Frosty Nights Now Consistent

Frost is on the pumpkin regularly these fall nights and weather observations at the experimental station during October showed 11 days when temperature dipped below the frost line...

Lowest temperature recording was on October 14 when the mercury was down to 25 degrees.

Belated summer weather was felt on several days and on Oct. 8 a reading of 70 was noted.

On only two days was there a measurable amount of rainfall while traces were recorded on three days.

Following is the record of high and low temperatures and rainfall for the month.

Growers Prepare For Annual Meet

The next annual convention of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association will take place in Kelowna on Jan. 18, 19 and 20.

The most important item of business at these local meetings is the consideration of resolutions submitted by growers.

A printed list of the resolutions is mailed to every registered grower. This is done in sufficient time to permit the locals to hold a further meeting to discuss in advance of the convention...

At these local meetings there also takes place the election of officers for the coming year. These include the local chairman, vice-chairman and secretary-treasurer...

Another feature of these annual meetings of locals is the opportunity they provide to every grower to propose names for all the executive positions in the organization.

The Summerland Review

Given Enough Rope, Well, Maybe He Will

One of the entertaining features of Saturday night's Halloween party was a tug-of-war which saw 100-man (or more correctly 100-boy-and-girl) teams pitted against each other.

The rope see-sawed back and forth but no winner was declared and new recruits were still joining in when the match was declared over.

Everyone was happy, except Ringmaster Charlie Wilkinson, who is still looking for his 200-foot rope.

Anyone know where it is?

Lorne Perry at the annual meeting of the B.C. Chamber of Commerce in Vancouver last week was chosen a director of that organization.

Mr. Perry is secretary of the Summerland Board of Trade and was local delegate to the annual session of the provincial body.

MacDonald Pupils Collect Over $250

Pupils of MacDonald School were out again this year on their annual shell-out collection and raised over $250 in the sale of their shell-out tickets.

Money collected from the annual campaign is used for the purchase of sports and playground equipment.

This year's collection was nearly $50 above that taken in a year ago.

Remembrance Day

District To Honor War Dead At Cenotaph Service Thursday

Residents of Summerland next Thursday morning will gather at the Cenotaph in the annual observance of Remembrance Day to pay tribute to her own sons and all Canadians who sacrificed their lives in the service of their country.

All members of local clergy will participate in the service of Remembrance which will start at 10:45 o'clock.

Veterans, members of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, Scouts, Guides, Cubs and Brownies will fall in at MacDonald School at 10:30 to parade to the Cenotaph.

Route of the parade, which will be led by the Summerland Band, will be from the school by way of Rosedale and Granville to the Cenotaph.

Veterans have been requested to wear medals for the occasion and Legion members will wear Legion caps. Other groups in the parade will be in regular uniform.

The memorial service will open with a prayer and then O Canada followed by scripture reading. The assembly will join in singing the hymn "O God Our Help In Ages Past". A prayer will follow and then names on the Roll of Honor will be read with the Legion members responding.

Last Post will be sounded and after the Minute of Silence, Reveille will be played.

Wreaths will then be laid, followed by the benediction and the service will close with the national anthem.

Little Mischief-Making

Youth Centre Party Draws Full House on Halloween

Summerland streets were empty Saturday night and householders on Sunday morning found themselves with full stocks of Halloween treats on hand as youngsters abandoned even the traditional "trick or treat" routine to flock to the Arena for the Youth Centre party where Old Stager Charlie Wilkinson kept things moving with entertainment features which kept the crowd wondering what would happen next.

Warm-up for the big evening show was a pet parade in the afternoon which brought out costumed youngsters with dogs, cats, horses and just about everything but a goldfish but including a big black bull.

Bulls, in fact, played an important role in the evening show with junior cowboys given a chance to try their hands at roping—a very small bull for the very small kids and a larger one for the bigger contestants.

They were not the only livestock that played a part in the show. The youngsters unsuccessfully tried to catch a greased pig but some of them did better when a dozen hens were released with the ones getting their first going home with their prize clucking under their arm. A ducks and a half dozen rabbits found new owners the same way.

A new version of baseball was tried using eggs to replace the ball and the yolk was on the players to the amusement of the assembly.

"The Big Operation", which the crowd watched in silhouette on a white sheet suspended before the operating table with all lights out except one behind the performers, was a source of unbridled merriment as bottles, boom chain, rubber boot and a dozen other articles were removed from the "patient's" abdomen.

General chairman for the party was Youth Centre Association president Art Crawford and assisting him were members of the executive.

Public Meeting To Launch Drive For Oldsters Home

Executive members of various community organizations met last night at the High School and heard from officers of Newhope Benevolent Society an outline of plans on how Valley View Lodge for senior citizens will serve Summerland.

From last night's preliminary meeting came plans for a public meeting to be held in the High School on Monday, Nov. 15 at 8 o'clock.

The meeting was addressed by C. G. Moore, D. E. Godkin, Rev. G. P. Tasker and T. Jordison who each spoke on different aspects of the lodge.

Chairman of the meeting was Reeve F. E. Atkinson. Treasurer of the Summerland Drive which has an objective for the fund to furnish the lodge, E. R. Butler reported that already before any canvass has started, donations have totalled $410.

The lodge is intended to serve the South Okanagan and the Summerland objective in the campaign is established on the ratio of population. Total cost of furnishing the lodge, which is the former Pentecost Hospital, is $45,000.

On a population basis, Summerland will be entitled to 10 vacancies in the lodge for local senior citizens. Enthusiastic discussion on the project took place at last night's meeting but those in attendance were reluctant to commit their organizations to any participation in the campaign without first reporting to a meeting of the membership and finally the proposal for the general meeting on Nov. 15 was agreed upon.

Annual Campaign for Poppy Fund To Be Conducted Here Saturday

Appeal for funds to be used for the welfare of veterans and their families in necessitous circumstances will be held in Summerland this Saturday when the annual Poppy Day drive will include house-to-house canvass as well as street sales.

Funds raised through the sale of poppies are administered by a committee of the Legion Branch and are used solely for welfare purposes in assisting local veterans who are in needy circumstances.

Demands on the fund grow increasingly heavier each year with veterans advancing in age and facing the problems that develop with age. To meet these increasing demands, Poppy Day committee members are hopeful of a generous response to the appeal which will enable it to adequately alleviate distress which will arise during the coming year.

Salvage Apples Still Upsetting Price Structure

A big promotional campaign in the eastern United States to move a heavy volume of hurricane-damaged apples this week continued to keep the apple market upset and B.C. Tree Fruits anticipates it will be two weeks or more before prices for B.C. apples can be expected to show any strength.

In western Canada sales for the past six days have been "quite good" but total shipments compared to a year ago show a decrease. A crop report issued by a large western grain organization under the date of Oct. 29 states the present position with regard to grain harvest: "For the first time this fall, nature has smiled on the western Canadian crop. Almost three weeks of dry weather, have enabled the farmers to harvest that part of their grain not previously ruined by rust, rain and frost."

Overall sales to eastern Canada have improved somewhat this past week but individual market purchases have continued spotty and shipments have been mostly to non-producing areas.

Shipments to the U.S. market have been fairly steady during the week, being mostly McIntosh, Johnathans and a lesser quantity of red delicious.

Latest report of the U.S. apple crop indicates a figure in the neighborhood of 102 million bushels, even after taking into consideration the loss from three hurricanes this year. This is approximately 10 million bushels more than the total U.S. apple production of a year ago.

Tree Blaze Provides Halloween Bonfire

Trout Creek resident Saturday night witnessed an unscheduled Halloween bonfire when fire which started in a tree house built by neighboring children sent the tree up in flames.

The tree-house fire was apparently started by would-be Halloween pranksters.

Summerland fire department had just finished fighting another fire in the former Fred Schumann home now occupied by Walter Yaseniuk, when they received the call to extinguish the Trout Creek blaze.

In the earlier outbreak, fire is believed to have started from a back flash from the furnace and worked its way up between walls to the attic. Damage was covered by insurance.

Building Continues To Outstrip Last Year

October, building in Summerland was more than four times that of October a year ago and total of permits issued in the first 10 months of this year now exceeds the same period of 1953 by $70,000.

Building last month received its boost from three permits for new homes to a total value of $31,000. There were no permits issued for commercial construction but four for alterations and additions to residences totalled $3,950.

A total of 89 building permits have been issued this year compared to 75 for the same time last year.

These comparative building figures were contained in the monthly report of building inspector Roy F. Angus.

WESTERN APPROACH TO TORONTO'S HUMBER BRIDGE IS WASHED AWAY BY THE FLOOD

AT MARKHAM, RAIN LAYS BARE TRACKS

Twenty-four hours' battering by rain and gale-force winds left a huge slice of Southwestern Ontario in a state of havoc and despair. Millions of dollars' damage and the loss of at least 54 lives were left in wake of storm which came up through New York state, the tail end of Hurricane Hazel. Farms, homes, stores, railways, boats, tracks, bridges and highways were damaged. Deep washouts were reported in at least eight areas. At least 22 persons are dead and 800 are missing. The largest toll at any one spot is believed to have occurred at Woodbridge, where provincial police reported two cars containing 10 persons were swept into the raging Humber river. At Bradford, thousands were marooned on rooftops in the rich Holland Marsh garden area. From four to 20 feet of water backed up from Lake Simcoe and every home in the marsh is swimming in water. No boats were available to rescue the marooned families during the night. Hazel, one of the giants of the hurricanes, took 30 lives in its sweep through the U.S.

Prevent A Third World War

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, Deputy Supreme Commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe, told a press conference at Bergen, Norway, recently that "if a counterpart of NATO had existed before the last war there would not have been any war."

How many of the major and the minor tragedies of this world in the past have hung on that little word "if". And that applies especially to European wars from Napoleon onward. We can now say that if that little Corsican warmonger had been faced with an armed Atlantic alliance he never would have attempted to overrun the whole of Europe. As it was, Britain fought Napoleon alone, while the United States, nominally neutral, cut off trade with Britain, entered into agreements with France and tried to annex Canada in the war of 1812 when Napoleon launched his campaign against Russia.

A hundred years later the German Kaiser declared war on Britain and France, with the object of repeating the Napoleonic conquests of Europe, plus the British Empire; which he would never have attempted if he had thought he would have to face an Atlantic alliance with the United States. But the United States was again neutral and looked on the conflict for two years while Britain was fighting alone. Twenty years later, Hitler made the same miscalculation, gambling on the neutrality of the United States, in his planned blitzkrieg for world conquest. Britain again had to fight alone until the United States was stabbed in the back by Japan at Pearl Harbor. That treacherous blow knocked all the neutrality out of the United States and sent the American people fighting mad into the war for their own safety.

Hindsight is easier than foresight, and all our ifs about the past are vain unless we apply them to the present and profit by our mistakes. That is what Montgomery meant when he applied the "if" to the beginning of the last war, and implied that if the western nations failed to support the North Atlantic Alliance, a third world war would be inevitable in view of the growing military might and aggressive policy of Soviet Russia.

As much as we hate war and want to live at peace with all men, we cannot afford to leave ourselves open to attack by nations whose rulers, puffed up with their absolute power at home, seek to extend it to the rest of the world. All dictators down through the ages have been rapacious for more and more power, and they have only been checked at home by assassination and abroad by war. But they have never gone to war with a nation that they knew they could not conquer. Like the bully in the school-yard, they would never hit a nation of their own size or fighting strength, but sometimes they made a miscalculation.

NATO was organized as a defensive alliance by nations that had shown their desire for world peace by demobilizing their fighting forces immediately after the last war. The big German bully was well beaten and we imagined the horrible example of that beating was sufficient to discourage any sane nation from starting another such conflict. But we did not reckon with the ingrained insanity of Communism, the declared aim of which is conquest by conspiracy and world revolution. Seeing the disarmament of his former allies, the Red lunatic in the Kremlin asylum thought that here was his chance for a coup de main. With nearly half the world within his grasp, the weakened remainder was his for the taking of it! And so it might have been if the western nations had not been awakened from their dream of peace by the fact that they were being sniped and epped by Moscow-trained political perverts from within, in preparation for the final coup. NATO arose out of that situation, and if only that alliance is maintained at full strength it can disillusion the Red world revolutionists.

The Living, Too . . .

THE blood red poppy of Flanders first came into being as an emblem of remembrance in 1918 and every year since then we have on November 11 donned the poppy as a token of remembrance to those who gave their lives on battlefields throughout the world in the service of their country. We wear it also as a reaffirmation of a pledge that those brave men have not died in vain.

The poppy we wear each year on Remembrance Day serves still another, and equally important purpose—it helps provide for the living.

The poppies sold each year by the Canadian Legion are manufactured by veterans who returned from wars maimed and broken and unable to return to normal employment. And profits from the sale of poppies and wreaths are used solely for welfare purposes to assist veterans and their families who are in financial difficulties.

Saturday is Poppy Day and when we buy and wear a poppy, we are honoring our valiant war dead in the most effective way — by remembering the living.

Last year, the Canadian Legion sold only about five million poppies to a Canadian population of more than 14 million. We would not like to think there are nine million Canadians indifferent to the memory of those who died in the defence of this country or to the welfare of those who lived. We Seven Safe Rules . . .

THREE major causes — faulty heating equipment, careless smoking habits and misuse of inflammable liquids — cause two-thirds of the more than 1000 fires that occur in Canada weekly.

Many fires are caused by faulty chimneys, flues, stoves, misused fireplaces, hot ashes and sparks on roofs. Further, it is estimated that matches and careless smoking habits have been responsible for nearly 30 per cent of all fires from known causes over the past 10 years.

Fires from all causes take the lives of more than 500 Canadians each year, and cost a total of $80,000,000. Cost of insured fire losses alone, over the past 10 years, was $419,986,800.

The Jury System A Precious Freedom

It is fashionable nowadays to lampoon the Americans for the often foolish statements of their international spokesmen. Canada seems to do well in that same arena also, and the latest example of this country's spokesmen internationally ranks with the best of Dulles, McCarthy, Cohen and Schine.

No less a person than the Chief Justice of a neighboring province is the latest Canadian to shoot his face off while away from home. Not only did the learned judge express opinions at shocking variance with established democratic procedures, but he chose as his forum a gathering of members of an American bar association who should have and undoubtedly do have the greatest respect for their own British-inspired judicial system.

This is the age of the specialist in many fields. Law, too, has its own specialists, including judges. But for a judge to remark that "the time has come when a judge can do a better job than a jury" is to mistake absolutely the true function of the specialist and to try to elevate him to a position of unquestioned authority.

The news report on this remarkable statement also says that the judge recommended abandonment of the jury system. A single competent judge can with dispatch handle most cases, he added.

Few Canadians, we are confident, will be attracted to such a situation. One of the really precious freedoms is the right of election of an accused to trial by a jury of his peers if he so desires. On a few charges, including capital offences, jury trial is mandatory.

All this the heritage of past struggles for individual freedom would be swept away and the specialist substituted. Who, then, is to judge the specialist? Specialist number two, perhaps?—Vernon News.

Back Of The Demands

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor has recommended to that body's annual convention that it espouse the cause of a 35-hour week in industry.

We trust that before anyone on the management side of the fence gets too alarmed he will pause long enough to ponder what followed the United Steelworker's manifesto of last May on behalf of guaranteed annual wage. That union amicably negotiated and signed a contract with the steel industry two months later from which the g.a.w. was notably absent.

This doesn't mean that either labor group is insincere or merely bluffing. It doesn't mean that neither the shorter work week nor the g.a.w. will show up in future contract demands. It does mean that the leaders of both the AFL and the USW are tacticians who know how to forge specific, concrete leverages to be employed in behalf of more general goals.

The so-called guaranteed annual wage is the specific leverage to be applied toward greater stabilization of production and hence employment. And by its own utterance, the CIO, which has backed the g.a.w., expects movement in that direction will be gradual and, of necessity, will take many forms.

The shorter work week is the specific leverage to be applied toward solutions to the workers' side of several problems. In the longer view it is asking for answers to industry's increasing mechanization, and to what disturbs labor even more—the complete automatic factory. In the more immediate view it expresses the AFL's concern over persistent "under-employment" in certain industries and certain areas.

As the latter, it is a "spread the work" remedy; and it does not find unanimous union support by any means. Only six months ago CIO president Walter Reuther called proposals to cut the work week "sharing the scarcity." His proposals to increase production by concentrating on aids to consumer buying power may have grave faults in them, too. But the approach, at least, is more positive.

Fortunately, within management today there are many who understand the dual nature of these demands. They know they must be on their guard lest they wake up with their signatures on contracts comprising unworkable or ruinous wage-and-hour schemes. They know also that behind these easily wigged demands stand some valid needs of those who work for wages which cannot be callously ignored.

These are things the general public should understand, too.—Christian Science Monitor.

support the poppy day campaign

hope there are none in this community and that the sale of poppies on Saturday will be received with generous response by 100 per cent of the people in this district.

Miss Moina Michael, who is credited with originating the idea of wearing a poppy as an insignia of remembrance, wrote a reply to the immortal verses of Col. John MacRae. We would like to think these words were inscribed on the heart of all as they pin a poppy to their lapel on Saturday:

Oh you who sleep in Flanders' fields,
Sleep sweet — to rise anew.
We caught the torch you threw,
And holding high, we keep the Faith
With those who died.

We cherished, too, the poppy red
That grows on fields where valor led;
It seems to signal to the skies
That blood of heroes never dies,
But lends a lustre to the red
Of flowers that bloom above the dead
In Flanders' fields.

And now the torch and poppy red
We wear in honor of our dead.
Fear not that ye have died for naught;
We've learned the lesson that ye taught
In Flanders' fields.

help cut the heavy fire toll

Insurance experts recommend the following precautions against fire:

1. Familiarize yourself with the fire department telephone number.
2. Be careful when using inflammable, explosive liquids in the home.
3. Be sure electrical fuses are the correct amperage for your circuits; overloading is hazardous.
4. All heating plants, pipes or appliances should be at least 18 inches away from walls and other combustible materials.
5. Have chimneys cleaned at least once a year, and repaired promptly when cracks or loose mortar appear.
6. Be sure matches and tobacco are never left burning.
7. Teach children good safety habits.

Mid-Week Message

Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me. (Revelation 3:20.) Read Revelation 3:20-22.

Albert Schweitzer is one of the greatest men in our world today. As a theologian, philosopher, musician, teacher, and physician, he has won universal acclaim. He has dedicated his life to the natives of Lambaréne in Africa. Through the years, he has ministered to their physical and spiritual needs.

Dr. Schweitzer has, indeed, opened the door of his life to these people. His voice is an invitation to Christian living. His faith in God, in others, and in himself is beautiful, simple, and humble. This type of faith leads to greatness, for the mark of greatness is humility. Without faith and a humble heart, we can never know love, especially the perfect love of Christ. These things make possible purposeful living for each of us.

Our Lord invites us to open the doors of our lives to Him, to His way, to His love, and to share His greatness born of humility.

PRAYER
Eternal Father, giver of life and Lord of all things, give us humble hearts, simple faith, and true purpose as we live this day. Teach us to accept Thy invitation to Christlike living that we may glorify Thee. In His name. Amen.

At the corner cigar store: Greatly agitated, a mother dashed into a drug store carrying her infant child. "My baby swallowed a .22 calibre bullet!" she cried "What shall I do?" Replied the druggist, "Well, don't point him at anyone."

Two fellows were looking at a sign in the country store window which read: "Ladies Ready to Wear Clothes." "Well, it's darn near time."

A guy who goes for the cup that cheers somewhat was finally cornered by his wife in a bar where he was dreamily contemplating a slug of rye. Being in a genial mood he offered her a sip, but when she took it she gagged and spluttered, finally coming out with: "How can you ever drink that horrible stuff?" "See?" said the husband, "and all the while you thought I was having a good time!"

The lunatic, after a very exemplary record of sanity was discharged from the asylum and returned home. On the following morning he decided to shave as every sane man does. He nailed the mirror to the wall, stood before it, lathered his face, then selecting an old fashioned razor, proceeded to shave; at this moment the nail slipped, and the mirror fell to the floor. He stood, gazing at the blank wall before him, then remarked bitterly, "Just my luck! Second day out and I've cut my blooming head off!"

Remarkable Document

For some years, a part of my work has been to write book reviews, and once in a while I get a surprise. That's what happened to me this morning.

I picked out of my mail an unpretentious looking book. The title was, "Watching the Chinese Curtain Fall." The author was W. J. Sheridan, formerly a medical missionary in China in the service of the United Church of Canada. I must confess that I expected some dull reading.

But though I picked up the book this morning, it is still before me. The office lights are on now, and outside my window I see that the street lights have been turned on. I took the book with me to lunch, and I have not yet had dinner. It takes a pretty astounding document to so provoke my jaded tastes in literature.

"Watching the Chinese Curtain Fall" is certainly an astounding document. I cannot imagine any Canadian reading it without becoming excited about it.

But it is only fair to warn you that having read it, you can never again be apathetic about the danger Canada faces today. Dr. Sheridan, in some of the finest prose published in Canada for many years, shows that Communist principles can sneak up on us just as easily as they did on the Chinese. Like Canadians, the Chinese farmer was an independent, self-respecting, industrious, reliable, cheerful member of society. China did not appear to be the kind of a country in which a revolution could grow and flourish. But it did.

The tragic thing is that it grew in China with many of the same devices that we are adopting here. The craze to equalize wealth has led to the ridiculous belief that all wealth and power of the world (or any section of it) in their hands, they will immediately divide it equally among all men—even supposing men could be found who had the wisdom and executive ability for such a task? Moreover, each possessing an equal share of material goods, what motivation will men have for working?"

That question is just as potent here as it should have been in China. Yet every day we complacently turn over more and more power to the government. Every step in this direction makes us, to some degree, tools of the State.

There is no doubting this book. Paragraph after paragraph Dr. Sheridan documents the skill and brutality of the Communists, contrasting their softening up methods before the Iron Curtain fell, and their brutal methods following it. He shows how desperately easy it is for a nation to fall under the spell of Communism. We prepare the way for it every time we yield up a freedom. We ask for it every time we try to share, by the trickeries of law, a neighbor's wealth. We invite it every time we encourage our government to play fairy godmother

Dr. W. J. Sheridan has done a great service to Canada, and to the United Church of Canada, in whose service he was a medical missionary. It has sometimes been said that it is among church groups that much of the fuzzy thinking about Communism takes place. Mr. Sheridan's book gives the lie to this. There is certainly nothing fuzzy about, "Watching the Chinese Curtain Fall."

The case of lotteries for charity and Attorney-general Bonner, poor man, is an intriguing one, but it's hardly a new turn with governments.

Governments, always, when on the spot, seek to let on to the public that an opinion that creates some storm is not the opinion of the government, but of the cabinet minister concerned.

This, of course, is nonsense; a cabinet minister when he speaks on a public question, speaks for the government. He can have no private opinions on public matters, unless he specifically says it's a private opinion.

For instance, Premier Bennett, speaking of liquor, said that he would vote against liquor by the glass in his home town of Kelowna, but he also said that if a majority of the people voted for it he would see that they got it.

About legalizing these lotteries for charity, it seems incredible that Mr. Bonner would tell an Ottawa committee that B.C. favors them without first consulting the premier, even if he didn't take the matter to a cabinet meeting.

The opposition of many of the clergy to lotteries for charity is somewhat bewildering, too. Most churches are largely financed by bazaars, and a feature of bazaars—and garden parties—is raffles, and what's a raffle if it isn't a lottery?—James K. Nesbit in Capitol Report.

Bible Society B.C. Secretary Tells Of Progress in Bible Distribution

"Millions have found the truth that makes men free through the work of the British and Foreign Bible Society, providing the Scriptures in 325 languages for the people of 90 countries of the world during the past 150 years—an average of more than 10,000 every day," declared the society's secretary for the province, Rex J. A. Raymond Tingley, Vancouver, speaking at a well-attended rally on Monday night in the United Church.

The rally took the form of a Service of Thanksgiving and Dedication in commemoration of the third jubilee of the bible society, in which the local ministers participated, and Mr. Tingley presented an outstanding motion picture, "The Living Word."

The film, which was produced by the British and Foreign Bible Society in Australia, portrayed the influence of the bible in the life of Britain, the United States and Australia. It showed the transforming power of the bible in the lives of the native people of the countries and island of the south west pacific, and the tremendous work of the bible society in putting the scriptures in the languages of the people.

Mr. Tingley stated that although the scriptures have been published in 1,077 languages, there are over 1,500 languages and dialects spoken throughout the world in which there is no portion of the bible published—"a fact that is a great challenge to people who possess the blessings of the book, to support generously the society which seeks to share those blessings with all mankind."

The secretary expressed sincere appreciation to the people of Summerland who this year have contributed nearly $700 to the work of the society, and will do more before the year of jubilee ends. This, he said represents a great increase in giving over previous years; and declared that it will help greatly in enabling the society to achieve some of the imperative tasks of supplying the truth with millions who are yet in bondage.

Officers of the local branch were re-elected; president, A. C. Johnson, secretary, John Graham, treasurer, J. S. Mott; additional members of the executive, W. M. Jenkinson; J. M. Deringer, J. M. McDougald, L. Schindel, C. W. James and Mr. Deringer. The ministers of the churches are vice-presidents.

Mr. Tingley thanked the executive for the successful canvass conducted last spring, and expressed confidence that next year's canvass will be even more successful, in view of the increasing awareness of the people concerning the essential and vital worth of the bible society. The service was conducted by Rev. C. O. Richmond, Rev. A. A. T. Northrup, Rev. Lyle Kennedy and Rev. J. Elwood Shannon.

The average Canadian man is five feet seven inches tall, weighs 161 pounds; the average Canadian woman is five feet one and three-quarters inches in height, weighs 135 pounds.

Cub Calls

1st Summerland Pack

The Youth Centre was a regular Hobo Jungle for the Cubs Halloween party on Monday night. The grand march showed a great variety of Hobo Costumes—and the judges, Constable Piers and Mr. Oxley had difficulty in choosing the prize winners. John Lott and Billy Wilson were finally chosen to receive the compass prizes. The hobo theme was carried out in the games and stories and ended up with a campfire where doughnuts and juice were served.

Allsweet carton ends are coming in—one six collected 70 last week. November 11th there will be parade to the cenotaph—full uniform, short pants—boys to wear their dress pants over cub pants in case of cold weather. More details next week.

If there are any parents interested in getting uniforms for the boys from the Uniform Pool please come to the meeting next week and see what you can find.

Next meeting, Nov. 8th. Duty Six Red Six.

Clever Cooking . . .

Just at this time you may be thinking of freezing meat and poultry for winter use in your home freezer or at your local locker plant. If you have room for storing a considerable quantity of meat you will probably buy a hind or frontquarter of beef and perhaps a side of pork. In this case it is best to have the butchering, chilling, aging and wrapping done by a butcher or locker plant operator and if possible have the meat quick frozen at the locker before storing.

You will find that beef, pork and fowl are in good supply now and are good buys for freezing. Good quality meat and poultry will freeze well if it is carefully handled and wrapped for freezing. A carcass should be chilled at least 24 hours before freezing at a temperature of 34 degrees F. to 54 degrees F. Beef is usually aged five to seven days, and pork frozen immediately after thorough chilling. It is considered best to age beef for freezing for less time than if it is to be sold as fresh since longer aging will hasten the development of rancidity.

If you haven't room to freeze much meat or poultry at a time, you might take advantage of the "specials" at your butcher shop and buy several roasts or birds; the size and weight suitable for the family dinner.

Remember not to overload your freezer or locker since the more food that is piled into the freezer at one time, the longer it will take to freeze. It should be frozen as quickly as possible in the coldest part of your freezer and should be placed so that one side of the food has contact with the cold plates or wall of the freezer.

To save freezer space it is best to have meat boned before wrapping, and excess fat removed. Stewing meat may be boned and cubed.

Cuts of meat may be packaged individually in freezer wrappings or bags and the type of meat, weight and date should be marked on the package. Steaks, chops or ground meat patties may be packaged together in freezer wrappings or bags. It is best to place a double layer of moisture-proof paper between the pieces of meat so that they are more easily separated. Poultry should be drawn, washed, dried and thoroughly cooled before freezing. The whole bird should be trussed and carefully wrapped. It is best to draw the neck and giblets separately in freezer bags or cartons. The birds may also be disjointed, cut in pieces and packaged according to the desired number of servings. Broilers may be left whole or cut in halves and wrapped.

Metal foil, moisture-vapor-proof cellophane, locker paper, laminated paper and plastic films may all be used for wrapping material. Moisture-vapor-proof cellophane or plastic films may be heat sealed, locker paper taped or tied with string and metal foil simply shaped around the food. If freezer bags are used they should be heat sealed or tied.

The drugstore method of wrapping meat or poultry is best to use as it ensures the tightest possible closing. The food is placed in the centre of the wrapping paper and the two edges are brought together over the top. The edges are folded over two or three times until the wrapping fits closely around the food forming a tight seal and leaving as little air space as possible. The air should be forced out of the ends of the parcel by pressing the hand outward to the edges of the paper.

There are certain time limits for holding meat and poultry successfully in frozen storage. In general, large cuts of meat can be held considerably longer in frozen storage than small pieces. For example, stewing meat, particularly if it is very fat, is best stored for only one month. After this time it may develop off-flavors. Sausages and wieners should not be stored longer than one month. Chops may be stored from three to four months before developing off-flavors. Steaks may be held about six months. It is best to freeze one-inch thick steaks since thinner ones are apt to dry out. Cuts of beef may be stored eight to twelve months, lamb six to eight months and pork and veal four to six months. Minced or ground meat does not freeze as well for the same length of time.

It is not practical to store poultry for long periods when freezer space is limited. Chicken, fowl and turkey may be stored up to one year if desired but cut-up poultry should be stored only six months. Geese and ducks should not be stored longer than three months because the fat may develop off-flavors.

Meat may be thawed at room temperature or in the refrigerator or it may be put on to cook while still frozen. Thawing times will vary depending on the size, shape and thickness of the meat. If you wish to thaw a roast or steak at room temperature allow one and a half to two hours per pound, that is, a four pound roast of meat will require up to eight hours to thaw at room temperature. To thaw the same roast in the refrigerator will take six to eight hours per pound or approximately 32 hours. If you wish to cook the roast frozen, it will take ten to fifteen minutes longer per pound than it would take for fresh meat. For example, a four pound rolled rib roast which would normally take 35 to 40 minutes per pound in a 325 degree F. oven would take at least forty-five to fifty minutes per pound to cook frozen. So, ladies, just remember the next time you have a roast for dinner, be sure and do some mental arithmetic first so that the roast will be ready on time.

Steaks and chops may be cooked thawed or frozen. Thawed steaks will take the same time to cook as fresh. Frozen steaks are a little more difficult to cook than thawed, particularly if they are thick ones for it is hard to brown them properly on the outside and still have the centre cooked. Generally, one-inch frozen steaks will take about twice as long to pan-fry, as the fresh or thawed steaks and chops cut one-half inch thick will also take about twice as long to pan-fry.

Poultry is best eviscerated, that is, drawn before freezing. It may then be thawed before cooking, stuffed with freshly prepared dressing and cooked as fresh poultry allowing the same cooking time. Thawing times will vary depending on the size and shape of the bird. As a general rule, poultry requires about six hours per pound to thaw

Institute to Have Fish Cooking School

Members of the Women's Institute and others interested will receive a lesson in fish preparation at the regular meeting in the IOOF Hall on Friday, Nov. 12, when a demonstration will be staged by Miss Mary B. Allman, home economist of the department of fisheries.

The demonstration will start at 2:45 o'clock.

The home economists of the department of fisheries test methods of cooking and recipes for all types of Canadian fish. They provide information to the public by answering enquiries on fish cookery sent by letter and by travelling through the province demonstrating fish cookery before women's groups.

Miss Allman is the home economist for British Columbia and is a graduate in home economics from UBC. Previous to joining the department of fisheries in 1952, she was a hospital dietitian.

In the demonstration here in Summerland, about five items will be prepared, using fish, frozen and canned fish which are available in this area.

And like pudding, proof of fish cookery is in the eating so members of the audience will have the opportunity of tasting the dishes prepared by Miss Allman and may have copies of the recipes used as well as other fish recipes.

HOME AGAIN

Mrs. Alphonse Menu has returned to her home in Summerland after a month's holiday spent in Vancouver.

In the refrigerator or one and one-half hours per pound at room temperature.

Broiler halves may be thawed and cooked as fresh broilers or cooked frozen. Chicken cut-ups may be thawed and pan-fried as fresh pieces or cooked frozen. Frozen pieces are a little more difficult to fry since the fat has a tendency to spatter. For this reason you should use a covered pan to brown and fry the frozen pieces. They may also be oven-baked either thawed or frozen. If you wish to cook broiler halves or cut-up chicken while still frozen, you must increase the cooking time by approximately one-half

Saving money . . . and writing cheques

A bank offers you two types of deposit account, Savings and Current.

If your main purpose is to save, to accumulate funds, it's good to have a Savings account.

If you write cheques frequently, you will like the many advantages of a Current account.

The money you leave in a Savings account earns interest, and your bank book gives you an up-to-date, continuing record of your financial progress. If your funds are active, with frequent deposits and withdrawals, a Current account provides a special service; a monthly statement, together with your cancelled cheques—useful as receipts and a ready reference for budgeting, bookkeeping and other purposes.

Summerland Chapter No. 63, Order of the Eastern Star, held its annual tea and sale of home cooking in the IOOF Hall on Saturday under the able convensorship of Mrs. Mel Cousins.

VISITING ABROAD

Mr. and Mrs. H. Tomlin have returned from a three weeks visit to Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis, accompanied by Marjorie, spent last week-end in Vancouver with Kathleen and Richard.

Guests were welcomed to tea by Associate Matron Betty Long and the atmosphere of friendly hospitality made a relaxing break in her busy pre-Halloween activity.

Mrs. Ray Leinor and Mrs. Blair Underwood chose large vases of red-bronze and gold chrysanthemums as a colorful background for the white-clothed tea tables which were centered with small bowls of pink and white blooms.

The beautifully-appointed table where Mrs. E. Famchon and Mrs. V. Stent, Mrs. Enstone and Mrs. G. Harper presided was centered with a large bouquet of pink and white blooms, flanked by white tapers in silver holders.

Mrs. Jack Dunsdon was in charge of the head table and Mrs. Ken Heales supervised the serving with Mrs. J. Green, Mrs. G. Clark, Mrs. J. MacArthur, Mrs. G. Smith, Mrs. J. Heavysides, Mrs. H. Brown and Mrs. B. Underwood as servers. Kitchen duties were discharged by Mrs. Earle E. Wilson, Mrs. M. Pollock, Mrs. A. Stark, Mrs. Elva Long and Mrs. Gordon Beggs.

Mrs. Syd Feltham, Mrs. A. Dunsdon, and Mrs. George Washington had charge of tickets. The door prize, a hamper of food to which each member contributed, was won by Mrs. V. Barnes of Summerland.

Mrs. J. Marshall, Mrs. Calder Mrs. K. Elliott and Mrs. J. Mitchell handled the sale of home cooking and Mrs. G. Laidlaw and Mrs. A. J. Berry convoked the refreshments.

The lovely array of home cooking and the delicious refreshments served at tea gave indication the chapter is not short of good cooks.

Money raised through the effort will be used by the chapter in their work of providing cancer dressings and a portion will go toward cancer research.

Will Change System Of Electing Trustees

The Board of School Trustees, with the approval of the Department of Education and the Municipal Council, has inaugurated a new procedure of election of trustees in this School District under the provisions of the Public Schools Act. Formerly, four of the five trustees were elected by municipal voters and one by the ratepayers of the rural area. However, it has been difficult to arouse the interest of rural ratepayers in school affairs and attendance at the annual meeting has been sparse and not truly representative of the rural area.

Now, beginning with the December 11, 1954, election, the municipality will hold the election for trustees, (three of the five being elected this year), using the voters' list and a list the School District covering the rural area. In other words, all the voters in the School District will elect all the trustees. A trustee, providing he has the proper qualifications, may be chosen from either the municipal or rural area.

Hunting and Fishing News

FISHING

Okanagan Lake has been pretty fair this last week. No big ones but quite a few fish up to 3 pounds being landed. Reports in show that the white-fish have just started to run.

Reports are few from Mountain Lakes are all good except from Headwaters. Richter lake still pretty good.

HUNTING

Grouse is over now and all in all it has been poor.

Pheasants and Quail still a fair number around yet if you have a good dog. Season still on till Nov. 21.

Ducks and Geese a few local ducks around. Quite a few in Three Lake Valley. No geese as yet reported here.

Deer seem to be around in quite good numbers now. Kills have been made in all areas especially Baldy, Bald Range, and Fish Lake. A little snow now and there should be pretty good hunting.

No reports on big game from the Cariboo or the Kootenays.

Versatility is the key to the phenomenal success of Montreal Alouettes' talent-loaded quarterback, Sam Etcheverry. Passing leader of the Big Four, Sam, "The Rifle," also is a dangerous runner. A typical example of his opportunist style occurred in a recent game when the league-leading Alouettes shellacked second-place Hamilton Ticats, 46-11. In the fourth quarter, Sam was chased behind his own goal-line, but by artful weaving and dodging he manged a 40-yard pass to Floyd Paterson, who raced all the way for a T.D. Etcheverry, a former Denver university pivot-man, appears certain to retain the all-star quarterback slot in Big Four he won last season.

Summerland's commercial hockey league entry got away to a fast start in the schedule opener Sunday afternoon but in the third period saw the three-goal lead built up in the first frame whittled away until they finally ended up even with Penticton Merchants with the score at 4-4.

Badminton Club Season Started

A good turnout Tuesday, Oct. 26, marked the opening of the season for the Summerland Badminton Club and indications are for an enthusiastic club this season. Players reported the floor in excellent condition following a thorough cleaning and refinishing job. Plans were made for repairs to the lounge to make it more comfortable.

The club is launching a drive for new members and anyone interested may contact Dave Hurn or Dr. M. F. Welsh.

The club plans to join with other clubs in the valley for inter-club tournaments during the season.

A schedule of social events is also planned and first will be a progressive bridge tournament for which plans are now being formulated. This tourney last year proved very popular.

Bowling Opener Wednesday Night

Five-pin bowling league is set to get underway next Wednesday evening with eight teams scheduled to meet in the loop opener.

Schedule for the season has been delayed because a number of teams have not yet entered for the play. Bowlers who are not on the line-up of any team yet this year have been requested to attend Wednesday night and new teams for the league may be formed then.

Next week at 7:15 o'clock Meat-eaters will roll off against Bowldrome and Red Sox will meet Frozen Foods. At 9 o'clock Pirates will face Firemen and Bank of Montreal will roll off against Pick Ups.

Familiar faces back on the ice for Summerland again this year were linemen Geordie Taylor, Alan Hooker, Bill Eyre and Sam Injayoshi; defencemen Rosie Campbell and Barney Furaya; and goal tender Don McNiven.

Newcomers with Summerland were Doug and Meryn Weeks, Bob Bramby and Gordy Abraham.

Summerland got away fast from the opening whistle demonstrating the same skill that gave them top spot in the league last year. With the season less than three minutes old, Alan Hooker took a pass from Rosie Campbell to fire home the first goal.

At the 15-minute mark in the same period Rosie Campbell came in unassisted for another tally and a minute later Hooker scored his second of the game when he converted a pass from Eyres and put his team three goals out in front.

Merchants unlimbered in the second period and after 15 minutes of play, Doug Moore put the Penticton team in the game when he scored on a pass from Jim McLean. Summerland recovered their three-goal lead a minute later when Geordie Taylor took the disc from Meryn Weeks to bend the twine.

Final frame was Penticton's all the way with Dick Getz blinking the light at the eight-minute mark with an assist from Tom White. Two minutes later, Ed. John rammed home another on a combination from Moore and White. Then with only about two minutes to go in the match, Moore made it all even on a pass from White.

Penticton kept out of trouble throughout the game but each period saw the linemen swing out to receive a Summerland miscue. First period it was Meryn Weeks for slashing; in the second, Campbell for tripping and in the last, Hooker for charging.

In the other match of the day, Dragoons overran the Garagemen 5-1.

Naramata School Winter Courses Start Yesterday

Eighth winter class of the Christian Leadership Training School, Naramata, B.C., commenced its term with the official opening yesterday. A large class of single and married students have come from B.C., Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and New York City.

The Christian Leadership Training School is devoted to training the regular members of the church for more effective work in their church and community. The courses offered are in the five areas of bible, Christian Faith and Life, the church, the educational work of the church and the skills of leadership.

Twenty-one courses are offered during the winter, most courses lasting two weeks. Ministers from Alberta and B.C. give two weeks of their time to teaching the class. The first course on the Old Testament is being given by Rev. Max Warne, of Cloverdale United Church.

The special speaker at the opening, yesterday was John Dunsmuir of Vancouver and White Rock. Rev. H. R. Ross of First United Church, Vancouver, was chairman. Many of the 54 students have been at the school since October 13 sharing in a work camp. Welding, paint brush and hammer, axe and rake and shovel, they have been re-decorating and remodelling and generally getting the building in shape for the busy winter season.

The students come with varied backgrounds and experience. One-third are high school graduates; six are stenographers; four are school teachers; five are clerks; four are bank clerks. Others include four farmers, a roofing salesman, fisherman, printer, nurses aid, herdsmen, carpenter, carpenter's apprentice, library worker, housewife, laborer, accountant.

Registered for the course from Summerland is Eugene Bates.

Organist Honored Before Leaving

Following evening service at Lakeside United Church, Sunday Oct. 31, a social hour was held in the Sunday School Hall. Refreshments were provided by the Lakeside Womens Auxiliary.

During the hour, a presentation was made to Eugene Bates, who has been organist for the past 16 months. Mr. Bates leaves the congregation to take up studies at the Christian Leadership Training School at Naramata.

Mrs. E. R. Butler, in making the presentation on behalf of the congregation, spoke of Mr. Bates' loyalty and dependability, and expressed the thanks as well as the good wishes of the congregation.

The farewell gift was a copy of the revised standard version of the bible.

Trustees Will Fight Increase . . .
Likelihood of Teachers' Pay Battle Indicated In Initial Negotiations

A battle over teachers' salaries in Summerland loomed as a strong likelihood this week when their request for increases which would boost the Summerland school payroll by about $11,500 coincided with a statement from the B.C. Trustees Association urging a strong stand against any increase for teachers in 1955.

Teachers' Association is asking for pay boosts ranging from $100 to $700 a year with bottom rate on the scale for inexperienced teachers of $2,250. That is an increase of $100 over present base rate. Under the schedule proposed by the teachers, a member with 12 years experience would receive $4,200.

Trustees' Association president R. H. Reeve of Victoria states B.C. teachers are the highest paid in Canada with average salary being nearly $800 a year above the average of Alberta the next highest province. Average for B.C. teachers is $3,510, he said, and 25 per cent of male teachers in this province receive more than $4,986 a year.

Following is the text of the release issued by the Trustees' association in which arguments in favor of holding the wage line are set out:

Firm stand against increases in teachers' salaries in 1955 is shaping up throughout British Columbia.

School Boards have told B.C. School Trustees' Association headquarters that salaries are high enough, that cost of living does not warrant an increase, and that salary boosts will throw an additional burden on ratepayers who already face higher taxes in the new assessment set-up being brought in by the Provincial Government.

President R. H. Reeve of Victoria says the association's advisory committee has received a succession of letters from school boards urging a no-increase policy as teachers open negotiations on 1955 contracts. He pointed out that during the year an incentive type scale had been established throughout the province, which in itself represents an increase in salaries to teachers who have made the appropriate effort, and they are disappointed that teachers are continuing to make annual drives for further increases in apparent disregard of existing conditions.

Statistics show that 25 per cent of the male teachers now employed in the province receive more than $4,986.00 a year. The B.C. median salary for 1953, including all men and women in both elementary and secondary schools, was $3,510.00. Next highest province in Canada was Alberta, with a median that year of $2,781.00. B.C. salaries went up again this year, Mr. Reeve said a compilation by the bureau of economics and statistics in Victoria show male secondary teachers in Vancouver are now paid better than salaried professional accountants and that male elementary teachers receive more than principal clerks, officer managers and draughtsmen.

He said teacher salaries are so high relative to civil service salaries that it is increasingly difficult to obtain school inspectors. Most high school principals receive more than inspectors.

"Teachers in B.C. are no longer a depressed profession. On the contrary they are probably the best paid of all the salaried 'white collar' personnel," contended Frank Wilson of Chilliwack, solicitor for the B.C. School Trustees' Association.

The BCSTA headquarters has been flooded with queries from school boards through the province asking what they can expect next year in the way of taxation changes; and voicing concern over the growing burden on taxpayers. Many fear the new assessment equalization act now being brought into force will increase taxation for ratepayers and business concerns.

BCSTA has advised that the entire system of educational finance is under review by the government, but no information is available yet on what Victoria plans to do beyond the instructions already sent out for assessment changes by municipalities.

Many boards are worried too by economic indications of 1954. Employment is down. Labor income in agriculture, mining, fishing, manufacturing and construction is down. Net national income is down in spite of the fact that the population of Canada is increasing at about two per cent a year.

They have indicated that this year they want to "hold tight", to keep costs at present levels while uncertainty continues, and above all to avoid additional direct calls on taxpayers for education.

Will Air Rink Proposal At Ratepayers' Meeting

Ratepayers will have a chance to hear a full dress association proposal that the municipality take over on at the annual Ratepayers' meeting, set for Nov. 24.

Mail Lines Draw Close

Christmas mailing deadlines are again close at hand with the announcement by the post office this week that Nov. 19 will be the final date for guaranteed delivery for parcels going to European addresses.

For letters to Europe and parcels to Great Britain, Nov. 23 is the final date while Dec. 3 is final date for letters to Great Britain.

Those using air mail, however, can still put off their mailing for a while yet. Dec. 11 is deadline for air mail parcels to Europe and Dec. 13 for letters to Europe and parcels to Great Britain. Final air mail date for letters to Great Britain is Dec. 15.

Teachers Discuss Convention Business

Business arising out of the recent convention in Vernon formed the main item on the agenda of Summerland Teachers' Association meeting on Nov. 2. In the chair was President E. F. Weeks.

In addition to the teachers from Summerland at the convention, there were also five Summerland high school girls who attended as members of the Future Teachers' Club. Members of the local association last week expressed the importance of encouraging future teachers because of the teacher shortage which is felt right across Canada and the association voted two dollars each to the girls to assist them in their expenses in attending the convention. For making an extra return trip to Vernon to transport the girls, the meeting voted $10 expenses for John Tamblin.

Consideration was given to a proposed "package deal" for conventions whereby each teacher would be assessed a fixed amount which would cover costs of all entertainment, luncheon, banquet and speakers but this suggestion met with opposition since some would not be attending all functions and when put to a vote it was defeated.

The meeting voted to apportion refund from the pool to cover convention transportation costs against fees in the local teachers' association so that members will have to pay only an additional 50 cents membership fee.

These and other convention matters kept the meeting busy past the usual hour for adjournment and other items on the agenda were postponed until the next meeting.

Swing Your Partners and Do-Sa-Do Is Homework For Latest School Class

"Your big foot up and your little foot down" drones the square-dance caller and every Thursday night in Summerland 140 big feet go up and 140 little feet go down.

For the owners of the big feet and little feet, it's back to school but their classroom is a dance floor and their teacher a checkered-shirted caller.

When adult night school classes started three weeks ago it was felt there might be some enthusiasm locally for a class in square dancing so arrangements were made in the hope that about 30 couples might be encouraged to take up the popular recreation. No one anticipated the enthusiasm that greeted the opening of the class and last week it was necessary to out off admission to any further applicants.

Last week members of the class met to form a club, chose as their president George Washington and discussed plans for the future when members are more familiar with the movements and can go through the gyrations without the aid of an instructor.

Vice-president of the newly-formed club is W. H. Dumok with Mrs. J. D. Horniston as secretary, A. K. Macleod, treasurer and Mrs. E. N. Laidlaw and Mrs. Lloyd Shannon as advisory committee.

Instructor is Les Boyer, well-known square-dance caller from Council yesterday heard a request from the Rink Association to combine with the ratepayers' meeting in order to publicly present the proposition and answer questions.

Idea of the association was that they wished to have as large a crowd as possible present to hear the plan and felt that by combining with the ratepayers' meeting instead of calling a separate public meeting would draw a larger audience.

Councillors agreed that the rink referendum on which ratepayers will be asked to vote in December is public business and if anyone wished to discuss it at the annual meeting it was quite in order that it be discussed.

Proposal of the rink association is that the municipality purchase the rink from the association for $24,000 and install artificial ice at a cost of about $38,000. The results of the referendum will not be binding on the council and if the purchase is favored, a money by-law will still be necessary before any action could be taken.

When the rink was first built, the rink association were in hopes there would be sufficient natural ice to permit operation of the rink at a profit which could be used for the installation of artificial ice. Experience during the past two winters, however, when there has been a total of only about two weeks skating has shown the installation of artificial ice will not be possible on this basis.

Ability of the rink to be operated at a profit if ice is available was indicated last year when with only two weeks of skating the operation came close to breaking even.

POWER APPLICATIONS

Seven new electrical installations were approved Tuesday by municipal council. They were those of W. G. Ritchie, J. H. Schaeffer, Mrs. E. M. Hookham, L. M. Robinson, R. Armour and two connections for Arnold Cowan.

Hopes Not Bright

CBC Engineers Will Study Proposal Of Relay Station in Summerland

Hopes of a CBC relay transmitter being located in Summerland were dimmed by a letter from J. A. Oulmet, general manager of the CBC, to Reeve Atkinson in which he stated he would have the corporation engineers study the proposal but implied conditions at Summerland would not justify such an installation here.

Reeve Atkinson recently wrote the CBC pointing out the limited radio reception available in this area and proposed the establishment of a relay transmitter similar to that recently installed at Osoyoos to make available in this district the programs beamed from CBU in Vancouver.

Following is the text of the reply received from Mr. Oulmet:

"This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of Oct. 13 suggesting that the corporation should give favorable consideration to the location of a low power relay transmitter in Summerland. I shall certainly have our engineering officers study this suggestion, but I think I should point out the policy which the Board of Governors has applied in making its decision to install such stations.

Over 6 Million Annually

Reports Local Power Consumption Will Soon Reach Another Milestone

Continued rapid growth of Summerland's municipally-owned electrical distribution system was again reflected this week when council Tuesday heard consumption here in October was 570,000 kwh. It is just a year ago that Summerland monthly power consumption passed the 500,000 kwh mark for the first time and councillors noted there is strong likelihood of it reaching 600,000 before the end of this year.

Since power distribution for one month went over the half-million kilowatt mark last Sept. it has consistently been above that figure each month since and total used for this year will be above six million.

Expanding use of electricity in Summerland stems from the fact that the rate is one of the lowest in Canada.

Applications for new power connections since the beginning of this year now total 385 and a few weeks ago Reeve Atkinson pointed out that there is now an electric water heater in every third Summerland home. There are more than 350 in use here.

Summerland municipality has been in the electrical distribution business since 1910 when it took over a small plant being operated by the Summerland Development Company at a cost of $17,000. Power for the district was generated at this plant until 1921 when the municipality was faced with the problem of either building a larger generator or purchasing local requirements in bulk from West Kootenay Power and Light. The latter plan was the one followed. Next major step was the installation of a 60,000 volt line to serve Summerland in 1949.

HEALTH UNIT

Quarterly meeting of the South Okanagan Health Unit will be held at Oliver on Nov. 17. Attending from Summerland will be Councillor H. R. J. Richards and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh.

From the observation roof of the world's tallest building the Empire State in New York, Queen Mother Elizabeth looks upward toward the spire of the towering structure. The Queen Mother, in the U.S. on a 10-day visit, is surrounded by part of the crowd that gathers whenever she appears in public.

Board of Trade To Meet Friday

Board of Trade will have a busy agenda meeting this month which will be held Friday night before the regular meeting night falls on Remembrance Day. RCM President C. E. Piers will be present to discuss with the board the various questions in Summerland. The board is of current interest in Summerland participation in the Newhope Benevolent Society campaign to raise funds for furnishing Valley View Lodge at Pentiction to provide a residence for senior citizens of the South Okanagan.

A program for getting out the vote for the December municipal election and the rink referendum will also be mapped out.

Report on the B.C. Chamber of Commerce annual meeting will be given by local delegate Lorne Perry who is newly-elected a member of the executive of the provincial organization.

Find Report Cards Incomplete Link

The inability of report cards to form a complete link between teacher and parents was pointed up at the Summerland P-TA meeting last week when they were subject of a panel discussion.

Report cards were under consideration at the request of the provincial body and members of the panel were Mrs. J. C. Wilcox, Mrs. E. E. Bates, Steve Dunsdon and Clark Wilkin.

In a summary of the viewpoints expressed, Mrs. A. K. Macleod pointed to the need for parent-teacher discussion to augment the information sent home on report cards.

The meeting heard a successful statement on the sponsoring of Holiday Theatre here last month.

The P-TA endorsed a proposal of the Women's Institute to have a park area, established north of the Living Memorial ball park.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION

Council was advised yesterday by letter that meeting of the Okanagan Municipal Officers Association will be held in Vernon on Nov. 17. Attendance of municipal clerk Gordon D. Smith was approved.

MOVED TO KAMLOOPS

Bill Atherton, well-known old-timer of the district moved last week to Kamloops. He was transported to his new home by Keith Sayers.

Could Be Refinement Of Quaint Old Custom

Senator Wilkinson tells this story. Neighbors Harry Sinclair and his mother-in-law were working in the garden. In their enthusiasm, one or both managed to bury the trowel they were working with.

Observes the Senator: "I've heard of mother-in-law and son-in-law burying the hatchet but it's the first time I ever heard of them burying the trowel."

Spouse Take Interest In Municipal Affairs

Spouse of Summerland ratepayers apparently take a keen interest in municipal affairs. With new legislation extending voting privileges to spouse of voters who register to have their names added to the voters' list, 51 registered in Summerland. Pentiction added only 49 to the list.

Spouse will be permitted to vote on elections and referenda but will not be able to vote on money by-laws.

Individual Assessments Out

Check on Provincial Assessments Shows Total Value to Be Correct

An independent assessment of a sample of properties on which assessments were established this summer by representatives of the provincial assessment commissioner's office has shown that while discrepancies exist in some of the individual assessments, the total of all assessments appears to be reasonably accurate.

Brought in to carry out the independent assessment were James Markle, Kelowna assessor and Sid Cornock, Pentiction assessor.

Eight sample properties were assessed by the two men and the total of their assessments came very close to those set by the provincial assessing team and also by Summerland assessor J. P. Shealey.

Following are the totals on the eight properties as set by the four assessors:

Provincial	$23,025
Markle	22,950
Cornock	21,450
Shealey	22,400

The assessment will be used as a guide in the new provincial plan to equalize assessments throughout the province for the application of equal school taxation. The same assessments will be used also in levying municipal tax which will probably mean an adjustment of the mill rate.

Those assessment figures were presented to the municipal council Tuesday afternoon and it was also reported that a letter had been received from the provincial assessment commissioner in reply to a protest from the council and he stated that he could see no valid argument in the council protest.

Reeve Atkinson stated that there might still be an argument in favor of lower assessment in Summerland on the grounds that rental value here was much lower than in other places and council will continue to pursue the matter with an argument on that basis.

Two weeks ago the reeve registered a protest that the provincial assessment team which visited here this summer was made up of university students not qualified to set assessments and although the total of their valuations agrees with those of the independent assessors, there are in individual cases some obviously unrealistic assessments.

Women's Institute Sponsoring

UBC Travelling Art Exhibition Showing In Summerland This Week

UBC travelling art exhibit opened this afternoon in West Summerland in the small building located behind the Post Office and will be on display today and Saturday, afternoon and evening each day, under the sponsorship of the Women's Institute.

The exhibit gives examples of the work of about 30 of the greatest artists in all history and contains original art, castings, reproductions and facsimiles of world-famous masterpieces.

The show attempts a balance of representations of European painting from the 13th to 20th centuries. Starting with the work of Duccio of the 13th century to show the culmination of Byzantine styling, the exhibit traces the development and traditions of art through the work of the famous artists to the contemporary styling of such painters as Picasso and Paul Klee.

The exhibit was in Sardinia last week and from here will go to Vernon and will continue on its travels until late spring.

In This Corner

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

Politicians, economists, and labor leaders in particular can learn much from even an elementary study of history, ancient and modern. One of the most instructive periods is that of the first two centuries A.D. of the Roman Empire. The Romans had gained their empire by military conquest, followed by liberal treatment of the conquered peoples. In the wars with Carthage they had released the Mediterranean from the control of Carthaginian merchants who were trade monopolists and claimed exclusive rights in those waters, sinking foreign trading ships on sight. In Rome itself, however, there was constant intrigue and often open battles between political groups for power. As in Soviet Russia today, the Roman emperors thought nothing of disposing of their rivals on trumped-up charges, and several emperors were assassinated by their guards.

Many and varied were the types of emperors, and they resorted to a variety of means of appalling or pleasing the populace. Nero, the most brazen and cruel of the despots, posed as a patron of the arts. To impress his subjects he built an enormous palace, garnished with gold and precious stones, in the portal of which was a statue of himself one hundred feet high. He over-played the part, however, and was forced to commit suicide.

In the following year there were three emperors, one after the other, all of whom died violent deaths. The next emperor, Vespasian, was the very opposite in type of that of Nero. He was the typical modern glad-hander who wise-cracked in public and considered himself one of the people. He commenced the building of the famous Colosseum to provide thrilling diversion for the populace. He restored the state from bankruptcy and died a natural death after ten years of efficient administration.

Seventeen years later, Domitian, another autocrat, came to power. He was very efficient, but ruthless—a mixture of Stalin and Hitler. He employed a host of informers and one never knew who would be the next victim of the emperor's suspicion. He enjoyed terrorizing his friends with hints of their impending doom. The tables were turned and he himself was murdered. He was followed by Nerva who dismissed the informers and sought to placate the people with policies familiar in our own times: state loans to farmers at moderate interest, and "mothers' allowances" to help pay the cost of bringing up a family. Naturally, such paternal policies were popular, but they called for more and more state aid and higher taxes.

Gradually there was a slowing-down of industry and trade. As a remedy, farm laborers were compelled to work on the fields, were bound to the land and sank to the condition of serfs. Skilled workmen were compelled to join guilds (closed shops) and the guilds were compelled to produce commodities according to government planning. Business was placed under similar restrictions. The Emperor Diocletian issued an edict setting the maximum price at which goods might be sold, and denounced "unrestricted profiteering" and "rampant individualism" as the causes that made the regulations necessary.

Things went from bad to worse. Merchants went out of business to avoid excessive taxation, and guild workers tried to escape forced labor by enlisting in the army. Municipal councils of towns and cities were compelled to raise taxes, and when the money could not be obtained from others, the councilors themselves had to pay over everything they owned. The final result was that the value or "purchasing power" of money was debased and it ceased to be widely used. Industry and commerce all but vanished, and the standard of living became very low. Imperial authority collapsed.

Thus the decline of the Roman Empire began before the barbarian nations invaded Italy without resistance. As one historian puts it: "A general decline of trade caused unemployment in the cities. At the same time there came a drift from the country into the cities. The result was an idle, shiftless mob which politicians kept quiet by free distribution of bread, oil, wine, and free shows." Yes, we can learn much from history.

We Will Remember . . . our legacy a sacred trust

"They will not grow old as we who are left grow old; Time shall not weary nor the years condemn;

Four times since the turn of the century war has taken its grim toll on the flower of Canadian manhood and tomorrow people of the nation will pause to pay tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice that we who live on may enjoy the freedom we hold so dear.

But it is not enough that we should just use that occasion to reflect on the memory of some friend or relative who failed to return from battle. Rather it is a time when we should rededicate ourselves to the proposition which so many have defended unto death.

The bulk of Remembrance Day messages which will be delivered across the country tomorrow will be words of tribute to our war dead. But it is not for us to glorify them. They have, by their very act of unselfish sacrifice, glorified themselves far beyond our powers to add or detract. It is for us, then, to reaffirm the principles for which they gave their lives that they have not died in vain.

March of Dimes . . . some important business ahead

CHILDREN'S Hospital is important business. In fact it is your business. British Columbia is growing and just as it grows the number of sick and crippled children needing immediate care and treatment to save them from a life of pain and deformity is increasing.

These youngsters come from every town and city in B.C. They are the playmates of your own children and, given an even break, will go out from your community to make their name in the world.

You can place their crippled feet on the first rung of the ladder of success by joining in B.C.'s huge March of Dimes, sponsored for the eighth successive year by the Vancouver Sun. This drive, which enabled four times as many children to receive treatment at the hospital annually than in pre-March of Dimes days, is backed by the AOTS here in Summerland.

The hospital moves into your area through its travelling clinic with its staff of top Canadian specialists and nurses. This mobile clinic, part of the wide range of services of the hospital, helps to guard the health of your children who can be referred by your own local doctor.

The clinic has more than tripled its services in the past five years. For example 377 patients from the interior of British Columbia were seen at the 1950 clinic; 489 in the 1951 visit; 580 in the 1952 and 840 in the 1953. This year the grand total was 1212 youngsters. In the Okanagan 440 attended the clinic. In the Kootenay 370. The Cariboo-Prince George area 329 and the new Peace River Clinic to

New Style Dictator . . . the public again comes last

UNDER the forms of democracy it is possible for the dictatorially inclined to realize many of their ambitions in the way of ordering others around.

Consider the case of Mr. Walter Murdoch, head of a musician's union in Canada, and deputy dictator in this country for Mr. Petrillo, who tells United States broadcasting companies, moving-picture producers, managers of theatres and makers of phonograph records on what terms they will be permitted to employ those who pay him tribute. Quite understandably, neither Mr. Petrillo nor Mr. Murdoch has any great enthusiasm about non-unionized musicians or musicians paying dues to other unions than Messrs. Petrillo's and Murdoch's. So they have evolved some pretty little regulations to forbid or hinder the employment of any musicians but their own.

Now Mr. Petrillo and Mr. Murdoch are legally entitled to make their unions dominant by such methods as long as they are dealing with private producers of entertainment, who have an equal legal right to circumvent their schemes; but Mr. Murdoch is going rather too far when he dictates to the CBC what performers it may or may not use.

The Lighter Side

The sunbaked cowboy swaggered into the saloon and through parched lips ordered the bartender to give his horse a bucket of his best whiskey.

"And what will you have stranger?" asked the bartender.

"Nothin'," said the dusty cowboy. "I'm driving."

An old engineer and his rookie fireman were on a run. They were on top of a water tank preparing to fill the engine's boiler when the excited rookie fell into the tank.

Peering down at the floundering fireman the oldtimer shouted: "Just fill the boiler with water, sonny. No need to stamp the stuff down."

Judge: "Will you tell the court what passed between you and your wife during the quarrel?"

Defendant: "A flat iron, a rolling pin, six plates and a kettle."

The county desperado had broken out of the local jail and the entire police force was alerted. One of the mwas ordered to go to the railroad station and keep close watch.

"The roads are all blocked," the sheriff said, "so his only means of escape is the railroad."

Two hours later the deputy was back.

"What are you doing here?" barked the sheriff. "I told you to watch the railroad station."

The deputy grinned. "He can't get away, I tore up all the train tickets!"

Said a strap-hanger to another subway rider who had just given his seat to a lady:

"Good luck, sir, I've been travelling on this line for three years and I've never offered a lady my seat."

"Then, you have no manners, sir," was the reply.

"Oh, no, it isn't that," returned the other. "I've never had a seat."

History has taught us there will always be tyrants and ruthless men with lust for power. There are few who honestly believe there lies ahead any formula which will for all time completely eradicate the threat of global conflict. We in Canada cling to the belief that every person has a right to guide his own destiny and the only way in which we as a nation can continue to live by that philosophy is by preparedness so that we can, if necessary, defend our right by might—and the willingness to pay the same price as the many whose memory we honor tomorrow.

To meet the day with any lesser proposition is to fail in the charge that has been given Canadians in the blood of her valiant men.

And so on November 11, may each in his heart as he pauses in tribute give real meaning to the occasion by preparing to meet with the same unselfishness any challenge to the liberty which they died to defend.

At the going down of the sun, and in the morning,

We will remember them."

Dawson Creek and Fort St. John this year for the first time — 73 patients.

The largest percentage of these patients are admitted to hospital at 250 West 59th Avenue for surgery, physiotherapy and other medical treatment. The dimes and dollars you donate to March of Dimes makes it possible to keep the doors of this 100-bed British Columbia hospital open to any child who needs it.

Last year the drive made it possible for 2,000 patients to receive treatment in Children's Hospital. Since the hospital opened 30 years ago, some 15,000 youngsters have been admitted to the wards. Many of these babies, including the 1700 children attending out-patients' clinics during the past year are long-term cases and therefore not eligible for coverage under any insurance scheme.

Stop and consider! The suddenness with which illness entered your neighborhood's home could strike your own. Polio has brought tragedy overnight into many a B.C. family. The children who survived these feared epidemics are brought to Children's Hospital for specialized rehabilitation.

Crippled children need immediate care and B.C. is lucky that this service is right here at home. You can keep the doors of this institution open to youngsters with every known childhood illness and disability. Support the AOTS and the Vancouver Sun's March of Dimes.

Send your donation today to your local March of Dimes committee or to Drive Headquarters at the Vancouver Sun, 500 Beatty St., Vancouver, B.C.

An essential part of democracy is the concept of equality under the law, since the CBC is supported by the taxes of all Canadians, whether they like it or not, it seems to follow that any Canadian taxpayer who can prove his competence—and the standards of competence, to judge by the programmes one hears and sees, are far from insurmountable—has a right to seek employment from the CBC and to get it if he can show his superiority over other citizens seeking the same reward.

Instead of competence, the deciding factor in obtaining employment from the CBC now appears to be Mr. Murdoch's approval, and that approval depends on membership in his union, with substantial dues payable to him and Mr. Petrillo. It is a curious position of subserviency into which the CBC has allowed itself to be manoeuvred. Perhaps, being dictatorially inclined itself, it can see nothing out of the way in accepting dictatorship from an outsider not responsible to parliament or taxpayers.

Of all that thou shalt give me I will surely give the tenth unto thee. (Genesis 28:22.) Read Mark 12:41-44.

During these times when experts are trying to find out where the citizen's dollar goes, we may get the idea that trying to decide what part of our income shall go where is a new thing. "But if we turn to the book of Leviticus, we find there God's direction to His people on the subject of the tithe: "All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land or of the fruit of the tree, is the Lord's; it is holy unto the Lord." It is well to look upon "the tenth" or "tithe" as a Christian's privilege to give rather than as a duty demanded, for "God loveth a cheerful giver."

One businessman who began tithing because he thought it his duty was amazed to find that he could still meet his obligations just the same and give to his church many times as much as before. This is only one example of the many who have tried tithing and found in the practice self-satisfaction and joy in giving.

Of Many Things

By AMBROSE HILLS

I see where Myron Kuzych, the Vancouver welder who was expelled from the Boiler-makers' Industrial Union (CIO-CCL) in 1945 and has been fighting the decision in and out of court ever since, has been scorching the union leaders because they now drive cadillacs and make huge salaries. Well, I think Mr. Kuzych is on the wrong track. I believe he has an excellent case against the closed shop and against the present-day union leaders, but not because they smoke fat cigars and drive cadillacs.

However, it is rather amusing to see the prosperous union leaders getting taunted with the same words they themselves used to taunt industrial leaders. It was once fashionable for a good union leader to mock the silk hats, the big cigars, and the shiny automobiles of the money barons. Perhaps there is some sort of poetic justice in throwing the same barbs at union leaders who are now in clover up to their ears.

But my own opinion is, a good union leader should get good pay, drive a cadillac if he desires, and smoke fat cigars if he wants to. Surely the working man is wise to reward a leader smart enough to improve the workers' lot. If the ordinary working man becomes a cheap-skate about paying for good leadership, he won't get very far.

My complaint about the union leaders of today is not that they get too much pay—but that they don't earn even poor pay. Instead of working for the best interests of the rank-and-file, they work for themselves—using every means they possibly can to deny the working man his freedom to belong or not to belong to a union. And most of them seem to be a darn sight more autocratic than any industrialist that I've ever met!

I think Kuzych is right when he says that they have taken the word "craft" out of unionism and replaced it with "crafty". Cigars and cadillacs have nothing whatever to do with the question. Only a hypocrite would claim that he does not want to drive a cadillac.

What Other Editors Say

CCF Compromises Its Traditional Honesty

The take-or-leave-it proclamation of the British Columbia section of the CCF has roused remarkably little comment since it was enunciated a few weeks ago in Vancouver.

What the CCF did was merely to recognize the current facts of political life in an opportunistic attempt to rouse the party from its present parlous state.

Weak from defeat after defeat, its treasury empty, its leadership badly split between extreme left and moderate right, the CCF has had an uneasy time of it.

The party's statement was nothing if not frank. In part, it said:

"We can no longer continue to move from defeat to defeat at the polls. We must now take power or see the present reactionary type of government become more firmly entrenched in our province. We must discover the way to take power."

"Most of the people who give the first CCF government of this province its mandate will not be socialists. They will not be concerned with whether the measures of that government are patches on capitalism or steps toward socialism. They will want solutions to their problems . . . The selection of a CCF government would not mean socialism overnight."

"The immediate responsibility of a CCF government would be to administer a mixed economy, containing elements of both private and public enterprise."

It will be clear from the foregoing, even to the casual reader, that the policies of a CCF administration would also contain elements of surprise for any who considered that the party had abandoned its basic determination "to take power" that goes with socialism. Abandonment of socialism is only a temporary expedient, for the purpose of getting elected.

In this view, the CCF is making a grave error. One of many admirable things about the party in B.C. over the years was its consistent candor. What the CCF stood for and what its objectives were was never hidden. Now, in its immediate trouble, the party is temporizing, compromising.

This is no solution for the socialists' central problem: whether to hand over the leadership to convinced and dedicated socialists or to rally behind the moderates as a reformist party only a little to the left of centre, and thus to await its opportunity, which will come, to take office.—Vernon News.

The HI LIFE

Sorry there was no news last week, or did you notice? I hope you did because it will prove that you do read it.

Social News
Both the junior and the senior dance were very successful with a large attendance for both, and everyone sure had fun. There was some damage done to the car of one of the sponsors at the junior dance though and it nearly put an end to all future social activities. Lets have no more of this, O.K.?

Athletics
The tournament on Oct. 30 marked the end for another junior soccer season and although Summerland didn't wind up on top, at least we tried hard, and we had fun trying.

On November 3, the Seniors played their last game of the season against George Pringle High. The scores of these games were:

Senior Boys—Summerland 0, George Pringle 1.

Basketball will soon be in full swing and we are sure hoping our senior girls can repeat last year's performance. The first game will likely be held on Nov. 26.

Interhouse games also begin this week.

Report cards will be out by the time you read this. I hope you all came through o.k. (or have I company?)

By the way, I know you've all seen our new English teacher. Her name is Miss Main and she comes to us from Alberta, originally from Sotland. We hope she will like SHS.

Have you been listening to Okanagan Valley Campus on the air, over CKOV. It's heard every Tuesday at 5:30.

I guess that's all for this week; more news next week, I promise.

Clever Cooking . . .

Most prominent among the fall vegetables are the members of the cabbage family. This family includes many well known cousins—broccoli, brussel sprouts, cauliflower and chinese cabbage, but cabbage itself is probably king of them all. These vegetables are all in good supply right now. Cabbage in particular is one which will be with us for several months. It is one vegetable which can be produced early in the season and by means of winter storage may be available the greater part of the year.

Cabbages may be grouped into three classes—early summer, fall and winter varieties according to the season in which they mature. The green, summer cabbage has a loose head which, in some varieties, is pointed or conical in shape. It may have either plain or curly leaves and is mild in flavor. The fall cabbage is mostly of the Savoy type. It has a loose, round head and crinkled leaves. The Danish Ballheaded type matures late in the fall and is widely used for winter storage. The heads are hard and compact with smooth, tight leaves. It is green this time of year but loses color during storage. Red cabbage is similar in shape to the Danish type, has characteristic reddish purple leaves and is available in early fall. It is usually used for salads or for pickles.

When buying cabbage, look for a head which is solid and hard and fairly heavy for its size. Cabbage with yellow leaves or other discoloration is generally wasteful. If you have a cool, dry place to store it, you may keep cabbage one week or more. If cabbage is to be kept longer, the outer leaves should be removed and the cabbage stored in the refrigerator in a tightly closed plastic bag. When preparing cabbage for the table, the coarse rib ends of the leaves should be removed and the core at the base of the head cut out.

Cabbages vary greatly in size. A medium sized head will weigh from two to three pounds. If you are shredding this for salads, it will measure about 14 cups finely shredded or 18 cups coarsely shredded. This same amount will shrink during cooking to seven or nine cups or there will be about half as much cooked cabbage as raw shredded.

Cabbage is really a versatile vegetable and can be fitted into any course at dinner except dessert. Cabbage soup can start a meal, stuffed cabbage rolls can be a main dish, cole slaw the salad, and of course boiled cabbage one of the vegetables. As with most vegetables, there is a right and wrong way to cook cabbage. The preferred method is to cook it quickly in a small amount of boiling salted water to a depth of about one-half inch in the saucepan. The cabbage may be shredded or cut into wedges. Wedges will take about 10 to 12 minutes to cook depending on the compactness of the head, coarsely shredded cabbage 8 to 10 minutes and finely shredded cabbage 3 to 4 minutes. If you have a pressure cooker, allow one to one and a half minutes at 15 pounds pressure for the wedges and one minute for the coarsely shredded cabbage. You must remember that cabbage, cooked beyond the point where it is just tender, will lose its green color, and the flavor will become strong. The cooked cabbage may be seasoned with salt, pepper and served with butter or with cream sauce, cheese sauce or grated cheese sprinkled on top.

Brussel Sprouts
Brussel sprouts are sometimes called Tom Thumb cabbages because they are "cabbages that never grew up". They grow on a long stalk close to the stem at the base of the leaves and are green, firm, miniature cabbages each about one inch in diameter. They are on the market during the fall and early part of the winter. This vegetable is and always has been a great favorite in England and other parts of Europe, but, for some unknown reason, people here in Canada are really just beginning to take to this vegetable in a big way.

When you are buying sprouts, select those with heads that are firm, compact and have a fresh, bright green color with no yellow leaves. If you are not planning to use them the same day you buy them, just slip them into a plastic bag and store them in the refrigerator. Tie the end of the bag with string or twist and fasten with an elastic band to keep out the air. Be sure to use the sprouts before any leaves show signs of yellowing.

And now to get them ready for cooking! Wash the sprouts well and take off any loose or spotted leaves. This is one vegetable that is usually soaked for a short time in salted lukewarm water. For one quart of sprouts, use one quart of water and one teaspoon of salt and soak for about 15 minutes. Rinse the sprouts in fresh water and put them on to cook in a small amount of boiling salted water—just enough to keep steam forming and prevent scorching—about half an inch in the bottom of the saucepan. Cover them tightly and keep at an easy boil until the sprouts are just tender. Don't overcook them or they will turn a sickly green and unravel in a maddening way. Small ones will take from 10 to 12 minutes to cook and the larger ones from 12 to 15 minutes. Drain them thoroughly, season with pepper and add some butter. To make a quick tart sauce, try serving them with a little mayonnaisse, cheese sauce or Hollandaise sauce.

Weaker Prices from Overabundance Poses Major Problem for Agriculture

Canada's large surplus of agricultural products, accompanied by a weakening of farm prices over an extended period without appreciable reduction in operating costs, continues to pose a major problem for the nation's farmers, according to the Bank of Montreal Business Review for October, under the title of "Lean Crops and Large Stocks."

"Taking a broad view of the agricultural scene," the review says, "it is apparent that in the sectors that account for upwards of four-fifths of farm cash income—grain, livestock, dairying and poultry—there is a pronounced impression of abundance."

"But it is also apparent that the present situation is not without its disturbing features for those engaged in agricultural production. In commodity after commodity prices have weakened from their postwar peaks, and, where government support has come into play, large surplus stocks have been accumulated."

The review notes that this year's crops, which were late in maturing and for the most part low in yield and quality, are unquestionably lean in comparison with the fat harvests of the past three years. It suggests, however, that if a lean year had to come, there was some consolation in the fact that it found granaries and barns well stocked.

"Indeed, the conclusion that clearly emerges," says the B of M, "is that the problems facing Canadian agriculture are problems less of scarcity than of plenty, and of plenty on a broader front than at any time in the postwar period."

How fast the stocks of grain will move is an open question, according to the review. "Hope has been expressed that, with the weather less favorable this year than last in many parts of the world, some pick-up in overseas sales of wheat may occur, and port shipments in recent weeks do indicate a modest improvement over the low volume a year ago."

Aside from this, the B of M feels there may possibly be a strong demand for coarse grains and low-grade wheat as feed for the expanded herds of cattle and hogs on the North American continent.

In reviewing the agricultural picture, the B of M pays particular attention to the livestock situation, noting that the rise in the cattle population has been a prominent feature in recent years.

From 1945 to 1950 there was a steady depletion of herds, but in 1950 this trend was halted and reversed, and there ensued a period of replenishment which has continued, although at a somewhat slower pace, this year.

The review notes that the number of calves and beef cattle on Canadian farms at June 1 was officially estimated at 6.7 million head, 1.6 per cent above a year earlier and 23 per cent more than the census count at June 1, 1951.

Noting that in the last two years cattle slaughtering have risen sharply, the B of M says there is little doubt that 1954 figures will be substantially higher than 1953.

Who's brightening your future these 4 ways?

1 Some people are helping to bring your community a new shopping centre, highway, school, power plant or other useful projects. Who are they? Life insurance policyholders! Money from the premiums they pay is invested for them in ways that help finance improvements like these.

2 A longer, healthier life may be yours, thanks in part to life insurance policyholders. Life insurance companies contribute funds to medical research studies designed to free Canadians from the threat of many dread diseases.

3 Everybody shares in the prosperity which expanding industries bring to a community. Some industry in your community may have built a new plant and employed more workers because life insurance companies invested money in it on behalf of their policyholders.

4 Some day—perhaps soon—you may want a new home. If so, you may find yourself living happily in one of the thousands of new houses which have been built from coast to coast with the aid of money invested for policyholders by life insurance companies.

So, if you are a life insurance policyholder, remember—while you're providing security for your family and yourself, you're also helping to make Canada a better land to live in!

P.S. From your life insurance man "Invested life insurance dollars earn interest that makes it possible for you and your family to enjoy the benefits of life insurance at such low cost. If you have any questions about how to make life insurance fit your own special needs, give me a call. I'll be glad to help you!"

Overcome Early Handicap To Cop First Place Tie

Summerland Apple Kings Sunday pulled a switch on their performance of the previous week and let their opponents build up a healthy early game lead and then started to hustle and by the time the final whistle blew they had a 4-3 victory over the BCD's.

In the other match of the Commercial League series, Merchants topped Garagemen 3-2 to put Summerland and Merchants in tie spot at the top of the league.

In the first frame of the Summerland-BCD match, the latter forged ahead to a three-goal lead before the locals got underway. The army men scored two in the first period and the third in the second.

The Kings responded with two in the second and two more in the final stanza, the winning counter bending the twine with only two minutes of play left in the game.

Burch and Tomlin handled the scoring for the BCD's in the first frame and Wade accounted for the third tally. Weeks and Eyre scored Summerland goals in the second with Imai Yoshi and Bromley scoring in the third.

For the locals the game was extra tough with only 10 men in uniform for the game.

Penalties were handed out to Moore and Nyen in the first to Moore and Nyen in the first to Castron, Nyen, Tomlin and Seigrist in the second and to Furuya in the third.

First Period — 1, BCD's (Armstrong) 13:00; 2, BCD's, Tomlin (Castron) 19:25; Penalties: Moore, Nyen.

Second Period — 3, BCD's, Wade

(Castron, Tomlin) 11:00; 4, Summerland, Weeks (Dolynuk) 11:25; 5, Summerland, Ayres (Bromley) 18:00; Penalties: Castron, Seigrist, Nyen, Tomlin.

Third Period — 6, Summerland, Imai Yoshi (Weeks) 2:05; 7, Summerland, Bromley (Hooker, Seigrist) 11:25. Penalty: Dolynuk.

Last year's hero of Winnipeg's smashing 43-5 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders in the WIFU semi-final opener, Lorne (Boom Boom) Benson is back on offense again. Injuries to two import fullbacks has caused the Winnipeg-born Benson to be taken off his defence position which he has played during the first half of the season. Benson scored six touchdowns in last year's semifinal opener to set a WIFU scoring record.

BERT BERRY'S Hunting and Fishing News

HUNTING

Pheasants are not too abundant here but for hunters with a good dog there is still good hunting. The best success has been when hunting in wild land above the main farms and golfies.

Ducks still quite a few mallards around in the local small water areas not a lot but quite interesting for the hunter who enjoys going after ducks.

Deer: The situation on deer seems to be changing from day to day. There were quite a few bucks down on the start of the rut but in the more heavily hunted areas hunter and shooting pressure has forced them back to higher levels. A lot of deer were shot this last weekend, but with the number of hunters out the success hasn't been too good. A real snow fall will bring the main herd down to the lower levels where the hunters can get at them.

Not too much news from the Caribou. Several parties out there and one party out after elk. Steve Schweb bagged a real trophy sheep in the three day season in the Vascauz Lake area, a 36 inch spread.

With reports of so many hunters being lost this year I think that a compass should be a must with all hunters.

FISHING

Okanagan Lake has been fair again. Several nice trout were landed and also the whitefish are starting now. All mountain lakes not frozen are good. Best reports are still from Richter.

Summerland Curlers Re-Elect Toevs At Club Annual Meeting Last Week

Curlers last week chose Walter Toevs to again head the Summerland Curling Club and returned to office members of last year's executive. Annual meeting was held last Wednesday night.

First curling of the season will get underway this Sunday with a mixed open bonspiel and the regular draws will start on Nov. 23.

Last week in February was set for the third annual open bonspiel which is rapidly becoming one of the most popular spiels in the valley and last year drew a number of rinks from the coast.

Other officers chosen last week were Dr. W. H. B. Mann and Dr. L. A. Day as vice-presidents; C. J. Bleasdale, secretary, N. Holm, treasurer; W. A. Laidlaw and W. A. Mitchell, directors.

Also chosen were 30 skips who will meet this week to make up rinks.

Financial report showed the club to be in healthy position financially.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Every week the smartness of 1st Summerland Troop is improving. At Tuesday's meeting all but two boys appeared in full uniform. In a matter of a week or more all scouts will be completely uniformed.

At the last meeting the work on Estimation of Distances was completed for those boys working on their 1st Class Badge and instruction next week will commence on Topographical Maps.

Another group of boys received practical instruction on bicycle repair and maintenance and another group on 2nd Class Badges. Among games played was "Bring the Barrel".

The Jaycees in Summerland have very kindly asked the Scouts to participate in their sale of Christmas Trees on a share basis. The Troop unanimously accepted their offer—so if anyone wants a tree just get in touch with a Scout.

Albert Northrup was invested as a member of the Troop and of the World Brotherhood of Scouts.

On Poppy Day the Troop did a good turn for their sponsors, the Canadian Legion, and sold $250 worth of poppies. In the patrol competition the standing is now: Buffaloes 393, Eagles 388, Hawks 357 and Beavers 347.

On Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, the troop will parade in uniform (at least Hat, shirt and scarf) forming up at the MacDonald School at 10.20 a.m. A full turnout is expected.—D. V. Fisher.

Decide Against Canvass For Valley View Lodge

Lively discussion featured the public meeting called Monday night by the New Valley Benevolent Society to outline proposals for the operation of Valley View Lodge for senior citizens and to launch a campaign to raise $45,000 needed to furnish the home. Mixed feelings—favoring the organization of the society—were expressed by Reeve F. E. Atkinson who planned as chairman of the canvass. Reeve Atkinson objected to the fact that there was no plan of continuing operation of the home as a residence for senior citizens. "You might start out with a home for senior citizens but if it doesn't work out there's nothing to stop you from changing it over to anything you want to," he told the society member present.

Another undesirable feature, the reeve said, was the fact that it is a restricted society which would give Summerland no representation on the board of directors.

"I don't think we should rush into this affair. If it should be started and go on the rocks, it would prejudice any effort to establish an organization such as this in the future."

The reeve concluded his statement "I find myself on the fence, first swayed one way and then the other and I resigned as chairman because I felt that as reeve to serve as chairman of this drive would give the impression that I was wholeheartedly behind it and I cannot say that I am."

Principal speaker for the society was the president C. G. Moore who asked the meeting for an opinion on whether a canvass should be conducted in Summerland to raise a share of the cost of furnishing the home. Opinion of several speakers was that a canvass would not be advisable and confidence was expressed that local residents who wished to support the project would just as readily send in their donations without being canvassed. At the time of the meeting, $832 had already been contributed by interested Summerland residents.

Answering critics of the society formation, Mr. Moore said in the beginning the Penticon Board of Trade and then several more organizations had been approached with the idea of sponsoring the home and all turned it down because they felt it too big a proposition. Following that, he said, the present society was formed, and now everybody wants to climb on the bandwagon.

"We are not asking you to contribute to the capital investment," Mr. Moore stated, "all we are asking is that you furnish the rooms to be occupied by Summerland residents."

He said that when the home is opened, space will be reserved for 10 residents from Summerland. If there is not this number seeking

Paganini Quartet Will Stage Second In South Okanagan Concert Series

Second in the South Okanagan Community Concert series for this season will be heard in the Penticon High School auditorium next Thursday night when the famed Paganini Quartet will draw on an endless treasure trove of great music and include a vast variety of some of the world's greatest compositions.

It has been said that composers such as Beethoven, Brahms and Haydn chose the form of chamber music for the highest expression of their art, and it is from this magnificent literature that the Paganini Quartet selects the greatest portion of its programs. However, the men of the Quartet—Henri Gemianka, viola, and Lucien Laporte, cello—are not inclined to devote themselves entirely to the major classics. Unprejudiced and contemporary-minded, they choose to vary their programs with the finest modern chamber music, presenting Dubussay, Bartok, Hindemith, Milhaud, Britten, Prokofieff, as well as contemporary American composers both unknown and well established, including Barber, Copland, Platon, Kohn, Robertson and many others.

As for the classic repertoire of the Paganini Quartet—it is an embarrassment of riches. It includes Mozart, Schubert, Brahms, Haydn, not to mention the entire Beethoven Cycle in six concerts, which the Paganini Quartet has performed from London to Brussels to Washington and California.

admission at the time of opening, then it will be necessary to fill those vacancies with people from other places. Mr. Moore said that in setting up a small society to operate the home they had "taken a cue from similar homes at the coast." He said they have toured all the homes for senior citizens at the coast and elsewhere in the province and said they had been strongly advised to keep the operation in the hands of a small group. As an example of this method of operation, he made reference to the project headed by MLA Ernie Winch. "He is the leader in this type of work with 80 duplex units for senior citizens in Burnaby," he said, "and he has only five on his board."

Mr. Moore said the society proposes having an advisory council set up which would number Summerland members on its membership. H. R. J. Richards questioned the ability of the home to operate on an income of $62,000 a year and Mr. Moore reviewed the estimated expenditures which showed an operating margin of $5,400. The estimates, he said, all provided generous allowances and in the event that anything should happen that the lodge started going in the red, the number of residents could be readily increased by having two to a room instead of one with no great increase in the operating budget.

Mr. Moore was questioned about his estimate of $21,600 for food in a year which worked out to 25 cents per meal and doubt was expressed that meals could be provided at that price. He replied that the estimate was based on what they had learned from the experience of other homes and there actual figures for food worked out to 18 cents a meal and with bulk buying they would be able to feed residents very well at that figure.

In reply to a question by George Graham as to the names of people in the society, Mr. Moore stated the members were L. B. Boggs, a Penticon school teacher and 1954 Good Citizen; D. E. Godkin, a contractor; Rev. G. P. Tasker, a retired missionary; Charles Wright who has been active in welfare work in Penticon; Milo Malloy of Okanagan Falls who was originator of the idea and is now starting a small residence for men at OK Falls, Miss Ruth Moore, a member of the Bank of Commerce staff in Penticon and himself, a contractor.

Dave Jack asked about fees at the home and the chairman, T. J. Jordan explained that in the case

Apple Marketing Quiet This Week

Apple marketing during the past week was a bit sluggish but free of anything notable either for volume or lack of it. The weather on the prairies at this time of year usually influences apple sales and for the past week, with the exception of icy road conditions in some areas, the weather has been reasonably good with resultant reports of apples sales as fair to good.

Sales to Eastern Canada continue light as there are sufficient local supplies, particularly McIntosh, being offered to take care of market requirements. One of B.C. Tree Fruits eastern representatives was quoted as stating it will likely be late December before that area will be using substantial quantities of Western apples.

In the United States, while the demand during the past week was reported as spotty, sales showed a slight increase over the previous week but were somewhat below the same period of a year ago. Most U.S. markets report apple sales as slow, particularly in the middle west and east, which is attributed partly to the abnormally high temperatures and the larger eastern apple crop.

Just Shush The Kids And Pull The Trigger

Mrs. Olly Egely has no baby-sitter problem when she wants to go hunting. She just takes the kids along.

Last week with her three children—ages 6, 7 and 10—in tow she headed into the woods in search of a deer. While a lot of more experienced male hunters were coming home to report there are no deer around, Mrs. Egely, with the help of the three junior Egelys, came out of the woods dragging a spike buck which had made the mistake of getting into the sights of her rifle.

Mrs. Edith Nesbitt Passes in Hospital

Funeral services were held this afternoon from Lakeside United Church for Mrs. Edith Pauline Nesbitt who passed away Tuesday morning in the Summerland General Hospital. She had been in failing health for some time. She was 85 years of age and leaves to mourn her husband, her mother, Mrs. V. M. Tellman of Summerland; one brother, Albin of Kelowna; and three sisters, Mrs. Lily Wolfner of Summerland, Mrs. Edna McNeely, Queensland and Mrs. Mildred Bayall, Saskatchewan.

Questions, Answers On Arena Referendum

To help give ratepayers a true picture of what is involved in the proposed purchase of the arena by the Corporation of Summerland, the Review will each week until the election undertake to obtain answers to any questions any one wishes to submit. For this week, the questions were asked by The Review and answers are provided by the Rink Association. For future weeks, questions may be phoned or mailed to The Review.

Anyone who wishes to express opinions on the subject will be welcome to do so in a letter to the editor.

Q - What is the object of the proposed $82,000 ice arena by-law?
A - To provide healthful winter recreation for the people, particularly the young people of Summerland. To be a good skater is a birthright of every Canadian.

Q - What will the proposed by-law provide?
A - Purchase the arena as presently equipped, installation of new ice-making machinery and piping, an engine room annex and possibly extra seating accommodation.

Q - What will the proposed by-law cost the average Summerland ratepayer?
A - If there were no revenue whatever from the operation of the arena it would raise the tax-rate by two mills for twenty years.

Anyone now paying $75.00 would pay $78.00; anyone now paying $150.00 would pay $158.00 and so on. However, there is a guaranteed annual revenue of $800.00 from the Curling Club. Furthermore, in the short periods of the last three years that it has been possible to have hockey games and general pleasure skating, it was evident that, with artificial ice, the arena should be self-supporting. Consequently it should cost the ratepayers little, if anything.

More Donors Needed . . .

Hope for Record Attendance Tuesday At Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic

Red Cross Mobile Blood Donor Clinic will be in Summerland on Tuesday and the local committee backed by Summerland Kiwanis Club is out to better the best previous mark of 300 donors during the visit next week.

The clinic will be set up at St. Andrew's United Church hall and will operate during the afternoon and evening. Afternoon hours will be from 1:30 to 4:30 and evening hours will be from 6:30 to 9:30.

On previous visits, the clinic has always been less congested in the afternoon and those donors who are able to attend the earlier session are being urged to do so.

Kiwanis committee under J. Y. Towgood has been conducting a telephone canvass of the district and has already made appointments for more than 200 donors and hope to boost that number substantially before next Tuesday. Any person not contacted may attend at any hour convenient.

Mr. Towgood pointed out that Summerland is now reaching close to the minimum of 300 regular donors but many more are still needed to make the showing expected of this community.

The Red Cross blood bank is dependent entirely on volunteer donors and the steadily growing demands on the bank require a like increase in the number of donations obtained.

Last year the Red Cross Society took on the job of obtaining the blood supplies required to supply blood for the gamma globulin project of the department of national health. This requires, of course, a much larger number of donors in order to meet this increased demand.

This undertaking is in addition to the society's commitment to supply whole blood for civilian hospitals and blood products for emergency stock-piling purposes.

For the gamma globulin project, the responsibility of the Red Cross is limited to the collection of blood. The processing is done by the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories in the University of Toronto with financial assistance from the federal government.

The total quantity of gamma globulin produced by the laboratories will be allocated and distributed by the department of national health, on the advice of an advisory committee, to provincial public health authorities and will not in any way be the responsibility of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Gamma globulin is that part of human blood which contains protective antibodies against certain diseases and is believed to be effective in the prevention or lessening the severity of paralysis in poliomyelitis. It takes approximately one pint of blood to make an average dose of gamma globulin. Gamma globulin is not a cure for polio nor is it a vaccine and one dose protects a child only for a period up to five weeks following injection.

Only a small quantity of gamma globulin was manufactured prior to the summer of 1953 even with the processing laboratories working at maximum capacity. It is hoped additional blood and increased processing facilities will assure sufficient quantities of gamma globulin to combat polio in Canada during the 1955 season.

Young Penticon Salesman Loses Life When Car Plunges Over Embankment

Death struck swiftly on the highway just north of Summerland about 4 o'clock Saturday morning and claimed the life of 25-year-old Penticon salesman C. W. Young, who died when his car plunged 50 feet over an embankment and then rolled 218 feet.

At the inquest held in Summerland Monday, RCM Police Constable Herb Butler expressed the opinion that Young had gone to sleep at the wheel and failed to take the turn where the new stretch of highway joins the old road. The car tipped out about 100 feet

Board Declines To Take Stand On Proposed Park

Board of Trade member last Friday night considered the proposal of the Women's Institute for the establishment of a 90-acre park north of the Living Memorial Ball park but declined to take a definite stand on the recommendation, climaxing the discussion with a resolution "that the council consider the desirability of setting aside a part of this land for park purposes."

Proposal of the Women's Institute is that the land be dedicated by the council "in perpetuity" as a park area to be preserved in its natural state.

Trade board members expressed the opinion that building sites are already at a premium in Summerland and possibly a lesser area might be reserved leaving the remainder for possible subdivision in the future.

Questioned on the suitability of this property for building lots, Reeve F. E. Atkinson pointed out that it is located on high and rocky ground and the extension of water service to this area would be a major problem.

Will Not Stand For Re-Election

J. Y. Towgood, member of the Summerland school board for the past four years and chairman for the last two, today announced he will not offer as a candidate next month when his present term expires.

Terms of two other school board members also expire this year. They are those of Ross McLachlan and Frank Maddocks.

In announcing his decision to retire this year, Mr. Towgood expressed the hope there will be candidates enter the field this year for the election to the school board. "It is regrettable," he noted, "that the board must be a self-perpetuating body and appoint members to fill any vacancy that occurs."

Eggbeaters Provide Garnet Valley Show

Garnet Valley residents this afternoon were treated to a helicopter aerial show as members of the RCAF who are in the Okanagan for training in flying the "egg-beaters" carried out landing and take-off practice on the terrain in that neighborhood.

Two Bell helicopters are in Penticon for training and three Sikorsky seven-passenger aircraft are being brought to the valley.

He was alone in the car and driving late to be home for the week-end. He had been married only since August.

First person on the scene of the accident was Frank Holler who heard the crash when the car struck at the bottom of the embankment. Young was lying on the ground near the front wheel of the car and was dead when Mr. Holler reached him.

DISGRUNTED IMMIGRANTS

Letters from recently arrived immigrants have been appearing in Toronto papers expressing disappointment with conditions in Canada. They say they were misled by promises of immediate employment, whereas they had sought in vain for work in accordance with their training and ability. They declare their intention of returning to their native land, and some of the have gone back disgrunted. These are usually from England, particularly from the south. One letter writer complained that his English accent was a handicap in applying for a position. I can well understand that in some cases, for several English immigrants I have met lately could not speak plain English. It was not so much their accent, but their affected and clipped manner of speech and their apparent assumption of superiority.

One young Englishman, of good appearance and education complained to me that he had been repeatedly turned down for no apparent reason, and the only job he could get was that of a filing clerk. He did not have much of an accent, but spoke through his teeth with the slightest movement of the lips, so that I, as a born Englishman, could hardly understand what he was saying. I told him he would never get a job where he had to meet the public until he could open his mouth and speak from the throat outward.

As a one-time immigrant, I have the deepest sympathy for people who have broken away from their homes and associations in the old countries and find themselves strangers in a strange land. However humble the lost home may have been, the new immigrant suffers from that heart-sickness of the early Scottish pioneers, which was so poignantly expressed in Moir's poem,

"From the lone shieling of the misty island
Mountains divide us, and the waste of seas—
Yet still the blood is strong, the heart is Highland,
And we in dreams behold the Hebrides!
Fair the broad meads, these hoary woods are grand;

But we are exiles from our fathers' land."

That applies not only to Scots and to British people generally, but also to European immigrants who have the greater handicap of being unable to speak or understand a word of English. I have frequently been stopped on the street by these people for direction. Dumbly they hold out a paper inscribed with an address, and I can only dumbly motion a street car that will take them to the point nearest to the address. Notwithstanding this disadvantage, the "foreign" immigrant adapts himself very quickly to his new environment and eagerly seizes the first opportunity to work for a living. To those who have come from distressed and war-torn countries Canada must seem like a utopia, and in a few years, by hard work and thrift, many of them own their own homes and the homes of some native Canadians as well. I know this for a fact here in Toronto. They must wonder and smile at our labor disputes and strikes for "fringe benefits."

The question has been raised as to why there are not more people coming from Britain. The stated reason, that those who have come were misinformed, is more of an excuse than a reason. The truth is that the average Britisher has been softened-up by the fringe benefits of the welfare state. The Times Weekly Review (London) recently published a letter, signed Mary Martin, of Winnipeg. The writer said she had come to Canada in 1950, and in the meantime had discovered that she would much prefer to live, bring up and educate her family in her native Gloucestershire, rather than on the "hundreds of miles of dull, flat plains with the long and severe winter of the Prairies." She admitted that the reduction of the population of the United Kingdom was "an urgent matter," and she added: "One cannot help wondering if the provisions made by the welfare state have not partly quenched the old spirit of adventure."

It was the spirit of adventure that created and maintained the British Empire with its world-wide trade and commerce. Without that spirit the population of those isles will run to seed and the welfare state will die of starvation.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER EIGHTEENTH, NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY FOUR

Public Business . . . it's the voters' responsibility

ATTENDANCE at the annual meeting of Summerland ratepayers next Wednesday night is the civic duty of two fractions of Summerland voters — those who are in full accord with the work of the council during the past year and those who disagree with the municipal administration. And that should encompass all of the 1,300 ratepayers in the district.

There is a tendency among those who feel civic administration has been sound to hide behind a lethargic line of reasoning "They've done a good job, I'm not going to worry about the details." To this group we can only say that it's mighty poor reward for the elected administrators to not even show them the courtesy of hearing what they have done and the problems they have faced during the past year.

Reasoning of the other group is, of course, "I don't like what they've done so I'm not going to even give them a hearing."

Net result of these two lines of reasoning in past years is that councillors, school and parks board have almost outnumbered those who attended to hear them report.

We believe these three groups have endeavored at all times to serve the will of the majority and if at any time they have failed it was only because the opinions of the majority were not known to them.

A well-attended ratepayers' meeting would make it an occasion when council and the other boards could obtain a representative opinion on different facets of public administration and would have the benefit of that guidance in formulating policy in the coming year. But just as long as ratepayers stay away in droves, council and others will have to continue relying on their own judgement.

The council this year is asking the ratepayers' for guidance on whether the municipality should participate in the future of the arena. The voters will give that guidance in a referendum at the time of the election in December. But before any person can express an honest opinion, he should first be thoroughly familiar with the issue. The matter is to be discussed at the ratepayers' meeting next week and this will give everybody a chance to obtain all the information necessary to form an opinion.

Regarding the rink proposal, there have been many people who have formed opinions on the basis of wholly inaccurate street-corner rumors and it is only fair play that everyone should attend the meeting next week and hear factual statements on the plan before casting a vote either for or against it.

Let's make the ratepayers' meeting just what the name implies.

Need More Donors . . . another form of insurance

THERE is only one bank in the world where any person with or without a credit rating can make withdrawals without first making deposits. There is only one bank where any person is given as much as he needs without even being asked for identification.

This bank does not deal in money, it deals in life. It is the Red Cross Blood Bank.

Next Tuesday the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic will be set up in Summerland to accept donations of blood for the bank. Every person qualified to give blood owes it to himself to attend this clinic.

This is one donation that is not being made for the benefit of someone else. Rather it is a form of insurance because no one can predict who will be making the next call on the blood bank to save their life.

There is no way of estimating how many lives have been saved by the Red Cross Blood Bank. A few years ago when a person was in need of a blood transfusion, a call went out for donors with a compatible blood grouping and sometimes one was found in time—sometimes not. If donors were found in time, the fee was $20 or $25 for each pint of blood. Too often donors were not available to supply the blood needed and countless lives were lost because

Other Opinions

What Other Editors Say

The Problems Of Growers
The problems of the growers are many. Some are little ones while others are so big that they are threatening the existence of at least one part of the industry. If the solution to at least some of the troubles is not found soon there will not be many, if any, growers producing vegetables in the south end of the valley. That is the view expressed by the chairman of the Marketing Board, Robert Stockton, at the annual meeting of growers here last Friday.

The returns this year, particularly on tomatoes, have been a total loss to most growers. It was encouraging though to note that the chairman of the Board was willing to admit that the situation was really serious. In the past at times, members of the Board have left the impression with growers that the picture was not as black as they imagined. Now that the Board and the growers are unanimously agreed that the industry is in serious trouble, it should tend to make it easier to work towards a solution—although the solution itself may prove to be highly elusive.

Some of the problems appear to be simple. In fact it makes one wonder why they exist. For example, growers can sell their produce in a defined zone—which in this case extended roughly from Summerland to the foot of Anarchist Mountain. To the east are the communities of Rock Creek, Bridesville, Midway, Greenwood, Grand Forks, Rossland, Trail and Nelson, but the growers in this area cannot sell to these people, nor can these people come to Osoyoos and pick up their vegetables. The members of the Marketing Board admit that if the Oliver-Osoyoos growers were permitted to sell in that region it would not compete with another producing area, and it would not hurt anyone.

Yet the restriction exists. An inspector (or more) checks cars and trucks to the east of here to avoid this traffic. Many growers make no bones about admitting that they by-pass these inspectors by going the American way. It costs money to keep an inspector up the hill. Further, growers in this area are losing thousands of dollars in revenue because most of the produce that is sold off the field is produce that would not be handled by the Marketing Board—mostly a salvage proposition.

Oliver-Osoyoos growers are preparing a resolution to get this zone extended and it could be a problem out of the way, for next year.

However, the biggest problems appear to be distribution and American imports. It just does not seem the vegetables, are getting wide enough distribution. As for imports, the 1940-47 permit system of imports speaks for itself. American produce, is definitely ruining the vegetable industry here.

As for central packing, which has been suggested as a means of cutting cost, this newspaper feels that the saving there would be too small to be of any consequence. In the end it may be just an added expense. Effort and money that would be expended to get central packing underway could be for more effective if concentrated elsewhere.—Osoyoos Times.

That situation no longer exists. When blood is needed, the Red Cross supplies whatever amount is required—and it is free.

But remember, this service can be maintained only as long as every person participates.

Summerland Kiwanis Club is working to try and reach an objective of 300 donors for the clinic next Tuesday. It will be a blot on the escutcheon of Summerland if this target cannot be reached.

Let's do some quick figuring. There is in Summerland a population of about 3,600. Assume one-half are children under the acceptable age. That leaves 1,800 adults. To allow generously for the number overage and those unable for a variety of reasons to donate blood, cut that figure in half. That leaves 900 people who should be at the clinic. It would be certainly nothing less than a disgrace to the community if less than one-third of that number was willing to contribute what may some day be their own need.

Those who haven't already made it a date to be at the clinic Tuesday, we ask to consider this hypothesis. Supposing rules of the blood bank were that a person could draw out for himself or family only the amount he has contributed. Picture a member of the family lying in a hospital bed in mortal need of blood and being told there have been no deposits so there can be no withdrawals. Don't bother trying to imagine the torturous pangs of regret you would feel as you watched life ebb from that body because it wouldn't be possible.

Fortunately for many, those are not the rules of the Red Cross Blood Bank and won't be as long as the demands can be met by the small percentage of regular donors but there is still a stern law of conscience which deprives of self-respect that person whose selfishness dictates he must depend on the charity of others.

Summerland residents are well aware of the value of working co-operatively. Membership in the Credit Union testifies to that fact. Well, the Blood Donor Service is nothing different from any other co-operative, except in this service people are bonded together to help preserve each other's lives at a time when the need for help is greatest.

Make it a date for Tuesday.

Mid-Week Message

Give, and it shall be given unto you. (Luke 6:38. Read Luke 6:35-38.)

Elijah found the widow of Zarephath preparing to cook the last food she had in the house. Starvation then would be a matter of time. But at Elijah's request the widow emptied the meal barrel and made him a cake. As she took from the barrel, God put back in. "And the barrel of meal wasted not."

The widow gave to others, and God gave back to her. This one gift, her best and last, meant the difference between life and death. The Kingdom of God was served; a hungry prophet was fed; and her household was assured food for the duration of the drought. This was giving until it helped.

Many of us have empty barrels today, and spiritual starvation is a matter of time because we stop giving when it begins to hurt. Thence we give, the more it hurts. We keep the best and the last for ourselves.

"Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over"

PRAYER

Our Father, forgive us for practicing selfishness. Enlarge our hearts to love Thee more. Teach us that as we spend our lives and substance in Thy service, Thou wilt supply our every need. In the name of Christ. Amen.

Five Steps

A good-looking young fellow came into my office this morning to try to sell me a dictating machine. "Look here," he said, "you only need to speak into this little microphone and then pass the disc along to your secretary. No more pounding away at your typewriter. You will be able to think, instead of doing that physical work."

"Sounds good," I said. "I do get pretty tired of typing."

"Why—it will make your work ridiculously easy!" the young fellow said, pressing his advantage. "There'll be nothing to it at all. Just press this button and talk!"

"Hey, just a minute!" I said. "You just show me. Dictate a 300-word newspaper column for me—then tell me how easy it is."

The young lad started to hum and haw, I told him just to go ahead and talk. State some opinion. Discuss love, or marriage, or politics, or anything—at all about which he felt deeply.

Well, sir, he pressed the button but he had no words to say. I gave him a five-minute lecture. I told him about the five steps to wisdom from the book of Common Prayer. They are very simple. "Hear . . . read . . . mark . . . learn . . . and inwardly digest."

He agreed that most young men today do the first four steps but miss the fifth. That's why politicians can often talk the populace into all sorts of fancy, expensive schemes, without telling the truth about where the money is to come from. That's how crackpots are able to sell us their nonsense.

When I had finished talking the young man smiled. He clicked a button—and my words came back at me. Here was a newspaper column practically written! He sold me the machine. But I still have to work—because thinking is hard work—harder even than typing. However, nobody can call me an old-fashioned fuddy-duddy any more. I'm living in the electronic age!

The Lighter Side

A housewife, returning an egg she had borrowed stepped inside her neighbor's kitchen and called out: "I'm going to lay an egg here on the kitchen table." Came a deep male voice from the next room: "Wait a minute—this I've got to see!"

It was a cold November day and the football stadium was jammed. High up in the stand, an alumnus, more than slightly inebriated, kept standing up and calling "Hey Gus," and each time a man down in the third row would ceremoniously stand up and doff his hat.

After many calls of "Hey Gus," the gentleman in the third row shouted in a thick voice, "Now quit yelling at me. I'm tired of standing up and besides my name ain't Gus."

"Mr. Hazelton," the professor said sharply, "you haven't been paying very close attention to what I've been saying. Now for our benefit define indigestion."

"Yes sir," replied the medical student. "It's the failure of a round stomach to adjust itself to a square meal."

There was a knock at the door. Mrs. Murphy answered it.

"Be you the Widow Murphy?" demanded a red-faced man on the porch.

"No. I am Mrs. Murphy," she said indignantly. "Huh. Just wait till you see what the boys are cartin' upstairs!"

An old maid of at least 50 came to see her doctor and told him: "There is a one-legged man who appears in my dreams every night and chases me. I run and run until I escape."

"Yes,"

"I want to find out about getting him a pair of crutches to see if he can catch me."

A man rushed into the Union Station in Toronto and grasping the arm of the porter standing by the Montreal train, he cried: "My wife is on that train. Will I have time to go in the car and say goodbye to her?"

The porter pondered over the question briefly. "That all depends, sah," he finally answered. "Tell me how long you have been married."

Clever Cooking . . .

According to statistics, Canadians are eating about forty percent more pork per person now than they did 15 years ago. Although pork is usually available all year round, the supply is greatest and the price most economical during the fall and winter months. It also happens to be the time of year when appetites are hearty and it seems natural to serve more pork.

When buying pork you should look for meat that is firm, fine textured and light, greyish-pink in color. The lean will be a deeper rose color, in the more mature animals. The fat should be well distributed through the lean and the pork covered with a layer of firm, snowy white fat. The bones are coarse and slightly pink in color.

There are several cuts of pork sold for roasting. Shoulder roasts have a fair amount of bone which may be removed to make a pocket for stuffing and for ease in carving. The leg of pork or fresh ham is divided into shank and butt end. One or two slices are sometimes cut off the shank end and cooked as fresh ham steaks. Loins are not often sold as roasts but, if they are, they are divided into the ham end, the centre and the rib end. The loin is usually cut into rib or loin chops. The rib chops contain more bone than the loin and cost less per pound.

Keep fresh pork as you do other fresh meat. If you buy a roast already cellophane wrapped, be sure and remove the wrap when you get it home. Wipe it well with a damp cloth, wrap it again loosely in wax paper and store it in the coldest part of your refrigerator. If you are going to keep the roast for more than two or three days, it is best to freeze it.

Any cut of fresh pork may be roasted. It should be placed on a rack in an uncovered pan with the fat side up. It is fat enough to be self-basting and no water need be added. For pork and other meats a moderately slow, 325 degree F. oven is best. Allow 30 to 35 minutes per pound for a shoulder roast and 45 to 50 minutes per pound for leg roast. For a five pound shoulder roast you should allow about two and one-half to three hours roasting time. Pork is one meat that must be well cooked. It is a good idea to use a meat thermometer and cook the meat to an internal temperature of 185 degree F., or until the pork has completely lost its pink color and is greyish white throughout. The meat should be juicy and tender and the outer fat well-browned and crisp.

There is always some favorite food which we like to eat with pork. It may be currant or apple jelly or even cranberry sauce. To most people, however, the sweetness of pork and the tartness of apples make a perfect flavor combination. Apples may be baked around the roast by putting them in the pan about three-quarters of an hour before the roast is done. Core the apples, cut in half leaving the skins on. Spread each half with a little fat and brown sugar mixed together. Then, of course, there is the ever-popular applesauce which is most often served with pork.

When you are using your oven for the roast, it is a good idea and a practical one as well to cook the rest of your dinner in the oven. For the vegetable course, you may serve baked, oven-browned or scalloped potatoes or baked squash. In the French Canadian homes, brown potatoes roasted with roast pork are more common than with roast beef. Onions and carrots may be roasted too. These should be put around the roast one and one-half hours before it is done. Baked potatoes and squash will take about the same time and scalloped potatoes about one hour. A scalloped vegetable dish such as tomatoes, cabbage or celery will take about one-half hour.

If there is room in the oven for a dessert, you might make a baked custard or sponge-type pudding or a gingerbread.

For a quick, simple meat dish for the small family, pork chops are the answer. They may be served plain or dressed up with a stuffing and perhaps a tart sauce or well-seasoned gravy.

Panfried pork chops are best covered after browning. Brown the chops in a hot pan two to three minutes on each side over moderate heat and pour off any extra fat. Then reduce the heat, cover the pan and cook the chops slowly. After browning, a one-half inch chop will take four to six minutes to cook on each side and a one-inch chop eight to ten minutes on each side either on top of the stove or in a 325 degree F oven. Chops one-inch thick may be stuffed with a well-seasoned bread stuffing. Make a slit along the outer edge of the chop cutting into the meat almost to the bone, fill with the stuffing and skewer.

Chops may also be broiled. One-inch thick chops are best for broiling since they do not dry out as quickly as the thinner ones. They should be placed on the cold grid in a preheated broiler and broiled three inches from the heat for eight to ten minutes on each side.

Scout Activities

Tuesdays meeting showed an almost perfect attendance with only two scouts absent. Lets make it perfect next week! This week instruction featured map reading, signalling and second class lashings. Next week we'll be having some boxing. So any boys with gloves bring them along.

On Friday, Dec. 3 the Youth Centre Association is sponsoring its annual Family Night. Admission is free and all scouts are asked to invite their whole family to be present. There will be an interesting program with fun for all. The scouts are sponsoring a 25 booth and all scouts are asked to bring two items, wrapped, that will sell for 25c each to the next meeting. Similar projects are being planned by all the other youth groups using the Youth Centre facilities. Proceeds go to the Youth Centre Association.

Patrol Leader Harold Oxley has been appointed the Troop scribe and is now looking after the Troop Log Book which records the week by week activities of the Troop. This Log Book goes back to 1947 and provides a valuable record of the Troop's progress over the years. Ken Gronlund was invested as a member of the troop and of the World Brotherhood of Scouts. In the patrol competition the standing is now Eagles 440, Buffaloes 435, Hawks 416 and Beavers 396. Duty Patrol for next week, Hawks.

St. Andrew's Service Club Hears Talk on Home for Girls at Burnaby

Another branch of Church work was presented to St. Andrew's Service Club on Monday evening when Mrs. T. W. Boothe spoke on the United Church Home for Girls in South Burnaby, one of six such homes under the auspices of the United Church of Canada. As a former president of the Federation she has kept in close touch with Miss Richardson, superintendent of the home, and was able to give a very interesting and informative account of the work done there, also reading excerpts from a letter she had just received from Miss Richardson.

The project is housed in a large home on beautiful spacious grounds overlooking the Fraser River. It was intended to house 17 girls but at present a new wing is being added at a cost of $27,000.00 in order that accommodation may be given to 22 girls, with extra space for administration, recreation and study purposes. Assisting Miss Richardson, who is a trained deaconess, is Mrs. Jean Downie, nurse and housekeeper, and a cook.

Since the beginning of the year girls from nine different denominations and several different nationalities were at the home and a certain amount of financial assistance is therefore received from other congregations to aid in the work.

The estimated expenditure for 1954 is $10,500.00, approximately $875.00 per month. It is expected that 75 per cent of this will be provided by grants from the Board of Evangelism and Social Services and the Missionary Society of the United Church, grants from other churches, the Corporation of Burnaby and residence fees paid by the girls themselves. The other 25 per cent, it is hoped, will be divided equally between the Woman's Association of the United Church in the Greater Vancouver area and from the other congregations of the church throughout the conference.

Girls are referred to the home through the Children's Aid Society, the Family Welfare Bureau of Vancouver and the Burnaby social welfare department. Personal application may also be made through a minister or other individual. Every effort is made to provide a homelike atmosphere for the girls during their stay and to send them out better prepared to face their problems.

Thanks were extended by Miss Richardson for canned fruit and apples recently sent to the home from the Service Club. Suitable donations, mostly baby clothing, have been turned in to be sent to the home shortly. Miss Richardson, in her letter, gave a list of other things needed for the girls personally and to assist in making the new addition more attractive. Mrs. George Washington, president, in thanking the speaker, stressed the importance of such work and the added interest that is acquired from first hand information.

Mrs. G. A. Laidlaw led the devotional period with the theme, "Spiritual Growth" and the opening hymn was "Jesus the Very Thought of Thee". This theme was also incorporated in the beautiful solo, "Moments of Prayer," by Mrs. H. Milley, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. R. D. Dunham.

Mrs. Colin Campbell, as official delegate, reported on the meeting of the W.A. of the Kamloops Okanagan Presbytery held in Oliver recently, where Mrs. Jamieson, president of the B.C. Conference W.A., reported on the dominion council held in May. She also gave an inspiring address on "Leadership" with Mrs. K. W. Kinnard of Vernon giving an interesting talk on "Christian Citizenship."

Another parcel of clothing has been collected for Korea and will be mailed by Mrs. L. Fudge and Mrs. A. J. McKenzie. Routine business included final arrangements for the bazaar to be held on November 27 in the Church Hall. Refreshments were conveyed by Mrs. L. F. Haggman.

Slit pockets are set in on the slant and the generous cuffs are notched. There is an inverted pleat in back from crossed over flaps.

Must Meet Trends In Marketing Loyd Emphasizes

The increasing need for the Okanagan fruit growers to concentrate on a product designed to meet the new trend toward standardization in retail sales, was outlined last week by A. K. Loyd, president of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd.

Mr. Loyd asserted that the day when a multiplicity of varieties and grades of fruit could be successfully marketed was at an end. He called on growers to concentrate on a top quality item for which their area was best suited. If they did not do so, they would suffer at the hands of modern merchandising methods.

Mr. Loyd noted "trends of business which are these days making it harder and harder for the fringe growers to survive."

"There was a time when our mothers and grandmothers would pride themselves on the acumen and cleverness with which they did their shopping," he said, "and their ability to recognize bargains, and their individual right to purchase what they wanted even if the general thought was not quite in that direction."

In those days, it had been possible to merchandise a great number of commodities in varieties, both in the fruit and vegetables worlds, which were bought by people who were willing to stand by their opinions as to the merits and demerits of what they would buy.

There was a new trend today, however, whereby the house wife's ideas were prompted and streamlined by tremendous organizations.

"Their general policy," he went on, "is to get more and more toward standardization, and in the course of doing that, the housewife begins to lose her desire, and, possibly her ability, to choose for herself, and get more and more into the habit of taking the commodity which is convenient for those big organizations."

The industry had to face the fact that it would only survive if it provided service, and not only service, but service of a kind that the consumer desired or had been trained to desire.

Mr. Loyd said the principle of eye-shopping or eye-appeal was growing. There was no sense in trying to conceal that fact; "we are all well aware of it."

"We see every day of the week that the shopper only purchases those things which are put up to appear attractive and only those things which she has heard of or been told about and which catch her eye when she is shopping," he explained.

The "small independent merchants" were imitating the operations of the larger stores.

"Whether we like it or not," Mr. Loyd continued, "we have to take these factors into consideration and meet them, and furthermore, we can meet them if we try."

"But it is equally useless for us to ignore them and to consider, as I am afraid a minority of primary producers do feel, that once they have grown something, someone, sometime, ought to buy it."

"That way of looking at things is getting more and more obsolete. We have to meet those conditions or go under."

He said he saw no reason for pessimism at all in regard to the fruit industry in the very large area concerned.

"We have to remember that the public is being trained to demand quality and ignore everything that doesn't fall in line with that standard," he said.

Years ago, Mr. Loyd continued, there was always an outlet for a very considerable quantity of second or third grade products. In the present age, that was not the case.

Bridge Tournament Into Second Round

First round of the Summerland Athletic Club bridge tournament was completed last week and matches are being played this week in the second round of open and consolation divisions.

In the tournament are 32 teams and all are still in the competition with losers last week continuing in the consolation round.

Following is the line-up of matches for this week:

Ben Trafford and Bill Snow vs Dr. and Mrs. T. H. Anstey; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cuthbert vs Mr. and Mrs. Don Wright; Mrs. N. O. Solly and Miss Jean Bennett vs Mr. and Mrs. Ted Weeks; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Williams vs Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bernhardt; Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Towgood vs Alan Walker and Ralph Downing; Alphonse Menu and Mr. Vernon vs Mrs. E. R. Butler and Mrs. Lydia Johnson; Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Evans vs Mrs. Isobel Nelson and Mrs. Peggy McRae; Mrs. Mary Dunn and C. W. Haddroll vs George Fudge and Andy Banno.

Consolation second round: Mr. T. J. Garnett and Del Carter vs Mr. John Dunn and Mrs. C. W. Haddroll; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fredrickson vs Mrs. A. J. Berry and Miss Elizabeth Theod; Mrs. Gordon Boggs and Mrs. Alex Kenne vs C. H. Elsey and Nick Solly; Mrs. Margaret McGibbon and Mrs. N. E. Crease vs Mr. and Mrs. Walter Powell; Rev. and Mrs. A. A. T. Northrup vs Cecil Morgan and Dave Harris; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Walsh vs Mr. and Mrs. Thompson; Mr. and Mrs. David Munn vs Miss Corrigan and Miss Dorothy Britton; Mr. and Mrs. A. Coggan vs Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Tingley.

and the sooner we realize it, I think the happier we will all be."

Mr. Loyd briefly reviewed the growth of B.C. Tree Fruits. The organization did about $25 million worth of business a year. It was very widespread, its markets reached all over the world, and now it was in process of widening its horizons still further. The markets had been developed "on account of the fact that the producers as a whole have been working together with that in mind."

Returning to the question of standards, Mr. Loyd repeated that "if we haven't got something a little better than the other fellow, we might as well give up now."

He described the sales organization in Eastern Canada, explained how contact men visited retail stores to promote Okanagan fruit.

"We (BCTF) can't always satisfy everybody," he said. "When times are bad, we get blamed, naturally."

"But we have never said at any time that we can produce artificial prices. We have only said we can bring back as much as possible of what the market is able to pay, and that is governed by supply and demand."

"We have no monopoly. If we get too proud of our own ideas, we find distribution is dwindling."

At times, distribution and price were "so tremendously interlocked" that one could not afford to consider the one without the other.

Mr. Loyd showed how the sales agency had to move an equivalent of 20 boxes of apples every minute of every 24 hour day for the next eight months without stopping, if the crop were to be sold.

"You will realize how distribution is so closely integrated with price that the two have to match if we are to come out at the end of the year without a surplus," he concluded.

Poppy Day Receipts Match Last Year

Receipts in the Summerland Poppy Day campaign this year just about matched the returns of last year with a total of $600 collected in the campaign.

The district was covered by members of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary who handled the street sales and by Boy Scouts who conducted the house-to-house canvass.

Sale of wreaths was conducted by D. C. Thompson and A. D. Glen.

Co-ordinator of the various committees was George Fudge.

The poppies and wreaths sold in the campaign are manufactured by disabled veterans and profits realized by the local sale are held in the Poppy Fund which is administered by the Legion Branch to assist veterans and their families in distress.

Former Resident To Wed Saturday

Friends in Summerland will be interested to learn of the forthcoming marriage of Ruth Wharton Nesbitt, who on Saturday, Nov. 20, will become the bride of Gerald James Young.

She is the daughter of the late Carl V. Nesbitt and Mrs. Nesbitt, now of Fruitvale. The groom is formerly of Winnipeg and is now stationed with the RCMP in Vancouver.

Your stake in the search for Better Health

Everyone has a vital interest in science's efforts to help us live longer. But life insurance policyholders have a special stake in this work.

You see, certain important medical research projects are supported wholly or in part by funds from all the life insurance companies in Canada and their millions of policyholders. As a result, skilled scientists in many Canadian medical research centres can carry on their task of attacking some of mankind's deadliest enemies. Their names: cancer, heart ailments and virus diseases.

Other vital studies are supported in a similar way. These focus on obesity, blood clotting, nutritional and intestinal disorders, hardening of the arteries and glandular diseases, to mention but a few.

Will all these efforts help you and your family to live longer, healthier lives?

Yes! Thanks chiefly to the advance of modern medicine, babies born today can expect to live about 20 years longer than those of 50 years ago. Many dread diseases have been banished or controlled. Ahead lies further progress that will surely benefit you and yours.

And, if you are a life insurance policyholder, you also have the satisfaction of knowing that you have participated in this program designed to bring the blessings of good health to all!

Hunting and Fishing News

FISHING

Okanagan Lake. Still OK. Quite a few nice fish being caught trolling. Biggest fish caught was a 3½ pounder caught on a red and white plug. Several trout caught by white-fishermen, among the white fish.

White fishing has been good and reports of up to forty or fifty fish being caught in a day are quite common.

HUNTING

Geese and Ducks. Several reports of geese being bagged here in last week, quite a few northern mallards in and the locals as well.

Pheasants. Still open till the 21st but very little hunting activity this last week. Still a few roosters here and if you have a good dog could have some good shooting.

Deer. Very conflicting reports this last week, and it appears that the deer are down and doing a lot of moving around. The main herd seems to be coming down a little from the tops. There have been kills made all over the back areas right into town. With the weather like it is isn't good hunting but maybe before the end of the month we should have better conditions.

There are quite a few reports in on doe shooting. This is not good also it doesn't give the game department much of a chance to complete their plans of improving the deer population here in this district. I know quite a few sportsmen are against this over season on does but it is law and the biologist are having their chance to prove their point. Please give them a proper chance. The doe season is only from the 24th Nov. to the end of the season Nov. 30th. And we here in the South Okanagan are in this area open for doe shooting.

made by Vincent Edwards and Company, publishers of "Bank Ad-views," a monthly publication which evaluates the advertising of banks and trust companies throughout the United States and Canada.

"Bank Ad-views" bases its awards on a continuing study of thousands of bank advertisements in daily and weekly newspapers all over the continent, scoring messages on three counts: ideas which sell bank services; layout and illustrative techniques; and general effect on the bank's relations with the public.

Pointing out that "each of these ads has been subjected to a thorough review and unbiased analysis," the publication says: "During the entire year, the promotions used by the Bank of Montreal have been of such consistently high quality that they have earned the greatest total of award points."

In paying tribute to the B of M, "Bank Ad-views" comments: "In its ads, the Bank of Montreal has recognized the needs of its potential customers: farmers, businessmen, industrial groups and the general public are all reached with promotions of specific interest and value to them. In addition, the bank has cultivated good will through institutional messages of importance to the community and enterprise."

"Original, timely and effective work was outstanding and skilfully presented; copy told the message ideas were used consistently; visualization through photos and art or did the service-selling job forcefully and convincingly. Each ad was distinctively that of the Bank of Montreal, and in keeping with the high standards of the bank."

Endorsation by the public of the Socrates' Award to the B of M is provided by the findings of a Canadian public opinion poll. In a survey recently conducted by an independent authority, questions put to a large representative sample of Canadians revealed that B of M advertising had made a greater impression on the public than that of any other bank. The survey showed that B of M advertising was preponderantly remembered in street-cars and buses, and that readers of newspapers and magazines noticed and remembered B of M advertisements more than twice as much as those of any other bank.

For the past two years, the Socrates' High Award has been won by the Bank of America, the largest bank in the world, while the Bank of Montreal ranked in sixth place in 1953 and second place in 1952.

White proved to be a valuable asset to the mechanics, scoring three of the goals against Summerland. He went on the ice for Garagemen right after playing with his own team against BCD's and assisting them to a 6-3 victory with a goal and a pair of assists.

Past sins this week caught up with the Summerland team when Rosie Campbell was dealt a five-game suspension for clouting a referee in the dying minutes of last year's final play-off match which ended in a first-class brannigan.

In Sunday's match, Garagemen had the edge all the way. In the first frame they held the Kings scoreless in the first frame while White accounted for two goals and Gilmour for another. Second period was only 40 second old when Hooker converted a combination by Eyre and Brambly to register the lone Summerland tally.

Second period saw Garagemen add three more to the score, honors going to O'Brien, White and Samos. Gilmour was lone scorer in the final stanza.

First period saw penalties handed out to Samos, Harris and Gilmour but Garagemen kept the slate clean for the balance of the game. Lone Summerland penalty went to Brambly in the second period for slashing.

First period — 1, Garagemen, White (Samos) 6:30; 2, Garagemen, Gilmour, 7:00; 3, Garagemen, White (Harris, O'Brien) 9:30. Penalties: Samos, Harris, Gilmour.

Second period — 4, Summerland, Hooker (Eyre, Brambly) :40; 5, Garagemen, O'Brien, 2:45; 6, Garagemen, White (Gilmour) 9:30; 7, Garagemen, Samos (O'Brien, Harris) 19:15. Penalty: Brambly.

Third period — 8, Garagemen, Gilmour (Bird) 8:10. (No penalties).

Board Undecided On Newhope Plan

Summerland Board of Trade Friday night heard an outline of the proposed method of operation of Valley View Lodge, the senior citizens home to be opened in Pentiction, and also of the society that is to operate it.

Report was presented to the board by C. E. Bentley, who in company with L. L. Trippe and Lorne Perry, interviewed members of the society and obtained answers to a list of questions which have been posed by Summerland citizens regarding the home.

Lengthy discussion followed the report, outcome of which was that the board would neither endorse nor condemn the effort and leave it to each individual to decide whether they wished to contribute to the furnishing fund for the home.

Chief point of resentment toward the Newhope Benevolent Society, which is to operate the home, was the fact that membership in the society is not open to the public and Summerland would have no representative on the board administering the home.

While there was this objection to the sponsoring society, it was at the same time felt by some of the members that there is a need for this type of service in the district and this home would fill that need.

Mr. Bentley reporting on the interview with society directors stated that there are six members in the society and the constitution provides that new members must be acceptable to these six.

Regarding salaries being paid to society members and expenses of the furnishing fund drive, Mr. Bentley said the trade board committee was informed that two of the society directors, both contractors, are working on remodeling the home and each are being paid $200 per month for their work. Cost of conducting the furnishing fund campaign including the fee of the organizer is expected to not exceed five per cent of collections, he was told.

F. E. Atkinson informed the meeting he had resigned as chairman of the furnishing fund drive and said members of the Newhope Benevolent Society had told him they were willing to change their arrangements for admission of residents to protect Summerland interests; if it would make the proposition more attractive here.

Anglican Tea, Sale Reported Successful

Afternoon branch of St. Stephen's W.A. reported a successful afternoon tea and sale in the Parish Hall on Saturday, Nov. 13.

The event was opened by the rector, Rev. A. A. T. Northrup, and Mrs. Northrup received the guests. The sale was well attended and little was left in the stalls for late comers.

Mrs. W. Beattie and Mrs. F. Hadjrell were in charge of knitting and needlework while Mrs. C. Clark and Mrs. Nicholson supervised the sale of aprons. Mrs. A. F. Calder and Mrs. A. L. Blanchet handled the sale of home cooking while the variety stall was under the direction of Miss Marion Cartwright assisted by Mrs. L. Johnson.

Tea tables were decorated with small vases of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, and servers were three members of the St. Stephen's Girls' Auxiliary, Margaret Lott, Barbara Baker and Jean Northrup.

Kitchen helpers included Mrs. W. S. Nield, Mrs. Wade, Mrs. J. Mellor and Mrs. E. Hack. Cashier was Mrs. K. B. Thompson.

of pensioners receiving the $15 supplementary pension from the province in addition to the $40 universal pension, the provincial welfare branch, after investigation, would pay the balance to make up the monthly charge of $65 and in addition pay the pensioner seven dollars a month for personal expenses. Those who receive only the $40 federal pension would have to make up the balance themselves.

Roy Angus asked what would be Summerland's position regarding allotment of vacancies if only half the objective was subscribed here and was told that if there was real interest shown in Summerland and an effort made to raise the objective then the district would still be entitled to the quota of vacancies even if the full amount was not raised.

The chairman asked for a show of hands by any opposed to raising funds to furnish rooms for Summerland residents but found the wording of his resolution unpopular with the audience so changed it to ask for a show of hands by those in favor of a canvass of the district. Only two favored the canvass idea and it was suggested that with 20 per cent of the objective already reached without any campaign effort that best move would be to wait and let people make donations on their own initiative.

Wm. Jenkinson proposed that since the meeting was small—about 25 attended—that perhaps it would be wise to postpone action and discuss it further at the meeting of ratepayers next week. Reeve Atkinson stated that with a discussion of the rink agenda set for the ratepayers meeting, the agenda would be too full to consider any added subjects.

Asked by George Washington if any of the directors were drawing salaries from the society, Mr. Moore stated that he and Mr. Godkin were both contractors and during the day were working at the renovation of the former Pentiction hospital which is the building being used and they were each being paid $200 a month for their work. They were the only members of the board receiving any form of remuneration from the society, he said.

Cenotaph Service Honors War Dead

Summerland residents last Thursday morning gathered at the Cenotaph in the Living Memorial Park and joined with people all over the world in paying tribute to those who died in the service of their country.

Members of the local clergy participated in the service which started at 10:45 a.m. and concluded after the minute's silence at 11 o'clock with the laying of wreaths.

In the parade to the Cenotaph were members of the Canadian Legion, Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion, Scouts, Cubs, Rangers, Guides and Brownies. The parade was led by the Summerland Band.

Roll of Honor was read by Legion President H. C. Howis. Last Post and Reveille were sounded by J. Betuzzi.

Name B. A. Tingley Speakers' President

President of Summerland Speakers' Club this year will be B. A. Tingley who was chosen Tuesday night to head up the group. About 20 members are registered this year for the course designed to develop public speaking ability.

First vice-president is Jack Mason with W. G. Gillard as 2nd vice and Nat May as 3rd vice. Treasurer is Fred Gale, secretary J. Graham and librarian, Walter M. Wright.

The club will meet each Tuesday night until the end of March in the High School library.

Local Curlers Compete In Rotary Bonspiel

Two rinks representing Summerland Rotary Club were in Kelowna last week-end to participate in the annual Rotary bonspiel for clubs in the Okanagan.

Taking part in the bonspiel were C. J. Bleasdale, Dr. W. H. B. Munn, Brian Lawley, Ivor Solly, Vern Charles, Francis Steuart, J. W. Mitchell and Alan Cross.

The rink skipped by Chuck Bleasdale brought home honors in the consolation event.

Engineers Will Study Breakwater Proposal

Assurance that engineers will study the need for a breakwater at Summerland was received last week by the Board of Trade from A. A. Anderson of the harbors and rivers branch of the department of public works at Ottawa.

The letter was received in reply slight increase over the previous of Trade asking for the installation of a small boat shelter here. Mr. Anderson stated he has instructed engineers to study the situation and that he will advise the board of their opinion as soon as it is received.

Dr. J. Marshall Presents Brief on Rink Proposal

(Editor's Note: Discussion on the rink proposal that the municipality take over and install ice in the Summerland arena was opened last night at the Ratepayers' meeting by Dr. J. Marshall who presented a brief in which he reviewed the factors involved in the proposed purchase and also expressed his reason for favoring the plan. Because of the thoroughness with which Dr. Marshall explored the proposition and the clarity with which it was presented, his brief is reported in its entirety rather than in summary form.)

Following is the text of Dr. Marshall's remarks:

PROLOGUE
Why is a Trout Creek Scotchman who shudders at taxes, and lives next door to a fine rink in Penticton, in favor of municipal expenditure for a Summerland ice rink? All the more so since he has invested no money in it, and within two years will have no youngsters to make use of it. But this is no paradox. I am in favor of the proposed expenditure partly because of observations elsewhere, partly because of sympathy, and partly because of a guilty feeling. Before presenting a brief on behalf of the proposal, I wish to explain myself.

"Partly because of observations elsewhere"
I was raised in Summerland and am very proud of our community. When I left here I went to Forest, a little place near Sarnia with a population of 2,000. There during the long cold winters I found they had an enclosed rink where we could enjoy ice skating throughout the season—and that was away back when! Next I went to Annapolis Royal in Nova Scotia and there with a population of 700, they had a closed-in rink. Next I was in Wenatchee, and winters there are long and cold too, but we had nothing for entertainment but to go to the show. The next move took me to Vernon where the population at that time was about 5,500 and we were mighty happy to find ice skating for our children there. Then back in Summerland where there is a population of 3,600 and it seems only reasonable that there should be adequate skating facilities for the youngsters.

"Partly because of sympathy"
Sympathy with the plight of youngsters of today who are unwitting victims of circumstances. A few years ago there was plenty for them to do—wood-splitting, pruning, picking, box-making, hoeing, hay-making and lots of other chores but in the winter there was lots of ice and snow and we skated with skates that were screwed onto ordinary boots. Now youngsters have too much time on their hands. They have too many radios, too many cars, too many spectator entertainments—and the worst is yet to come. Television is just around the corner with its gun-toting, sex and its hollywood pseudo-sophistication. So today's youngsters need our sympathy, not so much our criticism. I'd like to help them to take part in real Canadian winter fun—in participant sport, not spectator games. I'm sure they'd become better citizens if they had more of that in the winter and less of the other.

"Partly because of a guilty feeling"
I did little to help those who worked so unselfishly to give us the Summerland Youth Centre. It has been doing fine work for the young folk, but there is a limit to the capacity of the Youth Centre and, I think, the limit has been reached, or nearly so. There are nearly 90 school-age youngsters here now. I feel a sense of selfishness because I gave only a couple of nights and an afternoon's work with the work party that built the rink. And I didn't help at all financially. Now thanks to those who pitched in on the rink job, I am having more physical and mental relaxation than I would have believed possible as a very amateur curler. In fact, winter is now for me the best season of the year. That's the way it can be in Canada. I think it's high time I did what little I could to help the young folk feel the same way. They can't as things are now, unless we have a return of the cold winters of 20 to 40 years ago or unless we set them up with artificial ice.

Kids sometimes make me wild, but I like them!
PURPOSE OF RINK
To provide facilities for skating and curling for the people of Summerland.

HISTORY OF RINK
In earlier years natural ice had been maintained on what is now the Living Memorial Park at West Summerland. In order to improve skating facilities and to provide for curling, a group of Summerland people made arrangements to construct a closed rink at West Summerland. Bonds were sold to cover purchase of materials, erection of roof trusses and hire of a supervising carpenter. Much of the construction material was purchased at wholesale prices and much of it was transported to Summerland free of charge.

It was anticipated that labor for the job would be donated by public spirited citizens, and that proved to be the case.
By 1951, a well-constructed ice arena worth well over $50,000 had been erected for under $28,000.
At the time the covered rink was being planned, Summerlanders who had been curling at Peachland curling club decided to form a local club. They agreed to lease part of the proposed covered rink for 20 years and to install three sheets of artificial ice at their own expense. This undertaking hastened construction of the building; curling was underway on natural ice in 1951 and on artificial ice in 1952.

But, just as the curling club found that natural ice had become too uncertain in this area, so have those responsible for providing ice for skating. (1950-51: six weeks; 1951-52: six weeks; 1952-53: none; 1953-54 two and a half weeks. In earlier days, two to three months of ice was the rule rather than the exception.) Consequently, the Summerland Rink Association is presenting a plan to the ratepayers of Summerland whereby the community may be equipped with facilities to guarantee covered ice for up to five months during the cold part of each year.

COST OF PROJECT
It is proposed that the municipality of Summerland purchase the Summerland rink, as is, for the sum of $24,000, and for the additional sum of $38,000 equip it with ice-making machinery piping, extra seating and a small machinery annex. Total investment: $62,000.

VALUE OF COMPLETED RINK
Vernon, Kelowna and Penticton operate artificial ice arenas worth from $200,000 to $300,000—and the Vernon rink was built in the depression years of the '30's when the population of the town was little more than 50 per cent greater than that of Summerland today.

In addition, these communities have curling rinks housed in separate buildings and valued at from $50,000 to $75,000. There is little doubt, that the completed Summerland rink would represent value in excess of $75,000.

It would seem quite as feasible for Summerland to carry an investment of $62,000 as for the other communities to carry investment perhaps five times as great. Apart from that, senior (professional) hockey represent a most expensive side issue in the other towns, i.e. upwards of $75,000 per year. There would be no salaries for hockey players in Summerland, hence no out-of-town financial drain.

DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION OF BUILDING
The Summerland rink was built after a design found to be satisfactory at Cranbrook, B.C. It emphasized low cost, sturdy construction and no frills. Incidentally, in this province, Fernie and Duncan, as well as Cranbrook, successfully operate artificial ice arenas and have populations similar to that of Summerland.

The design of the structure had the approval of a registered architect.
Since the structure is built on a very heavy concrete base, and since it is entirely protected by aluminum sheeting, depreciation is at a minimum. Depreciation on ice machinery would, of course, be greater than on the building.

SITE OF RINK
The lot on which the rink was erected measures 320 feet by 160 feet. It was purchased for $1,800.

ADVANTAGES OF MUNICIPAL MANAGEMENT
The present Rink association is supported by 192 bond holders with $23,461 in paid-up bonds. It is the duty of the management to make sufficient money from operation of the rink to pay interest on the bonds and set aside funds with which, eventually, to redeem them. Thus making money is a prime need for the successful operation of the rink. That is not the best basis for the operation of recreational facilities for our young people. It should be kept in mind that the Summerland Curling Club is an organization apart. It is and will be operated as an independent body. The Curling club pays $800 annually on a 20-year lease for space in the rink.

Under municipal control—presumably the rink would be operated by a rink board similar to the present parks board—there would be no danger of (a) using the ice only for activities showing greatest profit; (b) operating the skating rink during hours when it should be closed, e.g. late at night or on Sunday mornings; (c) allowing poor behavior on rink premises for fear of driving away customers; (d) allowing any particular age groups more than their fair share of ice time; (e) allowing hockey clubs, local or outside, to use the ice when it should be available to the general public.

Finally, with public recreation becoming more and more a public responsibility, financial support of the rink in a community of this size, should be broader than 192 bondholders.

COST TO THE TAXPAYERS
If the rink were financed and operated entirely at the ratepayers' expense, the proposed levy of $62,000 would, at present assessment, raise the tax rate by two mills for 20 years. That would mean six dollars additional on a $150 taxation

Little Interest On Election Front

With nomination day only a week away, there have been no reports yet of any hats in the ring to contest council seats of Councillors H. J. Barkwill and J. R. Butler, other than those of the two incumbents.

For the school board, there are still not enough entries to match the number of seats open. Ross McLachlan this week announced he will definitely not be a candidate for a further term because of the pressure of other duties. Board Chairman J. Y. Towgood previously announced he will not stand again this year. Term of Frank Maddock also expires and he has indicated willingness to stand for another term. W. C. McCutcheon has stated he is willing to accept nomination for the school board. This leaves one vacancy without a claimant.

Two terms expire on the parks board, those of Chairman W. Snow and George Woitte. Both have expressed willingness to stand for a further term.

Apple Marketing Behind Last Year

Movement of B.C. apples was slow on most markets during the past week with a variety of adverse influences responsible for the slow down. Indications are, however, that the conditions are, in most cases, temporary and some break can be foreseen.

While shipments to Western Canada are less than last year, Tree Fruits reports, this may be partially explained by the fact that last year the wholesalers in two of the larger markets cold stored considerable quantities of apples at destination for later use while this year they are buying only for their current requirements. Thus while last year's shipments were heavier up to this time, much of the fruit shipped by this date was not actually consumed until considerably later in the season. For this reason, hopes are expressed that as the season progresses at least part of the surplus will be made up.

However, there is no denying that general economic conditions in the prairie provinces are not as good as they were last year, due to the light crop of low grade wheat and these conditions are being felt in the sales of apples as well as other commodities.

While shipments of Delicious and Rome to eastern Canada are about normal, McIntosh sales are still very slow due to supplies of local apples in the eastern producing areas.

During the past week, f.o.b. prices in the State of Washington on Delicious and Red Delicious continued firm to slightly easier. The eastern U.S. stocks of delicious and Red Delicious are becoming depleted and a better demand for western boxed Delicious should develop. Other varieties, however, are still in heavy supply in eastern markets and will be available until well into the new year. Heavy supplies from New England are keeping B.C. McIntosh out of the terminal markets on the eastern United States seaboard and no improvement in this marketing situation is anticipated in the immediate future.

Prepare for Second Christmas Concert

There is lots of activity in the musical circles around the Junior-Senior High School these days as they busily prepare for the 2nd Annual High School Band Christmas Concert which will take place on Tuesday, Dec. 14 at 8:00 p.m. in the High School Auditorium.

On the program will be the High School Senior Band of 85 members the newly formed High School Junior Band of 50 members, a newly formed dance band group and a 100 voice choir which will present a tabloid with music of the nativity scene.

Tickets may be obtained by any members of the band for 75c and will be on sale next week.

Successful Year Reported

Summerland Athletic Club chose Dave Hurn as president, reported a successful year and laid plans for the coming season at the annual meeting held Nov. 16.

Included in the accomplishment of the club during the past year were the organization of a table tennis club within the association, $385 of principle on "A" debentures paid off, reducing holdings to a maximum of $20 per debenture holder, debenture interest paid to date, and application of aluminum sheeting to the west half of the roof.

Hopes were expressed that the tennis club might be revived during the coming year and George Fudge

Ratepayers Meeting

Elected Officials Report On Year's Civic Affairs

About 200 people last night turned out for the largest ratepayers' meeting in Summerland in many years and heard from reeve, councillor, and chairman of parks and school boards, an account of the operation of public business during the past year.

Councillor H. R. J. Richards reported on irrigation and domestic water, health unit, library and presented report of Councillor Francis Steuart, who was absent, on roads. Councillor J. R. Butler reported on the electrical department and Councillor H. J. Barkwill touched on finance, real estate, zoning and volunteer fire department. Reeve F. E. Atkinson referred to several matters of council business not covered in the councillors' reports while Chairman J. Y. Towgood spoke for the school board and Chairman W. G. Snow for the Parks Board.

WATER
Speaking on the subject of domestic water supply, Councillor Richards said a big job ahead is the provision of water for Trout Creek resident. One system which has been under consideration, he said, was to pump water from the lake during the hot months and supply users with a two inch line from the domestic line during the rest of the year. This service will cost, he said, an estimated $50 per user if 100 users go in on the plan. He said only 10 residents of the area so far have completed forms for water on that basis.

W. G. Snow queried the councillor on the taste of water this summer which was caused by the action of chlorine on vegetation in the water and asked if the water could in some way be screened to eliminate the vegetation. Reeve Atkinson commented that he had noticed the unpleasant taste usually each fall but this year he had not detected it. He asked for a show of hands by those who noted an unpleasant taste to water and about half dozen responded.

Speaking on irrigation, Councillor Richards said the "big beef" of the irrigation department was growers turning sprinklers on or off without notifying the ditchman. He said 24 hours notice must be given the ditchman before turning sprinklers on or off and warned that offenders henceforth would be called before the council.

All irrigation dams are in good shape, he said, a section of the south main was rebuilt and a screening box was installed at the end of the north main. The big item of the year was the installation of the Jones Flat pressure system and this he said is working satisfactorily with only a few problems at the outset.

He told of an arrangement with the provincial department of public works whereby they were able to reduce some of the work on the new road by installing an irrigation pipe from east of the Occidental to Barkwills and eliminate flumes along Peach Orchard. The municipality profited by having the new pipeline at no cost out of arrangement.

He referred to the great loss to the department through the death of the former water foreman, Ace Kercher. He spoke also of new equipment obtained this year by the department and commented that only with modern equipment is it possible to maintain efficiency of the department and hold the line on costs.

Replying to a question by John Caldwell about sand in the water delivered to the Front Bench, the speaker said plans have been made to install a box behind the Anglican church to collect sand and this will be dumped every day.

POWER
Councillor Butler told of the steadily increasing demand for electrical power in this district and noted an increase of over 600,000 this year over last.

Services of an electrical engineer were employed, he said to survey the system here and he reported it to be generally in good condition. An addition was built to the switching station and two new cubicles added this year at a cost of

Funeral Rites Here For Jacob Felker

Funeral services were held from St. John's Lutheran Church on Tuesday for Jacob Felker, a former Summerland resident, who was fatally stricken suddenly last Wednesday while on a hunting trip.

Death occurred at Barrero, about 40 miles north of Kamloops. He became separated from friends with whom he was hunting and was dead, presumably from exhaustion, when found by a search party.

He was 44 years of age and had been in ill health before starting on the trip.

Mr. Felker operated an orchard in Garnet Valley until two years ago.

He is survived by his wife, one son Victor, one daughter, Joan, at Barrero, and a brother, Adam, in Summerland.

Rev. L. A. Gavert officiated at the services and committal was in Poach Orchard cemetery.

Summerland Funeral Home was in charge of final arrangements.

Blood Donations Fail Objective

Summerland blood donor clinic Tuesday afternoon fell short of its objective of 300 when 264 registered at St. Andrew's Church hall to offer blood for the Red Cross blood bank. The number accepted exceeded 250.

Chairman of the drive sponsored by Klwanis Club, J. Y. Towgood, expressed a measure of disappointment that a larger number did not turn out for the clinic but noted the number at least exceeded last year's attendance.

Ladies assisting at the afternoon and evening clinic were Miss Marion Cartwright, Mrs. Florence Stark, Mrs. H. Whitaker, Mrs. G. Chadburn, Mrs. J. Y. Towgood, Mrs. I. H. Solly, Mrs. A. G. Bissett, Mrs. F. Doumont, Mrs. S. W. Feltham, Mrs. R. H. Bleasdale, Mrs. C. J. Bleasdale, Mrs. C. F. M. Guernsey, Mrs. A. K. Macleod, Mrs. T. E. Lot, Mrs. A. J. McKenzie, Mrs. H. R. J. Richards, Mrs. W. G. Hack and Mrs. R. Russel.

Services Friday For J. Derosier

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 Friday morning for Joseph Derosier of West Summerland, who passed away on Tuesday, Nov. 24 in the Summerland General Hospital. Services will be from Holy Child Church.

Mr. Derosier was 77 years of age and has lived in Summerland for the past five years. Before that he lived in Armstrong for seven years. Prior to moving to British Columbia, he farmed at Fort MacLeod, Alta.

He was born in Louisville, P.Q. Surviving him are his wife, Rose, four sons, Louis, Roy and Donald of West Summerland and Clarence of Fort MacLeod; four daughters, Mrs. John West, Alameda, Calif., Mrs. Norman Nelson, Anchorage, Alaska, Mrs. Fred Clarke, West Summerland and Mrs. Allan Weaver, Fort MacLeod; three brothers and a sister in Minnesota, a sister in Yakama, 16 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Former Review Home Victim of Wreckers

A West Summerland landmark disappeared from the scene when wreckers made quick work of demolishing the building on Granville Street formerly occupied by The Summerland Review.

The frame building was one of the oldest in the West Summerland business district. Built originally as a bank, over the years it was occupied since by a hairdresser, religious group, butcher shop, photographer, sewing rooms and served for a time as a residence. It housed The Review from the time it was started in 1946 until a few months ago.

Owner of the building, Harry Braddick, earlier stated he intended to demolish the building and erect a modern store with office on a second floor but this week he was mum on his plans for the site. "It's a military secret" was the only answer an enquiry drew from him.

Cleared of Blame In Woman's Death

Daryl Woltz of Summerland last week was cleared by a coroner jury of any blame in the death of Mrs. Cecile Ford in Penticton on Nov. 2.

On Oct. 29, the 85-year-old woman was knocked down by the car driven by Woltz when she stepped in front of it. The accident occurred about 8 p.m. and the victim was wearing dark clothing.

Mrs. Ford suffered a broken hip and the inquest jury reported death due to pneumonia which she contracted in hospital following the accident.

He mentioned growth of the three libraries in the district located at

Let's Have Sport . . . winning is not the ultimate

ALMOST loud enough to be heard in Summerland has been the clamor in Penticton during the past week over observations made by a sports reporter about one of the Vee's. It is not our intention to express an opinion on the controversy, having neither seen the game in question nor heard the radio broadcast, but we do believe this incident helps to point up the low estate into which sport has fallen.

While we cling to a definition of sport as being recreation designed to build healthy bodies and healthy minds, we have watched it steadily decline to a state where winning has become the most important feature of any game.

It's nice to be on the winning team, that we make no effort to deny. Nor do we deny that every player should do his utmost to win. But we do not believe that winning should be the be all, end all of sport.

The dictionary defines "sportsman" as being "one who exhibits qualities especially esteemed in those who engage in sports, such as fairness and self-control." In mighty few games today can these qualities be found. They have long since been replaced by a determination to win and the Devil take the hindmost.

Soviet Capitalism . . . no fuzzy thinking in moscow

THOSE who wonder why Soviet Union seldom attacks socialist parties in other countries, treats people like British Labor party leader Clement Attlee and other socialists as honored guests yet refuses to tolerate socialism in domestic politics, need to be reminded that realism takes precedence over fuzzy-minded idealism in minds of Moscow rulers.

Truth is that Soviet Union and the United States both practice capitalism. In Soviet Union, it is police state type of capitalism, in United States free capitalism.

Russian leaders understand that without capitalism there can be no material progress, without which Soviet Union would lack strength to pursue

Amateurs have practically disappeared from the sports scene. The name continues to live because promoters will always be able to figure out ways to pay professional salaries to amateurs so they can build a winning team. And under the accepted rules today, anything you can get away with is fair game.

And under these rules, sports fail to perform the functions expected of it.

Last week a man was telling us of a smart play executed by his son while playing first base for his baseball team. It was a close play and the youth dropped the ball as the runner came into base. However, he had his back to the base umpire and managed to scoop the ball of the ground and conceal the fact that it had been dropped and the runner was called out. Father's pride in his son's smart manoeuvre was punctured by his wife who expressed shock that the boy didn't tell the umpire he had dropped the ball. It suddenly came home to the father that instead of sport teaching his son the principles of honor and fair play, it was instead schooling him in sneaky deceptions and the principle that anything's fair if you don't get caught.

And sports will not again provide their proper function until we grow to recognize that losing with honor and sportsmanship is preferable to winning with dishonor.

Look For Causes . . . no gain in treating effects

DISPOSITION of modern governments to treat symptoms rather than causes is illustrated by report that $371 million will be allocated in next year's French national budget for public housing. In addition, about $25.7 million will be paid in subsidies to private contractors to build apartments for rent rather than for sale, as is the current tendency.

Announced purpose is to alleviate France's housing shortage, which Premier Mendes-France correctly terms one of its prime economic and social problems.

But subsidized housing does not go to the root of that problem. The shortage is caused by rent control, foolishly maintained by France for the last her imperialist ambitions. American people understand equally well that without capitalism there could be no material progress, no adequate economic strength to raise living standards and at same time provide sufficient defence to deter Soviet aggression. In US, progress-by-capitalism is voluntary. In USSR it is compulsory. If Soviet Union were socialist, with emphasis on "re-distribution" of wealth, economy would quickly stagnate and ability to pursue imperialistic aggression would be greatly lessened. If US were socialist, same economic stagnation would occur, and Western security would be immeasurably weakened.

Encouragement of socialism in free countries of the West is, therefore, a powerful weapon in Soviet Union's propaganda arsenal.

forty years. Result is that most tenants spend only a tiny fraction of their income on rent, and many occupy far more space than they need. Landlords are not able to keep their properties in repair, still less able to build new ones.

By dropping controls, France could obtain efficient use of such rental housing as is available. It would then know how much more is really necessary. At the same time, private owners would be encouraged to build for rent.

Fact, largely forgotten in France and other countries, is that the provision of rental housing is a business like any other. Private capital will provide the right kind, at the right price, if it is left free to do so.

A Sound Policy To Follow
 "No peddling or soliciting without a permit" is the wording on a sign along the highway leading into the town we passed through on a recent trip. It is a sign that a few more organized villages, towns or cities should have erected. A sign of that nature could be a very worthwhile project for the newly organized Osoyoos Retail Merchants Association. It would serve a highly useful purpose not for only the established local merchant, but also be equally beneficial to the residents of the village.

It would tend to discourage the house-to-house calls made by the transient trade — particularly the fly-by-night type who just intends to call once and never to return to the same locality (often for very good reasons too). The transient trader doing a legitimate and sound business will thus see before he goes ringing door bells that he is required to take out a traders licence. The established merchants are paying licences therefore there is no reason in the world why a non-resident should not.

Having these transients licenced is a protection to the person dealing with them. It quite often happens that a person making a purchase or signing some contract wishes to contact the transient trader, and if the chap is properly licenced it would facilitate this. The home owners can co-operate and also protect themselves by asking to see the trade licence. The honest chap should be glad to show his permit to do business in the village — the wrong type won't have the permit and that's fine, you don't want to do business with such a character, anyway.—Osoyoos Times.

U.S. Farm Price Support May Alter Tariff Picture

An exceedingly dangerous assumption, it seems to us, is rather widely held in Canada that the results of the recent U.S. elections will be favorable to this country's farm exports.

It is quite true that over the long term of years since U.S. tariff barriers first became a real issue, in the reciprocity election of 1911, Canada generally has fared better when the Democrats were in power. Most of this treatment was negative in that the Democrats simply didn't add to the walls and in some special cases actually lowered them; whereas the Republicans built up the already towering structure.

A new factor has entered the picture, however, one which could well alter the whole situation. One of the bitter issues in the election was the farm price support program. Under the President, the last Congress moved towards a flexible system of supports while the Democrats sought to prove themselves the farmer's saviours and bitterly opposed removal of the rigid structure under which farmers were actually bonused to produce crops already in surplus. Result of the election was a practical statement, a situation which in any government in any nation makes for halting progress at the best. Add to this the great campaign for the presidency in only two years and the results would seem to engender little hope for any relatively swift progress in the U.S. against the tariff mountain.—Vernon News.

UNEMPLOYMENT?

In a speech which he gave at Cloverdale, Mr. Harold Winch, C.C.F. M.P. for Vancouver, East, deplored the unemployment situation which he said was double that of a year ago, and of course, like many others who are 'agin' the government, he thinks the Federal and Provincial governments should "do something about it", and some of them even suggest that some large work schemes of creating employment should be undertaken.

A great many Canadian people have become rather immune against all this unemployment talk. When Labor Union executives decide to call a strike the advice of the government is not considered. Why should the people of Canada, through their government, be "the rich uncle" to every group of individuals who decide to call a wild cat strike. Canadian labor is fast pricing themselves out of national and international markets. That is one of the causes for unemployment, and the sooner rank and file members of labor organizations recognize this, and do something about it, the better it will be for themselves.

In the recent bakery strike the union workers are reported to have lost $300,000 in wages, but the union came through with more money that it started out with. The workers might ask how come?

There is little or no incentive these days for industrialists to invest money in expansion only to have such expansion dominated by labor union officials. If organized Canadian workers ever hope to maintain any semblance of full employment they will have to take more interest in their own administrative affairs, with a view to more production, and less demands for more pay, in order to place Canadian industry in a more favorable competitive position, and to encourage industrial expansion.

Carpenters and others of the building and construction trades are very much perturbed about anticipated unemployment, but they apparently have a very short memory. During the past summer when work was available some large jobs at the Coast were at a standstill due to strike action.—Langley Advance.

Freedom
 I had a hot argument with a businessman the other day. He said to me, "I'm afraid that freedom is going down the drain. My own children think the idea is old-fashioned. It's a trend and there's no use fighting it. I'm afraid people will have to lose freedom entirely before they value it."

That is a defeatist attitude if I ever saw one. When I told the businessman that I thought he should have more spunk, and put up a better fight, he said, "Oh, the best we can do is fight a rear guard action. I suppose we have to do that—but it seems pretty futile to me."

I don't believe it. We have, in Canada today, several thousand immigrants who have come fresh from lands which let freedom go. I have heard several of these individuals tell, in their broken English, how horrible it is to live in a so-called welfare state where every move is managed by the government. They do not speak the best of English, but they are eloquent enough to persuade any one above the level of a moron that the free life is the only good life.

In my opinion, one of these persons should be on the radio and television every day of the week giving us their first-hand stories of how freedom can be lost and what it means to lose it. I cannot for the life of me understand why our government radio and television fails to give these people a voice. The excuse is made that they speak only indifferent English. Who cares? We have had enough of the pear-shaped tones of some of CBC crack-pot commentators. Surely our government, committed as it is, to freedom of enterprise, can find time on the air to let these new citizens tell us the truth about what goes on back of the iron curtain. It would be a good deal more exciting than listening to "A is for Aadvark;" or watching, night after dismal night, the same tribe of so-called classic dancers cavorting on the screen at our expense!

Freedom need not go down the drain. Our children are not so dumb that they cannot learn. We have the facilities in this country to tell them what freedom is all about. Let us find out why those facilities are not being used!

Mid-Week Message

Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee: In the names of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk. (Acts 3:6.)
 Read Acts 3:1-8.

India's poet Tagore tells of a beggar who one day saw his king's chariot approaching. He stood with hand outstretched to ask alms. The chariot stopped. The king stepped down and walked toward the beggar; the beggar's hand was outstretched, not to give but to receive. The beggar, amazed, let the grain in his pouch pass through his fingers until a single grain remained. Then he gave to his king.

At eventide, before the fire, the beggar emptied the grains to make his evening meal. The last grain from his pouch was heavy—it was a single grain of gold! "Would that I had given the king all my grain," bemoaned the beggar, "for then all my grain would have become grains of gold!"

We need not be beggars asking alms of God. Better it is for us to be more concerned to ask what God wills than to beg Him for what we want. We become enriched by what we give to God; for that becomes the gold of helpfulness for others, enduring wealth for ourselves.

PRAYER

Teach us, O Lord, that we but lose that which we selfishly spend on ourselves. Help us to gather the eternal riches by surrendering ourselves and our possessions to Thee. Use us and them for our Master's sake. Amen.

An old man from the hill country took his first trip to a large city. Walking into one of the sycrapers he saw a doorman standing by a special kind of door. An old woman stepped in, a light flashed red, and she was gone. A few seconds later the elevator descended, the door opened, and a beautiful young lady stepped out.

"Begorra," said the old man, blinking his eyes, "I should have brought the old lady with me."

A young man stared into a mirror one morning and, noting his bloodshot eyes, resolved never to go into a bar again. "That television," he muttered, "is ruining my eyes."

NO HOLD-UP—
 Lady (to tramp): "If you're begging a favor you might at least take your hands out of your pockets."
 Tramp: Well, the truth is, lady, I'm bogging a pair of suspenders."

Every wife ought to know if she henpecks her husband she's likely to find him listening to some other chick.

GOOD ANSWER—
 Mrs. (to colored maid): "Lizzie, do you and your husband quarrel as much as you used to?"
 Lizzie: "No indeed, Ma'am."
 Mrs.: "What made you stop, Lizzie?"
 Lizzie: "Well, Ma'am, he died!"

Ranger News

The 3rd meeting of the year was held on Thursday, Nov. 19th, in the kitchen of the Youth Centre. During the meeting we discussed the possibility of bringing up new Rangers from the Senior patrol of the Guides.

The Rangers ties have been sent away for. Lanyards and whistles for those who do not have them will be ordered as soon as they are paid for. Fees are due for November.

Next Saturday, Nov. 27th, Isabel and Carol will visit Mountain View Home.

At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Elliott and Miss Holley showed us the material for making flowers that was sent for at the last meeting. We got started on the flowers which we plan to sell later in the year.

Refreshments were served by Isabel and Carol. Marie and Carol C will be in charge of this next week.

On Sunday, Nov. 21st, a church parade was held with the Rangers and Guides attending the Baptist Church. Marie Gronlund was the flag bearer, with Carol Cornish and Isabel Reinertson as her escorts.

Clever Cooking . . .

Quite a number of food dishes are described in their native tongue. You know how often you find items printed in French on restaurant and hotel menus, yet, and in cook books too. And by the same token you would find such items as Plum Pudding, Mincemeat, Welsh Rarebit, Porridge, Irish Stew and Yorkshire Pudding on French menus and in French cook books. Here are a few French expressions which we perhaps come across most frequently and which perhaps may confuse some of us a little.

A la mode: literally translated means "following the fashion" but in cookery this expression applies to two different types of dishes: 1) Boeuf la mode—means beef braised with vegetables; (2) Dessert, usually pie served with a scoop of ice cream.

No one will deny that freshly baked apple pie a la mode is one of our most popular Canadian desserts.

Saute: to fry quickly in a small amount of fat such foods as meat, fish, chicken, some vegetables and fruits.

Sauteed onions with calf or baby beef liver and sauteed apples with sausages are both delicious.

Au gratin: means covered with bread crumbs or grated cheese or a mixture of both cheese and crumbs or with a cheese sauce, then browned in the oven or under the broiler.

Macaroni au gratin and potatoes au gratin are both real cold weather favorites.

Boeuf au jus: roast beef served with the natural gravy from the roast; it is not thickened.

What could be better than good quality beef roasted at low temperature and served "au jus".

Puree: a thick smooth mixture of cooked vegetables or fruits which have been put through a sieve.

The makings of many a bowl of piping hot soup—a vegetable puree and a well seasoned thin cream sauce.

Bouquet garni: two or three sprigs of parsley, a small bay leaf and a pinch of thyme tied together with string or tied in a cheese cloth bag and cooked with the dish it is to season.

Very often added to stews—makes an especially good seasoning for lamb stew.

Lyonnaise potatoes: fried until browned with chopped onions.

Persillade potatoes: small white potatoes covered with chopped parsley or mashed potatoes with chopped parsley added to them.

Rissoles potatoes: cooked and served with a thin cream sauce.

Potatoes like to be served different ways, and the family will like them too.

Beurre noir: butter heated until it is well browned and mixed with vinegar which has been boiled to concentrate it to half the original amount.

Usually served with steamed meats and fish.

Beurre (butter) maitre d' hotel: a mixture of 1/4 cup of butter well creamed to which is added 1 tablespoon of minced parsley and finally 1 tablespoon of lemon juice with salt and pepper to taste is worked into the butter.

Chill and serve cold with broiled meat.

A la meuniere: to serve "a la meuniere" pour over the dish a few drops of lemon juice, sprinkle generously with chopped parsley and pour piping hot browned butter over all.

Usually used on fish.

Souffle: This name usually applies to a dessert although there are also fish, meat, poultry, cheese and vegetable souffles. The basic foundation of a souffle is a very thick cream sauce (sweetened or unsweetened) in which egg yolks are thoroughly mixed. The lightness depends on the addition of beaten egg whites gently folded into the mixture.

Bouchees: Tiny patty shells or cream puffs filled with a mixture of meat or fish. Make delectable appetizers.

Petits fours: very small pieces of cake cut in fancy shapes and covered with a fondant icing often colored and decorated.

Dainty little cakes to serve on special occasions such as wedding receptions and trousseau teas.

Chiffon: refers to very light pies or cakes, made light by the addition of egg white folded into the batter.

Cakes and pies of this type are very popular today.

NEW ARRIVALS

Dr. and Mrs. D. V. Fisher are parents of a baby boy, Alan Guy, born in Summerland General Hospital on Tuesday, November 23rd.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Tony Minardi in Summerland General Hospital on Wednesday, November 24th.

Young Charles Cornelius can't quite understand why it is that he is living in a strange place and none of his familiar playmates are around. He is one of hundreds of children rendered homeless by the Southern Ontario floods who are being housed in churches and private homes. The Hurricane Relief fund, with headquarters in Toronto, has collected over $2,000,000 for victims such as Charles and his parents, who lost their home and all their household possessions in Etobicoke, but even that sum does not come close to rendering aid to all the sufferers of the flood.

Former Missionary Speaks...

St. Andrew's Women's Federation Hears of Life, Customs in India

A missionary in India for 13 years, Mrs. H. M. Irwin of Enderby, last Thursday afternoon was guest speaker at the Thanksgiving meeting of St. Andrew's Federation, and gave an entertaining and educational talk on the life and customs of women in India.

Noting the session was the annual Thanksgiving meeting, Mrs. Irwin stated women of the western world should not have one Thanksgiving day a year but rather should give thanks every day for the privilege of living where women enjoy freedom from the bondage of ancient superstitions and customs. In India, she said, only women who have had the advantage of Christian education are able to free themselves from the old unwholesome customs. Unfortunately, she went on, many of these after marriage are forced to conform to the old pattern of home life as it has been lived for generations.

Mrs. Irwin described the poor village women as being, in many respects, much less to be pitied than the wealthy women with money and servants. The peasant women go to the fields to help their husbands, their faces unveiled but wives of the wealthy must spend a lifetime with their faces veiled and behind curtains with absolutely nothing to do.

The speaker gave an amusing and graphic description of an Indian wedding with the party of feasting, dancing and gaieties lasting several days.

She told of the improvement in the literacy of the people and of the pitiful lack of suitable reading material. Magazines, fiction stories and light reading, available here in such an abundance, is non-existent in that country. The Communists, she said, are taking good advantage of this and are flooding the country with their pamphlets and literature.

Appreciation of the membership was expressed to the speaker by Mrs. S. A. MacDonald.

During the business session, Mrs. Wm. Jenkinson, Mrs. J. Dunsdon and Mrs. V. Charles, were appointed as a nominating committee to propose a slate of officers for the coming year.

A letter was read from Miss Richardson, superintendent of the United Church Home for Girls at Burnaby, expressing appreciation for a parcel sent to her.

Mrs. C. E. McCutcheon reported two quilts and packaged baby food ready to be forwarded to Korea and another quilt to be sent to the Christian Leadership Training School at Naramata.

Devotional portion of the program was taken by Mrs. G. Harver, Mrs. H. B. Mair, Mrs. T. A. Walden and Mrs. J. W. Clark.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. G. Woitte, Mrs. V. Charles and Mrs. S. A. MacDonald.

VISITING HERE

W. W. Packman, chief of the administration division, Science Service, Ottawa, has been visiting the labs at the Experimental station.

Dr. J. M. Wilks of the Plant Pathology Lab in Creston is spending two months at headquarters here.

Wally Day of Vancouver spent the week-end with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Day.

Visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. J. Richards, last week-end was Norman Richards of Vancouver.

Dr. L. A. Patterson, Dr. S. Grauer and Frank Guerard all of Vancouver, stayed at the home of F. R. Garret, last week-end while on a hunting trip in this area.

VISITING ABROAD

Mrs. M. F. Daniels left for Ireland on Monday for a six months visit with relations.

The Mystery Men who do you favours

There are millions of them all over the country. You pass them every day in the street without realizing who they are and how much they help you. In fact, even they don't usually know that they're doing anything important for all their fellow-citizens.

Yet, together, they pour more than 200 million dollars every year into a wide variety of projects that promote progress. They may help build new homes and schools, or roads, bridges and other public works.

Are all these people rich? Far from it! They are people in all walks of life, who are life insurance policyholders! And the money they lend for these purposes comes from their life insurance premiums. This money, invested by their life insurance companies, helps finance many projects that benefit one and all.

And they're helpful citizens in another way. Because they own life insurance, their families will never be completely dependent on others. So if you are a life insurance policyholder, remember - in all these ways you're helping to make Canada a better land to live in!

P.S. FROM YOUR LIFE INSURANCE MAN - "All these investments earn interest that makes it possible for you and your family to enjoy the benefits of life insurance at such low cost. If you have any questions about how to make life insurance fit your own special needs, give me a call. I'll be glad to help you!"

Trout Creek, Summerland and West Summerland. Circulation has been growing with average at Trout Creek now 150 books per month, at Summerland 300 and at West Summerland 1,600. He paid tribute to the librarians at each centre and expressed appreciation to the Rangers for the excellent job of painting and decorating the West Summerland library.

GENERAL

Reeve Atkinson touched on several subjects including the new road through Summerland and negotiations with the province for repair of roads which will receive exceptional because of detours, the liquor plebiscite, civil defence, school transportation, assessment equalization and hospital financing. Regarding the latter, he said hospital now needs $11,600 for repairs and alterations. Of this amount, he said, the provincial government will provide one-third, leaving the municipal share $7,500. Consideration is being given to raising this amount with $5,000 from the electric light reserve and one mill on the tax rate for the balance.

SCHOOLS

Board chairman Towgood told the meeting the two schools now have a record enrollment with 364 at the junior-senior high school and 518 in MacDonald school. An extra room and extra teacher added at MacDonald School this year and two rooms are now being operated in the basement. Mr. Towgood suggested expansion of this school would be necessary before much longer. Another teacher was also added to the high school and he is engaged part time in instruction of industrial arts.

Increase in salary costs was pointed up by the speaker who compared the 1948 salary budget of $47,000 with the present one of $113,000. He commented also on the new transportation proposals of the provincial government by which the provincial grant of 60 per cent of cost will only be paid when transportation for elementary school children have more than two and one half miles from school and for high school pupils more than three miles. The local board has protested these limitations on the basis of the terrain here and Mr. Towgood said the government has given assurance that there is a certain flexibility to the regulations and local conditions will be taken into consideration before any grants are stopped.

Parks Board Chairman Snow reported curbing on children's play area at Powell Beach completed, slide erected and parking buttons installed to regulate parking. At the cemetery a new area was planned and constructed. Maintenance and repair work carried out at Peach Orchard Park, Athletic field and park playground. A park area along the lakeshore was studied but decision held off until the new highway is completed.

over a quarter-of-a-million!

- We know that it costs plenty to build these days... in fact, over the past several years your Telephone Company has spent more than a quarter-of-a-million dollars ($260,147.62, to be exact), on housing... housing, in the form of fifteen new telephone exchange buildings, varying in size from a hundred to several thousand square feet in area... buildings, in which we have installed intricate automatic exchange equipment, Long Distance switchboards, toll line 'carriers' and radio-telephone equipment... housing has been one of the major items in our planning for better telephone service throughout our system.
- In fact, right now your Telephone Company has further planning in progress — the conversion of our Enderby and Revelstoke exchanges to automatic telephone service — to be completed before the end of 1956, at an estimated cost of over 150,000 dollars... Here again the erection of two new exchange buildings to house dial equipment forms a large part of the planning we have in progress — with Progress in mind.

Hunting and Fishing News

FISHING
Okanagan Lake has been pretty good for trolling this last week for the odd fisherman that has tried it. Biggest fish was a 3 1/2 pounder. Trolling close to the shore has been best and not deep. White fishing is in full swing again and large catches are being made every day.

HUNTING
Ducks and Geese: A few reports show that quite a few mallards are around now, but very few geese.

Deer: The deer seem to be scattered right now. They are rutting and deer are found at all elevations even into the town itself. Quite a few deer have been killed and on Baldy alone last week-end nine bucks were taken. Any of the regular places should be O.K. this week. There is no snow on the low elevations and some on the top of Baldy and Kathleen.

I would like to remark on the doe season which opened Wednesday Nov. 24 in this district. I would also like to warn hunters to check their maps and remember that South Okanagan is open but not Similkameen. With the season open on both does and bucks, I hope that we have no hunting accidents. Don't shoot unless you know what you are shooting at. Sound shots are murder, it could be another hunter.

School Cagers In Three Wins

Summerland High School cagers led the way in three matches over the week-end when the championship girls entry, the Rockettes won 24-17 over Keremeos on Friday night and then topped Oliver Hornettes 29-18. Friday night, the senior boys made the trip to Keremeos and picked up a 45-37 victory of the Similkameen school entry.

In the Friday night game, the Rockettes took the lead from the outset of the game and only briefly during the second period did they relinquish it but were quickly back in command and were not seriously threatened during the remainder of the game.

Saturday night, the local girls saw the visitors push into a 6-4 lead in the first period but by the time the curtain rang down on the second period, the Rockettes had a comfortable 15-8 margin which they lengthened to 23-12 in the third and six points for each team in the final frame left the score at 29-18.

Boys found the going rougher and first period saw Summerland with a single point advantage with the score at 11-10 going into the second period. By half time, Keremeos had picked up the lost ground and the match was even 20-20. Third period saw the locals push ahead 33-26 and in the final stanza they gained a one-point advantage in scoring to finish the game at 45-37.

The 12 points scored for Summerland in the fourth period were all accounted for by Al Davis who scored a total of 16 points in the game to claim honors as top scorer.

Plan Busy Season For Badminton Club

Dave Hurn was named president of the Summerland Badminton Club at a well-attended meeting in the hall on Tuesday, Nov. 23. Other officers are Steve Dunsdon, vice-president; Mrs. Joan Eddie, secretary-treasurer; Reg Smith, tournament chairman and Miss Dorothy Britton, refreshment convener. Members heard an enthusiastic discussion of plans for the coming season and, as in former years, there will be inter-club matches and home tournaments. Wednesday nights will again this year be set aside for juniors. The club still has room for new members and the welcome mat is out for old, new or would-be players or spectators.

Summerland Out Of New League Because of Ice

Lack of artificial ice ruled Summerland out of the Okanagan Hockey league which was formed Sunday at a meeting in Vernon and Summerland players will have to look for place on the Penticton team to participate in the new loop.

George Stoll represented Summerland at the meeting but was unable to get the team representatives to include Summerland with no guarantee there would be natural ice available for scheduled games. Unpredictability of the weather would throw the schedule into confusion with postponed games, it was felt, and the Summerland entry was ruled out. Participating in the new league will be teams representing Vernon, Kelowna, Kamloops and Penticton.

Another meeting will be held in Vernon on Dec. 5 for an election and to draw up a schedule for the season.

Getting down to Brass Tacks...

I wish I had a dollar for every time someone asked what we bankers do with the money we hold on deposit. Actually, it's quite a simple question to answer—there's no mystery attached to it.

The money that the B of M has on deposit is kept at work, because—except for the reserves—no dollar is allowed to lie idle. It is either loaned to individuals and enterprises or is invested in Canada's future.

Without adequate financial resources, expansion and progress of most Canadian businesses would be impossible. And, it is the Bank's job to supply a good part of these resources in the form of loans and investments. Quite simply then, it is your money that turns the wheels of enterprise—your savings that contribute so largely to Canada's progress.

Getting down to brass tacks, let's see the facts behind the figures in the B of M's 1954 annual report:

THE MONEY YOU DEPOSIT:

At the end of the Bank's year, October 31st, 1954, you and two million other Canadians had $2,365,669,857 in deposits with the B of M—the highest on record. Although much of this money belongs to institutions and business firms, well over half of these deposits represent the savings of everyday Canadians—savings that, day by day, are working for you... and for Canada.

THE MONEY WE LEND:

Your savings are playing an important role in our expanding economy in the form of loans to Canadians of every calling—farmers, miners, fishermen, oil men, lumbermen, ranchers—to industrial and business enterprises and to Provincial and Municipal Governments.

As of October 31st, B of M loans totalled $903,148,964—the highest figure in the history of the Bank. In a thousand ways, these dollars played their part in sustaining our standard of living.

THE MONEY WE INVEST:

At the close of the year the B of M had $952,522,945 invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities which have a ready market. This money is helping to finance government projects for the betterment of the country and the welfare of Canadians at large. Other securities held by the Bank—which include many short-term credits to industry—bring total investments to $1,170,406,865.

When you open an account at the B of M, you are not only putting your savings in a safe place but you are also investing in Canada's future. Every dollar you deposit is put to work in some Canadian endeavour that contributes to the steady progress of this great country of ours.

or two dollars on a $50-taxation.

But, there is a guaranteed annual income of $800 from the curling club. And with nearly 2,000 youngsters using the rink during the brief 16 days it was operated last year, plus receipts from hockey games, it was found that the rink came close to paying operating and interest charges for the whole year.

With guaranteed ice for from four to five months, and largely volunteer workers to take care of operations, it is reasonable to conclude that the proposed levy should be self-liquidating or nearly so. And cost to the ratepayers would be little, if anything. In any case, it could not exceed two mills.

TRENDS IN RECREATION

There are federal-provincial training programs, parks, playgrounds and beaches are supported either by municipal government or by provincial or by federal government. One after another British Columbia communities are providing skating ice to take care of winter sports. Summerland would by no means be pioneering if it too undertook to do so.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY

People are seldom doing nothing. Modern living unlike that of even 25 years ago, commonly gives little for young members of the family to do in their spare time. There are too many spectator sports and amusements. Money is often more plentiful than initiative.

During the summer months there may be orchard jobs to do, baseball and other outdoor games, swimming and hiking to absorb young energies and build young bodies.

Canada, however, being in the northern latitudes the Okanagan Valley experiences months of cold or damp weather when a great many of the young people find little of the wholesome vigorous recreation they must have to develop to their capacity.

But our apparent geographic disadvantage can be turned into an advantage of we can guarantee these national winter sports; hockey for the boys, figure skating for girls and boys, ice skating and carnivals for all—young and old.

Should the ratepayers of Summerland provide the community with a modern rink, they will strike a solid blow at potential delinquency or aimlessness in the young. And they will do much to keep the youngsters in the community instead of their hitch-hiking south to skate or go to shows as numbers now do.

As those youngsters grow up, and then look back on their youth, they will say with many of us who had the good fortune to be raised here in the old days of winter-long ice and snow: "No kids could have had more fun! Summerland's the best town in the country!"

SUMMARY

The proposal concerning the Summerland rink poses three questions:

1. Will winter-long ice be a good thing for the community?

2. Is a completely equipped ice arena of the size of that available good value at $62,000.

3. Is an investment of $62,000 partly, or under favorable circumstances, entirely recoverable, within the capacity of the community?

If we are objective about it, the answer seems to be "YES" in each case.

EPILOGUE

Expansion of the Summerland irrigation system had its opponents years ago—too expensive, they said—but it proved immensely valuable to the community.

The new school met with vigorous opposition—We couldn't afford it, didn't need it, they said—but five years later it isn't large enough.

The new municipal hall was opposed—dirty work, said some—but
