Ten Called To Complete Road

Second link in the highway through Summerland from the foot of Tait's Hill to link with the stretch now under construction north of the municipality will start at the same time as the Trout Creek-Tait's Hill stretch.

Tenders for the second link were called Monday. Visiting in Summerland yesterday, Premier W. A. C. Bennett said the northern section involves different type of construction with considerable rock work involved and it was felt by the public works department that construction would proceed faster if the work was split into two contracts.

When the first contract was called, fears were felt locally that the northern section might be stalled off until perhaps next year and a few weeks ago Summerland municipal council petitioned Premier Bennett to have the work of this section started at the same times as the others.

Date for starting the road construction has been set for Sept. 1 at the request of Summerland council and Board of Trade who in a joint resolution to the government expressed the opinion the late starting was less likely to cause dust damage to soft fruit in the district.

Dr. C. G. Woodbridge

Secretary of the northwest association of horticulturalists, entomologists and plant pathologists is Dr. Cyril G. Woodbridge who was chosen for this office last week at the meeting in Corvallis, Oregon. Next year's meeting of the scientists will be held in Penticton.

Kiwanis Set Date For Street Carnival

Kiwanis are this year planning a "bigger and better" event for their annual street carnival which will be held on Granville Road, Saturday night, Aug. 21.

Again in charge this year is Gerry Hallquist who has promised an exciting array of attractions to appeal to the carnival crowd. And, of course, there will be the ever popular bingo, along with refreshment stands and concessions.

A new construction, aluminum and wood minnowcooper was added to Canada's fast-growing modern fleet when HMCS Miramichi was launched, seen above, at Saint John Drydock, Saint John, N.B., where the ship was built. The vessel is one of 20 of the same class being built for the Royal Canadian Navy in shipyards across Canada. Her sister ship, HMCS Fundy, was launched last December and commissioned at the Saint John Drydock in March. Four of the ships have been turned over to the French navy under NATO mutual aid and two more are slated to follow. Fitted with the latest navigational and radar equipment, HMCS Miramichi will be powered with diesel-driven twin shafts. Aluminum is featured in the construction of the trim 300-ton craft, which has a length of 151 feet and a breadth of 28 feet.

This was the substance of the statement Monday night by Premier W. A. C. Bennett when he told the gathering at the Social Credit birthday celebration that "for the first time we are looking seriously into the idea of building the bridge."

Premier Bennett said a firm of engineers has been hired to study the figures and check the soundings reported in the preliminary survey and "the best bridge expert in Canada" will be brought in for advice, "... and if it is their recommendation that a bridge is feasible and along the lines of cost we have already been given, then without hesitancy I will recommend to the government that it be built for I am convinced we must have a bridge across the lake."

The premier said, following his statement in Kelowna last January that consideration would be given to building the bridge if the people of the Okanagan would express by resolution that it was wanted, that he had been swamped with resolutions from all over the valley.

He said the information now being gathered by engineers is not for the purpose of delaying the project but because "we want to be certain."

Elect Lance Mann Jaycees President

Jaycees last night chose Lance Mann as president to succeed Don Clark.

Treasurer of the junior chamber is Les Rumball and Harry Braddick is secretary.

Plans were laid at the meeting for a beach party to be staged at the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rumball, Powell Beach, on August 25.

Members this Sunday will be on an outing to Snow Mountain.

Interior Exhibition Prize Lists Out

Dates for the Interior Provincial exhibition at Armstrong have been set for Sept. 14, 15 and 16. Prize lists are now available for the great senior and junior show and copies are available at the Review office.

Entries will close Sept. 4. Summerland contestants have long been copping a lion's share of awards at the Interior exhibition. E. C. Bingham of Summerland is director.

Hall exhibits will be in the same buildings as formerly but the directors are getting plans out for a $40,000 new hall to be ready for next year so as to adequately accommodate this fast-growing show.

Five outstanding grandstand acts have been contracted for your entertainment on the last two days. Light horse events will be judged earlier than usual so that only championship events will be interspersed with the live stock parade and other entertainment.

Thieves Scare Off After Trying Entry

Macil's Monday night was target for a theft which failed.

A window was broken in the rear of the store but something apparently scared off the intruders since they apparently did not enter the store.

Mercury Over 80 17 Days in July

A brow-mopping 89 degrees on July 18 marked the highest point the thermometer has reached this year but three other days during July it came close with 87 degrees. On 17 days of the month, mercury passed the 80 mark.

There were some cool nights, too. On July 22 it dipped to 47 degrees and on five other occasions it dropped below 50.

Report Macs Pitcher Recovery Favorable

Summerland Macs pitcher Don Cristante Monday morning underwent an appendix operation in Summerland General Hospital following the attack Sunday afternoon which put him out of the game in the fourth inning.

At the hospital, his condition is reported to be progressing favorably.

Summerland School Band Draws Biggest Crowd of Penticton Series

Summerland High School band last Friday night added a large number to its following when it drew the largest crowd to date in the Peach Festival band series at the Penticton Gyro Park. About 1,200 gathered at the park to hear the youthful bandmen who were assisted by a group of talented Summerland artists.

Assisting artists included Mrs. Flora Bergstrom, Mrs. Ken Boothe, Clive Atkinson, Mrs. Lionel Fudge, Dianne Haggman and the Junior Majorettes directed by Yvonne Polesello.

Band was directed by John Tambllyn.

Many of the numbers on the concert program were those which have found particular favor with Summerland audiences in performances here.

Marches played were the Hutchison Field, Washington Post and the Phantom Regiment which gives the interesting effect of a band approaching, passing and fading into the distance.

Popular with the audience was the Hunting Scene which includes a variety of sound effects. Novelty number and instrumental combinations included Trombone,

Baptist Church Camp Expects About 150

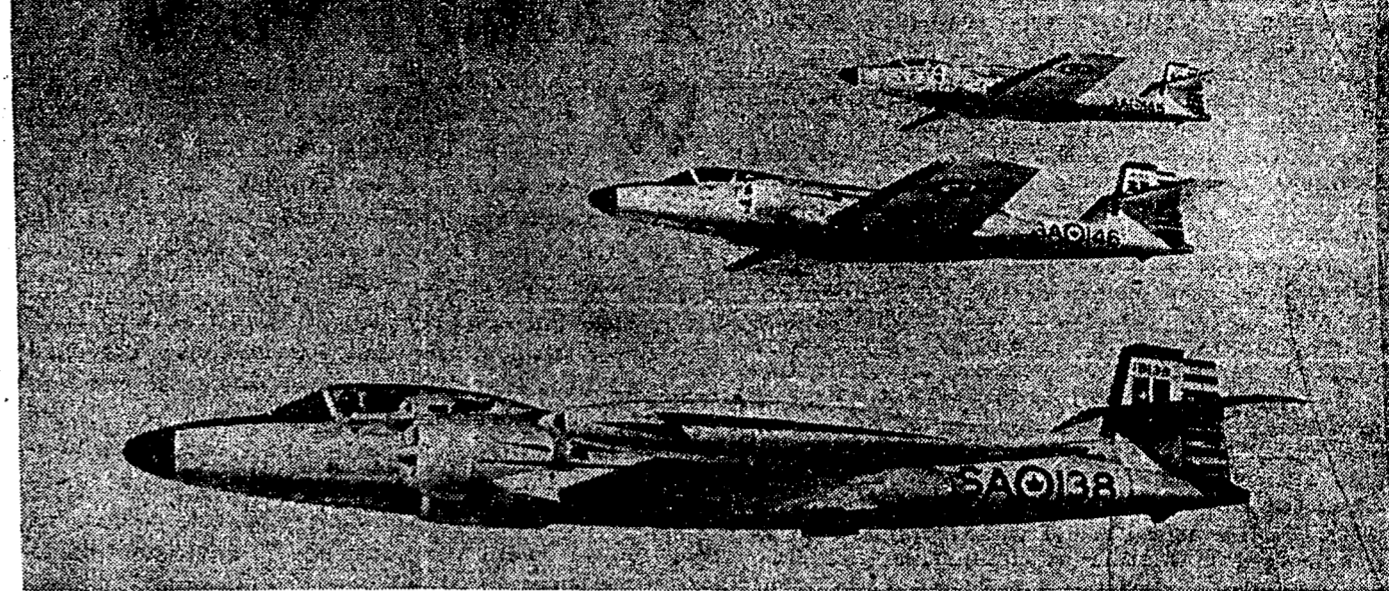

Baptist summer camp this month at Camp Soroc is expected to draw a total of about 150 campers in the three sessions, the first of which started Aug. 1. Camp will close in Aug. 20.

About 50 are attending the two junior camps each of a week duration. These are for age group 8 to 11. The intermediate camp for ages 12 to 15, will last 10 days and the family and young peoples session will be for five days.

Camp directors are Rev. and Mrs. K. Knight, Ron King of Kaledon, Rev. Bert Wingblade, Kelowna and Miss Mary Black of New Westminster.

Visiting missionaries during the camp will be Rev. Dave Phillips, of Bolivia, Miss Clara Johnson of India, Mr. and Mrs. David Hayward, missionaries-elect to India and Rev. Gerald Ward, director of home missions for the Baptist Union of Western Canada.

Daily schedule of the camp includes bible study, competitive games, handicraft and recreation. In the handicraft periods the campers are each engaged in two projects, one for themselves and one for missionaries to take with them when they return to their fields. The girls groups are engaged in making quilt blocks to be made into a quilt and even the youngest members are taking part in this project.

That Bucket of Bolts Could be 'Ghost' Car

Motorists would do well to use a lighter foot on the accelerator. Could be a "ghost" car of the RCMP is or will be patrolling the area.

A Vernon driver last week ran afoul of one operating out of acropoper of one operating out of Kamloops and even local police detachment don't know — or won't tell — whether the "ghost" cars are likely to be operating in this area.

Inspector J. H. Spanton, commander of the Kamloops sub-division said a "ghost" car has been operating out of that sub-division on Highway 97 on a survey basis.

"I think it is a very important phase of a survey which should be conducted," the inspector explained. "The accident rate has increased and we must take all available steps to reduce the speed hazard."

He said operation of the "ghost car" was one step he had tried out to see if it would have "a good effect on the motoring public."

It was, he said, a preventive measure.

After the survey made of Highway 97, driving behavior has been properly studied, the RCMP may decide to put the "ghost car" patrol on the highway permanently.

HERE FROM CALGARY

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morgan of Calgary are visiting relatives in Summerland.

Formation flying at high speeds is a tricky business that requires a high degree of skill. Pilots of these CF-100 all-weather fighters practice formation flying as part of their operational training now being carried out at RCAF Station North Bay. On completion of their training pilots and radio navigators are usually posted to one of the new CF-100 squadrons being formed in Canada.

Prosperous Decade Ahead for B.C. Premier Tells Celebration Party

More than 500 Social Creditors from all over the Okanagan Valley Monday night jammed the sweltering Legion Hall, ate cold ham, potato salad and strawberry shortcake and fanned themselves with programs while their leader, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, reviewed a rosy economic present and future for this province. It was celebration of the second anniversary of Social Credit in B.C.

Premier Bennett came to the party loaded with an armload of birthday presents for his listeners, although few of them were completely new.

New and only slightly used included: Plans for serious study of Okanagan Bridge construction; tenders called for Kelowna provincial building; tenders called for second link of highway through Summerland; better deal for province with Aluminum Company of Canada; northern B.C. development by Froblisher interests.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett

Not new: Review of public works program "Greatest road building program history of B.C."; Hospital Insurance change "Saving $1 million per year in cost of administration alone"; reduced taxes "Car licenses and registration, meals, children's clothing, amusement"; PGE "Will lay 50 miles of rail a year"; reduced government spending; "Highway work being done for 25 to 40 per cent less than over before."

Speaking of the Froblisher development, Mr. Bennett said no tax concessions of any kind have been made the company and the government demanded from the ma definite commitment to spend $270 million in the next eight years and to back it up they have posted a $2½ million performance bond which will be forfeited if they fall short.

He said in conversation with Alcan officials he had told them the present government would honor the deal made by the previous government but asked them to take another look at the proposition and "search their souls". As a result, he said, Alcan company on its own has offered to make additional payments which will "... pay hundreds of thousands of dollars into the provincial treasury, over and above what they contracted for with the Liberal government."

He forecast still further development in the Kitimat area with Powell River Company to build a pulp mill there.

Altogether, he said, six new pulp mills will be constructed in B.C. in the next few years.

Climax to the first part of the evening program came when the premier cut a mammoth birthday cake amid a shower of green and white balloons loosed from the ceiling. A program of entertainment and dance followed.

Local Building Figures Higher

With building permits totalling $17,750 during July, local construction this year continues to forge ahead of last year; the total for the first seven months being more than $50,000 over that of a year ago.

July permits covered $5,000 for new dwellings, $1,500 for commercial construction and $11,250 for alterations and additions. The latter sum includes a number of permits for moving houses to make way for the new highway through Summerland. A total of 10 permits were issued.

During July 1953, four permits were issued for a total of $4,200.

Total for the year to date is $152,125, as compared to $100,825 last year.

Comparisons on local construction were contained in the monthly report to the municipal council by building inspector Roy F. Angus.

Witnesses to Attend Royal City Sessions

About 50 from Summerland are expected to attend the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of Toronto four-day assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses from the western district of Canada at Queen's Park Arena, New Westminster, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 5-8.

The convention is primarily for bible instruction and concentrated gospel preaching in New Westminster, Vancouver and vicinity.

All four days of the assembly will consist of morning, afternoon and evening sessions of bible talks, discussions and demonstrations which are open to the public.

N. H. Knorr of Brooklyn, N.Y., world president of the society, who spoke to a record-breaking audience of 165,000 people at Yankee Stadium, New York City, will give the main public address entitled "God's Love to the Rescue in Man's Crisis" at 3 p.m., Sunday, August 8.

Delegates from the western provinces, Northwest Territories, Alaska and northwestern U.S. totalling about 12,000 persons are expected in attendance.

Sport Fishermen Ask Survey of Lake Before any New Fish are Introduced

No action is to be taken at the present time on proposals that grey trout be introduced into Okanagan Lake. The proposal during recent months has been hotly debated by fishing clubs throughout the Okanagan and decision to postpone stocking the lake with grey trout was reached last Thursday night at a meeting in Penticton which brought together representatives of game clubs of Princeton, Kelowna, Summerland, Penticton, Vernon and Oliver.

Opinion of the meeting was that considerably more study into the reproductive capacity of Okanagan Lake is necessary before any new species of game fish is introduced into the lake. The grey trout have for some time been available at the Summerland fish hatchery but the game department has been awaiting recommendation of the Okanagan game clubs before proceeding with the planting.

Decision of the meeting last week was largely based on opinions expressed by W. A. Clemens in a 1953 report on the fish culture problems of Okanagan Lake in which he raised doubts whether any new type of game fish could be introduced without reducing the number of game fish already in the lake.

Problem in Okanagan Lake is limited feeding supply and spawning grounds. Dr. Clemens in his survey estimated only nine per cent of the lake shore length has rooted aquatic vegetation.

Because of the limited food supply, Dr. Clemens suggested any new fish introduced into the lake should be a species which do not have the same feeding habits as the Kamloops trout now in the lake. His recommendation was small-mouthed bass or maslnongo which would live off the coarse fish in the lake.

The use of all sizeable streams flowing into the lake for irrigation purposes has greatly hampered the natural reproduction of fish in the lake and it is further hindered by the average low temperature of the water which means relatively slow growth and low rate of reproduction for both plants and fish.

Dr. Clemens stated his findings were inconclusive because of insufficient research and last week's meeting voted to table the proposal to introduce the new species until an extensive biological study of the lake has been made.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO — AUGUST 3, 1919

A. K. Lord, former Kelowna school principal, was appointed school inspector for this district.

Shortage of sugar on the prairies was interfering with the sale of soft fruit. Eastern farmers were shipping to export markets instead of supplying the needs of the west.

C. W. Lees, formerly principal of the Summerland public schools, was appointed principal of the public school at Kelowna.

Appointment of Professor W. T. Broad to the post of magistrate was being sought by the municipal council as there was no magistrate or police court here.

"With approximately 150 motor cars, it is time that Summerland had an automobile association."

Rev. H. A. Solly and R. E. White were named provisional chairman and secretary, respectively, of a proposed automobile association, along with a committee of Messrs. Lawler, Lees, Tait and Solly.

Under a committee of Messrs. Keley, Zimmerman, Tait, Heimer and Augur, Summerland Board of Trade was arranging details for a display of fruit at the Vancouver exhibition.

F. A. Miller at Bathfield was supplied with a rain gauge by the weather department of the provincial government. Later, he expected to be supplied with a thermometer and be set up as a meteorological station.

Lieut. C. Edmund Bentley arrived home.

THIRTY YEARS AGO — AUGUST 7, 1924

Peachland was in the way of becoming the sweet potato centre of B.C., through the efforts of H. H. Thompson, whose sweet potatoes were finding ready sale on the prairies.

The council was debating the point of who owned the land on which stood the new municipal bathing house and other nearby buildings between the road and water.

One of the first accomplishments of the Okanagan-Cariboo Trail Assn. was the issuance of a new map showing the trail from Wenatchee to Barkerville.

Summerland had the honor of entertaining the King's representative in Canada, Lord Byng of Vimy and Lady Byng. Those responsible for providing entertainment for the vice-regal couple were Keeve Campbell, Mrs. H. Pares, Miss Rene Harris, S. W. J. Feltham, R. S. Jackson, R. H. Atkinson, K. S. Hogg, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Koop and Rev and Mrs. H. A. Solly.

A mudslide on the highway just north of Crescent Beach nearly engulfed a car driven by Mrs. Appleton of Penticton, who was accompanied by her son and small daughter.

J. W. Jones, MLA for South Okanagan and R. H. Pooley, MLA for Esquimalt were mentioned as possible leaders of the opposition in the provincial legislature.

Mrs. Rowley of the government telegraph office and her friend, Miss McMillan of the Penticton office, were rescued from drowning in Skaha Lake by Vic Pryce of Penticton.

The Occidental Fruit Co. moved to its new packinghouse just east of the high school.

FIVE YEARS AGO — AUGUST 11, 1924

A reply was received from the post office inspector in Vancouver that "the operation of two post offices with the same name would not be practicable" to the Board of Trade request that the name of the West Summerland post office be changed to Summerland.

Under the auspices of the Summerland Board of Trade, a float featuring E. H. Bennett's famous gladioli was to be entered in the monster Penticton and District Peach Festival parade, with the board's Spring Fair Queen, Merle Heavysides, appearing as Miss Summerland.

The new 60,000 kva power line running along the new West Kootenay Power & Light Co. line from Penticton to Summerland was soon expected to be in operation.

Possibility that the James Lake area would be set aside as an industrial zone was voiced by the municipal council.

Atomic World Peace

It has always been easier to start a war than to stop one and conclude terms of peace between the two antagonists. The utter defeat of Germany and Japan only led to a prolonged cold war and some hot ones over the division of the spoils by the victor. But where the quarrel has been among more than two as in the last World War and the War in Korea, agreement even on an armistice seems impossible. The last state is worse than the first.

There never was such a mess of a situation after any other war in modern times as that existing after the indecisive war in Korea. The real enemy in that war from the beginning was not China, but Soviet Russia, and the present mix-up and refusal to come to agreement over the disposal of the prisoners of war is being incited by Moscow. The situation is just how the Kremlin wants it. The tactics are exactly the same as those used by Russian delegates in the United Nations to delay and frustrate any final peace settlement with Germany. What could be more unreasonable than the last refusal of the Communists to take back their pro-Communist prisoners after they had signed an agreement to do so, and had previously refused to release them? The only motive for that stand was the desire to create further confusion and delay negotiations for a peace settlement with a re-uniting of North and South Korea.

The same motive is behind the demand that Russia should be allowed to take part as a "neutral" in the final peace conference. There would never have been a Korean war if the Soviet government had not trained the North Koreans to fight against their own country and supplied the Chinese with arms to fight against the United Nations, of which Russia herself is a full member.

They resent international confusion, however may be a good thing in the long run, for it may serve as an example of the impossibility of victory by either side in a world war, and also as a deterrent against the starting of another world conflict. No nation or group of nations are going to start a war which they not only know they cannot win, but also now know for certain would end in the destruction of the civilized world by atomic bombs. If the nations as a whole cannot be brought to believe the Scriptural injunction, "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom," they may yet be brought by their own ingenuity to believe that the fear of the Almighty Atom is the beginning of world peace. For the present the nations are in a state of armed indecision, which may be described as follows:

They are scared of one another,
Brother is afraid of brother;
One calls himself a Communist,
And at the other shakes his fist.
The other, rising in alarm,
For his defence begins to arm;
Declares he'll fight till every Red
Is dead—or he himself is dead!
At which the frightened Communist
Declares he is a Pacifist,
And calls for universal peace,
In which all armament would cease,
And atom bombs be scrapped for certain—
Except behind the Iron Curtain.

A Family Party . . . a lesson for other parties

WHATEVER else their political opponents may say about the Social Credit party, they will have to admit that this is one party that has been able to arouse political interest in the average person and has been able to make him feel he is part of his government. And therein lies the Social Credit secret to success.

Evidence of party interest was manifest Monday night when more than 500 members travelled from all over the valley in over 90-degree heat to celebrate the second anniversary of their party. No other Canadian political party under similar circumstances could draw more than a corporal's guard.

Liberals and Conservatives at the height of their power could certainly never have duplicated this gathering. Such a celebration would have brought out the party top hierarchy but the average man-on-the-street voter would not be interested and probably would not have been welcome.

The CCF have come closest to achieving what the Social Credits have accomplished in this regard but not nearly to the same effective degree.

The atmosphere prevailing at the Social gathering Monday night was more than of a big family party and it is clearly evident that the reason political interest in recent years has been on the decline is because the government of the country was by a corporation closed to all but those of the inner circle.

It also becomes more clearly evident that the noise made by the remnants of the Conservative Party in Vernon a few weeks ago can be interpreted as a death rattle of that once great party. Blind to the fact there has been something of a transition in political affairs, leaders of that party are publicly engaging in a battle over leadership and policy which is characteristic of the system of operating political parties which brought about their demise. Deane Finlayson in his assertions that the party must be built from the bottom up is absolutely right but if he hopes to accomplish this he should stop talking about it and start doing it.

The Liberal Party isn't much better off. They seem to be in a position of knowing what they should do but lack the courage to surrender any of the party control to the mass of voters. They will only have to dally a little longer and the decision will be made for them—the same way it has been made for the Conservatives.

Whatever else they may accomplish, it looks as though Social Credits greatest achievement may be that they gave government back to the people.

Waste of Talent . . . just not enough to go around

IN the last book written by the late Michael Roberts, The Estate of Man, the author showed himself as seriously worried about certain signs of deterioration that seemed evident to him in 1948. He was chiefly concerned with England, the country most familiar to him, but most of the disturbing tendencies he had noted there might be observed in any other country of the modern civilized world.

One matter that particularly disturbed him was the shortage of talent. "The standards of health and well-being which we have set ourselves," he wrote, "demand an increased proportion of dentists, medical officers and trained nurses. Britain, for example, aims at producing 50 per cent more scientists, graduate engineers and teachers, about 30 per cent more doctors and dentists and 26 per cent more nurses. We all know one or two bus-drivers, waitresses or farmhands who, given the right training might have done well in some more obviously intellectual calling. Are there enough people of this kind to go around?"

Britain's national health scheme, which discouraged young men from entering the medical profession at the same time as it encouraged everyone to rush to a doctor for "free" service at every suspicion of an ailment, may have had the effect of making the shortage in that field obvious. Yet even in Canada, where a national scheme of socialized medicine has hitherto been avoided, there are complaints of shortages of both doctors and nurses, while new hospitals continue to be built to serve a public that is far from being the most unhealthy in the world.

Expansion of industry, progress of invention, increased development of natural resources are all factors in creating in this country a demand previously unknown for talent of all types. The shortages noted in the medical profession may partly be due to the opening of new opportunities in engineering or chemistry. A young man may have the capacity to become a good engineer or a good surgeon, but once he has chosen one profession, he is barred from the other. Moreover, no matter which profession he chooses, he will tend to specialize, so that, if he becomes a surgeon, his choice may really do little to relieve the shortage of general practitioners. One competitor for the country's restricted supply of talent is the civil service. It is not certain that it attracts the best brains in the country, but it does absorb each year a certain number of young men and women who might be making careers useful to themselves and the country, instead of acting as cogs in a machine designed to frustrate the activities of other citizens.

While talent is in short supply and likely to get relatively shorter, it seems a suicidal policy for the country to waste what it has. Before the expansion of the civil service has proceeded beyond the point of no return, it might be well to have a survey of government activities, both federal and provincial, with the purpose of discovering which ones might be curtailed or entirely discontinued. A considerable saving to the taxpayers might result, as well as a positive gain in directing the talent that undoubtedly exists in the civil service into more useful work than that in which it is now engaged.

Mid-Week Message

And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven. (Revelation 21:2.) Read Romans 8:1-6.

New Year, is not everything exactly the same as yesterday? Is it not true "there is no new thing under the sun"? Yes, it is true. If there are a "new heaven and a new earth" and "new Jerusalem," they will come from nowhere but from God "out of heaven." God is the author of all things new.

Could anyone speak of a new year, of a new lease on life, to the invalid beside the pool of Bethesda? No one had. His friends who had brought him to the pool simply placed him beside it and then left him there. That was the extent of their help. They could not heal him. One day a new message came. It was from God. Jesus Christ said to the invalid, "Rise, take up thy bed, and walk." He gave the invalid what men and nature could not—and he walked. On that day of new life, a new year came down to him from heaven.

Through Christ everyone can have new life—something more joyous to enter into than a new year according to the calendar.

PRAYER

O Lord, our Saviour, we are thankful that Thou hast granted us life so that we have entered into this new year. Grant that whatever else it may bring to us, we may find the newness of life through faith in Christ Jesus. In His name. Amen.

Adversity

All men meet adversity at some time in their lives. Some men are ruined by it; others turn it into a victory. I'd like to tell you about a friend of mine who is now in the midst of adversity, and meeting it well.

For many years my friend worked in a bobbin mill in the Memphremagog area of Quebec. Last fall, when this country was swamped by foreign imports, the mill closed down. It stayed closed all winter, and my friend was unemployed.

Early this spring he took a job as a tool pusher, drilling for oil, working long hours, up to his knees in mud a large part of each day. Unaccustomed to this type of labor, his health began to fail him. He is at home now, and he and his wife are keeping the wolf from the door by doing work for summer cottagers. But there has been a tremendous change in his mental attitude which will certainly stand him in good stead in the years to come.

"I used to take my job for granted," he told me. "Our mill was well-run, the pay was good, and though we always kept putting the bite on for bigger pay as a matter of principle, we were all reasonably satisfied. I guess none of us dreamed that we would soon be trying to compete with workers in other countries who were getting about half as much or less than that. I know that I certainly didn't appreciate my job the way I would do now if I had it back again."

He went on at some length. He told me that he, and his fellow workers are now taking more interest in politics. He told me that one of his friends, while employed on another job, has thought up an efficiency suggestion he is going to offer to the mill owners the moment he gets back to work. He says that for the first time in his life he genuinely appreciates the skills that he learned in his job, and is eager to put them to work again. But there was one other most important piece of wisdom gained through this adversity.

My friend discovered how fine most people in his neighborhood are. Summer cottagers, knowing the plight of the textile workers in that area, have employed as many as they possibly can to fix up around their cottages, do painting that they had not intended to do, build piers for their boats, and so on. Any man who is genuinely eager to give full value for the dollar, my friend tells me, is able to earn enough money so that he will not be in dire need. He is quite convinced that if foreign-trade experts would visit the Memphremagog area, they would soon get busy and do everything possible to get a solution for these unemployment problems. That is a pretty fair amount of faith for one man to pick up due to a winter's adversity!

The Lighter Side

A Dixie GI was playing cards with some English soldiers for the first time. Taking a quick look at what he had been dealt, the Southern boy saw four lovely aces.

"One pound," was the bet ventured by the Englishman on his right.

"Ah don't know how yo'all count yo money," said the GI, "but ah'll raise you a ton."

Then there was the woman who wanted the bank clerk to take the withdrawal out of her husband's half of the joint account.

It undoubtedly was the same woman who when filling out an application form, puzzled over the line, "Are you a natural born citizen of Canada?" Finally she answered, "No . . . Caesarean."

The doctor left the sickroom and joined the pacing husband. "I don't like the way your wife looks, Mr. Cassidy," he said.

"Well, doc," said the husband, "I'm not crazy about her looks either, but she sure takes good care of me and the kids."

"It looks like rain."

The Summerland Review
GRANVILLE ST. WEST SUMMERLAND

Local Cherry Crop Exceeds Early Season Prediction

Summerland, Westbank and Peachland:

As reported July 27th: Since the issue of the last news letter the weather has been mainly warm and sunny. Highest temperature so far this year was 89 degrees F. recorded at the Experimental Station on July 18th. However, on July 20th, 43 inches of rain fell overnight, causing a moderate amount of stem cracking in the Lambert cherries which were at the tomato red stage. (Most of the Bings had been harvested by that time.)

Growers are now completing the harvesting of Lamberts. Many of the cherry trees are in the best condition since the 1949 freeze and relatively good fruit size has been maintained. Aphids have been a real problem especially on Bings. Apricots in the earlier areas are turning color but it will be several days before harvesting commences. All tree fruits continue to size well. Thinning is still continuing in some varieties of late apples.

A moderate outbreak of apple scab has occurred in the Westbank area. Fire blight is serious in several Summerland orchards though no general outbreak has occurred. "Inkspot" is again quite widespread in Wenatchee Moorpark apricots. In some cases this trouble is due to Coryneum Blight but in others the cause is unknown. Since the advent of warmer weather the European Red Mite has been building up quite steadily. Control sprays have been required in a number of orchards. So far there is little sign of a woolly aphid build-up.

As reported July 27th: The weather during the past two weeks has been quite warm with only an occasional wet or cloudy day. A heavy rain on July 21st caused some damage to the light crop of large-sized cherries. Orchard trees, which have shown better foliage than usual this season are now slowing down in growth activity.

The bulk of the cherry crop has now been packed, with only a small volume of Lamberts still to be harvested. Transparent apples are moving in good volume and apricots should reach picking maturity next week. Raspberries are now at their peak volume and should remain in good supply for about two weeks.

Heat loving vegetable crops are now growing well. Early potatoes, beets and carrots are being harvested in good volume. Shipments of early cabbage and lettuce are decreasing in volume. First shipments of early celery are now being made, with early cucumbers due on the market in a few days. Early picking of dwarf green beans are moving to the cannery. Picking of silverskin onions and fall planted onions has commenced and weather conditions appear ideal for conditioning these commodities. Tomatoes and peppers will not be ready for some time, since early trusses of blossom failed to set and plants were generally retarded by cool weather.

Apple scab continues to be of major concern to many growers. Control of green apple aphid and mealy plum aphid has been most difficult and has often necessitated sprays at two week intervals. European red mite and rust mite are increasing rapidly with the advent of warm weather and some difficulties have been encountered in the control. Copping moth activity has been conspicuous by its absence. Fire-blight of apple and pear has been recorded in several orchards.

Penticton, Naramata, Kaleden, Keremeos-Cawston:

As reported July 27th: Except for an all-night rain which occurred on July 20th, the weather has been mostly clear and warm. A temperature of 90 degrees was reached in Penticton on July 18th and again on July 25th.

Tree fruit crops continue to look better and in some instances previous estimates may have to be revised upwards. Cherry picking is expected to be completed this week and in every area the cherry tonnage has greatly exceeded the estimates. Size has generally been excellent but, small splits around the stem area developed in quite a number of orchards following the July 20th rain. Apricots have been moving in volume from the Keremeos area, but are just getting under way in Kaleden and are expected to be moving steadily in Penticton by this week-end.

The European Red Mite continues to cause the greatest concern in pest control, being troublesome not only on apples but also on pears. It has been detected in large numbers in a few peach blocks. Control of this insect is being aggravated by a current shortage of effective spray materials. Rust Mite is causing extensive damage, mostly on cherry trees. Aphids continue to be troublesome and now the Woolly Apple Aphid is beginning to increase. The Apple Scab situation remains unchanged.

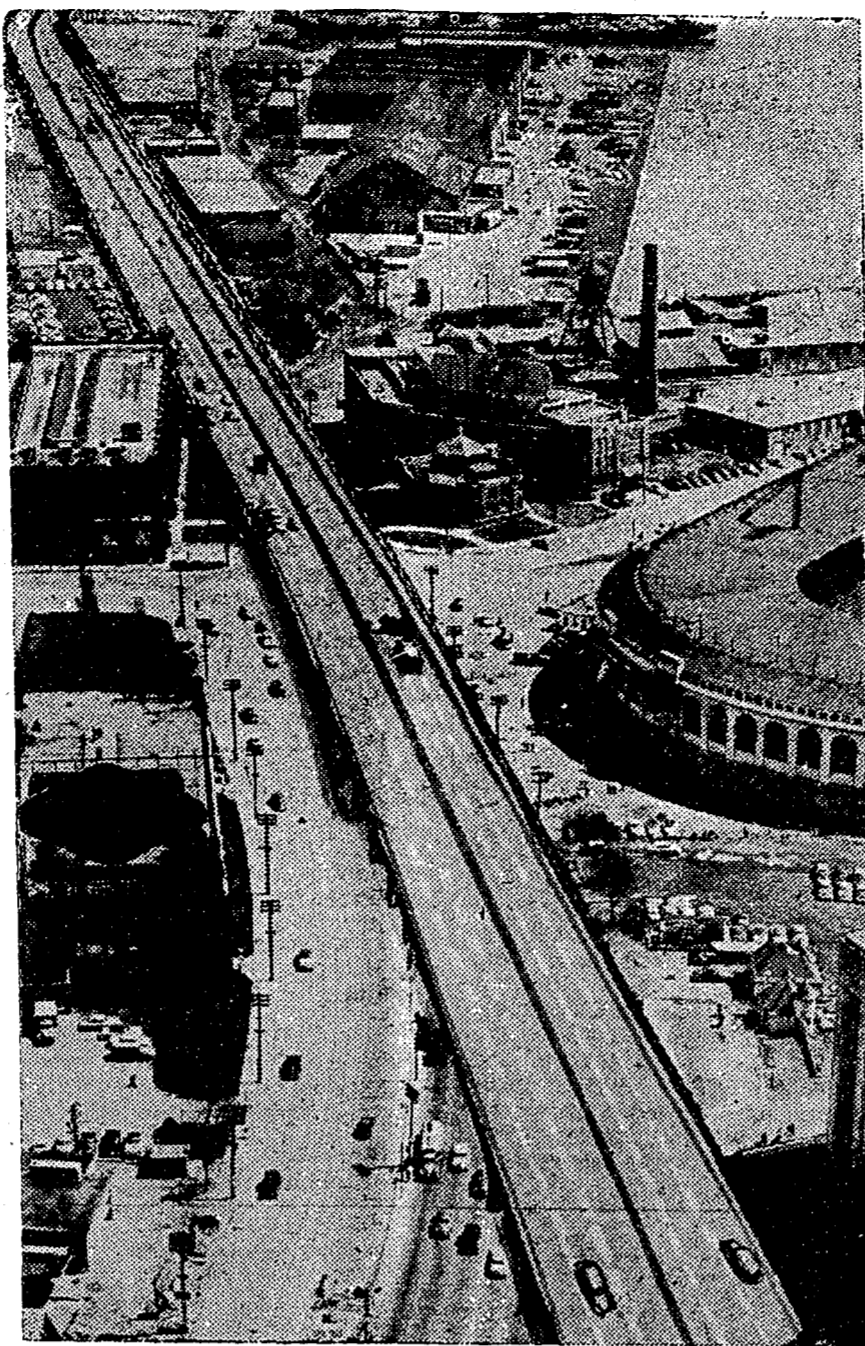

Okanagan Falls, Oliver and Osoyoos:

As reported July 27th: During the past two weeks the weather has been generally dry. The temperatures have been in the eighties and low nineties—one of the coolest July's in the past several years.

Rust mite, European Red Mite, green apple aphid, woolly apple aphid and pear psylla are at present causing considerable concern. Due to the resistance of European red mite to Malathion, most growers are having to use Malathion for aphid and Sulphone or CES for mites, a fairly expensive combination.

Early apples are now well into the harvest season. Apricot harvest is also well advanced. A few of the earliest patches have been picked.

Cucumber harvest was upset by a pick-to-order a few days ago with the result that the vines have deteriorated badly on some lots. Tomatoes have been gaining in volume steadily. Early potatoes have now been harvested on most lots. The first table corn has been picked in the district.

A new ear in Canadian highway construction will be born if plans for this six-lane elevated highway are accepted by the city council in Toronto. The plan, estimated to cost $50,000,000, would have the elevated expressway build along the shoreline of Lake Ontario and offer 50-mph travel from one end of the city to the other without a stoplight. City traffic could leave the expressway at cloverleafs, and in places, a second ramp, between ground level and the highway surface, would provide accommodation for parking 2,000 cars. The cost is expected to result in a one-mill increase in the city tax rate. Some of the expense will be accepted by the province. The highway would rival similar projects in New York, Los Angeles and Chicago. This view shows how it would appear as it passed the Maple Leaf baseball stadium.

Clever Cooking . . .

Summertime swimming time, salad time—they are all in season together. On hot days after a cooling swim, the salad bowl takes the place of honor at the dinner table. For mother this means thinking up many new ways to serve salads does it not? And very often it is quite a chore. Father and the children may be a bit difficult as far as salad eating goes, because very often they feel that greens alone do not give that "stick-to-the-ribs" quality they want in a meal.

The salad bowl is a hospitality centre for plenty of fruits, vegetables, meats and so on.

If mother is having this salad-eating problem in her house—why not try adding some cheese to her salads, or perhaps to her salad dressing? Father is usually very fond of strong cheese such as old Cheddar or Roquefort—type and the children generally like cottage cheese or cream cheese. Any type of cheese can be added to salads as a taste tempter and an appetite appeaser, not forgetting, of course, that cheese is an excellent source of protein as well.

But what about a few ideas for salads with cheese. Let us see first what can be done with our good Canadian Cheddar! Thin strips of Canadian Cheddar cheese can be placed on top of a tossed green salad, or some can just be crumbled right into the salad.

Another good idea, is diced Canadian cheese in a Waldorf salad. Apples and cheese go so well together, that the blended flavors are most appealing. In many homes, macaroni and cheese is served at least once a week. Generally, there is some left over, a very good salad can be made with the cold left over macaroni, if some more cheese is added, a few chopped pickles and a tasty dressing.

One salad very popular is made with chopped green cabbage, some diced green pepper, a generous amount of cubed process cheese and it is served with a tasty dressing made from sour cream. That sounds different and it tastes different too.

Parmesan cheese has a definite flavor. It is an Italian cheese that they frequently use with their spaghetti dishes. We make Parmesan cheese in Canada and you would be surprised how good a little of this cheese is if sprinkled on top of vegetable salads—salad such as cole slaw, asparagus salad or tossed green salad, of course.

Cream cheese is a soft cheese that has a mild flavor that seems to be ideal with fruits. A very good idea is to mix equal parts of cream cheese and mayonnaise and serve it with a fruit salad. Or another idea is to serve fruit with cream cheese balls—this makes an ideal dessert salad. Of course, cottage cheese can be used instead of cream cheese with any fruit salad.

And thinking of cottage cheese, here is a suggestion about using it in salads. Cottage cheese should be combined with fruits and vegetables that have a fairly tart or decided flavor. It is a bland food and it needs to be popped up. Add it to vegetable or fruit salads by just mixing it in with other ingredients. In that way the flavors are combined.

We have mentioned quite a bit about salads with cheese but what about dressings with cheese! The king of the salad cheese is Roquefort type cheese. It is fine in a salad but perhaps even better in the dressing of a salad. Crumbled Roquefort-type cheese can be added to French dressing, mayonnaise, cooked salad dressing or sour cream dressing. It is good with any or all of them. Roquefort dressing on wedges of lettuce is an easy salad to make but hard to beat, as far as flavor goes. Roquefort-type cheese combined with some cottage cheese and mixed with salad dressing makes a dressing that is quite different too. This dressing is especially good on a jolled vegetable salad. And one more idea—Roquefort-type cheese if mixed with some Cheddar or cottage cheese can be rolled into little balls and served as accompaniments to fruit salads.

Be sure the receiver is put back on the hook...

- When a receiver is off the hook, calls can't be made... or received, until it is replaced... Often this is caused by inadvertently letting it touch or rest on a book or some other object near the phone... or, perhaps children in the home were playing with the telephone... all this denies the use of the line to other party-liners... possibly at a time when the line is urgently needed.
- Good party-line service results when everyone has equal calling opportunities... to ensure this, always be sure your receiver is properly replaced when your call is completed...
- Be a good party-line neighbour—consider the others!

Ursula Schmidt, 27-year-old German girl who has been working in Montreal for the past year as a typist, has abandoned her appeal against a deportation order from the Canadian government, so that she could return to Germany to face U.S. air force charges she had passed on vital secrets to a Communist spy ring, while working for them for two years in Frankfurt. In denying the charges, Miss Schmidt said they were levelled against her by Erwin Felker, a former friend who served a six-month term for spying on the air force. "I think he made the accusations to save his own neck."

Socially Speaking

Banking Business Gets Close Scrutiny Under Newly-Revised Legislation

"For Canada's eleven chartered banks, 1954 is a pivotal year." This is the observation of the Bank of Montreal in its July Business Review. Under the title, "New Charters for Old," the review discusses the growth of the Canadian branch banking system and traces the history of the act under which Canada's banks receive their authority to operate.

Banking in Canada began in 1817 with the founding of the Bank of Montreal—50 years before confederation. In 1867, a temporary federal act was passed empowering the banks then existing to do business. It was not until 1871, however, that the dominion passed its first single general bank act specifying the power and responsibilities of the banks. The review notes that "this year's revision is the eighth that has taken place in the intervening period of eighty-three years." The review cites some of the safeguards brought about by successive changes in the act. In 1913, for example, it provided for shareholders' auditors to make thorough annual investigations into the financial position of the bank, an annual report to shareholders and in certain circumstances, a separate report to the general manager, president and directors, and to the minister of finance. Another amendment, 11 years later, created an additional safeguard by providing for the appointment of the government's inspector-general of banks. His duty is to examine the affairs of each bank once in each calendar year and report his findings to the minister of finance. The review comments that "it is difficult to think of any other business that is now under more close and continuing inspection and control than Canada's banking houses."

"The bank act also contains other important protective features," the review states. Securities must be shown in a bank's balance sheet at a figure "not exceeding market value," and current loans must be shown "less provision for estimated loss." An important innovation brought in this year is contained in a new section 82 which provides an improved and more flexible procedure whereby, banks may lend money on the security of oil and natural gas.

Prior to a decennial review, both government and banks are involved in considerable preparatory work: the review points out. Before presentation to parliament, the bill goes through lengthy and searching consideration by the house of commons banking and commerce committee.

The banks testify at these hearings, as do other organizations and interests. "The net result is that the views of the government, of the committee members themselves, of the public and of the banks, with respect to banking in Canada, get a very thorough and healthy airing."

In conclusion, the review states: "It can fairly be said that the changes made in the bank act have placed the chartered banks in a better position to meet the developing requirements of the economy, without disturbing the time-tested principles on which the Canadian system has been built."

Permanent pleated, sheer, nylon tricot is the fabric chosen for a nice dress good for now and right through the summer. It is pleated from the graceful yoke to the hem. The waistline is cinched by a black patent leather belt. A high round neck is finished by a string bow tie. This is a dress that takes to simple or more elaborate accessories nicely, making it a useful member of the wardrobe and one that is youthful and flattering.

Pipe-makers, quick to capitalize on the medical frown directed at cigarettes, are hot on the trail of the great untapped market for their product. The market is the vast number of women smokers who, warned of a connection between cigarette smoking and cancer, may be induced to become pipe addicts. In New York, the pipe manufacturers put on a show to demonstrate just how the feminine touch can be added to pipes — by having a zebra-striped pipe to match a zebra-striped suit for example. Brook Robin is the model.

IF OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS — DON'T LET A LACK OF READY CASH HOLD YOU BACK.

A LOW-COST B OF M LOAN CAN SAVE THE DAY FOR YOU

Opportunity is said to knock but once, so you don't want to risk missing it. It may require ready cash that you do not have, but even that need not stop you. If you have a regular income and are in a position to repay, you can obtain funds for any useful purpose at the Bank of Montreal.

A B of M Personal Loan is inexpensive and convenient. The interest rate is only six per cent, and the loan is repayable in easy instalments. And you pay interest only on what you still owe. If you borrow $100 and repay in monthly instalments over a year, it will cost you just 27 cents a month — a total cost of only $3.24. You can borrow more or less, for shorter or longer periods, at proportionately the same cost.

So next time you need money, don't hesitate to drop in and talk over your problem with Ivor Golly, manager of the West Summerland B of M. You'll find him an interested listener and ready to help when-

$100 A MONTH FOR LIFE FROM AGE 60

This is the plan* — suppose you are not over 50, you make regular payments to the Sun Life of Canada. At age 60 you start receiving $100 a month for life or, if you prefer it, $17,149.00 in cash—both amounts can be increased by accumulating annual dividends. If you are over 50, benefits are available at a later date.

FOR YOUR FAMILY
Should you not live to the age of 60, $15,000 will be paid to your family on your death. *Slightly varied for women.

By completing the enquiry form below you can obtain details suited to your personal requirements. The plan covers all amounts of premiums from as little as $5.00 per month and the cash or pension can in most cases commence at age 50-55-60 or 65.

Red Sox Split Coast Matches

Summerland junior Red Sox managed to split honors with Vancouver Murphy's at the coast over the week-end when they picked up the Saturday match 5-4 but then Sunday were on the wrong end of a 7-0 shutout.

Pitching for the Red Sox on Saturday, Eyre held the coast batters to three hits but allowed seven walks. He held the Murphy's scoreless until the sixth inning when Scharf belted out a circuit clout with two men on base. Vancouver got their fourth run in the final frame when Eggert hit a triple and was brought home on a single by Hatch.

Sox picked up a total of seven hits and had 15 bases on balls. They left 16 runners on base against eight of the Vancouver players.

Bonthoux opened the scoring for the Sox in the first inning when he reached base on an error by Hatch at short, then advanced on a single by Parker and was sacrificed home by Hooker.

Next Summerland scoring was in the sixth when Eggert loaded bases with walks for Pohlman, Bonthoux and Parker and then a single by Hooker scored the first two and Huff took over on the mound for the Irish and closed off the inning without further scoring.

Game went into the seventh tied up at 3-3 and Hackmann scored to break the tie, then came through again in the ninth to give the extra run needed to cop the victory.

In the seven-inning match Sunday, Sox didn't get a look-in. They connected with Wilson during the first four innings for two hits and got the same number off Bennett in the final three but they were scattered and the locals were unable to make them effective.

In the beginning, it looked as though the Sox might repeat their performance of the previous day. Pohlman took a base on balls, Scott made base with the help of an error by Wilson, Pohlman was taken out at home plate on Parker's fielders' choice, Bonthoux fanned and then Ward walked to load bases but Campbell went down swinging.

Sox hopes rose in the third when Parker belted a triple with only one

BERT BERRY'S Fishing News

Okanagan Lake has been pretty good this week. Fish up to 21 inches have been taken trolling. The spoon and trailing grasshoppers have been best. Casting off the rocks has been pretty good. K. Heales made a nice catch of 7 on a white moth fly.

Fish Lake Camp: Fish Lake itself was OK but has dropped off to last week. Upper Lakes above continue very good.

Trout Creek Headwaters Camp: Good fishing here again last week with lots of nice ones up to 2 lbs. being landed. Crescent was good.

Glen Lake: Nice fly fishing here yet, some real big ones up to 3 1/2 lbs. were landed. Late evening rise the best.

Silver Lake: Good fishing with fish up to 17 inches being landed.

Peachland Dam: Road very bad but fishing OK.

Brenda Lake: Some nice fish caught here last week. Best results were with a brass troll.

Dee Lake Chain: Some real nice fishing with large fish up to 7 lbs. coming out of here both trolling and fly.

Shannon Lake: Nice bass and perch fishing here.

Garnet Valley: Nice catches of easterns here last week and fish very fat.

out but next two men fanned.

For Murphy's, Hazeldine and Osgarby scored in the second, McMillan and Scharf in the third and Osgarby, Scharf and Eggert in the fifth.

Cristante Collapses After Pitching Macs to Victory

Don Cristante this week was scheduled to undergo an appendix operation but before hanging up his spikes for the rest of the season he went out Sunday and pitched his third straight winner before he collapsed from a severe attack in the fourth inning.

Play was against Oliver and with a healthy 5-1 lead set-up before Cristante went out of the game, Macs went on to win 6-4.

The win made it four straight for the Macs who topped Pentiction 8-6 last Wednesday night. Macs now stand a mathematical chance of finishing in a play-off position if they keep the whirlwind performance they have shown the past two weeks.

Five runs in the first inning, courtesy of Pentiction's Prince George import, Mike Church, last Wednesday night gave Macs the lead they needed to take their third win in a row. Four of the five walked home while the fifth came in on a balk.

Only real effort in that first inning was Bob Weitzel who led off with a two-bagger. He stole third and reached home on a balk. Weeks struck out then Taylor and Kato in turn were walked while an error by Jones permitted Hooker to load the bases. After that there was everything but a calliope for the merry-go-round as he handed out bases on balls to Aikin, Gould, Eyre and Bob Weitzel, scoring in turn Taylor, Kato, Hooker and Aikin, all the time adding only one more out when Daryl Weitzel sent a foul fly down to Posnikoff at third. Getz took over and played Weeks out at first to end the inning.

Getz managed to hold the Macs scoreless until the eighth inning and then allowing a pair of hits and three runs was replaced by Jordan for the final frame.

Billy Eyre doing mound duty for Macs gave up six hits but kept them scattered so they were not too damaging. Hal Cousins relieved him for the ninth.

Pentiction started to pick up lost ground in the second when two runs were counted by Drossos and Powell. A double by Jones in the fourth scored Getz and then a pair of errors proved costly and eased the way home for Raptis and Drossos.

Aikin, Daryl Weitzel and Gould wrapped up scores for Macs in the eighth.

A two-bagger by Moore in the ninth accounted for A's final run when it drove in Jones.

Cristante during his four frames on the mound gave up only four hits, allowed only one free one and sent three batters back to the bench swinging. Oldster Hal Cousins took over from the ailing Cristante to finish out the game.

OBC's led off with Clifton but switched in the third to Snider.

The visitors got their lone run off Cristante in the first when Snider with two out laid into a two base hit and then came home on a single by Clifton.

Macs evened the score right away when Weeks led off for Summerland and belted out a three-bagger and was sacrificed home by Geordie Taylor. They pushed into the lead in the second when Hooker walked then completed the circuit with the help of a single by Daryl Weitzel and a balk by Clifton.

Chuck Aikin's triple in the third was good for two more runs when it scored Taylor and Hooker.

Cousins got off to a bad start when he hit Radies and then gave up free passes to Carter and Eisenhut and a wild pitch paved the way for Radies to come home. He retired the next two batters and then loaded the bases when he hit Clifton but he pulled out of the tight spot by fanning Vanderburgh.

Macs picked up their final run when Taylor scored in the bottom of the eighth and Oliver tried to stage a rally which was good for two runs by McNiven and Eisenhut in the ninth.

Water Ski Ace Set to Kelowna

Visitors to the 48th Kelowna International Regatta will have an opportunity of watching Canada's "Queen of the Water Skis", Carol Ann Duthie of Toronto, demonstrate the form that has made her the outstanding skier in Canada. Tall, blonde and good looking, Carol Ann, just seventeen years of age, has set a terrific pace in this fast-becoming favorite of Canadian summer sports. Carol Ann learned to ski in 1951 at Cypress Gardens Florida, and her teacher was then the world champion, Dick Pope, Jr. The first Canadian water ski championships were held in September 1951, and Carol Ann won her first championship. She was chosen to represent Canada in the world championships held at Cypress Gardens, in November, and despite the fact that she was the youngest competitor entered, she brought back third place to Canada. In 1952 Carol Ann won second place in the Dixie Championship, the Kentucky Derby of water skiing. In June of 1952 she went to Cuernavaca, Mexico and won the Mexican Overall Championship, winning first place in trick riding, slalom and jumping. She also won the United States junior slalom championship, the first time a Canadian had won either of these titles. Then followed the Ontario, Eastern Canadian, Canadian Open and North American championships, and Carol Ann was named the outstanding Canadian female athlete of the year.

Last year Carol Ann returned to Mexico to repeat her previous year's success, and in doing so, she set a new Mexican female jumping record. She then added the Ontario, Eastern Canada, and Canadian championships to her impressive record. She was chosen captain of the Canadian team in the world championships which were held at the Canadian National Exhibition. Teams were entered from Australia, Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Lebanon, Mexico and the United States. She was the youngest captain in the championships, but she won the world titles in the Slalom and Trick Riding, and placed third in the Jumping, to give her the Overall Junior Championship of the World. For this feat, she received the congratulations of His Royal Highness, the Duke of Edinburgh, a keen water skier.

A quiet, modest, unspoiled young Canadian school girl, Carol Ann has appeared in movie shorts, on the radio and on television. She has a collection of more than 100 trophies. She hopes to become a teacher of physical education.

The seven House brothers of St. Thomas, Ont., admit they have never taken a drink of anything alcoholic, never smoker, never winked at girls, and never married. The combination of attributes, particularly the last mentioned, has brought them an unusual reward. To publicize a new Hollywood movie, the brothers were invited to New York on a trip that included visits to night clubs and dancing reviews. Their three sister, with whom they live on a farm near St. Thomas, have okayed the trip, providing they steer clear of any "wily New York women." Left to right: Vernon, 52; Ada; Raymond, 32; Annabel; Earl, 38; Lee, 34; Marjorie, and Clarence, 50. None of the sisters is married.

The little girl look is going big this season in all types of clothes, especially country and play togs. This printed cotton pique skirt, high length, is an excellent choice for the girl who isn't addicted to shorts. Shorts which pick up one of the print colors, are small and tight-fitting, worn underneath. Unpressed side pleats add animation to a skirt which is shown here with a black cotton camisols trimmed with white pique ruffled edge.

week in the Peach Festival parade in Penticomunity entries with the float representing committee members are keeping mum on ther than that it will be a "radical change

Whatever the design, focal point on the float will be Summerland's attractive queen Marilyn Wade and her attendants Joan Macdonald and Lella Lewis.

This year the Board of Trade, which has entered the float each year, has had constructed a permanent framework eight by 20 feet which can be set on a jeep and used as a base for any type of float they wish to design.

The steer framework and wooden platform was designed by Blake Milne and the construction work done largely by Lorne Bloomfield.

Heading the Board of Trade committee on preparing the entry, is Roy Wellwood and serving with him are Gordon Young, Frank McDonald, Joe Biollo, Marvin Henker, Lorne Perry, A. K. Macleod, and also Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, Mrs. I. K. Sayers and Mrs. H. R. Hodgson

Wrong Picture Used With Valdmanis Story

A picture of Dr. William C. Gibson, professor of neurological research, UBC, appeared in the issue of The Review on July 22 and, through error, the story accompanying it implied it was a picture of Dr. Alfred Valdmanis, former minister of economic development in Newfoundland.

The Review sincerely regrets any embarrassment or inconvenience which may have been caused Dr. Gibson through this error.

South Okanagan CCF Group Stages Picnic

On Sunday afternoon, South Okanagan CCFers held a very successful basket picnic on the lawn and beach of Mrs. M. E. Collas' home at Crescent Beach.

Swimming and boating were enjoyed by many, and the small children played on the beach, while their elders assembled on the lawn to hear O. L. Jones, M.P. give a brief account of the recent national convention and the last session of parliament.

More than 100 people enjoyed the friendly gathering, some coming from as distant points as Vernon and Osoyoos.

Highway Will Have Gulch Road Entry

In answer to a question by Wm. White of White and Thornthwaite, Council Tuesday advised department of public works plans for the new highway call for an entry on to the Gulch Road, although Reeve Atkinson noted the hill will be pretty steep.

Mr. White was interested because his firm has a contract for operating school busses and he feared distance of the daily run would be considerably lengthened if that route was cut off.

Council produced a large scale plan which shows the projected route for the new highway and pointed out how the intersection will be made.

Legion Honors Charter Members

C. E. Bentley

Fellow Legionaires last night honored one of their members, C. E. Bentley at the regular meeting of Summerland Branch, when he was presented with a life membership in the Canadian Legion.

South African veterans of the branch several years ago were granted life memberships but Mr. Bentley is the first individual here chosen for the honor.

Mr. Bentley is a past president of the branch and also holds the coveted Canadian Legion meritorious service award.

Also honored last night was S. A. MacDonald who was presented with a 2 year membership pin.

Both Mr. Bentley and Mr. MacDonald are charter members of the Great War Veterans' Association in Summerland which later was amalgamated into the Canadian Legion.

Discuss Purchase Of Ditching Machine

Council Tuesday discussed purchase of a ditching machine but decision on definite action was tabled until more information is available and members have an opportunity to see the machine under discussion in action.

With considerable ditching work necessary in the near future, councillors were of the opinion it might be a wise investment at this time, particularly since a fairly substantial portion of the cost might be recovered doing work for the department of public works in connection with the new highway.

Two types of machines were discussed, one a self-contained unit which mounts on the back of a truck and the other which operates off a tractor. Cost of the former is $4,500 and the latter $3,500.

Will Convert Main Business Section Into Midway for Street Carnival

A section of West Summerland's main street will be turned into a gay midway Saturday night when Kiwanis stage their annual street carnival in the block between Ponder and Hastings on Granville road.

Heralding the evening event will be music broadcast during the day and Summerland High School Band which will start playing at 7 o'clock.

Bingo, games of skill, refreshment booths and other concessions will be operating to appeal to the crowd of carnival goers and for the kiddies will be the feature which found so much popularity last year—rides on a Trump giraffe.

The giraffe will be operated by Scotty Ritchie with Hilly Smith in charge of bingo and Doug Campbell looking after refreshment booth.

Other concessions will be handled by Joe Sheoley, Kon Hoales, Frank McDonald, Ben Trafford and Jack Towgood.

General chairman for the event is Gerry Hallquist.

Okanagan Zone Sportsmen's Council Withdraws from Provincial Body

Following a stormy session at Kelowna this week, South Okanagan Game Council passed a resolution to withdraw from the B.C. Game Council and launched a move to organize a new provincial body to replace the former parent organization.

Council Won't Wait For Official Signs

Leaving the bureaucratic mills to grind slowly on, Summerland council will take direct action to have warning signs posted at Louis' Beach by having them painted locally and erected before the swimming season.

A letter was written the provincial engineer asking to have these signs erected and by the devious route through police channels of communication eventually reached Constable Ted Piers for an opinion on the need for the signs.

Councillor Stuart pointed out next turn of the merry-go-round will have Constable Piers reporting his opinion to detachment headquarters at Abbotsford and it will then be relayed to police headquarters in Victoria, thence to public works department there and through channels of that department to the district engineer and eventually to the man who posts signs.

In the meantime, said Councillor Stuart, one youngster has already been struck by a car at that point and time is the essence if caution signs are to be erected before the end of the month which will see the end of swimming.

Council decided in the interests of safety for the youngsters playing at the beach, signs should be erected by the municipality to serve until the provincial government signs arrive.

Health Unit to Meet Here Next Wednesday

Summerland next Wednesday will be host to South Okanagan Health Unit for the monthly meeting which will be held at the municipal hall at 1:30 p.m.

Following the meeting, tea will be served the delegates by the Hospital Auxiliary at the Crescent Beach home of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh.

The health unit covers the district on the west side of Okanagan Lake from Rutland to Princeton. About 25 or 30 delegates are expected for the session.

Hard to Keep Track Of These Commuters

This newspaper is about ready to abandon efforts to keep track of the Alstead family. Invariably when we print a paragraph saying they have gone to New Westminster on a trip, Bob walks into the office five minutes later.

It happened again this week and we have decided to class him as a commuter.

The trip back last night, he confesses, is his 52nd round trip since the Hope-Princeton road was opened three years ago.

Summerland Queen To Kelowna Event

As Summerland's Queen, Miss Marilyn Wade has been invited to attend the Lady-of-the-Lake ball Saturday night in Kelowna. The ball is the wind-up event of the 48th Kelowna Regatta.

Marilyn will be accompanied by her princesses, Joan Macdonald and Lella Lewis.

Last Friday night, Queen Marilyn and Princess Joan represented Summerland at the Peach Ball in Kelowna.

Chicken Killing Costs Concl $3.50

Paying off for chickens killed by unidentified dogs has lately become a regular item on the council agenda.

This week, council approved payment of $3.50 to C. B. Hankin for the loss of a year-old hen and two four-month-old chickens.

Identity of the dog responsible for the killings was unknown.

School Board Approves Additional Classroom For MacDonald School

With school re-opening less than four weeks away, work is being started to add an additional room to the basement of MacDonald School to handle the increased enrollment, change the industrial arts layout to occupy a second room, install further fire prevention equipment in MacDonald school and blacktop a portion of MacDonald school yard.

School trustees have approved expenditure of $700 for remodeling and decorating one of the basement rooms at MacDonald to accommodate the additional classroom.

Expansion of the industrial arts facilities will cost about $1,000 and new teacher in this department will be Fred Beavis who will be assistant of present industrial arts teacher, A. D. Gately.

Blacktopping project will cost about $500 and will be designed to carry off to a rock pit water which

Urges Sand Trap For Happy Valley

Need for a sand trap in the irrigation flume which supplies the Happy Valley line was expressed Tuesday at the council meeting by water chairman Councillor Richards. Purpose of the trap would be to cut down the wear on the steel pipe in the communal line which serves Happy Valley orchards and will be the subject of a council committee meeting to discuss policy on whether council should pay full cost of the trap or ask owners of the communal line to share in the cost.

Councillor Richards proposed the municipality should pay the full cost since the corporation is committed to pay a percentage of repairs to the line and in time, he said, it would represent a saving.

Councillor Richards spoke from personal experience and said sand in this line would quickly cut through the steel pipe and recalled that he had to renew pipe himself after two years because of deterioration from sand action.

Reeve Atkinson proposed the principle of the municipality paying the full cost where the protection of a communal line is involved should be carefully considered and the matter was held over for committee discussion.

Council Will Sell Lots to Government

Council Tuesday approved sale of a number of small lots of land to the provincial government for the new highway right-of-way. Price was nominal one dollar for each lot with the provincial government to assume the cost of transferring the property.

Approval on sale of one lot was held back until after the highway was constructed. Council have received an offer from Harvey Wilson for a portion of this lot and it was decided that after the highway is constructed, the portion used for the right-of-way can be transferred to the provincial department and council will be able to enter into negotiations with Mr. Wilson for the portion wanted by him.

Council Approves Kiwanis Carnival

Representing Summerland Kiwanis Club, Gerry Hallquist and George Henry appeared Tuesday before the council to request permission for the club to use the block of Granville Street between Ponder and Hastings for their annual street carnival Saturday night. Approval was granted.

POWER APPLICATIONS

Applications for electrical power were approved Tuesday by the council for I. Nilson, F. O. Bird, H. R. Cannon and Mrs. N. O. Solly.

There May Be Lots More Interesting Places to See but There's Still 'No Place Like Home', Frances Reports

By FRANCES ATKINSON
Well! Home again and glad of it even if the U Youth Pilgrimage is the most wonderful experience a young person could have. After travelling steadily for a month, home looks pretty good.

In my last letter, I told about leaving New York and arriving in Exton, Penn., to spend the night. Next morning, July 25, we left Exton after a good breakfast for Gettysburg.

We arrived just in time for the collection in church. After eating lunch at Peace Light Inn on the Gettysburg Battlefield we went on a 82 mile tour of the Battlefield. We found the trip very interesting.

That evening we stayed at Baltimore Maryland and spent a lovely evening out on Chesapeake Bay. The next morning we visited Fort Mifflin where the "Star Spangled Banner" was first written and sung and then went to the Sovereign Grand Lodge Headquarters.

We arrived in Washington, D.C. at noon and spent the rest of that day and until 2:00 the next day sooing what there was to see in Washington.

We visited such places as the Jefferson monument, Lincoln monument, Fort Theatre where Lincoln was killed, Mount Vernon in Virginia where Washington's home and tomb is situated, Congress Library, White House, the Capitol, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving where they print $41,000,000 bills a day mally for replacement purposes. I'd never seen so much money in all my life and very likely never will again. We also went to the Smithsonian Institute where we could have spent 2 or 3 days, it was very interesting.

The morning we were in Washington we got up at 6:30 and like a bunch of crazy mixed up kids we climbed the Washington Monument as soon as it was open. It is 553 feet 5/8 inches high and has 883 steps (we know, we counted them).

That evening we had supper at Keyper, West Virginia and stayed in Grafton.

After we left Grafton the next morning we started to travel with out many stops for a couple of days. We stayed at Plymouth, Indiana Wednesday night and Thursday we stayed in private homes in Waterloo Iowa. The same days we had a scenic drive through Chicago.

Friday we had a very lovely treat. We were taken to Clear Lake, Iowa for a swim at Patriarch's Millant Park. Had lunch there and travelled on to Sioux Falls, South Dakota for supper and on to Mitchell for the night.

We were right in the corn belt then. For miles and miles all we could see was fields and fields of corn. The next morning we visited the Corn Palace at Mitchell. It is the only one in the world, the whole palace outside and in is decorated with corn. It costs $10,000 a year to redecorate. That evening we went up Mt. Rushmore to see the Rushmore Memorial. We saw it in the day light and then in the dark with the flood lights on it. It was very beautiful. We stayed at the State Game Lodge in Hermosa that night.

Sunday we had Church Service at Gillette, Wyoming and travelled on to Greybull for supper. There we had the privilege of meeting Mr. French, the Sovereign Grand Master of the Odd Fellows. There had been a Polio epidemic there so we couldn't do anything that evening but go to bed—so we did about 1:00 a.m. after sitting out on the lawn of the Motel singing and playing games.

The next morning we stopped at Cody, the home of Buffalo Bill and toured the Buffalo Bill Museum, and his home where he was brought up. Leaving Cody by the Sylvan Pass we had a police escort and he stopped all the traffic while we went through. Even then the hill was so steep the bus stalled and we all piled out and walked while a tractor pulled the bus.

At noon we were in Yellowstone Park and by 3:00 we were at Old Faithful Lodge where we stayed the night. We spent that afternoon in museums and watching Old Faithful go off. In the evening we took part in a concert.

Tuesday we stopped at Norris where there were some beautiful hot spring and again at Mammoth Hot Springs where we climbed among some lovely rock formation. We had lunch at Livingston, Montana where we were guests of Faith Rebekah Lodge No. 18. We stayed the night at Missoula and suitably celebrated our last night together.

The next day, being our last one together was quite quiet and by the time we reached Spokane about 2:00 in the afternoon everyone was in tears. It was then we realized what a wonderful month we had had together and to say good-bye was a terribly hard thing to do so we all said "we'll see you at the reunion we're having at Seattle in November". I know everyone of us will be there if at all possible.

This being my last letter I would like to say that I am very, very thankful to Okanagan Lodge No. 58 IOOF for the opportunity to go on such a wonderful trip. Travelling with a group of swell kids was an education in itself. I am sure if all the children of any two countries could travel together as one large family in such peace and harmony as we did, there would certainly be no trouble in the world to-day.

Seeing the United Nations building so large and spacious, almost made you weep to think that all those buildings are filled with people working so hard to bring about and keep world peace and yet we still are having world disturbances. This is a very worthwhile project the Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodges have and I hope in the future many students from here will have the opportunity to visit the United Nations by taking this trip.

On the last month I have covered many miles and seen many things but the old saying still is true—

Wherever you roam
Be it ever so humble
There's no place like home.
It sure does feel good to be home again in this beautiful Okanagan Valley. There's nothing that compares with it anywhere.

"Hey! Take it easy, fellows", complains Gordon Beggs as Credit Union President John Caldwell and Office Manager Walt Bleasdale load him down with the trophies which the Summerland Credit Union acquired last year while he was president. The armload of silverware and certificates includes the B.C. Achievement Shield won last year by Summerland Credit Union for the second straight year. The small shield accompanied the larger one and remains here permanently. Achievement certificates were awarded for the first time last year and Summerland was winner of two. The silver cup is the Summerland "B" division bowling trophy won by the Junior Credit Union entry.

Mark 10th Anniversary With Official Opening Of Remodelled Quarters

From 14 members and assets of $130 to 1178 members and assets totalling $515,000. That is the phenominal growth celebrated this week by Summerland Credit Union as it makes the 10th anniversary of its organization since 1944.

Highlight of the 10th anniversary celebrations was the official opening of the remodeled modern building and offices of the Credit Union on Granville Road.

The move into the new quarters marks the third time the credit union has had to move in order to handle its steadily growing volume of business.

For the first two years of operation, business was carried on from the office of the secretary, Walter M. Wright, and then in 1946 the union with the help of a large amount of voluntary labor provided by enthusiastic members, undertook construction of their present building, rented out two stores on the ground floor and a part of the upper floor reserving a part of the upstairs for their office. That accommodation served for a few years but three years ago they outgrew it and moved downstairs to take over one of the stores. In the latest move, the entire ground floor has been taken over the credit union business, an extra eight feet added to the rear and the face of the building remodelled.

This last move, the union executive hopes, will provide adequate accommodation for the next 10 years at least, but in the light of past experience, none of them are willing to gamble on it. "However," President John Caldwell points out, "we can't keep growing at this rate much longer unless population of Summerland takes a sudden spurt. There are about 1,000 families here now and we have nearly 1,200 members so just about every family is represented in the credit union with some, supplying two or more members." If the past few months is any guide, President Caldwell could be wrong. Membership passed the 1,000 mark only last December and already it has climbed to 1,178.

The present role of the credit union in Summerland may have been dreamed by the original members but it is unlikely any of them ever actually believed it would materialize. In fact, at the organization meeting they were told a credit union should have at least 100 members in order to have it function properly and a year later with only slightly more than half that number enrolled, there were skeptics who doubted if they would be able to reach the minimum membership necessary. Their doubts were short-lived, however, because within another year the member-

Lack of Borrowers CU's First Problem

When Summerland Credit Union organized 10 years ago, one of their first problems was having money they didn't know what to do with.

During the early months, new members kept coming in and investment in shares climbed up but none of them seemed to need any money.

Members were growing a bit impatient that their money wasn't getting a chance to do any work for them so it was Secretary Walter M. Wright who stepped in to break the ice. He needed a septic tank at his home and agreed to borrow $500 from the credit union to install it. That was Loan No. 1 and, right behind him was Treasurer Stan Taylor who took out Loan No. 2 to purchase a Victory Bond.

That was all that was needed to start the ball rolling. Since then, conditions have been reversed and the credit union has been trying to get investments to equal loans so they won't have to borrow from the Central Credit Union.

It has been our pleasure to be associated with the Summerland Credit Union in the remodelling of their building and offices.

We extend congratulations to this forward-looking organization and wish them continued growth and success.

Many members of Summerland Credit Union last night had the first look at their new spacious offices when the remodelled building was officially opened as highlight of the 10th anniversary celebration of the union. This is the third move for the credit union in the past 10 years and the executive hopes the new accommodation will provide needs for at least the next 10 years. Large window area at the rear overlooks Living Memorial Park. At the wicket above is office manager Walt Bleasdale and working at the rear is assistant Roy Smith.

Original 14 Members Invested $130 To Start Credit Union 10 Years Ago

ship had passed that mark. Father of the Summerland Credit Union was Mel Munro. He had read of credit union operation elsewhere and felt such an organization could be of considerable benefit to people in this community. Following this idea with action, he invited T. A. Switzer, Vancouver, then assistant inspector of credit unions, now inspector, to come to Summerland and outline to a public meeting the advantages of having a credit union in the community. That meeting was held in the IOOF hall and at its close, 14 listeners lined up to buy five-dollar shares and sign their names to the union charter. The 14 who touched off what is now one of Summerland's most prosperous businesses were Mel Munro, Roy E. Smith, A. E. Smith, L. J. Desrosier, Walter M. Wright, Harvey M. Mitchell, James Lillico, Stanley Taylor, R. J. Gardiner, Norman Dickinson, Frank Plunkett, Henry O'Neil, D. A. J. Larson and George Haddrell.

Most of the charter members invested in a single share, a couple took two and one man took 10 so the meeting ended with a new credit union launched with a total of 26 shares issued.

While most credit unions are formed by people with an occupational bond, such was not the case in this instance. Occupations of the charter members listed included farmer, millworker, log scaler, store clerk, fruit grower, civil servant—and the reporter who was sent to report on the meeting.

That meeting also elected the first slate of officers for Summerland Credit Union. Mel Munro who had sparked the idea for the local organization was chosen as first president, Walter Wright was named secretary and Stan Taylor, treasurer.

Following are the presidents who have held office in the local credit union: Mel Munro 1944-45; Stan Taylor 1946; Roy Smith 1947; Walter Bleasdale 1948; Gordon Beggs 1949; J. R. Butler 1950; John Caldwell 1951; J. M. McArthur 1952; Gordon Beggs 1953; John Caldwell 1954.

The office of secretary has had only one change in the 10 years. Walter Wright held the position for eight years and Mrs. John Caldwell, the present secretary, took over from him two years ago.

There have been three treasurers. Mrs. Edna Sowerby took over from Stan Taylor and in 1950 Walter Bleasdale was appointed full-time treasurer and manager.

The Summerland Credit Union had a chance to prove its worth and its greatest growth in membership share capital and loans in 1950—the year after the crippling frost which struck orchards in the district—and many prosperous fruit growers today recall with gratitude it was the Credit Union that saved them from financial ruin following that crop disaster.

In the 10 years the union has been in existence, it has made loans totalling $1,300,000—and these loans range all the way from $2 to $12,000.

Transactions by the local union have borne out the experience of credit unions all over the world—that character is the most important security a man can offer for a loan. Only four have failed to repay loans and total loss in the 10 years of operation is less than $3,000.

Loans by the local union at any given time usually exceed share capital and the extra money is obtained from the Central Credit Union which provides loans from a fund built up by unions which have a surplus of share capital over loans.

The local credit union provides insurance on all loans through Credit Union National Association so that death or permanent disability of a member means the debt to the credit union is cancelled.

One feature of the credit union is that money earned stays right in the community. During the past 10 years they have been in operation, earnings of the Summerland Credit Union have totalled $20,350 and of this sum, $7,035 have been returned to members in dividends and the remainder is represented in assets.

In 1948, Credit Union and Co-

Transite Front Adds Interest To Business Block

New look of Summerland Credit Union building presents an attractive modernistic front in the West Summerland business section. Large glass area surrounding the front entrance is set off by the green corrugated transite used on the face of the building.

According to architects Roy W. Meiklejohn and Associates who designed the alterations, the use of transite for building face is fairly new in this part of the country although it has been in use on the prairies for some time. It provides a hardy surface which will stand up well and its vertical lines provide extra interest to the front.

Flourescent-lighted interior has walls of plywood panelling and floor is rubber tile to withstand heavy traffic in front and lino tile in the rest of the office.

General contractor was John Berg. Heating of the offices is by Dimplex electric heating units supplied and installed by Young's Electric.

Interior and exterior painting was carried out by Mel Cousins plumbing was done by Young's Plumbing and Heating and roofing by Kewanee Roofing Co. of Penticton. Flooring was by Sather and Sons and stucco work by D. J. Brown.

Operative Health Services was started and local members have participated in this phase of credit union service since its beginning.

Another important organization within the Summerland Credit Union is the Junior Saving Club which is operated in MacDonal School. Through this club, youngsters are given early training in the value of a consistent savings plan and since it was formed in 1951, children of the club have saved a collective $2,300. Savings club until recently was under the direction of Mrs. A. McCargar and is now being handled by office manager Walt Bleasdale.

Coinciding with the opening of the new enlarged offices to handle increased business is the addition of a machine bookkeeping system to speed office procedure. In the office are two full-time employees, Walt Bleasdale and Roy Smith, and one part-time, Mrs. Herb Lemke.

On the present board of directors are John Caldwell, Gordon Beggs, J. M. McArthur, Mark Embree, Bert Draper, Dave McInnes and Harvey Mitchell. Credit committee is made up of Harry Haeckmann, chairman, F. R. Ganzefeld and J. R. Butler. Supervisory committee includes Mrs. James Brown chairman, Alan Butler, Bob Woltzel, Ken Williams and Reg Korsy.

Building committee in charge of recent remodelling was made up of Gordon Beggs and Dave McInnes. Summerland Credit Union has clearly established itself as one of the outstanding unions in the B.C. In 1952 and again last year, Summerland union was awarded the B.C. Achievement trophy in competition with 250 credit unions in the province and became the first union to hold this shield for a second time. This past year, achievement certificates were awarded for the first time and Summerland received two—one for contributions and one for officer responsibility.

Trophy winning hasn't been confined to usual credit union activities. Last year the credit union team topped top place in "B" section of the Summerland bowling league and this year the Junior team repeated the performance of the oldsters.

Miss Anne Glaser Feted at Shower

Bride-elect Miss Anne Glaser was honored Monday night when friends and neighbors gathered for a delightful shower at the home of Mrs. Alek Riehl on Jones Flat.

The guest-of-honor was recipient of many useful and attractive gifts from her friends and to receive them was seated in a chair decorated with pink and white streamers from the ceiling to the chair. Flowers were used for decorations in the living room and white, pink and red roses, copper and white glads, white and yellow chrysanthemums and red and yellow dahlias were in profusion.

Games were played while lunch was prepared and served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. John Schramm, Miss Elsie Glaser and Arma Vogel.

Attending were Mrs. John Glaser, mother of the bride-to-be, Mrs. George Kramer, Mrs. Herman Glaser, Miss Elsie Glaser, Mrs. Gustav Vogel, Miss Arma Vogel, Mrs. Ed Krause, Mrs. W. Huva, Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. A. Turigan, Mrs. M. Geeres, Sr., Mrs. J. Mayerhofer, Mrs. H. Schmidt, Mrs. A. Arndt, Mrs. J. Berg, Mrs. R. Wilburn, Mrs. S. Myers, Mrs. C. Stent, Mrs. E. G. Gillespie, Mrs. J. Thomas, Mrs. J.

Geeres, Mrs. J. Schramm, Mrs. A. Glaser, and Mrs. E. Lawn of Pen-ticton and Mrs. G. Geeres.

Those that couldn't attend were Mrs. E. Brighton, Mrs. C. Kolhauser, Mrs. F. Lauer, Mrs. R. H. Wilfling, Mrs. M. Kita, Mrs. C. Jentch, Mrs. G. Boehm, Mrs. L. A. Smith, Mrs. W. Snow and Mrs. W. Stein.

Sidewalk Completed In Front of School

Municipal council Tuesday heard report sidewalk in front of the high school has now been completed at a cost slightly above estimate. Estimated cost was $1.75 a foot and when completed the job ran about $1.76 a foot.

Extra work entailed in building the sidewalk around the corner was responsible for the extra cost, it was explained.

Council is awaiting a complete statement on the cost of the job and if the budget will permit, sidewalk will be constructed at the corner of Jubilee and Jones Flat roads by the T. S. Manning lumber yard.

Scouts End Camp At Headwaters

The annual Boy Scout summer camp this year was held from July 24 to July 31 at Headwaters No. 1 Lake back of Peachland in the vicinity of the old Municipality Cabin. Fair but somewhat cool weather prevailed which went far towards making the camp an outstanding success. The camp was under the leadership of Scoutmaster D. V. Fisher and Assistant Scoutmasters D. M. Munn and F. E. Brinton.

Twenty boys including one Scout from the 29th Vancouver Troop enjoyed the outing under canvas and participated in a wide range of activities outdoor cooking, games, badge passing and an overnight hike. The overnight hike was perhaps the highlight, in which, the boys, equipped with packboards of their own making, tramped the five miles into Crescent Lake and back. Fishing at Crescent Lake and the other lakes was a popular activity.

Scout Gillard, Blewett, Milne and McCutcheon passed their Swimmer's Badge, and Athlete's Badges were won by Scouts Solly, Gillard, Ezeard, Smith, Milne, Freeman, McCutcheon, DeRosier, Burden and Mitchell. Other boys completed part of the requirements for Swimmer's and Rescuer's Badges, the balance of the work to be completed this summer.

All activities were conducted on a patrol basis and the keenly contested competition for the award of the Pat Nisbet Memorial Trophy for good camping went to the Hawk patrol under Patrol Leader Leonard Burden. Three excellent campfire programs served to uncover a great deal of originality and talent in improvising and presenting skit. Our popular cook, Mr. Jack Ellis, recalled some of his Boer War experiences at one of the campfire programs.

On the Wednesday, Visitors' Day, parents of half the boys made the trip to camp to see scouting in action. Other visitors included District Scoutmaster Mr. Gordon Blewett and Sanitary Inspector Mr. F. Alcock.

Special thanks for making the camp a success go to Group Committee chairman Dr. D. L. McIntosh, Mr. R. Barkwill who supplied truck transportation, Mr. Percy Wilson for loan of the campsite and Mr. W. May and Mr. J. McLachlan for supplying vegetables.

... party-line pointers

Give up the line
...for emergency calls.

- Any emergency proves the true value of telephone service ... and, any day, an emergency may occur — either for you, or a party-line neighbour ... and at a time like this it's all-important that the line is available for calling ...
- If the telephone service is to be of any value at all ... the co-operation of party-line users is essential ... in fact, it is hard to imagine a good telephone neighbour not giving up the line ... to allow an emergency call through ...
- We don't insist that you use it sparingly ... we only ask that you use it sharingly!

$100 A MONTH FOR LIFE FROM AGE 60

This is the plan* — suppose you are not over 50, you make regular payments to the Sun Life of Canada. At age 60 you start receiving $100 a month for life or, if you prefer it, $17,149.00 in cash—both amounts can be increased by accumulating annual dividends. If you are over 50, benefits are available at a later date.

FOR YOUR FAMILY
Should you not live to the age of 60, $15,000 will be paid to your family on your death. *Slightly varied for women.

By completing the enquiry form below you can obtain details suited to your personal requirements. The plan covers all amounts of premiums from as little as $5.00 per month and the cash or pension can in most cases commence at age 50-55-60 or 65.

Express Yourself

I picked up a neighbor's son in my car the other day and drove him downtown to his first job. I could tell that he was quite nervous, and since we had a good deal of time I took him into a restaurant for a cup of coffee and a chat.

When I was a young fellow graduating from school (I never did get to college) a large proportion of the population was self-employed. Today things are different. Most young fellows today will be employees.

"Gee, I'm glad to know that," the young man said. "But how am I going to learn how to do these things?"

This question wasn't quite so easy to answer. In fact, I couldn't give him an answer just out of my hat. I promised him that I'd think about it and then write him some instructions. This is what I wrote:

"Dear Bill: I am attaching three items. The first is a political speech. The second is a small Bible. The third is a country weekly newspaper. Please read the front page of the weekly newspaper and underline all the nouns. You will find a lot of them.

"Now, Bill, doing these three things will not make you a fancy speaker or writer. But it will make you effective and will keep you from being gassy and mysterious! Good luck!"

Mid-Week Message

Put on the new nature, which is being renewed in knowledge after the image of its creator. (Colossians 3:10, R.S.V.) Read Romans 12:1-3.

In Japan, persimmons are our favorite fruit. In the unripe state they are very bitter; but on ripening they acquire a sweet taste. One eats them with great delight.

So long as we live away from Christ, we are bitter in our lives. How can we be appreciated when we rely too much on our own strength and neglect the worship of God? We need to grow in God.

Man has acquired ability to deal with atomic energy. Instead of using it for peace, he is in danger of using it for destructive purposes. World peace will come when we do away with the ungodly use of our knowledge and experience and "put on the new nature, which is being renewed in knowledge after the image of its creator."

Has not God made foolish the wisdom of the world? Wisdom is not in the things of the world, but in the knowledge of God.

PRAYER

O God, help us to remember that only through Christ are we able to be a new creation. Grant us Thy guidance to obey Thee with a humble heart, to adore Thee with a reverent mind, and to grow in Thy wisdom daily. In Christ's name. Amen.

Another Milestone . . . from acorns, mighty oaks

THE one combination guaranteed unbeatable is when a group of people can form a bond which will overcome minor differences of race, religion and social position to work for the common good.

The group which has accomplished this feat to probably the greatest degree is credit unionism and this week we are again afforded the pleasure of once again extending congratulations to the Summerland Credit Union.

Although most people of Summerland draw their livelihood from the same source, their other interests are as widely diversified as can be found anywhere. But for the common welfare, they are united solidly under the umbrella of the Credit Union.

The membership total announced by the Summerland union on their 10th anniversary this week presents an interesting study. There are slightly more than 1,000 families in Summerland and the credit union reports membership of 1,187. That means that practically every family in the district is represented in the credit union and it is the most representative voice in the community.

The Summerland Credit Union has been chosen as the outstanding credit union in B.C. last year. This in itself is cause for considerable pride on the part of its membership but the fact they won the same distinction the previous year—and are the first to win it twice—makes it permissible for any member to boast about his credit union without any attempt at modesty.

For a start, we'd like to suggest that it's regrettable there isn't a Canada-wide competition for achievement honors so Summerland could claim "tops" in a much wider field. And that goes for Texas and California, too.

Since the credit union was started in Summerland 10 years ago, it has loaned out to members, $1,300,000. Translated into doctor bills paid, homes built, businesses started, orchards financed, and hundreds of financial problems both large and small solved, it adds up to one of the finest agencies operating in the district.

The credit union also teaches a valuable lesson that the solution of almost any problem can be found in a co-operative approach. It teaches a lesson that could well be followed by the nations of the world. If the same spirit of co-operation could be attained on the international level, problems of nations living side-by-side would soon dissolve.

The credit union is a valuable asset to the community because profits accruing from the operation stay right in the community in the form of dividends to members.

All of which makes us happy to have the credit union as a part of our community.

Communist Line . . . even the dupes grow dubious

ONE can't help but be impressed by the staggering effrontery of Canadian communists. In a quarter-page advertisement in the June 30th issue of the Toronto Globe and Mail, the Labor-Progressive party extended Canada Day greetings to Canadians. The title of the spread was the current Canadian communist slogan "Put Canada First!"

ritory, and we must take vigorous steps to counteract them." Part of the copy of the advertisement reads as follows: "We face a frightful depression—Made in U.S.A., because Canada is being turned into a hinterland for Yankee raw materials, because our trade is almost exclusively down south and because wholesale dumping of shoddy goods from New York and Chicago is strangling our own industries. Washington is exporting unemployment to Canada and already over 500,000 are without work."

Other Opinions

What Other Editors Say

The Police Were Right

This newspaper believes that the Mayor of New Westminster and his police commission were wrong in their attitude towards the recent incident in that city when police fired on a car going eighty miles an hour and wounded one of its occupants.

From this distance it would appear that the police officers involved were quite justified in firing on that car. The driver had refused to stop when ordered to do so; he had crashed a road block and was only caught after a long chase at high speeds through the streets. It is, of course, unfortunate that a passenger in the car was injured, but that is the risk people take when they consort with people who have no respect for the law.

We do not believe that police should be encouraged to shoot on the slightest provocation. We do not believe they should be encouraged to become trigger-happy. But we do believe they should be permitted to shoot under justifiable circumstances and the New Westminster case would appear to be just that.

Any driver who does not stop when ordered to by the police is open to suspicion. If he has nothing to hide, he will stop; if he refuses to stop obviously he wants no contact with the police for some good reason.

This is particularly true if the driver careens through the streets at eighty miles an hour and breaks through road blocks erected to stop him. What, under such conditions, are the police to think? Who is in that car? An escaped convict? A burglar? A murderer? No matter who, it is someone who wants to avoid the police.

Shoot certainly—to stop the car. At any intersection that speeding car may crash another and kill half a dozen innocent people. Better, much better, to shoot and risk injury to persons in that car than to have a tragic smash involving others.

The police were right and instead of being censured the officers should have been commended. They were doing their duty and they were protecting human life.—Kelowna Courier.

Wearry of Gloomy Prophets

I am becoming weary of those gloomy prophets who foresee "a deep rift," "a threatened breach," "a serious misunderstanding," between the United States and Britain whenever there is a difference of opinion on complex international problems.

Events since the year 1914 have surely proved that any unity which exists between Britain and this country is based upon spiritual and permanent fundamentals or it would not have lasted so long.

It has withstood the test of two world wars as well as facing some of the most difficult problems which have ever been submitted for international discussion.

It is this same unity, which in spite of the liquidation and overturning of many nations, still stabilizes and holds and will hold the British Commonwealth together. Such a unity expects to give as well as get and welcomes all others nations which are willing to conform to these fundamental rules from which it derives its strength and permanency.—A. Hamer Hall in the Christian Science Monitor.

Express charges on Okanagan fruit to prairie points was as much as 240 percent higher than for similar service in the east and freight rates ran as high as 100 percent over the rate charged for transportation from Ontario fruit centres, according to G. Nearly 10,000 persons who lined Penticton's Main street and the approach to Queen's Park, greeted with loud acclaim the splendid Summerland float which headed the monster Penticton and District Peach Festival parade. Summerland's lovely gladioli float was given the place of honor at the front of the community floats and immediately behind the color party and members of the Royal party.

Discovery of Nonsense

G. K. Chesterton declared that the discovery of nonsense was the most notable discovery of the Victorian Era. He came into Fleet Street at the end of that era and he continued the discovery well into the twentieth century with his light verses and paradoxical prose.

Chesterton was referring to Lewis Carroll's Alice in Wonderland and Edward Lear's limericks as classic examples of Victorian nonsense. But W. S. Gilbert, in his Bab Ballads and his libretti to Sullivan's operas, was at once the greatest jester and nonsense writer of the nineteenth century. He poked fun at kings and queens, at peers and policemen, and made a laughingstock of political quacks and highbrow artists and poets who "walk down Piccadilly with a sunflower or a lily in your medieval hand." If Gilbert were living today he would have abundant erady-made material for nonsense ballads and comic opera.

Looked at in the light of history, the last great was nonsensical from the beginning. Hitler and Mussolini were monomaniacs who hypnotized the German and Italian people out of their senses, and fooled British statesmen, with the exception of Churchill, into a scared parafism. To further historians it will appear incredible that two hare-brained fanatics, who strutted and talked like comic characters in a play, should have been permitted to seize such power and plunge the world into the worst war of all time.

Gilbert, thou shouldst be living at this hour! What a riot of wit and humor the author of Pinafore and The Gondoliers could have with the nonsense in the world today. The composition and proceedings of the United Nations makes nonsense of the very name of that organization, with one of its principal member nations waging a cold war in Europe, and hot wars in the Far East, while Vishinsky uses the platform at Lake Success as a broadcasting station for Communist propaganda. What could be more ludicrous than the presence in the United Nations' councils of delegates from a power that is openly in league with and supplying arms to a country that is at war with the United Nations? Being an astute lawyer, Vishinsky is well aware of the irony of the situation, and his satirical squibs at the western allies indicate that he is laughing at us up his sleeve.

The peculiar feature of Victorian nonsense was that the British were laughing at themselves, as revealed in the novels of Dickens and Thackeray, in the pages of Punch and in the stories of such writers as Jerome K. Jerome. During the same period Mark Twain and other humorists in the United States saved the American people from taking themselves too seriously. A revival of humor in the States is long overdue. The excesses of McCarthyism are getting funnier and funnier, and that monstrous word, "un-American," is in danger of indicting most Americans and Canadians also of some sort of misdemeanor. O for the saving grace of a sense of humor! It might even save mankind from the terrible nonsense of the atomic bomb.

The Lighter Side

Lady (at party): "Where's that pretty maid who was passing out cocktails a while ago?" Hostess: "Oh, are you looking for a drink?" Lady: "No, I'm looking for my husband."

Silly Question—The local driver had a delivery to make far out in the suburbs, over bad roads, and was busy digging out with a spade when the supervisor drove by.

"Ha! Stuck in the mud, eh?" he inquired. "Oh, no," replied the toby man. "My engine died and I'm digging a grave for it."

A mother was telling her six-year-old son about the golden rule. "Always remember," she said, "that we are here to help others." The youngster mulled this over for a minute and then asked: "Well, what are the others here for?"

Bill Jones, bought himself a new car but was quite backward in making payments to the finance company. He got so far behind that the company wrote him this sharp note: "Dear Mr. Jones: What would your neighbors think if we came to your house and repossessed your car?"

This was easy for Jones. The finance company got his reply: "Gentlemen: I took the matter up with my neighbors and to a man they said they thought it would be a lousy trick."

Three Kamloops' Homers Spell Defeat for Macs

Kamloops Sunday put an end to Summerland's winning streak in a run-happy match which saw Macs lead off with eight tallies in the first inning and then lose their lead and game as league-leading Okonots got into full stride and finished up ahead 14-10.

Macs got in their hits in the first inning against MacKinnon who allowed seven runs without an out before he was pulled and replaced by Gatin who allowed only one more in that frame and then held the locals off for the rest of the game, allowing two runs in the seventh, while his teammates picked up lost ground.

Macs seemed to come apart at the seams in the tight spots and a total of three home runs and six errors at the wrong times cost them the game.

Hal Cousins went all the way on the mound for the Macs and was touched for 14 hits.

Macs found it easy going against the northern players in the first when Weeks led off with a walk, Bob Weitzel reached base on Kamloops' lone error by Len Fowles and then Taylor singled to load the bases. Weeks and Weitzel reached home the easy way when Kato walked and Hooker was hit by the pitcher. Aikin and Daryl Weitzel singled in turn to bring home Taylor and Kato. Gatin took over at that point and started off by striking out Gould but then Cousins brought home Aikin with a single. Weeks was out at first on a play from Gatin to Buchanan and then Bob Weitzel singled to bring home brother Daryl and Cousins. The big merry-go-round ground to a stop then when Taylor was caught out at first.

A repeat performance by Kamloops looked as though it might be in the cards when Saklofsky led off and ties into the second pitch for a two-base clout into left field. Beecroft walked and Slater loaded bases with a single. Saklofsky came in when Fowles hit a long fly to centre field but Slater was taken out trying to make second when Ling laid down a fielder's choice. Buchanan hit a double to bring home Beecroft but Ling was out trying to make home.

Evenson scored in the second, and in the third a combination of a base on balls, a hit and three errors gave runs to Beecroft and Slater.

A pair of home runs in the fourth closed the distance for Okonots in a hurry and brought in a total of five runs to put them in the driver's seat. Len Fowles started off with a single but he was taken out on Gatin's fielder's choice. Saklofsky singled and then Beecroft cleaned up with a homer to left field. Slater took a single and then Jack Fowles clouted the pitch into right field for a second circuit hit.

Sixth inning saw McDonald and Buchanan both score on errors.

Geordie Taylor's homer into right field with Bob Weitzel on base raised Mac's hopes of a victory again but that was the end of scoring for the locals. Buchanan in the eighth scored the fourth home run of the day with bases empty but Len Fowles ended the scoring after he was it by the pitcher, stole second and was brought home by Saklofsky's single.

Conditionally Okay Adding Apartment

A request by T. B. Young for a building permit to construct a three-room apartment at the rear of the Quality Cafe on Hastings Road received conditional approval from the council at the meeting Tuesday.

Sanitary Inspector Fred Alcock reported by letter that drainage bed was adequate to accommodate the additional load.

Other question raised regarding the construction of living quarters at that point was the fire hazard involved.

Reeve Atkinson stated he had inspected the location in company with Building Inspector Roy F. Angus, Fire Chief Ed. Gould and Councillor Butler and he informed Mr. Young that council approval would be forthcoming provided sheds to the rear of the cafe were moved further back on the property, the higher of the two cut down in height and the sheds stuccoed. When this work is completed, building permit will be issued for the construction of the living accommodation.

BERT BERRY'S Fishing News

Okanagan Lake has been pretty good this last week. Trollers have not landed any big fellows but fish up to 3 1/2 lbs. have been caught. The number of Kokanee being caught this year is increasing, in fact right now in cases have been better than trout. Kokanee (land locked salmon) up to 2 1/2 lbs. were caught. Best troll right now seems to be the Davis Lake Troll. The casters and fly men have been doing very well on grasshoppers and flies, up to 2 1/2 lbs. caught this way.

Fish Lake Camp reports all favorable from here again. Fish Lake itself still OK for easterns fishing with minnow or worm. Limit catches of good sized fish from all upper lakes of this chain.

Headwaters Camp still satisfied reports from here. Very nice catches were made here over the last week with both fly, casting and trolling being successful.

Silver Lake was OK last week. Fish up to 17" were caught trolling and fly fishing.

Glenn Lake: Some very nice 2 lbs. caught here last week fly fishing on the late evening rise. A brown type nymph fished about 6 inches down was getting best results.

Brenda and McDonald Lakes a couple of reports from here, best results were trolling deep with brass troll.

Shannon Lake: Bass and perch fishing good. It is getting hard to land the larger bass now as they hit for the weeds and tangle the line.

Oyama Lake: Fair fishing here with quite a few larger sized ones caught both on troll and fly.

Boleen Lake Camp: Boleen was fair with a fair amount of fish landed up to 1 1/2 lbs. Arthur was OK and at Spa one 5 1/2 lbs. was landed.

Kettle River: Some nice sized fish were taken here on the green ridge. Some too large to handle. Water still high.

Buries Best Since '49 Late Season Lateness

By ALEC WATT
District Horticulturist
Data indicate that to date the 1954 fruit season is one of the best experienced in the past 15 years. Despite the weather, fruit crops have been developing fairly well.

In Summerland the 1954 cherry crop was the largest since 1949. The quality of the fruit was high and the amount of splitting was relatively low. In many orchards the cherry trees are now badly infested with rust mites and the leaves have taken on a curled bronzed appearance. This mite is almost microscopic in size and requires at least 10 power magnification to be seen at all.

The harvesting of Wenatchee Moorpark apricots is just about over and cannery apricot varieties are now being picked. Due to the spring frosts the set on Moorpark was light but the fruit was of good size and quality.

Spotlight, Redhaven and some Rochester peaches are now mature. V peaches are still several days away from picking. This is the first year that many growers have had fruit on their young Spotlight and Redhaven peaches. Observations this year have confirmed that Spotlight, developed by the Summerland Experimental Station, has the edge in bud hardiness over other varieties in the early peach group.

Bartlett pears are sizing well but here again the late April frosts reduced the set on the lower limbs of many trees. Flemish and Anjou appear to have a heavy crop. Summerland pear tonnage may be close to that of last season. Harvesting of the crop will be later with many Bartletts not maturing until September.

The burning question with prune growers at the moment is whether or not the prunes will shrivel as they did last year. A heavy late drop is now occurring in many orchards but it is too early to tell much about shrivel.

The apple crop is sizing well. Some orchards have been infested with mites. European red mite and rust mite are the chief offenders. Apple scab which has been reported all over the Okanagan this year has made a belated appearance in Summerland, but is confined to a small area so far. It is also present in orchards at Peachland and Westbank. No other disease of fruit trees is causing as much concern in the valley as is scab. The disease is favored by warm, rainy weather. It has been present in Southern Okanagan orchards for the past three years but only this year has it been seen in any quantity here. The disease causes irregular black scabby spots on the fruit and brownish black raised spots on the leaves. Only apples are affected. McIntosh are particularly susceptible.

Any growers noticing symptoms of this kind on their trees should report their findings to the District Horticulturist's office at West Summerland.

Credit Union Head Wires Congratulations

Marking the opening of remodeled quarters last week, along with the 10th anniversary, congratulations of president of the B.C. Credit Union League, J. H. Corsbie, were received in a telegram by the Summerland Credit Union.

Mr. Corsbie's telegram read: "On behalf of the 95,000 members in the credit union movement in B.C., we extend to Summerland and District Credit Union our heartiest congratulations on this occasion. The Summerland and District Credit Union has clearly proved itself to be an important method of mutual helpfulness among many groups of people. It has made a significant contribution not only to the welfare of your own community but to the entire Credit Union movement. Our congratulations and good wishes on the opening of your new office accommodation."

Summerland Kiwanis Club Planning Program to Mark National Kids' Day

Kid's Day, sponsored by Kiwanis International, will be celebrated Saturday, September 25 in Summerland and in hundreds of other communities throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska and Hawaii using the theme—"Build For Tomorrow."

Nick Solly, President of the Kiwanis Club, said that although this is the sixth annual observance of Kid's Day, it is the first year of sponsorship exclusively by Kiwanis International and its member clubs throughout North America. He further stated that work on this sixth annual celebration is well under way and it is expected that more clubs than ever before will participate in this annual activity for youth.

Frank McDonald pointed out that youth work has been a major aim of Kiwanis International throughout the thirty-nine years of its existence. The Kid's Day program, one of Kiwanis' major activities for youth, focuses attention on this important work of the organization on one day, and permits each club to develop a local program best suited to its community while integrating it with the club's year-round program for youth.

Last year over a million two hundred thousand children were entertained on Kid's Day and Kiwanis clubs raised more than $800,000 for their youth service work. Nick Solly stressed that these funds are retained in the communities where they are collected and used entirely in local youth projects. He pointed out the Kiwanis club's food supplies were given to the Central Welfare Committee to show how Kiwanis uses locally collected funds to benefit the entire community. Frank McDonald, Chairman of the Kid's Day committee, indicated that further details will be announced in the near future. He urged all citizens to wholeheartedly support Kid's Day as they have in past years and join with other civic-minded residents of Summerland in observing this day set aside especially for helping youth.

At Kemano, B.C., Prince Philip pauses long enough to show bewilderment at the array of dials on a control panel of the newly constructed power station there. He displayed considerable technical knowledge as he toured the Kitimat and Kemano plants, but showed no desire to toy with the controls of the biggest power development in the world built by private enterprise.

29th Annual Next Wednesday

Honor Memory of Late W. R. Powell With Flower Show Memorial Trophy

Memory of the late W. R. Powell will be perpetuated by flower growers of the district. New trophy contributed by friends is a large silver rose bowl to be awarded annually to the exhibitor winning the most points in the Summerland annual gladiolus and flower show.

The W. R. Powell Memorial Trophy will be up for competition for the first time next Wednesday when the 29th annual show will be staged in the high school auditorium.

Committee in charge of contributions and purchasing the memorial trophy consisted of E. H. Bennett, H. W. Brown and Reeve P. Atkinson.

This is the third memorial trophy offered in the annual flower competition. Others are to perpetuate the memory of Mrs. Magnus Tait and Dr. R. C. Palmer.

A record list of entries is expected for next week's show with 53 classes open to competitors. Showing will be from 3 to 9 p.m.

They're Nice to Hold In Any Card Game

The odds against holding four aces in a bridge hand are not nearly as fantastic as those against holding a perfect hand to do it twice in the same evening puts it into a definitely long-shot class.

Mrs. J. H. Lee-Grayson did it last week and there's a few poker players around Summerland who would like very much to know how it's done.

Propose Disaster Pool

Summerland Loses Representation On Tree Fruits Board of Governors

Summerland was left without representation on the board of governors of B.C. Tree Fruits Saturday when BCFGA Southern District Council nominated F. W. Laird of Penticton to fill the vacancy left by the death of W. R. Powell. Nominated to fill another post held by Mr. Powell was J. B. M. Clarke of Keremeos who was proposed as director of B.C. Processors. While these are only nominations, ratification by the industry is more or less automatic.

Other nominee for the board of governors was Eric Tait who lost out in the balloting by a single vote.

Mr. Laird is a school teacher in Penticton and also an orchardist and has taken an active part in the Penticton BCFGA local.

The council also considered establishment of a disaster pool within the industry to provide a fund for low-interest loans to growers under conditions such as the late spring frost this year.

The proposed scheme, if adopted, would be modeled after a similar fund operated by prairie farmers.

The plan, if instituted, will be for the protection of growers against crop hazards beyond their control.

A proposal which would mean virtual abolition of the pear pool was rejected by the district council. The resolution was that "all varieties should be put on the market as available and that Bartlett pears be handled in a separate pool."

Governor Gordon Wight told the meeting that machinery has now been obtained and experimentation is being carried out on a vacuum rack for Bartlett pears.

Local Student Awarded Bursary

Don Blacklock

A Summerland native son who two years ago was chosen for the Summerland UBC Alumni scholarship has now been awarded the IOOF Dr. Sanford Theological bursary.

He is Don Blacklock, son of Mrs. N. Blacklock, who this term will be entering his third year at UBC. After two more terms at UBC, Don plans to attend McMaster University for his theological degree.

He is at present at home on summer vacation.

During high school days in Summerland as well as being a diligent student, he took an active part in extra-curricular activities and was a member of the school debating team and in his final year was editor of the school annual.

The Dr. Sanford Memorial bursary is in memory of a former IOOF grand chaplain who held that office many years in the grand lodge. Recommendation of Don was by the local IOOF lodge.

Outlines Philosophy Of Theosophists

Formation of a lodge of the Theosophical Society in Summerland has aroused local interest in the philosophy and objectives of this movement. An outline of the society philosophy has been provided by Mrs. F. E. G. Plunkett who for many years, both here and in England, has been associated with the movement.

"The word theosophy is taken from two Greek words meaning God and wisdom. It is used by students of theosophy as meaning God's Wisdom. It is not a new theological conception; its teachings are age-old. Its teachings postulate the immanence of God and so endeavor to reconcile the apparent differences between material science and spiritual experiences; a reconciliation which is becoming more fully recognised by eminent scientists with every new discovery.

"Theosophy accepts and amplifies the principle of evolution; amplifies it by showing that mankind evolves spiritually as well as physically and that the death of the body is only the change necessary to the freeing of the spirit for further experience and progress in the achievement of the perfection to which Saint Paul taught all must attain (Eph. 4. 13.)

"Theosophy has no creed or dogma; therefore it has no heretics. It does not ask you to leave your church; it advises you to help it. It does not ask you to leave your religions many become theosophists

"Followers of any of the great religions may become theosophists because it teaches the fundamental unity of all religion and those who have lost their spiritual faith may find it again by the broadening of their viewpoint and by learning the theosophical explanation of customs and practices over which, for one reason or another, the churches draw a veil."

HOME FROM U.K.

Mrs. Mary Stewart returned this morning from a holiday spent in England.

Business Section Becomes Midway

"Best yet" was the label placed by Chairman Gerry Hallquist on the Kiwanis Street Carnival which Saturday night drew a crowd of more than 500 which turned West Summerland's main business section into a gay midway from 7 o'clock until nearly midnight.

Popular with more than 200 youngsters—and not a few adults—were the rides on the Trump giraffe and operator Scotty Ritchie, although an enthusiastic Kiwanian was not sorry to see the end of the line-up.

Games on the program included bingo, throwing rings, darts and other games of skill.

In the raffle, J. Jomori was winner of the table lamp, J. A. Read won the electric percolator and George Braniff the toaster.

Assisting in handling the event were Hilmy Smith, Doug Campbell, Joe Shealey, Ken Hoales, Frank McDonald, Ben Trafford and Jack Towgood.

LEAVES FOR HOME

Mrs. R. M. Harr left for Vancouver today after a three week's stay in Summerland.

Starting Tonight

Summerland Royal Trio to Attend Round of Peach Festival Events

Thousands of visitors are expected in Penticton this week-end for the international square dance jamboree which will highlight the annual Peach Festival to get under way tonight with the crowning of Ardell Gotz as Queen Val-Vadette VII and later the Queen's Crinoline Ball.

Representing Summerland at the festival functions will be Queen Marilyn Wade with her princesses Joan Macdonald and Lella Lewis. At noon tomorrow they will grace the Summerland Board of Trade float which committee members have stated will be radically different from designs of former years.

Summerland Band and also High School band will be among the six bands which will take part in the parade.

Three talented Summerland artists have been invited to take part in the "Finalists of Talent Contest" at Queen's Park tonight. This is to be part of the queen crowning ceremony. They are Mrs. Flora Bergstrom, Mrs. Ken Boothe and Clive Atkinson. All three performed before a large Penticton outdoor audience a few weeks ago when they appeared with the Summerland school band when it presented a concert in the band shell.

Trout Creek Community Association will also be entering a float again this year following a Mother Goose theme. Their "Old Women in the Shoe" theme last year was awarded second prize in the comic section. Stan Gladwell is designer of this year's entry.

More than 60 floats along with decorated cars, and bicycles and cowgirls and cowboys will be in the parade which will follow a route down Main street to Lakeshore, Winnipeg to Wade and Queen's Park.

Rotary Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition will be open tonight but official opening will be tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by O. L. Jones, MP.

One of the outstanding attractions at the exhibition will be "Elio" the famous Borden cow.

Wind-up of the three day event will be Saturday night when hundreds of square dancers will take part in the International Square Dance Jamboree on 15,000 square feet of plywood floor which has been laid for the occasion.

Carol St. Jean of Coalmont, B.C., presents gift for Princess Anne to His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh at Opening of Health Centre for Children on August 7th. Carol was burned last September 25th when she was baby sitting and a lamp exploded. Though Carol's clothes were on fire she succeeded in getting the five children out of the burning house.

Carol will be undergoing treatment at the Health Centre for Children for some weeks yet. With the Opening of the Health Centre for Children a new phase in the treatment of the acutely ill child and those who present diagnostic problems will rapidly develop at this Centre serves children in every part of the province.

THIRTY YEARS AGO— AUGUST 21, 1924

A mud slide at the usual spot north of Crescent Beach delayed return of those who attended the Kelowna Regatta. This was the third slide in one week.

When the bright glare of approaching lights blinded his vision, J. J. Embree's Ford car overturned off the Penticton road three miles south of town. Mr. and Mrs. Embree and child escaped with bruises and scratches, having to tear off the side curtains in order to escape from the upside down car. At the same spot, R. Smith, driving a heavy truck, nearly turned over when the bank gave way.

Col. B. Scott of Salmon Arm was appointed vice-president of the Associated Growers and BCFGA and was to represent the Associated in the English market.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Miller arrived from Vancouver to take over the transfer business of Bernard Taylor.

FIVE YEARS AGO — AUGUST 25, 1949

At the eleventh hour a "happy compromise" in the tangled relations between the fruit and vegetable industry and the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers Union (AFL) was effected when representatives of both sides were called together by the labor relations board, and a four-year agreement decided upon.

Directors of the Summerland General Hospital learned from a communication from the provincial department of health and welfare that the provincial government would assist by allowing one-third of the cost of new equipment additions to the hospital but doubted the necessity of a nurses' home addition.

B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. figured that 60 percent of the estimated peach crop had been handled, but the deal would continue at a strong pace for another ten days, at least. Bartlett's were nearing the finish line and Flemish were being picked generally.

Approval was given to a resolution passed by the South Okanagan Health Unit whereby provincial legislation would be sought so that all meat offered for sale should be passed for inspection first. It was stated that 25 percent of the meat sold in the Okanagan was not inspected.

Hard surfacing of the Sandhill road to Trout Creek was completed.

Summerland's 24th annual gladiolus and flower show was held.

Summerland softball girls captured the Rexall cup and the South Okanagan championship when they defeated Osoyoos by a 17-12 count.

Trade and the Curtain

Conviction in a British court of five men on charges of smuggling copper and brass behind the Iron Curtain is a reminder that although the British Government has been frankly interested in promoting East-West trade, it has also been punctilious in observing the agreed bans on strategic materials exports.

Frequently this conscientiousness has caused attacks on the government by Britons who have felt that London's enforcement of regulations has put British businessmen at a disadvantage with traders in other European countries. For example, one reliable spokesman for the businessman's point of view stated that he had seen being laid in a Far Eastern country cables of European manufacture. Originally British manufacture were offered the order, but had been forced to forgo it because British authorities refused an export license. So it went to another country where enforcement was less rigid.

Americans should set such reports, and the convictions of copper and brass dealers, against widespread criticism of Britain for its interest in East-West trade. Britain looks on such trade as useful not only commercially but also politically—as a means of keeping contracts between East and West while governments seek by diplomatic means to find a basis for peaceful coexistence.

Whether Americans can share this view or not, they should note that while the bans remain the British observe them.—Christian Science Monitor.

With The Fringe On Top

"Pro-Strike Feeling Said Strong Among 135,000 Railwaymen." This headline in large type appeared over a Labor News story in the Toronto Daily Star, July 24, referring to nation-wide voting by non-operating employees of Canada's four major railways. The story stated that the actual results of the voting would not be known until after August 2, "the deadline by which members of the 14 unions involved must have their ballots returned to their own unions." So that there were still nine days to go before the voting was complete. The forecast was said to be based on "early and unofficial reports" which indicated a "strong pro-strike sentiment among rail workers."

The purpose of issuing such an "unofficial" forecast was obviously to influence the remaining votes in favor of what the news story described as "a crippling nation-wide strike that could engulf the nation at any time after August 2." In the face of growing unemployment in Canada, it seemed to me incredible that 135,000 railway workers, who were enjoying full-employment, would vote in favor of putting themselves out of work and crippling the nation-wide transportation systems, which in turn would throw hundreds of thousands of other Canadians out of employment. That to me was utterly incredible, and I cannot believe that even a minority of those 135,000 rail workers could for a moment entertain such a "sentiment." But the power of suggestion is mighty, and most people like to be on the side of the majority. Especially, as in this case, they are told that a vote in favor of a strike would not necessarily mean that the "rail strategy board would call a snap vote in the event a strike was sanctioned."

In other words, the present vote was merely in the form of a threat to "cripple" and "engulf the nation" if the union leaders failed to gain their demands in the "last-ditch bargaining sessions . . . before the trains roll to a halt," as the labor story casually puts it. "Roll to a halt" is a neat and innocuous description of what would be a social and economic calamity for the Dominion. And why and for what are we put under this threat of national disruption?

We are told that no wages are involved in the present dispute. The union demands are said to be confined to "fringe benefits," including wages for unworked statutory holidays, longer vacations for veteran workers, penalty pay for Sunday work and provision for sickness, which will cost the railways additional millions of dollars a year. The companies rejected them entirely on the grounds of inability to pay.

The railways, which include a big government-owned system, should know what they can afford, and those demands "with the fringe on top" would have to be paid for with money that the lines are not earning. A large portion of those millions of dollars would have to be paid by the taxpayers who are already over-taxed. The many thousands of men who are at present unemployed would be happy to change places with those railway workers without any fringes at all.

Laws Not Answer . . . intelligent action needed

To speed things up, we can eradicate anything we don't like. This occurred last week in the United States when the senate approved a bill outlawing the Communist party. No doubt there will be a loud clamor in this country for similar legislation in Canada.

If legislation could effectively stop the growth or activities of Communism in this country, we would be the first to join the clamor for it, but a more ineffectual method of dealing with the problem is difficult to conceive.

With the Communist party operating legally in the country, there is an opportunity to keep track of at least some of its activities. Only a small portion of them, granted, but it at least calls on some of the membership to stand up and be counted. By driving them underground, as such legislation can only do, we have completely lost track of their activities.

The problems we face from Communism should not be taken lightly. While we hear from the Kremlin some pleasant-sounding noises about peaceful co-existence, we have heard enough of the Communist doctrine to know that the ultimate aim is world domination under that system. And while cold wars

Way to Stability . . . not by share-the-wealth

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister Pearson, addressing seventh International Conference of Social Work, says disaster will befall freedom and security of Western nations if they refuse to recognize need for economic improvements in underdeveloped areas of the world. Unlike leftist members of House of Commons at Ottawa, however, Mr. Pearson is clearly unwilling to embark on any international 'share-the-wealth' scheme that would impose and talk of peaceful co-existence go on, more and more people are being brought under domination of the hammer and sickle.

Just when the move will be made against the free countries of the western world is anybody's guess but it will come just as sure as death and taxes.

Meanwhile, it is the responsibility of our government and the governments of all the free nations of the world to take intelligent action to prevent any boring from within.

Outlawing the party may on the surface look like a bold move to stop Communism but it will accomplish absolutely nothing. Those of the party who don't go underground will only turn up again under a variety of different names.

By taking intelligent action, we mean that while we should permit the party to operate, we should still recognize it for what it is and not go on paving the way for it to spread propaganda. At the present time, Communists need only field a few candidates in an election and they are granted free radio time on Canada's publicly-owned CBC to lay the groundwork for the anarchic plans.

That doesn't make us too intelligent.

What Other Editors Say

The System Or Governments? Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan is reported to have said that capitalism had dealt effectively with the problem of production but had failed miserably to solve the problem of distribution. This general statement of the Premier should not be allowed to go unchallenged. It is true that the level of production in Canada is at an all-time high, but as we see that situation, outside of grains there is little or no complaint about distribution. The fact of the matter is, never at any time in the history of this country have people been so well off and the standard of living so high.

Now in regard to grains — who is responsible for the world surplus today? It is not our governments and not the capitalistic system? And if the capitalistic system is so wrong we cannot understand the policy of the Saskatchewan government towards oil development in that province and the making of it "one of Canada's most important commercial and industrial 'centres' as the result of such development"—Creston Review.

Hunters Must Examine Conduct In The Field

This week farmers and sportsmen of the Okanagan held a roundtable conference in an all-out effort to improve relations between the two groups. Landowner-hunter relations in the Vernon area at all events, are currently at their lowest ebb.

Perhaps out of Sunday's meeting, in a determined spirit of co-operation and willingness to recognize the other fellow's rights and privileges, will come a new understanding and an end to the bickering that has marked the desire of the hunter to shoot his pheasants and the fear of the farmer for the safety of his stock.

Very much to the point in an editorial appearing in the bulletin of the game department of our southern neighbor, the State of Washington:

The esteem and mutual respect with which one person may regard another is not something which can be measured in dollars, nor can money alone bring about a friendly relationship based on these two qualities of human feelings.

Several years ago the organized sportsmen of this state started an intensive program to bring about amicable relationship between sportsmen and landowners. The need for this effort was great, since the "No Trespassing" signs were blooming over the pastures and farming communities like dandelions in the spring. This department has also worked hard on this educational effort, and spent many thousands of dollars in its furtherance. There is no question but that in the long run everyone has felt well repaid for the efforts and money expended, since today a closer alliance exists between the man who hunts and fishes, and the man who owns or lives on the soil of our rural regions.

But as an old adage says, "There is always one rotten apple in a barrel," and this metaphor applies particularly to the Farmer-Sportsman relations situation. The spoiled apple contaminates and ruins those surrounding it, just as one act can curd a smile and handshake into a feeling of antagonism towards all sportsmen.

A Seattle man, accompanied by several friends, recently invaded the property of a San Juan Island landowner. He filled his creel with trout from a small pond which had been privately stocked with fish bought and paid for by the landowner. When asked to leave, the angler became abusive and threatened to "beat up" the property owner. Since he was wearing a revolver, his threatened attitude caused the landowner to seek out the sheriff to assist in his eviction.

Before the sheriff's arrival, the angler had moved on to another farm and began hunting rabbits. His actions caused the second farmer to also order him off his property and the same scene occurred, with the angler-hunter making threats to do bodily harm to his unwilling host.

When finally located in Friday Harbor, the aggressive "sportsman" was arrested and fined $100 of which $50 was suspended. Unfortunately, this still does nothing to soften the animosity of many landowners in the region towards ALL sportsmen.

It is a sad thing that one man by such conduct can antagonize a whole community against sportsmen as a class. It is extremely unfortunate that all of us who love to hunt and fish must be penalized because of occasional situations like this.

We should all carefully examine our own conduct in the field, and also constantly assist in the education of our less fortunate fellow beings who have not learned the simple rules of gentlemanly actions.—Vernon News.

intolerable strain on economic resources and living standards of the West and at same time hold scant promise of achieving any useful results in the backward nations of Asia.

Evidence that this is so lies not only in Parliament's steadfast refusal to accede to CCF demands that Colombo Plan contribution be increased to many times the present annual appropriation of $25 million, but also in Mr. Pearson's own wise assertion that "self-help is the foundation of sound philanthropy."

Most urgent need of countries of Southeast Asia is not unrestricted distribution of Western largesse but rather the adoption of those principles of economic conduct which underlie the high living standards enjoyed by Canada and the United States. Thoughtful people rightly regard as problematical the outcome of Colombo Plan and other efforts to teach backward nations technological 'know-how' unless there is a willingness at the same time on the part of the recipients to acquire the no less important economic 'know-how' which, for want of a better term, is known as capitalism.

March With Progress

With its order for new equipment sufficient to convert its main line transcontinental trains into shiny stainless steel streamliners, powered with diesel locomotives, the Canadian Pacific Railway is making a strong bid for renewed and enlarged train travel in this age of competition from air and highway transportation.

First of the new passenger cars on exhibit here evinced tremendous interest.

All air-conditioned, brightly and artistically finished in a distinctly Canadian style, with wired-in music and outside noise cut by the use of sound-insulating material, the new cars are said to be unsurpassed on the continent.

There was a wide variety of sleeping accommodation from wide berths up to double bedrooms with all facilities self-contained to be seen on the two cars on display here.

But what took everyone's fancy was the scenic dome. It would be hard to imagine a more delightful way to travel than seated in this quiet, soft-riding vantage-point with unrestricted view in all directions. Appreciation of the grandeur of the rugged Fraser and Thompson River canyons, the beauty of the rivers and lakes of the interior, and the magnificent and inspiring scenery of the snow-capped peaks of the Selkirk and Rockies would take on new proportions when viewed from the scenic dome.

This feature, available to passengers of all classes at no advance in rates on the new trains, will be an irresistible invitation to board the train and travel the breadth of Canada.—Kamloops Sentinel.

Mid-Week Message

The prayer of the upright is his delight. (Proverbs 15:8.) Read II Corinthians 10:1-7.

To a mill in Texas, a dealer in Mexico sent an order for a carload of lumber. After the last item, he intended to write the words "Rush Shipment." After studying his Spanish-English dictionary, he wrote the words, "Embark Violently."

Although the Mexican lumber dealer did not find the right words, the sales manager at the mill understood what he meant.

We recall what Jesus said about the publican who prayed simply, "God be merciful to me a sinner," and what He said of the malefactor who prayed, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." Both men felt their need of God and His forgiveness.

When we talk to God in prayer, we fear that our words are not eloquent enough and our sentences not correct. We should not hesitate, however, to talk to Him. What God expects of us is that we be sincere, honest, and appreciative in our petitions. He will understand, "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart."

PRAYER

We thank Thee, Father in heaven, for Thy many mercies, Thy many blessings, and Thy many benefits. We confess our sins, and ask that Thou wilt forgive our sins through Jesus Christ our Redeemer. In His holy name we pray. Amen.

Six Summerland Guides Back Home After Camp at Okanagan Centre

Six Summerland Guides were among the 40 who attended the South Okanagan Division Girl Guide camp at Okanagan Centre from Aug. 1-8. The guides attending the camp represented companies from Peachland to Keremeos.

Two of the Summerland Guides were appointed patrol leaders of their respective tents, Eleanor Raincock and Caroline Reid. The others were Vicki Cuthbert, Georgina Inglis, Irene Pennington and Nancy Graham.

Tow Campfire Girls from Wenatchee, Sue Hall and Jean Galen, were also in attendance. They were on a national exchange camping visit and slept under canvas for the first time. The pair were briefly house guests of Vicki Cuthbert and Irene Pennington.

On arrival at camp, the girls pitched tents on the beach overlooking the north end of Okanagan Lake. It was a special thrill to be using and erecting equipment, all brand new. Everything from the lowly paring knife up to the largest tent was bought this year with money earned and saved by Brownie Packs, Guide Companies, Rangers and local associations throughout the division.

Camp day commenced at 7:30 each morning, with cooks rising 15 minutes earlier. Each tent—there were eight—was assigned daily duties in rotation. These duties ranged from cooking and dishwashing to sanitary duties and rowing out into the lake for water.

Competition among the tents for tidiness and cleanliness ran very high and the tent leading in points for gadgets—tables, wash stands, shoe racks, clothes hangers and the like, all fashioned from limbs and twigs lashed with string—was led by Caroline Reid of the Summerland Company.

Ribbons were awarded at campfire each evening for outstanding patrol work.

Among the many activities which included swimming, hiking, stalking, tracking and nature rambles, was a gala sports day, including land and water sports, which proved very popular.

A masquerade was held during the last evening at camp with three Peachland Guides, Marilyn Inglis, Maureen Kaylor and Kay Mash, winning a subscription to the Canadian Guide for their portrayal of a colored mammy, pappy and baby. Two Pentiction Guides, Katherine Ann McKee and Shirley Trigg, also won prizes for their realistic dress as two cannibals.

A nature books was awarded by divisional commander Mrs. E. A. Titchmarsh to the company with the most outstanding log book. This was won by the Keremeos company.

A totem pole was painted and erected by Guides and Guiders at the obscure entrance to the camp to help anxious parents find their way more easily.

Commandant of the camp was divisional commander Mrs. I. Browne, Pentiction. Assistant commandant was divisional trainer Mrs. Bruce Blagborne, Summerland.

Other camp leaders were Mrs. F. McCague, Keremeos, camp quartermaster; Mrs. M. Miller, Cawston, assistant quartermaster; Miss D. Rowe, Pentiction, lifesaver; and Mrs. P. Sharpe, Pentiction, camp nurse.

Fruit Pie Fillings Simplify Work When Friends Call

Early settlers in their country homes made welcome all who chanced to pass and shared with them the food at hand. And so the experience of sharing food and drink around the cooking fire brought the satisfaction of companionship.

In entertaining, food always plays an important role. True hospitality should not deplete the food budget or exhaust the hostess, but rather should reflect her personality and ability to prepare and serve food attractively.

Fruit in its various forms, fresh or processed, lends itself to any form of refreshment. Fruit adds glamour to the most elaborate spread, but fruit also is very much at home for the most casual or impromptu gathering, large or small.

Fruit tea-time dainties are economical and easy to prepare. If the homemaker has processed some of her fruit as fruit pie filling, she then has the main ingredient for these tasty treats. Attractive tarts are made from apricot and peach pie filling, topped with strips of pastry or with meringue. Small baked tart shells filled with a mixture of cream filling and processed peach or apricot, topped with a cherry will give variety to a tray of these fancy pastries. The baked tart shells may be filled with plum pie filling then garnished with whipped cream, so easy to prepare and yet will bring you compliments from your guests. When making tarts, do not overlook the turnovers. Made with the fruit filling, they provide variety as well as being a favorite with the men folk.

A good quality, ready to use fruit pie filling, with its high percentage of fruit, attractive true fruit color and luscious fruit flavor, will supply the essential ingredient for these and many other attractive dainties. Serve them on your best cake plate garnished with frosted grapes.

Instructions for making canned ready-to-use fruit pie fillings are available from the Fruit and Vegetable Processing Laboratory, Experimental Station, Summerland, B.C.

"It's Astounding ...that your policy paid me more in dividends than I paid out in premiums"...

says Mr. R. B. Blyth.

Robert Bayne Blyth
4490 BROADALE ROAD, CLEVELAND 9, OHIO

25 January, 1954

The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada,
Waterloo, Ontario.

Gentlemen:

Let me express my deep appreciation of your promptness in forwarding the cheque in settlement of the quinquennial dividend on policy 53970. I want also to express my great gratification at the results of this policy, taken out by me when I lived in Victoria, B.C.

Not long after I took out the policy, it seemed advisable for me; for health reasons, to come to this country, where I have been ever since. Had I remained in Canada, I certainly would have bought more insurance with your Company, but living on this side of the line, I secured several policies from other companies. While I have been pleased with the records of some of these policies, none of them compares favorably with the one I have with The Mutual Life of Canada.

It happens that we have five children, for each of whom I took out a policy when they were in their teens—in five of the better companies in this country. But none of these policies show a record that compares favorably with the record of the policy I hold with you.

I presume you have the policy result before you. It is one of which you may be proud. To me, it is astounding that I should have received in dividends from the policy an amount more than equal to the total amount of the premiums I paid out—while the policy still offers the protection it always did. It is a marvellous record for which I am profoundly grateful.

Sincerely yours,

R. B. Blyth

You have full permission to use my letter of January 25, 1954, in any way you deem best. I shall be highly gratified if it can be used to call attention of a wider public to the advantages offered by your company.

News Letter

Expect Drop in Apricot Tonnage But Quality of Fruit is Higher

Summerland, Westbank and Peachland:
As reported August 10th: Since the issue of our last News Letter the weather has alternated warm and cool with an overnight rain falling on August 3rd and 4th. Since the weekend there has been a gradual improvement and today is quite warm.

The harvesting of cherries is now over and the crop has been the heaviest and of best quality since prior to the 1949 freeze. It has also been one of the latest cherry crops to be harvested in this district. The picking of Moorpark apricots is now proceeding but the fruit is maturing very slowly owing to the cool nights which have prevailed. Due to the light crop on most trees the apricots are large. In Summerland the tonnage of cannery apricots is expected to increase this year but Moorpark should be lighter, thus giving an overall tonnage slightly below that of last year. Peach plums are now being picked. Fisher peaches are about ready for harvesting in the Summerland area. Volume harvesting of peaches will not be reached for about ten days. Except for a few small areas where crops were reduced by spring frost, pears and apples are shaping up very well. Sizing is good despite the backward summer.

European Red Mite and Rust Mite continue to give trouble in some orchards. Apple scab has now been detected in Summerland but is confined to one small area. At Westbank this disease is more prevalent and is serious in several orchards which had not been given protective sprays. The McIntosh variety is the chief one affected so far. Preventative sprays are now being applied in this area as a deterrent to pin-point scab.

Vegetable crops are very slow this year and aphids have been widespread on all kinds of vegetables. Verticillium wilt and Streak have been detected in tomato crops and Rhizoctonia has been giving trouble in potatoes.

Kelowna:
As reported August 12th: The weather since the last report has been clear and warm with the exception of a rainy period on August 3rd.

Apples are sizing well and estimates have been revised upwards. Pears are sizing slowly. Fire blight is running in a few orchards. Prunes are showing signs of a late drop. The small apricot crop has been harvested. Orchard pests have been troublesome but the mites and aphids seem to be easing up now. New scab infections continue to show in McIntosh. Many growers have applied special sprays to obtain protection from pin-point scab.

Various vegetable crops moving in volume include celery, beets, carrots, fall onion. Silverskins have been pulled. Semi-ripe tomatoes are not yet moving in volume. A virus disease of cannery beans spread by aphid has affected many patches and will definitely cut the size of the crop.

Penticton, Naramata, Kaleden, Keremeos:

As reported August 10th: The weather has been generally dry and warm during the past two weeks. However, cloudy cool weather with some rain was experienced on August 3rd and 4th. Hail fell at Naramata about 2 a.m. on August 3rd and caused some damage to fruit crops. This damage was very spotty and the overall loss appears to be slight. In addition a violent wind storm struck at Cawston and knocked some fruit off the trees, especially Delicious apples and Bartlett pears.

Apricots are now moving in volume and are about at the peak in Penticton with Tiltens and Blenheim coming in now. Size and quality are considered good although in occasional lots the size is too large. Peach plums are about over. A few Fisher and Rochester peaches have just started but it is unlikely that picking of peaches will be general for some ten days. The pear crop is shaping up fairly well except that the fruit on the bottom parts of some trees are not sizing properly. Some drop is occurring on prunes and a narrowing of the stem end has been noticed in some cases which may be an indication that shrivel may again develop. The apple crop continues to appear promising and may exceed last year's production.

Tomatoes are moving from the Keremeos-Cawston area but, as yet, not in large volume.

The European Red Mite has finally been brought under reasonable control but Rust Mite is still active. The Green Apple Aphid congregate to various degrees of fineness. To the eye there is no evidence of crystals it just looks like cornstarch. Many consumers are a little confused about the difference between powdered, castor, berry or fruit sugar, and icing sugar. Powdered sugar, fruit sugar, berry sugar, castor sugar, are all the same thing, just very fine granulated sugar. Actually, the word "powdered" in the name is misleading, because these sugars are just very fine granulated crystals. The home economists want to point out that with powdered sugar no starch is added but, all icing sugar sold to consumers has a small amount of starch added to prevent caking. Our Food and Drug Regulations permit the use of five per cent starch in icing sugar but most manufacturers keep down well below that point because generally speaking starch costs more than sugar so there is no incentive to add more.

tinues to persist and aphids are general now on apricot trees. Fresh Apple Scab lesions have shown up on foliage, apparently brought on by the July 20th rain. Most of the Scab is found on terminal foliage which developed after spray applications and thus provides a potential for the spread of this disease should adverse weather occur. So far most of the fruit is clean.

Okanagan Falls, Oliver and Osoyoos:

As reported August 9th: The weather has been generally pleasant with little precipitation during the past two weeks.

Pacific mite and two-spot mite

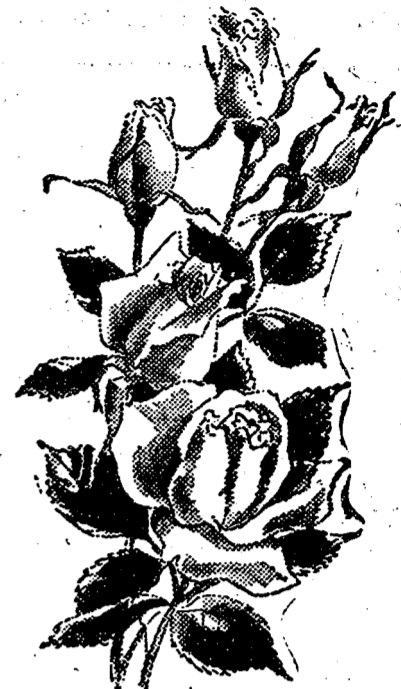

The Summerland Review
THURSDAY, AUGUST 19, 1954

have become quite numerous on some lots. European Red Mite and Rust mite are, however, the most troublesome pests to most growers. Green apple aphid and Woolly Apple aphid are also causing concern. A heavy drop has been experienced in prunes during the past two weeks, reducing the crop materially on some lots.

Picking of Rochester and Golden Jubilee peaches commenced several days ago. Peach harvest will commence within the week with Bartlett pear harvest probably the following week.

With the exception of winter damaged trees, the orchards appear very thrifty and vigorous. Due to the milder weather this year many trees have not formed their terminal buds as yet.

$100 A MONTH FOR LIFE FROM AGE 60

This is the plan* — suppose you are not over 50, you make regular payments to the Sun Life of Canada. At age 60 you start receiving $100 a month for life or, if you prefer it, $17,149.00 in cash—both amounts can be increased by accumulating annual dividends. If you are over 50, benefits are available at a later date.

FOR YOUR FAMILY
Should you not live to the age of 60, $15,000 will be paid to your family on your death. *Slightly varied for women.

By completing the enquiry form below you can obtain details suited to your personal requirements. The plan covers all amounts of premiums from as little as $5.00 per month and the cash or pension can in most cases commence at age 50-55-60 or 65.

Macs Come Out of Cellar In Final Scheduled Game

In their final game of the schedule Sunday, Macs handed Vernon a 10-5 defeat to pull out of the cellar position they have occupied throughout the season and left their opponents in the bottom spot.

Billy Eyre stretched out his strike-out performance with nine of the Canadians going down swinging at his offerings and he scored two of the Macs' runs. Hayashi pitched for Vernon and both hurlers allowed only five hits each. Hayashi, however, was more generous with bases on balls, handing out seven to Eyre's two.

Macs still have two postponed games to play before they hang up their spikes. One game is with Vernon and one with Princeton. Both games are away and dates have not yet been set.

Vernon opened scoring in the first stanza when Adams scored off a two base hit. In the bottom half Summerland took over the lead with runs by Bob Weitzel and Geordie Taylor. Chuck Aikin added another in the third and then in the fourth Canadians took over the lead again with four runs when they picked up the same number of hits. Scoring were Janicki, Monk, Jellison and Inglis.

Trailing 5-3 going into the bottom half of the fourth, Macs closed the gap to a single run when Daryl Weitzel scored off a base on balls.

Sixth inning saw Macs forge again into the lead with four runs.

Timely double by Bob Weitzel scored Vern Borton and Billy Eyre. Daryl Weitzel had already scored in this inning and brother Bob Stole home to make the fourth.

Eighth inning saw Borton and Eyre make the circuit again to clinch the match.

In 1953 Canadians bought from other countries $210 million worth of goods more than they sold to other countries; in the first four months of this year foreign purchases exceeded foreign sales by $117 million.

From 1945 to 1952 the number of Canadians voluntarily insured against hospital, medical or surgical expenses increased from 2,850,000 to 12,358,000.

SPORTS

Displaying his famous back-stretch kick, Roger Bannister of England crosses the tape to win the mile of the century, leading John Landy of Australia, world record holder, by five yards. Bannister's time was 3:58.8, which is eight-tenths of a second behind the world record. The feature race at the British Empire games was virtually a two-man effort, with both great milers leading the field of eight, practically all the way. Bannister, who trailed Landy for more than three-fourths of the race, caught him in the final lap. Canada's Rich Ferguson nailed down third spot in 4:04.6, the fastest mile ever run by a Canadian.

Do you need a FARM POND?

...then talk to 'MY BANK'

If you run short of water in the late summer on your farm, you can probably cure the trouble for good with a well-placed farm pond.

Built where it will catch the spring run-off, your farm pond would provide a ready supply of drinking water for your cattle and a useful reservoir in times of drought. It's a boon to any type of farming, as many Canadian farmers have already discovered.

Don't let a shortage of ready cash delay this or any other farm improvement that will make your farm a better farm. Discuss your needs with your local B of M manager. He'll gladly tell you what a Farm Improvement Loan can do for your farm — how it can boost your profits and save you time and work.

Fill — the filler — his full name is Farm Improvement Loan. Giving him a chance to help fix up your farm... he's economical, convenient, versatile. He can do almost anything in making your farm a better farm.

WORKING WITH CANADIANS IN EVERY WALK OF LIFE SINCE 1817

in the security of money
risked in British Columbia

Two big developments are making news in B.C.

Nothing but faith in the outlook for British Columbia... and confidence that the people of this province welcome risk capital and will treat it fairly... could explain today's great Kitimat and Frobisher ventures here.

Already Kitimat, as it begins production this month, represents a $270,000,000 investment. When fully completed, at least $600,000,000 will have been spent.

Frobisher plans for Atlin power development and metallurgical industries call for the eventual spending of some $700,000,000. About $270,000,000 is to be spent by 1962.

British Columbia, a rugged province where big money and big planning are needed to make work, wages and new opportunities for a growing population, is prospering with private enterprise. We shall go on growing mightily as we offer risk capital reasonable safety and the rewards of its vision and courage.

Attend Convention Local Witnesses

More than 50 Summerland Jehovah's Witnesses were in New Westminster Aug. 5-8 for a four-day bible convention and to hear leading members of the Canadian and world organization. Chief speaker was N. H. Knorr of Brooklyn, Watchtower president and others were Percy Chapman or Toronto and J. H. Nathan, also Toronto. Meetings were held in the New Westminster Queen's Park Stadium and drew more than 10,000 people. In charge of the cafeteria which served more than 8,000 meals each day of the gathering was Bill Warren of Summerland. Mr. Knorr, who has travelled throughout the world to direct the work and speak at conventions, pointed to scripture as present world conditions. "You are under pressure of both time and circumstances to take action. Avoid ending up where this world will end." Opening of the assembly program August 5 featured an address of welcome by chairman Percy Chapman of Toronto, Canadian Branch Manager of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society.

He declared "Queen's Park is now not so much a baseball park as a great Kingdom Hall. Our gathering is an assertion of our faith in God's word, of our love for its author, of our leadership by Christ Jesus, the King of the New World." The four day program of fellowship and instruction presented a versatile array of subjects covering all aspects of Christian living.

Mr. Nathan of Toronto gave valuable counsel on theoretic conduct, its role and success in family life among Christians. "Jehovah God", he stated, "has established a theocratic nation for His name's sake." "There will be a time when all families of the world will come into harmony and unity as one family and one religion and will recognize the one Sovereign, Jehovah God."

In the largest single baptism service held in this area, 205 new ministers were immersed Saturday at Bear Creek Park.

"The world or system of things is going its way and where it will end is certain, said Mr. Knorr. "For it there will be no turning." The president of the world organization of Jehovah's Witnesses said the Bible shows that this present "wicked system of things" does not recognize Jehovah God's great purpose and does not choose to learn of Him. "Therefore they will be destroyed at Armageddon", he said. "The crisis is not with respect to this world. The question is not whether, it will have a turn for the better or for the worse."

"There is no hope for this world. Its destruction is certain. Its violent death in the worse kind of trouble imaginable is the decree of the supreme power of the universe and is beyond recall. This is because the world does not look to God to learn of his announced way. They, in spite of religious claims, look only to themselves and their own military might and human machines for their kind of world peace."

The world leader of Jehovah's witnesses said that the question is which way the individual, man will go. The crisis means "judgment or decision" and now is the time of decision, according to the speaker.

Fishing News

Okanagan Lake: A little slower this week but picking up well now. No large fish caught this week, biggest landed was 3'ber. The trollers are having best luck this last week in the middle portions of the lake in the currents going north to south. And fairly deep. Most fish caught on surface are insect eaters and the deep ones are after minnows so wobblers and plugs best down deep. Kok-anee up to 2 lbs. are being taken and they seem to be about 50 per cent of the catch. Casting off the rocks not too good but should improve if weather cools as no fish of any size are close in to shore.

Fish Lake Camp: Still good on the upper lakes for Kamloops and fair fishing for easterns still fishing with minnow or worm.

Trout Creek Headwaters Camp: Very nice reports from here. This seems to be the best year for a long time for this camp, lots of fish caught and good sized ones.

Glenn Lake: Nice fly fishing here. The late evening rise the best, the large ones are getting choosy but can be persuaded.

Garnet Valley Dam: A couple of nice catches of easterns taken last week with minnows.

Brenda and McDonald: Slow but brass troll are getting some large ones.

Shannon Lake: Good perch and bass fishing here. Last Sunday blue files for bait was working best. Tec-Pee Lakes: Very nice reports here from two parties. Very nice sized ones being landed with flat fish.

Saving money... and writing cheques

A bank offers you two types of deposit account, Savings and Current.

If your main purpose is to save, to accumulate funds, it's good to have a Savings account.

If you write cheques frequently, you will like the many advantages of a Current account.

The money you leave in a Savings account earns interest, and your bank book gives you an up-to-date, continuing record of your financial progress. If your funds are active, with frequent deposits and withdrawals, a Current account provides a special service; a monthly statement, together with your cancelled cheques—useful as receipts and a ready reference for budgeting, bookkeeping and other purposes.

Kiwanis Bursary To Bill Krause

Summerland Kiwanis Club this week announced Bill Krause has been chosen for the Kiwanis bursary which is being awarded for the first time this year.

The bursary is a grant to be awarded annually by the local Kiwanis Club to a Summerland student who shows academic promise and selection is by the university scholarship committee.

Bill Krause is son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Krause, Prairie Valley, and was a member of this year's graduation class at Summerland High School.

Field Day Jinxed, Executive Decides

After trying unsuccessfully for nearly four months to arrange a field day for Summerland orchardists, local BCFGA executive has decided to throw in the sponge and abandon the idea for this year.

Following the successful orchard tour last year, it was decided the orchard tour would be held in the spring this year. Late frost and rain conspired to upset these plans and as each new tentative date was set since then, the freakish weather which has upset all normal routine has inevitably caused postponement.

Latest date set was Sept. 4 but with indications that orchardists will be busy picking peaches, apples, pears and prunes all at once about that time, executive yesterday decided to cancel it out for this year and hope for a little more co-operation from the weather for a spring field day next year.

Naramata Exhibitor First Winner Of W. R. Powell Memorial Trophy

Kenneth McKay of Naramata went home last night with five of the eight trophies offered in the 29th annual Summerland Horticultural Society flower show and with the collection of silverware he took the W. R. Powell Memorial trophy which was offered for the first time this year for the exhibitor receiving the highest total of points.

Other trophies won by Mr. McKay were the C. Napier Higgin cup for annuals, the Noca trophy for dahlias, Mrs. Magnus Tait Memorial bowl for arranged bowl and the P. E. Knowles cup for six-foot display.

Other trophies went to Summerland exhibitors. J. S. Mott received the W. H. Malkin cup for dahlias; W. G. Snow the J. W. Jones cup for gladioli and E. H. Bennett the Dr. F. C. Palmer Memorial bowl for begonias.

Following are the winners in the various classes:

Copies of the voters' list may be seen at Daniel's Store or at The Review office and persons wishing to register may obtain registration cards at either of these places. Harry Hackmann has been appointed returning officer for the plebiscite.

There are now about 2,050 names on the polling lists of Summerland and West Summerland but with polling day falling on a Wednesday when stores are closed all day, voting is expected to be quite light.

The plebiscite is being held at the request of the Summerland municipal council. The liquor licensing area, a plebiscite will be held before any licenses are issued if the municipal council request it or 35 per cent of the voters sign a petition requesting it.

This will be the first time 19-year-old will be qualified to vote. The act reducing the eligible voting age from 21 to 19 was passed by the legislature since the last election. All those falling within this group however, will have to first register since their names did not appear on the previous list.

Four types of outlets will be voted on in the plebiscite and four questions will appear on the ballot. The questions will be:

(a) Are you in favour of the sale of beer, ale, and stout only under a public-house licence for consumption on licensed premises? (Note:—A public-house licence will be similar to the present beer-parlour licence.)

(b) Are you in favour of the sale of beer, ale, stout, and wine only under a dining-room licence for consumption with meals on licensed premises? (Note:—Dining-room licences will be granted to hotels, restaurants, clubs, railway-cars, steamships, and resorts.)

(c) Are you in favour of the sale of liquor under a dining-lounge licence for consumption with meals on licensed premises? (Note:—Dining-lounge licences will be issued principally to what are commonly known as cabarets, and night clubs.)

(d) Are you in favour of the sale of liquor under a lounge licence for consumption on licensed premises? (Note:—Lounge licences will be issued to cocktail-bars. They will be granted only to clubs, hotels, resorts, railway-cars, and steamships.)

Local CD Efforts Draw Official Praise

Enthusiasm of the Summerland civil defence organization has come to official notice through the reception exercises carried out here several weeks ago and deputy civil defence co-ordinator J. A. McCarter at Victoria writing to Col. J. H. Horn at Kelowna expressing appreciation of his department for the effort carried out here.

"This is a splendid example of what can be done in the matter of civil defence organization and training when there is proper direction and willing co-operation by people in the community," writes Mr. McCarter. He added: "Will you please convey to Captain Temple, Mr. Alstead and those who participated in the exercise the congratulations and appreciation of those of us at the provincial civil defence office for their fine contribution to the progress of civil defence in British Columbia."

Mr. McCarter also notes that an outline of the exercise has been sent on to the federal co-ordinator in Ottawa.

Loot Total $250

Believe Legion Break Work of Professionals

For the third time in little more than six months, Summerland Legion was target for thieves and latest break last Thursday night provided loot totalling $250 from the safe which was smashed open.

The break is believed to have occurred at 3 o'clock Friday morning and entry was gained through a back window. Inside the building a panel was broken to gain entry to the canteen where the safe was located. The safe was purchased after the last theft earlier this year.

Youthful Majorettes To Compete at Coast

A group of youthful Summerland baton twirlers Saturday will be in Vancouver to take part in a drum majorettes competition against entries from all over B.C.

The youngsters have been training for several months under direction of Yvonne Polesello who will be accompanying them and who will be entered in the singles competition.

In the group will be Carol Barwick, Louise Shannon, Mitsi Jomori Shirley Anderson, Phyllis Young and Elsie Karlstrom.

Competitions will be staged on the platform at the Kitilano pool and winners will appear that evening on the show at the PNE.

Transportation to Vancouver is being provided by Kiwanis and they are being accompanied by Mrs. Lloyd Shannon.

Two top prize-winning floats in the community section of the Peach Festival parade last week were those representing Summerland. Top picture shows the Trout Creek Community Association float which won first prize with its Mother Goose theme and bottom is the Board of Trade float which transported Summerland's queen and royal party in the parade. On the Trout Creek float, holding an unidentified bespectacled gander, was Jeannine Bonthoux, Mother Goose, Pamela Brinton as Red Riding Hood, Murray McArthur as Ali Baba, Pat McCutcheon as Bo-Peep, Leigh Moyle as Little Boy Blue and Becky Downing as Quite-Contra Mary. On the swing in the Board of Trade float was Queen Marilyn Wade and in front of her princesses Joan Macdonald and Lelia Lewis and flower girls Breen Bergstrom and Janet Tamblin.

Trout Creek Float Takes Top Honors Among Community Entries at Festival

Summerland copped top honors among community floats in the Peach Festival parade last Friday when Trout Creek Community Association won first prize for their entry featuring characters from Mother Goose rhymes and the Summerland Board of Trade float on which rode the Summerland "royal party" was awarded second place honors.

Honors in this competition are not new to Summerland. The Board of Trade entry last year was bettered only by the Wenatchee $5,000 entry which this year was judged the best float in the parade but was not competing in any of the classifications. The previous year, Summerland won top place. Last year, Trout Creek entry as a comic float took second prize in that group.

The Trout Creek entry was designed by Stan Gladwell and the orchard tractor on which it was constructed was loaned by Lloyd Gartrell. Mrs. Vic Parker was convener of the committee preparing the float and costumes were made by parents of the youngsters on the float.

Ray Wellwood was chairman of the Board of Trade committee which arranged for their float and this year a permanent base was constructed and used for the first time. It was mounted on the jeep of Francis Stewart.

The Rotary exhibition draw also produced a number of Summerland winners. Local winners were Mrs. H. Fisher, budgie; Helen Russell, hamper; Mrs. T. W. Campbell, set of glasses; John Glaeser, case of canned food; Murie Youngberg, 20 gallons of gas; and F. Daniels, 20 gallons of gas.

Local Exhibitors Win at Penticton

Two Summerland exhibitors, W. G. Snow and E. H. Bennett were among the leaders in the Okanagan Valley Horticultural Society show in Penticton last Saturday and Mr. Snow brought home the Summerland Horticultural Society cup.

Mr. Bennett received six first, three seconds and three thirds for his entries while Mr. Snow's exhibits were awarded four firsts, five seconds and four thirds.

WATER APPLICATIONS

Council last Tuesday approved domestic water applications of Stephen Parks, Mrs. J. B. Rhoads, George Washington and the Corporation of Summerland.

Local Schools Best Equipped

Summerland schools are the most adequately equipped in this part of the country Councillor Richards told the council meeting Tuesday afternoon.

He said it was noted at the meeting of the South Okanagan Health Unit last week that requirements for school playgrounds are one acre for every 100 pupils and in schools surveyed from Oyama to Summerland, only the schools here measure up to this requirement.

In the examination of schools, lighting is also being studied and the health unit reported only Summerland schools have been found to have adequate lighting. Councillors commented they thought the Summerland school board is doing an exceptionally fine job.

Will Extend Aid For Vet Studies

In a joint announcement, Hon. R. G. Williston, minister of education, and Hon. W. K. Kiernan, minister of agriculture have advised the government of British Columbia is prepared to assist deserving students from this province who wish to undertake the study of veterinary medicine at the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph.

An arrangement now exists between the University of British Columbia and the Ontario Veterinary College, whereby British Columbia students who have taken the first two years of the agricultural course at UBC may be accepted into the second year of the veterinary course at Guelph. This is considered to be of definite value to those who wish to become veterinarians. Persons who wish to enter UBC with the intention of proceeding to Ontario Veterinary College at the end of two years satisfactory study may obtain further information from the dean of the faculty of agriculture, UBC, Vancouver, B.C.

The government of British Columbia is prepared to consider applications for a joint scholarship from persons resident in this province who after two years of study in the degree course for agriculture at UBC are recommended by the dean of the faculty of agriculture, and wish to enter the Ontario Veterinary College. Applications from other eligible students will also be considered.

The scholarship may be of a maximum value of $500 per year for the period that the recipient is required to study at Guelph, previous to graduating in veterinary science. Sixty per cent of the amount will be a straight scholarship. The other forty per cent will be regarded as a loan, payable within two years after graduation in veterinary science.

Will Remove Trees Menacing Buildings

Councillors this week drew on logging knowledge to try and figure the best way to remove trees on the road allowance by the home of Mrs. F. R. Stark on Beach Avenue. There are five large balm of Gilead which are in dangerous condition and are a menace. Another tree which has become a menace and must also be removed is an old rotted birch beside Daniels' Grocery.

Councillors estimated it will cost $125 to $150 to remove these trees and left it with the electrical and roads departments to study the problem and arrange for the removal.

Will Tell of Course At Defence School

Members of Summerland's civil defence organization and other citizens tomorrow night will have an opportunity to hear of the civil defence course being given at Arriprison, Ontario, when Miss Dorothy Britton, a recent candidate, will speak at a meeting in the municipal office.

The course attended by Miss Britton was in reception and feeding of evacuees and the school she attended provides the largest and most realistic demonstration of civil defence work on the continent.

The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

Wants to Sub-divide Far Service Station

First of many new service stations expected to spring up along the new highway through Summerland was forecast in an application heard by the council Tuesday from T. W. Campbell asking permission to subdivide his property at the foot of Tait's Hill to provide a location for a service station.

After studying the planned subdivision, councillors were satisfied there would be sufficient space for the service station to be set back at least 40 feet from the road—the minimum requirement, and approved the request.

Another subdivision which received approval was that proposed by George Washington.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS — AUGUST 29, 1919

Okanagan apples were reaching out into the American market in startling fashion and McIntosh Reds were pioneering the way. Orders were also being booked for shipment to eastern Canadian markets. C. L. Lowe, sales manager of the Okanagan United Growers stated that the Okanagan apple was a better product and that was the reason it could travel thousands of miles and compete favorably with produce grown closer to the market.

American authorities stocked Osoyoos lake with 100,000 steelhead trout fry.

All high school pupils were required to pay a monthly fee; fourth year pupils to pay $5 per month, third year $2, first and second years, 50 cents.

The United Farmers of B.C., meeting in Kamloops, approved the proposed amalgamation with the Farmers' Institute.

H. C. Howis, took over the position of resident manager of the Co-operative Orchard Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dunham returned to Paradise Flat.

The Wilcox orchard above Peach Orchard was bought by Mr. Walter for his firm, Walters Ltd.

Mr. H. H. Crease and family returned from England to make their home in Summerland.

THIRTY YEARS AGO — AUGUST 28, 1924

Vigorous efforts were being made by the Association to obtain assistance for the growers in the form of a government guarantee or otherwise, which would enable the locals to obtain loans on a commodity basis. A petition was being circulated.

The second session of the Summer school of social science was in progress at the Log Cabin. Mrs. Rose Henderson was the director and was giving most lectures. The first course was held a year previous organized by J. W. S. Logie.

Summerland pottery was being shipped to Jasper for sale to tourists.

The new floor in the operating room of the Summerland hospital was being laid.

The new inspection service of the Dominion fruit branch was providing an impartial certificate to the buyer regarding the grade and condition of the fruit and vegetables being shipped from the Summerland Co-op. This was an experiment which was being tried out throughout the Okanagan.

FIVE YEARS AGO — SEPTEMBER 1, 1949

In a review of local employment figures it was estimated that nearly six hundred persons were employed in Summerland packinghouses, canneries and processing plant, apart from the hundreds in the orchards.

For the first time since 1946, British Columbia apples were being shipped to Great Britain, and arrangements were completed to send 435,000 boxes of the year's eight million box crop to the Old Country.

The new Summerland Post Office building was completed and awaiting the arrival of new fittings.

Eighty percent of the Okanagan peach crop had been shipped and the consumer demand in all western Canada markets continued good.

The new bell of the Church of the Holy Child was dedicated in memory of the late Luigi Bartello. Present at the ceremony were Very Reverend Father MacKenzie, Dean of the Okanagan, and Rev. Father O'Reilly of Kereameos.

With the Kamloops CYO Juniors yanked off the field by their manager, Sam Corea, in protest over a decision by Umpire Al McCargar, Francis Gould walked home from third base when "Play Ball" was called by the umpire-in-chief after all other efforts to get the visiting players back onto the ball diamond had failed. This left the count at 9-3 for the Red Sox and won for them the interior junior baseball crown.

Perpetual Prosperity

We live in an age of mechanical miracles, but so far science has not solved the age-old problem of perpetual motion. That problem engaged the minds, mostly of crack-pots, trying to generate a power that would continue of itself indefinitely by means of mechanism or the application of the force of gravity. Perpetual motion, however, was found to be impossible, and the search for it was abandoned.

But the curiosity and ingenuity of mankind knows no bounds, and the latest search is for perpetual prosperity that would generate and maintain itself with the minimum of effort and the manipulation of "purchasing power." The latest proposal for achieving perpetual prosperity is annual wage guarantees, the advocates of which contend that if every employer were forced to keep on paying employees whether they were working or not, the national income would be maintained, sales volume for business collectively would hold up, and hence there would not have to be any lay-offs. That sounds simple enough, but the unpleasant question arises as to who would want to work when he had the option to play?

Lord Beveridge, noted advocate of "cradle to grave" security in the United Kingdom, recognized the frailties of men as well as the needs of men to work for a living. In his report published in 1912 he stated:

"The danger of providing benefits, which are both adequate in amount and indefinite in duration, is that men, as creatures who adapt themselves to circumstances, may settle down to them. . . . The correlative of the State's undertaking to insure benefits for unavoidable interruptions of earnings, however long, is enforcement of the citizen's obligation to seek and accept all reasonable opportunities to work, to cooperate in measures designed to save him from habituation to idleness. . . ."

Even if everyone went to work whenever and wherever directed by his employer or his union, that would not necessarily avoid drops in business. People are constantly varying the pace and directions of spending. To make the scheme ironclad, the consumer or the government would have to guarantee to take the products of industry off the market. The necessities for compulsions and regimentation were doubtless in mind when the United Mine Worker Journal, commenting on the guaranteed wage scheme, said:

"The whole program presages the junking of the American way of life and the forfeiture of our industrial liberties in return for a promised security which cannot be guaranteed—a bureaucratic rule over our whole scheme of life."

In other words, in order to insure a perpetual annual wage for all industrial workers it would be necessary to institute slave labor, with fixed and probably lower wage rates, and some means of compelling people to buy the products of industry whether they wanted them or not. Freedom of people to buy the products of industry whether they wanted them or not. Freedom of people to spend or save or to choose what they should buy would be gone, and human society would deteriorate to the flat and mechanical level of the ant-hill. All of which, in the first place, would require a fundamental change in human nature.

A Fine Showing . . .

FOLLOWING last Friday's Peach Festival parade in Penticton, Summerland can proudly doff its hat to no less than four of its community organizations which were all stand-out features of the event.

Trout Creek Community Association and Summerland Board of Trade with their floats brought valuable publicity to the community by taking the top honors for community entries and further publicity was reaped from the smart appearance and excellent performances by the Summerland Band and the Summerland High School Band.

Trout Creek Community Association can be credited with an outstanding job in taking first prize against entries with considerably more talent from which to draw ideas and with considerably more money to spend for elaborate entries. The same Paying the Piper . . .

"WHAT don't manufacturers in this country label their goods with taxes shown separately?" asked a man, "then everyone could see how much he is paying in taxes alone when he buys a car, refrigerator, a set of tires, an electrical appliance." He went on to express the opinion that such action might influence the government to reduce taxation.

There are certainly some good reasons why everybody, not only manufacturers, should indicate what part of a price is tax. In many cases it would throw a great deal of light upon such vexing questions as why American prices for similar articles are sometimes lower than Canadian. It would also do something towards correcting exaggerated ideas of what proportion of the price of an article goes to profit.

Possibly of more import than anything else, an indication of the amount of tax might well bring home to certain individuals, who do not realize it,

Place to Start . . .

USEFUL task for Hon. Ralph Campney, new minister of national defence, would be to take good, hard look at publishing activities of departmental bureaucratic 'brass.' Best place to start would be with the department's so-called 'bureau of current affairs' which puts out a fortnightly magazine, available to general public as well as to service personnel, entitled Current Affairs.

August 15 issue of Current Affairs is devoted in its entirety to a eulogistic blurb about Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Editors of Current Affairs acknowledge the article on CBC was specially prepared, but do not reveal name of author.

Whole article is sheer CBC propaganda, has little or no relation to defence problems to which

Education's Own Critic Ask For Change

The principal of British Columbia's largest secondary school Mel Wallace of John Oliver, Vancouver, remarked recently that the "non academic, low ability, non-ambitious students present the greatest problem in our schools today."

Following the thought through it can be seen that it is also this type of student that is, in part, causing shortages in most schools of teachers, and shortages of semi-skilled and skilled laborers in the business world.

The day when the apprenticeship system trained capable young men to become skilled craftsmen, is rapidly disappearing. Union restrictions may in part be blamed for this. But most of the fault might be said to lie with an educational system that automatically promotes those who are not even able to meet the "ridiculously low standards of promotion" in today's schools. These students slow up the others, accomplish nothing for themselves, and do little more than cost the taxpayers money. School does nothing for them; they do nothing for it.

The illogical task of teaching sex education, alcohol education, automobile driving, and other "pipe" courses is also costing us money, as well as promoting a school population of which a large percentage are "along for the ride".

Curriculum changes are to be discussed at the fall convention of the B.C. School Trustees' Association. We hope they will keep the words of Mel Wallace in mind as they make their deliberations.

Education, now trying to produce a well-rounded person, is on the right track. But to limit some to carry others who are not the least bit interested is wasteful.

It is again the case of the handout. The student is being paid for attending, not by money, but in the services of his teachers, but he doesn't have to work for what he is getting. It's time they were made to work to learn again.

If the student is not interested in or capable of academic training, get him to a technical school where he will be happy and useful.

The present, and increasing burden on teachers, and ambitious students is not producing the best results. An attempt must be made to help practical catch up with theory.—Grand Forks Gazette. Buy At Home

The St. Catharines, Ontario, Standard, estimates that on a Saturday and Sunday some fifty-two thousand Canadians cross over the Peace Bridge at Fort Erie on their way to Buffalo; and that they bring back with them over a million dollars worth of American goods.

It says, "No doubt much of the money spent was by men employed in Canadian industry, good union workmen and their families who forgot that their purchases were adding stimulus to American industry and not that of Canada."

The paper does not suggest that Canadians should not make purchases in the States; but it does feel that they would be wiser to spend more of their money at home.—Rossland Miner.

summerland can be very proud thing holds true for the Board of Trade but in this instance it has been outshone by the Trout Creek group.

The Summerland Band has always been a credit to this community but with the progress being made by the High School Band, they may soon have to look to their laurels.

The youthful musicians last week made an exceptional showing in their appearance, marching and the brand of music they produced. One of the amazing features was the way in which they outshone in every department the other school bands in the parade, even though the latter has more than twice the school population to draw from for its bandsmen.

The way in which Summerland dominated many features of the Peach Festival gives this community every reason to be proud of its representations.

way to get true perspective

the fact that, in order for the government to provide the social services which are continually demanded of it, some such means as this must be employed to raise the money.

It is right that people should be told how much they pay in taxes and where and when they pay it. But this, not so much in the hope of shaming governments into a reduction of taxation, as to supply a very sound reason for demanding fewer things and services which require taxation to pay for them.

There is an old proverb which states that the man who pays the piper may call the tune. What is frequently forgotten is that the reverse is also true—the man who insists on calling the tune must be prepared to pay the piper. The realization that, if a man successfully demands a new social service from the government, he may have to deny himself a new refrigerator in consequence, is something which might well shock him into giving a second thought to his demands.

just one more useless department

Current Affairs is supposed to be devoted, and does not reflect government policy regarding CBC.

Truth is that bureau of current affairs, run by a bunch of chairborne civilians with ample funds to squander on crackpot ideas, is a disgrace to the defence department and ought promptly to be wound up.

The Turn Of The Year

Not an affair of the calendar which as the past two seasons have shown can be provocatively deceiving, the turn of the year is a time of special enchantment in the Okanagan. It is accompanied by round harvest moons, golden on the horizon; the sudden turning of mountain ash berries into flaming reds; the thronging of the robins in orchard and garden; and the low flat calm that descends on the lake when the geese make their way south. The wild grasses are turning the color of cured tobacco; the air is redolent with the spicy scents of balsam and pine and the night can suddenly be warm and inviting.

The harbingers of the autumn are commencing to appear, early as the calendar asserts with its fading toll of numbers. Deciduous trees are in the seed and pod stage. Grasses in the meadows have long passed their prime, and the poplars are beginning to change their dress to the glory that is to come. In the gardens a succession of gay harvests have already waxed and waned, each with its distinctive bouquet. The roses bloom late, their every petal open.

It is the fruitful time of the year, this changing of the guard in the Okanagan's month of the harvest of peach and apple, pear and prune, grape and tomato. Nature is busy with its own accounting, undisturbed by man and his fretful presence; here is a handful of seeds for there a timely sowing; young conifers with inches of new green wood at their tips; squirrels foraging against the days when the wind will blow chill and the land will be wind-swept or sodden. There is magic in it.—Kelowna Courier.

Mid-Week Message

Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth. (Ecclesiastes 12:1.) Read I Timothy 4:12-16.

From a two-day conference on Christian vocations, I was bringing several high school youth home in my automobile. In the group were two boys and three girls. For three hours they had been carrying on, as teenagers will. We were on the home stretch.

Then it happened. Kay said, "Let's turn off the radio and thank God for these wonderful two days and for bringing us home safely." All agreed. Peter said, "Gloria, you're president; you start." Then followed five simple, earnest prayers. A full moon shone outside, and in the car was an unmistakable spiritual glow.

My car was a mobile upper room that night. When the youth got out, Paul said, "Let's have a prayer cell." Lois said, "We can meet at my house."

We thank God for young people the world over, who are being nurtured in the Christian faith and are taking Christ with them into their chosen fields of work.

PRAYER

O Thou Father of all mankind, we join hearts with our brothers everywhere during this week of prayer. May Thy Kingdom come and Thy will be done in us and through us for the whole world. In our blessed Saviour's name. Amen.

The Flat Chest

As a layman, I haven't any right to get into the bust-flattening argument at all, but I want to get a thought or two about this matter off my chest, flat though it is. Lots of folks may disagree with me, but I've held these convictions for a long time, and I think they deserve mention.

First, I think there's been too much emphasis on busts and hips and legs. The man who wants to be virtuous either has to walk around with his eyes shut or do more sublimating than most human beings can manage. The way some women dress, they invite trouble, but if a man advanced towards the bait they display so readily, he'd probably be hailed into court. Saint Peter himself would find it somewhat trying to walk down St. Catherine Street on a bright summer day without getting a few naughty notions.

Second, women fool themselves that men want to marry a pretty leg or a fat bosom or a flat one. Impulses of a strictly atavistic nature may be stirred by such items, but marriage is something else again. True, some men marry girls because of the promises displayed so flagrantly—but that kind of a marriage seldom ends happily. The poor fellow merely signed the papers and took the vows for one purpose, and the deep affection and loyalty true marriage requires were missing. And quite often, I am told, the bat was misleading as all get out. Like a carrot patch all gone to tops, some of these bust-displaying women have about as much real passion as a dead fish. Deep, truly emotional, honest women know too much of fine passion to treat it like a toy to display on the streets like costume jewelry.

Third, I think that women should forget busts and hips and legs for a few seasons and start to glorify their faces, their hair, their smiles. They don't have to be beautiful in the phony fashion-designer sense. Most men, if they'd admit it, are far more attracted to the twinkling eye, the smiling lips, the kindness and decency they find in women—and that's a fact, so help me! Men like to let on that they're masculine animals with uncontrollable urges; but the honest fact is that the big majority of men want decency, camaraderie, good sportmanship, honesty and all the other virtues which contribute, under proper circumstances, to something a lot more real and satisfying than a perfumed bit of fluff.

There's an old saying that could well be brought out into this new argument. I forget the exact words but it went something like this: "You can't judge the depth of a well by the length of the handle on the pump." I think some of those lads who married glamorous movie stars and later were glad to divorce them would be glad to bear witness to the truth of that old saying!

Well—I got that off my chest!

The Lighter Side

The doctor left the sickroom and joined the pacing husband. "I don't like the way your wife looks, Mr. Cassidy," he said.

"Well, doc," said the husband, "I'm not crazy about her looks either, but she sure takes good care of me and the kids."

In the dark of night, two safe-breakers entered a bank. One approached the safe, sat down on the floor, took off his shoes and socks, sat down on the dial of the same with his toes.

"What's the matter with you?" said his pal.

"Let's open this thing and get out of here."

"Now, it'll only take a minute longer this way and we'll drive them fingerprint experts nuts."

The baby car was speeding along the road, but every 50 yards or so it would hop a few feet into the air and then rush on again. It last a puzzled policeman halted the car.

"Am I crazy or is there something wrong with your car?" he asked.

"The car's all right," said the driver. "It's me. I've got the hiccoughs."

A veteran cop riding in a police car with a rookie received a call to see a fight in a grill.

Said the veteran: "Drive slow and when we get there they'll be all tired out and we'll just draw them to the car."

"The best thing for you," said the doctor, "is to give up drinking and smoking, go to bed early and get up early."

"Doctor," said the pretzel bender, "I don't deserve the best. What's the second best?"

Clever Cooking . . .

With so many good vegetables from which to choose it is too bad to keep serving the same ones over and over again. Of course, everyone has favorite vegetables, but you miss out on very good eating if you never try some of the less familiar ones. Eggplant is a good example, its sleek, purplish-black, rather stately appearance attracts you immediately, but your admiration maybe followed by bewilderment about how to cook it. All too few take the time to find out, and eggplants are often bypassed at the vegetable counter.

The name tells you nothing, for in size, color, and taste eggplant is quite unlike an egg. History records one attempt to change the name. That was in the seventeenth century when British traders brought eggplants to London markets from West Africa under the name "Guinea squash". However, that could not have been very popular because it continued to be known as the eggplant. The eggplant is a native of India and the Indians, Chinese and Arabs grew them centuries ago to use as a basic food in their diet. It may well be that the early eggplants were smaller and more like eggs, but in any case it would seem that the name is here to stay.

Eggplants, as we in Canada know them, are oval to round in shape, about the size of a muskmelon with a purplish to black skin color. It is interesting to note that they do occur in other countries in many sizes and shapes. Some may be rather like an over-sized banana while others are more like a huge tomato. The color can vary too—some are white and other are green. But certainly you are making a big mistake not to become acquainted with this "glamor girl" of the vegetable patch, for once you do get to know and like the eggplant you are sure to serve it often.

If you have hesitated up to now to cook eggplant then you will be glad to hear it is very easy to do. Before cooking it, of course, you have to buy it. Choose an eggplant that is firm, glossy and free from blemishes. As for cooking—frying is perhaps the fastest method and the one that is used most often. First peel the eggplant and cut it into half-inch slices, then dip the slices in egg and crumbs and saute them in a small amount of fat until they are tender and golden brown. This takes about eight minutes. Fried eggplant is delicious served with broiled tomato halves. Broiled eggplant is good too, especially if you sprinkle a little grated cheese on it just before it is finished cooking. Since eggplant has such a distinctive flavor it combines well with other vegetables in a casserole. So, it can be used either as a vegetable at dinner or as a lunch or supper dish.

An idea for a luncheon dish is to cut the eggplant in half lengthwise, scoop out part of the centre, cut into cubes and use as part of the filling. Then fill the eggplant with a tasty stuffing of either creamed meat or vegetables. Bake it in a moderate oven of 350 degrees F. for 45 minutes or until tender. And here is a recipe for "quickie" eggplant casserole.

"Quickie" Eggplant Casserole
1 medium eggplant, 3 tablespoons fat, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, 1-10 ounce can cream of mushroom soup, ¼ cup grated medium Cheddar cheese, 2 tomatoes, sliced, ½ cup buttered crumbs.

Cut eggplant into one-inch slices, pare and cut into cubes. Saute eggplant in fat for 5 minutes and place in a greased casserole. Add onion to soup, heat and pour over the eggplant. Sprinkle with grated cheese, arrange tomato slices on cheese and top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., 45 minutes or until crumbs are browned. Makes six servings.

Broccoli

Broccoli is a vegetable that is not served as often as it should be. Although it has been known and used in Europe for centuries it was little known in Canada until the 1920's. Its very attractive green color and different flavor make it a favorite vegetable for special meals, but it is so easy to cook and so much more is now being grown in Canada that it should be served regularly.

Choose broccoli that is fresh and clean looking. It should have tightly closed green flower buds in compact clusters or heads and there should be no yellow color in the buds. Here are the directions for cooking broccoli.

1. Cut off woody part of stalks and remove coarse leaves.
2. Cut large stalks lengthwise into suitable serving portions. Wash thoroughly and tie loosely into bundles.
3. Place bundles upright in about 1 inch of boiling water in a deep saucepan or top of double boiler. The water should come not more than half way up to base of flower-ets.
4. Sprinkle with salt, allowing ½ teaspoon per pound of prepared broccoli.
5. Cover and cook until stalks are just tender allowing 8 to 12 minutes for young early broccoli; 10 to 15 minutes for late broccoli.

Sixty equal sides to this model of a school now being built in Owen Sound, Ont., make it unique in Canada. The designers say the new school will make maximum utilization of space and that it is easier and cheaper to build. Marg Rainbow points to the third story windows which will allow light into the gymnasium. The design allows for an auditorium, cafeteria, gymnasium and 27 rooms.

Estimates Ready in October . . .

Bridge Experts Now Checking Figures On Cost of Span Across Okanagan

Preliminary survey figures dealing with the proposed construction of a bridge across Lake Okanagan, are now being re-checked by the bridge consultant officials of Col. W. G. Swan and associates.

Col. Swan and his assistants arrived in Kelowna last Thursday afternoon, and additional soundings are being made on the Kelowna side of Okanagan Lake. Although Mr. Swan has since returned to Vancouver, he intimated he hopes to have estimates and plans in the hands of the government by early October.

Additional data is now being sought, and it is understood officials are now investigating the possibility of whether the north or south side of Mill Creek would be the most advantageous locations for the Kelowna side of the bridge.

Before Mr. Swan returned to Vancouver, he indicated the price of steel had dropped somewhat, and providing preliminary survey figures are correct, he is of the opinion the structure could still be built for around $10,000,000.

When Premier W. A. C. Bennett spoke at a Social Credit birthday party here early this month, he said "the best bridge expert possible" will be engaged to check the figures of the second survey now being undertaken.

Under the proposed plan, the bridge would be constructed under the Toll Bridge Authority Scheme.

Wedding Trip Through Western States Follows Perrault-Marshall Nuptials

Tall colorful gladioli decorated St. Andrew's United Church in West Summerland on Tuesday evening, August 24, for the double-ring nuptial rites which joined Mary Jean Marshall, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Marshall, Summerland, and Allan Edgar Perrault, of Esquimalt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perrault, Delburne, Alberta.

Rev. Charles O. Richmond officiated.

The bride was attended by Margaret Marshall as maid of honor and Rosemary Munn as flowergirl. Bud Green was groomsmen and Melvin Wells and David Wright were ushers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of lace and nylon net over satin with a matching long-sleeved bolero jacket. Her fingertip veil had a tiny pearl effect and flowers scattered over it and fell from a pearl beaded headdress. She carried red roses and white carnations and wore pearl earrings and necklace.

The maid of honor wore mauve nylon net with matching headdress and carried yellow carnations and pink roses. The flower girl was in white organdy with pink hair ribbons and carried a basket of summer flowers.

Soloist was Shirley Schumann, accompanied at the organ by Eugene Bates.

Home of the bride's parents at Trout Creek was scene of the reception which followed and to assist in receiving guests, mother of the bride was dressed in rose crepe and lace with bolero jacket and a skirt featuring a side drape. Her corsage was of pink and white carnations.

White tapers and mums flanked the wedding cake which centered the bride's table.

Toast to the bride was given by George Henry.

For going away, the bride changed to a grey taffeta dress with red accessories. They will travel through the northwestern states on their wedding trip.

Assisting in serving at the reception which entertained about 40 guests were Mrs. Dave Wright, Shirley Schumann, Elsie Hack and Jane Woodlams.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. David Wright, Penticton; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Schumann and Joyce, Dartmouth, N.S.; Mrs. W. C. Watkins, Leavenworth, Wash. Dr. and Mrs. Alec Marshall, Kamloops.

VISITING ABROAD

Mrs. T. W. Boothe is spending a couple of months travelling in Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Alstead have been on a camping trip to Lake Louise and Jasper, returning via Fernie.

Miss Terry Daniels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Daniels, left for Vancouver on Sunday.

Miss Kathleen Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis of Trout Creek has returned to Vancouver.

Mrs. Ken McIntosh left Thursday for Vancouver to visit Mrs. McIntosh's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. Calder.

Leaving Sunday for a holiday in Chilliwack were Mr. and Mrs. J. Dunsdon and Elaine.

Mrs. M. V. Dale and Miss Ruth Dale are on a trip to Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Tamblin and family left last Saturday for a visit to Vancouver.

On a week-end visit to Revelstoke were Mr. and Mrs. J. Heavysides and Mr. and Mrs. J. Sheeley and family.

Mrs. Ed Gould accompanied by Miss Myrtle Dunham left for Vancouver last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Haggman are leaving for a few days in Spokane.

Spending a few days in Vancouver are Mrs. Flora Bergstrom and Johan.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ritchie are visiting in Edmonton and plan returning via the Hart Highway.

Mr. D. M. Wright leaves tomorrow for the coast, where he will join his family at Buccaneer Bay and return with them.

HOME AGAIN

Mrs. Art Gronlund, Neil and Evelyn, returned home last week after spending the past three weeks at Erickson, Manitoba, visiting relatives and friends. Daughter Ruth also returned home last week after spending the past 10 days at Camp Sorec and the two weeks previous to that visiting at the home of Bonnie and Viola Ganzefeld.

Ronnie Embree has returned after a ten day visit with his aunt and uncle in Lower Nicola.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Haggman and two children have just returned from a trip to Banff and Calgary.

Mrs. Lena Gronlund, Linda and Gordon returned home last week after spending the past three weeks at Erickson, Manitoba.

Invited to open the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this year, the Duchess of Kent, right, and her daughter, Princess Alexandra, have brought considerable embarrassment to CNE officials. General Montgomery was the official starter last season and the CNE picked up the expense tag of $3,000 without a murmur. But the tag for visiting royalty, they now learn, is considerably higher—by $42,000, to be specific. Duchess and daughter travel with a retinue of seven.

Wright-Mott Nuptials

Marjorie Mott in Traditional White For Rites at Free Methodist Church

Nylon tulle and lace over satin in traditional white were chosen by Marjorie Mott on August 14 for her rites at Summerland Free Methodist Church when she became the bride of William J. Wright. Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. John S. Mott of West Summerland and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright, New Westminster.

The bride's gown featured a Peter Pan collar, scalloped yoke, lace bodice and lily-pointed sleeves. Panels of lace were inset in the skirt. Her lace-bordered fingertip veil was held in place by a wreath of white roses.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. James.

Flowers carried by the bride were baby royal dahlias, yellow snapdragons and heather.

Attending her were her sister Laura Joyce Mott as maid of honor, Mrs. Mel Barber, sister of the groom as bridesmatron and Joyce Anne Holden, a niece, as flower girl.

Groomsman was brother of the bride, Preston Mott.

Ushers were John G. Graham of West Summerland and Melvin E. Barber, New Westminster.

The maid of honor wore pink net over taffeta while the bridesmatron chose blue marquisette over taffeta both with matching wreaths of gladioli. The flower girl wore short flowered nylon over blue taffeta and carried sweet peas.

Pianist was David Woodbridge and soloist, Mrs. W. W. Davis.

Lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. MacDonald was the setting for the reception which followed the nuptial ceremony.

The brides table was centered by a three-tiered wedding cake decorated by Mrs. J. H. James and toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Leslie Whitehead of Vancouver.

For a wedding trip by car to Chelan, the bride donned a blue and grey dressmaker suit with pink and navy accessories.

They will make their home in Queen Charlotte City where both have been engaged as teachers.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mrs. Cecil S. Holden, and Joyce Anne, Vancouver; Rev. and Mrs. L. Whitehead and family, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Stan Thompson, Langley Prairie, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sulkers, New Westminster; Dr. and Mrs. Clifton Stark, Vancouver; Miss Ruth Daynard, Vancouver; Bert Toomey, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Barnes, Lyle and Lorne, New Westminster; Miss Ellen Reid, Seattle; Miss Marilyn McFayden, Kamloops; Mrs. L. Burgoyne, Kamloops and Mr. and Mrs. S. Hunt and Ruth, Victoria.

Capt. and Mrs. D. O. Knipfel and family of Winnipeg are camping at Ellison Park, while renewing acquaintances here.

Mr. and Mrs. Knapp of Washington, D.C., were guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. H. B. Munn last week-end.

Will Make Home in Chilliwack

Anne Glaser Repeats Nuptial Vows Under Floral Arch at St. Andrew's

St. Andrew's United Church in West Summerland was scene of an attractive late afternoon wedding Monday, August 23, when Anne Glaser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Glaser, Summerland, became the bride of Lloyd Eckhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Eckhoff, Chilliwack.

Rev. Charles O. Richmond officiated at the rites which were performed under an arch covered with gladioli and baby's breath and the church was banked with gladioli.

For the event, the bride was gowned in a strapless dress of nylon tulle over satin, topped with a gown of chantilly lace with Queen Anne collar and scalloped redingote skirt graduated to train floating on ruffled nylon tulle. A fingertip veil fell from a scalloped lace crown and she carried red roses and white carnations. For jewelry she wore pearls, a gift from the groom.

Bride's attendants were Mrs. Leo Peters of Vancouver, matron of honor, Mrs. David Elliott of Vancouver, bride's matron and Miss Verda Darling of Chilliwack, bridesmaid. All wore identical strapless gowns of net over taffeta with ruffled bodice, matching stoles and floral headdress. Mrs. Peters chose pink and blue net over blue, Mrs. Elliott wore sky blue and Miss Darling's choice was delphinium blue. All carried pink gladioli.

Groomsman was Wilson June of Naramata and ushers were Jack VanWinkle of Chilliwack and Ernie Bobby.

Organist was Mrs. R. Dunham and Jack Loewen sang The Wedding Prayer.

About 160 friends were present for the reception which followed at the IOOF hall which was decorated with gladioli for the occasion. Toast to the bride was proposed by David Elliott and guests were entertained by Mr. Loewen who sang "Because".

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Eckhoff, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Loewen, Mr. and Mrs. Jack VanWinkle and Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. L. Burgess and family, Mr. and Mrs. D. Fotheringham, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moran, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Winter, Mrs. H. Darling, Miss Dorothy Payte and Miss Kay Schewaga, all of Chilliwack; Mr. and Mrs. David Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Peters, Mrs. M. Duncan, and Mrs. A. Metzker and Mr. and Mrs. E. Gether, of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Wilson June, Naramata; Mrs. E. Schilling, Winnipeg; Miss Norma Holmbert, Matsqui;

Gentle, fluid lines lend distinction and grace to a dress designed for fall. The fabric is dull jersey, a rich shade of cocoa beige with black silk braid giving weight to the side-slit collar. The skirt is gathered and gored for shape and has pockets slashed into the side seams. It's the sort of dress that is unobtrusively smart and so fills many uses for many occasions.

Propose Lower Lake Level Will Use Summerland School Survey As Basis for Dental Recommendations

Summerland schools have been chosen for a dental survey this fall which will be used as a basis for recommendations for dental services in the Okanagan and Similkameen valleys. This was the announcement of Dr. W. G. Hall, dental director of the South Okanagan Health Unit at the quarterly meeting held last week in Summerland.

Schools in this community were chosen for the survey, he said, because of the stability of school population and also because of the compactness of the district.

The Health Unit went on record as being in favor of lowering the maximum level of Okanagan Lake from 102.5 to 102 feet. This resolution passed after Dr. D. A. Clarke stated high water tables in the Summerland and Kelowna areas had caused flooding of basements, backing up of septic tanks and contamination of water wells.

Dr. Clarke also indicated that sewage disposal in Summerland lakeside is creating a potential health problem due to the lack of adequate sewage disposal fields.

Board members decided to continue pressing for the establishment of a dental faculty at UBC. Earlier they had sent a resolution to all other units in British Columbia, asking them to endorse it and forward it to the university. At the meeting it was disclosed that six other units had done so, and a letter was read from Brigadier Sherwood Lett stating the executive of the university had approved the step.

The board, having written to the provincial government suggesting that it give financial assistance to the schools for the mentally handicapped, received a letter from minister of education Ray Williston asking for ideas as to how assistance should be applied. The board plans to suggest that the schools for mentally handicapped children should be operated outside of the regular school system; that the government should give a grant per diem per pupil; and that government aid should be given towards such school quarters.

Concerning a report given by the committee set up to study botulism and home canning, the board decided to set up a display at the East Kelowna fall fair and to attempt to put on displays at any other fall fairs in the district.

The government has proposed a change in the dental policy regarding school children, and a committee was appointed to study the proposal, discern how it will affect financial policy, and deliver a report at the next meeting, to be held in mid-November in Oliver. Committee members are Mrs. Mildred McFetridge, of Kelowna; Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh, of Summerland; F. Venables, of the Oliver school board, and Dr. G. Garrioch, of Penticton, who will work with Dr. Hall and Dr. Clarke.

Weekly Circulation Greater Than Doilies

Canada's daily and weekly press has a combined circulation of more than half the country's total population. The 95 daily newspapers publish about 3,850,000 copies; about 1,000 weeklies have a circulation of about 4,000,000 according to a section on communications included in the 1954-55 edition of Quick Canadian Facts, the pocket-sized annual of facts about Canada. The 63 foreign-language newspapers, published in 20 languages, have a total circulation of about 400,000. Also a major publisher in Canada is the federal government. In the catalogue issued annually by the Queen's Printer it takes more than 500 pages to list the titles and subject matter of government publications.

Radio service in Canada is via 170 broadcasting stations, 150 privately owned and 20 CBC stations. The non-government stations employ about 4,000 people, the CBC about 1,250. In the motion picture field are 31 private film producing companies and the government-owned National Film Board. The latter employs 543 persons, the private companies 386. In one recent year, output of private companies totalled 1,764 productions; of the National Film Board, 311 productions.

Among thousands of other facts about Canada, noted in the 10th annual edition of Quick Canadian Facts are:

Canada is the only country of North and South America that gained nationhood and self-government without revolution;

Manufacturing today employs about 1,360,000 Canadians, more than 1 1/2 times as many as agriculture.

The farmers of Nova Scotia have the country's highest production per acre of many crops;

This year Canadians will pay in taxes to all governments about $470 per person;

Canada has about 28,000 miles of paved highways, 44,000 miles of railway lines;

Canadians are spending considerably more on social security health and welfare services than on national defence.

The new edition of Quick Canadian Facts, carrying up-to-date information on all significant aspects of Canadian life, is released this week through newsstands and book stores.

Kill Couchgrass By Cultivation

There are two schools of thought in connection with the successful killing of couchgrass by cultivation. One advocates bringing the couch root-stalks to the surface to dry out, the other seeks to induce starvation by growth. The first condition is best accomplished by use of the cultivator combined with rod or wire-weeder to expose torn stalks to sun and wind; the other by use of an implement such as the one-way to shred the root-stalks into small pieces. Shredding stimulates dormant buds to grow which, until green leaves are formed, consumes stored foods.

In an experiment to compare the two methods, results show that both are good when properly carried out and are, indeed, much better than others tested. Best kills were obtained by the use of the one-way and the benefit from commencing operations in the late autumn just before freeze-up was striking.

A depth of four to five inches to bring the root-stalks to the surface is recommended. Then, the following years as soon as spring work is done, repeated working with the one-way until fall. The previous autumn stroke and the first two of the fallow year are made by overlapping half on each round of the one-way. This is done to ensure proper shredding, essential for dormant bud stimulation. Ten cultivations in all were given in the experiment and the evidence to date augurs for a complete kill. An essential for good kills is a sharp implement, a dull one is useless for the purpose.

The season the experiment was carried out was wet and cultivations were unduly delayed in some instances. However, some moisture is an advantage as otherwise the couch root-stalks are prone to dormancy and in this state are more difficult to starve to growth.

Couchgrass is a commensurate plant, that is, it never utilizes its food reserves for a surge of growth as most plants do. Instead, it carefully conserves its stored foods taking out only as it puts in, and so it has no weak phase in its growth cycle. Exposing its root-stalks or storage organs in late fall to frost and searing wind is an excellent first step in the eradication of this weed.

First woman to cop the Canadian ladies' close golf title four years in a row, petite Marlene Stewart, 20, is congratulated by Noreen Laing, left, of Toronto, who came fourth in the tournament at Dartmouth, N.S. Miss Stewart, from Fonthill, Ont., captured the title with a 232 total for 54 holes, nine strokes better than runner-up Dorothy Herbertson of Victoria, B.C. She then went on to win the Canadian ladies' open tournament for the second time in her career, defeating Mary Gay of Kitchener.

Westbank Meeting . . .

Will Investigate Legality Of Bear Creek Road Toll

Right of S. M. Simpson Co. to install a toll gate on the Bear Creek road leading into their forest management license area is being questioned by Westbank citizens and a committee to investigate the legality of the action was appointed following a public meeting in Westbank last Thursday night.

The erection of toll gates on forest management licenses is a matter which has been discussed frequently by local sportsmen and outcome of Westbank action will be regarded with interest.

The road in question has been a public road for the past 40 years and now persons wishing to use it are being levied 50 cents by the Simpson Co.

Fears at this action were somewhat allayed by Alan Moss, of S. M. Simpson Co., who pointed out the necessity of protecting forests, and promised that such privilege as the erection of gates and the charging of tolls would not be abused by his company. He also called attention to the fact that the gate in question never has been closed.

It was pointed out by one speaker however, that with 97 forest management licenses in the province, many more roads are, and will be, closed or subject to a toll, and that such action is the thin edge of the wedge of dictatorship by the timber interests of the province. Of the 97 licenses eight applications have been approved, subject to the submission of a satisfactory management plan. Twenty-two, not finally considered, have been granted permission to advertise, and approximately fifty are on file, which are in process of being analyzed, and may or may not be given permission to advertise.

While appreciating the roads that the lumber company has built in the mountains, another speaker, who first travelled the Bear Creek road in 1908, and since 1927 had paid range fees on the meadows farther on, asked by what authority the company had erected a gate on this road. He also questioned why he should be charged a toll to get to his meadows. Mr. Moss agreed that he should be given a free pass; and replying to the first question quoted the company's authority as section 53 of the Forest act, under which such control of that road is quite in order. He added that the road in question is not classed as a public road for the reason that so far as can be ascertained, no public money ever has been spent on it. Some of those present questioned that statement.

In explaining his company's stand Mr. Moss pointed out that timber resources in the Okanagan are badly run down, and for conservation purposes the SMS has been given a forest management license for that area from Bear Creek to Siwash Creek, covering 300 square miles. This management is under government supervision; the company is building 12 miles of road each year, and doing considerable reforestation. Forty acres were planted two years ago; approximately 100 acres this year, and in 1955 it is planned to plant 200 acres.

Under this scheme, the company, which must supply up to forty men and six tractors in case of fire, is not compensated for such cost of fire protection. Only when more men and equipment are needed will the government provide assistance. Records of fires over the past twenty years show that 60 square miles in this area have been burned over. Of these the majority are the result of lightning strikes. The remainder are largely "road-side" fires, which means that they start from those using the roads. Therefore, the safeguarding of roads is in the interests of both the company and the public. As a fire means a loss of timber to the company, and loss of stumpage, paid to the government, for the public. The putting up of gates, with someone on guard, and the charging of a toll, has been found to lessen road-side fires materially, Mr. Moss added. Also, with a man on hand to warn tourists and others of approaching logging trucks and the need for careful driving, accidents, for which the company may be liable, have become fewer. Further the road development program has made it easier to control fires caused by carelessness, as they are easily accessible with the ever-growing network of roads.

Cost of maintenance of the Bear Creek road last year was $10,000, and the amounts gained from toll charges do not, of course, begin to pay for this, Mr. Moss went on, adding that the public still has the right of access to these roads and his company has no intention of stopping that. The road remains a private road, however, for as long as the forest license lasts.

In reply to further question the speaker said that the interior of B.C. is one of the few areas where free access is still to be had; both the coast and eastern Canada having such protection as is being put into use here. As a solution to the problem of forest management, the program now being carried out has been found the best.

Board of Trade president Walter N. Formby presided over the meeting, which was well attended.

BERT BERRY'S Fishing News

Okanagan Lake has improved for the trollers this last week. Some catches up to seven up to 2½ lbs. Castors are having only fair luck with the fish more out to the centre and only squaw-fish hanging around the edges.

Fish Lake Camp: Fish Lake itself hasn't had too good a plug this week but fair catches of easterns have been made. All the upper lakes were good for fly or troll.

Headwaters Camp: Still good reports from here and nice catches are coming out of here.

Glenn Lake: Slow unless you wait for the late evening rise but some big fish have come out in this last week. Strictly a fly lake.

Silver Lake: Good reports from here, up to 17 inches being caught.

Shannon Lake: Good perch and bass fishing here.

Bear Lake: A couple of good reports from here now the weather has cooled.

Bolton: Nice fishing here last week between the rain storms. Averaging 1 to 1½ lbs.

A couple of trips were made over this last week by Summerland fishermen. G. Stoll was in to Ellen and Rat Lake and reports lots of fish up to 1½ lbs. R. Chapman and A. Johnston hiked into Boulah and reports lots of fish but the biggest about 1 to 1½ lbs.

If the rain stops for awhile this week we should enjoy good fishing this coming week. Anyone figuring on Labor Day fishing trips should be sure of reservations beforehand because the resorts are going to be very busy.

Pennant Winners Here From Coast

Summerland Macs this week-end will be hosts to a flashy group of ball players from the coast when they will meet the Marpole nine in two matches.

The visitors are the pennant winners in their Vancouver league despite the fact that average age of the players is only 19. Macs, who waited until the tag end of the schedule before producing a top-flight brand of baseball are confident they will be able to give the coast pennant winners a good run for their money and first-class matches are assured.

First game will be Saturday at 6:00 p.m. and second match will be Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Games will be at Living Memorial Ball Park.

'Greatest' P.N.E. Opens This Week

More than ever before is promised for '54 by the Pacific National Exhibition at Vancouver, which opened yesterday and continues to Sept. 6, and a glance over the programme, is verification. Officials also hope to surpass last year's attendance mark of 835,035 at the second largest fair on the entire Pacific coast.

Entries will be at the capacity mark in all five competitive departments, livestock, poultry, home arts, horticulture and 4-H-Future Farmers Club Show.

Livestock will again feature the light horse shows and six horse teams in special displays; horticulture has as a stellar attraction in addition to the profusion of blooms, the "Niagara" exhibit of the Vancouver Parks Board.

The armed forces will be seen for the first time in their new permanent location. In addition to thrilling exhibits they will present daily band concerts, many novel events and the free, colorful and spectacular Sunset Ceremony each night by the Royal Canadian Navy. Then too, on Armed Forces Day, Thursday, Sept. 2, a squadron of RCAF Jets will give a 45-minute aerial display over Exhibition Park.

Commercial exhibits will not only be in record number, both in buildings and outdoors, but will include several novel features. At least two radio stations will have studios on the grounds. There is also the beautiful Trend House, the Crime Show with its police museum presented by the Vancouver Central Lions Club and the nationally known "Elsie the Cow" and her son, "Beauregard" presented by the Gizeh Temple Shrine.

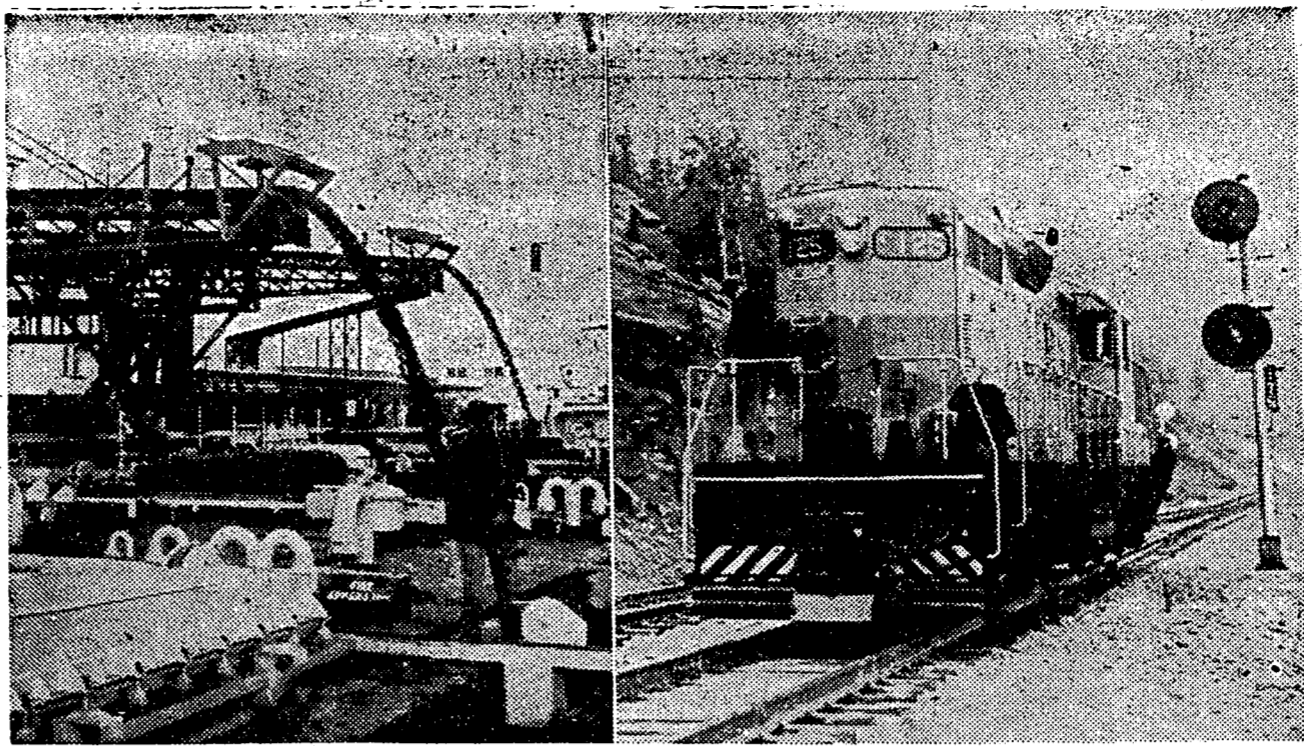

Probably the greatest attraction on the grounds will be the new British Columbia Building with its giant B.C. relief map, (80 x 76 feet), provincial government and industrial exhibits, the famous Lipsett Indian Museum and the 385 seat documentary theatre.

Outstanding entertainment attraction will again be the famous Shrine-PNE Circus, produced by Polack Bros., one of the world's greatest indoor circuses. It presents a completely new show this year with new acts, more thrills, chills and laughs than ever before.

Eight horse races will be run daily at the racetrack and the Free Outdoor Theatre presents a day-long program of band music, song, dance and variety shows.

The Dog, Cat and Mink Building will be busy every day of the Fair. The great mink show is scheduled for the first four days, followed by the Cat Show, August 30 and 31, Indoor Retriever Trials, Sept. 1 and 2 and the championship Dog Shows Sept. 3, 4 and 6.

Fashion shows and a knitting bee will be daily attractions in the Home Arts Building.

wishes to thank the many individuals who assisted with the construction of another prize-winning float for the Peach Festival Parade.

First shipment of iron ore from the $250,000,000 Labrador-Quebec Iron Ore Co. mines was poured, left, into the freighter, Hawaiian, at Sept 11s, Que., to be taken to the steel mills of Philadelphia. Four years of effort went into the development of the iron deposits and of the 367-mile railroad that travels over gorges, through mountains and over muskeg. The diesel locomotive, right, will haul the ore over a road bed that was built almost entirely by airlifted supplies and men. As thousands and thousands of tons of iron ore are discharged at Sept 11s, the little town on the shore of the St. Lawrence river will become one of Canada's busiest ports.

Fall Best Time . . .

Bait Stations Prove Most Effective Measure in Mouse Control Program

The comparatively slack period in orchard work between thinning and harvest provides an opportunity for the orchardist to initiate the mouse control program for the coming fall and winter. Control of meadow mice and deer mice in orchards has become an essential part of good orchard management. After the middle of summer the orchardist must be alert for mouse activity in the form of runways in the crop and tree damage which may occur as early as August.

Extensive research in rodent control during the last few years has resulted in the introduction of new poison bait materials, some extremely toxic, some reasonable safe for use around the farm. A number of ground sprays of the toxaphene type are under test. None are entirely satisfactory and all are hazardous to animals and birds, domestic and wild. Of the hundreds of chemicals tested for repellent properties a few have satisfactory application for treating such things as food packages, but none has been found to protect fruit trees from mice.

The fact is, there is yet no easy way to control orchard mice. The use of tree guards and cultivation around trees is the surest means of protection. Since mice are reluctant to leave protective cover, clean cultivation is effective in reducing mouse activity in orchards, but is not always desirable or practical.

Tree guards of the wire mesh type, particularly those made of galvanized material, are the most durable but also the most expensive. Aluminum foils of various thicknesses and fabrications are available fairly cheaply, but are readily damaged thus providing access for the mice. Single ply foil thick enough to provide rigidity when formed into a cylinder and stapled is fairly satisfactory. Laminated foils of paper and aluminum have a relatively short period of usefulness terminated by separation of the sheets as a result of contact with moist soil. Laminated aluminum and asphalt paper may cause injury or death to young trees when the asphalted layer is in contact with the bark.

During epidemic years or in locally infested areas a mouse poison program may be required to augment previously mentioned control measures. Once mice are established for the winter their movements are confined to a relatively small area and since winter is not the breeding season, thorough distribution of poison bait in the fall after harvest may be sufficient to keep the mouse population within safe limits for the remainder of the season. Weedy areas bordering flumes, road ways, swamp areas or rock outcroppings in the vicinity of the orchard should not be neglected.

Poison bait may be placed in frequented runways in the orchard cover, but the establishment of bait stations has many advantages over this method of distribution. A bait station may consist of a forkful of hay or weeds, old fertilizer bags, boards or inverted flumes depending on availability of materials and resourcefulness of the orchardist. Bait stations offer shelter which attracts the mice, protects bait from the rain and reduces the danger to other animals and birds and provides a means of determining the kill, the acceptability of the bait and the need for replenishment.

Bait stations should be placed in the orchard as soon as possible after harvest so that mice become accustomed to using them for shelter
