

Vancouver Good Will Party to Visit Here

Vol. 4, No. 18

West Summerland, B.C., Thursday, May 5, 1949

T. G. Norris, K.C.
HON. TREASURER

W. G. Swan
EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

R. D. Baker

Reg. T. Rose

President J. E. O'Mahony and directors of the Summerland Board of Trade are making plans to welcome a large delegation of coast business and professional men who will be touring the Kootenays and Okanagan next week.

The party, expected to be 75 strong, will come into Summerland about 3:15 o'clock next Thursday afternoon and will spend approximately an hour here before continuing on to Penticton for a reception banquet.

It is expected that trade board members will meet the visiting party, which is travelling in special buses through the Okanagan, at the Welcome to Summerland marker on the northern outskirts of the municipality, escort the visitors through the main business section and continue on to the experimental station.

After a view of the magnificent lawns and flowers at the station, the visitors will continue their journey to Penticton, having had lunch at Kelowna that noon.

Reg. T. Rose, executive secretary of the Vancouver Trade board, who addressed the annual banquet of the Summerland Board of Trade has informed Mr. O'Mahony that there will be about 75 present in the party, including leading business men of Vancouver, and representatives of press, radio, banking and commercial enterprises.

The party, which is the first Vancouver Board of Trade tour to the Okanagan since prior to World War II, with the exception of the restricted trip in 1944, is headed by President T. G. Norris, K.C., who is well-known in the Okanagan, having been a Kelowna lawyer before going to Vancouver.

Others are Vice-president W. G. Swan and Honorary Secretary R. D. Baker, head of the Standard Oil Co. in Vancouver; Alfred W. Killeforth, U.S. Consul-General at Vancouver and F. R. Gullick, Australian Trade Commissioner, also are expected to be in the party.

The visitors are planning to visit main points in the Kootenays before swinging into the Okanagan on their return trip. They will go north to Kelowna and Vernon in the morning, returning to Penticton in the evening.

Okanagan on Threshold Of Stiff Political Fight in B.C. and Federal Hustings

Suggest Kelowna Mayor to Be Named

Rumors persist in this district that Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games, of Kelowna, is being urged to allow his name to stand as Coalition candidate for South Okanagan. W. A. C. Bennett, former member, Kelowna and W. G. Gillard, ONR agent of Summerland, have both announced that they would accept the nomination.

A combined meeting of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives will be held in Kelowna next Wednesday, May 11, to select the Coalition candidate.

Also, a meeting of the Yale Liberal executive is being held in Kelowna tomorrow night to decide future policy. The Penticton Herald declared last week that C. J. McDowell, Liberal vice-president and Collyer McKenzle, secretary, are delegates to this meeting tomorrow night.

Summerland Liberal Assn. is meeting in Walter Wright's office Saturday night to appoint delegates to the nominating convention next Wednesday.

One of the stiffest political campaigns in the history of the Okanagan is developing both provincially and federally as Coalition interests, CCF, Liberals and Progressive Conservatives are naming their candidates and preparing to try and elect their standard bearers.

Federally, the candidates have been chosen, and although the Penticton Herald intimated in a front page news story last week that Liberal choice C. J. McDowell of Vernon has not received official blessing from "higher up", there is no indication at this time that Mr. McDowell has any intention of refusing to run.

Mr. McDowell was named Yale Liberal candidate after several unsuccessful attempts by southern Liberals to withhold naming of a candidate in an endeavor to join forces with the Progressive Conservatives in Yale for a "free enterprise candidate" to oppose the CCF member.

Some weeks ago the Progressive Conservatives named Vernon's Mayor T. R. B. Adams as their choice for Yale federal candidate. They made the proviso, however, that if the Liberals would consider a joint candidate they would be willing to confer.

The CCF choice was, of course, the present member for Yale, O. L. Jones of Kelowna. There was never any doubt about this selection.

Election June 27
Prime Minister St. Laurent last week announced that parliament would be dissolved and the Governor-General declared that Monday, June 27 would be the federal election.

Scholars Win Poster Prizes

Pupils of Summerland elementary school of grade 8, and the two grades 7, made a clean sweep of prizes for their class in the recent safety poster contest conducted by the Commercial Travelers' Union in Penticton and district.

Anna Brlekovich and Norma Arndt tied for first place, and were each awarded a first prize. Evelyn Washington received honorable mention.

Now that the local contest is decided, the posters are to be forwarded to Vancouver for provincial competition, and after that are sent to the United States for international competition for a grand prize and scholarship.

First prize in the high school group of the local competition was won by pupils of Oliver high school.

Funeral Service Today for Late George Wendt 65

Funeral service is being held this afternoon, Thursday, at 2:30 o'clock from St. Andrew's United church, West Summerland, for the late Mr. George Wendt, who passed quietly away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Elmer Harbicht, Prairie Valley road, early Monday morning, May 2.

The late Mr. Wendt was 65 years of age, and is survived by his wife, Frieda, one son George in Vancouver and one daughter, Mrs. Elmer Harbicht in Summerland; also by eight grandchildren, five brothers and four sisters in the east.

Rev. H. R. Whitmore is conducting the service today, with committal in the Peach Orchard cemetery. Pall-bearers are Messrs. Arthur Wright, Harvey Walton, B. Waters, W. Verrier, B. Brydson and J. Helchert, Summerland Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Open House at Enlarged Elementary School

Summerland's enlarged and renovated elementary school has been completed at a cost of approximately $90,000.

The big two-storey building, with its shiny red roof and cream-colored stucco facing and bright trim is a distinct asset to the district and has been renovated with a view to providing for the educational needs of the younger pupils for some years to come.

Four additional classrooms have been provided, plus a playshed for the primary tots and the entire old portion renovated. Open house is being held next Wednesday afternoon, May 11 from 3 to 5 o'clock and all parents and other citizens are being urged by the school trustees and the elementary principal and staff to inspect the modernized school plant.

Final touches are being put on the building this week and it is anticipated that all improvements will be completed by opening day. Classes have been operating in the new rooms since April 1, the groups which were housed in the church halls being moved under the one central roof.

The Review will give a more extensive explanation of the details which have gone into the renovated school in next week's issue.

Record Number of Nearly 200 Donate Blood to Red Cross

The Red Cross Blood Donor clinic moved with dispatch and efficiency on Monday May 2, in the Oddfellows' hall to receive the 197 blood donors, due to the organizational work done locally by the chairman, Mr. J. Y. Towgood, and the particularly pleasant staff attending. It was the third and largest clinic to be held here.

Dr. J. C. White, an Irish doctor who came to Canada in January from general practice in Ireland, was in charge, with Miss Curtis, a graduate of Toronto general hospital heading the nursing staff. The truck driver was a small woman who had seen transport service overseas, Mrs. Kistner, and who was prepared for any emergency.

Others on the nursing staff were Mrs. Partington, Mrs. Ager, Misses V. Mioni, Noble, Lloyd, Reid and Martin. Technician was Miss J. Collison, and Miss Squair and Miss Marpole were listed as drivers and seemed to be busy at several duties.

Local Staff
Mrs. R. G. Russel in charge, and Red Cross Corps members Mrs. W. Hack and Mrs. E. Logie, received and recorded donors, gave out the 'pop' or fruit juices required before a blood donation is given.

Local nursing staff was convened by Mrs. B. L. Gillis. In the afternoon Mrs. D. L. Sanborn and Mrs. S. Feltham assisted her. In the evening, Mrs. Feltham, Mrs. F. Doumont and Mrs. K. McIntosh worked with Mrs. Gillis.

The executive of the Summerland Red Cross served coffee to the donors.

A new feature this year was presentation of special Red Cross buttons to those contributing three times or more. Heading the list was Mr. Alphonse Monu with 16 donations, Buster Clarkson with 14, and Mrs. R. M. White, who has given 10 times.

Tom Logie, Reg. Smith and A. R. Dunson were given buttons for 6 donations.

Those receiving the three-times badges were: Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Harvey Mitchell, Harry Beaman, Miss Mildred Clark, Miss June Dos Jardins, Mrs. J. McLaughlan, J. Y. Towgood, S. A. MacDonald, Walter Charles, W. B. Byre, T. M. Croil, Francis Stewart, J. R. Armstrong, Miss Joan Appleton, Mrs. J. C. Wilcox, Mr. E. Doherty, Mrs. A. M. Temple, Mr. B. Richards, Don Tait, Leslie Mallett, Mrs. Helen Huff, Ken Booth, Geo. Henry, Mrs. Wm. Haak, Mrs. R. G. Russel, Gordon Ritchie, Stan Taylor, Jack Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Woolliams, J. A. Bishop of Nelson Dedicates New R.C. Church Here

Church dignitaries from all points in the interior made Summerland their focal point Wednesday, May 4, to attend the opening of the Church of the Holy Child, the impressive Spanish Mission type edifice which has just been completed by the Roman Catholic parish here.

Bishop of Nelson Martin Johnson, DD, officially dedicated the edifice and officiated at the celebration of pontifical high mass at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Rev. Father McKenzie of Kelowna was chairman of the banquet which followed the dedication ceremony. Besides members of the parish, representative clergy from every Catholic parish in the interior were present and joined in congratulating Rev. A. M. Meulenbergh on his accomplishments in eight short months.

In that time, as the Bishop of Nelson pointed out, a rectory, church and church hall have been erected and a good portion of the construction cost already subscribed.

Tribute was also paid for the part played by the Catholic Women's League in those endeavors.

Among the visiting Roman Catholic priests gathered in Summerland yesterday for the solemn dedication and banquet were the following: Mons. McIntyre, Rossland; Father McKenzie, Kelowna; Father Milos, Vernon; Father Flynn, Revelstoke; Father Traynor, Lumby; Father Delestra, Rutland; Father O'Reilly, Kamloops; Father Downey, Oliver; Father Bergin and Father Sullivan, Penticton; Father Doyle, Father of the Atonement, Greenwood.

Mrs. Padgett, diocesan president of the CWT, was an honored guest at the banquet and spoke shortly. C. E. Bentley, acting reeve of Summerland, brought greetings from the municipality while J. E. O'Mahony represented the Summerland Board of Trade.

Tom Wilkinson Chosen to Contest South Okanagan For C.C.F. Seat at Victoria

Tom Wilkinson, chairman of the B.C. Interior Vegetable Marketing Board and one of the best known figures in fruit and vegetable official circles, was the unanimous choice of the South Okanagan CCF convention held at the IOOF hall, Summerland, on Saturday afternoon, April 30, as CCF candidate for the forthcoming provincial election in South Okanagan, June 15.

Mr. Wilkinson was named candidate just five minutes after the session opened in one of the shortest nomination proceedings ever held in this district.

Mr. Chesel R. Haker of Peachland was the first delegate to nominate the Kelowna man and in turn representatives of the other CCF clubs in South Okanagan proposed the same man. They were J. Snowsell, Glenmore; H. Lemke, Summerland; John Bibby, Naramata; J. G. Johnson, Westbank, and T. Dyson, East Kelowna.

In five minutes the nomination was concluded and Mr. Wilkinson had been declared the unanimous choice of South Okanagan CCFers, amid rousing applause.

Standard-Bearer for CCF Heads Many Groups

Tom Wilkinson, who was chosen CCF candidate for South Okanagan at last Saturday's convention in Summerland, was born in England, but came in 1894 with his parents to a central Alberta homestead when he was four years old.

After his schooling period, Mr. Wilkinson developed a homestead on his own and became a member of every co-operative concern, consumer or producer, in his district. He was a member of the United Farmers of Alberta.

In World War I, he enlisted with the CEF but after two years' service in Canada he was boarded out of the army on pension and warned that he must leave the prairies because of health reasons.

When he came to B.C., Mr. Wilkinson found conditions in the fruit and vegetable industry similar to Alberta in its earlier days, he declared, intimating that at that time B.C. had not progressed as far in co-operative marketing as the neighboring province.

Mr. Wilkinson became a director and later president of the B.C. Tomato Growers Assn. and took part in the fight for marketing legislation.

In 1934, when it was organized, he became president of the Interior Vegetable Marketing Board, which position he has held ever since. He resigned this post last week after indicating that he would accept the nomination for the CCF.

Other organizations with which he is affiliated include the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, as a director, and the Canadian Horticultural Council, as a director and representative of the vegetable growers' interests.

Mr. Wilkinson was also a member of the committee which drew up the standard contract for the fruit and vegetable growers and latterly he has been president of the Rutland co-operative sawmill concern. He is a director of the Canadian Wool Growers Assn. and has been a member of the Kelowna Growers' Exchange since its inception.

Harvey Wilson is Returning Officer

Councillor Harvey Wilson has been named returning officer for the South Okanagan provincial riding to handle the June 15 election. Mr. Wilson handled this task in 1945 and again at the by-election held last November and is well acquainted with the work.

ATTEND B.C. CONFERENCE

Rev. H. R. Whitmore, secretary of the Kamloops-Okanagan Presbytery, leaves on Monday for Vancouver to attend the B.C. Conference of United churches. Mrs. A. Stark is the lay delegate from Summerland who will also attend the conference, to be held in St. John's United church.

Mr. T. D. Dyson of East Kelowna was named convention chairman and Mr. H. R. Perry of South Kelowna was the secretary. The convention was declared a membership rather than delegates' convention, thus eliminating the need for a credentials committee.

In accepting the nomination, Mr. Wilkinson gave a resume of his past history, which indicated that he had been a member of co-operative organizations throughout his entire career.

"I can assure you that I will do everything I can to further the interests of the CCF," he declared at the outset. "I believe in it, mainly because of my experience."

"Co-operation is the answer to many of the vexed questions we are facing today. . . we have want in the midst of abundance, and co-operation is the way out. I also believe that through co-operation a better life can be attained."

He stressed that strife is developing from the competitive system and this is bad for the people, the results of which we can see on every hand.

"I am prepared to fight this election on the grounds that the competitive system is both wasteful and inefficient," he emphasized.

At another point he stated he had no quarrel with people who believe in the competitive system, he just thought they were wrong.

Better B.C.

"I believe in a better British Columbia, a better Canada and a better world," he continued, asking his listeners to stop and size up the present economic system. There is something wrong with it. . . you can judge by the results and the results are bad. Analyze the system, and decide how to bring about something better."

He added "aside that in his experience in the vegetable marketing setup, which is operated on a co-operative system, he found that there is waste and inefficiency in marketing after the products leave the valley."

"We CCFers are always confronted with red herrings in any campaign and probably several will be trotted out in this election. The hardy annual is communism."

"If you want to develop communism, capitalism will do the job," he emphasized, amid applause. He stressed that communists are desperate people and will try desperate remedies.

The communists wish to tear down the structure, but the CCF wants to accept the foundation and develop it from there, not destroy it, he believed.

For a short time Mr. Wilkinson dealt on the large number of active supporters in the CCF ranks, of whom he expressed pride. He had met a number of the CCF leaders in Ottawa and stressed the constructive nature of their criticisms.

I cannot say that about some of the other parties," he stated.

In conclusion, he urged the CCF supporters to get on the voters' list and exercise their Building Permit Figures Soar With Inclusion of Co-op House

With the building permit for the new Summerland co-op packing house included, April building showed a tremendous forward stride and is more than $100,000 ahead of the figure at this time a year ago.

Building Inspector Roy Angus revealed this week that April permits amounted to $122,435, compared with $19,640 for the same month in 1948.

At the end of April, 51 permits had been issued for a total of $107,380. In the first four months of 1948, 48 permits had been issued for a value of $63,170.

Last month, four new dwellings valued at $16,600 for the actual building were permitted to complete. But it was in the institutional and commercial category that the big increase came.

Nine permits valued at $99,400 were issued, including the Summerland co-op packinghouse permit valued at $74,800. The permit for renovations to the old packinghouse was taken out earlier in the year.

Fourteen permits for alterations, additions and private garages in April amounted to a value of $6,445.

If the present rate of building activity continues throughout the year, 1949 will see one of the most extensive construction years in Summerland's history, it is believed.

Financing the Municipality

PRESENTATION of figures can be a complex matter at the best of times, and even the simplest presentation can often be misleading.

Last week, the municipal tax rate was set at 35 mills, an increase of five mills over last year, which in part was accounted for by the decrease of $280,000 in taxable assessments over 1948. Fruit trees and farm buildings other than the main farm residence have been wiped off the rolls for taxation purposes, either municipal or school. Last year, they were eliminated from school taxation only.

However, this loss was partly made up from revision of values on other types of property and new additions in the municipality.

Another reason for the increase in mill rate was the boost given teachers' salaries following lengthy negotiation and arbitration, over which local municipal and school authorities have little, if any, jurisdiction.

This created a boost from 16 mills to 24 mills as the school budget required an additional $19,183 from taxes to operate.

On the other hand, the municipal share of the tax rate has gone down from $29,330 to $15,045, a difference of $14,285 or from 10 mills to 6½ mills.

This would indicate, on the face of things, that the general expenditure of the municipality, apart from public utilities, was to be decreased this year, and the burden of added school costs had caused the entire increase in the total mill rate.

Such is not entirely the case. The municipality has a nest egg of some $5,000 tucked away from revenues of tax sale lands disposed of in the past two years. This money can be allocated for capital expenditure, such as hard surfacing roads.

Then, last December, the municipality received $8,000 as its interim share of the social assistance and municipal aid three percent rebate. An equal amount has been promised for the first half of this year and it will probably be higher.

Now, there are several ways in which this sales tax rebate could have been handled. The municipal fathers might have seen fit to allocate a portion of the rebate to the schools and the balance to the general municipal expenditures.

If that had been done, the school district picture would not have been so formidable, and the municipal general levy could have remained the same as last year . . . at 10 mills.

There were no strings attached to the provincial government offer to the municipalities of one percent of the three percent sales tax. The monies so collected were to be used in any way the municipalities saw fit, but it inferred that they should be utilized as a means of saving the taxpayer some money.

Since that statement, the education minister has endeavored to infer, in some instances, that the sales tax rebates should be devoted entirely to schools.

This would not be a fair inference, but we do not believe that the municipality has given an entirely fair picture by keeping all of the sales tax monies in its general revenues and not allowing the school district an opportunity to present a little better picture.

However, it all comes out of the same pot and as long as the taxpayer understands the division of the spoils the grand total is not changed a bit.

Care of the Forests

ALTHOUGH some of the cool evenings lately would not lead one to believe it, the dry season is practically upon us, and extra care must be taken to prevent fires in the forests.

Last week, there was almost a small disaster in our own outskirts when a fire at the refuse ground got out of control and spread with alarming swiftness over nearly a mile of countryside.

General advice is forthcoming from the Canadian Forestry Assn. on the care which should be exercised in the woods.

No campfire should be built against a tree or log, in leaf mould or in or near a rotten stump or snag. All fires should be built away from overhanging branches, and on dirt or rock foundation. All rotten wood or leaf mould must be cleared away with any other inflammable material within a radius of from three to five feet.

All fires must be extinguished before leaving.

All smokes and matches must be extinguished before being thrown away.

Never leave a campfire, even for a short time, without completely extinguishing every spark with water or fresh dirt, free from moss or leaf mould.

Do not throw charred logs to one side where a smoldering spark might catch. It is well to soak thoroughly all embers and charred pieces of wood and then cover them with dirt. Feel around the outer edge of the fire to make sure no fire is smoldering.

Never leave a dirty camp. Always burn or bury your refuse.

These are commonsense suggestions which should occur to any campers. But all too many fail to heed the simple precautions. Make sure that you do not transgress this summer. Carelessness is expensive in our woods.

Signifying Nothing

By RUSTICUS

In the last few weeks, Summerland citizens have had many opportunities of sitting in audiences and congregations to enjoy music, plays and speakers. Most of us on such occasions are fond of leaning back and criticising the persons on the stage and behind the pulpit—not only their voices and actions, but every detail of dress and personality.

Ever wonder what those on stage think of the audience?

It's a bit disgusting to realize that those people on stage, during the intervals when they are not actually participating in what is going on—and sometimes even while speaking or singing, I suppose, if they are very practised—may be surveying the audience just as critically. Here are some of their comments, as told by 'reliable sources.'

At first, if it is night and the lights are off, they see just white blurs in the darkness of the hall—so many white corpuscles in a backwater of the world's bloodstream. Faces. Often it comes as a surprise how large a number of them are lit by the dual gleam of eyeglasses—a commentary both good and bad on modern civilization.

Next they notice the ladies' hats—with an unfriendly eye, too, if it is an evening performance. Those top-hat-styles so popular today—many a performer would take vicious delight in going round a hall and hashing them all flat! At the same time, he'd probably like to bestow an appreciative pat on every bald-headed man, for having gone the limit in removing cranial obstruction to other people's vision of the stage.

When an actor or singer is nervous, an audience remains so many impersonal faces or hats to him, even if the hall is fully lighted. An experienced performer, however, will, after a few minutes, begin to recognize familiar faces even in a darkened hall, and have his own thoughts about them. Many of the comfortable critics in audience or congregation would be startled to know what the people they criticize are thinking about them.

For instance—how ridiculous that woman looks in that youthful spring costume much too young for her. How paunchy, smug, old what-his-name is getting—to bad men don't wear girdles, too. And look at old So-and-so, past retiring age, strutting in with a girl barely out of high school. That young couple over there look much-better matched, even if they are so shy that he's clumsy and silent and she blushes every time their arms touch. Ah youth, youth! There's a pretty girl who looks like a monkey—a beautiful monkey of course, for she is a good-looking girl, but yet . . . And that poor lad at the back is listening with such fierce concentration that his screwed-up face seems to say, "I'm going to hear this if it kills me." Maybe it will, at that.

Don't think that the people on the stage are any more captious than those in the audience—as a matter of fact, their mental attitude nearly always reflects that of their audience. If the performance isn't going very well, and the audience is critical, the performers feel it too and become correspondingly critical in defense. That's when nasty thoughts may be going both ways between stage and hall.

But when the thing goes fairly well and the audience is receptive

—as Summerland audiences usually are—then the performers feel kindly toward them too, pass indulgently over all sorts of odd sights, and even make allowances for the actor's or singer's particular aversion—the yapper who goes on talking right through the performance.

When things go off exceptionally well, many an actor, singer, or speaker feels toward his audience as some old troupers frankly say, "I love you—I love you all." Collectively, of course.

Two Appeals Drop Behind In District

Two appeals for funds are lagging in this district, officials of the St. John Ambulance Society and the Canadian Cancer Society report this week.

The St. John appeal, which hopes to raise $200, has only succeeded in bringing in $75 to date, it is stated. Subscriptions may be left at the office of James Muirhead, in the Bank of Montreal, Butler & Walden, the Bulletin office or the lower town post office.

Mrs. E. M. Hookham, campaign chairwoman of the Conquer Cancer campaign states that approximately $100 of the $300 objective of this important cause has been received to date. Mr. E. R. Butler is treasurer of this society, and states that most of the money raised to date has come from organizations.

Funds raised by the Cancer society will be used for educational, welfare and research in the concerted effort to acquaint the public with the ravages of this dread disease, besides assisting in further experimental work to find a method of attaining a cure.

Editor, The Review

May I once more, through your paper, thank the people of Summerland for their very generous response to the appeal for blood donors.

It is of interest to know that the British Columbia blood bank was in such urgent need for fresh supply that an emergency shipment was rushed to Vancouver last night.

Special thanks are due to the volunteer workers at the clinic; and to the editor and staff of the Summerland Review, who gave us publicity and issued cards for new signatures. Without all this co-operation there could be no clinic.

I am, yours sincerely,

OF

School District No. 77

(Summerland)

EXTENDS A CORDIAL INVITATION

Citizens of the Summerland District

To inspect the Enlarged and Renovated

Elementary School on Wednesday, May 11, 1949

from 3 to 5 p.m.

Those connected with the renovation and modernization program are proud of their new school building and wish all citizens to take advantage of this opportunity to inspect a building which they believe will provide adequate educational facilities for the younger pupils of this district.

Expect New Co-op Packing House to be Ready in Time For Cherry Season

"Our new packing house and renovated cold storage building should be ready in time for this season's operations, but no more than ready", was President Eric Tait's message to the annual meeting of the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Assn. held in the IOOF hall on Friday evening, April 29.

The meeting had to be delayed for half an hour until a quorum of just over fifty could be gathered together. More members arrived later to swell the number present to nearly 75 persons.

President Tait gave a detailed outline of the directors' plans for this new construction and declared that there is every reason to believe that the building program will come within the original estimates and will be finished in time to handle this season's crop.

A new soft fruit grader has been constructed and will be available for the new building or can be operated in the renovated old grader when cherries start to roll, he explained.

One of the features of the meeting was the attempt by Magistrate H. Sharman, backed by Capt. A. M. Temple and R. G. Russel to revert to the former system of financing in meeting indebtedness on the new construction program. However, the directors were substantiated in their adopted method after an hour's discussion on the merits and demerits of the two systems.

F. R. Ganzeveld and Dr. D. V. Fisher, two of the retiring directors, were re-elected for two-year terms and C. A. Gayton was chosen for a one-year period.

The directors' remuneration will remain the same for 1949-50 and the auditors are Rutherford, Bazzett & Co., Kelowna.

President Tait commenced his directors' report by stating that he felt the co-op was fortunate in keeping claims down to a low level. Most of the claims concerned Rochester peaches, a condition similar to other parts of the valley.

Packing costs showed a further increase, made up of small rises in nearly every department. He foresees a more stable price structure this year in relation to operating costs.

In connection with the renovation of the old building, Mr. Tait explained that the directors accepted the suggestion of Dalrymple & Co., Penticon contractors, and let the contract on a fixed fee basis.

Four tenders were submitted for construction of the new packing house, Dalrymple bid being the lowest at $83,807 and the highest being $111,000.

Fixed Fee Basis
Following acceptance of the Dalrymple bid, the directors entered into a fixed fee arrangement for construction of the new packing house and "we are far enough along with our renovations that we are satisfied we will save money on the estimated cost," he assured the meeting.

Cold storage installation and new equipment will amount to $46,827 with the Canadian Ice and Machine Co. obtaining this contract. The fill was made by the Highway Construction Co. and the material selected has compacted well, he declared.

Co-op growers purchased 35 percent of the $140,000 bond issue floated to finance the construction program, Mr. Tait continued. A big block of the bonds was purchased in Kelowna and of the 1952-62 bonds, 60 percent was purchased by co-operative growers.

Dealing with the government subsidy for new cold storage equipment, Mr. Tait declared that the sum of $41,115 is the outside figure which can be obtained from Ottawa. The exact amount of the subsidy cannot be computed until the exact cost of installation is compiled.

In explanation of previous statements made, Mr. Tait declared that no subsidy could be obtained on the renovation of old cold storage equipment, although the first application to Ottawa had included this part of the project.

A re-application was made, and was approved by Ottawa. O. L. Jones, MP for Yale, W. R. Powell and officials of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. and the BCFGA were given credit for obtaining this cold storage subsidy from the Dominion department of agriculture.

Soft Fruit Grader
"We feel confident that the new building will be ready in time for the cherries," Mr. Tait remarked, adding that the soft fruit grader is so constructed that it can be set up in any place required.

This soft fruit grader has been built after a careful study of existing types in the Okanagan. Mr. Tait stated the management believes the new grader is the best in the valley and will operate for cherries, apricots, plums and prunes.

Mr. Tait promised the growers that a despatcher will be on the job until 9 o'clock each evening in the busy harvesting season and that fruit reported in the evening will be the first picked up in the morning.

By using the lift truck method of loading and unloading, a change in loading practice will result. There will be a difference of six inches in the height on the truck platforms, and loading platforms will have to be raised or the ground approach lowered.

Mr. Tait closed his remarks with commendation of Manager George Washington for his excellent co-operation and devotion to his duties.

R. G. Rutherford, who has been present at co-op annual meetings for the past 25 years, spoke of the strong financial position in which the co-op is now placed.

Discussion ensued regarding the 5 percent cullage allowed on both cannery and fresh fruit packing, it being felt that the raise to this tolerance has meant, in practice, that if seven percent cullage was found in cannery products, the grower was charged with the full amount, whereas he should really be charged with the difference between the five percent and seven percent.

Sharman Resolution
The Sharman-Temple resolution introduced at the start of the meeting called for a reversion to the former system of financing where-in debentures or deduction certificates were issued in lieu of a box levy.

It was explained by President Eric Tait and other directors that the co-op is financing the construction program, apart from government cold storage subsidy and the $40,000 in funds on hand, from its depreciation account.

Depreciation is part of the packing charge and no further box levy will be made to finance the construction work, it was stated.

Mr. Sharman declared, in his opening remarks, that the special extraordinary meeting had not sufficient time to digest the recommendations of the directors last fall when it was decided to proceed with the construction program and the depreciation method of financing.

He also stated that he had approached two or three directors and they had not been able to give him a clear picture of the financing arrangement.

Mr. Sharman's contention was that $75,000 of the indebtedness would be paid off in the first four years, which would mean $32,000 more than the depreciation charges.

"If you leave at the end of four years, you are handing $32,000 to your successor," he contended. In reply, President Tait declared that at no time had he been asked by Mr. Sharman for any information regarding the financing method, since the explanation was made at last fall's meeting.

"Your board of directors was considerably perturbed on the

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

During this past week a special course has been provided for patrol leaders from the South Okanagan area. This course was attended by 18 boys including six from the Summerland troop. The course is called the Bronze Arrowhead and is designed to give instruction in patrol management, patrol hikes, games, projects, badge work, etc.

The instruction periods were Thursday night and Sunday out along Shingle Creek on the Indian Reserve at Penticon.

At the Sunday session, a special service the "Scouts Own" marked the religious observance of the day. On completion of the course the Patrol leaders have to answer a set of questions to entitle them to wear their "Bronze Arrowhead". This is an excellent short course, and will probably be repeated another year. All PL's returned home expecting to make a much better job of patrol management.

Final information and costs for boys planning to attend the Dominion Jamboree are now on hand. The total cost for 16 days is $75.00 including railway fare, meals and berth, and an 8-day camp at Ottawa. The boys are expected to earn as much of the cost of the trip as possible, but any deserving boy who cannot find all the money will be helped through the Summerland Scout Group Committee who are devising ways and means of finding the money.

The boys are helping themselves by undertaking jobs of supervising traffic and parking at public functions, and also hope to make some money through their booth at the Spring Fair.

Applications to attend the Jamboree may be had from Troop Leader Graham Munn and must be filled in by the boy and his parents together with a deposit of $25 and submitted to the Scoutmaster not later than May 12.

Any boy who cannot raise the preliminary fee is asked to see the Scoutmaster who will deal with his case privately.

feeling of some of the growers," expressed at and directly after that meeting, he continued, so the directors went into the entire subject again, held several meetings and discussed the subject with the auditors and other packing house managements which had utilized this method of financing.

Soudest Method
"We still believe this method is the soudest we can devise," he assured the growers. "If the grower body at large feels we are making a mistake then we want to know about it."

The bond issue, which is nearly sold, amounted to $140,000, while bonds on hand amounted to another $40,000, plus the government subsidy, which would take care of the anticipated expenditure of just under $200,000.

"Depreciation is a charge each year and must be paid off whether certificates are issued or not," he insisted. "We fail to see how you will gain by having further deductions and adding another burden". He explained that in the first four to five years the amount to be paid back, apart from depreciation, would be taken from the cold storage subsidy payments. Some discussion also ensued over the advisability of limiting the spread of the subsidy payment over five years or extending it to fifteen years.

Discussion on the two methods ensued for some time, with President Tait drawing the argument to a close with the comment: "If the growers wish to change this method, they will have to change their board".

R. G. Rutherford informed the meeting that the directors should be commended for their method of financing the construction and pointed out that the Summerland Co-op is one of the strongest organizations, financially, in the community.

W. R. Powell, who had entered freely into the discussion, suggested that if the directors had erred it was mainly in not acquainting the growers with full details of their plans.

When the Sharman resolution was put to the meeting it was defeated overwhelmingly and the directors' position upheld.

Before the meeting concluded, J. X. Tawgood paid tribute to the hard work, earnestness, sincerity and diligence of the co-op president, Eric Tait. Mr. Sharman moved a vote of thanks to the directors, stating that he appreciated their efforts on behalf of the growers, even if he reserved the right to criticize them at times.

Young Local Pianists, Soloists Make Outstanding Contribution To Annual Music Festival

Young Summerland vocalists and pianists made their mark in determined fashion at the annual Okanagan Music Festival, which concluded its five-day session at Penticton on Saturday evening with an entry list of more than 2,000 from Kamloops south to the border and also from Chelan, Wash.

The Summerland girls' choir, led by Kay Hamilton, captured a cup and a shield, while several other first place awards came to the young Summerland contestants.

School buses arrived daily from outside points, Kelowna, Vernon, and Kamloops districts competing with those from Summerland, Penticton and southern valley schools. Everyone voted the festival, which opened on Tuesday and concluded on Saturday the "best yet."

Summerland contestants went to the festival in the school bus and Greyhound bus, and returned on one evening through private cars supplied by Mr. Harry Brown, Mr. Al McIntosh and Mr. F. W. Schumann, which were commandeered at the last moment.

The two distinguished adjudicators, Mr. J. Peebles Conn of the Royal Scottish Academy of Music and Miss Mara McBirney, advanced member of the Royal Academy of Dancing, London, Eng., won the favor of both competitors and audience alike.

Their criticisms were both enlightening and entertaining, besides encouraging the contestants. They adjudicated an entry list of some 2,000, the largest in the Okanagan for many years, if not a record.

Summerland was only represented by young people and those interested in the festival have expressed the hope that the adult classes next year will receive entries from this district.

There were many classes in this year's festival, such as vocal duets, trios, quartettes, church choirs, etc., which would have benefited from Summerland entries it is stated here.

Folk dancing and verse speaking classes also regrettably lacked any local contestants.

Piano Award

Besides Shirley Gardiner's attainment of first place in the girls' vocal solo for under 15 class, as reported last week, Mary Marshall and Doreen Stuart captured a first place award in the senior piano duet class, under 18.

Mr. Conn termed their performance "excellent teamwork". They also came a close second, by one mark, to Doreen Coulter and Bill Hendry of Penticton in the two piano class for under 16 age group.

Miss Gardiner was informed by Adjudicator Conn that she had "good tonal coloring and a truly musical interpretation of her song."

The girls' choir, much to the delight of its many local admirers who have heard this talented group on many occasions, brought the Kelley cup back to Summerland against the strong Mrs. Monica Craig Fisher choir from Penticton. The Kay Hamilton choir scored marks of 83 and 86.

This talented group also captured the Canadian Legion shield for fireside music, with a score of 85 points.

The girls were commended for their choice of songs and "their ability to hold the interest of the audience"; also for the sacred solo rendered by Shirley Gardiner, which was "tastefully sung" and a "very effective rendering" of the well-known Play Gypsy.

Shirley Schumann and Maureen Prior led the girls under 16 vocal duet class at the festival, while Rose Harrison and Shirley Gardiner were only one point behind in second place and the team of Joyce Schumann and Evelyn Washington placed fourth.

Another first was registered by Evelyn Washington and Joyce Schumann in the under 14 piano duet class.

Daughter of Local Resident Principal At Banff Ceremony

BANFF—St. George's Anglican church was the scene of a lovely spring wedding on Saturday, April 9, at 2:30 p.m., when Canon H. T. Montgomery united in marriage Kathleen Hilda, daughter of Mrs. W. E. and the late Mr. Ward of West Summerland, B.C., to Mr. James P. Burles, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Burles of Cowley, Alta.

Given in marriage by Mr. F. Hayes, the bride was charming in a steel blue gabardine suit, complemented by a navy straw hat with ribbon and feather trim, navy accessories and a corsage of deep red roses.

Miss Helen Rathbun as bridesmaid wore a grey tailored suit, black felt halo hat with feather and veil trim, contrasting accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mr. Lou Burles was best man.

Miss Joyce Larsen played the wedding music and ushers were Jack MacDonald and Bunn Burles.

Later a reception was held at the Mount Royal Hotel, where the bride's table was effectively centered with a three tier wedding cake, flanked by baskets of yellow daffodils and white cathedral tapers.

Col. Phil A. Moore proposed the toast to the bride. Intimate friends of the bride assisted in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Burles left by motor, for a trip through southern Alberta points, the bride donning a grey topcoat over her wedding suit for travelling. They will make

Forsythia Came Via England from China

With forsythia brightening gardens, small and large, throughout the whole district, and wherever one goes in this valley, it is interesting to note that the shrub comes here from China, by a rather roundabout way.

It was discovered by Mr. Robert Fortune in a garden in China in Chekiang province. He took it to the horticultural society in England, and there it was given the name of the famous horticulturist, Mr. William Forsyth. The latter served as director of the Royal Garden of Kensington from 1737 to 1804.

In New England forsythia is sometimes called "sunshine bush" or "golden ball".

Like the lilac it belongs to the olive family, and like it is anticipated as one of spring's early gifts.

Mid-May Bride is Honored at Home of Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony

Heralding a mid-May wedding of interest was the shower and tea given by Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony at her home on Wednesday afternoon, April 27, in honor of Miss Jocelyn Boyd, whose marriage to Mr. Kenneth Stuart has been announced for May 14 at St. Stephen's church.

Large bouquets of spring blossoms were used throughout the rooms, and the tea-table was centered with a low silver bowl of small pastel-shade flowers and fern.

Mrs. Alan Cross poured the tea, and assisting in serving were Mrs. R. G. Russel and Mrs. A. K. Macleod.

The hostess presented the gifts on a large brass tray which was piled high with prettily wrapped parcels.

As well as those who helped to serve invited guests included Mrs. W. R. Boyd, Mrs. Isabel Nelson, Mrs. J. Gowans, Mrs. A. D. Cogan, Mrs. R. Cuthbert, Mrs. F. V. Harrison, Mrs. E. R. Hookham, Mrs. R. Naramata Brown Owl Tells of Provincial Meet

The guest speaker at the April meeting of the local association to the Girl Guides on Thursday afternoon, April 28, in the parish hall, was Mrs. I. Drought of Naramata, the Brown Owl there.

Mrs. Drought told of her experiences at the provincial council meeting at Victoria which she attended in March and at which the Dominion Commissioner, Mrs. D. E. S. Wishart was the chief speaker.

During the year there has been an increase of nearly 1500 in the provincial guide family including Brownie, Guides, Rangers, Commissioners and Local Association members, she quoted Mrs. Wishart.

Last year a Guider and Scouter flew up to the Northwest territories to visit Guides and Scouts within the Arctic circle, and it is expected that another such trip will be made this year.

At the international meet held last summer in the eastern States, Canadian Guides impressed everyone by their ability to do things. They knew how to camp, how to take minutes efficiently and quickly, and had a better understanding of constitutions and ceremonies than any other group present.

Mrs. Wishart was presented with B.C.'s hat badge for Guiders, a Thunderbird pin. Mrs. Alan Morkill, MBE, talked on the World Association, of which she is a member, telling of an international Guide camp in Norway attended by 4,000.

Mrs. D. P. Wyness international commissioner, reported on Guide Friendship, and asked for more reports of letters and contacts made overseas through replies from parcels, etc. Pen pals are encouraged. Lone Guides may try their tests. The Commissioner for Lones is Miss Dorothy Burnett.

Mrs. E. Hack expressed a vote of thanks to the speaker. In the business part of the meeting it was reported that the Guides are a great help at the baby clinics.

Mrs. E. Hack and Mrs. Clarence Adams, executive member, gave out the cookies. It was regretted that more had not been obtained, as Guides were not able to fill all the orders that they had taken previously, and the Brownies had none at all.

As this was the first year of cookie selling here, the demand was underestimated, and it is planned to remedy this in future.

At the end of May, a luncheon and quilting bee will be held at the home of Mrs. Earle Wilson.

Destroy Potato Refuse to Prevent Late Blight Spread

A warning to destroy potato refuse is released by the provincial department of agriculture in Vancouver by I. C. MacSwan. He declares Late Blight overwinters in the slightly-affected tubers and they will be a source of infection this year if they are not destroyed.

Many growers do not realize the capacity of the disease organism to produce enormous numbers of spores and feel that a small refuse pile is of little importance as a source of blight infection, he continues.

Refuse heaps should be treated early, effectively and often. Small piles can be destroyed effectively by deep burial or burning.

After tubers in refuse grounds have sprouted, herbicides should be sprayed or sprinkled over them to kill the sprouts. These usually kill the eyes as well and prevent further sprouting.

Usually, when the refuse is in large piles, more than one application of the herbicides is necessary.

ROAD FOR ATLIN DISTRICT

As a result of a joint agreement between the province and the Dominion a road between the City of Atlin in the Atlin Riding and Alaska to connect with what is known as Jake's Corner will be undertaken by the army, it is announced by Premier Byron Johnson. The Provincial Government is contributing $200,000 towards the cost and the Federal government $250,000.

Which Way, British Columbia?

The Coalition Government, formed in 1941, combined the resources and energies of the people of British Columbia in the execution of the war effort.

Post-war problems of reconstruction and re-establishment made it advisable to continue this combination in order to speed the re-establishment of our own veterans and the many more who were taking their discharge in British Columbia, although natives of other parts of Canada.

The successful record of this Government during these trying periods, stands as ample testimony to the wisdom of the united front during these times of economic crisis.

The population of British Columbia has grown more rapidly than any other province in Canada. We have absorbed nearly a quarter of a million additional people in the last ten years and if present rate of increase continues, British Columbia will have 1,500,000 people by 1959.

The people of our province have watched this fantastic growth and many of them realize that an even bigger problem faces us if we are to successfully emerge economically sound in the years to come.

British Columbia is today at the crossroads of growth and development. We WANT more people. We must be able to give them and following generations a real chance to live and work in the best province in Canada. One false step could mean chaos for an economy that is straining at the leash, burdened as it is with an immense growth of population.

Let's face the facts squarely; we must weigh carefully what road to follow if we are to march ahead to the great heritage that is destined to be ours, and which we have hoped and worked for. Industrial and agricultural growth must be encouraged and guided meticulously to ensure that we keep pace with the rising demand for jobs for our people.

As British Columbians, we are proud of our high standard of Social Assistance. We will continue to set the pace to assure better health values for all our people.

To continue the development of British Columbia, we must guarantee that our province will be a bulwark of free enterprise for a free people.

Some people are determined that we shall take a backward step. They demand a Socialist state of so-called "planned economy". We have but to look at the "Saskatchewan experiment" to see a glaring example of Government attempts to manage expropriated business. The Socialist administration of that province already has closed down most of the original industries it seized, simply because Governments are not geared to compete with privately-owned organizations. The theory that there are huge profits to be made by Government-controlled companies has proven a complete fallacy. Socialist planners have "killed the goose that could have laid the golden egg" and even now admit their error by beckoning private capital to invest and manage provincial resources.

The Coalition Government of British Columbia believes that the tax burden for Social Services should fall proportionately on both industry and the people. Only a partnership of these two elements can insure a fully rounded-out and expanding social aid programme. Efficiently managed, free enterprise industries contribute substantially to social services through taxes, thus reducing the share that must be contributed by the people. Bureaucratic mismanagement of Government-controlled industry is a burden on the people.

This, Then, is YOUR Choice!

You can follow the fallacy of Government ownership and management by ill-trained bureaucrats or you can encourage private enterprise to invest, produce and compete successfully in the markets of the world.

The latter programme has, and will produce jobs for the men and women who are already here, and for the boys and girls of new generations as they leave our schools by the thousands each year.

Yes, we are at the crossroads of our existence. British Columbia must go ahead . . . it cannot go back. Your Government feel this responsibility deeply and believe it is above and beyond party lines for many months to come.

The future and welfare of all the people in British Columbia must come first. In a few weeks you will be asked to decide not the future of any political party or parties, but the future of British Columbia. The choice is yours.

In succeeding advertisements, we are going to tell you what your Coalition Government has done, is doing, and will do in the future to ensure the greatness of this province in years to come. You will read with pride, a saga of planning and achievement, unmatched in North America today.

The Saskatchewan Story

This is Story No. 2, in the series of five articles on The Saskatchewan Story, written by Editor Reg Jones of the Powell River News, who was sent to Saskatchewan last month to obtain his version of the present position of the CCF government and its socialization plans. Mr. Jones' article was six columns in length but had to be cut down because of lack of space. However, all his opinions have been included in this digest.

REGINA—There's no socialist pie in the Saskatchewan sky anymore. The quest for Utopia through socialization of industry upon which the CCF embarked in 1944 with banners flying, serene and confident in the faith of their venture has now led them not to the promised land of their dreams but instead into a desert of failure while their once-proud banners are being trampled into the dry dust of the Saskatchewan plains.

Their promises in 1944 to use the profits of these socialized industries for unlimited free social services, which would be "available to all, without money and without price" have faded until now there is little but brave talk about these blessings which were to be made possible through the "raising of revenue by the government engaging in revenue-producing business".

Instead, these promises have been replaced by the words of one CCF member of the legislature to whom I talked: "You gotta pay for what you get."

In fact, it appears that Premier Douglas is in rather an awkward position, to say the least.

An example of the kind of spot he's in is brought to light by the facts surrounding the lack of oil development in the province.

I'm told that before the CCF government took over the big oil companies invested about three and a half million dollars in exploratory surveys of what is considered to be a very valuable oil field in the south of the province.

Logically enough, when the socialists took up the reigns of government, these companies withdrew from this preparatory endeavor.

I am informed that the oil companies know definitely there are extensive oil resources waiting to be tapped and exactly where they are, yet they will not develop them while the CCF government is in power.

Premier Douglas and his economic planners would very much like to see these oil fields developed, but they are bound by the expropriating provision of the Crown Corporations Act.

Premier Douglas would like to assure the oil companies that they have nothing to fear from the CCF government but he dare not come out and give them an open promise that his government will not seize any of the wells once they are in production.

If he did, and thus reversed one of the strongest planks in the socialist platform, he might just as well kiss goodbye to the premiership since he would be drummed out of the CCF party.

Whether in future the Saskatchewan government, which is trying to reverse the trend of former CCF policy can convince outside capital that it has done so and private enterprise won't be molested (as Premier Douglas has indicated) remains to be seen.

I find it not in the least gratifying to have to write in this vein about the failure of the CCF's venture into socialism in Saskatchewan, for it was undertaken by a group of men who believed in it sincerely and were determined to make it work if at all possible.

I must emphasize that while I have no political axe to grind on this junket throughout Saskatchewan, I must call the shots as I see them.

The last suspect in the now famous Canadian Russian spy trials surrendered in Montreal recently. She is Freda Linton, who was charged under the Official Secrets Act, and is shown above with her attorney, Joseph Cohen, K.C. Charges have now been withdrawn against Miss Linton, thus closing the long list of famous cases.

And as I see it, the socialist experiment in this province is already a failure, and as more and more facts come to light regarding the operation of the government's dabblings into public ownership of industry the enormity of that failure will come as a surprise to many who up to now are of the opinion that socialism here was at least holding its own.

Premier Douglas has already admitted the failure of some of the crown corporations: that they are in the red. Some he referred to as problem children; others he admitted were borderline cases.

I'm no political seer, but if what I see of socialism in action is any yardstick, I'd not hesitate to venture a prediction that if the CCF party is to reach the promised land in Saskatchewan its leaders will have to perform as great if not greater miracles than did Moses as he led the children of Israel across the desert to the promised land of Canaan.

In terms of socialism in Saskatchewan a failure. I have so far been referring to the attempts of the CCF to operate industrial and commercial enterprise under public ownership.

I make no criticism here of the government's plans and achievements in the realm of social welfare, health and education.

That there have been great strides up to now on the humanitarian side of the ledger is not to be disputed.

But it must be remembered that in any socialistic state, the welfare of the people is contingent finally upon the degree to which the government of that state is successful in socializing its industrial and commercial assets, for it is from the profits of these government-owned undertakings that much of the welfare of the people must emanate.

In Saskatchewan, as in Britain today, there are actually two states, within the structure: it is important the distinction should be recognized.

One is the state of government ownership, and the other the welfare state. The welfare state, of course, commands much wider allegiance than the state of government ownership.

Few people in Saskatchewan or elsewhere are interested in government ownership merely for the sake of government ownership.

A great many, however, are vitally interested in pre-paid medical services, educational opportunities for their children and security for their old age.

But if the former falls, as it is doing in Saskatchewan, to what extent will be the final realization of the latter?

The CCF government is a reform government, as are most governments today, but it's reforms in the final analysis must be paid for from the returns of government ownership. If the government cannot pay for them that way, the people will have to do so under heavier taxation.

So let us forsake discussion of the latter for the time being and take a closer look at the Saskatchewan government in business for itself.

There were, until recently, five main types of business enterprise operated by the government:

(1) Those producing consumer goods from primary products—the woollen mill, the shoe factory.

(2) Those producing goods for industrial use—the sodium sulphate development, the brick plant, tannery and box factory.

(3) Those processing and marketing primary products—the timber board, the fish board and fur marketing service.

(4) Public Utilities—the power commission, the telephone system, bus transportation system and the government airways.

(5) Those providing services—housing, reconstruction, corporation, government seed cleaning plant and the book bureau.

In addition to these there are the government insurance office, and the government printing bureau.

The Woollen Mill

The original crown corporation operating the woollen mill at Moose Jaw was established in 1945, and it is the only one in the province.

I visited this plant and watched its machines turning out satin-bound and plain-edge blankets of various hues, blanket cloth, car robes and shirt cloth.

This mill also handles customers' old woollen goods and fleeces to make goods on a custom basis, charging from $2.25 to $2.60 for these re-processed goods.

About 85 persons are employed including both men and women and they handle about 22,000 pounds of raw wool a month.

The mill serves the wholesale and retail markets at the prevailing prices. Its machinery was unused for about 15 years before it was set up at Moose Jaw.

A total of $580,000 of the people's money has been invested in the factory and its losses up to the end of last year stand at $147,695.

The Shoe Factory

The shoe factory, operated in Regina by leather products division, commenced production in August 1945 when men's and boys' work boots began coming off the lines.

Later felt shoes were added and other leather products were expected to be manufactured later.

It was the only shoe factory in the province. A total of $180,000 public funds was invested in the venture.

It's recorded operation losses up to year's end were $63,342.

The factory is now closed, on the grounds that it had supplied all the demand necessary.

The Tannery

The government tannery which commenced production in 1946 was established for the purpose of making use of the abundance of hides in the province in order to supply the government shoe factory nearby with upper leather, and garment and glove leather for sale to outside consumers.

It uses hides bought through Saskatchewan packing houses, city butchers and from farmers including all the horse hides from the Horse Co-operative Marketing Association in Swift Current which, by the way, was also a government-assisted venture which presently is closed and its 300 workers idle, mainly because they're running short of horses to slaughter.

The government invested $175,000 in the tannery. It, too, is closed after piling up operating losses of $63,342.

The Box Factory

Expropriated in November, 1945, as result of a labor dispute, the Saskatchewan box factory at Prince Albert is now operated by the government.

Acquisition by the government came after a test was made of its new trade union act, one of the labor measures passed by the government in its first year in office.

The dispute arose following the employer's alleged failure to abide by union shop and check-off regulations.

The employer, it was claimed, transferred the assets of the company and fired all the workers in order to circumvent orders of the labor relations board.

The government expropriated plant, rehired the employees, signed a collective bargaining agreement with them, and operated the plant as a crown corporation.

The government reorganized the factory in an effort to gain more efficient production, and put in three successive wage boosts to bring the average hourly rate of pay to 70 cents.

The box factory still is in operation but its losses under government operation total $10,789.

The Fish Board is an amalgamation of the earlier Saskatchewan fish products and the Saskatchewan fish marketing board, two agencies established by the provincial government following an appeal for such action on the part of certain northern fishermen and a survey by the department of national resources to learn what the majority of fishermen desired.

The Fish Board receives fish from the fishermen, processes it where necessary and markets it.

Most fish is exported and the new policy was designed to preserve markets for Saskatchewan fish through strict grading and inspection, and proper filleting to make the industry a sound, long-term proposition for the fishermen.

Fish filleting plants were completed at Lac La Ronge and Beaver Lake.

These plants are not operating now. The government invested $800,000 of the people's money in the fish board's operation and has compiled an operating loss of $198,370.

The Brick Plant Purchased by the government in 1944, the brick plant was operated by the Clay Products Division at Estevan.

It did not operate this winter although large additional monies were spent so that it might produce during the winter months. But the effort to make bricks in winter, according to Premier Douglas "had" proven both unsuccessful and costly.

The Clay Products Division also conducted the business of mining and marketing the clay resources of the province. Its loss is listed at $28,280.

Let us now examine the monopolistic enterprises of the government.

Fur Marketing Service The government's fur marketing service also was established in 1944, and is the only government-operated fur agency in North America.

The service does not buy furs, but receives them from ranchers and trappers for sale at auctions held in Regina.

The furs are graded and the agency takes a sales commission. While it was designed as a service to trappers and ranchers primarily rather than a profit-making enterprise, it is in the class of the big-money makers showing profits at the end of last year of $119,555.

Nearly all royalties have been increased to $3 from $1, and on muskrat to $1 from 25 cents. Muskrat and beaver pelts must be marketed through the government fur marketing service.

Since there is no actual buying and selling of money invested, the government cannot lose on the deal.

Timber Board The timber board set up in 1945, handles all timber products cut from crown lands, with exception of fuel wood, as well as other timber for operators on private lands.

Under its powers, all timber for re-sale of crown lands remains the property of the government and is turned over to the board at railhead where it is stored in stockpiles for seasoning and subsequent distribution.

All lumber cut must be sold at the board's prices. There is no alternative. It buys at anywhere from $30 to $33 per thousand, planes it and sells to the worker at from $60 to $70 a thousand.

Profits of the timber board stand at $676,360.

Transportation Company In 1946 a crown corporation was established to take over operation of the province's bus transportation system.

The transportation company owns 55 buses and their 30 routes cover 4,347 schedule miles, and employs about 230 persons. Greyhound operates only on the two main inter-provincial lines.

While a profit of $61,955 is shown up to the end of last year, the bus system now has entered the ranks of the losers showing a loss of $14,254 for the past year.

The transportation service showed a profit because of the freight lines and the depot lunch rooms.

In the last 12 months net profit of $488 was shown for the whole system, but it is pointed out that the freight service made a profit of $7,000 and the depot lunch rooms a profit of $8,000 which means that the government lost a total of $14,254 on the operation of its buses.

Government Airways This crown company formed in 1947 with headquarters and flying base in Prince Albert, operates the government's northern air services.

It was expected by the government to be a paying concern, since it bought most of the equipment from War Assets at extremely low prices.

However while its profits since its inception are listed at $12,184 the profit for the past 12 months of operation had dwindled to $14,84.

Sodium Sulphate Plant The government established at Chaplin a sodium sulphate plant which was designed to have an ultimate capacity of more than 100,000 tons. It is an essential ingredient for the kraft paper industry and is also used in glass and soap manufacture.

It shows a total profit of $57,724 up to the end of last year.

Government Insurance Office The government insurance office was established in 1945 with authority to handle a wide range of insurance.

It is a profit maker to the tune of $249,611 much of which is guaranteed through compulsion.

Hospitals and schools must take government insurance, and a 1946 amendment provides that individuals who are taking out bonds or licences must secure them from the government office.

(This corporation is not to be confused with the automobile insurance plan which is apart).

Reconstruction Corporation This provincial agency was established to handle purchases from Dominion War Assets Corporation and has bought a large quantity of equipment for government departments including jeeps, automobiles, tractors, airport buildings, kitchen and dormitory supplies, hospital and fire-fighting equipment.

Machine shops and repair depots in Regina and Prince Albert were set up from reconverted armed services buildings and service automotive equipment used by the government departments.

Its over-all profits are listed at $246,278.

Printing Plant The government printing company was bought from a private owner in 1945 and is used mainly to turn out the government's printing requirements.

Its total profits are $129,999, but it cannot be classed as a competitive enterprise since it charges the government on a cost-plus system and does all government printing, as is done in B.C.

Monopolies Succeed This, then is the picture of the government's publicly owned businesses and industries.

It has succeeded only where it has had monopoly, and even in these spheres of operation services which have been reprofiting before are now entering the ranks of the losers, as evidenced by the buses and the airways.

The government of course has used some very big figures in claiming profits for its crown corporations.

Before the election last year Premier Douglas issued a news release claiming that these crown corporations showed a net profit of more than $5,000,000.

The report covered the first three years of operations by the CCF of its socialistic industries and the total profit claimed for them at the time was about $25,000.

Again this session, Provincial Treasurer Fines claimed net earnings of $3,152,000 for the crown operations, again including the profits of telephones and electric power.

But if these are subtracted there remains only $386,000 profit claimed for the CCF industrial ventures.

Anti-socialists of course maintain that even the small profits of the CCF corporations are illusory since they pay no interest; administration costs of some $200,000 for industrial planners and office staffs have not been paid by these industries; repayment of sinking fund obligations has not come from these industries; very substantial amounts of operating costs of these industries have been concealed in expenditures of government departments, and so on.

But be all this as it may, those enterprises which were held up by the CCF as measures to "rebuild an economy of peace designed to give continuing high levels of production and income, full employment and attendant social security" have not lived to fulfill the rosy dreams of their planners.

These CCF industries, it must be remembered, have been operating nearly four years in a period of high prosperity and been given every chance to show their ability to succeed.

They were launched at a time when private business concerns in Saskatchewan were phenomenally successful. Provincial Treasurer Fines admits to this.

"A measure of the stability of existing enterprise is indicated by the statistics on commercial failures of which there have been practically none since 1944."

What Mr. Fines is in effect saying is that all industrial and commercial enterprises operating since the CCF came into power are successful and prosperous except those launched by the CCF government.

All of which is hardly a convincing commentary to an observer of socialism in action.

No Standing Room Left In Ellison Hall for AOTS Annual Request Concert

The biggest crowd seen here for years packed Ellison hall's chairs and standing room for the AOTS Request Concert on Friday, April 25.

The men's club had obtained any talent that was requested, without regard for distance; so little Judy Littlejohn came all the way from Naramata for her dainty dance, and Rev. Roy Stobie was up from Penticton to wow his younger listeners and amuse all with his Yorkshire dialect version of 'King John and Magna Carta'.

Variety and excellence were the keynotes of the program. Vocal solos were given by Myna Millie, Flora Bergstrom, Mary Whitmore and Nellie Stent. There was a trio, too, by the Mesdames Wilkin, Bergstrom, and Milne, and Kay Hamilton's choir gave a delightful informal number.

Instrumental numbers included saxophone solo by Herb Pohlmann, Cornet by Johnnie Betuzzi, violin solo by Larua Mott, and Piano by David Woodbridge. A piano duet was rendered by Jane Woolliams and Elsie Hack. A second dance number in quaint costume were presented by Glenn Heavysides and Mary Brlekovich, with Shirley Clark as accompanist.

CALL FOR PGE TENDERS

Tenders for the construction of the first fourteen miles of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway extension from Quesnel to Prince George are expected to be called on or about May 15, states Premier Byron Johnson.

The readings showed a wide variety, with May Mayne giving impressions of a hair-dresser's gossip, and Harry Dempster's character sketches poking fun at several nationalities. Bert Stent presented an amusing monologue.

One of the most novel numbers was a display of acrobatics by Wendell Schwab, the school physical education instructor and one of his pupils, Yvonne Polesello. The audience gasped more than once at apparently-risky feats of strength and balance, smoothly performed.

Mr. Schwab's pupils also put on a demonstration of square dancing that had many an old-timer's feet tapping.

The AOTS men's choir opened the program with two lively numbers and later on an AOTS men's quartette rendered 'Cool Waters' so vividly that the municipal office is said to have had thirty-seven inquiries about irrigation, before nine o'clock the next morning.

Rev. H. F. Whitmore proved a brisk and genial chairman; Mrs. Whitmore and Miss Ruth Dale were accompanists. During the intermission the girls of the Service Club found a ready sale for home-made candy, and both before the concert and during the intermission the music of the Summerland Band was much enjoyed and proved a big feature of the evening.

It was estimated that nearly five hundred persons attended this second annual concert.

CLUBBED SEAMAN QUESTIONED — Detective Captain William Fitzpatrick of the Montreal police, questions Robert Klapper, of Edmonton, after his release from hospital. Klapper was brutally beat and clubbed by a gang of hoodlums after he had bolted the Canadian Seamen's Union to join the Seafarers' International Union. The incident climaxed the current strike in Canadian shipping ports.

Blossom is Indicative of Heavy Crop

Although many factors can develop to alter the present picture, the blossom on fruit trees throughout the Summerland, Peachland, Westbank area indicates a bumper soft fruit crop with an average apple crop.

This is the general statement elicited from A. W. Watt, provincial horticulturist, following his survey of the district.

Cherry trees are loaded with blossom this year and if the season is favorable a terrific cherry crop is in prospect.

Moorpark bloom is extremely heavy but the Blenheim and canary apricots are off this season, they having been heavy in 1948.

Peaches show an excellent blossom and pears also indicate a big crop.

In apples, Delicious is the only variety which is showing more than an average crop. The rest of the apple varieties appear to be blossoming in fair quantity but it does not appear that there will be a bumper crop of other apple varieties.

Many Topics Included in Film Council Selections for May and June

New films are on hand for May and June, the Summerland Film Council advises. Along with the regular run of films there is also a series for May only which includes six pictures entitled: Pinehurst, Birds of Canada No. 16, Death Valley Natural Ornaments, Great Northern, Tackle Buster, Calico Dragon.

The listing of the next two months' films follows:

A Better Tomorrow, 20 minutes—Shows progressive education programs in three New York schools and how learning is part of the child's everyday life.

Eyewitness, 10 minutes — (1) Thirty million quarts of milk from Canada to the starving children of Europe.

(2) Sub arctic post of Churchill on the Hudson's Bay becomes second largest wheat exporting point in Canada.

(3) Commercial fishermen net largest tuna fish catch in its history.

Learn to Swim, 20 minutes—The progressive method of learning to swim is demonstrated by CCC boys and Olympic champions. The three steps of getting confidence, learning the fundamentals, and practicing are shown.

Niagara Frontier, color, 17 minutes—A traditional tourists' paradise, the Niagara Peninsula also occupies a strategic position of importance. Here is an orchard land of the first order, with peaches and apples growing in abundance. The Great Lakes of the peninsula are ideal fishing grounds, and its giant transformer stations are arsenals of hydro-electric power. At the crossroads of inter-continental shipping lanes, the Niagara Peninsula has become a port of call for ocean going steamers, while train traffic from places in the western hemisphere converges to cross over the six international bridges.

Peoples of Canada, 21 minutes—At a time when half the world is plunged into racial hatred this film carries a stirring message of tolerance. Since the foundation of the first French settlement men of many races have crossed from the old World to the New, all of them with different cultural, social and political backgrounds. This film shows how all these different types of people have cooperated with each other and helped to build Canada.

Toronto Symphony, 10 minutes—A short musical film starring the Toronto Symphony Orchestra with Sir Ernest MacMillan conducting "Jamaican Rumba," "At St. Malo" and the overture to "Coulas Breugnon" by Dmitri Kabolevsky.

Your Children and You, 30 minutes—This film deals with the care and training of infants and preschool children. The average progress that can be expected of children at five months, one year, and eighteen months is shown, and the right and wrong methods of training infants at these stages are shown and explained.

What Makes Us Grow, 9 minutes

NEW MINIMUM CHARGE
A minimum charge of $3 has been decided upon by the council for those who wish a temporary connection to operate cement mixers during the early stages of building construction. The former minimum was $1.80. This was agreed to by the council on Tuesday of last week.

EATON'S

—Dealing in general with the problem of child nutrition, this film shows how important well-balanced meals are to a child's health and growth.

Water, Friend or Enemy, 10 minutes—A Walt Disney cartoon, produced for the office of inter-American affairs, on unsafe water supplies. Depicts the dangers and sources of contamination and illustrates methods of safe-guarding spring and well water.

Man One Family, 20 minutes—This film presents a scientific refutation of the master race theory. Today it can be said that there are no separate races in Europe—there are only different cultures. The film cites the USSR as an example of the way in which people of many different origins can live together harmoniously. It is impossible to say that one group is better than another. No man is superior because he belongs to a particular group. Man is noble for what he does. This is the only just standard by which people can be measured.

Former B.C. Police Constable Here Handcuffed by Thugs

Constable Harry Cartmell, who was stationed in Summerland as B.C. police constable prior to arrival of Constable I. G. Thorsteinson, is feeling sorry for himself.

On Tuesday night, April 26, Constable Cartmell boarded SS Princess Kathleen from Victoria to Vancouver to handcuff four men who were returning to B.C. penitentiary after an unsuccessful attempt for freedom via the Court of Appeal.

The men overpowered the constable, and instead handcuffed him to the cell bench and escaped with his service revolver, a .38 calibre Smith & Wesson.

Three of the four men made their escape, they being John Stinson, Leonard Sparks and Kenneth O'Keefe. They were serving two to three year terms in the penitentiary.

The fourth man sat in a corner of the cell and made no effort to take part in the struggle with the policeman or to escape.

Stinson was doubled over complaining of a pain in his stomach when Cartmell entered the cell. Sparks and O'Keefe tackled him from the rear and a towel was twisted in tourniquet fashion around the constable's neck.

Then they grabbed his revolver, reported to be unloaded, and handcuffed him to the cell bench. Awaiting the docking of the ship, they walked down the gangplank with other passengers and made good their escape.

It was reported in coast papers that Constable Cartmell has escorted hundreds of prisoners on previous occasions and it was the first time in 19 years' service that any prisoner had escaped him.

Generally, there are at least two policemen present when entering a cell known to house desperate criminals.

Notes From Parliament Hill

(By O. L. Jones, M.P. for Yale)

As this will be my final report from Ottawa, I would like to thank all the newspapers that have cooperated in my efforts to keep the public informed.

From the letters received, and the various comments made to me during the Easter recess, these letters have been welcomed by many people of all shades of political opinion. I have tried to keep them non-political, but as I mentioned before, everything in and around Ottawa is political; there is nothing else to write about. For instance, this morning's highlight, was the threatened expulsion of Mr. George Drew.

Mr. Drew had accused Mr. Brooke Claxton, the minister of national defence, of having misled the house by giving wrong information. The prime minister challenged the statement, followed by the speaker, who demanded Mr. Drew to withdraw his remark. When Mr. Drew found that evasion would not get him by, and after the speaker said that unless he did, he had no alternative but to suspend Mr. Drew. Following this direct warning, Mr. Drew withdrew the offending remarks.

We have a great deal of work yet to be done, before the house officially closes.

The budget debate alone could take up the balance of the week, so could the subject of interim supplies, then again the Atlantic Pact has to be finally passed, plus several other important bills. Many of them will be left in abeyance, until the new house meets after the election. This would have been the fate of the Old Age Pension Bill, granting the extra $10, if the private members had not insisted on the bill being given priority on Wednesday.

Another bill that is before us is one to authorize the building of a pipe line from Alberta to the Coast. This part of the bill has just been passed, but there is still a great deal of controversy regarding the six co-relating bills, which are applications for the franchise to erect the pipe lines. Several companies are involved. We in the OCF would prefer the government itself to handle the transportation

Multitude of Projects Outlined at Monthly Meeting of Busy AOTS Club

The sealing and cod-fishing industries of Newfoundland, and the great practical shrewdness of the people were vividly described by Rev. H. R. Whitmore in a talk on Canada's tenth province at the April 28 meeting of the Summerland AOTS, held in the basement hall of Lakeside United church.

Biggest news of the business part of the meeting was the great success of the recent AOTS request concert, which had filled Ellison Hall and brought in over $230 gross receipts, according to reports by committee heads Wallace Boothe and Bill Jenkinson.

A hearty vote of thanks to the concert committee for doing such excellent work was moved by Jack Wilcox. The committee in turn expressed, through Mr. Boothe, their thanks to all who had contributed to the program, and the secretary was instructed to write notes of thanks to all contributors who were not AOTS members.

Twenty-five dollars of the receipts was promptly voted to the Summerland Band, which had assisted so willingly at the concert and promised to be present at the Hobby Fair in June also.

President Les Gould appointed his heads of committees, and many

SAYS COST PROHIBITIVE

Dr. L. A. Day complained to the council by letter last week that the cost of electric line extension for range purposes at his new home in Trout Creek area is "prohibitive and out of line," as that area already needs an enlarged transformer service. Councillor Atkinson promised to confer with Electrical Foreman T. P. Thornber on this subject.

of view as well. My natural hope is that the experience that I have gained will be of service to you after the election. The answer to that one rests with you.

were surprised at the number of projects the club has in hand. Appointments were: Joe Sheeley for Projects, Bert Stent for Hobby Fair, Gordon Beggs for Cubs, Ernie Bennett for Cemetery Grounds, Bob Butler for Parks, Alan Calvert for Membership, Walter Bleasdale for Finance, Francis Steuart for Boys' Parliament, Don Tait for Film Council, Blair Underwood for Visiting Sick, Harvey Wright for Cancer Campaign, Ken Boothe for Transportation.

For Church Grounds, Walter Charles was appointed for Lakeside Alf McLachlan and Fred King for St. Andrew's, and upon Alf McLachlan's request for help soon with the flower bed and lawn, Talmage McDonald promptly volunteered, and several others agreed to help.

Joe Sheeley reported that a strong junior baseball team was already established; in fact, several boys had said they were more interested in the junior than the senior team, after the fine showing the juniors had made in 1948. Pete Adams had arranged a girls' team also, and the meeting voted to supply transportation for them as well as for the boys.

Bert Stent and Herb Pohlmann for the Hobby Fair appealed for adult displays, large or small, and received several promises of contributions.

An AOTS Hobby booth will be held at the Spring Fair this year, and a hearty vote of thanks was moved to The Summerland Review for sponsoring this booth.

President Les Gould suggested that the Summerland AOTS Club start a 'travelling gavel' to encourage inter-club visiting, and the members voted strongly in favor of this plan.

The May meeting will also be held at Lakeside because of alterations to St. Andrew's hall.

Awards Presented by Bowling Leagues At Windup Cabaret in Ellison Hall

Although the playing season concluded some weeks ago, the two main five-pin bowling leagues actually rang down the curtain on the 1948-49 season at Ellison hall on Tuesday evening when they staged a combined cabaret and presentation of prizes party which was enjoyed by a crowd of nearly 200 players.

J. E. O'Mahony, board of trade president, officiated in the presentation of a long list of prizes to winners in both the open and merchants' bowling leagues. He was introduced by Don Clark, president of the open league.

Championship team in the merchants' league was the Bank of Montreal, Mrs. Muriel Walker, captain, receiving the handsome trophy which is up for annual competition. Others in the winning team who received individual bowling pins, engraved, were Fred Walker, Nan Thornthwaite, Eddie Lloyd, Gwen Lamcraft, Dave Snow and Audrey Grant.

Fred Walker was captain of the Occidental team in the open league and he accepted the annual trophy on behalf of his teammates, who captured the championship in that loop. With Mr. Walker were Miwa Tada, Alma Huva, Paul Berg and Chuck Brawner, and they also received miniature bowling pins as prizes.

Cups were presented to the winners of individual prizes in the merchants' league and trophies went to the open league individual winners. These were as follows: Merchants' league—High average, Mrs. June Lamey and Jim Heavysides; high three games, Miss Rhoda Ritchie and Ian Loomer; high single games, Miss Nan Thornthwaite and Art Sladen.

Open league—High average, Miss Laura Heinrich and Chuck Brawner; high three games, Miss high single games, Miss Mary Laura Heinrich and Fumi Inaba; Shriner and Fumi Inaba.

Leander's Esquires played for dancing which continued until early morning following the awards.

President of Rifle Club is Top Marksmen

Due to poor weather conditions and limited visibility the opening shoot of the Summerland Rifle club last Sunday was limited to the 200 and 500 yard ranges. The new cement butts were in operation for the first time and members agreed that they are an excellent addition to the club's property in Garnet Valley.

Phil Dunsdon, 1949 president, upheld the honor of his position by annexing top score with 65 markers for the two ranges.

In fact, it was Dunsdon Day, as George Dunsdon was second with 64 and Ted and A. R. Dunsdon followed, each with 61 scores. Other scores were as follows:

A. Moyle 60, Ed Gould, L. Shannon, D. Taylor and F. G. Anderson 59, D. Weitzel and H. "Pop" Dunsdon 58, H. Simpson and Les Gould 57, D. Price 56, Fred Dunsdon 52.

Fog Shrouds Fish Story but Fish is True

George Inglis proudly displayed a ten-pound Kamloops trout on Monday which he landed "somewhere on Okanagan Lake."

It was during Monday morning's short but intense fog bank which shrouded Okanagan lake that Mr. Inglis landed his prize trout.

Asked the location, Mr. Inglis shook his head. He didn't know where he was. But when the fish struck his line, it pulled the boat right back to Summerland and Mr. Ing was able to get home quickly.

At least, that's the inference. The Review is inclined to believe that Mr. Inglis is a true fisherman.

In the past ten days, Mr. Inglis has landed, besides his ten-pounder, Kamloops trout weighing 7½, 6, 5, 4 and 3 pounds, besides some smaller fish, from Okanagan lake. Eddie Lloyd, fishing with Mr. Inglis also captured a nine-pound beauty.

Red Sox Win and Merchants Lose as Ball Clubs Try Out In Games With Rutland Teams

Rutland Japanese and Summerland teams divided honors at the Living Memorial athletic park last Sunday in the first exhibition games of the 1949 season, serving as a warmup to the opening bang of the baseball league startoff this coming Sunday when Rutland Adanacs come here for the initial contest and Red Sox open in Penicton.

Summerland Red Sox, junior champs, used fifteen players and had a good workout as they handed Rutland Japanese a 7-4 defeat. In the second fixture, Summerland Merchants bowed 4-2 to the visiting Japanese Cubs, who are contenders in the northern half of the Interior league this year.

Two hurlers who will be valuable acquisitions to the senior squad in a short time, Jack Dunham and Ernie Jomori, had the situation well in hand for the local juniors as their teammates helped them to a fairly easy victory.

Manager Joe Sheeley used nearly every available man he could find in uniform, with the result that the Red Sox, both experienced and inexperienced, had a chance to strut their stuff. It was quite evident that there is plenty of promising material coming up through the junior ranks.

Take Early Lead

The Red Sox took a 2-0 lead in the first frame but the visitors tied it up in the second with Yamamoto's double which cleared the bags ahead of him. Summerland's big inning was the fourth, when ten players saw service for four runs.

Single runs were added in the fifth by both teams and Kinoshita went the complete circuit when a fly to centre field was muffed, to end the counting.

In the senior contest Al Coffey, who hasn't pitched a game in two years, showed evidence that he will be a valuable acquisition, given some strenuous training.

It was a cold, drizzly day and the handful of fans in the stands shivered mightily. Coffey had a slightly sore arm and never attempted to throw a fast ball, with the result that he was hit often and hard.

However, the infield played a sparkling game, Walsh and Brawner picking off a number of difficult chances, the former showing to better advantage than he did most of last season.

Thompson proved the fall-guy of the game, missing a catch in the right garden which cost a run and then whiffing the ozone in the final inning with the tying runs on the paths.

Rutland Cubs centre fielder Kitaura led off the offensive with a mighty blow which bounced past the scoreboard in centrefield to give the visitors a 1-0 lead in the first frame. Kajiwara singled in the second, stole another path and romped home on J. Yamamoto's clout.

Brawner, rookie from the Red Sox this year, clouted the first single for the Merchants in the second and Coffey showed his strength when he lifted one into deep right for three bags.

Home and Triple. Winning runs were scored by the Cubs in the fourth when, with two away, Koga's grounder took a bad hop and got away from Walsh. Kitaura followed his homer with a triple and was scored by Yamamoto.

Highlight of the game came in the sixth when diminutive Frank Kuroda drew a pass to first. Imayoshi laid down a perfect bunt and Kuroda started like a streak. He rounded second and dug for third on the play for first and never hesitated as he streaked for home when the peg to third went wild. It was the fastest exhibition of base-running ever witnessed in the local park.

The Merchants had a chance to knot the count in the seventh when Brawner walked and Coffey clouted out a neat double. Thompson went down swinging and the game was over.

As so many players were used in the junior contest, an accurate box score is not available. Seniors' box score follows:

The meeting decided that the South Okanagan campaign committee should dovetail with the federal campaign committee already appointed.

F. R. Ganzveld of Summerland and C. R. Haker of Peachland will represent their clubs on this committee.

Gordon D. Herbert, Kelowna, was named assistant campaign manager.

In the evening, the local CCF club was host to the visitors at a large banquet, held in the IOOF hall.

Society Sees Colored Shots Of Rose Show

The beautiful colored movies of the Pasadena Rose Show taken by Mr. Blake Milne were shown to members of the horticultural society Tuesday evening, April 26.

Another film of a peach and cherry cycle, starting with pruning, and going through an orchard season of thinning, picking, and finally processing, on the Milne lot, was of great interest.

Mr. Milne makes a hobby of taking these fine pictures, which could not have been shown to a more interested group of people, who found them educational, and their subject matter something in the nature of a goal and an achievement.

There were over a hundred in attendance. This year the society has more than fifty members, and the list is increasing steadily.

The president, Mrs. M. E. Collas was in the chair, and the business meeting took place after the hour of movies. The society had a lawn mower which had been used at the library garden, a former project of the horticulturalists.

Mr. Nat May brought cuttings of White Favorite 'mums, and members were each given two, with full directions on how to propagate them.

Mrs. James Marshall conducted the question box, which was at the door, and into which anyone may put queries regarding their own gardening problems.

This year there are two memorial cups to be awarded.

One is given by Mr. and Mrs. E. Sammet of Naramata to be awarded annually in memory of their son who was killed overseas.

The second cup is the Mrs. Magnus Tait memorial cup given by her husband, Mr. Magnus Tait. It will be an annual award at the summer flower show.

Refreshments were served with Mrs. Earle Wilson general convenor.

OKANAGAN

eral voting date, despite the fact that three provincial elections in B.C., Manitoba and Nova Scotia are being held prior to that date in June.

Yale federal riding extends from Grand Forks - Greenwood on the east to Princeton and Tulameen on the west and takes in the entire Okanagan from Osoyoos on the South to Grinrod on the north.

In provincial circles, South Okanagan riding extends from Summerland and Naramata on the south to Winfield-Okanagan Centre on the north.

Last Saturday, the CCF named Tom Wilkinson, chairman of the Interior Vegetable Marketing board, as standard bearer for South Okanagan.

The Coalition interests will decide next Wednesday, May 11, on their candidates, at this time the choice being between W. A. C. Bennett, former M.L.A., of Kelowna and W. G. Gillard, CNR agent in Summerland.

Member of the legislature for South Okanagan up to the time Premier Byron Johnson called for dissolution and named June 15 as the election date, was R. D. Browne-Clayton, young veteran fruit grower of Okanagan Mission, who defeated Bruce Woodsworth, CCF from Westbank in last fall's by-election.

Mr. Browne-Clayton has declined to allow his name to go forward again as a Coalition candidate.

In the provincial Similkameen riding, the Coalition standard-bearer will be named at a convention in Keremeos tonight, while the CCF will nominate its candidate at a nominating convention in Penticton Sunday afternoon.

Member Retires

Dr. Reg Laird, M.L.A. for Similkameen, has retired from the political field, and it is anticipated that the Similkameen Coalition candidate will be either Maurice Finnerty, Penticton Canadian Legion president, Chas. H. Tupper, a former Liberal member for that provincial riding or Councillor J. W. Johnston, Penticton.

It is expected that Bernard Weber, another former Similkameen member will be the CCF nominee next Sunday.

In the North Okanagan, C. W. Morrow, M.L.A. has announced his intention of endeavoring to capture the seat again for the Coalition interests. The CCF in that riding named W. A. Monk, of Grinrod to contest North Okanagan.

There has been some confusion regarding voters' lists, the federal and provincial elections coming so close together. The provincial list closed on Monday, May 2. The federal list has not yet started but it is expected that the enumerators will soon be appointed to canvass the entire district and obtain names of all those persons who are entitled to vote.

In South Okanagan, registrars were not appointed in each polling division, as it was considered the list had been made fairly complete at the time of last November's by-election.

However, in Summerland The Review offered the services of its office to receive registrations of new voters and those who wished to change the polling division in which they were entered.

As a consequence, nearly 150 new names or changes were sent to the registrar of voters, Mr. E. Ross Oatman, in Kelowna.

Nearly Through With Work on Trout Creek
Principal work in preparing Trout Creek for the spring flood waters has been completed and it is anticipated that all machinery will be removed from the channel within a few days.
Residents of the Trout Creek area have expressed their satisfaction with the job undertaken by the provincial government public works department, under the supervision of William Ramsay, retired district engineer.
The channel has been straightened between the highway bridge and the bridge on the experimental station back road, and the main channel bottom has been widened to fifty feet. In most cases, clearing of the banks extends back until there is a width of 200 feet from one side of the creek to another.
Below the highway bridge to the lake the dikes have been strengthened and the channel deepened so that there is little likelihood that neighboring property will be threatened this year.
Although Trout Creek residents have subscribed $1,100 towards the expense of this work, the municipality has not been approached to give a definite amount. Reeve R. A. Johnston was asked by the council to negotiate with the public works department as to the municipality's share in this work but no advice was given by His Worship before he left for the east last week.
It is expected that the entire job of creek straightening and deepening will run to $25,000, spread over two years.

Huge Crowd at Dedication
C. W. Morrow, M.L.A. for North Okanagan and Governor Arthur B. Langille, of Washington State, on behalf of their respective nations, received the Kiwanis Boundary Peace Marker at the international boundary near Osoyoos last Sunday in an impressive ceremony which was witnessed by a huge crowd of nearly 5,000 persons.
Visitors from all parts of the Pacific Northwest gathered for the dedication ceremony which was arranged by Kinsmen clubs of Division 5, headed by Lieut-Governor John T. Young of Penticton.

W. A. C. Bennett to Contest South Okanagan In Interests of Coalition

Following a rousing, inspiring, fighting speech, W. A. C. Bennett, well-known Kelowna hardware merchant and a former member, was chosen by a combined gathering of Progressive Conservatives and Liberals to contest South Okanagan provincial riding for the Coalition government at a meeting attended by nearly 200 representatives of all parts of the riding in Kelowna last night.

Mr. Bennett defeated the only other contestant for the office, W. G. Gillard, CNR station agent in Summerland in a meeting which was marked with enthusiasm and indicated that the two "free enterprise" parties were ready to co-operate in the interests of the Coalition. Accredited delegates and those holding proxies numbered 244, those present being 86 Pro-Cons, 89 Liberals; proxies 40 Pro Cons, 29 Liberals; total, 126 Pro-Cons, 118 Liberals.

On the announcement of the balloting, Mr. Gillard declared that he wished to make Mr. Bennett's nomination unanimous.

"From the size of the crowd, there are more people taking an interest in politics than we thought," declared South Okanagan P-C President Bill Gillard, who acted as chairman, assisted by C. R. Bull, Kelowna, vice-president of the South Okanagan Liberals. The small Women's Institute hall was so crowded that even standing room was at a premium.

Spring Fair Queen Named This Weekend

This evening at the Summerland Board of Trade monthly dinner session, members will hear the final report of plans for the 1949 Spring Fair.

On Saturday, the ticket sales will be counted and on the strength of the voting, the 1949 Spring Fair Queen will be declared. The two other candidates will be her princesses during the two-day affair which is scheduled for May 23 and 24 at the Occidental Fruit Co. Ltd. building.

Plans for the program are fairly well finalized now, J. R. Armstrong, Spring Fair chairman, announces. Approximately 50 exhibits will be displayed by merchants, dealers and organizations.

On the first afternoon, Mac's Ladies' Wear and Linnea Style Shop are combining to present an attractive fashion show to the ladies of the district and as many of the male sex as wish to attend.

That evening at 7:30 o'clock the official opening ceremonies and crowning of the Fair Queen are certain to draw a bumper attendance. O. L. Jones, MP for Yale has been asked to officiate at the opening of the fair.

Variety Concert
Carl Dunaway is bringing a large group of artists from Kelowna district to the Spring Fair Monday evening to present a first-rate variety show which is expected to run for nearly two hours. Thirteen numbers have been outlined by Mr. Dunaway, who is bringing a six-piece band for the occasion. This band will play for a jitney dance immediately following the concert.

On Tuesday afternoon, a selection of excellent films is to be presented, while the baseball club is staging a two-game tournament at the athletic park with Rutland, Princeton and Summerland teams competing.

That final evening, a splendid concert including Kay Hamilton's musical festival talent and the large Summerland Band will be staged. This will be an hour and a half of fine entertainment, the committee reports.

Following the closing of the Fair, a windup dance is being staged in Ellison hall, at which the three ticket prizes will be given away. Saxie's Penticton orchestra is coming for this affair, which will conclude two full days with a variety of entertainment.

Expect 1948 Tree Fruits Apple Pool to Close With Little Variation

The 1948 apple pool will close about mid-May, declared George E. Brown, secretary of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. at the annual grower meeting last Friday evening.

There are some cars still to be shipped but only six of these cars are unsold, he stated. As soon as invoices are received from the packing houses the pools can be closed, he declared.

Although he could not give any definite figure the overall average will be the same as last year, he believed, as far as B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. returns are concerned. Packing and picking costs come off these figures.

Small size apples do not come up to the 1947 returns, he emphasized and in answer to a query from Chairman C. E. Bentley he declared that the indication that domestic markets are falling off is partly due to the fact that these markets did not want the small sizes.

In making a rough survey of the outlets obtained for B.C. apples in western Canada, Mr. Brown gave his opinion that chain stores with displays of fruit sold more apples than they did the year before. However, some smaller retailers were not pushing apples at all.

He told of the efforts to circulate 32,000 retail outlets across Canada with data on maturity, storage of fruit, proper display methods and other information. A concerted effort to have all retail outlets really display fruit in the coming year will be made, he said.

Regarding soft fruit, he was frank in his statement that without an austerly program "we would have had a very difficult time getting rid of your fruit". The lack of quality could mainly be blamed on weather conditions, he added.

More Ripeness Wanted
In giving other "tips" to the growers, Mr. Brown stated the growers will be asked to pick peaches "just a little riper" and the d'Anjou pear is definitely being picked too green. Wholesalers lost thousands of dollars on this variety of pear last season and they must be allowed to reach a better point of maturity.

J. V. Towgood suggested that undesirable varieties are not being brought down fast enough and asked to what extent the Newtown apple is affected in the five-year average.

Mr. Brown replied that undesirable or unwanted varieties are being reduced in the pools to a point where they only pay what they bring into the pool. However, he told Mr. Towgood that the Newtown, because of lack of export markets, is having a difficult time keeping its place in the pool.

Small sized apples exported to the United States were discounted $1 to $1.50 per box up to 180's, he declared.

All-Time High in Enrollment At Elementary School Shown; Expect 600 Pupils in Fall

An all-time high in attendance at the elementary school was noted at the regular meeting of the school board held on Monday evening, May 9. There are 544 on the register, which has shown a steady increase in the last two months.

It is estimated that the September enrolment will be close to 600, which would necessitate engaging two new teachers.

This will mean, too, that the basement rooms will have to be used until such time as a new junior-senior high is available to relieve the situation by housing the pupils from the higher grades. Appraisal has been completed, and the appraiser congratulated the board on a fine job of renovation.

Insurance on the elementary school is now $190,000. This may be a little high, and when the final report comes back from the evaluating company the figure will be adjusted and replacement insurance taken out.

Premier Johnson To Speak Here on June 4

Premier Byron Johnson and Mrs. Johnson will come to Summerland on Saturday, June 4, the former addressing a public meeting that afternoon, local Coalition circles announced this week.

Premier Johnson will speak at the IOOF hall that afternoon and following his address he and Mrs. Johnson will meet as many citizens as possible at a reception tea being arranged by the Coalition interests.

Steel Girders in Place on Bridge

Huge steel girders, each one weighing four and a half tons were lifted into place on the new Trout Creek highway bridge yesterday afternoon. Contract for this work was awarded to Dawson & Hall.

The cement abutments have already been placed and the steel girders were swung into place yesterday afternoon by a huge crane brought down by Chapman & Co. of Kelowna.

It is expected that the new bridge will be open for traffic within a month, replacing a bridge which has been termed by most motorists the "bottleneck" of the Okanagan highway.

Present Play at Drama Festival

First act of "I Remember Mama" is to be portrayed at Oliver tomorrow night in the zone finals of the B.C. Drama Festival by the players' section of the Singers and Players club. Adjudicator is Miss Jessie Richardson, of the Vancouver Little Theatre. Drama groups from Oliver and Vernon are competing in this zone elimination series.

Irrigation Water Is Flowing Now

Irrigation water was turned into the municipal ditches at the first of the week, reports Foreman E. Kercher. Due to the long dry spell in April, continuing into May, it was found necessary to shove forward the date for irrigation commencement.

Buy Extra Bus

Smith and Henry have bought an extra 49 passenger school bus, to replace one which is being taken off the routes at the end of June.

The department of education has approved extra trips as far as Gordon Robertson's in the morning, and a special bus at 2:30 p.m. going around Giant's Head to take 25 primary pupils to prevent overcrowding.

Teachers of the elementary school have voted money from their own funds to provide dishes and other furnishings for the staff room, and volunteered to pay three-quarters of the cost of venetian blinds for staff room, nurse's office, principal's office, and men teachers' room.

The local cadets, numbering 50, were inspected recently and were given an efficiency rating of 84 percent.

Sketch Plans Ready

Sketch plans of the proposed new school have been given to the high school principal, Mr. A. K. Macleod, inviting him and individual members of his staff to make any constructive suggestions. Mr. S. A. MacDonald, principal of the elementary school, Mr. W. J. Schwab and Mr. S. W. Feltham will also be invited to consider the plans before they are sent to Victoria for department approval.

Maintenance of the linoleum in the elementary school is presenting a problem and Mr. Traylor, the head janitor, has suggested that an electric washer and polisher be bought. The school budget does not permit this at the present time.

Mr. Traylor also thought that black-topping should be put down at least at the front of the school. The council may be asked to help with this, but the work could not be done until the summer vacation. Mr. Traylor's conscientious work and thought were commended by the board.

It was thought that too much money is being spent for maintenance of windows broken in the high school, and that the high school organization should take care of most of such breakages.

Summer Arrives With 84 as Highest Point

Hot, sunny, "real Okanagan" summer days have been experienced ever since last Saturday when the thermometer jumped up to 77 and has been on the upward trend ever since, Sunday, the 80 mark was reached and Monday and Tuesday showed temperatures of 84 degrees.

This hot weather and increasing rising temperatures at night, have meant that the land is becoming parched. Irrigation water is now running.

Creeks are rising rapidly as the snow in the higher levels starts to melt.

Temperatures from the first of the month have been:

Expect Highway Bridge Over River at Penticton Open Late This Afternoon

One of the most confusing traffic snarls in the Okanagan's history occurred last Saturday, May 7, about noontime, when a heavily-loaded 14-wheel truck and trailer crashed through a span in the highway bridge over Okanagan river at the north entrance to Penticton.

It is expected that this bridge will be repaired by late afternoon today. Ever since Tuesday morning crews have been working on a 24-hour shift basis to effect the necessary repairs.

In the meantime, all north and south valley traffic is being swung over the Indian reserve Shingle Creek road, which is a one-way affair and has now developed into a sea of dust.

Buses, trucks and other large vehicles have been forced to back up many times as there is little room to pass on any portion of this backwoods road which has not been in use to any extent for many years.

It was just about noon on Saturday that the big Diesel-operated truck carrying a huge compressor on the truck and a similar machine on the trailer rolled over the bridge entering Penticton.

The trailer crashed through but did not descend to the river. The compressor, however, slid off and plunged into the water.

A second truck carrying a similar load was stranded on the north side of the bridge.

In a short time hundreds of cars had piled up on both sides of the bridge as travellers sought a method of crossing.

The Shingle Creek route proved the only means of travel, as attempts to bulldoze a trail along the west side of Okanagan river to the airport proved futile. The bank along which the new trail was being cut caved in, in every case, and pushing a road through was impossible, it is stated.

Apart from the actual inconvenience of travelling along the dusty Shingle Creek road, most inconvenience was caused when no sign was placed at the top of Peach Orchard to warn travellers that they could not cross the river into Penticton.

Delays in Traffic
It was not until well on in the afternoon that a man was stationed on point duty at the top of Peach Orchard to warn traffic that the approach to Penticton was closed.

This man did not stay for any length of time, however, and in the early evening motorists were still proceeding to Penticton along the main highway, finding they could not cross the bridge and having to return to Summerland to start the circuitous route.

It is understood that the truck, trailer and contents weighed 75,000 pounds, while the bridge carrying capacity is 30,000 pounds. The Vernon government office is reported to have cleared the vehicles through to Princeton but was not notified of the extra weight to be carried.

The equipment belonged to the Arnett Construction Co.

Observers in Penticton report that only two piles were holding the caved-in span, and that another pile had gone out more than two months ago. It is understood the public works department had plans to replace this bridge once the Okanagan river flood control work had been concluded and the exact location of the Penticton-

District Saddened With Passing of T. F. Hickey Resident Here Since 1910

Summerland district was saddened on Thursday afternoon, May 5, to hear of the sudden passing of one of its better known and respected citizens and pioneers in the person of Thomas Francis Hickey, postmaster of the Summerland Post Office.

Born in Renfrew, Ont., in 1890, the late Mr. Hickey would have been 59 on May 31.

His early days were spent in Ontario and he came west as a young lad of 20 in 1910, enlisting in 1914 with the CEF and becoming a member of the 48th Battalion. He served overseas and returned to his western Canada home in 1919.

For some years Tom, as he was familiarly known to all citizens in his 39 years' residence, worked in packing houses and with White & Thornthwaite, before being appointed postmaster of the lower town office in 1931.

He had retained that post ever since and had just completed arrangements for the building of a new post office in lower town when he was stricken with a disease which proved incurable.

Although he had not been ill for long, his passing was swift and came as a distinct shock to his large circle of friends.

During his many years' residence here he was interested in many community endeavors and took an active interest in the affairs of the Legion and the board of trade and held office as a school board trustee. He was also a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Besides his wife in Summerland

Yale Liberal Head Announces His Resignation

Howard Thornton, president of the Yale Liberal Assn., informed the Valley newspapers yesterday morning that he has handed in his resignation.

The Vernon teacher has been adamant in his resolve that a Liberal candidate must be run in Yale federal election. Most of the Liberal delegates from Summerland south have wanted a working arrangement with the Progressive Conservatives, with one "free enterprise" candidate.

Last Friday, affairs came to a head when the Yale Liberal executive met in Kelowna and heard the views from Ottawa expressed by Tom Beid, MP.

This was a stormy session and the majority of the executive evidently favored the withdrawal of C. J. McDowell, appointed Liberal standard-bearer, as Mr. Thornton has stated that he could not continue as president of a Liberal Assn. The majority of whom had voted against the wishes of the nominating convention.

OPEN DAY AT SCHOOL

About 250 interested visitors attended Open Day at the renovated and enlarged elementary school yesterday afternoon. Principal MacDonald received the visitors and members of the staff indicated points of interest in their respective rooms. Pupils of Grade 8, served tea.

UBC GRADUATION

Bachelor of Arts—Rees K. Fowell, passed with second class honors in chemistry.
4th Year Commerce—Jack Ann, passed with two supps.

Summerland road had been determined.

It was not until early Tuesday morning that pile-driving equipment was ready to start operations. Since that time, two crews have been working 12 hours a piece on a round-the-clock basis in order to re-connect Okanagan Highway No. 5 at this vital spot.

he leaves one son, Alan in the Bank of Montreal at Kimberley, his aged mother and one sister, Mrs. Stella Wilson, both resident in Calgary, and two brothers in eastern Canada. Another son, Lawrence, was killed in action while serving with the RCAF in World War II.

Friends from all parts of the Okanagan came to Summerland on Saturday morning, May 7, at 11 o'clock when requiem mass was sung by Rev. Father A. M. Meulonbergh in the Church of the Holy Child.

Members of the Canadian Legion paraded to the church, headed by the president, Ross McLaughlan.

Father Meulonbergh spoke of the high regard in which the late Mr. Hickey was held locally and throughout the valley. He told of his interest in community affairs, his sound judgment and most of all of the sterling, enduring traits of character which will be remembered and for which he was respected.

Interment was in the Anglican church cemetery with the Summerland Funeral Home in charge of arrangements. Last Post and Reveille were sounded at the graveside by Bugler Tom Charity. The Legion ritual was read at the burial service, by President McLaughlan.

Pallbearers consisted of G. B. Latimer, Penticton postmaster, George Henry, Harry Howie, C. E. Bentley, George Clark and S. A. MacDonald.

Welcome News From Britain

POSSIBLE return of volume apple shipments to Great Britain is welcome news to the Okanagan this week. Hon. C. D. Howe, on his return from the Old Country, declared at the weekend that arrangements had been completed to increase Britain's purchases from Canada, and apples were included in the statement.

"Token purchases" were mentioned by Mr. Howe, but the Okanagan apple producer can well believe that this is the thin edge of the wedge and can look forward to the day when the Old Country market will again be thrown open to the producer of apples in this country.

There is some thought that these purchases would be made only from Nova Scotia, which apple-producing province has been hit to a far greater extent than B.C. by the shutting off of the Old Country market.

However, B.C. will probably obtain some percentage and in the meantime, the fact that a portion of the Nova Scotia crop will be disposed of in Britain will mean that there will be less congestion on the eastern Canadian markets.

Whether Okanagan apples get to Great Britain next winter, or whether it will only be Nova Scotia apples, it would appear that the day is fast approaching when the curtain will be lifted on present day restrictions on exports and Okanagan apples will be welcomed once more on the tables of British housewives. That is a happy thought on such a fine day in May.

Give Motorists Early Warning

THE impatience of the average motorist has been displayed in full force between Summerland and Penticton since last Saturday when the highway bridge crossing Okanagan river at the entrance to Penticton was partially demolished by an overloaded truck and trailer.

All Okanagan traffic had to be routed through West Summerland, up the Prairie Valley road and then over the old Shingle Creek route to the Indian reserve southwest of Penticton.

It has been known for some time that the bridge was not safe for extremely heavy loads, but it was also considered that when the dredging and realignment job on Okanagan river was commenced and the route of the highway from Penticton to Summerland definitely established, that a new bridge could be built.

Taxpayers driving over the Shingle Creek highway, eating the dust and experiencing the inconvenience are loud in their condemnation of the public works department.

Somebody blundered in allowing such a heavy weight to traverse the bridge. Therein lies one fault, but it is a mistake which could easily happen in a department called upon to meet so many demands as the expanding road program gathers more speed.

Where the motorist really had a complaint was the lack of warning signs at the top of Peach Orchard, telling motorists that they could not cross the river into Penticton.

It was nearly four hours after the accident before a man was stationed at this point on the highway to inform the travelling public. In the meantime, dozens of motorists had travelled to Penticton and been forced to retrace their steps back to Summerland and then over the Shingle Creek road.

The public works point man was only at his post for a short time early Saturday evening and many cars made the unnecessary trip after he left his post.

Lack of adequate warning signs on a previous weekend south of Vernon when a detour became impassable brought down the wrath of North Okanagan citizens on the head of the public works department.

The department cannot be expected to think of all contingencies to prepare for possible emergencies but at least warning signs could be posted quickly when such accidents occur.

Wonder how this feud between John Goss and the Vancouver Parks Board will come out.

Goss, you recall, was recently bounced back out of the United States as a Communist. Nobody seemed to think him dangerous on this side of the border, either before or after, until the Vancouver Parks Board abruptly decided to cancel their summer contract with him; whereupon Goss is threatening to sue them.

Now I don't know Goss from any other singer, or the V.P. Board from any other piece of lumber. But it doesn't seem democratic to me to condemn a man without a hearing. And I hate to see Canada getting, as the United States already is, so worked up about Russia that you can ruin a perfectly innocent and respectable man just by smearing the word 'Communist' on him.

Of course, Goss may be a regular hellion who beats his wife, drinks vodka laced with caviare at every meal, prays toward Moscow four times a day and is a dangerous Soviet spy in disguise. But he'd hardly admit Communist leanings—and be a well-known Vancouver citizen earning his living openly from music—if all that were so. Probably he is just a moderate or casual Communist of the theoretical type who would no more leave Canada for Russia than you or I, but just happens to have a pink tinge to his political dreams.

Isn't it just possible, too, that democracy as we practice it may have a few faults—and Communism, in theory, may have a few virtues? The basic idea of a community working together and sharing profits together is not such a horrible one. In fact, if you read Christ's Sermon on the Mount, and in its light compare the sharing theory with our Christian democratic practice of making life an endless struggle to get a little more money, a little bigger car, a little better house, at no-matter-whose expense, you may get considerable food for thought.

Of course, Jesus preached a voluntary communism. We shy away from voluntary sharing just as much as from compulsory; but it is a very different thing from the rule of force which has established state communism on the other side of the Iron Curtain and ruthlessly liquidated all who disagree with it.

That's why I don't like this John Goss affair: it looks as if we're trying to make all our citizens think the same way, just as the Russians do. Our ways may be poles apart, but isn't it totalitarianism just the same?

Once we start to suppress freedom of thought and belief, we'll have no more democracy. Voltaire had the right idea when he said "I disagree with what you say, but I'll fight to the death for your right to say it." So had the English when they used to provide Hyde Park soap boxes, complete with audiences, for any fanatic who wished to shoot off his face.

No matter how violent or anarchistic his ideas, a speaker could talk the bile out of his system there, and have police protection while he was doing it. And when his time was up, the bobby would say,

"Now then, my man, that'll do. All those who want to burn Buckingham Palace and hang the Royal Family line up on the right. All those who don't, line up on the left. Off you go."

And Buckingham Palace and the Royal Family still stand and likewise, I hope, Hyde Park. That's real democracy.

Dr. Ritchie on Sanatorium Staff

Dr. A. C. P. Ritchie, who made many friends here while on a visit from England two years ago, is now on the staff of Milford sanatorium, North Godalming, Surrey.

She writes that the work is intensely interesting, and a great deal of chest surgery is done there. Streptomycin is used as a matter of course. There would seem to be a big increase in the incidence of tuberculosis, but Dr. Ritchie believes that this is only an apparent one because people are being X-rayed now in a routine way, and the disease is discovered.

The balance over sixty cents would remain with the local to be distributed among members. Summerland Co-op is also asking for a local pool on stone fruits, early vegetables and summer apples, including Wealthy.

The Giant of Giant's Head

By B. A. T.

XXVI—The Prehistoric Ice Barrier

It was natural that the season following the Great Freeze should be an unusual one that would cause trouble in the land of the Giant of Giant's Head. For the winter had been the severest in all pre-history with snow fifty feet deep and temperatures incalculable by present-day thermometers.

When the spring thaws came, a vast quantity of water and ice poured down the Okanagan Valley. South of Vasseau Lake where the valley is narrow, the ice had accumulated into an immense dam which held back the water and flooded large areas of our Giant's domain.

When it was time to plant the oat crop, the Giant was worried so he consulted his magician who was engaged at this time in drawing sketch plans for the Egyptian pyramids.

The magician soon had an answer. "I have interviewed my magic snake," he said, "and he tells me we must ask aid of the dragons of Rock Creek."

"They are our bitterest enemies," said the Giant. "Whom will we send on this suicidal mission to these vicious reptiles?"

The magician's face paled and his voice trembled as these countless words issued from his bloodless lips:

"Tis noble and fitting in time of great stress
To die for your country and leave no address;
So give me my saddle and clothes—
horse so sleek,
I'm off now for rocky (and creaky) Rock Creek!"

es are to be installed at different points on the irrigation system.

Full justice was done to Gilbert & Sullivan's opera, HMS Pinafore by the Operatic Society, led by George C. Benmore and G. W. Cope.

Summerland Fish, Game and Forest Protective Assn. has been organized with the following officers: President, W. Johnston; vice-president, W. C. W. Fosbery; secretary-treasurer, C. V. Nesbitt; executive, W. Snow, G. M. Forster, W. Nelson, D. Rutherford and C. H. Elsey.

Ethel Denike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Denike, narrowly escaped serious injuries when the wagon she was riding tipped over, frightening the horses, which ran away. She was dragged for several yards but no bones were broken.

J. W. S. Logie will enter the provincial election campaign as the standard-bearer for the new labor party.

While endeavoring to fix a telegraph line from his home to a friend Campbell McAlpine fell from a tree, and broke two bones in his left hand.

In the morning with a brave but sickly smile, the magician started on his journey. He took a present for the dragon leader, he hung his Ogo-pogo tooth charm around his neck and carried his magician's equipment. He hoped to put the dragons in good humor with his parlor tricks if they did not first burn him to a cinder with their fire-breathing apparatus.

Strange to relate, the dragons welcomed the Giant's ambassador. They put a cave at his disposal and sat in silent amazement while he performed his magic. After he had, from a single hat, drawn a dozen rabbits and had taken the dragon national flag from the mouth of each, his hosts were ready to listen to any proposal.

As some of their land was also under water, they agreed enthusiastically to a plan to assist in the removal of the ice dam. The suggestion of the Giant that a hundred dragons join an equal number of giants at the damsite was endorsed. Then the magician led the party down to the McIntyre Bluff area where the giant workers had already gathered.

A floating bridge was first built above the dam. Then thirty dragons at a time, working on a three-shift basis, breathed their flame on the water and soon had it boiling furiously. For a week this had little effect on the obstruction, although the ice was slowly melting. Then the dragons, who had been on a diet of cayenne pepper to intensify the flame of their breath, had their fiery ration doubled.

During the evening of the tenth day, a terrific crunching, roaring noise was heard so the workers fled to the shore. With a crash that vibrated the earth, the dam gave way and a torrent of water, ice and mud, carrying trees and other debris, roared down the valley. Great districts were flooded in the south but as this area was uninhabited, little damage was done.

On the contrary, the soil washed down on this occasion has made the rich orchard land along the Okanagan River. It can be said that the fruitgrower of Washington State owes much to the Giant of Giant's Head.

One dragon did not succeed in reaching safety and he was carried away by the torrent. It has lately been certified by scientists that Dragon Rock, at the mouth of the Columbia River, is the petrified remains of this unfortunate worker.

The flood waters quickly receded in the Giant's Head district and it was not many years before "The Flood" as it was called, was a story for the old to tell and the young to ridicule.

Dignitaries at Dedication of Kiwanis Peace Arch

Civic heads of the three Okanagan cities were present at the unveiling of the Kiwanis International peace marker at Osoyoos on Sunday, May 1. Despite a steady drizzle which somewhat marred the brief but impressive ceremony, about 5,000 people from both sides of the International border attended the service.

Mayor T. R. B. Adams of Vernon, Progressive-Conservative candidate for Yale constituency in the forthcoming federal election is shown standing on the left hand side of the peace marker along side Miss Deane Clarke, Penticton Peace Festival Queen contestant. To the right of the plaque are J. W. Johnson, acting-mayor of Penticton, Miss Joyce Warrington, Penticton Peace Festival Queen candidate, and Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games of Kelowna.

Summerland's new Kiwanis club was present practically one hundred percent and Charter President F. W. Schumann and Mrs. Schumann attended a preliminary welcome luncheon to Governor Langlie by the Oroville Kiwanis club just prior to the ceremony. Summerland Board of Trade 1948 Fair Queen Ellean Birles was the guest of the Summerland Kiwanis club and attended both the luncheon and the peace marker dedication as Summerland's official queen.

The peace marker erected by the Kiwanians is located just south of the Canadian customs building on the international boundary line and has been erected to denote 130 years of continuous peace between the two countries.

Kiwanis Division 5 Lieut. Governor J. T. Young, of Penticton, was master of ceremonies for the Sunday ceremony which attracted a huge crowd to the international border.

Unveiling of the marker was undertaken jointly by Penticton's Peace Festival 1948 Queen Beverly Ann Young and Wenatchee Apple Blossom Festival Queen Fortia. Kiwanis District Governor John J. Langenbach, of Raymond, Wash., was another distinguished visitor to the border ceremony and he made the formal presentation of the marker.

Premier W. A. Bennett was supposed to be present for the ceremony but could not attend. His place was taken by C. W. Morrow, MLA.

On Monday, May 2, another group of Summerland Kiwanis club members attended the presentation of charter to the newly-formed Kiwanis club at Tonaaket. There were approximately 850 Kiwanians and their wives present. Governor Langenbach formally presented the charter.

Those in the Summerland party were Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Schumann, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Hilly) Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Short, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ritchie and Mr. William White.

Queen Candidates At Rotary Dinner

The three Summerland Spring Fair queen candidates were guests of the Rotary Club of Summerland on Friday, April 29, at the regular dinner meeting. They were introduced by Rotarian Mel Ducommun, who has charge of the queen contest for the Spring Fair committee of the board of trade, and were made welcome by Rotary President R. C. Palmer.

The third instalment of News editor Reg Jones' Saskatchewan story finds him in Grenfell, a small town on the south-east edge of the province, as he endeavors to cover a representative cross-section of the province, which five years ago elected a socialist government and last year returned it to power. The Powell River News assigned Mr. Jones to cover the Saskatchewan story in view of the political situation in our own province, which now approaches the point where citizens must choose, not between two or three political parties aiming for the same goal but with different methods of getting there, but between parties which profess two totally different goals and of course widely divergent methods of achieving them.

The faded green-plush coach of the CPR's tired old local out of Regina lurched along the double belt of railway steel girding the fat waist of the Saskatchewan grain lands, jerking its way through the grey, dust-filled evening on its regular run to the little town of Grenfell.

Grenfell on a Saturday night is much like any other small town on the prairies when the week's labor is over. Along its main street the neon signs glow red and green lighting up the Chinese restaurant with its blaring juke-box, the pool hall where the boys are shooting snooker, and the soda fountain where the drug-store cowboys whistle at the gals when the wind hikes their skirts above their knees as they walk past the window.

Elsewhere war-prosperous farmers and their wives prepare to return home in their expensive automobiles after doing the shopping, or wait in line to see a hell-for-leather movie at the theatre.

At the home of Col. Walter Ashfield, publisher of the Grenfell Sun, we chatted far into the night. "I suppose you might call Grenfell a typical prairie town," he mused, "but in many respects it is different.

Coalition Member

"Politically we are represented in the federal parliament by Gladys Strum of the CCF, and provincially Hammy McDonald is the people's choice. He rode in on a combined Liberal-Conservative ticket.

"Most of our residents are of British stock although many Germans came to settle in the area in the late '90s.

"Grenfell's history is linked with traditional achievement and most of our people are proud of it. Out of a population of 900 we turned out 75 officers and nearly 300 enlistments in the last war.

"But as for politics I steer clear of them. I have very little against the present government, although I believe that in our district, at least, the feeling of the people is swinging against them.

"I think that feeling was obvious in the results of the last election, but for that matter the CCF leaders said that they didn't want so many seats in the legislature as they held previously because it would open the way for charges of dictatorship against them. Just how true this is of course, I really don't know.

"Of course, I think that the people of Saskatchewan didn't elect the CCF government because they wanted socialism so very much, but mainly because they were fed up with the inactivity and tactics of the previous government.

"But the socialists aren't crusaders any more. After four years they've found that they can't be, and so now they're trying to settle down into the same kind of government as anywhere else, just like the present administration in Alberta has done under the banner of Social Credit.

"I think their social welfare and the developments along educational lines are very good, and of course it is becoming more obvious that if the people of Saskatchewan want these amenities, they'll have to pay for them. But don't quote me . . .

Next morning while I was looking up some of the people of Grenfell I ran bang-smack into a smouldering revolt against the government.

The people of Grenfell, it seemed, had been the victims of a double-cross: caught in the vortex of an intrigue between the powers that be and a non-government transportation system!

Grenfell is situated on a highway which is served by the Greyhound Bus Company, whose vehicles ply the main interprovincial routes, while the Saskatchewan government transportation system serves the network of strictly provincial roads.

About the Buses

"As one irate town official told me: "The roads got pretty icy last winter and the highway for a few miles on either side of Grenfell was no exception. It became blocked and although it was a main highway, this stretch was neglected.

"Action was taken to try to get the snowplows to clear this stretch of highway, but the requests were refused, although sections of highway further out over which the government buses run were kept open.

"Which, to me and a lot of other people in this town, looks as if the government was deliberately trying to make it tough for the private outfit since the buses couldn't get through, by refusing to clear the highway and creating a heck of a tie-up here. Yet the people were the ones who suffered.

"If they were thinking of the people as they like to say they are, they could have cleared the main highway so service could be continued just the same as they cleared the highways used by their own buses," he stormed.

Now, don't get me wrong on this—I'm not saying the government crossed up the worthy residents of Grenfell. It's the residents of Grenfell who are saying it!

Well, anyway, here comes the town's doctor down the street to meet us.

Doc's a young fellow and to look at him now you wouldn't think he was a doctor in that red-plaid windbreaker and slouch hat, would you?

But doc's a well-liked guy and they talk pretty highly of his work up at the Union hospital.

Doc's been here three years and is a family man, but he's a little leery about talking politics one way or another.

"Oh, I think the government's work as far as hospitalization is concerned is a great thing—except that it must be very expensive for them," he smiles.

"You see, Grenfell is not in one of the organized health regions, so I'm on my own here. As far as the hospital goes, though, there has been about a 50 percent increase in the demand for accommodation since the government's health insurance scheme went into effect.

The Doctor's View "Nearly all my practise is private so I can't speak too authoritatively on the health region set-up. With me, people are not so prone to come in for any little thing that ails them, whereas the doctor in a health region whose bill are paid by the government through the levy they in turn make against the municipality, are kept pretty busy. And of course the doctor knows that he's sure of getting at least 5 percent of his bills paid for by the government. So the more people he attends, the more money he gets.

"You can't blame the doctors for this, though. The people figure they're paying for it, so they might as well get something out of it and so they traipse off to the doctor's office at the slightest excuse.

"It's working alright now, but it is costing a lot of money. The farmers have lots of money now, but if things got tough they would again be unable to meet the heavier taxation and the whole thing might bog down.

(The doctor here is referring not to the government's hospitalization plan whereby each adult pays $10 and $5 for each child up to a family maximum of $30, but to the health region system whereby public health benefits are provided, including "free" dental treatment for children up to the age of 16 years, under a schedule of taxation levies. In one such region I was informed that a young doctor who only started his practice three years ago made over $40,000 in fees last year.)

"If bad times do come along, I personally don't think these areas in the health region units will be able to weather the financial end of it since the same amount of service would have to be given without being able to collect the taxation levies," he continued.

"As for socialism, I think the people are turning against it. Especially the farmers because many of them are finding that their taxes have been almost doubled in order to pay for what they were told would be more or less free social services. . . .

Doc had to go because he had a patient waiting for him, but here's the rev. of El Capo Rural Municipality No. 154 in which the town of Grenfell is located. He's also president of the Co-operative Creameries of Saskatchewan.

"Well, speaking from the municipal standpoint there has been very little change in financing from that of an orthodox government. The methods of grants to rural areas has changed but that has arisen from natural re-assessments and not from any socialistic policy.

"It's harder for a municipality to get special grants from the present government—but maybe that's because we haven't got a CCF member representing us.

W. A. C. BENNETT

asked Mr. Bennett last year to vacate the provincial for the federal field," concluded Mr. Weddell.

Second to the nomination was a "good Liberal" from Rutland, George Day who declared that "tonight shows me that Liberals and Conservatives are putting their shoulders to the wheel and going forward."

A past president of the Kelowna and District Liberal Assn., Fred Tutt, then rose to bring forward the name of W. G. Gillard, Summerland station agent to contest the nomination. Mr. Tutt spoke of Mr. Gillard as a man who works for wages and belongs to a union, who would provide strong opposition to a party which is built up mainly of working people.

A. E. Gardner, president of the Summerland Progressive Conservative Assn., in seconding Mr. Gillard's nomination stated that the Summerland man, although not as well known as Mr. Bennett, "would do a good job."

B.C. at Crossroads

In his acceptance address, Mr. Bennett declared that B.C. is at the crossroads and the decision to be made on June 15 will affect B.C. for many years to come.

Mr. Bennett explained some details concerning the federal by-election in which he was defeated by O. L. Jones, CCF candidate, last May.

"It was from a sense of duty that I left the provincial for the federal field," Mr. Bennett declared, "and it is for the same reason I am before you tonight."

"The choice is yours. We must rise above partyism and party strife," he reminded both parties. "To combat socialism it is vital for us to have the right type of government in this province. We must have unity in our hour of danger. This is not a danger from without as in war years, but a danger from within."

"It is my duty to stand if the people want me," he declared, but he warned that he would not be a rubber stamp politician and there would be no patronage if elected.

Telephone Crew Here This Month

Okanagan Telephone Co. has informed the local council that its large operating crew will be in this district after May 15 and will be prepared to move the obstructing telephone pole at the Mrs. E. Steuart corner on the Sandhill-Trout Creek road after that time, cost not to exceed $100.

BIG LIST OF ACCOUNTS

Accounts totalling $31,880.68, one of the biggest month's payments on record, were passed at the council session on Tuesday. This payment did not include the $4,255 payment for the chlorinator, which was passed as a separate item.

REBATE SALVAGE VALUE

Salvage of municipal pipe from the combined sprinkler irrigation scheme in the Gordon Robertson-Ducommun-Cross area will amount to $315 and this amount will be rebated to the property owners involved on an acreage basis, council agreed on Tuesday.

He promised nothing but clean government.

Referring to the Coalition government when he was a member, Mr. Bennett declared there was never a division on party lines, even though there were natural differences of opinion and approach.

He paid tribute to the work of A. W. Gray, head of the irrigation districts association. He declared, however, that he had been responsible for bringing the PFRA into B.C., and that it was by his efforts that Mr. Gray and associates had been able to negotiate a better deal for the irrigation districts and save the farmers' tens and tens of thousands of dollars.

Mr. Bennett believed that the irrigation districts should be brought under one head so that unclaimed land can be developed. He reminded his audience that the Coalition government had increased minimum wages and had brought in many other reforms for the laboring class. Mr. Bennett claimed he was the first member to advocate reform in labor legislation, and the Coalition government put it into effect.

In conclusion, he declared his belief that B.C. is just at the period of its greatest expansion.

Feels He Could Serve

There was just one thought prompting Mr. Gillard to go before the nominating convention, that being the possibility he could serve the South Okanagan.

"I can tell you that if I am nominated and when elected I will work for the welfare of B.C. and the South Okanagan in particular. I will support the Coalition government in everything which I think would be of benefit to the province and South Okanagan. The Coalition government has worked for the benefit and welfare of all the people in B.C."

Mr. Gillard called the Johnson expansion program as being unequalled in history, but he warned that if by any chance the CCF is elected "we can look forward to a time when we will be slaves of the government. The CCF is really asking us to forge the chains which will hold us in slavery."

Following the addresses, the ballots were collected and the result announced. Mr. Bennett's majority over Mr. Gillard was not announced, but it was known that Mr. Gillard polled a fair percentage of the ballots.

Mr. Bennett declared his appreciation of the Liberal support and expressed confidence in victory, stating that the Coalition group stands for real co-operation while the CCF is the isolationist party.

Those attending from Summerland consisted of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gillard, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Nesbitt, Mr. and Mrs. H. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gardner, A. Calvert, F. Brind, C. W. Haddrell, A. M. Temple, J. D. Price, J. R. Armstrong, C. E. Bentley, Phil and Art Dunsdon, E. C. Bingham, Harvey Wilson, W. M. Wright and R. S. Oxley.

Trout Creek Rises Foot in Last Two Days

Trout Creek rose more than a foot on Tuesday and Wednesday but the clearing and straightening program carried on by the public works department with Billy Miller of Peachland as foreman is holding up well.

As the flood waters sweep down between the experimental station and main highway bridges there is a new channel 50 feet wide throughout. The water is about three feet deep in most places.

Trucks and a bulldozer have been busily employed this week strengthening a weak spot in the dyke on the north side of the creek just west of the highway bridge crossing Trout Creek. Unless there is a greatly-increased rise in the water level it is expected the new channel will hold the flow well.

One other trouble spot is located on the north bank opposite the Embree orchards, while on the south bank the water is eating into the sandy bank where the slide on experimental station property occurred last year. These trouble spots are of a minor nature, however, compared to the task of keeping the flood waters under control last year.

Trials of Plant Breeders Told by Dr. Cedric Hornby

Examples of the difficulties and heartaches which beset plant breeders in their efforts to propagate new varieties which will be resistant to the ever-incurring and increasing number of diseases were given in an interesting address by Dr. Cedric Hornby to the Rotary Club of Summerland on Friday, evening, April 29.

Practically all plant breeding work has been done since the turn of the century, Dr. Hornby emphasized, but evidences of plant breeding experiments date back to the Syrians in 2400 B.C.

The speaker paid tribute to Czechoslovakian Monk Mendel, of German peasant stock, who was a student of natural science. His theory, after seven years experimenting with the common garden pea, laid the foundation for present day plant breeding work.

However, although he presented the results of his work in 1865, it was not until 1900 that any recognition of his experiments was given by other natural scientists. He died in 1884.

Dr. Hornby took as an example the struggle of American tobacco growers to keep ahead of diseases in the past twenty-five years, especially. Plant breeders played a big part in this work and as one disease after another appeared the breeders had to search farther afield for new strains which would combat the diseases.

Five important diseases have been combated in 25 years in the tobacco growing industry by introducing plants from Turkey, Australia and parts of South America. A similar story could be told of Canadian wheat, oats, vegetables and other fruit and vegetables, he declared.

Dr. Hornby is presently experimenting with early tomatoes. This strain produces extremely small tomatoes and it is hoped that a larger product may result from plant breeding experiments.

Improvement to Peach Orchard Beach Planned

Councillor Eric Tait reported to the council on Tuesday that the parks committee of the Summerland Board of Trade is considering improvement of the Peach Orchard beach as a project for 1949. The committee and Councillor Tait inspected all parks and beaches in the territory and recommendations for improvements were considered.

It is the trade board committee's intention to build a small wharf at Peach Orchard beach and when the council provides top soil will level the area and seed it in clover. The committee also suggested that new toilet should be constructed there.

Councillor Tait also reported that Powell Beach is in good shape and the beach has not been damaged by last year's high water. He is considering constructing fire rings and providing wood for Powell Beach for the use of picnickers.

Vic Parker's bulldozer has extended the small ball field at this beach and more work in clearing underbrush is being undertaken, Councillor Tait stated.

TWO PIONEERS PASS AWAY TODAY

Two pioneer citizens of Summerland passed away this morning in the persons of Robert Mitchell, aged 88, who has resided here 45 years and Mrs. Lily Mary Williams, wife of George H. Williams, who has resided here 44 years and would have been 73 in a week's time.

Funeral arrangements were tentative at presstime, but it is expected that Mrs. Williams will be laid to rest tomorrow, Friday and the funeral service for Mr. Mitchell will take place on Saturday.

Sandhill Road Reconstruction Nearly Through

Most of the improvement work on the Sandhill-Trout Creek municipal highway has been completed and by today the last of the gravel surfacing will have been hauled, Roads Engineer Don Wright informed the council on Tuesday.

There is still some grading work to be completed at the bottom of the hill, while the Mrs. E. Steuart corner will be finished once the telephone poles are moved later this month, thus providing a more rounded corner in place of the right-angle turn.

In answer to a query concerning the rock sidehill near the top of the Sandhill, Engineer Wright estimated it would cost $1,000 to blast this portion. The council decided hurriedly no more would be said about this work for this year. It could be undertaken at a future time without damage to the existing hard surfacing, he stated.

One hundred feet of six-inch pipe is being ordered for the Granville street drains and it is expected that work on this main business street will commence once the Sandhill job is completed.

Some councillors were astonished that no provision had been made in the estimates for continuing blasting corners on the Garnet Valley road. In any case, the road department could not tackle this job until the fall now that the hard surfacing season is fast approaching.

A. Rutherford, a member of the roads crew, is being boosted in wages from 72 cents to 80 cents per hour, at the suggestion of Engineer Wright.

In conjunction with the Sandhill improvements, Councillor F. E. Atkinson reported that the remainder of the No. 4 wire needed has been ordered and when it arrives the complete link between the Giant's Head road and the Trout Creek Service Station, providing electrical service from municipal lines, will be established.

However, this connection will not be undertaken until the West Kootenay is farther along with its high voltage extension from Penticton to West Summerland. When the West Kootenay has to shut down power supply, the municipality will undertake its connecting work so that two shutdowns will not be necessary.

GUIDE NEWS

The Girl Guides have really felt spring at last, as they held their first meeting outdoors.

A new recruit, Jean Peck, was welcomed. After inspection the patrols went to their corners, and then were called later to practice marching. Miss Atkinson took a game with the patrols, while the senior patrol borrowed a shovel and went to bury a hit and run victim—a dead cat.

Campfire was held and Capt. McIntosh presented thirty-seven attendance stars for a year's attendance at Guides. Duty patrol, Robins, Campfire, Canaries.

LUNCHEON HOSTESS

A very enjoyable afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. J. W. Graves on Jones Flat when she entertained a few of her friends at a buffet luncheon on Wednesday, May 4. Her guests were Mrs. C. F. Smith and her daughter, Bernice, Mrs. F. Page, Mrs. G. Geras and Mrs. J. Lazenby.

Queen Candidates Visit Penticton

Summerland Spring Fair queen candidates have been observed in the business section on the last two Saturday evenings and this weekend they will travel to Penticton and Oliver along with the Summerland Band to publicize the big two-day affair on May 28 and 29.

On Saturday, April 30, the girls paraded in a decorated car behind the Summerland Band which marched through the streets and played several selections.

Last Saturday night, the girls adorned Summerland's new fire truck, which made an official appearance on Granville and Hastings streets.

ADEQUATE PROTECTION

Summerland Board of Trade has assured the council that all necessary precautions are being taken to provide adequate fire protection for the annual Spring Fair in the Occidental Fruit Co. building. The second floor is not being used this year, which eliminates any danger from stairways becoming crowded.

Jubilant Over Passage of Marketing Act

Jubilation over the passing of the Dominion Agricultural Products Marketing Act, Bill 82, at Ottawa just before the House recessed for Easter holidays, was voiced by three speakers at the annual growers' meeting called for the IOOF hall on Friday evening, with only about 25 in attendance.

The meeting endorsed Councillor C. E. Bentley as delegate to the B.C. Fruit Board annual meeting to be held in Kelowna later this month and a director of the BCFGA for the annual meeting and election of officers which will be held directly afterwards.

Probable date for these two sessions is given as May 26.

Follows Resolution

J. R. J. (Jock) Stirling, BCFGA president, told the session that the BCFGA resolution urging endorsement by parliament of an agricultural products marketing act was forwarded first to the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, meeting in Regina last January.

The federation embodied the resolution in a brief which was presented to the federal cabinet in February. At the Canadian Horticultural Council annual conference, marketing legislation as advocated by the BCFGA was a highlight in the discussions, he said.

Last Thursday, Mr. Stirling obtained the news that Bill 82 had been given Royal assent.

G. A. Barrat, who was a prominent figure in fruit legislative circles when the first draft of a marketing act was framed many years ago, declared that the initial step, was too ponderous and needed modification in a more simple fashion.

So, another draft was passed and Bill 82, which was passed this year at Ottawa

Drinking Fountain At Fish Hatchery

A small drinking fountain has been erected by the Summerland Fish and Game Assn. in front of the fish hatchery, replacing the old fountain which was taken down on the erection of the new building.

Bob Barkwill was in charge of this endeavor and was congratulated by President George Stoll on Tuesday for his efforts. Mr. Barkwill linked Frank Bennison and a large group of volunteers as being the main contributors of labor for this effort.

It was suggested that an attractive sign be placed on the roadside some distance from the fountain, inviting travellers to stop for a cooling drink of pure water and also visit the fish hatchery.

TAKE SECOND CONNECTION

Councillor F. E. Atkinson reported to the council this week that Dr. L. A. Day will be taking a second connection on his new residential property at Trout Creek so that the charge for electrical installation would only amount to $46, over the municipal allowance. This arrangement would be agreeable to Dr. Day, he declared.

gives exactly the powers sought by this draft, only couched in different terms.

The marketing act provides power to set up marketing boards in the provinces to control interprovincial and export trade. The provinces already had the power to legislate for marketing within their own boundaries.

Passage of Bill 82 terminates 13 years of effort on the part of the fruit and vegetable industry to obtain marketing legislation which would provide sufficient power for agricultural marketing boards to be set up in the provinces.

C. J. Huddleston moved a resolution Friday that the Summerland growers express their appreciation to all those who worked and fought so long for marketing legislation.

Miss Appleton was assisted in serving tea by Miss Marian Cartwright and the senior Guides.

The final of these three teas for this season will be held in June.

Rummaging Was No Task at Institute Sale

Rummage, used in connection with a sale, applies to the act of looking things over thoroughly, and not to the articles for sale, as is sometimes erroneously thought.

There is never an unsuccessful rummage sale, because instinctively people want to look through the things offered to see if there is something they can use. No salesmanship is necessary on the part of those sponsoring the sale. The materials sell themselves.

Of course, now and then a suggestion of a possible use for a seemingly impossible object may be a help, but on the whole it is such a challenge to ingenuity, and perhaps something one has always wanted is there at so little cost that it seems like a real "find".

At the Institute sale in the Odd-fellows' hall on Saturday afternoon about $100 was cleared.

There were wooden stocking dryers for very lengthy and shapely woollen stockings, doll carriages, a neat travelling clock, books, a couple of them a hundred years' old, grab chains, silver-topped hair-receivers, hat pins now coming "into their own" again, as well as clothing, utensils, bottled fruit and home cooking.

It was a long, tiring day for those who went in the morning and were there until nearly six o'clock.

Those on the committee were very pleased to have donations from former institute members who are not able to attend often now.

Tea was served during the afternoon.

selves in the same position as before. We pay our own way, and we don't get anything for nothing.

"In 1939 the rural areas of the province were re-assessed and the areas in the south, which came under survey were given a general reduction in assessment except those which were very choice properties.

"Following the re-assessment which, however, was not completed, the government established a fund which was to be paid out to all municipalities in the province according to an approved topographical formula. Besides giving the municipalities a slice of this fund, the government also paid each municipality the $500 to which it was ordinarily entitled.

"When the present government came into power it took the money set aside in this fund and gave it out as government grants in lieu of the grants which had been given from the general revenue in other years.

"This way they made good fellows of themselves and relieved themselves of giving the grants out of general revenue.

"Before, we were able to get special grants for such things as building bridges and other necessary municipal work, but now the present government frowns on it as far as this municipality is concerned. Although some of the friends of the government seem to be able to get them, but not us.

"Part of our municipality is in a larger school unit and I must say that the government has maintained and equipped the schools better than the local board of trustees had done previously.

"Taxation on those people in the larger school unit is 50 percent more than on those outside the area with the mill rate in the former 17 mills compared to between 8 and 12 outside the unit.

Tax Rates High

"In the larger school unit the 17 mills for education comprises almost half of the total mill rate which is 36 1/2 now.

"One of the biggest problems in Saskatchewan is that no longer have we an economic balance wheel in the province.

"The rural areas are becoming depopulated and where people do farm the land they have switched from diversified farming to straight grain farming.

"Before, 75 percent of the people lived on the farm. Now it is about 65 percent and steadily heading down. The city population is steadily growing and we now have the biggest urban population in the history of the province.

"There are six farms in my district alone which are vacant. There has been a drop in the number of milk shippers in Grenfell for instance from 23 to 8.

"The cattle population is dropping and the farmer, unable to obtain labor anymore, is chucking up everything to produce grain which he can sell for $1.60 a bushel.

"The government's labor laws, while they are good, have put such a premium on labor, that most of the farm labor is being lost to industry. Instead of the government's labor legislation encouraging young men to work on farms, it has encouraged them to leave for the cities.

"So the farmer, railing against the heavy income taxes he must pay on returns for such farming activities as hog raising and milk production, unable to secure farm labor, and increased provincial taxation, is saying to heck with the whole business and planting just as much acreage in grain as he can with his machinery and letting the rest go. For instance, I own a section of land and now pay a total of $340 a year in taxes.

"The present government of course tried hard at first to enter municipal government but were smashed right out of it.

"It was their announced intention to establish larger units of municipal government similar to the school units, but they were opposed so vigorously they have done nothing about it.

"In my estimation such larger units of municipal legislation are O.K. on paper but to give good municipal government you can't move too far away from the people.

"One of the most valuable things in a democracy I think is personal contact between the people and their municipal government. When that sphere of government becomes too large, the personal contact is lessened and the individual loses interest and, more important, his influence.

"Perhaps that is what the socialistic planners desire," he concluded.

While we're in the frame of mind for municipal and civic matters let's stroll over to see Mayor Dakin and listen to what he has to say about the affairs of his town.

"Well, for instance the sanatorium levy in Qu'Appelle has doubled and the school levy is more than doubled. The socialists have increased school grants but not much more than the government was paying in the miserable thirties—we have to dig up the balance.

"Our civic mill rate for 1949 is 48 mills and of that 22 mills goes to school purposes. In 1945 it was only 12 mills for school purposes, so as far as we're concerned we're paying for it ourselves.

"When the socialists took over the Canadian Utilities, (which supplied Grenfell with electric power) the franchise, building and equipment were assessed at $70,000, so the town lost a yearly revenue of $3,500.

"To partly make up for this loss to us they put a surcharge of 5 percent on everyone's light bill. This was turned over to the town treasury but it only brought us in about $1,000.

"True, enough the light rate was reduced, but on the other hand if a person wants an extension line to his property he has to pay the cost of the construction of that line.

"In one case of a veteran living on the outskirts of town this cost came to $368. Under the old system operated by Canadian Utilities, the contract specified the company had to build the line to anywhere in town.

"As far as any tangible benefits to the town from the implementation of socialism I can't see them. They don't even try to keep the highway in shape. Now you take last winter . . ."

Here's Endel Brothers garage. Let's say hello to George and chin for a while.

"Our big headache is the government insurance" says he. "We operate six gasoline delivery trucks and each one requires an E plate. These used to cost us about $400 but now cost $562.

"We find that the government insurance is not nearly as good as that offered by line companies, and there are inconveniences that are costly to us. If an accident occurs for instance we are supposed to leave the vehicle at the scene of the accident until a government inspector arrives, anywhere from two days to a week later to make his report.

"So to make sure we are protected we insure all our trucks with a line company as well. This means that because we are compelled to insure with the government and then have to take out insurance with a private company to give us what we consider adequate protection, we're simply donating $162 a year for each truck we operate to the government.

"And you can't collect anything from the government if you are insured with a private company as well because they passed an amendment to the effect that in such a case the private company would have to settle all the claims leaving them scot-free.

"The government operates a couple of garages where they do their own repairing and so on. They have assured private garage operators that they are not going into the garage business, but you feel uneasy about the whole thing when you look at some of the things they have done.

"I'm not saying that some of their legislation is not good but the big bogey for us is the compulsion they use. Perhaps they have good insurance policies, and there's no doubt about it that anyone driving on the road should carry insurance. But why shouldn't a driver be able to have a choice of taking out his insurance where he wants to.

"Perhaps a full government policy in our case would cost us a little less, but somehow we don't trust them.

"It sort of makes you doubtful of what the future holds, and you feel that you'd perhaps be better off working for someone else rather than trying to run a business of your own under the present set up.

Now let's go see school principal Art Smith.

"I've been principal of Grenfell Continuation school for seven years, and whatever the cause, conditions are certainly much better now than they were in 1942.

"Wages for a principal have increased from about $1,700 in 1942 to around $3,400 at present. We have nine teachers, and in the public school they get $1,800 and in the high school everyone gets more than $2,000.

"We're not in the larger school unit of course, but teachers' standards have increased here considerably, which is in line with the strides being made in education generally. A new revision of the public school curriculum is being made."

"Have you ever had any indication of any socialistic ideologies creeping into any of the government's school text books?"

"Not as far as I can see, except one teacher informed me that she thought one of the history books seemed somewhat Communistic. However, I do not think that is the case, and as far as I am concerned I have never seen the slightest indication the government has ever sought to use the medium of the school books for any such purposes."

And so on it went as we met more of the leaders of the community until train time.

Hail Insurance Committee to Meet Soon to Consider Grower Replies

Another session of the hail insurance committee to consider future steps in implementing a B.C. FGA annual convention resolution calling for adoption of hail insurance throughout the tree fruit area on a contract basis will be called shortly, J. R. J. (Jock) Stirling, B.C.FGA president, told the annual growers meeting in the IOOF hall Friday night.

This is of special interest to Summerland as the main body of the resolution emanated from this local. Councillors C. E. Bentley and Eric Tait are members of this industry-wide committee.

President Stirling urged all growers to fill out the cards recently sent out in the mail as only by so doing would the hail committee know that a sufficient number of producers are interested in the scheme.

A representative of Lloyd's of London was in the valley last Friday and Saturday conferring with industry heads.

Standard Packing

Mr. Stirling also spoke of the discussion on packing regulations which ensued at the Canadian Horticultural Council sessions in the east. After a full day, it was agreed that, if possible, the B.C. extra fancy, fancy and cee grades should be adopted in all parts of Canada.

The growers' proxy also attended a conference at Victoria to blueprint the natural resources of B.C. After reviewing B.C.'s natural resources "it makes you proud to be a British Columbian," he declared, instancing many of the resources in which B.C. leads the nation.

He dealt shortly with the negotiations underway between the industry and labor which are endeavoring to tie in industry wages with current trends in prices and the cost to the grower to produce. A formula has been brought forward but has not been accepted yet by the labor union, and there it rests, he stated.

G. A. Barrat's talk on this subject is given in another column.

Mr. Stirling urged the growers to take care of their boxes as it is imperative that only clean boxes be used.

"Using quality fruit in dirty boxes is the same as offering chocolates in a dirty container," he declared, urging the growers to become "box conscious", as boxes now cost 33 1/4 cents.

He congratulated the growers on getting their fruit to the packing houses in record time after picking.

In conclusion, he pointed out that B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. "has all the answers about the industry" and is "doing a wonderful job". He urged growers who do not understand problems of the industry or the reasons why certain regulations are insisted upon to contact the sales agency and the answer will be forthcoming.

New Opalescent Apple Juice Using Macs is Expected to Invade U.S. Pacific Marts

A. G. DesBrisay, president of B.C. Fruit Processors Ltd., spoke optimistically of the possibilities of the fruit juice industry to the small meeting of Summerland growers gathered at the IOOF hall on Friday evening.

Of the 1948 crop, 18,000 tons of apples have been processed, and from this supply 375,000 cartons of apple juice and 750,000 pounds of dehydrated apples have been handled, besides some 60,000 gallons of vinegar and apple pulp for jelly making and apple butter.

These figures were not quoted accurately but are a rough approximation, as the official year end for this grower owned and operated company does not come until May 31.

Could Use CEE Grade

Mr. DesBrisay was optimistic in his view of the future of this by products industry and stated that if a proportion of the cee grade crop could not be handled on the fresh fruit market then B.C. Fruit Processors would be prepared to take these apples for processing, presumably in place of culls.

He pointed out that the value to the producer would not only be in the return to the grower from the sale of the finished processed article but also in the taking off the fresh fruit market of undesirable grades which would tend to force down the price and disrupt the markets.

The processing company head declared that the clear juice and the newer applelime juice are both building up big markets, 50,000 cartons of the latter having been processed in the past season.

A new juice is now reaching the market from the Kel plant. This is an entirely new process and involves mainly McIntosh apples, with some blending of Jonathans. This is the opalescent apple juice.

Cee grade Macs make the best juice for this type of apple drink, even better than by using extras and fancy grades.

No other apples can be used in this manufacture and British Columbia is the only section in Canada which grows McIntosh in large commercial quantities. Only a portion of the United States, a section of New York state, grows McIntosh in large quantities.

Has Clear Field

Thus throughout the Pacific Coast, the new apple juice has a complete field to itself with the result that a brokerage firm in Wenatchee has contracted to take the new opalescent apple juice and sell it under an attractive label named William Tell.

It has taken quite a time to develop this new manufacture and get the "bugs" out of it, Mr. DesBrisay explained, but the future of the juice is bright. The Wenatchee company is greatly enthusiastic over the possibilities, he stated.

In Canada, the William Tell label will not be used but all three types of apples juice will be manufactured under the Sun Rype label. The green label is for applelime, the blue for clear juice and a new red label is coming out for the opalescent type.

The processing group is also experimenting with a 10-ounce can which might become popular in refreshment stands, dining cars and concessions. It is hoped the new can will retail for ten cents.

"We don't think the western Canada market has been completely worked yet," Mr. DesBrisay explained, and it is hoped to invade the Winnipeg market with the new juice. It had not been possible to compete with eastern manufacturers in this market due to cheaper freight rates.

He asked the growers to remember that they are building something which has a promising outlook. In answer to a query, he declared that experiments are being made with a view to providing an apple juice which can be mixed with soda and served at fountains. This would be in the form of an apple cola.

Link Wage Rate With Ability to Pay—Barrat

George A. Barrat who, besides being chairman of the B.C. Fruit Board, is also a member of the industry labor committee, explained to the small growers' meeting Friday night at the IOOF hall that an attempt is being made to link the basic wage rate in the industry to the growers' ability to pay.

Working on the possible formula the committee has only taken apples as its basis of negotiation.

He pointed out that in working out the formula the previous year's return for apples must be considered. In 1947 the average return was $2.24 per box, from the central sales agency, while the 1948 return is expected to approximate this figure. However, this will not be known for another couple of weeks.

Mr. Barrat's committee's formula is somewhat complex but mainly it is based on the variation of returns to the growers in proportion to the amount of labor which went into the box of apples.

If there was a decline of ten cents per box from one year to another, and labor was estimated at one-third of the cost, then the decline in the basic wage rate would be three cents, he declared.

However, a further factor is being considered, that of the average growing cost. Dominion statisticians are in the valley now making an attempt to find an average per box cost to the grower.

This average cost will be related to the Bureau of Statistics cost of living and the variation of the latter, in relation to the average cost, will also be considered in arriving at the wage formula, he declared.

In five years' time, another survey to determine cost of producing a box of apples will be sought, Mr. Barrat declared.

Two Provincial Awards Come to Summerland Women's Institute; Being Judged for Dominion Honors

Women's Institute Rally Given Golden Key

A rousing welcome was given those attending the Women's Institute rally at Osoyoos last Friday, first by the banner stretched high across the street, then at the opening session by Mr. J. C. Armstrong, chairman of the Osoyoos board of commissioners, who presented the chairman, Mrs. A. K. Macleod, with a large golden key, purporting to open any door in Osoyoos, and with the suggestion that it be used as a gavel for the meetings.

This was followed by the presentation of a proclamation of safety protection during the convention's visit.

Mr. MacDonald, president of the board of trade, spoke briefly in welcoming the group, stating that Osoyoos was known as the "white town" because of its white stucco houses, and the aim was to keep it looking fresh and clean.

Mrs. P. Simpson, president of Osoyoos institute also brought greetings, with Mrs. M. Gawne, Naramata, responding for the delegates.

Others on the platform included Mrs. Gummow, B.C. superintendent of institutes, Mrs. J. H. East, provincial president, and Mrs. C. C. Strachan, rally secretary.

The address given by Mrs. Stella Gummow, superintendent of Women's Institutes for B.C. was heard with interest Thursday afternoon by the 150 women who had come from all parts of the southern Okanagan to the district rally at Osoyoos.

As head of the 212 Institutes in the province she sometimes felt like the "old woman who lived in the shoe", and wondered which of her charges she should visit first. The South Okanagan was of special interest as Peachland had been her home for many years, and she considered it her own district.

It was her pleasure to announce that in the Tweedsmuir competitions, two first prizes had been won in this district, and both by Summerland Institute.

The three Tweedsmuir cups were donated by Lady Tweedsmuir during her term as wife of the governor-general for annual competition.

One is for a village history, one for a hooked rug of typical Canadian design, and the third for an essay of a thousand words, with the subject, "Our Women's Institute takes a Forward Look".

There were no entries for the history essay from the South Okanagan. First and second prizes for this were won by Telkwa and Littleford on the North Thompson. They have been obtained by the provincial archives.

Two First Prizes
First prize for the rug was captured by Mrs. T. C. Orr of Summerland. The design was of a garden with bright colored flowers, evergreen trees, and a stone wall. The workmanship was very fine, and the colors very pretty. Second went to the Institute at Cedar, B.C.

First for the essay was won by that submitted from the Summerland Institute, written by Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh. Second place was taken by Pemberton, B.C.

These entries go on for Dominion competition, and are being judged at Saskatoon, Sask.

Mrs. Gummow urged that all societies represented concentrate on Institute work, which is carried on under the headings of agriculture, citizenship, home economics, handicrafts and industries, and social welfare.

The W.I. scholarship fund with its aim of $10,000 has reached the sum of $7,600, and it is expected to make the first award this fall.

It will be given annually to help educate a rural girl at the provincial university.

The Othia Scott fund for crippled boys and girls is helping children every year. It is also a trust fund of $10,000, which has been established for many years.

The superintendent specially recommended short courses by trained leaders sent out from UBC, Miss Jean Travis, who has often visited Summerland, and stayed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Mann, and Miss Eileen Cross are teachers, who come to give expert help. These courses give enjoyment to many women, build up hobbies, and are an outlet for energy, and expression, often merging into home industries.

Need for dentists is felt throughout the province and in rural areas particularly, she said. There is no dentist between Kimberley and Revelstoke, or in the large district between Prince Rupert and Burds Lake. A survey is being made at present by the Public Health department.

Citizenship has as its responsibility taking into Canadian homes and hearts, women of all nations, in every way that it is possible. "We can carry out the practical side of this throughout Canada, by being good neighbors, and making new citizens feel welcome," she emphasized.

Fortieth Birthday
This September it will be 40 years since the first institute was organized in B.C. Summerland and Penticton were among those set up at that time. Tribute was paid to the work of the late Mrs. Lipsett, who will be remembered by many here, and who was on the first provincial advisory board. She was a leader of great inspiration, and businesslike in her methods.

"We should live up to her record, and those of other women of that time," Mrs. Gummow stated. The work of the institute is primarily educative, and for community and home betterment.

Mrs. Raymond Sayre, an American, is the national representative, at present in Germany. It is for all institutes to pro-more better understanding and good will between women of all countries.

There were brief addresses from Mrs. East provincial president, and from Mrs. P. Simpson, president Osoyoos.

Resolutions included one from Summerland which was unanimously passed to the effect that each institute set up a program to encourage good reading.

Automatic Phone System Delayed

ARMSTRONG — After many months of unavoidable delay, last Monday morning saw the commencement of the installation of the central office equipment at the local telephone exchange which will furnish residents of Armstrong and district with automatic telephone service.

Originally scheduled for last September, delays were encountered which caused considerable embarrassment to the Okanagan Telephone Company's officials as well as inconvenience to many subscribers in and around Armstrong. Housed in the hollow tile and concrete building erected at the rear of the present telephone exchange, this equipment having a capacity of 400 lines, is of the very latest design and will, it is anticipated serve the district for many years to come.

Mr. Ken Young has gone to Williams Lake where he will work with Mr. Robert Stewart, formerly of Kelowna, who has bought a ranch there.

Summerland Citizens See Modern Plant When Renovated Elementary School is Thrown Open to Public

Parents and other interested citizens who toured the enlarged and renovated Summerland elementary school yesterday afternoon expressed the unanimous sentiment that both the planning which went into the alterations and the actual job of construction has been well done.

The building has been occupied in its entirety since April 1, but the finishing touches were only completed last week. Yesterday was Open House day at the elementary school when Principal S. A. MacDonald and school trustees escorted the visitors through the bright, cheery building.

Principal work undertaken was the addition, on the south side of four new classrooms, two on the ground floor and two on the upper storey. Also on the ground level is a playground space for the primary youngsters, which will be invaluable for the tiny tots when the weather is such that playing out of doors is impossible.

Cost of renovating and enlarging the old school amounted to nearly $90,000 and the entire job was undertaken by the Bennett & White construction company of Vancouver. Subcontracts were let to some Summerland firms, the Summerland Sheet Metal & Plumbing Works undertook the plumbing contract, plastering was sublet to Charles Nesbitt and Mel Cousins undertook the painting contract.

Even with the addition of four new classrooms, the elementary is still crowded, with six rooms on the second storey, six on the ground floor and two basement rooms.

Use Basement Rooms
Until the new proposed junior-senior high school is erected, the basement rooms will have to be utilized. The teachers have made these basement rooms as attractive as possible for the young pupils, but they are still basement rooms and are not the most desirable accommodation for students who spend a considerable portion of their daytime hours in these rooms.

Every room is crowded as the school population continues to increase. In one ten-day period recently, there were fourteen newcomers enrolled in the elementary school, giving an indication of the changes which are occurring in local population.

Besides the classrooms, on the main floor a nurse's room for the public health nurse has been incorporated in the plans, while a new assembly room for lady teachers is fitted with comfortable furnishings for the staff members during their few leisure moments of recess, etc.

A similar room for the male staff is incorporated in the second floor while an administrative suite includes public office, stenographer's office, principal's office and stationery room.

Display cabinets lighted with small fluorescent units, have been built into corner space in both main corridors to hold cups, trophies and other awards which come the way of elementary school pupils or for the entire school.

A complete fire alarm system is installed in the building, with bells on both floors and numerous stations where alarms can be sounded. A fire escape has also been installed to provide easy exit for pupils on the top floor.

The entire plumbing system has been renovated and two new toilets for the primary pupils have been added. A new hot water tank has been added in the basement and other provisions made to lessen the tasks of the caretakers, such as the installation of refuse shafts connecting each floor and terminating in one common container in the basement.

Each new room in the school is equipped with a sink, which is proving a handy arrangement.

In the attic, a huge fan has been installed to draw off the spent air and refresh the rooms. Each room has a ventilator which is connected by ducts to this motor-operated fan.

Acoustic Tile
To deaden sounds and provide for clearer enunciation, acoustic tile has been installed on all the classroom ceilings. This modernization has proved quite effective already and is a decided acquisition to the classrooms.

The playshed area is divided into big rooms, with 18-foot doors which will swing open during the warm weather. The floor is covered with hard surfacing and windows are set high enough so that there is little danger of any breakage.

Primary pupils can romp to their heart's content, play games and take part in organized exercises without being affected by the contingencies of the weather. Playsheds for primary youngsters are recommended highly by the department of education as a valuable adjunct to the ordinary teaching course.

Five pastel shades, green, blue, yellow, cream and peach, were selected for the classrooms, with white ceilings. These light shades not only provide an attractive appearance but are also inclined to present less eyestrain for the occupants of the room.

In two of the new rooms, cloak-rooms with doors operating jointly on a swivel basis have been installed.

Fluorescent lighting is installed in every classroom, with the units operating in quarters, so that the entire lighting system does not have to be operated unless there is a need.

Brown Battleship linoleum has been laid in every room, in all corridors and on the stairways. Metal nosing to prevent accidents on the stairs has also been laid.

Veneer four feet above the baseboard provides the dado in the hallways. All new woodwork has been treated with a natural finish

School Libraries Create Interest Among Students

Some of the latest and most interesting books for children, are in the elementary school library. Each room has a library of its own, and in the higher grades a pupil librarian keeps the records.

It has been the aim of the teachers to obtain books of a high-grade and to enlist reader interest by this choice. Many volumes are illustrated in color, and are chosen to suit the different grades. There are adventure stories, historical books, nature study told in vivid style, and books on people and ways of living in other countries.

Magazines for teacher-reading with suggestions for hand work and art, as well as short plays and stories are chosen by the staff, and come to the school each month.

Nurse's Office On Ground Floor

In the renovated school the offices of the public health nurse are downstairs, thus eliminating the necessity of mother and child, or children, having to climb the stairs to see the nurse.

It is not expected that baby clinics will be held at the school now, but school inoculations, and treatments having to do with school children will be conducted in the nurses rooms.

The public health department has installed a special telephone for the use of the public health nurse.

which lightens the interior considerably. In the rooms, tack boards and blackboards cover the walls, all available space being reserved for "pin ups", especially in the lower grades.

Careful planning went into the redesigning of the elementary school and everyone connected with the project feels satisfied that the ratepayer got full value for his money in the renovated building.

By adding four classrooms and modernizing the old plant, Summerland has a modern elementary school which will suffice for many years at an expenditure far below that for new classroom space.

MAN WITH A $20,000 KIT OF TOOLS

British Columbia is unusual. So many of its jobs are in "heavy industry". This means someone must spend money on heavy, expensive tools of production.

A carpenter or mechanic going on the job provides his own kit of tools. But no one says to the logger "Bring along your own railway locomotive and steam shovel—" or to the miner "don't forget your diesel compressor and pneumatic rock drill, Joe!"

The savings of thousands of investors provide such tools. Take the case of the miner. In many a B. C. mine so much in savings is at risk that it amounts to more than $20,000 for each employee on the job. So each miner, you might say, carries a $20,000 kit of tools.

In the pulp and paper industry the cost of making jobs is higher still — more than $30,000 a job.

We in B. C. need more and more venture capital — money willing to wait years for its return. But risk money will only come if it is confident that British Columbia is going to continue to be a well-governed province giving investors a square deal as it has done in the past.

Many Are Veterans!

Several hundred university graduates and undergraduates are now looking for job openings—the graduates seeking an opportunity for a permanent career and the undergraduates seeking summer employment.

Many are war veterans—some with family responsibilities.

Among British Columbia's graduates are 300 engineers in civil, electrical, mechanical and other categories; 185 in commerce; 45 in agriculture; 10 in agricultural engineering; and 45 in arts.

If you can employ a graduate or can offer summer employment to an undergraduate, please phone or write the Executive and Professional Liaison Officer at your nearest NATIONAL EMPLOYMENT SERVICE office NOW.

Army Cadets to Spend Two Weeks At Vernon Camp

VERNON—The Vernon army will again be the scene of military activity but this time it will be on a much smaller scale with the accent on sports and outdoor training.

Some 500 army cadets, between 14 and 18 years old, from British Columbia and Alberta, will attend a two-week summer camp which is slated to open the first week in July. The boys will be billeted in army barracks which are being prepared at the present time. They will receive instruction in general cadet work from permanent force and reserve army personnel.

Each morning will begin with a short church service before the cadets are put through their syllabus. Some of the phases of training will include courses in driving, mechanics, radio, and especially plenty of sports and recreational courses.

Directly following the cadet camp, a trades training period for boys wishing to remain behind will be held. The courses will be for a duration of 1 weeks and consist of specialized cadet training.

Practically every trade will be covered with certain ones receiving particular attention. The instructions will follow along the lines of the summer camp.

The instructional group will consist of army personnel and civilians, who will conduct some of the trade courses.

Boys attending the camp and trades training will surely gain a great benefit. Not only will they have a general knowledge of the different vocations of life, but also they will receive the physical benefits of sport and outdoor life presented only in the Okanagan.

The Best Government B.C. Ever Had

BYRON I JOHNSON
Premier of B.C.

HON H ANSCOMB
Minister of Finance

In war and peace—for eight years British Columbia has prospered in the hands of a Coalition of the Liberal and Conservative parties. Your Coalition government embodies the best policies of both parties and their representatives. It has been the best government in British Columbia's entire history!

Greater British Columbia development than ever before has been achieved—social services, public works, education, public power, municipal help and other programmes of an outstanding nature are in effect. Your Coalition government stands on its record of achievement and promise. It offers itself for re-election so that it may continue its sound administration of British Columbia's affairs.

Here are the principal features of the Coalition record:

HOSPITALIZATION—Worry and anxiety of hospital bills has been banished in British Columbia. Hospitals have been adequately financed—there is no further need for public assistance.

ROADS—A thirty million dollar highway building programme is underway—350 miles of main highway will be paved this year—the magnificent Hope-Princeton highway will be open by Labor Day—the Pine Pass Highway will open up the Peace River district of B. C.—thus bringing another section of the province into land communication with the coast.

EDUCATION—British Columbia now has the most advanced educational policy in Canada—its school teachers receive the highest average salaries. Vast improvements to school buildings and equipment have been made—half the cost of new schools is paid for by the government—school books are provided free up to the 6th grade and rental for nominal amounts up to grade 12.

PUBLIC POWER—Electric power from Government plants is supplied in 20 districts from Duncan, V.I. to Dawson Creek, Peace River. Power development at Campbell River not only serves the people of that district but has assured the establishment of new industries such as pulp and paper plants at Alberni, Nanaimo and elsewhere.

SOCIAL SERVICES—British Columbia is the most progressive province in social welfare—old age pensions are the highest in Canada. British Columbia was the first to augment federal old age pensions.

TRADE & INDUSTRY—British Columbia is Canada's third largest industrial province! Your Coalition government set up the British Columbia research council—brought the Columbia Cellulose Company here—interested the Aluminum Company of Canada in surveys totalling $2,000,000.00 and a contemplated $300,000,000.00 expansion program in British Columbia. Your Coalition government has an industrial and trade representative in London—a Regional Development division of the Department of Trade and Industry.

FLOOD CONTROL—Under the Fraser Valley Dyking Board the emergency programme is now 85% complete. $6,000,000.00 has already been provided by the Provincial and Federal governments.

MUNICIPAL FINANCIAL AID—Your Coalition government has greatly increased its contribution to public services—maintains all hospitals and contributes one-third of new buildings costs—has the best school system in Canada and pays half the cost of new buildings and equipment—contributes more than any province to the teachers' superannuation fund.

THESE ARE JUST A FEW OF THE PROGRESSIVE MEASURES TAKEN BY YOUR COALITION GOVERNMENT FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE PEOPLE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

TO CONTINUE THIS PROGRESS AND RECEIVE THESE INDUSTRIAL, ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL BENEFITS, RETURN TO OFFICE THE EFFICIENT, BUSINESS-LIKE ADMINISTRATION OF THE COALITION GOVERNMENT.

George Henry Turns in Par Game Sunday

George Henry was thrilled with the response for opening day at the renovated Summerland golf club, so much so that he parlayed a par 37 on his second round last Sunday. He was in good form and his game clicked as he led all other golfers in this opening session.

The oiled greens were fast and the course in good shape despite the fact that it has not received much attention since it was closed down during the war years.

Sixteen ladies and some two dozen men were on hand for the day's golfing spree, while another dozen visitors attended for the opening tea served by the lady members in the improved clubhouse.

With such an enthusiastic opening the club expects to have nearly a record season this year, with an ever-increasing membership.

Red Sox Boot Ball Around to Lose Opener to Cubs, 7 to 4

Summerland Red Sox faces are nearly as red as their name today as they limped shamefacedly home from Pentiction after absorbing a 7-4 licking from Pentiction Skaha Lake Cubs last Sunday at the southern town in the opening game of the South Okanagan junior baseball league. The Cubs were finalists last year when the Red Sox won the pennant.

The Red Sox outhit the Cubs 12 to 6, but passed balls, stolen bases and wild pitches, plus errors and dumb plays spelled defeat for the Summerland kids.

Dunham went on the mound for the first three and a third innings, when his control went wild and he was replaced by Gil Jacobs. Getz went the route for the winners.

Kato's double in the first frame scored Francis Gould and put the Red Sox one ahead. It was a short-lived lead, however, as a hit, stolen base, a passed ball and an error on Gould allowed Johnson to romp home for the equalizer.

The second frame proved the deciding factor when the Cubs scored three times, errors by Kato and Dunham, plus two passed balls at the critical moments brought the Cubs roaring around for a 4-1 lead.

Red Sox cut down that difference in the fourth when singles by Gould and Kato and a double by Nesbitt brought in two runs. The Cubs came right back in their half of the fourth when Hill walked, went to second as Getz grounded out, stole third and came home on a wild pitch following another walk for Johnson.

That was all for Dunham and Gil Jacobs took the mound. However, Johnson scored on a passed ball to make the count 6-3 for the Cubs.

Another error by Kato in the fifth paved the way for the Cubs' final tally, Ashley crossing over. The Red Sox rallied in the eighth when singles by Sam Jomori and Kato scored the former, but Jacobs kicked a batted ball and E. Jomori fled out to end the rally.

RED SOX PLAY PEACHLAND HERE

Summerland Red Sox are out to wipe out that 7-4 defeat last Sunday when they meet Peachland in the second game of the junior league schedule at the Living Memorial athletic park here next Sunday afternoon.

Summerland Merchants travel to Peachland in a senior league contest next Sunday and on May 22 they draw a bye. Copper Mountain plays at Rutland and Princeton gets the bye this Sunday.

Last Sunday, in the other senior league contest, Peachland travelled to Princeton with only nine men and took a 22-8 walloping. However, Peachland fans are warning Summerland that that is no criterion of the battle which will ensue when Summerland Merchants play at Peachland this Sunday.

Peachland juniors entertained Pentiction Pirates last Sunday and were soundly trounced by the southern squad. Result of the Naramata-Osoyoos game was not known at presstime.

Girls' Softball is Organizing Here

Girls' softball is being organized for the summer season and the Summerland club expects a league to operate in the South Okanagan about the end of June.

Within a week or ten days a league organization meeting will be held and teams from Pentiction, Osoyoos, Keremeos, Princeton and possibly some Okanagan Valley, Wash., clubs will be invited to participate.

The AOTS club is arranging transportation for these girls and Pete Adams, of the AOTS 'is' also bringing along a junior girls' softball club.

The senior girls' team is being coached by Alex Shriner, assisted by Mr. Adams. Practices are to be held on Monday and Thursday evenings at the school grounds.

This team has selected Pat Broderick as secretary-treasurer, while a team captain will be chosen later.

Mr. G. G. Peters, of the Peter Pan Toggery, has offered to sponsor the girls and provide new uniforms for this season's play.

Hawk Joins Game But Plays for Keeps

VERNON—Three little boys and a sharp shinned hawk all go the surprise of their young lives on Monday afternoon.

Alec Goodenough, Don Cameron and Jimmy Mackie were playing "pitch and catch" in the Lavington school yard during their afternoon recess. One of the boys missed a catch and the small sponge ball rolled behind the lad and through some lush grass.

All of a sudden, literally out of the blue, swooped the small hawk. His talons gripped the ball and he sped away, probably already tasting the "delicious morsel" clutched in his claws. What a shock he got!

The boys were so astonished, they didn't realize the ball was theirs no longer.

Merchants Go Wild in Eighth To Beat Rutland 9-7 in Opener

Exploding all over the lot in the eighth frame, Summerland Merchants pounded out six runs as W. Mallach was driven from the mound, winning the opening game of the Interior Baseball league season by a 9-7 score. Rutland was leading 6-3 from the fifth frame on but the Merchants at last found the secret to Mallach's hurling and proceeded to shatter that gentleman severely.

It was a game of errors, many hits, some fool baseball and some good baseball. In fact, it was a typical season opener with the pitching not up to standard of last season and the support wobbly, as well.

Al Coffey was on the mound for the victors and showed a marked improvement over the previous exhibition game. Given some more practice, he should prove a real asset to this season's club.

Wally Day, behind the bat, was nervous and allowed five passed balls mar his game and, incidentally, mar the score sheet considerably as they meant runs scored.

At shortstop, Furuya, just back from college, filled in nicely with Schwab at second. However, Furuya needs more practice and when Walsh reported his sprained wrist to be back in shape he went in at the keystone sack, Schwab switching to the short position. Chuck Brawner at third handled six chances without hesitation.

It was John Vanderburgh who broke up the ball game after Schonberger, Rutland's first-sacker, dropped the ball on a cinch double play and a third out. He connected into short left on a hard-driven ball which bounced over the fielder's head and went for two bases, clearing the sacks ahead.

That was all for Mallach, Truitt replacing him and walking the first two men to fill the sacks once more. Day lined one directly through the centre of the infield to score Vanderburgh and Taylor for the final tallies for Summerland.

At the first part of the scoring, in that fatal eighth inning, with the bases loaded, Mallach wild pitched, hitting Kuroda and forcing in the Merchants' fourth run.

In the second, Rutland went two up due to some dumb baseball. With two on Rausser hit between second and first. Coffey, Schwab and Vanderburgh all went for the slow rolling pill, Vanderburgh got it, but Coffey failed to get to first ahead of the runner. In the resulting confusion, the runners from third and second scored, much to the fans' disgust.

But the Merchants came back in the third with three tallies and took a temporary lead. Singles by Schwab and Day and two costly Rutland infield errors paved the way for these counters.

But in the fourth, three singles and an error in right field brought across three Rutland runs, so the visitors went ahead 5-3. In the fifth, another passed ball episode cost Summerland another run.

There was no further action until the eighth when Mallach, who had been weakening first, gave up the ghost and the Merchants ploughed around the circuit.

The game wasn't quit over then as Brummet whaled out a beautiful triple to score Auch ahead of him in the first of the ninth, but he died there as Schonberger grounded out.

Jack Amm on Winning UBC Team

Jack Amm, Summerland UBC student, was a member of the sprint medley relay team which broke the record for this event at the St. Martin's College track and field meet at Olympia, Wash., last Saturday, with teams from the Evergreen conference competing.

The four-man UBC squad flashed over the course in 8:37, bettering the mark of 8:55 which was set by Pacific Lutheran last year.

With Amm on the winning team were Alexander, Turner and Glover. Jack Amm is a son of Mrs. C. J. Amm.

On April 30, Jack Amm was a member of the UBC track team which competed against four other Pacific Northwest universities at Bellingham. The fleet-footed Summerland athlete placed second in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

CHLORINATOR COMPLETE

That the chlorinator is working well since the installation of the final piece of equipment, the adaptor, which has held up final completion of the plant for many months, Water Foreman E. Kercher states. On Tuesday, the council ordered payment of the Shanahan's Ltd account for this piece of equipment, a sum of $4,255.

Hilborn Lake Pump Under Fire Again

Water Foreman E. Kercher informed the council on Tuesday that he would not be given the "run around" as happened last year in connection with the Hilborn Lake water pump. He declared that he would give it reasonable care but "after that I'm through".

Mr. Kercher explained that the pump had been installed originally to protect the municipal road and to assist surrounding property owners in reclaiming land by creating drainage ditches. However, no attempt has been made to reclaim the land, he stated.

At a previous meeting it was stated that irrigation water is allowed to flow indiscriminately, with the result that more water flows into the area than the pump can handle.

Three of the property owners had been interviewed by Councilor H. L. Wilson, who reported that they would co-operate. He intends to continue his investigation and seek co-operation of all owners in the area. The pump will be started, when needed, but if water is allowed to flow into the lake in excessive quantities the situation will be reviewed by the council.

Flood Danger in B.C. Recedes As Water Content Drops Down

"The danger of floods in the Okanagan has been alleviated somewhat by the dry, mild April, but there is still a possibility of local flooding occurring," declared the May 1 British Columbia snow survey bulletin, issued by the water rights branch of the department of lands and forests, which was received here on Monday.

"The picture throughout the province at the end of April is good," the general report indicates. "The snow melt is progressing satisfactorily in all areas and the runoff seems to be earlier than it was last year. Most of the low snow has disappeared from the hills. The danger of floods seems to have passed, as long as normal temperatures and precipitations prevail.

"It is possible, however, that local flooding may occur in some areas, especially the Okanagan where some streams are in freshet now. Soil moisture seems to be below normal.

Dealing with the Okanagan alone, the report states that the average water content of the snow cover at the end of April is lower than at this time in any of the past three years.

"The snow melt in this area is proceeding satisfactorily, the average water content being 39 percent of that at the end of March.

"The level of Okanagan lake is slightly higher than it was at this time last year and the creeks are now in freshet, which indicates that the runoff is somewhat earlier than it was last year.

"Almost all of the snow below the 4,000-foot level has disappeared and there is little frost left in the ground.

"Temperatures have been above normal in this area, while the precipitation for April has been below normal at McCulloch and Osprey lake.

"The danger of floods in the Okanagan has been alleviated somewhat by the dry, mild April, but there is still a possibility of local flooding occurring."

According to the tables reported on May 1, at the 4,700 foot level of Trout Creek there was a snow depth of 16.7 inches, with a water content of 5.2, compared with 7.7 at the same time in 1948 and an average of 6.2.

Precipitation from November 1, 1948 to May 1, 1949, in the Osprey Lake area was recorded at 11.71 inches, plus 0.36 inches from the 10-year normal. In the same period the year before the total precipitation was 12.75 or 1.40 inches above the normal.

Council Adamant In Hydrant Claim

Tom Joy appeared before the council on Tuesday to complain about the $11 charge for repairing the municipal fire hydrant damaged when his car collided with the object recently. He did not think the charge fair as the hydrant is in a hollow and can hardly be seen.

It was pointed out that the hydrant has been used on occasion and there is no provision whereby a hydrant has to be set up at any particular level. The council agreed that the charge was a fair one and declared Mr. Joy would have to pay. He did so before leaving the meeting.

Big Increase In Blood Transfusion

In the first three months of this year, 5,236 citizens of British Columbia received transfusions totaling 6,151 bottles of whole blood, supplied free of charge by the Canadian Red Cross blood transfusion service.

These figures were reported Tuesday by Dr. B. P. L. Moore, acting provincial medical director, at the regular meeting of the provincial blood donor committee. Chairman of this committee is Col. W. G. Swan, OBE.

This is an increase of approximately 1,100 bottles of whole blood and of 1,400 patients for the corresponding period of 1948. There has been a steady increase from January, 1948, to the present time in both the number of bottles used and the number of patients transfused.

Dr. Moore also reported that the provincial blood transfusion centre, in addition to filling its primary purpose of supplying whole blood, dried plasma and administration sets to the hospitals under contract with Red Cross, also provides facilities to any registered medical practitioner for the testing of the blood of expectant mothers with regard to the Rhesus factor. This service is free of charge.

During the first quarter of 1949, 4,631 tests have been performed, with an average of 350 tests per week. Blood specimens are received from doctors in all parts of the province. By means of these tests, warning can be given that the child may be suffering from erythroblastosis fetalis (Rh baby) and measures for treatment can be prepared in advance.

The treatment in each case is a transfusion replacement of the right type of blood at birth.

endeavor to stop these roaming animals and warned that unless their owners take action that the sportsmen will have to call in the assistance of the necessary authorities.

Hunting dogs which are roaming Jones Flat and bench areas right to the lake in search of pheasants and their nests are causing concern among sportsmen locally.

Other packs of dogs, other than hunters, roaming wild have also been brought to the attention of the fish and game club.

On Tuesday evening, President Stoll asked the club members to

Spring Fair Site Hive of Activity as Groups Busy Preparing For Big Show

The Occidental Fruit Co. building is a hive of industry these days as preparations proceed apace for the big Summerland Board of Trade annual Spring Fair on May 23 and 24.

At presstime, nearly all the tag ends of the program had been tied together, and only the necessary alterations to the building were left to be accomplished.

Fifty booths showing retail merchandise, manufactured products, dealers' machinery and appliances and a wide assortment of other displays, have been contracted for and will occupy the entire main floor of the cold storage building, plus space outside the building along the west wall.

Only the downstairs portion of the building is being used, as it was decided to abandon the top floor of the cold storage plant because of the narrow stairways. The main entertainment room has been partitioned off in the packing house portion to the east of the cold storage room.

The program is an extensive one but follows last year's setup to a degree, with a Fashion Show on the opening afternoon, Monday, May 23.

In the evening, at 7.30, the official opening ceremonies and crowning of the May Queen will take place, fuller details of which may be found on Page 1, Section 2, of this issue.

The Summerland Band will be in attendance outside the building from 7 to 7.30 o'clock.

The big hit of the night will be the Variety Show staged by Carl Dunaway and his picked artists mainly from the Kelowna area. The complete list of the artists was not available this morning, but it is known that R. P. (Tiny) Walrod will be amongst those in attendance.

Dance routines, instrumentalists, vocalists and a six-piece orchestra are slated for this affair. The orchestra will play for a jitney dance following the concert.

Games, including bingo and at least one new novelty game not seen here before occupy most of the centre aisle in the cold storage plant, and include an elaborate refreshment booth, as well.

Boy Scouts, AOTS Club, high school, and the Summerland experimental station, are entering interesting exhibits, including the booths, while B.C. Fruit Processors Ltd. will be prominent again this year.

Along the west wall of the packing house, on the outside, three firms are displaying cars, trucks and farm machinery, a new departure from other years.

The Women's Institute tea booth, which will operate both afternoons, is located in the centre aisle, along with the refreshment booths and games.

A novel plan this year is the western style game room, which includes all the game attractions except bingo. Swinging doors and mustachioed operators will greet the visitors.

Tree Fruits Displays Throughout the building, samples of the extensive advertising material used by B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. in promoting sales of the Okanagan tree fruit products will be used as a decorative motif. The huge illuminated panel depicting various phases of the fruit industry, in color, will adorn the wall at one end of the building.

Tuesday afternoon's program consists of a film travelogue, featuring Blake Mine's famous series as well as those taken by "Babe" Kuroda and Sam Imayoshi on their winter trip to Hawaii.

This will be the only afternoon entertainment as the Spring Fair committee did not wish to interfere with the baseball club plans for a big ball tournament at the athletic park, with Rutland and Princeton playing the first game at one o'clock and the winner taking on Summerland at 3:30 o'clock. Tuesday evening, the Summerland Band and Miss Kay Hamilton's choir and other entrants in the musical festival will present an hour and a half concert which is expected to delight music lovers everywhere.

At the conclusion of the concert, the show at the Occidental will shut down and everyone will be urged to attend the windup Spring Fair dance at Ellison hall, where the three Queen Contest prizes will be given away.

Bob Bleasdale is one of the busiest men in town this week, as he has charge of all the alterations and renovations to the building. Les Rumball, in charge of entertainment and stage decoration has had a busy time lining up this attractive program and states that he has enlisted the aid of Stan Gladwell to manage the stage decoration.

Fred Schumann, Alex Watt and Walter Bleasdale are chiefs of the games and refreshments committee. Norman Holmes has been in charge of booth sales and has been kept extremely busy for some weeks on this task. Gerry Laidlaw is chief of advertising and publicity, while Mel Ducommun has had the difficult task of Fair Queen Contest management, Fred Dunsdon, assisted by Don Tait, is looking after the dance arrangements.

Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony has charge of the Fair Queen and her royal party.

The Fashion Show has been arranged by Macil's Ladies' Wear and the Linnea Style Shop, with Macil White and Mrs. Henry Kuhar in charge.

Executive officials of the Spring Fair committee of the board of trade are J. R. Armstrong, chairman; Lorne Perry, secretary; and Jim Mulrhead, treasurer.

KVR Now Using Coquihalla Pass

Last Thursday evening, the first passenger train for nearly three months travelled through the Coquihalla Pass on the Kettle Valley Railway line.

It had been hoped that the pass would be open by May 5, but a week's delay occurred. On Saturday, a washout caused a long delay in arrival of coast trains but the route has been operating satisfactorily since then.

Coast mail now arrives in the post offices here in time for starting prior to the opening of the wickets at 8 a.m., daylight time.

Zoning Bylaw to Be Studied Here

Copies of a draft zoning bylaw as submitted by the town planning commission of the provincial Department of trade and industry have been circulated to members of the board of trade, town planning committee, the board learned last Thursday evening at the IOOF hall in a report from committee chairman, Councillor F. E. Atkinson.

A complete map of the community, dividing it into rural, shopping industrial and residential districts has been handed the committee for its consideration.

Once the committee has studied the details and agreed on the form of the bylaw, the entire subject will be discussed at a monthly board of trade meeting, Councillor Atkinson promised.

Mr. Davis, a representative of the town planning commission, was a recent visitor to Summerland and is expected back in about two months' time.

In discussion Thursday evening, Mr. Atkinson disclosed that for retail outlets, the commission believes 45-foot store frontage is adequate for every 100 population. If more space than that is set aside for a retail shopping zone it will be sparsely filled and present a poor business section, the commission believes.

As a consequence, it is expected that only Granville and Hastings streets will be zoned for business purposes, and Kelley and Pender will not be included.

McDowell Says His Hat is In Ring For Three-Way Fight

There is no doubt now that the federal riding of Yale will see a three-way fight, with Liberal, Progressive Conservative and CCF candidates opposing each other.

This was made known to The Review late Thursday afternoon by C. J. McDowell, Vernon garageman, who had just completed a tour of the South Okanagan and Similkameen areas.

Up to that time, conjecture indicated that Mr. McDowell intended to drop out of the race and leave the field clear to the Progressive Conservative and CCF standard-bearers.

Mr. McDowell was selected Liberal candidate at a nominating convention in Penttigon last month, after unsuccessful attempts on the part of some Liberals to shelve the running of a candidate.

"As Liberal candidate I have recently completed a trip to most sections of Yale riding and I am impressed by the fact that the people with whom I talked are convinced that the present Liberal administration has given the country good government and that the people want the opportunity to vote for that government and its extremely capable leader Mr. St. Laurent," Mr. McDowell has declared in a prepared statement. "With a deep appreciation of the responsibility to those who expressed their confidence in me, I am entering this campaign with every intention of contesting it to the utmost of my ability."

Mayor T. R. B. Adams of Vernon is the Progressive Conservative candidate for Yale while O. L. Jones, present MP, is contesting the riding on behalf of the CCF party.

There is some talk that an LFP candidate will be chosen for Yale but no definite announcement has been made.

Drama Stars Given First Place Awards

Not only was the Summerland Singers & Players Club given top rating at the Okanagan zone finals in the B.C. Drama Festival competition held at Oliver last Friday in its presentation of the first act of "I Remember Mama", but two of its stars, Mrs. Ivy Mason and Mr. Alan Butler, were awarded top individuals awards for their character acting.

Mrs. Ivy Mason has been lauded for her fine performance as Mama in this hit play, while the gruff-voiced but lovable Uncle Chris was played by Alan Butler.

Mrs. Jessie Richardson, president of the Vancouver Little Theatre, was adjudicator.

Other competitors were the Vernon Little Theatre presenting Noel Coward's "Fumed Oak" and the Oliver AYPA showing a play entitled "The Best There Is."

Mrs. Richardson, in commenting upon the players from Summerland, praised the changing of scenes, even though more elaborate equipment is called for in the script.

"You could feel the play was real," declared Mrs. Richardson, commenting especially upon the hospital scene as being one of the best enactments.

Make-up was good on the whole and she commented both Mrs. Mason and Mr. Butler for their character acting.

Mrs. Richardson also stated that the Summerland presentation was equal to any of the one-act plays which competed in the B.C. Drama Festival finals at the coast.

Hospital Board Wonders Where Money For Needed Renovations is to be Found Growing pains are being suffered by the Summerland General hospital now that the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service is in full swing. The plant has been occupied to a greater extent than ever before, calling for more nursing staff and an increase in the sub-staff, as well.

As a result, many needed additions and improvements are being considered by the directors of the hospital, which are expected in total to run into several thousand dollars.

Where this money is to come from was the subject of debate at the monthly meeting of hospital directors held on Tuesday evening. Under the hospital insurance setup ordinary operating costs are provided for, but because of debts which mounted alarmingly last year, the hospital has not been able to set aside sufficient funds to meet the new requirements, many of which are classed as capital expenditures.

In the past few years, while the new maternity wing and nurses' home were being considered and constructed, the main portion of the hospital was not kept up to the usual standard.

As a result, last year many expensive alterations were necessary and the hospital board finds itself faced with more work this year for which no funds are available.

It is proposed to list all needed expenditures and discuss the entire question of hospital capital expenditure with Premier Byron Johnson when he comes to Summerland.

Hospital directors believe that a provincial government grant for one-third plus a federal grant of a similar amount might be obtained, provided the municipality will subscribe an equal sum.

Due to the need for more nursing staff, an addition to the new nurses' home looms large on the hospital horizon. At least two more rooms are needed now, while it is considered more economical to build a four-room, two-storey addition if financing can be arranged.

This addition would be built on the south side of the nurses' home, and would cost about $3,000 for the building and another $1,000 to $1,200 for furnishing and equipment.

New Machine Demanded For eighteen months the hospital has been informed that a new diathermy machine must be purchased, according to federal department of transport regulations. This machine is now available from the factory and would cost over $600, after the trade-in allowance on the present machine.

The hospital board has been talking about a new roof, especially on the south side of the plant, for the past ten years. Spring rains this year clearly indicated the necessity of immediate work and an investigation has revealed that the south side shingles are beyond patching.

It would cost $250 to roof the south side while an estimate is being obtained for re-roofing all the main portion of the hospital. The laundry room needs a complete renovation, some directors terming it a disgrace at Tuesday's meeting.

A new stove and further renovations to the kitchen to cope with the added calls on the facilities there are considered essential. The kitchen pantry has been renovated recently but needs a new floor covering. A new hot water boiler and a more adequate telephone system are being considered.

Around the grounds, a cinder receptacle, a woodshed and a routhouse at a combined cost of about $500 have been under consideration for some time.

Another subject which has been held off for the past few years because of lack of funds is a more complete sewage disposal system. Hospital directors stressed on Tuesday that the hospital is now able to care for ordinary operations.

Two Provincial Premiers Will Speak Here

Provincial political campaigns by the Coalition and CCF parties are reaching the stepping up stage as committees start their canvassing of the prospective voters.

Two provincial premiers will come to Summerland before the election date.

CCF Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan is making a brief tour of the province, with one of his six stops being in Summerland on May 31. It is likely that his main address will refute the Saskatchewan Story as it has been appearing in this newspaper.

Mr. Tom Wilkinson, CCF candidate for South Okanagan, will be the second speaker on this occasion.

Premier Byron Johnson and Mrs. Johnson were to have held a public reception at the IOOF hall on Saturday afternoon, June 4. However, this date has been cancelled for the time being, but the premier is expected to appear here at a date to be determined shortly.

On Friday, June 10, Mr. W. A. C. Bennett will make a public appearance on behalf of the Coalition party when he will address a public meeting at Ellison hall.

Provincial voting day is Wednesday, June 15, in all B.C. ridings, while nominations will close next Wednesday, May 25.

Dr. R. C. Palmer Heads Rotary Party to Spokane

Dr. R. C. Palmer, president of the Rotary Club of Summerland, led a party of Rotarians and Rotary Annex to the annual joint Rotary conference at Spokane on May 15, 16 and 17, attended by representatives of clubs in Districts 102 and 103.

The local club president was one of the convention speakers, being given the topic "Rural-Urban Relations."

GARDEN IS BEAUTY SPOT

One of the brightest spots in the community is the rock garden at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Kercher. It is well worth driving that way and stopping a few minutes to see the flame-colored tulips, and the blaze of yellow with contrasting mauve and purple flowers in the rockery.

Another Fifteen Hundred Names Added to South Okanagan Voters List

Nearly fifteen hundred more names have been added to the South Okanagan voters' list since the by-election which was held last November, E. Ross Oatman, registrar of voters, Kelowna, announced this week.

Total for the entire riding now stands at 14,432, whereas last year the list totalled 12,946. In 1945, there were only 8,159 names on this list, which means that there has been an increase of 77 per cent since the last general provincial election.

There were eighty more names added to the West Summerland list since last November, bringing the total here to 1,622 against 1,542 in 1948.

Summerland now has 498, as against 464 in 1948, an increase of 34 names. Kelowna has shown the most rapid increase, going up by 841 names since last November. Kelowna now has 6,512 voters. Rutland has also increased 150.

The only portion of the riding which shows a decrease is Bear Creek, with seven less.

Following is a complete tabulation of the voters' list for South Okanagan:

T.B. Mobile X-Ray Clinic Comes to Summerland For Two Days, June 9-10

Every person from the age of 15 upwards in the Summerland district is being urged to attend the mobile X-ray clinic which will come to this area June 9 and 10.

In those two days, it is hoped to X-ray for tuberculosis at least one thousand Summerland citizens.

This is a free service which is provided by the department of health and welfare in an attempt to diagnose any cases of tuberculosis in their infancy and thus be able to check the ravages of the disease at the start.

Only those persons who are notified directly by the public health nurse to attend the interior travelling clinic which makes more periodic visits to the Summerland hospital are not required to attend the mobile clinic on June 9 and 10.

It is announced by Miss Joan Appleton, public health nurse, that the mobile clinic will be stationed at the IOOF hall on these two days and will be operated from 9 to 12 o'clock each morning and 1 to 3 o'clock each afternoon.

The clinic can accommodate one hundred persons each hour. Visitors do not have to disrobe in order to be X-rayed. All that is required is that the metal cones under the rays, such as might be found on suspenders.

The Rotary Club of Summerland has agreed to canvass the entire district to hand out appointment cards to all citizens, fifteen years of age and over.

If a Rotarian is not able to contact certain persons then they are urged to come to the clinic anyway, as it only takes a few minutes to X-ray a dozen or more people.

School students 15 years and over are being brought to the clinic at a time specially arranged by Miss Appleton.

Spring Fair Days Are Here Again

THIS is a hectic time of the year. Apart from two election campaigns which are beginning to gather steam, Summerland district can look forward now to the annual Spring Fair of the Summerland Board of Trade.

Weeks of careful planning, many committee meetings and generous co-operation has gone into the formative stages of the Spring Fair.

It is really encouraging to note the ready manner in which merchants, dealers, organizations and individuals have swung into line. The success of the fair is assured now and a bumper crowd is expected to pack the Occidental Fruit Co. Ltd. building on May 23 and 24.

An added attraction for the afternoon of May 24, Empire Day, is the baseball tournament with two outside teams competing with the local ball tossers.

All eyes in the Okanagan will be trained on Summerland early next week as Queen Merle receives her crown from Queen Eileen, the 1948 incumbent.

From the time the Fashion Show opens Monday afternoon until the last notes of the dance orchestra die away early Wednesday morning, there will be "something doing" every minute of the time. Apart from the value to those who are displaying their merchandise in an attractive manner to the hundreds who will throng the big converted cold storage plant, this Spring Fair is a wonderful advertising medium for the community.

No other Valley town of comparable size attempts such a big undertaking and many visitors have compared this annual show favorably with the larger Okanagan Industrial Exposition.

The magnitude of the fair can only be realized by those who view it carefully on the two days. It speaks highly for the co-operation which any organization receives on every hand that Summerland is able to produce such a successful two-day event.

It would be well for all citizens to co-operate with the Spring Fair Committee and display flags, bunting and other holiday displays prominently on the two days, but especially on Empire Day, May 24.

A bright, cheery business section would blend well with the holiday spirit which the Spring Fair engenders.

Signifying Nothing

By RUSTICUS

The season approacheth when the voice of the tourist is heard in the land; not that anyone cares much about the voice unless it is accompanied by the clink of tourist dollars shelled out for gasoline or sirloin steak or high-priced souvenirs.

For the next few months all Canada will be very tourist conscious; and not a few voices have been raised locally to the effect that we in Summerland are not doing much to attract said tourists.

Why should we? Because we have beautiful scenery to share with visitors, say some. Because we should be friendly with people from the East and South, say others. Both of which are true; only what kind of reception would we give to tourists who came only to be friendly or to see the scenery and without plenty of money to spend?

Alas, our Canadian attitude toward tourists, encouraged by both provincial and Dominion governments, seems to be too often an undignified, money-grubbing "Gimme. Store windows in tourist resorts like Victoria are filled with tourist bait, cabins and hotels and petrol stations offer as many high-priced services as possible, fishing and hunting guides have no time for neighbors of moderate means when there are rich American or Easterners to be milked—pardon me, catered to.

No wonder a prominent Eastern writer in a recent public speech blasted Canada's attitude toward tourists as a "prostitution of all our natural resources." Oddly, my daily newspaper carried only a very brief account of his speech.

Are we in Canada in danger of getting a little too eager for tourist dollars? Are we in danger of losing more than we gain? Our resources of fish and game are rapidly being depleted—ask any sportsman—by non-resident anglers and hunters. Many of our most disastrous forest fires are caused by tourist carelessness. Every tourist season brings a sharp increase in deaths and injuries from car accidents. And the demand for more and better roads for our precious tourists is draining enormous sums from the public purse every year.

Add to that the loss of leisure, too often the compromise with honesty and fair prices, made by those who are in the tourist business, and what is our over-all profit in the long run? If there is any, it is limited to a small portion of the population; the rest pay them for it in higher road taxes and the destruction of fish, game and forests.

What advantage would it be to the fruit growers of Summerland, or the packing-house workers either, to have more tourist cars roaring along our highways to increase the dangers to casual traffic and playing children? Or to have carloads of strangers breaking off branches of cherries, 'cots, and peaches as they pass through our orchard country?

A few of our business men might make a little more. But it is an uncertain income at best, and many have already indicated that they prefer their leisure to the overtime hours of work which tourist catering demands.

Not that any of us want to be inhospitable. Any visitor from any other part of the world who is genuinely interested in our district and our fruit industry or our scenery should be, and I think is, very welcome. But the type of tourist that brings the greedy glitter into avaricious eyes—the rich visitors arrogant with dollars who have no eye for our scenery but try to make every road a speedway, who are too busy demanding all the comforts of home and criticising any lack of them to learn anything new about any other district—if we never see any of them in Summerland I cannot see that it would be the slightest misfortune.

Banks compete to serve the most diversified needs, no matter how specialized any of them may be... personal, business, or farm loans, money transfers, collections—to name just a few.

More than 95 out of 100 bank loan applications are decided "right in the field"—in the branches—by bank managers who take a personal interest in serving their customers' individual requirements.

Going to your bank is not like having to deal with a state bureau—but that's how it would be under state monopoly.

Work on the irrigation system last fall and this spring has amounted to $22,000 of the $35,000 by-law money voted for this purpose. Cost of meals in the construction camps was 87 cents per meal, being made up of 58 cents for food and supplies and 11 cents for cooks and helpers wages. The present high price of meats and all other foods was blamed for this extreme cost.

It will be possible to increase the efficiency of the irrigation system while the water is flowing, as so much has been accomplished already, states Engineer A. W. Fawkes. Before the supply to Jones Flat can be increased greatly the old siphon across Garnet Valley must be replaced by a larger one.

The pressing need of more classroom accommodation is rapidly reaching an acute stage owing to the steady increase in school age population due to influx of settlers here. A new and larger building will be absolutely necessary in the immediate future for the consolidated school.

Mr. E. B. May, Bank of Montreal manager, is being transferred to the superintendent's office in Vancouver.

R. L. Miles, a negro, has been committed for trial at the Spring Assizes on a charge of murdering two Indians, Kalamalka and Alex. Paul, by supplying them with wood alcohol.

Mr. Jack Amm arrived here Sunday evening from UBC to spend the summer with his mother, Mrs. C. J. Amm. He drove a car in for Mr. Frank Pollock.

Story No. 4

This is the fourth in the series of five articles on The Saskatchewan Story, as written specially for the Powell River News and offered to other weekly newspapers in B.C. by that paper. Mr. Jones has concluded his tour of the prairie province.

"Democratic socialism."

That was the term I heard most from the lips of adherents of socialism in Saskatchewan to describe the present policies of the government of that province.

My own investigations, however, into the manner in which the government's doctrines are being put into actual practice in the realm of its own state-controlled enterprises, have led me to the conviction that the situation which has developed is neither democratic nor truly socialist.

Instead I found it to be bureaucratic, coercive and flagrantly deceptive.

I think you will agree that the conditions we find existing in these operations may be expected to be found, to a lesser or greater degree, in the government's other ventures in the field of state control.

"Most Advanced Plan"

But lest some of my readers begin to feel that I am too prone to point up the government's failures, let us look first at the government's second most profitable crown corporation, the Saskatchewan government insurance office, and its favorite offspring which is touted as the "world's most advanced automobile insurance plan."

Provincial Treasurer, C. M. Fines on March 1 stated in an annual report that "over a quarter of a million dollars in surplus has been earned by the insurance office since its inception" and that "during 1948 the insurance office experienced its greatest year yet, as premium income topped $1,200,000 and increases were noted in all lines of general insurance business."

Of the automobile accident insurance in 1948 he said premiums written up until the end of the year amounted to $1,544,488 while the claims incurred amounted to $1,205,631, and since the inception of the act in 1947 a surplus of about $1,000,000 had been built up.

All of which is quite splendid until one remembers that the insurance office has achieved a great measure of its success through compulsory measures, in the field of general insurance as well as in automobile insurance, since all schools, hospitals, and other public institutions must insure with the government office.

It is this cudgel of compulsion that is creating a condition far more dangerous to the economic picture of the whole province than the mere success or failure of an insurance plan.

No one, least of all the private insurance companies, mind the government being in the insurance business, but the power it wields by which it can compel the people to dance to its tune is one of the clearest indications of the lurking dangers of totalitarianism.

Here, in fact, lies the crux of the whole conflict between the two ideologies of free enterprise and state monopoly with its attendant abuses and destruction of personal freedom.

A hotelkeeper in one of the larger cities was visited by a government inspector one morning. After looking over the hotel's beer parlor he gave it a clean bill of health.

"Some Decision!"

As he was about to depart, however, he turned to the hotelkeeper and said:

"By the way, one of the government insurance agents told me this morning he was going to drop in this afternoon and have a chat with you." The hotelman insisted he didn't want to do any more business with the government insurance agent.

The inspector then informed him that perhaps he had been a little hasty in giving the hotel a clean bill of health and suggested that he might like to change his mind about the insurance. Then he walked out.

What would you do if you were that hotelman? Buy some government insurance or lose your beer license?

It is believed by many insurance experts in Saskatchewan that the government office cannot keep going the way it is "pulling rates out of the thin air" and maintain that rate structure for an indefinite period.

Lacking in experience, it appears that the government agents just quote a rate about 10 percent less than the private companies and where they can't get a comparison to work on, just fix their own rate without any thought to actuarial accuracy.

A government agent on one occasion was asked how he arrived at a certain rate he quoted, his questioner pointing out that based on the rate quoted the government couldn't do anything else but lose money on it.

"It doesn't really matter," nonchalantly replied the agent, "The government's got lots!"

There are endless incidents which point out the lack of a sound understanding of insurance that can bring only one inevitable result, but the classic example occurred in Regina when insurance was parcelled out following completion of a large garage building.

The garage owner gave similar blocks of insurance to the board companies and one non-board company.

One of the board companies sent in its policy stating its premium rate for three years, but when the non-board company's policy arrived the garageman found the premiums were exactly one-third the amount quoted by the other company.

However, it was soon ascertained that the stenographer in the non-board company office had made a mistake and typed in the figure for an annual rate instead of that for the three-year period.

When the government agent dropped in to see the garageman, the latter pointed out the non-board company's erroneous policy which still lay on his desk.

"That's the premium the company is charging," he said. "Can the government match that rate?"

"Oh, we'll do better than that," blithely replied the agent. "We'll beat that by 10 percent!"

And they did, which meant the garageman got an insurance policy at one-third of what it should have cost him, less 10 percent on top of that!

Because much of the insurance issued by the government is obviously not based on actuarial experience, private insurance men are convinced that the government office is building up for a big headache which will end with the government either being forced to increase its rates or subsidize the insurance office with the people footing the bill.

The government on the other hand points to the sizeable surplus it has accumulated so far and says they will be able to continue to operate successfully.

Another case which clearly reveals the bureaucratic attitude of the government is found in the minutes of the Regina School Board.

The board had decided to increase its insurance coverage since an evaluation of its properties had revealed it was underinsured to the extent of 75 percent.

Until then the school property had been insured for $1,000,000 but after the evaluation the board decided to increase its coverage to $3,368,000.

Being a public institution, the board was compelled to insure with the government office, but expected that with such a large volume to be written, the premium rate would be reduced since the government insurance act specified it must meet the preceding 10-year rate of other companies.

Private firms were contacted and their quoted rate schedule was less than the existing government rate.

The board found however that the government was backing down on its own promise by refusing to make its rate conform to customary insurance practice.

The school board, wishing to buy at least expense to the taxpayer asked the government for permission to buy from the private companies.

This request was spurned. The board met Mr. Fines and pointed out that the government rate was 36 cents per $100 while the rate quoted by private companies was 31 cents.

As a result the government said it was willing to write, it at 28 cents on $100 provided that IF A LOSS OCCURRED THAT EXCEEDED THE PREMIUM, THE FIRST PART OF THE LOSS PAYMENT WOULD BE TAKEN BY THE GOVERNMENT TO INCREASE THE PREMIUM RATE FROM 28 CENTS TO 35 CENTS.

It is in the field of automobile insurance, however, where the real contention lies, for it is here where the rights of the individual's freedom of choice are being abused.

"We Liberals have dedicated ourselves to maintaining a high level of employment and income, because that means a high and widely distributed standard of living for our people."
Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent

Opportunity Prosperity Security brought about by constructive Liberal policies

Liberals mean what they say. Look over the record of the last five years—the most impressive period of prosperity and growth in our history. It shows that Liberal performance exceeds Liberal promises.
Under Liberal policies, Canadians can be confident that this forward march will continue—that Liberal promises will again be carried out.

More Jobs—More Income
More people are working than in any previous peacetime period—nearly a million more than in 1939. National income is three times as high as in 1939, is more widely distributed than ever before.

More Savings
People have nearly 2½ million more bank accounts than before the war. They have put aside more than 4 billion dollars in personal bank savings.

More Production and Trade
The products of our farms and forests, factories and mines and fisheries are worth twice as much as ten years ago. And Canada's exports are more than four times greater. Canada is the world's third largest trading nation.

More Family Allowances
The federal government has, since 1945, invested one billion dollars in Canada's children. Four million boys and girls in 1½ million families are receiving a better start in life. Benefits are being extended this year.

National Health
Health grants to provinces are helping to build a stronger nation. Many projects are already under way: nine province-wide health surveys; 13,000 additional hospital beds; training for health specialists; increased health services and research.

More Old Age Pensions
Federal payments have been twice increased since 1945. The new pension basis is now increased to $40.00 a month, providing greater comfort and security for the aged and blind.

Aid to Home Builders
Close to 800,000 dwellings have been built since the war. More homes have been built in Canada, in proportion to population, than in any other country; and more were built last year than any time in our history.

And lowered taxes as well!
By careful administration the Liberal government has established these records and been able, at the same time to cut the national debt by 1,625 million dollars. And every budget since 1945 has announced lowered rates of taxation.

Represents WCTU At Conference

Mrs. E. C. Deringer represented the Frances Willard Union of the Trout Creek WCTU at the 66th annual conference of the organization held May 10 and 11 in Queens Ave. United church, New Westminster.

Representatives from churches of all denominations throughout the province met there, and in a fine spirit of co-operation discussed the problems confronting their work.

Satisfaction was expressed at the fact that their will be no liquor plebiscite in the June election.

Rev. Elbert Paul of Vancouver was a guest speaker, and there was a representative from the United Nations' Association, Vancouver.

Mrs. Jas. Lade, national president, retired, as provincial president, and the first vice-president, Mrs. R. H. Boyer, was elected to fill the office.

Dr. and Mrs. H. R. McLarty came back from Vancouver May 10, where Dr. McLarty was attending the annual meeting of the B.C. research council, and helping to arrange the summer conventions.

Jocelyn R. Boyd is Lovely Bride Of Kenneth Stuart as Okanagan Sunshine Smiles Down on Ceremony

A summer day with summer flowers and birds singing outside St. Stephen's church, West Summerland, was the happy setting for the marriage on Saturday afternoon, May 14, at three o'clock, of Jocelyn Roberts, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Boyd, and Kenneth Muir, younger son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Muir Stuart.

Canon F. V. Harrison was the officiating clergyman, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Spirea, white lilac, pale pink honeysuckle, interspersed with pastel colored tulips and iris decorated the chancel rail, and lily-of-the-valley marked the guest pews. The church was crowded for the ceremony.

The bride wore a creamy satin gown, with sweetheart neckline, lily-point sleeves, and front panel embroidered with minute silver sequins. It fastened with tiny self-covered buttons to the waist-line, and the back fullness draped softly into a train. A coronet head-dress of net and diamante worn by her mother at her wedding, from which the long net veil fell, was held in place by a circlet of diamonds. She carried her great-grandmother's wedding fan to which white antirrhinum and pale yellow carnations were tied with silver ribbon.

The bride was attended by her four sisters. Miss Daphne Boyd as maid of honor wore golden yellow taffeta with off-the-shoulder neckline, fitted bodice, and three small tucks just below the waist-line of the bouffant skirt. Her head-dress was of matching taffeta roses, while her flowers were in a basket of natural straw tied with a large yellow taffeta bow.

Miss Patricia and Miss Barbara Boyd as junior bridesmaids had frocks of pink and aqua taffeta respectively, made similarly to that of the maid of honor. Their pretty head-dresses were of matching net, and they carried Colonial bouquets. Little Rosalind Boyd was flower girl in a sweet, pale-blue costume like her older sisters, and she wore a net bonnet with tiny pink flowers around the crown, and had a Colonial bouquet, too.

Mr. W. A. (Bud) Stuart attended his brother as best man. The ushers were Mr. David Collins, and Mr. Bud Farquharson of Penticton.

Organist was Mr. Kendrick of St. Saviour's church, Penticton, and during the signing of the register Mr. Walter Wright, Penticton, sang 'O Perfect Love'.

A reception followed at Laverock Giant's Head Road, the home of the bride's parents. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Boyd had chosen a grey lace and crepe floor-length gown, and with this was worn an off-the-face grey straw hat, the brim having a taffeta puff, and small pastel French flowers at one side. Her corsage was sweetpeas and lily-of-the-valley.

Receiving with the parents of the bride and the bridal party was Mrs. G. A. Laidlaw, sister of the groom, who wore a formal afternoon frock of blue chiffon, with flowered hat, and carnation corsage.

Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony and Mrs. E. R. Hookham, the bride's god-mothers, poured tea. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with white roses, and on the top was lily-of-the-valley.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Wm. Evans, Mrs. Lorne Perry, Miss Colleen Cross, cousin of the groom, Miss Nan Nixon, Miss Barbara Munn, Miss Gwen Atkinson and Miss Mary Guidi.

Dr. F. W. Andrew proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded. The toast to the bridesmaids was given by Mr. R. F. Theed and Mr. Bud Stuart replied.

Cables and wires of congratulations were received from Dublin, San Francisco, Bermuda, Walkerton, Ontario, and Victoria.

The going away costume was a silk print dress, navy doeskin coat, large navy straw hat, navy accessories, and a corsage of rosebuds and gardenias. Before leaving the bride gave her flowers to the groom's grandmother, Mrs. A. Stuart, who was not able to be at the wedding.

The bride attended Strathcona Lodge School, Shawinigan Lake, V.I., and the groom is a graduate of UBC.

Out-of-town guests included Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Graham, Salmon Arm; Capt and Mrs. E. A. Titchmarsh, Miss Elizabeth Titchmarsh, Major Hugh Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. W. Worth-Fraser, Mr. Walter Wright, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Nares, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. W. McCulloch, Penticton.

A recording was made of the service.

Two Church Groups Hear Report of Mrs. M. Pollock

A combined meeting of the Lakeside United church WMS and their guests, members of the St. Andrew's Federation, heard an outstanding report from Mrs. Melvin Pollock, delegate to the B.C. conference branch meeting in Vancouver recently. The gathering was held at the home of Mrs. J. Moffatt on Thursday afternoon, May 12.

It was an inspiring talk of the facts brought back by Mrs. Hugh Taylor just returned from a missionary tour of China, Japan and India. She stressed baby welfare work in Korea, and the great need of medical supplies.

Another speaker at the conference urged that new Canadians be visited as part of home missionary work, and that those coming from other countries be made welcome in Canada.

Dr. Scott, a returned missionary, reported to the Vancouver meeting that if more Christian help were given to Japan it would stamp out communism.

Mrs. W. Caldwell moved a very hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Pollock for her splendid report.

Tea was served by four of the members of the Lakeside society, Mrs. M. Pollock, Mrs. Advocate, Mrs. H. Pohlmann and Mrs. George Woitte.

Friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. A. Felker on Friday evening May 13, to honor Miss Alma Huva, whose marriage takes place on May 27.

Contests and games were played, and the bride-elect was showered with many miscellaneous gifts, which were given to her in a basket decorated with pink and blue ribbon streamers and spring flowers.

The hostess and Mrs. A. Lekei had a shower of pantry gifts within the larger one. A string went around the living-room and every foot there was a parcel containing a useful article for the bride's pantry. SASKATCHEWAN STORY

The socialists say they wish to protect their people against exploitation and yet here you see the government of Saskatchewan making its own people the victims not only of a monopoly, but an extremely vicious one since it is backed by the irrefutable power of the state.

For comparative purposes Saskatchewan with its flat terrain, ideal for automobile insurance purposes, and British Columbia with its mountainous terrain and more than twice the percentage of urban residents in centres over 1,000 population, are poles apart.

For instance, the same coverage given in Regina and Saskatoon for $40 on a 1948 Ford sedan costs $60 in Edmonton and Calgary and $73 in Vancouver.

I could find no sound basis for a comparison of the claim by Mr. Fines that under the revised compulsory automobile accident insurance plan the owner of a 1932 Ford car would receive for $4.50 a year the same coverage bought from a private insurance company for at least $18.50.

Under the compulsory plan the 1932 Ford owner pays $4.50 and gets the following protection: public liability, limited to $5,000 for one person and $10,000 for more than one person injured or killed in an accident; property damage limit $1,000 in Saskatchewan only, which means that the motorist pays the first $100 of loss himself; collision up to the depreciated value of the automobile with $100 deductible; fire and theft up to depreciated value of the automobile each subject to $100 deductible accident insurance, limit $1,000 providing compensation for anyone injured or killed as a result of any misadventure whatsoever involving an automobile.

No True Comparison
Under private insurance for $18.50 the 1932 Ford owner would obtain: public liability, limits $5,000 and $10,000; property damage, limit $1,000 with no deductible amount at all; collision with $100 deductible; fire and theft, both with no deductible.

There does not seem to be any true comparison of "the same coverage" since 75 percent of claims under fire and theft insurance coverage are less than $100 which would mean that in three out of four such cases the government would pay nothing while private companies would pay in full.

It is estimated that eight out of 10 property damage claims are under $100 so again the government would only pay one claim in five.

The injury compensation feature in the compulsory insurance is a contentious one and is claimed by insurance experts to lie completely outside the realm of automobile insurance.

Although the motorist must pay for it, it provides benefits for anyone in the province if he or she is injured or killed in any sort of an accident involving an automobile, such as careless pedestrians or negligent bicyclists.

The big question is why should the motorist have to finance such handouts to persons who get involved in accidents especially in cases where no fault is attached to the owner or driver of an automobile and the injured party is himself the one responsible for the accident.

Another mark against the government's compulsory insurance is the fact that although the majority of Saskatchewan motorists lay their cars up for the winter months, the government allows no credits for this while the private companies allow credits which could bring a $20 premium to as little as $11.

And again, the government itself has admitted the compulsory insurance is not adequate coverage. But if a motorist buys private insurance to fill the gaps in the government coverage, the government by an amendment has declared its compulsory plan excess and will pay nothing until all private insurance claims have been paid.

Despite this, many thousands of motorists in Saskatchewan are insuring their automobiles with private companies and just kissing their compulsory premiums goodbye.

There are 37 "not's" in the compulsory plan including such collision exclusion clauses as proof of negligent driving, driving contrary to the Criminal Code, overloading of an automobile and driving without proper illumination or sufficient to give warning to others at night and at all other times when fog and atmospheric conditions necessitate.

No Privileges
Private companies enjoy no such privileges of declining to pay under like circumstances.

That the government realized the inadequacy of its compulsory insurance is evident by its creation of a "Package Policy", to fill in the gaps between the compulsory plan and standard insurance coverage.

This applies to owners of private passenger cars only, and it went into effect on April 1 last year at a price of $18.80 for those who wished it.

It provides additional cover including fire, theft and transportation insurance to cash value of the automobile; collision (deductible reduced from $100 to $25); public liability, an additional $10,000 for one person and $20,000 for one accident, thus bringing the total limits, with compulsory coverage to $15,000 for one person and $30,000 in any one accident; property damage, an additional $2,000 insurance bringing maximum amount payable to $3,000; extra coverages against loss of radio in car through collision, fire and theft; damage to automobile by windstorm, earthquake, riot, explosion, falling aircraft and flood.

This would bring the compulsory cover plus Package policy insurance on a 1938 Ford sedan to $25.80, plus one dollar for everyone who would be driving that car. A comparable policy in Manitoba would cost $30.91 in premium for 12 months operation with winter storage credits reducing it to as low as $19.25.

"Claims Conscious"
The government's compulsory insurance has made the people of Saskatchewan "claims conscious" now that they are aware of their eligibility for compensation.

In conclusion I would like to quote from the report of the special committee appointed at the 1948 session of the Alberta Legislature to study all phases of automobile insurance with a view to establishing the most efficient plan in Alberta.

They investigated the Saskatchewan plan along with that of Manitoba and in their report recommended that the Saskatchewan plan be rejected.

Said their report:
"There is substantial evidence to support the view that the government of Saskatchewan is attempting to set up a monopoly in the insurance business. When compulsion is applied in this field, it is extremely difficult to tell where the line will be drawn. In the province of Alberta, at least, the committee holds that this is a consideration of overwhelming importance."

Commenting upon the Saskatchewan rate structure:

"One incontrovertible fact remains in regard to compulsory insurance, and that is with 100 percent of the public forced to participate in the plan, the risk is spread over so many that it is thereby reduced on all.

"Can the Saskatchewan plan continue to operate successfully on its existing rate structure? Saskatchewan government officials say yes; private companies, with their background of experience, say no. "The committee agrees with the latter."

We have looked closely at one of the government's most successful enterprises and in the article to follow next week we shall see how this bureaucracy, coercion and deception flourishes in the government's most colossal and unnecessary failure, the Fish Board.

Local School Girls Show Well in Kinsmen Track Meet

Summerland girl athletes played a prominent part in upholding local honors at the invitational track meet staged by the Kinsmen Club of Penticton at the latter's athletic park on Saturday, May 7.

Although the Summerland schools did not enter a complete team, competitors amassed a total of 38 points, considered a creditable showing. Kelowna and Omak were the main meet winners.

Ruth Klux, with a throw of 161 feet, won the senior girls' softball throw, with E. Heichert, also of Summerland, in second place.

In the intermediate softball throw, Evelyn Heichert placed second to J. McKee, Penticton, who tossed the ball 181 feet 6 inches.

Evelyn went out in front in the intermediate girls' broad jump, leaping 14 feet 1 1/2 inches. Donnis Johnson of Summerland was second.

HOLD TRACK MEETS

Summerland elementary school annual track meet is being held tomorrow afternoon, May 20 at the school grounds. The annual Okanagan Valley track meet is being held this Saturday at Kelowna. Summerland high school is sending up a strong contingent.

Miss Heichert also figured in the senior girls' broad jump, placing second to A. Minette of Kelowna who jumped 14 feet 6 inches.

Irene Menu was second in the junior girls' high jump. Fleck of Kelowna winning at 4 feet 3 inches.

Gerald Washington was second in the junior boys' broad jump, this event being won by D. Gillespie, Kelowna, at 15 feet 4 1/2 in.

G. Munn of Summerland placed third in the intermediate boys 220 yard dash while Helen Kean was in the same relative position in the senior girls' 100 yard dash, won by Doreen Underhill.

Yvonne Polesello was second and Irene Menu third in the junior girls' broad jump won by Jenaway of Kelowna at 13 ft. 1 in.

The junior girls' relay race found Kelowna the winner, with Summerland close second over the 300-yard course. The Summerland girls consisted of Irene Menu, Anna Brlekovich, Elsie Hack and Mary Marshall.

Summerland girls placed third in the 300-yard intermediate relay.

Denny Hack was second to Weddell of Kelowna in the senior boys' high jump, and Ruth Klux was second to Stirling of Kelowna in the senior girls' high jump.

Two-Game Baseball Tournament Here On Empire Day

On Tuesday afternoon, May 24, Empire Day, the Summerland Baseball Club is staging a big, two-game baseball tournament with three of the top teams in the Interior Baseball League competing.

As a starter Tuesday afternoon, Rutland Adanacs play Princeton, while the winner of that contest is competing against Summerland for the final game.

Princeton is favored to take Rutland and compete against Summerland in the final, which would mean that two keen rivals for baseball honors in the past three years will be meeting.

Neither Princeton nor Summerland has been defeated so far in league competition and baseball fans are looking forward with keen anticipation to the tournament.

Jack Amm Wins Another First

Jack Amm won further honors for his UBC track team last Saturday when his college entertained Pacific Northwest universities at a track and field meet. Amm placed first in the 440 yard dash as his colleagues took all but one first in the track events.

Western Washington entered a larger group of athletes and captured first place over UBC. St. Martin's college was third.

Merchants' Last Inning Rally Beats Peachland by 5-4 Count

For eight innings, Peachland ball tossers held Summerland Merchants under control at the northern diamond last Sunday but they weakened in the fatal ninth and allowed three runs across to give the Merchants a narrow 5-4 victory.

Three errors and a timely double by Wally Day paved the way for the winning runs to scamper across and drown the hopes of the Peachland players.

The Merchants started in a shaky style, as usual, with Naka socking out a double and Williamson a single which, with Vanderburgh's fumble and a passed ball by Day meant two runs for Peachland in the first frame. Williamson's single in the second scored J. Clements for another run and only a mighty relay from Kuroda to Brawner to Day caught the fleet-footed Naka at home plate.

With the count 3-0 against them the Merchants dug in in the third when Brawner doubled and Kuroda smashed out a single scoring the former and coming home himself when Walsh fled out to centerfield.

Peachland scored what looked like the clincher in the fifth to make the count 4-2. Brawner tried to start some trouble in the eighth when he slapped out a double, but Kuroda's grounder cut him off at third and Vanderburgh and Walsh fled out.

Fatal Ninth

Taylor's single in the ninth started things off. Thompson went in as a pinch-hitter and he was safe on an error by Downie. Taylor advanced to third on a passed ball and scored when J. Clements failed to hold the ball. Schwab was safe while these errors were being committed and after Coffey fled out Day smacked the clincher to clear the paths ahead and give the Merchants their slim margin of victory.

Wendel Schwab gave up short-stop post in the fourth frame to go behind the plate in Days' place, the latter moving in to short and doing a first-class performance. Jackie Walsh also had a big day at second, handling ten chances without a miscue.

Three double plays by the Summerland infield relieved the tension in three separate innings as the lads gave Coffey plenty of support.

Veteran Ted Clemens went the entire contest on the mound for Peachland and would have been good value for the win if his teammates had continued their support throughout.

U.S. Marksmen Compete at Trap Shoot

Crack shots from Lumby, Kelowna, Penticton, Tonasket, Wash., and Lewiston, Idaho, came to Summerland last weekend to compete in the first big trap shoot of the season with the Summerland club members as hosts.

There were fifty competitors plus a similar number of spectators on hand for the day-long shoot which saw many interesting competitions.

In Group A of the 25 singles event, Rose System competition, four competitors tied with 24 each, these being Dr. L. A. Day, Alan Elsey, Ted Brown of Tonasket and C. Wills of Lumby.

In Group B of the same type competition, W. Nelson was top scorer with 24, Channon Snow and Cyril Tooley of Penticton had 23 each and A. R. Munn and D. L. Sanborn were tied with 22 each.

The second event of the 25 singles found Phil LeBrun turning in a perfect 25 to win Group A. B. Sargent of Lewiston, Idaho and Jerry Laidlaw were tied with 24 each.

Group B, second event, was won by C. A. Brett of Penticton, with a 23 score, with four others tied at 21 each. These were Bill Snow, Bill Nelson, Tom Nelson and Mr. Sigalet of Lumby.

In Group A, the high aggregate prize of a coffee urn was won by Phil LeBrun for his high score. Bill Nelson took the high aggregate in Group B.

First prize in the doubles shoot went to Alan Elsey with a score of 20, followed by Frank Pollock in second place with 18.

A handicap shoot was also won by Phil LeBrun, who scored 24 out of a possible 25, with Gerry Laidlaw in second place with 22 out of 25.

Gerry Laidlaw clicked in the miss and out contest, one of the biggest events of the day.

Final competition was the Buddy Shoot, which was captured by two Kelowna contestants, Gordon Finch and Fred Campbell.

Red Sox Trim Peachland by Cricket Score

It was just a case of how high the score would mount last Sunday at the Living Memorial athletic park when the Summerland Red Sox opened the junior league season here by walloping Peachland juniors 31-5.

Home runs by Jack Dunham, Gil Jacobs and two by Ernie Jomori were some of the hitting highlights as Shaw failed to stem the rising tide of the Red Sox. Thompson came in from centerfield in the fifth to relieve Shaw but could not cope with the hard-hitting local crew.

Twenty bingles were chalked down for the Red Sox, Allen Gould, Gil Jacobs and E. Jomori each gaining three for three. Long was the only Peachland clouter to gain extra bases, with a handy triple in the third to open Peachland's scoring.

Gil Jacobs was the opening Summerland hurler, while Allen Gould replaced him in the fourth. Seven runs in the first frame and another nine in the second left no doubt as to the final outcome. The Peachland lads tried hard but the pitching strength was not available to cope with the Red Sox.

Next Sunday, the Penticton Pirates appear here for a second South Okanagan junior league game, and Naramata travels to Peachland.

ing expenditures and is up-to-date in its payments to the trade, apart from extraordinary expenditures.

Under the new setup, it is mandatory to put aside a depreciation account but because of the debt at the first of the year, when the insurance scheme came into effect, this has not been possible.

An additional nurse is required but because of lack of accommodation an appointment is being held off.

Two Donations

One bright spot in this gloomy financial picture has been two donations from the Rotary Club of Summerland and the IOOF lodge

The IOOF lodge not only paid off the balance of $89.85 on the furnishing of a ward in the maternity wing but provided the hospital with an extra $100 for equipment or furnishings. The Rotary Club also forwarded a cheque for $75 as proceeds of the Easter Monday ball.

Hospital directors expressed their appreciation of these gifts and proceeded to order a new double sink for the kitchen, an oxygen tank carrier and several other smaller items considered immediate essentials.

High Official of B of M Visits Here

Mr. J. S. Bolton, an assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal, and J. MacRae, E.C. superintendent, paid a short visit to Summerland on Thursday afternoon. The visitors were met by James Muirhead, manager of the West Summerland branch.

This was the first occasion Mr. Bolton had had the opportunity to visit Summerland or the Okanagan and he expressed his pleasure with the beauty of the valley.

"This is very beautiful country", he remarked, gazing on the green of the hills and orchards, sprinkled with the last of the blossoms.

Mr. Bolton and Mr. MacRae arrived in Summerland at noon on Thursday from the Kootenays and were driven north up the valley to Salmon Arm.

While here, the visitors were conducted through the co-op plant which is undergoing extensive alterations and met President Eric Tait, Vice-president J. Y. Towgood and Manager George Washington, and through Barkwill's Ltd. cannery.

SCOUT NEWS

This past week fourteen applications were turned into provincial headquarters for Summerland Scouts who will attend the Dominion Jamboree in July. These boys are R. Lewis, G. Pohlmann, G. Munn, Leslie, Glen and Gordon Younghusband, R. Towgood, V. Campbell, V. Smith, D. Blacklock, L. Bingham, G. Washington, L. Carston and W. Thompson.

These boys are paying their own way as far as possible and are anxious for part-time jobs to raise expenses.

This Friday, Saturday and Sunday is the American-Canadian camporee in Oroville.

This annual weekend camp is an international Scout get-together which Summerland has attended for 3 years past. The boys camp as patrols and compete against a set standard for A, B and C ratings. It is a chance for each patrol in each troop to find out how they compare in Scout work with other troops from the Interior of B.C. and Washington.

The transportation cost in the school bus will be $1.50 return, and must be paid before boarding the bus.

The bus will leave Smith & Henry's at 3:35 p.m. Boys are advised to wear their uniform to school on Friday and bring their packs and supplies to Smith & Henry's garage in the morning or at noon so as not to interfere with school or the public school sports afternoon.

On Friday, May 27, final instruction will be given in estimation of distances and topographical maps. Approximately ten boys have now completed their pathfinder's badge requirements under Mr. Feltham, and work for the final King's Scout badge, public health man, will be given in June.

At the coming Spring Fair the Scouts will have a booth at which they will sell souvenir cards with a specially etched scene characteristic of Summerland which was very generously prepared for the

Breakwaters Are Under Consideration

Information that applications for breakwaters at Peachland and Summerland have been referred to the department of reconstruction and supply at Ottawa this week by O. L. Jones, MP for Yale.

The federal public works minister has stated that these breakwater applications should be considered by the supply ministry first and Mr. Jones is forwarding the necessary information.

Scouts on this occasion by Mr. M. C. Wright. They will also have pin wheels and balloons to sell to the kids. Proceeds from this booth will go in aid of the Jamboree fund.

At a meeting of the patrol leaders last week it was decided that any Scout who misses more than two consecutive meetings without a written excuse or phone call to the Scoutmaster will be dropped from the troop.

Notices: Parents of boys attending the Jamboree are urgently requested to cooperate in seeing that each boy has two Scout shirts, and is completely fitted out with shorts, socks, neckerchief and hat. This is required for the trip.

Queen Merle Heavysides, Legion Choice, to Receive Spring Fair Crown for 1949

Merle Heavysides, representing the Summerland branch No. 22, Canadian Legion, will be crowned Queen of the 1949 Spring Fair when the official opening ceremony is held at the Occidental Fruit Co. Ltd. building on Monday.

Although the Spring Fair doors open at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, May 23 and the performances continue until Tuesday evening, the official opening is being held at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening.

O. L. Jones, MP for Yale, will present the feature address, following welcome speeches by J. E. O'Mahony, board of trade president and C. E. Bentley, acting reeve. Then will follow the dignified and impressive crowning ceremony.

It was a keenly-contested Fair Queen contest, with the Legion representative being out in front by a fair margin.

Rotary's representative, Rose Ann Harrison, and the Hospital Auxiliary contestant, Connie Shriner, will be the Fair Queen princesses supporting the Queen-elect on Monday evening.

Following the opening ceremonies, the crowning will take place, with 1948 Queen Eileen Birtles, relinquishing her crown to Queen Merle.

Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony, wife of the board of trade president has led an energetic committee in arranging for this crowning ceremony. Special royal gowns have been supplied and the pomp and ceremony of a royal affair will prevail.

Twenty of Miss Kay Hamilton's choir girls, in their pretty blue and white costumes, will form a pleasing background to the royal party and will participate in the ceremony.

Considerable interest was aroused by the Fair Queen contest; the Queen being selected on the strength of the ticket sales of the organization she represented. This is the first year such a contest has been held.

Changed Procedure

In previous years, the queen was selected by her fellow elementary school pupils. This year, the top grades in Principal MacDonald's school chose three girls and the three organizations, Canadian Legion, Rotary Club and Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary, then drew for their representatives.

Merle Alice Heavysides is the daughter of Mr. James Heavysides and the late Mrs. Heavysides. Born in Edmonton, Alta., on April 14, 1935, she is now 14 years of age.

Rose Anne Harrison is 14 years of age, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Metro Harrison, of the Rialto theatre. She was born in Dauphin, Man., on January 12, 1935.

Third candidate is Constance Marilyn (Connie) Shriner, aged 12, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Shriner, residents of Prairie Valley. She was born in Winnipeg, Man., on June 29, 1936.

Mel Ducommun had charge of this important section of the Spring Fair work and now the girls are under the care of Mrs. O'Mahony until they parade to the platform Monday evening.

Fashion Show Feature of Spring Fair Opening Day

One part of the Spring Fair which will be of interest to all girls from nine to ninety, is the fashion show on the first day at three in the afternoon. In fact there will probably be a few men, young and old, too, just having a look.

The fashion show setting will be a garden scene, and costumes suitable for every hour of the day will be on display, with all the newest trends and emphasis on softer and prettier styles than have been evident for a number of years.

The hats have flowers and ribbons. The dresses have tucks, drapes, shirring and bows that swerve from tailored fashions. There are still plenty of the latter, though, for busy people who find them practical.

Plaid taffeta is pretty in an afternoon frock for a teen-ager, and a brown taffeta is outstanding in smartness. An exceptionally attractive afternoon dress in powder blue crepe with an all-over pattern of colored flowers has tucks, the length of the skirt that go diagonally down the sides and merge into back fullness. A copper satin two-piece late afternoon costume has appeal for formal apparel.

Navy blazers, delight of the campus crowd will be shown, as well as T-shirts, sun suits and bathing-suits.

There are swishing taffeta formals with off-the-shoulder necklines. One in a sort of crushed strawberry color would be becoming to either a fair or dark haired girl. It has a butterfly bustle.

Plenty of clothes for matrons in larger sizes are to be a planned feature of the show. Suits, coats, dresses, various types of costumes and accessories showing interesting color combinations have been chosen for display.

Many children's clothes, easily washable, will give ideas to mothers as to what may be had locally for their small fry.

If anyone has an economical eye, (and who hasn't nowadays?), the small checked raincoat that has a soft look, with hood on the back, could easily double for a smart spring coat and rainy days as well. Spotlight of feminine interest will be focussed on the final act of the show which will be a bridal costume.

Mrs. R. G. Russel will give an interpretive commentary as the models come in, and Miss Ruth Nakamura will play the piano as a pleasant accompaniment.

Models include Mrs. Wm. Borton, Mrs. Hefflick, Mrs. W. McClure, Mrs. J. Lamey, Mrs. A. Moyls, Mrs. Lorne Perry, and Misses Nan Thornthwaite, Nan Nixon, June Cook, Peggy Burton, Jacqueline Trafford, Julia Hack, Ruth Nesbitt and Doreen Steuart. Several children will also act as models.

The Linnea Style Shop and Macil's have been asked by the board of trade to prepare the fashion show, and are doing so under the direction of Mrs. Henry Kuhar and Miss Macil White.

Dances Games, Prizes Feature Spring Fair

Dances form an integral part of the Spring Fair on both days, May 23 and 24. Fred Dunson is chairman of the dance committee and he has arranged that Carl Dunaway's Kelowna orchestra will play for a jitney dance as a windup to the Monday evening performance at the Occidental building.

Mr. Dunaway is bringing a six-piece orchestra as part of his big Variety Show, which is a feature that evening and this orchestra will play for the dancing which will follow at 10:30 p.m.

On May 24 evening, the big wind-up dance will be held at Ellison hall from 9:30 to 1:30. Saxie's orchestra from Pentlcton has been engaged for that evening, and a ladies' organization has agreed to sell coffee and sandwiches, as well.

One of the big features of this final dance will be the drawing for the Spring Fair attendance prizes, valued at $500.

An electric Frigidalra refrigerator, a La-Z-Boy chair and a mantle radio are being given away in this raffle, which will be conducted by Queen Merle at midnight.

This drawing is in connection with the admission tickets which are being sold for the general door admission at the Spring Fair itself. General admission is 25 cents each performance, or $1 for the four performances, plus the opportunity to win the prizes.

These tickets were also utilized to decide the queen contest, which closed last Saturday, with Merle Heavysides, Legion princess, as the winner.

Another feature of the fair this year will be a games room, suitably decorated in western style. Fred Schumann is head of this hard-working committee, assisted by Alex Watt and Walter Bleasdale. The refreshment booths are also being operated by this committee.

Good Will Party of Vancouver Board of Trade Relaxes Amid Beauty of Experimental Station

Forty-five members of the Vancouver Board of Trade spent a pleasant hour in Summerland district Thursday afternoon as one portion of their good will tour of the Kootenays and Okanagan.

After several days of rushing through industrial plants and luncheon and dinner gatherings, the members relaxed in the beautiful surroundings of the Summerland experimental station, where the visitors were met by Superintendent Dr. R. C. Palmer.

One of the highlights of the visit was the presentation by Vancouver Board President T. G. Norris, KC, of a token gavel to Summerland Board President J. E. O'Mahony. A similar gavel will be suitably inscribed and forwarded to the Summerland board as a memento of the good will tour.

After a tour of the huge industrial plants at Kimberley and Trail, the party detrained at McCulloch Thursday morning and was driven to Kelowna, where a luncheon was held.

Then, the party continued its trip south, arriving at the Welcome Marker on the Kelowna road shortly after three o'clock. Here they were met by a number of board of trade members, who formed a caravan through the West Summerland business district, down Peach Orchard and through the industrial and business section of lower town and on to the experimental station.

Here the visitors were treated to samples of the new Spartan and Jubilee apples which have been initiated by the experimental station, principally by A. J. Mann, and are considered to be coming varieties of real commercial value.

The Vancouver business men munched happily on these new varieties and found them very palatable.

After viewing the gardens and other sights of interest in a hurried tour of the station grounds, Mr. J. E. O'Mahony welcomed the visitors and told a few of the many advantages which Summerland enjoys.

Presents Gavel

T. G. Norris, Vancouver prexy, thanked Summerland for its hospitality and remarked on the beauty of the experimental station and the general activity of Summerland district. He then made the gavel presentation.

A short address on the role of the business man in B.C. today was delivered by Mr. F. M. Hann, manager of Francis M. Hann Ltd., Vancouver. He informed the local board members that Vancouver businessmen have a sympathetic understanding of the interior's problems.

"We are not self centered in Vancouver, for we realize that both you and ourselves are growing up together and should work together for our mutual benefit."

Mr. Hann emphasized the social unrest which is prevalent in this province today and considered that the co-operative efforts of free enterprise business today, as expressed through boards of trade, provides a better type of security than that propounded for the socialistic element.

He insisted that the plan of subsidies is an unsound one as the people have to pay for them in the end.

"Our democratic system today gives a greater human happiness to more people than any system ever produced before," he declared. "It is not perfect but we are ironing out the kinks."

He insisted that business today must tell the people about its operations, how its price structure is developed, how it strives to improve living conditions of its employees and must gain the full approval of the general public.

By telling the public and the employees the relation of costs to selling price, the taxes to be paid, the reserves which have to be set up and the risks which are involved in business today, then the general public will have a better understanding of the problems which are confronting businessmen, he declared.

"We have in B.C. two tremendous assets," he concluded, declaring these two to be the faith and character of the people who reside here.

"Don't let any glib-tongued orator undermine your faith in the assets which you possess."

Thursday evening, the party was tendered a welcome dinner in Penticton, where Mr. A. W. Klieforth, U.S. Consul-General in Vancouver, was the principal speaker.

District Roads Engineer Says Load on Truck Not Authorized

PENTICTON—"In our opinion, that bridge was safe for any authorized load within the maximum allowable of 36,000 pounds. It was only when a completely unauthorized load of more than 70,000 pounds went over it that it collapsed."

This was the statement of J. W. Miers, newly-arrived provincial government district engineer, with respect to the Okanagan river bridge that collapsed Saturday, May 7.

Mr. Miers explained that load limits for a four-wheeled vehicle allow a maximum on any one axle of 18,000 pounds. "When the Euclid truck was weighed, after being removed from the bridge it was found to have a gross weight of 40,665 pounds," he said.

"On top of that there was the trailer. Empty, it weighed 5,900 pounds, but it too, was loaded with two compressors, each weighing 12,000 pounds. That's a total of 70,665."

"It must be pointed out that most of the weight of the Euclid was on its rear axle. There was therefore a concentrated weight in the centre of the whole thing that far exceeded the allowable weight. Indeed, the truck alone exceeded that."

He stated that had it been known that the W. C. Arnett Company, owners of the vehicles, intended to Scotia; R. F. Raikes, special rep., Bank of Montreal; A. D. Richardson, proprietor, A. D. Richardson, Co.; Reg T. Rose, executive secretary, Vancouver Board of Trade; Ron Rose, provincial editor, The Vancouver Sun; N. C. Sherman, president, N. C. Sherman Ltd.; R. Bryson Smith, president Smith Marking Devices; Sidney B. Smith, chartered accountant; W. G. Swan, consulting engineer, Swan, Rhodes & Wooster; J. F. Watson, architect, Watson & Baxter; George E. Webber Ltd.; R. R. Wilde, special rep., Royal Bank of Canada; V. Ben Williams, general manager, Pacific National Exhibition; W. S. G. Wilson, director, The O'Neil Co. Ltd.; A. C. Foreman, secretary, B.C. Products Bureau; "Pat" Donovan, special representative, CPR.

can be sure it would have been repaired," he said. "But in judging the strength of the bridge at present, it must be remembered that it was not taken into consideration that it would be subjected to a weight of 70,000 pounds," he emphasized.

"I have heard it said that it might have been a loaded bus. But a loaded bus weighs something like 20,000 pounds, and that's a long way from the 70,000 that caused the bridge to give way."

carry any load they would have been required to unload before crossing the bridge.

"X-plates, such as were issued to them for the journey from Vernon to Princeton, are only a licence to move empty vehicles.

"I understand that charges are to be laid against the owners for this excessive overloading."

Mr. Miers told the Herald that he had received the utmost in cooperation in getting the bridge open for traffic again.

"As soon as it happened, the CPR, the West Kootenay Power Company and the city all offered to provide pilings. I was able to round up two bridge crews, one from Kelowna, and put two shifts to work immediately."

Told that pictures of the bridge taken three weeks ago showed the pilings to be worn more than half, Mr. Miers repeated that despite this fact the bridge was not deemed to be in any danger from normal traffic. "If it had been, you

A British Laborite On Socialism

"Until 1945 I shared with my colleagues in the British Labor Party an enticing dream of the Brave New World which Socialism would bring, a fairer and fuller life for all.

"We have now been in power almost four years. We have socialized a large sector of our industrial life and subjected what is left to national planning. I have spent years discoursing on the defects of capitalism. I do not withdraw those criticisms. But we have seen the two systems at work side by side. And the man who would still argue that Socialism is the means of ridding our society of the defects of capitalism is blind. Socialism just does not work. We must find some other means of dealing with the imperfections of the private-enterprise system—we dare not abandon it.

Sportsmen Hear Reports from Fish and Game Conventions

Reports on two highly important conventions held by sportsmen within the past month were given a monthly meeting of the Summerland Fish and Game Assn. Tuesday evening, May 10, at the IOOF hall by Charles Nesbitt and President George Stoll. Many interesting facts and conjectures for the coming season were revealed, the pheasant situation being one of the outstanding subjects of interest locally.

Mr. Nesbitt reported on the annual Interior Fish and Game Assn. convention at Kamloops which he and Mr. Stoll attended on behalf of the local club, while President Stoll gave a resume of the important B.C. zone convention at Harrison Hot Springs, attended by representatives of nine provincial zones.

Avery King, head of the Penticton sportsmen, has been elected president of the Interior association and also represented the interior at the B.C. zone conference.

Mr. Nesbitt first told the session that blue grouse are on the increase in the province, as are Willow grouse in the Merritt district, but ducks are on the decline. Of moose, scientists report that there are too many animals. Men have been hired to investigate the moose situation and on their findings the hunting season will be set.

The efforts of the Summerland club to have a shorter season in the Penticton to Westbank area were defeated at Kamloops when Game Commissioner Cunningham declared that seasons for such small areas could not be enforced.

It is expected that deer will be the same as last year, but the bag limit will be reduced to one animal, which must have a forked horn. Spikes will not be legal.

Grouse season is recommended from October 1 to 16 with a daily limit of four and a seasonal 16 birds. The Summerland delegates wanted a split duck season, as did most of the other Okanagan clubs, but Commissioner Cunningham declared this would not be possible. However, a longer season lasting possibly from October 8 to December 8 may be attainable.

Local Pheasant Experiment in Need of Pens

Up to May 10, 757 pheasant eggs had been laid by the hen pheasants collected by the Summerland Fish & Game Assn., Alf Johnston, in charge of the experiment, told the monthly meeting of the sportsmen that night at the IOOF hall.

The pheasants are still laying well but it is too early to know what percentage of the eggs will be hatched. On Tuesday evening, before the meeting, Mr. Johnson gathered 22 eggs from the 23 hen pheasants.

These pheasants are doing so well that the club may be embarrassed by the number of eggs available. Plans are underway to provide the Penticton club with some eggs, if desired, and also to fill a request for some eggs from Westbank.

Hens have been requisitioned throughout the district to hatch the eggs and Joe McLachlan, in charge of this important department, stated that 526 eggs have been placed.

Only two results were known at the first of last week, three young pheasants out of nine eggs and five out of nine.

Thirty pens for the new pheasants had been made, but there are only two left. More pens are required, but the club does not feel it can make any further expenditure for lumber. Members were asked to search for more pens, as it appears that more eggs will be hatched than were bargained for at the outset.

Two cock pheasants and four hens were received recently from the B.C. Game Commission to assist the Summerland experiment.

Hunters Look Here
President George Stoll warned the meeting that the Summerland experiment has become widely known and many hunters from the coast are expecting to come here for their pheasant shooting this year. Even hunters from other parts of the Okanagan are looking towards Summerland for their pheasant shooting this year.

"We don't want hunters coming here from all over the country and shooting off pheasants faster than we can breed them," was Mr. Stoll's opinion.

It is estimated that between 50,000 and 60,000 pheasants were killed in B.C. last year by hunters. The Okanagan was closed for pheasant shooting last season, but the Interior association convention at Kamloops has recommended an open season from October 15 to November 15 with two daily and 10 season bag limits.

Hours of shooting will probably be amended, with half an hour out of each day. Hours would be 12 noon to 3:30 p.m. for the first three days and 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. the rest of the season. Before shooting could continue until 4 o'clock.

Okanagan Falls and Oliver have urged strongly that a closed season be instituted there again this year but Summerland delegates to the convention were doubtful the game commission will allow it.

There will be an investigation into the pheasant situation in the Okanagan this year, a scientist having been appointed to spend the summer on this work alone.

One More Shell

There was some difference of opinion between the two Summerland delegates over the question of shotgun loading, but it was finally decided that regulations have been changed to allow two shells in the magazine, with one in the barrel. Previously, guns had to be plugged if there was room for more than one shell in the magazine.

In dealing with fish, it was explained that non-residents can only have two days' supply of fish in their possession at any time and can only ship two days' limit from the province.

Conflicting stories were heard at Kamloops regarding coyotes killed by deer. Mr. Nesbitt reported one delegate stating that 20 deer were found dead in one small area near Monte Lake, evidently killed by coyotes.

However, the game commission reported at Harrison Hot Springs that this story had been traced down and only one deer was located and it was doubtful what caused the death.

Mr. Nesbitt and Mr. Stoll worked with Chairman Robin Kendall of Kelowna on the "zones relations" committee, which brought in a strong report advocating that the interior association and clubs therein work closely in conjunction with the B.C. zones, so that information can be shared.

Reporting on the zones' convention at Harrison, George Stoll was not entirely satisfied with the interior work as there had been delay in sending resolutions to the coast and as a consequence the interior battle was made that much more difficult.

Avery King, Penticton and J. Blackie, Kelowna, were the official delegates.

Some of the visiting guest speakers at this three-day conference were G. R. Farnsep, director of Ducks Unlimited; Don Clarke, director of Washington State game department; Harold Whitman, general game, farm superintendent for Washington; Clarence Pautzke, fishery management division of Washington; Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan, UBC zoologist; Hon. Gordon S. Wismer, K.C., Attorney-general.

The latter announced that $50,000 additional moneys would be spent this year on bounties, that on coyotes being extended the year round.

Mr. Stoll was greatly impressed with the report of Don Clarke, Washington State director, who informed the gathering that his state spent $6,750,000 in the game department last year, as compared with $490,000 spent by B.C.

Other Big Expenses
Twenty-two hatcheries cost $1,286,000 for upkeep, hunting coyotes and cougars cost $250,000, while salaries for the 350 employees run to $2,200,000. The department even operates two airplanes and pays farmers for damage done by game.

Mr. Stoll told of E. G. Rowebottom, deputy minister of trade and industry telling that fish and game bring $75 millions into B.C. each year. Sportsmen immediately enquired why that department did not contribute something to the upkeep of the game commission, but the issue was sidetracked.

The Summerland prey was proud to report from the convention that Summerland and two other districts were the only ones in B.C. which returned the game catch forms in a satisfactory manner. In 1950 it is likely that it will be compulsory to return these forms, as the sportsmen are not co-operating on a voluntary basis.

It is also known by game commission men that a large number of deer are being killed on the Summerland-Peachland highway, Mr. Stoll believing that the number runs into the hundreds. An investigation is to be undertaken.

Dealing with pheasants, Dr. McTaggart Cowan stated at Harrison that "as long as you don't shoot the hens you will always have pheasants."

In the Lower Mainland, there is one cock to every five hens and one cock to 11 hens in other areas.

The ratio of eggs not fertile in these lower mainland sections is 3.8 percent and 3.6 percent respectively. Dr. McTaggart Cowan went on to produce some facts which were hard to believe although true. He said he found in the lower mainland that 90 percent of all hens nest in alfalfa fields and 88 percent are killed with the first mowing of the crops.

He continued by revealing that of all the pheasants which are liberated each year, 84 percent are killed by mowing. Another fact which was a shock to the delegates read that 81 percent of the young birds liberated are lost due to cats and dogs.

Historic Cairn at Westbank Marks Okanagan Brigade Trail

A fairly large cairn has been erected at the intersection of the roads just north of the village of Westbank. This cairn of local basaltic rock has been raised by the Historic Sites Board of Ottawa, of which Dr. W. N. Sage, UBC is the British Columbia representative. It is to commemorate the old Okanagan brigade trail.

The story of the trail goes back to 1810 when Jacob Astor of New York organized the Pacific Fur company for the purpose of opening and developing the fur trade on the Columbia. This company sent out two expeditions, one overland, the other aboard the Tonquin around Cape Horn. The ship arrived off the mouth of the Columbia on March 22, 1811, after a voyage of six and a half months. There they established Fort Astoria.

In July of that year David Stuart of the Tonquin expedition, with Montigny and others, left Astoria on a trip up the Columbia. At the junction of the Columbia and Okanagan rivers they established Fort Okanagan.

Three months later they journeyed up the Okanagan river to Osoyoos Lake. At its head they crossed to the west side of the valley to Marron valley, Shingle creek, on to what is now West Summerland, and at Deep creek touched Okanagan lake for the first time. From there they followed the lake more or less closely to its head, and then north-east to the junction of the North and South Thompson rivers, where the next year they established Fort Kamloops.

The Astoria interests were sold in 1813 to the North-West Fur company, and in 1821 the North-West and Hudson's Bay companies amalgamated. From then until 1946 the trail was used by the Hudson's Bay fur brigades.

When the boundary question was settled the trail fell into disuse, but in the early 1860's it was travelled again by the miners on their way to the gold-diggings of Cariboo.

The inscription on the cairn reads:

Okanagan Brigade Trail
A link in the fur-trading route from New Caledonia (North Central British Columbia) to the Columbia river.

First explored by the Astorians in 1811, the trail was used by the North West Company and from 1821 by the Hudson's Bay Company. The fur brigades from New Caledonia journeyed overland by this route from Kamloops to Fort Okanagan until 1848.

The gold-seekers of 1858, coming through the Okanagan Valley, followed the old trail, which also in the early 1860's became a second route to Cariboo.

RECIPE HINTS

Pork and Vegetable Casserole
Two and one-half cups broken macaroni, 2 cups tiny onions, 2 tbs. melted butter or shortening, 3 cups canned tomatoes, 4 cups cubed pork roast, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. pepper.

Cook macaroni in plenty of salted water until tender, about seven minutes. Drain, rinse with cold water. Cook onions in boiling salted water till tender. Drain. Add tomatoes, pork and seasoning. Pour over macaroni and mix through. Turn it into well-oiled casserole (from which it may be served at the table), and bake in moderate oven 375 degrees F. for 40 minutes or till done. This makes six generous servings.

Rotary Hears Ancient Britons Were Cultured

J. H. Lee-Grayson, in a scholarly short talk, exploded the theory that the Ancient Britons, in the time of the Roman invasion were "barbaric," as is taught in history books of this country and in the United States. He took umbrage at the lack of authenticity and quoted reliable sources to uphold his viewpoints.

"Where do they get this barbarian stuff?" he queried to the Rotary Club of Summerland Friday evening at the Nu-Way Annex, as he produced quotations to show that the Ancient Britons had a culture of their own, worked in bronze, and wore silks, satins and woollen goods.

Mr. Lee-Grayson told of the first two abortive attempts by Julius Caesar to invade Britain, the Roman Legions becoming violently seasick while attempting to cross on rough barges from the French coast and being beaten off handily.

About one hundred years later, the Romans did manage to invade Britain successfully and found a people with a culture, trade system and monetary system of their own.

When the Romans entered London they found a "town of some importance, a go ahead town," Mr. Lee Grayson claimed, quoting Sidney R. Jones as an authority on the culture of the occupants of the "Smoky Isles" at that time.

Because of the rough handling his men had received, Julius Caesar had labelled the Ancient Britons "savage barbarians," but the later Roman conquerors found conditions which disproved this point. The Britons had a moral, high-class standard.

When the Romans captured the chief Briton war leader, and took him to Rome, Claudius Caesar envied him his fluent Latin and his easy flow of language as he pleaded for an understanding of the Britons and withdrawal of Roman troops from the Isles.

Boadicea sacked London, then occupied by the Roman high command staff because her two daughters had been outraged by two Romans, "who had betrayed a trust."

According to authentic authorities, the Britons were fair fighters, they were honest and fair in their dealings, they were traders and artisans.

"The facts are there," he concluded, asking why school books and teachers teach otherwise when authoritative sources are available for the true facts.

Domestic Water Line to Peach Valley Assured

Five prospective domestic water users appeared before the council on May 10 from the Paradise Flat-Peach Valley area to declare their willingness to subscribe $125 each towards the cost of the domestic water extension service to that area.

In order to provide adequate service, the estimated cost has been placed at $2,521.

The council has agreed to proceed with this work and has worked out a formula whereby the next three users tapping onto this new service will also be required to pay $125 each towards the cost.

In the next five years, if any further new residents require service, their $125 contribution will be rebated to the first eight users connected.

It was stated that Mel Monro had offered to contract for the ditch digging and filling at a price of $750, but did not wish to lay out $125 in cash. Including the tunnelling under the railroad, the cost of digging and refilling had been placed at $924. The crossing of the railway line would have to be a separate deal undertaken under CPR supervision, it was pointed out.

Mr. Monro is being served from another line now and the council agreed that if he wishes to tap the new service he would have to put up the $125 in cash.

Any contract entered into between the municipality and Mr. Monro in connection with the extension of service would not be linked with the original plan of each new user contributing $125, the council declared.

As soon as the payments are made and the necessary pipe is obtained the work will start, it was stated.

NOTE FOR SCHOOL
Rossland taxpayers voted overwhelmingly in favor of the school district's plan to build a new high school there. Of the 506 who cast ballots, 434 voted in favor of the proposed school, with 66 against.

THREE APPLICANTS FOR OFFICE WORK

Three applications for the position of male typist at the municipal office were opened by the council on May 10. Two were from Vancouver and one from Kelowna. The Kelowna applicant, 23 years of age, will be interviewed by Gordon Smith, municipal clerk and a decision reached by the council at a later date.

CONNECT LIGHT STANDARD

The electric light standard in front of the Linnea Style Shop has now been connected and all street standards are in operation on Granville St., Councillor F. E. Atkinson reported at last week's council session. The connection of the standard on Hastings street will be undertaken as soon as equipment for digging the necessary ditch is available.

Elderly Pioneer Robert Mitchell, Is Laid at Rest

Funeral service for the late Robert Mitchell, who passed away early Thursday morning, May 12, following a short illness, was held on Monday afternoon, May 16, from St. Stephen's Anglican church with Rev. F. V. Harrison officiating.

The late Mr. Mitchell was a well-known pioneer orchardist and municipal irrigation employee. He owned and operated a 20-acre orchard in Prairie Valley for many years.

Born in Scotland 88 years ago, deceased came to Canada as a young man of about 25 years and after a short sojourn in Manitoba and Alberta, he faced still further west, coming to Summerland 45 years ago.

In Manitoba he homesteaded in 1884 and was also connected with logging interests at Brandon. At Vermillion, Alta., he operated a hotel business.

For nearly thirty years Mr. Mitchell was a ditchman and foreman of work on the irrigation system, and was a key figure in the construction of the irrigation system in the early days here.

His wife predeceased him 12 years ago and his only close relative is Thomas Mitchell, resident of Barriere, B.C., who is on a return visit to his native Scotland now.

Interment was in the Anglican church cemetery Monday afternoon with the following as pallbearers: Messrs. W. R. Tweedy, E. Gould, E. E. Campbell, H. Tomlin, C. E. Bentley and A. Rutherford.

Board of Trade Hears Local Council Plans for Speed Limit And Other Traffic Safety Aids

Speed limits and need for more precautionary measures on the municipal roads were subjects which brought keen discussion at the monthly meeting of the Summerland Board of Trade at the IOOF hall on Thursday evening.

H. Beeman, chairman of the traffic safety committee, brought in recommendations that a 20 mile per hour speed limit be imposed throughout the municipality.

This suggestion did not meet with board approval, however, as Councillor C. E. Bentley explained that the provincial government has passed legislation providing standard 30 mph speed limit regulations in every municipality in the province.

Summerland council is planning a bylaw to incorporate this standard regulation and other necessary safety precautions, including the posting of some ten stop signs, he explained.

After some discussion regarding the difference between 25 and 30 mph as a speed limit, Herb Pohlman introduced another thought that the entire question "boils down to policing."

"You don't speed in Kelowna because you know if you do you will be pinched," he declared. "Drivers won't pay any attention to signs. Our policeman needs an assistant as he can't police from an office chair."

Alan Calvert interceded with the information that a policeman can check a driver on driving to the common danger no matter what the speed.

Mr. Beeman also talked on signs and reviewed the recommendations which had been made by the traffic safety committee over the past two years with little action resulting. "We are tired of recommending signs with no action taken."

On the subject of another police officer, Councillor C. E. Bentley explained that Summerland municipality does not pay the full salary of the present constable stationed here, as he has duties in Peachland and surrounding unorganized area.

"If you want to recommend another policeman, then the ratepayers will have to pay for the extra cost," he warned.

This subject was a natural for

Value is Best Advertisement Says A. J. Mann

Values in advertising on letterheads and envelopes was the subject of an unusual and interesting address to the Summerland Board of Trade Thursday night at the IOOF hall when A. J. Mann, of the Summerland experimental station staff, told of his collecting hobby.

Not only did Mr. Mann display examples of letterheads and envelopes with remarks on the value of the advertising message contained thereon, but he stressed that advertising of the greatest value must be truthful in the extreme.

For a long-range program, quality of product is the best advertising, he believed, and advertising must be truthful.

Mr. Mann gave the board members a few tips on facts about this community which could be advertised to the benefit of business firms and Summerland as a whole.

He suggested that Summerland's geographical position, its climate, soil, area population, crops grown, and public utilities offered form the main basis of advertising value, plus the value of the crops produced and the labor which goes into the production.

A bulletin, prominently displayed, informing the local and visiting public of meetings and happenings during the week would be a valuable asset in the community, he considered.

Be Proud of Quality

He frowned upon persons who try to compare Summerland with the larger centres, such as Penticton. Summerland is a place not too large and not too small, and quality means more than size, he believed. The population should be proud of its quality rather than making comparisons as to size.

At the outset, Mr. Mann gave the board some insight into the work which must be undertaken in producing new varieties of fruit.

The new Spartan apple, which is a cross of the McIntosh and Newtown, and the Jubilee will prove a valuable advertising medium for Summerland in future years, he thought, as these new apples are considered the best commercial prospects developed for some time.

The Spartan is a hardy apple and has desirable color and handling characteristics but Mr. Mann is not content to stop there.

Mr. Mann is attempting to cross the Spartan with a Russian tree, Hibernia, in order to produce a tree which will withstand the rigors of the hardest winter and still provide a large, colorful apple.

This may be a seedling of promise in another 16 to 24 years, but it takes years of patience and slow work to produce new varieties, as nature moves slowly and cannot be hurried.

However, there is a lot of fine potential advertising value for Summerland in the prospect of this new variety.

the introduction of the government sub-agency needed here, a hardy annual which has been consistently turned down by the provincial government. It was still considered by speakers that the sub-agency is a necessity here but no suggestion was made as to any possibility of persuading the government to this effect.

Makes Water Tests

Secretary Lorne Perry reported that the Okanagan Health Unit sanitarian had made tests of the lake water and creek near the site of the old CNR wharf and will make a report to the board. F. W. Schumann, who heads a committee investigating this strip as a possible bathing beach was not present to report progress.

Before the subject of roads was discarded, George Stoll, who has travelled throughout B.C. and Washington extensively in the past month, declared that the Penticton-Summerland highway is the "worst piece of road in the country."

On his suggestion, a letter is to be written the public works department seeking maintenance action to get the road into shape.

There was also some condemnation of this department for the lack of proper signs on the Shingle Creek detour during the Penticton bridge tieup last week.

Also at the suggestion of George Stoll, the board went on record as favoring the retention of the Duck Lake reclamation scheme, near Creston, a migratory bird sanctuary.

Mr. Stoll declared that all sportsmen's organizations are seeking this action and are seeking board of trade support, as this property is a haven for migratory birds, and is the last resting place for the travellers in the interior. If this haven is lost to the birds, no more ducks will be available for sportsmen in the interior, he claimed.

Mr. Stoll also stated that the land would only be useful for wheat production and he considered there is plenty of other land available in Canada for this purpose.

For the agricultural committee, Alex Watt passed on a recommendation to the new industries committee that there is part-time employment, at least, available for persons who can look after gardens and orchards. He also suggested that manufacturing of mouse bait stations for the orchards could prove a profitable spare-time job for some man here.

Mr. Watt also spoke of enquiries made to him regarding the number of nursery trees which are brought in to Summerland and which could be produced right here. He told the board that a young Summerland man has started a nursery business here and should be encouraged.

Don Tait, on behalf of the parks committee, outlined his group's plans as were reported in last week's issue.

At the suggestion of Councillor F. E. Atkinson, the local trade board will send a resolution to the Associated Boards of Trade of the Southern Interior urging the department of public health to pass regulations calling upon every restaurant serving three-course meals to provide adequate washroom facilities.

Penticton Loses Town Planners

PENTICTON — Penticton last week was without a Town Planning Commission.

City council Monday, May 9, accepted an offer from the appointed members of the commission to resign, following receipt of a letter signed by Chairman Marvin Syer and Commissioners C. L. Sharp, H. S. Kenyon, F. G. Pyle, G. J. Angliss and Wilson Hunt. The letter, read in silence Monday night, was as follows:

"Please be advised that the Penticton Town Planning Commission, as a body, feels that due to recent actions of the city council in connection with town planning, we are no longer of value as an advisory body. Therefore, we offer to tender our resignation."

The offer to resign was accepted by council after a few minutes' speculation on what was meant by "recent actions."

"I suppose they mean the Clarke Sawmill business," said Alderman J. W. Johnson. "Or perhaps it was that wrecked car incident."

"Like any other commission they are appointed to relieve the load from the council," said Mayor Robert Lyon. "I do not recollect that we have disagreed with them so often."

Mark June 9 and 10 on Your Calendar

TUBERCULOSIS is one of the most serious diseases in Canada today and yet is the most readily cured if found in its early stage, according to Dr. H. B. L. Zeman, director of the South Okanagan Health Unit, which is bringing the mobile T.B. X-ray clinic to Summerland on June 9 and 10.

That is the reason why it is so important that every person from 15 years of age upward should make a point of having an X-ray taken on either of those two days, so that they can be assured that they are free of this disease.

Cost of this mobile travelling clinic is underwritten by those who purchase Christmas Seals.

Until equipment using small films was developed, mass surveys were impractical and costly, chest clinics had to be confined to known and suspected cases. As a result, not more than one in five persons suffering from tuberculosis was discovered until it had progressed to serious stages.

Now this danger can be averted. Found in its early stage, and properly treated at once, tuberculosis can be cured and the possibility of passing it on to others overcome.

More persons in the age group of 15 to 35 die from tuberculosis than from all other infectious diseases combined. This is largely because an affected person may go for some time not at all aware that the infection has been contracted, or that disease is developing.

Anyone of us can be attacked by this disease and at any time in our life. The old belief that those over 30 are no longer susceptible is no longer with foundation. Helping in the task of destroying this enemy of man is a duty that belongs to us all. One of the surest ways of doing this is by having an x-ray before any symptoms occur, and while we still look well and feel well. It is truly said that no home is safe from tuberculosis until all homes are safe.

RED CROSS DRIVE OVER SUBSCRIBED IN THIS PROVINCE

Citizens of British Columbia have over-subscribed the objective of $500,000 in the 1949 Red Cross appeal by more than $45,000 it is announced by Hon. E. W. Hamber, provincial drive chairman.

When final returns are tabulated, officials expect the figure to be well in excess of this amount.

"It is most gratifying," said Mr. Hamber, "to know that the citizens of this province are so completely behind this great humanitarian work."

"During the disastrous floods last spring, the work of Red Cross was displayed more vividly than ever before in its peacetime history. I feel that the response to the 1949 appeal was an endorsement and a token of appreciation—both by those persons directly affected by the floods, and those in a spectator capacity in other parts of the province.

"British Columbia was the second province in the dominion to go over the top in this year's campaign," continued Mr. Hamber. "The credit for this showing goes to the thousands of volunteer workers who gave so generously of their time, and to the citizens who made such generous contributions."

Summerland is reported as one of the districts to go over the top with a total of $3,163.63.

Two Tie for Lead At Rifle Club Range

Last Sunday, Art Dunsdon and Doug Price tied for top honors at the Garnet Valley range of the Summerland Rifle club. They each scored 95 out of 105 possible. A drizzling rain did not help the contestants.

Other scores were George Dunsdon 94, Ted, Fred and Phil Dunsdon 93, Joe McLachlan 92, Len Shannon 89, Jack Dunsdon 88, Pop Dunsdon 84, Les Gould 83, Herb Simpson 80.

To every man and woman there comes at some time the blank realization—the blank is not for profanity necessarily, but to be filled in at the reader's choice—that he or she is no longer young. Though long past that stage myself, I cannot give you any definite signs of when it occurs. A wise man once said that the transition from youth to age comes when you stop looking forward and start to look back into the past. Maybe it was an equally wise man who located it as when you stop giving—or receiving—wolf calls.

Nor can I give you any definite age. Some are already old at twenty, others youthful at sixty—in fact, some remain young all their lives. Judge Oliver Wendell Holmes, when he was well over eighty, turned to look at a pretty girl in the street and remarked to his companion, "Ah, Brandeis, what would I not give to be only seventy again."

The really important thing is not when the realization comes, or how, but the way you face it. If you dread it; if you'd put the word 'horrible' in that blank at the beginning, and want to forget your birthdays and still wear the long dresses or turned up trousers of youth and act giddy as a kitten of corresponding sex—well, it's an unhappy time for you, to put it mildly. You can be unhappy about it all your days, too; and quickly become one of those who love to bore others with reminiscences of the good old days, and announce repeatedly that 'school days are the best days of your life.' (Try telling that to the current crop of youngsters!)

Youth is indeed a wonderful time of life, when you're full of energy and enthusiasm, ready to slave for a purpose or take fire for a cause—a time for adventure and crusade, revolution and romance.

But don't forget, when it is past, that it had its drawbacks too. Remember how awkward and clumsy and uncertain you used to feel in your late teens and early twenties? Remember how such trifles as unruly hair, a pimple on the chin, a twisted shoelace, or a thoughtless remark, would worry you for days? And how lack of clothes in the style affected by others of your age—no matter how horrible—haunted you like an unconfessed crime?

My secret shame in youth was dandruff, and for years I was deathly afraid that, although even my friends would not tell me, some enemy would one day cut out a Listerine advertisement and leave it on my pillow. Which of course would then be wet with tears night after night for alas, I used Listerine feverishly, and the tattle-tale grey flakes still dropped from my hair.

I pored over magazine advertisements for other cures, and tried all that offered free samples and several that did not. There was one concoction that came in a jar with a rubber top that had little rubber fingers sticking out, and when you rubbed your head with it, the extract of nightingales' livers in the bottle was squeezed out of the fingers onto your scalp. Also they tickled like everything. Now I don't believe the ads so much, and don't worry about flakes of dried skin falling from my scalp, and am that much happier in consequence.

Actually it seems to me that not only "age hath his honor and his toil," but it also hath a lot less worries. Youth is wonderful, yes; but how little you know when you're young. For that matter, how little you know when you're old; by that time, though, you're hardened to it. Yet there is much truth in Mark Twain's remark that when he was seventeen, he thought his father shamefully ignorant; but by the time he was twenty-five, he was amazed how much the old man had learned in seven years.

Maybe there can be a wisdom and serene contentedness in age which balances the energy and enthusiasm of youth. Maybe there is more truth than wisecrack in another great man's saying, from that perennially youthful nonagenarian, G.B.S.:

"What a wonderful thing is youth; and what a pity to waste it on the young."

Four New Parks Are Set Aside

Four new parks for the recreation and enjoyment of the public have been set aside by orders-in-council passed by the provincial government. Hon. E. T. Kenney, minister of lands and forests announces.

These parks include thirty-five acres on Saltspring Island, to be known as Beaver Point Park; thirty acres on the south shore of Quesnel Lake; ten acres on Plato Island in Quesnel Lake and sixty-one acres on the east bank of the Fraser River, six miles south of Quesnel.

Lay Huge Cable to Saltspring Island

The largest submarine cable in the Pacific Northwest will be laid between Vancouver and Saltspring Island by the B.C. Power Commission it is announced by Premier Byron Johnson.

The cable will carry 3,000 KVA at 23,000 volts and will connect Crofton, north of Chemainus and a point adjacent to Booth Canal. The cable is designed to carry sufficient power to meet the present and anticipated future needs of not only Saltspring Island but other islands of the gulf island group.

Pioneer Days

THIRTY YEARS AGO
May 23, 1919

W. J. Bowser, former premier, visited Summerland and spoke at the College gymnasium.

In an article published in the Vancouver World, J. M. Robinson, who founded Peachland, Summerland and Naramata, has described his plan to interest Californians to visit the Okanagan.

At a cost of $1,800 the hospital will have installed a new and Modern X-ray machine.

All indications are that there will be an abundance of water to fill the storage dams at the heads of Trout and Eneas creeks.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
May 15, 1924

A. T. Howe has resigned his position as president of the Associated Growers of B.C. and E. J. Chambers of Penticton succeeds him. The Associated has now obtained control of more than 80 percent of the crop and is formulating plans for its 1924 selling campaign.

Temperature, of over 80 degrees have persisted for a week, with one day's exception when the thermometer registered 76. This is believed a record for so early in the season.

Requests for the privilege of carrying firearms out of season for the destruction of pests, particularly crows and magpies, is being sought by members of the fish and game association.

Concrete will be used to replace the last wooden culvert on the Peach Orchard road.

A. B. Elliott was chosen president of the South Okanagan Liberal-Conservative Assn. at a convention in Kelowna which chose J. W. Jones as candidate.

Independent packing houses have formed the Fruit and Vegetable Shippers' Assn. of B.C.

A meeting to organize temperance workers for the vote on June 20 on the beer by the glass question was held at St. Andrew's hall. W. C. Kelley was elected chairman, and W. M. Jenkinson secretary.

PARDON our pointing... with pride.

But it's an event when the number of bank workers passes the 40,000 mark—as it did last year.

That's 65% more than before the war.

It's an event, first, because it shows the increased use of Canadian bank services...

More deposit accounts: now over seven million.

More funds: customers' deposits now reach nearly seven billion dollars. More services: to farmers; to personal and small-business borrowers; to war pensioners; to people receiving Family Allowances.

It's an event, too, because of the kind of men and women who have joined our ranks. Eager to get ahead, they are finding in banking an interesting job, a challenging career. They can tell you how important privacy in banking is to the Canadian way of doing things.

Legislation has been suggested to provide the necessary authority but has not been passed yet, the department declared.

Summerland council is replying with a request for further information regarding its previous suggestion that a transport department radio interference man be stationed in the Okanagan.

Reports on Salary Of Radiologist

At the Summerland Hospital Society meeting last week, it was reported by Secretary J. E. O'Mahony that the radiologist Dr. Lacroix, who visits Summerland once a week has been placed on a permanent salary basis and will operate in Penticton, Summerland and Oliver.

He was formerly on a basis of payment relative to the amount of work on hand but an agreement was reached recently between Dr. J. M. Hershey, chief of the hospital insurance service and representatives of the hospitals affected.

Summerland will pay one-tenth, Oliver two-tenths and Penticton seven-tenths of Dr. Lacroix' salary, which is set at $8,000 per year plus $1,000 travelling expenses. He will also receive $1,000 increment yearly for four years.

Under this setup, Summerland will pay $75 per month for radiologist's services, a decrease from the average monthly payment being made in the past.

A banquet was held in the Burns hall and an evening's entertainment enjoyed by both Oddfellows and Rebekahs in the new Oddfellows' hall in Vernon.

Canadian Fashion Social Evening By Service Club Is Appreciated

Self-belted slacks and fingertip length "shacket" in fine striped black and white cashmere cord make an attractive year-round outfit.

St. Andrew's Service Club held its annual social evening on Tuesday, May 10, in the church hall.

For the first part of the program Dr. J. C. Wilcox acted as master of ceremonies. A humorous pantomime entitled "We are Seven" brought many laughs from the audience. Mrs. H. R. Whitmore read the poem, while Mrs. L. Fudge provided the musical setting on the piano.

Those acting in the pantomime were Mrs. A. Crawford, Mrs. T. McDonald, Mrs. Lloyd Shannon, Mrs. Jack Dunsdon, Mrs. Blair Underwood, Mrs. J. Sheeley, Mrs. H. Pilkington, and Mrs. H. Braddock.

A solo "The Blind Ploughman" by Mrs. Whitmore, accompanied by Mrs. H. V. Stent, and a recitation "Life Get Te-Jus" by Mrs. H. Pilkington preceded the comedy play "The Happy Journey from Trenton to Camden".

The play was the story of a family making a car journey, and showing many humorous sides of family life. The cast included Mrs. A. McKenzie, Mrs. R. McLachlan, Mrs. H. Pilkington, Mrs. J. Mayne, Mrs. Leslie Rumball and Mrs. A. Scott.

Miss Shirley Gardiner, winner of festival honors, sang "I Love Life" with piano accompaniment by Mrs. L. Fudge.

To conclude the first part of the program two musical numbers were sung by actors in the play. They were "Cruising Down The River" and "Buttons on an' Bows". The latter brought an encore request.

The second half of the entertainment consisted of some novel and amusing games and contests presented by Mrs. D. Proverbs and Mrs. J. C. Wilcox. For these games everyone was divided into separate groups and keen competition took place in a friendly, humorous manner. Irish autographs and charades were played. Dr. J. C. Wilcox was the winner of a very bouncy ball as grand champion in the Irish autographs. The social closed with tasty refreshments featuring delicious lemon pies, and everyone agreed that it had been a very enjoyable evening.

"I'm in business for myself"

Allan McDonald, Owner of Morva Service Chevron Gas Station, Chilliwack, B.C.

"I guess Morva Service, outside of Chilliwack, was just about the smallest gas station in B.C. back in 1936. On a 12 ft. x 10 ft. lot I had a general store and one hand pump. No electricity—no water. I sold about 25 gallons of gasoline a month, and my savings were nickles and dimes put aside in a special tin box. It took time, but those savings grew until I had enough to finance a new, larger Morva Service. Hard work, Van, but I've had time for outside interests, too. I'm manager of the cup-winning Morva Atchell's boys' basketball team. I've made lots of good friends. And with those good friends, good products and good luck, I've built the old Morva Service into a business I'm proud to own."

Straith Wants Entire Rebate For Education

Although provisions of the act state that the three percent sale tax is for social assistance and municipal aid and the one percent rebate to the municipalities contained no stipulation as to the manner in which this rebate would be used, Hon. W. T. Straith, minister of education, appears to believe that it should be applied in its entirety towards the cost of education. But, as a matter of fact, the exact opposite occurred in Summerland where the council applied all its rebate to reduce the general rate and did not show any portion towards relief of mounting school costs.

Mr. Straith produced figures to prove his argument that the provincial government is providing 66.8 percent of the school costs in Summerland.

The total cost of education this year he placed at $95,000 for this district. Although it was originally thought Summerland's share of the three percent sales tax would be about $18,000, Mr. Straith submitted a figure of nearly $24,000 which he thought should be subtracted from the total education cost, leaving $71,000. Of this net figure, the government educational grant would run to $40,000 while the government's share in building costs would be $7,000, leaving only $24,000 for Summerland taxpayers to dig up from their own coffers.

No official comment was passed by the council on the minister of education summing up, but it was clearly evident that the municipal fathers could not agree with his line of reasoning.

At no time did the government intimate that any particular department, such as that of education, could grab the kudos of the rebate to the municipalities, council members declared.

Another letter from Victoria sought Summerland council support to a move towards increasing the rebate from one percent to one and a half percent. The letter was filed.

Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony was in complete charge of arranging the beautiful Fair Queen crowning ceremony and the royal party with a guard of honor from Kay Hamilton's girls' choir made a lovely picture on the stage.

Final affair was the windup dance at Ellison hall which saw a medium-sized crowd dancing to Saxie's orchestra from Penticton.

Many other persons too numerous to mention were always ready and willing to lend a hand, and their assistance was very necessary to assure the success of the fair.

O. L. Jones, MP for Yale, was enthusiastic in his commendation of the Summerland Spring Fair.

He found that all they had came from the Summerland Co-operative. Some boxes were opened, and he told the man in charge about Summerland, to such advantage that this man thought he would come here to retire.

He extended congratulations on the displays, and said that as member for Yale he was proud of this part of his constituency. The reigning Queen on the dais in her royal robes, with blue velvet cape, crowned the 1949 Queen, and in giving her the sceptre said that she wished 1949 might be a banner year for the board of trade, and ended saying, "My princesses and I hope that you will have prosperity in all your undertakings."

Mr. Armstrong, on behalf of the board of trade, made presentations to Queen Merle, the princesses and the pages. Flowers were given to Miss Sylvia Jones, who accompanied her father, Mrs. Pares, sister of Mr. C. E. Bentley, and to Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony, wife of the president of the board of trade, to whom Mr. Armstrong paid tribute as "the one who is largely responsible for the success of this ceremony."

Mr. Armstrong outlined the fair program, after which the royal party led the way in a tour of the exhibits.

Most visitors knew that those initials stood for Reeve Reid Johnston who has advocated a new road up Giant's Head for years.

Holmes & Wade Ltd. concentrated on one product only, C-I-L paints and varnishes and the display was a mass of contrasting colors.

Next was the DeLuxe Electric booth in which Howard Shannon had arranged a tricky flash sign which spelled out the name of his business. Electrical appliances and records featured this booth. The Addison piano in this display was loaned to the fair for the Tuesday evening performance.

An attractive bedroom suite, finished in natural color was proudly displayed by Harry Beeman's Summerland Furniture booth, as an example of the furniture turned out by this manufacturing plant.

Two booths were taken by the A. K. Elliott department store to show a wide range of Beatty electrical appliances, Frigidaires, Good Cheer ranges and furniture.

Then came the two booths arranged by Butler & Walden, the first containing CGE electrical appliances and the second being devoted to Sherwin Williams paints.

Final booth on the east side was a colorful one showing products of the Maywood Photo Finishers and containing a "What Is It?" contest.

Along West Side

After viewing the Tree Fruits colored display, visitors went to the B.C. Fruit Processors Ltd. booth where apple juice, vinegar and other byproducts of the apple industry were displayed around a big revolving cylinder.

Barkwill's Ltd. had a novel background showing four varieties of soft fruits, pears, apricots and peaches presumably falling into cans carrying the Royal City label.

As a focal point in the Cornwall Canning Co. display, the Castle Brand was prominent, cans bearing that label being assembled in the form of a castle.

A train announcing the AOTS Hobby Fair on June 11 was one of the most prominent features of the AOTS Club display. Next came the Boy Scouts booth where balloons and postcards depicting Giant's Head with the cenotaph and park-playground in the foreground were the main attractions.

Army Week was brought to the attention of the visitors by the B.C. Dragoons display of Bren and MMG guns and a variety of wireless equipment, including a Walky Talky.

Fishing, tennis and golf equipment in front of a big moose head created interest for The Sports Centre.

Roofing and Glidden paints formed the main basis of the T. S. Manning lumber display.

Robin Hood flour in various sizes and types was the main feature of the Summerland Groceteria booth.

Won Major Prize Prize winning booth was that of Macil's Ladies' Wear, which depicted a garden scene, complete with boughs, a rock garden, green plants and shrubbery. It was the most artistic of all the displays and won for this firm the F. W. Schumann trophy presented this year for annual competition at the Spring Fair by Mr. Schumann, past president of the trade board.

Macil's also displayed yard goods in its second booth. Boothe's Grocery, one of the United Purity Stores, featured Malkin's Best products and like the Groceteria and the Family Shoe Store conducted a free drawing during the fair.

West Summerland Building Supplies Ltd. background was an attractive fireplace, while Gyproc, Gyptex and Bapco and Satin-Glo paints were the main articles carried.

Final booth on the west side was the school exhibit, showing many fine pieces of wood lath work and dresses from the home economics department, besides some intricate pocketbooks.

Along the verandah on the north side were the displays of Case farm machinery and Dodge trucks by Nesbitt Motors, and the Bean farm machinery and Disston chain saw by Okanagan Equipment Ltd., of Penticton and Vernon.

Final exhibit on the verandah was that of the Summerland experimental station which contained two calves, direct descendants of champions Calgarth Starlight and Sunflower, Flora.

Outside, along the west wall, Follock Motors Ltd. had arranged its Chevrolet and Pontiac cars, GMC truck and GM Vauxhall, besides Allis-Chalmers farm machinery.

Directly north, was the fine showing of English model cars by Capitol Motors, which completed the displays.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Wedner, who were married on May 21 at Vancouver, are visiting the latter's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beattie, in Summerland. Mr. Beattie gave his niece away at the wedding ceremony.

Two Okanagan Families United At Ceremony Here

Fifty Years of Married Life Completed by Couple Who Came Here From England in 1907

It was on May 22, 1899, that Mr. Thomas Washington of Leighton, Bedfordshire, took as his bride Miss Ada Ison of Hartshill, Warwickshire. They were married in Holy Trinity church, Hartshill.

After their marriage they moved to London where Mr. Washington was signalman and telegraph operator with the L. & N.W. Railway.

In 1907 they came to Summerland with their two children, Tom and Sylvia. Their youngest son, George, was born here.

For many years Mr. Washington has been a fruit grower, and has taken an active part in the community. He has served as a councillor, and also as a director of the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Association. He was the last president of the Old-Timers' association.

On Sunday, May 22, they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, with all their children present. Mr. and Mrs. Washington's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Riha flew from Vallejo, Calif., for the occasion. Four of their six grandchildren were there, too, Louise and Evelyn, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Washington, and Marilyn and Gerald, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. George Washington. Melvin and Eroydon Riha did not accompany their parents as they are attending Vallejo College.

About one hundred and seventy friends attended the reception held at 'Isonia', their home, where the reception was held on Sunday afternoon.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with lavender iris, and yellow lilies against a background of spirea.

Mr. and Mrs. Washington received their many guests, and Evelyn Washington had charge of the guest book. Mrs. Washington wore a becoming grey crepe dress, with corsage of yellow roses and carnations.

The tea-table was covered with a lace cloth, and in the centre was a three-tiered wedding cake, appropriately decorated in gold. On the top was the china ornament that was used on their wedding-cake fifty years ago. White candles ornamented in gold, held in silver candlesticks were on each side of the cake.

In the afternoon Mrs. C. E. McCutcheon and Mrs. W. D. Laidlaw poured tea, and in the evening Mrs. E. Brighton and Mrs. F. Farrow.

Refreshments were served by their children and grandchildren.

Many congratulatory cards and telegrams were received. During the afternoon there was a telephone call from their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. S. Jackson, Vancouver.

Beautiful and useful gifts were received from the family and friends, and a great number of bouquets of flowers.

Legion W.A. Hears Report on Convention

The regular monthly meeting of the Legion W.A. was held on May 17 with 29 present. Donations were made to the Red Shield and the Cancer funds, the monthly overseas parcel being sent by Mrs. Mable Brown this time.

This is the last meeting to be held in the Legion hall. Notice will be given as to where the future ones will be held.

A very favorable report was brought back from the convention in Victoria by Mrs. H. Mc-Cutcheon, who was standard bearer and Mrs. W. Milne.

This was the first time that the Summerland branch has had its own flag.

The monthly raffle was won by Mrs. T. Logie and the meeting closed with Mrs. L. Johnston serving tea.

Story No. 5

Originally planned for five articles, Mr. Reg. Jones' The Saskatchewan Story, has strung out to nine articles. In this issue is given the fifth portion, dealing with the fish board. The Review believed that Mr. Jones would limit his topic of Saskatchewan to five articles which even the limited space of this newspaper could stand. However, it is believed that the series should be cut at this point, as most of the main points have been covered. Mr. Jones' conclusions are given in this issue, in addition to Article Five.

Mr. Brockelbank spoke thus of the fish board, biggest money loser of the socialists' crown corporations with a $198,370 deficit: "After very careful consideration, the government has come to the conclusion that, in the face of so many adverse factors, to continue to operate the Saskatchewan Fish Board as a commercial agency, attempting to buy and sell fish and measure results on a balance sheet, is not advisable."

The Switcheroo

In announcing the switcheroo, Mr. Brockelbank said the government:

(1) was discontinuing the Fish Board as a commercial operation but would keep the board as a noncompulsory type of marketing agency (all commercial fish caught up to this date had to be marketed exclusively through the fish board);

(2) would establish a floor price for fish when conditions and fishermen demanded it;

(3) would continue to plan, organize and regulate the industry;

(4) was getting out of the fish filleting business but would keep the plants available for the fishing industry;

(5) would concentrate on the "social and economic needs" of northern fishermen.

The Third Story

But between the lines of these two events, little more than a year apart, lies a third story.

It is a story of failure, all the more tragic because it was so unnecessary: a story of an attempt to establish an all-out monopoly in the fishing industry.

And because of political expediency and pressures, bureaucratic administration and mismanagement by incompetent parties, its

In its issue of January 5, 1948, the "Saskatchewan News," one of the propaganda organs of the socialist government, there appeared under the headline "STABILITY FOR THE FISHERMEN" the story of the Saskatchewan Fish Board.

In glowing terms it emphasized that the fish board was introducing a system of orderly marketing in much the same manner as the Canadian Wheat Board and thereby guaranteeing the primary producer a fair average price for the product; aiming to prevent exploitation of the producer and to bring stability and prosperity to a previously unplanned industry; concluding with the statement that "... distinct advantages are resulting from the steadier flow to the market under the new plan."

On March 28, 1949, Resources Minister J. H. Brockelbank announced in the legislature that the government-operated fish board, whose activities had been under constant criticism by northern members of the legislature during the session, would be discontinued as a commercial operation.

This third story, which the socialists have not been in any haste to print in the "Saskatchewan News" for their people to read, and the details of which have not been smoked out by the opposition ranks, was told to me by a man who played an integral role in the operations of the fish board and who was, in his own words, "until recently so ardent a socialist that I was branded a Communist!"

I see no reason to doubt his word, for since his early childhood he had been nurtured on the wonders of socialism, his whole being steeped in its doctrines.

Disheartened

"If you had come to me and suggested there was anything wrong with the CCF, I'd have been ready to fight you," he told me when I went to his home to see him.

Now, disheartened by his disillusionment, he told me in generalities of the socialists' way of doing things.

He pointed to a brief-case beside him.

"In there are all the facts and figures that can back up what I have to say."

"Some day these figures will become known through the proper channels and the people will know the true story of the way the fish board was run."

I pressed him to let me examine the documents he had, so that the authenticity of his statements could not be denied, but he refused to do so because of a very real fear of recrimination.

(There are those among my readers who will laugh this one off as childish prattle that should be in the "bed-time story" category, while there may be others who will accuse me of being a "terrorist." It matters not. All I know is that it was not a very healthy thing to see in a land of democracy. And for that reason alone I shall not further reveal the identity of my informant.)

"The operation of the fish plant has been one of the sorriest experiments and it could have been one of the best."

"But you cannot give lip-service in theory and not follow it up in practice."

"To start with, political businesses such as the fish board are subjected to a rougher road than private endeavors, and they require an outstanding calibre of administration if they are going to be successful."

Swept in Opportunities

"However, when the socialists swept into power they swept in a lot of opportunists with them, who were very astute and had no scruples."

"I saw a lot that was rotten in the old parties, but we looked for something better in the CCF. No doubt they forced a better deal in politics, but the manner in which some of their operations are being carried out now is something akin to that of pre-war Germany."

Mr. Phelps was asked if the negotiations for purchase of three private-owned plants in the province meant the government intended reserving the fish filleting field

Canners and Inspectors at Grades School

A week-long conference on uniformity of grading canned goods, was held at the Summerland experimental station fruit byproducts laboratory under the charge of F. E. Atkinson.

This year, not only were fruit and vegetable inspectors who are called upon to grade products going into cans called to this week-long school but representatives of most of the B.C. cannery plants were present, as well, to obtain a better knowledge of grading requirements.

Demonstrations and lectures were held from Monday to Friday last week with the visitors divided into small teams to make their own tests and state their reasons for grading the canned product. All products canned in British Columbia were tested and graded at this school with the ultimate object of obtaining a uniform grade throughout the province.

Among the fruit inspectors present were Ray Thomas and Frank Pidruckney of Vancouver, Bill Hayward of Vernon, Harold Miller of Kelowna, Charles Wilson of Creston, William Plishka of Lethbridge and B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. inspectors Andy Bennie of Penticton and H. W. Brown of Summerland.

Commercial cannery representatives consisted of Ian Greenwood of Bulman's Ltd., Vernon; Blair Underwood and Mrs. L. Mazur, Underwood Cannery, Summerland; Bob Barkwill and Mrs. H. Schaefer, Barkwill's Ltd., Summerland; Ryan Lolly and Doug Campbell, Cornwall Canning Company, Summerland; J. A. Stowell and Duke Avery, Stowell Canning Co., Oliver; Don Huntley and Rex Huntley, Huntley Bros., Oliver.

He replied:

"No. It is not the intention of the government to reserve the field to itself. If private operators seek a licence to establish another filleting and cold storage plant and they can comply with government regulations, there is no reason why such a licence cannot be granted."

"WE ARE NOT NECESSARILY CLOSING THE FIELD TO PRIVATE ENTERPRISE."

Slightly Mixed

On March 6, 1949, Mr. Phelps in the legislature, in answer to opposition questions, said the government actually owned two filleting plants, were negotiating to buy another and had options on two. Premier Douglas the next day in a radio broadcast to the people said the government owned five filleting plants.

The warehouse and freighting equipment of Axel Olsen of Prince Albert was bought by the government for storage. Olsen was named manager of one of the filleting plants and a director of the Sas-

CIO's Philip Murray Says this about Free Enterprise

"The rights of private property and free choice of action under a system of private competitive capitalism, must continue to be the foundation of our nation's peaceful and prosperous expanding economy. Free competition and free men are the strength of our free economy."

Canada's CCL unions are affiliated with the CIO in the United States. But some Canadian leaders of the CCL are advocating Socialism. They take a position directly opposite to that of Scottish-born Philip Murray who is outspokenly opposed to Socialism, Communism or any form of collectivism.

Like William Green, president of the AFL, Philip Murray sees Competitive Free Enterprise as the foundation of the rights and security of organized labor.

He Drinks Too Much...

The following article is reprinted from "The Truck Logger Magazine."

Alcoholism—fourth ranking public health problem in the United States and recognized as a leading problem by Canadian health authorities is taking its toll from the ranks of this country's business and industry, including the forest products industry.

Employers, deeply conscious of their responsibilities in regard to their employees' personal well-being, have granted shorter working hours, pensions, and many other benefits.

However in the majority of cases, mainly through lack of understanding, they have taken stern and decisive action in regard to problem drinkers who may be numbered among their employees. That action inevitably results in the termination of the alcoholic's employment, no matter how efficient an employee he may be.

During the last few years widespread and concerted efforts by organizations in Canada and the United States have brought to light many interesting facts concerning alcohol and its effect upon certain constituted individuals.

First, and of major importance, is the fact that alcoholism is recognized by medical science as a disease and not as a character defect or weakness.

The alcoholic's bodily chemical makeup is such that he or she reacts differently from the social or moderate drinker. To an alcoholic one drink is too many and 100 drinks are not enough. Once he or she takes the first drink the reaction is such that they are overcome by an uncontrollable craving for more alcohol. The result is that the alcoholic continues each time to drink until he or she is drunk. These drinking orgies continue in many cases for days and weeks and even months.

To the true alcoholic, all else is excluded from their minds but the obtaining of more to drink until they have drunk themselves into such a physical condition that hospitalization is required.

The disease of alcoholism is not restricted to any particular section of society but takes its toll from all ranks. Its effect is such that a man or woman afflicted by this tragic disease is powerless after taking the first drink.

The tragedy of alcoholism is more than a personal tragedy for the person so afflicted with this disease. The loss is tremendous in dollars and cents and in ability.

For employers it is measured in the loss of the services of competent employees. To the community it is measured by merchants in the loss of trade, as the alcoholic is temporarily unfit for work. Alcoholism reaches into the home, breaking up families and destroying all that is good.

Many employers, themselves moderate drinkers, will not tolerate alcoholic excesses by their employees, because they are ignorant of the problem faced by the alcoholic.

However, an alert executive can recognize from the standpoint of his company's best interests and also with regard to the personal well-being of his employees, that understanding is a must in dealing with the alcoholic problem of any employee.

Strong opinions and even prejudices, have to be discarded when an employer decides to take a part in the salvaging of such an employee.

Many factors must be taken into consideration and much depends on whether the employee is making a serious effort to stop his drinking. If there is little or no effort on his part he may as well be fired as the discharge of such an individual may be sufficient of a shock to bring him to his senses.

In discussing his alcoholic problem with an employee the employer might use the following approach. The employee might be informed that his drinking problem is known and that while his abilities when he is sober are recognized, he cannot be helped unless he makes a sincere effort to stop drinking.

Once the employee has indicated that he sincerely wishes to stop drinking he should be advised to have a complete physical examination and the necessary medical treatment taken.

When he has returned to his job a valuable aid to the alcoholic's recovery can be rendered if his fellow employees are requested to treat him with understanding. Criticism or any other action which would deter his recovery must be avoided at all costs for it is known that in the first stages of his recovery the alcoholic, deprived of his glass crutch, is highly sensitive and easily hurt.

Although the man should not be babied, everything should be done by those around him to give him encouragement and restore his self-confidence. Healthful, interesting outlets for his energy should be found, for it is known that alcoholics are energetic people.

In addition, there are a number of organizations which give assistance in the rehabilitation of alcoholics and it should be suggested to the employee that he might affiliate with one of these groups.

An outstanding effort in the salvation of alcoholics is being carried out by the organization known as Alcoholics Anonymous.

This organization, composed of alcoholics was established 15 years ago in the United States and has experienced a phenomenal growth since its inception.

As alcoholics, the members bring understanding and help to other victims of the disease as they know and have experienced the problems peculiar to those with an alcoholic addiction.

The proportion of those recovering who join A.A. is recognized at 85 percent.

The basis for the program of Alcoholics Anonymous is that the member must have a sincere desire to stop drinking and must be ready and willing to do his utmost to achieve sobriety.

The keys to the A.A. program of recovery, which has found a remarkable success are as follows:

- (1) Admit they are powerless over alcohol—their lives had become unmanageable.
- (2) Came to believe that a Power greater than themselves could restore them to sanity.
- (3) Made a decision to turn their lives over to the care of God as they understood Him.
- (4) Made a searching and fearless moral inventory of themselves.
- (5) Admitted to God, to themselves and to another human being the exact nature of their wrongs.
- (6) Were entirely ready to have God remove all these defects of character.
- (7) Humbly ask Him to remove their shortcomings.
- (8) Made a list of all persons they had harmed, and became willing to make amends to them all.
- (9) Made direct amends to such persons wherever possible, except when to do so would injure them or others.
- (10) Continued to take personal inventory and when they were wrong promptly admitted it.
- (11) Sought through prayer and meditation to improve their conscious contact with God as they understood Him, praying only for knowledge of His will for them and the power to carry it out.
- (12) Having had spiritual awakening as a result of these steps they tried to carry this message to other alcoholics and to practise these principles in all their affairs.

An alcoholic restored to sobriety regains his self-respect, the love of his family and the admiration of his friends. He is once more a useful member of his community and an asset to his employer. The effort expended in the rehabilitation of the alcoholic to a normal life has its own reward for all those affected in all ways.

First Horticultural News Letter Tells Of Bumper Soft Fruit Crop in Sight

First horticultural news letter of the 1949 season was issued from Kelowna on May 16 and contains the reports on crop conditions throughout the province, with special emphasis on the Okanagan.

"Orchards in the Summerland-Peachland-Westbank area have come through the rather severe winter in much better condition than was anticipated," the local portion of the news letter declares, as of May 10.

"Very deep snow which prevailed throughout the latter part of winter afforded protection to an enormous population of mice with the result that certain orchards suffered quite severe damage from girdling of the trees.

"There has been some low temperature damage to peaches in the upper more marginal areas, but even in these localities, the trees will probably carry a fair crop.

"The season is now about a week to ten days earlier than last year. Stone fruits have shown a prodigious amount of blossom. Moorpark apricots and cherries have been particularly heavy. Peaches have just passed the full bloom stage and have made a good showing.

Light frosts were recorded on several nights last week during the peak period of cherry bloom. Some cherry trees in the upper valleys have been rather hard hit, but the damage is in no way general.

"The rather cool weather which prevailed while the stone fruits were in bloom has now given way to extreme heat, with the result that apple blossom has come along at top speed.

"McIntosh and Newtowns are patchy. However, there is a good showing of apple bloom generally.

CNR MAN RETIRES

Bringing to a close a railroad career that goes back 46 years, William Stapleton, of Winnipeg, passenger traffic manager, Canadian National Railways, stepped into private life recently. Mr. Stapleton is one of the most widely-known passenger men in Canada and numbers his friends, not only in this country, but in the United States and Great Britain.

Pears, particularly Bartlett, have carried a heavy bloom.

"Orchard soils are beginning to get dry. A few sprinkler men have started water and furrows are being run in rill irrigated orchards."

Escaped Winter Kill. Other portions of the valley indicate they escaped the winter with little loss from winter injury, except in the Kamloops area, which reports extensive loss to peach and apricot trees.

Northern valley points also state that the mice' damage was the heaviest in years.

Kelowna states that apple mildew is almost entirely absent this year, so far. This disease has been very prevalent for the past several seasons on susceptible varieties.

Also from Kelowna is the following:

"The new type spray machines are becoming more and more evident. These machines are in great variety, some use the wind blast, some steam, some use concentrated spray solutions, others semi-concentrates or non-concentrates. Points they all have in common are that they cover the acreage much more quickly and eliminate gun men."

Penticton states that the apple blossom is "rather patchy" and Jonathan and Yellow Newtown appear to be on the light side. McIntosh in some parts are lighter than last year while Delicious and Winesap indicate a normal crop. At the present time, the crop will be about average.

Most growers who tried chemical thinning spray this year did so on a small, experimental scale, Oliver, Penticton and northern points indicate.

Hospital Week Marked by Tea

A delightful tea was held in the Oddfellows' hall by members of the Hospital Auxiliary on Saturday, May 14. This was to commemorate National Hospital Week held annually in May.

The hall looked very pretty arranged with baskets of lilac and other spring flowers.

The guests were received by the auxiliary president, Mrs. A. R. Dunsdon, while Mrs. C. G. Bennest and Mrs. F. E. Atkinson poured tea from an attractively-decorated table.

Mrs. J. C. Wilcox and Mrs. T. B. Lott convened the tea, while Mrs. Harvey Eden and Mrs. J. W. Raincock were in charge of the home-cooking stall.

The table lamp, bowl and ash tray, made and donated by Mrs. G. G. Peters for the auxiliary draw was on display under the direction of Miss Doreen Tait.

The candidates in the Fair Queen contest, Miss Connie Shriner, Miss Rose Ann Harrison, and Miss Merle Heavysides were in attendance. They were introduced by Mrs. Dunsdon, and the hospital auxiliary candidate, Miss Connie Shriner, drew the winning ticket in the draw. It proved to be that held by Mrs. Barbour, Giant's Head Road.

Many gifts of linen were received for use at the hospital.

Saving on Water Used Shown By Sprinkler Irrigationists In Local Area, Says Wilcox

(Experimental Farms News)

In semi-arid areas, agriculture depends more on a suitable supply of irrigation water than on any other one factor. Water is usually considered to be the "limiting factor".

Where irrigation water is plentiful and cheap there is often a tendency for the farmer to use it liberally and wastefully. He may use the flood method of application, which, though wasteful of water, requires only a small investment per acre and a small amount of time for applying the water.

As the water becomes less plentiful and more expensive, less wasteful methods are usually employed, such as the furrow method or the basin method. These require considerably more labor per acre than the flood method, and usually cost more for the initial installation.

As the water becomes still scarcer and more expensive to the farmer, he finds it worth while to take extra precautions to utilize his supply to best advantage. The most efficient method yet developed on any extensive scale is the sprinkler method, which is now being widely used in the Western States and in British Columbia. It requires a greater investment than the furrow method but uses less labor.

In the southern interior of British Columbia many fruit growers have been changing from furrow irrigation to sprinkler irrigation. Their purpose in doing so has been not only to save on water but to maintain better moisture conditions in the soil, to reduce soil erosion, and to eliminate the furrows from the orchard.

Sprinkler irrigation, says Dr. J. C. Wilcox, is being recommended by the experimental station at Summerland, where soil erosion is in evidence, where the soil is sandy, and where the contour is irregular.

The question is, have those growers who have switched to the sprinkler method actually been using less water. In order to answer this, records of water used have been taken in a large number of orchards. The evidence obtained indicates clearly that on the whole there has been a considerable saving.

It varies with the type of soil, the contour, and the efficiency of the operator. Most growers have been saving from 10 or 15 per cent of their water on heavy soils to a much as 50 per cent or more on sandy soils.

Some growers, however, have been saving little if any water by the sprinkler method. This has been due to two causes:

(1) In some cases growers were not receiving sufficient water to maintain adequate soil moisture by the furrow method. On switching to sprinklers they have continued to use their full supply but have kept their soil wetted better.

(2) In a few cases the sprinkler systems have been poorly engineered or poorly operated, so that much more water has been used than required. Such cases are fewer now than when the sprinkler method was newer.

Accurate comparisons of water requirements by the furrow and sprinkler methods have been made during the past three years at the experimental station at Summerland and at the substation at Kelowna. The soil is a sandy loam in both cases; and in both places the saving of water by the sprinkler method has consistently ranged around 30 per cent.

U. K. Trade Mission Visits Okanagan

Eight members of the United Kingdom Farm Machinery Manufacturers' Trade Mission were entertained in the Okanagan last Friday, their itinerary being arranged by the B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

A luncheon was held at Vernon following which they were driven south to Kelowna and later that evening were guests of the Penticton Board of Trade at dinner. They left on the evening KVR train for Vancouver.

This week, officials of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. conferred with Rt. Hon. James Harold Wilson, president of the British Board of Trade when he arrived at Vancouver on Monday. They discussed the "token purchase" of Canadian apples by the British government which was announced recently by Hon. C. D. Howe.

Supplement Program Planned for Fraser Valley This Year

A supplementary program of dyking work in the Fraser Valley has been approved in principle by the provincial and federal governments, announces Premier Byron Johnson.

However, due to the fact that the federal parliament will not likely meet again until September, funds for this supplementary program cannot be voted until then, but in the meantime the dyking board is proceeding with its engineering studies, plans and specifications.

The work contemplated is as follows:

1. The protection of the Loughheed Highway and the surrounding area at Harrison Mills, by lengthening and enlarging the existing dyke.
2. The protection of some land on the north shore of Nicomec Slough in the vicinity of Deroche, either by the building of a dam across the slough or by the building of a supplementary dyke on the north shore.
3. A rearrangement and strengthening of the existing dykes at West Langley.
4. An extension of the dyking system in the vicinity of Silverdale Creek.
5. Minor repairs on Annacis Island, Deas Island and on the south side of Deas Island Slough.
6. Improvements to the situation at Hope Slough near Chilliwack.
7. Improvements to the dyking systems in the Maple Ridge district in the vicinity of the 'South Alouette'.
8. Flood protection work in the vicinity of Harrison Hot Springs.
9. Additional dredging in the vicinity of the International Airport at Sea Island.

A. K. Elliott Heads Coalition Campaign Here

Organization of a Coalition Campaign committee was effected at the Parish hall on Friday evening when members of the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives gathered in the interests of the provincial Coalition campaign.

A. K. Elliott was selected as chairman with R. S. Oxley as vice-chairman and Alan Calvert secretary. A finance committee of W. Ritchie and Alf McLachlan was chosen.

Main discussion centered around plans for the forthcoming visit of Premier Byron Johnson on Tuesday, June 7. It was planned that a small reception luncheon would be tendered the premier and then the Coalition government leader would address a public meeting later in the afternoon.

Plans for the public meeting on June 10 were also discussed as this will probably be the final session at which W. A. C. Bennett, Coalition candidate for South Okanagan will be able to appear at a public gathering prior to election date, June 15.

Light refreshments will be served at the public gathering following the address by Premier Johnson on June 7. A committee of ladies including Mrs. A. K. Elliott, Mrs. J. Y. Towgood, Mrs. C. V. Nesbitt will convene this part of the day's affair.

Further details concerning organization of the campaign to elect W. A. C. Bennett as a member of the Coalition government were left for study by the newly-appointed committee.

Exposition Did Not Draw so Well

Although the four-day Vernon-Okanagan Industrial Exposition drew 15,000 persons in four days, this was a serious drop in attendance from the two previous years. The Vernon News declared editorially that the exposition is at the cross-roads, due to lack of interest shown by Vernon district persons. Exposition officials state they may consider changing the location from the army camp on Mission Hill.

Extremely hot weather favored the exposition this year in contrast to the rain and mud which was experienced during the four-day show in 1948.

MORE ABOUT - SASKATCHEWAN STORY

Saskatchewan Fish Products Corporation, which had been established by an order-in-council.

Besides Olsen, Mr. Phelps and K. E. Dickson were appointed to the corporation.

Experts In

Up to now there had been little inference of monopoly, but in April another Order-in-Council replaced Dickson and Olsen by George Cadbury, scion of the world-famous Cadbury chocolate family in England, and the CCF's chief industrial and economic advisor.

The pattern of the fish board's operations began to change when the experts were brought in for soon after another order appointing Mr. Phelps, Hon. J. H. Brockelbank and Cadbury "a corporation under the name and style of Saskatchewan Lake and Forest Products Corporation."

The Fish Products Corporation, however, was not established under the Natural Products Marketing Act which makes provision for a vote of the producers on the question of establishing a marketing agency and provides for the producers some share in the control of the marketing agency.

It was set up under the all-powerful crown corporation act under which the socialists had the power to seize any property and business they wished.

Monopoly Established

Before the fishing season opened that year, the real intent of the manoeuvres became obvious when it was announced that:

"All commercial fish caught within a radius of 75 miles from Beaver Lake, La Ronge and Meadow Lake must be marketed exclusively through the Saskatchewan Fish Board and filleting plants."

The monopoly was established. "Originally it was the purpose to set up a co-operative policy among the fishermen who were to be given financial statements and helped to run their affairs properly as a true co-operative should be run," my informant told me.

"This didn't happen. Within five months the new political board had changed the motive to one of profit-making instead. Now the venture has failed, however, Mr. Brockelbank is careful to point out that the 'making of profits has never been an objective in this industry.'"

"The board did accomplish some things that private enterprise couldn't, though."

A Splendid Job

"It did a splendid job of confusing the fishermen and the people."

"The statements of selling and buying prices prove that the losses chalked up against the fish board are inexcusable. These losses, remember, are being paid for by the people."

"Confusion among the plant workers was created, to cover up inefficiencies, by frequent personnel changes and by the mental gymnastics of those responsible for the operations.

"Innocent lesser employees sometimes took the rap because of unprincipled opportunists who distorted facts to suit their own ends."

"It is the essence of Communism, with the idea that the end justifies the means. To right-thinking people who believe in the Ten Commandments, this just doesn't add up."

Situation Reversed

He said that employees at the plant would be given a certain picture of operations one day and the next would be called into the office to listen to a radio address by Mr. Brockelbank outlining a completely reversed situation.

One of the excuses given for the collapse of the fish board by the government was that the market for Saskatchewan fish had dropped.

"This is not true. Saskatchewan lake fish is a good product and there is a good market for it," he said.

He showed me actual correspondence received from fish buyers in the United States, regretting the fact that the fish board was folding up now that a market had been established there for its products.

In the Prince Albert Daily Herald of April 5, this story appeared:

"The fishermen of Wollaston Lake, 400 miles north of here, have voted unanimously in favor of the Saskatchewan Fish Board acting as a non-compulsory type of marketing agency, at a meeting called by J. F. Gray, resident director of the Saskatchewan Lake and Forest Products Board."

"Following removal of the board from commercial operations, it had agreed to operate in certain areas in the north if invited by the fishermen in those districts to do so."

"Similar meetings will be held elsewhere in the north at a later date to decide on selling through the fish board."

Complicated Matter

Following publication of this story I dropped in to see the editor of another daily newspaper and asked his opinion, as an informed person, of the trend of socialism in Saskatchewan.

"Well," he said, "that's a pretty complicated thing to go into. Sometimes I don't think the people themselves know what they want."

"Take the northern fishermen as a case in point. When they were told they had to sell their fish to the government board, they beefed like the devil about it."

"Now that the board has told them they no longer are compelled to sell their fish through the government, they turn right about and vote unanimously in favor of keeping the board as a marketing agency.

"What are you going to do about people like that?"

I admitted frankly that I didn't know.

When I got to Prince Albert, however, I checked up on the source of the story and found it emanated from the government authorities there.

I also found out from someone who had attended the meeting that the fishermen present were far from being of a unanimous frame of mind upon the matter.

Precautions Taken

I was informed that precautions had been taken to bring in picked speakers and party bosses to harangue the fishermen on the advantages of having the board continue as a marketing agency, and that it was not until these speakers had drummed up enthusiasm among the fishermen that they voted for the board to act as their agent.

The fact that the government insurance office made a profit and the fish board ended in a sordid failure is in itself of little consequence.

The manner in which these results came to pass is, I believe, worthy of the deepest thought by all who value the freedom of personal choice.

Conclusion

In the mosaic of impressions formed during my tour of Saskatchewan, one conviction dominates the entire pattern.

It is the realization that a great battle is being mounted in that province: a battle becoming heavy with intense political conflict between the irreconcilable ideologies of state monopoly and free enterprise.

Entrenched within the bastion of bureaucratic government stand the adherents of socialism, on the defensive for the first time in five years, awaiting the siege of the cohorts of free enterprise, who are growing ever more militant as their vanguards probe the weaknesses in the armor of their adversaries.

The socialists, their ranks clogged with opportunists, victims of an agrarian revolt, and the strategy of their idealist commanders beleaguered by the first disheartening skirmishes in the field of public ownership, have already sent out their true parties and are willing to compromise with the free enterprisers although pledged to crush forever the cause they espouse.

But there can be no quarter given.

en between these two diametrically-opposed camps, because you cannot compromise with compulsion, distortion and the threat of absolute stateism.

The free enterprisers know this because they recognize the despotic power the socialists have vested in themselves, a power the firebrands among them will not relinquish themselves nor permit their leaders to relinquish.

The socialists, however, have two powerful regiments within their encampment. They are the same regiments which turned the tide in their favor at the last election fray—one, the labor shock troops of the CCL, and the other, the ranks of those honest people who fight faithfully in their blind allegiance to the cause, their faith unshaken, unquestioning in their loyalty, nor yet doubtful of the sincerity of their lieutenants.

From the vantage point where I was privileged to watch the scene, it seems the socialists, trying to cover up the thin spots within their economic ranks, are cognizant of the pressures against them but are determined to entrench in the hope they may convince their opponents of the sincerity of their gesture of compromise.

However, I do not believe that their adversaries will permit them to entrench, but will so harass them by sniping and cold war tactics that their generals and captains will fall to squabbling among themselves when the siege has been maintained for another two or three years.

Then the people will see.

Jim Birtles and Yvonne Polesello Win First Place Awards for Local High School in Valley Track Meet

Twelve records were smashed and two tied as Kelowna high school led the way Saturday on their home grounds in the annual high school track and field meet for Okanagan Valley championships.

Summerland successfully defended its Class B aggregate award with a total of 22 points, compared with South Okanagan (Oliver-Osoyoos) 12, Armstrong 11, Rutland 5, Salmon Arm 3.

Kelowna was Class A victor with 144 points, while Vernon placed second with 116 and Penticton third with 86. In Class C, Lumby captured the cup with nine points while Deep Creek had six.

Mark Phillips of Vernon was the individual star performer breaking two sprint records and capturing three events. He raced through the 100 yard dash in 10.3 seconds and the 220 in 23.5, the previous times being 10.8 and 24.2.

Brian Weddell of Kelowna smashed two high jump records when he leaped 5 feet 7 7/8 inches in the 18 and under event and tied with Dick Douglas of Vernon in the 20 and under group at five feet nine inches. The latter jump bettered the previous mark set by the late Keith McDougall of Penticton and Summerland, by three inches.

Jane Stirling of Kelowna bettered the previous high jump mark with her leap of 4 feet 9 1/4 inches. Ruth Klux of Summerland was second place winner in this event.

Rod Young of Penticton was the big winner in the 16 and under events, taking both the 120 yards low hurdles and the 220 sprint, equalling the previous records of 15.2 and 24.4 seconds in each event.

J. Birtles of Summerland placed third in the 880 yards, boys 18 and under event which was won by Ron Fraser of Kelowna, with J. Graves of Vernon second. Winning time was 2:12.5.

Denny Hack had to be content with second place to Brian Weddell, when the latter broke the record in the boys 18 and under high jump.

Discus Heaver One of the two first place awards in the entire meet won by Summerland entries went to Jim Birtles of Summerland who set a new record for the lighter discus with a heave of 106 feet 10 1/2 inches.

Jim Birtles has been picked as one of the Okanagan athletes to go to Vancouver this weekend to compete in the provincial inter-high track and field championships. At presstime, it was still doubtful, if he will make the trip, but the selection committee had asked him to become a member of the team from the Okanagan.

He gained another point when he placed third in the 120 yards low hurdles.

The other first place award to

Princeton Comes Here on Sunday

Next Sunday at the athletic park Summerland Merchants take on the Princeton squad in an interior league fixture which should prove one of the highlights of the season. Princeton and Summerland have engaged in many tight struggles in the past and this Sunday's contest should be no exception.

Last week-end, with Summerland having the bye, Princeton and Rutland went 15 innings before the Rutland boys defeated the Similkameen team 4-2. Peachland eked out a narrow 9-8 victory over Copper Mountain in the other fixture of the southern section.

In the northern half of the league, Kamloops CYO and Revelstoke are still undefeated, the former having won last Sunday from Rutland Cubs and the latter trimming Salmon Arm 11-0.

Summerland Red Sox game with Penticton Pirates last Sunday was rained out. This Sunday the Red Sox travel to Naramata, and Peachland goes to Osoyoos.

come to Summerland was captured by Yvonne Polesello in the girls 14 and under broad jump. She leaped 13 feet 10 inches to defeat C. Ginn of Deep Creek and G. Clock of Vernon, who placed second and third.

Ruth Klux garnered another point for Summerland when she placed third in the softball throw for girls 20 and under. E. Caldwell of Kelowna heaved the ball 161 feet 10 inches for first place.

Gerald Washington placed second in the 75 yard dash, boys 14 and under being tied with D. Gillespie of Kelowna. Gerald also placed third in the boys 14 and under broad jump.

The gruelling mile run was won by Ron Fraser of Kelowna, with J. Hopping of Vernon second and M. Bolton of Summerland third. Winning time was minutes 10. seconds.

Rutland Adanacs Lose Tempers And Ball Game as Merchants Display Smart Plays to Win 10-4

Beefs, moans, groans and a general blowup by Rutland Adanacs, plus some smart ball-playing by the Summerland Merchants gave the latter team a well-deserved 10-4 victory in the final game of the baseball tournament on Empire Day, May 24, at the Living Memorial athletic park. Rutland started to throw the beefs around from the first inning and when three runs scored mainly on squeeze plays in the third, the Rutland balloon, Art Gray and all, was up very high, indeed.

Rutland got into the second game of the ball tournament here by virtue of an 8-4 victory over Princeton in the afternoon opener.

Rutland threatened to walk off the field, in protest to the calls by Umpires Jim Heavysides on the paths and Joe Sheeley behind the plate. Main trouble was in the third inning and no Rutland players were on the field at one time but Manager Art Gray relented and decided his players would finish the ball game.

Summerland snapped into an early lead when Schwab was safe on a fielder's choice and scored on Brauner's hit and an error by E. Brauner off Coffey's fly to centerfield. That gave Summerland a 1-0 advantage going into the third.

Thompson was hit by a pitched ball, went to second on Kuroda's bunt which was laid down so perfectly along the first base line that he was credited with a single. Then Thompson stole third and Vanderburgh tried to bunt him home. The first time, Vanderburgh fouled the ball and on the second there was a pitchout so that he couldn't reach the ball with his bat.

But Thompson was scooting home and was called safe by Umpire Sheeley. That was when civil war nearly broke out, with Henry Wostradowski, Adanacs' pitcher, throwing his glove away and leading an exodus from the field in protest of the decision.

Rutland claimed Thompson was tagged out and that Vanderburgh had stepped across the plate in attempting to reach the ball. Summerland contended that Brummett, Rutland catcher, stepped out of his box before the ball crossed the plate, in his anxiety to tag Thompson stealing home.

Despite what either side argued the umps called the runner safe and the game continued only after the Rutland team had vociferously registered their opinion of the umpires, the Summerland team and various other comments.

By that time, Brummett was high up in the air and he never did come down. Vanderburgh slugged out a triple to score Kuroda and Walsh's single gave Summerland a 4-0 lead, which looked mighty big.

Another Four Runs Another four were added by Summerland in the fifth when a comedy of errors on Rutland's part, plus timely hitting, brought Coffey, Vanderburgh, Walsh and Schwab scampering around the circuit.

Vanderburgh's third clout of the day and his third run scored came in the sixth and Wally Day finished off a splendid day at short with a home run off the parked cars in left field.

Wostradowski made up for his weakness on the mound when he clouted the pill into deep centerfield for three bases and then scored on L. Rausser's bingle, in the fifth frame.

Coffey tried too hard in the last of the seventh with the result that he weakened a bit and allowed three more runs across. With one away and one on, Jacobs, who replaced Wanless in left field when the latter hurt his ankle, laced one out for two bags, scoring G. Auch. Paul Bach drew a walk, and both runners scored on Mal-lach's single.

Wostradowski started on the mound but he was roundly hit. Lingor relieved him, before the game was far ahead and finally Paul Bach was sent in to try and hold down the hitting Summerland Merchants. Coffey went the entire seven innings.

Summerland collected thirteen hits off the three hapless Rutland pitchers, while Coffey was nipped for six bingles.

In the first game, D. Currie and K. Thomas were hit for four runs in the first and another four in the second before Nishihara stepped into the breach and held Rutland scoreless for the balance of the game.

Princeton got two in the second and one each in the fourth and fifth but could not overcome the big lead. Wostradowski and Lingor shared the hurling duties for the winners.

Score by innings:
Summerland 013 041 1-10
Rutland 000 010 3-4

Things were much better in the Good Old Days ... or so the Old Timers always tell the younger generation. Yes, time is kind to old memories ... and when we think of the days gone by we tend to remember only the good things, and to forget the bad.

Down through the years, however, certain things have remained constant ... unchanging ... as good today as they were then—like Princeton Beer, for instance. Unvarying in its unique quality, goodness and mellowness, Princeton Beer is top favorite today—just as it was when Grand-dad was a young blade.

Field Day is Planned Here For June 6

Monday, June 6, the official holiday set aside to commemorate the King's Birthday, will be the date for the second annual Field Day by the Summerland Fish and Game Assn.

All events are being held in the afternoon, with the experimental station beach being the scene of action, rather than Powell Beach, used last year, states Joe McLachlan, who is in charge of arrangements again.

It is hoped that an expert dog fancier will be available from the coast to judge the dog trials, which is a feature of the day this year. Flycasting and baitcasting demonstrations and competitions are included in the program, along with trap shooting for exponents of that sport.

A barrel is to be released from the experimental farm bridge and will float downstream to the mouth of the creek at Okanagan lake. A contest to guess the length of time the barrel will take on its journey is being held in connection with the Field Day.

Boat rides for the youngsters will be an added attraction.

Singers-Players Choose Macleod As New Prexy

The annual meeting of the Summerland Singers' and Players' Club was held on Tuesday evening, May 17, in the Parish hall.

A. K. Macleod was elected president for the year 1949-50. Mrs. Lorne Perry, vice-president; Miss Doreen Tait, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. J. L. Mason, players' representative, and Mrs. H. F. Whitmore, singers' representative. They, with Delmar Dunham, the retiring president, will form the executive.

Reports of the past year's very successful activities were given by Delmar Dunham, and the secretary-treasurer, Miss Doreen Tait.

The club gave six performances through the season. The singers presented the opera 'The Pirates of Penzance' in Summerland, Penticton and Oliver, to large, appreciative audiences. The players produced the play 'I Remember Mama', in Summerland, Peachland, and Penticton, as well as entering the first act in the regional drama festival at Oliver, where they carried off all the honors.

Bud Steuart and Lacey Fisher were applauded for their work as musical and dramatic directors, as was Stan Gladwell for his work on the stage sets for both opera and play.

The new flats made for the Pirates of Penzance production have been useful to other organizations as well. The AOTS and the Rotary club have used them for their entertainments, and the board of trade had some of them for the stage at the Spring Fair.

After the business meeting the members enjoyed hearing recordings of the opera made at the Summerland performance by Stewart Sanborn and Ed Matthson, finding them full of surprises, both pleasant and, at times, amusing.

Refreshments were served to end the evening by Miss Isabel Campbell and Miss Louise Atkinson during the playing of the recordings.
