

Evacuees Handled Swiftly In Civil Defence Test

Welfare services of Summerland's civil defence organization yesterday afternoon swung into action when several carloads of evacuees to this district arrived here and in little more than half an hour the group was fed, outfitted with clothing needed, registered and billeted.

The arrival, this time, was not the real thing but rather a test staged by chief of the welfare services, Robert Alstead, to check the efficiency of the organization.

There were 29 evacuees in the party which arrived yesterday afternoon and their processing through the reception centre set up at the High School was orderly and efficient with the organization working like a well-oiled machine.

As the evacuees arrived at the reception centre, their name was written on a tag and slipped around the neck. Also recorded on the tag were any articles of clothing required by the wearer.

With an absolute minimum of delay after arrival, they were comfortably seated and being fed. Then members of registration group obtained from each the necessary details for record purposes.

At the "bull session" which followed, Chairman Alstead expressed appreciation to the workers for the enthusiasm with which they participated in the exercise and for the manner in which they carried out the duties assigned each.

The exercise was not without its lighter moments and workers who had occasion to locate individual evacuees found their work no lighter because they knew them all since most drew on their imagination for names while others swapped identities for the occasion.

Participating in yesterday's exercise were guards W. C. McCutcheon and J. R. Selinger who met evacuees on their arrival and started them through the reception routine. Social services were under the direction of Mrs. Frank Doumont, Mrs. William White and Mrs. C. Ewart Woolliams.

Catering was directed by Jack Dunsdon with workers provided by Legion Auxiliary Mrs. Annie Johnston, Mrs. Tom Fisher, Mrs. Harold Cartwright, Mrs. Clarence Adolph and Mrs. J. Mitchell.

Drivers were C. E. Bentley and Dr. H. R. McLarty.

Indications Good

Summerland Favorable Position Indicated by Soft Fruit Estimates

Estimates on the soft fruit crop released this week by the provincial department of agriculture indicate Summerland will be in about the most favored position of any fruit growing centre in the province.

While Summerland anticipated cherry production will be down about 30 per cent from last year, across the province the cut will be about 53 per cent.

Indications for the local apricot crop now look better than ever and it is expected to be about 95 per cent of last year's production.

Drop in plum production, which plays a very small part in the Summerland economy will be only slight and for prunes indications now are that the crop will be well over double that of last year provided they are free of shrivel this year.

Table showing the estimates for all parts of the province appears on page 3 of this week's Review.

Away Three Weeks To Camp Meeting

Rev. and Mrs. A. F. Irving left this week for Camrose, Alta., where they will attend the annual western Canadian camp meeting of the Church of God.

Morning service at the Trout Creek Church of God Sunday will be taken by C. Theissen of Penticton and the evening service by members of the Summerland Glendon camp.

Leaving this month for a new charge in Trail will be Rev. C. D. Postal, pastor of Summerland Pentecostal church.

Before going to Trail, they plan on a motor trip which will take them as far as Mr. Postal's hometown in New York State.

Experience counts in soap box racing a pair of Summerland boys discovered a year ago and after the Mission derby last week, the two were able to report improvement but still not enough to get into the money.

Will Press Construction

Breakwater Committee Starting Survey of Boats

An enthusiastic citizens' committee this week set out to prepare a case to try and get federal government approval for a project which regularly has been shelved for a variety of reason every time it has been proposed.

Project is a breakwater on Okanagan Lake to provide sheltered anchorage for Summerland boats. For two years the Summerland Fish and Game Association has been working on the idea and finally came to the conclusion more representative backing would be needed.

On previous attempts, the Board of Trade has always run into a blank wall with their proposal for construction of a breakwater because of other important financial commitments by the government.

Other members of the breakwater committee are Bert Berry, Vern Charles, Bob Bleasdale and Art Powell.

In this survey, they hope to get a record of every boat owned in the district from the smallest row boat right up to cabin cruisers.

In co-operation with the committee, The Review this week is printing on the front page a questionnaire which boat owners are requested to complete and mail either to the secretary or leave it at The Sports Centre, O.K. Service or at The Review.

Chairman of Monday night's meeting was Fish and Game Club president Bert Berry who outlined what has been accomplished by the association during the past two years and said from information they have received, the time is now ripe to approach the federal government to again request the breakwater construction.

He said a tentative survey of boats indicated there is in excess of $50,000-worth of boats owned in the district but results of the survey were not acceptable by the government because statements of valuation were not signed by owners.

Federal engineers have already studied the area, taken soundings and have tentatively decided on the most suitable site for the breakwater. Estimated construction cost is $28,000.

One point on which those present at the meeting were in complete unanimity was that there should be no attempt to suggest to the department of public works where the breakwater is to be constructed.

Acting as secretary of the meeting Monday night was Lorne Perry who produced a file of correspondence which the Board of Trade has had with federal government representatives on the subject since 1947.

In 1947, the minister of public works said "No" in typical governmentese when he replied to the request.

The information requested in this questionnaire can be of considerable value to the Breakwater Committee in making representations to the federal government for construction of a breakwater here.

Call for Tenders For New Highway

The new highway through Summerland is going to cut about a mile off the distance from Trout Creek to West Summerland.

Although tenders are being called now, work on the new highway will not be started until Sept. 1.

Matter of the intersection at the top of Peach Orchard hill is still under discussion and Tuesday afternoon at a special meeting of the municipal council, Councilor Richards told of a proposal to relocate the water system at the top of Peach Orchard hall and replace the present flume with a pressure pipe to reduce the cost of an overpass at that point.

Long-Time Resident Passes in Hospital

A resident of Summerland for 40 years, Mrs. Mary Anne Armstrong, passed away Monday evening in the Summerland General Hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted from St. Stephen's Anglican Church at 2 o'clock on Friday with Rev. F. V. Harrison officiating.

Roselawn Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Reserve Judgement On Sale of Property

Only one tender for the purchase of 25 acres in Paradise Flats was received Tuesday afternoon at a special council meeting called to consider tenders on the property.

Council reserved decision on the sale Tuesday and will give its decision at the regular meeting next Tuesday.

Gunderson Tells Dominion Day Rally No Designs on Similkameen Seat

Rumors that Similkameen MLA Frank Richter may step down to give former finance minister Elmer Gunderson a chance to regain the legislative seat he once held received a flat denial from Mr. Gunderson last Thursday when he addressed a Dominion Day Social Credit rally in the Youth Centre where it was driven under cover by rain.

Not only did the ex-finance minister deny he had any designs on his former seat, he got in a little early campaigning on behalf of present incumbent, Mr. Richter who was also present at the rally.

The battery of Social Credit speakers included also Hon. Kenneth Klernan, minister of agriculture, Noel Murphy, president of the B.C. Social Credit League, and Roy Owen, president of the South Okanagan association.

Although program of sports and games planned for the day had to be cancelled, the concert by the Summerland Band was carried out according to schedule.

Here for the event were visitors from Princeton, Hedley, Koromeos, Penticton, Kelowna and Vernon. Master of ceremonies was E. Backman.

The Social Credit monetary theories were emphasized by Mr. Murphy in his address. Mr. Murphy illustrated the need for a modern form of monetary system by likening the present system by likening plow, the horse and buggy and antique weapons.

Mr. Klernan spoke on his work in the department of agriculture and of the close co-operation with the federal department. He announced tenders have been called for construction of 3.81 miles of road through Summerland and the new government building in Kelowna.

Mr. Gunderson besides providing the principal address for the occasion, surprised his audience by "doubling in brass" and filling a spot on the entertainment program. Told he would have to "sing for his supper," he delighted the audience with several vocal selections that topped it off with several numbers at the piano.

The boys were assisted in constructing their derby entries by Frank McDonald under the sponsorship of Summerland Kiwanis Club and were entered in the derby representing Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

The Rock Of Gibraltar

"Education authorities here ordered pictures of Gibraltar to be placed in class rooms. Teachers were told to explain to children about the shameful fact that Gibraltar remains in British hands." — Reuters' news dispatch from Pamplona, Spain.

Gibraltar has been in British hands for 250 years, and Spanish children should be told how it came there, and what occupation has meant for the protection of Spain and the guarding of the entrance to the Mediterranean in time of war and peace. The name Gibraltar is derived from the Arabian name, Jebel-al-Tarik, which dates from the invasion and capture of the peninsula as far back as the year 711, A.D. Before that Spain had been invaded and occupied by the Romans, by the German Vandals, and by the Berbers, a mixed race from North Africa.

The Moors occupied and ruled Spain for hundreds of years. The Spaniards took over Gibraltar in the year 1462 when the Moors were being driven out. Three hundred years later Columbus opened up the New World to European settlement and the Spanish Empire grew to sudden wealth and prosperity, spreading its conquests into Europe, occupying the Netherlands and threatening to invade England, until its Armada was smashed by the British Fleet in the English Channel in 1588.

The Spanish never recovered from that defeat, and Spain was subject to a series of wars and revolutions down to our own time. The Battle of Trafalgar, which struck the decisive blow at Napoleon, was fought off the Straits of Gibraltar, and if Britain had not been in possession of the Rock that battle might have been lost. Britain's control of Gibraltar has since been a bastion of defence for Spain and Portugal as well as a guardian of the gateway to India and the Far East.

The foregoing is but a brief sketch of history, and if the Spanish children are told the truth, Britain has nothing to be ashamed of. Spain is still in possession of the Balearic Islands in the Mediterranean, and the Canary Islands off the north west coast of Africa, and Britain has insured a protection of these. Gibraltar had never really been a national asset of defence to Spain until the British took it over. The town and the Rock are connected with the mainland by a low sandy isthmus, an area of neutral ground. In ancient times the Rock was known as one of the Pillars of Hercules. The Arabs from the opposite coast of Africa occupied it and used it as a stepping-stone for invasion. Remains of an ancient Moorish castle are relics of the Arab occupation of the fortress.

The recent visit of the Queen to Malta and Gibraltar was a routine part of her tour of the commonwealth, and the scene on the Rock during the visit is included in a colorful motion picture of the entire round-the-world trip. Those who have seen the picture say the incident of the young Prince and Princess feeding the monkeys at Gibraltar is an "enchanted" one. We may be sure that Premier Franco will never allow the picture to be shown to the Spanish school children, which is a pity, for it is a part of the history of Spain as well as of the rest of Europe. While Gibraltar remains in British hands Spain need have no fear of a repetition of the invasions she suffered from in the long past.

Breakwater Plans . . . give the committee support

It would seem there's a lot of truth in the old adage that "The wheel that squeaks the most gets the grease". For a good many years now the federal government has been periodically reminded that Summerland stands in need of a breakwater to provide shelter for small boats anchored here. Federal government authorities on each occasion have been in full agreement but never have they been stuck for a reason why construction could not be carried out at that particular time.

The excuses when examined have always appeared perfectly valid—a war on . . . everything for defence budget . . . have to wait until flood control engineers decided on future lake levels . . . and, so on. All, as we say, perfectly valid excuses which would be quite acceptable if it were not for the fact that at the same time, similar construction has been carried out at other places where the need is just about identical with that here—certainly no greater.

On each occasion the subject has been raised in Summerland, the proponents have quietly dropped it when they received an explanation why it would have to be put off for another year. From hindsight, it looks as though that has been the wrong attitude. Other places with a much less docile approach seem to have got what they wanted.

From observation, it appears in many cases that as though the government is scheduling projects if influenced more by the insistence of the sponsors than by the actual need.

Well, if that's what they want, then let's not keep them waiting.

This week, the Fish and Game club started the ball rolling again with a public meeting for boat owners and prospective owners interested in seeing a breakwater constructed here. The meeting drew only about one-quarter of the number likely to enjoy the fruits of its work, but it was large enough to produce an enthusiastic committee which is setting out to document the case for Summerland.

First phase of the job is to obtain a list of all boat owners in the district and a signed statement of the approximate value of their boats. To facilitate the work of the committee, The Review this week is printing on the front page a coupon which boat owners are asked to complete and turn over to the committee.

Completing this questionnaire will have a three-fold value—it will speed up construction of a valuable addition to the recreational facilities of the community, it will make life a lot easier for the committee and it will make boating around Summerland a lot more inviting as well as safer.

On the questionnaire is space to list the names of several others who own boats. The committee will check these names off against questionnaires received and then make contact with any who have been remiss so they will finally have every last row boat in the district accounted for.

Completion of the questionnaire will not in any way obligate the owner but it can help in obtaining an added improvement for the community.

Please don't put it off.

Our Tourist Appeal . . . make their visit memorable

With the travel season now getting into its full stride, more and more visitors are to be seen each day on the streets of Summerland. We're glad to see them here and hope they enjoy their visit to our community, but we'd be downright dishonest if we didn't admit that their presence brings to mind the dollars which will be left behind to circulate in the district.

The value of the tourist dollar should never be underestimated and the competition for the business is becoming keener all the time which means we here in Summerland will have to be right on our toes if we are going to continue to attract our fair

Other Opinions

The Proposed Agriculture College

According to officials more support is needed by the public of the valley to have the proposed provincial agriculture college located here in the valley.

The Creston Board of Trade to date has spear-headed the campaign to have the agriculture college here. However, to this column knowledge only the village council have publicly supported the effort.

The present committee has done a great deal of groundwork towards making Creston the choice of the government in this regard and will leave no stone unturned to have the government nod towards the Creston Valley.

To date the situation is this:—

1. Estimated cost of the college would be $2,000,000.
2. Reports indicate the location is either Creston or Vernon.
3. The college is not a degree institution but a college where those who wish to learn agricultural pursuits may come and gain first hand instruction and knowledge.
4. The college is being planned for a start to handle 200 students who wish to learn agriculture.

Presumed is the following:

1. The student's transportation to the college may be subsidized.
2. Dormitories will be constructed to handle the enrolment.
3. Permanent instructors will be resident here.
4. Instruction to all may be secure if knowledge is desired.

As outlined previously in the Review the present plan of the board is to divide the scheme in three equal parts, namely:—to have the livestock, dairying, etc., located at Lister, possibly on the government land in this area; to have the horticulture development located in the rich, fertile Erickson area; the school, dormitories, trial and field plots located adjacent to Creston the berry and other agriculture pursuits at Wynndel and other requirements on Kootenay Flats.

In this manner the college will be able to give the best the district has in land, climatic conditions, water and growth.

However, it is felt with such a program as this, and possible future expansion, the district should get behind the effort and clamor loudly for consideration. The facts are known, the government must be shown and the seeds of interest sown.

We know the Hon. W. D. Black is working his hardest on our behalf. We hope the Hon. Sommers, whose constituency borders ours feels the same way. Nelson, Cranbrook, Fernie, Kimberley should throw their entire support this way for a college.

The coast has U.B.C. and its educational departments; the Okanagan has its government experimental stations; the southern interior has nothing. We hope that from now on we hear plenty of support for the college to be located in Creston.—Creston Review.

Freedom To Read

Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock of Canada's Supreme Court has defined his opposition to book censorship in clear terms. Speaking to graduates at Sir George Williams College recently he criticized censorship on the grounds that it deprived the individual of his right to make his own selection.

Individuals would never be safe until they were able to choose by themselves, he said. "And the country will never be free until all its people are free to read anything, but use their freedom to read the best that has been thought and said."

Here, as in other parts of the country, the words of the eminent member of Canada's highest court apply. It should be noted that Mr. Justice Kellock's plea for unqualified freedom carries with it the suggestion that such freedom should be accompanied by a responsibility "to read the best that has been thought or said." But first comes liberty of choice. Without that, reading can become nothing more than indoctrination with no certainty that the individual or interest enforcing it is working for the good of the person of the country.—Kelowna Courier.

Even without promotion of this district, it is not surprising that the number of strange license plates in evidence is increasing every year. Our natural setting in the heart of this lush valley offers a picturesque appeal which few places can match and visitors just naturally find delight in paying to absorb some of the refreshing, easy-going tenor of life here. And that's not bragging, either. It's just a cold assessment of fact.

It is also an indisputable fact that Summerland needs something to help balance its one-sided economy. We're not suggesting that tourism is the full answer. It isn't because the great bulk of the business comes at the time of year when fruit growing is at its peak, but it does supply part of the answer.

We have no single outstanding feature here to attract tourists. Rather the attraction of Summerland is the more intangible atmosphere of the community which appeals to visitors and sends them away to tell friends of their "discovery".

By going out of our way just a bit in our dealings with tourists, we can do much to enhance our growing reputation. If anyone who has done any travelling recently will think back on their own experiences, the most lasting impression is probably of the place where they were accorded the greatest warmth of greeting and friendliness. Those impressions are still fresh long after memory of outstanding tourist attractions has dimmed.

An extra minute or two spent with a visitor giving him directions or information will help pay off handsomely for this community. A kindly word and pleasant smile are among the greatest assets of the travel industry.

Lets make friendliness, kindness and courtesy the three great works in the program of Summerland tourist appeal and with every one playing a part, our tourist industry will rapidly become an important part of the economic life of this community.

Mid-Week Message

Nebuchadnezzar spake and said unto them, . . . who is that God that shall deliver you out of my hands? (Daniel 3:14, 15.) Read Daniel 3:13-18 of Hebrews 4:12-16.

These words are part of a question addressed to three young Jews by the king of Babylon. They had defied a royal decree to bow before and worship a golden image.

When the king demanded an explanation of their conduct, the young men were not frightened by the threat of being cast into a fiery furnace. Their decision had been made, many years before the test came, when they had placed their trust in the God of their fathers.

So in reply to the king, they asserted with eloquence, "Be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up."

We, too, live in perilous, confused times. Christians have faith in that God who will never forsake them. "O Lord our Lord, how excellent is thy name in all the earth!"

PRAYER

Gracious Father, forgive our lack of faith. Help us to realize that if we commit ourselves to Thee, there can be no defeat in the vital issues of life. Keep us faithful to Thee, even unto death. For the sake of Christ our Saviour. Amen.

The Movie Stars
Today I had an unusual experience. I spent the morning interviewing a big-time movie star; and part of the afternoon doing the same thing with one of Canada's leading industrialists. I found many similarities, and one remarkable difference.

Both had worked hard to earn their reputation. The movie star told me how she had once, at the beginning of her career, taken singing lessons from the same coach as Margaret Whiting. She said that Margaret, who has now hit the big time with a bang, had a very hard row to hoe, because her father was such a success in the music-writing field. Margaret had to work twice as hard as others, because she was always afraid of letting her father down, and because other expected so much of her.

Movie stars, I gathered, are much different in reality from what the press agents say about them. They are very human. They have all sorts of anxieties. Fan mail means almost everything to them—for if the housewives across the country don't write them letters, they don't hold their contracts very long.

The business tycoon also talked about the housewives. He said they really run his business. If he fails to meet their requirements, the product doesn't move off the shelves, and he gets fired. A letter of complaint, from some irate housewife, gets more attention than a complaint from one of the company shareholders. Likewise a letter of appreciation is a high spot in his day.

I was impressed by the similarity in the biographies of these two people. Both had worked hard. Both had known many disappointments and set backs, but had kept on because of some implicit faith that it was in their stars to succeed. But I was more impressed by the difference.

The movie star told me her press agent always like to work into the story the fact that she makes more than $5000 a week. He claimed it made the public respect her more.

The tycoon, on the other hand, didn't want to mention his earnings. He was in the upper brackets, somewhere in the neighborhood of $25,000 per year, but he preferred not to talk about it. He said, rather plaintively, "For some season or other, a lot of people don't like to see a business man rewarded for his years of work. I can't quite understand it, but I know it's true."

I wonder why that is? The movie star merely entertains us, and we reward her gladly with a fabulous fortune. The business leader provides us with such wonders as television, automobiles, air-conditioning, vacuum cleaners and such useful gadgets, and yet we begrudge him his relatively small rewards. It's a queer world! I think some of us need to take another look at our sense of values. But not me. I've got a free ticket to see my movie star entertain at a local theatre tonight.

Clever Cooking . . .

Berry time is here again and probably we should all get straightened out about the many kinds of berries we have around. It is amazing how the "berry situation" changes from province to province. The coastal provinces have a number of different types of berries that do not seem to grow in any other provinces and certainly these berries have a great variety of names.

The home economists of the consumer section, Canada department of agriculture tell us that they were not sure what the difference was between a blackberry, a loganberry and a raspberry. Though these home economists come from different provinces of Canada, and they are chosen that way because they are familiar with the many agricultural products grown in their own province, a very lively discussion took place over the loganberry - blackberry question. Finally they decided that none of them were exactly certain as to the distinguishing characteristics of the three berries and so they appealed to all the provincial agricultural authorities to make the decision for them. As it was felt that probably many Canadian consumers were not completely familiar with all the berries, the home economists have sent us the story.

The first point to be settled was—what is the difference between a raspberry and a blackberry? Actually, they are both descendants of the same family but you cannot depend upon the color to be your guide. The raspberry is a round, juicy berry made up of many tiny little cells and when it is picked the berry just slips off the central core, in other words, the berry itself is round and hollow. As for the color, raspberries can be red, purple or black. Here is where the confusion arises because many people think a black raspberry is a blackberry—it is not—and here is why. A blackberry is also made up on tiny little cells but when you pick it from the bush the core remains with the fruit and is eaten as part of the berry.

There are many varieties of blackberries too and they range in color from red to black. So it boils down to this—the main distinguishing feature of these two families of berries is that the core is part of a blackberry but it is not part of a raspberry.

In the blackberry family there are two main branches—blackberries and dewberries. The branches are differentiated by the way the plant grows. The blackberry which is cultivated for commercial purposes, grows on a bush that is erect—one that supports itself, the dewberry comes from a trailing vine. In this dewberry family are the loganberry which is a red color, the Young berry which is a deep wine color, the boysenberry which is a reddish purple color and the wild blackberry, which is naturally black. Now this is a little bit confusing but you just have to remember that irrespective of color, in the blackberry family the berry has the core as part of it and in the raspberry family the berry is hollow.

British Columbia produces the greatest amount of cultivated blackberries, loganberries, Young berries and boysenberries. Some are also cultivated in Ontario.

In many of the other provinces the blackberries which grow wild are sold to consumers but generally the fresh cultivated fruit for the commercial market is imported from British Columbia or from our neighbors to the south.

Many of us are not able to buy fresh blackberries but we certainly never need to go without them because we do have some wonderful Canadian canned and frozen blackberries. Of course here again when we say blackberries we mean all the members of the family—the loganberries, the boysenberries and so on.

Kinnard Again Heads Shippers

K. W. Kinnard of Vernon was again chosen president of Okanagan Federated Shippers Association at a meeting of the directors which followed the annual general meeting of the association on Friday, June 25th at Kelowna. Don Sutherland of Kaleden was elected to replace Frank McDonald of Penticton.

Other directors, re-elected at the meeting were: P. S. Sterling of Vernon, George Clarke and M. J. dePuyffer of Kelowna, J. R. Jordan of Penticton and A. E. Hill of Oliver. L. R. Stephens was again appointed secretary-manager.

The personnel of the various association and industry committees remains unchanged.

The chairmen of various committees reported to the meeting. One of the most important reports was given on behalf of the industry labor negotiating committee, in which the meeting was advised of the decision of the arbitration board which recently dealt with the dispute between the fruit and vegetable workers unions and the pack-houses.

A. K. Loyd and J. B. Lander of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. reported on market trends and conditions.

These new photographs of Prince Charles and Princess Anne were made at Windsor recently shortly before the children left England on the royal yacht Britannia to join their touring parents in North Africa. ## TEEN TOWN NEWS

The big news this week is the Teen Town Membership dance Saturday, July 10. Membership cards will be sold at the door. The dance will, as usual, begin at 9:00 p.m. This promises to be a big affair so come on out kids and support your Teen Town.

Once again our very sincere thanks go out to Charlie Wharton who gave Teen Town his record and record player. This will certainly prove to be an asset to our Teen Town.

It was suggested that Teen Town have a waffle booth for the crowning ceremonies on July 17. Arrangement are now in full swing. Right now we would like to wish Ethel Gilbert, our Teen Town representative in the Miss Summerland contest, the best of luck. "Good luck Ethel, we're right behind you."

70 Delegates Attend Salmon Arm Sessions

Summerland district was represented by 70 delegates to the semi-annual assembly of Jehovah's witnesses at Salmon Arm, July 2-4, where 1,100 heard the widely advertised discourse, "Is Civilization's End Near?"

It was a beautiful day for the outdoor sessions on Sunday, and the floral background emphasized to those listening, the wonderful promises of Almighty God to establish peace and happiness on this earth, as pointed out by G. H. Saltmarsh, a special representative of the Watch Tower Society.

Basing his remarks on Matthew 24, he pointed out the composite sign of world wars, famine and pestilence. He said that 38 of the 39 features mentioned in the 24th chapter of Matthew as prerequisite to civilization's end are already present. He encouraged all men everywhere to put their trust in the Word of God and not in the unreliable predictions of men.

Saturday was a day of particular interest for Jehovah's witnesses as they waited expectantly for the Watch Tower-produced moving picture film, "New World Society" in technicolor scenes were shown of in Western Canada to over 900. In Action", shown for the first time the international assembly of Jehovah's witnesses last summer at New York, where over 165,000 attended. There were scenes also of national assemblies in Britain, Germany, South Africa and Rhodesia. The rain did not dampen the spirits of over 600 witnesses Friday night, although they did move into the High School Auditorium to see demonstrations, hear discussions, and to receive instruction.

R. D. Lennea, presiding minister of the congregation of Jehovah's witnesses at Salmon Arm expressed appreciation on behalf of the assembly to the school authorities, local police and town council for their fine co-operation, as well as to the local residents who opened their homes to the conventioners. These assemblies are forerunners of larger assemblies, one of which will be held at New Westminster August 5-8. It is expected that well over 10,000 will attend.

Phyllis Verrier Repeats Nuptial Vows With P. A. Morris at St. Stephen's

St. Stephen's Anglican Church, decorated with midsummer flowers, was the setting for the wedding of Phyllis May, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Verrier, and Patrick Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Morris, Trail, on July 1, at 7:30 in the evening.

Canon F. V. Harrison officiated and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The dark-haired bride wore a lovely white lace gown with long sleeved matching jacket, headdress of tulle with pearls, and lace-edged three-quarter-length veil. Her flowers were red roses, white stephanotis, and ivy.

Junior bridesmaid was the groom's sister, Miss Margaret Morris of Trail, and the bride's sister, Miss Mildred Verrier, and Miss Shirley McAdam were the other two bridesmaids. All were gowned in similar fashion with matching boleros over net frocks with full skirts featuring rows of circular ruching, matching headdresses, and colonial bouquets.

Aklavik, the Canadian town on the edge of the Arctic ocean, is in danger of sinking into the perma frost, moss and mud on which the town rests. On the present townsite it is impossible to build roads, sewers or solid substantial buildings, and, as the town grows, danger of epidemic is always present. So the town is being moved, but many who know the far north wonder where a suitable site can be found within hundreds of miles.

Horticultural News Letter

Growing Season Running Far Behind;
But Fruits Reported Sizing-up Well

Summerland, Westbank and Peachland:

As reported June 29th: Since the issue of our last News Letter the weather has been changeable and for the most part cool. Some light rains fell over last week-end and a few quite warm days occurred just prior to this.

A light hail storm covered a wide area of the Summerland district on June 15th. The hail was of small size and was similar to rice in appearance. A considerable amount of rain fell with it. Some individual orchards sustained moderate damage though in the over-all picture the crop will not be affected.

There is a great deal of variation in the spray schedule being used for apples. Some growers have not yet applied the second cover spray while others are just getting it on. Thinning of peaches is being completed in the later districts. A fairly heavy drop has occurred in cherries, pears and in McIntosh, Newtown and Delicious apples. Nearly all tree fruits have sized well, up this point. Growing conditions have been good and trees are in excellent shape. Crop prospects continue to be better than originally expected. The apple crop could exceed last year's figures considerably if the rate of sizing is maintained. Pears appear to be slightly down from last year though good sizing could bring them close to last year's tonnage. At present, peaches appear to be about 25% down from last year with apricots nearly equal to last year. Cherries are down heavily in Westbank, with Peachland around 50% of last year and Summerland about 75% of last year. Cherry figures, however can alter drastically in the last few days depending on the weather at the time. There are enough prunes on the trees to greatly exceed last year's very low tonnage provided that shrivelling does not again take place. The season is an exceedingly late one. Right now, cherry picking is not in sight and it will probably be two weeks before full volume of picking is reached.

Aphis have been the chief pest affecting peaches and cherries in the past few weeks. This has been one of the worst seasons for Black Cherry aphis. To date very few mites have shown up. Fire blight is becoming troublesome in a number of Summerland orchards. Weather conditions have favoured this disease. So far no apple scab has been seen in the district. Penticton, Naramata, Kaleden, Keremeos-Cawston:

As reported June 29th: Improved weather conditions prevailed for a week but these were followed last week-end with overcast skies and intermittent rain. There is some improvement in the weather to-day but it is still unsettled.

The thinning of apples is under way but less thinning than usual is necessary due to a heavy "June drop" in most orchards. Cherries are not sizing too well and some drop continues. Bings, which are normally ready in the Penticton area during the first week in July, are not expected to start for at least two weeks. Tomato plants in the Keremeos-Cawston area have shown definite improvement in growth. Early cabbage should be ready shortly.

Apart from occasional infestations of mites and Black Cherry Aphids, tree fruit insects appear to be reasonably well under control. Apple Scab is mildly evident in a few orchards and Powdery Mildew of apple does not seem to be as extensive as last year. On the other hand, Powdery Mildew of peach has started to develop and indications are that it may be more serious than last year, especially on Rochesters. Die-back, particularly on peach and apricot trees, is quite noticeable. Okanagan Fall, Oliver and Osoyoos:

As reported June 28th: During the past two weeks hail fell in scattered sections of the area with the worst damage done to the apples within one mile of the United States boundary. Over the past week-end over three quarters of an inch of rain fell in the district. Green aphis is still quite evident. Roxy Apple aphis has caused some concern in a few locations during the past two weeks. No noticeable increase in apple scab infections have been noted. A little fire-blight has been found, probably the least since 1948 for this time of the year. Most of that found is in the secondary blossom. The season is now about the latest in the history of this district as evidenced by the first Bing cherries maturing around July 1st. Until the rains of the last week-end no splitting had occurred. Since then a small amount of horse-shoe and nose splits have been noted.

A few boxes of cucumbers have been picked. No real volume is expected during June. A few early potatoes have been harvested for the local trade, with volume again not expected before the end of June. Kelowna:

As reported June 30th: Weather since the last report was sunny and warm for the first week, showery during the period June 26 to 28th and sunny the last few days. Apple scab is now present in most orchards in the Kelowna area. In several orchards it is severe and continued showery weather would constitute a threat to the crop in these orchards. The McIntosh variety shows the most scab, followed by Newtown, Stayman and Wine-

sap. Third cover sprays for codling moth are being applied and many growers are adding fungicides for apple scab. Insects are not trouble some at present. A heavy June drop occurred in Anjou pears. McIntosh and Delicious also dropped heavily and the amount of thinning required was reduced considerably. Fruit of all kinds is sizing well and tree growth is generally better than in recent years.

Vegetable crops are slow. The first truss of blossoms on tomatoes did not set fruit. Lettuce is now being harvested. Early cabbage harvest has started but is later than usual. Onion maggot is more troublesome than in most years. Thrips and mildew are bad in some patches of fall planted onions.

Bursary Fund Aided

Rivals Taj Mahal

The new Trans-Canada Home Service station, which has just been opened by Home Oil Distributors Ltd., immediately south of Pattula Bridge on the Trans-Canada Highway, is the most advanced service station in Canada, states Home Oil.

In locating the new service station at the main entrance to New Westminster and Greater Vancouver, a point passed by practically all motoring tourists entering the city, the company provided for super-rest rooms, including a ladies powder room with pastel tiles and gay wall paper.

Office and lubrication have walls almost entirely of glass. The four pump island are surrounded by spacious driveways and wide entrances. These features ensure quick efficient service and easy access with no delays. General appearance of the station is enhanced by a unique combination of natural cedar and concrete.

A gala opening celebration was staged opening day with gifts for all motorists, valuable merchandise prizes and "Canada's only performing elephant."

Queen Elizabeth II of Britain, wearing the scarlet tunic and plume of the Coldstream Guards, sits side-saddle as she takes the salute of the British Horse Guards at the trooping of the color in London. The ceremony highlighted the celebration of the royal husband-and-wife birthday. The Duke of Edinburgh, left, was 33 years old, and the Queen, who was 28 on April 21, chose to make it her "official birthday."

YOUR CHEQUE IS A DOUBLE-CHECK

Every time you pay a bill through a Bank of Montreal chequing account, you begin an "automatic" double-check on the expenditure.
Many of B of M customers, finding the cost of living too high for comfort, think this assistance in spotting financial leaks is the best feature of paying by cheque.

The first check-up is a "before".
Each transaction comes up for a last-minute review, as a matter of course, when you are making out the cheque for it. The second check-up is an "after". The filled-in stubs in your cheque-book, as well as the statements which the B of M provides you with once a month, also help you to re-examine your spending.

Paying bills by cheque is safer and more convenient than doing it by cash. Every cheque you send off comes back to you with proof positive that payment has not only been made but accepted. And the postman makes the pound of your creditors for you when you mail your cheques.

Ivor Solly, manager of the B of M's West Summerland branch, invites you to open your own chequ-ing account. Drop into the branch tomorrow. You'll find, as tens of thousands of B of M customers have found, that a chequing account is a time-saver, a foot-saver, and—through its "automatic"
double-check—a money-saver, too.

B.C. Men Named For Scouting Honors

Les Way, popular CBC Neighbourly News commentator and weekly newspaper representative, has been awarded the silver acorn, one of the Boy Scouts movement's highest honors.

This was announced in the Dominion Day awards and honours list by Governor-General Vincent Massey, in his capacity as Chief Scout for Canada.

The award, "for distinguished service to Scouting", recognizes Mr. Way's efforts during the past seven years to stimulate wider understanding and support of the Boy Scout movement. He has been chairman of the British Columbia provincial council's public relations committee since 1947.

Additional awards for voluntary service went to two other British Columbia residents. The medal of merit for good Scouting was awarded Lt.-Col. T. V. Sandys-Wunsch, Duncan, and Joseph E. Turner, Kimberley.

Mr. Way is a former Penticton resident and is a business partner of former Review publisher, J. R. Armstrong.

Ninety per cent of Canadian milk production moves to market by truck.

A modern Canadian army division needs 2,200 motor vehicles to move and service its fighting men.

The Summerland Review THURSDAY, JULY 8, 1954

Vancouver Junior Nine Takes Two Week-End Tilts

A flashy aggregation of junior ballplayers from Vancouver held the Summerland Red Sox at bay in two matches over the week-end, edging out a 5-3 victory Saturday evening and then cutting loose Sunday afternoon for a 13-1 walk-away.

The Sox Saturday using a home-grown product on the mound fared much better than they did in the second match using a chucker borrowed from Penticton for the game. Bobby Bonthoux worked on the mound for the locals Saturday and gave up eight hits and nine free passes while Wilson working for the Murphy's held the Sox to five hits and gave away eight bases on balls.

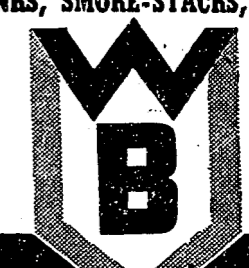

Sunday, Getz was touched by the Vancouver visitors for nine hits and gave up 11 free ones before Bonthoux replaced him for the last two innings. Bennett for the visitors gave up only five hits and one base on balls.

Appearing on the Sox line-up were Parker, Ask, Biollo, Bonthoux, Pohlman, Hackmann, Campbell, Ward and Getz.

Visitors were Arnett, Rooney, Ross, Osmraley, Hazeldine, Scharf, Willett, Young, Eggert, Turpin and Bennett.

Arriving in Ottawa, Gen. Alfred Gruenther, supreme commander of NATO forces, is greeted by Defence Minister Claxton. Gen. Spokane Manufacturer New Kiwanis Head

Delegates attending the 39th annual convention of Kiwanis International at Miami, Florida elected a prominent manufacturer from Spokane, Washington to head the organization in the year ahead.

Officers of the Kiwanis Club of Summerland have been informed that Don E. Engdahl, president of the Spokane Sash and Door Company, would succeed Donald T. Forsythe, of Carthage, Illinois, as president of Kiwanis International, which is now comprised of more than 3,800 clubs throughout the United States, Canada, Alaska, Hawaii, and the Yukon Territory.

President-Elect Engdahl won the Spokane Junior Chamber of Commerce Award for the city's most outstanding citizen under 35 in 1944. The following year, he was chairman of a committee which secured a $3,000,000 school bond appropriation. He now is a member of the Chamber of Commerce as well as many other civic and philanthropic organizations. Mr. Engdahl is a graduate of Syracuse University, where he majored in business administration.

A Kiwanian since 1933, Mr. Engdahl has served as club president, lieutenant governor, governor of the Pacific Northwest District, a member of the International Committee on Business Standards, and chairman of the International Committee on New Club Building for the United States. Last year he was treasurer of Kiwanis International. Preceding his office as treasurer, he served as a trustee for two two-year terms from 1949 to 1953.

Delegates to the Miami convention, which drew an adult attendance exceeding 10,000 men and women from all section of Canada and the United States, also elected two vice-presidents, a treasurer, and six trustees. Attending as delegate from this district was Summerland club president, N. O. Solly accompanied by Mrs. Solly.

Vice-presidents are Jackson A. Raney, Indianapolis, Indiana, and Ewart G. MacPherson, Winnipeg Manitoba. R. Warren Graffam, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, was elected treasurer.

quest "... your representations have been noted and will be kept in mind".

Rejection of the idea in 1950 was a little more detailed. Attention was drawn to the heavy expenditure for defence and it was explained this project was in category "B" which was described as "works necessary but postponable."

On another occasion it was shelved because engineers on the flood control project had not determined the future lake levels and it was feared a breakwater built before this decision was final might prove useless if the lake level was changed.

Backing of the municipal council to the project was indicated by Reeve Atkinson who was present at the meeting. He said the subject has not been discussed by council "... but the council is always in favor of any improvement to the district and this would certainly be a great improvement."

Members of the committee who have been working on the project estimate the number of boats in the district would probably double if adequate storing facilities were made available here.

Festive Program Planned To Marquee Teen Crowning

Living Memorial for the judging of the Summerland Beauty Contest is expected to be a bit of a snag on who's going to pick up the tab for the entertaining bill.

Visiting Me To Lunch Here

Okanagan Valley on Sept. 23 will be host to 105 touring members of parliament from Eastern Canada but, at the moment plans have run into a bit of a snag on who's going to pick up the tab for the entertaining bill.

Cost of entertaining the visitors at lunch, cocktail party and dinner is estimated at $1,200 and Kelowna and Vernon have each agreed to pay one-third expecting Penticton to pay the other third. Penticton, however, is in no great hurry to participate in any arrangements that is going to cost them money.

Summerland council Tuesday afternoon had a letter from City of Penticton asking how much Summerland municipality is prepared to contribute toward the entertainment of the visiting party. The letter did not mention what Penticton's financial participation was expected to be or suggest any amount that this municipality might contribute.

Council stated it was not prepared to make any contribution at the present time.

Plans at present are that the visiting lawmakers will be served luncheon at the Summerland Experimental station.

Lorne Perry, secretary of the Summerland Board of Trade, appeared at the meeting to give latest information on plans for entertaining the group and Reeve Atkinson and Councillor Steuart will represent the council on a committee with the Board of Trade to make local arrangements.

"We'll co-operate," said Reeve Atkinson, "but that's as far as we're prepared to go at present," referring to the Penticton suggestion that Summerland assume a portion of that city's share in costs.

Tentative arrangements call for the visitors to arrive by special train at Kelowna on the morning of September 23, tour Kelowna and then proceed by car to the Summerland Experimental station and then on to Penticton where the party will inspect a packinghouse. After an hour there, they will be whisked back to Kelowna and the special train will take them to Vernon for the evening banquet.

round Saturday night will don festive regalia and a program of entertainment will be given for the annual event. The contest will select the winner of the crown and the queen who will receive her symbolic crown.

The six contestants are Irene Menu representing Kiwanis; Joan MacDonald, Jaycee candidate; Ethel Gilbert who will represent Teen Town; Marilyn Wade representing AOTS; Lelia Lewis, the Rotary entry; and Jeanine Bonthoux from the Trout Creek Community Association.

The evening program will be touched off at 7 o'clock with the judging of the candidates. Judges will be former Summerland resident Mrs. Alec Bridger, Mrs. T. H. Anstey and Bachelor James Fairley. The girls will be judged on charm, personality, deportment and bearing, beauty, ability to speak in public and general intelligence and special abilities. Each appearing on the stage Saturday night will give a one-minute talk on any subject she chooses.

Ebullient Charlie Wilkinson will enliven proceedings as master of ceremonies.

Crowning ceremonies are set for 9:30.

Carnival atmosphere will prevail at the event with bingo, games and concessions being arranged. Chairman of the event is N. O. Solly with Walt Toevis directing bingo and Doug Campbell in charge of concessions.

Seek More Reports From Boat Owners

Summerland Breakwater committee meeting Tuesday night had on hand reports on boats in the district representing a total value of about $10,000 but are still far from receiving complete report on boats owned in the district.

Next step will be to arrange for canvassers who will contact all known boat owners who have not yet completed a statement on the type and value of their boat. The committee is in hopes of completing the survey within the next couple of weeks so that representations for construction of the breakwater can be made to the federal government this summer.

Copies of the questionnaire owners are asked to complete may be obtained from Sports Centre, O.K. Service and The Review.

Council Tuesday was informed that the annual Union of B.C. municipalities convention will be held this year in Victoria on Oct. 21-23. Attending from the Summerland council will be Reeve Atkinson and Councillors Steuart and Butler.

—Staff photo—
Toughest job this week will be that of judging panel Saturday night to choose Miss Summerland from the six attractive entries in the annual competition. Five of the contestants displaying five winning smiles are Jeanine Bonthoux, Ethel Gilbert, Marilyn Wade, Joan MacDonald and Irene Menu. Contestant absent from the picture is Lelia Lewis. All will appear Saturday night at the Living Memorial playground for judging and crowning of the queen who will be awarded place of honor on the Summerland float in the Penticton Peach Festival parade.

Building Activity Still on Increase

Construction in the district during June continued at a high level and eight permits issued were for a total of $16,950 which brings to a total for the first six months of the year 55 permits for work amounting to $134,375. This is an increase of nearly $40,000 over the same period last year, despite the fact last year's figures include a major construction job totalling $28,500 by Cornwall Cannery.

Permits issued during June were three for new dwellings to a value of $9,500 and five for alterations and additions totalling $7,450.

In the first six months of 1953, 48 permits were issued for work to the value of $96,625.

Comparative figures on local building were contained in the monthly report on permits issued Tuesday to the council by building inspector Roy F. Angus.

New Rector Arrives For Anglican Church

New rector of St. Stephen's Anglican church was welcomed to Summerland yesterday. He is Rev. A. A. T. Northrup who arrived accompanied by Mrs. Northrup and their six children.

They have taken up residence at the Anglican rectory.

The new arrivals came to Summerland from Grand Mannon Island in New Brunswick and were met yesterday afternoon at Sicamous and travelled to Summerland by car.

They were met at Sicamous by Dr. D. V. Fisher, J. Y. Towgood, N. O. Solly and John Paynter of Westbank.

Children are Jean, Albert, George, Paul, Charles and Robert.

Nearly 200 Benefit Rotary to Stage Tag Day Saturday To Aid Free Swim Class Project

Summerland Rotary Club Saturday will sponsor its annual fund-raising drive to offset costs of operating swimming classes in the district with a tag day in the community to continue from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Rotarians look to the receipts from the tag day to provide sufficient funds to cover the cost of instructors and other expenses which arise in the annual training project.

There are at present nearly 200 children receiving swimming instruction at the sessions being conducted at Powell Beach under instructors John Kitson and Joan MacDonald. Classes are also being started for adult instruction. These classes are all free to those who wish to learn swimming and water safety.

Chairman of the tag day is Gordon Beggs and taggers will be supplied from the senior swim classes. The committee is looking for generous response to their effort because the value of providing swimming for children is generally appreciated by all. The training given at the Rotary classes in under qualified instructors and for senior groups is continued up to life saving instruction on completion of which Red Cross certificates are awarded.

OKAY WATER CONNECTIONS

Domestic water connections were approved Tuesday by the council for W. H. Bloomfield, S. Jomori and Mrs. Mollie Moore.

Absent from the group when picture was taken of other candidates for the Summerland queen title was Lelia Lewis who represents Rotary in the competition.

APPROVE TAG DAY

Council Tuesday approved an application of Summerland Rotary Club to conduct a tag day in the district on Saturday, July 17.

Volunteer Party of Beach Cleaners Takes Over Louis' Favorite Project

"Louis the Lug" is gone but a project dear to his heart last week-end found many willing hands to carry it on.

For years, Louis has quietly busied himself keeping clean a patch of beach adjacent to the lakeside cottage that was his home for about the last 20 years of his life.

When he died a few weeks ago, a group of nearby residents decided to form a work party to take up where Louis left off, and last week-end saw a volunteer effort pitch in to add finishing touches to what Louis started and create a very attractive beach site for the district.

First there was the clean-up work and then the addition of truckloads of sand. A group of women and children turned out last Thursday for the clean-up job and on Sunday the heavy work was undertaken to spread sand over the area.

The sand was provided through courtesy of the Experimental Station and trucks for hauling were donated by White & Thornthwaite, Smith & Henry and T. Campbell. A loader was added by Lloyd Miller.

Volunteer drivers were F. Milligan, E. Brennan, A. Gould and N. Reid. Don Blagborne operated the loader.

Not all the volunteer labor was skilled. Amateurs Doug Campbell, Ted Piers, Harry Thornthwaite and Jack McDougall were entrusted with shovels for spreading the sand, and evidence of the enthusiasm with which they tackled the job was to be found in the blisters they proudly displayed at the end of the session.

Touring Teen-Ager Finds Thrills Of Travel In First Few Days Of Tour

Before leaving last week on a month-long Oddfellows youth pilgrimage to principal points of interest in Canada and United States, including a week touring the United Nations headquarters in New York, Francis Atkinson agreed to share the experiences of the tour through weekly reports while she is away. The pilgrimage was only three days old when the first report was mailed.

By FRANCES ATKINSON

Wascana Hotel, Regina, July 10—Well, here I am well on my way and after three days all I can say is that this trip is everything I had hoped it would be and more.

When the group assembled, there were 34 students, two male leaders, Mr. John Scott of Hanes and Mr. Tex Wilson of Foho Oregon, and one woman leader, Mrs. Inez Rogers of Pullman, Washington. On the tour are 13 girls and one boy from Oregon, seven boys and three girls from Washington and six boys and four girls from B.C.

I left Summerland on July 8 and my mother and father took a carload to Spokane. Enroute we met the rest of the Canadian group at Grand Coulee Dam for lunch and then went on to Spokane in the afternoon. That evening we had our first chance to meet the American kids at a banquet at the Spokane Hotel.

Main topic of conversation at the dinner table was the different pronunciations of Americans and Canadians and ever since the Canadians have had a lot of fun learning to talk with the American drawl while the Americans are having just as much fun learning to speak like Canadians. I know we all have already changed a little.

Friday morning we were up at 5 a.m. for a send-off breakfast. After we left Spokane we passed through Sandpoint, Idaho, Kingsgate boundary and on to Cranbrook for lunch where we picked up the last girl to complete the group. In the afternoon we stopped at the very interesting Frank Slide in Alberta and then went on to Fort Macleod for supper. Then to Lethbridge, arriving there about 10 p.m. There was a program arranged for us there which lasted until 11:30 p.m.

The hospitality has been absolutely wonderful everywhere we have stopped. The Americans themselves warn that we'll never get such hospitality in the United States but that we'll just have to wait and see.

Next morning we had a tour of Medicine Hat and had lunch at Piapot, Saskatchewan, where I was very amused when a lot of American kids picked some couch grass for a souvenir. In the afternoon we stopped at Swift Current and then on to Moose Jaw for supper at 8 o'clock and kept going to Regina, arriving there at 11 o'clock.

At midnight we were taken on a tour of Regina which was lit up for us by sheet lightning. We found the town very interesting. Sunday we travelled to Grenfell, Saskatchewan for church parade with the Cantons, Oddfellows and Robekahs. They put on a very nice do for us and now we are bound for Winnipeg and we really know how flat the prairies actually are. The weather the first couple of days was lovely for travelling but now it is starting to feel a bit warm.

All the students are very friendly and nice. We never sit with the same person twice in the same day on the bus. We are always moving around and learning from the others what it is like where they live.

All the students are very friendly and nice. We never sit with the same person twice in the same day on the bus. We are always moving around and learning from the others what it is like where they live.

Withdraws Tender For Land Purchase

After postponing for a week decision on tender of Don Clark to purchase 25 acres in Paradise Flat for $1,375, councillors Tuesday found they were free from making a decision.

Councillors heard a letter from Mr. Clark stating that because of a change in plans he would not require the property and asked that his tender be withdrawn. It was the only tender submitted.

The property was offered for sale at the request of Mr. Clark and since no other tender was received, no further action on the sale will be taken at present.

Baptist Church Opens Annual Bible School

Daily vacation bible school of the Summerland Baptist church opened on Friday morning and an attendance at the school is expected to be about 80.

Recreation and bible study form part of the daily schedule and directors are Rev. and Mrs. K. Knight with assistants Mrs. V. B. Durnin, Mrs. C. W. Wilkin, Mrs. Flora Bergstrom, Miss Joan Inavoshi, Miss Marlon Turigan, Miss Viola Gansveld and Miss Eileen Arndt.

Pay Out $113

Council May Offer Reward for Dogs Caught in Act of Killing Chickens

There is a chestnut-colored long-haired dog in Summerland which may soon have a "dead-or-alive" price on his head if proposal of Reeve Atkinson at Tuesday's council meeting is found to be feasible.

The dog is one identified following two chicken killings earlier this month but on neither occasion could the witness catch him.

Discussion on some method of putting a halt to damage by dogs came under discussion when council was presented with three claims for chickens and turkeys killed on which they paid out $113.

Description of the dog seen leaving the scene of two killings tallied with a description given last year when there was a wave of similar depredations and it is believed the same dog has been responsible for much of the damage.

Claims paid Tuesday were those of Mrs. George Dunn for five turkeys, Mrs. C. Ongaro for nine laying hens and Mrs. A. Leonardo for two hens, eight pullets and 45 chickens.

Reeve Atkinson proposed that a reward of $25 be posted for anyone who could actually apprehend the culprit in the act of molesting chickens. The reeve's proposal touched off a discussion on problems which would arise in offering a such reward and the conditions under which it would be paid. It was generally agreed that if a reward is offered it should be a standing reward for anyone catching any dog killing chickens.

The proposal was referred to the council's legal advisor for an opinion.

Considerable discussion also centered around what percentage of claims should be paid for chickens or farm animals destroyed by dogs. Suggestion that half value should be paid by the municipality was proposed by Councillor Barwell. "It's tough," he said, "but it's the only way we'll not owners stirred up to do something for their own protection."

No definite policy on percentage of claims to be paid was established and claims then under consideration were paid on valuations set by the council.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO — JULY 18, 1919

The 1919 tax rate totalled 33 mills, being 12 mills for general 12 for loan and 9 mills for schools. A new by-law pertaining to streets and roads was being prepared.

An extensive building program commenced at the Dominion Experimental Station, including a new home for the superintendent, a bungalow for the foreman, a boarding house for the employees and a large horse barn. Cost of the superintendent's residence was to be $6,000 and the plans were being prepared by William Neilson.

Veterans who returned during the week included W. R. Tweedy, Walter Munn, Cliff McWilliams, Harold Hibborn, C. W. Haddrell, Philip Agur and W. J. Tullett.

The thermometer at the experimental station reached 100 on July 15, the hottest day since 1908.

The largest crowd ever to attend a religious service in Summerland gathered in the park for an open-air service on Sunday morning. There were more than 400 present. On the platform were, Rev. H. A. Solly, Rev. J. J. Baker, Rev. W. H. Bates and Prof. W. T. Broad.

Mr. Walter, of Walters Ltd., Castor, Alta., who owned the property occupied by J. Pennant, and had recently bought from H. C. Mellor some of his orchard, arrived here to take up residence.

THIRTY YEARS AGO — JULY 17, 1924

Local pools on all commodities except apples and prunes had been established by the Associated Growers for 1924.

P. G. Dodwell entered the mainland tennis championship at Vancouver. He was to be paired with McGill in the doubles and with Miss Freeman of Salmon Arm in the mixed doubles.

For the purpose of conveying surplus shavings to a burner, the Pacific Box Co., was granted permission to erect a blower pipe across the road from the box factory.

Local prize winners in the May essay competition held by the British Columbia forest reserve included Edith Cunliffe, Eileen Tomlin, Naomi Kercher, Victor Waterman.

Thousands of baby frogs, less than an inch in length, invaded Ninth Street. They appeared to be migrating from some place to the west of the Empire block.

The experimental station was in need of more water and was investigating Canyon Creek for an additional supply and storage sites. Osprey Lake, as a possible source of irrigation water, was discussed at a council meeting. A ditch, a mile long and three feet deep would tap a considerable body of water, W. R. Tweedy and R. Mitchell suggested to the council.

FIVE YEARS AGO — JULY 21, 1949

Biggest cherry crop in the history of B.C.'s interior was shipped to market, when the crop exceeded estimates more than twenty percent.

With a majority of more than 20, the Summerland Board of Trade went on record at a special meeting as being in favor of an executive plan to recommend to the Post Office department that operation of the two post offices in Summerland municipality be combined under the one common name of Summerland.

Churchill Fights For Time

There was little sign of old age in the mental alertness and grasp of the present world situation displayed by Sir Winston Churchill in answering the searching questions put to him at the press luncheon at Washington. The Americans are expert at quiz contests, and when their quizzing was through, the press men, by their "grand ovation," evidently were unanimous that the "old man" had taken the "jack-pot."

For clarity of mind and aptness of speech the eighty-year-old Prime Minister has no equal in the world today. His vision takes in the past, the present and the future, and he can sum up in a phrase or even a word a situation that a professor of history would require a whole lecture to elucidate. This was shown in his reply to the first question. It referred to the alleged "differences" between the United States and Britain today, as compared with what Sir Winston, during the war, had described as a "blazing friendship." He was asked, "What is the temperature of that friendship now?" He replied in one word, "Normal." The laughter and applause with which this was received were sufficient endorsement of the free and frank friendship that has always existed between the two great democracies.

Those normal differences are mostly superficial, and they are healthy. But the differences between Communism and democratic freedom are wide and deep. Those two political systems cannot co-exist on any terms in one country. This is definitely displayed in Soviet Russia and Communist China, and it has yet to be proved that those two Communist countries can co-exist on permanent peaceful terms without continued domination by Moscow. Dictatorship is essential for the administration of the Communist system, and where there are two Communist countries side by side, the stronger is bound to dominate the other. For the time being, China is dominated by the Kremlin as it was dominated by Genghis Khan, the Mongol conqueror, seven hundred years ago. But the Khan died and his successors vied with each other, died in their turn and the Mongol empire went to pieces. The great Communist Khan, Stalin, who conquered a chaotic China by craft, is dead and his successor has disposed of his rival by liquidation. History is gradually repeating itself in the Far East.

Sir Winston specifically pointed out that probability several years ago, and it was doubtless at the back of his mind when he replied to the second question. "What," he was asked, "are the possibilities for peaceful co-existence between Soviet Russia and Communist China, on the one hand, and non-Communist nations on the other?" He replied, "We ought to have a real good try for it, although anyone can see it doesn't solve all the problems, but it may be that time, if it is accompanied by vigilance, will enable peaceful co-existence for a period of years, will create a very different situation to the one so full of peril, so doom-laden, as the present one under which we live." Those are wise words. They take in the short view of avoiding an atomic war, and the long view of a probable "very different situation" when the present dictators are dead and the people of Russia and China are in a better condition to rule themselves.

In the meantime, as Sir Winston said, later at Ottawa, "We may have to learn to live with all sorts of people in the wicked world," and he added: "If the choice is between that and the destruction of the human race, then there is a lot to be said for letting reform stand over for a while." He is the same Churchill who led Britain and the Allied Nations to victory in a world war, and he is still a fighter and a shrewd strategist. But he is now fighting for sanity in the face of a threat of world destruction. His strategy is long-range; preparing for the worst, striving faithfully for the best, and leaving the rest to God and "that old common arbitrator, Time."

Our Lottery Laws . . . let's finish this burlesque

IT'S about time the citizens of this country laid it on the line to politicians that we are fed up with the travesty that we call lottery laws and more than just a little bit tired of the pussy-foot approach that has been going on for too long.

It is not the intention of this editorial to take sides on the question of whether or not lotteries should be legalized. Our objection here is to the inconsistencies that keep occurring under the present method of enforcing the laws against lotteries.

This past week we were treated to what is perhaps the ultimate in disregard for the anti-lottery law when daily newspapers displayed a picture of Attorney-General Robert Bonner signing up for a ticket on a lottery in connection with the British Empire Games. Our initial shock on reading of our attorney-general publicly flouting the law he is by oath dedicated to uphold, was, we must confess, replaced by no little respect for the astuteness of the promoters of this raffle. We can think of no more secure insurance against prosecution for conducting a raffle than to have the chief law enforcement officer of the province publicly compromise himself and his department by participating in it.

The attorney-general of Alberta, however, seems to have a different concept of how anti-gambling laws should be enforced. In Provost, Alberta, a citizens' committee decided to hold a raffle of 10 cars to raise funds for building an arena. The lottery was just getting nicely underway when the attorney-general lowered the boom and now the committee, along with the local publisher who printed the raffle tickets, all face court charges.

Lotteries are banned not by provincial legislation but by federal statute and yet we have the attorney-general of one province dealing himself in for a hand while in the neighboring province the attorney-general is bringing offenders into court to face charges.

A year ago we were greatly surprised to see an agricultural fair advertised in an isolated industrial area of the province where the agricultural production is probably the lowest of any place in B.C. Pretty soon though, the reason became clear. It seems lotteries are permitted at agricultural fairs so by scattering a few exhibits of flowers among the commercial exhibits, they were able to raffle off a house. If it had been called an industrial fair, value of the raffle prizes would have to have been kept under $50 since that is the limit the attorney-general's department is reported to be normally willing to ignore. A shrewd manoeuvre to be sure but still lacking the imagination shown by the promoters who start off by compromising the attorney-general.

That the present lottery laws are unpopular there can be no doubt. There are very few people who will on moral grounds refuse to buy a lottery ticket or play a game of bingo. Those things have become a part of every day life and usually the amount involved is trifling. Unfortunately, however, there are no degrees of right and wrong. If it's wrong to buy a ticket on the get-rich-quick Irish Sweepstake, then it's equally wrong to buy a ticket on a quilt at the church bazaar.

It is not a healthy situation to have on the statute books laws which are universally flouted. It can only serve to breed contempt for all laws of the country and to develop gross injustices by their haphazard enforcement.

What we need is strict enforcement of the law — whether it be of the present apparently unpopular one or of a more realistic one which will permit outlet for the gambling instinct inherent in the majority of people.

One even the attorney-general will respect.

State Enterprise . . . the record speaks for itself

SASKATCHEWAN CCF government has had its faith in doctrinaire socialism badly shaken by experiences in state enterprise. Of various business and industrial ventures upon which the Saskatchewan government gaily embarked at the end of World War II, six have had to close down, four more are piling up alarming deficits.

Two which have recorded substantial profits are a corporation set up to sell war surplus, and an organization handling housing. Other government enterprises have stacked up cumulative deficits of $1,639,000. Compulsory provincial auto insurance scheme was $1,581,000 in red at end of 1953.

Two aspects of CCF venture in realm of state enterprise are puzzling. First is that the Saskatchewan government should violate socialist principles to the point of making profits out of housing. Second is that other enterprises, financed by yearly advances from provincial treasury, have lost so much money despite the fact advances made are interest-free.

The Reasons Why . . . the buyer has the last word

SPeaking straight from the shoulder in a recent editorial, the Montreal Gazette, one of Canada's foremost newspapers, emphasized that unemployment has come about because the workers of other countries are doing the work that Canadians have been doing, or might be doing. And they have taken over because they are able to produce at a more competitive rate and price.

The Gazette editorialist said that no cure could be affected by having Canada's workers "go slow" in order to "spread the work thin." Any tendency in this direction can lead to further unemployment, as the cost of production would go still higher, and further advantages would be given to Canada's competitors. The need is for goods with more attractive price tags. This means more goods produced at less expense. The relief of unemployment and prevention of its growth is not management's responsibility alone, states the writer; it is labour's responsibility too. So long as wage and other demands are insisted upon, without regard to the economic consequences, more workers are bound to find themselves without jobs. For it can only mean that more goods and services will cease to compete and remain unsold.

The difficult times that may be ahead are times for a new sense of co-operation between management and labour. Both are concerned with the problem of selling. Goods or services that cannot be sold will not pay anybody's wages or anybody's dividends.

Management and labour are not concerned with each other. Both must be concerned, most of all, with the buyer. The buyer is the real employer. And nobody can compel the buyer to pay a higher price for goods or services than he is willing or able to pay.

Other Opinions

Ghost Cars
Anyone who drives properly and safely needn't be afraid of the RCMP's ghost car system in which unmarked cars, manned by plain clothes officers, will be on the watch for traffic offenders.

When the idea was first instituted there was a great outcry against the so-called Gestapo methods. People objected strongly to what were described as sneak tactics of the police.

Overlooked was the simple fact that regardless of what methods are employed by the police, those who do not break the laws need have no fear.

The ghost cars should help to instill into the careless driver a greater respect for rules and regulations and eventually might bring about a more sane attitude towards driving with the result that there will be less accidents, not because the motorist has a greater fear of the police, but because he will have got into the habit of driving safely.—Comox Free Press.

The Small Farm Is Losing Out
It's getting harder to make a living on the farm. And that fact is sending a lot of young people away from the rural areas in which they grew up, to the cities where they feel they can make a better living for the same amount of work.

A young man of Grand Forks took this attitude in a conversation we had a few weeks ago. Competition from the now recovered European countries, and the government farm subsidies of the United States put Canada in a trade and economic cross-fire, from which it will be hard to escape.

Okanagan farmers, just as those here, have to compete with vegetables and fruit from California which not only gets on the market earlier, but in many cases are cheaper.

Great surpluses of wheat are piling up on the prairies, with most of last year's crop still in the granaries. Last year the wheat was moved at the last minute giving room for the new crop. The same will have to happen this year or there will be no storage facilities for new wheat.

Either government subsidy or government sponsored tariff walls are not good economic solutions, the experts say. The best solution is to meet across the conference tables and gradually whittle away these artificial barriers.

But it does seem ridiculous that, at a time when the rest of country and the people in it are enjoying ever increasing prosperity, the small farmer is finding it hard to make any money for his efforts.—Grand Forks Gazette.

Pretty Good World

I have always enjoyed reading those little boxed in items in the newspapers and magazines. I came across an exceedingly amusing one the other day. In Cedarburg, Wisconsin, airman James R. Frank wired Captain John F. Greenslade, Corpus Christie Naval Air Station, "Request seven day extension; muskies running in Northern Wisconsin." According to the news item he was granted the extra week.

Maybe Captain Greenslade was a fisherman himself; or maybe he just appreciated a little downright honesty.

Not long ago I sat in on a business meeting where the president of a large company and two of his senior executives were fretting about the fact that they had to fire an employee. This particular employee had loafed on the job, been drunk many times when he should have been working, and had seldom had a good word to say for the company at any time. Yet these executives knew that he was a married man with children, and they were trying to find some way to locate this man in a position where he could not do much harm, but could still make a living.

Last week I was out at my country cottage when a terrific storm blew up. Four of five cottagers were flooded. So many of the other cottagers volunteered to help them, and crowded around offering comfort and assistance, that there was scarcely room to move. One of the fellows who was flooded turned to me and said, "Good gosh, I didn't realize that people could be so nice."

The fact of the matter is that this is a fairly easy old world to get along in. A man doesn't even have to have a great brain or a very strong back. Most people are eager to help you if you give them a chance.

I am inclined to think that it is a shame that we are concentrating so much of our thinking on trying to base our economy on failure. We are gearing ourselves to become a welfare state, when this is not necessary. If we go too far in this direction, it is quite likely that we will lose much of the spontaneous charity and neighborly assistance known today. All men will look to the government for help instead of looking for opportunities to help someone else.

There is still an abundant amount of good will on this continent. Much of the old pioneer spirit of mutual assistance lingers. Perhaps we don't hold as many quilting bees, and barn-raising bees as we used to do; but when emergencies arise, the same spirit comes into play. It seems to me that this spirit should be fostered, not replaced. One of the delights of being strong and successful is the opportunity it provides to help a neighbor. And this country would be a great deal stronger if each of us sought to put ourselves in such a position of strength.

The Lighter Side

A woman was mailing the Old Family Bible to a brother in a distant city.

Postal clerk: "Does this package contain anything breakable?"

Lady: "Only the Ten Commandments."

Next to being shot at and missed, nothing is quite so satisfying as an income tax refund.

The bystander noticed that the farmer was having trouble with his horse. It would start, go slowly for a short distance, and then stop again. Every time it stopped, the farmer had great difficulty in getting the horse started again. Finally the bystander asked, "Is your horse sick?"

"Not as I know of?"

"Is he balky?"

"No, but he's so afraid I'll say whoa and he won't hear me, that he stops every once in a while to listen."

Mid-Week Message

Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. (Matthew 6:33.) Read Mark 10:28-31.

Thirty years ago, while on vacation from school, a minister came to our house and announced boldly that God has sent him to me. He urged me to become a Christian and join the Church. I told him that I aspired to become a lawyer and did not think that in the Philippines a Protestant lawyer who did not do what everybody else did would ever succeed.

He assured me that I did not have to do any of those things, but that if I sought the Kingdom of God first, all that I needed to be successful would be added. Something within me made me accept at once. I was later baptized. Since then, I have become an active member of the Church. Notwithstanding a busy law practice, I have found my greatest thrill in working for the Lord.

God has kept His precious promise. The joy and happiness that I have found in Christ are so soul-satisfying that I would not exchange the certainty of His Kingdom for anything else in all the world.

PRAYER
Our Father, Thy Kingdom is an everlasting Kingdom. Help us to seek its reign in our hearts and in those of others, so that Thy will may be done on earth, as it is in heaven. In Christ's name, Amen.

Box Factory on Top In Softball

Honors in the first half of the re-organized Summerland Softball league went to Box Factory and second section of the schedule is now underway with tow games, already played.

The league suffered badly from lack of players when members of the Macs baseball team decided to concentrate their efforts on baseball. Teams in the league have since been bolstered with players from Jaycees and Kiwanis.

In first matches of the second section, Macs' Aces walloped Occidental 16-0 and Red Sox beat Box Factory 7-3.

By the time finals roll around the middle of August, fans can expect to see some top quality softball at the Memorial Playground.

In an exhibition game Sunday night, Macs lost 5-1 to Kelowna Sunshines.

Clever Cooking

Canadians use more evaporated milk than any other people! Thinking of evaporated milk, its story is an interesting one. Production first started in Canada about 70 years ago and from that time on Canadians have steadily used more and more evaporated milk.

Statistics over the period of the last 20 years show that our consumption has actually tripled. That fact is rather interesting for it is something that most homemakers probably had never realized. When examining statistics we see how, after World War I, there was an increase in consumption because our soldiers and sailors had become accustomed to evaporated milk. Consumption increased again after this last war.

We first started to use evaporated milk in Canada sometime after 1882 for it was then that the first condensery was built in Truro, Nova Scotia. Incidentally, this original condensery is still operating at full speed 70 years later. Its operation can be attributed to the discovery of the vacuum pan by Gail Borden in 1856. This vacuum pan, is used for the removal of part of the water from the milk. The processing is done under vacuum in order that the temperature of boiling may be lowered from 212 degrees F. to 130 degrees F. This boiling under vacuum helps to preserve the natural flavors and qualities found in the milk.

Evaporated milk does not have any social status. It is used by people of all income levels, the high and the low. It is not used just in certain localities either. Consumers in all parts of Canada use evaporated milk although probably homemakers in Newfoundland use more than do homemakers in a city such as say Toronto, Vancouver or Regina because there is very little fresh milk produced in Newfoundland.

In order to produce the 23 million pounds of evaporated milk used in Canada each year, many factories had to be built and now there are 10 condenseries in Canada which are located in several provinces: A 16-ounce can of evaporated milk, the tall can, weighs one pound and in Canada we each use on an average of about 19 of these large tins per year. Now this statement may seem slightly misleading because today many babies are fed on evaporated milk and their mothers use great quantities of the milk whereas other families do not use very much of it. However, the overall picture for Canada breaks down to that figure of about 18 cans per person per year. Evaporated milk, as it pours from the can, has twice the nutritive value of the original milk. During the processing about 60 per cent of the water is removed from the original milk and so it would take two gallons of rich fluid milk to give one gallon of evaporated milk. That is why when using evaporated milk in the home, it should be mixed with an equal amount of water to bring it back to whole fluid milk.

We are always hearing and reading about things that are "a product of our times" and in the food line certainly skim milk powder is one of them. The first skim milk powder plant in Canada was built in the early 1900's in Brownsville, Ontario. The milk powder produced in this plant and many other factories was used almost entirely by the bakery trade. About five years ago, skim milk powder was first put into packages for consumer sale in Canada. Today we use about 3½ pounds of skim milk per person per year in Canada and remembering that each pound makes about four quarts of skim milk, it is easy to see that the 3½ pounds give about 14 quarts of skim milk per person which certainly is quite a tidy amount.

Doctors, nutritionists and dietitians are advocating the use of skim milk powder. Today many people are overweight and have to cut down on calories and skim milk powder, which is whole milk from which just the fat has been removed and it is then dried, has less calories than whole milk. In a recent survey conducted on milk consumption in major cities in Canada, it was found that many adults were not drinking milk and Mrs. Homemaker seemed to be at fault more often than other members of the family. If homemakers are the offenders they should try and develop a milk drinking habit just as they probably have a tea or coffee drinking habit and if they are diet or calorie conscious, then what better milk to drink than skim milk made from Canadian skim milk powder.

TEEN TOWN

The Teen Town Membership Dances was held last Saturday night July 10. We were very disappointed that more teen-agers didn't attend. Very few membership cards were sold. Any teen-ager who wishes to buy on should contact Don Gilbert. The cost of a card is 75 cents.

Due to the way the dance turned out there will probably be no more dances for the summer.

Council meetings will continue to be held regularly. Remember kids, if Teen Town is to continue you must give us all your support. Suggestions were given as to the possibilities of a new Teen Town advisor. Any teen-ager who has any ideas as to who would make a good advisor please tell any of the council members. Advisors must be members of the local PTA.

There are close to 6,000,000 public libraries in Canada, serving about 90 p.c. of the people in big cities, and about 40 p.c. of the people in smaller communities.

More than 30,000,000 gallons of kerosene are sold in Canada each year.

In Chinmokchong, the Korean village adopted by the Canadian army, officers learn at first hand the technique of food production by the centuries-old oriental method. A young girl, right, has added a slightly modern touch to the rice-pounding by using an artillery shell as the head of her mallet, but her "mama-san" uses the traditional metal head. The officers tried to keep count of the number of wallops needed to produce a few pounds of flour from the coarse rice poured into the hollowed stump.

Lace appliques featured the bodice and skirt and lendin extra interest to the high neckline were rhinestones braided in satin. Matching appliques and rhinestones effect were carried out in the fingertip veil which fell from a lace and satin Juliet cap. She carried red carnations and lily-of-the-valley.

teach them to use the telephone properly.

• Children are fascinated by a telephone . . . and quite often they bring it into their play—and that's where the trouble can begin . . . for one receiver off the hook puts the whole party line out of action!

• If you have a young family, remind them that they don't need a real telephone in their play . . . it's much too important to be treated as a plaything . . . if your children are older, they'll understand that good telephone service depends on sharing the line with their neighbours . . .

• A little courtesy . . . goes a long way in making better party-line service.

Order Cafe Closed Pending Improvements

Failure of Westland Bar to meet certain requirements of the public health authorities brought from municipal council Tuesday an order for the premises to be closed down until the requirements are met.

Inspector Fred Alcock reported that operator Bill Radomske had been advised early in June that cracked dishes would have to be replaced floor covering laid and washing facilities improved and that the instructions have not been carried out.

Council instructed the public health officer to take immediate steps to close the restaurant premises until such time as the necessary improvements have been made.

He's changing the nation's landscape

You may see the result of what he is doing in the city's changing skyline — or out where the corn grows tall . . . in the mushrooming suburbs — or in the new look of Main Street in a mellow old town.

Where many a vacant lot once stood, he helps fill it with a fine new school. Where you used to see a structure that was an eyesore you may now see a new apartment house, store or other building he played a role in providing.

Thanks in part to him, many houses rise here and there, or row on row, in community after community. New black ribbons of asphalt tie town to town. Somewhere, a new bridge is built.

New industrial plants, too, are sometimes the by-products of his helping hand. Perhaps one of them has provided you with a job. Who is he?

He represents all the millions of life insurance policyholders in Canada. And it's money from their premiums, which life insurance companies invest for them, that makes possible such improvements as these throughout the nation.

So, if you are a life insurance policyholder building security for your family and yourself, you're also helping to build a better Canada!

Fall Barely Short Of Debt-free Mark

Summerland Youth Centre drive to be out of debt by the annual meeting on June 25 could have been a reality but it would have left the organization without funds for operating expenses so about $125 is still outstanding against the loan.

Chosen chairman of the Youth Centre executive was Art Crawford who takes over the job from Reeve F. E. Atkinson. Job of secretary-treasurer which has been performed by E. R. Butler was split with Mr. Butler carrying on as treasurer and secretary is Blair Underwood.

Vice-chairman is D. V. Fisher and executive members are Reeve Atkinson, John Kitson, Les Gould, George Chadburn, Dr. D. L. McIntosh, Mrs. F. E. Atkinson, Mrs. Art Crawford, Mrs. Chester Reinertson and Mrs. J. H. Dunsdon.

One major saving effected by the Youth Centre during the past year was the use of peach pits for fuel which cut to about one-eighth the cost of heating the building. Pits were supplied by Cornwall Cannery.

Macs Twice Edged Out In Season's Best Games

In two starts last week, Summerland Macs gave fans full value for their admission money but in both cases were nosed out at the last minute. Sunday against Oliver the game went two extra innings before the southerners broke a tie to win 7-6 and last Wednesday Pentiction after trailing all the way, drove home three runs in the eighth to cop an 8-5 victory.

In the Wednesday night game, Macs' prospects looked good from the beginning with four runs being scored by the first four men up to bat. Bob Weitzel went to base when he was hit by the first ball pitched. Alan Hooked followed and singled and then Geordie Taylor added another single to bring Weitzel home. The bases loaded when Aikin was hit by the pitch and Hooker came home on a sacrifice by Kato. A timely two base hit by Don Cristante sent Taylor and Aikin across the plate.

Second inning saw the Macs five runs ahead when Hooker took a free pass and then came home on a double by Taylor.

The A's unlimbered in the third when Jones singled and Burgart was walked. S. Drossos brought Jones home with a single and then a costly balk by Billy Eyre advanced the base runners and singles by Ashley and Powell brought the pair home.

In the fifth, Drossos narrowed the lead with his second run of the game and then crossed the plate for the third time in the seventh to tie-up the match 5-5.

Cristante replaced Eyre in the eighth and the little dark cloud that has followed Macs all season moved into position and the A's picked up three effortless runs to put the game on ice. G. Drossos was walked and then an error by Fred Kato permitted him to reach second and Jones to make first.

An error by Hooker paved the way to third for Drossos and then he came home on a wild pitch. Burgart singled to bring Jones home and then another wild pitch put him on second. He went down to third on an error and then stole home.

Billy Eyre in the match stretched out his performance at strikeouts by sending 11 batters back to the dugout swinging.

Sunday afternoon at Oliver saw the Macs chop down an early lead by OBC's and finally pull up abreast in the last half of the ninth only to have their hopes dashed in the second extra inning when Vanderburgh singled, reached second on a single by Fritz, was sacrificed to third by McNiven and then came home on a double by Martino.

The game was one of the hottest of the season for the Macs and OBC's paraded out pitchers Radies, Martino and Clifton in an effort to stop the locals as they steadily closed the distance while Egely played Cristante and Eyre in the pitching role.

Macs started the scoring in the second with Fred Kato doing the honors. Third inning saw Oliver get down to business and Coy, Snider, Clifton and Vanderburgh accounted for four runs.

Daryl Weitzel cut the lead to two runs in the fourth and then in the fifth Hooker and Taylor each scored to tie the game at 4-4 going into the sixth. OBC's were back in the driver's seat in the sixth, though, with a run by McNiven and Fritz added another in the seventh.

Bottom half of the seventh saw Macs still on the heels of Oliver with Taylor scoring and in the ninth his third run of the game deadlocked the score again. It stayed that way until Vanderburgh's winning run in the 11th.

Macs played heads-up ball right from the opening pitch and were free from errors in the 11 innings.

A likely entrant in the British Empire Games, blonde Jackie MacDonald, 21, had a try at breaking her week-old women's shot-put record of 42 feet, seven inches at the Hamilton meet, but missed by one inch. With Pella and pole valuter Ron Miller, Jackie is considered Canada's top hope for British Empire laurels at Vancouver.

Juniors Overwhelmed By Pentiction

Pentiction Juniors opened up with both barrels at the Living Memorial Park Sunday and left the local boys on the tail end of a 10-4 tally. Mainstay of the visitors was pitcher Getz who held the Red Sox to six hits and threw seven strikeouts.

Bobby Bonthoux handled the pitching chore for the Sox for eight innings and gave up eight hits and six bases on balls then in the ninth Sheeley took over and the visitors rolled up three runs off a pair of hits and a couple of errors.

The Sox clung right to the heels of the Pentiction squad until the tag end of the game. In the first inning Romlin scored for Pentiction and in the second the ledger was balanced by Uegama. Visitors were out in front again in the third when Richards scored. Sox were briefly ahead in the fourth with runs by Bonthoux and Pohlman but in the bottom half of the inning Digionanne and Garnett pushed their side into the lead again. Getz added another for Pentiction in the sixth. Scot tried to balance it in the seventh but Digionanne had the equalizer for that in the bottom half of the inning.

Richards came in with the seventh Pentiction run in the eighth and then in the final frame the visitors put the game on ice with tallies by Moore, Richards and Getz.

The only homebrew to break a national record in the Canada track and field championships at Hamilton, discus-thrower Roy Pella of Sudbury is also a promising gridiron prospect. Impressed by the 23-year-old athlete's record discus heave of 160 feet, 8 inches, Hamilton Tiger Cat coach Carl Voyles of the Big Four approached the six-foot, 210-pound end on his future plans. However, Pella is concentrating now on training for the B.C. games this summer in Vancouver and says football plans will have to wait.

BERT BERRY'S Fishing News

Okanagan Lake: No big ones landed this week that I have heard. Most fishermen catching a few up to 3 1/2 lbs. but none of the big ones. A little slower than last week on fishing the drop-offs, lots of fish seen but a little hard to persuade them to bite.

Fish Lake Camp: Fish lake itself not too bad but has dropped off some. All the upper lakes good; and both fly and trollers getting limit catches.

Headwaters Camp: Not many reports from here but one party had nice fishing last week.

Glenn Lake: Nice fly fishing but the larger ones are a little hard to get to bite but well worth a try.

Silver Lake: Good fishing here up to 18 inches was caught.

Shannon Lake: Good bass and perch fishing here again this week.

Dee Lake Chain: Two reports show very good fishing here.

Mabel Lake: Very nice fishing here both fly and trolling.

Bollen Lake: Two reports show was off for beginning of week but on over the week-end.

Electoral Officer Advises Council
Liquor Plebiscite Will be Held Here

A plebiscite on whether residents favor any increase in the number or type of liquor outlets in this area will be held before any licenses are granted in Summerland. Members of the council Tuesday were advised by letter from the chief electoral officer that the plebiscite will be held but not date for the voting was set.

The liquor plebiscite was granted at the request of Summerland municipal council which made application for the vote following representations made by the local committee of the Alcohol Research Education Council.

The plebiscite will ask for a vote on four different types of licenses. The four questions will be:

(a) Are you in favour of the sale of beer, ale, and stout only under a public-house licence for consumption on licensed premises? (Note:—A public-house licence will be similar to the present beer-parlour licence.)

(b) Are you in favour of the sale of beer, ale, stout, and wine only under a dining-room licence for consumption with meals on licensed premises? (Note:—Dining-room licences will be granted to hotels, restaurants, clubs, railway-cars, steamship, and resorts.)

(c) Are you in favour of the sale of liquor under a dining-lounge for consumption with meals on licensed premises? (Note:—Dining-lounge licences will be issued principally to what are commonly known as cabarets, and to clubs.)

(d) Are you in favour of the sale of liquor under a lounge licence for consumption on licensed premises? (Note:—Lounge licences will be issued to cocktail-bars. They will be granted only to clubs, hotels, resorts, railway-cars, and steamships. It is understood the voters' list will be frozen from the day the date of the plebiscite is announced so that anyone whose name is not at present on the list must have it added before that announcement is made.

A copy of the present voters' list is available at The Review and also registration cards for those who wish to have their names added.

Approve Housewives Request for Sign

Two Paradise Flat housewives, Mrs. Harvey Mitchell and Mrs. E. H. Bennett appeared Tuesday before the council to present a petition asking that a slow sign be installed on the road near their homes because of the traffic danger created by the "blind" entries to the road.

Councillors were familiar with the traffic condition and agreed to the installation with very little discussion.

They did not, however, fare quite so well on a second request that the portion of road near their homes be oiled because of the dust nuisance but roads committee chairman Steuart did have a solution to offer.

Councillor Steuart pointed out that the municipality has not undertaken oiling roads because it has been found to be uneconomical and not too successful so instead of using money for this purpose, all available funds have been used to push ahead the hard-surfacing program as speedily as possible.

However, he said, if any residents wish to have a section of road oiled and are willing to pay for the oil, the municipality will send the done is 25 cents a gallon for the sprayer out and lay it. Cost to the person or group having the work oil used.

The pair left well pleased with the council's reception to do some figuring on the cost of oiling and consider the cost in the light of the number of hours of housework saved by cutting dusting time.

Marilyn Wade Crowned 1954 Summerland Queen

An attractive blonde grade 11 student, Marilyn Wade, Saturday night at the Board of Trade festival was chosen as Summerland's 1954 queen and before a crowd of close to 700 received her crown and scepter from last year's queen, Yvonne Polesello.

Chosen as princesses to attend her during the coming year were Lella Lewis and Joan Macdonald. The new queen was chosen from a field of six contestants for the crown and was representative of AOTS.

On the panel of judges who made the selection were Mrs. T. H. Anstey, Mrs. Alec Bridger and Louis Lawley.

Each of the contestants was interviewed early in the evening at the Memorial Playground by master of ceremonies Charles Wilkinson and after answering several questions to test general knowledge each gave a one-minute speech.

Others vying for the crown were Irene Menu, Ethel Gilbert and Jeanine Bonthoux.

In the competition, points were awarded for charm, personality, deportment, bearing, beauty, ability to speak in public and general knowledge.

Crowning of the new queen was carried out in a colorful ceremony during which she knelt before the retiring queen to receive her emblems of office. She was flanked by her princesses and a pair of tiny flower girls, Ereen Bergstrom and Janet Tamblin.

Queen Marilyn is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wade of West Summerland.

During the evening of entertainment Summerland Band provided music and during the interval between judging and crowning, the crowd found interests at the bingo and refreshment stands. Bingo was directed by Walt Toeve while Doug Campbell was in charge of refreshment booth.

N. O. Solly was general chairman of the event and had the assistance of a large number of volunteer workers.

Beside the large number of Summerland residents, the event drew many visitors from other points in the valley for the evening.

In the raffle drawing during the evening, a clock radio was won by Gordon Smith with draw being made by C. E. Bentley.

First official duty of Queen Marilyn will be to grace the Summerland float which will be entered in the Pentiction Peach Festival parade next month.

Fourth Annual Regatta

Males Will Strut Stuff Wednesday For Crack at Man-of-the-Lake Honors

Summerland's Queen Marilyn after next week may have to look to her laurels with Summerland males preparing to pit their brawn brains and ingenuity in an all-out knock-down-and-drag-out contest at the fourth annual Summerland Regatta a Summerland entry for Kelowna's popular "Man-of-the-Lake" competition. Whether the male populace can produce a candidate who will outshine the lovely queen is extremely doubtful but Regatta director John Kitson reports entries are likely to include Gorgeous George, ex-King Farouk and Hairless Joe along with a number of other well-known luminaries.

The judging for the "Man-of-the-Lake" contest next Wednesday will be only one feature of the program which promises to be the best yet staged and more than 20 events have been planned to give a chance for everyone to enter the competition. One event which will bring together a variety of shapes and sizes is the 50-yard event which will match directors of the Summerland Youth Centre Association which is sponsoring the regatta.

The regatta this year for the first time will be staged at Camp Sores which offers better facilities for the event. Events are scheduled to get underway at 6 o'clock and the program will continue until eight.

Community Mourns Loss Of Outstanding Citizen

All Summerland this week mourned the loss of one of its most outstanding citizens after death struck suddenly Sunday afternoon and claimed Walter Rees Powell, the man credited with accomplishing more in the development of this community than any other person.

Yesterday afternoon, fruit growers and municipal officials from all over the valley gathered at St. Andrew's United Church to pay tribute to Summerland's leading citizen.

Mr. Powell was in apparent good health right up until the time he was stricken Sunday afternoon and Saturday evening attended the Board of Trade festival and was in his usual good spirits.

The irrigation and electrification systems of Summerland will ever stand as a memorial to the vision of Mr. Powell who fathered most of their development and the public beach which bears his name is on land donated by him to the municipality for the purpose.

He held the office of reeve in Summerland for five terms—from 1929 to 1935, again in 1940-41 and then in 1946-47.

As a fruit grower since 1922, he took an active part in the activities of the BCFG and was on the board of governors of B.C. Tree Fruits and was a director of B.C. Processors from the time it came into existence. He served also as president of Summerland Co-op Growers.

He was largely responsible for development of the assured irrigation supply in Summerland by negotiating with the federal government to have water for the experimental station pumped from the lake and to have the water rights it held to Crescent Lake relinquished to the municipality, and by the construction of Thirsk Dam.

The program which he blueprinted for the municipality to retail electricity to local users was developed into a system which is one of the most favorable to consumers to be found anywhere in Canada and is at the same time a profitable business for the municipality.

In 1944 he was honored by his fellow citizens by being chosen as "Good Citizen" of that year.

He was 69 years of age and was born at Brynmawr, South Wales. In 1906 he moved to the U.S. and then to Vancouver five years later where he operated a produce market until 1919. He moved to Summerland in 1923 and has been an orchardist since then.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, Walter of Summerland, George of West Vancouver and Rees of Toronto; one daughter, Mrs. Mac Johnston of Mission; and nine grandchildren. Another son, Richard, was killed in an accident in 1943.

Rev. Franck Patterson officiated at the largely-attended service yesterday and six Summerland friends of long standing served as pall bearers. They were Alex H. Steven, Reeve F. E. Atkinson, A. McLachlan, Roy F. Angus, G. Morgan and Gordon Robertson.

Committal was in Peach Orchard cemetery with Roselawn Funeral Home directing final arrangements.

Make Appointment Of Home Ec Teacher

Summerland school board has announced the appointment of Miss Leonie Reed of Kelowna as home economics teacher on the staff of the Junior-Senior High School to replace Miss Phyllis Hoath.

Miss Reed was a member of this year's graduating class of the University of Manitoba and is at present attending summer school in Victoria.

Queens Are A Habit In The Wade Family

Queens must run in the Wade family.

After watching daughter Marilyn crowned as Summerland Queen at the festival Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Cec Wade sat in for a fast game of bingo.

Mrs. Wade copped a "bingo" in a photo finish with another player and a deck of cards was produced to decide the winner.

Mrs. W. won—with a queen. (Editor's Note—I cut a four)

Contract Awarded For New Highway

Report was received in Summerland this week that contract for construction of the new highway through Summerland has been awarded Emil Anderson Construction Co., Hope.

No official word of the contract award has yet been received and the amount of the bid accepted is not yet known.

The contract is for construction of the road from Trout Creek to the foot of Tait's Hill and municipal council is pressing to have the public works department extend this contract to have the road link up with the stretch now under construction just north of Summerland.

Invitation Shoot Here Next Sunday

Scoring possibilities at the 200 and 500 ranges, Walt Cousins of Pentiction, now a member of the Summerland Club, rolled up an impressive 103 out of a possible of 105, to lead sharpshooters at the range Sunday.

Scores were running high as riflemen prepare for the annual invitation tourney to be staged by the Summerland club on Sunday.

Len Shannon with a possible on the 200-yard range, and Art Dunsdon both scored 99 while John Kholnabach and Phil Dunsdon both had 98.

Close behind were Fred Dunsdon with 97; George Dunsdon, whose possible on the 500-yard range helped him total 96; Bert Simpson with 94 and Elmer Doslots with 89.

At Kamloops last Sunday, Fred Dunsdon was in a shoot-off with two other sharpshooters for the grand aggregate for the day when he shot a 101. George Dunsdon brought home the Col. Barber trophy for his high score of 84 on the 500-yard range.

This week-end will see 60 to 70 shooters from all over the province competing at the local range. Prizes being offered are the BCD Shield for best five-man team; Dunsdon Shield for high aggregate Summerland Cup for high 20-yards; Sport Centre Cup for high 500-yard and George Rose Cup for high 600-yards.

Magistrate Dismisses Charge of Cruelty

A police court charge against George Knippelberg, of cruelty abandoning an animal was dismissed Friday morning by Magistrate R. S. Oxley.

Charge was laid by SPCA Inspector T. E. Swann of Pentiction. Appearing for the defence was Frank Christian while A. D. C. Washington represented the crown.

EDITORIAL . . .

WALTER REES POWELL . . . a man of Harlech (CONTRIBUTED)

There passed from our midst last Sunday afternoon this man, leaving behind such a sense of loss as to be acutely felt by every resident of our community; a feeling indeed akin to that of a repining debtor for the measure of a heritage striven and obtained for us as a result of penetrative discernment and that unique quality of meeting and surmounting difficulties.

Coming to our district at a time when the community pulse was beating with irregularity because of an acute shortage of irrigation water, his thoughts and actions readily joined with those of others to discover a remedy. It was not until he obtained a seat on the local municipal council that the necessary scope for the exercise of such ability was available, whereupon, quietly and persistently, oftentimes in the face of active opposition and criticism, he pursued his schemes for general betterment, the results of which cannot readily be dismissed from the minds of men. It is largely the outcome of such administrative skill that he has left for posterity a unique local situation as compared with neighboring communities.

Such unerring vision as the man possessed marked him for a wider field of endeavour in marketing expansion, and it is only those of his colleagues who can aptly testify to his co-operative spirit and creative genius.

A kind, interesting and entertaining conversationalist, and with a mind charged with a depth of human understanding, and always with a ready and rich repartee, his characteristic gesture and easy manner of approach will long be remembered wherever men of action and concept are wont to congregate.

When the history of our industry comes to be written for the benefit of coming generations, the name of Walter Rees Powell will loom large within its annals, and hours of leisure will be crowned with a becoming aura of appreciation for the privilege given to sporting youth, provided for by his beneficent hand.

Of a surety he leaves behind a legible imprint upon community life, and taking him all in all we can scarcely hope to see his like again. Of his passing, and without seeming ambiguity, the lines of a great economist can surely be fittingly applied—

Men who work while others sleep;
Who dare while others fly;
They plant a nation's pillars deep,
Or raise them to the sky.

District Governor Here . . .

Describes Program of Rotary Clubs To Aid International Understanding

Rotary Clubs in 89 countries and geographical regions throughout the world are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, good will and peace. That was the message of Mr. J. C. Jeppson of Lewiston, Idaho, Governor of District 153, of Rotary International, in addressing the Rotary Club of Summerland on July 16, following a conference with local Rotary officers and committee chairmen.

In addition to the activities of Rotary's 8,300 Clubs within their own communities to promote this objective Mr. Jeppson explained, Rotary International has spent more than $1,500,000 in recent years through its program of student fellowship, which enables outstanding college graduates to study for one year in countries other than their own, as ambassadors of good will.

Since 1947, when this program was established, 606 Rotary Fellowships have been awarded to students in 57 countries. Every district sends a fellow each alternate year and District 153 will send one next year.

"With fellowship and service to others as its keynote, Rotary provides a common ground for 389,000 business and professional executives throughout the world, regardless of differing nationalities or political or religious beliefs," Mr. Jeppson emphasized.

Summerland Rotary club is already working on plans for commemoration of Rotary's golden anniversary year Feb. 23, to June 2, 1954, President Ivor Solly said.

Mr. Jeppson was accompanied by his wife Zola who was entertained by Mrs. Solly, together with the wives of the Rotary executive.

High School Band To Play in Pentiction

Summerland's High School Band will provide a concert Friday evening, July 30, from the Pentiction Band shell. The Peach Festival Association has been sponsoring weekly band concerts and has invited the local school band to participate.

The concert will start at 7:30. Other Summerland artists will assist in the program.

Anticipate Increase In Local Apple Crop

Latest fruit estimates indicate Summerland this year will produce an apple crop about 10 per cent higher than last year with indications being for about 50,000 boxes more. Last year Summerland produced 457,249 boxes and this year's estimates are for 501,500.

Okanagan production, however, is expected to be down from 5,605,000 last year to 5,175,000 for this season. Crop in B.C. is expected to drop from 6,002,000 to 5,671,000.

A drop of about 29,000 boxes is anticipated in the Summerland pear production which compared to the loss in the rest of the Okanagan Valley is relatively low. Pear crop last year amounted to 128,957 boxes and this year is expected to be about 100,000. For the Okanagan, however, the decrease will be from 718,553 to 487,000.

Mrs. J. R. Campbell Rites Last Friday

Funeral services were held from St. Andrew's United Church Friday afternoon, July 16, for Mrs. J. R. Campbell who was a resident of Summerland for nearly half a century. She passed away following a short illness on July 14 in Summerland General Hospital.

An active community worker, Mrs. Campbell will be missed by a wide circle of friends and co-workers, particularly in St. Andrew's Church, its choir and the WCTU.

She was in her 73rd year and lived in Summerland since 1901, when she moved here with her husband.

Beside her husband, she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. S. Ritchie in Summerland, a granddaughter, Mrs. A. G. Gray, Summerland, and a grandson, Ronald Ritchie, RCAF, Portage la Prairie. Great-grandsons are Michael and Gerald Gray.

Officiating at the last rites was Rev. Franck Patterson and interment followed at Peach Orchard Cemetery. Summerland Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Cafe Open Again After Alterations

After being closed down over the week-end for alterations, Westland Bar reopened Tuesday morning after necessary work had been carried out to bring the cafe up to requirements set by public health authorities.

Municipal council last week ordered closure of the restaurant when owner Bill Radomske failed to comply with instructions of sanitary inspector Fred Alcock regarding replacement of cracked dishes, installation of floor covering and improving washing facilities. These requirements were met before the cafe reopened Tuesday morning.

Rejects Proposal To Aid Growers

"... the government can see no practical way in which to extend loan assistance to these growers without establishing a precedent of very wide application."

This was the substance of the statement by agricultural minister Hon. Kenneth BCFGA for emergency loans to growers who suffered severe frost damage to permit them to remain on their orchards and carry out essential operation.

The request for loan assistance was made this spring following the crippling frost in late April. The request was first made in a telegram to Hon. James Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, and Mr. Klernan was informed of the action.

Ottawa replied it was a job for Victoria, that the federal government assisted in matters of this kind only when provincial governments assumed responsibility. The provincial government examined the situation and recently Mr. Klernan met with members of the BCFGA executive in Kelowna. The government's attitude was expressed in a statement by Mr. Klernan following this meeting.

Following is the statement issued by Mr. Klernan:

"We have given this problem the most careful consideration, and while we have the greatest sympathy for the grower who has lost his crop by frost, damage we can see no way by which the loss can be dealt with as other than one of the hazards of the industry.

"I must, therefore, advise you that the government can see no practical way in which to extend loan assistance to these growers without establishing a precedent of very wide application."

Fruit production in the Summerland district had long outgrown the storage facilities which had been provided. Directors of the Fruit Union were making application to the municipality for the purchase of several small lots between its building at the CPR wharf and the post office, and planning to build on them.

Serial bonds bearing six percent interest were to be issued in the amount of $70,000 if the taxpayers approved the irrigation system extension by-law. Professor F. M. Clement, head of the department of horticulture at UBC was appointed dean of Professor F. M. Clement, head of the department of agriculture in succession to Dean Klinch, new university president.

James Ritchie suggested to the school board that five acres of land north and a similar amount south of the present central school should be purchased from him as a site for the new high school building.

As North Okanagan towns were getting together to develop electrical power at Shuswap Falls and on Adams river, it had been suggested that the South Kootenay Power Company might decide to extend its supply line north from Fairview to Pen-ticton.

A definite announcement that a new railway line was to be built in the near future from Penticton to the boundary line was made by W. H. Brodie, CPR passenger agent at Vancouver.

As the western apple crop was below the previous year and the eastern crop larger, sales of B.C. apples were dependant largely on quality of production, especially to meet eastern competition on the Manitoba market.

Restoration of the freight rates as provided in the 'Crows' Nest agreement was having the effect of greatly increasing the handicap borne by B.C. fruit as compared with the product of eastern orchards. The BCFGA and United Farmers of B.C. were planning a movement among producers in B.C. to remedy this injustice. G. G. McGee, K.C. was addressing public meetings throughout the Okanagan explaining the situation. This freight rates change had latterly become known as the mountain differential.

Oiled apple wrappers for preventing apple scald were finding increasing favor among growers and shippers.

Peachland was proposing to finish the Peachland-Princeton road by voluntary labor and seeking the co-operation of other towns.

T. P. Thornber, municipal electrician, sold the old generator and switchboard, used by the municipality up to the time Kootenay power was introduced, for $275.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Wright returned to Summerland after an absence of several years. in Renfrew, Ont.

Possibility that the fruit packing and canning industry may be tied up loomed following a decision made by the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable

How To Make It Work?

Someone has sent me a copy of a bulletin issued to the members of the Hamilton, Ont., Local of the United Steel Workers of America, in which is presented an explanation of the split in the British Labor Party. At the outset the bulletin denies the charge that Socialism has failed, but admits "there is quite some amount of difference of opinion in the Labor movement in Britain in respect to making Socialism work."

It might have been added that there is also the unsolved problem of how to make Socialists workers work, or work hard enough to earn their pay and make the socialized industries pay. As it was, the Socialist workers resorted to absenteeism, slowdowns and unofficial strikes, which threatened to put those industries out of business and themselves out of work entirely.

That was a natural consequence of labor union teaching that the workers were being exploited by capitalist employers for private profits, and that under Socialism they would not have to work so hard and the profits would go into their pay envelopes. They got the higher pay all right, with reduced working hours; but with every pay increase they found that the extra money was eaten up by higher prices, while the reduced working hours reduced the volume of production, created scarcity and a decline in export trade.

Speaking in the House of Commons at Ottawa recently, a Conservative member declared that Socialism was a "fraud" because, he said, it made people believe they could "get something for nothing." But Socialism was never intended as a fraud, and its chief apostle never said that it would provide anything for nothing. With Socialism the people would have to work under State compulsion for a living. Everybody would be appointed to jobs according to their ability and paid according to their "need." That word "need" in itself presents a knotty problem, for most people have desires which they regard as their needs. Moreover, if industry were to be confined to the production of bare needs there would be no progress and no employment for more than half of the population.

In this connection, the Steeworkers' Union bulletin quotes Mr. Bevan, the left-wing leader of the Labor Party, as saying: "The religion of Socialism is the language of priorities. It is no doubt true that private enterprise can produce luxurious cars and millionaires' apartments as efficiently as the State can do it, but here is the point—no one should be allowed to produce unnecessary things as long as necessary goods are not being made."

Yet, in the next paragraph, Mr. Bevan goes on: "Britain must produce more steel in order to build great new factories and machines on which her very future depends. If a depression comes along, we should produce more steel, not less, but private enterprise produces only what it can make profit on. The future of Britain is precarious, only Socialist planning will save us."

The foregoing is an example of Socialist self-contradiction. For six years the Labor Government had a free field for Socialist planning, and it failed to produce enough necessary goods for the home market because it could not make a profit on them. It was more profitable to produce "unnecessary things" for foreign markets, and those things got the "priorities." That may have been good policy under the circumstances, but it is contrary to Mr. Bevan's "Socialist religion."

As for the right-wing of the Labor Party, the bulletin quotes them as saying: "We still believe that only Socialism will save Britain—and perhaps the world—in the future. We still believe in nationalization. But we must plan better and concentrate on efficiency first. . . . we should not nationalize industries which are working efficiently."

But they did that with the very efficient Steel workers, which they now declare they will re-nationalize if they return to power.

Man's Best Friend . . . best only in the proper place

WITH the heat of summer days at last upon us, most popular retreat for Summerland residents is Powell Beach where they can intersperse relaxation in the sun with cooling dips in the refreshing waters of Okanagan Lake.

The Summerland Parks Board has done everything in their power to make Powell Beach as attractive as possible and to make it one of the most delightful beaches on the lake.

The setting and facilities are excellent but there is one more very important ingredient necessary to permit full enjoyment by all who wish to go there—consideration by all of the rights of other on the beach.

One of the most thoughtless acts committed is by those people who take their dogs to a public beach. Even the most ardent dog lover when he is in the line of fire of a shower of water and sand from a soggy coat will see man's best friend through a somewhat jaundiced eye.

There is probably nothing less conducive to enjoyment of an afternoon on the beach than to have a few dogs charging over the recumbent figure of a sun bather, dodging in and out of the water to retrieve sticks and mixing it up in the occasional dog fight.

Any person who takes a dog to a public beach is obviously completely insensitive to the rights of others any appeal on the grounds of fair play would probably find little response. Fortunately, those who would like to enjoy interrupted relaxation on the beach are not entirely dependent, on the undeveloped sense of fair play of the inconsiderate dog owners. There is a law which provides a penalty for people who allow their dogs to run free in public parks and strict enforcement of this law for a while would perhaps get the idea across to owners in a language they would understand.

For those who want to give their dogs a chance to have a dip, there are plenty of spots along the lakeshore not used by bathers where they can throw sticks into the water for their dogs to chase and not interfere with anyone else.

Dog owners are not, of course, the only people who can spoil the finest beach no matter how good the facilities are. Groups who scatter lunch wrappers and other litter around the beach can soon have it looking not too different from the nuisance ground.

The money to maintain the beach comes out of the municipal coffers and there would soon be a howl if the Parks Board started to spend money on a daily clean-up at the beach. They are now doing an outstanding job with the limited amount of money they have available each year and co-operating with them is one way people can show their appreciation. If every person would leave the portion of the beach they were occupying in just the condition they would like to find it next time they come, that problem would quickly disappear.

Measure of Success . . . but only in the proper place

PHILOSOPHERS have left with us many definitions of success, none of which involve the acquisition of worldly wealth. Most people are quite willing to agree with these philosophic definitions in theory but when they get down to cases, dollar-worth is invariably the yardstick used to measure any man's success.

By such a yardstick, Louis Zabinski would be regarded as a complete failure. In his lifetime of about 70 years he accumulated only little more than enough to cover his funeral expenses when death took him away so he certainly would not qualify as a success from a financial point of view.

Case Against Lotteries

Editor, Summerland Review.

Thank you very much for the editorial in The Review of July 15 in which you drew attention to inconsistencies which exist in the present loose enforcement of anti-lottery laws.

If I may be permitted to use valuable space in your publication, I should like to point out some of the erroneous impressions which have been fostered by those who favor legalized lotteries and bring some actual facts into proper focus.

The idea of making lotteries legal is far from being new. In 1834 a bill was introduced in the House of Commons to permit legal raffles and was defeated by a vote of two to one. Both the government leader, Hon. R. B. Bennett, and opposition leader, Hon. Mackenzie King, expressed strong opposition to the bill.

These public leaders had studied the history of state lotteries in other countries. The experience in the United States, Britain and elsewhere provides conclusive evidence that any system of legalized lotteries whether under state or private auspices, jeopardizes the welfare of the community and ultimately cannot be justified even on economic grounds. . . . A brief study of the highly touted Irish Hospital Sweepstakes will provide a case in point. According to testimony made in 1949 before the British Royal Commission on Betting, Gambling and Lotteries, the Irish hospitals received only one-eighth of the total monies received.

Furthermore we are told that the public of Eire have ceased to support their hospitals voluntarily. The sweepstakes so undermined the charitable instincts of the people that the hospitals lost most of their free-will support.

If you apply the Irish program to Canada where our hospitals require $100,000,000 annually, over and above the patient-revenue, it would mean that $800,000,000 in sweepstake tickets would have to be sold—at least twenty-five $2.00 tickets for every man, woman and child in Canada—annually.

The proposal to authorize lotteries for approved purposes could lead to economic chaos. If lotteries were legalized for hospitals, why not for the Red Cross, the Cancer Research, Children's Aid and a hundred other health and welfare agencies? Would not educational and religious bodies be given approval, also?

As the Royal Commission in Britain stated in its report with respect to large scale lotteries: "The basic difficulty is that there are no logical or equitable grounds for restricting the right to promote such lotteries to a strictly limited number of organizations and that if the number is not strictly limited it is probable that lotteries promoted for genuine objects will fail."

One of the worst indictments of legalized lotteries arises from the fact that sooner or later they become allied with organized crime. Study the Kefauver Report in the United States. See the report of the RCMP on 'Law and Order in Canadian Democracy.'

Read the Chicago Crime Commission's publication 'Gambling—Should it be Legalized?' This deals with the history of legalized gambling in the United States during the 19th century and concludes: 'Many of the lotteries authorized by various state legislatures for educational institutions, public development companies and civic improvements, started on a modest scale. Eventually the lottery business reached enormous proportions. They were largely taken over by unscrupulous promoters who were frauds and cheats of the most unsavory character. . . . Political corruption was commonplace. . . . The beneficiaries of the legalized lotteries were largely the racketeers who took over the lottery industry. . . . It was this disastrous experience that formed the basis for the provision in most state constitutions forbidding legislatures to authorize lotteries or gift enterprises.'

A Good Neighbor

I was listening to the radio the other night and I heard a commentator, on our government radio system, talking about the United States of America. He was far from enthusiastic about them. It seems to be fashionable with radio commentators these days to take left-handed cracks at the U.S.A.

I think we Canadians have formed a rather foolish habit of criticizing the United States. I think it would be a good idea if we reminded ourselves once in a while of what they have accomplished.

Everybody knows about their material progress. Under the capitalist system they have increased their wealth to an extent almost unimaginable fifty years ago. Back in 1936 about 17 million Americans had incomes of less than a thousand dollars a year. Today only about a million are that low on the scale—while seventeen million have incomes of five thousand dollars a year or more.

We should also remember how all this was done. It was not through slave labor or sweat shops. It was done by increasing the productivity of each person and, according to Adlia Stevenson, "By putting government to the service of the people."

It wasn't very long ago that Marx predicted the disappearance of the middle class and the falling apart of democracy. Yet the United States, with its firm belief in freedom, is living better than ever before.

No one can accuse the United States of imperialism. Surely we have lived beside them long enough to know that. We used to criticize them because they stayed out of wars. Now we criticize them because we think they're overaggressive. We should remember that on two recent occasions they have come in and tipped the scales for freedom in World Wars. Surely that would give a more gentle tinge to some of the bitter criticism going on these days.

The United States of America has been generous. They have paid fabulous taxes in order to give away millions and millions of dollars to help undeveloped areas. They have had little in return except more criticism.

It is quite true that the United States of America has often put very high tariffs and trade barriers between us. But surely they cannot be blamed for trying to protect their own working men.

If we were a little bit more astute ourselves in that regard, and matched a few of their policies, we would probably do better. As it is, we seem to prefer to throw wordy brickbats and snide criticisms at our good neighbors. Why can't we be straightforward and businesslike instead?

The Americans are quick to criticize themselves. We Canadians are also pretty good at self-criticism. There is therefore little reason to toss brickbats back and forth across our borders! Instead, let each of us be grateful for a good neighbor.

Other Opinions

Is A "Burned-Out" Vet Human?

The Canadian Legion has been telling the Minister of Veterans Affairs, Ottawa, the time is long past due when an increase in the "burned-out" war veterans pension allowance is in order.

Present allowances for these men of $50 a month for single men and $90 for married ones would seem to be overlooking, completely the facts of the cost of living in Canada.

In addition to asking in its editorial—"How many burned out veteran pensions there are" in the country, the Nelson Daily News might also have asked—"Is a burned out veteran a human being?" For the treatment of these heroes by Ottawa scarcely can be said to be humanitarian, not in the sense we view the word.

"In reply to this question on the floor of Parliament, the Minister of Veterans Affairs has filed a return showing the number by districts as well as the total for the country.

"For all of Canada there are now only 30,650. For the Vancouver district, which includes all of British Columbia, there are 7,432.

"Until these figures had been brought down, discussions at Ottawa and here had been based on the assumption that there were 40,000.

"The fact that there are one-quarter fewer than had been assumed makes it all the more difficult to understand on the basis of cost why the government has rejected the request to increase the present allowances of $50 a month for single veterans and $90 for married."

With that view we entirely agree.—Granbrook Courier.

Mid-Week Message

The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty; he will save, he will rejoice over thee with joy. (Zephaniah 3:17.) Read Ephesians 3:14-21.

We may be assured that the Christian today has absolute right to claim the promises made to the righteous long ago. God spread His Word before us like a map by which to travel. He points out definitely the destination.

Occasionally He make a statement so forceful that we feel its impact in our innermost being. The above text is an example. We say the words. We test their strength. We stand assured of victorious and triumphant living because of that pillar of strength within us. With God in our midst, we cannot be moved.

When the going is rough, let us say it over and over: "The Lord thy God in the midst of thee is mighty." When sorrow and suffering seem overwhelming, we can repeat that blessed assurance until we take on the might at our disposal, and use it for the glory of God who so freely and fully sustains us.

PRAYER

Lord God, Thou knowest how weak we would be without Thy constant companionship, how helpless in temptation, how prone to despair in the face of trouble. Implant Thy Spirit within our hearts that we may move forward, strong and purposeful, because of Thy inner, sustaining might. In His name, Amen.

Clever Cooking . . .

No one will deny that Canadians like poultry. Each year they seem to eat more and the farmers are raising much more than they used to. Right now fowl is one of the best poultry buys. It is selling at bargain prices in most places and you will be making a big mistake not to buy it. Perhaps one of the reasons that many do not choose fowl more often is that they look on it as a rather second-rate meat and that is a very wrong attitude. A fowl is a mature bird so you can think of it as you do a less tender cut of meat. If you buy and cook it properly it will be just as tender as any young chicken.

Fowl is sold by grade and that is your guarantee of quality and wholesomeness. A Grade A fowl, which is the grade you are most likely to find in the shops, will be well shaped, will have a good proportion of meat to bone and the fat will be well distributed throughout the bird. You will probably find one dressed that is, undrawn, and eviscerated fowl in the shops. The eviscerated birds are drawn and cleaned and are often called "Ready to Cook". Remember, when you buy an undrawn bird you are paying for the waste which is discarded when the bird is eviscerated. For this reason the lower price per pound for the undrawn bird may not be as much of a bargain as it seems at first.

You will have noticed that fowl is only fowl until it is cooked then it becomes chicken but though it is called chicken in soups, and so on, it is still fowl. However if it is properly cooked, no one will think it misnamed. One way to cook fowl is first cut it up, then cover it with cold, salted water and add a stalk of two of celery. It is then cooked slowly below the boiling point until it is tender, and that takes 2 to 3 hours. The liquid of course can be used for gravy. A sprinkling of nutmeg gives chicken soup a delightfully different flavor.

Pressure cooking takes less time and gives very tender fowl too. If this is the way you choose to cook it then use 2 cups of water and cook for 25 to 30 minutes at 15 pounds pressure.

A favorite recipe for a 4 to 5 pound fowl, is called "Marengo" and was adapted from an old Spanish recipe.

CHICKEN MARENGO

1 fowl (4 to 5 lb.), eviscerated, ¼ cup fat, ½ lb. mushrooms, 6 tablespoons flour, ½ cup water, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 1 small clove garlic, minced, 1 cup apple juice, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper.

Cut fowl into pieces, fry in hot fat until well browned and remove from pan. Fry mushrooms in fat left in pan until lightly browned then remove. Add flour to fat, blending until flour browns. Add water gradually, stirring until thickened. Add canned tomatoes, minced garlic, mushrooms, apple juice, chopped parsley and seasonings. Stir until well blended. Add fowl and simmer in sauce until tender, about 2 hours. Serve hot.

Yield: six to eight servings.
Because fowl is selling so very reasonably just now, it should be on your shopping list often. Here are a few suggestions for different ways to serve it. Since this is definitely sandwich and salad time their suggestion for fowl is that you use it in both these summer favorites.

Small pieces of fowl mixed with chopped celery, bits of green pepper and a well seasoned mayonnaise makes a very good sandwich filling. A large quantity of the same mixture heaped in a mound on a lettuce leaf with small wedges of tomato and chunks of cucumber circling it makes a delicious salad. Jellied fowl is very good too but, even in the warmer weather most families like a hot main course, and chicken pot pie is welcome at any time of the year. It could be cooked in the cool part of the day then re-heated just before serving time. Chicken a la King, Creamed chicken and chicken with rice are other chicken favorites that are delicious when made from properly cooked fowl.

"When Free Enterprise Dies, Free Labor Dies With It"

Recently the New York Federation of Labor Legislative Committee publicly declared that it favors development of hydro-electric power by private enterprise.

Commenting on this fact in "Christian Economics" Thrumman Sensing of the Southern States Industrial Council writes:

"It is quite easy to understand why Union management would be opposed to Government ownership and operation of the electric power business or any other business; that is, if they are really looking out for the interests of their Union members. When free enterprise dies, free labour dies with it—and it is to the credit of the majority of the Labour Unions of the United States that they have seemed to recognise this fact more clearly than similar Unions in other countries."

Here is one more instance of the growing recognition in North America that political freedom depends on freedom in enterprise—that labor's freedoms, too, are based on free, competitive, responsible, private initiative.

Not all bathing suits we have seen of late can take to the waves with carefree ease. But this suit can and it is just as trim and neat and wearable for a session of sunning on the beach. Of checked cotton in brown and white, it has brown piping at the top and hem and there are little undershorts in brown. The strapless suit has a built-in bra and is lined to hold its fine shape.

clared in a scathing declaration: The entire history of legalized gambling in this country and abroad shows that it has brought nothing but poverty, crime and corruption, demoralization of moral and ethical standards and ultimately low standard of living and misery for all people.

One of the shrewdest comments on gambling... was made by the famous British economist, Lord Keynes, before a Royal Commission: 'The objection to it is that it is of the nature of a drug and that it may easily, almost without the will of the man doing it, be carried beyond reasonable lengths, into an uncontrollable indulgence.' When ever gambling becomes an 'uncontrollable indulgence' dire results follow.

The case against loteries is a strong one. When charitable or religious groups propose to sell "chances" on houses and the like to bring money into their treasuries they are using a method which aids and abets a corrupting force in our society. Admittedly the end in view may be most worthwhile but the end does not justify the means. The means can destroy the end for which we are working. Thank you again for the use of your valuable space.

Yours truly

Local Postmaster Again President Of Association

Summerland Postmaster Ross McLachlan was again chosen president of the B.C. Postmasters' Association at the convention held earlier this month in Vancouver. More than 100 postmasters were present for the annual conclave.

Mr. McLachlan is now serving his second term as president of the body.

The convention dealt with various problems of the postal service and one resolution asked for elimination of the residential requirement for appointment to postmaster in smaller offices. This qualification, it was felt, frequently served to hamper the efficiency of the service since experienced personnel were usually not available from those who could meet residential qualifications. It was also left these appointments should be open for promotion from other post office staffs.

Beside her husband, she is survived by a son, Emile in Ardmore, Alta; a daughter, Mrs. A. Bradford, Kirriemuir, Alta, and nine grandchildren.

Committal was in Lakeview cemetery, Penticton, with Summerland Funeral Home in charge of final arrangements.

Dr. Alfred Valdmanis, former minister of economic development in Newfoundland, has been arrested by the RCMP in New Brunswick. Newfoundland Premier Smallwood announced the arrest saying his former principal aide is accused of "extortion involving very large sums of money from various firms with whom he dealt on behalf of the government of Newfoundland."

HOW TO SHIFT INTO HIGH IN SAVING FOR THAT CAR

Dreaming of a new car or an "old favorite" at the used car lot? It will cost you at least one-third down and the rest over 18 months! But it's for that cash on the line that a bank-roll really comes in handy!

And that's why tens of thousands of Canadians in every province, add regularly to their Bank of Montreal savings account. They find it just as hard to save as the rest of us. But they'd rather plan for worthwhile things than spend their money on non-essential items.

The best way of saving regularly nowadays is through Personal Planning, the Bank of Montreal's money-management plan. With Personal Planning you can save, despite today's high cost of living. That's because Personal Planning helps you to save in your own way, unlike old-fashioned budgeting. And, when you save in your own way, you do a better job than if you're trying to force yourself into somebody else's ideas.

Why not take the bull by the horns today? Open a B of M savings account and use Personal Planning to help you really save. Any member of the staff at the West Summerland branch of the B of M will gladly give you literature on Personal Planning and help you to open an account.—Adv't.

Kamloops Win 9-5...

Macs Off to Fast Start But Unable To Hold Lead

Summerland got off to a flying start against Kamloops at the Living Memorial Park Sunday afternoon and rolled up five runs in the first two innings against only two by the northern players but in the remaining seven innings, visitors' Hurler Paetch gave up only two hits while his teammates rolled up seven more runs to cop a 9-5 victory from the locals.

For the Macs, the game was just another heartbreaker in a long string of heartbreakers this year. In the first two innings it looked as though they were going to have everything their own way but then Paetch tightened up and the locals were unable to do anything with his slants. In five of the seven remaining innings, the Macs were retired one-two-three and in the other two innings only four men got to the plate in each.

Macs weren't giving anything away and chalked up only one error in the match but Kamloops had the hitting power as well as a strong edge in pitching.

Three new faces appeared on the Summerland line-up, one of them Hal Cousins who handled mound duty for the first four frames when he was replaced with Billy Eyre. Other newcomers were Doug Weeks who patrolled right pasture for seven innings and was replaced by Aikin and Seigrist took over at first and Vern Cousins who filled in Bob Weitzel's regular spot behind the plate and the latter sat out the game until the bottom of the eighth when he went in to relieve Don Cristante at left field.

Kamloops picked up one run in the first inning when Beecroft with one man out collected a base on balls. He stole second and then Slater struck out but J. Fowles belted out a single that brought home Beecroft. The side retired when Ling went out trying to reach first.

Hooker was up first and was outbase on balls and Slater went to on a long fly to right field. Weeks followed with a single, Taylor took a free pass and Aikin brought Weeks home with a single. Another single by Fred Kato sent Taylor home and then a passed ball paved the way for Aikin. Kato reached home when Cristante hit down to McDonald at second and was taken out at first. Daryl Weitzel waited out a walk but the inning ended when Cousins was taken out at first on a fielders' choice to McDonald.

In the second with one out, McDonald was walked, Len Fowles singled and then Paetch banded out a two-base hit to score McDonald. Cousins looked like a man in a heap of trouble when he walked Saklofsky to load the bases but Fowles was tagged coming home when Beecroft laid a fielders' choice down to Weitzel at third and then Beecroft was taken out at second on Slater's fielders' choice to Hooker at short.

In the bottom half of the second Macs got away to a good start with a single by Hal Cousins and managed to complete the circuit before Taylor sent a high fly to left field and Weeks and Aikin were taken out in a double play.

Kamloops tied up the match in the fourth when Len Fowles led off with a single but was out a second on Paetch's fielders' choice down the third base line. Saklofsky struck out but Beecroft took base when he was hit by a pitch. Paetch came home on a wild pitch and then a single by Jack Fowles brought home both Beecroft and Slater. Fowles was forced out a second when Ling hit down the base line. Slater scored again in the sixth and in the eighth Jack Fowles and Buchanan added another pair of runs to the tally. Final run was by Len Fowles in the ninth.

News Letter Predicts Cherry Crop May Yet Equal Last Year's Output

Summerland, Westank and Peachland:

As reported July 13th: Since the issue of the last news letter the weather has been unseasonably cool with several light rains occurring. In contrast to this, today is sunny and warm and the weather appears to have finally set fair. The season is about a week later than last year and about two weeks behind normal. Black Tartarian cherries are being picked but Bings are still at the tomato red stage and will require at least a week to properly mature. The rains which fell at intervals last week do not appear to have damaged the cherry crop materially. A few of the earlier Bings have been split but the percent loss is negligible. Lamberts are still quite green and were not affected by the rain. If further rain holds off, Summerland district has a good chance to pick as many cherries as last year.

Apricots, which normally reach maturity towards the last week in July, are still quite green and may not start coming in until early August. However, a week or 10 days of very hot weather now could bring them into collision with the cherries. The thinning of apples is continuing. It is several years since so much hand thinning has been done on apples. Black cherry aphid are continuing to give trouble. European red mites are beginning to cause concern in some orchards. Codling moth appear to be well under control so far but late emergence during July is a definite possibility due to the cool summer. A third cover spray put on this month or a spray early in August may well be a wise precaution this summer.

Penticton, Naramata, Kaleden, Keremeos-Cawston:

As reported July 13th: The weather has improved greatly during the past few days. Prior to that it was rather unsettled with considerable cloudiness. An all-day rain occurred on July 1st, when 92 inches were recorded at Penticton and a thunder storm with a cloud-burst of rain was experienced on July 10th. In addition, winds have been very prevalent.

There is still some drop occurring on apples. All varieties, with the possible exception of Delicious in some orchards, are sizing very well. Cherries are sizing fairly well and some good crops of Royal Annes are being picked. Bings are just about ready to get under way but are not expected in volume for several days. Some splitting occurred as a result of the July 1st rain but damage was extremely variable and the overall loss does not seem to be serious. Apricots are developing well although some drop is still going on. A few young trees in Kaleden and Cawston have died, apparently due to last winter's weather conditions. Peaches, pears and prunes are also sizing reasonably well. The European Red Mite is currently causing more concern than any other pest or disease. It has got out of hand in many orchards so that some growers are trying Ovatfan while others are reverting to Sulphone or DN types of control materials. Various kinds of aphids are troublesome. Green apple and Rosy Apple aphids are fairly general, the latter showing up for the first time in several years. The Black Cherry Aphid is much more prevalent than usual while other aphids are attacking vegetable crops in most gardens. Pansy Spot on apples is also more noticeable this year. Apple Scab, while it has not yet developed as much as at this time last year, is becoming increasingly evident.

Okanagan Falls, Oliver and Osoyoos:

As reported July 13th: On July 1st the area received the only rain of the past two weeks: 92 inches. During the period the temperatures have been mild with a high of 92. Due to the rains of late June and July 1st the main canal of the irrigation project was washed out twice at the head of Osoyoos Lake, cutting the irrigation off in the Osoyoos area for almost a week. Green aphid has been causing considerable concern, particularly on young trees. Red mites, resistant to melathion are to be found on a number of ranches. Oyostran has given a good account of itself in the control of this pest. Apple scab and fire-blight is under good control at present. Some fruit trees are still dying from the effects of last winter.

Harvest of Lambert cherries has commenced. The quality and size is quite good. The first cooker apples have been picked and volume is expected within a few days. The first apricot harvest should start within a week. Harvest of early potatoes is well advanced. Cucumbers are in volume and the first tomatoes were picked last week. Kelowna:

As reported July 14th: On July 1st there was a 24 hour rain and an odd shower has occurred since.

WANTED TO RENT - HOUSE for teacher beginning Sept 1. Will pay August rent to hold. E. A. Tingley, Phone 2511. 29-1-c.

Recently the weather has warmed up considerably. Dry, warm weather is needed badly to check the spread of apple scab and to bring various crops to maturity.

The apple and pear crops are sizing well. Some growers are now finding codling moth entries, presumably as a result of disorganization of the spray program by unfavourable spray weather earlier. Fire blight is showing up in a few pear blocks. Aphids of all kinds are troublesome. Sprays did not give satisfactory control during the cool weather. Rust and European Red mites have required special sprays in a few orchards. Harvest of the small cherry crop has started. Lambert cherry harvest will not be general for a full week or more.

Vegetable crops are maturing slowly. Harvest of fall planted onions will start in a week's time but won't be in volume until the first week of August. Carrots are moving in small lots. Beets and cabbage are available in quantity. Potatoes are just starting. Cannery bean harvest will not start for a week or ten days.

Youth Pilgrimage

Frances Tours Historic Landmarks And Reaches New York Destination

By FRANCES ATKINSON

Here is my second report and our Youth Pilgrimage becomes more wonderful as we go along.

Monday we travelled from Winnipeg to Duluth crossing the border at Emerson and stopping at Thief River Falls for lunch. This was our first American meal of the trip so we noticed some distinct differences such as ice tea and bread instead of buns. We are getting very used to ham, potatoes and ice cream. We have them at least once a day and often twice.

At Bemidji we stopped an hour to see Paul Bunyan and the Blue Ox. Went to Grand Rapids for supper and arrived at Duluth early enough to take a swim before hitting the hay.

Tuesday morning we set out for Sault St. Marie after touring Duluth for about an hour. We stopped at Ashland to pick up box lunches which we ate a few miles from the town. Noticed the landscape change from flat prairie land to low rolling green hills, and saw some lovely views of Lake Superior as we travelled along the southern shore.

We had supper on the bus and went on to Sault St. Marie where we stayed at the Degelman Hotel on the American side.

Wednesday morning we crossed over to Canada. One disappointment I received here was that I didn't see any locks operating. Had nice view of Lake Huron and followed the Missisagi River to Spanish where we had a 10-minute stop. One of the boys played a joke on our leader Tex. They offered him some rubber peanuts, he sure wondered what he had got hold of.

We finally got to Gatchell near Sudbury at 3 o'clock for lunch. Went on a tour of the Silver Foam Brewery in Sudbury.

Travelled to North Bay for refreshments arriving at 7:00. We finally got to Pembroke at 10:15 for supper. We sure were ready for it. Then we went on to Renfrew where we stayed at the Valley Motel for what was left of the night.

The next morning quite early we arrived in Ottawa where we spent the whole morning seeing the city. First we went to the Experimental Station and walked through the beautiful gardens. It seemed a little larger than ours too. We had a lovely drive along Rideau Canal. The main event was going through the Parliament buildings. I never imagined anything could be so beautiful. Also saw many other very interesting and beautiful sights. Had lunch in the IOOF hall before leaving for Montreal where we boarded the S.S. St. Lawrence.

The boat trip from Montreal to Quebec was simply marvelous. It was such a change from the bus. We had supper on the boat and then danced until 12:00. We slept three to a room and the room was so tiny the beds took up most of the space.

Got off the boat at 6:30 a.m. and spent the morning touring Quebec. Went through Chateau Frontenac hotel and one of the narrowest streets in the world. Went up on the Plains of Abraham and Wolfe Cove. Also saw several other interesting landmarks.

Drove to Sherbrooke for supper and the night. In the evening we toured Bishop's University the smallest university in Canada. Last year there were 258 students registered there. We would really have something if we had all the buildings they have for 258 students for our school.

On Saturday we left Canada and crossed into Vermont at Rock Island. Vermont is a very beautiful state. It has lovely clear streams and lakes and nice green hills. Went to White River Junction for lunch where they make maple sugar syrup and candy. Stopped at Albany, capital of New York state, for a few minutes then went on to Catskill for the night.

Sunday we left late for the Vanderbilt Mansion. It sure was a mansion we went through the whole house. After church we toured the place where President Roosevelt lived. Then we started in for New York. Arrived in New York at 4:30. I'll tell you my impression of New York in the next letter.

Statement
St. ... Definite
On U.K. Market Reopening

Favor Cubicles For Louis' Beach

Municipal council this week decided against making an offer to the provincial government for the one room cottage formerly occupied by Louis Zabinski to be used as a bathing house for swimmers at Louis' Beach.

Instead, council will erect two cubicles to be used for changing clothes, which they believe will be more suitable and cheaper.

Reeve Atkinson told the council he had queried the provincial administrator of estates at Kelowna to see if the provincial government would be willing to turn the house over to the municipality for a nominal price of one dollar and had been informed that he had no authority to accept such a bid but suggested the municipality offer $100 for buildings and contents and probably, he said, they could sell the tools and furnishings for enough to break even on the deal.

Giving further consideration to the idea, councillors felt the house would not be the best type of shelter and that without supervision it might deteriorate badly and become very unsanitary.

Alternate suggestion which found favor was construction of small enclosures, open about two feet from the ground, with cement blocks for floors. These could be more easily kept clean and would be much more sanitary.

It was decided construction of these cubicles should be delayed until next spring after the new highway is located.

Death Claims Father Of School Principal

Death this week in Vancouver cheated a Summerland man of a chance to have a reunion with his father when Arthur Macleod of Toronto suffered a heart attack and died in the Vancouver General Hospital.

Son is A. K. Macleod, Summerland junior-senior high school principal, who was in Victoria with his family, and who was unable to reach his father's bedside before he passed away.

Mr. Macleod made the trip from Toronto to visit his son and attend the British Empire Games. He had never met his daughter-in-law and granddaughter.

He was a former resident of Vancouver but this was his first trip to the west coast in 20 years. During the time he lived in Vancouver he was traffic solicitor for the Canadian Government Merchant Marine and Canadian National Steamships.

He was a veteran of World War I and served overseas with the Western Irish Regiment.

Beside the son here, he leaves two sisters, Claire of Montreal and Mrs. Will David of Toronto and a brother, David, of Charlottetown.

Funeral services were held in Vancouver on Tuesday.

OFAY POWER APPLICATIONS

Power applications were approved by the municipal council this week for J. Y. Towgood for range and water heater, George Dunn for lighting and R. P. Munro for lighting and sprinkler pump.

Trailer Caravan Here

Residents Report No Taxes to Pay When Living in 'City on Wheels'

A "city on wheels" went rolling through Summerland yesterday as the Wally Byam Caravan consisting of 58 trailers pulled up for a tour of Milne's Cannery before continuing on to Penticton, a civic reception and lunch aboard the Sicomous.

For Mr. and Mrs. Blake Milne, it was a variation to visiting the old home town — the old home town visited them. The Milnes spent two weeks with the caravan, travelling with it to Calgary and Banff, and there was a happy reunion scene as each trailer rolled into the Milne yard.

Leader Wally Byam had a capsule answer when asked the purpose of the caravan. "We're just working hard at enjoying life. He's right, except for the part about working hard at it. For the caravanners, it comes easy.

Byam, an ex-publisher and printer, is now a manufacturer of trailers. He says he isn't needed around the business and both he and his wife have an itchy foot ... and it isn't hard to find some more folks with an itchy foot and believe you know it, a caravan is rolling."

This is his seventh caravan and about 20 of the trailers have been with him on all of them. Three times they have travelled to Europe, twice to Mexico, once to Central America and now for the first time, Canada.

The travellers yesterday morning were bubbling over with enthusiasm over the welcome they have received in Canada and particularly in the Okanagan. Size of the fruit grown here was a source of amazement to the visitors and when they saw cherries being canned at Milne's, the first question from each was "where can we buy cherries like that?"

Life in the "travelling city" — with a population of about 250 — is easy and carefree. There are no taxes and it costs nothing to join. Newcomers are joining in and others are dropping out all the time, so the number doesn't vary much. At night the caravan follows the Reports there will be a definite opening for Canadian apples on the U.K. market this year were this morning handed by B.C. Tree Fruits Sales Manager J. B. Lander as a misinterpretation.

CBC and Vancouver papers yesterday carried a Canadian Press report from Nova Scotia that an announcement will be forthcoming from Ottawa within the next two weeks that the U.K. market will be taking two million boxes of this year's crop.

Source of this report was F. Waldo Walsh, deputy minister of agriculture in Nova Scotia, but Mr. Lander following a long distance telephone conversation told The Review this morning that he had learned from Mr. Walsh the Canadian Press story was not an accurate report.

Mr. Walsh told the semi-annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture organized by people growers of Canada expect and hope to hear within a short time an official announcement from Ottawa to the effect that currency arrangements have been made whereby two million boxes of Canadian apples from this year's crop will move to U.K. markets.

The speaker told Mr. Lander he was only expressing the hopes of growers and did not intend his statement as a prediction, nor was he aware of any new developments which would give any added hope of the reopening of the U.K. market this year.

Summerland Library Is Fastest Growing

Summerland has the fastest growing circulation in the Okanagan Regional Library. This was a point made at the quarterly meeting of the regional library which was attended by Summerland representatives Councillor H. J. R. Richards and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh.

Councillors discussing the growth of the Summerland facilities at the council meeting Tuesday decided to write letters of appreciation to Librarian Mrs. A. D. Gately, the Girl Guides and Rangers who have contributed much to the service.

Mrs. Vanderburgh, who was present at the council meeting, pointed out that circulation figures showed that on July 10, there were more books issued in the Summerland library than in Penticton.

Chief reason for the popularity, said Mrs. Vanderburgh, is the excellent service. "If you put in a request for a book you get it within a reasonable length of time," she noted.

That Kind of Talk Not Allowed Here

In the bi-monthly report from the Summerland experimental station which appears this week in The Review, C. C. Strachan refers to the use of disodium ethylenediaminetetraacetate dihydrate.

This is not a typographical error and The Review does not assume any responsibility for the use of this kind of language in its contributed columns.

Whenever it gets really hot and you think you're really suffering, remember this picture. These polar bears have fur coats they have to wear all summer. They can't go any place. They can't turn on a fan. They can't sip cold lemonade. All they can do is sleep. Which, come to think of it, isn't such a bad idea on a hot summer

Council Will Study Expenditure of $11,660 Proposed for Hospital

Summerland Hospital Board will require $11,660 for repairs and alterations to hospital buildings and this will be the extent of work necessary during the next five years. This was the information given to the municipal council Tuesday afternoon by hospital board president Ivor Solly, who outlined the various projects which needed attention.

Council will study the submission with a view to submitting a by-law at the time of the December election to raise the portion of the cost which must be provided by the community.

The provincial government provides one-third for all capital expenditures which, if this full plan is approved, would amount to $3,886. Federal government contribution is up to $1,000 per bed added. In the alterations proposed, bed capacity will be increased by one, but Mr. Solly said it would not be known until after the work is completed how much the federal government would contribute.

One point which the council wished to investigate further is the installation of an emergency lighting system which is required by the hospital in its civil defence role. It was felt by councillors that this $2,600 item might be financed as a civil defence expenditure which would draw higher contributions from the federal and provincial governments.

Major item in the list was alterations to the veranda which would increase the accommodation at the hospital and move the office downstairs near the main entrance. This job along with repairs to the laundry ceiling totalled $4,500, plus another $210 for architect's fees.

Next in size was the emergency lighting system and then an operating room table at $1,000.

Other items included were $575 to complete switch of operating and case rooms, $250 for replacement of food elevator, $325 for kitchen roof, $700 for ground improvements and construction of approach to fuel storage, $850 for laundry dryer, $250 for bedpan hopper and $300 for office furniture.

The proposal of a hospital by-law came up several months ago when the hospital board asked the council to include a hospital assessment in the annual tax rate and proposed a plan which would provide about $700 annually for capital expenditures which, apart from the provincial and federal government contributions of a percentage, must be provided locally. Hospital insurance service provides only for operating expenses of the hospital and does not finance additions, alterations or major repairs.

Council proposed to the hospital board that instead of a small income each year to have work done a bit at a time that the councillors would be willing to recommend to ratepayers a by-law for enough money to have completed at one time all the work likely to be required during the next five years.

Before making a decision on how much will be required in the by-law council will study the submission to determine how much would be required from local sources.

AUXILIARY MEMBERS ENJOY PICNIC SUPPER

About 25 were present for the annual picnic supper of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Summerland General Hospital, which was held recently on the grounds of the Experimental Station.

Arrangements for the party were handled by members of the executive with the president, Mrs. C. G. Woodbridge, in charge.

Planned for an outdoor picnic, rain interfered and it was held in the log cabin. Following supper, games were played under the direction of Mrs. F. E. Atkinson.

Amphibian Display Up to B.E.G. Quality

BEG sprinters and swimmers missed an awesome demonstration of amphibian prowess last week by not being in Summerland.

Ed Butler removed his swimming trunks from the apple tree where they had been drying in preparation for a morning dip. After he had them on he discovered a colony of ants had moved in overnight.

John Landy and Roger Bannister would have looked to their laurels if they could have seen Ed cover the distance to the water and the form he demonstrated getting in is not likely to be duplicated at the Vancouver games.

Local Youth Chosen To Attend Games

Chosen for his all-round participation in school sports, Harold Biollo will leave tonight for Vancouver to attend the British Empire Games as guest of the B.C. Athletic Round Table Society. He was selected for the honor in competition with candidates from all schools in the Okanagan.

Harold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Biollo of West Summerland. He was nominated by Summerland High School as the outstanding competitor in sports and judge for the Okanagan was Dr. George Athens of Kelowna who made the selection.

Harold takes an active part in basketball, baseball, hockey, softball and track. He also finds time to play in the school band.

More Than 500 Attend Rhythmic Swimming Draws Plaudits From Local Regatta Spectators

Summerland fourth annual Regatta last evening drew about 500 spectators and perfect weather conditions for both watching and participating made it the most successful yet staged.

Highlight of the event was the rhythmic swimming demonstration staged by a group of local swimmers and they displayed excellent co-ordination as they moved with precision through intricate patterns. In the group were Joan Macdonald, Frieda Daniels, Sheila Daniels, Arlene Raincock, Doreen Fleming and Carol Cornish. The girls will continue training throughout the summer and Instructor John Kitson states they will probably be entered in the Kelowna junior regatta later in the season.

Swimmers from Summerland, Penticton, Abbotsford and Vancouver were entered in the various events. Decision to move the Regatta from Powell Beach to Camp Seac beach proved justified with a fairly strong breeze blowing at the former location which was not felt at the more sheltered farm beach.

Ribbons were presented to winners by Summerland Queen Marilyn Wade. Starter was Mrs. Ruth Kramer with Carol Cornish acting as timer and Beverley Fleming, Frieda Daniels and Doreen Fleming acting as

Local Artists Assisting Summerland School Band to Present Concert in Penticton Friday Night

Summerland High School Band, assisted by several talented artists will perform Friday night in the band shell in Penticton to provide a program in the series of Friday night concerts being sponsored by the Beach Festival committee.

The popular youthful band has made great strides since its formation only a year and one-half ago and 50 members will be on the park stage for the concert this week.

Assisting the band will be Diane Haggman, talented young dancer, Olive Atkinson and Mrs. Flora Bergstrom, a pair of popular vocalists and then the latter will team with Mrs. Ken Boothe for some favorite song and dance routines. Accompanist will be Mrs. Lionel Fudge.

Another feature will be a demonstration of baton twirling provided by Yvonne Polacello. The varied program will feature band members in solo and ensembles. Jack Pohlmann will play the

Predatory Dogs Again Take Toll

Marauding dogs took a further toll of chickens last week but the killings were far from the wholesale slaughter which two weeks ago cost the municipality over $100. This time, five chickens were killed and council approved payment to owners of seven dollars.

Adam Lekei reported two five-and-one-half-month old chickens were destroyed by two dogs which were seen leaving his farm while J. R. Bentley lost three chickens but had no clue to the identity of the dogs.

Owners were compensated at the rate of $1.50 per bird. In discussing the payment to the owners, the councillors make no mention of the proposal discussed two weeks ago offering a reward to any person who could supply information on the identity of dogs guilty of killing chickens.

Water Off 12 Hours When Main Splits

A split water main last Thursday cut off domestic water supply from noon until 1 a.m. Councillor Richards Tuesday told the council the cause of the split remains a mystery. It occurred, he said, in a six-inch cast iron pipe.

He added that he has been since queried by residents what fire protection is available should there be a similar cut-off of water supply, and his answer to that was "There just isn't any, except the tank water supply on the fire truck." It was, he said, because of the lack of fire protection while the water was off that the crew was kept on the job until it was completed.

Will Impound Dogs Roaming On Beach

An editorial last week in The Review pointing out the nuisance of dogs running at large at Powell Beach drew prompt action from the Parks Board.

Councillor Stewart Tuesday told the council the Parks Board in an effort to put an end to the annoyance has instructed the dog pound-keeper to patrol the beach and impound any dogs running at large and also signs instructing owners to keep their dogs off the beach have been painted and are being erected this week.

SUB-DIVISIONS APPROVED

Council Tuesday approved sub-division plans of W. M. Toews and Miss F. M. Banks.

HOLY CHILD SCHOOL LASTS TWO WEEKS

Summer school for youngsters has been conducted at the Church of the Holy Child during the past two weeks under the direction of Sister Bernice and Sister Joan of Kelowna.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO — JULY 25, 1919
Repairs on sidewalks were imperative, a report from Foreman H. Tomlin stated to the council. He was authorized to do the work immediately and would require 1,000 feet of lumber for Shaughnessy avenue and 900 feet for Granville.

When his horse became frightened by passing automobiles, W. Carter was thrown from his carriage on the Gulch road and was in hospital suffering from a compound fracture of a leg and other injuries. His nephew, Will White, also in the carriage, escaped with some bruises and a general shaking up.

An important business deal was being completed whereby the Summerland Supply Co. Ltd., would dispose of the dry goods and grocery section of its upper town store. A new company, in which J. C. Freeman and W. C. Kelley were principal stockholders, was being formed.

Serious consideration was being given by the school board to the suggestion that a fourth year be added to the high school course. A third teacher would be employed by the school staff.

Plans were completed for the organization of the Farmers' Union of B.C. which would be an organization of 10,000 members embracing the Farmers' Institute and the United Farmers of B.C.

R. V. Agur was receiving congratulations on his work as BCFG director for Summerland district, as this area still had a long lead over any other area. Summerland has 124 members, including 22 life members. Total for the province was 808, with Pentiction in second position with 89; Reachland had 21.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Miller, of Castor, Alta., decided to make their home in Summerland.

Peachland was experiencing a real gold rush, THIRTY YEARS AGO following reports of a gold discovery northwest of that community. Approximately 115 claims had been staked over a stretch of four miles along the creek bed on the upper waters of Trepanier, many of them by residents of the Westbank Indian reserve.

Air-cooled cars instead of ice were being used by the CNR for soft fruit shipments out of Niagara peninsula. The results of these tests were being watched by local fruit authorities.

The main irrigation canal was half full and the service, one day per week instead of two, would be maintained until the end of the week, at least.

Donald McIntyre and Miss Elain Griffiths were appointed to fill vacancies on the school staff.

Claims aggregating nearly $5,000 were made by several American railway against the Okanagan United Growers, in bankruptcy. M. G. Wilson, trustee, disallowed the claims and an appeal was made by the Illinois Central Railway Company. The claims were against shipments made in 1921, although they were not filed until June, 1923.

Okanagan-Cariboo Trail was duly dedicated to its new purpose at Kelowna when officials formally opened the route, delegates being present from the Columbia river to the Cariboo country. Summerland was represented by Reeve Campbell, W. C. Kelley, president of the board of trade and Ralph E. White, editor of The Review.

Conquest By Conspiracy

Witch-hunting has become an open-air sport these days, and anyone who has any superficial resemblance to a witch is fair game for the hunters. Senator Joseph McCarthy has carried the hunt for Communists so far in the United States that he himself has come to resemble a Communist in his methods and particularly in his hatred of anyone who disagrees with him. If he were in Russia he would make a good Commissar and be in direct line for membership in the Presidium.

Having said that, I hope to have cleared myself of any sympathy with Mr. J. H. Blackmore, Social Credit M.P., in his enthusiastic support of Senator McCarthy's activities at Washington. At the same time I am inclined to agree with Mr. Blackmore's criticism of statements made by Mr. J. B. McGeachy, editorial writer of The Globe and Mail, in his radio comments on the Indo-Chinese situation. I have always been an admirer of Mr. McGeachy as a radio commentator on current world news, and he would be the last man I would suspect of Communist leaning. Indeed, Mr. Blackmore himself did not accuse Mr. McGeachy of being a Communist, but charged him with "unintended" false statements on Communist aggression in the Far East. He quoted Mr. McGeachy as saying:

"First, the best result to be hoped for in Indo-China is an armistice, followed by some compromise arrangement which, if possible, will give the Indo-Chinese a chance to decide what form of government they prefer; and second, that the West must come somehow to terms with the Asian social revolution. Whether it takes a Communist form or, as in India, Pakistan and elsewhere, a non-Communist form, no amount of military force exercised by the West will decide from this day forward the destiny of any Asian state."

All that, on the surface, seems reasonable enough; but, in the first place, as Mr. Blackmore pointed out, it is false to call the present troubles in India and China a "social revolution." He denied that Communism had ever been a revolution. "From the beginning," he said, "it had been a conquest by conspiracy." He contended that the Russians have no intention of living at peace with the West, that they "take every move as a beachhead from which to make another move. They have told us over and over again that they intend to conquer the world." Mr. Blackmore concluded by wondering why "a man like Mr. McGeachy could make such blunders," and why the CBC should employ him to broadcast them.

It should be stated that Mr. McGeachy prefaced his remarks by saying that he was merely expressing his personal opinions. He has a perfect right to hold them, and Mr. Blackmore has the same right to criticize them and condemn the government radio system for permitting so one-sided a view of the war in Indo-China. Mr. McGeachy's view is not only a one-sided personal opinion, it is exactly and entirely in accord with Soviet propaganda that has all along been broadcast from Moscow and from Peking.

The war in Indo-China, like that in Korea, was started and carried on at the instigation of and with military support from Russia. "Social Revolution" is merely a pretext for Russian determination to conquer and control the whole of Asia as a prelude to world conquest. The people of Indo-China know no more about Communism as a social system than the people of Korea or Tibet, and to have them vote on it would be a farce. As for Korea, I have first-hand information that North Korea is being filled with Chinese settlers. In that case, what "chance" as Mr. McGeachy puts it, would the real Koreans have to "decide what form of government they prefer"? That is already decided in advance, and the same thing is probably being planned in Indo-China and even in India, Pakistan and Burma when those countries are completely encircled by the Iron Curtain.

"A plague of opinion! a man may wear it on both sides like a leather jerkin," said Shakespeare. There may be some room for compromise on minor issues, but it must be made on our side by men of broad and deep-based conviction that Russian Communism is not a social system, but an insidious and fatal disease.

Okanagan Ambassadors... well-deserved honor

In the past couple of years, a lot of people in Canada have become very conscious of the Okanagan Valley. Soon now the name of this fertile valley will be carried much farther afield to European capitals.

Our ambassadors of goodwill—and at the same time our advertising agents—are that group of sportsmen from our neighboring community, the Pentiction V's.

The selection of the V's to represent Canada in the world hockey championships this year is an honor in which a lot of Summerland fans can share because they have formed a sizeable segment of the V's supporters since the team came into existence.

The phenomenal rise of the V's to their present position as tops in amateur hockey is unrivalled in hockey annals and the dogged determination and team spirit they have displayed in reaching their goal provides an example and lesson which can be applied beyond the realm of sport.

Their ability to find new strength to keep going and win when the going get roughest reflects a spirit characteristic to this valley where people are frequently put to the test against what are almost insurmountable obstacles but invariably they have come out on top.

We congratulate the V's on their selection to the highest honor the country can offer an amateur hockey team and our best wishes for success will travel with them when they go far afield next season adding still more to the fame of the Okanagan.

False Standards... consumer makes final decision

ANNOUNCEMENT of a plan to import into British Columbia prefabricated houses made in Germany has carpenters' and woodworkers' union in action to block the import because it is going to mean loss of wages to their members.

The unions are absolutely right that their members are going to lose out on such a deal but the fact that homes can be fabricated in Germany and sold in B.C., after paying shipping costs over 8,000 miles, for less money than they can be built here with supplies of timber right at our back door should shock the unions into realization that there is something wrong with their wage structure.

Unions are learning the hard way that while they may be able to force industry into paying higher wages year after year that there is another element to be reckoned with—the consumer, who will pay spiralling prices just so long and then start looking for a cheaper way out.

Several unions have learned this lesson but it came too late. The Canadian Seamen's Union has the best wage and employment conditions of any seamen's union in the world—but none of its members are working. B.C. Shipbuilders are drawing the top rate in that class but shipbuilding in B.C. has come to a virtual standstill.

One of the chief points of argument by Canadian unions in seeking increases is that rates in this country are below those paid in the U.S. On the surface that may sound like a logical argument but a little study places it in an entirely different light.

The average industrial worker in Canada makes about $60 a week. The average industrial worker in Japan made, at last report, about $12. How would Canadian workers react to a suggestion that their wage level should be brought closer to the Japanese one?

They would react very strongly, and they would be right. Canadian wages cannot be equated with Japanese wages, or with British wages, or with Peruvian wages. But neither can they be equated with American wages. It's just as ridiculous to say that the same job should pay the same wage in Vancouver and Seattle, as to say that the same job should pay the same wage in Toronto and Tokyo.

The United States is a different country from Canada, operating on a different economy, and working out its wage levels from a different set of factors. Most important of them is the production factor. The American people, last year, produced about $2,400 worth of goods and services per capita. The corresponding figure for Canada was about $1,600.

How, under these circumstances, can Canadians be paid the same wages as Americans, or enjoy the same standard of living? They cannot. Yet the agitation continues among Canadian trade unionists for wage parity with the U.S., and in Canada's steel industry may shortly take the form of a strike. After Algoma Steel Corporation employees at Sault Ste. Marie had approved such action, Mr. C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steel Workers, told them:

I feel that the action taken gives the executive a mandate to go as far as possible in closing the gap between steel rates in Canada and the rates paid in the United States.

The "gap" Mr. Millard speaks of is 13½ cents an hour—the difference between the American steel worker's basic rate of $1.57 and the Canadian steel worker's of $1.43½. There is another gap which Mr. Millard never speaks of—the substantial gap, between the amount of steel produced per week and per year by the two workers. The American, for a variety of reasons, produces more than the Canadian; thus, he can be—as he should be—paid more highly.

Wage levels in every country must be determined by the conditions—and only by the conditions—existing in that country. Among the conditions we have in Canada today are rising unemployment, falling exports, and a generally lower level of business. These things have come about very largely because we have pursued false standards of work and life. American standards, which are all very well for Americans, but which we quite literally have not earned. We can only cure them by getting back to realistic standards, based on our own economic situation on this continent and in the world.

That situation does not require us to have either wage or price parity with the United States. On the contrary, it requires us to compete against the Americans, to undersell them everywhere and in every way possible. If Canadian unions—so-called—are making that impossible, if they are pricing our goods so high that Americans win the business, then perhaps it is time to stand back and ask how Canadian these unions really are.

American Songman

"Give me the making of the songs of a nation, and I care not who makes its laws." So said a wise man 250 years ago.

Because he has written so many songs which helped build morale in times of national testing, Irving Berlin has just received recognition many a lawmaker would be proud to have earned: a gold medal authorized by Congress and presented to the popular composer by President Eisenhower.

The rollicking star of Irving Berlin rose from the land of opportunity over the international horizon to the strains of "Alexander's Ragtime Band." Its light mellowed with the years which brought such softer melodies as "Always," "Russian Lullaby," "White Christmas." And his appreciation of America gave his fellow countrymen the almost hymn-like "God Bless America."

For many millions of his compatriots Irving Berlin's songs are not only part of war effort but of the homely things people fight for when, along with ideals, they are threatened—the things of home and school-time, ice cream parties on the "front piazza," song fests round the campfire, memories of tuneful times when "Ma" and "Pa" were just those high-school graduates of whom the neighbors said, "They make such a nice couple."

If Mr. Berlin's medal glows with more than the usual radiance of gold and if the official reasons for the decoration seem to be only part of the story, a lot of unofficial folk will know why.—Christian Science Monitor.

The High Cost Of Meat In U.K.

Dream world in which U.K. meat eaters have lived for the last 14 years was rudely shattered with abolition of rationing, subsidies and price controls. Not surprisingly, many Britons want it back again; protest that prices now being asked are ridiculous.

What really was ridiculous was the controlled, rationed, subsidized price structure, under which the finest fillet mignon sold at 40 cents a pound, sirloin steak at 39 cents. This gave Britons hallucinations about a "fair" price for meat, just as several decades of rent control and subsidized housing have given them hallucinations about a "fair" rent.

Oddest reaction was complaint of Emanuel Shinwell, prominent Socialist, in House of Commons that meat prices were highest in Britain's history. Since all other British prices are highest in that country's history—as are wages—it is hardly remarkable that meat should follow suit.

Storm over free-market prices underscores unwisdom of U.K. government in maintaining rationing as long as it did. Had it done away with ration books shortly after the war, as most of Europe did (defeated Germany rationed in 1948), Britons would long since have grown accustomed to paying economic prices for their food.—The Letter Review.

The meanest man intown has just died. All of his life he had been a pinchpenny, a kill joy with never a smile for anyone. Returning from the funeral the pallbearers were gathered in the barbershop. One of them allowed as how "It just ain't right not to have at least something good to say about the deceased." After a considerable period of silence the barber spoke up, "Well, I could say this... he was not a hard man to shave."

Power Of Prayer

A group of hard-boiled newspaper reporters were interviewing an American industrialist, visiting in Montreal. One of the reporters put this question: "Sir, in view of the present world situation what one product do you think is of most vital importance to a nation?"

I waited to hear the industrialist name uranium or some such precious metal. I presume most of the newspapermen expected the same answer. We got quite a surprise.

The industrialist blushed and said, somewhat sheepishly, "Well, to tell you the truth, I think the most important thing is prayer!"

There was a long silence. Then the same reporter said, "Will you please explain that?"

"It's hard to explain," the industrialist said, tugging at the lobe of his ear. "It's a pretty personal thing. Yet there it is—available to everybody. It always startles me when men complain about their lot in life, if I know they haven't bothered to pray. Prayer gives a person—or a nation—access to all sorts of power, far beyond the atom, or anything like that..." He looked up and saw some of us making notes. "Don't quote me," he said. "People might think I'm talkin for... well, just for effect. If you want to quote somebody about it, look up what Dr. Alexis Carrel said about prayer. That's what really started me trying it—with some rather remarkable results."

Back in my office, I looked up Alexis Carrel on prayer. He had a lot to say about it. One thing, in particular, is worth pasting in your hat. He said, "When we pray, we link ourselves with the inexhaustible motive power that spins the universe. We ask that a part of this power be apportioned to our needs. Even in asking, our human deficiencies are filled and we arise strengthened and repaired."

Well, it seems to me a man is foolish to pass up advice like that. In this foolish age, too many of us have been turning our eyes toward governments or others for all our blessings—and often have found the blessing pretty costly. Perhaps it is time we were reminded not to put our faith in worldly princes, but in God and in ourselves under God.

The Lighter Side

"Could you," the specialist asked, "pay for an operation if I found one necessary?"

"Would you," countered the patient, "find one necessary if I couldn't pay for it?"

A husband and wife were in sharp disagreement over what suit he should purchase. Finally, the wife relented and said:

"Well, go ahead and please yourself. After all, you're the one who will wear it."

In a meek voice the man replied, "Well, dear, I did figure that I'd probably be wearing the coat and-vest anyway."

If you think you're going to be happy and prosperous by sitting back and letting the government take care of you—take a look at the American Indians!

Dub (to caddie): "Well, what do you think of my game?"

Caddie: "I guess it's all right, but I still like golf better."

The two housewives chatted pleasantly as they started off shopping.

"That neighbor of yours is quite a gossip, isn't she?" asked one.

"I don't like to say," replied the other. "All I know is that when she came back from her vacation this summer, her tongue was terribly sunburned."

"Are you planning to hang any mistletoe in your house during the holidays, Sarah?" asked the mistress.

Sarah sniffed in disgust. "I should say not! I got too much pride to advertise for ordinary courtesies a lady's done got the right to expect."

A well known violinist and his beautiful wife who frequently acted as his accompanist were whisked off by the hostess to meet the quest of honor.

"Mr. Barker, I would like to have you meet Mr. Verdinni, the famous violinist. And this is Mrs. Verdinni who has quite a reputation, too?"

Mid-Week Message

He that sent me is with me; the Father hath not left me alone; for I do always those things that please him. (John 8:29.) Read Romans 8:1-6.

In a South Indian village an old Hindu lady came to our clinic. As I helped her to the examination bed, I asked, "Have you come alone?" With a beautiful glow on her face, she looked at me and said, "No, Manka (God) came with me." Only when I saw her leaving the clinic did I realize that she was testifying to the constant presence of the God in whom she had complete faith.

We have a Companion who has said, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." Do we recognize His presence with us in sickness and in health, in joy and in sorrow, in life and in death? Are we ready to testify with a glowing face that He is our daily Companion, and show by our lives that His testimony is true? He is looking to us to show His love to a lost world. He promises never to leave us, never to leave us alone.

PRAYER

Our Father, our daily Companion, we praise Thee for the privilege of placing our lives in Thy care this day. Help us to remember that Thou art by our side, and that we can do all things through Christ, who strengthens us. May we never try to walk alone. In Jesus' precious name we pray. Amen.

Clever Cooking . . .

Although Canadian cheese has been noted for its fine quality for over seventy-five years, cheese is still much more popular in other countries than in Canada. As far as cheese consumption is concerned, Canada stands very low. This is surprising since cheese made in Canada not only has quality, but there is also quantity.

When buying cheese, shoppers should look for those which are actually labelled "made in Canada"—there are a surprising number. By far the most popular cheese sold in Canada is Canadian Cheddar, which is frequently called "Canadian Cheese". Cheddar is a hard pressed cheese made from pure, whole milk (there is a skim milk cheese sold too, but it will always be a white and yellow Cheddar as containing skim milk). There is in the stores. The only difference is that a slight coloring is added to the yellow while the white is left the natural, deep, rich cream color.

Either yellow or white, Canadian cheese is sold according to age as new, medium or old—the new being mild in flavor and the old strong and tangy. It is sold in small blocks or in convenient size wedges. Cheddar may be kept fresh in the home by wrapping the wedges in heavy waxed paper or parchment and storing it in the refrigerator. If cheese is stored in a warm place, the fat melts and seeps out and not only does the cheese harden, but the flavor changes. If by chance some cheese should harden, it can be grated and stored in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator. It may be used to sprinkle on scalloped dishes, on cream soups or on vegetables.

Processed cheese is becoming more and more popular. It is made from Cheddar and is ground and heated to pasteurization temperature. Then it is poured into moulds or packages, to harden. Processed cheese is softer than Cheddar and milder in flavor. It is excellent for spreading, dicing or slicing, and can be bought in half, one, two or five pound packages. In a recent survey of consumer taste in cheese, taken in Canadian cities, it was found that processed cheese is slightly more popular than Cheddar but most families use both. Cheddar cheese is preferred for serving in pieces at meal time and in cooking dishes, while the processed cheese is more popular for both toasted and untoasted sandwiches.

There is such an exciting variety of Canadian made cheese in our stores that it does seem too bad to buy only Cheddar and Processed. One of the best ways to become familiar with the different types of cheese is to serve a tray of cheese for desserts at dinner, or for evening snacks. Centre it with Gouda, with wedges of sharp, salty Canadian blue cheese and slices of Cheddar and nut-sweet Canadian Swiss, arranged around it. A few squares of cream cheese and a mound or two of cottage cheese could be added. Slices of tart rosy apples, a bowl or two of tasty preserves and crisp crackers on the tray would complete a dessert that is bound to be a success. Pears and cheese go well together.

Make tiny cream cheese balls about half an inch in diameter, roll them in chopped nuts and cherries, put them on toothpicks and stick them into a large red apple and place the apple in the centre of the tray. The same size cheese balls could also be rolled in chopped sweet pickles and sprinkled with paprika.

In making up a cheese tray, it should be ready far enough ahead of time so that the cheese stands outside the refrigerator a few hours before serving. If uncooked cheese is to be at its most flavorful, it should be served at room temperature.

Cheese dips are becoming more and more popular for entertaining. They are very easy to make. There is almost no chance of a failure and they can be made in a very few minutes. The following cheese dip recipe is very tasty.

NIPPY CHEESE DIP
1 4 oz. cream cheese, 1 4 oz. wedge Canadian blue cheese, 1/2 teaspoon Worcester sauce, 2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Mix the cream and blue cheese together. Add the Worcester sauce and the lemon juice. Whip with a fork until light and very soft. This recipe makes two-thirds of a cup. Put the dip in an attractive

World's Best Divers Slated For Kelowna

This continent's finest divers will perform at the 48th International Kelowna Regatta, Aug. 11 to 14, it was announced by Dr. George Athans, British Empire Games diving champion.

For the second time in three years Pat McCormack of Los Angeles will be one of the headliners. The present women's world champion, holder of the Olympic title in all fields of diving, Mrs. McCormack is also the present United States diving champion and the Pan-American champ.

Making his first appearance in Canada is Jasuin (Yae-Quinn) Capilla of Mexico City. This 26-year-old diver placed second to Major Sammy Lee in the 1952 Olympics, and now holds the Mexican and Pan-American titles. He is noted for the strutting dive, never done before on this continent, the four-and-one-half somersault. It is understood he injured himself in this dive some time ago, but will probably use it in his routine in Kelowna.

Competing the end of this month for the British Empire Games title in springboard and tower competition, Bill Patrick, 20, of Calgary, will dive at the Regatta following the games. He now holds the Canadian championship.

Another Californian who will compete is Garry Tobin of Los Angeles, who holds the United States Junior title.

Dr. Athans expects Jack Stewart, New Zealand champion, will stop off at the Kelowna Regatta on his way home from the B.E.G.

A quick cheese spread, especially good for holiday entertaining also recommended by the home economists, is made by mixing about a tablespoon each of cranberry sauce and chopped nuts with cream cheese.

Report Newest Cherry Resists Splitting

Raid during the season when sweet cherries are maturing is one of the chief causes of the skins cracking. It is a hazard cherry growers have to face and is of definite interest to consumers. Losses as high as 70 per cent of the crop have been known to occur, states F. W. L. Keane, of the Summerland Experimental Station, and in almost every year growers in some districts lose 10 to 20 per cent of their Bings and Lamberts.

The older commercial varieties are all quite susceptible to cracking and various attempts to reduce the loss by sprays and cultural methods have not been very successful. Consequently resistance to cracking is one of the more important characteristics to be sought in a new cherry variety, and the experimental station includes tests for cracking in its cherry evaluation experiments.

Whenever heavy rains occur during the cherry season, counts are made of the extent of cracking in all varieties under test. In addition controlled experiments have been carried out for several years, in which samples of mature fruit from different varieties are immersed in water and allowed to remain for a definite period. At the end of the period the fruit is examined and the cracking is classified according to the number of fruits affected and severity of damage to each fruit.

In 1953 these tests showed the most resistant variety to be the Summerland station's new introduction, Sam, which developed less cracking even than Van. Next in order came Deacon and Star, while Bing and Lambert were the most susceptible varieties. These results were quite comparable to those obtained in earlier years, except that Star has shown considerable variability in extent of cracking from year to year.

Manitoba Funeral Follows Passing Here

Just two months after she came here to make her home with her sons in Summerland Mrs. Maria Dorotea Gronlund passed away Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gronlund. She was in her 79th year.

Mrs. Gronlund was born and educated in Norderasan, Jamtland, Sweden, and came to Canada in 1905. She made her home in the district of Erickson, Manitoba, where she lived until she moved to Summerland.

Her husband predeceased her in 1953 and another son, Clifford, in 1952.

Sons are Arthur and Olof of Summerland and Carl of Langley. She leaves also 14 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon from Erickson Lutheran Church of which she was a member for nearly 50 years and interment was in the family plot in Erickson cemetery.

Mrs. Arthur Gronlund and Mrs. Olof Gronlund travelled to Erickson to attend last rites for their mother-in-law.

Popular Local Athlete Takes Bride At Nuptial Rites In Brandon, Man.

A wedding of interest to many Summerland friends took place in Brandon, Manitoba, on July 10, when Patricia Gwendolyn Norris became the bride of Carroll Oliver Brawner. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vernon Brawner of Summerland and lived here until he took up university studies.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Norris of Brandon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Norman E. Todd in the First Baptist Church.

The justweds last week on their honeymoon visited the groom's parents in Summerland enroute to Victoria where he is employed in the public works department of the provincial government.

Both are graduates of the University of Manitoba, the bride in home economics and the groom in civil engineering. For the past year, the new Mrs. Brawner has been home economist at the Brandon agricultural and homemaking school.

Mrs. Sophie MacDonald was organist and Lee Donnelly as soloist prefaced the ceremony with "The Wedding Prayer" and sang "Where e'er You Walk" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white nylon marquisette which featured all-over tucking. The bodice of an all-over floral design was fashioned with an empire waistline, a scooped neckline and banded sleeves. The very bouffant gored skirt of diagonal tucking, fell to the floor with a full hooped flounce from the three-quarter length. Her finger-tip veil of white illusion was held with a bonnet of tucked nylon marquisette and lily-of-the-valley. The bride's bouquet was of lily-of-the-valley and white tulle and she wore a string of pearls, the gift from the groom.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Ray Rotor and Miss Anne Dyck. They wore white frosted nylon dresses with a white dot design featuring scooped neckline, banded sleeves and white velvet sashes. The full skirts were three-quarter length. They wore nose veils with scattered seed pearls, caught at the back with blue baby'mums. The bouquets were of blue baby'mums and wide ribbon bows of peacock blue and rose shot taffeta. Reginald C. Blackman of Winnipeg attended the groom and ushers were Bryan G. Norris and William G. Norris, brothers of the bride.

Following the reception at the Prince Edward Hotel, dinner was served to 55 guests. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake decorated with blue tulle and matching blue flowers. Triple candelabra holding blue candles completed the table decorations. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Todd to which the groom responded. Telegrams of congratulations, including one from the groom's parents, were read by the best man.

Their wedding trip took them to Toronto and Niagara Falls.

For travelling the bride wore a grey suit fashioned with a short tight-fitted jacket with three-quarter length sleeves. The material of the jacket featured a pattern of brown and tan that contrasted beautifully with the plain grey full gored skirt over crinoline. Her hat and gloves were of beige and tan and purse of matching tan.

VISITING ABROAD

Gordon Caldrow, Norman Anderson, Mitts Hikichi, Mitch Miyagawa, Cecil Morgan and Dr. M. D. Proverbs spent the week-end on a fishing trip at Oyama Lake. They reported good fishing with fish up to five pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wilkin and family are at the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Hallquist are on a camping trip in the Cariboo for a week.

Miss Dorothy Britton of the experimental farm staff is at present attending the civil defence course at Arnprior, Ontario. She is taking instruction in registration and feeding of evacuees.

Report on Past Two Months Outlines Activities at Experimental Station

General
The weather has continued mild and wet. All first cutting hay crops have been ensiled, making good use of these crops. Moisture conditions are excellent. Cherries are starting to move slowly, although the crop is light.

Among the visitors to the Station during the past two months, we were pleased to welcome the Hon. K. Kiernan, Minister of Agriculture for B.C., Drs. Dicker and Kirby of the East Malling Station, England, Dr. A. E. Burrell, of Cornell University, Ithaca, Mr. A. M. Blitt of Lenton Experimental Station Nottingham, England and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Beer of South Africa.

A successful Cannery Inspectors' School was held in the Processing Laboratory with inspectors in attendance from Winnipeg west. A Mould Count School was also held by the Bacteriologists.

Bloat in Dairy Cattle—J. E. Millmore.

Since pasture fields seeded to recommended mixtures cannot be relied on to produce bloat regularly, a "bloat" pasture containing a high percentage of Ladino clover and Ladak alfalfa has been established at Summerland. Approximately 50 per cent of the animals grazed thereon will bloat daily. Various treatments have been administered to cattle grazing this pasture in order to measure their effectiveness in inhibiting or preventing bloat.

A product consisting of detergents in alcohol has been prescribed by veterinarians as a restorative and a sister product in powder form containing 5 1/2 per cent methyl polysiloxanes by weight is advertised as a preventative. This preventative material was added at the rate of two grams per cow for the morning grain feed of half the Summerland milking herd. The remaining half were considered a control group. The treatment of two grams per cow was totally ineffective, so the rate was increased first to four grams and later to six grams daily, without any apparent control. Cows bloat within five hours of the time of treatment. It has been suggested that the powder might be administered to the animal in capsule form at the onset of bloating, to assure that the active ingredient is present in the rumen and any beneficial results can then be more accurately correlated to the treatment.

The next attempt to prevent or control bloat featured the use of straw. A field was divided in half and the two groups were allocated at random to the two fields. Straw was placed in the field containing the treatment group. The cattle ate negligible quantities of straw and bloated as usual. They appeared to conserve small quantities of straw after some abnormal distention of the rumen was evident. Perhaps a molasses spray added to the straw might have induced greater consumption and resulted in some measure of reduction in the incidence of bloat.

Another attempt at control utilized a field of fall wheat that had been saved for pasture. The treatment group were placed in the fall wheat for three hours from 6 a.m. to 9 a.m. This method showed the most promise but the supply of fall wheat soon became exhausted.

Green Color in Quick Processed Cucumber Pickles—C. C. Strachan.

Much of the natural green color of chlorophyll disappears during the pickling process, due to the conversion of chlorophyll to pheophytin. After many months storage, a fairly satisfactory secondary green color usually develops. However, it would be very advantageous if the green color could be obtained quickly. Also a better and more uniform green coloration is desired.

Preliminary tests show that a combination of heat and sugar will develop a fairly satisfactory green color within a few hours. Best results were obtained by heating at 140-180 degrees F. for 15-18 hours in 30-60 per cent sugar solution. The higher sugar concentrations appear to be slightly superior. Sucrose, levulose and dextrose are equally effective. However, dextrose tends to give an amber color and with prolonged treatment results in brown discoloration. Intensity and rapidity of green color development increases with increasing temperature, except that excessively high temperatures, especially if maintained for any length of time, caused discoloration.

Acetic acid (vinegar) does not appear to be an important factor in the development of the green color. For instance, acetic acid alone in concentrations of 5-10 per cent and at temperatures up to 140 degrees F. for 2 days produced no green, but at 180 degrees F. there was a very slight green tinge produced in some pieces. Other substances and factors which were ineffective and frequently produced other undesirable effects such as bleaching and severe softening or disintegration were as follows: Calcium chloride, calcium carbonate, 3 per cent sodium benzoate (neutral), sodium metahexaphosphate (Calgon), sodium bicarbonate, mineral acids such as orthophosphoric and hydrochloric acid, very low pH values, e.g. down to 1.0, 3 per cent sodium benzoate plus 5 per cent acetic acid at 140 degrees F. for 2 days did produce a pale green skin coloration but it was inferior to the sugar treatment and furthermore the benzoate procedure is not practical.

Aluminum Discoloration of Dyed Glazed Cherries—C. C. Strachan
Marked discoloration occurred in Ponceau SX dyed cherries under pilot plant operation where the trays, tanks, piping and evaporators were constructed entirely of high purity aluminum. By analysis the cherries were found to contain up to 120 p.p.m. of aluminum. Investigation of the problem showed that aluminum seriously affected the Ponceau dye, resulting in degrees of brownish discoloration. Increasing the concentration of Ponceau dye used failed to correct the situation. Concentrations of 250-500 p.p.m. of calcium phytate largely controlled the discoloration. Another sequestering agent, disodium ethylenediaminetetraacetate dihydrate was ineffective in concentration up to 1000 p.p.m. Aluminum, however, has only a relatively slight effect on erythrosine dye. By increasing the concentration of erythrosine used from the standard rate of 5 grams per 100 pounds of pitted fruit to 10-15 grams per 100 pounds of pitted fruit, the effects of the aluminum can be completely counteracted. This is the most practical solution to the problem next to employing stainless steel equipment which is the recommended material for all plant operations.

Bud Hardness of Spotlight Peach—A. J. Mann
The short, cold spell of mid-January 1954, following after a long period of mild weather, caused widespread damage to the fruit buds of peach and apricot. Minimum temperatures of about 14 degrees F. below zero were recorded in Oliver and in a few other districts, but there was some injury even in more favored localities.

In comparing the extent of damage to the fruit buds of different peach varieties, it was interesting to note that Veteran repeated the characteristic bud hardness which it exhibited in 1951. Another variety which appeared to be above average in bud hardness was the Station's own introduction, Spotlight. While the plantings of this variety are still small and the trees are still young, this variety appears to be relatively bud hardy.

Frost Injury to Cherry Blossom Buds—A. J. Mann.
The severe frost of April 29 to May 1, with minimum temperature at the Station of 22 degrees F. caused more injury to the blossom buds of cherry than to those of other fruits. Fruit and blossom counts indicate that injury to our principal black varieties occurred as follows: Van was least injured; Lambert appeared to be somewhat less injured than Bing, Sam or Star.

Apple Rootstocks Developed by the Station—A. J. Mann.
Almost twenty years ago this Station began the selection and testing of crown rot resistant clonal apple rootstocks. This work has so far resulted in the selection of 25 individual stocks, all of which appear to be at least as free-rooting under commercial nursery conditions as many of the Malling stocks. Although 25 stocks showed a certain degree of crown rot resistance in preliminary tests and a number of them have now been multiplied sufficiently to permit the setting-out of fifty plants of each kind for a more extensive test of resistance to crown rot by inoculation. Tests for hardness and growth characteristics are currently under way.

Spray Thinning When Frost Occurs—S. W. Porritt.
As a consequence of the recent frost damage to apple blooms, uncertainty exists as to the advisability of chemical thinning. It is thought that where frost injury is confined mainly to King blossoms, chemical thinning may be undertaken safely, but should probably be delayed 1 to 2 days past normal time for application. Some authorities state that apples produced from side blossoms are likely to be smaller than those from terminal or King blossoms. However, measurements made on McIntosh, Delicious, Jonathan and Rome apples at harvest some years ago of terminal and side fruits which had been permitted to grow on the same spur. Further checks will be made this year.

Cover Crop Management—J. L. Mason.

Good cover crops in orchards have become much more common since the use of sprinkler irrigation has expanded so rapidly in the last five years. The cutter-bar mower either side-mounted or back-mounted on tractors, has been the popular machine for cutting the cover crop when it got too high. However, there were difficulties in its use, the principal being that tufts of dead grass from earlier mowings would plug up the cutter-bar, necessitating frequent stops to clear it.

There is now a lively interest among growers in rotary types of mowers, which should be free of the plugging difficulty. One of these rotary mowers has been constructed at the East Kelowna station, using a discarded rear-end housing and wheels from an automobile. The five-foot blade is driven from the power take-off. The first runs of this new mower have been very satisfactory, even in the extremely tough conditions of an old Kentucky blue grass sod which caused considerable difficulties for the sickle-bar mower used before.

Cristante On Mound

Macs Come Out of Slump To Take Two Straight

Mac's last week pulled a secret weapon out of the hat in the form of Don Cristante and sent him in to go all the way Wednesday, night against Oliver and again Sunday against Princeton. Oliver was blanked 1-0 and locals cleaned up 8-2 against Princeton.

In the past, Cristante has turned in a lacklustre job during brief appearances on the mound but in both these games his performance was right out of the top drawer. In the seven-inning match against OBS's Wednesday, Cristante allowed only three hits while Sunday, Princeton could eke out only five.

Cristante added to his honors Sunday afternoon by hammering out a circuit clout in the bottom of the seventh.

The game got away to anything but an auspicious start for Cristante who looked as though he was in trouble from the very beginning. Lorne Bay led off for Princeton and belted out a two-base hit then brother Emler took a free pass and Cecco reached base on an error to load the sacks for Markin to score two runs with a single. However, that, as it turned out, was the end of the line for Royals. Cecco was out trying to reach home, Sidoni hit down to Fred Kato at second and H. Anderson went down swinging, the first of five strike-outs for Cristante.

Alan Hooker broke the ice for Macs with a run in the second and Merv Seigrist tied the game up in the fifth. Two more were added in the sixth when Geordie Taylor doubled and Chuck Aikin followed with a triple.

Cristante opened the seventh with his homer then Bob Weitzel to a base when he was hit then two steals put him on third and he came in on a single by Weeks. Taylor's single moved him down to second then he stole third and came in on a passed ball.

Not content to rest on their five-run lead, Daryl Weitzel led off with a single in the eighth and managed to stretch it into a run while bases filled up with Christante, Weeks and Taylor but all three finished the inning still on base.

Silver Lake was good last week with fish up to 18 inches being caught here.

Glen Lake: Good fly fishing reported here last week with fish up to 3 lbs. being landed.

Bear Lake: No reports from here over last week but it should still be O.K.

The Avro 707C is the world's first delta-wing transport aircraft. A delta-wing aircraft is designed to give pilots experience with delta-wing aircraft before they are used in a combat role.

Irene Carter came all the way from Yellowknife, in the Northwest Territories, to take the RCAF communications course at Clinton, Ont. "I like Yellowknife, but I'd like to see all of Canada and the RCAF will see to it that I do," she says. She is one of hundreds of girls from all over Canada being trained at the Clinton station. The plane illustrated is one of the dozens with which the students become familiar—delta-winged Avro 707C.

HOME AGAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hayworth have returned home from a two week holiday spent at the coast.

This was a beautiful sight.

When we got back to the hotel that night we put on our own Talent Show which was very successful and a dance which was also fun.

Friday night was the high spot of our entertainment when we went to Radio City Music Hall. It was almost too wonderful to describe.

Being the last night we had until 1.15 to get in. At 1.00 four of us decided to have breakfast, so we went to a cafe and had waffles which tasted very good at that time of the morning. That night we got to bed by 3 or 4 after packing and got up at 6.00 a.m. to leave New York.

Leaving New York we travelled to Valley Forge Park where we had lunch under the trees. This was a real treat after eating in hotels for a week. Then we had a two-hour tour of the Park. In the afternoon we were escorted into Philadelphia by the police. We had all the traffic stop-for us and we went past all the stop lights. Was great! Toured Philadelphia and went on to Exton where we stayed in a motel for the night.

I hope you can believe that we had a very busy and very enjoyable week in New York.

I can truthfully say that I think New York is a wonderful place for other people to live.

New York is Okay for New Yorkers Is Frances' Opinion After One Week

by FRANCES ATKINSON

EXTON, Pennsylvania. — New York did not impress me as a place where I would like to live. It is too large for one thing and too many people for another. As the saying goes "It takes all kinds to make a world" I think they all gathered in New York. We've all seen sights and people we've never seen before, and some we don't wish to see again. The one thing that impressed me most was the television aerials on hotel roofs — there were literally thousands of them jutting into the sky. One hotel looked funnier yet; a television aerial was coming out of every window all the way down the building. Another thing that floored us was the magnificent neon signs that lined the streets.

The humidity does not agree with me at all. You sweat from morning until night and just feel clammy; it can hardly be described.

Every day we went to the United Nations or some other place working in some branch of the U.N., for a morning session lasting from 10.00 to 12.00 and usually an afternoon session lasting from 1.00 until 3.00 or 4.00.

The U.N. buildings are very modern and beautiful and air conditioned and thank goodness. We had a guided tour of the U.N. buildings the first morning which proved very interesting.

Our evening entertainment was just wonderful. The first night after we arrived we went to the Planetarium which was very interesting. The next night we traveled 30 miles by subway to Coney Island where we saw the Atlantic ocean and spent the evening riding on Cyclones, Hurricanes, Whips, Boomerangs and lots of other rides. We had the time of our lives and ended up being drenched in a terrific rain storm. You haven't seen rain until you see it rain in New York. The water actually running down the street ankle deep like a river. Then we rode 30 miles to the hotel on the subway which didn't excite me at all. One afternoon we went to the Statue of Liberty and climbed to the very top — 300 ft. It was very warm. That evening we had the choice of going either to the Broadway Theatre, the Yankee Stadium or the Concert Hall. I went to the Broadway Theatre and saw "King of Hearts" which I enjoyed very much. Wednesday afternoon we went on a three hour sight-seeing boat trip around Manhattan Island and then went to International House for supper and the evening. 150 American students live there with 350 students from all over the world. I had supper with a student from Colombia, South America and one from Jordan. They both were very interesting to talk to.

The next afternoon we saw the city from the 102 floor of the Empire State Building. That evening we toured Rockefeller Centre which is a wonderful establishment and from the top of the building we watched the city lights come on.

These University of British Columbia scullers made their long trip to the BEG trials at Port Dalhousie, Ont., a profitable one, for they gained the right to return home and represent Canada in the heavy eights at the British Empire Games in their home city. The crew are, from right: Coxle Ray Stepping, Stroke Glen Smith, Mike Harris, Tom Tonybee, Doug. McDonald, Laurie West, Herman Zloklikovitz, K. Drummond and Bob Wilson. Although some of the oarsmen had never rowed until four months ago, the UBC boys picked up valuable experience competing against top U.S. collegiate crews including Navy and the University of Washington.
