There is Mystery Here

There is some mystery, which should be cleared away, in connection with the new proposal by the department of public works to rebuild Highway No. 97 through Summerland municipality along the general route of the Giant's Head and Sandhill roads.

The mystery lies in the fact that between two and three years ago this same department informed the municipal council that it would not consider this route for a highway location and the municipality could safely proceed with a hard surfacing program without fear of disruption.

Now, out of the blue, the department places before representatives of the municipal council, board of trade and retail merchants, a plan which brings the new highway right along this route and right through a section of valuable orchard land which is to be disrupted and part of which will be lost forever for production.

We hesitate to criticize too strongly this proposed route as it may be the only feasible one from a strict engineering standpoint. But we do suggest that the department of public works is trying to make Summerland accept this route because it is the only one surveyed to a sufficient extent that the department can proceed with sufficient speed to have the specifications ready for tender in the spring.

We also suggest that Mr. Stevens made it quite evident when speaking to the representative group in Summerland last week that no other route has really been given any considerable study.

We look with a certain amount of disfavor on the Giant's Head-Sandhill course for various reasons. First, we consider it dangerous from a traffic standpoint, as a large number of property owners along the route must be given access straight onto the main Okanagan valley highway. Hardly another section in the municipality would demand more entries onto the highway than the route chosen.

Next comes the matter of disruption of private property, and the cost involved. A number of orchards will be sliced in half; others will have valuable sectors pared off. These orchardists will thus have their livelihood curtailed by removal of trees, while the municipality is also losing prospective revenue on the tax rolls.

The municipal water main will have to be duplicated along a good deal of this route, and from past experience it is known that this is an expensive proposition. Telephone and electric light lines will have to be removed from their present locations.

To buy private property and to make these alterations will involve thousands of dollars. The department knew that three years ago and took that into consideration when making the decision that the Sandhill-Giant's Head road would never be used for highway relocation.

Why has there been a sudden change of mind? What pressure has been brought to bear on the department?

Those are the questions which have been puzzling local residents ever since The Review provided them last Thursday with a complete account of the public works' proposals regarding Highway No. 97 through the municipality.

We should know the answer to this mystery before we put our final stamp of approval on this proposed route which Location Engineer Stevens says is the only feasible way to come through Summerland municipality.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

Unless something drastic happens in the short interval between this time of writing and the season's end, this will have been one of the worst hunting seasons on record from the hunter's point of view.

Both here and in the Cariboo, hundreds of hunters have charged up the hills in the morning, full of breakfast and confidence, and staggered wearily down again at night, empty-handed and disgusted. When this happens, day after day to the same hunter, it becomes pretty frustrating.

And it would be horrible indeed, as the London Observer remarks, to come home from any disappointing hunt, and meet in the bar, or wherever you like, Mr. J. A. Hunter, whose book 'Hunter' has just been published.

For it describes hunting in Africa in the good old days that were every hunter's dream. "When dawn broke, eighteen lions lay dead before me. . . . The snorting rhino is only a foot away, there is one cartridge left, and maddened death is cheated in a split second. Luckily I had my .475 No. 2 rifle—the bullet smacked home. The great beast tumbled down at my feet, the blood cascading on, one like rain. . . ."

Ah, to be in Africa! The Observer's review of the book is so delightful that perhaps you will forgive me for quoting it.

"Those days in Africa, how often one has been through them as one lay sleepless in bed. That gleaming tusk, those wicked eyes—how often, and how vainly, have they charged. Then Bang! Bang! and the scene switches, one looks so svelte in one's evening clothes as one sips one's sherry in the huge hall where the log fire smoulders. And jostling one another on the walls are the heads of the rhinos and the lions and the elephants, once so graceful, and now so stuffed and pointless. 'Shot that with my Gibbs.' 'One says with a wave of the rich Havana. 'Tore my trouser leg, goodness damn it.' Then the dry sherry, the old and lazy burgundy, the port. . . . and afterward the dawn, the reality, the tinkle of milk bottles, the bowler hat and the rolled umbrella.

"Mr. Hunter is a man who has lived these fantasies. His record may not get him into the Kingdom of Heaven, but it is certainly staggering. He holds, we are told, the world's record for rhinos killed; he has shot more than 600 lions and 1000 elephants.

"All the same, this vast slaughter has led to a curious love of the condemned. Mr. Hunter has the feeling for his victims that the matador has for his bulls. He has studied his animals. The buffalo, one learns, moans around with eggs which flutter about the big-dun-colored beasts like bits of white paper. A lion will contemptuously throw a titbit to a hyena but in the end he will probably be destroyed by his prostitute partner. Even human beings are sometimes useful. When the mother of a local chief died she was used as lion bait, and afterward the government generously proposed to give the remains the best possible interment. The chief, scratched his head. 'Well, I hate to see the old lady wasted like that,' he said. 'Let's leave her out another few nights and see if she can't get some hyenas.'

There, gentlemen, is hunting as is hunting. Away with these toilsome climbs, and weary returns, day after fruitless day, in the hopes of being one of the lucky few to see and shoot a single buck in an entire year. The trip to Africa may be impossible, indeed, Africa itself in no longer what it was in the days of which Hunter writes. The sherry and the burgundy and the port, and the rich Havana, may not be too easily come by either.

But one can find an easy chair, and one can scrape up enough money—or give first priority on one's Christmas list to—Mr. Hunter's book. (The English price is $2.40 in Canadian funds.)

Then, for a few happy hours, one can be surrounded by game, one can handle the best of rifles with unerring aim—and there is no messy cleaning, no tiresome drag out, no exertions at all at the finish.

Maybe it's the better way to hunt.

Official Route of Coronation

The United Kingdom Information Office has stated in its monthly news letter that "there will be plenty of seats from private sources for overseas visitors to the Coronation."

Prices will vary according to location and amenities provided, it is pointed out.

"The U.K. ministry of works has launched a big program of stand-building along the Coronation route to provide seats for overseas visitors. However, most of these will be reserved for Commonwealth high commissioners, the colonial office, and the Commonwealth-relations office, for distribution to official representatives from all parts of the Commonwealth.

"A few of the 'official' seats will be allocated to travel agencies for sale to overseas visitors."

The Coronation route is from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey by way of: The west and north sides of the Victoria Memorial, the Mall, Admiralty Arch, the south side of Trafalgar Square, Whitehall, the east and south sides of Parliament Square and Broad Sanctuary to the west entrance of Westminster Abbey.

After the ceremony, the west and north sides of Parliament Square, the south side of Trafalgar Square, Cockspur Street, Pall Mall, St. James' Street, turning left along Piccadilly, Hyde Park corner, through the Central Arch of the Screen, along the East Carriage Road to Hyde Park, through the Marble Arch, Oxford Street, Oxford Circus, Regent Street, Piccadilly Circus, Haymarket, Cockspur Street, the south side of Trafalgar Square, Admiralty Arch, the Mall, east and south sides of the Victoria Memorial to Buckingham Palace.

PIONEER DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO December 7, 1922.

With scores of 88 and 96 points, two entries made at the provincial potato exhibition held recently at Grand Forks by Mr. J. C. Blacklock of Summerland were among the prize winners.

One CPR barge loaded with wood is ashore at four-mile, south of Naramata, and another loaded with eight freight cars, is resting on the bottom of the lake, close to the CPR wharf here. During the night they were exposed to the full force of the wind and heavy seas at Pentleton where it is thought the barge with the freight cars sprung a leak. When the leak was discovered and was in danger of foundering the captain decided to cut loose the barge of firewood. None too soon did they reach shelter here as the freight cars sank in shallow water shortly after reaching calm waters.

A new government bill for the codling moth is now before the provincial legislature. It provides for the expenditure of up to $20,000 a year to fight the pest and for the establishment of codling moth control areas and the assessment of costs upon lands within such areas.

F. Monro of Meadow Valley is opening a meat shop in the building north of Bartholomew and Atkinson's paint shop.

G. A. Lundie, high school principal has asked for an increase in salary of $200. The school board decided that an increase could not be made at this time.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO December 9, 1927.

Hon. Dr. Tolmie, Conservative party leader in B.C. spoke in Summerland. With him were three speakers from Kelowna, Grote Stirling, M.P., J. W. Jones, M.L.A., and J. F. Burne.

Kelowna won first prize in the district exhibit at the national apple show, Vancouver. Salmon Arm was second, Pentleton third, Vernon fourth, Kaledon fifth and Winfield sixth.

Grade 1 division leaders in Miss Banks' class are: Roy Sanderson, Matsue Kubokawa, Patricia Pentland, Donald MacDonald and David Taylor. Regularity and punctuality: Emma Bartolomeoli, Recco Biagioni, Bob Bloasdale, Jack Gale, Annie Hall, Bill Kanamori, Toshiko Kitagawa, Matsue Kubokawa, Isabel Miller, Bobby Montgomery, Donald MacDonald, Ross McLachlan, James McKenny, John Newton, Patricia Pentland, Eunice Robinson, Roy Sanderson, Jimmy Strashan, David Taylor.

This morning the thermometer went to 7 above zero and the snowfall on Wednesday and Thursday measured 8 1/2 inches.

Tobacco growing in the Kelowna area this year has been so successful that the acreage will probably be increased to 1,000 next season. The present crop has been safely harvested and cured.

Stelco Plant at Hamilton Biggest On Continent

An amazing set of figures regarding the production of steel from the high Stelco plant at Hamilton, Ont. was revealed to the Kiwanis Club of Summerland on Monday, Nov. 17, by Rev. H. R. Whitmore who was conducted through the plant last summer.

This huge 340-acre plant, which includes miles of buildings, railways and roads produces more steel than any other single plant on the continent and by 1954 will have a production of 1,900,000 tons.

Gigantic machines, up to 350 feet in length, were depicted by the speaker who kept the interest of his listeners by his evident keenness in the immensity of the project.

One of his most pertinent questions was: "How many tin cans are there in an ingot of steel." He replied that one ingot can produce 42,000 tin cans, and he believed this to be of importance to the fruit industry as eventually the more tree-ripened fruit that can be processed instead of having green, immature fruit rolling to the prairies the better off will be the producer.

Stelco is an amalgamation of several companies which had been on the verge of bankruptcy in 1910. Already some $65 million are invested and another $50 million are in prospect. There are 11,500 employees.

Ingredients of steel are iron ore, coal, limestone, water and air, he explained. He described the huge freighters, the gondolas, cars, the long bridges used for loading, and how much of the waterfront at Hamilton has been reclaimed for Stelco's use by utilizing the slag from the plant.

The coke ovens need almost pure carbon to provide the high temperatures in the blast furnaces where 1800 degrees Fahrenheit are required. Blast furnaces 90 to 100 feet high are to be seen at Stelco, and a new furnace 206 feet high is projected.

To melt iron out of the ore, heat of 3,500 degrees F are required. The speaker explained the process to provide the ingots which are then sent to the rolling mills, the bad steel being ejected at the ends, leaving the good steel in the middle. One billet of steel, 30 feet long, produces 2,500,000 feet of steel wire, he pointed out.

In the rolled strip mill, steel from one-quarter inch to eight-thousandths of an inch in thickness is produced for cars, refrigerators, and other appliances. Rolled steel for tin plating is one-hundredths inch thick.

In conclusion, Rev. Mr. Whitmore pointed out that Stelco in 1951 paid $26 million in salaries, $15 million went back into the plant, $9 million in taxes and $8 went to the shareholders.

Seven CYO Groups Come Here for Valley-Wide Rally

On Sunday, Nov. 30, the Summerland CYO played host to seven different CYO groups, which included those from Lumby, Rutland, Kelowna, Penticton, Oliver, Osoyoos, and Keremeos. There were ninety-five members at the meeting which commenced at 3 p.m.

Following the meeting Penticton CYO entertained with a most interesting discussion on Communism.

After the discussion a delicious supper of spaghetti and meat balls was served to all. The meal was prepared by Mrs. Fabbj, Mrs. Cristante and Mrs. Polesello of the CWL.

Marguerite Menu welcomed the many visitors to the Summerland parish on behalf of Fr. A. M. Meulenbergh and the Summerland CYO.

Alfred Forner, president of the CYO introduced Fr. O'Reilly of Lumby, Fr. Cunningham of Kelowna, and Fr. Meulenbergh of Summerland.

After Benediction in the evening an enjoyable social was held in the parish hall.

The Summerland CYO will be travelling to Kelowna on Dec. 14 to participate in a bowling and volleyball tournament held annually for all CYO's of the Nelson diocese.

High School Play Hilarious Comedy On Broadway

"Out of the Frying Pan" the hilarious comedy being produced as the high school play of the season with Lacey Fisher as director, was a highly successful play on Broadway.

New York newspapers variously described it as a "smash hit," "packed with laughs," "a most hilarious comedy," "gay and light-hearted," "screwball comedy" and "one of the merriest Broadway events."

There are some delightful comedy characters in the show, those who have watched rehearsals are quick to admit.

Irene Menu will play the part of a prim Boston girl with a lisp. Dwayne Greer and Ross Axworthy will handle the middle-aged male roles, an eccentric theatrical producer and a pompous politician. Shirley Allen will portray a bewildered landlady and Jim Peter and Lori Klux are two dumb New York cops.

Over thirty students are working on various departments of the production, arranging scenery, costumes, lighting, properties and taking charge of the business management in an effort to give the audiences on two nights, next Thursday and Friday, Dec. 11 and 12, one of the brightest theatrical entertainments staged here for some time.

Guide News

Patrol leaders attended the Brownie meeting on Tuesday of last week to participate in the opening of the Flying-up ceremony for five Brownies who were promoted to the 1st Summerland Guide company upon reaching the age of eleven. Parents of the following Brownies were invited: Linda Beeman, Barbara Fudge, Jean Korsey, Carol Hackman and Connie Smith.

The ceremony was completed on Wednesday evening before all Guides at the weekly Guide meeting.

At the end of the evening after a period of training and relaxation in the form of a rousing tag game, points were added at Campfire.

Patrol standing is as follows: Hepaticas 234; Orchid 234; Buttercups 222; Pimpernel 221; Clovers (Senior Patrol) 210; Forget-Me-Nots 172.

The canvass and wool for the rug the senior patrol will be making this winter has arrived now. The motif of lambs, gambolling on grass with the blue sky behind them and the entire scene set in a background of cream-yellow, should prove both colorful and interesting work for the older Guides.

Brownies

2nd Summerland Pack

Brownies have been very busy at their November meeting. Brown Owl and Tawny Owl have helped the Tweenies to understand and pass recruit work. Six new Brownies will be enrolled on Dec. 5.

Brownies working towards their Golden Bar have received instruction on traffic rules and the Union Jack. Those working towards their Golden Hand have practiced semaphore and the use of the compass. To qualify in part for the Golden Hand each Brownie must care for a plant and at one meeting crocus bulbs were planted by the Brownies at this stage of their work.

There is a great need for uniforms in the 2nd Brownie pack. If anyone wishes to sell a uniform, please phone Mrs. M. D. Froverber at 3232. Donations of uniforms in poor condition would also be appreciated as these could provide material to mend or lengthen others. M.B.P.

Dr. R. C. Palmer Turns Philosopher Giving Recipe for Happiness

Dr. R. C. Palmer, popular superintendent of the experimental station, turned philosopher at the weekly dinner meeting of the Summerland Rotary club last Friday evening at the Nu-Way Annex, but he mixed a good deal of humor into the telling.

It between humorous anecdotes, Rotarian Palmer gave the recipe for a long, healthy, happy useful life.

Human society is activated by four basic wants, he declared, listing them as the wish to live, forever if possible; the wish to have a feeling of importance, prestige and power; to be loved; and to have a change.

To ascertain how best to gauge whether one is gaining a full measure of these desires, he suggested Rotarians ask themselves these six basic questions:

"Have I satisfying work? Have I a best for living? Am I emotionally well balanced? Do I like people? Have I a sense of humor? and Am I happy?"

"Everybody needs satisfying work and satisfying play in order to be healthy and happy," he declared, allying that with the need to have a keen interest in something for somebody, no matter what it is.

"Every man needs someone to whom he can tell his troubles, someone with whom he can exchange confidences. It is a good idea to have several interests. . . when you have many interests and supports you won't go to pieces if you lose one of them.

"Life is largely what you make it," he declared in conclusion: "Happiness is like a butterfly—the more you chase after it, the more it eludes you. If you settle down and busy yourself at some useful work the butterfly of happiness will come and rest on your shoulder."

High School COMMENTS

Last weekend the senior basketball teams played hosts to the senior boys and girls basketball teams of Princeton. Princeton won both the games with quite a majority of points.

Please don't forget that the play "Out of the Frying Pan" will be produced in only one more week. There are still some reserved and rush tickets for sale from students of SHS and also the drug store, so hurry up and get your tickets before it's too late. The play will be running for two nights, Thursday and Friday.

The following students were omitted in the play crew last week: Stage, Richard Blawett, Brian Daniels, Tom Paul and Larry Crawford; properties, Lovette Trofimenkoff, Wilma Matkovich, Shirley Burnell and Olga Libicz.

Christmas cards are still on sale, so if any person wishes to buy some, please get in touch with any student of SHS—Marguerite and Merle.

New Leader Requested By Summerland Man

KELOWNA—A Summerland man who was unable to attend the general meeting of the South Okanagan Progressive Conservative Assn. here on Friday, Nov. 21, expressed the view in a letter that for the good of the party a new leader is required . . . "not from the old guard". He felt new ideas are also needed.

The meeting was held to choose ten delegates from South Okanagan to attend the provincial Pro Con convention in Vancouver last Saturday.

General feeling expressed at the meeting was that the provincial Tory organization should be "overhauled" and that younger men and women should be encouraged to take an active part in the affairs of the association.

President C. G. Beeston, commenting on the deaths of two staunch Conservatives, E. C. Carson, former minister of public works, and vice-president of the SOPCA, Carl Nesbitt, of Summerland, stated that both losses were tragic and keenly felt throughout the province.

When the festive season begins, you'll be glad to have some easy recipes for quick cookies. These Lemon Squares, Christmas Cookies, and Date Nut Bars are all made from a base of cake mix in just a few minutes—handy during the Christmas season—and any time when you need to refill the cookie jar in a hurry.

Christmas Cookies

One half cup butter, at room temperature, (if vegetable shortening is substituted, sprinkle 1 tsp. water over mixture after cake mix has been added), ¼ tsp. vanilla or almond extract, 1 egg yolk, un-leavened, 1 package instant white cake mix.

Cream butter until soft. Add flavoring and egg yolk and blend well. Then add cake mix and work together with spoon, pastry blender, or fingers until dough formed. (Dough will be firm like pastry). With rolling pin, roll dough ¼ inch thick and cut out Christmas shapes with floured cookie cutters or cardboard patterns. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 8 minutes or until done. Cool cookies a few minutes before removing from cookie sheet. Makes 5 to 6 dozen cookies, depending on size. Decorate with frosting, colored sugar, candied cherries, colored candies to make appropriate design.

Mrs. W. Ritchie Laid to Rest; 45 Years Here

Largely-attended funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 2 at 2 o'clock for the late Mrs. Elizabeth Somerville Ritchie, aged 86 who passed away at her residence on Saturday, November 29. She had spent 45 years of her life in this community.

St Andrew's United church held a large number of devoted friends and acquaintances on Tuesday afternoon when Rev. H. R. Whitmore, United church minister assisted by Rev. Kenneth Knight, Baptist pastor, conducted the service.

Born at Middleville, Ont., on October 7, 1866, the late Mrs. Ritchie came to Summerland with her husband, William Ritchie, in 1907 in the early days of this community's growth as a major fruit-producing centre.

They were married on December 28, 1892 in Manitoba and lived for fifteen years in a farming district, 25 miles southwest of Winnipeg.

The late Mrs. Ritchie had been in ill health for the past two to three years.

The late Mrs. Ritchie was an active church worker as a United Church WA member and took her part in many community endeavors in the earlier days of Summerland.

Besides her husband, she leaves one daughter, Mrs. A. R. Gayton of Oliver; two sons, Gordon in Summerland and James H. at Keremeos; one brother, David Mitchell, in Manitoba; three nieces, Mrs. D. Kennedy of Kamloops and Mrs. James H. Dunsdon and Mrs. Ben Mayne of Summerland; one nephew, Mr. James Mitchell, Summerland; three grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren.

Interment was in Peach Orchard cemetery with Roselawn Funeral Home in charge of arrangements. Pallbearers were Arnold Gayton, W. L. McPherson, Tom Whitfield, Roger Tingley, Alex Smith and Jim McKenzie.

Head road plan.

There would be a minimum of entries onto the main highway to serve property owners along the way, compared to the large number of private entries now contemplated.

Cost of buying property, moving telephone and light lines and paying for a new water system would be pared to the minimum or eliminated entirely.

The suggested overpass on the Gulch road, always a possible danger point to traffic could be eliminated.

The Gulch road could probably be abandoned thus removing a headache from the municipal roads department.

This route, I suggest, should be considered seriously and sound engineering advice obtained before the contentious Sandhill-Giant's Head road is proceeded with. It is to be hoped the department will give Summerland the proper answers before the main survey now being undertaken by the locating crews goes much farther.

Such a route would come close enough to both sections of the business area in the municipality that they could be serviced without any inconvenience. The through traveller would obtain a glimpse of a good deal of the municipality without being hampered too severely in his general progress.

There is one engineering feature which might turn this route into the discard. The clay strata may be of such a nature that a permanent highway base could not be obtained in that locality. That is one possibility which should be looked into carefully before any decision is made.

Thorner to Resign After 40 years with Electrical Department

First official intimation that Summerland is soon to lose the services of its electrical superintendent, T. P. Thorner, was given by Councillor F. E. Atkinson at last Saturday afternoon's annual ratepayers' meeting in the school auditorium.

Mr. Thorner has been in municipal employ, in charge of the electrical system, for nearly 40 years, it was stated and Councillor Atkinson credited him with a great deal of the planning and maintenance of the system in that time.

Mr. Thorner always co-operated and always looked ahead, Mr. Atkinson extolled.

"He has given his life to the municipal system and it is a credit to him," Mr. Atkinson continued stating that Mr. Thorner and the late Fred Nixon worked closely in formulating electrical department policy and its excellent position today is due to the co-operation of these two men.

Although he could not state when Mr. Thorner intended to retire and leave for his new home in the Old Country, Mr. Atkinson declared that it undoubtedly would be before another ratepayers' meeting was held.

Old Buildings To Be Removed

At the regular meeting of Summerland school board on Monday, Dec. 1, it was decided to ask for tenders for the discarded school buildings.

First and inspection will take place by Chairman C. J. Bleasdale and Trustee J. Y. Towgood, to see which times of equipment will be of salvage value to the board.

It is known that the Fairbanks-Morse stoker and the light fixtures will definitely be kept by the board as their use might be necessary at any time.

Pro Cons Will Meet At Penticton Tonight

This evening at Penticton, the first step in forming an Okanagan-Boundary Progressive Conservative Assn. is being taken under the chairmanship of P. D. O'Brien, president of the Yale P-C Assn., which is now going out of existence.

Besides electing officers, the new organization is expected to form a nominating committee in preparation for a nominating convention to select a standard-bearer for the next federal election, expected in 1953.

HIGHWAY STAY AWAY FROM MY DOOR

Gone are the days when it was good politics to howl indignation when a road threatened to bypass some municipality.

Winnipeg's City Council turned down a motion that the city protest the routing of the Trans-Canada highway around the city.

Said Alderman J. Blumberg: "I think we should use all pressure to keep it out . . . Winnipeg has a big enough traffic headache already."

First Snow Falls But Soon Disappears

First snow of the season fell in Summerland on Monday afternoon but soon disappeared. Another flurry occurred Tuesday but also went away in a matter of a few minutes.

District roads were quite slippery on Tuesday morning, due to some of the light snowfall, the night before frosting hard. Jake's Taxi had a slight accident on the Sandhill road but no major damage was reported.

Cafeteria at School Opens

The school cafeteria opened on Monday with two hundred and fifty four taking the hot soup provided as a supplement to the lunch which they brought from home.

Everyone agreed that it was good soup, and a number of teachers took advantage of the cafeteria, too. Different varieties of soup will be provided as the days go by, and hot chocolate or hot cocoa will be served from time to time.

Mrs. M. Alkin, who has had considerable experience in catering to large groups, is in charge of the kitchen and is assisted in serving by alternating groups of students from both the MacDonald and the high school. Students wash the dishes as well.

The cafeteria is in its initial stages. The first day the hot water tank had not been connected which was a decided inconvenience but it is expected that service will develop as the need arises.

Will Celebrate 53rd Anniversary This Saturday, Dec. 6

On Saturday Dec. 6, Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson Wilson are quietly celebrating their fifty-third wedding anniversary at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were married at Snowflake Man on Dec. 6, 1899, and in 1905 Mr. Wilson came to Summerland and bought the land adjoining Trout Creek where they live now.

It was not until 1912 that Mr. and Mrs. Wilson moved here, though.

Mr. Wilson was foreman at the experimental station from 1915 until his retirement in 1940 and during that time the Wilsons lived at the station.

Just before the time of Mr. Wilson's leaving the "Farm," their present home was built.

Three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were at Home to their many friends at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Wilson, on the occasion of their golden wedding day.

Their three sons, Earle, Harvey and Doney, all reside in Summerland, and their daughter Muriel, Mrs. Hugh Johnston, lives in Penticton.

Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony is Chosen Director of Cancer Foundation

Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony was elected a director of the B.C. Cancer Foundation at a meeting held in Vancouver on Wednesday evening, Nov. 28. Other directors in the interior are Mrs. R. L. Johnstone, Kamloops; Capt. C. R. Bull, Okanagan Mission; H. P. Estlin, Prince George, and Dr. C. A. H. Wright, Trail.

The Cancer Foundation is that part of the Canadian Cancer Society which has to do with treatment, and at the meeting on Nov. 28, A. C. Law, chairman of the 1952 Cancer Campaign committee, presented a cheque for $75,000 to Dr. G. F. Strong, president of the B.C. Foundation. This was the balance of the $100,000 raised through the 1952 campaign for the B.C. Cancer Foundation, the other $25,000 having been presented last October.

Dr. Strong announced that the money would be used as a contribution to the capital costs of the B.C. Cancer Institute in Vancouver.

The official opening of the new modern B.C. Cancer Institute which Mrs. O'Mahony attended was on Oct. 6, but the building is not yet completed.

Mrs. O'Mahony has been a director of the B.C. Cancer Society as representative from the South Okanagan for some years and now becomes a director of the Foundation as well.

NOTES FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

O. L. Jones Expects Fireworks From Defence Committee Research

By O. L. Jones, MP for Yale

The first full day of the session was taken up by leaders of the various parties outlining their party's policies and their criticisms of one another.

It was all carried out in a light vein until a clash occurred between Mr. Solon Low and Mr. Coldwell over the recent speeches made by the latter in British Columbia.

Mr. Drew charged that the government has been building up power in Ottawa to the detriment of the provincial jurisdictions and particularly so during the last ten years. He pointed out that Canadians must decide whether this trend should be approved and hastened or whether it will be resisted and ended.

He claimed that centralization of power at one point is dangerous to the Canadian division of responsibility. Mr. Drew, as Leader of the Progressive Conservatives, placed his party squarely against the centralizing trend; it will be their aim to accord the provinces their own fields of taxation. He challenged the Liberal party to make its position clear on the question. The keynote of Mr. Drew's address was his demand that a new dominion-provincial conference be called without delay for the purpose of re-allocating tax fields.

The prime minister replied at great length and with a good deal of humor to Mr. Drew's charges. His most effective rebuttal to the charge was a quotation from the Toronto Globe & Mail of February 4th, 1937, which, on the face of it, suggests a complete change in Mr. Drew's attitude towards centralization. The extract is quoted here-with:—

"Today politics mean more than they ever did before in the history of Canada," Colonel Drew said in pointing out that Canada was far too over-governed. "We must start all over again from Confederation, if we are to have one country instead of nine," he said.

"Bit by bit the provinces have assumed powers acquired through court decisions that were meant for the federal government," Colonel Drew declared. Holding up the example of Great Britain where, he said, twenty cabinet ministers govern millions of people, Colonel Drew contended that in Canada it took between 100 and 110 ministers to govern eleven million people. "Our country is over-governed, in some ways the worst-governed country in the world," he said. "We must get back to one strong government."

The prime minister dealt with expenditures and the efficiency of various government departments justifying the actions of the government in building up financial and material resources for the future.

The throne speech itself did not offer a great deal of hope for lower taxes in the near future; merely a hint that some reduction will be made as the tension of international affairs lessens.

Mr. Coldwell contributed the views of the CCF to world affairs in general, dealing specifically with the need for increased trade with Canada's old market the United Kingdom, and expressing the hope that the current visit of the prime minister to England will bring about an improved situation regarding the interchange of trade between the two countries, pointing out that the vast surplus of wheat can only be disposed of by a willingness of Canada's part to take payment in goods, or to accept sterling, and make investments in the sterling area.

Mr. Coldwell stressed the need for a national health program, which he pointed out had been promised by the government for many years. He expressed the view that the people of Canada are willing and anxious to support any sound plan whereby the health of the population will be adequately taken care of on a national basis.

The special committee on defence expenditures will have its hands full this session as it will undertake an examination of individual arms orders. Even the prime minister has intimated that he is not too happy about them and, of course, the opposition is convinced that a careful examination of expenditures will turn up many examples of waste and extravagance such as the one last year where the defence department originally ordered 84,000 service forks; later, when criticised, scaled it down to 40,000 and, still later, to 14,500 in spite of the fact that no mistake was originally admitted.

Such questions as why 1,150,000 neckties were bought recently and only 100,000 men serving in the active forces will be investigated. The same applies to boots that have been purchased on the same lavish scale.

British Resent Attitude of Americans

"The British have a resentful feeling towards the Americans, which came as a shock and a surprise to me," declared Dr. J. C. Wilcox, who has just returned from a four-month tour of the British Isles, when he gave a brief outline of the highlights of his trip to the Rotary Club of Summerland on Friday evening at the Nu-Way Annex.

He found that this attitude of resentment arose from the "boorish" actions of many American tourists who flaunt their luxuries before the Old Country people but more than that the continuous criticism levelled at the Britishers by the American visitors creates the most reaction.

"The British are a proud race," Dr. Wilcox explained, "and they have been world leaders. It hurts them to have to look up to the Americans with regards to their leadership in industry and finance."

"This fact, coupled with the critical attitude of Americans towards the British habits and conveniences creates the most resentment, he found.

"I am glad there are organizations like Rotary with the object of bringing about greater international harmony and understanding," added Dr. Wilcox.

The speaker attended the first meeting for fourteen years of the International Horticultural Congress held in England last summer. He spent a good deal of time at the West Malling research station but also visited London, Edinburgh, Bristol and many other districts.

Three main points interested him greatly in skimming briefly over some of his holiday highlights.

The railways he found smaller than in this country but when he realized that the compartment-style trains are so designed for speedier loading and unloading he came to appreciate their usefulness in the crowded atmosphere of England.

He found the railway system well organized and efficient and the London Underground is the "most wonderful" part of the entire system.

"We loved London, and could have spent a year there and enjoyed every minute of it," Dr. Wilcox continued, giving a few brief highlights.

Finally he termed the Old Country courtesy on just as high a standard as he had expected.

"We can learn a great deal from the British in the matter of courtesy," he concluded.

$5,000 Damage from Peach Orchard Crash

In Penticton on Wednesday morning Nov. 26, Supreme Court Justice D. A. Macfarlane approved a $5,000 settlement of a damage action resulting from an accident on Peach Orchard hill, Summerland, on November 11, 1950.

The action was brought by Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Moore, formerly of Penticton, against the Crane Storage Company Ltd., of Vancouver and C. Brown, driver. Plaintiffs were represented by O'Brien & Christian, Penticton and W. Tysco of Vancouver represented the defendants.

QUEEN ELIZABETH II, wearing a crown-like tiara, smiles through the window of the carriage bearing her to the opening session of Parliament in London recently. The youthful monarch, speaking to a joint session of the House of Lords and Commons in her first address to Parliament, pledged "the closest and most friendly relations" with the United States.

Engineer Studying Lower Town Water Supply and Pressure

Councillor H. R. J. Richards, chairman of the municipal water department, has been giving the lower town supply some study and has discovered that without any tank, as has been suggested, the pressure could be increased for domestic or fire protection but not for both at the same time.

For fire protection, additional water which is not now considered as being approved, for domestic use could be harnessed and brought into the system, he thought.

It was pointed out to Councillor Richards by other council members last week that Engineer R. A. Barton of Penticton has commenced a survey of the lower town water situation.

Most likely method of providing adequate water supply for both domestic and fire protection purposes would be through the establishment of a large tank capable of holding between 100,000 and 150,000 gallons, Reeve Bentley explained.

Councillor F. E. Atkinson thought that probably the two ideas could be "married" and that in the case of a big fire in lower town after the tank is exhausted water from

Lumber Workers Turn Down Strike Action

KELOWNA—In a government-supervised strike vote taken at the S. M. Simpson Ltd. sawmill one of the largest in the interior, 72 per cent of the men who cast ballots turned their backs on union leaders of the B.C. district council of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.L.-C.C.L.), who has recommended strike action to force wage demands and other concessions.

Ninety-six voted in favor of no strike action and 70 were in favor of a walkout. Of the 172 eligible to vote, 166 voted.

Two Lumby operations also voted against strike action but, on the other hand, the Boundary Sawmill at Midway, and the Bell Lumber & Pole Co. at Lumby voted in favor of walkouts.

the extra supply available at the springs could be pumped directly into the lines, provided sufficient arrangements are made beforehand.

Council decided to wait for Engineer Barton's report before continuing with any further discussion, but Mr. Richards added that there are at least a hundred homes in other sections of the municipality that haven't any better water pressure than the lower town area.

Discrepancies are "Alarming" in Survey of Gulch Road Says Reeve

Engineer R. A. Barton has commenced his survey of the Gulch road and many discrepancies in property lines compared with the proper routes are already showing clearly, council was told on Tuesday.

"It's alarming where the road goes from the bottom of the hill," remarked Reeve C. E. Bentley. "The creek is on the road allowance in places."

Some time ago the upper portion of the Gulch road was surveyed and it is now hoped that the two surveys will join. However, the original surveys were so uncertain that it would not surprise anyone if they didn't meet, council intimated.

When Engineer Stevens met council on Wednesday morning, it was stated that a definite legal survey of the new highway would be forthcoming and from this survey much of the present trouble with municipal lines can be rectified, it is expected.

At Tuesday's council session Councillor F. E. Atkinson was heard to remark that "Summerland is a mess". He was referring to the differences in property lines in various parts of the municipality in relation to their exact location on maps.

He had suggested that an effort should be made to have property owners accept property lines as they have been established for twenty and thirty years and make them the new legal lines.

One instance of a difference in surveys came on Tuesday when Boyle & Atkins notified council that one of the tourist cabins on Lot 6 in lower town extends onto Lot 5 by fifteen inches. The Gale subdivision is being amended to provide for the purchase by the Summerland Auto Court of fifteen inches of Lot 5, and this will be consolidated with Lot 6.

Council has approved the subdivision.

Mr. Richards was enthusiastic about this conference and what it can mean for this province.

He gave his fellow members an insight into the vast projects which have been undertaken on the prairies to provide irrigation in times of short water supply.

Main value of these schemes is to prevent a recurrence of the drought areas which cost the country such a high percentage in relief payments in the "Hungry 30s", he declared.

Three projects in B.C. have been instituted with the PFRA help, the WCRA convention was told.

It was the B.C. report that too much attention had been paid, in this province to power developments to the detriment of irrigation and reclamation projects.

tion scheme has been installed at a cost of $40 per acre, only $10 of which will ever be recovered from the land, Mr. Richards explained.

By instituting such a scheme, it is considered that urban centres and business generally will be boosted to such an extent that it should bear its share of the overall cost and the land should only be required to pay a portion.

This is in contrast to such an irrigation scheme as Summerland municipality instituted many years ago which has been financed by the land owner benefitted, Mr. Richards pointed out.

The Red River project of diverting a number of rivers when necessary can provide up to a million acre feet of storage water and can supply half a million acre feet by gravity and a quarter million by pumping only 17 feet, Mr. Richards explained.

Over in South Saskatchewan it is planned to store seven million acre feet and supply irrigation for half a million acres, plus power and domestic water.

Mr. Richards thought that Summerland council should support the Western Canada Reclamation Assn. and keep in touch with its activities as there is a possibility that some of the land between Osoyoos and Oliver would come under a reclamation scheme and should be studied carefully by other districts in the Okanagan which might be SAC REPORTS Summerland, B.C. November 25, 1952.

Editor, The Review: It becomes necessary to request space in your paper to issue a statement concerning the activities of the Summerland Athletic Club, in order to dispel any false impressions that might have arisen recently.

The Summerland Athletic Club is duly incorporated under the Societies Act of British Columbia. The officers have been legally elected, and the annual audited financial statement filed with the Registrar of Companies at Victoria.

The present outstanding debenture interest and principal accrued in the war years and resulted directly from lack of members in the badminton and tennis clubs during that period. Since reorganization, the Summerland Athletic Club has made considerable progress in reinstating the club's financial position. This year, new debentures were issued primarily to retire, preferentially, a large holding of old debentures. Practically all these new debentures have been accepted interest free, thereby reducing yearly overhead. The SAC is now in a better financial position than ever before, having measurably reduced its debt. The club has honored and

CHARGES LAID AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

It is anticipated that Earl Ede, of Princeton, driver of the car that was involved in a head-on collision with John Glaser's auto on Highway 97 just south of the Trout Creek bridge on November 2 will be charged in Penticton district police court tomorrow. Both Mr. and Mrs. Glaser were hospitalized by the crash.

will honor its obligations to its debenture holders.

The SAC is most grateful to the many debenture holders who donated debentures and waived back interest, and to those new debenture holders who accepted their debentures on an interest free basis. It is hoped that all outstanding interest and some principal will be retired in 1953.

The members of the SAC (badminton and tennis players) have been very active in the past few years. Besides contributing immeasurably to the betterment of club facilities by putting in many hours of work on the badminton hall and tennis courts, they have taken a financial interest in their clubs by buying debentures and waiving all rights of interest. During the past season, the members worked on various projects to help improve the financial position, including telephone bridges, dances and a table tennis tournament. Further projects are planned for this winter.

We are proud of our achievements and we shall continue to work for an ever more active and prosperous club, one which, we hope, will be a credit to Summerland and the sports which we foster. Yours very truly, Central Committee SAC D. B. Waddell, pres.

North Okanagan to Have Better Service From Commission

The B.C. Power Commission has announced that a new 63,000-volt transmission line in the North Okanagan will be energized during December to bring improved electrical service to customers in the Enderby, Salmon Arm and Canoe districts.

The line is another section in what eventually will be a transmission loop linking the North Okanagan and Kamloops areas. Significance of such a loop is that it improves reliability of power, since customers would continue to receive service even though there should be a break at any point.

The new line is an extension of a line built last year from Vernon to Armstrong, and replaces the 33,000-volt line now serving the area north of Armstrong. New substations to handle the higher voltage have been constructed at Enderby, Salmon Arm and Canoe.

Completion of the loop is scheduled for next year, with construction of Chase-Salmon Arm section and a second line from Monte Creek to Kamloops.

Southern half of the loop will be the existing line from Vernon through Westfold, Falkland and Monte Creek to Kamloops; northern half will be the Vernon-Armstrong-Enderby-Salmon Arm-Chase-Monte Creek-Kamloops line.

The Chase-Monte Creek section was built last summer and energized August 24. Power for the area is transmitted at 138,000 volts from the Whatshan development on Lower Arrow Lakes to Vernon, where it is stepped down to 63,000 volts.

Freon Gas Used for Freezing

Freon gas is the compound which cools the brine and freezes the steel pipes thus bringing the temperature of the water down to the point where it, too, freezes and provides a proper curling surface.

That, in a nutshell, describes the operation which is in process at the curling club section of the Summerland arena today.

After some months of research, the curling club last spring decided to accept the tender of Betts Electric Ltd. of Penticton for the installation of the artificial ice plant to provide three sheets of curling ice.

Only one other sports plant in the interior uses Freon gas, that being Revelstoke, and there the skating and hockey rink as well as the curling rink is serviced by this freezing method.

Three compression units have been installed, being Carrier refrigeration equipment throughout. Three seven and a half horsepower motors and one five and a half horsepower motor, all English Electric Co. manufacture, have been installed to operate the compressors.

Five Thousand Gallons

The brine tank contains 4,000 gallons of brine, while there is another 1,000 gallons of brine in the 17,000 feet of steel pipe in the floor.

The compression units pump the Freon gas into 2,600 feet of cooling pipe located in the brine tank, giving a complete circulation of gas to cool the brine.

One of the features of this installation is that the gas circulates in the brine tank only and has no direct connection with the pipes in the rink proper. Only the cooled brine circulates in the pipes under the ice sheets so there is no chance of the gas leaking out and endangering those who are actually concerned with play on the ice surface.

From the brine tank through the maze of pipes on the floor there is a continuous circulation of brine. The brine, on its return journey, comes into a chamber separated from the main body of brine, so that it is chilled over again before reaching the main chamber.

Installation of the pipes on the floor was undertaken by Betts Electric on a separate contract by Pacific Pipe & Flume Ltd., also of Penticton.

These floor pipes measure 1 1/2 inches and have 4 1/2 inch centres. Along the north end of the rink, four-inch headers are fed by the brine pump, these being so located that they can control the flow of the brine evenly into all the pipes.

Also at the north end is located the mercury control embedded in the ice which keeps the ice temperature under control within two degrees.

For curling the ice temperature is kept at 22 degrees F., whereas for skating or hockey the ice temperature would be at 30 to 32 degrees.

From an economy standpoint, one feature of the installations is that as the temperature goes down in the brine the compressors cut out until they cease operation altogether.

As the temperature of the brine rises the compressors automatically cut in as they are needed to keep down the temperature.

With this type of installation, no more power than is necessary will be consumed, explains Mr. Ira Betts who supervised the installation for his firm.

Different Types of Systems
Mr. Betts accepted the installation contract at a figure of $14,000 after prices had been received ranging as high as $20,000 for various types of installations.

Madison Square Gardens uses Carrier refrigeration equipment, he explains, but it is a lot more expensive and more intricate. It must be installed there to make ice in a matter of an hour or two, whereas the installation made here only requires the plant to maintain a steady supply of artificial ice at a general level.

In New York they can have a horse show in the afternoon and play hockey at night, but you really pay money for that type of equipment, Mr. Betts explains.

Generally speaking, ice can be maintained by the installation here with an outside temperature of 80 degrees. Thus, it can be generally expected that ice will be available from November through to the end of March without any difficulty most winters, it is thought.

When the ice plant was first started up and ice began to form in the main part of the curling rink, a sudden cessation of power due to a short shutdown on the West Kootenay lines, was sufficient to set back the freezing operation

Scenes Like This Every Day at Our Arena

Now do you really think that those curlers were that good? Proudly inspecting their "house", when caught by The Review candid cameraman last Friday evening were, from left to right: Dr. James Marshall, Harvey Eden, Herb Lemke, Gus Arndt, Arnold Cowan Ivor Solly, Bill McCutcheon and Edson Miller. The rocks really roll smoothly and evenly on the new artificial ice surface and gone are the days when every effort had to be made to "heave" the rocks down the ice because of the softness of the surface.

What price a five-cent cigar? If you examine this picture closely you will see these two "athletes" are doing their morning sweeping chores complete with stogies. That's Bill Downton on the left and John Caldwell on the right, while the man with the quizzical stare is Eddie Hannah. In the far background is Ray Fredrickson, wondering if his two stalwarts really have enough "oomph" to get that rock into the house.

Now, this is more like it. Frank McDonald bends a mean broom as he coaxes the rock along the smooth surface at the Summerland Curling Club's No. 2 rink. Helping Frank along with equal gusto is Rex Chapman, while Earle Wilson is waiting to do his bit. There will be no extra charge for the cigarette advertising.

CURLERS AND RINK ASSN. SIGN MUTUAL AGREEMENT

An agreement between the Summerland Curling Club and the Summerland Rink Assn. has been drawn up in legal manner and has been signed by the two groups, laying down the agreement by which the curlers lease a portion of the arena for their purpose.

Artificial Ice Plant Provides Curlers With Three Rinks for Play

Last week, the first rocks went curling down the smooth, even surface of Summerland's new artificial ice curling rink to mark an epic in the history of this district's sports progress.

At a cost of nearly $18,000, an artificial ice plant has been established which is the equal of any three sheets in the interior and is superior to any effort made by a similarly-sized community in the hinterland.

Today, curlers of all ages are taking advantage of the new ice surface to enjoy this grand old game which has intrigued thousands of sports-minded persons across this country.

With this installation, Summerland is assured of curling for a specified period of the winter, despite the vagaries of the weather.

These three gleaming sheets of artificial ice have only been made possible through months of hard work and endeavor on the part of a handful of enthusiasts.

When curling first commenced in the new Summerland arena nearly three years ago, it was the dream of many that artificial ice would be available "some day."

To most it was only a dream, to a few it was a foal which must be attained.

The more enthusiastic curlers never lost sight of this goal with the result that today their dream has become a reality. It isn't all paid for, but when the full 120 members are obtained, at $100 each, then a bank loan can be arranged for whatever balance is necessary for operation and payment of the artificial ice contract.

The cost won't end there, by any means, as the curlers expect to install proper clubrooms with facilities where members can relax before and after sessions on the ice.

A good deal of painting, building and other work is in the offing, but anything is considered possible now that the artificial ice plant has been made possible.

The curlers have guaranteed to their members two draws per week during the season, interrupted only by bonspiels and other gala events which will be arranged from time to time. All members will be categorized and divided amongst the rinks so that no one rink will be too powerful for the others. In this way, competition will be keener and a greater interest in the weekly draws will result, it is anticipated.

New Artificial Ice Rink

Pacific Pipe & Flume Ltd. played a major part in the successful installation of the artificial ice plant in the Curling Club premises, as it accepted a subcontract for the laying of the pipe on the main floor.

When completed our firm had laid 17,000 feet of steel pipe in order to provide the curlers with three sheets of artificial ice.

The expressions of delight with the new curling surface are our guarantee that we have done a creditable job and we are happy that the curlers find the new rinks to their entire satisfaction.

We can provide that same guarantee of satisfaction in installing your new furnace, irrigation sprinkler system, etc.

HEARTY Congratulations TO SUMMERLAND

On the Completion of its Artificial Ice Curling Rink

Summerland Curling Club has a Curling Rink which is second to none in the interior for its size and all members who worked so diligently to assure its completion and success deserve the heartiest congratulations.

Betts' Electric Ltd. is proud of its part in this installation, which consisted of accepting and complying with the contract for the artificial ice plant and machinery.

Carrier commercial refrigeration equipment was used in the installation, similar to that used in Madison Square Gardens, New York, although, of course, on a much smaller scale.

Freon Gas and Brine are used to freeze the pipes and the water laid thereon, while English Electric Company motors were installed by Betts' Electric Ltd.

We solicit your inquiries concerning any type of refrigeration or electrical installation.

Puck Squad Is Content With Draw

Team	P	W	L	D	GF	GA	Pts.
Merchants	5	2	1	2	13	17	6
Contractors	5	2	2	1	10	15	5
Garagemen	5	2	2	1	14	10	5
Summerland	4	1	2	2	10	13	4
OK Packers	4	2	2	0	20	12	4

A tight, defensive style of hockey game saw Summerland and Merchants play to a 1-1 draw last Sunday afternoon at the Penticton arena, neither team being willing to cut loose and take chances for a win and being fairly content to break even with a knotted score.

Both goals came in the first stanza, Hooker taking Eyré's pass for the lone Summerland counter at 3:57 while Agnew from Baker evened the deal at 4:18.

Rocky Richardson, who was a member of the Summerland Macs baseball squad last summer, appeared in Summerland hockey uniform for the first time last Sunday and celebrated his return to the ice wars by drawing the first penalty.

Steininger and Bob Taylor both drew penalties in the second stanza while Corrigan went to the sin bin in both the second and third periods.

The second contest was a much livelier affair, with the Garagemen drawing even with the league leaders by downing the Contractors 4-1.

Rocky Richardson has taken over the coaching job of the Summerland puck team and plans to try out a new goalie next Sunday when the locals meet the Contractors. Either Bob Bonthoux or George Cluett will get the nod between the pipes, it is expected.

Hoop Schedule For Interior Loop Given Out

Summerland hoopsters will entertain Kelowna on December 19 for the one home game in the new interior senior B men's basketball schedule which was released this week from the office of the new interior president, Howard J. Thornton of Vernon.

From then until January 3 comes the "Christmas Break" with the schedule being resumed after the New Year and continuing until February 21.

Summerland plays at Vernon on December 12 and gets a home game against Kelowna on December 19. If the gymnasium is not available that evening, then the game will be put ahead to December 18, it is expected.

After the New Year, all Summerland home games will be on Thursday evenings if it is possible to arrange such dates with the visiting squads. On that basis, Kamloops comes to Summerland on Thursday, January 8; Summerland plays at Penticton Jan. 17; Vernon visits here January 29; Summerland plays at Kelowna Feb. 7; goes to Kamloops on Feb. 12, if possible; and meets Penticton at home on February 19.

Summerland Curling Club draws are to be made this week with play starting next Monday, officers stated yesterday after an executive meeting which also discussed the firm agreement to be signed with the rink association.

Hoopsters Fade In Final Stanza To Lose 47-34

Playing a return exhibition engagement on their own floor, Summerland's senior cage squad didn't win but came a lot closer than on the first occasion. Penticton triumphed 47-34 last Thursday evening at the high school gym.

It was nearly a repetition of the first game, as Penticton was held securely for the first half and then broke loose in the final stages as the local boys failed to stand up to the pace being set.

At the end of the first quarter the two teams were all tied up at 10 points each, but Penticton started to assume authority in the second stanza and managed to pull ahead 22-18 at the halfway mark.

Third quarter was even again. Penticton only managing to crawl ahead a slight bit at 31-24. But the final ten minutes saw the visitors go to town with an 18-10 splurge to cinch the contest.

Aubrey Powell was in rare form, sifting through Summerland defense for an outstanding 19 points. Bud Russell had a good evening with an even eleven markers with Burgart and Foley-Bennett sharing the other scoring honors.

Don Cristante led the Summerland scorers with ten points, but he missed six free throws which would have bolstered his total considerably. Alkin was close behind with eight converts.

George Stoll Issues Plea for More Workers at Local Ice Arena

Volunteers are needed desperately at the Summerland arena, Manager George Stoll told The Review yesterday morning.

George has been working almost single-handed in an endeavor to get the arena in shape for flooding and is becoming a bit discouraged that more workers haven't come to his aid.

Work parties are in progress every day and every evening and more volunteers are needed in the worst way to get the playing surface levelled and cleared of debris left from the building of the big cement wall between the curling and skating sections.

"We could have had ice last week if the rink had been ready," Mr. Stoll declared.

This season two rows of seats and a walk-in front will be built on the west side of the arena but no definite plan to build the rows of bleachers on the east side above the curling rink will go ahead until next spring, as it would disturb the curling ice too much, Mr. Stoll points out.

Athletic Club Holds "Telephone" Bridge

Another in the series of telephone bridges was held last Saturday evening at a number of homes in the district in aid of the Summerland Athletic Club funds.

Mrs. C. F. M. Guernsey and Mr. Lacey Fisher were winners of the top two prizes for bridge with Clarence Lackey receiving the consolation prize. Dr. and Mrs. M. F. Welsh entertained with tables of canasta, Mrs. Nan Watt winning the major prize.

Bridge tables were set up at the homes of Cecil Morgan, Clarence Lackey, N. O. Solly, Dr. H. R. McLarty, Miss Stella Creese and the experimental station boarding house.

Ceccon Scores 31 Points for Princeton High

Two of the best school teams ever to come out of the Similkameen gave Summerland High a few lessons in the casaba game last Friday evening at the local high school gym.

Princeton lasses were good value for their 21-11 win while the Similkameen boys gave the local Bluebirds a 48-15 trouncing in the second contest.

As a preliminary, the junior boys took the measure of the intermediates 22-6, Parker and Ask leading the way for the winners with six points each.

Princeton Angels took an 11-4 lead at the halfway point in the girls' game, Summerland failing to bulge the net after scoring two quick baskets. It was a more even contest in the second stanza with the local girls battling gamely but unable to cope with the visitors' attack.

Irene Menu was high scorer for the locals with six markers. Ceccon chalked up what may be recognized as an Okanagan valley record when he led Princeton with a scoring spree of 31 points in the boys contest. He was head and shoulders above the other players and looks like the best prospect turned out by the mining centre for many a moon.

Summerland made a fair showing in the first half, only trailing 23-10 but could only muster five points in the last twenty minutes proving no match for the visitors.

Economy Can Go too Far

OUT of Victoria these days there comes little but cries for retrenchment and "hold the line" from various government departments. First of all it was the department of health and welfare regarding hospital administration, next it was from the department of education, and in general all departments are being harried to cut costs on every hand.

This wave of economy is all very well but it can be carried to an extreme where economy in the broad picture of things can be very expensive.

On one hand, the registered nurses' association of this province is seeking a $20 per month raise to bring the minimum standard up to $220 for every registered nurse in the province. That is the starting salary.

Throughout the Okanagan, and in most districts in B.C., teachers are in the midst of negotiations which, if successful, will raise the cost of teachers' salaries considerably.

If the government carries out its demand and refuses to allow any increase in the expenditures for 1953 over the 1952 level there are only two courses open to hospital and school administrations. They can endeavor to obtain more money from the already-overtaxed municipality or they can cut their services.

Any cut in operation in either case, will mean less efficient operation with the patient or the school pupil doing without some of the essentials, or what we have come to regard as essentials.

This wave of economy has, we are beginning to suspect, crept into the department of public works in its effort to get a new highway location started in the Trout Creek-Deep Creek section.

There is only one route surveyed and placed on paper, although several routes were to have been put onto paper for a proper analysis of the situation. But it is just possible that the department, having been given strict orders to economize at every turn, has decided to proceed with the only planned road which is on paper (via the Sandhill and Giant's Head) regardless of the probability of other and better routes which have not been given as much study.

If this has been the case, and there are many indications that it is, we suggest that this is a prize example of economy being carried to its ridiculous extreme.

A Blaze of Color

SUMMERLAND is as pretty as a picture. That is true most times but we have special reference to its gay appearance at night with the strings of colored lights throughout the main business section of West Summerland.

Not only is the scene gay and picturesque but the merchants have done a remarkably fine job of decorating their stores and windows to present a Christmas picture in a riot of color.

These merchants, who are your friends and neighbors, have gone "all out" this year to try and stock a wide variety of merchandise which will meet your many gift requirements. As people who are helping to pay the taxes and are doing a great deal of the community work in Summerland, they deserve your patronage as good citizens of this district.

If you can possibly find what you have in mind in Summerland—and we suggest that it is quite easy to do so—then we urge you to Shop at Home, where your dollars will return to you sooner.

Your Hometown Merchant has done a remarkably good job on your behalf and he deserves your wholehearted support this Christmas season and throughout the months ahead.

Was it Apathy or Satisfaction?

SUMMERLAND was not alone in its apathy towards municipal elections this year. Throughout B.C. in cities, municipalities and villages, acclamations were indicated more often than contests.

This is not a healthy picture, but is a trend which is fast shaping, ever since the reeveship and mayoralty contests were changed from one to two-year terms.

Every other year, without a contest for the chief magistrate's post, interest does not seem to be kindled in most municipalities.

We say that it is not healthy from the standpoint that there should always be a maximum of interest in civic affairs. The holder of a municipal office cannot be certain that his policies and that of the group in which he is a member are acceptable to the ratepayers as a whole unless there is an election.

When an election is held, and the candidate is returned to office, then he knows he has the backing of the majority. When he is returned by acclamation he is never quite certain if the ratepayers are in agreement with his efforts or are just too lackadaisical to offer other candidates.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

As age brings increasing toothlessness, I ponder more and more seriously this problem of how to hang on to one's original dentures. Why on earth should the finest of ivories, with which we all start, have to be a source of pain and misery at intervals throughout the first half of life, and be replaced entirely for the last half with an inferior and detachable substitute? Not to mention the agonizing uncertainties of never knowing, when you blow out a candle or laugh heartily, whether your false teeth will stay in your mouth or go flying out on their own.

Surely there is some way to make such a solid substance as teeth last the full three-score years and ten. Drinking milk instead of pop, eating vegetables instead of candy, would help, of course; but this is by no means the solution.

And certainly tooth-brushing isn't. I've known too many earnest tooth-cleaners who lost their molars early, too many non-brushers who kept them until late in life, to have much faith in either the tooth-brush or the pastes and powders spread upon it. They make a lot of money for their manufacturers, and for the conscienceless romanc-ers who advertise them, but they don't save teeth.

By far the most promising aid to permanent teeth seems to be the use of fluorine. After eight years of fluoridation of drinking water, one city in the state of New York has found tooth decay in its children reduced by 47%. Compared with a neighboring city of similar size where fluorine is not used, this city (Newburgh) has twice as many children with no decay at all.

Several hundred communities in the United States and Canada now add fluorine to their water sup-

THIRTY YEARS AGO Dec. 14, 1922

Dr. Theodore Macklin of the University of Wisconsin spoke in the valley this week. He is a recognized authority on the marketing of agricultural products and said: "It is in scientific marketing that agriculturists have failed lamentably. Our agricultural schools and universities have taught farmers how to grow two blades of grass where one grew previously, but they have failed to teach him how to market the extra blade of grass. This is the defect that all farmers' organizations are now trying to remedy." The discovery has been announced at Abbotsford of a seedless and coreless apple. It is of the variety Famous. A large fruit distributing firm in Montreal assured the grower that if he could show the parent apple tree from which the apples were grown and prove that it would reproduce trees by grafts giving similar fruit, he would guarantee him $1,000,000 for it, as it would revolutionize apple growing in Canada.

By a vote of 174 to 17 the ratepayers of Summerland gave approval to the Box Factory by-law. Plans will be completed for the removal of the box factory machinery from Minoola to the new site with the purchase of additional machinery.

Mr. and Mrs. Bon Mayne have moved from Minoola to Myron where Mr. Mayne will be in charge of the operations of the Summerland Lumber Co. Ltd. there.

Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Koop leave on Friday for Victoria where they will spend the winter.

Because of the cold weather the CFR has put an embargo on all fruit shipments.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO Dec. 16, 1927

Chas. Wharton has made arrangements to have a rink at the GWVA hall and expects to open for Christmas.

The usual holiday hours will be observed by the telephone central on Christmas and New Year's by permission of the reeve.

Mr. McLarty leaves this week for Winnipeg where he will meet with Canadian plant pathologists and give a paper on Physiological Disease in Fruit. From there he will go on to Toronto to join Mrs. McLarty returning with her the middle of January.

A shower was given by a number of her friends to Miss May Harrison. The ladies each gave her a cup and saucer and the men gave a kitchen shower.

The hospital has been enjoying the use of Dr. Andrew's gramophone, which he kindly loaned them this week.

The first entertainment to use Ellison hall will be the annual school concert when there will be an opportunity to test the hall's facilities. The wiring is being done this week.

Work has started on the erection of the Roman Catholic church in Victoria Gardens.

Elderly Woman Here 17 Years Passes at Summerland Hospital

Mrs. Mary Milton, a resident of Summerland for seventeen years, passed away in Summerland General hospital on Sunday, Dec. 7, following a short illness.
 Mrs. Milton, who was the widow of George Webster Milton, former CPR agent at Summerland, was seventy-two years of age, and had lived for forty-three years in British Columbia. She was a native of Surrey, England, and in April, 1951, went on a trip to the Old Country returning in June of the same year.
 She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Edith Haack, Summerland, and Ellen in England; three brothers, Stephen and James in England, and Harry in Australia.
 Funeral services were held at St. Stephen's church this afternoon Thursday, at two o'clock with Rev. Canon F. V. Harrison officiating. Interment was in Peach Orchard cemetery. Summerland Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

The Mail Bag

The Rectory,
 West Summerland, B.C.,
 Dec. 9, 1952.
 Editor, The Review:

May I beg a little space in your paper to make an appeal to Citizens of good will.
 On Hallowe'en, St. Stephen's Church was broken into, the bell rung and the Altar desecrated; candles taken from the Altar, and windows broken. Since that date other windows have been broken on two occasions and, this morning, Dec. 9th, again a broken window.

I am asking, therefore, that any person who saw someone with the candles from the Altar on Hallowe'en to contact me or the police. The candles were about two feet in length, and I would appreciate the co-operation of anyone who could give me the names of any boy, girl or adult whom they saw with such candles that night.

The breaking and entering into the Church is a serious offence, and the taking of the candles a felony, and sacrilege is a very serious crime.

We fought two world wars to preserve our homes and our Altars. If people will not regard the Law, neither fear God, it is necessary for law-abiding people to give the information which will lead to the apprehension of the culprits, that such crude vandalism may be stopped.
 (Canon) F. V. HARRISON

High School COMMENTS

Last Friday night, the junior girls', senior girls', and senior boys' basketball teams travelled to Princeton. The junior girls won their game, but both of the senior teams were defeated.

Because this is the week that the high school play, Out of the Frying Pan, is to be presented to the public the school is humming with feverish activity. There are still some reserved seat tickets left. They may be bought from Green's Drug Store or from any SHS student.

The school paper, The Campus Chaff, went on sale last Friday at noon. About 170 copies were printed and every single one was sold. This really surprised those who had worked on it because other years there were usually a great number of them left over.

It is still possible to get the Christmas cards the school is selling in order to raise money for the piano fund.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

1st Summerland Troop
 The meeting on December 9 was the best attended this season. Three new boys came to join the troop. Bob Metters and Harold Oxley were attached to the Buffalo patrol and David Brinton was adopted by the Eagles. Dale Ketter and Robert Neal, who joined at our last meeting, were attached to the Hawks and Buffaloes respectively.

A lot of good work was done on tenderfoot and second class tests during the evening. Patrol leaders and First Class Scouts were doing a fine job at instructing. Gary Hackman is our new troop secretary and has started working with enthusiasm. Let's help him out, Scouts, by getting those dues paid up to date. Don't forget the fifty cents extra for registration.

Next meeting, December 16, 7 p.m. Duty patrol—Hawks.

Guide News

Following the usual procedure the Guide meeting commenced with inspection, which was then followed by patrol corners, where there appeared to be much knocking of heads together making final preparations for the individual patrol song books, which are due to be handed in to the captain by Dec. 17.

After patrol corners several groups of Guides were to be found scattered over the hall, each intent on their various subjects, which will in course of time lead them to being called "second class Guides". Our Brownies who recently "flew up" were also going through the initial stages of Guiding, preparing themselves for enrollment.

During the course of the evening a suggestion was made that the Guides go carolling in well-populated districts, with a view to giving the proceeds to the South Okanagan polo project. This was greeted by all with great enthusiasm! With this in mind the latter part of the evening was spent around campfire practising well-known carols in preparation for same.

At the conclusion of the meeting badges were awarded to Eileen Wilcox, health; Carol Anne Cornish, citizenship and swimmers. Patrol marks stand as follows: Pimpnells 235, Forget-me-nots 181, Buttercups 236, Hepaticas 248, Clover 218, Orchid 247.

TEEN TOWN

The campaign for the March of Dimes last Saturday turned out to be quite a success. Canvassing the streets and houses made approximately $84.51, and the proceeds from the dance amounted to $9.00, a total of $94.51. We would like to thank the kids that gave up some of their time to help canvass.

There will be a council meeting on Monday at Mary Brikovich's. It is not known when the next dance will be held, but probably in about three weeks.

Coast stars taking part in the show include Audrey Downie and Brian Power, both Canadian juni-

FINAL COUNCIL SESSION

Next municipal council meeting will be held as usual on the fourth Tuesday in the month, December 23. This will be the final general meeting of the 1952 municipal council.

MISCHEL HAPALO, 28-year-old Polish born refugee who was turned out by France for resisting a Paris police officer, has been living aboard Cunard Steamship Line passenger ships since Canada and Britain refused him permanent entry. The company is responsible for him since he first came to Canada last year with a six-week visitor's permit aboard a Cunard ship. Unless Canadian immigration authorities change a previous decision, Hapalo is bound for a life at sea until he finds a country which will accept him.

be conducted by the department. The municipal council has expressed its opposition to the Sandhill-Giant's Head road route for some time, on the grounds that too much orchard land will be lost to the corporation from the assessment roll, and the disruption of municipal services and utilities.

Mr. Atkinson expressed the thought in council that there appears to be sufficient merit in the dump road-Russel lot route to ask for a complete survey with comparative costs up to the same point on the Gulch road as the route advocated by the department takes.

He felt that the department should reveal a comparison of the costs of these two routes, including the cost of moving electrical poles, purchasing property, putting in a new water system for the municipality and other costs in relation to the Sandhill-Giant's Head road approach which would not be necessary in the dump road-Russel property plan.

Money Not for Road
"There is a lot of money involved which is not included in the actual building of the highway itself," Mr. Atkinson pointed out. He also stated that the Gulch road could be closed if the highway was relocated via Russel's property.

Councillor H. R. J. Richards agreed with Mr. Atkinson in this contention, but also felt that some changes on the existing highway up the Peach Orchard could provide a modern highway without disrupting the Sandhill-Giant's Head at all.

"I think we should pick a definite route and stick to it," was Councillor F. M. Steuart's contention. "I think they are apt to put the road where they want to, anyway."

Reeve C. E. Bentley disagreed with Councillor Steuart, claiming that three or four alternative routes should be given careful study. The railway had six alternative routes coming through Summerland before deciding on one, he pointed out.

"Don't dictate" to the public works department, he stressed. Councillor H. J. Barkwill argued against the Sandhill-Giant's Head from a safety angle.

He didn't think the retail merchants would argue against the route looked at last Saturday by council, and described in detail by The Review last week.

Reeve Bentley, when asked if he would try to contact Premier Bennett by phone, replied he had tried all morning, (Tuesday) without success.

Discussion bogged down at that stage of council proceedings as to whether the approach should be by telephone or by writing. The chief magistrate favored writing and putting down the facts as the council sees them.

Councillor Steuart and other

Many Willing Workers At Pre-Xmas CWL Bazaar and Tea

The parish hall of The Church of The Holy Child was busy on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 6, when the ladies of the CWL held their annual pre-Christmas bazaar and tea.

Pine boughs centred the tea tables and the many lovely things offered for sale went quickly as people shopped for Christmas.

In charge of the apron stall was Mrs. A. Bonthoux, with Mrs. Paul Bonthoux looking after the novelties' section; Mrs. Henry Schaeffer and Mrs. Anna Wolfe, fancy work; Mrs. John Menu, Mrs. Glen Woods, and Miss Olga Libicz, the popular home cooking table.

Selling candy was Miss Shirley Clarke, and Miss Mary Briekovich and Miss Marguerite Menu had fun satisfying the children who waited expectantly at the fish pond.

In the kitchen to make the tea were Mrs. J. Cristante, Mrs. S. Fabbri and Mrs. Gilbert Jacobs with Mrs. John Betuzzi, Mrs. Marcel Bonthoux and Miss Ettie Bonthoux serving. Mrs. John Selinger collected the tea money.

Mrs. V. Polesello had charge of ticket selling for the various prizes and was assisted by Mrs. Alphonse Menu and Eddie and John Menu. Mr. Gerald Washington won the turkey; Mrs. Frank Daniels, the rag doll; young Martin Shannon, the floor lamp; Mrs. Doreen Thompson, the electric kettle; and to Mrs. Guichot went the embroidered tablecloth.

ROADS ARE GRADED
Municipal maintainer has been busy grading various portions of the municipality in the past two weeks, Councillor F. M. Steuart informed council on Tuesday. Giant's Head road south, the front bench and top end of Prairie Valley were included in this work.

SELL CHRISTMAS TREES
Summerland Jaycees have been granted permission by municipal council to sell Christmas trees on the business streets.

council members favored the telephone as a speedier and more efficient means of communicating council desires to the member for South Okanagan.

Finally, Mr. Bentley agreed to have "another shot at it" by telephone if it was possible to reach the premier when in Kelowna this week. He tried on a number of occasions yesterday but failed to contact Mr. Bennett.

On Monday evening, Mr. Miller attended the Summerland Board of Trade executive meeting in Walter M. Wright's office and offered advice from Hon. P. A. Gagnard, minister of public works, that if there is a considerable discussion and objection raised locally, then there would only be a postponement of the highway relocation in this district.

The executive maintained the stand that it had always taken, namely, that a highway relocation is essential and its location should be decided by the engineers.

Mrs. F. Carston is Worthy Mistress of Summerland LOBA

Mrs. F. Carston was installed as worthy mistress of the Summerland LOBA lodge for 1953 when members of the Pentiction and Summerland lodges gathered at the IOOF hall on Tuesday, Dec. 2 for a joint installation.

A delightful supper of Boston baked beans and steamed brown bread concluded the evening, the tables being set with a Christmas air and the usual holiday treats. Officers installed for Summerland LOBA are: Mrs. F. Carston, worthy mistress; Mrs. R. Gibbard, deputy mistress; Mrs. E. Harbicht, junior deputy mistress; Mrs. E. Gillespie, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Leki, financial secretary; Mrs. D. Fountain, treasurer; Mrs. W. Prairie Couple Will Make Home In Summerland

A wedding of interest here, took place in Penticton on Friday afternoon, Dec. 5 at half past four in St. Ann's church, when Theresa Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Marin, The Pas, Man., was united in marriage with Lyle Adrian, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sundholm, Cabri, Sask. The ceremony was performed by Fr. Bergin, OMI, in the presence of thirty guests, and the day was the twenty-fourth anniversary of the wedding of the groom's parents, who came from Cabri for their son's marriage.

For the occasion the bride wore a lovely gown of white lace and net with white veil and carried a bouquet in which a red rose was surrounded with white chrysanthemums. She was given in marriage by Mr. Adam Stolz of Penticton.

As bridesmaid, Miss Isobel Fournier wore a dainty aqua satin and net frock with chapel veil caught to her head with aqua and white 'mums.

Mr. Alan Morgan was best man and the usher was Mr. John Killbeck.

While the register was being signed the choir sang softly.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Stolz, 702 Nelson Ave., Penticton, who received assisted by the groom's mother and the bridal party. The mother of the groom was tastefully attired in a blue tailored suit with pink accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations.

A three-tiered wedding cake was the centre of interest on the bride's table, and a toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Killbeck with response by the bride. Mr. Charles Acker proposed a toast to the groom, to which he replied.

A congratulatory telephone call came through from Cabri, Sask. from the groom's brother and sister.

Dancing was enjoyed for a couple of hours and the bride and groom left for their honeymoon by car to Wenatchee, Wash. For motoring the bride changed to a smart black fur-trimmed suit with matching accessories.

On their return the young couple will make their home in Summerland.

Out-of-town guests included the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sundholm, and Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hankins, Sr. and their son, Ian, all of Cabri, Sask.

Former Resident Dies At Prince George

Mrs. J. H. Pledge left on Monday for Prince George, B.C., where she was called because of the death of her son-in-law, Mr. T. W. Vickers, as a result of a heart attack.

The late Mr. Vickers who was 46 years of age was born in England. He and Mrs. Vickers were married in Summerland and lived for a short time here and at Four-Mile on the Naramata road before moving to Prince George. He was a veteran of World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Vera; a son, Jimmie, and a daughter, Ellen; his mother, Mrs. T. W. Vickers, Sr., and a brother Andrew of Penticton, who also went to Prince George on Monday.

His wife, who has been ill for some time, was a patient in the Prince George hospital, and is still hospitalized.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Nilson report a pleasant hunting trip in the Cariboo district from which they returned recently, bringing a moose with them.

BERT BERRY'S Hunting and Fishing News

HUNTING AND FISHING ... All good times must end for everyone sooner or later. To us in Summerland, the end of the hunting season meant the cessation of a sport we enjoy and we can talk over the season until next September.

BLUE GROUSE The season was good here and birds more plentiful. Scientists tell us the grouse live in a cycle of approximately 10 years with high and low periods. The more you shoot at the height of the cycle the longer that period will last.

PHEASANTS This bird has dropped in population in Summerland district. However, our game scientists tell us that a season on cocks cannot hurt the pheasant population.

DUCKS and GEESE They have been around in fair numbers, until the upper lakes froze. Still a few on the big lake. I don't think duck shooting will ever be good here, as we haven't the type of feed they like.

DEER The results (or luck) with deer have been very poor, caused by the unusual season, with little or no snow. There is quite a controversy on the deer population and the feed right now, and whether the season should have been extended.

MOOSE and ELK This area doesn't raise any of these animals but local hunters have not had as good hunting as

Why wouldn't this be a good thing for Summerland? All sorts of objections can be raised, of course. Thus in Vancouver, where the same thing has been mooted, some people are indignantly proclaiming that fluoridation is an infringement on personal liberty—people should be free to let their teeth decay if they want to.

Regarding the latter, in one American city the local fathers announced they were starting to fluoridate the water on a certain date, then purposely forgot to. They had a flood of letters and phone calls from people who found the water's taste had become horrible.

In view of the objections to wholesale fluoridation, and the growing scarcity of fluorine (prospectors may soon be going out on expeditions to hunt especially for new deposits of 'Blue John' as fluorspar is known in Derbyshire) it might be better to apply it more selectively, directly to the teeth and only to those who want it.

in previous years in other parts of the province. There is a lot of controversy over opening the season on cows, but as scientists spent three winters making a survey of the situation, we should accept their recommendations.

School Board Discards Plan To Enlarge New High School

Summerland school board has asked school boards throughout the province to "hold the line" on educational costs at the 1952 level. Young's Electric Ltd. was awarded the contract for installation of the hot water tank in the school cafeteria for a tendered price of $172. Principal A. K. Macleod informed the school board that a cheque for $18 had been received by the high school cadets corps in respect to work done last term.

Inspector A. S. Matheson admitted that the board should be able to "get by" for about two years with increased instruction in the same accommodation. Asked by Trustee J. Y. Towgood about offering only a part course in either home ec. or industrial arts, Inspector Matheson believed it would be a mistake to limit permanently those who desire to obtain the full course and who may want to specialize in such work at a later time in their career. This projected addition to the present school buildings, therefore, will not be included in the school budget for 1953, now in the process of preparation. It was decided to effect this economy even before Hon. Tillie Rolston, minister of education.

Rock Rolls Down Hillside, Hits Car

A narrow escape from a more serious accident occurred last Thursday noon when Mr. and Mrs. Harry Locke with their three children were approaching Summerland from Kelowna to visit the latter's parents Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wright. When a mile or two north of town, a large rock careened down the hillside and smashed into the front of the car, damaging the front fender, mudguard and headlight. The rock is believed to have weighed about 150 pounds.

Irrigated Pastures Can be Means of Producing More Milk Dr. Palmer Tells Dairymen

Speaking to meetings of dairymen of the North Okanagan at Salmon Arm, Armstrong and Vernon last Friday and Saturday, Dr. R. C. Palmer, superintendent of the experimental station in Summerland, informed the farmers of that area that the station here has given a great deal more thought to their problems than most of them realized. "Your major problem... is how to meet the keen competition from margarine and other low cost products made from cheap imported oils. The situation is discouraging but by no means hopeless. In fact, I am confident that the Okanagan dairy industry will meet this challenge successfully and continue to prosper. My faith in this industry is based partly on knowledge of your efficient and progressive marketing organization. But most of all, my confidence in the future of the Okanagan dairy industry is based on knowledge of the character of the people engaged in it. He stressed that youth is taking an interest in the industry and they deserve all the assistance which can be given. More economical methods of producing milk was termed by Dr. Palmer as the most effective way to deal with this problem of competition. "We at Summerland have been working quietly for several years endeavoring to find ways of reducing the cost of milk production," he continued, reviewing the tests which have been made with various types of feed, most of which are expensive. Cows Enjoy Grass Silage "For several years now we have been making our silage from alfalfa and grasses cut green from our hay fields. The cows enjoy this grass silage and have continued to thrive and make high milk records." He stressed the cost of producing farm crops and stated that at Summerland good use has always been made of pasture. In the 5-month season from May to September just concluded, the Summerland station cows produced almost 3,000 pounds of milk per acre of pasture. With milk valued at $4.50 per cwt., the pasture had a value of $288.50 per acre. "In order to get the best results from pastures under our dry belt soil and climatic conditions, it is necessary to fertilize and irrigate them," he continued. In Salmon Arm, tests had been conducted on two pastures, the application of 200 pounds of ammonium phosphate 16-20-0 per acre without irrigation increased pasture yield 13 percent. When irrigated, the yield of forage was increased by 71 percent. Application of the fertilizer in the fall plus irrigation in the summer increased the yield of forage by 82 percent, he explained. About three inches of water five times in a season, for a total of between 12 and 15 inches, was the application. In Summerland, where the soil is drier, approximately 30 inches of irrigation water in the season was found necessary. "These encouraging results with irrigated pastures at Salmon Arm indicate that those of you who are fortunate enough to have farms bordering on lakes and streams will make no mistake in installing sprinkler irrigation systems for your pastures," declared Dr. Palmer. At the local station, irrigated pastures are divided into fields about three acres in extent, with the herd allowed to pasture only 5 to 7 days in any one field, thus promoting uniform cropping of the herbage. "It also facilitates the application of irrigation water to each field immediately after it has been grazed," he continued. "There is some evidence that it may even be worthwhile to make the individual fields small enough for only one day's grazing and move the herd to a new pasture each day. Stamina and Vitality He stressed the use of cows with plenty of stamina and vitality as another means of decreasing the cost of production pointing to the Summerland Jersey herd which has a strain remarkable for vitality, longevity and high production. Dr. Palmer told the meeting of Summerland Standard Flo, whose record was given publicity in last week's issue of The Review, and also put a stop to the rumors that the herd would be moved to the North Okanagan. "The department of agriculture never at any time had any plan to move the Summerland Jersey herd out of the Okanagan Valley." He reminded his audiences that the proposals for a substation at Armstrong come about four years too late. In 1948, Roy Noble in charge of animal husbandry at the Summerland station then investigated this possibility and the dairy industry of the North Okanagan showed very little interest in this proposal. "Experience indicates that experimental dairy herds located on small substations seldom accomplish very much. Dairy herds can be used to better advantage in experimental work when they form a part of a large experimental institution. "Those responsible for organizing livestock research in Canada have a wide vision of what should be done to aid the dairy industry in solving its problems. They plan the establishment of a comparatively small number of large-scale animal husbandry research centres, where large numbers of animals will be kept. This will make it possible to conduct much more comprehensive and far-reaching breeding and nutrition projects than are possible on small herds scattered widely over the country." In conclusion, he extended an invitation to all North Okanagan herdsmen to attend the dairymen's picnic being planned at the experimental station in Summerland next summer.

NO STUMBLING BLOCKS Summerland, B.C., Dec. 6, 1952

Editor, The Review: For years back the people of Summerland have been pushing for a first-class highway from Penticton north. There have been surveys from the KVR station east to the lakeshore for various routes. Finally after ten to fifteen years the government is constructing a modern highway between Penticton and Trout Creek, and after all these different surveys has selected the route up the Sandhill and along the Giant's Head as the most feasible from an engineering standpoint. The Board of Trade and Retail Merchants' Association have gone on record as favoring the findings of the government engineers as per last week's paper. The government engineers are pushing for an immediate start on the road to take advantage of any low bids for construction resulting from the fact the machinery is already on the Penticton section. Isn't that what most of the people in the district wish? Some action on the project. We now have an opportunity to get behind the project and push for an immediate construction or we can take chances of stalling the road off for an indefinite period by putting stumbling blocks in their path or suggesting alternate routes here and there. We paid these men to survey the job, we should go out of our way to help them. As for the costs along the road, in many cases the land values will be raised, not lowered, the municipality will benefit by any new water and power lines which would be rebuilt by the government and any land acquired is paid for in value to the owner. We should all get behind this and accept the route proposed by the engineers which they have selected from the findings of their surveyors. Yours for immediate construction, MEL MONRO

Final Cheque for School Written

"That just about concludes one phase of our school activities," declared Chairman C. J. Bleasdale to members of the school board last week on hearing the report from Trustee Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh that the school cafeteria had commenced operation.

Mr. Bleasdale referred to the building and equipping of the new junior-senior high school which was officially opened in September, 1951, but has had many other additions and alterations since then.

In fact, last week saw the final payment awarded to Kenyon & Co., general contractors, on Architect W. K. Noppe giving his last stamp of approval on the building.

Suggests X-ray for All Persons Connected With Local Schools

South Okanagan Health Unit has suggested to local district school board that a yearly x-ray of all teachers and other persons connected with school duties should be requested.

Staff members of the local schools will be acquainted with this request which was reported to result from another school in this area which discovered one of the teachers had become a TB suspect and had been afflicted with the disease for some months.

On Friday, Dr. D. M. Black, medical director of the health unit, visited Summerland schools and addressed a combined staff meeting. He outlined the services provided by the health unit for the schools and told the teachers the ways in which their co-operation can help the scheme.

Salary Deal Reverts to Valley Basis

Negotiations between school boards and teachers in the area covered by the Okanagan branch, B.C. School Trustees' Assn. and the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Assn. on reopening of the salary agreement which went into existence on January 1, 1952, have been resumed on a valley-wide basis.

This was rumored at the school board meeting held last week and although no official report has been received, it is generally accepted that negotiations are proceeding on this basis.

One of the agreements reached between the salary committees of both sides was that no press releases would be given out while negotiations are being carried on.

It had been announced, about mid-November by the valley teachers' committee that negotiations on a valley-wide basis had been broken off.

Trustee J. Y. Towgood reported to the school board last week that he and Chairman Bleasdale met the teachers' salary committee last month and had been presented with a brief representing "their more specific requirements".

Revision of teachers' salaries only was considered by the trustees, Mr. Towgood announced, and principals' salaries were not considered. He also stated that he had no positive information that the valley-wide negotiations had been dis-

BUILDING STILL BELOW $200,000 AT NOVEMBER END

Only one new dwelling was projected in November, at a value of $3,000, Building Inspector Roy F. Angus' monthly report reveals. Two permits for additions and alterations at $475 made up the rest of the monthly report, thus totaling $3,475 for the month.

In November, 1951, nine permits for $3,035 were issued.

This brings the total for 11 months of 1952 to $6 permits valued at $195,705, as compared with $4 for $145,640 in the same period a year ago.

It will be a "near thing" to $200,000 by the end of the full twelve months, it is anticipated, although new building activity this month is nearly at a standstill so far.

Jaycees Attend Penticton Dinner

President Mev Wells led a small contingent of Summerland Jaycees to the monthly dinner meeting of the Penticton Junior Chamber of Commerce last Thursday evening. Penticton Jaycees entertained them on-board the S. S. Sicamous and guest speakers were: aldermanic candidates for seats on the Penticton council.

Others in the Summerland contingent were Al McIntosh, E. E. Weeks and Sandy Jomori.

Valley-wide negotiations had been disbanded, as had been announced formerly by the teachers' committee.

Inspector A. S. Matheson confirmed that there was definite talk in the Okanagan that the valley-wide negotiations have been resumed.

The janitors' union has also requested a revision of its wage scale and wants a valley-wide deal negotiated.

New Resident from Ipswich Finds Canucks Loyal to Crown

Flying Officer I. E. Phillips, DCM, BEM, formerly of 11 Elmcroft Road, Ipswich, who with Mrs. Phillips is at present living at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Blagburn, came here last July.

In a recent edition of the Ipswich Evening Star are related some of his impressions of this country. These were written in a letter to a friend who gave them to the English paper, where they have been edited by John Hawkway in his column called Under The Town Hall Clock, as follows:

"How is he getting on? Let's start from the time he boarded the ship taking him to the new world and new hopes. Food? 'I ate more in the eight days than I did in eight weeks in England,' he believes. Meaning there was so much of it. As for the trip, well, ice-floes gave him a sensation of awe, and on the run up the St. Lawrence, the beauty was something never to be forgotten.

Then came the long, long journey by train to British Columbia. Mr. Phillip's destination where his daughter and son-in-law live.

Impressed by the lakes—"there are lakes, miles and miles of them"—he was equally thrilled by the Rockies. But what really shook the Ipswichian to the very fibres of his being was the fact that man had carved a railroad through this range of towering rugged mountains. A mighty engineering feat, even in these days of excavators, bulldozers, electric cranes and heaven knows what else. But the track was constructed, the lines laid, every difficulty conquered by the efforts of grim, determined men.

No machines then. "It was achieved by human beings alone," says Mr. Phillips. How much in sweat, toil, blood and lives was expended in the process he almost shudders to think. Yet many a route was wrenched from primitive country, the way of progress torn open, when mechanization was in its infancy. Thus the pioneers penetrated the remote spots of the earth.

Mr. Phillips realized the frailness of man. Along the railroad with thousands of feet dropping sheerly on either side, he was forcibly reminded of something which the majority has forgotten. "That our existence," he says solemnly, "is but a brief interlude in an eternity of time."

If he found the Rockies almost frightening in their majesty, his impressions of Summerland in British Columbia were the opposite. He quoted Thomas Hardy in his enthusiasm. "I love it already," he says. "I feel that here one can relax far from the madding crowd."

The home of his relations is a comfortable place, with constant hot water. It overlooks a lake ninety miles long and three wide at one point, and is approached by a drive of English trees. Trees shading the lawns at the back and front of the house are a boon in the hot hours of the day. British Columbia, in this part, is a fruit-growing land. Perhaps partly due to the abundance of water. This is preserved from the winter snows and is supplied to the orchards. "Sprinklers play night and day," reveals Mr. Phillips. The result is soil rich and productive. Apricots, peaches, apples, plums, plus other fruit, literally festoon the trees. Not that all this harvest of gold and yellow and red is obtained without effort. Nature is not as kind as that. No; the farmers work hard. This is their reward. Thousands of tons of fruit, which through careful tending and the sun and water, have come to perfection. Fruit which you may find in your local shop.

All very nice, but do the inhabitants welcome immigrants? Are they British at heart? The answer is the same to both questions. "They are friendly and helpful," asserts Mr. Phillips. Perhaps even more important they are extremely loyal to the Crown. Yet they are not all of pure British stock. Amongst them are Austrians, Germans, Dutch, and first and foremost they are Canadians!

Mr. Phillips give a remarkable illustration of this adherence to the Empire Commonwealth, if you like. He attended a meeting of the Canadian Legion. Before proceedings started the president and members rose to their feet when the Union Jack and Legion Standard were brought forward and draped round the table. Then without any apparent prompting the company burst into the Canadian National Anthem. At the close they sang "God Save The Queen" with equal fervour. And, to press home the point, the table was decorated with portraits of H.M. the Queen and her husband. All of which seems to suggest that the spirit and ideals of the real England, the England which gained the respect and admiration of the world, and which has been replaced by an England of strife and "can't care less", is flourishing amongst its sons and daughters overseas.

Concluding Mr. Phillips says "Well, I won't arouse the envy of smartmen with rod and gun and describe the shooting, the fishing. In this part of the world, but I will answer the inevitable question: Now about the cost of living? "On the balance," says Mr. Phillips, "one is a deal better off."

In a canoe, the expelled air travels about 100 miles an hour.

SHOPPERS GUIDE

Last weekend The Review felt it should solicit the support of Santa Claus in making a trip through Summerland Stores. A Review Reporter accompanied the Merry Old Gentleman on his Tour and this is what was found:

"I'm not actually doing so much of the work myself these days," Santa told me, when I went around town with him the other night. "I'm something like Jim Brown on the radio, I come out for the Big Occasion every year, and I get my boys to hitch up my deer, but those young fellows who help me—they'd sooner use the helicopters. I don't know what we're going to do though if they keep building places with roofs like that new Super-Vau here. Usually my deer can nip up most anywhere, and they think these flat rooftops aren't any fun, no challenge at all, but these slippery curved ones—my! my!" he said. Just then he pulled all the reins at once, and we came to a full stop on the roof of Holmes and Wade's.

Out jumped Santa and over to the edge, and peered in the bright moonlight across at the Rialto sign. "Just wanted to see what's on at the show. Hardly ever manage to see a show," said Santa. "Too busy putting on the Biggest One on Earth."

"Now Santa," I said, "I know you're going to be awfully pushed for time, so I won't bother you. While you are doing your job, I'll just look around everywhere, and see what you put out, and what they have here. I get lots of surprises at the lovely things there are in Summerland."

"O.K.," said Santa, and he began unloading and pushing sacks ahead of him down the chimney. "Here," he nudged me "jump on this big soft one, and down the chute you go!"

"Golly," I thought, "I'm going to walk between steps and avoid this chimney business."

Well, we shutdown without any trouble. In fact it was pretty good fun, and I began roaming around. Those cookie sheets would certainly come in handy just now. And I saw the new upright tank type of vacuum cleaner, and there was a Belmont console sewing machine, and a Vickers portable. What Christmas gifts any of these would make!

I soon knew what that poem about Santa means, where it says "dash away, dash away, dash away all." He showed me how to put my finger "aside of my nose," and sure enough "up the chimney we rose!"

"That's Penny's there. Sure like to get my whiskers curled. No time, no time at all," said Santa. "And that's the Dry Cleaners. Should leave my other suit there to be cleaned."

"Into Roy's Men's Wear now." Pure wool tartan or plain corded wool dressing gowns, fine leather belts, tartan shirts, curling sweaters, gloves, lined, unlined, fur lined. I saw in a quick look, and at the back Fisher's Shoe Store. "One thing I like about Fisher's, you can get a lift here any day in the week," Santa said with a wink and a grin. I saw all the shearling lined slippers, and those shearling leather soles that came all the way from the East. They're for attaching knitted tops.

In the Sports Centre, Santa himself was quite interested in the Grevig Norwegian ski equipment. "Imagine finding that here. I see it in all the best ski places all over the world," he remarked. We hurried around amongst the outdoor motors, and checked all the hockey and skating supplies, too.

Then across to Laidlaw's. "Guess the people around here won't be cold," was Santa's comment here.

"Getting my new suits made with a coat like those station wagon ones with the quilted lining. Not that anyone is going to get me to change the color I've always worn, though. I've got several pairs of Ripon sock slippers like those up at the Pole," he told me. "Nice to get my heavy boots off, and put those on." I noted the curling tams and sweaters, but I'd settle for a Cowichan one with a tam to match. They have those, too.

Now at Butler and Walden's. "The young fellow in here sometimes dresses up and stands in for me," Santa laughed. "Looks quite a bit like me, too, all fixed up."

In around through the linoleum we went, and the pretty rolls of wall tie. Luggage for Christmas journeyings was on a high shelf, I saw the yellow and white enamel kitchen ware and one of the best little things for kitchen work, a sponge—good for wiping table and sink tops, absorbs quickly. The Telectron clocks were nice, and all those Sunbeam products—razors, toasters, mixmasters, but the new Sunbeam electric cooker and deep fryer is a honey. Cook a whole dinner in it on those sizzling summer days. The price I couldn't see, but it would be a wonderful gift.

In Green's Drug Store Santa checked the gift wrappings and the boxes of chocolates, took a turn around where the Adrienne and Tiffany cosmetics were displayed. "Really like perfume," Santa sighed, "not much used in Eskimo land. Think a fur suit and an igloo would be better with a touch of Evening in Paris like this," and we both took a sniff.

Now to Macil's, he steered me along. Long ago I changed my ideas about walking between steps. More fun, this chimney sliding. Smooch and smooch, with a frosty breath of fresh air in between, and the view from some of those roof tops is beautiful, with the Giant's Head standing out black against the sky, and seeming to guard the sleeping town. The reindeer weren't restive at all up there, as we nipped along the roof. Santa said they're as well trained as a milk man's horses.

Lovely towel sets, all made up like buds of flowers, and colors to rival a garden—nylon lingerie, and the new nylon lingerie, which is not so sheer as nylon, but still sumptuous—"I heard one whole shipment of snuggledowns has gone," Santa announced. "Snug-gledown is brushed rayon," he said, "there were long and short sleeved nighties in jewel colors. I admired the crystal plastic jewel boxes each holding three pairs of nylon stockings, gay taffeta petticoats with a feminine whisper, satin housecoats, gorgeous blankets, and I felt like tucking a dainty posy under my chin, but thought it wouldn't do when I was escalating by chimney."

"They have a gift-wrapping service here," Santa, I said. "That helps me a lot," he answered. "I remember when Mrs. Santa and I worked almost the year round to get everything done all by ourselves."

Shannon's had some electric blankets. "Don't use those at the Pole," Santa said. "We've such a big stock pile of furs. Good idea though, I should think." Those little portables are good, too. Have them in all my workshops. Going to drop in next door at Mel Cousins. Want to get my den papered."

Talk about "in and out the window." We were in and out in no time, and at A. K. Elliott's. "Used to fix things up for Keith's Dad," reminisced Santa. "Just look at this Toyland."

We had so much fun in there. I sat in a little pink musical rocker, and Santa though he knew he shouldn't really take the time, set up an electric train. "Can't resist them," was his excuse. There is a child's desk with a matching chair, slate top one side, wood the other, with a drawer, brush and crayons. What a joy for some youngster, and an excellent selection of heavy wheel toys that would stand fairly rough treatment.

After that, in the furniture department were three-shelf utility lobbies, some with rollers, useful for so many household duties; a straw-colored lined oak cedar chest, occasional tables, bird's eye maple bedroom suite. "If the freight rates would go down there'd be even more of this nice stuff," said Santa. "After all, my deer can't bring furniture, and helicoptering is much too expensive yet for such heavy things. I have to get help from the railways."

"Can't bear to go around the corner to the Frozen Foods," Santa murmured. "All the cousins of my deer that they usually keep in there. Not so many this year, of course, but it still makes me sad. Hear that your people put quantities of fruit in the locker. Must be a fine thing. Of course, we never need lockers at the Pole." He grinned at me. "That's where they invented deep freeze!"

"Wish I could take you on at a game of bowls over at the Bowldrome," Santa said wistfully. "No time, no time."

"I've often wondered what Linnea means, Santa," I said. "Do you know?"

"Can't say I do," he answered, "but they like to have pretty things in here. You know Mrs. Santa herself helps me pick the hankies they have, and then, whoopsie-whoops, if she doesn't ask me to bring her back two or three because they're so nice."

I noticed beautiful tweed coats, and those ballerina-length semi-formals—you know the kind, when the girls start out they have the little jacket on, and then when the music gets everyone into a dancing mood, off comes the jacket! Lots of lovely lingerie, too and nylons with fancy heels. "The gals can't see them themselves, but they think they add interest," Santa said.

"Lots of sparkle in here," was Santa's comment at Milne's Jewellery. "Might be some of my own icicles," he exclaimed as he put the rhinestone things in the cases, and they glinted in the pale moonlight. I liked the hammered aluminum tray, so light to carry and attractive to the eye. Saw a sweet musical doll bride that turned slowly as the music tinkled along, and Holloware flat silver, jewel cases, sterling silver compacts, cups and saucers for Christmas tea parties, potential gifts on every shelf.

I wish we could have stayed longer in Young's Electric. They have some lamp shades there that exactly match Santa's suit. With the light inside, what a warm cosy glow to any room! "Got a combination radio phonograph something like this one," Santa pointed out. "Sitting on the top of the world the way I do for so much of the year, helps me keep in touch with things. Northern lights make a lot of static they say, and I think I might take Gordon up there some time to see if he can fix it for me."

There were console models, all speeds I think, didn't have time to try them, just played one little Noel, with Santa humming away to himself and saying, "Never get tired of Christmas carols." Lovely pottery vases and ornaments with matching lamps were set out and swinging arm tri-lites for bridge or reading.

"Hurry, hurry, off to the Five to a Dollar Store. This place takes a lot of my time," Santa opined. "All these thousands of little things to check. Must say Gerry keeps it neat and tidy—and that helps a lot. People have more fun shopping here, you know. Looking for novelties and small gifts, where it's not the price, but the thought that counts. Christmas tree ornaments, m-m-m-m," he mused, "dolls cheaper this year, toys cheaper, children's wool sweaters, cheaper too. Good."

"Now to the Family Shoe Store. Say have you seen these elegant lightweight-lined overshoes?" Santa queried. "I'm surprising Mrs. Santa all right this year. Got a pair tucked under the sleigh seat to put on the Christmas tree for her. Not so many of these fancy things that she can wear at the Pole, and not many around, so isolated we don't go out much except on long trips, but she can wear these out to the deer barns, and between workshops. Bet she'll love them. Did you notice the kids' overshoes have elastic tops this season?" he asked too. "Keeps the snow out." I had my eye on all the warm moccasin slippers, and warm, cosy other ones, a wide assortment of colors and types, and shoes and shoes all round.

"Well, that's it, I guess," said Santa. "I did think the Body Shop might fix up my sleigh a little, but heck, I'm used to this model, and I doubt if they'd let me in any place if I changed it."

"I'll tell you, though sometime I'm going to get my photograph taken either at Maywood's or Sunwood's. Do you think the people of Summerland would be pleased if I left my real picture here?" I assured him they'd love it, and I said, too, he should stay sometime for a Christmas dinner cooked from all the delicious things from our groceries and meat stores.

"Well, I'd enjoy it," he said, "but Mrs. Santa expects me, and there's nothing like being home for Christmas."

Of course, none of the restaurants were open so I couldn't get him a cup of coffee, but I knew he would be leaving in a rush so I had packed a lunch with some things from Dunbar's and The Cake Box. He drove the reindeer and sleigh up along the ridge of Smith and Henry's shed, and we sat there and ate quickly.

The time had passed all too soon, and as he eased me down off the roof with one of the long reins, I thought "It's a good thing the council of Summerland has made electricity so cheap and we all have lots of hot water, because I will certainly need to scrub off the ashes and soot." Then just as in the poem "he, to his team gave a whistle, and away they all flew like the down of a thistle, but I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight, 'Happy Christmas to all, and to all a good night!'"

Christmas Music On Program of Singers' Section

As the Christmas season approaches two musical programs which will feature seasonal songs are being planned for the high school auditorium next week.

First one is being held by the Youth for Christ on Tuesday when Jesse Liese of Tacoma will lead in Christmas songs.

On Thursday, Dec. 18, the school auditorium will be the scene of a Singers' and Players' Club Christmas program when a Christmas play entitled "The Desert Shall Rejoice" and a program of sacred music, including selections from Handel's Messiah, The Lord's Prayer and Christmas carols, will be presented.

The singers' section is being assisted by members of various church choirs.

This program is to be presented entirely free, state club officials, and has been planned with the thought of providing the community with an appropriate introduction into the Christmas season.

A drive for $100,000 "milk for Korea" fund was launched last week in Gananoque, Ont., by Dr. Hiltzmanova.

A recent visitor to Korea she has since been touring Canada describing the "desperate plight" of the war-orphaned youngsters.

"No mother, if she could see the horror-stricken eyes, the tragic lack of clothes, food and medicine, would resist the cry for assistance of these helpless little ones," Dr. Hiltzmanova said.

Continental experts were seen at their worst on this deal from the European championships semi-finals. The Swedish North's "Prepared Club" opening was absurd, as he was not obliged to rebid after South's original pass. He followed with Three No-Trumps over South's Three Clubs, not because he hoped to make it, but because anything seemed better than a Club contract.

The Austrian North opened One Diamond, doubled by East and redoubled by South. West's Two Clubs came round to South, whose pass broke a first rule in this situation.

East-West appeared to have picked their worst spot, but in fact any resting place was booked for a penalty of at least 500. Sweden were three down in each room for a loss of 4 match points.

NOTES FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

Government Purchases Large Quantity of Apple Juice

By O. L. Jones, MP for Yale

It gave me a great deal of pleasure to read that the government has at last purchased in large volume of fortified, vitaminized apple juice for consumption in the three services. As you will remember, about a year ago I brought this matter to the attention of the house, quoting the quantities of pineapple juice, orange juice and other citrus juices that were being consumed by the forces and at the same time drawing their attention to the complete absence of apple juice. Later, I contacted the department in an effort to have this omission rectified, so the recent announcement gives me a great deal of personal pleasure and satisfaction that a good reliable commodity has been officially recognized.

The residents of Grand Forks, Greenwood, Oliver and Osoyoos have had a just complaint regarding radio reception and have written to their member about it. As the result of correspondence and interviews with officials of the CBC, I am now informed that low power relay transmitters will be in operation in both Grand Forks and Greenwood some time during February of next year.

The problem regarding Oliver and Osoyoos is now being studied by CBC engineers, who are carrying out a site survey in the general area of Kelowna in order to determine the possibility of serving the Okanagan Valley as far south as Oliver and as far north as Salmon Arm. They are hoping this survey will be completed within a few weeks. It is the CBC's hope that there may be a better way of providing service to the southern interior than by locating low power transmitters at Oliver or Osoyoos, or both.

Claims Drew Changed His Mind

The speech from the throne still dominates the work of parliament, with the Liberal members directing their attacks on the Progressive Conservative party, with particular emphasis on their leader, Mr. Drew, charging him with having changed his attitude regarding dominion-provincial relationships and quoting Mr. Drew (as Premier of Ontario) advocating centralizing power in Ottawa and new reversing his attitude by claiming that Ottawa has assumed too great a responsibility and denied the basic rights of the provinces for self government.

A statement that Mr. Drew made regarding his opposition to them as a "bribe", has also been repeated during this attack.

While the basis of the Conservative speeches have been a demand for a dominion-provincial conference to re-allocate the fields of taxation, plus a general charge of extravagances claimed against the governing party, the CCF party has been concentrating its speeches on the sub-amendment dealing with national health insurance. Each speaker has expressed his party's point of view regarding power at an even voltage such as you have delivered since the change over to the new switching station.

Again may I say Congratulations, and I only hope that every citizen in Summerland who uses electricity realizes to the fullest extent what your efforts during the past year have meant to their living comforts and the economics of this Municipality.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE WASHINGTON

Only One Parent Fails to Pay Full Amount for Library Windows

Only one parent of six failed to make full payment for the Hall-lowe'en damage done at the union library building on school property when most of the windows were broken by youngsters said to be in the 12-year-old range.

School trustees at last week's board meeting heard a report from Secretary B. A. Tingley that he had assessed each parent $6.67, as the cost of replacing the windows had been estimated at approximately $40.

Each parent was sent a letter stating the amount which had been set by the board for collection.

Five parents responded with the full amount, but the sixth parent claimed his information was that there were eight youngsters in the party which broke the windows and he felt that only $5 should be paid by cheque by his son.

This parent didn't offer the names of the other two youngsters involved, and as the police had only given the school board six names of youngsters involved, trustees agreed that the secretary should continue to try and collect the balance of $1.67.

"We can't afford to take this to court, but we acted in the best interests on the advice of the police," taken strong exception to this, demanding that TV in its entirety be turned over to private enterprise.

However, the government did suggest a weak compromise; that areas outside the larger towns of the dominion be left for the smaller independent stations to exploit. These smaller independent stations claim that the government, by controlling the large centres, have taken the cream of this new Canadian development.

This announcement will be welcomed by all Canadians owing to the tremendous loss running into many millions that has been suffered since the infestation was first discovered in Canada this year.

The other was the announcement that telephone rates between Newfoundland and the mainland had been cut drastically; on an average of fifty per cent, which will help to remove some of the isolation that is now felt between the mainland and this new province.

Whispers of the fight yet to take place over the CBC's policy regarding television continue during the debate. This matter will not come to a head until the CBC estimates come before the house. Government policy has been and will be to continue a strict control over TV in Canada, while the Progressive Conservatives have

One parent said his son was there but didn't throw any stones. Full payment was made by this parent just the same.

Still another brought in the payment in dimes and nickels, evidently the savings of the youngster involved.

"I'll see that this doesn't happen again," declared another parent who was taken by surprise to learn of his son's depredations.

Seniors Blow Early Lead on Kelowna Floor

Summerland senior hoopsters blew a first-half lead, at Kelowna last Thursday evening bowing to the Orchard City's senior sage squad by a close 45-41 score.

Going into the third quarter with a comfortable 19-14 lead, Summerland went under to a barrage by the northern crew who outscored the visitors 17-8 to lead 31-27 going into the final quarter.

Scores were evenly divided in the final ten minutes, each side counting 14 points.

Kane was the leading scorer for either side, plunking in 14 points while Gee and Hayward each contributed an even 10 markers.

Cristante again led Summerland's scoring column, closely followed by Leighton Nesbitt and Wally Day, who has returned to the hoop wars after a brief sojourn in a logging camp in the Monte Lake district, since closed for the winter.

Day is expected to be here for part of the winter, at least, and will be a valuable acquisition to local hoop hopes. He sank seven straight free throws without a miss and only one field basket for his nine marks.

Kelowna: Gee 10, Hayward 10, Ritchie 3, Bothem 4, Kane 14, Huddestone, Smeeth, Tait, Thompson

Bluebirds Win One, Lose Three Hoop Contests

Summerland junior high school girls brought victory home for the Bluebirds when three SHS teams travelled to Princeton last week. They defeated the Similkameen lasses 12-2.

Senior boys put up a much better fight than they did at home the week before, only losing 39-31 in a tightly-contested game which went to the victors when Verne Higgs left the floor on a questionable foul call.

Towgood with 7 points, Lauer with 6 and Higgs and Lawley with 5 each were high scorers for the senior boys.

It was also a closer match between the two senior girls' squads, Princeton emerging victorious 23-18. There were no high scorers but good teamwork was featured. Star player, Irene Menu, was "fouled off" at half-time, which didn't help the Bluebirds cause at all.

Playing at home the same night, Summerland junior high boys put up quite a tussle before bowing before Penticton 45-33. Chick Preen led the visitors with a masterful 18 markers, while Brake and Parker were top marksmen for the local juniors.

Lineups for the teams follow:
SHS Junior Girls: M. Haddrell, C. Cornish, M. Kawasaki, S. Bennisson, Jane Smith, M. Inglis, P. Hoffman, Jean Wilson, P. Menu, Carol Ann Short, Nella Huva.
SHS Senior Girls: Irene Menu, P. Hooker, M. Aikin, Ruby Jomori, Olga Libroz, M. Menu, Arlene Raincock, M. Brlekovich, J. Macdonald, Shirley Burnell.

SHS Senior Boys: R. Towgood, F. Lauer, V. Higgs, R. Lawley, Art Draper, J. Pohlmann, A. Cornish, Les Younghusband, Lori Klix, D. Gilbert, Bill Austin.

SHS Junior Boys: Parker 9, Uegama, Brake 10, Hackmann 5, Ask 3, Ferritt 2, Woolliams, Birtles, Scott 3, Lewis, Hanson 1-38.

Penticton Junior Boys: Conley 6, Parker 3, Richards 4, Preen 18, Peterson 3, Barker 2, Andrew 1, Robb 2, Smith, Anderson-45.

Rocky Richardson Sparks Puck Chasers to 8-4 Win at Penticton

Garagemen	6	2	3	1	15	16	5

Summerland, bounced up from the cellar right into contention for top honors in the Penticton and District Commercial hockey league last Sunday afternoon by defeating Contractors by a sound 8 to 4 count.

Rocky Richardson had the Summerland pucksters going in high gear to turn in their best performance of the season. It was a fast-skating fixture which saw Summerland take an early 3-0 lead and never look back, although the Contractors were strong contenders after the first ten minutes of play.

The first string line of Steininger, Taylor and Richardson was the most effective one for the winners, but the Kids, Eyre and Hooker, played an effective game and figured in the scoring race, as well. In the other fixture, OK Packers, the hustling young high school team, walloped the Garagemen 6-1 to bring them up to top position, the first team to register three victories.

Next Sunday Summerland has a bye, all four Penticton teams competing.

1st Period: 1, Summerland, Taylor (Richardson) 2:30; 2, Summerland, Steininger (Taylor, Richardson) 4:00; 3, Summerland, Eyre (Campbell) 7:15; 4, Contractors, Holowaty (Johnston, Cadden) 10:24.
Penalties: Richardson, Taylor.

2nd Period: 5, Summerland, Hooker, 0:29; 6, Contractors, Johnston (Cadden) 2:12; 7, Contractors, Cadden (Chapman) 6:54.

Skating - Hockey Dirt At Arena is Flooded Surface of the skating and hockey rink portion of the Summerland Arena was flooded for the first time on Tuesday evening in an endeavor to freeze the dirt.

It has been a tough task to clear the surface of all the debris which resulted from the building of the big cement wall between the skating and curling rinks, but George Stoll, manager, has succeeded in this endeavor without too much assistance from outside sources.

Next step is to build bleacher accommodation along the west side, Mr. Stoll states. He still needs plenty of help to finish the job.

After a fairly even first half the Okanagan men put on the pressure and started hitting the hoop in real earnest to swamp Keremeos in the final two quarters.
Wally Day started to hit his stride on Tuesday night, leading the scoring race with 14 markers. Don Nesbitt also had his best evening to date with ten points, while Daryl Weitzel excelled himself with 13 points, being high scorer for the final stanza.
Weims and Morris were best for Keremeos but they could not cope with the effective floor play of the Merchants, whose screening and general play showed mid-season form and augurs well for the senior league which is starting in the interior.
Merchants travel to Vernon tomorrow night for their first senior loop fixture, while Kelowna comes here on Thursday, December 18 for the opening game here at the school gym.
Keremeos: Webb 1, Clifton 9, Weims 9, Bolwer, Smitheram 2, Richter 2, Morris 3, Forner 4-34.
Summerland: Cristante 9, Aikin 7, L. Nesbitt 4, D. Nesbitt 10, L. Guidi 2, W. Day 14, Kato 4, D. Weitzel 13, W. Clark-63.

Bus Zone on Granville Street to Be Reduced to Mac's Cafe Frontage
Application of Jake's Taxi for a two-car stand on Granville street in front of the Credit Union building was the means on Tuesday afternoon of re-introducing another lengthy council discussion on the bus parking area in front of Mac's Cafe, and part of Elliott's store and Cousins' business premises.
Finally, it was decided that the taxi concern could have a one-car stand on Granville. The taxi wanted the privilege of parking in the bus zone when it wasn't occupied but this would be beyond council privilege according to the municipal traffic bylaw.
Councillor F. E. Atkinson suggested that the bus zone be limited to the Mac's Cafe premises only and not overlap on Elliott's and Cousins' places of business. At present the no parking bus zone takes in 10 feet on each side of Mac's Cafe premises.
He was successful in obtaining council sanction to a traffic by-law amendment to this effect.

Offer Prizes For Christmas Home Decorations
Once again the Summerland Board of Trade is offering prizes to home owners in an endeavor to make Summerland district "light up" for the festive season.
Home owners who decorate the outside of their properties have an opportunity of winning two prizes of merchandise totalling $15, one for the best display and the other for the most original display.
W. (Scottie) Ritchie has undertaken this project again for the trade board and will appoint judges who will tour the district between Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve judging the various electrical and other types of outside displays.
It is hoped that this season every home in Summerland which can afford to decorate will have some type of outside lighting to greet the passersby, Mr. Ritchie told The Review this week.
Bob Barkwill is also undertaking another trade board project which has a great appeal throughout the district, the annual visit of Santa Claus.
On Christmas Eve afternoon Santa will arrive laden with packages of treats for the youngsters and will give them out at lower town and in the West Summerland business area, as well.
Mr. Barkwill is choosing a strong committee to help him in this project.

Hospital Budget for 1953 Solved

Hospital directors have not submitted their budget for 1953 to the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service...

Heavy Mail Rush Crowds Post Offices

Christmas is but a week away and Summerland district, like most areas throughout the land is gripped with the busy pre-holiday season frenzy.

Local Men Asked to Continue

Gordon Wight of Oliver was elected chairman of the BCFGA Southern District Council at its annual meeting in the Prince Charles hotel on Saturday afternoon...

This model gives the first official intimation of the line and general appearance of a small hospital ship to be used in peacetime as a Royal Yacht...

In time for Christmas shopping...

C. J. Clark, postmaster at lower town, believes that the Christmas mail deliveries are heavier this year, both incoming and outgoing...

Prior to that date, Hon. Eric Martin, minister of health and welfare, circulated hospital board presidents throughout the province...

Any increase over 1952 costs would have to be borne by the municipality involved, Mr. Martin intimated.

Local hospital costs, apart from salaries are much the same as 1952, in the tentative budget drawn up, it was stated.

It is not known whether the registered nurses' association request for ten percent increase for 1953 will be allowed.

It was reported that some other hospitals in the interior had already increased the minimum to $210 in the past year.

Also, negotiations have broken down between some hospitals and their substaffs over proposed increases in the latter's wages.

Might Go up $3,000

It is possible that salary and wage levels could be increased $3,000 in 1953, hospital directors suggested.

A letter is going forward from the hospital board pointing out these facts, and explaining why a budget has not been submitted.

Administrator J. E. O'Mahony warned hospital directors to expect a deficit of about $4,000 in operations for the current year.

Walter Toews of Summerland was named vice-chairman while secretary is H. C. MacNeill of Peachland.

Main business of the annual meeting was the recommendation of officers for the industry in 1953, according to the amended BCFGA constitution.

Arthur R. Garrish was the unanimous choice to continue as president and there is little doubt in the minds of most growers that he will sweep into office again either unopposed or with an overwhelming majority...

For the two positions on the central executive from the southern district council zone, C. J. McKenzie of Summerland was nominated to continue in office, John Third and J. W. Johnson of Osoyoos...

Reg Duncan of Penticton announced that he would not be a candidate for office as a governor of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. again, as he would be absent from the valley for about four months in 1953.

W. E. Powell, vice-president of the sales agency, and popular Summerland governor since the inception of the central sales plan, was nominated for one of the three posts as governor from the southern district.

Another charter governor, Albert Millar of Oliver, was also nominated along with two new nominees, J. B. M. Clarke of Keremeos and Jim English of Penticton.

The three present directors of B.C. Fruit Processors Ltd. were nominated at Saturday's meeting to continue in office, they being W. E. Powell of Summerland, C. C. Macdonald of Penticton and Louis Deighton of Oliver.

After it had been determined that George A. Barrat has recovered from an illness and feels that his health will allow him to continue in office, he was nominated for the post of chairman of the B.C. Fruit Board.

Nominees for the two members of the Fruit Board are A. G. DesBrisay of Penticton, present member, and Gordon Wight of Oliver.

Cubs Plan Visit To Hospital in Christmas Week

Patients in hospital during the Christmas season are being well looked after, Matron Mrs. J. R. Butler was happy to inform hospital directors at their monthly meeting Tuesday night.

On Friday, the Kay Hamilton Summerland girls' choir will pay a visit to the hospital between 7 and 8 o'clock and will render Christmas carols in their usual lovely fashion.

On Monday, the Cubs, 38 strong, are bringing gifts to all hospital patients and also a special gift to be presented to the children's ward.

Directors also learned that wives of Kiwanis members are intending to present each patient with a Christmas gift while it was intimated that other individuals and groups expect to pay their respects to the institution and its patient inmates between now and the New Year.

Gaglardi Will Obtain Cost of Water Route For Highway Comparison

Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, minister of public works, has informed The Review in an official communication from his department that he will obtain the cost of a water level route for Highway No. 97 relocation through Summerland so that it can be compared with the cost of building the highway via the Sandhill and Giant's Head road.

In effect, this is exactly what the board of trade decided to request last Thursday when Reeve C. E. Bentley's resolution seeking a survey of an alternate route for comparison purposes received unanimous support.

The minister's letter arrived here on Friday, the day following the trade board meeting.

Hon. Mr. Gaglardi wrote The Review in answer to a letter sent by the editor following the visit here of J. H. A. Stevens, location engineer for the department, who intimated that the Sandhill-Giant's Head road route would be the final one, provided another more suitable route could not be shown.

Mr. Stevens waved aside other suggested routes, the editor was prompted to write government officials and ask that a comparative survey be undertaken to determine which would be the more feasible route.

In reply, Mr. Gaglardi declared that "I wish to state that I have instructed the location engineer to give me the cost of building a water level route in the District of Summerland. When this is received, we will compare it with the cost of the Giant's Head Road route and I am sure we will be able to make a satisfactory decision as to where the road should go."

"At that time we will be in a position to present the facts as to why the road will be built on the route which we deem is the most satisfactory."

"I would like to say that we are interested in building the road on the best possible route, hurting the least amount of people, but if there is too much objection I am sure I don't know what action we will be able to take, if any."

Reeve C. E. Bentley made it clear in his statements at the board of trade meeting last Thursday evening that the council was not objecting to any route, but only wanted to make certain that the best route is being followed.

A full report on the board of trade session last Thursday, along with the resolution adopted, may be found on Page 18 of this issue.

Kiwanians Attend Oroville Conference

Lt. Governor J. Y. Towgood held one of his last official functions in Division 5 of Kiwanis International at Oroville, Wash., last Sunday when a conference for the instruction of new officers was convened.

Joe Allen, of Twisp, Wash., was also present in his capacity as incoming lieutenant-governor and assisted in the function.

Among those who attended from Summerland Kiwanis Club were President-elect Ed (Hilly) Smith, L. J. Fisher, N. O. Solly, George Henry and Bob Alstead.

School Pupils Will Get Chest X-Rays

Following a plan already instituted in the Kelowna area by the South Okanagan Health Unit, it has been tentatively agreed that the local school district would underwrite the expenditure necessary to transport pupils of Grades X and XII to Penticton for chest x-rays in the new year.

Trustees were notified on Monday evening that Miss I. Stewart, public health nurse, wished to obtain board reaction to the plan.

In future years, only the Grade XII class would be x-rayed, but for a start the two grades were deemed necessary.

Tenders for Old Buildings Called

Tenders are being called this week by School District No. 77 (Summerland) for the demolition and removal of the three old buildings on the north side of the school grounds.

These buildings are the old high school, old gymnasium and Okanagan Union Library headquarters. Successful tenderers will be required to demolish or remove any one or all three buildings by June 15, the tender to be submitted by January 15.

The ground must be left in its original condition after the buildings are removed.

Only the Iron Fireman and the fluorescent light fixtures extra to some rooms will be removed by the school board before tenders are sought.

As soon as the present municipal office building is vacated by the municipal staff, and the building renovated somewhat, the union library will be moved from its present quarters on the school grounds.

Japanese Collect For Hospital Diet

As is their annual custom, the Japanese community of Summerland collected a large quantity of vegetables from among themselves on Saturday, Dec. 13. They were donated and delivered to Summerland General hospital.

These fresh supplies are a great help in the operation of the hospital's cuisine and come at a time of the year to be most useful.

Members of the Japanese Canadian Club who made such a generous donation of fruit and vegetables were: Y. Aoki, N. Aoki, R. Matsui, S. Kawasaki, F. Saito, S. Jomori, G. Tada, K. Kita, S. Uegama, R. Nakamura, K. Arase, G. Furuys, S. Kubokawa, I. Inayoshi, G. Inaba, B. Inaba, I. Kato, R. K. Yamabe and M. Kuroda.

Promises Action

Worst Traffic Snarl of Year on Local Hills with First Three Inches of Snow

One of the worst traffic snarls in this district's history resulted last Thursday afternoon and evening when the first snow of the season blanketed the countryside and made hills almost impassable.

Three inches of snow fell from late morning until early evening. Peach Orchard, the Gulch and Sandhill roads were extremely slippery and cars and trucks were in the ditch on all three routes.

Big express trucks slithered sideways across the Sandhill and Peach Orchard roads at various times, blocking the path of other cars.

By Friday noon, however, with a sudden alteration in temperature, the snow had mainly disappeared from the roads and by Saturday there was hardly a trace of the white stuff.

Since Saturday there hasn't been any freezing temperature, the minimums being 34, 35, 35 and 34 for Saturday to Tuesday inclusive. Maximums have ranged from 48 on Saturday to 47 on Sunday and 39 on Monday and Tuesday.

Mrs. McKenzie Hospitalized Only serious accident which occurred last week as the result of the snow sent Mrs. A. J. McKenzie to hospital with a dislocated arm and chipped elbow. X-rays were sent to the coast for examination before the full extent of her injuries could be concluded, but she is now recovering in Summerland General hospital.

The McKenzie car, driven by Mr. McKenzie, started to go into a skid as he tried to manoeuvre past a big freight truck stuck part way across the Sandhill. He managed to get by the truck but could not stop the car sliding over the bank.

The car turned over once and landed back on its wheels but the door next to Mrs. McKenzie was sprung open by the impact and she was partly thrown out, causing the painful injury to her arm.

Patients in Hospital Receive Hometown Newspaper Weekly

Since early November every patient in the Summerland General hospital has been receiving a copy of The Summerland Review every Thursday, as soon as it comes off the press.

This gratuitous service is being provided by the Kiwanis Club of Summerland as a public service, and is much appreciated by the patients. Hospital Administrator J. E. O'Mahony informed hospital directors on Tuesday evening.

Hospital board instructed that a letter of appreciation should be forwarded the service club for its generous gesture.

School Trustees Express Regret at Retirement of Board Chairman

Trustees of School District No. 77 (Summerland) joined on Monday evening in the board room to pay tribute to the excellent work done on behalf of the school district by retiring Chairman C. J. Bleasdale and to express their regret that he is leaving the board.

A presentation was made by Trustee Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh of a nest of tables, on behalf of the school district, thanking him at the same time for his splendid community contribution.

"Bleasdale the Builder" was the name she dubbed the retiring chairman who has served six years on the school board.

She stressed the happy relationship which has existed between all trustees in that period and how well the chairman had always marshalled his plans and facts and his ability to make a quick and proper decision.

As a builder, Mr. Bleasdale first built his home, then he took an active part in the building of the maternity wing and nurses' home at the hospital while he was a director of that society, and then as a school trustee and as board chairman he was responsible for the modernization of the MacDonald elementary school and the building of the new junior-senior high school.

"I would like to pay tribute to his quality as a leader," Mrs. Vanderburgh emphasized, stating that the three tables represented firstly the happy board relationship, the MacDonald school modernization and the new high school. Privilege to be Trustee

"It has been a distinct privilege to be able to do my part," Mr. Bleasdale replied. He declared that the happy relations was not anything of his doing but was made possible because the people of Summerland gave him people with whom he could work and cooperate, people who were willing to help.

He explained that it wasn't easy to say No and give up the school board work, but doctor's advice

Law Student Gets County $100 Award

W. A. Gilmour, a law student with Boyle & Aikins, received a $100 prize as the "most meritorious student" in the County of Yale last year when the Yale Bar Association met in Vernon recently for its fourth annual meeting.

The prize was presented by H. W. McInnes, Q.C.

had warned him he should take it easy.

Mr. Bleasdale paid special tribute to the work of Secretary B. A. Tingley who accepted his appointment at the same time as Mr. Bleasdale became a trustee. In fact, only Mrs. Vanderburgh had previous school trustee experience when Mr. Bleasdale joined the board, he pointed out.

Inspector A. S. Matheson added his praise of the retiring chairman, stating: "I have the highest regard for the chairman, both for his ability and his faithfulness to duty."

"In my opinion, no public job calls for more unselfish devotion than that of education," Mr. Matheson continued. "The department longs for such men as Mr. Bleasdale to accept positions as trustees. I greatly regret his resignation."

In conclusion, Mr. Bleasdale stressed the co-operation which had been shown the local school board by the department of education through three inspectors, of which Mr. Matheson is the present incumbent.

A Comparison Will be Made

It is with a great deal of satisfaction that we learned this week from Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, minister of public works, that he has issued instructions for the compilation of costs of an alternate route, for comparison purposes, with the Sandhill-Giant's Head Road route.

That, in effect, is all that has been asked of the public works department by any persons in this municipality. In effect, there has been no opposition to the Giant's Head road route, as such, as long as it could be clearly shown that it is the only feasible route for the highway to travel.

Now, the department will make this comparison, will decide which is the best route and will then proceed with the final surveys and calling for the contract.

It is a pity that so many persons have "viewed with alarm" this seeking a proper comparison. They have declared that if Summerland doesn't make up its mind and quietly acquiesce to the first suggestion of the public works department that the latter will shrug its collective shoulders and tell the district to wait a few years for a proper through highway.

We contend that Summerland shouldn't have any voice in the final decision, other than through its elected representatives, the municipal council, who should voice any objections which it can visualize from a municipal standpoint.

That final decision must come from the competent department of government which has been charged with the responsibility of building a modern highway through the Okanagan.

But just because the department has the final voice, doesn't bar the general public affected from voicing its fears and making suggestions for a betterment of the situation. After all, we still live in a democracy and have a right to our opinions, regardless of those who wouldn't dare to question the engineering fraternity.

The Review took the stand from the start of the controversy over highway relocation that it was not satisfied the public works department had obtained comparative costs on other routes through the municipality. It would appear now, from Mr. Gaglardi's letter to this newspaper, that we were correct.

The department was anxious to proceed with the job as fast as possible; it had a good, feasible route from a straight engineering standpoint; and with the machinery of a big construction company close at hand on the Trout Creek-Penticton section, the department was anxious to have a continuity of effort, in which it was quite correct.

But from a safety standpoint, the Sandhill and Giant's Head route leaves a lot to be desired. From the horseshoe on the Sandhill to the Millie Cannery, there are approximately 25 entries to be allowed onto the new highway. From the Trout Creek Service Station to the junction with the Hospital road, via the Thornber cutoff and the Russell property, only half a dozen entries would have to be allowed to service existing properties.

That is one of the main reasons this newspaper asked for assurance that comparisons, from an economic as well as an engineering standpoint taking into consideration disruption of property and municipal utilities, had been carefully studied by the department of public works.

We now have assurance from Hon. Mr. Gaglardi and should be prepared to accept the final findings of the department.

"Bleasdale the Builder"

At the year end we lose from public office one of the most faithful servants the school district of Summerland has had the privilege to elect.

C. J. (Chuck) Bleasdale is stepping down from the school board and from the position as chairman of trustees after six years of faithful service. In that time, he has seen the MacDonald elementary school modernized and the new junior-senior high school erected.

It was on his capable shoulders that most of the detail work in connection with these two major-building projects in the community fell. He had assistance from other board members, but his close proximity to the actual construction left him particularly vulnerable.

The school board is losing a valuable member but we hope that other lines of community endeavor, probably on a lighter scale, will still gain the benefit of his drive and enthusiasm.

It has not been the school board alone that has felt the weight of his counsel and organizational ability.

For nearly a decade C. J. Bleasdale was a useful member of the Summerland Hospital Society board of directors. During his terms of office he aided considerably in having the maternity wing and the nurses' home added to that institution.

Then came the Summerland Memorial Parks schemes and Mr. Bleasdale was entrusted with the chairmanship of the Living Memorial athletic park project. That park stands today as another monument to his careful planning and faithful adherence to the task allotted.

C. J. Bleasdale comes under the heading of a Good Citizen in any way one cares to examine him. He has been forced to give up his school board duties mainly because of indifferent health. We wish him a speedy recovery to his normal standard and hope that, for the good of the community, he will be able to take an active interest in other organizations in the near future.

Mrs. Vanderburgh, in making the presentation to the retiring chairman this week on behalf of the school trustees, aptly dubbed him: "Bleasdale the Builder."

Pioneer Days

THIRTY YEARS AGO
December 21, 1922

The annual meeting of the B.C. FGA is to be held at Kelowna on Jan. 17, 18, and 19. It will be a genuine, old-fashioned fruit growers' revival meeting," according to the advance notices.

The matter of finding a more suitable site for disposal of waste material, than the present nuisance ground south of the Gulch Road, is before the council. One site, privately owned, has been recognized as reasonably convenient. This is a deep ravine on the Dr. More property on the bench north of Peach Orchard. Council has asked the clerk to write Dr. More with a view to purchasing a quarter acre in this ravine.

A quiet wedding took place at St. Andrew's manse, Dec. 14, when Adelia Ann Rice became the bride of Mr. David Dickson. Rev. W. Alexander performed the ceremony. Both Mr. and Mrs. Dickson are well-known in Summerland, both having been employees of the municipality for some years.

The Summerland W.I. recently presented Miss Bessie Tomlin of the high school with the annual prize of $5 for the student passing highest in the entrance examinations.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
December 23, 1927

A rare treat is in store for the people of Summerland next week when Victor Hugo's great book, Les Miserables, will be screened at the Riato theatre. Many Summerland people have heard Mr. W. C. Kelley's lecture on the well-known book and are looking forward to the screen version.

A new society has been organized in Summerland to be known as the Summerland Musical Society, with W. C. Kelley as president; Mrs. T. W. Boothe, secretary; and an executive committee consisting of T. G. Beavis, T. P. Thornber and Mrs. D. L. Sutherland. Plans have been discussed for prospects of work on a choral for the musical festival and concert.

The hospital signifies the approaching season with its colorful decorations. Not only has the staff been busy in this connection, but Mr. M. Darke brought fir trees from the hills, helped by Mr. Alfred Johnstone and Mr. C. N. MacDonald.

UNDESIRABLE PUBLICITY

Summerland obtained some undesirable publicity on Sunday morning when Archdeacon Catchpole mentioned the "degradations" at St. Stephen's Anglican church, Summerland, in his sermon from the pulpit of St. Michael and All Angels' church, Kelowna. The service was broadcast over CKOV.

He Made Streets Shine by Night

The streets of every Canadian city glow at night because of the genius of a Scottish scientist whose centenary is being celebrated this month. He is Sir William Ramsay, the discoverer of neon gas. He also discovered helium, argon, krypton and xenon which have many important uses in the lamp industry.

Ramsay was one of the first pioneers to explore the atomic world and radio-activity. Much of modern nuclear research is directly attributable to his work.

The Smithsonian Institute, Washington, awarded a prize in 1925 to Ramsay and Lord Rayleigh for a treatise on their discovery of argon. Soon afterwards Ramsay discovered helium and by skillful scientific detective work deduced that there were still more chemically inert gases, which he proceeded to find.

His next discovery was fundamental—the first recognizable transmutation of one chemical element into another (the emanation of helium during the atomic disintegration of radium.)

The last great job done by Ramsay was to measure the atomic weight of radium emanation.

Ramsay's investigations were of cardinal importance for the advancement of the chemical and physical sciences. Honors were showered on him from every country in the world; he was elected a Fellow of the Royal Society in 1888 and received the Nobel Prize in 1904 for his work in chemistry.

Signifying Nothing

By RUSTICUS

The first house we lived in in Summerland—it was not large, and the plumbing was a bit primitive, but it was a grand home nonetheless—will always be remembered. It introduced us to two things, among others: Wonderful neighbors and beautiful trains.

The first, though tremendously important, will be taken as a matter of course by anyone who knows Summerland; the second may provoke surprise. Trains? Why, they don't come near the town at all.

And that, to us, was one of the beautiful things about them. In other towns where we had lived, the railway tracks drove arrogantly right through, with buildings falling back respectfully on either side. "Going to meet the train" was a convenient casual amusement when there was nothing else to do—which was often. Walking up the track was a favorite pastime of a Sunday afternoon. There was nothing to look at from there either, but it was less monotonous underfoot than the road.

Here the railway, instead of intruding on the town and interfering with its life, discreetly minds its own business. It is quite close enough to be handy when you need it; when you don't, it keeps its distance and lets you keep yours. You hardly ever hear it.

But we used to see it, from that first house, often. As it came laboring round the bend, Vancouver-bound from the West Summerland station, we often exclaimed in delight at the many-feathered grey plumes of smoke columns spouting up from engine and "puaher" alike. If we had time, we would keep an eye out for the "puaher" coasting swiftly back after its job was done, and could picture it panting farewell up at Kirton, and turning homeward again on the Y there.

At night, its headlights often shone right in our bedroom window. That was not so discreet, of course; but the engine was a mile away, and nobody closer was liable to peer in. We took it as a friendly gesture; a link with the rush and movement of civilization that still did not come too close. We could even shut it out with a blind if we wished.

We missed the train when we moved from that house. And it was a delight, when we chose a site for our present home for other considerations, to find that we had a still better view of the trains. (The wonderful neighbors, it need not be said, are next door to you anywhere in Summerland.) Many a time we have longed for some powerful camera with telephoto lens that could take a picture of the smoke plumes as we see them from here, instead of having to look up to them from a much less favorable level when one gets closer.

What a disappointment to read that the CPR is going to give up its picturesque steam-locomotives for diesels. No more graceful smoke, no more distance-mellowed puff-puff-puff of laboring engines. Just another infernal combustion engine with a louder belching brrr, and a whistle that the most inexperienced steam locomotive, even with a sore throat, would be ashamed of. (The diesel often sounds ashamed of it, too.)

It will take a lot of the pleasure of the railroad away for me. No doubt it is much more efficient, and will save a lot of money for the railway—though I'm mighty doubtful if we'll see it reflected in lower rail rates.

But what romance is there to a buzzing diesel with a smelly exhaust instead of smoke and an overgrown car-horn for a whistle? There has been real romance to the steam railway, ever since its earliest days. Remember when a man used to ride in front with a horse to make sure the new contraption wouldn't go too fast? Or when a man sat in front of the engine with a shotgun loaded with dried peas to frighten crows off the right-of-way? Or when they hung a pot of fire in front of the engine at night to light the way?

To jump to more recent times, the building of the main line of the CPR, through rocks, resentful Indians, great herds of buffalo and the disdainful Rockies themselves, was one of the most romantic of all man's achievements.

is to be scrapped. The day the steamers make their last run westward from Summerland there will be crepe on my windows and nostalgia in my heart. Is not even the simple beauty of smoke sacred in the terrible march of time?

Before and After story of the Okanagan's Shirley Little, five, in an often repeated story in Children's Hospital medical records. Shirley was born with hip deformity and could not walk. She was used as "Guinea pig" for a new brace splint, invented by Children's Hospital specialist. Today Shirley can run, jump, climb fences, ride her bike and do anything that the neighborhood children now do. Before this discovery children with the same condition as Shirley had gone through extensive surgery wore heavy plaster casts for long months, and even then the results were doubtful. Your donations to the Vancouver Sun's March of Dimes in aid of Children's Hospital for B.C.'s sick and crippled youngsters will give other children like Shirley, and many more with arthritis, polio, heart ailments, diabetes and the many other childhood diseases the same chance this little girl had. Keep the doors of Children's Hospital open to them by sending to the March of Dimes today.

RECIPE HINTS

You'll want lots of Christmas candy for gifts and guests, and here are three kinds that will please any sweet tooth—Honeyed Orange Peel, Dates and Nuts stuffed with Fopant, and Orange Marshmallows. Try them now, then make them later to tuck into gift packages.

Honeyed Orange Peel

Remove the peel from 3 oranges. Cover this peel with water. Add 1/2 tsp. salt. Boil 1/2 hour. Drain. Cover again with water. Boil until tender. Drain. Cut peel in strips. Bring 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup honey and 1/4 cup water to boil. Cook peel in this gently until clear. Cool in syrup several hours. Reheat. Drain. Spread out to dry. Roll in granulated sugar, if desired.

Orange Marshmallows

Two tbsp. unflavored gelatin, 1 cup orange juice, 2 cups sugar, 1 egg white, 1 tsp. grated orange peel, powdered sugar.

Soak the gelatin in 1/4 cup of the orange juice. Add the other 3/4 cup orange juice to sugar and boil to hard ball stage (253 degrees F.) Stir this into the soaked gelatin and beat until dissolved. Beat egg white until stiff. Gradually beat the gelatin mixture and orange peel into egg white and confine beating until cool and stiff. Pour into a square pan that has been buttered and dusted well with powdered sugar. When firm cut into squares with a sharp, hot knife. Roll in powdered sugar. Keep in a covered container in refrigerator to retain moisture.

Turkey Bingo Nets $75 for Kiwanis

Kiwanis Club of Summerland netted about $75 from the turkey bingo held in the IOOF hall on Saturday evening. Turkey prizes as well as a number of less valuable prizes were given out to persons whose cards held the winning combinations.

Proceeds are to go to the Kiwanis community projects fund and the March of Dimes fund. Frank McDonald was in charge of the bingo committee with most members of the club helping.

BROWNIE CHATTER

On Friday, Dec. 5, five new Brownies were enrolled into the 2nd Summerland Brownie Pack. They were Linda Wilkin, Leslie-Ann Caldwell, Judy Nicholson, Mona Inaba and Freda Bangma.

On Tuesday, Dec. 16, the Youth Centre was the scene of a gay Christmas party for all Summerland Brownies. The hall was fragrant with fir boughs and the traditional Christmas tree added its color and sparkle to the party atmosphere.

Following the usual opening ceremony, six Tweenies of the 1st Summerland Pack were enrolled. Donna Powell and Elizabeth Graham were welcomed by the Sprites, Jane Solly and Audrey Beggs by the Fairies, Linda Scott by the Pixies, and Margaret Graham by the Elves.

After this the new Brownies and their mothers were given the Grand Howl by the packs and all joined in the Smile and Squeeze of Welcome.

Lively games were played followed by Pow-wow depicting the Christmas Story in Song. A hearty tea rounded out a happy and memorable occasion.

Guide News

The regular meeting of the Girl Guides was certainly in tune with the Christmas season. The main activity of the evening was the practicing of Christmas Carols for the forthcoming carol singing in the well-populated districts of Summerland, on Wednesday Dec. 17, the proceeds to be given to the South Okanagan polio project.

The usual Guide activities were also carried on with Nan Solly and Diane Rumball passing their tenderfoot review after completion of all their 2nd class tests. The Brownies also finished their tenderfoot tests and are now ready to be enrolled next week as Guides.

Patrol marks are as follows: Orchids 279, Buttercups 281, Hepatias 287, Pimpernels 283, Senior Patrol 243, Forget-me-Nots 200.

TEEN TOWN

The Teen Town council meeting was held at Mary Brikovich's home last Monday night. A letter of thanks was read from Mr. Bates, chairman of the AOTS, for the money received from our canvassing for the March of Dimes.

It was decided to hold a Sock-Hop on December 27 at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served, so come on, kids, let's have a good turn out! If you are looking for a good time call around to the Youth Centre that night and you will really enjoy yourself. A box of chocolates will be given as a door prize.

Our thanks to Mrs. Brikovich for the use of her home on Monday night.

Dr. Wilcox Sketches "Face of Britain" For Benefit of Kiwanis Club

Kiwanians were given a glimpse of the "Face of Britain" by Dr. J. C. Wilcox at their Monday evening dinner meeting in the Nu-Way Annex when the well-known experimental station research official gave some impressions of his first visit to the British Isles this summer.

One of the things which surprised Dr. Wilcox was the amount of time spent in travelling in such a small country, but then there is a distance of 800 miles between Land's End and John O'Groats. Wales and Scotland he found mainly mountainous with most of the rest of the country flat or rolling. The west coast is extremely wet but parts of the east coast and Kent are comparable to Salmon Arm's climate.

Chalk Deposits Bothersome
The large chalk deposits create considerable trouble for the agriculturist as the chalk and limestone turn leaves yellow. He sampled Bristol cider and saw the extensive market gardening around London.

He also found lots of dairying sheep and beef pasture country, from the south country right up through to Scotland. Kent is mainly orchard country which combines pasture land, as well.

Dr. Wilcox was surprised to find many large farms from 200 to 700 acres. Except for the orchards, crops are rotated regularly each year, with pasture, hay, grain and market gardening lands well divided.

High yields result from these practices, even higher than prevail in Canada, except in tree fruits, he found. More irrigation for the drier sections of England would result in higher tree fruit yields, Dr. Wilcox observed.

In only one department did Dr. Wilcox suggest a criticism of the English farming practices. He felt that there is too much big equipment for the small acreages involved while there is a real difference in the number of laborers involved on equal acreage in Canada and Britain.

In that country, the landowner and his foreman do little of the actual work, as compared to most owners in Canada, he observed.

Hedgerows are not being kept as trim as in previous years, mainly due to the scarcity of labor. He found that the hedges are starting to interfere with crops.

The stone fences he found extremely fascinating, some being constructed of flat rock without any mortar but still standing after hundreds of years. Roads never go in a straight line in England, but wind everywhere and are mostly so narrow that it is a wonder how the buses and big lorries navigate the lanes.

But every road he travelled on was paved with a good blacktop surface and as there is practically no frost, little repair work has to be done.

Dr. Wilcox found that most old estates are being broken up as the owners cannot afford to continue them. Some have been turned over to the government and are being preserved as historical sites and parks. Others, the owners charge visitors a fee which helps to maintain the estate.

Some manor houses have been taken over by experimental stations for laboratories but with one of two exceptions have not proved efficient for the purpose. But the grounds around these manor houses are extremely beautiful as for years the British have taken a great pride in their parks and homes and introduced plants, trees and shrubs from all parts of the world. Consequently, the British really developed landscape gardening.

The forests have been pretty well denuded but a large scale reforestation program has been instituted and many Douglas fir and spruce from British Columbia have been introduced.

An argument wages continuously in England whether the land is more valuable for forests or pasture.

With due deference to the Scots, the Highlands are a problem as the peat allows beautiful heather to grow but little else. Scientists have been studying for years the problem of ridding the country side of peat so that agriculture can flourish in that barren country.

"Everywhere we went we were greeted with great courtesy, were received with great friendship," concluded Dr. Wilcox. "We expected the English to be a bit standoffish but that wasn't so. They were very friendly, indeed. We have a great and high regard for the people and the country."

Reach Agreement on Terms of Reference On Teachers' Salaries

Just before presstime Wednesday afternoon, the local teachers' salary committee submitted the following report on negotiations which are now ensuing between that group and the salary committee of the Okanagan school trustees:

les of teachers in the Okanagan have been opened between the negotiating committees of the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Association and the Okanagan Branch of the B.C. School Trustees' Association. Agreement has been reached on the terms of reference and negotiations on behalf of teachers and boards of ten school districts will continue until January 25, 1953. If a negotiated settlement is not arrived at by that time, the matter will be referred to one arbitration board.

New Minister of Agriculture is Sincere Reports C. J. McKenzie

"I was impressed with the sincerity of the new minister of agriculture, Hon. Kenneth Kiernan," was the comment of C. J. McKenzie, Summerland, BCFGA central executive delegate to the annual convention of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture in Vancouver last month.

Mr. McKenzie addressed the southern convention sessions at Penticton on Saturday, reviewing the six resolutions which the BCFGA submitted for Federation perusal and action.

Three of those resolutions dealt with removal of 3 percent SS. & MA tax and federal 10 percent sales tax from purchases by irrigation districts and on all types of irrigation equipment which hasn't been exempted to date.

Present policy of the dominion-provincial farm labor service was endorsed, but it was considered the plan should be expanded to compare with other similar government departments.

Appreciation of the CBC for its programs supplied by and for Canadians was expressed, with special emphasis on the farm broadcasts and farm forum.

Abysmal ignorance of some city newspapers and persons who are presently attacking marketing legislation and, boards set up under marketing acts was dealt with by the Federation and a determined effort promised to better public relations between agriculturists and consumers, Mr. McKenzie reported.

An attempt to seek a royal commission to investigate agricultural marketing in the province was defeated as it was felt the government had provided schemes for marketing agencies under a democratic system and further, that such commissions' findings are generally pigeon-holed after submission.

J. M. Kosty of Vernon is the new BCFGA director on the Federation while V. E. Ellison of Oyama is first vice-chairman of the organization, Mr. McKenzie reported.

BARRAT IS RECOVERING

George A. Barrat, chairman of the B.C. Fruit Board, has been ill at his Kelowna home but has recovered sufficiently to resume his office obligations. He expects to be able to carry on in 1953 if the growers desire his services.

Sorority Pays Touching Tribute To Girls Memory

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hack have just received word of a touching tribute which has been paid by her sorority sisters in Alpha Phi at UBC, to their daughter, Miss Julia Hack, who died in Penticton as the result of a tragic motor accident last summer.

Quoting from the letter which had come from this year's chapter president, Miss Shirley Sutherland, it says in part:

"We wished that we could do something for the memory of Julie. In October we received a letter from our executive office regarding a president's pin that could be made, one for each chapter, and that would be passed on from president to president through the years. We took this opportunity to show our love for Julie.

The pin has been engraved, in memory of Julia Hack, and it is truly beautiful. It is quite different from the pin that Julie had, being fashioned after the pin of our founders, with stones of turquoise set into it.

"As president of the sorority this year, I feel deeply honored to be able to wear this memorial pin although there is a note of sorrow attached to it for all of us who knew her.

"As this pin is passed on, we

MRS. MARY GILICK, 72-year-old British artist, displays a plaster model of the uncrowned image of Queen Elizabeth which she designed for new coins, (lower photo) to be issued in England early in 1953. The same design will be used for a new issue of Canadian coins.

Sawmills in Interior are Back at Work

KELOWNA—On Tuesday morning, 175 men trekked back to their jobs at the S. M. Simpson Ltd. sawmill in Kelowna, after a shutdown which at one time threatened to last all winter.

Logging operations also resumed in the Mission Creek area and on the westside after a layoff of three weeks.

Simpson's has a monthly payroll of $45,000. Labor relations board officials stepped into the picture when no progress was made between representatives of the IWA and the lumber operators.

Following a series of meetings, the operators agreed to reopen their plants on the condition that last year's working agreement would be renewed. The IWA committee has recommended renewing the agreement but has insisted the membership must formally approve the decision by ballot. It is understood the IWA membership has until December 23 to conduct the vote.

Meanwhile the operators have agreed to re-open plants, Simpson's closed on December 4, throwing nearly 200 men out of work.

Workers in 12 other interior sawmills are also voting on a return to work plan based on last year's agreement with the operators. The Summerland Box Company Ltd. is not affected directly by this crisis as employees are not members of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO).

Recognized as one of the leading musical figures in Canadian radio, Geoffrey Waddington, director of music for the CBC, has not only been an active musician, but has been instrumental in stimulating a greater interest in the work of Canadian composers and artists for many years. During his musical career Mr. Waddington has served in many capacities. He has been a member of the faculty of the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto, an organizer and director of the former Toronto Chamber Music Society, a first violinist with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, conductor of the Winnipeg Summer Symphony Orchestra and many CBC concert and symphony orchestras.

Mr. Frank Burgess has arrived in Summerland to join his wife and children who arrived here this fall to take up residence at Trout Creek. Mr. Burgess is employed in the Philippines and is on a four-month leave of absence from his company.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid Johnston plan to visit Summerland for one day during Christmas and New Year's. They will spend Christmas at the home of their son and daughter-in-law at Mission and will be here for a short stay on their return to their new Winnipeg home.

Mrs. A. Lamacraft of Vancouver and her son, Mr. Harry Lamacraft of the Merchant Marine Service were visitors here last weekend at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Barr, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walker. Mr. Harry Lamacraft has just returned from ten months spent in Japanese and Korean waters.

Sixty-five Candles On Birthday Cake

On the occasion of Mr. Harold Smith's birthday, and just prior to his retirement from his work at the Summerland experimental station, a party was held at noon on Tuesday, Dec. 16, in the men's lunch room at the Station.

Mr. George Rymán, who is to take over when Mr. Smith leaves his post, was master of ceremonies, and Mr. Wesley Davis gave an address in appreciation of Mr. Smith and his years of service at "The Farm".

A birthday cake with sixty-five candles was a feature of the event, and Mr. Smith blew them all out in one large "blow", with all those present assisting in demolishing the cake!

New President of Service Club Chosen This Week

Mrs. George Washington was elected president of St. Andrew's Service Club on Monday evening, Dec. 15, when the hall was completely filled with members, Federation members, and friends, as the Service Club held its end-of-the-year meeting.

Other officers elected are Mrs. W. H. Durick, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Leslie Rumball, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. M. Henker, secretary; and Miss Louise Atkinson, treasurer.

Miss Louise Atkinson, at the door, welcomed those who came, and in the absence of the retiring president, Mrs. A. J. McKenzie Mrs. David Munn, 1952 vice-president, took the chair.

Mrs. George Washington read the treasurer's report since Mrs. Feltham was no. able to be present.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. J. C. Wilcox gave a delightful talk on her recent visit to some of the lovely old churches and cathedrals in England and Scotland.

While in Scotland they spent one evening with Rev. and Mrs. Davidson and with Dr. and Mrs. Gibson, both couples who spent a year in Summerland on their way back to Scotland from the China mission field.

Mrs. Wilcox said that they were thrilled to hear news of Summerland, and that The Review is sent to them by friends here. When they were chatting and the Wilcoxes tried to tell them news of interest, they were able to fill the gaps through their reading of the local paper.

Mrs. Ewart Woolliams proposed a vote of thanks to Mrs. Wilcox to which there was hearty response.

Entitled Christmas Story, 1952, the ladies of St. Andrew's choir under the capable leadership of Mrs. H. R. Whitmore, entertained, with Mrs. J. Mayne reading the story, interspersed and illustrated with lovely renditions by the choir of carols, quartettes and solos. As a conclusion, the lights were dimmed and with each singer holding a candle, Holy Night was sung beautifully. Mrs. Lionel Fudge was accompanist for the singing.

Dainty refreshments were served, the hostesses for the evening being Mrs. Ray Leinor, Mrs. M. Henker, Mrs. J. Holman, Mrs. J. Marshall, Mrs. G. A. Laidlaw, Mrs. L. Fudge, Mrs. J. Mayne, Mrs. E. Hannah and Miss C. Mair.

W.I. Resolutions Are Approved By Victoria

Members of Summerland Women's Institute in annual meeting following the regular meeting, Friday afternoon, Dec. 12, in the parish hall, had the satisfaction of hearing the retiring president, Mrs. R. C. Palmer, announce that two of their resolutions for economic betterment are to become law in January.

The first of these concerns standardization of garment sizes, and the second is for more wholesome bread. These resolutions were submitted to the annual district conference, passed there, and then sent to the federal government, where they have been approved by order-in-council.

All Institutes in the province may work with various departments in the provincial government and have government recognition of their efforts.

Mrs. V. Charles, Mrs. A. Inch, Mrs. D. L. Cruickshank, Mrs. Eric Tait, and Mrs. C. H. Elsey were appointed directors for 1953. Since Mrs. Tait is a patient in Summerland General Hospital the directors have not yet held their meeting to appoint, from among their numbers, the president and secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. H. R. McLarty moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Palmer, the 1952 president, who thanked all members for their co-operation during the year.

Mrs. Palmer's resume of the year's undertakings showed interesting work done under the Institute motto of For Home and Country with 54 enrolled members.

Some of the things mentioned, as well as the work done by resolution, were a second issue of Hasty Notes, which are all sold; sheets made for the Mountain View Home; the Citizenship Day ceremonies; a donation to a farewell gift for Lady Alexander; a $25 donation to the 2nd WI scholarship; interest in civil defence; assistance where needed with baby layettes, and help given following fires; medical supplies for the school first aid kits; woollens collected for having blankets made; work in trying to start a public rest room at West Summerland; donations of apples to the provincial solarium; money donations to various projects, local and provincial; and altogether a successful year.

The secretary-treasurer, Mrs. D. L. Cruickshank reported that during the year $775.45 had gone through the society's books at the bank.

Noteworthy reports were heard from committee heads: Mrs. M. E. Collas, agriculture; Mrs. H. C. Whitaker, arts and crafts, read by Mrs. Sandy Fenwick; Mrs. A. K. Macleod, citizenship, read by Miss M. Cartwright; Mrs. E. L. Farnham, health and welfare; Mrs. Eric Tait, home economics, presented by Mrs. S. A. MacDonald, who announced that five dozen cups and saucers as well as plates and cream and sugar sets, and three dozen spoons had been obtained for use in WI meetings. Mrs. C. Orr donated a chest with lock and key in which to keep these supplies.

Women's Institute is Urged to Use Films

A colorful future was predicted by Mrs. S. A. MacDonald for those who are able to make use of the stock of the film council.

Mrs. MacDonald told the Summerland WI at the regular meeting, Friday afternoon, Dec. 12, of the enthusiasm of Mr. Walter Goodland, Kelowna, Okanagan representative of the National Film Board, who spoke at the film council meeting last week, and thought that all who could should try to see some of the films.

Plans were made for a Christmas cheer hamper; $25 was donated to the Youth Centre; $25 to the Unitarian Services' Committee for milk for the babies of Korea.

The annual meeting followed, with a delicious tea and a pleasant bit of chatter later.

Final Meeting of 1952 By Evening Branch

St. Stephen's Evening Branch WA held its final meeting for 1952 in the parish hall on Monday, Dec. 15.

At a short business session annual donations towards the upkeep of the church were made as well as arrangements for decorating the church at Christmas.

A few sub-committee members were assigned their posts by the president, Mrs. E. F. Wenka.

Miss Irene Stewart, PHN, gave a short report on welfare work.

The remainder of the evening was spent enjoying games in pleasant entertainment planned by Mrs. J. Y. Towgood, and a delightful supper provided by Mrs. Alex Watt, Mrs. Eric Skinner, Mrs. N. O. Solly and Mrs. R. J. Korsey.

VISITING ABROAD

Mr. and Mrs. James Ker left on Friday to motor to Winnipeg where they will spend Christmas and New Year's holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Whitaker and Mrs. Ted Logie left on Tuesday for a short holiday in Wenatchee and in Seattle.

On Monday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bryden left to motor to Winnipeg where they will spend the holiday season, returning to their home about mid-January.

Miss Mary Wölffer and Miss Jean Griffin are leaving on Dec. 23 to go to Vancouver, where they will board a plane to fly to Ireland for a three months' visit, expecting to return the middle of March. They will visit at the home of Miss Griffin's parents in Lisburn, County Antrim.

Mrs. Ray Leinor's father, Mr. Harris, who has been visiting in New Brunswick has come to Summerland and will spend the winter here. With Mr. and Mrs. Leinor and their family, he will leave on Friday for Astoria, Wash., where they will spend the Christmas season visiting at the home of Mrs. Leinor's brother-in-law and sister.

Mrs. D. L. Milne and her sister Mrs. Emily McVety, formerly of Brandon, who has spent a year here, have motored to California with their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Andrews who drove here from the prairies. The party will spend the winter in California.

Legion LA Plans Kiddies' Xmas Party

Seventeen members were present at the meeting of the Canadian Legion LA held on Thursday evening, Dec. 11, in the Legion hall.

Mrs. T. Fisher and Mrs. A. McCargar, who attended the zone meeting at Keremeos on Nov. 16 gave an account of the proceedings at that time, which was heard with interest.

Coupons, with which the Guide Local Association is getting flat silver for use at Guide functions, were turned in, to be given for that purpose.

A donation was voted to the Youth Centre and also one to the Loyal Protestant Home for Children at New Westminster.

It is planned to hold a children's party on Dec. 20, and plans were made for this event since it was decided to discontinue the annual Valentine party for children and revert to one at Christmas as in former years.

Mrs. W. McCutcheon was winner of the small monthly draw.

Past Noble Grands Entertain Rebekahs At Christmas Party

Decorations were appropriate to the festive season with miniature fir trees, gayly decorated, on the tables, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 10, when the past noble grands of Faith Rebekah lodge entertained the members at their annual past noble grands' night, and Christmas party.

Mrs. J. Raincock was the officer in the chair for the evening, and all the offices were filled by past noble grands.

Visitors welcomed were Mrs. F. Eraut, district deputy president of Penticton and five other members from Redlands, Penticton.

Mrs. F. W. Schumann was convener of the party, assisted by Mrs. A. Holmes, Mrs. T. McDonald, Mrs. J. Raincock, Mrs. C. Denike and Mrs. F. E. Atkinson.

After lodge was closed, games were enjoyed, and before the delicious refreshments were served, all joined in carol singing.

Presents were exchanged, drawn from the Christmas tree by long cords that had been tied to each surprise package.

Kindergarten Has Closing Party with Mothers Present

Twenty-five mothers, and fourteen small brothers and sisters, were in attendance at the Jack and Jill kindergarten on Friday morning, Dec. 12, when the Christmas closing party was held.

The children delight to show those who are not regular attendants, just how the kindergarten is conducted, and went through the usual morning program. The Christmas story, told them the previous session, was re-told and there was singing with action songs, carols and rounds.

The uniformed rhythm band played four numbers, and showed fast time, slow time; three-quarter time with accented beat, down beat, march time, steady time and playing alternate lines, in a capable manner, which participants and onlookers enjoyed.

The rest time was observed when Mrs. F. Steuart, one of the teachers, played records. Mrs. Howard Milne, the other teacher, related the Legend of The Christ Child, during story time.

In-hand work the children made a three-sided Christmas tree, and took home a special attendance card which they had kept themselves.

Refreshments consisted of decorated cookies, sandwiches and apple juice.

From the Christmas tree there were ornamental candies in the form of angels for the little girls, and in rocking-horse shapes for the small boys. As well as these there were candy canes, and marshmallow snowmen in cellophane bags which Mrs. L. Rumball, Mrs. Steuart's helper, had made.

The morning closed with the children singing the Good-bye song. Mrs. V. Durnin has been Mrs. Milne's helper, and the pianist for the year.

Next year Mrs. H. Braddick will take Mrs. Rumball's place as Mrs. Steuart's helper.

Two Ornamental Crab Varieties Resist Severe Winter Blasts

The Beaverlodge experimental station announces the introduction of two hardy ornamental crabapple varieties. The past five years at Beaverlodge have been considered exceptionally severe and all apple varieties were affected, the degree of damage varying from minor injuries to complete killing.

The small trees are an attraction in the landscape throughout the year. Following their brilliant bloom in early spring, the shapely outline of the trees well clothed with colorful foliage, fit them well as individual specimens or as background subjects.

Snowcap - This Siberian crabapple is the only individual of a group received from the Central experimental farm, Ottawa, in 1941, which has proved entirely hardy at Beaverlodge. As the name indicates, an abundance of glistening white blossoms are produced annually in such profusion as to almost completely hide the foliage.

Arctic Dawn - It is the only entirely hardy rosybloom crabapple out of a considerable number of varieties and seedlings tested at Beaverlodge. The flowers are mauve-pink with an indistinct white centre and the petals have ruffled edges. The bloom is followed by clusters of half-inch, purple-red berries. The tree is vigorous, very spreading and has strong crochets.

All-Time High for B.C. Visitors' Industry

A record tourist year for B.C. in 1952 appears certain as October figures sent the visitor traffic graph soaring towards a new peak, it has been revealed by Hon. Ralph Chetwynd, minister of trade and industry.

For ten months, the province had exceeded the record 11-month period of 1951 for entries of vehicles from the United States. To the end of October, 238,362 travellers' vehicle permits were issued to American motorists, compared with 225,768 for the same period in 1951.

There was also a ten percent increase, from 15,236 to 16,766, in the long-stay permits issued for October.

Rev. James A. Hood, who was a minister at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church in Summerland just prior to World War I, died recently at the coast.

GABE STEWART, a 30-year veteran of the NHL has been purchased by the Montreal Canadiens for the $7,500 waiver price from the New York Rangers. The Canadiens will be the fifth team in the league that Stewart has played on. Rangers, Wings, Hawks and Leafs have all had him in their rosters since he started his career in 1921. He is expected to help the Canadiens score goals at centre.

Lionel Guidi Shoves Home Clincher in Last Minute to Give Merchants 69-66 Win

Although he hadn't been able to find the hoop all night, Lionel Guidi sank his lone field basket in the final half-minute of play Friday night at Vernon to give the Summerland Merchants a victory 69-66 over Vernon Kalamalkas in the first game of the new Interior basketball league.

It was a tough, rough game throughout, with 33 penalties called against the two teams and a couple of dozen other fouls which went unchecked.

Vernon drew most of the penalties, with nineteen but didn't have a man leave the floor. Merchants had 14 penalties, with Cristante drawing the fatal fifth in the fourth quarter.

Wally Day Leading Scorer
Wally Day had a big evening to lead the Merchants with 17 markers, most of them coming in the final two stanzas. Vernon's

Sarge Sammartino with 19 and Cecil Clark with 18 were the main point-getters for the hometowners in the fast-scoring melee.

Fred Kato had his best game of the season to date, with 11 points, while Chuck Aikin's even dozen and Daryl Weltzel with ten found the hoop quite frequently.

Play throughout the first half was very even, the Merchants taking a 13-12 lead in the initial quarter and holding it by half-time to lead 30-29. It was the third quarter which meant the difference between the two teams, as Merchants extended their lead to six points, 52-46.

Without the services of Don Cristante in the final few minutes, the Kalamalkas staged a slight uprising in the final quarter to creep within one point in the final minute of play. Guidi's timely basket when the chips were down meant all the difference.

Tonight, Thursday, Dec. 18, the opening game of the interior league play at the high school gym is scheduled with Kelowna's sharpshooters scheduled to appear. Only one game is billed for the evening.

Merchants: Cristante 6, Aikin 12, Day 17, Guidi 3, Leighton Nesbitt 4, Don Nesbitt 4, Bill Clark 2, D. Weltzel 10, F. Kato 11—69. Kalamalkas: Janicki 2, R. Sammartino 12, Sarge Sammartino 19, Graves 2, Munk, Correale 4, Adams 1, Clark 18, Novitsky, Gray 8—66.

Waddell Triple Winner at Oliver Shuttle Tournery

Dave Waddell was the only triple winner at the annual pre-Christmas badminton tournament staged on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 6 and 7, by the Oliver shuttle club.

The elongated Summerland man captured the men's single title, teamed with Cece Morgan to take the men's doubles and partnered Dorothy MacLeod, also of Summerland to capture the mixed doubles event.

Miss MacLeod was another major winner, as besides the mixed event she took the ladies' open singles.

Final results follow:
Men's singles: D. Waddell, Summerland, defeated Ted Cardinal, Pentiction, 15-6, 15-7.

Men's doubles: Waddell and Morgan Summerland, won from Cardinal and Tom Hill, Pentiction, 15-3, 15-11.

Ladies' singles: Miss Dorothy MacLeod, Summerland, won from Pat Gray, Pentiction, 12-10, 12-9.

Ladies' doubles: Mrs. Eve Lee and Mrs. Helen Ritchie, Oliver, won from Mrs. Rutherglen and Marion Davenport, Pentiction, 15-7, 15-12.

Mixed doubles: Waddell and Dorothy MacLeod, Summerland, defeated Chuck Harvey and Mrs. E. Lee, Oliver, 15-13, 15-8.

Summerland players did not figure in any of the consolation events.

would not quite reach the 600 figure and has not come up to expectations of the budget prepared a year ago.

Expenditures are within the estimate, being $55,384 for the first 11 months. It was anticipated they would be $56,188, a difference of $804.

Mr. O'Mahony stressed the increasing difficulty of collecting from those who are not covered by BCHIS premiums. In November, the "self responsible in-patients" bills amounted to $441.60, while BCHIS in-patients' bills totalled $3,464.20.

Revenues for November Co-insurance collected from patients amounted to $327, private room charges were $198, out-patients and short-stay special charges, $98, making a total of $4,528.80. Other revenues, including board and lodging recovery, brought earnings for the month to $4,894.56.

Expenditures amounted to $5,196.62, leaving an operating deficit of $302.06 for the month. Expenditures were divided into salaries, $3,330.99; drugs and medicines, $237.23; medical and surgical supplies, $203.81; dietary food, $833.01; other expenses, $586.58.

Fifty-three BCHIS adults and 10 other adults were admitted in November, along with 6 BCHIS newborn. They remained a total of 506 patient days. Estimated patient days were 508, while estimated monthly expenditure had been $5,108.

Press Thanked for Industry Coverage

Members of the press and radio were thanked by the Southern District Council BCFGA at the annual meeting on Saturday at the Prince Charles Hotel for their faithful recording of fruit industry discussion in the past six months.

It was in mid-summer that the council decided to alter its policy and allow members of the press to attend all functions, on the understanding that "off the record" disclosures would be honored.

Saturday's meeting was unanimous that the press had given a factual accounting of proceedings and had refrained until the proper time from disclosing "confidences".

PENTICTON ELECTION

PENTICTON—Results of Saturday's election for aldermen were as follows: Elected, Ald. F. C. Christian, 1214; H. M. Geddes, 1183; Ald. E. A. Titchmarsh, 1119. Defeated, J. W. Johnson, 623.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

1st Summerland Troop

We had another good turn-out on Dec. 16 for our last meeting before the holidays. It's like old times to have Scoutmaster David Munn back with us again. We are all glad to know that his knee operation was a success and he'll soon be fully active again.

Assistant Cubmaster Vic Smith came around to see us and led the boys in some good "steam-off" games.

District Scoutmaster Gordon Blewett also paid a visit and found the boys working hard at tests.

Several new boys have nearly completed their Tenderfoot tests. Better staffs cut during the holidays.

Next meeting January 6, 1953. Duty patrol, Buffaloes. Merry Christmas everybody.—SRC.

Curlers Open Ice Plant Today

This afternoon, Wednesday, as the press run of The Review rolls off, the official opening of the Summerland Curling Club's new artificial ice rink is taking place. Between 2 and 2:30 o'clock this afternoon Reeve C. E. Bentley will officiate, along with officers of the local curling club, in announcing the opening of the three sheets of artificial ice.

Curlers from Kamloops, Vernon, Salmon Arm, Kelowna, Peachland, Pentiction, Oliver and Princeton are to be on hand this afternoon for the opening ceremonies and to take part in friendly inter-club matches.

About 5 o'clock this afternoon a buffet dinner will be served on the premises to the visitors.

Plans are underway for a mixed bonspiel during the holiday week, starting on Boxing Day, December 26.

DESIGNATE PUBLIC ROOMS

Two private rooms, Nos. 15 and 17 in Summerland hospital, are being designated as public wards by Summerland General hospital directors. This leaves five private rooms plus two private rooms in maternity wing.

The Canadian Pacific Railway's fast freight service between Montreal and Toronto was speeded up and improved December 1 by the utilization of truck trailers and railway flat cars as shown above. Under the new system shipments are picked up in one city by trucks.

The trailers are then loaded on the flat cars from ramps and the tractors detached. After being sped to its destination by an overnight fast merchandise freight train, other tractors are attached to the trailers and the goods delivered to the door of the consignee.

Service is speeded by elimination of handling in freight sheds, damage is expected to be minimized, and the convenience of pickup and overnight delivery is increased. If the Montreal-Toronto operations prove successful, it is expected that wider application of the service will be made.

Nearly 100 Men Employed in Harvesting Big Xmas Tree Crop

It is estimated that approximately 120,000 Christmas trees were harvested from this district and shipped to prairie and United States points in time for the holiday season.

This big haul, which is approximately 20,000 more trees than were harvested in the first year of intensive operation, 1951, was cut mainly by local citizens who had completed their apple harvesting operations.

The Hofert company, represented by Norman Holmes, loaded nine cars of trees for distant points and at the peak employed about 85 men in cutting, bailing, labelling, packaging and loading.

Among other purchasers and cutters of Christmas trees in this area were Roy Boothe, who is said to have exported six cars of trees from Summerland area; Dave McNair, who exported three cars; and two other United States firms, who put out between four and five cars.

Each car contains about 5,000 trees, making a total export from Summerland district of about 110,000 to 120,000 trees.

Last year, the Hofert company was the main exporter from this district, sending out about 100,000 trees.

It is also estimated that between ninety and 100 men were employed by all the companies who purchased trees, thus creating a sizeable payroll. A large number of local trucks were employed, as well.

Mr. Holmes explains that, by judicious cutting, a perpetual crop can be harvested and no one need denude an entire tract of land by cutting Christmas trees.

He instanced two men who cut 11,000 trees from one five-acre stand, this particular one being on a steep sidehill. There are still plenty of trees left and the limbs left can grow into future Christmas trees, he explained.

Also, it is possible for Christmas trees to be planted on many acreages in the district and produce a bountiful crop in years to come. About 4,000 trees per acre can be planted, and seed is supplied free by the government, only transportation needing to be paid, Mr. Holmes points out.

Soft Fruit Pooling Meeting to be Held

At a date to be determined, but before the annual BCFGA convention, the southern district council of the BCFGA will call a meeting to discuss soft fruit pooling, a subject of intense interest to most growers in the South Okanagan.

Addition to School Would Cost $33,000 But Plan is Shelved

It would cost $33,000 to build and equip the proposed addition to the industrial arts and home economics rooms in the high school in order that all pupils would get an equal opportunity to take a full course in these two subjects.

This was the information placed before the school district board Monday evening by Architect W. K. Noppe, after consultation with Kenyon & Co., the contracting firm which constructed the high school. Quoted figure amounts to one-tenth of the total cost of construction of the entire school, it was pointed out.

Construction was estimated at $25,996, heating at $2,000, architect's fees $1,680 and equipment $3,500, for a total of approximately $33,000.

As trustees had already decided not to proceed with the addition, and instead will try to employ part-time specialists to utilize existing space in the two rooms, the estimates were ordered filed.

Many Interior Homes To be Brightened with Summerland Flowers

Joe McLachlan is doing a rushing wholesale flower business these days, in time for Christmas.

This energetic greenhouse man planted 8,000 mums and 1,600 carnations this year and will supply most of the needs of interior florists for the Christmas trade.

At least, his mums will go a long way towards providing the interior needs but many thousands more carnations could be sold if they were available, he finds.

An innovation this year is a huge planting of 30,000 Holland bulbs which will start moving to dealers towards the first of the year.

New Super-Valu Food Store Opens

Super-Valu Preview On Friday, Opening Doors Early Saturday Morning

Friday evening, after several postponements, Summerland district is being invited to one of the newest businesses to open its doors—the Rumball Super-Valu Store.

This is an event which has captured the interest of hundreds and the gleaming white premises are expected to be the focal point of a big gathering from 7:30 to 10 o'clock when the Preview of the opening will be conducted.

Official opening is 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning, when the many bargains offered throughout the store will be available for sale. Friday night, however, customers can only look and appraise but not buy.

L. W. Rumball and his son, Les, who are the managers and owners of Super-Valu in West Summerland business district, have had several disappointments in their arrangements of the official Preview and Opening.

First of all, it was planned to open on December 12, but the store fixtures could not be manufactured in time and therefore the opening was postponed a week.

Another delay in fixture manufacture has caused a still further postponement from Wednesday, Dec. 17, until this Friday.

The opening also had to be put off a couple more days, from Thursday to Saturday morning.

But when the customers see their new Super-Valu they will find as modern a food store as it is possible to bring to the people of the Okanagan. It is planned along similar lines to all other Super-Valu stores throughout the province.

The building, which is directly east of the new municipal office and opposite the modern junior-senior high school, is forty feet wide by 100 feet in depth, with a full-size basement beneath the main floor.

Besides the building, there is a big parking lot capable of accommodating sixty cars on its 90 feet width by 100-foot depth. The parking lot will be flood-lit and

This view of the new Super-Valu Store on Granville Street in West Summerland business district shows the building which will attract a great deal of attention this week with the Preview set for Friday evening and the opening on Saturday morning. This picture was taken last week just after the big 25-foot Neon sign was erected but before the building was completed.

Groceries Will Continue as Farmers' Feed, Flour Supply

Summerland Groceries is not to be discontinued just because the Super-Valu has opened its doors, Lawrence Rumball informed The Review this week.

Mr. Rumball plans to continue the Groceries with a full line of flour and feed supplies and will gradually add a line of poultry and farmers' supplies.

He anticipates that, in time, he will be able to provide most farmers' supplies and will serve a definite need in the community.

Mr. Harvey L. Wilson has been employed by Mr. Rumball to assist him in the operation of the Groceries.

PRIZES FIVEN AWAY

Three fifteen-pound turkeys and 20 food hampers will be given away to lucky ticket holders after the first three days of the Super-Valu opening.

Father and Son Owners

Managers of the new Super-Valu Store in Summerland need little introduction to most citizens of this community. They are Lawrence Rumball and his son Leslie Rumball.

Not only do these two well-known men manage the new store but they actually own it.

Few persons realize the ramifications of the Super-Valu setup. Mr. Rumball, Sr., has explained. He points out that the store was designed to specifications laid down by Super-Valu advisers who have helped to build nearly a hundred such stores throughout the province.

In this way, all the modern food store architectural design which has been perfected with the erection of so many concerns of a similar nature have been incorporated in this new building.

By adopting the accepted streamlined Super-Valu style, the Rumballs realize that they have the latest methods of merchandising, not only for the benefit of the store's service but also for the ease of the customer in finding exactly the article desired.

Associated with the Rumballs in their new Super-Valu venture will be Art Dunsdon, in charge of the produce division. Charlie Rennie has charge of stock. Cashiers will be May Howard and Miwa Tada while Melba Sprague is in charge of parcelling.

Two Major Contracts Let to Local Firms For Super-Valu Store

Construction of the new Super-Valu Store in Summerland was undertaken by a West Vancouver firm, the Frank Tearoe Construction Co. Ltd.

Two of the major sub-contracts, however, were let to local firms, being the electrical contract which went to Young's Electric Ltd. and the heating and plumbing to Selinger's Plumbing and Heating.

All the light fixtures, including the 25-foot Neon sign, were installed by Young's Electric, while the wiring for light and power circuits was also supplied and installed by that firm.

Johnny Selinger was responsible for the installation of the Emco oil burner, which supplies the heat for the McDonnell boiler. This hot water heats the air which is blown through Trane unit heaters.

Painting throughout the store was undertaken by Bert Bryden, who used Sherwin-Williams paints from Butler & Walden.

The tile floor, which adds greatly to the general neat appearance of the building, was laid by Sather & Sons of Penticton.

L. W. Rumball Opened His First Store Here 32 Years Ago

Thirty-two years in the retail merchandising business in Summerland district will be climaxed this week for Lawrence W. Rumball who, in partnership with his son Leslie, is opening the new Summerland Super-Valu Store for the first time on Friday and Saturday.

It was on December 23, 1920, when Summerland had a population of about 1500 persons, that Lawrence Rumball opened his first store, the Summerland Groceteria, on its present stand.

Thirty-two years ago his first employee was Alf McLachlan; well-known real estate salesman and a pioneer of this district.

Before coming to the Okanagan, Mr. Rumball managed the Williams store at Bowden, Alta. The Williams firm has six stores between Calgary and Edmonton.

In 1919 Mr. Rumball started buying Okanagan fruit and selling it in Alberta on express shipments. He operated first from Ed-

Walton's packing shed and later from T. B. Young's warehouse.

Mr. Rumball also built a packinghouse on the O. E. Mann property and carried out an extensive express fruit shipping business to the prairies.

In those days, Summerland had a terrific express business and at one time had more express shipments than any other point in B.C.

Only Small Building

It was a modest beginning for the Summerland Groceteria, in the original building next to the Smith & Henry yard. George Inglis and the late Jim Ritchie built the 24 by 30-foot building which was the first Groceteria.

W. R. Lawrence, now a resident of Penticton, operated a butcher shop in conjunction with the Groceteria in the early days while J. A. Read was the bookkeeper.

Other employees in the formative days of this steadily-growing business were Harvey Wilson, Mrs.

Pre-Packaged Meat Available for Speedy Service at New Super-Valu

Arthur Sladen, who returns to Summerland from Kelowna to lease the meat department in the new Super-Valu Store, began his career in the butcher trade as the direct result of honors he won at the Toronto Royal Winter Fair.

It was back in 1924 that he arrived with his family in Salmon Arm from Saskatchewan and at school there became interested in the junior farm club.

In 1931, Art was a member of the Salmon Arm junior livestock judging team which won provincial honors in this province and placed fourth in the dominion finals at the Toronto Royal Winter Fair.

Burns & Co. was on the lookout for such young men and offered Art an apprenticeship which he accepted the following year. Until 1935 he was trained in Salmon Arm and Calgary, and continued to work for the well-known prairie firm until 1940, when he joined the RCAF.

For the next six years, Art Sladen was a tradesman in the RCAF both in Canada and England, as a butcher, cook and in charge of food supplies. On his release from active duty, he returned to Salmon Arm and purchased from Burns & Co. the store in which he had been employed.

He operated that store for two years, then sold it and became a partner with Harry Braddock in the West Summerland Frozen Food Lockers and Retail Meat Market. In November, 1949, Art and Harry severed partnership and the following year Art Sladen took charge of the meat department in Gordon's new Super-Valu at Kelowna.

Prior to joining this new setup, he spent two weeks learning pre-packaging at Super-Valu schools in Burnaby.

This will be a feature of Sladen's meat department in the Super-Valu. All cuts of meats will be pre-packaged in varying sizes but there will be plenty of cuts available for those who wish to have it cut on the spot and wrap-

Fresh and frozen fish and poultry of all kinds will be stocked by the meat department, as well.

The entire meat department display will cater to self service. Only government-inspected Red and Blue brand meats will be carried by the Super-Valu.

When Art Sladen lived in Summerland before, he took a keen interest in various community enterprises. He was secretary of the fire brigade and local president of the Boy Scout Local Association. He was a member of the Legion and board of trade.

In his earlier days, Art Sladen was well-known as a prominent member of the Salmon Arm hockey, baseball and curling clubs.

He does not intend to move his wife and three children to Summerland from their present Kelowna home until spring.

High School Students Are Panic in Comedy "Out of the Frying Pan"

Wholesome comedy, well depicted, was dished out in lavish proportions to two crowded houses last Thursday and Friday evenings when the Summerland High School three-act play, "Out of the Frying Pan", proved a great success.

Nearly 1,000 persons witnessed the two performances by the young cast of high school students who were coached, cajoled and directed into their parts by Lacey Fisher, well-known local school staff member who has directed a number of outstanding successes here.

It was comedy of a high order, well portrayed, and without any lag in the continuity. All participants conducted themselves ably, with Brian Berg being the most forceful character and outstanding in his performance.

But right up alongside Brian were Rob Towgood, with an equally important part, Dwain Greer, Shirley Allen, Merle Heavysides and Mable McNab.

The play concerns a group of six young people who are gathered together in one suite of rooms with one ambition, to star together in a New York stage production. The theatre has "got them".

Rob Towgood, Brian Berg and Barry Agur are the three male actors while Merle Heavysides, Jill Sanborn and Mable McNab are the budding actresses. Their interpretations were exceedingly good, with Merle predominating as the "dumb but lovely" blonde. Jill Sanborn was the dominating female of the trio and put plenty of emphasis into her part while Mable McNab was the sophisticated young actress in every way.

Shirley Allen played the role of a rather dumb landlady who was not so vague that she couldn't remember that the rent money was overdue. She was a "hit" from the start.

Irene Menu came into the scene as a schoolgirl chum of the Boston-born and bred Merle Heavysides who was shocked to find her formerly staid friend scattering inhibitions to the wind in her endeavor to reach the New York stage.

So also was Merle's father, Mr. Coburn, portrayed by Ross Axworthy who barged into the scene unexpectedly and threw everybody into an uproar, as he could not understand six young people living together in one apartment.

The antics which the aspiring thespians went through to keep Father Coburn out of the way were comedy in the extreme, and Ross Axworthy filled the part of the Bostonian in an able manner.

Main endeavor of the young people was to attract the attention of New York Producer Mr. Kenny who happened to reside downstairs. He was more interested in his culinary problems, in an effeminate way, than in hopeful young actors but in the end they won him over. This difficult part was well taken by Dwaine Greer.

In one of the final scenes, the actors are rehearsing their morbid murder scene when Mabel does her part so realistically in shrieking at the uncovering of the "corpse" that two cops are attracted to the brownstone suite. The cops, Mac and Joe, turned out to be Jim Peter and Lori Kliz.

The two big audiences which crowded the school auditorium were pleasantly surprised at the high degree of characterization portrayed by these school students turned actors and actresses and the hearty applause throughout signified their entire satisfaction.

Prompter was Rose Harrison, while behind the scenes Bill Krause and Karst Brandtsma had charge of business management; Laverne Higgs was business manager; Geoffrey Solly, Richard Blewett, Howard Bennett and Bill Ward had charge of scenery; Brian Daniels and Tom Paul were responsible for lighting arrangements; Evelyn Washington, Leila Lewis, Joyce Schumann, Carol Raincock and Wilma Matkovich did a good job on costumes and makeup; while properties were under the direction of Frank Lauer, Lovette Trofimenkoff, Shirley Burnell, Darvin Harbicht and Leslie Younghusband.

George Forster and Alan Butler, who was the first delivery boy.

Associated with Mr. Rumball in promotion of this concern was his mother, Mrs. Carey Rumball, who also came here from Bowden, Alta., to spend her remaining days in the Okanagan. She passed away in 1932.

It was in 1942 that the last major change in the Groceteria came into being. The store was enlarged to its present 54 by 75 feet dimensions, and it became a Red & White Store.

Leslie Rumball has been his father's assistant ever since he left school and after his brothers grew up, Mrs. Rumball took over the bookkeeping chores in the store. She had obtained valuable clerical experience as teller in the Union Bank at Bowden, where she met and married Lawrence Rumball.

One side venture was conducted in 1936 when Art Dunsdon and Leslie Rumball opened a branch in Hedley. They sold out two years later and not a moment too soon as Hedley went into a decline right afterwards.

Art Dunsdon, manager of the produce department, has been associated with the Rumballs for 25 years and brings a great deal of experience in this important department to the new Super-Valu setup.

Charlie Rennie has been with the Groceteria for five years, while Miss May Howard joined the Groceteria staff four years ago. Before his army term, Russell (Butch) White had been with the Groceteria for a time and took over the delivery service four years ago.

Lance Mann, who came here from Athabasca, is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Rumball. He was the "Weather Man" at Snag, termed one of the coldest spots on the continent.

for the time being has a good surface of gravel. Next spring when conditions are better, the parking lot will be hard-surfaced the Rumballs state.

Big 25-Foot Neon

The main floor which attracts the attention of the customers on entering the front doors beneath the 25-foot Neon flashing sign, covers the full width of the building back a depth of 75 feet.

At the rear of this main floor space, and in the exact centre is the meat department, which occupies twenty-foot frontage and has a depth of 25 feet.

There will be two cashiers at speedy checkout counters at the front, while another cash checkout and delivery call counter is at the left of the meat department at the rear of the building. A pre-packing room is also combined with this delivery and checkout room.

Still another moveable checkout counter is being provided for rush hours. It is called an express checkout and is designed to handle small purchases of one to six items and thus speed up services for those who are in a hurry and are not purchasing any extensive amount of articles.

Deliveries are to be made each afternoon, of orders phoned in or left prior to one o'clock that day.

At the right of the meat department is the store office which is reached from steps at the rear and which commands a view of the entire store front.

The produce refrigerator and washing racks are all located in the basement. Provision has also been made in the basement for a lunchroom for employees, as well as suitable washrooms.

An electric escalator plus a stairway have been provided for quick exit from the basement to the main floor, while a ramp has been built from the rear into the basement and another ramp from the lane to the main floor.

All the gondolas, quick freezers, and other stands on the main floor are painted white, while some have pastel shade trims for contrast. Ease of reach is a major factor in the design while they are so built and displayed that all the merchandise can be seen without any effort.

Emphasis on Fresh Produce

The vegetable display is a real treat, being 30 feet in length, completely refrigerated and well lighted to give the utmost in display.

There is also a nine-foot frozen food display and a seven-foot four-decker dairy case. An open, self-service ice cream refrigerator is another innovation along with a six-foot deep freezer.

ROBINSON WANTED $1,000
West Summerland, B.C.
December 13, 1952

Editor, the Review:

In The Review of Dec. 11, under the heading, "Find Gulch Road on Arnett Lot", you state that A. T. Robinson had been offered $1,000 for the acre involved. This should be reversed. Mr. Robinson told me that he offered the property to the municipality for $1,000. This was not acceptable and arbitration was decided on.

No mention was made by Mr. Robinson to me of the suggested $420 in settlement. A few days later I discussed the matter with Reeve Thompson and told him that arbitration could remain in abeyance and to continue the use of the road until I decided what to do about it.

This information, together with other details on the subject, was given the municipal council by me, also to Mr. Bentley personally in my home.

Yours truly,
W. ARNETT.

BCFG Mutual Hail Company in Session

Due to the inclement weather, only a handful of growers turned out for the annual meeting of the BCFG Mutual Hail Insurance Company, held last Thursday afternoon at the IOOF hall.

Eric M. Tait was chairman of the meeting, which heard the report of the company manager, George H. Northan, of Kelowna.

Chairman Tait and Reeve C. E. Bentley, two Summerland directors on the company slate from this district, were re-elected as delegates to the annual company meeting in Kelowna next month.

Air Purification Equipment Not Recommended

Most fruit growers have heard claims made about air purification for apple storages. The process of "so-called" air purification refers to removal of various extraneous gases from the atmosphere by absorbing them on activated carbon, explains the department of agriculture from Ottawa.

In fruit storages various gases produced by fruits are continually being liberated to the atmosphere. These gases include ethylene, acetaldehyde, ethyl alcohol, and various aromatic compounds which are normally associated with the ripening of fruit. Some are known and others are suspected of stimulating the ripening of fruit exposed to them. It has been proved that certain gases produced by apples cause a killing of the skin described as skin scald.

Experiments conducted in the eastern United States seem to show a decrease in rate of softening and a corresponding increase in length of storage life for apples held under carbon air purification as compared with ordinary air storage. Significant reductions in skin scald have also been reported, but not of comparable magnitude to that obtained with the use of mineral oil wraps.

On the other hand, experiments on air purification with a wide range of apple varieties conducted by the Summerland experimental station and other western experiment stations have not demonstrated any superiority in firmness, keeping life or scald control either during or after cold storage with treated, as compared with check fruit.

Expenditure for the installation of commercial air purification equipment is therefore not recommended, says D. V. Fisher of the Summerland station. Further experiments are in progress in an attempt to find why air purification works in some cases but not in others.

MACIL'S Ladies' Wear & Dry Goods

West Summerland, B.C.
Christmas, 1952

To our many Customers & Friends:
Along about this time of year we think of Christmas and our friends and want to express some of the feelings that are away down inside.
To us this thing called "business" is founded to a great extent on friendship, and the desire to be of service to our customers. And for us to say it has been a real pleasure to do business with you, is expressing it mildly.
Because really and truly, in all sincerity, we have appreciated your acquaintance, and your patronage. We've tried hard to deserve your friendship and if we have succeeded then Christmas will indeed be a pleasant one for us.
And to you and yours, and all those dear to you, we wish a real Merry Christmas and a 1953 heaping full and running over with all the things your heart desires.

Sincerely,
Macil's Ladies' Wear
Management and Staff.

The more northerly tree fruit districts of British Columbia have been established for many years. Their economy is based largely on the apple and there is heavy investment in buildings and equipment to handle this crop. McIntosh is the only recommended apple variety which may be expected to survive the climate of these districts when grown on its own trunk and framework, states a Department of Agriculture News release from Ottawa.

Growers who wish to spread their harvesting season and increase their revenue by growing the red strains of Delicious are therefore faced with the necessity of providing their Delicious trees with a hardy trunk and framework.

Hibernial has been used extensively as a framework stock for Delicious. It is not generally recommended in British Columbia, however, because of its tendency to structural weaknesses when carrying heavy crops of Delicious, particularly in the earlier years of bearing.

Growers who already have Hibernial trees may overcome these weaknesses to a considerable extent by the following, says F. W. L. Keane, Summerland experimental station. The scaffold branches of the young Hibernial trees should be top-worked to Delicious at a distance no greater than nine to twelve inches from the trunk.

Trees which have already been top-worked at distances from the trunk greater than twelve inches may be braced with wire and screw-eyes to prevent twisting and breaking of the Hibernial branches. Timely propping of heavily loaded trees is very important.

Government Purchases Large Quantity of Apple Juice

By O. L. Jones, MP for Yale

It is very gratifying when a long period of letterwriting, interviews, etc., come to a successful conclusion. One of these experiences was my good fortune recently when the government decided to give 24-hour service at Osoyoos. The Canadian government promised this service many months ago, providing they could get the American Customs to co-operate. Both Kingsgate and Osoyoos will help in meeting the night traffic prob-

The government's decision regarding control of television promises to develop into a first class debate. The minister of national revenue announced the government policy. The object of the control is to develop in Canada a consciousness of national life and to ensure an adequate amount of suitable Canadian programs.

The minister pointed out it is bound to have a strong effect on the minds of growing young people watching it in their own homes. Therefore, the government believes it should be so developed in Canada that it is capable of providing a sensible pattern of programs for Canadian homes, reflecting Canadian ideas and creative abilities of our own people and life in all parts of Canada.

The west will be served by two stations; one in Vancouver, the other in Winnipeg. Unfortunately, the present limit of television service is a radius of approximately fifty to seventy-five miles. The gap in between these two cities has been left for exploitation of private stations, who claim that the cream of the revenue stations has been taken over by the CBC. They naturally wish to have the same privileges with television as they now enjoy with radio—that is, to operate on stations based in the same area as the CBC.

External Affairs Minister Pearson recently gave a review of the work of the United Nations being carried on at New York to parliament. He said we may have reached a critical turning point, but that this is no time to abandon faith in this indispensable piece of international machinery. He praised the Indian resolution seeking an armistice in Korea as already having proved of great value in uniting all non-communist members of the U.N. in the design to find an honorable peace.

He also pointed out that the Atlantic Pact build-up in Europe has made solid progress, but there is still a long way to go to make NATO a bulwark against aggression. This growing strength has, to a certain extent, lessened international tension. On the other hand, he pointed out that Russia is devoting more of her military budget to developing and producing new equipment as well as building up huge forces. He confessed that the morale is low and a great deal of uneasiness exists among the international civil servants working for the U.N. He mentioned that South Korea now provides sixty percent of the man-power fighting aggression in that country.

Sugar Beet Growers Anxious
Several members from the sugar beet areas in Canada are trying to persuade the government to place a quota on the importation of Cuban sugar. It would appear that huge reserves of this particular commodity are being stock-piled in Canada and will inevitably bring down the wholesale price of sugar, which possibility, the sugar beet growers claim, would bring ruin to their industry.

Another group from the tobacco growing section around Simcoe and Dufferin counties (Ontario) are advising the government to reduce the price of cigarettes to 30c for a package of twenty, claiming this would not reduce the government's income as consumption would increase and smuggling stop. The recent 3c a package reduction that Mr. Abbott estimated would reduce tax revenue by ten million has actually had the opposite effect as the revenue from the tax has increased by ten million. Naturally, this provides a good argument for those seeking a substantial reduction in cigarette prices.

The speech from the throne still dominates parliamentary affairs and will continue to do so until it is finally disposed of before the Christmas holidays. It is interesting to note that a large number of members are taking advantage of the freedom allowed under this topic to discuss any subject matter they wish. Therefore, it is not surprising to find several members of all parties attacking the Social Credit group who, in turn, are making a spirited defence of their point of view.

The sub-amendment moved by the CCF asking for national health insurance has received support in principle, but many of the speakers who gave the support qualified it by saying that considerable time should elapse before such a plan was brought into being. We in the CCF point out that it is 33 years ago since the Liberal party in convention promised national health insurance and if as much progress is made in the next 30 years very few people would live to enjoy the benefits proposed. However, I feel the debate has created a sympathetic understanding of the whole field of health and hospital protection and, no doubt, the government will act on some of the excellent suggestions that have been made during the debate, particularly by increasing the bed capacities of Canadian hospitals and, possibly, assisting medical and dental schools and it may even develop into having the government subsidize, or in some other way, assist in financing nurses' training schools, all of which are very necessary before even the groundwork for a national health scheme could be considered.

I have also been active in trying to persuade the government to give 24-hour service at Cascade, where traffic is very heavy during the winter months owing to the closing of the mountain roads due to snow conditions. My strongest argument has been the increase in traffic during last year in comparison with previous years. Following is a table showing traffic growth during the month of May for the last three years:

B.C. Chamber Of Commerce Is Growing

"I enjoyed the sessions; I think the B.C. Chamber of Commerce is really coming into its own; it's growing steadily and gradually gaining in importance."

Such was the summing up of Lorne G. Perry, board of trade secretary, in reporting to the trade board quarterly dinner meeting in the IOOF hall last Thursday evening on his attendance at the first annual convention of the B.C. Chamber of Commerce held last month in Vancouver.

Mr. Perry reviewed the various sessions held, told of the business-like manner in which the discussions were conducted by President Dr. C. H. Wright of Trail and the efficient organization work of Secretary Larry Eeroyd, assisted by Vancouver Board Secretary Reg Rose and New Westminster Board Secretary Frank Wilson.

More than 100 delegates represented nearly the same number of boards and associated boards groups throughout B.C. Delegates attended the international railway day luncheon of the customs and transportation bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade and heard interesting panel discussions on labor-management relations and the forest industries' problems.

Regional reports gave indications of the province's expansion while resolutions were carefully screened to eliminate those which were purely regional in nature.

Most important of the resolutions was that introduced by the highways committee chairman, Tom Trapp of New Westminster, seeking a five-year program of highway construction in B.C. to cover all major expenditures.

J. V. Hughes of Vancouver was named president to succeed Dr. Wright, while elected directors from the Southern Interior Associated Boards of Trade were the president, William Pearson of Oliver and Mr. Perry of Summerland.

Rum stories...

"By the great Horn Spoon, those were gales," said the bosun.

"Not only could we not round the Horn, but the fury of the elements was driving us backwards up the coast of America. Only by the unusual feat of using the bowsprit as a rudder could I keep us from perishing on those inhospitable shores. At this point, a flock of gigantic albatrosses sank exhausted on the deck. Hastily reviving them with tots of our cargo, Lamb's Navy Rum, I harnessed them to the vessel and encouraged them to fly in the desired direction. The upshot was that our time for the Boston-Sacramento run stood as a record for thirty years."

"That's a Rum Story," said the unsuspecting guest.

"Thank you, sir. I should enjoy nothing better than a Lamb's Navy Rum."

Revelstoke Directors Would Turn Hospital Over to Government

REVELSTOKE—Need for immediate improvements to the Queen Victoria hospital were outlined by hospital directors in a letter to the BCHS Commissioner L. F. Detwiler in mid-November.

Estimates showed that at least $30,000 is needed to effect presing needs of the hospital, the directors being particularly worried about the heating system.

At a later meeting, the directors read a letter from Hon. Eric Martin, minister of health and welfare, advising hospital boards that 1953 costs must be held at the 1952 figure.

As a result of this letter, the directors advocated turning over the Queen Victoria hospital to the government at the next annual meeting. The resolution passed was as follows:

"WHEREAS The Board of Management of the Queen Victoria Hospital, Revelstoke, B.C., have had under careful consideration the letter of the Minister of Health and Welfare of the Province of British Columbia, dated 1st December, 1952, instructing them to hold the hospital's costs for 1953 regardless of any circumstances which may arise, to the 1952 levels, which latter levels have already been reduced by the mandatory cuts of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service without any reference or discussion with the Hospital Board in the first place;

"AND WHEREAS the actions of the B.C. Hospital Service over the last three years have gradually taken away from the Hospital Board all powers of making policy decisions either large or small due to the fact that when such decisions have been made and reported to the B.C. Hospital Service they have received obstructive criticism, arbitrary amendment, and in many cases refusal of sanction.

"BE IT RESOLVED THAT the Board of Management of the Queen Victoria Hospital feel that the usefulness of their gratuitous services has now reached the point when these services mean little or nothing to the operation of the Queen Victoria Hospital and that at the next annual meeting of the Queen Victoria Hospital Society to be held in February, 1953, providing the present situation still exists at that date, a recommendation be made to that body that the local hospital be handed over to the B.C. Government, who will doubtless be able to make the necessary financial and staffing arrangements for its operation on an institutional basis."

The silk was spun in Kent, and twisted into yarn, in British workshops. The velvet will be used also to make hangings which will be used in Westminster Abbey during the Coronation.

Britain Will Make Comeback in Short Time "Jock" Duguid Thinks

"If you think Britain is finished, forget it," was the blunt advice of J. Duguid, who returned recently from a visit to his native land after an absence of thirty years. He addressed the board of trade December dinner meeting at the IOOF hall Thursday evening.

He felt that Canadians lose their perspective somewhat, being too close to the United States, and forget that Britain has plenty of "know how" and brains.

He predicted that it would be only a short time until "she is on top again".

Resentment Against U.S.

Like Dr. J. C. Wilcox, he found that there is a terrific feeling of resentment being aroused in Great Britain against the United States and its people.

He was surprised to hear such resentment. The British don't complain despite all the hardships they have gone through but they do object strongly to Americans telling them they should do this and do that and should have this and that which Americans are enjoying.

"It's getting under their skin," he declared, explaining that the Americans being able to rent expensive apartments in London, Paris and Berlin, furnish them lavishly and live in the lap of luxury irks the Britisher.

He also pointed to the American canteens where luxury items the British never can buy in their own shops are displayed lavishly and even a bottle of Scotch whisky can be obtained at a cheaper price than the regular stores next door.

Briefly Mr. Duguid reviewed what he had observed in Great Britain during his return "home". He found that farming has to be carried on in an intensive fashion, and every available bit of land utilized.

But the farmer, who produces fifty percent of Britain's food requirements for about 45 million people, is fighting a losing battle for his acreage. Towns are spreading out and encroaching on the farm lands, taking over 50,000 to 60,000 acres yearly.

Britain will have to consider building up and not out if the farm lands are to be saved, he found.

Another solution is a mass emigration scheme which would lighten millions off the population. This is being widely discussed in the British press but as Britain needs her able-bodied men and her skilled artisans, such a scheme would have to encompass the old or the very young and no country would consider accepting such types under an immigration scheme, he pointed out.

He found most businesses booming but they are all connected, directly or indirectly, with war production.

Answers' Production Talk

Mr. Duguid had heard the clamor in the United States and Canada for Britain to produce more but the Financial Post had replied quite well to this insistence by pointing out that the two North American countries have already put up barriers against British imports now, so where will Britain dispose of her prospective increased production.

The U.S. and Canada have stated that a ten percent increase in coal production would go a long way towards paying Britain's bills, and they have advocated mechanization of the mines, forgetting that many mines in Britain have coal seams so narrow that they are not conducive to mechanization, Mr. Duguid continued.

The speaker found many "posh" restaurants and hotels where good food is served, but for persons without much money the story was different. He instanced the coupon books for "staple" food requirements, listing among the week's rations one egg, two ounces butter, two ounces bacon, one ounce margarine, etc.

"There is lots of food in Britain of a certain kind," Mr. Duguid stated, as he gained ten pounds in weight while overseas.

Coal is limited to 98 pounds per week for the open hearth fireplaces which serve most homes for heat, he declared.

CIVIL DEFENSE SEEKS PURCHASING AGENT

Summerland Board of Trade has been asked by Civil Defense Coordinator A. M. Temple to suggest names of persons who would take on the important post of purchasing agent in the civil defense set-up. President Walter M. Wright has been instructed to endeavor to find such an official and at last Thursday's trade board meeting asked for suggestions from the membership.

Board President Advertises District

Walter M. Wright, board of trade president, told members at the IOOF hall Thursday evening gathered for the quarterly dinner session, that he was able to give Summerland some publicity relative to the Christmas trees being exported from this district.

Mr. Wright obtained Christmas cards, picture postcards of Summerland district and strip maps of the Okanagan, and wrapped them in cellophane packages, attaching them to a number of Christmas trees which were being shipped to the United States.

On the local scenes Mr. Wright inscribed: "Showing where your Christmas tree was grown and harvested".

Next season, he advocated the assembling of a large number of such greeting packages to be attached to Christmas trees leaving this district for distant points in the United States.

Beneficiaries Get More Payments in '52

More than $5,488,000 was paid to the beneficiaries of deceased policyholders, residents of British Columbia, during the first nine months of the current year.

The Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association reports that these payments this year were about $735,000 greater than the payments made in the same period of 1951.

More than 3,300 policies were involved in the payments; $4,341,373 being paid on 1,760 ordinary life policy claims; $249,000 on 1,624 industrial life policies claims; and $395,000 on 521 group certificate claims.

Board of Trade Favors Survey of Alternate Route for Highway 97

At the instigation of Reeve C. E. Bentley, the Summerland Board of Trade went on record at the quarterly dinner meeting in the IOOF hall, as favoring a survey of an alternative route for Highway 97 as it passes through Summerland, in order to have a comparison with the Giant's Head-Sandhill route which is presently being surveyed.

The trade board also went on record as stating definitely it will endorse the route finally chosen by the department of public works, after the two routes have been compared and the pros and cons weighed.

This resolution went through unopposed after a lengthy discussion which saw Lloyd Miller, president of the Social Credit League in Summerland present to advocate a public meeting to decide on the route which the road should take.

Board members definitely voiced their opinion that a public meeting would do nothing towards settlement of the route which the highway should take.

After Ivor Solly had reported to the board on the meetings of trade board representatives with council and retail merchants on the possibility that the Giant's Head road would be course selected and the meeting with J. H. A. Stevens, department location engineer, who advocated the Giant's Head if no more feasible route could be chosen, Lloyd Miller addressed the board.

in his engineers, Mr. Miller stressed, "They wouldn't be working for the government if they weren't good." He stressed that nobody is groping in the dark and there is nothing to fear.

He also declared that Hon. P. A. Gagliardi would come to Summerland to address a public meeting if it was thought desirable.

"I think Summerland wants a good highway," Mr. Miller emphasized, but he also felt that if an agreement is not reached soon then this district will lose out.

He quoted Premier Bennett as being anxious to have the highway relocated but the premier wouldn't tell Summerland where the road should go, he wanted Summerland to tell him.

Premier Bennett has confidence

Mr. Miller declared that the people of Summerland must get away from petty ideas and selfish viewpoints and motifs in connection with the highway, and work for the good of all.

He was assured that the trade board has no "axe to grind" and merely wanted to be certain that the best route will be taken.

Mei Monro, a visitor to the meeting, declared "we've got a chance to get a good highway if we act quickly". He thought it a waste of time for the ordinary man to go out and try to locate a road. He was willing to wager that 80 percent of the people in Summerland are satisfied with the Sandhill-Giant's Head road route.

J. E. O'Mahony spoke on the competency of the public works engineers. He advocated putting a stop to this "fooling around" and thought it a waste of time.

Alf McLachlan wanted to leave everything to the engineers and saw no future in a public meeting as suggested by Mr. Miller.

After a slight pause, when it appeared that the subject would be left right there, the opposite viewpoints started to be expressed.

Councillor F. E. Atkinson was the first to rise and declared at the outset that from a purely engineering standpoint there was no doubt most people would select the proposed Giant's Head road route. But there are many other factors to be considered.

He pointed out that the municipality, acting on the assurance of the public works department that the Giant's Head would never become the arterial highway, had spent $4,500 per mile in hard-surfacing this municipal road.

"The council is interested in protecting as many ratepayers as possible," Mr. Atkinson declared, pointing out that the new 60,000 volt electric light line just installed, the 8-inch main installed in 1940, the telephone line and a lot of private fluming would have to be rebuilt along the present proposed route.

He declared the alternate route up the dump road and just below the Russel home would be no steeper than the Sandhill, and would not upset as many municipal utilities or dislocate as many

Details of Trade Board Resolution

Full details of the resolution which the Summerland Board of Trade adopted last Thursday for presentation to the minister of public works and Premier Bennett are given herewith. The resolution was amended slightly from its original form as presented by Reeve Bentley, but the intention was not altered.

WHEREAS, the provincial government is now making a survey of highway No. 97 through the Municipality of Summerland,

And WHEREAS, the total economy of the Summerland District depends entirely on the revenue obtained from the production of fruits and fruit products; therefore it is desirable that as little orchard land as possible be destroyed, as every piece of land so destroyed will mean a loss of revenue to the growers,

And, WHEREAS, we realize that the final location of the highway is the business of the engineers of the department of public works and that when located that this will be the final location of the highway,

And, WHEREAS, there may be several possible routes through the district among which are the following routes:

1. The Giant's Head road.
2. Following present highway to the lower town and then cutting through into the Gulch road and follow up the hill and to the north.
3. Through the lower town and cutting through the Hospital Hill to the Peach Orchard and up the hill and join the road to the north.
4. Through the lower town along the lakeshore to the Peach Orchard and up the north side and join the present highway.
5. Keep along the lakeshore to Crescent Beach and then climb up to the present highway.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Summerland Board of Trade meeting on December 11, 1952, urges that the government have surveys made of an alternate route before making a final decision as to the location of the highway.

AND be it further resolved, that this Board of Trade will endorse the route finally chosen by the engineers of the public works department,

And that copies of this resolution be forwarded to The Premier of the province and to the minister of public works.

Rifle Club Shed Has Lock Broken Off

Some person or persons broke into the Summerland Rifle Club shed at the Garnet Valley range some time after shooting closed for the season, Len Shannon and Dave Taylor found when they visited the range while cutting Christmas trees.

The lock had been broken but the only thing stolen, as far as they could ascertain, was one of the old telephones. As the phones are badly in need of repair, the phone would not be of much value to the intruder, it is felt.

viewpoints and not too much attention should be paid to generalities such as Mr. Miller had quoted.

A. K. Macleod felt that the route chosen should be looked on as one sufficiently good to last for 20 to 40 years. "We should make certain that it is the best road modern engineering can provide," he advocated.

The Bentley resolution, which was seconded by Alf McLachlan, was finally put to the meeting after further discussion which mainly reiterated previous stands, and was adopted with only M. K. Monro dissenting. His vote could not be recorded as he was a visitor.

Before road discussion terminated, President Walter M. Wright re-introduced the subject of a public meeting, as advocated by Mr. Miller.

Reeve Bentley closed the discussion by voicing the opinion that "we've asked for the best road and we're not dictating where it will go."

Queen Elizabeth to Speak To Her Subjects at Seven O'Clock Xmas Morning

On Christmas morning, at 7 o'clock, PST, Queen Elizabeth II will be heard for the first time delivering her initial Christmas message to her loyal subjects throughout the world. Both the Dominion and the Trans Canada networks of the CBC will pick up the BBC broadcast of Her Majesty's speech which follows the hour-long, world-wide show called "The Queen's Inheritance."

King George V. inaugurated this Christmas message in 1932 and despite his speech impediment, King George VI. carried on the tradition in a noble manner.

Now his daughter, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II will speak to the peoples of the Commonwealth, her family.

Laurence Gilliam, who has charge of the world-wide broadcast, has said that "Christmas after Christmas the link has been forged and strengthened," in reference to this tie between sovereign and people.

"The King became no less a King because he spoke with the voice of a friend and of a father. In fact, he was more of a King to millions who heard him but never hoped to see him. This fact was made painfully apparent when the sad news of the King's death flashed around the world last February.

There was an immediate and world-wide sense of shock and personal loss. At this moment it was clear to them all that the King belonged to his people because he had spent his strength at their service.

"That is the inheritance upon which the young Queen enters, made up of love and respect based upon a tradition of personal service. The theme of this year's Christmas program is the youth, vitality and the forward-looking courage everywhere apparent among the Commonwealth peoples. We cannot hope to call on more than a fraction of these millions who will be listening but those whose voices will be heard will bear witness to the reality of this theme in terms of their own lives."

Plans for the Christmas Day program include: A radio contact with the men of the British North Greenland Expedition; a Christmas message from a Comet jet airliner in flight; a Christmas scene from the liner Queen Mary in mid-ocean; messages from the meteorological station at Campbell Island in the Antarctic; a visit to a student community centre in the Cameroons in West Africa; greetings from Commonwealth troops in Malaya; a broadcast from Tristan da Cunha Island in the South Atlantic; a program from the George Cross Island of Malta; and a report on Colombo Plan developments in India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

Echoes of children of Christmas from many parts will be heard. Of interest will be a broadcast from the Pestalozzi children's village in Switzerland where Jeanette Atwood, the British world and Olympic skating champion now serves as a children's nurse. The voices of children will also be heard from Hong Kong, singing Christmas carols in Chinese. From Korea will come the voices of fighting men and relief workers.

Canada's contribution will be a report by CBC commentator John Fisher on this country's startling new industrial development, particularly in northern Quebec and British Columbia.

The Queen's message is being re-broadcast at 7:10 p.m. on Christmas Day, the Queen's Inheritance re-broadcast at 5 p.m.

Christmas in Canada is being broadcast to the world by the CBC International Service. To nations overseas, the story of Christmas in Canada is even more remarkable than their Christmas is to us. The story of bilingual Santa Claus in the big department stores, the snow-covered countryside when heat waves smite Argentina, the French Canadian family snack following midnight mass and charities for the underprivileged on Christmas, is a story of how Canadians live. It will be described in ten languages.

Local District Colorful And Gay in Preparation For Festive Holidays

Summerland district is prepared for a merry Christmas, combined with due thought for the real meaning of Christmas from a religious sense.

The entire district is ablaze with colored lights, decorated trees and windows and the warmth of the color beckons the stranger to a friendly atmosphere.

Christmas Eve sees the retail merchants and the board of trade combining treats for the youngsters. Two free shows for the younger people have been arranged by the retailers at the Rialto this afternoon, the first starting at 1 o'clock and the second at 2:40 o'clock. The picture is a western "Red Mountain".

After the show, Santa Claus is due to arrive. He will come to White & Thornthwaite's in lower town first and then drive up to the West Summerland business section and be prepared to meet all the kiddies and give each one a bag of treats.

This is an annual treat arranged by the Board of Trade, with Bob Barkwill again in charge of the committee.

Only sports event for the holiday season arranged so far is the mixed curling bonspiel which starts on Boxing Day. Commercial league hockey sees Summerland playing at the Penticton arena on Sunday, December 28.

The Summerland Rink Association has made arrangements for the hiring of a caretaker and the flooding of the arena skating and hockey surface just as soon as some colder weather comes along. So far, however, it has been much too mild and the weather this month has been more like early fall than mid-winter. From present indications, it will be a green Christmas, but that situation can change quickly.

Once again the board of trade is offering prizes for the best outdoor lighting display, as well as the most original scheme. Each year, many householders are adding to their strings of decorative lights and are now in a position to make a grand display of welcome color shining in the night.

The Christmas trade among Summerland merchants has been quite good, most retailers report. Most stores are showing a healthy increase in sales as more people are shopping at home and finding that the local stores offer as fine a variety at as low prices as the bigger centres.

Premier Bennett's Message

"This is the first occasion that I, as premier of the province have had the opportunity to extend Christmas Greetings to the people of British Columbia," W. A. C. Bennett, premier of B.C. and MLA for South Okanagan, declared in his message issued last weekend.

"With the coming of Christmas 1952, let us solemnly pledge ourselves to fulfill the ideals of the beloved phrase Peace on Earth, Goodwill Toward Men.

"We in British Columbia and the British Commonwealth are endowed with a precious freedom and it is my fervent hope that the preservation of that freedom is deeply embedded in everyone's heart.

"May I express the wish to every British Columbian that this Christmas will be a most joyous one and the New Year will hold great promise of prosperity, peace and contentment."

At the same time, the premier's office hinted that a redistribution bill to equalize some of the ridings which have grown tremendously in population in recent years may be introduced at the first session of the 23rd parliament, set for February 3, 1953.

Amendments to the election act, and the liquor act are also forecast by Premier Bennett. The proposed redistribution would be the first since 1938 when amendments to the boundaries of some ridings were made.

Here's wishing a

MERRY

to everyone

New Snow

All in the feathery weather,
into the light new snow,
into the cloud-stars flying, gaily the small cats go.

For the first time, prancing sideways, their tails puffed with surprise, the little cats gaze skyward with blue astonished eyes.

Each infant black imp scampers like a delirious leaf;
but when he sits in silver,
his sitting-down is brief!

All in the feathery weather,
snow-booted black paws come bringing three sets of whiskers on star-wet faces home.

—Frances Frost.

Hold, Holly Tree

You glistening, sharp-pointed and mailed leaves and bright vermilion lacquered berries, sturdy in an east wind harsh with salt,
an east wind blowing off the Narrows;
hold, oh hold, bright symbol against this wind;
hold against wave, against time, this little while.

Flower of England, and of New England, stranger to this stranger newer soil, flame in this hour and this western air, and light, oh light this darker end of year.

—Frederick Enbright.

A Story for Small Children

THE LIVING JEWEL

Once upon a time there was born a Princess. At her christening her Fairy Godmother gave her a most beautiful jewel. It had many of the colors of the rainbow, most clear were the greens and the ruby.

As she grew up the Princess prized this gem above all others.

When she became Queen she said to herself, "What will become of this jewel when I die? Perhaps other countries will want it and so come and fight my country for it. What a pity it would be to have fighting over something so beautiful. I will ask the advice of my Fairy Godmother."

The Apple - First of Fruits

Compact in your hand, an apple holds all of a season's wealth and strength—winter whiteness crisp in its flesh, autumn colors glowing in its skin, the fragrance of a summer's new-mown meadows.

A monument now marks the spot where grew the first Baldwin. It came up, a vagrant seedling, on the farm of John Ball, near Lowell, Mass., about 1740. A country deacon, tasting the fruit, praised it to a neighbor, Col. Baldwin. The astute colonel began propagating it, and in time it swept all competitors from the markets of Boston. The Baldwin reigned supreme throughout the pie belt, until the more winter-hardy McIntosh came down from Canada to fill New England roadside stands.

Then, there's the Yellow Newtown. The original tree, the Newtown Pippin, appeared in the early 18th century near Newtown, Long Island. That tree died of excessive cuttings for purposes of propagation, but its culture extended to Albemarle County, Virginia, where Thomas Jefferson in 1773 recorded grafts of Newtown Pippin planted on his estate of Monticello. The Albemarle Pippin or Yellow Newtown became the first American apple to

The Simple Things of Christmas

King George VI. said in his Christmas message to his people: "At Christmas, we feel that the old, simple things matter most." And he added: "We are living in an age which often is hard and cruel, and if there is anything that we can offer to the world today, perhaps it is the example of tolerance and understanding that runs through the great and diverse family of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

The King might have added that this thread of tolerance and understanding also runs through a number of other nations and peoples, and, indeed, the aspiration of many people now under cruel despotisms.

"The old, simple things that matter most at Christmas"—what are they? Of course there is first the reminder of the example of the Christ—the message for all mankind of the truth of brotherhood and peace on earth—brotherhood and peace based upon obedience to God's laws.

These old, simple things are the basis of the way of life of the free peoples. They rest upon the significance of God's individual man—which is the central fact in our society.

At Christmas we remember most man's individual significance as grouped in family units, around the fireside, and in the interchange of loving gifts.

You and I know that the simple things of Christmas are far deeper than political repressions. It is the simple things that will win out in the end—the simple things like love and truth and compassion, and respect for the rights of man, and the laws of God.

These truths must be lives—and we are the people who must live them—if we are to persuade the victims or the dupes of Marxism that they can be free—free through the simple things of Christmas.—Erwin D. Canham.

In due time her Fairy Godmother came and the Queen talked to her about the jewel and asked if it were possible to do anything with the gem, so that when she died people would not quarrel over who should have it.

The Fairy Godmother thought for awhile, then she took the jewel in her hand, opened the window, held the jewel outside, then bade it fly away.

There flashed past the window a little ruby-throated humming-bird. So the Queen had her wish, the jewel was saved in all its beauty, and even, to this day we can see it flying from flower to flower sipping nectar.

Christmas Hymn

Sun on the frozen springs,
Frost on the sward,
All ye wild furry things—
Praise ye the Lord.

Sheep sheltered in the byre,
Ox in the stall,
Dogs crouched by the fire—
He loves you all.

Little cold winds that blow
Over the earth,
Whisper of falling snow—
Sing of His birth.

be heavily exported. Queen Victoria was so charmed by this apple of which the American Minister (Andrew Stevenson, an Albemarle County native) presented her with several barrels, that she had the tax lifted so that her subjects might enjoy it, too.—Donal Gulross Peattie.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

A rather startling article in the latest Maclean's says that Canadians spend four hundred million dollars a year on Christmas. When I draw from my hip pocket the flat and shrivelled corpse of what was recently a portly purse, I can well believe it. Christmas is a costly orgy.

It wasn't always so. I can recall having, as a child, just one dollar—carefully saved up out of dimes and nickels in a little nickel-tube bank—to spend on Christmas; and I got gifts for three brothers and sisters and both parents out of it. You could get a not-bad cup and saucer for a quarter then, or a small box of good chocolates; seventy-five cents, therefore, took care of mother and sisters. A spike letter file costing ten cents turned out to be exactly what Father wanted—at least, so he stoutly maintained—and fifteen cents would buy any one of several small tools for an equally appreciative brother.

It became a bit more difficult to stretch that dollar around the family when a sister thoughtlessly married and had a family. But by cutting down on both sisters a bit I could manage an extra punch or screwdriver for the brother-in-law and a nephew was little problem in the days when a nickel would buy five separate paper tubes of popcorn, with a little metal toy in each one. The nephew could enjoy opening them up, and play with the toys; and if he was too young to appreciate the pink popcorn.

Only since growing up have I realized that the adults of the family had to plan their larger budgets with just the same care, for those were not prosperous times. I used to wonder why my bustling black-haired little mother would stop sometimes in her work with a dreamy look in her eyes and a half smile on her face, and just smile a little more and say, "Oh, nothing," when I inquired what she was thinking about.

Now I know. For those were good gifts for us all at Christmas time. Not costly things by today's standards; but somehow, even when I hoped for something that seemed hopelessly extravagant, it usually turned up. One year it was a sterling-silver, all varnished wood and scarlet letters, too big even for the little trousers which I had hopefully hung up. Another year it was a watch. Only a dollar watch, true, but its nickel case was silver to me, and the engraved slug's head on the back outshone the finest silversmith's work to my admiring eyes. I was really more appreciative of its back than its face.

Not only were there gifts for all, but never any shortage of nuts and candies, apples and oranges—and both fruits had to be bought. There was always an ample turkey, even when another in-law and more nieces and nephew came along. Always a generous black-dotted brown pudding, round and firm as those Dickens wrote of so wonderfully, with mother's special white sauce, and always followed by mother's special small mince pies.

And always Christmas crackers to pull after dinner with much shouting and laughter; gay red and blue and green affairs, glossy with cellophane, stuffed with noise and mysterious packages. No other part of the Christmas dinner was more important than the cracker-pulling ritual.

Looking back now, I can appreciate the thought and care which lay back of Christmas gifts and Christmas feasting in those days. No squandering of money on Christmas cards to send to casual acquaintances "because they sent us one last year." No buying of hopelessly-useless gifts for people who had everything, just to be giving them something. Maybe some of my own presentations were not the most practical in the world, but the training in giving.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

December 23, 1922:

Though there was still a fair supply of water in the reservoir following the recent cold spell, advantage is being taken of the mild weather, and the increased flow in Trout Creek to carry an additional supply through the flumes to the reservoir. This move, it is explained, is being made against the possibility of a protracted cold spell.

Rev. Z. L. Fash of Fredericton, N.B., has accepted a call to become pastor of Summerland Baptist church.

George Washington gave a little party to a number of his school friends on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 23.

Miss Ethel May Whiteford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Whiteford, became the bride of Mr. Alfred Bishop of Vancouver, in a pretty wedding in St. Stephen's church on Dec. 27, the officiating clergyman being Rev. H. A. Solly, while Mrs. Solly presided at the organ.

On Dec. 23 a pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Yule, when their eldest daughter, Mina Elizabeth, became the bride of Mr. Harry Milley of Myren. Rev. W. A. Alexander officiated.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

December 20, 1927:

Owing to the snow and storm on Wednesday the rural mail was delayed. The drifts were evidently too much for P. Foster's car, and he did not get through until afternoon, when he had Wm. Johnston finish the trip with him.

Nicholas Solly, B. Wright, W. Thornber, Miss R. Harris, M. Marshall, R. Munn, and R. Elliott came home from UEC for the Christmas holidays.

Fox farming has started in Summerland, a Japanese on the meadow in Prairie Valley having brought in some foxes this week.

Mr. Alan Cross came in from Campbell River on Tuesday to join Mrs. Cross (nee H. Steuart) for the Christmas season.

The Japanese of Summerland held a Christmas entertainment at their hall on Saturday afternoon. A program was presented and a tree with gifts and candy was arranged for the Japanese children.

On Dec. 27, St. Stephen's church was the scene of a pretty wedding, the church being decorated with Christmas flowers and evergreens, when Ethel May Harrison, daughter of Mrs. R. R. Chew, became the bride of Mr. Alexander George Dewar, only son of Mrs. H. M. Lumsden, Summerland. Rev. H. A. Solly officiated. The bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Chew and the groomsmen were Mr. Eric Barclay of Sugar Lake, Vernon.

Reeve Officiates at Super-Valu Opening

Reeve C. E. Bentley officiated at the Preview opening of Rumball's Super-Valu on Friday evening, cutting the ribbon and opening the door for the first time as several hundred persons waited to enter.

His Worship mentioned that when he came to this district only one building stood on what is now the West Summerland business area. That was the store presently occupied by Laidlaw & Co.

Among those who congratulated Mr. Rumball and Les Rumball on their new store opening was Mrs. H. S. Lewes, the first customer to enter the Summerland Groceries when Mr. Rumball opened it 32 years ago.

"... We can't avoid the rush!"

"... Because it just so happens that in the Telephone business Christmas is one of our busiest times... as each year finds us carrying a bigger and bigger load... our telephone operators, switchboards, and Toll Lines continue to handle the ever-increasing flood of Christmas-time LONG DISTANCE telephone calls.

"The service we offer allows you to 'visit' with distant relatives or friends... for nothing erases the miles apart like a Long Distance Call... letting you exchange the Season's Greetings in this friendly, personal way... by telephone.

"We, of the Telephone Company, hope that our service will help to brighten this festive season for you... and we wish to take this occasion to extend our own sincerest SEASON'S GREETINGS to the many thousands of telephone subscribers we serve."

"Now entering our 46th year of continuous service"

Guide News

"Great fun" was heard on all sides when the Guides held their last meeting for 1952. The evening began with two groups of Guides carolling certain districts of the municipality where they were given generous gifts from the residents. The money is to be used for Good Deed parcels and the Pollo fund. Two ladies from the Local Association drove the Guides to and fro, and this was much appreciated.

An impressive enrolment ceremony done by candlelight took place. The Guides and Guiders lit their candles, the lights were turned off, and the Horseshoe formed. Each patrol leader brought a girl forward to be enrolled and introduced to her captain. As the girls to be enrolled came forward, each gave the Guide Promise and the Captain presented her with a Guide Trefoil for her tie. Then the Guide received the Guiding Light from the senior patrol leader and was saluted and welcomed by the whole company.

Those enrolled were Jean Kersey, Barbara Fudge, Elsie Carlstrom, Linda Beeman, Carol Barwick, Barbara Boyd, Connie Smith, Judy Smith, Jo Wilson, Barbara Beavan and Carol Hackman.

At Campfire refreshments were enjoyed and each girl was given a Guide notebook from the Guide Fairy Godmother. The Forget-Me-Not patrol received autograph albums for making up the most attractive song book of the term. Some good ideas, interesting art and hand work was shown throughout each patrol's song book, and it was difficult to make the final selection for the winning patrol.

Badges were presented as follows: First class to Barbara Baker; second class to Dianne Rumball, Donna Eden, Ruby Gronlund, and Nan Solly. First year Service Stars were awarded to Dianne Rumball, Phyllis Fabbri, Joan Beggs, Leone Smith and Mable McNab. Second year Service Stars were given to Barbara Baker, Darlene Bonthoux, Joyce Dunsdon, Donna Eden, Margaret Lott and Ann Kersey. Third year Service Stars were awarded to Carole Ann Short, Carol Cornish, Ann Solly, Eileen Wilcox, Margaret Marshall, Isobel Reinertson and Marje Gronlund.

Last, but not least, two Mrs. Santas were admirably portrayed by Mrs. James Marshall and Mrs. T. B. Lott, in giving out Christmas presents from under the tree to the eagerly waiting Guides.

After the Youth Centre became the usual quiet place it can be, the Guiders discovered an unopened parcel still under the tree! Being of a healthy, curious nature, it was opened and found to contain two, not specially attractive rocks, wrapped well in newspaper! That wasn't all! Upon another newspaper bundle being unwrapped a charming pink and white baby elephant ornament was found, which is now adorning Mrs. Shippings' new home. Mrs. Skinnings is a Lieut. recently here from England.

JUNIOR B BOYS BEAT GRADE 9 GIRLS

Junior B boys from Grade 8 won two decisions last week over the Grade 9 girls, taking one by a 16-10 score with Burgess and Harold Biollo leading the scoring, and the second in overtime 16-13. Biollo again was top scorer for the boys. Miyeko Kawasaki and Sheila Benlison were leaders for the girls.

Board of Trade Gets Prompt Response From Works Minister on Highway

Hon. P. A. Gagliardi, minister of public works, has replied to the board of trade resolution on highway relocation.

Also, following on his statement issued to The Review last week, a survey crew started on Thursday to scrutinize the dump road route which was first suggested by this newspaper as a possibility for an alternative to the Giant's Head-Sandhill road.

Mr. Gagliardi replied to the trade board as follows:

"I wish to state that several days ago I wrote a letter to the editor of The Summerland Review and very definitely stated that we would be having a survey taken of the water route and I am sure the locating engineer will consider every other feasible route.

"Each one of these routes will be taken into consideration and the prices computed, after which we will endeavor to find a just and correct solution. When the solution is reached we will be happy to submit it to you for your approval."

The trade board resolution also went to Premier W. A. C. Bennett. A reply stating that its contents "have been carefully noted", has been received from R. B. Worley, executive assistant to the premier.

Cub Calls

1st Summerland Pack
 On Monday the Sixers and Akela went around with our Christmas Good Turns. We took treats to the Mountain View Home from the Cubs and Scouts, then visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ellis, our camp cooks. After that we went to the hospital and presented our suitcase which contained a doll and her wardrobe, and a fire truck. These are for the younger set who may become patients.

Our thanks to Mr. Walter Toews who drove us around. We will report our Christmas party next week.

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year Cubs from your Leaders!—Akela.

Veterans' Youngsters Enjoy Christmas Party and Treats

Over fifty children enjoyed the Christmas party given by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion in the parish hall on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 20.

Approximately twenty-five mothers were entertained as well and the hall was beautifully gay for the occasion with a Christmas tree and the long tables bright to indicate the Christmas season.

Mrs. A. McCargar, Mrs. K. Boothe and Mrs. Howard Shannon arranged games for the small girls and boys and "Mrs. Santa Claus" was there to talk to them and to distribute the lovely gifts from the tree.

As well as a gift, each child was given a bag of nuts and a bag of candy.

Mrs. A. K. Elliott, Mrs. Dracas and Mrs. R. Armour planned the generous tea complete with ice cream which the children enjoyed, and were assisted by other members, while the mothers were

A number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. Fleming of Oliver drove down to their home on Wednesday evening, Dec. 17, to a dinner party which marked their fifteenth wedding anniversary.

All joined in wishing them continued happiness and enjoyed the pleasant time and delicious dinner.

Those driving down were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. White, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Steuart, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Butler, and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fredrickson.

Tax Rebate Up $7000 For Year

An interim grant of $5 million has been paid to 111 municipalities in B.C. as part of the SS & MA tax rebate, Hon. Einar M. Gunderson announced last week from Victoria.

This amount is $500,000 more than was paid last year and Summerland's share is $20,672.49, the biggest single payment which has ever been made to this municipality from the three percent sales tax rebate.

Peachland's share is $3,545.21, also a record payment.

Summerland municipal coffers are being enriched this year by $7,000 more than was estimated would be the receipts from the municipal aid rebate. Municipal council estimated it would receive $39,600, based on the 1951 receipts of $39,625.54.

In June, the municipality received a cheque for $25,238.62, as the rebate for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1952.

Coupled with the December cheque for $20,672.49, the total for the year comes to $45,911.11.

It is believed that this extra amount will probably be utilized to keep the tax rate at its present level for 1953.

Some of the other municipalities in the Okanagan received the following cheques this month as rebates from Victoria: Armstrong, $6,353; Enderby, $5,056; Kamloops, $44,410; Kelowna, $47,166; Penticton, $59,574; Salmon Arm city, $6,905; Salmon Arm municipality, $14,247; Vernon, $44,158; Glenmore, $6,467; North Kamloops, $9,404; Oliver, $4,752; Osoyoos, $4,272.

Christmas Carols Heard at Dale Home

With their ages ranging from ninety-three to two and a half weeks, over fifty were present to join in the delightful annual custom of Christmas carol singing at the home of Mrs. Dale and Miss Ruth Dale.

This year the occasion followed the Sunday evening service in the Baptist church on Dec. 21.

Greetings were received from Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Haskins from Birch River, Man; from Rev. and Mrs. Frank Haskins, Calgary; and from Capt. Rev. D. O. and Mrs. Knipfel, Calgary.

Among the numbers were five UBC students, Miss Jean Imayoshi, Mr. Roger Smith, Mr. Don Blacklock, Mr. Don Allison and Mr. Ross Tingley, and two teachers, Miss M. Imayoshi, Grand Forks, and Miss Valerie Tingley, Oliver, all of whom are home for Christmas.

Towards the conclusion of the evening of song, dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. W. M. Wright, Mrs. H. W. Brown, Mrs. B. A. Tingley, and Mrs. A. Arndt.

HOME AGAIN

Mr. J. E. Britton has returned home from Oliver where he taught agriculture in the Southern Okanagan junior-senior high school from September until the Christmas holiday time, while the regular teacher was away.

Mrs. A. J. Mann, who has spent several weeks visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Grayson in Moose Jaw has returned to her home on Lakeshore, Summerland.

Extension of Hours At Cascade Customs Sought in Ottawa

O. L. Jones, who announced last week that 24-hour service at Osoyoos customs house had been approved by the government at Ottawa, writes from Ottawa under dateline of December 17 that an extension of customs service at Cascade is also being considered.

The treasury department in Washington wrote Ottawa that a service to midnight in the winter months had been authorized. The department at Ottawa will announce by next week what arrangements it will make to co-operate with the American customs officials.

"It would appear, at the moment that our request for this extra service is about to be granted," Mr. Jones declares. "It would mean a great deal to travellers in that part of our province, especially, as it will mean a continuous bus service that otherwise would have been cancelled for the winter months."

Cubs Give Doll, Fire Truck to Hospital

Mr. C. J. Huddlestone, chairman of the Summerland hospital board, and Mrs. J. R. Butler, the matron, were ready to receive the 1st Summerland Cub Pack and their Cubmaster, Mrs. A. McCargar on Monday afternoon, Dec. 22, when they visited the hospital as part of their activity in doing their Christmas Good Turns.

They presented a suitcase which contained a doll, with her wardrobe beautifully made by Mrs. McCargar; and also a fire truck. These gifts are to be put in the children's ward for the enjoyment of the younger patients who are there from time to time.

The Cubmaster was accompanied by the Sixers, and later they were treated to mince pies, cookies and apple juice in the hospital dining-room.

Bank of Montreal Staff Holds Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Solly was the scene of the annual Bank of Montreal staff party on Wednesday evening, Dec. 17. Santa Claus came and there were gifts for all, while games added to the seasonal fun.

Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Solly showed some films, and later delicious refreshments were served.

Littaus Celebrate Wedding Anniversary

On Thursday evening, Dec. 18, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Littau celebrated their thirty-eighth wedding anniversary.

A number of their friends enjoyed a bountiful supper at their home, and they received many lovely gifts to honor the occasion.

Following supper there was music and a happy social evening made the day a memorable one for all present.

Final Crib Games Of Year at Legion

Twenty-four persons participated in the final cribbage tournament of the season at the Legion hall on December 18th, arranged by the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary. First prizes were won by Mrs. Fred Thompson and "Corky" Haddrell while consolation awards went to Mrs. T. Fisher and Frank Schwass.

School Pupils Join In Singing Carols

On Friday afternoon, Dec. 19, just before the MacDonald School closed for the Christmas holidays, all the students and their teachers, gathered in the auditorium for carol singing, which was delightful to hear.

Miss Dale was the pianist and Mrs. E. E. Bates conducted the singing, while Principal S. A. MacDonald wrote the numbers to be sung on a blackboard.

School trustees Chairman C. J. Bleasdale and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh were present.

Mr. MacDonald made reference to the fact that Mr. Bleasdale was leaving the board this year, and paid tribute to his fine service, and the new building which had been erected during his tenure.

VISITING HERE

Mr. Alan McKillop of Chilliwack was a weekend guest at the home of Mrs. Eva Steuart.

Mrs. S. Angove is Injured in Traffic

Friends in Summerland will be sorry to hear that Mrs. S. Angove, a former resident who visited here last summer, and her niece, Mrs. Archibald, who also has visited here, were injured in a traffic accident in Vancouver on Thursday, Dec. 18.

Both ladies were suffering from shock and abrasions and were taken to Vancouver General hospital. The accident was caused by foggy conditions in the coast city.

CHRISTMAS

The earth has grown old with its burden of care, But at Christmas it always is young; The heart of the jewel burns lustrous and fair, And its soul, full of music, breaks forth on the air When the song of the angels is sung.

It is coming, Old Earth, it is coming tonight! On the snowflakes which cover the sod The feet of the Christ-child fall gentle and white, And the voice of the Christ-child tells out with delight That mankind are the children of God. —Phillips Brooks.

NOTES FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

O. L. Jones Talks About Startling Currie Report

The major excitement in parliament this week has been the tabling of the Currie report on the department of national defence. The report itself condemns the slackness that has been prevalent in certain sections of the army for sometime.

The situation revealed in Mr. Currie's report is a serious one and charges a general breakdown in the administration of the army; mentioning the theft of railway spurs and several cars of cement, and such items as horses being hired by Petawawa personnel and placed on the payroll under the names of non-existent laborers.

Some of the speakers have demanded the resignation of Mr. Claxton, others feel that the fault lies with the army personnel and administration, but, to me, one of the most serious charges is the one whereby Mr. Stanley Knowles of the CCF produced the original report as prepared by Mr. Currie, showing the deletions and omissions that were made before the final one was presented.

The question naturally arises as to who are the responsible persons who had access to this original report and who had the power to alter certain apparently unpleasant features; and why was the report withheld before being presented to parliament immediately it was ready? Another strange fact that emerged was that the report was accompanied by a letter commenting on it by Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds, chief of the general staff, taking exception to some of the report's statements.

The strange part about it to me is that this report was intended as a report on the conduct of the general administration, including headquarters command which, naturally, would include General Simonds. Early this year, the minister of national defence assured the public that we had an internal audit with a travelling group of auditors and the auditor-general, to whom all reports are sent, plus outside assistance, to check on the system employed by the army in stock-keeping and so on. Naturally, the question arises why did this elaborate set-up break down. The incident has been touched upon in an editorial in the "Gazette" of December 17:

"If the debacle at Petawawa were a bolt from the blue, it would be surprising enough. But there have been ample warnings, in addition to those from the auditors: A series of thefts in army camps have taken place since the looting at Farnham in 1949.

"Instead of taking Farnham as a warning, the defence department showed an unfortunate pre-occupation with diminishing the estimate of the losses. In the end it reduced the total loss to its own satisfaction, to a little over $3,000.

"But it is perhaps doubtful (in view of what the Currie report reveals) that the defence department has really known the extent of losses in defence properties. Of highly doubtful accuracy were the figures provided to the House of Commons committee on defence expenditure. These figures claimed that the total losses due to theft or fraud (less the amount recovered) came to a total of only $85,809.75 for the two years from April 1, 1950 to March 31, 1952.

"But the theft and fraud in Petawawa came within that period. And the Currie report says that the accounting at Petawawa was so chaotic that it will never be possible to tell how great the losses were.

"And yet the defence minister said in the House of Commons last May: 'I think every honorable member of the house has enough information from his own experience... of theft and losses by theft, and particularly with respect to property like that in the department of national defence... to realize that a loss of $85,000 odd in two years by theft or fraud is extremely small!'"

Carols — gifts — trees — church — we hope they combine to bring Happiness this Yuletide Season.

And on Earth—Peace

By REV. C. D. POSTAL

Pastor, West Summerland Pentecostal Assembly

"And On Earth—Peace"—Luke 2:14

These are the words that proceeded forth from the lips of the heavenly assembly which appeared to the shepherds on the Judean hills as they tended their flocks; announcing the birth of the Saviour on that first Christmas.

To us, of this generation, they come almost as mockery out of the distant past as we view the conditions of the world today. Diplomatically, economically, politically, domestically, yes, and spiritually too, this world is anything but peaceful. With nation striving against nation, unrest, turmoil, "cold and hot" war alike raging; hatred, malice, internal national dangers in many nations threatening the very existence of democracy, it would cause one to wonder if this portion of the Divinely Inspired record has any meaning for us today.

Thanks be unto God, it does! Though history reveals only brief periods of time where world peace has reigned and, for the most part, presents a picture of long struggles, bloodshed and unrest—it is gratifying to note, in contrast to such a record, the history of personal experiences of individuals down through the years since these words were uttered by the angelic hosts. The Peace-giving Saviour has come into their hearts to abide!

The mission of the Saviour was a mission of peace. True, some day, in fulfillment of Bible prophecy, this world will know peace under the righteous rule of the "Prince of Peace", but the main objective of Christ's mission was to bring peace to the hearts of men. After all, what would a government of peace amount to without citizens who were filled with peace of heart and mind?

Bethlehem's manger was the scene of the earthly appearance of the Prince of Peace and His ministry accentuated the peace-giving touch upon storm-tossed and restless souls. Even the raging waves of the sea, hurled by relentless winds against a frail vessel with its cargo of disciples of the Lord obeyed the Saviour's "Peace be still". Sin, crime, vice, and the wickedness, so prevalent in the world today has, for centuries, caused unrest and turmoil in men's hearts. It has severed man's relationship with God and placed him at enmity with the infinite, because God cannot look upon sin. Clothed with the robe of humanity which He donned at His birth, the Son of God ministered to a needy world and then in a final and conclusive act of sacrifice of himself, put away sin, and completed the highway of faith over which sinful man may travel and be restored to a position of "peace with God". The apostle Paul in his inspired letter to the Roman church confirms this when he says: "Therefore being justified by faith, we have PEACE WITH GOD through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Multitudes down through the years since the coming of the Saviour have found this peace. Many denominations have found their inception began when one or more of their early followers called upon this Saviour to save them from their sin and experienced real peace of heart and soul. To all men, of all ages, of all stations in life—HE IS STILL THE PRINCE OF PEACE! May His peace permeate many lives at this Christmas season and may this peace-giving Saviour be afforded room in hearts and homes of our beloved Canada throughout the coming year!

God Gave to us His Son

By REV. GEORGE SCHNELL

Pastor of the Free Methodist Church

"But when the fullness of time was come, God sent forth his Son . . ."

The Christmas season is here again. It is a time of rejoicing throughout all Christendom. With it come hope, peace and blessing. The giving of gifts points back to the greatest gift of the universe—God giving to us his Son. This he did when the appointed time had come. The event had been foretold by prophet, priest and psalmist. Divine fulfillment now began to unfold.

World conditions were now favorable. Augustus Caesar had begun his peaceful reign; people could now take time to contemplate the work God was about to perform before their eyes. The Greek language was known almost world-wide. This would make it possible for the New Testament, when written, to be received and understood by people of every nation. The Roman roads had made travel by land comparatively easy, while Roman vessels were reaching the distant shores, thus hastening the spread of the Gospel. Justice and order were also enforced by Roman law. The Jewish nation, through which the Saviour was to come, had been educated by the types and shadows of the ceremonial law, to understand salvation by substitutionary death. It was at this time that God sent the angelic messenger to a virgin named Mary, announcing that she was to become the human parent of a Child to be conceived of the Holy Ghost. His name was to be called Jesus, for, said the messenger, "He shall save his people from their sins."

Here then, we are told that the purpose of his coming was to save his people from, (not in) their sins. That is, he was to provide a salvation that would deliver people from the power, as well as from the guilt of sin. This truth is beautifully expressed by Philip Doddridge in the lines: "Hark, the glad sound! the Saviour comes,"

The Saviour promised long: Let every heart prepare a throne, And every voice a song.

He comes the prisoner to release, In Satan's bondage held: The gates of brass before him burst The iron fetters yield.

He comes the broken heart to bind, The wounded soul to cure: And, with the treasures of his grace To enrich the humble poor.

Our glad hosannas, Prince of Peace, Thy welcome shall proclaim, And heaven's eternal arches ring With thy beloved name.

We raise our voices in song, to wish you and yours the very happiest Christmas season of all.

May the brightest star shine over your home this Christmas with light and warmth.

Rejoice in The Lord

By REV. H. R. WHITMORE

Minister of St. Andrew's and Lakeside United Churches

As we come to this Christmas 1952 let us rejoice because of the Advent of the Christ. Is that why we will rejoice? Or will we rejoice because of the presents we receive? Will we see just the gifts and compare them with what we gave, or will we rush down to change them at the store on Saturday morning? Will we see the Love behind the Gift? Will we see the Love of God behind the Gift of His Son? Are we rejoicing because we see a Babe in a manger or a Babe that will grow into a Man and be our Saviour? If at Christmas we see nothing but a cunning, cute, but helpless Babe we haven't much to rejoice about.

Let us go back to that First Christmas and see again what they saw. According to the first chapter of St. Matthew, Joseph did not only see a small babe, but he saw Immanuel, God with us. According to St. Luke's Gospel, Mary saw not only a small babe, but the Son of God. Elizabeth called Him "My Lord", Zechariah called Him "The Most High". The shepherds who came to the manger saw "A Saviour who is Christ the Lord" and the Wise Men beheld "The King of the Jews". Simeon in the Temple saw "A Light to lighten the Gentiles" and Anna "The redemption of her people Israel".

These people saw Jesus, but what did they see? One saw Hope, one saw Salvation, one saw Redemption, one saw a Saviour, one a King, one a Lord and another The Son of God.

What do we see this Christmas, a helpless babe lying in a manger? If that is all, we haven't much to rejoice about. It were better for us to do away with the manger if that is all we see. Let us this Christmas rejoice during the most difficult moments. Let us rejoice when clouds of war and unfavorable circumstances threaten from without and when

The Message of Christmas

By REV. A. F. IRVING

Pastor, Trout Creek Community Church of God

"And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the fields keeping watch over their flocks by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour which is Christ the Lord." (Luke 2:8-11).

Christmas season is always looked on as a joyful season. All recognize this, hence, in all walks of life happiness is sought at this season. Happiness, however is not always found by seeking for it, hence even at this season, many are disappointed. True happiness or lasting joy can be ours only as we locate, and go to, the proper source to obtain it.

Our Scripture, which gives us the origin of Christmas, tells us that it is "good tidings of great joy." Man though created holy, perfect and in the image of God, (Gen. 1:26) because of sin, lost that image so redemption was necessary if man was ever to be restored to a place of fellowship with God. God laid the plans for this, and made them known at various times through the Old Testament prophets; and then the scripture recorded in Luke chapter 2 tells us that this redeemer had now come to the world. To those who had waited, and looked for this for years truly it was a time of Joy. When Jesus was taken to the temple by Joseph and Mary at the age of 40 days, they were met by Simeon, a just and devout man who waited for the consolation of Israel, the coming of the Messiah. He took the baby Jesus in his arms and blessed God and said, "Lord now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation."

The shepherds on hearing this message, went to Bethlehem and found it to be true, and returned glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them." It brought joy to their hearts.

At this Christmas season as we again turn our thoughts to the song of the angels and the Bethlehem babe, born in a manger, may it bring real joy to our hearts as we realize God's great gift to mankind. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son." He came to be the Saviour of Mankind. As we invite Him to come into our hearts and abide there, we will find real lasting joy. May this be our experience at this Christmas season.

Our wish is that this Christmas will once again bring joy and peace on earth to all.

A Great Church Festival

By REV. CANON F. V. HARRISON
Rector of St. Stephen's Anglican Church

A Merry, Merry Christmas to you all. Christmas is a great Church Festival with a deep religious meaning.

In the revelation of God, we know that God means us to be happy, there should be "joy and peace in believing". Hence, at Christmas time we very rightly, do joy, for Christmas is the pledge of God's love towards us, for "God so loved the world that He sent His only begotten Son" and called His Name Jesus, for His coming was for our salvation.

Pause then for a brief time on Christmas Day to think of the spiritual meaning of our commemoration of the Birthday of the Lord. Come to Church to worship and adore. You parents, pause for a short moment to tell your children the story of the birth of Jesus. Be happy and joyous, and do not mar the day by any sordid excesses.

And as Christ came into the world nearly two thousand years ago, so this Christmas may He enter into your hearts, and the hearts of those you love, then, indeed, you will have joy and peace in believing and Christmas will truly be a merry day for you.

COME TO CHURCH FOR Christmas SERVICES

God Seeks Us

By REV. KEN KNIGHT
Minister, the First Baptist Church

... they saw the young child
Him...

Christmas reminds us of our Creator and our God, that we are not alone in the world. We can't shrug it off, even if we want to. God came to men at Bethlehem and He comes to us now, "stirring our souls broad awake", compelling us to consider Him, and ourselves in the light of His presence.

The Shepherds and the Wise-men came searching and found that God was seeking them. God seeks men yet, today, here, now. God seeks entrance into our lives, not just into the quiet moments but into the midst of our anxiety, our strivings and our carelessness. He will not be content with a nodding acquaintance or with polite recognition by once-a-year whispering of a creed or with a few moments of caroling. God seeks to possess us completely and always. We will never be content unless He does.

God's seeking may be in a strange way. It was that way in the long ago. A star, angels, a manger, a baby, these were the ways of God. Men looked for a display of pomp and power but instead simplicity and weakness were God's messengers. Indeed—

"They all were looking for a king
To slay their foes and lift them high:

Thou can't, a little baby thing
That made a woman cry."
Perhaps God seeks us through the well-known and the commonplace. Does He tug at our sleeve in the face of a child? Does our needy neighbor speak to us of "Our Father" and remind us that in Christ we are meant to be brothers? Does that self-sacrificing mother stir our memories and recall the Child who became a Man to die a Saviour? God seeks us and speaks to us in some way for He leaves no man without a sign of Himself.

When we find God and are found of Him there is only one fitting response for strong and weak alike... they saw the young child... and fell down and worshiped him... In God's presence we know that our prime need is not for the grocer or even the doctor, but for the Saviour. Like the Wisemen we find God and ourselves when we worship Him... Does Christmas remind us of God, His search for us and make us pause to worship? If Christmas does this for us then the sky will seem aglow with radiance, the heavenly host will sweep into our vision, there will be songs in the air which fall from no human lips. If we do not know such moments then alas for the meagreness of our inner lives. But if we enter upon these high moods, in our souls God in Christ will be with us!

Christmas Message 1952

By FATHER A. M. MEULENBERGH
Priest of the Church of the Holy Child

To wish anybody or everybody a merry Christmas or to offer the season's greetings to anyone is, in my humble opinion, taking on quite a responsibility. The person or persons to whom such a message is delivered must be, in mind, mood and disposition capable of receiving the message and benefitting by it. The Maker himself was aware of that and sent messengers at sundry times to prepare the minds of people to size up the importance of the first Christmas.

You see, what I would like to do, is find a personality of some kind that would prepare our minds to make the message appreciable and workable. Looking around; the first class of people to whom we could go are those who flood the world with explanations and comments since typewriting was invented. As good as it is, it might be somewhat second hand. The great personality that hits you in the eye about this time is red-coated, white bearded, "twinkle in the eye" Santa Claus. However, I am afraid Santa could not stand much drilling because we create personalities that express the innermost of aspirations of our being. Santa Claus is the incarnation thereof: "Nice presents and a jolly good time for all". Now don't get me wrong; he is part of our festivities due to our complex makeup.

For preparation and comments on Christmas I would rather go to the man that God himself chose to bear the message: John. Of Him, Isaiah said: "Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, who shall prepare the ways before thee." Now truly, there was the boy for me. He could live on very little food and clothing. He wanted the people to clear the way in their own mind for the Messiah. To the boys in the army he said: "Don't plunder and act rough; and to the tax collectors and business men: "Don't take more than what is coming to you," and to all: "Be sorry for the evil you have done." He was not afraid to tell the king what he thought of him.

You will never understand a man's message unless you know his language and Christ's language is that of holiness and improvement.

storms rage within. We have God with us! Are these adverse circumstances greater than God? God forbid us to feel or act as if we believed it. The Lord who made Heaven and earth is our God. The Lord is our refuge in times of trouble. When we hear our crosses—when we are persecuted for righteousness' sake—we can rejoice and be exceeding glad. God is with us. We see Hope, Salvation, Redemption, a Saviour, A King, the Son of God. Is not this the Christmas message?

If we fall short of this ideal of rejoicing in the Lord always, we need to become receptive to God. I feel that Phillips Brooks has captured this spirit when he says in that great carol,

"O holy Child of Bethlehem!
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin, and enter in;
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Emmanuel!"
May God bless you and yours, wherever they may be this Christmas Tide, and may you rejoice in the Lord always. Merry Christmas my Friends from your friend,

Harold Smith Retires After Lengthy Service

Harold Smith, who has been employed at the Summerland experimental station for 28 years, retired from the position of farm foreman on Tuesday, December 16.

His popularity with all concerned was evident at the party held in his honor at the IOOF hall on Tuesday evening. At this party, a handsome 400-day clock and fountain pen were presented to Harold and Olive Smith by their colleagues in the experimental farm and science services at Summerland.

In making the presentation Dr. Palmer said he hoped that the clock would be a constant reminder to Harold and Olive that they have a host of friends at Summerland. The pen was presented to make sure that Harold would write often to these friends.

The cheerful atmosphere at this party indicated what can be done to make a happy event out of what might otherwise prove a rather sad farewell.

Dorothy MacLeod, librarian for the experimental station and science services at Summerland, had charge of general organization for the party. She was ably assisted by a strong committee including Steve Cannings, Cyril Woodbridge, Eric Brinton, George Ryman, Don Fisher and Glen Archibald. The refreshments were the special responsibility of Elizabeth Theed assisted by Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, Mrs. Jean Eddie, Ingrid Peterson and Mrs. Kay Moyle.

Adrian Moyle carried out the

The special feature of the evening was the skit in ten spasms portraying the trials and tribulations of an experimental farm foreman. In this skit Don Fisher represented Harold Smith while Nat May and Dick Palmer took the parts of some 20 employees at the experimental station. There was plenty of humor and Harold Smith joined heartily in the laughs at his own expense.

A few dances brought the party to a close, the gathering realizing how much fun and happiness can be generated at small expense when all hands enter into an affair with enthusiasm and goodwill.

Mr. Smith's position is being taken over by George Ryman.

Col. A. W. McLean, Cloverdale; Tom Wilkinson, Kelowna (vegetables); V. E. Ellison, Oyama, Arthur Swenson, Ladner (field crops); J. M. Kosty, Vernon, Emil Anderson, Matsqui (fruit); A. H. The vegetable men sparked a drive for trade channel opening when they passed a resolution which would make direct trades of Canadian farm produce for United Kingdom manufacturers.

Seeking a plan "whereby farmers faced with total disaster through frost, flood, drought or epidemic might help themselves rather than depend on hand-outs from governments," the convention asked the federal government to set up a long-term "disaster loan" system as United States has done.

The federation also asked for a fairer share of the B.C. market for B.C. growers.

Christmas Can Be Safe, Merry; Take Precautions

Much of the joy of Christmas is in getting ready for it. Grandmother spent weeks preparing sugar plums and mince-cake. Toys and the trimmings on the tree were often the product of home talents.

Today even turkeys can be bought pre-cooked and the toys and decorations on the market are miracles of imagination and manufacturing skill. On the whole, they're safer.

Lighting sets, toy stoves, irons, trains and other electrically operated playthings which bear the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) label have been checked for fire safety. Decorations of metal, glass or asbestos are nonflammable. Cotton and paper can now be bought already flameproofed. It is the only kind to use.

Glistening effects for the base of the tree are easy to obtain by putting rock wool around it and sprinkling with mica. Aluminum foil used as decoration will sparkle like silver. None of these decorations will ignite. There's even a "snow" sold which will not flare when exposed to flame.

Cowboy suits and similar play clothes are now fashioned of fabrics that are flameproofed. There's an easy way to flameproof clothing, draperies, stuffed toys and even Santa Claus' whiskers right at home. Simply spray or rinse them with a solution of 9 oz. borax and 4 oz. boric acid dissolved in one gallon of water. The solution must be reapplied with each washing.

A few precautions to take while preparing for the festivities include putting up the tree, well supported and in water, in the coolest part of the room, away from fireplaces, heaters or radiators. Lighting sets should be checked against frayed cords or broken wires. Switches to operate tree lights or toy trains, and the trains themselves, should be a distance from the tree.

It is unwise to leave tree lights on when retiring or when no one is in the house. Electrical toys should be operated only in the presence of an adult.

It is well to dispose of gift wrappings immediately, in metal containers, not by burning in a fireplace.

At Christmas, when celebrations are likely to be gay, special care is needed with smoking.

It's fun getting ready for Christmas, and all the merrier when you know you're helping to make it safe!

Curlers Attract Visitors From Many Interior Points for Opening Play

Reeve C. E. Bentley officiated on Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 17, when the three sheets of artificial ice installed by the Summerland Curling club were christened in the presence of local club directors and curlers from many interior points. Kamloops, Salmon Arm, Vernon, Kelowna, Peachland, Penticton and Oliver sent curlers to help Summerland officially open their new rink and all were loud in their praise of this ambitious project. Cost of the artificial ice rink has run more than $15,000 the actual contract for the ice plant being $14,000.

Walter Toevs, curling club president, opened the ceremonies last week by welcoming the visitors and detailing some of the efforts of the club which had resulted in obtaining three sheets of artificial ice.

Reeve C. E. Bentley, in congratulating the curlers, drew attention to the community effort which the curling club represents and wished them luck in their future operations. Another who extended congratulations was George Stoll, president of the Summerland Rink Association, who added that it is his hope that artificial ice will be extended some day to the hockey and skating section of the big arena, as well as the curling side.

After congratulations were proffered by representatives of the visiting clubs, Walter Toevs threw the first rock and the new rink was declared officially open.

Among those who spoke were Ray Ottem, Kamloops; Ken Kinnard, Vernon; C. Morrow, Salmon Arm; N. Smith, Kelowna; John Brown, Peachland; Dick Topping, Oliver; Al Bloom, Princeton, and Ira Betts, Penticton, who had the contract for the ice plant installation.

"A wonderful achievement," was the opinion of Ken Kinnard of Vernon, who remarked on the splendid spirit evidenced by Summerland. "The whole building is a marvelous achievement," he concluded.

Before calling on John Brown of Peachland, President Toevs credited the Peachland club with being the driving force behind the Summerland effort, as Peachland showed the way with its artificial ice plant for curling.

"This is one of the swellest things which ever happened to this district," was Dick Topping's opinion. The Oliver curler, who brings a foursome from the cantaloupe centre twice a week to participate in the Summerland draws, is one of the most enthusiastic curlers in the interior.

President Toevs also credited the ladies' curling section with a great deal of assistance in bringing the artificial ice plant into fruition and introduced the ladies' president, Mrs. Harvey Eden.

She declared that ten ladies' rinks are operating now and they hope to increase that number to an even dozen early in the new year.

Kamloops Elks are in top spot in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League.

Our best wishes are on board Santa's sleigh as he spreads good cheer throughout the land. Our best to everyone.

Merchants in Fast Win Over Kelowna Five

Summerland Merchants, resplendent in their new uniforms, made it two straight in the new Interior senior men's basketball loop on Thursday evening at the school gym, Kelowna falling prey to the sharpshooters by a 57-50 count.

It was the third quarter which saw the Merchants pile up a commanding lead and hold off the last quarter desperate rally by the visitors. Play was fast until the final stanza when the Merchants deliberately slowed the pace and brought Kelowna into line.

Don Cristante showed the benefit of expert coaching when he played with Calgary Tech, not only being a tower of strength on defense but snaring 15 markers to lead the scoring parade.

Chuck Alkin and Wally Day were close behind, while Fred Kato was another tower of strength on the defense, although he did not figure strongly in the scoring column.

Ability to sink shots from the free throw line was a big factor in the Merchants' win, as they chalked up sixteen points out of 38 attempts. Kelowna bagged eight points on nineteen tries.

Merchants went into an early 14-10 lead in the first quarter, but were held even in the second stand to go into the second half with a 31-27 margin. They outplayed Kelowna 16-10 in the third quarter to go out in front 47-37. Kelowna fought back to lower the margin a bit but never looked really dangerous as Ritchie was thumbed off on five personals midway through the final quarter.

Merchants: Cristante 15, Alkin 13, Guidi 1, Day 11, L. Nesbitt 7, Don Nesbitt 1, Weltzel 8, Clark, Kato 1-57.

Kelowna: Gee 7, Ritchie 9, Bothem 14, Huddlestone, Bogress 13, Sanger 5, Busch 2-50.

Locals Sink Garagemen in Final Minutes

With Collins in the sinbin for a ten-minute misconduct penalty, Fred Kato set up two plays in less than a minute to give Summerland a 7-5 victory over the Garagemen on Sunday afternoon at Penticton arena in a tightly-contested commercial league puck fixture.

Summerland's victory came in the final minute and a half of the game which was a hotly-fought one from the start. The locals got a little too confident and blew a 5-3 lead but when the chips were down they made the one-man advantage pay off for two quick counters.

Richardson took Kato's pass to score the winner and Bill Eyre took Kato's second pass just fifteen seconds later to give some extra insurance, with a net-bulging shot.

Steininger pulled off the hat trick in the second stanza to give Summerland a 3-2 lead going into the final stanza. Watson evened the count and Kato and Hooker extended the lead only to have Gibson and Somas tie it up again.

In the other league fixture, Merchants topped the leading Packers' squad 2-1 to move into first place.

Lavish Ice Show Is Holiday Treat

"Coronation Carnival", lavish ice show to be presented in Penticton December 29 and 30 by the Connaught Skating Club, will feature Pamela William, 12-year-old club champion who plays the part of the princess in the "Beauty and the Beast" scene.

In this children's favorite Pamela will share top billing with Douglas Scott Eaton who plays the prince's role.

Pamela, who is expected to be a "top star" in the future, entranced Okanagan audiences with her performance in the Connaught Club's 4951 show staged in Penticton.

This year the ice show is sponsored by the Penticton Kiwanis Club. Theme of this year's presentation is a round-the-world trip in which many countries are visited including Great Britain.

Highlight of the world tour is the "stopover" in London for the Coronation. In this scene Miss Joan Nagle, who was Penticton's 1952 Peach Queen and later chosen Miss PNE, will play the part of the queen for the crowning ceremony.

Mrs. William Inglis Dies at Vancouver

A former Summerland resident, who moved to Vancouver about twenty years ago, Mrs. Jennie Inglis, wife of William Inglis, passed away at the coast city on Sunday, December 21, in her 70th year. She had been in poor health for some time.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one son, Dean Kingsley Inglis, and one daughter, Norma Margaret, both of Vancouver. Mr. George Inglis of Summerland is William Inglis' brother.

Funeral service was held Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 23 at 1 o'clock from Simmons & McBride Funeral Chapel, Vancouver, Rev. T. W. Reed, a former minister in Summerland, officiating. Interment was in Ocean View Burial Park.

Mrs. George Inglis left for Vancouver on Monday evening's train to attend the funeral service.

Culture of Northern B.C. Country Told To Horticulturists

Showing what can be grown in the Prince George district, and the noticeable difference in the quality of the northern light, was the interesting subject of the film shown by Dr. R. C. Palmer and Mr. Alex Watt at the Horticultural Society meeting on Friday evening, Dec. 19 in the parish hall.

This meeting was the annual Christmas party of the society combined with the regular December one. The film was lent by the Prince George experimental station.

From the same source came a wonderful color film of the life cycle of wild bees as they made their home in the bole of a large tree. The camera showed sections of the interior of the tree with the bees working, building up the cells, or feeding and grooming the queen. It was a remarkable film; one of the best shown of this sort to be in Summerland, and holding the rapt attention of the audience.

Christmas decorations of many kinds were demonstrated by Mrs. E. C. Bingham and Mrs. Alex Inch, who had used local greens and other material for the purpose. With ingenuity and great skill, they had created miniature scenes, or made bold effects with the use of plastic foam, paraffin wax bars, and evergreens. Colored candles and Christmas ornaments, pine cones either small or large were applied to advantage as well.

Later these lovely things were auctioned by Mr. Watt and brisk bidding brought well-worth-while sum for Horticultural Society work. Refreshments convened by Miss Doreen Tait concluded the entertaining evening.

Many Varieties of Sweet Corn Available

Most people, when asked what variety of sweet corn they prefer above all others, reply "Golden Bantam", says L. G. Denby, of the Summerland experimental station. Up until five years or so ago this was quite understandable; but during the past ten years tremendous strides have been made by plant breeders working with corn hybrids, and too few people seem to be aware of the progress made, he says.

It is now possible to plant varieties of sweet corn which will mature at different times throughout the summer and fall, to give a succession of small, medium, or large cobs of very high quality corn, for either table use, canning or freezing.

It is true that any one variety may not perform equally well in all places, and under all conditions. However, the following list is comprised of those varieties which, in the past three years, have shown most promise in the trials conducted at the Summerland experimental station: (Early) Miniature North Star (10 days earlier than

Arranging Christmas Flowers

Many people don't make the best of the cut flowers they get at Christmas time because they feel they are "no good at arranging flowers". While some are more adept at displaying flowers to best advantage, the experts point out that anybody can make a good showing if a few simple principles are followed and a little imagination is added for good measure.

It is not necessary to have a great profusion of flowers to get striking effects, but always work for a triangular effect by cutting the stems to different lengths. If the flowers are to be seen from all angles, on the dining-room table for instance, the arrangement should have two "faces". Single faced arrangements are more suited to the mantle or for a corner.

Flower arrangements can often be improved by additional foliage. Pieces of the Christmas tree or small branches of cedar are often invaluable. If the modern trough type of vase is used, the length of the trough or the diameter of a bowl should be about two-thirds the height of the tallest flower in the triangular arrangement.

Striking effects can be gained in floral arrangements by keeping dark vivid colored flowers low and in the centre of a triangular arrangement. This creates a centre of interest which immediately strikes the eye. If flowers with particularly heavy stems are to be displayed in a large vase, a small ball of chicken wire in the mouth of the vase will make an excellent support and prevent the display from collapsing.

And don't overlook the possibility of using an everyday ornament in conjunction with a floral arrangement; use lots of imagination at this point, say the experts. Naturally at Christmas time one thinks of candlesticks with red candles. Often something of this kind can be used effectively to balance a mantle display or one that is in a corner, and turn it from merely flowers in a vase into a striking floral display.

B.C. Federal Minister to Visit Valley

VERNON — Canada's new federal minister of fisheries, Hon. James Sinclair, will be a guest of the Liberal party in Vernon next month.

Scheduled to speak here January 13, Mr. Sinclair's tentative program consists of addresses to the board of trade at a luncheon, to the students of Vernon high school in the afternoon and to the Okanagan-Revelstoke Liberal Assn. in the evening.

The evening political meeting will be the first annual session of the group. At that time, permanent officers will be elected.

Mr. Sinclair recently was named to succeed Hon. R. W. Mayhew as minister of fisheries. Mr. Mayhew, MP for Victoria, became Canada's ambassador to Japan.

Golden Bantam, Gold Rush, Seneca Golden, Improved Carmelcross, Barbecue; (mid-season) Seneca Arrow, Iochief, Iona, Golden Cross Bantam; (late) Erie, Flagship, Huron.

It is to be hoped that more and more Okanagan gardeners will look their seed catalogues over carefully and try a few of the above varieties, Mr. Denby concludes.

Slick Trick in Korea

Warmly dressed in military hand-me-downs, these Korean youngsters have fun with their homemade sleds on the ice of a hard-frozen rice paddy somewhere in South Korea. The sleds are propelled with sticks having spikes protruding from the ends.

Two Stores Entered in Holidays

Two attempted robberies of local stores with little loss in either case has mystified police here.

On Saturday morning, some time between midnight and three o'clock, the new Super-Valu store was entered by a broken basement window, cash registers were broken open but as far as can be ascertained nothing was taken.

Sometime between Christmas Eve and Saturday morning J. Gowans store in lower town was also believed entered and some cigarettes allegedly taken.

More than one person is believed involved in the Super-Valu break-in as the big cash registers moved from the front of the store to near the office weigh 180 pounds apiece.

Two unidentified young people are said to have abandoned a stolen Pontiac car near Trout Creek in that holiday period, leading police to believe that they may have been the culprits.

Nothing discovered in the car, however, would tend to incriminate them.

Entry to the Super-Valu was made through a broken basement window. The burglars were careful to restore the window to nearly exactly the same position it had been in before their entry. They left by the main service door in the rear.

Their evident presence was discovered by Art Sladen when he arrived for work early Saturday morning.

It is believed they moved one cash register onto a shopping wagon and rolled it to the rear, where the cart collapsed under the heavy weight. They jimmied open that register and repeated the performance with the second register moved from the front of the store.

They also opened a cash drawer in the Super-Valu office. Although there was about $200 in silver in the three registers, they did not attempt to remove any of it, evidently interested only in the "folding stuff" which had been removed to safekeeping.

As far as can be ascertained, no goods were stolen.

Mr. Gowans did not discover that his store had been entered until nearly noon on Saturday. Some soap had been rubbed on his safe, but no other attempt was made to open it. Although it cannot be stated definitely, a small quantity of cigarettes appeared to have been removed.

Police state they can find no trace of any forcible entry into the Gowans' store.

The southern district council which will discuss soft fruit pooling as the main topic.

Soft Fruit Changes Take Precedence Over Apple Topics in Resolutions Before BCFG Convention Next Month

Emphasis in discussions at the 64th annual convention of the B.C. Fruit Growers' Assn. to be held in Vernon January 13 to 15 will be on soft fruits rather than apples, it is revealed from a perusal of the resolutions which are being submitted to the local growers next Wednesday, January 7, in an afternoon meeting.

Generally, most of the discussions at BCFGA conventions centre on apples, but this year the southern districts especially have a preponderance of resolutions dealing with soft fruit.

The concern which most growers felt over the declining price levels and the quantity of poor quality fruit being sent to markets is visible in the resolutions which have been submitted.

On the other hand, the buoyant apple market, with the generally healthy level of returns anticipated have made apple growers more satisfied.

An instance is in Section Three of the 70-odd resolutions, which were submitted by locals throughout the tree-fruit area of the interior of B.C. This section is labelled "Pooling and Packing," with three devoted to apple pooling and thirteen resolutions directed towards various types of soft fruits.

First resolution on the agenda is a combined effort, made up of recommendations from Peachland, Oliver, Summerland and Osoyoos all desiring various commodity committees be set up by the industry.

The highly successful activities of the pear committee have been a boon to soft fruit growers to seek commodity committees for cherries, apricots, peaches and pears, separately or in suitable combination.

Osoyoos is seeking methods of processing or canning more soft fruit because of the increasing competition from the south and higher freight rates on the fresh commodity.

A test for color blindness for fruit inspectors, sorters, and others involved in deciding the fate of fruit is being sought by Penticton.

Prohibition of the sale of all culls by packinghouses is recommended by Peachland and will probably need further explanation before it receives entire support from the convention.

Rather a large order comes from Oyoama growers who want the entomological laboratory in Summerland to take steps to substitute insecticides which are killing "beneficial parasites" and probably causing soil toxicity, "with those designed to control a specific pest, doing the least possible harm to beneficial insects and wildlife, and that these materials be of a non-accumulative nature in soil structures."

Would Revise Tax Structure

Vernon and Creston have joined together in a resolution which seeks to have the government at the next session of the legislature to "revise the tax structure and assessment methods to bring about a more equitable distribution of the tax load, to lift the unbearable load being borne by farm lands."

Various exemptions for farmers from sales taxes are being sought, including some from Summerland.

Local Growers to Discuss Resolutions At General Session

Next Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 7, the 400-odd growers of this district will have an opportunity to peruse resolutions for the big BCFG convention at Vernon and inform their delegates what action they desire.

There are 70-odd resolutions to come before the growers' parliament which meets in Vernon January 13, 14 and 15.

This annual growers' meeting is the second one to be held, the first having introduced resolutions for compilation at the convention.

Two officials of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. will come to Summerland next week for this meeting to give growers the benefit of their experience in dealing with subjects which will be under discussion.

Also billed for Monday afternoon at Penticton is a meeting of

Nu-Way Sold To Hastings Street Firm

Announcement is made in the advertising columns of this issue of the sale at the first of the year of the Nu-Way Cafe and Hotel premises, a building which was known as the Premier hotel, in former days.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Holmes have sold the business and the building to Holmes & Wade Ltd., hardware concern, who, it is understood, will move from its present Hastings street location in the spring.

In the meantime, the cafe is being closed but the hotel portion of the business will continue under the new ownership.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes are moving to the former Laidlaw home on Hastings street but their business life plans are uncertain for the time being. They will not be moving from Summerland district, their friends will be pleased to learn.

It is understood that Norman Holmes and Coell Wade, whose firm becomes the new owners of the Granville street property, intend a complete modernization of the building's interior in order to present a modern hardware premises with up-to-date fixtures for display purposes.

First 1953 Council Session Next Monday

Next meeting of municipal council will be held on Monday, Jan. 5, as required by statute. The 1952 council holds its windup session and then adjourns to meet at the newly-elected 1953 council. Actually there is no change in personnel.

REQUEST STREET LIGHT

Summerland General hospital's request for a street light on the road past the hospital parking lot has been referred to Councillor F. E. Atkinson for action.

New Police Contract Accepted Here Subject to Any Revision

Summerland municipal council has agreed to accept the RCMP 1953 contract to police Summerland municipality at an advanced cost of approximately $700.

On Tuesday, at the final meeting for 1952, council agreed to sign the new agreement calling for an increase of $600 per man per annum, subject to any revision which may come about following representations by the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

Basic rate for RCMP constables is now $2,000 per man per annum, instead of $1,400 as was the previous arrangement. The first 3100 miles of travel is free to the municipality. After that mileage, the municipality will pay nine cents per mile.

Also, the municipality will agree to supply proper quarters, heat, light and janitor services and a garage for the police car, if necessary. It was explained that arrangements have always been made for a nominal rental fee for a garage for the police car when over severe winter weather occurs.

In the case of Summerland, the district policeman will also be provided with office facilities and the municipal council plans on submitting a counter bill for $30 per month rental to the RCMP.

It was stated at last week's council session that Inspector Bloxham of the RCMP, who interviewed Reeve C. E. Bentley and Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith recently, declared that a nominal rental fee would be agreeable to the police force.

Based on the mileage covered by the police car in the previous twelve months, Clerk Gordon Smith estimated that travelling would cost the municipality about $700, bringing the total cost of policing the municipality, apart from office facilities, to $2,700 estimated for 1953.

In 1952 the police cost will be in the neighborhood of $2,000 to $2,100.

Local Police Would Cost More

"You couldn't start to do it for that amount," declared Reeve C. E. Bentley in commenting that a local policeman would cost far more. "There isn't much you can kick at."

Clerk Gordon Smith considered that the $600 increase should be divided between the three governments, federal provincial and municipal, instead of the municipality shouldering the entire increased load.

"There isn't much we can do about it," was Councillor H. J. Barkwill's comment.

Trail council wrote Summerland protesting the increase as being too great for one time and expressing dissatisfaction. Trail wanted all other municipalities to protest.

Councillor H. E. J. Richards.

RCMP Hope for Continuation Of Traffic-Free Holiday

"Drive carefully, that's all." Such was the terse comment of RCMP Constable I. G. Thorsteinson when asked if he would wish to issue a warning to those who intend to celebrate New Year's Eve in the traditional manner overnight.

No Major Change In Assessment Roll Next Year

There will be no major changes in the 1953 assessment roll, J. E. Sheeloy, municipal assessor, stated this morning within an hour of the release through the mails of the new assessment notices.

The assessment roll will show an increase, but only because of additional improvements such as new homes, business houses, and additions to residential and business enterprises.

He declared that the roll has not been totaled and he could not give any idea as to the amount the assessment roll would be increased. Minor adjustments in assessment values have also been made given a change of status in relation to other sections, he stated.

The district has been particularly free from accidents over the holiday so far, and the RCMP are keeping their fingers crossed in the hope that this fortunate state of affairs will continue into the New Year.

A truck driven by John Park slid off the road below the Baptist church early Monday morning and turned over into the Wharton-Dunn orchard but that was the only accident reported to the police since before Christmas.

The district celebrated Christmas in traditional manner with most persons remaining home to enjoy the day with their children and family.

Boxing Day was a day for visiting and extending greetings to friends and neighbors. Curling and other sports occupied the limelight over the Christmas weekend but the lack of snow was a disappointment to those young people who had new sleighs, skis or skates.

The coming holiday will see a continuation of the visiting trend with all friends joining in ushering in the New Year.

Dances are being held at various places tonight. The Legion and Legion Auxiliary are staging a party for their members and friends at the Legion hall. Jaycees are gathering at the IOOF hall. The Youth Centre is to be a scene of a party especially arranged for family units and for the younger people of the community.

Stores closed at 12 noon today and will not re-open until Saturday Jan. 8. From then on until the end of winter, stores will close at 5:30 on week-days and 8 o'clock Saturday nights.

BREAKWATER LIGHTING

KELOWNA—Included in the 1953 estimates of the federal government will be the cost of installing lighting on the breakwater adjacent to the Kelowna Yacht club. The city must undertake to pay for the cost of power and maintenance for 15 years with an option of renewal for another 20 years.

NAVY BUYS CHEESE

SALMON ARM—The Canadian Navy wired for and obtained a shipment of 600 pounds of Salmon Arm cheese to be delivered for Christmas to various ships and naval depots on the west coast.

Looking Backward and Forward

ON the final day of the year, it is customary to look back over the hopes, achievements and failures of the past twelve months and then look forward to the months ahead and try to plan for their fulfillment in the manner best suited for ourselves, our friends and our community.

In looking back over 1952, the one feature which immediately strikes home is the economic factor. For the first time since 1949, this district and the rest of the South Okanagan had a bumper soft fruit crop.

This meant a great deal to the producer, the men and women who are directly employed by the producer and the plants operating for him, and for the merchants and business men whose daily livelihood depends on the success or failure of each year's crop.

With a bumper soft fruit yield, there has been full employment since early summer. This has meant an increased buying power in the community, has meant that back debts have been paid off, credit re-established and business has been back on a more established basis.

This has meant a brighter business prospect generally. It has been easier to do business and more sales have been made locally with the general lifting of credit restrictions.

Municipally, it has been an ordinary year, with one exception; the new municipal hall tenders were let and the building will be opened early in 1953, providing decent office space for the municipal staff for the first time in years.

Electrical consumption has risen steadily, more persons have purchased electrical appliances to raise their standard of living, and the municipality has gone out of its way to provide service for its prospective users.

The water department has gone a long way towards completing its capital construction on main flumes, and the roads department has extended to a small degree its blacktopping in the business area and is now prepared to branch into wider distribution of permanent road surfacing.

Of main importance to hundreds of persons who may be affected is the probable location of the highway as it will be built through Summerland municipality. The department is now considering closely all possible routes and will be expected to make an announcement of the chosen route in the near future.

From a sports standpoint, Summerland baseball clubs had a good average year, the senior team embarking on an ambitious program in the new all-Canadian league and coming through with creditable displays. Hockey saw the Penticton and district commercial league title come to Summerland for the first time.

Major sports undertaking, of course, was the raising of sufficient funds to install three sheets of artificial ice in the arena for the benefit of the curling club.

This has been a great achievement and should be the first step in a plan to make the Summerland arena a self sufficient unit. This cannot be done without the help of the citizens at large through the municipal council. The time is rapidly approaching when the assistance of the council should be forthcoming now that many other projects have been successfully concluded.

It is still the opinion of this newspaper that a far-sighted view can easily recognize the necessity of the municipality or some such agency acquiring that portion of the Steuart property immediately west of the arena and south of the Municipal hall for park and parking purposes.

It is our New Year's hope that some steps will be taken in 1953 to the end that this property will be set aside for all time as an additional park and sports playground, a fitting addition to the Living Memorial park playground just across the street.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

Since New Year's is traditionally a time for peering into the future, we found it entertaining at our New Year's Eve party last year to have everybody guess what the answers would be to twelve questions. Here they are:

1. Will St. Laurent still be Prime Minister of Canada one year from tonight?
2. Who will be the Republican candidate for U.S. president?
3. Who will be the Democratic ditto?
4. Who will win the election in the U.S.A.?
5. Will Churchill still be Prime Minister of Great Britain one year from tonight?
6. Will the war in Korea end in 1952?
7. Will there be war between the west and Russia in 1952?
8. Will there be an election in B.C. in 1952?
9. If so, who will win it?

So far, the questions are on a provincial, national, and international scale, mostly copied, as was the basic idea, from Elmore Philippott. But we added one question of purely local interest:

I see that I guessed right on that one; in fact, my score was 70% right on the ten questions already listed. I won't tell you what the others did, because reading the questions and answers and seeing how we guessed is a special feature of our New Year's party this year. It's amazing, looking back, to see how dim and uncertain things appeared, a year ago, which now so obviously could only have happened the one way. Hindsight is so much clearer than foresight.

But the other two questions. Well, they were of a more personal kind.

11. Will the Blanks have another baby this year?
  12. Will the Whozits build their new house this year?
- Which reminds me, I must look up and see if the Blanks and the Whozits guessed right on questions over which they may have had more control than the others. Yes, by golly they did!

This year, of course, we won't be asking the same questions. Number 7 remains perhaps the most important question of our time, with number 6 high on the list too. Numbers 5, 8 and 9 are still good, oddly enough. But the first four questions are out. (I'll bet if we'd put down 'Will St. Laurent visit Summerland in 1952?' nobody would have guessed 'Yes'. What will we substitute for the four 'struck-out' questions on international affairs this year? That will have to be settled democratically at our party, but one I'd like to insert is: Will the mystery of the Flying Saucers be solved in 1953?

For I believe that these flying saucers may well be more than spots on people's imaginations, actually visitors from a more advanced civilization on another planet. Not only more advanced scientifically, but mentally too; for whereas our first thought, if we're ing saucers, would be to kill and conquer with them, the beings behind them seem to be merely peaceful observers. I'm very interested to learn what they really are.

In local affairs, there will be an election for reeve in 1953; there's a good place for a question. And the present weather picture, worrying many orchardists, gives rise to another; is 1953 going to be a drier year than those we have had recently? Which, of course, starts another question, by chain reaction: Will Summerland have sufficient irrigation water to meet its needs if the coming year is dry?

As for the personal questions, they'll have to be different. I can't imagine the Whozits building another new house, since they'll be still finishing the present one. And it's reasonably certain that the Blanks won't have another baby.

But maybe somebody else will. And there are always the little matters of getting new cars, going for longed-for trips, and so on. I don't think we'll have any difficulty in filling out twelve—or twenty—questions on the last evening in 1952.

Sportsmen of the district are asked to purchase food for the pheasant, partridge, and quail, which on account of the deep snow are finding food scarce these days.

Building plans for the spring have already been made known by Walters Ltd, who have made arrangements to increase the size of their packing house again this spring.

Mrs. Bleasdale and little Bobby went up to Kamloops last weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe to spend a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Tingley have returned from the coast where they have been spending their holidays.

TRADE BOARD GRANTED $150 FOR PROMOTION

Although the new issue of board of trade pamphlets has not come off the press yet, they are being projected, municipal council was informed last week. As a result, it was decided to pay the $150 grant to the board in lieu of tourist promotion work. The board expended over $25 in a new issue of Okanagan maps for the benefit of tourists going through the municipality.

Singers, Players Church Choirs Present Concert

The Singers' and Players' Club assisted by members of the various church choirs presented a Christmas program on Thursday evening, Dec. 18, in the school auditorium to an appreciative audience that almost filled the big hall. The concert was given to the community without any charge as a "thank-you" for the generous support that has been given the Singers' and Players' Club in the past. This is the first time in many years that the club has put on a combined program of music and drama, and this production was so well received that the members feel encouraged to make it an annual affair.

Mr. Clarke Wilkin was chairman for the evening and announced the various items on the program. Included in the musical numbers were several in which the audience was asked to participate, so that community singing was greatly enjoyed in the lovely mood of anticipation preceding Christmas Day. Many of the songs were the traditional carols, and there was music from Handel's Messiah with its triumphant note.

The program follows: O Come All Ye Faithful; Hark, The Herald Angels Sing; And the Glory of the Lord, from the Messiah; O Little Town of Bethlehem; Double quartette, A Joyous Carol, sung by Mrs. A. Watt, Mrs. D. Turnbull, Mrs. D. Millward, Mrs. K. Boothe, Mr. Ben Newton, Mr. Clive Atkinson, Mr. Delmar Dunham, and Mr. Roy Angus; Away In The Manger, especially for the children; The Lord's Prayer; The First Nowell; A ladies' trio, sung by Mrs. Clarke Wilkin, Mrs. Flora Bergstrom, and Mrs. Howard Milne; A trio of carols, Good King Wenceslas, Silent Night, and God Rest You Merry Gentlemen; ending with the Hallelujah Chorus from Handel.

The singing was ably conducted by Mr. W. A. Steuart, with Mrs. Delmar Dunham, accompanying beautifully.

The musical program was divided into two parts and in the interlude a one-act play by Robert Finch, The Desert Shall Rejoice, a Christmas story in a modern setting, was featured.

The play was directed by Mr. Alan Butler, and make-up done by Mr. and Mrs. Lacey Fisher.

In the cast were Mr. Alan McKenzie, Mr. Blair Underwood, Mr. Alan Butler, Mr. Charlie Bennie, Mrs. Gwen O'Leary, Mrs. Alan Butler and Val Tripe, Gerry Washington and Don Cruickshank, who took the parts of three cowboys. Mr. McKenzie was Nick, an Italian tourist camp owner.

The play was given enthusiastic applause, and added to the generous program, which was so much enjoyed.

serve the whole of the valley, or to work in conjunction with the private stations.

"Carrying public service such as school broadcasts might cause private stations to lose income. We want to be sure we do what is right. It is not so much a matter of capital cost but rather one of maintenance."

Of the change in the Kelowna programs from opera broadcasts to hockey broadcasts on Wednesdays Mr. Caple said that permission to discontinue the musical programs was granted at public request.

"Music lovers then asked us for the return of the opera and we have arranged to carry that program at a different time."

MUNICIPAL OFFICE CLOSED
 Formal authority for the closing of the municipal office on Saturday, December 27, was granted by council at its December 23 meeting.

RECIPE HINTS

Friends dropping in? Here's an informal buffet supper to greet them. Trays of assorted cooked meats, breads, relishes, and a big bowl of zesty cheese rarebit with crisp crackers. Anyone can put up a quick and filling meal on the spur of the moment with these cold cuts ready in the refrigerator.

BROWNIE CHATTER

Meetings of both Summerland Brownie packs will be resumed the first week in the New Year—the 1st pack on January 6 and the 2nd pack on January 9.

Will you please remember to bring your new notebook and a tiny pencil in your uniform pocket, Brownies?

Let us see if you can all start the New Year well by bringing your Fairy Gold every week.—Brown Owl.

Youth Centre Reduces Debt By $1,500

The Summerland Youth Centre drive for funds has now virtually closed with the net result that the debt against the building has been reduced from approximately $2,500 to $1,000.

E. E. Atkinson, president and E. R. Butler, treasurer, have both expressed entire satisfaction with the result of the drive and are especially pleased with the co-operation received from canvassers and canvassed alike.

The actual amount raised was $1,425 at the last count, while other funds on hand allowed the association to reduce its bank loan to $1,000. This will mean a much easier financing job for the association with the reduction in annual loan charges, it has been pointed out.

RENEWS LOT RENTAL.
 George Furuya has rented again the north half of lot 33, map 439 from the municipality for 1953.

Scouts Plan Tree Planting Project Here

Municipal council felt that the new project of the local Scout group committees for the establishment of a tree planting project in Summerland area a really worthwhile effort, when acquainted with the details at last week's session.

The Scout groups hope to lease a portion of land near Kelly's mine and plant trees for eventual Christmas tree sale. The project would be the means of teaching the Scouts the value of conservation of forests and could also be a profitable business in a few years time, it was explained by A. J. McKenzie on behalf of the Scouts.

Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith observed that such a project in that vicinity would lend itself to a general park development scheme.

Council has approved the project in principle and has agreed to lease the land at a nominal fee.

Girls' Choir Delights Hospital at Xmas

The Summerland Girls' Choir under direction of their leader, Miss Kay Hamilton, delighted patients and staff of Summerland General hospital on Friday evening, Dec. 19, during visiting hours with their singing.

Twenty-one girls grouped themselves on the stairway of the hospital and to Ronnie-Downes' violin accompaniment sang Christmas carols. As well as this they gave several unaccompanied choir numbers.

This is the first time that Ronnie has accompanied the annual carol singing at the hospital and his violin music was enjoyed as well.

Cub Calls

The Youth Centre was bright with gay lights from a giant Christmas tree on Monday, December 22 when the 1st Summerland Cub pack entertained parents and friends at a lively party. After parade circle the boys did a jungle dance followed by an exciting bean bag relay in which all parents took part.

Mr. Scrivener, district field commissioner, then presented the following badges: Second star to Wayne McCargar, Roger Solly, Victor Blewett, Lowell Laidlaw, Mayne McCutcheon, Tommy Milne, Richard Milne, Don McArthur; home craft badge to Wayne McCargar and gardener's badge to John Lott.

An interesting ceremony took place when Eddie Toews and Garry Olsen were invested and welcomed into the pack.

Victor Smith was awarded the ten-year service star, a tribute to his faithful service in Cub and Scout activities. The pack was commended for winning the planned achievement award for 1952 ahead of the scheduled time.

With a merry jingle of bells Santa Claus arrived to distribute gifts to all present and to take orders

CBC Booster Station May be Spring Feature

PENTICTON—Justification for complaints that listeners cannot hear CBC programs in the South Okanagan was admitted by Kenneth Caple, regional superintendent, in addressing a recent meeting of the Penticton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Something may be done this spring, but this eventuality entirely depends on the CBC budget, he emphasized.

Mr. Caple is a former principal of Summerland High School and has a host of friends in the district.

"The object of the CBC is to provide the best in Canadian music and drama for the Canadian people," declared Mr. Caple. "The CBC is not in competition with private stations. . . Part of our revenue goes to subsidize Canadian orchestras."

Referring to booster stations to meet Okanagan needs in relation to all CBC broadcasts, Mr. Caple stated: "Our problem is to decide if we should put in booster stations in different parts of the valley or put in one powerful station to

Half Price Allowed For Wire Stripped From Fan Marker Line

All the wire has been stripped from the line which the municipality has purchased from the federal government and which formerly fed the fan marker near Greata Ranch.

This was the report to council last week when it was stated that 48,000 feet of wire are involved. Only the poles which line the highway to Greata Ranch remain standing, the rest having been removed.

At the suggestion of Councillor Atkinson, a price has been established for this purchased equipment for use in local installations. Such wire costs 35 cents per pound new and council will use it for line extensions within the municipality at a discount of fifty percent.

This will help considerably on the proposal to extend a line to service the W. Hepperle property, it was suggested.

Legal Advisor is Studying Arnett Claim

John S. Aikins, municipal legal advisor, has discussed the Gulch road property which W. Arnett claims belongs to him with Reeve C. E. Bentley and is now searching deeds to establish the municipality's position, last week's council session was informed.

Mr. Arnett claims that the Gulch road is on his property and wishes council to purchase about one acre. A recent survey by R. A. Barton shows that the Gulch road has been constructed mainly on the Russel and Arnett properties.

Council took no action as further advice is to come from Mr. Aikins.

FOR THE NEW YEAR

Swing silver bells,
Swing in your tower,
Ring out a peal,
Awaken notes of power,
And chimes of Love,
Let them be heard,
Below, around, above.

Then shall the sighing
Of the sorrowful
Melt into gladness,
And the dumb shall sing.
Then shall the wanderer
Return again,

And in returning rest,
Then shall all evil fall,
And those oppressed
Shall join the anthem
In a world redeemed.

Boxing Day Nuptials at Redcliff, Alberta of Much Interest Here

Of interest in Summerland is the wedding of Peter John Graham, elder son of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Graham, Salmon Arm, formerly of Summerland, which took place on Boxing Day, Dec. 26, at two o'clock in the afternoon, in St. Ambrose church, Redcliff, Alberta, where he was united in marriage with Madelaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Britz, Redcliff.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon John W. Carter, RD, BA, LTh.

For the Christmas wedding the church was beautifully decorated with cedar from Salmon Arm, holly and baskets of white chrysanthemums on either side of the chancel, and guest pews marked with sprays of cedar, holly, and silver bows. The altar flowers were white chrysanthemums.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful wedding gown of imported white transparent silk velvet in medieval tradition, inspired by Ivanhoe. The fitted bodice was outlined around the off-the-shoulder neckline with pearls and clouds of tulle floated from the sleeves and drifted over the skirt which fell into a graceful train. A chapel veil and pleated tulle helmet was secured to the head with two rows of pearls. The lovely bridal bouquet was of calla lilies and silver holly.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Joan Britt as maid of honor, and the matron of honor was Mrs. T. Flemmer of Medicine Hat. The costumes of the attendants were carried out in medieval tradition, too, in silk velvet in scarlet and Royal blue with matching feather, Juliet caps, and cascading bouquets of white 'mums.

These, with brilliant red of the RCMP uniforms worn by the groom, who is stationed at Nanton, Alta., and his best man, Const. L. M.

Warner, of Coumts, Alta., and the ushers, Cpl. D. T. L. Williams and Const. W. Hewitt, both of Medicine Hat, made a colorful and beautiful picture.

The bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Cox of Redcliff.

The parents of the bride and groom and the bridal party received at the reception which was held at The Glass House, Medicine Hat, with about forty-five present.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Britt wore a charming blue crepe and lace gown with navy accessories, and corsage of pink roses and 'mums. Mrs. Graham was gowned in a becoming, smart navy wool frock, with navy accessories, and in her corsage were pink roses and chrysanthemums.

The bride's table was delightful with an Italian cutwork cloth, the wedding cake flanked by white tapers, and low bowls of roses and 'mums.

Rev. Canon Carter proposed the toast to the bride with the groom responding, and congratulatory telegrams were received from the groom's grandmother, Mrs. I. P. Barnes, Salmon Arm, with others from Salmon Arm, Victoria, Toronto and Bermuda.

For motoring south by car the bride changed to a pretty knitted suit in navy, with navy accessories, light blue topcoat and corsage of pink roses.

Const. and Mrs. Graham will make their home at Nanton.

Out-of-town guests included the groom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Graham and his brother, Mr. Tom Graham, Salmon Arm; Mr. and Mrs. Myles Dodwell, Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. Ericksons, Coaldale, Alta.; Mrs. Gouiding, Coumts, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davison, Miss Davison, Bowell, and Mrs. Saunders of Windsor, Ont.

FREE ACCOUNT BOOK AID TO ECONOMY IN ORCHARD OPERATION

Bank of Montreal Offers Valuable Help to Building Bigger Profits

Every farmer knows that real profits are usually the outcome of real planning. An accurate knowledge of his costs and yields helps him make his farm pay better. The Bank of Montreal has available a Farm Account Book which gives him just this information. It reduces the complicated financial operation of a modern farm into simple, easily-kept-up records.

"I can heartily recommend this book to every grower and farmer in the district," says Ivor Solly, West Summerland B of M manager. "It was prepared for farmers by the Federal Department of Agriculture. By spending a few minutes each day or so with these records, a farmer will soon know exactly where he stands in every aspect of his farming operations. He will know where he is making money, how much it is, and where he should cut his losses."

The book includes a permanent record of varieties, crop yields and soil treatments. This provides a valuable check on the year-to-year development of the farm. Mr. Solly will gladly supply a copy to any one. There is no obligation.

Piles of Sand on Hill Roads Meets with Council Approval

Councillor H. J. Barkwill suggested to council last week that the roads department place piles of sand on all major hills in the municipality so that motorists or persons living nearby could sand slippery spots when the municipal road crew found it impossible to reach the scene in time.

On the Sandhill, Councillor Barkwill suggested sand piles every fifty yards, and the same could be done on the hospital hill, the Gulch road and other hill roads which are inclined to become impassable in winter.

Councillor F. M. Stuart agreed to carry out the plan but pointed out that piles of sand were placed at strategic intervals last year and little was used.

Mr. Barkwill carried his argument farther when he suggested definite arrangements be made with persons living in the vicinity of such hill roads that they would be employed to throw sand on the surface when it becomes slippery.

"What will you pay them? How can you rely on such people to be there when you want them?" queried Councillor Stuart.

After considerable discussion, it was suggested that Road Foreman Les Gould could make a deal with a representative group to sand the roads in this manner, pay to be $1 per hour.

In the event of an emergency, Mr. Gould could phone these persons and ascertain if they were available. If not, then the road crew could do the job.

Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith took the view that the municipality is pampering motorists who are too lazy to put chains on their tires.

"You're putting the responsibility on the municipality when drivers should be putting chains on," he argued.

Amend Lane Parking In Traffic Bylaw

Besides amending the traffic bylaw to provide for Jake's Taxi and Greyhound bus parking on Granville, a further correction in parking regulations in lanes is being carried through by municipal council.

At present, the bylaw calls for no parking of vehicles in lanes of 20 feet or less. This is to be changed to 25 feet or less as no lane in the municipality is less than 20 feet.

Council Satisfied With Reply From Public Works Head

Municipal council was provided last week with copies of the letters from Hon. F. A. Gagliardi, minister of public works and Premier W. A. C. Bennett, on the subject of surveys for highway relocation. These letters were given publication last week.

"That seems satisfactory" commented Reeve C. E. Bentley, while Councillor F. E. Atkinson considered the Gagliardi letter promised "everything we asked for". Other councillors expressed their satisfaction with the turn of events.

It is understood that survey parties have already proceeded to investigate other possible routes for the highway relocation besides the Giant's Head-Sandhill way.

JEAN BELIVEAU, with the magic-name that draws crowds whenever he takes to the ice, made a sensational debut with the Montreal Canadiens when he scored three goals the first game out, held scoreless the second, but bounced back to score two more on his third and final game under the lend-lease system. NHL fans, especially the Hab backers, hope it will not be the last they see of him as his scoring power has added a lift to the second place Canadiens.

Roads Department Plans New Truck from $2,000 Surplus Funds

Because some work was found to be impossible to carry through to conclusion this year, the municipal roads department had an estimated $2,000 surplus last week, council was informed by Councillor F. M. Stewart.

It was suggested by the roads department head that arrangements should be made to purchase a new truck to replace the vehicle purchased two years ago for that department.

Council had virtually agreed to a two-year purchase plan for such municipal trucks, feeling that it would save money in the long run rather than be faced with costly repairs and replacements if trucks were operated for a longer period.

It was left to the road committee and the reeve to finalize details of the purchase.

Grading Carried Out Washboard Persists

The "back" Prairie Valley road was broken up like a spring break-up, it was reported to municipal council last week. Shale was hauled to put the road into proper condition.

Grading of most municipal roads has been in progress but the difficulty of eliminating washboard on some sections where there is little road surface left was discussed at some length.

On the switchback road the grader did a "wonderful job", commented Councillor Richards, yet 24 hours later it was washboard. More material on such roads was considered the answer.

Councillor F. M. Stewart reported that the road to the Hepperle property has been improved and Mr. Hepperle is "very pleased" with the result.

Christmas Holiday Bonspiel Draws 36 Teams for Keen Three-Day Play

Thirty-six teams competed in the first mixed bonspiel staged by the Summerland Curling Club since artificial ice was instituted at the big arena.

Ernie Caughlin of Oliver skipped the winning rink in the championship draw, defeating Bill Eyrer Summerland rink in the final.

Play was decidedly close right through this draw, on two occasions Caughlin's last rock deciding the result.

To get into the finals, Caughlin disposed of rinks skipped by Bill Croft and Chuck Bleasdale.

In the consolation draw, Bill Milne's rink defeated Harvey Eden in the finals. It was an endurance test, with the rinks playing four games on the final day.

Play commenced on Boxing Day and concluded late Sunday night, with all participants expressing keen interest in the play. Many non-entrants watched the games the three days. One Pentiction and two Oliver rinks participated as well as 33 Summerland rinks.

The men's draw is proceeding this week, with the first round scheduled for completion on Wednesday, Jan. 14.

In the A draw, Croft and Topping rinks are unbeaten and lead the competition. Dr. W. H. E. Munn is on top of B draw with 4 wins and one loss, closely followed by Chuck Bleasdale with 4 wins and 2 losses. C draw is headed by Gerry Hallquist with 5 wins and 1 loss, while Charlie Nesbitt has 4 wins and 1 loss.

The ladies' weekly draw will get underway after two weeks' lapse on Monday, Jan. 5.

Local Firm Contracts To Supply Equipment

Butler & Walden submitted the lowest tender, at $2,094 for the new equipment needed for the municipal office, council was informed at last week's meeting. A council committee scrutinized the eight tenders proffered and awarded the contract, which was approved by the entire council last week.

A new cash register, which will be used mainly for billing purposes, has been purchased at a cost of $2,389.60. Council took time off on Tuesday, Dec. 23 to watch Miss Louise Atkinson, collector, demonstrate the intricacies of this machine.

The electrical department may assume most of this cash register cost or it may be paid for out of SS & MA tax rebate which was in excess of estimates.

Chilliwack Would Welcome Bypass

In a letter to the local municipal council from Kamloops, Julian Fry made some observations on the possible highway relocation through the municipality of Summerland. He pointed out that ten years ago Chilliwack refused a bypass and today would be only too willing to have through traffic diverted from the busy city streets.

"Summerland will bless you in ten years time", commented Mr. Fry, if the council can succeed in routing the highway in a manner which does not conflict with local facilities.

Diesels Are Taking Place of Older Style Engines on CPR Main Line

REVELSTOKE — In addition to operating on trains 1 and 2 west of here, a service which became effective November 1st, diesels are now in use on trains 7 and 8. Diesels appear to be making more frequent trips west of here on freight as well.

Long columns of smoke, which used to float skyward from the yards around the roundhouse, have dwindled to sporadic whiffs here and there. The pits in the roundhouse are not the scenes of feverish activity they once were. The diesels are re-fueled on tracks outside the shops.

There isn't much left either of the string of pushers which used to assist passenger and freight trains east and west of Revelstoke. No. 3, now the only train left which uses a steam engine west of here, generally has an assisting engine out of here, but it is seldom now that a pusher goes light to Taft to help No. 4 up the grade.

As far as the casual observer can detect, the 5920 and 5923 are the only 5900's doing much around here now. They are in pusher service. At one time this division was the scene of most of these mighty "Selkirks", largest locomotives in the Commonwealth.

From that Sunday back in August, 1929, when the first of the 5900's came into Revelstoke in the middle of a train they were photographed and written about, until the diesels displaced them within the past year. In 1933 the first 19 were augmented by ten others, 5920 to 5929, inclusive. Then a little over three years ago the 5930, 5931, 5932, 5933, 5934 and 5935, were built and were a magnificent sight in passenger service between Revelstoke and Calgary.

Following the completion of the 5935, the railway company announced that no more steam engines would be built. Soon after the diesels began to appear.

Breakaways Cost Local Pucksters Three Goals as Packers Win 5-2

Three breakaways which caught Summerland unable to cover up, cost the local hockey team three goals and decided the victory for the OK Packers in a fast, hustling hockey game last Sunday afternoon in the commercial league play at Pentiction arena.

The younger, fast-moving Packers' team found that Summerland could put on the pressure just as much. In fact, Summerland forced the play most of the way but couldn't penetrate the Packers' defense.

Three twenty-minute periods were played instead of the usual two twenties and one fifteen.

Packers took a 2-0 lead into the second period and made it 4-0 before Summerland was able to bulge the twine. The two lone Summerland goals came in rapid succession in the final two minutes of the second stanza. In the third period, Swift scored his second goal of the game to put the Packers farther out in front.

Summerland was disheartened when Fred Kato's score was disallowed after a melee in front of the Packers' net, the officials ruling that another Summerland player was in the crease at the time the puck was shot home.

In the other contest, Merchants downed Contractors 4-3 in another fast-moving contest.

First Period: 1, Pentiction, Bogart (Swift) 4:00; 2, Pentiction, Rothfield (Burch) 6:40.

Penalty: Les Howard.

Second Period: 3, Pentiction, Burch, 7:30; 4, Pentiction, Swift, 12:30; 5, Summerland, Taylor (Richardson) 18:30; 6, Summerland, Roberge, 19:00.

Penalties: Johnston, Steinger.

Third Period: 7, Pentiction, Swift, (Bogart) 9:27.

Penalties: Byers, Les Howard, Johnston.

League Leaders to Meet Here Next Week

Kamloops comes to Summerland for an interior league fixture either Thursday, Jan. 8 or Saturday, Jan. 10, Manager Joe Shepley states. Neither Kamloops nor Summerland has been beaten in league play to date, so the result will place the winner definitely on top of the heap.

Novelty Rifle Shoot At Garnet Valley Range Boxing Day

Eleven members of the Summerland Rifle Club went to the Garnet Valley range on Boxing Day to participate in a novelty shoot, the first of its kind ever held on that day here.

The trap club generally holds a shoot on Boxing Day but decided to cancel the event this year because of conflicting sports events such as the curlers' bonspiel.

E. Gillespie and Herb Simpson were top men for the day at the 200 yard range, scoring 34 each, just one point off the possible. Fred, Art and George Dunsdon each scored 32, Archie Scott and Phil Dunsdon had 31, Ted Dunsdon registered 30, Gordon Gillespie had 28 and Steve Dunsdon and Dave Taylor 27 each.

We predict a steady demand throughout 1953 for all types of Summerland property.

Lakeshore property will continue to command a premium, building lots of one-half to one acre on the front bench will be needed for projected new homes, small holdings will continue to move rapidly in certain situations, houses will be sold with lower down payments, and orchards, well, if you can show adequate returns in relation to price there are buyers. If your property is listed for sale with the Lorne Perry agency the chances of an early sale are greatly increased. Whether you are buying or selling, it will pay you to deal with an agency specializing in Summerland property.

Power Commission Shows Big Increase

VICTORIA—Reflecting increased activity in British Columbia, especially in the less densely populated areas, the B.C. Power Commission reports a 66 per cent increase in the amount of power used by its customers in November this year over the same month in 1951. According to the monthly operations report just released, a net total of 51,744,848 kilowatt hours went into the distribution lines to serve homes, businesses and industries in 26 power districts last month, as compared with 31,121,823 kwh in November, 1951.

however, moved that "we accept it (the agreement)" but later amended his motion to the suggestion of Reeve Bentley to be subject to any revision made after discussions with other municipalities.

At Vernon, council has decided to write three government departments, the attorney-general, health and welfare and education stating the city will refuse to accept any increases in costs as far as these three departments are concerned.

The increase of $600 per policeman would mean an extra mill on the Vernon taxes. Ald. R. W. Ley did not vote for the council protest as he felt there was no use in kicking about extra police costs.

"Where else could we get policemen at $1,400 per year?" he queried, quoting the present standard figure which is to be raised to $2,000.

Vernon took this attitude because of the provincial government's own action in telling "everybody to hold to last year's line."

Ald. George Melvin thought the government was "laying down the policy all the way along the line and if they are doing that they must come into line themselves."

Earlier in the month Kelowna city council decided to protest the boost of $800 per man and ask for an explanation for the sudden increase.

Penticton city council is protesting on the grounds that the proposed increase is not in accordance with the agreement made when the RCMP took over policing from the province.

The Okanagan Valley Municipal Assn. will consider the subject at its February meeting and the UECM executive will probably be brought into the picture.

SOFT FRUIT

already enumerated in a previous issue.

Winfield-Okanagan Centre suggests the annual convention not be held until March or early in April, when a fuller picture of the previous crop year will be available.

Widespread publicity among growers regarding new practices in thinning peaches and apricots at blossom time is being urged by Oliver.

Penticton would have established competitions for judging of fruit packing, display and grading, in a similar manner to contests among livestock, potatoes, etc.

A further grant of $1,000 for the B.C. Federation of Agriculture is being sought by Oyama local.

Two executive resolutions deal with loan insurance and are directed to both the federal and provincial governments. The executive also wants a new contract committee appointed early in 1953, and that the committee insert in the projected contract an enabling clause to achieve the full effect of the process-pooling report.

The new contract has been the subject of some debate in the past, and two years ago created a serious rift in grower relations. The central BCFGA executive has endeavored to forestall last-minute grievances by recommending that the new contract have a clause embracing the following points:

"The new contract shall be for an initial period of three years.

"If not cancelled by one of the three parties prior to cancellation date, April 1, 1957, it shall automatically continue in existence for a further period of two years.

"In no case shall the total life of the contract exceed five years at the end of which time it must be resubmitted for signature to all concerned after such revision as may be necessary or desirable."

Under the B.C. Tree Fruits section, Okanagan Mission-Kelowna doubts if the federal health department has modernized its viewpoint on the health value of tree fruits and wants steps taken to correct outdated censorship so that the advertising department's handicap can be removed to some extent.

Peachland wants the sales agency to broaden its scope of promotional activity by employing promotional specialists in larger centres.

Summerland wants standard labels for the whole industry and also urges an advertising campaign for apricots in eastern Canada.

Naramata recognizes that low grade fruit, even if it comes within the minimum requirements of government regulations, has a depressing effect on fresh fruit sales. Therefore, that local would give the sales manager power, with the consent of the BCFGA executive and in close co-operation with the BCFGA locals concerned, to restrict or govern the handling of such grades of fruit "in the best interests of the industry as a whole."

This is a resolution which should create a considerable amount of discussion.

Printing of a color chart for red apples is sought by Penticton, while Naramata also seeks some method of disciplining packing-houses which are shipping out sub-standard packs.

A combination pack for McIntosh early in the season containing not less than 50 percent fancy and extra fancy is now marked Cee grade but Vernon growers want a "Choice" grade attached to such a pack.

All packinghouses handling soft fruits should be required to pre-cool them, is Oliver's plan, while both Peachland and Summerland locals submitted similar requests on sales to canners, the resulting move being a motion that no sales to canners be made on "fire sale" basis, but the fruit should be dumped instead.

Pooling and Packing Motion
Pooling and packing motions are intricate, in the main, with the first from Penticton requiring more information on varieties, grades and sizes being included in the general pool. Osoyoos suggests the "simple and logical method of direct or variety pooling" be adopted as far as possible.

To give growers an incentive to spray for the eradication of San Jose scale, Oliver suggests discounting blocks of fruit infected with this pest.

Recognizing that small size apricots and peaches are not popular on the market, two widely-separated locals, Winfield-Okanagan Centre and Kaloden-Okanagan Falls, are requesting that price differentials for size groupings be created and maintained, discounting heavily the small sizes and putting a premium on the superior quality and sizes.

Small-sized cherries also get a blast from Oliver growers who suggest that the differential between No. 1s and No. 2s be increased to the point that the two grades will reflect their relative market value.

Penticton becomes more specific on the subject of cherries and would not allow certain sizes on the fresh fruit market at all. Summerland wants No. 2 cherries three-quarter inches and smaller diverted to the processor and kept off the fresh fruit market.

Specific recommendations for sizes of apricots on the fresh fruit markets are laid down by Oliver, while Penticton and Summerland have combined in a request that undesirable grades, sizes and maturities not be offered for sale.

Maturity of peaches is argued by Penticton with the request that all white wraps be graded as firm and pink wraps graded as firm-ripe with all peaches having a showing of ground color.

Peachland and Summerland also think alike in the request for elimination of the peach size, 78, which was recommended by Sales Manager J. B. Lander at a southern district council session last summer.

Oliver has given exhaustive study to the peach program and has outlined a series of recommendations, to the soft fruit section of the pooling committee and the board of governors of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd.

Also to be dealt with is another lengthy list of peach recommendations from Penticton, indicating that both these locals have given the subject of peaches an exhaustive study.

Summerland and Peachland think alike on the subject of prunes, and are desirous of having only No. 1 grade shipped in the 1953 season.

More Prune Resolutions
Oliver would have the first prune pool of indefinite length, the closing date to be determined when sufficient volume is received to meet current orders and wants a combination pack with a minimum of 75 percent of the pack being 75 percent color or better and the remainder 50 percent color or better. After that, pools of two weeks' duration should be invoked, states this local, with only No. 1s being packed.

Penticton contends that "our present packing and grading standards are too low for a highly competitive market", and suggests in reference to prunes that only No. 1 prunes with a minimum size of 1 1/4 inches with 75 percent dark characteristic color be offered for sale. No. 2 prunes would only be permitted on the first and second pools.

A serious change in the B.C. Fruit Board regulations is sought by Creston, seeking discontinuance of the highway policing policy now established, with a free passage of fruit directly from producer to consumer by consumer conveyance.

No grower would be allowed to transport fruit without a permit and enforcement to be limited to B.C.'s established police force.

In explanation of these recommendations, Creston says: "The 1937 act was designed primarily to prohibit fruit going out of the area for resale. This was accomplished by highway policing and the permit system. The enforcement of regulations by this method did not have to contend with the huge tourist traffic until recent years. At present permits are required, vehicles are subject to search by unqualified persons and little courtesy is shown at any time. This is a deplorable condition in a free country. Present enforcement regulations do little toward preventing fruit going out for resale and are doing untold damage to valued producer-consumer relations as well as giving this district a very bad name."

Some protection for the soft fruit grower from intensive competition from United States shipments is sought by Osoyoos and Westbank, in the form of a petition to the federal government that steps be taken to "make it possible for the fruit grower to survive and obtain returns commensurate to his investment and labor."

Deep freezing of soft fruits might prove of value to the processing industry in the Okanagan, Summerland considers, while Oliver wants the processing company to consider dehydrating or processing (not canning) soft fruits of a standard marketable grade that cannot be sold on the fresh fruit market.

Executive Wants Increase
Summerland requests the standard grant of $5,000 for research by the experimental station here but the executive goes this local one better and because of increased salary standards suggests a grant of $8,000 instead.

Salmon Arm wants hardy varieties and asks the experimental station to accelerate its plant breeding and testing programs.

One of the major changes in number of delegates to the convention is brought forward by the planning committee set up two years ago, and is in the form of an extraordinary resolution. It suggests that every local should be entitled to one delegate for every 500 acres of planted orchard, with the chairman and secretary being automatically two of the delegates.

At present, delegates are chosen according to the membership in each local.

Westbank also seeks an amendment to the marketing scheme calling for any grower with a full acre of planted orchard to be eligible for BCFGA membership.
