

Hospital Ended Year With Surplus of $3, Despite Co-Insurance

Summerland General hospital, operating for the first time on a fixed budget, was one of the few hospitals in the province which did not have its estimates slashed by BCHIS authorities and ended the year with a small operating surplus, it was revealed at a poorly-attended meeting of the Summerland Hospital Society on Thursday afternoon at the parish hall.

At the end of 1951, a balance being excess of revenue over expenditure of $3,362.47 was revealed in the auditor's statement. This is also the first year that depreciation has not been charged against operation. Under the previous system a loss of $1,273 would have been shown.

Those present expressed their appreciation of hospital management last year and paid special tribute to the work of the ladies' auxiliary to the hospital for their big part in contributing to the operation.

Four Matrons In Past Year At Hospital

Dealing with the general operation of the hospital, the annual meeting at the parish hall last Thursday heard a detailed report of the year's activities from the hospital chief executive, J. E. O'Mahony.

He reported that hospital buildings and equipment were kept in a good state of repair, with the operating room, corridors, two private wards and two large public wards being painted a pleasing shade of green, as well as the kitchen.

Windows in the operating room were filled in with insulation and closed, doing away with the difficulty of keeping the room warm in winter.

Only major articles of equipment purchased were donated by the ladies' auxiliary, being three overbed tables and a commercial-size vacuum cleaner.

"It was with deep regret that the board received the resignation of Miss May Bennett as matron in July," Mr. O'Mahony noted. "We were very fortunate that Mrs. J. Heavysides was able and willing to act in this position until some one could be found to take the appointment."

"Miss Verda Snow, R.N., of Fernie commenced her duties as matron on Sept. 1, but through the illness of her mother she was forced to take her position effective December 1. She has done an excellent job and is doing excellent work, both as matron and x-ray technician."

Salaries raised again. "It was found necessary to raise again nursing staff salaries in July, to keep in line with other hospitals in the region. Necessary arrangements were made with the hospital insurance service to increase the budget by the amount of the salary additions."

Mr. O'Mahony noted the visit of the hospital insurance inquiry board here in August with a special meeting of the board of directors being held.

Directors attended regional meetings in Salmon Arm and Princeton while an official delegate attended the B.C. Hospitals Assn. convention last fall in Vancouver. The directors also held ten regular meetings besides the special session.

"Mr. J. R. Butler very kindly cultivated the garden last fall, with his tractor," Mr. O'Mahony continued, also observing that fruit and vegetables were received from the Anglican, Baptist and United churches after their Thanksgiving services. The local Japanese association collected fruit and vegetables from its members as a gift to the hospital.

Hard Surfacing Helped. "The board and staff of the hospital were very grateful that the municipal council was able to hard surface the hospital hill last year. This saved clouds of dust blowing through the building. It is hoped that the road in front of the building will be done this year."

In conclusion, he declared the reasons for the increase in public liability and malpractice insurance being carried, as courts had awarded large damages in some actions brought against hospitals.

Car Turns Over On Slippery Road

A slippery road surface, due to soft, wet snow which had fallen during the night, caused a U-drive car owned by Weeden's U-Drive of Kelowna and driven by George Margot of Lacombe, Alta., to go into a slide and turn over on its top shortly after eight o'clock Friday morning on the provincial highway just below Tate's hill. The car was badly damaged, and is estimated at $500. None of the car occupants was injured, Margot having his wife and a man who gave his name as Mr. Ellison as passengers.

CANADIAN CHAMBER FAST PRESIDENT SPEAKS

Dr. W. G. Winspear, past president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, is a guest speaker at a dinner meeting in Penticton tonight. Members of the Summerland Board of Trade were invited to attend, but as only a day's notice was given Secretary Lorne Perry reports that no representation could be obtained.

Vol. 7, No. 10

West Summerland, B.C., Thursday, March 6, 1952

The bearer party of the King's Company, 1st Battalion Grenadier Guards, who carried the coffin of the late King George VI during the funeral ceremonies, have been received by the Queen Mother at Buckingham Palace. The bearers were each given a signed photograph which they are seen carrying in large envelopes as they left the palace.

Dogs Roaming at Large Kill Deer

Dogs roaming in packs are killing deer and are constantly harrying them, especially in the north end of the municipality.

Eert Berry made this statement to The Review this week in an endeavor to have dog owners keep control of their animals.

Two deer were found killed by dogs in the vicinity of the George Pennington orchard, the latter reported to Mr. Berry recently. A big, black Labrador and a black and white dog have been seen together keeping deer on the run.

Another report stated that dogs were observed running after deer on Rattlesnake Mountain.

Small Car Goes Out of Control

Shortly before five o'clock Tuesday afternoon, a freak accident at the Summerland Co-op involved three cars in a spectacular smash-up.

Reason for the accident has not been explained, RCMP Constables I. G. Thorsteinson and Dick Gren declared this morning, as the driver of the main car involved, Larry L. Scott of Vernon has not returned yet to give an account of the affair.

Scott was proceeding north when, for some unaccountable reason, his small, English-made car shot off the road, grazed the bumper of the P. Pelletier car parked off the roadside and struck the rear of a car belonging to Mrs. I. B. Brown and also parked off the paved portion of the road.

The force of the impact sent the Brown car forward a good 25 feet into the side of the co-op building near the main office entrance.

Scott received a lacerated knee and shin and a cut on the forehead. Police are waiting his return here for further investigation.

Chuck Alkin returned yesterday from a visit to Vancouver in time to play basketball against Vernon last night.

AOTS Club to Organize Red Cross Canvass Here; May Have One-Day Drive

The AOTS Club, headed by Everett E. Bates as president, has agreed to undertake the responsibility of the Red Cross financial drive in this community, it was revealed this morning. Some time today it is anticipated that a campaign manager will be appointed and campaign headquarters set up. Summerland's quota of the provincial objective of $580,000 is $3,000.

All across Canada, communities are organizing for the national financial drive of the Canadian Red Cross Society, which this year has been set at $5,220,000, an increase of $220,000 over previous years.

Starting date is Monday, March 10 and it is hoped that before the month end this huge objective will have been reached.

Here in Summerland the drive will probably not get away on the opening day but will be organized shortly after that.

The local Red Cross branch offered the organization of the drive to the Summerland Jaycees but at a general meeting Tuesday evening in the Nu-Way Annex the Jaycees decided they could not handle such a big project this year.

Consequently, the Red Cross group, headed by Mrs. A. K. Elliott president, turned to the AOTS Club, its president, E. E. Bates promising to assist if at all possible.

After contacting a number of his fellow clubbers last night, Mr. Bates assured the Review this morning that "we will take it on all right, and we intend to do a good job of it."

His organization is seriously considering a one-night whirlwind canvass of the entire community if such a proposition can be arranged, Mr. Bates also stated.

Other service clubs may be approached to assist by taking sections of the community for a one-night campaign. The Jaycees have already promised to give full support to the drive by taking over a section of the community for canvass. Trout Creek, Crescent Beach and lower town might be included in one section taken over by the Jaycees, they suggested Tuesday evening.

Reeve Urges Support. Reeve C. E. Bentley today welcomed the news of Summerland's organization of the Red Cross drive.

"As reeve of Summerland, I urge all citizens to give their utmost support to the Red Cross drive which starts next week," he declared. "The Red Cross is everybody's business, as it touches everybody's lives. It, therefore, behooves each and every one of us to get behind this great organization. Capacity of the Red Cross work is limited by the support given it."

Premier Byron I. Johnson, in commenting on the Red Cross drive, declared it to be "one of the greatest humanitarian forces in the world today; a force that knows no barriers of race, creed or religion, but works for the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the relief of suffering throughout the world. It is a universal symbol of hope in time of peace and war."

"I urge my fellow British Columbians to accept their responsibility in this drive and I have every faith that we will attain our objective," the premier concluded.

AT ARMSTRONG TODAY

Reeve C. E. Bentley and members of the municipal council are in Armstrong today attending the quarterly session of the Okanagan Valley Municipal Assn., with Reeve Bentley presiding as vice-president.

Municipal Hall Meeting March 19

On Wednesday, March 19, all citizens of Summerland are being urged to gather in the new high school auditorium to discuss the possibility of a new municipal hall for this community.

The Summerland Board of Trade, according to a resolution passed at a general meeting last fall, has called this public gathering so that a full-scale round-table discussion can be staged.

It is understood that the municipal council has four proposals to the proposed hall. It is likely that the meeting will discuss all four, and any other counter proposals which may come from the assembly and then vote on the procedure most favored.

This decision will be passed along to the municipal council to serve as a guide, as it can be considered the voice of public opinion, provided a sufficiently large gathering is congregated that evening.

At a board of trade council meeting Monday evening, a committee of J. R. Armstrong and Lorne Perry was appointed to work with a municipal council committee in organizing the meeting.

All service clubs and other organizations are being circulated and their members urged to attend this meeting.

Summerland Jaycees' civic affairs committee has consented to assist the board of trade in publicizing the meeting. Don Clark is chairman of this Jaycee committee.

It is hoped that at least 500 persons will attend this meeting, as the subject of a municipal hall has become quite a contentious one in this municipality and a full-scale debate is considered necessary "to clear the air."

Recommendation on Airmail Service Goes To Ottawa Office

The district post office inspector's office in Vancouver has notified the Summerland Board of Trade it has no intention of taking any action towards establishing the proposed airmail service between Penticton and Kelowna.

As a consequence, the local trade board, in collaboration with Kelowna and Penticton boards, is writing to the postmaster-general's office in Ottawa on the subject.

It was proposed that the present taxi service between the airport at Penticton and Kelowna being conducted by Mickey's Taxi should include an airmail contract so that this portion of the valley can make some use of the airmail service in and out of the Okanagan.

Service Station is Main Permit for '52

Three commercial building permits were issued in February in the amount of $5,075. Building Inspector Roy F. Angus' monthly report indicates.

The principal permit in this amount was for the new filling station and retail store being erected at Trout Creek by Bill Downton.

Although the amount involved is small, it is still ahead of last year at the same time as for January and February, 1952. 5 permits have been issued for a value of $8,025 while 3 permits issued in the first two months of 1951 only had a value of $5,865.

COLLIDES WITH PARKED CAR PAYS FINE IN COURT

At Peachland this week, C. C. Inglis, JP, fined C. A. Noble of Penticton $5 and costs for driving without due care and attention.

The case arose out of an accident about one mile south of Peachland's business section on Tuesday, Feb. 26, when Noble's car collided with an auto owned by Fred Schultz of Peachland, which he had parked on the roadside.

Will Send Enumerators Throughout District to Compile Voters' List

In order to bring the provincial voters' list as much up to date as possible by the end of March, with the prospect of an election in June now in sight, machinery has been set up for a house to house canvass of the district.

Government Agent Ross Oatman informed The Review this morning from Kelowna.

Deputy registrars who will undertake this house to house canvass are Harvey L. Wilson and Harry C. Howis, the two men who undertook the enumeration for the 1951 federal census in Summerland district.

They will go from house to house, ascertain if occupants are on the list and if they are not then they will be put on.

It is hoped that this work will be accomplished by the end of March, Mr. Oatman states.

Any persons who are missed by the enumerators and who are certain they are not on the list can register with these deputies by contacting them, it is pointed out.

As an added service, The Review will have a number of registration forms for any persons who cannot contact the deputy registrars.

In Peachland, A. J. Chidley is the deputy registrar while in Westbank Albert Fearnley has been appointed.

Editorial

In Time of Need . . .

NEXT Monday, March 10, sees the start across Canada of this country's greatest humanitarian appeal, the financial drive of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Although the campaign is not quite ready to go here, shortly after the opening gun the drive will be in full swing in Summerland district.

One of the most descriptive phrases uttered by a public figure in referring to this Red Cross drive is credited to Canada's former Governor-General, Lord Alexander, and we quote: "The Red Cross is, well worthy of your generous support for it is truly national and international in service, a living part of the great international organization dedicated to the relief of suffering and distress wherever it may occur in war or peace."

When a person's home and belongings are destroyed by fire, hurricane or flood, the Red Cross springs into action and provides the essentials for those who have lost so much.

When a person needs a blood transfusion, either whole blood or plasma is available without charge, thanks to the Red Cross.

In time of need, the Red Cross can be counted on to be present and do its part to make comfortable those in unfortunate circumstances.

But such service requires a great deal of money in order to continue its useful good deeds. It is only through our generosity each March that the Red Cross is able to carry on.

This year, due to ever-increasing costs, the Red Cross budget has hit a new high. It will require nearly five percent more to operate in 1952 and provide all the services considered vital. Thus, each one of us should try to provide just a little more this year in order that we keep pace with this deserving cause.

Please give with a warm heart and an open hand.

Check Exodus from School

ALTHOUGH most persons at this time of year think mainly of rising costs when confronted with the problem of education, there are many other problems which should be considered at all times and especially during a week such as this—Education Week, March 2 to 8.

One of the main problems confronting educators today is the percentage of the population which has not had sufficient schooling. The number of students who do not consider it essential to finish their junior matriculation or even take a few years of high school education is a worrying factor in the overall picture of education.

Those who visited the schools in Summerland yesterday, and there was a goodly number, saw most of the modern wherewithal to provide an education for the younger generation. They also know that there are a few young people in the community who should be continuing their studies but who have deecided not to carry on their academic or partial vocational training in the local halls of learning.

Fortunately, the percentage of those with less than eight years of schooling is lower in British Columbia than in any other province in Canada. But there is still room for improvement.

In Summerland there has been formed a Parent-Teacher Association which is now well into operation and has tackled several problems of local concern. We suggest that this organization will do a great deal of good if it keeps before it the ever-present problem of too many students dropping out of school before they have given themselves a chance.

Modern society is calling more and more for a better education for its citizens that they may cope with this complex world. Teachers can be helped by parents to check this exodus from our schools at too early an age. This should be the chief thought for Education Week or any other week of the year.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

Sometimes I wonder if I was born very far after the horse-and-buggy age, or not.

I used to think I was. In childhood I was merely amused at men and women who made the switch from horses to cars—usually Ford Model 'T's or Chev 490's—late in life. They'd be apt to shout "Whoa!" instead of stepping on the brake when a ditch or telephone pole loomed up straight ahead, or swear at, and even furtively kick old Lizzie in the chassis, when she stopped without cause, instead of looking under the engine hood. To be sure, both car and horse could often be started from an unscheduled stop by tail-twisting, but the operation took place at opposite ends.

All this passed me by as mere entertainment. I never learned enough about horses to become a good rider or driver, let alone a horse-doctor; drenches, spavins, wind-galls, farcy, were always Greek to me. I never even had much to do with the Model T, which was certainly the next step to a horse-and-buggy, but started direct on gear-shift cars. At times I've even been proud of my gear-shifting ability, and several times a balky car engine has responded to my ministrations; once I even overhauled one . . .

Yet I fear I'll never become a true carowboy or motormaniac. For one thing, a car to me is a means of transportation, rather than an object of worship. I don't long to lavish it with financial sacrifices of chromium extras, plastic visors and rain-deflectors, white side-wall tires, and all the rest. I don't even want to spend an hour or so a week in the adoration of cleaning and polishing it. As long as it gets me cheaply from here to hence when I want to go thither, I don't much care whether its coat is curly-combed and its tail trimmed or not.

And I can't get over the feeling that a car is a personality. Horses were—still are, where they haven't been processed into dog-food, I guess. You always had to consider and make allowances for their little peculiarities—they did the same for yours. You always had to remember that they were flesh and blood, frail as well as strong. Maybe that is why I never like to hold a car at its top speed for hours at a stretch; it always seems to me it will break its wind or make it go lame in the carburetor or something.

Nor do I like to drive a car up hill at full gallop until it is gasping and stumbling and almost stopped; I prefer to change the gears down and keep it breathing easily with power to spare, even when it might possibly stagger over the top in high gear if left there.

And in cold winter weather—remember how your horses would cringe and shiver on those gelid mornings, and old-timers would warn you that the cold air would ruin their lungs if you drove them hard at all? And you'd put off driving anywhere, if you possibly could, or even walk rather than be hard on a good animal? In the same way, I hate to force my car, all stiff in the joints, to go out in zero weather, panting and stuttering, for a mere half-mile run; I'd rather walk and find myself the better for it.

It's a silly, old-fashioned attitude, of course. My friends laugh at me, and boast how they go out to their cars in any weather, no matter how cold, tramp on the starter, and as soon as the engine roars, dash away at full gallop. They never worry about how painful it must be for their cars, and they never have any engine trouble or other ill effects at all. They have assured me of this so repeatedly that it must be true.

Probably, therefore, those occasions on which I have seen them coming out of a garage looking dazedly at flat wallets and avoiding my gaze is when they have just made a generous donation to some secret charity they don't want to talk about, and my babying a car is just a throwback to horse-and-buggy days. I hate to be so old-fashioned, but there doesn't seem to be much hope of changing now; I'll just slip out to the barn—I mean the garage—and see if the little fellow would like a drink of distilled water . . .

The 1922 directors of the Summerland Fruit Union are H. B. Morley, W. S. Young, G. I. Gray, M. G. Wilson, C. F. Evans, G. Thornber and G. F. Sinclair. It is thought that M. G. Wilson will be appointed as president when the directors meet to choose officers for the year. The withdrawal of E. R. Simpson, president for five years, is greatly regretted.

Nesbitt and Forster will give up their down town business premises and take over the garage repair work of T. B. Young at West Summerland. Real estate business is to be augmented by the addition of H. M. Lumsden who has decided to enter the business arena. The entire stock in trade, furnishings and fixtures of the Summerland Mercantile Co., have been purchased by Mr. Frank Cross, who has arrived from the coast and taken over the store.
W. W. Borton, our enterprising citizen, has equipped his shop to manufacture all sizes of metal flume here. Mr. Borton expects this new undertaking will require employing several more men.

E. J. White, local manager of the Bank of Montreal has been transferred to Merritt. He will be succeeded by Mr. C. B. Winters now in charge of the branch at Armstrong. Mr. Winters takes an active part in community life and will be quite an addition to local musical and amateur theatrical circles.

Imposing a penalty for all cull apples delivered to packing houses is being considered by different shipping organizations.

Summerland Liberal Association discussed the need of attention to Thirty members of the board of trade turned out to the banquet in the Premier Hotel. Fifty-six members were on the board last year and there is to be a drive for more this year. K. S. Hogg was again chosen president by acclamation. Mr. J. Tait's opinion was an industry might be secured if a jam factory were established. He thought a cannery was out of the question here. There was not the cannery fruit grown here, but if connections were made with Fraser Valley small fruit growers, satisfactory business could be done in jams with 'cots, cherries, plums, etc.

Mr. Herbert Cravath, formerly of South Hazelton, recently took charge of the Premier hotel.

Nicholas and Ivor Solly were successful in getting into the finals in the badminton tourney held at the coast.

Model With a Model

Pretty Ann Martin of Montreal takes time out to pose with a seven-foot, nine-inch model of a de-Havilland jet aircraft which will go into service on Canadian Pacific Airlines' trans-Pacific service this year. On display at Windsor Station, Montreal, the $15,000 model will go on tour to Winnipeg, Vancouver, and Honolulu, in addition to appearing at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this year. Of plastic and metal construction, it has a wingspan of nine feet seven inches, with rubber-tired wheels on a retractable undercarriage which can be operated by hand to fold into the belly of the aircraft. A removable panel in the side displays the interior of the model which consists of crew compartment showing pilot and co-pilot seat in front of a detailed control panel. The wireless operator's dials and range sets are aligned in one corner while the navigator's working table is shown in the other. The next section shows lounge room. The lounge section which accommodates two sets of four chairs has tables with folding leaves, while the body contains 23 reclining chairs, with the hand luggage rack overhead. The section also shows ladies' and men's wash-rooms and the service compartment of the stewardesses which is located at the rear of the aircraft.

Mrs. D. L. Sanborn is Returned as President of Busy Girl Guide Group

Mrs. D. L. Sanborn was re-elected president of the Girl Guide Local Association at the annual meeting held on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 28, in the Youth Centre. Re-elected as vice-president is Mrs. Clarence Adams; Mrs. J. Marshall, secretary; and Mrs. E. Hack, treasurer. Mrs. W. H. Durick was re-appointed badge secretary, and Mrs. C. W. Reinertson, librarian. A special events' committee, composed of Mrs. C. Reinertson, convenor, Mrs. Les Rumball, Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, Mrs. F. Schumann, Mrs. T. E. Lott and Mrs. C. Campbell, was named by the president. It was noted that the Guide companies and Brownie packs have progressed very satisfactorily during the year. The Guides were doubly honored this year in having Jill Sanborn chosen as one of 11 Guides from the South Okanagan-Similkameen division to attend the Dominion Guide Jamboree in Ottawa next July, and Frances Atkinson chosen to be the first substitute to go, if for any reason one of the other eleven girls cannot attend. Mrs. Durick as "fairy-godmother" has made several visits to both Guide companies, and has been pleased with the progress of the girls. These visits have proved helpful to the association, too. The Brownies are busy little people, and also have shown great progress. On March 14 last year, Mrs. W. A. Holden, district commissioner, visited the association and enrolled nine members. Later on in the year four more were enrolled making a total of fifteen of the local association being enrolled members. During the year some of the activities of the association were: Cookie Week in April, carried out with success. The Guides had a cookie stand at West Summerland the Saturday of Cookie Week. On April 22, the log book from England was in Summerland, and the association served tea to the party travelling with the book; April 28, a parcel post tea and sale of home cooking took place, the packages which came by post proving especially profitable. From coupons collected the association has obtained quite a few teaspoons, and has had locks put on the cupboards, and purchased keys for the Youth Centre kitchen, one for the society itself, and one for each Guide and each Brown Owl. Tea was served at the Youth Centre annual meeting in May. Delegates went to the divisional meetings in Hedley in May, and to Keremeos in November. Renewed insurance with Lloyds of London for Guides and Brownies; In June Campfire Girls from Wenatchee and district paid a visit to the Okanagan when fifteen girls were entertained here, with supper served at the experimental station by the association and a campfire held at Powell Beach that evening and souvenir pennants given each girl by the board of trade. Divisional camp at Camp Soree in August netted a profit of $300 to the division which will be a start to the divisional expense of sending girls to the Ottawa Jamboree this summer, which is the division project for this year. Miss Kay Boulton, field secretary for provincial Guides and Miss Nora Weller, visited here in October, and on that occasion the association served tea. An interesting Family Night arranged by the Youth Centre executive was assisted by the association in November, and that same month cars were furnished by members to take Guides to hear Dr. Lotta Hichmanova who was speaking at Penticton. In this, Guides were tremendously interested since last year's completed divisional project was to secure an artificial limb for a little Greek girl, in which

High School COMMENTS

Friday afternoon students who went to the last students' council show got in to see the show "Mutiny on the Bounty" for nothing. Because of the poor quality of the last film, the council managed to get another film at no extra cost. Although the sound on this film was not extra good, the show was much better than the last two.

Friday evening, Keremeos senior boys' and senior girls' basketball teams came here to play the Summerland cagers. In the girls' game, the Summerland five came out on the wrong end of an 18-14 count. Summerland also lost out in the boys' game by a score of 34-17.

The first club periods for some time were put to good use by the students on Wednesday afternoon. Although some delays have come about, the publications club hopes to publish a Campus Chaff very soon. Work on the Annual is already well under way.

This afternoon all students will be able to see a performance of the players' club production "Pride and Prejudice" for the very reasonable admission of 25c.

Friday afternoon was the last day for Fred Thompson, our school janitor, and for all the students of SHS I would like to say, "Good luck, Fred."

Lawrence Slack, Former Resident Passes in Victoria

The death of Lawrence Slack, a former resident of the Solly subdivision, occurred at Victoria on Sunday night.

The late Mr. Slack with his wife and family came to Summerland from near Lacombe, Alta., and lived here for several years.

In the fall of 1950 they sold their home at West Summerland, going to Victoria where both Mr. and Mrs. Slack planned to attend Bible school.

Not long before leaving here the deceased man suffered an illness and was in poor health after he reached Victoria, so that they were able only to take one term at the Bible school. His health continued to be poor and grew worse, ending in his death on Sunday.

He is survived by his wife, two sons at home in Victoria, and one daughter, May, Mrs. Thomas, of Vancouver.

Happenings in B.C.'s Hinterland

Throughout the province, municipal and city councils are wrestling with increased school costs in relation to other local expenditures necessary to carry on operations in municipalities for 1952. In this week's column many of the increases noted in various districts of the hinterland are quoted.

Notice of motion was served last week that Langley municipal council should consider resigning in a body and call in an official administrator. Langley is threatened with a 12-million increase in school costs. For a time it was thought that school costs should go to arbitration but it was decided no hope of a solution to the problem could be expected from this action.

In Kelowna, city council referred school estimates back to the district school board with a request that capital expenditures be eliminated. The city's share of proposed school costs is increased $42,788.05 over last year. Trustees have refused to eliminate capital expenditures, stating the city's share would not be great. Chairman G. C. Hume termed ed Peachland school a "disgrace" and the board will not postpone further the plan for renovating this school. Total school budget calls for $511,855.35 expenditure this year.

A bylaw to erect a junior-senior high school to contain seven classrooms, home ec. and industrial arts rooms, commercial and administrative rooms and a combined auditorium-gymnasium is to be submitted soon to voters in the Greenwood area.

The Grand Forks school district budget calls for an expenditure of $200,000.

Merritt district school budget has increased $37,026.92 to a total of $111,722, due partly to the 12 percent increase authorized by a board of arbitration on school teachers' salaries.

Dr. J. J. Gillis, MLA for Yale, has announced that $75,000 is proposed expenditure for roadwork in the Merritt district, $50,000 of this to be spent on the Merritt-Princeton road. The Merritt-Nicola road will be completed for $25,000.

All new construction on the Fraser Canyon highway completed since 1949 will be paved this year.

July 19, 20 and 21 will be memorable days in the Armstrong and Spallumcheon district, commemorating the incorporation of the Municipality of Spallumcheon 60 years ago.

School District No. 21 (Armstrong-Endorby) has a new record budget for 1952, at $252,187, an upward advance of $40,026, including $21,400 for additional teachers' salaries.

Charter president of the B.C. Chamber of Commerce, Dr. C. H. Wright of Trail, will seek the nomination as Progressive Conservative candidate for Trail-Roseland riding to oppose Liberal cabinet minister Hon. A. D. Turnbull.

ANIMALS' BOARD AND ROOM GOING UP

A revision of the pound bylaw given final reading by the council this week raises the impounding fees from $2 to $3 on the first three animals, and $2 per animal for more than three. Cost of keep is also raised from 50 cents to 75 cents per day.

Education will cost Kamloops School District No. 24 $582,303.75 this year compared to actual expenditures of $52,9734.28 in 1951, an increase of roughly 10 percent.

George H. Greer has been inducted as president of Kamloops and District Board of Trade for 1952.

Deficit reported by the annual meeting of the Royal Inland hospital, Kamloops, was $33,287.92 after non-operating revenues were deducted from the total operating deficit.

Lt.-Col. D. F. B. Kinloch of Coldstream is likely candidate for Progressive-Conservative nomination in North Okanagan.

Vernon Jubilee hospital ended the year with a deficit of $7,948.90, but directors hope to obtain an adjustment. President K. W. Kinnard told the annual meeting.

When Vernon City council cut the grant for Vernon's Jubilee celebration from $5,000 to $2,500, four Jubilee committee chairman resigned. However, a reconciliation is expected, and meetings between the board of trade and city council indicate a settlement will be reached.

Vernon delayed a year but decided to accept highest bid of Okanagan Investments Ltd. on 8th and 9th. Victory Loan bonds at prices well below par. Offers were 94.625 for $15,000 8th loan and 94.125 for $10,000 9th loan.

Harry Webb, a one-time Summerland resident, is chairman of the Red Cross financial drive in Kelowna district.

Penticton district's education bill is $481,489 this year, with Penticton to pay $294,113.74, some $55,000 over last year. City council will have to vote equivalent of 33 mills to meet this school bill.

HOSPITAL

are much more satisfactory and the kitchen arrangement more efficient since it was renovated. Several members present declared that patients have been more satisfied with their meals.

Asked about co-insurance, Secretary O'Mahony replied that it creates a great deal of work and would be "a blessing" if they eliminated it as recommended by the special hospital inquiry board. However, it does make more hospital beds available, he admitted.

In a comparison with the past three years, Mr. O'Mahony observed a decline in patient days and a consequent cutting down of expenditures in the hospital. Fewer maternity cases and the introduction of co-insurance are two causes of this lower hospital use, it was thought.

S. A. MacDonald, hospital president, was unable to be present for the business session, his place being taken by Vice-President C. J. Huddleston, who expressed the board of directors' thanks to the chief executive, matron, staff members and the hospital auxiliary for their co-operation and work.

He declared that the hospital is fortunate in having Mrs.

J. R. Butler as the new matron.

In her report as matron, Mrs. Butler declared that there had been 62 births in hospital last year with the males predominating; 36 boys and 26 girls. Some 319 x-rays were taken, while 118 operations were conducted, these being divided into 22 major and 96 minor ones.

Dr. A. W. Vanderburgh made general observations on hospital operation, declaring that the year just past had been a fairly smooth one, although having four matrons in twelve months "does upset things somewhat."

He pointed to two factors contributing to the decrease in patient days. When hospital insurance was introduced, persons went to hospital whether they had insurance coverage or not. Now many won't go to hospital because they haven't paid their premiums and cannot afford the hospital costs, also, co-insurance has made many people mad and they won't go to hospital just "for spite."

"We need an old people's home", Dr. Vanderburgh believed, declaring that any community of any appreciable size should have a home of its own to care for its aged and chronic cases. Such cases just won't go to another town, he declared.

Such an institution would not be as costly as a hospital and wouldn't need such a large staff of qualified nurses, he concluded.

In election of directors, Mrs. T. B. Lott and Mr. Tom Croil were returned for three-year terms while Mr. Les Rumball was elected a new director for a similar length of time.

Details of the auxiliary reports are given on Page 5 of this issue.

HON. DOUGLAS ABBOTT, Minister of Finance, (right) arrived in Montreal recently aboard a TCA transatlantic North Star which also brought Lord Rowallan, chief scout of the British Commonwealth, to Canada. They are shown chatting at Dorval Airport after the flight, which came by way of Santa Maria, the Azores, because of bad North Atlantic weather. Mr. Abbott returned from the London conference of Commonwealth finance ministers. Lord Rowallan is on his way to Bermuda for a trip through the Caribbean area.

Nearly 800 Car. Truck Plates Issued Here

The municipal office has been one of the busiest places in the district in the past week, as car and other vehicle owners came there to obtain licences for 1952.

Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith stated this morning that all the passenger plates forwarded from Victoria, 550 in all, have been issued, but others will be forthcoming. In addition, more than 200 plates for trucks and other types of vehicles have been issued.

It is not known how this number compares with other years as this is the first season that the municipal office has been charged with the responsibility of plate issuance.

Some persons no doubt sent direct to Victoria for their plates while others obtained theirs from the government office in Penticton. Last year there was no plate issuing in Summerland.

The added service of a local point of issuance has been looked upon as a decided boon to local motorists, it is stated by many.

Huge Budget For B.C. Roads

Out of a budget calling for $141,600,000 expenditure in 1952-53, the provincial government plans to spend $32,000,000 on the roads, the budget brought down by Premier Byron Johnson announced on Tuesday.

No information has been received here yet on the allocation of this road allotment, or whether the Penticton-Trout Creek section is being included in the estimates.

As a current revenue expenditure for highway bridges, snow removal and other maintenance, the roads budget shows an expenditure of $12 millions. Capital expenditure on roads is estimated at $13,200,000, with another $3 millions for the Squamish highway, and $2 millions for extraordinary maintenance and improvement on secondary highways. A special item of $2 millions is for improvement and revision of the northern trans-provincial highway.

High School Staff Honors F. Thompson

Principal A. K. Macleod presented the teachers' token of appreciation for the many extra-services which Mr. Thompson had performed for them during the many years he served on the staff.

Education Week Open House Brings 250 on Visit to Summerland Schools

Wednesday afternoon, March 4, from 2 p.m. was chosen as Open House time in Summerland during Education Week. Parents of children in the schools and many others enjoyed seeing the pupils at their work, and were pleased to have an opportunity of chatting with the teachers.

Two hundred and fifty signed the visitors' book at the MacDonald School yesterday afternoon where Mr. S. A. MacDonald, the principal greeted guests at the door. Some of the grades kept an individual visitors' book.

Fewer registered attendance in the junior-senior high school, but it is thought a number equal to those who visited the elementary school were there, and welcomed by the principal, Mr. A. K. Macleod.

An innovation was the nursery established and staffed in the music room by members of the P.T.A. P-TA members served tea from the home economics room, and this was well patronized and appreciated after a tour of the large schools.

Dave McInnis is taking Walt Toews as third, Dr. L. A. Day second and Sandy Munn lead.

Joycees Protest Lack of Notice

Summerland Joycees, meeting on Tuesday evening at the Nu-Way Annex, took a dim view of the lack of notice for the regional meeting held in Penticton last Sunday. The regional officers failed to send out any notice to Summerland and as a consequence no local Joycees were present for the deliberations.

As this is the second time such an omission has occurred, the Joycees agreed that a strongly-worded letter should be sent to the regional provincial vice-president, Clare Way in Penticton.

President Ted Weeks announced that the proposed tour of Phil Farmer, Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce president, has been cancelled, including the arrangements for a district meeting at Oliver.

Day of Prayer on February 29 Draws Large Attendance Here

Women the world around were called to observe a day of prayer for a better world for all people on Friday, Feb. 29. From dawn on the Fiji Islands to dusk on the Arctic island of St. Lawrence, women of one hundred and four countries united in services of praise, penitence, and dedication on this great day, underlining the year-round bond among Christians.

About one hundred women of Summerland met in the Pentecostal church on Friday afternoon, in the largest observance of the day ever held here, with Mrs. C. W. Marshall, wife of the minister of the Pentecostal church as leader.

Mrs. S. A. MacDonald gave the address, telling of the work of the Lady Kinnaird hospital at Lucknow, India, where for forty years women of Summerland have maintained a bed. The collection taken annually at this service goes towards the upkeep of this bed.

She read an inspiring letter which told of the life of a little girl who had been given care and affection at this hospital, and who has grown up to be a nurse, herself, and cited this story as an example of the potentialities of the institution.

Others who took part in the service representing the various denominations were Mrs. J. W. Clark, United; Mrs. F. V. Harrison, St. Stephen's; Mrs. H. W. Ellis, Baptist; Mrs. E. C. Deringer, Trout Creek; and Mrs. Helen Miller, Free Methodist.

Mrs. D. Turnbull, as soloist, sang "Down Here", with its apt lines, "To the great God of peace, I feel I must pray".

Miss Melva Stevenson was pianist for the service.

Young Couple to Make Home Here After Coast Trip

A pretty, quiet wedding of interest to Summerland and Penticton took place on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 23, in the United church, Penticton, when Edith Valentine (Valley) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Lewis, West Summerland, was married to Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, West Summerland. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Ernest Rands, minister of Penticton United church.

For the ceremony the church was decorated with pink and white geraniums.

The bride wore a lovely grey tulle, with grey accessories, pink headress with trimming of pink and blue forget-me-nots and pink veil, was given in marriage by her father. Her bridal bouquet was of pale yellow daffodils and white carnations.

As her sister's bridesmaid, Miss Kay Lewis also wore a grey tulle, topped by a white flowered hat, and carried a bouquet of pale blue flowers intermingled with white roses.

The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Cully Johnson.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Lewis wore an attractive black and white dressmaker suit with corsage of white carnations. The mother of the groom, Mrs. Johnson, had chosen a brown suit with grey accessories and corsage en tone.

The young couple left after the service for a honeymoon trip to the coast, the bride donning a white polo coat over her wedding ensemble for travelling.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Sagman, New Westminster; Mr. Bill Lewis, Prince George, brother of the bride; Mrs. Thelma Ackerley, and the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Ackerley, Penticton.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will make their home at West Summerland.

Ladies' Auxiliary to Hospital Given Credit for Valuable Support

Thirty-four members were able to do a tremendous amount of work for the Summerland General hospital it was revealed in reports submitted to the annual hospital meeting in the Parish hall last Thursday afternoon, on activities of the Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary.

Mrs. Norris Laidlaw, Mrs. M. Embree and Mrs. T. B. Lott submitted reports which gave a clear picture of the tremendous amount of work carried out.

"It would be hopeless for me to try and describe all the things that the auxiliary has done for the hospital during the past year," declared Secretary J. E. O'Mahony. "I would like to mention that of the donations received last year, amounting to $1,717.93, all but about $6 was contributed by the auxiliary, either in goods or cash."

Mrs. T. B. Lott's treasurer's report indicated an expenditure of $1,074.31 last year. Biggest single item was $600 for furnishings for the hospital. The auxiliary's contributions towards painting was $117, while the canning project cost $185.

Against that cost, however, the value of the fruit canned was estimated, on a wholesale level, at about $750.

Mrs. Lott also revealed that a surplus of $290.82 existed after the oxygen tent had been purchased. Overbed tables costing $174.58 had been purchased from this fund, while the balance of $116.25 went towards the cost of the vacuum cleaner.

In order to raise funds, the auxiliary catered to a great many luncheons and banquets, sold cards and calendars and operated a tea and raffle.

Miss Van Allen made her annual donation of $100 towards upkeep of the Van Allen wing, while auxiliary members made regular visits to the hospital with a basket of gifts and supplies for patients.

The dorcas report, presented by Mrs. Embree, listed hundreds of items provided the hospital by the auxiliary.

The European team gained 800 points on this deal in their 1950 World Championship match against U.S.A. East opened One Club at both tables; the American South passed, but the Swedish South considered a One Heart overall justified on his two-suited hand. In the first case the American North's jump to Two Spades over West's One Diamond, although strengthening, was an inadequate effort. South bid Three Hearts, raised to Four Hearts by North, and was eventually pushed up to Five in the wrong trump suit. This contract was three down. In Room 2 North's hand was improved by his partner's Heart call, and he settled the trump suit with a jump to Four Spades. The Americans in the end had to sacrifice in Six Diamonds doubled.

New Approach to Building Bylaw Found by Council

A new approach to the building bylaw was found at last week's council session when council agreed that the provision regarding only two residential buildings on a property does not apply when more than one person is the registered owner of the property. G. E. Baynes and Dr. Cannons, Vancouver residents, are registered joint owners of lakeshore property at Trout Creek. It is a large property and contains 8.2 acres and one house, that formerly occupied by the Dutton family, is already built there.

The two owners desire to build new homes with the eventual intention of retiring there from the coast. But they do not wish to subdivide the property in order to be able to build these two homes.

After further reading the bylaw, council agreed that the two new homes could proceed as these two men are both registered owners of the property. If only one was registered and they both desired to build, then it would not comply with the bylaw.

Nakusp Meets Celgar Corporation Men to Talk Over Future

NAKUSP—Axel Brandstrom, woods manager of the Celgar Corporation, told Nakusp Rotarians that it will take two years to complete a pulp mill in that centre; in 1954, between 50 and 60 million feet of logs will be put into the water and in 1955 full-scale operation, cutting 150-200 million feet on Arrow Lakes, will be observed.

Wick Gray, managing-director of the Big Bend Lumber Co. at Nakusp stated his company would participate in the logging operation for Celgar Corp.

A large and representative meeting of all Nakusp and district lumbering personnel was held at the home to Mrs. C. S. Leary to meet Mr. Brandstrom and Mr. H. Reid of Celgar Corporation. A thorough discussion of the proposed forest management licence took place. All aspects of the proposal were gone into, it is understood, but no definite assurance as to the future of the independent lumberman could be given.

FOR THE GO-AHEAD FRUITGROWER THERE'S MONEY AT "MY BANK"

There are times when the fruitgrower finds that the efficient running of his orchard calls for more ready cash than he can immediately lay hands on. He may want the money for orchard help, or spray and fertilizer. He may need some new machinery, for which he will get better terms if he pays cash. He may want to make improvements to his home and buildings.

If you have a financing problem of this sort, pay a call on Ivor Solly, manager of the Bank of Montreal at West Summerland. B of M loans to growers carry an agreeably low rate of interest, and are repayable on terms especially suited to the seasonal nature of orchard income.

Get the best out of your orchard by using a B of M Farm Loan to provide needed equipment and supplies.—Adv.

Dr. J. C. Wilcox Again Heads Cancer Society

All officers of Summerland branch of the Canadian Cancer Society were returned to office last week when the annual meeting at the parish hall drew a small attendance.

Dr. J. C. Wilcox will continue as president, Howard Pruden vice-president, Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony secretary and E. R. Butler treasurer. Honorary president is Dr. A. W. Vanderburgh.

Mrs. O'Mahony is regional representative on the B.C. division of the Cancer Society while Howard Pruden was selected as Summerland delegate at the annual conference at the coast, which will be held March 17 and 18.

Local branch took no action on a proposal which emanated from northern B.C. points requesting permission for cancer suspects to deal directly with the cancer institute rather than through the medical profession, if they so desired.

It was felt that there would be a danger of too many persons seeking transportation expenses to the coast without any reliable belief that they might be cancer patients, if this suggestion was carried out.

Directors re-elected consist of Reeve C. E. Bentley, Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh, J. J. Green, A. R. Dunsdon, W. A. Laidlaw, Ken Boothe, G. Hallquist, Ken Heales, Alan Butler and Miss I. Stewart, PHN.

It was announced that the Kiwanis Club of Summerland would conduct the annual drive for funds commencing in April.

Rest Rooms in Park Would Cost $4,000 Parks Board Claims

W. G. Snow, chairman of the board of parks commissioners, submitted sketches of a proposed building, 16 x 26 feet, which would serve as public rest rooms for the Living Memorial park playground, to council last week.

This is the sketch which was drawn up in 1947 by the Summerland Memorial Parks Committee for the northwest corner of the park playground but was later dropped when the council of that day suggested incorporation of the rest room facilities in the municipal hall being proposed at that time.

In 1947, this building was estimated at $2,350. Today it would cost at least $4,000, Mr. Snow informed the council.

A contractor's estimate on a plan along these lines will be obtained by Reeve C. E. Bentley and submitted to council, it was decided.

The proposed building has two rooms divided by a third room which would be used as a store-room as well as providing heating facilities.

It was suggested that some toilet and washroom facilities might be salvaged from the old high school and gymnasium on school grounds.

RECORD SHIPMENT—This mammoth marine boiler is one of two which moved out of Montreal by C.N.R. recently en route to Saint John, N.B. from Collingwood, Ont., and are believed to be the largest freight shipment ever handled by a railway in North America. They measure 19 feet high from the rails and are 13 feet six inches wide. To provide clearance for the 68-ton giants, switch stands and signals along the route have to be removed and a crew of sectionmen and signal maintainers are travelling with the train to replace them.

Fire Marshal Wants 40-Foot Ladder

According to the provincial fire marshal's report, the Summerland fire brigade maintained good interest in the instructional school held here on January 30 and 31. The instructors reported that the brigade needs a 40-foot triple extension ladder, more hose and a recreational room for brigade members.

Councillor Francis Stuart reported to council last week that the type of ladder suggested would cost $500. More hose is in brigade requisitions for this year.

It is hoped that a brigade room

Electricians and Council Negotiate

Reeve C. E. Bentley reported to Tuesday's council meeting last week that council in committee had met the representative of the electrical workers' bargaining committee and negotiations are still in progress. The two electrical workers, who are now members of the Vancouver union, are seeking a new wage agreement with the municipality.

Wing Lee is Happy; Wife Here from China

Wing Lee, proprietor of the local Chinese laundry is a happy man this week, as his wife from whom he has been separated for 15 years, has arrived in Canada.

About a year ago, Wing Lee's son, aged 16, arrived from China and told his father of conditions in China. Wing Lee, or Luey Wing Fong, as he is also known, immediately commenced negotiations to have his wife come to Summerland.

She arrived last week and although she cannot speak any English she is looking forward to her new life in this new, strange country.

Midnight Patrols Cause of Mileage

RCMP Constable I. G. Thorsteinson appeared before municipal council last week to explain the 823 miles charged the municipality in January, which was quite in excess of the mileage in other months. He agreed that January had been an exceptional month and the RCMP constables had been required to do a great deal of patrolling as late as midnight on a number of days that month.

Councillor H. R. J. Richards expressed most interest in the figures, expressing the fear that if mileage charged the municipality this year continued at the same rate Summerland would have to pay a much higher car allowance to the RCMP in 1953.

Blakeborough Likes Standard of Work

In commenting on the recent substation erection in Summerland, H. A. Blakeborough, Kelowna, supervising engineer on the job wrote the municipal council last week testifying "to the class of work of the Graham Electric and your own (municipal) staff."

"I consider the municipality fortunate in having a staff who takes such an interest in the work of the municipality," Mr. Blakeborough commented.

Commission Clears Way for Flood Control

In the legislature this week, Premier Byron I. Johnson put an end to rumors which had circulated in the Okanagan that the Okanagan flood control project had not been finalized to as great an extent as Hon. R. W. Mayhew, minister of fisheries, intimated in telegraphic news from Ottawa earlier last month.

O. L. Jones, MP for Yale, received word last week from Hon. Alphonse Fournier, minister of public works in Ottawa that the joint international commission on waterways had not yet submitted its report to Ottawa on the controversial subject of fish ladders being included in the control project in connection with Okanagan Lake and River straightening.

According to Lester B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs, the international joint commission has recommended that work on the project for flood control be proceeded with as soon as practicable and that no delay for installation of fish ladders is contemplated.

Accordingly, the provincial public works department had wired Ottawa it is prepared to proceed with the work immediately.

Premier Johnson announced in Victoria that Ottawa had informed him the recommendation of the international joint commission in connection with the proposed Okanagan flood control project had been endorsed by the entire membership of both the Canadian and American sectors.

He quoted Hon. L. B. Pearson that "it is now proposed to authorize that work proceed immediately, taking into account views and recommendations of the commission insofar as practicable and to advise the United States government that the report of the international joint commission has been taken under consideration and it has been noted that, after full enquiry, the commission has recommended that work on the project for flood control be proceeded with as soon as practicable."

Plans for the project have been sent to Ottawa already and it is expected that authorization for an early start will be given shortly, the premier declared.

Recommendations of the international joint commission are as follows:

- (a) Work on the project for flood control be proceeded with as soon as practicable.
- (b) The plans for the channel rectification be developed to retain as large a percentage of the existing blueblack spawning area as possible and to provide in the section of the river channel under improvement, where possible, other suitable spawning areas in lieu of those that will be destroyed.
- (c) During the progress of the work above Oliver intake dam it would be advantageous if the reach of Okanagan River from Osoyoos Lake to the Oliver intake dam were kept under observation by the Canadian authorities concerned and a study of the blueblack salmon runs were made in the reach with a view to due consideration being given by these authorities to the matter after consultation with the approval of United States fisheries officials, and before any action is taken which might have the effect of disturbing any existing spawning beds below Oliver intake dam.
- (d) Work on channel rectification between the Oliver intake dam and Osoyoos Lake and operation of the entire project after completion should be carried on in such a manner as to result in a minimum of disturbance to migrating blueblack salmon or to their spawn.

Slough at Powell Beach Needs 3,000 Yards of Fill

Some 3,000 yards of dirt would be needed to fill the slough at Powell Beach and to hire trucks and a dragline the cost would be $1,200, W. G. Snow, parks board chairman, informed council on Tuesday, Feb. 26.

However, the parks board is still working on a plan to use an anchor and dragline in the lake in order to fill the slough. Foreman E. Kercher is working with the board in this endeavor.

If the plan proves successful, then the work could be completed for under $500, Mr. Snow declared. The parks board has a sum of $500 set aside for capital improvement.

Summerland Has Clear Lead In Commercial Loop Playoffs

First round of the playoff games at the Penticton arena in the commercial loop saw No. 1 and 2 teams at the end of the league season come out on top with victories.

Summerland defeated Contractors 3-0 and Merchants walloped Packers last Sunday afternoon in the first games of the round robin series in which each team meets every other team twice.

Although the final period was inclined to be ragged, the two teams showed some good hockey and Arnold Paul covered himself with glory between the sticks, shutting out the Contractors and turning in his best performance of the season.

As usual, the brand of refereeing left a lot to be desired, this being one of the big drawbacks to play in this league, according to local fans.

Dick Steining was the chief point-getter, scoring the first counter in the second stanza and getting two assists. Roberge and Taylor each scored and were recorded with one assist.

1st Period: No score, no penalties.

2nd Period: 1, Summerland, Steining (Roberge) 8:35.

Penalties: Howard, Klasoff, Taylor.

3rd Period: 2, Summerland, Taylor (Steining) 1:09; 3, Summerland, Roberge (Steining, Taylor) 3:21.

Penalty: Howard.

Beat Garagemen 6-2

Last night, Summerland added another victory in the round robin playoffs with a victory over Penticton Garagemen, by a 6-2 score.

It was a fast-skating contest, with young Al Hooker netting four, counters for his best exhibition of the year to lead the victorious Summerland team.

Penticton Contractors pulled the surprise of the evening with a 3-2 victory over the Merchants' team. This gives Summerland a clear lead being the only team with two victories and no losses.

George Taylor needed six stitches to stop the flow of blood when he was "high-sticked" by Harris of the Garagemen early in the third period.

Many fans and players consider that some player will be seriously hurt in this commercial league unless, more competent refereeing provides a better control of the play. Some mighty rough contests have been observed this season on the Penticton arena ice in these commercial loop games.

1st Period: 1, Summerland, Hooker (Siegrist, Frisby) 7:05; 2, S. Taylor (Steining) 10:40; 3, P. Sams (Newton, Harris) 15:17; 4, S. Taylor (Steining) 15:35.

Penalties: Lawson, Frisby.

2nd Period: 5, Summerland, Hooker (Seigrist) 5:17.

Penalties: Bella, Howard, Johnston.

3rd Period: 6, S. Hooker (Eyre) 1:56; 7, S. Hooker (Eyre, Seigrist) 7:06; 8, P. Santon (Johnston) 14:59.

Penalties: Harris (5 min.), Bella.

Johnny Ray is Tops At Amber Ski Meet

PRINCETON—Johnny Ray, Amber's Olympic team selection, took top A class jumping honors with 203.8 points at Amber's Ski club annual meet. Dudley Paul was next with 198.7. Scotty Cook won B class 196.9 to Steve Kassa's 164.3. In the junior jump class Stewart Muir nosed out John Francis 188.7 to 174.9.

Summerland is Shut Out 10-0 In Coy Cup

Any idea that Summerland could contest further the Coy Cup play-downs was extinguished suddenly and thoroughly on Thursday evening at Penticton when Kelowna All Stars defeated Summerland All Stars 10-0.

This was such a decisive victory for the Orchard City that no further game was ordered and Kelowna will now meet Vernon in the next round of the Okanagan playoffs which is the stepping stone towards Coy Cup championship.

Both teams played fast, exciting hockey for the first period, and play was about even, neither team being able to bulge the twine.

But from midway through the second period Kelowna dominated the play. The pace was too much and Summerland wilted under the continued onslaught.

Five Kelowna goals were rapped home in the final ten minutes of the second period and the same number in the third stanza as Eddie Witt's boys proved their superiority once the "ice was broken".

Youthful Brian Casey, who played junior hockey in the Crows' Nest loop last year, led the Kelowna scorers with four goals, one over the hat trick.

1st Period: No score, no penalties. 2nd Period: 1, Kel, Casey (Wolfe, Witt) 6:32; 2, Kel., Sunderland (O'Reilly) 13:23; 3, Kel., Casey (Lipsett) 14:02; 4, Kel., Sunderland (Casey) 17:19; 5, Kel., Casey

Badminton Champs Compete at Spokane

Dave Waddell and George Fudge, the two top men of the Summerland badminton club, travel to Spokane this weekend to participate in the Washington State badminton championships being held on Saturday and Sunday, March 8 and 9.

On the same days, Anne Carney and Dorothy MacLeod will represent Summerland at the B.C. Central Interior badminton championships being staged on the Kelowna courts.

Packers Beat Elks to Take Valley Title

Kelowna Packers, who finished in third place in final standings of the Okanagan Mainline Senior Hockey league, proved they are champion-toppers when they swept through the highly-touted Kamloops Elks three games to one to capture the league championship and the Willoughby cup, emblematic of the league title.

Packers, inspired by the clever generalship of their playing-coach, Phil Hergesheimer, dropped the first game at Kamloops 3-0, walloped the Elks 7-2 at Kelowna, edged out the Elks 4-3 in the north and climaxed a wonderful series with a 5-0 whitewash in Kelowna Saturday night.

The faster, younger Kelowna team skated the Elks into the ice on Saturday night and held the famous Bathgate-Clovechok-Millard line at bay throughout the contest.

Packers now take on the Nanaimo Clippers at Kelowna in a series which decides the team to play the winners of the Western International league series in the Kootenays. The winner of this B.C. championship goes into inter-provincial playdowns for the Allen cup.

In the semifinals of the Okanagan series, Kelowna Packers disposed of Vernon-Canadians in three straight games.

One rather unusual feature of this league was that the three Kamloops first-string forwards finished the league schedule tied for scoring honors with 79 points apiece.

Clovechok had 45 goals and 34 assists, Bathgate had 27 goals and 52 assists, while Millard scored 31 goals and 48 assists. Hryciuk, also of Kamloops was fourth with 68 points and Warwick of Penticton fifth with 67 points.

Highest scoring Packer player was Coach Hergesheimer in 11th place, tied with Willie Schmidt of Penticton, each having 48 points.

Olympic Ski Jump Champion Popular at Revelstoke Ski-Club

Arnfinn Bergmann, who last week won the Olympic jumping championship of the Winter Olympics for his native Norway, has been residing in Revelstoke for the past year and is a member of the Revelstoke Ski Club.

His winning point total was 226, which gave him a strong edge over his fellow-countryman, Torbjorn Falkanger, who returned to Norway from the University of Washington in time for the Winter Olympics. Arnfinn's best jump was 223 feet 1 1/4 inches.

Says Mary McCrae in her Ski-Do's column in the Revelstoke Review: "He (Arnfinn) worked untiringly with the junior jumpers throughout the season and was a source of inspiration to them. The juniors very conscientiously remember his coaching hints whenever they have practice sessions on the jump."

Penalties: O'Reilly, Casey.

3rd Period: 6, Kel., Wolfe (Lipsett) 4:59; 7, Kel., Sunderland (Shaeffer) 5:15; 8, Kel., Witt, 8:10; 9, Kel., Casey 18:20; 10, Kel., Lipsett, 19:00.

Penalties: O'Reilly.

ELMER LACH, the old master playmaker, recently walked into hockey history's dusty corridors and carved himself a niche. The elegant one surpassed Bill Cowley's all-time points record and set a new mark of 550—to date the greatest assister and points man the game has known.

Summerland Down 12 Points To Vernon in Cage Playoffs

Vernon's strong Senior C basketball team took a 12-point lead into the second game of the interior playoffs at Vernon last night when they defeated Summerland 60-48.

Second game of the total-point series, scheduled for Summerland on Saturday night, has been postponed until Monday evening because of the inability of Vernon to field a team Saturday.

Local hoopsters are hoping that a good-sized crowd will be on hand on Monday night at the school gym to give them encouragement in this important contest.

Winner of this series plays the winner of the Keremeos-Oliver contest being played this weekend.

At Vernon last night, Don Nesbitt had a big evening, leading Summerland with 16 markers, but he could not withstand the pressure from Serge Sammartino and Correalle, who potted 19 points each.

Summerland trailed 11 to 7 in the first quarter and 24-22 at the half-way mark. The southern lads bucked up in the third quarter and saved two points off the lead, to leave the count with ten minutes

Red Cross "Blitz" Set For Monday; Hope for Quick Drive

March 17, St. Patrick's Day, has seen many a "blitz" in years gone by, but it is hoped by those in charge of organizing the Red Cross drive in Summerland that next Monday will exceed the expectations of even the most optimistic Irishman.

The AOTS Club, under President E. E. Bates, is organizing the Red Cross campaign in Summerland district and has planned an "all-out" drive for next Monday, March 17.

If approximately 100 canvassers can be obtained for the one night, then the entire district should be covered in one to two hours, the organizers claim.

Social Credit In Power Soon Says Bennett

W. A. C. Bennett, Independent M.L.A. for South Okanagan who now favors Social Credit party, told the legislature in Victoria last Friday that B.C. will have a Social government after the next election.

No copy of Mr. Bennett's statements have been forthcoming from the member to this paper, but according to CP despatches Mr. Bennett delivered his speech amid a barrage of interruptions.

He said Liberals and Progressive Conservatives will go out of power in the coming election and "won't come back for 50 years."

He pointed to Social Credit as the "new hope" for tens of thousands of persons in B.C., as "Social Credit in Alberta is the best government in Canada."

In describing his new party affiliation, Mr. Bennett said Social Credit is in favor of free enterprise but opposed to monopolies, in favor of social reform but opposed to state socialism, is not the political arm of any economic group and is a Christian movement but represents no particular sect.

At New Westminster on Monday, Mr. Bennett told a Social Credit meeting that the breakup in B.C.'s coalition by dismissing Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb was a "phony."

Mr. Bennett declared the move was planned after the defeat of the government candidate in the Esquimalt by-election. In declaring that Premier Johnson's story "doesn't ring true," he believed "it was a method of taking over, not only the government but the opposition too."

Mr. Johnson realized the ship was sinking and looked for an excuse to throw overboard some of the cargo. He threw out the Conservatives.

Herb Capozzi to Address Public Meeting Friday

Harold (Herb) Capozzi, young Kelowna scholar and orator who spent a year of study and travel in Italy under the Rotary Foundation Fellowship, will address a public gathering in the new high school auditorium tomorrow night.

Mr. Capozzi comes from Kelowna under the auspices of the Rotary Club of Summerland, who have issued a general invitation to the public to hear this young man who will have a subject of wide interest.

During 1952-53 the Rotary Foundation Fellowship is providing 111 scholarships similar to the one granted Mr. Capozzi, to enable students to visit foreign countries and foster good will and understanding between nations.

In the afternoon, Herb Capozzi will address the high school students in their auditorium.

Accounts passed for payment at Tuesday's council meeting totalled $28,004.71.

Survey Crew for Summerland-Deep Creek Road to Come Here Soon

Modernization of the Pentleton-Trout Creek section of Okanagan highway as the first step in the complete reconstruction of the entire section from Pentleton to Deep Creek is definitely included in the public works estimates for 1952, advices from Victoria indicate.

N. M. McCallum, chief engineer for the public works department, in replying to Summerland Board of Trade correspondence, declared that "we have included in our proposed program for this year the reconstruction of the section of highway between Pentleton and Trout Creek."

Although the survey plans are not known publicly yet, it is understood that the entire roadway will be widened by extending it into the lake somewhat, while most of the twists and turns will be eliminated.

Another important point stressed by Mr. McCallum is that "in the meantime, we are endeavoring to carry out a survey on the remaining portion between Summerland and Peachland."

Contacted by The Review last week, Assistant District Engineer Myers in Pentleton declared he hoped the survey party will be on

Although not prepared to take on the entire campaign, the Jaycees have signified their intention of canvassing a large section of the community such as Trout Creek, lower town and Crescent Beach.

The Rotary Club is believed to be providing at least ten canvassers for another section, while individual canvassers and the AOTS Club members will take over the rest of the municipality.

Mr. Bates is hopeful that at least fifty canvassers will be on the job next Monday night prepared to take certain sections.

Size of the districts to be covered depends entirely on the number of people who volunteer to help, Mr. Bates emphasizes. If 100 canvassers started out at 6:30 o'clock next Monday night, then the entire municipality could be covered in an hour or two at the most, his committee points out.

But from present indications there will probably be about 50 ready to make their rounds.

Need Many Canvassers
Other functions already lined up for Monday night are interfering with arrangements to a minor degree, but Mr. Bates points out that a prospective canvasser need not hold back just because a previous engagement prevents him from completing his district Monday night.

It would be ideal if everybody could be contacted on the one evening but further call backs in certain cases are practically certain to result.

The Kiwanis Club had already agreed to undertake the cancer drive in April and did not feel it should take a large part in the Red Cross drive first. Besides, the Kiwanians had already arranged to take their wives to the CWL St. Patrick's supper on Monday evening, which would make it awkward for members to take part in the campaign at the start of next week, it was pointed out last Monday evening.

The AOTS Club hopes all residents will leave their homes on next Monday night to show a greeting to the canvasser and to indicate that the house is occupied.

Also, if persons have their donations ready, the work of the canvasser will be lightened considerably.

Although Summerland's quota remains the same, it is actually more than has been collected here in the past three years. However, the provincial and national quotas for the Red Cross have had to be raised this year because of increased costs of operation, so it is hoped by the Red Cross officials that the goal will be reached.

If any persons wish to volunteer for any duties in connection with the Red Cross campaign they can contact E. E. Bates, general chairman of the drive at 2247 or campaign headquarters at the A. K. Elliott department store.

Injures Eye in Coast Accident

Mr. Walter Heichert, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Heichert, who works in a garage in Vancouver, had the misfortune to injure his eye in an accident which occurred while he was working.

His parents, and his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kopp, and their children, went out to Vancouver last week to see him, returning after a few days' visit.

the job here within two weeks.

As a result of the locating party's survey, the new course of the Trout Creek to Deep Creek portion of the highway will be determined.

It has long been known that the department is seriously considering extending the highway on a fairly straight course from Evans Point to Windy Point, building the road in fairly shallow water of Okanagan Lake and bypassing the lower town and packinghouse section entirely.

The railway loading wharf would have to be extended into the lake in this instance, it is considered.

A large stockpile of two-inch and 4-inch material for road bed and surfacing has been placed in readiness by the public works department near the experimental station. This material is for use on the Pentleton-Trout Creek section.

Mr. Myers states that another gravel pit has been located near the Greats Ranch and will supply material for the northern portion of the highway once the location has been determined and the legislature passes the necessary appropriation.

Proposed Municipal Hall to be Subject of Discussion at Public Meeting Called by Board of Trade Next Wednesday

Municipal Hall Plan to Be Presented to Public Meeting Next Wednesday

Next Wednesday, March 19, the high school auditorium will be the scene of a big public rally planned by the Summerland Board of Trade in conjunction with the municipal council for an open and frank discussion of the problem of a new municipal hall in Summerland.

One of the principal points regarding this proposal was instanced again at council meeting on Tuesday.

Under the new RCMP contract, better facilities for the police are a "must" or the contract will be cancelled. Police force officers are insisting on better quarters, addition of a cell, and improvements in equipment.

It is proposed that when the municipal hall bylaw receives support and a move to better quarters can be made, the old building will be given sufficient renovation to transform it into quarters for the union library and fire brigade.

According to new plans, the police will be housed in a portion of the municipal hall, provided ratepayers give their consent, it is stated.

This new plan would provide the police with headquarters more suitable to the dignity of their position, council has been told.

Further details of the council's plans for the suitable housing of its clerical and works staffs, the library, magistrate, fire brigade and police will be given fully at next Wednesday's meeting.

It is also understood the council has four alternatives for financing the proposed building. No details of the plans will be made public by the council until next Wednesday's meeting at the high school auditorium.

Singers Obtain Japanese Fans For the Mikado

Real Japanese fans have been obtained by the Summerland Singers & Players' Club for the annual Gilbert & Sullivan comic opera performance which this spring is the Mikado, one of the best known of the series.

From Kobe, Japan, has come a lovely hand-painted Japanese fan made of silk and bamboo, with 24 inch ribs and a 42-inch spread when opened to its fullest extent.

Three smaller fans have also been obtained from the Far East to add color to the performance.

In Summerland, the Mikado is being presented on Monday, March 24, with performances at Kelowna on March 26 and Oliver, March 28.

Reserved seats have gone on sale already at Green's Drug Store here and a packed high school auditorium is practically assured from the amount of interest this presentation has aroused already.

Fire Chief Accepts Lower Annual Salary

Fire Chief Ed Gould has accepted the council offer of $1,200 for his annual stipend plus $10 per month car allowance. This is an increase of $100 per year in salary with the same car allowance as last year. In the fire brigade estimates, an amount in total of $1,500 for the fire chief was stipulated, but council proposed the lower offer. Reeve Bentley reported to council on behalf of the municipal fire committee on Tuesday.

Wilcox Will Talk To London Congress

It has been announced that Dr. J. C. Wilcox of the Summerland experimental station staff, will be a speaker at the International Horticultural Congress to be held in London, England, in September. Dr. Wilcox will speak on "Irrigation of Deciduous Orchards."

He will leave for England about the end of July, accompanied by Mrs. Wilcox, their daughter, Miss Eileen Wilcox, and Mrs. Wilcox's sister, Miss Eileen McKenzie of Nelson.

They expect to return about the first of October.

Civil Defence to Call Meeting Soon

Lt. Col. J. H. Horn, civil defence director for the Okanagan will come to Summerland shortly to address the local civil defence organization. Reeve C. E. Bentley informed The Review last week following the quarterly meeting of the Okanagan Valley Municipal Assn. at Armstrong.

Col. Horn spoke shortly to the Armstrong meeting last Thursday and indicated the necessity of municipalities sharing in the cost of operating the civil defence scheme in the valley on a per capita basis.

Cost of operating the valley office in Kelowna has been estimated at $175 per month, he said.

Reeve Bentley is head of the valley civil defence committee set up by the OVMA and this group met following the OVMA session.

R. S. Oxley is Magistrate

R. S. Oxley, well known local lawyer who retired because of ill health and who has been secretary-treasurer of Summerland Branch No. 22, Canadian Legion for over a year, has been named police magistrate for the Municipality of Summerland.

Notice of his appointment has been received here following passage of an order-in-council in Victoria.

Mr. Oxley will also be a stipendiary magistrate, judge of the juvenile court and a small debts magistrate for that portion of South Okanagan electoral riding lying south of the southern boundary of Peachland municipality.

He succeeds the late Mr. Hugh Sharman, who was magistrate here for a quarter century and who passed away a month ago.

Pedestrian Seriously Hurt By Car; Boy on Bike Hit

Two serious accidents occurred within 24 hours in Summerland municipality last Friday and Saturday when a pedestrian was seriously injured when struck by a car and a young lad escaped miraculously without injuries when hit by a truck while riding a bicycle.

Benjamin E. Nash, aged 56, is making a good recovery in Summerland General hospital from a skull fracture and other injuries received when he was struck by a car. He was in a semi-conscious state for many hours and fear for his eventual recovery was expressed, but he now appears to be regaining his health.

Benjamin E. Nash is believed to have been walking toward his home in the Mayer subdivision along the Prairie Valley road when he was struck by a car driven by Bill Eyrre, Jr.

Eyrre was proceeding in the same direction as the pedestrian, but his attention was occupied by a car parked on the left hand side of the road and he failed to see the lonely man.

Bob Barkwill and Walter Powell arrived on the scene shortly after the accident and summoned medical aid for the badly-bleeding man.

The accident occurred about 11:30 o'clock Friday night opposite the Roy F. Angus home on Prairie Valley road.

RCMP Constable I. G. Thorsteinson declares himself satisfied that the driver of the car had taken all due precautions and that he could not be blamed for the accident.

Truck Hits Bicycle

On Saturday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, Douglas Mitchell, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Mitchell, rode his bicycle across the station road from a lane leading up to the Stan Taylor residence, nearly opposite the South Prairie Valley road intersection.

He rode directly in front of a Smith & Henry truck driven by Len Schepens who could not avoid hitting the young lad.

Boy and bicycle were shot into the air but it is understood the lad is now none the worse for his mishap. He was rushed to hospital where he remained under observation until yesterday when he was

No Decision Yet on Electrical Extension

Municipal council is still considering its plan to extend electrical service to outlying sections of the municipality if the prospective users are willing to pay $200 towards their share of the expense.

No decision has been reached as the council is anxious to obtain data on the number of users interested in the plan and what the total outlay would involve.

Once the entire picture is before the council, it will be in a better position to determine how far it can go towards alleviating a situation whereby a small minority of municipal taxpayers are without electrical service.

allowed to return home.

The lad and his bicycle shot across the road without warning, at a high rate of speed. The boy's body hit the windshield of the truck and then seemed to fly through the air, striking the roof of the truck and landing about three feet away.

Truck Goes Into Orchard
A third accident occurred about 9 o'clock Monday morning when a Coca-Cola truck driven by Donald H. Clark of Pentleton turned out to pass another vehicle on the Giant's Head road, went into a skid and toppled over on its side in an orchard directly north of the Anglican cemetery.

Clark was uninjured but the side of the truck was badly damaged, it was reported.

Valley Waits Decision on U.K. Export

"Without export markets the industry would have an uphill pull," was A. K. Loyd's remark when he was asked about the prospect of Okanagan selling apples to the Old Country.

A. F. Garrish, BCFA president, Mr. Loyd, J. B. Lander and A. C. Lander of the sales staff, L. R. Stephens of the shippers' federation, Reg Duncan, Pentleton governor and Col. E. Poole of the vegetable marketing agency are all in Ottawa this week endeavoring to obtain information on the prospects for sale of B.C. fruit to the Old Country next season.

Hon. C. D. Howe remarked in Ottawa this week that Canadian cheese and apple exporters would probably be the two agricultural producers hardest hit by the new, drastic budget presented by Great Britain on Tuesday.

Elimination of $300,000,000 worth of imports was a paramount feature of the British budget.

It is understood that the Okanagan delegation will endeavor to receive federal support for an export deal to South America to take the place of the British market which will probably now be lost to the valley for a time.

No definite word that the British market is out for the coming season has reached the valley yet, but it is believed in informed circles that such will be the case.

The United States offshore subsidy of $1.25 per box has prevented the Okanagan from placing its apples on many of the foreign markets who formerly looked forward to receiving this specialty fruit.

Trade Board Seeks Grant For Pamphlets

In order to publish a new tourist publicity pamphlet the Summerland Board of Trade on Tuesday sought a grant from the municipality of $150. The request has been submitted to estimates.

A delegation representing the trade board and including Vice-president Ivor Solly, Secretary Lorne Perry and Treasurer E. R. Butler, waited on council on Tuesday afternoon and presented the request.

"If essential board of trade services are to be maintained then our budget won't stand this $150 expenditure for new publicity pamphlets," Mr. Perry, spokesman for the group, declared.

He pointed out that the board's finances are curtailed this year because there is no prospect of operating the spring fair.

The publicity folder planned is not only designed to attract tourists but to interest new residents and industries, it was explained.

Mr. Butler pointed out that an active board of trade supplements the work of municipal council, attempts to publicize the advantages of a community and take care of the newcomers.

"One of the first questions a newcomer asks is: 'Have you an active board of trade?'" Mr. Butler considered.

Councillor F. E. Atkinson was in favor of the grant, providing the trade board shows its faith by endeavoring to find new means of raising funds for its projects.

Mr. Solly replied that without the support of the retail merchants it was thought unwise to attempt to carry on the spring fair.

New Site for Rest Rooms is Suggested

When Reeve C. E. Bentley reported to council on Tuesday that no further report was yet forthcoming on the proposal to build rest rooms in the town area, Councillor F. E. Atkinson suggested some type of deal might be evolved whereby a small portion of school property could be obtained directly east of the IOOF hall.

He thought this would be a better location for rest rooms rather than at the entrance to the park playground on the west side. This subject will be discussed with the school trustees.

COUNCIL PASSES SCHOOL BUDGET

Summerland school district budget was considered carefully by council at a recent committee meeting at which members of the school board were present to explain various sections of the estimates. The council in committee agreed to accept the new budget and on Tuesday formally passed a motion to this effect in open meeting.

Keep Your Porch Light on Monday

IT WAS refreshing to witness the alacrity with which the AOTS Club responded to the appeal of the local Red Cross branch last week to handle the drive for funds in this district.

Local Red Cross officials were fairly well "on the spot" when they appealed to Everett Bates and his fellow service club members to organize the financial campaign. Although they have many other projects and activities in hand, the AOTS group needed only a few hours to say definitely that they would be responsible for the carrying out of this important campaign.

Next Monday evening, it is hoped to conduct the Red Cross drive throughout the district. If sufficient canvassers can be obtained and if residents will co-operate by staying at home until the canvasser arrives, the entire campaign can be pretty well concluded in one evening.

That will be a great deal better than having the campaign drag on through the month until all persons are beginning to lose interest.

Other service clubs and other interested groups are co-operating with the AOTS to, put this campaign over the top. It is now up to the general public to determine, by its collective action, whether the one-day whirlwind "blitz" will be successful. Put your porch light on to welcome the canvasser next Monday night and bear in mind that the Red Cross needs a little more than former years in order to meet its obligations.

Capacity Turnout is Essential

NEXT Wednesday, one of the most important meetings of the year is being planned for Summerland. It is the general public meeting which is being called by the board of trade for an open and frank discussion on the subject of the proposed municipal office building.

Last fall, as we can well remember, the by-law proposed by the municipal council, did not obtain a sufficient majority to allow it to pass. The margin was slight, but more than 200 persons did not favor the financial arrangement of the municipal council.

Since that time, many reasons have been advanced why that number of persons did not favor the proposal. The municipal council has listened to these reasons and now proposes to alter its plans somewhat. Next week's meeting will hear four different plans proposed by the municipal council. It is the trade board's hope that the auditorium of the school will be filled to capacity so that the municipal council will have a clearcut idea of the wishes of as many persons as it is possible to hear from.

A vote will be taken on the four proposals as a guide to the council before presenting a bylaw to the people on the subject of the municipal hall.

This has been one of the most contentious subjects to rock this municipality in many a year. An opportunity for every person with an idea on the subject is being provided through the medium of this public meeting. It behooves the ratepayers, especially, to be present next Wednesday along with all others who should take an interest in the af-

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

Recently I've been reading a book on her 1950 tour of Europe by a Canadian writer, Judith Robinson. (I hope you try to read Canadian and British books fairly frequently, too, instead of just taking what your book club sends you.)

Some of it is just ordinary tourist travel talk, though often well done; some of it relating to British political affairs is already outdated. But some of the observations about France and Italy were both new and interesting to me.

For instance, the book quotes a Paris editorial writer who suggests seriously that France remain neutral in the next war. It will probably be fought between United States and Russia, and the direct route is over the North Pole, (and Canada) bypassing Europe altogether. The United States stayed neutral as long as she could in the last two world wars, while France was being laid in ruins; why should not France follow the same wise course when it is America's turn to be attacked?

And the author's description of their motor visit to Italy. "At the first turn past the (French) border, a whiskey sign had blocked off three quarters of the Mediterranean. At the second turn, an advertisement of Singer Sewing machines, backed by a ten-foot-high assurance that Lavolene was the meliora lubricante had effaced the scenery altogether. Around the third turn the little car had nearly run under the back end of a parked Coca-Cola truck. Views, intruding on history, the views, intruding an history, the display advertising of American capitalism gave French Communism support, all the way. Mile after mile, vista after vista, city after city bore the signs of U.S. domination. They advertised toothpaste and toilet soap and Coca-Cola, and motor cars, and adding machines and Coca-Cola, and waterproofs and motor oil and Coca-Cola; and they recurred with the persistence of eczema wherever beauty was the most beautiful.

"Worst was to come in Milan. In Milan at evening, it came. The cathedral at Milan is northern; none of your gilt-and-marble, Florentine finickings but a solid pile of stone, crowned and covered with carved work. At sunset the tall doors were still open to the west. The level light had come to life in a shining pool far down the nave and children no higher than the bases of pillars whose carved capitals were dim with night ran in and out of the brightness. The rest was twilight and the centuries of faith and the dark radiance of colored glass."

In the square in front of the cathedral, enclosed in a framework of iron piping, "higher, higher than the saints in their niches, higher than the highest pinnacles, even with the cross on the dome of Milan Cathedral . . . an electric sky sign in the authentic manner of Broadway and Forty-Second street.

"It went on and off and on again. Drink Coca-Cola, it said . . . Later the author talked with an American traveller about the recent elections in which Italy had voted strongly for democracy.

"There was a lot of unemployment in Genoa then, as there is now . . . a damn sight more than we like to admit. People were hungry, and food was short and women were getting worried about their kids. A week before election day a couple of grain ships came in and docked. Food for the people of Genoa. Marshall Aid from the USA. Big-hearted us. But the ships didn't unload, and two or three days before the election they got up steam and went and anchored in the outer harbor and stayed there with steam up. Then the word went around that if Genoa voted Left they wouldn't be coming back in.

"So Genoa didn't vote left . . . To me, there is a good deal of explanation here of the growing anti-Americanism in Europe. We in Canada know our neighbors, their genuine belief in democracy, their great kindness for any people who are suffering; we know that their apparent eagerness to flood the world with American products and American advertising in search of still more wealth is only one facet of a many-sided people; and probably not representative of the majority, at that.

"To Europeans, seeing only the surface indications, the aggressiveness, the seeming greediness, the disregard of tradition and beauty in the race to make another dollar, those advertising billboards and Coca-Cola trucks may indeed become objects of hate. As G. K. Chesterton said when he first saw all the flashing colored signs in New York: "What a wonderful sight—for savages who could not read!"

Happenings in B.C.'s Hinterland

Capacity of the proposed Mica Creek dam site, 82 miles north of Revelstoke, was placed at 660,000 continuous kilowatts by Norman Marr, chief of the water resources division of the federal department of resources when he addressed a meeting of the Canadian Geographical Society in Ottawa.

Cranbrook Gyro club has placed a proposition before Cranbrook city council that it is willing to hand over $10,000 to be polled with an additional amount raised by money bylaw for installation of artificial ice at the memorial centre. The 1952 ice frolic netted $4,447 under Gyro club auspices.

Road and subdivision survey of the West Bench small holdings project is nearly completed at Penticton.

City council at Penticton is considering a proposal that $50,000 contingency fund be set aside for unexpected expenditures during the year.

Judgment has been reserved by Judge J. Ross Archibald in County Court in Vernon on a tax assessment appeal of a packinghouse and cold storage plant built on farm property to serve that property, namely Vernon Orchards. It is maintained by the appellants that the plant is part of farm operation and should not be assessed on a commercial basis.

Vernon's Diamond Jubilee plans are once again moving ahead and the four committee chairmen have withdrawn their resignations. All is peace and harmony now.

Two $8,000 barrel oil-storage tanks are to be erected at Kamloops at a cost approaching $200,000. They will be part of the pipeline's storage system, in the same manner as the tank-farm at Burnaby.

Construction of the new ferry wharf at the foot of Mill avenue is progressing satisfactorily in Kelowna, Dominion Construction Co. having the contract. It is built so that a second ferry slip could be constructed.

"This is the only way to voice our protest and make the government sit up and take notice," Mayor J. J. Ladd declared in advocating Kelowna's decision to take Kelowna district school estimates to arbitration. Kelowna City is faced with $256,031.89 school costs this year.

Kelowna hit an all-time record with its blood donations of 816 pints in two days last week. Previous high mark was 725, set two years ago.

The municipal council which won its case before an arbitration board last year over excessive school costs and then found that the arbitration award was meaningless—Salmon Arm—has given reluctant approval of the 1952 school district estimates. The council approved its share, $58,228, "under strong protest". Previously Salmon Arm City council had adopted the school estimates quickly.

Spallumcheen, Armstrong, Enderby councils met in joint session to review the record-breaking $250,000 School District No. 21 (Armstrong-Enderby) school budget. The meeting returned the budget for downward revision. After $7,000 had been chopped off, all three councils approved the revised estimates.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

1st Summerland Troop
It is just two weeks from the annual father and son Scout and Cub banquet, so all Scouts are reminded that they have just one more week to clean up requirements on badges if they wish to receive a badge at the banquet. Badge certificates may be obtained from Secretary Ron Lawley. Quite a few boys are interested in the new stamp collector's badge. The examiner is Mr. F. W. L. Keane.

The hike this Saturday will start at 1:15 p.m. from the furniture factory on the Kelowna highway. We shall head up toward Rattlesnake Mt. off the highway. Scouts Smith and Blewett are going ahead to lay a trail in connection with the tracker's badge. A supply of plaster of paris will be available for boys wishing to record animal tracks for this badge.

Boys are reminded to wear boots or gumboots if possible. Bring some supper. A number of Scouts wish to pass second class cooking. This requires cooking two potatoes and one quarter pound of meat. There will be an opportunity to pass various other outdoor tests as well.

Notices: Next meeting, Tuesday, March 18, full uniform. Duty patrol, Beavers.—D. V. Fisher.

High School COMMENTS

Last Friday noon, the cheer squad held a hot dog sale. A good many hot dogs were sold and everyone seemed to enjoy them. These sales, of course, are put on to raise funds so you should support the school and our cheer squad by buying all you can eat.

Probably everyone saw the car tracks across the lawn beside the school this week. I think all students should make it their duty to try and stop this sort of destruction in the future.

Although no games were played this week, the basketball teams are keeping in shape for the game against West Vancouver on April 5. Make a date to see these games because they should be good.

This week, Mr. Fisher has begun tryouts for a play which he will produce. More will be said about this as things progress, but from the looks of things, it will be as good if not better than the Henry Aldrich play, "What A Life", produced two years ago.

The camera club is hard at work this week printing and taking pictures for the annual so give them your co-operation if you are having your picture taken.

This week, the second copy of the Campus Chaff will roll off the presses. Support this paper by buying your copy. Profits from the Chaff go towards the annual, so help yourself by buying a Chaff.

Pro-Cons Didn't Break Faith In Coalition Beeston States

"We were solemnly pledged to remain in the Coalition until the end of the present government; I'll defy anybody to say that we broke faith", declared C. G. Beeston, president of the South Okanagan Progressive Conservative Assn., at the annual general meeting of the Summerland Pro-Cons at the Nu-Way Annex Thursday evening.

C. V. Nesbitt serve the party operations in other parts of the province.

He declared the party is well organized in the Fraser Valley, Greater Vancouver and on Vancouver Island.

A tremendous surge of enthusiasm swept through party ranks recently with the visit of Col. George Drew and John Diefenbaker, the two most prominent Conservatives in federal ranks, he observed.

"When you have men like that you can be proud of the Conservative party," he declared before turning towards the provincial field.

Blames Liberal Group
Mr. Beeston declared the ousting of Hon. Herbert Anscomb to have been a "clever piece of Liberal strategy", but he did not believe Mr. Anscomb had broken faith as he was charged by Liberal Premier Johnson.

"The whole move to break up Coalition came from a certain restless and ambitious group in the Liberal party," he charged. "They wanted to go back to the days when they had the freedom of hand that you know they enjoyed in days gone by."

Mr. Beeston reviewed the Liberal convention and steps which led up to Mr. Johnson's requesting Mr. Anscomb's resignation.

"The Liberals recognized that Mr. Anscomb was getting a great deal of the credit which he deserved, and they didn't like that," Mr. Beeston charged.

For thirty years, B.C. has never had a finance minister like Herbert Anscomb, Mr. Beeston continued, declaring him to be "the most faithful public servant this

Guide News

At last meeting on March 5, a color party was picked for the evening. The Guides formed a horse-shoe and the color party marched on. We were inspected in the horse-shoe. Each patrol was given 10 points, with one point being deducted for each default in uniform.

We will use this form of inspection from now on, as it gives practice in marching and handling of the colors.

We would very much like to welcome Mrs. McIntosh back. She has been with us for three weeks.

We give a hearty welcome to our new lieutenant, Miss Barraud, who has been coming since the beginning of the year.

A relay on the tenderfoot tests was played. We were all found to be a little rusty on that. The Buttercups won 5 points and the Pimpernel 3.

Mrs. Greer was there giving lessons to those taking the dancers' badge. She has done a wonderful job so far.

At campfire we discussed plans for our St. Patrick's tea, which is to be held on March 22.

Mrs. Bob Barkwell will be at a meeting soon to test some of the Guides on the health badge.

There is going to be a patrol leaders' camp at Wilson's Landing this summer. All P/L's are hoping to attend.

Nearly a full turnout this week. Keep it up, boys. The District Cubmaster from Penticton, Mrs. Tidball, was up to visit us. She presented John Lott with his first star, also told the boys a very interesting story. Everyone enjoyed her visit very much.

province ever had."

He declared himself proud to be associated with men like Anscomb, Carson, Eyres and MacDonald, and stated there is no more respected name in British Columbia politics than that of Ernie Carson, who was given the biggest spending job in the province.

"We haven't had a public works head for years who put his program on a stand and took a long-term view of the needs of this province like Ernie Carson did," Mr. Beeston continued, again declaring that the affairs of the party are in good shape.

Mr. Beeston warned that with the single transferable vote an alteration in election campaigning will be necessary.

Warns of Possible Slogan

He also warned that the Liberal party will probably try to campaign on the slogan: "We are the only party which can save B.C. from socialism." He disagreed with this sentiment and believed the campaign will actually be waged between the two old-line parties, Liberals and Conservatives.

In conclusion he pointed out there is a great difference between social legislation and socialism and declared the Conservative party has always been a leader in introducing social legislation in this country.

Officers elected included Hon. George Drew and Hon. Herbert Anscomb, honorary presidents, C. V. Nesbitt, president; A. M. Temple, vice-president; Harvey Walton, secretary-treasurer; A. K. Elliott, C. W. Haddrell, Mrs. J. Y. Towgood, H. R. Richards and Francis Steuart.

S. A. MacDonald To Lead Rotary Club Next Term

S. A. MacDonald was the unanimous choice of the Rotary Club of Summerland on Friday evening at the Nu-Way Annex when nominations for the 1952-53 year were called.

Mr. MacDonald was unopposed and will be declared elected by acclamation when voting takes place at a future meeting of the club. He will take over the presidency from Reid Johnston on July 1.

A four-way contest for vice-presidency is looming with Mel Duggan, Ken Boothe, Alan Cross and Ivor Solly as the contestants. The defeated candidates for this post, along with Ross McLachlan, Harvey Wilson, J. W. Mitchell, Dr.

Water Content Low in Hills West of Town

There is little change in the snow picture in the Okanagan, according to the B.C. snow survey bulletin issued by the water rights branch of the department of lands and forests on March 1.

The heavy snow packs of the West Kootenay extend into the East Okanagan drainage with snow water contents being 100 percent of last year and 120 percent of normal.

However, the western portion of the Okanagan basin, including the Similkameen, have considerably lighter snow packs, with water contents 65 percent of last year and 90 percent of normal for this time of year.

Valley precipitation at Osprey Lake is above normal and at McCulloch near normal for the winter to date.

Some melting has taken place and the valley bottom snow cover varies from 1 1/2 feet near Vernon, 8 inches at Kelowna to practically zero in the South Okanagan, the report for March 1 stated.

In summary, the report states the heavy general snowpacks of the last few years have been limited this year to the Columbia, Kootenay and East Okanagan areas. These areas can expect above normal runoff if the established trend of normal or above normal precipitation continues.

Below normal runoff can be expected in the West Okanagan, Similkameen and Skagit. At the 4700-foot level of Trout Creek, snow depth was 31.4 inches at Feb. 29, with a water content of 6.8 inches, compared with 10.4 inches in 1951 and an average of 6 inches over the past 12 years.

In the past winter, from November 1 on, 11.49 inches of precipitation have been recorded at Osprey Lake.

In Canada and the United States are probably one million persons whose hearts have been damaged as a result of rheumatic fever.

"Pride and Prejudice" Plays To Highly Amused Packed House at School Auditorium

Summerland's new high school auditorium was crammed to capacity on Friday evening as the players' section of the Summerland Singers and Players' Club presented a delightful three-act sentimental comedy, "Pride and Prejudice", as the annual spring vehicle.

Director Mrs. Beatrice Macleod was given plenty of plaudits for her work in presenting this mirth provoking play despite many difficulties, chief of which was sickness in the large cast of nearly 25 performers, besides many other assistants behind the scenes.

Mrs. Sylvia Perry, Mrs. Gwen O'Leary, Alan Butler and Blair Underwood were the leading characters in this farce which depicted a typical "better than middle class" family in the early 1880's, the days of the romantic Napoleonic wars. Get a Husband Fast High waist lines, slim skirts, voluminous headgear and hair-dos, the ability of the female to burst into tears at a moment's notice, or less, and be radiantly smiling the next instance, and principally the main theme of a young girl attaining a husband with all possible speed were depicted as "signs of the times" in the three acts.

It was a charming play, inclined to be a little "drippy" at times, but with plenty of laughs and amusing situations. Punch lines were spread through the play at appropriate moments but could have been given with a little more emphasis to better effect by the cast.

As is the case in local productions, the audience could not help but compare the actor or actress in the part being depicted with the true, day to day character and in some cases the humor was even more pronounced in comparison.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennet were the chief character parts, as the parents of three charming marriageable daughters.

The parents were well depicted by Alan Butler and Mrs. Gwen O'Leary, the former being a sensible soul with the mother a fluttering, tear-dissolving matron whose one and only ambition is to find suitable husbands for her offspring.

Principal actress of the three daughters was Mrs. Sylvia Perry, who carried the show throughout and was the star of the cast as Elizabeth Bennet. Equally charming although not so dominant in the play was the eldest daughter, Jane Bennet, taken by Mrs. Marg Butler. Youngest daughter, whose eye didn't go beyond the military uniform and hadn't any more sense than her mother, was Lydia Bennet well played by Mrs. Jean Gately.

Mr. Collins Would Inherit

As there are no sons in the Bennet family, the estate, according to Old English law, would automatically go to the nearest male heir, a cousin, Mr. Collins, a reverend young man whose opinion of his own eligibility as a male of the species is only shadowed by his great humility in the presence of the nobility, especially his patroness, Lady Catherine de Bourgh.

Mr. Collins was well done by Blair Underwood, while Lady Catherine's part was portrayed by the ever-popular Miss Marian Cartwright, whose costume, designed by herself, was a masterpiece.

In the ever-present attempt to obtain suitable husbands a large cast was introduced at appropriate times.

Chief of the suitors proved to be Mr. Darcy, a haughty English gentleman with a monocle which kept slipping. Although cold-shouldered by Elizabeth through most of the play, he at last gives up his pride and she her prejudice to find they are really very much in love. Clark Wilkin is the haughty man of London.

Dave McIntosh was the very eligible Mr. Bingley who eventually wins the hand of Jane Bennet, while Mr. Wickham, the dashing young army officer with the shady reputation who persuades young Lydia to elope from Brighton and live in sin, if necessary, to force the Bennet family and friends to bestow a sufficient dowry, was taken by Bert Stent.

He gallantly took the part with only a week's notice.

Miss Bingley, Mrs. Ivy Mason, a sister of Mr. Bingley, was well done as one of the better minor parts. Other bit parts which called for many weeks' preparation were played by Frank Plunkett as Hill, the butler; Mrs. Molly Russel as Lady Lucas; Mary Reid as Charlotte Lucas who succumbs to Mr. Collins' ardor once Elizabeth gives him the brushoff; Amelia, another young girl friend of the Bennets, taken by Jane Woolliams; Captain Denny, an army officer of the better type, Alan McKenzie; Belinda and Amanda, other young girls, Dorothy Macleod and Dorothy Blacklock; Maggie, a maid, Mrs. Molly Lloyd; Mrs. Gardiner, a sister of Mr. Bennet, Mrs. Doris Woolliams; and Mrs. Lake, a nurse, also played by Dorothy Macleod.

Alan McKenzie also appeared in another army part, that of Colonel Guy Fitzwilliam, to good effect. Costuming and Stage Work

Costumes, which well depicted the period, were exceptionally well done, while the makeup also brought praise. The decorating of the stage was a masterpiece, the crayon sketches of elegant family ancestors by the director, Mrs. Macleod, being especially praiseworthy.

Assisting Mrs. Macleod in an advisory capacity were Mrs. J. Y. Towgood, Mrs. M. E. Collas, Mrs. G. E. Woolliams and Mrs. Ivy Mason.

Mrs. Muriel Proverbs was in charge of the costumes along with Louise Williams, Dorothy Morgan, Marian Woodbridge and Audrey McIntosh.

Those who designed the sets and helped with the construction were Arie Van Driel, Stan Gladwell, Jacques Van Driel, Clive Atkinson, Ian McCuaig, Alan McKenzie, Blair Underwood and Nancy Fleming.

Stage work came under Don

Blacklock, Herb Arndt, Gerry Washington, Jack McDougald, Earl Bryden and Richard Lewis. Lighting by Don Blacklock. Properties were under the care of Jessie McKenzie.

Molly Russel had charge of makeup, along with Mrs. Macleod, Mrs. Marjorie Vanderburgh and Marian Cartwright. Prompter was Mrs. Kay Solly.

Ushers were high school girls, Olga Libicz, Barbara Price, Margaret Jomori, Mary Marshall, Shirley Schumann, Yvonne Polesello, Winnifred Smith and Jean Imayoshi.

As always, Stan Gladwell, president of the Singers and Players was a dominant figure behind the scenes. Mrs. J. Holman, new sec-

HOW TO WIN THE PRIZE before the race is run!

Watch Jimmy go! He's mighty fleet on his feet. And you can just bet that he'll win first prize in this race.

Some day Jimmy will grow up and get married. Then he'll discover that one of the prizes he wants most to win is financial security for his family. But he'll be able to win this prize "before the race is run" — with life insurance.

For, you see, the full protection of life insurance begins the moment you make your first premium payment. And those premiums can help you win some of the "prizes" that savings provide — such as a college education for the youngsters or a new home.

Nowadays the savings you can make with life insurance are more important than ever. For, like all savings, they help to check inflation. And because they are long term savings, their inflation-checking power is all the greater.

So keep up your premium payments. Add new life insurance as you need it. And save money every way you can!

What Good is $500?

"Sure I'd like to invest. Who wouldn't? But I'm no millionaire. I do manage to save a little, sure, maybe $20 or $30 a month over and above what I need for living expenses, insurance, and emergencies. But the most I could spare right now is $500 — and what good is that? You can't get rich on a couple of shares of stock, so I guess I'll just have to wait..."

And that's how it goes with thousands of people each year who could start on a sound investment program — but don't. And that's too bad. Why? Well for one thing $500 or even $200 buys a lot more than you probably think. You see today you can own a share in many of Canada's leading and most prosperous industries through the purchase of Mutual Funds.

Yes, we think investing in Mutual Funds is good business, selected on the basis of facts and information, not rumor or tips.

Tell us about your situation and we'll tell you without any obligation what we think makes the best kind of investment program for you whether you already own securities or not. Just write in confidence of course — to

Mrs. E. C. Deringer to Lead Frances Willard WCTU This Season

At the annual business meeting of the Frances Willard Union of Trout Creek, held at the home of Mrs. W. F. Woodbridge, on the afternoon of March 5, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. E. C. Deringer; vice-president, Mrs. Percy Miller; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. F. Woodbridge; treasurer, Mrs. W. King; recording secretary, Mrs. Attlee Hanson; youth temperance council secretary, Mrs. Percy Miller; LTL secretary and medal contest superintendent, Mrs. Deringer; Little White Ribbons, Mrs. W. Davis and Mrs. J. J. Embree; devotional superintendent, Miss Ione Embree; fruit and flower mission, Mrs. Edson Miller.

The president, Mrs. Percy Miller gave a fine devotional; reports were heard from different departments; and the treasurer and corresponding secretary gave good reports of the general work of the union.

The Loyal Temperance Legion has 15 members this year, and the Youth Temperance Council 11 members. Two children in the Church of God Sunday school wrote the temperance examinations, receiving honor certificates from the provincial union and prizes from the local.

It was decided to hold a Little White Ribbons' tea during March, and also to form a Light Line Union.

A medal contest was held in November and contestants are being prepared to enter the provincial contest, and the district contest, to

Junior Girls of South Okanagan Will Gather Here

The South Okanagan junior girls' festival will be held in Summerland on Wednesday, April 16, when girls from Penticton, Oliver, Kelowna and Summerland are expected to be present.

Church parade will be at 11 a.m. in St. Stephen's church, with a luncheon in the parish hall from 12 until 1. At one o'clock the girls will go to the Youth Centre where a program of drama, singing and class reading will take place. This program is in the nature of a contest and the entries will be judged. After the program tea will be served in the parish hall.

The festival is being arranged by Mrs. Knowlton of Kelowna, with Mrs. F. E. Weeks and Mrs. Axworthy in charge locally.

be held in Penticton at the district convention in April.

Three parcels of clothing were sent to World Missions to Children, and a quilt and parcel of clothing for Korean relief, as well as donations of money.

All meetings were begun with a devotional message, taken by each member in turn, and the roll call answered with a bible verse.

Visitors from Penticton Join OES Ceremony

Officers for the current year of Summerland chapter No. 63, Order of the Eastern Star, conducted their first initiation ceremony on Wednesday evening, March 5, when Mrs. Melvin Pollock became a member of the order.

Worthy Matron Florence Stark presided over the meeting and greeted the visitors with charm and graciousness. Worthy Patron Frank Maddocks impressed everyone present with his sincere presentation of the initiation ceremony, ably assisted by Mrs. Bob Butler, a poised and dignified conductress. All the officers in turn performed their parts well, reminding the members of the high standard of character to be aimed at by all in the Eastern Star.

It seemed appropriate to have Mr. and Mrs. Earle Wilson as associate matron and patron during the same year.

Mrs. George Long was associate conductress, Mrs. W. H. E. Munn acting secretary in the absence of Mrs. Don Fisher, Mrs. S. Feltham treasurer, Mrs. S. R. Canning organist, Mrs. David Munn chaplain, Mrs. Harvey Wilson acting marshal in the absence of Mrs. Bob Oxley, Mrs. Jack Dunsdon, Adah; Mrs. Ray Leinor, Ruth; Mrs. Jack Long, Esther; Mrs. Tommy Marsh, Martha; Mrs. George Washington, Electa; Mrs. Blair Underwood, warder, and Mrs. W. W. Borton, sentinel.

From Penticton came Past Grand Matron, Mrs. Agnes Whittaker, Grand Representative Mrs. Hooper, Worthy Matron Mrs. Schoening, and Worthy Patron Mr. Dicken, as well as other members of Edina Chapter.

Mrs. A. R. Dunsdon, Mrs. Jack Dunsdon, Mrs. W. W. Borton, Mrs. Mel Cousins and Mrs. George Forster served lovely refreshments after the meeting.

As it was the sixth birthday of the chapter the tables were appropriately decorated with vases of pussy willows encased in large "6's". Birthday cards were scattered here and there on the tables, and a large birthday cake made and decorated in the five colors of the OES by Mrs. Forster, centred the head table. Rows of green shamrocks parading gayly down the middle of each table showed that the March motif of St. Patrick's day had not been forgotten.

Penticton visitors sang Happy Birthday to their Summerland brothers and sisters in the lodge, completing the evening in an atmosphere of fun and good fellowship.

Miss Clara L. K. Holmes for 7 years head of the women's division of the CPR's department of public relations, with headquarters at Winnipeg, will become special publicity representative and act in an advisory capacity with the department, J. H. Campbell, manager of the public relations department announces.

Pianist to Come Here Under P-TA Sponsorship

Nearly forty attended the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association in the library of the junior-senior high school on Thursday evening, March 6.

This was the day after Open House had been observed in connection with Education Week, and Mrs. J. Dunsdon, convener of the hospitality committee, reported that the tea served in the high school by P-TA members had been well patronized.

Mrs. E. E. Bates, who heads the program committee, announced that the April meeting would be in the auditorium, when musical festival contestants will be heard.

It has been arranged to sponsor a concert in April when Miss Marion Barnum of Nelson, an accomplished pianist, will be heard in recital. This comes under the P-TA policy of encouraging fine arts. Mr. Rewakowsky, the school music teacher, will lead the committee in charge of details.

Plans were made to send the official delegate, Mr. J. Morrow, to the provincial convention of the P-TA federation in Kelowna, April 16-17-18.

Time will be allotted at each meeting for a question period, wherein queries left in a box by parents at one meeting will be answered by a teacher or teachers at the next meeting.

Two films were shown, being "Instructional Films—the New Way to Greater Education", and "School Days in the Country". Refreshments were then served in the teachers' room.

Kiwanis Hears of Island of Curacao

Eric Brinton, who left England as a young man and headed for the Caribbean sea, gave members of the Kiwanis Club of Summerland an insight into the Island of Curacao, where he resided for many years before coming to the Okanagan.

Oil refining and the export of phosphate and salt are the chief industries of this Dutch protectorate and Mr. Brinton gave a description of the scanty 16-inch annual rainfall which descends in one period of the year only.

The delicate fruti liqueur named Curacao was originally made on this island and later was extended to Holland with ordinary oranges being used instead of the special type of Curacao orange.

R. A. Grant Resigns From Sales Staff

NOTES FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

O. L. Jones, MP for Yale Sends First Weekly Letter from Ottawa

The death of the King cast a gloom over the normal procedure of the opening of the house. At the first meeting of parliament, the leaders of all parties expressed their sorrow at the nation's loss.

The visit of the new Governor-General for his official inauguration was not attended by the usual large crowds of former years. There were more troops on duty outside the parliament buildings than there were spectators. This may be a reflection of the attitude of the general public towards the controversial question of whether or not our Governor-General should be native born.

He delivered his address in a masterly fashion—his enunciation being clear and distinct in both English and French. The general consensus of opinion is that the Hon. Mr. Massey would prove to be a hard worker in the interests of Canadian development.

Immediately upon my arrival in Ottawa, I spoke to both Hon. Mr. Mayhew and Hon. A. Alphonse Fournier, minister of public works, regarding the Okanagan flood control scheme. They have again assured me that the work will start as soon as the provincial government is ready to go ahead. As far as Ottawa is concerned there does not seem to be any further stumbling-block that should cause any delay.

The house has devoted its entire time up to now to dealing with the outbreak of foot and mouth disease in the province of Saskatchewan. The various provincial governments have taken steps to control the movement of cattle and feed from one province to another. This quite naturally posed the questions as to their authority to do so. Such matters coming under federal jurisdiction according to the BNA Act. On the other hand the provincial governments should be praised for taking quick action to meet a serious situation that apparently federal authorities were neglecting. It is now assured that the federal minister of agriculture will meet with the provincial ministers to discuss this very point in an endeavor to reach some satisfactory arrangement whereby the authority of the federal government on the control of contagious diseases, quarantine, and such matters remain in their orbit of administration, at the same time respecting the views and wishes of the various provinces in relation to their desire to protect their own cattle industry.

The main controversy covered the matter of compensation that should be given to farmers who suffer loss through the action of this disease. Amendments were accepted by the government to the effect that fair and equitable compensation will be paid to those farmers who suffer losses either directly or indirectly.

I am very pleased to report that a committee will be set up to deal with the burnt out veterans pensions and the indications are that the government looks with favor on proposals to increase such a pension in order to meet the present cost of living.

Want Three-Ferry Service at Kelowna Before Empire Day

PENTICTON—Jaycees of the South Okanagan will ask the B.C. government to institute a three-boat ferry service between Kelowna and Westbank before May 24 so that any heavy influx of tourists will not cause bottlenecks in traffic.

At the meeting of District Three Junior Chambers of Commerce in Penticton on March 2, Kelowna representatives spoke strongly in favor of having the third ferry put into use in time for Victoria Day in order that the heavy traffic may be kept flowing smoothly.

Last year, a Kelowna representative told the meeting, traffic was lined up for blocks in Kelowna streets and in some cases motorists were kept waiting for two hours before they were able to make the crossing.

Other business discussed at the meeting at which 24 representatives from Penticton, Kelowna, Oliver and Osoyoos attended, included discussion of the proposal to have the Yale riding renamed "Okanagan."

A letter was received from a government official advising the chamber to circulate a petition asking for the change and to present it to the electoral officer as early as possible. Pat. O'Neil, of Kelowna, was delegated to start work on preparing the petition.

The chambers also agreed to ask for government supervised lotteries and the resolution passed will be presented at the provincial convention in Trail in June and, if passed, it will go to the national convention in Banff a week later.

The representatives also discussed nomination of a new district councillor to succeed Clare Way of Penticton whose term of office expires in the near future.

plans for the construction of a new headquarters in Kelowna. The structure is estimated at $45,000, with the city, province and federal government sharing the burden equally.

Service Clubs Hear Bedford Description Of Mexico City Trip

Fred Bedford, who recently returned from a visit to Mexico City, was guest speaker at both the Kiwanis Club of Summerland and his own Rotary Club of Summerland at the Nu-Way Annex last week.

Mexico City he described as a place of filth and desperate poverty, enlightened by some of the finest buildings he has ever seen, and by such tremendous centres as the Museum of Fine Arts which took forty years to build and has withstood the ravages of many earthquakes.

Mexicans are never in a hurry and live in primitive conditions in adobe huts, he described, selling all types of curios to the tourist as their main means of livelihood in the city.

They are, generally speaking, an illiterate people, yet some very fine schools have been erected in the last few years. Professional beggars, terrific traffic problems in an over-crowded city and Sunday bullfights witnessed by 84,000 people at a time were described by the speaker who also showed many souvenirs and pictures to emphasize his talk.

Pickpockets abound in Mexico City, to such an extent that on two different occasions Mr. Bedford lost first his pen and then his pencil, while an attempt was also made to snatch Mrs. Bedford's purse.

On leaving the country, all visitors are vaccinated as the fear of smallpox is ever uppermost in the minds of immigration officials.

Want Prairie Valley Road Designated as Secondary Highway

On Tuesday, municipal council went on record as favoring the establishment of Prairie Valley road as a secondary highway, mainly because of the amount of logging truck traffic which goes over this road.

The provincial public works department will be requested to designate this road, including both upper forks, and down through the West Summerland business section past the schools to the point where it joins Rosedale avenue, the other secondary road in the municipality.

If so designated, the provincial government would stand forty per cent of the annual upkeep, provided the municipality tenders its estimates of proposed work in time.

Kiwanians Plan Attendance at Seattle Meetings

Both the international and district conventions of the Kiwanis Club are being held this year at Seattle, Wash., and a number of Summerland club members are planning to attend these important meetings.

President J. E. Jenkinson and N. O. Solly will be delegates to the international convention while these two officers and George Graham will be district delegates. Alternate delegate is Frank McDonald, while Mr. Graham is also an alternate delegate to international.

The club secretary, Rev. Father A. M. Meulenbergh, will also be attending in his official capacity.

J. Y. Towgood, lieutenant-governor of Division 5 of the Pacific Northwest district will, of course, be in attendance along with Mrs. Towgood. Other Kiwanians who expect to be at Seattle for these conventions from June 15 to 19 will be Jack Lawler and W. (Scotty) Ritchie, while Mrs. Jenkinson, Mrs. Solly, Mrs. Ritchie and Mrs. Graham will be accompanying their husbands.

FIRE AT BAKERY

Summerland volunteer fire brigade was summonsed to Dunbar's Bakery late Friday morning to extinguish a fire which started around the chimney. Little damage was done.

Summerland Stays On Top of Puck Loop In Playoff Contests

Summerland's senior hockey squad, badly short-handed, was still able to eke out a narrow 2-1 victory over Penticton Merchants last night at the Penticton arena in the Penticton Commercial league round robin playoffs.

In three games, Summerland has been undefeated, the only team in the league to enjoy this standing.

It was at the 9:20 mark of the first period that Grycon scored the Merchants only goal on an assist from Agnew and Morrish. Just before the period ended, at 18:15 Taylor had one laid up by Carston and sank the equalizer home.

There was no scoring in the second period while Steininger, with Taylor and Carston getting in on the play, scored the winning counter at the 2:07 mark of the third period.

Short Shutoff Of Electricity Next Sunday

Last Sunday electrical power was shut off from Summerland municipality from 6 a.m. to nearly 12 o'clock noon, in order to allow the West Kootenay Power & Light Co. crew to undertake certain alterations to its line along Giant's Head road.

Along with this work is some change in municipal lines in order that both sets meet regulations laid down by the inspector of electrical energy.

It had been proposed that both the West Kootenay line to the experimental station and the municipal line be placed on six-pair cross-arms but this scheme has since been abandoned. Extra poles are being put in place and the entire line reinforced in order to raise it to the required level.

This Sunday, another much shorter shutdown will occur between 6 and 8 o'clock affecting the entire municipality and from 8 to 10 a.m. affecting Giant's Head road, the Sandhill and Trout Creek areas only.

It is expected one more Sunday shutdown will complete this particular task.

The Baptist church wrote the electrical department asking for reconsideration of its plan to shutdown for eight hours last Sunday as the church heating system is electrically controlled and the edifice would be cold for the morning service and Sunday school.

This was also true of some other churches here, but the electrical department had determined that the smallest number of persons would be affected by the Sunday shutdown than in any other time of the week.

Wage Scale for Electricians is Considered High

Due to the economic conditions prevailing in this district, the proposed wage scale is still too high.

This was council decision on Tuesday when confronted with a letter from the electrical union in Vancouver seeking a new wage level for employees of the electrical department of the municipality here.

A forty per cent increase in line-man's wages to $18.98 per day was sought, while the new level of the groundsman-driver would be $18.72 and for laborer, $9.74.

In one instance, the quoted rate is higher than that given when a representative of the union met the council in committee.

Councillor H. R. J. Richards did not consider the Vancouver union had any right to bargain for the local electrical workers as the council contract, which expires at the end of this month, was with the Penticton local of the union.

A short time ago the Penticton local was abolished and the electricians became affiliated directly with Vancouver.

It is expected negotiations will continue with the municipality maintaining that it is in no position to pay a wage scale of such proportions.

Bentley Prexy Of Municipal Association

Reeve C. E. (Ned) Bentley, of Summerland, was selected as president of the Okanagan Valley Municipal Assn., when the quarterly meeting was held in Armstrong last Thursday.

Gordon Smith, Summerland municipal clerk, will act as secretary for the balance of the term, while Mayor W. A. Rathbun of Penticton is vice-president. Directors are Mayor J. E. Fitzwater of Kamloops and Mayor W. K. Smith of Salmon Arm city.

Meat Inspection Sought

In accordance with a resolution emanating from Summerland which was drafted mainly by Dr. Clark, medical director of the South Okanagan Health Unit, the provincial government is being requested by the OVMA to "prepare legislation and take all possible steps to assist in establishing a meat inspection service for the protection of both consumer and farmer."

The Summerland resolution submitted to Armstrong last week pointed out that the need for meat inspection has been evidenced by instances of diseased or unfit meat reaching the retail market in the Okanagan, as given much publicity at the last annual meeting of the South Okanagan Health Unit held here.

The motion also declared that "there has already been created a shortage of inspected meat in this area due to necessary precautions taken against foot and mouth disease."

Petition Victoria

Vernon was successful in having passed a petition to the department of education to reorganize the structure of its curriculum on a "more realistic basis with a view to intensification of basic education, and elimination of unnecessary subjects."

The Vernon aldermen considered a high school diploma today as no guarantee of a standard of education, as the present system calls for the "carrying of all students en masse" through to graduation regardless of ability, with increasing costs for more and larger schools with extra staff.

Held over for further consideration was a lengthy resolution, also from Vernon, on the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, calling in part for premium payments according to a means test.

BUSINESS AREA IS IN GOOD CONDITION

A scrutiny of the business area of West Summerland indicates that it is in good condition regarding lack of fire hazards. Fire Chief Ed Gould's report for February informed council on Tuesday. The arena, however, still has some additions to make to bring it up to standard, he added. Two fire calls and two false alarms were noted in February.

Audit Fee Takes Big Jump of $300

Cost of the municipality's annual audit is going up again. For three years, the municipality has paid Rutherford, Bazett & Co. $500 per annum for the continuous audit but now the level has been hiked to $800. However, if it's found actual time taken with the audit does not come up to that figure, then the amount will be dropped accordingly.

Once a more modern office can be obtained, the amount of time taken by auditors will be lessened, it was considered by council at Tuesday's meeting.

The new fee was approved, although some councillors thought it was a stiff increase at one time.

Driver is Charged After Co-op Accident

Larry L. Scott, who is alleged to have driven a small English-made car into two others parked in front of the Summerland Co-op building on Tuesday, March 4, is being charged with driving without due care and attention. His case will probably come up in local police court next week, if he is in condition to appear. Scott has been in Vernon Jubilee hospital since the accident, it is reported to police.

Rum stories...

"To train the shark was not so simple as you may think," said the bosun.

"Fortunately, the brig when she grounded was loaded to the marks with Lamb's Navy Rum. By judiciously rewarding my finny friend with dark invigorating tots, I so influenced his mind that he would give me the better fish such as turbot, retaining for himself only inferior qualities like cod. A trivial point, perhaps, but I thought good for discipline. I was about to send him to bring me a wife from among the girls bathing in a distant lagoon, when suddenly I sighted a sail. Instantly mounting the shark I went alongside and pausing only to present him with the corkscrew, climbed aboard."

"That's a Rum Story," said the wedding guest incautiously.

"Very kind of you, I'm sure, sir," replied the mariner. "I could just fancy a Lamb's Navy Rum."

The Summerland Review

West Summerland, B.C., Thursday, March 20, 1952

Two long-time friends, Reid Johnston presents his Good Citizen cup to the newest holder, Dr. A. W. Vanderburgh. Announcement of this signal honor was made at last Thursday evening's 10th annual Summerland Board of Trade banquet in the IOOF hall. Dr. Vanderburgh is the 14th recipient of the honor, the choice being made annually by the executive of the Summerland Board of Trade and guarded jealously by that group until the banquet night.

Dr. A. W. Vanderburgh is Named 1951 Good Citizen At Trade Board Banquet

Dr. Alfred W. Vanderburgh, pioneer resident of the Summerland district for 39 years and a medical practitioner who has earned the respect and liking of hundreds of persons in the South Okanagan since he commenced his medical practice here in the mid 1920s, was the surprised recipient of the Reid Johnston Good Citizen cup at the annual Summerland Board of Trade banquet on Thursday evening in the IOOF hall. Guests representing trade boards from Kelowna, Westbank, Penticton and Princeton as well as presidents of many local organizations gathered with some hundred trade board members and their wives for this annual function which is anticipated so keenly by this community. John F. McLean, director of personnel and students' services at UBC was the guest speaker and discussed "The University Graduate and Business to the gathering."

Opportunities For Graduate Never Better

Today is a time in which, in certain fields, opportunities for the young graduate have never been better," declared John F. McLean, UBC personnel and student services director, in addressing the Summerland Board of Trade annual banquet last Thursday evening.

Mr. McLean is no stranger to the Okanagan as he came to Oliver as a teacher in 1932, went to Vernon and became vice-principal of the high school there before joining the Seaforths in World War II. He had a distinguished record overseas, winning the DSO as a junior officer before being badly wounded in the Hitler Line in Italy.

"All over the North America, companies are competing for the young men and young women's services in a way never before contemplated or envisaged," Mr. McLean declared in choosing his topic, "The University Graduate and Business."

"Large organizations are sending recruiting teams directly to the first-class universities to tell about their opportunities," he added. Academic Standing Counts. In business today, Mr. McLean warned, a young man's birthright and pedigree means less than it ever did. "Pull" or "drag" in most companies seems to have become almost a thing of the past. "Business" is interested in the (Continued on Page 8)

Mrs. F. W. Andrew, Pioneer Resident For 43 Years Being Laid to Rest Today

One of the best known and best loved figures in Summerland district for more than forty years, Mrs. Nora Kathleen Andrew, wife of Dr. F. W. Andrew, is being laid to rest this afternoon in the Anglican cemetery after a funeral service in St. Stephen's church at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Canon F. V. Harrison officiating. The late Mrs. Andrew passed away suddenly and peacefully in her sleep Sunday evening. Her sudden death came as a great shock to all who know her, and her acquaintanceship was a large one. Dr. Andrew had only returned from hospital two weeks before after being seriously burned in a fire which threatened to consume their home just before Christmas.

Dr. Andrew had decided to shave himself for the first time since before Christmas and Mrs. Andrew had retired. When he had finished his ablutions, Dr. Andrew re-ordered the bedroom to find his wife had died in her sleep. Retail stores in this district are closing between 2:30 and 3:30 today as a tribute to a pioneer lady whose kindness and hospitality was so well known in the earlier days of the district and whose interest in community work was taken for granted. Born in Dunnville, Ont., 71 years ago, Mrs. Andrew was a graduate of the Winnipeg General hospital. She accompanied her husband to Summerland 43 years ago, Dr. Andrew being one of the best known medical men in the South Okanagan for many years. For years the Andrew home was more of a hostel than a private residence, and their doors were never locked. The Andrew home had the only telephone in the lower town at one time, and it was on the verandah, conveniently placed for any who wished to use it. The hospital auxiliary and St. Stephen's W. A. were never without the assistance of Mrs. Andrew for many years. She also served for a period on the local school board. Dramatic productions were seldom staged here in earlier years without Mrs. Andrew taking a prominent part. She entertained many an audience with her whistling ability. She loved fancy dress costumes and generally won prizes for her attire at balls and skating parties. Koen golfers, she and Dr. Andrew originated the first small golf course at Crescent Beach and later took a prominent part in establishing the course at its present location. Besides her husband she leaves one son, William James, Vancouver two grand children and two sisters, Mrs. M. H. Dickson and Miss Eleanor Blott, both of Dunnville, Ont.

Red Cross at $2400 Mark

This morning, the Red Cross campaign had reached a total of $2,400, with a number of canvassers still to report. E. E. Bates, president of the AOTS Club in charge of the campaign, reported to The Review. Three canvassers were late in getting started and have not reported. Mr. Bates declared, while still others have some call-backs to make.

He expressed great delight with the result of the "whirlwind" campaign which was more than half concluded on the opening day, Monday, March 17. By the end of the first day, $1,700 had been reported collected, while still others did not make a report as they had not been able to complete their round-up.

"Most people had the money or a cheque waiting for the canvasser," Mr. Bates observed. "It made it so much easier for the canvasser that it was no job at all. Most of the canvassers enjoyed their work immensely and there were many who had never taken part in such a drive before."

The Red Cross quota for Summerland district is $3,000 and there is every prospect that it will be reached.

Canadian Title Captured Under Local Colors

Ralph dePlyffer, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max dePlyffer of Kelowna, skiing under the colors of the Summerland Ski club, captured three Canadian championships at the big dominion-wide meet on Grouse Mountain in Vancouver last weekend.

In the twolap slalom race, Ralph was six seconds faster than the field, establishing a time of 2:05.07 and capturing the championship.

In the giant slalom, he again took first place, scoring a major upset. He finished second in the junior men's downhill.

As no other valley club except Summerland is affiliated with the C.A.S.A., Ralph joined the local skiers and competed under Summerland sponsorship.

Stockpile Hundred Thousand Tons of Gravel for Highway; T. Clark to Survey New Route

In preparation for the reconstruction of the Penticton-Trout Creek section of Okanagan Highway No. 97, the provincial public works department has made ready a huge stockpile of road building material at its crushing plant located south of the experimental station.

J. W. Miers, divisional engineer at Penticton, informed The Review this week that 100,000 tons of minus two-inch and minus three-quarter-inch gravel has been crushed.

"The two-inch (material) will be used in the base course of the highway and the ¾-inch for the gravel surface and also for the bituminous pavement," he declared.

Another big stockpile is to be prepared for the Summerland-Deep Creek section at a point near the Greata Ranch, Mr. Miers also stated.

Tom Clark, who was resident engineer when the Summerland Peachland section of Okanagan highway was reconstructed in 1928, and who resided at Crescent Beach at the time, has been appointed by the public works department to take charge of a survey crew to plot the re-location of the Summerland-Deep Creek section. In more recent years, Mr. Clark

Sellout for The Mikado

All reserved seats for the initial showing of the Singers & Players Club spring presentation, The Mikado, were snapped up with alacrity so that at presstime only rush seats are available. Business Manager Blair Underwood declared this morning.

This popular singers' section presentation, the annual Gilbert and Sullivan selection, will be staged at the school auditorium on Monday next, March 24. A crowded house is assured with the sellout of reserved seats, but a number of rush seats have been kept aside.

On Wednesday, the large cast travels to Kelowna and on Friday it goes to Oliver for repeat performances.

Decision will be made early next week as to a second appearance of the Mikado here on Mon., Mar. 31.

Tom Wilkinson, Chairman of the Interior Vegetable Marketing Board and the defeated candidate at the last provincial election, is expected to get the nomination as standard-bearer for the CCF party in South Okanagan when the nominating convention is held in Summerland this Saturday afternoon.

Harold Winch, leader of the CCF party in the provincial legislature, comes to Summerland this Saturday to attend the nominating convention of the CCF in South Okanagan and to speak at a public meeting Saturday evening.

Public Meeting Accords Council Unanimous Vote On Municipal Hall Plan

Last night's public meeting, attended by some 150 district residents, unanimously endorsed the proposal of the municipal council that the projected municipal hall should be financed by utilization of money in surplus in the sinking fund entirely.

Although a small percentage refrained from voting, not a single hand was raised in opposition to the proposal. Council submitted four suggestions, but favored No. 4, that of using surplus in the sinking fund without touching any other surplus monies.

This meeting will serve as a guide to municipal council, who will probably proceed with submission of a bylaw seeking ratepayer support to this plan of erecting a new municipal office.

There were no "fireworks" at last night's meeting, attended by approximately 150 citizens. It was called as a public service gesture by the Summerland Board of Trade in order to acquaint citizens with council proposals relative to the hall and to hear arguments pro and con.

Last fall, ratepayers turned down, by a narrow margin, the council proposal of that time. Council now proposes to re-submit the bylaw but with a different plan of financing.

Walter M. Wright, 1952 board president, opened the meeting and turned it over to J. R. Armstrong, who had chaired the board committee which had planned the meeting in conjunction with the municipal council.

After introductory opening remarks by Reeve C. E. Bentley, the main council proposals were submitted by Councillor F. E. Atkinson, and may be found in an adjoining column.

Main point brought out by Mr. Atkinson was that there is $62,380 surplus in sinking fund which has been raised entirely by judicious buying and selling of debentures and bonds over many years. If that was used, there would still be a surplus of about $17,000 over and above sinking fund requirements.

Due to lack of space in this issue it is not possible to review all the discussion which took place at last night's meeting. A complete report will be provided in next week's issue.

New Councillor is In Favor of More Money for Roads

A general discussion on roads and the theory of maintaining them in the best condition took place at last week's council meeting.

H. J. (Bill) Barkwill, Summerland's newest councillor, contended that more money must be spent on roads to keep them in good condition and to improve those which have been deteriorating. "We have good roads, but better roads are essential in a fruit growing area," Councillor Francis Steuart agreed.

One of the main problems in improving dirt roads in the district is the installation of culverts, it was thought. One suggestion was that one culvert be allowed for each property owners pay for the installation of other culverts necessary alongside the property.

This could only be applicable in the case of ten-acre lots, it was thought. The council continued to theorize for some time last week but came to no definite decision.

Capozzi Thrills Listeners With Lecture on Europe

"We can teach them a lot about production methods but they can teach us a lot of other things, chiefly the art of living, and this applies not only to Italy but to the rest of Europe," declared Harold (Hopb) Capozzi, Kelowna UBC student who recently returned from a year's study and travel in Italy and various European countries under the Rotary Foundation Fellowship which annually sends hundreds of young men from this country to foreign lands in an attempt to broaden their acquaintance to create goodwill among foreign people.

"If we could send over 5,000 students a year we wouldn't have to send 100,000 soldiers every 25 years," he also observed.

The young Kelowna student, son of an Italian who came to the strange land of Canada 45 years ago and who "made good" in his adopted country, Herb Capozzi thrilled a large audience in the school auditorium with his fluent delivery and grasp of the international situation.

In command of his subject at every step, Mr. Capozzi gave vivid word pictures of life as he saw it in various European countries, told of their political viewpoints, how they are reacting to American aid and how they are combatting the Russian threat.

Still Sears of War. He told of the scars of battle still to be observed in most European countries and of the hundreds of men crippled for life to be seen on every hand. He provided an understanding of the outlooks of those in foreign lands, which varied in the extreme from one country to another. Brought to Summerland as a guest speaker of the Rotary Club

Proposals of Council Are Given Fully

Main explanation of the municipal council regarding the need for a new municipal office and the possible methods which could be used for its financing was provided last night's public meeting at the school auditorium by F. E. Atkinson, senior councillor. Following is the council report in full:

In the years preceding 1925, there was usually a slight deficit on the balance sheet, in regards to sinking fund requirements. This might have been due to several causes, one of which would be a low percentage of taxes being paid, and two, depreciation of investments. In 1925 the first surplus with which we are now dealing occurred, and amounted to $1,692.15. It must be understood that this surplus was not money left over from a bylaw, but was money that accumulated from buying bonds at a low price, and selling them at a higher price, or from interest in excess of 4 percent which was the amount called for in the municipal act. Under the system when a sinking fund was allowed, it was possible for a council to invest this money in government guaranteed bonds. If, for instance, a $100 par value bond owned by the corporation was selling at a $104.00, while there were other equally sound bonds possibly of a long term, but which were quoted at $96.00, the Municipal Clerk and council, may have decided to sell bonds on which they could obtain a premium of $4.00 and buy the lower priced bonds. At any rate, by such manipulations, relatively small amounts of money have been carefully shepherded by Mr. Nixon and various councils, so that there was a surplus at the end of 1951 amounting to $62,384.30. The best example among these bylaws from which surpluses have been derived, and which the council has asked permission to use the money for a new municipal office, is number 25. This was an irrigation bylaw, passed in 1910, which ran for 30 years, on which the first surplus was $340.00, and this has increased to $11,867.33.

In addition to the $62,380.00, there are two irrigation bylaws which total $11,059.00, and the Crescent Beach domestic water bylaw, surplus of $7,200.00. If one wishes to include these with the sinking fund, the total would be $81,643.30.

Quite a Mixed Brew

The political pot, a bigger and more complex mixture than ever, is beginning to simmer noticeably in British Columbia.

Although the date hasn't been announced yet, it is considered fairly certain that a provincial election will be held in June. Premier Johnson has promised an election shortly after the closing of the legislature sitting this month, and it is quite likely that a date in June will be selected.

Enumerators are at work in each district endeavoring to make certain that all the voters who have the right to vote have their names registered.

The machinery for an election has started to grind, including the machinery of the political parties in B.C.

In the past twenty to thirty years, at least, it has mainly been a political setup of two or three main parties. This year, it would appear that four political parties are to do battle in the rugged constituencies of this Pacific Coast province.

Liberals, Conservatives, CCF and Social Credit are considered the four strong contenders for the right to call themselves the Government and dictate the policies at Victoria, the capital.

Coalition, although the present administration is endeavoring to last out its days in this guise, is finished. The finishing touches were put to it by Premier Boss Johnson when he asked for Herbert Anscomb's resignation. When the Conservative leader left the cabinet, his three other party ministers naturally followed suit.

Although Mr. Anscomb did not endear himself to the electors by his criticisms, on many occasions, of the administration of which he was a moving force, yet we believe that public opinion has swung more towards Mr. Anscomb lately because of his quiet acceptance of conditions as they exist now.

He made only the tersest of statements when asked to resign. He allowed the administration to carry the ball and rested quietly until the legislature opened before he attempted any explanation of his actions. When this explanation was given, it did not appear that the ex-finance minister had made such a "horrible" breach of political etiquette as the premier's office led us to believe at the outset.

And in the meantime, there was no commotion in Conservative ranks. They had had their commotion months before, when W. A. C. Bennett made his second attempt to wrest the Conservative leadership from Mr. Anscomb, and failed; and later, when both Mr. Bennett and Mrs. Tilly Rolston bolted the Coalition (and Conservative) ranks to sit as independents.

But, according to coast press releases, all has not been unanimity in the Liberal ranks, as Premier Johnson and Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer vie for top honors and the party threatens to split over the leadership.

A Liberal convention is in the offing and we can expect that the Grits will decide definitely who is to be leader in the forthcoming election and who will lead the party in future government sittings. But until then the voters are wondering just how united the Liberal administration is and how solidly they will present their case once electioneering starts in earnest.

Here in South Okanagan we have a bigger mixup than ever. Our present member, W. A. C. Bennett, was elected as a Coalition candidate. A year ago he bolted those ranks and sat as an independent, which he still does, although he has more recently announced that he is following the Social Credit movement.

His actions have left his former party, the Conservatives, with the difficult task of renewing their party machine in the constituency and reforming their ranks.

But the Liberals have just about as difficult a task in South Okanagan. They haven't had a Liberal member since Capt. C. R. Bell was selected. In the past two elections they had to sit by and choose from a number of Conservative candidates the man who they thought would be best fitted to serve as a Coalition candidate. As it was a Conservative riding when Coalition was initiated, then they had no chance to trot out their own candidate but, much as some disliked the idea, had to vote for the best the Conservatives could introduce at the time.

The CCF party, while all this was going on, has been having its troubles, as well. A party which has tried unsuccessfully for a great number of years to get into power is bound to lose some of its followers. There is a feeling prevalent that the CCF star is on the wane in B.C., and that it cannot make a comeback against three other parties.

Whether this is correct can be conjectured more clearly as voting day nears, but with the introduction of the single transferable voting system, it would appear more doubtful than ever that the CCF can succeed, being in the minority as compared with the two old-time parties.

That leaves us with the new Social Credit party. It is expected that W. A. C. Bennett, especially if he is named provincial leader, will command quite a following in South Okanagan as, besides those who have clasped the alleged doctrine of Alberta to their bosoms, there are many voters in the district who are ardent supporters of Mr. Bennett personally, regardless of what type of politics he vouchsafes.

So the situation in South Okanagan as election time draws nearer would appear to be even more complex than it is in other parts of the province, and goodness only knows it is mixed up enough there.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

A fond parent was complaining to me that her boy had got a job in the city and would have to stay at a boarding-house.

"First time he's ever been away from home, and him only eighteen, and a lot of foods like salads he can't eat, and I'm just afraid those boardinghouse meals, with him so delicate anyway . . ."

Now it's always a big wrench for parents to have a son or daughter leave home and strike out on his or her own; and there are certainly dangers and temptations for any youngster to face in any city of size. Or in any small town, for that matter. But living in a boarding-house, if the parents have been reasonably careful in its selection, isn't one of them.

On the contrary, it's a very salutary experience for any youngster, especially one who's been allowed, as this lad evidently was, to eat only the foods he likes and generally get his own way.

Things like being fussy about food or late for meals or addicted to camping in the bathroom for an hour at a time without regard to anyone else are soon taken out of one at a boarding-house. And if the operation is not always mentally painless, it is pretty generally beneficial.

My particular weakness was sleeping in, and coming down—all boardinghouses boast at least two storeys—late for breakfast, I'll never forget the morning that jarred me loose from that habit. The landlady was kindly enough, but brisk and firm; she made it abundantly clear that for me to get breakfast at nine o'clock when the other boarders were through at eight was neither reasonable nor unselfish and allowed that morning for the last time.

As that last breakfast included buttered toast and a generous dish of crushed pineapple—then my favorite vegetable—her words gave me seriously to think. And the fact that an hour later I regretfully said good-bye to that breakfast, after unexpectedly living through a "falling-leaf" spin in an airplane served to make it still more memorable.

I learned a lot of things in that boarding-house; even a bit about human nature, which was abundantly displayed there. The landlady's husband was a would-be slicker who hadn't quite got away with an attempted crooked deal, and had lost everything in consequence. He still talked buoyantly of get-rich-quick schemes which he was always about to start, and never did; he was always genial, jolly, and good for nothing.

The landlady's two sons both had splendid singing voices, and it was a treat to hear them practising tenor-and-baritone duets for radio broadcasts. And the landlady herself, despite a life of endless ups-and-downs, was serene and sure, getting through an enormous amount of work each day, never complaining of her weariness, of her useless husband, of her own undoubted musical gifts which had never had a chance to develop.

She had artistic gifts too, and these she refused to allow to atrophy. There was little spare money around the boarding-house, and less spare time, but she had acquired a few tubes of oil paints, and a few brushes. She had to use a china plate for a palette, and a kitchen knife for a palette knife, and because she could only paint for an odd hour here and there, she copied pictures rather than models or scenes; but her pictures showed unmistakable talent.

All the boarders were interesting; Stan who played the piano for the brothers' singing, Ralph who could do amazing tricks with cards and lighted cigarettes, the three girls with their slangy talk and brittle laughter and sharp tongues ready to slash at any slight impertinence; or at nothing at all on the morning after a late night before.

From that and other boarding-houses I learned a great deal; they strike me as offering a valuable contribution to anybody's education.

Cadet Service Victoria Cross Awarded to Peachland Youth

At Peachland school this afternoon, Brigadier W. J. McGill, DSO, B.C. area commander, presented the Victoria Cross of the Cadet Service of Canada, an award for bravery, to Cadet Donald Topham, a member of 215 Peachland Cadet Corps, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Topham, Jr.

Three years ago, when he was 14 years of age, he saved the life of a comrade from the icy waters of Okanagan Lake. Lloyd Kraft of Peachland fell off a floating ice cake and young Topham rescued him.

This is only the fifth such award ever presented in Canada, two others having gone to army cadets and two others to air force cadets, it is stated. The award is purely Canadian in origin.

Wording of Citation

The citation of Donald Topham's award follows:

"On the morning of March 16, 1949, a number of boys on their way to Peachland school, noticed the ice had broken into blocks on Okanagan Lake. Some of them ventured out on the ice, jumping from one cake to the other until Lloyd Kraft slipped into the water about 35 feet from the shore.

"At this point the water was 12 feet deep and the floating ice made it impossible for Kraft to get out. He was drowning, but apparently the boys who were watching him felt completely helpless. The drowning boy had gone down for the second time, when Cadet Topham, aged 14, the youngest of the watchers, grasped a stick and rushed out on the ice, jumping from block to block.

"Despite the grave danger to himself, he was able to pass one end of the stick to Kraft and pulled him to shore. At all times throughout the rescue, Topham was in a most precarious situation. Yet he coolly ignored this, in order to save the life of his comrade.

"This act is considered especially worthy in that Cadet Topham was the youngest of those present. His quick thinking and courage was an example to all, and of the highest credit to his cadet corps.

CAPOZZI ON ITALY

Another contrast is Austria, still under control of the four powers, Russia, Great Britain, the USA and France.

Fear of the Unknown

Although he knew his papers were in order and there should be nothing to fear, Mr. Capozzi approached the Russian zone with a feeling of fear, and a mounting tension gripped his body. It was the fear of the unknown, he declared.

The Russian policeman, with his ever-present Tommygun, took his passport, looked it over very carefully but didn't seem to know what he was looking for. That, to the speaker, was typical of the Russians he observed in Austria. They were placed there, most of them young men who recently tilled the soil, but why they were there none seemed to know.

They do not understand the Austrian language and make no attempt to learn. After a while you feel sorry for them, he said. Many of them are becoming discontented as they observe the standard of living in Europe and the speaker believed Mr. Churchill was right when he declared Stalin's two big mistakes were introducing Europe to the Russian soldiers and the Russian soldiers to Europe.

Nearly all the Russian equipment operated by the Russians in Vienna is American made, he noted.

Although Austrians fear the Russians, they haven't much love for the American soldiers in occupation there as the latter are paid four times what the average Austrian makes and the comparison hurst. However, Austrians are also afraid what will happen when the Americans leave.

The southern portion of Germany has made a tremendous recovery, he found, with production beyond pre-war level. This comeback has been staged mainly through hard work, he believed, but despite the recovery everywhere are signs of war in the number of crippled men. The war was a terrific drain on German manpower.

Fear of Communism

The people of Europe fear a re-armed Germany but more than that they fear not re-arming Germany, which could be a bulwark against the Communists, Mr. Capozzi found.

He described the incredible contrast of the beautiful country surrounding Dachau where so many thousands lost their lives in brutal slayings and executions. It is one of the beauty spots of Germany.

The people of Germany say they didn't know what went on at Dachau but by their action in relegating their freedom to a few, they must accept the responsibility of the actions of that minority which ruled with such devastating results, he believed.

One of the poorest countries he visited was Spain, laid low by a disastrous civil war and cut off from the world trade for the past 15 years.

"There is poverty there you just cannot imagine," Mr. Capozzi declared, telling of people living in caves lucky to get one meal a day. It is a police state but a comical police state as the best way to obtain proper directions to the black market is by asking the nearest policeman.

Spain has one of the largest standing armies in Europe and as Spain hates Communism is looked upon by the USA as one of the few bastions against Russia.

France he called "The Land of the Pessimists". The French are discouraged after two world wars laid waste their land and they ask: "Why should we work and slave when it will happen again?"

"This is one country we must work to save as if France goes over to the Communists then we will have lost the battle of Europe," Mr. Capozzi believed. "We can't afford to spend the amount of money we are giving France but the people must be encouraged and the country protected."

The speaker found 35 political parties active in France which accounts for the main difficulty in forming a stable government. Besides, the people are more interested in jobs and homes than rearmament as a protective measure. England's Great Courage

In England, he found the greatest display of courage. England was the victor, yet is undergoing more restrictions than most of the conquered countries. At one meal, a Canadian eats more meat than an Englishman can obtain in a week. Yet the English wouldn't mind if they thought that Americans really understood their position. They are proud to belong to the British Commonwealth of Nations which is still the largest democratic group in the world, facing the Communist threat, but they are afraid that Americans are endeavoring to relegate Britain to a second rate power and are too anxious of rush into another world conflict.

The English are only too painfully aware that if war with Russia does materialize, her country would be the first to be in the jaws of the Russian bear.

Turning to Italy, where the speaker spent most of his time abroad, Mr. Capozzi described many factors concerning this country which are similar to Canada. Climate in the north is quite similar to that of B.C., he observed, but the country is less than one-third the size of B.C.

There are 450 people per square mile in Italy which is a very hilly country. The Italians cultivate 92 percent of the available surface.

In World War I, the Italians lost 600,000 men and were promised German colonies in order to provide an outlet for too large a population. Italy was a disillusioned, impoverished country when she only received a small holding in North Africa.

At this time, in 1921, at the same time Mackenzie King became leader in Canada, Benito Mussolini rose to prominence. A strong man, he built one of the best road systems in Europe, rebuilt the railway system, built thousands of schools and brought up the Italian morale.

In a country which has so little in the way of raw materials, it was a miracle that he could accomplish so much, Mr. Capozzi considered. If he had taken another course he might have become one of the world's great men.

Marshall Plan Aid

Today, some portions of Italy's production is 110 percent of the pre-war level. This has come about through hard work, determination and Marshall Plan aid. New dams and other projects have been built, roads rebuilt, the railway system re-installed with some $2 billions of Marshall Plan aid.

Yet, especially in southern Italy, there are still thousands living in caves and there are two million unemployed. Living costs are mounting and salaries are much below what Canadians would consider a living wage, being only $208 per person against over $900 in Canada.

Despite this low wage level, many prices of consumer goods are the same or higher than prevail in Canada, he observed.

Mr. Capozzi drew a parallel in the attitude of the peoples of Italy and Canada. Here, the workman is optimistic because he hopes to earn his own home and to own a car and even send his children to university in Italy, the workman has a very remote chance of having a home of his own, or of operating a car, except for a small proportion in northern Italy.

There are still people in the south clad only in skins, with the only water in the community one common well, where people can only afford one meal a day and whose only dream is to leave their country and live across the sea.

In some detail Mr. Capozzi described the different classes of people and their habits and ambitions, concluding with the thought that despite their difficulties and lower standard of living they have a background of culture which Canadians do not possess, an appreciation of living rather than the dollar.

There are more smiles to be seen on the streets of Italy than in any town in Canada, and he believed that people in Europe can teach North Americans quite a lot regarding the art of living.

High School COMMENTS

As the weeks roll by, we come ever closer to the fateful week before Easter when Easter exams are held. Naturally, a few ambitious students will have to study. As soon as a few study, everyone must study to hold up their marks.

Now, if no one were to study, everyone would still be on an equal basis and a lot of work would have been saved. Of course, this theory is frowned upon by teachers, and students would be better off if they don't follow it.

Last Friday afternoon, an assembly was held. The matter of an Easter dance was one of the main topics of discussion. A motion was passed that we hold a dance with the Junior High.

After the assembly, Herb Capozzi of Kelowna spoke on his trip to Italy. He proved to be a very interesting speaker, holding the attention of even the youngest students.

The Campus Chaff was sold on Friday and everyone should hurry and get their subscriptions in if they wish to save 25c on their annual.

Friday night, senior boys and girls basketball teams journeyed to Keremeos where they lost to the southern teams. This was the last bus trip of the season for basketball teams. Friday night, a Grade 7 team, a Grade 8 team and the regular junior girls and junior boys teams went to Kelowna to play similar Kelowna teams. The junior girls were the only successful team.

This coming Friday, the indoor track meet will be held in the gym. All four houses will be out to better their positions so it should be good.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The Saturday hike proved a great success. It started by Scouts following in pairs a trail of natural signs laid by Blewett and Smith. Signs in the snow, mud and with shrubs and signs made with stones were used.

This was part of the requirements for the tracker's badge. A number of plaster of paris casts of deer tracks were made and several boys passed firelighting, cooking and axemanship tests.

This next Tuesday, March 25, is the Father and Son banquet. Scouts whose fathers can't go or where there are two boys in the family may obtain an "extra" father if they desire by phoning S. R. Cannings, who has the names of several Legion members who are willing to act as fathers.

Be sure to wear complete uniforms, in good order, including shorts.

This year, instead of a concert, the troop is presenting a full-length picture show, Gunga Din, in the Youth Centre on Thursday April 3. This is a first-class picture and proceeds are for the purpose of raising funds for transportation and cook's wages at summer camp.

Tickets are now available from all Scouts and we hope you will not disappoint a Scout when he asks you to buy a ticket. Scouts can obtain extra tickets at the Sports Centre.

This Saturday at 2:30 p.m., the 1st Pentleton troop is coming to Summerland to play our troop basketball. There will be two games, one for 12 and 13 year olds and the other for 14 years and over. P/L Lewis is in charge and a full turnout of the troop is expected to greet our visitors. Refreshments will be served after the game.

Notices: Next meeting, Tuesday, April 1, Duty patrol, Buffaloes.

Lakeside WMS Plans Decorations for Easter

When the Lakeside WA met at the home of Mrs. A. G. Bissett on Monday evening, March 10, it was planned to have the new church curtains, and the collars for the choir robes all ready for the Easter services.

A committee headed by Mrs. W. B. Greer will convene the next AOTS supper meeting to be held April 24, in the basement of the Lakeside church. Miss Mary Scott had an important reminder for the thirty members present, that the church must meet several monthly expenditures and asked them to consider accepting church envelopes to achieve this end. Mrs. D. N. Yearwood, Mrs. D. Tait, Mrs. W. Charles and Mrs. J. Mitchell served lovely refreshments at the close of the evening. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. J. Raincock's home on April 21, when members are to bring sewing for the Mother's Day sale.

Free Methodist Churches' District Meeting Brings Many People Here

Free Methodist churches of the E.C. district met in a district quarterly meeting of unusual interest in the West Summerland Free Methodist church, March 13-16. People gathered from Hope, Oliver, Pentiction, Kelowna, Winfield, Grindrod and Kamloops.

Rev. George Schnell, new district superintendent, arranged the services, the first one on Thursday evening being addressed by Rev. W. S. Angell, a former pastor of the Free Methodist church here.

Friday was devoted to Sunday school work. Interesting chat talks and other demonstrations were given in the morning and afternoon by the Misses Ford and Macaulay, experienced children's workers from Grindrod. At the evening service, Rev. J. H. Coxson, Kamloops, was the speaker.

On Saturday morning district business of the church was done, with the Women's Missionary Society, and Young People's business meetings following in the afternoon.

Highlight of the services was the contribution made by Rev. and Mrs. A. Bilderback, missionaries from the Belgian Congo. On Saturday evening a capacity crowd filled the church to see Mr. Bilderback's color slides on their work in Africa. The children were interested especially in the curios shown, and his vivid and amusing description of African games and skills, as well as the work of the little herd boys.

In addition to being a missionary builder, the guest from Africa proved to be an able minister of the word of God, as he preached on Sunday morning and evening.

His wife, former supervisor of nurses' training at Seattle Pacific College gave touching pictures of the squalor and ignorance of the natives, which she so closely contacted as a nurse. The audience was thrilled and challenged by her repeated statement that it was a privilege to minister to the physical and spiritual needs of these people.

Young Local Couple United in Marriage At Pentiction Church

In the presence of about forty relatives and other friends, the wedding of Miss Phyllis Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Elliott, and Mr. Carl Cully Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Johnson, all of West Summerland was solemnized at the United Church, Pentiction, on Saturday March 8, at 8:30 p.m.

Rev. E. Rands, minister of the church performed the ceremony, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

A charming grey-blue tulle was the costume worn by the bride, with pink headdress and shoulder length pink veil. A pink blouse, pink lace gloves, and navy shoes completed the pretty ensemble, and her lovely corsage was arranged with a mauve and a white orchid.

Attending as her sister's bridesmaid was Miss Louise Elliott. She, too, wore a tailored suit in brown, with a wreath of yellow flowers in her hair, yellow blouse and gloves, and had gold sandals. Her flowers were pink carnations en corsage.

Mr. Dicky Johnson was his brother's best man.

The young couple left directly after the service to motor to Vancouver where they spent a week. They are making their home at West Summerland.

MISSION OFFICIAL PAYS VISIT TO SUMMERLAND

Rev. Arthur Tarry of Meadow Lake, Sask. was a guest last weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wellwood. Mr. Tarry is the secretary-treasurer of the Evangelical Mission of Northern Canada, which is interdenominational in its scope. He was in the valley in connection with special missionary work being held in valley centres.

On Sunday he spoke to the children at the morning service of the Baptist church.

NOTES FROM PARLIAMENT HILL

Member for Yale Quotes Party Leaders in Ottawa Debate

This week I intend to quote some of the views expressed by members of the various parties, when speaking in reply to the speech from the throne.

Mr. Drew dealt at length with taxation: "The current budget calls for tax levies of $3,730 million. So that we may realize in understandable terms what this means, it is well to remind ourselves that this is considerably in excess of the total gross value of all the products from our farms, forests, mines, fisheries and electric plants in the whole of Canada during 1950. When one thinks of all the human energy that went into production of that kind, the great basic production of the country, and sees that the total value of all that production is less than the amount of taxes levied under the budget passed last year, one begins to realize something of the real load of taxes that our people are called upon to carry. That is the extent to which the money earned by our people is being withdrawn from their own control and channelled through this vast bureaucracy.

"To illustrate in the simplest way what this means to the individual, may I remind their representatives here that this amounts to more than $265 a year for every man, woman and child in Canada. To put it in another way, it means that through all the open and hidden forms of taxation the average payment of taxes called for by the current budget from the head of a family of five is now $1,325 for the one year.

"On top of that Canadians have been over-taxed by approximately $700 million during the first nine months in overtaxation, above the months of the fiscal year. This figures of taxes I have given, to $50 a head, or $250 for the head of a family of five. That is what Canadians are now paying. If the government want to know where to tackle inflation first, let them cut off that overtaxation and reduce inflation by letting the people handle their own money with the wisdom that people have who know how hard it is to earn that money."

Following Mr. Drew several members accused the government of overtaxation, the minister of finance defending his action on the basis that many other governments had misjudged the buoyancy of our economy during the past fiscal year and that the major portion of the surplus would be devoted to the reduction of the national debt.

Mr. St. Laurent, following Mr. Drew, was in fine fettle, more so than usual. He dealt with the program that the government intends to carry out at the present session dealing at length with the question of unemployment, after admitting that this problem is somewhat greater at the present time than it was in 1951. He claimed that immigrants who have entered Canada have not added to the unemployment situation, as a very small percentage of these people are out of work.

Mr. Coldwell, who spoke next, dealt at length with NATO. Following is a quotation from Mr. Coldwell's speech which has excited a great deal of comment both by the press and in the House:

"It seems to us that Canada should take a realistic attitude and when necessary vigorously criticize, as in this instance the armament goal set at Lisbon, because it is unrealistic. We of the C.C.F. believe that an attempt to carry out an excessive military program will cripple the possibilities for the economic rebuilding of Europe and other parts of the world and lead us into an entirely false sense of strength and security which indeed do not exist.

"It seems to us that NATO has been influenced almost entirely by domestic and political considerations in the United States. This is an election year there. Most nations are dependent upon our great neighbor for financial and economic aid. Fortunately Canada has paid her own way and is in no sense dependent on the United States for financial or economic aid. Hence we are in a peculiar position of being able in NATO, and indeed in the United Nations when necessary, to give a lead towards the acceptance of more sensible and constructive policies than we have been getting. The Canadian government itself should be criticized for agreeing to follow policies which if carried through to a logical conclusion will, we believe, endanger the economic and social welfare of the world. I believe that that is exactly what the Kremlin wants and what the Kremlin is banking on, the collapse of the western European countries.

"Let me say that the criticisms I have made of Canadian policy and United States leadership in no way imply unfriendliness towards the United States people for whom I think we all have a high regard and respect. However, there are times when the friendship which exists between our two countries should enable us to speak candidly to one another."

Mr. Low, speaking on behalf of the Social Credit party also criticized the minister of finance about overtaxation: "The minister of finance argued that by using some of the surplus to pay off the debt he has saved the Canadian people considerably more money in interest. Well, that is so. I agree. But what earthly use is it to save the people interest if, by the very means taken by the minister to save interest, he causes the people to pay more in the form of higher prices than the amount of interest saved? That is a question I would like the minister to answer—or indeed anyone else to answer.

"Of the $310 million of debt paid off from the surplus so far this year accumulated, the people have been saved perhaps $9,800,000 in interest.

"But the taxes responsible for the raising of the $310 million surplus revenue have increased prices and the cost of living to the people of Canada to the extent of at least 30 per cent of the $310 million or, in round figures, $90 million. I do not think anyone can deny that that is so."

Friday evening, March 14, was the twenty-first birthday of the Summerland Ladies' Orange Lodge, and they celebrated the event in an enjoyable evening.

Sister Louise Kennedy conveyed birthday greetings to the members and guests. Appreciation was given six of the present members, Sisters Frances Gould, Eveline Gould, Violet May, Agnes Walton and Brother Harvey Walton, and to Sister Sarah Yule, who is an honorary member but was unable to be present. These are charter members who helped to start this lodge twenty-one years ago. The first three ladies mentioned blew out the candles and out the cakes.

Provincial President Pays Official Visit To Faith Rebekah

Last week was a busy one for the members of Faith Rebekah Lodge. On Monday evening, six members from Summerland, Mrs. Fred Schumann, district deputy president; Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, past president; Mrs. T. A. Walden, Mrs. J. Caldwell, Mrs. W. Bleasdale and Mrs. R. I. Tuesday evening, March 11, Mrs. Haner paid her official visit to Redlands, No. 12, Penticton. Sixteen members of the local lodge attended this meeting, with eighteen from Princeton, and several from Oliver, to make a grand total of about one hundred and twenty-eight.

Accompanying the provincial president in her suite were Mrs. Ira Betts, assembly musician, Penticton, Mrs. Edith Granger, assembly warden, Kelowna; Mrs. F. E. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wright returned on Sunday from a three months' trip in which they visited France and England.

Wins Prize for Lunch Box Menu; Easter Outfit

One person who really doesn't care whether margarine is colored or not is Mrs. Frank Tilbe who received a telegram on Monday from an eastern margarine company telling her that she had just won an Easter outfit of clothing worth $150 in a competition asking for a Lunch Box Menu.

The best fifteen menus submitted from contestants from eight Canadian provinces were awarded prizes. Mrs. Tilbe won second prize for British Columbia.

The menu which Mrs. Tilbe sent in was actually one which she has often prepared for her little daughter, Gloria, to take to school, and she suggested that for adults quantities might be increased.

Here is the prize-winning menu: 1 hard boiled egg, and a square of margarine to go with it, a tomato, lettuce, 2 sticks of raw celery, 2 sticks of raw carrot, 4 slices of brown bread spread with margarine, a thermos of milk, and an apple.

Bill Snow Goes Back as President Of Sportsmen's Club in Summerland

Bill Snow has gone back to the helm of the Summerland Fish and Game Club, replacing Joe McLachlan, who succeeded Mr. Snow a year ago.

Election of officers took place at the annual meeting held in the Nu-Way Annex last Friday evening.

Vice-president for 1952 is Harvey Wilson while Charlie Witherspoon has been named secretary-treasurer. On the executive are Channon Snow, Harry Parker, George Pennington, Fred Dunsdon, W. A. (Bud) Stewart, and Bill Hack.

Bert Simpson was placed in charge of club publicity. Retiring President McLachlan and George Pennington were delegates to the annual convention of the Interior Fish, Game and Forest Protective Assn., held in Kelowna on Sunday and Monday.

Guests at the convention from Summerland were Mr. Snow and Fred Dunsdon.

At last Friday's meeting, guest speakers included J. G. Cunningham, game commissioner and James Hatter, big game biologist for the department.

Mr. Cunningham reviewed many of the problems confronting the game department this year and outlined some of the contentious resolutions which will be coming before the B.C. Fish and Game Council this spring when the annual convention is held.

From a preliminary survey, Mr. Hatter observed that Okanagan sportsmen are not killing enough deer each fall. He declared the winter range on the slopes of the lower hills leading to the Okanagan are in very bad shape, being over-browsed.

Although he had not been able to make a detailed survey of conditions farther back in the hills, Mr. Hatter believed that more deer will have to be killed each fall or the lack of winter range will cause a serious falling off in deer population all of a sudden.

Hockey Club Undefeated in Round Robin

Summerland hockey club continued its undefeated string in the Pentiction commercial league round robin playoff series at Pentiction last Sunday with a 4-1 victory over the Pentiction Packers, the high school entry.

Hall spoiled a shutout in the third period at the 12:05 mark when he chalked up Pentiction's only marker. Steinger and Carston put the game on ice in the first stanza while Carston again countered early in the third period before Hall bulged the twine. Roberge gave Summerland extra insurance with six minutes left in the game.

1st Period: 1, Summerland, Steinger, 5:40; 2, Summerland, Carston (Steinger) 17:35.

Penalties: Taylor, Burch. 2nd Period, Penalty: Taylor. 3rd Period: 3, Summerland, Carston, 1:59; 4, Pentiction, Hall, (Burgart, Ehmman) 12:05; 5, Summerland, Roberge (Taylor) 13:52.

Penalties: Byres, 10 minute misconduct; Steinger, Burgart.

Summerland High Loses to Pentiction

Pentiction administered a 7-4 defeat to Summerland high school hockey lads at Pentiction on Saturday morning. Summerland had more offensive play but lacked a good defense, being caught napping on several occasions.

Goals by Joe Brlekovich, assisted by Jim Eyre, and by Clifford Ask offset two goals by Pentiction to leave the score knotted at the end of the first stanza.

In the second stanza, Pentiction scored three more before Seigrist on a setup from Biollo shot one home, leaving the visitors trailing 5-3. Again in the third period, Pentiction outscored Summerland 2-1, Hackman getting the lone Summerland score unassisted.

ATTENTION CURLERS

The Curling Club active memberships have nearly all been subscribed, as only 120 members can be handled. To date 109 members have signed up leaving only eleven active memberships open.

Anyone anticipating curling next winter is advised to enter their names immediately at Holmes and Wade Ltd.

To Organize Box Lacrosse Friday Night

George Stoll is calling an organizational meeting for the arena tomorrow night in the hope that sufficient interest in box lacrosse will be aroused to form either an intermediate or senior team in Summerland, preferably both.

Attempts are also being made to institute box lacrosse in Pentiction now that that city's arena has been promised a playing surface for summer sports.

Here in Summerland more clay will be mixed with the present arena surface and will be packed down to make a sufficiently hard surface for the boxla game.

Don Horton, Kelowna, secretary of the Interior Lacrosse Assn., has extended an invitation to Summerland to attend an annual meeting to be held in the Canadian Legion canteen room at Vernon on Sunday, May 30 at 2 p.m.

"The meeting is sure to be of value whether Summerland's interests are in minor lacrosse or in entering a team in the Interior (senior) league," Mr. Horton declares.

Garraway's Rink Takes "A" Event At Peachland

Jack Garraway's rink of Peachland captured the Peachland Garage cup, the most coveted trophy emblematic of the championship of the 3rd annual Peachland bonspiel last Sunday night to terminate three strenuous bonspiel days at the Peachland Curling Club.

The popular Peachland CC president eked out a narrow 11-9 victory over Moon Mullins' rink of Vancouver in the finals. The Spence rink of Peachland won third place honors while the Al Holmes rink of Summerland was in fourth spot.

In No. 2 event, for the Kelowna Builders' Supply cup, Ken Fulk's Peachland rink scored a walkaway triumph over Olaf Anderson's Westbank rink, winning the finals 14-6.

No. 3 event, for the Stewart-Warner cup, was also won handily by the Herb Lemke rink of Summerland, defeating the "Tiny" Dell rink of Peachland, in the late hours Sunday evening.

Twenty-four rinks, including five from Summerland, competed in this highly successful bonspiel which attracted a great number of spectators from Summerland.

Don Cristante with Alberta Cage Champs

Don Cristante, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cristante of Summerland, is gaining some fame in hoop circles in Calgary, where he is attending Calgary Tech. As a member of the Tech basketball team, Don has helped to gain the semifinal round in the Alberta intermediate men's basketball playoffs.

In the first game of the semi-finals against Edmonton Kingsway Car Market, Tech won 65-48. In the second game the series ended with Tech winning 49-41. Don contributed 6 points in this second contest.

ONE AND ONE HALF BILLIONS OF DOLLARS

Because INVESTORS HAVE CONFIDENCE IN B.C.

When British Columbia electors in 1949 demonstrated clearly that British Columbia believed in the freedom system of enterprise and opportunity . . . as against state control and ownership . . . there began the greatest flow of new venture capital ever to move into a Canadian province.

Right now British Columbia can look forward to the spending of more than ONE and ONE HALF BILLIONS OF DOLLARS in major new developments of all kinds in the next three years.

We have the greatest pulp and paper expansion programme of any region in the world; the biggest new aluminum plant being built anywhere; the most important new oil pipeline project of North America; some of the greatest power development projects currently under way in either the United States or Canada.

All this and more for one reason only:

Because . . . British Columbians told the investing world to have confidence in the good sense and stability of the people of this province.

Let's keep things right for B.C.'s growth!

academic standing and the teacher's opinion of the student far more than anything else," he opined. "Students who took a considerable part in university athletics are looked on with some suspicion; students who took a more than ordinary active part in the life of the campus... are not necessarily looked on with favor."

Dealing with the UBC graduate, Mr. McLean declared the average young man or woman would like to have employment in B.C. and is normally less interested in initial pay than in acquiring some practical experience. He feels that as soon as possible after he has gained the necessary experience he would like to get into business "on his own".

Mr. McLean flouted popular misconceptions when he declared that last year less than 1 percent of UBC graduates left for the USA, although a large number, especially in engineering, obtained their first jobs in the manufacturing centres of Ontario and Quebec.

"This exodus to the east, however, is decreasing as time goes on and it is interesting to note that a considerable number of former grads have returned to take up positions in the province."

CWL Spaghetti Supper Draws 150 Guests

Delicious spaghetti and meat balls were the main part of the menu at the supper served in the IOOF hall by members of the Catholic Women's League on the evening of St. Patrick's Day, Monday, March 17, from 5:30 to 7:30.

Mrs. V. Polesello, president of the league was general convener, while in the kitchen preparing the generous meal were Mrs. J. M. Betuzzi, Mrs. S. Fabbri and Mrs. J. Cristante. All the members were kept very busy during the supper hours in serving the one hundred and fifty guests, including members of the Kiwanis Club and their wives.

After supper Mr. J. M. Betuzzi convened the St. Patrick's Day dance at which Marcel's Mountain Rascals supplied the music.

new aluminum project at Kitimat and other similar developments as industries providing new avenues for the university graduate.

He quoted the following as percentages of choice of positions taken by 1800 graduates from UBC last year:

3% to agriculture or work related to agriculture; 12% to commerce; 19% education, 18% engineering; 4% forestry; 9% law; 6% social services; 6% in government other than agriculture or social services; 6% scientific and industrial research; 12% miscellaneous.

"For a long time the engineering faculty has boasted a record second to none on this continent and it is not surprising that graduates are in demand everywhere," he said.

In conclusion, Mr. McLean spoke of the university graduates as one of "our major B.C. Products, one of our major investments."

He envisaged UBC as "a part of our community and not as some savants would have us believe as in an ivory tower set apart from the rest of the province... we should be interested in what happens to those young men and women on whom the taxpayers, in general, and the parents individually spend so much money."

Proposals

fund surplus there is an excess over requirements of $80,641.00.

There are about as many opinions on how this money should be spent as there are ratepayers. One school of thought suggests that the domestic water bylaw money left over from putting in the Crescent Beach extension, should be set aside for future expenditures on the domestic water system. This is a sensible viewpoint and if the majority of ratepayers favour it, then it should be done. However, a bylaw would be necessary. There is another school of thought that any surplus monies from irrigation should be used to complete the north and south mains at one time. There is the thought expressed that work of a semi permanent nature, such as installing cement fluming, should be on a bylaw basis so that ratepayers in the future would pay their share. However, there are at least four points why the work has been continuing on a piece-work basis from year to year. (1) It is cheapest. (2) It is considered that a better job is obtained by a small crew of efficient workers, rather than a large crew unfamiliar with the work. (3) It keeps a good crew permanently employed rather than seasonal, unskilled help, for the irrigation system. (4) It has been council policy to finance this permanent work from current revenue, for at least eight years. It must be understood that council policy is dependent on the wishes of the majority of the ratepayers, but at any rate the Reeves and Councils that have been in office during at least the last eight years have supported this policy.

These points should be considered together with the previous references to surpluses in irrigation bylaws. It must be borne in mind that when deficits occurred—which happened for several years—these deficits were made up from general taxes. 1931 is a good example, the deficit on domestic water and irrigation combined was $10,604.81. Consequently, the irrigation or domestic water systems, do not have any preferential claims on sinking fund surpluses from irrigation or domestic water by-laws.

The surplus funds have accumulated from various bylaws dealing with all departments of the corporation. Consequently, the council feels that by using this money for a new Municipal Office, the money is being used in the fairest manner for the whole municipality.

Another viewpoint is that the municipal office bylaw should be financed entirely with new money. The reasons why the council has kept away from this possibility are (1) a poor market exists at the present time for bonds with a fixed value, and (2) if the council expected to sell bonds at par, they would have to bear interest in the neighborhood of 4.75 to 5 percent.

We have a municipal office staff of which we can be justly proud. Some have given long years of efficient service, and younger members have also been trained in the same tradition of efficiency and service. Numerous handicaps to their work in the matter of office accommodation have been borne by this group with few complaints. I think in dealing with this bylaw in the past, insufficient attention has been drawn to the working conditions of the municipal office staff. Naturally they will benefit, but we as ratepayers will also benefit. Some reasons why a new office is needed are as follows:

- 1. Working space for efficiency. (It is very badly overcrowded).
2. Increase in the work done by office, (1. doubling of electric light accounts, etc. 2. increase in staff of from 4 in 1939 to 6 in 1951.)
3. The vault is in the council room—it is very badly overcrowded—and is difficult to use during council meetings.
4. The washroom is tied-up during council meetings. There are no separate male and female facilities.
5. The heating is bad, the building is draughty, and the floor is cold.
6. There is no room for efficient

1952 president Walter M. Wright, himself a recipient of a similar honor last year, made the presentation.

Order of St. John

"It never rains but it pours" declared J. E. O'Mahony, who presented the new Good Citizen with an honorary life membership in the Order of St. John, for his faithful attendance as a lecturer in first aid at St. John Ambulance classes. This also came as a surprise to Dr. Vanderburgh.

Mrs. W. M. Wright presented bouquets of flowers to Mrs. Vanderburgh, Mrs. J. R. Armstrong, wife of the retiring president and to Mrs. J. F. McLean, wife of the guest speaker, known to many as the former Dorie Burch of Penticton.

At the outset, Chairman J. R. Armstrong stressed the community angle in board of trade work and expressed the hope that the board of trade has been of benefit to Summerland in the year just past.

Reeve C. E. Bentley, in bringing greetings from the municipality, also considered board of trade work invaluable to a community and thought that trade boards should receive better support from businessmen generally in every community.

Toast to the ladies was given by E. E. Bates and was responded to by Mrs. W. H. Durick.

Kay Hamilton's Choir

Another of the evening's highlights was the first public appearance this year of the Summerland girls' choir, with Kay Hamilton conducting and Eugene Bates as accompanist. The chorus was heartily applauded for its rendition of festival numbers and was given a vote of appreciation by Ivor Solly.

Final function of the evening was the administration of the oath of office to W. M. Wright, president and Ivor Solly, vice-president of the board of trade for 1952. This was ably carried out by Reeve C. E. Bentley.

Among headtable guests not already mentioned were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jenkins, Princeton, president of the Southern Interior Associated Boards of Trade; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Van Winkelaar, vice-president, Penticton Board of Trade; Mr. Gerald Imrie and Mr. Jack Bews, Kelowna Board of Trade; W. C. Tyacke, secretary and M. Chaplin, president, Westbank Board of Trade; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Johnston, Rotary Club; Capt. and Mrs.

Still No Losses; Beat Contractors

Summerland's high flying hockey club continued its undefeated record in the round robin playoffs of the Penticton Commercial league by administering a 5-2 defeat to Penticton Contractors at Penticton arena last night.

Rosie Campbell, who drew a five-game suspension, was back on the ice last night and assisted in keeping the Contractors at bay. Cluett was in the nets for Summerland and did a good job, stopping a penalty shot in the second period.

Steininger and Carston each scored twice while Taylor added the fifth goal. Pringle was the only Contractor who could find a loophole in Cluett's defence, scoring both counters.

1st Period: 1 Contractors, Pringle, 2:00; 2 Summerland, Taylor (Steininger) 6:20; 3 Summerland, Steininger (Carston) 16:00. No penalties.

2nd Period: 4 Contractors, Pringle (Holowaty, May) 8:55; 5 Summerland, Steininger (Carston) 13:15.

Another Unsigned Letter Mailed from Vernon, Attacks Sales Agency

Another scurrilous attack by unknown persons, allegedly in the Vernon area, but who only sign themselves "The Better Management Committee", has been made on leaders of the fruit industry, especially those who are in charge of operations at the growers' central sales agency, B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd.

A mimeographed letter addressed "To All Fruit Growers" was mailed to some growers and packinghouses in the Okanagan this week. One such letter arrived, among others, in Summerland addressed to the President and Directors, Summerland Co-operative Growers, Summerland, B.C. It carried a postmark dated March 24 at Vernon.

Council Faced With Problem On Wage Hike

International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Union No. 213 has informed municipal council no decision has been reached with any interior municipality regarding a new wage agreement with municipal electrical workers.

Provisions of the new agreement sought by this union from its Vancouver local office were detailed to council.

Although Kelowna has dealt with the same union and has fixed its new wage agreement, it is with a different local, council was informed.

Summerland municipal workers have now affiliated with the Vancouver local.

Councillor H. R. J. Richards wanted to know on Tuesday what council policy is going to be, with regard to the entire wage question.

"If you give the electrical workers their 50 percent increase, are you prepared to give the rest as much?" he queried, pointing out that it would mean a big difference in the tax structure.

On the other hand, if the electrical workers are granted a certain percentage increase and other municipal workers are given a smaller percentage increase then the council would, in effect, be admitting that the electrical workers are being underpaid now. Mr. Richards pointed out.

"Just because one group doesn't shouldn't get any less," was Councillor Bill Barkley's opinion.

Mr. Richards then brought the discussion to a close when he pointed out to Mr. Richards that council was weakening its position in bargaining with the workers by discussing the question in open council session.

Excess of Hub Caps Reported

Have you lost a hub cap? RCMP office in Summerland has an array of 35 hub caps, all stolen from local cars presumably on Tuesday, March 18.

Two juveniles from Vernon are awaiting sentence on charges of theft arising from a wholesale collection of hub caps taken from parked cars from Summerland north through the valley.

The Summerland caps were disposed of by the youths at Westbank and Penticton.

RCMP are awaiting further evidence before charging them with the theft of the local hub caps. In the meantime, if car owners can prove they have lost their hub caps by theft around that time they claim their property at the police office.

Near Fatal Accident Occurs When West Kootenay Changes Lines Sunday

What could have been a serious, fatal accident was narrowly averted last Sunday when workmen were changing the West Kootenay line to the experimental station.

It had been announced that the municipal electricity would not be available over the whole of Summerland for one hour, between 8 and 9 a.m. on Sunday to allow the West Kootenay to make its changeover.

At the same time, the Summerland municipal electrical crew planned to make some changes. Splice Gave Way

While the workmen were unwinding a reel of wire, a splice became disconnected and the strand shot upwards into the 60,000 volt line. A flame said to be several feet long shot out and 100 feet of the cable was shrivelled by the intense heat. Fortunately, no crew member was near enough to be affected. However, the 60,000 volt line was short-circuited and the main switch at Oliver was thrown, shutting off power temporarily for Penticton and Naramata.

The high tension line from Penticton to Summerland was out off entirely so there could be no recurrence of the accident.

Time of relaying the West Kootenay line had been underestimated and between that and the unfortunate accident, electrical supply was cut off throughout Summerland for the rest of the day, coming on again in the late afternoon.

In the evening, the electrical supply was again out off for short intervals because of a fire at the West Kootenay Warfield plant at Trail which damaged a large transformer.

Shutdowns Should be Over At Tuesday's council meeting, Councillor F. E. Atkinson, chairman of the electric light department, assured council that as far as he can ascertain the shutdowns on the local system are concluded for a long time.

Last Sunday's changeover, if approved by the provincial, electrical inspector, will conclude the changeover necessary on the Giant's Head line by both the municipality and the West Kootenay, he believed.

"The people have been very patient while we were carrying out our expansion program, but I think we've reached the conclusion of that phase," he declared.

Yesterday, street lights were installed and went on for the first time in the Peach Orchard section, just about bringing to a close this year's extensions on the street lighting system.

Mr. Grant is billed in the letter as being the "only person in BCTF who has any merchandising ability."

Grant's History The letter also accuses the sales agency of making many blunders and of being poorly managed, and says "we cannot blame Mr. R. Grant from turning in his resignation. He is a wise man to leave before the organization breaks under the present most inefficient management."

The letter also asks why the growers' president, Mr. A. R. Garrish of Oliver, did not ask Mr. Grant for the reasons why he resigned.

After giving a "few general facts" about BCTF Ltd. staff, which will not be printed here because of their libellous nature, the letter goes on to state that, at least one of the governors "must be of the opinion that changes in BCTF are necessary or he would not have interviewed Mr. McNair on two occasions to find out if Mr. McNair would be willing to take over the management of BCTF."

In conclusion it urges growers to contact their governors and "demand" to know "why Mr. Grant is leaving BCTF."

Mr. Grant returned to Summerland for a repeat performance to Monday night next.

Two new stars were born on Monday evening as Clive Atkinson well-known young Summerland man and Joan Carey of Penticton took leading parts as Nanki-Poo, son of the Mikado of Japan and Yum-Yum, his sweetheart.

Although her part was not as lengthy as others, Mrs. Mary Whitmore of Summerland, was exceedingly commanding in her appearance as Katisha, the elderly lady in love with Nanki-Poo.

Her voice was one of the best and her strong characterization of her semi-tragic part brought her well-earned praise.

Liberals to Name Candidates for South Okanagan

The political pot is starting to boil a little harder this week.

Tomorrow night, Summerland Liberals are meeting at the Nu-Way Annex to select delegates to attend the nominating convention to be held in Kelowna on Tuesday, April 8.

F. Clark, organizer of the Liberal party, will be guest speaker at this meeting.

Later in the month, a B.C. Liberal Assn. convention is to be held in Vancouver. This convention is anticipated with keen interest as it will be decided there if Byron Johnson will continue to lead the provincial Liberals or if Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer will take over.

C. V. Nesbitt, president of the Summerland Progressive Conservative Assn. states no action has been taken on the calling of a Conservative nominating convention for South Okanagan riding yet.

"The Mikado" Termed Best Yet By Packed House First Night

For years, Summerland audiences have been experiencing fine performances when the annual spring presentations of Gilbert & Sullivan light operas brings to the fore the foremost of local talent, but this week the Summerland Singers & Players' Club surpassed all previous efforts with its production of "The Mikado".

Right from the opening bars of the splendid orchestra to the final strains of the light-hearted music of the opera, the production captivated and delighted the audience which was privileged to view and hear "The Mikado" on its opening night at the school auditorium on Monday.

A dress rehearsal was witnessed on Saturday night mainly by school students, but the first main showing before a packed hall was on Monday night.

Last night, a large crowd was on hand at the Anglican Parish hall in Kelowna to witness the production while on Friday evening the Mikado is being produced before an Oliver - Osoyoos audience at the big school auditorium in Oliver.

The Mikado returns to Summerland for a repeat performance to Monday night next.

Re-Elected to Parks Board

George Woltte's nomination papers were the only ones filed last Thursday at noon when Returning Officer W. C. W. Fosbery declared the nomination poll closed and Mr. Woltte again elected as a member of the board of parks commissioners in place of Mr. Norman Holmes, who resigned at December 31.

Mr. Woltte was the only nominee in January but when he failed to take out his necessary declaration within thirty days of the nominations being closed, his appointment was automatically declared invalid.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Woltte have been ill in hospital at Lethbridge since they travelled to southern Alberta three weeks ago, but are expected home within the next few days.

Minimum Fine of $50 is Imposed

Larry L. Scott of Vernon was found guilty by Magistrate R. S. Oxley on Tuesday afternoon on a charge of driving while his ability to control a car was impaired by alcohol. This is a new charge and calls for a minimum fine of $50.

Scott pleaded not guilty, but the court decided otherwise and assessed him the minimum fine and costs.

The charge arose out of an accident in front of the Summerland Co-op packinghouse where a small English-make car, driven by Scott went out of control and crashed into two parked cars, creating considerable damage.

He was injured in the crash and was in Vernon hospital for some time before recovering in time for the court case.

This was the second case heard by Magistrate R. S. Oxley since his appointment at the first of the month. The first case saw Frank Bennison pay a minimum fine of $25 and costs for failing to produce a driver's licence.

Fire Brigade Wants Siren Connected

Summerland fire brigade has asked municipal council to communicate with the Okanagan Telephone Company in an endeavor to find some system whereby the siren can be sounded automatically at the same time the brigade members' phones are rung.

When brigade members are working away from home during the day quite a delay can be created because the alarm is not rung when the call goes out over the telephone, it was explained.

The municipal fire committee will contact the telephone officials and endeavor to find a solution.

Tom Wilkinson Choice of CCF as First Nominee for South Okanagan Seat

Tom Wilkinson, of Kelowna, chairman of the Interior Vegetable Marketing Board, newly-elected first vice-president of the Canadian Horticultural Council and a director of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, was selected by the South Okanagan CCF nominating convention held in Summerland Saturday afternoon as the candidate for that party in the forthcoming provincial election.

Representatives from Kelowna, East Kelowna, Rutland, Naramata and Summerland gathered for this convention and selected the man who carried the CCF banner against W. A. C. Bennett in the last election.

The big, husky Kelowna district farmer who has been chairman of the vegetable growers' marketing board since 1934, with the exception of one year, was proposed by J. R. Pointer of Kelowna and was the unanimous choice.

Jack Snowsall will be campaign manager with Mrs. Ruth Purdy of Kelowna, chairman of the South Okanagan district executive, as campaign committee secretary and T. D. Dyson, East Kelowna, campaign treasurer and candidates' agent.

Harold Winch, CCF leader in the provincial house, told the convention that "you will have to put up candidates who will do justice to the CCF party in B.C."

"Today you have done better than nominate a good candidate," he added, "you have selected cabinet material as your standard-bearer."

A voice from the audience added: "Minister of Agriculture."

Mr. Wilkinson, in accepting nomination, declared his belief that the CCF policy is economically sound and that without preparations for war under the present system there would be as many unemployed now as in the 1930's.

He thought it fitting that a farmer should represent the South Okanagan, as the Okanagan depends on agriculture for any prosperity it enjoys. The platform of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture calls for more farmer members in the legislature at Victoria, he instanced.

"Nobody understands the problems of agriculture like the farmer and the grower," he contended.

No Cooperation in Alberta Touching for a moment on "another party offering you benefits from a neighboring province," he doubted if the Social Credit has anything to offer B.C. and contended that B.C. has done more in co-operation than Alberta.

Alberta vegetable growers receive the lowest prices for their products of any vegetable growers on the North American continent, he charged. Alberta growers are not receiving the co-operation they should expect from the Social Credit government, while the poultrymen have had practically no co-operation from the Alberta authorities in their endeavors to improve their marketing setup.

Here in B.C. agriculture is looked upon as a "poor relation," he said and should get a bigger percentage of the province's income.

In the Okanagan, the fruit industry is in trouble, Mr. Wilkinson contended, facing as it is increased freight rates and increased natural proving the playground area at Powell Beach and the building of a small hall for Trout Creek community activities on this park's property.

H. C. Howis, a veteran of World War I and a staunch supporter of Canadian Legion activities for many years, has been named delegate to represent South Okanagan Canadian Legion zone at the Dominion Command convention in Montreal in May.

Mr. Howis will accompany Graham Kincaid, of Penticton, zone commander to this huge convention.

Miss Bristow will remain in office as assistant to the new appointee.

In principle, the meeting was unanimous in its endorsement of the tentative outline of proposals in this connection and agreed to further the aims and objects of the association.

With the board of parks commissioners' approval, last Saturday afternoon a start was made by Trout Creek residents on enlarging the park area at Powell Beach and it is anticipated that another work party will be on the job this coming Saturday.

Dr. C. G. Woodbridge, who did much of the groundwork, was named the charter president, with Mrs. E. Willis and Mr. Lloyd Gartrell vice-presidents, Mrs. J. Miltmore secretary and Dr. C. C. Strachan, Vic Parker, Bob Alstead and Clarence Lackey directors.

Last night, a large crowd was on hand at the Anglican Parish hall in Kelowna to witness the production while on Friday evening the Mikado is being produced before an Oliver - Osoyoos audience at the big school auditorium in Oliver.

The Mikado returns to Summerland for a repeat performance to Monday night next.

Two new stars were born on Monday evening as Clive Atkinson well-known young Summerland man and Joan Carey of Penticton took leading parts as Nanki-Poo, son of the Mikado of Japan and Yum-Yum, his sweetheart.

Their lovely voices blended well together and proved a delight to the huge audience.

Although her part was not as lengthy as others, Mrs. Mary Whitmore of Summerland, was exceedingly commanding in her appearance as Katisha, the elderly lady in love with Nanki-Poo.

Her voice was one of the best and her strong characterization of her semi-tragic part brought her well-earned praise.

Macloed Outstanding Of course, one of the main characters was A. K. Macloed, whose portrayal of Ko-Ko, the Lord High Executioner was on such a high standard that he was encouraged on several occasions.

Liberals to Name Candidates for South Okanagan

The political pot is starting to boil a little harder this week.

Tomorrow night, Summerland Liberals are meeting at the Nu-Way Annex to select delegates to attend the nominating convention to be held in Kelowna on Tuesday, April 8.

F. Clark, organizer of the Liberal party, will be guest speaker at this meeting.

Later in the month, a B.C. Liberal Assn. convention is to be held in Vancouver. This convention is anticipated with keen interest as it will be decided there if Byron Johnson will continue to lead the provincial Liberals or if Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer will take over.

C. V. Nesbitt, president of the Summerland Progressive Conservative Assn. states no action has been taken on the calling of a Conservative nominating convention for South Okanagan riding yet.

Tom Wilkinson Choice of CCF as First Nominee for South Okanagan Seat

Tom Wilkinson, of Kelowna, chairman of the Interior Vegetable Marketing Board, newly-elected first vice-president of the Canadian Horticultural Council and a director of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, was selected by the South Okanagan CCF nominating convention held in Summerland Saturday afternoon as the candidate for that party in the forthcoming provincial election.

Representatives from Kelowna, East Kelowna, Rutland, Naramata and Summerland gathered for this convention and selected the man who carried the CCF banner against W. A. C. Bennett in the last election.

The big, husky Kelowna district farmer who has been chairman of the vegetable growers' marketing board since 1934, with the exception of one year, was proposed by J. R. Pointer of Kelowna and was the unanimous choice.

Jack Snowsall will be campaign manager with Mrs. Ruth Purdy of Kelowna, chairman of the South Okanagan district executive, as campaign committee secretary and T. D. Dyson, East Kelowna, campaign treasurer and candidates' agent.

Harold Winch, CCF leader in the provincial house, told the convention that "you will have to put up candidates who will do justice to the CCF party in B.C."

"Today you have done better than nominate a good candidate," he added, "you have selected cabinet material as your standard-bearer."

A voice from the audience added: "Minister of Agriculture."

Mr. Wilkinson, in accepting nomination, declared his belief that the CCF policy is economically sound and that without preparations for war under the present system there would be as many unemployed now as in the 1930's.

He thought it fitting that a farmer should represent the South Okanagan, as the Okanagan depends on agriculture for any prosperity it enjoys. The platform of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture calls for more farmer members in the legislature at Victoria, he instanced.

"Nobody understands the problems of agriculture like the farmer and the grower," he contended.

No Cooperation in Alberta. Touching for a moment on "another party offering you benefits from a neighboring province," he doubted if the Social Credit has anything to offer B.C. and contended that B.C. has done more in co-operation than Alberta.

Alberta vegetable growers receive the lowest prices for their products of any vegetable growers on the North American continent, he charged. Alberta growers are not receiving the co-operation they should expect from the Social Credit government, while the poultrymen have had practically no co-operation from the Alberta authorities in their endeavors to improve their marketing setup.

Here in B.C. agriculture is looked upon as a "poor relation," he said and should get a bigger percentage of the province's income.

Howis Goes to Legion Conflab

H. C. Howis, a veteran of World War I and a staunch supporter of Canadian Legion activities for many years, has been named delegate to represent South Okanagan Canadian Legion zone at the Dominion Command convention in Montreal in May.

Mr. Howis will accompany Graham Kincaid, of Penticton, zone commander to this huge convention.

Decision to send Mr. Howis was taken at the quarterly meeting of the zone held at Oliver last Sunday afternoon. Reeve C. E. Bentley and Mr. Howis were delegates from Summerland Branch No. 22.

Miss Bristow Resigns From Co-Op Position Miss Bertha Bristow, secretary-treasurer of the Summerland Co-operative Association for 12 years has resigned, the board of directors announced today.

The resignation is to become effective at the discretion of the board, and will depend upon the appointment of a new secretary-treasurer.

WANTS PIPE UNDERGROUND

At council meeting on Tuesday George Washington's request that the water pipe running from his residential property to that of Collin McKenzie be placed underground was referred to Water Foreman E. Kercher.

With the board of parks commissioners' approval, last Saturday afternoon a start was made by Trout Creek residents on enlarging the park area at Powell Beach and it is anticipated that another work party will be on the job this coming Saturday.

Formation of a Trout Creek Point Community Association was undertaken at a well-attended meeting of Trout Creek residents held in the Trout Creek Church of God last Thursday evening.

Dr. C. G. Woodbridge, who did much of the groundwork, was named the charter president, with Mrs. J. Willis and Mr. Lloyd Gartrill vice-presidents, Mrs. J. Millmore secretary and Dr. C. C. Strahan, Vic Parker, Bob Alstead and Clarence Laokoy directors.

Huddleston to Lead Hospital Board in '52

C. J. Huddleston is the new chairman of the Summerland Hospital Society board of directors, succeeding S. A. MacDonald, who has held the post for the past fifteen to seventeen years.

Mr. MacDonald refused to accept re-nomination at the board meeting Tuesday evening, despite attempts by other directors to dissuade him.

Mr. Huddleston, who has been first vice-president for a number of years, accepted the post with Councillor Francis Stuart as first vice-president and Ivor Solly second vice-president.

Major decision at this first meeting of the new directorate for 1952 was the purchase of a diathermy machine at a cost of about $700.

This purchase and a number of others agreed upon for action this year, have been on the waiting list for some years but because of the financial condition of the hospital it was not possible to obtain them before.

Directors decided to proceed with the erection of a roof cellar, and install a curb around the lawn at the "nurses' home."

A new sewage disposal system will be installed according to specifications recommended some time ago by sanitary authorities. A suction tank with laterals for dispersal of the waste will be built and both the old system and the new system will be alternated, it is planned.

Ellison Hall is Leased to Co-Op

Summerland Co-operative Growers' Assn., through Manager George Washington, has leased the Ellison hall, for box storage and box making, from April to September, a time lapse of six months, at a rental fee of $30 per month.

Mr. Washington closed this deal on Tuesday when he sought information from the council as to the rental required.

Councillor F. E. Atkinson suggested $30 and Mr. Washington agreed so quickly that this would be a suitable rental that council immediately wondered if it shouldn't have been higher.

MISS BRISTOW RESIGNS FROM CO-OP POSITION

Miss Bertha Bristow, secretary-treasurer of the Summerland Co-operative Association for 12 years has resigned, the board of directors announced today.

The resignation is to become effective at the discretion of the board, and will depend upon the appointment of a new secretary-treasurer.

A Good Fellow and a Good Citizen

This month we welcomed another in our growing list of Good Citizens, those men and women whom the Summerland Board of Trade executive considers each year of being worthy of consideration as being outstanding for their good deeds.

Dr. Alfred Wharton Vanderburgh was a popular choice. It could be seen on every hand as people automatically expressed their delight on being acquainted with the news.

Dr. Vanderburgh wasn't chosen by the board of trade council because he has been particularly active in civic organizations. He blushed a bit because he had to admit that he hasn't time to do much in activities in which he is interested.

But it wasn't because of "club work" that Alf Vanderburgh was chosen. His choice came about because he has done so many humanitarian acts in his years as a medical practitioner in this district.

Alf is the kind of small town doctor who helps to raise the prestige of the entire profession. Money has never been his goal; it has been the alleviation of suffering among his fellow humans.

As was pointed out on the night of presentation, when the "hungry thirties" were upon us, Doc Vanderburgh worked tirelessly without thought of compensation in many, many cases. Regardless of his patients' monetary circumstances, he was always there ready to help.

Kind thoughts pass through people's minds when the name of Alf Vanderburgh is mentioned. That is why he got the Good Citizen cup, not because he has been particularly active in this or that community project. It just comes naturally for Doc Vanderburgh to be a Good Fellow and a Good Citizen, as well.

And Still the Wonder Grew

And still the wonder grew, that one small place could hold such a wealth of talent. . . . With apologies to Goldsmith.

And it is a wonderful thing that one small community can turn out such productions as the Summerland Singers' and Players' Club has presented to audiences in the South Okanagan this spring.

First came the annual spring play, which Mrs. Beatrice Macleod produced with painstaking effort. Colorful in the extreme, the pains taken with costuming, stage decoration and makeup showed an almost professional touch in the production.

Then, on Monday, came the mammoth production of The Mikado, one of the most popular of the Gilbert & Sullivan light operas. It was heartwarming, it left a pleasant glow and sent its audience home with a light-hearted feeling, a contentment, and with happy recollections.

That is the spirit of Gilbert & Sullivan productions—that they engender a light-hearted feeling inasmuch as the players are making light of rigid authority, although recognizing its usefulness to society all the while.

But above all that, the whole effect of the stage settings, the beautiful costumes manufactured by the good ladies of Summerland with an artistry befitting much larger cities, and the perfection of the makeup, combined with the beauty of the music and voices left one filled with wonderment.

Stan Gladwell, as producer, had a tremendous task to dovetail all parts of this tremendous production. Many lesser lights played their part but his was the organization which was responsible for the whole.

And in Bud Steuart as musical director, Summerland is indeed fortunate in having a man with such artistic talent, who not only understands his subject so well but can impart it and induce his subject to rise to the occasion.

Yes, and still the wonder grew!

The Machinery is Provided

Reports from officialdom here in the valley and in Ottawa indicate there is little likelihood that the export of apples to Great Britain from Canada will be possible this year.

The door has not been closed, but it would appear fairly certain that a good proportion of the apple crop which ordinarily would be channelled into export avenues will have to find a home on the domestic scene during the 1952-53 marketing season.

This is a gloomy, enough picture for most producers but it should not present quite the difficulties for B.C. growers that it will in other areas of Canada where there is practically no co-operation or control.

Here in the Okanagan the fruit growers have prepared in some measure for just such a contingency as will probably face their industry this season. Two years ago they started to organize for a "tailoring the crop" procedure in times of production which more than meets the ordinary consumer demand.

It would appear that the coming season will prove an ample testing ground for the elimination of sizes and grades, even varieties, which will not find a ready sale on the fresh fruit market.

Growers have set up their processing plants through which a portion of the undesirables can be funnelled.

Compare this situation with that of Ontario and Quebec. There, growers have no marketing scheme, they sell to any and all buyers, they have no proper refrigeration to keep their apples and leave them over a long marketing season.

In the fall, nearly the entire eastern Canadian crop has to be sold, and if there is an overabundance then it has to be sacrificed at low level prices or be dumped.

In fact, so unorganized are the producers of Ontario that many feel there is little use in trying to find a solution to present problems. It is understood that some Ontario growers are reconciled to a year of "dog eat dog" and that many growers will be "forced to the wall," in the panic glut of markets.

There would appear to be two major factors in the Okanagan's fight to maintain a reasonable standard of price level for its product. First of all, the principle of tailoring the crop all along the line and cutting out the "undesirables" must be adhered to and strictly enforced without any letup. A stringent policy must be enforced despite the "howls" from those who believe they are being hurt.

And secondly, the grower must grow and offer to the packinghouses only the best quality fruit. Less than the best quality in a year of over-supply is not worth piling up packing and transportation costs, as the return will not warrant the work and cost involved.

These are the two answers to a lack of markets and an over-supply of produce on the markets available. Here in the Okanagan we have the machinery setup to salvage the deal. In other parts of Canada chaos will probably ensue.

Better Feeling is Found in Old Country by the Walter Wrights

PENTICTON—Walter Wright, manager of the Bank of Montreal here, has recently concluded a three-months' visit to the Old Country.

With Mrs. Wright, he left here in the first week of December, and returned to the Okanagan at the week-end.

The Wrights took a very close look at England.

They hired a car and threaded through 1,200 miles in that way, spending the latter part of their visit in Yorkshire.

"Just to say that you were a Canadian ensured the most cordial greeting," Mr. Wright reports.

He attributes this to the fact that, during the war, Canada's bomber squadrons were based in the north, "and they certainly seem to have been wonderfully popular."

The King's death, he also emphasizes, was followed by a wave of spiritual feeling, "and revealed the heart of that country as nothing else could have."

There is also a purposeful spirit that speaks well for England's future, despite all the current difficulties, he found.

This was best exemplified in what he discovered when he re-visited his own former school, Wakefield Grammar School, founded in 1591.

Large fruit holdings in the North Okanagan for more than 40 years, contributed greatly to the life of that district, passed away, March 12 after an illness of several weeks.

"The pupils were going back to their classes on Saturday morning to make up as many hours as they had spent in physical training during the early part of the week."

This showed the determination to achieve scholastic excellence, Mr. Wright points out, "and is different to the schooling attitude in many another part of the world."

This sort of attitude, he feels, will sooner or later bring the old land through her many problems.

Those problems, however, are bitter enough in the meantime.

He was in England during the winter, and the cold presented a real hardship to almost everybody.

The quota is but three-quarters of a ton of coal to the average home during the months of November, December and January.

"So it means many a shiver."

Food, of course, is still severely rationed—"we have no idea what it means on this continent."

There is, however, a generally better tone to the feeling in the north of the country in particular.

Mr. Wright offered it as his opinion that the Labor government was criticized for a number of things for which it could not really be held responsible. Any administration will have to make enormous economies, and carry out the most stringent practices, while at the same time trying to preserve as much as possible of the standard of living, and to bring assistance to those in grave need.

Signifying Nothing By RUSTICUS

My furnace has spring fever.

All through the winter he stayed on the job and did his work nobly, but now that the fine weather is here he has taken to going out. Not at nights, like people, but during the days.

Each evening when I come home, tired after what I consider—as who does not about his own job?—a day's work, and looking forward to relaxing in an easy chair with a smoke and the day's newspaper, I am greeted with anxious faces and chilly looks: "Furnace is out."

Sighing, I clump downstairs and there he is, present in body, indeed, but entirely detached in spirit, cold, indifferent, not a spark of warmth or life in him, not a trace of expression on a face as steely as a Hollywood tough guy.

I talk to him in a variety of tones, from grieved disgust to wheedling persuasion, even to anger. Sometimes I lose my temper and kick him in the water-pail, which is a very sensitive spot on a furnace, and should never be done if one wishes to remain on good relations with one. But no matter what I try, he simply ignores me; I might as well be a stove.

So I sigh more deeply and get out the stomach pump. For part of furnace's trouble—like the cantankerousness of many humans—is digestive disorder. His alimentary canal was designed to use sawdust, and as long as the sawdust is reasonably dry, Furnace metabolizes it as efficiently as any ostrich can digest tenpenny nails.

But lately we got a fresh load of sawdust—green stuff, as soggy as undrained boiled cabbage or a poor suet pudding. It reminds me a bit, in fact, of English cooking. And Furnace, like most vigorous Canadians doesn't like it. He'll work on it during the night, though with much rumbling and grumbling. He'll even make do with it early in the morning. But these fine days there is no need for furnace heat after nine o'clock or so; the check draft goes on and stays on and there is nothing for Furnace to do.

He just sits there and broods and belches, and worries about his diet and his enforced idleness, and wishes he could draw unemployment insurance. After a while, I suppose, he looks out and sees the sun shining, opens his front draft for a sniff of the springy air, and—well, what would you expect a fine young furnace with an 18-inch fire box and muscles of steel to do? He yawns, stretches his cold air intakes, and calmly goes out.

Hence my little session with the stomach pump. His hopper has to be bailed out to the last speck, then an appetizer of paper—odd tastes, Furnace has—jammed well into his intestinal tract, and the attempt to get him going again has begun.

It isn't always easy. In fact, I sometimes think Furnace must have been reared in a strictly Temperance foundry, he shows such a cold aversion to getting lit. Of course, the wet sawdust would be anathema to a staunch dry. Sometimes it seems that most of my spare evening moments are spent trying to persuade Furnace to join the ranks of the employed again. No doubt idleness is as demoralizing to the heating world as it is in the human one.

Eventually he gives up and begins to roar again; but I know that as soon as the night's work is over and Furnace receives his morning ration of nice wet sawdust, he will wrinkle up his burner. In disgust, make a few half-hearted tries to keep going with no draft, then shrug into his galvanized jacket and go out.

I can't say I blame him. All that is needed to keep his digestion functioning well enough to handle damp sawdust in even warm weather is a wire paper clip under his draft door. And if it wasn't for getting material for this column, I would have put it there long ago.

Republic of India Aims for Equality of Status Says Ellis

Aim of the constitution of the Republic of India is to secure to all its citizens, justice, liberty, equality and fraternity, Rev. W. H. Ellis informed Kiwanis Club of Summerland members, when he talked to them on Monday, March 17, on this large continent which he visited for more than a year shortly after she obtained her independence.
 At the outset, India gave freedom to 90 million outcasts and took the first step in the elimination of the caste system to provide justice, social, economic and political, which is the first step in the charter of the republic.

The princes, maharajas and zamindars have been the principle landowners but attempts are being made to level out the ownership of land through a redistribution system.

Although 78 percent of India's huge 360 million population are farmers, only a very small percentage own their own land, he pointed out.

The unfortunate part of the situation is that millions of outcast who have now been liberated and have been granted their freedom do not realize the new situation as they can neither read nor write.

Only 13 percent of India's population can read or write, while he outcasts numbered 90 millions, he emphasized.

Under the republic's charter, India is endeavoring to give liberty of thought, expression, belief, faith and worship, Rev. Mr. Ellis continued, along with equality of status and of opportunity, in order to promote among all peoples fraternity assuring the dignity of the individual and the unity of the nation.

India he described as terribly overcrowded yet is the most beautiful country in the world. New Delhi he considered as having the most beautiful buildings.

Yet in contrast, there is such an over-population that 10,000 people out of one section of 4 1/2 million have never had a place to sleep, except the streets, gutters and door ways. In 3 1/2 blocks, he counted 100 persons lying on the sidewalks and in doorways for their night's sleep.

Here's a cherry pudding with a baked-on-top crust that's different. Made with ready-to-eat bran, the crust is light and rich, to offset the tartness of the cherries.

Cherry Surprise Pudding

Two cups canned sour cherries, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 3 tbsps. butter, 1/2 cup ready-to-eat bran, 1/4 cup sifted flour, 1 tsp. baking powder, 1/4 tsp. salt, 1/2 cup milk, 1 tbsps. cornstarch, 1/4 tsp. salt.

boiling point. Blend half the sugar to the butter, add bran. Sift baking powder and salt, add to shortening mixture alternately with milk. Mix well. Spread batter evenly over cherries. Mix remaining sugar with cornstarch and salt. Sprinkle over batter. Pour hot juice over pudding and bake in a greased baking pan. Add water to juice to make 1 cupful, heat to about 1 hour. Yields 6 servings.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET

Keep "Out" in Scouting Urges Scoutmaster McNaughton of Oliver

Keep the "Out" in Scouting ever foremost, urged Gordon McNaughton, of Oliver, District Scoutmaster of the Okanagan Boundary division, to a large group of Scouts, Cubs, their leaders, guests and fathers, at the annual Father and Son banquet in the Youth Centre Tuesday evening, sponsored by the 1st Summerland Troop.

Mr. McNaughton was chief speaker, but he did not give an address. Instead, he chatted informally with the Scouts and Cubs, and his advice was listened to with keen interest by parents, as well.

Canada has a great heritage in that it is an outdoor-country, Mr. McNaughton emphasized and he urged parents, even though they have little knowledge of Scouting, to take an interest and help the Scout leaders in preparing the boys in their many phases of work.

Mr. McNaughton will be awarded the Medal of Merit for his outstanding work in Scouting at an official function in Vancouver later this spring.

One of his main hobbies is hunting rattlesnakes and he has been responsible for the death of more than 1500 rattlers in the many years he has roamed the hills in the Oliver-Osoyoos area.

He showed one huge rattlesnake skin 4 feet 5 inch in length, which is much larger than the average which is only 2 feet 1 inch in length from some 2800 he has been able to measure.

"Make use of the things God made, not what is hammered out of a piece of metal," was Mr. McNaughton's advice to the boys and he showed them several tricks of improvising and providing themselves with useful gadgets which otherwise would be costly to purchase. Cannings is Chairman

S. R. Cannings, chairman of the local Scout group committee which has charge of the 1st Summerland Troop, sponsored by the Canadian Legion, was chairman of the evening's program.

Of all the Scouts present he pointed to Scouts Geoffrey Solly and Victor Smith who not only take their place in the troop but assist in instructing the Cub pack.

Proficiency badges were presented by District Commissioner Doug Southworth to a lengthy list of Scouts, including Richard Lewis, Richard Blewett, Laurie Moss, William Lewis, Glenn Manning, Garry Hackman, Neil Woollams, Ron and Barry Lawley, Richard Mc-

Rev. R. J. Love, Burnaby, IOOF grand master for B.C., along with other grand lodge officers, participated in the ceremonies.

Guides Shamrock Tea Raises Funds for Camp At Wilson's Landing

The Youth Centre was prettily decorated on Saturday afternoon, March 22, for the Guides' Shamrock Tea. Vases full of yellow forsythia blossom made a lovely centre for the tea table and brightened other spots in the hall.

A green and white motif was used as well to add a note of color to the table at which Mrs. D. L. Sanborn, president of the local association, and Mrs. F. V. Harrison, former commissioner for the South Okanagan division presided.

Capt. Gweneth Atkinson assisted Guides in serving and on hand to help were Guides Mrs. K. H. McIntosh, Mrs. Colin McKenzie, and Mrs. Miles, recently come to Summerland from England where she was a Ranger.

Members of the local association, Mrs. James Marshall, the secretary, and Mrs. W. Durick, badge secretary, were at the table where delicious home cooking was sold and were assisted by Guides.

In the kitchen Mrs. Ralph Gibbard, another association member, capably looked after tea preparations.

The Guides with their Guiders made delightful hostesses and the afternoon was very successful. Some of the money thus earned will be used for sending patrol leaders to camp at Wilson's Landing.

Telephone Workers Get Wage Rate Hike

A new working agreement between the plant and traffic divisions of the Federation of Telephone Workers of British Columbia and the Okanagan Telephone Company increased by 10 percent basic wage rates paid by the company to its employees covered by union agreement, effective from January 1.

Also included in the new agreement is a cost of living escalator clause based on the dominion bureau of statistics cost of living index of 1904 which will be paid each four months at the rate of one cent per hour for each 1.3 point change in the index.

The basic wage rates of all union employees will be increased by a further 2 percent on January 1, 1953, with the agreement to remain in effect until December 31st of the same year.

Dogs Roaming at Large May Come Under Bylaw

Dogs, roaming at large, in packs, on the school grounds, and generally making a nuisance of themselves, came under the fire of Councillor H. J. (Bill) Barkwill at a recent council meeting.

If a person doesn't value a dog enough to keep it under control then the canine should be destroyed, he thought.

Mr. Barkwill was adamant that a dog pound bylaw should be instituted here and despite some suggestions from Reeve Bentley and other councillors that it wouldn't be feasible, the newest councillor still stuck to his guns.

A bylaw could be made to work, he considered, and should be applicable. He instanced dogs making a nuisance of themselves and being a potential danger to children running loose on the school grounds.

Another instance mentioned by Mr. Barkwill was dogs running at large after deer and pheasants.

In the end, it was decided that a copy of the Penticton bylaw should be obtained for study before proceeding in any direction.

TO Prepare Bylaw
On Tuesday, council heard portions of the Penticton bylaw read and decided Mr. Barkwill should confer with Clerk Gordon Smith and bring in a tentative bylaw for council approval.

There was quite a bit of joshing in council meeting with Councillor Richards in mock dismay exclaiming at one juncture: "I'm not going to the dogs."

Without a municipal bylaw there is little control over dogs roaming at large in the municipality, it was conceded and council was at a loss to know what to do with a valuable dog which has been roaming in Garnet Valley for some time.

The owner has left the district for a time and had left the animal with some acquaintances who have since left, as well. The dog was found in a chicken run and turned over to John Heichert, who is now anxious to get rid of the animal.

It was left to Reeve Bentley to take some action in this case. Dog licences issued to date number 231, it was reported.

disadvantages because of distances from markets.

The policy of the CCF should be one of doing everything in its power to assist this industry to survive, he added, as "we are facing just that—survival".

Something must be done to curb the expensive and competitive practices in the distribution of products, Mr. Wilkinson continued, believing the producer should get a greater percentage of the consumers' dollar.

"We cannot afford the competitive practices that reduce the returns to the growers," Mr. Wilkinson stressed, pointing to the wholesale end and intimating that some changes will have to be made regarding high costs of getting agricultural products before the consumer.

"The distributive trades seem to be streamlined to attract imports rather than local products," Mr. Wilkinson thought. He advocated some type of co-operative endeavor in distribution at the wholesale level rather than the competitive practices in operation today.

"I am convinced we are missing the boat in our own markets," he concluded, again stressing the seriousness of the situation facing the apple producer today with loss of export markets.

SEEK TAX EXEMPTION

Under the provisions of the religious institutions act, the Jehovah's Witnesses will have their Kingdom Hall set aside as tax free property, provided it is used only as a place of worship and has no rental fee, council decided on Tuesday.

Easily outshining all the other passengers in their clothes adorned with thousands of mother of pearl buttons BERT and BEBECCA MATTHEWS go into a dance called "Knees Up Mother Brown" on arriving at New York's Idlewild Airport, recently from London. Senior king and queen of the Cockney Pearlies (charity collectors), the couple will take part in a British good-will bus tour of the United States. The 66-year-old Mrs. Matthews estimated there were about 30,000 pearl buttons on her costume and another 30,000 on her husband's outfit. She said she sewed them on over a period of years.

Status of Women Under B.C. Law Explained to Women's Institute

A speaker who elicited many questions following his address was Mr. Frank Christian, Penticton alderman and lawyer, who addressed Summerland Women's Institute on Friday, March 14, in the parish hall.

"Status of Women Under B.C. Law" was the subject chosen by Mr. Christian, who lightly traced the development of women's freedom from hundreds of years ago to the present.

"Christianity played a great part in bringing women from the state of being chattels", averred the speaker. The suffrage movement was another struggle which lifted women up.

Equal Status in 1919

He continued to say that it was not until 1919 that the sex disqualification removal act was passed in England, and after this time women could participate in public functions, civil service, and even the judiciary.

This law has been in effect for some time in B.C., Mr. Christian told the WI.

He named a number of laws, all of which were made to give women an equal place with men legally. Among these are the wives' protection act; married women's property act, and deserted wives' and children's maintenance act.

He enlarged upon these and regarding the last named said that desertion is defined by law as applying to a woman living separate and apart from her husband due to assault towards her or her children or other acts of cruelty which might cause injury to bodily health, or apprehension; habitual drunkenness; adultery which has not been condoned; or not supplying the necessities of life.

Speaking of a common law wife, Mr. Christian said that if the husband of such a wife dies without or with a will, she may claim only $500 or 10% of the man's estate, whichever is greater up to the fixed amount. In managing the legal relationship protects women.

He mentioned the libel and slander act in which a woman may sue for action if words have been said which impute slander or unchastity. The information about the married women's property act was interesting, and it was stated that property may be owned outright by women. A woman may take action herself regarding this and may enter into contracts concerning her property. Also, she is liable so far as the property is concerned, he added.

Need for Will Emphasized

If a husband dies without a will, half of his estate goes to his widow and half to his children. If the children are younger than 21, their half is held in trust for them until they reach this age. This sometimes makes for an awkward situation, and he stressed that it was a good thing to have a will, and to have it made properly, in order to prevent complications.

A will made before marriage is revoked by marriage, it was stated, and each will must have two witnesses.

In the case of joint ownership of property, on the death of one party, ownership immediately reverts to the other, with absolute exemption up to a certain amount.

Regarding divorce laws, Mr. Christian thought that progress had been made, but in his opinion there is much to be done yet. "Divorce should not be made too easy", he said.

Summarizing, Alderman Christian said that the law has tried to protect women. It has made it possible for women to serve on juries, to become members of parliament, to become senators. They may also be police matrons with the same powers as ordinary policemen, or they may be justices of the peace.

In some cases, he said, women have excelled men. The law recognizes their equality, politically, educationally and professionally.

Mrs. S. A. MacDonald, in thanking the speaker, said that the WI had long wanted to have a speaker from the legal profession, and was pleased to know that the laws are just so far as women are concerned.

Council has been informed that its demand load meter readings had been taken in kwh instead of kva as registered by the West Kootenay meter. This would explain the difference in the two meter readings for March, the West Kootenay company points out.

Although council discussed general policy on its proposed extension to outlying sections of the municipality, no decision was reached as more information on prospective users needs to be obtained.

There is also no word on the proposal of the department of transport to move the fan marker near the Granta Ranch across the lake. The department informed council in answer to a query that no suitable location had been decided upon.

Memorial Red Oak Tree for Rectory Garden

Summerland Horticultural Society will plant a red oak tree in the Memorial Garden in memory of His Majesty, the late King George VI. Plans for this were made at the regular meeting of the society on Friday evening, March 21, and a committee consisting of Canon F. V. Harrison, Mr. Nat May and Dr. R. C. Palmer was appointed to arrange for the church service which will take place on April 27 in connection with this memorial and also for suitable words for the plaque to be put by the tree.

Mr. T. P. Thornber showed beautiful pictures which he took on a trip to the Old Country last year. He explained that he could not always choose the light effects, he would have preferred as he was a tourist and only in some of the places for a short time.

Wonderful atmospheric pictures, often with little sunshine, and a low sky were seen. Bideford in the south of England with its delightful harbor was admired as projected and also scene of Clovelly. Others taken from the top of hills gave a patchwork quilt pattern in the photographs of fields.

Some of the Festival pictures were amusing including Happyland with odd lighting captured. Especially alluring were the pictures of Scotland. Even Loch Ness and its "monster", which rather resembled the Ogopogo, were among them.

Mr. Nat May in his Timely Topics spoke on planting shrubs, cautioning everyone to remove tags from the main stem of shrubs to prevent injury.

Mr. Alec Watt was in the chair in the absence of the president, Mr. Clive Atkinson, and announced that the Question Box would be reinstated at the next meeting so that members may ask for information which will be given during the meeting.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

April Bride-Elect Honored by Shower At T. Marsh Home

Anticipating an April wedding was the shower given on Friday afternoon, March 21, at her home by Mrs. T. Marsh, who was hostess for Miss Shirley Wilson, whose marriage takes place in St. Stephen's church on Easter Monday, to Mr. Melvin Wells, West Summerland, formerly of Edmonton.

Mrs. Marsh invited those who had packed with her and the bride-elect last summer at the Co-op packing-house.

Contests and games were part of the afternoon's fun, and the hostess served a delicious tea.

As well as the guest of honor and her mother, Mrs. Earle Wilson, those invited included Mrs. H. Lemke, Mrs. W. McCutcheon, Mrs. V. Singer, Mrs. John Dunn, Mrs. L. Wolfner, Mrs. Phillip Morin, Mrs. Norris Laidlaw, Mrs. Charles Leamy, Mrs. Balcorn, Pentiction, Miss Doreen Tait, and Miss Ione Embree.

Joy received word of the birth earlier that day, March 25, at the Prince George hospital of their first granddaughter, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hamilton of Prince George. Quadruplets Arrive For Nanny Down at Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Drake's quadruplets arrived. In the barn, that is! Their four year old Saanen goat, a white one, produced three little nannies and a billy.

United Church Seeks New Training School For Women in Toronto

Mrs. Edgar Gould and Mrs. F. Shepherd conducted the devotional theme at the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Federation on Thursday afternoon, March 20. The subject was The Christian Ministry of Healing.

Mrs. T. W. Boothe, the president, presided, and Rev. H. R. Whitmore attended to present to the ladies details of the campaign to raise in Canada $800,000 to build a new United Church training school for women.

The old building used for this purpose in Toronto is outmoded, and the new school is to be erected on the campus of the University of Toronto. All women who go out to the home and overseas fields of church work are trained there. The graduates fill big positions in the church, nurses, doctors, social workers, deaconesses—every branch of work except that of a minister of the church.

Miss Twiddy was guest speaker and gave a fine word picture of an outpost and mission hospital in B.C. operated by the United church. She concluded her talk with the inspiring history of pioneer days; the excellent record over many years; and the problems of today, urging the ladies to keep their church a missionary-minded one.

A social hour concluded the meeting, tea hostesses being Mrs. S. A. MacDonald, Mrs. E. MacClement and Mrs. Mowatt.

Legion LA Cribbage Parties Are Concluded

The last of the Legion LA cribbage parties for this season was held on Tuesday evening, March 18, and attended by thirty-five.

Citizenship Ideals Outlined to Service Club by Towgood

Mr. J. Y. Towgood, as guest speaker at the regular meeting of St. Andrew's Service Club on Monday evening, March 17, spoke on the ideals of citizenship, relating various types of good citizenship as interpreted in the Kiwanis Club, the Red Cross and its blood donor service, and other things, and was heard with a great deal of interest.

Mrs. Ewart Woolliams took the chair in the unavoidable absence of the president and vice-presidents. The devotional period, was led by Mrs. Leslie Rumball.

Report on the dishes purchased for the kitchen of St. Andrew's hall was given by Mrs. Colin Campbell. A sum of $10 was voted for the Red Cross, and following a report on the Women's World Day of Prayer, given by Mrs. T. J. McKenzie, a sum of $7 was voted for his fund. In her resume Mrs. McKenzie told of the rise in cost of the upkeep of this fund, and the worthwhileness of its continuance.

The April meeting will take the form of a shower, with ladies of the congregation invited, and asked to bring wool or material to be made up for the fall bazaar.

As Mrs. Underwood is unable to continue as president this year, Mrs. A. J. McKenzie kindly agreed to carry on in her place, and was unanimously elected to the position of president.

At the conclusion of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by a group consisting of Mrs. Myrtle Scott, Mrs. A. Scott, Mrs. Leslie Rumball, Mrs. H. Short and Miss Minnie Ritchie, convened by Mrs. J. Sheeley.

Eleven Little White Ribboners Added

Mrs. Wesley Davis and Mrs. J. J. Embree held their annual Little White Ribboners tea at the home of the latter in Trout Creek on Wednesday afternoon, March 19, with fifteen mothers and a number of pre-school children present.

Eleven new members were added in a dedication service during the afternoon and a little white ribbon pinned on each one. Those who became members were Linda, Lyle and Arvid Rabel, Myrna Johnson, Eric Hanson, Raymond Halverson, Raymond Davis and Sheryl, Sandra, Norman and Howard Stein.

There was a roll call of last year's members and Darlene Miller sang pleasingly "Jesus, Others, and You".

Mrs. L. W. Mino was the speaker who gave a helpful talk to the mothers.

Later in the afternoon a Life Line Union was formed. In this Union the Frances Willard Union takes a missionary as a prayer partner. Miss Mable Halverson has been chosen and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gordon Halverson, gave an interesting account of her work in Japan where she is in charge of an orphanage maintained under World Missions which now houses nine children. Mrs. Halverson read from recent letters from Miss Halverson, as well.

Washington and B.C. Meet on Civil Defence

Following a welcome by Premier Byron I. Johnson, a 2-day mutual aid conference of Washington and B.C. civil defence experts got underway on Friday, March 14, with 30 U.S. civil defence experts meeting with an equal number of B.C. experts to discuss parallel methods of protection in case of emergency.

The conference is the second phase in an over-all mutual assistance agreement which began last December when Canadians attended a similar conference in Olympia, Washington.

Chairman was Deputy Provincial Secretary R. A. Pennington, head of the provincial civil defence advisory council, with Brigadier G. A. McCarter, deputy civil defence coordinator assisting.

Heading the U.S. delegation was Vice-Admiral D. E. Barbey, director of Washington State civil defence and internationally-known authority on amphibious warfare. The conference broke up into sub-committees, with each reporting on various phases of civil defence operations, including police, fire, social welfare and first aid services.

Penticton Adopts New Irrigation Rates

Despite protests from one group of orchardists, Penticton council has passed a new scale of irrigation rates. They will mean $7,000 more for Penticton coffers, and call for $20 for the first acre with a gradually declining scale to $16 per acre for all lots with five acres or over.

Summerland's rate commences at $20.70 per acre for each parcel containing between one quarter and one acre and for the second portion of an acre the rate is reduced to $18.70 per acre.

The scale is graduated to $13.80 per acre for more than seven acres.

Full Discussion of Municipal Hall Proposal Provided at Public Meeting Called by Board

There was a full discussion of the proposed municipal hall at last week's meeting in the school auditorium attended by 150 persons. First of all, the council presented its statement, as published in last week's issue, then the need for a new municipal office was discussed, details of the school board's reasons for not considering the old high school as a possibility for renovation and use as a new municipal office were given, and finally the various ways in which the proposed structure could be financed were given an airing.

The meeting voted in favor of the council's chief proposal, to use surplus money in the sinking fund to finance the proposal. The Summerland Board of Trade called the meeting, in co-operation with the municipal council.

First question asked came from Eric Tait, who wanted to know what would happen to the present quarters.

Reeve Bentley replied that the RCMP are not satisfied with present quarters, and that a re-arrangement of the original plan for the new municipal office will be necessary to house the police in a basement suite.

This would mean that the present municipal office would have to be renovated in order to provide quarters for the fire brigade in the present police and magistrate's offices, while the library would be housed in the part now occupied by the municipal staff.

Contract Could be Broken
 "Aren't the present quarters good enough?" queried W. Atkinson and in reply His Worship declared in the negative. Under the present contract, RCMP have demanded more adequate facilities. If the municipality does not provide them, then the contract will be cancelled and Summerland will be without a police force, he said.

In answer to another query, it was stated no figures have been prepared on the cost of renovating the present quarters for fire brigade and library.

W. C. Baker queried council figures regarding irrigation surpluses. In reply, Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith stated that, over the last ten years, irrigation department losses and surpluses have been about equal.

Mr. Baker did not remember a deficit in the last six years but Mr. Smith offered to show him the figures if he would come to the municipal office.

Referring to the argument advanced by some ratepayers that the old high school should be renovated for municipal office purposes, the chairman called on School Board Chairman C. J. Bleasdale to provide the trustees' program.

Mr. Bleasdale explained that school students are now well housed but there are not adequate campus and athletic facilities. Half the playground area is of no use as the old school, gym and library cut up the available space to too great a degree.

Therefore, the school board has adopted an overall policy of doing away with the old building and providing separate playground areas for the pupils of each school.

Old Building "Deplorable"
 Regarding the old high school building, Mr. Bleasdale pointed out that it contains three furnaces and even then the school had to be closed on very cold days.

The roof is "gone" and the building is in deplorable condition, he pointed out.

"It would show lack of foresight to turn that old building into a municipal hall and later find that the space was badly needed for educational facilities," was Mr. Bleasdale's contention.

Councillor H. J. (Bill) Barkwill admitted that he had thought renovation of the old school would be feasible until he started to investigate its condition.

He found that about the only portion which could be utilized would be the outside walls and they would need stucco. There isn't sufficient basement space, the heating wiring and plumbing systems would have to be entirely replaced, taking out partitions would weaken the roof structure and the roof would have to be replaced, he found.

J. E. Jenkinson opined that it would be a waste of the ratepayers' money to try and use such an old building. Summerland should have a new hall of which it can be proud, he thought.

Turning to financing, Councillor H. R. J. Richards pointed out that it requires nearly 5 percent interest to get anything near par for municipal debentures. He instanced a recent offer by Fernie at 4 1/2 percent which sold for $2.25 and Williams Lake 4 1/2 percent debentures which brought $4.05.

At this juncture, Harvey Wilson, a former councillor, advocated the financing of the hall by borrowing "new money" and utilizing the present sinking fund surplus for extension of public utilities, especially irrigation.

He felt that the fruit growers who had helped pile up that surplus should get the benefit rather than the fruit growers of today and tomorrow getting the benefit of the surplus being applied in a municipal hall.

 By speeding up the capital expenditures in the irrigation system, providing new flume, etc., he felt that maintenance costs could be reduced considerably, thus providing fruit growers with lower rates.
 He felt that the fruit grower never had a darker future than at present with increased costs, lower returns and the possibility of the British export market being unavailable next season.

To this contention, Jack Morrow replied that he agreed right up to the point where he found he would have to pay interest of approximately 5 percent on a 20-year bond issue to finance the municipal hall on borrowed money.

"Would that mean about $80,000 in 20 years?" Mr. Morrow queried.
 "$90,000," replied the chair and Mr. Morrow added: "Stop, you're breaking my heart."

Councillor Francis Steuart reported on a recent meeting with Foreman E. Kercher on irrigation problems. He quoted Foreman Kercher as stating that present maintenance and replacement program is just keeping up the flumes which are beyond useage.

He re-iterated what had already been emphasized in the main council statement read by Councillor Atkinson, that it was sounder to proceed year by year with replacements using a small, efficient crew rather than borrow money and make large replacements and using crews of inexperienced men to get ahead with the work.

But Mr. Wilson came right back with another statement accredited to Mr. Kercher, that the latter agreed maintenance costs could be reduced by a speeding up of replacements in the irrigation department. Maintenance costs could be reduced more than the interest rate on $45,000, Mr. Wilson contended.

W. J. Beattie could not see any reason for borrowing "new money" when "old money" is already at hand.

Councillor F. E. Atkinson replied to Mr. Wilson that no particular group has a claim on the sinking fund surplus and both he and Reeve Bentley again explained how this surplus had been accumulated, with the manipulation of bonds over a considerable number of years.

Former Municipal Clerk F. J. Nixon, and past municipal councils, were given full credit for their careful manipulation which has resulted in this "nest egg".

Mr. Nixon husbanded this fund with the intention of building a municipal hall at the proper time," Mr. Atkinson concluded, being greeted with hearty applause for this statement.

W. C. Baker asked if $45,000 worth of municipal bonds could be sold locally at 4 1/2 percent, but Councillor Richards pointed out that the council could not gamble as the debentures must be submitted to tender and if they weren't sold at par then a further bylaw would have to be submitted to provide the full amount.

Reeve Bentley pointed out that no investment house would bother with half an issue, but would want to handle the entire offering or none at all.

Answering a query by J. C. Barkwill, the meeting was told that Mr. Nixon is entirely in favor of Plan No. 4, using surplus in the sinking fund entirely, for the financing of the municipal hall.

One interested spectator who asked numerous questions was Frank Healy.

Before the meeting concluded, Dr. C. G. Woodbridge moved that approval be given of Plan No. 4 Mr. Healy quickly seconded the motion and it was passed without a dissenting hand being raised.

Powerful New Diesel for Mountain Run—

Even Vancouver's Marine Building doesn't dwarf the "City of Kingston", giant Consolidation diesel-electric locomotive built at Kingston, Ontario, by the Canadian Locomotive Company. Here seen receiving a beauty treatment, the 3200-horsepower twin-unit power plant has been making test runs on the CPR main line between Calgary and Vancouver, as well as on the Kettle Valley-Kootenay line through Summerland. Tests are now so far advanced that the "City of Kingston"—first diesel to haul a scheduled passenger train right through to the coast—is considered almost sure to remain in mountain service. Employment of this powerful new locomotive in this area is the latest step in a CPR dieselization program for the Rockies which has already seen construction of a special diesel maintenance shop at Calgary.

Unprecedented Expansion Described To B.C. Division of Cancer Society

"A year of unprecedented expansion" was the description given 1951 activities of the B.C. division of the Canadian Cancer Society at the annual meeting in Vancouver last week by President R. B. Buckenfield.

Units had increased from 41 to 76 in the year, he added, declaring these "1200 enthusiasts and willing helpers are the life-blood of the society and it is the sum of their combined endeavors which has made this division what it is today."

Two Local Representatives
 Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony was regional delegate to the conferences while Howard Pruden represented the local branch.

In 1951 the British Columbia Division spent $35,500 on education, $77,500 on research and $25,000 on welfare assistance.

The 1952 Conquer Cancer Campaign will be a joint appeal for $250,000 and will be sponsored by the B.C. division of the society and the B.C. Cancer Foundation, Mr. Buckenfield said. The joint campaign has been necessitated by the fact that the success of the society's educational program has resulted in increased demands for treatment, and in consequence the present facilities provided at the British Columbia Cancer Institute are no longer adequate.

The foundation has had to undertake the construction of a new building, the cost of which is over $700,000 and for completion this year a further $100,000 is required. The new clinic will be one of the best in Canada and will house a Cobalt-60 beam therapy unit—the third in Canada.

The B.C. division needs $150,000 to maintain its program of education, research and welfare.

Guest speaker at the annual meeting was Dr. Michael B. Shimkin, chief of the laboratory of experimental oncology at Laguna Honda Home, San Francisco, who spoke about "Some of the Problems in Cancer Research."

Dr. Shimkin mentioned that he had visited the B.C. Cancer Institute, the B.C. division of the cancer society, the B.C. Medical Research Institute and the University of British Columbia, and he said that this province has a cancer control program of which it should be proud.

He was interested in the fact that the B.C. division had spent 51.5% of its quota on research—compared with 25% which had been spent in the United States.

"I have no question in my mind," said Dr. Shimkin, "that the cancer problem is solvable. We know enough now to indicate that this is no longer a pious hope, but something we can anticipate. But the necessary research must be maintained over long periods of time. Continuity is the aim."

Mr. R. B. Buckenfield was re-elected president of the B.C. division with F. B. Brown as 1st vice-president, Mrs. R. L. Johnstone of Kamloops 2nd vice-president and Dr. E. H. Cleveland 3rd vice-president. Honorary secretary is Elmore Philpott and A. C. Turner is honorary treasurer. Mr. Hubert A. Wallace of Victoria is provincial campaign chairman for the 1952 Conquer Cancer Campaign.

SPRINKLING BYLAW PLAN DELAYED IN PREPARATION

John Aikins, Summerland municipal solicitor, has been "snowed under" with legal work and has not been able to make as much headway with the municipal sprinkling bylaw in connection with the proposed Jones Flat sprinkling system: as council would like, it was stated at a recent council meeting.

Claims Gas-Ice is Possible from Mara Lake CO2 Deposits

KELOWNA — Charles F. Gorse, president of Gas-Ice Corporation, states development of deposits of carbon-dioxide in the Grindrod-Mara Lake district may revolutionize the packinghouse, refrigeration and shipping industries in the valley.

The company now has 4,000 acres under lease at Mara Lake. "Already a pilot plant has been set up at Kaslo, where similar CO2 deposits have been discovered. When a gas-ice plant is constructed at Kaslo, production will be about 24 tons daily," Mr. Gorse says.

Iceing costs would be cut drastically as a refrigeration car could travel from the west coast to the head of the Great Lakes without re-icing, he claims. Gas-ice has a temperature of 100 degrees below zero. It will be necessary to raise $100,000 to complete the Kaslo plant.

Christmas Seals Got $378 from District

From the Summerland district an amount of $378.25 was turned over to the British Columbia Tuberculosis Society by the Christmas Seal committee of the Diamond Jubilee Chapter, IODE, Penitton, Edith Chalmers, convener of the committee announces this week.

This amount was raised through the annual sale of Christmas seals.

"Contributors to this fund should feel a great satisfaction in the advancement made in the prevention, detection and cure of tuberculosis made possible through extensive research work for, as you know, this work is largely financed by Christmas Seal sales," the report states.

The Christmas Seal committee expressed its appreciation of the generous response of Summerland citizens to its campaign.

"Handicapped kiddies from all over the province, rich or poor, with or without parents, may obtain treatment in these organizations."

The campaign is sponsored by 26 Lions Clubs throughout British Columbia.

Try to Keep Track of Electric Light Poles

For the last few years, each annual report of the municipal auditors has contained the entry that the electric pole inventory has not been kept in a satisfactory state.

After this year's auditor's report was tabled before municipal council, F. E. Atkinson, chairman of the electric light committee, reported that a new type of inventory form had been worked out, in co-operation with Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith.

Members of the electric light department will be informed they must keep this new form up to date and fill in the details regularly.

Municipal Electrician T. P. Thornber was reported to have stated that previously he had been unable to gain the necessary co-operation of his workmen in keeping an accurate inventory of light poles. It was intimated the new bookkeeping form would provide the means whereby the necessary co-operation would be forthcoming.

Entomologist Tells Of Battling Locusts In African Valley

Rotarians were taken on a jaunt to Northern Rhodesia, to a valley where the red-winged locusts originate, when their guest speaker at last Friday's dinner meeting in the Nu-Way Annex was Dr. Pat Pielou, a senior entomologist with the Canadian Department of Agriculture, who has come to Summerland to make his home for a time.

This Valley of Locusts was determined as the place of origin of these insects who become a plague in Africa every twenty years. They gradually disappear in about five years time, only to re-appear in their millions to sweep the country.

The entomological party which was sent from England to wage war in the Rift Valley of Rhodesia, was located at Abercorn near the Equator but at an altitude of 5,000 feet.

This valley is 200 miles long, 30 miles wide and has nearly perpendicular cliffs. The bottom of the valley is tropical with grasses 20 to 30 feet high.

Herd of game abound in the valley, especially buffalo, along with zebra, elephants, twenty species of antelope, lions, leopards and hyenas.

The natives in the valley live a life essentially that of the stone age, he described, not even having a plow to till the soil. But they can load a pack of fifty pounds on their head and travel all day.

Mother Charged with Baby's Death After Family Suicide Pact

PENTICTON—Mrs. Engrid Seeborg, 22, has been charged with the death by poisoning of her infant daughter. Preliminary hearings opened in Penticton last week and the accused was committed for trial.

The 11-month-old Seeborg daughter and her father, Manfred A. Seeborg, of Vancouver, were found dead from what is believed to be cyanide poisoning in a tourist cabin in Penticton early Sunday morning, March 2.

Grief over the condition of their child, said to be suffering from an incurable condition, is believed to have been the motive for a suicide pact between the parents. The family arrived from Vancouver in a U-Drive car.

They came to Canada from Latvia and were married in 1950. The young mother is believed to have vomited, after taking the poison, thus saving her life. It is stated the Seeborgs carried the cyanide capsules behind the Iron Curtain and had been prepared to use them if captured by the Russians.

secticide mostly used by the entomologists in their battle against the locusts. A yearly campaign has been waged and has been successful to the extent that there has been no major outbreak of locusts since the battle commenced.

Dr. Pielou described eating and living habits in that part of the jungle and the precautions necessary for everyday life.

O.L. Jones Urges Ottawa to Try and Obtain Outlet in Britain for OK Apples

A gloomy picture of the Okanagan fruit industry was painted in Ottawa before the House of Commons on March 14 by O.L. Jones, MP for Yale, in making his address in the debate in reply to the speech from the throne.

In particular, Mr. Jones urged the federal government to do everything in its power to assist the Okanagan fruit industry to obtain an outlet for its apples in the United Kingdom.

He also pointed out the unfair rail charges forced upon B.C., called upon the minister of national defence to consider apple juice on the menu of the armed services, and sought inclusion of farm workers in unemployment insurance benefits.

Growers are Worried
"The fruit growers of the (Okanagan) area are greatly worried today as a result of the condition existing in their industry," Mr. Jones said, declaring the industry to be the result of encouragement by the provincial and federal governments all through the years.

"Originally, fruit and vegetables were planted in the interior of B.C. as a source of food for the settlers in Western Canada. Later on, as the industry progressed, at the request and with the encouragement of the government, the producers geared their industry to supply the United Kingdom demand which called for a different size of apple, a different type of apple and an apple of a different color.

"The industry, therefore, for many years had been geared to meet that demand in what today is a lost market; and that is part of our problem."

Mr. Jones declared the industry was not grateful for government assistance but it has suffered more during the war and postwar years than possibly any other industry, he contended.

"Part of it (the suffering) resulted from currency control, part of it through the economic ills of the importing countries, partly through the difficulties existing in the sterling areas and partly through United States subsidies paid on apples to what were formerly markets for B.C. tree fruit."

"Today, the United States subsidizes apples going to those areas that formerly were our markets to the extent of $1.25 a box or bushel.

"It is true that in times of stress and difficulty some industries can switch quickly from a non-profitable line to a profitable one. But in the fruit industry the fruit producers cannot do that," he continued, pointing out the length of time to bring an orchard into production and the amount of money invested in cold storage plants, irrigation projects, packinghouses, etc.

"The federal government has assisted the industry quite substantially since the outbreak of the war; that is, from 1939 until today. That assistance amounts to approximately $5 million. But during this period we have produced 90 million boxes of apples.

"Thus it is seen that the assistance given to the apple producers comes to less than 6 cents a bushel or box during that time. Opposed to this, however, is the fact that trade agreements consummated between Canada and other countries since 1947 allow oranges, lemons, grapefruit and most imported grapes to be imported into this country duty free.

Tariff Protection Cut
"Tariff protection formerly given to our industry has been severely cut. Approximately 60 percent of our total imports of fresh fruits and vegetables are today admitted duty free. These imports seriously affect the stability of our fruit and vegetable industry."

Switching then to transportation costs, Mr. Jones said that for 50 years British Columbians have been told that they had to pay for a toll part of the railway through the mountain differential.

"The pretext has been that some bridge existed through the mountains and someone had to bear the cost and pay that loss. Actually, there is less than thirty miles of mountain grade on the Canadian Pacific railway in B.C.—that is on the main line—and there is no mountain grade on the Canadian National railway in British Columbia.

"The claim has been made of higher construction costs and maintenance. That claim was exploded many years ago.

"There is no higher construction cost whatever because the materials are better for construction and they are more easily available than in crossing the prairies.

"We now find that the bridge was not actually in British Columbia at all, but rather in northern Ontario. It took only a matter of weeks for this house to pass a bill to give relief when this bridge was found. Ours had been hidden for fifty years and is yet to be found.

"In the case of Ontario, they got $7 million a year to take care of that part of the railway that is considered unprofitable and I claim that British Columbia should be treated in the same way.

"As it is, for the last few years, we have been penalized in excess rate charges to the amount of between $2 million and $3 million annually. While British Columbia paid this penalty for fifty years, special consideration was given to many other areas of Canada; I will mention a few: The Maritimes Freight Rates Act, the Crownwest grain rates for the prairies, the feed grain assistance, all of which British Columbia helped directly or indirectly to pay.

"The royal commission acknowledged these facts and made certain recommendations which I hope will be acted upon.

Would Kill Industry
"I believe the railway companies realize that some relief must be given in transportation costs. Otherwise, they will kill the apple industry in B.C. and in the end lose a valuable industry that pays high rates.

"We do feel the suggestion that has gone forward now that freight rates be equalized as a national policy may help to solve our transportation problem, and we urge the board of transport commissioners to give sympathetic consideration to the case of the B.C. fruit producers during the hearing on this subject in the very near future.

Mr. Jones then discussed the need for secondary industries which, some towns in the Okanagan have gone out of their way to induce.

He referred to the address given by Hon. Mr. Mayhew, minister of fisheries, at the BCFGA banquet last January.

"Lo and behold he strongly advised the growers there represented not to bother with outside industries at all; that the valley was not entirely suitable, but to concentrate on their own fruit and fruit byproducts, to develop their own industry based on fruit and vegetables.

"We have tried that, and we are still trying it. Some years ago we tried to establish a winery in the hope that farmers who grow grapes could find a ready market for them. We have found a fair market for those grapes," he added, and quoted a letter from the Calona Wines Limited.

This letter pointed out the investment made by growers and others in the grape and wine industry and asked the B.C. government to provide protection against U.S. imports similar to that of the grape growers in Ontario.

Apple Juice Kept Out
Mr. Jones turned to apple juice, and instanced that "with a view to extending the market I wrote the minister of national defence, (Mr. Claxton) asking that apple juice be placed on the menu for the army, navy and airforce, and I had a very encouraging reply for the minister.

"But today I received this invitation to tender. It is an invitation to tender for fruit juices and jams. I was rather anxious to find out what success we had in trying to get the navy to purchase apple juice.

"I find that they are ordering 7,200 tins of fruit cocktail, 7,200 tins of grapefruit juice, 12,800 tins of orange juice, 4,800 tins of blended juice and 1,200 bottles of lime juice, but not an ounce of apple juice.

"I should like to draw that to the attention of the minister. Possibly he has the best of intentions to see that B.C. or Ontario apple juice is placed on the menu in the different camps and messes. I hope that by drawing his attention to it, he will have the matter checked, because I think it is unfair to call for these huge quantities of juice that have to be brought into this country from other countries when we have a better product manufactured in our own country."

Mr. Jones then suggested that the minister of trade and commerce consider trying to persuade Great Britain to allow some of the money now being spent in Canada to be diverted to apples.

"I mention that because we are definitely stuck with apples, grown especially for the United Kingdom market. I do feel that if through the good offices of the cabinet and the ministers concerned, we can induce the British government to sidetrack some of that money they are spending in larger quantities each year towards purchasing our fruit we shall be moving a step forward because I think that would be a good policy.

"If it were possible for negotiations to be carried out to take payment in sterling or, as I have suggested before, barter for other goods, it would be to our advantage.

"Foreign markets are a little more difficult. We have sold in practically every country in the world from Egypt to South America and in Japan and China. Through an excellent product we were gaining command of the foreign market until the United States suddenly decided that they were going to try to get into that lucrative market. They have done it not through producing a superior product but through subsidizing the apple industry to the tune of $1.25 a box or bushel.

"I feel that the whole question of our foreign trade should be referred to the committee on agriculture and colonization, or a special committee should be set up, composed of agricultural members and financial members, to discuss how best we can solve the problems of an industry such as ours in the valley that is geared to a condition that no longer exists.

"It is a long-time plan that we have to deal with, and I feel that in order to give us help over the present difficulties we should have the government apply a floor price. I am not going to take up the time to deal with that but I make the suggestion to the government that floor prices for apples and vegetables be considered.

Farm Loans Hard to Get
"Again, I am suggesting to the cabinet that they instruct the farm loan board to be more generous than they were with the victims of the last severe frost we had in the valley. The conditions under which these farmers can get loans today are more difficult than they were five or even ten years ago, because presumably upon instructions given to farm loan officials on the ground it appears to be impossible to get recent loans on good risks.

"I have pointed out before that risks have been turned down by the farm loan board, although they have been acceptable to orthodox loan companies and in one case, an orthodox bank, for loans of similar amounts.

"So that I feel the intent of the farm loan board should be to be more free with loans than are the banking institutions and the other loan companies. Yet such is not the case. Therefore, I would ask the minister to talk this matter over and see if something cannot be done to help these people bridge over this very difficult period in their development."

Problems of the workers in the fruit industry then occupied Mr. Jones' attention.

He stated that the packinghouse season is very short and the season for field work is also short and has also been reduced to a high degree because of difficulties arising from the loss of trees.

"The claim period for unemployment insurance has been reduced, as well. This, on top of the seasonal nature of the industry, merits special consideration. I would ask the minister of labor (Mr. Gregg) to survey the conditions now existing in the tree fruit areas where some thousands of men and women are at the moment unemployed. Such a survey should take into consideration unemployment insurance for farm workers. I do believe that if it were extended to farm workers they would be assisted materially in the present crisis."

Mr. Jones also thought the supplementary claim period should be extended to the end of May, as many seasonal workers cannot qualify because of the shorter periods during which they are employed.

Advocates Premium Return
"I feel that in those cases, where men and women have been contributing toward protection they cannot get and do not hope to get because of the shortness of the season, they should be returned in full any premium they may have paid during the previous year. I believe this would give justice to those people."

A Kelowna city-endorsed resolution which emanated from the Ontario city of London, was quoted by Mr. Jones. It urged the federal government to survey the unemployment problem and the need for increased unemployment insurance benefits and / or relief assistance, and reduction of the waiting period for collection of benefits to the minimum interval possible; also the establishment of offices for the handling of unemployment relief assistance applications so "that the intolerable burden will not again be shouldered by the municipal governments . . . acknowledged as a dominion responsibility in its entirety."

Mr. Jones commended this resolution, hoped the government would study it and take steps "to deal with a condition that I know some time ago was becoming worse, and I now know is acute in the tree fruit area, particularly the Okanagan Valley.

"I would urge the government to take steps immediately to get the facts and information and, if possible, give immediate relief to that hard-pressed industry," he concluded.

POLICE GET SUPPLIES
A filing cabinet, desk and typewriter, at an approximate cost of $400, have been ordered by the municipality for use of the RCMP detachment here.

Early sow Early mow

"Now I've caught up with Grandma!"

Grandma was one of those unforgettable characters you read about. And every time I think of her, I remember one of her favourite sayings: "Early sow — Early mow."

Many years have passed since Grandma died. But just the other day something happened to remind me of that old motto of hers.

I was working over my budget, trying not to admit what the figures told me: My savings had slipped. At this rate, it was a cinch that some of the things I'd started to save for would have to wait. Suddenly I remembered "Early sow . . ."

"Old-fashioned stuff!" I told myself. Then I got to thinking. "Maybe it is tough to save today. But it's still important . . . still my only hope of getting some of the things I want most."

"Well, at least I'm keeping up my life insurance payments," I thought. "That's a way of saving which combines protection for my family as well. And maybe if I make an extra effort to put more money aside I'll reach my goals sooner."

"So here goes! I'll try again. I'll find some new ways to economize. Somehow I'm sure I can manage to be more thrifty."

And you know — it's a funny thing! The moment I made that decision, I realized that Grandma's idea was not old-fashioned. I've just caught up with her now!

Recommend Two Bucks for Interior Deer Hunters This Season as Range is Scarce

KELOWNA—Based on the advice that there are too many deer for the amount of feed available on the winter ranges, the B.C. Interior Fish, Game and Protective Assn. endorsed the shooting of two bucks this fall season instead of a limit of one.

The two-day convention held in Kelowna Sunday and Monday, March 16 and 17 heard J. E. Fry, secretary of the B.C. Beef Cattle Growers declare that "if the hoof and mouth disease gets into the Rockies we'll never see the end of it."

On the other hand, Game Commissioner J. G. Cunningham expressed the hope that the U.S. embargo on livestock will be lifted before the fall hunting season.

Allot $5,000 Grant
B.C. game council will receive a $5,000 grant from the game commission to carry out its work which includes publication of the sportsmen's magazine, "Game and Fish."

Honorary life memberships in the interior sportsmen's organization were conferred on Rex Lingford, Salmon Arm; Ernie Smith, Oliver; and Archie Black, Kelowna.

Among those who addressed the two-day conference were Willard Ireland, provincial librarian; Game Commissioners Cunningham and F. Butler, Biologists J. Hatter, Dr. P. Larkin and Pat Martin.

These men told delegates there were 200,131 licences issued for hunting and fishing in 1951, and that deer and moose population are being under-harvested.

Biologist Hatter thought wild life should be treated as a crop and regulated on a crop basis. Winter game counts are an absolute necessity, he said, while equally important is the appraising of winter food supply.

Retiring President Avery King of Penticton suggested that interested clubs could donate a few dollars to a pool which would be spent on experimental food and cover work in regard to pheasants.

W. Kreller of Oliver succeeded

Mr. King as president with Aubrey Blanchard of Vernon vice-president.

Recommendations on Seasons.
Following are the convention recommendations:

Migratory Birds—Ducks, geese and coots.

Resolved that the North Okanagan, South Okanagan and that part of the Similkameen electoral district lying within the Okanagan watershed have the same season as the Lower Mainland, with the season commencing October 18 and continuing for 65 days or longer. Bag limits and hours of shooting same as last year.

Upland Game Birds—Pheasants. Request game department to make a survey of the pheasant situation in the North Okanagan and Kamloops districts and the decision on the season be made at a meeting of the Interior Zone in August.

Decision on open season in South Okanagan delayed to later date. Grouse—Three varieties.

Open season to be from September 15 to October 31. Bag limits to be six per day of one species, eight in the aggregate of all species and a season bag limit of 30.

Prairie Chicken—That the season be closed in the Yale-Similkameen, North Okanagan, Revelstoke, and Kamloops districts.

Upland Game—Sundry. That chukker partridge be released in the Vernon district. That game biologists investigate the possibility of releasing sage hens in the Okanagan district.

Four Shuttle Titles Brought From Penticton

Summerland shuttle stars made an almost clean sweep of the South Okanagan badminton tournament played in Penticton on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, March 20, 22 and 23.

Dorothy MacLeod and Dave Waddell captured the two open singles crowns, Dorothy MacLeod and Ann Carney the ladies' doubles while Dave Waddell and Anne Carney teamed together to take the mixed doubles.

Only in the men's doubles did Summerland fail to get a team into the finals.

In the ladies' singles, Dorothy MacLeod took the measure of Pat Gray of Penticton in the finals. Dave Waddell eliminated fellow clubber George Fudge in the men's singles finals.

It was the Oliver pair of E. Glead and P. Bowring that bowed to Dorothy MacLeod and Anne Carney in the ladies' doubles.

Bob Karren and D. Fritz of Kaledon proved superior to the Westbank pair of J. & H. Paynter in the men's doubles final.

Again in the mixed event, it was an all-Summerland final, Fudge and Dorothy MacLeod bowing to Waddell and Miss Carney.

Northern Juniors Dominate Play In Okanagan Shuttle Tourney

North Okanagan junior badminton dominated play in the second annual Okanagan junior championships held at the Kelowna hall on March 15 and 16 with over 130 entries from Osoyoos, Oliver, Kaledon, Keremeos, Penticton, Summerland, Kelowna, Okanagan Centre, Rutland, Falkland, Vernon Preparatory School, Winfield and Armstrong.

None of the Summerland juniors was successful in cup events. Dave Waddell of Summerland organized this successful tourney with the assistance of Anne Carney and Dorothy MacLeod.

Calibre of play was much improved over the initial tourney with keen competition for the fifteen challenge trophies at stake. Best of the Okanagan champs will represent the valley at the B.C. junior championships to be held at Kelowna during Easter week.

UNDER 14

Boys' singles, Bill Schwarz, Vernon Preparatory School; runner-up, John Sutherland, Vernon Prep.

Girls' singles, H. Morgan trophy: Joellanne Locheed, Vernon; runner-up, Linda Campbell Brown, Vernon.

Summerland Nearly Cinch To Win Puck Playoff Crown

Summerland's high flying hockey club chalked up its sixth straight win in the Penticton commercial hockey loop last Sunday by defeating Penticton Garagemen 5-3 in a rough and ready contest.

Taking an early 3-0 lead, Summerland was able to coast from then on as the southerners could do little else but hold them even for the last two stanzas.

This victory practically cinches the playoffs for Summerland as there are but two games to go. Summerland needs to take but one of the last two to make it mathematically impossible for any other team to even tie them.

Thus, the Penticton Herald trophy is practically in the grasp of the local pucksters, to hold for the first time as this is the first season such a loop has been in operation.

Penticton Merchants, with 4 wins and two losses are in second spot and have a slim chance to crawl even with Summerland, unless the local lads should suddenly slump and drop the next two encounters.

Last night, Summerland was idle while Merchants and Garagemen fought it out for second spot and Co-op Packers met the Contractors.

Results of last Sunday's contest follow:

1st Period: 1, Summerland, Carston (Steininger, Kato) 5:50; 2, Summerland, Kato (Steininger) 6:58; 3, Summerland, Hooker (Taylor) 7:40; 4, Penticton, Johnston (Bella, Weitz) 11:03.

Penalties: Lawson, Frisby. 2nd Period: 5, Summerland, Roberge (Kato, Carston) 13:00; 6, Penticton, Johnston (Mallach) 14:20.

Penalties: Newton, Roberge. 3rd Period: 7, Summerland, Carston (Kato), 6:53; 8, Penticton, Bird 10:00.

Penalties: Bella, Taylor.

FOUR BONSPIELS IN OKANAGAN

Four big bonspiels are to be operated in the Okanagan this spring. First is at Vernon, and is being operated from Monday to Friday this week.

Second is the money bonspiel being held at Peachland this weekend, March 29 and 30.

Next is the Ogoopogo 'spiel at Kelowna April 1 to 4 and a number of local curlers are expected to enter.

Final one will be at Penticton's new arena on April 5 and 6.

Badminton Team Defeats Westbank

In an interclub match played at Summerland on Wednesday, March 19, local badminton players defeated Westbank visitors 10 to 6. Playing on the home team were Cecil Morgan, George Fudge, Jim Miltimore, Harry Beeman, Dorothy MacLeod, Tish Spencer, Evelyn Bernhardt and Marg Kish.

Only One Title Comes to Valley

Vernon juveniles scored a 3-1 victory over Trail at the weekend to capture the B.C. juvenile hockey championship.

At the same time, Kelowna Packers were knocked out of the Savage trophy chase in the senior class by Trail Smoke Eaters 7-3.

This was the fifth and final contest, each team having won one previous contest while two other games were declared draws after overtime play.

A huge crowd of some 2000 was at the ferry wharf at Kelowna Sunday evening to welcome home the Packers who had taken the name of Kelowna into the B.C. finals in search of the famed Allan Cup, dumping Vernon, Kamloops and Nanaimo before being toppled by Trail, who is now meeting Edmonton in the inter-provincial play-downs.

In basketball, Penticton UCT Intermediate A squad dropped a two-game series to Victoria on Friday and Saturday to lose the chance of copping the provincial intermediate hoop championship.

On Friday Penticton won 65-53 but Victoria came back strong on Saturday to win 49-37 and take the two games 107-102.

The previous weekend, Prince Rupert Challengers took the odd game in three from Penticton Cranna Omegas in the provincial Senior A semi-finals, the first time in Penticton's history that a local team had ever played in that class of basketball.

Prince Rupert met Vancouver Eilers in the provincial finals and took a sound drubbing.

was Delmar Dunham as Pook-Bah, the Lord High Everything Else, whose characterization of the comic part was masterful.

Although not as prominent in their parts, Jack Stocks as a Noble Lord and Harry Howis as the Mikado, were excellent.

Three little maids were portrayed by Joan Carey, Alma Fudge and Laura Boothe, Mrs. Fudge having quite a prominent part in the final act, and all three acquitting themselves nobly.

And not in the least in the background was the chorus of school girls, nobles and coolies.

Probably even as much as their singing and acting, the costumes of the main characters and the chorus were an outstanding feature of the production. And they brought even more praise when it was learned that these were almost entirely manufactured in Summerland.

The costumes for the girls' chorus were created mainly by Mrs. Olive Wilson and Mrs. Ruth Sayers, while Miwa Tada and her mother were responsible for the splendid costumes of the male actors.

Makeup Had Professional Touch

Another factor which bordered on perfection was the makeup of all those who took part in this cast. It was a "professional" job and brought gasps of admiration from the audience.

To Stan Gladwell, president of the club, went full honors for producing the show, while to W. A. (Bud) Stewart went the honor of bringing out the difficult musical parts.

These two leaders are known for their efforts to obtain "perfection" and are quoted as being more nearly satisfied with Monday's production than ever before, which is considered high praise, indeed.

Stage management and set designing was the task of Mr. Gladwell, Don Blacklock had charge of the lighting arrangements while makeup was chiefly under the direction of Beatrice Macleod and Molly Russel.

Properties came under the guidance of Joan and Colin McKenzie, while business management was undertaken by Blair Underwood.

It was pleasing to note that many singers who took prominent parts in past performances were brought into the chorus to assist in the general blending of a first-rate performance.

The chorus was composed of the following: Mona Laidlaw, Nancy Fleming, Audrey Clark, Ethel McNeill, Leone Witherspoon, Nan Watt, Isabel Chapman, Peg Sherwood, Chris Mair, Doreen Tait, Mina Milley, Joan McKenzie, Margaret Millward, Mae Hughes, Margaret Gardiner, Maebelle Wilkin, Marjorie Barrard, Dorothy Sheeley, Muriel Holman, Audrey Milne, Jean Armour, Viola Turnbull, Dorothy Bates, Jackie Van Driel, Pat Hanlon, Charles Rennie, Tom Moore, H. Corns, Eric Brinton, Lew Wright, Bert Hughes, Ben Newton, Roy Angus, David Millward, Don Sanford, Jack Barkwill, Jack McDougald, Colin McKenzie, Harry Hanson, Clarke Wilkin, Pat Agur, Brian Daniels, Verne Higgs, Tom Paul, Jim Peter and Lori Klix.

The orchestra, under such an able leadership as provided by Bud Stewart, was pleasing as is always the case and was comprised of the following: Violins, Faye Sawchuk, Edna Ireland, W. J. Harris, J. S. Dickin, Jack Rorke; cellos, Mrs. E. M. Hookham, Mrs. G. Ireland; string bass, Ian Sutherland; clarinet, Ken Stewart; flute, N. F. R. Wheatley; bassoon, J. W. Wright; trumpets, J. Betuzzi, K. Balla; piano, Mrs. D. Dunham, Miss M. Barrard.

Don Blacklock, Gerry Washington, Earl Bryden, Richard Lewis, Herb Arndt and Terry Coggan comprised the stage crew and prompter was Bette Green.

First performance of The Mikado ever staged in Summerland was in 1911, according to Harry Howis.

Harold Winch Scorns Premier's "No Mandate" Policy on Reports of Inquiry Boards

"We have to have a government that will give the people a real partnership, will protect the God-given resources of the people; and it can be done without detriment to the province and its economy," declared Harold Winch, leader of the CCF party in the provincial legislature when he addressed more than a hundred persons at an enthusiastic public meeting in the IOOF hall in Summerland following the South Okanagan nominating convention on Saturday.

The fiery CCF leader combined ready wit and pathos with a keen knowledge of provincial policies to keep the interest of his audience throughout the session.

Mr. Winch was particularly scathing in his remarks on Premier Johnson's policy of "no mandate" and refusal to carry out recommendation of inquiry boards into the hospital insurance service and industrial conciliation act.

"Never in the history of the province have we had to face such problems as we are today," Mr. Winch was convinced, declaring that the future of the natural resources of B.C. is dependent upon the thinking of the people in the next three months.

Although he could not state when an election would be held, Mr. Winch considered it would be in June.

He declared the CCF has its greatest opportunity to become the government and pointed out that even against the combined forces of coalition the CCF party polled 35.1 percent of the total vote in the last election.

On that basis, the CCF should have 18 seats at Victoria instead of eight. Of the Social Credit movement, he termed it the new conservative party in B.C., just as it is in Alberta.

"The policy statement of the premier was one of the most remarkable I've ever heard," Mr. Winch declared, in expounding on Premier Johnson's declaration that he held "no mandate" from the people to proceed with important recommended legislation, "when he sits there with a majority of elected members."

"We all knew the breakup in Coalition was inevitable," Mr. Winch proceeded, "as they kept on the Coalition because they feared the CCF. He quoted an Alberni Progressive Conservative executive as stating just before the breakup: 'We sleep together in the same bed, but we're not married.'"

Criticizes No Action Policy

Mr. Winch was extremely critical of the lack of action on the BCHIS inquiry board report. As he was an active member of the inquiry board, Mr. Winch spent sometime in making a digest of the most important resolutions brought in by the board and expressed extreme disappointment that no action is to be taken on them this session.

He claimed that continuation of co-insurance, which would be abolished by the inquiry board, would mean hospital patients in B.C. will be required to pay $2 million this year.

"Premier Johnson says he hasn't got a mandate, yet he brings in a budget of $141 million for the next twelve months, plus capital borrowing powers for the same period which would bring the total to $186 million," Mr. Winch emphasized.

In 1933, the total budget was only $19 million.

Mr. Winch said the CCF disagrees with the Liberals and Conservatives' policies in that not enough is being provided for revenue from the sources of production of wealth in B.C.

Too great a percentage of the revenue to meet expenditures is being paid by the taxpayers of the province and in a period of recession this will hit the pockets of the people doubly hard, he warned.

In substantiation of this statement, he pointed out that $114 million out of the $141 million budget will be raised from taxes, as follows: Profits from liquor, $18,800,000; car licenses, $7,500,000; amusement tax, $2,000,000; gasoline and fuel oil taxes, $15,500,000; sales tax $81,500,000; dominion-provincial agreement on rebate of income and other taxes, $40,000,000; total, $114,000,000.

"In the main, the common people of B.C. are providing the revenue," he charged.

On the other hand, he claimed that mining is only contributing to revenue $1,400,000 and forestry $11,075,000, while the government will spend $10,085,000 on forestry.

These figures do not take into account income taxes, which are paid out of profits, he added, also stating that the CM & S company had a $40 million profit this year.

"We say that's wrong," Mr. Winch continued, declaring that there must be a government which will see that the resources of the country, as they are utilized, pay a bigger proportion of the expenses of the country.

Take Over Education Costs

Turning to the cost of education, Mr. Winch advocated that the time is long past due for the government to take determined action and face a serious situation.

"We in the CCF party realize that B.C. is paying 75 percent of all education costs." He considered the government should have found its responsibility long ago.

For years the CCF has advocated the setting up of a municipal-provincial advisory board on all matters of municipal-provincial relations. In Saskatchewan, just such a board has been instituted now.

He termed the Hobb's report on municipal costs one of the finest studies that can be made now. It

On top of that, paying would cost $420,000 while the present highway from Horseshoe Bay to North Vancouver is unsuitable for heavy freight traffic. Therefore a high level route would have to be constructed and the public works department hasn't even got an estimate on that portion.

B.C. has $132 million invested in the PGE now and will never make it pay until it is extended to North Vancouver, he claimed.

Such an extension would cost $14,000,000 and would mean the railway would yield a profit of at least one million dollars yearly.

Mr. Winch was scathing in denouncing the new elections act. There isn't an act like it in the world, pointing out that even though a CCF was elected in a constituency at the last election, his name would never head the ballot, even though Liberals, Conservatives and even independent candidates' names have their priority on the ballot form.

In multiple ridings, the voter has lost his right of choice Mr. Winch contended, also pointing out that 21 days will elapse after the election before counting of second, third and fourth choices is made.

In conclusion, he termed the free enterprise parties proponents of the interests of exploiters, monopolies and big corporations, who would give away the heritage of the province's forests in perpetuity in forest management licences and have already handed over part of the province's natural resources to such companies as Alcan and Celgar.

Electric Heating of Homes Now Discussed

Council has still to set the rate for persons who decide to heat their houses electrically. Council was informed that S. G. Rand intends to make such a change in his home. Allowing half the net cost for line improvement, the increased transformer capacity involved would mean that Mr. Rand would have to pay just under $100 for the new municipal installation to his property, it was considered.

was Delmar Dunham as Pooch-Bah, the Lord High Everything Else, whose characterization of the comic part was masterful.

Although not as prominent in their parts, Jack Stocks as a Noble Lord and Harry Howis as the Mikado, were excellent.

Three little maids were portrayed by Joan Carey, Alma Fudge and Laura Boothe, Mrs. Fudge having quite a prominent part in the final act, and all three acquitting themselves nobly.

And not in the least in the background was the chorus of school girls, nobles and coolies. Probably even as much as their singing and acting, the costumes of the main characters and the chorus were an outstanding feature of the production.

Makeup Had Professional Touch Another factor which bordered on perfection was the makeup of all those who took part in this big cast. It was a "professional" job and brought gasps of admiration from the audience.

To Stan Gladwell, president of the club, went full honors for producing the show, while to W. A. (Bud) Steuart went the honor of bringing out the difficult musical parts.

These two leaders are known for their efforts to obtain "perfection" and are quoted as being more nearly satisfied with Monday's production than ever before, which is considered high praise, indeed.

Stage management and set designing was the task of Mr. Gladwell, Don Blacklock had charge of the lighting arrangements while makeup was chiefly under the direction of Beatrice Macleod and Molly Russel.

Properties came under the guidance of Joan and Colin McKenzie, while business management was undertaken by Blair Underwood.

Not a small part in the overall effect was taken by Kay Agur, whose hours of instructing in the dances and general movement of the chorus and actors brought the required results.

It was pleasing to note that many singers who took prominent parts in past performances were brought into the chorus to assist in the general blending of a first-rate performance.

The chorus was composed of the following: Mona Laidlaw, Nancy Fleming, Audrey Clark, Ethel McNeill, Leone Witherspoon, Nan Watt, Isabel Chapman, Peg Sherwood, Chris Mair, Doreen Tait, Mina Milley, Joan McKenzie, Margaret Millward, Mae Hughes, Shirley Gardner, Maebelle Wilkin, Marguerite Barrand, Dorothy Sheeley, Muriel Holman, Audrey Milne, Jean Armour, Viola Turnbull, Dorothy Bates, Jackie Van Driel, Pat Hanlon, Charles Rennie, Tom Moore, H. Corns, Eric Brinton, Lew Wright, Bert Hughes, Ben Newton, Roy Angus, David Millward, Don Sanford, Jack Barkwill, Jack McDougald, Colin McKenzie, Harry Hanson, Clarke Wilkin, Pat Agur, Brian Daniels, Verne Higgs, Tom Paul, Jim Peter and Lori Klix.

The orchestra, under such an able leadership as provided by Bud Steuart, was pleasing as is always the case and was comprised of the following: Violins, Faye Sawchuk, Edna Ireland, W. J. Harris, J. S. Dickin, Jack Rorke; cellos, Mrs. E. M. Hookham, Mrs. G. Ireland; string bass, Ian Sutherland; clarinet, Ken Steuart; flute, N. F. R. Wheatley; bassoon, J. W. Wright; trumpets, J. Betuzzi, K. Balla; piano, Mrs. D. Dunham, Miss M. Barrand.

Don Blacklock, Gerry Washington, Earl Bryden, Richard Lewis, Herb Arndt and Terry Coggan comprised the stage crew and prompter was Bette Green.

First performance of The Mikado ever staged in Summerland was in 1911, according to Harry Howis.

Harold Winch Scorns Premier's "No Mandate" Policy on Reports of Inquiry Boards

"We have to have a government that will give the people a real partnership, will protect the God-given resources of the people; and it can be done without detriment to the province and its economy," declared Harold Winch, leader of the CCF party in the provincial legislature when he addressed more than a hundred persons at an enthusiastic public meeting in the IOOF hall in Summerland following the South Okanagan nominating convention on Saturday.

The fiery CCF leader combined ready wit and pathos with a keen knowledge of provincial policies to keep the interest of his audience throughout the session.

Mr. Winch was particularly scathing in his remarks on Premier Johnson's policy of "no mandate" and refusal to carry out recommendation of inquiry boards into the hospital insurance service and industrial conciliation act.

"Never in the history of the province have we had to face such problems as we are today," Mr. Winch was convinced, declaring that the future of the natural resources of B.C. is dependent upon the thinking of the people in the next three months.

Although he could not state when an election would be held, Mr. Winch considered it would be in June.

He declared the CCF has its greatest opportunity to become the government and pointed out that even against the combined forces of coalition the CCF party polled 35.1 percent of the total vote in the last election.

"On that basis, the CCF should have 18 seats at Victoria instead of eight.

Of the Social Credit movement, he termed it the new conservative party in B.C., just as it is in Alberta.

"The policy statement of the premier was one of the most remarkable I've ever heard," Mr. Winch declared, in expounding on Premier Johnson's declaration that he held "no mandate" from the people to proceed with important recommended legislation, "when he sits there with a majority of elected members."

"We all knew the breakup in Coalition was inevitable," Mr. Winch proceeded, "as they kept on the Coalition because they feared the CCF. He quoted an 'Albion Progressive Conservative executive as stating just before the breakup: "We sleep together in the same bed, but we're not married."

Criticizes No Action Policy Mr. Winch was extremely critical of the lack of action on the ECHIS inquiry board report. As he was an active member of the inquiry board, Mr. Winch spent sometime in making a digest of the most important resolutions brought in by the board and expressed extreme disappointment that no action is to be taken on them this session.

"Premier Johnson says he hasn't got a mandate, yet he brings in a budget of $141 million for the next twelve months, plus capital borrowing powers for the same period which would bring the total to $188 million," Mr. Winch emphasized.

In 1933, the total budget was only $19 million.

"In the main, the common people of B.C. are providing the revenue," he charged.

For years the CCF has advocated the setting up of a municipal-provincial advisory board on all matters of municipal-provincial relations. In Saskatchewan, just such a board has been instituted now.

He termed the Hobb's report on municipal costs one of the finest studies that can be made now. It would cost the government $4 million to put this report into effect and this the government could implement at once. But Premier Johnson says: "No mandate."

He advocated that the government should take over 100 percent of all education costs and promised that this suggestion will have high priority in the studies of the CCF party in B.C.

Mr. Winch also prophesied a change in the CCF agricultural policy as he termed it a "disgrace" that only $1,087,995, or less than one percent of the budget, had been appropriated for agriculture.

Turning to the proposed Squamish-Horseshoe Bay highway, Mr. Winch found that the department of public works had estimated cost of travelling a freight highway over this distance would be $5 million and not the $3 million estimate which the government had brought down in this year's budget.

On top of that, paving would cost $420,000 while the present highway from Horseshoe Bay to North Vancouver is unsuitable for heavy freight traffic. Therefore a high level route would have to be constructed and the public works department hasn't even got an estimate on that portion.

B.C. has $132 million invested in the PGE now and will never make it pay until it is extended to North Vancouver, he claimed.
