ast Ballots choice Monday

An election car actually never got out of low gear this week will coast to a halt and Canadians in 10 provinces will go to the polls Monday to choose 265 members of parliament from 900 candidates seeking election.

Unlike the B.C. provincial election, voters in the federal have no opportunity to designate a second and third choice. Ballots may be marked for a single candidate only and this is done by placing an "X" in the square following the name of the desired candidate. It is important, also, that the pencil supplied in the polling booth be used and that the "X" be in the square provided—not outside or extending over the border.

Summerland voters will choose from three candidates the one who is to represent the new Okanagan-Boundary riding. The three are O. L. Jones, the CCF member who represented this district for the past five years when it formed a part of Yale constituency, Penticon Mayor W. A. Rathbun, the Liberal standard bearer, and Ivor Newman, Social Credit nominee.

Although the Conservative candidate was runner-up in the last federal election in this district, Okanagan-Boundary is one of the few ridings in Canada in which the Pro-Cons have not named a candidate. Discouraged by the almost complete absence of support in the June provincial election, the Pro-Con executive declined to field a representative.

Mr. Jones has been pressing his campaign on his record of service to the riding during the past five years: Scored Newman is asking for support on the grounds that a strong B.C. representation of Social Creditors at Ottawa will generate interest in the movement in Eastern Canada so that by the time the next election rolls around, the party will be developed on a national scale and they can work towards being the government party; Mayor Rathbun's appeal is for a "realistic attitude" and have at Ottawa a member who is in the government and present at party caucus when government policy is drafted.

The approach of the Liberal candidate is based on the promise the Liberal government will be returned to power and this assumption finds support even among his opponents. Consensus is that the Liberal party will again form the government but with a greatly reduced majority. The last Gallup poll before the election indicated 47 per-cent backing for the Liberals.

When the last parliament dissolved, it had 181 Liberals, 48 Conservatives, 13 CCF and 10 Scoreds. Independents and vacancies accounted for the remaining seats.

This election is the first time the Scored banner has been aloft in B.C. for a federal election and party workers are hoping the voters who gave Premier W. A. C. Bennett a first-count majority in June will support the party for office federally.

In B.C. there are 22 federal seats so the voting here is unlikely to have any influence in deciding what party will be chosen to form a government.

In fact, that decision probably will have been already made before the last of B.C. voters have cast their ballot. The difference in time means that Newfoundland polls will be closed four-and-a-half hours ahead of the west coast polls. In the two largest population provinces, Quebec and Ontario—the polls close three hours earlier than those in B.C.

B.C. voters, however, will not be influenced by the Eastern results before they vote since regulations prohibit any broadcast hook-up for results until the polls of the province have been closed.

Rathbun Here Friday

Would Seek To Attract Industry To Overcome 'One-Sided Economy'

Mayor William A. Rathbun, Liberal standard bearer for this constituency, continued his campaign in the Boundary area of the riding by speaking in Grand Forks Monday night, and in Penticon last night when Maj.-Gen. Victor Odlem appeared on the platform with him.

Mr. Rathbun declared that if elected, he would endeavor to locate industry throughout the riding in order to balance the one-sided economy.

He stated, "If we are to keep our young men and young women from leaving these beautiful valleys, we must provide work for them! I am not satisfied that we have had our full share of the industrial development now taking place throughout Canada. I doubt if a Socialist can approach the people who make the decisions in these matters. I believe that I can."

He went on to point out that a victory for the Liberal government in this election was conceded by all parties and the people of the Okanagan would be assured of much greater representation at Ottawa with a member on the government side who would be present at policy-making caucuses.

For too long, he said, the people of this district have contributed to the processes of democracy by electing a member of the opposition benches. At this crucial time for the fruit-growing industry, he said, it is important they now start looking after their own interests and elect a representative with a voice in government policy.

Speaking in support of Mr. Rathbun, Maurice P. Finnerty, former MLA for Similkameen, urged Mr. Rathbun's supporters to see that everyone exercised their franchise on August 10. He stated "That only by exercising our franchise can we retain the right to vote, a right that has been lost in so many countries today."

Mayor William A. Rathbun and Mr. Finnerty spent Saturday campaigning in Rock Creek, Westbridge and Christian Valley with a "grass roots" tour that took them from farm to farm and door to door to meet the individual voters.

Mr. Rathbun travels to Summerland for his next meeting to be held at 8:00 p.m. Friday in the IOOF Hall. Supporting speaker on this occasion will be Mr. Finnerty.

Urges Turnout On Balloting Day

The most important duty of the citizen is to exercise the franchise on August 10," stated Ken Boothe, chairman of the Civic Affairs Committee of the Summerland Board of Trade, in drawing attention to the general election next Monday.

"In the 1949 general election, almost 2 million registered Canadian voters failed to take the trouble to visit a polling booth," continued Mr. Boothe. Democracy, as we know it, cannot long survive this kind of indifference.

"Every Canadian has had ample opportunity to learn something of the men and women who are standing for office in the coming general election. We are capable of judging between the claims, assertions, and promises of the candidates. No great physical effort is required to cast our ballot. Let us see to it that on August 10 the clear voice of an informed and intelligent electorate is heard strongly."

Mr. Boothe said the Summerland Board was conducting a vigorous Get-Out-The-Vote campaign, bringing into play such things as posters, car stickers and free transportation to the polls. Dial 5556 on Monday for transportation. Much of the material used in the campaign he said, has been made available by The Canadian Chamber of Commerce which is conducting a nation-wide, non-partisan Get-Out-The-Vote campaign.

Gladiolus Design For Float Entry; Thousands Used

Thousands of colorful gladiolus will be employed in the decoration of the 1953 Summerland float. The float, when plans are completed, will prove to be a profusion of artistic color and design, an entry to be proud of in the Penticon Peach Festival parade on August 21.

Summerland has been a consistent first prize winner since the first year of the festival. The first entry was also decorated with gladiolus, using about 7000 of the lovely blooms. This year, again using the gladiolus scheme, Alex Watt, chairman of the float committee, feels that they will use at least that number for the design.

Design for the float is being decided upon by Stanley Gladwell, Mrs. Keith Sayers, Frank McDonald and Roy Wellwood and the construction of the framework will be done by Frank McDonald. E. H. Bennett of Paradise Flat will supply the many blossoms needed for the attractive entry.

Several trucks and at least six volunteers will be needed on the evening before the parade to cut and handle the many flowers and another team of volunteers will have to be found on the morning of the parade to proceed about 6 a.m. with decorating the float.

When and Where To Vote

Polls will be open from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m. in Summerland on Monday, August 10 when all eligible voters will make their choice of candidate in the federal election. Voting will take place in the IOOF hall in West Summerland and the United Church in lower town.

If a voter has been living in the electoral district since June 13, whether he is registered on the voting list or not, he is eligible to vote in this election.

There will be no advance polls.

Saving Of $250,000

Railway Competition Countered As Truckers Cut Freight Rates

As a counter measure to the railway companies' cut in shipping charges which became effective last Saturday, a reduced rate in freight charges for truck transportation between the Okanagan Valley and the coast went into effect yesterday morning. Lots will be affected by savings of between 16 and 33 percent on first, second and third class freight, was the resulting decision following several meetings of truckers to decide just what reductions and changes should be made.

Cheaper shipping of fruit and general merchandise will result and officials of B.C. Tree Fruits believe that the new rail rates will mean a saving of $250,000 on fruit shipments and will also be of benefit in the movement of the soft fruit crop.

American competition will now be able to meet us in the past. American growers could ship soft fruits to Winnipeg at a much lower cost than Canadian growers.

A saving of almost half the price will now be made in general merchandise. In less than carload lots the rail rate is now $1.08 per 100 pounds.

Fruit, groceries, fruit packing materials, canned goods and hardware shipped between here and the coast in carload lots are also subject to reduced rail costs.

Further savings will be made on apple shipments, although the exact amount will not be known for a few days.

"Most important factors considered are the influence of competitive rates from producing areas in the State of Washington and the steadily expanding networks of long-distance trucking companies which have threatened to divert a large volume of tonnage from the railways unless re-adjusted rail freight schedules could be worked out in time," G. Stephen Webster, traffic manager, B.C. Tree Fruits stated.

Concessions granted by railways insofar as fruit and vegetables are concerned are as follows:

- (1) Drastically reduced rates on stone fruit embracing all destinations in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Some rates in this schedule are reduced as much as 30 percent. B.C. shippers now have access to prairie markets at same transportation costs that prevail from Wenatchee and Yakima.
- (2) Reductions in soft fruit rates to points in Eastern Canada by 20 cents per cwt.
- (3) General reduction in refrigeration charges to many points in Canada. It is anticipated these charges will be reduced at least 20 percent.
- (4) Spectacular schedules of truck competitive rates from the Okanagan to the coast based on high carrying capacities of certain type of railroad equipment. Rates are as low as 42 cents per cwt. on apples and 50 cents on root vegetables.
- (5) Recognition of truck and water competition to points on the CNR Prince Rupert line. Carlot soft fruit rate to Rupert is reduced from $3.10 to $2.15. Rates to Prince George are also cut.
- (6) Publication of truck competitive freight rate scale to points in Alberta whereby last two blanket increases of 9 percent and 7 percent are to be eliminated and refrigeration charges reduced.

Eleven Polio Cases In South Okanagan

While there have been no further outbreaks of polio in the Summerland district, two children of a Summerland merchant living in Penticon are reported to have been stricken with the disease and are in Penticon Hospital. This brings to eleven the total of infections in the district this year.

Dr. David A. Clarke, medical health officer for the South Okanagan, pointed out again that all pre-cautions should be taken against the disease, especially care in personal hygiene.

The Summerland Volunteer fire department reports there have been no fires in the past week in the Summerland district.

Attacks News Reporting

'Socialists Under Different Name' Is Bennett's Term For Liberals

Premier Bennett in Penticon Saturday night branded the Liberal party as "socialists under another name" and charged the Monday federal election was called in a hurry because they were faced with the Korean armistice and were caught without plans for peace. "They decided to call a snap election hoping to slip in again before the people realize they had no plans," he said.

Mr. Bennett was speaking on behalf of Okanagan-Boundary Scored candidate Ivor Newman who spoke briefly on his own behalf. About 150 people were present in the High School auditorium to hear B.C.'s premier take a roundhouse swing at newspapers which, he said, are giving slanted news and engaging in smear campaigns against the Social Credit party. "Everyone who loves freedom, and fairness should vote for Social Credit to show that they will not stand for the smear campaigns," Mr. Bennett said.

In appealing for support for Social Credit in the federal election, the premier pointed to the 18 years service of the party in Alberta and the record of the B.C. government after one year in office.

He attacked claims by opponents that it is all right to vote Social Credit provincially but not federally and said "We need federal members to back us up provincially in these times. The provincial government would be tied down without federal members. It is vital for this valley and B.C."

The speaker charged that the dominion government took $239,000,000 in certain taxes from B.C. last year and this year it is $92,000,000 more. Out of those taxes B.C. got $42,000,000 or only $2,000,000 more than the previous year despite the increase.

"The dominion government is taking $500 in taxes on every $2,000 car yet people here are complaining that the $20 license—which helps the provincial government to build roads—is too high.

"How long can B.C. be drained? It is too long already. We must have a better deal and to negotiate a better deal we must have support."

Of the Liberal and CCF parties Mr. Bennett charged that they were both "socialistic parties with different names."

"No Conservative in this riding could vote for the Liberals when the national campaign is against them. It is vital to elect the Scoreds.

"We want a partnership between the dominion and provincial governments to build highways. The provincial government owns all the resources but the dominion government gets the lion's share of them.

"After 82 years of being federated with Canada, B.C. has not one decent highway across the province. It is a crying shame," he said and stressed the need for roads to attract Americans to this province.

He declared that there is a great empire in the Peach River district for wheat, mixed farming, coal and gas and that a railway should be built into that area. "That is the kind of development the Scoreds want," the Premier declared.

The speaker charged the dominion government with taking the lion's share of forest revenue without yapping "one cent towards the cost of fire protection."

"If it were not so bad it would be ridiculous. What have the MPs been doing? They should tackle

Building Permits Totalled $12,215 In Month Of July

Building permits for the month of July totalled $4,200 as compared with those of July 1952 which totalled $1,215. Four building permits were issued this year as compared with 12 last year and for the first seven months in 1953, 52 permits, totalling $100,825, were issued; 7 less than those of the same period in 1953 and amounting to $14,765 more.

One new dwelling was erected in July, costing $3,000; one commercial addition costing $900 and two alterations and additions including garages amounting to $300.

For further comparison reflecting normal growth, total permits for the first 7 months in 1953, omitting Cornwall Cannery, amounted to $28,540 and a storage building worth $72,285 brought the total to $100,825 as compared with last year's same 7-month period of $80,060.

Jones Speaks Here

Claims Newman Could Have Avoided Loss of Apple Market in Britain

A share of the blame for losing the U.K. apple market was laid at the feet of his Scored opponent Ivor Newman Monday evening by CCF Candidate O. L. Jones when he addressed a public meeting in the IOOF hall. Mr. Jones charged the British market was lost at a time when Mr. Newman was president of the BCFGA and as such he was in a position to have intervened to prevent the government from losing this market.

Mr. Jones took issue with a statement Mr. Newman was reported to have made at a garden party in Summerland Monday night that when acting for the BCFGA at Ottawa he always worked through Liberal members and never through Mr. Jones, the CCF representative of this riding. "I'm sorry the time is so short," said Mr. Jones, "because I would like to challenge Mr. Newman to meet me on a public platform and give a full explanation of that statement."

The speaker said Mr. Newman contacted Liberals on his visits to Ottawa because "he was at that time a Liberal himself and was one up until a few days ago when he suddenly became Social Credit." Mr. Jones said he had never been contacted by Mr. Newman in Ottawa and had he been he would have put forward over effort to help him get what he was after. "I'd like to know what good it did him to contact Liberals," added the speaker. "He went to Ottawa to try and recover the lost U.K. market but it's still lost."

aign, he said, when Scored speakers were asked questions about monetary proposals of the party, they always answered that those were not of provincial interest and would be explained at meetings in the federal campaign. "But they have evaded this subject during the campaign and have held no meetings where questions could be asked so nobody knows what they mean by 'debt-free' money," he said.

The CCF candidate was critical of the government's action in giving up the stable U.K. market to enter the "wobbly" U.S. market. Everything produced in Canada is also produced in the states, he said, and we can count on that market only when it is not loaded with their own production. On the other hand, he said, Britain imports 60 per cent of her foodstuffs and can be counted on as a continuing stable market.

He advocated barter with Britain as the only way to solve the currency problems between the two countries but, he said, Mr. Howe has repeatedly stated Canada will not enter into any barter (Box score on Page 10)

Don't Argue

At a Banquet one night the man next to me told a story in which he used the quotation, "There's a divinity that shapes our ends, rough-hew them how we will," and attributed it to the Bible. He was wrong. And to display my superiority, I corrected him. He stuck to his guns. From Shakespeare? Absurd! That quotation was from the Bible. An old friend of mine, seated at my left, was a Shakespearean scholar. The story-teller and I agreed to submit the question to him. My friend listened, kicked me under the table and said: "Dale, you are wrong. The gentleman is right. It is from the Bible."

On our way home that night, my friend explained: "Of course that quotation is from Shakespeare, Dale; but we were guests at a festive occasion. Why prove to a man he is wrong? It that going to make him like you? Why not let him save his face? He didn't ask for your opinion. Why argue with him? Always avoid the acute angle."

"Always avoid the acute angle." I sorely needed that lesson because I had been an inveterate arguer. During my youth, I had argued with my brother about everything under the Milky Way. In college I studied logic and argumentation, and later taught them in New York. As a result of it all, I have come to the conclusion that there is only one way to get the best of an argument — and that is to avoid it. Nine times out of ten, an argument ends with each of the contestant being more firmly convinced than ever that he is absolutely right. You can't win an argument. You can't win because even if you win it, you lose it, for you will never get your opponent's good will.

Moreover, my experience has been that it is all but impossible to make any man — regardless of his I. Q. rating — change his mind by a verbal joust. For example, Frederick S. Parsons, an income tax consultant, had been disputing and wrangling for an hour with a government tax inspector. An item of $9000 was at stake. Mr. Parsons claimed that this $9000 was a bad debt, the inspector that it must be taxed.

"This inspector was cold, arrogant and stubborn," Mr. Parsons said. "The longer we argued, the more stubborn he became. Finally I said, 'I suppose that this is a very petty matter in comparison with the really important and difficult decisions you are required to make. I've made a study of taxation myself. But I've had to get my knowledge from books. You are getting yours from the firing line of experience. I sometimes wish I had a job like Continued on Page 10"

A motor and other machinery arrived in Summerland for the provincial government pre-cooling plant which was being installed here under the direction of E. Smith.

C. H. Cordy made a record run in his new car, coming from Princeton in five hours and a quarter.

P. G. Dodwell and K. Betz of Vernon travelled to Victoria to participate in the province-wide tennis tournament, representing the Okanagan.

According to a decision of the United Growers, all fruit from southern lake points was to be brought to Summerland and carload orders filled here.

With the arrival of two cars everything was in readiness for the canning of fruit at the new Dominion Cannery. The factory looked very trim with the machinery set up, and tables and tanks fixed ready to start operations.

Thirty-Five Years Ago

Rev. Charles Baker's application for appointment as manual training instructor here was accepted by the school board conditional upon his acceptance by Pentiction, the arrangement being that he would spend two days here and three in Pentiction. He was from Lethbridge, Alberta.

Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands, met the Summerland council here and discussed irrigation problems. The minister stated that there were no water difficulties here requiring government attention and that the government had no general policy of water storage and administration.

An eastern brokerage firm offered a block of Summerland debentures maturing in 1940 at 75.82. The council was considering the proposal.

The extensive holdings of the South Okanagan Land Co., including what was popularly known as Fairview Flats, was receiving consideration by the Land Settlement Board of the provincial government.

A public meeting to discuss the enlarging of the irrigation system was called by the council. It proposed to raise the dam at the intake on Trout Creek, enlarge the main canal and a lengthy strip of wood flume on that canal and to do considerable work on the north main.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

Surveyors were laying out a proposed new upper road to connect Summerland and Peachland on a higher level to avoid numerous slides which often disrupted traffic on the Lakeshore highway.

New principal of the local high school was K. Caple, appointed by the Summerland School Board.

The Summerland lawn bowling team was victorious over their southern opponents, Pentiction, in a decisive manner, finishing the competitions 87 to 48.

Apricots were at their peak in the Summerland district and a few peaches were being picked in the earlier locations.

Latest Committee of Direction fruit prices were set, boxes of apples selling at $1.15 wholesale and $1.30 retail; crates of peaches, 75 cents wholesale and 90 cents retail and apricots, $1.10 and $1.35 for crates.

Five Years Ago

Conclusion of the wages dispute between The Okanagan fruit and vegetable workers union, T.L.C. and the growers and packinghouse industry labor negotiating committee was ended with the executive of the BCFA and some members of the industry committee agreeing to the proposal of the B.C. Labor Relations Board of the provincial government that a 9 per cent overall increase on the basic 1947 wage scale be allowed. The agreement came about after many weeks of negotiations including a strike vote.

Lorne Perry, secretary of the Summerland Board of Trade, released figures indicating that the amount of flood damage to property in the Summerland District caused by flooding of Trout and Eaneas creeks and the high level of Okanagan Lake amounted to $15,380.

At an expense of approximately $50 the Summerland Fish and Game Club planned to erect a small drinking fountain in front of the Summerland Fish Hatchery.

The cherry crop, one of the most severely affected from splitting in several years, was just about finished. Despite the rain damage, a very good tonnage was saved. A few apricots were being picked in the earlier locations.

The Okanagan Valley was facing an acute butter shortage. Officials of the dairy industry estimated that the valley would be short of about 700,000 pounds of butter before the end of the year.

Essential First . . . some of them were yesterday's 'frills'

MONDAY is election day across Canada and it brings to mind a jingle that appeared in one of the early grade readers before the modern system of education took over. It was this:

"The wisest thing, we suppose,
That a man can do for his land,
Is the thing which lies under his nose
With the tools that lie under his hand."

On Monday, every Canadian could profit from this bit of verse. The thing that lies under his nose will be a ballot slip and the tool under his hand a pencil with which to mark his selection.

The present election campaign has been marked by the complete apathy being shown by the voters. July is obviously not a month when people are likely to become aroused politically and the candidates, realizing better than anyone the lack of enthusiasm being shown, have limited the number of public meetings and have been relying on personal contact for their vote-getting.

It is unfortunate an election of such great importance should be accompanied by a total lack of interest and although the issues on which campaigns have been based are few, only a handful of people are acquainted with the issues that have been raised. It means that relatively little thought will lie behind the marking of most ballots. We would hes-

WHEN members of the municipal council last week discussed the proposal that public funds be raised to equip Summerland rink with an artificial ice plant, it was observed by one of the members that the council would have to decide whether public funds were to be used for "frills or necessities."

It would make the council's deliberations a whole lot simpler if the matter could be settled by a decision on that basic principle but they will find that having once made that decision, they will then have to decide on what should be regarded as frills and what as necessities.

Time For Selfishness?

Editor, The Review:

As this riding has been making its contribution to the democratic process since time immemorial by electing a member who sits on the opposition benches many voters may wonder what difference it would make to have a member of the government representing us in the House of Commons. In the coming election this could only be accomplished by the election of the Liberal candidate since neither of the other two parties has entered enough candidates to be factors of any significance nationally and the only possible alternative to a further term of Liberal administration is a make-shift and short-lived coalition of splinter groups.

The economy of this riding is primarily dependent on fruit production and since this industry is most vulnerable in both import and export trade policies the first obvious advantage in having a Liberal member would lie in his opportunity to have a voice in the making of government policy on trade and tariff. Government policy is made in caucus and not on the floor of the House and when policy is being made in these important matters it would be of the greatest advantage to have representation present while there is still an opportunity of influencing the final decision. A member sitting in opposition can only criticize and attack the policy after it has been decided upon. It should be remembered that fruit growing in general and the production of soft fruits in particular, is a very small part of the overall economy of the country and there are only a handful of members who have any direct responsibility for seeing that its interests are not overlooked or its future jeopardized. Of this handful B.C. has only two members and the price of having either of these members in opposition, particularly the member for the southern soft fruit area could be high in the critical years ahead. Opposition is an essential feature of democratic government but no one can accuse the voters of this riding of having shirked their responsibility in this regard in the past. Perhaps it is time we looked to our own interests.

Closely related to trade and tariff are the regulations affecting the grading and packing of all produce, fresh and canned, in interprovincial and import trade. Any change in government policy which led to a relaxing of these regulations could have serious effects on our industry. While these matters are watched by industry representatives it would be of great value to have representation on the political level so that our position would be at all time made known to the government.

While recent months have seen improvements in the freight rates situation it is doubtful if our troubles are over, or that a permanent solution will be found until government policy recognizes the position of industries such as ours and provides the necessary adjustments. For a member in opposition to achieve such a basic change in government thinking would appear to be very remote possibility.

These few thoughts are offered not only to the fruit growers but to all others who depend in any way on the fruit industry and particularly to those who of late have been critical of the growers' selling organization because it cannot produce satisfactory results in the conditions now facing us. The only way in which these conditions can be influenced is politically and if the voters of this riding refuse to be realistic they need not expect others to achieve the impossible.

Two angles of the tax problem are rarely explored by politicians who glibly promise to knock half a billion dollars off collections in a year and others who argue that such cuts are impossible.

One angle concerns who benefits by a tax reduction. The other concerns the longer-term effects of tax cuts not matched by equal cuts in spending.

It must be obvious that if taxes are cut the people who benefit are those who pay taxes and especially those who pay the most. It is just not possible to cut taxes on people who do not pay taxes.

Mr. Donald Fleming of Toronto, estimates the Conservative plan to reduce taxes by half a billion dollars would amount to $170 for every family. It might if one averages up the big cuts which would come to wealthy families with the small cuts which would come to average families and the very small cuts at all which would come to below average families.

It could not possibly mean that every family would have $170 more to spend on a radio or TV set, a new coat for mother or a trip to the Canadian National Exhibition.

Taxes are paid in a lot of ways but it is the big income people and the big corporations which pay most. Mr. Coldwell, the CCF leader, would make these people pay more. Mr. Fleming and Mr. Drew would make them pay less.

According to the census the great bulk of the heads of families on wages and salaries are in the income group between $2,000 and $3,000. The average is about $2,400. On those income heads of families pay little income tax and none at all where there are three or more children. What they pay on sales and excise taxes depends on what they buy but they do not buy as much as those with bigger incomes. So tax cuts which average out at $170 per family are bound to be a lot bigger than $170 for a few people, a lot smaller for the great majority.

All families, but especially the medium and small income families are bound to be affected by the consequences of tax reductions. All have a stake in Canada. All will have to pay for what they get in defence and in welfare services.

Of Canada's total budget $2,000,000 goes on National Defence. No party promises to reduce that. Some say economies can be made by cutting out waste and extravagance. But Canada is in a great defence partnership with the United States, Britain, France and other countries. At $2,000,000 Canadians are spending a slightly lesser proportion of their national income on defence than the other partners. If economies are possible most Canadians and any responsible Canadian government would want to see Canada pay its fair share, provide more defence with the money saved.

Another billion goes out in payments to Canadian citizens, old age pensions, family allowances, veterans pensions. No party promises to cut those. The Conservative party promises to pay more in family allowances by taking care of children up to the age of 18.

Interest on the public debt comes to $486 million a year. No one suggests the government should let the bondholders down by welching on its agreements. Payments of grants and subsidies to the provincial governments come to $328 million a year. Any cuts in those would force the provincial governments to raise their own taxes.

Putting these irreducible items together you get $3,796 million out of a total planned expenditure of $4,462 million this year. And the way taxes are now coming in it appears revenue will just about equal expenditures. There is no surplus in sight. There remains less than $700 million on which reductions could be made.

That $700 million goes to pay the Civil Service, to pay Members of Parliament, to pay all the official wages, salaries and expenses of government other than in the defence department. A cut of $500 million off this $700 million would mean government would close up or a lot of average family men would have to work for nothing.

There are other ways of absorbing a tax cut besides a reduction in expenses. The government can go into debt, as it did during World War Two during which the debt rose from 3 billion to a peak of $13.5 billion.

But the more debt the more interest to pay. Since the end of the war the government has reduced the debt by about $2.5 billion, thus cutting annual interest charges by $75 million.

Within the term of the next parliament the first of the big long-term war loans extensively held by the average Canadian become due. In 1954 the government has to find more than a billion dollars to pay off bondholders, about the same in 1956 and about the same in 1957, more than three billion dollars.

In the last parliament at Ottawa there were only 13 CCF members out of a total of 265... one of them was ours... yet Provincially we have conclusively shown that we here in this riding are AGAINST Socialism.

If we are anti-socialistic Provincially; how much more important it is that we keep the Socialists out of Ottawa where they could control our whole way of life.

No one doubts that after this election Louis St. Laurent will again be the Prime Minister and that the Liberal Party will again form the government...

Cornwell-Long United In Pretty Nuptials at Peachland United

In the Peachland United Church, decorated with pink and white summer flowers, on August 1 Catherine Blanche Long was given in marriage by her father to C. R. James Cornwell of London, Ontario. Rev. Robert S. Christie officiated at the beautiful evening ceremony.

The lovely bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Long, was dressed in a waltz-length gown of imported embroidered organdy featuring a full skirt posed over taffeta crinoline and a portrait neckline of white organdy over a slim, embroidered bodice. A chapel veil of illusion net flowed from her hand-made head-piece of daisies and she carried a cascade of yellow roses, accented with stephanotis.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Kenneth Fulks, matron of honor and Miss Helen Brethour, of Vancouver, bridesmaid, wearing identical summery gowns of dotted blue swiss over shimmering taffeta. Wide sashes fell to the waltz-length hemlines and they wore wide, fichu stoles of white swiss organdy. Their cascading bouquets were of gladiolus and stephanotis. Petite Miss Barbara Earl was flower girl in a dainty dress of white swiss organdy complimented by a basket of daisies to match her daisy hair-band.

Best man for the groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cornwell of London, Ontario, was Gordon Munn of Vancouver and ushers were Kenneth Fulks and Keith Long.

Following the signing of the register, a wedding reception was held at the Greata Ranch home of the bride's parents. Receiving the many guests were the parents of the bride, her mother attractively gowned in an afternoon gown of pale green with matching jacket trimmed with lace, white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

A three-tier wedding cake centered the bride's table which was covered with a lace cloth and decorated with pink candles in silver holders and pale pink rosebuds and pink and white sweetpeas.

Toast to the bride was proposed by Ted Topham and was responded to in the traditional manner by the groom. The bride's attendants were toasted by the bestman. Musical entertainment during the reception was provided by Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood of New Westminster.

A travelling outfit of a pastel green printed suit with white accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet was donned by the bride for her honeymoon trip by car to California and Mexico for a month.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. S. Tremaine, Miss Sylvia Tremaine, Allan Tremaine, Miss Helen Brethour, Mrs. Bea Brethour, Richard Mains, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Munn, Mr. and Mrs. A. Albrow and family, Mrs. A. Duncan, Mrs. Fred Thranke and family, all of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. A. Wood of New Westminster.

The bride who is a UBC graduate, is employed as a teacher in Vancouver.

Delegation Of Beauty . . .

Peach Festival Includes Gala Events For Summerland Queen, Princesses

The program for the 1953 Peach Festival in Penticton will include some exciting events for the Summerland delegates to the affair, Queen Yvonne and Princess Jill and Doreen. The royal trio will attend the Peach Festival as representatives of Summerland and with their poise, beauty and friendliness should prove worthwhile attractions of this district.

First on the lengthy list of gala events is the queen crowning ceremony in Gyro Park. Together with visiting dignitaries from many parts of the southern Okanagan Valley, the three local lovelies will witness the crowning of Queen Val-Vedette Margaret Brett by 1952 Queen Joan Nagle. Following the impressive rites the royal parties will attend a coke party in their honor prior to attending the queen's ball.

"The Butterfly Ball" as the dance will be known as, will be held amidst gaily and splendor in the beautifully decorated ballroom of the lakeside Hotel Incola. Shimmering metallic butterflies and brightly-colored summer flowers will constitute the decorative theme of the ballroom, a background of beauty for the lovely members of the royal parties.

The first official day of the festival will open with the traditional parade at noon. Among the dozens of novel floats will be the Summerland entry bearing their royal highnesses in a setting of originality and artistry.

Following a short luncheon, Queen Yvonne and Princesses Doreen and Jill will accompany the other royal parties on a tour of the new Penticton Hospital. Later in the afternoon they will be among the guests of honor at the Queen's Tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Christian.

Final day of the wonderful festivities for our royal trio will begin with a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Sworder. The evening's entertainment will again include the midway, rodeo, variety shows, dances and a monstrous fireworks display.

Complete Festival program for the three days is as follows: August 20: 7:30 p.m.—band concert, Gyro Park; 8:30—official opening and introduction of visiting dignitaries; 9:00—crowning ceremony; 10:00—Queen's ball in Hotel Incola; 10:30—arrival of royal party and grand march.

August 21: 12:00 noon—parade, followed by luncheon for royal party; 1:00—opening of Gayland shows; 2:00—opening of Rotary exhibition and agricultural show; 2:30—opening of rodeo and visit to Penticton Hospital by royal party; 3:00 tea at home of F. C. Christian; 4:30—reception on S. S. Sicamous; 7:00—band parade; 8:00 variety shows; 9:30 dances in IO-

OF hall and Legion Ballroom. August 22: 10:00 a.m.—Rotary shows and Gayland shows; 1:30 p.m.—band parade; 1:00—press luncheon; 2:30—rodeo; 5:30—reception at home of C. C. Sworder; 7:00—variety shows; 9:30—public dances at IOOF Hall and Legion Ballroom; 11:00—fireworks display; 11:30—drawing for prizes.

ENJOY YOUR NEXT VACATION —BY PLANNING FOR IT TODAY!

For most of us, it's a bit late to talk about saving for this year's holidays. But it's never too soon to plan for those you've just been hoping for next year.

Many Bank of Montreal customers have found that the easy way to save for first-rate yearly vacations is by starting early. Before they get the sand out of their shoes this year, they'll be saving for next summer's holiday jaunt! They keep a special Savings Account for the purpose—their "Sunshine Account."

Good sense? Of course it is. Most of us have endured a "pinch-penny" holiday or two. Every day we've wondered how much we could afford to do and still have enough money left for the trip home. And we've promised ourselves "never again!"

The way to keep that promise is a program of year-round saving, putting aside enough for a day of two's holiday every month. And the best way to carry out a program of regular saving is through Personal Planning, the Bank of Montreal's system of money management for the family or individual. Personal Planning has shown many Canadians how to save despite today's high cost of living, and it can help you, too. Any member of the staff at the West Summerland B of M will be pleased to give you literature on Personal Planning and help you open your "Sunshine Account". Why not drop in next time you are passing?—Adv.

Game Department Pondering Over Long Standing Fish Question

Debate over a contentious question of long standing is being intensified with the release of a report prepared by one of the biologists of the B.C. Game Department. The subject is: Whether or not to introduce Great Lakes trout (lake trout, char or grey trout are other names of the same species) in Okanagan Lake.

Opinion is divided. While the executive of the Kelowna and District Rod and Gun Club has not taken an official stand, some of the members have argued against such a plan of introducing these fish in Okanagan Lake.

However, there's a "tongue-in-cheek" objection, realizing that their knowledge of the situation is not near as exacting and complete as that of the biologists. They feel that if the game department decides upon such a move, upon the recommendation of its scientists, then it must be for good and beneficial reasons. But—and this they stress—there must be a thorough study of all the aspects, the good and evil that will result, the long range effects on the present resources, and other potential developments before a decision to liberate grey trout fingerling is carried out.

One of these is Archie Blackie, past president of the club. Another is club secretary Jim Treadgold.

Tourist Attraction

Blackie opines that when such a plan was advanced by "sportsmen in the area in 1950", as mentioned in the report by the biologist, "the suggestion was put forward by the Pentiction club, and putting it forward it had been suggested by that club that it would be an attraction for the tourist trade."

"I beg to point out," he goes on, "that the picture of fishing in Okanagan Lake has changed since 1950 and for the past two years there has been better fishing for trout in Okanagan Lake than there has been for a considerable time. This changed condition may be due to the increased stocking of the lakes by fingerlings from the Summerland hatcheries, as we know that the waters of creeks and streams are no longer available as spawning waters for trout.

"In the writer's opinion it would be a grave error to introduce grey trout to Okanagan lake as this fish cannot be classed as a sport fish and despite what Mr. Smith says, might be a serious menace to the Kamloops trout, which is a natural for Okanagan Lake."

Tourists could be directed to lakes where grey trout are established already, Blackie contends and "we should not permit our local Kamloops trout fishing to be sacrificed for the sake of tourists."

Biologist's Report
The report of S. B. Smith, division fisheries biologist, dated June 12, 1953, is entitled "Possible Effects of Introduction of Lake Trout into Okanagan Lake". It follows in full:

Suggestions that introduction be made of Great Lakes char (trout), Christovomer namayusich, into Okanagan and Kalamalka Lakes, were advanced by sportsmen of the Okanagan area as early as 1950. It had been planned to obtain 100,000 lake trout eggs from the Oregon Game Commission in 1952 for release as yearlings in 1953, but the supply of eggs was not obtained owing to a poor collection in 1952 in Oregon. It is planned to obtain 100,000 eggs from another source this year, for release in 1954.

Since some doubt has arisen among sportsmen as to the desirability of introduction of the above species, it may be well to summarize the purposes of the proposed introduction, together with some remarks concerning biological requirements and possible interactions with other species of fish in the area.

Purpose Outlined

The purpose of the proposed introduction was to supply another species of game fish for anglers. Almost invariably in large lakes of the southern Interior, fishing for rainbow (Kamloops) trout deteriorates with the advent of the hot summer season, with the consequent warming of the upper strata of lakes. Deep trolling for lake trout however, apparently is not affected to any large degree.

Shuswap Lake, Adams Lake, and lakes of the south Cariboo region, provide good catches of lake trout throughout the summer. It is felt that introduction of lake trout to Okanagan and Kalamalka Lakes will provide a valuable adjunct to the present fishery for rainbow trout and will provide an additional important source of recreation both for tourists and resident an-

Biological Requirements

Lake trout have successfully maintained themselves in many lakes of British Columbia which are similar in nature to Okanagan Lake. This species grows slowly, particularly for the first five years of its life, subsisting mainly on plankton and some bottom organisms in deep water.

At a length of about 18 inches, the lake trout becomes piscivorous and in many lakes in B.C. feed almost entirely on Kokanee or whitefish where those species are present as forage fish.

The lake trout matures at various ages, but commonly it spawns between ages six and nine. Eggs are deposited in the lake, on gravel bars in water varying from 10 to 30 feet, during the late fall or early winter (October to December) depending on water temperatures and localities. Okanagan and Kalamalka Lakes, with their large expanses of gravel beaches, probably are well suited to successful natural reproduction of lake trout.

Lake trout of the older age classes commonly attain weights of 10 to 30 pounds in suitable waters. From available information regarding habitat and food requirements, lake trout very probably could be established successfully in Okanagan and Kalamalka Lakes, and in future years could provide desirable large fish for summer trolling.

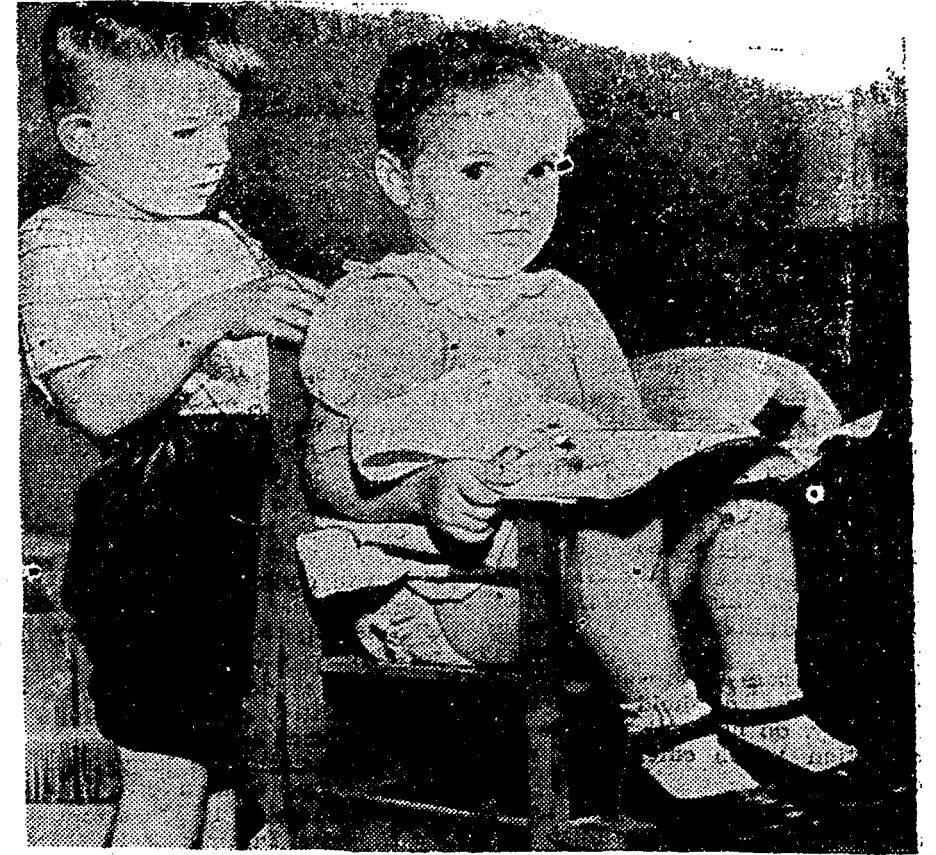

There is little possibility of conflict in habitat requirements of lake trout and rainbow trout. Lake trout probably would feed mainly on whitefish and to a lesser extent on Kokanees. Although Kokanees probably constitute the bulk of the diet of larger rainbow trout in Kalamalka and Okanagan Lakes, it is felt that the two populations of trout could successfully inhabit the lake together.

One of the major considerations of management of the sport fishery of Okanagan and Kalamalka Lakes is the annual cost of stocking. Since there are virtually no suitable large spawning areas for rainbow trout, the population of this species must be maintained by artificial propagation. In the case of lake trout, however, as previously mentioned, there are large expanses of gravel and rocky ledges which would appear suitable for spawning. The cost of stocking would therefore be borne only for the years of initial introduction (probably five years) after which natural reproduction would probably suffice.

In conclusion, it is felt that introduction of lake trout to Okanagan and Kalamalka Lakes would

Soil Mechanics Save Pentiction-Vernon Highway

Professional engineers from Pentiction, Kelowna, Vernon, Kamloops and Oliver heard during a joint meeting last weekend of the Central Branch, B.C. Engineering Society and the Engineering Institute of Canada how the Pentiction-Vernon road was saved through the engineering science of soil mechanics.

R. C. Thurber, P.Eng., provincial soils engineer of the provincial department of public works, at a dinner meeting aboard the Sicamous, were told how engineers saved the highway when it threatened to wash away.

Water Problem

"So much water was coming up through the road material that our equipment couldn't work on it," said Mr. Thurber. "It was decided that the material of the road bed couldn't be used. But we proved it could be used to build a road, if compacted and treated properly. We gave it a good deal of rolling to compact it, then protected the road bed with a sand, gravel and rock wall. It is now holding its stability."

He cited this as one of the examples all over the province where soil testing and soil mechanics are being used by his department to save B.C. taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars in road maintenance in years to come.

Laboratory Tests

The professional engineer explained laboratory tests, carried out in Victoria and in the field, which have been devised to reveal how much load can be placed on a soil before it falls in shear; what height of road or dam embankment, what weight of bridge or building, may be safely placed on a soil; how much soil will settle under pressure, as well as its permeability and the reaction of soil to various moisture conditions. "Soil mechanics and testing are being applied in building roads all over B.C., to ensure the tax dollar is being wisely spent and taxpayers are receiving their money's worth," said Mr. Thurber.

"These tests tell if a road will carry its designed load of traffic. They also tell, when the government is buying thousands of yards of gravel, if it will be satisfactory, that it is not over sanded or contains too much clay to make a lasting road."

Since the war, he explained, due to the increase in sizes of buses and trucks, thousands of miles of provincial roads, which were satisfactory for years, "have broken down." "This forces on us," he said, "not only the necessity of limiting axle loading, but also of paying more attention to the engineering design of our roads."

Mr. Thurber's department, founded only in 1949, attacks the design of road bases, by classifying scientifically all the local soils along the proposed location of the road. Professional engineers then design the road, using these materials, in the proper place, to the proper depth, to carry all expected loads. Extensive field and laboratory tests are made to determine the reaction of the soil to the building of the road.

"In previous years," he said, "it has been the practice to build a road, then let it settle and consolidate, under traffic, before paving. However, it was found that such roads consolidate at a definite stage, then on being loaded with heavy traffic, consolidate further causing disruption of the pavement." Now under the engineer's department, after soil mechanics tests have been made, to prove how much a road will consolidate under maximum loads, then, by means of controlled rolling, materials likely to consolidate, are carefully compacted. This will save money in maintenance in years to come.

"I'd like to say this to all Canadians..."

UNDER a Liberal government, Canadians have added every year to the national strength and national unity of Canada;
 We have had the greatest expansion of social welfare in our history;

We have increased our employment, our production and our national income every year;

We have had the greatest expansion of our primary and secondary industries — truly an industrial revolution;

Because of the outstanding contribution of the members of our Navy, Army and Air Force, we have been able to do our full share to prevent and to stop Communist aggression;

We have reduced the national debt every year, and, in the last two years, reaped the reward in lower tax rates.

Do we want all that to be continued?

Do you really think it's time for a change?

For a change to a Parliament of regional groups — a handful of Social Crediters from the Far West, a few Socialists from the Prairies, a few more Conservatives from Ontario or the Maritimes and some so-called Independents from Quebec?

In such a Parliament without the leadership and responsibility of a united national party, how could the government help being weak and insecure?

Do we want a weak and divided government to deal with the formidable problems of the next few years? I ask you, IS it really time for a change?

We believe most Canadians want a government which encourages enterprise, promotes trade and fosters the exploration and development of our resources; and you know it as well as we do, that requires balanced budgets, paying off debts in prosperous times and a tax structure which, while fair to all, is adequate to meet these demands.

Canada Prepares To Deal With Disaster

(This is the ninth in a series of 10 articles dealing with the preparations Canada is making against possible sudden attack and why every Canadian should be ready for such eventuality.)

CIVIL DEFENCE — A COMMUNITY OBLIGATION

Police, fire, public utilities and other municipal services, standing by to protect and serve their employers—the people—under all circumstances, are counted upon by Civil Defence authorities to form the backbone as well as the nucleus of agencies for dealing with disaster.

By the very nature of their employment, public servants in all such categories are civil defence workers and this, according to officials co-ordinating the country's preparedness program, extends even to those who work in municipal offices or hold jobs which, normally, do not call for the type of action which emergency would demand.

Since the maintenance of normal amenities in the community is a local concern, with services constantly employed to ensure the safety, comfort and well-being of the citizen, Canada looks to these very agencies to spearhead measures which may be needed to tackle problems beyond anything they usually encounter.

The whole framework of civil defence has been built around municipal autonomy and responsibility, with provincial governments assisting by providing facilities for training, equipment, etc., and the federal government co-ordinating all phases of preparedness and helping the provinces to build up strong defensive forces.

Volunteers Needed
But, as crises they may face will undoubtedly be far beyond their normal capacity, the civic services are not expected to be able to cope with them without considerable help from the rank and file citizens of their communities.

Ottawa Outlook

lars altogether.

The average Canadian must be interested in whether that money is found out of current revenues or by borrowing. Interest rates are going up. If new bonds are sold the debt charges will go up. If by borrowing to pay off the debt and borrowing more because taxes are cut below operating expenses the government adds to its overall interest charges, the average Canadian may find himself paying less taxes for one year but a lot more in later years.

A glance at what is happening in the United States shows that sensible governments usually do not withstanding the enthusiastic promises of some of their supporters. The United States government has been operating in the red, going deeper into debt. A lot of people expected tax cuts from the new government. Tax cuts are not forthcoming. The government says it must balance the budget first. It looks as if the average American agrees. Does the average Canadian want the Canadian budget unbalanced?

WILL PRESS COLLECTIONS

Summerland municipality is adopting a "get tough" attitude toward those delinquent in sundry accounts and trade licenses. Council decided Tuesday afternoon that delinquents who have not paid up by Aug. 15 will be prosecuted.

They will require large numbers of volunteers to reinforce their ranks, and they are already being provided, in many municipalities, with additional equipment, as well as with special training, to enable them to deal with mass disaster, such as war would bring.

Every able-bodied Canadian is counted upon to lend a hand in dealing with emergency, whether it comes in time of peace or war. It is inherent in democratic society that the community be in a position to enlist such service from all who belong to, and benefit by, that society.

As preparedness measures, many municipalities are enrolling in their civil defence services, and giving special training to large numbers of men and women who have indicated their willingness and ability, to serve in time of emergency.

There is urgent need, in many places, for more volunteers to act as auxiliary police, firemen, utility workers etc., for duty on lines of communication, with transport, at welfare centres and most important of all, as wardens in their own localities. Only when the ranks of these services are adequately filled and the volunteers have reached a degree of operational efficiency for the tasks which may be required of them, can a community feel that it possesses the capacity for dealing with trouble and for extending a proper measure of protection to its citizens.

Rural Areas, Too

Residents of unorganized rural areas have a role to fill in preparedness, too. While their own sections may never undergo direct enemy attack, their facilities and skills will be needed if ever disaster comes to Canada on the scale that can be visualized.

At least, such areas will be called upon to look after refugees from stricken places and, where they have established such services for their own protection, they may be asked to reinforce civil defence workers dealing with incidents in other places.

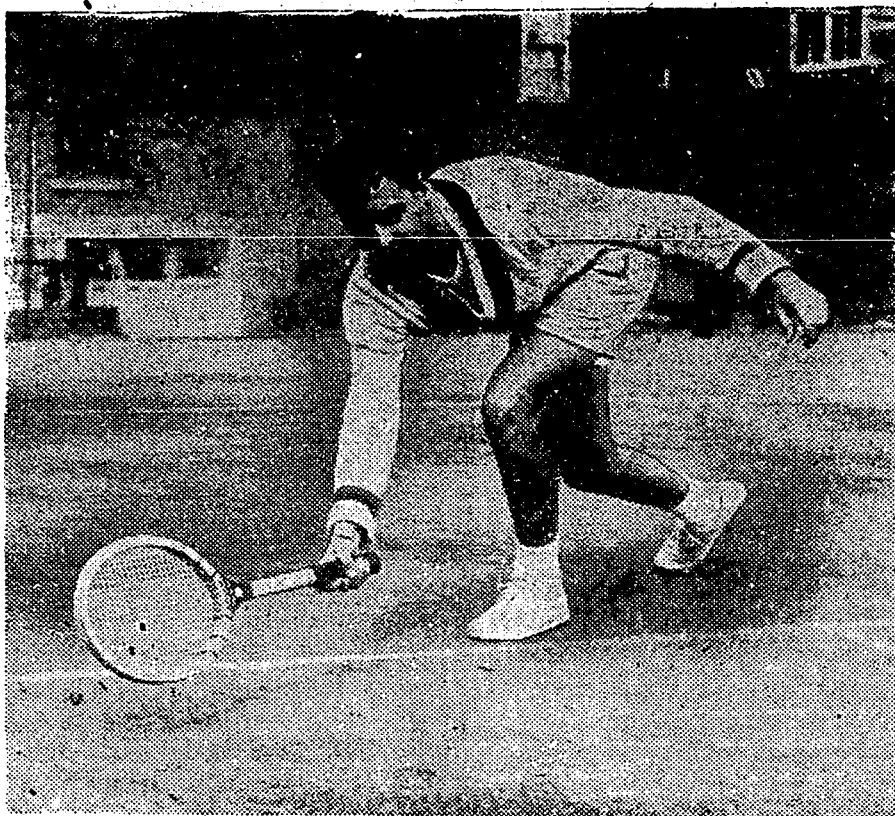

In the main, the "open" spaces of Canada are being organized as mobile support and reception areas, where emphasis is on welfare and medical services, to handle the great numbers of casualties and evacuees which the larger places may require to send out to them.

Civil defence, officials point out, is total preparedness—not merely of possible target areas or even of populous communities, but of all the people, wherever they may live. Civil defence means everyone wherever he may live.

TRAFFIC'S ANNUAL TOLL

Unlike the serious contagious diseases, traffic accidents are not on the wane. Every year the toll grows larger and more deadly. The man who drives when he is overtired, sick or emotionally upset is a menace; the driver takes his car out when he knows that his eyesight, hearing or other faculties are impaired is risking not only his own life but also those of others on the road. Motorists who suffer from heart trouble or diabetes, either of which may cause a "black-out", should never drive long distances alone.

Kelowna Slugging Trio Too Much for Local Nine

For the first time since he appeared on Summerland's baseball scene, Roy Wakabayashi, Sunday afternoon was belted out of the box when Kelowna Orioles gauged his offerings for 10 hits in six innings and walked off with an 11-6 victory.

The sight of Kelowna's Koga brothers, Mits and Morio, and Catcher Campbell running bases reached almost monotonous proportions during the game and Campbell crossed home plate four times while the Koga's accounted for two more runs apiece.

Wakabayashi moved to left field when he relinquished pitching duties to Eyre in the sixth and extended his reputation as a first class slugger when he belted out a circuit hit in the eighth—the only one of the game.

Kelowna got away to a fast start in the game to rack up three runs in the first inning with Morio Koga, Campbell and Lingor doing the honors. Kuroda was first in the Macs batting order and led off with a run, the lone tally for the Macs in that frame.

The second inning was scoreless and then in the third the Macs forged into the lead with only one out when Taylor, Weitzel and Egely each scored. It looked as though the local boys were off and running but Kato was stranded on third when Borton went down on a fly to Favell in right field and Wakabayashi was beat out on a throw from second to first.

The fifth stanza saw positions unchanged with each side adding another counter, Campbell scoring for Kelowna and Weitzel for the Macs.

The Orioles got their second break-away in the sixth inning and the first four men at bat scored. The two Kogas received free passes and then Favell loaded the bases with a single. Bill Eyre took over pitching duties and Campbell singled on his first offering to start the merry-go-round and all four completed the circuit before the side was retired, leaving Amundrud, who reached base on a fielder's choice, stranded on third.

The seventh was scoreless and hitless for Kelowna and Summerland then went down fast after Weitzel lost out in a race to first and then Egely singled but went out with Kato when the latter hit into a double play.

Campbell was back in the scoring parade again in the eighth after he started off by being hit by a pitched ball and Tostenson joined him to boost the Kelowna score to 10. Wakabayashi's homer in the eighth was the final Summerland run and it was Mits Koga in the final frame who added the last counter to the Kelowna score.

Mac's Aces Now Leading In Local Softball League

The High School stepped out of its losing streak and batted out a 10-7 victory over the Red Sox team last Tuesday evening in the Living Memorial ballpark. Hot pitcher for the Red Sox, Terry Parrott, couldn't keep the players down and the High School forged ahead to take third place in the league standings. Pitcher for the High School was Harbicht.

Starting out slowly but picking up fast after the fourth inning, Mac's Aces chalked up another win last Thursday evening to take top tally on the league list. The score was 4-0 for the Box Factory until the fourth when the Mac's got on the bean and took the game 11-0.

Another close win for the Mac's was played Tuesday evening against the Red Sox when the Macs again picked up after the fourth inning and marked down a 14-13 victory. Terry Parrott on the mound for the Red Sox, picked up five strike-outs in the first four innings of the game giving the Red Sox a 7-0 lead over the slow-starting Macs.

On July 23 the Box Factory chalked up a hard-won 4-3 victory over the Red Sox to take second place in the local league standings.

Standings to date in the Summerland softball league are as follows:

Drop In Rifle Scores Accounted To Tricky Weather Conditions

Tricky weather conditions accounted for a decided drop in scores for most shooters at the local rifle range on Sunday afternoon. John Khalembak with a possible on the 50-yard range, took top honors for the day with 99 and close behind was Fred Dunsdon with 98.

Other scores were: Colin Mann and Ted Dunsdon, 96; D. Taylor and E. Gillespie, 95; Len Shannon and Art Dunsdon, 94; George Dunsdon, 92; Phil Dunsdon, 90; Roy Desilets, H. Simpson, E. Desilets and Jack Dunsdon, 88; A. McCargar, 85; Pop Dunsdon, 84; George Stoll, 78 and Gordon Gillespie, 59.

Some Cases Of Itch Reported In District

A number of cases of "itch" have been reported by swimmers in Okanagan Lake. Following a swim in the water, a rash was noticed on the skin and when it was scratched, broke into pimples. The cases are not serious, however and only one advanced case in Penticton has received medical care.

The itch, although contrary to popular belief that it is caused by pollen from popular trees growing near the water, is caused by organisms living in water that is slightly stagnant. The cases of itch are widely scattered and are found mostly among youngsters who are apt to have been swimming in shallow pools of stagnant water.

Precautions against the disease are to swim in fresh water only and to dry carefully when leaving the water.

Mr. Jones relied on his performance as member during the past five years when he appealed for support at the polls and expressed himself as favoring a national health scheme, nationalization of telephone service and insurance.

He acknowledged likelihood that the Liberal party will be returned to power in this election "but with a smaller majority" and attacked the campaign appeal of Liberal candidate Mayor W. A. Rathbun that he would obtain more for the riding by being on the government side. "They are suggesting not only patronage but a corrupt state" was the observation of the speaker.

He said he would have liked to meet Mr. Rathbun on the platform to discuss this statement and pointed out that despite the fact he has conducted more meetings than either of the other two candidates, he was willing to appear in Summerland at a Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting at which all candidates would speak but the others were unable to arrange a date.

Again, he said, he had accepted an invitation of the Kiwanis in Penticton for a meeting at which all candidates would appear "but again the others turned it down."

yours. It would teach me a lot. I meant every word I said. Well, the inspector straightened up in his chair, leaned back, and talked for a long time about his work, telling me of the clever frauds he had uncovered. His tone gradually became friendly; and presently he was telling me about his children. As he left, he advised me that he would consider my problem further, and give me his decision in a few days. He called at my office three days later and informed me that he had decided to leave the tax return exactly as it was filed."

This tax inspector was demonstrating one of the most common of human frailties. He wanted a feeling of importance; and as long as Mr. Parsons argued with him, he got his feeling of importance by loudly asserting his authority. But as soon as his importance was admitted, and the argument stopped, and he was permitted to expand his ego, he became sympathetic and kindly human beings.

I have quit telling people they are wrong. And I find it pays. Few people are logical. Most of us are prejudiced, blighted with preconceived notions. When we are wrong, we may admit it to ourselves. And if we are handled gently and tactfully, we may admit it to others and even take pride in our frankness. But not if someone else is trying to ram the unpalatable fact down our esophagus.

In his biography, Ben Franklin tells how he conquered the iniquitous habit of argument and made himself one of the most able diplomats in American history. One day, when Franklin was a blundering youth, an old Quaker friend took him aside and lashed him with a few stinging truths: "Ben, your opinions have a slap in them for everyone who differs with you. Your friends find they enjoy themselves better when you are not around. You know so much that no man can tell you anything. Indeed no man is going to try, for the effort would lead only to discomfort. So you are not likely ever to know any more than you do now, which is very little."

Ben Franklin was wise enough to realize that this was true, and he made a right-about-face. "I made it a rule," said Franklin, "to forbear all direct contradiction to the sentiments of others, and all positive assertion of my own. I even forbade myself the use of every expression that imported a fixed opinion, such as 'certainly,' 'undoubtedly,' etc., and I adopted, instead, 'I conceive,' a thing to be so; or 'it so appears to me at present.' When another asserted something that I thought an error, I deny'd myself the pleasure of contradicting him abruptly, and of showing immediately some absurdity in his proposition; and in answering I began by observing that in certain cases or circumstances his opinion would be right, but in the present case there seem'd to me some difference.

"And this became at length so habitual that perhaps for these 50 years past no one has ever heard a dogmatical expression escape me. And to this habit (after my character of integrity) I think it principally owing that I had early so much weight with my fellow citizens when I proposed new institutions, or alterations in the old, and so much influence in public councils.

Local RCMP Kept Busy With Minor Traffic Offences

Local RCMP officers have been kept busy in the past week with numerous small accidents and traffic violations.

On the afternoon of August 6, Mrs. Harvey Wilson hit the soft shoulder on the narrow Peach Orchard hill and slid into the ditch. Approximately $50 damage was done to her car and she was uninjured.

A hit and run accident was reported from Peachland on August 8 when the cars of H. Knoblauch of Peachland and James Simser of Lumby, both travelling south, were hit by a car speeding north about 11:30 p.m. No one was injured but considerable damage was done to both cars.

Murray Nicholson slid off the Switchback road and into a telephone pole on August 9 resulting in considerable damage to his car. He was uninjured.

After hitting the soft shoulder on the Garnet Valley road on August 10 about 9 p.m. Adam Lelke smashed into a tree. $145 damages resulted to the vehicle and he was uninjured.

Two tourists who couldn't make up their minds tangled on Antler's Hill near Peachland on August 12. Haywood Haynes of Hopkins Landing and Darell Drake of Vancouver both tried to pass the same truck at the same time and neither made it. Very little damage was done to both cars and no one was injured.

Several cases have come up before deputy magistrate J. Y. Towgood. A minor in possession of liquor was fined $25 and costs on Tuesday and for passing on the double solid line a driver was fined $25 and costs.

C. Whinton, Peachland Justice of the Peace, fined a tourist $15 and costs for exceeding the speed limit in a 30-mile per hour zone.

Rotarians Hear of Life 'Down Under' From District Fellowship Winner

Summerland Rotarians Tuesday evening received a closer insight into life and social problems of New Zealand when guest at their weekly dinner meeting was Don Ross of Pullman, Washington, winner of the Rotary Foundation fellowship last year in this district. One of the conditions on granting the fellowship is that the recipient must attend a college in some country other than his own and Don chose to spend his year in New Zealand.

Of particular interest were the speaker's comments on New Zealand's broad social security program which includes complete health service. Mr. Ross carefully avoided expressing any personal opinions on the program but his large number of questions to the people there was that while there were objections to some of the administrative details of the plan, he found no one who favored abolishing it and doctors, he said, were among its strongest supporters.

The social security program, which also includes all the items in the Canadian program such as family allowance, unemployment insurance and old age pensions, is three-quarters financed by a seven and one-half per cent deduction from income and the remaining quarter from consolidated revenue.

The speaker is presently on the staff of Washington State University where he is doing research work with machine records. His studies have been in sociology. He reported finding life in New

The successful candidate polled 8,009 votes, Newman 7,394 and Rathbun 4,884.

This will be the second term at Ottawa for the Kelowna furniture merchant. He was first chosen to the federal house in 1949 in Yale constituency which this year was split into Okanagan-Boundary and Okanagan-Revelstoke.

Support for Mr. Jones was general through the riding, although choice in Summerland was the Social Credit candidate. Mr. Newman topped the Summerland vote with 708 while Jones polled only 459 and Rathbun 442.

Penticton also backed Newman with 1,545 votes compared to 1,393 for Jones. Rathbun, who has been popular at civic polls in Penticton, failed to poll a heavy majority in his home town and came off third best with 1,199.

Jones, on the other hand, received a home-town majority in Kelowna where he was one-time mayor. His 1,664 votes topped Newman by more than 200 and was more than double that received by Rathbun.

Mr. Jones will find himself with more company when he returns to Ottawa, the CCF representation having been increased by 10 seats to bring their total up to 23.

Undaunted that his prediction Social Credit would sweep all 22 seats in B.C. fell far short of the mark, Secord Premier W. A. C. Bennett confidently expressed the opinion Social Credit star is in the ascendancy and they will form the government at Ottawa after the next general federal election.

The Secords picked up four of the B.C. seats, one of them being in what was formerly the northern part of Yale riding. Winner was George McLeod of Enderby who captured the seat in a five-way battle, barely edging out Liberal Miss Hilda Cryderman of Vernon.

Liberal Rathbun failed to lead in any of the Okanagan-Boundary polls, but his showing was regarded by observers as good, since a Liberal has never been seated in this riding.

Federally, all major party leaders won personal victories in their home ridings and the full Liberal cabinet was returned intact.

Herdsmen At Farm Attacked By Bull

A tangle with a five-year-old Jersey bull resulted in some very bad bruises for Doug Younghusband recently.

Mr. Younghusband, head herdsman at the Dominion Experimental Farm, was unloading the animal from a truck into the pen when the bull attacked him and tossed him out of the truck. Several other farm helpers rushed to his aid and herded the angered bovine into its pen, saving Mr. Younghusband from perhaps a severe goring.

Mr. Younghusband was treated in the Summerland Hospital for bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Smith, Leone, David and Allan visited in Vancouver on Monday and returned home on Tuesday.

"There is no Substitute . . ."

Quality Is Shopper's First Demand Food Retailer Emphasizes to Growers

Growers heard another point of view on problems of fruit marketing Tuesday evening when speaker to BCFGA Southern District Council meeting was Walter Craft, director of Safeway operations in Vancouver, Calgary and Edmonton zones.

Keynote of the retailer's informal remarks was that today's consumer is interested more in quality than in price and he repeatedly emphasized the importance of eye-appeal—that an attractive product in an attractive package will outsell a lower-priced unattractive product.

Keen interest of the growers to learn how they can market fruit more acceptable to the consumer was indicated by the barrage of question that followed Mr. Craft's review of problems in fruit and vegetable retailing.

Substance of Mr. Craft's advice to growers was contained in his statement "In our business, nothing is more important than quality—there just isn't any substitute."

Extra costs for attractive packing is well worth the money and the buyer will readily pay a premium price for fruit so packed, he said. As an example, he cited Red Haven peaches from Yakima which came to their stores packed two layers in a lug box, each in an individual cup. "We sold there for 24 cents a pound and couldn't get enough of them," he said. He said because of their attractive appearance, there is a good market for Red Haven.

Storage Water Drained from Dam

Flores and water department officials this week are puzzling over the problem of why somebody opened the gates of Crescent Dam and drained off the storage water held there and who is the culprit or culprits.

Information that the dam has been drained was conveyed to members of the municipal council Tuesday afternoon by E. Kercher who told of making a visit there to check the supply and finding it empty. Police are investigating the incident. Vandallism is considered the only possible answer.

Fortunately, the loss of storage water from Crescent Dam will not affect the supply this year since level of Thirst Dam — main supply for the irrigation system — has remained high this season and can be expected to provide all the water necessary. Had it been necessary to turn to auxiliary supply, however, the loss of this water would have been extremely serious had the main supply been low such as it was last year. Affect of the loss might conceivably be felt next year if there should be light runoff from the hills next spring. The carry-over from this year will then be an important factor in next year's supply.

The gates of Crescent Dam are secured by a padlocked chain and investigation revealed one link of the chain severed, presumably by a hack saw. The pieces of the chain had been rejoined by a piece of wire.

The dam was closed last October and was not visited again until recently. Wolf Cubs on a hike around the middle of June reported the dam was then about half full. The tampering is believed to have occurred late in June.

Notices will be posted around the dam for the information of woods travellers offering reward for information of anyone tampering with municipal property.

BCFGA President Confirms . . .

Guaranteed Floor Price For Soft Fruit Coming

Reports that a government-supported minimum floor price for peaches, apricots and plums would be announced soon were confirmed Tuesday night by BCFGA president Arthur Garrish who stated the plan has been given cabinet approval and intimated official announcement can be expected very soon.

Mr. Garrish made this statement in answer to a query at the BCFGA Southern Council meeting but warned growers not to take away any "elaborate ideas of what this is going to mean." He described the floor price as "insurance against disaster and nothing more than that."

Mr. Garrish couched his reply in guarded terms but explained that investigations have been going on for some months to see if terms of the Agriculture Co-Operative Marketing Act could not be applied to Okanagan growers problems. He said the application received approval "in principle" by the cabinet "a few months ago" but details have just now been finally worked out. The contract, he said, was approved in Kelowna Tuesday afternoon.

The guaranteed minimum is based on the last three years and application for the contract must be made each year in advance of the growing season and must receive cabinet approval, he said.

The speaker stated a contract was received from the government which was returned with a request for certain amendments and the amended contract received approval of the growers' body on Tuesday.

The three commodities covered by the support program are the ones which have been hard hit in the past few seasons. The government support means that if the price drops below the minimum guaranteed price, the difference will be made up by the federal government.

First Rattler Kill Of Season Reported

Credit for the first rattler snake kill reported this year goes to Brothers Ronnie and Wayne Mitchell who dispatched a two-and-one-half-foot specimen with a .22 rifle in their father's orchard at Paradise Flat.

The boys were picking apricots a week ago when they spotted the reptile asleep in the grass on the outskirts of the orchard. Fourteen-year-old Wayne ran to the house for the rifle while his 17-year-old brother remained to keep an eye on the rattler. When the younger brother returned with the rifle, Ronnie put several shots through the head of the sleeping snake to finish it off.

Seven rattles were revealed when the boys skinned the venomous reptile.

The boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Mitchell.

DAM IMPROVEMENTS

Plans for improvements on the spillway at No. 2 dam were submitted to the municipal council on Tuesday and approved. Improvements will be made on the same location and at the completion of the project the spillway will be two feet wider.

Excessive Drop in Late Weeks Cuts 'Cot Crop Below Estimates

Apricot crop this year has fallen far short of earlier estimates and pack at this time is only two-thirds of the pack at this time last year. Chief reason for the crop falling short of expectations was the heavy fall from trees, which reached as high as 25 per cent, during the last three weeks before picking.

This was information released this week by B.C. Tree Fruits and contained in a statement by Governor A. R. Miller to the BCFGA Southern District Council members at their meeting in Penticton Tuesday night.

Mr. Miller said the total pack is now 490,000 cases as compared to 328,000 cases at this time last year. The problem of overestimating, he said, has been general and Washington growers experienced the same heavy drop that affected Okanagan estimates.

The tree fruits governor said the cherry crop was slightly larger than last year and the quality greatly increased. He said 70 per cent of the cherries were No. 3, 10 per cent No. 2 and the remaining 20 per cent No. 1. The reception of the cherry crop has been "exceedingly good," he said.

Breakdown on the cherry pack was 178,800 20-lb. lugs and 26,600 rty-pack of Blings and Lamberts and 18,480 boxes of other cherries. The trap pack has gone over "wonderfully well" with both the trade and consumer, Mr. Miller reported. He said some cherries are still being shipped.

Road Surfacing Nearly Finished

Chairman of the roads committee, councillor Francis Steuart, reported at Tuesday's council session that the road surfacing program for this season was quickly drawing to a close.

At the completion of the program any oil left will be used to lay asphalt on the Prairie Valley road, giving each area in the municipality at least one-quarter of a mile of the hard surface.

Councillor Eric M. Tait asked if it would be possible for some roads, such as the Hospital Hill road, to be surfaced this year as they are subject to quite a bit of traffic. He felt this road and several others should be at least oiled to keep down the dust which is not only a discomfort to travellers but a nuisance to orchardists. But Councillor Steuart asked where were they going to draw the line on the oiling program. It would be unfair to oil some roads and leave others. The oil is not permanent, is quite costly and unless the residents want to buy the oil for 25 cents per gallon and go to the trouble of laying it themselves, Councillor Steuart feels they will have to wait until the near future when the road program will be extended. He feels that the council has accomplished a great deal this year already in its road surfacing program.

Apricot Crop Now Almost Completed Peaches Coming

The apricot crop is now almost all harvested with the exception of some Tiltons and Blenheims, reports Alex Watt, district horticulturist. This crop was excellent in quality and size but fell short of original estimates.

The cherry crop on the other hand exceeded estimates. This was largely because of fewer split cherries and better sizing of the crop. Many comments have been heard as to the splendid quality of the 1953 cherries.

At the present moment there is a lull in picking until the main volume of the peach crop matures. Some Fishers and Rochester peaches are being picked.

Second brood codling moth sprays have been applied in many orchards. Pear psylla is more general than usual and control sprays have been necessary in several orchards. In some orchards mites are giving trouble.

When You're In The Wrong

When one is at fault, it is frequently disarming to admit it quickly. Ferdinand E. Warren, a commercial artist, used this technique to win the good will of a petulant art director. "Recently I delivered him a rush job," Mr. Warren told me, "and he phoned me to call at his office immediately. When I arrived, I found just what I had anticipated — he was hostile, gloating over his chance to criticize. He demanded with heat why I had done so and so. Trying a new strategy, I simply said, 'I am at fault and there is absolutely no excuse for my blunder. I have been doing drawings for you long enough to know better. I'm ashamed of myself.' "Immediately he started to defend me. 'Yes, you're right, but after all, this isn't a serious mistake—

"I interrupted him. 'Any mistake may be costly. I should have been more careful. I'm going to do this drawing over.'

"No! No!" he protested. "I wouldn't think of putting you to all that trouble." He praised my work, assured me that he only wanted a minor change, a mere detail — not worth worrying about. My eagerness to criticize myself took all the fight out of him. Before we parted, he gave me a check and another commission."

Pioneer Days

From Early Files of The Review

Thirty-Five Years Ago:

Thirty thousand dollars was asked for by the municipal council to be expended on the irrigation system. Estimates were made by water superintendent R. Mitchell, together with J. J. Mitchell. Doubling the capacity of the creek from Trout Creek to the reservoir and improving and enlarging the north main were included in the plans. It was proposed to add a foot or more to the dam on Trout Creek and to raise and widen the sides of the canal to the reservoir. To finance this scheme, the council planned to ask the ratepayers for permission to issue debentures worth $30,000 at 8 percent interest maturing from two to ten years. A public meeting was held.

An addition to the high school was planned to house domestic science and manual training classes. H. W. Harvey was employed to draw up plans for the work.

Twenty-Five Years Ago:

Many donations were made by local citizens to the Summerland Hospital of fruits, vegetables and dairy products.

Apricots had reached their peak and peaches were starting to come into the local cannery. Crab-apples were stacking up and peach plums were finished.

Douglas Raincock nosed out Lino Biollo in the second annual "channel" swim contest across Okanagan Lake staged by W. R. Cranna, Penticton jeweller. Adolph Schwenk was third; Miss Ione Clark, fourth and Hans Klux, fifth.

Movement of fruit from the valley showed a big increase over previous years.

Showing at the Rialto Theatre was "The Campus Flirt" starring Bebe Daniels and "The Road to Romance" starring Ramon Navarro.

Specials at the Summerland Groceteria were 10 packages of cornflakes for 90 cents and two packages of soda biscuits for 45 cents.

Twenty Years Ago:

There was rumor of curtailment of the Okanagan boat and train services on Okanagan Lake.

Heated discussions arose at the municipal council meeting concerning the tampering of the municipal water systems. Twenty-four hour delay resulted when officers went up to the main dam to allow a flow of irrigation water and discovered the outlet pipe was jammed with debris.

Apple growers and shippers were pleased to receive word that the Pacific Coast European Conference was not going to increase the freight rates on fresh apples. The rate from Canadian ports via the Panama Canal were slightly reduced.

At the weekly umbrella competitions at the Penticton bowling greens, Summerland took a severe beating from the Penticton team.

Coffee sold for 29 cents a pound, cheese for 16 cents a packet and maple syrup for 23 cents for a 16-ounce bottle at the Consolidated Grocers.

At a meeting of the CCF in Summerland, Ned Bentley gave an address dealing with necessary and urgent parliamentary and additional reforms, stressing the incompetence and expensiveness of the party system.

Five Years Ago:

The biggest haul in the history of Summerland was perpetrated when the Summerland Groceteria was broken into and cheques and cash estimated at $4,2000 stolen.

Dr. Lloyd A. Day was named president of the Okanagan Valley trap shooters association and Gerry Laidlaw was named secretary-treasurer of the organization at a meeting held in Vernon.

Alexis Smith, Warner Bros. screen star, accepted an invitation to attend the Penticton Peach Festival, her first duty was to crown the "Queen of the Peaches."

Bruce Woodsworth, Westbank school principal, planned to represent the CCF party in the by-election which was to be held in the fall in the South Okanagan.

The municipal water problems were being solved by sprinkler irrigation, water foreman E. Kercher informed the municipal council.

A new type of tick found in a Summerland dwelling aroused the interest of officers of the Dominion Entomological station at Kamloops.

With only one loss during the season the Summerland Red Sox were declared the pennant winners in the South Okanagan junior baseball league.

Money prizes were gained in all competitions by six Summerland rifle shooters who journeyed to Vernon to compete in the annual rifle shoot of the B.C. Inland Rifle Association.

Playing at the Rialto Theatre was "Gentlemen's Agreement" starring Gregory Peck, Dorothy McGuire and John Garfield.

The Lighter Side

"Say, you look busy," said a man, looking over the wall between his house and his neighbor's. "What are you doing?"

"Planting some of my seeds," said the neighbor, showing his spade into the ground.

"It looks to me," said the first man suspiciously eyeing an object on the ground, "as if you were planting one of my hens."

"That's right," was the savage reply. "The seeds are inside."

He was a bashful lad and had been calling on this girl for over a year, then one night . . .

"Jan, er-ah - I'd like to ask you an important question—"

"Oh, Bill, this is so sudden," lied the sweet thing, "I hardly know—"

"No, no," interrupted the lad, "what I want to ask is, what date have you and your mother set for our wedding?"

Scatter-Gun Charges . . . no 'mc carthyism', thanks

IN Penticton a week ago, Premier Bennett made a sweeping condemnation of newspapers for the way in which they have been handling news stories regarding the Social Credit party. Premier Bennett charged news stories have been "slanted" and the party "smeared" by the press.

We have always had a great deal of respect for Premier Bennett and he has proven himself worthy of respect by the success he has attained both in business and in the field of politics but scatter-gun charges of this nature are certainly unworthy of him.

Tempers become frayed in the heat of elections and often things are said which are not intended and now we would like to hear Premier Bennett elaborate a bit on the generality of his charges.

Speaking for ourselves, we believe The Review to be innocent of the things the premier accused "the newspapers" of doing but when he speaks of "newspapers" and "the press", that includes us too, so we would like to hear him give specific instances of news "slanting" or "smeared" against his party by this newspaper.

It is easy to offer criticism in general terms because when it covers a large number, the individuals so maligned will seldom call for an accounting.

Whether there have been some papers guilty as Premier Bennett has charged is a matter of indifference to us. We have not been and we believe the majority of newspapers in the province are equally innocent. If Premier Bennett based his charges on what a few papers have done, he is hardly being fair to the majority of publishers who are honestly trying to maintain a free and responsible press.

It is unworthy of a man in Premier Bennett's position to deliberately try to undermine confidence in newspapers. He, as well as anyone, is aware of the importance of a free press in a democratic state and just because a few may have been unjust in their criticism, that is certainly not sufficient evidence on which to criticize them all.

There have been a few politicians who abused their office but Premier Bennett would be justifiably angered if on that evidence we branded all politicians as crooks because of misfeasance by the few.

Scatter-gun charges are the tactics Senator McCarthy has used in the vicious campaign he has been conducting in the country to our south and the term "McCarthyism" carries as unwholesome a connotation as it is possible to conceive.

We would not like to have "McCarthyism" spring up in this country bearing the name of one of our own elected officials.

What about it, Mr. Premier? Can we have a little clearer definition of those charges?

State Knows Best . . . and the public comes second

PUNCH'S versatile editor, Mr. Malcolm Muggersidge, inspired doubtless by the controversy now raging in the United Kingdom regarding commercial television, sums up the problem with neat satire when he remarks that that dreadful invention, printing, ought really to have been brought under control from the outset.

"Think of all the error, lewdness and positive subversion," he remarks, "which has been made available in the printed word by publishers and editors who know no other consideration but their pockets. If only, for instance, Shakespeare's works, before being published, had been subjected to the careful scrutiny of someone as cultivated, as nice in his judgements and as concerned for the public good as Lord Reith of the BBC . . ."

Radio and television under private enterprise is constantly amenable to public control. The advertiser lives by and depends upon the public. If the public is disgusted or upset, it is the sponsor who must respond by changing his programmes. When the State controls the media of communication, however, the public can protest in vain, for the State knows what is good for it and is determined that it should have it, whether it likes it or not. Against the State there is no appeal, for the State professes that everything it does is done for the public good.

Mid-Week Message

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. (II Timothy 4:7) Read II Timothy 4:1-8.

Since the runners in the old Grecian races were often required to carry lighted torches, the fastest runners were not always the first to reach the goal line. He who crossed first with his torch still lighted received the crown.

In his ministry, the Apostle Paul often compared the Christian life to a race run day by day. Not to the swift, the brilliant, the strong, but to the steady, the true, and the faithful will the incorruptible crown be given.

Daily trustful communion with God through prayer, Bible study, and witnessing will help us to maintain that spiritual glow amid the conflicts and trials of the way. When, by God's grace, we can testify, as did Paul, "I have kept the faith," henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness."

PRAYER

Our Father, we thank Thee for all Thy bountiful promises of strength and grace. Keep our hearts aflame for Thee, our feet in Thy paths, and our eyes upon the eternal goal. Make us victorious runners today, through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Letters to the Editor

Open Letter To Growers:

Packinghouse employees have not had a raise in wages for two seasons and are being asked to continue at those same wages for a third season.

Some slight adjustments were made last year by the General Adjustment Board. The bonus on sorters and dumpers was dropped and sorters received, 75c per hour straight instead of of 75c part of the season and 72c plus bonus for the balance, and of course, dumpers received a straight rate. There were other slight adjustments made on some key personnel rates but did not effect many employees in the industry.

Male employees receive a basic rate of $1.00 per hour and female employees receive 75c per hour. When negotiations opened this spring labor asked for a 25c raise on all rates under $1.00 per hour and 25% raise on all rates over $1.00 per hour. After long discussions and negotiations labor re-drafted their proposals and have asked for a raise which they feel would be acceptable to the large majority of employees. This was done with full consideration to the primary producer and his problems in mind.

It is agreed by both parties that the cost to growers to give packinghouse labor a $10 per hour raise would be at the most 3c per box, based on the average crop of apples. Exactly what this would mean to growers is this; when spread over all packages handled through the packing plants a grower would probably receive 2c per package less for his crop than he would have received otherwise. On the other side of the ledger it means the difference between satisfied and dissatisfied employees—which should never be ignored. It means a signed agreement to work for one year against the calling of a Government supervised strike vote, and possible strike action which could loose the industry much more than 3c per box.

Your representatives to date have refused to agree to any raise. I ask you to consider very carefully, "Does 2c more or less per box mean that much to you?" Do you honestly feel that labor in this industry is being unreasonable in their request? If you do, then your representatives are right in refusing any raise in wages. If not, then I would ask you to say so where it would do the most good.

Your truly,

BRYAN COONEY,

Canada played significant role in the events which led up to the signing of the Korean armistice.

Whether or not the armistice makes any real contribution to the pacification of the Far East and the ending of the cold war remains to be seen. It does at least bring the killing of men to an end in one particular part of the world and give diplomats and statesmen a new chance to settle some of the world's more acute problems.

Before the outbreak of the Korean war Canadian representatives in the United Nations worked with others to bring about the UN objective of a free, independent and united Korea. That was impossible because the Soviet government which occupied North Korea after the end of the war with Japan refused to co-operate and set up a puppet Communist government which eventually attacked South Korea.

When the United Nations agreed to support South Korea in its fight against this aggression Canadian representatives shared in the decision. The Canadian government proceeded to back up the decision by providing naval, air and land forces for the fight which has now come to an end, temporarily at least.

Never before were the Canadian people as united in their support for a government committing Canadian forces to battle. That unity was a reflection of the general agreement which prevails in the country on foreign policy. It was demonstrated by the absence of criticism of any aspect of foreign policy by any of the opposition parties during the election.

To a Canadian, External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson falls the task of presiding over the Assembly of the United Nations which will meet soon to discuss the outlook after the armistice.

Mr. Pearson had a lot to do with bringing about, particularly in obtaining favorable consideration for the proposals advanced by India for settlement of the tricky issue of repatriation of prisoners.

If the armistice leads to anything of value no small part of the credit will be due to the foresight of men in the government at Ottawa who threw Canada's support behind the United Nations effort, to the valor of Canadian fighting men and the patience and alertness of Mr. Pearson in maintaining harmony among the non-Communist nations, despite Communist efforts to divide them.

At the end of World War II, Canadians had not thought their young men would soon be fighting another war. Neither did they think they would soon be building the biggest peacetime defence force in Canadian history.

Yet both these things have come about and, thanks to the cool heads of the nation's leaders few complaints were heard even during the election campaign. True there is talk of waste and extravagance in defence but it is not criticism of the main decisions, of the big things done, just criticism of the way they were done.

The purpose of United Nations intervention in Korea was to resist aggression, to show that aggression does not pay. As Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said the other day that objective has been achieved.

"All Canadians are proud," said Mr. St. Laurent said "of the courage and discipline of our servicemen during these three years of hostilities. Never in history have our soldiers, sailors and airmen fought ideals of peace. We will not forget the sacrifices which they have made, nor will we forget their losses, which are the losses of the whole nation."

Though costly in terms of casualties, Korea has been but a small part of the government's defence preparedness program. It terms of the three-year defence plan which started in 1951, it has taken less than four percent of the money spent so far.

Most of the nation's defence outlay has been on reviving wartime defence industries, on recruiting, training and equipping more than 100,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen, and on assisting Canada's North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies.

A reduction of even 10 percent in these ex-

This Pineapple Cucumber Mould can be made in the morning, and held in the refrigerator until it stars at your luncheon or dinner. It's not hard on the budget either, for this recipe serves eight hearty eaters.

Pineapple Cucumber Mould

Pineapple Layer: 1 cup crushed pineapple, 1 pkg. lemon-flavored gelatin, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 cup finely grated carrots.

Cucumber Layer: 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, 1/2 cup cold water, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1/2 cup light cream, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. grated onion, 1/2 cup finely chopped celery, 1/2 cup grated cucumber, drained.

Pineapple Layer: Drain pineapple. Add enough water to syrup to make 1 1/2 cups liquid. Heat to boiling; dissolve gelatin in it. Chill until slightly thickened. Add salt, carrots, and crushed pineapple. Turn into a 1 1/2-quart ring or fancy mold. Chill until firm.

Cucumber Layer: Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over hot water. Combine remaining ingredients. Add gelatin and blend. Pour over pineapple layer. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with salad greens. 8 to 9 servings.

penditures, Mr. St. Laurent has emphasized, would constitute a betrayal not only of our allies but also of the whole concept of western collective security.

The Prime Minister does not exclude the probability of reduction in taxation following the Korean truce. He stated in a national broadcast.

"Like all other Canadians, we in the Government will be very happy when defence expenditures can be reduced with safety. We are hoping any praying for a real settlement in Korea and, if there is a real settlement, it is reasonable to expect a reduction in defence expenditures."

"Further on Mr. St. Laurent added:

"The policy on taxation and expenditure is to pay as we go and to reduce rather than increase our debt in good times, to go slow on new expenditures and, while doing those things, to continue reducing taxes just as much as possible."

"Our policies have been sound and, I think, well administered. We have sought to protect Canada's national interests, but we have done this in the knowledge that our greatest national interest is peace and good relations between peoples."

"We accept and are grateful for United States leadership in and for its tremendous contribution to the struggle against Communist aggression and imperialism. We back this leadership, however, without forfeiting our right to speak up, in Canadian accents, when we feel it is desirable in the interest of our country."

"We are, certainly not 'hanging on Uncle Sam's coat-tails' as Mr. Drew has charged."

Two-Fold Purpose

Cool Drinks Are Refreshing And Nourishing On Hot Summer Days

On hot summer days, what is more refreshing than to stretch out under the shade of a big tree with a tall cool drink by your side? If you have actually lost the desire for solid food, then be sure to drink cool drinks that are not only thirst-quenchers but are also wholesome foods. Cold drinks can fulfil a two-fold purpose. They can be refreshing and at the same time very nourishing.

Does your family like egg nogs or do they think of them as a food for invalids? A plain egg nog made of milk, egg and flavouring can be as cool, tempting and satisfying as any other drink. A plain egg nog is very good but the flavor may be varied by substituting fruit juice for all or part of the milk and by beating in either a whole egg or the beaten white. If the whole egg is being used, it is best to mix the fruit juice with the beaten yolk and then, just before serving, fold in the beaten white. Raspberry juice is particularly good used in this way and apricot nectar or grape juice will give an egg nog a party air.

Cool, appetizing and always a favorite with adults is cafe au lait. This is hot coffee mixed with plenty of hot milk, then chilled and served icy cold. It is a simple drink, easy to make and just the thing to serve to summer guests.

When a scorching day is predicted, a quick drink that is sure to appeal to practically everyone is plain ice-cold milk. Adults and children alike need milk every day. However, in summertime, plain milk, even though icy cold, does not always appeal to everyone. Often just a slight change in the flavor of the milk will remedy the problem. This is a very easy thing to do. Just add a little chocolate or fruit syrup to the cold milk. As a matter of fact, it is a good idea to keep plenty of these syrups in the refrigerator ready for any occasion. Chocolate or fruit syrups are easy to make and to prepare a flavored drink, you need only add a spoonful or two of syrup to each glass of milk.

Another simple, easy way to change the flavor of milk is to add crushed fruit or even a little jam to the cold milk. Crushed peaches mixed with ice-cold milk and a spoonful of ice cream make a drink which the family will love, right to the last drop; peaches because they will be in season almost any day now but any crushed fruit may be used. Many milk drinks may be turned into milk shakes by adding a little ice cream to the flavored drink, pouring it into a sealer and shaking it well. In making cool drinks, very interesting flavors may be developed if two flavors are combined. For instance, peppermint flavoring with chocolate drinks or almond flavoring with peach milk drinks.

Fruit garnishes really give drinks a party air so use plenty of them. Fruits such as cherries, melon wedges, raspberries, grapes are ideal for the purpose. Mint grows in abundance in many gardens but it is often forgotten until a roast of lamb appears on the table. Pop a sprig in a glass of cold drink. It will give it that finishing touch.

Honeymoon In Wyoming . . .

Experimental Farm Staff Member Wed in Afternoon Rites at Trail

A wedding of local and interior interest took place last Saturday in St. Andrew's Anglican Church in Trail when M. Millican of that city became the bride of Walter H. Wilde of Vernon. Rev. J. Rogers officiated at the afternoon rites.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Millican of Trail, was lovely in a floor-length gown of lace with a matching finger-tip veil and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses. Attending the bride was her sister, Miss J. Millican as bridesmaid in a gown of yellow lace and Mrs. C. Baldry was matron of honor in a matching gown of blue lace.

Bestman for the groom, son of Mayor and Mrs. A. C. Wilde of Vernon, was W. G. Simms of Vernon and ushering was G. R. McMeekin of Trail and Dr. M. F. Welsh of Summerland.

During the signing of the register Mrs. G. R. McMeekin sister of the groom, sang "O Perfect Love" accompanied by Mrs. W. Nicholson.

Following the beautiful wedding ceremony a reception was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Klause at Tadanac where the bride and groom received the best wishes of more than 250 guests.

For the honeymoon trip to Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming, USA, the bride donned a red summer suit with navy accessories and a corsage from her bridal bouquet. On their return the happy couple will spend the remainder of the summer at Creston and will later take up residence in Summerland. Both the principals are graduates of UBC and the groom has been employed at the Dominion Experimental Farm.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. Evelyn MacKinnon and Mrs. L. Abrahms, aunts of the bride of New Westminster; Mrs. Millican, grandmother of the bride of Medicine Hat, Alberta; Mr. and Mrs. G. Hoover, uncle and aunt of the bride of Nelson; Mr. and Mrs. George Simmons, uncle and aunt of the groom of Toronto, Ontario; Dr. and Mrs. M. F. Welsh of Summerland; Mr. and Mrs. J. Hall,

Mr. and Mrs. Truscott, D. Logan and J. Wilkes of Creston and D. R. McComb of Philadelphia, USA.

The many guests were served a buffet supper later in the evening at the Tadanac home of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. McIntyre.

Presentation Made To Mrs. J. Dunham At Staff Beach Party

At a gay beach party at Powell Beach last Wednesday evening a beautiful oil painting of a scene overlooking Okanagan Lake was presented to Mrs. Jack Dunham by the employees of the Summerland branch of the Bank of Montreal. Mrs. Dunham will leave this weekend to join her husband in Grand Forks where he is employed.

Following a delicious supper games and songs were enjoyed by the staff members. Present were: Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Solly, Nan and Jane; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. M. Guernsey, Peter and George; Mrs. C. M. Robinson; Miss Rae Armour; Miss Shirley McAdam, Miss Rose Harrison, Miss Donna McAdam, Miss Dorothy Blacklock, Miss Jeanette McKenzie of Naramata and Sherman Finnis.

Pre-Schoolers Enjoy Picnic With Mothers

Mothers of the play school group of Trout Creek Point held a picnic at Powell Beach last Thursday for all pre-school youngsters on the point.

Over 60 mothers and children attended for the happy afternoon of swimming, racing and refreshments.

In charge of the program was Mrs. C. V. G. Morgan and Mrs. Steve Cannings convened the refreshment committee.

Fall, '53—A slim dress, emphasizing the hips, disguises its pleats, in a Maurice Rentner, New York, fall fashion. Grey, lightwool, it has the designers '53 "crescent" trim, in be-spangled black wool fringers. The brief, double-breasted front ends in a corresponding crescent design. Previewed at New York's fall fashion week. Note medium long length.

VISITING HERE

Guests over the weekend at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Day were their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hamilton and baby Susan and their son, Wally Day of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Genier of Vernon.

Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Hornsby and three children of Vancouver are holidaying for a few weeks at the summer camp of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Atkinson on Okanagan Lake.

Travelled Many Miles . . .

Cancer Society Field Organizer Guest of Honor at Dinner Party

Mrs. Thelma Dawson, field organizer for the Canadian Cancer Society and her son, Bill, were guests of honor last Friday evening at a dinner party at the Happy Valley home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. O'Mahoney. Mrs. Dawson has travelled 2,877 miles in five weeks, visiting every Cancer society in British Columbia.

During the social evening, Mrs. Dawson gave an address on the work of the cancer society. She expressed her sincere thanks to the people of the Summerland district for their support and active interest in the recent "Conquer Cancer" drive for funds.

Of interest to the group was Mrs. Dawson's description of the new foundation building in Vancouver.

The foundation is supported by the government and operates the treatment centre in Victoria. There are now twice as many cancer patients going through this centre, said Mrs. Dawson, showing not that there are more cancer cases but that people are not so afraid now of a deviation from the normal. Diagnosis and treatment at this centre can be equalled by none in the world. People no longer have to travel miles to be treated.

There are over 80 units in B.C. of the cancer society with more than 1450 voluntary workers.

Three times the number of patients in Canada are now being detected in the first stage of the disease and are being cured. This proves that people are not hiding from the fact that they have cancer and are willing to bring it to light and have it treated. She used an experience in Dawson City as an example.

There has been a great change in the past four years due to the cancer education program. The high school essay program shows the children that cancer is something to be cured not feared and through the youngsters the parents are reached. The society feels that children are not too young to be taught about the ravages of cancer. Especially used in educating the public are the society's special films.

Chest plates taken for tuberculosis now show not only TB but if the patient has cancer of the lungs.

When asked whether mice or other animals are used in the actual research work of cancer, Mrs. Dawson answered yes, especially in the research work being done to determine whether or not smoking or smog-filled environments are a cause of cancer. Some authorities feel that heavy smoking does cause a certain amount of the disease.

Some of the services of the local clinics were outlined by Mrs. Dawson and she also told of the drive for funds and of the special work done by our own clinic. Explanation of the cobalt bomb used in cancer treatment concluded the very interesting program.

Following a question period, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. O'Mahoney to the many guests. Present were: Mrs. Dawson, Bill Dawson, Dr. A. W. Vanderburgh, Reeve C. E. Bentley, Mrs. C. H. Elsey, Mrs. E. M. Hookham, Mrs. E. B. Wilson, Mrs. A. R. Dunsdon, Mrs. J. C. Wilcox, Miss Joanne Vaughan, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Butler and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Smith.

Surprise Shower Held In Honor Of Lovely August Bride-To-Be

Miss Doreen Kilback and Mrs. Dale Monro were co-hostesses on August 4 for a surprise miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Phyllis Bradford, August bride-to-be.

Following an enjoyable evening of games, refreshments were enjoyed and the many gifts were opened by the lovely honored guest. The gifts were presented in a gaily decorated box, a replica of Walter's packinghouse.

Guests invited were Miss Yvonne Polesello, Miss Phyllis Verrier, Miss Mildred Verrier, Miss Myrtle Harbicht, Mrs. G. Faase, Miss Shirley McAdam, Miss Shirley Schumann, Miss Terry Daniels, Miss Joan Daniels, Miss Ellen Brandstrup, Miss Melva Stevenson, Miss Jean Iwayoshi, Miss Evelyn Bradford, Miss Ina Bradford, Mrs. Bradford and Miss Betty Green.

Felker-Littau Vows Spoken At Pretty Afternoon Ceremony

A wedding of local interest was solemnized on August 6 when Jewel LeEtta Littau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Littau, became the bride of Ervin Felker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Felker.

The beautiful lawn and gardens at the home of Rev. Charles O. Richmond was the scene of the afternoon rites. Rev. Richmond officiated when the bride, wearing a grey summer suit with blue and white accessories and an orchid corsage, was given in marriage by her father.

Attending the bride was Miss Florence Huva who wore a grey afternoon suit accented with red and white accessories and a corsage of matching carnations.

Bestman for the groom was Adam Huva.

Future home of the newly wedded couple will be Copper Creek.

Canada Prepares To Deal With Disaster

(This is the last in a series of 10 articles dealing with the preparations Canada is making against possible sudden attack and why every Canadian should be ready for such eventuality.)

Since a chain is only as strong as its weakest link, Canadian authorities responsible for the country's capacity to deal with mass disaster realize that their plans can be no more effective than the smallest unit in the civil defence services.

Thus, as the civil defence services are civilian agencies, made up of the men and women of the country, officials point out that the success or failure of efforts to minimize the toll of such calamity as could come from enemy attack on Canada would rest with the average citizen.

These and other pertinent points are brought out in the informational material which has been issued by the Department of National Health and Welfare, co-ordinating civil defence preparedness measures, in an effort to enlist the active support of Canadians everywhere. Only with total popular support, officials realize, can they hope to provide the country with services capable of sustaining her economy and capacity in a national emergency.

How To Help

The officers of the Federal Civil Defence Division point out that, of course everyone can't be an auxiliary policeman or help fight fires. Indeed, an enemy's objective would be achieved if it could involve the whole population in such purely defensive activities. Some of the people, they realize, must "keep the home fires burning." Keep the wheels of industry turning, keep the fighters fed, housed, tended and supplied with tools for their tasks.

The ordinary citizen, it is urged, can help simply by "carrying-on" under adversity, by looking after himself or herself during and after disaster, and by lending a hand to those who need it, whether their call is for extra weight on a fire line or simply a word of comfort and encouragement when it is most needed.

Self-help is indicated as the keynote of Canada's program for survival under such disaster as enemy attack. The more people who can solve their own post-raid problems, says Ottawa, the more the organized services can turn to aid those with more than they can handle themselves.

Preparation for emergency is important. Provision of shelter for the family is essential.

Those whose jobs wouldn't be urgently needed, in time of emergency, are asked to see to it that they have a place arranged for them in one of the disaster services, that they train NOW to be ready to give it their all, if required. Workers in essential industries will serve best by continuing at their jobs, particularly those which relate to the support of the fighting and civil defence forces.

Even residents in sparsely-settled

VISITING ABROAD

Miss Frances Atkinson left on Sunday for Vancouver where she will spend two weeks and will attend the United Nations Seminar for high school students at UBC.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom McKay and Marilyn left last Saturday for a holiday trip through Washington State and parts of B.C.

Guests for several days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Cruickshank were Mr. and Mrs. Griff Morris, Shelley and Griffie of Vancouver.

as they are, Canadians must broaden their outlook to face up to new threats to their security. They must be not only willing but READY to stand on guard for Canada.

Officials emphasize that preparedness, like charity, begins at home; that Canada is only as safe as the Canadian family. Canada's preparedness program, they say, will be only as effective as her citizens who serve in, and stand beside, the civil defence services.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Granbois, Russell and Gary of Dawson Creek are spending a few weeks visiting at the home of Mr. Granbois' mother, Mrs. M. Granbois.

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bingham were Miss Lou Rowan and Miss Caroline Deacon of North Vancouver who were enroute to Kelowna.

.455 Average Leads

Penticton's Bill Raptis Tops In Okanagan Baseball League Batting

The batting has changed considerably from my last report of July. Vernon's Tony Brummett continues to surge ahead to now lead the regulars with a .421 average. . . but he must take second best to Penticton's Bill Raptis who has been hitting a torrid pace in the seven games he has played to lead all with a .455 average. Oliver's Mickey Martino who led a month ago with a .405 average has slipped to a .328 mark. Russel Graff of Vernon who has led the league for most of the season still holds his own with a very good .400 average. Batters getting over .250 and over ten at bats are as follows:

	Hits	At Bat	Av.
Bill Raptis, Penticton	15	33	.455
Tony Brummett, Vernon	24	57	.421
Russell Graff, Vernon	20	50	.400
Len Fowles, Kamloops	14	39	.359
* Bob Anderson, Kamloops	15	42	.357
Buddy Russell, Penticton	15	43	.349
John Lingor, Kelowna	18	53	.340
* Gordy Becroft, Kamloops	20	59	.339
Les Edwards, Penticton	9	27	.333
* Bobby Campbell, Kelowna	20	60	.333
Mickey Martino, Oliver	19	58	.328
* Doug Weeks, Oliver	10	31	.323
Wally Backor, Penticton	7	22	.318
Keith Buchanan, Kamloops	13	41	.317
Ken Amundrud, Kelowna	6	19	.316
Bill Sibson, Oliver	15	50	.300
F. Fritza, Oliver	9	30	.300
Sam Drossos, Penticton	5	17	.294
Kay Kaminishi, Kamloops	9	31	.290
Tom Stecky, Vernon	15	52	.288
Favell, Kelowna	17	60	.283
Harold Cousens, Oliver	8	28	.286
Doug Moore, Penticton	15	55	.273
Henry Tostenson, Kelowna	14	52	.270
Daryl Weitzel, Summerland	16	60	.267
George Taylor, Summerland	15	58	.258
Ray Adams, Vernon	12	47	.255
Francis Gould, Summerland	16	63	.254
Lorne Bay, Oliver	12	48	.250
Joe Welder, Kelowna	6	24	.250
Bill Nieves, Penticton	6	24	.250
Ted Bowsfield, Penticton	6	24	.250
* Roockie.

The most outstanding rookie contestant last month was Catcher Bobby Campbell of Kelowna who increased his average from .250 to .333 and clouted two homers in one game. . . At the writing of this I have a score sheet which shows another triumph for Bobby . . . a 4 for 5 effort at Summerland on Sunday. This further increases his average to .369.

John Lingor of Kelowna and Keith Buchanan of Kamloops are top sluggers with 4 homers each. Close behind with three each are Les Edwards (Penticton), Bobby Campbell (Kelowna), and Tony Brummett (Vernon).

With only two or three games left for teams in league play, the league is in a very tense situation. Separating top team from fifth team is only a three game margin. With teams so clustered, it is possible that no one will know where he stands until the final game. The Wednesday game at Penticton saw Kelowna lose to Penticton and drop from a second place tie to fifth place. . . three percentage points behind the idle Vernon Canadians. Standings as of 5/8/53 are as follows:

	W	L	Pct.
Penticton	11	6	.647
Kamloops	10	6	.625
Oliver	9	7	.563
Vernon	8	7	.533
Kelowna	9	8	.530
Summerland	2	15	.133

The top pitchers are Len Gatin (Kamloops) with a 9 and 1 record, Ted Bowsfield (Penticton) with a 5 and 1 record, Harold Cousens (Oliver) with a 6 and 4 record and Wally Lelmsmeister (Vernon) with a 4 and 2 record.

Of the 43 home runs to date 12 have gone to Kelowna players, 8 to Penticton players, 8 to Kamloops players, 7 to Oliver players, 5 to Vernon and 3 to Summerland players.

There have been 106 doubles and 25 triples in the 48 games recorded to date. Top extra base sluggers are Gordy Becroft (Kamloops) 7 doubles and 2 homers; Tony Brummett (Vernon) 5 doubles, 3 homers, 1 triple; John Lingor (Kelowna) 4 homers and 4 doubles.

Bill Sibson of Oliver has stolen the base running honors via 10 stolen bases.

BERT BERRY'S Fishing News

Okanagan Lake has been slow but the last few days has been better especially in forenoon and after supper trolling. Good fishing off the drop offs where up to 8 lbs. has been caught with minnows, plugs and grasshoppers.

Fish Lake Camp: Fish Lake fair and the upper lakes have improved a lot this last week.

Silver Lake: No reports on this lake this week but could be good.

Headwaters Camp: No reports from here but should be O.K. especially Crescent.

Bear Lake: O.K. this last week and some good fish caught.

Shannon Lake: Good bass and perch fishing.

Lakes up around Kelowna, Vernon and Kamloops have been off a little but are coming on good now.

All mountain lakes and streams should improve right up to freeze-up.

KAMLOOPS — The Kamloops Baseball Club will stage a $1700 tournament on Labor Day weekend. Six teams will battle for the big cash prizes.

Long Dormant Macs Waken To Hand Okonots Lacing

Summerland's brightest diamond star shone at his best Sunday afternoon when Chucker Roy Wakabayashi held Kamloops Okonots to four hits and the local nine came out of the doldrums to latch onto a 10-4 victory from the league leaders.

The Macs played the tightest ball they have produced all season and only two errors were counted against the locals. After trailing the northerners for most of the game, the big break came for the Macs in the eighth inning when they drove home six runs and Kamloops threw in their full stable of pitchers to try and stem the tide but nothing short of a sledge hammer could have slowed them down.

Roy Wakabayashi, Bill Eyre and Vern Borton each accounted for two runs. Hooker whanged out for one homer of the game while Stewart of Kamloops belted out the other. Eyre and Younie each knocked out two-base hits.

The eighth-inning merry-go-round for Summerland started with Weitzel up first and taking a base on balls. He was followed by Taylor who singled. Eyre came up and singled, and Weitzel came home. Prehara took over on the mound and Borton loaded the bases with a single. Wakabayashi's single next kept the bases full and brought Taylor home. Hooker struck out and then Gould laid down the fifth single of the inning and brought home Eyre and Borton. Again Kamloops switched pitchers and Gatin took over. Kato sacrificed to bring Wakabayashi home. Egely came up next and got a free pass while Gould came in on a passed ball. The inning ended when Weitzel's fielder's choice was played to second to take Egely out.

At the outset of the game the future looked dark for Summerland when the first man up, Saklofskey completed the circuit with only one batter out. Buchanan took a base on balls, Becroft went out at first but Evensen received a free pass and then the bases were loaded up when Len Fowles was hit by a pitch. The atmosphere was tense in the Summerland dugout until Stewart was caught at first on a play from Taylor to Gould to eliminate the threat.

Hooker's homer in the fifth evened the score but in the sixth the Okonots pulled well out in front with three runs when Stewart belted a homer with Evenson and Len Fowles on base. That was the end of the scoring for Kamloops. Macs started closing the gap in the seventh with a run by Wakabayashi and then after their eighth-inning display that gave them a four-run lead, they came back for more of the same in the ninth with Eyre and Borton adding another two with the help of a brace of Kamloops errors.

Luckless Macs Downed By Elks

Still hoping to strike a rich vein of pitching material right in the ranks of his own players, Macs' Mentor Joe Sheeley switched shortstop Allan Hooker to the mound for the tag end of a seven-stanza exhibition match against Oliver last Thursday night and although Hooker did a creditable job, the fat was already in the fire and the Elks snatched a 7-6 victory.

Manager Sheeley himself joined the line-up at the start of the game to patrol right pasture but three innings convinced him that a few years can make a difference and he went back to the coaching bench.

Summerland had the edge for most of the game but the Elks managed to close the gap so the game went into the sixth with the score tied at six runs each. Oliver pushed the tie-breaker across in the sixth and then held the Macs scoreless during their last two efforts at bat.

All-Stars At Bat In B.C. Play-Offs

The High School, after pulling out of its season's slump last week, couldn't keep up the tough pace against the league-leading teams. On Thursday night the High School was beaten 12-9 by the second place Box Factory sluggers and again took the road of defeat on Tuesday evening as the Macs Aces walked away with a 25-3 win.

There are only four more league games and by the end of next week the final results should show which of the hard-hitting teams wound up at the top of the list.

The Summerland All-Stars will play Club 13 in Kelowna on Friday evening in the B.C. final play-off. Second game will be at Summerland on Sunday evening and the All-Stars are hoping for a good turn-out of local fans to help cheer them on to victory. Winner of these games will play Vernon for the championship. Standings to date in the Summerland Softball League are as follows:

Team	P	W	L
Mac's Aces	9	7	2
Box Factory	10	7	3
High School	11	3	8
Red Sox	8	2	6

Behind the 8-Ball

By Gord Crockett

The "Come to B.C." publicity the provincial government sends out must be packed with rear pulling power the way it draws people in here just like a high-powered magnet. Not just individually and in families do people come to B.C. but in whole colonies like swarming bees.

It seems to me, though, that maybe they should go just a little easier on that sales talk or else be a bit more careful in choosing where they aim it—not that we don't get interesting people.

Theatre By Starlight Will Cast Two Local Actors

Of interest to local drama enthusiasts was the news that two members of the Summerland Singers' and Players' Club, Mrs. Gwen O'Leary and Lacey Fisher, are taking part in the professional production of "The Man Who Came to Dinner" staged by the Lancaster Company of Vancouver at Penticton's Theatre by Starlight.

Working with seasoned performers and under the direction of well-known actor-writer-director, Ian Thorne, should prove a very valuable as well as enjoyable experience for the local Players. The Lancaster has staged local audiences excellent dramatic entertainment week after week. It can readily be understood at what a terrific tempo the regular members of the Company must work to achieve this result for besides the highly performances, the actors are kept busy during the day rehearsing for the following weeks production and constructing and painting all the sets.

The Lancaster Company is made up of Players from York Theatre, Victoria, Toem Theatre and Theatre Under the Stars, Vancouver. The Company consists of: Ian Thorne, actor-director; Monica Duddle, Wally March, Patricia Lath, Victor Mitchell, Bob Woodward, Gwen Downes and guest artists, Dorothy

Mo Trees to Come Down School Board Decrees

When Jubilee Road is closed in the next week or so to permit expansion of the school playgrounds, all trees which now line either side of the street, with the exception of seven birches at the former site of the cenotaph, and those along the main highway, will be removed. This is the decision reached by the school board, acting on recommendation of MacDonald School Principal, S. A. MacDonald, who stated that effective use of the area by the junior grades for organized sport will be possible only if these trees are removed.

Aware that the decision to remove most of these trees would meet with some criticism. School Board Chairman J. F. Towgood and Mr. MacDonald when interviewed, stated the decision was not reached lightly but only after considerable discussion and consideration of other ways in which the recreation space allotted to MacDonald School could be utilized without cutting out the trees but no other solution appeared.

Another objection to having the row of trees cutting across the school playground, Mr. MacDonald said, was that they restricted observation of the grounds from the principal's office.

Mr. MacDonald pointed out the seven trees being left are the most ornamental of those which line the street and cannot be regarded as being particularly attractive.

He went on to point out also that the purpose of the playground is to provide space for the children to engage in sports and recreation. "We cannot fulfill that purpose," Mr. MacDonald said, "if we try to keep it as a park, too. He drew attention to the front of the school which is laid out in lawns and boasts a number of trees. "This is as much of the school grounds as we can afford to give over to park," he said.

"What critics seem to overlook," said Mr. Towgood, is that when Jubilee Road is closed off the lines of trees facing the main road will be linked up with new trees planted across what is now the road intersection and the present trees would not have the same interest for the public as they now have. The roadway will cease to exist and the trees would be nothing more than a line of evergreens cutting across the school yard."

"As far as sentimental reasons for keeping them go," interjected Mr. MacDonald, "I doubt if there is anyone with a better reason for sentimental attachment than I have. I saw those trees planted about 30 years ago and have since watched them grow but I can't see letting sentiment, however strong it may be, interfere with making the best possible use of the grounds for the school children."

Mr. Towgood pointed out water would be another problem if the trees were retained. At present, he said, water is carried in a ditch at the side of the road but when the road is gone there will be no ditch

Funeral Services For A. R. Bradford

The Pentecostal Church will be the scene on Monday at 2 p.m. of funeral services for Arthur Robert Bradford, 21, who died at the Prairie Valley home of his parents yesterday. Rev. C. D. Postal will officiate at the afternoon rites.

Mr. Bradford attended school in Summerland and took part in many local activities.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bradford; a brother, Maynard Sidney Bradford and four sisters, Miss Edna, Viola Bradford of Clinton, Ontario; Mrs. Harry Paulson, Miss Ina Bradford and Miss Evelyn Bradford.

Committal will be made in Lakeview Cemetery, Penticton, Penticton Funeral Chapel in charge of arrangements.

Early Peaches Rolling

Soft Fruits Demand and Quality Good Say Tree Fruits Officials

Prices on soft fruits have compared favorably with last year and demand and quality has been excellent, according to officials of B.C. Tree Fruits. Final shipments of the 1953 cherry and apricot crop were made at the end of last week.

Peaches will be moving in volume within the next few days, but some trouble may be experienced in commanding a fair price, as California produce has weakened the market. Early varieties of peaches are now being shipped from the Oliver-Osoyoos areas, and a few Bartlett's will start rolling within the next few days.

According to Tree Fruits, the last carload of cherries left the Creston district last Wednesday.

This year's cherry volume was approximately the same as last year and with the odd exception, the demand was steady throughout the season. There was a general improvement in the quality and commodity. Splitting was not as serious as first believed.

Apricot Yield Down

The apricot crop failed to make the estimate and both cannery and fresh fruit shipment were less than in 1952. The overall quality was good and the demand was steady from commencement of the shipping season.

Apple sales are down approximately 17 percent compared with the same date last year. Most markets report "fair" sales and the condition of the fruit compares favorably with other years with the exception of some hail damage.

There have been a few early deliveries of crabapples but shipments and some other method of irrigation would be necessary.

Main purpose to which the space is to be put is for softball diamonds and it is planned to have six of them in the area. This is the most popular organized sport among the younger children, Mr. MacDonald stated, and went on to say, "Actually the birches where the cenotaph used to be should come out as well and are being left there only as a concession to public opinion. They cut up a fairly large area so that it can't be used effectively," he said, and added that they are being left only on trial and that perhaps in another year they will come out, too.

Both Mr. Towgood and Mr. MacDonald stated they would be glad to hear any valid reasons why the trees should not be used because so far, they said, they have heard no reasons which would justify restricting the pupils' use of the area for sport—the purpose for which it was originally intended.

Other members of the school board who backed Mr. MacDonald's recommendation for the removal of the trees were T. S. Manning, Ross McLachlan and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh.

Mr. Towgood said the board is now negotiating to have the trees ripped out by bulldozer but said it will probably be another week at least before the work is started.

Growers Study Orchard Methods On Field Tour

Seven orchards in the Summerland district were visited on Saturday by 25 growers on an orchard field trip sponsored by the B.C. Department of Agriculture and the Summerland BCFA local.

Chemical thinning of prunes, results of blossom thinning of peaches, insect control, grafting methods, minor element deficiencies and orchard cultivation practices were all studied in the tour.

A talk on grasshoppers and earwigs was given by C. L. Neilson, Provincial entomologist from Vernon. Another highlight of the tour was the rotary mower seen at work in Walter Toevs orchard. A very pleasant interlude was provided at the Doney Wilson orchard where lemonade was served to all by Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and young daughter Bonnie. The trip was concluded with a visit to the Barkwill Bros. cannery.

Growers' orchards visited were those of N. O. Solly, Caldwell Bros., Doney Wilson, J. Wells, W. Toevs, Lionel Fudge and Barkwill Bros. In attendance from Kelowna was Mr. R. P. Murray, Okanagan Supervising Horticulturist. The tour was conducted by A. W. Watt, District Horticulturist for the Summerland area.

QUIET ON CRIME FRONT

Local RCMP report that the past week has been a quiet one in Summerland with no violation of the law as far as they are concerned. In Peachland C. O. Whinton, J.P., fined the guilty party of the hit and run accident on August 2, $250 and suspended his drivers' licence for two years.

will increase from now on, reaching volume in most districts this week. The estimate for transcendents and hyllops is considerably less than last year's crop.

Peach Shipments

Deliveries of Rochester peaches are increasing daily. Shipments have been fairly uniform throughout the west and the demand is steady. California quotations, according to one official of Tree Fruits, are still low, and the overall average has not improved during the past week.

There have been some quotations as low as 85 cents a box. Quality of California peaches this season in some instances, is questionable, a Tree Fruits spokesman said. These quotations are influencing market prices in other districts in the U.S.

A few early varieties of Tree Fruits spokesman said. The trees, which will move in volume shortly, are sizing well.

Polio Strikes Two Residents

Polio struck again in Summerland this week with both an adult and his son as its victims. The patients are in the Penticton Hospital where their conditions are reported to be improving. They appear to be mild cases and complications are not expected. Another case has been suspected.

Total number of cases of the infection in Summerland this year is now eight, including one fatality.

Health officials hope that the most recent cases are isolated ones and not the forerunners of any serious outbreak. However, the season when the infection is most prevalent is at hand and warnings have been repeated that rules of personal hygiene and cleanliness should be exercised in the extreme as protection against polio.

Visiting Fruit Party Amazed At Orchards

Fruit growing on trees was seen for the first time by many members of the visiting Consolidated Fruit Co. party from Calgary who toured the Okanagan last Sunday and Monday.

The prairie visitors, on a special chartered bus, seemed duly impressed with the fine weather and beautiful scenery of the valley. Several members of the party were thrilled at the opportunity to pick peaches off trees, an opportunity they never had in the prairies.

The itinerary included a visit to the Dominion Experimental Station here and a picnic lunch at the Farm. The members expressed their amazement at the work being done at the farm on orchard products.

Also included in the tour was a visit to the Occidental Fruit Company packinghouse. Satisfaction and pleasure were expressed by the visitors at the wonderful buildings and the methods of work.

Hail Causes Damage In Local Orchards

Hail during the heavy storms last night and this morning caused damage to orchards in the Summerland district.

Most serious damage was in the Trout Creek area, although growers have not estimated the percentage yet.

Most other districts in the valley were hit by the hail although but to what extent is not yet known.

David Hurn Is Guest At Kiwanis Meeting

David Hurn, new manager of the Summerland Fish Hatchery, was guest speaker at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club on Monday evening.

Mr. Hurn spoke on his work and gave an interesting talk on the breeding of fish and stocking of lakes and streams. He described to the interested group why fish propagate well in some lakes and not in others.

The delicate procedure in fertilizing fish eggs in hatcheries and breeding fish was also outlined by Mr. Hurn.

Local Street Carnival Pronounced Successful By Attendance Of 500

"Bigger and better than ever before" said Gerry Hallquist of the Street Carnival which was held on the main street of Summerland last Saturday evening. The carnival was voted a success by all who attended the wide variety of games and entertainment booths.

Over 500 people attended the Kiwanis sponsored affair which began at 7 p.m. and lasted until nearly midnight when supplies of money and energy were exhausted.

One of the more popular games of the successful show required muscles and the local lads didn't expect to lose. They were seen with milk bottles, walking away with many gay trinkets. At least 200 youngsters as well as many adults enjoyed rides on the Trump orchard griff which was run by Scotty and the other members of the griff team included bingo, throwing rings and darts and other games of skill.

Also a success was the home-cooking sale sponsored by the ladies of the Kiwanis Club and a truckload of beautiful gladiolus blooms from the garden of E. H. Bennett went to many satisfied customers.

In charge of the refreshment booths of hot-dogs, pop and ice-cream was Doug Campbell and others on the committee of Kiwanians who were in charge of the carnival were E. F. Smith, G. Hallquist and Joe Sheeley.

Winners of the ticket draw were Jack Miller who won an automatic electric toaster, Ron Mettrs who won an electric steam iron and Bud Gould who won an electric kettle.

Prevent Caries By Fluoridation Of Water Supply

Dental research has shown that very small amount of fluoride in community water-supplies — about one part in a million parts of water—have an amazing long-range effect on dental caries (decay).

In many areas of the United States and in a few areas of Canada, this fluoride is found naturally in the water. Children who have lived in these areas all their lives show a great reduction in the amount of tooth decay—as much as 66 per cent. Equally important, many of these fluoridated children have no cavities at all.

When children are young (0 to 8 years), tooth enamel is forming before the teeth erupt through the gums. As they drink fluoridated water, their bodies utilize the tiny amount of fluoride present to build up these teeth.

Apparently fluoride combines with other elements, in much the same manner as do calcium and phosphorus, to become part of the tooth enamel. The presence of the fluoride imparts to the teeth a stronger construction and a harder quality thus giving them greater protection against conditions causing dental caries.

No Second Chance

However, once a tooth is formed, it grows no more. The quality of the enamel is then either good or poor forever. Further-more, because dental decay is increasing faster than the facilities to cope with, the situation becomes very serious if sound teeth are desired.

Therefore, any method which will help to materially reduce the overall amount of dental decay should be given careful consideration.

One such method, which is proving to be of great value, is the fluoridation of waters naturally deficient in this element. To bring the benefits of fluoride to a greater number of children, many communities are adding these protective fluorides to their public water-supplies. Artificially added fluorides exert the same protective effect against dental caries as the naturally occurring fluorides.

FIRE EXTINGUISHED

The members of the Summerland Volunteer Fire Department were called to extinguish a small grass fire at the rear of Smith & Henry's about one p.m. on Sunday. There was no damage.

Lauer Baby Dies Buried Yesterday

Funeral services were held yesterday for Kathryn Anne Lauer, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lauer of Prairie Valley.

Father A. M. Meulenburgh officiated at the graveside rites for the baby who is survived by her parents.

Interment was made in Peach Orchard Cemetery. Roselawn Funeral Chapel was in charge of arrangements.

Attractive Design, Color

Thousands Of Gladiolus Needed For Summerland's 1953 Float

A profusion of artistic design and color will make up the 1953 float, Summerland's entry in the Penticton Peach Festival parade. Thousands of beautiful gladiolus and bouquets of evergreen will be employed in the decoration of the entry and when completed should prove an entry to be proud of in the annual monster parade.

Summerland has been a consistent first prize winner since the first year of the Peach Festival. The first entry was also decorated with gladiolus, using about 7000 of the lovely blooms. This year, again using the gladiolus scheme Alex Watt, chairman of the float committee, feels that they will use at least that number for the pretty design.

Design for the float has been decided upon by Stanley Gladwell, Mrs. Keith Sayers, Frank McDonald and Roy Wellwood and the construction of the framework for the float is being done by Frank McDonald, E. H. Bennett of Paradise Flat is supplying the many blossoms needed for the attractive entry.

Several trucks and at least six volunteers were needed this morning to cut and handle the tomorrow morning before the parade. Volunteers will have to be found on Friday morning before the parade to proceed about 6 a.m. with decorating the float. Anyone interested in assisting with the work may phone Alex Watt or Frank McDonald.

Opens With Crowning Rites

1953 Peach Festival Preliminary Will Begin Tonight In Penticton Summerland Royal Trio To Attend

A beautiful and stirring preliminary to the 1953 Peach Festival will be the impressive crowning ceremony in Gyro Park in Penticton tonight. A band concert and musical show will precede the crowning of Queen Val-Vodette VI, Margaret Brett, who will be attended by visiting royal parties and dignitaries from many parts in the South Okanagan, among whom will be our own royal party, Queen Yvonne and Princesses Jill and Doreen.

Following the rites, the royal parties will be guests of honor at the Queen's dance, the "Buttly Ball" which will be held in the gaily decorated Hotel Incola with music to Saxie's orchestra.

The official opening of the two-day annual festival takes place on Friday at noon with a monster parade of bands and floats from all over B.C. and Washington. The Summerland float, a lovely entry in a gladiolus scheme, will be included in the parade as will the Summerland Band, directed by Herb Pohlmann.

In the afternoon of the first day of the festivities, there will be much to see and do for everyone. The Rotary Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition will open in the Memorial Arena and the Gayland Shows and Midway will open in Queen's Park. Also featured in the afternoon will be a rodeo as well as the Queen's Tea and a reception on board the S. S. Bloomous. Variety shows, public dances and a continuation of the afternoon entertainment will take up the evening. Saturday will see the last day of the fair with the rodeo, midway, agriculture show and exhibition in the afternoon and in the evening there will be the variety shows with the final curtain of the festival, a huge fireworks display.

The First Person Singular

Many of the sweetest memories of my childhood cluster around a little yellow-haired dog with a stub tail. Tippy never read a book on psychology. He didn't need to. He had a perfect technique for making people like him. He liked people himself—and his interest in me was so sincere and genuine that I could not keep from loving him in return.

Do you want to make friends? Then take a tip from Tippy. Be friendly. Forget yourself. People are not interested in you. They are interested in themselves—morning, noon and after dinner. The New York Telephone Company made a detailed study of telephone conversations to find out which word is the most frequently used. It is the pronoun "I." It was used 3900 times in 500 telephone conversations. "I," "I," "I," "I," "I."

That is why you can make more friends in two months by becoming interested in other people than you can in two years by trying to get other people interested in you.

This was one of the secrets of Theodore Roosevelt's astonishing popularity. Roosevelt called at the White House one day when the President and Mrs. Taft were away. His honest liking for humble people was shown by the fact that he greeted all the old White House servants by name, even the scullery maids.

"When he saw Alice, the kitchen maid," writes Archie Butt, "he asked her if she still made corn bread. Alice told him that she sometimes made it for the servants, but no one ate it upstairs."

"They show bad taste," Roosevelt boomed, "and I'll tell the President so when I see him."

"Alice brought a piece to him on a plate, and he went over to the office eating it as he went and greeting gardeners and laborers as he passed. They still whisper about it to each other, and Ike Hoover said with tears in his eyes: 'It's the happiest day we have had in nearly two years.'"

It was the same intense interest in the problems of other people that made Dr. Charles W. Elliot of Harvard one of the most successful presidents who ever directed a university. One day a freshman, L. R. G. Grandon, went to the president's office to borrow $50 from the Student's Loan Fund. The loan was granted. "Then"—I am quoting Crandon—"President Elliot said, 'Fray be seated.' To my amazement, he continued, 'I am told that you cook and eat in your room. Now I don't think that is at all bad for you if you get the right food and enough of it. When I was in college I did the same. Did you ever make veal loaf? That, if made from sufficiently mature and sufficiently cooked veal, is one of the best things you could have, because there is no waste.' (Continued on Page 6)

Public Property . . . many think it's open season

HERE is a type of individual, unfortunately, who seems to hold the opinion that public property is fair game for any kind of abuse and mistreatment they care to give it. It is people like this who make the operation of public institutions much more costly and rob others of enjoying the fullest benefit from them.

The case in point is Powell Beach which is one of the most delightful swimming beaches anywhere along the lake shore and with a little co-operation from those using it, it could, with a minimum of trouble be one of the most attractive. Instead it is constantly littered with refuse and the equipment is regularly in a state of disrepair.

The Parks Board are up against tough odds in trying to maintain the beach as they and the public would like to have it. Cost of having a 24-hour beach patrol to enforce people to show respect for their own property would place an excessive burden on the municipality and should not be necessary.

No doubt if such a patrol was employed, the ones who would scream the loudest at the extra expense would be the same ones whose actions would make it necessary.

Recently a group from outside the community were caught red-handed by police ripping boards off dressings shelters to use on a bon fire. The Parks Board declined to prosecute the culprits. In this instance we find it impossible to agree with the board's action. As an elected body, the members of the board are charged with the responsibility of protecting public property with all means at their disposal and we do not believe any choice lay with them in the matter of prosecuting individuals damaging beach property. True, their action was charitable but in view of the indifferent attitude being generally shown toward the beach facilities, stern measures rather than charity should be indicted to try and generate a more responsible attitude.

Every individual in the municipality shares in the ownership of Powell Beach and they should want it to be a location of which they can be proud.

The rules for accomplishing this are simple:

Clean up trash and litter after a picnic or outing;

Build fires only in the fireplaces;

Treat the beach equipment and buildings with respect and leave them as you would like to find them.

In other words: Treat it as you would your own property. After all, it is!

Time For Unity . . . two weeks can be a long time

MORE than six months have now elapsed since surveys for the new highway through Summerland were completed but there is still no announcement on which of the projected routes is to be followed or when a start on the work will be made.

In May the Municipal Council asked for consultation before final decision was made because the members feared that certain of the municipal roads might be cut off and rendered unusable by the new highway. The council was informed the plans were then on the drawing boards and would probably be ready in about two weeks.

In June, the provincial road location department was again asked about the proposed route and the explanation was that work had been delayed by the provincial election but it was expected to be finished in about two weeks.

This would certainly seem to be about the longest two weeks of the year.

We don't know if anyone has inquired since June to find out what has happened to the Summerland Road and certainly no information has been volunteered from Victoria. It's a safe bet that if anyone does ask, the answer will be "We'll have it ready in about two weeks."

In other words, we have a strong suspicion that Summerland is getting a good, old-fashioned run-around.

Castling about for an answer to the "Why?", the most probable solution turns up right on our own doorstep. It may be that Victoria officials are just taking the easiest way out to avoid a very unpleasant situation.

All told, four different routes were surveyed for the road to go through Summerland. Each route found supporters among local residents and each route found a measure of opposition. Some of the opponents to various routes were pretty articulate about how they felt and let their opinion be known to highway officials in letters and petitions. So the position of Victoria officials now is that no matter what route they select, they are going to run smack dab up against a mess of criticism—and the line of least resistance is to do nothing until everybody gets together and agrees on what they want.

Meanwhile, in Victoria we can expect them to stay busy over the drawing board "for another two weeks".

The road from Penticton is completed now and tender is let for a start on the road at the other end of the municipality toward Peachland. There is little doubt that the connecting link is being forgotten for the time being.

Right now there appears to be only one way to put an end to the "two-weeks" wait—and that is by unity between the various groups in Summerland. The only way to do that is for everybody to ask the government to get on with building a road through Summerland and let them decide without benefit of interference what route it will follow.

Just as long as everyone continues to add their own two-bits' worth on how the job should be done, we're going to be without a new road.

POWELL BEACH ABUSE

Editor, Summerland Review:

During the last month I have been amazed at the casual way in which the citizens accept one of their greatest assets; namely, Powell Beach.

Most beautiful beach and park areas are the result of some early settlers' dreams and hard efforts. Whoever was responsible for this lovely spot being set aside for public enjoyment surely intended that all should use, but not abuse it.

Night after night during the summer, groups of people enjoy their campfires, but some few thoughtless ones continue their rancorous shouting at intervals throughout the night. At times there has been wilful damage to bathing shacks, benches etc. Could not the local Parks Board and Police arrange some kind of efficient patrol to discourage hoodlums?

Those who have the privilege of using beautiful things should surely respect them.

Yours truly,
J. C. BAYNES.

"May I be of service to you?" asked the polite floor-walker.

"I don't know," replied the perturbed young man. "I was told to stop in here and buy either a camisole or a casserole and for the life of me I can't remember which."

"Well," said the floor walker, "if you'll tell me what kind of a chicken you propose to put in it, perhaps I can help you."

Other Opinions

Other Editors Say:

Protectionists Balked

It would be rash to say that the day of "log-rolling" is past. But certainly conditions for it have become far less favorable—particularly in the field of tariffs, where the art reached its highest development. This fact was illustrated in the House of Representatives vote on the Simpson bill.

This was a protectionist measure, designed to facilitate the plugging of holes made in the tariff wall by reciprocal trade agreements. But it was less adaptable to "logrolling" than the old-time tariff bills. They offered special rate favors to specific industries. It was easy then to say: "I'll vote protection for you if you'll vote it for me"—and produce a combination of high rates which barred useful trade.

Advocates of freer trade contended that the Simpson bill would have the same effect. But the shelter it offered American producers afraid of foreign competition was generalized. The favors were not specific and could not be traded in any "logrolling" process. The bill was beaten by an unexpected majority, and half the Republicans went on record against it.

This is considered a victory for the administration, which had opposed the bill. It forecasts success for President Eisenhower's effort to obtain renewal of the Trade Agreements Act without crippling changes. And it could reflect a long-range improvement of tariff policy based on the total national welfare rather than on a voting combination of special interests.—Christain Science Monitor

A Disabled Fisherman

By Lewis Milligan

There may be some people who are attracted to Georgian Bay out of curiosity by the Thirty Thousand Islands, but I think that for most people who go there, especially from the United States, the sole attraction is the thirty and more thousand fish that are taken out of those waters every season. I never saw so many dead fish outside of a fish market as I saw being brought ashore at the end of the day by those amateur toilers of the deep. It was Billingsgate, without the smell or the bad language. The tired anglers lifted their strings of pike, pickerel and bass on to the wharf and proudly posed for pictorial evidence of their prowess to prove to their friends at home that alone they did it! And as proof positive they had the fish gutted, placed on ice and finally packed in sawdust for shipment to as far south as Nashville, Tennessee.

My idleness was not due so much to old age as to a bad ankle which disabled me from climbing over rocks or navigating a row boat, and it set me wondering if there was any etymological relationship between the words ankle and angling. I had always thought that the word angling aptly described the angle formed by the rod and line in the act of still fishing, and that the word dangling was derived from the same action. To dangle, according to my dictionary, is to "hang loose, shaking or waving; to be a humble officious follower, to hang about a person;" and a dangler is "one who dangles, a man who hangs about women." The latter I personally reject, for my trouble is to avoid them. The root meaning of the verb angle, as applied to fishermen, is "crooked" or a "hook" as seen also in the word anchor, which is a double hook. And I find that the word ankle is of the same origin. So there I was an old angler, instead of dangling a fishhook, had to be content with sitting and dangling a bad ankle. I was an angler.

I have always claimed that fishing was one of the best excuses for doing nothing, for I am one of those disciples of Walton who have frequently toiled all day and sometimes all week and caught nothing, or nothing worth writing home about. Angling is a sport, but there are too many who regard it as an exploitation and who would be more suitably employed fishing with a net off the banks of Newfoundland.

You may attribute this criticism to sheer envy on my part at the sight of those able inland seamen bringing in their spoils of the deep, while I as a disabled angler had to dangle my ankle and look on. No, there was no envy in my heart—at least not after a few days of angling. I resigned myself to the situation and made friends with an old Scottish collie dog that kept me company on the veranda. He was a dog that had had his day and he lay stretched out dreaming of the days that are no more and letting the rest of the world go by. All old dogs are philosophers.

The Lighter Side

The father was reluctant to tell his little son Johnny of the impending visit of the stork, but as the months went by the secret grew more difficult to conceal. Finally the stork dropped his bundle from Heaven and the father broke the news to the boy.

"The stork has been flying over our house, Johnny," explained the father. "He's been swooping around."

"I hope he doesn't frighten Mommy," replied the youngster, "she's pregnant, you know."

A new member of a certain government bureau made life miserable for his associates by claiming to be absolutely infallible. What's more he usually was. One day, however, he startled his co-workers by admitting that once he had been wrong.

"No!" exclaimed one of his listeners.

"Yes," the man declared. "Once I thought I was wrong when I wasn't."

The ingenious young flag-pole sitter was breaking all records when he received the sad news that his mother-in-law had just died.

"What are you going to do 'now'?" he was asked.

The sitter pondered for a moment and then his weary face brightened: "Reckon I'll sit at half-staff for a couple of hours."

"We were happy for over a year, Your Honor, and then—then the baby came."

"Hmmm, boy or girl?"

"Girl—a blonde who moved in next door."

GRANVILLE ST. WEST SUMMERLAND

Mid-Week Message

Every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire. (Matthew 3:10) Read Matthew 3:7-12.

In that drama of the Middle Ages, Everyman, Death goes to Everyman to require of him his soul. Everyman turns to his friends, Fellowship, Kindred, and Riches, to go with him. Each refuses. Then he calls on Good Deeds. She answers, "Here I lie cold in the ground; thy sins have me so sore bound that I cannot stir."

Everyman revives Good Deeds. When his other friends—Strength, Discretion, Beauty and Five Wits—see Good Deeds with Everyman, they take courage and accompany him. These, however, soon lose heart. One by one they desert Everyman. Good Deeds, of all his earthly friends, alone stays with him to the end. She reassures him with the words, "When all thy friends and comrades flee, Good Deeds alone will speak for thee."

As Christ frees us from sin, He urges us to follow Him, to do as He did—help suffering mankind.

PRAYER

O God, our Father, grant to us the salvation offered us through Christ our Lord. Then help us in His spirit to be active every day in doing good to others, that they may see our good works and glorify Thee. For His name's sake. Amen.

Suggestions For Foods On Picnic Jaunts Are Useful For Everyone

Here is a parody on the song "Let's have a party, let's all have fun", it goes like this — "Let's have a picnic, we'll all have fun, you bring the weiners, I'll bring the buns, we'll light a bonfire and all sit around and we'll toast the weiners until they're golden brown." The parody brings to mind the subject for today — picnics. Everyone is picnicking these days, for summer weather is the time to enjoy the wonderful outdoors.

We all have our own ideas about what foods we like to take on picnics, but there are some picnic ideas which certainly will be useful to everyone. The first idea is the role of aluminum foil—this is not intended as a pun. This is one way of using it—there is nothing like vegetables cooked outdoors in a bonfire, but there is the odd time when the fire gets too hot or smoky and each person, instead of being given a nicely baked potato or a brown ear of corn, receives a charred offering which is not too palatable. Of course it is eaten charred or not, because on a picnic, no one complains. Now aluminum foil enters into the picture. If the vegetables that are to be roasted are wrapped in aluminum foil and placed in the bonfire, they will cook just beautifully. The foil will not burn and the vegetables are protected from flames and from smoke, as they cook.

Thinking of flames and smoke, have you ever tried to toast a weiner on a stick which was too short and you kept burning your hand. Every time you jerked your hand back, invariably the weiner fell off into the bonfire and you had a difficult time trying to rescue it. Here's a solution to the weiner-roasting problem. This solution is a popcorn popper, the one with the long handle. It is the ideal utensil for roasting weiners. If several weiners are put in the popper, held over the fire and shaken occasionally so that all sides are evenly roasted, a perfectly cooked weiner will be the result and there will be no burnt hands and no lost weiners. Another idea concerns milk cartons. If milk is bought in square or round quart containers, it is wise to save the containers to bring on picnics. They should be washed thoroughly, and stored in a dry place so that they will be ready for use at any time. A piece of aluminum foil or heavy paper can be tied over the top to act as a lid.

Many Canadian homemakers are now the proud owners of home freezers, and frozen foods are ideal for picnics. If sandwiches are to be the picnic fare, they can be made up ahead of time, several days or even a week or two in advance. On the day of the picnic the sandwiches can be taken out of the freezer just when you are ready to leave. There are a few sandwich fillings which do not freeze too well such as egg, tomato, cucumber and lettuce but meat, cheese or fish fillings are all excellent so they are the ones to use. It is wise to be sparing with the mayonnaise because it may soak into the bread and make the sandwiches soggy. As mentioned, salad makings like cucumbers and tomatoes do not freeze well because they are so watery, and when they thaw, they become limp and spongy—take them along fresh.

Hamburgers or weiners can be cooked and put into buns and then wrapped and frozen. If the buns, complete with cooked hamburgers or weiners, are wrapped in aluminum foil, they can be reheated right in the bonfire or in a barbecue fireplace. The foil will not burn and the bun and meat will be heated without further cooking. It is quite an advantage to be able to prepare these foods days ahead, then on the day of the picnic, all that has to be done is to pack them in the basket.

Cooked meats such as fried chicken, baked spareribs and sausage rolls can be frozen weeks ahead and just removed from the freezer on the picnic day. The same principle applies to the foods. If they are wrapped with foil, they can be heated on the bonfire. If the picnic day is rather a cool one, it is nice to serve hot food. Chilli con carne, stew or soup may all be cooked ahead of time and stored in the freezer. On the day of the picnic, they can be heated and placed in a large thermos jug. When the family is ready to sit down to the picnic, they will be thrilled with the piping hot food. Fresh fruits are in season now and of course you will want to take plenty of them on the picnic with you but if your family likes cake or cookies as well, any type of butter or sponge, cake, chocolate brownies, peanut butter cookies, tarts, etc., freeze well. They keep very fresh and moist in the freezer as long as they are properly wrapped or packaged. They too can be removed just before leaving for the picnic.

Here are some excellent salad recipes for picnics or for summer meals.

Jellied Cucumber Salad:

1 package lime-flavored jelly powder, ¼ cup hot water, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 cup chopped cucumber, Lettuce, Radishes.

Dissolve jelly powder in hot water, add vinegar and grated onion. Chill until partially set. Fold in mayonnaise and cucumber. Pour into six individual moulds that have been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. Unmould and serve on crisp lettuce, garnished with radish roses. Yield: six servings. To give color to the salad, add a little finely chopped parsley or chopped unpeeled cucumber to the gelatine mixture when adding mayonnaise and cucumber.

Jellied Beet And Celery Salad:

1½ tablespoons gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 1½ cups boiling water, ½ cup vinegar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 cup diced beets, ½ cup diced celery.

Soak gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Add boiling water. Stir until gelatine is dissolved. Add vinegar, salt and sugar. Chill until partially set. Add beets and celery. Pour into individual moulds. Chill. Unmould on lettuce leaves. Yield: Six to eight servings.

Chicken Salad:

2 cups diced cooked chicken, 2 cups diced celery, ½ cup silvered toasted almonds, ½ cup dried green pepper, ½ cup chopped olives. Salt and pepper to taste, Mayonnaise.

Combine all ingredients lightly and serve on a lettuce leaf. Yield: six servings.

Program And Display Presented By Pupils

On Friday, August 14 an interesting program and display of work was enjoyed by parents and friends of the children attending Daily Vacation Bible School at the Free Methodist Church.

Prizes were presented to the winners of the largest number of points in each of the three departments. About forty children attended the ten day session directed by Miss Noreen Ford of Faith Mission in Toronto, Ontario, and Miss Cathy Macaulay of the Faith Mission in Vancouver.

The children especially enjoyed the dramatization of the stories of The Good Samaritan, by the Juniors and of the Life of David Livingstone, by the Intermediates.

Above: Three picnic plates guaranteed to satisfy hearty appetites. The top one contains meat loaf and pickle sandwiches, devilled eggs and cole slaw. The one on the lower left has wienies on a bun, potato salad and pickle, and on the right, sliced baked ham, tomatoes stuffed with cottage cheese, and baked beans.

Picnic Rolls
Put ½ cup of shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 2 cups of ready-to-eat bran and 2 tsp. of salt in a mixing bowl. Add 1 cup of boiling water and stir until the shortening is melted. Let stand until the mixture is lukewarm then add 2 beaten eggs, and 2 cakes of compressed yeast or 2 packages of granular yeast which have been softened in 1 cup of lukewarm water. Add 3 cups of sifted flour and beat until smooth, then 3 more cups and mix well. Let rise until double in bulk, then punch down. Form balls of dough, place in greased pan and flatten, then let rise until double in bulk. Bake in 425° degrees F. oven for 15 minutes. Makes 36 picnic rolls 3¼ inches in diameter.

Canning Bartlett Pears Made Easy

Good quality canned Bartlett pears can be one of Canada's most delectable fruit products. Before the pears are purchased in a retail store, care has been taken to see that they were picked at exactly the right stage of maturity—graded carefully—pre-cooled or cold stored and shipped to the market.

If they are not canning ripe when purchased they should be stored under relatively warm conditions between 65 and 70 degrees F. in order to develop the finest flavor and texture. This is most important, says F. E. Atkinson, Fruit and Vegetable Processing Laboratory, at the Experimental Station, as many individuals have the impression that pears can be ripened in a cool, dark place. Following this practice has led to many failures.

If it is not possible to process the pears as soon as they have been peeled, halved and cored, they should be kept in cold water containing 3 teaspoonfuls of salt per quart. This will keep the halves from turning brown. When they are all prepared they may be rinsed in fresh water, packed into cans or sealers, syruped and processed.

Evaluate Fruit and Vegetables

Miss Dorothy Britton Joins Staff Of Dominion Experimental Farm

Miss Dorothy Britton, who has been with the Modern Kitchen of the Vancouver Daily Province for the past ten years, has joined the staff of the Experimental Station in Summerland. Miss Britton is attached to the Fruit and Vegetable Processing Laboratory and it will be her duty to evaluate fruit and vegetable products from the consumers' angle.

At present a considerable amount of work is being done on the manufacture of commercial fruit pie fillers. Miss Britton uses the fillers in the preparation of pies and other desserts and thus makes quickly available to the remainder of the laboratory staff information as to the suitability of the fruit preparations. The investigations currently being studied include apricots, berries, cherries, peaches, and prunes. Later Miss Britton will work on the reconstruction of frozen fruit and vegetables and their evaluation.

It is also planned that Miss Britton may be able to assist in the popularizing of new processed fruit and vegetable products by demonstration work at Fairs, and by talks and demonstrations to local women's groups. Matters concerned with the greater and more efficient use of fruit and vegetables either fresh or processed are of the first importance to all primary producers.

Noreen Ford Honored At Bridal Shower

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Smith, Victoria Gardens, was the scene of Friday evening of a lovely bridal shower in honor of Miss Noreen Ford. Miss Ford, who is with the Faith Mission in Toronto Ontario, has been in Summerland for a number of weeks working with the Vacation Bible School for the Free Methodist Church. She will be married in Toronto in the near future.

Many miscellaneous items were placed before the honored guest in a dainty basket decorated with pink and white streamers. Other decorations included confetti-filled balloons and gay summer flowers. Following the opening of the pretty gifts, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Miss Anita Jones.

Present at the party were Mrs. Janet Prior, Miss Marie Faasse, Mrs. A. E. Smith, Mrs. O. Bolton, Mrs. Granbois, Sr., Mrs. Granbois, Jr., Mrs. J. G. Graham, Miss Anita Jones, Miss Ruth James, Miss Carol Smith, Miss Machitko Uchida, Mrs. Helen Miller, Miss Helen Miller, Miss Lena Schnell, Mrs. J. S. Mott, Mrs. Emily Holden of Vancouver, Mrs. Bill Radomske and Mrs. C. W. James.

Perfect Weather For Development Of Soft Fruit Say Officials

Weather conditions have been ideal in the Summerland district for the development of soft fruits. There has been no rain and little excessively hot weather, according to the following report from the department of agriculture, horticulture branch:

Summerland, Westbank and Peachland:
As reported August 4: Since the issue of our last News Letter the weather has been warm with some cloudy days and no rain. Weather conditions have been ideal for the development of soft fruits with little excessively hot weather. Conditions are very dry and this is the peak period for use of irrigation.

Over half the apricot crop is now harvested. Size was no problem to the apricot growers this year. Most trees carried a light crop with very little fruit on the older wood, consequently there was no difficulty in obtaining 2" apricots with a little thinning to break the clusters. A certain amount of drop of poorly pollinated fruits with flat sides combined with the generally light set to make the crop somewhat lighter than originally expected. The first Fishers and early Rochesters are now being picked but there will be no general picking of peaches for ten days at least. This crop is coming along well. Bartlett pears are picking up now and showing more life. Size of Flemish, Anjou pears and apples is the best for several years.

The dryer weather has curtailed mildew and prevented further development of scab. Mites are not a serious problem this year. However, aphids are quite serious on prunes, cannerly apricots and on vigorously growing apple trees. Spraying for second brood codling moth has now started. Most orchards are very free of worms but precautions are being taken to prevent late second brood entries which sometimes occur following a cool delayed summer.

A few mature green tomatoes and some "turnings" are being picked in the Westbank area. However, hotter weather is needed to bring this crop along faster. Beans and some fall planted onions are also being harvested in this area.

Kelowna:
As reported August 5: The weather since the last report has been generally warm and dry.

A good crop of high quality cherries has been cleaned up. Very little loss from splitting was experienced. Apricots and plums of good quality are now being picked. Apples are sizing fairly well but Bartlett pear sizes are disappointing owing to the weakened condition of the trees. Some additional thinning is being done in an effort to get size. Prunes continue to give promise of a good crop of high quality.

Second brood codling moth sprays are now being applied. In most cases a mite spray is being combined with the moth spray chiefly for control of rust mite. Some spraying is also required for Pear Psylla. On the whole, orchard insect control is good to date. The dry weather has effectively checked the spread of apple scab for the present. Other orchard diseases are not serious generally.

Weather conditions have reduced early sets on tomatoes and the crop will be late. Sprays are being applied for onion mildew. Silverskin onions of high quality are being pulled. Most vegetable crops have responded favorably to the warmer weather, Armstrong, Vernon, Oyama, Winfield & Okanagan Centre:

Since our last report the weather has been a little cooler with temperatures mostly in the 80's and the occasional rainstorm. On August 3 the Vernon area experienced a heavy rain which was accompanied by some hail but no commercial loss was recorded.

Tree fruits are sizing satisfactorily. Yellow Transparents have been harvested with some orchards running slightly over their estimates. First picking of Duchess is being made as mature fruit. Peach plums are being picked and the cherry crop is all over. Apricot picking is in full swing and it looks as though most of the crop will be off the trees by this week end. At present there is a considerable drop of prunes going on and it looks as though the size of this fruit will be fairly good. Pears appear to be sizing fairly well with the exception of the odd Bartlett lot that is possibly suffering from winter injury. Picking of Transcendent Crabs will likely be made before the next news letter.

All vegetables are in plentiful supply. Field tomatoes are moving through the packinghouses in considerable volume, the bulk of which

B of M Joint Accounts Fit All Kinds of "Figures"

A lot of people nowadays buy suits or costumes, even houses, tailored to meet their personal requirements. But, too often, the equal need for a "tailored" bank account is overlooked.

In many cases, for instance, married couples, clubs and social groups, do not realize the convenience of operating a Bank of Montreal joint account. Such an account is held by two or more persons. Withdrawal arrangements can be made as desired. Sometimes, it is agreed that any one of the parties can draw independently to any amount. In other cases, it may be stipulated that two or more signatures are required on every cheque.

It's easy to see how valuable these "tailored" joint accounts are. For household financing, for encouraging family savings projects and for keeping association funds "on top", there is no sounder method. Charles Guernsey, accountant of the B of M's West Summerland branch will gladly explain all the details of a joint account "tailored to your needs. Why not consult Mr. Guernsey next time you're passing.—Adv.

Top Honors At Final Festival Talent Show

Top honors in the final Peach Festival talent show in Penticton on Friday night went to 11-year-old Terry Sagmoen of Trout Creek.

Second in the contest and a winner of a semi-final program was Mrs. Alfred Letts, the former Miss Shirley Gardener, of Summerland. Terry, who plays a top-notch

Hawaiian electric guitar, was judged the winner over four other finalists from three previous preliminary contests. He won $35 in prize money as well as the honor of appearing in the musical show which will precede the crowning of Queen Valvedette the Sixth, Miss Margaret Brett, on the eve of the Peach Festival, August 20.

This is the way I used to make it. He told me how to pick veal, how to cook it slowly, with such evaporation that the soup would turn into jelly later, then how to cut it up and press it with one pan inside another and eat it cold."

Does this attitude work in business? Does it? I could cite scores of illustrations.

Charles R. Walters, of one of the large banks in New York City, was assigned to prepare a confidential report on a certain corporation. He knew of only one man who possessed the facts, the president. As Mr. Walters was ushered into his office, a young woman stuck her head through a door and told the president that she didn't have any stamps for him that day.

"I am collecting stamps for my 12-year-old son," the president explained.

Mr. Walters stated his mission, and began asking questions. The president was vague, general, nebulous. The interview was brief and barren. Mr. Walters didn't know what to do. Then he remembered that the foreign department of his bank collected stamps, taken from letters pouring in from every continent.

"The next afternoon I called on this man again," said Mr. Walters, "and sent in word that I had some stamps for his boy. He greeted me radiating smiles. 'My George will love this one,' he kept saying as he fondled the stamps. And look at this. This is a treasure. 'We spent half an hour talking stamps, and then he devoted more than an hour of his time to giving me every bit of information I wanted—without my even suggesting it.'"

If we want to make friends, let's put ourselves out to do things for other people—things that require time, energy and thoughtfulness.

All-Stars Lose Softball Finals To Kelowna Team

Summerland All-Stars came mighty close to walking off with the South Okanagan Championship position in the final games of the B.C. competitions but was knocked out two games out of three by the Kelowna team, Club 13.

First game of the semi-finals was played in Kelowna last Friday night with Terry Parrott on the mound for the Summerland All-Stars, and Porco pitching for Club 13. Summerland had a 2-0 lead until the fourth inning when a series of errors slowed them down to a walk. Then Club 13 loaded the bases and whacked a homer to start the ball rolling for a 13-7 win.

Summerland totalled 7 errors for the game against Kelowna's 6, but the All-Stars fumbled the ball in the wrong places while Club 13 did not press their luck and took it all in their stride.

Hopes went up as Summerland downed the Club 7-4 on their home diamond Sunday. The boys were really playing ball as Hooker and Eyre each hit homers and Bullock and Anderson batted triples. Fitzpatrick, home team pitcher, kept up a steady pace which built up the confidence of the All-Stars. Kelowna changed pitchers in the fourth, Fortney taking over for Anderson.

But Fitzpatrick's steady pace on Sunday couldn't be kept up and on Monday night in Kelowna, last game of the semi-finals, Parrott took over in the fifth. But the damage had already been done and Fortney of Kelowna was the winning pitcher. The score was 9-1.

A 1-0 lead was kept by the All-Stars until the third when Kelowna pulled up its socks. In the third Hooker hit into a double play to lose that inning to the northern team and then in the 5th Hooker's mile drive into the stand was caught by a lucky outfielder which took the wind out of the local boy's sails. Errors again proved their undoing and Kelowna outplayed them.

However, the boys aren't dissatisfied with the results. They found they did better than they expected as this is the first year they reached the finals for the B.C. Championship. A late start and the lack of finances proved definite hindrances but they hope to do as well if not better next year.

Kelowna now plays Vernon on Friday for the Okanagan Championship.

BERT BERRY'S Fishing News

Okanagan Lake has improved some during the latter part of last week especially in the northern part of the lake. One party reports a catch of nine fish with one four-pounder. The tendency now is to fish deeper. Fishing off the drop-offs is still good.

Fish Lake Camp has some pretty fishing but reports show not very many big fish are being caught right now. This will probably improve as the weather cools off.

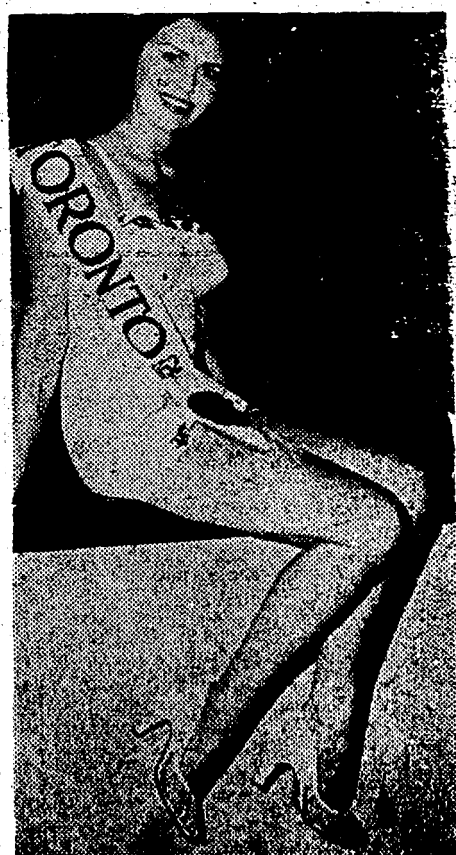

Silver Lake had some good catches this last week.

Peachland Dam has pretty fair fishing.

Glen Lake: No reports from here but if the weather cools off the fishing should be okay.

Shannon Lake has good perch and bass fishing.

Most of the northern spots have reported a slowing down of fishing due to hot weather but will improve as the weather gets colder.

Seeks Beauty Title—Thelma Brewis, 21, Miss Toronto of 1952, will represent Canada at the world-famous "Miss Universe" beauty pageant at Long Beach, California, next month. The long legged beauty will compete with girls from all over the world for the coveted title. The prizes will be three mobile cars, and a $2,500.00 diamond watch.

Local Softballers Play Final League Thriller Tonight

Final game of the Summerland Softball League will be played tonight in the Living Memorial ball park between the league-leading Mac's Aces and the Box Factory team which is in second place. The boys are hoping for plenty of local support for the conclusion of the softball season.

Tuesday night the High School won the game with the Red Sox by default to keep their standing of third place.

Team	P	W	L
Mac's Aces	9	7	2
Box Factory	10	7	3
High School	12	4	8
Red Sox	9	2	7

Wally Day Strikes Out 16 But Macs' Jinx too Much

Summerland ball fans Sunday were treated to the sight of a former familiar figure on the mound when Wally Day handled pitching duties for the Macs but the Vancouver hurler had a taste of the bad luck that has dogged the locals all season and in spite of sending 16 batters back to the dugout swinging, he lost the match with Rutland hits coming in effective bunches and the latter picked up a 4-1 victory in the exhibition tilt.

Rutland batters were able to pick up eight hits off Day during seven and a half innings when Roy Wakabayashi went in to relieve him and held the visitors to two more hits and struck out three of the eight batters who faced him.

Duggan on mound duty for Rutland worked the full game and allowed only seven hits and managed to keep them scattered enough so they weren't effective. Duggan gave up four bases on balls while Day allowed only one pass and Wakabayashi none.

The game remained scoreless during the first four innings and then in the fifth, both teams picked up one runs. Rutland tallied when Morris connected for the only distance hit of the game and stretched it to three bases. It looked as though he would finish the inning on third when Day settled down and struck out the next two men but then Holitzki singled and brought Morris home. Senger followed and also singled but Day went back to his strike-out technique on Fitzpatrick and ended the inning.

Ollie Egely was first up for Macs in the fifth and reached first when hit by a pitched ball. He made second on a passed ball while Kuroda and Day struck out. Hooker's single advanced Egely to third and he then came home on a wild pitch. Gould was given a free pass but he and Hooker were left on base when Kato sent a fly out to center field.

Future for the Macs looked bleak in the seventh when Morris opened the inning with a single. Bach followed and struck out but Duggan came up next and picked up a single. An error by Kato allowed Holitzki to make first to load the bases and then Singer's single brought Morris home and kept the bases filled. Day pulled his own chesnuts out of the fire, though when he retired Fitzpatrick and Wickenheiser with strikes.

At the start of the eighth, Kitch reached base when First Sacker Gould erred and then Day gave up a free pass to Gallagher. Wakabayashi moved in then and it looked as though he was taking a leaf from the Day book when he struck out the first two batters that faced him but then opposing Pitcher Duggan connected though for his third single of the game and rove in the two base runners. Wakabayashi polished off Holitzki with three strikes.

Macs made a desperate bid in the final frame to close up the gap and after Bortoz struck out, they started to get the stage set with Wakabayashi and Hokoer each collecting free passes. Hope faded quickly when Wakabayashi was tagged out trying to reach home on Gould's fielder's choice and Kato went down on a fly to first baseman Fitzpatrick, leaving Gould and Hooker stranded on base.

District Horticulturalist Finds Gophers Cause Of Tree Wilting

By ALEX WATT, District Horticulturalist
Damage from gophers is more general than usual in local orchards this year reports district horticulturalist, Alex Watt. In some cases the growers have discovered wilting of trees but are not aware that gophers are responsible, Mr. Watt says.

The pocket gopher is a rodent about the size of a rat having two pouches on either side of the head. These pouches are an easy means of identification. The gopher's burrow underground forming a network of runways six to twelve inches below the surface. Frequently, mounds of fresh earth are thrown up in the burrowing process and it is these workings that are often the only sign of the gopher's presence in the orchard.

Pocket gophers are vegetable feeders and will frequently gnaw tree roots severely. When this happens the tap root of the tree may be severed completely and all but a mere stump remains of what was once a vigorous branching root system. A slight yellowing or wilting of the tree leaves may be the first sign of gopher damage. When this happens and the cause is not actual water shortage a careful check is necessary to see whether gophers are present.

Control of pocket gophers is by poisoning or trapping.

A suitable poisoning method is described on the 1953 Tree Fruit Spray Calendar put out jointly by the B.C. and Canada Departments of Agriculture. The poison consists of 1/8 oz. powdered strychnine, 4 oz. of powdered sugar. These two ingredients are mixed and dusted onto 4 quarts of cubed carrots or parsnips. The operator probes for the runway with a small shovel or trowel, starting in the vicinity of a fresh mound. He cleans out the runway, inserts a spoonful of carrots and covers over the runway. He proceeds in this way until a good coverage is made of the entire orchard.

ers have been going over their pear trees lately for the few pieces of fire-blight present which should help materially in preventing trouble after the crop is harvested.

Rochester and Jubilee peaches are being harvested. The size of the fruit is very satisfactory on these varieties and the 'V' peaches which should be ready in a week also give every indication of being of good size. Dr. Jules will be harvested this week with Bartlett pears commencing within a week in Osoyoos.

The 1953 season has not been a good one for the ground crop grower this year. Many cucumber fields are practically finished. The volume of tomatoes has not increased as rapidly as usual and cantaloupe harvest is delayed. Harvesting of zucca melons has started on some fields.

are going out as mature greens. Fall planted onions and silver skins are being harvested. The local cannery is working to capacity canning beans and apricots but are not expected to start their tomato run for some time yet.

Second crop of alfalfa is practically all out, the bulk of which, is being baled. Tonnage appears to be on the light side in most cases. Harvesting of grain is in full swing and some good yields are being reported.

Woolly and green aphids and mites are showing up in many orchards. Second brood codling moth appears to be later than usual and it is likely that second brood codling moth sprays will be applied this coming week.

Grasshoppers are quite active in many sections of the Vernon area but good control is being reported with the recommended sprays. Penticton, Naramata, Kaleden, Keremeos:

As reported August 4: After a two-week period of reasonably good weather, unsettled conditions developed yesterday. Some rain fell last night.

Deliveries of apricots have generally been good, both in size and quality; some lots have been excellent. Wenatchee Moorparkers are now past the peak and Tiltons are getting under way. It now appears that apricots will not reach estimates. The outlook for peaches does not at the moment appear as good as apricots. On trees that are in good vigor or were blossom-thinned the peaches are coming along very well. However, there are a number of "starved-looking" trees in the district and other trees that have not been thinned too well and peaches on these trees are undersized for this time of year. Some Golden Jubilee are expected this next week-end. The outlook for pears is somewhat similar to that for peaches.

Codling Moth captures were made all last week but have now tapered off. Many growers are applying second-brood Codling Moth sprays now. The Green Apple Aphid continues to be a nuisance while the European Red Mite is proving to be exceedingly difficult to bring under control in some orchards. Apart from the European Red Mite and the occasional Two-Spot Mite, infestations of other species of mites on apples and pears are unusually light or non-existent for this time of year. Rust Mite on cherries is fairly evident and Pear Psylla appears to be more persistent than in previous years.

The picking of tomatoes has started in the Keremeos-Cawston area and should be moving in volume this week. Okanagan Falls, Oliver and Osoyoos:

As reported August 4: During the past two weeks the weather has been cooler than usual for this time of the year. No rain was recorded during the period.

Sprays for second brood codling moth, mites and woolly aphids are being applied. The woolly aphid problem is much improved over that encountered in 1952. European Red and Rust mites are the two most prevalent species at the moment. Rust mites are most evident on the cherry trees. Grow-

(with a very important man at the base!)

KEY TO FACES:

Top: This man represents The Spirit of Building — especially the building of homes, schools, roads, power plants and other developments often financed by invested life insurance dollars.

Second from top: Here is The Spirit of Health, as promoted through medical research projects aided by life insurance companies. These projects support science's war against polio, cancer, heart disease and processes of aging.

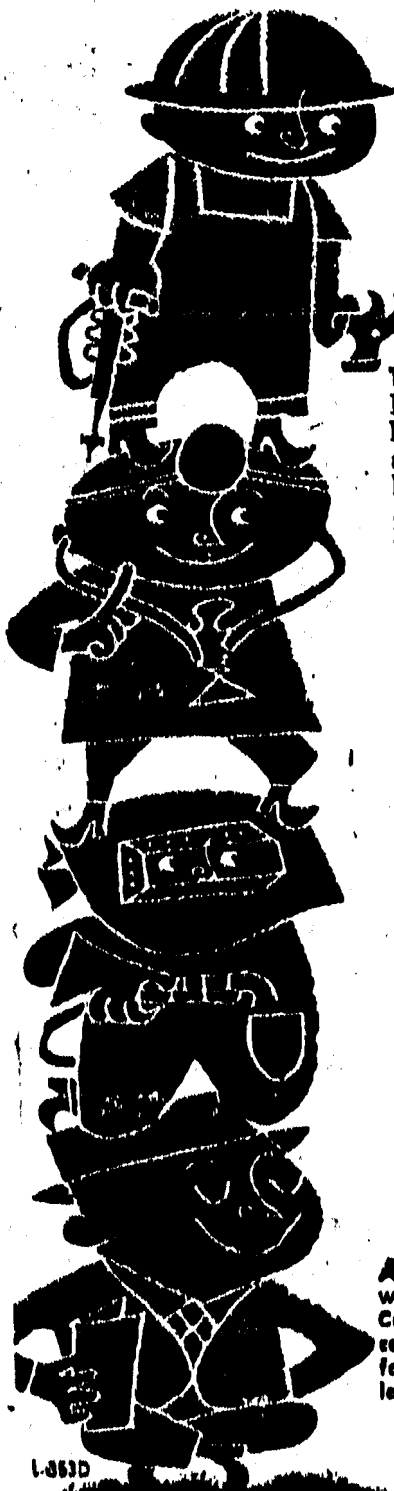

Third from top: The Spirit of Employment is symbolized by this worker. He might be any of the thousands of workers with good jobs in some of Canada's new factories, which life insurance dollars have helped create.

Base: The Spirit of Life Insurance, represented by a policyholder, is put here because in a certain sense all the others depend upon him. It is money from his premiums, invested by his life insurance company, that so often helps them serve you in all these useful ways.

So, if you are a life insurance policyholder, remember — you are more than a good provider for your family. You're also a Very Important Person who's helping to make Canada a better land to live in!

AT YOUR SERVICE — A trained life underwriter, representing one of the more than 50 Canadian, British and United States life insurance companies in Canada, will gladly help you plan for your family's security and your own needs in later years. Rely on him!

28th Annual Flower Show Has Many Prizes

The 28th annual Summerland and District Gladiolus and Flower Show will be held under the auspices of the Summerland Horticultural Society next Wednesday from 3:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Local gardeners will compete for prizes on the lengthy prize list which includes the C. Napier Higgin cup for annuals, the W. H. Malkin cup for asters, the J. W. Jones cup for gladioli, the P. E. Knowles cup for an artistic display of garden flowers, the Dr. Palmer Memorial Bowl for begonias and the Mrs. Magnus Tait Memorial bowl of garden flowers under ten inches.

Others classes in the show are those for nearly every variety of garden flowers. There are 50 classes altogether, including those for children.

Early Fall Nuptials For Miss J. Bennett

Of interest to many in the South Okanagan is the announcement of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bennett of the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Joan Charlotte, to Geoffrey Garneys Johnson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Johnson of East Kelowna.

The bride-elect is a graduate of the School of Home Economics, UBC, where she was affiliated with Delta Sigma Pi. She was a member of the staff of the Penticton Junior-Senior High School for the past year. Her fiancé attended UBC and is employed with the Premier Construction Company.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, September 5, in St. Andrew's United Church, West Summerland. Rev. T. W. Reed will officiate assisted by Rev. C. O. Richmond.

Overall Hail Damage Less Than Originally Expected

Although some growers in the Trout Creek area last week suffered total loss of their peach crop in the hail storm Wednesday night, the total damage to the district has been estimated as being relatively light. The hail storm was one of the most widespread in the history of the district and almost the entire area of Summerland was affected to some extent but the area of severe loss was comparatively small.

After gathering damage reports this week-end, Alec Watt, district horticulturist, reported the worst damage was done to the peach crop which was severely reduced in some orchards. Damage to apples is lighter than was first expected.

Regarding apples, he said a considerable portion of what might otherwise have been extra-fancy grade will be reduced to fancy because of hail marks.

Damage to pears, he stated, does not seem to be serious but prunes are showing considerable cutting and bruising.

Maturing of peaches has been slowed down by the rain and cool weather of the last couple of days and rain is interfering with the picking of Veas and Bartlett pears. Apples, however, appear to be taking on considerable early color as a result of the rain.

Funeral Service For C. P. Evans

A resident of Summerland for nearly 40 years, Claude Percival Evans died on August 22 in Vancouver General Hospital. Mr. Evans, age 69, was a prominent orchardist and citizen in Summerland where he was one of the first pioneers.

Mr. Evans was born in Brandon, Manitoba in 1885, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Evans. For many years he was with the Merchants Bank of Canada until he moved to Summerland to take up fruit farming.

Mr. Evans, who was a member of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, served with Imperial Forces in the first World War.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel; two sons, Dr. Wilfred Evans of Vancouver and William F. Evans of Summerland; a daughter, Mrs. R. D. Spencer of Los Angeles, California, six grand-children, and three sisters, Mrs. I. A. Robinson of Brandon, Manitoba; Mrs. Harold Lazier of Hamilton, Ontario, and Mrs. Jack Howard of Victoria.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from St. Stephen's Anglican Church, Canon F. V. Harrison officiating. Committal was made in the Anglican cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Harry Thornthwaite, Nick Solly, Don Wright, John Bennett, Robin Russel and Bill Bennett.

Swing To Top Quality Apples Reflected in Crop Estimate

Indication of the swing to quality fruit production in the Okanagan is shown in the apple estimates of August 15 with a decrease of more than 42,000 boxes of Wealthy and Duchess indicated while a jump of more than 238,000 boxes of Delicious and Winesap is expected.

The estimates show a very slight decrease when compared to last years production when compared in boxes but this will be more than offset by the development of higher grades.

Certificates Awarded at End Of Swim Classes

Following examinations by Richard Mitchell, B.C. director of the water safety division of the Canadian Red Cross, three classes of awards were presented to the pupils of the water safety instruction school at Powell Beach.

The children received lessons from competent instructors throughout the summer in water safety, artificial respiration and swimming methods.

Receiving awards in the senior group were Loretta Ingles, Margaret Baynes and Ken Pennington. Test for the seniors was a 300-yard swim using any of the three basic strokes, treading water for ten minutes, a number of dives, and a test in artificial respiration as well as a written test.

In the intermediate group, Sheila Daniels, Freida Daniels, Jan Creighton, Eleanor Baynes, Barbara Fudge and Bob Sheeley received awards for their work. Their tests were similar to those of the seniors but they swam only 120 yards.

Junior receiving certificates were Carol Hackman, Bill Ross, John Beavan, Dennis Lackey, Penny Creighton, Murray McArthur, Peter Cannon, Ken Beggs, Magda Wouters and Connie Smith.

To wind up the swimming classes, a beach party was held last Thursday evening at Powell Beach under the auspices of the Rotary Club.

The youngsters were served hot dogs and soft drinks and enjoyed games and a sing song under the direction of Rotary officers.

Tonight a corn roast will be held at Powell Beach for the swimming instructors.

CREEK NEEDS FENCING

Mrs. Paul Pederson of Summerland reported to municipal council on Tuesday that the creek in Lower Town should be fenced in as children playing in the lane near the creek were in danger of falling in. Should a child accidentally fall into the rushing waters, he could not easily escape or be rescued. Councillors are looking into the matter.

Chadburn Back Porch Gets Wide Publicity

Summerland has again gained national newspaper prominence—this time with the help of Godfrey Chadburn's derriere. At the Social Credit picnic on July 1, Godfrey was spayed and his derriere was turned up at the first aid centre for repairs to his back porch after sitting on a stake and found his ex-nurse wife in charge of the surgical department.

Report on the incident appeared in The Review and this week, Mrs. Mel Cousins passed on a clipping from The Toronto Star which reprinted the item from The Review in full gory detail. The paper gets around!

Productive Career Of Top Jersey Ends

In the Valhalla reserved for bovines, a new arrival was no doubt received with the benediction "Well done, good and faithful servant".

To her reward on August 24 went Summerland Standard Flo.

The long and profitable career of Summerland Standard Flo, lifetime Jersey butterfat champion, ended August 24, 1953 at the age of 18 years and seven months. Flo was in good flesh for a cow of her unusually advanced age and had enough vigor for another ten years. However, crippling arthritis made it necessary to end her suffering.

Flo's total lifetime production of 133,194 pounds of milk and 7,856 pounds of butterfat, is the highest yield of any cow bred at Summerland. Since the significance of large figures is difficult to grasp, the total production is brought to an average yield per lactation to make comparison less difficult. Flo averaged 10,245 pounds of milk and 604 pounds of fat each lactation for thirteen lactations. Many cows cannot equal this production for one year alone. Flo has been buried near the barn where she worked so faithfully. A suitable marker is being prepared to record her accomplishments and last resting place.

Annual Flower Show Successful Say Horticultural Society Officials

Walter Powell was winner of the new Dr. Palmer Memorial Bowl at the 28th annual gladioli and flower show of the Summerland Horticultural Society, held yesterday afternoon and last night in the high school auditorium.

The new trophy was awarded for the most points in class No. 6, begonias, 8 blooms, 3 containers, any color or kind, in memory of the late Dr. R. C. Palmer who created the interest in the begonias. The flowers were especially featured at the increasing popularity.

HEADWATERS REPORT

E. Kercher, superintendent of the Water Department, reported to municipal council on Tuesday that Canyon Dam was now empty and he had shut Thirk Dam as the water was going to waste. Thirk Dam, at time of closing, was at the 42-foot level, which is very good for this time of year, he stated.

APPLICATIONS PASSED

Applications were passed at the municipal council meeting Tuesday afternoon for Alex Keah, hot water heater; M. K. Monro, power; Mrs. J. D. Johnston, light, range and water; Baptist Manso, water heater; I. B. McCualg, domestic water and C. McCutcheon, space heating.

Gravity System vs Pump . . .

Plans For Trout Creek Domestic Water Systems Given to Council

Plans whereby ever resident in the Trout Creek area would receive an adequate supply of domestic water was proposed by R. A. Barton of Pentiction, public engineer, to the municipal council at its regular meeting Tuesday afternoon.

First idea, Mr. Barton thought, would be to install a pumping station at Trout Creek point with its own main and branching lines. However, a drawback to this situation would be up keep costs of the machinery and costs of a chlorination plant, although the pump would supply more than enough water to the residents.

A reservoir would have to be installed at a higher altitude to allow a reserve supply of water to build up so that the pump would not be running 24 hours a day.

Another possibility would be to run a main from the municipality reservoir. This would cut down on the water supply of those already using this system, but if meters were installed, the residents would not feel the loss.

Councillors found there were pros and cons to both plans and a decision was not reached. Mr. Barton was asked to look into the matter of the gravity system versus the pump and report to council on costs, upkeep and suitability, etc.

Revelstoke Urges Union Bargaining For Municipality

Suggestion advocated by the Revelstoke city council that the municipalities of the valley and adjacent areas employ a labor-management consultant was considered by the local council on Tuesday.

The consultant would represent the valley and adjacent municipalities to negotiate wages and working conditions with civic workers and their related unions to be paid for on a pro rata basis by the municipalities.

Support for the move was asked in a letter submitted to the Summerland Municipal Council on Tuesday. Councillor F. E. Atkinson who stated he has always favored negotiations on a valley-wide basis, moved that the Revelstoke proposal be submitted for consideration at the quarterly meeting of the Okanagan Municipal Association, which was held today at Oliver.

The Revelstoke council's argument is to the effect that separate negotiations work to the disadvantage of the municipalities. Agreement reached in one municipality is often used as a lever in negotiations with others, the Revelstoke submission claimed.

Besides there is the time and drain upon councillors and cost of securing individual legal opinion. The letter cited Revelstoke's recent negotiations with a union, which had lasted three months and cost $600 for legal counsel. Employment of a labor-management consultant is advisable as a matter of self preservation, the Revelstoke council stated in its letter.

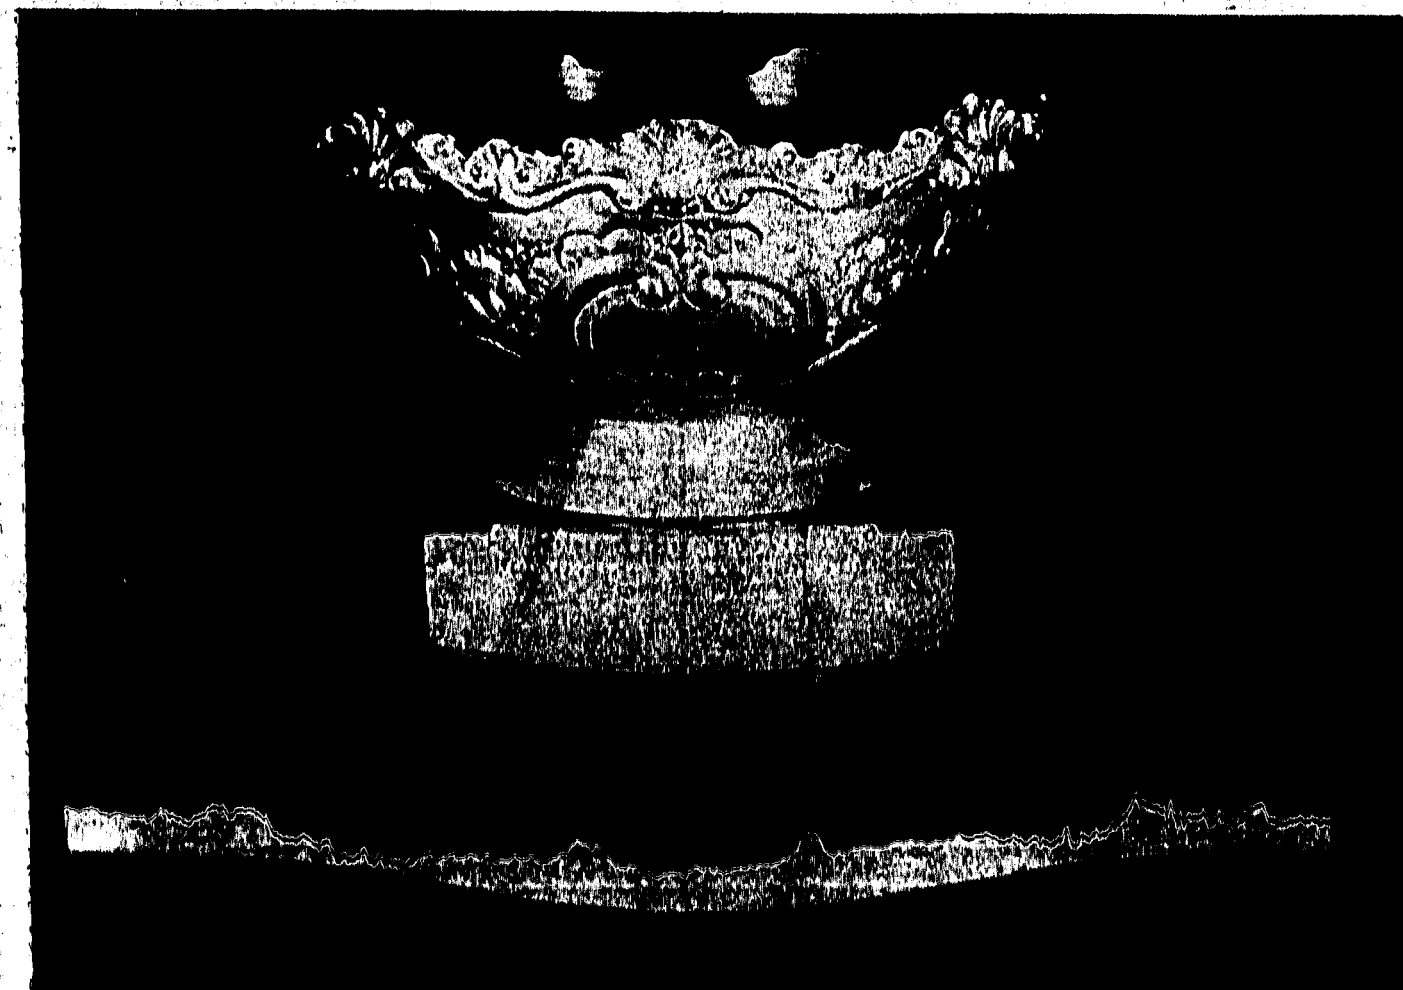

Old-Timer Renews Memories, Friends

An old-timer of Summerland, T. W. Hiscock, revisited the townsite last week to renew old memories and old acquaintances.

Mr. Hiscock moved to Summerland in 1909 and during his many years as a resident in the community, played with George Peters, Tom Kelley and Jack Logie in the Summerland Band, during the first years of its organization.

Mr. Hiscock enlisted at the opening of World War I and after the war lived in Summerland for a few years before travelling to Winnipeg where he now resides.

The friendly old pioneer will be remembered by many old-timers by his experiences with the popular Summerland Band.

Be a Good Listener

I recently met a distinguished botanist at a dinner party. I had never talked to a botanist before, and I literally sat on the edge of my chair the whole evening while he spoke of hashish and potatoes and Luther Burbank and indoor gardens. Midnight came. I said good night and departed. The botanist then turned to our host and paid me some very flattering compliments. I was "most stimulating," a "most interesting conversationalist."

An interesting conversationalist? I had said hardly anything at all. I couldn't have said anything for I had wanted to without changing the subject, for I know nothing about botany. But I had done this: I had listened intently, because I was genuinely interested. And he felt it. Naturally that pleased him. That kind of listening is one of the highest compliments we can pay.

And that is the secret of success alike in social conversation and in a business interview. Remember that the man you are talking to is a hundred times more interested in himself and his wants and problems than he is in you and your problems. His toothache means more to him than a famine in China. Think of that the next time you start a conversation. And if you want people to like you, be a good listener. Encourage them to talk about themselves.

Pioneer Days

From Early Files of The Review

Forty-Five Years Ago

Alex Steuart reported an apricot tree, three years old, on his lot produced, during the season, 12 crates of fruit which sold at $1.25 per crate.

The Civilian Rifle Association scores stood at: F. Monro 86, G. Gartrell 85, M. Steuart 82, W. Nelson 81, S. A. Liddell 79, F. Nixon 77 and B. Steuart 71.

Work was commenced on the New Baptist Church on Siwash Flats.

A. S. Hatfield and F. J. Nixon were busy organizing a swimming club for the municipality.

The new block being erected on Shaughnessy avenue by R. H. English was nearing completion and when finished was to be occupied by V. Taylor as a harness and shoe store.

Hedley invited the local baseball team to go there for Labor Day and play for a purse of $200.

The new name for Siwash Flats was to be either Ritchie or Giant's Head was the decision of a number of residents who met in the Supply Company's store. Chairman of the meeting was Rev. G. J. C. White and other business included the promise by the postmaster general that a post office would be installed as soon as the name was selected.

From August 1 to August 27 inclusive 47 tons of fruit and vegetables were shipped out of Summerland for points east and west.

Thirty-Five Years Ago

Thirty thousand dollars was asked for by the municipal council to be expended on the irrigation system. Estimates were made by Water Superintendent R. Mitchell, together with J. J. Mitchell. Doubling the capacity of the creek from Trout Creek to the reservoir and improving and enlarging the north main were included in the plans. It was proposed to add a foot or more to the height of the dam on Trout Creek and to widen and raise the sides of the canal to the reservoir.

To finance this scheme the council planned to ask the ratepayers for permission to issue debentures worth $30,000 at 8 percent interest maturing from two to ten years. A public meeting was held.

An addition to the high school was being planned to house science and manual training classes. H. W. Harvey was employed to draw up plans for the work.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

In order to give young fish an opportunity to mature it was decided by J. A. Motherwell, chief inspector of fisheries, to close all streams leading to Okanagan Lake for three years.

The annual flower show was a credit to Summerland and to the horticultural society. Competition was keen with the quality better and more classes than in previous years.

The sixth session of summer school at the Log Cabin was in full swing with a capacity attendance. Statistics proved that the Okanagan Valley produced more than 80 percent of the tree fruits of the province.

Playing at the Rialto Theatre was a hilarious comedy, "Partners Again" starring Potash and Perlmutter.

B. C. fruits were hard hit on the prairies by U.S. shipments which landed on the markets cheaper and earlier because dumping duties were gone.

Specials at the Groceria were butter at 50 cents per pound, sugar at 7 cents per pound and lemons at 35 cents a dozen.

Five Years Ago

The critical butter shortage in Canada was brought to the crisis stage by panic buying. Many Okanagan users were buying more than their needs and storing it.

J. A. Young, a member of the staff of the British High Commissioners office at Ottawa, addressed a meeting of the Rotary Club giving his listeners an insight into his findings during his tour of Canada in search of information regarding the latest trends in agriculture.

Six Summerland members of the local branch of St. John's Ambulance Association received word that they were successful in passing their industrial first aid exams. They were: Kenneth W. Broderick, James L. Brown, Walter D. Charles, Carl A. Monu, Charles H. Denike and Donald W. Tait.

Specials at the Groceria were coffee at 59 cents a pound and ham at 40 cents a pound.

Magnus Tait was the winner of the Penton Peach Festival grand prize of a Chrysler sedan.

Both the elementary and the high schools were being cleaned and polished in preparation for the opening of school.

Playing at the Rialto Theatre was "Her Husband's Affairs" starring Luella Ball, Franchot Tone and Edward Everett Horton.

The Summerland float entry in the Penton Peach Festival parade won first prize in its class.

George Dunson was leading the local rifle shooters with a score of 96.

Miss Monica Stokes and George Fudge brought home the Okanagan Centre challenge trophy for mixed doubles from the annual tennis finals.

Why So Formal?

When a construction friend of ours was recently admitted to the hospital he heard a knock on the door of his room. He called out for whoever it was to come in, and in comes a snappy little woman.

"I'm your doctor," she said to him. "Take your clothes off, please."

The construction man asked her if she meant all his clothes and she told him that's just what she did mean.

So he took off all his clothes and she examined him; nose, throat, chest, stomach, thighs, feet. When she got through she announced: "You may get into bed. Do you have any questions?"

"Just one," said the construction man, "Why did you knock?"

'Litterbugs' Costly . . . everyone must play a part

THE B.C. Automobile Association appeals to all motorists setting out on vacation trips to avoid being a "Litterbug".

A Litterbug is one who leaves a trail of paper, boxes, and bits of food along the highway. Other types of Litterbugs specialize in scribbling on and defacing shrines and sites of national interest.

Now that we are at the height of the travel season the BCAA wishes to remind all motorists that motoring lanes and favored recreation areas are being spoiled by the clutter of rubbish and trash. Each one of us can do his part in keeping the countryside attractive and clean by disposing of waste paper in the proper containers. If no containers are available, it is the motorist's responsibility to carry the papers in the car until he can dispose of them in some suitable place.

When you are on the highway think of what the roadsides would be like if every car driver threw out that empty cigarette package or empty pop bottle. And when you are at that picnic spot, think what it would be like if all the picnickers left their waste paper on the ground. And when you are at a national or provincial park think of the cost to you, the taxpayer, to pay others to clean up the rubbish you left behind.

The BCAA estimated that travel this year has reached an all time high. Don't spoil our beautiful countryside with scraps of paper and waste. Do think of the other fellow. Don't be a Litterbug.

Wages in Sterling? . . . good test of practicability

WHILE ago the Canadian Congress of Labor proposed that Canada accept sterling as payment for part of this country's exports to the United Kingdom. The sterling so acquired could, according to the CCL, be used to buy more goods from the United Kingdom. This is certainly worth considering, as the non-convertibility of some currencies, is a sizeable block to world trade.

A good way to test the practicability of the CCL proposal would be for the members of CCL unions in Canada to undertake to accept payment of a portion of their weekly wages in sterling. The grocer and butcher wouldn't be likely to accept settlement of the grocery bill in sterling. Nor would the CCL find it easy to persuade the international headquarters of its various unions in the United States to accept union dues allocations from Canada in pounds.

Accepting payment in sterling suffers from the same disability as accepting payment by cheque from someone whose intentions are of the best but whose credit rating is low. The cheques of such persons, just like pound notes, are not freely convertible. Until the United Kingdom achieves sufficient economic strength to make convertibility a reality, a lot of people, including the membership of the CCL itself, are likely to be extremely leery about accepting payment in sterling. That being so, it is illogical to suggest that the Government accept currency that is unacceptable to the ordinary citizen.

Other Opinions

Other Editors Say:

Tower Of Babel

Dr. Ernest Hooton, Harvard anthropologist, makes a scathing comment on the United Nations: "I doubt whether herding together are representatives of states incapable of governing themselves with states that aspire to subjugate the whole world, in a Tower of Babel on the New York waterfront, is going to bring durable universal peace—not even if this mess of statesmen is seasoned with a liberal dose of goodwill and sincerity."

He also wonders (as quoted in Saturday Evening Post) "how long we are going to cling to the belief that when peoples get to know each other, they will love each other. This is a fallacious supposition. Take the institution of matrimony, for example."

Road Safety Plans Deserve Full Support

Well meant but so unrealistic as to prove impossible of enforcement are some provincial laws covering use of the highways. Chief among them, perhaps, is the regulation setting the speed limit at fifty miles per hour.

In a modern vehicle which is sound mechanically, fifty miles is a safe and comfortable speed but one so far below capacity as to be largely ignored. Modern highways built in the post war period are designed for higher limits and yet the law is unchanged and expensive warning signs continue to be set out.

Two developments in highway safety are of current interest as the B.C. government moves to try to restrict the increasing toll of accidents.

More and more use is being made in the courts of the impaired driving section of the law under which prosecutions are usually more successful than when proof of drunkenness was obligatory. The government is also moving to restrict drivers with bad accident records by means of a point system said to have been successful in Manitoba.

In these moves, the government's law enforcement officers deserve heartiest public support. Auto accidents of a serious and usually avoidable nature are a week by week event in the North Okanagan as in all other parts of the province.—Verdon News.

THE MILL IS GRINDING

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has just voted to recommend to its ricket-riden affiliate, the International Longshoremen's Association. In the light of the New York Crime Commission's exhaustive investigation and shocking disclosures of conditions along the piers of the nation's biggest port, are the officers being timid in not urging flat expulsion?

Quite a few people, in situations such as that presented by the I.L.A. demand that the parent organization take the member union by the scruff of the neck and make it behave. Paradoxically, the same people in other situations talk fearfully about the great power of the labor "dictators".

What informed observers say that AFL leadership has in mind is giving the longshoremen's union the full benefit of "due process" in what amounts to a trial. In this instance it allows the I.L.A. administration of Joseph P. Ryan one more month in which to clean house. No house cleaning of any union can be effective unless the rank and file support it. And such is the tradition of autonomy among AFL unions that there is some question whether the convention would back up its officers on a recommendation to expel unless there had been first at least a token period of suspension.

It is said the AFL leaders doubt that the discredited Ryan administration can clean house. The process then would be to revoke the I.L.A. charter and recharter its locals, one by one, directly by the AFL, as they give evidence of having ejected racketeers and elected responsible officers. These "federation locals" could then be grouped into a new "international" solidly built on rank-and-file reform and able eventually to supplant whatever remnants of the old I.L.A. may remain.

Viewed in the light of this outlook, the AFL strategy looks solid rather than timid. Even honest dockers often settle their differences with their fists and the "goon squads" don't stop at cargo hooks. Reforming the water front is likely to be a rough affair at best. The AFL can hardly be blamed for planning its campaign carefully.—Christian Science Monitor.

Creeping Paralysis

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

In a pre-election editorial, the Simcoe Reformer recalled that "Canadians were very independent and self-reliant people, until our election campaigns took on the appearance of auction sales of social security measures." And the editor wondered "if it is the shape of things to come that we are to find social security the main issue of our elections, of seeing one political party raising the social security measures." And the editor wondered "if it is the shape of things to come that we are to find social security the main issue of our elections, of seeing one political party raising the social security ante of some other political party, promising more and better pensions, medical services and so forth?"

Commenting on this, the Shawinigan Standard wonders: "What has happened to our people . . . Are we becoming less able to earn our living, to manage our own finances, or to care for our young, our aged, and our sick? And Canada, it is said, is experiencing the most prosperous and highest economic era of its history. One may ask is it social security we are getting or a mild creeping form of socialism?"

This last question reminded me of the sad case of a friend who was well to do financially, and who, for no apparent reason, was gradually losing the use of his right arm. He tried all kinds of embrocations and internal tonics until the other arm began to be affected in the same way. Finally he went to a clinic for a general physical examination, and he was told that he was suffering from creeping paralysis for which there was no cure. That is exactly what is happening or will happen eventually as a result of this craze for social security. It is a well known law of nature that if we cease to exercise a faculty we lose the use of it.

A recent issue of the British Weekly contained a letter from a reader, E. J. Collins, of Wolverton, Bucks., in which the writer quotes the following wise words of John Bright, the great English Quaker statesman of the latter half of the nineteenth century: "There is only one way that is safe for any man or any number of men by which they can maintain their present position, if it is a good one, or raise themselves above it, if it is a bad one—that is by the practice of the virtues of industry, frugality, temperance and honesty. There is no Royal road by which men can raise themselves from a position which they feel to be uncomfortable and unsatisfactory, as regards their mental and physical condition except by the practice of these virtues."

"I would recommend every man to pay no attention whatever to public writers or speakers, whoever they may be, who tell them this class or that class, that this law or that law, this government or that government, can do this thing for them. After long reflection and much observation I can assure you that there is no way for the working classes to improve their condition but that which so many of them have already availed themselves of—that is the practice of these virtues and the reliance on God and themselves."

The writer of the letter suggests that "trade union leaders, and others who are sabotaging the security of the nation, would do well to note these words by John Bright." He declares that "a major danger today is not infantile paralysis but anti-work paralysis. Service is the rent we pay for our own life here, and if we are to weave a better present and future into the tapestry of the past, we must remember that work is a challenge and not a task. The root cause of the world's mess is in the individuals, not in systems only. Communism can be broadly defined as the devil's caricature of Christianity." All of which is well and truly said.

Jest a Minute—

The green car rolled to a halt and the driver leaned out of the window and called to the old man with a cane. "Am I on the right road to Haney?" he said.

The old man looked up and said "Eh?" The driver shouted, "Am I on the right road to Haney?"

"You'll hev to talk a leetle louder, young feller, I'm a mite deaf," the old man replied.

The driver tried a third time, then realizing the case was hopeless, continued on his way.

He travelled about three miles when he came to a farmhouse in front of which the farmer's wife was standing.

He stopped the car and called: "Am I on the . . . ?"

"Keep right on this road," she said, "I heard you the first time!"

Mid-Week Message

Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit, you like men, be strong. (I Corinthians 16:13.) Read II Timothy 2:8-15.

Early in his African ministry, worn with fevers and exposure and exertion, David Livingstone had to face squarely the fact that he might meet death in the jungle. No one would have condemned him had he chosen to go back to England. But he did not go. He reasoned this way, as he himself wrote: "If we serve God at all, it must be done in a manly way."

In a manly way—that was Paul's counsel to the Corinthians against whom the luxury and sins of a great city were always conspiring to make soft Christians, lovers of ease rather than lover of God. The Corinth of Paul's day is hot so very far away from where you and I live today.

"If we serve God at all, it must be done in a manly way," said Livingstone. That is the only way we can overcome the world which opposes the lordship of Christ; it is the only way we can meet victoriously the marching millions who do not believe in God. We must quit ourselves like men to remain in the service of the King.

PRAYER

Almighty God, Thou are the source of strength for our weakness. Help us to lean more on Thee, to dare more for Thee, and so help bring in the rule of Christ in the hearts of men. In His name. Amen.

The Lighter Side

An inmate of the asylum approached the painter hard at work painting the ceiling. "Hey minister, have you got a good hold on that brush?"

"I think so—why?"

"Well, hang on tight — I'm gonna move the ladder."

"Daughter," said the mother, "Didn't I tell you not to let strange men come to your apartment? You know things like that worry me."

"Don't be ridiculous, Mother," laughed the girl. "I went to his apartment. Now let his mother worry."

"Women will flee from temptation, while men will crawl away, with the cheerful hope that it may catch up to him."

Great Improvement

A fellow was pretty sick and the doctor ordered him to take a long vacation in Arizona. He went there and at the end of two months he died. They brought the corpse back to Vancouver and his wife and her brother were viewing the remains.

She said: "Oh, Joe, doesn't he look nice?"

And Joe replied: "He sure does. Those two months in Arizona sure done him a lot of good!"

Last Hope—

The prisoner's attorney was at a dead end. "Jim," he said, "I filed a motion in justice of the Peace Court in your behalf, and we got denied. Then I filed a Writ of Habeas Corpus in your behalf in Circuit Court, and we got denied. Next I filed an appeal with the State Supreme Court—there, too, we were denied."

"Finally, I filed a Writ in the highest court in the land, the United States Supreme Court. Again it was the same old story."

"Now, Jim, as your faithful counsellor, I feel it is my duty to inform you that the only place left for you to file is the bars of your cell!"

Too Efficient—

A fellow ran into the fire engine house and very excitedly shouted: "I'm sorry to bother you, but my wife has disappeared again."

"That's too bad," sympathized the captain of the station, "but why tell us? Why not notify the police?"

"Well, I'll tell you," explained the bothered man, "I told the police the last time she disappeared and they went out and found her!"

Either As Vegetables Or Fruits Tomatoes May Be Used Often

To the legal authority, the tomato is a vegetable. To the botanist it is a fruit, but to the wise homemaker it is both, for it may be used as either. It is the gardener's favorite too, as almost every garden boasts at least a few plants. And since tomatoes are plentiful now, you'll want to use them as often and in as many ways as you can.

First of all, it is important that you make a good choice in buying your tomatoes. It is wise to buy tomatoes which are well-formed, firm, plump and smooth. They should have good red color and be just ripe rather than under or over-ripe. If you find a few irregularly shaped tomatoes among those you have bought, use them for stewing, or if your tomatoes are underripe, ripen them at room temperature instead of on a window sill.

There are two reasons for this—the summer sun is too hot, and too much sunlight may actually prevent the color developing or making the color spotty. Since light is not necessary to produce good red color, the kitchen cupboard is the right temperature and it makes a good place for ripening tomatoes. While the refrigerator is the best place for storing ripe tomatoes, underripe ones should not be kept in the refrigerator as the cold stops the ripening and the tomatoes become watery.

As for serving tomatoes, the possibilities for using this versatile food are unlimited. What is better than vine-ripened tomatoes for salads! They are good mixers with practically all vegetables and the number of pleasing combinations is almost unlimited. When using tomatoes in a salad, it is better to cut them length-wise instead of crosswise. This is the French way and you lose much less juice.

A "Dagwood" salad-sandwich is a novelty salad which will appeal to teenagers. To make this treat, you start with a slice of buttered bread, then alternate layers of sliced tomatoes with a layer of sliced meat, potato salad, sliced cheese or egg sandwich filling and then top with another slice of bread.

Stuffed tomatoes are favorites of many people, for either cooked or uncooked, stuffed tomatoes have a definite appetitive appeal. They are delicious stuffed with a liver and crisp bacon filling or with cottage cheese seasoned with chives or green pepper and mixed with mayonnaise. They are good too, stuffed with potato salad.

Use a scooped out tomato shell as a mould for a jellied vegetable salad. It tastes good, it is attractive, and so easy to make. Simply prepare your favorite jellied vegetable salad and, after you have added the vegetables, spoon it into the tomato shells and put them into the refrigerator until serving time, when you will top them with mayonnaise.

Broiled tomatoes are popular with many families. They are delicious when cut in half, sprinkled generously with grated cheese, seasoned with basil and then broiled. Served this way, they add much to almost any luncheon or dinner plate.

If you are lucky enough to grow your own tomatoes, you might like to try this recipe for ripe tomato marmalade. It is a tart and very different spread for your breakfast toast.

Ripe Tomato Marmalade
10 medium tomatoes (2½ pounds),
2 lemons,

Blanch, peel and cut the tomatoes into small pieces. Slice the lemons very thinly, then cut the slices into quarters. Place the tomatoes and lemons in a saucepan. Cover tightly and cook gently for 45 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. Remove cover, increase heat and cook until somewhat thickened about 15 minutes, stirring more frequently.

Add sugar, bring to boiling and boil, uncovered, for 2 to 5 minutes or until a thermometer indicates 220 degrees F. Pour into hot sterilized jars leaving at least ¼ inch headspace. Allow to cool slightly, then pour a thin layer of melted paraffin over the marmalade, rotating the jar so that the wax will cling to the jar to form a close seal. When the paraffin has hardened, add a second layer and again rotate the jar. Cover and store in a cool, dry place. Yield: about 5 cups.

Experimental Farm Introduces New Commercial Cherry

The Summerland Experimental Station has just introduced its third promising commercial black cherry, reports A. J. Mann.

This variety, which has been named Sam, maintains the tradition of high quality, firmness and productivity which was set by the Station's two former introductions, Van and Star.

Like Star, Sam is an earlier variety than Bing and was introduced in order to spread the cherry season and to lessen the risk of damage by cracking in wet weather.

Budwood is being distributed only to commercial nurseries, and trees of Sam should be available from these firms in 1955

AOTS Convention Planned For Sept.

The fifth annual round-up for British Columbia of AOTS Clubs (As One That Serves) will be held at the Christian Leadership Training School at Naramata from September 5 to 7.

The purpose of the round-up is to train men in the techniques and skills of AOTS work. It is particularly helpful to club officers and committee chairmen. AOTS men numbering approximately 200 from the various clubs in B.C. will attend the three-day session.

Sessions will be opened by chairman Alan Macdonald at a luncheon on September 5. Highlights of the convention will be panel discussions and the program will include volley ball, softball, swimming, etc., under the direction and leadership of Bill Steele and Charles Burritt.

Participating in panel discussions will be Elmore Philipott, HP, Dr. W. G. Black, Hector McKay, Don Morton, Roy Johnson, Dr. Harry Grant, Harry Murphy and Tom Galloway of Vancouver, Alex Richardson of Duncan and Bill Dobbs of Rossland.

Also on the program will be a camp fire program on the evening of September 5 conducted by Jimmy Spark and Marc Grimmett. Members of the AOTS choir will conduct a sing-song.

Open air worship on September 6 will be conducted by Rev. R. A. McLaren, principal of the Training School, with speaker Rev. Gerald B. Switzer Ph.D., minister of Central United Church, Calgary, and followed by entertainment and fellowship hour.

G. Brydon McCrea of Winnipeg, president of the AOTS National Council, will be in attendance.

Horticulturalists Hear William Snow

A timely topic in view of the annual flower show which was held here yesterday was William Snow's talk on hints to exhibitors at a meeting of the Summerland Horticultural Society held last Friday evening in the Parish hall.

Also present at the regular monthly meeting was G. H. Down, president of the Alberta Horticultural Association, who gave a short address on the work of his association in fostering the love of gardening among not only adults but also junior members.

At the close of the meeting tea was served by the ladies of the Summerland Horticultural Society.

Vivacious, provocative Marilyn Monroe is shown here with Joseph Cotten in one of the scenes from "Niagara" which will be showing at the Pine Drive-In Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This 20th Century Fox technicolor film is termed as being as electric and spectacular as Niagara itself.

Every Citizen Responsible...

Home And Church Play Vital Role In Curbing Juvenile Delinquency

The home and the church have vital roles to play in the prevention of juvenile delinquency, alcoholism, drug addiction and other psycho-social illnesses of our society, affirms Dr. C. A. Roberts, chief of medical health for the department of national health and welfare, in a recent article in Health. Every citizen has a share in the responsibility for removing the conditions in our communities which cause or contribute to these troubles.

Holidaying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Turnbull are their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Turnbull and daughter, Linda Marie, of Victoria.

Holidaying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wright who is with the Vancouver Peach Festival guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. O'Mahoney was Mrs. Thelma Dawson of Vancouver. Mrs. Dawson is the provincial field organizer for the Canadian Cancer Society.

Guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dempster are their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Lane and family of Long Beach, California.

Visiting for a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Walden are their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David Nesbitt, Jean and Margaret, Miss Arline Corbin of Kamloops and Mrs. Robert Ballard of Calgary, Alberta.

Weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bates were Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Payne of Regina, Saskatchewan. Mr. Payne is the poultry commissioner for Saskatchewan.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Wright were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Passell of Kelowna, Miss Jessie Carter of Portland, Oregon and Rev. and Mrs. D. B. Davidson and daughter, Donna Jean, of Rittman, Ohio.

Guest last week at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Gould, was Mrs. Tom Last of Tisdale, Saskatchewan.

Mrs. Harry Freeman and children of Vancouver were holidaying for five weeks at the Trout Creek cottage of Mrs. Freeman's mother, Mrs. Hugh Sharman. Mr. Freeman arrived to spend a fortnight with his family and return with them to their home at the coast.

Houseguests last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilburn were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Townsend, Garth, Dorothy and Donna of Choceland, Saskatchewan, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKay, of Nipawin, Saskatchewan.

"The more we study drug addiction, juvenile delinquency, and even the problems of our aging citizens, the more we realize that these result from a failure of our present social patterns to meet adequately the needs of the individual," writes the psychiatrist.

"We are justifiably proud of our standard of living as measured by the material things it provides in our environment. To a lesser extent we boast of the improvement our progress has brought in nutrition and physical health. Too seldom do we measure our standard of living in terms of human happiness and contentment. . . . More and more we are focussing attention on our physical needs while failing to provide an opportunity for the individual to feel he is a worthwhile citizen performing useful tasks and gaining for himself substantial satisfaction through accomplishment.

Dr. Roberts cites as the first essential in the making of useful citizens the provision of a home life full of love and security—in addition to proper diet, proper clothing, warmth and comfort. The infant must feel wanted.

"One wonders how such a climate can be provided in the over-crowded slums of our cities, in homes where there is discord between parents, in homes torn by alcoholism, separation or divorce, or when other such factors are present to mar the environment of the growing child."

The second need is for a re-evaluation of our moral and ethical standards, Dr. Roberts maintains. To develop normally, a child must grow in a proper atmosphere of right and wrong, or good and bad. From the first he must learn that certain actions on his part are to his advantage while others bring undesired results; this his behaviour in a group is necessarily related to that of others in the group, and if he wants to get along he has to give as well as to receive benefits.

"In meeting the challenge of all the psycho-social conditions the church has a vital role," he goes on. "No other agency has the same access to the individual, and through this relationship the church has a responsibility to prescribe many of the social and moral standards of our communities and of the people who make up these communities."

The school is also important, having a duty to each for future living. The teacher, even more than the school, in a more personal and meaningful way has a terrific impact on the growing child. The attitudes, behavior and moral values of the teacher often set the behaviour pattern for our children—particularly is this true of children coming from discordant homes. School, church, and other community organizations should not be allowed to replace family activities or to make life easier for parents, however, warns Dr. Roberts.

Flin Flon Reunion Held at Station

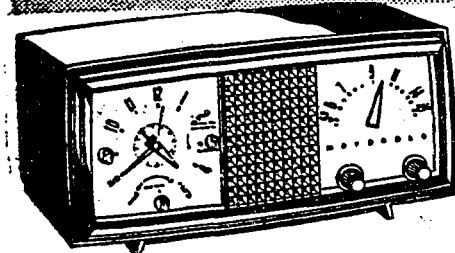

A group of 75 past residents of Flin Flon, Alberta, gathered on Sunday at the Dominion Experimental Farm for their annual reunion.

Flin Floners from as far north as Rutland and Kelowna and as far south as Lulu Island and from many districts in the Okanagan Valley and Fraser Valley gathered for the social afternoon which was under the convener'ship of Colin Campbell.

Each family brought a basket lunch and while the children played games, the adults renewed old acquaintances and memories.

The special classes are the J. R. J. Stirling Memorial Trophy for junior class; Better Fruit Trophy, and Dr. R. C. Palmer Memorial Trophy. J. R. J. Stirling Memorial

Donated by BCFG A. This trophy—a silver tray, suitably engraved which becomes the permanent property of the winner—will be awarded for the best collection of three plates of tree fruits, submitted by growers' sons and daughters, who have not yet reached their nineteenth birthdays. This class may be composed either of apples or pears or stone fruits or a combination made up from these three kinds, but no two plates may be of the same variety. Additional first prize, one case apple juice from B.C. Fruit Processors Limited; second prize, $100.00, donated by the BCFG A. Third, $6.00 donated by the BCFG A; fourth, $4.00, donated by the BCFG A (Won in 1952 by Bill Ward, Jr., Summerland.)

Better Fruit Trophy
To encourage quality in production, Buckerfield's Limited has again donated a splendid trophy, a massive silver tray, suitably engraved. (Won in 1952 by Mr. F. Segerstrom, Oyama.)

This trophy will be awarded for the best collection of three plates of tree fruits grown and entered by an individual grower in his or her name. This class may be composed of either apples, pears or stone fruits, or a combination of these three kinds; but no two plates may be of the same variety.

Dr. R. C. Palmer Memorial
Presented by the employees of the Experimental Station, Summerland, in memory of their late Superintendent. Most points in box or crate exhibits, classes 42 to 50 and 52 to 56, plus one case apple juice and 300 lbs. 16-20 fertilizer; second, 200 lbs. 16-20 fertilizer; third, 100 lbs. 16-20.

Indian Suicide Attempts Foiled
An attempted suicide was averted at Trout Creek Sunday evening by local RCMP with the aid of several local citizens.

A quartet of Indians were evidently still celebrating the Peach Festival when, after an argument with her companion, one of the Indian women decided to drown herself.

A passing motorist raced into Pentiction to report a body floating in the lake and the inhalator squad and policemen sped to the scene.

The Indian woman didn't want to be rescued. She tangled with an officer who swam to the rescue, they both went under, the woman, fainting from exhaustion was pulled aboard, but not before another mountie went overboard to the rescue.

The inhalator crew spent 40 minutes reviving the woman who was from Oroville. Her companions, a woman and two men, were from the Pentiction reserve.

Asked why she wanted to commit suicide she said scornfully, "suicide, me! huh, I'm a professional swimmer. I'll sue somebody for this."

Police are shrugging it off as one of those things which occur in the line of duty and no action was taken against the woman from across the line.

Back home again to his throne in Iran is Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and his beautiful queen Saroya, after a precipitate flight from the country when a coup to unseat Premier Mossadegh failed in the early stages. Later success which climaxed with the arrest of Mossadegh paved the way for the return of the royal couple.

Svelte—That's the only word for this Anne Fogarty design. The neckline is shaped by fine dressmaker touches so that it can be worn either buttoned up, or filled in with a scarf and open to the waist.

There were no fires in the Summerland area this past week reports the local volunteer fire department.

SOCIAL EVENING HELD AT TURNBULL RESIDENCE

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Turnbull were hosts at a social evening at their home Wednesday.

Guests at the affair were Mr. and Mrs. David Turnbull of Victoria, Mrs. D. R. Mathieson, Allan Mathieson and Mrs. Elsie Pharey of North Vancouver and Mrs. Molly Lewes.

Delicious refreshments were served and a sing-song was enjoyed.

Good Soft Fruit Weather

Apricots Over in Summerland Area Peaches, Pears Now Being Picked

Weather in the Summerland area, reports the horticulture branch of the department of agriculture, has been very warm and dry up to Aug. 18, excellent weather for the harvesting of soft fruit crops. The report which follows gives the fruit situation to date.

Summerland, Westbank and Peachland:
As reported August 18: Since the issue of our last News Letter the weather has been warm and very dry. A tendency towards cooler nights has been noticed for the past week.

Apricot picking is now virtually completed. The picking of Rochester peaches is more than half over. This crop has been quite badly affected with mildew. Some V peaches are now being picked. Bartlett pear picking will probably start in the Summerland area towards the beginning of next week. This crop is of better average size than last year and a heavier tonnage is expected than in 1952. Apples have sized well up to this date. McIntosh are beginning to show some color. Pest control is good on most apples apart from green aphids affecting new growth.

A successful orchard tour was held in the Summerland district on August 15.

Penticton, Naramata, Kaleden, Keremeos:

August 18: Except for an occasional cloudy period with some showers, the weather has mostly been clear and warm during the past two weeks. The highest temperature recorded was 92 degrees and this occurred on August 11.

Vedette peaches are now being picked but Bartlett pears are ready in only a few orchards. Bartletts are not expected to be moving in volume until this week-end or later. Growers with both V peaches and Bartlett pears are showing some concern because of the clash in the maturity of these fruits. Prunes are coming along very well. While there has been a noticeable drop recently, there is every indication that the prune crop could be better than last year's both in tonnage and in quality. Apples are generally sizing very well and likewise show every indication of producing a good crop.

There has not been much change in the pest and disease situation. The Green Apple aphid is still troublesome and the European Red Mite on apples continues to be difficult to control in some orchards. A recurrence of black foliage on pears, which was widespread a year ago, is being experienced and in every case mite activity on the pear foliage has been quite evident. Apple Scab is not the problem it was last year and prospects for a clean apple crop appear quite possible.

Okanagan Falls, Oliver and Osoyoos:

As reported August 17: Since July first, less than one fifth of an inch of rainfall has been recorded at the project office in Oliver. The temperature has been in the high nineties for some time with 101 recorded in Oliver on August 15.

Red mites have subsided at the present time. Pacific mite has however built up on some lots. Green apple aphid and yellow-necked caterpillar are also quite evident throughout the district. Woolly apple aphid, the worst pest of 1952, is causing little concern at the moment.

Harvest of V peaches commenced last week with volume by last week-end. Size appears to be satisfactory at the moment. Bartlett pear harvest has started with size varying according to the vigor of the trees and the amount of thinning done. Trees of good vigor and well thinned have well-sized fruit.

Cantaloupe harvest has started but the volume is not great.

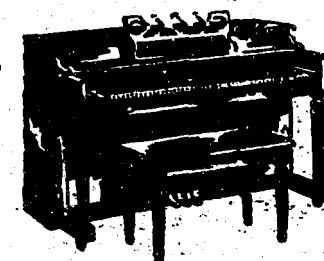

Kelowna:
As reported August 18: The weather since the last report has been generally clear and very warm.

Orchard crops on the whole are sizing well. Apricots have been cleaned up and peaches are being picked. Bartlett pear picking will be general next week.

Sprays are being applied for the control of mites and codling moth on apples. Insect control to date has been satisfactory and the warm

Egely Gives Story-Book Finish to Curtain Match

Summerland Macs Sunday finished an undistinguished OMLSBL schedule in a blaze of glory, emerging victors over Oliver to chalk up their fourth win out of 19 games. The Sunday win made no difference to their league position and while other teams are in a photo-finish for the top spots, the Macs were undisputed in their claim to cellar position.

Hometown hero was Ollie Egely who gave the game a story book finish when he came up in the seventh with the Macs trailing by one run, two men on base and two out. Ollie hammered out a home run to give the locals a two-run advantage. Oliver didn't even get a look-in after that and Wakabayashi held them hitless for the last two frames.

Sunday's tilt, which finished with a 4-2 tally, was largely a pitching battle between Summerland's star hurler, Roy Wakabayashi, and the Elks hurler Radis. Wakabayashi gave up 11 hits and Radis allowed eight but both managed to keep them pretty well scattered to spoil their effectiveness.

Wakabayashi registered five strike outs while Radis notched two. In the free pass department, five were collected by the Elks while Macs received only three from Radis.

Oliver collected their runs early in the game with Sibson and Radis scoring in the second from singles. After that they were not even placed in position for a break away at any time.

Macs were unable to find an opening until the sixth when Weitzel reached base on a fielder's choice which took Egely out of the running. Weitzel stole second and then Eyre started the base route on a free pass. Cristante's single drove Weitzel home but the threatened rally ended there and Cristante and Eyre were left on base.

Hooker led off in the seventh with a single and then Gould was retired when he flied out to second. Kato followed with another single and Egely was next to wrap up the ball game with his circuit clout.

 dry weather has effectively checked apple scab and other fungus diseases.

Over half the spring onions have been pulled. Cucumbers, tomatoes, cabbage, peppers and other seasonal vegetables are being whipped.

Armstrong, Vernon, Oyama, Winfield and Okanagan Centre:
 As reported August 10: Since our last report the weather has been mostly hot and dry with temperatures close to the 90 mark.

Sizing of apples appears to be satisfactory. Delicious are considerably larger than at this time last season. Picking of Duchess is about over and Wealthies will likely be ready in about a week. Picking of Transcendent Crabs is now on and should be completed by the end of next week. Hyslops will follow in about two weeks time. Early pickings of Bartlett pears will be made in about a week at Okanagan Centre and early prunes should be available shortly after. Peach plums are over and Bradshaws will likely be in in about ten days. Apricots are practically all finished and also Fisher and Jubilee peaches. At present growers are picking Rochester.

Vegetable movement appears to be slowing up somewhat but all vegetables are in plentiful supply. Packing houses are working on tomatoes which are going out as mature greens. Fall planted onions and silverskins are being harvested. The local cannery is working to capacity and running three shifts on canning beans, a few apricots and tomatoes. Canning of tomatoes will not be general for

Members of World WI To Tour B.C.; Farm On Agenda

A delightful tour of the western delegates of the World Women's Institute to British Columbia has been arranged and members from many parts of the world will be included in the delegation. There will be four from Australia, one from New Zealand, five from England, one from Ireland, one from Scotland, one from Kenya, East Africa, one from the USA and three from eastern Canada as well as five from B.C. who will accompany the visitors on their tour, which will include a visit to the Experimental Farm here.

The visitors will arrive at Salmon Arm on September 3. The next morning they will travel to Vernon where a tour through one of the packinghouses has been arranged and a luncheon will be served in the United Church Hall. In the afternoon the delegates will proceed to Kelowna. There they will be taken to the Kelowna Park Club. Travelling by bus, they will arrive in Summerland in the afternoon and will be taken on a tour of the Experimental Farm followed by a picnic supper and a tour of the surrounding district. Then they will travel by train to Hope.

Taking the western tour will be: Mrs. Joy E. Barnett, Mrs. Alice Dorothy Hunter, Miss Meri Mould and Mrs. May L. O'Connor of Australia; Miss Brenda Bell of New Zealand; Miss E. H. Pratt, Miss Dorothy Wilson, Mrs. Margaret T. Barr, Mrs. Dorothy Bosanquet and Mrs. Doris C. A. Hanscombe of England; Mrs. Muriel Linton of Ireland; Mrs. Esme Shann of Scotland; Lady Elizabeth Frances Wilson of East Africa; Mrs. Spencer Ewing of Ohio, USA; Miss Sonja Fredgarth of Sweden; Mrs. Ejarne Sawverud of Norway; Mrs. Albert Matson and Mrs. Hazel Saunders of New Brunswick; Mrs. William McClure of Ontario and Mrs. Stella E. Gunnow, Mrs. A. A. Shaw, Mrs. P. Douglas, Mrs. J. Decker and Mrs. V. Brydon of B.C.

And 3-D, Tool—Shapely Abbe Lane whose voice (and figure) are familiar to fans of the Xavier Cugat orchestra throughout the western hemisphere (she's Mrs. Cugat in real life) will make her bow in movies in Wings of the Hawk, starring Van Heflin and Julia Adams. The movie casts Abbe as a Mexican temptress—in third-dimension!

another week. Movement of celery from the Armstrong area is almost at a standstill and some shipments of the fall lettuce crop are now beginning to move out. Car load lots of lettuce should be available in about 10 days. Harvesting of grain crops in the Vernon district should be nearly completed by this week and with the exception of a few late seeded fields, pea harvesting in the Armstrong area is in full swing. Some excellent yields of both grain and peas have been reported. Pests are mostly confined to green and woolly aphid and codling moth. Verticillium wilt and bacterial canker in tomatoes is causing quite a loss to some growers in the Vernon district.

Marlene Stewart, of Ponthill, Ont., left, is seen shaking hands with Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Cal., after she lost out to the U.S. player in the final for the Canadian Ladies' Open Golf title at London, Ont. Marlene, who won the British Open and staged two dramatic finishes to gain the Canadian final, bowed out 2 and 1.

Four Rifle Shooters Take Highest Scores Of the Rifle Season

Four possibles were scored at the weekly rifle shoot on the local range Sunday, resulting in the highest scores recorded this season at local club shoots. George Dunsdon and Colin Mann topped the marksmen with scores of 102 each.

Possible scores were made on the 200 and 500 yard ranges by Colin Mann and also on the 500 by George Dunsdon. Bill Young accounted for the fourth possible on the 600 yard range.

Other scores were as follows: Fred Dunsdon 99, Francis Gould 98, E. Gillespie 97, Bill Young 96, R. Desilets, Steve Dunsdon 94, J. Khamback 93, Bert Sumpson 92, Pop Dunsdon 90, E. Desilets, Art Dunsdon 89, Dave Taylor 86, George Stoll 83 and D. Riddington, a visitor, '62. A large contingent of local shooters is expected to attend the Kelowna invitation shoot on Sunday.

Tie-Breakers Sunday

Teams in Photo Finish As Ball Schedule Ends

Okanagan Mainline baseball schedule reached a dramatic wind-up Sunday with no clear picture of the first five teams. Three teams, Penticton, Kamloops and Oliver, are all bunched for first place position while Kelowna and Vernon are in a tie for fourth place. Only Summerland holds clear title to any position—the bottom.

Here are the standings:

GP	W	L	Pct.
Penticton	19	12	7	.632
Kamloops	19	11	8	.577
Oliver	20	11	9	.550
Kelowna	20	10	10	.500
Vernon	20	10	10	.500
Summerland	20	5	15	.250

The nigger in the woodpile is a protested game between Penticton and Kamloops which was washed out to be replayed only if the outcome would affect the standings.

The replay of this game is set for Sunday at 1 p.m. in Penticton but no matter which team wins there will still be a tie for either first or second place so a second game between whichever teams are tied is set for 4 o'clock in Penticton.

If Penticton wins the replay game, they will have the pennant, leaving Kamloops and Oliver to play off in the later game to break the second place tie. If, however, Kamloops wins the first game, that will tie them up with Penticton for first place so the same two teams will meet in the later game to decide the league winners.

Vernon and Kelowna will play off to break their tie in Kelowna Sunday afternoon. League play-offs will get underway next Wednesday night.

Home again are Mr. and Mrs. J. Ray Leiner who spent a week recently at Mount Revelstoke.

BERT BERRY'S Fishing News

Okanagan Lake: Coming along good this last week and good catches are being made by most fishermen. Plug trolling will be coming in for the larger fish.

Fish Lake Camp: Better reports from here last week since the cooler weather has started and will continue until freeze-up, I think.

Glenn Lake: Fair back here this last week.

Tea Fee Lakes: Good reports from here last week and is a good spot to go.

First of its kind in Canada is this new wheel truing machine now in operation at the new $1,000,000 diesel plant being completed by the Canadian Pacific Railway at Nelson, B.C. The unit, shown in operation here, permits diesel locomotive wheels to be machined without removing either the wheels or trucks from under the locomotive, and will be used in the servicing of diesel locomotives operating on the Kootenay-Kettle Valley divisions of the CPR in southern British Columbia. Its purpose is to restore by means of specially designed milling cutters the normal contour of the tread and flange of wheels worn by operation of locomotives over frequent, tight curves on the right-of-way through mountainous territory.

Behind the 8-Ball

By Gord Crockett

The whole trouble with being famous is that there's always somebody trying to get into the act. Look what's been happening to poor old Ogoogo lately! Here he's been minding his own business just going along quietly sticking his humps out of the water a few weeks before Kelowna Regatta time each year and now that he's achieved a modicum of fame, everybody wants to take him home.

Vernon tried to pull a sneak act that failed and now down at Skaha Lake in the Penticton suburb of Summerland, they're claiming he's switched to their water. Don't let anyone fool you. Ogoogo is an Okanagan Lake boy and an Okanagan Lake boy he's going to stay.

Just about anytime now we can expect to hear Vancouver Board of Trade trying to cut themselves a piece of the Ogoogo cake and if we can believe a recent clipping on his origin, the coast people can perhaps claim a distant relationship—but nothing more. J. W. Miller passed on the clipping which gives the history of how Ogoogo got his name.

Here it is: The following was received by us from Mr. Seabrook of CJIB as to "How Ogoogo Got It's Name":

The Sea Serpent of Okanagan

Lake, now known all over the world as "Ogoogo", has rivals in Caddy and Amy of Victoria and the "monster" of Loch Ness, Scotland. The Province occasionally receives enquiries as to the origin of "Ogoogo". Readers ask if the word is of Indian origin and how it came to be applied.

It is a simple story mates. Years ago, in a London musical show... Pellessier's Follies, some say, there was a catchy ditty called "I'm looking for the Ogoogo". It had a swinging tune and easily remembered chorus. It had a brief vogue and disappeared. But an Englishman who took up residence in the Okanagan had a copy of the song and on the Monday, August 23, 1926, sang it at a Rotary Luncheon at Vernon, tendered delegates of the Vancouver Board of Trade, who were then touring the Okanagan Valley.

The Vancouver men liked the song, and the suggestion was made that "Ogoogo" should be the official name of the lake monster, and so it came to pass.

An Tuesday, August 24, 1926, the Daily Province staff correspondent, who was accompanying the Vancouver Board of Trade delegation on that organization's tour of the Okanagan Valley, wired the following:

"The official name of the now famous Okanagan Sea Serpent has been discovered. It was revealed to the Vancouver Board of Trade delegation now touring the wonderful Valley, at the luncheon tendered by the Vernon Rotarians, before the coast men were turned over to the thoughtful care of the Kelowna citizens.

"The name of the lake monster is "Ogoogo". It was thus stated musically by Rotarian Brimblecombe of Vernon in a rollicking ditty which the Vancouver us thus describes the finny mystery which has now attracted world attention for Punch had a reference to it in a recent issue: "I'm looking for the Ogoogo, the funny little Ogoogo. His mother was an earwig, his father was a whale; I'm going to put a little bit of salt upon his tail, I want to find the Ogoogo while playing on his old banjo. The Lord Mayor of London, wants to put him in The Lord Mayor's show."
