Red Cross Drive

Porch Light Campaign Ready for Monday Night

Rays of porch lights burning in Summerland Monday night will shine into dark corners all over the world. The illumination will serve to signal Red Cross canvassers that a generous welcome awaits them within.

Teams of canvassers have been organized in each neighborhood to wind up the annual financial campaign of the society in the one-night drive.

Fudge in Double Shuttle Victory

George Fudge teamed up with Ted Cardinal of Penticton to win the North Okanagan Badminton Men's Doubles championships last weekend in Vernon. These two veterans fought through to the finals and climaxed their efforts by downing Robinson and Stevens of Kelowna.

George racked up his second victory of the tournament when he and Miss M. Bell of Penticton ousted C. Lawton and Miss M. Stull of Kelowna in the finals.

Mr. Fudge was the only member of the local club able to make the trip but the Summerland shuttle stars are looking forward to this weekend and the Central Okanagan championships in the Orchard city.

Kelowna Surveyor Available For Here

Search of Summerland council for a surveyor who is available for work in this area resulted in a letter received last week from Ernest L. Wood of Kelowna who states he is a qualified surveyor and is available for surveying in Summerland district.

TO FLORIDA CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Schumann will leave Monday for a month's trip to Eastern Canada and Florida. They will travel east by train, stopping enroute at Saskatoon to visit relatives and will take delivery of a new car at Oshawa to motor down the Atlantic coast to Miami where Mr. Schumann will attend the annual conference of members of the Manufacturers' Life Senior Club at the Hollywood Beach Hotel.

COURT OF REVISION

Date of the irrigation court of revision has been set for April 21 at the Municipal office.

Educator to Speak

Will Honor Community 'Good Citizen' At Trade Board Banquet Next Week

One of UBC's top educators will be guest speaker next Thursday night when Summerland Board of Trade stages its annual dinner to honor the community's "Good Citizen of 1952". Speaker will be Dr. John McLeish, assistant professor of the school of education in the arts faculty.

The dinner this year will be held in the high school auditorium to provide accommodation for a larger-than-usual crowd. Because of the community interest in honoring the "Good Citizen", the trade board has extended an invitation to the public to be present for this annual function.

Name of the citizen to be honored will not be announced until time for presenting the Good Citizen trophy. Selection was made several weeks ago by the executive of the Board of Trade.

Special guests at the dinner will be Mrs. Gwen Hayman of California and Miss Dorothy Robinson of Naramata, daughters of J. M. Robinson, the founder of Summerland. Mrs. Hayman is travelling from her home in California to be present for the event.

Tickets for the dinner are available at Butler & Walden and from Lorne Perry.

Dr. McLeish will arrive in Summerland next Thursday morning and during the afternoon will address students of the high school.

Beside his work in the field of education, Dr. McLeish has earned a reputation for his poetry and has to his credit two published volumes, "Ode in a Winter Evening, and Other Poems" and "Not Without Beauty".

He earned his bachelor and master degrees at McGill University and his Ph.D. in education at Cornell. While studying at Cornell, he also served on the faculty in the school of education.

Dr. McLeish will not be taking the subject of education for the theme of his address but will touch on other aspects of modern day living.

Artificial Ice Need Discussed

Plans for staging a fair or sportsmen's show to raise funds for Summerland rink were discussed Sunday at an executive meeting of the rink association and a committee under C. Wilkinson was formed to study the possibilities.

Need for artificial ice in the skating rink was the chief subject under discussion and all efforts of the association will be directed toward that end. N. O. Solly was named as chairman of the finance committee.

Plans were also laid for annual meeting of the association in March and reports showed sale of memberships has been brisk.

Appreciation was expressed to the municipal council for the reduction in tax assessment on the rink.

Widespread interest has been developing in the story of how the Summerland rink came into being as a co-operative community project and recently a committee from North Vancouver was in the district to enquire about the method by which the venture was launched with a view to imitating the plan to have a rink in their own community.

Plans of the structure are now in possession of a Salmon Arm committee who are hoping to launch a similar project there.

Bakery Business Changes Ownership

A business transfer in West Summerland this week involved Dunbar's Bakery which has been taken over by John Langelo who assumed operation of the business at the beginning of March.

Mr. Langelo comes to Summerland from Edmonton where he has been operating a bakery business since he came to Canada from Denmark in 1951.

Before leaving his native land he disposed of his interest in a bakery business which has been in the Langelo family through five generations since 1756. He entered the bakery trade as an apprentice 30 years ago and after seven years was accepted into the Danish Bakers Guild as a master baker.

Mr. Langelo plans on specializing in Danish pastries and decorated cakes but will continue with bread baking as well.

Still Hanging On To Kiwanis Trophy

Summerland Kiwanians stood off the onslaught of Kelowna curlers last week-end to retain possession of the Kiwanis challenge cup but Vernon members of the service club served notice the local members will have to work to keep it by challenging them to a match next week-end.

The challenge cup is for competition between Kiwanis Club curlers of Summerland, Kelowna and Vernon. Summerland won it two weeks ago from Kelowna and last week defended their right to it for the first time. Two rinks compete in each match with total points deciding the issue.

Games were split last week-end but in total points, Summerland gained the edge.

The Hallquist rink with Ritchie, Smith and Shannon claimed a 12-6 victory in their game while the Towgood rink with Guernsey, Dixon and McDonald suffered a 9-7 loss.

The match next week-end will be played in Vernon.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

Friends and associates of Fire Chief Edgar Gould will be pleased to know that he has recovered and is able to be home again after his recent stay in Summerland General hospital.

88 Hours of Sunshine

Old Sol Maintains Almost Steady Vigil to Bring June In February

Old Sol had his best foot forward for Summerland during the month of February and on only four days did he fail to make an appearance while during the remaining 24 he beamed for a total of 88 hours. Three days he cast summer-like rays for more than eight hours while briefest appearance was one day when he shone only six minutes.

Rain was recorded by the Climatological Station on two days with little more than a trace on Feb. 2 and less than an eighth-inch last Friday. Snow was recorded on five days for a total fall of four inches in the month. Heaviest snowfalls were on Feb. 5 and Feb. 10. Total precipitation for the month was just over a half-inch.

Temperature climbed past the 50-degree mark on three days with highest being 51 recorded on Feb. 4 and 7. Overnight temperatures, however, served a reminder that summer hasn't arrived quite yet and on only five nights did the mercury fall to drop below the freezing mark. Lowest temperature was 23 degrees on Feb. 9 and Feb. 24. "Warmest" night was Feb. 2 when 38 degrees was the lowest point reached on the thermometer.

Lifetime's Chance—If You Like Chances

Perennial chain-letter craze has reared its head again and Electrician Gordon Young is scratching his head trying to decide whether to join the newest chain that has reached out to him.

The letter reads: "This chain letter was launched in the hope of bringing happiness to tired business men and orchardists.

"Unlike most chains, this does not require money, simply send a copy of this letter to five of your male friends, then bundle up your wife and send her to the fellow who heads the list.

"When your name comes to the top, you will receive 168 women, some of them ought to be handies.

"Have faith and please do not break the chain, one fellow did and got his own wife back."

Mrs. Y. is calmly awaiting Gordon's decision—too calmly.

Only One License Required For Crew

Municipal council Friday morning, continuing the meeting adjourned from the previous Tuesday, discussed an application from Valley Food Plan for a clarification of regulations regarding peddler's licenses.

The company advised they wish to bring in a crew of about six salesmen for a quick selling campaign in the district and asked for information about whether it would be necessary to have a license for each salesman or whether one license for the company would suffice.

Council decided a single license would meet the requirements of the by-law.

Royal Tour Showing Popular Presentation

About 250 were present in the high school auditorium for a showing of "Royal Journey" presented by Summerland Film Council and school students and a silver collection brought in $47 for flood relief fund.

The technicolor film showing highlights of the Canadian tour of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip lasted about an hour and was greatly enjoyed by the audience. This picture was preceded by a National Film Board short depicting Canadian activities.

High school students took an active part in the venture and provided staff to operate the projector, usher, prepare the auditorium and direct parking of cars.

Nearly 150 Donations

Generosity of Local Contributors Pushes Flood Fund Past $1,500-Mark

Generous Summerland subscribers this week continued to boost total of European Flood Relief Fund and in the three weeks since the fund has been open, more than $1,500 has gone to assist the disaster victims of flooded areas.

Nearly 150 individual contributions have been received at the Bank of Montreal, Butler & Walden and White & Thornthwaite to make up the total.

Total of the Summerland general fund this week stands at $1,100 and direct parking of cars, from receipts from the showing of "Royal Journey" by the Film Council and school students last night.

In addition to subscriptions through the local fund, $87.75 was contributed through the Anglican church diocese flood fund, $83 was collected through the Credit Union fund and local Guides sent $25 direct to Ipswich for relief of victims there.

Major boost to the local fund this week came from the Legion Auxiliary who realized a total of $160 from a tag day and card party last Saturday.

Kiwanis are planning a bingo for March 14 in the IOOF hall with a portion of the proceeds from this event to be used for the fund.

Trout Creek Flood Committee closed out their account left over from donations to their aid following the 1948 flood and the contribution from that source amounted to $148.14. Members of that committee are Magnus Tait, Dr. R. C. Palmer, Dr. H. R. McLarty, Dr. James Marshall and G. Morgan.

District Council Meets

Says Marketing Problems Not Caused by Tariffs

Solution to fruit growers' marketing problems cannot be found in tariff adjustments was the opinion expressed Saturday afternoon by L. R. Stephens, chairman of the BCFGA tariff committee, speaking before the meeting of the Southern District Council in Penticton.

A number of questions posed for Mr. Stephens by listeners referred to alleged dumping of fruit in Canada by U.S. producers but the speaker reported every effort has been made to uncover any evidence of "dumping" but no instance of this action has yet been uncovered.

At the outset of the meeting, Chairman Gordon Wight announced his election to the board of governors had disqualified him from holding the council office and relinquished the gavel to Vice-Chairman Walter Toews of Summerland who later in the meeting was chosen as new chairman. Elected as new vice-chairman was Cliff Nettleton of Naramata.

Present at the meeting were a number of members of locals in the area who expressed a desire to hear discussion on how marketing conditions can be approved and a special meeting was set for March 14 when this subject will be the principal item on the agenda. The council will invite A. K. Loyd, BCTF president; J. B. Lander, BCTF sales manager and A. R. Garrish, BCFGA president, to be present at this meeting to participate in the discussion.

Mr. Garrish was present at the Saturday meeting and gave a thumb-nail report on the horticultural council meeting in Ottawa, stating that keynote of the session was the question of tariffs and protection of all Canadian industry that exists through tariff protection. "and there would be no soft-fruit growing in Canada if it was not for tariff protection", he added.

He described the tariff structure as being "involved protection requiring handling only on very high government levels."

The meeting approved a plan to establish commodity committees—one for peaches and apricots and one for cherries, plums and pears—and recommended a list of members from which committee-men could be chosen. Included in the recommendations for the first committee was Eric Tait of Summerland while those for the second included Don Wright of Summerland.

Speaker at the next regular meeting of the council will be John Kosty of Vernon to report on the annual convention of the Canadian and B.C. Federations of Agriculture.

In introducing his discussion of tariffs, Mr. Stephens traced the history of duties in England, U.S. and Canada from their beginning up to the Geneva agreement by which most of the present tariffs were established.

To give his listeners a clear picture of the position of the fruit-growing industry in the tariff structure, he distributed detailed tables showing the variation in tariffs in the different fruits. The over-all concession made on fruit, he pointed out, amounted to only 1/10 of a cent and the "escape clause" he explained, provides only that where imports are seriously threatening an industry, the concession can be restored. This means, he said, the most that could be gained in an appeal would be restoration of 1/10 cent for fruits on which that concession was made, but, he pointed out, there was no concession on peaches, cherries and apricots.

There was, he said, a generous concession in tariffs on imported canned fruit and the overall drop was from 21 to 11 per cent. Mr. Stephens conceded the growers might be able to establish a case on this concession.

Most serious threat, he said, has been the importation of mixed fruit cocktail. Last year, the speaker said, 25 million pounds were imported into Canada and because of the interpretation placed on regulations, this quantity was admitted under a one-cent tariff. It has now, however, been corrected, he explained and present tariff is two and one-half cents.

Permits Indicate Building on Upswing

Eight building permits were issued during February for total construction of $9,450—an increase of nearly $4,000 over February, 1952, when only three permits were issued.

Construction interest appears to be on the upswing for this year with a total of 12 permits issued since the beginning of the year for work totalling $13,850. During the first two months of last year, five permits were issued to the value of $6,000.

February permits included three for dwellings totalling $7,500; one for alterations to commercial premises to a value of $200 and four for residential alterations and additions totalling $1,750.

Local Kiwanians Visit Vernon Club

Kiwanis Monday evening laid plans for an inter-club visit to the Vernon club last night and those who made the trip were F. W. Schumann, Lloyd Shannon, Robt. Alstead, J. Y. Towgood, Frank McDonald and W. S. Ritchie.

Following their meeting a talk on arts was given by Lacey Fisher.

Enjoyable Card Party

Legion Auxiliary Efforts Boost European Flood Relief By $160

Tag day conducted Saturday by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion brought in a total of $105 to boost the Summerland Flood Relief Fund and a card party the same evening in the IOOF hall boosted their contribution to the fund to $160.

Yvonne Polesello and Marilyn Wade attended the regular meeting of the Summerland Hospital Auxiliary on Monday evening, March 2, representing Teon Town.

Teen Town had been asked by the auxiliary if members would like to help in the work of the auxiliary, and the girls explained that their organization would like to assist the hospital group in any way that they could. They were assured that their help would be most welcome and that plenty of opportunities would present themselves for them to undertake.

In addition to the usual procedure of helping to supply linen, dishes, and other incidentals to the hospital, the auxiliary has taken as its major objective during the coming months, the obtaining of an incubator. This is an ambitious project, but one which will be of great benefit to the hospital.

A committee headed by Mrs. F. E. Atkinson and including Mrs. A. R. Dunston and Mrs. T. B. Lott and a representative from Teon Town to be named later, was set up to get this program under way.

The auxiliary has been approached about taking charge of a booth in connection with Coronation Day and a committee consisting of Mrs. C. G. Woodbridge, the president, and Mrs. J. C. Wilcox, immediate past president, was named to attend a joint meeting of organizations in charge of refreshments.

There were 24 present, and the president, Mrs. Woodbridge was in the chair.

Burn Your Porch Light Monday Night

We were weeding the potatoes in the north garden. Father vigorously, because he knew he had put in far too much garden in the spring, and wanted to justify it now in the late summer. Mother cheerfully, because that was her nature, and even when asked to add extra work like this to her innumerable duties, she felt it her Victorian duty to set a good example. And I sulkily, because despite innumerable good examples I would have much preferred to be freely rambling over the lonely hills, that beckoned beyond the garden fence.

"How," said a deep guttural voice. "Though for years we had been used to Indians from the neighboring Reserve come up on us unexpectedly, indoors and out, their silent moccasined feet, it always startled us."

"God Bless my soul!" snapped Father angrily. "What do—oh, it's you, Wasitieux. How!"

"How," murmured Mother shyly. "How, Washed-oaks," said I heartily, welcoming the interruption.

All the score or so of Indians whom we knew had broad flat faces like Eskimos, or ordinary ones like brown white men, except Wasitieux; he really looked like a picture Indian. Tall, straight, eagle-nosed, high-cheekboned, with his black hair hanging down the front of his shoulders in two braids; he was the genuine article. Usually taciturn and expressionless, now his eyes flashed with anger and he burst into a torrent of angry Ojibway.

"Here, hold on, stop, I can't understand that twaddle," Father cried. "Stop it, do you hear? Talk English, man."

With an effort Wasitieux slowed down. "MacIvor—knife," he jerked out. "Me—here."

Dramatically he pointed to a slash in the ragged old white-man's coat he wore, whipped it open to show the corresponding cut in his thin shirt, jerked that back over his brown hide to show—well, I'd like to say a ragged blood-edge wound, but to be honest I don't remember any further than the shirt.

To my disgust, Mother dragged me off then, on the ancient principle that children should not hear their elder's business. Presently Father and Wasitieux came into the house.

"I'll have to harness the old horse and drive to town, I'm afraid," Father said. "Have to do something about this stabbing—disgraceful affair."

Half an hour later white man and red drove off in the old buggy for town. I was disappointed. The dull process of the law seemed pretty drab for an Indian like Wasitieux; why hadn't he slashed back with his own knife at half-breed MacIvor? Why, if I'd been as Indian as Indian as he was, I'd have scalped the half-breed and left him bald-headed—I'd have cut his heart out and made him eat it—I'd—

But it was a tribute to Father's prestige as Justice of the Peace that the Indians came to him. For Father really made his office felt in that little country town and district. Whenever he met a man drunk and disorderly, or even a farmer whipping his horse with excessive temper, he did not hesitate to point out their sins and warn them of just what statutes and penalties they were in danger of bringing down upon their innocent heads. What's more, if they did it again, he saw that they were duly brought into court.

As I grew older and reached the age when parents become minor creatures, I felt he was far too officious. Maybe he was. But I overheard a young Mounted Police constable say at a recess in a trial that Father was conducting, along with another J.P.:

"Say, that old fellow with the whiskers, he sits up there with his eyes closed and doesn't seem to notice anything, but by golly, when the lawyers object, he snaps back with 'Objection sustained' or 'Objection over-ruled' without any hesitation, and he's never wrong; I think he knows more law than they do. I'm kind of half-scared of him myself."

In the case of Wasitieux, Father made it his business to swear out the warrant for MacIvor's arrest and send the Mountie after him. When the trial came up, Father saw to it that it was a fair trial, but he was quite pleased that MacIvor was duly convicted and sent down.

Wasitieux sent us two skinned squirrels and a quart of raspberries afterward, free of charge, so he must have been pleased too.

Costly Humor . . . what about the man paying?

THE current session of the legislature has provided a wealth of newspaper stories with the antics of the members, and the wrangling of the members bids fair to put the comic strip producers right out of business before too long.

The political situation in British Columbia at the present time is not entirely without its humorous aspects but it would be a whole lot funnier if taxpayers' hard-earned dollars were not paying for this brannigan.

The members of the legislative assembly were chosen for that office because voters believed them to be capable and sincere men—men interested in the welfare of the province and seeing that the public business is carried out with dispatch.

The actions of the majority of the members during the past few weeks have hardly indicated that confidence was justified.

The exchanges of abuse, name-calling and demands for resignations may be all right as window dressing for the benefit of the voters back home, but a little of that goes a long way.

It is fully appreciated the various political

Four Horsemen . . . and then the work of mercy

EVERY day somewhere in the world the Apocalyptic Horsemen are relentlessly riding and their wake leave famine, war, pestilence and death. But marching just as relentlessly is the Red Cross to heal, comfort and provide.

It can truly be said the work of mercy never ends; and when disaster strikes through flood, fire or other emergencies arise, the Red Cross has demonstrated to the world their readiness and ability to answer the call of duty at a moment's notice. They never fail!

There is probably little that can be said about the Red Cross that is not generally known. Hardly a day passes but what fresh accomplishments in one field or another are reported in the newspapers. The scope of its activities are boundless. When the

Timely Questions . . . 12 years can pass quickly

IF secondary school enrolment is to double in the twelve years following 1952 as the Canadian Education Week folder says it will, on no less of an authority than the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, then we had better take a good look at the situation in Summerland.

This is a revelation indeed. We have already heard the prelude to this announcement and many Canadian municipalities have been forced to expand their public school facilities. New buildings have been constructed at tremendous cost but we don't propose to go into that one now.

In saluting Education Week, we think we can make our best contribution by asking a few questions that we think pertinent to this whole problem of public education in Canada.

How sound have we been in our recent trends toward "modern" school buildings?

What expert advice have school authorities when they are faced with the necessity of building new schools?

Can we afford some of the extra-curricular facilities, swimming pools, auditoriums, etc. that are being built into many of our modern school buildings?

Do taxpayers and parents give their best attention and support to the public-spirited men and women who get themselves elected to our Boards of Education, School Boards, etc.?

Before we jump to conclusions and start yelling about high taxes, we might just remember that

Mid-Week Message

Now he that betrayed him gave them a sign, saying, Whosoever I shall kiss, that same is he; hold him fast. (Matthew 26:48) Read Matthew 27:1-8.

Why not give the name Judas to your newborn babe? It is a lovely name; it means praise and glory. We find it was a name highly honored in Israel until one man so named dishonored it by a deed of treachery. Judas betrayed Jesus. From that time, the name Judas has been another name for treachery.

Like Judas, we each have the same power. We can rob a name of its meaning and make it an insult to others. I am a member of the Church, a member of the fellowship of God's people. What a privilege! To me, the word Church holds a treasure of the most wonderful experience and people. To some, the mere mention of the word Church brings a sneer, or words of abuse. For them, someone robbed the word Church of its glorious meaning.

What a sobering fact it is that we have the power to do the same as Judas, to rob the most beautiful name of its precious meaning; or like true followers of Christ, to add praise and glory to His name. Which are we doing?

PRAYER

O God, we acknowledge to Thee and before our fellow man that we are followers of Thine. We pray that we may ever be loyal to Thee. Help us to bring no dishonor upon the fair name of Christian. Teach us to add praise and glory to the matchless name of Christ. In His name we pray, Amen.

The budget has been met with mixed feelings, depending on the position you hold in life or the political party to which you belong. Mr. Abbott found himself in the happy position of being able to cut off $250 million from the requirements for the coming year, and proceeded to apportion this saving to $100 million off income tax, $98 million off corporation tax, $15 million off cigarettes and $25 million in repeal of the cheque tax. Also changes were made in the sales tax.

Mr. Abbott's critics in the house, claimed that his budget is a rich man's budget, as the benefits accrue to those in the higher income brackets and three-fifths of it directly to corporations whose profits have been very high since the war. For instance, one large company in B.C. whose net profits last year were $50 million will get a hand out of $1,500,000 but the little man whose income is around $2,000 or $3,000 per year, will save anything from two to eight dollars per year, depending on the number in his family.

A cut of four cents for a packet of twenty cigarettes which became effective immediately was generally welcomed by smokers and people in Ontario will benefit by another two cents cut given by the cigarette manufacturers, which places a pack of 20 well-known brand cigarettes for sale at 33c in Ontario. They will be a little higher in B.C. owing to the provincial sales tax.

One item that met with general approval from all parts of Canada was the decision to drop the licence fee for radios. I personally feel that the cuts made could have been reduced; especially on corporations, to the point where enough revenue could have been used to take care of the blind, and other disabled people in Canada, who have been fighting hard for the last five or six years for a decent pension.

I really think that the government missed a good point here by not making cuts of $150 million instead of $250 million and using the $100 million to improve the lot of these unfortunate people.

Mr. Abbott, who is a very good prophet, as far as national revenue is concerned, has again predicted that this year will see an increase in the total value of our national production which is very heartening for all basic industries and, indirectly, all Canadians.

The government sought permission of Parliament to extend the emergency powers act for another year. Under this act, order-in-council can be passed without consulting parliament. This year strong exception has been taken by all opposition members to granting the government these powers; as they claim that there is no emergency now in existence that calls for such a powerful measure to be handed over to a government, who can use it for any purpose whatsoever. The Conservative party particularly, stressed the point that the act sought to take away the powers of parliament and placed them at the tender mercies of the minister of justice and possibly his colleagues in the cabinet.

Last year, when the same act was before the house, the CCF supported the government in the hope that through the operation of this act the government would exercise the powers conferred upon it, to bring about price and rent controls for the prevention of possible inflation. But the government did nothing of the sort, but used it for other purposes.

Mr. Diefenbaker said, this measure placed in the hands of the cabinet, powers so sweeping that the cabinet is transformed for the period of the emergency, into a position of master of the Canadian people, rather than the servant. The Ministers of the Crown will be constituted as omnipotent masters with a power to control the economic life of this country. Ministers have used these dangerous powers—powers that ought not now to be ab-

BROWNIE CHATTER

1st Summerland Pack
 We are very proud of our perfect attendance record for February, Brownies. The Elves and Pixies received full marks in their attendance books for "fairy gold, hat and tidy" last month and the Fairies and Spirits were not far behind.

Golden Bar testing in one group was completed this week with the mothers judging table sitting and tidy drawers at home. Semaphore was begun by this group while older Brownies made ready for their minstrel badge list.

Let us all have neatly folded ties next meeting Brownies.—Brown Owl.

2nd Summerland Jack

Last Saturday afternoon, a new type of golden hand testing was conducted in the Youth Centre. The Brownies who wished to be examined gathered with their Brown Owl and testers in their Fairy Ring, singing their Brownie Six Songs. Each candidate was given her record card and sent on.

TEEN TOWN

A big Parent Social will get underway this Saturday night, March 7, in the Youth Centre. A door prize will be given to a lucky winner. Admission, Adults 50c, Teen Aged 25c. Proceeds from this dance will go to the European Flood Relief. A special invitation goes to the P-TA and all those who are interested. Come on kids, lets make this dance a big success.

Yvonne Polissello and Marilyn Wade represented teen town at the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary meeting last Monday night. There will be a council meeting Monday night, March 9.

CUB CALLS

Everyone is working hard getting ready for our banquet which is to be held on March 10. Many thanks to those that came out to help us on Monday night. We wouldn't be able to make it without outside help. Thanks again.

Get your work ready for next week, boys, so we will be all set to go.

Next meeting, Monday, March 9, 6:30 p.m. sharp.
 Duty Six, White Six.—Akela.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

1st Summerland Troop

Very pleased to see a good turn out of boys with uniforms at this weeks meeting. At the last court of honor it was decided that March 1st would be the deadline for long pants so lets see shorts at the next meeting.

After a game of prisoners base we had patrol corners. The Eagles have now 161 points, the Buffaloes 160 and Hawks 133. Come on Hawks, pull up your sox.

We started on our bridge building. You boys who haven't passed your lashing, and others who need the practice, join in the fun. Let's show what Scouts can do with a few poles and a piece of rope.

Next weeks meeting will be the last chance to pass badges in order to have them for the banquet so come prepared and notify your leaders early in the evening.

The troop very much appreciated the efforts of Alan McKenzie Bob and Bill Barkwill last Sunday in providing transportation for our outing. The boys who didn't go missed a good day. In addition to gathering bridge material, several boys passed their second class cooking.

Duty Patrol, Tuesday March 10, Buffaloes.—DMM.

RECIPE HINTS

If you are looking for a different dish to serve at lunch time on Pancake Tuesday, or on any day, try these Filled Pancakes. Filled with chicken, and served with a salad or a green vegetable they make a hearty, nutritious meal.

Creamed Chicken Filling

Two cups fresh sliced mushrooms, 1-3 cup chicken fat or butter, 1/4 cup flour, 1/4 tsp. salt, 1-8 tsp. pepper, 1/4 tsp. nutmeg, 1/4 tsp. celery salt, 1 cup chicken stock, 1 cup milk, 1/2 cup thin cream, 1 cup diced cooked chicken, 1 tsp. paprika.

Saute mushrooms about 3 minutes in heated chicken fat. Stir in flour, salt, pepper, nutmeg and celery salt; blend well. Add chicken stock, milk and cream and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Stir in chicken and paprika. Use as filling for Party Pancakes.

Guide News

Inspection of Patrols by C. L. Jill Sanborn and Leaders opened last week's Guide meeting, and was followed by Patrol Corners where points to be raised at the next Court of Honor were discussed, and we hope, criticisms too.

An Inter-Patrol competition appropriate to Thinking Week was played when jumbled words had to be correctly arranged.

Jill Sanborn played the music for a new game to the Summerland Guide company, called Musical Leap Frog which proved to be a lot of fun and was first played in 1912 by a mother of two of the Guides.

Frances Atkinson helped Guides working hard to achieve first class status in preparation for the First Class Day being planned for next month.

A leisurely campfire was enjoyed and the Guides were entertained first by Jill giving a talk on her Ottawa camp experiences, the latter proving to be so innumerable they are in the "to be continued next week" category! The senior patrol acted out a charade in connection with Thinking Week celebrations and Carol Ann Short correctly guessed Lord and Lady Baden Powell as the answer.

Four Tenderfeet completed their tests and are now ready for enrollment and it is hoped to welcome them as Guides into the company at the next meeting.

We were very sorry the nine girls taking the Keep Fit Badge, failed their test but it also proves that badges must be worked for, and we feel grateful to Mr. Schwab for keeping the standards high.

Patrols are busy collecting All-sweet Margarine carton for the Summerland Kiwanis, which organization is sponsoring the company. An award of a subscription to the Canadian Guide for each girl of the winning patrol is to be made by the Kiwanis and much competition is bound to ensue.

The senior patrol commences lectures at the next meeting on the preliminary course of the St. John Ambulance Brigade. Mrs. Witherspoon has kindly consented to be lecturer and members of the patrol are very grateful for the opportunity to take this course. This is part of the training program being taken by senior Guides across Canada for Civil Defence, and it is hoped that this series of lectures will be followed by instruction in the Fire Brigade Badge.

Patrol points now stand as follows: Orchid 212, Lily of the Valley 203, Forget-me-nots 190, Clover 187, Pimpernel 185, Hepatica 185, Buttercup 180, Pansy 173.

ANNOUNCING BUICK'S GREATEST CARS IN 50 GREAT YEARS

HERE you see pictured the Golden Anniversary Buicks—engineered, styled, powered and bodied to be fully worthy of their paragon role in this fiftieth year of Buick building.

A quick listing of simple facts will reveal just cause for celebration. Let's start off with the new 1953 Buick Custom.

★ It has a newly-designed Fireball Straight-8 Engine. The importantly stepped-up Fireball Straight-8 actually gives the 1953 Custom with Dynaflo even better performance than the 1952 Roadmaster. And this brilliant new performance is achieved with amazing economy and without the need for premium fuels.

★ It has Fireball Horsepower. Engine horsepower per pound has been increased to 130 on Dynaflo-equipped models and 125 on cars equipped with Syncro-mesh transmission for more brilliant performance.

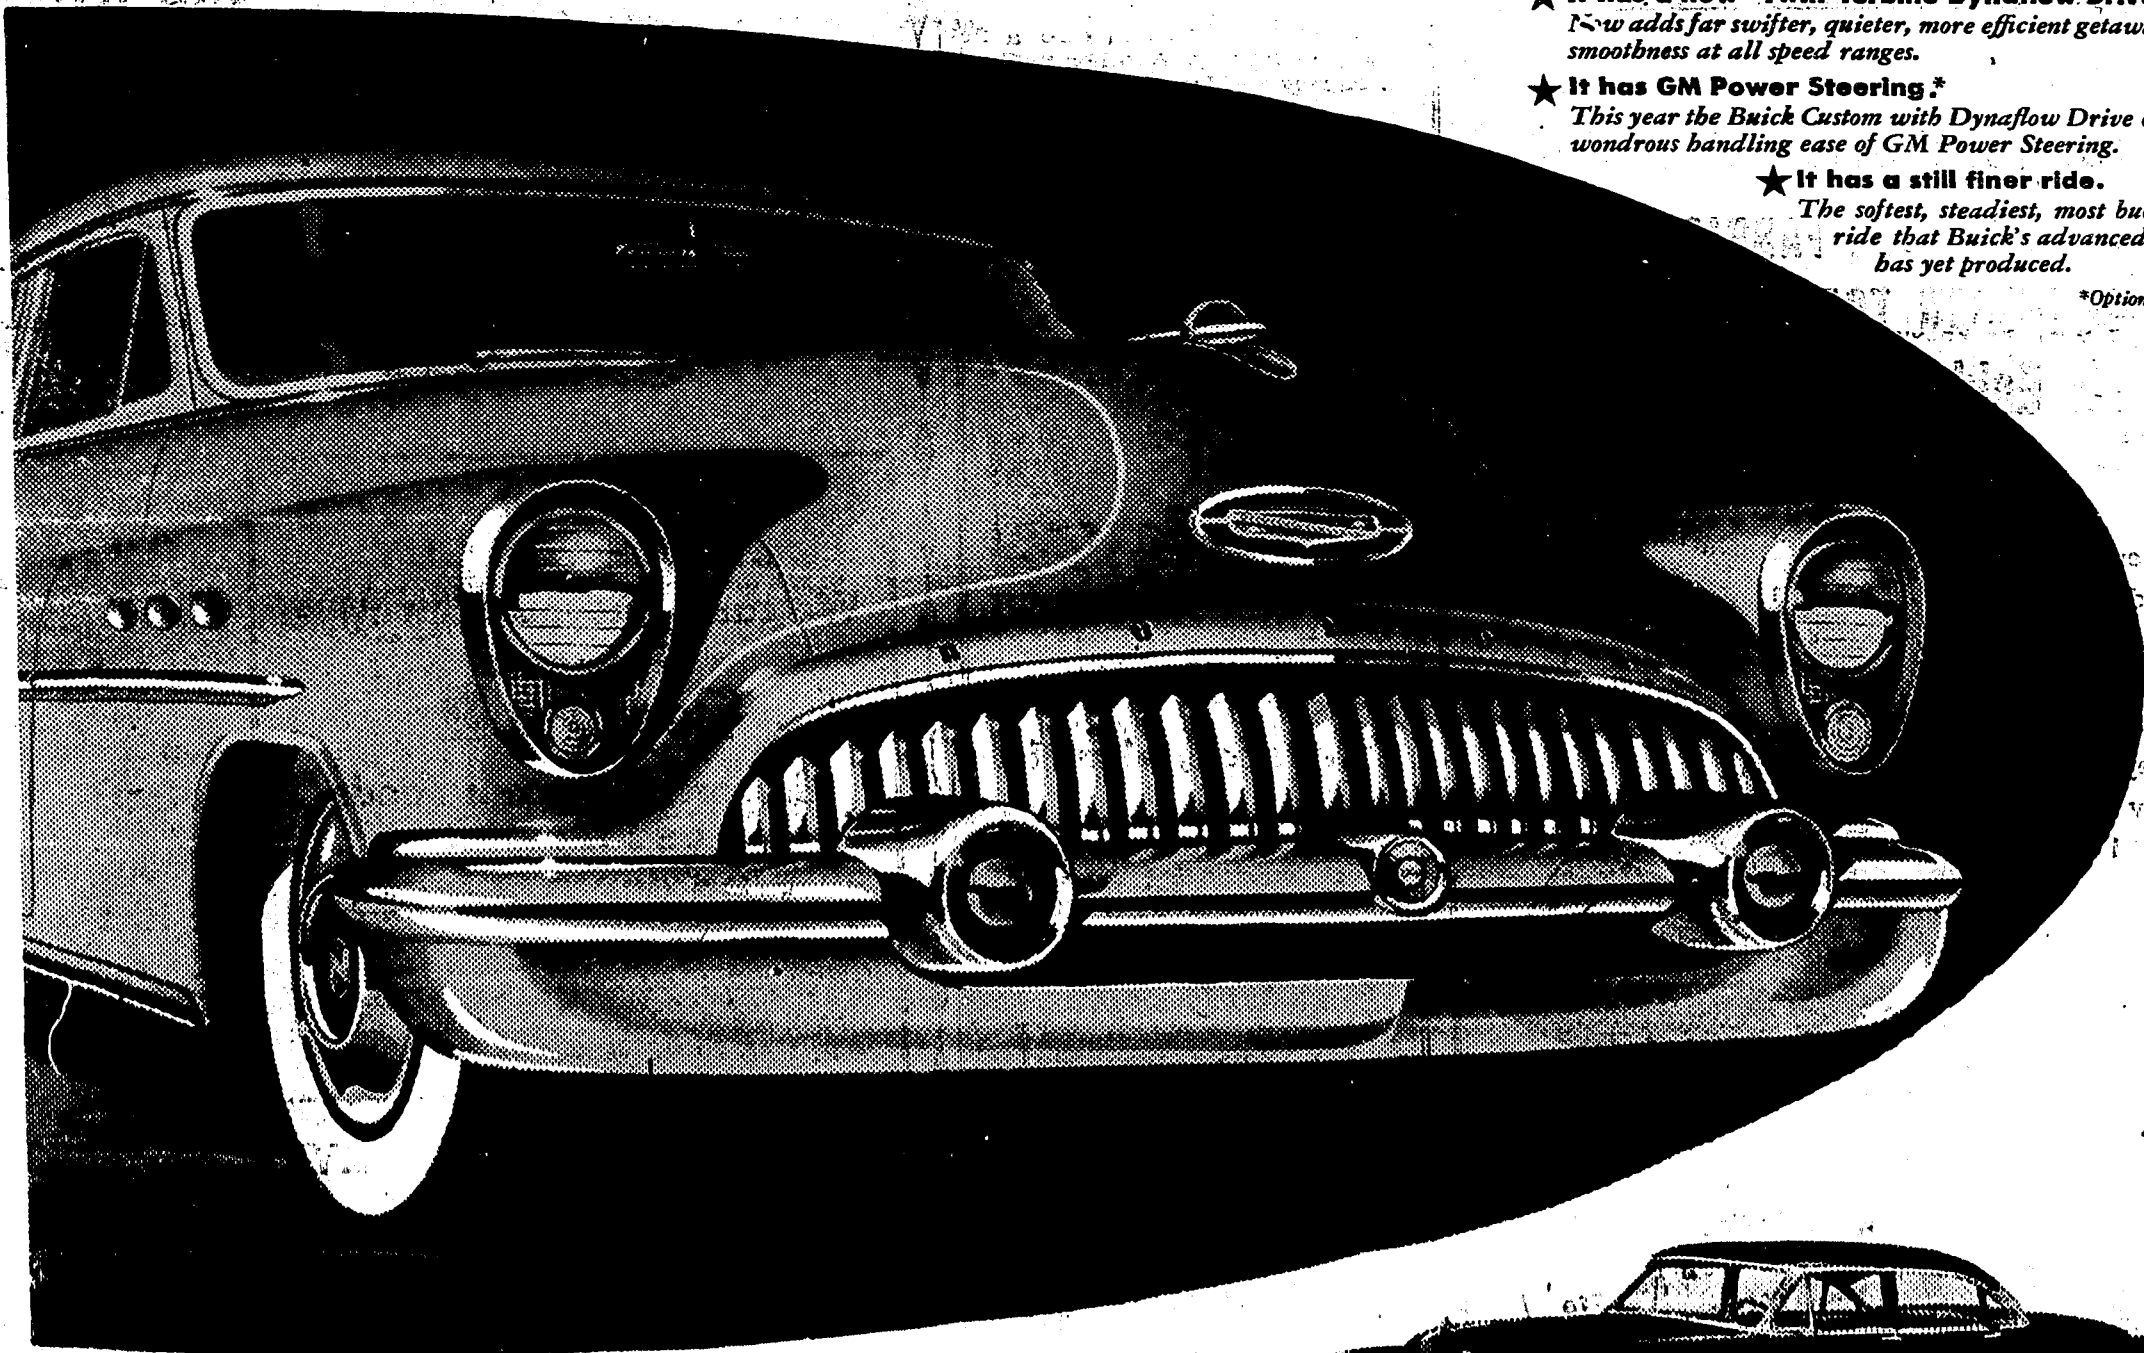

★ It has a compression ratio of 7.6 to 1. New combustion chamber raises compression to 7.6 to 1 with Dynaflo; shortens flame travel for greater power and fuel efficiency.

★ It has a new *Twin-Turbine Dynaflo Drive. Now adds far swifter, quieter, more efficient getaway to infinite smoothness at all speed ranges.

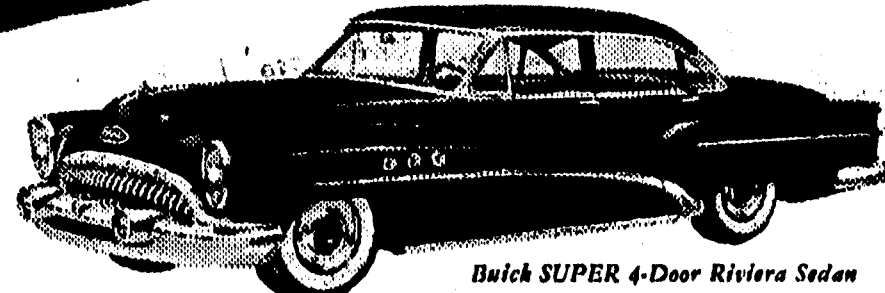

★ It has GM Power Steering*. This year the Buick Custom with Dynaflo Drive offers you the wondrous handling ease of GM Power Steering.

★ It has a still finer ride. The softest, steadiest, most buoyantly level ride that Buick's advanced engineering has yet produced.

A General Motors Value

Buick SUPER 4-Door Riviera Sedan

WORLD'S NEWEST V8 POWERS The Super-The Roadmaster

Yes, there's wonderful news about the 1953 Buick SUPERS and ROADMASTERS, too. For instance, they're powered by a completely new V-8 engine with one of the highest compression ratios in the industry. It develops 189 horsepower for Roadmaster, 170 for the Dynaflo-equipped Super, and it's so compact that a new, more manoeuvrable chassis has been built around it!

But no listing of facts and features can do justice to the phenomenal Golden Anniversary Buicks. No words can really tell you the beauty you see, the comfort you feel, the excitement you experience when you make first-hand acquaintance with these big, beautiful, bounteous Buick Customs and Supers and Roadmasters for '53.

So come in and see for yourself that these are, in simple truth, Buick's greatest cars in 50 great years!

Urge Camp Attendance

Guide Association Lays Plans For Annual Fund-Raising Effort

Plans for Cookie Week, which is to be April 24-May 2, were discussed at the regular meeting of the Local Association to the Girl Guides, on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 26 in the Youth Centre. The cookies are to be stamped with the Guide trefol this year, which, it is thought, will make them of greater interest, and it was decided to order more than in 1952, as there was a shortage last year.

It was reported that the Guide parcel post sale in February was a success and that the proceeds are to be sent to Guides in Ipswich, England, for flood relief.

Capt. Mrs. K. H. McIntosh stated that the Guide camp will probably be held at Okanagan Mission this summer, and urged parents to help their daughters to attend, as camp is planned to be one of the highlights in a Guide year.

A golden hand testing centre is to be held at the Youth Centre, when six testers will be present, each to test the girls, one at a time, for their golden hand badge. In this way it is hoped to make a more uniform test. This is somewhat in the nature of an experiment, and its working and results are anticipated with interest both here and in Penticton. Mrs. W. Durick, badge secretary, and Capt. McIntosh, have been working together to perfect the plan.

It was decided, tentatively, to hold the annual mother and daughter banquet on Wednesday, May 13.

Mrs. A. R. Dunsdon, who succeeded Mrs. D. L. Sanborn, as president this year, was in the chair.

Mrs. Miller accompanied them to Vernon on Sunday for a ten-day visit there.

Mrs. A. Fenwick and Mrs. Sandy Fenwick are leaving on tomorrow evening's train to go to the coast. Mrs. Fenwick, Sr. will fly to Victoria to visit her sister, Mrs. Black, and Mrs. Sandy Fenwick will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bryant in Vancouver.

Dr. and Mrs. M. D. Proverbs are leaving tomorrow for a 2 months holiday in Eastern Canada.

A son, Raymond Alan, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Moore, on Friday, Feb. 27, at the Penticton General Hospital. Mrs. Moore is the former Miss Colleen Cross.

Popular Concert . . .

School Band First Appearance Pleases Capacity Audience

Musid lovers in Summerland had a delightful evening on Friday, February 20, when approximately 725 adults and children, crowded the high school auditorium for the band concert.

On the well-planned program were selections by the senior band under Herb Pohlmann's fine direction, the junior-senior high school band under John Tamblin's able baton, and the band with the youngest players in town, the rhythm band of the Jack and Jill kindergarden with Mrs. F. Stewart, Mrs. W. Dhrick and Mrs. H. Braddick, and Mrs. L. Fudge, pianist.

The senior band, which has proved to be such an asset to Summerland, gave eight generous selections which were greatly enjoyed and applauded. There were 27 players who gave band music of a high order.

Surprise of the evening came when the curtain went up on the junior-senior high school band, with about 75 players, who astonished the audience with five excellent numbers. Remarkable was the fact that these boys and girls, some of whom have had their instruments less than three months, could give such a finished production. To mention the instruments, there were about 20 clarinets, 20 or more trumpets, four trombones, four alto horns, three bass horns, three flutes, one bass clarinet, two saxophones, five side drums, one bass drum and one oboe. All had music racks which had been made and painted by the pupils, and the whole performance went off with military precision.

The little boys and girls in the rhythm band had gay red capes with matching pill box hats, and marched and played with zest to give everyone and themselves much pleasure.

Variety was added to the program with vocal solos by R. Alstead; violin solo by Ronnie Downes; accordion solo by Marcel Bonthoux; and trumpet solo by Keith Johnson of Penticton.

Miss Kay Hamilton's Girl's Choir grouped charmingly, sang five numbers, with Miss Hamilton conducting and were happily received as part of the evening's musical treat.

Proceeds from the concert went to both the senior and the school bands.

This Is DISCRIMINATION!

We Place Our Case Before the Bar of Public Opinion

FOR SEVERAL months now we, the employees of the Provincial Government, have been seeking from the Government the right to Arbitration of our conditions of work—without success. This, despite the fact that during the last election campaign, 29 Social Credit candidates expressed themselves in favour of the principle of arbitration for Government employees. Eleven of these 29 were elected, of whom six are members of the present cabinet—including the Minister of Labour. We feel that the continued refusal of the Government to grant us what is now the common possession of all other groups of employees in the Province—the right to Arbitration—forces us to seek the support of a higher authority in our request—that of The People. Why is it that Government Employees—who serve you, the public—are anxious to have this right of Arbitration?

FIRSTLY: The right of employees to co-operate with each other, and to bargain collectively with their employers over their conditions of work, has existed for generations. This right is now a civil right, guaranteed by law to all groups or organized employees in our Province, except us. This right has developed over centuries and is deeply rooted in our political and economic development. It has followed logically from this that laws have been passed, enabling employees and employers to submit their differences respecting wages and working conditions to conciliation and arbitration.

SECONDLY: In the past, Provincial Governments have passed such legislation as: The Annual Holidays Act, guaranteeing annual holidays; the Minimum Wage Act, to provide a minimum wage; the Hours of Work Act, setting forth the maximum hours that may be worked; and many similar Acts regulating working conditions of employees. The Government has also passed the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act which provides the right to Conciliation and Arbitration. All this legislation has been passed by our Provincial Governments in the interests of all employees in the Province, except their own employees. Why is this so? Because Section 35 of the Interpretation Act places the Government above the laws it legislates. Thus, while the Government can pass, and has passed, legislation regulating the labour relations of all other employers in the Province, it refuses to be bound by its own laws in its dealing with its own employees. The B.C. Government Employees Association, representing 10,000 Government employees, feels that this is a complete negation of democratic principles. We believe,—and public opinion agrees—that what is good enough for all other employers should be good enough for the Government.

THIRDLY: The right of arbitration has been extended to employees in the industrial or economic sector of our economy. It has also been extended to all other groups of employees who provide vital public services, such as—nurses, teachers, policemen, firemen, employees of civic and municipal governments, etc. It has never been extended to Provincial Government employees although they are prepared to forego the right to take strike action in return for the Right to Arbitration with binding award.

The B.C. Government Employees Association feels that this relegation of Government employees to a second-class level of citizenship is unfair and unwarranted discrimination. Refusal of the Government to act on our request for Arbitration forces Government employees to appeal to their last court of resource—to you, the people—for support in gaining what is not merely a condition of employment, but a civil right. We therefore ask you to write or wire your MLA today, asking him to support, on the floor of the Legislature, the right of Government employees to Arbitration.

It Costs Money To Modernize Your Orchard — But It Costs You More If You Don't

When you plan essential orchard improvements, don't delay because you're short of ready cash. Modernization helps to increase your yields, cut your costs, swell your net profits. Many improvements are investments that pay you big dividends in the end. Any every month they're postponed costs you the money you'd otherwise be making.

If you haven't enough ready cash to cover the beginning of your modernization program, a Bank of Montreal Farm Improvement Loan may be your answer. It's a low-cost loan—only five per cent interest—and it's available for the purchases of tractors, trucks, refrigerators and other electrical appliances, the construction and improvement of farmhouses and out-buildings, the clearing of land, and the installation of sprinkler systems. And repayment can be made in easy instalments, timed to match seasonal-income periods.

Call in and have a chat with Ivor Solly, manager of the West Summerland B of M, about your improvement plans. You can count on him to give you every possible assistance. If it's inconvenient for you to call personally, write for a copy of "Quis for a Go-Ahead Farmer," the B of M folder about Farm Improvement Loans. You'll find it a handy check-list for your own farm-modernization needs.

Ottawa Reports

dicted by a free Parliament to any Government, however benign or however benevolent. This measure, he went on, conveys to the cabinet, absolute power, without challenge in the courts and it grants to the state, despotic powers over every business and indeed over every citizen in this country, if the government so chooses.

He quoted an article from the "Vancouver Sun" written by Dilig O'Leary, headed "What Price Democracy", which says in part: "It is my view that if Canadians set any great store by free speech and parliamentary institutions, they would be up in arms about a measure now before parliament—the emergency powers act. Here is the issue: Will parliament of our elected representatives govern, making its decisions in open debate or will we have government by cabinet decrees made in secret discussions behind closed doors and legislated by orders-in-council?"

Mr. O'Leary went on to point out that we might forget these powers are there and some day be surprised by some government confronting us with dictatorial powers. However the main attack has been to challenge the government to prove that an emergency now exists, which as far as the opposition is concerned, they have failed to do.

During 1952, 344,743 tons of coal were brought in from Great Britain and 3,563,734 tons of coal brought in from the U.S. This was given in answer to a question on that point last week and Mr. C. Gillis, member from Cape Breton, wanted to know the names of the firms who imported this coal into Canada. The reason behind this question is fairly obvious; that the coal mines of Nova Scotia are working part-time as there is no market for their product.

The same is true of Drumheller, Crows Nest Pass and Princeton in this riding. However the government were adamant and refused to give the names of the firms. The opposition forced a vote on this issue but of course the government supporters backed their stand. It is regrettable that so much coal is brought into Canada while our own coal mines are idle for lack of a market. It seems a peculiar policy when we think of the millions of tons that are available in Alberta and B.C. alone, with crews of splendid miners ready to produce it for consumption.

Brownies

her way to visit various testing stations about the hall.

Mrs. B. Blagborne examined the Brownies in semaphore, compass, the national anthem, carrying a message, rules of courtesy and care of a plant. Mrs. C. MacKenzie had charge of ball-throwing and skipping as well as parcel tying and demonstrations of a singing game. As the weather was favorable, fire-fighting was capably tested out-doors by Miss Theed who also examined Brownies in their knitting. The cooking, tidying of a drawer and shoe cleaning was tested by Mrs. T. Washington.

Following the session tea and juice was served to the testers, Brownies and visitors including Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Durick, badge secretary, who had worked very hard "behind the scenes" with Guiders and other association members to make this experiment such a success.

Our sincere thanks go out to the testers and all those who made the afternoon such a pleasant experience for the Brownies.

It is hoped that this new system will ease the problems of golden hand testing, raise the standard of work and pave the way to equality and uniformity. An average of 85% is required to pass under this system.

The next testing session will be held in May and another is planned for November. These sessions three times a year should give each Brownie a good opportunity to learn her golden hand work in plenty of time with the examinations date and the date of her 11th birthday firmly fixed in her mind. Failure to complete the test by her 11th birthday disqualifies the Brownie from receiving her wings. Allowances will be made in case of illness.

The success of this project locally may lead it being used as a divisional project with a central testing station to which Brownies from various districts can come on specified dates to be examined.

Brownies who attended last Saturday's test and passed so well, are Caroline Reid, Vicky Cuthbert, Dianne Hannah, Barbara Tait and Helen Farrow. Congratulations to our new First Class Brownies.—Brown Owl.

C. E. McCUTCHEON — LOCAL REPRESENTATIVE

By Jack Dunham.

The town of Summerland is indeed fortunate in having within its district a beauty spot known as the Dominion Experimental Station, for this is not only an agricultural centre but is also the stamping grounds of some of the Okanagan's top shuttle stars.

The local badminton club has been bringing home, week after week, many of the top honors in valley play. Such players are Dave Waddell, Cece Morgan and Dorothy MacLeod, to mention only a few, have been some of the top contenders in the valley.

Along with these stout performers is a gent who is Summerland's own Mr. "Court Wise" himself, George Fudge. George has always proven himself as the man to beat, and down through the years has won practically every title imaginable. Nary a season goes past that does not see George battling his way through to the finals in all the major tournaments hereabouts.

With George Fudge and Dave Waddell as a nucleus, the Summerland club is this year keeping up its winning ways, and this weekend a strong contingent from here will journey to Kelowna for the Central Okanagan championship. This writer, for one, wishes them lots of luck in this and other tournament play throughout the rest of the season and hopes that they can keep the Summerland Athletic Club stars on the top.

Merchants come to life!! . . . too late

Joe Sheeley gets hopping mad when he thinks about last Monday's Senior "B" hoop final in Penticton. His Merchants, inspired by a last-half shuffle in the line-up, made the Penticton Omegas look silly by peppering 42 points through the hoop to the home-town 30.

The reason Joe is so mad is because his lads have been beaten unmercifully by the Omegas in every game this year, and didn't find out until last Monday's game that they could actually do any more than be stooges of the southerners.

Team with no name

When is our hockey team going to find themselves a name?

The nameless wonders are currently battling in Coy Cup competition. If, by chance they fought into such a position where they were a strong contender for the intermediate crown, what, may I ask, would they call themselves. Just plain Summerland, you say? Now, I ask you, what would Kelowna be without "Packers"? Or how about Toronto without Maple Leafs?

Once upon a time a contest was held, and a prize offered for the best name submitted to the hockey executive. I wonder who it was

Croft Rink Takes Top Honors In Ladies' First Bonspiel

"A lot of fun" was the consensus of participants after the first Summerland ladies' open bonspiel held at the Arena last Friday and Saturday, when 16 rinks engaged in keen competition.

Winning first in the "A" event was Mrs. Wm. Croft's rink with team members Mrs. Russell White, Mrs. Harvey Mitchell and Mrs. A. Gronlund. Their prizes were silver butter dishes shaped like curling stones.

Second in the "A" event was Mrs. Harry Hackman's rink with Mrs. Fred Schumann, Mrs. Gordon Young and Mrs. Walter Bleasdale, who were given glass plates.

The Wheeler rink from Oliver took the third prizes in this class which were cups and saucers, and fourth position went to the Whinton rink from Peachland, whose players took home attractive vases.

In "B" classification Mrs. Harvey Eden skipped for Mrs. Walter Toavs, Mrs. C. F. M. Guernsey and Mrs. Ray Fredrickson, and won first place to capture dainty clear plastic boxes each containing three pairs of nylon stockings.

Second in the "B" list was Mrs. Norman Holmes' rink with Mrs. Eddie Hannah, Mrs. T. McKay and Mrs. N. O. Solly, winning nylon blouses.

Pictures were the third prizes in this class, won by Mrs. W. Milne and her three curlers, Mrs. I. G. Thornstainson, Mrs. Lloyd Shannon and Mrs. Lil Barwick.

Mrs. K. E. Thomson skipped to fourth place in the "B" event for Mrs. Earle Wilson, Mrs. G. A. Laidlaw and Mrs. Jack Raincock, who won cups and saucers.

In the "C" grouping, first place was taken by Mrs. W. Eyre and her team-mates, Mrs. George Fausse, Mrs. George Dunadon and Mrs. Alex Inch, who were awarded bedroom slippers.

Mrs. Dave McInnis skipped to win second place in the "C" bracket with Mrs. W. B. Greer, Mrs. A. Blissett and Mrs. Jack Broderick, all of whom won scarves.

Third place in this class went to the Topham rink at Peachland and the prizes for each was a year's subscription to the Summerland Review.

Final and fourth win in "C" was by Mrs. Cecil Wade, playing with Mrs. Les Rumball, Mrs. Gordon Beggs and Mrs. Charles Nesbitt, and the prizes were boxes of chocolates.

From 4 to 6 o'clock on Saturday a delicious pot-luck supper was served at the rink by the ladies, and it was greatly appreciated by the hungry players.

Out-of-town players expressed pleasure at the friendliness and hospitality afforded them here, and the hope that they may return to another bonspiel.

Richardson Top Scorer

Summerland In First-Place Tie After Victory Over Garagemen

Rocky Richardson Sunday afternoon took over Commercial League top scoring position and sparked his Summerland pucksters to first-place tie position when they downed the Garagemen 7-5. Richardson was unable to get the disc into the twines himself but on three of the goals he was credited with assists.

Taylor took scoring honors in the game and four times he had the light winking, once unassisted. In the first period, Taylor acted as though he had a copyright on the scoring privilege and banged home the only three tallies of the frame. For the first he had assistance from Steininger, next time around it was Richardson who fed him the set-up and for the third the two of them shared an assist.

Garagemen got their first taste of blood shortly after the second period got underway when Gibson scored unassisted. Steininger with help from Richardson and Mann backed by Kato accounted for two more for Summerland in the middle session.

Tempo of the game stepped up in the third period and a total of five penalties were called as the boys started going all-out. Samas with an assist from Newton opened the scoring for the period and then Kato with the help of Campbell batted one home. Score continued to see-saw as Wyatt, assisted by Samas and Bird took the next. Taylor unassisted, the next, Samas from Bird and Newton, the next.

The turn-about scoring ended there when Gibson took a pass from Harris for the final count. Lone penalty of the first period went to Holowaty for tripping while in the second frame, Mann drew a sentence for charging and Holowaty for playing with a broken stick. Mann went off again in the third for slashing and then he and Bird went to the sin bin together for high sticking. Campbell drew a penalty for slashing and Gibson for interfering.

1st Period: 1, Summerland, Taylor (Steininger) 5:27; 2, Summerland, Taylor (Richardson) 8:20; 3, Summerland, Taylor (Richardson, Steininger) 17:37.

Penalties: Holowaty. 2nd Period: 4, Penticton, Gibson 1:40; 5, Summerland, Steininger (Richardson) 11:56; 6, Summerland, Mann (Kato) 16:44.

All-Stars Take Two-Point Lead In First of Total-Point Series

Summerland All-Stars got off to a healthy start in their two-game total-point Coy Cup semi-finals against Vernon Tuesday night and will have a two-goal advantage when they travel to Vernon Saturday for the last half of the fixture. They took their first game 6-5.

Summerland was definitely entitled to Tuesday night's victory and generally produced an all-around better brand of hockey than Vernon. Prospects of the local pucksters look good for taking this play-off match.

Rocky Richardson who has been showing top-notch form every time he takes the ice upheld that tradition and raked up two of the goals for Summerland while his team mate, Montgomery duplicated the effort.

Holowaty sent home the puck after five minutes of play in the first period to draw first blood for Summerland and Richardson then raked up two before Samartino tallied Vernon's first. Montgomery then scored for Summerland and Bidowski got one in for Vernon in the closing seconds of the period.

In the middle stanza the Vernon boys made a strong stand and Wyatt and Spolny each countered to equalize the score. That, however, put an end to the Vernon scoring and before the period ended, McLean sent the disc home to push Summerland out in the lead again.

In the final period, Rothfield pushed home the only marker to give Summerland their two-point lead to set them up for the final game. Eight times the referee lowered the boom on arrant players, the last to get the signal being Grycon and Balkwell who went off for roughing at 19:59 of the third period.

1st Period: 1, Summerland, Holowaty (Grycon) 5:14; 2, Summerland, Richardson (Taylor) 12:10; 3, Summerland, Richardson (Taylor) 13:40; 4, Vernon, Samartino (A. Richardson) 15:19; 5, Summerland, Montgomery (Collins) 19:18; 6, Vernon, Bidowski (Spelay) 19:18.

Penalties: Montgomery, Bidowski, Balkwell.

2nd Period: 7, Vernon, Wyatt (Spelay) 14:11; 8, Vernon, Spolny 15:50; 9, Summerland, McLean (Holowaty, Grycon) 18:15.

Penalties: Catt.

3rd Period: 10, Summerland, Rothfield (Collins) 11:44.

Penalties: Harris, Grycon, Spolny, Balkwell. Line-up: Summerland—Moog, Harris, Taylor, McLean, Mann, Montgomery, Steininger, Campbell, Collins, Rothfield, Kato, Richardson, Grycon, Holowaty. Omegas Score 49-Point Advantage To Oust Merchants from Play-offs

Summerland senior cagers turned on the steam Monday night for the last half of the second game in their two-game total-point semi-final series with Penticton Omegas but the big push came too late, and they bowed out of the play-downs with a decisive margin of 49 points against them. Score in Monday night's game was Penticton 78, Summerland 62. Penticton took the first game last week 74-41.

Penticton started off working like a well-oiled machine and by the time the game was half over, they had piled up a comfortable 30-point lead with the score standing at 48-18. The local boys, however, started pouring on the coal when the game entered the third quarter and Cristante and Day each accounted for nine points in this stanza and by the time it ended, five points had been lopped off the Penticton lead.

In the final frame, it was Guidi with nine points and Cristante with seven who sparked the Merchants but they managed to do nothing more than to chop down the lead by another nine points.

Scoring honors went to Penticton's Hanlon with 20 and Eshleman with 19. Cristante came in behind them with 17 and Day with 16.

Line-up: Summerland—Cristante 17, Aikin

8, Day 16, Weitzel 5, Adams 2, D. Nesbitt 4, L. Nesbitt 1, Guidi 8, Johnson 1—62.

Penticton—Bennett 14, McLean 4, Eshleman 19, Jordan 8, Hanlon 20, Russell 6, Burgart 2, Smith 4—78.

Referee—W. D. Clark.

Business Municipality Near Half-Mark

Corporation of Summerland business. April 30, 1953, nudged the half-million dollar mark with total disbursements for the year reaching $464,000 while receipts amounted to $435,000. Detailed financial statement of the corporation appears on pages 8 and 9 of The Review this week.

Biggest chunk of spending went on the purchase of power and maintenance of the electrical system, which required $100,000. Cost of education to the municipality was $79,000 while debt charges and sinking fund required $50,000.

Capital payments provided out of revenue required $38,000, and included in this item were payments for electric light system, irrigation system, equipment for municipal office, fire protection and police station, as well as road equipment and machinery.

Public works required $13,000, with the bulk of this, $12,000, going on roads maintenance.

Protection to persons and property cost a total of $8,000, $3,000 going for fire protection and $2,000 for police protection.

Municipal government cost the corporation $18,000. On community services the municipality spent $6,500.

Total of taxes collected for the year was $115,000, while public utilities added $143,000 to the coffers. Municipalities share in S.S. and M.A. tax and motor vehicle licenses was $55,000.

Views of Bermuda Shown to Kiwanis

Kiwanians on Monday evening, March 9, following their regular dinner, saw with interest beautiful colored pictures of Bermuda shown by Mrs. R. G. Russel.

Mrs. Russel, who recently returned from a trip to the famous island, took the views herself, and gave a fluent commentary as the scenes were projected, telling of the history and life in Bermuda.

Novel Program To Teach Safety

Junior Chamber of Commerce at their meeting last night lined up a series of projects for the season and one interesting undertaking will supply youngsters with amusement and at the same time deliver a telling safety message.

Program for the youngsters calls for distribution of coloring books each of which contains seven injured cut-out dolls. With each is a brief story of what safety rule the doll was breaking when she was injured. While coloring and cutting out the dolls, the youngsters will learn an important safety rule. Cover of the book is a hospital cut-out.

Jaycees set the date for their annual spring clean-up for April 8 and 11. On those days they will tour the community with a couple of trucks to pick up all trash that has been cleared out of homes during spring cleaning.

In a campaign to eliminate posters scattered on poles and buildings through the district, the meeting decided to find a suitable location for a community bulletin board where posters announcing coming events can be posted.

Jaycees convention in North Vancouver in May was discussed and the local chamber are in hopes of having a delegate in attendance at the sessions.

Brush With Deer Causes $260 Damage

Newcomer to the district, John Langelo, last week ran into hard luck when he went for a drive with his son to have a look at their new surroundings. Near Trepanier a deer suddenly jumped onto the road in front of the car, giving the driver no opportunity to avoid him.

Damage to the car amounted to about $260. The deer got up and bounded off. Neither of the Langelo's were injured.

TAXES CUT

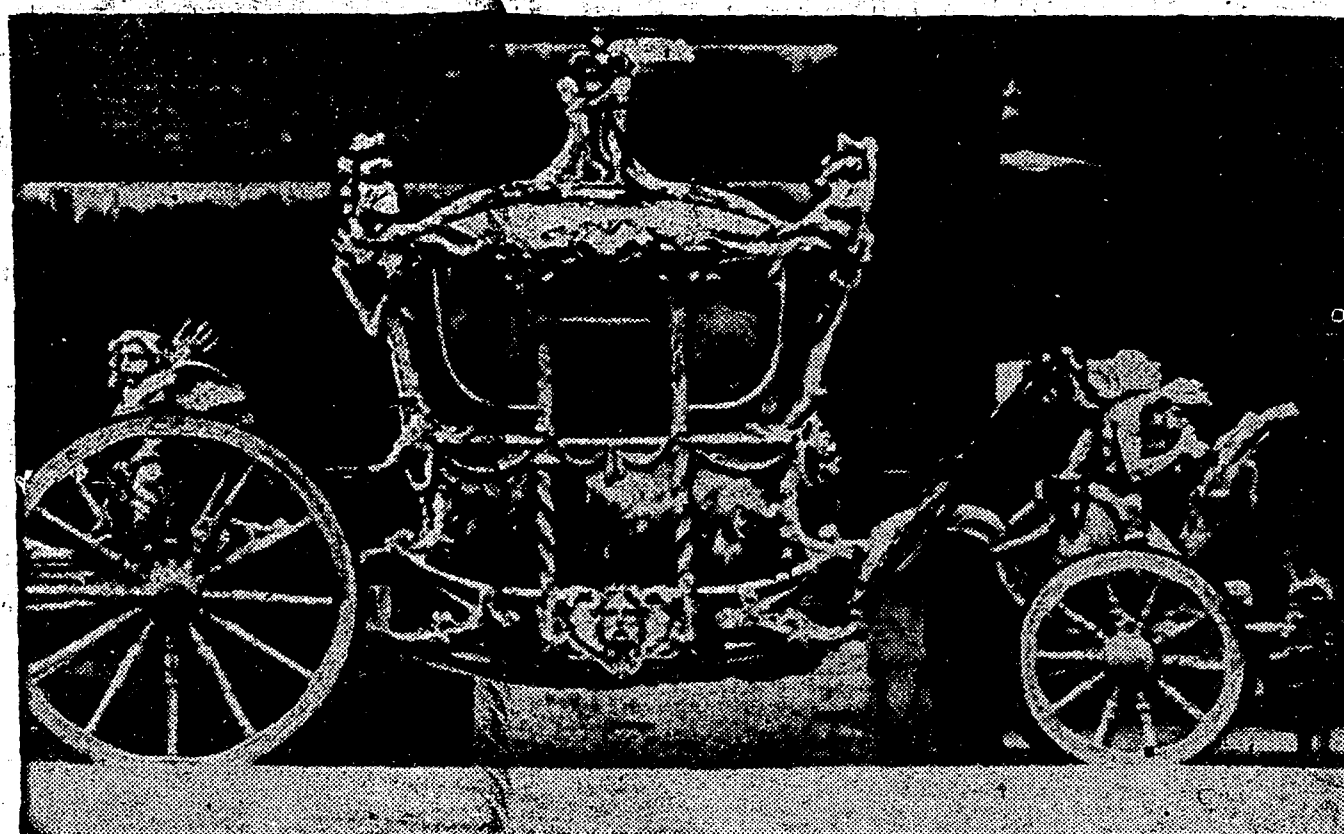

A special by-law to reduce taxes of Summerland Rink Association by 50 per cent was approved Tuesday afternoon by the municipal council.

QUEEN ELIZABETH sits in her Coronation coach, above, at the Royal Mews during a recent trial run for the June ceremony. The ancient coach has been completely renovated, with a complete stripping down of 350 component parts and re-gilding at a cost of $10,000. Her Majesty was driven twice around the Royal Mews during the trial run.

Record Prune Crop If Carol's Right

Complexities of the English language often leave adults more than somewhat bewildered; so what must it be to a four-year-old mind.

Like Carol Clifford a few days ago when she polished off a dish of prunes and announced to her mother, Mrs. Ann Clifford, that she was mighty fond of prunes.

With an orchardist in the family it looked as though it wouldn't be too hard to satisfy that appetite so the mother answered that they could get some from "Uncle Ray" after the crop is in this summer.

"Oh! He's got lots of them right now," said Carol.

Her mother being better informed on the growing season disputed the daughter's statement. "I'm sure he has," insisted the little one, "because he said he's been out in the orchard pruning every day for a couple of weeks".

Irrigation System To Be Readied Early

Because of the dry winter season, an effort will be made to have the irrigation system ready earlier this year, Water Foreman E. Kercher reported to the council on Tuesday.

He said that sections of the system would probably be ready by April 1.

Optimistic of Outcome

About Half Red Cross Objective Reached in Porchlight Campaign

First returns from the Red Cross "porch light" campaign Monday night indicate a slower response than last year when the system was first tried, but Chairman E. E. Bates expressed optimism that the quota of $3,000 will be reached before the campaign books are closed off.

To date, only about half the objective has been turned in by canvassers but returns are still to be received from several of them. Misfortune struck the canvassing organization when three of the organizers came down with illness Monday and were unable to carry out their portion of the work on the designated night.

It will take several weeks of "mopping up", the campaign chairman said, to cover businesses and organizations and for canvassers to call back to homes which were missed and by that time, he said, the objective should be reached. Last year, collections in Summerland went slightly over the top.

Anyone who has been overlooked and who wishes to make donations to the campaign may do so at A. K. Elliott's store.

Council Offers $200 For Road Property

Perennial subject which has dogged municipal council agendas for 40 years came up again Tuesday afternoon when councillors discussed what offer they were prepared to make to W. Arnett for the piece of his property on which the Gulch Road encroaches.

It was finally decided to offer Mr. Arnett $200 for the property and release from any further claim against the municipality. The owner originally asked $1,000 for the property but at the last meeting said he was willing to accept $200. Council's top offer at that meeting was "a-cent-a-day" for the 42 years the road has been in use. (That would have worked out to $185.40.)

The clerk was instructed to advise Mr. Arnett of this latest offer.

APPROVE COOKIE STAND

Municipal council Tuesday afternoon granted a request of Girl Guides to operate a cookie stand on Granville Street on April 25 in connection with their annual fundraising campaign. Request for permission to operate the stand was made by Mrs. J. Marshall.

Donation Provides New Equipment

Summerland General hospital within the next few days will receive an important addition to the equipment of the institution with the arrival of an incubator which has been donated to the hospital by Mrs. W. R. Boyd.

Need for an incubator here was pointed up recently when use for such equipment arose twice within a month. The Hospital Auxiliary was preparing to launch a drive to raise funds for the purchase when Mrs. Boyd made her generous offer.

The new incubator is the very latest design and is identical to the type provided by the department of health in the premature baby clinic at St. Paul's hospital in Vancouver. The incubator is portable and, in addition to heating apparatus, is equipped with oxygen attachments.

Choose Delegates To Provincial Meet

Members of Summerland Branch, Canadian Legion, last night approved expenditure of an amount not to exceed $800 for improvements in the branch quarters and chose as delegates to the provincial command convention in Nanaimo, President Harry Howis and Tom Charity.

Four new members were received into the branch at the meeting last night and it was announced an intense membership drive will be launched in the district later this year to try and bring into the Legion all ex-servicemen living in the district. New members were: Joe Biollo, Clarence Lackey, Dennis Wighton and Gordon Crockett. Donations were approved to the Red Cross, Salvation Army and Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Members were urged to attend the next zone meeting to be held here on March 29 and it was explained that while only delegates were permitted to participate in discussions, the membership would find the session to be most interesting.

A report was heard from the delegate to the community meeting to arrange coronation day celebration and the branch agreed to accept the job allotted to them of arranging a fireworks program to climax the activities of the day.

Many Parents Attend School Open House

Education week was observed in Summerland on Thursday afternoon, March 5, when the public was invited to visit the MacDonald and the junior-senior high schools.

A large number took advantage of this yearly opportunity to visit the various departments, which make up a modern school, as well as to meet and chat with the teaching staff.

Mrs. F. W. Downes was convener for the P-TA tea which was served in the home economics' room, and she was assisted by the president, Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, and other members, Mrs. M. Greenslade, Mrs. C. F. Gale, Mrs. G. Gunnar, Mrs. C. Adams, Mrs. Ewart Woodlams and Mrs. J. Sheeley. Through their efforts a sum of over $14 was raised for P-TA work.

Local Flood Relief Closes Saturday

With European Flood Relief Fund collections being closed, out locally on Saturday, contributions this week have been tapering off and total raised in this district for the flood victims stands at slightly over $1,500.

The Summerland Community Fund today totalled $1,390. Balance of the total collected was forwarded from the district through other funds.

Final event in Summerland to raise funds for flood relief will be a bingo Saturday night in the IOOF hall under sponsorship of Kiwanis Club.

Second Coy Cup Game Penticton Tomorrow

Summerland last night put up a worthwhile battle at Kamloops in the opening fixture of the Coy Cup series but couldn't keep up as Kamloops knocked off a 9-4 win.

Decision was reached before the game to make it a three-game series rather than on total points from two games and second game will be played tomorrow night in Penticton.

Hear Social Service Reviewed

Mel Ducommun Unanimously Chosen President of Summerland Rotary Club

Mel Ducommun was chosen by acclamation as new president of Summerland Rotary Club Friday night when nominations were heard for the slate of officers for 1953. Also named by acclamation was Roy F. Angus who was re-elected to the post of secretary.

Speaker on the program following the regular supper session was Ivor Jackson of Peachland, who traced the history and development of social service to its present status as a science and explained the broad field being covered in this work. Mr. Jackson was associated with the Vancouver Community Chest for 20 years before his retirement last year from the post of assistant director.

Election of remaining officers for the club will be held on March 23. Three directors are to be chosen from 10 nominated, Gordon D. Smith, R. Lawley, A. D. Coggan, J. W. Mitchell, Ross McLaughlin, Dr. H. R. McLarty, H. Wilson, L. G. Perry, A. N. Cross and Ken Booth.

Members agreed to purchase certificates for new Canadian citizens again this year and plans were discussed for the Easter dance and date set for the event was April 10. Profits from this event will go to the Youth Centre.

In his review on social work, Mr. Jackson traced the changing emphasis of the work from the original concept of rendering purely ameliorative service or "handouts" through the development of corrective services to the newest refinement of becoming a creative agency to provide a preventive service.

Mr. Jackson bracketed social service with medicine and teaching in what he termed the "three personal professions" and described the work as being "the skill of working with people in relation to their environment".

Like the other two personal services, social service, he said, had its beginning in the church and as people realized the need for these services and started paying for them, they were set up apart from the church and gradually it became apparent that these were things which should be provided for everybody.

Social service started to come into its own, said the speaker, about the turn of the century when people started to look for causes as to why some individuals were unable to fit into their environment the same as others.

From that point on, the field broadened greatly, he said, and skills of social workers were employed by doctors, institutions, industry and in other areas where personality adjustment was important to the welfare of the individual.

Accept Estimates On School Costs

Although still hazy about what the "Roiston formula" will mean to the municipality in paying school costs, Summerland municipal council Tuesday afternoon voted to accept the School District No. 77 budget which two weeks ago they rejected.

The council rejected the budget pending clarification of the new formula and acceptance Tuesday came after Reeve C. E. Bentley reported on the special UBGM meeting in Vancouver at which Premier Bennett stated there would definitely be no change in the proposed method of financing school costs.

In accepting the budget, the council added a rider to their acceptance that further clarification is required of the division of costs the municipality will be required to raise.

Reeve Bentley produced an estimated statement on the division of school costs which was prepared by the provincial government but members of the council were unable to reconcile the figures shown on the statement with the financial picture of School District No. 77. This estimated statement indicated the provincial grant to Summerland will be $11,000 higher this year. "I'll believe it when we get the money", observed Skeptic Bentley.

Municipal Council Approves Purchases

Municipal council at their meeting Tuesday afternoon approved purchase of a pole platform at a cost of $102 to provide safer working conditions for corporation linemen.

They approved also the purchase of a portable radio for the electrical department to assist in locating electrical interference.

Also considered was the purchase of an aluminum 40-foot extension ladder for the fire department to replace the painter's ladder now in use by the fire department and which is reported to be in dangerous condition. Cost of the new ladder would be $414 and the purchase was referred to the annual estimates.

Final Rites Monday For J. Matkovich

The death of Joseph Matkovich occurred at his home on Saturday, March 7, following an illness of some length.

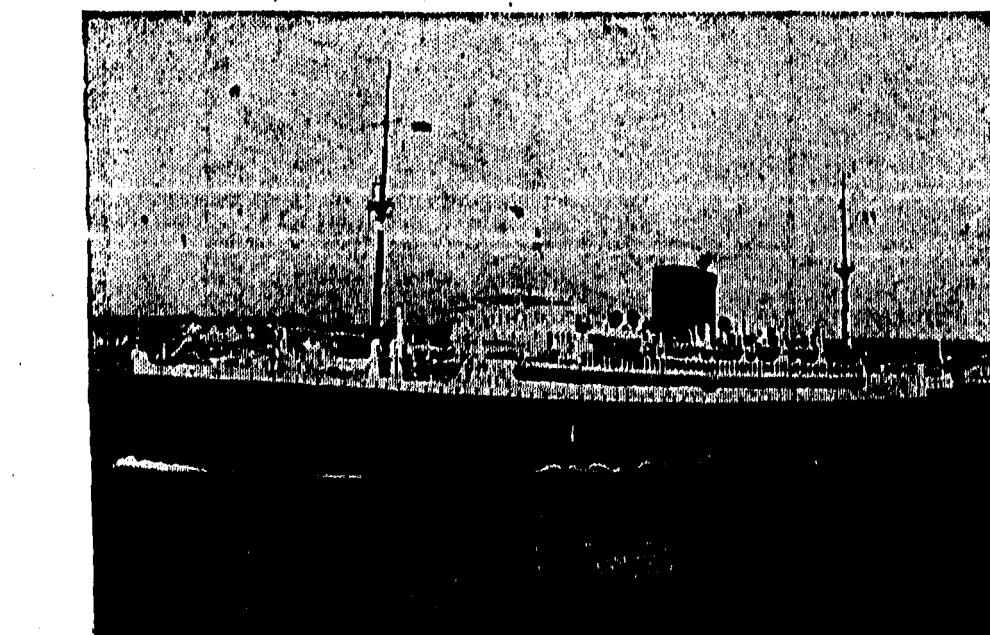

Mr. Matkovich was seventy-eight years of age.

Besides his wife he is survived by four sons, two of whom, Mike and Cyril, live here, and two, Joe and Wendell, living at Beaverdell.

He is survived, also by fourteen grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Brother Vernon Duncombe, Jehovah's Witnesses, conducted funeral services on Monday afternoon, March 9, at 2 p.m. in the Kingdom Hall, West Summerland, and interment was in Peach Orchard cemetery.

Pall bearers were C. G. Littau, J. G. Littau, A. W. Warren, A. Stein, G. Clarke and F. Woodward.

FOR CANADA-U.K. SERVICE: The 19,865-ton luxury liner De Grasse has been purchased by Canadian Pacific Steamships for the transatlantic trade. The vessel, formerly operated by the French Line on the Havre-New York service and on West Indies cruises where she built up an enviable reputation for the comfortable and spacious accommodation, will replace the Empress of Canada, which was destroyed by fire recently at her Liverpool dock. The De Grasse has accommodation for 358 first class and 355 tourist passengers. It is expected that she will enter service under her new ownership sailing from Liverpool April 28 for Montreal. The ship was scuttled by her French crew during World War II to prevent her falling into the hands of the Nazis, and after the war was refloated and completely reconditioned, re-entering peace-time service in 1947.

The quirks and queernesses peculiar to all human beings can generally be traced, according to modern psychology, to apparently trivial events in one's childhood.

For an imaginary example—since I don't know your queerities and am not quite worked up to confessing mine yet—consider the not-unusual phenomenon of a lady walking down the street with some oddity about her costume. An outlandish hat, perhaps, or blazing lipstick, or ill-matched stockings. A little boy is struck by it, turns his head to stare as they walk by each other, stubs his toe on a flaw in the concrete sidewalk, and falls on his face.

As long as he is not hurt, you'd think that just another of the many physical falls which young flesh seems heir to. In a day or so at most it would be entirely forgotten, most of us would say.

But not the psychologists. This is just the sort of trifle they like to work back to when you go to one for a check up of your mental indisposition.

To them, that simple stumble and fall might change a child's whole future life. For instance, he might be so startled by his fall that he would always lift his feet extra high from then on. Then, when he got older, he would become conscious that he walked differently from other people and worry about it. Or he might resolve that as soon as he bought his own foot wear, he'd always buy shoes with toes turned up so they'd be untrippable; and again become frustrated through the difficulty nowadays of obtaining such shoes in anything but very second hand condition.

Either of these things could make a boy, especially in his sensitive adolescent years, so conscious of being different from other people that he'd become hopelessly shy. Might even be committed to the lonely, blighted existence of a bachelor all his days.

Or if some determined young lady managed to drag him blushing to the sacrificial altar, think what might happen to the marriage of this boy who had once stumbled because of an oddity in ladies' dress. He could easily be so determined that his wife would not commit any sartorial peccadilloes that he would dictate every detail of every costume she wore; and their marriage would be on the rocks right away. Or if it was mismatched stockings that caused his fall, might he not get the notion that his wife must wear no stockings at all? And one cold winter would freeze the romance out of any stockingsless legs.

Ever try to figure out what started some of your own queer notions? I don't trouble much—nobody thinks himself queer.

But recently I've wondered why I can't get any enthusiasm about the world race into space. Everybody seems fascinated by ideas of rocket ship travel to the moon and points west; a lot of people think it wonderful that some scientists are planning a nylon space ship to ride herd on the earth, away out beyond the atmosphere, and drop atom bombs on anyone who doesn't clean his teeth according to the space-shippers instructions.

All of which merely makes me shudder. I'd much rather stay home and dig my garden than go on a space ship trip anywhere, or see the world dominated by any nylon island—no matter what its gauge or denier.

This goes back, I suspect, to a time when I was very young and there was a comet blazing in the northern sky. Our whole family went out behind the henhouse one sparkling autumn night to watch it.

And afterward, when I was in bed and supposedly asleep, my most talkative brother held forth to the rest on the nature of comets, how huge their tails were, how a comet's tail would burn the earth to cinders if the twain should meet and you could never tell where or when a comet would barge into the earth's galaxy, confidently wagging its tail.

The thought of the earth being scorched to a crisp took hold of my childish imagination; probably I lay awake whimpering in horror half the night. I've never wanted to step out into that dangerous, comet-infested space since.

And when all the rest of you are buying weekend excursion tickets to Mars, I'll probably be cowering among my chrysanthemums. Or else sneaking through the backdoor into a psychologist's office, to see if he can give me a mental pill to correct this unfortunate attack of atomic indigestion.

Thirty Years Ago — March 22, 1923

A large bush fire at Trout Creek caused considerable uneasiness for a time. No serious damage was done.

There was much activity at the Experimental Farm, with the starting of work on the land. Extra teams were engaged. A powerful pumping plant was ordered to be installed for lifting water to augment station irrigation service. Superintendent Helmer stated the shore pumping plant was to be used only to irrigate the low land in the vicinity.

Summerland had one of the most powerful receiving sets in Canada, according to Capt. P. S. Roe, who had his radio equipped with a loud speaker, and planned to give a public entertainment, and donate the proceeds to the hospital.

Mrs. R. M. Ross returned home from Vancouver where she has been staying with Donald who was taking a course in telegraphy. He was given leave of absence from the CPR office here for that purpose.

Twenty-Five Years Ago—March 16, 1928

The checker marathon between Summerland and West Summerland was run off at Stark's store, with West Summerland ahead 13 wins and eight draws, and Summerland having five wins and eight draws. A Leader Passes... but the threat lingers on

THIS week a world figure was laid to rest while the people of the free world mourned, not his death, but his life.

Joseph Stalin was a man of a great personality. He could not have been otherwise to hold power as he did over the Russian people and keep about him a unified high command. It is a tribute to his great personality that, in spite of his ruthlessness, that he died of natural causes rather than of an assassin's bullet. It was a great loss to the world that he used his talents for evil rather than for good.

It is never accepted as good taste to speak unkindly of the dead but it is not easy to find words of kindness to describe a man who perpetrated heinous crimes against humanity and who plotted to extend his ruthless rule to enslave free people throughout the world.

Decision Awaited... it's up to the public now

WHENEVER services are disrupted by strike, there is always a hullabaloo from the public demanding there should be some protection for the third party involved—the consumer. This is a reasonable argument and it will be a great step forward when some means can be discovered to settle labor differences without the hardships inflicted on employee, employer and consumer such as result from strike action.

In appealing for protection from strike, the public has assumed a responsibility—that of doing its share if called upon when a course other than strike is followed by an employee group.

The B.C. Government Employees Association has taken its case before the highest court in the land—the people. The response to this appeal will give a strong indication as to how interested the public actually is in seeing labor differences settled without disruption of services.

There is another reason why the people of the province should take a vital interest in this dispute. The dissatisfied group are in the employ of the government which means every citizen of the province has a direct responsibility if their employees are being denied rights to which they are properly entitled.

It is not for us to say without further information whether the government employees are right in their demands or not. Certainly their approach to the problem has been one to enlist sympathy. They have presented their case publicly in a straight-forward manner and it is difficult to figure any legitimate excuse that can be offered by our representatives at Victoria for not meeting these demands.

However, we believe there are two sides to

Mid-Week Message

This do in remembrance of me. (Luke 22: 19.) Read John 15:12-17.

With tender insight and feeling, Ian MacLaren wrote of the events that took place in the upper room where Jesus and His disciples had gathered. As MacLaren recalls those parting hours of deep emotion, the ultimate depth was reached, he felt, in Jesus' appeal to His disciples, "This do in remembrance of me."

Now that His life in the flesh is soon to end, Jesus probably ponders the thought that He may fade traceless out of their lives. Surely His own heart's passionate longing was that those closest in fellowship should not forget Him. "This do in remembrance of me"—this was His request of the disciples.

Today, around the world, many Christian people are kneeling to partake of the Lord's Supper at the table that encircles the earth. When we thus partake of it together, seeking forgiveness, praying for a spirit of brotherly love, then it is that we come closest to fulfilling the Master's inmost desire: "This do in remembrance of me."

PRAYER

Our gracious Father, we thank Thee for the life of Thy Son, our Saviour. We have no words to describe the beauty of the harmony of His earthly life with Thy purpose and will for Him. Despite our conflicts and trials, help us to be Christlike in our faithfulness to Thee. In our Redeemer's name. Amen.

The Lighter Side

Shortly after two o'clock on a bitter cold morning a physician drove four miles in answer to a call. On his arrival the man who summoned him, said: "Doctor, I ain't in any particular pain, but I've got a feeling death is near."

The doctor felt the man's pulse and listened to his heart. "Have you made your will?" grunted the Doc.

The man turned pale. "Why, no, Doc—oh, Doc, it ain't true, is it?"

"Who is your lawyer? Better send for him, too," suggested the doctor.

The patient, now white and trembling, called his lawyer.

"Better send for your pastor, too," continued the doctor.

"But, doctor, surely you don't think—do you really think I'm nearing the end?" groaned the patient.

The doctor looked at him with steely eyes. "No, of course not. There's nothing the matter with you. But I'd hate to be the only man you've made a fool of on a night like this!"

out the world.

It is only wishful, thinking to hope that with the passing of Stalin that world Communism will disintegrate. There are men just as ruthless and with the same singleness of purpose to take his place—and there are the same number of traitors in our midst who will carry on their efforts to undermine the system of government that is part and parcel of the Canadian way of life.

The shadow of Communism will continue to hover over the free world just as it has in the past. While this threat continues—and it is likely to for some time to come—eternal vigilance is the price of democracy.

We must never forget it was Stalin—not Communism—that was this week laid to rest.

every story and before forming an opinion, we would like to know why our representatives have denied government employees the same right that has been legislated for other employees.

It is the government's duty to answer the statements of the Government Employees Association. The employees have carried the hearing before the bar of public opinion rather than take unpopular strike action so it is only right that the public should have all the facts so that a decision can be handed down.

It is the responsibility of the people to demand this statement from their representatives and then with all the facts at hand on which to base an opinion, give instruction to their member as to what course he is to follow.

Responsibility as a citizen does not end with marking a cross on a ballot slip and dropping it in a box—he continues to share responsibility for every action of the man chosen to represent him.

Letters to the Editor

Another Viewpoint

Editor, The Review,
Dear Sir:

Thank you for the opportunity to present another side of the question. Is it advisable to have a liquor store in Summerland? We believe that it is human nature to want a change of scenery occasionally and especially if one has a car the stores of a neighboring city are enticing and interesting. We also believe that many do shop without making liquor purchases. However, it serves to make one realize the quality and attractiveness of our own stores with their reasonable prices and friendly services.

There are examples of towns that have become successful without liquor stores and also towns and villages that are very much down at the heel with liquor stores.

Statistics record that the more accessible the outlet the more liquor is consumed even though some opinions are to the contrary. Money thus spent is obviously not helpful to Summerland merchants.

Yours very truly,

Open Letter

Editor, The Review,
Dear Sir:

May we request your valuable space to place before your readers the following Open Letter?

Hon. W. A. C. Bennett,
MLA for South Okanagan
Sir:

We, the employees of the Provincial Government, are the only group of employees in B.C. who are denied the right to Conciliation and Arbitration. This right of the worker—to bargain with his employer over working conditions—is guaranteed as a civil right to all other workers under Provincial Law except us. For several months we have appealed to the Government to grant us this right which we have been seeking from previous Governments for over five years. Our efforts on behalf of some 10,000 Provincial Government employees have met with refusal. The present Cabinet's only action has been to suggest hoisting our request for a further six months "to study the principle". We rejected this on the ground that we are only requesting recognition of a civil right which already is a matter of principle—established by law years ago.

On February 5th last we wired the Hon. The Premier expressing our disappointment of his Government's lack of recognition of this principle. We also stated that we were prepared to participate in a study of the application of the principle—if our civil right was recognized. To date we have not even had the courtesy of a reply from the Premier.

Having thus had our rightful request ignored we are now placing our case before the highest authority—the people. We believe that the people of British Columbia support us wholeheartedly in this demand.

The Industrial and Conciliation Act was passed by our Provincial Governments in the interests of all employees in this province—yet the Government refuses to be bound by its own laws in dealing with its own employees. This is a complete negation of democratic principles, and is discriminatory to say the least. It places us, who serve the public, in the category of second-class citizenship. Is this democracy? Is this justice? Is this Canadianism? We do not think so. Do you? We don't think you do because when you were a candidate in the last election you expressed yourself in favour of the principle of Arbitration for Government employees in answer to direct questions from representatives of our Association. We would also point out that 81 of the present government's candidates so expressed themselves. Eleven of these were elected, and of this number, six are now Cabinet ministers.

The time is long since passed when this injustice should be righted without further delay. We therefore publicly and respectfully appeal to you to exert the influence of your Legislative office to this end.

Yours sincerely,

E. P. O'CONNOR, General Secretary,

Ottawa Report

BY O. L. JONES, MP for Yale

The South Saskatchewan dam seems a page of history at the present time; which has upset the Liberal members from that province as they had great hopes of retaining their seats on the promise of this dam being completed and a vast irrigated area brought into productivity. Possibly no one felt this more than the minister of agriculture, Mr. Gardiner, who had built great hopes on this project. So, it was no surprise to many of us to read that he has produced another carrot out of the hat.

This time, Mr. Gardiner, speaking in Yorkton, Saskatchewan, got enthused over the possible construction of a new railway to link the Port of Churchill on Hudson Bay with the Port of Prince Rupert on the Pacific coast. This railway line would strike almost due west through some of the most barren and unpeopled territory in Canada and eventually reach the coast after traversing a new route, through some of Canada's most formidable ranges of mountains. No mention was made of the possible cost but at least it provided Mr. Gardiner with a new side issue after the loss of the Saskatchewan River project.

Items of interest that appeared in answer to questions last week, were, that the government has assisted A. V. Roe of Canada Ltd., to the tune of over $63,000,000 toward their capital expenditure. $52,000,000 of this sum was spent on the experiments with the 'Orenda' engine. Another item disclosed that the department of national defence spent $2,250,000 for recruiting advertising, during the calendar year 1952. A question placed on the order paper by myself, brought the reply that authorized government agents bought live cattle at all B.C. cattle markets and auction sales during 1952. Beef accepted by the agricultural prices support board in B.C. in 1952, totalled 10,527,000 pounds, equivalent to approximately 17,000 cattle. This was in answer to an enquiry that I had received on these points. There has been a general feeling that government buyers had not always carried out their instructions to maintain a floor price at B.C. markets. Another question brought the answer that $1 million has been spent to supply two fishing vessels to the fishing industry of Ceylon. The government has also supplied equipment, such as refrigeration, to this industry.

One more item of interest, is that 243 students have received training in Canada since January 1st, 1951, under arrangements made by the technical co-operation service of the department of trade and commerce. Of these, 99 came under the Colombo Plan; 123 under United Nations programs and the rest under FAO and ICAO.

Spent on the 99 Colombo plan trainees, was $330,000, which is in keeping with the promise made by the government, that technical assistance would be offered to countries under this plan. These students come from practically every part of the world, from Syria, Thailand, Ecuador, Finland, Greece, The Virgin Islands, Yugoslavia and nearly 40 other countries.

The minister of veterans affairs was asked, whether it was the intention of the government, to introduce legislation at this session, to amend the war veterans allowance act, in order to increase the amount received by the war veterans, in response to the recommendations of the Canadian Legion to parliament. The assistant to the minister of veterans affairs, replied that this answer is obviously one of government policy, which policy will be announced by the minister in due course. In other words, it is another of those evasive answers that has met any request to have a committee set up to deal with veterans affairs in the past.

The committee on defence expenditure continues its merry way in investigating the waste and extravagance, which has now become apparent in the administration of the national defence department. In one case a sum of $35,000 was approved but the expenditure exceeded the approval by $135,000.

In another case, the committee enquired about a house that had been purchased at a cost of $14,000 including, of course, the land, and afterwards, had approximately $15,000 spent on improving the property. It becomes more apparent from each day's sitting of this committee that Mr. Currie should be re-engaged to continue his investigation into the whole set up of national defence, throughout Canada, because the irregularities are not confined to any one district. But, a committee such as this is

CEDRIC SEARS

Summerland Youth for Christ

Former director of the largest Youth for Christ rally in the world, Chioagoland Youth for Christ, will speak at the High School Auditorium on Friday, March 20, 8 p.m.

High School COMMENTS

Mr. Fisher's production, "Out of the Frying Pan," is going to be entered in the drama festival held in Oliver March 11 and 12. This play will be the one which opens the festival on Thursday night. So on behalf of SHS we wish you lots of luck.

In order to raise more money for the piano fund, letters for donations are being sent to ex-students of S.H.S. Besides this, Miss Kay Hamilton is going to conduct a "Musical Variety Concert", with many young artists taking part.

Last Friday afternoon some of the CKOK staff came up to Summerland to record a talent show the senior cheerleaders had prepared for a radio program. The program was heard on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. and sounded very nice. The talents used for this program were two numbers by the band, a quartet sung by four of our girls, an octet played by clarinet players from the junior-senior band, a solo sung by Jim Peters and a skit put on by three girls and a boy of our student body.

Last Saturday the junior basketball teams travelled to Penticton with the junior "A" girls defeating their opponents; the junior "B" boys losing their game. (Better luck next time boys!) The just girls have won every game they've played this season.

Students Impressed By University Visit

Marion Turigan and Brian Berg represented junior-senior high school at the high schools conference held at the University of British Columbia on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 27-28.

They report an interesting time at this annual conference which is organized to develop interest in the provincial university and life there.

They heard a series of lectures on, "How to get to University", and "How to work ones way through college".

Nearly all schools in the province were represented, and visitors were impressed by the accommodation provided at the University. A two-hour tour of the principal things of note in Vancouver was given the students, and great interest was shown in the new modern gym. This is a glass and steel structure, having two and a half inches of horse hair laid under the floor to give it the necessary spring.

Students were welcomed by president Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, and Rahbir Basi, president of the Alma Mater Society, and a banquet and dance closed the conference.

handicapped by being confined to those areas and matters that appear in the Currie report as published.

These unhealthy disclosures will no doubt hurt the Liberal party on their next appeal to the electorate of Canada. I should mention, that it would be in their interest to accede to the request of the opposition members, by instructing Mr. Currie to continue his investigations; clean up the mess; re-organize the bookkeeping and security system of the army, and eliminate such conditions in the future. In that way only, could the public confidence be restored in this particular branch of administration.

A long steady plodding piece of work was brought to a successful conclusion last week when I received a promise from the department of national revenue that 24-hour service would commence at Osoyoos port of entry on March 2. This service should prove a boon to tourists as well as to the increasing commercial traffic that is now being carried on through this particular port. On St. David's day, I was honored by being asked to be speaker at the annual St. David's day banquet at the Knox United church. The large gathering was a great surprise to the sponsors, as the hall was packed to capacity. The time honored custom of celebrating the festival was carried out by song and speech.

RECIPE HINTS

You don't need to have a party before you serve chicken! Give the family Fried Chicken any day of the week! It's easy to make and very good to taste.

Fried Chicken

Coat chicken pieces with flour, salt, pepper and parika. Place in heavy frying pan with half inch of hot fat. Brown both sides, then cover and cook 25 to 35 minutes, or until tender. To crisp, remove cover for the last five minutes.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

1st Summerland Troop

Tuesday night's meeting started off with two lively games.

All the boys who have completed their second class, took part in the bridge building while the younger boys worked on different sections of the second class tests, under Assistant Scoutmaster Dave Wright.

Next week's meeting will start at 6:30 in order to give us a little more time to complete our bridge.

Pleased to have Harold Derosier join our troop and hope he will enjoy Scouting with us.

Keep your eyes open for scrap metal, boys, we need all the money we can get for camp.

Patrol scores now stand at Hawks 198, Buffaloes 231 and Eagles 216. Duty patrol next Tuesday, March 17—Eagles.—D.M.M.

TEEN TOWN

Our parent social last Saturday night was quite a success, but we wish more parents had turned out. Eddie Andrews from Penticton won the door prize.

We will be holding a membership dance on March 21.

Council meeting was held at Lela Lewis' place on Monday evening, with Mr. R. Kersey attending from the P-TA, our sponsoring organization.

Our mayor, Esther Metters, was appointed to represent Teen Town in a committee for the incubator to work with the Hospital Auxiliary.

Our Teen Town square dance team will attend the festival in Enderby on March 21. The team consists of Merle Heavysides, Mabel McNab, Yvonne Polesello, Rose Harrison, Ross Axworthy, Darryl Weitzel, Dwaine Greer and Rob Towgood with Jimmy Peters, caller.

This Is DISCRIMINATION!

(Final Article No. 2)

We, the employees of the Provincial Government, have recently charged the Government with "stalling" on our request for the right to Arbitration of our working conditions. Our Association has stated that in so stalling, the Government is denying its own employees not merely a condition of employment but a legal and civil right guaranteed by law to all other employee groups throughout the Province. What are the facts behind these charges? Are they true, half-true, or false?

FACT NO. 1: Government Employees have, for some years, requested the right of Arbitration. On December 1, 1952, the B.C. Government Employees Association presented a formal request to the present Government for this right. At subsequent meetings the Government stated that it required a further six months delay, but gave no reason for the delay. We rejected this on the grounds that such a delay amounted to a rejection of the principle of Arbitration. Our Association subsequently stated that we were prepared, at any time, to sit down with the Government, and work out the details involved in granting the right to Arbitration, but that the Government should not require a further six months to study the principle involved, which is now a civil right. We feel that the Government's move to postpone decision on our request simply means, in parliamentary parlance, that our proposal will be killed.

FACT NO. 2: In 1947 the Government of that day passed the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act in an effort to promote industrial peace. The Act provided for a regulated bargaining procedure with provision for conciliation and arbitration, but its provisions were never extended to Government Employees, who continued to be treated as second-class citizens. On April, 1951, the Government established a Legislative Committee (known as the Ash Committee) to inquire into the provisions of the Act with a view to their improvement. In February, 1952, this Committee released its findings, and all members of the Committee unanimously recommended extension of the right to Arbitration for Government Employees. The Government has never implemented the findings of this Committee.

FACT NO. 3: Last spring, just prior to the Provincial election, the B.C. Government Employees Association contacted 185 candidates throughout the province to ascertain their views on the right of Government employees to arbitration. 131 took a definite stand in favour. 29 out of 42 of the present Government's candidates were in favour. 11 of those who were ultimately elected, expressed their agreement with the principle. 6 of those who became Cabinet Ministers (a majority of the Cabinet) were definitely in favour.

The B.C. Government Employees' Association feels that by their continued refusal to act on previous commitments and previous recommendations, the Government has forced us to appeal to a higher court—the court of public opinion. We therefore urge you—the people—to write or wire your M.L.A. today asking him to support, on the floor of the Legislature, the right of Government employees to Arbitration—a right now commonly enjoyed by all other groups of employees throughout the Province.

Garnet Valley Residents to Assist Fire Victims with Shower Friday

Tomorrow evening, Friday, March 13, residents of Garnet Valley are holding a shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dickinson. The shower, which will be of canned fruit and vegetables, dishes and kitchen utensils, or small amounts of money, is for Mr. and Mrs. A. Lagaden whose home burned Thursday evening, March 4. The Lagadens, who came here from Westbank about a month ago, lost all their personal things in the fire, as well as bedding, kitchen equipment, 250 quarts of fruit, etc., some small pieces of furniture and a bed. They were at Westbank when the fire occurred, and returned next morning with the remainder of their furniture, to find their house completely destroyed by fire. Cause of the blaze is unknown, but it was discovered first by Steve Blazelko, who saw a glow against the sky and investigated. Alarm was put in from the home of Mrs. Ross Grant. The local fire fighting squad under Chief Edgar Gould, quickly arrived and went to work. The flames were too extensive for them to save the place. Any contributions to the Garnet Valley shower will be appreciated.

7 and 9 p.m.

Box Office Open—6:30 p.m.

Winner of the intermediate medal was Rita Greber, and others contesting were Marilyn Embree, Mary Carey, Ona Willis, Richard Davis and David Brinton.

There were not enough eight-year-old contestants to hold a Junior I test, but Anthea Morgan and Eddie Willis recited in this group. The children taking part enunciated particularly well, and were a credit to those by whom they were trained.

The evening opened with singing a hymn, and a devotional period by Rev. A. F. Irving, minister of the church. In the intervals between reciting there were musical numbers from the versatile boys and girls who live at Trout Creek. Wee Mary Morgan delighted the audience with her solo; there was a pleasing duet by Rita Greber and Lona Deringer, and fine violin music by Lowell Laidlaw.

Mrs. Deringer gave a reading while the judges were making their report and the pianist was Miss Lena Deringer.

Judging was by Dr. James Marshall, Mr. Ewart Woolliams, and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh.

Behind the 8-Ball

By Gord Crockett

Many of the world's great discoveries came about because of accidents and it is barely possible that the honorable member for Salmon Arm Mr. Reid, has discovered a solution to a problem that the Massey Commission was unable to ravel in a couple of years of research.
 The great question has been as to why there is no market for the work of Canadian authors while south of the border, writers can feed a steady flow through their typewriters and pick up a very nice piece of change for doing it.
 I have personal knowledge that this is the situation because I have for a long time been using it as one of my excuses for not writing a book. Mark you, if this one should run dry now, I have several more to fall back on but this has always been my best.

wordly.
 Another favorable reaction from Mr. Reid's attack on the school text books is that a lot of kids have tossed their comic books aside and started looking through their school books to find out what all the talk's about. One small lad who has been working his way through school solely on the strength of comic books came in to see me a few days ago with a look of wonderment written across his face. "You know," he said, "I've just been reading my school books and it says in there that the birds 'n bees 'n flowers 'n all that are just the same as people."

With the help of Mr. Reid, the "no-market-for-Canadian-authors" condition can be readily overcome. The reason why American writers can do so well is because if they write a book that doesn't seem to have much future, they can always have it banned in Boston and immediately it climbs to the best-seller list.

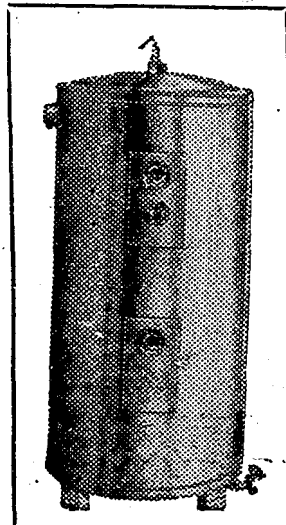

Somehow it seems to me he was getting along faster with the aid of comic books.

If I could only be sure of my books being "Condemned in the B.C. Legislature", I might give some serious consideration to writing one after all. The subject I have long had in mind has been "The Manly Art of Battling Free Publicity Seekers" but I could sprinkle the text with such terms as sextant, sextuplicate, sexagesimal, sextet, sexton and a few more just to give Mr. Reid a foothold when he launches a scathing denunciation of my effort.

The trouble in Canada is that in the past we have had no comparable incentive to boost the sales of mediocre writings.
 Here's where Mr. Reid comes in. If he will take it upon himself to condemn Canadian books in the B.C. legislature, I'm sure the sales will get the fillip they require to make writing a profitable proposition.

So what if it is just written, to sell, I'll get money for it!

That's the exciting story told in the leading article of the March "Reader's Digest" or a modern miracle created by free enterprise. All North America is reading and talking about it.

The Aluminum Company of Canada's smelting plant at Kitimat is hailed as "the most spectacular Canadian construction feat since the Canadian Pacific Railroad."

In glowing terms, the article classifies the 1,650,000 horsepower hydro development as the equivalent of Bonneville Dam, Shasta Dam, and Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals.

Kitimat will be the largest aluminum smelting plant on earth with an annual capacity of 350,000 tons, equal to 65% of present U.S. production.

In the building, more than $500,000,000 will be spent, much of it pouring into the bloodstream of British Columbia's economy. More than 6000 men are at work, creating a city at Kitimat where, by 1954, there will be 7500 inhabitants. When the plant is operating to capacity, it will have a population of 50,000 to rank it as British Columbia's third city—where none existed before.

This is a spectacular example of free enterprise at work. The decision to build Kitimat was influenced by the existence in British Columbia of a population which repeatedly has endorsed free enterprise. Only under the stimulus of a free enterprise government will MORE industry be attracted to British Columbia. Good jobs and job security depend on the freedom system . . . and confidence.

P-TA Meeting ...

Facets of Present School System Discussed By Panel of Speakers

An interesting program was arranged for the March meeting of the P-TA by Mrs. E. Woolliams, program convener, when a panel discussion on the subject, "Is our modern education meeting the needs of our children?" held the audience of 73 especially interested.

Speakers included A. S. Matheson, inspector of school districts, No. 23, Kelowna, and Summerland, No. 77; A. K. Macleod, principal Summerland junior-senior high; J. E. Britton, teacher, former agriculturalist Experimental Station; Mrs. J. C. Wilcox, ex-teacher; Lashley Haggman, of the unemployment insurance office, Penticton, and Miss Joan Appleton, PHN, Penticton, formerly in Summerland.

Mr. Matheson clearly outlined the present school program and its development. He stated, "Education is the most important business in life; the most complex; and the most difficult. It has been the subject of much controversy on radio and in the press."

The first system of public school education was started in B.C. in 1873, and Dr. Jessop was the first superintendent of education. People at that time lived in rather a safe world, where institutions were accepted and authority taken for granted. The home was mostly self-contained, the country largely rural, and Sunday observed. Children, if spared from home tasks went to school, where they learned the fundamentals; the brighter ones might go further, and school was what the teacher made it.

Until the advent of World War I, the teaching was largely the three "R's". World War II made a great change in Canada, and the B.C. system of education became rigid, confined to the skills, and mostly at an elementary school level. Questions were asked as to whether education was fulfilling its purpose. So a survey was conducted by Dr. Putnam and Dr. Weir, who gave a massive report showing the good points and the weak points of the system.

It was brought out that society and the economy of the country was changing from rural districts which had been self-sustaining, to urban, and that parents were shedding the responsibilities. The tendency was towards children having more freedom and children being away from home, and, for them the world became more dangerous and difficult.

The survey had far-reaching recommendations, and by the "Thirties", its implementation was under way. The population had roughly doubled, and there were four times as many attending high school. At that time just less than 50 per cent went on to high school; 10 years later 74 per cent attended high school, 46 per cent to the third year, and none in fourth; by 1951 96 per cent were attending high school, 68 per cent third year, and 52 per cent fourth year—all of which showed tremendous growth in high school population.

By this time the school had become the residuary legatee of every phase of society that was neglected.

The present function of the school is to stimulate, modify and direct the growth of every child, and to work for his mental, physical, and moral development, so that his own life may be enriched, and society improved. And all the children of all the people have this opportunity. No longer is the school a selective institution. The school is interested in what kind of boys and girls will be produced on graduation.

There is a wide range of subjects with options in science, physical training, commercial, vocational, industrial arts, and cultural subjects. So with the vast range of abilities and interests found in pupils, there is something to make the best of each boy or girl. Through self-realization they achieve and succeed.

Mr. Macleod spoke of the multitudinous challenges and duties of the school administrator. He named some of the aspects as "to give effect to official educational policies within the framework of the educational department". He continued to say that the ultimate duty is responsibility for leadership, and others are for instructional conditions, and selection of courses.

In the latter instance so far as is possible, courses are fitted to the needs of most of the pupils to try to give the pupil a chance of success. This is done through counselling, aptitude, and other tests. The principal must construct the time-table within the school week, and include all courses in this program. Since there are between 420 and 435 individual items of business in one week, this is a formidable task. The administrator supervises instruction, discipline, and encourages his teachers to grow, educationally. In his position the principal is different from a foreman in industry as his staff are his equals or superior in educational achievements, and the relationship is a delicate one. He encourages young teachers, also, and helps them.

As to the students, he attends to the promotions, examinations, and gradings, and must give the meticulous care to this as required by the department of education.

Pupil attendance and achievement from the first day until after the student has left are under his supervision.

The school supervisor has financial responsibilities for the text book rental scheme; cafeteria funds; and locker accounts. He supervises the guidance and counselling programs, and the safety and welfare of the pupils during the school day and in any activity. "Whatever path they follow," said Mr. Macleod, "the staff will take them as far as they want to go. The thrill of teaching comes in seeing the success of the pupils."

Mr. Britton discussed the problems of classroom teaching. He prefaced his remarks with the query pertinent to the growing expenses of education, "Are we getting our money's worth?" "Parents, business people, and the general public are asking questions," Mr. Britton stated.

"Pupils are the same now as 20 years ago, and just wonderful—mothers should be proud of them," commented the speaker.

Quoting Dr. Fossick of Columbia University, he continued in saying, "All children set up a definite resistance to learning. Nowadays the facilities are so good, and take in so much, that the school is almost a community club for children."

He spoke of his teaching days in Southern Okanagan High at Oliver last fall, where he observed splendid co-operation with the school band as an example. He cited the value of the commercial courses, and the advantages of consolidation. Mr. Britton thought pupils are more companionable now than formerly, and more free to ask questions, and considered this was due to the prevailing type of school organization.

On the whole he thought that the courses were designed to make "effective living", and ended with a quotation from Lord Tennyson "So much to do, so little done!"

Mrs. J. C. Wilcox was the speaker taking the parents' point of view, and begun by saying, "Schooling on the whole should be happy, and if there is unhappiness, something should be done about it."

Facets

Mrs. Wilcox mentioned the many privileges of modern schools—well-baby clinics, pre-school clinics, constant medical check-ups and the latest advice on immunizations, the able and willing service of the public health nurse and her help in emergencies.

"Development should be in an all-round way," averred the speaker who took a circle as a definitive, and gave it a solid centre with a lighter fringe. "At times," she said, "it has been thought that the lighter part was over emphasized, but now the tendency is back towards the solid centre."

"I would like to see mastery of ordinary fundamentals, arithmetic, English, spelling. I think that writing should be intelligent, satisfactory, and legible, and think these things should be continued," said Mrs. Wilcox. "I can't see any advantage in writing anything if it isn't written correctly. I believe that home economics and manual training add to the solid centre, and are necessary for satisfactory living."

Mrs. Wilcox thought that more good books could be provided earlier, at the age level required, because reading makes for much happiness, and music was cited as fundamental, apart from its value in later life.

Appropos of this subject, the band was mentioned, and its opportunities for leisure time enjoyment, because leisure time is of no value unless use is made of it. It was Mrs. Wilcox' opinion that the school should give interests for leisure time or it is not living up to its responsibilities.

It was her personal opinion that spectator sports are not a particularly good thing, especially in junior high where she thought the children were too young to go to inter-school meets, and where it makes the individual too important for his or her age. Competitive sport in high school, she believed to be good, and inter-house games were fine as every pupil has a chance to play.

"Perhaps," the speaker mused, "the idea of finding what you can do and doing it well, is played up too much, because we still have to develop the idea that there are certain things that must be done, and done willingly, and maybe these responsibilities at school and at home are not considered. There are so many attractions outside that such a broad course as we have in schools now may have a weakness in this way. We must be sure that we are not asking pupils to decide things without due consideration and without understanding the underlying principle."

"Reports are nine-tenths of a parent's contact with the school, and nine-tenths a total loss," regretted Mrs. Wilcox. As a teacher, too, she was dissatisfied with the report cards. "We are pleased when we see that work habits are reported to be good, and every child should work to the total of his own capacity," she concluded.

L. F. Haggman's point of view in the discussion was, "What Business and Industry Expects of Modern Education".

Mr. Haggman prefaced his talk with saying that he was a product of the old and the new systems of education, and his conclusion was that the previous system was better than the present, though many points in the new were good.

He said that he believed that while the home is not self-sufficient now, the school has taken over so many of the things formerly the duties of the home, that the latter is not allowed to function.

"Educational needs are reading, writing, and arithmetic," he asserted. "Business wants people who have self-discipline, because they accept and respect authority. It wants people who have education in receiving and giving authority, so that they can meet it successfully.

"Why don't teachers command respect?" he questioned. His answer was, "Because there is no authority within themselves. There are so many rules and regulations that authority 'goes out of the window'."

Again he reiterated the need of teaching reading, writing and arithmetic, and said, "Effective living may be the ability of the individual to be a follower, if he is not equipped to be a leader, or to be a leader if he has the necessary qualities."

Mr. Haggman thought that the school might function under parliamentary rules, with the school faculty corresponding to cabinet control.

He regretted that there was no longer quiet in the school, and thought that there was too much time spent on reasoning and not enough on thinking.

"Let's transfer some responsibility back to the home," said he. "Let's clutter up the living-room with some kids. Let's have some recreation in the home."

Summing up came with repeating, "Industry wants respect and authority in the home and school; people who can keep their eyes and ears open and their mouths shut; people who can lead when called upon, follow when expected to do so; and especially the fundamentals of reading, writing and arithmetic."

"You decide what you are getting," he challenged. "You are paying for what you get."

The hour was getting rather late, when Miss Joan Appleton, the last speaker had a chance to discuss the social angle of modern education.

Answering Mr. Haggman, she averred that she was pleased if industry was getting illiterate help, because it encroaches so much on the home, and makes a pseudo and artificial world by its constant advertising in the press and on the radio.

Miss Appleton thought that children enjoy school life now, and that this is a credit to the teaching profession, and that the present system may only be judged by the parents of another ten years.

"We are the products of two world wars," she stated. "Millions were spent on destroying each other, and millions are being spent now on teaching people to live together happily. It won't matter how much we spend if we can accomplish this, and it is for this that the schools should work today."

Miss Appleton's opinion was that the school buildings are not so important as the teachers, and teaching, in the schools, and that everything should be done to attract the best people into the profession, and to make it a profession, admired and respected. English schools were quoted as having old buildings, with inspired teachers, who taught the highest qualities and whose work went out to international fields.

"The world should be a better place, with service to one another as its aim, and if the educational system can give this," she finished with saying, "how much we spend doesn't matter."

Mrs. F. E. Atkinson was in the chair, and following the speakers, questions were asked of them by the audience.

Mr. A. E. James of North Vancouver is a visitor at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Trafford.

Mrs. A. McPhail and Douglas of New Westminster have returned after visiting at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Gould.

Rev. Gerald Ward, director of Home Missions for the Baptist Union of Western Canada, was a guest at the home of Mrs. N. Blacklock during his visit to Summerland this week to speak to the Baptist congregation on Monday evening.

Packers Win Commercial League; Richardson Misses Scoring Title

Playing coach of the Summerland Hockey Club, Rocky Richardson, was a sad man indeed last Sunday. He was forced to sit out the game because of a leg injury and had to be content to watch not only his team lose a 3-1 tie-breaker for commercial first place, but also see league scoring honors slip away.

Peculiar Drivers

A lot of fuss has been made lately about an American horse and German dog that have been taught to drive an automobile just like a human being.

What's amazing about this? It seems only fair. People have been driving like animals for years. You hadn't noticed it? Then come with me for a little tour of our modern Highway Zoo. Here's what we see!

The Chimpanzee

This is the character who hangs on to the roof of the car with his left hand while he drives with his right. This leads to all sorts of monkey business in traffic. Just what the big ape gains by this kind of gorilla tactics no one has ever been able to figure out.

The Elephant

This is the big, stalwart, unpassable type who plants himself in the middle of the road and slowly plods along. He causes a lot of accidents by provoking eager beavers into zooming around him regardless of risk. Accused of being a traffic hazard, he looks hurt and surprised and says, Who, me? I was only going twenty!

The Jackrabbit

This is the scabback type who zigs and zags through traffic like a frightened bunny. Too often he is a fat, puffy old geezer who couldn't waddle 100 yards in 10 minutes. But behind the wheel of his car he's the shiftest, most swivel-hipped jack on the road—a real triple threat.

The Ostrich

This is the wierd personality who believes that if he ducks his head behind the wheel and pays no attention to anything, nothing can harm him.

The Roadhog

This animal has been around for a long time and is one of the most prevalent and unpopular in the Highway Zoo. He combines all the most distasteful characteristics of the barnyard hog without any of the useful attributes the real porker offers.

A goal each period was enough for the Packers, who maintained a stolid defence to keep the local scoring down to one goal.

The Packers drew first blood at the 4:30 mark of the first period with both teams fighting through the rest of the initial stanza with neither team scoring. Mann and Burgart went off half-way through the period for high-sticking.

The hustling Packers opened the scoring once again in the second period with Johnson slamming one home on a pass from Burgart. The Summerland crew fought back gamely and were rewarded in the dying minutes of the frame when Bill Eyres scored from Colin Mann at 18:51.

Both teams poured on the coal in the third period.

With only 90 seconds to go goalie Sam Inayoshi was pulled and six forwards really put on the pressure. Rosie Campbell was skating like made in do-or-die attempts to score. Then Phil Johnson got a holding penalty. Colin Mann bounced one off the goal post as the Summerland boys did everything but score. The Pack-er's Hap Schaeffer suddenly broke from a scramble and fired a long one into the empty Summerland goal to cinch the game.

As if this beating wasn't enough, Rocky Richardson was forced to watch George Morrish, who last week was one point behind Rocky in total points, rap in one goal and help in two others to wrap up the league scoring honors. This was in the afternoons second game when the Merchants defeated the Contractors 9-5.

Summary:

1st Period: Packers, 1, Byers (Johnson, C-Connell) 2:21.

Penalties: Hall (team penalty, too many men on ice) Burgart, Mann.

Penalties: Johnson, Burgart.

Penalties: Burgart, Johnson, Mann.

Win or Lose

By Jack Dunham.

A little over two years ago a group of men, headed by one George Stoll, got together and formed the Summerland Rink Assn. They then proceeded to build themselves an arena just like that!

While this project was still in its initial stages an avalanche of screams and protests cascaded down on this hard working group of men. From every corner of the district came cries of, "it'll never work, too warm a climate, waste of money!" As we all know it did work, for one season. Then along came the winter of 1952-53 and hockey players and skaters alike found themselves travelling the distance to Penticton to follow their favorite winter pastime. The critics, of course, have had plenty of material to work with, and have been crying, "I told you so", all winter.

As of late the Rink Assn. has been keeping its ears and eyes open for word of an artificial ice plant. The latest is that they have purchased some slightly singed, but never-the-less very workable motors and other minor equipment.

Make It Pay

The main avenue of success will depend largely on revenue from hockey games. As in larger valley arenas the hockey clubs have supplied the life-blood of steady capital for the management. If this be the case, and in my estimation it will be, then the seating capacity will certainly have to be enlarged.

The members of the Rink Association realize fully the job facing them and before much

These belonged to the now burnt and bewildered Keremeos Co-op Packinghouse.

With the necessary financial support the Association proposes to buy, at the first opportunity, the necessary pipes, to complete the artificial setup.

After reading this the critics will probably have a field day compared to last blast they gave the rink group.

The expenses of an artificial ice plant are terrific. A word with the Curling Club management will give you an idea of the high cost of maintenance. Along with this, a full-time ice-maker will have to be employed for the winter with a part or full-time arena-manager to keep the business end running smoothly throughout.

This writer, I'm afraid, is hardly in a position to tell anyone how to run an arena. I will say, however, that the task of presenting to the public, a season of entertainment and activity must be a tremendous one. If the management is able to do this, then the public as a whole will back them to the limit.

more can be done about the freezer or seats they will have to lay their hands on a considerable amount of cash to complete the job.

Those fellows have worked hard to give Summerland a winter rendezvous to be proud of and with our continued support they will probably pull off another miracle by giving this town an artificial ice arena.

Summerland Moves to Coy Cup Finals With Three Goal Lead Over Vernon

Summerland pucksters earned their berth in the Coy Cup finals Saturday night when they lengthened their lead in the total-point series against Vernon with a 4-3 win to give them a total advantage of three goals in the two-game semi-final match.

Don Moog in the Summerland net did a first class impersonation of an Iron Curtain as Vernon kept a steady barrage of rubber headed his way throughout the game.

Both teams went all out to gain the right to meet Kamloops for the trophy play-off and a total of 18 penalties were handed out. They split the penalty honors with nine apiece.

Outlook for Summerland early in the game was bleak when they saw their two-goal advantage from the first game go down the drain in the first period when Vernon collected a pair of markers; Kramer scoring unassisted for the first and Richardson with help from Balkwell for the second.

In the second stanza, Collins with an assist from Mann, raised Summerland hopes with the only tally of that period.

Thorlakson, from Spelay and Bidoski, evened up the series with a goal for Vernon in the third period and then the local boys settled down to take a good firm hold on the match with three scores in succession—Rothfield from Kato for the first; Montgomery with assistance from Rothfield for the second and Steinger unassisted for the third.

1st Period: 1, Vernon, Kramer, 5:33; 2, Vernon, Richardson (Balkwell) 17:00. Penalties: Spelay (V), McLean (S), Rothfield (S).

Higher Quality Product Market Problem Answer

Maintenance of a standard product will be the answer this year to competition from were told Saturday afternoon Fruits and J. B. Landers, sales manager of the Southern District Council, VICTORIA

Francis Steuart Heads Hospital

FRANCIS STEUART

New president of Summerland Hospital Society is Francis Steuart who was chosen Tuesday evening at the first meeting of the 1952 board to replace C. J. Huddleston. Elected as 1st vice-president was Ivor H. Solly and as 2nd vice-president, H. Wilson.

Two new members were welcomed to the board, N. Holmes and W. Gordon Crockett. The latter was appointed to the board as representative of the provincial government.

A third vacancy on the board was filled by the election of J. M. Betuzzi at the meeting Tuesday night.

Report for the month of February disclosed a total of 56 patients admitted during the month, four of them being births.

Brief discussion was held on civil defence and T. M. Croil and Mr. Holmes were named as the committee for these arrangements. Mrs. C. G. Woodbridge advised the hospital auxiliary would be available for any duties required in hospital civil defence activities.

A warm vote of thanks to Mrs. W. R. Boyd for her donation of an incubator was expressed by the meeting.

Variety Concert Ups Piano Fund

The Variety Concert arranged by the students' council of the junior-senior high school in conjunction with various music groups in town was well attended and enjoyed on Friday evening, March 13.

Freston Mott, president of the council welcomed patrons, and A. K. Macleod, the principal, told of the efforts of the council to raise money year by year until enough has been realized to purchase a grand piano.

Younger performers were Linda Bullock, the rhythm band of the Jack and Jill kindergarten, Ronald Downes, Diane Haggman, and Judy Betuzzi.

Those taking part in the second part of the program included the Summerland Girls' Choir under Miss Kay Hamilton's direction, Miss Hamilton's piano pupils, pupils of the Mary Fratten School of the Dance, members of the school band, St. Andrew's junior choir under Mrs. E. E. Bates, with Eugene Bates, pianist, and grades 7 and 8 square dancing.

Among the individual performers were Bruce Brown, Diane Rumball, Marilyn Washington, Charlie Ronnie, Eugene Bates, Richard McDougald, Eileen Wilcox, Joyce Schumann and Lona Deringer.

product will be the answer. Canadian fruit growers, J. A. called to discuss the soft fruit marketing problems.

About 150 growers from the district were present for the session which went on for three hours, a half-hour of that time being thrown open for questions from visitors at the meeting. During the balance of the time, discussion was limited to delegates.

Standardization of sizes and maturity, speakers declared, is the answer to meeting competition and growers were warned they will have to do a lot of thinning this year if their fruit is going to meet the standards.

The plan is, said Mr. Landers, to set standards and stick to them right through the season. It would be possible, he added, to sell poor quality at the beginning of the season but "the housewife has a good memory and won't be back for any more".

To meet competition of earlier fruit from other growing centers, Mr. Landers said a program of advertising will be launched asking people to wait for the Okanagan fruit and giving assurance that it will be of the finest quality when it does reach the market.

Answering a question as to whether there is now a surplus situation on fresh fruit, Mr. Loyd stated that he believed a saturation point has been reached in the quality of fruit that was marketed last year but there is no surplus in top quality fruit that will encourage repeat orders.

A resolution to ask the federal government for financial assistance brought in lively discussion on that subject. Chairman Walter Toews reminded the council that proposals to ask for subsidies had twice been voted down at BCFAA conventions and Arthur R. Garrish, BCFAA president, reiterated statements made at the previous council meeting that the soft fruit industry exists only by virtue of tariff protection and the government has two sides of the question to look at—the point of view of the consumer as well as that of the producer. He reminded them also that anything sought for western growers would have to apply equally to Ontario growers and stressed the fact that the soft fruit industry is "highly speculative" and it would be difficult for the executive to prepare a sound case for subsidies to present to the government.

The subsidies resolution received strong support from growers in the southern portion of the district and was passed. Another resolution to ask the government to purchase surplus supplies of canned or processed fruit was defeated.

Four more resolutions were presented but tabled for discussion at the next meeting.

The soft fruit discussion was opened by W. Gordon Wight, member of the board of governors, who reported on the recommendations of the board regarding maturity and size.

With respect to cherries, he said, color regulations are designed to eliminate the product of sick trees and these this year will be kept out of the pack, he said.

In apricots and peaches, he said, the problems are maturity and size while in prunes it is having them ready for market early and steadily throughout the season and be ready to cut off picking if a severe surplus point is reached.

Mr. Wight said it has been proposed a maturity committee be formed which will travel through the valley to work toward standardizing maturity throughout the entire Okanagan.

One question posed to Mr. Landers was as to why co-operatives are not used as marketing outlets and it was explained by the sales manager that the co-ops are not equipped for storage and want to make carload purchases during only brief periods through the year and such sales would be at the risk of incurring regular wholesale outlets.

Invitation to pay a short visit to Summerland during his tour of the Okanagan Valley in May was accepted today by Governor-General Vincent Massey. He will arrive here at 2:30 p.m. on May 15 and spend an hour in Summerland. He has expressed a wish to meet school children during his brief stop-over. He is shown here with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Massey.

Governor-General Plans Brief Visit To Summerland During Valley Tour

Summerland will be host to a distinguished visitor for a brief period on Friday, May 15, when Canada's governor-general, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey will spend an hour here while enroute from Kelowna to Penticton.

Report Peach Pack 40 Per Cent Larger

Continuing its comeback since the severe winter of 1949-50, the B.C. peach pack last year was about 40 per cent larger than the 1951 output, according to preliminary estimates made by the federal government.

"The fruit canning industry is back to normal after the disastrous winter killing of many trees two years ago," stated J. W. Edwards, Pacific district sales manager of the American Can Company. "Last year's peach crop and commercial pack were much larger than average," he added.

Government estimates for 1952 indicate that canners in this province processed 7,039,200 cans (20-ounce or equivalent) of the nationwide pack of 33,012,400 cans.

'Son of the Auld Sod' Has His Day Again

Summerland's one-man Hibernian Society came into its own on Tuesday and no reference to the calendar was needed to find the date when "son of the auld sod" George Henry appeared with special headress reserved for the "Sivinteenth of Ireland".

George, fine broth of a boy that he is, with white hat trimmed with green pipes and shamrocks and topped with a chicken was in his glory as he stepped out to wish "a top o' the mornin'" to even the non-Irish.

Walt's Trained Jeep Knows Its Trees

Owner of the only trained jeep in the district is Walt Toews.

Last week Walt had his sprayer hooked up to his jeep and was taking a little time off from curling to spray the orchard. Suddenly the hose was jerked from his hands and he turned to see the jeep and sprayer rolling off down through the orchard by itself.

He watched breathlessly as it weaved through his own trees without even chipping a piece of bark, and waited until it reached Johnny Betuzzi's orchard before it threw caution to the winds and knocked over one of Johnny's 20-year-old peach trees.

Word of the visit was received this morning by Reeve C. E. Bentley who sent an invitation for the vice-regal party to visit here when he heard last week the governor-general would be touring through the district.

No plans for entertaining the visitor have yet been laid, but Reeve Bentley today said that all arrangements will be on an informal basis as possible.

The party will arrive in West Summerland at 2:30 p.m. and his excellency has expressed a desire to meet the school children during his brief stop. He will arrive here by car. Leaving here, he will travel on to Penticton.

Hear Progress Reports At Welfare Meeting

Progress was reported in the welfare division of Summerland civil defence scheme at a well-attended meeting last night to consider further needs in that phase of the work.

Chairman of the division is Robert Alstead. Survey is continuing on the requirements in the district in the event of attack or disaster and of outlets which will be needed.

The meeting last night revealed all phases of welfare organization to be provided for in the formation of the division.

Drama Festival May Come To Summerland

Summerland this summer may be host to the Okanagan Valley Drama Festival. The Board of Trade has been invited to sponsor the event in Summerland sometime in May and the matter will be taken under consideration at the next meeting of the board executive.

If the festival is held here, accommodation will be required for about 40 people during the period of the event.

Mother of 'Firsts' Is Former Resident

It was twins for Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Busch, a double St. Patrick's Day present and the first babies born at the new Penticton hospital.

The mother is the former Audrey McLean of West Summerland.

The babies and their parents will be the recipients of a large number of gifts including layettes, record library, free laundry service and gifts for the parents.

And the twins also become eligible for a Canada-wide award of an electric washer and drier unit for twins born on St. Patrick's Day.

The baby boy was born at 6:14 Tuesday morning and weighed 5 pounds 12 1/2 ounces. His sister arrived at 6:22 and weighed 6 pounds 2 1/2 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Busch have one other child.

To Attend Meeting Of Cancer Society

Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony leaves this weekend for Vancouver to attend the annual meeting of the B.C. Division, Canadian Cancer Society, of which she is a director.

The meetings take place on Monday and Tuesday and will be held this year in the new room for the purpose in the Cancer Clinic building. They are to be preceded by a tea at the home of Mrs. Frank Ross on Sunday afternoon, at which Mrs. O'Mahony has been asked to pour.

On Wednesday she will attend the annual meeting of the B.C. division, Canadian Cancer Foundation, of which she is also a director.

Red Cross Campaign Nearing Objective

Returns in the Red Cross campaign this week continued to roll in and a total of $2,400 has now been reached for this fund. Objective for the drive in Summerland is $3,000.

Campaign Chairman E. E. Bates expressed confidence the objective will be reached when final returns have been received and a number of businesses and organizations have yet to add their contribution to the fund.

Presentation 'In Absentia'

Board of Trade this year looked behind the scenes of community activities to honor as Summerland's "Good Citizen of 1952" George Woitte—"probably never a chairman of any committee but always a strongman of any committee on which he served".

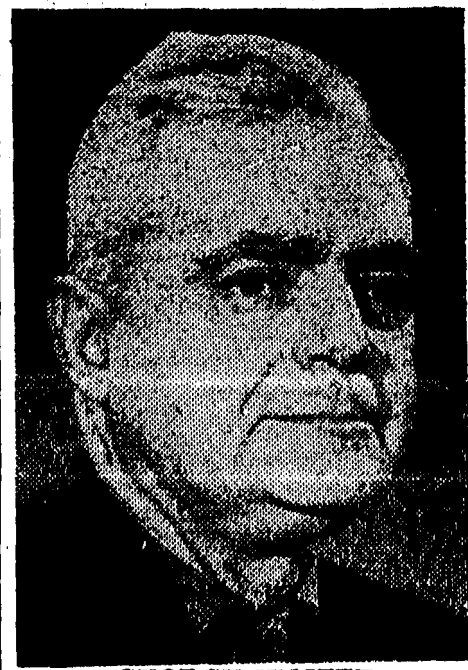

Presentation of the Reid J. Johnston cup was made last Thursday night at the annual banquet of the board, but it was presented "in absentia". The guest-of-honor, unaware of the tribute that was to be paid him, was called to the pinnacles.

Presentation of the trophy was made by Councillor F. E. Atkinson who referred to the many hours of service given to the community by Mr. Woitte in the near decade he has been living in the district. He is a member of the parks board, active in AOTS and junior baseball circles and in addition has served on a variety of committees engaged in community endeavors.

Chairman of the gathering was Walter M. Wright, retiring president who in his remarks used a novel method to refer to the "founders of Summerland" and used a board on which he revealed a picture of each as they were

Urges 10-Point Individual Participation Program to Help Meet Threat to Peace by World Communism

Termining "increasing realism" the "one notable weapon of Western democracies" Dr. J. A. B. McLelish speaking at the Board of Trade banquet last Thursday night proposed to his listeners a 10-point individual program to help wipe out "the supreme problem of our day—the defeat of the aims of world Communism".

Dealing with "Canada and the world crisis", Dr. McLelish charged the aims of world Communism with responsibility for all present international crises "and every other major or minor statement of crisis is subsidiary to this". Supporting his charges, the speaker liberally sprinkled his talk with quotations from authoritative books and articles.

Canada's position, he described, as "a shining untouched island, free of trials and purges, of concentration camps and gas chambers, of wandering hordes of refugees and shattered economies. One has to extend his imagination to the utmost to imagine that these dark things are going on". In his 10-point program, he proposed "A calm, courageous understanding of the source of world crisis . . . a disciplined use of the mind to examine the sloppy cliches which sentimentally bind us to the real nature of the Soviet power group . . . a constructively critical view toward the Americans and American policy in their present role as world leaders . . . a continuing determination to deal imaginatively and humanely with those abuses, inequalities and injustices which create the rifts in the social fabric, which the Soviet scythas tries to pierce . . . explicit support for the United Nations . . . taking steps in every way to have children taught the great stories of British and Americans . . . an alert protection of civil liberties so that absurd witch-hunts may not be launched which will discredit the whole cause we support . . . a feeling every day that the job at hand in one's family and in community activities is worth doing because it contributes to the whole sum of activities in our society which are its dynamic answer to Soviet propaganda . . . a period every day of brief meditation and prayer for the men of all nations who are dying or suffering in Korea and for the lonely and persecuted . . . a new and continuing sense of what it means to be a citizen of Canada."

Supporting his statements that Russia's sole purpose in taking part in the UN is to act as a disruptive force and use it as a sounding board for its propaganda, Dr. McLelish quoted a resolution adopted by the second congress of Communist International: "The communist party enters a bourgeois parliament (like the UN) not to participate organically in its activities but to undermine the parliament from within. Every Communist representative in a parliament is required to realize that he is not a legislator searching for agreement with other legislators, but an agitator of the party sent to the camp of the enemy in order to carry out the decisions of the party."

"That is communist doctrine," the speaker reminded, "and it is why Vishinsky is always dashing the hopes for peace. That is why he makes three-hour oration-blasting at disarmament proposals and increasing tensions. He is not sent there to co-operate, but to agitate."

The speaker stressed the importance of the continuation of UN and gave as reasons for his support of this body: "I believe that the Western democracies have an invaluable world forum in which, upon issue after issue raised by Communists, they have been able to arouse and consolidate world opinion; because it symbolizes an ideal of world unity which cannot decently be allowed to die out—that a second death of this conception after the death of the League of Nations might well erase the hope of a parliament of nations for hundreds of years; and because of the subsidiary agencies which attempt in a thousand ways through international services to alleviate man's inhumanity to man."

He made reference to the Korean war, reminding his listeners there have been 140,000 casualties—nearly 40,000 killed or presumed dead—"All this within eight years of the supposed end of war for a generation; this also for a war which it has not seemed entirely clear whether it should be fought or not—in short, an unpopular war; and above all, a war apparently without termination, a stalemate war, and without even the satisfaction of imposing casualties upon the supposed real aggressor, the USSR."

He urged a broader understanding of the American policies and decried the tendency of Canadians to indulge in unthinking criticism of their neighbor's policies. In his opening remarks, Dr. McLelish referred to the book "This was my Choice" (" . . . the most remarkable book in Canadian publishing history—and . . . already one of the most forgotten") by Igor Gouzenko, Russian embassy cipher clerk who exposed the Russian spy ring in Canada and then obtained asylum here. He mentioned Gouzenko's two major impressions of life in this country "the distribution of good things among the Canadian people and the incredible openness of speech and thought" and referred to various terms used by the former Russian clerk to describe this country: "human, lovable and blessed land". To assess the seriousness of the present crisis, he quoted from the vivid description by James Burnham in his book "The Coming Dawn of Communism": "In a measure that has been reached only twice before in western history, we are being told that we live in an age of crisis. Is this catastrophic point of view justified? Two world wars within a generation with the destruction of from 60 to 100 million human lives and several trillion dollars' worth of human products would seem alone to be enough evidence for a positive answer. These wars, however, are only an item in a long list. Six million Jews slaughtered in death factories must be added; millions of persons thrown into slave camps; millions of peasants killed because they loved their land; crowds of refugees displaced persons and exiles wandering across Eurasia in awarms that make the Barbarian hordes of the third and fourth centuries seem as minor as neighborhood gangs. Wild inflations that wipe out the money and savings of a dozen nations, trials and purges that liquidate hundreds of thousands of men of every variety, are not phenomena of normality. The great wave of revolution that broke in 1917 has waxed and ebbed, but has never since subsided.

THURSDAY, MARCH NINETEEN NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-THREE

Not many decades ago the term 'historical novel' meant only one author—Sir Walter Scott. His books were found in most sizeable book-cases, but it was rare to see an adult reading one, and high school students grunted and groaned when required to wade through 'The Talisman' or 'Ivanhoe'. For Sir Walter's prose, though undoubtedly historical, was as dull, slow, and long-drawn as a double dose of soggy suet pudding.

Now dozens of writers are fathering historical novels, and the modern 'bed-and-bosom' type—full of lively action and hotly spiced with sex—is as different from the Waverley novels as one could imagine. Imagine applying modern book blurbs to Ivanhoe: 'Two passionate women—were they witches or wenches?—fought for his love. Would ravishing Rowena become the bride of Alanhoe? (Changed from Ivanhoe for fear of sounding Russian) You'll never forget this red-hot romance! That might fit the movie, but for the slowly-creaking book—it would fairly make Sir Walter spin in his grave.

You must admit, though, that the modern type is much more interesting. Today's historical novels appeal to a mass of readers, whereas Sir Walter's works were aimed at the educated, leisured few. They do give some background of history, even if not too accurate. And the better ones are very good indeed.

What's more, three of the best I've read this winter have been by Canadians. One, naturally, is by Thomas B. Costain, one of the leading fiction authors of this continent, who should be more acclaimed in Canada than he is. I've enjoyed a number of his other books, notably 'The Black Rose' and 'The Moneyman', but this one, 'For My Great Folly', was the best yet.

Its description of life in England under the first King James—portrayed with all his pettiness and fleas—is marvelous, and I've never come across an easier way of learning the dress, manners and costumes of any historical period. Imagine keeping little babies strapped tightly to boards day and night so that they would grow straight. Or men having to hold up both puffy short trunks and long tight hose by lacing them through dozens of holes in their belts. If some genius had invented the police suspender in those days, he'd have made a fortune.

Costain stated in the preface that he had consulted over three hundred books for his material, so the historical detail should be pretty authentic.

Then a Winnipeg writer, C. E. L'Ami, undaunted by the difficulty of wearing historical detail smoothly into a romantic plot, added religion as well, and his 'Green Madonna' is an admirable blend of all three. When I think of the 'religious romances' of my youth—90 per cent dry sermonizing and 10 per cent very diluted romance—this fine book stands out like a big neon sign would on Giant's Head.

Third and most Canadian of all is 'The Grand Portage' by—shux, I've returned the borrowed book and forgotten the author. But it is one of the 50 cent giant pocket books in paper covers, and a dandy too. Describes the life of Canadian fur-traders back around 1800, with a wealth of detail. I used to like the books of R. M. Ballantyne on this subject when I was a kid, but as I grew older they palled on me; everything went too smoothly and pleasantly in them.

Pioneer Days

From Early Files of The Review

Thirty Years Ago — March 22, 1923

Summerland tonnage under contract to the new co-operative was increased considerably by the signing up of several orchards owned by Mrs. Basil Steuart.

Arthur Gould was planning to leave here to return to Tisdale, Sask., where he had taken up land made available to ex-servicemen by the dominion government.

Mr. and Mrs. Spears of Brandon, relatives of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Inglis who had just been married in Manitoba were visitors at the Inglis' home.

In memory of St. Patrick, patron saint of 'Ould Ireland', St. Andrew's Union Ladies' Aid held a delightful At Home in the hall. Included in the program were musical numbers by Mrs. Rumball, Mr. Alex and J. O. Smith, Mrs. J. D. Wood, Miss Marie Arkell, Miss Ida Shields and Miss Sue Whiteford, and a recitation by Mrs. A. H. Steven.

West Kootenay Power Co. had made application to Victoria for permission to double the capacity of its main power plant at Bonnington Falls. The granting of the request meant the raising of Kootenay Lake, which it was said, would seriously interfere with reclamation of Kootenay Flats. Engineers were to obtain further data before an answer was given to the power company.

Twenty-Five Years Ago — March 23, 1928

Alf McLachlan had been making additions to his glass equipment for early forcing of vegetables and other early plants, and added another double 11½-foot house. This new house was connected to a double hot water heating plant and new ventilating equipment put in was effective.

Summerland Ladies' Golf Club held its annual meeting at Mrs. Bonmore's and officers elected were: Captain, Mrs. M. E. Collas; vice-captain, Mrs. J. Cran; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. George Henry; house committee, Mrs. F. W. Andrew, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Theed; handicap committee, Mrs. Cran, Mrs. Collas, Mrs. K. Elliott; tea committee, Mrs. E. R. Butler, Mrs. T. A. Walden.

Mr. Walters moved 200 five-year-old apple trees from a lot on Jones' Flat where they were set as fillers, to his lot in Happy Valley, and was confident they would start well. They were mostly Macs and Newtowns.

Percy Rand was the first person to own a 1928 model Ford, outside of the demonstrators.

K. Y. Agono shipped out his last car of apples on March 20. He had them stored in Mr. Hutchinson's new storage cellar.

Five Years Ago — March 11, 1948

Yale by-election was prophesied for early June, and the date for the Liberal nominating convention was set for March 27, to be held in Pentleton. Sidewalks in lower town areas were given consideration by the municipal council, and plans made for repairs to them.

Leslie Gould was made the new president of the local baseball club; Bob Bleasdale, secretary; Jack Dunsdon, treasurer, and George Clark, playing manager. Executive consisted of George Taylor, Norman Thompson and Tim Armstrong.

Summerland Polo Fund went over the top with over $2,000, the minimum objective, as announced by C. J. Bleasdale, president of the Rotary Club.

It was expected to form a Girl Guide company here in April, and organization of the local association to the Guides was going on apace.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Arnold celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Stoutest Armor . . . price of liberty unchanged

SINCE the earliest recorded history, adults have been viewing with apprehension the outlook of "the younger generation, their consummate selfishness, lack of manners and disrespect for elders."

Talk about juvenile delinquency, mollycoddling of youth and all the perennial complaints about kids is probably more general today than it was in former years; but is it borne out by fact?

It is of interest here in Summerland to take a good second look at the situation before deciding who should be talking about whom.

The cultural interest of a district is the very foundation on which tenor of life in the community is built. It is self-evident that lawlessness in any community can be measured in inverse ratio to the cultural interests of the citizens.

In Summerland, the Students' Council has taken on a project of raising funds to provide a concert piano for the high school auditorium so that pianists of outstanding caliber can be invited here in the future. This is no short-term project; the students realize it may take anywhere from five to eight years to collect the required money but that hasn't deterred them in the least. That's a lot of long-range planning and community interest for a

Same Old Lament . . . what about adult delinquency

THE condition upon which God hath given liberty to man is eternal vigilance."

These are words spoken more than 150 years ago but they are just as meaningful today as they were then and will be 150 years from now because they contain as accurate an assessment as could be made of the ingredients for continued freedom.

The need for close adherence to that condition, however, was never greater than it is today.

Those who were fortunate enough last week to hear the address of Dr. John McLeish at the Board of Trade dinner heard a well-documented report on the seriousness of Canada's position in the present world crisis and a clear review of what liberty means to us as Canadians.

Unfortunately, the warnings of Dr. McLeish and many more are received with a superficial interest but with an underlying apathy. This is not good enough because the hour when we will be called upon to defend our liberty may be closer to hand than anyone would wish to predict. We must regard the danger as imminent rather than as something in the dim future.

Actually, the hour is at hand. All over the country in all spheres of activities, forces of the enemy are silently chipping away at the structure of democracy which we believe to be so firmly established.

Canadians born with the free gift of liberty perhaps find it difficult to fear the loss of liberty because few have had any close contact with what it can mean to lose freedom.

Dr. McLeish found the basis for many of his observations in the book "This Was My Choice" written by the cipher clerk of the Ottawa Russian embassy, Igor Gouzenko, after he revealed the widespread Russian espionage system in Canada and found asylum in this country. Here was a man who had an opportunity for a close look at life under two different systems and he made his choice

Mid-Week Message

Pilate saith unto them, what then shall I do unto Jesus who is called Christ? (Matthew 27:22. A.S.V.) Read Matthew 27:17-25.

Pilate let the people answer for him his own life's question. By delivering Jesus to be crucified, Pilate thus yielded to the demand of the crowd. Pilate felt certain that Jesus was innocent, but he was afraid to do the right thing. The Roman governor, however, was totally defeated—he did not escape his question, he did not get rid of Jesus, he did not wash his hands clean of our Lord's blood.

Christendom remembers Pilate as the man under whom Jesus suffered. Pilate chose to be a friend of Caesar, and so missed the greatest Friend of all.

Face to face with Jesus, we, too, are compelled to do something about Him. Meeting with Him may turn out to be the biggest thrill in existence or the worst tragedy. The correct answer as to what to do will be made by those courageous enough to stand alone. Christ looks to us to assume personal responsibility when other shun it; to stand for righteousness when evil is strong against us.

PRAYER

We pray, our Father in heaven, for courage to stand with Christ. Help us to resist outward pressure of evil forces upon our lives. Grant to us strength and courage to sacrifice anything for Thee. In the Master's name. Amen.

The Lighter Side

A certain actor was in a heated discussion with his press agent. After giving the 5-percenter a piece of his mind, the star continued "And furthermore, my ability has never been questioned."

"Questioned?" replied the publicity man who had another job in view. "Hell, it ain't ever been mentioned!"

group that are being regarded as the foremost social problem of the day.

Only a few months ago a band was formed in the high school and in the short span of time since its formation, the members have applied themselves to the study of their instruments to the extent that they can already give a very creditable performance.

A concert presenting junior artists last week gave indication there will be no dearth of talent in Summerland in a few years as these youngsters mature.

Not a bad record for a bunch of kids coming from a generation which has been branded generally as indolent and irresponsible.

It might be timely for parents to take inventory of what they are doing themselves to help further the cultural interests of the community. This is a stocktaking that should not be delayed because it would no doubt prove most embarrassing to find the juniors forming into study groups to go into the problem of "adult delinquency".

One way to get on the band wagon in a hurry would be to give the students financial support in their piano fund drive. It's a blue-chip investment.

because he did not want to see the extinction of the kind of democratic society he found in Canada. For all Canadians, reading of his book should be a "must" because it does for us what we cannot do ourselves: it helps us step outside of ourselves to see Canada as a communist, later a refugee, sees it. It gives an insight into why he refers to Canada as "this blessed land".

Right now, the new voice in the Kremlin keeps reiterating to the world pat phrases about peace while Russian airmen are murdering crews of British and U.S. planes. The North American Indian had a phrase which probably best describes this way of doing business: "Speaking with a forked tongue".

Eternal vigilance is still the stoutest armor we have.

Other Opinions

Other Editors Say:

AN INORDINATE LEVY

Income tax employer forms are now stressing what is by all odds as arbitrary an imposition as bureaucracy could devise. This is the penalty which may be mulcted from an employer should he be delayed in remitting to taxing authorities the amount deducted from employee pay cheques. It is a severe one.

Tax deductions are sent forward each month covering the total amount held back from employees during that period. They must be remitted by the 15th of each month or else the employer is liable to a penalty of no less than 10 per cent of the amount deducted, plus interest at the same inordinate rate. This is twice the rate, incidentally, that may be levied against the individual in arrears who pays his income tax direct.

The situation thus is that if through illness, oversight, pressure of work or any other of a score of casual happenings, an employer is late with this remittance he is in effect liable to a stringent fine. In case of some firms this could mean a loss running into thousands of dollars, quite obviously a wholly unjustified penalty.

The levy is all the more grotesque when it is considered that the employers are acting as collectors merely to suit the convenience of the federal taxing authorities. They have no choice in the matter. They are compelled by law to do the government a favor, thereby saving the federal treasury substantial sums annually. Add to this autocratic penalty invoked for delay and it will be seen that employers have strong grounds for protest. Instead of being penalized, in truth, they should be rewarded for doing work that in strict facts belongs to the department of national revenue.—The Kelowna Courier.

PROPAGANDA IN THE SCHOOLROOM

Recently the Victoria Chamber of Commerce discovered a question-and-answer appearing in a British Columbia Department of Education test paper—(Social Studies No. 10, Paper No. 6, Exercise 2, Question 5):

Question: "Explain why the B.C. lumber industry is often referred to as a 'robber industry' and contrast the treatment of the forests in B.C. with their treatment in France and Sweden."

Answer: (Examiner's marginal comments): "The lumber industry is robbing future generations of Canadians by their short-sighted policy and methods of logging."

This Social Studies paper, going out to thousands of students, strikes a resounding blow for the cause of Communism. The thinking here is the result of an adverse educational program, a propaganda, program which has been conscientiously and energetically conducted against the timber industry over the last 35 years.

It has been successful largely because the industry itself has been reluctant to say a word in its own defence, partly from fear of reprisals by bureaucrats in Victoria. The industry is gradually coming to realize that the only way to counteract this socialistic and irresponsible attitude is to take off the kid gloves and state its case firmly and emphatically.

They think it is time the public was told the facts about forestry in this province. They think that the public should be informed that this so-called "robber industry" provides over half of the income of every individual in the province of British Columbia, including that of its accusers. They think the public should be told that through good forestry practices, the annual increment is being increased each year and that ultimately these practices will result in an allowable cut for the province of probably 25 billion feet per year—or five times what we are cutting today—and this in perpetuity.

The industry feels that the public should be told that half of the schools, the roads, the public works and the social services of British Columbia are paid for from forest revenue. The industry also feels that the public should know that one private timber company planted more than one and one-half million young trees last year.

Before the educators undertake to educate, they would be wise to educate themselves.

The recent increase of seven per cent in freight charges granted to the Canadian railways, was a matter brought up in the house by Mr. Coldwell of the CCF, who urged the government to use its power, either to rescind the order, or hold it until equalization goes into effect or until representations from the affected parties are heard. "The government," said Mr. Coldwell, "should bring before parliament a transportation policy which would provide for the integration of the countries major transportation systems; air, railway and shipping; so as to give the maximum service for the least cost." He pointed out that he did not believe anyone would argue that the railways should be operated at the expense of any particular group, but, the increase affected most adversely the western regions, where rates already were higher because of less competition.

The Turgeon report, made a few years ago recommended that freight equalization should take place immediately. The government at that time promised to carry this out before any increase was granted to the railways, but that promise has not been kept, and this is the third increase in freight charges that has taken place since that report was published.

Solon Low suggested that the railways should trim their controllable expenses to save money. He said that wages were largely uncontrollable but there was plenty of opportunity for expenses to be cut elsewhere. Many speakers pointed out that western provinces will bear the brunt of this increase. When the St. Lawrence seaway starts to transport heavy freight at a much lower rate than the railways, this will mean eastern freight charges will be brought down on a competitive basis to the St. Lawrence seaways, and the loss on this decrease will also be transferred to the west. This increase, the fifth since the war, brings the cumulative total rise to 98 per cent on the traffic to which the increase applies.

Mr. Drew seeking for an issue in the coming election, moved a motion to the effect that a more efficient and economical organization of government departments than now exists, should take place. Mr. Drew claimed that the investigation by Mr. Currie had already lifted the lid and provided examples of waste and extravagance. "Naturally," he said, "if these have been exposed, more exist."

Speaking on behalf of the government, Mr. Howe declared "There is no foundation for the suggestion that the government is inefficient or that there is waste and extravagance." He went on to say "That the opposition made wild statements and because these were made in the house they would be accepted as facts, which they were not. Many of these defence expenditures had to take place in a great hurry and it is possible that slight errors were made or slight over-expenditures owing to the urgency of the situation regarding national defence."

The motion was defeated on the floor of the house. We have still another pipeline bill before the house, which has much in common with other similar bills that have passed through. This one seeks to take gas to an ultimate destination in the U.S.A., and we members from B.C. took exception to it, on the same principle that we placed before the house last year and the year before that. Before any gas is exported south of the border, an opportunity should be given to Canadian communities to utilize all they can, for the development of our own industries.

I fully expect that the usual procedure will be followed and that the government majority will see the bill safely through the house, but at least it has allowed time for a protest to be made against the dissipation of our natural resources, a course that we will regret for many years to come.

Mr. Green of the Progressive Conservatives, Mr. Cruickshank, Liberal, and myself, CCF, spoke on this subject and in conclusion Howard Green said, "I say that I believe it will be a great tragedy, if this western gas is not used to supply Canada first. If there is a surplus beyond the requirements of Canada, then there is no reason why that surplus should not go to Minnesota, but certainly Canada should be supplied first." I believe that bringing gas east by an all Canadian route is one of the most vital steps that could be taken at this time to strengthen Canada.

The building of an all-Canadian natural gas pipeline from western to eastern Canada could be

Guide News

The meeting commenced with inspection. Followed by a few announcements made by our Capt. (Mrs. McIntosh) regarding forthcoming events including the date of the annual Mother and Daughter banquet which has tentatively been planned for May 13.

Patrol corners then followed, and information on Nova Scotia and its products were chosen for this meeting. Once again these proved to be very good, but much credit is due to the Forget-me-not patrol, who deservedly gained first place, thus earning points for their patrol. It could well be seen that much thought had been given to this subject since every agricultural and natural product of Nova Scotia was represented, including minerals, wood, grain, dairy products, vegetables, fish and poultry, the latter section even being complete with a live chicken. Well done Forget-me-nots! Clover patrol proved to be a good runner up, with Lily of the Valley Patrol being placed third. Remember Guides all books and magazines are prohibited from now on.

Then came a short game, which incidentally turned out to be a "brushing up" test in knot tying, a first class practice for the young and older Guides.

The Guides then parted off into their various sections, six going with Miss Millie Hudson of the Summerland hospital, who was tester for the Child Nurse badge. Mrs. Witherspoon also taught the senior patrol and first class Guides the initial stages of bandaging for the St. Johns Ambulance Brigade preliminary certificate. Meanwhile the younger group were working on their second class.

Interview Sought . . .

Board Will Ask Municipal Council To Close Road Between Schools

At the regular meeting of the Summerland School Board on Monday evening, March 16, members were told by Chairman J. Y. Towgood that the municipal council would be receptive to a committee from the board to discuss the general principles regarding closing the road which now intersects school grounds.

As the grounds are at present, the north part is not at all effective for school purposes and the secretary, B. A. Tingley, was asked to arrange an interview with the council for this purpose.

The matter of pupils on Granville St. during the noon hour was brought up for discussion.

It had been noted that not only were students walking on the roadway proper, but were, at times, playing games. The secretary was asked to write to the principal, A. K. Macleod, asking that he communicate with the pupils asking the sidewalk be used, and the road left free for traffic.

Brownie Chatter

1st Summerland Pack

St. Patrick's Day was a very happy occasion for Brownies of the 1st Summerland Pack. After the usual opening ceremony, the visitors, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. D. Ezeard, Mrs. J. P. Sedlar and Mrs. Charlton were welcomed by Brownies and Guiders.

Then each six enacted a nursery rhyme printed on a shamrock jigsaw puzzle, pieces of which were hidden about the hall.

Marilyn Ezeard and Roselyn Sedlar were enrolled as Brownies and presented with their shiny new pins by Mrs. Reid.

Brownies then became months of the year and seasons as one year of Brownie service was depicted—stars being awarded to Linda Betuzzi, Lorna Kampe and Jo-ann Ongaro, while Phyllis Young received her second year service star.

During pow-wow, a treat of ice cream and cookies was enjoyed—then everyone joined in a sing-song ending with Brownie Taps and a prayer.

Last week five Brownies passed their minstrel's badge test. They are Lynn Bleasdale, Louise Shannon, Gay Greer, Lynne Boothe and Phyllis Young. We wish to thank Miss Dale who so kindly gave up her time to test our Brownies.—Brown Owl.

TO VERNON FARM

Friends in Summerland of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Donaldson of Milner, will be interested to hear that at the beginning of April they are moving to a farm between Lumby and Vernon, formerly operated by Wm. Osborne. They plan to build the place into a first-class dairy farm with a good type of herd.

High School COMMENTS

Last Thursday, the Summerland High School Drama club entered the first act of its play, "Out of the Frying Pan", in the drama festival held in Oliver. Although they didn't win any of the coveted awards, they received favorable adjudication and certainly were not discouraged.

SHS is putting on a radio program, over CKOV tonight. They are going to do a one-act play, "The Marriage Proposal". The cast will include Merle Heavysides, Rob Towgood and Brian Berg. Ross Axworthy is the announcer and Mr. L. Fisher the director.

We will have an assembly this Friday afternoon to vote on the amendments to the constitution and hear reports of the high school conference held at UBC, and attended by two of our students, Marion Turigan and Brian Berg.

Wednesday afternoon many of the students of SHS travelled by school bus to Penticton to see the play, "Hamlet". Dean Goodman of New York played the lead, Hamlet, and the other parts were taken by Vancouver actors and actresses.

There was a "grad" meeting last week. So far it has been decided that graduation will be held on June 5, that parents of grads will be invited to the banquet, that Shirley Allen will be class poetess and that Preston Mott will be valedictorian. The musical program held last Friday night, to raise money for the piano fund, was very successful. The students thank all those who worked to make it a success, and also those who attended.

FOR CASH IN AN EMERGENCY — TRY THE B OF M FIRST

When you need money in an emergency, you need it fast. That's why it is well to remember you can save time, as well as money, by first consulting Ivor Solly, manager of the West Summerland Bank of Montreal office.

Here is the story in one sentence. If you have a regular income and are in a position to repay without overstraining yourself, Mr. Solly can advance you a B of M Personal Loan for any useful purpose. And if it's an emergency, you can count on him to come to a decision without unnecessary delay.

A B of M Personal Loan costs only six per cent a year and can be repaid in easy instalments. You pay interest only on the amount you still owe, so that if you borrow $100 and repay in monthly instalments over a year, the cost is only 27 cents a month. You can borrow more or less, for shorter or longer periods, at proportionately the same cost.

Remember, in financial emergency, make Mr. Solly's office your first stop. He is accustomed to dealing confidentially with people in time of emergency or opportunity, and he can be depended upon to help in every possible way.

Proposes School For Trout Creek

Summerland school board in regular meeting on Monday evening, March 16, were in receipt of a letter from Dr. C. G. Woodbridge for the Trout Creek Community Association, in which the board was asked to consider possibility of establishing an elementary school in Trout Creek.

Dr. Woodbridge mentioned the rapidly growing population in Trout Creek, and with the new road, the fact that many people live there, who work in Penticton. He suggested that a building site might be planned by the school board in case a school might be opened in that area.

A. S. Matheson, school inspector for the district, stated that if transportation can be eliminated, he thought that a two teacher elementary school is effective. He said, also, that grades 1 - 4 could be operated as economically in this way as in a consolidated school.

The MacDonald elementary school already has a basement room in use which is not desirable, and Inspector Matheson advised examining the Trout Creek proposal closely before considering any addition to the present school.

To this end a survey will be made as to the number of children now in grades 1 - 4 age group, and also of pre-school children, who will be attending school presently. This survey will be made with the cooperation of the principal and staff of the MacDonald school, the public health nurse, and the pupils.

Capital Punishment Inconsistent With Christian Principals -- Jones

Placing responsibility of many crimes directly upon society, O. L. Jones, MP for Yale, speaking in the house of commons urged the abolition of the principal of the ancient Mosaic law which calls for capital punishment in favor of a Christian form of punishment based on love and tolerance rather than revenge.

An alternative to the death penalty proposed by Mr. Jones was that prisoners serving a life sentence should have the option of submitting themselves to medical science for experimental purposes for a few years. "There might be dangerous experiments which could result in providing the answer to many problems still baffling science, problems concerning cancer and so on. If such a man survived he could be returned to society properly cured," he proposed.

Mr. Jones was speaking in support of a bill presented to the house which would abolish the death penalty from the criminal code. He said:

"First, we are living in a Christian civilization, which about 2,000 years ago replaced a civilization which operated under the old Mosaic law. The Mosaic law upheld the theory of punishment on the basis of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. The coming of Christianity scrapped that law of revenge, replacing it with the principles enunciated in the New Testament, of love and tolerance. Therefore I believe that capital punishment, being based as it is on the Mosaic law, should be replaced by a Christian method of punishment which definitely would not include the extreme penalty as carried out today.

"Secondly, facts are now available as to the experience of other states and countries, 30 of them, I believe, where capital punishment has been abolished, which prove that the incidence of violent crime has not increased since that abolition. Some claim there has been a large decrease in serious crime as a result of the change.

"I am not satisfied that capital punishment acts as a deterrent to others. In the rare premeditated crime it may be a factor while the premeditation was taking place, but the fact that the act did take place proves that it was not a very strong factor. As a child I was told, as probably everyone in this house was, that I should follow the principle that God gave life and God only should be allowed to take it away, not even the state. I think that is the basic principle of Christianity today.

"Some of those who favor the death penalty claim that it is cheaper for the taxpayer than maintaining a prisoner for life. That may be an argument more against our correctional institutions than against the abolition of the death penalty. Could not the policy of our prisons be changed so that life prisoners could be employed at useful work which would provide not only for the prisoners keep but for the maintenance of his dependents outside the prison? I feel that that could be done.

"Modern psychology and sociology accept the principle that human behavior is largely unplanned and habitual rather than calculated and voluntary. This is supported by the evidence which is presented in the majority of criminal cases where men have been judged as suffering temporary insanity. Men who are otherwise normal have become temporarily insane or irresponsible, due possibly to jealousy or some other strong mental force.

"A man of this type may spend possibly 40 years of his life as an exemplary citizen and then become temporarily insane or uncontrollable for ten minutes during which time he may commit a murder. His actions during those ten minutes completely outweigh his previous 40 years of good behavior. I believe the day will come when such a man will be treated by modern science so that the balance of his mental processes may be restored and the remainder of his life used profitably in more ways than one for the benefit of humanity.

"In carrying out the extreme penalty we refuse to consider the implications of that act upon the lives of the family of the prisoner. The stigma of this penalty does not end with the execution, it is borne by the members of the victims family for the rest of their lives. It may be a wife, a mother or children, but whoever they are they become social outcasts in the district in which they live. In many cases they are forced to sell their home at a loss and move to new surroundings in an effort to hide their shame.

"It has been suggested to me that it would be far better if society when demanding full punishment for a crime should give the prisoner an option—I think this should be considered by the Attorney General—of serving for life and producing sufficient during that period to maintain himself and his dependents through some useful occupation in the prison, or submitting himself to medical science for experimental purposes for a few years. There might be dangerous experiments which could result in providing the answer to many problems still baffling science, problems concerning cancer and so on. If such a man survived he could be returned to society properly cured.

"In that way he would be paying the penalty and atoning for his crime. To my mind such a method of punishment is preferable to capital punishment. We members of society have a direct responsibility for many crimes which are as important a national asset as the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway across the pre-cambrian area. Here is the best chance in our generation to further the development of Canada into one of the leading nations of the world and we must not let that chance slip through our fingers.

Several important bills are being held up owing to the prolonged debate on the budget. These include the bill to increase the loaning power under the national housing act; a bill to amend the Trans-Canada airlines act; a bill to amend the Indian act; an act to protect coastal fisheries; the emergency powers act; one respecting food and drugs; the veterans benefit act; the merchant seamen's compensation act; one for the conservation of water resources; the farm improvements loan act; another one to eliminate discrimination for reasons of racial origin, color or religion, and several others very important to our economy. With the order paper filled up with such proposed legislation, it would appear now that the house will continue to sit until very close to the time when members must leave for the coronation.

With the proposed date of the election deferred until the fall members seem to have settled down to the steady grind of getting this work done as quickly as possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carpenter and their family drove over from Midway were visitors at the home of Mrs. Carpenter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. White, and to help observe Mr. White's birthday which was on Sunday, March 8.

Raising Geese Offers Profitable Possibilities In Okanagan Valley

Extensive winter injury to fruit trees and consistently poor returns for the once-lucrative fruit crops have compelled many Okanagan Valley orchardists to seek new ways and means of stabilizing their own economies. Many and varied are the new ventures being started in all sections of the valley, but perhaps none fits in quite as well with the present economy of the irrigated Okanagan as does the raising of geese.

Geese will thrive on any farm that abounds in green grass. Young goslings are often put on a grass diet right from the day they are hatched, and are raised without supplementary feeding to market age, when they may be sold as a tender and tasty delicacy known as "green geese". They do especially well on irrigated land, since frequent irrigations tend to maintain a constant growth of young and tender grass shoots. Under such conditions they have been shown capable of increasing their weight over one pound a week during the first 12 weeks after hatching. It is well known that geese will manufacture meat faster and more economically than any other farm animal.

Geese of all breeds are extremely resistant to disease and rarely is even one sick goose seen in an entire flock. They have shown immunity to the many chicken and turkey diseases and consequently may be ranged together with other types of poultry with utmost confidence that they will suffer none of the ills which may befall the other poultry. They also live compatibly with other farm livestock such as cattle and sheep, but since geese are the closest of grazers, no livestock pasture should be too heavily populated with geese. One acre of average irrigated pasture should satisfy from 20 to 30 geese quite comfortably. Contrary to popular opinion, swimming water is not necessary for geese, but like other poultry, they must have an adequate supply of fresh drinking water.

Geese are raised primarily for the meat which they produce, but unlike other poultry, they produce many by-products during the course of their existence.

Goose feathers and down are highly valued for their resilient properties and bring high prices from feather buyers who use them in the manufacture of pillows and winter clothing. At the present time, buyers are paying up to $2.20 per pound for good quality goose feathers with original down content. The average farm goose yields about four-tenths of a pound of body feathers. Wing and tail feathers from the white breeds of geese make the only suitable feathers for use in the manufacture of shuttlecocks. Goose livers are valued for the flavor which they impart to "pate de fois gras", of which they are the chief component.

Goose hides can be manufactured into the most beautiful powder puffs. This is accomplished by plucking the feathers from the goose carcass but leaving the dense covering of soft, fluffy goose-down intact. The carcasses are then skinned and the hides process-tanned and dyed. The down-covered hides are then fashioned into dainty, super-soft powder puffs. Owing to the limited supply of goose hides available for powder puff manufacture, only about 2 per cent of the women of America ever enjoy using these lush puffs.

Cooked, boned and canned goose flesh has been very favorably received on the American dinner table. Edible goose fats are cooked and canned for use in special recipes, and intestinal goose fat, because of its low melting point, is eagerly sought by pharmaceutical houses for compounding ointments. The long windpipes taken from geese have been washed, fashioned into various shapes, dried and filled with sand, later to be sold as babies' rattles. Geese have many other attributes which make them an all-round economic proposition. It has often been said that the only parts of a goose that can't be used are the honk and the goose pimples.

Not so in "The Grand Portage". It portrays the miseries of starvation, when the traders had to eat dogs, rock lichen, boiled shoelaces, and bits of old leather boots. It shows the dread of Indians, the terrible loneliness, the aching muscles after long canoe trips, the dirt and filth and drunkenness, the roughness and the cruelty, of life in the wild Canada of those days. Yet there is plenty of romance, suspense, and action, and at least one man is shown as trying to swim above the scum.

Yes, but you say, why write a column about these? One can read book reviews anywhere. Not in the Review you can't! And most book reviews elsewhere play up American authors, or occasionally British. I lift up my raucous Canadian voice and howl the praises of books written by Canadians, which to my mind can take proud place, in the ranks of modern historical fiction at least, with the best that any country can produce.

These two planes are high among the 11 aircraft given super-priority by Prime Minister Winston Churchill, as important to Britain in peace or war. Top is the Avro 698 "Vulcan," a delta-wing heavy bomber powered by four turbo-jet engines believed to be able to drive the plane at close to the speed of sound, and capable of carrying large bombs over great distances and heights. Bottom is the Vickers Supermarine Swift, a jet fighter with a swept-back wing, designed as a successor to the World War II Spitfire.

Close Cafeteria Until Next Fall

Summerland school board meeting on Monday evening, March 16, decided to close operation of the school cafeteria as of yesterday.

The number of pupils using the cafeteria service has fallen off considerably during the warmer weather, and it will be closed until the fall.

Trustee Ross McLachlan reported attendance at the meeting held to plan for Coronation Day, and stated that he was a member of the souvenir committee.

A request from Jehovah's Witnesses to rent the auditorium, gymnasium, and kitchen of the high school for a convention in August was not accepted by the board.

It was brought to the attention of the board that a number of local groups enjoying the privilege of using the schools have sometimes taken these for granted, without making prior arrangements through the secretary-treasurer. It was readily understood the difficulties thus ensuing, regarding janitor and other services, and it was hoped in future groups will go through regular channels and inform the secretary of plans.

Extensive Program . . .

Propose Full Diesel Service For Kettle Valley Railway

The Canadian Pacific railway has earmarked $29 million for improvements to its services in British Columbia in 1953. New building projects planned in a $12 million appropriation are: a specially-designed rail-car ferry for service between Vancouver and Nanaimo; outlay for preliminary work on the reconstruction of pier "D"; new rail and ship terminal facilities at Nanaimo and Vancouver, and extensive rail improvements throughout British Columbia. The CPR will spend $17 million for the purchase of new diesel units and construction of building to further dieselize its lines in the province. On dieselization, the CPR has ordered 71 locomotive units for its Kettle Valley-Kootenay line. Fourteen of these units are already in service at other points in the system and will be transferred to British Columbia as soon as servicing facilities are completed. A diesel service shop is now under construction at Nelson, and it is expected that by early summer diesel power will begin to relieve steam locomotives now in service on that line.

Naval architects are designing a 7,00-ton, specialized service ship, which will top all vessels in the company's coast fleet. It will embody features never before seen in this type of vessel. No accurate estimate of construction costs will be available until the design has been completed.

Another spending program in British Columbia will include the replacing of 119 miles of steel rails at a cost of $2,075,000, and the replacing of 367,000 rail ties, to cost $1,224,000. Repairs will be made to tunnels and snowsheds, and a 315-foot wooden trestle on the Canadian Pacific's line through the picturesque Coquihalla Pass is to be replaced by a steel bridge.

An important signals program for further safety and efficiency in train operations, will see automatic block signals completed from Field, B.C. to Ruby Creek, 81 miles east of Vancouver.

Plans are also completed for the building of a $300,000 artificial ice plant at Penticton for servicing the company's passenger equipment and for refrigeration purposes. It will be the only ice plant of its type on the CP system, and will produce 100 tons daily.

Inferiority of Males Theme In 'Princess Ida' Operetta

Keen interest is being shown in the newest undertaking of the Singers and Players, the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Princess Ida," which they will present Monday evening in the high school auditorium. Demand for seats has been heavy since they went on sale last week but some reserved and some rush are still available.

The Summerland performance will be the first of three presentations scheduled for this operetta. The group are scheduled to appear in Penticton and Kelowna as well.

The new school auditorium at Penticton holds 750 and the show there will be on Friday, March 27, so anyone disappointed here or wishing to see the show again can be assured of a seat there.

The play itself is a parody of Tennyson's "The Princess" and tells of Ida, daughter of King Gama, who at the age of one was betrothed to Hilarion, the two-year-old son of King Hildebrand.

On the appointed day 21 years later, the crusty old King Gama arrives at the Court of King Hildebrand but without the princess, and his reception is anything but a pleasant one. It appears that the beautiful princess has renounced the male sex entirely and has opened a women's university in Castle Adamant, where the mere mention of man is forbidden. Hilarion is determined to win the princess and proceeds stealthily to Castle Adamant with two companions. They creep in and disguise themselves as girl undergraduates, but of course the ruse is discovered and the women arrest them and prepare to resist by force any attempt to enter the castle. King Hildebrand arrives with his forces and the battle is on but even with the assistance of King Gama and his three stout sons, the ladies are soundly beaten and the castle is captured. In a panic Princess Ida rushes away but falls into a neighboring creek from which she is rescued gallantly by Hilarion.

The ladies plead with their princess to relent. "Oh yield at once 'twere better so than risk a strife. And let the brave Hilarion go. He saved thy life.

To treat as vanity the sway of Love.

In no locality or principality. Is our mortality. It's sway above"

As to the performers? Ethel McNeill's beautiful voice and pleasing stage appearance makes her a first rate Princess Ida and she is well supported by other characters Mary Whitmore, Flora Bergstrom and Laura Boothe. Jack Stocks makes an imposing King Hildebrand. A newcomer Ray Jaster takes the part of Hilarion and minor male characters are taken by Jack Rorke and Rod Butler.

As King Gama, A. K. Macleod again has a part very much to his liking. It is again one of those amusing cross-grained characters which are so often a feature of Gilbert & Sullivan, and Mr. Macleod certainly makes the most of it. Delmer Dunham has a part well suited to his vigorous masculinity and Harold Howling and Roy Angus give him full support. A well trained chorus ensemble of nearly forty and a better than usual orchestra combine to make up a delightful entertainment.

This performance will mark only the second time "Princess Ida" has been produced in B.C., the first performance being put on in

How Many Kinds of Socialism are There?

There's the Socialism of the various democracies that have never abandoned democracy but have merely dabbled on the edges of the Great Experiment.

And there's the Socialism of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, which is an all-out, full-scale laboratory experiment in the practical application of the ideas of Marx and Engels.

A world of difference exists between the two.

But is it not true that the difference is mainly in the DEGREE to which the Socialist idea of "Government-run-everything" is applied?

If that is the case, then how much of the Socialist poison can a democracy tolerate and still remain free?

The question isn't one for students and professors to mull over in academic debate. It concerns every living person who today resides in a free democracy like Canada.

Member Presses For Better Deal

An appeal for the federal government to give municipalities a better deal on taxation and federal aid was delivered in the house of commons by O. L. Jones, MP for Yale and a former mayor of Kelowna, during debate on the budget. Mr. Jones contended that municipalities should be allowed to tax crown property and their purchases of equipment and other municipal needs should be exempted from one form or other of federal taxation.

In addition, he proposed that the government turn over to municipalities 75 per cent of its revenues from duties and taxes on liquor.

Mr. Jones said municipalities are finding it harder to make ends meet because the federal government is encroaching on their sources of revenue.

In asking that liquor revenues be turned over to them, he said this should go to compensate them for expenditures they make—such as policing and the upkeep of prisoners—resulting from the sale of intoxicants.

The government, he said, also should let itself be taxed normally by municipalities and scrap the "Abbot formula" whereby they get annual grants in lieu of taxation. The government often had the most expensive municipal land, which had to be serviced by the municipality.

Mr. Jones called for the refunding of all federal levies on municipal purchases—including duties on equipment imported from the United States.

He also urged that the 15 per cent special excise tax on automobiles be removed. This is classed as a "luxury" tax, but he said automobiles no longer are a luxury in Canada. They were needed by many workers.

Mr. Jones described it as "exorbitant and unfair" because most automobiles were used as a necessity.

Budget in Very Delicate Balance According To Financial Experts

"Possibly the most significant aspect" of Canada's new federal budget, the Bank of Montreal comments in its latest Business Review, is the fact that it has "achieved balance with a reduction of taxes but without a reduction of expenditure." But, the bank report stresses, "if the tax cuts are to be real and not an illusory social dividend, the assumptions on which the budget is predicated must prove valid."

A national budget can have several objectives, the statement maintains. It must, primarily, consider the adequacy of revenues in the light of foreseeable expenditures. It may, also, be shaped to stabilize the trend and pattern of business activity.

"Because the minister of finance could begin his budget address . . . by recording in the year past, and by anticipating in the year ahead, both buoyancy in governmental revenues and stability and progress in the Canadian economy, he was able to forecast a balanced budget after reducing taxes by $237 millions."

Outlook Favorable

In the minister's forecast, the Review noted particularly his confidence that expenditures within Canada on consumer goods and on new productive facilities would continue at high levels. Prospective export markets in the United States were considered encouraging and the commodities which form the bulk of Canada's exports overseas were expected to retain a favorable competitive position. In addition, the international political and economic climate is considered conducive to "new initiatives" in removing trade barriers. Basing his forecast of revenues on the assumption that Canada's gross national production in 1953 would approach $24 billions, the minister estimated that, despite a further increase of seven per cent in defence outlays, the surplus in prospect for the coming fiscal year would, in the absence of tax reductions, have been of the order of $250 millions. In keeping with the aim of a balanced budget, virtually all of this prospective surplus was devoted to tax relief. Enumerating the individual tax reductions, the review observes that they "are designed to stimulate production no less than consumption."

Emphasizing that this balanced budget was achieved with a reduction of taxes but no reduction of expenditure, the review suggests that, while the minister of finance referred to the tax cuts as "a real social dividend," they might be more accurately described as "a dividend yet to be earned by the people but payable in advance."

The assumptions on which the budget is based must prove valid if the tax cuts are to be real, not illusory, the bank points out. "There must be no unforeseen outlays for national defence, social security or interest on the national debt . . ." Further, the value of the tax concessions themselves must not be dissipated by inflation, but it may be prudent to note that "some of the influences tending to hold Canadian prices down in the past year may not continue to operate."

Win or Lose

By Jack Dunham.

When is an opponent not an opponent? This could well have been asked of our entry in the Coy Cup playdowns.

On Sundays, teams of the Pentiction, commercial hockey loop, battle each other with a fury equal to the Vees and Elks clashes of late. Then, awhile ago, to show there were no hard feelings, they joined forces and proceeded to show the rest of the valley that the Warwick's weren't the only hockey players down around here.

With the Summerland team as a nucleus, they cleaned up on the Kelowna-Rutland All-Stars and Vernon and were clamoring to have a crack at last years champs, the Kamloops Loggers.

The Loggers, a group of rugged old pros, and hustling youngsters, showed the local lads why they went so far last year. When the smoke cleared there was no doubt as to which was the best team.

The Summerland-Pentiction crew did, however, show everyone that intermediate hockey in this area has shown a marked improvement over last year and that within a year or so they could quite easily break the monopoly that northern teams have had on hockey titles in the past.

Here's a "hats off" to you fellas for a job well done.

Hot Stovers . . . Not So Hot

I wonder how many of you hockey fans have been gathering around your radio lately to catch the OSAHL playoff games? It's really an exciting experience.

The play-by-play announcer, in the person of Dave Roegle, gives his listeners a fair account of the proceedings, naturally leaning a bit toward the Pentiction team, but never-the-less the account isn't too bad.

We come to the really exciting part between periods. This is when sports casters and writers from up and down the valley give the stay-at-home hockey fans their views and opinions of the portion of the game just completed. One of these gentlemen in particular really excites me, and I use the word "excites" very, very loosely. He tells us how marvelously the Warwick's have been playing, which they usually are, how McLelland was stupendous in the Vees' net, kicking out a hail of rubber while his team was short-handed, and generally how the Pentiction team was absolutely unbeatable, even though the score is tied up. Just before he finishes his stirring, but top-sided speech, he mumbles something about the other team also putting in an appearance. The other boys give the high lights of the past period with both teams getting plenty of credit for fine play.

Come on Sid, quit trying to play Mr. Big and give us the whole picture instead of only half.

Game Protested . . .

Disputed Goal Costs Locals First Commercial Play-off

A goal which the goal judge claimed was not scored but which was allowed by Referee Mike Barren is subject of a protest by Summerland after the first match of the round-robin play-off in which they were ousted by Packers, 5-4.

The disputed goal came in the closing minutes of the game Sunday when the score stood at 4-4. According to the goal judge, the puck hit the goal post but did not go into the net. Several spectators near the goal support the goal judge in this claim. Referee Barren, in spite of this decision, allowed the goal.

Packers had the game their own way in the first period and held Summerland scoreless while racking up three goals. Summerland came out of the fog for the second stanza to rack up two tallies and kept the pace in the opening minutes of the final period to move into the lead, only to be tied and then finally the disputed marker which gave the game to Packers. 1st Period: 1, Packers, Swift, (Bogart) 4:30; 2, Packers, Bogart (Seely) 5:00; 3, Packers, Rothfield (Bogart) 18:30.

3rd Period: 6, Summerland (Taylor) Roberge 3:44; 7, Summerland, Taylor 3:50; 8, Packers, Bogart (Eden, Swift) 11:08; 9, Packers, Byer (O'Connor) 13:15. Penalties: Seely, Johnston, Rothfield.

Semi-Final Match . . .

Summerland Ousted From Coy Cup By Kamloop's Loggers' 9-1 Victory

Summerland pucksters last Friday evening in Pentiction bowed out of Coy Cup playdowns when Kamloops Loggers took the second game of the series to move into the finals to meet Trail for the provincial title. The local lads stood little chance against last year's title holders and were steamrollered in a score 9-1. They lost the first game to the Loggers 9-4.

Taking off to a 2-0 first-period start, Loggers added three more in the second period to lead 5-0 and scored four times in the third before Pentiction-Summerland could flash the light once.

Bill Rothfield shattered Logger Goalie Walt Malahoff's hopes of a shutout at 16:18 in the third period, but the goal really couldn't matter less, for Loggers had scored nine times.

Defenceman McLeod rifled one into the Pentiction net in the second period to make the score 5-0 for Kamloops and scored again in the third period.

Pentiction-Summerland — Moog; Harris, Taylor, McLean, Mann, Montgomery, Steininger, Campbell, Rothfield, Richardson, Collins, Roberge, Holonoty.

Kamloops — Malahoff; Ludgate, Desreanu, Mills, Swaine, Campbell, MacLeod, McDougall, McQuay, Berry, Irvine, F. Gaber, A. Gaber, Mirtle.

Badminton players from here showed up well at Kelowna in the Central Okanagan tournament. The men's and ladies' singles and the men's doubles went to a strong contingent from Vancouver but the locals showed that they could beat anything on the floor in the mixed event. It was practically an all Summerland final with Dave Waddell and Dorothy MacLeod finally winning out over George Fudge and Mickey Bell. Miss Bell is from Pentiction.

Dorothy MacLeod again broke into the winners circle by teaming with Joan Van Ackeren of Okanagan Centre to win the ladies' doubles.

This week-end the spotlight switches to junior play with the Okanagan championships being held at Kelowna. Players from Kamloops, Keremeos, Osoyoos, Summerland and Kelowna will be battling for a chance to represent the interior at the coast Easter week-end for the B.C. championships. Geoff Bolly and Ross Axworthy will represent Summerland high school.

Keen Enthusiasm Developing For First Summerland 'Spiel

Twenty-two rinks are already registered for Summerland's first annual curling bonspiel next week-end and committee members are confident there will be a full slate of 32 rinks entered before the first matches get underway next Friday morning.

It is expected about half the rinks competing will be from outside points. Already registrations have been received from Cranbrook, Rock Creek, Midway, Kelowna, Pentiction, Osoyoos, Oliver, Princeton and Copper Mountain.

Up for competition for the first time will be the Occidental Fruit Co. trophy for "A" event; B.C. Shippers trophy for "E" event and Walters Ltd. trophy for "C" event.

Curling will go on from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. each of the three days of the bonspiel.

In addition to the trophies for the winners of each event, 12 sets of individual prizes will be awarded the four top rinks in each division.

Plans for the event are under direction of the Curling Club executive and members of the draw committee are Bill Croft, Herb Lemke and J. W. Mitchell.

Members of the committee feel the event would have met with even greater enthusiasm had it been held earlier in the season and plan for the bonspiel in January next year.

Behind the 8-Ball

By Gord Crockett

The greatest challenge to man is the accomplishment of any act which appears simple but trial proves it actually requires a high degree of skill, patience or dexterity. That is the reason why Chinese puzzles offer such an irresistible challenge and will keep a person quiet by the hour while they fiddle and twist and work up a first class case of high blood pressure.

For quite some time now I have been frustrated by the very simple act of drolling a seven-pound spheroid of rubber compound a distance of 68 feet to strike a target about an inch and one-half wide and repeat the process 12 consecutive times.

The first time I ever saw the game of bowling, I told myself there was nothing to it and set out to prove my contention. Meeting with little success in the beginning, I told myself that all I needed was a little practice.

That was 25 years ago and I still believe it.

That's faith for you! But 25 years hasn't changed my outlook one bit. All it needs is a little bit of practice and any lame-brain can roll up a perfect bowling score.

The difficulty is that most people don't live long enough to get in the little bit of practice necessary but with the average life span of humans gradually stretching out, it may not be too long before a man will be able to squeeze in the required time. Mark you, he won't have time for much else but he'll have an opportunity to prove his point.

There probably isn't a bowler anywhere that doesn't secretly harbor the thought that some time he (or she) is going to hit a hot streak that will stick with him (or her) long enough to bowl just 12 balls. That secret passion, in fact, is the reason why so many bowling alley operators grow fat and sleek. It's like holding a carrot out in front of a jackass—and I make no apologies for my choice of simile, either.

For me, the bitter pill has not been my inability to attain the long-sought perfect score but it's always having to seek out the secretary after I bowl a few times in a new league and explain to her that the title "Miss" does not belong in front of my name. I don't know why they should always jump to that conclusion—there are lots of men who bowl in the lower bracket. Perhaps not as regularly, but I believe there is a certain virtue in consistency.

Style of delivery is rated with a high degree of importance in bowling and I have made a very careful study of various forms but try as I may to adapt them to myself the end result invariably is the same.

There is, for example, the "Engineer" type. He stands well back and gives long and thoughtful study to the problem, calculating such factors as velocity, pin deflection, friction, etc., and finally about the time everybody else is ready, to go home he delivers the ball. I tried that but the trouble is my mind wanders and I'd forget what I had started out to do and my teammates had to constantly remind me of what I was standing up there for.

Then there's the "Fireball" artist. He makes up with speed what he lacks in accuracy. I tried that system and got three consecutive strikes but they wouldn't let me count them because they were all in the next alley. I finally gave up trying to control a fast ball. The "Long Pitch" is another popular delivery but I had to abandon it after they wrote in the rule book that the ball must touch the alley before it strikes the pins. Just when I was developing a nice underhand throw, too.

In contrast to the "Fireball", there's the "Slow Roll". That's another one I overdeveloped and had to give it up when the pin boys started claiming overtime while waiting for the ball to get down the alley. Yes, I had a nice slow ball there if they had only let me use it.

Then I tried the "Marilyn Munro Special" but unlike Marilyn, I had too much on my curves and all I gained was a modicum of fame as the only man who could make a bowling ball work like a boomerang. My teammates made me give it up as too dangerous.

My weak point, I have always felt, has been the fact that I am not loose-jointed enough to give the proper amount of "Body English" after sending the ball on its way. I have always envied the fellows who can contort themselves like a pretzel while waiting for the ball to reach its destination and I'm sure if I could do that I'd have it licked. I try to make up for it by jumping up and down and screaming encouragement to the ball but I don't think it's nearly as effective.

One more year I give it and if I can't get my average over 100 I'm going to switch to something easy and non-frustrating like curling.

Traffic Arises With Gulch and Route

A daily newspaper report that tenders for construction of the Summerland-Peachland highway are to be called April 1 were today branded as mistaken by district engineer Tom Hughes in Kelowna. Mr. Hughes said it was expected tenders will be called sometime in the new fiscal year but the upset of the government at Victoria means it will be even more unsettled as to when the tenders for the work will be called.

Approve Lighting For Three Areas

Decision to instal 15 new street lights in three different parts of the district at a cost of $1,634 was reached Tuesday afternoon by the municipal council.

Six of the new lights will go to Prairie Valley, four on the Fesbery Road and seven in the Sergeant sub-division.

Chairman of the electrical energy committee, Councillor F. E. Atkinson reported an estimate had been prepared on the cost of installing 12 street lights at Trout Creek and total would be $1,131. Action on any Trout Creek installation was deferred until it is ascertained how many residents of that district want street lighting.

Approve Payment Toward School Costs

Still unsure of how the "Rolston Formula" is going to affect municipal financing, the council Tuesday afternoon hesitated before approving an application from School District No. 77 for a grant of $12,000. A few weeks earlier the council approved a payment of $14,000.

In his application, the school board secretary stated this second payment would probably provide the board with sufficient funds to carry on until the end of June and by that time, it is expected some portion of grant will be received from the provincial government.

Plastic 'Buttons' To Replace Paint

Plastic "buttons" will soon dot Summerland streets to mark off crosswalks and parking lanes. Public works committee chairman, Councillor Francis Steuart Tuesday afternoon reported the plastic discs will be used this year for marking instead of paint. The yellow discs are reported to be much more durable than paint.

Councillor Steuart told the council these discs are now being used at Vernon where they have been found to be most satisfactory and a supply has been obtained to carry out the marking job in Summerland.

Father and Son Gathering

More Than 50 Cubs, Scouts Honored At Annual Presentation Ceremony

More than 50 Cubs and Scouts were honored at a badge presentation ceremony at the annual father-and-son banquet held in the Youth Center last Thursday night before more than 200 Scouts, Cubs and parents.

Three Scouts of outstanding accomplishment were Neil Woolliams, William Lewis and Gary Hackman who each received the bronze arrowhead from District Commissioner Doug Southworth.

Following the dinner and presentation ceremony, guest speaker was Chester Lyons of the parks branch of the department of forestry, who gave a brief outline of the operation of a tree-growing project and pointed out to Scouts they have before them an exceptional opportunity in their proposed Christmas tree growing project.

Mr. Lyons also showed an interesting collection of colored slides showing little-known animals and places, taken in less accessible parts of B.C. Also honored during the evening was Dr. D. V. Fisher, who was presented with a gift in recognition of 10 years service on the Summerland Scout committee.

Chairman of the gathering was Dr. D. L. McIntosh and on the after-dinner program, toast to the fathers was given by Scout Neil Woolliams and response by Ralph Blewett. Also speaking briefly were Lowell Laidlaw and W. Milne. The guest speaker was introduced by S. R. Cannings.

Arnett Negotiations Again Deadlocked

Municipal council Tuesday afternoon stood firm on their offer of $200 for the purchase of a piece of property from W. H. Arnett and negotiations which have been going on for 42 years seem to have reached a new stalemate.

Difference between bid and asking price on the property, however, was shaved another $50 by Mr. Arnett who in a letter to the council proposed they "split the difference" between the $300 asked and $200 bid.

"No compromise" said the council.

General opinion of councillors was that $200 was more than the property was worth and they would not go higher. It was also pointed out the municipality would be under expense additional to the purchase price in having to have a survey made before the transaction could be completed.

The council did, however, make one concession. Their offer of $200 was for a 50-foot road allowance and Mr. Arnett in his letter proposed this should be cut to 3 feet. The council agreed.

Meeting To Discuss School Improvements

Members of the municipal council will meet with the school board on Monday evening at 7:30 to discuss improvements to the school grounds. The main point which will be put forward by the school board will be the proposal to close the street which runs between the two schools.

Dr. R. C. Palmer Passes Suddenly

Summerland today suffered a severe loss with the sudden passing of Dr. Richard C. Palmer, superintendent of the dominion experimental farm.

Apparently the victim of a heart attack, he was found lying on the floor of the vault at the office shortly before noon. Artificial respiration was applied but to no avail.

Dr. Palmer came to the experimental station here in the early 1920's as assistant superintendent and has held the post of superintendent for more than 20 years.

In 1949 he was chosen Summerland's Good Citizen of the year. He leaves to mourn his wife and two sons at UBC. He was a member of Summerland Rotary Club.

June 8 Predicted as Election Date Following Sacred Defeat In House

The contentious "Rolston Formula" for meeting education costs Tuesday night spelled an end to B.C.'s Social Credit government and forecasts are for a provincial election on June 8.

The measure was defeated in the legislature by a vote of 23-17. The lieutenant-governor rejected proposal of Harold Winch that the CCF party be asked to form a government without calling an election.

Difficult Production

Summerland Theatrical Group Scores Signal Success With 'Princess Ida'

Summerland Singers and Players Friday night added new laurels to their already ample collection with an outstanding presentation of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "Princess Ida". Last night they repeated the performance in Kelowna and will present it again tomorrow night in Penticton.

Reason why this was only the second time for the presentation of this operetta in B.C. became obvious as the play progressed. The music would never be classed with Sullivan's best and many of the arias are extremely difficult for any but highly-trained voices and lack the lilt which characterizes much of his work; the cast requires about 50 performers with complete changes of costume and also requires scenery changes for each of the three acts.

Although the cast turned in an exceptionally fine performance, top honors went to the production staff for scenery, make-up and costuming. In these departments, nothing could be found wanting and the work could be compared favorably with that of the professional theatre anywhere.

Only weak spot in the entire production was the limited range and lack of training in some of the voices which fell short on the more difficult arias. The deft handling of the various parts and the enthusiasm of the performers, however, more than compensated for any voice deficiency. Every phase of production gave evidence of many hours of preparation.

The capacity audience in the high school auditorium responded warmly to the presentation.

Another behind-the-scenes member of the company who earned high praise for the production was club mentor, Stan Gladwell, who has long been a driving force in Singers and Players.

Sets were designed by Mr. Gladwell and constructed by George Washington who also handled the job of stage manager. Costuming was handled by Peg Sherwood, Ruby Sayers, Olive Wilson and Miwa Tada.

Mrs. A. K. Macleod directed the group responsible for make-up and working with her were Mrs. I. H. Solly, Mrs. C. F. M. Guernsey, Mrs. Lacey Fisher, Miss Marian Cartwright, Mrs. Pat Agur, Mrs. B. C. Russel, Mrs. John Tamlyn, Mrs. E. E. Bates, Mrs. R. A. Fredrickson and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh. The play itself moved along at Successful in their efforts for high Scouting honors were three bronze arrowhead winners, Gary Hackman, Neil Woolliams, and William Lewis. The three Scouts were presented with their certificates by District Commissioner Doug Southworth of Penticton, at the annual presentation following the father-and-son banquet in the Youth Center last Thursday night.

Cub Mayne McCutcheon received a total of five awards from A. J. McKonnie, member of Canadian Legion group committee, at the badge presentation ceremony last Thursday evening. He received four-year star, and swimmer, artist, toymaker, house orderly and homecraft badges.

During the day time, I could watch the lilac buds swelling—the days were so fine—outside my window. At night, the street light shining through the ornamental top of that same window threw patterns like quilted squares colored paper on the far wall above the old man's head.

And I lay in my hospital bed and felt thankful for many things.

Thankful that we have such good hospital facilities available in Summerland. We owe much to the pioneers who started our hospital, and to the far-sighted, community-serving men and women of our hospital board and auxiliary who have kept it going and up-to-date. Did you know that Summerland had its own hospital insurance plan long before the provincial government started one? It only cost $1 per month, at one time. Did you know, too, that when Britain's Lord Nuffield offered to give an iron lung to every hospital in the British Empire, many larger hospitals didn't bother; but Summerland's alert hospital board wrote to him, and received one of those valuable pieces of equipment absolutely free?

Thankful for our Summerland doctors, too. You hear them criticised by people who seem to expect this small district to have a Vancouver-sized staff of specialists. People who think that a doctor should never make a mistake.

A doctor is only human; I wonder how mistake-free these critics are? Our doctors are general practitioners; instead of trying to slice up every customer according to their own specialty, they have to analyse each one of thousands of different cases for any one of thousands of different diseases, each one often with different symptoms in different people.

It's a tremendous job, and when I think of how many mistakes I make every day, and then remember that once I thought of trying to become a doctor, I am more thankful than ever. For those who might have been my patients, there should be an annual day of Thanksgiving, too. With my absent-mindedness I'd probably stuff patients' mouths with forceps instead of thermometers, prescribe kidney pills to patients with headaches, and remove prefaces when I should have taken out appendixes.

You've heard of the patient fresh from the O.R. who was worried to hear neighboring patients discussing how doctors often leave instruments, sponges, etc., in wounds, making a second op. necessary, and then his own surgeon looked in and shouted "Anybody seen my hat?" and the poor chap fainted. That'd be about my style.

Thankful for the nurses, too. Even when they come bustling into the room at six a.m., just when sleep is sweetest, waking everybody up with a "Bright Good morning," whose cheerfulness is positively indecent at that early hour. Even when they calmly inquire into the details of one's inner life, and dole out the vilest medicines and most unpleasant treatments with such a calm smile that you'd like to — well . . .

But when you watch how hard they work, bustling continuously back and forth from ward to ward and patient to patient, when you see some of the dirty work they have to do—and some of the faces they have to wash—don't show me that mirror again, please, nurse—you appreciate the miracle of that smile. Nice to see that it was the oldest man in the ward who received the most attention, too.

I was so doggone thankful down there that I was even grateful for hospital insurance. Its payments are a nuisance, it has at times seemed to be run by a bunch of dough-heads; but it's grand not to have to worry about finances when you're lying helpless there.

Finally, of course, I was thankful to get out; everybody is. But when you're sick, it's a wonderful place to be able to go. Wonder if we in Summerland appreciate our hospital, and the people who make it possible, as much as we should?

Like the Weather . . . never do anything about it

A subject which competes with the weather for talking about but doing nothing about is the matter of governmental waste. Any five minutes conversation with a business man regarding the work he is required to do for the government will invariably bring out some complaint of apparent waste or duplication by either the federal or provincial government or both; but it ends there.

This week brought a prime example to this office. The federal department of statistics sent along some copies of forms to be completed with full details regarding our business operations during last year.

An extra form was enclosed and appended to it a note stating the provincial department also wished to have these figures but since the federal department of statistics is not at liberty to disclose information about individual business, the extra copy should be sent direct to the provincial government.

Now it is reasonable that information obtained for census purposes should be held confidential but the question which naturally arises is: What can the provincial statisticians do with these figures that won't be done by the federal department? Neither department is interested in the individual returns, as such, but only to compile data on the printing industry as a whole.

On the surface, this would appear to be a clear example of wasteful duplication in government. It is not even a case of not letting the left hand know what the right one is doing because when the fed-

Welcome Curlers . . . and every wish for success

THE first curling bonspiel in Summerland's history is to take place at the rink this week.

That part of the public which has never taken any interest in this game must be nonplussed at all the fuss and excitement about it. Disregard it though they might, they cannot fail to observe the extent of its popularity. The national curling championships, with a Summerland rink missing out being a participant only by a hair-breadth, finished in Sudbury, Ont., only a few weeks ago. The radio newscasts brought details of the progress of these celebrated play-offs. There was almost some-

Mid-Week Message

But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits of them that slept. (I Corinthians 15:20) Read I Corinthians 15:1-10.

About twenty-five years after the resurrection of Christ, Paul wrote to the Christians concerning the event. Paul reminds them of an impressive array of witnesses to it. But if there were any who still doubted, he had a clinching argument: "And last of all he was seen of me also, as of one born out of due time." He referred, of course, to his experience on the Damascus road, where he had been temporarily blinded, and Christ had spoken to him, saying, "I am Jesus whom thou persecutest." Paul never got away from the reality of that experience. Let other proofs of the risen Christ be few or many, here was one that no man could take away.

This is an age of question marks—an age that demands proof. Fortunately, the Christian has it. It is not only the uncounted deeds of Christian mercy, it is not just the outstanding fruits of Christian living, but also it is the Christian's own personal experience. Christ found me and stamped His image on my character. Because of this, I know He lives!

PRAYER

Grant us each day, O God, the inner witness that Christ is a living presence in our hearts. Give us day by day increasing fruits of the living Christ as He molds our character more closely to Thy will. We pray in His name. Amen.

The Lighter Side

Orchardist Squibb was pruning in the farthest corner of his orchard when a neighbor came running to call "Quick, Henry! Your wife's having a fit."

Squibb dropped everything and ran a mile to his house. By the time he got there his wife had recovered fully, and was placidly cooking dinner.

A week later he was summoned again. His wife was having another fit. This time he arrived, puffing and perspiring to find his wife revived once more, darned stockings in the parlor.

A third time the neighbor called for Orchardist Squibb. "Durndest fit she had yet," was the report. This time Squibb found his wife out cold on the kitchen floor. He felt her pulse and her heart. Neither stirred. He held a mirror before her mouth. There was no trace of moisture.

Squibb straightened himself, and mopped his forehead. "Well," he declared, "this is more like it!"

Sometimes when a paper makes a typographical error it's just its luck to make another one trying to correct it.

For instance a paper in recording the death of a local man, said that he had gone to "rust" when, of course, "rust" was meant.

This greatly grieved the man's wife, so the editor told her he would reprint the article correctly. The next time it came out that he had gone to "roast".

Again the widow complained so the editor tried the third time to get it right and that time it came out that he had gone to "roast".

BY O. L. JONES, MP for Yale

Now that the Prime Minister has definitely informed the house that an election will take place in a few months, it has steamed up the tempo of the debate to such an extent, that we have had several fiery exchanges of words between members of the various parties. Such an incident occurred last week, when Mr. Drew charged the government with waste and extravagance and was answered by the Prime Minister, who charged Mr. Drew with irresponsibility in having a desire not so much to prove his case as to provide a good election campaign. While this may be true, there is, nevertheless, a feeling here, that all is not well with the administration of our various departments and that some waste and extravagance does exist. The importance of the coming election has even relegated such matters as Korea, and the defence of the country to a back seat. Mr. Stewart, member for Charlotte, charged the new conservative government of New Brunswick, with carrying out wholesale dismissals of men in public office other than Conservatives; mentioning his own son, who was an engineer with the public works department of that province. While all these political fights are interesting, the work of the house is carried on, both on the floor of the house, in debate, and in the various committees.

The defence expenditure committee meets regularly, but owing to the limitations in exploring the field of defence in general, many of the members feel frustrated and resent another white-wash committee. An interesting debate took place on the gas pipeline, when Mr. Howe spoke on behalf of the government, defining its policy relative to the export of petroleum and natural gas. He pointed out that both petroleum and gas are the property of the province in which they are produced and also transportation within the province of these resources. Mr. Howe stated that once the petroleum moves outside the province in which it is produced, it then becomes the responsibility of the Federal government, under the administration of the Board of Transport Commissioners, to determine the destination. He went on to say that the policy governing the export of electric energy since 1907 must apply, within reason to the export of natural gas. Canada has consistently refused to authorise firm contracts for the export of electric energy, in spite of great pressure from the producers. That policy has paid large dividends to the Canadian economy, in that our sources of electric energy have been preserved to our own economy. Therefore, it becomes our policy to refuse permits for moving natural gas by pipeline across an international boundary, until such time as we are convinced that there can be no economic use, present or future, for that natural gas within Canada. He mentioned one exception that has been made, where gas has been piped to the U.S. to assist in maintaining the production of copper at Anaconda's smelter in Montana.

I am glad Mr. Howe has at last declared the government policy is to supply Canada first, as, for the last four or five years the opposition members have been trying to force the government to do this, even though it sometimes meant filibustering on private bills. This statement of Mr. Howe's will be welcomed, particularly by those people in B.C. who have been hoping that some day they will be able to use natural gas for heat and power.

My only regret is that the government did not authorize the Canadian National Railways to build the pipeline as a publicly owned transport system. The profit to be derived from it would undoubtedly have wiped off the annual deficit of this railway which runs into several million dollars; however, the government did not see fit to adopt this forward policy.

Another document has been unearthed that throws light on the conflicting statements made by the minister of national defence in discussing the Currie report. The minister and Mr. St. Laurent denied that a report had been made of the unsatisfactory conditions in the services and said, no such report existed, although Mr. Fulton (Kamloops) had arisen in the house and quoted excerpts from this so called secret report. The Hon. Ralph Campney also informed the house that there was no such report. The matter rested for half an hour. In the meantime copies of an Ottawa newspaper were brought into the house. They contained an interesting item, which was an interview with R. H. MacNab of London, Ontario, who happened to be the man who had written the report in question. This (Continued on Page 6) eral bureau of statistics is through compiling the reports, the results will be available to anyone who wants them.

Why should the people of British Columbia contribute to the support of two groups doing exactly the same job?

If this were the only instance of stupid government duplication, it would be no cause for concern but it is only one example of a condition that is repeated over and over again.

The blame for this kind of waste cannot be placed on any one administration or political party but rather like Topsy it "just grewed"; but any administration can start the pruning job.

The number of government reports required from businesses is reaching a staggering total and is, in fact, getting to the stage when even the smallest business will require an additional staff member employed solely in preparing reports and returns required by various government departments. This is an unfair burden to place on business, particularly where much of the work can serve little useful purpose. Only apparent use for a lot of these returns is so that various government bureaux will have some excuse for their continued existence.

It is noteworthy that government departments can be so alert to assessing penalties for even one day's tardiness in filing returns and yet require up to three months or more to pay for services received. A little redirection of effort would seem to be indicated.

Curling has become a national movement in the realm of seasonal pastimes. As a social force it brings together thousands upon thousands of our citizens. Further, by its reliance on team competition, it fosters the team spirit in society, thus keeping alive enterprise and rivalry. Thousands play golf as a form of individual relaxation. The growing thousands who curl do so competitively. We are witnessing the latest social fever.

To the resourceful Scots, whose game it is, the country gets deeper and deeper into debt. To the color of the tartan, the unique appeal of the kilt, even to the bagpipes and to the game of golf itself is now added the art of curling.

Those who have never curled may find it of interest to attend some of this week's sessions at the rink. We welcome the visitors the bonspiel brings among us. We congratulate the Summerland Club on their enterprise.

May the Summerland bonspiel be the forerunner of many.

TAXES AND WELFARE

Defence Minister Claxton observed not long ago that "A danger we have to face is growth of the feeling that anyone is entitled to a free ride. In these times some people look to government for social security and welfare payments from cradle to the grave, for relief and assistance if there is too much or too little sunshine or rain, for higher handouts and lower taxes—all on a platter, and all at once."

The Senate Finance Committee not long after restated the problem in these terms: "The increasing tendency of people to demand that the Government do something about all kinds of problems which the community or the individual should solve for itself or himself is, we believe, accountable for much mounting public expenditure and, if not checked, bids fair to undermine our present system of government."

Now the Prime Minister himself echoes the words both of Mr. Claxton and the Senate Finance Committee. Out of total Federal expenditures of $4,500 million, Mr. St. Laurent points out, more than $1,000 million goes for social security payments. Yet, warns the Prime Minister, taxation cannot be increased without grave danger to the national economy.—Ex.

Rectify Error

Editor,
Summerland Review:

We appreciate very much the space you devoted to our efforts to win from the Government the right to arbitration; however, in our open letter to the Honourable the Premier, published in the same issue, we inadvertently stated the Honourable W. A. C. Bennett, during his campaign as a candidate in the last Provincial election, had expressed himself as being in favour of seeing our request for this civil right granted, when this was not the case.

It is true, nonetheless, that 131 candidates did declare themselves in favour of arbitration for Government employees and that 29 out of 42 of the present Government's candidates took a favourable stand towards having this injustice remedied. Eleven of those who were ultimately elected expressed their agreement with the principle and 6 of those became Cabinet Ministers. Despite this nothing has yet been done by the Government to rectify this unfair discrimination to its own employees.

Yours very truly,

J. F. MAGUIRE,

Lined up as far as the eye can see, United States-built tanks of Italy's "Ariete" division form an impressive array during a recent review at Verona. The tanks are 44-ton M-47s of the type used by U.S. forces in Korea. This division and another, the "Centaur", have been completely re-equipped with 500 of these tanks, some Pershing tanks and a number of self-propelled guns.

It Is Expensive Folks FIGHTING POLIO

"Polio has struck again suddenly in Vancouver, hitting three children in one South Vancouver family.

"City health officials announced Thursday they had hospitalized two girls, aged 4 and 2 1/2, and a 16-month-old boy, all members of the same family.

"One is crippled . . . They are the first cases reported . . . this year. There were 167 in 1952 . . . It is the third time on local record that three members of one family have been stricken."

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

1st Summerland Troop
Twenty-two boys joined in our first outside game of the season—Will O' the Wisp—which added five points to the Hawk patrol for the capture of the runners. Five points went to the Eagles for winning a new type of dodge ball. Patrols now stand: Eagles 555, Buffaloes 545 and Hawks 449. The patrol competition ends next Tuesday so let's come prepared to get all the points you can for your patrol—a prize for top score.

Keep your eyes open for scrap metal, boys. We will work this into our next patrol competition.

A court of honor will be held at Mr. Munn's home on Thursday, March 26 at 7 p.m. to discuss the troop program.

I think we will all agree our banquet was a very interesting and successful one. Our thanks to the group committee and Legion Auxiliary for their efforts to make it so. The number of badges

High School

As assembly was held in the auditorium last Friday, some new amendments were added to our old constitution, after discussing and voting in each one. Brian Berg, who was one of two students SHS sent to the high school conference at UBC, told of his most interesting and enjoyable visit there.

Last Friday evening SHS took part in one of Kelowna high school's radio programs. Once again SHS's dramatic talent was enjoyed. A most delightful twenty-minute play was produced, with Merle Heavysides, Rob Towgood and Brian Berg taking part. Mr. L. Fisher was the director.

A variety concert will be held on May 1, in aid of funds for the 1953 graduation class. Talents for this concert will be taken only from the high school. There are many talented students in SHS, some whose talents have been made known and others who have not. So, if any student has any talent whatsoever, please get in touch with Ross Axworthy, Rose Harrison, Arlene Raincock, Marguerite Menu or Preston Mott.

Trail high school has extended an invitation to SHS to participate in a basketball conference to be held on April 7, 8, 9 and 10. SHS accepted this invitation, but the teams are still in need of transportation there and back, so, if anyone would like to help us out, please let us know.

Films Presented . . .

From Naramata Leaders' School To Meet with Women's Federation

Miss Simpson of the Naramata Leadership Training school was director for the thank-offering meeting of the Women's Federation of St. Andrew's United church on Thursday, March 19.

With Miss Simpson were several students of the school across the lake who assisted during the service.

Miss Beth Bingeman was leader of the devotional period, and a pleasing duet was sung by Miss Vera Weller and Russel Tousaw all of the training school. At the close of the meeting, films were shown of the various activities of the Naramata Leadership school and its beautiful surroundings.

An informal hour followed when Miss Bingeman played many requested numbers on the vibraharp for everyone's pleasure.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses for the evening, Mrs. W. F. Ward, Mrs. F. B. Bedford, Mrs. J. W. Clark and Mrs. J. Ganzeveld.

Cleveland World Alliance Sessions Described at Baptist WMS Meeting

At a well attended Baptist WMS meeting on Thursday evening, March 12, in the church hall, Mrs. T. Racicot led in the devotional period.

The president, Mrs. Blake Milne was in the chair, to introduce Miss P. Sherwood, who spoke interestingly of her trip to the Baptist World Alliance meetings in Cleveland in 1950, and which was heard with appreciation.

Mrs. Howard Milne told of Baptist work in Honolulu as observed on a recent trip there. While there she attended a Baptist church whose membership was made up largely of service personnel, and in which the members of the various departments were changing every few months. She said, also, that of the island population, only five per cent is Christian.

Later members worked on White Cross sewing, and the meeting concluded with refreshments served by Mrs. Blake Milne, Mrs. Simon Buddingh, and Mrs. W. King.

HOME AGAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Gilman have returned to their home in Paradise Flat after a trip to their former home in England.

Spaghetti Supper Draws Large Crowd

The annual spaghetti supper offered by the CWL was attended by well over a hundred and fifty persons, including a number from Penticton, on the evening of St. Patrick's Day, in the hall of the Church of the Holy Child.

The supper was particularly successful, and the big task of preparing the spaghetti was done by Mrs. J. Cristante and Mrs. S. Fabbri.

In the kitchen, and very busy, were Mrs. J. Schaeffer, Mrs. John Menu, Mrs. Alphonse Menu, Mrs. A. Bonthoux, Mrs. H. Shannon, Mrs. J. Selinger, Mrs. V. Polesello, Mrs. Ted Logie, Mrs. Phil Pelletier, Mrs. R. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Glen Woods, Mrs. Anna Wolfe and Miss Phylis Fabbri.

Oldsters Visit Here While on Long Tour

Interesting and hardy visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Morrow for the past two weeks were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lion of Winnipeg, both in their 80th year.

Mr. and Mrs. Lion, who are uncle and aunt of Mr. Morrow, are on a three-months' Greyhound trip on which they will travel over 6,000 miles. They left Winnipeg, coming out to Portland, going on through California, then returning to Vancouver and Victoria.

This week they resumed their travelling, leaving for Calgary, Edmonton, and other points, expecting to be home again by May 10.

Shows Colored Views From Bermuda Trip

The main event of the March meeting of the Summerland Horticultural Society on Friday evening, March 20, in the parish hall, was an oral trip to Bermuda conducted by Mrs. R. G. Russel.

Mrs. Russel's descriptive commentary was most interesting and before showing colored slides, she traced the history and geography of the world's most isolated little island (except St. Helena) on a large map, making it even easier to follow her lovely scenes.

In thanking Mrs. Russel, Mrs. M. E. Collas spoke of the artistically taken pictures, and said that she felt the trip had been a realistic one to all of those present.

There was a record number of members and friends present, and in Nat May's Timely Topics treatment of nursery shrubs was emphasized. Mr. May stressed the fact that all shrubs and trees should be kept damp by heeling into the ground if it is not possible to plant them in their permanent places as soon as received. The speaker said, also, that seed planting should not be rushed and outdoor seeding by the end of April is quite early enough.

Refreshments were served by Miss Doreen Tait and her committee.

Rumors Unfounded Welfare Body Told

Expressing concern about reports that the Summerland Welfare Council was to be assigned the job of looking after welfare of transients during hours when the municipal office is closed, Chairman A. F. Calder, accompanied by R. Alstead, appeared before the municipal council Tuesday afternoon and learned that no such proposal has even been considered.

Mr. Calder said the welfare group had been concerned about rumors that they would be expected to provide meals and necessities for transients because they are not set up to handle such cases nor was it the purpose for which the council was formed. The purpose, he pointed out, was to render assistance to needy members of the community.

He went on to say the council has broadened its field of activities to provide medical supplies for needy families and with the fund now below the $300-mark, there will be an appeal to all organizations in the near future for financial support.

Seeking Special Features For Concert

Summerland AOTS is in hopes of providing an unusual feature for its annual variety concert this year and is endeavoring to have teams of Japanese-Canadians from Kelowna included on the program to give fencing and judo demonstrations.

Date for the annual concert has been set for April 17.

This is the sixth year for the AOTS concert and even if the outside attractions are not available, the sponsors state they will be able to stage a well-rounded concert with a number of talented local artists taking part. The concert is to be held in the high school.

Warning Service Started Earlier

The early spring is a joy to most of us, but to the fruit grower it means anxiety. He is "frost conscious" and fears damage to his crop at blossom time.

To help him meet the danger and protect his trees the frost and wind warning service went into operation twelve days earlier than usual this year. Starting yesterday and continuing until the end of May, weather forecasts will be given every evening at eight o'clock over the four Valley radio stations.

D. N. McMullen of the Canadian meteorological service, department of transport, again will be the meteorologist in charge. L. Howard is his assistant. Mr. McMullen has set up his headquarters at the Penticton airport. There, in addition to an extensive line of meteorological gadgetry, he has complete teletype and radio facilities.

Temperature readings are taken twice a day by nearly a score of observers from Osoyoos to Kamloops. Observers are growers, farmers and other individuals. They receive no pay—just the satisfaction of taking part in an important public service. Seven evenings a week, for ten weeks, they telephone their reports to Mr. McMullen.

There are portable radio transmitters located at Fairview, Shute Lake and Joe Rich. Beyond telephone communication, the observers at these points transmit their reports to a received station at Skaha Lake, where it is relayed to Penticton.

Reeve Guest Speaker To Historical Group

C. E. Bentley, reeve of Summerland and pioneer resident of the South Okanagan, was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Penticton branch of the Okanagan Historical Society held in the Alexander Room of the Canadian Legion hall last Wednesday.

Reeve Bentley gave his audience an interesting review of his experiences as an operator of one of the early transportation companies, operating between Penticton, Naramata and Summerland on Okanagan Lake.

In 1912, Reeve Bentley opened Penticton's first garage. It was known as the Central Garage and is now occupied by G. V. Lampard.

The speaker made many interesting and amusing references to the fares he carried to various parts of the district in connection with the construction of the Kettle Valley Railway.

Reeve Bentley displayed a remarkable memory for names and

To Again Sponsor Play By UBC Players

Summerland Rotary Club this year will again sponsor a presentation by the UBC Players and tentative date for the appearance here has been set for May 8.

The play being staged this year is Vincent Carroll's "Shadow in Substance"—a story of the Irish Renaissance and is a combination of strong dramatic conflict and spirited Irish comedy.

The UBC Players have been popularly received at previous appearances in Summerland and, as always, those attending can expect high-quality entertainment.

The show will be staged in the High School auditorium.

PROUD MOTHER: Piloting aircraft has become a tradition in the Crosby family. Here TCA Capt. Jack Crosby, who has been flying for many years, pins pilot's wings on his son Jack at a wings parade at Dorval yesterday. Mrs. Crosby, who is looking on, says that of her three other children, her oldest daughter and her other son want to become pilots too. The Crosbys are the first father-and-son team to be connected with the operational side of the airline. Their home is in New Westminster, B.C., and they flew to Montreal especially for the ceremony.—(TCA Photo).

FAMILY PROTECTION Nearly all of us have coughs or colds at one time or another in spite of taking precautions. But we can protect our families and friends by taking care not to pass on the virus to them. A day or so in bed at the beginning of the cold—when it is most contagious—and careful use of disposable tissues for coughs, sneezes and handkerchief use are the best precautions.

Appeals For Natural Gas Pipeline To Be Routed Through Okanagan

An appeal for consideration to help the Okanagan Valley develop industrially was launched in the house of commons by O. L. Jones, M.P., speaking in opposition to a bill to permit export of natural gas direct to the United States. Mr. Jones' counter-proposal was to have natural gas pipeline routed through the Okanagan Valley to provide a cheap source of power for this district.

"At present we have most of our eggs in one basket, in the form of the growing of fruits and vegetables," Mr. Jones stated and charged, by failing to direct natural resources to the development of industry in Canada, the government was derelict in its responsibility to not only Canadians now living but to those unborn Canadians who look to us for the heritage for which we are now responsible . . . because we are selling our heritage for a mess of pottage."

Following is text of Mr. Jones' remarks:

Mr. Speaker, I rise to voice my protest against this bill on grounds which have been covered before and which, to my mind, are sound; that is, that we should protect our Canadian consumers, and first set aside sufficient gas and oil for our own use.

I am alarmed by the frequency with which these bills appear before us. I do not know what number of them have been presented to the house, or the number that will come before us in the future. But we do know they are appearing with great frequency and that they follow a definite pattern, that the gas is to be exported to the United States. The frequency and the danger of these applications have alarmed a number of people in my constituency, especially those connected with boards of trade, city councils, junior chambers of commerce, the Canadian Legion, and service clubs of all kinds, the members of whom have written to me in protest, asking that I speak out against the exportation of these vital natural resources. They are demanding that they should be given the first opportunity to utilize those resources, and to develop their own industries.

Cities such as Vernon, Penticton and Kelowna have already expressed their willingness to co-operate with oil companies or gas companies to have the pipe line directed through that area, but thus far they have received no effective response. The companies refuse even to consider going through the Okanagan valley. Naturally they are more interested in profits to be derived from larger sales over the border. The only resource we have left is for the government to step in and direct the flow of these resources in a manner whereby Canadians who require this power will have the first access to it. I believe that is the government's responsibility, not only to Canadians now living but to those unborn Canadians who will look to us for the heritage for which we are now responsible.

We are the guardians of that common heritage; and it seems to me we are poor guardians, because we are selling our heritage for a mess of pottage. This policy will be truly assessed in 20 years' time, when a new generation will be looking in vain for the gas and oil resources of this country. Nothing but rotting derricks and dry oil wells will be left for them; and historians will record that we and the government dissipated those resources without any plan, without any thought of conservation, but just through a process of happy-go-lucky dealing with private companies for purposes of exploitation.

I feel that once a pipe line is built it remains a permanent route, just like a railway. And should it turn out later that the pipe line is not in the right position to give the best service to our people, nothing can be done about it. There would be required either a new pipe line or a network of pipe lines to give full service to our own communities. Therefore now is the proper time to plan. I feel the last persons to do the planning would be the oil companies or the pipeline companies. Their interests are diametrically opposed to ours, because they are after quick and large markets, in any part of the world so far as they are concerned. At the moment the nearest and the greatest market is across the border.

but to no avail.

I suggest that the government is the logical body to take over the direction of the flow of gas, and it could be done in conjunction with the other transportation company that we now own, the Canadian National Railways. This new form of transportation is the ideal thing to be operated by the same group who operate the Canadian National Railways. I am satisfied that the profits from the pipe line would pay the deficit on the Canadian National Railways.

The stock of some of these pipeline companies has been traded on the stock market. I have in mind the stock of one company which was placed on the market at $10 per share. This company has not yet transported one cubic foot of gas, but such are the prospects of profits that people all over the country are buying these shares at around $59. That should not be. I believe the government should have stepped in at the very beginning and taken over this form of transportation to be administered along with the Canadian National Railways.

If that had been done there would have been a ready-made route for the pipe line especially in British Columbia where the Canadian National runs through a pass which is much better than any other in the province. The pipe line could have been laid on the railroad right of way. Their experts and trained men could have looked after both the railway and the pipe line at the same time, thus reducing costs.

While this particular pipe line will not run through British Columbia, I submit that the principle is the same. The question is, are we going to build up the United States economy at the expense of our own? I would point out that the United States have already exploited their own resources; they have denuded their forests and depleted other natural resources, and now they would do the same to ours. Naturally the United States are not interested in the conservation of Canadian natural resources; that is our problem. They are not going to go out of their way to help conserve what does not interest them beyond the profits to be made out of their use as quickly as possible.

We are the ones concerned, and it is for that reason that I appeal to the government to announce a policy under which no natural gas would be permitted to leave this country until every avenue had been explored to provide for its use in the development of our own country.

By developing new industries we will keep our youth happy in industry in this country instead of following the gas to the newly-created industries south of the border. I appeal to the government to really consider this aspect of this pipe-line bill and take over this means of transportation so they can direct the flow of gas and have our own economy the first in hand.

Civil Defense Plans Forwarded

At an encouragingly attended meeting on Wednesday, March 18, in the high school plans regarding civil defence in Summerland were greatly forwarded.

The Okanagan Mobile and Reception Centre is headed by Col. Horne of Kelowna, and locally by Capt. A. M. Temple.

Summerland branch, Canadian Red Cross Society, agreed to take care of the welfare centre of the Summerland civil defense plan, and this is headed by Robert Alstead who has done a fine job of recruiting people to fill the various posts required.

Mr. Alstead gave a resume of the general plan, naming those who had been appointed to the different operations, and Capt. Temple gave an explanatory talk regarding the recommended organization at the municipal and valley level.

Dr. C. G. Woodbridge who is assisting Capt. Temple also spoke briefly. Others assisting are Dr. H. R. McLarty and Ryan Lawley.

Named to the various departments are: Cecil Wade, Don Clark, emergency lodging; Jack Dunsdon, emergency feeding; W. Laidlaw, G. A. Laidlaw, G. Hallquist and G. Chadburn, emergency clothing; Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh, Mrs. A. K. Macleod, Mrs. R. G. Russel, Mrs. R. C. Palmer; Miss Marian Cartwright, registration and information; Summerland Welfare Association, president A. F. Calder, social service; E. E. Bates, personnel supervisor; Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony, medical aid supervisor; recreation and religious activities, to be appointed; Ken Heales, stores; Edward Smith, transportation; Howard Shannon, communications; Ralph Blewett, Bob Butler, building maintenance.

All of these departments will have other names added, and all have signified willingness to help

Report

disclosure prompted the Prime Minister to make a very different kind of statement immediately, by admitting that a manuscript had been found a week ago and that this manuscript was turned over to the Civil Service Commission and never went elsewhere. As the Montreal Gazette points out in an editorial, which I quote:

"And an extraordinary situation it is. How was it possible for Mr. St. Laurent, about three o'clock, to inform the house that 'there has been no indication of where those excerpts come from, and yet, about half past three, to tell the house where they did come from. What is more remarkable still, Mr. St. Laurent admitted about 3:30, that the manuscript had not been found during the past half hour: it had been found 'last week'. And in the course of his remarks Mr. St. Laurent said that the government has never attempted to withhold any information it was reasonable to make available to the public." But is it not curious that no information could be given the public at about three o'clock, when it could be given about 3:30? And all, apparently because the writer had meantime declared in print that he could vouch for the manuscript's existence, even if the government wouldn't.

if the occasion arises. Mr. Alstead remarked on the relatively large number of certified first-aiders here, many of whom have been trained by the local St. John Ambulance Association, and of how valuable these people would be in case of emergency.

It is thought that Summerland is one of the first places in the Valley to be so well organized under civil defense, and these plans are being forwarded to headquarters.

Behind the 8-Ball

By Gord Crockett

Hereafter, before buying so much as a safety pin, I'm going to demand a demonstration to make sure that it lives up to all the claims made by the sales clerk.

It's not very often that I spend money and on those rare occasions when I do, I invariably get taken in by a flow of smooth talk. My latest experience though has capped the climax and I have been bilked for the last time.

The weekly round of buck-chasing leads me into all the stores in the district and last week on my rounds I noticed some very fine looking rubber mats which the sales girl told me were the greatest boon to mankind since the invention of the wheel and if placed on the bottom of the bathtub would provide a safe non-skid surface to protect life and limb when climbing in and out of the tub.

Actually I did start to frame questions a couple of times but each time I started to speak she fluttered her lids and my mind would go blank—well, perhaps not blank but I'd forget about rubber mats anyway.

Even if I had thought to ask for a demonstration, my sense of propriety probably would have discouraged such a suggestion so without even for a moment doubting that the mat would do everything claimed for it, I unpinched my purse from my undershirt and fumbled out enough money to complete the transaction.

The thought of being able to take a bath without breaking an arm or leg inspired me to dash right home to give the new purchase a work-out. I carefully placed the mat in the tub and started drawing the water. When ready to take the plunge, I didn't even look before I vaulted over the side of the tub. I knew I was in no danger.

My consternation was without bounds when I found myself sitting high and dry on a floating mat which gently bucked the waves in a manner which soon had me hanging over the side of the tub calling out "Look out below".

A complete flop! Why it didn't even leave room for my boots or celluloid duck even if I had enjoyed floating around on my mat like a gentle riding a magic carpet. I stormed back to the store to let the salesgirl know I wasn't one to be taken in so easily but she started rolling her eyes wistfully and again I found myself listening. Not a complete waste of money, she told me, my wife could use it to stand on while doing household tasks which required her to remain stationary.

Well, there she struck a soft spot. It has always ripped at my heart strings to sit and watch my War Department labor over the scrubbing board and I thought if this was going to lighten the load, it would make it a lot easier for me to watch her so I wouldn't begrudge the cost.

It might have been a good idea but the bath tub episode had left the mat full of water and my W.D. found the only way she could keep her feet dry while standing on it was to wear a pair of rubber boots. These, she complained, were too cumbersome around the house so that idea was ruled out.

Perhaps, I thought, I might use it as a pad under my typewriter and eliminate the banging that keeps me awake while I'm working. (My friends claim I do much better when I just doze off and let my subconscious have full rein. What my enemies say isn't important.)

Using it, as a typewriter pad was marked by even less success than earlier attempts to use it. It still hadn't dried out and everytime I struck a key, a stream of water squirted in my eye. It was like eating grapefruit.

I tried operating the machine with one hand while I held an umbrella in the other but decided I'd rather have the noise.

"Hawaiian Holiday" was the inviting name of the first of a series of colored movies shown in the Baptist church to a more-than-capacity crowd on Tuesday evening, March 17.

The Hawaiian pictures were taken by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Milne on a recent trip to the enchanting Pacific group of islands, and while Mr. Milne projected the pictures Mrs. Milne gave an entertaining commentary.

The second film was the 1953 Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena, which Mr. and Mrs. Blake Milne saw, and Mr. Milne recorded in his splendid photography. These he projected while his wife gave the explanations.

The third film, also one of Blake Milne's was of Yellowstone National Park.

All of the films were a great pleasure to see, and the generosity of the Milnes in giving this was appreciated.

To make Bordelaise sauce, chop up a small onion and a clove of garlic, mix these with brown sauce to which has been added a tumbler of Canadian claret. Simmer it down, cool and serve.

You can save a lot of precious time by hitching up a tractor instead of your horses... and we can likely help you buy that tractor—now!

Tractors come under 'farm improvements', and a temporary lack of ready cash is a poor reason to hold up any farm improvement. That goes for most all farm implements that make for increased production and—thereby—increased income.

George Morrish Cops Top Scoring Honors for Second Consecutive Year

Last Penticton and District Commercial Hockey League game was a triumphant one for George Morrish, Merchants' forward, who scored one goal and gained two assists to head the standings by two points over his closest rival, Rocky Richardson, of Summerland. Morrish, who topped the standings last year, again wins the Bryant and Hill scoring trophy with 31 points.

Morrish held top spot for most of the season losing his exalted position when Richardson took over with a one point lead for one game only.

Third spot is held by Gordie Taylor, of Summerland, with 28 points and fourth place is shared by Contractors' Walter Holloway, Garagemen's Bob Gibson and Dick Steining, Taylor's linemate, who have 23 points each.

A GOOD SLOGAN

Moderation in all things is a good slogan. But nowhere does it apply more fully than in the field of exercise. Suitable exercise is necessary to keep in good physical condition but too violent exercise—or exercise where there are physical weaknesses—may be dangerous. Summerland Evens Play-Off Series With Victory Over Packers Sunday

Summerland Sunday afternoon came from behind in the final period to nip a 2-1 victory from the Packers to even up the Commercial League play-off series at one game apiece. Birch rammed home a counter for the Packers at the 14-minute mark in the first period and the red light didn't blink again until the third period when Rocky Richardson sent home the evener.

The tie-breaker did not come until the 14-minute mark of the third when Taylor took a combination from Richardson and Steining and sent home the winning goal. Fans saw an action-packed game as the Packers fought to make their one-game advantage tell by finishing off the series and Summerland quarter were equally determined to stay in the playoffs.

Bowling

Practice Improves Your Average

YOUR BOWLADROME

Win or Lose

By Jack Dunham.

The Open Bowling League has moved into the final two weeks of league play with teams in both "A" and "B" divisions juggling for a final playoff spot.

This year, the team that wins the highest number of points in the first and second halves combined, will win some snappy arm-crests for their effort. These, along with other cups and trophies are now on display at the bowling alley. There are several new ones this year along with a zevy of other trophies.

In "A" division of the league the Frozen Foods have almost cinched the total point honors. This star-studded aggregation garnered 32 points in the first half and with only a week to go have 21 points in the final half. The only other team in contention is Bowladrome who had 27 points in the first half and now have 24 points as of this week. These second half totals are not in this week's standings.

Some Early Statistics

At the end of league play all ladies' and men's high singles, av-

Meanwhile, in "B" division, we're given the impression that the four top teams in the first half, who automatically gain playoff berths, were taking the "who cares, we're in the playoffs anyway" attitude. This, of course, is not true, but a look at the standings makes a person wonder. These teams, Farm, Verriers, Harry's Shoe and Credit Union, are at present in anywhere from fourth to seventh place. The reason for this, I believe, is that the other teams have been really putting on the pressure this second half.

B.C. Shippers, Farm and Verriers are all in a position to take total point honors but of course anything can happen in the final few games.

erages and so on are gathered up and prize winners for the season are named.

With play all but over before the finals, let's take a look at leaders in all divisions.

"A" DIVISION

Men's high average—D. Clark, 210; F. Inaba 209; men's high single—J. Heavysides, 339; men's high three—H. Steln, 780.

Ladies' high average—M. Walker, 181; N. Thornthwaite, 178; ladies' high single—M. Walker, 325; ladies' high three—N. Thornthwaite, 670.

"B" DIVISION

Men's high average—D. Stevenson, 202; L. Ulick, 191; men's high single—D. Horniston, 320; men's high three—C. Aikin, 763.

Ladies' high average—R. Hermiston, 162; E. Woods, 158; ladies' high single—I. Turnbull, 278; ladies high three—E. Woods, 612.

As usual, things are really running close in the men's "A" division averages with Don Clark and Fumi Inaba fighting it out and with only a point separating these two we find it even more interesting.

Playoffs will commence immediately after the finish of league play with the top eight teams in both divisions battling for the A. F. Bryden cup in "A" division and the N. O. Solly cup in "B" division. The winners of these two cups and of their respective divisions will then play for the granddaddy of them all, The Merchant's League Annual Trophy. Last year, this trophy was won by the Review, which was by the way, a "B" division outfit. This goes to prove that the underdog has just as good a chance as the powerhouses from "A" division.

An interesting sidelight in high scores during league play, is that the manager of the Bowladrome, who also bowls, and bowls very well, has come up with some of the top scores of the year. He has tremendous averages in both divisions and is away above any other in high three-game total with an 813. Herb Woods is one of the finest keepers in these parts and will soon be leading a team of local hot shots into the valley championships.

Ten-pin play will be the vogue on the alleys in the not too distant future and anyone interested is urged to contact Herb Woods at the Bowladrome.

Blossom-Time Best . . .

Thinning With Water Spray Proves Most Successful With Least Loss

By D. V. Fisher, Summerland Experimental Station
The market demand today seems to be for peaches of 2 1/2 inches diameter or better. This can only be accomplished by proper fertilization, thorough pruning and careful thinning. Most peach thinning is performed by hand and usually costs the grower one dollar or more per mature tree. Chemical blossom thinning sprays using Elgetol or similar materials containing the sodium salt of dinitro-ortho-cresol have been tried, but are either ineffective during dry weather or disastrously over-thin when applied during damp weather.

There is some interest in the use of naphthalene acetic acid applied at 30 days from full bloom at a concentration of 25 parts per million with a gun sprayer. In some areas this is reported to give good commercial thinning but under Okanagan conditions proved inadequate in 1952. A higher concentration of the material may provide the answer. However, a 10-times concentration spray with a concentrate sprayer over-thinned and resulted in considerable leaf distortion and killing of terminal

Other reports indicate that maleic hydrazide applied to peach trees in full bloom at a concentration of 500 parts per million gives good commercial thinning and no tree damage. Further work will be necessary to assess the commercial possibilities of this method of thinning.

However, more promising and less dangerous methods of peach thinning are going to be tried by Okanagan growers this year. The first method is water thinning where blooms are "blown" off the tree by water sprays from guns connected to conventional dilute spray machines. One grower claims it takes only eight minutes to thin by this method, followed later by limited touch-up hand thinning. Last season his fruit ripened a week earlier than trees thinned by hand when fruits reached a size of an inch in diameter.

The other method is broom or stick thinning where blossoms are rubbed off branches with a broom of twigs or even just a small stick. One grower rakes his bloom off with a rubber rake made by cutting teeth in a 15-inch piece of 4-ply tire wall about 3 inches wide. This rake is mounted on a handle.

Thinning peaches at bloom seems the most logical time to perform the operation since the vitality of the tree is not sapped by development of excessive numbers of unwanted fruits. Fruit size and earliness of maturity are improved. Moreover, the present evidence seems to indicate that thinning at blossom time results in a great saving of labor.

Claims for Chickens Destroyed By Dogs

A claim by L. W. Mountford for chickens destroyed by dogs was considered Tuesday by the municipal council and then referred to the municipal clerk to obtain a report from RCMP and pay the claim if in order.

Mr. Mountford reported four year-old hens and two bantams as having been killed by marauding dogs. Value was set at two dollars for each hen and one dollar for each bantam.

May Buy Hydrants At Bargain Price

An offer of the city of Enderby to sell 24 new fire hydrants at a price of $101 each—about 50 per cent below regular price—was considered Tuesday by the municipal council and referred to the waterworks committee to decide whether any more hydrants are required by Summerland.

The Enderby clerk in a letter to the council stated a supply of hydrants was purchased to do a complete replacement job in the city and they were unable to complete the project and now have the equipment surplus.

While discussing the offer, question was raised as to whether the thread would match that of couplings in use here. The waterworks committee was instructed to investigate this possibility before purchasing if any are needed.
