Tale Of Emotional Graveside Drama Related At Kramer Murder Hearing

Will Hold Grant For Future Work

Summerland hospital board members last week reported to the municipal council that $3,650 of the $7,500 granted for capital expenditures has already been spent on alterations and equipment at the hospital.

The board representatives, Chairman Harvey Wilson and Finance Chairman Ivor Solly, were concerned over reports that the full amount of the grant had to be spent within the present fiscal year or the unused portion would revert to general funds.

After discussion, the council decided the money could be placed in a special account for the hospital so the balance not spent would still be available next year.

The hospital received one-third of cost of capital improvements and a report was filed with the council showing that $3,276 has been spent this year.

The completed projects and their cost were switch of maternity, and surgical wings, $872; alterations to front of building which added a ward, waiting room and office, $3,772; kitchen elevator new hoist and cage, $526; laundry dryer, $854; auto-clave, $1,728; rewiring laundry and part of basement, $520.

Proposed projects include re-shingling centre roof, $325; ground improvements, $700; operating room table, $1,100; ben pan hopper, $250; office equipment, $500; main entrance ramp, $138; kitchen floor and ceiling, $500.

Former Anne Glaser Passes at Burnaby

Many friends and relatives in Summerland were shocked this week to learn of the passing in Chilliwack of Mrs. Lloyd Eckoff, the former Miss Anne Glaser.

She was 24 years of age. Death occurred in the Burnaby hospital. Mrs. Eckoff was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Glaser of Summerland.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 yesterday afternoon from Henderson Funeral chapel in Chilliwack. Burial was at Chilliwack.

Among those from Summerland attending the funeral were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Krause, Mr. and Mrs. G. Boehn, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Glaser, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Glaser, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Straffel, Mrs. George Stoll, Mrs. Lydia Voegel and Rudolph Voegel.

Building Activity Continues to Lag

Summerland construction during September continued the lagging trend it has shown the past couple of months but the total for the first nine months of the year is still ahead of the same period a year ago.

Only one permit was issued during the month for new home construction and this was for a value of $5,000. Five permits for alterations and additions totalled $2,225. Permits for the same month a year ago totalled $18,700.

A hushed Penticton courtroom Saturday morning listened to an account of a dramatic graveside scene when George Kramer, after leading police to a crude grave, opened it with his hands and threw himself into it, kissing and caressing the body of his wife he is accused of killing.

The incident lost none of its tragic emotional drama as an RCMP sergeant recounted the scene in matter-of-fact tones at the preliminary hearing.

Late Saturday afternoon, after two full days of listening to evidence, Magistrate G. A. McLelland committed Kramer for trial. It is expected he will stand trial at the next sitting of the Assizes in Vernon which starts on October 24.

Kramer during the two days uttered only one single almost-inaudible word. Before committing him for trial, the magistrate had him stand and asked him if he wished to make any statement.

Entered as exhibits but not read-out were two statements — one five foolscap sheets in handwriting, the other a half-sheet in length — which Sgt. Mohr stated had been given him by Kramer.

Throughout the two days, Kramer sat quietly in the prisoner's box, his head down, hands clasped or lying crossed, on his knees. Much of the time his eyes were closed and frequently he was working his jaws as he tried to control his emotions.

During the preliminary hearing of the murder charge against George Kramer last week, a number of statements alleged to have been made by Kramer were brought out in testimony.

Since any statements made by the accused in a case of this nature are always subject to considerable debate before being accepted as evidence at a trial and sometimes some or all are ruled inadmissible, the court last week requested that any statements alleged by witnesses to have been made by George Kramer be not published.

So that juror will not be influenced by any statements which possibly might be ruled inadmissible (when the case comes to trial, The Review is omitting from this report on the preliminary hearing all statements and conversations credited by witnesses to George Kramer.

Washington asked "How long a period was Kramer beside and in the grave?" "Time under emotional strain like that," the sergeant answered, "is hard to determine— Maybe 15 minutes."

Washington asked "How long a period was Kramer beside and in the grave?" "Time under emotional strain like that," the sergeant answered, "is hard to determine— Maybe 15 minutes."

"During that time he was left alone or were there efforts to restrain him?"

"I pulled him up on his feet twice and the third time got him up on his feet to stay."

Sgt. Mohr said he left the scene of the grave and took Kramer with him to go contact the police cars. They returned a short time later and he said the accused asked if he might again see his wife's body. He said he permitted him to go to the graveside and this time he remained only a moment.

Mr. Washington asked: "At the scene of the grave the car was in view of anyone passing?"

Still left unanswered by the hearing was the cause of Ruth Kramer's death. Dr. W. A. Wickett told in detail of the procedure followed in the autopsy conducted by him but concluded his statement: "As a result of this autopsy, I was not able to determine the cause of death."

Questioned by Prosecutor John S. Aikins, Dr. Wickett stated the conditions found by him to be compatible with death by strangulation. Under cross-examination by the defence counsel, he acknowledged that the conditions could be compatible with death by other means.

Before he left the witness stand, Dr. Wickett was asked a series of questions by Mr. Washington relating to mental disorders. The physician answered in the affirmative to all these ques-

A Better Mouse Trap And He Can Prove It

It's not everyone who gets the backing for a sales pitch that Austin Walden at B & W got a short time ago.

A customer evinced interest in a "better" mouse trap that was displayed on the top shelf.

Before making the long climb up to get the merchandise down, the hardware man gave a hot sales talk on how the trap would catch mice in great bunches and required very little attention.

The deal was clinched when he got it down.

It had been earning its keep while in stock and there were a half-dozen mice in it.

SOK Trade Boards Coming Here Next

Next quarterly session of the Associated Board of Trade of the South Okanagan will be held in Summerland. Invitation of A. K. Macleod, president of the Summerland board was accepted last night by the meeting of the Associated board.

Last night's meeting heard O. L. Jones, MP for Okanagan Boundary, and the gathering agreed to initiate some of his recommendations for bringing industry to the Okanagan.

Trade Board Will Sponsor Banquet To Honor Two Championship Teams

Summerland championship baseball teams will receive community recognition of their successes, next Thursday night when the team members will be guests of the Summerland Board of Trade at a banquet.

The baseball banquet will be held in the IOOF hall at 6:45 o'clock.

Honored will be the Summerland Macs who last Sunday afternoon became the Okanagan senior baseball champions, and the Summerland Red Sox who a week earlier won the Okanagan junior baseball title.

Because of accommodation in the hall, tickets to the event, which is open to the public, are limited and an early sell-out is anticipated. Tickets are available at Holmes & Wade, Butler & Walden, Lorne Perry and Daniels' Grocery.

Provincial Officer To Visit Legion

Travelling gavel ceremony will take place next Wednesday evening following the regular meeting of Summerland Branch, Canadian Legion, in the Legion Hall.

Expected to be present for the occasion is the provincial vice-president of the Legion.

Invited as guests for the occasion have been representatives of branches at Penticton, Peachland and Okanagan Falls as well as members of the Ladies' Auxiliary. Meeting will open at 8 o'clock.

Harry Sanger, blinded by a baseball in a game two years ago, is now operating the first braille switchboard in Canada. Sanger is in business in Brampton, Ont. where he conducts an answering service for persons who leave their offices and wish to have messages taken while they are absent. It is one of the few braille switchboards in operation in North America and has made Sanger an independent business man.

Official of B.C. Tree Fruits Away on European Sales Trip

J. E. Lander, sales manager B.C. Tree Fruits will leave for Europe this week-end to "drum up apple business."

Suggestion was made by trade minister C. D. Howe, following a conference between representatives of the Nova Scotia and Okanagan apple interests. Mr. Lander will be accompanied by T. L. Leek of Kentville, N.S.

In a press release last week, B.C. Tree Fruits stated:

"Although prospects for the successful marketing of the B.C. crops are considerably brighter than they are in the east, particularly in Nova Scotia, the British Columbia industry is equally interested in seeing that the large Canadian apple crop is moved successfully, and to open and expand all possible export markets.

This may help not only in the disposition of this year's crop, but could develop into important outlets for B.C. apples in years to come."

Commenting on a report from Ottawa that a delegation of Nova Scotia government officials and representatives of the Nova Scotia apple industry had met with federal cabinet officials, J. E. Lander, pointed out the maritime province anticipates a surplus of at least 1 1/2 million bushels of apples this year.

This is over and above the maximum fresh and processing outlets and is partly due to the heavy crops in Ontario and Quebec as well.

Mr. Lander met with the Canadian apple committee, comprised of representatives from Nova Scotia, Ontario and Quebec in Ottawa last week.

market prospects in all producing areas were fully discussed. The British Columbia position was also made clear to the various federal departments concerned.

B.C. will participate in any program which may eventually be developed, he said.

With the large apple surplus in the Maritimes present B.C. marketing in Eastern Canada is anything but bright with apples retailing at extremely low levels. According to B.C. Tree Fruits, it looks very doubtful if there will be any improvement in the market before the end of the year as the cold storage situation is tight due to some districts exceeding their estimates.

Eastern United States markets are similar to those in eastern Canada with most of them depressed due to overabundance of supply.

Western Canadian markets, however, present a much brighter aspect with demand for McIntosh continuing "quite good."

First country cars of Mac shipments were made last week end and Tree Fruits state that without the development of unforeseen problems, it is anticipated the bulk of car orders will be filled before the holiday.

The 1955 peach season is rapidly drawing to a close and during the past week the majority of Elbertas have been shipped to canners with fresh markets taking all J. H. Hale pack.

Bartlett sales are diminishing due in part to the supply position and the falling off in the retail demand.

Prairie demand for prunes while somewhat spotty is surprisingly good on some markets. Canners are presently taking the bulk of shipments.

Grape sales to date compare favorably with last year with prices rated as "steady to firm."

Car Stolen Here Wrecked at Kamloops

Stolen from its parking place behind Durnin Motors on Monday night, auto of Albert Armstrong was recovered by RCMP at Monte Lake, four and one-half miles north of Kamloops, on Tuesday morning.

The car had been run into a clay bank and front end was badly damaged.

Mr. Armstrong was unaware his car was missing until police reported to him it had been found.

He had parked the car at the side of Durnin Motors the previous day and Manager V. B. Durnin said he noted it there at 10 o'clock that night. Ignition and car doors were both locked.

Singers Hear Records Of Next Operetta

Singers and Players held their first meeting of the season Tuesday evening and about 40 old members and a number of newcomers were present to discuss this year's Gilbert and Sullivan production, "Gondoliers."

To familiarize the members with the operetta they will soon be rehearsing, records of the production were played.

Next meeting will be held Tuesday evening in the music room of the High School at 8 o'clock.

SPEEDSTER FINED

A speeder on north Prairie Valley Road was fined $25 when he appeared before Magistrate Robert Alstead in Summerland Police Court this week.

CNIB Reports Successful Tag Day Mail Campaign Returns Coming In

Summerland committee of Canadian National Institute for the Blind report their most successful tag day just Saturday with $270 collected in the street solicitation. This is the largest amount collected in the tagging effort.

Continuing this week is the letter solicitation sponsored by the committee.

Chairman of the drive is Mrs. F. E. Atkinson. Assisting in the tagging Saturday were Mrs. H. C. Whitaker, Miss Elizabeth Theed, Mrs. A. F. Gussard, Mrs. P. ...

C. M. Robinson, Mrs. S. A. Macdonald, Mrs. E. Pamchon, Mrs. Ernie Tall.

Mrs. A. Gately, Mrs. T. Lott, Mrs. R. Russell, Miss Noella Gibbard, Mrs. Ken Williams, Mrs. A. K. Macleod, Mrs. George Washington, Mrs. John Caldwell, Mrs. J. Brown, Mrs. W. H. Durick and Mrs. F. E. Atkinson.

At Trout Creek taggers were Jo Wilson, Darlene Bonthoux, Marilyn Embree, Neella Gibbard and Arlene Embree. Others who assisted in the mailing campaign were Miss Gweneth Atkinson, Miss P. Sherwood, Mrs. A. Beggs and Mrs. Alfred Letts.

Other Opinions

DO IT TOGETHER YOURSELF

Many commercially inspired slogans are very deserving of abrupt and decisive disposal, but we hope the "do-it-together" trend will be around for some time.

Certainly no family member who has wistfully waved good-by to a loved one boarding a plane or train will quarrel with the family travel fare reductions. Railroads and airlines are making it easier for all to hope aboard and do it together.

The motorboat industry is also capitalizing on the do-it-together longing. Quiet motors and attractive color schemes are being emphasized in the hopes of enlisting the support of women. Men now seldom buy boats without being accompanied by their wives.

"Do-it-together" is far from challenging the current supremacy of "do-it-yourself." But the growing supporters quickly point out that many "do-it-yourself" projects, such as boats, summer camps, and playrooms, enable the family to do it together.

Perhaps we need a new slogan, something like "do-it-together, yourself."

LOOK FOR MORE TROUBLES

Be thankful for the troubles of your job. They provide about half your income. Because if it were not for the things that go wrong, the difficult people you have to deal with and the problems and unpleasantness of your working day, someone could be found to handle your job for half of what you are being paid.

It takes intelligence, resourcefulness, patience, tact and courage to meet the trouble of any job. That is why you hold your present job. And it may be the reason you aren't holding down an even bigger one.

If all of us would start to look for more troubles, and learn to handle them cheerfully, and with good judgement, as opportunities rather than irritations, we would find ourselves getting ahead at a surprising rate. For it is a fact that there are plenty of big jobs waiting for men and women who aren't afraid of troubles connected with them. — Journal of Commerce.

THE RULING OF TWELVE

It is a very sad state of affairs when a 209-member chamber of commerce cannot get more than 11 members out at a meeting and then have to telephone individuals to make up a working quorum of 12.

Not only is it sad but it is rather foolish when one thinks that 12 people are able to bring about changes which might affect the whole area.

What few have in mind is the two-train business. On the action of 12 members of the chamber of Commerce, that group is looking into the possibility of having two trains a day to Victoria so that people from this district can travel down-island and back in a day. That only means one thing and that is a shopping trip in the capital city.

Not long ago the chamber of commerce seemed a pretty lethargic body but last year has seen some changes and good work has been done. A start has been made on opening up the north island; the tourist sign at city limits is a fine achievement; the fishing contest between this district and Campbell River is something useful to the district's publicity.

A well supported chamber can do a lot of good for a lot of people. But when eleven men, one short of a quorum, have to telephone a twelfth man to come to a meeting so that work can be done then it is time that the members gave a little thought to chamber support.

Particularly when it would be quite in order for those twelve people to effect changes which could mean the loss of money to the district. — Comox Free Press.

EXTENSION OF PFRA

The Canadian Federation of Mayors has passed a resolution urging the federal government to extend the Prairie Farmer Rehabilitation Act to cover all of Canada's 10 provinces. That proposal should get serious consideration, thinks the Financial Post.

The act in question was passed in 1935 to meet the drastic situation resulting from 10 years of drought, depression and pests, particularly in the south-central region of the Canadian prairies. The legislation dealt with water and soil conservation and better utilization of the land.

In other parts of Canada, farmers have problems which might yield to the PFRA approach, if it were adapted to meet a wider variety of conditions. Broadening PFRA is worth considering from two points of view: first it would extend tested methods of aid to agriculture in other areas; second, it would reduce the number of ways in which prairie farmers are set apart from their counterparts in other provinces.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER SIXTH, NINETEEN HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FIVE

Role of Weekly . . . important community function

October 1-8 is National Newspaper Week for Canada's over 700 weekly, twice-weekly, and tri-weekly newspapers.

Their editors and publishers have fostered this week not in the hope of soliciting tributes from citizens of national or local import, but rather as an occasion to explain more fully the role of Canada's non-daily newspapers in the life of this country.

Perhaps because "weekly" sounds like "week-ly," many people, especially those in the metropolitan areas, have come to look upon the newspapers which serve the town, villages, and rural areas of Canada merely as small sisters of the big city dailies — relatively unimportant auxiliaries to the mighty metropolitan press.

The truth, of course, and it is recognized not only by the readers of this newspaper, but by the big city dailies themselves, is that Canada's weekly newspapers perform an entirely different function than do their urban contemporaries.

The daily newspapers, published miles away in a large urban centre, would, for example, court bankruptcy if it attempted to record and interpret as fully as does this newspaper the life of this area. Indeed, even within larger cities, weekly newspapers have found it profitable to offer to particular urban district a more comprehensive coverage of news and views than is available to city dwellers through their large-circulation dailies.

The truth of the matter is that, the bigger a newspaper becomes, the more difficult it is for its staff to cover all the news, and to discuss editorially all the issues of concern to its readers. And there lies the strength of the weekly press.

Yet, the weekly newspaper has another vital function. It is the commercial market place of the community. Through its columns both national and local advertisers find the most efficient, fastest, and most economical means of acquainting potential customers with the goods and services they have to sell. And the advertisers are naturally anxious to see the newspaper they use go into the largest number of homes in the trading area.

Canada's weekly, twice-weekly, and tri-weekly papers are now read each week by 2,392,400 families, a market three times as big as Toronto and Montreal combined.

And those newspapers in 1954 carried nearly eight and a half million dollars of local retail display advertising, two and a half million dollars of national advertising, and just under one million dollars of classifieds.

This is not unusual either when one realizes that Canada's weekly newspapers are read regularly and thoroughly by an average of 85 percent of the families in the markets in which they are published. It is questionable if there is any other advertising medium which can even approach such a density of coverage.

The circulations of weekly newspapers in this country have been steadily climbing too. The number of weeklies serving 2,000 homes or more has increased by one-third in the past decade, and there are many weekly, twice-weekly, and tri-weekly papers which serve more homes than the smaller dailies.

Weekly journalism has been a growing factor in both the editorial and advertising life of Canada and the staff of this newspaper is, on the occasion of National Newspaper Week, proud to be listed among the 5,000 Canadians who earn their livelihood writing for and printing weekly newspapers.

Fire Prevention . . . a week for special thought

By proclamation the Governor General of Canada will decree that the week of October 9-15, 1955, be observed as Fire Prevention Week across the nation.

This week is always the calendar week including October 9, the anniversary of the great Chicago fire of 1871. Such a disaster serves to underline the necessity of bringing before the public a much needed awareness of Fire Prevention.

Fire Prevention Week should not be regarded just as a seven-day period for projecting fire prevention programs, displaying posters all over the community, school drills and civic group meetings. Rather, it should be regarded as the week of initiation of a year-round activity promoted to make our country a safer place in which to live.

Fire Prevention Week is not a new institution. It has, over a period of years, developed increasing significance and earned a respected place in the regular affairs of every progressive community in Canada and the United States. It signifies the commencement of a campaign which should be carefully planned so as to enlist the co-operation of every citizen and of every organization in the community for a concerted effort to prevent, as far as possible, loss of life and property as a result of fires.

Response to Fire Prevention Week should be spontaneous and enthusiastic. All citizens sincere in their desire to see the country's economy make progress have a stake in Fire Prevention Week. They realize full well that property destroyed by fire is irrevocably lost and the community and the nation suffer as the consequence of such loss.

Mid-Week Message

Pray for us. (Hebrews 13:18.) Read John 17: 9-11.

The cry of all Christians is, "Pray for us!" Over and over again it has arisen from Christians in dire peril and extreme trial. Prayer was one of the dominant notes of the early church. The disciples waited in Jerusalem in prayer and in fellowship for the promised presence and power of the Holy Spirit. In the face of persecution and hardship, they prayed. When Paul and Silas were cast into prison, they "prayed, and sang praises unto God." Through prayer they constantly sought divine guidance.

"Pray for us" is the cry of those who are in concentration camps and prisons. It is our duty to pray for those who in the struggle for human freedom have suffered on land and on sea. How they need our prayers! If we listen, we hear the voices of lost people crying out to us who know the way to the throne of grace, saying: "Pray for us!"

How can we let a single day go by without praying and making intercession for those who do not know Christ?

PRAYER
Our heavenly Father, help us always to pray Grant us faith to know that Thou wilt answer our prayers in accordance with Thy divine wisdom, with the consciousness that Thou knowest best. In Thy Son's name we pray. Amen

Just What is YOUR NEWSPAPER

This question has many answers.

Here are a few:

It's a public service

It serves this community with news, advertising, editorial comment, and entertainment. It promotes projects which it believes will make this a better place in which to live.

It's a manufacturing plant

It converts ink, paper, metal, and power into a finished product. It gives employment, year round, to heads of families.

It's a business

It enjoys full status as both a wholesaler (of newspapers) and a retailer. It plays its full part in the commercial life of the community.

It's a service establishment

It tries to give information and guidance both through its columns and personally through its staff. Its classified section is the local market place. It is the 20th century town crier and community counsellor.

It's a 100% home institution

It serves this district first, last and always. Its weekly payroll remains almost entirely in the area. Its taxes help support local schools and local government. It buys all possible supplies and services locally.

It's the voice of the people

Its printed reports, comment and pictures mirror this community in such a way that we may understand both its problems and its opportunities. It is a vital factor in the operation both of free, responsible government and in the life of free, democratic individuals.

Of Many Things

by AMBROSE HILL

THE LIGHT TOUCH

I have always admired people with the light touch; they put a thread of quiet good humor into life's loom, even when the general pattern is disturbing. And quite often, with a pixie smile, resolve some deep problems. I have just enjoyed reading an example.

It seems some church officials have urged the Federal Government to take over the booze business stock and barrel. In many quarters this provoked real serious editorial comment, reminding us all that prohibition did more harm than good. All very true. But the writer who really exploded the idea completely did it with a light touch.

The editor of Saturday Night suggested, with a smile in every word, that the church officials might get lots of support from guzzlers. He wrote:

"A curious change seems to take place when industries pass from private to public ownership; they need subsidies as well as sales to keep them in business. If the profitable liquor industry were nationalized, therefore, it would be reasonable to suppose that sooner or later public funds would be required to keep it solvent — funds contributed in the form of taxes by tospot and prohibitionist alike.

I am sure that even the church officials will not be able to resist a smile at that. Who knows, it might even convince them that church officials are less likely to look ridiculous when they stride to spiritual subjects about which, presumably, they know little.

It would seem to me that all organizations with an overwhelming desire to Do Good in the world should make a point of inviting at least one nasal with twinkling eye to every meeting. With a light and merry jest, he would puncture at least some of their ideas.

The Lighter Side

One day Mrs. Smith stopped with a friend to get weighed. She gasped as the indicator swung around to her weight.

"A little overweight?" asked her friend.
"Oh, no," she answered. "But according to this chart here, for my weight I should be seven feet tall."

The wife was an inveterate back-seat driver. One day the car stalled on some railroad tracks. "Go ahead! Go ahead!" she shouted. "Get this car off the tracks!"

This was the last straw that broke the camel's back.

"I've got my end across," her husband snapped back, "see what you can do with yours!"

Macs Take OMBL Title In Nerve-Wracking Tilt

Baseball fans had fingernails chewed almost to the elbows Sunday before Macs emerged on top in the third tension-packed match of the OMBL final series and left the Oliver field wearing the Okanagan crown.

The 5-3 win Sunday gave Macs the deciding game of the series and the CKOK trophy, the first time it has come to rest in Summerland since it was put up for competition.

Most electrifying inning of the game was the seventh when two runs served to Oliver on a platter tied up the score 3-3 and bases were loaded with two down. Not until Paul Eisenhut grounded out to Pitcher Billy Eyre who rifled the ball to first base for the final out of the inning.

Oliver opened the scoring with a single in the third then Summerland broke away in the fifth with three runs to give them the lead until OBC's tied up the match in the seventh. One run each in the eighth and ninth innings gave Macs their remaining tallies.

Busiest Summerland player was Allan Hooker at short who turned in a performance. He was credited with one out of six assists.

Macs outdid the OBC's 10 to eight but the host team got the breaks in free passes, collecting 10 walks while Oliver's Chuckler Bill Martino handed out only four. On the other hand, Macs had the benefit of five Oliver errors and themselves were responsible for only two. Nine Summerland runners were left on base while OBC's saw 14 of their base runners stranded.

It was Oliver's day for double plays, and three times worked twin outs. Summerland had only one double play.

Absent from the game was Doug Kilburn but Fred Kato's handling of the second sack position left nothing to be desired and in the batting department collected three hits out of five times a bat.

Playing with an injured hand throughout the game, Summerland Catcher Ollie Egely took a ball on the end of his finger in the ninth and suffered a possible fracture. Bob Weitzel came in from first and took his place while Lefty Gould who had been held in reserve for duty as relief pitcher if needed took over first base.

FIRST INNING

At the start of the game, Billy Martino's first two pitches took two Summerland batters out of the running. Don McNiven knocked the ball down to Martino who threw him out at first and Bob Weitzel sent his first offering out in a long fly to Weeks at right field. Hooker collected a base on balls, stole second and went down to third on an error by Catcher Radies. He was left on third when out to Bob Weitzel at first and Taylor grounded to first.

Weeks popped Eyre's first pitch then Coy struck out. Bill Martino laid a base hit out past second base and Ceccon went to base on a walk but the inning ended when Fritz grounded out to Kato and was out at first.

SECOND INNING

Fred Kato placed a good solid hit out to right field and then Cristante grounded to short but Fritz kicked the ball around a bit trying to pick it up and both runners were safe. Eyre bunted a sacrifice down first base line to put the runners on second and third but they were left there when Daryl Weitzel and Egely both struck out.

Eyre ran up the full count on Mickey Martino before striking him out. John Vanderburgh rolled the ball down to Eyre and was out at base and then Paul Eisenhut collected a full count before striking out.

THIRD INNING

McNiven was out on Eisenhut's throw to first, Bob Weitzel was hit by a pitched ball but was caught out on the throw from home plate when he tried to steal second. Hooker took a walk and things started shaping up for Macs again when Taylor singled into right field but the two runners were left on base when Kato's long fly to right field was taken by Weeks.

Radies was out on Hooker's throw to first. Weeks belted out a double almost to left field fence and then reached third when Eyre's throw to second to try and catch him off base got away on time hammered out a long sacrifice fly to Weitzel and Weeks came home on the throw in. Ceccon laid down a fielder's choice to Hooker who threw to second to take out Coy.

FOURTH INNING

Cristante laid down a base hit just behind second. Eyre's long hit to left field was taken by Mickey Martino and Mac's were suddenly back in the field when Daryl Weitzel dribbled the ball down the third base line and Eisenhut's throw to Coy at second to end Mickey Martino struck out Vanderburgh for a double play.

Fritz sent Eyre's first offering in a long grounder just inside left field territory and then stole second. Mickey Martino struck out and Vanderburgh's single to left field put Fritz on third. Eyre took the heat off single handed when he took Eisenhut's pop-up and then struck out Radies.

FIFTH INNING

Egely collected a free pass and McNiven struck out. Bob Weitzel for the second time took the base when he was hit on the chest by the pitcher. Then Hooker was out at first on a ground ball taken by Eisenhut between first and second but both runners advanced safely. Taylor was up next and a passed ball gave Egely the chance to come home and Weitzel went down to third. Taylor walked. Kato hit to short to bring Weitzel home and then Fritz's throw to first was wild and the error allowed Taylor to get home and Kato to advance to second. The side retired with three runs when Weeks took Cristante's fly ball to right field.

Weeks collected a free pass and then advanced to second on Coy's bunt down the third base line. McNiven took the batter out with his throw to first. Billy Martino then walked. Eyre again pulled himself out of what had all the makings of a bad spot when Ceccon popped up to Cristante and Fritz struck out.

McNiven got away a base hit to centre field and was sacrificed to second by Bob Weitzel. Hooker popped up to Eisenhut and then a safety to centre by Taylor brought McNiven home and Taylor went to second on a throw from Coy to Martino.

Ceccon walked and Fritz was at bat when Egely suffered the finger injury and positions were shifted when he left the game. Fritz's fielder's choice to Hooker put Ceccon out at second and then Mickey Martino's single to centre advanced Fritz to second. Neither base runner got any further when Hooker took Byers' pop-up and Weitzel made a running catch in right field to nail Eisenhut's long fly and end the game.

McNiven got away a base hit to centre field and was sacrificed to second by Bob Weitzel. Hooker popped up to Eisenhut and then a safety to centre by Taylor brought McNiven home and Taylor went to second on a throw from Coy to Martino.

Neither base runner got any further when Hooker took Byers' pop-up and Weitzel made a running catch in right field to nail Eisenhut's long fly and end the game.

With McNiven on first via a left field single route, OBC's chalked up their third double play when Bob Weitzel grounded to Fritz and the ball relayed to Coy and Vanderburgh. Eisenhut's throw from third put Hooker out at first to retire the side.

Weeks walked and then Coy set up a double play on a Hooker-Kato-Weitzel combination. What looked like real trouble for Summerland started then when Billy Martino hammered a twin-bagger against the left field fence Ceccon got a free pass and Cristante came in from left field to take over his pasture patrol. With a walk for Fritz, Cristante loaded the bases and then brought Martino home with a walk for Mickey Martino. Coach Georgie Taylor switched Cristante and Eyre back to their original positions and Ritohie Snyder came up to bat for Vanderburgh. Eyre whistled two called strikes past Snyder and then benned him with the ball and Ceccon finished out a walking circuit to tie up the game and leave the bases still loaded. Summerland fans, whose numbers about equalled that of Oliver, were right to the edge of their seats when Eisenhut knocked the ball down to Billy Eyre who took him out on the throw to first and retired the side with bases loaded.

EIGHTH INNING

Oliver made a switch in line-up with Mickey Martino coming in from left field to take first base and Russel Byers taking over in the field. Taylor struck out then Kato got away a clean single to centre field. Cristante scored a hit past second base that advanced Kato to second. Eyre sent a grounder down to Coy but he fumbled it which permitted Kato to reach home. Coy then threw too late to catch Cristante at third and Eisenhut held onto the ball and Eyre went down to second.

While most Calgarians huddled up in winter clothing and sought warm shelters at home or at work during the recent snowfall, these two enthusiastic duck hunters showed utter disregard for the birds on the banks of the Elbow River.

Weitzel struck out and then Egely tied into what would have been a linedrive into right field but the bat broke and the ball dribbled down past first base and was taken by Martino for the third out.

Radies went out on the Hooker-Weitzel combination. Weeks struck out and then Coy got a safety away to right field but he got no further than first when Billy Marino sent a fly ball out to Daryl Weitzel.

NINTH INNING

McNiven got away a base hit to centre field and was sacrificed to second by Bob Weitzel. Hooker popped up to Eisenhut and then a safety to centre by Taylor brought McNiven home and Taylor went to second on a throw from Coy to Martino.

Ceccon walked and Fritz was at bat when Egely suffered the finger injury and positions were shifted when he left the game. Fritz's fielder's choice to Hooker put Ceccon out at second and then Mickey Martino's single to centre advanced Fritz to second. Neither base runner got any further when Hooker took Byers' pop-up and Weitzel made a running catch in right field to nail Eisenhut's long fly and end the game.

A General Motors Value

After all, it really isn't considered good form to toot one's horn too loudly... HOWEVER... since the early months of this year, an unparalleled situation has existed and we can't contain ourselves any longer.

Pontiac—we've got to say it—is now up in the TOP 2 in automotive sales in Canada... second only to another General Motors product!

This isn't just a claim... it's a fact. Against the toughest competition, Pontiac has plain outsold every other manufacturer's cars.

It's a hate-off tribute to Canadian motorists, too, for their instant recognition of Pontiac's sterling worth. No doubt about it, they buy shrewdly and well where value counts.

Well, there it is! Pity, we had to be the ones to tell the story but that's the automotive industry for you.

Anyway... now everybody knows what more Canadians than ever before have found out this year... dollar for dollar you just can't beat Pontiac!

It's more than a trend... it's a torrent to

Hospital Auxiliary Sees New Equipment

First meeting of the Summerland Hospital Auxiliary for the fall season was held Monday night in the hospital board room and members had an opportunity to witness the operation of two new items of equipment recently donated to the hospital by the auxiliary.

The croupette, used in respiratory ailments, was demonstrated to the members by Hospital Matron Mrs. J. R. Butler, and use of the colorimeter used in blood testing was explained and demonstrated by Miss Enid Maynard.

Arrangements were made for some painting to be done in the hospital and also in the reception room of the nurses' residence.

Mrs. Les Rumball was named as delegate to the annual session of the B.C. Hospital Auxiliary to be held October 12-14 in Vancouver.

Members were advised the auxiliary again this year will be distributing calendars and Christmas cards.

HOME AGAIN

Expected home for Thanksgiving week-end is Miss Frances Atkinson returning from UBC. She will be accompanied by her roommate Miss Mary Ellen Armistead from Langley.

Miss Nancy Fleming is expected home from the coast this week-end to spend a two-week holiday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Fleming.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott are home having spent the summer at their summer home, Lantzville, Vancouver Island.

Don Nesbitt RCAF returned to Vancouver after spending two weeks with Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Vandenburg.

Miss Dorothy Blacklock returned to Vancouver after a two week stay here.

Joe McLachlan arrived home on Wednesday after spending the past ten days in Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Dodwell have returned from a ten day vacation spent in Vancouver.

Rob. Towgood is expected home next week from the Yukon.

Visiting Here

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lind and family are spending two weeks here in Summerland visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Frazer of Kelowna were visitors last week-end of Mr. and Mrs. J. Towgood.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Burnard and baby daughter Linda of Ocean Falls are guests at the home of Mrs. Burnard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Marshall.

S. W. Aguila has been visiting the Experimental station here. He comes from Chile and is touring agricultural stations across the dominion.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Purvis spent a few days visiting in Summerland.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Wright were Mrs. Wright's mother Mrs. Nicholson and her brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. L. Nicholson of Vancouver.

Dr. and Mrs. James Marshall have as guests their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. A. Perrault. Mr. Perrault returned recently from Korea on the Sioux. Mrs. Perrault went to the coast to meet him when disembarked. On expiration of his leave they will return to Victoria where he will be stationed.

Visiting at the local branch of the Bank of Montreal is Mr. Martin McLennan of the superintendent's department, Vancouver.

Ian McQuaig is expected home to spend the holiday week-end with his family at Summerland.

Dr. A. O. Skolho, Assistant Chief Botany and Plant Pathology Division, Ottawa, was at the Summerland plant pathology station for several days.

Dr. J. M. Wilks and W. H. A. Wilde were in Summerland last week from the sub-laboratory at Creston.

WHY TEN MILLION BUYERS COULDN'T MISS THEIR CHANCE

"This month the Canadian Government expects to receive the 10,000,000th order for Canada Savings Bonds," said Ivor Solly, the manager of the Bank of Montreal in West Summerland, this week when telling one of his customers about the "tenth" series of this guaranteed investment which goes on sale this month.

"Is it any wonder Canada Savings Bonds are so popular?" the B of M manager asked, and proceeded to tell his customer why. "For the average citizen, there just isn't a better investment. Canada Savings Bonds are as safe as Canada, and they pay a fine return of 3 1/4 percent. Besides, what investment can you acquire so easily?"

Mr. Solly points out that the purchase of Canada Savings Bonds the instalment plan provides people with a wonderful opportunity for planned saving. He explained that the down-payment was just five percent — $2.50 for a $50-Bond, $5 for a $100-Bond — and the balance was payable in easy monthly instalments over one year.

"And then, of course," said Mr. Solly, "the government guarantees to redeem these bonds at their full face value at any time, plus interest to the end of the previous calendar month."

Mr. Solly points out that the purchase of Canada Savings Bonds is a simple matter. He himself says he can arrange it easily and quickly at his B of M branch, whether you buy for cash or on the instalment plan.

Don't miss your share in Canada's best investment.

Dr. Ernest Brandenburg, professor of plant pathology at the University of Giessen, Germany, visited at the Research station and valley points on Sunday. He is on scholarship to universities of Cornell and California.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. Smith last week were Mr. Smith's brothers and their wives: Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Smith all of Amherst, Nova Scotia. Mrs. Jesse Smith is Mrs. W. Smith's sister.

St. Andrew's WA Completes Plans For Thanksgiving Dinner Monday

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's W.A. was held on September 19, 1955. The devotional was read by Mrs. G. A. Laidlaw who chose for her theme "The Truth in Love." Mrs. A. C. Letts sang a lovely solo entitled "Come Come my Voice."

Mrs. F. E. Atkinson reported to the W.A. that the projector and screen have been purchased, and will be available to the W.A. any time it is requested. Some of the members showed an interest in wanting to learn to run the projector. It is hoped Rev. C. O. Richmond will be available to teach the interested members.

Annual Thanksgiving dinner will be given October 10 in the church hall and much of the meeting was devoted to discussion of ways and means and committees to handle the numerous details.

Refreshments were served by the September committee with Mrs. Frank Dumont as convener. Bazaar committees got together during the refreshment period to discuss plans for the coming bazaar.

Lay Plans for Visit Of Lady Baden-Powell

First meeting of the Summerland Guide Association for the fall season was held in the Youth Centre on September 21 and plans were laid for participation of local Rangers, Guides and Brownies during the visit of Lady Baden-Powell to Pentiction on October 9.

The entire South Okanagan division will be present for ceremonies at King's Park during the visit and the Guide Association will be arranging transportation for the local members.

Divisional Guide Trainer Mrs. Blagborne reported to the meeting on camps held during the summer for Guides, Rangers and Guides at Okanagan Centre.

Other reports were presented during the meeting by leaders of the various groups: Mrs. Walter Toews, Mrs. Lashley Haggman, Mrs. M. Elliot and Mrs. Ken McIntosh.

The president, Mrs. Marvin Henker was in the chair.

VISITING ABROAD

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gilbert spent the week-end in Vancouver where they visited their son Don; daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Vic Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Tait and family spent last week-end in Vancouver.

Mr. Paul Roberge and daughter leave for the coast this week-end to spend the holiday with Mrs. Roberge and children.

Mrs. J. A. Read left for Vancouver last Sunday for a holiday.

Miss Dorothy Blacklock spent last week-end in Enderby with her sister Mrs. P. Smith.

Don Cristante was a week-end visitor at the coast.

Gordon Young was a business visitor to Vancouver and Mission this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Davis accompanied by J. S. Mott spent three days in Vancouver last week.

Dr. D. L. McIntosh is on a business trip to Creston.

Dr. T. H. Anstey is in Victoria meeting with provincial horticulturist.

J. E. Miltimore accompanied by his family returned to Corvallis for further studies at State College of Oregon.

F. E. Atkinson and Francis Steuart left Monday for Prince George to attend UBCM convention. They will return Saturday.

Newlyweds Honored By Friends at Party

The beach home of Mrs. K. Norstrom was attractively decorated with flowers and candlelight on the evening of Oct. 1, when 22 friends gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. James Doherty, bride and groom of last month.

A gift from the group was presented to the couple.

The evening was gaily spent in singing and dancing.

Scout Activities

On Tuesday we had a good turnout and good meeting with an attendance of 29 boys. There have been a number of new applications to enter the troop and these will be dealt with by the Court of Honour this Saturday. It may be that some boys will have to be put on the waiting list as the troop strength maximum is 32 boys.

We had a visit from D. S. M. Gordon Blewett who announced that on Sunday, October 9, Lady Baden-Powell, widow of Lord Baden-Powell, the founder of Scouting, would be visiting Pentiction and would review local Scouts, Guides, Cubs and Brownies.

If the weather is fine Scouts will meet at King's Park in Pentiction at 2:15 p.m.; if raining the parade will be in the Armoury. Full uniforms will be necessary, and we hope as many boys as possible will be present. Bring your parents and friends as this is open to the public.

Next meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 11, 7:00 p.m. sharp.

Duty Patrol, Hawks. Patrol Leaders remember Court of Honour at Harold Oxley's place this Saturday at 5:00 p.m.

CUB CALLS

There was a good turnout at the first meeting of the season. The evening was spent in games and stories. We will get down to work next meeting.

Ronnie Clarke, David Lane and Clinton Skinner were welcomed as new Chums.

On Sunday, October 9 the Cub Pack will go to Pentiction to be reviewed by Lady Baden Powell. Cubs are to meet at the Youth Centre at 1:30, in full uniform — short pants — and bring jackets. New Chums to wear dress pants. Trout Creek boys meet at Berts at 3:30.

There will be no meeting on Monday, October 10. Next meeting October 17.

"WHAT'S GOING ON IN TOWN?"

Can you picture what life in your town would be like without a weekly newspaper? You'd have nothing to keep you up to date on happenings right in your own neighbourhood. If you had something to sell, you'd have to go out and look for a buyer. If you needed to buy something, you'd have to look all over town for it. Your neighbours could marry, have children, or even die, without you hearing about it until much later. Council could pass a by-law affecting you and you might never hear of it. Plans for worthwhile community projects might never get started for lack of news and support. And how would you keep up with the fortunes of the hockey team or the baseball club? Fortunately, your town has a weekly newspaper, a source of local information that no other kind of publication can replace. Over the years, Canadian weekly editors have lent their support unstintingly to many a good community cause. This year, for the first time, they are celebrating National Weekly Newspaper Week, and Imperial Oil is glad to participate in paying tribute to your weekly newspaper.

if he had been medically examined immediately after his apprehension?"
"The longer the examination is postponed, the harder this would be?"
"A man who goes without food for six days would be considerably weakened physically?"

"Could it have effect mentally?"
"Mr. Alkins re-examined the witness and in reply to a query, Dr. Wickett stated that he had no special training in mental diseases or psychiatry.

Fifteen Witnesses Present Crown Case

To present the case for the crown, 15 witnesses took the stand. As is customary in a preliminary hearing, no defence witnesses were brought forward. The crown witnesses were L. A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Rudi Klux, John Doerfler, Ronald Westenhelm, Milton Cook, Dr. Wickett, C. F. Smith and RCMP Police Officers Sgt. C. E. Piers, Sgt. Mohr, Cst. Alan Bransett, Cpl. Edward James, Cpl. Alex Romano, Cst. R. K. Sommerville and Cst. Lister.

First witness when the hearing opened Friday morning was West Summerland merchant L. A. Smith who testified Ruth Kramer was in a Volkswagen which he gassed up about 10:45 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 4. He carried on a conversation with her, he stated, but he said he had met Kramer only once and could not say he was the man in the car with her.

"Did you see anything on Sept. 4 to alarm you at all?" Mr. Washington asked.

"No."
Next on the stand was Ruth Kramer's father, Rudi Klux of Paradise Flat. The last time he saw his daughter alive, he said, was the Saturday before Labor Day (Sept. 3). She came to his home then, he testified, and her husband was not with her. Next time he saw him, he went on, was about 6:30 a.m. the following Tuesday when Kramer drove past the house. The Kramer orchard is about three-quarters of a mile further along the Paradise Flat Road.

Mr. Klux said he was on the loading platform when Kramer drove past and waved. He waved back. The car, he said, was only about 10 feet from him when it passed.

The witness said he went to his daughter's home between 8:30 and 8:45 that morning and found nobody there. He went back in the afternoon with Constable Piers and said he returned on several occasions after that.

On Sunday, he said, he went with Constable Piers to the Roselawn Funeral Home in Penticton and there identified the body of his daughter.

He described the Kramer orchard as being about five acres of mostly young trees, some put in only this year. His son-in-law he said, had done quite a bit of work to the orchard this year.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Washington, Mr. Klux stated he had moved to his Paradise Flat orchard 22 years ago when Ruth was just a year old. Shortly after she was married, Ruth and her husband lived at his home and were there until around the beginning of May this year when they moved into their own home.

Mr. Klux said his daughter went to Normal School in Victoria in September, 1952 and met George Kramer there. He first met him in November that year in Vancouver. His first impression of Kramer, he said, was he thought he was a nice chap and in answer to a question by defence counsel said he had had no reason to change that opinion of him. Also in reply to a question, he expressed the opinion the two were very much in love. He said he had no objection to his daughter marrying Kramer.

Next witness was 16-year-old John Doerfler who told of being out on his father's ranch where he lives, about 10 miles north of Oliver on the White Lake Road looking for cattle on the morning of Sept. 10. At the end of a logging trail about three-quarters of a mile off the White Lake road he found a Volkswagen parked in a clump of trees. He said he looked around to see if the owner was in the vicinity, then checked the car and found the keys in it and the gas tank full. The name on the registration, he stated, was George Kramer and the license number 248042. He stated that evening he went with his father to Oliver and reported the find to police there.

Constable Allan Bransett took the stand and said he had come to the district from Cloverdale on Sept. 8 with the police tracking dog. About 8 a.m. on Sept. 11, he said he started out with the dog in the vicinity of Okanagan Falls, south west of the falls. He said the dog picked up a sign on a ridge which led down into a ravine where he spotted George Kramer sitting with his back to a tree. He said Kramer showed no signs of seeing him and he went up to him and told him who he was and asked him his name.

"The dogmaster said Kramer stood up and he read him the statutory warning from a card in his wallet and then searched him. It was about 8:30 when he located Kramer, he said, and the two of them walked out to the road and he turned him over to Sgt. Mohr who was waiting there. The constable told the court of the conversation between himself and Kramer on meeting and during the walk to the road.

Constable Piers presented in evidence the jars which contained samples taken from cups and toilet bowl at the house, a stained pink hemmed sheet, an embroidered pillow slip and a pair of blue cotton pyjamas which were taken from the body of Ruth Kramer.

The defence counsel questioned the witness:

"You knew Ruth before and after her marriage?"
"Yes."

"She was a happy and cheerful girl?"
"In my opinion, yes."

"When did you last see her?"
"I saw her about two weeks earlier on the street. I wasn't talking to her."

"She was quite well liked in the community?"
"As far as I know."

"As far as you were concerned, she was a very fine girl?"
"Yes."

"When did you meet George?"
"I was introduced to him at a dance. I think it was the Eastern Star ball."

"Mrs. Kramer was at the same ball?"
"Yes."

"Both having a good time?"
"As far as I know."

"Did you find any liquor in the house?"
"Yes, we went through all the cupboards in all the rooms."

"Did you find any drugs of any kind?"
"No."
"Or medicines?"
"No."

"Did you take a sample of water from the water tank?"
"Mr. Washington asked several questions about the sample taken from the toilet bowl and then asked about the bed sheet which had been placed in evidence. Was the sheet taken off after or before it was photographed?"
"After it was photographed."

"And you say it was still damp?"
"It was still moist."

"And the same with the pillow case?"
"Yes."

Mr. Washington indicated the sheet entered in evidence was torn and the witness stated it was not damaged when it was taken off the bed. (Cpl. Romano in his later evidence said he had cut out portions of the sheet as well as the pillow case and pyjamas for use in testing).

The defence counsel continued his questioning: "Was there a stain on the mattress as well?"
"Yes, there was a stain on the mattress."

"Had the color on the mattress run at all?"
"Yes, slightly."

"You agree the Kramer house was being remodelled inside?"
"That is correct."

"There was lumber, door and frame in the basement?"
"That is right."

"On Sept. 8 you and Sgt. Mohr searched the house very carefully?"
"Yes we did."

Constable Piers said he carried the exhibits along with personal articles of Mrs. Kramer, such as rings, photographs and jewel case, away from the house in a canvas zipper club bag which was at the house. Later he was recalled to the stand to produce the bag which was entered in evidence. As he removed the various personal articles from the bag he identified them and a small picture frame he said had contained a picture of Ruth Kramer. This had been removed and kept by George Kramer in his cell.

"About three-quarters of a mile."

"Were there any houses nearby?"
"No. The nearest place was a shack about a half mile away."

"Did you see any sign of emotion?"
"When we met Sgt. Mohr he broke down and started to cry."

Sgt. Mohr in his direct testimony related evidence similar to that of Constable Piers regarding the visit to the Kramer home and then told of going with Constable Bransett on the morning of Sept. 11 to search the Okanagan Falls area with the dog. The two travelled through the woods together for a time, he said, and then separated and took different routes to return to where the cars were parked. He said he arrived first and was waiting for his companion when he saw him coming toward the road accompanied by a man. He walked forward to meet them, he said, and recognized Kramer from pictures.

Kramer, he said, broke down and started to cry as soon as he spoke to him. He put him in the car and he said he was in a "depressed state" at times laying down on the seat and other times sitting with his head between his knees. Many of his statements at that time, the sergeant said, were incoherent and were blurted out between sobs. The witness said they remained there about an hour while the search for the grave went on and then with Kramer and Constable Lister in the car he started back to Penticton.

Mr. Washington asked the constable if Kramer made any effort to leave the vicinity when he saw him approaching. "No he didn't," the constable replied.

"How was he dressed?"
"Light grey trousers, blue striped suit coat tucked into his belt. Buckle shoes not buckled."

In answer to further questions he said Kramer appeared to be weak and was unshaven.

In cross-examination, Mr. Washington asked: "Do you know in whose name the Kramer house is registered?"

"The accused told me it was registered in his wife's name."

Asking about the search of the house in company with Constable Piers, the defence counsel asked: "Did you find any liquor or drugs of any kind?"

"No."
"If there had been any you would have found it?"
"Yes."

The sergeant said there had been a 100-size aspirin bottle about half full.

Says Daughter Complained of Quarrels

During the time the Kramers lived at the Klux home, they got along quite well, Mr. Klux said, but added, "They had their quarrels, too many for my liking." His daughter, he said, had several times told him of their troubles.

"He was in various conditions."
"You personally asked the doctor to examine him?"
"Yes sir."
"Was he seen anytime after that by a medical man?"
"Yes but I have no personal knowledge."
"You'd agree that George Kramer's mental condition has improved a great deal since he was apprehended up until now?"
"He seems quite composed."
"I'm suggesting his mental condition has improved materially?"
"Yes. The last day or two he felt some uneasiness about the trial but he has been still quite composed."
"It was quite obvious that he was in love with his wife?"
"He said so."
"Did you have reason to disbelieve him?"
"No."
"Did he have any picture in his cell?"
"Yes."
"Did he request it?"
"He asked me to get it for him."
"And that was a picture of his wife Ruth?"
"Yes."
"Has he often looked at it?"
"Yes."
"It would be fair to say that George Kramer has been a model inmate?"
"He has been quite accommodating."
"Yes."
"Did you ask at any time for a complete physical examination of George Kramer by a medical man?"
"No."
"Or a mental examination?"
"No."
Sgt. Mohr left the witness box after three hours and 15 minutes of testimony.

Dr. Wickett described in detail the autopsy performed by him and stated all organs appeared to be normal and none indicated any cause of death. He said from the conditions he found he judged the body to have been dead "a few days."

Mr. Aikins asked: "Would the condition be compatible to a death having occurred five to six days prior to that time?"
"Yes it would."
After he affirmed that his findings would be compatible with death by strangulation, Mr. Aikins asked: "Is it possible to cause strangulation by an arm put around the neck and then tightened by pulling with the other hand?"
Dr. Wickett replied that it was and then went on to describe several theories as to the actual cause of death in a strangulation of this type.
Mr. Aikins asked: "On death occurring, all muscles relax?"
"Yes."
"Would it be normal in the case of death that all urine would leave the body?"
"Yes, it would be quite normal."
Mr. Washington in cross-examination asked the witness: "Did you find any broken or fractured bones in the neck area?"
"No I didn't."
C. F. Smith of the Roselawn Funeral Home was called to the stand briefly to identify the pyjamas taken from the body of Ruth Kramer. These, he said, he turned over to Constable Piers.
Cpl. Romenco told of the various exhibits he had examined at the Regina RCMP laboratory. The water taken from the two cups on the kitchen table contained no poisons, he stated, and said he had tested sample of contents of toilet bowl for presence of blood or poison and found neither, top nor bottoms.

The bed sheet, he said, contained a pinkish-colored stain which had been caused by urine. A further test of a portion of the stained area, he said, had produced crystals but, because of court commitments he had been unable to complete the test and could not yet identify the crystals. His report on the stain on the pillow slip was the same.
The witness said he had examined Kramer's pyjamas for urine stains and found none on either On Ruth Kramer's pyjamas, he said, he found a small stain on one leg which proved to be urine but no such stain on the tops.
Questioned by Mr. Washington, he said the stain on the pyjamas was very light compared to the stain on the sheet and pillow slip.
Constable Spmmerville identified photographs which he said he had taken and processed and also produced plans of the house and the area about the grave which he had prepared. He said he had examined the shovel handle for fingerprints but there was insufficient detail to make any comparison for identification.
The defence counsel questioned him about his presence during the taking by Sgt. Mohr of a short statement from the accused. He asked: "Was his general condition improved over what you saw the day before?"

"I noticed no appreciable difference."
Constable Lister told of being with Sgt. Mohr when Kramer led them to the grave and gave a version similar to that of the sergeant's of the scene at the grave.
Mr. Washington questioned the witness: "Did you stay with Kramer anytime after placing him in the cell?"
"No, I just searched him."
"Can you say what he did?"
"No I can't."
"Did anyone remain with him?"
"I don't know."
"You didn't?"
"No."
"Did you see him again Sunday morning?"
"No I didn't."
"Are you able to say the amount of money found on Kramer?"
"Yes. Twenty-five dollars."
"Bills or silver?"
"Bills, no silver."
As the final witness stood down, Mr. Washington sat down beside Kramer in the prisoner's box and in low tones advised him not to make any statements on his own behalf at that time. When the magistrate read the statutory warning and asked Kramer if he wished to make any statement, Mr. Washington answered on behalf of his client and advised the court he had no statement to make "at this time."

Municipal council Tuesday agreed to take immediate action to correct a drainage problem which threatens to cause damage to a Hospital Hill home.
Mrs. T. J. McDougald in a letter pointed out that when Hospital Hill was being surfaced that she drew attention to the fact that the water would run off the road right down into her basement. She was assured at that time, she said, that steps would be taken to guard against this happening but during a recent rainstorm water had poured into her basement un-out along the side of the road by her entry. This ditch now leaves a temporary ditch was gouged an unsuitable entry into her driveway.
She asked that a pipe be installed in the ditch to carry the water past her driveway and councillors agreed that this should be done as a temporary measure until a more satisfactory system of diverting the run off could be devised.

Discuss Problems At P-TA Meeting

About 60 were in attendance last Thursday night when Summerland P-TA started off the fall season of activities with an "Open House" to give parents an opportunity to become acquainted with new teachers.

Various subjects came under discussion during the meeting session and several committees were appointed to investigate and report upon proposals made during the meeting.

One suggestion which received hearty support of parents was that arrangements be made to have the school open when school buses delivered pupils in the mornings so children will not have to wait around in the cold. It was reported that High School Principal A. K. Macleod and the school board will work out an arrangement to correct this situation.

Rev. A. A. Northrup asked that the school give consideration to arranging the program of extra-curricular activities so that one night of the week would be left free for activities sponsored by churches. Appointed to a committee to study this proposal were Rev. C. O. Richmond, Mrs. Ewart Williams and A. K. Macleod.

Establishment of more cross walks in the school zone was urged as a safety measure and committee named to study this possibility was Mrs. J. C. Wilcox, Wendell Schwab and Rev. A. A. T. Northrup.

Mr. Macleod and W. H. Durick explained to the meeting a new point system which has been put into operation to prevent children from undertaking too many un-academic activities to the detriment of their school work. Under the point system, if a student's scholastic work drops below a pass mark, he will be required to drop some of the extra activities.

Following the meeting, parents and teachers met for an informal hour after which refreshments were served.

In the chair for the meeting was the president, Mrs. J. H. Dunsdon.

Organize Classes For Night School

Night school classes in Summerland will be underway in four classes this season but for the remaining subjects offered this year there were insufficient registrations to justify establishing a class.

Four classes for this year will be art, instrumental music, square dancing and music and drama (Singers and Players).

The art class will be under Mrs. A. K. Macleod as instructor with Les Boyer as instructor for square dancing and John Tamblin taking the remaining two. Art and music and drama classes will be music on Wednesday and square dancing on Thursday. All classes will be held in the high school.

A. K. Macleod, high school principal, expressed regret that there were not more registrants to justify classes in the other subjects available - woodwork, sewing, new Canadians. He said that applications for these classes in each creative writing and English for case fell far short of the required 15.

All classes but square dancing will be underway next week and the dancing class will get started on November 3.

Valley Teachers Gather Tomorrow In Penticton For Annual Convention

Summerland schools will be closed Friday with local teachers all attending the annual convention of the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Association in Penticton. More than 700 valley teachers are expected to be in attendance for the sessions which open tonight with registration showing of a film "Stratford Adventure."

Tomorrow morning and afternoon, the teachers will break into small groups to hear speakers on various topics or they will meet to discuss the problems of their classrooms.

During the afternoon they will meet together to hear Dr. Gordon Shrum, head of the Physics Department, University of British Columbia, speak on "The Atomic Age."

Tomorrow evening will feature the traditional banquet and dance in the hall of the Canadian Legion.

The highlight of the convention will occur tomorrow evening at 8:15 p.m. in the High School Auditorium. At this time Dr. Henrietta Anderson, noted B.C. educator, Shown saying good-bye to the Hon. Lester Pearson in Ottawa before his departure to Moscow via a RCAF C-5 transport are two representatives of the Russian legation, Vassili N. Chitarev, left, charge de affairs and first secretary of Russian embassy, Nicolai P. Ostrovsky, at right. The external affairs minister was in Russia from October 5 to 12, during which time he visited several other cities besides Moscow, before leaving to attend the Colombo conference at Singapore. On his way back to Canada from Singapore, Mr. Pearson will spend some time in India, Pakistan, Iraq, Ceylon, Egypt and Belgium.

Arena By-Law Now Ready For Victoria Approval

Arrangements for the arena by-law are rapidly coming to a head and date for the voting may be set at the council meeting two weeks hence.

Reeve F. E. Atkinson at the council meeting Tuesday told of discussion with the deputy minister of municipal affairs at the UBCM convention in Prince George last week and the by-law is ready to be forwarded to Victoria for approval. It is proposed in Victoria and returned in time to receive council approval at the next meeting and then only the favorable vote by ratepayers will be necessary to ahead and complete installation of artificial ice making equipment.

Meanwhile, members of the Rink Association are pressing ahead with work at the arena to have everything ready for the installation of pipe and machinery just prior to the transaction and hope as soon as ratepayers voice approval to have artificial ice this season.

Yesterday, volunteer workers started construction of the engine house and when this is completed only construction of disposal pit and additional bleachers will be necessary, apart from installation from machinery and pipe.

New Wage Contract for Teachers Will Set Schedule for Two Years

New contract, applying to Summerland School District and teachers seven of the 11 Okanagan school districts. Districts included in the new schedule are Summerland, Southern Okanagan, Penticton, Keremeos, Princeton, Armstrong and Spallumcheen.

Under the provisions of the new agreement, it will take 13 years for secondary teachers to reach the maximum salary. Formerly, this was reached in 11 years. Elementary teachers will still reach maximum in 11 years.

Agreement was signed by C. T. Hubbard, president of the Okanagan Branch BCSTA; F. Venables, chairman salary committee, Okanagan Branch BCSTA, on behalf of the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Association and R. J. Shannon, chairman Salary Committee, Okanagan Valley Teachers' Association, on behalf of the teachers.

will address a public meeting on "New Lamps for Old?" At this time greetings will be extended from various civic and provincial bodies. Musical entertainment will be provided by the Penticton Male Choir conducted by Mrs. Margaret Hendry.

Saturday morning a report from the B.C. Teachers' Association will take place. This will feature the election of officers for the coming year.

The second public meeting will occur at one p.m., Saturday in the High School Auditorium. At this time, the Honorable Ray Wilton, minister of education, will give the concluding address to the delegates.

November Meeting For Water Rights

Following Reeve Atkinson's letter to Premier Bennett, action is being delayed on award of Shaughnessy Creek water license to the Trout Creek Hatchery until after a meeting between Summerland council and representatives of the game commission.

At council meeting Tuesday, council heard a letter from I. M. Barrett, fish biologist of the game commission, requesting that the council meet with himself and R. G. McMynn head of the game commission. Council replied suggesting meeting time as 10 a.m., Nov. 7. Differences between the council arose when the commission applied direct to the attorney-general to rights to Shaughnessy Brook water while the subject was under negotiation between the council and the commission.

Purpose of the Nov. 7 meeting, proposed by A. F. Padgett, chief water controller, is for the council and commission to negotiate a mutually satisfactory agreement on the distribution of the water.

New Conductor For Vocal Group

Singers' and Players' this year will be without the services of their long-time musical director, Bud Steuart, but have now enlisted the services of John Tamblin to take his place and with his experience in music and direction, continuation of the high quality performance of the group is now assured for this year.

Announcement by Mr. Steuart that he would not be available for this season, at least, came as a severe shock to the members of the operetta group since they have come over the years to rely heavily on his directing ability. However, plans were made to carry on until someone could be found who was competent and willing to take over.

Possibility of organizing the group under the night school plan was investigated and when this was found to be possible, Mr. Tamblin was persuaded to assume the job of handling musical direction.

About 40 were out for the session Tuesday evening and rehearsal was started on several of the choruses.

The group is facing the perennial problem of a shortage of male voices and an effort is being made to enrol more. Anyone interested in joining the group has been invited to attend the regular Tuesday night practice session at the high school.

Ask for Meeting On Gas Proposals

Summerland council will ask for a meeting with officials of the Inland Natural Gas Co. to discuss the plans of that company to serve this area.

At council meeting Tuesday, Councillor Barkwill asked what, if any, information has been received from the company and Reeve Atkinson said that he had been talking briefly with company representatives a few months ago and they indicated then that they wished to serve Summerland area.

The reeve said that they had told him they would call in on Summerland sometime when in the area to discuss the matter with the council.

Start Compiling List Of Local Oldtimers

Summerland 50th Jubilee committee is getting down to work on the celebration set for next May 6 and 9 and its first task is to try compile a list of district oldtimers who lived in Summerland prior to December 31, 1914.

This week a coupon appears on page 3 of The Review and residents who moved to this district prior to the end of 1914 are asked to fill in the information requested in this coupon and send it along to the jubilee committee.

Listing is desired on those who settled in Bathfield, Mineola, Meadow Valley and Faulder as well as in Summerland.

Appeal is also out for old photographs of the district and early residents and anyone in possession of these is requested to contact Jack Dunsdon and arrangements will be made to have copies made for use in displays.

Bumper Eastern Mac Crop Hits Okanagan Marketing

A heavy McIntosh crop in eastern Canada and United States with marketing "at extremely low prices" has temporarily closed those markets to B.C. fruit but B.C. Tree Fruits officials are hopeful that the low prices asked will clean up the eastern product quickly and marketing will return to normal by Christmas.

Problem stems from the fact that the facilities are not available in the east for the storage of the large crop and so it must be disposed of quickly.

However, Western sales are holding up and compare favorably with those of a year ago at this time. With favorable weather conditions, this situation is expected to continue.

McIntosh packed in a four-pound polythene bag went on sale this week in Vancouver with support of a substantial advertising campaign in the Vancouver daily papers. This method of packaging has been under consideration for some time and has met growing popularity with other types of produce. It is still too early to assess the acceptance of this pack but if the Mac experiment proves successful, Tree Fruits plan to use this packaging for other fruits.

Following is the market report issued today from B. C. Tree Fruits:

Pears - The Bartlett deal is drawing to a close and our comparatively light holdings comprise mainly small Fancy's and Cee grade. Flemish sales continue slow with little demand for this variety either in United States or Canada.

Apples - Eastern Canada - There was no improvement price-wise on eastern markets during the past week. Apples, principally McIntosh are being sold at both wholesale and retail levels at extremely low prices.

Western Canada - McIntosh continue to move to this area at a satisfactory rate. Sales so far this season compare favorably to last year and with normal weather conditions we cannot see any slackening in the demand.

United States - The U.S. apple crop is now estimated at just over 107 million bushels - about three and half percent over last year. Delicious estimated at 27 million bushels and McIntosh at 15 million bushels. Both show substantial increases over 1954 crop.

Due to the unusually heavy McIntosh crop in the eastern United States, opening McIntosh prices are lower than a year ago and heavy transportation costs do not permit us to enter eastern markets with our McIntosh at the present time. We are, however, shipping steadily to Pacific coast markets.

Over the past 10 days, west coast trade has shown a decided preference for the cell-pack. This package is providing full protection and apples are reported to be arriving in an almost bruise-free condition. Favorable comments are being received on the excellent appearance of the new cartons.

This year, Washington named lower prices on Red Delicious. Quantity shipped to date has not been large but a good demand is reported to be developing.

Packing of Red Delicious has now started in the valley and the first car was shipped to the United States yesterday.

M.P. Urges Okanagan Communities To Join In Developing Industry

Proposal that all communities of the Okanagan get together in a joint effort to attract industry to the valley was urged upon Associated Boards of Trade of the South Okanagan last week by O. L. Jones, M.P. for Okanagan Boundary.

Mr. Jones told of instances of light industries looking for suitable locations in Canada and said eastern communities are constantly on the alert for possibility of establishing new industry and suggested to the Trade Board representatives "The answer is to forget your petty differences and for all communities and areas to get together, select one top notch man and pay him to go east and see what he can get in the way of industries."

The natural gas pipe line soon to come through the valley will open the door for many of the type of industry which the Okanagan could readily handle, he pointed out. "We have little raw material in this valley, so the question of how to get industries to settle here has always been a difficult one. When we have the natural gas here, it will be possible to attract small, light industries which are vitally needed to provide diversification."

He said the same situation with regard to the lack of natural resources applies to many districts of Ontario and Quebec but, he added, few of the manufacturing plants in the smaller cities grow upon local or native resources for a supply of materials used. Their raw materials were often shipped from considerable distances, easily equal to those that would obtain in this area and the distances from markets is just as great.

To give an indication of the potentialities in B.C., Mr. Jones pointed out that the geographic centre of B.C. is at Fort St. James, 120 miles from Prince George.

Looking at the future of the province, the speaker noted: "Known gas fields already show four trillion cubic feet of natural gas and many other undeveloped resources. The wealth is up there in that undeveloped region and the day will come when settlers will flock into it."

POWER APPLICATION

Council Tuesday approved power application of W. R. S. Chapman, H. C. Williams, Summerland Co-Op Services, J. H. Schaeffer, St. Stephen's Anglican Church and W. M. Toeve.

Arriving in Quebec City to pay her first visit to Canada, Princess Mary, aunt of Queen Elizabeth, is escorted from Empress of France by Governor-General Vincent Massey. The Princess' month-long Canadian visit, on invitation of the Royal Canadian Corps Signals of which she is colonel-in-chief, will take her across country to Vancouver before she returns to England October 25. As well as her connection with the signal corps, the only sister of the late King George VI is also colonel-in-chief of the Canadian Scottish Regiment. The Princess Royal, widowed in 1947 by the death of the sixth Earl of Harewood, has devoted most of her life to interests in nursing and hospital work.

Other Opinions

BRITISH RAILWAYS IN RED

Nationalized rail transport in the United Kingdom ran up a staggering deficit of nearly 12 million Pounds in 1954.

In the seven years since nationalization of the railways was brought about by the British Labor Party. The cumulative deficit stands at some 39 million Pounds.

Nor is this the whole picture. The Transport Commission, which manages the British railways on behalf of the Government, was forced last December into a Government-inspired surrender to the National Union of Railwaymen, who were opposed to the Commission's plan for weeding out the deadwood and eliminating costly duplication of effort in the staffing of the railways.

Most disquieting of the many factors which combine to make the British railways a taxpayer's white elephant since nationalization by the socialists is the wasteful and extravagant overstaffing. Reliable estimates put the number of unnecessary employees on the nationalized British railways as high as 80,000.

Under private enterprise, railways, like any other industry, exist to provide a service for their customers and to earn a fair return, where not prevented from doing so by regulation, for their investors. Under nationalization, it seems, the British railways exist primarily to provide jobs for thousands of employees who, supported by their union, refuse to entertain the notion of undertaking any other kind of work — Castle News.

CAUTIOUS CONFIDENCE

The sharp break in the New York stock market following reports of President Eisenhower's illness alarmed a good many people outside as well as inside the United States. Even a quick partial recovery of the market has not wholly dissipated uneasiness. But the picture also includes strong testimony as to the soundness of the economic position.

Market experts declare many stocks are still underpriced in relation to their earnings. Careful investors are asking, however, whether earnings can continue at present levels. And hardheaded economists are asking whether the motorcars — can maintain the boom — particularly in houses and pace. Others, joint with warning to declining farm prices and mammoth extensions of consumer credit. Indeed, the stock market is regarded as only one sign of potential trouble.

Timely, therefore, is Adlai Stevenson's warning that less attention should be devoted to prosperity's first dimension — height — and more to its second — length. There is evidence that sober federal officials are gravely concerned about maintaining the boom. But political pressures in both parties are all on the side of measures — such as tax cuts — making for inflation. Courage will be required to prevent a stampede.

A key factor is the confidence of businessmen that buying will continue at a high level. Henry Ford II announces a $500,000,000 expansion, and other automobile makers are staking vast production programs on their surveys of consumers. Similarly, Eastern Air Lines has just announced a big expansion program involving the laying out $350,000,000.

THE WAY THESE SILLY IDEAS GET AROUND

We British Columbians have been so happy with our record boom and all the new jobs and industries that it is bringing us we tend to imagine that all Canada is watching and that the investors of New York and London are cutting each other's throats for a chance to spend their money here.

It has taken the Toronto Kiwanis Club to take the wind out of us and restore our perspective.

Our Attorney-General Robert Bonner stopped off in Toronto to give that great old Ontario city an earful about brash young Vancouver and our great and growing province on the Pacific.

He found that Toronto is interested in Vancouver and B.C. But for altogether different reasons.

When he had finished extolling our growth, our resources and our industries, his audience asked three questions:

1. What about the present police enquiry?
2. What about the Doukhobors?
3. What about B.C.'s narcotics problem?

Just like that. We would like to put this line of questioning down to a morbid curiosity, or an attempt to divert attention from the splendor of our achievements.

Unfortunately we find that Ontario and Quebec are enjoying booms too, booms that don't suffer from comparison with ours. And not being impressed with our economic progress, they are more curious about the skeletons in our closets.

More Population . . . the key to okanagan prosperity

CANADA, SECOND ONLY to Russia and China in size, and exceeding either, and perhaps both, in points of its known natural resources, has but an infinitesimal fraction of their population to people its area, or to make use of its God-given gifts.

This was pointed out graphically, by the Hon. George Drew, leader of Her Majesty's Opposition at Ottawa, in an address to the Penticton Board of Trade recently, his speech being as nearly non-political as is possible for one who leads a national political movement.

Stripping his talk of all political tinge, coming from a man who demonstrated, while Premier of Ontario the value of getting new people into his province, the talk carried considerable weight. For in Ontario, the New Canadians, air-lifted to this country from the British Isles have aptly fitted into their new homeland. Those who predict dire despair from such an influx should go through Mr. Drew's province, and see how this increase of population has, through their production and more, their consumption of goods, aided in the over-all prosperity.

True, there have been seasons and times of unemployment in the larger cities, notably Toronto. There have been the same in Vancouver, but some of this is bound to happen where there is still too great a dependence on seasonal work. Also, when you bring in a great influx of people, there is bound to be some sediment that will sink to the bottom levels. To exclude all, to hamper immigration, because of the comparatively small number of misfits that have come to Canada in the past, and in more recent years as well, is to refuse to eat because one once had acute indigestion.

As Mr. Drew pointed out, and as any Canadian year book, or any treatise on this Dominion's vast resources, will clearly show, Canada today is one of, if not the richest country in point of such untapped natural gifts. Great reserves of water power, coal, oil, gas, and now the new nuclear fission sources are right at hand, as recent developments by U.S. and Canadian concerns have demonstrated. These can be harnessed to develop the country's even greater resources of iron, nickel, copper, and a host of other underground items, to say nothing of the timber, and the products of field lake and stream that are equally plentiful.

Yet, we are doing far too little to exploit these, despite the great strides that have taken place in the post-war years. For we are minus the most important resource of all, in a land like this . . . and that is human beings, people who will consume, here at home, more of the yield of mine, forest, field and steam.

We cannot rely too long on exports, in a world that is waking from somnolence in industry, in the so-called "backward" countries, we are already finding, as Great Britain did before us, that some of our best customers of the past have become our competitors of the present.

Hence, it is needful that we take the necessary steps to provide more adequate markets within our own borders. And the only way to accomplish that is by increased population.

Here, we must pay tribute to another statement by Mr. Drew, to the effect that natural increase will not people our land fast enough to put it in the position that rightfully Canada's. Natural increase will give Canada a theoretical — and it is a theoretical — population of thirty to forty millions some time during the next half century.

Before we take a relaxed pose at that prospect, let us look at it in the light of the changes world conditions and markets. If we keep on with our present ineffectual attitude toward immigration,

Mid-Week Message

That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past. (Ecclesiastes 3:15) Read II Timothy 1:8-11.

Whenever events of our past join with the present to make an unusual circumstance, we usually dismiss it with a casual remark about coincidence or with a shrug of the shoulder. We thus divorce the plot of our lives from divine purpose.

Eight years ago I left Okinawa to return to a civilian pastorate. Now I find myself back on Okinawa in the same office and same chapel I served then; having been recalled to the chaplaincy. On my desk is a hymnal which I found with my name in my own handwriting in it. How easy it is to attribute all this to chance.

I might have been sent to any one of a number of places. I might not have accepted the re-serve status that led to my recall. Considering these factors, mere chance does not seem to be the answer. How much more satisfying for this and for all the events of our lives is the sense of divine purpose!

PRAYER

Help us to live this day, dear God, in the knowledge that it is a precious part of the pattern of all our days. Grant that if the threads of today seem to match up with those woven into our yesterdays, we accept it as Thy will. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

tion, one of two things are possible, and even almost certain. One is that we shall lose our present enviable position as a potential world power, outstripped by nations that lack our gifts, area, and . . . perhaps a diminishing force . . . inherent drive, heritage of our pioneers. The other, is that the knocking on our doors, from those seeking admittance from land that could populate Canada with people of similar stock to those now within our borders, may become a sledge-hammer demand from some other group, which will smash down the feeble door, and over-run this Dominion. Before any find amusement in this remark, let them look at the pages of history, envisaging the hordes that over-ran Asia and Europe, not once, but many times in the past. And it can happen here let us not forget it.

Agreeing then, that population is not only a good thing, but a necessity, of what interest is this to the people of Summerland? At first glance, we are far removed from the churning wheels of industry, from the marts of the more populous places, so far, indeed, that it would be of little interest to us.

The reverse is the truth. For Summerland relies on the products of field and forest for its progress. The fruit and lumber produced here must find receptive markets. This from the present development, the existing orchards. And we may have by no means reached the limit of such acreage, providing we can find outlets for what we produce.

And back of Summerland is a vast area that has, in the past given many hints of wealth hidden in the rocks. Who knows but that some of this will at some time, bring this community a new source of progress and prosperity?

Getting back to basic realities, and sticking to existing conditions it will not take much imagination to see that Summerland, British Columbia . . . and the entire Dominion of Canada will profit from a more rapid increase in population.

And it is a goodly thing that national minds are alerted, and willing to see if something can be done about it.

It now remains for all of us to meet the challenge, to urge that it be carried . . . and that soon.

By Lewis Milligan

Brain-washing seems to have become a regular indoor sport in Communist countries. In the early days of the Bolshevik revolution it was carried out by Lenin with ruthless expedition by means of physical torture and starvation, which mercifully ended in swift death in many cases, and banishment to Siberia for those who survived the ordeal with their brains more or less intact. As the new regime became more firmly established, Stalin had no patience with those in high places who didn't think as he did, and instead of washing their brains he had them promptly blown out. Trotsky was too quick for him, but even he was pursued and dispatched in exile by the order of his former rival.

Fittingly enough, it was a Russian who, over a hundred years ago, said: "Every country has its own constitution; ours is absolutism moderated by assassination." And it was Disraeli who later remarked: "Assassination has never changed the history of the world." This latter matter may be open to question, but it has never changed or moderated the constitution of Russia, which today is governed by a regime as absolute as that under the Czars. In fact, Communism has proved to be the most ruthless form of absolutism the world has ever known, for it not only assassinates its rulers, it massacres the minds of the people and turns them into servile robots. And that applies not only to manual workers, but to all the professions: to scientists, economists, journalists, novelists, dramatists, artists, historians and philosophers. Their brains must be washed of all pro-Communist ideas, of freedom of thought and expression. The communist Revolution profoundly affected the trend of Russian literature. An infant Tolstoy would be brain-washed at birth.

And that is all necessary for the successful operation of Marxian Socialism. The brain, being the seat of thought and reason, must be enslaved to the idea that there is only one god, Karl Marx, and Lenin is his prophet. That sweeps away all spiritual religions, renders man soulless and a mere puppet of a dictatorial bureaucracy. Soviet schools do a very thorough job of eliminating all ideas of individual freedom and ambition to excel beyond the cast-iron restrictions of the serf State. Where there is no vision beyond the material, the people perish spiritually. Aspiration and imagination, which are the breath of life of genius and creative effort, are deliberately smothered under Communism.

We are told that the object of brain-washing is to remove from the mind all previous conceptions of the political and economic order of society, and replace them with the principles of Socialism: "ing" and "re-education". Canadian Squadron Lend-Prisoners of war have been subjected to this mental treatment in China. It is called "mind-cleansing" or Andy MacKenzie, of Montreal, who was shot down in the Korean War, tells how he was brain-washed for two years in solitary confinement. He finally broke down under the strain and signed a false statement that he had "invaded Chinese air space" and had been briefed to do so.

In an interview MacKenzie said: "They (the Chinese Communists) have a different interpretation of the truth than we do . . . The truth they wanted from me is something that will help their Communist world revolution. That truth, which to me was a perfect lie, would help their cause and they told me I must tell them the truth."

Such a perversion of common ethics is almost incredible, and if it became universal it would indeed be a world revolution in morals and sane mental processes, which would render any social system impossible. It is a virtual admission that Communism itself is a big lie.

Crisp air with a hint of frost, glowing trees in rich autumn shades flood-lighted by a peculiar copper-colored sun, golden stubble on freshly harvested fields, graneries filled with the season's crop and piles of fruits and vegetables ready for winter storage—yes, this is October, the month of beauty and fulfilment. It is the time of traditional gratitude for our good and abundant Canadian harvest the time when one special day is set apart for rightly observing our national Thanksgiving. In many homes Thanksgiving Day will be marked by the gathering of families and friends and by a specially prepared dinner where the table will boast such good things as—roast turkey or chicken, cranberry sauce, steaming hot vegetables including fluffy mashed potatoes, rich brown gravy, a crisp salad and pumpkin or apple pie.

In keeping with the spirit of Thanksgiving simple but different table centrepieces can be easily made using colorful combinations of fall fruits and vegetables. One such handsome decoration can be made by grouping crimson red apples, blush-yellow pears, purple plums, deeply netted cantaloupes and orange tinted peaches flanked by clusters of blue, red and green grapes on autumn leaves. Golden sun-ripened heads of oats placed here and there among the fruits will add both height and lightness to the table centre.

Vegetables can also be displayed this way. An attractively placed arrangement of deep purple eggplant, snowy white cauliflower, deep green pepper squash, bright orange carrots and creamy white parsnips surrounded by cranberries and autumn leaves makes a beautiful centre to adorn the Thanksgiving table.

A medley of fruits and vegetables such as green cabbage, golden onions, dried ears of corn, blue, red or green grapes and vivid red apples make an attractive table decoration. Using few or many fruits and vegetables, there are all kinds of possibilities. But, one word of warning, since the makings, particularly the fruits, for these table arrangements are perishable they should not be left on the table too long.

During the spring and summer all through the country much time and effort has been devoted to the production of fall fruits and vegetables and special care has been taken while harvesting them. Then too, agriculturists and producers are working constantly on better means of storing these perishable products so that they will be of the highest quality when we buy them in the shops during the winter.

For those who are considering buying and storing fall fruits and vegetables in their homes the Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture stresses the point that safe storage of apples, pears, cabbage, carrots and other vegetables depends on controlled temperature and humidity. For this reason the space set aside for storage should be well insulated and have some method of cooling with outside air. Ventilation can generally be provided by merely opening a window but windows which allow sunlight to get in should be darkened. Light not only increases the temperature but also causes sprouting of onions, potatoes and other vegetables.

Only sound well matured fruits and vegetables which have been handled as little as possible should be stored. And these foods should be checked frequently for spoilage. If wilting occurs the humidity in the storage room should be increased. If rot or any form of disease is noted—no matter how slight—the affected fruit or vegetable should be discarded. This will prevent other stored foods from becoming tainted or damaged.

Unlike the later and more hardy variety of apples and pears—peaches, grapes and plums cannot be stored for any length of time.

When one envisions a St. Bernard, there is invariably a little keg of something good hanging around the dog's neck as comfort for the forlorn traveller. Well, "Mandy", six-weeks-old St. Bernard puppy owned by Mrs. A. Kedge of Barnes, England, is still too young and small to go hunting lost travellers, but she has her barrel which she "rolled out" here for photographer's sake.

CALL IT WHAT YOU LIKE - C S B MEANS CASH STANDING BY

Some may call them "Canada's Sterling Buy" . . . others "Canada's Safest Buy" . . . still others may think of them as "Cash Standing By", but the Bank of Montreal believes nobody in Canada should be without them, says Ivor Solly, B of M manager at West Summerland. They are Canada Savings Bonds — the safest, easiest-to-buy investment in the land.

Safest — because the government of Canada guarantees to redeem them at full face value at any time, plus interest to the end of the previous calendar month.

Easiest-to-buy — because for 5 percent down you can buy a bond, and pay the balance in easy monthly instalments over a year; Imagine, just $2.50 for a $50-bond and less than a dollar a week pays the balance.

And the return — a handsome 3 1/4 percent interest each year, starting November 1 next.

Mr. Solly is urging his customers not to miss out on what he calls the investment opportunity of the year. To every one of them he says, "You can't afford not to buy C S B's."

The B of M manager says you can buy Canada Savings Bonds without any fuss or bother. You just fill out a simple application form at his office, make your 5 percent down-payment, and the B of M does the rest.

In No Rush to Make Comparisons
But Newcomer Somewhat Wide-eyed

After a wide-eyed look at Canada during a train trip from Quebec City, Okanagan newcomer Jean Nasica, who arrived this week from France, is still busy making comparisons between his old and new homes while settling into life in the valley.

Travelling with him was his bride, the former Joyce Warrington, one-time Penticton Peach Queen, and the pair are now making their home in Penticton after arriving there last week.

They met in Metz while Joyce was serving with the RCAF and Jean was teaching French to a class of Canadian service men and women. An accomplished linguist, Jean does not face the language barrier that confronts many new Canadians. Besides French and English, he is also fluent in German and Italian.

As for comparisons between France and Canada, Jean is taking a cautious approach. Says he has heard too many people handing out judgements on France after being there only a few days and that is one breach he doesn't want to commit himself.

Notwithstanding his caution, he readily admits to being somewhat breathless over the standard of living enjoyed in this country where such items as refrigerators, washing machines and a host of household appliances which are all regarded as luxuries in France are accepted as necessities in this country. However, the lack of these items, he points out, is not keenly felt by the average French housewife as it would be to her Canadian counterpart because she has been educated to different shopping and living habits so that the need for many of the devices is not so great.

Jean apparently oversold himself a bit on what to expect in this country so that he was at first confronted by a mild disillusionment. Like many other Europeans, he says, he had visualized Canada a land of magnificent homes, surrounded by lawns and flower gardens, and tall buildings. His first glimpse of Canada being Quebec Lowertown and then Montreal quickly punctured that balloon.

One of his early impressions was the sight of long sleek motor cars parked in front of homes which appeared somewhat the worse for wear. Cars of this type he has been accustomed to see only in front of homes of the wealthier classes in his native land. Jean, however, is going to be seeing a lot more cars in his future. Abandoning the teaching profession, this week he started work as a car salesman with Hunt Motors in Penticton.

On the subject of France's constantly changing government, Jean Nasica says this is a matter of very little concern to the man-on-the-street in that country. Administration of the affairs of the country is carried out by the permanent government departments and it is his observation that the question of who is sitting behind the premier's desk makes no difference to the daily living of the average citizen with the detachment which is the erage person so they just treat it as a matter of the French national personality.

Starts Oct. 21

District music lovers will, in deed, be fortunate to hear the brilliant playing of duo-pianists Alfred and Herbert Teitschik on October 21 in the Penticton High School Auditorium. Here under the sponsorship of the South Okanagan Community Concerts Association they are now on their seventh sold-out tour of the country.

The brothers had their earliest musical training under their father, an old world musician, in Floresville, Texas, where they were born. When the family moved to Houston, the boys continued their study there under Aldrige Kidd, until they entered the Juilliard School of Music where they studied under Mme. Olga Samaroff-Stokowski. After graduation, they returned to Houston, where they both got married, and then they began to teach piano in the city's public schools and in their own studio.

To satisfy their own love of making music for audiences, the Teitschiks began giving two-piano recitals in Houston, in addition to their teaching. That started them off on their rich and fortunate careers together, for their success was immediate and their popularity correspondingly grew with it. Their perfect blending of tone, their unusual programs, were but a few of the pianistic attributes that carried them to the top rank of their art. "A touch of genius" a music critic has called their playing. Another music reviewer has put it more colorfully, describing their repertee as "a thing of joy, combining somehow the exhilaration and satisfaction of a fast game of tennis and first-class chamber music."

An important factor in the response the gifted brothers evoke from their recitals is the noteworthy talent they share for building programs of universal and sustained interest. Thoroughly un-hackneyed, their programs blend the beloved and familiar with the new and ingratiating, a mixture as satisfying as it is provocative. Nevertheless, it remains an acute problem for a duo-piano team to build up an extensive varied repertoire. The Teitschik brothers are consistently hailed as a piano team of high polish and striking brilliance.

Blind Teacher Awarded Medal At CNIB Session

Home this week after a seven-week vacation was Miss Margaret W. Liggett who while attending the CNIB convention at Victoria was presented with a gold medal, the award of merit of the Canadian Council of the Blind and also a life membership in the organization.

Miss Liggett, who since her retirement in 1954 has made her home in Summerland, was pioneer home teacher of the blinded and spent 32 years in this field. Most of her pupils were men and women who lost their sight after reaching maturity, and her subjects ranged from Braille reading and writing, music, basketry, leather work, knitting, typing, chair caning. In addition she performed an important service in helping these handicapped persons in making social adjustments.

She was born at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, and was educated in Brantford, Ontario. She was selected as candidate for the first home teachers' training course sponsored by the CNIB in Toronto in 1921. She herself is a CNIB registrant.

Enroute home, Miss Liggett was honored at a surprise party at New Westminster. Present were 12 of her former pupils, three young teachers and two now superannuated who trained with her.

CARS Campaign Now In Progress

This month, canvass of the district is being conducted by members of Rebekah Lodge on behalf of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. A committee from the Rotary Club is assisting by handling collections in the Trout Creek and experimental farm areas.

CARS is an organization founded in Vancouver in 1948 and now operates with endorsement of B.C. and federal governments and the B.C. Division of the Canadian Medical Association.

Its purpose is to promote increased facilities for prevention, diagnosis and treatment of arthritis and other rheumatic diseases. Its program includes treatment in homes and medical clinics, provision of special drugs, research projects, education and rehabilitation.

The society maintains medical clinics in major hospitals in B.C. and has in addition, 28 mobile clinics. One of the mobile clinics operates out of Penticton and serves arthritic sufferers in the Summerland area.

The job facing CARS is no small one. A recent national survey undertaken by the federal government showed arthritic and rheumatic ailments as the third leading cause of disability of Canadians. It was revealed by this survey that 3 1/2 million work days are lost each year because of them. Some 125,000 Canadians are disabled to some extent by the disease and 250,000 are severely or totally disabled by them.

Legion Auxiliary Entertains Pensioners

Members of Summerland Old Age Pensioners Association were entertained at their meeting Tuesday at a program of bingo and delightful refreshments.

Sponsoring the entertainment and refreshments was the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion.

Winners of Baseball Championships Honored at Trade Board Dinner

Tribute to Summerland's baseball players was paid by the Board of Trade last Thursday night when members of trophy-winning Maos and Red Sox were guests of the board at dinner.

Tribute to the Red Sox for winning the Okanagan junior championship and to the Maos for winning the Okanagan senior championship was expressed by several speakers and trophies emblematic of the wins were presented to the teams.

Presentation of the trophy for the juniors was made by Joe Sheeley, president of the junior league, to Bobby Parker, while the CKOK senior trophy was presented by CKOK president Maurion Finnerty to Allan Hooker.

The most modern ship of her kind afloat, the destroyer-escort St. Laurent is due for commission October 29 at Montreal where she will proceed to Halifax. Now almost completed, the St. Laurent is the first of 14 ships of her type. All-Canadian designed and built, they have been developed as a counter to the modern, fast submarine. The St. Laurent is pictured during trials on the St. Lawrence river.

35-Year Partnership Ends With Butler & Walden Sale

Summerland's oldest retail business last week changed ownership and a 35-year-old business partnership came to an end Friday night when doors closed for the last time at Butler & Walden. Saturday morning they opened with new partners in possession operating under the name of Varty & Lussin.

Very few people in the community were aware that sale of the business was being negotiated and customers learned with surprise Saturday morning that E. R. Butler and T. A. Walden had disposed of their interests in the business.

New owners are Russell Varty and John Lussin. Mr. Varty has taken up residence in Summerland and is managing the business while Mr. Lussin, whose home is in Vancouver, will be a silent partner.

Mr. Varty has had considerable experience in the hardware business having been manager of Westchell Hardware in Cranbrook for 11 years before moving to Vancouver where he was manager of Thompson Hardware. His partner, a brother-in-law, has business interests in both Vancouver and Abbotsford.

Allan Butler, son of one of the former owners, will continue as a member of the staff under the new management.

The firm of Butler & Walden was started in 1920 when they took over the present store from Summerland Supply Co. Mr. Butler was manager of the store for that company and Mr. Walden, a cousin of Mrs. Butler, was prior to that time living in Yorkton, Sask., and working with a retail hardware store there.

During the time the pair were in business, they watched the West Summerland business area grow from a half dozen scattered buildings on the north side of Granville Street to the present built up shopping district.

After they had been in business several years, they were joined by Guy Walden and the firm was known as Butler & Walden Bros. They built the building now occupied as the IOOF Hall, and this was operated by Guy selling furniture and boots and shoes. In the early '30's, Guy sold out his interest and returned to Kelowna and the second store was vacated.

Both the retiring partners have played an exceedingly prominent part in the community life of this district and when the Good Citizen award was started in Summerland, Mr. Butler was the obvious choice as the first recipient. Mr. Walden was honored just last year when he was made a life member

Still Had the First Nickel They Earned

Neither Ed Butler nor Austin Walden have ever had the reputation as tightwads but it can be truthfully said that when their partnership ended last Saturday after 35 years, they still had the first nickel they ever earned.

When they opened the door for business back in 1920, their first transaction netted them a "fishscale" nickel minted three years earlier. In those days before manifold taxes, a merchant was allowed to keep a nickel so instead of it going into the till, it was tacked on the wall.

There it stayed and to avoid dispute over who got the nickel on dissolution of the partnership the time-blackened coin was turned over to the new owners along with the stock and equipment.

10 Per Cent Penalty Now Added to Taxes

October 17 deadline for municipal taxes saw a total of 95 1/2 per cent of taxes paid by that date. Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith reported this is slightly ahead of collections last year but is not a record. Collections at the deadline date have been as high as 96 per cent.

A penalty of 10 per cent will now be added to all unpaid taxes.

Confirmation Unavailable on Rumors Of Changes in Plans For Bridge

"Pure speculation." That was the remark made by Premier W.L.A.C. Bennett's executive assistant Ron Worley, when requested to comment on a report in a Vancouver newspaper that a floating bridge is now under consideration for Okanagan Lake.

Mayor J. J. Ladd of Kelowna says that the premier had kept him fully informed on the progress being made, but there had been no new developments in recent weeks.

"Until I hear from him (Mr. Bennett) I still think there might be a crossing," declared Mr. Ladd.

Following Mr. Bennett's announcement that a bridge is feasible between Kelowna and Westside, land values on the west side of the lake almost tripled overnight. Small holdings on the VLA property were snapped up, and good prices were obtained for property which has been subdivided.

According to the Vancouver newspaper's report, the engineers have been unable to get footings for either a suspension bridge or a cantilever type bridge, much like that which will be built at Second Narrows in Vancouver. There is also some difficulty in getting a satisfactory route for a causeway across the lake near Kelowna, the report continues.

"So the engineers now are studying the possibility of building a pontoon bridge. It is known that engineers have been in touch with the CPR on the question of where a lift span could be included in the bridge to permit the passage of railway-car scows on the lake," the news story stated.

Apple Juice Output Now 40,000 Gallons

The equivalent of 12 straight carloads — 40,000 gallons — is the amount of apple juice pouring daily out of B.C. Fruit Processors plants in Okanagan and Kootenay valleys.

To produce this quantity of juices and other apple by-products, these plants are now daily handling 830 tons of fresh apples — the equivalent of 20,000 boxes or a 20-car trainload.

A new product will soon be added to the already long list of Sun-Rype products when production of a new pie filler comprised of a mixture of loganberries and apples is commenced next week. The loganberries are produced on the Pacific coast.

Students to be Released To Help With Apple Crop

Summerland school board today joined the battle to help growers get the last of the apple crop off the trees and stated school pupils would be permitted to absent themselves from school to help with the picking.

Lateness of the crop season, coupled with a shortage of pickers this season, has created a the crop may still be on the trees dangerous situation that some of when likelihood of a severe damaging frost is strong.

Principal A. K. Macleod advised this afternoon said pupils over 15 years of age may be absent from school to assist with the picking. He told the pupils those who wish to participate in the picking should first obtain permission from their parents, advise the school of their intentions and then report to the labor office. He said those who go to work picking in family orchards or with neighbors should notify the labor office they are working so a clear picture of the labor force at work may be had at all times.

Placement Officer W. J. Beattie said he has been expecting pickers to arrive from the northern part of the valley for several days but none have shown from that source yet. He said this morning he had orders on hand for 27 pickers but no applicants to fill any of the orders.

In Penticton, Mayor Matson yesterday declared an emergency and appealed to employers to release as many of their staff as possible to help finish the picking.

Total apple crop in Summerland this year was estimated at 485,000 boxes and it is estimated that 300,000 boxes have already been harvested. The remaining 180,000 boxes is made up mostly of Rome, Delicious, Newtons, Staymens and Winesaps.

Rate of picking since apples were started has been about 12,000 boxes per day and if this rate is continued, most of the crop will be off in about 15 days.

Last year, apples were still dribbling into packinghouses in small quantities until November 14.

Only danger from apples still on the trees come from the fact that temperature might drop sharply and a severe freezing would cause damage to the fruit.

Travelling Gavel Comes to Legion

Legion Hall was filled last Wednesday night when the regular monthly meeting was followed by presentation of the travelling gavel to the Summerland Branch by Jack Pothicary of Armstrong, second vice-president of the provincial command.

Present for the occasion were visitors from Okanagan Falls, Armstrong, Peachland, Enderby, Penticton along with members of the local ladies' auxiliary.

Visitors were welcomed by C. E. Bentley, zone commander. Among the visitors was Graham Kincaid, past zone commander, and Mrs. Kincaid.

The travelling gavel has been carried from branch to branch since 1962 and is a symbol of friendship and the unity between branches. From here, it is planned a group will accompany it in a few weeks time to Omak for presentation there.

In the chair for last week's session was Nat May, president of the Summerland branch.

During the regular business session, plans were discussed for the annual sale of poppies and wreaths with George B. Fudge and R. S. Oxley heading the committee.

Murder Trial Opens In Vernon Monday

First case scheduled before the fall assizes which open in Vernon on Monday morning is the trial of George Kramer, charged with murdering his wife Ruth over the Labor Day week-end.

Appearing for the accused at the trial will be A.D.C. Washington with John S. Alkins presenting the case for the crown.

Mrs. F.E. Atkinson Chosen President Of Provincial Hospital Auxiliaries

Chosen president of B.C. Hospital Auxiliaries at the annual convention in Vancouver last week was Mrs. F. E. Atkinson of Summerland. Mrs. Atkinson is a former president of the local auxiliary and has long been active in the affairs of the organization.

Representing the Summerland auxiliary at the three day session was Mrs. Les M. Rumball. The meeting was held in conjunction

Eastern Market Still Affected By Low Prices

While growers are grappling with the problem of getting the crop off the trees, their selling agency, B.C. Tree Fruits, is still bucking tough competition in eastern markets where plentiful eastern apples are selling at extremely low prices.

Volume to the Winnipeg market is reported to be down somewhat due to very active competition from Quebec and Ontario producers. In other western Canadian markets, apple sales continue about normal.

Demand for McIntosh in Los Angeles continues steady and the trade is particularly pleased with the cell pack and also arrivals of McIntosh in the tray pack. First car of cell pack extra fancy McIntosh was shipped into the San Francisco market this week and also several cars of Maos have been shipped into Milwaukee, Chicago and Minneapolis against the stiff competition from the eastern Maos.

Tree Fruits state that while it may be a little while before volume can be obtained on the eastern U. S. Markets, a start has at least been made and "we can only hope our pack and quality will bring repeat orders."

Between 30 and 40 thousand boxes have been shipped this week for vessels sailing to the United Kingdom and offshore markets and cars are booked for loading at Vancouver and New Westminster during the next 10 days. There has also been a limited movement overland to vessels at Montreal.

Other export areas to which sales are in process of completion are the British West Indies and British Malaya.

The selling agency reports a few Bartlett's still on hand and d'Anjous in plentiful supply. The trade, it is reported, is showing little interest in Flemish, however, d'Anjous are moving freely to eastern Canada and this variety was released to western Canadian markets on Friday.

Mrs. F. E. ATKINSON

With the convention of the B.C. Hospitals Association.

More than 100 delegates were registered for the auxiliaries convention, representing 150 auxiliaries with a membership of more than 7,000.

Reports presented to the convention showed $250,000 raised by member organizations in B.C. during the past year, and of this amount $200,000 was spent for hospital purposes.

Continued growth of the organization was indicated by the report that seven new auxiliaries were formed during the year with another in the process of being formed in the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Convention schedule included a tour of Shaughnessy Military Hospital and St. Paul's Hospital and addresses by Hon. Eric Martin, minister of health, and by Mrs. C. C. Warren of Victoria on the subject "Do You Need a Chronic Hospital?"

FROM SASKATCHEWAN

Mrs. L. E. Fitzgerald of Meota, Sask., is here for an indefinite visit with her daughter, Mrs. K. Norstrom.

Will Try New Plan For Assigning Roles

The first practice of the Singers and Players with John Tamblin as new musical director Tuesday evening proved most successful and encouraging. About 40 members enjoyed the evening under his vigorous direction. However, it is hoped more members, especially men, will come out to take part in this outstanding opera "The Gondoliers." New members are welcome.

This season the Singers are undertaking something different in casting principal parts. A qualified audition committee of five, made up of non-members will audition and select principals from those who wish to try, out for a lead.

It is hoped that most of the members and anyone interested but not already coming out will audition.

As the auditions will be held the first week in November those who wish to try for a part are asked to come out for further particulars, and copies of music and libretto, next Tuesday evening at 8:00 p.m. in the high school.

OES Worthy Matron Visits Local Chapter

Here last Wednesday evening on an official visit to Summerland chapter was Mrs. Jennie Allbright of Vancouver, worthy grand matron of the order in B.C. She was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. Sarges of Whiterock. All were visitors at the home of Mrs. F. T. Stark.

Visitors from Kelowna, Princeton and Vancouver were present at the chapter meeting to join Summerland members in extending a gracious welcome to the distinguished visitors.

Other Opinions

NO HUNTING SIGN

DESERVES RESPECT

The hunting season is on for the game birds and most of the big game in this district. Today, and this week-end and throughout the weeks and week-ends to come until the end of the season, lovers of the sport of hunting will be heading for their favorite spots to match their wits with our abundant wild game.

Each year, all over the country, atrocities against farmers are committed by so-called sportsmen, and, granted this type of sportsman is in the minority, they have, over the years, caused a strained atmosphere between the farmer and the hunter. Year after year more and more of our better hunting lands are being posted by the owners, until now the hunter has to go into the backwoods country in search of his sport.

Place yourself in the position of the farmer. He spends years cultivating his land. He spends a big part of his income bettering and multiplying his stock. Most farmers aren't on the land to make a million and very few of them ever do. They are farmers because they are trying to make a living for their families, and because they like farming.

Most farmers like hunting and most farmers are quick to grant permission to hunt to any sportsman who may ask him. But each year one or two of our so-called sportsmen ignore the facts of ownership, of privacy, of respect and common decency. He is the type who enters the farmer's property without permission. He tramps over seeded and cultivated lands. His dog chases and harasses the stock, and he, because he is the type that shoots at anything that moves, shoots a cow or cripples some other of the farmer's valuable livestock. Next year that property is posted, and so is the property of his neighbors, and the true sportsman is pushed still further back.

It only takes a minute to ask the farmer for permission to hunt on his land. It takes only common sense and a sense of decency to respect the property once permission has been granted. Let's be sportsmen in the true sense of the word and keep good hunting lands open for ourselves and for those who follow. — Kimberley News.

TURN TO FORESTRY, BOYS!

District high school boys may be missing a good opportunity by not considering more carefully a career in forestry.

The experts tell us that we are turning from a period of mature-growth lumbering to a second-growth period. Beyond the next stage is growth pulp economy. Their comments are not stopping there, the prospect of a silvichemical industry.

Alaska Pine's board chairman, Mr. Clyde Morgan, was quoted last week in Vancouver in these words: "I am going to prophesy that before too many years chemical products from wood waste will probably exceed in value the lumber and pulp we now extract from the forest."

Despite today's high log prices there is thus every indication that our trees are likely to become increasingly more valuable. Apart from the supervision in the cutting of government-licensed forests, there is the whole undeveloped field of reforestation. Over 100 applications for forest management licences are awaiting the outcome of the Sloan Inquiry.

We learned from the quarterly meeting in Duncan last week, of the V. I. section, Canadian Institute of Forestry, that more than slash burning is disappearing in consequence of greater utilization of nature's forest bounty.

The fact that there were 60 foresters at the meeting reveals the tremendous growth under way in the lumber industry on V. I. No one requires a crystal ball to forecast that this number will grow in keeping with the changing nature of our forest economy.

A university course shorter than that required by forest engineers, might be devised to take care of a demand for foresters which would seem to be staring us in the face. — The Cowichan Leader.

Some sort of economic guarantee is necessary to enable British Columbia farmers to compete against U.S. subsidized production. The answer: the government gives the farmer the right to sell his produce in this province. — Grand Forks Gazette.

The Gas Question . . . what it means to summerland

COMMUNITY LEADERS in Summerland have been cautious about accepting natural gas, thoroughly canvassing the effect of this new fuel on this community. Now, when the time for a decision is at hand, some new and important evidence has been presented.

Before any decision was made, either way, there were naturally some questions that the man on the street, the ordinary resident of Summerland, has felt should be answered.

These questions were completely apart from those affecting the ordinary house hold. The home-owners queries are being amply answered by publicized material via press and radio. But such answers may not altogether cover some of the points that have led Summerland's council and others to take a somewhat cautious view on adopting natural gas.

Leaving out these things that concern the private householder, then, and proceeding to the public matters, the first question is, "What effect will natural gas have on Summerland's splendid electrical utility, one of the few community-owned installations that is neither used to supplement taxation, nor is a drain of taxpayers' dollars through deficit operation. Will it place this utility in the debit column?"

Those most closely allied with electric utility operation, in many parts of the country say not. They state that the home-owner who now uses full electrical appliances will certainly be reluctant to part with them. Moreover, appliance dealers in the Okanagan, taking a leaf from the books of those in the same line in Calgary and Edmonton, do not expect any slump in the sale of ranges or other current-using equipment. It has been found that there are those who infinitely prefer electric utilities to those using gas.

A few enquiries will readily substantiate this, quieting any fears that gas will mean anti fire-sale of electrical equipment in the home, the only place where there appears to be much direct competition.

Furthermore, the agreement that is offered to all Valley municipalities makes ample provision to offset any loss in civic earnings, even should there be any, which is doubtful. For the company is offering a double payment; one that is mandatory, to cover taxation, and another, given voluntarily.

Dealing for a moment with the voluntary payment of three percent of the gross revenue this could well mean, in years to come, a nice sum to ease the pressure on the taxpayer. And the community hand out nothing for this, other than a "permission to operate."

For the other portion of the payment, the two percent that is mandatory, in lieu of taxes, covers the "franchise fee", the permission for the company to instal and maintain its pipes in the town streets.

On top of this, is the guarantee that streets, roads and lanes will, where dug up, be put back in "as good condition as they were previously". This at once stifles fears that Summerland's excellent paved thoroughfares will be broken up, and left in rough and bumpy condition once mains and laterals are laid.

As a matter of fact, company officials have assured our neighboring city of Penticton, that they will not only "patch up" the streets, but will see to it that streets are at least in as good a condition

Mid-Week Message

Thou art wearied in the greatness of thy way; yet saidst thou not, There is no hope: thou hast found the life. (Isaiah 57:10.) Read Matthew 16:24-27.

Already the young woman whom my friend was interviewing had answered all the routine questions. She was applying for a position as leader among underprivileged children. Then my friend asked: "Why do you wish to leave your present employment?" Being present at that interview, I have never forgotten her quiet, sincere reply: "It does not use up my energies. Therefore I feel it is unimportant."

Very simply she had expressed the test of our religion. If what we are doing spiritually does not challenge us and exhaust our energies, it is not important. It does not greatly matter where we are at any given moment, but the spirit that governs our life; not what we have, but what we share. Jesus expressed it somewhat differently but declared the same fact when he said: "For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it."

PRAYER

For all the blessings of life, O God, we give Thee thanks. Among those blessings we count our hardships, dangers, sufferings, or sacrifices endured in the service of the Master. We seek to be accounted faithful servants. In his name. Amen.

as prior to the placement of the pipes. They hinted that they will go to "extreme lengths" to assure this is the case.

Now, what of the general effect on the community? For this, we must draw upon the statements made by O. L. Jones, M.P. for the Okanagan Boundary to the Associated Boards of Trade of the Southern Interior, who supplied some startling new evidence at that meeting. Mr. Jones told the association that industries "will undoubtedly follow the coming of natural gas," and then, in his illustrations, showed that not all of these industries go to the "bigger towns", and that some quite small communities have been chosen as homes for new plants. His remarks recalled another statement made not too long ago by an industrial leader, who stated frankly that his firm preferred to go to a smaller town . . . and he indicated one quite similar to Summerland . . . for he had found that employees are vastly more contented there. They can get practically all the good things that are available in the bigger communities, without the tenseness, and pressure of the larger places.

If, as Mr. Jones has said, industries will follow the gas lines, and if, as has been further hinted, some of these industries may be looking for the smaller, self-contained community, then it well behooves Summerland to place itself in the position where such industries can find all they need . . . including natural gas.

We have the rest: we have good water, land, cheap power; we have excellent schools, and a far more active, and certainly more united community spirit than some of the larger towns.

Then perhaps, having exercised natural caution, it might now be well to have the general public hear what the gas people themselves have to say in answer to, not only the questions we have posed here, but to any others that may occur to private or public persons. For if opportunity is not knocking, but travelling a pipeline, let it be piped into Summerland, by all means.

THE DECLINE OF ORATORY

Many books have been written on the art of public speaking, and colleges used to provide courses of training for aspirants in that direction. The popular orators of the past, in the pulpit and on the platform, were not all intellectual giants. Some of them were pygmies who added cubits to their stature by the "gift of the gab" with which they were born. The great Greek orator, Demosthenes, who was born with an impediment in his speech which he overcame by putting pebbles in his mouth and haranguing the roaring waves on the seashore. In those days there were no loud-speakers and political meetings were held in the open air. Sir Winston Churchill, as a young man, was troubled with a lisp. A well known Canadian orator, Rev. J. A. MacDonald, editor of the Globe, Toronto, who held big audiences in the United States spellbound before the First World War, suffered from a stutter, which balked his utterance at the outset until he got into high gear.

Oratory is out of fashion today. Preachers and politicians no longer indulge in flowery flights of imagination or passionate appeals. They have gone to the other extreme in prosely dialectics. Many preachers seem unable to think on their feet and are worded to their prepared manuscripts, which has its advantages for members of the congregation in permitting them to relax.

Politicians are no longer the spellbinders they used to be at the hustings. When they are not slamming each other and exposing some alleged scandal in connection with the government, they are competing in a contest of promises for the solution of the latest social and economic problems. The socialists have the advantage in this respect over the old parties, for they can promise far more. They can prove by statistics and plain facts that the world is not what it ought to be, and prescribe the simplest solutions for the most intricate problems. Their theories and arguments are so plausible that they seem to be able to convince many people that they have a cure for all the ills that flesh is heir to.

At the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto recently I listened for half an hour to a man who claimed to have discovered the causes of all diseases and how they could be cured or avoided. He at first attracted the crowd by holding aloft a large snake which he draped about his shoulders. When he had got their attention he deposited the reptile in a handbag. He was a fluent speaker and he entertained the audience with occasional wisecracks at the frailties of the flesh. He displayed a chart outlining the vitamins and other elements used by the human body, and said that the secret of good health and longevity was to maintain those elements in perfect balance. He held up an onion and a lemon and named other vegetables and fruits which he said contained all the essentials of life. He promised to give a demonstration of how vegetables and fruits should be cooked and not cooked. He proceeded to slice the onion and out the lemon in half, laid them aside and forgot the demonstration. He told how he was some years ago given up for as good as dead and was now hale and hearty as the result of his discovery of the secret of good health. He offered to impart that secret for the small consideration of ten cents which would entitle the subscriber to membership in his health institute in the United States.

A this point I slipped away, but most of the crowd remained to be let into the secret. It is an old story. As a boy I had listened to similar quack orators at fairs in the Old Country. They had much stimpler remedies contained in little boxes of pills, which I was told were composed of soap. And some of the quacks have not turned to soap opera.

Another year is well under way in Summerland High School with a record enrolment, and the students have wasted no time in starting numerous activities.

The Senior Girls' Soccer team played Pentiction Thursday, Oct. 13, and came out on top of a 1 - 0 score. A return match will be played in Pentiction this Thursday. Kelowna is bringing both the boys and their girls to play here Wednesday. These games will wind up the soccer season for this year.

On October 7, the teachers sponsored a Senior Party which turned out to be a grand success. They are going to sponsor a Junior party this Friday night. Let's see you all there kids!

The cheerleaders are in the money-making business. Don't forget to bring eight cents every day for the next two weeks and get yourself a half-pint of milk. The milk is good for you and the cheerleaders need new uniforms.

Wednesday our regular club periods start. Everyone can make his own choice of club. There are many to choose from this year.

Next month the Grads will sponsor a variety concert. It sounds good! There is even a junior one-act play.

Speaking of plays, this year Mrs. O'Neil and Miss Barclay are going to direct a senior play, but no particular one has been chosen as yet.

The Band is reorganizing for the fall term with new section leaders, executive and a membership of 87. A heavy program is planned for this year.

Well, that's about all the news to date. (Of course it isn't necessary to mention how hard everyone is studying!) Be good, everyone! See you next week.

Operating Practices Important in Cooling

Last season's crop of McIntosh apples were rated by many storage operators as being low in storage properties. In most instances it was found that the storage conditions were at fault, says W. E. Phillips, Division of Horticulture, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ont. The difference in keeping qualities between the 1954 crop and those of other seasons was influenced by the rate of cooling in most instances. Frequently several weeks were required to reduce core temperatures to 32 degrees F. In others, it is doubtful if the core temperatures ever reached 32 degrees F. Such slow cooling rates take weeks or even months off the potential storage life of apples.

The cause for such slow cooling can be remedied by good operating practices. The most serious is equipment breakdown. If the cooling machinery is overhauled and the plant run at least two weeks before it is needed, weaknesses can usually be detected and breakdowns avoided.

Leaving storage doors open unduly when loading the storage room is another cause of slow cooling. Warm, moist days, which frequently occur in the fall, put an extra load on the cooling system, which tends to become less efficient on account of frosted coils. Air baffles, automatic doors or even vigilance in seeing that the doors are closed between loads all contribute to more efficient cooling.

Slow cooling is often caused by operating practices. When the apples are warm more frequent defrosting is required. When the coils frost badly, requiring a long shut-down period, the cooling rate can be increased by operating the storage room at a higher temperature for a short time. By this means the pipes are kept free from frost during the initial cooling period. The temperature of the storage room is lowered when the average core temperature is within eight to ten degrees of the outside temperature. Under such circumstances controlling suction pressure, operating fans at proper speed and maintaining air circuits that speed up cooling rates.

A uniform size and shape of packs contribute not only to a more efficient cooling rate but also to a better storage organization. Hampers, crates and boxes of different sizes when stored together in the same room hinder the air flow among them. Sealed packs prevent air circulation among the apples. Open packs stowed in an orderly fashion provide the necessary air contact for rapid cooling and good ventilation.

Possibly the most common error is to overload the storage room. To pile more apples into it than the original design called for is definitely uneconomical. It means that the entire contents of the storage room are being jeopardized by poor air circulation on top.

A good little dress with smartly unobtrusive styling and neat wearable lines is always a treasure and not too easy to come by in any season. Ready for a busy and bright life is this black silk crepe, its cowl-neckline bodice nicely draped as is the midriff above the slim pegtop skirt which has pockets slashed into the side seam. The short sleeves are cuffed in white satin.

For a century and a half a treasure supposedly buried by Captain Kidd has been sought on Nova Scotia's Oak Island.

Expenses of the Department of National Revenue, the federal government's tax-collecting department were $55 million last year.

It's an exciting adventure... growing up. The world is so new and big... and one can never quite get over the huge discovery that one is becoming a person.

No one knows today how many thousands of young Canadians are leading fuller, happier lives because their parents bought Canada Savings Bonds regularly over the years.

There are people who always intend to do something about things like this and then forget. So make a cast-iron resolve now to get your order in to your bank or investment dealer right away.

And whether you are a parent or not, discover how the ownership of these fine investments will put a twinkle in any eye - your own included.

Scout Activities

Thursday's meeting consisted mostly of games as Dr. Fisher was absent due to a cold. With only two leaders we find it hard to have instruction periods with 32 lively boys.

This week's special points were given for dues so let's keep up to date. The tenderfoot to queen scout book should be on hand for next meeting so those who want them please have their 50 cents ready.

Patrol point standing: Buffaloes, 129; Eagles, 138; Hawks, 142; Beavers 141.
Duty patrol next week, Tuesday, October 25, Eagles. — ASM

CLUB CALLS

Charlie Keuning, Allan Kersey and Ronnie Ezard were welcomed into the pack.

Next week the boys working for first aid and second stars will have the opportunity to pass tests on "cleanliness" and "first aid."

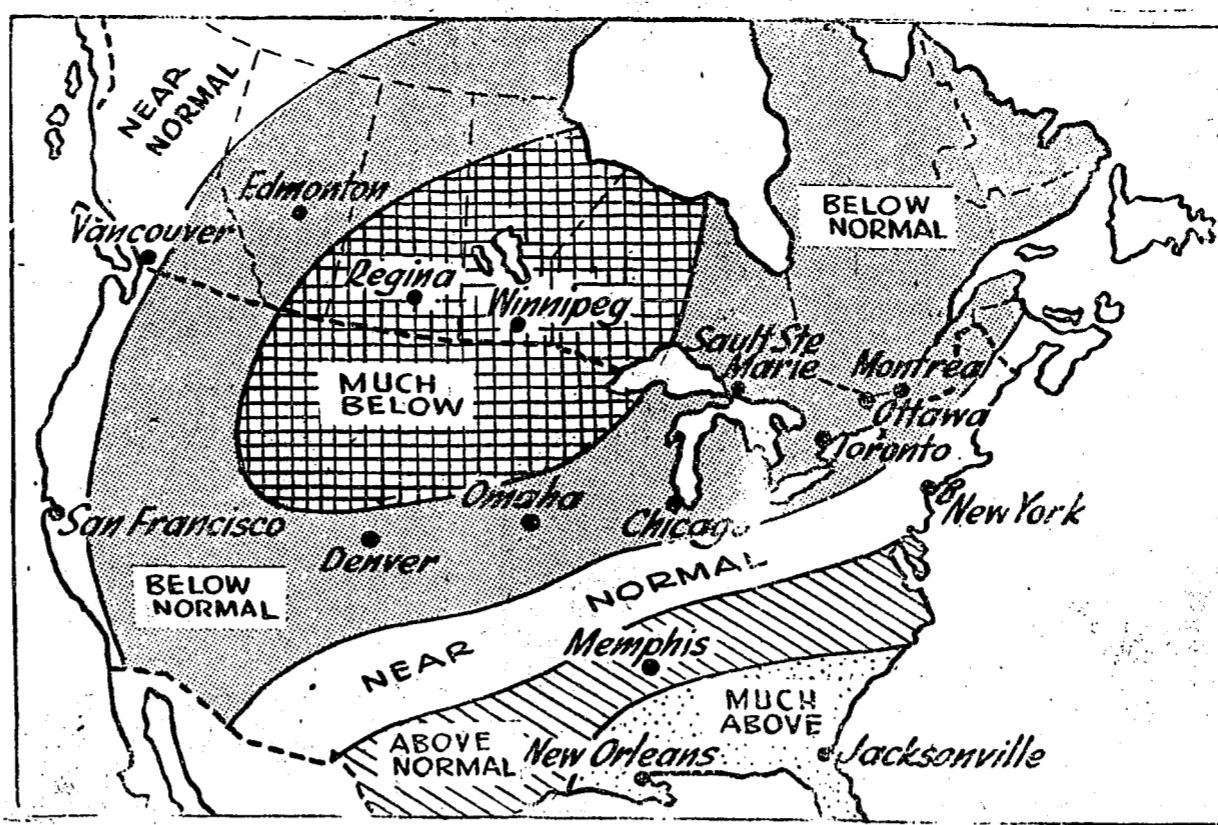

The Second Star boys acted out some of the scenes from the Jungle Stories.

Mothers wishing to register their boys for next September should phone Akela at 4492.

Next meeting October 24.

St. Andrew's Women's Federation Hears of Northern Hospital Work

Some of that summer heat of the past four months would be welcome during the next 30 days over most of Canada. Warmest areas, relatively speaking, will be narrow strips on both east and west coasts. In between will be cold and wet.

Mrs. Fleming vividly described her experiences during the time she has been at the 20-bed hospital 60 miles north of Vancouver and told of some of the people she and her staff minister to — Indians, Mennonites, new settlers and pioneers.

Comparing her life in B. C.'s North with the years spent in China, Mrs. Fleming observed that people's needs everywhere are essentially the same and she termed it a privilege to be working with the courageous men and women who people the northland.

Members of the Federation to note their appreciation for the work being done by Mrs. Fleming queried her on the subject of what supplies are needed at the hospital and on being informed of a need for woollen blankets, plans were laid at once to meet this need.

In the chair was the president, Mrs. Rex Chapman and the meeting opened with a worship period directed by Mrs. Wallace Boothe and Mrs. Evelyn Gould.

Committee reports were received, one of particular interest being that of the supply secretary, Mrs. W. R. Powell, who said four quilts have been sent to the Bur parcel will soon be ready for baby girls' Home and another shipping. Letters were received from Korea acknowledging parcels sent during the summer to Severance Hospital, Seoul.

Mrs. Wallace Boothe told briefly of the Mission Band and members voted $10 to assist this work. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction following which a social hour was enjoyed with W. D. Laidlaw, Mrs. G. Shepherd tea served by Mrs. M. Scott, Mrs. and Mrs. W. F. Ward.

VISITING HERE

Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director of the World Health Organization, Geneva, and Mrs. Chisholm were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Boyd.

W. R. Baker of Toronto was a week-end visitor of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Boyd.

Mrs. Walter Cook of Vancouver is visiting at the home of her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Bob Barkwill.

Recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Towgood was Mrs. Towgood's cousin, Mrs. James Burton of New Westminster.

John Theed of Vancouver spent a few days here visiting his sister Miss Elizabeth Theed.

Mrs. Fred Schumann of Halifax arrived this week to spend a month with her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Englis.

Visitors over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Calder were their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. W. Calder and family of Vancouver.

Shirley Burnell of the RCAF of Clareholm, Alberta left by bus recently after visiting with her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. Burnell over the week-end.

Miss Phyllis Cline of Vancouver was a week-end guest at the home of Mrs. J. S. Ritchie.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Young of Vancouver are holidaying at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh.

Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Huddleson of Lake Tahoe, Nevada were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ritchie.

Mrs. M. R. Rushton and family of Vancouver are guests of Mrs. Rushton's brother-in-law and sister Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Bloomfield.

Mr. Minshall, Victoria was visiting his brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Charles Minshall.

HOME AGAIN

Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Thompson have returned from a month's visit in Edmonton where they visited their daughter and son and their families.

Mrs. H. E. Hanson has returned from Edmonton where she was visiting her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Forester returned home on Sunday after a week's holiday spent in Vancouver.

Home this week were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pupilla after five months travelling in England, Scotland and eastern Canada. The couple spent three months touring England and Scotland and two months visiting friends in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Minshall returned home last week from a three week trip to Winnipeg.

NEW ARRIVALS

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson are parents of a son, John Neil, born on Friday, October 14, at the Penitence General Hospital.

Mrs. H. Hackman Heads Lady Curlers

Mrs. Harry Hackman was chosen president of the Summerland Ladies' Curling Club at the annual meeting held Tuesday evening in the Nu-Way Annex.

Other officers named were Mrs. H. Pruden, secretary and Miss N. Holmes as vice-president, Mrs. Louise Atkinson, treasurer.

The meeting was informed that the zone play-offs will be held in Summerland toward the end of January. Round robin play will begin early in the new year.

New members are being sought for the club and any person interested may obtain information from the secretary.

Third Bridge Tourney To Start Next Month

Summerland Badminton Club third annual bridge tournament will get underway early next month and deadline for entries has been set for October 31. At the last tourney 64 entries participated and at least the same number is expected for the season ahead.

Bridge players interested in enrollment for the tournament may do so by telephoning Mrs. C. E. Piers or Mrs. Charles Bernhardt.

Plans for the bridge tourney were discussed Tuesday night when open house was held at the Badminton Hall to welcome new members. After an entertaining evening, refreshments were served by a committee under Miss Dorothy Britton.

Badminton sessions will be held each Tuesday and Thursday evening at 8 o'clock and Sunday at 3:00 p.m. and the welcome mat will be out for new members and visitors at those times.

Clever Cooking . . .

Experimental work on the storage and cooking of frozen meats which has been in progress for some time in the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, has been completed. As a result definite cooking instructions and storage times can now be given to the many Canadian families who store their meat in a home freezer or locker.

Meat and other foods which are to be frozen should always be properly packaged in freezer wrappings or in special freezer containers in order to keep all the moisture and flavor inside the package and to allow the frozen food to retain its fresh characteristics. When foil or plastic freezer wrappings are used they should be covered with an overwrap of brown paper to prevent holes from being punctured in them. This is not necessary when laminated paper or other such heavy locker papers are used.

Steaks, chops and meat patties will separate more easily if a folded piece of freezer wrapping paper or waxed paper has been placed between them. Freezer cartons are designed for freezing fruits and vegetables may also be used for storing stew meat, minced meat, cutlets and cooked leftover meats and gravies.

Whether or not meat is thawed before cooking is a matter of time and convenience. If it is to be thawed, the wrapping should be left on in order to prevent the evaporation of juices from the meat. It may be thawed in the refrigerator, allowing nine to ten hours per pound, or at room temperature allowing only two to three hours per pound. The time it takes to thaw at room temperature may be reduced considerably if the package of meat is placed in front of an electric fan. Meat that has been thawed completely should not be refrozen and it should always be cooked promptly to prevent spoilage.

Frozen roasts, steaks and chops may be cooked without thawing or they may be thawed before cooking. If the meat is first thawed then it will require just the same cooking time as meat which has not been frozen and, especially in the case of large roasts, a more even cooking is assured. Roasts which are not thawed before cooking should be cooked uncovered in a moderately slow, 325 degree oven for approximately one and a half times as long as it takes for fresh ones. The use of a meat thermometer is the surest way of determining doneness of roasts cooked this way. The thermometer should not be inserted until the roast is at least half-cooked. In cooking unthawed hot roasts the same extra time is required. That is, for example, if a fresh roast takes two hours to cook, a frozen one that has not been thawed will take approximately three hours.

Frozen steaks and chops can be either pan-fried or broiled but they are a little more difficult to cook and lamb chops require at least brown if they are not thawed before cooking. Frozen beef steaks take as much pan-frying time as fresh ones, frozen pork chops one and a half times as long, and frozen veal chops just five or ten minutes longer than fresh ones. Frozen steaks and chops to be broiled should be heated in the broiler six or seven inches below the heating unit until they are thawed. This will take seven or eight minutes on each side for meat one half inch thick. Then the broiler pan should be raised and the meat cooked in the same way as fresh steaks or chops.

There are certain time limits for keeping meat in a home freezer or locker. Large or thick cuts of meat can be held considerably longer in storage than small pieces which tend to dry out and develop off-flavors more quickly. Like other frozen foods, meat must be wrapped in moisture-vapor-proof materials and should be stored at a constant temperature of zero. Here are the maximum storage times for frozen meats, as recommended by the Consumer Section:

Beef roasts and steaks, 10 to 12 months; lamb roasts, six to eight months; veal roasts and chops, pork roasts (fresh or cured), lamb chops, four to five months; Pork chops, bacon, variety meats (liver, kidney, heart, etc.), three to four months.

Minced meats, two to three months; sausage, weiners, two to three weeks; cooked roasts, two to three months; cooked stews, meat loaves and other cooked meat dishes, one to two months.

Meat and other foods which are to be frozen should always be properly packaged in freezer wrappings or in special freezer containers in order to keep all the moisture and flavor inside the package and to allow the frozen food to retain its fresh characteristics. When foil or plastic freezer wrappings are used they should be covered with an overwrap of brown paper to prevent holes from being punctured in them. This is not necessary when laminated paper or other such heavy locker papers are used.

Agricultural Atoms Seen In the Future

By-product of atomic energy show promise of making important contributions to agriculture, states the World Food and Agriculture Organization in a presentation made to the United Nations conference on the Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy. FAO reported the destructive power of radiation has been used to control insect infestations in grain and cereal products at cost comparing favorably with other methods such as fumigation.

The storage life of potatoes is reported to have been extended many months through radiation treatment that successfully kept the potatoes from sprouting. Preserving foods through cold sterilization by irradiation at normal temperatures is receiving close attention and already has met with some success. It has been found that in some countries, where trichinosis in pork is an important health problem, irradiation of the pork can kill the trichinae parasites and render infected meat safe for human consumption.

The presentation mentioned the use made by research workers of radioactive isotopes to trace the life cycle of destructive insects and their parasites, in order to develop more effective methods of control. It cited Canada's use of cobalt-60 to label wireworms thus making it possible to follow their movements underground.

Plant breeders have exposed plants in the early flowering stages, and their seeds, to irradiation in order to produce mutations — changes in the plant resulting in the production of new species. The new species created through irradiation give the plant breeder much new material for crossing with existing types to obtain new varieties superior in yield, quality, early maturity or resistance to insect and disease attacks.

The presentation cites work of this kind in Canada where amongst some twenty barley mutants by irradiation, and now under field trial, are some maturing sufficiently early to extend northward, the area in which barley can be grown.

Irradiation also produces mutations in disease-producing organisms, creating new types of such diseases as rusts and smuts attacking grains. By developing the new races artificially under controlled conditions, the plant breeder may be able to anticipate the disease resistance requirements of his crop and breed varieties with greater resistance to the new races before they develop naturally in the field as they have in the past.

Concrete Root Houses Prove Successful

Root houses and potato storages are necessary in many of the fruit, vegetable and potato growing areas of Canada. Experiments have been made at the Canada Department of Agriculture Experimental Farm at Swift Current, Sask., to simplify and reduce the cost of concrete construction, and three root houses have now been built.

One was built in 1953 at the Swift Current Farm. The Archer Memorial Hospital in Lamont, Alberta, built one 32 feet by 16 feet in 1954 and the Union hospital at Maple Creek completed one 32 feet by 20 feet this year.

The form is semi-circular and resembles a small sized Quonset type of structure. It is exceedingly simple to build with ordinary tools and uses less than half the lumber required for "box" forms. Furthermore, the problem of removing forms is greatly simplified and the lumber wasted is negligible when compared with common methods.

Five-sixteenths, sheathing-grade fir plywood is lightly nailed on a framework of 2 x 4's and 2 x 6's. Except for the vertical supports all lumber is used in full lengths and none of the 4' x 8' sheets of plywood needs to be cut.

A layer of waterproof paper is tacked or stapled to the plywood; then 2" x 2" mesh 14 gauge self-furring stucco wire is laid over this. Two coats of stucco are then applied. Following this 6" x 6" mesh reinforcing wire and iron rods are fastened in place and four inches of concrete is shovelled on. Studies of the root houses built show no signs of failure. All units are overlaid with soil four or more feet deep.

Inquiries regarding this type of construction may be addressed to the Superintendent, Experimental Farm, Swift Current, Sask.

Good Idea to Have an Interpreter To Keep Posted on Australian Slang

As special representative of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association, John Freeman, editor of the Lakeshore News, Pointe Claire, Quebec, has made a five week trip to Australia by way of Hawaii, the Fiji Islands and Auckland, New Zealand. He writes entertainingly of his experiences in flight and at various stop-over points in Australia in a series of four articles. This is the fourth and last of the series.

"If you have some bird lime on your German Bands, take a General Eisenhower and meet me at snakes alive."

No — I'm not crazy. The foregoing is just a sample of Australian slang and translated it means: "If you have some time on your hands, take a shower and meet me at five."

Taking liberties with the English language was only a sideline with Jim Betts, a lad I met in Melbourne who was to be the genuine, modish, "dinkum" Aussie. Hard-working, successful in business, married with two children, Jim could tell a story, boast of Australia's great strides since the last war, and discuss the merits or otherwise of the two cars he owned — a '48 Buick convertible (which he drives as though it were a jet bomber), and an English M.G.

At about the time my action in bringing skiing all the way from Canada, caught up with me, and one Saturday morning I found myself skiing, about 6,000 feet up, on the heights of the Australian Alps, operating from a private lodge part owned by Betts and named "Gray Rocks."

For the enthusiast good skiing is available in Australia, and being harder to get at than in Canada, the average of skiing is very high. Public lodges will accommodate visitors for around $12 a week-end and a Canadian has no trouble in borrowing a pair of "boards."

What of Australian Art and Culture?

Sydney has one of the six finest symphony orchestras in the world; the theatre is enjoying a renaissance; and the most talked of discovery in the field of painting is the water-color work of aboriginal artist Albert Namatjira, whose interpretation of the Australian landscape is as typically Australian as the boomerang.

As gifts for friends at home I bought what are considered to be three Australian classics in literature—Marcus Clarke's "For The Term of His Natural Life" (a dramatic and harrowing account on the convict system); Ralph Boldwood's "Robbery Under Arms" (an exciting account of bushranging in New South Wales); and the contemporary "Fortunes of Richard Mahony" by Henrietta Richardson.

Holy Snakes!

For local color, a visiting Canadian will learn more from Bill Beatty's collection of legends, "Come a-Waltzin' Matilda", in one hour's reading than he will discover for himself during his whole visit. The edition contains a rib-tickling collection of folklore, historical notes and incidents on the early days of the country.

The story of Sir Henry Brown Hayes and Vaucluse House is a typical gem.

"Originally sent to the convict colony from the Emerald Isle for abducting an heiress (without her permission), Sir Henry served his sentence and upon release built a beautiful home near Sydney which he named Vaucluse House.

"Only there was one trouble. The property was overrun with snakes.

"With St. Patrick's successful campaign in mind, Sir Henry imported five hundred barrels of Irish sod and with a gang of convict laborers, Irish every one, had dug a trench six feet down by two feet wide.

"March 17 was chosen as an appropriate day to fill the trench with the good Irish earth and according to the story — curiously enough, Sir Henry was never troubled again."

The same house, now belongs to the State of New South Wales and is a "must" for all visitors to Sydney.

Sydney's Youthful Mayor

Included in my Sydney stay was an hour's visit with the Lord Mayor of that city, youthful Pat Hills, whose appearance is that of a young business executive rather than the popular conception of a Lord Mayor.

With my return to harness as a weekly editor in mind, I asked "His Worship" for something to take back in the nature of a greeting to our own Mayor Olive Urquhart of Pointe Claire, Que.

My reportorial feeling was rewarded by my being entrusted for delivery to Her Worship with a pictorial volume of Sydney entitled: "Sydney — The Soul of a City". I was also able to arrange a two-color glossy print of Mayor Hills in full ceremonial robes.

For all his youthful appearance, Mayor Hills is a go-getter for his city. I saw a scale model of a new 500-car underground parking lot on which work has started, and which also included a 600-foot double lane moving walkway through the city gardens to the downtown shopping area!

The mayor is also an amateur photographer and I enjoyed his colored movies of the inaugural flight of CPA's new over-the-pole service to Amsterdam, on which he represented his city, the southern terminal of the service.

However, fluoridation, to halt tooth decay, now being somewhat timidly accepted by Canadians was a complete mystery to him.

Aussie Weekly Editors

There are over 400 weekly newspapers in Australia and their editors do the same grass roots jobs as their Canadian cousins do here.

They attend the Town's Council meeting; double as line operators; shop men, and collect bad debts. One of their first loves is the old flatbed press, on which many of the country's weeklies are printed.

They receive recognition for the job they do for their communities, seldom get rich, yet always have the esteem and respect of their fellow townspeople as compensation.

Goodbye Sydney!

I departed from Sydney on a Wednesday for the return flight via CPA's "Empress of Mexico" but my adventures were not over.

We set down at dawn on Fiji and after a shower and breakfast of paw paw and fried eggs took off for Hawaii where we arrived according to the schedule, only three hours after leaving Sydney! Of course the joker in this deck is the International Date Line east of Fiji — for us that week contained eight days including two Wednesdays.

On arrival at Honolulu we were driven to the Royal Hawaiian for another night and day stopover, courtesy of the airline. This must be, without a doubt, the most popular stopover in the world.

O'er The Fall

"King Kamehameha, the conqueror of the Islands, became a famous hero one day."

I never did know what the song was all about until on my return my memory was jogged by a later line.

"And throw them o'er the Fall".

The Fall is a fearsome height on Oahu Island, which I visited, and over which the famous warrior threw back the remnants of an invading army. The height, combined with terrific winds roaring up from the Pacific, present an awe-inspiring picture and make one feel very sorry indeed for the soldiers of that trapped army of long ago.

Aloha!

As CPA superintendent for the South Pacific, W. "Babe" Woollet, who was prominent in Canadian Pacific's training of navigators for the Air Force during the war, is on hand whenever possible to welcome arriving and bid "Aloha" to departing flights.

Nowhere else in the world does a departing tourist get the send off he is given on leaving Honolulu airport.

Beautiful scented leis accompanied by "busses" are standard procedure and I made a mental note that the Islanders' habit of presenting flowers while you are in this world seems a far more practical and desirable one than waiting until you're in the next. Even the bus driver gets into the act. A big Hawaiian with a fine voice, he sang the beautiful "Aloha" on the way to the airport.

You could have counted the dry eyes, as we embarked on the thumbs of your two hands!

Hello Vancouver

We arrived next morning at Sea Island Airport, with all passengers giving way for our senior air-traveller, Mrs. Ethel Wilson. Eighty-four years of age, she had accompanied us all the way from Sydney and thought the trip was "just marvelous."

Before writing "thirty" to this story, I must mention one thing more.

No Canadian making such a trip, weekly editor or not, will ever regret it.

Varieties Important In Pie Fillings

Commercial fruit pie fillings of excellent quality can be prepared from the stone fruits — sour cherries, apricots, peaches and prune plums. The use of proper varieties is important. Experiments at the Summerland experimental station fruit laboratory, show the fruit must also be of good color, flavor and condition. Best quality will be found in a finished product with a high fruit content of 75 to 80 percent fruit. The remainder consists chiefly of cane sugar and a minimum of stabilizer to "set up" the product.

Sour cherry fillings made from frozen Montmorency cherries containing 2.1 percent stabilizer gives a filling of very good flavor, color and consistency.

Although apricot varieties tested resulted in satisfactory fruit pie fillings, the best product was obtained from a blend of equal parts of Perfection and Wenatchee Moorpark.

Peach pie filling made from Veteran, Vedette and Valiant peaches or blends of these varieties were all excellent. The varieties J. H. Hale and Elberta resulted in satisfactory fillings but lacked the quality of the three Vees.

Both early and late strains of Italian prunes produced a good product. The fillings, however, should be prepared from fruit containing at least 18 per cent soluble solids.

In addition to high fruit content the proper selection of thickening agents is important if the product is to remain stable for a reasonable time during storage. Very few stabilizers are satisfactory when used alone. The best consistency is usually obtained with a combination of two or more. The most satisfactory concentration of stabilizers used in these fillings ranged from 1.25 to 2.25 percent.

CHOICE OF V8 OR 6
With your new Chevrolet truck you can choose a short stroke V8 or the famous 6 cylinder engine to do your hauling job better with more power and economy.

LONG WEARING PISTONS
New alloy pistons and ring design, plus Pressure Lubrication, add new life to pistons — in both the famous 6 and the new short stroke V8's.

COMPRESSION RATIO
New high in compression ratio give more instant response to power demands and squeeze far more power from every drop of fuel.

AXLES AND TRANSMISSIONS
Chevrolet's power carrying units can be tailored to your individual needs. In the rough, or on the road, there's a choice of transmissions, drive lines and axles for you.

12-VOLT SYSTEM
Chevrolet's new 12-volt ignition system ensures faster starts, even during the coldest weather. Its hotter spark means more thorough combustion for greater economy, too.

STRONGER FRAMES
With Chevrolet, you get the added strength and full length support of new parallel-design frames, ensuring greater alignment strength.

TUBELESS TIRES
Greater traction, quieter running and increased protection from blowouts — these are just three of many reasons for the superiority of tubeless tires on the light duty models.

SMALL TURNING RADIUS
Now you can make tighter turning circles, get into smaller spaces with Chevrolet's smaller turning radius.

POSITIVE STEERING
Recirculating Ball Steering has been improved to give even greater ease. Power steering is available at extra cost on the heavy duty models.

IMPROVED VISIBILITY
Now you can see all round — with Chevrolet's wrap around windows front and rear (rear wrap around is optional at extra cost).

AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSIONS
These great transmissions make driving easier, automatically. They cut delivery times — and reduce wear and tear on the truck by always being geared right for the load and the road.

NEW DRIVE LINES
New Hotchkiss drive lines, now on all models, absorb drive and braking shock, and promote longer truck life.

To Hold Public Rally For Bible Society

British and Foreign Bible Society this year will conduct no regular canvass for funds but instead have invited the public to attend a rally next Friday night to hear the district secretary and witness a film which records the work of the society.

Here for next week's rally, which will be held at 8 pm. in the Pentecostal Church, will be Rev. J. A. Raymond Tingley of Vancouver and the film to be shown is "A Boy and his Bible". The picture is made in the setting of a newspaper office.

Last year the campaign by the society branch brought in a total of $884 in the district. Chairman of the society's local branch is A. C. Johnson while secretary is John Graham and treasurer is J. S. Mott.

Entertains Friends On Sixth Birthday

Halloween motif featured decorations on Monday when Raymond Betuzzi entertained several of his small friends after school to celebrate his sixth birthday.

Centre of attraction along with the birthday cake was a Jack o Lantern and refreshments too were in the Halloween theme. A merry-go-round topped the birthday cake.

Games were played and the afternoon came to a happy end with the small boys making short work of the delicious refreshments. Present were Arthur Menu, Cris Erickson, Jimmy Arnush, Gordon Lake, Billy Fitzpatrick, Barry De Rosier, Robby Lenzie, Louis Bamba and Leo Bonthoux.

Trial Delayed For Lab Reports

Scheduled to appear before Judge McInnes at the opening of the assizes in Vernon Monday morning, trial of George Kramer of Summerland was set over until the end of the docket at the request of counsel. Kramer is charged with murdering his wife Ruth at their Summerland home during labor day week-end. The case will probably come before the court about the middle of next week unless a further adjournment is requested. It is believed delay in starting proceedings stems from the fact that tests being conducted at the RCMP crime detection laboratory at Calgary have not been completed because the technician working on these tests has been tied up as a witness at other trials and has been unable to return to the laboratory to finish the tests.

The technician, Cpl. Alex Romenco, at the preliminary hearing was unable to finish tests he was conducting. He said one test he conducted on a stained sheet from the bed in which it is believed Ruth Kramer died produced crystals but did not have sufficient time to make an analysis to identify the crystals.

Possibility that the case might be further adjourned next week was indicated when Mr. Justice McInnes told counsel he would set the case down to the end of the docket and hear argument after other cases have been disposed of on when it should be heard.

Presenting the case for the crown is John S. Atkins and acting for Kramer is A. D. C. Washington.

Credit Union Party Marks Anniversary

Summerland Credit Union last Friday evening marked the 107th anniversary of the founding of the movement with a children's party, staged in the Youth Centre.

More than 20 were present for the event which led off with a showing of films by John Keyes and then a sing-song led by Summerland Credit Union president, Dr. J. M. McArthur and Eric Brinton.

Arrangements for the party were under the direction of the credit board of directors, Dr. McArthur, Ray Wilburn, Harvey Mitchell, Gordon Beggs, D. P. McInnes and John Caldwell.

Fined $100 After Highway Accident

A charge of careless driving which resulted in an accident at Powell Beach, turned from the main highway brought a fine of $100 to Alex Hoolaeff of Grand Forks when he appeared Saturday before Magistrate Robert Alstead in the Summerland police court.

The accident occurred on Oct. 16 when Hoolaeff travelling south on Highway 97 swung across the road to enter the Powell Beach road and was struck by a north-bound car. An elderly Kelowna couple in the second car required attention to injuries at the Summerland hospital.

Both cars received considerable damage. The Hoolaeff car was not insured and was impounded.

POWER APPROVED

Council Tuesday approved power applications of Summerland Co-operative Services, Harold Wagler and E. Bartolomeoli.

TRAFFIC OFFENCES

A charge of operating a car without a muffler this week cost a Summerland man a $10 fine while another driver charged with speeding paid $25.

Party For Halloween Revellers Planned at Youth Centre Monday

Witches and goblins making their annual appearance on Monday night will be out for fun and lots of it is promised with the Youth Centre Association planning barrels of fun for the junior set at the Youth Centre.

Plans for the event cover all ages and after the small fry have had a surfeit of Halloween fun making by 10 p.m., teen-agers will move in for a dance which will go from then until 1 a.m.

Beside games and treats planned for the occasion, prizes will be awarded for best costumes at both senior and junior events.

Accompanying Canada's external affairs minister Lester Pearson on his trip to Russia, Corp. Frank Brien of Moosomin, Sask., finds his red RCMP tunic the centre of attraction wherever he goes. When in Moscow with Mr. Pearson, Corp. Brien had an opportunity to talk to these two Soviet air force officers.

Vote on Arena By-Law To be Cast Election Day

Vote on the by-law to authorize the municipality to purchase the Summerland Arena and install artificial ice will not now be held until municipal election day, Dec. 10. Earlier it had been planned to call a separate vote on the by-law to speed up installation of the ice plant following a favorable vote but as a result of unavoidable delays in the preparation of the by-law, it would not now be possible to schedule the vote more than two weeks earlier than the municipal elections and it is felt by the council that the extra expense involved in a separate vote is not justified to save such a short period of time.

Reeve F. E. Atkinson this morning said he was in telephone conversation yesterday with J. L. Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs at Victoria, and was told that the by-law was re-framed there earlier this week and was being mailed back to Summerland this week.

Reeve Atkinson said that as soon as the by-law is received from Victoria, a special meeting of the council will be called to give it the required three readings and it will then be returned to Victoria for final approval.

Next step will be a ratepayers' meeting to discuss the by-law proposals before the final reading is given by council and it will be ready for voting by ratepayers.

The proposed by-law was sent two weeks ago for approval but Mr. Brown explained to the reeve that delay was caused because it was necessary to reframe portions of it.

The original deal with the Summerland Rink Association was that the municipality would purchase the arena for one dollar. Since then, however, the rink association has gone ahead with considerable work to expedite installation of the ice plant once the go-ahead signal is given by the ratepayers. Value of work done by the association members in laying the new floor, building header trench and engine room is $8,800 and the by-law was drafted to pay the Rink Association this amount plus the one dollar. Since authority of association bond holders to the executive was to sell for one dollar, the municipal affairs branch felt the by-law should be prepared accordingly with provision to repay the association for the extra work done. This is the way the by-law will read when it is put to the ratepayers.

Fishermen's Luck Big One Got Away

Before Alf McLachlan and Mac McCutcheon go fishing again, they're going to take out a hunting license.

Their catch yesterday: one fish and one deer.

The pair had just boated a nice fish near the rocks across the lake when they noticed something in the water. Investigating they discovered it was a completely exhausted doe barely able to hold her head out of the water.

They towed the animal across to Crescent Beach but found by the time they got there the doe was too far gone for recovery.

Adding to the story is that neither had a license and deer aren't in season so they notified the game warden who dressed the carcass and the fishermen just sat helplessly and watched the biggest one of all get away.

COURT OF REVISION

Council Tuesday received advice from the provincial assessor's office that assessment court of revision for Summerland school district will be held here on February 1 at 10 a.m.

Early Celebration Of Birthday Costly

Impatience to celebrate his birthday cost a Summerland Youth an extra $30.

Saturday he was charged with being a minor and having liquor in his possession.

Tuesday he was fined $30 and costs.

Wednesday he was $21.

No Bridge Comment 'Till Tenders Called'

While rumors about the future of the Lake Okanagan bridge continue to develop in all quarters Premier W.A.C. Bennett is standing firm on his refusal to make any comment "until tenders are called."

When reporters at his press conference in Victoria Monday tried to press for further information with the question "And when will the tenders be called?" the premier put them off "It's getting closer all the time."

Meanwhile newspapers all over the province and opposition parties are steadily hammering at the premier's refusal to comment on the rumors but indications are that he'll have nothing further to add to his earlier statements about the bridge "until tenders are called."

Will Take 13 More Off Domestic Water

In a move toward eventually eliminating irrigation from domestic water system, letters are going out this week to 13 users advising that they will have to make arrangements for linking with the irrigation system by next spring since water from domestic system will no longer be available to them for sprinkling.

Letters to those being cut off the domestic system points out that the move is necessary since many homes on high levels have very low pressure during the summer season and at times it fails practically entirely.

Six of the users who must switch to the irrigation system are on Giants Head, five in Prairie Valley and two on Jones Flat.

Hope To Achieve 300 Pint Mark At Blood Donor Clinic Next Week

Three hundred blood donors — the mark that several times has been almost but never quite reached — will again be the target for Summerland Kiwanis Club for the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic here on Friday, November 4.

The clinic will be set up at St. Andrew's church hall and will operate during the afternoon and evening. Afternoon hours will be from 1:30 to 4:30 and evening hours will be from 6:30 to 9:30.

On previous visits the clinic has always been less congested during the afternoon and those donors who are able to attend the earlier session are urged to do so.

Kiwanis committee under J. Y. Towgood has been conducting a telephone canvass of the district and has already made appointments for more than 200 donors and hopes to boost that number substantially before next Friday. Any person not contacted may attend at any hour convenient.

Mr. Towgood stated that the committee fully expects to see the 300-mark finally passed next week and pointed out that even at that number the community is still not making the showing expected of it.

The Red Cross blood bank is

Guide Association Plans Tea Series

Summerland Guide Association met last Wednesday night in the Youth Centre and plans for entertaining the delegates to the divisional meeting here Saturday was top item on the agenda.

Arrangements were made for a series of teas to be conducted by association members during the season ahead for mothers of Brownies, Guides and Rangers and others interested in the Guide movement.

At the conclusion of the business session, members were entertained with a showing of pictures taken at Guide camp last summer by Miss Beth Hanson, Vancouver, provincial trainer. The pictures clearly depicted the life the girls enjoyed while at camp.

One Council Member Out; Others Still Undecided

With nomination for municipal election just barely a month away, only one of three members of present council whose term expire this year has expressed any definite intention. That is Councillor H. R. J. Richards who states he will not be a candidate for re-election this year.

Other terms expiring this year are those of Reeve F. E. Atkinson and Councillor Francis Stewart. Both when queried said they have not yet made up their minds.

Councillor Richards has served nearly eight years on the council. He had been a member for five years when he found himself disqualified from holding council office when he sold his home and resigned. He was again qualified by the time the next regular election came around two years ago and he was re-elected.

He has been serving as chairman of the water committee and he stated he stood for election two years ago only because a number of changes in the irrigation and domestic water system were in process of being made at the time it was necessary for him to resign. He said he returned to see the completion of this work it is finished now, he said, and he does not intend to remain on the council.

School board terms expiring this year are those of board chairman Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh and T. S. Manning. Mrs. Vanderburgh when asked about standing for re-election said she has been thinking on the subject but has not yet made up her mind. Mr. Manning said he has been giving thought to it but has made no definite decision.

On the Parks Board, terms of Chairman W. Snow and H. W. Brown expire this year.

Approve Crosswalks In School Vicinity

Council Tuesday approved a request of the school board for additional crosswalks to be marked off on roads adjacent to the school. The new crosswalks will be at the junction of Jubilee Road, one across Rosedale and one across Granville at the intersection of Rosedale and Granville and one at IOOF Hall.

School board is also making application to the provincial highways department for crosswalks on provincial highways where there is heavy traffic by school children.

Marketing Act Violator Fined

Infraction of the Natural Products Marketing Act in moving produce from one zone to another without a permit brought a $25 fine to Howe Ken Lee of Armstrong in Summerland police court yesterday.

Boundary of Zone 4 under the act is Trout Creek Bridge and according to information laid by E. C. Interior Marketing Board Inspector Edward Newman of Kamloops, Lee was found to be carrying produce about one mile from Penticton.

Defence offered by the accused was that when the Marketing Board fails to find markets for produce which will return to the grower a profit on his work, then the temptation exists to find markets which will. He was represented by Andrew Joe of Vancouver with prosecution by Don Fillmore of Kelowna.

In handing down a verdict, Magistrate Robert Alstead acknowledged the temptation to break the law existed in this case but this did not alter the fact that the accused was guilty as charged. However, he said, under the circumstances, he would assess only the minimum fine provided by the act. Costs in addition were $35.50.

Guernsey Named Kiwanis Head

Summerland Kiwanis Monday chose C. F. M. Guernsey as new president of the club to succeed Frank McDonald. Mr. Guernsey has been club treasurer.

Chosen as vice-president was Doug Campbell and new treasurer is J. E. O'Mahony. Club directors for the term ahead are John Tamblin, Ken Heales, George Henry, Al Menu, W. S. Ritchie, Percy Wilson and D. Carter.

New slate of officers will be installed later in the year.

Peachland Driver Fined for Accident

Fine and costs totalling $65 was levied against Oreste L. Francescutti of Peachland last Friday when found guilty of careless driving by Magistrate Robert Alstead after a police trial that lasted a day and a half.

Charge arose out of an accident on August 8 about a mile north of Trout Creek bridge when a pick-up truck driven by Francescutti was in collision with a tank trailer truck of Public Freightways driven by Dale Van Horn.

Francescutti and a passenger in the truck with him, Jack Beale of Summerland, were both patients in Summerland hospital for a lengthy period as a result of injuries received in the accident.

According to evidence brought out at the trial, the truck driven by Francescutti was weaving down the highway and when the trailer truck overtook it and attempted to pass, the pick-up swerved across the road and was struck by the front end of the trailer.

Case against the accused was presented by RCMP Constable C. E. Piers while counsel for Francescutti was F. C. Christian.

Brothers Thrill Concert Audience With Outstanding Piano Performance

Twenty talented fingers moving at times like lightning over 176 keys last Friday night sounded the opening of the 1955-56 Community Concert Association series with the duo-piano team of brothers Alfred and Herbert Tetschik thrilling a capacity audience at the Pentleton High School auditorium with a performance which reached a high point in perfection.

The Texan brothers performed in perfect synchronization and in many passages which required high-speed, intricate finger work, their precision seemed almost beyond human capability.

Appreciation of the concert-goers was noted in the thunderous applause which followed each selection and the brothers were called back for three encores when the regular program was completed. They climaxed the series of encores with a breath-taking performance of "Sabre Dance."

More than 100 members of the concert association this year are from Summerland.

The Tetschik brothers opened their concert with Bach Tocatta and Fugue in D-Minor and following the powerful climax went into the delicate three movements of Sonata in D-Major by Mozart.

In the second group, Rachmaninoff's Rhapsody on a Pagannini Theme was first, followed by a group of five selections in Puppazetti by Alfredo Casella and then the ever popular Strauss Blue Danube Waltz.

The third grouping consisted of dances — Les Songes by Milhaud, Dance of Ayahs from the Gayne ballet suite by Khachaturian and Choro Dance No. 2 by American composer Paul Creston.

In the final group, Ravel's Tocatta was an excellent vehicle for the brothers to display their artistry at its most colorful best as they performed flawlessly through the intricate fortissimo passages. Then followed a waltz by Anton Arensky, one of his suites for two pianos, and Liszt's La Campanella, a variation on a theme by Pagannini.

Other Opinions

WHAT, NO PINK MINK?

Since the days of the Seabees and of the chemist who did make a silk purse out of a sow's ear, it takes high courage to say that a thing can't be done. But Dr. Richard Shackelford, a University of Wisconsin geneticist, has gone out on a long limb, possibly overhanging a beaver pond.

He says there never will be a pink mink — or a red, green, or purple mink. In this he goes further than Gelett Burgess, who merely wrote,

I never saw a purple Cow,
I never hope to see one;
and who five years later had heard so much about this jingle that he sighed, "I'm sorry, now, I wrote it."

Dr. Shackelford is not taking issue merely with those who aver they have seen varicolored sea serpents or pink elephants. Nor does he, perhaps, overlook the "blue" fox, the "black" tulip, or the lady with the lavender hair-rinse. Or challenge the chemist who appears on the verge of making synthetic "furs." Rather he assures the Upper Michigan Mink Breeders Association that all basic colors of mink now have been achieved.

But in doing so he lets the mink out of the bag so far as the stereotype of the American plutocrat is concerned. He lists black, brown, gray, steel gray, blue, and white as basic mink colors already developed. Will not Mr. Tycoon now have to buy his wife a new coat to go with the drapes at the opera and a wrap to match the convertible she happens to be driving to-day? — Christian Science Monitor.

STANDARD SCHOOL PLANS

Availability of standard school plans from the department of education should take a great load of work and worry off the shoulders of school trustees.

The department has taken a wise step in setting up this machinery which will not only reduce work and worry for the boards but will also reduce the cost of buildings to the taxpayers.

Plans and specifications of an eight room school under the new system, will cost $7777, half of which will be paid by the government because such monies would come from building bylaw funds which are equally matched by the government.

But that isn't all.

At present the school board must engage an architect to provide plans for the type of school needed. The board examines the preliminary plans and suggests changes. When the plans are finally approved by the board then they must go to the department of education for its approval. Because the government provides half the cost of school buildings, the department insists that certain standards must be met and certain features incorporated in the design.

Further revision of plans is called for in order to bring them to the stage where the board's wishes and the department's regulations no longer conflict.

A good deal of time is wasted while plans are shuffled back and forth between department and board as the plans are revised and approved and during this time, trustees are put to a great deal of trouble struggling to alter plans to make them acceptable and desirable.

The department already has its own ideas about what should go into schools and it might just as well incorporate all these ideas into one plan rather than have boards arriving at the same plan by bits and pieces.

Standard plans which will save the boards time and the taxpayers money are something which have been needed for some time and we are glad to see that they have arrived. — Comox Free Press

WE'RE GOING TO GROW

Canada's population will jump to between 23 and 25 millions by 1975 an increase of roughly 60 percent.

That's the main conclusion of population study figures issued by Canadian Economic Research Associates, Toronto, and reported in the Financial Post.

Forecast subtotals indicate that the men-women ratio will remain about the same as will the total for the 0-19, 20-64 and over 65 age groups. The study is designed to provide background for those drafting submissions to the Royal Commission on Economic Prospects.

The predicted figures point up the fact that several major problems lie ahead for Canadian economic development. At the same time, they show that if the problems are solved, the country's "depression babies" can expect to cash in on a better job opportunity, a higher living standard, bigger families and better health. — Merritt Herald.

Halloween Again . . .

let's make it fun for all

GHOSTS, GOBLINS and all sorts of weird characters on Saturday night will come out of their year-long retirement for an evening of fun and pranks on an all-too-suspecting public.

Psychologists no doubt are among the strongest supporters of Halloween on the theory that it gives us a chance to get rid of a lot of inhibitions by dressing in comic garb and, hopefully free of recognition, to carry out all the mischievous pranks that have appealed to us all year.

As long as Halloween activities are limited to pranks, everyone is happy. Anybody who objects to answering the door a few times for "the little man who wasn't there" or to cleaning some soap off their windows on Monday morning is a churl, a curmudgeon and a downright poor sport and will get no sympathy from us unless they can prove they were never young themselves.

But malicious damage is another thing entirely. Whether it occurs on Halloween or any other night of the year it is still vandalism and should be treated as such by the courts. Wanton destruction can never be justified on any excuse.

From all indications, however, it doesn't look as though there will be much to worry about in Summerland with the Youth Centre Association again sponsoring the party which has become so popular with all ages on Halloween night the past few years.

There is one news story we'll be able to get along nicely without next week and that is one reporting personal injury from fireworks or malicious property damage.

And this is not a problem of the youngsters. A little parental guidance on the handling of fireworks and on respecting the property of others will go a long way in producing a Halloween that will be a lot of fun for everyone concerned.

Need More Donors . . . another form of insurance

THERE IS ONLY ONE bank in the world where any persons with or without a credit rating can make withdrawals without first making deposits. There is only one bank where any person is given as much as he needs without being asked for identification.

This bank does not deal in money, it deals in life. It is the Red Cross Blood Bank.

Next Friday the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic will be set up in Summerland to accept donations of blood for the bank. Every person qualified to give blood owes it to himself to attend this clinic.

This is one donation that is not being made for the benefit of someone else. Rather it is a form of insurance because no one can predict who will be making the next call on the blood bank to save their life.

There is no way of estimating how many lives have been saved by the Red Cross Blood Bank. A few years ago when a person was in need of a blood transfusion, a call went out for donors with a compatible blood grouping and sometimes one was found in time — sometimes not. If donors were found in time, the fee was $20 or $25 for each pint of blood. Too often donors were not available to supply the blood needed and countless lives were lost because of the lack.

That situation no longer exists. When blood is needed, the Red Cross supplies whatever amount is required — and it is free.

But remember, this service can be maintained only as long as every person participates.

Summerland Kiwanis Club is working to try and reach an objective of 300 donors for the clinic next Friday. It will be a blotch on the escutcheon of Summerland if this target cannot be reached.

New Penitentiary . . . could be answer to problem

RIGH NOW THE FEDERAL government is reported to be in search of a suitable location in the interior of British Columbia to establish a penitentiary. Summerland is in need of a substantial payroll operation so it looks like an ideal opportunity is waiting for somebody to go to work on it.

There will no doubt be some objections to this proposal because of the nature of such an institution but we can only say that anyone who objects to having a penitentiary in close proximity on those grounds is not well-informed and we can safely predict such objections will not come from from people who have lived in communities where penitentiaries are located.

We have talked to people who have lived in New Westminster, Prince Albert, Kingston and Dorchester but have yet to find one who regarded the penitentiaries in those places objectionable on any grounds. In fact, we can count on those people as the strongest supporters of any proposal that Summerland bend every effort to have one located here.

A couple of arguments advanced elsewhere against having a penitentiary in the community are that it would be injurious to property values and that sirens sounding to warn of escapes would be hard on the nerves of local residents. More specious arguments we cannot conceive.

In answer to the first one, we can only say that we have never heard of any place where property values were adversely affected by the arrival of several hundred families with steady income looking for places to live and property on which to build. Property values will be affected all right — by taking a substantial upward jump.

Those who worry about escape sirens apparently aren't too familiar with our Canadian penal institutions. Escapes from Canadian penitentiaries are just about as rare as duck's teeth and in a modern-constructed institution escape will be those we talked to who have lived in penitentiary practically, if not completely, impossible. None of towns had ever heard an escape-warning siren.

Right now we are not prepared to advance any argument on just what would be a suitable location for such an institution because we are not familiar with the amount of land or services needed but at the same time we are confident that there are any number of suitable sites in Summerland which would measure up to the requirements of the federal government.

This is the kind of opportunity Summerland has been waiting for. But no time should be lost. There will be other wide-awake communities getting in bids so Summerland's council and Board of Trade should move fast to make representations on behalf of this community.

The Lighter Side

A commuter ran breathlessly to the end of the train platform—but the 7:15 pulled away without him. As he slowly walked back toward the station a sympathetic stranger inquired, "Miss the train?"

"Not much," panted the commuter. "I never got to know it really well."

Mid-Week Message

Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid. (Matthew 5:14) Read Mathew 5:13-16.

It was my privilege to drive some 1,500 miles from Minga station in Central Congo to Leopoldville during May in 1938 to the Diamond Jubilee Conference. In the group were twenty-two of us. It was the first time a truck had gone there from this section. It took us nine days to make the trip. We had to pass among many tribes.

One thing about the trip has impressed me to this day: wherever we went, we always knew when we neared a mission station. The expressions on the faces of some of the people told at a glance that they had been around those who knew Christ. I could pick out the Christians. Why? Through others had caught a little of the light of Him who said: "I am the light of the world."

Can others see something in us that makes us different from the crowd, a light that cannot be hidden even though we are strangers in that crowd?

PRAYER

O Thou eternal One, help us to catch a little of Thy light. We pray that those whom we meet, with whom we have dealings may see and acknowledge that Thou art the source of our light. To Thee be the praise and honor, through Christ, who teaches us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . Amen."

The Hi Life

By Carole Allison

In the last soccer game of the season last week, the juniors lost to Penticton with a 1-0 score. The senior girls tied 0-0. A junior soccer tournament will be held here this Saturday with 11 teams expected. It starts at 10:00 a.m. We want to see all the juniors out to support their team and showing their school spirit.

The dance last Friday night was a real success with a good turnout and a lot of fun. We'd like to thank the teachers for sponsoring both the junior and senior dances. They did a swell job!

We are selling magazines again this year but so far the sales have not been good. Come on kids! Get out and sell those magazines. And people! If you are going to buy a subscription to any magazines, buy them through the school.

There is a conference of council members in Enderby on the 18th and 19th of November. We hope to send eight representatives.

That's about all for this week. Preparations are well under way for the Grad Concert play which will be directed by Isabel Reinertson and Anne Solly. A few more boys in the drama group would be appreciated. See you next week.

Guide News

Monday night, October 17, Court of Honour was held. Discussion was mainly on a Halloween party which will be held November 2. Ten Brownies will be coming up to Guides on October 26.

On Wednesday evening, Oct. 19 we saw some colored slides taken at camp, played games and had a few songs before closing.

We would be pleased to have new Guides other than Brownies if they could manage to come. You would soon feel at home and are most welcome.

The France-Canada Exhibition was opened to the public at the Hotel de Rohan (French National Archives), in Paris, with a large collection of items from both countries on display. This girl visitor is admiring a model of a Canadian canoe.

Will Mark YP Week At Services Here

The United Church Young People's meeting was held in the church hall October 18. Preceding the business part of the meeting, a worship service was led by Rev. C. O. Richmond.

To mark Young People's week, November 13 - 20, the group plans to take the church service at Lakeside on November 20. Also a Family Night will be held on Tuesday, November 15.

Following the business, Eileen Wilcox gave a very interesting talk on the Young People's camp she attended at Camp Huriburn north of Vernon and the Young People's Conference at Vancouver over the Thanksgiving week-end. The meeting was closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

Cub Calls

At the weekly meeting Bill Metters, Terry Blagborne and Ronald Reinertson were welcomed as new Chums.

Tests were given in cleanliness and first aid to the First and Second Star boys.

Next meeting will be an Indian Pow Wow starting at 6 o'clock and ending at 7:00 p.m. Parents should give their consent if their boys are to stay to the Community party as the Cub leaders will not be responsible for the boys after 7 o'clock.

November 1 at 7:00 p.m. there will be a Going Up ceremony. All Cubs expected to be present in full uniform - short pants.

The boys have collected 13,000 used postage stamps to date and they would be pleased to have any used stamps given to them. We are still collecting carton ends.

Next meeting October 31 at 6:00 p.m. Going Up Ceremony, November 15 at 7:00 p.m. Duty Six White.

How times have changed for the better!

Not so very many years ago, people with a history of strain ailments or diseases were unable to buy the life insurance they needed. Often, this resulted in considerable hardship for their families. But today, thanks to the results of new knowledge and research in controlling diseases, many such people are now accepted by life insurance companies — and can provide their families with vital financial protection.

This is another example of the many ways in which the life insurance companies in Canada have advanced with the times... offering better service to Canadians in all walks of life!

Solution: A bank loan

You may need extra cash for doctors' bills, for house repairs, to save on a season's fuel supply — or for any sound reason. Don't hesitate — see the bank about it. It's the natural thing to do.

The chartered banks, through inexpensive personal loans large and small, make it possible for people to meet pressing needs or take advantage of bargains. At any branch, you can count on consideration, courtesy, privacy. It is a simple matter to arrange a loan, repayable out of income in instalments that suit your convenience.

The local branch of a chartered bank not only provides personal loans but many other banking services of value to everyone in the community.

Only a chartered bank offers a full range of banking services, including:

- SAVINGS ACCOUNTS: Keep your money safe; pay you steady interest; encourage the habit of thrift.
- TRAVELLER'S CHEQUES: Protect you against theft or loss of cash. They are readily negotiable anywhere.
- LETTERS OF CREDIT: For travellers on extended trips, or for finance business transactions at a distance.
- HOME IMPROVEMENT LOANS: For repairs, alterations or additions to your home.

Your Bank Account Can Be Tailored To Measure, Too

B of M Joint Accounts Fit All Kinds of 'Figures'

A lot of people nowadays buy suits or costumes, even houses, tailored to meet their personal requirements. But too often, the equal need for a "tailored" bank account is overlooked.

In many cases, for instance, married couples, clubs and social groups, do not realize the convenience of operating a Bank of Montreal joint account. Such an account is held by two or more persons. Withdrawal arrangements can be made as desired. Sometimes, it is agreed that any one of the parties can draw independently to any amount. In other cases, it may be stipulated that two or more signatures are required on every cheque.

It's easy to see how valuable these "tailored" joint accounts are. For household financing, for encouraging family savings projects and for keeping association funds "on top", there is no sounder method. Charles Guernsey, accountant of the B of M's West Summerland branch, will gladly explain all the details of a joint account "tailored" to your needs. Why not consult Mr. Guernsey next time you're passing?

Division Guide Association Reports Heard at Meeting Here Saturday

Report of $349 collected in Guides and Brownies "Good Turn" fund, and used to purchase walking appliances and clothing for a crippled youngster in the Children's Hospital, a hearing aid for a deaf child and to pay for extra treatments for a young polio victim, was heard Saturday when South-Okanagan Girl Guides divisional semi-annual meeting was held at the Youth Centre.

In the chair for the session was divisional commissioner Mrs. E. A. Titchmarsh of Penticton, and she was assisted by district commissioners Mrs. L. Whitehouse, Allenby and Mrs. K. McIntosh, Summerland. Secretary was Mrs. J. D. Southworth, Penticton.

Youth Centre was decorated for the occasion in autumnal colors. Sprays of yellow maple, thorny acacia and bronze chrysanthemums were banked on one end of the hall behind the president's chair.

Following precedent, reports were given by the hostess district and these were given by Brownie packs, Guide companies and local associations of the Summerland-Peachland district. These reports showed increased activity in local guiding and showed groups at full strength.

The report on the disbursement of the divisional "Good Turn" fund was given by Mrs. Titchmarsh.

Mrs. B. Blagborne, Summerland, divisional trainer, reported on training given throughout the division since May and gave details of the Ranger, Guide training and guide camps which ran concurrently for 14 days at Okanagan Centre in August. The Ranger camp under Mrs. Blagborne and Miss M. Barraud of Salmon Arm was the advance party who set up tents and organized supplies for the other two camps which were held under the direction of Miss Beth Henson of Vancouver and Mrs. Blagborne as trainers. Films taken at the camp were shown and these were projected by Mrs. J. S. Mott.

The divisional library consisting of about 60 books on guiding was reported by Mrs. A. Leslie of Penticton to be flourishing and she reminded members that Guides or others interested are welcome to use this library at any time. Books cover a variety of subjects from nature, games and signalling to any subject on child character training.

Regret was expressed by the meeting over Mrs. Titchmarsh's retirement after eight years as divisional commissioner and Mrs. McIntosh after two years as assistant. Mrs. L. Whitehouse will take over as divisional commissioner with Mrs. Evenson as secretary. Mrs. Blagborne and Mrs. B. Ruhl will serve as district commissioners.

Mrs. Titchmarsh will continue to serve guiding as music advisor to the B.C. association and as commissioner for Penticton district. Mrs. McIntosh will continue to act as local Guide captain.

Tea was served following the meeting by Mrs. W. Powell with Rangers M. Campbell and D. Durick assisting Mrs. W. Durick and Mrs. M. Henker were in charge of floral and leaf arrangements and Mrs. K. McIntosh was hostess.

Louise Washington Feted at Shower

A surprise shower honoring Miss Louise Washington whose marriage to J. G. McMynn takes place November 5, was given by Mrs. Francis Stuart at the home of Mrs. Harry Braddick Thursday evening, October 20.

The sun room was arranged with counter, shelves and cash register to depict the "Midway Country Store - J. G. McMynn, Prop." Gifts were displayed here awaiting the guest of honor who on arrival was presented with a corsage of yellow mum and white carnations.

A store cart decorated with pink and blue was used by the bride-to-be to bring her gifts from the store to the living room. Following this the guests enjoyed a contest with Mrs. Rex Chapman and Mrs. Alan McKenzie tying for first place.

The dining room table decorated with pink and blue streamers was centered with two heart-shaped cakes on which were written the names of the bride and groom and flanked by pink tapers. Dainty refreshments were served.

Guests present included: Mrs. J. T. Washington, Mrs. Dave Thompson grandmothers of the bride-to-be, Mrs. B. T. Washington, mother of the bride, Mrs. George Washington, Mrs. T. A. Walden, Mrs. Margaret Laidlaw, Mrs. Ken Stewart, Mrs. H. Mott, Mrs. Bert Berry, Mrs. L. W. Rumball, Mrs. Les Rumball, Mrs. Art Dunsdon, Mrs. George Forster, Mrs. Ken McIntosh, Mrs. A. F. Calder, Mrs. W. S. Ritchie, Mrs. A. K. Elliott, Mrs. Tom McDonald, Mrs. Ben Mayne, Mrs. Earle White, Mrs. Ralph Blewett, Mrs. T. Anworthy (Penticton) Mrs. C. B. Snow, Mrs. Les Caldwell, Mrs. F. Hyslop, Miss Bev Fleming, Miss Chris Mair, Miss Ginny Braddick, Miss Marilyn Washington, Miss Iana Stewart.

Unable to be present were: Mrs. Kay Sanborn, Mrs. Jerry Laidlaw, and Mrs. L. K. Stewart.

Eight Tables Play At Cribbage Party

Eight tables were in play at the regular Legion Auxiliary cribbage party held last Wednesday evening in the Legion Hall.

Winner of ladies' first prize was Mrs. W. McCutcheon with consolation going to Mrs. L. Johnson. Arnold Cowan was winner of first prize for gentlemen and A. McPhail took consolation.

Honored at the Canadian Council for the Blind convention in Victoria with the Award of Merit medal was Miss Margaret Liggett of West Summerland, retired teacher of blindcraft. Miss Liggett pioneered in home teaching work for the CNIB in Saskatchewan from 1921 until her retirement in 1953 when she came to live here.

Local Pucksters Iceless But Future Looks Bright

Hopes for top-notch hockey in Summerland are gleamingly bright for the end of the season but first half of the season is presenting something of a king-size headache for the local puck boosters.

In the past years, Summerland and district Commercial League has been playing in the Pentiction and district Commercial League—have been unbeaten, in fact, for the trophy in the past four years—but it looks at the moment as though the commercial loop is kaput.

As far as Summerland is concerned, however, breakup of the commercial league is no loss because there is a spot waiting for the Apple Kings in the valley intermediate league, which promises top-notch hockey with teams entered from Vernon, Kelowna, Summerland and Pentiction.

But here comes the problem. Indications are good that Summerland will have artificial ice by maybe early in February but in the meantime there will be no ice for home games.

The intermediate league is meeting in Kelowna on Sunday and Apple Kings will have to state definitely then whether they will be joining the league. It doesn't look as though there will be any solution to the problem by Sunday but it is likely the local executive will cross collective fingers and throw the Summerland hat in the ring and then work out some temporary arrangement to get through the first part of the season.

There is not much hope of working out any convenient arrangement for getting any ice time at Pentiction without paying through the nose because Summerland is being blamed for the collapse of the commercial league. The executive—predominately Pentictionites—this year ruled disbanded with players going into that all former teams would be a league pool and then be assigned to teams. While it is not intended to suggest that this move was designed to break up hitherto unbeaten Summerland combination, that would be the effect and the local boys would have none of it. So now Summerland players are "personae non grata" in Pentiction puck circles and there will be no assist from that quarter to help them repeat in the intermediate league the record they have established in commercial circles.

One suggestion team manager George Stoll will take to Kelowna meeting Sunday is that Summerland be scheduled to play games away from home during the early part of the season with the home games concentrated in the last half. If the league executive is agreeable to this arrangement, it is possible that arrangements could be made to get in practice time in Kelowna.

Whatever the solution, it's not going to be too simple, but one thing is sure; the local hockey stars are busting to get out on the ice and uphold their reputation and some of the best hockey in the valley—not excepting the brawls that are being passed off as hockey in the senior league—will be ready to move into the Summerland Arena just as soon as a sheet of ice can be made.

Too Late to Classify

THERE'S ROOM FOR EVERYBODY to help at the Arena and volunteers will be welcome at all times. 31-tf-c

AN ADDED ATTRACTION AT the Youth Centre Halloween party Monday night will be a teen-agers dance from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. Prizes will be offered for the best costumed couple. There's barrels of fun in store Monday night at the Youth Centre.

The last convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor before its merger with the Trades and Labor Congress heard President A. R. Mosher, left, urge greater political activity by the union movement. He said the voice of labor in government and industry is still that of a suppliant. With him at the convention in Toronto are David Archer, centre, president of the Toronto and Lakeshore labor council, and George Burt, Canadian director of the CIO United Auto workers.

License Granted For New Business

Council Tuesday approved application of brothers Emil and Herman Kaatz to operate a meat smokehouse in conjunction with the retail butcher business they propose opening in the store formerly occupied by Holmes and Wade on Hastings Street.

Approval of the license followed a report by South Okanagan Health Unit sanitarian F. R. Alcock who stated he had examined the proposed installation and was satisfied there would be no odor and the amount of smoke would not exceed that from any business. The Kaatz brothers purchased the Hastings Street building from V. M. Lockwood and moved to Summerland from Winnipeg with their families a few weeks ago. They are at present carrying out renovations to the building and expect to open a retail food outlet in about a month's time.

Will Hear Discussion On Kellogg Report

A five-man panel of educationalists will discuss the Kellogg report Saturday morning at a meeting of Okanagan representatives of the Canadian Educational Association to be held at Carmi School in Pentiction.

Attending from Summerland will be Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh, chairman of the Summerland School Board, Mrs. J. H. Dunsdon, president of the P-TA and W. C. Wilkin representing the Summerland Teachers' Association.
