Expect Keen Lung Apl 49 110n From Many Points at Valley Ski Tournament

The snow is here, the weather is cold enough, plans are practically completed and the stage is set for the first showing of the Okanagan zone ski championships ever to be staged by the Summerland Ski club. This big event, which is drawing interest from all parts of the valley, is being held this Friday, Saturday and Sunday, February 4, tournament which will probably show the big advancement of this sport in Summerland as local juniors are determined to pickoff a flock of hand and it is expected that some outside competition may arrive here from Vancouver in time for the big meet.

Nearly Thirty Appeals Filed On Assessments

Nearly thirty appeals on assess ments will be heard next Tuesday, February 8 by the court of revision on the assessment roll. January 31 was the deadline for appeal filing but several were mailed after that date, it is understood.

Majority of the appeals are against the assessing of machinery a new departure this year which was instituted following, amendments passed at the legislature at the last session. Reeve R. A. Johnston, when asked this week what action is likely to be taken with regard to these appeals and the machinery assessment in general declared he was not in a position to comment but intimated that the council is prepared to make an announcement in this regard when it sits as a court of appeal next Tuesday.

All machinery in "going concerns" in this district were classed as improvements in the assessment roils this year, regardless of whether they belonged to the owner of the building or were placed there by the tenant.

From enquiries made in other valley cities and municipalities, this practice has not become general throughout the Okanagan, it is understood.

It is known that the council has been obtaining legal advice from its solicitors, Boyle & Aikins, onthis subject.

Boy With Broken Leg Lies in Snow Several Hours

Darwin Harbicht broke his leg late Saturday afternoon as a result of a skiing accident. He had been out by himself at the top part of Prairie Valley, and was starting down towards the road on the steep slope just above the sharp right angle turn near the home of Mr. P. G. Dodwell. He struck a large rock, fell, pinning his leg under him, and breaking it as a

Not able to move, he lay in the snow for several hours.

The accident might have had more serious consequences, if Shorty' Roddy had not come along that way. He had left his horse tied to a tree near the spot, while he went to West Summerland to shop. When returning after dark, he found the boy, and tried to bring him down. Unable to do so alone, he went for help. Mr. Dodwell telephoned for medical aid. and in the meantime Darwin was made as warm and comfortable as possible with a buffalo robe under him, and blankets over him.

Cross country racing features the opening events on Friday af-ternoon. Thrilling downhill runs will bring a big crowd for Saturday afternoon, while slalom races will vie with jumping as feature attractions for Sunday.

Arrangements have been made by the tournament committee, headed by Ski Club President Walter B. Powell, to billet all contestants and spectators who so desire accommodation. Miss Gwen Atkinson is in charge of this important. department.

Transportation has been arranged by Ed (Hilly) Smith and buses will operate to the ski hill on Saturday and Sunday.

Those who wish to make the trip in their own cars will be encouraged by the news that the provincial public works maintainer was over the route this week and not only scraped off the snow but made turnout spots for cars to pass. Parking space for automobiles has also been arranged at the ski grounds.

Catering to the hundreds of visitors to the ski hill is an important function and is being handled by a committee headed by Bob Barkwill. Light meals and snacks will be available at the ski club

Lay Out Course

Last Sunday the cross country course was laid 'out over five to six miles of rugged terrain. The course is mainly on the level and does not allow any downhill intervals where the contestants can gain a breather.

Two slalom slopes have been prepared and the downhill course is said to be in excellent condition and ready for some exceedingly fast times.

Tents for the recorders and first aid officials have been provided as the rules of the tournament require a medical man and first aid attendants on hand at all times.

Cups and trophies will be available for winners of all championship events. These trophies are handed over yearly to the winners, while the local tournament committee is providing replicas for the first place awards.

This year, two new trophies have been added to the Okanagan zone list by the Summerland plants of the B.C. Fruit Shippers Ltd. and the Occidental Fruit Co.

Prizes will be presented to event winners at a windup funcevening, following the tournament. Mr. F. W. Schuman, president of the Summerland Board of Trade will officiate at this function. Another feature of the threeday affair will be the big ski dance in the Ellison hall on Saturday night. Bill Laidlaw is in charge of this affair, Another ardent tournament worker is Bill Snow, who has been in charge of publicity and various other details of the meet.

Twenty-fifth Wedding Anniversary Celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Harvey

Ottawa Gives Floor Price On Newtowns

Culminating a lengthy battle for government recognition, the B.C. apple industry was informed last week that a floor price of $2 per box has been placed on 250,000 boxes of Newtown apples.

This announcement by federal government authorities means that growers have been guaranteed a minimum price for the small sized apples in this variety which sales officials fear will be extremely hard to clear this year because of the lack of export mar-

Canadian buyers do not like small-sized apples, nor do they find a ready sale in the United States. With export markets virtually all cut off to Canadian fruit growers now, it was increasingly apparent that the task of selling these apples would be extremely difficult.

All the top executives connected with selling the B.C. apple crop were en route east to conferences in Ottawa and other eastern cities when the federal announcement

Contacted while travelling east, one official declared:

"We have not yet seen the order-in-council but presume it confirms acceptance of our request that the dominion government underwrite some smaller sized winter apples usually exported.

"It should strengthen the growers' position to some extent. Whether such underwriting of small proportion will be used or not will depend entirely upon marketing conditions during the balance of the season.

TRUCK SNAPS ELECTRIC POLE

A temporary light shutdown occurred on Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock when a truck operated by the Highway Construction Co. snapped off an electric light pole at the Station and Prairie Valley roads junction. The truck turned out to avoid the oncoming school bus and skidded into the pole in the deep snow a the roadside.

The electrical crew was only able to make a temporary connection and a further shutdown will be necessary tomorrow in order to complete the work.

Installation of the globes in the new street light standards had just been commenced when the accident occurred.

Driver Fined for Traffic Infractions

Paul R. Johnson, of West Summerland, driving a gravel truck, was brought before Magistrate H. Rotary Club Helps Fire Loss Victims

Summerland school students at tending senior matriculation classes in Penticton are being assisted by the Rotary Club of Summerland. These students lost most of their school books when fire completely demolished the Penticton senior high school. At a recent meeting the Rotary Club voted $10 per student out of community funds to assist in replacing the lost equipment. Those who are attending senior matric from Summerland are Doris Cristante, Laura Mott, Maureen May, Pearl Bolton and David Woodbridge.

Trade Boards Meet Tomorrow

Delegates from all parts of the southern interior are coming to Summerland tomorrow night to attend the quarterly meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade of the Southern Interior.

This gathering, which will take the form of a supper meeting, commences at the IOOF hall at 6:45 and a welcome to the visitors will be extended by F. W. Schu-mann, president of the local trade

Mr. R. S. Oxley, Summerland lawyer, will be the guest speaker, following which the meeting will be handed over to Harold Mitchell, of Naramata, president of the associated boards, to earry out the business details.

Mr. and Mrs. Darke were presented with a nest of tables by their immediate family, and received other gifts, and many cards of good wishes and congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clay, and their son, Graham, drove over from Grand Forks, and were among the afternoon callers. Mrs. Clay is Mr. and Mrs. Darke's niece.

Approval to School Plans

Informal approval to the plan of School District No. 77 (Summerland) to draw up sketch plans for a combined cafeteria-auditorium to seat 750 persons in the overall plan of the new junior-senior high school was given School Board Chairman C. J. Bleasdale last week by Hon. W. T. Straith. minister of education and Col. F. T. Fairey, deputy minister.

These two officials arrived in Summerland late Thursday afternoon and conferred shortly with the local school board chairman.

Mr. Bleasdale explained that this combined building would serve the elementary school as well as the new junior-senior high and when the overall program was outlined to the two officials they agreed to the project,

Both Hon. Mr. Straith and Col. Fairey declared that the Sum-meriand school extension program is quite within reason and commended the local planners for their business-like approach to the new school plans.

The Victoria officials were en route to Oliver to open the big South Okanagan high school on Friday. They declined to comment to any extent on the problom of teachers' salaries, which is now facing the municipality.

Two Political Parties to Name Candidates For Yale Federal Riding in Month

Within the next month, two political parties will have chosen their candidates for the next federal election, which is expected to be held either in June or October. At least, the Conservatives have already chosen tomorrow, Friday, February 4, as their nominating convention date in Penticton and last week a general meeting of Yale Liberals in Vernon decided to call a nominating convention in Kelowna within a month.

Mayor T. R. B. Adams of Vernon has announced he will seek election as Pro.-Con. candidate tomorrow. Magistrate Harry Angle of Kelowna was considered a possible choice, but he has been called away as one of four former Canadian army officers to serve as military observers on a United Nations commission supervising the cease-fire in the India-Pakistan fighting in Kashmir.

Magistrate Angle will be absent from the Okanagan for six months, it is believed, which would eliminate him from the list of possible candidates, Tory spokesmen state. He was in charge of the B.C. Dragoons regiment overseas.

W. A. C. Bennett, former South Okanagan MLA and a candidate in the Yale by-election last May when O. L. Jones, CCF standardbearer swept the riding, has not announced his intentions.

bearer swept the riding, has not an Among the Summerland delegates who will be attending tomorrow night's Conservative nominating convention in Penticton will be Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Nesbitt, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Towgood, Mrs. W. G. Gillard, W. C. W. Fosbery, C. W. Haddrell, Alan Calvert, Capt. J. E. Jenkinson, C. E. Bentley Fraser Smith, E. C. Bingham. ley. Fraser Smith, E. C. Bingham, Art and Phil Dunsdon, Capt. A. M. Temple.

W. G. Gillard, president of South Okanagan Pro.-Con. Assn. will automatically be a delegate.

New officers for the Yale Progressive Conservative Assn will also be named at tomorrow's meeting.

At Vernon last week, a general meeting of the Yale Liberal Assn. was held, with delegates attending from Greenwood and North Okanagan points from Kelowna north. Summerland south to the border was not represented because of the slippery condition of the roads, and the uncertainty of ferry service. Vernon Meeting Last week's issue of The Vernon News tells the story of the Yale Liberal gathering, as follows: Yale Liberal Association last evening, Wednesday, decided to hold a nominating convention at Kelowna within a month when a candidate will be named to contest riding in Between 40 and 50 delegates from the riding attended, including representation from Greenwood. There were, however, no delegates from Penticton and south. There was a small, but strong and more or less local pressure brought to bear to unite for the campaign with the Progressive Conservatives, which resulted in an amendment made by C. W. Morrow, MLA, that the executive of Yale Liberal Association contact Hon. R. W. Mayhew as to whether to fix a date for a nominating will allow the post office staff a convention or otherwise.

Renovation of Post Office Well Underway

Renovation of the West Summerland Post Office is now well advanced under the supervision of the contractor, Mr. H. S. Kenyon, of Penticton. In another month, the main portion of the inside alterations will be completed, providing a greatly increased lobby and working space.

The lobby, when the work is completed, will stretch across the entire front of the building, with three wickets across the east half of the building twelve feet from the front.

The lobby will be in the form of an L and directly around the corner from the wickets will be the parcel and letter drops. From there north will be the new mail boxes and across the end of the lobby will be the present nest of boxes which have sufficed for many years.

Distance from the doorway to the row of old boxes facing persons entering the building will be twenty-five feet.

The new lobby provides 400 square feet of space for the post office clients, an addition of 350 feet. The working portion of the post office is not increased to such an extent, having 150 square feet additional space, to a total of 600 square feet.

However, the re-arrangement of the post office will not only provide additional working space but better system of distribution, which will cut down on the number of steps to be taken.

The Hospital Society

HERE are always some disturbing factors in every new setup and that can apply to the new hospital insurance plan which, on a broad basis, is working out well and will be even more acceptable as time passes and the system has the kinks' ironed out.

However, the elimination of the local hospital insurance plan has just about cut the feet from under the Summerland Hospital Society. It practically ceased to exist at the end of the year, because there were only one or two members. At one time, President S. A. MacDonald was the only member of the society who had paid annual dues, the rest being all insurance scheme holders.

No matter how well the new compulsory insurance plan operates there still must be an administrative body which can solve the problems of hospital operation and plan for improvements to the institution.

When we started to discuss the subject the other day, one citizen became slightly indignant and wanted to know if the annual insurance payments she was paying wouldn't be enough to operate the hospital without paying dues to the society.

The two operations are distinct and apart. The insurance plan is for the day-to-day operation of the hospital and provides only the finances with which these operating costs can be met. But the hospital society directors actually administer the hospital and lay down the policy which the hospital employees follow.

We have always been proud of our hospital. We have always maintained a keen interest in its welfare and have contributed well to its upkeep. Just because the main task of financing this institution has been taken over by a new government scheme is no reason why local citizens should lose interest in their hospital.

The Summerland hospital is still just as much a part of the community as it ever was, but instead of individuals and families paying insurance premiums directly to the local plan, they pay them to the government plan to be used, as needed, to pay for hospital expenditures.

It is still imperative that a hospital society be maintained, but without a membership such a society would be a farce. The membership fee is only one dollar per year, which is little enough to know that your hospital policy of operation is being maintained, to the best degree possible, locally and proper supervision to details is being given.

If you are a member of the Summerland Hospital Society you can direct the operations of the hospital and lend. a hand to its future guidance and

To welcome the zone Ski Championships here, this column would like to splash technical ski jargon right and left, but doesn't descent terrified me if I went know how. All these fancy terms like schuss, vorlage, telemark, are so much ski-Greek to me, and 'christy' is still not so much a ski turn to me as the old slang name for the men's derby hats that we used to call 'christy stiffs'.

Great Variety of Activities Reviewed by Annual Meeting Of Local Red Cross Society

er at the annual general meeting of the Summerland branch, Canadian Red Cross Society. She gave a comprehensive survey of the activity of the various channels set in motion from Red Cross headquarters.

Of practical interest is the disaster relief department, which is ready to go into action at almost a moment's notice in many places throughout the province. It is supplementary to Red Cross hospitals, and has small hospital units stored at Kamloops, Nanaimo, and Victoria.

There are two complete mobile units, one on Vancouver island. and one in the interior. In cases of fire, flood, or other catastrophes, supplies can be obtained quickly by getting in touch with the local Red Cross.

This service, along with outpost hospitals, gives a sense of security to isolated areas, she declared. Shaughnessy Busy

Mrs. A. K. Elliott, the president, gave an account of the branch activities during the past year. She mentioned the work done at the time of the Trout Creek flood. thanking those who had worked, or helped with donations of food.

In conjunction with the St. John Ambulance Association a first aid centre, and loan cupboard had been set up in the medical clinic building. The stretcher and blankets had been used many times, and are there for emergencies at any time.

Mr. Jack Dunsdon was commended for the efficient way in which he handled the campaign drive last March, in which nearly $3,000 was raised.

Mrs. Elliott spoke of the blood donor clinic held in August in Ellison hall. This was convened by Reserve Corps; Mrs. A. Stark.

Mr. J. Y. Towgood, and ran with precision and dispatch. It has been suggested to headquarters that early July might be a better time to hold a clinic, and some members thought that June would be even more suitable. This matter will be given attention.

Because of the high water last summer, no swimming classes were held, but if the situation at the beaches improves, it is hoped these will be resumed. The Red Cross assists the board of trade in their operation.

Re-Elect Officers

Miss Cartwright took the chair for the election of officers, the executive being re-elected unanimously, with Mr. Jack Dunsdon replacing Rev. F. W. Haskins, as third vice-president.

No troop meeting was held last Friday owing to the trip to Kelowna on Saturday. However, there was a very good turn-out of 26 boys for the Kelowna visit. The drivers, Messrs. Huddleston, Joe McLachlan and Gordon Beggs are to be heartily thanked for providing transportation in such uncertain weather.

The ferry crossing took 40 minutes which meant that our hockey game vs 1st Kelowna troop was cut short from one hour to 40 minutes. The game was held in the new Kelowna Living Memorial Arena which is provided for the use of the Scouts each Saturday from 12 to 1 noon.

.The game was a tied 3-3 score with Rempel scoring two and Jack Young one goal. The team played a really good game, and considering it was the first time boys had played together as a team, got along remarkably well.

After the game the boys and drivers were taken out to lunch at the homes of the Kelowna Scouts. At 2:30 p.m. the two troops re-assembled at the Kelowna Scout hall where a number of competitive tying pursuit races, obstacle race, examined. Duty patrol, Hawks.

Mrs. M. E. Collas Continues as Prexy

An executive meeting of the Horticultural society was held on the evening of Jan. 23 to designate officers, and to draw up plans for the year's work. Mrs. A. B. Elliott was re-appointed honorary president and Mrs. M. E. Collas, president. Dr. Marshall thought that he was away from home too much to undertake the vice-president's duties, and Miss Doreen Tait consented to act in this capacity.

Many suggestions and ideas were made, and it is believed that the organization will promote vigorous activities, of benefit to itself and to the community during 1949.

FACTS FOR YOU...

ACCIDENT REPEATERS . . .

A Menace to your Life and Property!

 Statistics show that 40% of fatal accidents and 36% of all accidents are caused by the "accident repeater."

Safety Responsibility (Pink Slip) Laws are the only known means by which the motorist who continually has accidents can be taken off the road and kept off.

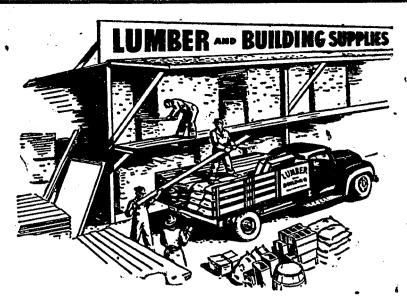

Why? Because under this law the accident repeater, if refused insurance by three companies, must apply to a committee who assign him to an insurance company at an increased premium rate. If he continues to have accidents due to negligence he is then refused a license to drive and rightly so.

COMPULSORY INSURANCE (Government or otherwise) does not protect the public, motoring and pedestrian, against the "accident repeater."

Ontario, Manitoha and the State of New York rejected compulsory types of insurance in favor of Safety Responsibility Laws because there was no evidence that compulsory insurance reduced accidents or fatalities. In Massachusetts (the only locality in North America with compulsory insurance where statistics are published) experience showed heavy increases in death and damage

Fifth Birthday Marked by Party

John Underwood celebrated his fifth birthday by inviting six of his young friends to a party at his home. Besides games and a big birthday cake the youngsters listened intently to a children's story from a recording. Invited youngsters were Angus Whitmore, Keith Skinner, Billie Thomas, Marilyn Milne, Marilyn Baker and his brother, Gordon Underwood.

Training School Pupils Come Here

On Saturday evening Mrs. J. L. Brown had quite an invasion at her home. Her daughter, Miss Estelle MacDonald, and twenty-one of her friends, from the Leader-ship Training school at Naramata drove over here. They came in the big bus, which the B.C. Electric Co. donated to the school. Some of the students came up to the rink to skate, and others went to the show. Saturday night is the time allowed for social activities, and this outing was enjoyed by all.

Later they returned to the Browns, where Mrs. Brown, assisted by Miss Bertha Bristow, served cocoa and other refreshments.

Miss Rae Armour, who was formerly employed at Schanuel's Real Estate in Penticton, is now on the Bank of Montreal staff at West Summerland.

Daughter of Local Resident Principal In Coast Nuptials

A quiet double-ring ceremony was solemnized at the St. Giles United church manse, Vancouver, when Rev. G. H. Hamilton united in marriage Irene Minnie, youngest daughter of Mrs. John James and the late Mr. James of Summerland, and Peter Penner, second son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Penner of Swift Current, Sask.

They were attended by Miss Mary Webb and Mr. Peter Klassen both of Vancouver.

The bride looked lovely in her street-length dress of pale blue sheer and matching flowered "Pot-Luck" Dinner headdress, her ornament was a gold pendant, gift of the groom. She wore a corsage of shaded talisman roses.

The bridesmaid chose a pale yellow sheer dress with matching headdress. Her corsage was of Kokomo carnations.

Following the ceremony a quiet luncheon was served after which the happy couple left by plane for Victoria. For travelling the bride chose a steel grey three-piece gabardine suit with plum-color ac-up residence in Vancouver.

L.O.L. SELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1949

Officers for the LOL 2036 for the year 1949 are as follows: P.M., Leslie Gould; W.M. J. H. Walton; D. M., J. Slater; chaplain, Lyle Campbell; recording secretary, Elmer Harbicht; financial secretary, F. Page; treasurer, D. Taylor; 1st lect., Wm. Pattie; 2nd lect., E. Gould; marshal, J. Coffey; 1st comm., H. Dracas.

Election of officers was conducted by Leslie Gould, and new officials were installed by County Master, J. H. Walton.

Enjoyable Affair

The Women's Federation of St. Andrew's church met at the home of Mrs. W. R. Powell on Thursday, Jan. 27, for a pot-luck dinner. Eighteen members sat down to a breath-taking array of food. The afternoon was spent in sewing children's clothes and making scrap books from Christmas cards, followed by tea.

The affair was so enjoyable and such a success that the organization hopes to repeat the occasion before spring.

one, and it was a decided success. Guests were received by Mrs. Bert Stent, the Worthy Matron, and Mr. Fred Schwass Worthy Patron. The striking decorations were planned by a committee convened by Mrs. Jack Dunsdon. They were in the symbolic colors of the order, and repeated in streamers and lights. Large and small stars were placed here and there on the walls, and a huge net full of balloons was suspended from the ceiling, to be released during the evening.

There was a large attendance, including members, their husbands and guests from Peachland. The dance convener was Mrs. Earle Wilson, with music by Saxie's orchestra from Penticton. Mrs. Jas. Pioneers of Fruit Industry Are Honored

Tribute to the pioneers who kept alive the organization in the early days of the fruit industry and paved the way for the unique organization which exists today was paid by the Diamond Jubilee convention of the BCFGA in Penticton last month.

A special tribute was paid to R. V. Agur, of Summerland, who was the main reason why the BCFGA in Summerland was in the lead during the struggles of early days and had one of the largest memberships, even as today.

Mr. Agur had a particularly hard task in keeping alive the fruit growers' organization. He had to canvass all the growers personally and extract their annual membership fee so that the organization could continue.

This work was carried out by Mr. Agur in a conscientious manner for more than a decade before he passed the arduous duties along to younger men.

Names of other outstanding pioneers in other districts will be added to the resolution of commendation which was presented to the BCFGA convention by Summerland local. Councillor C. E. Bentley spoke to this motion, urging its endorsation.

The resolution pointed out that the present firm position of the BCFGA and the growers marketing organizations is due in a very large part to the efforts of these pioneers and asked the convention "to tender our thanks to all those men for their confidence in our organization and their, energetic

Another pleasing feature of the convention was the honoring of three growers with life membership in the BCFGA.

These men, from Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton, were honored by President J. R. J. Stirling and were Charles A. Hayden, secretary and editor of Country Life; E. J. Chambers, president of the of central selling.

Hon. W. T. Straith, minister of education, impressed Oliver citizens and visitors last Friday afternoon at the opening of the new South Okanagan high school at that centre that Oliver has the finest school in B.C. and it will also be the finest school for some time to come.

He declared that such expenditures will not be repeated as the cost of education is increasing rapidly, due to increased building costs and the great influx of new population into many parts of the province, thus necessitating more school accommodation.

It was an impressive ceremony and the new school is really a wonderful building, C. J. Bleasdale, local school board chairman, stated on his return Friday from the opening ceremonies.

Other Summerland persons in attendance at Oliver were Trustee Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh and School Principals A. K. Macleod and S. A. MacDonald.

No expense was spared in providing the latest and most modern facilities in this new school building. It covers an acre and a half, has 72 motors in the heating and ventilating system, while the basement itself covers a half acre. There are two acres of floor space, the cafeteria can seat 700 at one sitting, and the gymnasium has a 450 capacity.

Cost of the building is approximately three-quarters of a million dollars, Bennett & White, contractors from Vancouver, who are renovating the Summerland elementary school built the edifice.

Puck Team Continues Win Streak This Week

Four victories have been chalked up by the local Seniors in the past week, three on the Memorial Park hockey rink and one at Osoyoos. The team has improved greatly in the past two weeks and is flashing a snappy brand of hockey with good combination plays being a feature.

Bob Ramsay is now the netminder for the local squad, with Rosie Campbell and Al McGargar as the main defensemen. Many local puck fans' believe that Campbell would be a decided acquisition to the Kelowna Packers lineup.

Last week, Rutland again visited Summerland and were turned back decisively by a 7-2 count. On Saturday night, a Kelowna commercial team invaded local ice and proved entirely out of place, absorbing an 18-1 licking.

On Sunday, Summerland travelled to Osoyoos and eked out a narrow 4-3 win, although the locals had by far the majority of the play.

Ramsay obtained his first shutout of the season when his teammates subdued Osoyoos here on Tuesday night by a 6-0 count.

Against Rutland last week, Mori opened the scoring when he put the visitors out in front but a minute later Croft, equalized when Taylor set one up. Marlowe put Rutland ahead again at the 5:30 mark but again Summerland knotted the count when Roberge scor-ed on assists by Brawner and Holmes.

Roberge scored again to put Summerland in the lead for the rest of the game and Furuya bulged the net at the 16.20 mark to give Summerland a 4-2 lead at the end of the first period.

Play tightened up in the second period and Taylor, on a pass from Friesen, was the only scorer. Summerland dominated the third period Croft opening the scoring on a setup from Friesen, and Holmes completing the scoring on Brawner's pass.

Twelve penalties were handed out as the boys roughed each other in a determined manner.

Weak Kelowna Team

The local seniors played stellar hockey on Saturday night against a weak opposition from Kelowna. There was never any doubt about the result as the Orchard City crew proved totally inadequate. The locals held the visitors scoreless until the third period, when Ramsay let the only one past him.

At Osoyoos on Sunday, the score was tied at 3-all up until the final minutes when Friesen capped a great game by slamming home the winning counter. Taylor scored twice and Croft once to keep Summerland in the game up to that

Osoyoos was blanked on Tuesday night as Summerland took the offensive early and never looked back. Ratloff gave the local pucksters the edge in the only first period counter, when Furuya fed him

George Taylor and McCargar combined in the second period, the former slamming home a neat shot to beat the Osoyoos goalie. Friesen came into the play a few minutes later when Taylor handed

Two Scholarship Winners Lose Books in Fire

Alumni's Summerland branch may take a hand to assist University of B.C. students who lost their personal belongings in the disastrous fire which swept the home economics huts on the campus last week.

Of chief interest locally is that Summerland's first two scholarship winners, Joan Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bennett and Shirley Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Harvey, are two of the home economics students. Joan is vice-president of that department's students' execu-

Mr. Alex Watt, president of the Summerland branch of the alumni association, stated this week that he would discuss with his local executive what steps can be taken here to assist the students who suffered such a loss.

Easy Way to Redeem Your War Savings Certificates B OF M SERVICE HELPS YOU

AVOID BOTHER, SAVE MONEY Many Canadians have found a simple way to cash their Whr Savings Certificates—they just deposit them with the Bank of Mon-treal. As each certificate falls due, the B of M has it cashed and credited to their account—automatically. The service costs very little.

This method saves folks the chore of sorting certificates every month, endorsing and mailing each one to Ottawa when it falls due, and then eashing or depositing the cheque for it.

Many people find this new B of M sorvice a real help in saving for something worth while, points out J. Muirhead local manager. Since the proceeds of their certificates go straight into their savings accounts, they're less inclined to spend the money than if it passed through their hands first.

Make a point of putting your certificates into B of M safekeeping tomorrow. It's a safeguard for your plans for the future—and a step you won't regret.

Vernon's Mayor Adar Adar Toron New Pro-Con Candidate; To Seek Grit Support

In a wildly enthusiastic convention, Yale Progressive Conservatives blocked a move from Penticton and Kelowna to hold off nominating a candidate and proceeded to select a young war veteran, Mayor T. R. B. Adams, of Vernon as Conservative standard-bearer for the riding of Yale in the next federal election. It was one of the most democratic sessions ever held, with a complete new slate of officers replacing the "old guard", and a newcomer to federal politics ousting the former Tory standard-bearer, W. A. C. Bennett, of Kelowna, in a closefought race.

This nominating convention was held in Penticton at the Legion hall on Friday evening, with Pro-Con delegates from Armstrong, Vernon, Kelowna, Westbank, Peachland, Summerland, Penticton and Oliver-Osoyoos areas present. The lower Similkameen was represented from Keremeos and Cawston, but no delegates were present from Grand Forks-Greenwood.

Highlight of the discussion was centered on the right approach to be made to the Yale Liberals so that one free enterprise candidate could be placed in the field to contest the next federal election against the socialist party candidate, presumably O. L. Jones, present CCF member for the constituency.

Penticton wished to postpone the nomination so that the Liberals could be approached to support the Conservative choice, but the convention, on a split vote, decided to proceed with the nomination of a candidate and then approach the Grits and seek their support.

P. D. O'Brian, young Penticton lawyer, was the convention choice as the new president of the Yalc Progressive-Conservative Assn. as a complete change of officers saw the former Tory executive ousted.

Hands of the clock had swung votes had to be taken, as all the past the midnight hour before the credentials had not been turned convention had settled on its choice of candidate.

It was 12:15 a.m. when retiring prexy E. C. Weddell, K.C. of Kelowna arose to announce that Mayor T. R. B. Adams had been chosen as Pro-Con standard-bearer. A scene of wild enthusiasm ensued, as Vernon friends and supporters hoisted the new candidate on their shoulders to carry him to the front of the hall and W. A. C. Bennett, the defeated nominee rushed to the front to declare the contest unanimous and pledge himself to the support of the new candidate.

No result of the vote was announced but it was known that Vernon voted solidly for the North Okanagan mayor, and that most of the Penticton and some of the Kelowna delegates were in favor of the young returned man.

However, the vote was believed to be a close one and in fact two tials.

E. C. Weddell presided through-

Two conclusions were reached by the speaker from the last fedoral by-election. One was that the COP candidate was elected by a minority vote, and that the majority of people in Yale favor the free enterprise system, yet they are represented by a socialist,

Mystery Earthquake

"Records have been carefully searched but no indication earthquake last Saturday. "No other recorded earthquake your vicinity."

This was the statement issued by the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory at Victoria on Wednesday to The Review in answer to a query regarding last Saturday's disturbance which shook this community and was felt to a minor degree throughout other parts of the South Okanagan. No reason for the disturbance which was more in the form of an explosion has been given.

At approximately 8.15 o'clock Saturday evening, every person within homes or business premises in this district was startled by the sound of a sharp explosion which shook buildings, rattled goods on shelves and had other disturbing effects. Residents rushed outdoors to ascertain the cause but no solution to the phenomenon has been

One mysterious aspect was that few persons who were outside buildings knew anything of the disturbance.

That the Legion should be asked to make minor repairs to the dance floor to prevent an accident was Councillor Wilson's opinion,

It was explained that the roof was half finished two years ago and the remainder was patched last year.

Machinery Assessments Dropped For This Year; Few Appeals Are Allowed

Due to legal entanglements, assessing of machinery as improvements for municipal taxation purposes was discarded at Tuesday's court of revision of the assessment roll when the reeve and councillors ruled on nearly forty appeals on the assessment roll. As a result of this decision, $203,965 worth of improvements assessments have been struck from the roll. Only fifty percent of improvements are taken for taxation purposes, but even at that a valuable source of municipal funds has been eliminated. Based on last year's mill rate this amount would have raised about $3,500 from business outlets.

Apart from the discarding of the machinery assessment, little change was made in the assessment roll and Assessor Joe Sheeley, who has just completed his first term in this category, received commendation from Reeve Reid Johnston for his efforts. He has been re-appointed for 1949.

Highlight of the entire discussion ensued early Tuesday when Mr. and Mrs. O. Hong protested vigorously their land assessment on a combined business and residential property. Mrs. Hong was especially bitter concerning the court's action and demanded equality and justice.

Reeve Reid Johnston made no explanation of the council decision regarding the sudden change in machinery assessment. A storm of protest has been raised over this attempt by the council and assessor to tax machinery, whether it belonged to the property owner or tenant.

It was on the advice of John Aikins, Penticton lawyer, that the decision was made. Although no official announcement has been made, it is understood that an enabling bylaw should have been passed before any attempt was made to assess machinery for taxation purposes other than ma-chinery which is affixed to the

When this discovery was made, there was no time to pass the necessary bylaw and the council decided to eliminate the entire troublesome question.

When Reeve Johnston made his announcement that the decision to drop machinery assessment had been made after legal advice was obtained, Councillor C. E. Bentley added: "For this year," intimating that the council intends to enquire further into the possibilities for Nearly fifty percent of the appeals were based on the machinery assessment. About twenty assessments were sustained and less than half a dozen changed. Reeve Johnston, at the end of sitting, congratulated Sheeley, assessor, on a good, conscientious job and declared that the sustaining of so many appeals indicated that he had not been out of line in many cases. The court was adjourned until 3 o'clock on February 22.

Study Lakeshore Two appeals on land assessment of Trout Creek lakeshore property were upheld, the court declaring that before any raise in values is made the entire area should be reviewed on an upward trend. Mr. Sheeley was asked to make a survey of all lakeshore property for the 1950 assessment roll. These two appeals were from

J. Ganzeveld and Walter G. Hill. but W. F. Woodbridge's claims regarding his improvements were not accredited and the assessment was sustained.

In general, fruit acreage in Trout Creek area was raised this year, as last year's assessment court had come to the conclusion that the area was not in line with the rest of the community fruit acreage.

West Kootenay Purchases Lot For New Station

First step in the installation of the new West Kootenay substa-tion in West Summerland was made last week when Mr. J. D. McMynn completed arrangements to purchase part of the F. J. Nixon property immediately south of the Summerland municipal substation.

Mr. McMynn, the West Kootenay Power & Light Co. Ltd. manager at Penticton, informed The Review last Friday that formal confirmation still must be received from the Indian department for rights-of-way across reserve land for the extension of the 60,000 volt line to West Summerland.

However, even though this permission is slow in coming through, Mr. McMynn declared that the work crows will start erecting line and poles in sections as soon as the present cold weather abates.

He considered that June would be an approximate date for complete hookup of the 60,000-volt line from Penticton into the heart of West Summerland.

When this high voltage line is in operation, a steadler flow of current is expected for this district and the needs of industrial operations can be filled more readily, it is understood.

Tories Prepare for Rigorous Campaign

AST FRIDAY was a history-making day for the Progressive-Conservatives of Yale.

Not only was there an entirely new slate of officers selected to operate the association's functions in Yale, but an entire break with old ties was made when a man brand new to politics in this riding, Mayor T. R. B. Adams of Vernon, was chosen as standard-bearer.

But more important than these two facts, was the evident desire of the Tories, young and old, to face the facts squarely and do their utmost to preserve the free enterprise system in this former Tory stronghold by defeating the socialist party.

A large proportion of the convention was willing to postpone nomination of a candidate, so that an approach could be made to the Liberals with the idea of presenting one candidate who would represent the free enterprise system against the socialists.

This move was defeated, but it was mainly because the time was felt inappropriate. If such a move had been called for prior to the naming of nomination convention date, then entire agreement would probably have been reached.

Even though a candidate has been named, the Conservatives can still approach the Liberals with a view to consolidating their free enterprise front.

We feel a little sad that the Conservatives tossed aside their man who put up such a stout battle against tough odds in last May's by-election. W. A. C. Bennett not only contested the riding against the strongest man the Liberals had trotted out in years, E. J. Chambers, but also had to battle the ever-increasing socialist vote.

However, it is a democratic country still, and the delegates at last Friday's meeting evidently decided to go "whole hog" and wipe the slate clean.

In choosing Mayor T. R. B. Adams, the Tories selected a young veteran who has shown his popularity and ability by rising to the highest office in Vernon, that of chief magistrate, in two short years.

Assessment Problems

UMMERLAND'S council move to drop the entire subject of machinery assessment came as a relief to many business concerns this week as several thousands of dollars were involved in the

But regardless of the amount, the fact that the council was forced into an unenviable position is an indication that more thought must be given to the entire subject of assessments.

Taxation of machinery is a ticklish subject, as it involves in many cases an attempt to assess equipment which does not belong to the property holder concerned.

Councillor Bentley's remark at Tuesday's court of revision indicates that the machinery assessment problem has not been dropped for good but will probably be introduced again next year.

If this is to be the action of the council, then a complete study of the legislative enactments should be made so that the council is certain of its ground before proceeding.

Although Assessor Joe Sheeley made an admirable attempt to assess equitably the hundreds of properties in this wide municipality there were some discrepancies shown at the annual court of revision and probably there are many more which were not protested.

It would appear that assessing of property in this municipality is a subject which should occupy more than part-time work. It has become so complex that it needs more than casual study and investigation.

We believe that the municipality would be well repaid to employ Mr. Sheeley on nearly a fulltime basis so that the entire municipality can be covered and inequalities ironed out as nearly as

With a full-time assessor, the council could be advised on such points of law as were discovered in the machinery assessment problem and which were discovered too late for any action this year.

White Cane Week

HE Canadian Council of the Blind and The Canadian National Institute for the Blind are holding their fourth annual White Cane Week this week from February 6 to 13. White Cane Week is purely an information campaign, national in scope, to acquaint the general public with the problems and the abilities of the blind. The two sponsoring organizations point out that a cooperative attitude on the part of the sighted is of first importance if the blind are to enjoy opportunities for a well-rounded life.

The Canadian Council of the Blind is in itself a patent example of the organizing ability of blind Canadians. Formed four years ago, it is an outgrowth of clubs of blind people in many parts of the country who have found in the council a medium for the expression and discussion of their views on problems relating to the blind.

In four years, the council has sponsored four White Cane compaigns; has been instrumental in promoting legislation to limit the use of the White Cane to blind people only; it has worked with The Canadian National Institute for the Blind in operating a summer camp in Ontario, and it has increased its membership from 8 to 29 clubs.

The council is completely independent of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, though the two groups work in close co-operation. The council represents the voice of the organized blind in Canada and the institute is the national service organization whose object is the social and economic rehabilitation of the blind and the prevention of blindness,

They d both be pleased as punch if they had diamond socks exactly the same: and maybe sweaters too, if you ever get around to it. Use those plastic bobbins for the sock-making, and you'll find yourself in no wool tangles at all, at all.

I sure wish you'd get some really pretty stuff and make yourself a strapless, sleeveless nightie. And then wear it every once in a while, even if only to boost your own bedtime morale, if not friend hubby's. Promise, now.

Remnant sales will often yield up a yard of goods, and a yard of goods with a hem around it or some bias edging, is a tea cloth, isn't it? 🦪

And say, the same night you wear that nicely naughty nightie, how about letting a few drops of your favorite toilet water or perfume drip onto a handkie, then tucking the handkie under HIS pillow. All's fair in love and war, you know.

Be sure to encourage the little ones around your house to write letters to grandmas and grandpas and auntics and uncles who love to get the little billets deux, inverted "s'" and all. Let them do the composing, and you'll be surprised at the results.

Hope you and that neighbor of yours have gotten together on a you-mind-my-young while I go to town, and I'll mind yours agreement. Will give you both more of a free leg, and helps accustom the youngsters to playing nicely with each other. Even at that they'll have tiffs, as you know; but they forget about them five minutes later, which is what we should all try to do ourselves if we indulge in such childish tantrums.

no Sabbath observance? Carlyle is reported to have said that he was living on the aftershine of his father's religion. Is that true of us? And if so, what of our children who will have nothing but the pale aftershine of an aftershine? "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord."

We would rather be among the humble and happy keepers of the Sabbath, than to have all the pleasures and honors and wealth of the world without the Sabbath. God's law of the Sabbath is not given for our restriction, but for our best good and highest freedom and enjoyment,

In the latter days of the rule of the Giant of Giant's Head, the court magician brought to his king a message received in a trance. The communication stated that Red Men would one day rule the country so it was the Giant's duty to seek out men of that color and aid them to become established. Just as in later years Rome would flourish and fall, Humpty Dumpty would tumble and the cost of living index would sink, the Giant knew that the giant dynasty would eventually drop into oblivion.

The natural place to seek Red Men would be in the land of the Red giants of Siberia, far across. the western ocean. So an expedition was planned. The Giant selected fifty stalwart subjects, instructed them in the proper behavior when visiting a foreign. country and gave them some idea of the Red way of life.

When the party arrived at the coast, they built an immense canoe, stocked it with provisions and paddled into the west.

Five days later, far out to sea, they were attacked by an enormous sea-serpent, ten times as large as the monsters of Okanagan Lake. The battle raged for hours and the serpent was finally driven off but not before several giants had been lost into the beast's stomach.

Soon after this encounter, land was sighted and reached. Giant had the canoe drawn far up. on the beach and, as there was no sign of life in sight, he set out to look for the Red city of Stalinopolis, leaving guards to watch the

Two days travel brought the party to the Red capital where they were welcomed and feasted by the Red king.

Our giants had always wondered why the Red giants were that color and they now discovered the reason. Their hosts would eat no food that was not of a reddish Meat, red salmon, red cabbage, beets, plums and cherries made up the bulk of their diet. They even resorted to red purges when the occasion demanded. It was not strange that over a long period, this use of red food had colored their bodies and even their outlook on life and way of think-

"To make future histories truthful and exact," our Giant told the Red king, "I must introduce a race of Red Men into my continent to rule between the end of giant dominance and the usurpation of power by the White Man."

"We have some Red pigmies, only six feet tall, who live in teepees, carry their young on their backs and paint pictures on rocks. You can take some home with you. They are not very advanced, but in your climate and on a new diet, they might develop into the superior race you desire." This was the Red king's answer.

Our Giant was delighted to find what he sought with so little effort. He selected twenty-five of each sex of the pigmies, crowded them into his cance and commencand the return trip.

Arriving safely back on this continent, the Giant left couples of this new race in scattered parts of the country. But first he gave them instructions on how to sunvive in the new land and told them of the future that awaited.

These were his words: "Some day when the giant reign is ended, you will be sole rulers of this great domain from ocean to ocean. Practice the art of war and especially of scalping that you may be able to resist the White Man when he comes to conquer. If you do not overcome him, he will steal your land, your fish, your game. Then he will herd you into reservations in lonely districts so the sight of you will not bother his conscience,"

Some New Officers Selected by St. Stephen's Church Annual Meeting

The annual general meeting of tute delegates, Messrs. J. Y. Tow held in the parish hall on Wednesday evening, Feb. 2.

As the parish hall is being used as a classroom by the school hoard, it was not possible to have the usual parish supper.

The rector, Canon F. V. Harrison in his annual report reviewed the work of the past year, thanked the officers and ladies for their great assistance. The resignation, because of illness, of Mr. T. Herman, was regretted. He had filled the position of rector's warden with dignity and ability for a number of years. It was announced that Mr. C. J. Clark had agreed to act as rector's warden for the ensuing year.

Excellent reports were received from the women's auxiliary, and its branches, from the Sunday school, and from Mr. A. Calvert, the treasurer.

The following officers were elected: Lay delegates to the synod,

Mr. John Trautman, 86, Laid to Rest

The death of Mr. John Trautman, who was 86 years old, occurred at his home at Trout Creek on Saturday Jan. 29. Since his wife passed away about two years ago, the aged man had lived alone, with frequent visits from members of his family. It is believed that he died as a result of a heart at-

The deceased was born in the United States at St. Peters, Ohio. He had made his home in Canada for 38 years, and for the past eleven of them at Summerland.
Surviving are three daughters,
Mrs. F. D. Vanorick, Duhamel, Alta.; Mrs. L. Anderson, Auburn, Wash.; Mrs. R. Miller, Penticton, and four sons, Andrew, Adak, Alaska, Peter of Camrose, Alta.; Walter, Kamloops, and Leonard, who lives at Peachland. There are twenty-six grandchildren and thirty great grandchildren.

Requiem mass was said by Rev. Father A. Meulenberg at Summerland Catholic church on Wednesday morning, Feb. 2. Interment was in the Anglican cemetery, West Summerland. Penticton Funeral chapel was in charge of arrangements.

Kamloops Teachers Get Boost on Cost Of Living Index

KAMLOOPS-Salary cheques of Kamloops School District No. 24 teachers will be $10 per month bigger this year.

In accordance with the decision of the teachers' salary arbitration board, handed down February 12, 1948, the teachers became entitled to another $100 per year cost-ofliving bonus when the federal bureau of statistics announced last month that the cost-of-living index stood at 159.6 on November 1..

The increase will cost the school district and the provincial trea-sury about $9000 this year.

The arbitration board last February granted the teachers a $300 per year cost-of-living bonus, based on the rise in the cost-of-living index, and ordered adoption of a formula to relate teachers' salared on the rise in the cost-of-living index, and ordered adoption of a ies to the rise-and-fall in the in-

The arbitration board ordered there shall be an annual adjustment of $100 per year to the salaries set by this award—that is, the base scale plus $300—for each 15 points the latest official cost-ofliving index, published in December of each year, varies from the base-index of 144 used in this award. Such adjustments are to become effective as of January 1 of the following year."

The teachers got the $100 increase for 1949 by only the skin of their teeth. The November 1 index-figure, revealed at Ottawa on December 4, was 159.6. The December 1 index-figure, published by the federal authorities January 5. was 158.9. Had the arbitration board award read "the official index figure for December" instead of "published in December" the teachers would have lost the $100 extra bonus by one-tenth of an index point!

Looks at Commonsense Standpoint

Col. C. G. Beeston, Kelowna lawyer, felt impelled to support the Penticton move from the "practical and common sense standopint."

"I know Col. Drew personally and I think he will lead the party to success, but George Drew hasn't been in Yale," he remarked amid loud applause. Pros and Cons of Argument Given J. R. Kidston of Vernon sid-

P. F. Eraut of Penticton countered this argument with the state-ment that "we forced the Liberals to put up a candidate to save their face in the last by-election. Liberals are thinking along the same lines as we are . . . of a free enterprise candidate . . . With two free enterprise candidates versus socialism then we will lose."

From Vernon, J. B. Kidston wanted a candidate selected before going to the Liberal associa-

Weddel Opposed

At this stage, the retiring president, E. C. Weddell interposed with: "I can't see how we can ask the Liberals to support us and put a man in Ottawa in support of George Drew who will be attempting to put the Liberals out of business."

He asked the delegates how many persons had read the account in the Vernon News of the Yale Liberal meeting when a nominating convention had been called within a month. This story was reprinted in last week's issue of

The Review. Jack Heal of Armstrong was all for selecting a candidate that evening and demanded to know why the executive had not taken action on this idea days before. The same question was asked by J. D. McMynn of Penticton.

President Weddell replied that no official approach had been made, but "from some sources I would be surprised if we get backing from the Liberals."

He stated he knew lots of people have in mind a saw-off with the Tories not running a candidate where the Liberals were once strong and the reverse taking place in ridings such as Yale.

Nominations were then called for, Dolph Browne, well-known Vernon fruit packer, nominating Mayor Adams of Vernon, declaring that his choice is a young man 35 years of age who received his captaincy in the B.C. Dragoons regiment overseas. On returning from overseas, he became secretary-manager of the Vernon Legion branch, was elected as an alderman and a year later was elected as mayor against a popular candidate.

His civic administration has been excellent, Mr. Browne declared. "You will respect him; he can become a second Grote Stirling." John Aikins, Penticton lawyer, who was a member of the same regiment overseas, seconded the nomination, claiming Mayor Adams was a first-class soldier, a splendid individual and a man of great integrity.

"Mayor Adams would make a splendid addition to the fine list of young Progressive Conservatives in the House of Commons at Ottawa." H. A. Truswell, Kelowna garage man, nominated W. A. C. Bennett well-known Okanagan hardware merchant from Kelowna. He told of Mr. Bennett's history, he having been born in New Brunswick in 1900 of United Empire Loyalist stock. At 17½ he joined the Ca-nadian forces and later homesteaded in northern Alberta before commencing a hardware business.

In 1980, Mr. Bennett came to the Okanagan, was made a director of the Bank of Canada in 1935 and in 1941 was elected MLA for South Okanagan.

In his acceptance speech, Mayor allowed his name to go forward.

"I think this year is a very cri- statement that he has great plans Yale but for each one of us as individuals. Twice we fought outside Canada and now we have to carry that fight into our homes, but this time it is a fight of words. We cannot let this country be a socialistic country, it is far too great a country and has far too great a people.

"We have the cause to fight for, the vital question is to place the right man in the right place at the right time."

Mr. W. A. C. Bennett in accepting nomination, declared that he had not wished to run again but "this is not a time to think of ease and comfort . . . The year 1949 is the great year of decision, to decide which way we are going. Great problems of this valley must be faced."

He reminded his audience that he was the first man to introduce the PFRA into the legislature, he first advocated hard surfaced highways before being opened with federal assistance and it was on his request that the provincial government asked the federal authe resolution of pre-supposing thorities to assist in surveying Okanagan lake with a view to flood

Result of Voting

On the first count, all the credentials had not been collected so that too many votes were recorded. A more careful check was made, a second count ordered and after midnight the result was made known . . . Mayor Adams had been chosen candidate.

Mr. Bennett rushed forward to make the selection a unanimous one as Vernon supporters carried Mayor Adams on their shoulders to the front of the hall.

Before concluding, Dolph Browne asked the newly-elected executive to discuss with the Liberal organization the possibility of combining in the next election to present one free enterprise candidate.

Accredited delegates from Summerland consisted of C. W. Haddrell, Mrs. W. G. Gillard, Capt. A. M. Temple, 'A. R. Dunsdon, J. D. Price, J. R. Armstrong, A K Elliott, Alan Calvert, W C. W. Mr. Charles Letts' friends are pleased to see him back again, and to know he is progressing favorably after some time spent in hospital in Vancouver.

Mrs. M. Robinson and Miss Betty Nelson arrived back from their trip which took them as far south as Arizona. They reported the weather cool, but sunny, and very enjoyable in southern California. They saw oranges and other citrus fruits on the trees, but were warned not to eat them as they had been frozen. In the Imperial valley the vegetables are frozen, and growers will suffer a great loss. Miss Nelson has gone to Vernon to spend the remaining week of her vacation with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Nelson. Mrs. Robinson has resumed work on the Bank of Montreal staff.

Mr. Gerry Halquist has returned from Vancouver, but expects to go back for further medical treat ment shortly.

MARRIED TWENTY-FIVE YEARS—

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Harvey, well-known residents of Summerland district for the past eleven years, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary at their home on Sunday, January 23. Many out-of-town guests mingled with local friends to extend their congratulations to the happy couple on that date.

St. Valentine's Day Means Spring Not Far Away

With the snow lying deep in the orchards, and along the roadside, it's rather encouraging to think that St. Valentine's Day is just around the corner. The stores have piles of Valentine cards, with hearts and flowers, and birds on them, so spring is nearly

Brilliant Rally Beats Penticton Hockey Squad

Coming from behind a 3-0 deficit, Summerland's senior hockey club put on the pressure in the second period to score five goals without a reply and then coasted along in the last frame to win 9-6 from Penticton last night.

It was a terrific battle throughout, eighteen penalties being handed out by Referee W. J. Schwah, ten of these going to Penticton. At the end of the first canto Penticton led 8-0, Goalie Bob Ramsay being handicapped because of a out sustained above his eyes just prior to the game's commencement.

Paul Roberge was also absent from this game as he received a severe eye injury on Tuesday evening, and is still receiving medical oare.

George Taylor with three goals and three assists and Rosie Campbell with three big goals were the outstanding men on the offensive, but the entire team worked like trojans. Friesen had one goal and another assist while Brawner and McCargar both bulged the twine for single goals.

Other assists went to Croft, Holmes and Haskins.

Latest Invention In Over-Bed Tables Donated to Hospital

Mrs. A. K. Elliott, president of Summerland branch of the Red Cross, told the annual meeting that an over-bed table had been secured for Summerland hospital, through the Red Cross headquar-

These beds were invented by a patient in Shaughnessy hospital, and are used by those who have to spend long periods of illness on their backs. The table is built in a sort of upside-down position, and by means of it a patient may read. write, or even type. They are especially helpful to fracture cases. A few have been made for Red Cross hospitals, and through Mrs. Elliott's efforts, one is to come to the local hospital.

This table was for sale, at less than production price, which is quite high, and Mr. A. K. Elliott, by a generous gesture, donated the purchase price, so that one could be obtained. .

Grey Kitten is Theme for Party

When Joy Deringer was five years old last Thursday, Feb. 3, her mother, Mrs. E. Deringer, arranged a party for her at their home in Trout Creek. Joy sent invitations to her small friends, and on them was an original verse:

'My kitty wants to see you, I don't know why, you see, But I have a sneakin' feelin',

She wants to serve you tea.' When the children came they played games, and at tea-time their places were marked at the table by a grey kitten place-card. Topping the birthday cake was a larger grey kitty.

Those invited were Judy Thompson, Nancy Hanson, David Davis, Iris Willis, Ronnie Embree, Marilyn Radomske, Estelle and Adele

New Orchestra is Dance Attraction

Last Friday night at Ellison hall the Old-Time Dance club held one of the most enjoyable dances it has had this year. Sudden Passing Of Nancy Avery Shocks District

Nancy Davis Avery, wife of Charles W. Avery of Oliver and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Angus of Summerland, passed away at Vancouver General hospital on Wednesday morning, Feb. 9, after only two days' illness.

The young lady, in her 25th year, was a popular 'teen ager in this district prior to joining the RCAF W.D.'s in which service she met and married her husband, also a member of the air force.

Her passing was swift and tragic and came as a complete shock to a community which knew her as a pleasant and gay girl always full of life and vivacity.

The late Mrs. Avery, with her husband, enjoyed the ski tournament over the weekend and on Monday started on their return trip to Oliver where Mr. Avery is production manager for the Stowell cannery.

Before leaving the district, Mrs. Avery complained of a violent headache and then lost consciousness. She was taken to the Summerland hospital and later transported by ambulance to the CPAL plane and flown to Vancouver. The regular plane flight was held up half an hour until the ambulance could reach Penticton.

She never gained consciousness, however, and no operation was possible at the coast.

Deceased was born in Victoria and received her early schooling at St. Margaret's college there. Ten years ago she accompanied her parents to Summerland where she entered the local high school.

On their return to civilian life, Mr. and Mrs. Avery resided here for a short period before going to Oliver a year ago to take up residence. She was one of the leaders in the Girl Guide company at Oliver and in her short stay there had made a host of friends.

Besides her husband and parents, she leaves one sister, Miss Jean Angus, member of the Penticton teaching staff.

Funeral services will be held from St. Andrew's United church on Saturday, Feb. 12, at 2 o'clock

Education and Research in Agriculture in Great Britain Explained by Dr. H. G. Sanders

agriculture, with the result that | in the last quarter century there has been a tremendous change in our farmers and in farming in general, Dr. H. G. Sanders, PhD., dean of the faculty of agriculture at the University of Reading told a meeting of the Okanagan branch, Canadian Institute of Agriculture at the experimental station on Friday afternoon.

Dr. Sanders is on a lecture tour of Canada, telling of the strides agriculture has made in Great Britain and ascertaining agricultural methods adopted in this

Of a bluff nature, Dr. Sanders punctuated his remarks with many witty asides and showed a keen sense of humor besides a keen knowledge of his subject, both from a practical and a scientific nature.

Once his address was over, members of the institute bombarded him with questions. Dr. D. V. Fisher, president of the Okanagan branch was chairman of the meeting, and announced that a further general meeting will be held on Feb. 21 to meet the institute general secretary on a Canadian tour.

Farm Workers Only

Dealing with the educational aspects of agriculture in Great Britain. Dr. Sanders explained that county executive committees act as a screening group to place farm workers on selected farms. The practical knowledge gained is augmented by group discussions and

Following a year on the farms, the best of these workers are put through the county institutes for a nine-month course, half practical and half lectures and demonstrations on laboratory lines. Graduates can eventually become farm foremen or farm managers.

This type of education is worked out for the man who probably never will have the monetary means to own a farm of his own but is cut out to be a farm worker with the eventual aim of becoming farm foreman.

Going from there to the unversity systems, Dr. Sanders explained that a large number of universities have adopted a two-year diploma course in agriculture, but only about six of these in Britain will be carried on as, in general, they are not broad enough in scope,

The speaker leaned to the belief that a three-year degree course is the right length of time, as any longer might motivate against the future farmer developing an aptitude to think for himself, or being able to talk the farmer's language.

Specialists, however, need a further year and a fourth term to gain a post graduate diploma and specializing in certain lines of agricultural research is being granted by universities. This year can serve as a bridge between the undergraduate and the job where he has to think for himself.

Going from there to extension work, Dr. Sanders explained the new setup in agricultural research and contact work in England and Wales. This plan has not been adopted in Scotland.

Experimental Farms

This entire plan is based on the district officer, appointments having been made about one to every thousand farmers. Next is the county officer and then the provincial director. A system of experimental farms is in the process of establishment but all officials work closely with the farmers, themselves, in order to carry out experiments.

At the top of this organization is Professor Scott Watson, while agricultural improvement council advises the minister of agriculture. Then comes the agricultural research council which rules the research in connection with agriculture.

Mechanization is one of the most important subjects under research in Britain today, as Britain is the most highly mechanized agricultural country in the world, with one tractor to every eight acres of agricultural land. Six thousand combines worked last harvest in

J. A. DARKE FUNERAL ON FRIDAY-

Only a week from the time he had celebrated, with his wife, their golden wedding anniversary on Tuesday, February 1, Mr. James Alexander Darke passed away on Wednesday morning, February 9, at the Summerland hospital.

The deceased man had been in poor health for many months but on the occasion of his wedding anniversary he had been in good spirits and seemed to enjoy the celebration immensely, especially renewing acquaintances with many old friends he had not seen for some

Last weekend he was taken to Summerland hospital where his condition worsened and he passed away early Wednesday morning. Born in Ontario on July 20, 1876, the late Mr. Darke was married at Stonewall, Man., in 1899 and moved with his wife to Summerland in 1901. Here they have resided ever since, with the exception of five years, 1914-19, when they returned to the prairies.

Associated Trade Boards Will Take Part in Opening Of Hope-Princeton Highway

Looking towards the opening of the Hope-Princeton highway on Labor Day, 1949, the Associated Boards of Trade of the Southern Interior went on record at Summerland Friday evening, Feb. 4, advocating the appointment of a committee which would consider some type of celebration in commemoration of this event.

This was a well-attended meeting of the associated boards, held in the IOOF hall, Summerland, with sixty sitting down to the banquet and many more coming in for the later discussions.

Representatives from Westbank, Summerland, Penticton Naramata, Okanagan Falls, Oliver and Cawston were present.

Rev. A. Muelenbergh, Summerland, was the advocate of the associated boards taking an active interest in the celebration of the Hope-Princeton opening next fall.

Harold Mitchell, Naramata, president of the associated trade boards, informed the meeting that this subject had already been discussed with the minister of public works, Hon. E. C. Carson, and proposed that a committee be formed to co-operate with any public body formed to carry out this purpose.

Each trade board in the association will appoint a member to work along this line.

Only one brief was presented to the meeting, that coming from Oliver and advocating the placing of a yellow traffic line in the centre of the newly-constructed provincial highways. Mr. W. McIvor proposed this plan but was informed by Mr. W. R. Ritchie, Cawston, that the public works department has already ordered a machine for this purpose in the South Okanagan.

It had been considered that a lively discussion would ensue regarding the Naramata road versus the extension of the west side highway but this did not result.

Walter M. Wright's suggestion to the associated boards executive that Mr. Byron-Johnson of Ewing's Landing be allowed to speak at the quarterly meeting in the light of the numerous letters he has written on the subject of west-side road extension, was not favored by the meeting, although T. B. Young outlined a number of this road's advantages. No discussion on the Naramata road was brought

Westbank Added

Associated board secretary W H. Whimster reported on corres pondence received regarding radio interference and declared that shortage of radio trucks is one reason why there has been no extension of service by the department of transport to the Okanagan. He believed that when this shortage is overcome that the department will consider seriously the extension of radio interference finding work in the southern interior.

Mr. Whimster also reported on another subject which has been of interest to the combined trade boards, that of a new armory for Penticton. He believed that the purchase by the federal government of the Gy-

Flood control measures interested the meeting keenly and Mr. W. R. Ritchie reported that work on the irrigation head gates had commenced and similar work is projected for Keremeos, in an effort to control flood waters at their source in the lower Similkameen area.

Mr. W. Guerard, president of the Penticton board, sought information on the Okanagan lake flood control measures, but was informed that this subject had been taken over by the Okanagan Flood Control committee, headed by the mayors of the three main valley cities, and assisted by other representatives.

Mr. Guerard's suggestion that information be obtained from this flood control committee relative to the progress being made was endorsed, as the member boards considered that they should be brought up to date on the subject.

Mr. J. D. Smith, Oliver, a member of the committee, gave some information on the subject but could not give a detailed account of the progress.

Game Commission

A Summerland move, initiated by Mr. George Stoll, sought associated board support for increased grants to the B.C. Game Commission. Mr. Stoll considered that furtherance of game commission work through increased grants, would mean greater tourist attractions in the interior and throughout the province.

In this contention he received support from Mr. V. M. Lockwood and F. W. Schumann of Summerland, and the associated boards meeting agreed that a letter should be forwarded to the B.C. Council of Associated Boards of Trade, with the suggestion that all trade boards in the province discuss this subject.

Another suggestion emanating from Mr. Guerard of Penticton was that a committee of the assoical landmarks in the Okanagan which would be of interest to tourists.

Next meeting of the associated boards will be held at Oliver in about three months time.

now, he said, it could be turned to make use of the casual labor which is a problem here. It is strategically situated and with the Trans-Canada highway and the Hope-Princeton coming along, and such easy access to the United States, the Okanagan has a good opportunity.

It should be kept in mind that tourists come to be amused, he added. Welcome at the boundary could be enhanced and tourists clubs could do much to stimulate the trade.

Items of historical interest such as old land marks should be taken care of and there were many mentioned in the old Hudson's Bay and western fur traders' records. The pioneers in the business did a good bit of work and their forts should furnish much of interest.

At present, the Okanagan is passing up a great opportunity, he concluded.

"How can I gain more confidence?"

Again and again people ask me this question. So here is the one suggestion that will perhaps prove the most helpful:

Invariably those who suffer from shyness live too much within themselves. And this is the real cause of their trouble.

The best cure lies in mixing more with people under all conditions - especially in group activities. It matters little what these activities may be: political organizations, church work, service clubs - anything that gets the individual outside him-

In this way he becomes absorbed in what he is doing while with other people. Soon he learns to be at ease with them - and to forget himself. His shyness vanishes.

If you have financial security for the future, you will feel more confident. Life insurance offers the easiest, surest way to achieve this security for yourself and your dependents.

One long pheasant feather sells | shipped in 1881 from Shanghai to the Willamette Valley in Oregon by Judge Owen N. Denny, then U.S. Consul General.

> The judge liked to eat them, and there were none like these in the States. The climate was similar, so he decided to experiment. The idea was a great success. When the first hunting season was declared on them, eleven years later, more than 50,000 of these handsome ringnecks were shot.

> Some of the reasons for the bird's progress is that it is hardy, smart, and tough. It can survive some extremes of temperature, lives on a variety of foodstuffs. Pheasants can go without eating for as long as four weeks. They are fast runners and powerful fliers, and can travel comparatively great distances from protective cover to feed.

The Mongolian pheasant was introduced into B.C. from Shantung province in 1909. These have hybridized with the English pheasant, and both have lost some of their specific characteristics. On the whole the pheasants of B.C. are rather mongrels, and only an expert familiar with the different species could estimate an individual bird.

They have been introduced in a number of places in Canada at various times. Southern B.C. is the only part where they have had marked success. They are a regular game bird on southern Vancouver island, and on the viding facilities for one of the best | mainland along the Fraser river, and in the southern valleys.

Summerland Fish and Game club is carrying out an experiment in raising pheasants locally to try and bring back these game birds in this district as they have become badly depleted in the past few years.

No Signs of Business Contraction To Bring About Setback Says B of M

"mixed bag" of portents as regards demand, production and , prices, comments the Bank of Montreal in its latest monthly business review. It can no longer be assumed that all trends are uniformly favorable, the B of M stresses, but to date there are relatively few indications of major recessive tendencies and certainly no signs of an overall contraction sufficient to bring about a set back of depression proportions."

Uncertainties of external trade are occasioned by weakness in overseas markets where both U.S. and Canadian dollars are scarce currencies, the bank states.

"While an increase in Canadian exports to the United States more than sufficed to offset the contraction of shipments to other areas during 1948, this large and rapid shift in the pattern of trade has

The review notes that, to a considerable extent, Canadian exports to England and Europe have been supported by offshore purchases under E.R.P.

"It is significant, however, that Canada's role in this regard has been mainly that of a supplier of bread grains and other foodstuffs," the B of M says. "The possibility must be faced, therefore, that as European recovery progresses, requirements of E.R.P.-financed foodstuffs from Canada may tend to diminish without a corresponding increase in Canadian shipments of industrial equipment and other goods coming within the scope of the recovery program.

"Thus, the steady improvement in Canada's U.S. dollar reserves during the past year, welcome as it has been, serves to emphasize the predominant influence of American prosperity and policy on this country's trade.

"Canadian interest attaches also to legislation being sought by the president of the United States for completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and for extension of the administration's power to enter into reciprocal trade agreements."

Turning to the main sources of domestic demand, the Park of Montreal comments that it seems only reasonable to expect that the rate of new capital expansion may On each of the four charges he be reduced in some directions from was assessed $10 and $5 costs and the record levels of the past two years. Consumer Goods

Latest reports show no signs of a downturn in the trend of employee earnings, the review points out, and aggregate personal buying power will be bolstered by the repayment in March of some $250 millions of compulsory wartime savings, by retroactive pay increases recently authorized to the armed forces and the federal civil service and probably by further retroactive payments to western wheat farmers under the government pooling arrangement.

"It appears however that, for a growing number of consumer goods, supply is coming abreast of demand," the B of M remarks.
"Reflection of this trend is seen in an abatement in the general rise of prices and in the appearance of some specific soft spots in the price structure. Moreover, the Sperry Phillips growing proportion of sales on credit undoubtedly indicates that for many persons the accumulated backlog of readily spendable funds has become sharply diminished "Under such circumstances, consumer attitudes and decisions may in the coming months exert a much more important influence on general business trends than for some years past.'

What is True Progress Asks Birch to AOTS

After a delightful turkey supper served by the Service Club, 44 members of the Summerland AOTS heard an inspiring message on 'What is True Progress?' by Mr. Robert Birch.

In a forceful address, Mr. Birch pointed out how far people have advanced from the days when slavery was common, and hanging the punishment for minor lawbreaking, and showed how Christianity is still, as in the past, the basis for all humanitarian ad-

An interesting part of the meeting's business was a request from the school board that the AOTS consider starting a movement to help recent immigrants from Europe to learn to become good Canadian citizens. After considerable discussion a committee was appointed to look into this.

Several reports showed progress in boys' work. S. A. MacDonald reported that hockey originally sponsored by the AOTS, new is being enjoyed by 85 youngsters from the elementary school alone, playing on regular schedules.

Mr. Schwab is doing good work with basketball and gym classes. A motion to provide $25, toward the purchase of a new war canoe for the War Canoe club, if they decided to get one, was passed.

And, the report on AOTS-sponsored Cubs showed that 41 boys are now enjoying Cub work here under Cubmaster H. R. Whitmore.

E. H. Bennett reported that another AOTS-originated project, the clean-up of Peach Orchard cemetery, was making progress, and that the council may soon be moving to take up the responsibility for its upkeep.

Before winding up the meeting, it was decided to hold another AOTS Request Concert this year, as the previous one had proved such a success, and a committee headed by T. W. Boothe undertook to start making preparations for this event.

Good Co-operation In Experiments on Radio Suppressors

Nearly forty suppressors to eliminate radio interference caused by electrical appliances and equipment have been installed in various business houses and homes throughout the district by the electric light department a recent council meeting was informed by Councillor F. E. Atkinson.

This is part of the radio interference stoppage scheme undertaken by this department under a grant of $150.

Good co-operation has been received on all sides, Mr. Atkinson explained, and the experimental work is continuing. Fifty more suppressors have been ordered. Stewart Sanborn is working afternoons and evenings on this work

"We feel that the program is well worthwhile and is a step in the right direction," Mr. Atkinson declared.

Electrical Foreman T. P. Thornber declared that the small-sized suppressors are being installed for $1.25 each. One feature which may motivate against better radio reception is the installation of eighty sets, of fluorescent lights in the elementary school. The trustees are considering this problem but are awaiting further data on the large-sized suppressor which, it is claimed, prevents static from emanating from the building.

Wally Day Turns in Outstanding Performance at Okanagan Ski Zone Championships Held in Summerland

Wally Day, young Summerland skier, made a clean sweep of both the downhill and slalom races at the Okanagan ski zone championships held at the Meadow Valley ski hill of the Summerland club. to establish himself as the chief male competitor of the meet, even though he was competing as a junior.

The elongated young athlete set a new record for the Okanagan zone downhill run, negotiating the difficult course in the terrific time of 1 minute 29 4/5 seconds. As the course is nearly a mile and a half long, his average time was just under 60 miles an hour.

Sharing honors with Day was Bob Weitzel, who also beat the seniors' time for the downhill run, while Ruth Klix, in winning the combined downhill and slalom award established herself as a coming

This was the first time Summerland club had attempted the holding of the Okanagan zone tournament and the three-day affair, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 4, 5 and 6, was voted a wonderful success. Spearheaded by a small group of club enthusiasts the many de tails of the tourney were well worked out and few plans were forgot ten to accommodate the visiting athletes and spectators.

Nearly a thousand persons were on hand Sunday afternoon t witness the big events, which were highlighted by the opening of the new ski jump. Ernie Fields established the first record for this jum; with a leap of 102 feet. Mr. Fields learned his jumping technique or the famous Revelstoke jump, but is now a resident of Penticton.

Windup of the three-day event came on Sunday evening at El lison hall when competitors and officials joined in a gala banquet and presentation of prizes. Summerland club prexy and tournament chief tain Walter B. Powell presided at the function while prizes were preented by Mr. F. W. Schumann, president of the Summerland Board o Trade.

Only delay in the operation of the tournament came early on Sunday afternoon when a terrific snowstorm impeded the meet's progress. However, the storm abated about 2:30 o'clock and the Friday afternoon saw the running of the cross country races, over a course more than six miles long. Kelowna contestants Jim Weddell and Gibb Wade took the senior event while Bud Williams, also of the Orchard City, overshadowed Bob Weitzel of Summerland in the junior event.

Saturday was cold at the ski hill but this only made for a faster course and Wally Day's performance that afternoon was the outstanding one of the tourney. Both he and Bob Weitzel turned in faster times than the senior men, headed by Reg Pratt of Penticton, and Bruce Paige of Kelowna.

Penticton and Oliver contestants headed by John Leir, won the C class senior men's downhill,

Jane Corbett of Pentleton and Helen Ahrens of Kelowna were the chief senior lady contestants in the downhill, while Ruth Klix of Summerland, followed closely by Helen dePfyffer of Kelowna and Doris Cristante of Summerland

Granville Morgan's protest was thrown out, as the assessor showed he was paying $300 per acre on five acres, which is lower than the general run of Trout Creek

Dr. James Marshall appeared not in protest, but to make certain that the assessor would give consideration to his residence valuation another year.

One point upon which the court was unanimous concerned the makeup of the assessment notices. In future these will be changed to show the segregation of taxable and non-taxable assessments.

On farm property five acres and notices.

Main protest on the increase of 20 percent in land values in the West Summerland business district came from W. D. Laidlaw, who is one of the major property owners.

Although he could not be present, Mr. Laidlaw drafted a lengthy letter in which he claimed that the 1949 assessment on business property is too high and in most cases is three and a half times the cost previous to the levelling of the improvements tax.

"Ridiculous" Raise

flationary period and declared it was poor policy to base taxes on such an uncertain period. In another paragraph he called some of the assessments ridiculous, and decried the increase in assessments every time stores are painted or renovated to present a more attractive appearance.

"There is nothing which would turn away prospective residents and tourists than shabby business premises," he pointed out. "Business people should not have to shoulder the load every time there is a need for increased taxation," MORE ABOUT he observed.

In delving into some of the Laidlaw property, the court revealed that the corner store operated by Laidlaw & Co. has a land value of $960, and the Butler & Walden store property is set at $830. Improvements assessment on the former store was raised $1,000 this year. Assessor Sheeley declared that the renovations cost was $2,000 in the past year. Councillor Tait remarked that the assessments on a tenacre orchard have also increased greatly, while before improvements were assessed for taxation purposes the business properties were not bearing their proper share of municipal taxation.

The court agreed that the letter be received, considered, but no

L. A. Smith protested that his lot 20 block 5, had been "incorrectly assessed", and the court nearly agreed that the land value set by the assessor was too low. It was found that the assessment on a portion of Mr. Smith's store property was $290 for 47.5 foot frontage, 100 feet in depth, and for the inside lot the same area and frontage, $175.

The L. A. Smith assessment was sustained, as well.

One point emphasized during the discussions by Councillor C. E. Bentley was that "as long as your assessments are in line with your neighbors then you're getting a square deal."

Chief complainant was Mrs. O. Hong who, with her husband, had come prepared to fight the machinery assessment but stayed to protest the land value assessment on their L-shaped property which contains a machine shop and re-provide her husband with business property to establish his machine shop so the lot should remain as residential property, for assessment purposes.

ter some discussion. He based his main claim on the erection at the Shaughnessy avenue corner of a service station which has reduced the value of his residential pro-home had been reduced from $4,-600 to $4,000 and the Arthur Morgan home from $8,450 to $8,400 and these are both new homes. Assessor Sheeley explained that the White reduction had not been based mainly on its proximity to the agrvice station but on his knowledge that the home had cost in the neighborhood of $8,000.

An interesting development occurred in the protest of Ray Leinor to his home assessment, at $2,000. It developed that his neighbor, H. R. Klix, has a better home and it only carried $1,200 assessment.

Mr. Sheeley admitted that the Klix home value was low and agreed to make another inspection at noon. He did so, and in the afternoon the court raised Mr. Klix's improvements valuation to $2,250, including a small picker's

Fast Time by Juniors Fastest time on the slalom course was registered by Daryll Weitzel on his second run, but he missed one set of flags on his first run and lost valuable time. As a consequence, on the two runs Wally Day repeated his Saturday success and took the junior men's event.

Helen dePfyffer had her revenge on Ruth Klix in the junior ladies' slalom, reversing the standing in the downhill on Saturday. Jane Corbett again took first place in the senior ladies' slalom to make another double victory. Helen Ahrens of Kelowna again placed second to Miss Corbett.

Walter Powell of Summerland and Egan Agar of Penticton tied for first place in the men's slalom, but here again Wally Day's time was one second faster. John Leir, of Penticton made a double win by taking C. class slalom competition.

Apart from Ernie Fields, who was placed in a higher bracket, Pips Clark of Penticton was the best competitive jumper, making a leap of 85 feet. Reg Pratt of Penticton took C class jumping honors and in the junior jumping another Penticton competitor, Gerry Kenyon, was the winner.

From a strictly local standpoint, the 10 and under downhill was a big drawing card, little Kenny Pennington being awarded a brand new pair of skiis as first-place winner.

At the banquet Sunday night Walter Powell thanked the visitors for their attendance at the tournament and Mr. Schumann extolled the splendid spirit sportsmanship dis played throughout the three days. He explained that apart from a handful of oldsters, the Summerland sk club is a junior club and therefore a great deal of credit is coming to the members for their excellent showing in the management of the tournament.

Bruce Paige of Kelowna, John Leir of Penticton and a spokesman for Vernon thanked the Summerland club for its hospitality following the presentation of prizes and trophies.

A big crowd attended the ski dance at Ellison hall on Saturday evening.

Road Cleaning

The road to the ski hill was kept in good condition for the meet. A government maintainer ploughed out the road early in the week but fresh snowfall hampered traffic and Don Agur worked until 3.45 o'clock Saturday morning with his bulldozer getting the road in shape again.

Walter Powell was general chairman of the tournament but he had many willing assistants. Recording was under the care of Miss Dorothy MacDonald, assisted by Julia Hack, Barbara Munn, Jean Angus and Mrs. Walter Pow-

Chief timekeeper was Joe Mc+ Lachlan and assistants were Francis Steuart, Fred Dunsdon, Ed (Hilly) Smith and Doney Wilson.

Judges for the jumping included Max dePfyffer, Kelowna, Fred Hack of Oliver and Don Agur, Summerland.

Starters were Walter Powell and Bill Snow, but in this important detail the assistance of the high school army cadets with their walkie talkie equipment was of great value. Cadets who operated this apparatus were Lorne Logie, Starr Pattie, Leighton Nesbitt and Basil Thornthwaite.

On the loud speaker system George Washington was his usual debonair self. The PA system was loaned to the tourney by Stewart creased valuation if he wishes. The Leinor assessment remained as assessed.

H. J. (Bill) Barkwill protested on two counts but failed on both. He claimed only two-thirds of an acre planted to trees on 2.88 acres of land, but declared that he had asked for two acres of water before the land was bulldozed.

Councillor Wilson pointed out that the municipal office is guided by the amount of water being. used as to the amount of acreage under cultivation and told Mr. Barkwill that he had brought the situation on himself by asking for that quantity of irrigation water.

It developed that Mr. Sheeley considered there were two acres planted and he had upped his own assessment to equal that he applied to Mr. Barkwill, Until the assessor was satisfied concerning Mr. Barkwill's plantings, the court mustained the assessment.

Mr. Barkwill also claimed that an implement shed, built alongside the Barkwills Ltd. cannery plant is used only as an implement shed for orchard purposes and should be classified as an outbuilding and exempt from assessment taxation, However, the court ruled that the cannery is the main basis of revenue from the property in question and the building must be classed as an assessable part of that plant. If the cannery buildings were subdivided from the orchard property, then the building in question could be exempted under the new provisions for farmora' outbuildings.

Formal appeals by William Stein, James Wilson, J. G. Littau, Frank Haddrell, Mor Bergstrom, H. Deand Miss E. Holder were not al-

Local School District Budget Calls For $18,630 More by Way of Taxation

Due mainly to the increase in teachers' salaries, but also because of extra bonded indebtedness due to the renovation of Summerland's elementary school, and higher transportation costs, the school board budget received by the council in committee last Friday evening. shows an increase in net expenditure this year of $18,630.

Summerland council, despite previous suggestion that it should refuse the budget as a protest on having to pay the main portion of teachers' salary increase without any assistance from the government, approved the budget in committee. Formal approval will probably be forthcoming at the next council meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 22.

Summerland municipality's share of the school budget is 93.93 percent or $55,955.52. Last year the budget sought 93.7 percent or $38,-362,19. This year's municipal share is based on a Summerland assessment of $2,914,169, this figure having been supplied the school board by the department of education.

The rural portion pays 6.07 percent, or $3,615.99. In 1948, the rural portion paid 6.3 percent or $2,579.31. Total amount to be raised by taxation this year is $59,571.51, us compared to $40,941.50 in 1948.

This is said by the school board to be a "skimpy" budget, with every expenditure pared to the minimum because of the teachers' salary increase. The council is reported to have agreed with the school board presentation that the school system could not operate more economically than is planned,

In a review of this budget, it is year will amount to $59,474, against start shown that teachers' salaries this government grants and the munmain portion of the estimated expenditure for administration, instruction, operating, maintenance and repairs and auxiliary services. The total under these headings is 289 from $12,246.50 last year. Of this total, the government grant amounts to $9,128.40, leaving $6,160.60 to be raised by taxation.

At January 1, a total of $78,-897 was still unpaid from bylaw money but $75,348 were still on hand to meet these payments, leaving $3,549 of extraordinary expenditure to be met.

In total, the school board budget calls for an expenditure of $178,856 including amounts being paid from bylaw money for the school renovation.

Total estimated revenue from grants and bylaw money amount to $116,588.46, leaving $61,662.54 to be raised from taxation. This amount is reduced to $59,571.51, through a surplus carried over from 1948 of $2,091.03.

Budget is Skimpy

"This is a plenty skimpy budget and we will have to watch our expenditures very closely, E. J. Bleasdale, board chairman, warned Monday night's trustees' meeting. "We went over every item with the council members last Friday," continued Mr. Bleasdale, "and they didn't question a thing." The trustees' spokesman quoted the council as declaring that it is a "lean" budget, after carefully scrutinizing all points and making comparisons with other years. Inspector J. N. Burnett agreed with the trustees that it is a "lean" budget, but expressed the hope that it will "stand up" over the Chairman Bleasdalle also disclosed that he considered a portion of the SS & MA tax rebate to the municipality should be allocated to education. The council has already received about $7,500 from this tax rebate and anticipates an equal amount later this year.

Mr. Bleasdale endeavored to win the council to his view that if this total amount of about $15,000 is deducted entirely from general municipal expenditures, it will place the school costs too far out of line in comparison to other municipal expenditures.

He argued that a portion of this tax rebate should naturally be devoted to reducing the cost of financing school expenditures in the municipality.

If the entire tax rebate fund was devoted to school purposes, it would just about nullify the municipality's share of the increased burden of education.

However, the council takes the view that the provincial government meant this one percent of the three percent tax collections to go towards general municipal expenditures and is loath to place even a proportion towards educa-Burnell attended the meeting of lity's inability to voice any opinion the union officials held at Kelow- in the question of rising teachers'

March of Dimes Fund Total $42.10

Summerland has contributed twice as much as last year to the March of Dimes campaign to aid crippled children.

Red and white tins have been placed in local stores for more than a month and contributions made by generous local inhabitants have amounted to $42.10.

Mr. Lorne Perry, board of trade secretary, revealed this result yesterday, pointing out? that last year only $20.15 was contributed.

Objective of Red Set at $3,000

British Columbia's aim in the $5 000,000 national objective for Red Cross month is $500,000, it is announced by Hon. Eric W. Hamber B.C. campaign chairman.

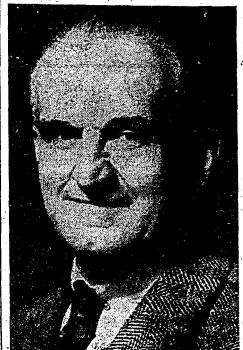

The Canadian Red Cross annual appeal for funds begins February 28, and continues through March

Mr. Hamber, who is UBC chart cellor, and a former lieutenant governor, has as his vice-chairman, Mr. George H. Baillie, CPR vice president for the Pacific region.

Executive members on the B.C. campaign committee are, P. S. Mc-Kergow, OBE, Clarke Simpkins, and William McDonnell, Vancouver; R. W. Diamond, Trail; S. L. Smith, New Westminster; W. H. Teachers and School Board Settle Salary Question With Increase of Twenty Percent

Final settlement of the Summerland school teachers' salary question came on Monday evening, Feb. 14, when School District No. 77 (Summerland) agreed to a 20 percent increase "across the board", with provisions for adjustment according to the cost of living index at the end of the year.

School Board Chairman C. J. Bleasdale informed the regular school trustees' meeting Monday night that the Penticton trustees' legal representative and the B.C. Teachers' Federation legal advisor had come to an agreement at the coast pust prior to Penticton's appeal on the arbitration board decision going before the Supremo Court.

board, and as the local teachers and school board had agreed that they would abide by the Supreme Court ruling on the Penticton appeal, then this settlement is considered binding on both parties.

Penticton teachers, in their arbitration request, sought 25 percent increase; they received 27 percent increase with yearly increments left in doubt, by the board of arbitration. This was the basis of Penticton district board appeal but settlement has been reached on the 20 percent basis.

Summerland, Penticton, Vernon and Keremeos boards have now agreed to the 20 percent increase; while Kelowna district board is reconsidering its decision to go to another board of arbitration and may reach a similar settlement,

By reason of the previously-arranged yearly increment of $100, the Summerland school board was faced with a normal raise in teachers' salaries of some $3,000 to $4. 000. On a 27 percent increase, minimums and maximums and increase point in Zero would have been about $15,000 to $16,000. Now, it has been determined that teachers' salaries will be up approximately $12,000, due to the new settlement basis.

Thus, the 20 percent increase received by the teachers actually means another $8,000 to $9,000 which the municipality and rural district will be asked to raise this year.

Further details of the school board budget are contained in another column on this page, Full details of the settlement as far as the provisions for arbitration on a cost of living rise or fall in future years had not been received by Mr. Bleasdale at presstime.

No commitments on salaries to be paid the school principals have been made, Mr. Bleasdale informed the board, as this will be disoussed further between the two Janitors' Wages

Another increase in wages was forecast on Monday when Mr. Bleasdale reported on negotiations which were carried on between the board salary committee and the new janitors' union. Details of the discussions were

Faces Serious Debt Problem

Summerland Hospital Society annual meeting has been called for next Thursday afternoon, February 24, at the IOOF hall for the election of officers and discussion of hospital problems.

The society has been faced with the problem of members, since the local insurance plan was eliminated on December 31. A canvass of the community has been undertaken and some fifty new members have been obtained to attend the annual meeting and, choose the hospital directorate.

Although the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service has advanced the hospital $3,500 to cover January expenditures, the debt carried forward at the year end was such that December trading accounts as well as January accounts totalling $3,863.67 have not been honored yet, apart from wages and salaries.

Westside Road Extension to Head of Lake or Bridge to Kelowna Sought

Westside road extension and the possibility of a bridge over Okanagan lake were kicked around with abandon last night at the Westbank Board of Trade monthly meeting ettended by a strong delegation of Summerland board members, headed by President J. E. O'-

For nearly two hours the Westbank and Summerland trade boarders discussed the question on a through Okanagan highway which would eliminate the "bottleneck" of the ferries on Okanagan lake from the westside to Kelow-

It was pointed out most forcibly by Fred Bleasdale of Westbank and former Summerland resident, that Westbank people consider the ferry service a bottleneck and that when the Hope-Princeton highway opens the present two ferries will be entirely inadequate to cope with the situation.

A bridge, he and other West-bank members pointed out, is the only answer to the Okanagan highway traffic problem.

J. R. Armstrong, Summerland, doubted that any action would be taken by the provincial public works department on any extension of Okanagan highway traffic service for at least three years. as the roads program is mapped out definitely for that period, at

This brought a counter proposal from Rev. Father Moulenberg, of Summerland, that private capital should be interested in a bridge project on a toll-basis.

Mrs. Pritchard, Westbank, liked this idea and thought that British stool could be obtained on a barter basis from England, the Okanagan selling its apples in exchange for the steel. Several other Westbank members, backed strongly by Mr. Alf McLachlan of Summerland, conright now is to press for a through | Meulenberg.

highway on the westside from Penticton to the head of the lake. It was suggested in some quarters that Kelowna is pressing for the Naramata road completion as a lever to obtain a bridge. The high cost of rock work on the Kelowna-Naramata section would be so great that the government, might turn to the bridge suggestion as an alternative, some thought.

It was agreed that the Westbank executive should take the Initiative in obtaining all possible data on all features of Okanagan highway botterment and should consult with Summerland, Peachland and Kelowna trade boards in an endeavor to obtain a united effort for the benefit of the Okanagan as a whole.

Mr. Chaplin of Bear Creek was strongly in favor of westside road development, claiming that the present settlers in that section are entitled to an access to their properties and that there is much valuable land which could be opened up along the route.

As an immediate step to prevent congestion on Okanagan highway at the ferry "bottleneck" he proposed that the Westbank board geck public works department approval to a plan of improving the westside road to a point where it would be passable for through traffic which does not wish to cross the lake to Kelowna and other points on the east side of tho jako. This suggestion was adopted by last night's Westbank board meeting and will be forwarded to Victoria.

Those who attended the Westbank meeting from Summerland board were J. E. O'Mahony, C. E. Bentley, J. R. Armstrong, H. Bee-man, Lloyd Miller, Alf McLach-lan, W. M. Wright and Rev. A.

We Look To The Future

R AND MRS. British Columbia gasped last week when Premier Byron Johnson announced his tremendous 90 million dollar expansion program. After recovering from the first shock of this immense plan, they were inclined to puff out their chests and take on a pleased expression in meditating over the rapid strides forward this fast-growing province has taken in the post-war period.

Although the Okanagan does not feature prominently in this expansion scheme, yet any development which tends to increase the industrial growth of B.C. and add to its working population is bound to have a satisfactory reaction in this agricultural valley.

We have long been aware of the vast resources remaining untouched in central B.C. There is a hinterland which can easily be extended until it reaches a population equal to present-day figures for all of B.C.

Coal and timber resources which have remained intact for years because of lack of transportation facilities are waiting to be developed. With an influx of population into northern central

B.C., a new market for B.C. fruit and vegetables will be realized.

Last fall, we had the pleasure of listening to Byron Johnson expound on B.C.'s possibilities in a round-table informal talk. You could not help but be infected by his enthusiasm. He has a vision of a great hinterland being opened up with more direct rail links, of a greatly-increased population and a province prospering throughout because of this expansion.

Such vast developments bring thousands of subsidiary services and other types of major projects. With increased population, new industries and capital are attracted to the province.

British Columbia has a great future, provided its people play their cards properly. This expansion has been brought about under our present system of government, which has served us well. If we attempt to experiment with a state-control system, that so necessary capital will be frightened away, even as in Saskatchewan; we will be throwing away our golden opportunity.

As long as our present-day form of government is serving us so well, let us continue to expand with free enterprise.

It Was Quite a Tournament

UMMERLAND as a whole benefitted by the publicity gained through its recent major sports event, the Okanagan zone ski championsbips.

Holding of such a tournament was not possible before, as the skiers did not have a suitable jump, a necessary adjunct to any such tournament. However, due to the co-operation of the Summerland Board of Trade, this jump was financed in the past year.

More than a thousand persons witnessed the three-day affair, visitors coming from all parts of the Okanagan and some from farther fields, to witness these competitions. Many persons had never before observed the grace of the jumpers as they whirl down the steep hill to soar gracefully down the slope.

Summerland juniors, Wally Day, Daryl and Bob Weitzel, Ron MacRae, and Ruth Klix showed the results of good training as they put Summerland firmly on the ski map of this valley.

But it was due to the handful of local ski club officials and their assistants that the tournament was such an outstanding success. This small band of workers organized well worked like Trojans and were awarded for their efforts with the knowledge that they had staged a successful tournament, one of the best in Okanagan ski annals.

Pearson Replies To Critics

HE government had no desire to force this ple but the facts are that for a large number of years our citizens have been complaining of the almost impossible task of paying costly hospital bills and have been urging that some way be devised whereby this burden might be lightened."

This statement from Hon. George S. Pearson, minister of health and welfare, given this month should serve to enlighten many as to the need for hospital insurance in this province.

"At least thirty-five percent of our people found it impossible to pay any part of their hospital bills and many more found the burden almost unbearable," Mr. Pearson explained.

This hospital insurance scheme not only eliminates the possibility of any heavy financial burden descending on a family, but it does away with those "fly-by-night" insurance companies which were mulcting the public.

Thousands of dollars were lost or thrown away (hospital insurance) service upon our peo- by British Columbia citizens over the past few years through paying premiums to hospital insurance schemes which were not sound financially. When the test came, they could not make the payments which the contracts called for.

> This was an unhealthy situation. Not only was the public being hoodwinked but the local hospital insurance schemes were rendered unsound because of the trend away from them in favor of the newly-formed companies promoted by a small army of high-pressure promoters.

> Need for prompt action was seen by the health and welfare department, not only to save the public from these unsound companies which were mushrooming in coast centres, but to provide a scheme which would not be an undue burden on any family or individual and would do away with high hospital

Better Health For All Canadians

Reprinted from Canada's Health and Welfare Department special supplement

In May 1948 Canada received a new health charter. Conceived over months and years of investigation, conferences, study and research, the new national health program, a comprehensive plan for greater health, heralds dawn of a new day for the country's health services.

Involving a federal outlay of $30,-000,000 a year in grants to the provinces—almost as much as the total spent by the health branch of the federal department during the previous 28 years of its existence and constituting a 30% increase in the country's present health expenditures—it is designed generally to extend the nation's health services and prepare the way for a 'national scheme of

The program aims at bettering the health of every community and of every citizen in Canada. aims to achieve this objective through close and earnest cooperation with each of the provinces, financed by three types of grants -health survey grants, public health grants covering a variety of health fields and hospital construction grants.

Following its announcement to the House of Commons by the prime minister all provinces enthusiastically endorsed the program. Each province is participating in the scheme and health activities are now being expanded from coast to coast.

With provincial cooperation, every community in the nation will benefit from the grants, meaning that every man, woman and child in Canada can look forward. in the months and years ahead, to a healthier, happier and more se-

Provincially-recommended jects are constantly receiving federal approval. Hero are typical examples of projects under way across the country from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia: establishment of hospital laboratories and cancer diagnostic clinics; expansion of provincial division of hospital services; research into the diagnosis, treatment and cure of mental illness; new hospital construction in many centres; tuberoulesis x-ray equipment to make available free chest clinic facilities to the entire population where local funds are insufficient; the provision of additional professional training for provincial publie health workers; registration of crippled children and establishment of a record system to show the diagnosis, treatment and rehabilitation accorded each child; provision of mobile VD clinics for use in northern areas; examination of 8000 children by a medical team and psychiatric social workers, with the results plotted nocording to the Wetzel Grid technique; expansion of health education services; free provision of the new drug, streptomycin, for use against tuberculosis; professional trainin gof psychiatrists, physicians, psychologists, social workers, nurses and teachers; new mobile x-ray units for community TB gurveys,

From Atlantic to Pacific and from the mouthern border to the every walk of life are increasingly reaping the benefits of the national health program .

Since all activity under the various grants must be based on accurate knowledge of the health need, health survey grants totalling $625,000 are helping the provinces establish the best course of action to take. These grants enable provincial governments to establish expert planning staffs to study and report on provincial requirements. Unlike the other grants, which will be renewed annually, these are for one year only, although amounts not expended in the first year will be made available in following years. Public Health Grants

The public health grants, available to the provinces on the understanding that present provincial expenditures in each field are not decreased, thus guaranteeing an overall increase in total health services, are of eight different types: general public health, tuberculosis control, mental health, cancer control, venereal disease control, care of crippled children, professional training and public health research.

A total of $16.5 millions, calculated to meet national requirements in each field, has been appropriated for the first year, a toal which will increase each year during the initial five-year period.

The general public health grant, intended for the strengthening and extension of public health services in those places, where the provincial health departments feel the need to be greatest, totals $3,395,000 during the first year. Calculated on the basis of 35c per capita, it will be increased by 5c per capita each year until a total annual per capita payment of 50c is reached. This money will enable the provinces to enter and explore new fields of health activity previously inaccessible because of budget limitations.

The tuberculosis control grant of $5 millions will enable the prov-Continued on Page 6

port on the annual BCFGA convention held in Chilliwack. Fruit growers expressed the thought that they had seen the worst and that "if we pull together good times will again come to us.'

P. G. Dodwell, F. A. Miller and E. R. Faulder were Summerland players in the Okanagan badminton championships held at Vernon, Mr. Dodwell winning the valley singles title and, pairing with Guy Reid of Kelowna, the men's dou-bles title, and with Mrs. Lyell, Kelowna, the mixed doubles.

Rev. J. H. Armitage, paster of the Summerland Methodist church, has been requested to remain here another year.

New owners of the box factory here, Pacific Box Co., announce that ten million feet of lumber will be used this year. New officers of the Summerland Band are: President, J. L. Logie; conductor, J. O. Steeves; manager, J. W. S Logie; secretary, Delmar ity.

motorists complain. Concerted effort is being made by a number of citizens to have a bank established in the quarters recently vacated by the Dominion New officers elected by the La- bank in the Empire block,

Despite near zero weather we had a turnout of 26 last Friday. Good progress was made in signalling instruction and Mr. Gordon Beggs took a class in Ambulance Man's badge work. Thanks Gordon! Next week Dr. Vanderburgh will continue the class.

Notice to parents: According to recently-released information from provincial headquarters this troop has shown outstanding achieve-ment in the past year. February 20 to 27 is Scout-Guide week and on February 27 there will be a Scout church parade. At that parade we would like to see every boy in the troop completely uniformed so far as hat, scarf and shirt are concerned. Scout uniforms may be obtained from Dominion Headquarters, 306 Metcalfe 81 Dttawa-also from Eaton's and some other mail order stores: Closest source of supply is Eaton's at Regina or Woodward's at Vancouver. Hats cost $2.15, scarves 45c and shirts $2.65. However, any khaki shirt is quite satisfactory. All shirts and scarves should be clean and pressed for this occasion. Let's have a really smartlooking troop at the church parade.

Implementation of the Goldenberg report which called for provincial government assistance to municipalities on upkeep of secondary highways passing through municipalities is called for in a resolution from Port Alberni council to the UBCM, a copy of which cil to the UBCM, a copy of which mise in the Bible in chapter 58 of was endorsed by the Summerland Isaiah, which disapproves of the council last week.

Since this resolution was submitted, the government has intimated in its program that such action will be undertaken this year.

The troop is very sorry to miss Darwin Harbicht from meetings, but glad to know he is getting along well in the hospital. Several of the boys have been to see him. We hope he will be back in circulation again soon.

At a meeting of the Court of Honor after last week's meeting, Graham Munn was chosen to become the new troop leader. He will be acting leader until he has completed his first-class at which time the rank is confirmed. Congratulations, Graham!

We are sorry to lose troop leader Dave Wright, but he is now doing good work with the Cubs. Notices: Meeting Friday, Feb.

OBSERVE SUNDAY Summerland, B.C.

Feb. 14, 1949 Editor, The Review:

Being engaged in work of the Gospel in this community, I desire to point out a wonderful pro-Sunday sport being held here from time to time as also in so many other of our Canadian and American towns. These verses read:

"If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on My holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honourable; and shalt honour Him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words: Then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord; and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father: for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.'

W. R. PIKE.

REPLIES ON SUNDAY OBSERVANCE

Summerland, B.C., February 14, 1949 Editor, The Review:

It may not be wise to attempt a discussion on such a controversial Pharisee? Remember the mote topic as Sabbath (or Sunday) observance, but the collective letter signed by several Summerland citizens, appearing in your latest issue, calls for comment.

The letter criticizes the holding cast the first stone." of a ski tournament at Summerland because it was carried over the Sunday. In the first paragraph Does any one really believe that there is an admission that skiing is a good sport. It is a good, healthful sport, taking the young people out to exercise their beautiful bodies in the keen winter air; many of them would be unable to participate in this sport if it were taboo on Sundays! they are too busy on other days working for their living. It seems very unfair to try to deny them this healthful pleasure.

Your correspondents say these young people are breaking God's law. Which law? They say, Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy. What does keeping the Sabbath holy mean? Can we get an accurate definition? Or is the commandment purposely left vague so that man, for whom the Sabbath was made, can decide for himself?

The Old Testament is very definite and very severe in its laws against working on the Sabbath. One could almost imagine that work was an unmitigated evil. But there are no laws or commands against games. Not in the Old Testament nor in the New Testament, nor in the uncanonical books. Indeed, because they could find no authority for their criticism in the Bible, your correspondents had to resort to quoting Cardinal Newman. It is indeed surprising to see a quotation from Newman over these signatures. It would be interesting to know at what period of his life he delivered himself of that mediaeval, un-Christlike, and manifestly untrue statement.

Was it when he was a Church of England clergyman or during his dispute with Gladstone or after he had achieved the scarlet hat?'

Newman's statement (if he ever made it) is manifestly untrue because there are many people living good, clean, honest lives who make no show or profession of religion while, on the other hand, there are many who endeavor to hide their misdeeds under a cloak of respectable conformity.

Jesus had no use for the "unco' guid," or the "rigidly righteous". We know what he called them. We know what John the Baptist called them. It might be well to take heed of St. Paul's warning against over-righteousness. If there was one human weakness abhorred by the Carpenter of Nazareth it was that of self-righteousness. Remember the publican and the and the beam? Remember the woman taken in adultery? Not condoning the fault but rebuking the hypocritical accusers. "Let he who is without sin amongst you

Your correspondents' reference to Carlyle is not a happy one. religion was more real or shone more brightly in the generation before Carlyle than at the present time? If they do they must be woefully ignorant of history, religious, political or industrial. Conditions were shocking in Carlyle's time; they were not less shocking in many ways before Carlyle's time: In spite of everything we have progressed and are progress-

To go back to our Biblical laws —there is not, as I said before, any laws forbidding games on the Sabbath but there are very strict laws against work on that day. There is one—a terribly severe one-about gathering sticks on the Sabbath; the penalty was death by stoning: the sentence was actually carried out by the orders of Moses and Aaron on a poor man caught in the act (they said the Lord commanded them to do it).

Now think of all the good Christian parents in Summerland and

GUIDE NEWS

The fisual meeting was held on Friday and we practiced semaphore. Some of the Guides are ready to pass their semaphore next week.

In the business of the meeting we discussed the display window for Scout and Guide week and also the parcel for England. Be sure to bring your plans these next week.

The Swallow patrol took campfire and they had a game and the singing of songs. The patrol in charge of campfire this week is the Bluebirds. Duty patrol: Ban-elsewhere who force their little boys to bring in sticks on Sundays. The boys don't want to do it. Their instinct warns them that there is something evil about it. Yet their parents make them do it and even punish them sometimes for neglecting their "chores", poor little chaps!

Now, surely, here is a field for missionary work. Did someone say, "That is a Mosaic law and Christians are not bound by it?' Well, then, we are not bound by any Mosaic law. You can't have it both ways.

The young people at the ski tournament were harming no one. They gave pleasure to many. Surely that is a good test of right or wrong. If an action is harmless it is not wrong. A wrong action always harms someone either directly or indirectly.

Skiing is good. It is healthful and invigorating. It fosters courage and the spirit of adventure. We know who said, "It is lawful to do good on the Sabbath."

Who can dispute it? LILIAN VOSPER PLUNKETT

Continued from Page 1 Head Janitor A. E. Trayler is being raised from $165 to $175 per month, and Janitor Frank Healy to $165 from $140 per month. Parttime janitor scale is now set at 82 cents per hour.

These raises will mean approximately $1,000 per year more for janitor services in the local schools, the board estimates.

The school board was also informed that replacement insurance on the elementary school has been placed at a value of $100,000, this figure to be subject to revision when the addition and renovation are completed.

It was stated that Bennett & White Construction Co. will complete the renovation contract about the end of March. Work is progressing as rapidly as the severe winter weather will allow.

Transportation Committee head Dr. W. H. B. Munn reported that the proposed extension of bus service to Paradise Flat area had been turned down and the petitioners so informed.

Summerland Horticultural Society has notified the school board that it cannot continue to care for the library garden and lawn. The school board will arrange with the janitors to assume this duty. Miss K. Hamilton has resigned as music teacher at the school, and arrangements are being made for staff members to carry on these duties. The school board has acquiesced to a request from the students' council and will provide $10 towards the transportation costs of Dennis Hack, high school student, who is to be Summerland High's delegate to a conference at the UBC campus.

In more complete detail Premier Johnson's proposals for the initial delevopment of the PGE railway amount to $13,329,000. First of all, a highway would be constructed from Vancouver to Squamish, at a cost of two million dollars, to provide an outlet for the railway.

From Quesnel to Prince George railway construction is estimated at $8,000,0000. An assembly plant at Squamish would run to $500,000; four-year rehabilitation program of right-of-way, $2,120,000; five diesel engines, $400,000; new equipment,

Construction of railway extension is planned for this summer, Premier Johnson suggesting that steel to the value of two millions could be exchanged in Great Britain for B.C. lumber. Otherwise, Hon. C. D. Howe states in Ottawa that Canadian steel will be made available.

The premier also has in mind the extension of this railway into the Peace River block and wishes to have surveys started at once.

Power development acceleration was another highlight of the speech, special assistance being sought for the B.C. Power Commission to develop hydro electric power in the Quesnel area to service territory from Prince George to Williams Lake. The initial stage of Little Canyon development on Quesnel river would cost about five million dollars.

Premier Johnson hopes that such power development would enable the establishment of a pulp mill in the Quesnel area, "to stabilize the economy of that district and increase freight offerings for the PGE. That area has nine billion feet of timber for development.

He also seeks fifteen millions more borrowing power for the B.C.

Two Vacancies in United Presbytery Faced This Year

A meeting of the Kamloops-Okanagan presbytery of the United church was held at Armstrong on Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 9 and 10. Because of weather and road conditions there were not as many ministers and laymen present as usual. It was with regret that the meeting learned of the resignation of Dr. W. M. Lees of Kelowna, who has been chairman. He was not able to attend, and was forced to give up his office because of ill health. The chair will be taken until the end of the conference year by Rev. R. P. Stobie of Penticton.

Dr. Lees' illness has necessitated his resignation from his Kelowna charge as well. A second vacancy will occur in the presbytery in June, when Rev. L. Sieber will leave the Revelstoke church.

Guest speakers for the two-day session were Rev. W. P. Bunt, superintendent, of home missions, Rev. R. Morris, field secretary of Christian education; and Mr. Douglas Latt, boys' work secretary for the conference.

Officers remain unchanged except for the chairman, and are as follows: Chairman, Rev. R. P. Sto-700 feet per month, he states. This bie, Penticton; secretary, Rev. H. project will provide additional R. Whitmore, West Summerland; treasurer, Rev. H. S. MacDonald, Peachland.

vincial school building program to near the halfway mark, as the original estimates called for $58,-

Rural areas will obtain $1,100,000 as special aid to school districts. A new system of lending text books to pupils in grades 7 to 12 at a nominal yearly fee is being introduced.

In dealing with flood matters, Premier Johnson declared that outside the Fraser Valley 933 cases had been handled at a cost to date of $650,000.

One of the main routes suggested is along the Giant's Head, down the Sandhill to Trout Creek and returning via lower town and up the Peach Orchard. Shorter routes would take in Prairie Valley road, cutting back by the South Prairie Valley road to the Station road; Jones Flat area along Victoria road and back to West-Summerland business district via the main highway; and another trip to service Garnet Valley.

Music Festival At Penticton Late in April

The twenty-third annual Okanagan Valley Musical Festival will be held at Penticton, April 26, 27, 28 and 29. The festival has been favored by the appointment of a distinguished adjudicator, J. Pedbles Conn. of the Royal Scottish Academy of Music. He will adjudicate all competitions in vocal, choral and instrumental music. The late Sir Walford Davis, a famous British musician said of festivals: "In musical festivals, the object is not to win a prize, or defeat a rival, but to pace one another on the road to excellence."

Summerland young people are busy working on piano solos, piano duets, and two-piano entries. There are vocal numbers, also, including the girls' choir. These entries are being prepared under the direction of Miss Kay Hamilton.

There are several new classes in the festival syllabus this year. including a madrigal group, and elaborate vocal composition without accompaniment in the style of the 16th and 17th century. Besides this, there are several two-piang classes for juniors.

Last year when the festival was held in the Scout Hall, at Kelowna, there were so many entries and spent the weekend in Vancouver. so much interest shown in practically all classes that it was rated a very successful year. There were even so many entries in some groups that the overflow had to be taken in one of the church halls. This year it is hoped that the festival will be "bigger and

Evening Branch of St. Stephen's W.A. Holds Valentine Tea

On Saturday afternoon, Feb. 11 the Evening Auxiliary of St. Stephen's church held a Valentine tea in the Parish hall. Gay and pretty decorations changed the room into a party scene.

Mrs. A. W. Moyles and Mrs. J. McArthur had gilded leaves, and interesting seed pods, and the stalks of wild roses, with the red berries still attached, to make bouquets, and these were on each table. It was a very cold day, but the tea was well attended and successful.

Mrs. B. T. Washington was in charge of the delicious tea, where the Valentine motif was carried out with a Valentine on each table, and heart-shaped sandwiches. Many of the members assisted in serving.

Mrs. J. J. Green and Mrs. Birtles arranged for the home-cooking stall, and Mrs. Eric Skinner and Mrs. W. J. Mitchell for the aprons. Many new bright prints were used to make these, and there was a ready sale for them.

It was decided to adopt a child in Europe for three months through the Unitarian Service committee. These homeless children have been in concentration camps, often are orphans, and for $45 they are taken for three months, given food, clothing and medical care, and their rehabilitation begun. Case histories of the adopted children are sent to those financing them, and some-times correspondence is carried on with the child.

A supplementary grant of $1 million annually, beginning with the third year of the program, will be made available for ten years to those provinces able to make effective use of it.

The problems arising from mental illness are complicated in Canada by serious shortages of all types of trained personnel and facilities for clinics and institutional care. Because of the great seriousness of this problem, the mental health grant provides for an initial amount of $4 millions and, in addition, for three increases of $1 million each at two-year intervals as the provinces are able to absorb more money.

The cancer control grant of $3.5 millions, a grant which must be matched by the provinces, will stimulate provincial action in the building up of a concerted, wellplanned and organized drive on the malady which is the second greatest cause of death in Canada. These funds can be used to establish active diagnostic and treatment services and will open the way toward free diagnosis and treatment in all provinces.

The national health program has increased the present venereal disease control grant to the provinces, a grant begun in 1919 on the Council of Health, from $225.000 to $500,000 annually. As free treatment is largely available the increased grant will help to extend the number of active clinics, train personnel for preventive work, develop rehabilitation programs, increase provision for drugs and extend educational work.

The crippled children's grant of $500,000 will assist provinces in the development of programs for the prevention and correction of crippling conditions in children as well as for the rehabilitation and training of such children. Despite much good work in this field by various voluntary and governmental agencies no comprehensive program has yet been developed under provincial auspices. This additional assistance will enable provinces to develop broad programs.

The professional training grant of $500,000 a year will assist the provinces in the recruitment and training of the additional health personnel urgently required to meet both existing shortages and those that will arise as the program develops. Shortages of public health personnel of all kinds are acute in Canada. More public health doctors, dentists, nurses, sanitary engineers, mental health experts, hospital staff personnal, etc., can receive training under this grant.

The public health research grant, limited to $100,000 for the first year but increasing by $100,-000 a year to a maximum of $500,-000 annually, will do much to stimulate and develop research in this important area. At present the grant is being administered as a separately operated fund of the department of national health and recommendation of the Dominion welfare to be expended on projects requested by the provinces and recommended by the advisory dominion council of health.

Hospital Construction Grants The hospital construction grants to aid in providing hospital accommodation of all kinds total $13,-000,000 a year. Designed as a tenyear program to remove the estimated shortage of more than 60,000 hospital beds in the Dominion and to bring about a more satisfactory distribution of hospital facilities, the federal grants must be at least matched by the provinces concerned.

Many factors enter into the acute hospital shortage in the country today. There is the increased demand for accommodation stemming from normal population growth, increased hospitalization of obstetrical cases, advances in coverage of hospital insurance plans and a greater general use of hospitals because of increased individual income.

There is, too, the fact that new hospital construction has encountered many difficulties during the past twenty years—the depression, the war and now post-war high consctruction costs. The shortage of beds is particularly acute in rural areas, a shortage which it is hoped the program will largely alleviate. The grants will amount to $1000 a bed for each active treatment bed or its equivalent and $1500 a bed for each chronic or convalescent bed. The latter type includes beds in mental and tuberculosis hospitals.

Since the provinces must match such grants it means that local authorities, in planning hospital construction, can count upon subsidies of $2000 or $3000 a bed, depending on whether it is acute or chronic.

Some communities, of course. could not economically support an efficient hospital but do require facilities where ambulatory treatment and emergency care can be given. As a result the program makes special provision for outpost hospitals, nursing stations and similar establishments containing not more than eight beds. Although the hospital construction program for the nation is conceived as a ten-year project it is anticipated that the major financial obstacles will be encountered during the first five years.

At the end of that time, therefore, the program will be reviewed and, if it is found that the full subsidy is no longer required, the annual grant will be reduced accordingly.

Provincial Gains

If the provinces can take full advantage of the moneys made available under the national health program, it will mean a tremendous upsurge all across the country in hospital construction, in the quantity and quality of health services, in efficient planning, in general health consciousness

Ranging from annual appropriations of $294,000 for Prince Edward Island and $1,226,000 for

New Brunswick to $8,985,000 for Quebec and $9,668,000 for Ontario, the possibilities for expansion in all health fields present a striking challenge.

What the public health grants can mean to the expenditures of provincial health departments will be seen in glancing at the case of one province which has been spending in the neighborhood of 68c per capita on tuberculosis control. The grants will provide that province with an additional 18c per capita. For venereal disease control it has been spending about 6c per capita; the grants will bring it another 4c. The same province has been spending around 1c per capita for professional training; the grants will mean another 4c.

The United States has a similar system of grants-in-aid. There the federal grants to the states in the eight fields covered by the Dominion's public health grants total 84c per capita; the national health program's grants to the provinces in these fields total $2.32. Regulations governing the use of the various grants place few restrictions in the path of the provinces. Except for the cancer control and hospital construction grants, no matching outlay on the part of the provinces is required. For the most part the subsidies are distributed on a per capita basis with special provision for the smaller provinces. Projects under the grants may originate anywhere — municipally or provincially — but before being passed to the federal government for the necessary funds they must receive the approval of the provincial department of health. The Road Ahead

Shortly after the announcement of Canada's new national health program in May 1948, Hon. Paul Martin termed it "a plan with a double purpose", directing an immediate attack on strategic points in the nation's health front and, at the same time, paving the way for complete national health insurance. What lies ahead for this $30,000,000-a-year program described by Mr. Martin as "the most important step in the history of public health in Canada" and by the American Public Health Association as "a step which makes the year 1948 memorable in the annals of public health on this continent"? The road ahead for the next five to ten years, will at least be paved with ample funds. Upon it provincial health authorities may advance secure in the knowledge that behind them is a federal belief as deep and sincere as theirs in a Canada as free of disease and as vitally healthy as modern medical science and equipment can make it.

It is a belief based upon facts for into the program, built upon the maxim of first things first, has gone the utmost in research and planning. It has been realized, for example, that a national health insurance scheme cannot successfully function in a country still short of hospitals, doctors and tal and social well-being.

nurses. Facilities, services and personnel must come first. And even before these there must be a knowledge of needs and a plan of action.

Thus, the primary objective, through the health survey grants, has been to assess each province's current problems and from such assessments develop logical schemes of expansion. Then under the public health grants and the hospital construction grant the nation canbuild up the services and facilities essential to a healthy production, at the same time increasing. through the professional training and other grants, the number of skilled public health workers of all kinds.

Canada's national health program is a cooperative enterprise in which municipal, provincial and federal authorities march forward toward the day when health services and facilities will be completely adequate, toward the day when every man, woman and child in every province of the Dominion may enjoy complete physical men-

Many Board of Trade Projects Still to be Completed This Year

Although 1948 showed much activity and a large number of projects commenced, it was not a year in which many of these projects were brought to a successful conclusion, F. W. Schumann; retiring president, told the Summerland Board of Trade annual meeting at the IOOF hall on Thursday evening.

Projects which were commenced, however, will be carried on this season with the prospect of much attainment, he predicted.

One of the most active committees was the new industries group which brought in many subjects for discussion. Still on the books to be contemplated are a prospective new processing plant, and roadside fruit stands.

Although the membership was large, standing at 181, Mr. Schumann declared that the number of active members remained small and he expressed the hope that more of the membership will take an active part in board activities

The retiring president, who served two years at the helm of the trade board, was high in his praise of the co-operation received from the Summerland council, as well as The Summerland Review and the Penticton Herald. He passed a special vote of thanks to the Faith Rebekah lodge for the excellent catering to board banquets.

In his review of the past year, Mr. Schumann paid special tribute to the Spring Fair committee which had staged an excellent show and showed a profit of more than $600.

An air strip had been contemplated and will be considered further, he continued, while a provincial government subagency had been sought but no cooperation gained from the B.C. government. From Spring Fair funds, the board made a grant to the Summerland Ski club of $250 in order

THOUSAND JOBS TO BE CREATED BY PULP MILL

Canadian Western Timber Company Limited has been granted a forest management licence covering 250,000 acres, it is announced by Hon. E. T. Kenney, minister of lands and forests.

Under the licence, the company assumes the responsibility for the management of logged and reforested crown lands to support a 300-ton pulp-mili to be built at Duncan Bay near Campbell River at an estimated cost of $25,000,-

In conjunction with the company's own lands the licence secures a permanent wood supply for the new pulp mill, Mr. Kenney stated. The company has undertaken to supply the mill's requirements chiefly by small wood, logging and mill wastes for 25 years while the immature stands on both company and crown property are growing. The contract provides that the company shall contribute 130,000 acres of its own crown grant lands, 54,000 of which have already been transferred to the licence.

During recent years, the company has been engaged in the largest private reforestation project in the province, planting nearly 1,000,000 trees annually. With the issuance of the licence it began a sustained yield forestry plan under government control on terms which were very advantageous to the government.

The new pulp mill will obtain, power from the B.C. Power Commission's John Hart development at Campbell River.

As the project develops it will provide not less than 1,000 new jobs in the Campbell River region.

that a new jump could be installed, thus allowing for the holding of the first Okanagan zone ski championships in Summerland. He commended the ski club for the excellent tournament it staged Feb. 3 to 5.

Sign Erected

An excellent sign was erected at the West Summerland KVR station directing travellers at that point. The board had been instrumental in assisting the B.C. Flood Emergency Fund last spring and had entered a very successful float in the first Penticton Peach Festival parade, this float winning first prize for community display.

The board was also instrumental in obtaining more adequate post office facilities at West Summerland and had proffered its assistance to obtain better post office quarters in lower town, Summer-

Mr. Schumann announced that plans for a new post office in lower town have now been prepared.

Another project for which the board can take credit was the removal of the old CNR wharf on the lakeshore. This removal by the public works department has greatly improved the appearance of the lakefrone and has also meant that a dangerous structure is now gone.

Mr. Schumann spoke of the assistance given the board by Reeve R. A. Johnston in its plea to have the old piles opposite the cannery and fish hatchery removed.

A breakwater has long been contemplated here, but the board can take no action until the level of Okanagan lake has been established by the flood control experts. No swim classes were possible this year but this committee continued to plan for the future. Under the direction of the civic affairs committee, a Get out the Vote campaign was carried out on two occasions.

Other Projects

The board approved the formation of a junior chamber of commerce, and endeavored to stage a Christmas outdoor lighting contest. The annual Christmas tree party was a huge success, Mr. Schumann continued.

Another project in its formative stage is the town planning idea.

"Our board can only be as strong as its active members," Mr. Schumann concluded. "Let's all work to make 1949 a banner year for the board of trade." '

In reports of committees, Walter Bleasdale for the parks group outlined some of the improvements undertaken in local parks and beaches by the council, with the assistance of some members of his committee.

C. C. Strachan, for the national affairs committee, submitted a report which indicated that a brief had been submitted to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce on the subject of Dominion-Provincial Relation.

"We are not satisfied with actual accomplishments", the report of T. B. Young's New Industries committee declared. Among the ideas brought forward in 1948 were the establishment of an evaporating plant, a new hotel, a cement materials industry, tree nursery, upholstery business, and roadside fruit stands W. S. Ritchie considered the civic affairs group could become an active part of the trade board activities, given proper organiza-

Report of Mel Ducommun for the swim classes was of a negative nature because of high water last year.

Two important questions had been reviewed fully by the agricultural committee, headed by Alex Watt. First was the further development of agricultural land in the district and the establishment of bees for pollination purposes. The committee investigated both possibilities but came to the conclusion that neither project could be developed profitably, but the matter of bees for pollination is being left open.

Town Planning

Town Planning was the subject of F. E. Atkinson's report, the board learning that a map is being prepared and when submitted to the regional planning committee at Victoria, a tentative bylaw covering Summerland's needs will be submitted for approval here.

The traffic safety committee complained of the lack of action from the public works department on its requests for stop signs on the highway through Summerland, also a twenty mile per hour zone from the top of Peach Orchard north to Tate's hill.

Good co-operation was obtained from the trucking companies on the board request that drivers obey the turnaround regulations in the industrial zone and the location of a parking lot by the co-operative has been another decided asset in that district.

The safety campaign conducted at the school shas had good effect, Mr. Herb Pohlmann, committee chairman, declared, while his committee was also instrumental in obtaining more bicycle racks, through the co-operation of the council.

Mr. Pohlmann's committee still wishes bicycles licenced by the municipality as a safeguard for the owners and to make certain that bicycles are properly equipped with lights and safety markings.

"Safety on the roads is largely up to ourselves," Mr. Pohlmann's report concluded, as the placing of warning signs cannot make drivers obey them.

Another committee which did considerable work was the tourist and publicity committee, headed by Roy Wellwood, assisted by Tom Manning, This committee distributed a large number of Okanagan publicity folders, was instrumental in placing the Summerland sign at the KVR station, guided the formation of Summerland's successful float in the Peach Festival parade and assisted in publicizing the ski tournament.

"We have a wonderful valley. let's advertise it fully," Mr. Wellwood emphasized.

Federal Assistance Means Seven More Public Health Nursing Services in Province

Seven more areas in British Columbia are receiving public health nursing services. Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health and welfare has approved the plan submitted by the provincial department of health and welfare for the provision of additional local public health nurses and necessary equipment.

British Columbia's share of the federal health grants allocated to public health nursing services will pay for these nurses' salaries, automobiles, travelling expenses, and equipment.

Predict Late Spring Frost For Valley

Approximately one hundred growers attended each session of the growers' Chautauqua held at the IOOF hall on Feb. 8 afternoon and evening, and joined with the session heads in round-table discussions and open forum debates on subjects of interest to fruit growers generally.

In the afternoon, Ben Hoy, chief provincial agriculturist in the Okanagan, conducted the forum, with chief debaters being Dr. J. C. Wilcox, of Summerland, John Smith of Oliver and George E. Brown, secretary of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd.

Mr. Brown warned the growers that Dominion weather predictions point to late spring frosts this year and it has been suggested that growers in vulnerable spots should prepare smudge pots in case the predictions come true.

The Tree Fruits official also talked shortly on the floor price placed under small-sized Newtowns and declared that this order-in-council is expected to apply to Winesaps and a few other var-public health nursing, Victoria has been able to meet requests for local public health nursing services from Surrey, Burns Lake, Inver-mere, Castlegar, Mission, Abbotsford and Kamloops.

This brings to 107 the number of public health nurses who are serving in districts outside Victoria and Greater Vancouver.

As soon as qualified public health nurses become available, other districts will be similarly served.

Complete health unit coverage is the aim of modern public health practices. However the shortage of qualified public health physicians prohibits rapid expansion in British Columbia at the present time. Meanwhile, the placing of public health nurses in areas outside existing health units is laying the foundation for full-time public health services in these districts. Preventive Program

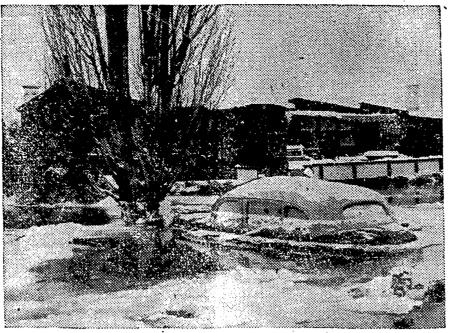

A glance at the equipment used by the public health nurse in her daily work reveals the ever-in-creasing efficiency of her preventive program.

With federal aid full-time local health units may now purchase equipment and so give the public more efficient health service. The purchase of audiometers and illuminated vision testing charts will make it possible to discover defects in hearing and vision early so that immediate corrective measures can be taken.

The provision of refrigerators will ensure proper storage for biological products including vaccines and will make it possible for health units to have on hand sufficient quantities of these to meet all needs and emergencies.

Routine medical examinations of infants and children will be facilitated by the addition of blood pressure instruments, auroscope-laryngoscope kits and weight scales.

Film and filmstrip projectors are being purchased and will be available to all public health per-

Suggests Development of Beach in Lower Town as Trade Board Project

Retiring President F. W. Schumann suggested to the Summer- and considered it would be a land Board of Trade general meet- splendid project for the board. ing on Thursday evening, Feb. 10, at the IOOF hall, that a board project for 1949 could well take the form of a new bathing beach in lower town, in the area where the old CNR wharf once stood.

His suggestion was met with favor and the incoming executive has been asked to consider this project seriously.

Mr. Schumann reminded his audience that the old wharf had been a great playground for swimmers and divers. He suggested that it might be possible to purchase the Horace Read boathouse and transform it into a small aquatic build-ing, with swimming and diving stands in front.

More beach could be opened up from that point north to the creek, he considered and if properly developed it might be possible to have the swim classes at this point and thus obtain calmer water than is possible at Powel Beach. A. McLachlan lauded this idea

Mr. E. L. Miller, Trout Creek, wished to know if all the piles had been removed entirely. He was assured that only one pile was broken off by the public works crew and it is in such deep water that it should not affect any swimmers.

Mr. Schumann declared that the board would be well advised to consider this beach development as a board of trade project instead of allocating funds to projects of other organizations.

In other discussion, it was revenled that due to the sudden dip in the temperature on Christmas Eve, some 180 bags of candy had been left over from the Christmas party. These bags were sent to the Salvation Army for distribution to needy cases.

Mr. E. C. Bingham suggested in lan for the membership drive this a letter to the board that the outdoor Christmas lighting contestshould be continued but that judging take place before Christmas Day and a cavalcade of cars be formed to tour the district and view the lighting of the residenc-

A lengthy communication from G. Y. L. Crossley, of the regional development bureau, was ordered passed along to the associated boards for further perusal, while suggestions were made that resolutions be drafted for consideration by the southern interior boards on the subjects of west-

Cage Playoffs Start With Three Local Teams Involved

Summerland, along with other interior points, is now in the throes of playoff basketball.

Last week, Andy Bennie, perennial president of the Interior Basketball Assn., announced the playoffs for interior teams. Summerland has entered Int. A and B and junior boys.

First game of the Intermediate A series was played at Keremeos Monday night and the second and return game of the home and home total-point series is being played tonight at the school gym.

This week also sees Vernon and Kelowna playoff in a similar totalpoint series and Kamloops tangling with Revelstoke.

Final Rounds

Winner of the Kamloops-Revelstoke series goes into the interior finals. By March 5, the winner of the Summerland-Keremeos tilts will play the Vernon-Kelowna victor, for the right to meet either Kamloops or Revelstoke in the interior finals, which must be completed by March 19.

In the Intermediate B boys playoff, there are six teams entered. Kamloops plays Rutland, Kelowna meets Summerland and Penticton plays Oliver, these home and home games to be completed by February 26 in the two first cases and by March 12 in the latter instance.

Then, the winner of Kamloops-Revelstoke plays Kelowna-Summerland for the right to meet Penticton-Oliver winner by March 26, in the finals. The semi-final round must be completed by March 12.

Only four teams are entered in junior competition. Summerland na, fourth place team. This posi-plays Penticton by March 5 and tion could be disrupted before the the winner meets the champion team of Kamloops or Kelowna, this final to be decided by March 19. Team Members Team members who represent Summerland in these playoffs are as follows:

Int. A: Gerald Adams, John

Raymond Dunham, Ernie Jomori, Keith McLean, Ray Moore, Don Nesbitt, David Snow, James Thompson, Harry Ruppel and John Vanderburgh.

Int. B: Donald Cristante, Wallace Day, Sandy Jomori, Fred Kato, Dennis Hack, Ronald MacRae, Leighton Nesbitt, Basil Thornthwaite and Daryl Hugh Weitzel.

Munn, Alfred George Pohlmann, Men's high single. Fumi In Gerald George Washington and Walter Thompson.

Although the junior team is registered under the Summerland Basketball Assn., to it is being sponsored by the AOTS club and Mr. W. J. Schwab has been in charge of coaching activities.

Mr. L. Fisher is coach and manager of the Intermediate B boys. while the Intermediate A's have been compelled to struggle along without a coach most of the season although Jack Walsh is assisting when he can.

Senior League

For the first time in interior history, a senior B league has been in operation this winter. Playoffs will be between the top four teams, the two bottom teams being out of competition. At this time, it would appear that Oliver and Vernon will be eliminated.

Kamloops as the likely league winner will probably play Princeton, in third place, while Penticton, in second place plays Kelowleague concludes, but represent ia, 2726. the present standing.

This senior playoff series is on a two-game total-point basis, similar to the playoffs for the younger divisions.

Taylor Turns Hat Trick to Beat Kelowna

George Taylor sparked a victor ious Summerland hockey club to a 4-3 win over the augmented Kelowna Stampeders at the local hockey rink Saturday night in subzero weather.

The young Summerland hockeybaseball star, shoved in three markers to keep the locals ahead of the visiting sextette.

A goal scored twenty seconds after the final whistle would have knotted the count but it was disallowed only after considerable protest from the Kelowna icemen.

Last night. Penticton came to Summerland rink again, while Keremeos is billed for tonight and on Saturday the strongest squad in the district, Allenby, is due to put in an appearance. This should prove the outstanding contest of the season.

Summerland led Kelowna all the way on Saturday night but only managed to stave off a determined third period rally by the visitors.

Taylor and Campbell gave Summerland a 2-1 lead in the first period and Taylor extended the advantage in the second for the only count of that period.

Kelowna crept to within one goal in the third before Taylor scored the hat trick to put Summerland ahead 4-2. Kelowna countered again but could not put in the equalizer before the final Friesen or Croft featured in every play and set the puck up for Taylor and Campbell to shove in the four counters. It was a rough contest and Timekeeper George Stoll had to look after four offenders at one stage of Sunday's get-together. Cost of building a quonset hut to hold four curling sheets would be $9,000, the lot would be $2,000, refrigeration would be $10,000 and rocks would cost at least $1,000 to get the club into operation, it was disclosed.

Kelowne recently decided to expend $45,000 for a new artificial ice gurling rink.

It was considered that a club could be started using a tentative site in Prairie Valley and natural ice and after a couple of years' play future plans on a more enlarged scale would be feasible. However, the whole matter will be discussed in two weeks' time.

23-Pound Kamioops Trout Landed

Last Friday, while trolling in Okanagan lake near Peachland, Mr. L. B. Fulks of that centre hooked a 23-pound Kamloops trout, one of the finest catches of the winter fishing season. He was using a white Red-Head Goblin with a triangle hook, it is reported.

Int. B Cagers Play Tie With Penticton

Playing an exhibition preliminary tilt to the appearance of the Broadway Clowns, colored negro team, Summerland Int. B boys tied with a strong Penticton junior squad on Feb. 9 evening at the Penticton Scout hall, final count being 44-all. Incidentally, local reaction was that the Clowns put up a far bet ter exhibition than the Harlem Globe Trotters, and were more finished in their playing ability as well as their clowning antics.

Summerland B's had to stem a last-half upsurge on the part of the Penticton kids and only managed to stave off defeat at the final whistle.

Wally Day had a large evening with fifteen points, while Denny Hack, Ron MacRae and Don Cristante also fought hard and contributed valuable points. Ball and Betts were the outstanding scorers for the Penticton team.

Summerland held a 12-8 lead at the end of the first quarter and increased that to 25-16 by the midway mark. However, Penticton fought back in the third quarter to cut the Summerland advantage to 32-28. In the final ten minutes, Penticton outscored Summerland 16-12 to knot the count at 44-all.

Junior Ski Team Plans Trip to Rossland

Plans are still indefinite regarding the proposed visit of a five-man high school ski team to Red Mountain, Rossland, this weekend. The Summerland lads have been invited and Club President Walter B. Powell has been planning on making the trip.

However, colds and sickness have dampened some of the spirits of the skiers and at presstime it was indefinite if the trip would be made.

Among the lads preparing for the trip are Wally Day, Daryl and Bob Weitzel, Ron MacRae, Ron Ritchie and Francis Gould.

A five-man team is needed to compete but the top three scores only are counted. Summerland would stand a good chance in the slalom and downhill but has no jumpers to round out the aggregate

A's Have Seven Point Lead For Big Game Tonight

Playing the first game of the playoffs on Monday night, Summerland Intermediate A's came from behind to take a seven-point lead into the second game against Keremeos. Final count was Summerland 51, Keremeos 44.

Tonight, Keremeos comes to Summerland to play the return match in this total-point series. As a preliminary, another playoff contest will see Summerland and Kelowna Int. B's tangle on the local school gym floor.

If the local Int. A's win from Keremeos tonight, then they will meet the winner of the Vernon-Kelowna series in the second round.

Summerland lads were slow in starting Monday night at Keremeos and were down 14-8 when the first quarter ended. However, they staged a comeback and knotted the count at 24-all by midway in Summerland's as they forged ahead to take a 40-32 lead at the three-quarter mark and then hold the Keremeos lads even for the balance of the game.

John Vanderburgh came into his own in no uncertain fashion on Monday night when he led the scoring parade with 17 markers. Dunham was next in line with an uneven 13 points, while Keith Mc-Lean contributed a valuable eight.

Kelly was outstanding for the losers, snaring 22 points for a big evening. Only other main scoring threat was Piche, who twisted the twine for fourteen points. Teams were as follows:

Included in Irrigation Schemes For Development

Of chief interest to the interior fruit industry is the announcement made by Hon. E. T. Kenney, minister of lands and forests, in the provincial legislature yesterday that 64,000 acres of new land are being considered for irrigation development.

Mr. Kenney went into details concerning the announcement made ten days ago by Premier Byron Johnson that $3,000,000 would be available for irrigation development in 1949. One million dollars will come from provisions made last year while the balance will be voted on by the legislature.

Local growers and veterans are keenly interested in the development mentioned in Mr. Kenney's report at Cawston, Keremeos, Chase, Salmon Arm, Grandview Flats near Armstrong.

The Cawston and Keremeos projects come directly under the veterans land act and PFRA in which the province does not contribute directly but co-operates. The other areas are part of a scheme upon

Dams Not Built For Control of Floods--Kercher

"Our irrigation dams are not built or designed for flood control," was the emphatic statement of Water Foreman E. Kercher to the council on Tuesday when he expressed opposition to a suggestion from both the provincial water rights branch and Chapman & Sons Mazama, that municipal dams should be emptied early in the spring.

In the past two weeks, twenty inches of snow fell at Trout Creek headwaters. Chapman & Sons reported to the council when recommending that most of the Summerland storage dams should be emptied and allowed to refill in the spring.

"What is really back of this request?" queried Mr. Kercher. "Do they want us to empty our dams as a flood control measure or are they afraid of our dams during spring floods?"

The water foreman, who has years of experience in municipal problems, warned the council that "immediately we start using our dams as control dams, then we are going to have trouble."

He declared the council should never allow the control of its storage waters to be taken over by

Seepage Problem

Mr. Kercher pointed out that when dams are kept full there is a decrease in seepage problem, as the stress on the dam remains constant. He reminded the municipal fathers that when Nos. 3 and 4 dams were allowed to drain there was always a seepage problem but this has been non-existant in latter years.

"It has always been the empty irrigation dams which caused trouble in B.C.," he continued, pointing to the Okanagan Falls and Penticton dams which went out during a period when they were being allowed to refill.

He declared that a sudden rush of water into a dam puts too heavy a load too soon on the structure and presents a greater danger of the dam giving way.

Mr. Kercher declared that one has only to open the gates at Thirsk dam to realize the extra man in the absence at Vancouver strain which the water action has of Reeve Reid Johnston. on such a structure.

Mr. Kenney explained that a reclamation scheme at Pemberton Meadows under the PFRA is expected to be completed this year at a cost of $750,000 to the Dominion government. The provincial government's contribution was the Tuesday. "But if there is a sudvalue of the crown lands up to den very mild spell, then we will half the cost.

The PFRA operates in B.C. under two sets of conditions. First is the VLA, to which the province makes no direct contribution, but co-operates. Three projects have been reviewed by the Dominionprovincial co-ordinating commit-tee to recommend for immediate action as follows:

Westbank, tree fruits, 1070 acres; Cawston bench, soft fruits, 655 acres; near Chase, high-grade mixed farming and dairying, 19,633 acres; a total of 21,358 acres; estimated cost, $1,000,000.

Second procedure is divided into three parts, the province, Dominion and the land sharing the cost on a one-third basis. Seven projects have been investigated and are due for review by the co-ordinating committee, as follows:

Salmon Arm, tree fruits and berries, 6,400 acres; Grandview Flats, near Armstrong, 3,100 acres; Okanagan Falls, 280 acres; Midway-Rock Creek, 2,800 acres; Balfour, in the Kootenay lake district, 220 acres; Camp Lister, near Creston, 20,000 acres; Merritt flats, 2,500 acres; total, 35,300 acres; total estimated cost, more than $2,000,000.

In a third group, where the economic value has not been determined, some 25,200 acres are to be submitted to the legislature this year.

Mr. Kenney's comprehensive development scheme, besides irrigation, called for an extensive development of Mt. Seymour park, near Vancouver, as a ski resort, a review of the forest industry and what can be expected from the policy of forest management licences, a report on the progress to establish aluminum plants in B.C. and the search for oil and natural gas.

Bill Snow Calls on Sportsmen to Work For Conservation of Wild Life

William Snow, delivering his report on 1948 activities of the Summerland Fish and Game Club, declared that last year had been reasonably successful but the most disappointing factor was the lack of interest shown by the majority of members.

Not only were some of the monthly meetings so poorly attended that it was hardly worthwhile starting any discussions, but more members should have availed themselves of the opportunity to attend the Interior con-

"It will be readily seen, the tremendous difference a steady supply of cheap electric power would make to our prosperity." Irrigation Rates

The member referred to irrigation, dealing shortly with the Grand Coules problem.

"To strike a comparison, it is interesting to note that in the Columbia basin project the average cost of water to the primary producer is $4.73 per acre, delivering up to five acre feet per annum.

"To the north, in the Okanagan, our costs for water are from $10 to $25 per acre delivering up to 3 1/2 acre feet in the season. We must compete with the grower to the south for markets in the United States and find it necessary to cut our cost of production to the minimum in order to do this.

"During the past four years many new people have come to the Okanagan and have bought up and settled on what was previously marginal land in, and surrounding, our present irrigation districts. In many cases, where wator is available for this land, they would have a chance of farming it successfully. Under existing conditions, there is no hope of water being made available to them. Water sheds, storage dams and existing works are already taxed beyond their capacity to supply wator to lands already in production, and the irrigation districts, remembering their desperate times in the past, are not prepared to expand and spend large sums of

Closer Co-operation With Jobbers Now Possible in Fruit Deal Says Powell

W. R. Powell, governor of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., growers sales agency, and ex-reeve of Summerland, has returned from eastern Canada with the firm conviction that the wholesalers throughout Canada are prepared to "play ball" with the Canadian producers and work more in co-operation with them than ever before.

In an interview with The Review, Mr. Powell was eloquent concerning the many features of produce marketing which had been unfolded to him on his trip.

The former chief magistrate believes that there is every hope that the Canadian jobbers will desist from importing American produce when they know that a sufficient quantity of quality soft fruits are available from the Okanagan.
"The words B.C. are magic across Canada in the fruit industry," declared Mr. Powell, "and not only among the trade but also among our competitors, who realize the quality of our products and the type of controlled marketing agency we have set up."

Mr. Powell was one of a party of twelve interior B.C. tree fruit officials who attended conferences across Canada, including the Canadian Horticultural Council sessions at Ottawa and the Canadian Fruit and Vegetable Wholesales Assn. convention in Quebec city.

Montreal and other eastern cities were visited, while Dave Mc-Nair, Tree Fruits sales manager, is still in Chicago attending the International Apple Assn. conference in his post as the first Canadian director ever appointed.

Following the council sessions at Ottawa, Mr. Powell had an opportunity to investigate the operations of one of the east's largest food retail outlets, Steinberg Stores, in Montreal.

Mr. Powell went through the Mr. Powell went through the company's huge warehouse, where great refrigeration plants are in great refrigeration plants are in operation caring for large quantities of perishable produce.

There he found that extra fancy B.C. apples are taken from their boxes and placed in six-quart baskets. The bottom layer is left wrapped but the top layer is unwrapped, with the exception of two apples on either side of the handle.

These two wrapped apples are turned with the words B.C. prominently displayed on top. In the retail stores, these quart baskets are placed in open counters which are treated with cold, dry air to keep the temperatures constant. None of the perishable produce is handled by the customers but the stores have become renowned for quality merchandise

Mr. Steinberg informed Mr. Powell that his stores are handling Okanagan canned peaches from Kelowna for the first time.

"He thinks they are tops," Mr. Powell declared, and he was glad to find that the three V's are becoming more and more acceptable to housewives across the continent. Dealing shortly with d'Anjou pears, Mr. Powell remarked that 'we are in trouble." From one end of the country to the other the trade overbrought this variety

Uniform Grade Canada Sought

A. K. Loyd, president of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., who returned to the Okanagan this week from eastern Canada is hopeful that a uniform grade for apples, regardless of the container, will be introduced in Canada.

At the Canadian Horticultural Council sessions in Ottawa, the members agreed that the grades, extra fancy, fancy and cee should be adopted throughout Canada to allow consumers an opportunity to judge for themselves the quality of fruit they are purchasing.

This recommendation is going to the federal government for adeption in grades regulations throughout the nation. However, approval by provincial governments will also have to be obtained in those provinces which are duction of apples.

Mr. Loyd is hopeful that the federal and provincial agricultural departments will co-operate along this line since the horticultural council has so recommended.

This was one of the foremost resolutions adopted by the council in its deliberations, from a B.C. tree fruits standpoint, Mr. Loyd declared.

F. L. Fitzpatrick, Rutland fruit shipper, was president of the council and presided over the Ottawa deliberations.

Game Commission, it is being understood that the commissioners are anxious to assist the local club to this extent.

Cost of building a room which could be used for moetings and other club gatherings was estimated by President Stoll at $200. Costs of equip-ping the room would be extra. Continuation of the pheasant propagation scheme started by the club last fall under the supervision of Alf Johnston is assured and the club executive is considering the purchase of four more hens and two cock pheasants, Already the club has twenty Treasurer Bud Steuart reported the club showed a profit for the year of $201.00, although the club had allocated $150 of this amount for certain expenditures. Bank balance stood at $269.50.

Summerland Review

Two Years At The Helm

AST week, Fred Schumann stepped down from from the presidency of the Summerland Board of Trade and handed the gavel to Jack O'Mahony after two years of accomplishment and hard work.

The trade board in Summerland acts in a manner not exactly laid down in the code or recognized in ordinary board channels. For many years past it has not only functioned as a board of trade but also as a glorified service club. During Mr. Schumann's tenure of office it lost none of its incentive but improved its position considerably in the community.

These past two years have seen many activities carried to a successful conclusion for the improvement or benefit of the district. Many other groups and individuals have been proffered a helping hand by this active organization.

Mr. Schumann brought to the board a pleasing personality, an ability to placate any member. and a drive which carried the board forward. We know the board is thankful that it was guided for these two years by Mr. Schumann and is glad that he intends to carry on as a member of the executive council, where his advice will be valuable.

Our Members Report

UR two new members are quoted extensively in the columns of this issue. In the past month, O. L. Jones, MP for Yale, rose in the House of Commons, just ten years after he was address in the debate in reply to the speech from the throne.

Last week, R. D. Browne-Clayton, MLA for South Okanagan, delivered his maiden address in th eHouse of Commons, just ten years after he was a member of a guard of honor at Victoria, as one of the Princess Patricias Canadian Light Infantry

Both speeches are impressive in their sincerity. No matter what side of the political fence you may happen to sit, there is food for thought in these utterances. The plea for the primary producers in the Okanagan is there but, along with this ever-recurring thought, is the knowledge that the need for new industries in the Okanagan is an ever-pressing

These two members from the Okanagan made a "good show" at their respective assemblies. A good deal more will be heard from them in the coming months.

Catering To The Individual

T IS not a pleasant thought, but one which should be pondered over, that dictatorships dissolve such organizations as the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides as soon as they come into power.

There is a reason for such action. Dictatorship depend upon mass support, unheeding the needs or problems of the individual and only interested in the blind devotion of the state, as a whole.

Scouting and Guiding, on the other hand, interest themselves in the promotion of the individual to make him or her reliable, self sufficient and quick to think and act in an emergency.

There is no better guiding spirit for the young boy or girl than is evidenced in Scouting and Guiding. Character is built up, a proper Christian thought is inspired and devotion to the nation is instilled.

This is Boy Scout-Girl Guide week in Summerland and throughout Canada. From a perusal of reports submitted in other columns of this paper we find that the Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Cubs and Brownies are flourishing organizations, but that their chief need is more support and thought by those who should need no urging, the parents

More encouragement, a helping hand every once in a while, a kind word of advice, tempered with a slight monetary aid, would go a long way towards bettering the groups which we can be proud of in Summerland.

The Boy Scout motto is: "A Good Turn Every Day." Let that spirit be carried by the adults of the community in their day to day outlook towards the younger people.

With such assistance, then the slogan "Preparing for Tomorrow, Today" will be given a fuller meaning. These young citizens are the leaders of your tomorrow.

Be Ready For The Canvasser

EXT week, the greatest charitable organization in Canada commences its annual drive for funds. The Canadian Red Cross played a tremendous part in the flood relief work of the past year here in B.C. We in Summerland witnessed the speed with which the Red Cross swings into action when Trout Creek threatened that section of the municipality.

Soon, a canvasser will call at your door.

Make your plans now to receive him cordially. Be ready with your donation, as it will help him in his voluntary work. He has a large territory to cover and many homes to visit. His time is as valuable as your own.

And when you consider how much you can afford to give, think again and give just a little more so that this great humanitarian association can carry on its wonderful work.

Signifying Nothing

forth of the blast which rocked West Summerland on February 5. According to the observatory at Victoria, no earthquake was recorded on their seismograph at that timo; there is a foul rumor that the electric power which operates said seismograph was off at the time, but that still is no explanation.

And while it is nice to think that Summerland's little tremor was exclusive as well as exciting, it would be nicer still to be able to explain as well as boast about it to less fortunate outsiders. This column has made several inquiries, with results as follows: From a Fish and Game club representative, "Just the Ogopogo having an especially tough snore." From a new arrival to the distriot, "Probably some early realestate enthusiast for Summerland's mild climate turning over in his grave."

From a school board member, "Was it the taxpayers shuddering in unison at the thought of increased school expenditures?"

> But Uncle Same has an atomic energy plant not far south of here, at Coulee Dam. In Utah and New Mexico he is known to be testing enormous rockets of the same type as the V2 buzz bombs which Hitler sent against England, and may well be quietly using unin-habited stretches of Oregon and Washington for the same purpose. It would be easy for a practice rocket or atomic bomb to have landed near here.

Of course, it might have been a practice shot by Uncle Joe instead of Uncle Sam. Both our avuncular neighbors seem to be working feverishly to the same end.

What an end, too. Developing weapons that will wipe out hun- out with the weapons one will dreds of thousands of fellow human beings at a blow. And there is always the pleasing possibility that our experiments may push into the secrets of chain fission and start disintegration of the earth itself.

Such weapons are bad enough in themselves, but much worse is Maybe the last comes closest to the apparent eagerness—on both Okanagan hills — and eventually one of them may be more than a practice shot.

It might be a good idea to start pretty soon digging a nice little underground shelter back in the orchard where the trees were pulled out, and lining it with lead walls thick as a politician's head to keep radio-active rays out.

With a shelf in it to store up the things that might, be useful in the world after the next war, in case a few of us survive by mistake. Some food and matches to give one a start, maybe a rifle or pistol and ammunition, since wild beasts will likely be running rampant over a ruined world.

How about swapping hubby a "night out" (with the BOYS, of course) for baby-sitting all Saturday afternoon while you have a free leg down town, in the shops, or in a show. Or maybe you can persuade him to take the small fry out for four or five hours while you do nothing-absolutely wonderful, divine, NOTHING, in great and copious quantities.

If you find yourself getting stale on your reading, pick up a new, GOOD magazine next time you have the chance, and read it right through. The best ones are never dull, you know, and you could probably do with a change from love-andkisses (in print, that is) or blood -and-thunder.

Does you good man shut his eyes when he kisses you? Take a peek next time you get a kiss, and see. I hope he does; something unromantic about the open eye close up.

Speaking of kisses - don't wait to be kissed all the time. Drop one on the brow of your bread-winner as you pass him by occasionally, and watch the frown disappear from between his eyes.

Every now and then feed the little folk before your own dinner, then pop them into bed, and have your dinner late-maybe in front of the fireplace, with candles. But to be sure—there's no need for me to tell you how to keep that man home of a night.

If you have to sew a button on for any member of the family, baste up the sleeve or leg of the article, and then when it's owner gets into it, he'll know you've done a little job of love, and will get a smile out of having to pull out the reminding threads.

Say, sit down right here and now and write that letter to your mother-in-law. Then get busy and straighten out that "worse" basket, as I used to call my mom's work basket.

You could prop a French dictionary up over the kitchen sink and learn a new word every time you did the dishes. That'd be three a day, at least; more'n 1000 a year, and that should carry you along when you have that second honeymoon trip—to Paris, this time. It'll bestir your erstwhile lazy brain, too.

Just see if you can go one whole day without mentioning the weather once. Then give yourself a putty medal, if you succeed. If others bring the miserable subject up, just nod your head, and think about a dozen daffodils in a black

Municipalities Assisted Through Social Security and Municipal Aid Tax

The Social Security and Municipal Aid Tax is designed to assist you and your community. One-third of all money collected under the Act is turned over to the municipal governing body to be spent for the benefit of the people who live in the community.

NO "STRINGS" ON MUNICIPAL AID

No restrictions have been placed on communities . . . you and your community can spend the money as you see the need... for schools, or roads, or hospitals, or to reduce the tax burden now imposed on the tax sources available to municipalities, towns, or cities.

TAX ONLY A SMALL PORTION OF SPENDING

Due to the exemption of food, fuel and essential services and commodities, the Social Security and Municipal Aid Tax results in a taxation of about 1% of the expenditures of an average family.

EVERYONE SHARES BURDEN

The Social Security and Municipal Aid Tax affects everyone. The more you spend on commodities other than food and essentials, the more you contribute to the funds for Municipal Aid and Social Security. People with larger incomes contribute more in proportion than those whose incomes come within lower brackets.

SCOUT NEWS

This week is Scout-Guide week throughout Canada. Its object is to bring to the attention of the general public the aims, objects and accomplishments of the movement. There is a Scout display in Laidlaw's window this week which features camping, which is one of the finest aspects in Scouting.

The church parade on Feb. 27 will be held at the St. Andrew's United church, West Summerland. Scouts must be at the church by 10:45 in uniform (short trousers are optional). A full turn-out is requested.

· Classes for the ambulance man's badge will be concluded by Dr. Vanderburgh this coming Friday. Next badge instruction will be Pathfinders.

The troop regrets that P/L Dean Rempel of the Eagles has gone to Vancouver to live. His place has been filled by Scout (First Class) Gordon Younghusband.

Former Scoutmaster Gordon M. Blewett paid the troop a visit on Friday and passed Scouts Campbell and Eyre for their second class signalling. These boys have not completed their second class tests. Mr. Blewett also gave a demonstration on hauling an in-sensible man from a burning building with ropes.

Better Citizens Is Chief Aim of Scouts - Guides

(By Mrs. F. V. Harrison, Girl Guide Commissioner for South Okanagan)

From coast to coast, Canadian Boy Scouts and Girl Guides are observing Scout-Guide week. One of the purposes of the week is to provide an opportunity for the public to learn more about what Scouting and Guiding means, what it stands for and why it has become the largest youth movement in the whole world.

Unless one is personally identified with the movement, in one form or another, it is a little difficult to understand just what the organization stands for. The simplest way to express it is that Scouting and Guiding aims to make better citizens of the community in which the young people dwell, and through its world-wide outlook and contacts, better world citizens.

(Of course, any organization could make this claim but unless there is a well-founded and welltested plan behind it, such as the Scout-Guide movement has, it is unlikely the claim could be substantiated.)

The Scout-Guide movement has stood the great test of time, and it is still growing rapidly.

To give expression to its purposes more fully, Scouting and Guiding are designed to cultivate character in the individual; the practice of personal health and cheerful happiness; handicraft and efficiency—and a sense of duty to one's neighbor and the community. One cannot state too emphatically that the Scout-Guide organization is undenominational — all that is asked is that a Scout or Guide shall promise to do his or. her best to do his duty to God, and emphasis is laid on their loyalty to the church, whose faith he or she professes to believe, Scouting and Guiding is a "way of life" for our boys and girlsthe more we can interest in joining, the better citizens we shall have. Lord Rowallan, the present Chief Scout, summed it up in this way: "Scouting and Guiding form one of the few real hopes for a better understanding among the peoples of the world, for it is a common basis on which people of all countries and creeds can meet.". This week, we turn with grateful hearts and pay tribute to the memory of Lord Baden-Powell, whose birthday falls on Feb. 22, as does that also of his wife, our beloved Chief Guide of all the world, Lady Baden-Powell. These two people have given to the youth of the world a new insight into the world in which they live. Let us all bolster this organization to the limit and do our best to carry out the slogan for this year "Preparing for tomorrow-Today".

GUIDE NEWS

Last wook's meeting was taken up mostly with somaphore, quite a number having passed their tests. Those who were not quite ready will be tested this Friday. This was followed by further discussion of Scout-Guide Week, the window display in Green's Drug store which has already been set up, and the church parade on lebrunry 27.

Guides are in uniform all this week, and they are reminded to keep them neat and tidy. These wishing to pass further tests for their 2nd class should bring in their written notes on nature study, etc., this Friday. The same patrol will take Campfire this week as there was too little time to have it at the last

Guides - Brownies Are Year Old

Some years ago Guiding was an important part of girls' work in this community, and when it was decided to revive it in April, 1948, great interest and enthusiasm was shown. This has continued through the year. Though the first Summerland Girl Guide company is so young, only celebrating its first birthday next April, it is a large one. It consists of a captain, six patrols of eight guides each, a company leader, and seven guiders.

Mrs. Kenneth McIntosh has proved to be a very capable captain, and with the guiders, Mrs. Bruce Biagborne, Mrs. Don Blag-borne, Mrs. R. Huva, Miss Elizabeth Theed, Miss Phyllis Hill and Miss Gwenyth Atkinson, has put in many long hours of study and work in instructional and administrative leadership.

The company leader is Miss Joan Marshall, who is at all times willing and keen to be helpful, in building up the company, with the temporary patrol leaders, Misses Shirley Wilson, Ellen Brandstrup, Ceone Eyre, Eileen Birtles, Mildred Verrier and Phyllis Bradford, having the same spirit.

Last spring the Guides packed nine twenty-pound parcels of toys and clothing to send to the Guide international service in Germany.

The postage for these parcels was quite expensive, and so a Christmas concert was arranged to cover this expense. The proceeds of the concert were $158, a striking illustration of the enthusiastic work of the Guides and community spirit of Summerland citizens. During the UEFB collection

Guides helped at a tag day. For its Good Deed during Scout and Guide week the company is packing two large food parcels to send to a company in England, to which one of the Guiders used to belong. This is to be continued every other month.

Ranger Company

One of the greatest needs at present is the formation of a ranger company for the 16 or over girls and another project is a second Guide company. All are hopeful that this year a summer camp will be held, and plans are in mind towards this.

Right now the Guides are busy qualifying for their second class badges which they hope to get by their first anniversary in April. These badges are awarded after a number of tests have been passed. All tests are useful and will be of service to the girls all through

A girl who passes her test in 'knots' will always be able to put up a clothes' line!

Some of the other examinations are in semaphore, health and first aid, nature study, sewing, bedmaking, public services, stalking and tracking, and fire lighting.

The Summerland Brownie pack, like the Guides, has been fortunate in its leaders and from the first, when it was formed at the same time as the Guides, Brown Owl, Mrs. Lorne Perry, and Tawny Owl, Mrs. Ronald Thornber, were hard-working helpers. Since Mrs. Thornber has gone to Vancouver her place has been ably filled by Mrs. Leslie Mallett.

There were forty-five children at the first meeting, and the first few weeks were spent earning their pins, and building up the Continued on Page 6

Banquet by Cub Pack Feature of Scout-Guide Week

The Cubs had active participation in Scout-Guide week when they held a father and son banquet in St. Andrew's hall on Wednesday evening at 6:30 p.m.

The fine supper was served by mothers of the Cubs, convened by Mrs. H. Lemke, and there were eighty-four seated at the tables.

Cubmaster Whitmore was toastmaster. After 'The King', Wm. Lewis proposed the toast to the Scout association, with Mr. Gordon Beggs responding. Honored guests were toasted by Neil Woolliams,, and Mr. C. J. Bleasdale replied, thanking the Cubs for the opportunity to be present at such an occasion. Tommy Jomori gave the toast to the church, with Rev. H. R. Whitmore answering.

The 'Dads' were the subject of Bill Bleasdale's tosat, and the father who responded for all the others present was Mr. A. D. Coggan. Mr. Francis Steart spoke of the good work of the Cubs in his toast to them on their special evening, and Jimmie Eyre spoke for the boys.

The guest speaker was Dr. H. R. McLarty, and his talk was very much enjoyed by everyone.

A new cup which is up for 'sixer' competition every three months vas on display on one of the tables. The Cubs are divided into groups of six, and win points for attendance, neatness of uniform, and number of badges won.

Wm. Lewis has three stripes now for being senior sixer. All sixers have two stripes, and all seconds have on stripe.

LONG SERVICE MEDAL AWARDED GORDON BLEWETT

After serving First Summerland Troop of Boy Scouts as assistant scoutmaster and scoutmaster for more than eleven years, Gordon Blewett tendered his resignation in September to the local group committee.

His place was taken by Dr. D. V. Fisher, who has carried on Mr. Blewett's position as scoutmaster. The troop prospered under Mr. Blewett's guidance and many local boys have felt the benefit of his guidance and fine spirit in Scouting. He has not completely severed his connection with the movement and whenever needed willingly steps in to help at meetings or for examinations for tests.

In recognition of his outstanding leadership and length of service, Gordon Blewett was recently presented with the Long Service Medal by District Commissioner Harley Hatfield, on behalf of the B.C. Cubs and Brownies, Baptist Church Provincial Boy Scouts Assn.

The d'Anjou is a wonderful keeper but should be best in December and January, if handled properly. However, the pear was kept in storage for such a length of time that it was not matured properly when it reached the hands of the consumer, with the result that the variety has obtained a bad name.

"You might as well try to sell a green banana," Mr. Powell remarked.

However, Mr. Steinberg declared that the answer is probably the same as in the case of bananas. The latter fruit will keep indefinitely in cold storage but must be pre-ripened before reaching the

Even after this treatment they will keep excellently for another seven or eight days, but are mature and present a pleasing fruit for the consumer

Dealing generally with the trade, Mr. Powell declared: "I feel that the chain store, in spite of the feelings of many people against them, are giving a great lift to our industry by showing how our product can be handled and handled in a proper manner."

Spread over a longer storage season, the B.C. apple is a more delicate product to handle. The ordinary small dealer has difficulty in moving apples fast enough to handle the B.C. product properly, he explained.

Mr. Powell believes that the central sales agency has a job ahead to educate the jobber to perform a little better service to the small man, to enable him to live alongside the chain store operator.

"After all, the aggregate of the small men is much bigger than the chain stores," he emphasized. Handling of Bananas

While in the east, Mr. Powel! learned a good deal about the handling of bananas. Even though they are purchased by jobbers at dockside in the south the banana producers are not content with just the actual sale but send competent experts along with the ship to see that refrigeration temperatures are kept constant and that the bananas are treated in a proper manner.

By doing this, the banana producers assure themselves that their product reaches the market in the best possible condition, the consumer is satisfied with the product and repeat orders can be expected, Mr. Powell pointed out.

"It is time for us to adopt the same attitude," Mr. Powell be-

At the wholesalers' convention in Quebec, Mr. Powell found that the "jobbing trade realizes the absolute necessity of working in closer co-operation with the grower than ever before.

"With the orthodox jobber, when our merchandise is ready, and if we notify them in time, I feel certain that they will govern their imports to fit in with our produce.

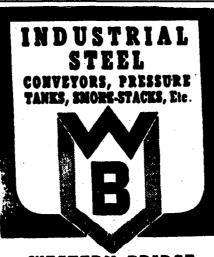

"This will not be done with any altruistic viewpoint, but just as plain hard-headed business. They realize we can supply their needs of peaches, pears and prunes, and any imports they make only mean demoralization of the markets and a licking for everybody," he em-

"They know we have the product to sell and that we are going to sell it," he continued, also giving part of the credit to the fact that B.C. has a reliable deal through its central sales agency.

Mr. Powell gave one instance. In 1939, 200 cars of prunes were imported into Canada by jobbers, and the B.C. crop was only sold with great difficulty and on a demoralized market. In 1947, imports were held off, with the result that B.C. prunes, at double the 1939 production, were sold at one standard price, with a reasonable profit for the trade. Tendered Banquet

In Quebec City, the B.C. party tendered a banquet to the Quebec jobbers, the latter being addressed in French by A. K. Loyd, B. C. Tree Fruits Ltd. president. Mr. Powell declared that the wholesale trade was greatly impressed with Mr. Loyd's remarks.

Also the Summerland Tree Fruits govenor had nothing but admiration for the manner in which Sales Manager Dave McNair was treated by the trade and the

Keremeos Fades In Second Game Of Cage Playoffs

Minus their star performer, Kelly Keremeos Int. A's were no match for Summerland at the school gym on Monday evening, succumbing by a 50-24 count in the second of the home and home, total-points series.

On the round, Summerland won 101 to 68, having captured the first game at Keremeos by 51-44.

Summerland now meets the winner of the Kelowna-Vernon series for the right to enter the interior finals. The Keremeos game was postponed twice because of poor road conditions and on Monday the visitors had some extremely tough luck, one car breaking down in Penticton, the balance of the trip being made by

Up against a ragged opposition, the A's did not shine to any advantage on Monday. Scoring was low in the opener as Keremeos got back four points of their deficit, outscoring Summerland 11 to 7.

But the local lads settled down in the second canto and blanked the visitors, leading 21-11 at the half. The two last periods were all Summerland and it was only a matter of how high the score would go before the final whistle.

In the preliminary, Summerland juniors were hopelessly outclassed by a much more experienced Penticton crew and virtually eli-minated from the playoffs. Penticton held a 70-8 margin at the finish and the young local lads never had a chance.

The teams were:

Penticton Juniors: Ball 10, Jeffrey 20, Betts 8, Johnson 4, O'Connell 8, Tidball 18, Boultbee 2-70. Summerland Juniors: Munn 2, Brawner, 4, Washington, Logie, Blacklock, Thompson 2, Pohlmann,

Mr. McNair is retiring as sales manager in June and it is expected his successor will be named shortly.

Mr. Powell had delightful side trips in Montreal and Quebec City and has fond memories of a view of the Laurentian Mountains where 2,000 skiers were enjoying the sport.

At Ottawa, O. L. Jones, M.P. for Yale, tendered the B.C. delegation a banquet and assisted in other tried their skill at Red Mountain hill, Rossland, last weekend, at the invitational high school ski tournament and gained much valuable experience.

However, they were up against strong competition from more experienced skiers from all parts of the northwest, including Yakima and Spokane, apart from the "hot" competitors of the home town club, Rossland.

The Summerland team placed sixth in the team competition for downhill and slalom combined but did not finish in the money in any individual events.

Walter B. Powell drove the young skiers to Rossland returning with them Monday evening. He reports that the competition and the ski hills were much more "rugged" than any previously experienced by his young charges.

Included in the tea mwere Wally Day, Bob and Daryle Weitzel, Ron MacRae and Ron Ritchie.

CGIT Parade to St. Andrew's Church

The CGIT held a church parade last Sunday to St. Andrew's church with Rev. H. R. Whitmore officiating at this service.

Last Wednesday, at their regular meeting, a Valentine party was held. There were games and contests, and extra refreshments were served.

Two of the members, Miss Merle Heavysides, who is head of the CGIT department and Miss Arlene Raincock, went by bus on Friday to Oliver to attend the district camp council. They were billetted there, and attended all the meetings, returning on Sunday after-

New School for Tiny Tots Opens

A new school for tiny tots is being opened on Feb. 28 by Mrs. Colin McKenzie in her home. It is to be known as the Quinpoole Play School, and will be open three days a week from 9:30 until 11:30.

It will be similar to the kindergarten already in operation. There will be as much music as possible, with rhythm games and records and, of course, much attention will be given to handiwork with paper, blocks, crayons and paints.

Mrs. Wm. Sherwood and her sister, Mrs. B. Bergstrome were hostesses to the Evening Auxiliary of the Baptist church on Monday evening at the Sherwood home. The devotional exercises were taken by Mrs. T. Racicot.

19th Birthday Party Of LOBA Enjoyed By Large Crowd

LOBA lodge, Hope 912, Summerland, held its 19th annual birthday party in the form of a social evening in the Oddfellows' hall, Feb. 18. About 65 people including members and guests from Sum-merland and Peachland enjoyed twenty hands of cards.

Mr. Bert Brydon was the capable D.C. for the evening, and announced that Mrs. Edgar Gould won the highest score for the ladies, and Mrs. Wm. Pattie was the lowest. The gentlemen's high prize was captured by Mr. Alex Shriner, and the smallest was held by Mr. L. Campbell.

While tables were being laid for refreshments, everyone took part in a sing-song.

A program followed the supper, and was as follows: Solo, Bluebird of Happiness, Mrs. Harley Ewing; comical Irish recitation, Mrs. W. May; piano solo, Mrs. Fred

Downes; Scotch recitation, Mrs. D. Taylor, Sr.; and a reading by Mrs. Geo. Kennedy. Splendid music was provided for

Lakeside Jr. W.A. Valentine Tea is Highly Successful

The Valentine teas were more welcome than ever this year, heralding spring with their cheery, bright red decorations, and fresh-looking table centres. The Lake-side Junior WA held theirs on Wednesday, Feb. 16, in the Lakeside United church parlors.

Mrs. A. G. Bissett was general convener, and Mrs. M. McKechnie, the president and Mrs. A. Stark, poured the tea. Assisting in serving at the small tables were Mrs. W. Greer, Mrs. Harry Hartley, Mrs. Harvey Eden, Mrs. Don Tait, Mrs. Walter Charles and Mrs. H. Pohlmann.

There was a sale of home-cooking as well as tea, and Mrs. Percy Wilson, Mrs. Fred Schumann and Mrs. H. Lemke were in charge of this department.

The decorations were arranged from Moses Lake, Wash., and from by Mrs. Van Gameron and Mrs. C.

Mrs. F. Dewonck Transports Women's Institute From Snow And Ice to Belgian Congo

Outside there was cold, and it was snowy. Inside the Oddfellows' hall there was a wealth of yellow Forsythia blossom, and a trip to a tropical country, through the verbal travel agency established by Mrs. Felix Dewonck during her engaging talk to the Women's Institute on Friday afternoon, Feb. 11, at the eagerly-attended annual Walentine party.

The Belgian Congo was the home of the Dewonck's for seven years, when Mr. Dewonck was the manager of a 1000-acre plantation of quinine. They are natives of Belgium, and came last year to live

The charming speaker explained that the Belgian Congo is a large territory, about three times the size of British Columbia, and 80 times as large as Belgium. In the centre it is low and damp, but in the east there is good soil, with a high, imposing range of mountains.

Beautiful Lake

They lived in the district of Kiwu lake, which is the highest and most beautiful lake in Africa. It compares with lakes in Italy and Switzerland, and has some resemblance to Okanagan lake, though it is wider and longer, and the walley is more open. There are, of course no fir trees, but the bright green foliage of coffee, tea, and quinine bushes.

To the north there are five volcanoes, standing guard. Two of them are restless, now and then showing smoke, and ten years ago one of them erupted, and the lava flowed down into the water. The Take is at 4400 feet, and the mountains much higher.

The climate is tropical, but because of the height is tempered, and very pleasant by lake Kivu. The nights are cold, with a variance of from 100 degrees during the day to 40 degrees by eight o'clock in the evening.

There is no winter and summer as is known here; just a wet season and a dry one. From May to September it is wery dry, except for a few days in August, when there is the "cow rain", so-called because it causes fresh grass to spring up in the burnt areas, and gives feed for the animals.

The Dewonck's home was on the slope of the mountains, overlooking the lake, and built of lava stones, which made it very cool, and heat was needed in the eve-

Before the war the Dutch had world monopolies of quinine. A Belgian chemical firm was growring this drug in an experimental way in the Belgian Congo, and supplied their own firms in Belgium, but during the war when the Dutch Indonese could no longer produce it, the Congo estates became very important, grew tremendously, to become a national organization.

Quinine Trees

"Cinchona', as it is called botanically, is a very erect green tree, planted three or four feet apart. Quinine is obtained from the bark, which is harvested in rotation, one year the lower branches, the second year, higher ones and the third year every other tree is taken out.

Quality and richness increase with age. The bark is split by matives hammering it with a small stick. The plantation was at an altitude of 6500 feet, 600 men were employed permanently, and at harvest time women and children assisted, and there would be up to 2000 working.

The harvesting is not difficultand highly suited to the native temperament, as they could sit and chat and beat the bark in their own good time.

When the bark is removed it is yout in dryers for 12 to 24 hours, then immersed in baths, and sent to the factory for processing into the drug which is used in the treatment of malaria.

On the domestic side, Mrs. Dework told of the great fertility of the still where anything that will zerow in a Belgian or an English garden thrives and exceeds in size. Arum lilics and carnations become huge.

All remetation grow at all times of the year, with planting In rotation. Strawberries are available all year around.

They bred Alsatian dogs sucspossfully, although care was needed. Calcium is lacking in the soil, sand has to be supplied for the growth of plants and animals.

The natives are not particularly bright, nor willing. They are not marmful, nor unfriendly, but need sconstant supervision. They prefer their own one room straw-thatchand houses, with no ventilation, and mo chimney, and the small fire in the centre. These they crowd into, with their cows and household, laceping warming ating their accustomed foods, peanuts and sweet motatoes.

'Cow 'is Capital

A roow is capital, and wealth rmeasured by the number possessed. All natives are not so back-where attempts to teach them have only been made since about 1918. Now brick houses are built, which they gradually learn to use. Medical help is given, and baby and child care, and cleanliness is taught. They learn trades slowly, and maintain them under super-

During the war years Mr. and Mrs. Dewonck had no holiday for five years, and could not move from the high altitude which, though stimulating at first, becomes very difficult, affecting the nerves and heart. In 1944 they came down to live at the edge of the lake, and for health reasons did not go back up.

Looking for a place to live, they felt that their native Belgium, and other European countries were under the shadow of wa,r and would be for many years.

The address closed with a tribute to the friendliness found here, and with that which is the hope and challenge of all, when the speaker said, "We came to Canada, as a place where peace might be found."

Tea was served by all the members of the executive. Charming table centres had been made by Mrs. E. C. Bingham, where from small red pots, red hearts grew from bare branches, and contrasted prettily with the white cloths. During tea-time, Mrs. T. Racicot gave piano solos, and accompanied Mrs. B. Bergstrome when she sang, 'Think on Me' and 'To-morrow is a Lovely Day". Miss Ruth Nakamura also delighted the auience with her sensitive piano

A pretty good standard by which to judge the success of a troop is the weekly attendance at meetings and the number of boys who drop out for lack of interest. The 1st Summerland Troop maintains almost perfect attendance at each meeting, except for sickness or unavoidable absences. Since September, the attendance has averaged 85 percent. Except for boys who have left town, there has not been a single boy leave the troop.

The troop has also made an outstanding showing in tests and leased from provincial headquar-ters indicate that compared with olds turning out for an overnight the average B.C. troop, Summer- camp complete with a 30 to 35land has four times as many King pound pack on their backs. Noth-Scouts, ten times as many first class scouts, and has earned six times as many proficiency badges.

For the most part the boys prepare themselves to qualify for badges, although in certain cases outside instruction is required. Much credit, however, is due to various local citizens who have freely given their time to act as examiners and in some cases as instructors. The troop is thankful for this assistance.

Scouting appeals to the average boy because it is different from any other organization. It is based on the highest principles of loyalty to God and country and service to others. There is nothing narrow or restrictive in its outlook. The movement is non-denominational, yet every boy is encouraged to attend the church of his preference, and is given patrol point credit for so doing.

Continued from Page 3 framework of the pack. Three enrolment ceremonies were held in the rectory garden, with Commissioner Mrs. F. V. Harrison officiating. The Tweenies concerned brought their mothers to the ceremonies, and carefully served tea to them afterwards.

Summer vacation over, the Brownies spent the rest of the year working for their Golden Bar and they are all ready now for this. They learned many games, and are beginning to show a real interest in nature study. One of the most successful 'imaginative tests' was when each six made tiny puppets with pipe cleaners, and presented fairy tale dramas entirely produced by themselves.

The Brownies held a successful Christmas party with competitions for both their own fancy dress, and the dresses on their dolls, which they made themselves.

The two visits from Eagle Owl, Miss Grace Nichols of Vernon, have been highlights of the year.

Uniforms Obtained When Guides and Brownies were first organized it was a disappointment to the girls that it was so difficult to obtain uniforms, but they have come gradually, and now everyone is able to appear at meetings or parades in proper un-also appeals to boys because it represents something strong and manly. It is looked upon with favor and approval in every democratic country in the world. Because scouting recognizes the supreme worth of the individual and his freedom to live and worship as his conscience dictates, the scout movement is one of the first organizations disbanded by dictatorships.

Outdoors Stressed

Scouting stresses the great outdoors and teaches a fellow how to get the most out of camping trips away in the woods, far from the easy and comfortable surroundings of home. He learns how to pack his bedding and food in the easiest manner, how to construct a wood shelter and make a fire and cook even in tough weather. He learns about woodsmanship and wild life conservation.

The Summerland troop went on four overnight camps during the year and also a six-day summer camp. The overnight camps proved badges. Statistics recently re- most popular and it is quite an ing seems to bother these young sters, even their own cooking on such trips. There is always a demand for overnight camps.

Inter-troop athletic contests are very popular. Since autumn, the troop has played two basketball, one soccer and one hockey games. These games have involved exchange visits with Naramata and Kelowna troops. Two-thirds of the boys attending the summer camp were successful in winning their athletes badge.

Every boy between the ages of 12 and 16 should join the scouts, the local committee advises. He will obtain a comradeship and training no other organization can give him. He will pass many badges and tests, but the things which count most he will learn without realizing, such as self-reliance, group consciousness and responsibility.

The Scout motto is: "A good turn every day."

O. L. Jones, M.P. for Yale, Makes Plea at Ottawa for Marketing Act, Irrigation, Power and Flood Control Measures

O. L. Jones, MP for Yale, made his maiden speech in the new sittings of the House of Commons at Ottawa on Friday, February 4, when he rose to participate in the debate in reply to the speech from the throne. He was interrupted on several occasions by Mr. A. L. Smith, Pro-Con member for Calgary West.

Mr. Jones dealt mainly with the marketing act which has long been sought by agriculture in Canada but which still has not found its way onto the parliamentary statute books. Mr. Jones continued his speech until the acting speaker informed him his time was up. Several members urged that he continue, but Mr. Jones quickly wound up his

The following are the main points of Mr. Jones' speech, as quoted from Hansard.

"Yale," said Mr. Jones, "is one of the finest fruit producing ridings in the dominion . . . During the last session events took place which affected the welfare of that (Yale) riding. I refer to the Geneva pact, which affected apples.' During that period we lost the British preference and also the

"Our fruit industry is a major event . . . In 1941 our production of cherries, apricots, peaches, plums, prunes, pears and apples amounted to $7,175,-000. In 1946 it had increased to $24,999,000.

"The plight of the fruit industry in the maritimes has naturally caused us a great deal of alarm. Stories are coming from Nova Scotia, where trees have been pulled out, and the conditions reflected in talks in this house have naturally caused us alarm." Mr. Jones then outlined his sug-

Cooperation Methods

"First of all, I should like to outline briefly the history of the fruit industry. I shall not go back to the days when we had to sell our fruit at twenty cents per box, to the days when the fruitgrower was exploited to such an extent that he did not get enough from the sale of his fruit to pay for his freight. Those were the days of private enterprise. But we are now operating under cooperative methods of production and sale. I hope that those days are gone for-

Mr. Jones continued, telling of early days of the fruit indus try and how tremendous investments were made by the growers to produce varieties which were wanted in England so that market could be supplied.

Wants Barter System

"Under these conditions we in the interior of B.C. feel that we are entitled to special consideration. The British people want our Canadian apples, but a shortage of dollars has denied our apple producers that market. Other member nations of the commonwealth and other countries in the sterling area as well as countries without the commonwealth are supplying the British market with

"We fear that a prolonged-absence of Canadian apples from the British market will mean that those people will develop a taste for other apples and that once again we will have to fight in order to be able to enter that market and have our produce accepted by the British people.

"I urge the government to take steps to review the situation, particularly with regard to the exchange difficulties. I submit that when the people of one country desire a commodity produced in another, a commodity which that country has in abundance, ways and means should be found to carry out some form of commodity exchange to their mutual advan-

Mr. Jones declared: "I believe that steps should be taken now to protect the interests of the Okanagan and Similkameen valleys. The Okanagan regional advisory committee has been studying the resources of this district for several years. They are of the opinion that the two chief resources upon which the population must depend are irrigable land and hydro-electric power.

"Both of these resources are complementary to one another. They have given all our other resources a very low rating. Their present concern is with the damming of the Arrow lakes and the materials to be used in the construction of the proposed dam."

He quoted the regional advisory board latest circular on the subject quite extensively poiting out that the interests of the Okanagan and Similkameen should be kept in mind in any deal consummated with the United States.

He quoted figures; showing that in the irrigable area there has been an influx of 21,000 people in the last six years; and this movement continues unabated.

"This has caused a high demand for our limited irrigable land, causing a sharp rise in prices. Canada will continue to grow and our particular district, with its fine climate, will always attract its quota of newcomers.

"While our climate probably will prolong their lives, it will not provide a living unless they have the land as well; and we are looking to the future and are anxious to meet this need, and to provide the means whereby our people can live under · healthy conditions and at the same time maintain a high standard of living.

New Land Needed

"Our present limited land cannot carry our population. We must enlarge our irrigation projects and bring new land under water. At present, the land is mainly irrigated by gravity, with some small pumping schemes. Water is supplied for a total irrigated area of 44,897 acres . . . the bulk is 28,037 acres of tree fruits.

"Gravity water is not available for 23,421 acres of fruit and vegetable land and 13,500 acres of mixed-farming land in this region. That is an area practically equal to that now irrigated, which now provides high standard of living for all the people living there. Therefore, we need a policy based on power to supply water for 36,-000 acres, at a cheap rate.

"These added acres placed un-

The member compared power costs with those at Grand Coulee and realized that power developed for irrigation alone would leave the power plant without customers during the winter months.

"Therefore, I suggest that we are ready for vast industrial development to balance our economy in the Okanagan and take a great deal of the load for the winter, months. We are also confident that the West Kootenay would purchase our surplus.

"As a means of developing a winter market for the energy used in pumping in summer I am going to suggest that it is feasible to heat homes by electricity. At least that possibility should be investi-

Mr. Jones also suggested a policy of low-cost financing for high consumption equipment as a means of building a market for electricity. Such a policy would speed up conversion to electric cooking and water heating in the Okanagan region.

He felt that the increase in population on the prairies and in Pacific coast cities would increase the demand for fruit, vegetable and dairy products, and the interior of B.C. is the place to produce these, not California.

"We are not asking the government at this time to develop a hydro-electric project, but asking them to protect the future interests of the Okanagan and Similkameen people by including their

Flood Control From there, Mr. Jones swung into flood control conditions and expressed worry over the immediate

"The government has been requested time and again by the people, probably driven by fear of another flood, to start this work (flood report implementation). To date, a year has gone by and the condition in which we find the Okanagan lakes and river is worse than it was a year ago before the floods took place.

'The creeks are silted up, the boulders and rubble are still there. Certain of these creeks cannot possibly take care of the resultant runoff from the heavy blanket of snow which lies on the land surrounding our lakes.

'The dominion experimental station itself lost some land in the flood of last year. There is a good chance it will lose a great deal more this year, not only by erosion but owing to the action of the flood in Trout creek. Some of the experimental station buildings are in direct line with the flow of water down the creek, if the creek is unable to follow its present channel.

"I assure you the creek cannot possibly follow its present channel for the reason that there is much low-lying land in the surrounding area.'

Mr. Jones made an appeal for the old people, for the house to consider the high cost of living, as it affects old people more than any others. He wondered how the old people in Ottawa could pay their rent.

"Speaking for the old-age pen-sioners of B.C., where possibly we have a higher cash pension than any other Canadian province, I

Open House Day At UBC Reveals Many Displays

The University of British Columbia has completed plans for the largest Open House Day, in the history of the institution.

Saturday, March 5, following a week of special events open to the public, the university will swing wide its doors to the citizens of British Columbia.

It will be a gigantic undertaking entailing the organization of over 600 student guides, the assembly of hundreds of displays, the arrangement of research projects, scale models of industrial processes and collections of rare museum pieces and books.

Eight million dollars worth of "The greatest hardship in B.C. buildings and equipment will be is where two old people have to on display for visitors from all parts of British Columbia as well live on one pension. This should be eliminated by the granting of as the Vancouver area.

Summerland Band Requests Grant of $450 for 1949

Summerland Band has requested a grant from the municipal council for $450 to cover the current year's requirements. Last year, the council grant, made after the estimates were approved, was for $150.

Mr. H. Shaeffer, band president, in submitting the request, informed the council that the band held 32 rehearsals and 18 concerts since it was inaugurated in April last Beginners' classes are being started under the direction of Bandmaster Herb Pohlmann.

A new set of drums and a trombone are necessary for the band operation this year, plus payments on musical instruments purchased in 1948, the report indicated. Mr. Shaeffer hoped that miscellaneous donations from interested individuals and groups would meet the band's current operating costs.

It is the band's hope that this new musical organization will be able to march in the Penticton district Peach Festival parade in 1949.

The council has referred the grant to its estimates.

Tom Bella was the bad man of the visiting crew, being banished twice for fighting and unnecessary roughness. Friesen, who was playing big league hockey most of the night, was the object of Bella's attention but Referee Wendell Schwab was quite capable of handling the affair.

For the first period, Summerland was short its team captain, George Taylor, but even at that the visitors could not forge ahead. They showed more experience on the ice but Summerland showed the greater determination and ability for sheer hard work.

Friesen, on an assist from Croft bulged the nets for the first counter after seven minutes of scoreless hockey. Penticton, however evened the count and for the balance of the period both teams played the hardest hockey of the season.

Brawner, on a setup from Ro berge put Summerland ahead again but two quick goals by Penticton put the visitors on top. Just before the whistle, Friesen counted his second goal, on an assist by Barney, to leave the score knotted at 3-all.

Quotos Cardinal Newman R. R. Summerland, B.C. February 22, 1949 Editor, The Review:

In reply to your correspondent of last week concerning Cardinal Nowman's statement, which she characterized as "un-Christlike and manifestly untrue", and doubted "if he ever made it", I wish to say that I quoted from memory the substance of his words, but on referring to them since I find his words are these: "Satan's first attempt when he would ruin a man's soul, is to prevail on him to desecrate the Lord's Day,"

IN MEMORIAM

BROWN-In fond and loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Barbara H. Brown, who fell asleep in Jesus, February 24, 1948. "We who were granted the loan of that kindliness,

We who were chosen to know that sweet smile, We must be thankful the Lord, in His Graciousness, Shared those great treasures with us for awhile."

Sadly missed by the family. 8-1-p
