination of cee grade but there is too much cee grade in this year's production.

As a further warning, Mr. McNair told the growers not to spend $180,000 to accommodate varieties which are long out of date and for which there is no sale.

He warned that the U.K. market cannot be expected to open for Canadian apples until 1952 and so the U.S. is the only possible other export outlet of any size, but it falls far short of the requirements, as the U.S. is only interested in better varieties and better grades. There is a 40 percent cee grade in some varieties this year and these are not wanted in the U.S. or any other market, he concluded.

Eight Briefs Presented On Behalf of Valley to Transport Board Hearing

Eight groups and organizations representing all parts and industries of the Okanagan valley told the board of transport commissioners in Kelowna last Monday, November 8, that the high freight rates, caused by the mountain differential, are keeping this valley from normal development.

After a week-long sitting in Vancouver, the board arrived in Kelowna Monday, having de-trained at West Summerland early that morning. Hon. Gordon Wismer, K.C., Attorney-General for B.C., who has led the fight for elimination of the mountain differential, guided the Okanagan presentations on Monday.

One of the chief claims was that the prairie vegetable producer is going ahead of B.C. because the higher freight rate from B.C.'s interior cuts off a large portion of the prairie market. B.C. vegetable producers just cannot compete because of higher rail charges.

Briefs were presented by the Kelowna Board of Trade, Vernon Board of Trade, fruit canning industry, B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., B.C. Interior Vegetable Marketing Board, T. R. Bulman of Vernon, Interior Feed Dealers' Assn. of Kelowna, and Kamloops Boards of Trade.

Manslaughter Charge Opens Here Friday

John Newton, Summerland truck driver, will appear before Magistrate H. Sharman tomorrow, Friday morning, November 12, on a charge of manslaughter arising out of a fatal accident on the Giant's Head road near Milne's cannery on the evening of October 15, which resulted in the death of William J. Tullett.

It is understood the defense will ask for a week's adjournment when the preliminary hearing opens tomorrow.

A coroner's jury returned an open verdict on the death of Mr. Tullett, aged 65, who was a pioneer fruit rancher and carpenter of this district, having come to Summerland in 1910 from Scotland.

According to evidence produced at the coroner's inquest, held before Coroner F. W. Andrew, Newton was driving a truck into West Summerland about 5.30 o'clock that October 15 evening and passed the deceased man, who was riding his bicycle on the left-hand side of the road, and going in the same direction.

Mr. Tullett's bicycle apparently struck the deck of the truck and the rider was thrown to the ground. He died about an hour later in the Summerland hospital from injuries received in the accident.

Purchase Pump For Fire Truck

On Tuesday afternoon, Summerland council agreed to purchase a pump for the fire truck being assembled. This pump will be purchased from the LaFrance company and will cost about $1,000 landed in Summerland. Another pump which was displayed in pamphlets to the council was nearly double that price, but the council agreed that the lesser cost pump would be adequate for Summerland needs.

Municipality Will Vote on December 18

Summerland municipal elections will be held on Saturday, December 18 this year, with nomination day on Thursday, Dec. 9.

No date has been set yet for the annual ratepayers' meeting, as the date of Saturday, December 11, as suggested by Acting Clerk Gordon Smith did not meet with council approval.

It was pointed out that having the ratepayers' meeting after nomination day might turn the meeting into a campaign session, whereas the purpose of the meeting is to hear a resume of the past year's activities.

As hall space is at a premium in West Summerland at present, it was left to Reeve Johnston and Acting Clerk Gordon Smith to arrange for a suitable meeting date. The IOOF hall is not available for Saturday afternoon, Dec. 4, and a meeting some other afternoon in that week may be chosen.

Two vacancies in the council will be open for replacement at the December elections, plus all but the rural representative on the school board. Also, the taxpayers will be asked to vote on the $20,000 bylaw for the new memorial community hall in the Living Memorial park playground.

Roy Angus Gets New Appointment

Roy F. Angus will take on the duties of electrical energy inspector as well as building inspector, council decided on Tuesday. The charges for the extra service has not been affixed by the council, nor has Mr. Angus' remuneration for the duties been set. He is actually carrying out the major portion of this inspection work now in connection with building inspection service.

Possibility of Parks Board For District Suggested at Cemetery Committee Meeting

Possibility that a parks board, to carry out a policy of maintenance of parks and the cemetery, with gradual improvements in each case each year, might be advocated for Summerland was mooted at Tuesday's council meeting when Councillor Eric Tait reported on a meeting this week of the local cemetery committee.

The cemetery committee has had two meetings in the last ten days, plus a well-attended work party last Saturday afternoon when 37 community-minded persons carried out some valuable work.

Included in this work party were a number of Japanese who worked energetically for the cemetery improvement.

At Monday's session, the cemetery committee worked out a plan which was submitted to the council in an informal form by Councillor Tait and which will also be taken to various public organizations by their representatives on the committee, for perusal and opinion.

The plan, as tentatively outlined, calls for the council to budget funds each year for parks and cemetery improvement and maintenance, plus the appointment of a committee consisting of one or two councillors and one or two committee members to carry out the expenditure of the council-budgeted funds.

Also included in the plan are recommendations for gradual improvement of the cemetery, using chemicals for weed control, replacing sand blown away with a better type of soil, and the placing of curbs along the pathways.

It was also suggested that a portion of the work could be carried out by volunteers working several afternoons each year, if the municipal plan was laid out beforehand.

Another suggestion is that persons planning on racing a plot should face the entire area designated to eliminate weeds and grass growing around the edges not so covered.

Young Lad Is Nearly Drowned Off Lake Wharf

Quick thinking on the part of seven-year-old Myles Gillard saved his playmate, eight-year-old Lou Lewis from nothing worse than a thorough soaking and a good scare on Thursday evening, November 4, when young Lewis fell from a wharf into deep lake water.

The boys were playing after school on a boathouse wharf owned by Horace Read when Lou, who fortunately had a rope tied around his waist, missed his footing in the close gathering dusk and plunged over the side.

Myles seized the trailing end of the life-saving rope, fastened it to the piling of the wharf, and made all haste to the nearby home of Constable I. G. Thorsteinson for help.

Heavy play clothes and boots prevented young Lewis from climbing back on to the wharf, but he clung to the edge until help arrived.

Lou was back at school the next day, a sadder but a wiser boy, no doubt. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Lewis, while his young rescuer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gillard.

THE REVIEW OUT ONE DAY EARLIER

As the regular publication day, Thursday, is a holiday commemorating those who fell in two wars, the Review is publishing this week on Wednesday afternoon. As this has caused a considerable rush, several usual features have been omitted from this issue, including the editorials. The Review will continue next week in its regular form.

Drawing up Plans for New Trout Creek Bridge

Drawings for a new 50-foot beam span are being prepared by the provincial public works department for the proposed new bridge over Trout Creek.

Such was the reply received by the municipal council this week from H. C. Anderson, chief engineer of the department in reply to a query from the council as to when progress on this project can be expected.

Mr. Anderson stated that the work will start as soon as possible, but did not mention any positive date.

Car Turns Over When Gas Feed Sticks

Travelling home from Penticton on Saturday evening about 6 o'clock, a car driven by Gordon Beggs of Summerland and containing Percy Wilson and Don Blagborne, also of Summerland, turned over on Okanagan highway just north of the Trout Creek Service Station.

Reason for the accident has been laid to a plugged gas feed, which accelerated the speed of the automobile.

The automobile turned over once but the three occupants escaped with only minor bruises.

Mr. Beggs reported to Provincial Police Constable Thorsteinson that the accelerator became stuck and when he kicked it in an attempt to shake it loose, the speed was accelerated greatly.

The driver then reached down to bring up the gas feed and in so doing lost control of the steering wheel, with the result that the car went out of control and turned over.

Hail Insurance Scheme Is Proposed by Local Growers for Convention

Proposal to form a second grower contract which would provide a per box levy to provide a hail insurance fund will go before the big growers' meeting called by the BCFGA among its 3,700 members for Penticton in January. This was the decision of the Summerland local of the BCFGA at its annual meeting in the IOOF hall on Monday afternoon.

It was pointed out by local growers that forcing hailed fruit on the market causes a greater loss to the industry by spoiling markets than does the actual hail damage itself.

With this in mind the local growers are asking the BCFGA executive to bring down a hail insurance scheme by setting up an insurance fund through a small box levy. This fund would have a stated maximum and then annually the only assessment would be according to the amount of the hail losses in the previous year.

One safe guard which the growers wrote into this scheme is that of a separate contract from the one now in existence which would only come into effect if 75 percent of the growers had signed.

Summerland growers for several years have pressed the fruit industry for a hail insurance scheme, without avail.

It was felt on Monday that more areas in the Okanagan have felt the effect of hailstorms now and may be more sympathetic to the Summerland belief that the industry must come to some form of a hail insurance scheme.

Only Ten Percent

Monday's meeting was not well attended, only ten percent of the 408 grower-members in the Summerland area being in attendance. Summerland is the largest individual local in the entire BCFGA area.

C. E. (Ned) Bentley was chairman of the meeting and was re-elected for another term. Walter Bleasdale has gone back for another season as secretary-treasurer, while the new directors are J. Y. Towgood, David Munn, Harvey Walton, H. J. (Bill) Barkwill and George Stoll.

These directors, plus Roy Smith and John Caldwell will form the delegates from Summerland to the annual GCFGA convention in Penticton in January.

At the outset of the meeting, Chairman Bentley went carefully through the annual BCFGA convention in Penticton setup as a whole, again stressing to the growers that the BCFGA is their own parliament and the various companies formed under the parliamentary setup are the growers' own concerns.

Mr. Bentley also mentioned the processing plant proposed for this area by the board of trade, when the subject was introduced by George Stoll. Mr. Towgood told the growers that processed apples have been shipped from eastern Canada to the Winnipeg market, under government subsidy, and selling for 13 1/2 cents per pound, a price at which B.C. cannot compete.

Mention was also made that cee grade has been too preponderant this year, with Macs running forty percent to this low level.

Farm Labor Service

W. J. Beattie expressed the thought that the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labor Service will be carried on another year.

Last season, 771 placements had been made through the Summerland office and Mr. Beattie received a good deal more co-operation from other labor offices than in other years. These placements

Chlorination of Water Has Now Started

Have you noticed any difference in your water supply?

Since Monday, the domestic water system in Summerland has been under chlorination treatment.

Although the adaptor which has held up installation for three months is still not here, an engineer from the supply company, Wallace & Tiernan, Seattle, arrived here last Friday and completed installation as far as possible.

The new system will be manually operated until the adaptor arrives and the supply of chlorination going into the system can be automatically controlled.

To obtain maximum benefit from the system, a temperature of 65 degrees must be maintained at the chlorination plant and as a means of obtaining this temperature, an automatic heater is being ordered.

Building Well Ahead of Same Period in 1947

Building permits took another healthy boost in October, when the value of building contracted for amounted to $30,880. There were nine permits issued, whereas in October of last year 22 were issued for a total of only $12,935.

The ten-month totals for this year show 124 permits totalling $280,540 while for the same period last year 304 permits were valued at $243,190.

This year's permits include the new school building, which makes an appreciable difference to the total.

Last month, permits for two new dwellings valued at $11,000 were taken out, one commercial building is valued at $9,000 and six permits for alterations and additions, including garages, amount to $820.

Apart from these figures, directly outside the municipality, considerable building activity has been evidenced at the experimental station, while the new anatomical building is another valuable building to the total in the Summerland district.

Telephone Operator Saves Situation When Robber Knocks Phone Off Hook

Quick thinking on the part of Miss Christie Mair, operator on the Okanagan Telephone Co. staff was responsible for the failure of a robbery at the office premises of Smith & Henry on Saturday morning about four o'clock.

Thieves broke into the transfer company office by forcing the spring lock on the front door and were busily engaged in chiselling off the lock system on the front door of the safe.

In their operations they knocked off the monophones from its cradle. Miss Mair, at the local exchange, endeavored to obtain a response but when she failed to do so decided that something was wrong in the office.

Miss Mair telephoned to George Henry and E. (Hilly) Smith and informed them that something was wrong at their office.

When these two men arrived with haste, they found the front door had been jimmied open, the dial knocked off the safe flush with the front and the would-be thieves had escaped out the back doors.

When Mr. Smith was hurriedly leaving his home, a model A Ford went past on the road leading to the Gulch at an excessive speed.

A short time after that, a resident of lower town was awakened by attempts being made to start an automobile. He looked out his window and observed that the car making the noise was a model A Ford heading south.

This attempted theft was at the same time of the month as the robbery last August when the safe at the Summerland Groceria was cracked and several thousands of dollars in cheques and cash stolen.

The Smith & Henry office is next door to the Groceria premises.

The Smith & Henry firm could not get into the office safe until Tuesday, when a safe expert arrived from Vancouver to place a new combination mechanism on the safe front.

The Inside Story

By AGROLOGIST

I have had a chat with Don Fisher re the cold storage of apples. The gist of our conversation is as follows:

Agrologist: Are you satisfied that the cold storage houses in the Okanagan valley are operating at 100% efficiency?

Don: No. Once fruit enters a cold storage plant, many people feel that it is automatically protected against further ripening. Actually, the life of apples depends on the rapidity with which they are cooled down to about 31 degrees F. and the uniformity with which this temperature is maintained through the storage house. Too often the air temperature recorded in the centre of the room has been taken as an indication of the temperature of the fruit in that room. Actually, the temperature of the fruit may be several degrees higher than that of the air surrounding it.

Agrologist: How do you know that this is the case?

Don: With the aid of funds provided by the BCFA we are making a comprehensive study of temperature conditions in a number of commercial cold storage houses. In this work we have had the active co-operation of packing house managers and cold storage operators.

Agrologist: What equipment have you used for this study?

Don: We have used an electrically operated temperature recorder. This equipment makes it possible to determine rapidly the temperature of the air and of the fruit in a large number of different locations throughout a storage house.

Agrologist: What information has this equipment revealed?

Don: The project is still in progress but the results secured to date indicate that the rapidity with which apples can be cooled in a storage house and the uniformity with which they can be held at desirable temperatures depend largely on the following factors:

- (1) The adequacy of the refrigeration condensers, compressors and blowers fans.
- (2) Design and management of the air distribution duct system.
- (3) Intelligent and accurate stacking of fruit.

Agrologist: Is the refrigeration equipment in Okanagan Valley storage houses adequate for the job which this equipment is called upon to perform?

Don: In many houses the equipment is adequate but there are some houses in which it is still insufficient.

Agrologist: Are the air distribution systems well designed and operated?

Don: There are some storages in which the design and management of air distribution systems are excellent but there are other storages in which there is a great deal of room for improvement.

Agrologist: Do storage house operators stack the fruit in such a way as to secure maximum efficiency from their refrigeration equipment?

Don: Here again there is room for improvement in a good many houses. Often the difficulty is due to the fact that attempts are made to store more fruit than the storage houses were designed to accommodate.

Agrologist: What are you doing to improve the situation?

Don: We are making a detailed study of the temperature conditions prevailing in as many cold storage houses as possible. When our study reveals that too long a time is required to cool the fruit down to 41 degrees and too great differences in temperature prevail throughout a storage, we endeavor to locate the reasons for the trouble and notifiy the packing house manager of our findings.

Agrologist: Are packing house managers making use of this information?

Don: Yes, definitely; quite a number of packing house managers have improved the efficiency of their cold storages by modification of air distribution duct design and management. In other houses there has been a marked improvement in methods of stacking.

The Giant of Giant's Head

By R. A. T.

XVI—Little Oats Make Great Giants

What makes the weary world today

A place of strife and woe?

What makes the housing plan delay

That makes us suffer so?

What makes inflation hit a peak

That we wear pre-war coats?

What makes us sad and sore and weak?

Do we lack giant oats?

Many and varied are the reasons that have been advanced to account for the enormous size of the Okanagan giants. Doctors say the cause was glandular and confound you with ten dollar words. Real estate agents claim just as emphatically that it was due to the climate and, on a five percent commission, they tell a strong story.

All giants were huge in those distant times but the local product was in a class by itself and a manuscript, recently unearthed, throws a revealing light on the subject.

One day the Giant of Giant's Head was sitting on the summit of his mountain watching the Ogo-pogos frolicking in the lake when the wind lodged a seed in his beard. (The giants all had beautiful beards, excelling even the almanac Dr. Chase.) He picked the seed out and examined it. It was an eighth of an inch long, round and slender, and covered with a hull.

"This is something new," thought the Giant. "If I plant it maybe a new food can be developed. A continual diet of meat and fish is very monotonous."

The Giant planted the seed and took special care of the plant which grew a stalk three feet high and headed into a cluster of grains similar to the one planted. He replanted and harvested these grains year after year until he had all of Jones' Flat a luxuriant field of oats for it was an oat grain his beard had caught.

The giants found oats a welcome addition to their diet. It is well known that a dish of oat porridge for breakfast will cause the eyes to shine and the cheeks to glow for hours due to the rare and little-known Vitamin O that the oats contain.

We will all admit that an oat diet has done wonders for the people of the land lying north of England. The men of this race have become so hardy that, wearing kilts, they expose their legs and knees to winter weather without ill effect. They can also imbibe vast quantities of their national beverage with no evident result except a broadening of their accent. Lesser men under a similar liquid load would be counting pink elephants.

It is easily understood that oats would exert a great change in the giants. The race became more vigorous, their beards thickened and they increased in stature. It was necessary to raise all the doors and ceilings in their dwellings.

There is no doubt the giants could have worn kilts too had they so desired, but being modest, they did not wish to boastfully expose portions of their anatomies to the public gaze. As they had not yet discovered the fine art of distillation, they had no national alcoholic beverage with which to test their endurance. (Can this be the cause of their extinction?)

During the years of abundant crops, the Giant hoarded all possible grain against an evil day to come for he had been warned by his magician:

"A year of famine, grim and bleak;

Be warned! I know whereof I speak!"

The increase in giant height was particularly noted in the younger generation. Often a boy of ten would be taller than his father! This made parental discipline difficult and it was feared that juvenile delinquency would result but the clever Giant evolved a plan to avoid this danger.

As ever-increasing acreage was seeded to oats more help was needed in the fields so the young men were organized into labor companies with uniforms and military discipline. Under the guise of playing soldiers, the boys would spend half the day in agricultural work and the remainder at drill and army manoeuvres. This scheme was pleasing to both the boys and the parents.

As the young noted their increased size compared with their parents, they took more pride in physique devoting spare time to sports like running, swimming and war-club exercises.

It did not take many generations to develop a race of super-giants.

Pioneer Days

THIRTY YEARS AGO

November 8, 1918

The quota set for Summerland is $80,000 in the Victory Loan 1918 campaign, with $50,000 still to go within the next week, if Summerland is to secure its honor flag.

Figures made public recently by General Manager McDowall of the Okanagan United Growers show an increase of 132,000 packages in one year in soft fruit volume business.

The marriage was solemnized on Wednesday evening, November 6 of Miss Jessie Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Mitchell and Mr. Benjamin Mayne of Mineola.

At a meeting of the Summerland hospital board this morning it was decided to take the Gainer cottage and fit it up as an emergency hospital to harbor influenza victims. Nurse Gordon of Naramata, has volunteered to take charge, and Misses Kathleen Babbitt, Faith Walker and Jean Crossen have volunteered as nurses.

The house and acre on the east side of Giant's Head, known as the Page property, has been purchased by S. M. Young. We understand Mr. Young purposes making the newly-acquired property his home. The Daubney lot on Paradise Flat has been purchased by A. Moyes. The Bogue lot, just north of T. J. Garnett homestead has been bought by R. Pollock, and H. M. Lumsdon has purchased the five acre lot at the foot of Garnet Valley held for some years by R. Ely. Another Summerland man to take on more land is J. T. Washington, who has bought the Rennie lot of five acres between the Batho and Blair lots.

To celebrate the expected signing of the Armistice within the next few days, F. A. C. Wright and Wm. Ritchie have proposed a huge bonfire on top of Giant's Head and other bonfires all over the district. Volunteers for the building of the big pile on our mountain top are asked to meet at Mr. Ritchie's office on Saturday morning.

No less than seven Dunsdons appeared in the school reports for top grades in Division VI. Dorothy, Arthur, James, Ted, Harry, Jack and Fred Dunsdon all placed first, second or third in four classes.

After being indisposed for several weeks, Mr. W. C. Kelley is

I guess there is no one less fitted than I to take needle and thread in hand, and try to make something. Yet, I do just that every once in a while, though I must admit it's usually something that doesn't meet the public's gaze, like a new nightie, a housecoat, or a breakfast cloth.

However, do you know what? Here I had this great mouton fur coat (my "mutton", I call it) that I had bought one year in Montreal to keep me warm when the thermometer went down to 30-below, which I may add, it frequently did.

But the thing was much too long, much to thick in the cuff, much to highly collared for our mild (we hope, we hope) climate at the coast, and I left it hanging around the clothes closet for a couple of years, solving the housing problem for many moths and leering at me every time I reached up for a raincoat.

So, what did I do one fine Sunday in August, but take a razor blade in one hand, the coat in the other, and hack away like crazy for an hour or so.

I found the fur very easy to work on, if you tackle it from the wrong side, and in no time at all I had a foot yanked off the hem, the cuffs taken off completely, also the collar, and I now have a nifty little number that I have christened my "swishy swagger", and which I'll wear at the slightest whiff of a breeze from the north without bending my back over double packing the thing around.

You, too, can do it; don't be afraid. It cuts easily, sews up without any trouble, and looks fine. I'm going to send it to the cleaners to be re-stuffed. Then, let it howl—I'll tuck a bright scarf around my neck, and be as cozy as the nose of a curled-up kitten.

With my last year's New Look coat still good as new, with that full, long, swing back, wouldn't you know they'd go and throw a monkey wrench into the fashion wheel by giving us these sveite fitted numbers. There just ain't no justice. Well, I'll wear mine full for two more years—at least, And you?

Sure as Christmas, I can see it coming—perfume that smells like food. Now they've got a lipstick called "Spiced Cinnamon", so anything can happen any day and probably will. When they sell the smell of Frying Bacon and Perkling Coffee by the dram, that's for me. With maybe a vial of "Grilled Loin Lamb Chop" to carry in my purse. And—sometimes—a little dab of "Onion" behind the ears. But not always.

If you're smart, you'll start picking up one Christmas present a week until Dec. 24 rises up and hits you. I know I won't, but I'd like to. I always swear I'll do just that, but the road to you-know-where is paved with my good intentions, and the week before Xmas finds me in a complete tizzie. 'Twas ever thus.

Well, next Spring may come any time it likes. I have my bulbs almost all in now; some of them were even showing green sprouts all ready, so I should have fragrant hyacinths in my window boxes before I know it. In the meantime my Christmas roses are blooming away, my 'mums are nodding mauve nods at me, and my one huge geranium plant is coming bravely forth with yet more new bloom.

Mr. John Tait has constructed several bait traps for use in the orchards for the purpose of exterminating mice. Fligid mice seem to have a very strong liking for Delicious apples, and in several piles of picked fruit standing in the orchards they have caused damage estimated by Mr. Tait to run up to about 1,000 boxes.

Walters Limited on Thursday still had 5,000 boxes in the orchards, and all packers were making frenzied attempts to get picked fruit under cover before frost harmed them. At the Co-operative fruit is moving out steadily, but their storage space is filled. At the Occidental they are packing three nights a week. Mr. Impett says they expect to finish on November 15 with the biggest pack they have yet had in Summerland.

Summerland school board will hold night school classes in commercial courses, including typewriting, bookkeeping, commercial arithmetic, and in woodworking and motor mechanics, at a fee of $5 a term.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Nield announce the engagement of their second daughter Rhona Kathleen, to Mr. Dewey Leo Sanborn, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Sanborn.

Mr. Leo McLaughlin still has his fine dahlias in bloom free from frost injury. Laidlaw & Co. advertise man's suits from $21.50 to a high of $29.50.

GUIDE NEWS

At last Friday's meeting the Guides were asked to sell poppies on the streets on Saturday, November 6 in aid of the Veterans' Poppy Fund. An enthusiastic show of hands was the result.

The rest of the meeting was devoted to preparation and practise for the Christmas concert on December 10. This date being only a month away, Guides are urged to learn their parts and practise their pieces.

Guides studying for their 2nd class test are asked to bring to the next meeting a sock they have darned themselves and a note from their parents stating that they have kept a room tidy and have made a bed for at least three weeks.

SCOUT NEWS

Remembrance Day

Editor, The Review:
On behalf of the Executive Committee of the Summerland Branch, No. 22 of the Canadian Legion, I wish to protest against the use of this day for personal entertainment, as we consider it a day set apart for the remembrance of those who have passed from our sight, whilst fighting for us, and with us, in past struggles, that we might have a better world in which to live.

The various veterans' organizations in Canada, noticeably the Canadian Legion, worked very hard to persuade the powers that be, to set November 11, apart as a statutory holiday.

We feel that organizations and individuals should at least postpone their functions and personal entertainment, until after the Memorial Service has been held.

Trusting those concerned will not consider this as harsh criticism, but will endeavor in future years to consider seriously, and join with us, when we gather together to pay homage to the memory of our glorious dead.

It is only by getting together, and working in harmony one with another, that nations will reflect this spirit, and so avert further disastrous wars.

Sincerely,
Alan Calvert,
President,

CAR DRIVERS PAY FIVE DOLLAR FINES

Two drivers paid fines of $5 and costs each before Magistrate H. Sharman in Summerland police court last week, as a result of accidents in this district. Both drivers were charged with failing to give half the road to oncoming traffic. They were William Swetlcoe of Osoyoos, who was blinded by the sun while driving up Peach Orchard hill, and Hugo Smaltz of Vernon, who collided with Alphonse Vioen of Peachland about a mile south of that town.

Anscomb Calls For British Industries Here

In a speech which he entitled "Canada's Role in Current History", Hon. Herbert Anscomb, acting premier and minister of finance, reviewed the vast potentialities for development of resources, the need for carefully selected immigration, movement of British industries to this country, and Canada's vital interest in the maintenance of foreign trade, before the 19th annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Vancouver last week.

In his hour-long address Mr. Anscomb discussed many subjects of interest to all Canadians. He said that Canada's iron ore at White Rock, in Ontario, and recent discoveries of gigantic quantities close to the Gulf of St. Lawrence may develop a tremendous new trading relationship with the United States.

Also, discoveries at Leduc of petroleum and natural gas have vast new possibilities for Canada as an oil-producing country. The United States is consuming its forest resources at a rate 50% in excess of its regeneration with the result that they will become more and more dependent on Canada for lumber, pulp and paper.

For many years young Canadians have felt the pull of the industrialized United States but it might not be long before that tide will be reversed and Canada's population will be swelled by young Americans coming here in search of the opportunity that goes with

Summerland Takes Quota of Tickets For Concert Series

Summerland's quota of tickets for the Greater Artist Series of concerts to be held this winter in Penticton was entirely sold out by last Saturday Roy F. Angus, Summerland representative on this co-operative group, has stated.

Penticton sales were not up to last year, however, and Mr. Angus reports that there are some tickets available to Summerland persons if they wish to contact the Penticton agents.

First in the series of four concerts was held in Penticton on Thursday, with the Don Cossack chorus and dancers providing the entertainment. This is an entertainment treat which is looked forward to by audiences throughout the continent.

expanding industrial development. Mr. Anscomb gave as one of the important problems the persuading of British industry to locate in Canada.

In a discussion of the labor code Mr. Anscomb said that British Columbia has some of the most enlightened and up to date labor laws on the continent. During 1946 British Columbia had just about the worst industrial record of strikes of any Province. Early in 1947 the labor code was reformed with the result that in that year the number of strikes and loss of man hours was greatly reduced.

Political Pot Starts Boiling In S. Okanagan

South Okanagan's by-election campaign is starting to get into full swing as the two parties, Coalition and CCF line up their speakers for public meetings throughout the riding.

Coalition candidate R. D. Browne-Clayton of Okanagan Mission will make his first public appearance here on Friday, November 12, it is announced and will be supported by the popular minister of public works, Hon. E. C. Carson.

In the Kelowna district, public meetings were held all this week with Reeve R. A. Johnston and W. G. Gillard of Summerland participating in the Tuesday evening session.

The CCF has held one public meeting here and another is scheduled for next Tuesday evening when Grace MacInnes will speak on behalf of her brother, Bruce Woodsworth.

Hon. Herbert Anscomb, minister of finance, will come to the Okanagan for two days near the end of the campaign to conduct a whirlwind speaking tour on behalf of the Coalition candidate.

Almost $500 for Community Purposes Raised at Auction by Rotary Club

Nearly $500 for community betterment purposes was raised last Saturday by the Rotary Club of Summerland in its third annual auction which drew a capacity audience to the IOOF hall last Saturday night.

It was an enthusiastic and responsive group which bid freely on the many and varied articles offered by Auctioneer Reid A. Johnston, who kept the proceedings enlivened with witty comment.

Most of the crowd stayed right through until 11:45 o'clock when the last item was offered for bid.

On the auction itself, the sum of $324.05 was realized and this entire amount will be devoted to community purposes. First call on this money is for the purchase of a laryngoscope and accessory equipment for the Summerland hospital operating room, which the Rotarians promised to underwrite.

This equipment has already arrived at the Summerland hospital. At the auction, an electric ironer was given away to the purchaser of the first ticket sold by a Rotarian. Mrs. Norman Thompson was this lucky person.

From the sale of tickets on this ironer, $153.50 was realized and this entire sum goes to the Summerland hospital for any purchases it needs.

Every item was distributed to bidders, with apples and vegetables, as well as canned goods finding a ready response.

The experimental station donated 24 vases of beautiful flowers and these were also bid up quickly throughout the evening.

Summerland Brass Band played several numbers during the evening to the enjoyment of the crowd, while Mr. Ernie Hanham of Penticton entertained with sleight of hand tricks.

C.C.F. Party Forced Old-Line Parties Into Social Reforms Claims Mrs. Grace MacInnes

Pretty, witty and perfectly poised, Mrs. Grace MacInnes easily held her audience of nearly 70 persons on Tuesday evening in the Oddfellows' hall when she spoke on behalf of her brother, Bruce Woodsworth, C.C.F. candidate in the forthcoming by-election. Whatever the political beliefs of her listeners, they could not but be impressed with the sincerity of Mrs. MacInnes' belief in her party tenets.

Mrs. MacInnes compared the beginnings with the present strength of the C.C.F. party 16 years ago, when only 32 members met in Winnipeg to lay the foundations to what has grown into the official opposition in the Dominion and most provincial governments.

While she gave the old-line parties credit for bringing in some social reforms in those 16 years, she contends that they did so only under the increasing pressure of the ever-growing strength of the new party.

"It is a mark of our strength," she remarked, "that the C.C.F. has formed the Coalition. Today the Coalition is a living remembrance of C.C.F. strength in British Columbia."

She evoked a laugh from her listeners when she claimed that the two old-line parties had been living together for many years until the CCF forced the Tories to make an "honest woman" of the Liberals by joining in political wedlock.

Further quipping at the expense of the Conservatives, she said: "You people don't realize what a museum piece you have in the Ontario government. Here you have the only surviving Tory government in the whole British empire. Put it under glass quick, and preserve it, for before long it will have vanished forever from the face of the earth."

In outlining CCF aims, Mrs. MacInnes claimed that their way is the way of the Golden Rule, "which we learned at our mothers' knees, but which we have largely forgotten except on Sundays. We need to replace the capitalistic creed of 'do the other fellow before he does you' with 'do unto others as you would have them do unto you'."

That is why, she claimed, "we are top-heavy, as some accuse us, with school teachers and preachers, and are proud of it."

The achievements of the recently returned CCF government in Saskatchewan came in for a thorough review, with comparisons drawn in Saskatchewan's favor between their existing hospital insurance and B.C.'s recently established scheme. According to Mrs. MacInnes, Saskatchewan insurance provides free T.B., V.D. and cancer treatment, the latter a complete service from diagnosis to surgery and all intervening treatment. Mental patients are a free charge also, the responsibility of the government without crippling cost or humiliating investigation imposed upon the families of the sufferers.

Denounces Sales Tax

As for sales tax, Mrs. MacInnes scathingly denounced the new S.S. and M.A. tax as merely "trying to draw water with a sieve. The government taxes the people so they cannot buy the foods needed to maintain health, and then claims to goodheartedly use those funds to care for the people the tax has made ill."

On publicly-owned enterprises she quoted figures from Saskatchewan in their handling of insurance coverage.

"The Saskatchewan insurance office for the three years ending April 30 last had a net surplus of $240,000. When a profit company makes a net surplus of $240,000, where does it go? That is the $64 question. We don't get any of it."

"But in Saskatchewan that $240,000 went $60,000 into reserve funds which now amount to more than $2 million in bonds and mortgages, to carry forward the development of the province; and $180,000 of it went to the treasury of the government to be used for social services or welfare. That meant cash that did not need to be collected by taxes in other forms."

Mrs. MacInnes dealt at length upon the progress made in New Zealand, Australia and more recently Great Britain in social reforms, under governments based on the CCF formula.

"We want to build safely, sanely and surely, that the resources of this great province and of the Dominion are used for the benefit of all the people, not to the enrichment of a few."

In speaking of her brother, Mr. Bruce Woodsworth, who is running against Mr. Browne-Clayton, Mrs. MacInnes stressed the party

Plan Lights For Ski Hill

Summerland's new ski jump and hill generally will have lights this winter if present plans of the Summerland Ski club materialize.

Present plan is to purchase a generator and attach it to the tow engine operating for skiers at the club premises in Meadow Valley.

On Tuesday, the council agreed to loan the skiers 2,500 feet of electric wire, worth about $80 for the purpose of providing lights for the ski hill and cabin this winter.

Ski Club officials Bill Snow and Bob Barkwill waited on the council on Tuesday and sought assistance on this project and the council agreed to make the loan of the wire.

Mr. Snow declared that this will be the only ski hill in the valley to have electric light facilities, and such will be a big asset in the holding of the Okanagan zone ski championships in February.

If the club is financially able, it will probably purchase the loaned wire next year, Mr. Snow declared.

Water Colors to Be on Display Here

A well-known English water-color artist, Miss Sophie Atkinson, will bring her work to Summerland soon for a two-day showing. Miss Atkinson has been showing her very fine paintings in several Okanagan centres, and has just completed a week's stay in Kelowna, where she was enthusiastically received.

Miss Atkinson's painting is noted for its delicacy of brush work in the gentle rural scenes she favors. English cottages surrounded by flower gardens are one of her favorite mediums, although she has also done a good many Canadian scenes.

Sponsored by the Women's Institute, Miss Atkinson will show her work here on the afternoon of Tuesday, November 16 and Wednesday, November 17 in the Oddfellows' hall.

MORE ABOUT

He stressed the need for co-operation among the growers and the labor office in making sure that needs are known by both parties and that placements are not made independently when the labor office has been requested to supply help.

A resolution of commendation to Col. C. E. Wood, in charge of the farm labor service this year with the request that the scheme be continued in 1949 was passed.

When election of officers was introduced, Chairman Bentley remarked that he had been criticized as head of the Summerland local in the past year and urged the growers to choose another chairman. However, the meeting voted him back to the chair unanimously.

When the subject of hail insurance was introduced, Eric M. Tait told of the growers' industry endeavoring on the one hand to obtain some subsidy arrangement with Ottawa to ensure that the entire crop is sold, and on the other end endeavoring to obtain special concessions to allow hauled and scab fruit on the market.

These two requests didn't add up, Mr. Tait remarked, and Ottawa merely asked the industry to make up its mind, in the meantime turning down the request for a special hauled grade on apples.

Want $5,000
Once again, Summerland local will take the lead in urging the executive to lay aside $5,000 for promotion of special research on behalf of the industry by the experimental station.

This was the unanimous decision of the local meeting and the growers seemed united in their approval of the work being carried on by Dr. R. C. Palmer and his assistants at the experimental station.

Dr. Palmer remarked that a large portion of the BCFGA grant has gone into research in cold storage and this has resulted in finding the problems—worse than was anticipated at first.

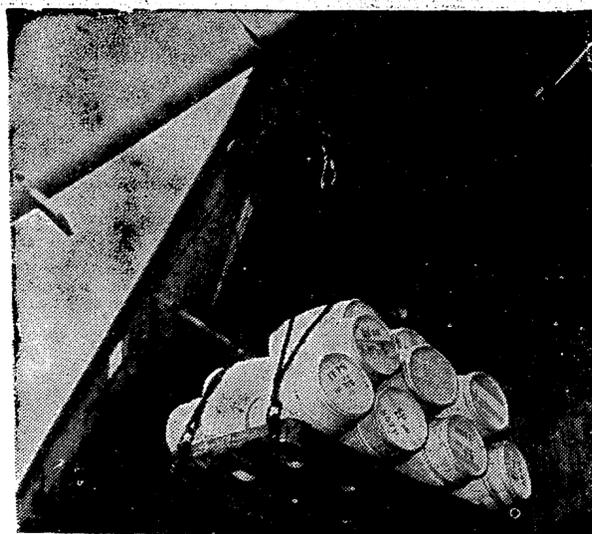

The experimental station head also declared the station would expend more time in studying soils, as some orchards in every district seem to need some other nutritive value other than nitrogen and boron. This statement was enlarged upon by Dr. J. C. Wilcox, who is in charge of this department.

Harvey Walton introduced the subject of yellowing leaves on pears and was informed that Dr. Woodbridge is making a special study of this complaint.

Electrical Service
Another resolution going before the convention from Summerland asks that the West Kootenay Power & Light Co. Ltd. provides an adequately improved electrical service so that shutdowns and expensive repairs to machinery can be avoided in future.

J. Y. Towgood spoke to this resolution pointing out the fluctuation in power which exists because of the overloads and the inability of the power company, as yet, to overcome the difficulties. Shutdowns and loss of motors through power failures are extremely expensive to the industry, Mr. Towgood stated.

Before concluding, the growers suggested that the situation regarding operation of farmers' tractors and similar equipment on the highways should be clarified.

Canon F. V. Harrison Officiates At Wedding of His Only Daughter

Canon F. V. Harrison officiated at the ceremony on Saturday afternoon, November 6, when his and Mrs. Harrison's only daughter, Suzanne, became the bride of Mr. William Ferguson Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Evans, at one of the largest weddings of the season.

St. Stephen's church was the setting for the lovely wedding, and was beautifully decorated with a profusion of golden and mauve chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. C. V. Harrison of Prince Rupert, the bride wore a shimmering ivory satin gown with lace bodice and lily-pointed sleeves. The full illusion net veiling frothed to the floor over the gown's long train, and her lovely bouquet of pink and white carnations featured a shower of satin streamers each tipped with a pink rosebud.

Mrs. R. Spencer of Vancouver, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, and wore gold velvet, while Miss Nonie Carruthers of Pentiction, as bridesmaid was gowned in a similarly styled frock of green velvet. Both carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums.

Dr. W. Evans of Vancouver attended his brother as groomsman, and ushers were Mr. John Benest and Mr. Anthony Embleton of Victoria.

Wedding music was played by Mr. George Hack of Pentiction, and Mr. Walter Wright, also from Pentiction sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

More than 250 guests attended the reception held at the Parish hall, when Mrs. Harrison received her guests in a lovely blue crepe gown effectively set off with grey accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. C. P. Evans, wore a most beautiful frock of rust crepe with matching hat and accessories. Both wore corsages of orchids.

At the lovely bridal table centered with a four-tiered wedding cake flanked by silver candelabra and white tapers, Mrs. C. G. Benest, Miss Marion Cartwright and Mrs. D. L. Sanborn presided at the urns. Mr. C. J. Huddleston

Car Plunges Over Bank to Drop 200 Feet

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Burns were taken to Kelowna hospital for treatment on Tuesday, Nov. 2 following an automobile accident when their car rolled over the bank and dropped two hundred feet down to the lakeshore.

The accident occurred at Trepanier, about a mile and a half north of Peachland.

Constable T. Thorsteinson of Summerland was called to the scene and an ambulance was summoned from Kelowna.

A third occupant of the car, Glen Ferguson, of Peachland, was a passenger in the back seat of the car, which was returning south from Kelowna. He was asleep at the time and did not know how the accident occurred.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns operate the Aldon Coffee Bar in Peachland. They were taken to Kelowna hospital for treatment and are reported to be recovering well from their accident.

TEN REPLIES TO BUSINESS OPENING

Ten persons are interested in establishing an upholstery business in Summerland, Secretary Lorne Perry of the board of trade has announced. He recently advertised at the coast that there is an opening for this type of business here and received instant response.

These replies are being turned over to Mr. Harry Beeman of the Summerland Furniture, who will carry out further negotiations.

Nova Scotia Looks To B.C. Apples for Quality

HALIFAX—Christmas will be marked at the City Home with B.C. apples.

"When we buy B.C. apples, we know what we are getting," Superintendent A. E. Ettinger said today.

He described home-grown Nova Scotia apples as "not a good buy", and said they are often sold under "dishonest pretences."

With B.C. apples, he said "we know just how many apples there are in the box."

"But when we buy Nova Scotia apples we don't know whether we will get 50 apples or 500 apples."

THE BEST IS FREE
Not so many years ago more than half the children who suffered from diphtheria died in spite of treatment. The death rate often reached as high as 80%. Whooping cough has been a deadly foe of the baby for years. These dangers have been largely overcome by immunization, the best preventive treatment for these contagious diseases yet discovered. Immunization is free.

Some are large, some small, and some just plain uneatable."

When this story appeared in last week's coast papers one or two natives of Nova Scotia now resident here were incensed at such an implication but the fact remains that B.C. apples find a ready sale in Nova Scotia because of their quality.

Pioneer of 40 Years Ago Dies In Pentiction

The passing on Saturday, November 6, of Mrs. Eva McClelland Garnett in Pentiction, marked the breaking of a link with Summerland's early days. The widow of Mr. Ed. Garnett, whom she married in Verdun, Manitoba in 1905, she and her husband stopped in Summerland en route back from their California honeymoon to visit their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Garnett, and here they remained.

Mr. Garnett bought the livery stable in lower town from Mr. English, and the couple established their home and brought up their children here until 1917, when they moved to Carseland, Alberta.

Mrs. Garnett was born in Hull, Quebec, in 1876, and spent her girlhood in Manitoba. Mr. Garnett predeceased her in Alberta in 1927, and from that time forward she spent her time divided between Carseland and Summerland. Two years ago she came to Pentiction to reside with her son George until her death last week.

She leaves to mourn her passing two sons, George of Pentiction and Joseph of Carseland, and one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Carscadden of Seattle. There are 7 surviving grandchildren, and among nieces and nephews are Mrs. F. R. Steuart, Mrs. Roy Smith and Mrs. George Williams of Summerland. One brother is resident in Verdun, Manitoba, and another brother in Vancouver.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday, November 9, from the Pentiction Funeral chapel, with Rev. R. P. Stobie officiating. Pallbearers were Mr. A. E. Smith, Mr. H. F. Lewes, Mr. Fred Gartrell, Mr. Herbert Dunham, Mr. Charles Wharton, and Mr. Robert Cuthbert, all of Summerland. Interment took place in Pentiction cemetery.

Three Big Wins for Local Hoop Teams Over Vernon In Opening Games Here

It was a big opening night for Summerland basketball at the school gym last Thursday evening as three Vernon teams went down to defeat at the hands of local hoopsters.

Summerland's fast-breaking Int. A squad took the measure of the Vernon seniors in a thriller, this feature being captured by a single point, 32-31. Three baskets in a row by Nesbitt kept the Summerland squad in the running during the last quarter and staved off the determined rally by the northerners.

Jack Dunham was the sharpshooter who kept Summerland out in front most of the game, while Nesbitt's six points in the final few minutes meant the difference between a win and a loss.

These two players contributed all but six points of the locals' total, while Jack Inglis and Buts Barnett were the top men for the visitors.

First half was slow, with Vernon taking a one-point lead, 12-11 into the second period. But the third quarter proved Vernon's undoing as the locals outscored them 13-8 and provided a lead which meant the difference.

C. J. Huddleston, honorary president and Keith McLean, club vice-president, officiated at the opening ceremony on Thursday, with the former congratulating the local teams of their showing and expressing the hope that Summerland fans would support the club during the fall and winter season.

Took Early Lead

In the opening contest, Summerland girls hopped out in front and never looked back, to win by a 30-18 count. Olive Mason, Bev Fleming, Evelyn Heichert and Doris Cristante were the high point-getters for the winning local squad, while "Corky" Jones was tops with 10 points for Vernon.

Summerland Int. B's had as tight a tussle as their older competitors, when they met the Vernon Int. A's in the second contest of the evening. The local team staved off another Vernon rally to win 29-26, with Vernon being ahead 17 to 12 at the halfway mark.

Wally Day was again the mainstay of the locals' offensive, garnering 14 points. It was the work of Day and Wally Cristante in the third period when their ten points didn't receive a reply from the visitors that decided the contest. Vernon outscored the local in the other three quarters, but the third one was sufficient to produce the win.

Team Lineups

Vernon girls: Leonard, "Casey" Jones 2, "Corky" Jones 10, Ann Bradford, Montgomery, Hale 2, Johnson 4-18.
 Summerland girls: Mason 8, Ward 1, Fleming 6, Metters 2, Heichert 7, Cristante 6, Kean-30.
 Vernon Int. A—Monahan, Tripp, Morris, Graves 10, Hopping, Stewart, Koshman, Jones 3, Douglas 13-26.
 Summerland Int. B—W. Day 14, Jomori, D. Hack 6, Thornthwaite, Holmes, Cristante 4, Kato, Elliott, McRae 5-29.
 Vernon Seniors—MacVickers 2, Koshman 6, Munk 2, Borto, War 4, Barnett 8, Inglis 9-31.
 Summerland Int. A—McLean, Dunham 15, Vanderburgh, Moore 2, Snow 2, Guidi, Thompson, Nesbitt 11, Rand 2, Adams-32.

PLANS HER FUTURE HOME HERE—

Doreen Dutton, Ace Canadian Figure Skater

Perseverance and determination to make good proved the dominant factors in the success as one of Canada's top figure skaters, Miss Doreen Dutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dutton, of Trout Creek, Summerland, who will be the feature skater at the opening of the new Kelowna Memorial Arena today and tomorrow, November 11 and 12.

At the age of 11, Doreen Dutton started her figure skating career on a home-made backyard skating pond. Her mother was determined that Doreen would have every opportunity to learn to skate as she believed that such practice would improve a bad leg condition, the result of an accident while Doreen was only three years old. At that time, Doreen fell on a needle and although the child was taken to Rochester's famous Mayo clinic and to London, England, the needle could not be removed and as a result she did not learn to walk until some time after the normal period.

Doreen and her mother, Mrs. Dutton, are convinced that skating is one of the best exercises possible to improve the condition of limbs which have been injured. Victims of war injuries and accidents have been advised to take up ice skating to strengthen their legs.

It was at Drumheller, Alta., that Doreen obtained her first skating lessons and after that the Duttons used to drive nearly a hundred miles to provide their daughter with lessons in figure skating at the Glencoe Skating Club in Calgary.

Now, after appearing in competitions and exhibitions at points all over the North American continent, Doreen is a professional at the Glencoe club, where she received her first expert tuition.

She leads fifteen Glencoe club skaters at performances at the new Kelowna arena today and tomorrow.

Doreen has fallen in love with Okanagan lake, since coming here to spend a portion of this spring with her parents at Trout Creek. She has her eye on some lake property and plans to build a home for herself in Summerland—on the lake.

One of Doreen's most prized possessions is a silver desk tray presented to her when she christened one of Canada's new corvettes at Collingwood, Ont., on August 16, 1941. This corvette was named for her home town, Drumheller, Alta., and as she had brought nationwide acclaim to this Alberta mining centre, Miss Dutton was chosen to participate in the christening ceremonies.

Pheasants Being Brought Here For Propagation

More than 20 pheasants were brought to Summerland on Tuesday afternoon from Penticton as the first stage of the Summerland Fish & Game Assn., project to raise pheasants for distribution in this district.

Faced with a rapidly-depleted stock of pheasants for sportsmen in this district, the local fish and game club decided to assist themselves to bring back this popular sport.

As a result, a start was made some months ago, but the club did not conform to the regulations laid down by the provincial game commission and the birds which were being raised for propagation purposes had to be released.

However, the red tape has now been circumvented, local game club officials state, and the project can proceed.

These twenty-five birds are being brought to Alf Johnston's farm, where the propagation plan will have its start.

SHADES OF YESTERYEAR...

Sincere they were, those embraces from distant relatives, and happy, too, the pleasant chatter that went around the dinner table. The big roast, the pickles, pies and other delicacies just disappeared like magic, and did they taste good!

Down through the years we have learned that much that was fine and good still remains so—unchanging in its character, unvarying in their goodness. As a compliment to hospitality and good food, Princeton Beer still takes its place at the head of the table.

VOTE AGAINST USE OF STREETS FOR SPEAKERS

Summerland council went on record Tuesday afternoon as being against the using of the municipal streets for public address systems for political purposes.

This was in reply to a request from Mr. H. Lemke for permission to place a loud speaker on the street to hook up with a political meeting in the Nu-Way Annex on Nov. 18.

"I am in favor of speakers for community purposes but not for political purposes," replied Reeve R. A. Johnston, giving his personal opinion.

The words "public nuisance" came into the discussion, and Mr. Lemke asked His Worship if he considered political meetings a public nuisance. "Not a bit," quickly replied Reeve Johnston, amidst general laughter.

Councillor Eric Tait pointed out that the council has no authority to stop the practice unless somebody complains that the noise is a public nuisance, as the municipality has no bylaw covering the question.

However, the entire council, with the exception of Councillor Harvey Wilson, who was not present, was unanimous in disapproval of the practice.

Coalition Group Names Executive; Meeting Friday

J. Y. Towgood was named provisional head of the newly-formed Coalition association in Summerland, to organize the newly-appointed executive at a meeting which was called for last night, after presstime.

On Monday evening, the Coalition forces agreed upon an executive of Mr. Towgood, W. R. Pownall, Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh, Colin McKenzie, W. G. Rempel, Harvey Walton and E. C. Bingham to form the nucleus of the Coalition organization in this district.

This committee is being brought together, will appoint officers, and commence organization of the campaign in favor of the Coalition candidate for South Okanagan, R. D. "Bob" Browne-Clayton of Okanagan Mission.

Similar organizations have taken form in Naramata, Peachland and Westbank, apart from the Kelowna area in South Okanagan electoral district.

Mr. Browne-Clayton, accompanied by Mr. Ted Dodd of Kelowna, visited Summerland on Tuesday and was introduced to a large number of residents in this area.

Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works, was billed as one of the chief speakers but it was found impossible to have him visit Summerland this week.

Public Meetings
The Coalition group holds its first public meeting tomorrow evening, Friday, Nov. 12, when Hon. R. C. MacDonald, minister of municipal affairs, speaks on behalf of the Coalition candidate, Mr. Browne-Clayton.

Besides the candidate, Mr. Robert Hayman, young Kelowna lawyer, will be on the platform.

On Tuesday night, Mrs. Grace McInnes addressed a public gathering on behalf of Mr. Bruce Woodworth, CCF candidate in the South Okanagan by-election.

Next CCF public meeting will be on November 18 when Hon. C. M. Fines, provincial treasurer of the CCF government in Saskatchewan and O. L. Jones, M.P. for Yale are the speakers.

Later, on November 25, Harold Winch, leader of the opposition in the provincial legislature and

MONTHLY ACCOUNTS PAYABLE

Accounts totalling $23,225.42, including $10,000 for school building payment on account were passed by the municipal council on Tuesday.

OFFER TURNED DOWN

Oliver Chemical Co. Ltd., offered $50 for the municipal cement mixer but the council on Tuesday turned down this offer as the mixer will be used for preparing hard surfacing for patching black top in the future.

WILL LIGHT LANE

Three street lights will be placed along the lane immediately south of Granville street, which was recently widened to forty feet width. This lane is being opened for parallel parking on the south side only, as soon as a bylaw can be drafted.

WOULD RE-OPEN ROAD

Councillor Eric Tait recommended to the council on Tuesday that the road going north from the bottom of the sandhill and connecting with the main Okanagan highway should be reopened now that the seepage problem has been mainly eliminated from use of sprinkler irrigation in that district.

WANTS ROAD GRADED

J. Cristante communicated with the council this week requesting that the road from Huddleston's orchard to his own should be graded and fixed. "It hasn't been graded for five years," he was quoted. The council agreed this work should be carried out on this portion of the old Peachland road.

Outdoor piping should be protected against possible freezing in winter.

Mr. Woodworth will address a public meeting here.

Dates for the appearance of Premier Byron Johnson or Hon. Herbert Anscomb, finance minister in the Coalition cabinet have not been announced here yet but either speaker is expected.

A Word on the By-Election

There seems to be a small minority among the old-line party "supporters" who would discredit the Coalition candidate, Bob Browne-Clayton, by hinting that there is discord among those who should be working to seek his election.

And some of these hints have been sounded by persons who have avowed themselves in the past as being bitterly opposed to socialism in any aspect.

The Review wishes to inform its readers that we have every respect for Bob Browne-Clayton as a young man who is honest in his thoughts and determined in his purpose.

Granted he has not had the experience in politics nor the opportunity to delve into some of the intricacies of political life which have come the way of those of his line of thought who are evidently trying to discredit him.

This Valley has had many outstanding men rise to positions of prominence in a short time but who, at the start, were lacking in the polish and knowledge which only practice and experience can bring.

May we just remind you of such men as Hon. Grote Stirling, A. K. Loyd, E. J. Chambers and J. R. J. "Jock" Stirling. They were pretty "green" at the outset, and we can remember the beginnings of these men in public life.

We grant there has been some discord in the Coalition ranks... can you imagine throwing together old seasoned campaigners who used to be at each others throats, and telling them to love, honor and obey, without some preliminary skirmishes?

But those preliminary snarls have been untangled. Those who felt slighted have been appeased. The campaign among the representatives of the two old-line parties seems to be growing in pace every hour.

The B.C. Financial Times, published at Kelowna, whose management has been decrying socialism for years, seems to be the main medium which has been sniping at Browne-Clayton, apart from the CCF followers, themselves.

The Times not only is responsible for the statement that some Conservatives are betting 5 to 1 on a CCF victory, but also says that the Tory element in the Coalition is peeved over Browne Clayton's selection because there was a better man ready to say "Yes" and then backed out.

There is no secret that a number of better-known men were urged to allow their names to stand, but they weren't prepared to take the plunge.

Bob Browne-Clayton is probably not the best candidate the Coalition in South Okanagan could have trotted out, from a standpoint of being known throughout the constituency, but we guarantee that the Coalition could not have found one with a better background of integrity and honesty of purpose.

We do not bring this topic before our readers with any idea of plugging for one candidate against another. The CCF have another, earnest young man as their candidate, a man whom those who believe in a socialistic platform are proud to present. He has a political family background behind him, of which he can well be proud.

But we definitely do not appreciate the comments of a few who are evidently disgruntled and are hinting that the old-line parties are dissatisfied with the young man of their choice. We do not believe that presents the true picture as we observe it at present.

John Newton Committed For Trial at Assizes on Charge of Manslaughter

John S. Newton, young Summerland truck driver, was committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter at the conclusion of the preliminary hearing before Magistrate H. Sharman in Summerland police court on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 18.

One of the features of the hearing was the refusal on the part of Magistrate Sharman to have included in testimony a statement alleged to have been made by the accused to the police following the accident which resulted in the death of William J. Tullett, elderly Summerland pioneer, on the Giant's Head road, about 5:30 o'clock on October 15.

Corporal A. G. Brabazon, conducting the prosecution on behalf of the B.C. Police, attempted to have this statement admitted as evidence. The defense, represented by A. D. C. Washington, Penticton lawyer, protested this admission on the legal grounds that the prosecution should prove that there was no compulsion upon the accused to make the statement.

As the defense could not be called upon to give any evidence at this preliminary hearing, Magistrate Sharman ruled that he would leave to a higher court the decision as to the admissibility of such a statement.

Voters List Takes Jump Of 58 Percent

An increase of 58 percent in three years resulted in South Okanagan voters' list when the final date for registering rolled around on Saturday, October 30, Mr. E. Ross Oatman, registrar of voters and provincial government agent at Kelowna reveals.

The list closed for the forthcoming by-election on October 30 with a total of 12,046 names. This was a complete new list as the 1945 list was entirely scrapped, it having become completely out of date.

In 1945 there were only 8,159 names on the South Okanagan provincial voters' list, thus there has been an increase of 4,787 names or 58 percent.

West Summerland has increased from 1,015 in 1945 to 1,542 this year while Kelowna has jumped from 3,681 to 5,671, the biggest individual increase by numbers, although the percentage is not up to the average. The West Summerland increase is 51 percent.

Summerland remains virtually the same as in 1945 with an increase of only three voters.

Following is a detailed list of voters' numbers by divisions:

No. Polling Division	1948	1945
1 Bear Creek	46	45
2 Bonvoulin	405	141
3 East Kelowna	381	208
4 Ellison	171	105
5 Glenmore	351	202
6 Kelowna	5,671	3,681
7 Naramata	554	254
8 Okanagan Centre	187	80
9 Peachland	454	303
10 Rutland	1,428	711
11 South Kelowna	530	312
12 Summerland	464	481
13 Westbank	852	227
14 West Summerland	1,542	1,015
15 Winfield	521	315
Total	12,046	8,159

The prosecution produced only one new witness other than those who gave evidence at the coroner's inquest. Dr. W. H. B. Munn established death resulting from a brain injury and fractured skull, death occurring about an hour after the late Mr. Tullett was admitted to the Summerland hospital.

Alan Calvert, official weather recorder at the Summerland experimental station introduced the hours of sunshine record, showing the sun made its first appearance at 7:30 a.m. and disappeared behind the hills at 4:45 p.m. that day.

New Witness
D. L. Milne, who did not appear at the coroner's inquest told of being approached by Newton on the evening in question and asked to phone for a doctor and the police. He stated that Newton had declared that a man on a bicycle had been struck on the highway.

When he reached the roadway, Mr. Milne found a man lying on the west side of the road nearly opposite the centre of the intersection with the Wilson road, which connects the Giant's Head and Gulch roads.

(For the purposes of the hearing, the general north and south direction of Giant's Head road was used, although in that particular location the road does not travel in that direction.)

Constable I. G. Thorsteinson declared that when he arrived on the scene the truck was a "short distance" north of the intersection and the bicycle was south of the T-junction.

In answer to a question by Mr. Washington, Constable Thorsteinson informed the court that he had occasionally warned cyclists against riding on the left-hand side of the road but had not prosecuted any offenders in this regard.

Acting Municipal Clerk Gordon D. Smith submitted a copy of Municipal Bylaw 215 which calls for vehicles to proceed on the right hand side of the road and to pass on the left of vehicles travelling in the same direction.

It was not brought out in evidence at the preliminary hearing but had been discovered at the coroner's inquiry that the deceased man was travelling north on

School Pupils Get Holiday

School children in Summerland schools will have a holiday tomorrow, Friday, November 19, in commemoration of the birth of the royal prince on Sunday. This announcement was made by the deputy minister of education from Victoria, along with the recommendation that school classes hold special sessions this afternoon to inform the pupils about this event.

Remembrance Day Service Fails to Attract Crowd

Although the weather was mild and fairly clear, the turnout at the Cenotaph on the high school grounds to attend the service of Remembrance to those who fell in two wars was disappointingly small on Thursday morning, November 11.

There was a fair-sized representation of veterans on hand to parade to the Cenotaph, led by Legion President Alan Calvert.

An innovation this year was the appearance of the Summerland Brass Band, which played the marches for the parade and led the singing of hymns and the National Anthem. The service was aided greatly by the turnout of these musicians.

The actual service was in charge of the ministerial association with Rev. Canon F. V. Harrison, Rev. F. W. Haskins, Rev. H. R. Whitmore and Rev. W. S. Angell taking part in prayer, scripture reading and benediction.

President Calvert read the roll of honor of those who fell on active service in the two wars with the Legion members responding: "At the going down of the sun and in the morning We will remember them."

Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Veteran Tom Charley, following which the wreaths were laid at the base of the Cenotaph.

The hymns, "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and "Abide with Me" were sung by the congregation. This will probably be the last service at the high school grounds as plans are underway to move the Cenotaph to the new Living Memorial park-playground, where a plaque dedicating the names of those who died in World War II will be added to the memorial.

Bank of Montreal to Open Sub Agency in Lower Town To Care for Industry Area

Another indication of the progress being made in Summerland district comes with the announcement this week by Mr. James Muirhead, West Summerland Bank of Montreal branch manager, that a sub-agency office will be opened at the first of the year in lower town to serve that highly industrialized section of the community.

On Monday, Mr. Muirhead received official confirmation from his head office for the plans upon which he has been working for nearly a year.

This new sub-agency office will be opened in the store space now occupied by Mr. F. Gale, and owned by Mr. J. Govans, whose store is adjoining.

This building will be renovated and leased to the Bank of Montreal for the sub-agency purposes.

At the outset, this sub-agency will be open one day each week but when conditions warrant, especially in the busy packing and canning season, it is anticipated that the new office will be opened more often to give as good a service as possible to the hundreds who are employed along the lake-front.

Full banking facilities are being provided in this new office, Mr. Muirhead declares.

This sub-agency will be handled entirely from the West Summerland branch, with local employees carrying out the banking duties in lower town as required.

This move on the part of the Bank of Montreal is in line with its policy of extending services to

Funeral Services Friday for Late Mrs. P. G. Dodwell

Early Wednesday morning, November 17, there passed away at her home in Prairie Valley, Phyllis Mary Dodwell, wife of Philip G. Dodwell, well-known local resident and chairman of the School District No. 77 (Summerland).

A long-time resident of Summerland, the late Mrs. Dodwell came here from her native England with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. C. Napier Higgin, in May, 1910. She had resided here ever since.

In 1919 she married Philip G. Dodwell and besides her husband she is survived by two sons, Charles in Vancouver and Myles in the RCMP at Calgary; one brother, Mr. C. Noel Higgin in Summerland; and two sisters, Mrs. E. M. Hookham and Mrs. M. E. Colias, in Summerland.

Funeral services will be held from St. Stephen's Anglican church on Friday afternoon, November 19 at 3 o'clock with Rev. Canon F. V. Harrison officiating.

Baby Born on Royal Sunday

One baby was born to Summerland parents on Sunday, November 14, the birthday of the royal prince. The youngster is a girl, Gertrude Mary, the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Gartrell, of Summerland. The birth took place in the Penticton hospital.

No Major Changes Predicted for Growers Spray Calendar in 1949

No major changes in the 1949 spray recommendations were made by department of agriculture officials in their two-day closed sessions in Kelowna on November 5, 6 and 7, Alex W. Watt, district agriculturalist in Summerland announced this week in a valley-wide press release emanating from these important discussions.

However, the agriculturalists considered that some improvements have been made and it is likely that an earlier distribution of the spray calendar will result.

This annual session of the spray committee of the Okanagan Agricultural Club was held in Kelowna and comprised a two-day closed session among the officials of the Dominion and provincial departments of agriculture, and an open session on the third day which was devoted to a meeting between government officials and the representatives of spray manufacturers and their distributors.

At the closed session, department of agriculture officials discussed recent experiments dealing with the control of tree fruit pests and drafted the 1949 tree fruit spray calendar.

A new spray calendar for vegetable crops was also under discussion.

Browne-Clayton Calls for New Land Projects

"Eighteen thousand new people have moved into the Okanagan bringing with them $21,000,000 in investments," "Bob" Browne-Clayton, Coalition candidate in the South Okanagan by-election told an audience of 75 people in the IOOF hall last Friday night on the occasion of his first public appearance in Summerland.

Giving a short, concise talk, the young Coalition candidate declared "We welcome them," in referring to these new residents, but he also raised the question as to how the Okanagan is going to support this influx of newcomers.

"It is the job and duty of the government to review this situation," he continued, and declared that some surveys have already been made. He looked for the present boom to continue for two or three years more.

"Our only real asset in the Okanagan is land," he emphasized, "and we are only cultivating about half of our available land."

He called upon the government to introduce new irrigation systems and make the present systems more adequate.

"I will call for a commission to be set up to take over this work and develop this valley," he continued, pointing to the increase in power which will be available through the B.C. Power Commission for the North Okanagan once the Watschan lake power development is completed. He considered the West Kootenay should be called upon to provide better service for the South Okanagan.

"With cheaper power will come industry to provide steady work for our citizens," Mr. Browne-Clayton prophesied. Then he turned to the question

Hospital Will Not Meet All Bills This Month

For the first time in many years, the Summerland Hospital Society will not be able to meet all its accounts payable. Salaries will be met this month but some of the October monthly trading accounts will not be paid.

This was the story released at Tuesday's directors' meeting of the Summerland Hospital Society, which is faced with dwindling returns in the face of high costs of operation.

Ward rates were raised one dollar in each instance at the first of November but the funds are still short.

Out of $1,200 in drafts issued in the past month about $500 has been collected, but there is still more than $7,000 outstanding on the hospital books.

At the end of October, the hospital society had a bank overdraft of $1,238.60. At the present rate of expenditure, the hospital will be in "the red", about $4,000 by the end of the year.

There are few patients in the hospital at present, the matron, Miss M. Bennet reporting on Tuesday night that only four patients were in the hospital then.

Well Attended

Closed meetings were presided over by R. M. Wilson, assistant district horticulturist at Kelowna and the open session by L. Godfrey, district sales manager of the agricultural chemicals division of Canadian Industries Ltd., Vancouver.

More than eighty persons from all parts of Canada and the United States attended the joint meeting among whom were: Dr. P. D. Peterson, plant pathologist, Stauffer Chemical Co., New York; Dr. E. P. Breaker, entomologist, Western Washington experiment station, Puyallup, Wash.; and Charles Jefferson, inspection assistant, pesticides, division of plant industries Ottawa.

Dr. James Marshall, outstanding Okanagan pest control expert, was called to meetings in Ottawa and was unable to be present at the Kelowna gathering.

Confidence in the Future

THE Bank of Montreal, in deciding to establish a sub-agency in Summerland to care for residents in that section as well as the large number of employees in the industrial firms located there, has indicated a confidence in the continued progress of this community.

The bank does not expect to profit materially by this move, but it is providing a service to that section of the municipality which has long been needed. Although the sub-agency will only be open one day a week at present, as conditions warrant the number of opening days will increase.

Who can tell, some day this new sub-agency may become a full-fledged branch serving a highly industrialized section of a much-larger community.

Education Week

ALTHOUGH Summerland schools are not holding "Open House" to commemorate Education Week, November 14 to 20, because of the renovation of the elementary school now being undertaken, it will not be amiss to stop and consider the need of our halls of learning for continued support on the part of parents and the public generally.

"Education is Big Business" was a headline chosen by one of our contemporaries last week in discussing the subject of education generally. To educate the children of today so that they may become the good citizens of tomorrow is one of the most important businesses we have today, and it costs a lot of money, as well.

The Canadian Teachers' Federation has some pointed things to say about "consistency," which is termed the most fundamental principle in a youngsters' upbringing.

"If a pre-school child is told one thing by Mother and a different one by Father, he becomes confused and does not learn," explains the teachers' group. Consequently, if he is taught one thing at school and another at home, then the confusion heightens.

"Education is a co-operative endeavor. Teachers, parents and the public must work together all the time—the one cannot function without the help of the others."

To bring about a spirit of partnership in a great enterprise, teachers must learn about the parents, the parents must learn about the teachers and the community must learn about the school.

In Summerland we are endeavoring to improve conditions in our schools so that pupils will want to attend. If we reach the point where pupils look forward to school because of the pleasant surroundings and the interesting work being taught in a careful manner, then the future generation will get the most out of its schooling.

Road Construction

FROM most parts of the province, with the exception of the East Kootenays, words of praise have been uttered in recent months regarding the great progress made this and last year in construction of permanent hard surfaced roads throughout British Columbia's most-populated sections.

This is a great change in attitude as the hue and cry in B.C. has been for better roads as long ago as most of us native sons can remember. And may we add that it is a gratifying change.

Hon. E. C. Carson and his department officials have received more praise in the past few months on the completion of various sections of highway than probably any other department in the provincial government.

In this area, the section from Deep Creek to the westside ferry has now been completed and provides a wide, modern thoroughfare, properly black-topped. South of Pentiction to the border, the main traffic artery is completed.

West of the Okanagan, the link with the Hope-Princeton highway has been opened, completely hardsurfaced. Driving time has been cut in half from the Okanagan to Princeton, with dangerous curves and steep hills eliminated.

That leaves us the stretch from Deep Creek south to Pentiction, and it is quite in the realm of possibility that next year will see the top road north from Summerland widened and re-surfaced to conform with the rest of Okanagan highway. What is to be done from Pentiction north to Summerland remains a problem.

We have been informed that a fifty-foot beam span is to be erected over Trout Creek to eliminate this bottleneck which has proved so dangerous to traffic.

There has been a great deal of conjecture as to the possible location of the Summerland-Pentiction road. Some people believe that the expense of a bridge over deep Trout Creek canyon near the experimental station would be the logical step to take. Others believe the road should continue along the lakefront, with corners eliminated by fills and cuts.

No announcement has been made from the public works department as to the location of this road. A survey was promised early this year but there has been no indication that the public works engineers have come to any decision.

There is a great deal of commercial life tied up with the probable location of the highway. Thousands of dollars have been expended or are to be expended in catering to tourists' needs along this route.

We believe that it is time the public works department made its survey, announced the most logical location for this road and thus put an end to the suspense.

U.E.F.B. Is Your Opportunity

YOU will see in the news columns of this paper a story which has to do with a national organization, recently created, which goes by the letters U.E.F.B. The letters stand for United Emergency Fund for Britain and the report, we believe, will interest every reader.

Today the people of Britain stand in greater need of a tangible expression of our neighborliness and kindness than at any time since the dark days of 1940. They need our help. They need to know that we appreciate their courage and their devotion to the fundamentals of democracy; that we, here in Canada, have not forgotten why it is that the mother country has fallen on lean and hungry days.

Today, Britain has the weary ration system, the standing in queues for barely enough food for subsistence, the almost intolerable frugality of food and dress and pleasures which surely must tax and strain the most persistently optimistic soul.

The Inside Story

By AGROLOGIST

Edwin Smith was a welcome visitor at the Experimental Station last week. He has charge of the laboratory operated by the U.S. Bureau of Plant Industry at Wenatchee. The activities of this laboratory with respect to study of fruit harvesting, storage and transportation problems have been of great benefit to the north west fruit industry on both sides of the international border.

Actually, it is now over thirty years since Edwin Smith made his first visit to the Okanagan. Believe it or not, the first job he had after graduating from Cornell Agricultural College was the operation of a fruit pre-cooling plant in Summerland. In those days mechanical refrigeration was in its infancy and the pre-cooling was done by means of ice. Even in recent years, some Okanagan packing house managers have used ice to pre-cool stone fruits. This is exactly what happens when warm fruit is loaded into iced refrigerator cars.

On this visit, Edwin Smith came to study at first hand the operation of improved apple wiping machines which have been installed in several Okanagan packing houses. During the period when arsenate of lead was the recommended spray for the control of codling moth, apple growers in Washington State were forced to use expensive washing machines to remove spray residue. With the replacement of arsenate of lead by materials which are more effective against insects and less toxic to human beings, packing house operators in Washington now feel that they may be able to dispense with the use of washing machines.

It so happens that, owing largely to slight differences in climatic conditions, British Columbia apple growers escaped the heavy expenditures involved in the installation and operation of washing machines. North of the border we have been able to remove spray residue satisfactorily by the use of wiping machines. Local packing house managers are very glad to place at the disposal of our American cousins all information which has been gained regarding the designs and operation of apple wiping machines.

Edwin Smith was very favorably impressed with the experimental frozen pack chambers which have been installed recently at the Summerland experimental station. He has always been a great believer in frozen pack and for many years has grown garden peas in his own back yard to freeze for winter use.

Do, do do try to keep your soiled undies and stockings OUT of the bathroom. Husbands have a holy hate of that kind of litter, though they may not bat an eye at the sight of the living room s-t-r-e-w-n with newspapers.

At the same time, wives have a yen for smooth faces, men, so don't ALWAYS leave your shaving until the morning! Eh?

Make yourself a hat, lovey; there's a dandy pattern available for a circular little top-piece that would look smart above almost any hairdo and any face. A couple of bucks should fix the deal for you if you're willing to ply the needle and thimble it too.

Hope you planted a few hyacinths indoors this fall, so they'll fill your home with loveliness around Christmas, or shortly after. I haven't mine in yet, on account of being away for five weeks, but by this time next week they'll be in pots in some dark spot sending out thirsty roots that I hope to keep happily wetted.

Whatever you do, keep your shoulders back, and you'll feel that the world is on your side. You'll look a lot smarter too, and first thing you know you'll be bursting into song over the dishpan. Or do you sing with the suds anyway?

If your ankles are glim enough to make men's eyes stop, look and glisten, and ONLY if they are—should you tuck your tootsies into ankle-strap slippers. Otherwise you'll look like a fence post with a bracelet wound around it.

Your grandma would have called it a shawl, but it is a stole, and even if it's just a wide scarf with the ends turned up to make pockets, it's THE thing to swagger around in these days. You wear 'em with suits, coats, dresses, and often as not you have a hat to match. For evenings they come in velling, dimming ever so slightly the daring of that revealing strapless number of yours. (Or haven't YOU one, either?)

Isn't it grand having lettuce, tomatoes and grapes with us this winter. Did you ever eat lettuce with sugar and vinegar, by the way? Or tomatoes simply with olive oil? Well, you should.

And if you're lucky enough to have a family that thinks garlic should be cooked with and not nose-turned-up-at, how about sticking a clove of it in a roast of beef sometime and seeing for yourself just how you can set everybody a-drooling!

Right now seems to be a fine time to pick up remnants of drapery material, and some of them make jim-dandy cushion covers. Don't get any that your good man can't lay his weary head upon, either, or I'll put a crooked strap in your bed. After all, he pays for the things, so he ought to be able to use them. Right? Right!

Though there are now about sixty cases of influenza in the district there are very few serious cases, and many are of very mild type. All the inmates of the hospital are doing well, the only case at any time being serious being "Charlie", a Chinaman. Dr. Andrew, the only physician in the field, is of course, extremely busy.

The terminating of hostilities was duly celebrated by young and old on Monday night. Early on Monday evening the night's celebration was opened by a procession led by the Boy Scouts carrying the Kaiser in effigy, which was burned in front of the post office. No attempt was made at speech-making, but the crowd joined in cheers for the Allies and the singing of the National Anthem.

The New Look in Canada

Louis Blake Duff, in addressing the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Assn. in Niagara Falls, Ont., dwelt on the subject of Canada's new province-elect, Newfoundland. His treatment of this land's historical background and future possibilities provides an interesting commentary on one of the important steps Canada and Newfoundland are to make in 1949. Following is the text of his delivery:

Though a young man I am old enough to remember when Canada had a population of barely over five million people. Today we have thirteen million. 1948 will witness our largest increase in any one year. 1949 is going to excel the record of the present year. This, because of the natural increase due to births, an accelerated immigration and due to the fact that we are joining with us Newfoundland, with a population of 325,000 people. The middle of the century will make Canada a nation of over fourteen million people, so we are moving on. The gain in population may not be important except in this sense that it gives us a vast opportunity for a greater national achievement.

well as metal was probably in the minds of the authorities when they decided to reduce materially the size of the Canadian one-cent copper coin. The new coin will be slightly larger and a little thicker than our ten-cent piece.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

At this week's meeting of the council it was reported that parts for repair of the municipal tractor had not arrived and the tractor was laid off road work. Another accident at the point where the road coming from the Baptist church reaches the KVR road was the cause of the passing of a motion for the erection of a "stop" sign opposite this road and also on the hill coming down from Jas. Wilson's to the Gulch road.

Mr. Magnus Tait for the Trout Creek water users presented a request for assistance to repair the dam on Trout Creek point.

Two sawmills will add their output to Summerland business shortly. A company has been formed to take over the mill that was operated this season by Mr. Jas. Ritchie, which will be moved to Shingis Creek. Mr. Alf Richardson who formerly had a lumber business in Meadow Valley will be manager. Mr. Jas. Ritchie is moving his business to Garnet valley, where he is putting in a gasoline engine.

Mr. Adam Stark of Summerland won a car given by the Pentiction Legion at the opening of its new hall. His success in ticket-holding meant the winning of a new Graham-Paige sedan.

Freight trains are heavy just now, and trains with three engines are not uncommon passing up the line.

Leslie Gould expects to leave Monday on route for Hamilton, Ont. He will visit relatives at Tisdale on the prairies, on the way.

B. T. Washington starts work with Read's Garage on Monday and his brother George will take his position at Laidlaw & Co.

Ladies' full-fashioned silk hose are advertised at $1.20 a pair, while striped flannellets is currently selling at 8 yards for $1.00.

Next year on Dominion Day Newfoundland is to be one of us and I am afraid Canadians are not aware yet of how important that may be to our future. Let's talk about it.

It is a great island, tenth in size among the islands of the world—about the size of New York state. If you draw a line between Buffalo and Detroit, another line east and west through Farry Sound, you would have a rectangle about equal to the size of the great island. But it is not either for its size or its wealth that it is of most importance to us, but rather because of its position—a sentinel there to guard the mouth of the St. Lawrence and the great system that constitutes our inland waterways. We have indeed a great bastion for the defence of our own waters. Moreover we finish the task of John A. MacDonalld when in this confederation we make the physical completion of Canada.

It has been common enough in this country to refer to Newfoundland as the tenth province. Chronologically it is the tenth. But in other more important respects we must give it a higher number. It will be the first province in point of years. It is sixth in point of area and ninth in point of population.

How far spread is our Canada now! How far spread will our Canada be when next Dominion Day has rolled around? From Montreal to St. John's—by the north route is 1250 miles. Another 2000 miles and you are in Ireland. For 450 years Newfoundland has stood as a stronghold of peaceful and orderly life in this world of strife and dissension. She has made, in her time, a very valuable contribution of her own life and the life of other countries. We have there the oldest community in the New World, well called the Ancient Colony and more important than years is the fact that it has not failed to maintain its Anglo-Saxon character.

The Ancient Colony! Five years after Columbus discovered America, John Cabot with a crew of eighteen, sailed the good ship Matthew out of the Port of Bristol with her prow pointing west. On the 27th of May (1497) his far searching eyes saw the land. That was St. John's Day and it tells where we got the name of the chief city of the Ancient Colony.

Two months later, King Henry VII opened up his heart and made a grant to the adventurous sailor. In the annals of his reign the item is entered in these terms: "To hyme that found the New Isle, £10. The old king got 48,000 square miles and the greatest fishing ground in the world for £10.

The settlement of the Island did not come for nearly ninety years after the discovery. Sir Humphrey Gilbert brought out the sea (Continued on Page 6) a bicycle on the left-hand side of the Giant's Head road and the Newton truck overtook him, the accident occurring when the truck was passing on the right-hand side of the bicycle.

Statement Excluded

Following the legal argument concerning the admission of the Newton statement, Magistrate Sharman ruled that as this was only a preliminary hearing and different from a regular trial that he would exclude the statement.

Final witness was the chief one for the prosecution, as Walter Kampe was the only eye witness who could be called.

On the evening of Friday, Oct. 15, Mr. Kampe was proceeding in his horse and wagon along the Giant's Head road and was just turning off onto the Wilson road when he heard a truck coming from the south and then a crash.

"I didn't see the truck until it was beside me," witness declared. "I heard the crash and saw a man flying through the air above the deck of the truck. The body was on the left-hand side of the truck."

Mr. Kampe explained that he stopped his horse, went over to the man and turned him on his back. The man was lying about fifty feet from his wagon and the accident occurred almost in the centre of the intersection, he stated.

The witness declared that the truck did not stop until it reached the third telephone pole north from the intersection, then it backed up to the corner.

As soon as the driver came over, Mr. Kampe stated he said: "John, you'd better go and get a doctor right away."

Newton said he didn't think he hit anybody, Kampe declared.

In answer to further questioning, Kampe declared that the bicycle was found about 10 to 15 feet behind the man lying on the roadway.

Asked if he shouted at the Newton truck, Kampe replied: "I shouted at him but I don't think he heard me."

Under cross-examination by Mr. Washington, Kampe admitted "I sure was upset, not exactly excited but a little scared."

Time Element

He stated that it took him about five seconds to reach the man lying on the road, a few seconds to turn him over and that it was only two or three seconds before Newton came along and helped him move the unconscious man to the side of the road.

Corp Erabazon then took the stand and declared that from the approximate centre of the intersection to the third telephone pole is 319 feet.

Mr. Washington, in asking for a dismissal of the charge, declared that the prosecution had not proved any "wilful misconduct" as worded in the charge.

"The Crown has proved that Tullett was killed and was found on the road, and the cause of death but there is no evidence proving this charge of manslaughter," Mr. Washington argued.

He declared that there might possibly be an infraction of the municipal bylaw but on the evidence of Contable Thorsteinson, "lots of bicycles go on the left hand side of the road."

Stresses Distance

Corporal Erabazon, contended that the prosecution only needed sufficient evidence to warrant commitment and had established a "probable case of guilt". He stress

Co-op Makes Another Payment

Another crop payment was made by the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Assn. to its shipping members on Tuesday, November 16, when cheques totalling $38,000 were mailed.

This payment represented the final pool on apricots and advances on plums, Transcendent crabapples, Wealthy and McIntosh apples.

Popular Opera Airs in Show Coming Here

It is not possible to see a dozen operas in one night, but an opportunity to hear the song-hits from many of the favorites is being provided Summerland citizens next Thursday, November 25, when the Rotary Club of Summerland presents Basil Horsfall Singers in "A Night in Vienna" at the Ellison Hall.

Entire net proceeds from this show will go towards the Summerland Brass Band funds, Rotarians decided last Friday. Rotarians and members of the brass band are embarking on a ticket selling campaign this week. All seats at Ellison hall are reserved and the reserved seat plan is available at Green's Drug Store.

This Basil Horsfall production is on its third Canadian tour, and consists of young Canadian singers who have played the principal roles in well-known operas.

Basil Horsfall has endeavored to stem the tide of young Canadian musicians emigrating to the U.S.

"I've seen our best singers pouring across the line," he says. "We train them here only to be induced to leave for the U.S. So I decided to find out if there isn't a field in Canada which would, at least, stem the emigration of excellent talent. I proved there was. The

'Pirates' to Have Frank Mossop as Musical Director

"Oh! Is there not one maiden here whose homely face and bad complexion have caused all hopes to disappear of ever gaining man's affection."

The bright and "catchy numbers of the ever-popular "Pirates of Penzance" will soon be all around Summerland, as the Singers & Players' Club prepares for its spring production.

Some difficulty has been experienced in finding a musical director, as Mr. W. A. "Bud" Steuart, who made such a conspicuous success last year with "Pinafore" felt unable to give the amount of time necessary to a work of this sort but the society has now been fortunate enough to obtain the help of Mr. Frank Mossop, who has taken over the rehearsals.

Mr. Mossop, of course, needs no introduction to Summerland, as he was greatly instrumental in piloting the Operatic Society to the heights of success attained in the period 1923-30, in fact, the last performance of "The Pirates" in 1930 was under his baton.

Now that this hurdle is over and rehearsals are commencing in earnest, strong support will be forthcoming for this production and already a talented group of principals, fair maidens, and robust pirates and policeman, are busy.

It is hoped, also, again to have the collaboration of the instrumental group which did so well in "Pinafore"

It appears that the Singers and Players will be having a good time with the "Pirates of Penzance" and anyone interested will be welcomed at the practices on Tuesday evening at the high school.

ed the fact that the witness Kampe had declared the truck did not stop for a distance of 319 feet after the accident.

In rebuttal, Mr. Washington contended that Kampe's evidence was inconsistent, in that he had said only a few seconds had elapsed before Newton joined him at the scene and it would not be possible to back a truck over 300 feet in that time.

"There has been very little evidence produced to indicate that Tullett was killed by this truck and no evidence which way Tullett was riding," Magistrate Sharman pointed out, but it was obvious that there had been a collision between Tullett and the truck.

As the court had refused to admit the alleged statement and it may contain important evidence, the magistrate decided to commit the accused man to trial by a higher court.

Bail was set on one surety of $500.

Evidence was taken down by Mr. Lloyd Griffin, court stenographer, Penticton.

Canadian response was instantaneous, emphatic and highly gratifying."

Basil Horsfall is a musician-turned-producer who commenced his career in England before coming to Canada.

In "A Night in Vienna", Mr. Horsfall has combined the dramatic with simplicity. The program opens and closes with two great acts, in costume, from two great operas; in between there is a veritable carnival of song and duet—in rapid-fire order—from other operas and operettas.

Among the stars who will appear here are Boris Fawcett, Ruth Popeski, Karl Norman and Winifred Hutt.

faring settlers with their wives and families and the real history of the island had begun. He promulgated three laws:

1. To establish the Church of England.

2. Giving himself power to name as a traitor any one who interfered with him or his plans.

3. Giving him power to crop the ears of any who spoke disrespectfully of the king.

The events which led up to the approval of Confederation last July 23 may be briefly stated. Newfoundland because of its position and the nature of its products, suffered from a high cost of living. The colonies suffered too, from a low income return. That left government with a meagre field for taxation.

Deficits ran for years with mounting gravity and were met from year to year with public borrowings until at last the pile grew intolerable. The Colony surrendered responsible government rather than default in her debt. Management of affairs went into the hands of a commission and there it remains still.

The first thing the commission did was to refund the debt and have it guaranteed by the United Kingdom with an interest rate of 3%. This made a saving of two million dollars a year in interest and is the principal reason that the island now has a surplus of twenty-eight million dollars.

But it is a fact, too, that the public services have been starved and at last it came to a point where the people were determined they should take a hand again in running their own affairs.

They had three courses before them:

1. To assume the independence they lost before the commission era of fourteen years ago.

2. To join with the United States. Indeed there was much to be said in favor of this as I shall attempt to show later.

3. To join with Canada.

After two votes, one in June and one on July 23, the Island decided to throw in her lot with Canada. The vote, however, gave a very narrow majority but there is this to be said: The Island has 25 electoral districts. Eighteen of these favored Confederation.

I was in one community, Saint Anthony on the night of August 1. The good ship Pioneer nosed her way into the harbor through a fog so thick you couldn't spit in it. There in the town a celebration was going on. Guns were being fired and the skies were rent with rockets. Word had come that day that Confederation was a fact. St. Anthony had a right to celebrate. At that poll 400 votes were cast. Only ten were against Confederation.

Opposition centred in St. John's with its population of 63,000 people. Why? It would shift the centre of political gravity. It might pass the ruling sceptre to other hands. It might depreciate the values of great stores of merchandise upon which heavy taxes had already been paid.

Outside of the southern areas I raised the question of the vote everywhere I went and it is a fact that I met only three people who opposed the Confederation idea.

Now what is this deal we are entering into? Are the terms just and adequate for Newfoundland? What is our part of it? Of the Island's debt of 73 million dollars we are going to take over 62½ million dollars, or ¾ of it. This will leave Newfoundland with a debt of ten million dollars.

The surplus of 28 million dollars belongs to the Island. It is to be used for an extension of services in schools, roads, public welfare, etc. Canada is to make a transitional grant for twelve years to help the Island over the stile of the period of change.

This grant begins at $3,150,000 and ends at $350,000 at the end of twelve years. It has been estimated that the contribution of Canada will exceed by $17,000,000 the income Canada will receive from the new province.

But the last word has not been said. At the end of eight years an investigation will be held to see if the terms in actual application have been equitable. We shall have opportunity to right wrongs that have been revealed in the practical and actual working out of the agreement between us.

It is of tremendous importance that we should fully understand the business circumstances of Newfoundland. Last year she bought $43,000,000 worth of goods from Canada, $26,000,000 from the United States and four from the United Kingdom. That is, 60% of all her purchases were made from us.

Now let's see the exports. Newfoundland exported to the U.S. $24,000,000 worth of products, to Europe $12,000,000, to the United Kingdom $11,000,000 and to Canada $9,000,000. That is, we buy only 18% of her exported goods. Now you see that for every $9 we bought from Newfoundland, we sold her $43 worth.

That is an unbalance that the new order will have to remove if everyone is to prosper. That is the balance that led many a Newfoundlanders to vote against Confederation.

How different is the case with the United States. There, Newfoundland's exports and imports are about even. I prophesy that if this marriage of 1949 ever ends in a bill of divorce, it will be because of that vast discrepancy between what we buy and what we sell to our neighbor. And I prophesy if we should have a long and untroubled marriage it can only be brought about by a vast increase in our purchases from the Ancient Colony.

Newfoundland is valuable to us because it is the closest point to Europe, our guard on the Atlantic. Geography determined that Newfoundland should witness the birth of the cable. That was in 1858. The Niagara and Agamemnon parted in mid Atlantic and on the same day the one landed in Trinity Bay, Newfoundland and the other in Valencia, Ireland, having stretched over two thousand miles of gutta percha coated wire across the Atlantic.

Now we have sixteen cables running out from Trinity Bay. Transatlantic wireless was born there in 1901. Eighteen years later Alcott and Brown set out from there on the first transatlantic aeroplane trip. Who can estimate the value of Newfoundland as an air base in the Great War? Who can estimate its value today as a base in peacetime? Nine scheduled air routes go out from Gander to the Old World.

In this dangerous age you are in what can be said for Newfoundland in terms of defence, in terms of strategy? Newfoundland is the Norway of the New World and it has 100 bays that would give com-

Used Clothing Collection Depot is Planned by Women's Institute Here

Formation of a collection depot at Borton's store on Fender street, West Summerland, for used clothing needed both by local people and to send to Europe was announced following the monthly meeting of the Women's Institute last Friday afternoon.

This energetic organization will endeavor to collect used clothing at this depot, which will also be used one day per week as a sorting and packing centre.

In discussing this subject, Institute members asked for assurance that the clothing would really reach European needy families and, also insist that the used clothing brought to the depot should be clean and usable, with at least six weeks' wear in the cloth.

Needed Clothing

This scheme will be tried out for three months with the idea of having a pool of clothing ready when any emergency arises. One member told of a need in this community, a family with three children who needed nightwear and clothing for school. This need had been cared for, she stated.

Another project which the Institute intends to assist in is obtaining books for the new libraries in plete shelter to the whole allied fleet.

Newfoundland has lacked people and it has lacked capital. It is made up for the most part of coastal settlements, 1300 in all, few of which have any connection with the interior of the Island or with each other. Great fisheries, great forests, great minerals, wait for the labor and skills of man, for enterprise and capital. Here is a tremendous opportunity for development and expansion.

We begin under the most favorable auspices. For our relations have always been most intimate, friendly and cooperative. We are both British. We owe allegiance to the same crown. We bring to the new relationship oceans of goodwill.

this district. The December meeting will take the form of a book shower for these libraries.

Mrs. R. F. Angus, of the home economics committee of the Institute, gave a demonstration on Friday of ironing a shirt in 4½ minutes, a demonstration found instructive by the members present.

Letters of thanks were read including one from Miss Theed's Institute in England, which received a parcel from Summerland Institute recently. The October parcel went to Diarsie, Fyfe, Scotland, at the request of Mrs. Angus McDonald, who had been a Scottish visitor at the September meeting of the W.I.

Handicrafts

The Institute also sent apples to the Solarium, and heard reports on Friday of the success of the handicraft exhibition which was satisfactory both from a financial standpoint and from an interest aroused in exhibits. The Institute may take a hand in arranging for exhibits to be placed at the Pacific National Exhibition at Vancouver next year.

Attention of the Institute was drawn to the $20,000 bylaw for the Memorial Parks community hall project, which will come before the voters on December 18. The cemetery committee recommendations for improvements to the area were also endorsed by the Institute.

When the cemetery work party was held on a recent Saturday afternoon, 37 workers were served refreshments by a group of Institute members, Mrs. Mair, Miss Scott, Mrs. Cruikshanks and Mrs. Blewett.

"I'VE THOUGHT THIS THING OUT..."

Says Tom Franck

I think I can make up my own mind better than any government official can do it for me. And that's why I'm plugging for our free opportunity democratic system. To me, it means freedom of choice; choice of education and vocation, choice of employer and of politics.

Like most young Canadians I want to choose my education and fit myself for the job or the profession I've decided on . . . not be told how and what to do by a politician two thousand miles away. If I'm capable—and who doesn't try to be—I'll succeed.

And what's more important, our free opportunity democracy makes it possible for others like me to get ahead as far and as fast as they can. What our politics are or who our families were doesn't matter. We'll make it on how well we do our jobs . . . not how well we know a political boss or how well we serve an all powerful political party.

I've thought this thing out. By comparison and on its own merits, our free opportunity democracy offers more to me—a student—than any Socialist or Communist state would. And by more, I mean more choice of what I want to do, more opportunity to succeed, more rewards if I make good, and a higher standard of living for everybody.

Certainly I want a free opportunity democracy. And because I want it, I'm going to work to defend it and improve it in every way I can.

B.C. Federation of Agriculture Will Discuss Dominion Marketing

Dominion natural products marketing legislation will be a major issue at the 15th annual meeting of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture in Hotel Vancouver, Vancouver, Wednesday and Thursday, November 24 and 25, just as it was at the first meeting of the federation in the Plaza Hotel, Kamloops, back in 1934 with E. D. Barrow, former minister of agriculture, presiding.

This year President "Jock" Stirling of Kelowna, will be chairman and he will be flanked by fourteen other directors representing the seven main divisions of agriculture in the province and the "miscellaneous" section.

Removal of school taxation from the land and removal of essentials in farm production from the application of the 3 per cent Social Security and Municipal Aid Act are requested in other resolutions.

Ranchers, sheepmen and farmers in the remote areas are urging more vigorous attention to the control of predatory animals. One general demand is a $5 bounty all the year around on coyotes. The bounty at present is $5 from April 1 until October 31.

Development of export markets to replace the United Kingdom is another subject. The suggestion is that the B.C. Department of Trade and Industry and the Dominion Department of Trade and Commerce send special missions to various countries to explore potential opportunities for trade, with the reciprocal angle a factor.

Compulsory use of iodized salt by livestock and dairymen, as proposed by the Okanagan health units and the Okanagan Agricultural Club, is likely to encounter opposition; one reason being the early disappearance of iodine from salt left in the open.

Convention speakers will include Hon. Frank Putnam, minister of agriculture, Wednesday morning; J. T. Hull, secretary of the Western Agricultural Conference, made up of the four western provincial federations and secretary of Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited, Wednesday afternoon; Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works, Thursday morning; Mrs. J. H. East, Keremeos, president of the Women's Institutes of B.C., Thursday afternoon.

At an extraordinary general meeting at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon, a resolution to amend the bylaws to provide for seventeen directors instead of the present fifteen will be ruled on.

GUIDE NEWS

This week many Guides passed their darning test, which is one more step toward obtaining 2nd class badges.

Rehearsals for the Christmas concert were very successful; many Guides having learned their solo parts already. The tickets should be on sale soon; funds raised will be in aid of summer camp; we hope to hold this year.

Meeting ended in the usual manner with the Guide prayer and singing of Taps.

Huge Volume of Cheques Are Taken by Banks

Canada's economy is at such a peak of activity that the chartered banks handle customers' cheques totalling $6.5 billions a month, Robert Rae, president of The Canadian Bankers' Association has declared.

Addressing the annual meeting of the association, Mr. Rae said more Canadians are using bank facilities than ever before. They are writing more cheques than ever before, with the result that debits to individual accounts average $6.5 billions a month, a volume of turnover equal to the deposits of the public once a month.

By handling and recording this huge volume of payments by Canadians to one another in the banks act as the bookkeepers of their millions of customers. It illustrates, also, the simplicity, facility and impartiality of banking service.

Mr. Rae gave a general review of economic and financial conditions in Canada in the form of a report to the 7 million Canadians who are bank customers.

He said the Canadian banking system had proved sound and safe under every test in recent memory. Then he continued: "The prime reason rests with our seven million customers. Their unwavering confidence in their banks has been decisive.

"It is due to the steadiness of these satisfied customers, their willingness to leave their savings with us, their resistance to undeserved criticisms, their unreadiness

After 16 years of guiding STELLA GORDON to and from work in busy downtown Montreal, TAM, a seeing-eye dog who is getting on in years, can now take things easy. Tam, who dislikes street cars and prefers "hitching" rides in autos is shown here with his mistress. Stella was recently married to Michael Hurtibise, and she says Tam thoroughly approves of their marriage. "You see Michael is a taxi-driver."

to accept dangerous economic doctrines, that the banks have been able to serve so well the people's needs in war, reconstruction and post-war production.

"I should like to assure each one of our customers of our great appreciation for their confidence, their loyalty and their sane immovability in the face of the winds of doctrine which, from time to time, beat about their ears.

"Our customers know by direct experience that the depositor control of his own money, the condition of his bank account and his regular transactions are strictly his own affair. His right to take his deposit or his borrowing account from one bank to another makes certain that competition is always at work to serve his needs. I am sure that our customers want that competition preserved."

In his general review of Canadian affairs, Mr. Rae found "a busy Canada", a nation that, apart from the United States, "is in a more prosperous condition than any other country in the world."

He predicted the Canadian people will not easily be led to scrap the free institutions of government and business that make this possible and have helped place the Canadian standard of living and way of life among the best in the world. Democratic processes and common sense will iron out any faults that may exist, including the combination of high prices and high taxes, which is not confined to Canada.

HIGH SCHOOL HAS VISITORS

The Summerland high school will hold open house this afternoon to parents and interested friends, in connection with Education Week which is being observed from Nov. 14 to 20. The elementary school, being in the throes of reconstruction, is not participating in the Open House plan this year.

Frank Harris Heads Weekly Newspapers

Emphasis in the B.C. Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Assn. has been on youth at the helm and at the Hotel Vancouver on November 5, Frank R. Harris, who succeeded to the managership of the Vernon News on the death of his father, the late W. S. Harris, was elected the new president of the B.C. weeklies.

He succeeds another comparatively young publisher, Irving Wilson, of the Port Alberni, West Coast Advocate.

Forums on production costs, makeup of weekly newspapers, looking to the future of printing equipment requirements and public relations topics brought out a good discussion on the part of weekly editors gathered at the Hotel Vancouver from all parts of the province, for three days, November 4 to 6.

Address by Premier

Premier Byron Johnson addressed the annual banquet on the evening of November 5, when Frank Harris was duly installed as president.

The windup session came on Saturday morning when the annual meeting of the B.C. Weekly Newspapers Advertising Bureau was held.

Mr. Lang Sands, of the Abbotsford-Sumas and Matsqui News was selected chairman, replacing Mr. Ralph White, of the Kamloops Sentinel, Mr. J. R. Armstrong, The Summerland Review, was named vice-chairman and Mr. A. W. Lundell, publisher of the Revelstoke Review was named secretary-treasurer, a post similar to his capacity in the B.C. Division of the Canadian Weeklies.

Receptions Held

The weeklies were hosts at a reception in honor of advertising agency members and their wives, while the publishers were guests of the Powell River Sales Co. Ltd., the pulp and paper group, printing ink and supply companies, and the Vancouver fine paper group.

Among those who led discussions were Dean Miller, editor of The Canadian Weekly Editor; Cecil Hacker, The Progress, Chilliwack; Robert Dunlop, Vancouver Sun commercial printing department; Ken W. F. Cooper, Model Press Ltd., Saskatoon, and M. McPhee, Toronto Type Foundry Co. Ltd., Toronto.

Showing of the National Film Board release, The Home Town Paper, which is centered on the Vernon News plant and is a film which has been released all over the world, was one of the entertainment features.

Another fine film was observed on the operations of job printing automatic presses by the Toronto Type Foundry.

More Activity In Agriculture Urged by C.C.F.

"The farmer takes what someone else gives him and lets it go at that," said Eric Flowerdew of the Fraser Valley, provincial chairman of the CCF agricultural committee to a gathering of fifty delegates from sixteen CCF clubs in Yale at Summerland on November 6.

He urged more study by farmers, particularly of agriculture abroad and more activity by farm organizations.

"In Great Britain the farmers' union negotiates with the minister of agriculture for two weeks annually, setting prices, while here we send a minister of agriculture off to Ottawa without a word of instruction from us," added the speaker.

"With a CCF government the farmer, for the first time, is going to be put in a position to do something for himself. In other labor-farmer-government countries, the farmer-government countries, possibilities, and is willing to do so here."

The delegates discussed in detail the necessary points in a basic agriculture program for B.C., the spirited arguments being kept well in hand by chairman Jack Snowsell of Kelowna.

Marketing, co-operatives, research services, how to increase buying power of low-income groups, and those hardy perennials, hail insurance and removal of school taxes from the land, all had their share of full discussion.

The meeting also welcomed Harold Winch, MLA, CCF house leader; O. L. Jones MP for Yale, and South Okanagan CCF candidate Bruce Woodsworth, who all showed a firm grasp of Okanagan farmers' problems.

Summerland CCF club was in charge of arrangements. Delegates were present from Grinrod, Hayward's Corners, Vernon, Kelowna, East Kelowna, Rutland, Westbank, Peachland, Summerland, Penticton, Naramata, Keremeos, Oliver, Osoyoos and Armstrong.

Bulletins of Rural Housing Committee of Value in Plans For Building or Altering Homes

The Rural Housing Advisory Committee for British Columbia was formed in 1947 in order to give rural dwellers all possible assistance in the field of farm homes and buildings.

A simple survey was conducted with the aid of the agricultural representatives in the various communities to supply some indication of the greatest building problems confronting the home-builder and remodeler.

After careful consideration of the survey results, it was decided to publish a series of informative bulletins, all dealing with the various aspects of the rural home. Each bulletin was to be confined to one specific problem and was to be amply illustrated with diagrams and sketches.

The first of these, No. 101, "Repairs To The Farm Home," was published in the spring of 1948. Every phase of building repair is discussed in detail, and the many illustrations and diagrams are simple and to the point. The context includes such topics as new supports under a house, waterproofing the basement, repairing cracks in plaster and tears in wallpaper, and straightening and supporting a sagging roof.

At a recent agricultural engineering convention in the United States, this bulletin won the Blue Ribbon of Merit. It has been well received in both Canada and the United States. Copies may be acquired from the local District Agricultural Representative, Mr. A. W. Watt or the local Women's Institute group.

The rural housing advisory committee is about to publish another bulletin on Kitchen Planning and Layout, which should be ready for distribution soon. This pamphlet is intended to help the home owner in building or remodeling the kitchen for best results and conforming with requirements and budget. Illustrations and photographs are profusely scattered throughout the text and various diagrams are shown as a basis to suit individual requirements.

Following the kitchen bulletin will be one on the utility room. This room is becoming more and more important in the life of any family, particularly a rural one.

Laundry, sewing, preserving and marketing preparations are important in the country, and the modern tendency is to give these duties a room for themselves. This room should be closely associated with the kitchen, and the bulletin suggests various ideas and layouts for consideration. It will be available in the near future.

Also on the agenda of the rural housing committee are bulletins on farmstead layout, rural water supply and sewage disposal, painting, etc.

The Advisory Committee has been established for the benefit of the rural population, and funds are supplied by the Provincial government (department of trade and industry) and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Ottawa.

The British Columbia Women's Institutes have been of great assistance in gathering information and supplying valuable material for these bulletins, and its superintendent and president are active members of the committee.

Christmas Tree Sale in U.S. is Valuable Asset

When Santa Claus hangs his gifts on Canadian Christmas trees in American homes next month, he will be taking part in an operation which nets this country some two million U.S. dollars every year.

Sales of Christmas trees to the American market have long been a substantial source of revenue to Canada. Last year they produced $1,900,000 in U.S. funds during the brief season. As in the case of all commodity sales to the United States, payment for such exported trees is required in U.S. dollars. This year, however, to prevent non-resident buyers from circumventing this requirement, a new procedure, which came into effect last October 4, will apply.

United States buyers who come to Canada to make their own purchases for export will have to establish beyond any doubt that the goods have been paid for with U.S. dollars or with Canadian dollars obtained by exchanging U.S. dollars at a bank in Canada.

When Christmas trees are shipped in the name of the non-resident buyer, he or his agent must be prepared to surrender to Canadian customs officers a bill of sale or a receipt from the seller, certified by both buyer and seller, which states clearly whether United States or Canadian currency was used, proof that it was obtained by exchanging U.S. dollars at a bank in Canada is also essential.

Unless both these provisions can be met, the exporter or his agent must leave a deposit of 10% of the value of the purchase with the collector of customs and excise at the Canadian port of exit, pending verification that these regulations have been complied with. Otherwise customs officers are instructed not to allow the shipment to go forward to the United States.

In cases where a Canadian resident sells to a non-resident and makes the export in his own name, he must insist on obtaining payment in U.S. dollars and immediately sell them to his bank.

Municipality to Receive 16,000 from Three Percent Sales Tax Says MacDonald

That the Coalition government has provided the municipalities of B.C. with a better deal so that now they can operate more economically and can provide for expansion programs was the advice given the Coalition campaign meeting in IOOF hall on Friday evening last, by Hon. R. C. MacDonald, minister of municipal affairs.

Hon. Mr. MacDonald spoke to an audience of some 75 persons on behalf of the Coalition candidate, Bob Browne-Clayton.

Of special interest to local listeners was Hon. Mr. MacDonald's statement that Summerland will receive $16,000 from the S.S. & M.A. tax.

"Up to two years ago the municipalities were claiming, and rightly so, that the land was carrying too great a burden, especially towards the cost of education, the speaker declared at the outset.

"The present government appreciated the problems of the municipalities," he explained in outlining the appointment of the Cameron commission on education, which allowed for a payment to the municipalities of a payment of $2,900,000, plus other concessions.

Further Aid

"The municipalities still weren't satisfied and called for an investigation of their responsibilities in relation to the provincial government," Mr. MacDonald continued, telling of the Goldenberg report, which gave further relief to the municipalities amounting to $1,200,000.

In these two schemes, the government granted the municipalities $100 per teacher towards salary costs, plus $3 per child being taught, and assumed 50 percent of all capital costs of school building, site purchases, clearing the land and furnishing the classrooms.

Besides that, a larger proportion of the motor vehicle licence receipts were granted the municipalities which, in some cases, meant an increase of 160 percent, he explained.

With all these extras, the municipalities received from the provincial government last year $18,000,000, which was an increase of $6,700,000 over the previous year.

Regarding unemployment relief, the municipalities will never have to worry about that problem again, Mr. MacDonald declared, as the major responsibility is now fixed on the Dominion and provincial governments.

Pays 80 Percent

Dealing then with the troublesome social service costs, Mr. MacDonald pointed out that the municipalities, up to two years ago, were paying up to 70 percent of some social services. Now the government pays 80 percent.

As a result of the demand by the people and the increase in population, social services have jumped from $5,600,000 in 1941 to $11,478,000 in 1947 and will be $20,324,000 this year.

He reminded his audience that the UBCM asked for the three percent sales tax and pointed out that such a sales tax is quite prevalent in many other sections.

"All these services cost money... and the only people we can appeal to are the taxpayers," he emphasized. He pointed out that the U.S. was seeking to raise old age pensions, but found that the cost would be $9,000,000 per month and decided that they could not afford it.

"Fifty dollars per month for old age pension is low enough at present but who is going to pay for it?" he enquired.

Local Share

Mr. MacDonald declared that Summerland will obtain approximately $16,000 this year from the new three percent sales tax, which is allocating $4,000,000 of the $12,000,000 expected revenue as aid to municipalities.

"It has been said that 'The poor will suffer more', because of the new tax," Mr. MacDonald continued. He pointed out that old-age pensioners receive $40 per month, which is mainly taken up with rent and food, on which no tax is levied.

"You people have paid eight percent to the Dominion for years and you don't say anything about it," he added.

Investment Capital

For a moment the minister dealt with the rapid expansion of B.C. and pointed out that investment capital is not afraid to come into B.C.

"But if you ever get a socialistic government in this province you won't get that type of money here," he warned. Millions of dollars of capital investments are planned for B.C. in the next few years.

He dealt further with the CCF party, reminding that Harold Winch has declared that "if big business and high finance refuse to obey... they will be treated as lawbreakers." Then, Mr. Winch "egged on" the Nanaimo laundry strikers to break the law and defy the new labor code, he reported.

On the subject of labor legislation, he tagged the new act as one of the best labor acts in any country. B.C. pays the highest wages in Canada and has the highest standard of living. The people are prosperous under the democratic system of government. Canada also has the best banking system in the world, but he felt that if the banks were placed on a nationalized basis under a CCF regime they would go broke because of the inexperience of the party.

Robert Hayman

Second speaker to appear before the audience Friday night was Robert Hayman, young Kelowna lawyer who reminded his listeners of Remembrance Day.

"We gather in humility and remembered those boys who gave their lives," he emphasized. "Why was it this sacrifice was taken? The answer is they were fighting for freedom as their ultimate objective."

Referring to the young Coalition group of which he is a prominent member in Kelowna, Mr. Hayman declared that they are analyzing this "freedom" in their own personal lives. He emphasized that under the present system, a man can quit his job and go to work for himself and workers generally have the right to organize for their own protection.

On a broad scale, Freedom means Security, he declared, going on to point out some of the measures of security provided by the province, including the Workmen's Compensation Act and the B.C. Hospital Insurance scheme.

He referred to the excellence of the highways under construction and the efforts of the B.C. Power Commission to bring electrical service to the rural areas.

"These benefits didn't just happen," he emphasized. "They are the results of a sound administration emanating from a sound government."

Car Insurance

He also declared that the criticisms levelled at the car insurance legislation have, gradually been met by legislative amendments and a number of the faults found at first have been rectified.

As a finale, he declared there is nothing practical or fundamental in the CCF platform—"a nebulous dream state against pride and the freedom of the individual."

"There is really no battle at all," he concluded, emphasizing the good judgment and legislation of a sound government. "It is asking too much of the credulity of the public to vote for the CCF platform which is not even in the blueprint stage."

"A vote for Bob Browne-Clayton is a vote of confidence for a government we believe in."

Mr. J. Y. Towgood was chairman of the meeting while Reeve R. A. Johnston was also on the platform and introduced Hon. Mr. MacDonald.

Diamond Drilling Ends at Copperado

MERRITT—By Saturday diamond drilling at the Copperado property of Guichon Mines Ltd., at Mill Creek to establish continuity of the vein, was completed. James D. Ferguson, manager, said that copper possibilities appear good and that after a season of investigation by surface exploration and diamond drilling the company expect, this week, to sink a shaft to a depth of 360 feet and running a drift at that elevation, to prove ore and determine the size of the mill needed for concentration.

Canadians Being Urged to Foster Christmas Spirit Early by Aiding Britons

The spirit of Christmas is moving early across Canada this year with the opening of a fund designed to give special aid to the ration-weary peoples of Britain.

It is the United Emergency Fund for Britain which got under way on Sunday, Nov. 14 and runs to Dec. 5.

Primary objective of UEEFB is to provide food and other urgently needed supplies to those Britains not receiving such gifts from friends and relatives in Canada. Because the Canadian and British governments are co-operating in its work extensive savings amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars will be made in the handling and shipping of supplies. These savings will result from free ocean transportation, free dockage and handling, free warehousing and exemption from customs and excise duties and insurance.

All moneys saved will be converted into more food and supplies for the United Kingdom. An advisory committee in the United Kingdom presided over by Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone and under chairmanship of Countess Mountbatten of Burma is working with the national committee in Canada.

All officials are contributing their time and energies and wide experience in business, social and welfare work.

B.C. Division

The executive in charge of the B.C. division is under chairmanship of F. C. Sweet. The executive committee includes H. C. Clendinning, Bruce M. Farris, William Mahony (Canadian Congress of Labor), W. L. McTavish, Jarvis Newbury, Mrs. T. J. Rolston, M.L.A., Birt Showler, MBE (Trades and Labor Congress), J. L. Trumbell, A. C. Turner and Mrs. Nancy Hodges, M.L.A.

Patrons are Lt. Gov. C. A. Banks, CMG, and Premier Byron L. Johnson, OBE.

Provincial headquarters are at 535 Georgie Street West, Vancouver.

The fullest public support is urgently needed in order that the drab diet of grim austerity in Britain can be brightened.

Can Join in Fund

All organizations and groups presently engaged in sending food to Britain are especially invited to join in the fund's work. They can retain their identity as donors in this worthy cause, all recipients being advised as to the source of assistance.

The cash savings effected will result in more money being available to these organizations and groups for additional gifts.

Besides the financial co-operation of organizations and groups, the Fund welcomes individual cash donations. All such donations will be used for bulk purchases in Canada of food and other supplies and shipped in bulk to UEEFB warehouses in the United Kingdom for general distribution to people who are not receiving gift parcels from Canada. This phase of the work will be under supervision of the British Advisory Council.

Cash contributions should be mailed to the United Emergency Fund for Britain, 535 West Georgie Street, Vancouver, B.C. Official receipt will be mailed by return. All such individual cash donations are deductible from income tax returns. Donations may also be made at any chartered bank.

Groups and organizations and others requiring further information or who would like to take an active part in this extremely necessary work are invited to write to Provincial headquarters.

Compromise With Teachers Suggested

COMOX—The main business of School District 71 lately has been negotiations with the teachers, who are asking a 25% increase in salary next year. The salary committee of the Comox District Teachers' Association, with Mr. F. G. Cook as chairman, was finally told by the chairman of the board, Mr. A. J. Taylor, that after full consideration by the trustees of the teachers' request of an increase in pay they had reached the decision to grant them a cost of living bonus of $100 per year. Mr. Cook stated that he was very disappointed in the offer by the board but that he would return to his association and tell them what had transpired.

Pleasure Travel Restriction to U.S. Continues

OTTAWA, Ont.—Hon. Douglas Abbott, minister of finance, has announced that the rationing of U.S. dollars for pleasure travel will continue in force during the period from November 16, 1948 to November 1, 1949. The maximum amount of U.S. dollars which any Canadian resident may obtain during this period for this purpose will remain at $10. In the case of children eleven years and under, the amount is $100.

The minister paid tribute to the Canadian public for its cooperation during the past year in complying with both the spirit and the letter of travel regulations. He pointed out that it was expected that the rationing of pleasure travel during the past twelve months would show a saving of between $40 million and $50 million U.S. dollars, as compared with 1947 travel expenditures. This substantial sum was thus made available for many essential supplies and commodities during this period.

Decision to continue the pleasure travel ration, he said, was reached after a most careful assessment of all factors relating to Canada's U.S. dollar position. It was felt that rationing of pleasure travel was less onerous than many other restrictions made necessary by exchange difficulties.

Therefore, to the extent that the exchange situation had improved, it seemed reasonable to relax the more burdensome regulations first. Travel restriction, however, Mr. Abbott said, will be removed as soon as conditions warrant.

Form H, permits will continue to be necessary to take out of Canada more than $10 U.S. or more than $25 in U.S. and Canadian funds combined. As in the past, there will be no restriction on the number of pleasure trips taken by Canadian residents in the United States as long as the annual allotment is not exceeded. Any U.S. dollars obtained for one trip and not used on that trip must be brought back to Canada and exchanged for Canadian dollars.

Applications for U.S. dollars for business, health or educational travel will continue to receive special consideration.

He Thinned His Trees And Let in The Hail

SALMON ARM—Even in adversity Salmon Arm fruit-growers retain their sense of humor.

At the annual meeting of Salmon Arm local of the BCFGA on Tuesday night, J. C. Hanna, president of the Farmers' Exchange and a governor of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. urged local growers to thin the number of trees in their orchards. "You'll get better fruit and less scab with a reduced number of trees," he declared.

"I thinned my trees this year and I find the thinning lets the hail in better too," chimed in J. G. Campbell, irrepressible secretary of the Salmon Arm growers, referring to the hail storm that struck the district in the early fall.

Rockerfeller Grant Aids University In Slavonic Studies

A $1000 grant in aid has been received by the University of British Columbia for the purchase of sound recorders and other equipment necessary for the teaching of Slavic languages, particularly Russian.

"The gift came as a result of interest shown in Slavonic studies development at the university under the direction of Dr. James St. Clair-Sobell," says Dr. Norman MacKenzie, UBC president.

Dr. Fahs, representing the humanities development division of the Rockefeller Foundation, visited the university last year, to see the work being done in the field of Slavonic studies. This followed a visit by Dr. Sobell to various American universities on a tour of inspection of institutions offering courses in the Slavonic languages and cultures.

The grant is evidence of the Rockefeller Foundation's recognition of North America's increasing awareness of its own educational, political, and economic responsibilities in an international sense.

"Universities are growing more and more interested in 'area studies'—that is, the study of large geographic areas of the world, politically, economically and culturally. The grant recognizes the importance of language emphasis in area studies," says Dr. MacKenzie.

Greata and DeMaris Strains Of Prunes Can be Harvested Earlier Than Italian Prune

(Experimental Farm News)

The Italian prune, commonly known to Canadian consumers as "Blue Plum", is an old variety which is believed to have originated in Milan, Italy. As grown in British Columbia and the north-western United States, it is a variety of excellent qualities and in these areas it is the most generally grown plum for shipment to the fresh fruit markets.

Because it is so popular, says F. W. L. Keane, Dominion Experimental Station, Summerland, the marketing season could well be extended, and there is a need for strains which reach harvesting maturity earlier in the season.

This has led to a search, both in British Columbia and in the United States, for early strains of Italian prune. Within recent years three such strains, which are thought to have originated as bud-sports of Italian prune, have been tested at the Dominion Experimental station, Summerland. The De Maris strain originated in the State of Washington, the Greata strain at the Greata Ranch, near Peachland, and the Fryer strain at Vernon.

Trees of these strains, growing on the station, are now from eight to ten years old. In growth and bearing characteristics, all three strains are indistinguishable from Italian prune, but in season of maturity of the fruit they have shown themselves, year by year, to be from two to three weeks earlier than Italian.

Extensive experiments have been conducted at the station during the past three years to determine the handling and storage characteristics and the quality of the fruit of the three early strains, both in common and in cold storage, in comparison with Italian prune.

As a result it appears that both the De Maris and Greata strains behave in storage much as the Italian prune, and under commercial conditions both would give an entirely desirable product. There appears to be very little choice between the two strains, De Maris possibly having a slight advantage in earliness and Greata a slight advantage in quality and in storage life.

On the other hand, the Fryer strain, while it is quite as early as the others, appears to be somewhat inferior to them in quality and in storage characteristics, and cannot at present be recommended.

It should be remembered by growers who contemplate planting the early strains that they usually mature in weather which is warmer than the season for Italian prunes. Consequently, they will probably require to be harvested promptly when mature, and be moved to market reasonably rapidly.

PARENTAL POINTERS

If the discipline of a parent is too repressive and if not enough love is shown to the child he may become afraid to show even mild anger and develop a sullen or down-trodden manner. He may not speak for hours if he has been denied something or he may mope alone in a corner. All this is highly undesirable, mental health experts say. It will not encourage the child to grow up into a mentally healthy happy adult who will get along reasonably well with others.

Summerland Wilts in Last Quarter to Lose Cage Tilt To Revelstoke Mountaineers

After leading throughout the entire contest, Summerland's Intermediate A hoopsters wilted in the second period of a fast and furious tussle at the school gym last Saturday night and succumbed to a determined rush by the Revelstoke Mountaineers by a 36-31 count.

The Int. B's, however, made up for this loss by trouncing a strong aggregation from Kelowna, 38-32. Both teams were missing setup after setup in the main feature of Saturday night's card which drew a fair-sized audience to watch the youngsters go through their paces. The score should have been doubled, at least, as the players hurried their shots and then became flustered.

The local lads went into a 9-3 lead in the first quarter only to have the Mountaineers come back strong in the second stanza to cut the advantage to a single point, 19-18, at the half-way mark. The locals held off the Mountaineers in the third quarter to take a slim 27-25 margin into the final ten minutes.

However, the visitors proved too strong and soon forged ahead to stay that way when the final whistle tooted. Jack Dunham was the only Summerland player to have his eye really on the basket and he was given a big hand for his display. The locals lacked the ability to clear the ball quickly from their defence area and lost advantage after advantage which would probably have spelled baskets as the opponents were off balance for a fraction.

McGregor was the outstanding shot for the Mountaineers, sinking an even dozen, but Lundie and Fleming were dangerous throughout. The local lads played a good defensive game for three quarters and picked the ball off the backboard in a handy manner while on the defense. They were not as good at snagging the rebounds on the offensive.

A big third quarter, when the local Int. B's rolled in seventeen points spelled disaster for the visiting Kelowna crew in the curtain-raiser. Denny Hack and Wally Day were mainly responsible for this onslaught. At the halfway mark, Summerland held a slim 17-15 lead but uncorked a strong attack to sink seventeen points in the third stanza while Kelowna could only mark up six. Kelowna came back strong in the final quarter but could not overcome the big lead.

Bill Kane, Pudge Marshall and Joe Geordano were the top men for the visiting Kelowna crew, while Wally Day with 19 and Denny Hack with 12 were the outstanding offensive men for the local squad.

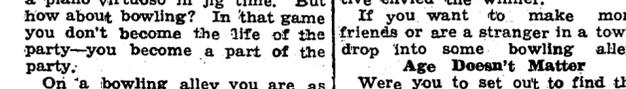

Refereeing was well handled by Jim Hack and Ferguson, the latter being a Kelowna official.

Bowling Is Good For You!

HARRY FISHER, EDITOR OF "BOWLING NEWS" HAS THIS TO SAY OF THIS GREAT SPORT:

You have seen those ads that promise to make you the life of the party in ten easy dancing lessons. Or that offer to make you a piano virtuoso in jig time. But how about bowling? In that game you don't become the life of the party—you become a part of the party.

On a bowling alley you are as good as the next man, or woman. In fact, every few minutes you become the center of attraction. And, after a few games, you no longer worry about what your teammates are saying about you behind your back. Those ten shiny pins stand defiantly in front of you, so filled with resolution, you just roll that sixteen-pound ball down the alley at them.

A strike, or clean sweep of the pins, fills you with unconscionable ego. A spare, which means you knock all the pins down in two shots, leaves you determined to do better. A split, in which the pins are left too widely placed to be swept down, results in a feeling that's shared sympathetically by your fellow players.

The secret of bowling's popularity lies (1) in its uncertainty; (2) in that it can be learned by anybody in a few days; and (3) in that it conquers any feeling of inferiority. When you bowl an unusually good game, you don't know whether it's because you've finally improved, or whether luck was with you. But you're filled with hope that you've become really good—and hope is a wonderful emotion.

Industry has come to recognize what a grand tension-remover bowling is. Many firms have found it "good business" to foster employees' bowling contests. Whenever a group of people work side by side, some friction is almost inevitable. But bowling together gives them a chance to work off those animosities and find a basis for understanding that carries over into the office. You can't stay angry with a bowling companion.

Bowling is one of the greatest levelers ever devised. The pins don't care who you are. The head of a great manufacturing firm recently was beaten for a league

Four Local Skiers To Attend School At Red Mountain

The zone meeting of the Okanagan Ski association was held in Summerland on Saturday, Nov. 13, at the Nu-Way Annex, when it was decided that four Summerland representatives would attend the ski instruction school to be held at the Red Mountain Ski club, Rosslund, from December 6 to 11.

Mr. Walter Powell and Mr. Bob Barkwill were appointed to attend, and two junior members still to be selected will go with them. This will be Summerland's representation among 25 association members who will take advantage of the instruction school.

It has been decided to set up a ski patrol at the ski hill this winter, with members to be given special instruction in the care of winter injuries.

Vernon, Kelowna, Penticton and Oliver ski clubs' representatives came to Summerland last Saturday to discuss mutual problems. Another zone session will be held next month at Kelowna.

Rutland Slips Through Winning Goal in Darkness to Take Cup

(By High School Reporter)
On Saturday, Nov. 6, Summerland high school participated in the Okanagan junior soccer championship. Summerland had a bye in the first round but met Penticton in the second. Dean Rempel scored for Summerland in the first half. Ron Ritchie scored in the second half, followed closely by Rob Keibel.

This 3-0 victory over Penticton brought the home team into the finals. Here they met the Rutland "A" team who had just defeated Kelowna 1-0. The teams fought hard but ended in a 0-0 draw.

Darkness was closing in but some decision had to be reached so it was agreed to play until a goal was scored. A few minutes later Rutland slipped through the Summerland defence and scored.

Afterwards, a banquet was held for the team members. Kelowna's junior student council president introduced each team captain who spoke a few words.

Association Formed to Foster Hockey This Year; Financial Deal is Made

Formation of the Summerland Hockey Assn., to sponsor senior hockey in this area, to give guidance and assistance to younger hockey players and to finance the operation of the rink on the Living Memorial park-grounds has been announced by E. H. Bennett, in charge of this playground, following a small organizational meeting held last week.

A direct tieup between the Summerland Memorial Parks Committee and the hockey association has been obtained through this meeting, and it is hoped to finance more than half the expenses of rink operation and improvement this winter from the players participating.

Financing of the rink operation during the winter season was the chief problem discussed by the meeting last week.

It was considered that the senior hockey group would contribute $100 towards the upkeep, the high school players would provide $50 and the elementary school $40.

Mountaineers in Decisive Win Over Summerland

REVELSTOKE — The R.H.S. Mountaineers scored their first win of the season Saturday night, Nov. 6, at the Civic Centre when they measured the Summerland Inter-A squad 44-20. The locals had dropped their first game to Kamloops two weeks ago by a 27-26 count and were determined to gain a victory on this occasion.

The Mountaineers took command from the opening whistle and after the first quarter were never in serious trouble.

The locals were in front 15-7 at the first quarter, stretched that lead to 22-9 at the half, went well ahead, 29-12 at the three-quarter pole, and then coasted to a 44-20 win.

Referees D. Hack and G. Couston had a terrific job keeping the game in hand and a total of 34 personal fouls were called, 24 of which went to the Mountaineers.

Summerland was forced to play minus a first-stringer when in the last few minutes Vanderburgh was benched for insubordination. Lundell, with 13 points, led the scorers, while for the losers Nesbitt was high man with six points.

Seventy-Five Compete for Turkeys, Hams

Turkeys and hams were distributed to a large group of trap shoot enthusiasts on Remembrance Day at the Summerland Trap Club first annual shoot which attracted competitors from Lumby, Vernon, Kelowna, Peachland, Penticton, Oliver and Tonasket, besides local marksmen.

One of the biggest shoots ever held in the interior, some 75 competitors were on hand to try for the turkeys and hams, nearly every entrant won at least one prize and honors were well distributed.

Two traps and the 22 rifle range were in constant use from the start at 9 a.m. until the close at dusk, with the exception of a break at 11 o'clock approached and competitors and spectators alike stood to observe a silence in memory of those who gave their lives in two wars.

Besides the large number of competitors some 150 spectators visited the trap club grounds at the head of Prairie Valley during the day and took a keen interest in the entertainment provided.

Nearly every member of the local club assisted in the preparations and running of this big shoot, which was acclaimed as an unqualified success.

PERCY WILSON IS IN HOSPITAL

Mr. Percy Wilson, Summerland resident who is employed in Pentiction and who was an occupant of the Gordon Beggs automobile which turned over on the highway at Trout Creek Saturday afternoon, Nov. 6, is a patient in the Pentiction hospital suffering from a broken and dislocated neck.

It was at first thought that Mr. Wilson had only suffered from minor bruises and shock and was so reported last week. However, subsequent examination revealed that the injuries were of a more serious nature.

Mr. Wilson will have to spend a month to six weeks in hospital.

J. Y. TOWGOOD IS CHAIRMAN

At a meeting of the newly-named executive of the Summerland Coalition Assn., held last week, J. Y. Towgood was named chairman, with Colin McKenzie as vice-chairman and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh secretary.

Other members of this executive are W. G. Rempel, E. C. Bingham, W. R. Powell and Harvey Walton.

District Drivers Are Involved in Car Accidents

Three accidents occurred in this district on Saturday and Sunday involving Summerland, Peachland and Kelowna drivers.

First of these accidents occurred on Saturday evening about 6:15 o'clock at Peachland when a car driven by Robert G. Lennie of Kelowna collided with Archie T. McLaughlan's panel delivery, which was parked on the highway.

An occupant of the Lennie car, Miss Joyce Casorso, of Kelowna, sustained facial injuries in the accident.

As a result of this accident McLaughlan was charged before Mr. C. C. Inglis, J.P., in Peachland on Wednesday afternoon with parking his truck on the highway and paid a fine of $5 and costs.

Early Sunday morning, a car driven by Ross E. Elliott turned over on the Station road and landed on Mr. J. Darke's lawn. According to Elliott's report, to the B.C. Police, he was proceeding north towards the West Summerland business section when a car turned onto the Station road from the Prairie Valley road, necessitating him to swerve sharply to the right. One brake grabbed, Elliott stated, and the car turned over onto the Darke lawn.

At 11 o'clock Sunday evening, Roland Lethbridge's Model T Ford was being towed by Homer Bloomfield. The tow chain snapped, sending the Lethbridge car into a telephone pole. Mr. Lethbridge received cuts on the head.

Mrs. O. A. Dunbar returned to West Summerland over the weekend after spending the past month in Burnaby, B.C., assisting Mr. Dunbar, who took over Cowan's Bakery at 2500 Maple avenue on Oct. 18.

of markets to take care of increased production once new land is made available. He looked upon Canada as a sparsely-populated but rich land. He called for a forward immigration policy to double the population in twenty years.

"That will be our market for our new land," he declared. "If we don't expand our country I am afraid that somebody will come in and do it for us and that we won't like. To be free we must be strong."

Independent Life
At the outset, the Coalition candidate declared that he wishes to go to Victoria to "find out what makes things tick." As a fruit grower, he believes in an independent life and, "I saw that under the CCF I would lose that independence."

The fruit industry has been built from nothing to a $25 million enterprise on the basis of free enterprise, he informed his listeners.

Dealing with socialism, he reminded his listeners that that trend of thought has been tried many times before but always broke down and failed.

"The Coalition government served us well in war and has continued to do so through the reconstruction period. It is doing a good job in a hurry, but is still behind in its objectives."

He referred to the school program which is not far enough advanced and declared that the government work in the flood area of the Fraser Valley is that of an active and progressive administration endeavoring to put the distressed people back on their feet.

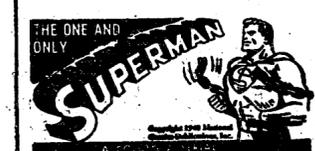

J. Y. Towgood, chairman of the Coalition association in Summerland, was chairman of the meeting.

Tomorrow, Friday, November 19 is the final day for duck shooting in the area lying south of the main line of the CPR. This season commenced on October 1. The deer season ends on November 30.

B.C. Must Up Country and be Prepared To Pay Cost Says Premier

Vision of a great industrial expansion in the northern part of B.C. with the development of the FGE railway and the completion of the John Hart highway was depicted to more than 150 persons in Ellison hall on Tuesday evening, gathered to hear Premier Byron Johnson and Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb speak on the government record on behalf of the Coalition candidate, R. D. (Bob) Brown-Clayton.

Not only did these two able speakers give a clear-cut picture of the provincial administration, but they gave their listeners an insight into the future possibilities of this province in the expansion of industry under the Coalition "Free Enterprise" government.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the disclosure by Premier Johnson that the province is willing to assist in creek flood control, provided the local authorities show their good faith in doing their share.

Both speakers defended the government three percent sales tax in the light of the ever-increasing demands for social assistance and municipal aid in a province which is growing at a rapid rate.

Voters go to Polls Monday For By-Election

Final words in the extensive political battle being waged in South Okanagan are being propounded this weekend and on Monday voters registered on the provincial voters' list will go to the polls to decide the representative of this provincial riding in the legislature.

Coalition interests are represented by a young veteran of World War II, Robert D. (Bob) Brown-Clayton, Okanagan Mission fruit grower.

The CCF party has put forward Bruce Woodsworth, Westbank school teacher, and son of one of the founders of the party, the late J. S. Woodsworth.

Political big guns have been trained on South Okanagan for the past week with both sides producing some of their heaviest artillery.

The Coalition has brought into this riding Premier Byron Johnson, Hon. Herbert Anscomb, minister of finance; Hon. R. C. MacDonald, minister of municipal affairs and mines; Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works; and Hon. G. S. Pearson, provincial secretary.

Among the CCF party leaders to speak in South Okanagan have been Hon. C. M. Hines, provincial treasurer of Saskatchewan; O. L. Jones, MP for Yale, and Harold Winch, provincial leader of the CCF at Victoria.

Mr. Winch and Mr. Woodsworth are winding up their political campaign at the Rialto theatre this afternoon.

West Summerland polling division headquarters are in the IOOF hall, while the voting for Summerland polling division will be in the basement of the Lakeside United church.

Voting is from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Monday.

J. E. Britton Retires from Station Service

J. E. Britton, a long-time resident of the Okanagan and for the past twenty years a member of the Dominion Experimental Station staff in Summerland, majoring chiefly in fruit maturity, has been retired from the service.

On Friday, Nov. 19, a dinner was held at the IOOF hall with leading agriculturists from all parts of the valley in attendance, gathered to compliment Mr. Britton on his achievements while in the experimental service work.

Ben Hoy, veteran agriculturist from Kelowna, was chairman of the gathering, while the presentation of a fine leather-bound stamp album was made by A. J. Mann.

There were about 25 of Mr. Britton's colleagues from both provincial and Dominion agricultural departments present.

Mrs. J. E. Britton was the recipient of a beautiful rawhide, moire lined travelling case at a presentation party given by about forty members of the technical staff of the experimental station, the employees, and their wives, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Palmer on Sunday evening, Nov. 21.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Britton expressed their appreciation of this recognition, and Mr. Britton gave an interesting talk of his years in the far north as a guide for the Hudson's Bay Co., his teaching in the northern part of the valley, and his time at the station.

During the pleasant evening, as part of the entertainment, Mr. Billie May sang a solo, John Palmer played two Chopin selections on the piano, Dr. Palmer showed some of his colored movies, and refreshments were served.

The board of trade approved a grant of $25 towards the cost of operating the hockey rink on the Living Memorial park-ground.

Good Progress on School Renovation

Satisfaction was expressed by trustees of School District No. 77 (Summerland) at the regular bi-monthly meeting on Monday evening at the progress being made in the renovation and addition program being undertaken at the Summerland elementary school.

Bennett & White, contractors, are keeping up to schedule and it is considered that the building reconstruction will be completed at least by Easter if not before that time.

A progress payment to the contractors was ordered at Monday's session.

Subject of the electric lead in the renovated building has been discussed at some length between the council and school board for the past three weeks. It has been decided that the lead will go underground and the municipality will undertake the entire work charging the board for its portion on a foot basis.

VISION OF 'EMPIRE'

PREMIER BYRON JOHNSON who spoke to a Summerland audience on Tuesday giving an outline of the Coalition government record.

Government Ready to Help in Trout Creek Flood Control Premier Johnson Tells Group

It was learned this morning that Mr. Carruthers visited Trout Creek area yesterday afternoon, inspected the creek and noted damage done by the spring floods.

Trout Creek will be surveyed, costs prepared and the provincial government will then discuss its part in the repairing of this troublesome stream to prevent a recurrence of the spring floods of this year.

A. L. Carruthers, retired deputy minister of public works will come to the Okanagan and will survey not only Trout Creek but the creeks in the Kelowna and Penticton area as well, to estimate the role which the B.C. government will play in providing a permanent solution to creek flood problems.

Such was the encouraging news imparted by Premier Byron Johnson to members of the Summerland municipal council and a deputation representing the Trout Creek Flood committee on Tuesday afternoon at the council chambers.

No Promises
Premier Johnson was emphatic that he would give no promises of special provincial government support in this work.

However, he did state that once the survey is made then the provincial government will be prepared to come to the local authorities and work out a scheme.

"By co-operation we have done a great job in the Fraser Valley," Premier Johnson instanced. The Dominion and B.C. governments are co-operating in this deal and it will be the provincial and municipal governments, plus interested residents, who must co-operate to solve the local problem, the premier noted.

Magnus Tait, chairman of the Trout Creek flood committee, informed the premier that the Trout Creek residents are ready and willing to assist financially.

It was suggested that the Dominion Department of agriculture might assist in the scheme as its property is endangered by floods. Dr. R. C. Palmer, secretary of the Trout Creek committee, replied that some plan could possibly be worked out.

At the outset, Reeve Reid A. Johnston outlined the need for assistance in this district to control Trout Creek.

"The people in that district suffered greatly during the flood this year," he told the premier. "If it hadn't been for the residents of Trout Creek Point and of the community as a whole we would have had a disaster on our hands."

"If it hadn't been for these citizens you would have lost your bridge and a portion of the highway to Penticton."

Major Disaster
The reeve suggested that the Trout Creek people, feel the government should step in and declare the channel of Trout Creek and clear it out. He warned that a major disaster will result next spring unless this action is taken.

Magnus Tait then outlined the history of three flood periods at Trout Creek Point, the first being in 1928 and the second in 1934. In 1929 the public works department spent a great deal of money on a levee which is now in danger of disintegrating unless attention is paid to it.

Threatens Highway
"If nothing is done before next spring, then the creek will flood out our residents and will go right over the highway," Mr. Tait warned, noting also the damage done to experimental station property this spring in an effort to save the situation.

It is known that Premier Johnson gave the same message to Kelowna district persons who brought the condition of Okanagan Mission and Mill creeks to his attention. Engineer Carruthers will survey all the menacing creeks in the Okanagan and report back to the B.C. government.

School Board Calls Halt To Salary Talks to Wait Penticton Arbitration

School District No. 11 (Summerland) trustees have informed the teachers' salary committee of the local teaching staff that it will be impossible for the board to meet the new salary schedule proposed by the teachers and are asking that all discussions on the subject be suspended until the arbitration being sought by School District No. 15 (Penticton) is adjudicated.

It is understood that the Penticton district trustees have demanded arbitration and the teachers in that district have agreed to the proposal.

Teachers throughout the Okanagan have submitted new salary schedules to their respective boards, based on their claims of higher living costs.

When Okanagan school boards met earlier in the month at Oliver it was suggested that a valley-wide arbitration be sought, embracing all teachers and all school boards.

This suggestion did not meet with favor in all quarters and Penticton trustees have taken the initiative and demanded arbitration on the teachers' salary demands.

C. J. Bleasdale, chairman of the Summerland school district finance committee, informed The Review yesterday that the local teachers have been informed that the board cannot meet the salary schedule request.

The teachers are being asked to suspend all negotiations until the decision of the arbitration board has been announced at Penticton.

This does not mean that the local board will accept the arbitration award at Penticton, but will be ready to resume discussions with the teachers once the decision has been announced.

Teachers state that their request for salary adjustments is based on the cost of living index rises.

If the full demands were met, the teachers' schedule in Summerland would be increased by $13,000, as the individual increases range from $400 to $1,050, the latter being an individual case.

Such an increase would double the portion of the salary payments being met by the municipality, it is pointed out, and would mean an extra 6 1/2 mills on the tax rate, or would take up the greater portion of the municipal income and Social Security and Municipal Aid tax payments from the government.

The provincial government pays definite amounts for teachers' salaries and does not meet any increases which may crop up from year to year, it is stated here. Therefore, any increase in teachers' salaries here would have to be met from municipal funds.

Mr. Anscomb stated that the Union of B.C. Municipalities had originally asked that the tax be imposed for their benefit for particular purposes, but the government had refrained from stipulating that it be used for any specific cost of municipal operation, leaving the various local governments to use the money as they saw fit and best.

There are many who are wondering if the discussion at the municipal council meeting last Tuesday afternoon had anything to do with the power shortage.

Councillor F. E. Atkinson had just completed an outline of two big proposed increases in electric power consumption, involving 440 volts instead of the usual 220, when the lights went out and did not return for an hour.

However, later investigation disclosed that a West Kootenay pole near Penticton caught on fire and it was not the highly-charged council deliberations which were the cause of the break in supply.

The council dealt with a probable switch-over from steam to electric power at the Summerland Box Co. plant, which would involve an expenditure for the municipality of about $5,300 and would be supplied once the West-Kootenay high voltage line reaches West Summerland.

This new line is expected to reach here in time for the packing season next July.

Once this line is installed, a power line could be built over Giant's Head, past the Home for the Friendless and south along the Station road to the box factory.

In this deal the box factory would need 225 h.p., while the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Assn. is requesting a change-over to 440 volts and will need 100 h.p. additional to the 304 h.p. now being supplied. The co-op is also requesting a transformer vault inside its building, a practice which has been adopted by several of the larger industries at Penticton.

Further discussion on these proposals will likely ensue at the adjourned council meeting to be held on Friday afternoon.

One of the features of election day this year will be the vote on the Summerland Living Memorial community hall project. This bylaw calls for an expenditure of $20,000 to be raised by means of 3 percent debentures maturing in 1954.

The community hall has been proposed by the Summerland Memorial Parks committee and, if the ratepayers approve, will be built on the park-ground property in West Summerland.

Third reading of this bylaw passed the council session on Tuesday afternoon with Councillor C. E. Bentley registering his opposition.

Reeve Johnston suggested that the Wednesday closing is a bad feature of the retail merchants' hours.

"It's not doing half as much harm as closing at six o'clock," replied Councillor Wilson.

Councillor Tait remarked that the stores "down town" do most of their business after six o'clock in the busy season.

On a motion of Councillors Wilson and Bentley the question of amending the shops closing bylaw was hoisted for further consideration.

Rev. F. W. Haskins Nearly Loses His Car

An unusual accident occurred on Sunday evening while the Baptist church anniversary service was being conducted.

Rev. F. W. Haskins, the Baptist minister, left his car parked as usual at the top of the rise and adjacent to the church building. The brakes failed to hold and the car started down the hill, descending the steep bank on the south side of the road leading down from Harry Brown's corner to Hastings street.

Despite the steepness of the incline, the car did not turn over but crossed the road and stopped in C. C. Wharton's cherry orchard. Little damage was done to the car, which was driven out of the orchard.

Shops Closing, Bylaw Move is Halted for Time

An abrupt halt in arrangements to put teeth into the shop closing bylaw through an amendment was called at the municipal council meeting on Tuesday afternoon when Councillor Harvey Wilson raised objection to six o'clock closing during the rush season.

The retail merchants group had asked the council to take steps to prosecute offenders who were breaking the shops closing bylaw.

Legal advice was obtained by Acting Clerk Gordon Smith and an amendment detailing the lines of businesses, such as restaurants, confectionery stores, garages, etc., which could remain open after the set hours had been prepared.

"I would like to see the stores remain open until 6:30 p.m., during the busy summer months," declared Councillor Wilson, stating that employees in industrial plants and in the orchards cannot get to the stores in time if they are closed at 6 o'clock.

"The working man has got to eat and it's about time he was considered," declared the councillor.

Reeve Johnston suggested that the Wednesday closing is a bad feature of the retail merchants' hours.

"It's not doing half as much harm as closing at six o'clock," replied Councillor Wilson.

Councillor Tait remarked that the stores "down town" do most of their business after six o'clock in the busy season.

On a motion of Councillors Wilson and Bentley the question of amending the shops closing bylaw was hoisted for further consideration.

Xmas Lighting Project Planned By Trade Board

An attempt is to be made by the Summerland Board of Trade to interest local residents in a Christmas lighting project for this festive season.

In other Okanagan communities and at the coast, such a scheme has been greeted with enthusiasm and the trade board on Thursday night decided that it will make a start towards this project.

The campaign will urge local residents to light up the outside of their premises with colored lights and other decorations.

A well-lighted community during the Christmas season adds a note of brightness and good cheer to the general atmosphere, it was pointed out by the trade board.

It is probable that some form of awards will be made to the homes which present the most attractive appearance. Decision on this subject will rest with the board executive.

They Died So You Could Vote

THE RIGHT of the people to exercise their franchise has been the subject of countless thousands of articles, but it is a subject which should never be lost sight of, and bears repeating again.

Great battles, down through the ages, have been fought so that a free peoples might select the representatives of their choice.

The two World Wars were fought and won so that the democracies of the world could continue to voice their opinions as they choose and go to the polls unfettered by military or any other might.

Despite these conflicts, the people of Canada have shown a remarkable apathy once they made sure of their right to voice their opinions as they desire.

Right here at home, in the last federal by-election there were more than 500 persons who did not bother to mark their ballots.

In the coming by-election vote which takes place throughout South Okanagan next Monday, November 29, the people again are being asked to turn out and choose the candidate who will represent them at the legislature at Victoria.

South Okanagan has not been represented at Victoria since last May. This is not a healthy condition but it is one which is to be rectified next Monday.

By-elections sometimes bring results which are not felt when a general election is being fought. The federal by-election was a three-way battle in which the elected member did not receive a majority of the votes, but obtained a clear majority over either of his two opponents.

This situation does not arise on Monday. It is a clear, two-way fight between the representative of the Coalition interests and the CCF, the socialistic party.

Whoever is elected will have a clear majority and the result will be the decision of the majority of the people . . . if the great majority of the voters turn out and register their choice.

It is to be hoped that every man and woman registered on the provincial voters' list will go to the polls on Monday to mark their ballots and take advantage of the privilege for which their relatives and friends died on the battlefronts.

He Guaged Public Opinion

CANADIAN public life said good-bye last week to a man who will go down in history as one of the great leaders of the democratic world.

William Lyon Mackenzie King laid down the mantle of authority and stepped down from the throne of Canadian government after more than 21 years as leader of the Liberal party and prime minister of Canada.

Thus ends a brilliant political career which surpasses in length of office any other leader in the annals of those countries which make up the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Political friends and opponents alike will give credit that Mackenzie King has been one of the most astute politicians Canada has ever known and probably ever will know. His ability to guage public opinion and wait for the exact moment when the public was ready for new enactments serves as an object lesson in political tactics.

This great leader laid down a policy on a long-term basis when he stepped to the head of the Liberal party. Most of these objectives were realized but not before the public was ready to accept them. He refused to be hurried, to be coerced into hasty decisions. He realized that there is a time for most things and his uncanny ability to guage that proper time kept him in the forefront of politics in Canada.

Whether this cautious approach was the best one for Canada will only be judged by historians in years to come. We are too close to his regime to make an accurate appraisal at this time.

But whatever the judgment, it cannot be gainsayed that Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King will go down as one of the great Canadian leaders who brought this country along in a slow and careful manner to emerge from comparative obscurity into one of the world's powers.

He laid a careful background and we can now proceed to consolidate our gains.

Freight Rate Discrimination

ONE MORE piece of evidence pointing to disparities in freight rates comes this week from the Edmonton Bulletin. That daily points out that a carload of apples can be shipped to Calgary at an 86-cent rate while the same carload would have to pay at a rate of $1.15 if despatched to Edmonton.

It is understood in local circles that the elimination of competitive truck rates on the run to Edmonton created a boost in the Edmonton rates, but it is difficult, indeed, from this distance to justify this great spread.

With this discrimination, it must be difficult for B.C. Tree Fruits to enter the Edmonton market, even though the CNR line to Edmonton from B.C. admittedly does not contend with the severe mountain grades experienced by the CPR main line to Calgary.

The Edmonton Bulletin editorial on the subject follows:

"Not even the most bigoted proponent of the status quo in freight rates could fail to recognize the criminal absurdity in the present rate on fruit from the Okanagan to Edmonton.

"This rate puts Edmonton fruit dealers at a ridiculous disadvantage compared to Calgary dealers.

"Up until April 11, 1948, Edmonton had a carload apple rate from the Okanagan of 86 cents. From April 11 to September 20, the rate was $1.04. On September 21 it was advanced to $1.15.

"Calgary still has the 86-cent rate.

"The disparity is just as pronounced in other fruits.

"Pears travel from the Okanagan to Edmonton at $1.15 but to Calgary for 86 cents. Stone fruits move to Edmonton for $1.71, to Calgary for $1.26. Vegetables are shipped to Edmonton at a cost of 68 cents, to Calgary for 51 cents.

"The rank injustice of this situation is emphasized by the fact that the Canadian National Railways will deliver apples or pears to Calgary via Edmonton for 86 cents. But if the car is spotted in Edmonton, the rate, for the shorter haul is $1.15.

"Under this discrimination, Calgary wholesalers could almost ship into Edmonton and compete favorably with Edmonton wholesalers.

"The rate structure, as it affects fruit shipped from the Okanagan to Edmonton, imposes an unwarranted hardship upon Edmonton business men and Edmonton consumers . . ."

The Inside Story

By AGROLOGIST

Last Friday night I was privileged to attend a banquet given in honor of Ed Britton by his colleagues of the Okanagan Agricultural Club. Ed has just retired from the staff of the experimental station. According to Dominion Civil Service regulations superannuation is optional at age 60 and compulsory at age 65. Ed Britton may be 65 years old—but he certainly doesn't look it. Actually he looks very little older now than he did when he came to Summerland twenty years ago! Evidently Ed has learned the secret of how to stay young.

The banquet was quite a gala affair. The chicken noodle soup, roast turkey and apple pie were delicious; furthermore, the servings were generous, to say the least. In fact, it is beyond my comprehension how Harold McLarty and Dick Palmer managed to clean up their plates after having already partaken of a substantial supper at the Rotary Club! The girls of the Hospital Auxiliary surely can cook. Their husbands are to be congratulated.

Ben Hoy acted as toastmaster and, as might be expected, performed his duties most efficiently. In carrying out the program, he was ably assisted by such noted agrologists as Bob Murray from Penticton, Maurice Middleton from Oyama and M. P. D. Trumppour from Salmon Arm.

From the glowing tributes paid to Ed Britton, it is quite obvious that the important contribution which he has made to the welfare of the B.C. fruit industry is fully appreciated by his fellow workers. The fact that almost everyone in the Okanagan is now fruit maturity conscious is due very largely to Ed Britton's persistent efforts. He never misses an opportunity to acquaint all and sundry with the fact that the prosperity of the fruit industry lies in delivery of high quality fruit to the consumer in the best possible condition.

Ed Britton's service to society did not begin when he came to Summerland—not by any means. For 12 years before that time, he taught agriculture in the schools of Armstrong, Enderby, Rutland and Kelowna. It is surprising how many outstanding agrologists owe their inspiration and early training in agriculture to Ed Britton.

Throughout his life Ed has been an ardent philatelist. Accordingly, it was most fitting that the gift presented to him by his colleagues took the form of a substantial, leather-bound stamp album. This should provide him with many hours of pleasure and everyone hopes that he will live a long time to enjoy it.

Few people know that Ed Britton is an accomplished woodsman. In his youth he served his time as a guide and a trapper in the wilds of Ontario. He plans now to make a trip back to the familiar haunts and experience again the fascination of the forests and lakes of old Ontario.

No doubt A. J. Mann knows something of these plans for he read appropriate extracts from the poem "Temagami". Most of us can read, but very few of us make a really good job of reading aloud. A. J. Mann is one of these favored few. He read with a clear, resonant voice which gave full expression to the music, rhythm and harmony in Archibald Lampman's immortal lines,

"All day with steady paddles towards the West
Our heavy laden long canoe we pressed."

Summerland won its honor flag in the Victory bond campaign, with 383 subscriptions netting $84,500. A matter of comment as an outcome of the canvass is the general prosperous condition of the people of the district.

A very gratifying improvement in the financial situation of the Municipality of Summerland as regards its sinking fund account will be shown by the annual statement to be issued early after the end of the year. The condition of this account will be improved to the extent of $5,600.

"How much can be made per acre of orchard is a question frequently asked, and any figures bearing on this question are always interesting. A return of a thousand dollars per acre would be high even for the real estate boosters of earlier days, but that such returns are easily possible has been proven.

At a special meeting of the school board held on Tuesday afternoon, H. W. Harvey was given the contract for lathing, plastering and finishing the domestic science room in the new addition of the high school building. Including black boards the price is $365.

The post office authorities have given J. H. Bowering the contract for the rural mail route.

Mr. Muir Stuart thought that it was possible for the co-operative packing house to close down for a time on Saturday. Everything was under cover and indications were that orders would slacken off.

Appointment of Dr. George Howell Harris, brother of Dr. J. Allen Harris, co-discoverer of insulin, and eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Harris to the post of assistant professor of horticulture at the University of B.C. is announced.

Summerland and Penticton high school soccer squads put up a fairly even game for about three-quarters of the time, when the local boys began to fall behind. The score ended in a 1-1 tie. Summerland team members are: W. Gartrell, Bob Scurrath, W. Charles, J. Morrow, J. Blewett, W. Neill, J. Laidlaw, C. Bleasdale, M. Biagoni, H. Yolland, H. Mitchell and M. Thompson.

The Giant of Giant's Head

XVII—The War of 4321

'Twas bitter, bloody, vicious strife
With charge, retreat and 'sally,
When Pig and Dog fought hard for life
In the Battle of Prairie Valley.

Although the Giant of Giant's Head was absolute monarch of the whole Okanagan Valley and all the giants and beasts that dwell there, he was very lenient in his dealings with the animals. He rarely called on them for taxes or military service and his rule was supervisory rather than dictatorial. Most of the animals loved the Giant king but there were two groups, the Wild Dogs of Dog Lake and the Wild Pigs of the Piggeries which were constantly giving him trouble.

The Piggeries, a wooded stretch of land extending from Fish Lake north to Deep Creek, was the home of the Wild Pigs. This was not a vicious tribe but their feud with the Wild Dogs was bitter and unending.

This enmity came to a head in the year 4321 (giant calendar) with continual raids and killings by members of both these animal tribes.

Finally the Giant called the two leaders to a conference in order to attempt a settlement. But the hatred of many years could not be erased and no progress was made. The leaders at length asked permission to fight a war to decide which was in the right.

The Giant answered, "Wars do not settle rights or wrongs, they only foment new troubles. That is the lesson that history will teach all through the ages. Let gifts. If you don't say you'd love a wee flask of perfume, or a lacey bed jacket, or even a new stream-lined double-boiler, sure as cats you'll end up with nylons. Not that you don't need nylons too, but you'll buy those for yourself anyway. Whisper in his ear; bite it if necessary.

You may have heard what they say about gals who wear red hats. Personally I don't believe it. You just up and wear a red beret some time, and let the cookers cackle alone in their drab, rain-soaked brown felts.

I guess for the young-timers there's nothing quite so Sunday-ish as velvet. For the "she's" that is; teenagers don't try putting that manly three-year old son of yours in it, but do try to keep him in stove-pipe pants as long as possible.

Be awfully, awfully careful about how you answer the "Is there a Santa Claus?" questions. Never let a flicker of a smile come to your face. How'd YOU like your husband to hug you with one hand and reach for the evening paper with the other? Same thing.

Never forget that the postman, the milkman, the ice man, and the door-to-door salesmen like to see nice-looking women too. It's easy to keep a powder puff and lipstick around the kitchen for a quick flip and awash. Makes you feel better, into the bargain. A real two-way stretch, that.

tolerance and brotherhood be your watchwords and help make this world as pleasant as it was intended to be."

The leaders would have none of this pacifist propaganda but cried in unison, "We want war!"

The Giant sighed, as peacemakers have been sighing since the world began, and answered, "Go back to your people and talk it over. If you still want war in six months' time I will give my permission."

For a short time peace reigned. Then the Wild Dogs again started their aggressive tactics for they were great lovers of wild pork with or without apple sauce.

The Pigs retaliated by expanding their army by calling all their females to the colors. They also demanded of the Giant that he give them protection or permission to protect themselves.

Seeing that there was no hope of harmony, consent was given for the two armies to fight a battle of decision on Sunflower Day. (April 10).

During the days that followed, there was intensive training in both camps. Platoons of Dogs could be seen drilling both day and night. The Pigs were busy too but the legend that they tried to enlist the aid of Alexander the Great is likely untrue as records indicate that the Dog-Pig war antedated Alexander by hundreds of years.

On the fatal day the rival armies assembled facing each other in Meadow Valley with the Giant and staff on hand to referee the combat. At a given signal the two armies charged and the struggle commenced. The turmoil, the bloodshed, the howling of the Dogs, the squealing of the Pigs made a battle that has never been paralleled in all history.

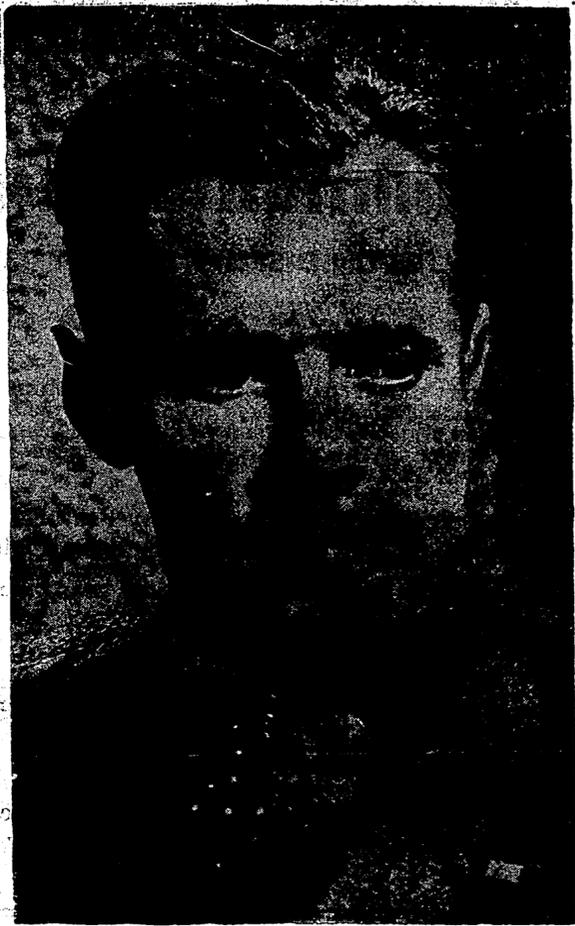

It soon appeared that the Pigs had the advantage for the Dogs were driven steadily back until Prairie Valley was reached. Here the Dogs had cleverly left a second line of defence with trenches manned (?) by their allies, the fire-breathing Dragons.

When the Pigs hurled themselves against this line, the smell of roast pork reached as far as Palestine causing a migration. The Pigs gallantly rushed these defences time after time but could not capture them. Their casualties were terrible. Then the Dog army, which had reformed behind the Dragon line, re-entered the fray and the Pigs were exterminated to a pig.

The Dogs, weary and exultant, left the scene and it remained for the giants to clean up the battlefield. It was a good chance to obtain meat supplies and the giants made good use of the occasion. The thousands of hams hanging in the giants' caves for years after gave grim proof that war does not pay—for pigs. Thousands of bodies of the slain warriors were burned on the spot and the ashes spread over the land. These white ashes are still visible in parts of Prairie Valley.

It is not surprising that the victory of Sunflower Day was celebrated by the Wild Dogs until they were wiped out by a flood that swept the Valley at a date that cannot be ascertained.

est, at present, the national railroads in extension of the PGE railway and flatly declared that the people of B.C. must be willing to accept taxation and turn over its revenues to develop and extend this railway into the Peace River, which he termed the Garden of Canada.

"It is our duty to put a highway (John Hart) through to the Peace River but we must also find some way to push the railway through to develop the Pine Pass coal deposits."

Premier Johnson is also hopeful of discovering oil in sufficient quantities in the northland to further the need for rail extension.

"If we have the courage to go through with the job then we can look forward to continued progress and expansion."

He urged his listeners to take a greater interest in politics and the party of their choice. He made a comparison with peoples of European countries who show an intense interest in public affairs at all levels.

Asked about Great Britain, where he visited recently, Premier Johnson declared that the hundreds of plants which private enterprise established many years ago are still operating and doing a good job in providing Britain's wealth.

No Disintegration

Hon. Herbert Anscomb, first speaker, harangued the CCF for its attacks on the Coalition and declared that there is no danger of any disintegration of Coalition under its present functioning form.

He stressed that there is no difference between Communism and Socialism and declared that the fight today is between Free Enterprise and Socialism. He also claimed that there is dictatorship in CCF ranks as the CCF candidate is not a free agent but is under the "hierarchy in Vancouver", the central party organization, and has to be approved by it.

Dealing with a recent statement by Mrs. Grace McInnes that he and Premier Johnson had been forced into a shotgun wedding, Mr. Anscomb replied that "I would rather be forced by a shotgun than live in political sin," intimating that this is the condition between the CCF and the Communist party followers.

Swinging into the social assistance provided by B.C., Mr. Anscomb declared that this province is faced with the greatest humanitarian problem in its existence.

"Nobody would dare to reduce or give away the old-age pensions or the mothers' allowance," he emphasized, but the cost is rising rapidly and must be met by some means. He budgeted $20 1/2 million dollars for social security this year and followed the policy adopted in 27 states in the Union and by two provinces in Canada in introducing the sales tax to meet this increased demand for social assistance and municipal aid.

"I don't know how much it will bring in but whatever it is the municipalities will get one-third, allowing them to reduce taxes or

Local Share of Tax

He mentioned that Summerland will receive approximately $15,000 to $16,000 and already arrangements have been made for the municipality to receive a cheque for about $7,500 in December.

He spoke on the criticism levelled by O. L. Jones, MP for Yale, that B.C. had signed away its taxing powers to Ottawa. Saskatchewan signed before B.C., Mr. Anscomb reminded, and after John Hart got through with his deal, Ottawa had to give Saskatchewan another $2 millions to equalize the provinces.

He warned that not a dollar would come into this province for new industry if a socialistic government is adopted in B.C. "And B.C. needs outside capital," he insisted.

Going back once more to the social assistance problem, Mr. Anscomb declared that "we will continue this humanitarian program until such time as there is a national contributory social assistance program throughout this country. I don't know when it will come and when it does you probably won't like it because you will have to pay for it."

Mr. Anscomb, who is a former minister of public works, dealt shortly with the road expansion program, saying: "The economy of the province demands that a tremendous road program be instituted and at great cost."

Fifteen million dollars for capital development of roads was allocated from surplus, ten millions were budgeted for this year's expenditure and a large portion of the gas tax was set aside for hard surfacing.

He termed the Hope-Princeton road as a great development which will be a tremendous acquisition to the interior of B.C.

Another Empire

The Peace River country he termed "another empire north of the CNR," with coal, water power and farm land in great quantities. "It is our duty to open up B.C.," instancing one area in the north which has a proven 290 million tons of coal waiting for rail extension.

"We know nothing of that country up there but it is our responsibility to develop it and we intend to do just that," he emphasized.

He told of the province assuming fifty percent of the cost of new school construction and that the minister of education has approved new buildings amounting to $58 millions to be built in the next five years.

"The CCF knows that what we are doing is the proper thing but they haven't the courage to say so," he declared.

Of the health insurance plan, Mr. Anscomb believed that the people want this scheme and are quite satisfied with the proposal. He referred to the Saskatchewan health insurance plan and declared that it was started on such an insecure footing that more than three million dollars had to be poured in from general revenue apart from the contributions of the people.

Great Promise

"The development which we can have here in this province is positively astounding and the development which is going on now was beyond our comprehension ten years ago," he emphasized.

"He spoke of the great movement of residents from other parts of Canada into B.C. and stated that for the last four years 125 families per month from Saskatchewan have been leaving their great socialism for capitalistic B.C."

"And they are still coming," he added.

"This development is going to cost this government a great deal to keep pace with the growth," he warned.

As a windup he warned that B.C. must continue to foster overseas markets, especially Great Britain, and spoke of the competition which would be forthcoming if Russia opened up her vast timber resources with slave labor.

He also spoke of the manner in which industry is utilizing profits and outside capital to build new plants thus creating more pay-rolls and more revenue for the province.

J. Y. Towgood, chairman of the Summerland Coalition Assn., was chairman of the meeting and speakers were introduced by Reeve R. A. Johnston and W. G. Gillard.

It was a very pleasant evening for all who attended. Mr. Blake Milne showed moving pictures of California and Florida, which he took last winter, while he and his family were holidaying there.

There were songs by Mrs. Armour, Mrs. F. Downes and Mrs. Millay, and Mrs. L. W. Rumball and Mrs. Downes played the accompaniments completing the musical program. Mr. Dave Taylor, Sr., gave violin selections.

The ladies served refreshments, and the rest of the time was taken up with cards and dancing. Music for the dancing was a trio comprised of Mr. Dracus, Mr. Lamb and Mr. D. Taylor.

When the lodge was first formed Rev. R. J. McIntyre, a former Methodist minister at the lower town, was the first Worshipful Master. Mr. J. J. Blewett is the only charter member still living in Summerland.

Girl Guide Local Starts on Quilts

The regular monthly meeting of the Local Association of the Girl Guides was held in the Parish hall on Friday afternoon. The ladies found the low schoolroom tables and chairs ideal for cutting out and sewing, and a good start was made on a quilt, which will be raffled to aid the summer camp fund. It was decided not to hold a meeting in the busy month of December.

Alex Watt Warns Pear Growers to Check Trees For Fire Blight Signs

High moisture conditions last summer caused excessive amounts of succulent growth making pear trees susceptible to fire blight attacks, A. W. Watt, local district agriculturist warns growers this week.

The result was one of the worst fire blight outbreaks in several years.

The July 1st issue of the Washington crop report, published by U.S.D.A. asserts "Bartlett pear production — is down 30 per cent from last year— This year's crop suffered irreparable damage from frost and poor pollination in the spring but as the crop developed further damage was caused by the heaviest attack of fire blight since 1912."

Nor did the disease confine itself to areas south of the border, as growers and district horticulturists all admit a sharp increase in the amount of infection through out the Okanagan.

"So far, this district has not suffered any serious loss but the conditions are at hand for a severe attack in 1949, unless we take action now to eliminate all sources of over-wintering infection, states Mr. Watt.

"The test of time has proved that the dormant clean-up is the best method with which to eradicate fire blight from the orchard. Excessive growth caused by too much water, over-abundant supplies of fertilizer or too severe a pruning can increase the danger of blight attacks, but does not actually cause them.

Spreads in Spring

Fire blight is caused by a minute bacterial organism. These bacteria live over winter in cankers formed the previous year and in the spring inoculum from these "hold-over" cankers is spread by insects to blossoms throughout the orchard. Then, if the right conditions are present a general epidemic may follow.

"Often, one single "hold-over" canker can set going a chain of infection which will spread through an entire district. It is, therefore, obvious that the best course of action is to find and remove during the winter every bit of material harboring infection and to destroy it. A search should be made for blighted twigs, spurs and limbs in November and December while old cankers can be detected easily by the presence of late adhering leaves.

"This type of clean-up cannot be done while sap is flowing, due to the danger of spreading the disease on the shears or saw.

"The time to start is now. Delay may probably mean that the fire blight clean-up will be done concurrent with the pruning. This is bad practice because the grower cannot give his undivided attention to the detection of blight while pruning at the same time.

"A good way to set about the business of blight eradication in your pear block would be to pick a fairly bright day so that the bark shows up clearly. (Some days are practically hopeless for detecting blight as there is not enough light to see bark discoloration.)

Be Careful

"Go over the entire block very carefully walking right around each tree and taking plenty of time. Cut off all infected twigs and branches at a point at least six inches below the margin of the discolored bark. The prunings so gathered should be burned.

"If the work is done early enough, blighted branches will be detected by the presence of withered, dried-up leaves still adhering to them. However, this is not a sure indication as winds may have removed the withered leaves, particularly if the work is done in late winter. At all times a sharp lookout should be kept for discolored bark, as this may often be the only sign of blight in the tree.

"If you have gone over your pear block and are sure every last bit of blight is removed, leave it and go back again for a final check-up later on in the winter. You are almost sure to find one or two bits of blight that you missed the first time through.

"Should any grower require assistance with his blight clean-up program, he is advised to contact the local Agricultural office, phone 31, and arrange to have Alex Watt call."

Fanseer Canning Company To Start Jam Making in Old Gymnasium in March

Definite forward strides are being taken by Mr. W. G. Rempel, in company with A. E. Smith and other local business men to commence operation of a cannery in Summerland which will not only produce canned goods from stone fruits but will process jams, jellies, mince-meat, honey, pork and beans, and glazed and maraschino cherries.

This company will be known as the Fanseer Canning Company and will adopt the Fanseer Brand as the label.

It is expected that canning operations will commence next March, Mr. Rempel states. The latter came to Summerland as manager of the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Assn. cannery which was sold to the Cornwall Canning Company last spring.

This company has acquired the old Baptist College gymnasium on Giant's Head Road, from Alex Steven, who utilized it for packing-house work after it was abandoned as a gymnasium.

On Thursday evening, Mr. A. E. Smith gave the Summerland Board of Trade an outline of the plans of the new company.

"Any industry which would provide our local people with continuous employment is our first consideration," Mr. Smith declared. "Since the major part of our income is derived from the fruit grown locally, it is with this thought in mind that our new processing industry is being opened."

Besides the canned goods already outlined, vegetables which can be grown profitably in this area will be included, Mr. Smith announced.

Already this company has inquiries for asparagus, green and wax beans, pumpkin, tomatoes and beets. In the fruit line, the cannery will be looking for strawberries and raspberries for jams. Black and red currants and gooseberries will be required.

"All of these foods could be grown here and at the same time would tend to diversify the growers' products," Mr. Smith declared.

No Dehydrating

For the first year's operation, the Fanseer company would confine its major pack to the fruit on hand and the other lines proposed would fill in the winter's work.

porting of fruit, believing that the interior area can provide sufficient raw products to keep the plant in operation.

"For the past ten years Canada's population has increased tremendously and will continue to increase, Mr. Smith told the trade board. "We feel canned goods production has a very important part to play in the future. In peacetime or wartime, the population must have food."

Arrangements, were concluded last weekend to incorporate the new cannery concern as a limited liability company.

Saskatchewan's Insurance Scheme and Industry Setup Explained by Hon. C. M. Fines

Painting a picture of one of Canada's poorest provinces which has reduced its provincial debt and provided more services for the people, Hon. C. M. Fines, provincial treasurer of the Saskatchewan CCF government, was a convincing speaker to a CCF public gathering at the Nu-Way Annex Thursday evening, when he spoke on behalf of Bruce Woodworth, CCF candidate in the South Okanagan by-election.

O. L. Jones, MP for Yale, also spoke on behalf of the CCF party and its platform. One of the highlights of Mr. Fines' address was his consideration of three types of industry which should work side by side in Canada. He referred to private enterprise, co-operative enterprise and government industry. He declared that there is a place for all three in Canada.

Another feature of his talk centered around the much-publicized government insurance scheme inaugurated by the Saskatchewan government.

At the outset, Mr. Fines stressed what a wealthy province the people of B.C. have and intimate that under a CCF government much greater strides could be taken. Saskatchewan, on the other hand, is the second poorest province in the Dominion.

Right away the Saskatchewan speaker told of his government's social assistance program which has provided this year over $11,000,000 for public health and $11,000,000 for social services, including old age pensions.

Saskatchewan increased its old-age pensions three times to bring its proper proportion of a $50 per province paying what it claims is its proper proportion of a $50 per month pension.

"We are calling for the Dominion to raise the pensions to $50 per month and to assume its proper share," he declared.

Old-age pensioners are guaranteed hospitalization, medical and dental treatment and free medicines, plus optical work, Mr. Fines continued, while mothers in receipt of mothers' allowance are entitled to the same consideration.

"That was our first major step in providing social security for those in unfortunate circumstances," Mr. Fines declared, stating that free cancer treatment from the best doctors available is now provided and free treatment in any one of three sanatoriums for tuberculosis patients.

"I'm very proud of our work in Saskatchewan, that we are giving these free services without any charge on the municipalities. We are very proud when we compare it to what B.C. offers."

Had Huge Debt

When the CCF government took over in 1944, individuals and municipalities had a huge debt, partly due to bills owing on seed grain. Since that time $70,000,000 in these debts have been wiped out. The municipal debt in 1938 was $68 millions. In 1944 it was reduced to $55,000,000 and in 1947 that figure had gone down to $17,700,000. Farm debts in 1944 amounted to $232 millions, but in 1946 that figure had dropped to $97 millions and by the end of this year a further drop to $50 millions will be shown. "This is a tremendous reduction in debt and shows that our people are much better off," the speaker, pointed out.

For a moment he dealt with hospital insurance, claiming that B.C. followed Saskatchewan's lead in this regard. The cost in that prairie province is $10 per adult and $5 per child, with a maximum of $30 per family.

Going from there to education, Mr. Fines, himself a former school teacher, stated that the government is instituting a basic minimum of $1,200 per year for teachers' salaries.

"We are trying to encourage a better class of young people to the teaching profession," he continued, remarking on the intolerable position of the depression days when salaries were as low as $500 per year.

"There is nothing more important in the cause of democracy than education," he emphasized. "Our schools must be the workshop of democracy, where it is not only taught but practiced. It will take a high standard and quality in the teaching profession to do this, for we must have more than just cramming a little knowledge into the young people's heads."

As last week was Education Week, he paused to insist that "we must be prepared to put more money into education."

With this in mind the CCF administration is endeavoring to extend the scope of education in all areas and to provide a more equal education for the children of the province. Free text books are provided for the first six grades of Saskatchewan schools.

Three Industries

Turning to industry, Mr. Fines outlined the three types, which must work side by side. The government is not interested in entering the field of private enterprise, such as the small stores, cafes, repair shops, etc. He claimed that despite the claims of CCF critics, private enterprise has come into the province since the regime started in Saskatchewan.

Oil and salt industries are being commenced by private interests and are encouraged by the government, he stated. Nearly 200 companies with a capitalization of $142 millions were started in 1947, he claimed.

Co-operative industry then occupied Mr. Fines' attention he claiming this is an important part of the producers' field. People working together can do a great deal, he emphasized, pointing to the co-operative grain control as the best example of co-operative farmers' enterprise.

Incidentally, he congratulated Summerland on its progressive fruit co-operative which he had visited that afternoon.

Dealing with government industry, Mr. Fines stressed that natural resources should come into this category. For years Saskatchewan had a power commission in name only and in 1944 it had a deficit of $240,000. The CCF government purchased all but one private power company for eight million dollars cash out of revenue and is showing a surplus this year of $600,000.

Reduced Rates

Not only that, but the rates which were as high as 15 cents per kwh for the first thirty, have been reduced to 8 cents.

"How did we do it?" he queried. "We eliminated waste and did away with the small plants, building up the larger plants to gain cheaper operation. We centralized production."

"What a cinch it would be in B.C. with its large centres and hydro power if the government would take over the private corporations," he predicted, adding

Jones Voices Criticism on Unemployment

Scathing criticism of the present-day governments in B.C. and the Dominion to allow unemployment in the face of plenty was voiced by O. L. Jones, M.P. for Yale, in addressing a CCF public meeting in support of Bruce Woodworth, CCF candidate in South Okanagan by-election, at the Nu-Way Annex.

Security and full employment are the aims of the CCF, Mr. Jones declared. "We place human values first and money values second, that's where we differ from the Coalition."

Banks, he claimed, cannot be left any longer in private hands. They are starting to restrict credit the same as after the first World War. There is a different tenor in banking now from two years ago.

Transportation facilities should belong to the people, also, and he declared that if this change was made the mountain differential could be removed. Hydro electric and other key industries should be taken out of private hands.

Improve Health

First efforts of the CCF when elected will be to improve the health and status of the people, was Mr. Jones' claim. Medical and dental services will be provided regardless of ability to pay.

The CCF party is the "middle of the road" party, and is the safest and best group to follow, he declared.

He emphasized that his party is composed of every strata of human society and contains

Two Scholarships For Penticton Pupils

PENTICTON — Announcement was made this week by H. D. Pritchard, principal of the Penticton high school, of the foundation of two new scholarships for local Grade XII students.

The scholarships, which are the gift of Henry Meyerhoff, are worth $250 each and are designed to aid the boy and girl in the Grade XII academic group who have obtained the highest standing on a minimum of five subjects taken in a school year.

some of the finest brains in Canada.

He reiterated that his party has nothing to do with the Communists and he challenged anybody to prove any alliance.

The CCF works for a planned economy, he continued, and this type of administration helped win the war, doubling production despite the large number of men and women in the services. "We are gradually drifting back to a planless economy which existed prior to the war."

Free Enterprise

For a time the speaker dealt with "Free Enterprise" and gave numerous examples to indicate the controls and regulations which beset any person attempting to start any enterprise at the present time.

"There's only one period in your life when you are free," he emphasized, "and that is the week which elapses before your father registers your birth. There is no such thing as being free in this country."

Dealing with the fruit industry, Mr. Jones claimed that he almost went broke as a fruit grower under "free enterprise." Then the fruit growers got mad, scrapped free enterprise and threw it out the window. He stated that the fruit growers have adopted a socialistic or co-operative system.

Mr. Jones also claimed that "you will never get electric service until the West Kootenays and B.C. Electric are taken over by the people. The West Kootenay won't extend to the rural areas until they are forced into it."

The speaker also called for the cost of education to be removed from the land, with the obvious means of raising the necessary financing being the income tax. Only charges for roads and charges directly appertaining to land should be charged against property, he believed.

Turning to old-age pensions, Mr. Jones called for wives of old-age pensioners to receive a pension automatically if they are fifty years or more of age. Two old people cannot live on $40 per month, he insisted.

Mr. Jones declared that the late J. S. Woodworth was the man who forced an unwilling government to accept the old-age pension scheme.

Dial Telephone System For Summerland in 1949 Will Cost $111,635 -- Ley

Cost of installing a dial telephone system in Summerland municipality will amount to $111,635, R. W. Ley, Okanagan Telephone Co. superintendent informed the Summerland Board of Trade monthly dinner meeting in the IOOF hall on Thursday night.

Equipment for the new dial automatic system was ordered last May and delivery is expected early next summer, Mr. Ley told the meeting.

Some delay in receiving equipment for the Peachland and Westbank dial systems has been experienced but Mr. Ley was hopeful that work on the installation at Westbank will be commenced tomorrow, Friday.

Peachland and Westbank will be the first two centres to have the new dial system installed.

In 1949, Summerland and Lumby will see dial phones installed as the second step in the overall expansion program approved by the directors of the Okanagan Telephone Co. An expenditure of more than a million dollars has been projected to bring the telephone system in the Okanagan Valley up to a modern basis and provide adequate facilities for the entire region, Mr. Ley explained.

This telephone system extends to Revelstoke on the north and Penticton on the south.

"This Summerland district has been thoroughly engineered and some 600 lines have been ordered, which should serve this area for some time to come," Mr. Ley declared.

"The equipment ordered is of the latest type and is thoroughly recommended by prominent engineers throughout Canada," he assured his listeners, stressing that the figures he quoted are of a definite nature according to a plan laid down by a competent engineer engaged to survey the entire system.

To install an automatic exchange in Summerland will cost more than was first thought but the company directors are thoroughly conversant with the growth of Summerland and had no hesitation in authorizing the work to proceed.

Cost Breakdown
Mr. Ley broke down the cost of the Summerland equipment as follows:

Dial system and subscribers' equipment, $65,000.
Stringing of 81 miles of open wire and seven miles of new pole lines, $13,000.

21,780 feet of 25, 50, 100 and 200 pair cable, $17,500.

Two additional circuits of copper wire from Summerland to Penticton, $15,400.

Maintenance Man
A permanent maintenance man, with all necessary equipment, plus a truck, will be located in Summerland to handle the automatic exchange and make any necessary repairs or alterations needed in the district, Mr. Ley explained.

On party lines within a mile of the exchange there will be four parties to a line, two on each side. For distances more than a mile there will be six parties to a line, whereas now there are eight to a line.

Six toll lines will operate between Summerland and Penticton, thus speeding long distance service.

"Our directors look upon the telephone service in a serious manner and we will do everything in our power to assure you a first-class job," Mr. Ley promises.

"In the last five years the telephone industry in B.C. has been called upon to shoulder a much heavier burden than anyone could have anticipated," he continued, pointing out that even old subscribers are using the telephone more than they formerly did.

Great Increases
At the outset, Mr. Ley gave some comparisons which were of interest to the trade board gathering.

In 1939 there was an average of 1,317 daily calls over the exchange. Today the average has increased to 2,315, up 75 per cent.

In 1939, the number of subscribers in Summerland totalled 359 but this figure has jumped up to 657 in 1948.

Long distance calls have followed the general pattern. In 1939 the average calls per month was 1,240 but this year the figure has increased to 2,606.

The telephone industry has come a long way since the Summerland Telephone Co. was taken over by the Okanagan Telephone Co. in 1929, Mr. Ley observed. Telephone statistics are a sound barometer of business conditions generally.

Reviewing the post-war period Mr. Ley told the trade board that in 1946 there were so many new applications for service that the directors decided action had to be taken, as no extension had been allowed during the war years.

The whole system was taken under a thorough survey by an engineer who is considered one of the outstanding authorities in Canada.

This comprehensive engineer's report was accepted in its entirety by the company directors and plans for a million-dollar development with automatic dial installations as the predominant note were laid.

Exchange buildings have now been erected at Westbank and Peachland. It had been hoped that these new exchanges would be hooked up by September but the company was disappointed because of late arrival of equipment.

Summerland heads the list for development in 1949, along with Lumby, Mr. Ley declared.

The speaker was introduced by Walter M. Wright.

Let Contracts for John Hart Highway

Resumption of work on the John Hart Highway into the Peace River district is forecast by the announcement of Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works, of the letting of two contracts, covering 56 miles of construction on the southern section of the highway, to the firm of W. C. Arnett and Company of Vancouver.

These contracts are for a 30-mile stretch from Mile 14 to Mile 44 in Summit Lake area and between Mile 68 and Mile 94 near Azouzetta Lake, and total $2,223,696.

As a result of financial difficulties besetting the highway project it is now officially estimated that the total cost will be between $3,000,000 and $3,200,000, for the 251-mile road linking the Peace River to the rest of the province.

P.G.E. DEVELOPMENT

Premier Byron Johnson, upon his return from the East, stated in connection with the Pacific Great Eastern Railway development that "I don't think it is any secret now that the CPR and CNR are not interested. So far as I can see, at the moment, when anything is done about the PGE we will have to do it ourselves."

Display of Water Colors Arouses Wide Interest

Wide interest and much appreciative comment were aroused in Summerland by Miss Sophie Atkinson's exhibit of water colors displayed on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week in the IOOF hall, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, with Miss Atkinson in attendance.

The work of this noted English artist displays a delightful and varied treatment of landscapes, both European and Canadian, presented with a high degree of technical excellence. Her fine interpretations of the Canadian scene are divided into four groups comprising colorful Indian encampments at Calgary, Banff and Revelstoke lakes and mountains, and the Okanagan Valley.

The latter grouping includes studies of the lake in storm and in sunshine, pines, sunflowers, hills and orchards.

Her brush work is sensitive, at once delicate and vigorous.

Other paintings of particular interest depict Highland lochs, district near Edinburgh, English gardens, views of Windsor Castle, bombed churches and glimpses of London.

Originally from Newcastle-on-Tyne, Miss Atkinson has travelled through many countries including India, Denmark, Greece, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France. Her work has been shown in many different galleries.

On her first visit to Canada in 1927 and 1928, Miss Atkinson held most successful showings at the art galleries in Montreal, Calgary and Victoria. At that time she painted a great variety of Canadian scenes which were later exhibited at the northeast coast exhibition in Newcastle in 1929 as the opening of a series of "one man" displays.

Great interest was shown in her exhibit by the Duke of Windsor, who accepted one of Miss Atkinson's paintings of his Canadian ranch.

INCREASE IN U.S. VISITORS NOTED

More than 22,200 automobiles entered the province from the United States in September as compared with 21,596 in September of last year, announces Hon. Leslie H. Eyres, minister of trade and industry.

He stated: "This increase, though slight, was quite expected. The flood conditions which prevailed throughout the entire Pacific northwest in May and June disrupted our travel industry very seriously. However, as was expected, September brought a resumption of the normal flow."

Okanagan to Have Industrial Survey

Hon. Leslie H. Eyres, minister of trade and industry, has announced that Dr. D. F. Brown and George E. Gollop, members of Canadian Industries Limited development department, are in Victoria making preliminary arrangements for an exhaustive survey of the potentialities of this province.

This firm already has two large manufacturing plants in British Columbia but other added manufacturing facilities are being considered.

Arrangements are being made for Mr. Gollop and Dr. Brown to meet the department's field representatives in the Okanagan and Kootenay areas.

Monashee Road is On Roads List

VERNON—The Monashee road east of Lumby to the Arrow Lakes is definitely on the list of future projects for improvement, so members of the executive of the Vernon Board of Trade were informed at a conference with the Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works.

Commencement of work depends upon the extent of participation by the Dominion government in the Trans-Canada highway system, the minister declared.

"Give Me a Quart of That 'No Freeze' Son.."

We sure will, mister! And we suggest that Anti-freeze is just one very important phase of getting your car ready for Winter. Another is the proper lubrication. A third is attention to your battery. Why not come in for one of our COMPLETE but economical winterizing service jobs and be safe.

The Old Store

Forty years ago, the late A. B. ELLIOTT came to Summerland and established his grocery and general store business, serving the fast-growing district which was then springing up on the lakefront of Summerland. As the district grew, so did the business of A. B. ELLIOTT. This original store, now abandoned, can be seen near the lakefront, opposite the Lakeside United Church.

As the district grew away from the lakefront, A. B. ELLIOTT, with his son KEITH, established a second business on "The Flat" in West Summerland area. Gradually, this second business became the main centre of trading, and eventually the lower town store was abandoned.

The New Store

As Summerland has grown in population, so has the business of A. K. ELLIOTT, the only department store in West Summerland. Originally started by A. K. ELLIOTT'S father, on his death the business was taken over by KEITH, who has carried on his father's policy of stocking high-class merchandise.

In good times and bad, the A. K. ELLIOTT business has continued to attract a steady stream of customers. The store has now been completely departmentalized, new additions have been built, and today the buying public of Summerland district is offered a clean, bright, attractive department store for all types of purchases.

A new store front, with attractive Neon sign has greatly enhanced the appearance of Summerland's major retail store. Groceries, furniture, home appliances, toys, hardware, crockery, glassware, home furnishings and men's and boys' wear are the chief items carried by this popular and modern department store.

Public Health Nurse Praises Britain's Attempt to Care For Children, Old People

Britain's great struggle to improve the lot of the very young and the very old after the war of 1939-45 was depicted to members of the Summerland Women's Institute in graphic style on Friday afternoon, Nov. 19, in the IOOF hall by Miss Joan Appleton, public health nurse in Summerland.

Measures adopted as a wartime necessity were adopted as equally important in peace, resulting in the finest children Britain has ever produced and with the lowest infant mortality rate as well, Miss Appleton informed the Institute.

The ten million children in England today get what extra food and milk there is supplied, while she believes the newly-passed Children's Bill safeguards the unprivileged children deprived of a good home through various reasons.

"The new social security and health scheme provides a free and comprehensive service to children who, before the war, were not covered by any insurance at all," she explained.

Public Opinion

In answer to her own question as to the cause of this change, Miss Appleton believed that public opinion aroused by the war was largely responsible.

During the war a picture showing an injured child being dug out of a bombed building was given great publicity. As she clasped the neck of the air raid warden the look of terror on the face of that child was impossible to forget, and the people of Britain did not forget her, neither did they forget the hundreds of thousands of children evacuated from the large cities, Miss Appleton continued.

These evacuated city children were, in many cases, in a deplorable condition, verminous, dirty, badly trained and poorly clad. Indignation was aroused and public opinion demanded that something be done.

"Today, in Britain, a huge rehousing program is being carried out so that sooner or later the slums from which these children came can be abolished.

"In the meantime, war nurseries are still operating and here the children can spend the entire day and receive the best of food, adequate rest and fresh air for one shilling a day."

Children's Bill

The Children's Bill, Miss Appleton explains, was the outcome of the death of a child called Denis O'Neil, who died of ill-treatment in 1944. A storm of protests arose and the Curtis report, which covered a large percentage of institutions, resulted. She termed the bill a wonderful step in the right direction and should prove a boon for those thousands of children who have never known a real loving home or security.

Turning to the old people, Miss Appleton considered that a nation can be judged by the way it cares for the aged and infirm. She reminded her listeners of the treatment of old people by the Nazi regime.

War once again showed up the dreary and lonely existence which many aged people lived, she continued. In order to prevent them interfering with the war effort, homes and hostels were started for them and they soon cheered up and started to do more and more for themselves.

Now, much larger schemes are on hand for the provision of flats for aged couples, while single quarters for single men and women are being provided on the ground floor of new apartment blocks being built.

"England has a long way to go but subsidizing housing is a very real boon for the old age pensioner," Miss Appleton considered.

Mentioning briefly the situation in Germany where Miss Appleton served 18 months in UNRRA, she stressed the terrible need in that country. Hundreds were still living in bunkers and air raid shelters and children could not attend school for want of shoes and clothing.

To add to the wide devastation by bombing was the fact that Germany had no hope left, Miss Appleton found, whereas England knew she wanted, had a vision of a better life for her people and was determined to get it.

MORE ABOUT

that cheap power is never possible under private corporations.

Other industries which the CCF Saskatchewan administration took over or started included brick, shoe and woolen factories. For forty years private enterprise had not introduced these plants into Saskatchewan, so the government decided to institute them.

He claimed that these factories are producing better than average products but he is not sure they will continue "because we are on a little island in a sea of capitalism, and we have to meet competition."

He claimed the competition from Quebec, where workers get 25 cents per hour may force these industries out of business, as their lowest wage is 70 cents.

"That's why we believe there should be a national labor code with a standard minimum wage across Canada," he added.

The CCF government has instituted an insurance office, with no capital investment which has been able to reduce insurance rates 10 to 20 percent and has accumulated assets of $3 millions.

Compulsory Insurance

Then Mr. Fines swung into the compulsory insurance field, which was introduced in 1946 to cover auto accidents only, with all car owners paying $5 per year insurance coverage. This premium gave protection of $3,000 to the family of any person killed and $625 per child, to a maximum of $10,000, regardless of the cause of the accident.

After that first year, there was a $700,000 surplus so it was agreed to add collision insurance over $100. Collections amounted to $1,400,000 and about one million was paid out so the surplus had grown to $1,100,000.

As a consequence, the government this year instituted public liability and property damage and changed the rate to $4.50 for small cars and $8 for larger cars. Still there will be a surplus approaching $300,000 in this scheme this year.

He declared that the same type of insurance would cost from $40 to $70 anywhere else.

Mr. Fines explained that the government pays no agency commissions, and the only cost is in the accounting staff. No legal fees to fight cases in the courts are paid.

"No government in Saskatchewan would ever try to take away that insurance legislation," prophesied Mr. Fines.

He claimed that B.C. has adopted compulsory insurance but hasn't come out and said so, and has forced the people to go to the private companies for their insurance.

"It's no wonder the lawyers and the insurance companies bitterly opposed the type of insurance we have in Saskatchewan."

Net Debt Down

Referring to general sources of revenue, the speaker declared that the net Saskatchewan debt has been pared down from $215 millions in 1944 to $145 millions today, $36 millions having been wiped out through a deal with the Dominion government.

On the other hand, B.C.'s debt is little different today from the end of the war, he claimed, while the B.C. post-war nest egg of $65 millions has disappeared, and the three percent tax has been added.

In Saskatchewan, the government is progressively removing its two percent sales tax, he stated, and it has now been removed from all food, meals; second hand goods, drugs and prescriptions.

"We wiped out forty percent of that tax and saved the people four million dollars."

He predicted the B.C. sales tax will gross nearer $20,000,000 than the $12,000,000 anticipated.

He told his audience of going to big industry and demanding an increase in taxation, leaving a fair return on investment for the companies such as the Hudson Bay M & S Co., the breweries and the hotel keepers. They are very happy about the deal, he claimed.

In this way, Saskatchewan has added two millions in additional revenue which went before to Dominion taxation or as profits.

He also claimed that Saskatchewan, in its deal with Ottawa, did not have as much to give up as B.C. and therefore obtained a better deal.

"We have done these things in the poorest province in Canada. B.C. could be a paradise on earth and you have it in your hands to make it so," he concluded, urging the voters to mark their ballots for Bruce Woodsworth, son of a man who had vision, inspiration, sincerity and honesty of purpose—the late J. S. Woodsworth.

Senior Cagers Will Operate In New League

Formation of a senior basketball league which will decide the senior B champions of the interior, a departure from the playoff method which has always been in vogue in interior cage play was the highlight of the annual meeting of the Interior Basketball Assn. held at Kelowna on Sunday, Nov. 14.

Decision to divide interior senior basketball teams into a two-section league, with play commencing December 1, was made after a great deal of discussion.

The northern section will comprise Kamloops, Vernon and Kelowna, while the southern area takes in Penticton, Oliver and Princeton. Each team will play two home and two away games with each team in their own section and will also play one game with each team in the other half.

In other years, the interior playoffs were held on a knock-out basis with the finals on a home and home total-point basis.

The first four teams in this league setup will now go into the playoffs, with the top and fourth-place teams playing off for the right to meet the winning team between the second and third place squads.

Andrew Bennie of Penticton was again selected as president of the Interior Basketball Association, with Jack Hooper, also of Penticton, again taking on secretarial duties. Mr. C. J. Huddleston, Summerland, was named as one of the honorary presidents. No other Summerland cage representative was named to the executive.

Summerland was represented by local club manager Jim Hack, vice-president Keith McLean and John Vanderburgh.

Summerland will not be represented in the new league as it hasn't enough talent available to field a senior squad. Intermediate A and B teams, possible a junior team and a girls' team will represent this town in the interior playoffs, which will not be changed from previous years' standards.

These playoffs will commence in February and will be operated on the same basis as other years.

Representatives from Oliver, Penticton, Summerland, Kelowna, Vernon and Kamloops were present at last Sunday's session.

Prince George Man Makes Observations On Moose Future

A sports reporter on the Prince George Citizen has handed down a story on moosehunting and the intensive shooting this season. He asks the question: "Can Our Moose Survive Intensive Shooting?"

Local hunters are also asking this question concerning local game and those who have gone north for moose this year found them quite scarce. However, the Prince George reporter comes to the conclusion that there is no danger of a shortage of moose in the near future.

A reader of The Review has handed in the Prince George commentary, which follows:

"Is the large scale hunting of moose in the district serious enough to cause a shortage of moose next season? This is the question in the minds of local hunters.

"Many conflicting stories are going around as to whether there are still plenty of moose or will there be a scarcity next year, resulting from the numbers shot.

"A good many moose have been taken out of the country by tourists from the States and lower mainland of the province. It is reported that over 600 moose have been shipped out over the PGE and many more have gone down the highway.

"Though hunters say there are too many moose being shot in the district some of them believe that the toll taken by hunters and wolves is just a drop in the bucket. Back in the hills where it is difficult for hunters to get in and shoot a moose, much less carry it out, there are still many moose.

"In the southern interior of the province, below Quesnel, where formerly there were very few moose, there are now thousands.

"Moose are no exception to nature's cycle and their number rises and falls according to the cycle. The overall picture of the situation seems to be that though a great many moose are being killed this year, there is no danger of a shortage in the near future."

Talk on Game Problems at Zone Meeting Dec. 12

PENTICTON—Several matters of pressing importance in game conservation will be before the next zone meeting of the Okanagan Zone of game clubs. This session will be held at the Incola hotel on Sunday, December 12 commencing at two o'clock.

Mr. J. McTaggart Cowan, B.C. expert on wild life, will be the principal speaker, and will answer problems advanced by various clubs throughout the area. Representatives of clubs from Vernon to the border, and from Eridsville to Keremeos will likely be in attendance.

In addition, representatives of cattle and sheepmen's associations have been invited. Their interest in predator control is also very keen.

Migratory bird seasons, the pheasant question, and the bag limits on deer are also likely to be discussed. A coincidental view on conservation of pheasants and deer exists throughout much of the area, and an effort will likely be made to curtail the bag-limit on deer. There will be a "sounding out" of representatives on the pheasant question, closed in 1948 at the clubs' insistence.

Notices: Meeting, Friday, Nov. 28, School Gym 7 p.m. Full attendance to discuss hike. Duty patrol, Beavers.

SCOUT NEWS

Troop enthusiasm and activity remains high, with attendance on November 12 at 30 and a large number of proficiency awards being made. P/L Lewis received his King's Scout badge and public health man's badge P/L Smith his cyclist and master-at-arms badges. Athlets badges were presented to Scouts M. Robson, Glen, Gordon and Leslie Younghusband.

Recruit Nelson was invested and three other tenderfoots received their certificates.

The troop entertained Naramata troop on Saturday Nov. 13, when we played them soccer and basketball and invited the guests to supper. Summerland was fortunate in winning both games, and we hope we can keep in form till Saturday afternoon, Dec. 11 when we play Kelowna at basketball.

This Saturday, Nov. 27, we shall have an overnight camp by popular request. We shall leave in the morning so as to have plenty of time to erect a shelter for the night. This will be the first outdoor camping at this time of the year for most of the troop so he following suggestions are made:

(1) Be sure you have a ground sheet.

(2) If you have a sleeping bag, get it ready; if not try to borrow one, or better still try your hand at making one. The other alternative is plenty of blankets made up into a camp bed.

(3) For ease and neatness in carrying your pack, a pack board is recommended. Any boy can make one with a little effort. See your patrol leader for directions.

Properly equipped, every boy can have a first-rate outing and be thoroughly comfortable. There will be opportunity to pass a number of cooking and outdoor tests.

The troop feels very fortunate in obtaining the services of Mr. Rueben Huva and Mr. Jim Charity as assistants. Mr. Charity is a former Scout and secretary of this troop. We shall now have much better facilities for passing tests.

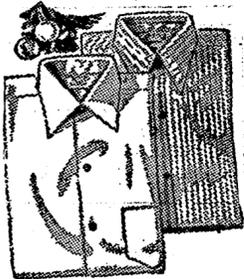

A new patrol competition is now under way, the Beavers under P/L Lewis having retained the Sherman cup. How about another patrol winning this trophy in January?

Notices: Meeting, Friday, Nov. 28, School Gym 7 p.m. Full attendance to discuss hike. Duty patrol, Beavers.

The Guide meeting last week was again taken up mainly with rehearsals for the forthcoming Christmas concert. Very favorable progress is being made in the plays and solos. Guides are reminded that all posters must be turned in this Friday.

Five recruits, having passed their tenderfoot tests, will be enrolled this week by Mrs. F. V. Harrison.

Guides working on their second class tests are again reminded to bring a sock which they have darned, and a note from their mother regarding bed-making, if they have not already done so.

Renovate Truck For Fire Purposes

Work on renovating the new truck purchased this year by the municipality for use as a fire truck is proceeding at the Pentiction Engineering Works plant, Councillor C. E. Bentley informed the council on Tuesday. The pump which has been ordered for inclusion in fire truck apparatus will be delivered in about three months.

Santa Claus Will Appear Here Xmas Eve

Summerland youngsters can look forward to seeing Santa Claus again this year on Christmas Eve.

At Thursday's board of trade meeting in the IOOF hall, it was decided that the board would continue its practice of inviting Santa Claus to make a public appearance early that evening.

Gifts of candy and other goodies will be given out by the jovial old fellow to all the kiddies who will congregate on Christmas Eve. The usual bonfire will add to the gaiety of the occasion, while it was suggested that the Summerland Brass Band would be a decided acquisition on that evening.

Two Months To Remove Pumps

D. L. Sanborn, of Sanborn's Garage and Machine Shop, is being given sixty days from December 1 to remove his gasoline pumps from Granville street.

This action is being taken by the municipality so that an early start can be made on road improvement work on this business street next year.

It was pointed out at Tuesday's council meeting that the Sanborn concern had entered into an agreement with the municipality to remove these pumps but had failed to comply despite repeated requests from the council.

Pay Last Tribute To T. H. Ramsay Pioneer Here

A respected and well-known pioneer of Summerland district, Thomas Hamilton Ramsay, aged 65, passed away suddenly at his residence on Sunday, November 21 after a brief illness.

Funeral services were largely attended from St. Andrew's United church on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. H. R. Whitmore officiating. The IOOF lodge, of which he has been an active member for years, conducted a service at the church.

Born in Lancashire County, Scotland, in 1883, the late Mr. Ramsay came to Canada in 1911 and settled in Summerland. For many years he was an employee of Smith & Henry, and following his retirement he was engaged in lighter duties by the B.C. Shippers Ltd.

His wife predeceased him in 1942 and he leaves four sons, Walter on Vancouver Island, Tom in Pentiction, Bob at New Westminster and Bill in the Merchant Navy; also two daughters, Mrs. Kay Spencer in Victoria and Mrs. Peggy Allan of Tranquille, B.C.; also four grandchildren.

Interment was in Peach Orchard cemetery with Summerland Funeral Home in charge of arrangements. Pallbearers were Jim Dunsdon, Jr., Alex Smith, George Henry, Joe McLachlan, C. J. Bleasdale and Harry Tomlin.

past history of the church, paid tribute to departed members and congratulated the church on its progress. On Monday evening his talk was entitled: "What is Man?"

Former Pastor Here for 43rd Anniversary

The 43rd anniversary of the Summerland Baptist church was held last Sunday. Rev. J. J. Smithson, of Kelowna, a former pastor, was guest preacher at the morning service. The pastor, Rev. F. W. Haskins conducted the evening service.

On Monday evening, Mr. Smithson gave an address at the close of a program which followed a congregational supper served by the ladies of the church.

The treasurer, Arnold Gayton, announced that anniversary offering receipts were $500.

The church choir, together with Mrs. T. Racicot, Miss E. Gayton, Mrs. B. Bergstrom, Miss Laura Mott, Miss Ruth Dale and Paul Birch contributed to a program which was greatly appreciated.

On Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Smithson listed a portion of the

New Domestic Water Storage Dam Ready

VERNON—The storage dam in BX district, designed to supply an additional seventy million gallons of domestic water for the city of Vernon, is now completed. This quadruples the present supply, making available four times as much water as heretofore.

The cost of this project was covered by a $110,000 money by-law, ratified by the taxpayers last June. The measure is designed to prevent water shortages such as have been experienced in dry summers.

Urges Registration For Hospital Plan

There are still some persons in this district who have not registered under the hospital insurance plan. Such was the announcement of J. E. O'Mahony to the Summerland Board of Trade on Thursday evening at the IOOF hall.

Mr. O'Mahony declared that these delinquent persons are evidently not acquainted with the scope of the plan, its benefits and the penalties which they will suffer for non-compliance with the regulations.
