

Fate of Two Buildings Hangs in Balance Ratepayers' Decision

VICTORIA
Provincial Librarian
April 52

Two municipal bylaws will be decided by the taxpayers of Summerland, on Saturday, November 3, and the fate of two halls will be in their hands this weekend. Voting is from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the municipal office in West Summerland and at the United church in lower town. W. C. W. Fosbery has been appointed returning officer in charge of the voting.

Main issue is the "Unexpended Bylaw Funds Approval Bylaw, 1951", which asks the ratepayers to ratify the proposal to use surplus funds and monies unexpended from previous bylaws to erect a new municipal hall for this community.

Second issue is the renovation of Ellison hall, which calls for the raising by municipal debentures the sum of $12,000, to be repaid over a ten-year period.

Summerland's municipal council has had sketch plans of a new municipal hall drawn by McCarter & Nairne, Vancouver architectural firm, which is believed can be built for $45,000.

This money is available for this purpose, provided the taxpayers give council the necessary authority to use these accumulated funds.

It will not be necessary to borrow any money for the proposed municipal building, as the money is already available, gathered from various sources by judicial handling over the past 25 years, it is explained.

If the taxpayers agree, the building will be erected on Granville street on property acquired by the municipality last year immediately east of the Summerland Box Company office.

The accumulated funds from sinking fund surplus which the council proposes to use amount to $33,724.61; there is available an unexpended amount of $7,200 from the North Bench-Crescent Beach domestic water extension bylaw; and the balance of $4,075.39 is available from current revenues, it is stated.

In addition, the council plans to renovate to a limited degree the old municipal building so that it can provide more adequate accommodation for the RCMP, the magistrate's court, volunteer fire brigade and the Okanagan Union Library, which has been asked to move from the school grounds in order to provide more space for playground.

Ellison Hall Petition

The Ellison hall issue was forced on the council a year ago by a petition, signed by the necessary number of taxpayers and circulated by some Canadian Legion members.

The petition called on the council to prepare a bylaw which would authorize the raising of sufficient funds to renovate the old building and place it in condition so that it can be used for public purposes.

Council had the building investigated and it was determined that $12,000 would be necessary to bring the structure up to a standard where it could be utilized for the various purposes in mind.

For this sum, the remainder of the roof can be replaced, insulation provided, a proper heating system installed to meet fire marshal's standards, a new floor laid and various minor repairs carried out.

Asked a short time ago by The Review what would be the fate of Ellison hall if this bylaw was turned down, Reeve Beattie replied that in all probability the council would have to tear the building down.

In its present state of non-occupancy, the building is deteriorating rapidly, those who have inspected it recently state.

Hallowe'en Was Quieter Than Usual

One of the happiest and most useful Hallowe'en parties ever attempted in Summerland centered around the Youth Centre last night as the AOTS Club and the Youth Centre Assn. joined forces to give the kids a treat and endeavor to keep them from too much mischief-making.

Success of the venture was apparent throughout the district as a minimum of damage was reported.

Nearly 400 youngsters congregated in the Youth Centre following a joyous snake parade through the business section, led by the Summerland Band.

There was a special half-hour display of fireworks, which was thoroughly enjoyed by the throng of youngsters and many parents alike. There was a peanut hunt and many others ducked for apples, apple juice, buns and cookies were handed out in great quantities.

"Hallowe'en was a lot quieter than last year," RCMP Constable I. C. Thorsteinson reported this morning. "I think the party at the Youth Centre was mainly responsible. It certainly helped a lot and kept youngsters off the street."

Constable Thorsteinson declares that only one report of any serious damage came from lower town where a barrel of tar was placed in front of Gowans Store and leaked onto the steps and sidewalk, creating a nasty mess.

Mrs. Johnston of Peachland reports her goat disappeared last night, the only report of any loss from that district.

Lost Flagpole Rope

Around the new high school, only the loss of the flagpole rope was reported by the caretakers. Both schools were well lighted and made an impressive sight with light blazing from every classroom.

"I think the boys showed sound judgment in leaving the schools alone," was Principal A. K. Macleod's reaction. "They must have appreciated that the school belongs to their parents and is their property," he thought.

Following the main party for the younger kids, nearly a hundred Teen Towners staged a dance in the Youth Centre last night, having a gay time until midnight to music supplied by the Mountain Rascals.

Valley-Wide Negotiations on Teachers' Salaries Being Conducted

School boards and teachers in the Okanagan district zone have agreed to a central negotiation on 1952 salary requests by the teachers' body, instead of individual school boards and groups of teachers endeavoring to reach decisions on a separate district basis.

Preliminary negotiations were entered into between the salary committee of School District No. 77 and the Summerland teachers' salary committee. These two groups agreed to defer any action in favor of a joint negotiation.

It is understood the Okanagan branch of the B.C. School Trustees' Assn., which covers school districts from Revelstoke south to the border, and the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Assn., which takes in the same territory, have started negotiation proceedings now.

Summerland teachers, in an official communique read to Monday's school board, suggested that if negotiations were unsuccessful in reaching a decision, then arbitration be carried out on a similar valley-wide basis.

Arbitration by District Only Inspector Matheson, however, pointed out that under the public schools act, arbitration can only be carried out between a school district and its teachers.

If a valley-wide arbitration is sought, then one district will have to be allocated and all other districts involved would have to abide by the arbitration award of this sample district, Mr. Matheson declared.

The teachers' association union, local 328, has served notice on the local school board that it will seek a revision of wage agreement as from the first of the year.

In a signed statement, Frank Venables, Okanagan branch BCSTA president and F. W. Flick, OVTA president, stress this week the co-operation which exists between their two bodies in an endeavor to reach a settlement of salary issues.

Earlier this year, it is pointed out, a survey of teachers' salaries administration was carried out by Stevenson & Kellogg Ltd., a firm of management engineers employed by the Okanagan trustees' group, and with the co-operation of the teachers involved.

Solve Fundamental Problems

"It is hoped that the report will show the way to solving some of the fundamental problems in the salary situation," Messrs. Venables and Flick state.

After outlining some of the steps taken towards arriving at a satisfactory solution, they declared, in reference to committee work:

"The proceedings so far have been definitely co-operative and harmonious in nature and in this respect might well pave the way for continued co-operation between teachers and trustees on other educational matters besides salaries."

"Two such educational matters which need co-operative handling are finance and teacher training and certification. Many other examples could be given."

Five Night School Classes to Start

This evening will see the start of five night school classes, Summerland school board learned on Monday night.

These include such subjects as woodworking, typing, sewing, house construction and English for New Canadians.

Vol. 6, No. 44

Jaycees Find Strong Support For Municipal Hall in "Poll"

Summerland Jaycees decided to find out for themselves what Mr. and Mrs. John Voter are thinking regarding the municipal hall and Ellison hall bylaws voting on Saturday.

Consequently, they set up a committee for a quick "Gallup Poll" yesterday at noon. About fifty voters were contacted and, although they received some rebuffs from persons who thought it was their own business entirely, the Jaycees came up with the following information, for what it is worth:

	Municipal Hall	Ellison Hall
YES	71%	40%
NO	16%	36%
UNDECIDED	13%	24%

Trail Male Chorus Here

Arrangements have been completed for Summerland residents to hear a musical treat with the appearance on the stage of the new high school auditorium on Friday, November 9 of the famous Trail Male Chorus, a group of forty select voices.

This aggregation, conducted by Hans Fogh-Dohmsmidt, is coming to Summerland under the sponsorship of the Rotary club. Proceeds will be devoted to the Youth Centre.

The large Trail choir was organized in 1929 and has played an important part in the musical life of Trail and district.

Supporting artists include Charlotte McConnell, cellist and Louis Freeman, baritone.

Transportation to Polls is Offered

Transportation to the polls on Saturday is being offered the taxpayers of Summerland district by the Summerland Board of Trade under the chairmanship of the civic affairs committee, headed by "Scotty" Ritchie.

Two telephone numbers, 5556 and 2906, have been offered to those desirous of obtaining transportation to record their votes on the two bylaws.

Summerland Jaycees are also organizing a "Get Out the Vote" committee under Don Clark, which will work in conjunction with Mr. Ritchie's Board of Trade group.

Smaller Than Average Apple Crop Harvested

This week sees the windup of the busy apple harvesting season. Only a few odd truckloads of apples have been sent to the packinghouses completed some days ago.

In company with the rest of the valley, Summerland's apple crop did not come up to estimates, most packinghouse managers agree.

Small apples, heavy cullage for codling moth, lack of color and frost marks are blamed for the smaller crop.

As a consequence, packing operations will be wound up by the first of December, the four houses indicate.

The Occidental and Walters' Ltd. estimate their packing operations will conclude by the end of this month, the Co-op believes three weeks will see the finish, of its packing while Nov. 24 is the date set for finish of the B.C. Fruit Shipper's grader operation.

Although there has been some severe frost in the past two weeks, few of the apples remaining on the trees were touched, although some reports of water core in apples kept late on the trees have been heard. Cornwall Canning Company is the only processing plant of the four in Summerland still operating and this big concern expects to continue right through November and not wind up until early December.

Barkwell's Ltd. ceased operations on Monday while the Milne Cannery and the Garnet Valley cannery wound up some weeks ago.

mittee under Don Clark, which will work in conjunction with Mr. Ritchie's Board of Trade group.

Packers From Local Houses Enter Contest

Next Wednesday, Nov. 7, the annual Canadian apple packing contest will be staged at the Penticton Co-operative Growers' Assn. packinghouse in Penticton, commencing at 1:30 p.m.

Two packers may be entered from any packinghouse in the valley or any other part of the inter- or tree fruit area, and any packing house with more than one grader will be entitled to enter an additional packer for each additional grader. L. R. Stephens, secretary of the Okanagan Federated Shippers' Association announces from Kelowna.

In Summerland, up to this morning, only one packinghouse had chosen entrants for this contest. The Occidental manager, C. H. Elsey, told The Review that his packinghouse would be represented by Mrs. Alma Leloi, Miss Fern Turigan and Miss Yuriko Jomori.

Other packinghouses here have expressed interest in the contest and are expected to announce competitors' names shortly.

Winner and runnerup will be eligible to compete in the international competition which will likely be held at Yakima later in November.

CAPSULE COLLEGE FOR SUMMERLAND

Capsule College is coming to Summerland.

First attempt of its kind to bring the province's university to the community is to be carried out in Summerland on Tuesday, Nov. 13, the local UBC Alumni branch announced this week.

Sparked by Frank Turner, UBC Alumni secretary, Capsule College will include such well known UBC figures as Dr. Blythe Eagles, faculty of agriculture; Bob Osborne, head of the physical education department; and Dr. Edward Ranta, of the new medical school faculty.

The evening will take the form of a dinner followed by the speakers and a panel discussion.

Rink Association Plans Drive to Raise Funds For Arena Completion

Summerland Rink Association is about to launch a drive which it hopes will mean the sale of the balance of the debenture holdings authorized under the societies' act and thus provide sufficient monies to meet outstanding obligations and provide the new arena with necessary facilities so that it can operate on a more finished scale this winter.

This was the decision of a well-attended meeting of the large association executive held in the Occidental Fruit Co. Ltd. offices last week.

If a sufficient number of debentures can be sold locally, then all the requirements of the fire marshal's office will be met, outstanding obligations will be paid off and the arena will be on a sounder footing, it was agreed.

Debentures offer interest at 3 percent, which was met in full on debentures already sold, the meeting was informed.

It was estimated that approximately $7,000 would be needed to reach the association's objectives. Outstanding obligations which accrued with the erection of the arena last year amount to about $4,500, it was stated at last week's executive session.

A committee of President George Stoll, Secretary C. H. Elsey and C. V. Nesbitt was appointed to prepare a list of prospective debenture purchasers. This list will be divided among members of the executive in a drive which is to be started in the near future.

Main Building Changes

The executive learned that the main points about the building which do not meet the fire marshal's regulations do not require any considerable outlay.

Panic hardware must be installed on all exit doors, a furnace room and possibly a furnace or otherwise a large stove with a blower, must be installed while floors in the waiting room and dressing rooms should have a second flooring in order to cut down on fire hazard.

Seating facilities above the curling rink are necessary in order to provide for the crowds which are expected for local hockey games. In order to meet the "letter of the law", standing room facilities in the arena should be eliminated in favor of seats.

Last week's rink executive meeting was hopeful that a sufficient number of local persons would be interested enough in the operation of this arena to purchase the necessary debentures and thus give the association an opportunity to function on a better basis.

Arrangements have been made to proceed with the less costly of the renovations, with George Woitte and Scotty Ritchie in charge of work parties until President George Stoll returns from his trip east.

Harvey Wilson was named chairman of a committee to provide gatekeepers and cashiers at all arena functions.

It was decided to offer the catering concession to tender, with Treasurer Les Rumball in charge.

More Donations to School Piano Fund

Further contributions to the junior-senior high school student council piano fund have been received and gratefully acknowledged from Mrs. Bon Newton (Margaret Ritchie), Mrs. D. V. Fisher (Dorothy MacDonald), Mrs. C. Bartram (Edith Orr) 1164 Esquimalt Rd., Victoria; Mrs. W. H. Walton (Marlaine Orr) 433 Maurice St. Penticton; Mrs. K. M. Hoales (Mary Young), Miss Joan Angus, Annesley Hall, Queen's Park, Toronto; Mr. Fred Schwass, Edmonton; Mr. Orville Dunham, New Westminster; Mr. Ivor Solly and Mr. R. D. Dunham, Summerland.

Hope for 300 to Attend Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic Next Wednesday

Director Bob Bleasdale has been named chairman of the telephone canvass committee of the Summerland Junior Chamber of Commerce. This committee has been entrusted with the task of telephoning every person in the phone book to obtain appointments for the Red Cross blood donor clinic.

Transportation for those who need it is also being arranged by the Jaycees, in co-operation with other organizations.

The Red Cross blood donor clinic is being held next Wednesday at St. Andrew's church hall. The clinic operates from 2 to 4:30 Wednesday afternoon and 6:30 to 9 in the evening.

J. Y. Towgood, a member of the local Red Cross branch who heads the blood donor clinic committee here, is hopeful that a figure near or 300 than the 200 limit of last year will result from the appeal being made for donors.

"It is a personal issue," Mr. Towgood emphasized today in discussing clinic arrangements with The Review. "You don't have to dig down in your pocket to make your donation this time. All you have to donate is a pint of your precious blood, and you'll never miss it."

He emphasized that the entire operation takes but a short while, it is practically painless, and there are no after effects. Tests are made beforehand to determine if the donor's blood count is sufficiently high to enable blood to be donated.

Mr. Towgood has stressed that out of a population of 3500 persons it should not be difficult to obtain 300 donors.

Need for more blood in the blood banks for transfusions is increasing each year and the Red Cross blood transfusion service is hard-pressed to keep a supply of the precious fluid on hand.

Remembrance Day Parade on Sunday, 11th

Although Monday, November 12, has been declared a provincial holiday in this province to commemorate Remembrance Day, which falls on Sunday, Nov. 11, the Cenotaph service will be conducted on Sunday and not on the holiday.

There is no provision in the federal statute proclaiming Remembrance Day for its official observance on other than the actual day, regardless of the fact that it may fall on a Sunday.

Consequently, the annual parade of veterans and allied groups to the Cenotaph in the Living Memorial park playground will be observed on Sunday, Nov. 11, commencing at 10:45 o'clock.

Summerland churches are co-operating with the Legion in staging this tribute to the fallen heroes of two world wars by holding their regular services until 11:15 o'clock that Sunday morning.

Retail stores will be closed here on Monday, Nov. 12.

Kiwanians to Elect Officers

Although further nominations may be received from the floor, to date two Kiwanians are slated to contest the presidency of the Kiwanis Club of Summerland—Vice-president J. E. Jenkinson and J. E. O'Mahony.

These two members have accepted nomination for the post of president to succeed Lacey Fisher at the year end.

Election of officers will be conducted at the Kiwanians regular weekly dinner meeting in the Nu-Way Annex next Monday night.

Other nominations which have been received follow:

Vice-president, Ed (Hilly) Smith; treasurer, C. F. M. (Buck) Guernsey; directors, Scotty Ritchie, Bob Alstead, N. O. Solly, Harold Short, Johnny Betuzzi, Fred Schumann, C. H. Elsey and Charlie Nesbitt.

Concert Party From Trail Appears Here

Carl Nesbitt was master of ceremonies for the concert staged last Friday evening in the high school auditorium by Okanagan Lodge, IOOF, featuring a concert party from Trail.

Rev. John Scott, Baptist minister here 12 years ago, opened the program with a series of slides depicting scenes from Ireland.

A Welsh quartette, with Florence Harder as accompanist, was the feature item on the program, while tenor soloist Ronald Groom earned hearty applause. Norman Fisherwick, trumpeter, also received spontaneous acclaim from the audience of more than 200 persons.

Summerland Band was in attendance as a prelude to the main program and also received a small sum as net proceeds of the affair.

You Have a Date Next Wednesday

NEXT week every able citizen of Summerland district will have an opportunity to do a noble and humanitarian deed.

Next Wednesday every able citizen can walk into St. Andrew's church hall and in a few minutes donate a pint of their blood that others may be saved.

It is such a little thing to do, and yet it is such a big thing in its eventual consequence.

Your pint of blood may be the means of saving another's life.

Your pint of blood may be the means whereby another fellow human being may be able to turn the corner towards a more healthy existence.

The whole operation is so simple. It doesn't hurt and in a few minutes there is practically no realization that you have given away for the benefit of humanity a pint of that life-giving fluid.

Summerland has made many generous donations but it should be able to do better than 200 pints from a community of 3500. That figure should be over 300 and could well be if most citizens lived up to their responsibilities.

Next Wednesday, plan to make a donation which has nothing to do with the pocketbook . . . a donation of a pint of your precious blood that another sick and suffering human may have a better chance of survival.

That's really not asking very much of you.

Making Use of a Surplus

THERE really shouldn't be much argument about next Saturday's bylaw which calls upon the ratepayers to take some of their money from one pocket and put it in another.

That, after all, is really all that is asked of the taxpayers in the bylaw which, if it receives their assent, will result in a new municipal hall for this district.

Due to judicial handling of funds in sinking fund account, the smart buying and selling of secure investments, the accumulation of amounts unexpended from other bylaws, there has been collected in the municipal treasury funds which can now be expended for a municipal headquarters without asking the ratepayers to put up a red cent.

Actually, past councils and municipal staff heads should be congratulated on this judicial handling of funds which has resulted in this windfall. Their only mistake was in not taking the ratepayers into their confidence before this to tell them what was being anticipated. For this, a number of ratepayers are being critical now.

Summerland needs a new municipal hall badly. Any person who has investigated working conditions of the municipal staff to any degree at all will agree with that statement.

Summerland should not just "make do" with a make-over of another building, such as has been proposed by a few in connection with the old high school. This old building was abandoned in favor of the smart, new unit, because it had served its usefulness. To consider it as a made-over municipal hall is not clear, progressive thinking.

The proposal for a new municipal hall, as presented by the municipal council, calls for a smart-appearing building which is designed for usefulness. It will provide all the useful services which are required by the ratepayers who enter its portals. It will provide bright, clean premises where the municipal staff can undertake its duties free from the cramped, crowded antiquated quarters it now is forced to occupy.

A vote for the bylaw means taking money from the surplus account and putting it to work in building a new municipal hall. That is all there is to the issue.

It is to be hoped that a substantial proportion of the ratepayers will mark their ballots on Saturday so that the municipal council will have a clear indication of public thinking on this issue.

If only a small proportion votes, it is possible that a minority group can sway the decision. It has happened before and many ratepayers have had nobody but themselves to blame for a backward step caused by their lack of interest.

A $50,000 Hall for $12,000

MOST discussion concerning next Saturday's bylaws has centered on the new municipal hall, but the second bylaw for the renovation of Ellison hall is of real importance to Summerland district and needs a lot of careful study before a decision is made.

For many years Ellison hall has served the needs of this community as a central meeting place for dances, political and other public meetings, dramatic presentations and a score of other gatherings.

Of late years, Ellison hall has not been cared for properly and has gradually fallen into a state of disrepair.

The time has come when the ratepayers of the district must face the problem of discarding the hall entirely or spending several thousand dollars in its face-lifting.

It is unfortunate that the decision must be made at this time, but it was forced upon the municipal council by a petition of a considerable number of ratepayers who desired a money bylaw for its renovation.

Consequently, a money bylaw has been placed before the citizens for $12,000 to provide a new heating plant, insulation, new floor, roof repair and various other alterations which are deemed essential to make the building presentable and of use to the organizations which may want to rent it.

There is provided in the new school auditorium a modern unit which supplies the needs of this district in the matter of a hall for stage presentations, flower and like shows and public meetings. There is no finer building for this purpose in the interior.

But there the usage of the auditorium ends, from a public standpoint. It cannot be used for dances, although when facilities have been added, it will probably be able to cater for banquets.

The Youth Centre has been renovated to provide a centre for the youth of the district, but this hall and its new kitchen facilities can cater to dances when the hall is not in use for its original purpose.

With these two centres and the smaller IOOF hall, plus three church halls, it would appear that the needs of the community are well served.

But there are some functions which cannot be held in the existing halls and auditoriums. These are club smokers, cabaret-type dances and such affairs.

Many of the voters will say that the district is better off without these types of entertainment, but another large part of the community will say that they have a place and there should be provision made so that they can be held.

A lot of people are saying that $12,000 is too much money to spend on Ellison hall which will only be used for a few functions a year that cannot be held in existing facilities.

But we are inclined to take a more moderate view of the situation. We like to think that this district is not going to stand still or grow smaller, but it will continue to expand along with the rest of the Okanagan.

If such is the case, the need for such facilities as Ellison hall can provide, once it is properly renovated, will be increasingly apparent in the next few years.

For $12,000, as Mr. Barkwill points out in The Mail Bag column in this issue, we can have a hall worth at least $50,000. From our viewpoint, it is a false economy to tear down a building as substantial as Ellison hall when an expenditure of between $1,000 and $1,500 annually over the next ten years will give you a hall worth four times that total.

Despite the expenditure in relation to the probable use in the next few years, we believe the renovation of Ellison hall should go through. We do not favor the idea of Ellison hall being torn down.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

Excitement among the school children was great on Monday morning when they gathered for classes in the new central school building. Six of the nine classes commenced work there that morning. Because of the fact that the folding doors dividing two of the classrooms had not been completed, Principal MacDonald and Miss Nicholson continued in the old building until the middle of the week. Assistant Principal Smith will continue with his class in the old high school building.

Contract for building the new CPR station has been awarded to Harvey and Elsey who will commence work on the new building next week.

Mrs. Van Allen, whose generous gifts to the Summerland Hospital have made it possible for Summerland to have the splendid institution, has now made another munificent donation to the community. In this instance it is in the form of an endowment for the maintenance of the Kenneth Marsden Van Allen memorial wing.

A meeting for the purpose of forming a fire district for the lower town will be held at the Summerland Hotel.

The Dominion Experimental station has been connected with the Kootenay Power Company's line.

W. Jenkinson is building a house near F. J. Nixon's on the property he purchased some months ago from J. C. Wilson.

Another storage dam is being added to the Summerland municipal system. This dam is now under construction on Deer Lake which empties into Trout Creek.

They expect to have everything in shape for the unveiling on Armistice Day and preparations are being made for public participation in the program.

PORTRAITS

Joseph August Biollo
Modest though he is, it must be with some satisfaction that Joe Biollo thinks that through perseverance and faithfulness in doing the work at hand he has attained the position of responsibility he fills here.

To him falls the task of keeping Summerland's over nine hundred telephones in order as well as taking care of the automatic exchange at West Summerland where, night and day, week in week out, year in year out, one can hear, "Click click," as one person is connected with another by telephone.

He was born back in Winnipeg, where his father and two uncles ran a hotel. When Joe was a little fellow the family moved to Penticton. That was when Front street was the main thoroughfare and there were only two or three cars around. Soon after arriving his father died as a result of an accident, leaving Joe, the eldest son, as the chief support of his mother and the other six children.

As a young boy he did all sorts of things to make a dollar here and a dollar there to help to keep the family together. He was a general handy man for Hugh Leir, at whose home he scrubbed floors, milked cows, or did whatever was asked of him, incidentally helping in the tasks contingent on the large Leir family, as well as his own.

When Mrs. Sheridan had a lunch counter at South Penticton he helped there.

While he was doing any work he could pick up he was, of course, not getting the schooling he should have had, but he lived at home, and he was learning all the time.

When Syd Barton became manager of the "Hello" company at Penticton, the Okanagan Telephone Co. he offered Joe a job. This he took, thus starting in the work in which he has become so competent. He has become efficient through being shown and through long experience.

First he was with a construction crew and gradually worked into maintenance and repairs.

Two years later Cliff Creyell became manager, and for eight years he and Joe Biollo maintained the plant and switchboard.

Cyril Tooley was next boss when Mr. Greyell left to go into radio work. For ten years Biollo worked with him.

Middle East Epidemic

— JULY 1951

During World War II he joined the Signal Corps doing telephone work out of Victoria up and down the coast for two years and having one year overseas.

When he was putting in Dr. L. A. Day's 'phone at his office here, Dr. Day reminded him that he had installed a telephone for him before. Where do you suppose that was? In Holland at Zeiss, near Utrecht, when they were both in the army!

It was in 1928 that the Okanagan Telephone Co. bought out the Summerland Telephone Co. with Owen Atkins the manager here, and Joe Biollo helping with installations and maintenance in Summerland as well as Penticton.

With this background, although he was in Penticton in 1945 after the war for nearly five years, he was no stranger when he took over at Summerland in March 1949, and it was a place which he had always liked.

It was then that the Okanagan Telephone Co.'s property was subdivided and the new exchange with its one hundred per cent better reception and efficiency established. There are nearly twice as many 'phones here as before the war and twice as many lines throughout the area.

Though Mrs. Biollo is a bit touchy on the point, it was in 1936, a Leap Year, that they married. This was a year after Joe's mother died. Before her marriage Mrs. Biollo's name was Miss Sine Neilson and her home was at Cawston. They have had a pleasant, happy home life with their two boys, Harold who is in junior high and a Scout, and Freddie, in elementary school, and in Cubs.

Mr. Biollo has probably been in more houses in Summerland than any other one person in town. He probably has his own ideas as to who is a good housekeeper and who is not, and by the standards set in his own home, his ideas would be high.

From 1930-38 he was in the B.C. Dragoons under Major Woodward in Penticton. He is a member of the Summerland Fire Brigade, the Summerland Board of Trade and the Fish and Game Association.

He was a member of the Penticton Fire Brigade for years, and of the Knights of Columbus there. When he left Penticton he was made an honorary life member of the Penticton Sports Club and given an illuminated card in token of this.

He is also a member of the Telephone Pioneers of America, an international organization made up of men who have worked for a telephone company for twenty-one years. Last year he attended their meeting in Vancouver where hundreds assembled from Canada and the United States.

He hunts and fishes, and Harold goes out with him now, too. In fact they have been on the lookout for a deer these days, and last Saturday they got one.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

Tonight I received notice of the death of an old friend far away; and as I read and remembered, it seemed to me that his life might well be subject of one of those epics of frustration so popular with a certain class of poets and fictioneers a few years ago.

John Peabody—which may be as good a false name for him as any other—was born with a sickly body, a brilliant and ambitious mind, and poor parents. He wanted to become a chemist, and if he had had money to attend university, and a gift of salesmanship, he might have become research chemist with some big corporation, or government, and eventually famous, for he had outstanding ability.

But he had to spend years as an apprentice to win his pharmaceutical license; and when he had won it, he was too poor, too proud, and too shy to sell himself into the kind of job his gifts warranted. Instead he became clerk in small town drugstores, moving restlessly from one to another, until romance relieved that first frustration and he settled down with his bride in a little prairie town.

Perhaps that was the happiest period of his life. The people were free and friendly, there were good crops of wheat, an expansive feeling of prosperity. The Peabody's built up a nice little business, rented a comfortable home, bought a cheap car—you could buy a Ford or Chev for less than a thousand dollars, there and then. The only cloud in their clear sky was that their children died in infancy.

Then came the 1930s, the evil days when the clouds returned not with the rain, and there were no crops, the flood of money which had inundated the prairies dried to a trickle, and the finest wheat land in America became a drifting desert of sand in the black blizzards which were far worse than any winter snowstorm.

The Peabodys gave up their house and moved to crowded, hot rooms, above the drugstore. That was when I knew them first; Mrs. Peabody, small and fussy and high voiced, interested only in details of local village life, her husband, outgrown her, like an eagle in a cage with a sparrow.

He seemed a gruff, lonely man to strangers; but when you got to know him, his mind was a treasurehouse of information on all subjects—he could recite poetry or statistics by the hour—and keen as lightning.

He took a keen interest in political arguments, and could unerringly spot all the flaws in political arguments, of his own party or others; he would have made a marvelous member or administrator, but he hadn't the fluency or friendliness to make a name for himself. He loved good books, but could afford few and found few people to talk them over with. He loved good music, but rarely was able to hear any, until the radio brought it; only lately have I realized how exasperating some of the local choir and concert productions must have sounded to his ear. He had been brought up in the East, and enjoyed greenery, grass and trees; not for years did I realize how the flat, monotonous, bald prairie must have irked him. And all the time he was plagued with ill-health, sinuses, bronchitis, internal troubles. So he lived, so he has died; I have never met, a cleverer, or better stored mind. He was capable of great things; he never achieved anything more than a small-town drugstore.

His life would be a tragedy, but for one thing. One child lived; a daughter, born to his middle age. She inherited all his mental powers, and he had money enough to help her as he had not been helped; she went through University, took bachelor's and master's degrees, became a teacher, then a school inspector, the only woman school inspector in Canada, one of the youngest, and, I suspect, one of the best. She and her Dad were great pals, kindred minds, and she made up for him much, perhaps all, of what he failed to achieve on his own.

It was she who wrote me of his death, and quoted the words of W. M. Thackeray that they found in a well-worn clipping in his wallet:

"To endure is greater than to dare; to tire out hostile fortune; to be daunted by no difficulty; to keep heart when all have lost it; to go through intrigue spotless; to forego every ambition when the end is gained—who can say this is not greatness?"

Quoted, too, one sentence from the minister's funeral sermon: "A conquering spirit has faded on."

High School COMMENTS

On Saturday night, October 27, the annual Hallowe'en dance was held in the auditorium. Although the dance was enjoyed by all who attended, I feel that it was not a credit to the student body. The social committee was elected by you and they put in a great deal of hard work to make the dance possible, only to be rewarded for their efforts by the disappointingly small crowd which turned out.

In the past, these school dances were the major functions of the year and were always attended by large crowds, both the younger and older students turning out in large numbers. The clamour was always for more dances and long discussions were held in attempts to have more dances.

Now the picture seems to have changed. There is a lazy indifference on the part of many of the students towards social functions and athletic events. When any work has to be done, it is nearly impossible to get help. Before it is too late, I think the students of SHS should try to prove to themselves and others that there really is a little spirit left in our school.

During the past week, two noon-hour basketball games were played, a slight admission being charged to see these spectacles. The first game was a girls game, played on Tuesday, October 23, between the Grade II Infants and the Grade 12 Grammas, both teams coming on the floor in costume. Grade 12 won this game by a score of...? Who knows.

The second contest was played between the senior boys and the teachers on Thursday, the boys showing their superiority by defeating the teachers 11-5.

Although the teachers made a good stand in the first half, it was plain by the end of the game that they were tiring fast and probably could not take much more. Perhaps they should compete against the senior girls' team next and see if they can do better.

Guides Regret Departure of Mrs. McIntosh

Summerland Girl Guide Association in regular meeting at the Youth Centre on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 25, heard with regret that Mrs. K. McIntosh is leaving Summerland. Appreciation of her work in reorganizing the Summerland Guides and acting so ably as captain was expressed, as well as the fact that she will be greatly missed.

The financial report showed a dwindling bank account, and plans were made to hold a series of progressive teas. It is hoped that mothers and friends of the Guides and Brownies will help to make this effort a success.

Mrs. W. H. Durick, badge secretary, reported both Guides and Brownies working hard for badges and problems in connection with the proper procedure for earning and obtaining badges were discussed.

The divisional meeting will be held at Keremeos on Saturday, November 3. Mrs. D. L. Sanborn will attend in her capacity as president of the local association, and one or two other members will accompany her.

Assessment Raised On Condemned Block

Mrs. W. Wright informed the municipal office recently that old newspapers named as a fire hazard in the old post office building in lower town had been removed. Tenants of the building were also due to vacate the premises at the end of October, she stated.

Although the council condemned the building, it was rather ironical that the assessor had raised the 1951 assessment on the building by $20, Mrs. Wright had pointed out. The chimney is fireproof, she declared.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

2nd Summerland Troop

We had a very good meeting this week, with one full patrol.
 SM Whitmore was unable to be with us, so we were glad to have ASM Van Driel in charge. First part of the meeting was mostly Tenderfoot instruction and re-passing. Afterwards, we went into the hall to play games.

Everyone must wear running shoes, because the floor is too slippery with stocking feet.

On Oct. 19 we had the pleasure of going on a trip to Kamloops to see Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

We were invited to go along with the Cubs in the cavalcade. We would like very much to thank those who supplied transportation. The Cubs also invited us to have a stew supper with them. We stopped about ten miles this side of Kamloops on our way back in a little clearing where two bonfires were made to keep us warm while two gas stoves warmed the stew. I think everyone enjoyed every bit of the trip.

We left here at 10 a.m. and stopped for dinner near Woods Lake. We arrived in Kamloops about 3 p.m. We got lined up for our march down to the stadium. It was muddy part of the way but we made it through.

As Their Royal Highnesses were approaching, the air was filled with little green hats and big brown ones. Most of us were close enough to the Royal couple to touch them. After they left we marched back to our start-point, leaving for home about 6:45.

Notices: Next meeting is Nov. 9. Duty patrol, Hawks. Please be there on time, everybody. No meeting this Friday.

O'Mahony Forced to Decline Office As B.C. Hospital Assn Prexy

Pressure of work and his feeling that he could not devote sufficient time to the office forced J. E. O'Mahony, Summerland hospital secretary, to decline nomination as president of the B.C. Hospitals Assn., the monthly meeting of the Summerland General hospital board of directors was informed last week.

Instead, Mr. A. H. J. Swencisky, Vancouver lawyer, was named for a third term as president.

Mr. O'Mahony represented the directors at the annual convention of the BCHA and was accompanied by the matron, Miss Verda Snow. The auxiliary was represented by Mrs. F. E. Atkinson. Mr. O'Mahony was retiring 2nd vice-president of the BCHA.

Committee Turned Down Motion One of the main points of contention at the BCHA convention was the resolution submitted by the interior region asking that the BCHA be the bargaining agent for the hospitals in dealing with the registered nurses' association.

The resolutions committee defeated this move on the grounds that it tended to take away more powers from the hospitals and relegate them to the government-appointed body.

The resolution was re-introduced from the floor but again met defeat.

A committee was appointed, however, to consider bargaining arrangements on a regional basis, with the BCHA taking the initiative. At the annual regional meeting held in Princeton just prior to the Vancouver convention, Percy Ward, BCHA secretary, pointed out that there could not be uniformity throughout B.C. in the matter of salaries and board and room charges, otherwise some hospitals would never get any qualified help, as conditions were such that nurses were not inclined to go to these particular hospitals.

Mr. O'Mahony and Dr. J. C. Wilcox represented Summerland at this regional meeting which saw Mr. McGraw Princeton appointed as president and regional representative.

Albert Abrahamson, former regional chairman, Revelstoke, has been named 2nd vice-president of the BCHA.

Miss V. Snow told local directors last week that she attended several meetings at the convention which concerned smaller hospitals' operation.

Short Story of Nurses All these hospitals are concerned with the trend of many nurses to stay six months and then continue on to another hospital. It was suggested that nurses only be given two weeks' leave at the end of six months' stay if they will return and remain in the hospital for another two months, at least.

She also outlined the service which is now offered for premature babies. Arrangements have been made at St. Paul's hospital to have a plane flown to any part of B.C. to take premature babies to the coast institution where they will receive special treatment until they reach a weight of five pounds.

RONNIE DOWNES SPOKE TO DUKE OF EDINBURGH

Ronnie Downes, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Downes, was another Summerland boy who was very pleased to have been in conversation with the Duke of Edinburgh at Kamloops during the Royal visit there on Friday, Oct. 19.

Mum History Detailed by Dr. D. V. Fisher

Strides have been made in chrysanthemum culture locally as evidenced by the beautiful blooms on display at the 'Mum' Show held on Tuesday evening, Oct. 23, in the IOOF hall by the Summerland Horticultural Society.

Exhibitors were R. M. White, Dr. James Marshall, Dr. D. V. Fisher, Mrs. David Munn, Mrs. Tullett, Mrs. Wm. White, Miss Doreen Tait, and Mrs. Cameron of Peachland.

Many saw the unusual spoon variety for the first time, and large dis-budded types were admired in many shades.

Dr. D. V. Fisher was speaker to the interested audience of flower lovers with "The Chrysanthemum" as his subject.

He traced the long history of the flower stating that its Greek derivation meant "golden flower". History shows that 'mums have been grown in China for over 2000 years, Dr. Fisher stated.

It is the national flower of Japan, and in 1876 the Mikado established the Order of the Chrysanthemum which is bestowed on sovereigns and dignitaries of that and other countries. An annual 'mum festival is held in the Imperial Gardens in Tokyo every year.

Through early Oriental traders the flower was introduced to Holland in 1688 and to England ten years later. It was not until 1790 that the French started 'mum growing, and in 1826 Sabine, a Frenchman, listed 48 varieties, he continued.

The first all-mum show was held in Norwich, England, in 1829, and the same year the Massachusetts Horticultural Society recorded 17 varieties. In 1844 at the annual flower show of the latter body a chrysanthemum class was established and in 1868 the first American 'Mum Show was held, said Dr. Fisher.

A famous 'mum show was held at Stuttgart in Germany in 1890 when 100 varieties were on exhibit, he mentioned.

Dr. Fisher thought that there are probably between 300-400 varieties now, and listed the best known of the genus chrysanthemum as 1, Coccineum, the pyrethrum; 2, maximum, the Shasta daisy; 3, coreanum, the Korean 'mums; 4, indicum, the button varieties; and 5, hortorum, the horticultural 'mum.

The 'mum was cited as a satisfactory flower to grow because of the numerous varieties and the fact that blooms may be had from June to November through the early medium and late types.

It was also recommended because it is hardy, requiring a minimum of care and the audience was told that it should be planted in the spring in single stalks by pulling the old plants apart. It should be planted without crowding too, for best results, and in full light, with a sprinkling of DDT around each stalk.

Cups from the Valley summer flower show had been engraved and were ready for distribution, and a committee consisting of E. H. Bennett, Clive Atkinson and Mrs. Gordon Ritchie, will try to find a date and place to hold meetings as some members do not find the present time suitable.

A talk on lilies will be given at the next meeting.

Refreshments were served under Miss Doreen Tait, assisted by Mrs. E. C. Bingham and Mrs. M. E. Col-las.

Autumn Coloring is Background for O.E.S. Annual Tea and Sale

The annual tea of the Summerland chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star was carried out attractively in the IOOF hall on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 27.

Guests were pleasantly welcomed at the door by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. W. H. B. Munn, and pouring for the first hour were Mrs. Stark and Mrs. Jack Dunsdon, who were relieved by Mrs. J. R. Butler and Mrs. H. V. Stent for the second hour.

The tea table was covered with a beautiful hand-crocheted cloth with a lovely wide patterned border. Tall tapers, and 'mums in autumn tones were a pretty reminder of the season of the year. The smaller tea tables were decorated with chrysanthemums, too.

The home cooking stall was well stocked with delicious baking which sold quickly under the hands of Mrs. George Long of Greata Ranch and Mrs. Ted Clements of Peachland.

Mrs. A. K. Elliott was convener in charge of the kitchen; Mrs. A. R. Dunsdon convened the tea tables; Mrs. J. R. Butler and Mrs. J. Heavysides were responsible for the charming decorations; and Mrs. H. V. Stent and Mrs. George Washington made advertising arrangements.

Mrs. James Marshall looked after the door prize and Mrs. A. R. Dunsdon was the lucky winner.

Rebekahs Celebrate Anniversary

The hundredth anniversary of the Rebekah Degree was celebrated by members of the local lodge, Faith No. 32, when they entertained Monday, Oct. 29, at the IOOF hall. Invited guests were members of the order and their husbands and the local branch of the IOOF, Okanagan No. 58.

The hall was beautifully decorated with fall 'mums and Mrs. J. Raincock, noble grand, welcomed the guests at the door later giving the address of welcome to start the program.

The degree staff, under the captain, Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, displayed floor work with Mrs. M. Henker at the piano. This was followed by a tableaux, The Bell of Fraternity, exemplified by the degree staff, with Mrs. J. Caldwell as reader.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clark came down from Kelowna for the occasion and at this time Mrs. Clark rendered the following solos, with guests joining in on the chorus: The Bells of St. Mary's, When Irish Eyes are Smiling and My Wild Irish Rose.

A very amusing story was told by Mrs. Reg Kersey, called Yesterday's Rebekah Today.

Then came the highlight of the evening when about seventeen members put on a playlet called "A Lodge Meeting Fifty Years Ago". All "characters" were in full dress, causing a good laugh and depicting in a humorous way how things were managed fifty years ago.

Delicious refreshments were served to ninety-five guests under the convenship of Mrs. Walter Bleasdale, with Mrs. J. Raincock cutting a beautifully decorated cake commemorating the occasion.

A most enjoyable evening was brought to a close with a short singsong and the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

The committee arranging this function were Mrs. H. Eden as convener, Mrs. T. A. Walden, Mrs. J. Caldwell and Mrs. F. E. Atkinson.

Fair Sized Crowd at Hallowe'en Dance

A fair-sized crowd turned out for the annual Hallowe'en Dance which was held in the Youth Centre on Tuesday evening, October 30. Dancing was to Saxe's music from Penticton. This is an annual affair of the Summerland Badminton club which has been the hit of the year but which, for the past two years, has not drawn a large attendance.

Lovely gifts were prettily wrapped and placed in a box decorated in pink. A surprise box containing an alarm clock which rang unexpectedly had been placed under the guest of honor's chair.

Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Guests were Mrs. H. Fujita, Mrs. Aoki, Mrs. Fred Walker, Mrs. Ben Trafford, Mrs. Bob Bleasdale, Mrs. A. Matsui, Mrs. C. H. Mr. George Stoll flew east on Tuesday, planning to pick up a car at Toronto and drive to Montreal to meet his mother, Mrs. Barbara Stoll and his brother, Mr. Karl Stoll with his wife and children, who are arriving from Europe to make their home in Summerland. It is 23 years since Mr. Stoll has seen his mother and brother.

Plan Remembrance Day Banquet Program

Legion LA members are busy making plans for entertaining their guests at the annual Remembrance Day banquet to be held in the Youth Centre on Monday evening, Nov. 12.

Mrs. J. A. Read is convener of the program for the evening, and one speaker will be Mr. Davie Jack. Capt. A. M. Temple will propose the toast to Fallen Comrades.

Tickets are on sale now and proceedings well under way.

Kitchen Shower for November Bride Has Modern Green Motif

A kitchen shower of things in green, the popular modern color was a surprise party given for Miss Evelyn Heichert on Friday evening, Oct. 26, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frank Young.

Hallowe'en colors were used to decorate the chair in which the guest of honor was asked to sit, and the box holding the gifts was ornamented with pumpkin motifs. Black cats on the mantel added another Hallowe'en touch.

Many lovely presents were received by the bride-elect of this month, and admired by all.

Mrs. W. Kopp arranged the games with everyone entering into the fun.

The hostess served delicious refreshments having a cake decorated to carry out the Hallowe'en theme. Mrs. Harold Short and Mrs. W. Kopp assisted in serving.

Others invited were Mrs. J. Heichert, Mrs. C. Adolph, Mrs. N. Holmes, Mrs. C. Wade, Mrs. C. Letts, Mrs. W. Milne, Mrs. T. Fisher, Mrs. V. Lockwood, Mrs. H. Woods, Mrs. A. Holmes, Mrs. W. ## Successful Sale by Christ Lutheran

The ladies of Christ Lutheran church held a successful sale on Saturday evening, Oct. 27 in the IOOF hall. All of their efforts are increasing and each one seems to be better than the last one.

Mrs. A. Turigan, president, greeted the guests, and welcomed them to the event.

In charge of the home cooking stall were Mrs. J. Heichert and Mrs. Ivar Nelson.

Mrs. E. Harbicht and Mrs. J. Felker sold aprons and other fancy work, some of it bought to be put away until it is time to wrap parcels for Christmas.

Mrs. Jesse and Mrs. Thomas, assisting at the fish pond, found it quite a busy spot.

Last year the group featured paper flowers at their sale, and this year had roses and carnations on the counter.

In the kitchen Mrs. W. Huva made the coffee, and helping in that important spot were Mrs. A. Felker, Mrs. A. Lekei, Mrs. P. Hollinger, and Mrs. J. Kilbach. Mrs. Wendell looked after the tables where tea was served.

The president, Mrs. Turigan, and Mrs. F. Schmidt, assisted during the evening wherever they were needed. Rev. Mr. Vorath, pastor of the congregation, came from Kelowna to attend the sale.

MORE THAN A MILLION CANADIANS PAY BILLS BY B OF M CHEQUE

Every day, every office of the Bank of Montreal handles hundreds and thousands of cheques. Some cover business transactions of millions of dollars, others are used to settle personal accounts of just a dollar or two. All over the country, people in every walk of life find it convenient to carry a B of M cheque book.

When you pay your bills by cheque, you avoid the time-wasting round of stores or offices. The stubs give you an exact record of how much you've spent, and your cashed and cancelled cheques, which your bank will return on request, serve as your receipts.

It's safer, too. If you have the misfortune to lose bills or coin, you may or may not find your money again. But you can't lose the money in your B of M account, and no cheque is worth a cent until you have signed it.

Ivor Bolly, manager of the Bank of Montreal branch at West Summerland, cordially invites you to open an account at his office. Try out for yourself the merits of a B of M chequing account.

BCFGA Resolutions For Every Member is Aim of Main Executive

It is the hope of the BCFGa to place in the hands of every grower member by mid-December the resolutions for the 1952 convention, a recent press release indicates.

But, points out President A. R. Garrish, if this is to be done, the solid co-operation of every local will be needed. Efforts should be concentrated to have all resolutions organized at the first of the two meetings before the year end.

The BCFGa convention is being held in Penticton on January 15, 16 and 17 and in order to expedite resolutions, it is proposed that the locals' meeting be concluded by November 30.

Any resolutions submitted by the locals' second meeting in December must be of exceptional merit or related to resolutions on the main list, it is suggested.

Huge Reforestation Program Concluding

When the fall planting program of the reforestation division of the B.C. Forest Service has concluded its work at Central Lake, Cowichan Lake and Lawson Lake near Campbell River, 7 1/2 million trees will have been planted in B.C. this year, Hon. E. T. Kenney, minister of lands and forests announced recently.

Calibre of men engaged in the work this year is reported as exceptionally high. The crews include a number of displaced persons obtained direct from the federal immigration department. Of these, two are qualified foresters from Germany.

BCFGA Appreciates Support Given its Submission to Ottawa

Appreciation of the valuable support given by the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers' Union (TLC) and W. H. Sands, by the Associated Boards of Trade of the Mainline and of Southern British Columbia and by the citizens generally in respect of the submissions to Ottawa which resulted in an order-in-council being passed for a grant of $1,200,000 to apply against the depressed apple prices of the 1950 apple crop, was recorded by the BCFGa executive at the last meeting.

The labor union and the two Associated Boards of Trade prepared briefs which were submitted to the minister of labor, Hon. Milton F. Gregg, and to the minister of trade and commerce, Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe respectively, and the BCFGa executive felt that when the matter came before the council, there was understanding and co-operation between these two ministers as well as from the Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture.

Lower Town Water Shows Positive Tests

Intermittent contamination of water in the lower town system is causing health authorities some concern, municipal council learned last week when the report of the medical health officer was heard.

Positive samples were taken from lower town water supply on May 25, July 4, September 14 and October 10, it was stated, although in intervals between these dates negative tests were found.

Council noted that one orchard, believed to be a contributing factor as far as seepage water is concerned, has now switched to sprinkler irrigation. It was considered that this move may mean a change in the situation, and it will be watched further.

Penticton is Largest City In Okanagan

Penticton has been the fastest growing city in the interior of B.C. and now has a population of 10,517, figures released by the bureau of statistics on the 1951 census revealed recently.

In 1941 Penticton's census population was 5,777, indicating an increased growth of 82 percent.

Kelowna is the second largest city with 8,466, an increase of 65 percent over the 1941 population figure of 5,113.

Kamloops is in third position with 7,938 compared with 5,959 for 1941, a 34 percent increase.

Although Vernon is fourth with 7,778, its percentage increase is much higher than Kamloops, having gained 49 percent over the 1941 population of 5,209.

No district municipalities have been included in figures released to date by the bureau. Healthy increases are shown by all communities with one exception.

NOTES from PARLIAMENT HILL

(By O. L. JONES, MP for Yale)

On Friday, October 19, Hon. L. E. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs, announced to the House: "The Canadian Government considers it of major importance for the security of the free world to peace itself, that no action should be taken to alter by force the present regime of responsibility of the United Kingdom for the defence of the Suez canal zone. These views have already been communicated to the United Kingdom government."

With these words Mr. Pearson terminated a statement in which he announced that Canada stands shoulder to shoulder with Britain in her policy regarding the Suez canal. His statement followed a brief review of the events that led up to the present crisis in Egypt. Mr. Pearson's statement made it quite clear that Canada still regards herself as a vital part of the membership in the Commonwealth of Nations.

On the same day, Hon. Hughes Lapointe, minister of veterans affairs, announced that the government is giving consideration to increasing the basic rate of pensions now paid under the pensions act and is going to introduce at this Session legislation dealing with the matter.

Mr. Lapointe announced the intention to set up a committee to deal with veterans affairs at the earliest possible date, after the opening of the 1952 session. Any legislation or recommendation that this committee will make could be made retroactive to January 1st next year.

These announcements were met with approval from all parties. While we were not told what increases will be given, it has been rumored in the corridors that it may be between 20% and 25%. If that is the case, it is less than the 33.1-3% asked for in the veteran's brief.

Mr. Campney, Vancouver Centre, rose to defend the department of national defence against attacks that have been made on this department for being too slow in carrying out its defence program. Mr. Campney set forth figures and facts of production that sought to justify the speed at which this department is meeting the current crisis.

Mr. Campney chided Mr. Drew about his continual requests for setting up of a committee to delve into defence expenditures. He mentioned that the department a year ago submitted its accounts to the committee on public accounts, when over $380,000,000 worth of defence expenditures were checked, but although Mr. Drew was a member of this committee, Mr. Campney pointed out that he never attended it, and that nineteen of these meetings dealt exclusively with defence expenditures.

Later on, Mr. Drew claimed that the public accounts committee is muzzled regarding any effective examinations of the current state of our defence affairs, but stated that the government should set up a committee on defence expenditures, with power to act.

Mr. J. J. Smith of Moose Mountain attacked the programs that are given over the CBC and in view of what many consider an excellent service that is given by the CBC, I will quote Mr. Smith to show his point of view:

"Then may I refer briefly to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The CBC is owned and I understand, operated by the government. As a Canadian taxpayer, if called upon to do so I shall be pleased to pay taxes to give an increase to pensioners. On the other hand, we are being taxed a considerable amount of money to keep the CBC in operation; but unless some of these pro-communist programs are cleaned out, then as a taxpayer I shall not be in favor of making any further donations by way of taxes to maintain the CBC.

"I wish the minister were in his seat, but I have no doubt he will have the opportunity of reading what I say. Not long ago I listened to a program over the CBC that I suggest was unfit for the ears of my children. If it was, then my mother made a sad mistake in bringing me up. I say that program was anti-religious and therefore pro-Russian. It is high time that stuff was cleaned out of the air, especially when the taxpayers' money is being used. This is a free country, and any anti-religious individual who wishes to speak may do so. That is just fine with me, so long as he pays for his own time. I do not want to pay for it through taxation."

Monday, October 22, was set aside for discussion of a motion dealing with external affairs. Mr. Pearson outlined international affairs in general and Canada's part in particular. He mentioned the increasing tendency of Canada and the United States to draw together. Many of my constituents have brought this tendency to my attention, some apparently objecting and others approving of the situation. Mr. Pearson explained the situation in the following words:

"Not long ago the spectre that haunted Canadian policy makers in this field of foreign affairs was that the United States would remain aloof from international efforts which were being made to protect the peace against Nazi and Fascist aggression. We sometimes worry now lest the United States may feel it necessary to pursue policies inside our coalition which the other members cannot wholeheartedly follow, or that inadequate co-operation from those other members may discourage American effort and leadership to the point where Washington may even decide, on some unhappy day, to go it alone."

Mr. Coldwell advocated that we should strengthen our ties with the Asian people by extending our diplomatic relations with Asian people to the greatest possible extent. He also referred to the Japanese treaty as a particularly generous treaty in view of the cruel and harsh treatment meted out to our Canadian civilians and prisoners of war.

Weekly Newspapers are "Voice Of the People" Says National President A. Hanks, Manitoba

That the country newspapers of B.C. are the "voice of the people" was the reminder of A. W. Hanks, St. James, Man., president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Assn., when addressing the annual banquet of the B.C. Division, CWNA, at Hotel Vancouver last month.

Mr. Hanks was guest speaker and had been accompanied by the three-day convention of the B.C. Division by Robert Moore of Swift Current, Sask., Canadian 1st vice-president and W. E. McCartney, Toronto, secretary-manager of the national body.

Nothing Else Like It
"It is well to remember that the weekly newspaper is an institution in the community," Mr. Hanks remarked. "There is nothing else quite like it and therefore there is nothing else which can quite take its place."

"No one is called upon to exercise more thoughtfulness and tact in dealing with the local news of joys and sorrows in family life than the weekly editor. He must rejoice with those who rejoice and weep with them that weep—he must keep his balance—always playing his part in the community's many and varied activities. By so doing, he serves the nation as a vital part of our democracy."

"In the words of the great Pulitzer, 'You are the eyes of the people. Pry into the dark corners. Turn on the lights. The people have a right to know.'"

During the convention, standing tribute was paid to the memory of the late Ralph E. White, long-time publisher of the Kamloops Sentinel and prior to that the publisher of the original Summerland Review, one of Canada's outstanding veteran weekly publishers.

Victor Ball of the Fernie Free Press was chosen as president for 1951-52, succeeding Stanley E. Orris, publisher of the Grand Forks Gazette. W. L. Griffith of the Cariboo Observer, Quesnel, was named first vice-president and Ronald White of the Kamloops Sentinel, second vice-president.

A. W. Lundell, MLA, Revelstoke Review, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Directors of the division are: J. S. Rivers, Saanich Peninsula and Gulf Islands Review; Leslie E. Barber, Chilliwack Progress; C. R. Fahrni Kaslo Kootenaiian; J. R. (Tim) Armstrong, Summerland Review; James E. Jamieson, Armstrong Advertiser; W. Eric Dunning, Haney Gazette; Mrs. Mary Cameron, Marpole-Richmond Review.

Bill Milne Thought He Was Seeing Double

Mr. Wm. Milne had rather an odd experience a week ago. Joan Hong, a high school student, brought her watch in to be repaired. It had a broken mainspring.

Within an hour or two Mr. Milne thought it was Joan in again. A girl appeared saying she had brought her watch to be fixed.

Said Mr. Milne: "Why you just brought one in." She said she hadn't, so he explained further.

Then she said: "Why that must have been my twin sister!"

"So it was, the second girl was June Hong."

Both watches had broken main springs, and Mr. Milne says that it is only a chance in several thousand that the main springs of two watches would break within a few hours of each other.

Afterwards the girls were both back the same day to get their watches advanced five minutes. Both timepieces are running well now.

VOTERS LIST WILL BE REVISED NOVEMBER 15

URGES "YES" FOR ELLISON HALL BYLAW VOTE

West Summerland, B.C. October 29, 1951.
Editor, The Review;

Regarding the Ellison Hall by-law, approximate figures from the recent meeting called by the Council give the number of ratepayers at about 1200, one mill rate produces $2,700 cost of renovation $12,000 repayable by yearly instalments from $1540 downwards. If passed, you will then have a building which could not be put up now for $50,000 (original cost $22,000) besides which a good part of the money spent would remain in Summerland for wages etc., at a time when work is generally none too plentiful.

Quite true we have a fine Auditorium and a co-operative School Board but there are occasions when School Law will not permit this to be used. The Legion should find Ellison Hall very useful, the Old Timers, the Rangers, and others when for political, sectarian, or other reasons, the Schools could not be used.

It is the first time in years we have had any concrete proposal and now the Council appears to have brought forward a very reasonable proposition. When the hall has had a face lifting with a coat of paint and proper heating installed, etc., you will again have something of which Summerland need not be ashamed and to some extent worthy of its unique situation and surroundings. And the cost—to the average ratepayer the yearly cost would not equal the price he pays for half a pound can of tobacco. Is it not worth it?

Yours truly
J. C. Barkwill.

REFUTES KELOWNA STATEMENT

Editor, The Review;

In the Kelowna Courier, Monday, October 22, in the Vancouver Province, and on Interior radio stations on Tuesday, October 23, it was reported that Okanagan Valley Teachers were demanding a 12% increase in salary. This is an erroneous, unauthorized and unconfirmed report.

In February, 1951 there were six arbitrations in the valley. The majority of these arbitration boards fixed the teaching salaries for one year only, therefore negotiations for salaries would have to be opened this fall.

The Okanagan branch of the B.C. School Trustees Association, realizing this situation, retained the services of Stevenson and Kellog, management engineers, in order to find a solution to administration of teachers' salaries. This was done with the co-operation of the teachers. It was the sincere hope of both parties that this survey would cut down on arbitrations and also eliminate hard feelings. The results of this survey were made known in July. At the present time the trustees and teachers are conducting a series of meetings in order that the whole, or part of the report may be implemented.

These meetings are not to talk over teachers' demands, but are meetings of both parties earnestly seeking a solution to a problem. They definitely do not mean another Salmon Arm, or the operating of schools for 8 months of the year.

Thanking you for this space in your publication.

F. VENABLES
President, Okanagan Branch, E.C.S.T.A.
FREDERICK W. FLICK

"HOKEY-POKEY" IN ENGLAND

Summerland, B.C. October 29, 1951.
Editor, The Review;

While listening to the poll returns after the British elections last week, I called to mind several former elections in England. Years ago election days were very exciting and very rowdy. Torchlight processions, in which supporters of opposing parties frequently met at street corners and flung abuse (and worse) at one another, were nightly events for some time before election day.

One funny incident came vividly to mind; it was after the election was over and won, I forget whether by Tweedledum or Tweedledee; but our usually quiet street was invaded by a crowd of dirty, ragged, barefoot children waving a bedraggled Union Jack and shouting at the tops of their voices.

Rule, rule Britannia.
God save the Queen.
Hard times in England,
Never more to be seen.
Hokey-pokey, penny a lump—
Taste before you try;
OH, WOT a happy land is England.

I wonder if their "hokey-pokey" is going to cost them more in future?

Lilian V. Plunkett.

Les Way, Neighborly News Begins 7th Year

Les Way, Neighborly News commentator, began his seventh year on Trans-Canada network stations by interviewing two key officials of the British Columbia Division of the CWNA on Wednesday, October 17th (6:00 p.m. EST). His guests were Stan Orris, retiring president of the B.C. division and editor of the Grand Forks Gazette; and Victor Ball, incoming president and convention chairman, editor of the Fernie Free Press.

Les Way has worked out some statistics for the celebration of the sixth anniversary. He looked back on 312 broadcasts, the study of 18,720 weekly papers in search of material, and a total of three quarters of a million words spoken into the microphone.

Western Canada Ski Assn. Censures Olympic Group for Cutting Down Team

Censure of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association and of the Canadian Olympic Association for the cutting down of the Canadian Olympic team was voiced on Sunday morning here as the second day of the two-day annual fall meeting of the Western Canadian Amateur Ski Association came to a close.

Officials from Banff, Calgary, Vancouver, Revelstoke, Rossland, Princeton and Summerland were present for this important semi-annual meeting which was considered one of the best represented ever held.

Throughout the discussions, rumblings of disputes between the west and east were uppermost. But the rumblings were not all confined to the national scale, as the elimination two years ago of the zone system without any efficient substitute brought some discord from interior of B.C. clubs who no longer belong to the western group.

The general meeting was unanimous in its protest at the elimination of several persons from the Canadian Olympic team.

President Dave Spence of Vancouver and Banff led the attack on the Canadian Olympic Assn. and its chairman, A. Sidney Dawes, a former president of the C.A.S.A.

It was stated that the Olympic committee had drawn funds for a Canadian ski team of 17, whereas a team of 16 had been selected originally and now only 12 will make the trip.

In other sports, the governing body tells the Olympic committee the team which will represent that sport. It was intimated that in the case of skiing, the Olympic committee has been dictating to the C.A.S.A. how many skiers will make up the team.

This situation drew the censure of the western delegation on the C.A.S.A.

George Garrish, Vancouver, went so far as to suggest that if this situation continues that the C.A.S.A. should withdraw from Olympic competition and concentrate on the world championships which are held on the alternative four-year schedule.

This brought a slight rebuke from Newt Robinson of the Red Mountain SC, Rossland, who did not believe that anything would be gained by dropping out. It would be better to stay and fight until the situation is corrected, he thought.

B.C. team is to be chosen to represent this province at the junior ski championships in the east this winter. Affiliated clubs are being asked to supply names of top juniors who might be eligible for the team and the western officials will then select the team.

There is a possibility that Daryl Weitzel might be chosen for this team as Technical Chairman Henry Sotvedt of Vancouver pointed out that Summerland has one of the best juniors in B.C. from the performance he turned in last winter. Revelstoke was anxious to have a provincial junior tourney and the central office in Vancouver was acquainted with this suggestion.

Elimination of Zone Still Sore Point

On Saturday, it was evident that Kelowna, at least, did not feel that the Western Canadian group was providing any service for many clubs in the B.C.-Alberta section.

Old "sores" were opened by Max dePfyffer, Kelowna, who declared that it is possible that Okanagan clubs may decide to affiliate with the C.A.S.A. and bypass the western association.

Chairman Spence replied that this was not possible, despite any letters which Mr. dePfyffer might have from the C.A.S.A.

The main dissension centred around the elimination of the zone system in the Western Canadian setup, as it had proved too unwieldy and proper correspondence was not being funnelled through the right channels.

Chairman Spence pointed out that Kelowna complaints centered about one particular instance when the western office was asked for jumpers and judges to help promote a tournament and none was forthcoming.

Chairman Spence took part of the blame for this error, stating that he was sick at the time, but also declared that such an oversight would not happen again.

W. Powell Named Okanagan Representative

Walter B. Powell of Summerland was named as Okanagan district representative and he agreed to call clubs together and discuss what help would be forthcoming from the WCASA.

The Summerland Ski club is the only one of the old Okanagan zone which remained affiliated with the WCASA after the zone system was abandoned.

Barry Bougher, who represented many of the ski clubs in the Alberta foothills, and who dominated much of the discussion, considered this move on the part of the meeting as one of major importance, as it would bring the work of the WCASA closer to the individual small clubs.

He represented the biggest club in the association, Calgary, with a membership last year of some eight hundred.

Mr. Bougher was mainly responsible for instituting an amendment to the ten cents per member assessment ruling. In future, no club will pay more than $50 for members' assessment.

The association wound up the

Criticism of East Appears in Report

At the outset, Chairman Spence's report on WCASA activities indicated that many improvements had been made in competitive skiing by his association.

"The certification of ski officials, ski schools, ski jumping clinics, officials' classes, etc.—the administrative phase—has been complimented as one of the best in the world," he boasted.

"Our rating system has been copied in part by the National Ski Association of America. The Western Association's competitor cards are now being accepted and used by every province in Canada.

"Only the stupidity of so-called eastern ski officials has retarded its use throughout the country," he emphasized.

At another point he voiced disapproval of the C.A.S.A. eastern setup by stating: "Eastern Canada's attitude and lack of initiative in handling the most important part has been, to say the least, disgraceful and not befitting the action of full-grown adults."

Mr. Spence attended the annual meeting of the National Ski Association of America at Chicago on his way to the C.A.S.A. annual meeting in Ottawa last May. He commended the Olympic ski 1950-51 season with a profit of $246. It was reported by Treasurer, Miss Edith Bawtrell, Vancouver.

The Calgary man also suggested some consideration be given to classification of skiers within a club. He felt that skiers fall into competitive ski runners and pleasure skiers, and it might be well for the association to consider a division of dues along those categories.

Among the visitors to Summerland, Franz Gabl, of Banff, an Olympic competitor who has been merland at the weekend was asked to coach the women's section of the Canadian Olympic ski team.

Chairman Spence told the meeting that Mr. Gabl is uncertain if he will accept as the amount of this expenses has not been determined and unless he receives sufficient remuneration he cannot afford to make the trip.

Further, Mr. Spence stated, Gabl was asked to take on the coaching duty not by the C.A.S.A. but by the Olympic committee chairman, A. S. Dawes.

team selection committee of the C.A.S.A. and thought it was "too bad that their recommendations and advice went for naught during the summer months, and that the Olympic Association has been allowed to dictate to the ski association as they have."

Mr. Spence argued "long and loud" at Ottawa for retention of the junior age limit and was successful in having it remain as under 15 at January 1st.

He criticized the voting system at the annual meeting of C.A.S.A. as Ontario and Quebec had four votes each and his Western Association had only one. There was a continual battle between Ontario and Quebec in evidence and many times his casting vote decided an issue as the two eastern groups would split solidly on many questions.

A banquet was tendered the convention in the Nu-Way Annex Saturday evening with films being shown at its conclusion.

Visitors extended hearty congratulations to the Summerland club on its spirit and progress and after inspection of the ski hill on Sunday morning declared that with some improvements to the jumping hill Summerland could stage the Western Canada championships if it wished at some future date.

Daryl Weitzel No Longer Junior Skier

Although it was intimated on Sunday that Daryl Weitzel might be a possibility for B.C.'s junior ski team, his age will not permit inclusion, The Review has since learned. He is being given a B plus rating by the technical committee of the WCASA and will thus be able to compete in the Canadian championships next year on Grouse Mt., Vancouver.

Summerland Enters 6-Team Puck League

One Summerland hockey team will compete in the Pentiction and District commercial puck loop which may get away on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 11, in the new memorial arena in Pentiction.

This was decided at last week's annual meeting of the Summerland Hockey club, which is organized under the auspices of the Summerland Rink Assn.

L. W. Rumball was returned as hockey club proxy last week, along with George Stoll as manager. Dr. A. W. Vanderburgh was named honorary president and an executive of Jim Heavysides, Louis Burnell and George Wolite was selected.

Finances of the hockey club are handled by the rink association. Last night the Summerland pucksters were scheduled to have their first workout on the memorial arena ice in Pentiction.

Summerland's team will be 100 percent local, Manager Stoll announced following last week's meeting.

As far as is known now, six teams will comprise this new loop, one each from Summerland, Princeton and Hedley and 3 Pentiction teams making up the sextet.

Three games each Sunday afternoon would comprise the league schedule. As soon as Summerland has ice home games will be switched here.

Rosslund Boy May Be on Canada's Olympic Ski Team

One Interior British Columbia skier may be on Canada's Olympic team as a spare on the downhill crew, just weekend's meeting of the Western Canadian Amateur Ski Association was informed.

After much pressure was brought to bear, George Merry of Red Mountain Ski Club, Rosslund, was named as spare but according to WCASA President Dave Spence it is still not certain if he will be included when the team leaves Canada.

Another skier still in doubt is Bob Richardson of Montreal, whose status as an amateur has been questioned.

Canada's Olympic team was proposed as follows:

Downhill—Men, Bob Richardson, Montreal; Jack Griffin, Montreal and Vancouver; Andre Bertrand, Quebec; Gordie Morrison, Banff; George Merry, Rosslund, spare.

Women, Jeanne Hewson, Rhoda Eaves and Rosemary Schuitz, all of Montreal; Lucille Wheeler, St. Javite, Quebec.

Cross Country—Claude Richer, Ottawa; Jacques Carbonneau, Quebec.

Jumping—Wilfred Charlend and Lucien Laferte, Three Rivers, Quebec.

Manager, Fred Urquhart; coach, Harvey Clifford; women's coach offered to Franz Gabl, Banff.

Suggest Badminton Association to Cover South Okanagan Area

Under the conensorship of Dave Waddell, president of the Summerland Badminton club, a meeting of badminton clubs from Pentiction, Summerland, Oliver, Naramata and Princeton was held in Pentiction's Scout hall last Sunday, Oct. 27, with the object of forming a South Okanagan Badminton Assn.

This objective was not accomplished but representatives will discuss the proposal with their clubs and report back to a further meeting to be held in the near future.

A similar meeting is being held at Vernon next Sunday, Nov. 4, to form a North Okanagan Badminton Assn.

Setting up of Badminton leagues, possible affiliation with the B.C. Badminton Assn. and encouragement of junior play were among the objectives listed for such organizations.

Summerland Passed By in Dental Plan

"Why wasn't Summerland included in the first dental scheme?" This was a query made by Inspector A. S. Matheson to School District No. 77 (Summerland) at a regular meeting of school trustees Monday night. There was no answer forthcoming, as trustees had never been informed why the South Okanagan Health Unit had decided to include Penticton rather than Summerland. As a consequence, trustees are sending a letter to the department at Victoria expressing regret that Summerland was "passed by" and hoping that consideration will be given to local inclusion in the next enlargement of the scheme. It had been proposed that Similkameen centres, Oliver, Osoyoos and Summerland would be included in the preventive dentistry scheme, but Penticton was eventually chosen in place of Summerland, Inspector Matheson pointed out. He also stated that Kelowna and Summerland school districts would have the right proportion of school population to occupy a preventive dentistry official.

FISHING

Still good on Okanagan Lake, but it is cold work and requires lots of warm clothing. White fishermen are starting to get their gear ready and the run should be starting soon.

HUNTING

Pheasants are the main topic. All reports show there are a few around and surprising enough there are lots of young cocks, which shows that propagation among the birds has been normal.

Ducks are coming in now and some of the fellows are getting mallards. No report on geese this week. A note of interest to duck hunters is that Jimmy Doherty and Harry Howard are back from Barrhead, Alberta. They report a good bag of 38 northern mallards but no geese.

They saw thousands in a single flock but the weather was extreme, down to five below. They figure they were two weeks too late this year but hope to remedy this situation next year.

Moose are still coming in to town in good quantity. Several parties were lucky but some report the snow and cold weather bad for hunting. Summerland still has a good representation in the Cariboo with other parties still leaving. There will be lots of moose meat in Summerland this year.

Deer are coming down now that snow is on the high ranges. Quite a few were shot over the weekend, among the lucky ones being Hilly Smith, Joe Biollo, Ken Blagborne, Harry Brown and others, too, but I haven't got their names. From now on deer will be easier to get unless a big thaw lets them return to the high ridges.

Municipal Bylaw Can be Placed Before Voters Again in January

After Summerland ratepayers failed by a narrow margin to give the proposed municipal hall bylaw the necessary margin at Saturday's voting, Reeve C. E. Bentley communicated with B. C. Bracewell deputy minister of municipalities in Victoria and was informed that the bylaw can be re-submitted in January.

Decision on this subject will probably be reached at next Tuesday's council session.

The vote to turn over surplus funds in the municipal treasury to a $45,000 fund to erect a new municipal hall met with defeat by a narrow margin at the polls last Saturday.

Also turned down was the proposal to renovate Ellison hall, with an expenditure of $12,000 to be raised by the sale of debentures against the credit of the municipality.

Most persons in the municipality were startled and, at first, somewhat stunned to find the municipal hall bylaw did not obtain the necessary 60 percent majority. It was no surprise to most persons that Ellison hall renovation was turned down by a wide margin.

Of the 595 unspoiled ballots cast in the municipal hall vote, 60 percent needed would have amounted to 357. Only 354 votes were recorded in favor, to 241 against, with two spoils.

Another eight "Yes" votes would have turned the tide in favor of the bylaw, or if three negative votes had been "Yes" the result would have been successful.

There was no doubt about Ellison hall, as 360 voted against it, to 232 in favor, with five ballots spoiled.

The municipal hall bylaw asked the ratepayers to allow municipal council to take $33,472.61 which had accumulated in sinking fund surplus to requirements, plus $7,200 in excess of requirements in the North Bench domestic water extension scheme, and $4,327.39 from current revenue in order to build a new municipal hall for $45,000.

No additional money was to be raised, but the council had devised a method whereby the hall could be erected out of funds on hand.

Despite this, 241 ratepayers voted against the scheme and it failed to achieve a 60 percent majority.

Ellison hall bylaw, on the other hand, sought permission of the taxpayers to raise $12,000 by debenture issue on the credit of the corporation to renovate Ellison hall. Such renovations included installation of a heating system, re-roofing one section, insulating walls, re-flooring and other minor repairs.

This bylaw had been sought by petition of a sufficient number of ratepayers, with members of the Canadian Legion sponsoring the request for submission.

Counting the votes took a lengthy period and it wasn't until 10:45 that the municipal hall vote was settled, Ellison hall voting was made known at 11:35.

W. C. W. Fosbery was returning officer, with C. Noel Higgin as deputy in charge of the lower town voting in Lakeshore United church. Voting in West Summerland was at the old municipal office.

Kaleden Apple Packer Wins Championship

Mrs. Jeff Garlinge of Kaleden Co-op was judged champion apple packer of Canada at the annual trials held yesterday afternoon at the Pentiction Co-op packinghouse. L. R. Stephens, Kelowna, Okanagan Federated Shippers Assn, secretary informed The Review by phone just before noon.

It was at an early hour this morning that all points were tabulated and results announced.

Mrs. Garlinge is a former Peachland resident and her husband, well known in Summerland, is manager of the Kaleden Co-op.

Runnerup to Mrs. Garlinge was Mrs. W. Benoit, of Pentiction, whose husband was a well known baseball player on the Pentiction squad for many years.

Both women have had about fifteen years' experience in packing fruit.

Full details of other results in this contest will be given in next week's issue of The Review.

Rotary Governor Pays Surprise Visit

Sidney H. Woodcock, of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, governor of Rotary District No. 153, paid a surprise visit to last Friday's Rotary Club of Summerland meeting in the Nu-Way Annex. Governor Woodcock, with Mrs. Woodcock, was on his way to Vernon to attend the international conference of Rotary clubs gathered to hear Tom J. Davis, Butte, Mont., president of Rotary International in 1941-42 as special guest speaker. Also with the Idaho man were Rotarians Jack Borry of Walla Walla, Wash., and Rosecoe Scheller, of Sunnyside, Wash., a former district governor.

Clark Case to Start at Fall Assizes Next Tuesday, Nov. 13

Gordon Lindsay, Vernon lawyer named prosecutor for the fall assizes of the Supreme Court in Vernon, has announced that the trial of George Frederic Clark, Summerland war veteran and fruit grower, on a charge of murdering his brother-in-law, Harold Oliver Tavender, will be the first case to come before the assizes.

Tuesday, November 13, is the opening date for the assizes which, for the first time, will be presided over by Mr. Justice Clyne.

Facing Prosecutor Gordon Lindsay on the defence side of the Clark trial will be Harold McInnes, KC and John Aikins, both well-known Pentiction lawyers.

Also on the docket are two manslaughter cases against Abraham Drediger from Oliver and Ralph Leroy Phelps from Princeton. Ten divorce petitions will also be heard, along with nine civil cases.

In the Clark case, evidence taken at the preliminary hearing occupies three bound volumes totalling more than 600 pages, in addition to the 131 exhibits.

Remembrance Day Services This Sunday

All Summerland has been invited to participate in the annual Remembrance Day service at the Cenotaph in the Living Memorial park playground this Sunday, November 11.

A special service is being held to honor those who fell in two world wars and it is the hope of the Canadian Legion and all others interested in the service that a large attendance be on hand for this impressive function.

Parade will move off from Smith & Henry's corner, with form up time given as 10:20 a.m. on Sunday. Legionnaires, Scouts, Guides, Cubs and Brownies are expected to take part in this parade, as well as Legion auxiliary members, it is understood.

The Summerland Ministerial Association takes charge of the Remembrance service, Rev. H. R. Whitmore offering the opening prayer, to be followed by the singing of O Canada, The Summerland Band will be in attendance.

Rev. G. Schnell will read the Scriptures after which the hymn, O God Our Help in Ages Past will be sung by the gathering. Rev. D. O. Knipfel will lead in prayer.

The roll of honor will then be read by Dr. C. G. Woodbridge, Legion president, with response by the Legion. A two-minute silence period will end with the sounding of The Last Post and Reveille. Wreaths will be laid on the Cenotaph and Canon F. V. Harrison will give the Benediction. God Save the King will end the service, the parade moving off to its start point for dismissal.

Regular church services will be held at 11:15 this Sunday, after the parade.

This Saturday is Poppy Day and arrangements have been made by the Legion to sell poppies in all parts of the district. Scouts and Guides will assist in this endeavor.

RE-ELECT PRESIDENT OF PNE FOR ANOTHER TERM

G. Mort Ferguson has been re-elected to the presidency of the Pacific National Exhibition for his second one-year term. The annual election was held by the elected directors last week. George S. Powell was re-elected as a vice-president. Honored with the other vice-presidency was John S. C. Moffitt. Honorary treasurer for the year will be T. R. Fyfe.

Spinal Meningitis Takes Life of Young Local Girl

After an illness which lasted only 24 hours, Lorna Marie Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Walker of Summerland, died suddenly in Pentiction hospital of spinal meningitis early Sunday morning, Nov. 4.

Her younger brother, Ronnie, was taken ill at the same time but he is now making rapid recovery also in Pentiction hospital.

No other cases of meningitis have been reported in this district for many months.

One case occurred in the South Okanagan last year and three cases have been reported to the health unit this year. Miss I. Stewart, public health nurse, states, "Meningitis is not readily spread to other persons, so there is no cause for general concern, Miss Stewart explains. Persons with colds should take the usual precautions to prevent them becoming more severe, since colds lower resistance to disease."

Meningitis occurs as the result of a blood-borne germ, medical authorities here state. In rare cases, the disease strikes the spinal column and is generally fatal when this happens.

There is no suspicion of an epidemic here, it is emphasized. Only a few hours before she was taken ill, Lorna Walker was attending a dance in the high school staged by Junior high classes.

It was early Saturday morning that she took ill. Medical advice was obtained Saturday afternoon and the child was taken to Pentiction hospital where she died early Sunday morning.

All contacts who considered it necessary to be treated have been given sulphur shots as a precautionary measure. Dr. W. H. B. Munn told The Review this week.

Native of Summerland Born in Summerland, the young girl was attending Summerland Junior-senior high school up to the time of her death. Besides her parents she leaves a brother, Ronnie and another sister, Lynn, both residing at the family home on Prairie Valley road.

Her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bland reside at Great Central, V.I., and Mr. John Walker at Rutland.

A largely-attended funeral service was held from the Church of the Holy Child at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning, Nov. 6. Rev. Father A. M. Meulenbergh conducting the requiem mass.

Funeral bearers were four of her classmates, George McAdam and her three cousins, Alan Hooker, Ar-

Trail Choir to Present Concert Here Tomorrow

Tomorrow evening, the Trail male chorus, which has been received with acclaim at other valley points, will appear in the high school auditorium to present a concert which has been eagerly anticipated by music lovers in this district.

The Trail choir of forty voices and accompanying artists will be billeted in Summerland homes, arrangements having been made by their sponsors, the Rotary Club of Summerland.

Hans Fogh-Dohmsmidt, conductor, studied music in Copenhagen, Denmark and conducted the Icelandic symphony orchestra. He was invited to come to Trail by the male chorus and has resided there for the past 14 years.

The male chorus was organized in 1929 as the CM & S Glee Party and has played an important part in the musical life of the Kootenays, besides competing successfully at the B.C. Musical Festival in Vancouver in 1931.

At that time the adjudicator, Sir Hugh Robertson remarked that there was "flesh and blood here - real men, not tailors dummies." Accompanist, Gwendolyn M. Kay started with the chorus in 1937, while two of the charter members are still with the choir. Men of several nationalities and all ages make up the musical group.

Charlotte McConnell, cellist, who is an accompanying artist, carried her own program over CKY in Winnipeg.

Wilson Will Supervise Strip Vote

Harvey L. Wilson, well-known Summerland fruit grower, has been named by the Labor Relations Board as district supervisor for the government-supervised strike vote to be taken among local members of the International Woodworkers' of America (CIO-CCL) next Tuesday, November 13 in the South Okanagan-Similkameen districts.

In Kelowna, where employees of Simpson's Sawmills are affected, voting will take place from 12 noon to 7 p.m. but in other areas, voting can be affected from 5 to 7 p.m., Mr. Wilson states.

W. S. King, Kelowna, has been appointed deputy supervisor for the Kelowna vote of Simpson's employees. In Peachland, John Cameron has the same post to supervise Peachland Sawmills and Box Factory. Hugh Johnston is deputy supervisor of the vote of Osoyoos Sawmills employees at Osoyoos. In Princeton, G. G. Lyall has been appointed for the Kettle Valley Lumber Co. strike vote.

Lumber operators are reported to have offered 20 cents an hour wage increase, but the union wishes compulsory checkoff, as well as 10 cents an hour increase plus cost of living bonus.

Mr. Wilson states that office staff, truckers and boat operators are not included in the employees who can cast their ballots next week.

Bobbie Walker, Girls from her classroom formed two rows from the church to the hearse holding the many flowers which had been sent as a tribute to the young girl.

Interment was in the Peach Orchard cemetery.

Local Growers' Share Of Federal Apple Grant Will be About $100,000

Summerland growers can expect to obtain something better than $100,000 as the result of the $1,200,000 grant which the dominion government is allowing the B.C. tree fruit industry on account of the low prices for the 1950 apple crop.

Based on an average of 15 cents, the 1950 crop of 672,215 boxes would return $100,832 to the growers.

This is an approximate figure as the BCFGA has actually decided to make payments to growers on the basis of .16126772 cents per box for extra fancy and fancy large, medium and small on all varieties and .13126772 cents per box on all cee grade, extra small and extra small in fancy and extra fancy, and cookers and halled fruit.

It is hoped that this money will be made available to growers by December 10.

A. R. Garrish, BCFGA president, has circulated all growers this week with details of the proposed scheme to distribute the $1,200,000 grant.

It is the industry's proposal to borrow an equivalent amount from the commercial banks and distribute it before Christmas. The government grant will not be made available before March.

Interest rates would be paid to the banks out of special funds accumulated by the B.C. Fruit Board, it has been suggested in some quarters. They would amount to some $8,000 to $9,000, it is stated in Kelowna.

This government grant was not made under the agricultural price support act but was a special grant direct from the government. Apples have not been officially accepted under the terms of the price support act.

"There is no precedent to follow in the proper procedure for the distribution of this money," Mr. Garrish has pointed out to growers. Consequently the plan of action was formulated at a joint meeting of the BCFGA executive, the BCTF pooling committee and the board of governors of BCTF.

Mr. Garrish also points to two statements which he made on June 13, relative to the need for support of the growers' parliament. These statements were:

"No one will pretend that the apple industry is in a happy state today. It would be remarkable if it were, with our offshore markets lost outright or heavily reduced by currency restrictions and subsidized competition, and our continental markets curtailed by excessive and unfair freight rates.

"These conditions have led to a great deal of talk about floor prices and the agricultural prices support act. Such assistance can come only from the federal government, and there are two essential conditions which must be met before there is any hope of it. The first condition is that it must be a strong case, presented by a strong organization speaking for all the

New Records for B.C. Tourist Travel

Recreational travel to British Columbia for the first nine months of 1951 continued to establish new records according to figures released by Hon. L. H. Eyres, minister of trade and industry.

During this period 210,243 vehicles entered the province on traveller's vehicle permits, being an increase of 13% or 24,008 cars. A new record for the month of September was established when 29,220 traveller's vehicle permits were issued compared with 27,003 in the corresponding month a year ago.

Blood Donors Exceed All Previous Records with 293 Pints Donated

Summerland citizens did themselves proud yesterday when they exceeded by a wide margin all previous records in giving blood to the Red Cross blood transfusion service.

When the last patient left his temporary cot about 8:30 last night, 293 pints of blood had been gathered in this operation of mercy.

This was only seven short of the hoped-for total of 300 which had been a tentative aim but which even the most optimistic hardly dared would be achieved.

Last year, on November 3, only 196 persons went through the clinic and gave their donation of the life-giving fluid.

Much of the credit for the increased interest in the blood donor service this year has been given the Junior Chamber of Commerce whose members conducted a telephone canvass of the district soliciting appointments.

Approximately 200 appointment cards were despatched by the Jaycees and that was about the number of persons who made it a point to give their donation.

Funeral for Pioneer Here On Friday

A residence in the Okanagan of 48 years and in Canada of about 70 years came to an end in Kelowna on Tuesday, November 6, when Mrs. Mary Annie Brown, who would have been 92 on November 16, passed away.

Born in Fintona, County Tyrone, Ireland, the late Mrs. Brown came to Canada about 1880 and was married to J. R. Brown at Qu'Appelle, Sask. In 1885. In the spring of 1903 they moved to Summerland which has been her home ever since.

For years, the Brown family owned a large portion of Trout Creek point, their main ranch being that now occupied by J. Y. Towgood.

In later years, she has lived with her daughter, Mrs. Granville Morgan in Summerland and with another daughter, Mrs. George Craig, in Kelowna. It was at the latter's home that she passed away on Tuesday last.

Funeral services will be held from Lakeside United church on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. H. R. Whitmore officiating. Interment will be in the Peach Orchard cemetery.

Active pallbearers will be Alex Steven, E. R. Butler and Percy Thornber of Summerland and G. D. (Paddy) Cameron, Bob Hayman and T. F. McWilliams of Kelowna. Honorary pallbearers are Alex Smith and Dr. F. W. Andrew of Summerland and Alistair Cameron of Kelowna.

Mrs. Brown leaves six daughters and one son, these being Mrs. Granville Morgan, Summerland; Mrs. Ethel MacLaine and Mrs. Amy Paterson of Long Beach, Cal.; Mrs. Evelyn Richardson, Tofield, Alta.; Mrs. George Craig, Kelowna; Mrs. Lawrence Macdonnell, Vernon, and Ralph Brown, Kelowna.

Twelve grandchildren and fifteen great grandchildren also survive the aged lady pioneer, who in her earlier days was a prominent worker in the Methodist and then the United churches.

TRUCK DAMAGED BUT DRIVER IS UNSCATHED

It was reported to RCMP recently that a truck owned by Ronald Akerley and driven by Carl Johnson went out of control on the Bald Range road and turned over when the brakes failed to hold. About $200 damage to the truck was reported but Driver Johnson escaped unhurt.

an appearance but their age was against them. Only those between the ages of 18 and 65 are acceptable to the blood donor clinic.

J. Y. Towgood, chief of the blood donor clinic for the local Red Cross branch here, was jubilant this morning when he was informed of the success of the efforts of his committee and assistants.

Mr. Towgood, after carefully organizing the project, had to make an appearance at the Kiwanis international meeting in Okanagan, Wash. last night and thus was not aware until today of the success of the venture.

"I think it is marvellous and great credit is due to the work of the Jaycees," he remarked, also giving The Review praise for advance publicity on the project. "I feel very grateful to the people of Summerland," he also remarked.

Re-Submit Municipal Hall Bylaw

SATURDAY'S refusal on the part of 241 ratepayers to sanction the transfer of municipal surplus funds in order to erect a new municipal hall can well be termed a retrograde step in the life of this municipality.

This lack of confidence in the planning of the Summerland municipal fathers means that this district must struggle along for another period with a makeshift headquarters, hopelessly inadequate to cope with the "big business" operation of the municipality.

It is our earnest hope that the municipal council will not let this vote deter them too much in the drive towards adequate facilities for the municipality. We would suggest that as soon as possible this question be re-submitted to the ratepayers.

At the same time, we hope that the municipal council of the present day, the municipal staff in general and the municipal councils of the future will learn a lesson in public relations from Saturday's voting.

For years past Summerland councils have not taken the electors into their confidence in month by month operation of municipal affairs. Anything to do with finance has been a "Hush, Hush" business. It has generally been policy of council and the municipal staff to adopt an attitude of aloofness whenever municipal financing has been introduced.

Even at the annual meeting of ratepayers, called to discuss the matter of civic operation for the past year, the subject of finances has generally been taboo; the usual excuse being that the year has not quite ended and any comparisons would be misleading and wouldn't be understood by the average ratepayer, anyway.

We do not mean for a moment that there has been anything really to hide. Nor has there ever been any suspicion of any kind that municipal funds, held in trust by the municipal councils have ever been misused.

In our Mail Bag column this week, Reeve

Bentley refers to intimations of "hidden" funds and the suggestion that the municipal clerk and council have been guilty of deliberately hiding certain funds.

We cannot believe that any persons have made such accusations nor is there the slightest suspicion of dishonesty regarding the handling of such funds.

But we believe that a portion of those 241 ratepayers, and some others besides, have resented the fact that this council and past councils have not taken them into their confidence and revealed the month to month state of municipal financing.

It would be good public relations on the part of future councils to remember that those who vote them into office are entitled to more information on the main fundamentals of municipal operation.

But this grievance isn't the answer alone, by any means. There were other ratepayers who felt that the present horribly-crowded premises should suffice in times when growers have been struggling to make ends meet. Others thought that the old high school, as inadequate a building as could be found anywhere, should be made over into a municipal headquarters.

We believe that these ratepayers were unwise to let their prejudices sway their judgment with regards this municipal hall proposal.

Let us hope that before another bylaw is submitted that the issue can be explained to one and all in a clear-cut fashion and that no stone is left unturned to provide a complete picture.

Those who had a grievance have registered their protest, on their own individual grounds. Having done so once, let the community be knit together once more in a progressive manner. The need for a new municipal hall must become apparent to those who would study the situation with an unbiased mind.

We must have a re-submission of this important bylaw as soon as it is legally possible. It is not fair to ask our municipal employees to carry on their faithful duties under such circumstances as have existed in the past few years.

PORTRAITS

Edward Elmer Johnstone
Elmer Johnstone was born in Manitoba, living at Briarwood, one of the early settlements where his family endured the hardships of pioneers of the time. As a young boy he drove a team, in zero weather to take wheat into Griswold, the nearest town.

As a young boy, too, he decided to try for a different type of life, and left home at the age of fourteen. He wanted to be a locomotive engineer, and this fondness for machinery has persisted through his life.

At Regina there was no opening on the railroad for him, but at Arcola he worked in a roundhouse. He even got to be a fireman when his age was discovered and he was advised to leave.

In 1909 his father, Robert Johnstone, decided to move to Summerland, and where later he became reeve and was in council work for twenty years. Elmer left for the north country as a stoker on a boat, getting as far as Alaska and the Yukon, then back to Vancouver.

At the coast he teamed up with a railroad man and by being a caboose passenger on freight trains reached Moose Jaw.

This was when the prairie was turning to mechanized farming. Elmer Johnstone could see a big future in tractor engineering, and started for Fort Indiana to take a course in it. At Minneapolis he halted and at the Big 4 Tractor Co. took his training. For three years he kept moving, working in factories in the winter; travelling in the summer as an expert and operator of tractors; seeing most of the Dakotas, the middle west, and Montana. In was an interesting line of work, but in 1914 the first World War came.

By October of that year he had joined the 32nd Winnipeg Battalion, an auxiliary to the 1st division which they joined at Ypres the next spring. His comrades in arms were remnants of the British Imperial Army, British Territorials and Sikhs and Gurkhas from India. When the 32nd was broken up he burgh, former students at Okanagan College at Summerland, delighted to meet someone with home connections.

Incapacitated for war service he was moved back to Canada and was present in Winnipeg at the gathering of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association meeting with a citizens' committee, including the mayor and an alderman, which thirty or forty veterans controlled to form the first Great War Veterans' Association in Canada. As time proved, leadership was not strong enough to hold it, so it fell apart. Later the Canadian Legion was formed.

In January 1916 he was married at Port Dover, Ont. at the manse to Miss Mildred Oakes, going back to Winnipeg where he was with the City Light and Power. During a strike the employees left, the police struck, and Winnipeg was in a chaotic state.

Johnstone's flair for machinery overtook him again and he opened a garage at Beausjour, and later at Minnetonas, Man.

Because of poor health which troubled him following the war, he moved to the Okanagan, building the first garage in Oliver, which he ran for nine years. He was on the executive of the Liberal Association, an active member for the board of trade, president of the Oliver Athletic Association, manager of the basketball team for two years, and manager of the baseball team for five years.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone moved in 1930 to Summerland where they have lived ever since on their fruit ranch out by Trout Creek Canyon.

Their son, Lloyd, now mining at Ymir, was on the Ontario in the navy for two years during World War II, having a trip around the world at that period, through the Panama and the Suez, canals, and was at Hong Kong. One daughter, Eva, Mrs. W. Miller, lives at Kelowna, and their other daughter, May, is Mrs. Harvey Mitchell.

Always a follower of sports, he is a member of the executive of the Summerland Baseball Club.

The Johnstone name is Scotch, but Elmer Johnstone's mother was of the Irish family of Seens, which traces its way back many, many years. One grandmother was Johan Seens, named for a French Count Johan, who married into the family.

Elmer Johnstone has hunted practically all his life. As a boy he hunted moose and elk on Indian mustang ponies in the Riding Mountains in Manitoba, and with wolfhounds hunted for coyotes. Since coming to British Columbia he has hardly missed a year in twenty-five when he hasn't gone to the Cariboo for a fall shoot. This year is no exception. He is up there now.

President of the Truck Loggers Assn. has pressed for the establishment of a forest board in British Columbia as recommended by the Sloan Commission. Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Assn., through its chairman, S. M. Simpson of Kelowna, has expressed its support of the plan, as formation of the board was a major part of the Interior group's recommendations to the Sloan Commission in 1945. "Interior lumber production is assuming an ever-increasing importance in the economy of the province", said Mr. Simpson.

The Flower of Remembrance

SINCE 1923 the blood-red poppy of Flanders has been the Flower of Remembrance for all of Canada.

The Poppy is the symbol of those who fought, and died, not only in faroff Flanders Field and other battles of World War I but the many struggles of World War II, as well.

But the poppy does not serve alone as a symbol. It serves as a practical means whereby veterans still suffering from the scars of these battles, and their unfortunate dependents, may receive needed succor.

The poppy which will be on sale everywhere in Summerland and in every other community across this broad land this Saturday, was manufactured by a disabled veteran in a Vetcraft shop or in his home, or by a veteran's dependent.

Thus, the mere purchase of a blood-red poppy serves the practical purpose of helping to keep employed these disabled vets and their families who, otherwise, would be a charge on the country.

There is another practical purpose to the sale of the poppy. The money, over and above its purchase price, realized from the sale goes into a relief fund for the benefit of all ex-service men and women who are in need of assistance.

Costs of distributing the poppies and wreaths are, in the main, handled by Legion branches thus enabling the greatest amount of funds to go towards charitable work.

With such a background, we need hardly reiterate to our readers: "Give Generously on Poppy Day, this Saturday."

And on Sunday, with the poppy proudly displayed in your lapel, you can turn out for the annual Remembrance Day parade to pay your humble tribute to our fallen comrades at the Cenotaph.

With a population such as Summerland possesses the turnout to the annual Cenotaph service has been comparatively small. We hope that this year will see an improvement. And that goes for the veterans, as well as the "civilians" in the community.

went to the 2nd Ottawa battalion, and remembers Edward, then Prince of Wales, marching at the head of those left in the battalion, all singing the Tommies' chant "Here we are, here we are, here we are again. We beat them on the Marne. We beat them on the Aisne. We gave them hell at Neuve Chapelle, and here we are again. Here we are, here we are, here we are again."

At Givenchy he was wounded, and had a long convalescence at Rouen, and at the Duchess of Connaught hospital on the Astor estate at Cliveden.

Although he hadn't been at Summerland, The Review was sent to him all the time. One day two young men working in the hospital lab, stopped to have a look at the paper, and at him. They were Harry Jennings and Alf Vander-

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

According to old hand-typed manuscripts dating back to 1865, there was a time before Spaulding's great discovery when chewing gum was masticated merely for its flavor, and mainly in the United States. Other countries thought it senseless to continue to chew gum for hours after its flavor was gone, and found the sight of human jaws in continuous motion unnatural, unmannerly, and even cow-like.

Gradually the fashion spread; but it was frowned on for years in Europe. As late as 1951 there is a report of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip of England, on a tour of Canada, being amazed to see how universally the children, lined up to greet them, chewed mechanically and ceaselessly on gum.

Oddly enough, there was no immediate attempt to capitalize on Spaulding's breath-taking discovery, in 1972, that the heliotrope Z 7 of pentamethylbenzene, commonly known as the atomic pentameter, would transmit atomic energy to man if absorbed into the salivary juices. People seemed frightened at the thought that human energy, like that of machines, could be multiplied many times by atomic power. Nobody wanted to turn himself into an atomic engine; doctors hesitated to prescribe it for even the most Major Hoople-ish of patients, and although one patent-medicine company promptly commercialized it in pill form, they did not push its sale.

First to wake up to its possibilities was a tooth-powder maker. Sales of tooth powder and paste had fallen off for some years, as people came to realize how little tooth-brushing with any dentifrice accomplished to inhibit tooth decay. Now sales soared for the company which produced "Atomident" and advertised "Feeling tired and run-down? Clean your teeth with Atomident and have more energy than you ever had before."

Hundreds of testimonials to its effectiveness were published before a man in Buffalo wore his teeth to the gums with too frequent cleanings in his eagerness to give himself the maximum energy. It was found in the ensuing lawsuit that the Atomident people had been incorporating large quantities of Old Dutch Cleanser in their tooth powder to brighten teeth quickly, and that it actually did not contain enough of the expensive atomic pentameter material to give more energy to a mouse.

Then a cigarette manufacturer boomed his sales with the slogan "Be Fashionable - Smoke Nuclear Strikes." He too advertised all sorts of testimonials from prominent men who were able to do twice as much after switching to Nuolours - then the federal authorities cracked down with an investigation, and it was proved that cigarettes were as ineffective as tooth powder in transmitting atomic energy to the users.

At last the Marshall Chewing Gum Company tried it out, and found that chewing gum containing atomic pentameter was the ideal way of injecting atomic energy into people. As their "Atomint" gum became popular, old records in sports, in industrial production, in parliamentary longwindedness, were shattered one after another, and Humphrey P. Lewis - son of the famous John L. - led a nationwide strike to prevent the new discovery from being used to get more production from unionized workers. "Atomint, the atomic stimulant with no harmful after-effects," swept across America in a hysterical flood, but other countries were more hesitant. If American faces were more furiously chomping than ever, British visages for years seemed only the more stiffly sedate in comparison.

Russia denounced the new gum as capitalist exploitation, but soon came out with a Soviet substitute which all workers were compelled to use. France ignored the new product until some one thought of marketing a Paris brand of Atomint with sex hormones added. This immediately became popular, but there was a scandal in the British Parliament when it was found that the shrewd manufacturer was British, and he revealed in a subsequent inquiry by Royal Commission that leading Britons had been secretly chewing Atomint for years.

Today, of course, it is chewed the world over, not as a pleasure, but as business, a sure source of extra energy wherever and whenever it is needed. Modern man, with his jaw muscles over-developed by this constant chewing, has a very different-shaped head from what he had a century ago; but pear-shaped features are a small price to pay for the privilege now available to every man, of doing three times as much in the same time as he could ever do before.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

November 4, 1921

Fire-blight has been tolerated or ignored by many of the growers of the Okanagan for several years and so great was the outbreak the past summer in some sections that a vigorous campaign of eradication is now being launched against it by the provincial department of agriculture. Let every grower give it a boost by being among the first to register for inspection.

That the license to shoot pheasants or to use fire-arms within the municipal limits is a menace to the safety of the public was shown, when several windows in the residence of W. Harvey were shattered and Mrs. Harvey received a shot in her arm, from which, with the resultant shock as well, she is suffering considerably.

Stanley Taylor's dog, Rover, lost in a pothole seventeen days after he disappeared on the first day of the pheasant shooting, turned up at home when he was thought lost or killed. The dog dragged himself into the Taylor yard starving and emaciated, his claws worn off from scratching, his feet bleeding and unable to lift his head or even wag his tail. Neighbors are sending milk and other delicacies for the poor creature and every consideration is being given for building up his wasted body.

Councillor Bristow has urged the use of measuring boxes and installation of steel fluming. He believes ample storage is existent, and the distribution system large enough, but wooden fluming is wasteful of water.

A bad accident from a collision, on the KVR between the linehan, Mr. Collins of Pontleiton, and the Summerland section gang, on speeders Thursday night. Mr. Koeh of Summerland is unconscious in hospital and Mr. Collins is unconscious, also. Mr. Stead of Summerland was thrown off when the two cars met and had his arm and foot hurt. Walter Ramsay was thrown fifteen feet and landed standing up. G. Dixon and Messrs. Ford and Blacklock were standing not far off and with the help of Agent Rutherford conveyed the injured men to Summerland hospital.

The Review paid a visit to the Central School on Monday, had the fire alarm rung and watched the actions of the pupils. In less than two seconds, Victor Wilson and Norris Laidlaw had the hose from the rack and were ready for action. It was a pleasure to see Miss Bank's class, the beginners, marching out like little soldiers. The big school with 280 pupils was emptied in less than three-fourths of a minute, which is quite reassuring.

Premier John Oliver states that he is no advocate of the use of alcoholic liquor but advocates the manufacture of elder from apple wasteage of the valley.

TEEN TOWN
 All those who are interested in entering the Teen Town bowling competition which is part of the valley-wide contest to decide the Okanagan-Kootenay five-pin championship, should contact one of the council members.
 Summerland Teen Town will also entertain the idea of entering the square dance festival next spring at Armstrong. Details of the Okanagan Teen Town conference can be found in an adjoining column on this page.
 This week there is going to be a Sadie Hawkins dance, so there's a chance for you girls to take the man of your choice.
 It has been suggested that we should have a big valley dance, probably around the first of December. Teen Towns from Armstrong to the border will be invited.
 Decorating for the dance this week will be on Saturday, if possible. Don't forget to come dressed like Daisy Mae and L'il Abner.

RECIPE HINTS

On cold days the family likes meals that "stick to the ribs" and what could be heartier or more delicious than a Beef and Kidney Pie?

BEEF AND KIDNEY PIE
 Traditionally an old English standby, this dish has become quite a favorite. The flavors of beef and kidney blend perfectly, and the combination is one of high nutritive value. Soak one beef kidney in cold salted water for 1/2 hour. Cut 1 1/2 lbs. beef stew meat into 1-inch cubes. Cut kidney into smaller cubes. Flour meats and brown thoroughly in a little hot fat in a heavy pan. Add 2 medium sized onions, chopped, 2 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. pepper, 1 tbsp. Worcestershire sauce, 1 tsp. prepared mustard, 1/2 tsp. ginger, and 2 1/2 cups water. Simmer for 2 hours or until very tender. Thicken if necessary with a flour and water paste. Pour into a greased casserole and top with pie pastry (using half recipe of any standard pie crust). Roll out until crust is 1/2 inch longer than casserole. Press edges firmly against sides and slit top in several places. Bake 40 minutes at 425 degrees F. Serves 6.

Okanagan Teen Towns to Stage Dance Festival

ARMSTRONG—Decision to hold a square dance tournament with varied entertainment on March 28 at Armstrong was made by the Okanagan Teen Town convention meeting here on October 26 and 27. The conference discussed at length proposals which had been made at the spring Okanagan meeting in Summerland, which included a square dance festival, table tennis tournament, drama festival or a barber shop quartette competition.
 Age limit for caller and dancers at this square dance festival is to be under 20 at March 1.
 On March 28 the evening will commence with a play by the Canoe Teen Town, and possible a quartette from Penticton. Following, the square dance competition will take place during a big dance in Recreation hall.
 A trophy, the Hoover Sawmill trophy, has been donated.
 Kootenay Teen Towns have issued a challenge to compete in a five-pin bowling tournament. It has been decided to stage a competition in the Okanagan and wire the results to Vancouver, with the Kootenay players doing the same. Highest scores recorded will be declared winner of the two areas.
 Next meeting of the Okanagan Teen Town conference will be held at Oliver on April 12 and 13, 1952. The new president is Joan Block of Oliver, with Pete Tomlin of Penticton vice-president.
 Summerland delegates to the Armstrong conference included Esther Metters, Arlene Raincock and Doreen Fleming.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

1st Summerland Troop
 At Tuesday's meeting the troop was glad to welcome back Hugh McLarty, a former troop leader of 1st Summerland who assisted in the knotters badge. Hugh is about to leave for the east where he is joining the Royal Canadian Armored Corps with the rank of 2nd Lieutenant. We wish him every success.
 This coming Saturday, 12 Scouts from the troop are going to do their Good Turn by assisting the Legion in the sale of poppies for Poppy Day. The boys will meet at Sanborn's Machine Shop where they will be transported over their routes by car.
 On Sunday, Remembrance Day, there will be a full troop turnout at the parade. The meeting place will be Smith & Henry's yard and the time 10:15 a.m. Hats, scarves and shirts will be worn but not short pants. Jackets should be worn as it may be cold.
 Recruits Ongara and Bill Baillie were welcomed to the troop in an investiture ceremony.
 Next Tuesday, we are to receive a visit from District Commissioner D. L. Southworth. A full troop turnout is requested in full uniform. Four King Scout certificates will be presented to Scouts Solly, Higgs, Brake and Blewett.
 Notices: Next meeting, Tuesday, Nov. 13, at 7 p.m. The troop has an opening for two new boys. From now on, due to colder weather, shorts are not required to be worn.—D. V. Fisher, SM.

games. Each boy received as prizes gingerbread men and candies.
 This week, at our usual meeting, we practiced our jungle dance and polished up on our marching. On Sunday, Nov. 11, we would like all Cubs to turn out for the parade, at Smith & Henry's at 10:20 a.m.
 There will be no meeting next week due to the Remembrance Day banquet. Next meeting, Nov. 19, Youth Centre, 8:30 sharp. Duty Six, Yellow Six.—Akola.

Guide News

1st Guide Company
 The Hallowe'en party of the 1st Guide Company was held at the Youth Centre on Oct. 24 instead of the usual meeting. Each Guide invited a friend to be her guest for the evening, and everyone enjoyed the circle for the masquerade.
 Judging was difficult and ranged from Indians, one complete with papoose on her back, to the Queen of Hearts, Good Queen Bess, Sir Walter Raleigh and a Hula-Hula girl.
 After the masquerade, familiar faces emerged to join in relay games for an hour, when the party took on a definite swing to the calling of square dances by Mr. Stan Gladwell, ably assisted by Mr. Jack McDougald. The amplifier, kindly loaned by Teen Town, was in the capable hands of Leighton Nesbitt.
 After refreshments were served by Company Leader Jill Sanborn and P/Ls Beryl Dodman, Marilyn Wade, Ann Beggs and Ann Solly around Campfire, a hearty cheer was given by all participants to Mr. Gladwell, and all who helped make the party a success.
 The evening was planned by Captain Mrs. B. T. Blagborne and Patrol leaders while Mrs. D. Blagborne judged costumes.

Kiwanians Attend International Meet At Okanogan, Wash.

A dozen members and wives of the Kiwanis Club of Summerland, led by President Lacey Fisher, attended an international conference of Kiwanis clubs of Division 5 of the Pacific Northwest Kiwanis district at Okanogan, Wash., last night.
 It was the first such occasion that new Kiwanis Division Lieutenant-Governor J. Y. Towgood of Summerland was in attendance in his official capacity.
 Summerland also provided the main entertainment for the program, giving some numbers from the old-time melodrama which the local club is planning to sponsor later in the season.
 Kiwanians have been practicing their parts for this "mellodrama" for some time and it is reported to be "screamingly" funny.
WANT OKANAGAN TOWN PLANNING CENTRAL OFFICE
 The Okanagan regional conference sponsored by the Community Planning Assn. of Canada, which met recently in Penticton, recommended that a town planning office be set up in the valley with its services available to all municipal councils.

Would Change Election of School Board

There are two methods of electing school trustees in a school district and in Summerland's case the proper method is not being carried out, thinks Inspector A. S. Matheson, who is inspector for No. 23 and 77 school districts, Kelowna and Summerland.

Mr. Matheson explained to last week's school board meeting that the public schools act allows for the system being followed here, that of electing one trustee from the rural area and the balance from the municipality, or all trustees can be elected by all the voters in both rural and municipal areas.

The inspector believes that in Summerland's case, where such a small percentage of the population is contained in the rural area—about 6 percent—that the latter procedure would be the better one.

At present, Trustee Aubrey King is the rural area trustee and his term has another year to run.

Inspector Matheson did not suggest any immediate action, but thought trustees should give serious consideration to his suggestion, and be prepared to make a decision, one way or the other, in plenty of time for the December, 1952 elections.

SURG.-LT. CYR

Naval Headquarters in Ottawa and the RCMP are trying to find out whether Surg.-Lt. Cyr is actually a doctor or the perpetrator of a spectacular hoax. An investigation is now under way in Canada, the U.S. and aboard the Destroyer Cayuga. The medical officer has been under questioning by his skipper, Cmdr. James Plomer of Saint John, N.B., and is under orders to perform no further medical duties pending completion of the inquiry.

VISITING ABROAD

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ritchie left last week for a visit to Winnipeg and eastern Canada points including Cornwall, Ont., where they will attend the wedding of Mr. Ritchie's nephew, Mr. Raymond Gayton of Oliver.

MEET AT KEREMEOS

South Okanagan divisional Guide meeting held at Keremeos on Saturday, Nov. 3, was attended by Mrs. D. L. Sanborn, president of the local association, Capt. Miss Gweneth Atkinson, Badge Secretary Mrs. W. Durick, and Brown Owl, Mrs. W. A. Laidlaw.

Council Differs from Water Rights Branch on Winter Care of Dams

Sharp difference of opinion exists between the provincial government water rights branch and the municipal council of Summerland on the subject of keeping earth dams filled during the winter season.

Recently, the council received an order from W. A. Kerr, district engineer, Kelowna, for the water rights branch, that municipal earthen dams must be reduced to half capacity.

Strong protest to this order was lodged by municipal council with the result that Ewart McLean, Victoria engineer for the branch and Mr. Kerr visited Summerland last week and discussed the subject with Councilors Eric Tait and Francis Steuart and Water Foreman E. Kercher.

These two government officials did not commit themselves but reserved their decision. It is expected a communication will be available for next week's council session.

Prior to this conflag, council forwarded a sharply-worded letter to the water rights branch declaring that if Summerland is forced to carry out the order to reduce the dams to half-capacity that the provincial government and the water rights branch will be held fully responsible for any damage which might occur and for lack of water if there is insufficient runoff in the spring to fill the dams.

It was explained that it is extremely difficult to reach these dams in the spring early enough to catch the runoff.

For ten years, the municipality has kept its dams full during the winter months and has reduced seepage to the minimum thereby, council contended. When a dam is partly filled, ice conditions in winter cause the level to rise, wearing controls at the dam, council contends.

Students' Council May Handle Funds

School trustees were asked by Inspector A. S. Matheson last week to consider a plan whereby the high school students' council would be empowered to handle the allotment of money each year for athletic projects.

At present, a sum of about $100 is voted annually for high school athletics, but Inspector Matheson considered this should be increased to about $200, with the proviso that the students would raise a considerable amount on their own behalf.

By turning over the annual allotment of athletic funds to the students' council, it would make the students more conscious of the value of the equipment they handle, he thought.

Trustees will consider the plan and discuss it with Principal A. K. Macleod. In the meantime, an additional $50 was voted from this year's funds towards needed athletic equipment, mainly for gymnasium use.

George Graham Has Class A. Certificate

George Graham, well-known electrical contractor, received wired work yesterday from L. Robson, inspector of electrical energy for the province, that he was successful in passing recent tests and has been issued a Class A certificate, highest award which can be given an electrical contractor in B.C. The examination was held in Penticton two weeks ago. There are four installations in Summerland district that only Class A certificate holder is allowed to work on, Mr. Graham explains, these being the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Assn. packinghouse, the Summerland Box Co. Ltd. plant, the junior-senior school and the switching station.

VISITING HERE

Mrs. S. Carlson of Prince Albert, Sask., and Miss Mildred Pollock and Mrs. B. Carlson of Yorkton, Sask., were visitors this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Pollock, the latter two being nieces of Mr. Pollock. Mrs. S. Carlson has returned to Kelowna where her husband is a member of the Packers' hockey team, while Miss Pollock and Mrs. B. Carlson have returned to their respective prairie homes.

Would Have Traffic Stop for School Bus

Campbell River school board is campaigning throughout the province to receive support for its contention that vehicles approaching or about to pass a school bus which is unloading or loading passengers should be compelled to come to a full stop. This plan was endorsed by the recent session of the B.C. School Trustees' Assn. in Vernon, but individual boards have been asked to give their support, as well.

SPRINKLER SYSTEM FOR FURNACE ROOM SOUGHT

Local school trustees were advised last week that a sprinkler system should be installed in the elementary school furnace room to bring that building up to standards required by the fire marshal's office. Other suggestions, including more fire extinguishers for the high school, are being studied by the trustees' building committee and recommendations will be handed down shortly.

Autumn Wedding in St. Andrew's Joins Local Japanese Families

With cedar boughs and colored chrysanthemums decorating St. Andrew's church on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 3, at half past two, the autumn wedding of Marjorie Michiyo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Yamabe, and Frank Yoshiji, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Kuroda, took place. The church was filled for the service which was performed by Rev. H. R. Whitmore, minister of Summerland United churches. Guest pews were marked with 'mums on lace doilies, and the lovely bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The exquisite bridal gown had a bodice of lace over satin appliqued to a sheer nylon net yoke with long lily point sleeves of lace over satin. Tiny buttons were down the back of the dress, and the bouffant circular skirt of net over satin was fashioned with a lace panel in front and slightly in train. This was worn over a crinoline petticoat. A circular veil, fingertip length was caught to the head by a small lace cap matching the wedding gown, and had lily of the valley at either side. A cascading bouquet of gardenias centred with an orchid completed the bridal picture. Miss Ruth Nakamura, the groom's cousin, attended as maid of honor, wearing a charming green net and taffeta frock, featuring a gathered net yoke and sleeves and full net overskirt. Miss Amy and Miss Kathleen Yamabe, sisters of the bride were the two bridesmaids, wearing gowns similar to that of the maid of honor, but carried out in yellow. Each of the three attendants wore little bandeaux of net and taffeta matching their frocks and carried Colonial bouquets of mauve, yellow, and white 'mums.

All of the lovely costumes were created by the bride. The groom was attended by Mr. Sam Iwayoshi, and ushers were the groom's brother, Mr. Roy Kuroda and Mr. Fred Kato. Mr. T. McKay organist of the church played the nuptial music, and while the register was being signed Mrs. H. R. Whitmore sang, "I'll Walk Beside You". A reception for the one hundred and thirty guests was held in the Japanese Hall after the church service, where the bride's mother, Mrs. Yamabe, received in a becoming pretty gown of soft black velvet with grey accessories, with a gardenia and sweetheart roses in her corsage. Mrs. Kuroda, mother of the groom, was in black, too. Her frock had a gold thread running through the material, and with it she wore black accessories, with her corsage having the pink of sweetheart roses and a gardenia, the same as the mother of the bride. Green and yellow streamers and chrysanthemums on the tables were used to decorate the hall. The bride's table was arranged with white candles with the three-tiered cake surmounted by doves and embedded in tulle. A circle of cedar and 'mums outlined it. Mr. T. Kato was master of ceremonies for the reception, with Rev. Mr. Whitmore giving the toast to the bride to which the groom replied. Mr. George Uzawa proposed a toast to the trio of attendants with the best man responding. Wires and congratulatory calls were received from the bride's brother, Mr. Dick Yamabe who is attending college at Anderson, Indiana; the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. S. Sundhara, Seattle, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. M. Matsumoto, Shimizu Brothers, Mr. Dan Yamazaki, Toronto, Ont., Miss Joyce Jomori, Calgary, Alta.; and Miss Martha and Miss Irene Uegama, Vancouver. Rev. Mr. Yoshioka of Kelowna asked the blessing preceding the delicious dinner and friends of the bride, Miss Miwa Tada, Miss Tomiko Kawasaki, Miss Mae Inaba, and Miss Yuriko Jomori assisted in serving. Songs were sung by many guests and speeches and good wishes were given by Rev. Mr. Yoshioka, Mr. N. Aoki, president of the Japanese Canadian Club; Mr. George Tada, Mr. M. Aoki, Mr. J. Iwayoshi, Mrs. George Furuya, Mrs. Donald Orr and Miss Yuriko Jomori. Mr. Y. Aoki replied to these on behalf of the bride and her relatives, while Mr. Robert Nakamura spoke for the groom and his relatives. Mr. A. Matsu and Mr. George Uzawa took moving pictures during the reception. For travelling by car to Washington points the bride changed to a smart grey suit, navy topcoat and grey and gold accessories. En corsage she wore an orchid.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. S. Tomiye, Misses M. and S. Tomiye, Mr. and Mrs. Koga, Mr. and Mrs. Naito, Mrs. Terai, Rev. and Mrs. Yoshioka, Mr. and Mrs. T. Tomiye, Miss Beryl Robertson, Mr. Sue Koga, and Mr. and Mrs. Hokazono, Kelowna; Mr. and Mrs. S. Tanemura, Mr. R. Tanemura, Mr. and Mrs. H. Fujita, Mr. and Mrs. T. Inaba, Miss J. Tanemura and Miss Joan and Miss Marie Ishikawa, Penticton. The popular young couple will make their home at West Summerland.

Mrs. F. E. Atkinson Reports to Auxiliary On Coast Conference

Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, Summerland's hospital auxiliary delegate to the Hospital Auxiliaries Division, BCHA, held in Vancouver last month, gave a report of the coast sessions to the regular meeting of the auxiliary on Monday, Nov. 3, in the parish hall. At the Vancouver meeting Mrs. Atkinson was honored in being elected second vice-president of Hospital Auxiliaries Division, BCHA, and will be attending executive meetings in Vancouver during the year, so that the local society will be constantly in close contact with activities and ideas. When reports of different auxiliaries throughout the province were being given Mrs. Atkinson noted that Summerland's report was quite outstanding due to the amount of canning done for the local hospital, by the auxiliary, and in the amount of catering done. Mrs. Atkinson had enquiries from several delegates, following the meeting, as to methods used here. The speaker reported her visit to the Crippled Children's hospital as "a grand experience", guided by the president of the auxiliary to the hospital, Mrs. Trueman. There about twenty visitors saw and heard how crippled children are made well and taught to walk and be normal children again. Especially interesting to the Summerland delegate was work done by physiotherapy for spastic children brought and taken home every day to the hospital by firemen of Vancouver on their days off duty. Doctors give their services free for this work, too, it was reported and in this the work of the auxiliary is outstanding.

Rebekah Tea Sale Nets $160 for Lodge

Net proceeds of over $160 indicate the success of the bazaar and tea held on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 3, by members of Faith Rebekah Lodge, No. 32. Although the day was rather cold and rainy, everything offered for sale was picked up in record time, selling quickly and well, and in spite of the weather the attendance was good. The following conveners had charge of the various tables, with members assisting: General convener and convener of fancwork, Mrs. John Caldwell; home-cooking, Mrs. W. Gillard; aprons, Mrs. M. Henker; superfluity, Mrs. W. Gillespie. The tea tables were attractively decorated with autumn chrysanthemums and a dainty tea was served the patrons under the convener-ship of Mrs. Walter Bleasdale.

Sincere thanks were expressed to the Garnet Valley Cannery, and all those who helped so generously in canning this fruit. ## Bible Society Launches Five Year Program

To help meet the world's unprecedented call for Bibles, the provincial auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society has launched a five year program of advance, it was stated on Wednesday night, Oct. 31, by the society's secretary, Rev. J. A. Raymond Tingley, Vancouver, speaking at a rally in the interests of the work at the Pentecostal Tabernacle in Summerland. Mr. Tingley, who is making his annual visit to the interior, said that among the objectives of the advance program are the encouraging of prayer and Bible reading, the enlisting of new members, the organizing of new branches, the promoting of Scripture distribution and the increasing of contributions.

Thanking the people of Summerland for their support of the society, Mr. Tingley declared that unless there is a great increase in support throughout the world, it will be necessary to reduce Scripture production by at least 25 percent, which would be fatal in the face of the ever-increasing cry for Bibles by millions who are seeking hope.

An outstanding feature of the rally in Summerland was the showing of the society's new and beautifully-colored motion picture, "Frontiersmen", portraying the courageous and sacrificial work of the colporteurs on Western Canada who carry the Bible to people in slums of the great cities and in the isolated hamlets of the vast areas of the west.

It featured the work of the two colporteurs working in British Columbia, Frank Martens on Vancouver Island and David DeGroot who is working in the interior, as well as that of Miss E. S. Eby, who though retired is carrying on the work in a little Bible depot in Kelowna.

The rally, which was conducted by Rev. C. W. Marshall, re-elected branch officers for another year. They are: President, Thomas Manning; secretary, John Graham; treasurer, Mrs. Francis Mino; additional members of the executive, C. J. Huddleston, Miss Mable Henderson, W. M. Jenkinson and E. C. Deringer.

Plans are being made for contributions to the work of the society to be given through various churches of the community on Sunday.

NOT SECRETLY PUT ASIDE
West Summerland, B.C.
November 5, 1951.

Editor, The Review

I personally do not believe that it is fair to the Reeve & Council and Municipal Clerk for some Summerland residents to insinuate that the moneys that could have been used to build a new Municipal Office were secretly put aside from Current Revenue.

Under the Municipal Act an Annual Statement must be prepared and audited and this is published in a local paper, this has always been in the Summerland Review or the Penticton Herald. Since 1925 there has always been an item "Sinking Fund in Excess of Requirements", this is in ordinary print for anybody to see. At various Ratepayers' Meetings during past years reference has been made to possible use of this Surplus.

Are the Reeve and Councillors and Civic Officials to be unfairly criticized because of the lack of sufficient interest on the part of some ratepayers to read the Financial Statement of their own Corporation?

Yours truly,
C. EDMUND BENTLEY,
Reeve.

NOTES from PARLIAMENT HILL

(By O. L. JONES, MP for Yale)

The election results from the United Kingdom scarcely caused a ripple among the members of the House. From general conversation, the sentiment would appear to be stronger for the Labor Party than for the Conservatives. The main exception, of course, being the Progressive Conservative party, who were quietly jubilant. The results will not alter materially our trade relations and definitely not our close ties with the Old Country which remain the same whatever government happens to be in power.

Last week I was present at a luncheon here in the House when the principle of world government was discussed. Senator Wishart Robertson, Senator Haig, R.R. Knight, M.P., Gordon Graydon, M.P., and others spoke of the desirability of forming an association aimed at creating interest in the principle of world government, as a means of making closer the ties of the world's people and bringing about permanent peace.

As a result of this luncheon, the Canadian Parliamentary Association was formed and their first meeting is to be held today, November 8. Underlying the formation of this association is the hope that branches of a similar organization will be started in the various provinces.

Secretary of the association, Alister Stewart, is leaving for Memphis, Tennessee, to attend a conference on Atlantic Union. The principle of this conference is very similar to that of the newly formed association. I shall be very pleased to hear from any of my constituents who are interested in world government.

The position of those in British Columbia, as well as those in other provinces, who are now receiving the war veterans allowance will be a matter of discussion in the near future. In British Columbia we have 99,142 veterans receiving a total for the year ending March 31 last of $5,272,386.31, so that this matter of veterans allowance becomes big business when totalled up this way. The government has announced its intention of forming a standing committee on veterans affairs to deal with this matter at the next session.

The problem seems to be to what extent can an adjustment be made so that war veterans receiving this allowance can also receive all or part of the old age pension, upon attaining the age of 70 years.

Mr. Percy Wright moved to adjourn the House in order to discuss this important matter. I quote Mr. Wright: "I wish to ask leave to move the adjournment for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, namely the urgent need for consideration at this session of the plight of war veterans in receipt of war veterans allowances, with particular reference to the inadequacy of the amounts they are receiving in the light of today's high cost of living. The urgency of this motion is based on the need of bringing to the attention of the government the necessity for action at this session."

The speaker, in his ruling, threw out the motion on the grounds that the matter was not urgent and opportunity would be given in the following week during the speech from the throne debate, to discuss this subject.

The complicated freight rate question was discussed when the bill making certain changes in the railways act was before us. Under this bill, an effort is to be made to equalize freight rates across the Dominion, retaining certain privileges or concessions that Canada has enjoyed for many years, such as the Crows Nest rate for the west and the special rates for the Maritime in the east.

Naturally, trucking and other similar companies are very worried as to the possible results on their transportation industry. For instance, the Saskatchewan Motor Dealers' Association has sent a circular to each member, pointing out the possible effect on their particular industry. I quote a table contained in the circular letter to place before you the views of this particular group:

Less Than 100 Hours of Sun During October

Two and a half inches of rain fell in Summerland during October, the climatological station report issued from the Dominion Experimental Station indicates. Sunshine took a decided drop from the near-record of September and only 97 hours were recorded.

Only once did the thermometer touch 70 for the high maximum on October 9, while coldest night was on October 26 when the mercury dropped to 24 above:

Building Not Reaching Same Level as 1950

New building in October was confined to two small dwellings and six permits for alterations and additions, the report of Building Inspector Roy F. Angus reveals this week.

Eight permits taken out in October only had a value of $5,075, compared with $12,550 for the seven permits issued in October of 1950.

Two small dwellings had a value of $3,000 while the six alterations and additions made up the balance of $2,075.

Total permits for the 10 months this year have been 75, valued at $142,605. In the same period last year 91 permits were issued for $498,155.

Without big individual permits such as the new school, arena and Occidental cold storage, building permits issued this year have amounted to $117,605.

Pacific Railways. In spite of the attempt to remedy the situation, some prairie members claim that the shortage of cars is still acute. It would be a real calamity to Canada, if and when the year's crop of wheat is finally threshed, it cannot be taken care of in Canadian elevators.

We understand that the railways have offered the oil companies operating West of Fort William a special "Agreed Charge" on the condition that they use only rail facilities. According to information we have received the following figures furnish the picture:

Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health and welfare, informed me that a cheque for $5,000 is being sent to Vernon to assist in establishing a convalescent nursing service in connection with the Jubilee hospital. If this experiment proves a success, I hope that the service will be extended throughout the whole province, as it fills a gap in the care of convalescent persons, after they leave the hospital.

This year's bumper wheat crop is creating a lot of uneasiness among the prairie farmers, in part, because of the inclement weather that has prevented them from harvesting what is anticipated to be the largest crop of wheat in Canadian history.

On top of all this, the wheat that has been harvested cannot be put in storage, as most of the prairie storage facilities are already filled to capacity. Speakers on behalf of the prairie provinces have been making constant demands on the government to have more box cars available to remove the wheat to the various ports as quickly as possible. To meet this complaint, the government appointed a man for the sole purpose of directing the movement of cars, both on the Canadian National and Canadian

Singers and Players Arrange for Practices

Summerland Singers & Players club will have the use of the high school auditorium stage, music room and library once a week for practices leading up to final performances, without charge, the school board decided on Monday evening, October 29.

All board members with the exception of Chairman C. J. Bleasdale were present, Trustee J. Y. Towgood taking the chair for the meeting.

The club's president, Stan Gladwell, presented a plea for a revised rental scheme, declaring that it is hoped to start practices at once for the singers' section presentation of The Mikado.

Trustee Towgood was inclined to favor a rental of $10 per month for use of the three parts of the school, to pay for cost of lighting, but when it was stated that sports groups are being allowed use of the gymnasium without any charge for practices it was agreed that a similar policy should be followed in connection with the dramatic club. For final performances the singers and players will pay $25 for main shows and $10 for dress rehearsals. On the basis of other years, this would mean $70 in rentals from this organization.

No Further Monetary Aid Can Be Expected on Account of War Problems States Ottawa

Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, dominion minister of agriculture, has informed the B.C. Fruit Growers Assn. that after the grant of $1,200,000 has been paid, "no further assistance can be provided to the apple growers of British Columbia with respect to difficulties that have arisen and adjustments that have been necessary within the industry since the war."

It was first thought that the more than $1 million was to come from the agricultural prices support fund, but this idea has been abandoned.

This large sum has now been billed as a "contribution for the benefit of growers represented by the British Columbia Fruit Board," according to Mr. Gardiner's recent letter to A. R. Garrish, BCFGA president.

This amount will be used to supplement returns for the 1950 apple crop.

Mr. Gardiner recalls a letter he forwarded to the BCFGA on March 31, 1950, "indicating that the government would make no further assistance available on account of the special difficulties of the industry in the United Kingdom market."

"The government has agreed to the present assistance in order to help the industry bring about an orderly adjustment. The government thinks that the industry should now have had time to make the necessary adjustments and wishes it understood that this is the last grant of this kind which will be available."

Expect March Payment

A special estimate will be needed to approve this $1,200,000 grant, so that it will not be possible to make the money available to the fruit industry until voted under supplementaries for 1951-52 at the spring session of parliament.

"It is anticipated that supplementaries will be brought down not later than March," Mr. Gardiner concluded.

But Mr. Gardiner's letter has not made the situation clear relative to the fruit growers' position and the agricultural prices support act, under which the original submission for assistance on 1950 apple crop prices was made.

According to a Vernon despatch, one fruit industry spokesman was quoted,

"We cannot accept as final the statement that semi-perishables such as fruit and vegetables should not be included in terms of the act."

"The growers are entitled to know where their industry stands with respect to the price support act," A. K. Loyd of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. stated last week.

A lengthy section of the CPR's Coquihalla Pass line has been washed out by heavy rains and will probably not be repaired until the first of December. In the meantime, KVR service is being routed via Spences Bridge and Merritt.

Kelowna to Have New Mayor in 1952

KELOWNA—Ald. J. J. Ladd will be a candidate for the vacancy caused by the decision of W. E. Hughes-Games not to seek re-election as mayor of Kelowna in December. Ald. W. T. L. Roadhouse has also decided he will not run again, but Aldermen R. F. Parkinson and R. D. Knox will seek re-election.

Mayor Adams Joins Investment Firm

VERNON—Mayor T. R. B. Adams has announced his retirement from the life insurance field to join the staff of Okanagan Investments Ltd. He will be North Okanagan representative for this firm which has its head office in Kelowna and a branch office in Penticton. Mayor Adams will not seek re-election in December.

Eye Appeal Needed to Sell Fruits, Vegetables Says L. F. Burrows

Despite the fact that fresh fruit and vegetables are the best buy for the food dollar, Canadians do not eat enough of them for proper health, writes L. F. Burrows, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers Association in the current issue of C-I-L Packaging News.

He says that a balanced diet requires the consumption of 537 pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables annually by a normal person. Statistics show that only 376 pounds are eaten although the prices of these commodities rose much less than foodstuffs generally.

Pointing out the increasing importance of the fruit and vegetable industry, Mr. Burrows says that between 1913 and 1949 the per capita consumption of fruits and vegetables increased 35 per cent in the United States while that of dairy products increased 28 per cent. In Canada a similar pattern is evident although Canadians still have quite a way to go to achieve the U.S. level of fruit and vegetable consumption.

The aim of his association is to see that fruits and vegetables average about 25 per cent of the total food bill in this country instead of the present average of between 15 and 20 per cent.

"This aim could be achieved through better selling methods and a better presentation of basic food values," Mr. Burrows maintains. "About 50 per cent of the fruits and vegetables which reach the store counters these days are disposed of by impulse buying and nine out of 10 impulse purchases are based on eye-appeal."

Eye-appeal, he explains, is created by proper packaging so that the package is not only attractive but shows the product to its best advantage.

Red Cross Holds Regional Meet At Westbank

On Friday, November 9, civil defence will be the chief item at the annual Red Cross regional conference which has been called for the George Pringle high school, Westbank.

Major-General C. R. Stein, provincial co-ordinator of civil defence will be guest speaker.

Apart from Red Cross personnel, the meeting has been thrown open to anyone interested in civil defence and a number of Summerland residents are expected to be present.

The conference open at 2:30 o'clock and is expected to conclude at 6 p.m. Other speakers will be William McDonnell, B.C. Red Cross provincial division president; Mrs. J. N. Mawer, provincial blood donor chairman; and Mrs. A. G. Mercer, provincial chairman of women's work.

Local Woman in Hospital After Highway Skid

Mrs. W. W. Armstrong of Summerland is in hospital as the result of an accident on the Hope-Princeton highway at a slippery section where three accidents in a short space of time sent two women to hospital.

It was on October 25 that Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong were proceeding home from Vancouver after a peak at the royal couple. They came across a particularly slippery section of the highway without warning and their car went into a spin.

After going around twice, Mr. Armstrong was able to steer it down a 12-foot bank but the car struck two long poles at the bottom of the embankment with such force that Mrs. Armstrong received serious injuries.

She suffered a broken arm, severe injuries to a knee and various head and facial lacerations. She did not suffer from shock, however, and was able to rest easily in Princeton hospital after receiving medical attention.

Mr. Armstrong escaped unscathed. The car received main damage to one front wheel and fender, while the frame was also damaged. Mrs. Armstrong was brought from Princeton hospital to Oliver hospital last weekend to be near her son, Norman who is residing in that centre.

Two other motorists cracked up at this same spot that same day, another woman being taken to Chilliwack hospital for treatment.

POWERED FOR THE JOB

Four great engines! The 92-h.p. Thriftmaster, the big 105-h.p. Loadmaster, the massive 114-h.p. Torquemaster and the mighty 120-h.p. engine all deliver outstanding performance with remarkably low fuel and maintenance expense.

VALVE-IN-HEAD DESIGN

For 39 years, Chevrolet has built valve-in-head engines. No other manufacturer has built so many, just as no other truck-engine design can match the over-all economy and proved efficiency of Chevrolet's valve-in-head.

BLUE-FLAME COMBUSTION

Wrings all the usable energy from every drop of gasoline. Blue-Flame combustion is possible only with valve-in-head engine design — provides greater power and livelier performance, through more efficient utilization of fuel.

POWER-JET CARBURETOR

At low speed, on grades or at regular highway speeds, Chevrolet's Power-Jet carburetor maintains the proper fuel mixture for the engine. This, plus fast warm-up, smooth, quick response, means surprisingly low operating costs.

LONG LASTING BRAKES

The greater self-energization of Chevrolet hydraulic brakes provides smoother, safer braking — completely equalized pressure to each brake. This in turn assures full lining contact and longer wear — for the brakes on your truck.

BONDED BRAKE LININGS

No rivets! On light- and medium-duty models, the lining is bonded directly to brake shoes to increase life and to eliminate danger of storing brake drums as lining wears. You get extra wear — safer brakes.

... to do more work for your money

(Continuation of standard equipment and trim illustrated is dependent on availability of material.)

Just take a look at the engineered-in economy features of Chevrolet trucks. Features like valve-in-head engine design, Blue-Flame combustion, Power-Jet carburetor, long lasting brakes and a host of others. All the vast engineering and manufacturing experience of Canada's largest truck builder is used to give you greater economy on the job.

And Chevrolet economy goes far beyond low operating costs. It means engines, chassis and cabs will stand up under rough, tough use month after month, year after year. It means building extra ruggedness and extra efficiency into Chevrolet trucks at lowest cost.

Every day, more and more truck users are switching to new Chevrolet trucks. Take a tip from these truck-wise buyers and get engineered-in economy and more work for your money.

Two Bluebird Teams Thump Pentiction High

Summerland's senior Bluebirds started off the current hoop season in proper style Friday night thumping Pentiction squads in both ends of a twin bill. Final scores read: Summerland senior girls 16, Pentiction 9; and Summerland senior boys 28, Pentiction 19.

The Summerland girls, showing vast improvement over last year's squad, despite the loss of first stringers Helen Kean and Ruth Klux through graduation, were paced by Irene Menu with eight points and Doreen Fleming with six points. Miss Menu was in control of the backboards throughout the game.

The local boys were led by Daryl Weitzel with eleven points, closely followed by Lewis, who netted ten points. Some of the features of the game were the play of young Harold Wells, a junior, who hit the scoring column for three points; and the fine guard work of Allan Hooker, a newcomer to the basketball wars.

The male edition of the Bluebirds rolled all over Pentiction in the first half and the score at half time read 14 to 1. However, in the second half it began to be apparent that coach Greer's fledglings lacked condition and at times the game became almost a waltz. Pentiction outscored the 'birds 18-14 in this half.

This year's team however, has much more bench strength than last year. Most of the second stringers need a great deal of drill in fundamentals and the entire squad needs plenty of hard training but the Bluebirds feel they will win their fair share this season.

The first toss up was thrown by Mr. Young of Vancouver who is visiting relatives here in Summerland. Mr. Young is a cousin of Dr. Naismith, the inventor of basketball. The two attended school together in Ontario.

This Friday the teams travel to Keremeos where the junior boys get their baptism. Coach Pat Minchin of that school reports he has some fine players this year.

Girls: I. Menu 8, Fleming 6, Metfers 2, Libicz, Saucier, M. Menu, M. Jomori, R. Jomori, Raincock—16. Boys: Lewis 10, Weitzel 11, Towgood, Hooker, Arndt 4, Klux, Deslets, Wells 3, Higgs—28.

NEWS FROM THE GREAT OUTDOORS
(By Bert Berry)

FISHING
Okanagan Lake is all we have now that is open. All upper lakes have been frozen. Trollers for trout have had good luck this past week, but only small ones up to two pounds, with lots of fight.

White, fish are starting to run now and quite a few are being caught. One fellow got seventeen one afternoon, but this should improve.

HUNTING
Pheasants are over for another year. Some controversy over the opening of the season is bound to follow but from reports in to me the general opinion is that there were just as many around as last year, and no harm can come from the open season.

Quail, of course, closed with the pheasants and there were good numbers of these.

Ducks are still coming in. Northern mallards are being seen more and more, thus if a fellow wants to get up early and try his luck on the local lakes it should be okay. Also, watch the edges of the big lake, George Fudge got three off his place last week.

No reports on geese this week. One party back from Merritt district got geese and ducks but reports lakes and sloughs freezing up now.

Moose are still coming in to the Quite a few parties are still up north and more still to go, so by the end of the season there should be a lot of moosemeat in Summerland.

L. B. Fulks and Dan Cousins of Peachland dropped in on their way back from Fernie with two nice elk and a blacktail deer. They report game quite plentiful.

Deer are really in to town now. Bucks are down from the hills now and are being shot in large numbers, so much so that the locker staff is having a terrifically hard job to keep up to demands.

This is the earliest we have seen bucks down for a long time, and with ordinary luck most hunters should not have too much trouble in getting their one buck each. Reports from way back in the hills in the Thirsk area indicate that there are no deer there, but Fish Lake, Bald Range, the Piggaries and Garnet Valley, in fact all lower spots, are good.

Mrs. A. McCargar, from reports to me, is the first lady to get herself a deer. She nailed one up Garnet Valley last weekend.

Ed's note: Bert Berry is too modest to include in his own columns his own luck with a rifle but we understand that he went out at ten o'clock Monday morning, shot a buck near the Living Memorial athletic park and was back carrying on business as usual at 11 o'clock. That's what we call getting your buck the easy way.

Work Parties at Arena Lagging

George Woitte is still waiting for bigger work gangs to appear at the Arena.

Every afternoon and evening the faithful George can be found at the arena, ready and willing to go to work along with a gang of volunteers and dig the furnace room or do other necessary work.

But so far, the response to appeals for volunteers has not been great. George realizes that many people are busy right now but he would appreciate some more assistance at the rink. He wants to show George Stoll that a good deal of the work has been accomplished when the rink association president returns from his trip to eastern Canada.

Unsuccessful Hunt For Marauding Cat

Game Warden Adam Monks with his three hounds and accompanied by Daryl Weitzel staged a cougar hunt west of Summerland on Monday but was unsuccessful in killing the marauder.

Weitzel and Mev Wells discovered a doe in the vicinity of Meadow Lake on Sunday and discovered cougar tracks leading away from the dead animal. They notified Warden Monks who made arrangements for the hunt the next day.

HOOP TEAMS PRACTICING

Senior basketball teams are continuing to practice twice weekly in the high school gym and are looking forward to the time that inter town games will be played.

Kelowna Climbs In Okanagan Hockey Drive

In the past week, Kelowna Packers have played five games to boost their point total into second place behind the high-flying Kamloops Elks in the Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League race.

Pentiction V's, who are attracting the main attention of Summerland hockey fans, have turned in a few good performances and are showing to better advantage than at the start of the season.

Addition of the two Schmidt brothers has helped the V's cause a lot, especially the play of Willie on defence.

Team	GP	W	L	D	Pts
Kamloops	10	7	3	0	14
Kelowna	11	4	5	2	10
Vernon	8	4	4	0	8
Pentiction	6	2	2	2	6

Summerland Chosen for "College"

Next Tuesday, an innovation in the life of the University of B.C. in its relation to the province as a whole will be made when the first Capsule College is brought right into the hinterland, Summerland having been picked to initiate the project.

Reeve C. E. Bentley has been asked to chairman the gathering which will start with a banquet in the IOOF hall, at which Dean Blythe Eagles, professor and head of the department of dairying, will be the feature speaker.

In the program which follows, Robert F. (Bob) Osborne, well-known director of physical education for men, and a native of Victoria, will address the "college" followed by Dr. Lawrence E. Ranta, of the new medical faculty at UBC.

Frank Turner, secretary-manager of the UBC Alumni Assn. will also be present to assist in arranging the college.

It is the university's aim to bring UBC closer to the people of the province and this innovation has been decided upon as an experiment. At least fifty persons are expected to attend the banquet while others may attend the speakers' program and panel discussion which follow.

The college is open to all persons regardless of their past or present affiliation with the university.

growers. We have this organization in the BCFGA with its growers united by a common contract. The second condition must have the means of distributing it."

Mr. Garrish now contends that these statements have been fully borne out by events.

"While there are at present in excess of 2,000 signed contracts representing 80 percent of the commercial tonnage, we feel that it is time for any grower who has not signed the contract to re-examine his position," Mr. Garrish now points out.

"We know there are a variety of excuses given for not signing but we would ask every unsigned grower how he can justify withholding the only real evidence that he is solidly behind this association and the central selling system established by it. The fact that there is any material number of growers not signed up under the three-party contract can only have a damaging effect on the standing of the growers' organization far beyond the reaches of the fruit growing area."

In conclusion, Mr. Garrish urged growers to attend their local meetings, which in the case of Summerland means next Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 14.

Board of Trade to Act on Proposed Commerce Chamber

Summerland Board of Trade is deciding tonight if it wishes to support a province-wide move to form a new organization to be known as the B.C. Chamber of Commerce.

A committee has been considering the proposed draft of this organization and it is anticipated will bring in a favorable report at the monthly meeting of the board tonight.

The B.C. Chamber would consolidate the efforts of the old B.C. Council of Associated Boards of Trade and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in this province.

Organization and, it is hoped, charter meeting of the B.C. Chamber will be held in Vancouver on November 23 and 24.

Issue Motor Licences From Crowded Municipal Hall Starting December 1

Resentment which has been smouldering with members of the municipal council over the negative result of the bylaw recently, broke into a low flame at Tuesday's council session and threatened for a time to defeat a proposal whereby an additional service will be provided residents of the municipality.

Renew Roof of Ellison Hall; Board Windows

Ellison hall will have all its windows permanently boarded for safe-keeping, the north portion of the roof given a good repair job and then the building will be shut up for future councils to decide as to its eventual future.

This was the decision of municipal council on Tuesday afternoon, after receiving the report which showed clearly that ratepayers do not want to spend $12,000 for a complete renovation job at this time.

Councillor F. E. Atkinson took the initiative in suggesting that the north half of Ellison hall roof be repaired. The south half was done a few years ago.

Municipal Hall Bylaw May Have February Date

It will be mid-February before another vote can be taken on the proposed municipal hall.

Reeve C. E. Bentley had hoped for another vote in January but Clerk Smith pointed out that a revision of the figures in the bylaw would be necessary because of the passage of another year.

The unexpended bylaw funds which it has been proposed to use for the new municipal hall will have an enhanced value when the new year rolls around and in order to cancel out these old bylaws entirely Mr. Smith wishes to take the very latest figures.

Trail Male Chorus Provides Rare Musical Treat for Local Audience

Summerland had a rare musical treat on Friday evening in the school auditorium when the Trail Male Chorus of nearly forty voices provided a program varied enough to suit all tastes.

This was the first time Summerland has been included in the choir's itinerary and from the complimentary remarks concerning the splendid stage and auditorium, combined with the enthusiastic reception from some 250 persons, another visit can be expected.

Lengthy discussion ensued Tuesday afternoon when council was informed that the attorney-general has approved a scheme whereby municipal offices, where no other issuing authority exists, may issue motor vehicle licences on behalf of the provincial government.

For this service which is a decentralization scheme suggested by G. A. Hood, superintendent of the motor vehicles branch, the municipality would receive $600 for the first year, commencing December 1.

After the first year, the deal will be subject to review. Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith and Miss J. Ritchie will be bonded and will take charge of this issuance the first year.

When the subject was first opened, Reeve C. E. Bentley declared that the suggestion brings the council "right back to the municipal hall."

"You can't issue licences in a place like this," was Councillor Francis Stewart's contention.

"I don't see how you can do it," replied Reeve Bentley. Opportunity Thrown Away

But Councillor F. E. Atkinson countered that it would be too bad to throw away an opportunity which municipal councils, the board of trade and other interested bodies have been seeking for many years, simply because of a "temporary setback" in plans for a new municipal hall.

"You don't win battles by backing down at the first defeat," reminded Councillor Atkinson. Councillor Holmes came to the support of Councillor Atkinson, by pointing out that "we've fought for this for years."

Again Reeve Bentley pointed out the inadequacy of the municipal office to handle this extra burden. "Go and look at your office," he urged. "Where can we put them?"

Councillor Atkinson evinced the opinion that the defeat of the municipal hall bylaw was "half our own fault" as "we should have got out and pushed it."

But Councillor Eric Tait didn't agree to such a statement and he was of the belief that until a new office is available this licence issuing plan should not be accepted by the council.

"When we discussed it with Hood, we didn't say anything about the municipal hall or that we wouldn't take over the plan if we didn't get the hall," reminded Councillor Holmes.

But both Reeve Bentley and Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith pointed out that the council definitely had the new hall proposal in mind when accepting the suggestion of issuing licences from the municipal office.

"When we discussed it (last spring) we thought we would be under construction now," observed Councillor F. M. Stewart.

Kuhar, Declared "Hostile" Witness Still on Stand in Clark Murder Trial

VERNON—Feature of the Assize Court trial being conducted this week at Vernon before Justice A. V. Clyne of Vancouver on the charge that George Frederick Clark murdered his brother-in-law Harold Oliver Tavender on June 30 last, at the latter's Summerland orchard home on Giant's Head road, has been the decision of the presiding judge to declare Henry Kuhar, Summerland, a "hostile" witness.

At noon today, Henry Kuhar was still on the witness stand, having started giving evidence yesterday afternoon.

When declared a "hostile" witness, it was the privilege of the crown to cross-examine him, a right usually reserved for the defence counsel.

When court adjourned for the noon recess, Mr. Gordon Lindsay, crown prosecutor, had concluded his examination, and Harold W. McInnes, KC, Penticton, had commenced his cross-examination of witness.

Surprise turn of events was the introduction yesterday afternoon of answers allegedly given to questions of RCMP officers shortly after the June 30 fracas which resulted in Tavender's death.

This statement did not agree in many instances with evidence given by Henry Kuhar at yesterday's trial sitting and Mr. Gordon Lindsay attempted to obtain a clearer picture of events by his cross-examination.

To date, photographs of the deceased and the Tavender home have been submitted along with plans of the house and grounds exhibited by Roy F. Angus, Summerland building inspector.

Mrs. Isabel Tavender, wife of the deceased, has given evidence, details of which will be found in other columns of this issue.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Justice Clyne declared of Henry Kuhar, who was with Clark on two occasions that the Tavender home was visited on June 30; "I do not think that the witness is being frank."

Witness Kuhar was unable to answer several questions put by the crown prosecutor as to the time of certain occurrences. In some cases he had declared himself unable to say whether it was daylight or dark.

Soon after, the court was adjourned to consider the question of the "hostility" of the witness. When the judge returned from chambers and while the jury was still out, he stated he had the feeling the witness had been hostile throughout questioning.

"I think he has been evasive in his answers and I do not think he has been frank in his statements," the justice declared, in ruling the witness as hostile.

Then, the crown prosecutor brought out the statement alleged to have been made and signed by Witness Kuhar in the presence of RCMP in Summerland. Court was adjourned to allow Mr. McInnes to study the statement.

The court heard this morning several statements read from the answers to the police questions, and they were at variance with testimony given yesterday.

At luncheon, Mr. McInnes had elicited the information that Kuhar had never seen a gun in the car which he drove the second time to the Tavender home, and witness did not believe a gun could have been carried in the car without his seeing it.

Two Trips to Tavender Home Wednesday Afternoon

On Wednesday afternoon, Henry Kuhar gave details of two trips to the home of Harold Tavender.

The day the incident took place the witness stated that he had been helping the accused on a moving job. He admitted to having "but one bottle of beer and stated that Mr. Clark didn't have any more than I did."

Mr. Kuhar stated that he and the accused were in the process of going back to get the remainder of the furniture when Clark suddenly told him to drive out of town and indicated the direction to be taken.

The witness was unable to state at that point whether or not it was then daylight. He could not say how far they went nor did he have any idea where Clark was going.

Clark told Mr. Kuhar to follow him when eventually they stopped. The witness stated that he did not know until he approached the house where he was.

They left the car and approached the house. It was then that the witness first realized that this was the home of Harold Tavender.

Justice Clyne Expresses Incredulity

Justice Clyne expressed himself as being incredulous that the witness was "content to go along following the directions of the injured man."

Mr. Kuhar stated that the accused ordered him to go down to the Perry house. He proceeded north from the Perry house, turned into an orchard and backed out. As he was backing out, Clark leaped from the car.

A short time later he heard a shot and he ran toward the home of Lorne Perry. He met Mr. Perry at his fence and as they entered the house together in an effort to get aid for the accused, another shot was fired.

Mr. Perry was in the process of calling for help when the witness heard his name being called. He left the Perry house and rushed over to the Tavender house for the second time that day.

brother-in-law of the accused. Kuhar waited nearby while Clark approached the house from the front. Moments later there was an awful thump which could have been a muffled shot he said.

"Clark began calling my first name," and "he was running right for me." The witness stated that he noticed Clark's left arm was injured and that the accused stated that he had been shot.

Youth Centre Seeks Dollar Membership

Three hundred one dollar memberships are being sought by the Summerland Youth Centre Association to provide for the operating deficit of the Youth Centre over and above the revenues which are fixed items each year, the president, F. E. Atkinson and secretary-treasurer, E. R. Butler, announce this week.

Circular letters have gone forward to all residents of Summerland to acquaint them with facts about Youth Centre operation.

Operating costs are about $800 per year, including interest on a bank loan of $2,500. Revenues in slight amount to $500, so the membership drive is being instituted.

Any revenues over and above the $800 will be devoted to reducing the bank loan, officers declare.

Next Tuesday, Nov. 20, the Youth Centre is planning a novel "Family Night", a co-operative effort between various groups using the building each week.

Each group will provide ten minutes' entertainment, while there will also be a parcel post sale arranged by the Girl Guides. Parcels will be sold just as they arrive and nobody but the original donor who mailed the parcel will know its contents.

Candy sales, white elephant sale and a fish pond are among the other features.

But the feature attraction is expected to be a male fashion show, staged by the men of the association. The latest in women's styles are to be displayed by these males and the result is expected to be alarming, to say the least.

Besides the two officers already named, Youth Centre Assn. directors are A. F. A. Crawford, T. B. Lott, Dr. James Marshall, Bill Sherwood, Les Gould, Ross McLachlan, Nan Thornthwaite, Blair Underwood and Mrs. Ewart Woolliams.

House, Hedges Garages Are On Highway

Not only are the hedges on Beach avenue in lower Summerland as much as thirteen feet on the roadway—but one house and two garages have been built partly on the road allowance.

This was the startling news revealed at Tuesday's council session when details of a survey made by Engineer R. A. Barton, Penticton, was read.

Mr. Barton had been asked to survey a sidewalk along Beach avenue and 13th street. He gave up when he found that most of the property along Beach avenue is encroaching on the road allowance.

The house which is the chief offender is that occupied now by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Witherspoon. All lot owners will be notified of the situation but the council does not intend to take any action at present. Instead, council will wait until something more definite is known regarding the relocation of Okanagan Highway No. 91 through the municipality.

Council cannot proceed with a sidewalk on Beach avenue but will do so on the north side of 13th street, using the same general location as the present walk.

WELFARE GRANT OF $100

Approval of the $100 annual grant to the Summerland Welfare committee was given by council on Tuesday and a cheque in payment ordered issued.

TOO CROWDED FOR REPORTS OF MEETINGS

Due to lack of space in this issue, details of Capsule College and the annual BCFGA meeting, are being held over for next issue.

On Saturday, December 1, the annual ratepayers' meeting will be held in the new junior-senior high school.

Littau Family Lucky to Escape With Lives as Home Burns to Ground at Night

Six members of the Littau family escaped with their lives and their sleeping attire late Wednesday evening when fire, which is believed to have started in an attic near an old chimney swept through the frame home.

Today, only the old foundations, fire-blackened kitchen utensils and bits of glass from three families' winter preserves are left of what was yesterday a large family residence.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Littau, whose home burned to the ground were taken to Summerland hospital for treatment last night but are in good condition this morning. Mr. Littau received burns to his head and hands.

With Mr. and Mrs. Littau in their home last night were their daughter, Leona, their son-in-law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Radomske and their daughter, Ramona.

Absent from their home at the time of the fire were three sons, Wally, Paul and Johnny. Mrs. Radomske had been suffering from a cold and was not sleeping well. At about 11:15 she sat up in bed and saw through a partly-completed partition a bright, orange glow.

She heard a crackling noise, as well. From then on things happened in a hurry. Mrs. Radomske roused her husband and then ran around to the front of the house to rouse her mother whose door was locked because it did not close properly otherwise.

Mrs. Littau, in her bare feet, ran upstairs, dragged the two younger girls out of bed and got them downstairs and out of the burning house, just in time. The thick smoke which had developed downstairs made the girls panicky and Mrs. Littau had quite a struggle to get them out.

CLARK TRIAL JURY MEMBERS

The jury which was empanelled on Tuesday, Nov. 13, when the Clark murder trial commenced consisted of the following twelve men:

John Lowe Johnston, Vernon, foreman; Hudson Ewbanke Aldin, Enderby; Charles H. Ansell, Vernon; Harold C. Armeaneau, Kelowna; John E. Bogart, Ashton Creek; Adolph Siegfried Bredefeld, Kelowna; Edward J. Fitzgerald, Princeton; Thomas Lloyd Flynn, Kaleden; Eric Lohlein, Osoyoos; Alexander Krebs, Gordon O'Neill, and Joseph Stream, Vernon.

He stated he had the feeling the witness had been hostile throughout questioning.

"I think he has been evasive in his answers and I do not think he has been frank in his statements," the justice declared, in ruling the witness as hostile.

Then, the crown prosecutor brought out the statement alleged to have been made and signed by Witness Kuhar in the presence of RCMP in Summerland. Court was adjourned to allow Mr. McInnes to study the statement.

The court heard this morning several statements read from the answers to the police questions, and they were at variance with testimony given yesterday.

At luncheon, Mr. McInnes had elicited the information that Kuhar had never seen a gun in the car which he drove the second time to the Tavender home, and witness did not believe a gun could have been carried in the car without his seeing it.

Justice Clyne interrupted the line of questioning to ask whether the witness had thought of communicating with the police. He then stated that he planned to take him to the hospital but that the accused was against it.

He tried the back door and it was locked but the accused called to him and told him to enter the front door. He entered the front door and climbed upstairs. There he found a shotgun; heard the sound of voices in "conversational tones".

There was a discharged shell on the stairs. The witness then threw the gun outside. He then ran up the stairs again where he found the door to the bedroom partly open.

"Clark was standing up in a dazed condition," he said. "Tavender was standing with a baseball bat in his hands."

Harold Tavender was saying, "I did not mean to shoot you, George."

At this point Justice Clyne interrupted proceedings for the first time to state that he did "not feel that the witness is being frank."

local Canadian Legion branch in conjunction with the Summerland Ministerial Assn.

Opening prayer was given by Rev. H. R. Whitmore, the band played O Canada and Rev. G. Schnell gave the scripture reading. The congregation sang O God our Help in Ages Past and Rev. Don Knippel led in prayer.

Dr. C. G. Woodbridge, Legion president, read the roll of honor of those who fall in the two world wars, with the Legion responding. "At the going down of the sun, and in the morning, We will remember them."

A moment of silence was followed by the Last Post and Reveille sounded by Bugler Tom Charley. After wreaths had been reverently laid at the base of the Cenotaph, Canon F. V. Harrison gave the benediction and the service concluded with The King.

Quite a large number of residents gathered behind the hollow square made by the parade in front of the Cenotaph and joined in the service of remembrance as arranged by the Situated on a high ridge overlooking Trout Creek Point and south to Penticton, the fire was more plainly visible from Penticton than most places in Summerland.

The fire department answered the call about 11:45 and was out two hours, making certain that the fire could not spread to any other part.

Reeve C. E. Bentley was on the scene and called in an RCMP constable from Penticton in the absence at the Clark trial in Vernon of the two Summerland constables.

Neighbors summoned the fire department but by the time the fire fighters could reach the location off the South Giant's Head road the entire house was consumed with flames and nothing could be done except protect neighboring property.

We Enjoyed The Trail Male Choir

LAST week we were entertained in a manner which does not often happen in a small district such as Summerland. An evening of music, provided in a spirit which could not help but please was given us by the Trail Male Chorus and Conductor Hans Foyh-Dohmsmidt. We will not readily forget this outstanding performance.

Nearly forty male voices were combined in this community chorus from the Smelter City to provide a pleasing, talented program. But it wasn't only the blending of the voices, the modulation to a bare whisper when necessary, or the tremendous volume when called upon that so impressed listeners. It was the fact that these men were enjoying their singing as much as the audience on the other side of the stage.

We hope the Trail Male Chorus can come back again. They proved themselves a grand group of "regular fellows" besides being talented vocalists. And their departing, surprise gesture, stopping at the Summerland hospital and singing two numbers to cheer the sick, was just another indication of the good citizens they proved themselves.

Better Public Relations

A PROGRAM of good, public relations between the University of B.C. and the residents of the hinterland who help to maintain this institution was staged in Summerland Tuesday evening.

Capsule College, as it was termed, proved to be a success from the standpoint of interest manifested. That Summerland was chosen for this interesting experiment shows clearly the cultural standing of this community and many of its inhabitants.

It has been recognized in some circles that the province's highest educational institution is in need of selling itself more clearly to the citizens whose support it needs. Capsule College was just one method to bring the university's message to the people.

We hope that Summerland did its part on Tuesday to foster better public relations and we are certain that those who were in attendance came away with a better understanding of the role of the university in the life of our Pacific Coast province.

The straightforward presentation of the university's "case" and the ready answers to all problems by the "Capsules" made the evening one which could be enjoyed by all, with beneficial results in a better understanding of problems all around.

It was significant that the vocational trends in this province and elsewhere throughout the country in relation to a university training seemed uppermost in the minds of the audience. The "Capsules" gave wise counsel when they pointed out that the university also provides a better all-round grounding for persons besides training them for a vocation.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

A greater—no, I'd rather say a more famous personage than I—once asked a simple question that has reverberated down twenty centuries: "What is truth?"

Well, what is truth? Too big a subject to be handled adequately in this column, indeed or by this columnist; but let's have a glancing blow or two at it, for the fun of it.

Are truth and falsehood two different things, like black and white? Or are they similar, only slightly different, shades of grey?

Parents are apt to plump for the black and white theory. Little sister comes in crying that Bobby knocked her down. Mother asks Bobby if he knocked her down; Bobby says "No." But mother watching from a window had seen Bobby's arm strike her and sister fall down. So she angrily accuses Bobby of lying and reads him a pretty severe lecture on the importance of telling the truth.

But was Bobby lying? True, he had hit his sister and she had fallen. But they had been quarrelling, and it was not all Bobby's fault; he had been teased till he felt he had plenty of provocation for that blow. And sister, being in a cantankerous mood, had fallen easily; many a time she had received a harder blow in play and thought nothing of it.

Actually, isn't it mother, not Bobby, who is at fault? If she had asked, "Did you try to knock sister down?" and, "Did you hit sister without any reason?", he could honestly have answered "No." He thought that was what a just mother would mean and he had answered truthfully the question she sought to have asked. Which was wrong?

To come to the adult level, suppose you are interested in buying a second-hand car, and a neighbor tries to sell you his.

"Will it come up Peach Orchard in high?" you ask.

"Sure," he says. "I'll guarantee it." So you buy it. And you find out that his idea of the truth is very different from yours. He had managed to nurse it up the hill in high gear by taking as fast a run as he dared at the bottom, and letting it drag down to a crawl to reach the top, with only the driver in the car. You try it with your wife and kids, starting at reasonable speed, and you have to change down, for good driving's sake, half-way up. Yet he had driven up in high—he had told the truth.

There's such a difference between the technical truth of words—and the broad general truths that we mean. Like the distinguished personages in cigarette advertisements saying "Fluckies never hurt my throat;" and omitting to add that the reason is that they never smoke them.

That's why lawyers, when they make out documents, use so many words; they are trying to cover all the possible ways in which a certain statement can be interpreted. Each one of them can be true.

Yet lawyers themselves, when they get a witness on the stand pledged to tell the truth, often hedge them in so that they cannot tell the truth when they try.

Did Mrs. Gubbins seem to have an unusual amount of money after January 15th?" the lawyer asks.

"Well, more than she sometimes had, but not any more than I've seen her with sometimes," the truthful witness begins, but the lawyer snaps at him,

"Was it more than usual or not? It must be one thing or the other; answer yes or no," and if the witness refuses to reply so briefly, he may be cited for contempt of court.

Yet the margin between truth and falsehood is often so very indistinct. Did you talk to Mr. Whoosis on the street yesterday? You could say "Yes," because you did falter in your stride as you passed him to ask if he had shot his deer yet; but you could as truthfully say "No" because that was a mere reasonable greeting and you had no real conversation.

Like a friend of mine who came out of a dark room and reported, "I nearly saw a rat." For if he did not actually see one, there may have been one in the room two seconds before he entered; or two seconds after he left.

I'm inclined to favor the similar shades of grey.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

November 11, 1921. Summerland's annual Fair and Apple Show this year suffered a lack of fruit because it was spoilt for exhibition purposes by hail, so was short in volume as compared with other fairs. The apples shown however, did not fall short in quality, color, or excellence of pack. The Women's Institute section was the best display yet, with individual exhibits superior. Arthur Joy of Trout Creek showed a pumpkin which tipped the scales at 100 pounds. United Seed Growers showed concrete evidence of their endeavors. A fine display was entered by the experimental station.

The school loan bylaw to authorize the borrowing of $30,000 for school purposes lacked by a very narrow margin the required three-fifths majority. There were 143 votes for the bylaw, 101 against, and 6 rejected ballots. At the municipal office 175 ballots were cast, and 60 at the lower town.

Negotiations have been entered into between the West Kootenay Power and Light Co. and the Okanagan Power Co. of Washington for an interchange of power. This would make available a supply of power should there be a breakdown on one or the other system.

Okanagan United Growers have issued a general letter to fruit growers with survey of the 1921 market, stating that growers must get together as expanding fruit crops present a marketing problem for solution.

G. Y. L. Crossley reports an important fruit deal this week by which Mr. Hugh Sharman of Nakusp, B.C. has purchased the D. Howson and the R. G. Russel property. The latter was formerly the Dr. Matheson property. Mr. Sharman will arrive here in about two weeks accompanied by his wife and daughter.

Bernard Taylor is giving a motor service between West Summerland post office and Empire Hall on Friday night for those wishing to attend the Lyceum concert.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

November 12, 1926.

An impressive ceremony marked unvailing of Summerland's cenotaph, when citizens gathered from all over the community before the memorial on the high school grounds. Dr. Andrew delivered an inspirational address. Boy Scouts and Girl Guides took part in the ceremony and school children led in the singing. It is the committee's plan to complete the memorial by surrounding it with posts and flower beds.

On Sunday, Empire Hall was crowded to capacity for the service of Remembrance when united choirs led singing and Rev. T. Reed, was speaker, assisted by Rev. G. J. C. White. Rev. H. A. Solly was unavoidably absent.

Local council has been asked by W. H. F. Welsh to do some widening on the road overlooking the lake, from J. E. O'Mahony's place past Mr. Tavender's and to W. Hayes.

The Okanagan Music Festival has received another boost by receiving donations of gold and silver medals from Mr. J. H. Bowering and Mr. S. B. Snider respectively.

Last week Mrs. M. E. Collas drove a car down from the summit of Apex Mountain. She is probably the first woman to attempt the feat.

The question is being asked whether another game is to be added to the series of bowling matches. Results of Thursday's games are hard to understand, for J. Mutton and W. Atkinson defeated the stalwarts of this game, J. S. Ritchie and Mr. Doherty 21-11. This will not do.

A number of Oddfellows journeyed to Okanagan last Saturday to attend the convention there. These were R. S. Jackson, J. Clements, A. J. Anderson, J. Gibbon, K. S. Hogg, T. Washington, P. Sourrah, E. L. Miller and O. Atkins. Three members of the sister lodge, the Rebekahs, Miss N. Thompson, Mrs. Clements, and Miss L. Washington also made the trip.

Warren Gayton has left for Winnipeg to play on an all-star basketball team.

PORTRAITS

Blair Underwood

Often a person possesses a particular quality that contributes largely to achievement. Perhaps the innate versatility of Blair Underwood has helped him a great deal. Versatility combined with concentration and work, have gone into the things which he has undertaken and operated with success.

Born in Boston, Mass., he lived there until twelve years old, when his family moved to Toledo, Ohio. There he finished high school, and attended the University of Toledo graduating in business administration.

While he was a student he helped his father after school and on Saturdays in his wholesale egg business. He did this when going to university, too. This was a business in which turnover was rapid, and returns the same.

In 1937 he married Miss Christine Mattern, coming directly to Summerland to take over the twenty-five acres of orchard and the house which had belonged to his grandfather, Mr. Isaac Blair.

Fruit farming was something quite new to this city-bred young man and he aimed to run the place trying to learn all he could about orchard work.

He was rather disappointed in the slowness of financial returns having been used to an enterprise that gave immediate results. As well as this he found it affected his health adversely, so he rented the farm and looked around for something to do that would be within his physical scope, and he hoped would bring in faster monetary returns.

Here was a venture! He sent for the machinery to make potato chips, read the book that came with it, and started. "Blair's Potato Chips" found a ready market and became well known. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Underwood, had come to live here, too. His father was rather restless and wanted something to do, as well.

There was a shortage of sweets at that time, so Mr. Harvey Underwood began a popcorn business. The product was sold under "Blair's" as well. Both projects flourished. The chips sold quickly, growing into a large business. At one time as many as a hundred dozen packages a day were made. As for the popcorn, orders were more than could be supplied. Compensation came and within good time.

These were carried on for a number of years, then discontinued. Again looking around for a business of some sort, and even considering going back to the United States, he talked to F. E. Atkinson at the fruit products' lab at the experimental station.

Mr. Atkinson is a man who often sees and knows of potentialities that others do not, and in his progressive, activating way said: "Why don't you start a cannery?"

That did it. They talked for awhile and Blair Underwood came away with the idea in his mind.

In 1944, his first year, he used the old barn on his orchard, and about half of his present setup, and the Garnet Valley Cannery began. Sugar was unobtainable, so he canned tomatoes that summer and fall.

In 1945 he built the storage house, and from fairly modest beginnings, the place has expanded continually. This year approximately 22,000 cases of fruit were put up, all 20-ounce tins, which Blair Underwood prefers to do. He thinks this is a more reasonable size than the 15-ounce one, entailing practically no more work on the canner's part, giving better value to the consumer, and using more of the grower's product. In fact, he would like to see tomatoes done in an even larger can. His market is on the prairies largely.

In 1944 Mr. and Mrs. Underwood bought the McMillan house, renovated it and lived there for three years. Then they moved into their new home in the Solly subdivision, selling the former one. There are three sons, Gordon, John, and Russell in the Underwood household.

Blair Underwood likes "fixing things". He enjoys having an old thing presenting a problem in repairing rather than a new article. This winter he is taking the course in woodworking being given in night classes at the high school by S. J. Feltham.

He is on the board of trade and in the AOTS as an executive member. In his quiet-spoken way, he claims he is not a "joiner".

As an actor, he presents his versatility again. He has pleased and entertained Summerland, and other audiences, many times, in widely diverse parts in Players' Club productions. He would like living a little closer to a city so that he could attend more plays and dramatic performances.

Over at his cannery office just now where fruit cartons line the walls, on his neat desk a book is pushed aside when work is at hand. The Players are reading to select this winter's production. The book is a play.

Board of Trade Plans for Christmas

R. J. G. (Bob) Barkwill will head the Summerland Board of Trade Christmas Tree party committee, last Thursday's monthly trade board meeting learned. The civic affairs committee, under Scooty Ritchie, will again sponsor the Christmas lighting contest with prizes for best displays and most distinctive display being offered.

CNR OFFICIAL RECEIVES PROMOTION IN WEST REGION

Leslie A. Fonger, formerly assistant freight traffic manager, western region, Canadian National Railways, has been promoted to freight traffic manager, western region, according to an official announcement by John Pullen, vice-president of traffic, Montreal. Mr. Fonger will continue to make his headquarters in Winnipeg. He succeeds the late Walter Hatley.

Imagination alone can shed any light on the Sunday morning activities at that ranch home to confirm the spirit and existence of a Martha. Indeed this was the spirit that continued to manifest itself during her every waking hour while the individual members of her numerous family went out in turn to school and later to that wider world and calling under that kind maternal eye, but always with the backward glance of love and fidelity.

Those of us having had the rare distinction of sharing and enjoying the hospitality of her home during a long succession of years can readily subscribe to a richness of consistency above all outward approach. The welcome that awaited the casual visitor was always spontaneous, but even that was not permitted to curtail the patient unremitting industry of her domestic life—the very keystone of her existence.

The pilgrimage has ended, but of a surety her children can call with one accord rise up and now her blessed, while her legion of friends can retain the memory of one whom throughout her length of days were untarnished the white flower of a blameless life.

Last Respects Paid to Aged Pioneer Lady

Mrs. Mary Annie Brown, widow of the late J. R. Brown, was laid to rest in Peach Orchard cemetery on Friday afternoon, Nov. 9, a few scant days before she would have reached her 92nd birthday. Born in Ireland, she was a pioneer resident of Saskatchewan and came to Summerland and Trout Creek area especially in 1903.

Her family has submitted this appreciation to The Review, which is published herewith.

MRS. MARY ANNIE BROWN (An Appreciation)

Under a sombre, leaden sky, and conscious of the scattered falling leaves that had already perished in the green and proclaimed the end of another harvest season, we tenderly and with regret laid to rest all that was mortal of one who, throughout a busy life had, become the very symbol of a Mother in Israel. During that fleeting period, and ere our eyes had lifted from that wealth of floral tributes placed there by many who, during her long life, had come to regard as her inner circle, our thoughts were coursing back over the lapse of years to that day when the Brown family had come to make its home at the Canyon Ranch, Trout Creek.

To this spot shortly after the turn of the century she had come with her husband and young family, and doubtless with a new vision in her heart, for had they not already completed one circuit of pioneer life in the Qu'Appelle Valley, and were now ready with unabated enthusiasm to begin the work all over again in this, then, new land of ours.

The flow of settlement was still but a mere trickle, so much so, that the Sunday morning church service was occasionally without its spiritual quorum, and not until the Brown family drove into town could it with any degree of success

High School COMMENTS

Time is moving along at a terrific pace. Here it is the middle of November and only about four weeks until the Christmas holidays. Must start thinking about my Christmas list or better yet I must consult the treasury department.

Since the last column, the Bluebirds have played two basketball games, the Sr. Girls and the Sr. Boys both walloping Penticton fives on the home floor on November 2. Last Friday, November 9, three Bluebird teams—Jr. Boys, Sr. Girls, and Sr. Boys journeyed to Keremeos where they dropped all three games to the Keremeos teams after hotly contested play. Scores in the Keremeos games were Jr. Boys 20-15, Sr. Girls 20-10, Sr. Boys 35-31.

A complete writeup of the Penticton games was to be found in last week's sports section.

Club periods are now in full swing during the last period on Wednesday afternoon. Everyone belongs to a club of their choice and I hope they spend a profitable year at their work.

During the last period on Friday afternoon, an Assembly of Junior students was held in the auditorium and Senior students in the gym.

School spirit was one of the main topics to come under fire in the senior assembly. The trouble it would seem is that everyone talks about it but no one does anything.

On Friday, November 2, the Junior students held a party in the auditorium. From my hurried glance in the door, I would say that the party was a big success, which is more than the Senior students could manage.

RED CROSS HEARS FROM CO-ORDINATOR

Civil Defence Will Bring Together All Resources at Municipal Level -- Stein

"Either in war or peace, the civil defence organization is the elastic bond to bind together all the resources of the community to meet a disaster."

This was the explanation of Major-General C. R. Stein, chief speaker at the regional meeting of the Red Cross at George Pringle high school last Friday afternoon. Mr. Stein is provincial co-ordinator of the civil defence scheme as set up by the provincial government in co-operation with federal authorities.

Chief explanation which emanated from this important session was the role of the Red Cross in relation to civil defence.

In the long-run, it was explained that Red Cross would operate in its normal way, coming quickly to the rescue in any accident, minor or otherwise. But when the emergency reaches proportions where it can be proclaimed a national disaster, civil defence takes charge, but naturally looks to Red Cross for the utmost in assistance.

Civil defence, explained the major-general, is organized on the municipal level, as that is the basic authority which can be best utilized. Civil defence actually co-ordinates the activities of all municipalities into one working body.

But at no time would a municipality be asked to move its equipment to another location and not leave any protection for its own people, he hastened to point out.

The Red Cross, he told the meeting, would look after clothing, food, shelter, registration and information, mainly. This is the normal work of the Red Cross, but civil defence is planning for an emergency which is beyond the normal level of the Red Cross and thus is organizing all other agencies in the welfare field.

Red Cross Work Made Easier
 Naturally, the Red Cross wonders at times where this organization "leaves the Red Cross disaster committee," Mr. Stein continued, explaining that the additional organization doesn't change the Red Cross committee's duties a bit, it only makes it easier for the committee to operate.

In non-national emergencies, the Red Cross would step to the front and take charge, Mr. Stein pointed out. But, as an example, if the Red Cross needed a supply of trucks for transportation purposes, an appeal could be sent to civil defence and the chairman of the latter's transportation committee would be ready to supply all the vehicles needed.

Every commercial vehicle in B.C. is being included in a survey underway right now, the meeting was told. This listing will be broken down at the local level.

Many questions were asked, the main point being cleared up when Major-General Stein declared that only when a national disaster is declared by order-in-council does civil defence take over the entire organization, but at all times the services of civil defence can be made available to assist in an emergency.

Recently, the City of Nanaimo asked civil defence to move in and that was what happened. However, Nanaimo will have to foot the bill of expense in this case, as the government was not involved.

"I hope the Red Cross will keep completely active because if they don't we'll have to organize in a different manner," Mr. Stein noted.

Must Prepare For Worst
 Capt. C. R. Bull, Kelowna, was concerned because most talk about civil defence seems to have centered around the atom bomb.

"We are preparing for an atom bomb because that would be the worst that could happen and we must prepare for the worst," replied Mr. Stein.

"In every area of the province, the job of Civil Defence is primarily providing for the protection of the people of that area. You must be prepared to help yourselves," he warned.

In this connection he pointed out that soon every school pupil from junior high up will be given basic first aid instruction. Working with St. John Ambulance Assn., a list of fully qualified first aid personnel will be prepared, along with another large group which will have basic first aid.

Although there hasn't been much activity on the surface in civil defence work lately, the speaker assured the Red Cross meeting that a lot has been accomplished, and in another six months big advances will be observed.

A course for nurses on civil defence lines where 64 key nurses from all sections of the province will be trained to instruct in civil defence work is being instituted early next month.

At the outset, Mr. Stein pointed out that the Okanagan is not considered a likely target for major offensive in time of hostilities but would be a minor diversionary area only. But the Okanagan must play its part in the overall picture.

In peacetime, in B.C., floods, explosions, earthquakes or fire, could cause devastation of a major character, he pointed out, and civil defence is organized to take care of such circumstances, as well as in wartime.

Lt-Col. J. H. Horn, Kelowna, who has been named civil defence co-ordinator for the area served by the Okanagan Municipal Assn., from Kamloops south to the border, was unable to be at last Friday's important Red Cross meeting in Westbank. Col. Horn had just concluded a civil defence course in the east when he was rushed to hospital in St. Catharines, Ont., for an operation for gall stone removal. He is reported as making satisfactory progress.

No one municipality could handle such major catastrophes, "and that is where we come in," he declared.

Main Target Areas
 The federal government has named three main target areas in B.C., namely Victoria, Greater Vancouver and Trail-Tadanac, while the B.C. government has named two more, Prince Rupert and Kamloops, the latter being an important transportation junction.

Behind these areas in a cushion area, to give immediate assistance, such as the Fraser Valley while in the third line are the reception and mobile support areas, with the Okanagan as No. 1 in importance, along with the Kootenays, the Cariboo and northern Vancouver Island.

The reception areas must look after the people who have to be passed out of the target areas and to organize teams to send in to the target areas to provide mobile support.

This work on the part of reception areas could be undertaken in peace or war, he emphasized.

Before this portion of the meeting concluded, Col. C. A. Scott, provincial Red Cross commissioner, pointed out that the work of the Red Cross and Civil Defence must be interlaced so that it will not overlap.

Harry Brown to Lead Speakers

There was a good turnout of last year's active members at the initial meeting of the Summerland Speakers Club, Tuesday night in the school library, where meetings will be held for this season.

There is annually room for seven or eight new members from a waiting list compiled during each year. The first meeting of the year for instruction will be held next Tuesday, when the night of meetings will be definitely set.

Walter M. Wright was entrusted with the duty of contacting the possible new members, C. V. Nesbitt and Dr. R. C. Palmer with the demonstration of the first instructional address. The program for the first two months will be drawn up by E. E. Bates, T. Davis and G. Ryman.

At the election of officers the following were chosen: Hon. president, Dr. A. W. Vanderburgh; president, Harry Brown; secretary, George Ryman; treasurer, Art. Higgs; librarian, C. Stent.

The meeting was under chairmanship of last year's president, J. Mayne.

Guide News

1st Company
 Last meeting of the 1st Summerland Girl Guide Company was held on Wednesday, Nov. 7. The meeting opened with inspection, the Hepatics winning five points.

After inspection a game on the knowledge of birds was played with the Forget-me-nots winning five points, the Hepatics and Pimpernels tying for second with three points each and the Buttercups just with one point.

Patrol Corners were set up with India as the subject. Mrs. Durick and Jill Sanborn judged them, giving the Buttercups first with five points and the Hepatics second with three points. Patrol corners were good this week.

We would like to thank Mrs. Durick very much for attending our meeting to help with the badges. Cocoa and cookies were served at campfire by three of the Guides.

It was decided at campfire which Guides would sell poppies on Saturday, Nov. 10 and we were told about the parade to the cenotaph on Remembrance Day.

There was a court of honor at the home of Mrs. E. Blagborne on Tuesday, Nov. 13 after school. The meeting closed with Taps.

COUNCIL MONTHLY ACCOUNTS

Accounts totalling $28,993.98 were passed for payment at Tuesday's council meeting.

SCOUT NEWS

1st Summerland Troop

At Tuesday's meeting the troop received a visit from Mr. D. L. Southworth, district commissioner, Boy Scouts Association, who presented King Scout certificates to Richard Blewett, George Brake and Geoffrey Solly. He reminded them that Scouting did not stop there but went on to further achievements, such as the bushman's thong and many other badges to prepare a Scout for superior citizenship.

The requirements for the carpenter, handyman's and master-at-arms badges were discussed and it is hoped that there will be a lot of boys winning these badges in the next few weeks.

There has been rather too much lateness in attending meetings lately, and parents are asked to try to see that their boys arrive at Scout meetings at 7 p.m. sharp. Also, in order for troop meetings to be smart, it is necessary to wear full uniform (excepting shorts during the winter months).

This next Tuesday there will be an "At Home" at the Youth Centre and the Scouts have been asked to provide some home-made candy for sale. The Scouts will also be putting on a stunt along with other groups using the Youth Centre.

2nd Summerland Troop

At the last troop meeting, we had instruction for the first part, knots taken by ASM Van Driel and the Morse code by SM Whitmore.

SM Whitmore announced that we were to sell poppies on Saturday, Nov. 10. There was a good turnout for it. On Sunday, Nov. 11, there were 9 Scouts out of a possible 19. I think we should be able to do better than that. He also announced that there would be 4 or 5 Scouts from 1st and 2nd Summerland and 1st, 2nd and 3rd Penticton Troops who are going in a cavalcade to Greenwood, where they will visit the all-Japanese troop.

The second part of the meeting was taken by ASM Van Driel. It was mostly of new games.

Notices: Duty patrol, Nov. 16—Cougars. Please be there early and with running shoes.

All parents are invited and asked to attend this affair from 7:30 to 9:30 on Tuesday, Nov. 20.

Notices—Court of honor meeting Monday, Nov. 19, 8 p.m. at Youth Centre. Troop meeting at 7 p.m. sharp, Tuesday, Nov. 20. Duty patrol, Eagles.

TEEN TOWN

Last week the dance was altogether a big flop. If there isn't any more interest among the kids, Teen Town will fold up for awhile. Next week there isn't going to be any dance.

Don't forget the Kootenay Bowling league. If you want to bowl on this league, contact one of the Teen Town members.

CUB CALLS

1st Summerland Pack
 No meeting this week, due to Remembrance Day banquet. We would like all boys to bring ropes for knot-tying. Each boy is to bring candy for sale at Family Night next Tuesday. Next meeting, Nov. 19, 8:30 p.m. sharp. Duty-Six, Yellow Six.—Akela.

On Remembrance Day, Winnie Smith placed a wreath on the cenotaph in memory of the soldiers who died in both wars.

Mrs. C. I. Hadlow of London, Eng., is visiting her mother, Mrs. H. Mellor and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Coggan, Giant's Head road. Mrs. Hadlow is going to the coast today and will return to spend a week here before returning to her home in time for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rand of Vancouver visited over the weekend at the home of Mrs. Rand's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Boyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walsh and their baby son, Kirk, of Mission, B.C., were Armistic weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Denike.

Bank's Safe Sinks; Hack Gets Holiday

Mr. Dennis Hack who has been visiting at the home of his mother, Mrs. E. Hack, left on Wednesday evening's train for the coast to go up the coast to Kemano, B.C. Kemano is about sixty miles from Kitimat, and Mr. Hack has been transferred from the staff of the Royal Bank, Penticton, to this new centre where a branch is being opened.

He started out last week for Kemano, but was recalled as the safe which was being shipped north to the new branch had sunk with the barge on which it was being freighted up the coast.

He was told to take a week's holiday until another one was sent.

Thirty Turn out For Legion Auxiliary

Attendance picked up at the Legion LA regular meeting on Thursday evening, Nov. 8, when about thirty were present in the parish hall.

The business part was transacted quickly so that practice for the concert part of the Armistic Day banquet program could proceed.

The president, Mrs. Frank Young was in the chair.

The Review has received word this week from Mrs. M. Wurst in Detroit, Mich., that her sister, Mrs. Anna Wolfe, well-known Summerland resident who is spending the winter in the eastern U.S. city, recently underwent an operation for appendicitis. She returned from hospital on November 5 and is evidently making a satisfactory recovery.

Evidence in First Part of Clark Trial

Unlike the preliminary hearing, main witnesses in the murder trial at the Vernon Assizes are being heard first. Exhibits will be entered at the latter part of the proceedings. Details of evidence submitted Tuesday afternoon, and Wednesday morning are submitted herewith.

Opening Afternoon

There was the usual crowd of spectators in assize court Tuesday afternoon when the trial of George F. Clark was commenced. Amongst them was one woman, who calmly knitted from the opening of the trial at 2:30 p.m., to adjournment at 5:15 six feet above Clark, on trial for his life.

Mr. Lindsay briefly related the incidents leading up to the alleged crime, which occurred in Summerland on June 30, 1951.

Tavender, born in Calgary in 1908, was 43 years old at the time of his death. Mr. Lindsay described him as being 6 feet, one inch in height; 150 pounds in weight, and not in good health at the time of his death. He had, so crown counsel explained, circulatory trouble in his legs, and it was painful for him, ('Tavender) to walk. Mrs. Tavender is sister of the accused, the former Isabel Margaret Clark.

Left Home Three Times
Mr. Lindsay said the marriage had not been happy. On three occasions Mrs. Tavender had left the family home—the last time in May, 1951, and was living apart from her husband at the time of his death.

Mr. Lindsay described in great detail the location of Giant's Head road, in Summerland.

Tavender's residence was a two-storey stucco house, facing Giant's Head road. A wooden V-shaped flume runs north and south. There is a drop of 100 feet to Happy Valley road, which runs parallel to Giant's Head road at a lower level. Mrs. Tavender was living at the time of her husband's death, at the home of Alex Steven.

On the night of her husband's death, she drove to the business section of Summerland in a 1949 coupe. She took out the keys and crossed to the west side of Granville Street, and entered the Westland Bar, when her attention was called to the fact that her husband was standing outside.

Then, Mr. Lindsay continued, Mrs. Tavender went out of the building by the back way to the house where she was staying, telephoned and located her brother, the accused, who had been moving some furniture to a summer cottage on the lake front.

The accused, in company with two others, proceeded to the Steven house.

They drove about from one place to another, and arrived at the Tavender residence at about 9 p.m., when the accused is alleged to have directed an H. Kuhar to drive down Happy Valley Road.

Later, Clark proceeded to the Tavender residence. Soon afterwards, Kuhar is said to have testified he heard a shot, then more shots, when the accused is said to have called Kuhar.

Kuhar found the back door open; a gun broken on a landing. He descended the bank to Happy Valley road, where he found Tavender on the ground, bleeding profusely. He was taken to hospital about 11 p.m., and died between midnight and 1 a.m.

From there, Mr. Lindsay said, the story would be related through evidence.

The first witness was R. F. Angus, Summerland fruitgrower, and an engineer with 25 years experience, he told the court.

Mr. Angus identified blue prints of both storeys of the Tavender home, and of the location of the flume line on the east side of the residence.

He said that the entry into the house was by steps; there was a hall door to the right; a den; and between the hall and den, stairs. He further described the interior of the house, and said the entrance faced west towards the Giant's Head road.

Outbuildings included a garage, chicken house and woodshed, Mr. Angus testified, and said the home was located next to L. G. Perry's residence, on the south.

After cross-examination by Mr. Aikins, witness revealed that the height of the top of the V-flume was 28 to 31 inches from the ground.

Harry Davis, Penticton photographer, identified pictures taken by himself of the Tavender house, and of Tavender, taken at the Penticton Funeral home on the evening of July 3.

Mr. McInnis objected to the introduction of the latter photographs, on the grounds that they did not fairly indicate the condition of the dead man following his death, as a post-mortem examination had been performed. The condition of the body of the deceased, as depicted in the photographs, would be prejudicial to the accused, Mr. McInnis contended.

Mr. Justice Clynne agreed that the photographs in question would be marked for identification.

"And we will see what the doctor has to say," he opined.

"Just so long as the jury does not see them," Mr. McInnis said.

John Phillip Stocks, commercial photographer, of Penticton, took 10 photographs soon after the alleged crime. But in cross examination by Mr. McInnis, Mr. Stocks admitted they were taken "under the direction of the police".

Court was adjourned until 10:30 a.m. Wednesday and the jury is confined to Orchardleigh Lodge, Coldstream.

Wednesday Morning

The pale, slight, fair, troubled-looking widow of Harold Oliver Tavender, and sister of George Frederick Clark, on trial for his life, sprang a bombshell into assize court Wednesday morning, when, in tones barely above a whisper, she said that her husband "had had an intense hatred for George, (accused), and that if he, (George) ever set foot on his property again, he would kill him."

Also new evidence was testimony by Mrs. Tavender that her husband had hallucinations. On one occasion, his widow said, he had drawn her attention, while they were at breakfast, to "a caravan of cars on Giant's Head Road, Summerland."

"There were no cars," she said. On another occasion, witness continued, Tavender was apparently talking to someone in the basement.

"He thought he was talking to his brother Andrew. He was not there at all," she declared.

Mrs. Tavender was in the dock for two hours. In a faint, sometimes faltering voice, she told of trouble in the home with her husband which began before their nine-year-old son was born.

Answering crown counsel Mr. Lindsay, Mrs. Tavender said her husband did little work in later years. Although he was "quite able," his health was not very good. He was in Summerland hospital in 1951, with "what the doctors said was alcohol poisoning".

Her brother, the accused, she continued, was a veteran of the air force. He had seen service overseas, and returned approximately 1944. He had played basketball and baseball in Summerland.

Fear of Bodily Harm

As she unfolded her tragic tale of marital misery, and fear of bodily harm from her husband, the proverbial pin could have been heard to drop in the court room. Mrs. Tavender frequently moistened her lips, but remained outwardly collected.

On June 30 last, Mrs. Tavender said she took her green coupe down town and parked behind Butler and Walden's hardware store. She took the car keys with her into the Westland Bar to get some milk, "when the proprietor tactfully told me that my husband was watching me from the other side of the street," she testified.

She left the building by the rear door. Here Mr. Justice Clynne queried Mrs. Tavender as to the exact date when she last left her husband, to which the witness replied: "May 19".

Upon leaving the "Bar", Mrs. Tavender said she went to the Steven place, and from the window of this home, she saw her husband "in and out of the car three times."

Thereupon, witness continued, she decided to telephone her brother. The time was approximately 8:30 to 9 p.m. She located her brother at the residence of Henry Kuhar. The latter and the accused proceeded to the Tavender residence in a blue Chevrolet coupe, belonging to a brother-in-law of the accused.

Mrs. Tavender said she had given the keys of her own car to her brother. Answering a question: "He knew where it was because I told him on the telephone." She could see, she said, her husband's head and shoulders a short distance from the car.

Mrs. Tavender then went to the Kuhar residence. The time then was shortly after 9 p.m.

Here the narrative of the happenings of June 30 stopped, and Mrs. Tavender told the court of her relations with her husband since they were married on November 27, 1940.

She had had no personal communication with Tavender since they parted on May 19.

She left him on each of the three occasions in her testimony "because I could stand his drinking", and general behaviour. The first time she left Tavender was in 1945, the second in 1949.

Each time she returned because he "made promises of a change". Mrs. Tavender said that the last time she had seen a shotgun in the home at the beginning of 1950: "I can't recall seeing one since, but it could easily have been there."

Bat Was in One Piece

The witness identified a broken, splintered baseball bat, as being similar to a bat owned by her son: "but when I saw it last it was all in one piece".

Kuhar, she said, had visited the family home once or twice during the past year.

Mrs. Tavender identified a light-colored, blood-stained shirt as being worn by her brother "at that time". She said she thought her husband wore a blue jacket and grey trousers the night of June 30. She further identified a blood-stained handkerchief by the initial "H" as belonging to her husband, and also a necktie.

Mr. Lindsay then produced photographs which showed a screen on a bedroom window on the second storey. One of the exhibits was a screen with split and broken netting, "which looked similar", to the one shown in the photograph, said Mrs. Tavender. A curtain was also shown.

Remembrance Day Banquet Has Lively Program

The annual Remembrance Day banquet held by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion was attended by about one hundred and thirty on Monday evening, Nov. 12, in the Youth Centre.

Mrs. Frank Young, LA president, gave the opening speech of welcome which was followed by singing "O, Canada".

A moment's silence in memory of Fallen Comrades was observed immediately after. A blessing was asked by Mr. E. E. Bates.

Following the banquet Legion president, Dr. C. G. Woodbridge proposed the toast to The King. Capt. A. M. Temple, 1st vice-president gave the toast to the Fallen Comrades and Mr. Ben Newton sang "In Flanders Fields" in further thought of those who paid the supreme sacrifice. Miss Ruth Dale was accompanist.

A gracious gesture was made when Mrs. Young presented flowers to the LA honorary president, Mrs. Dale.

Dr. Woodbridge thanked the LA for arranging the banquet for veterans and their partners.

Mr. Dave Jack pleased the audience with an interesting and humorous talk on Canada At War, in his entertaining way.

After the formalities of the banquet, members of the Legion branch and of the Auxiliary entertained with a variety program. Included in this was the Hands And Feet skit, amusingly done; a Kitchen Band; a Square Dance; and ending with a Canteen Sing-Song featuring solos and other music.

E. E. Bates contributed a monologue and J. Betuzzi gave two cornet solos.

A dance was held in the IOOF hall with music by the Mountain Rascals.

Table decorations were flowers and flags, and the excellent dinner was prepared and served by members of the Hospital Auxiliary who are well known for their capable catering.

Mrs. W. Milne thanked the caterers for the LA.

St. Paul's Stands Out Because of Air Raid Damage

Highlights of her recent trip to Britain were given to members of the Women's Institute on Friday afternoon, Nov. 9, in the parish hall by Mrs. E. R. Hookham.

While there she visited the Festival of Britain and saw the South Bank Exhibition in London.

Since the weather was pleasant during her stay she was able to see much of London. She said that bomb damage was still quite noticeable, and most evident around St. Paul's, so that now a wonderful view of the cathedral is obtained where it was formerly hidden. It is thought that this space may be left. It was mentioned that the high altar in the church is not yet repaired.

The visitor noted that in many places one storey buildings have been put up in bombed areas, replacing many old, higher buildings.

Mrs. Hookham thought that people on the streets were well dressed. She found the food situation fair, excepting in the case of meats and fats which are in great shortage. She spent considerable time at Stratford-On-Avon, where shops trade on the name of Shakespeare. To her amusement in a meat shop she saw an enormous piece of meat labelled, Midsommer Night's Dream; an ordinary before-the-war order called, As You Like It, and the ordinary weekly ration having a ticket, Much Ado About Nothing.

Mrs. Hookham also enjoyed a week in Edinburgh where she stayed with an uncle and aunt of Mrs. Sandy Fenwick, and attended the Musical Festival, hearing the New York Philharmonic orchestra, seeing ballet and various plays. She visited the zoo, there, the Botanic Gardens, Holyrood Palace and The Castle. She described the magnificent war memorial in Auld Reekie.

As a point of common interest she mentioned attending Women's Institutes in Warwickshire and in Wales.

Mrs. Hookham told of various people with Summerland connections whom she saw while overseas, and all of the members had vicarious pleasure in her story of some of the things she did and saw while in Britain.

Baptist Young People Meet Here

Afternoon session began at 2:30 with a song service and special numbers. Mr. Ron King of Kaledon took the afternoon devotions and Mr. Blake Milne showed interesting films.

A delicious supper was served in the church hall, and the evening service began at 7:15 when Mrs. D. O. Knipfel was the interesting speaker.

Mrs. F. Haddrell and Mrs. Wm. Beattie were in charge of needlework, with Mrs. C. Clark and Mrs. Nicholson, Sr. selling aprons.

At the home cooking stall, Mrs. Blanchette, Mrs. A. E. Calder and Mrs. O. Eden were busy, while Miss Marion Cartwright and Mrs. Gladys Chaddburn had the miscellaneous counter with its several surprises.

Tiny yellow 'mums decorated the tea tables at which a dainty tea was served by Mrs. C. Barr, Mrs. Wade, Sr. and Mrs. E. Hack.

The bazaar was a successful one.

WHEN DID YOU LAST THINK ABOUT A LOAN FOR FARM IMPROVEMENT?

During the past few years thousands of farmers across Canada have made good use of Farm Improvement Loans. They have increased both the value of their farms and their own incomes. Probably there have been times when you thought about applying for such a loan your self. But when did you last check up on the idea? Conditions and your prospects may have changed since then.

The majority of Farm Improvement Loans have been made to help farmers buy machinery of one kind or another. But there are many other good purposes for a loan, such as the improvement of farm-houses and outbuildings, or the installation of electricity, drainage and water systems. Again, these loans can cover the purchase of livestock and the planting of fruit trees.

The cost of a Farm Improvement Loan is reasonable too—five per cent a year—and it is repayable in instalments especially suited to the seasonal nature of your income as a farmer.

Why not think the idea over again, now? Then, if you feel there is something in the FIL plan for you, drop into the West Summerland branch of the Bank of Montreal, and have a word with Ivor Bolly, the manager. You'll find him very helpful.—Adv.

Miss G. Felker Sixth in Close Packing Contest

Miss Gerda Felker of Walters Ltd., Summerland, placed sixth in the third annual Canadian apple packing competition held in Penticton last week.

In quality of pack, she was third, but her speed did not equal that of a number of other packers.

Winner, who will go to Yakima to compete in the world's championship contest, later in the month was Mrs. Beth Garlinge, of Kaleden, and formerly of Peachland.

Mrs. Garlinge had a total point score of 93.27, with 68.79 for quality points and 24.48 for speed points.

Mrs. W. Benoit of Penticton had 72.45 points for quality pack and 20.01 for speed, for a total of 92.46, to place second.

Miss Felker had 71.91 points for quality pack, only exceeded by Mrs. W. Benoit and Miss Neena Sbinney of Oliver, who placed fourth. Miss Felker's speed points were only 19.14, however, to give her a total of 91.05.

All four packinghouses in Summerland were represented in the competition, which is attracting more and more interest throughout the valley each year it is held.

Okanagan Federated Shippers Assn. is responsible for the staging of the competition, which attracted 62 entries from all parts of the valley.

Placing of Summerland entrants in the contest follows: Mrs. Flora Bergstrom, Summerland Co-op, 88.39; 15th; Mrs. Lena Wilson, B.C. Shippers Ltd. 87.66, 19th; Miss Yuriko Jomori, Occidental Fruit Co. Ltd., 87.18, 22nd; Miss Fern Turigan, Occidental, 86.17, 28th; Mrs. Rita Bonthoux, Summerland Co-op, 84.42, 35th; Mrs. Jean Griffin, Walters Ltd., 83.44, 42nd; Mrs. Alma Lekel, Occidental, 83.28, 44th; Miss Jean Hanson, Co-op, 81.96, 52nd.

Zoning Bylaw to Be Ready Soon

Reeve C. E. Bentley gave the Summerland Board of Trade monthly meeting at the IOOF hall last Thursday evening a brief resume of the recent annual conference of the South Okanagan region of the Canadian Community Planning Assn.

In his remarks, His Worship declared that Summerland's proposed zoning bylaw will soon be ready for presentation to the citizens.

This announcement was greeted with enthusiasm by the trade board, which had sponsored its submission more than two years ago.

One of the chief dangers to a fruit farming community such as Summerland is the cutting up of usable farm lands, Reeve Bentley said the community planning conference stressed and he expressed the hope that the zoning by-law would be able to curb such practices in the future.

Problems of ribbon development on the highways and the control of growth outside municipal areas were discussed at some length by the Penticton conference, he noted.

1951 Contracts For UK Apples Not Affected

Although it is considered that the new austerity program now being instituted in Great Britain will probably have an effect on future purchases, there is little likelihood that the existing contracts between the B.C. fruit industry and British buyers will be nullified.

This is the view of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. officials contacted last week.

Licences have been issued to Great Britain importers, dollar allocations made and the deal has progressed approximately to the half-way point, it is learned.

Some Already Left

When Prime Minister Churchill announced the new austerity program, 125,000 boxes of apples had already left Canada for the U.K. with around 500,000 boxes confirmed under "irrevocable credits established in Canada," A. K. Loyd declared in Kelowna last week.

B.C. has agreed to ship between 600,000 and 700,000 boxes of apples to the United Kingdom, and no contracts have been cancelled yet, Mr. Loyd stated.

"Some of our apples are already afloat and others will be moving in

March of Dimes Campaign Drive Starts Saturday

March of Dimes campaign in aid of the Crippled Children's hospital will get underway in Summerland, as well as the rest of the province, on Saturday, November 17.

Summerland Board of Trade has again accepted responsibility for this campaign in this district and Mr. T. McKay has agreed to chair the committee in charge.

E. E. Bates, 1950 chairman, will work on Mr. McKay's committee and will endeavor to interest the schools in this project which has been considered one of the worthwhile demands on the public purse of this province for some time.

No details of any special project being arranged by the trade board committee have been released yet.

substantial quantities quite shortly," he said. "It would not appear very likely that all these arrangements would be disrupted for the sake of retaining the comparatively small portion of the originally not very large allocation of dollars," he concluded.

This year's crop is away down from the bumper yield of 1950, and is now believed to be below the five million box mark.

Pranksters Mixed Salt with Sugar

Faces of the Westbank Junior Red Cross girls were extremely "red" for a time last Friday during the tea recess at the Okanagan regional Red Cross meeting which brought representatives from many parts of the coast as well as all portions of the Okanagan.

The first few persons who were served tea soon discovered that liberal quantities of salt had been mixed with the sugar . . . and immediately the blame was laid to the door of boyish pranksters on Hallowe'en.

Substitution was quickly made, but the girls could cheerfully have choked their young brothers.

North Okanagan Makes Highway Plea

VERNON—A delegation comprising Vernon, Westwood, Falkland and Armstrong boards of trade made a personal plea at Victoria on Friday to Hon. E. C. Carson, minister of public works, for immediate action on the stretch of Highway No. 97 from Armstrong to Vernon.

It also sought action on the completion of Highway No. 6 from O'Keefe's to Vernon on the Kamloops-Vernon section, and asked for positive information on the projected link between Highways 6 and 97, possibly along Otter Lake road at O'Keefe's.

Regional Red Cross Meeting Well Attended

All but three of the twelve Red Cross branches in the Okanagan region attended the annual fall meeting at George Pringle high school last Friday afternoon, with the regional representative, Mrs. W. S. Reeder of Penticton as chairman.

Among the provincial officers present from the coast were President William McDonnell, Commissioner Lt-Col. C. A. Scott, Vice-president Mrs. J. N. Mawer, Col. J. H. Swan, chairman of the blood transfusion service; and Mrs. A. G. Mercer, chairman of the women's work committee.

Mrs. W. H. H. Moffat, president of the Westbank unit of the Kelowna Red Cross branch, was mainly responsible for local arrangement which were well ordered.

Summerland was represented by Mrs. A. K. Elliott president and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh secretary, of the local Red Cross branch, and by Reeve C. E. Bentley and J. R. Armstrong, editor of The Review.

After Mrs. Moffat welcomed the visitors to Westbank, pointing out that through these meetings small local units can see their problems in relation to the larger problems of the province and nation, Mr. L. R. Stephens, president of the Kelowna Red Cross branch, extended a welcome on behalf of the host branch.

Mrs. Reeder urged representatives to take back a full report of the meeting's proceedings to their branches, while Col. Scott noted that a stenographic report would be forthcoming shortly.

"We pray there will not be a war," declared Mrs. Reeder, "yet we have need for courage, steady thinking and faith," as the international situation "was never more serious." The will to win is the ultimate bravery," she concluded.

Bob Foster, with loads of assurance, gave a report of the Junior Red Cross leadership training centre course he attended at Silver Creek Falls, near Salem, Ore., as one of two representatives from B.C.

The young Kelowna high school student, who is president of the Jr. Red Cross inter-high school council representing Rutland, Kelowna, Westbank and Summerland high schools; also detailed a number of methods used to raise funds through the Junior Red Cross to aid the crippled children's hospital.

Mr. Garrie, Westbank schools' staff member, supervisor of Junior Red Cross activities declared that two Westbank students received medical assistance through Junior Red Cross at Vancouver last year amounting to $8,000 in value.

This has proved a great incentive to Junior Red Cross work in his area, he told the meeting.

Blood Donor Subdepot May Open in Penticton

Possibility of the institution of an interior subdepot for the Red Cross blood transfusion service was announced to the Okanagan regional Red Cross meeting at Westbank on Friday afternoon by Col. W. G. Swan, chairman of the transfusion service on the provincial executive.

If the provincial executive is able to persuade the Canadian Red Cross Society of the need of this subdepot, it will probably be established in Penticton as the most central point in the interior, he declared.

Although cost of such a depot was labelled at $80,000 by the national executive, Col. Swan considered it could be instituted for $60,000 yearly.

Such a subdepot could be operated with a staff about two-thirds that of the main coast depot, or between 15 and 20 persons, Col. Swan considered.

The aim would be to have two units operating and thus obtain a much greater quantity of blood from this province, Col. Swan declared.

B.C. had been given a quota of 10,000 bottles of plasma for the defence forces and emergency civilian use this year but so far had only been able to supply 3,000 pints.

"It is regrettable we have not been able to supply, until the last two or three months, our own troops in Korea with plasma," Col. Swan noted. He placed at 50,000 pints the absolute maximum which could be obtained by the provincial Red Cross unit operating under present circumstances. An additional subdepot in the interior would be essential if an increase on this total is expected.

Before the Red Cross instituted its blood transfusion service, 7200 pints of blood was the normal allotment obtainable by hospitals in the province. In the first year the Red Cross service was brought into being this figure jumped to 24,000. In 1950 that figure had increased to 36,000 and this year the biggest increase has been shown, with an anticipated 44,000 pints by December 31.

Good Record for Valley In the Okanagan, the increase in blood donations had been relative to the rest of the province, he declared, giving the following figures for this area: 1st year, 1905; 2nd, 3287; 3rd, 3380; 4th, 3922; 5th, approximately 4800.

"I think that's a good record," Col. Swan observed, in thanking the people of the Okanagan for their generous response to the Red Cross appeal.

In organizing blood donor clinics, he pointed out that committees should be large enough so that they can cover the entire community as there are still a number of persons to whom the real meaning and benefit of the blood donor clinics has never been brought home.

Those who are definitely not interested in supporting this humanitarian effort should be wiped off the records of prospective blood donors as "there's no use wasting time on them," he advised Red Cross representatives.

That volunteer workers are the backbone of the Red Cross, was stressed by William McDonnell, provincial president, and former treasurer, whose remarks dealt mainly with the provincial budget.

However, a permanent staff is also necessary and he considered that these members do a valiant service for less money than they could claim in other types of employment.

Operation of outpost hospitals is a big drain on Red Cross resources and within a few weeks the Red Cross hospital at Terrace will be taken over by the community, thus relieving the B.C. division of one large monetary problem.

This year, the Red Cross in B.C. has spent $288,000 for provincial projects, while another $200,000 has been spent in national undertakings, including the blood transfusion service. This will leave a substantial sum to carry forward out of the provincial allotment of the money raised throughout Canada at the first of the year, he felt.

The various committees are doing everything in their power to stay within their budgets and still provide a service, Mr. McDonnell stressed in closing.

Shipments to Foreign Lands

Mrs. A. G. Mercer, chairman of the women's work committee, declared that eight shipments have gone overseas already and another is ready to leave Canada. Northern Europe, Lebanon and Greece are among the countries which have obtained these Red Cross benefits, Western Germany being benefited most.

She asked her audience to visualize the entire population of Canada crowded into a space about the size of New Brunswick and interspersed among the regular inhabitants, in considering the plight of millions of refugees in Western Germany.

A beautiful Canadian quilt will cover 4 grownups and 12 children, in that country, she had been told and a child which has one entire garment is well dressed.

Because of the need to cover children with some type of garment the Red Cross is eliminating wool to a large extent and is concentrating now on cotton garments. In this way, more can be made and a larger population clothed. Also, it is easier to wash cotton garments when there is practically no soap available. The budget is stretched farther in this manner.

Besides provincial commitments, B.C. division has also agreed to accept 20 percent of the women's work allocated by the national Red Cross society, as some of the provinces cannot cope with their ten percent share.

Also, every Canadian soldier in Korea will be given a pair of socks as a Christmas gift from the Red Cross, Mrs. Mercer emphasized.

Mrs. J. N. Mawer, in charge of Red Cross veterans' services, explained that her work is divided into hospital visiting, arts and crafts, veterans' welfare and Red Cross lodges.

Now, an important part of the work is meeting the returned soldiers from Korea. Most of these visits, to date, have been at 4 o'clock in the morning when a plane descends on a flight from Tokyo carrying wounded Canadians being repatriated to their homeland. She declared that 200 would be welcomed this week, back from the Korean fighting front.

Including five vets' hospitals, there are 12 hospitals in connection with veterans' work which the Red Cross visits regularly every week. The Red Cross also operates a film service for these hospitals and during the winter films are shown twice a week.

She told of the tremendous strides being made by the arts and crafts program which is essential for the diversion of the aged veterans of World War 1 who are becoming more frequent visitors to hospitals and institutions now.

Two toys made by veterans were presented to Their Royal Highnesses during their recent visit to the coast and the excellence of the work brought forth high praise, she noted.

Red Cross volunteers throughout the province were given an opportunity to see the princess and her husband at the Red Cross lodge, a triple line stretching clear out to Oak street, Mrs. Mawer described.

Before concluding, Mrs. Mawer declared that a five-year service stripe is to be made available soon for Red Cross volunteers who have been so faithful in their service to the cause.

Other speakers at the session were Mrs. Mary C. Allen, CBE, Kelowna, and Miss Joan Appleton, Penticton, who spoke on her experiences in London during the blitz.

Truck Loggers to Present Plan for Preventing Fires

Development of a more efficient fire prevention and forest protection plan will be featured at the Ninth Annual Convention of The Truck Loggers' Association, states J. W. Baikie, president.

"Fire is the greatest threat the industry has to face in achieving realistic forest management," he says. "There is little value in planting trees for future use if the means are not at hand to protect them, and mature timber, from controllable hazards, such as fire," he points out.

"The recent disastrous fire season, with its attending high losses in wages and production emphasizes the need for more adequate fire protection," he adds.

"Forest closures, which disrupt the whole economy, are not the whole answer to the problem, either," stated Baikie. "The key to the solution is, first, a prevention program to develop a deeply fire-conscious public. Secondly, a more efficient fire prevention organization, with more roads, lookouts, personnel, airplanes and tools," he concludes.

The Truck Loggers' annual convention will be held in Vancouver on January 16, 17 and 18.

Eastern Trust Has Penticton Firm as Agents

The Eastern Trust Company, with head office in Halifax is in its fifty-ninth year of business, having been incorporated in 1893. As one of the fourteen out of seventy Canadian trust companies incorporated under dominion charter, the special act of incorporation gives it power to carry on business throughout the dominion.

Initially capitalized at $200,000, its paid up capital has since been increased to $1,000,000, with a reserve fund of $600,000 being shown on the last financial statement. Assets under administration have shown consistent growth since incorporation, having risen to $48,623,524 by 1929, $62,486,720 by 1939 and now stand in excess of $110,000,000.

Business is now being conducted in eight of the ten provinces through twelve branches and two agencies. Within the last few years five new branches have been established, two being opened as recently as last year.

In 1950 the company commenced doing business in the province of Alberta through the acquisition of the Toole, Peet Trust Company in Calgary, while a new branch was established in Vancouver.

The last agency to be established is at Penticton, where the firm of O'Brian & Christian now acts as South Okanagan representatives.

The company has consistently followed a policy of appointing local advisory boards in each area where it is carrying on business. Such boards are selected with a view to obtaining the services of prominent businessmen in the community who, through their extensive business background, can advise and assist the company and local manager, particularly on problems peculiar to the area concerned.

The Vancouver advisory board is composed of: F. H. Clendinning, president, Empire Shipping Co. Ltd.; E. M. Farris, vice-president, MacMillan & Bloedel, and is under the chairmanship of N. R. Whittall, president of Ross Whittall Ltd.

A full time of trust company business as carried on by the company, and in its varied capacities acts as executor of estates by will appointment, trustee either by will appointment or trust agreement, financial agent and attorney, custodian of securities, mortgagee, stock transfer agent and trustee for bond issues and pension funds.

NOTES from PARLIAMENT HILL

(By O. L. JONES, MP for Yale)

I have often been asked the question as to what extent the Canadian Government is assisting the underprivileged nations of the world through the Colombo Plan and for the interest of numerous readers, I am quoting from Hansard of November 5.

Mr. MacInnis:
1. What was the amount of Canada's contribution to the Colombo plan for the current fiscal year?
2. (a) Which commonwealth countries participated in Canada's contribution; (b) to what amount; (c) for what projects?

Mr. Lesage:
1. $25 million.
2. (a) India and Pakistan. (b) Tentative allocation; India, $15 million; Pakistan, $10 million; (c) For India: $10 million for wheat; $5 million unallocated as yet but under negotiation. For Pakistan: Projects tentatively selected subject to domestic availabilities. (i) Some equipment for a colonization project in the Thal area of the Punjab in collaboration with the international bank (e.g. dump trucks, motors, pumps, etc.); (ii) Cement plant for Thal colonization project; (iii) Experimental livestock farm (jointly with Australia and New Zealand); (iv) Power pumps for irrigation project in East Bengal; (v) Harbour equipment and railway and marine workshop equipment; and (vi) Miscellaneous (probably chiefly electrical equipment and aluminum transmission wire).

The Department of Defence Production has set up a small industries division in the production branch of this department. It will have the following functions:
To gather and distribute information on prime contractors so that potential subcontractors may approach the prime contracting firms for possible subcontracts.
To make available to prime contractors information as to industrial capacities, particularly of the smaller firms.

To ensure that the smaller firms are properly listed for invitations to tender on all types of products they are making.
I mention this because one or two firms in this riding have inquired as to the possibility of securing defence contracts. Through this new division, they will be able to make an application for subcontracts, if they have the facilities, upon meeting the requirements of the larger contractors.

A charge made by Mr. Paul Gagnon, M.P., that French-Canadian troops were bearing the brunt of the fight in Korea was completely denied by the minister of national defence, Hon. Brooke Claxton who, in turn, provided statistics showing that, if anything, the French Canadian battalion had less severe losses than the other battalions taking part in the Korean affair.

He stated that charges of this kind did not assist in bringing about harmony in our racial relations in the Dominion of Canada. Mr. Gagnon has not withdrawn his remarks as he claims that all that he said was true and based on information given him by soldiers back from the Korean front.

A question was asked by Mr. Fulton as to the total cost of the renovated house now occupied by the prime minister. The answer was $590,136.56. Along with other members of the House, I have paid a visit to the prime minister's home and I was astounded at this high cost. The grounds covering an area of between two and three acres cost $58,978.83, for landscaping and improvement. The work was done on a fixed fee cost plus basis. The house is beautifully situated, which, of course, enhances the value of the property.

On November 5 I had an opportunity to speak in reply to the Speech from the Throne. I dealt partly with the request for an increase of 33% in veterans' pensions.

I also took up the matter of the operation of the farm loan board in the interior of British Columbia. I pointed out that under the Act, which I claimed is obsolete, the maximum value of any house and farm property is $3,600 and the total loan, both first and second mortgage, that can be made by the Canadian farm loan board is $6,000, or 60% of the assessed value of the property, if less than $9,000.

My argument was based on the facts that homes can no longer be built for $3,600 and the figure should be at least doubled. I was able to quote instances where the farm loan board, which is supposed to operate for the benefit of the farmer, making it easier for them to procure loans than through orthodox channels, has been turning down application for loans by some of our farmers in the tree fruit area.

Some of these farmers, according to the information that I have, although unable to satisfy the farm loan board of the security of their assets, were able to go to loan companies and orthodox banks and borrow the money required. While I feel the farm loan board should exercise caution in accepting mortgages, I believe that they should enter into the spirit of the act, as originally intended, that is, to help farmers in times of stress, when the ordinary borrowing channels have dried up.

The resolution which seeks to set up a committee to deal with price fixing at the retail level, was passed in the House. The committee set up will investigate the whole history of fixed retail prices. They will have power to call any group or organization before them to give evidence. Later, they will report their recommendations to the House for action.

Price controls, as a method of checking the rising cost of living seem to be out, as the Liberal members are solidly behind the cabinet in their opposition to any controls. I sincerely hope that the government will produce some alternative method to check this increasing inflation. So far, they have not offered any alternative.

ely denied by the minister of national defence, Hon. Brooke Claxton who, in turn, provided statistics showing that, if anything, the French Canadian battalion had less severe losses than the other battalions taking part in the Korean affair.

The grounds covering an area of between two and three acres cost $58,978.83, for landscaping and improvement. The work was done on a fixed fee cost plus basis. The house is beautifully situated, which, of course, enhances the value of the property.

On November 5 I had an opportunity to speak in reply to the Speech from the Throne. I dealt partly with the request for an increase of 33% in veterans' pensions.

I also took up the matter of the operation of the farm loan board in the interior of British Columbia. I pointed out that under the Act, which I claimed is obsolete, the maximum value of any house and farm property is $3,600 and the total loan, both first and second mortgage, that can be made by the Canadian farm loan board is $6,000, or 60% of the assessed value of the property, if less than $9,000.

My argument was based on the facts that homes can no longer be built for $3,600 and the figure should be at least doubled. I was able to quote instances where the farm loan board, which is supposed to operate for the benefit of the farmer, making it easier for them to procure loans than through orthodox channels, has been turning down application for loans by some of our farmers in the tree fruit area.

Some of these farmers, according to the information that I have, although unable to satisfy the farm loan board of the security of their assets, were able to go to loan companies and orthodox banks and borrow the money required. While I feel the farm loan board should exercise caution in accepting mortgages, I believe that they should enter into the spirit of the act, as originally intended, that is, to help farmers in times of stress, when the ordinary borrowing channels have dried up.

The resolution which seeks to set up a committee to deal with price fixing at the retail level, was passed in the House. The committee set up will investigate the whole history of fixed retail prices. They will have power to call any group or organization before them to give evidence. Later, they will report their recommendations to the House for action.

Price controls, as a method of checking the rising cost of living seem to be out, as the Liberal members are solidly behind the cabinet in their opposition to any controls. I sincerely hope that the government will produce some alternative method to check this increasing inflation. So far, they have not offered any alternative.

Local Pucksters Play First Game At Penticton Arena Next Sunday

Summerland's entry in the Commercial hockey league of the South Okanagan-Similkameen plays its first contest at the new Penticton memorial arena next Sunday afternoon at 2:45, Lawrence Rumball, local hockey club president, informed The Review yesterday.

Second practice session was held on Penticton arena ice Tuesday night and the team has been registered, Mr. Rumball states.

A league meeting to finalize plans for the season will be held tomorrow night.

Three Penticton teams and one Summerland squad will comprise this commercial loop, while games are also being scheduled with Princeton and Hedley or Copper Mountain teams to round out the schedule. Games against the Similkameen squads will be exhibition only and will not count in the league standing, it is understood.

Dick Steininger is back with the Summerland squad which is comprised entirely of local residents, with no imports of any kind.

Coach will be Bill Fell, a newcomer to Summerland who was prominent in hockey circles at Salmon Arm.

Those who are registered with the Summerland squad are Douglas Wakefield, George Pohlmann, Andrew Utterhagen, Fred Kato, Leslie Howard, Johnny Croft, Norman (Rosie) Campbell, Don Cruickshanks, George Taylor, Bill Eyre, Al Hooker, Alfred Kluck, Paul Roberge, Sam Imayoshi, David Stevenson, Gordon Stein and Barney Furuya.

B.C. Chamber is Given Approval

Summerland Board of Trade has placed its seal of approval on the broad outline of the plan to establish a B.C. Chamber of Commerce which will be the voice of the business men throughout the province.

Delegates from all trade boards are being urged to attend organization meetings being held in Vancouver on November 23 and 24.

At last Thursday's trade board monthly meeting in the IOOF hall, Walter M. Wright reported for a committee which had studied the proposed constitution of the B.C. Chamber and informed members that the committee findings had been favorable.

As a consequence, Summerland trade board voted unanimously in favor of the proposal which will do away with the B.C. Council of Associated Boards of Trade and substitute the new organization which will utilize the facilities of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce located at the coast.

Field Secretary L. G. Ercoyd of the Canadian Chamber will be the office manager of the B.C. Chamber if present plans materialize later this month.

After a welcome from Mayor Fred J. Hume and Ralph D. Baker, Vancouver board president, delegates on Friday, Nov. 23, will hear an address by Stu Keate, publisher of the Victoria Colonist.

Hon. Byron Johnson, B.C. premier, will be feature speaker at the charter dinner meeting Friday evening.

Rev. William Hills, well-known vicar of Cadboro Bay, Victoria, will address the closing luncheon on Saturday.

Car Hurtles Into Tree On Sandhill

Four Summerland district residents were hospitalized Saturday night as the result of a spectacular car crash on the Sandhill road when a car driven by James Ivan McKenzie failed to negotiate a left-hand turn and crashed into a fruit tree in the N. O. Solly orchard.

McKenzie was in control of the car as it proceeded down the Sandhill road. So far, no explanation for the accident has been given, as R.C. MP Constable I. G. Thorsteinson has been called to Vernon this week in connection with the fall assays and has not been able to investigate the accident fully.

Pinned in the car but the least hurt of all the passengers was Wendell Johnson, who was able to return to his home without hospitalization, although he suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Joe Royer, a passenger, broke his leg in the crash and all other passengers received numerous lacerations and bruises but no other bones were broken. Besides Driver McKenzie and Joe Royer there were the latter's brother and sister, Louis Royer and Florence Royer. Louis was able to leave hospital after receiving medical treatment, but the other three remained there over the weekend.

The car is practically a total loss.

Hoopsters to Hold Annual Meet at Kelowna Sunday

Annual meeting of the Interior Basketball Association is being held in Kelowna this weekend at the Royal Anne hotel, according to advice received from Andy Bennie, Penticton, perennial president of the IBA and vice-president of the B.C. Basketball Assn.

Each member club is allowed two voting delegates and any others interested in the welfare of the hoop game in the interior are welcome to sit in on the annual meeting, Mr. Bennie advises.

At presstime it had not been learned who would represent the Summerland hoopsters at this session.

Summerland to Have Separate Pages in Classified Section

M. J. Conroy, superintendent of the Okanagan Telephone Co., came to Summerland last week after Summerland Retail Merchants' Assn. and the Board of Trade registered complaints regarding the proposed classified section in the company's new telephone directory setup.

It had been proposed that Penticton and Summerland classified listings would be lumped together in a "Yellow Pages" section which would include all business firms in the Summerland-Penticton-Naramata-Okanagan Falls-Kaleden district.

Summerland representatives, however, protested against this move and were successful in having the valley-wide company agree to a separate classified listing section for Summerland alone.

President Cecil Wade and Mel Quommun of the retail merchants' group and Lorne Perry, board of trade secretary discussed the proposal with Mr. Conroy when he visited here. Reeve C. E. Bentley had also expressed his views to Mr. Conroy over long distance telephone.

At Thursday's board of trade meeting, President J. R. Armstrong expressed the board's gratification at being of assistance to the retail merchants and other businessmen of the community.

FISHING

A few of the hardy trollers are still catching fish on Okanagan lake. No big ones yet; but up to 2 pounds.

White fish are really on now and the boys are making some good catches. However, you have to know the technique, or you are likely to come back without any fish.

HUNTING

Still some duck shooting around the big lake and James lake. However, most of the upper lakes are frozen and there are no birds there.

Moose are still coming in to town but from all reports it is getting tough hunting, with lots of snow and crusted. Last report of the kill at Cache Creek check station was over 1700 of these animals.

Deer have been getting a little harder to shoot in the past week, most likely because of the big kill of bucks so far and because of the great number of hunters in the hills. The main herd is down now except for strays, but reports of deer in fair numbers still persist.

Each hunter still has a good chance for his deer yet, so he shouldn't be too worried.

I hate being a spoil sport, but with the number of hunters out in the hills let's be sure we know what we are shooting at before we pull the trigger. No hunting accident in Summerland if possible. It only takes a little caution to make this possible.

Summerland Loses To Keremeos 32-27; School Teams Beaten

Summerland senior hoopsters lost their first encounter of the season at Keremeos Tuesday night by a narrow 32-27 margin. At half-time the Similkameen lads were ahead 12-6 but in the final twenty minutes the apple knockers more than held their own.

Chuck Aikin was topscorer for the losers, garnering an even ten markers. Don Nesbitt had six to his credit, while Lionel Guidi added four more. Bill Clark and Sandy Jomori each had three points and Leighton Nesbitt contributed one foul goal.

Last Saturday, three Summerland Bluebird high school cage teams travelled to Keremeos and each received a defeat at the hands of the Keremeos teams.

Vehicles Badly Damaged on Highway

Motor vehicles driven by L. L. Kerry of Kelowna and Frank Amos Crawford of Penticton met on the narrow section of Okanagan Highway No. 97 about 1 1/2 miles south of the Antlers at about 10 o'clock Monday evening, with a great deal of damage to both vehicles.

Kerry was proceeding north and Crawford south when the two cars met almost head on. The fronts and left sides of both vehicles were badly damaged, with estimated cost of repair running to several hundred dollars.

No one was injured despite the severity of the collision.

cillors to take another look at the municipal office right then and there and tell him where people could be handled. It was also pointed out that those who come to pay their electric and water rates would probably be inconvenienced.

Tempers rose shortly when Councillor Atkinson accused Reeve Bentley of opposing the plan "because you have a sore peeve because it (municipal hall) was defeated. We have to look at this from a long range view," he believed.

"I don't say pass it up forever, just for this year," opined Mr. Stewart.

There was more talk of inconveniencing ratepayers at the municipal office because of the added congestion.

"A lot of taxpayers didn't think of the inconvenience of the municipal staff when they turned it (municipal hall) down," was Councillor Tait's thought at this juncture, said with a good deal of heat.

"As far as I'm concerned I'm through with it," he added, in reference to suggestions that the municipal hall bylaw be re-submitted.

Discussion veered to discussions of reasons why the municipal hall plan was turned down. Councillor Atkinson referred to one group who thought they should have obtained a better deal on domestic water, and voted against the hall plan in protest.

Councillor Holmes suggested another group didn't have electric light and wouldn't vote for a new hall until they obtained this necessary adjunct to their daily existence.

Gordon Smith declared these weren't legitimate excuses for turning down the hall plan but the two councillors insisted that some persons' judgment was swayed because of the inconveniences they are put to in other lines.

There followed a discussion on the electric light policy regarding lengthy extensions.

"You would have to change the whole policy," was Reeve Bentley's reply to Councillor Holmes' suggestions.

"Then change the policy," the latter retorted.

"Then you're going to break down our whole system," was Clerk Smith's rejoinder.

Councillor Atkinson closed this phase of the discussion by pointing out to Councillor Holmes that he did not have the whole picture of these sought-for extensions but thought that some deal could still be worked out.

Both Councillors Atkinson and

Voting date will be Saturday, December 15, if a poll is necessary. Today the annual court of revision on the voters' list is being conducted at the municipal hall.

National Jaycee Officer in Valley

President E. F. Weeks and Past President John Bennest, of the Summerland Junior Chamber of Commerce went to Kelowna on Tuesday to meet and hear National Vice-president Roger Flummer, felt of Calgary at the Kelowna Golf and Country club.

Also present for this valley-wide gathering which saw Jaycees from Kamloops, Vernon, Penticton and Oliver also in attendance were Bob Innes, Kamloops, provincial president and Clare Way, Penticton, district councillor and B.C. vice-president.

Holmes thought that the reversal of the hall bylaw had shaken the council and probably would do the latter body some good in the final analysis.

Reeve Bentley pointed out at this stage that Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith was just about ready to resign his post when he came to work on Monday morning following result of the voting.

Again Councillor Tait took up the subject of the hall vote, stating that no one had talked against it to him before the vote but there was lots of criticism after the voting took place.

And he termed the criticism as just plain "stupid".

To Councillor Atkinson's view that "lack of knowledge" had created the adverse vote, Councillor Tait replied not lack of knowledge but just "lack of intelligence".

But as the discussion subsided, Councillor Tait agreed to throw in his lot with Holmes and Atkinson in favor of accepting the licence issuing proposal, provided it could be worked in the municipal office.

Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith replied reasonably that "we just work for you. You give us the job and we will have to try and do it."

As a consequence, all councillors agreed to accepting the plan, with details of its working arrangement being left to the clerk to work out. Probably the council chamber will be used for issuance purposes to relieve congestion at the narrow, main counter.

Evidence

ilarily identified by the witness, Mr. Lindsay then elicited the information from Mrs. Tavender that during the course of her marital troubles, she had called in the police in April, 1951, "because my husband threatened me with a butcher knife".

The crown counsel then produced a pale blue blood-stained shirt: "That my husband owned"; also an air gun, the property, witness said, of her husband, and kept in the garage.

It was noticeable that Mrs. Tavender did not once refer to Tavender by his Christian name; it was always "my husband".

Commencing cross-examination, Harold W. McInnes, K.C., introduced photographs of the interior of the Tavender home, one of which the witness said was a picture of "my own bedroom". Mr. McInnes pointed out, to her a broken bed-head. This, she testified, occurred after the butcher-knife incident in the spring of 1951.

"One morning about 3 a.m., I was asleep. My husband came into my room from across the hall, and pulled the bed around. The bed collapsed.

A pane in a French door in the living room was smashed when Tavender "threw a child's toy at me". Bookcases with glass doors located each side of a fireplace had broken panes, from the same reason.

Acts of Violence

"You told Mr. Lindsay that you couldn't put up with your husband's drinking and violence," Mr. McInnes said to Mrs. Tavender, who replied that the "violence commenced shortly after we were married."

When she was carrying their child, she said, he struck me and blackened my eye. Answering Mr. McInnes, she admitted she was often bruised.

"He threw a shot gun at me once, but it cracked the coffee table in the front room."

Mr. McInnes: "Your husband started drinking to excess shortly after you were married. He was known as an alcoholic?" To which Mrs. Tavender assented.

Mr. McInnes asked Mrs. Tavender if it were not correct that her husband was convicted on a charge of drunken driving in 1947? Mrs. Tavender said it was and that he "went out of his mind" when he was serving his jail sentence, when he was transferred to Essondale for 72 days, after being certified by doctors that his condition warranted this treatment.

"He was released shortly before Christmas in 1947, was he not? How did he arrive home?" Mr. McInnes asked.

Mrs. Tavender said he returned on an early morning train; that he was intoxicated when he arrived at the house, and that he was no different in behaviour.

She then told of her husband's hallucinations on two occasions. Again answering Mr. McInnes, she said her husband had never worked his orchard; he either hired help or operated on a share-crop basis.

"To what extent, if any, has your brother George intervened in your married life?" Mr. McInnes asked. Mrs. Tavender replied: "Three times". The first occasion was at a dance when Tavender had been drinking. The accused saw Tavender strike his wife, when "he intervened and took my part".

On one of the three occasions when Mrs. Tavender left her husband, the accused and their father had come to the house to help move her personal belongings.

"My husband's feeling towards George was one of intense hatred. He said if George ever set foot on the property again, he would kill him."

Mrs. Tavender said she had consulted Mr. Aikins, of Penticton, in May with regard to a settlement and support (from her husband). Tavender's counsel was Mr. Christian, "who prosecuted for the crown at the preliminary hearing," said Mr. McInnes. No settlement had been made as at June 30.

Further enlarging upon her unhappy life: "My husband was almost inhuman in his acts of violence," Mrs. Tavender said. When he was in a fit of rage, or drunk, he would pull the telephone wires off the walls, she said. He would kick doors open.

"He was hard on the furniture, and everything else," she said, as Mr. McInnes wound up his cross examination.

Mr. Lindsay, in re-examination, drew from the witness the fact that the two days' of hallucinations she had described (in 1950) had never reappeared, and that Mrs. Tavender had signed a document for her husband's release from Essondale.

After the threat against the accused in 1949, Mrs. Tavender, answering Mr. Lindsay, said she didn't "think he came on the property again after that time."

Vol. 47, No. 6

West Summerland, B.C., Thursday, November 22, 1951

Hundred Thousand Xmas Tree Objective in This Area Will be Exceeded

When cutting concludes about next Monday or Tuesday, more than 100,000 Christmas trees will have been brought into Summerland ready for delivery to box cars with destinations generally far south in the continent.

An industry which will have left more than $25,000 in this area during the late fall is coming to a conclusion next week and from all reports it has been extremely successful in its first year of operation.

The Hofert Company, one of the biggest Christmas tree exporters operating on the continent are definitely in the Summerland district to stay and has acquired more than 600 acres for future operations, The Review has been informed.

This fall, Summerland representative of the Hofert company, Councillor Norman Holmes, set out to obtain 100,000 trees. By next Monday he expects to achieve that figure and top it by a couple of thousand trees.

Growers May Make Changes In Procedure

Many changes in the setup of the main growers' body, the B.C. Fruit Growers' Assn, is projected for the 63rd annual convention on January 15, 16 and 17 in Penticton, the central executive and the planning committee appointed to go into all phases of the fruit industry setup has decided.

A complete overhaul of the association bylaws will result, and changes in the voting arrangements is said to be included in the proposed amendments.

Meeting at Kelowna last week, it was agreed that the proposed revisions should be mailed to every grower along with the main resolutions for the convention. Authority will be provided for adoption of the proposed changes at the January convention.

The planning committee is now headed by James Snowsell of Glenora who replace C. R. Haker of Peachland whose other duties compelled him to resign the chairmanship of this important growers' group.

I. A. Gledhill, another planning committee member who has gone to Red Deer, has been replaced by E. C. Nuyens.

Opposition in Local Election

There is a distinct possibility that the reeveship will be contested when nominations close on Thursday, December 6.

Reeve C. E. Bentley has already announced his intention of seeking another two-year term as chief magistrate of Summerland municipality.

Ex-reeve Reid A. Johnston, CPR West Summerland agent, who was ousted from the reeveship in a tightly-contested race by Mr. Bentley two years ago is a possibility as a second candidate.

Mr. Johnston would not make any definite statement to The Review when questioned this week other than to say that he would be prepared to make an announcement next week.

Another reeve of many years' standing, W. R. Powell, was evasive when questioned regarding his intentions this year. He did not give a decided negative.

Councillor F. M. Steuart will be seeking re-election for his second term as councillor, but Councillor Eric M. Tait has declared his intentions of retiring from council duties after six years in harness.

Only other candidate mooted for the two council vacancies this year is Leslie Rumball, who is being urged by a number of fellow Jaycees to allow his name to stand.

Councillors F. E. Atkinson and Cutting commenced in this district October 15 and has been going ahead steadily ever since. The mild, open-type fall without much rain the past month has been a big factor in successful operation, it is believed.

Many persons were skeptical at the start, but once they discovered the potentialities they soon became enthused and entered into the cutting of trees with a vengeance.

Some cutters were earning up to $50 per day but the average was $25 to $30.

Approximately 50 persons have been given employment in this district cutting the trees, hauling them to the tree "yard" established near James Lake back of the Summerland Box Co., and sorting and baling them ready for loading onto box cars.

These trees have been loaded into CNR box cars and have gone on lake barges to destinations in the southern states, mainly, where Christmas trees are unknown.

Trucking Firms Richer Besides those employed on daily wages or by the tree, the trucking firms have reaped a harvest from this secondary industry which has been responsible for spreading a great deal of "extra" money throughout the area at a time of year when employment generally slackens off rapidly.

If blight had not interfered with plans for cutting in some areas chosen, Mr. Holmes believes he would have had little difficulty filling his objective the first year.

However, in some parts of the Indian reserve, up Shingle Creek, in the Twin Lakes area and south around Okanagan Falls, blight had hit a great many stands of trees which could not be cut for export shipments.

This blight also interfered with cutting in the East Kootenay to a great degree this season, it is reported.

However, this blight will probably be cleared away in another season and still more areas opened up for Christmas tree cutting.

When all the money involved in the cutting, assembling, hauling and cost of freighting in box cars is added up, this industry has involved $50,000 this year, it is estimated.

In another year, Mr. Holmes is anxious to get all his tree cutters operating a little earlier than this season so that the rush at the final deadline for export needs will be lessened.

Norman Holmes have another year of their terms to run.

Although two delegations have approached Councillor Atkinson to resign his council seat and seek election as reeve, he informed The Review this week he has no intention of taking such action.

Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh will probably allow her name to go forward once more as a school trustee but Dr. W. H. B. Munn has decided against seeking re-election for the other vacancy. To date, no other names have been mentioned as likely candidates.

Harry W. Brown signified this morning he would probably seek another term as a member of the board of parks commissioners.

Clark Sentenced to Three Years; Judge Considers Good Life and Record In Imposing "Light Sentence" at Assizes

George Frederick Clark, one-time outstanding Summerland athlete and winner of the DFC as a member of the RCAF in World War II, was found guilty yesterday afternoon by an assize court jury in Vernon of manslaughter in connection with the death on July 1 last of his brother-in-law, Harold Oliver Tavender following a fracas at the latter's Giant's Head road home on the evening of June 30.

In imposing sentence of three years in New Westminster penitentiary, commencing yesterday, Justice J. V. Clyne pointed out that he was imposing as light a sentence as he could.

"I am not doing it so much as a punishment to you but as a deterrent to other people," declared His Lordship.

With the winding up of the famous case yesterday, a great anxiety which has touched the lives of so many Summerland people has been concluded.

At the outset, nearly five months ago, George Clark, who has been a popular member of Summerland's younger married set, was charged with the murder of his brother-in-law following the fatal fight at the Tavender home.

The preliminary hearing, held under the surveillance of Magistrate H. Sharman with the IOOF hall in Summerland turned into a police court, committed Clark to the fall assizes on a charge of murder.

Defence Counsel Harold McInnes, KC, of Penticton who, with John S. Aikins, also a Penticton lawyer, conducted the defence, entered an earnest plea that Clark should be committed for manslaughter only, but Magistrate Sharman would not lessen the charge.

At that time, Frank Christian of Penticton conducted the prosecution. In the fall assizes, crown counsel was Gordon Lindsay of Vernon.

Fall assizes commenced on Tuesday, November 13 and continued until the jury brought in the verdict of manslaughter at one o'clock yesterday afternoon after deliberating for only forty-five minutes.

Courtroom on the top floor of the Vernon courthouse was crowded, mainly with Summerland residents, to hear the windup of this court case which proved a tragedy to so many lives in this community.

Charge to the jury this morning took nearly two hours, during which time the judge gave instructions on law and reviewed the evidence produced by the prosecution and through cross-examination by the defence.

It had been substantiated that the late Harold Tavender was an alcoholic who had beaten his wife, Isobel, the accused man's sister, on several occasions. A story of a life saddened by a husband and father who sought refuge in drink to such an extent that his wife was in constant fear of violence, was unfolded before the court.

Tavender came to Summerland about a dozen years ago and had a fruit orchard and large home on Giant's Head road. He came from a wealthy and well-known Calgary family.

Justice Clyne Compliments Jury

When John Lowe Johnson, of Vernon, foreman of the jury, declared the verdict arrived at was "manslaughter", Mr. Justice Clyne said:

"Gentlemen, your verdict is something with which I have no concern; nor have I any concern with the reasons whereby you came to your decision; but I feel I am compelled to tell you that I agree with you.

"I have observed your attitude and the attention which you have given to the evidence submitted. I am satisfied that you have carefully and conscientiously considered

Defence Fails to Keep Out Statements

An almost day-long court fight Monday ended unsuccessfully for defence lawyers when Mr. Justice Clyne, in a series of rulings, declared his intention to admit as evidence before the jury several statements made by both Clark and Tavender.

Harold W. McInnes, KC, and John Aikins, both of Penticton, battled throughout a long afternoon session in attempts to have the court rule that reports of conversations and formal statements be not heard by the jury.

The crown prosecutor, Gordon Lindsay, was the principal victor in the dramatic "trial within a trial". For more than four hours, the court heard evidence given, most of which was repeated on Tuesday morning when the case resumed with the jury present.

Not "Dying Declaration" In only one contention was the defence upheld and here Mr. Lindsay agreed he had no case. Mr. Justice Clyne ruled that a statement taken by police from Tavender could not be admitted as a "dying declaration" because medical evidence showed that Tavender had no idea he would die a few hours later.

After all evidence was heard, prosecutor Lindsay cited several authorities to uphold his contention that the statements should be admitted and concluded by declaring that there was "no evidence of any pressure" placed upon Clark by police officers.

Key to subsequent rulings was made when the court remarked "you are in some difficulty" to Mr. McInnes, who was seeking to establish as fact that "an atmosphere of compulsion" made Clark give a statement to the police.

Specifically, Mr. Justice Clyne declared that:

1. Tavender's statement would not be admitted because it did not comply with rules of evidence.

2. A telephone conversation between Tavender and Mrs. I. G. Thorsteinson, wife of a Summerland RCMP constable, would likewise be inadmissible, with the proviso that the crown could try to establish that such a call was made.

Sentence to Serve As Deterrent To Others

When Mr. Justice Clyne sentenced George Clark to three years in the penitentiary after the jury returned a verdict of manslaughter, he said:

"You have been found guilty of the crime of manslaughter; a serious crime involving the taking of a human life."

He pointed out that maximum penalty for such a crime is life imprisonment. "As I said to the jury, no man may take the law into his own hands, and if he does he must suffer the consequences."

"In imposing a sentence upon you I am not doing it so much as a punishment to you but as a deterrent to other people."

His Lordship added: "I am taking into consideration your past record of a good life and your good record in the air force. In view of these circumstances, and the jury's recommendation (for mercy), I am imposing as light a sentence as I can."

Two Counsels Sum up Cases Before Jury

VERNON—The courtroom was crowded on Tuesday afternoon to hear the prosecution and defence make their final addresses to the jury.

Mr. Gordon Lindsay, prosecutor, outlined the evidence which had been adduced from the various witnesses during the trial, and said that if the jury was convinced that Clark had struck the blows which killed Tavender, then they should find Clark guilty of murder.

"I suggest that Clark was the aggressor all through," he said, "from the time of his first visit to the house and then on the road below the house, when he said: 'I should have killed you when I had the chance; I should do so now.'"

Mr. Lindsay said that he was not suggesting that Clark set out to murder Tavender.

"But I suggest that in a fit of uncontrollable temper," he continued, "resenting the treatment his sister had received, perhaps resenting the injury that he had suffered that evening, he wanted to frighten Tavender."

"If he wanted to kill him, there is no question but that he could have shot him dead that evening, and he could have used that bat with so much force that he would have fractured Tavender's skull."

"But he did not use that force. Continued on Page 4

His Lordship Details Grave Responsibility

VERNON—"You have a very grave responsibility to discharge today," Mr. Justice Clyne told the jury as the Clark case neared its end. The court room was packed as the judge took his seat on the bench yesterday morning.

"Tavender is dead," His Lordship began. It is for you to decide whether the accused is criminally responsible for taking his life. We are not to be swayed by sympathy, or prejudice, against either the accused or Tavender. Put out of your minds anything you may have heard outside this court; or anything which may have come to your attention before you were sworn.

"Your decision must rest solely upon the evidence which you have heard during this trial, and upon which you are required to reach that decision.

"It must be impartial, wholly and soberly based upon facts as placed before you, and you are the sole judges of the facts."

"If I make any observations on those facts it is merely for the purpose of assisting you.

"You are at liberty to disregard any observations which I make up on the facts."

Beyond Reasonable Doubt His Lordship then dealt with principles of common law, wherein the accused is always to be presumed innocent until the opposite is proved. Evidence must convince the jury, the judge continued, beyond a reasonable doubt.

"The onus is on the crown in all criminal cases, and does not shift. It is not for the prosecution to prove innocence," the judge said.

"Some juries find difficulty in interpreting 'reasonable doubt' but it should not be so. A doubt is based on reason; and must be a doubt on which you can assign a reason."

Mr. Justice Clyne then directed the attention of the jury to the difference between direct and circumstantial evidence. The latter must be used cautiously, he said.

"In murder cases it is seldom you have very much direct evidence, and in this case much of the evidence is circumstantial," he said.

The judge then interpreted in everyday language the sections of the Criminal Code relating to homicide.

"For one man to kill another is homicide. If a man kills another by accident, then there is no guilt or crime. In order that killing be a crime, it must be done by an unlawful act.

"For any man to do violence to the person of another man against his will, that is an unlawful act.

"No one is permitted by law to lay violent hands on his fellowman, but if he did so and death results he must suffer the consequences. It does not matter if the deceased is a bad character. The law provides penalties for such conduct," continued His Lordship.

Difference is Intent That the difference between manslaughter and murder is one of meticulously with circumstances His Lordship's charge. He dealt intent, was a further statement in which could cause either of these crimes, but all struggles in anger are unlawful, he declared.

The judge then dealt with provocation, which could cause in an ac-

Splendid Response Being Received To Appeals for Littau Family Aid

Many Summerland agencies sped to the assistance of the unfortunate J. G. Littau family bereft of home and belongings in a disastrous fire which consumed everything but the foundations on Wednesday evening, Nov. 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Littau, their daughter Leona, 14, and their three sons, Wally, Paul and Johnny, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Radomske with their daughter, Ramona, 10, lost all their belongings.

In the basement of the doomed house were the winters' preserves belonging to three families.

On Thursday, the Red Cross provided emergency rations of bedding and clothing including seven blankets, 14 sheets, 7 pillowcases and 5 quilts. The men in the family each received an outfit of underwear, pants, shirt and socks, while the women in the family received sufficient garments for their immediate needs.

But these were only to tide them over the first few days. The Summerland Welfare Committee, under the chairmanship of Rev. H. R. Whitmore, is extending an appeal for donations of money, clothing, canned goods, vegetables, fruit and kitchen utensils, besides home furnishings.

Collection centres for these donations are White & Thornthwaite, A. K. Elliott, Boothe's Grocery, Overwater, Groeetoria, Butler & Walden, Read & Pruden.

Additional clothing is also requested and is wanted in the following sizes: Underwear, 1 boy, size 36; 2 boys, 40; 1 man, 42. Pants, etc., 1 boy, 28 waist, 2 boys, 32; 1 man, 40. The girls who need clothing are aged 14 and 10, while 2 women in the family are size 18.

Some money and clothing, besides other donations have already been handed in to collection agencies, Rev. Mr. Whitmore declared yesterday.

The Retail Merchants' Assn. voted to donate $25 at last Thursday's general meeting.

Mr. F. E. Atkinson has loaned the unfortunate family a cabin on his property, while another cabin is still available on the Littau lot.

Mr. Littau, who received burns to his head and arms is still in hospital.

A wonderfully spontaneous gesture was made by pupils of Mrs. Ail Johnston's Grade 4 class in the MacDonald school when they arrived at school the morning after the fire with gifts of money, clothing and other items for their classmate, Ramona Radomske.

Final Chapter in Dramatic Clark Trial is Inclusion of Statements

VERNON—The final dramatic chapter in the trial of George F. Clark insofar as evidence was concerned, closed about noon Tuesday, when crown counsel Gordon Lindsay quietly said: "That concludes the case for the crown, my lord."

Harold McInnes, K.C., declared that Clark would not testify, and that the defence had no witnesses.

The evidence of RCMP Constables I. G. Thorsteinson, and R. Green and Cpl. W. C. Wallace, of Penticton, was taken before the jury.

Shortly after 9 o'clock on the morning of July 1, in Summerland hospital, Cpl. Wallace, RCMP told the court he had "written down questions and the answers made by Clark to the questions."

An exact copy of this statement follows: (Copy of Statement, Exhibit 128) West Summerland, July 1, 1951, 9:30 a.m.

George Frederick Clark warned and placed under arrest. Advised would be charged with murder of Harold Tavender. Warned as follows: You need not say anything. You have nothing to hope from any promise or favor and nothing to fear from any threat whether or not you say anything. Anything you do say may be used as evidence at your trial. Warning explained to Clark, who stated he understood the warning.

Asked if he wanted to say anything and replied I had better wait, is that alright with you. Advised it was up to him.

Asked how he hurt his arm, and said that Tavender had done it. Asked how and said he thought he had shot him but was not sure. Said he heard a loud noise.

Asked if he owned a gun and said yes. Asked what kind and he said a double barrel shot gun, 12 gauge. Asked where it was now and said he did not know.

Asked if he had it last night and he said yes. Said he poked it up at his home and took it out to Tavender's place, also some shells but did not remember how many. Asked if he knew how he got into Tavender's house and he said he did not remember. Asked if there had been bad feeling in the past between himself and Tavender and he said yes, that Tavender used to beat up his sister and he tried to straighten things out; but admitted no quarrel as serious as last one.

Secondary Industry is Welcome

THIS district, having suffered heavily from decreased crops and prices the past two years, has real cause to welcome the secondary industry which Councillor Norman Holmes was chiefly instrumental in bringing to Summerland this fall.

We refer to the Christmas tree-cutting industry which was introduced on a wholesale scale here for the first time this fall by a company which has been in operation for many decades throughout this continent.

Through this industry, an extra $15,000 to $20,000 will be made available to cutters, timber holders, and many other workers who were employed in bundling and preparing the trees for their far-away markets. This money, in the main, will be spent in this district and will provide needed funds for many families to tide them over the Christmas season and on into the winter months when work is scarce.

Not only does this new industry create a much-needed additional payroll but it does so at a time when the main industry of the community, fruit harvesting, is at a standstill and there are many workers without employment.

Such a diversification of employment is essential to the continued growth of Summerland district and every avenue should be explored so that more secondary industries can be introduced here.

In Time of Need

SUMMERLAND has shown itself once more as a friendly community, ever ready and willing to help those less fortunate than themselves, or those who have suffered a major catastrophe in their lives.

Such a catastrophe struck with overwhelming suddenness last week when fire utterly demolished the home of J. G. Littau, sweeping throughout the ancient building with a ferocity which did not allow of the rescue of any personal belongings.

Before many hours had gone by, members of the stricken family had received enough clothing to protect them from the elements. Food was quickly provided. The Red Cross and Welfare Committee went into action and many friends and neighbors, and many who did not know the family at all came forward with contributions.

Such is the spirit of the Summerland district, a warm, friendly spirit which leaves a good feeling in one's heart.

Those Familiar Red and Blue Cans

THOSE familiar red and blue cans with the coin slot in the top have made their appearance in the various business places in Summerland area, as well as some forty other B.C. towns.

There is an appeal attached to these cans which should reach every person in this community as every contribution is a little bit of help towards some crippled child who otherwise might never have an opportunity to take his or her normal place in everyday life.

Sponsored in Summerland by the Board of Trade, the March of Dimes campaign for the Children's Hospital for Sick and Crippled Children is sparked provincially by the Vancouver Sun and is one appeal which finds a ready response from all who know of its good works.

Before the March of Dimes campaign commenced in 1948, only 405 children were cared for in a year at this Children's Hospital. Today, almost 2,000 get the kind of treatment annually which makes crippled children walk and brings sick ones back to health.

As well as the service at the hospital, travelling clinics now move out to towns and villages, throughout B.C., giving minor treatment, diagnosing the sick and crippled and referring them on to Children's Hospital whenever necessary.

Last year, in the South Okanagan area, 55 children were treated in the clinic or the hospital, and were included in the 1,956 children treated in the hospital last year.

Some of these youngsters were acutely ill and received BCHIS-benefits but the majority were crippled legs, twisted spines, heart disease, arthritis, diabetes and other long-term illnesses classed as chronic and therefore not entitled to insurance.

Whenever you see one of those blue and red cans, drop in a dime, or a larger coin if you can afford one, with the knowledge that you are giving some child an opportunity to enjoy a better life.

Youth Centre is Another "Home"

TUESDAY evening's bumper crowd to the Family Night staged at the Summerland Youth Centre should be considered as a good criterion of the popular appeal this centre has in the minds of a large portion of the populace.

An evening of many laughs was provided for young and old and when a smile is created a good deed has been done.

Significant, indeed, is the fact that the Youth Centre provides a home for more than 200 of the young people of this community at least once each week. Facilities are available for Teen Town, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Cubs and Brownies and a good proportion of the younger element are able to meet in comfortable surroundings for their mutual entertainment and advancement.

But like most other endeavors, the Youth Centre needs funds. There is a loan deficit of $2,500 which must be reduced gradually each year. Then there is an additional $300 to be raised annually for maintenance of the Centre, over and above the normal revenues which accrue from rentals and from those organizations which utilize its facilities every week.

Instead of endeavoring to realize sizeable donations at this time, Youth Centre directors have decided to make their individual requests small, and so have asked that 300 residents become members of the association by paying $4 apiece. That is little enough, the dollar being valued as it is now, to help maintain such a valuable institution and provide a "home away from home" for a big section of our young people.

PORTRAITS

Mrs. Wilhelmina Thomas
To many it will come as a surprise that this woman, who lives quietly on the Station road with her son, has known the shattering experiences of the devastation of war; the rigors of hard work on the prairies; has a cousin who is a direct descendant of the famous music composer, Johan Strauss; and has been in Summerland eleven years.

Wilhelmina Jacobs was born in Katusz, a salt mine industrial city in Galicia, Austria. Her father was a bridge building engineer, linking mountainside with mountainside in that rugged, beautiful country. The family was well-to-do and lived comfortably.

In 1905 in a Lutheran church she married Peter (Bobby), who had a government position in the law court as secretary to the judge. The same year her father left with the rest of the family for Canada, known as a land of rich opportunities. They settled at St. Boswell's in Saskatchewan.

Nine years later in 1914 World War I struck. Conscription was immediate in Austria for certain age groups of men. Peter Bobby had to go into the army and almost at once his wife and small child were evacuated by train from their home to a spot near the Italian border.

After many wearying months the Russians in Austrian Galicia were gradually forced back and the Bobbys returned to their home. It was only for about six months and again the Bolsheviks advanced. Her husband went again to the army and in 1917 their home and thousands of others were burned. With the long line of refugees, she was in a second mass evacuation. This time it was much worse for there was a five weeks' old baby as well, and a crippled aunt whom a servant pushed in a wheelbarrow.

They trudged miles and miles with little nourishment and great distress. One time they took refuge in the cellars of a beer factory where in normal times the beer had been cooled. No light, no food, no water, but somehow two cows had been brought down the steps and were sheltered there. From them there was warm milk for the babies in the fleeing group.

At night the men foraged for food for the animals. Over their heads the fire of Austrian, Russian and Italian troops went on ceaselessly.

Then their hideout was discovered by the Russians who cruelly shot some of the men and forced the rest of them out on the roads again. A little food was given them by the army, but people died along the way. Finally the German military took them in munition wa-sons to a village in Ukraina.

The Ukrainians were very kind, giving them shelter and food and caring for them for three months.

Again they were allowed to go home. Home now was a bombarded, ruined city, with probably three buildings standing. Mrs. Bobby's husband was wounded and in hospital. Her own staunchness and her children gave her courage to make another beginning. Families with small children were crowded in the remaining buildings and soldiers gave them blankets. In time the government gave wood to build houses.

She had to go to the forest to choose wood for the home she proposed to build with what money she had as a pension because her husband was in the army. It was begun, but she couldn't finish it because her husband died, and another child, Ernest, with whom she lives, was born soon after.

She could not get her husband's insurance money, and although they had their savings in three banks, it was all lost.

In 1922 her parents persuaded her to come to Canada with her two little girls and her son.

From Canada she sent money back to relatives to complete her house which was rented when finished, but in World War II the Russians took everything, and again she lost all she had there.

On the prairie she married Jacob Thomas, a widower with eleven children, seven of them at home. The two families grew up together happily, and Mrs. Thomas worked hard to care for all of them, and Hilda, a daughter of the second marriage.

In 1940 they sold out in Saskatchewan coming to live in Peach Orchard. Mr. Thomas died some time ago.

During the last war Mrs. Thomas was a member of the Red Cross group in Peach Orchard which she enjoyed.

Her health has been rather poor for a number of years which has curtailed her activities a bit. She is a member of Christ Lutheran church and an active person in the Ladies' Aid.

All through the war parcels of food and clothing were sent from their home to relatives in Austria. They were sent to Johan Strauss, who is five generations from the world-famous Strauss. At one time this cousin was the mayor of their home town, Katusz, and he is a good musician, too.

In the war he lost all his possessions. They are slowly being recovered. The musical trait continues and his daughter is a well-known pianist and music teacher in their city.

Mrs. Thomas has never lost her courage and her faith in goodness. Her daughters are married and among her treasures are many pictures of their wedding and their families and of her Austrian relatives.

Negotiable Cheques Available for Credit Union Members' Use

Summerland and District Credit Union has completed arrangements whereby members may withdraw from their deposit accounts by use of a fully negotiable cheque. Heretofore, members have used cash withdrawal vouchers which were negotiable within thirty days at the Credit Union office only.

Treasurer Walter Bleasdale states that, while members may continue to use withdrawal vouchers if they wish, use of the new cheques rounds out a complete monetary service of greater convenience to members.

The basketball season opened with a fine win over Penticton. The lineups were—Summerland: Daniel, I. Adams, E. Wilson, D. Wilson, C. A. Adams, Purves, sub. Penticton: Felker, Sylvester, Barber, Hotsen, Watson, M. Fish of Penticton refereed.

S. Takachia who has been on Trout Creek Point for thirteen years has left for Japan. He went from here to Mission Junction to a Christian convention and to visit some friends.

Mr. George Inglis is going into the place formerly occupied by the Dominion Bank to use as his taxi office and exchange.

Work is well along with the cellar of the Baptist parsonage, near Mr. Alex Steven. This part of the community is building up steadily and will soon be quite a suburb.

Water is climbing in the reservoir in Prairie Valley very satisfactorily and in the Garnett Valley dam it was seven feet at the gate early this week, which is fine.

KVR men were busy this week engaged in breaking up the box car that was through the fire at the box factory.

Mr. Clarkson Wilson has returned from his trip to Manitoba. His father, Mr. T. C. Wilson accompanied him from Winnipeg.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

The tumult and the shouting have died, the Princess and the Prince departed—and I miss them. I know that sounds very presumptuous; it might even be lese-majeste, if I knew how to pronounce it. But I do miss them, all the same—and especially on the radio.

Remember what our radio news was made up of before the Royal visit? Statesmen and generals quarrelling and reviling each other, with a world tragedy overhanging every childish quarrel that might go too far. Men killing each other wholesale in Korea, and in retail numbers elsewhere. The latest filth about film stars with the morals of over-soxed mink. Much publicity for the death of such prominent—ah, citizens—as William Ran, Dolph Hoarst, who lived for years in what used to be called "open shame", and is said to have done more to drag down the standards of the newspaper world than any other man. Murders, assaults, suicides, robberies, accidents, divorces, rapes, racketeers.

What a contrast to hear of the doings of a healthy, wholesome young couple, in love with each other and with their children, kindly, friendly, bearing a heavy burden of duty and sacrifice, and keeping cheerful and gracious through it all. What a delight to have millions of people interested in their visit instead of the latest public scandal, to hear the cheers and shouting that greeted them, and the happy cries of school children seeing a fairy romance take reality before their very eyes. "Bah, they're just ordinary people," say some of my acquaintances. True, there's nothing they'd like to be more. But they can't. Because of their position they have to give up their own wishes, their own privacy, and think of doing only what people want them to do.

You scorn their glittering uniforms and official functions? So do they. But the great majority of people love glitter and show and ceremony; and so for weary hours day after day royal couples like these have to endure it, smile and chat with an endless succession of boring strangers, stand still in heavy uniforms despite heat and fatigue, aching feet and aching backs and arms worn out with shaking hands.

You and I, when we get fed up with an infinitely smaller round of public meetings, can shrug it off and go to a show, or go fishin', and forget about it; but with them, every rigidly-scheduled day brings its new round of public duties.

"Why do we have to have a royal family at all?" demand some of my acquaintances who like to be "agin'" what the majority want.

The answer to that is easy; every country needs some person—or object—who is above political strife to represent the whole country and be a focus for the loyalty and unity of its people.

"Why not just a flag, like the United States have?" Ah, but the finest flag—even "Old Glory"—is a poor substitute for flesh-and-blood. Would a flag have drawn people to drive a hundred or two or three hundred miles for a ten-minute visit, and drive back thrilled and delighted, considering their trip well worth while? Would a flag have drawn that interest, that enthusiasm, the crowds of adults and children, the ovations that met Elizabeth and Philip wherever they went?

You know the answer. And maybe another answer is that our friends across the border take a keen interest in our royal family. When they speak of "the king", nobody needs to inquire: "Of what country?" And when King George's recent operation was successful, one big New York daily splashed its front page with this terse headline, "KING OK", and everybody knew what it meant.

I think we're lucky, in Canada and all the Commonwealth, to have a royal family such as ours. They not only add color and excitement to millions of hum-drum lives, they add dignity and decency, too. And the example they set of unselfish devotion to duty and the public interest is hardly equalled anywhere in the world.

They're gone now, and the radio news is back on its international quarrels, its deaths and its scandals. But for a few weeks we had a change as wholesome as a breeze of fresh air in a posthouse; it will be a great day for the listener when it comes again.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

2nd Summerland Troop
We are glad to welcome two new recruits, Dennis Martin and Eldon Seigrist. We wish them the best in Scouting.
At the last meeting, we had the boys who haven't attained their Tenderfoot get ready to pass all required tests. ASM Van Driel took some others on compass and map reading. Each boy is to make a rough sketch of the business area of West Summerland.
On Sunday, Nov. 18, five Scouts went to visit the all-Japanese troop. Don Tait was the driver, accompanied by ASM Van Driel and Scouts Ken Bisset, Gordon Underwood, Harold Biollo, Walter Ugama and Jack Gould.
They left here at 1:30 p.m. and arrived in Greenwood about 4:30, visiting several Greenwood Scouts. Supper was served in one of the halls, with singing, stunts and skits following. They were invited to return the visit sometime. The party left Greenwood about 7:30, stopping at Rock Creek for refreshments, and arriving home about 10:30. They had a most enjoyable time.
Notices: Duty patrol, Beavers. Meeting at 7 p.m. Please wear running shoes.—Eugene Bates.

High School COMMENTS

With very little going on at the school besides homework, I am hard pressed to find something to write about. I've heard the odd composition written about nothing but that just doesn't seem to fit the occasion. I could write about the basketball game on Friday but that wouldn't fill the whole column. The house games played at noon hours would not go far towards taking up space either but I will try.
Last Friday night, two exhibition games of basketball were played in the gym. In the first game, the junior boys showed their superiority by walloping the senior girls by a score of 20-10. In the second game the senior boys were taken for a few baskets when the senior town team beat them 35-18.
Although the boys led the scoring for the first quarter, the seniors soon showed that they can play good ball as they held the boys practically scoreless for a good part of the game. During the final quarter, however, the boys again began to show in the play and to get a few points back.
During the game, Ross Tingley took pictures of the play in the hope of getting a few good shots for the Annual.
During noon hours, House games are played. These games all mean points for your house so come out and support your team at noon.

Two White Rats to Show Pupils In MacDonald School Value Of Proper Diet in Daily Meals

There are going to be rats in the MacDonald school! Two white rats will be put there intentionally as part of the department of health's plan to demonstrate the value of proper nourishment.
This experiment has been tried out in various parts of the province. Wherever the rats have gone from the animal nutrition laboratory of UBC great interest has been aroused, said Miss Doris L. Noble, provincial nutritionist, when she addressed Summerland Parent-Teachers' Association on Thursday evening, Nov. 16, in the high school library.
It has been demonstrated that although rats grow about thirty times faster they thrive on almost the same diet as humans, so for three or four weeks they are each put on a diet. One is given proper food and the other is on a poor menu. It is surprising to note the difference in appearance, disposition, growth and development; children seeing this can immediately understand the value of proper feeding, Miss Noble stated.

The experiment was tried first at Trill where it was highly successful with adults and children both.
Dr. J. C. Wilcox introduced the speaker as a nutritional consultant with whom he had worked when doing some experiments in plant nutrition. He also paid a tribute to the fine work of the department which she represented.

Miss Noble's subject was Nutrition as Related to School Lunches Throughout the Province. She mentioned her appreciation of Summerland's new school before going on to recommend Canada's Food Rules for every day use. This is a publication of the health department.
Vitamin D Substitute
These rules were made by a group of food experts meeting at Ottawa some time ago, and were cited as "acceptable, but not dramatic".

She went on to mention the five main food groups, milk, fruit, vegetables, meat, cereals and bread, advising for children a Vitamin D substitute as well.
In an amusing way Miss Noble related that in the Fraser Valley it was found in a recent survey that children drink less milk than in other parts of the province, and that in the records of 4,500 children throughout B.C. there was a milk deficiency. She recommended the Vitamin D supplement as long as growth continues.

Amusing, too, were the diets quoted as found in the survey, and it seemed that many needed improving.

Miss Noble thought that excessive use of sweet foods should be discouraged, and better food habits encouraged, in which she believed one obtained better value for money spent. Every child should have a pint of milk a day, she said, and recommended skimmed milk powder to supplement the milk supply. This is nutritious, and should be mixed at least twelve hours ahead of the time when it is used.

She urged the use of vitaminized apple juice saying that it compares ounce for ounce with orange juice in vitamin content, and is less expensive.

The speaker mentioned that 100 tons of horse meat is sold in thirty-one retail outlets in Vancouver now. This meat is not from horses raised for meat, and the implication was that the price would be higher if this were so.

For high protein content she listed white navy beans, lima beans, eggs, cheese, fish, all of which may be meat substitutes.
Favors Lunch Supplement

The public health department favors a lunch supplement in schools where cafeteria service is given, Miss Noble said, believing it to be the most economical type.

A keen interest was evidenced in the informal talk as shown in the number of questions asked the speaker following her address.

Mr. Macleod asked if the department of health had ever estimated the cost to the parent of preparing an adequate lunch. Miss Noble's reply was that this had not been done, but would be worthwhile.

Miss Irene Stewart, PHN, told the group that she had planned the rat experiment for the MacDonald School just after Christmas.

RECIPE HINTS

Chicken Pie makes fine, filling fare these cold, crisp nights! Serve it for Sunday dinner, or take one to the church supper.

CHICKEN PIE

One fowl (4 to 5 lbs.) disjointed, 1 bay leaf, 2 tsp. salt, few grains pepper, dash celery salt, 1/4 tsp. pure monosodium glutamate, for flavor, boiling water, 1 lb. small white onions, 1 bunch carrots, sliced, 6 tbsp. flour, 6 tbsp. cold water, 1 tsp. prepared horseradish, biscuit dough.

Place fowl in deep kettle; add bay leaf, salt, pepper, celery salt and 1 teaspoon pure monosodium glutamate. Add enough boiling water to cover. Simmer 2 hours or until fowl is tender. Meanwhile cook onions and carrots separately, adding 1/4 tsp. pure monosodium glutamate to each vegetable.

Remove fowl and drained vegetables to large, shallow baking dish; strain broth in kettle; measure out 3 cups. Add vegetable waters to the broth, to make 4 cups in all, adding more water if necessary. Add flour, mixed smooth with cold water; cook over low heat, stirring, until thickened; add remaining monosodium glutamate and horseradish; pour over fowl and vegetables. Roll biscuit dough 1/2 inch thick; cut with chicken-shaped cookie cutter. Arrange on baking dish. Add bits of raisins for eyes, if desired. Bake in hot oven, 25 to 30 minutes, or until biscuits are golden brown. Yields 6 to 8 servings.

WATER SUPPLY SHOWS IMPROVEMENT in FALL

Some improvement was noted in Summerland's water supply in the report of the medical health unit for September and October, read at last week's council session. Two "high counts" in raw milk supplies had been found but otherwise there has been no adverse notations. Operation of the garbage dump has been quite satisfactory, it was stated.

Two Counsels

"Unfortunately, Tavender proved the weaker, and the force Clark did use was sufficient to take the life of Tavender."

Mr. Lindsay said that in every criminal trial, the burden was on the crown to prove that an accused person is guilty. It was never incumbent upon the accused person to prove that he was innocent.

In what amounted to a determined plea for the life of his client, Mr. McInnes drew attention to Mr. Justice J. V. Clynne's instructions to the jury earlier.

"Before the commencement of these sittings," he said, "His Lordship referred to a priceless heritage of long standing in our democratic way of life, and that was the right of an accused person to trial by a jury of his peers."

"You citizens of this country are now engaged in such a trial, the most serious of trials because upon the verdict depends the life of this man."

"It has always been a matter of pride to me as a counsel to be able to take part in these very fair trials, particularly when I have the honor to represent an accused person."

"In some 17 years appearing in this very courtroom I cannot recall any occasion when that feeling of pride on my part was greater than it is today in defending George Clark."

"Witness after witness for the crown has come before you and testified to the fine character this boy possesses. He has lived in Summerland the whole of his life, and has earned the respect and esteem of his fellow men."

"I do not say that to you because Clark is that fine type of man who could not be held to account for his actions; but I do say this to you, that when you come to consider this crime with which he is charged, that you may well consider in the complicated circumstances and the speculation which ensures in regard to this case, whether a man of that type is capable of having committed what the crown alleges he has done."

Mr. McInnes then dealt point by point with the address by the prosecution, and claimed Clark was not a man of violence; Tavender on the other hand, could be described as a man of violent disposition. He contended it was quite within the realms of possibility that a gun was secreted somewhere in Tavender's home, and that he had actually fired through a window and door at Clark.

Mr. McInnes reviewed the evidence of Henry Kuhar at some length, and pointed out that the witness was consistent in his denial of ever having seen Clark with a shotgun in his car.

Counsel concluded with the observation that he was entrusting the life of his client into the hands of the jury. He knew, he said, that the jury would not convict him upon suspicions, speculation, but only upon concrete evidence which established facts beyond all reasonable doubt.

His Lordship

cused a sudden loss of self control, so that he did not know what he was doing.

"But dislike is not sufficient to give rise to provocation, nor even a long series of exasperating acts. It must be something which suddenly arouses passion, in an accused who commits an unlawful act before his passion has had time to cool," His Lordship continued.

"Whether some act or insult by Tavender caused the accused to suddenly lose his mind so that he attacked Tavender before his anger had cooled is for you to decide. We must also decide whether the extent of the attack was warranted by provocation."

"If you find there was provocation in this case, or if you have a reasonable doubt about it, you should reduce the charge from murder to manslaughter," His Lordship said.

The judge then reviewed the testimony of many of the witnesses, later turning to the case as presented by the crown, and then the defence.

"If you have any reasonable doubt, you must give the accused the benefit of that doubt, and bring in a verdict of manslaughter," His Lordship said.

When the jury returned ready to present its verdict, the accused looked longingly at them with lips parted. Meanwhile, Mrs. Tavender cried silently in the corridor.

When the sentence of three years was pronounced, the curtain fell on one of the most dramatic trials in recent years in assize court here.

Mr. and Mrs. Chick Chisholm of Kimberley were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Doney Wilson.

Most Parents Favor Supplemental Service in School Cafeteria

An excellent return was obtained from the questionnaires sent out by Summerland school board, circulated through the students to their parents, in regard to starting a cafeteria service of some sort in the school.

These returns were given attention at the meeting of the school board on Wednesday evening, Nov. 14. Opinions of three hundred and fifty-one parents were studied, and it was found that the majority was in favor of partial service.

The proposal most popular was to supplement a lunch brought from home by milk, cocoa, or soup being served at a minimum cost.

Well over a hundred parents were favorable to the plate lunch at a cost of about 25c, though they did not promise to make consistent use of the meal.

Only thirty-five were against cafeteria in any form.

Even in the supplemental form, all those who thought it was a good idea were not in a position to promise to make constant use of it were it set up.

The school board expressed appreciation of the efforts of some parents to be as helpful as possible, and the co-operative way in which the questions were answered.

It was thought that there may be certain months in the year, probably during the colder weather, when the cafeteria would be used more than at other times.

No decision was reached at the meeting, but it is thought that if the service is inaugurated it will be in a small way to suit the opinions of the majority who answered the questionnaires.

The Baptist church calendar for 1952 was distributed, and knitting for the Girls' Home in Vancouver, planned. A shower of baby clothing for the home will be held the first meeting in the New Year.

Basket of 'Mums and Carnations Decorate Free Methodist Church

The Free Methodist church, West Summerland, was prettily decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums, and with carnations for the wedding of Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Heichert, West Summerland, and Ralph, son of Mr. T. Spelsberg, of Elko, B.C., on Saturday evening, Nov. 17, at 7 p.m. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. H. Vorath, Lutheran minister from Kelowna.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gownned in lovely traditional white satin, the fitted bodice having a sweetheart neckline, and lily point sleeves. The very full skirt was gathered at the waistline and was floor length. A fingertip veil of imported misty sheer rayon net had embroidery in two corners and was held to the head with a crown of orange blossoms. In the beautiful bridal bouquet was a pale mauve orchid and white carnations.

There were five attendants, Miss June Kincaid of Pentiction, as maid of honor, charmingly gownned in mauve net over taffeta, featuring a square neckline, puffy little sleeves, and a full skirt. A wreath of small mauve flowers set in net were worn on her hair, and her bouquet of 'mums blended with her frock in color.

Miss Elizabeth Morgan, senior bridesmaid, was in a pretty, becoming green taffeta frock, with V neckline and silver sash, with a bandeau of little bows on net to match her dress and carrying 'mums in harmonizing tones.

Miss Judy Heichert of Vancouver, as junior bridesmaid wore floor-length yellow taffeta, with little frills edging the neckline of the sheer yoke, and frills at the hip-line. Yellow flowers and yellow net made up the headdress and the same shade was repeated in her bouquet.

Little Phyllis Young, another junior bridesmaid had a sweet blue taffeta frock with puffed sleeves and flared skirt with lace inserts, and similar lace at the sweetheart neckline, with a wreath of small flowers in her hair, and carried a nosegay of 'mums. Small Shirley-Ann Kopp, the flower girl, was frocked in pink taffeta in a style similar to that of Phyllis. Judy, Phyllis and Shirley-Ann are nieces of the bride.

Mr. Don Hermiston supported the groom, and ushers were brothers-in-law of the bride, Mr. W. Kopp and Mr. Frank Young.

Mrs. F. Schmidt played the wedding music and Miss Myrtle Harbicht sang Because.

About one hundred and fifty guests attended the reception in the IOOF hall following the ceremony where Mrs. Heichert and Mrs. C. Letts, who with her husband stood for the groom in the absence of his parents, received with the bridal party.

Mrs. Heichert was in an attractive blue fallie gown with grey accessories and pink carnations en corsage. Mrs. Letts had chosen a wine-colored dress with velvet top and taffeta skirt. She, too, wore grey accessories and had pink carnations in her corsage.

The hall was decorated with pink and white streamers forming a fan above the bride and groom where three white bells were suspended. Balloons and evergreen boughs added further decoration.

The bride's table was covered with a lovely hand crocheted cloth with tall tapers, and a beautiful wedding cake decorated by Mrs. F. Schmidt.

Mr. A. Kilbach, Vancouver, proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom responded. Mr. E. Harbicht acted as master of ceremonies, and proposed a toast to the bridesmaids to which the best man replied.

The bride's godmother, Mrs. A. Kilbach, Vancouver, cut the bride's cake.

For the honeymoon trip by car to Cranbrook via the States, the bride changed to a skipper blue rayon gabardine suit, wine top coat, grey accessories, and orchid corsage.

Dancing to the music of The Mountain Rascals was enjoyed.

Other out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. F. Heichert and family, Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Art Jantz and family, Kelowna; Mr. and Mrs. Art Kopp, Peachland; Mr. Gerry O'Hara, Mr. and Mrs. W. Kincaid, Rose and Bill, Pentiction; the bride's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Heichert and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Flatt, Mrs. Gunnar Hannela and the bride's godparents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Kilbach, all of Vancouver.

The bride has been a popular member of the staff of the municipal hall. On their return the young couple will make their home at West Summerland.

Two Hundred Crowd St. Andrew's Hall For Club Bazaar

About three o'clock on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 24, West Summerland streets were full of ladies on their way to the tea and bazaar of St. Andrew's Service Club, held in St. Andrew's hall, and at a few minutes after three, at which time the annual affair opened, the hall was crowded.

As a special treat at 3:30 children of St. Andrew's junior choir, in white surplices, sang several numbers, with their leader Mrs. E. E. Bates, in charge, and Eugene Bates piano accompanist.

It is estimated that over two hundred enjoyed the delicious tea. Things offered for sale were picked up quickly, many of them to be tucked away for Christmas presents.

Many children will be delighted with the lovely dolls' clothing made by the members for the sale, as well as by the warm knitted articles.

Home-cooking, aprons, candy, novelties and a fish-pond were all well planned.

At the bakery table and selling house plants as well were Mrs. M. Henker, Mrs. C. Denike and Mrs. A. McCargar. Mrs. J. C. Wilcox and Mrs. Cecil Morgan convened the candy department.

W.A. Presbytery Shows Progress In Five Years

When the Women's Federation met in St. Andrew's church hall on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 15, Mrs. Wallace Boothe gave an informative report of the 5th annual W.A. presbytery meeting in Kelowna which she attended recently as Summerland Federation delegate.

She expressed her pleasure in being sent on this mission, telling of the growth throughout the presbytery during the past five years as shown in the increased number of reports given there. In the first year fourteen were heard and this year there were twenty-seven. New groups are being formed, too, with the rise from twenty to thirty-four in the five years.

Mrs. Boothe said that Mrs. Yoe, president of the B.C. conference is coming to the Okanagan in the spring and suggested that an invitation be sent to her from the three Summerland United church women's organizations as a whole, asking her to come here as a speaker. It was thought that Mrs. Yoe would not have time for each individual group.

At the presbytery meeting Mrs. McWilliams spoke of the Study of Youth, stressing that more interest be taken in Young People's meetings.

For the meeting Mrs. Bancroft was at the piano and Mrs. A. McLachlan read the scripture passages. The devotional theme was based on Friendships, since the date of the meeting was so near Remembrance Day. This thought was advanced in mention of Friendships of youth, of today, and of yesterday.

Mrs. Bancroft led in prayer and the president, Mrs. S. A. MacDonald brought the message through Looking At A Nation. In closing Mrs. MacDonald gave the blessings which Moses gave to the children of Israel.

On invitation from the Service Club to its meeting of Nov. 19 to see Mr. Thornber's pictures taken on a recent trip to the Old Country was accepted by several members.

A donation was voted to the Sunday school for Christmas treats.

It was announced that 720 pounds of clothing was packed for Korea in October. The freight on this was $61.42.

The Naramata News Letter was received and there for anyone to read who wished to do so. Greetings were received from Mrs. H. F. G. Welsh and it was regretted that she was in hospital again.

Hostesses were Mrs. C. E. McCutcheon and Mrs. Mowatt who served a delicious tea during the social period to the thirty-two ladies present.

Haskins Addresses Baptist Meeting

Rev. and Mrs. F. W. Haskins of Edmonton and formerly of Summerland were welcomed by many friends whom they called to see while in town for a short time on Wednesday, Nov. 14.

Mr. Haskins is on his Workshop Tour in his position as director of Baptist Christian Education for Western Canada, and spoke at the Baptist prayer meeting that evening on the work in which he is engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Haskins left by the evening train the same day for Vancouver where they will remain until the middle of December.

Mrs. Haskins, Sr., is now in Toronto living at the home of a married son.

Co-Hostesses Honor Bride of Saturday

Co-hostesses honoring Miss Evelyn Heichert on Nov. 8, prior to her wedding last Saturday were Miss Myrtle Harbicht and Miss Elizabeth Morgan, at the home of the honoree's sister, Mrs. W. Kopp.

There were about twenty guests who brought gifts of canned goods and who joined to give the bride-elect a breakfast set of dishes.

Games were enjoyed and delicious refreshments served.

Editor, The Review:
It would be greatly appreciated if you would kindly publish the following letter of appreciation and thanks.

The Summerland Branch of the Canadian Legion, BESL is very grateful to the many citizens of Summerland who contributed so generously to our recent Poppy Day, and to those who assisted in our canvass. To all of you, thank you very much.

I would like, once again, to mention that all profits from poppy and wreath sales are held in a trust fund. It is used for emergency relief of comrades and their dependents. All veterans, whether they are members of the Canadian Legion or not, are looked after.

Again, to our many supporters, thank you.

Yours very truly,

Bureau of Statistics Conducting Annual Survey of Farms

Each December the bureau of statistics, in co-operation with the provinces, conducts a survey of the number of live stock on farms, and cost of hired labor. Forms for this survey will be in the hands of farmers by about December 1.

The success of this survey depends on the co-operation of farmers in filling in and returning the questionnaires. A widespread response from all types of farmers throughout each province is needed in order that the statistics can be based on a sufficiently large number of reports from a representative sample of farms throughout Canada.

The statistics obtained from the survey are used extensively throughout the year. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics is the official source of statistical information in Canada and its figures are used by governments, farm organizations and industry to plan future operations. International organizations such as the world Food and Agriculture Organization depend on the bureau to supply up-to-date figures on Canada's agricultural industry. The farmer, through providing the information needed by the bureau, has a real opportunity to help form a true picture of agricultural conditions.

The survey has no connection with taxation. The farmer's individual form is seen only by workers in the dominion and provincial agricultural statistical offices and the farmer is protected by law against the wrong use of his return. All individual forms are kept strictly confidential.

Limited Success Reported by North Okanagan Delegation

VERNON—The delegation from Vernon, Armstrong and Falkland boards of trade, who together with C. W. Morrow, K.C., MLA for the North Okanagan, waited upon the cabinet in Victoria, have returned, and are able to report limited success on their plea for speedy action on Highways 6 and 97.

The delegation spent more than an hour with the cabinet, outlining the needs of the district, particularly the highways from Vernon to Schweb's Bridge, from Vernon to Larkin, and the arterial highway.

According to Mr. Morrow, it transpired that of the $400,000 allotted in the spring for the highway from Vernon to Schweb's Bridge, only $130,000 had been spent.

Presently under construction are 4.6 miles from Schweb's Bridge to O'Keefe's store; contract covering the construction of the remainder could not be let due to difficulties acquiring right of way.

The delegation was assured that as soon as right of way difficulties had been overcome, further tenders would be called, and it was felt by the government that there was enough money available to complete reconstruction to the junction of the two highways at Buckfield's corner.

The question of the highway from Vernon to Larkin will be one for consideration when preparing the estimates for 1952.

Premier Byron I. Johnson said he was pleased Mr. Morrow had arranged for the delegation, since it did a lot to clear the air regarding highway problems in the North Okanagan.

The farmer's individual form is seen only by workers in the dominion and provincial agricultural statistical offices and the farmer is protected by law against the wrong use of his return. All individual forms are kept strictly confidential.

The Empire's Biggest Union Jack

This great Union Jack over the main entrance to the Sun Life Building measures 80 feet in length and 40 feet in width and faces the Windsor Hotel where Princess Elizabeth and her sailor husband, the Duke of Edinburgh stayed during their visit in the metropolis. The giant flag largest in the British Empire, was made in Ottawa for the 1939 tour of King George and Queen Elizabeth. It floodlighted at dusk each night the Royal Couple spend in Montreal.

Capsule College Highly Successful Experiment

An experiment in public relations in bringing the university to the people proved entirely successful at the IOOF hall last week when a meeting of almost one hundred Summerland residents expressed keen interest in the province's top educational institution and asked questions after question at the first "Capsule College" ever attempted in British Columbia.

Sparkplugged by Frank Turner, executive secretary of the UBC Alumni Assn., the "Capsules" consisted of Dean Blyth Eagles, dean of agriculture; Robert F. Osborne, head of the physical education department; and Dr. William Gibson, senior resident medical officer for the R.C.A.F. reserve in Vancouver and director of the Creese Clinic.

All three Capsules were products of UBC and from their lectures and the answers provided to the many questions they are all thoroughly acquainted with the problems of that institution.

It was evident from the trend of questioning that the majority of those interested in UBC were mainly concerned with vocational aspects in connection with its courses.

Reeve C. E. Bentley was chairman of the evening session which commenced with a banquet served by the CWL ladies.

Reason for Summerland being chosen for this Capsule College experiment was that this community was the first in the province to institute a scholarship fund to send students to UBC, Frank Turner told the gathering.

Tribute was paid to Dr. F. W. Andrew, pioneer medical practitioner, in being the guiding force behind the scholarship fund.

Mr. Turner caused a few smiles when he declared that the decision had been made to move UBC off the Pt. Grey "Bluff" to the Okanagan, "where it should have been in the first place."

Dr. William Gibson, who flew from Vancouver to the Okanagan to attend the "College", proved to be a fluent speaker, well versed in his subject and one who filled his listeners with the conviction that he is extremely sincere in his efforts to promote the best interests of the campus.

Dr. Gibson is a world traveller and has come to the conclusion that "our greatest need is to integrate scientific development with the scientific needs of industry".

Electronic Microscope
Recently the Kinsmen clubs of B.C. combined their efforts to donate an electronic microscope to UBC. Dr. Gibson has been placed in charge of this instrument and he looks forward to the time when the fruit people of the interior can send specimens for photographic report in connection with virus disease research.

"If we take UBC to the people observed. Regarding the new medical school, at the university, Dr. Gibson pointed out that a doctor must first be a good citizen and therefore studies in the humanities are essential to a medical degree. Such studies are included in the medical course at UBC. There will be no thought of ever closing UBC", as there was in the worst of the depression times, he

The clever speaker greatly favors an air ambulance service in this province to serve better the outlying parts of the province which haven't equality of medical attention.

With such a service, Dr. Gibson is hopeful for a provincial diagnostic clinic established at Point Grey. From a defence standpoint, decentralization of medical services by establishing a 400-bed clinic at UBC would be quite desirable, he considered.

The air era is here to stay, reminded his audience, and it is the most comfortable, fastest method of moving patients.

At medical school, anatomy, physiology and biochemistry, with some basic psychology and a study of nerve disorders are included in basic studies. High blood pressure, bone metabolism and basic mechanisms of the action of cortisone are subjects for research.

Dealing with the Creese Clinic, as medical director, he considered

World Packing Championship May Come Here

The Okanagan Federated Shippers Association may be invited to sponsor and conduct the third annual international apple packing competition which will comprise eight of the best apple packers in the Pacific Northwest of United States and the two British Columbia packers who won the Canadian Championship and runner-up positions at the competition held in Penticton Wednesday, November 7.

The international or world's champion, Mrs. Irene Cyr of Yakima, is automatically eligible to enter this year's international competition.

L. R. Stephens of Okanagan Federated Shippers Association states that his organization is prepared to sponsor the competition, but that there are a number of details to be worked out before a final and definite statement can be made.

At present, the tentative plans would be to hold the competition at Kelowna on November 28, but officials of the fruit industry in Washington are anxious to have the competition delayed until about December 5 or 7.

Officials of the industry are pleased, indeed, at having this opportunity of sponsoring the international competition, states Mr. Stephens. It is something that they hardly dared hoped for, and it is only due to certain circumstances on the American side that it is possible to bring the competition to British Columbia this year.

It is anticipated that there will be a large attendance of packing-house officials, employees and particularly of packers, to witness this international event. All contestants in the international competition are eligible for cash prizes ranging from $50 up to a maximum of $500.

White Gloves are Unclaimed by Judge

REVELSTOKE—A judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, presumably Mr. Justice Clyne, lost a pair of silk gloves when he failed to turn up for the Fall Assizes which were scheduled to open at the Court House on Friday, Nov. 9 at 11 a.m. It was assumed that the judge had not been informed by Victoria of the local Assizes.

One divorce case was in readiness for the court. Lawyers were properly attired according to a recent edict of the Chief Justice. Witnesses were on hand, and the silk gloves, emblematic of the absence of criminal cases, were reposing on an oak table, ready for presentation to the presiding judge.

Summerland Nurse Takes Part in Plane Flight Through Fog

Miss Verna Wright, RN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wright of Summerland, and a member of St. Paul's hospital nursing staff recently underwent a harrowing experience when she was part of an air ambulance scheme attempting to rush a premature baby from Chemainus, V.I., in dense fog.

Because of weather conditions on Nov. 5 the specially-equipped plane ordinarily used by St. Paul's for this emergency type of flight could not be put into the air. Consequently, a small deHavilland seaplane was pressed into service. By flying extremely low and despite the fog the trip was made, although flying conditions were extremely hazardous. The tiny baby, weighing only slightly more than two pounds, failed to survive the trip, despite the special incubator flown to the Island centre.

To Attend Meeting in Kamloops Nov. 29

Reeve C. E. Bentley and Councillors Francis Stuart and Eric Tait will probably represent Summerland at the next quarterly meeting of the Okanagan Municipal Assn. to be held in Kamloops on Nov. 29. Councillor F. E. Atkinson declared last week he would be out of the valley at that time, while Councillor Holmes will be too busy with private business to attend.

do fellows who own businesses have a soft job?

Statistics show that two thirds of all Canadians want to own a business. Canadians like the idea of independence and the idea of success.

But statistics also show that running a business is hard work. It is so hard that, of every 100 new businesses that start out this year, half will fail in two years, and in five years only one third of the original hundred will still be in business.

They fail because they can not show a profit consistently and that generally is because they were not properly managed.

A great labor leader made this statement: "The worst crime against working people is a company which fails to operate at a profit".

To operate a business successfully is the first responsibility of the fellows who own and manage it. It takes courage, initiative, ability. If you doubt it, think of the 66 out of 100 new businesses that will fail in the next five years.

"Our whole attitude on mental disease is to spend money to save money," Dr. Gibson noted, pointing out that there are as many in Essondale as at UBC but it costs four times as much to keep them in the first institution.

Polio is another key disease which Dr. Gibson feels is the key to many other diseases and if polio can be understood fully then many others will be understood equally well.

Virus may prove a distinct factor in human diseases and by combining the research of virus plant diseases in the Okanagan with medical research on human virus rapid strides may be forthcoming, he felt.

Dean Blythe Eagles spoke first of the integration of departments on the campus and the assistance of President Norman MacKenzie in this cohesion.

Such an experiment as Capsule College is a good example of adult education, he thought.

Growers Will Receive Ample Warning of Apple Scab Says Dr. McLarty, Head Pathologist

There is no cause for any grower alarm concerning the re-appearance of apple scab in some portions of the South Okanagan, Dr. H. R. McLarty, chief of the plant pathology laboratory in Summerland emphasized to The Review early this week when confronted with a story emanating from North Central Washington that growers fear they may have to return to lime sulphur spray applications because of scab infestation.

The apple scab this year, which was also accompanied by some pin-point scab in the late fall, was scattered in some parts of the Penticton fruit-growing section but was entirely due to the wet weather, Dr. McLarty explains.

"We are quite aware that apple scab will appear when there is an extremely wet season and we are prepared for it," he declared.

Should another wet season be in prospect next year, then the growers will be warned in time and sprays can be applied.

But there are available better sprays for control of apple scab than the old lime sulphur, he added, and these will be recommended in good time should the need arise.

If normal precipitation occurs next year there will be no need to spray for scab, he feels.

Washington Alarmed Under an Okanogan, Wash., date-line, the Kelowna Courier carried a story last week that "every apple grower in North Central Washington today has been urged to make a super-careful check of his apple orchard and fruit for apple scab."

"Washington State College scientists said plans should be made, where necessary, for a return to the old, effective strong-smelling lime-sulphur sprays next spring."

"It is the first time scab—which decimated the Western Washington apple industry—has been reported in serious proportions in the NCW area."

"Fruit experts said the disease made culls of 70 percent of several crops in the Spokane and Tonasket areas this season. The fruit-ruining spores have been found in almost every part of the state's largest apple producing district."

"WSC horticultural scientists believe the appearance of the scab marks another unforeseen circumstance surrounding the solution of one great apple industry problem—controls against codling moth and mites."

"In effect, nature has been unbalanced by the new controls and a new headache has been provided which is almost as bad as the one cured," the article states.

Last spring, Washington sent a number of growers to the plant pathology laboratory at Summerland to obtain information on control of apple scab and have been given the benefit of the wide research knowledge gained by the experts in the Okanagan.

mon standard for their master's degree. This can only come about with graduate scholarships, he felt, which would attract the best of students from other universities and thus provide an added stimulus to the faculty.

Collaboration with the experimental station so that graduates can carry on their studies here is another aspect which is being considered, he declared.

One of the most prominent athletes B.C. ever produced is Robert F. Osborne, who heads the physical education department, a school organized within Arts and Science.

He considered physical education as extremely important to both rural and urban communities and properly qualified teachers are a necessity. Such teachers should be qualified as good leaders, good technicians or coaches.

Mr. Osborne explained that certain fundamental courses such as chemistry, biology, psychology, physiology, anatomy, and one major such as math or English, are taken along with physical education and as a result such graduate teachers may take their place in the classroom, as well.

Possibility of College One of the first questions asked the "Capsules" concerned the possibility of a college in the Okanagan similar to that of Victoria College, which takes the first two years of university.

Dean Eagles replied that such an institution is not beyond the bounds of possibility but it would have to come about in conjunction with the university and would be a matter of policy for the Senate to decide.

Fees paid by students at UBC are relatively greater than those paid by most other university students, Dean Eagles replied to another query. Most of the federal grants went to war veterans and with their ranks being rapidly depleted on the campus registration is now reduced from a high of 9,500 to 5,300 this year.

Those in attendance evinced interest in the British Empire Games, with Mr. Osborne pointing out that original plans called for a 40,000-seat stadium at UBC, 15,000 seats being built on a permanent plan.

Also in the original brochure submitted by the City of Vancouver was a swim pool at UBC which that university sorely needs, he felt.

"Unlike most large cities which have universities within their borders, Vancouver has never made any substantial monetary grant to UBC and Mr. Osborne is hopeful that through the medium of the BEG that UBC will now benefit from Vancouver city."

"We want the people of the province to feel that this is a British Columbia affair, not merely a Vancouver event," Mr. Osborne stressed.

Asked about students' loans, the Capsules gave detailed information on scholarships, bursaries and students' loans which are all based on the idea of providing more opportunities for high school students to continue their studies.

The Dominion-Provincial youth bursaries, which allowed $100,000 for B.C. students in the past year are based on 80 percent bursary and 40 percent loan, it was pointed out.

Of the 800 graduates of the faculty of agriculture, Dean Eagles was proud to state that 80 percent have remained in B.C., 86 percent are still in Canada and of those in B.C. 16 percent have gone into farming on a commercial basis.

NOTES from PARLIAMENT HILL

(By O. L. JONES, MP for Yale)

Mr. Ross Thatcher, member for Moose Jaw, took the Minister of Resources and Development to task for his failure to provide sufficient homes for the people of Canada. Mr. Thatcher claimed that the present terms for borrowing money through the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation are too severe and should be eased so that the average person with a medium income could purchase a home. According to Mr. D. E. Mansur, president of the corporation, we in Canada are short 425,000 houses, and possibly this figure is on the conservative side. With immigration and natural growth, the situation is becoming more and more desperate.

The speaker went on to say that there are literally hundreds of thousands of our fellow citizens jammed together in dismal quarters with little or no privacy. Overcrowding, dirt, poor ventilation and bad lighting are breeding disease, mental strain, and breaking up families. He stated that many young people in Canada today are unable to have children simply because they dare not under existing conditions.

Last Spring the minister in charge of housing told the House that home building would receive priority for essential materials second only to defence industries themselves. Mr. Thatcher pointed out that housing has received no priority within the past six months, according to the admission of the minister. During this time new bank buildings have been built, office buildings and commercial buildings. Here in Ottawa the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation are putting up a very large and costly building with enough material, according to the speaker, to build 100 homes. He went on to say that a subsidized low-rental program is the only real solution to our housing problem.

Mr. Drew spoke of the recent trip of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh and suggested that the Citizenship Act should be changed to make the Royal Family Canadian citizens.

Mr. Drew went on to speak about the tremendous loss sustained this year on the Prairie provinces, with $200,000,000 worth of this year's grain still lying under the snow. He dealt with the problem of lack of box cars which the government tried to remedy by appointing a box car controller. Mr. Drew suggested that a conference be called of all the ministers of agriculture from each prairie province, such a meeting to discuss the present difficulty as well as plan for next year's crop.

Mr. Drew referred to the sub-amendment which raised the question on war veterans allowances, and the government, on October 19 and the government, on October 19

"The government has come to the conclusion that it is advisable to have this legislation studied by a special committee on veterans affairs before submitting it to the House. Accordingly it is intended that such a committee will be set up as early as possible after the regular 1952 session opens in order to deal with the War Veterans Allowance Act."

From this statement it would appear that something will be done, but not in time to take care of the veterans who wish to apply for old age pensions early this year.

Mr. Gardiner announced that he intends to go to Rome to attend the FAO meeting to discuss with other nations the problem of food supplies for member nations. In his speech Mr. Gardiner pointed out that we could produce more bacon and more dairy products than we are producing, if it were necessary to do so, but the question is, if we did raise any more, what are we going to do with it? He pointed out that there are a great many people in the world who could make use of it and it is for this purpose that he intends to go to Rome, to find out the facts regarding the need for increased production. Mr. Gardiner pointed out that the best market available is the British Isles, but everyone else thinks so as well, with the result that there is world competition to supply Britain with her needed imports of food stuffs. Mr. Gardiner, on his return from Rome, will visit the United Kingdom to discuss with the government future trade relations of the two countries. We, in British Columbia are very hopeful that it will result in more fruit being shipped to Great Britain than is the case at the present time.

Mr. Herridge discussed the statement made by Mr. Solon Low at Summerland two or three months ago. Mr. Low referred to a fruit industry "gestapo" or "gestapo-like fruit inspectors" who prevent persons from taking fruit from British Columbia into Alberta unless it has been purchased through the proper channels and he also claimed that Tree Fruits Limited were not supplying the Peace River district with peaches. Mr. Herridge dealt at length with the various steps through which the growers passed before finally reaching the high standard of marketing that prevails today. After pointing out the use made of the by-products from unmarketable apples, Mr. Herridge concluded with this statement: "I suggest that the hon. member visit the Okanagan Valley and investigate the situation more closely for himself. I am sure the officials of the tree fruit board, B.C. Tree Fruits Limited, and the officials of all the packinghouses concerned, whether they are co-operatively owned or privately owned, will be only too pleased to place at his disposal all the information he requires so that he can be well and properly informed."

Hon. J. J. McCann, Minister of National Revenue, moved that a special committee be appointed to consider the annual report and amendment to the Canadian Broadcasting Act. He stated that the recommendation of the Massey Commission in effect summarized just what in the past successive governments and all political parties and parliamentary committees through the years thought to be the best kind of system in Canada. This subject is a controversial one; on one hand we have people who believe in state operation of broadcasting stations; on the other hand, we have members who would have the government rid themselves of the responsibility of broadcasting service. Dr. McCann referred to the recommendation of the Massey Commission as follows: "The financial provision in the bill which will presently be before the House is designed to bring the income of the Corporation up to about the equivalent of one dollar per head of the population. It does so by providing by law for the payment of a fixed sum of $3,250,000 each year to the corporation for five years."

Mr. Justice Clyne Refuses To Allow Evidence of Phone Conversation in Clark Trial

From Thursday morning until Saturday afternoon, most of the evidence submitted at the murder trial of George Frederick Clark, young Summerland veteran-orchardist, was of a routine nature patterned along the lines of the preliminary hearing.

Henry Kuhar, who had been termed a "hostile" witness by Mr. Justice Clyne, the presiding judge, left the stand and was followed by various witnesses who were in the vicinity of the Tavender home on the night of June 30.

Most important discussion took place late Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Marianne Thorsteinson was called to the stand to give evidence concerning a telephone call which she was alleged to have received from the late Harold O. Tavender about 9:30 o'clock on the night of June 30.

This evidence was successfully contested by the defence as inadmissible and in the end Mr. Justice Clyne agreed that by inference it might be prejudicial to the accused in the minds of the jury.

On Thursday morning, Henry Kuhar was asked to compare various statements which he allegedly made to RCMP in answer to questions shortly after the June 30 at-fray.

This police statement was at variance in some instances, with the result that Mr. Justice Clyne at one point said: "Well, which is right and which is wrong?"

At another point, Mr. Clyne asked Kuhar: "Are you suggesting police changed your statement after you gave it?"

Kuhar indicated that he had changed some of the answers in the course of questioning.

In the statement made to police, he said that he heard "several or many" shots while he was seated in the car near the Tavender home on the second visit.

Last week, in the court trial, he said he heard one shot while seated in the car and another as he was entering the home of Lorne Perry.

Under cross-examination, he declared that the trial evidence was correct.

In the statement made to police Mr. Lindsay read of Kuhar's impressions of Clark's manner following his first visit to the Tavender home.

"I never saw George so mad. He was just out of his head. I can usually handle George but this time I had no control over him," Kuhar was quoted.

In replying to the alleged inconsistencies between the statement and the evidence last week, Defense Counsel McInnes drew attention to the time the police statement was given, shortly after the fracas occurred.

"I take it it was a hectic night for you?" Mr. McInnes queried, to which Kuhar replied: "Yes".

Hadn't Seen Weapon

Mr. McInnes then asked witness whether he had seen a weapon in Clark's car or whether it could have been concealed there. To questions, the witness gave a negative reply.

First witness Thursday afternoon was Lorne Perry, who went to the Tavender home and saw the broken pane of glass in the front door. He found this front door closed tight but a door on the east side open.

"I shouted into the house and got no reply," declared Mr. Perry who continued shouting until he heard a reply from the roadway down the embankment to the east of the house.

Referring to having heard Clark call out, Perry told defence counsel that there was "a note of urgency in Clark's voice" when he called "Henry".

Mr. Perry also agreed that he heard five or six shots besides the first one which attracted his attention, fired at intervals, in succession.

Peter Lenzi, Summerland truck driver, told of contacting two police officers, Constables Thorsteinson and Green, and proceeding with them to the Perry home. He also went for an ambulance and drove it (a light delivery truck) to the Happy Valley road.

Witness told court that the deceased man, Tavender, was placed on a stretcher on the back of his truck and taken to hospital. Henry Kuhar rode on the truck at the rear.

Saw Tavender at 8:50 p.m.

Alan Butler, clerk in the hardware firm of Butler & Walden, testified he saw Tavender on the night of June 30, at about 8:50 o'clock. He was sitting in a car which Butler recognized as one usually driven by Mrs. Tavender.

Butler believed Tavender to have been in a "fairly normal condition". He lit a cigarette for Tavender and there was "only a slight smell of alcohol on his breath".

Tavender asked Butler for permission to go into the warehouse and hide but was denied this request as it was near closing time.

Then followed Constable I. G. Thorsteinson, in charge of the Summerland RCMP detachment, who told of being summoned to the Tavender home on the night of June 30, finding the deceased man lying on the Happy Valley road, with Clark sitting a short distance away on the bank.

He outlined the story of his part in the evening's search for details, how Tavender was conducted to hospital, where he subsequently passed away shortly after midnight.

Then, Constable Thorsteinson introduced a large number of the main exhibits, which have numbered more than 150 in this trial.

David L. Gibson, of the Penticton Funeral Home, told of assisting in the post mortem and introduced various pictures of the deceased witnesses from Regina crime laboratory headquarters was Staff Sergeant Andrew Mason-Rooke who has had 20 years' experience, as a firearms expert.

He produced evidence to indicate a similarity between the discharged shotgun cartridges and pellets found and those which he tested in firing the broken W. W. Greener double-barreled 12-gauge shotgun which was found on the Tavender stairs by Henry Kuhar.

A great number of photographs of the discharged shotgun shells and those fired in tests by the witness were shown the jury.

Cpl. A. Romenco was the "expert" witness on blood stains, identifying most of the stains discovered in the search of the Tavender home as being those caused by human blood.

Cpl. W. W. Reid explained that tests indicated that pieces of broken glass had been broken by force being directed from certain direction. Fingerprint expert Sgt. J. H. S. P. Jones only found fingerprints on two pieces of putty from the Tavender home and he declared they had been made by the left palm of the accused.

These expert witnesses were dismissed from court by midafternoon on Saturday.

The jury was ordered out of the courtroom to allow Mrs. Marianne Thorsteinson, wife of RCMP Constable Thorsteinson of Summerland to give details of a telephone conversation between herself and the late Harold Tavender about 9:30 on Saturday night, June 30.

Mr. McInnes, defence counsel, objected to this evidence being given while the press was represented in the courtroom. He felt that if a further trial was held such evidence as Mrs. Thorsteinson would give might prejudice another jury.

Mr. Justice Clyne pointed out to Mr. McInnes that this "is a public court and they are the public press", and he had no intention of endeavoring to order the press in any way.

However, he turned to the press box and declared that in the interests of justice and a fair trial for the accused, that the press might refrain from publishing any statement by the witness unless it is ruled admissible.

The Vernon News reporter, the Vancouver Sun valley press representative and the editor of the Summerland Review were "covering" the trial at the time and all agreed to refrain from any publication of Mrs. Thorsteinson's evidence.

The jury was taken back to Orchardleigh Lodge where members were held incommunicado over the entire weekend.

Council Enquires About Jones Flat

Summerland municipal council asked a question on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 13, concerning any action being taken on the proposed Jones Flat sprinkler irrigation system which has been at a standstill for some months.

It was stated that the section under Alan McKenzie had reported to the council water committee but the section under Mr. Bill Baker had never been reported. Mr. Baker only recently returned from a visit to Manitoba.

Council decided to write Mr. Baker and determine if growers in his area are still interested in the proposal.

Two Research Grants Are Sought by Local Growers; Small Attendance Deplored

Reeve C. E. Bentley proposed to the annual meeting of the BCFGA Summerland local in the IOOF hall on Wednesday afternoon last week that the annual BCFGA $5,000 maximum grant for research work carried out on behalf of the fruit industry should be continued in 1952.

Summerland growers agreed and will carry the resolution to the annual BCFGA convention in Penticton next January. This research grant was instituted seven years ago and has been a great boon to the industry in forwarding some types of research which otherwise the federal agriculture department could not afford to carry out.

Dr. R. C. Palmer, experimental station superintendent, told of advances made this year with part of the money set aside by the valley growers in research.

At last January's convention, certification of nursery stock to make certain as to truthness to variety and rootstock was urged by the grower delegates and as a consequence the experimental station used part of the research money for this purpose.

Karles Lapins, who was a nurseryman in Latvia, made a careful search of nursery stocks in B.C. for the experimental station and discovered that accidental mixtures in a number of commercial nurseries had been allowed to creep in.

"With the co-operation of the nurserymen, these wrongly named trees were eliminated," Dr. Palmer declared.

It was found possible to identify most of the commercial varieties of apples, pears, cherries and apricots by leaf character in the nursery row, but peach varieties were found very difficult to identify, he explained, and it was practically impossible to differentiate between Elbertas and the V's in the nursery row.

"The research work on nursery stock identification should be continued for at least another year," he thought.

Study of Irrigation The other half of the research grant was consumed in further studies on irrigation methods in the Okanagan, and Dr. J. C. Wilcox, who is in charge of this work, introduced Dave Steyenson, who has been assisting on this work through the financial aid offered by the growers.

How much water is needed on certain types of soil, the irrigation interval and certain other factors are being studied.

A portion of Tom Croil's orchard was used this year and much to the researchers' dismay despite the fact that no irrigation was applied, none of the trees in the research plot wilted.

To carry on experiments, Dr. Wilcox is looking for a block of good-sized McIntosh apples on sandy soil without gravel and under sprinkler irrigation.

Another important resolution was sponsored by BCFGA Chairman C. J. McKenzie and called upon the BCFGA executive, survey committee and shippers banding together in an overall attempt to eliminate a lot of the bruising now prevalent in boxed apples reaching the retail trade.

Surveys in the U.S. showed that one-third of the apples reaching the American trade are bruised on arrival and Mr. McKenzie was of the opinion the percentage is as great if not higher in Canada. He thought a press should be instituted which would stop operating when more than 7.5 pounds pressure was applied, in affixing the box lid.

This resolution, which received unanimous approval, brought forth some discussion on overweight packs and it was H. J. Wells' opinion that names of packinghouses which are found to be the worst offenders in this respect should be published so that the growers will know where some of their fruit is going.

J. H. Walton wanted more supervision of packinghouse employees, especially those who are sacrificing quality of pack for speed and output of pack. J. Y. Towgood considered that the new scheme adopted this year of a group of inspectors descending without notice on packing houses and giving a general overhaul of packinghouse routine has had good results.

The bad actors in the fruit industry are known to the survey committee and attempts are being made to correct their faults, Eric M. Tait considered. He felt the new system of inspection is working quite satisfactorily.

W. C. Baker had brought in a half dozen samples of extremely poor quality apples which he had brought back from Winnipeg. Most of them were extremely small in size, all of them badly bruised McIntosh which had emanated from Vernon this year. They sold for 21 cents per pound on the Winnipeg market.

Harvey Eden commented that such examples of poor grading and inspection should be brought back on the inspectors who allowed the fruit to leave the valley.

Harvey Walton considered the greatest evil of the packing industry is the paying by piecework.

George Washington, Summerland Co-op manager, pointed out that Summerland was the only town in the valley which asked to have packinghouses rated. Other towns didn't want such a system, he said.

C. McKenzie Again Chosen Local Head

C. J. McKenzie was unanimously returned as BCFGA Summerland local president for a second term when the annual meeting attracted less than fifty of the 460 registered growers in this district to the IOOF hall on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 14.

Walter Toevs was also the unanimous choice of secretary-treasurer, while executive members consist of Harvey Eden, W. T. Bleasdale, H. J. Wells, Eric M. Tait, and Bill Barkwill.

Along with these officers, Roy Smith and J. R. Butler will be delegates to the annual BCFGA convention next January.

Chairman McKenzie commented that this has been an active year for the local, with five general meetings.

"This part of our organization is as important as the growing of the fruit," he commented, and this is the time of year when growers should sit back and take a good look at the situation.

He reminded growers that over half the fruit sold in the United States is in processed form, and the per capita consumption of apples as fresh fruit has dropped to a great extent.

There is also a decided switch to citrus fruit from apples and he felt something will have to be done to show people the health qualities of apples. Also, the apples must be placed on the market in better condition, which includes retail education, as well as better handling methods from this end.

Deplores Lack of Interest

J. Y. Towgood reminded the growers that without a strong organization such as the BCFGA, along with the sales agency, it would have been impossible for the industry to obtain such a grant as Ottawa has recently made of $1,200,000 to bolster the 1950 price levels on apples.

"Growers this afternoon are showing a deplorable lack of interest in their means of livelihood," he declared with some heat. "It amounts to lack of citizenship," when 43 attend out of 460 membership.

There were several suggestions, one for an evening meeting being lost by a small margin.

N. O. Solly thought that growers like to be pushed and it was up to the executive to provide more push to get the growers out to meetings.

Jack Morrow, on the other hand, indicated that it is still a free country, and it is up to the individual grower if he wishes to attend meetings.

As a means of showing growers an example of their attendance, figures of the last three years will be included in the notice of motion calling general meetings.

C. E. Bentley spoke shortly on the hail insurance scheme which has concluded its second year of operation with good results. He intimated there may be another alteration in the rate structure.

Alec Watt, district agriculturist, warned that there must be a revision in the tree census and as a consequence he is starting on another tree survey.

processed, giving a better opportunity to sell good grades and varieties at better prices.

Eric Tait pointed out that large acreages of apples in the U.S. are devoted entirely to production for processing and growers receive a fair return for their product.

Pucksters Weak on Defence, Lose Opener to Penticton 4-1

A weak defence cost Summerland's entry in the Penticton district commercial puck league playing in the new Penticton arena last Sunday a 4-1 loss. Victors in the first game of the league schedule were Penticton Merchants.

on defence, with the result that Penticton failed to count again. But this so robbed the forward strength that the additional scoring punch was not there.

Security Has Always Been Goal Of Working Man Board is Told

Man has always looked for something; he is looking for it today and that something is security. This was the main theme of L. F. Haggman, manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission office in Penticton when he addressed the Summerland Board of Trade November monthly meeting in the IOOF hall on Thursday, Nov. 8.

NEWS FROM THE GREAT OUTDOORS

(By Bert Berry)

FISHING Fishing on Okanagan Lake is still okay for anyone who goes out trolling, but the weather is cold and inclined to be stormy.

HUNTING Deer hunting is getting tough right now. The better weather has caused most of the deer to go back up high.

There are a few bucks still down low but on the whole it is pretty uncertain to get a chance to shoot. Hunters on the lower levels far out number the bucks.

We have laws with teeth to correct this but lack of finance in the game department makes them impossible to enforce.

Still the odd moose coming in and the odd party leaving to try their luck.

Peachland Curlers Start Winter Play

On Sunday, November 18, the Peachland Curling club opened its doors for the winter season, with its two artificial ice rinks being well occupied.

Kelowna is expecting to open its new curling rink soon, but Penticton's plans for erection of a curling rink went astray when it was found impossible to purchase the necessary pipe, due to war economy measures.

Were in Uniform Around Bed

In re-examination, Mr. McInnes asked Const. Thorsteinson if he had conferred at all with crown counsel Lindsay to which the witness replied that he had spoken to him at Summerland briefly.

Mr. McInnes drew from the witness the admission that at the time when Clark talked with police, they were in uniform around his bed.

Defence counsel then questioned the witness regarding putting his hand through a broken pane on the door at the Tavender home to see if he could get his hand to the knob inside.

That no permission had been obtained from Dr. Munn to question Clark was an admission by Const. Thorsteinson, answering Mr. McInnes.

That Clark was well known and highly respected in Summerland was a statement by Const. Thorsteinson and other witnesses, answering Mr. McInnes.

Clark Asked Questions

Const. Green, on the stand, related incidents similar to those told the court by the previous witness. He also testified that Clark had asked him: "What would I do if my sister was covered with bruises?" I made no reply. He said: "You would do the same as I did... Oh, what's the use," the constable testified.

In cross-examination, Mr. McInnes said to Const. Green: "There was no one on the road. There was nothing to prevent him (the accused) killing Tavender then?"

Witness: "No, sir."

Const. Green also said that Clark was "crying while in hospital", when in conversation with police officers.

Cpl. W. C. Wallace, of Penticton, relating the incidents of the morning of July 1 when Clark was placed under arrest in Summerland hospital, testified that the accused had said: "I am in a bad spot." He asked for a lawyer, and queried the two constables as to whether it would be advisable. The warning to the accused was written and read by Clark, one earlier witness stated.

In cross-examination, Mr. McInnes reminded Cpl. Wallace that Clark had asked if he should get a lawyer; that he (Clark) had said: "I had better wait, if that is alright with you?" to which the constables are alleged to have said: "That's up to you."

"And then you put your questions?" said Mr. McInnes.

"Yes," answered the witness, who said he was sure that the accused had understood the warning.

Recall Dr. Vanderburgh

Dr. Vanderburgh was recalled. Mr. McInnes: "Had you formed the opinion the condition of Tavender was hopeless?"

Witness: "No." That there was no whole blood in Summerland for a transfusion and that there was "quite a delay in receiving it from Penticton," was admitted by the witness.

Mr. McInnes: "Among other injuries, Tavender had a broken leg?"

Dr. Vanderburgh: "Yes."

Mr. McInnes said that Tavender had crossed a flume, and rolled down a hill, either of which could have resulted in a broken leg, to which the witness agreed; but, said Mr. McInnes, "there is also evidence that there were injuries besides a break" to which Dr. Vanderburgh said there was a portion of shot in that leg.

Mr. McInnes: "Now, we have evidence that Tavender and Clark were upstairs in a bedroom; that a shot gun was broken and that they ran from the home. The police found Tavender on Happy Valley Road. Would it be possible for a man to get from that bedroom to the road with a broken leg such as you found?"

Dr. Vanderburgh: "I would not think so."

Mr. McInnes: "You believe the leg was broken falling down the bank. It could also cause some other injuries?"

Dr. Vanderburgh: "It is possible; yes."

The witness said Tavender had been a patient of his "off and on for six years." He agreed that he was an alcoholic, and at one time confined to Essondale; and that he was the physician consulted prior to his commitment to the mental home.

Answering Mr. Lindsay, Dr. Vanderburgh said he had not probed the bone in Tavender's leg to see if the shot had made the bone more susceptible to breakage, and that "I would not think the shot would do much damage."

The physician said Tavender had mental disorders; was mentally unstable.

Mr. Justice Clyne: "Would you say he was insane?"

Dr. Vanderburgh: "I would say he was incapable of managing his own affairs... Not able to meet the knocks of life... He sought refuge and escape in alcohol. His condition dates back to childhood."

Mr. Justice Clyne: "In other words, he was a mystery."

Dr. Vanderburgh: "Yes, a mystery, in my opinion."

Didn't Get Permission

Dr. Munn was recalled to the stand. He testified he had sewed up a tendon on the hand of his patient, Clark, for which he had administered a local anaesthetic, and prescribed some sleeping pills.

Mr. McInnes asked whether his (Dr. Munn's) permission had been asked before his patient was questioned, to which the witness replied: "It was not."

During the post-mortem performed on Tavender, Mr. McInnes continued: "There were marks on the front and top of the head but not on the back." Dr. Munn said these were not of a serious nature and there was no injury to the skull.

"Clark could have fractured his skull with the baseball bat if he had wanted to," Mr. McInnes asked. Dr. Munn said "he could have."

"The leg injury was not in itself the cause of death?" Mr. McInnes asked. "No, sir," replied Dr. Munn.

Mr. Lindsay asked if the bone could have been "weakened from the shot gun pellets," to which Dr. Munn agreed.

TWENTY IN ARREARS ON DOG LICENCE PAYMENTS

Only two persons have arrears over $8 still outstanding on domestic water accounts with the municipality, council was informed on Nov. 13. There are twenty persons who are in arrears in payment of dog licences, however, and council is determined to take action against these tardy persons soon.

Walter Toevs is Delegate to B.C. Fed. Agriculture

Walter Toevs, secretary of the largest BCFGA local in the province, is attending the general meeting of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture in Mission City today.

These sessions opened yesterday and are concluding this afternoon.

It was agreed at last week's annual BCFGA meeting that Mr. Toevs should represent Summerland at these important provincial meetings. President C. J. McKenzie was offered the trip but he declined in favor of Mr. Toevs.

Dr. Taggart, deputy minister of agriculture for Canada, was guest speaker at the two-day session, while another, highlight was the holding of a public speaking contest for junior farm clubs throughout B.C.

The B.C. Federation of Agriculture has a special significance for Summerland as it was one of the local fruit growers, the late Major E. E. Hutton who acted as chairman of an impromptu meeting in Toronto during the Royal Winter Fair when some 75 farm leaders from all provinces in Canada organized the Canadian Federation of Agriculture which is today the voice of some half-million farmers across Canada.

questions put to him. Dr. McGregor was called to testify by the defence.

As court opened, Mr. McInnes asked that Mr. Justice Clyne repeat the request made earlier in the trial that the press not report any statements which might subsequently be ruled non-admissible.

The Tavender declaration was not read and thus its contents will never now become public knowledge.

This decision was preceded by lengthy evidence provided the court while the jury was absent. It was later repeated on Tuesday morning, with the defence cross-examining.

Lack of space in this issue prevents providing the full report of the statements made by the witnesses when the decision to allow their evidence was made by Mr. Justice Clyne.

This portion of the evidence will be given in next week's issue.

Summerland school board has operated well within its budget according to reports heard at the meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 14.

The Summerland Review

Vol. 48, No. 6 48 West Summerland, B.C., Thursday, November 29, 1951

Mother Arrives From Europe, Dies in Crash

George Stoll returned to Summerland on Monday evening but he was not accompanied by his mother, whom he met on her arrival at Quebec from Germany earlier in the month.

Mrs. Barbara Stoll, aged 69 died in Hammond, Indiana, of heart failure following an accident which involved the new car purchased in the east by Mr. Stoll and another vehicle which is said to have come from the right into the intersection against the traffic lights.

Funeral service for the late Mrs. Stoll was held from St. Paul's Lutheran church in Hammond, Indiana, with the remains being cremated. They are being forwarded to Summerland for burial.

The late Mrs. Stoll developed pneumonia on board the liner bringing her and her youngest son, Karl, and his wife to Canada from their native war-torn Europe.

So seriously was Mrs. Stoll's heart affected that the doctors feared she would not live until the end of the voyage. However, she gained strength in a Quebec hospital and doctors advised she could be sent west by plane.

The elderly woman, however, resolutely refused to leave her son George, whom she had not seen for 23 years. So they started on their trip west which ended with such tragic circumstances in Indiana.

Mr. Stoll was travelling on U.S. No. 6 highway at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Nov. 20, and was approaching the intersection of Burnham road, near Hammond, which is controlled by traffic lights. Mr. Stoll saw the green light was in his favor when suddenly a car loomed up on the right.

The Summerland man only had time to swerve slightly to the left when the collision occurred, the oncoming car striking the right front section of the Stoll auto.

Doors were sprung and flew open right after the impact, Mrs. Stoll being thrown to the roadway. She died a short time after the incident.

Besides her two sons George and Karl, she leaves another son, Hans, also a Summerland fruit grower.

Freddy Brind Holds Perfect 29 Hand In Crib

Freddy Brind, well-known old-time Summerland resident, has achieved the goal of all crib players—a perfect 29 hand.

On Saturday last, while playing with Bert Fraser, Freddy held three fives and the Jack of Diamonds. The five of Diamonds turned up, giving him the perfect hand—the dream of all persons who participate in this favorite game.

"I have had 28 several times but this is the only 29 points I ever held," remarked Mr. Brind, adding a little wistfully: "I will not live long enough to get another hand like that."

Went Ahead with Work too Soon; Costs $77.50

Because the municipal electrical crew went ahead with extension work to the E. H. Anderson property (formerly the W. R. Tweedy orchard) before a formal agreement was reached between council and the new owner, the municipality lost $77.50 this week.

On Tuesday, a letter was received from a firm of Winnipeg lawyers representing Mr. Anderson which agreed to settle the municipal electrical extension account of $264.16 for $186.66, the difference being half the amount of the transformer installed to service the property.

The Winnipeg law firm declared that Mr. Anderson and the representative of the municipal electrical department (T. P. Thornber) had come to an agreement that the cost of the transformer would be halved.

Council remembered that such a proposal had been discussed at the time but after submitting it to Victoria had found that no authority for the scheme could be obtained.

In the meantime, however, the electrical crew had proceeded with the work. Council conceded that there was no recourse but to accept the smaller amount and call the deal closed.

Summerland Census Figure 3,551, Jump of 72 Percent in 10 Years

Summerland's population is in excess of the estimated figure which has been used by municipal and board of trade circles here for the past two to three years, the report from the bureau of statistics on the 1951 census reveals.

Preliminary total for Summerland municipality is placed at 3,551 against 2,504 in 1941.

Local estimates had placed the population at rough count of 3,500.

This gives Summerland an increase of 1,497 persons in the past ten years or a percentage increase of 72 percent, only ten points off Penticton's record jump of 82 percent.

The Okanagan and Shuswap area, exclusive of Salmon Arm and Revelstoke, is included in one section of Division 3 in the census tabulations. The other two sections take in the Similkameen and Grand Forks-Greenwood areas.

Actually, this Division 3 is Yale electoral riding.

From the northern section of Enderby and Grindrod and the Shuswap lake area south to Penticton and including the villages of Oliver and Osoyoos, preliminary figures show 58,576 for the Okanagan population.

However, the population in the unorganized area from Trout Creek south to the border is not revealed in the breakdowns, so that the actual Okanagan population must be in excess of 60,000 persons.

A rough estimate of Okanagan population from these figures would be close to 65,000 persons.

Throughout Yale riding the population is 77,266, an increase of 25,661 over the 1941 figure of 51,605. This gives a percentage increase in ten years of nearly 50 percent.

North and South Okanagan sections have increased to 46,186 from 30,306, or 15,880, 52 percent.

Similkameen provincial riding section of Yale federal, which takes in Penticton to the border and west to Princeton and Tulameen, now has 24,068 an increase of 9,228 or 58 percent.

Grand Forks-Greenwood shows an increase of 7,012 from the 1941 figure of 5,459; 1,553 more persons, or only 28 percent, the smallest percentage increase in any section of Yale riding.

Following are the complete figures for Yale riding:

PACKING SEASON NEARING CLOSE

The 1951 packing season is rapidly coming to a close in Summerland district, one of the shortest apple packing periods for some years.

Last Thursday morning the Summerland C6-op closed down its graders for this year and Walter's Ltd. also ceased packing operations last week.

B.C. Fruit Shippers Ltd. expects to shut down tomorrow but the Occidental Fruit Co. Ltd. will continue packing until December 7 or 8, it is expected.

Only canning plant in operation, the Cornwell Canning Co., expects to shut down for the season on Saturday.

C. A. Hayden to Step Down from BCFGAs Secretary's Post

Charles A. Hayden, secretary of the B.C. Fruit Growers' Assn. for many years, will step down from his familiar role early in the new year.

Mr. Hayden will assume a new role, that of public relations in the fruit industry, in 1952 after the annual BCFGAs convention takes place.

The secretary-treasurer next year will be J. McLennan, Okanagan Mission, whose first duties will be to assist Mr. Hayden in organizing the BCFGAs convention at Pent-

W. H. F. Welsh, 81, Passes After 31 Years Here

A resident of Summerland district for 31 years, William H. F. Welsh, aged 81, a native of Limerick, Ireland, died in Summerland General hospital on Tuesday evening, November 27, after being in ill health for some time.

The late Mr. Welsh, who was well known and respected throughout this district, grew up in Tipperary and at school in England and Wales.

In his earlier years he was a munitions engineer in England and Scotland, meeting and marrying Captain Nellie Mann of the Salvation Army at Walsall, in the Black Country in May, 1914.

As soon as World War I was concluded, the Welsh family which then included one son, Maurice, came to Canada and directly to Summerland, in 1920. Here Mr. Welsh established himself as an orchardist and a beekeeper, winning most of the district prizes for his excellent honey.

In the earlier days of this district, the "governance car", which Mr. Welsh ordered along the lines of the car his mother drove in Ireland, was a familiar sight driving along the Giant's Head road.

The late Mr. Welsh was active in Sunday school and church work in Summerland for many years, and whenever a drive for Red Cross or other charitable cause needed a canvasser Mr. Welsh could always be counted upon to do more than his share.

Besides his wife and one son, Dr. Maurice Welsh of the plant pathological laboratory in Summerland, he leaves one sister, Mrs. F. Gason of "Richmond", Nenagh, County Tipperary, Ireland.

Funeral services are being conducted this afternoon from St. Stephen's Anglican church, at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Canon F. V. Harrison officiating. Interment will be in the Anglican cemetery with the following as pallbearers: David Munn, Ronald Mackay, Lawrence Rumball, S. R. Cannings, Dr. C. G. Woodbridge and Dr. H. R. McLarty, Roselawn Funeral Home in charge.

Discuss Stockpiling Sand on Bad Hills

Although the subject of stockpiling sand on hills where hard surfaced roads may become slippery in freezing weather was debated at some length by council on Tuesday, no decision was reached.

Road Foreman Les Gould was quoted as stating that there is enough sand available on the Sandhill without stockpiling it there, and Councillor F. M. Stewart doubted if there is sufficient room to pile sand on Hospital hill.

JAYCEES' REGIONAL MEET IN KELOWNA

A regional Jaycee conference will be held in Kelowna this Sunday with Clara Way of Penticton, one of the B.C. Junior Chamber of Commerce vice-presidents presiding at the meeting. President E. F. (Ted) Weeks, Past President John Benness and Treasurer Al McIntosh are expected to represent Summerland Jaycees at this conference.

Vacancies for Municipal Posts Likely to be Filled by Acclamation

This Saturday, December 1, the annual ratepayers' meeting is being held, preparatory to the annual municipal elections, if a contest is indicated, on Saturday, December 15.

Nominations close at the municipal office next Thursday at noon for reeve, two councillors, two school trustees and one parks board commissioner, all for two-year terms.

From present indications, all posts will go by acclamation as there seems to be only a modicum of interest in bringing out new candidates.

It is possible that some new candidates may come forward in the next week, or be announced at Saturday's ratepayers' meeting.

One prospective candidate for the office of reeve of Summerland has declined nomination this week, with ex-Reeve R. A. Johnston declaring that he will not enter the municipal election next month.

Mr. Johnston, who holds high posts in railway union brotherhoods expects to be absent from the municipality at least two months in 1952 and therefore does not feel he can become a candidate for office at this time.

Reeve C. E. Bentley will be a candidate for re-election and from present indications will be unopposed.

Councillor F. M. Stewart will seek re-election for a second two-year term but Councillor E. M. Tait still states that he will not be a candidate again.

Only other known candidate for the council posts is Leslie Rumball who is understood to have agreed to be a Jaycee nominee for election.

In school board circles, Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh is expected to be re-nominated for another term but Dr. W. H. E. Munn declares he is dropping out as a trustee. It has been suggested in some quarters that Tom Manning would be a likely candidate to replace Dr. Munn. No other names have been forthcoming.

Harry W. Brown is expected to seek a second term as a member of the new board of parks commission.

Local Jaycees Plan Christmas Tree Sale

Meetings of the Summerland Junior Chamber of Commerce have been confirmed for the next month to six weeks. At Tuesday's session, it was decided to hold general meetings on Dec. 4 and 18 and another on January 8.

Main project in December will be the sale of Christmas trees, which will be undertaken for the third straight year. Council permission has been granted for sale on Granville street on two Saturdays, December 15 and 22.

IMPROVE APPROACH

This morning, an improvement to the approach on the Happy Valley road from Giant's Head road was due to commence.

Hospital Will Not Have to Pay Taxes on Nurses' Home Property

Summerland Hospital Society made an official appeal to municipal council recently for a grant in lieu of taxes applied by the municipality against land occupied by the nurses' residence.

Last year the council made such a grant as there had been no previous warning to the hospital board that taxes would be collected on this part of the hospital property.

The hospital itself and the land on which it rests is not taxed.

The hospital society pointed out that with a fixed budget this year the hospital is hard-pressed to finance.

Councillor F. M. Stewart, council member on the hospital board, explained that an amount of $185, last year's taxes, had been included in the budget but not the amount of 1951 taxes, which have increased to $222.

Hospital directors have stated that no other hospital societies in the interior region pay taxes to municipalities. This statement was checked by municipal council at Kelowna, Vernon and Penticton, while legal advice was also taken.

Reeve Bentley pointed out that the municipal act only grants exemption for buildings "used solely as a hospital".

Councillor Norman Holmes thought if other hospitals were not called upon to pay taxes then it was not "fair" to tax Summerland Hospital Society for a portion of its grounds.

Replies from Municipalities

Last Tuesday, municipal council learned the result of its inquiries to other valley municipalities and its legal adviser, the firm of Boyl & Aitkins.

Vernon does not tax any part of its hospital property and has no intention of so doing, council was told.

Kelowna's nurses' home is on hospital property but is a hospital building, and has been exempt.

B.C. Chamber of Commerce Formed at Vancouver Meet

Formation of a B.C. Chamber of Commerce, labelled an historic step in the history of British Columbia business, was accomplished in Vancouver last Friday and Saturday, with 46 voting delegates representing boards of trade, chambers of commerce and associated boards of trade throughout B.C.

Dr. C. H. Wright, C.M. & S. official from Trail is the charter president, and was installed by T. G. Norris, K.C. former Vancouver Board of Trade president, at a luncheon in Vancouver Hotel last Saturday afternoon.

Summerland Board of Trade was represented at these sessions by Walter Toews, while the Associated Boards of Trade of the Southern Interior was represented by J. R. Armstrong, also of Summerland.

J. L. Palethorpe, Penticton, represented the board of that city and was also present as a director of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The new setup provides a strong tie-in with the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. The officers of the Canadian Chamber in Vancouver will be utilized as the officers of the B.C. Chamber.

However the B.C. Chamber will be entirely autonomous and will provide a united voice for presentation of B.C. problems mainly to Victoria.

Other officers are J. V. Hughes, Vancouver, first vice-president; J. T. Harvie, K.C. Prince Rupert, second vice-president; and Larry Eroyd, field secretary of the Canadian Chamber in B.C., as the new B.C. Chamber secretary.

Directors from this district include J. L. Palethorpe of Penticton, J. L. Jenkins of Princeton and J. R. Armstrong of Summerland.

Stu Keate, publisher of the Victoria Daily Times; Hon. E. I. Johnson, premier of B.C.; and Rev. William Hills, vicar of Cadboro Bay, addressed dinner meetings of the trade board representatives while a reception was sponsored by the Fisheries Association of British Columbia.

Bishop of Kootenay Addresses Parish Congregation Here

Rt. Rev. F. P. Clark, of Nelson, Anglican Bishop of the Kootenay Diocese, visited Summerland parish last evening and addressed a large congregation in the Parish hall following an evening service in the church conducted by Rev. Canon F. V. Harrison.

Bishop Clark stressed the huge extent of the diocese, taking in the area from the Alberta boundary west along the CPR main line to Kamloops and south down the Okanagan to the American border.

In this huge area there are 120 churches with only 28 clergy to serve them, he declared, emphasizing the need for more young men to don the cloth.

He paid tribute to the earnest, diligent work of Canon Harrison and Mrs. Harrison, with their large parish which includes St. George's in Westbank, and St. Margaret's at Peachland besides St. Stephen's in Summerland. Canon Harrison is also South Okanagan rural dean, this territory including the valley south from Oyama.

This morning, the Bishop conducted Holy Communion services at St. Stephen's before being driven north by C. J. Huddleston. He will address the congregation at Salmon Arm tonight, going on to Calgary where he will conduct Sunday services before returning to his diocese.

Summerland municipality has agreed to pay the Christmas bonus of $5 per head of family and $2 for single persons to those in receipt of social welfare.

Will There be an Election Contest?

NEXT Thursday, at noon, Returning Officer W. C. W. Fosbery will announce that no more nominations for municipal offices in Summerland can be entered.

By that time, it is hoped that nominations for the positions of reeve, two councillors, two school trustees and one parks commissioner, all for two-year terms, will have been filled.

It is also hoped that there will be more than just enough nominations to fill these vacancies.

Only when there is enough interest in municipal politics to create a contest can we be sure of obtaining the type of candidate to operate our affairs who is the choice of the majority of the people.

The candidates themselves, generally speaking, anticipate a contest at the polls, as only by such method can they be certain they are serving in the interests of the majority of the ratepayers.

A few short weeks ago there seemed to be plenty of criticism of the municipal council. The vote on the municipal hall bylaw indicated that the council's method of operation and plans for the future were against the wishes of a certain large-sized group in the municipality.

If such was the case, and the vote definitely indicated an opposition, then some of the critics should be prepared to allow their names to go forward as nominees for office.

We can only hope there will be a civic contest this year and that next Saturday's annual ratepayers' meeting has a good representation from the many taxpayers and ratepayers in this district. Those entrusted with the cares of this municipality deserve, at least, a good representative turnout when they are prepared to give an accounting of their stewardship.

Look Beyond Local Horizon

LAST week, we were privileged to hear two impressive speakers enfold their version of B.C.'s advancement, coupled with a vision of the future of this great province.

Talk centered upon the expenditure of millions of dollars in permanent establishments which will provide new payrolls and build up large industrial centres where before there was only virgin wilderness.

Here in the Okanagan, we have been faced with two depressed years. We are inclined to bury ourselves in our immediate problems and look not to the future but just beyond the end of our collective noses, and be cast down with gloom.

But when we get out of our environment for a short time, listen to others who see a broader picture of ever-increasing development, discuss mutual problems with those who are looking to the future, our perspective is altered considerably.

Then, again, at Vernon last week, one of our own valley leaders, A. K. Loyd, cautiously expressed a modest hope for a betterment of the fruit industry outlook in the immediate future, with an ever brighter vision for those who put their house in order and produce the best quality product for a discriminating market.

It was heartening to be told by Mr. Loyd that even in the most trying times through which we have passed those who produced the best quality were able to show a profit.

By taking a leaf from the book of those who have been successful in this fruit industry through the "tough" times, all growers should be able to overcome their problems and look to the future with assurance of eventual success.

It is refreshing to obtain the viewpoint of those who can see beyond their immediate small horizon.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

The old saying that "love of money is the root of evil" seems to be having a lot of tragic illustration on the international scene right now.

Take the anti-British troubles in Iran and Egypt, for example. Are the cries of "Egypt for the Egyptians" and "Iran for the Iranians" dictated by pure patriotism? If so, they would be just as justifiable as "Britain for the British" or "America for the Americans" or "Canada for All Three," but according to my information, it is not so.

In both these countries there is a small dominating class that is very rich, and the masses of the people are poverty-stricken peasants. But among the latter are strong stirrings of discontent with this inequality; and it is to take their minds off this that the upper classes have stirred up anti-foreign feeling—so that they themselves can keep their ill-gotten wealth a little longer.

Or consider the queer British political situation. Never has Britain had a more British or more effective voice than Churchill's; never has she needed strong vocal representation more in foreign affairs. But Churchill has been out of power for six years, and is prime minister now with only a small majority of the popular vote.

Why? Because Churchill stands for the party that stands for wealth. Wealthy Britishers are generally, kindly chaps with a strict code of justice; but in many of their mines, factories, and other sources of income, wages were disgracefully low and working conditions disgracefully poor. And they let them stay that way because it would mean a reduction of their own income to pay higher wages or provide better conditions.

So Britain, instead of having a sort of French revolution, which would have been very awkward with the different language and all, simply voted out the party that stood for wealth and privilege, back in 1945, and voted in the Labor government.

It has been violently attacked by those whose privileges it has curtailed, and there has been little color or vividness in its leadership. But I understand that the poorer classes of England—numbering how many millions, I wonder?—have been better fed, better clothed, better housed, and given more adequate medical care than they ever had before the Labor government went in.

Unwillingness to share their wealth put Churchill's Conservatives out of power once, and certainly will again if they let the root of evil flourish as before.

In all countries that permit it, workers are constantly striking today to push the cost of living for all steadily nearer the stars; and what is this but a result of the same lust to make or keep wealth? Employers want to keep the largest possible share of the money they make in business; employees want to get the largest possible share for themselves. What a task to judge which is the more, or less, to blame. And what about wars? There are those, you know who claim that the love of money is the root of most modern wars, too. If big business firms get the rights to certain natural resources in backward countries, and can make money out of them, they naturally clamour much more loudly for "armed protection" to prevent those countries from taking over their own resources than if there was no money involved.

Manufacturers of munitions used to be called "merchants of death"; now almost everything, wheat, clothes, canned goods, oil, aluminum, steel, and many more, is useful in war. And war means much higher prices, since governments are unable to quibble about manufacturers making high profits when they need their manufacturers' goodwill and co-operation to keep a war going, and the tax-payers are supplying the money.

So can you blame the manufacturers if, kind-hearted though most of them naturally are, the idea of extra profits back in their minds makes them very ready to resent international "insults" and demand was to avenge them?

You and I would undoubtedly do the same, if we were in the wealthy classes instead of just—you and I. Yet we all know, somewhere within us, that happiness does not depend on wealth and there are many things much more valuable to us than money. It's a queer world, isn't it?

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

November 26, 1926

Night school classes are proving a big success, especially in the mechanical department. Mr. John Dale is having a fine time. Mr. J. S. Campbell and his son, Ian, are pleased with the work, too. They have dismantled an old McLaughlin car, with Mr. Ned Bentley, instructor. The commercial class has a bigger attendance than last year and Mr. Steven says a few more may be added. Manual training has some real enthusiasts, too.

A Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion has been formed with Mrs. F. E. Knowles president, Mrs. T. C. Orr vice-president, Miss N. Holder treasurer, and Mrs. R. S. Jackson, secretary. A strong program was made up for the winter months.

Lady Willingdon, first lady of the land, was presented with the sweepstakes box of apples at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. They were the famous OK brand.

The opening of the Lakeside United Church will take place on Sunday, November 28. Rev. R. J. McIntyre of Vancouver will be the preacher, and a banquet and musical program will follow on Monday evening.

W. R. Boyd, who recently bought a lot on the east side of Giant's Head Road from O. G. Smith is building a new house, starting work this week.

B.C. Apples at Royal Winter Fair in Toronto

British Columbia apples have again created a hum of comment at Canada's Royal Winter Fair in Toronto. The exhibit this year, put on by the British Columbia fruit growers, is in the form of a revolving pyramid with the letters "B.C." done in Golden Delicious apples on a background of Red Delicious with a triangular border of green Newtowns. Around the base of the pyramid are standard boxes of packed apples interspersed with apples packed in the new junior boxes.

Here are some sample comments which come from some of the 600,000 visitors to this world's largest winter agricultural fair.

"They wax the apples you know—that shine isn't natural!"

"These B.C. growers are very enterprising!"

"Their apples are bigger than our Ontario apples—they have a longer season!"

"There's salesmanship for you. Talk about selling refrigerators to Eskimos. These B.C. growers are shipping these apples 2,000 miles and selling them right here in Toronto—and this is the middle of our fruit country."

"You've got to hand it to them!" "Isn't that a beautiful exhibit?" "My, that is wonderful!" "That may be better looking apples—but ours taste better!"

"Those Newtowns are wonderful apples. There were a lot for sale in the stores last March and I just bought bag after bag and the children were never satisfied."

"I bought a box of B.C. apples once and the apples at the bottom were the same as the apples at the top!"

"I don't see why they've got to come down here with apples like that. It isn't fair!" "Don't you get worms in your apples in B.C.? We have a lot of trouble with worms!"

From ten o'clock in the morning until eleven o'clock at night groups of people and individuals are leaning over the hand rail surrounding the B.C. apple exhibit passing admiring remarks. The majority of the crowds in the day time are farmers and people connected with farming. Their average remark is: "That's a wonderful exhibit but you can't beat our Ontario Spies for flavor."

The next largest section of the crowd is business men and housewives. Although there is a sign up telling what varieties are being exhibited they nearly all call Newtowns, Greenings.

On an average of about once every half hour through the day a class of school children accompanied by a teacher passes through the exhibition. The kids clamber on the rails around the exhibit and want samples.

About eight o'clock in the evening Toronto's elite in top hats and evening clothes and the ladies in long evening gowns make their appearance in the crowd. They are the occupants of the front boxes at the world famous horse show in the adjoining building. The boxes have been sold out months before the show started at $250 each for the nine-day season. Toronto's smart and splendid are just as interested in British Columbia's apple exhibit as any one else and a lady in a mink coat will pick up a free recipe book on how to cook British Columbia apples as quickly as any other housewife in Ontario.

PORTRAITS

Frederick William Schumann

Fred Schumann was born in Alliance, Alberta, living in a fairly large, comfortable sod house there for the first ten years of his life. These houses were common then, and warm against the winter winds that sweep Canada's flat lands.

His father farmed, and he absorbed farming, too, as many country boys do. His mother died when he was a little boy of nine and a few years later his father brought the family to Penticton since they had friends who knew and recommended the Okanagan.

At Penticton he attended school and worked after school and on Saturday for C. W. Nicholl in his store. He loved to sing, taking part in musical affairs at the school where his high sweet voice showed a great deal of promise. It was so clear and true that interested Penticton people wanted to send him to have it trained further.

Just about then, in 1924, Mr. Schumann took his family to make their home in Oliver and Fred's musical education seemed to be lost in the move, so now it is one of the things he rather longingly remembers as a might-have-been.

He left home before completing the usual school years, going back to Alliance to work on the prairie farm of a friend for four years. While there he knew that he would like to do other things and was wondering how he could improve his way of living.

Finally he returned to Oliver, spending that winter in a logging camp. He always liked to draw. In his tent those winter evenings he worked on a correspondence course from the American School of Architectural Drafting.

In 1929 he found a job at the Summerland Experimental Station where he was a teamster in the orchards and drove a truck and was mechanic's helper under John Embree.

Five years later in 1934 he began to work at the Fruit By-Products Laboratory under F. E. Atkinson. He did experiments finding his correspondence course helpful because he was able to draught various pieces of equipment used in home canneries which along with other things were developed in that department of the station.

In the meantime in 1932 he had married Miss Loretta Ingils, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ingils, and they were establishing a home.

The year after he started to work at the Fruit Products Lab they bought two and a half acres on the Front Bench near Hospital Hill, from H. H. Elsey, the father of C. H. Elsey. Here they built a home, planting and developing the land.

ency assistant in Vancouver, and Harry Guest of Vernon now supervisor for New Westminster and the Fraser Valley.

He has had recognition from his company, too, and has attended conventions every year with all expenses paid since 1947, going to Toronto, Jasper, Digby Pines N.S., and Victoria. This year he qualified but did not attend the convention at Bigwin Inn in Muskoka.

In 1950 he was one of the speakers on a program of four addresses, his subject being Prospecting, The Key To Success. This spring he was on a panel of three speakers for the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, and spoke at the spring congress in Trail and later in Kelowna on the same subject.

His father, Fred Schumann, also died in April 1950, which he felt as a great loss.

There are two girls in the Schumann family, Shirley and Joyce. They are carrying on their father's love of music and give pleasure to Summerland and other audiences where Shirley sings and plays a violin, and Joyce is a pianist.

He is fond of fishing and hunting, of all types, and with his father-in-law, knows Okanagan lake well. He knows the mountain lakes, too, and hunts and fishes there.

He is a member of the local golf club, past noble grand of the Summerland IOOF, past president of the district association IOOF; was president of the Summerland board of trade 1947-48; charter president of Summerland Kiwanis club; was instrumental in starting the board of trade swimming and water safety classes in conjunction with Red Cross; and is past president Life Underwriters' Association for the South Okanagan.

He says that "To make a success of anything you must believe in it." That is what he has done with insurance, and that is his advice to those starting any work. By his own example, though, he adds plenty of good hard work to the belief.

Action Promised on Dental Scheme Here

Since Summerland school district (No. 77) was not included in the schools given dental service by the south Okanagan union board of health this fall, a letter was sent to the provincial department of health and welfare asking why this had happened.

In reply a letter was heard at the school board meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 14, from Dr. G. F. Amyot, deputy minister health and welfare, stating that before the next school term, his department will have something to present to the union board of health as to how dental service may be increased to include other areas.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

A campaign to head off the invasion of codling moth has commenced, and also the possible outbreak of fire blight in apple and pear orchards. W. T. Hunter laid down plans at an important meeting of fruit growers in the parish hall last week.

The frosty weather on Sunday last caused a great commotion in the households of the citizens, catching many unawares with a consequent freezing up of their plumbing work. Mrs. H. R. Lott is in hospital suffering a bad cut on the forehead as a result of an accident caused by the frost. Like many others, Mrs. Lott did not know the water pipes were frozen, and on starting a fire on Monday, the water jacket exploded, injuring her.

Fire, late Friday afternoon, did considerable damage to the bandstand opposite Hotel Summerland. It is presumed that the fire was caused by electricity in some way as the building was wired and no other cause can be suggested.

An accident occurred to Arthur Morgan on Friday which, fortunately was not very serious. He was thrown from his horse through the breaking of a stirrup leather and was dragged some distance before getting free of the animal, which went on home without him causing considerable alarm.

Jack Miller has returned to his Upper Trout Creek home after an absence of ten months in the Chilliwack district where he was working on his cousin's cattle ranch.

Mr. Matheson of the high school staff has tendered his resignation to Chairman John Tait of the school board.

Francis H. Van Hise left for California to spend the winter.

W. W. Hayes, local government telegraph agent has been advised that the government lines are now prepared to handle business to Vancouver and coast points.

Mrs. W. J. Tullett and Miss Clay, don have left for the Old Country.

Pension Scheme Placed Before B.C. Teachers

Teachers of British Columbia will be asked by the B.C. Teachers' Federation this fall to vote on two new pension schemes now under consideration by the B.C.T.F. pensions committee.

The two new pension plans are a result of a special report recently received by the BCTF from Mr. Sam Eckler of Toronto, the actuary who advises the federation and government on financial basis for teachers' pensions.

The two pension plans that Mr. Eckler suggests are as follows: The first is an upward revision of the present plan in which the pension consists of two parts: (1) service pension based on the teacher's length of service and not related to salary and (2) an annuity purchased by the teacher's own contribution, and therefore larger in amount for the teacher whose salary has been higher.

The second plan is called the "final salary plan". The pension would be a percentage of the average salary earned by the teacher during his last 10 years of teaching. The percentage would vary with the length of the teacher's service.

Mr. Eckler's report offers a considerable improvement in the pensions paid to retired teachers in B.C., provided that he can be assured that contributions to the fund will amount to 12% of the teachers' payroll each year in perpetuity.

Present contributions are 6% of salary from each teacher and 7% of total payroll from the government.

The government this year has indicated a desire to reduce its contribution to 6%. The teachers opposed any reduction in contributions as long as the pensions paid remain below subsistence level.

Mr. Eckler's suggestion is that if the government's and teachers' contributions are stabilized at 6% each, then the fund can provide pensions which are reasonably adequate. The government has indicated a willingness to guarantee this level of contributions in perpetuity, although it is subject to the authority of the legislature.

Under either of these plans the teacher now on retirement would receive an increase of 25%.

The actuary and the government have both indicated willingness to accept whichever plan the teachers choose. In either case, it is expected that the contributions will be 6% from each party and the general level of pensions paid will be considerably increased over the present level.

Considers Engineer Should be Chosen

Although no official letter of resignation has been received from T. P. Thornber, electrical superintendent, council is keeping a "weather eye" open for a possible successor to the pioneer municipal worker if he does decide to move to England.

Discussion of the future requirement in this department elicited the suggestion from Councillor Francis Stewart, on Tuesday, Nov. 13, that council should keep in mind the appointment of an engineer who would be responsible for all three major departments of the municipality.

Mr. Stewart pointed out that the roads and electrical departments have foremen in charge of them now and the water department foreman isn't as "young as he used to be".

It is time to be thinking of a municipal engineer, he considered.

Kiwanians Hear About Coal Mines

Summerland Kiwanians were given an insight on Monday night into the operation of coal mines by one of their members, Bob Alstead, who spent 27 years in mine operation throughout B.C.

Coal formation is the result of decomposed vegetable matter created in dense tropical growth many centuries ago, Mr. Alstead explained, stating that the longer the period of decomposition, and the denser the growth, the wider the coal seam.

Longest known coal seam is 1500 miles in length, and throughout the seam is laminated with bands of clay, sand or shale. Wherever the seam is located, these seams will be found in the same relative position over the entire length.

Anthracite coal is from the deepest deposits, while bituminous coal is at a slightly higher level while lignite coal is the blanket or surface formation such as can be found at Princeton.

Opening of a coal seam can be accomplished in three ways, by means of a shaft straight down, on a slope or a horizontal tunnel. Shafts in British mines go down two to three thousand feet, he explained and often encounter quicksand deposits which must be frozen.

Pillars in slopes depend mostly on the overburden and as the tunnels and slopes are excavated only 15 percent of the coal is removed. Crosscuts are used for ventilation purposes, being driven every sixty feet.

Ventilation is one of the most serious problems in a coal mine, he explained, as if there is 2 1/2 percent gas present workmen must be cleared out. Water is another problem miners encounter and in one mine Mr. Alstead declared there are 27 miles of pipe.

Mr. Alstead told Kiwanians he would deal with mine rescue work at another of the club's weekly meetings.

High School COMMENTS

Every day we are constantly reminded how many shopping days there are before Christmas but at school it's a matter of how many school days before the holidays. It gave me quite a shock to learn how few days there are before the holidays.

Last Saturday, the high school Bluebirds basketball teams lost three games and won one in league contests played on the Rutland floor. Scores for the games were senior boys 23-22, senior girls 10-4, junior girls 12-11, all three games being won by Rutland. The one win was made by the junior boys as they outscored the Rutland five, 24-23.

Although there are no league games scheduled for this weekend, it is probable that some exhibition games will be arranged for Friday night.

This Friday afternoon and one afternoon every month, the students' council will sponsor a picture show in the auditorium. Since this show will be run during school hours, every student will have a chance to see it.

RECIPE HINTS

Hearty sauerkraut and wieners makes tasty fare on cold, blustery evenings. It's a good combination, and easy on the cook and on the budget.

WIENERS AND SAUERKRAUT

What could be more appealing than a steaming platter of sauerkraut and wieners, ready for hearty and happy eating? Al-diced apple blends well with kraut, though there are many ways to as do cheese, chilli sauce, onions, prepare these two foods in unusual and delicious combinations, still the old-fashioned way will never lose its popularity. Plain boiled or grilled wieners (or frankfurters), nestling on a bed of cooked sauerkraut, are always good.

There are many ways to season your sauerkraut, for added zest, use brown sugar, or caraway seeds. Diced apple blends well with kraut, though there are many ways to as do cheese, chilli sauce, onions, tomatoes. Any way you serve it, sauerkraut and wieners make a dish that can be used for luncheon or dinner, good any season, popular with every member of the family.

Activities Page

1st Summerland Troop

At Tuesday's meeting the troop received a visit from H. V. Stent who conducted an instruction period on the master-at-arms badge. To qualify for this badge, a boy must demonstrate proficiency in two of the following subjects: Single stick, quarter staff, fencing, boxing, jujitsu or wrestling. There are quite a few master-at-arms badges in the troop.

Patrol instruction consisted of a review and practice of second-class lashings. Bill Wilburn completed his requirements for the first-class topographical test.

This Saturday, our troop has invited 1st Pentiction Troop to visit us and play basketball at the Youth Centre at 2:30 p.m. Two teams will play, those age 12 and 13, and those 14 and over. All the troop should turn out to welcome our visitors and enjoy some refreshments. Arrangements are in charge of Mr. Munn and Troop Leader Richard Lewis.

At the last court of honor, P/L Lewis was appointed troop leader until the end of February when he would transfer the position to P/L Victor Smith. Richard spoke twice last week on his World Jamboree trip, to the annual meetings of the North Okanagan and South Okanagan Boy Scout associations.

Dec. 4, at 7 p.m. sharp. Please be on time. Duty patrol, Buffaloes.—D. V. Fisher.

Youth Centre Family Night Like Picnic

Like an indoor picnic was the Youth Centre "Family Night" on November 20.

It was crowded to the doors with all ages from babes in arms up. Here, the activities of Cubs, Scouts, Guides and Teen Town, the youth organizations which the hall serves, with their leaders, gave demonstrations of some of their activities.

Those who planned Family Night at the Youth Centre last week had those who actually benefit in using the Centre contribute to the program and the stalls.

The Youth Centre directorate was asked to join the Brownie Fairy Ring and give the Grand Howl.

Acrobatic rope work by two scout teams was a highlight, with many small boys looking on enviously. Al McCarger, assistant Scoutmaster, participated in this, too, as solo artist.

Brownies and their leaders stocked and staffed the White Elephant stall which had a realistic sign above it. Scouts, Cubs and Guides arranged the candy booth, while the Parcel Post and Fish Pond stands were the work of the Youth Centre committee. Finally, members of the local association to the Guides served coffee.

Teen Town square dancers trained by Peter Greer did some entertaining sets with grace and gusto.

An all-male Fashion Show with commentary by R. A. Johnston displayed some comely figures and shapely legs with the bathing beauty given appreciative applause.

Those who amused the audience in the Fashion Show were Art Crawford, Leslie Gould, Blair Underwood, T. B. Young, Mel Ducommun, F. E. Atkinson, Chester Reinertson, A. J. McKenzie, John Holman and Frank Doumont.

Mr. Doumont was the pianist, and in the final act Mr. Reinertson brought in a horse, whose antics were the efforts of Channon Snow and Bruce Crawford.

The whole evening was a great success from the family attendance point of view as well as financially.

The parcel post stall sold out quickly, and all booths were well patronized.

Dr. McLarty is Boy Scout Head

Dr. H. R. McLarty, chief of the plant pathology laboratory in Summerland, was named last week as president of the Okanagan South Boy Scouts Local Association when the annual meeting was held in Pentiction.

Other officials are from Pentiction, with the exception of the new vice-president, Major A. H. Grant.

Baptist Church Congregation Says Farewell to Departing Pastor

One hundred and thirty were estimated to have been present at the annual Baptist church congregational supper on Monday evening, Nov. 26, when a formal farewell was said to Rev. D. O. Knipfel and his family who are leaving Summerland.

The turkey supper "with all the trimmings" was a delicious one, and the tables were pretty with small white and yellow chrysanthemums in bouquets along their length.

Following supper Mr. George Perry of the deacons' board presided as chairman. A sing-song opened the program after which Mr. Blake Milne showed interesting and beautiful colored films of Yellowstone Park which he took himself during a trip.

Mr. Roy Wellwood spoke on behalf of the deacons regretting the departure of the Knipfel family, and Mr. C. A. Gayton was the speaker for the congregation. Mr. Gayton climaxed his address with presentation to Mr. Knipfel of an expanding brief case from the church members.

Mrs. James Ritchie, a charter member, was speaker for the women of the congregation, and gave an electric automatic coffee percolator to Mrs. Knipfel as a remembrance from them.

For the Young People's Society, the president, Miss Dorothy Blacklock gave a gift to Mr. Knipfel.

Mr. T. S. Manning made presentations to the two little Knipfel girls, Sandra and Dawn, and to Barry Moutier, a nephew, who has made his home at the parsonage. The daughters were given silver bracelets and Barry, a tie clip.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Pohlmann were guests at the supper, representing the band in which Mr. Knipfel played a trumpet. Mr. Pohlmann spoke appreciatively of Mr. Knipfel's value to the Summerland Band, and in humorous manner wondered "if it would be too much to expect the congregation to secure another trumpet player".

Mr. Knipfel gave two numbers on his trumpet, which were enjoyed.

The social committee which was responsible for the supper was headed by Miss Barbara Braun assisted by Mrs. C. H. Elsey, Mrs. N. Buddingh, Mrs. A. Arndt, Mrs. C. V. Nesbitt, Miss Marion Turigan and Miss Ruth Dale.

The evening closed with singing "Elest Be The Tie That Binds" and a benediction by the departing minister.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Nisbet are spending most of this week in Vancouver and are attending the Sadler's Wells' ballet there.

Rev. D. O. Knipfel Leaving for Post As Padre in Army

Rev. W. H. Ellis of Kamloops will be interim pastor of the 1st Baptist church, Summerland, until a permanent pastor is appointed.

Rev. Mr. Ellis is a Baptist minister who, because of ill health, left the pulpit and became a judge of the juvenile court for some years at Medicine Hat, Alberta.

He has now retired and resides in Kamloops, but assists the Baptist church by serving as an interim pastor whenever his services are required.

Rev. D. O. Knipfel leaves this weekend for Calgary, where he will become Protestant padre at Currie Barracks, permanent force Army establishment of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and the Lord Strathcona Horse.

Having obtained his commission and retired from the Canadian Army in World War II as a captain in the armored corps, Rev. Mr. Knipfel is well acquainted with the ways of the armed services.

Since taking charge of the Baptist church in Summerland two years ago, Rev. Mr. Knipfel has made a large circle of acquaintances and will be missed by many organizations. He was a member of the Summerland Band and took an active interest in board of trade circles, as well.

Home Rejuvenation Course Held at Trout Creek Church

"Rejuvenating Your Home" was the name of the fascinating course given last week, Nov. 19-24, by Miss Eileen Cross of the UBC home economics extension department in the Trout Creek church basement. Afternoons and evenings, when the classes were held, passed quickly with so many interesting things to do.

Some of the projects done by the dozen women taking the course were re-doing old furniture, upholstery, making lamps and lamp shades, covering and padding butter boxes and cheese boxes to make hassocks, or sewing boxes, learning how to use various machine attachments, and other things.

Plastic was used as an upholstery fabric to good advantage, and a great deal of satisfaction was derived from doing the work under competent direction.

So enjoyable was the week that most of the ladies are looking forward to another extension course next year.

While in Summerland Miss Cross stayed at the home of Mrs. H. R. McLarty.

Dragline Experiment At Powell Beach

An experiment in operating a dragline to pile up material for elimination of the swamp area near Powell Beach is being carried out by the parks board, using municipal equipment, it was learned at a recent council session.

The experiment was abandoned after attempts to provide an anchor sufficiently imbedded in the lake sand proved impossible.

Only by driving piles for an anchor could the dragline operate successfully, it has been stated. Details of the cost of the experiment were not available at Tuesday's council session, as time sheets had not been submitted by the road department.

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 27, nurses and ex-nurses gave a party at the Nurses' Home to honor Miss Betty Yates, one of the staff, who is leaving to be married just before Christmas.

The affair was a kitchen shower when little verses were put inside balloons and the balloons blown up. The guest of honor broke the balloons and by reading the message enclosed found directions to follow and aid her in looking for her gifts. This amusing idea kept the bride-to-be quite busy and entertained the others as well. Delicious refreshments were served before the party ended.

South Okanagan Guides Assist Greek Villages

Mrs. D. L. Sanborn gave a report of the division meeting held at Keremeos on Nov. 3, to members of the local association to the Girl Guides, at their regular meeting on Nov. 22, in the Youth Centre.

Mrs. Titchmarsh, the divisional commissioner, whose special project for the division was to secure an artificial limb for a little Greek girl, reported that there was enough money left over to buy food for some needy villages in northern Greece, as well. Letters and photographs received as a result of the project were passed around for those present to see.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, through whose speech the need for the artificial limbs had been heard, is to speak at the Penticton high school cafeteria on Friday, Nov. 23, and it was planned that cars would be available to take Summerland Guides to hear the noted doctor.

It was reported that the progressive teas were a success. Proceeds will pay the rent with some funds over, and thanks were given to all who helped in this way.

Mention was made with pride of the choice of Jill Sanborn to attend the Guide Jamboree at Ottawa next summer, and that Frances Atkinson was chosen as first substitute if any of the eight girls selected cannot attend.

The division project in the year to come is to help to pay the expenses of sending the girls to Ottawa.

Leaders are needed badly. One of the leaders has given notice that she is giving up next fall, and the association would welcome others to do leadership work.

Guides from the division are broadcasting over CKOK on Saturdays at 4:45. The Summerland Guides are due to go on the air on Jan. 26.

Mrs. W. Durick gave a report of her visit to the Guide companies as Fairy Godmother saying that it had been a busy month for Guides, and that the Brownies were working hard, also.

It was decided not to hold a December meeting but to continue at the regular meeting on Jan. 24, when it is hoped there will be a full attendance.

Tea was welcome after the long meeting and discussion continued around the tea table.

The meeting also asked that the Princeton-Copper Mountain-Hedley part of the riding to transferred to the Yale provincial riding farther west, on the grounds that such a division would serve the two areas best.

It was submitted that the growth of the fruit industry has made it the paramount factor in the eastern part of the riding.

NOTES from PARLIAMENT HILL

(By O. L. JONES, MP for Yale)

It was discussed in the House that 136 new industries were established in Canada since January 1, 1946 to date. These industries were established by countries other than the United States, which includes France, Germany, Holland, Greece, Hungary, Roumania, Sweden, United Kingdom and one or two others. Of these plants, two only have been established in British Columbia, while Ontario had 61, Quebec 59, even Newfoundland had 5, Nova Scotia 5, Alberta 3, and only New Brunswick with one, recorded less than British Columbia. It would appear that British Columbia, with her vast resources and potential development, has not yet been able to attract foreign capital to her industrial life. A large proportion of industrial capital coming into British Columbia comes from the United States and, of course, a good deal of domestic investment as well takes place.

The most startling news since last I wrote was the introduction of the Bill by the minister of veterans affairs to increase the veterans' pensions. The government has actually given an increase in some respects slightly higher than asked for by the Canadian Legion and pressed for by all members of opposition parties, but I think the credit should go to the Canadian Legion for the persistent and concentrated way in which they advanced their claim to the Government. While this increase takes care of all disability pensioners, there still remains the veterans who are in receipt of war veterans allowances. Nothing so far has been done for them, but the minister has promised to review the case. In the meantime, there is an amendment to the Speech from the Throne before the House asking for needed increases in the burnt-out pensions. While it is a foregone conclusion that an opposition amendment of this type will be defeated, the opportunity for discussion will, no doubt, have its effect on the Government and may be early next year they will consider the request made by the Opposition Members and the Canadian Legion for more favorable treatment for the war veterans in this category.

The Act governing old age pensions is not yet clear to many of the people in Yale, judging by the number of letters reaching me here in Ottawa. The general question is, Do we forfeit the right to dispose of our home, after receiving the old age pension? The answer is very simple. All who receive the old age pension on reaching the age of 70 do not have any obligation to the Government whatever and they still have the right to dispose of their estates as they think fit, but those who apply for the old age pension between the ages of 65 and 70 do sign a document to the effect that the Government could take over their property. While this is a technicality which the government follows in order to protect themselves against a pensioner who is well able to support himself, if all facts were disclosed, in practice, however, I do not know of a single occasion, for many years now, where the Government have taken over an estate at the death of a pensioner, particularly so if there are dependents to whom the estate has been willed. In other words, the means test will still apply to those persons seeking the pension between the ages of 65 and 70.

The failure of the Government to provide auxiliary services for the troops in Korea came under severe criticism the other day. Members felt that the services of organizations like the Y.M.C.A., the Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus, etc. should be solicited for active work on the Korean front, such as recreation rooms, arrangements for concerts and the supplying of other facilities for the entertainment of troops on active service. No doubt a report will be made in the House later on what the Government intends to do. In the meantime, there is a great lack of these facilities in this theatre of War.

Approval in principle was given to a Bill authorizing Canadian Banks to operate on a five-day week basis. It was explained to the House that banks are finding it increasingly difficult to obtain adequate and competent staff in competition with establishments which have a five day week. There was considerable opposition to the five day week, if Saturday and Sunday are the two days during which the banks close. My personal opinion is that Wednesday and Sunday would be two better days. At the present time, I feel it is very unfair that the banks should close on Saturday, the busiest day of the week, especially in the smaller towns in Canada. It is also the day when pay cheques are brought in to town and the merchant is asked to do the bank's work of cashing them. With the banks closed from Friday afternoon until Monday morning, the merchant has no opportunity of checking to find out if the cheque given to him is good or not. Mr. Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to the minister of finance, intimated that the banks plan to keep open on Saturday in rural areas.

During the last session, parliament approved of the distribution of $7,000,000 in Federal grants to Universities. Strangely enough, not a single cent has been awarded to date. It proved rather difficult to find a formula of which the division could be made as, according to Arthur Blakely of the Montreal Gazette, there are 158 educational institutions in Canada which might or might not be entitled to describe themselves as "universities and equivalent institutions of higher rank" for purposes of securing a grant. After long discussion between Federal and university authorities, a formula was worked out. Under it, a few universities might get slightly more than a fair share. Others might feel that they were being squeezed. But it was the fairest means that Ottawa and the universities could devise to solve a very complex distribution problem. But the cabinet still hasn't given the green light for payment of grants to begin. Prime Minister St. Laurent has been contacting provincial governments in a last effort to make sure that he isn't treading on the sensitive toes of provincial autonomy. Big question mark at the moment is Quebec's Premier Duplessis, who hasn't reacted too favorably. Insiders here say he doesn't mind Ottawa making grants to Quebec universities but feels they should be made via the Provincial Government which has constitutional jurisdiction over education and related matters. And there matters stand. But delays won't last much longer.

Carrier Deck With New Look

The 25,500-ton British aircraft carrier Illustrious, pressed into service as a troop carrier to hurry reinforcements to the Middle East, is shown as she left Portsmouth Monday. Instead of planes, she carries troops in her hangars and lashed down motor equipment on her flight deck.

Hospital Budget Ready Next Month

Summerland General hospital is preparing its annual budget which must be submitted to the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service in Victoria by December 15.

An increase in insurance coverage is forecasted for next year, as the provincial hospital authorities have indicated a change in the policy advocated two years ago when local authorities were advised they need only cover the hospital building with insurance up to the municipal contribution therein.

Now, the government has decreed that a larger percentage of total hospital value will be covered by insurance.

There will be no decision made on hospital budgets for 1952 until the provincial legislature decides on its policy, local authorities have been told. Therefore, no major undertaking can be counted upon by any hospital until well on in the new year, as only then will the amount of money available for hospital operation be known, upon the decision of the legislature.

In October, 43 patients were admitted to Summerland hospital and they occupied 374 patient days there. There were six births, and no deaths.

However, the number of flu cases prevalent filled the hospital most of this month, and the number of patient days has been greatly increased.

Beekers Re-elect C. C. Heighway to Leading Position

C. C. Heighway of Peachland was again named president of the B.C. Beekeepers' Assn., Central Okanagan division, at the annual meeting held in Summerland recently.

Dr. D. V. Fisher of Summerland is the vice-president while J. Cameron of Peachland is secretary-treasurer. The executive comprises Alec Watt, Summerland; Earl Sutherland, Peachland; F. Bennison, Summerland and W. Ingraham and R. Neil, of Westbank.

J. Corner, Vernon, provincial apiarist, was guest speaker for the annual meeting.

Local B of M Manager Tells Of Bank Year

Something entirely new in the interpretation of bank statements has been initiated by the Bank of Montreal this week, in reporting its financial position to customers at the end of its 134th year of operations. The B of M's message, highlighting the most significant aspects of its 1952 statement, presents a striking departure from the traditional pattern of Canadian bank reports. Strongly emphasizing the personal approach, it is published as a signed statement from the local B of M branch manager, Ivor Solly.

The report is no longer a bank statement in the ordinary sense of the word but a plain-spoken review of the main features of the bank's experience throughout the past 12 months. Written in straight, forward, non-technical language and illustrated by appropriate thumbnail sketches, the report represents a further advance in the direct "grass-roots" approach pioneered by the Bank of Montreal in its annual reports for the past seven years.

In the preamble of this humanized report, the local manager makes several down-to-earth comments upon the Canadian way of living. He emphasizes that the people seem to combine stability with a go-ahead spirit and sums up the Canadian way of life in two words, "steady progress."

Total deposits at the 572 branches of the B of M across Canada now amount to a new high of $2,085,000,000, according to the message which adds that "some of this money belongs to business firms and institutions, but more than half of it is the savings of everyday people."

Loans now stand at over $646,000,000, another highest year-end figure in B of M history. This figure is indicative of the vast scale of co-operation with business and private individuals made possible through the confidence placed in the Bank of Montreal by its 1,800,000 depositors.

"Farmers, fishermen, ranchers and lumbermen borrowed a great deal from us," states the report, "but we lent money to people in every walk of life and business of every kind."

The B of M points out that its policy of working with the government, in measures "designed to combat inflation and help gear up Canada's economy for the defence program," resulted in the cutting down of many loans which it would otherwise have wished to make. But for this factor the record loan figure would have been even higher.

Assets in excess of the $2,200,000,000 mark are held by the B of M at the end of its 134th year in business. Well over $976,000,000 is held in the bank's books at a figure not greater than their market value. Combined with securities representing short-term credits to industry, these investments total $1,108,000,000.

Curbs Extended, Pipe Laid in Peach Orchard Cemetery

Two hundred feet of inch pipe has been laid in the Peach Orchard cemetery, while a big portion of the 400 feet of half-inch pipe already there has been re-laid. E. H. Bennett, parks board secretary informed The Review last week.

Mr. Bennett, Parks Board Caretaker George Graham and a few willing helpers who turned out on one Saturday afternoon, have been accomplishing a great deal at the cemetery this fall.

A good deal of the curbing has now been laid and a few organized work parties next spring should see most of the curbing completed, Mr. Bennett thinks.

The municipality has laid water service to the cemetery property from a point between the R. M. White and Miss Mary Scott residences.

Parish Hall to Have New Floor

Annual disbursements were made at a well-attended meeting of the Evening Branch of St. Stephen's WA on Monday evening, Nov. 19.

The president, Mrs. Bingham, presided, and $50 was donated towards a new floor in the parish hall.

The December meeting will be the annual one, and will be held a week earlier than usual.

Final arrangements were made for the yearly bazaar and decorations for Christmas Day were discussed while tea was served.

A Special Message from your B of M manager...

If I were asked to sum up the whole Canadian way of living in two words, I'd say: "Steady Progress". The people of this country seem to combine stability with a go-ahead spirit. This approach shows up in most things we do. Take Canada's first bank — my bank. We have just finished our 134th year, with assets of over two billion dollars. Our Annual Statement is typically Canadian in that it tells of substantial progress in terms of brass tacks rather than brass bands.

Just three highlights will show you exactly what I mean:

DEPOSITS: Our 1,800,000 customers have $2,085,187,091 on deposit at 572 B of M branches across Canada. Some of this money belongs to business firms and institutions, but more than half of it is the savings of everyday people.

LOANS: Now at the highest year-end figure in the Bank's history, our loans amount to $646,368,336. Farmers, fishermen, ranchers and lumbermen borrowed a great deal from us, but we lent money to people in every walk of life and to business of every kind. At that, we had to cut down on many loans we would ordinarily have liked to make, in order to co-operate with the Government in measures which are designed to combat inflation and help gear up Canada's economy for the defence program.

INVESTMENTS: At the year's end, the B of M had $976,950,829 of its depositors' money invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities. These were listed in the Bank's books at a figure not greater than their market value. Our other securities represented mainly short-term credits to industry. The combined total amounted to $1,108,174,362.

Like Canada, her first bank has gone on from strength to strength in the past year. We believe in being strong because our main job is to protect people's savings. And we believe in encouraging people to save more, too.

In this, as in any other way we can, we are working with Canadians in every walk of life for the steady progress that will give us all a stronger, happier country.

Windup Evidence in Clark Trial After Judge Admits Statements

Windup evidence in the trial of George Clark last week came after Mr. Justice Clyne agreed with prosecution lawyer Gordon Lindsay that certain of the statements made by both the accused man and the late Harold O. Tavender could be admitted as evidence. The Review was unable to carry this portion of the evidence in last week's issue but covers this portion of the testimony.

R.C.M.P. evidence by Constable Green on Monday morning was to the effect that he found Tavender lying on the roadway and Clark five or six feet away, appearing to be "quite angry." Tavender was bleeding from the scalp and left leg and Clark had an injured left arm.

Mr. Lindsay, cautioning the constable not to reveal details, asked if any statement were made. Both men talked, the court was told.

On arrival of an ambulance and two medical men, Drs. Vanderburgh and Munn, Tavender and Clark were removed to the Summerland hospital. Clark stayed the night during which he received treatment, and next day was taken to Penticton.

Constable Summerville, Penticton detachment, told of standing guard at the hospital throughout the night. He heard various conversations.

Dr. Vanderburgh on Stand

Dr. A. W. Vanderburgh, who has practiced in Summerland for 26 years, related he knew Clark well.

He told the court that Clark was very active in sports, particularly in baseball and basketball.

Dr. Vanderburgh said that he pronounced Tavender dead about 12:50 a.m. July 1, in the Summerland hospital. He explained how he had received a call about 10:15 p.m. the previous evening, and went to the Tavender home. At the foot of a bluff at the rear of the home he saw Tavender lying on the ground. Clark was standing nearby, along with some police officers. He asked Clark if he were injured, and Clark showed him his arm, which had suffered some cuts, but was not bleeding badly.

"Then I went over to Tavender," Dr. Vanderburgh recalled, "who was lying in the road."

"He was moaning and groaning and asking for help and relief from his pain."

The doctor said he found Tavender was bleeding from injuries to his head, and also that he had a broken leg.

He gave deceased a hypodermic to ease his pain, and then proceeded to see what he could do about the bleeding.

Soon an ambulance arrived, and Tavender was taken to hospital.

Questioned by Mr. Lindsay, the doctor said there was no conversation between Clark and Tavender in his presence after he arrived at the Tavender home.

He went on to describe how Tavender was taken into the operating room, where it was discovered that he was suffering from lacerations of the scalp, a broken leg, and that he was suffering from extreme shock.

Cause of Death

The cause of Tavender's death was a combination of loss of blood, shock and exhaustion.

Dr. Vanderburgh said that originally he thought there was a good possibility for Tavender to recover.

He said he (the doctor) only became apprehensive of Tavender's death about 30 minutes before he died.

Tavender was given a blood transfusion and also a heart stimulant. He recalled there had been a conversation between Tavender and two policemen while he was in the hospital, and said the interview took place with his (doctor's) consent.

"Half an hour before Tavender died," the doctor continued, "I noticed he was slipping away." He said Tavender bucked up for a while, but during the time he was talking to the police, he thought deceased must have suffered a relapse. After the interview was over, Tavender's condition was not so good.

Cross-examination by the defence was deferred.

Dr. McGregor

Then Dr. Herbert B. McGregor from Penticton followed on the stand. He said he had treated Clark in Penticton on July 3; he changed the dressings on his injured arm to make them more comfortable. He found three cuts on the back of the left arm. The cuts could have been caused by a sharp object, or if they were the result of contact with some jagged object, then they might have been trimmed before stitching to make for quicker healing.

Again cross-examination was deferred until later in the day. Called to Tavender Home

Dr. William H. B. Munn, of Summerland was next to take the stand. He said that he, too, was called to the Tavender residence about 10:20 p.m. June 30, and saw Clark, Tavender, Dr. Vanderburgh and Constable Thorsteinson. The ambulance was already present.

He examined Clark, and found three wounds on his left arm. They were incised cuts made by some sharp instrument.

The doctor told how he dressed Clark's cuts, and then between 12:30 and one in the morning, sutured the wounds after administering a local anaesthetic. He found a tendon cut, and he sowed that up, too.

Next morning, he put a cast on Clark's arm.

Clark was suffering no injuries other than the cuts on the arm, Dr. Munn said.

Then the doctor went on to tell how he carried out a post-mortem examination of Tavender.

He found that there were seven contused wounds on his scalp, and various bruises, and an injured left leg. Tavender had been suffering from a chronic eczema.

Dr. Munn pointed out to the jury on photographs of Tavender's body exactly which wounds on the body were present before the post-mortem had been carried out, and which cuts were made by himself in the course of his examination.

Questioned by Mr. Justice Clyne, the witness said he saw no signs of pellets or shot in the accused's arm. Neither did he think the wounds in the arm were caused by some kind of shot.

Cross-examination of Dr. Munn was also deferred.

Tells of Conversations

After Mr. Justice Clyne had handed down his verdict that some of the statements made by the deceased and the accused would be admitted as evidence, Constable I. G. Thorsteinson was recalled to the witness stand.

"I should have killed you when I had the chance."

This and other related statements made by Clark in the hours immediately following the fierce and bloody fight on June 30 last at Summerland formed the basis of a dramatic court scene on Monday afternoon.

R.C.M.P. Constable Thorsteinson, described finding Tavender and Clark on the Happy Valley Road about 10:30 o'clock June 30. The officer, with Constable Green, also of the R.C.M.P. detachment at Summerland found Tavender lying on the road and Clark standing by.

"Tavender said that Clark was beating me over the head with a bat and also a gun. Look over the bank and you will find the bat," thus Constable Thorsteinson reported Tavender said as he bent over him to give aid.

Then Clark was reported to have said: "There's no use looking for the bat. You will not find it for 100 years."

The witness said he was asked to loosen the tapes on Tavender's chest, and Clark spoke again:

"I should have killed you when I had the chance. I should do so now."

Constable Thorsteinson told the court that he told Clark to "quiet down—there's been enough damage here already." Present were the two constables, Thorsteinson and Green, and Henry Kuhar, who had been with Clark during the earlier events.

Tavender was "moaning around on the road" until arrival of two physicians, Drs. Vanderburgh and Munn, and an ambulance.

Later that evening, at the Summerland hospital, about 11 o'clock Constable Thorsteinson saw Clark again, and the accused man said: "Well, Terry it's the same old story. Tavender won't leave Isobel alone."

Clark was in a "very emotional state" at that time, the witness said.

Knew Tavender Died

The next interview came the following morning. In reply to a question, Clark, in bed in a ward, was told that Tavender had died during the night. Another R.C.M.P. officer, Cpl. Wallace, of Penticton, then entered the room and was told that Clark already knew of his brother-in-law's death.

Cpl. Wallace then said to Clark that he would be charged with murder and he was placed under arrest by Constable Thorsteinson.

A warning was read to the accused and a statement then taken.

On the preceding evening, the witness also saw Tavender and again a statement was taken.

Cross examination by Mr. McInnes emphasized that during the interview with Clark he had said that he had "better get a lawyer," and had been told "it's up to you." Recalled to the stand, Constable Green recounted the events he had seen in company with Constable Thorsteinson, and added that when Clark was told that Tavender was "not in very good shape," he declared:

"I hope he dies." Other witnesses who gave evidence were Jacob Knippelberg, Summerland taxi driver, who drove Tavender home early on the evening of June 30, and Mrs. Henry

Development of New, Hardy Strains of Lilies is Discussed

Growth and development of new and hardy strains of lilies was informally discussed by Dr. R. C. Palmer at the regular meeting of Summerland Horticultural Society on Friday evening, Nov. 16.

Dr. Palmer has grown thousands of bulbs to find types "that look to the sun rather than hanging their heads." He has looked also for bulbs that are more resistant to virus disease and disease of the leaves.

Many questions were asked the speaker by the members who gleaned much valuable information on lily propagation as a result.

Dr. Palmer showed some of his lilies on colored slides, along with many beautiful views of the Okanagan and surrounding country.

Mr. Nat May gave his monthly Timely Topics, this time on Winter Protection of Shrubs.

Mrs. A. J. McKenzie was in the chair in the absence of the president, Dr. James Marshall, and about forty members enjoyed the evening.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Tullett and Mrs. A. Rutherford.

Kuhar who had heard Clark talk by telephone to his sister, Mrs. H. O. Tavender, while at the Kuhar residence, early in the evening of June 30.

Mrs. Kuhar said that both Clark and her husband were both perfectly sober that evening.

William A. (Bud) Stewart told the court that the accused man is the husband of his sister and also related having dinner on June 30 at the Kuhar home, along with George Clark.

Mr. Stewart told of driving around town and then to the Tavender home and seeing his own car, which had been driven by Kuhar, parked near the approach to the Tavender residence.

He recalled that there were some groceries and newspapers on the front seat of the car, and the newspapers were "as they came through the mail."

He also identified the shotgun, which Kuhar had handed him that evening shortly after he arrived near the Tavender home.

Previously, the Meadow Valley Stock Assn. invited Mr. Perrin to Summerland where a presentation was also made by the stockmen in appreciation of his services to them during the years.

He is being replaced at Penticton by Emery Scott of Revelstoke.

School Board Keeps Within Current Budget

A considerable saving in transportation this year has helped to effect a saving in the 1951 budget, the school board learned at a recent meeting.

Recently, the board received final payment for the year from the municipality in the amount of $30,000.

Four hundred dollars was authorized to be spent on books for the high school library where the shelves have been rather empty and where there is a continual demand for reference books, technical volumes, and other reading material.

Panic hardware for the door leading to the fire escape at the southwest corner of the school has been faulty and has been reset. As a fire precaution it was decided that sprinklers should be installed in the ceiling of the furnace room and coal bunkers in the MacDonald school. These will be put in during the Christmas holidays. It was thought, too, that when the bunkers are empty they should probably be lined with metal sheeting or asbestos board.

SGT. BRABAZON GOES TO CRANBROOK DISTRICT

Three Bluebird Hoop Teams Bow to Rutland

Summerland High School's hoop edition of the Bluebirds travelled to Rutland last Saturday with rather disastrous results. From a total of four games, the locals managed to eke out one win, and that by a one-point advantage.

The junior girls opened the day and played a remarkable game for a season opener. Marie Faasse set the tempo and her floor generalship kept the local femmes in the running at all times. A poor second period wrecked the Summerland hopes. In this stanza the Bluebird defence just wasn't; a mistake that cost the game to Coach Mrs. Keyes' girls. Final score read 14 to 13.

In the second game, the junior boys, coached by Ken Brawner, played excellent basketball to beat the Rutlanders by a score of 24 to 23. The local boys were paced by Ron Lawley with nine points, and Art Draper with six. The Bluebirds were definitely a shorter team but their checking was excellent. Speed and fast-breaking seems to be the main forte of this team, the young lads showing there is a future for basketball in Summerland.

The third game saw the local senior girls' team bow to the Rutland five by a score of ten to four. The female Bluebirds just couldn't find the hoop and never did really get into the game. An inability to get rid of the ball is what really scuttled our girls, however; and the game was marked by a succession of held balls.

To give the girls credit, they were robbed of two points on a lovely field goal by Irene Menu in the last quarter when Referee Claude Bissell nullified the basket on a doubtful charge of steps.

On this point, local school officials feel the 'Valley schools' association should do something to raise the standard of refereeing. Calls of this nature can do terrible things to a team's morale, they say.

In the final game of the day the Rutland senior boys chalked up a one-point victory in the dying seconds of a ragged, low-scoring contest. Coach Greer has a big job ahead of him to make contenders out of the local 'Birds.

A much superior team, on paper, to last year's, the boys just are not hitting the scoring column the way they should. Ahead 22 to 17 with two minutes left, the locals lost 23 to 22 to an inferior, but highly enthusiastic group of boys who were playing well above their heads.

A fine game was turned in by guard Glen Younghusband who looks better every time out. Glen, ironically, was the goat of the game when his bad pass to Weitzel was tipped in for a Rutland score in the last minute of the game. It was tough on the hard-working local lad. Glen and Richard Lewis led the Summerland scoring with seven points each.

This Friday will see two boys' games in the local gymnasium. At seven o'clock the local juniors meet Pentiction, and at eight the senior Bluebirds tee off with the B edition of the Lake city's senior boys. Games should be good and all the prep trimming including cheer leaders and drum majorettes are to be on hand. The public is welcome to attend these games held in a warm and comfortable gym. The Bluebirds need your support, say school hoop leaders.

Junior boys: Higgs 3, Draper 6, Ward, Greer 2, Austin, Lawley 9, Pohlmann 2, Gilbert 2-24.

Senior girls: Fleming 1, I. Menu 3, Libicz, Birtles, Metters, Raincock, M. Menu, R. Jomori, M. Jomori, Saucier-4.

Senior boys: Desllets, Towgood 4, Lewis 7, G. Younghusband 7, Hook-

NEWS FROM THE GREAT OUTDOORS

(By Bert Berry)

FISHING
White fish are reported being landed in good-sized catches unless the lake is calm. Trolling has just about gone off now, not from lack of fish but because of the colder weather.

HUNTING
Moose hunters are still bringing in the odd moose. Arnold Cowan and J. Spalding got a couple of nice bulls. This week will wind up moose hunting.

A few parties have been on the east side of Okanagan lake hunting elk but haven't connected yet. Deer have been coming in all right but not so easily as before. The deer are wild and with weather and snow conditions bad it makes it difficult to get up on the bucks. Reports indicate that Fish Lake, Bald Range and Acland all have a good number of deer on them.

Season for deer, elk and moose ends tomorrow, Friday, November 30.

Arena Floor Surface Ready For Flooding

After two big work gangs had completed their jobs at the Summerland Arena on Monday and Tuesday evenings, the big playing surface was made ready for flooding once the weather co-operates to the extent that making ice is practical.

George Stoll, president of the rink association, returned from his trip east in time to supervise the work party which dumped clay onto portions of the rink surface to provide a better base and to level the ground.

Concrete has been poured for the walls of the furnace room required by the fire marshal and the floor is to be laid this week, Mr. Stoll declares.

With a few other minor alterations, the arena will be ready for winter occupancy, except for the construction of seats, Mr. Stoll declares.

In his absence, some bonds were sold but the main drive for sufficient money to pay off current liabilities and complete the arena according to original plans is still to be conducted.

Mr. Stoll promises plenty of action in the next few weeks.

Junior Ball League Meets Here Sunday

It is anticipated that Vernon may send representation to this important session, to ask for inclusion in the loop in 1952.

Rutland and Winfield may also be present to seek admission to the league, it is suggested here this week.

Members of the league setup this past year, Kelowna, Summerland, Pentiction, Naramata, Oliver and Osoyoos will send delegates to elect

Fast Hard-checking Puck Game Goes to Summerland 7 to 3

Summerland's fast-skating, hard-checking pucksters registered their first victory of the league season last Sunday at the Pentiction memorial arena when they downed the Pentiction Garagemen by a 7-3 score.

For nearly half the game the southerners held Summerland fairly even but the pace eventually told and the final canto went entirely in favor of the winners.

Campbell, with a pair of goals was the leading point-getter for the winners in a game which was fast but inclined to become too rough. At times, Referees Dave Roegle and Curly Cox of Pentiction were hard-pressed to keep the play in hand.

Summerland's arbiter, Wendell Schwab, was on hand but the league officials decided the two Pentiction refs would handle the contest.

George Pohlmann was between the nets for the winners, while Campbell and Croft, with Roberge and Kluck spelling them off were the chief defensemen. First string line comprised Kato, Taylor and Steining, while Hooker, Wakefield and Eyre formed the second string. Third line was made up of

Schedule Out for Commercial League

Scheduled games in the commercial hockey loop which comprises four Pentiction squads and one Summerland team have been released by league officials. Next Sunday, Summerland meets OK Packers at 2:45 in the Pentiction arena, the game being preceded by the Contractors vs Garagemen contest at 1:30.

The following Sunday, Dec. 9, Summerland does not play, as at 1:30 Packers meet Garagemen and at 2:45, Merchants tangle with Contractors.

December 16 sees Garagemen meet Merchants at 1:30 and Summerland play Contractors at 2:45.

Ski Club to Work On Hill This Sunday

Activity on the ski hill, and in the committee room is anticipated in the coming week, as the local club is holding a session at the Nu-Way Annex this Friday evening and is having a work party on Sunday.

There is plenty to be accomplished on the hill before it can be put in readiness for skiing with the coming of more snow.

Transportation for the work party leaves the Nu-Way at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

The club has also decided to purchase a new cable for the ski tow, so Treasurer Mrs. Rita Bergstrom is appealing to all members for their annual fees to augment club funds.

officers and consider adoption of a new constitution.

Mr. Gould has been president of this league for the past two years while Miss M. Jomori has been secretary this past season.

Guidi, Uterhaegen and Furuya. Fast Opening Play

Summerland led the first period scoring with a 2-1 margin, Dick Steining, with an assist from Kato, bulged the nets in the first thirty seconds of play and Summerland was never headed.

Olsen evened the count at 2-all early in the second stanza but George Taylor put the Summerland squad ahead once more. The Garagemen evened the count again but Wakefield's pass to Hooker was converted to put Summerland ahead 4-3 before the second stanza ended.

But the final stanza was all in Summerland's favor as Roberge, Campbell and Croft netted the puck without a reply from the Garagemen. Summary follows:

1st Period
1, Summerland, Steining (Kato) 0:30; 2, Summerland, Campbell, 3:10; 3, Garagemen, Panton (Banford) 6:05.

Municipal Clerk Talks to Jaycees About Government

Summerland Jaycees were commended on Tuesday night at the Nu-Way Annex for their work in getting out the vote on the municipal hall bylaw but Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith wondered at the same time if the energetic young businessmen hadn't been too successful and got out the wrong vote, as well as those in favor.

Mr. Smith was guest speaker to give Jaycees an outline of municipal government as it operates in British Columbia. He answered many questions asked by members at the conclusion of his short talk.

Although there are different regulations for villages, district municipalities and cities, there is actually little difference in the governments of these three main groups in organized sections of the province, he declared.

In the local government, he pointed out, there are four councillors and a reeve. He outlined their duties and also the duties of the tax collector.

A voters' list must be prepared each November for the municipal elections in December, but another voters' list comprised only of registered property owners must be prepared for money bylaws. A property must be registered at Kamloops thirty days before the owner is eligible to get on a voters' list for a money bylaw, he declared.

Call Compensation For Tree Losses Expense Payment

Dominion minister of national revenue, Hon. J. J. McCann has pointed out to B.C. interior fruit growers that it would appear more advantageous for growers to consider the compensation they received for loss of trees in the 1949-50 winter as part payment of expenses of removal and replanting rather than as a replacement of capital lost.

C. A. Hayden, BCFGA secretary communicated with Mr. McCann recently after many growers had enquired about the tree loss compensation in connection with income tax returns.

Full text of Mr. Cann's letter follows:

"I have your letter in connection with the compensation received by orchardists from the British Columbia Fruit Growers' when the exceptionally severe winter of 1949-50 destroyed a large number of fruit trees.

"It must be recognized that taxpayers engaged in fruit growing are permitted to charge as an expense all the costs entailed in growing trees which are used to replace those which are no longer useful. Further, the full cost of removing the useless tree and replacing it with another is allowed as an expense.

"If the destruction of the tree is to be regarded as the destruction of a capital asset then the cost of its removal must also be regarded as a capital expenditure. This cost varies in different localities but usually exceeds the amount received as compensation. Therefore, it would appear more advantageous to these taxpayers to consider the compensation received as part payment of the expenses of removal and replanting."

Packers Come To Kelowna For Contest

Definite assurance that the international apple packing contest will be staged in Kelowna on Monday, Dec. 17 has been received by the Okanagan Federated Shippers' Assn. from Yakima apple packing interests who have before held this event in the State of Washington.

Eight American packers and two from the Okanagan will compete on that date along with the present champion, Mrs. Irene Cyr of Yakima.

Mrs. Beth Garlinge of Kaleden and Mrs. W. Benoit of Penticton, Canadian champion and runnerup respectively will be the two packers representing this country at the big show.

Representatives of Okanagan Equipment Co., B.C. agents for the Food Machinery Corporation are undertaking the supervision of the Cutler Rotary bin sizing machine which will be used for the competition at the No. 8 packinghouse of the Kelowna Growers' Exchange.

It is anticipated that thirty to forty packinghouse operators and others from Wenatchee, Yakima and Hood River, will accompany the American contestants to Kelowna for the purpose of giving them support.

Arrangements are also being made to have all the contestants at the hockey game in Kelowna on the evening of Dec. 17 when Kelowna Packers will be hosts to Spokane Flyers. It is also anticipated that the judging and computation of marks will be completed in time for announcement at the first intermission in the hockey game at which time all the contestants will be introduced to the public.

Arrangements are also being made to sell the carload of apples which will be packed by the contestants, to the highest bidder and it is expected that some of the Okanagan's chief apple customers will arrange to attend the competition.

The panel of judges will be similar to that used during the previous two international competitions and will consist of about eight American and two B.C. inspectors.

General Motors Holds Diesel School Here

At noon today the mobile General Motors school for training operators of industrial and marine installations using diesel power concluded at Pollock Motors Ltd. operations in Summerland.

Men who are connected with a wide range of activities, mainly from logging operations throughout the southern interior of B.C. came to Summerland for the three day course which commenced at noon on Tuesday.

Forrest Wilson, GM diesel engine division, Oshawa, and Ernie Hammer, who occupies the same position at Detroit, were in charge of the school, assisted by Bert Boucher, GM diesel sales manager for Western Canada.

Pollock Motors Ltd. in Summerland is the southern interior representative for sales and service of GM diesel units.

The latest addition to GM diesel's series of training school activities is a GMC diesel 652 with van body which carries demonstration equipment and educational material designed to meet the specific training needs of diesel operators in oil, mining, lumbering, construction, power and fishing industries.

Such up-to-date training methods as slide films, moving pictures and charts augmented the work of the factory instructors who demonstrated with such equipment as an actual GM diesel engine, a cutaway version of the same engine plus every component of a conventional GM diesel unit.

Aim of this latest GM mobile school is to build up the number of trained diesel mechanics, to insure maximum efficiency of operation of every unit—and most important, to instruct operators in
