Hope for Cure At Texas Clinic

Mr. and Mrs. John Graham Tuesday afternoon set out on a last hope mission when they emplaned for Dallas, Texas, to take their 13 year old daughter, Elizabeth, to the Hoxsey Cancer Clinic there.

Elizabeth, a grade six student at MacDonald school, underwent an operation in Vancouver about three months ago and it was discovered she was suffering from cancer. Until about two weeks ago, hope was held that she was recovering but then news came to the family like a bombshell that there was no hope for recovery.

The Grahams heard through friends of an herbal treatment being offered at the Texas Clinic which has resulted in cancer cures and set off by plane Tuesday in the hope that Elizabeth may respond to this treatment.

Still at home is her twin sister, Margaret, hoping her sister will be restored to her in health.

Meanwhile, friends have rallied with financial assistance for the Grahams to make the trip and Rev. J. H. James reports he has received contributions totalling nearly $400 from friends and wellwishers who are anxious to see that Elizabeth is given every chance of recovery.

Old-Time Dress Jubilee Styles

There was much beard wagging at the regular weekly meeting Wednesday April 4 of the Summerland Jubilee Steering Committee held in municipal hall, under chairman H. R. J. Richards. Reports were heard on various activities being planned for the celebration.

Roy Wellwood brought in a suggestion from the Board of Trade members that the ladies of the community keep pace with the men by reverting to old time; dress during the festivities. Endorsed by the committee the plan if accepted by the ladies allows ample time to whip up a few yards of gingham into an outfit that will divert a bit of attention from those manly cover crops.

Winner of the Jubilee spoon, prize for the most suitable name for the Old Timers' rendezvous in IOOF Hall, will be announced at next week's meeting.

F. E. Atkinson reported that the booklet, "Through the Years" will son be ready to go to press and will depict much of Summerland's history and growth and should prove very interesting.

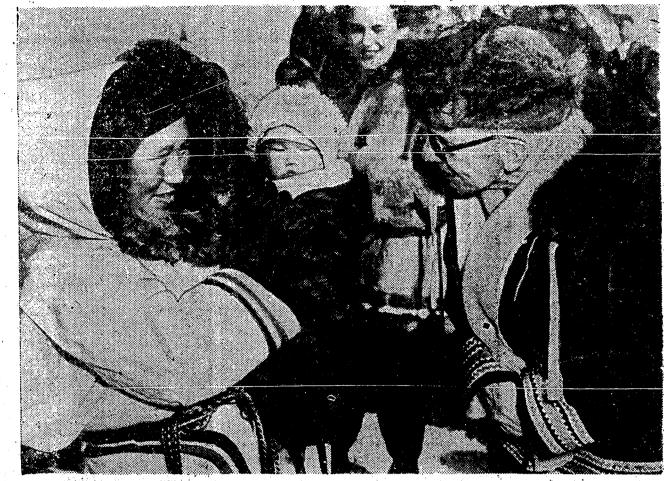

Details of the essay and poster contest for school children are to be announced soon. Suitable prizes are to be awarded.

During the five day celebrations many forms of entertainment are being arranged. There will be a showing of old time films, A Gay Nineties Revue will provide am usement for young and old allke and for the dance enthusiasts there will be square dancing and nodern ballroom dancing. A car-val with fun for everyone is to held one or two evenings in

Fabulous Prize List Continues to Grow

List of fabulous prizes for beard growers grew even larger this week with the offer by Les Rumball of Super-Valu to provide a $10-grocery hamper as one of the awards.

"This beard growing is going to sap a lot of energy," he said, "and there's nothing like Super-Valu groceries to restore that lost zes, when the growing season is over."

It was pointed out to Mr. Rumball that his statement contained a plug for his merchandise. "You're thinkink maybe this Shylock-style beard is by haccident yat? he asked, stroking his black stubble craftily. "And the middle initial, I'm fallink you, is standink for wachiavelli."

Mr. Rumball has now had his quota of free advertising for the year.

Trade Board Set For High Jinks At Supper Meeting Next Thursday

A program of high jinks is promised for Board of Trade members and their bearded friends next Thursday at the supper meeting of the board to be held at 6:45 in the IOOF hall. All members of the community who have joined the beard-growing fraternity have been invited to attend this meeting and take part in the program.

Non-bearded members of the board, if any, will also be permitted to attend. A Committee of

A telephone canvass will be made of board members prior to the meeting to ensure large attendance at the supper meeting but non members who will be at tending have been asked to advise Secretary Lorne Perry so arrangements can be made for the num ber to be scated.

This will be the first mass gathering of bearded chins and the firs, time growers will have an opportunity to gauge progress and exchange growing information.

To give non growers an opportunity to defend their apparent disloyalty to the community, a court will be established to hear the defences to be offered.

There will be a serious side to the gathering as well with various items of community business to come up for discussion.

Proposes Referendum On Union Dispute

A referendum among the valley's fruit and vegetable workers, advocated by Deputy Labor Minister W. H. Sands as a solution to present inter-union strife, has been welcomed by members of Teamsters Local 48 executive.

"In my opinion, it should have been done months ago," TLC Fruits, n.o.p., frozen, in confieldman Bill Fleck said. "It is the only democratic the thing."

Local 48 secretary treasurer W E. Darroch agreed.

"I personally would go along with a referendum," he said, "and the local is studying its official position right now."

Deputy Labor Minister Sands suggested holding a referendum in an attempt to determine precisely what kind of representation the majority of packinghouse workers favored, with an eye to present five-way tangle.

Both Mr. Darroch and Mr. Fleck believed that they would call on the department of labor itself to carry out the referennight when the Catholic Drama Club presented a one-act play a, a dum. Plans for Summerland Jubilee celebration continued to develop this week with a meeting of a special committee headed by Roy Wellwood to arrange a concert and carnival as part of the celebration entertainment.

Initial planning for the concert. calls for a "Gay Ninties" program to include vocal and instrumental selections and possibly a one-act "mellerdrama". The high school auditorium will be used for this program.

Carnival will be held in the Jubilee Arena and will be developed with attractions to entertain all ages. Special events, including beard-judging will be included on the carnival program.

These two events are being planned for Tuesday and Wednesday evening the week of the celebration.

On the committee with Mr. Wellwood are W. A. Laidlaw, Howard Shannon, Gordon Crockett, Mrs. Ken Boothe, Mrs. Wellwood and Mrs. Flora Bergstrome.

Beard-growing in the community has touched off lively interest in the forthcoming celebration and a number of members of the distaff side have expressed enthusiasm for getting into the jubilee promotion with the suggestion that at a given date the women of the community revert to turn of the century dress. No definite proposals for when this should start have yet been proposed to the committee.

ment to make all the important decisions and to redistribute wealth so that there will be no sharp peaks and valleys in the incomes of citizens? Do we want a government to which we must look for help and protection when faced with any of the hardships of life? Do we want to become wards of the state - or individualists recognizing that life is a struggle and that character can be formed only by strife.

These are questions which require enswers and we have to be very sure of what we want and we must be prepared to work for our beliefs.

Do we really care about freedom? This is indeed a challenging question. If we were asked the question undoubtedly the reply would be overwhelmingly in the affirmative, but if we want something badly enough, if we really care for something enough then we must be prepared to exert some effort to secure it or hold on to it. Has our desire for freedom deteriorated into wishful thinking? We all have a lot of wants. We want better homes, higher wages, more powerful automobiles, but usual ly it is only those who are prepared to work harder and produce more who succeed in satisfying those wants. Freedom is like anything else. It's got to be worked for.

Recent contracts with Board of Trade' and Chambers of Commerce across the country have given us renewed faith in the willingness of Canadians to work together for freedom.

All across the country forward looking citizens are giving thought to legislative and other problems at the community, provincial and national levels. Here are men imbued with an appreciation of all that freedom means, who are prepared to give of their time and effort to make democracy a real and vital force. More than 700 cells of freedom' are functioning actively in the Chamber of Commerce movement in this country.

LIFE'S FABRIC

He told me about it as we rode together on the train from the small town where he was born to the big city where he worked. He'd been called out home because his mother, at 81, suffered a severe stroke, and he had watched her fighting for

"As I watched her," he said, "I kept thinking of her as a little girl, Sally May Jones, walking miles and miles to school, then home to milk the cows and do so many chores. It is only when the end seems so near that one becomes so concerned about the beginnings. I thought of her marriage, and the struggle to raise a family and all the dreams she must have had in those days. And I wondered what regrets must be in her mind now, with the end threatening and many of the dreams unfilled.

"We were at her bedside at the little hospital -her three sons-and I suppose we were all wondering the same thing. Then we noticed that she was trying to toll us something, although paralysig had made speech difficult for her. We leaned forward anxiously, and finally we were able to understand.

"She was trying desperately hard to tell us that at home we would find outmeal cookies in the carthernwars crock in the cupboard and that there was medt cooked and ready to eat. Bring up a sealer of fruit from the basement - anything you like,' she said."

He told me that it took them back somewhat to think that at this hour, when they thought her every energy was devoted to her figh, for life, that instead, her mind was on supper for the boys. The dreams lose substance, but these daily things are real and immediate and important.

She is recovering from her stroke, he snys, and should abili have some summers in the sun, to sit and look back. The Welfare Service

It is truly astonishing when one reflects how the word welfare has almost unnoticed become an integral part of our every day conversation. The importance of welfare has for long been recognized. Examples are many and varied.

The numerous small and large organizations, the industrial plants with their own welfare and personnel manager, even the sick visitor, all realize the importance of welfare on the morale and geaeral outlook of the individual.

In an emergency, be it of a personal, local, or national character, welfare is a sure morale builder. To demonstrate at such times that the "unfortunate will and can be cared for by these, perhaps, more fortunate, must be one of the chief concerns of our civil defence organization. However, let us not assume that it is all as simple as that: Many, many are the needs that must be planned for and met, with speed of action as the dominating factor.

Summerland and district is fortunate, in that many fully trained and qualified people have offered their services should they be needed, but, it is not to be expected that they could carry on without relief or rest and thus it is, we need more for the welfare service. This is more than ever true, in view of the fact that we have been designated as a reception

In an emergency there would be many problems confronting us, some of which could be taken care of by advanced planning and others, not perhaps envisaged, dealt with by trained personnel swiftly and efficiently. We would have to meet the basic human needs of the homeless with the emphasis on first things first.

Food and drink would have to be readily available, these perhaps having to be prepared under emergency conditions. Actually feeding plays a very special and important part in the welfare service and it is good to know, that in this connection, we have many people of Summerland and disrich enrolled in this section, who with their valuable experience are, and would prove a tower of strength in any kind of an emergency.

Clothing and the like might also have to be collected and distributed. Lodging and shelter would be needed; perhaps for a short period only, but, this could prove to be a real snag under wintry conditions.

Many complex questions would be asked and would have to be answered, helpfully. The how, what, and why and others of a like nature.

no doubt, be kept working at very full pressure and personal services would also have many problems to solve. With the medical, health, registration and other services working so closely together, it will thus be seen that welfare would do much to restore conditins, if not to normal, at least to some semblance of order. There are of course other services in the civil defence organization that have not been covered in the present series of notes. these have purposely been omitted since those already summarized are almost certain to be called into action in an area such as ours.

It is hoped that at a future date the whole set up of civil defence may be reviewed by the courtesy of our good friend the Editor of The Review. In the meantime, man, Edith Heinrick, Gail Henker. the writer hopes to commence a new series as from nex, week and efforts will be made to outline the reason and the necessity of civil defence.

Pen pictures of civil defence in action, of memories both grim and gay, of lessons learnt, sometimes the hard way. All these, blended and reminding us that our neighbors misfortunes could quite easily be our own.

The ghost of Harley Ave. has been revealed. For weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Howell of Toronto would hear a loud knock on their front door, then race to the door only to find no one there. So a camera was rigged and attached to the front door knocker, with the result shown here. The invisible knocker was Tiger, the Howell cat who could make a leap at the knocker, grasp it in his paws, The information section would, then let it go with a joud knock.

Summerland Baptist Church was the setting for Easter Monday rites when Carol Gwynneth Graham became the bride of Charles David Thomas at a two o'clock ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Graham of Summerland and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Thomas of Winnipeg.

Rev Lyle Kennedy officiated and the church was decorated for the occasion with an arch of greenery and baskets of daffodils and tulips. Guest pews were marked with flowers tied with pastel rib-

Explains Doctrines Theosophy Society

What is Theosophy? It is a strange word, Theosophy, puzzles so many people. "I never heard of it; what does it mean? is a familiar reply to any reference to these ancient teachings. If one explains that the word means literally "Divine Wisdom" many jump to the conclusion that it is just another new religious sect; while some, after consulting their. dictionaries, convince themselves that it is a re-hash of Buddhism or Brahmanism and so must be antagonistic to Christianity.

It is not difficult for sincere seekers to discover that these conclusions are erroneous.

Theosophy is the truth that lies behind all religions It is also a philosophy and a science. In so far as it teaches the divine plan for the evolving of humanity from the lowest "being" to the divine "stature of Christ" as taught by St. Paul, and advises methods of hastening and helping that evolution, it is a religion.

It is a philosophy because it explains the necessity for the evolution of both souls and bodies contained in our solar system.

It is a science because it treats these subjects not as matters of belief only, but of direct know ledge attainable by study and investigation: so that no one need trust entirely to blind faith but can arouse powers, latent in everyone, that will enable him to see and examine for himself. Theosophy teaches that man is a soul using a body; not a body housing

Theosophy is not antagonistic to any religion; it does not advise you to leave your religion but to

The church to which you belong, the teachings you profess to believe are best for you. Theosophy amplifies these teachings, shows you their hidden meanings and solves many difficulties.

All of the thickly populated areas of Canada will have normal or above normal temperatures for the next 30 days, according to the long range meteorological forecast. That should mean clear April skies, and fine weather-but, just a moment! There is also a note that rainfall will be "moderate." So perhaps we should all carry our umbrellas, just in case.

Insurance Programs Outlined to AOTS

Members of AOTS at their monthly supper meeting last Thursday heard from Ben Trafford an interesting and enlightening talk on life insurance. During the time at his disposal, Mr. Trafford covered quite fully the problems which are likely to present themselves to individuals buying life insurance and also explained different types available to meet different sets of requirements.

Appreciation of the audience for the informative talk was expressed by Allan McKenzie.

What is education, What do we havior in all phases of the school want it to do for our children? program. This is something that parents and teachers alike might well ponder over.

A short definition of education mlight be "preparation for life." Do our schools supply it? Not according to the great British economist, Sir Josiah Stamp, who once defined education as "the inculcation of the incomprehensible into the ignorant by the incompetont."

No short definition of education, however, can be adequate. Recently the B.C. department of education issued a revised edition of the aims of education in British Columbia. Here they are, as printed in "The B. C. Teacher":

To ensure that all pupils master tht fundamental skills of learning to the limit of their abilities. To help all pupils to develop healthy minds and bodies. To help pupils become familiar with that which is great and valuable history, science and the arts.

To guide pupils in the development of such qualifiles of character and oitizenship as good personal habits, willingness to work with others, honesty, obedience and self control.

To co-operate with parents in guiding the growth and developmont of their children.

To teach each pupil to do his bos, by maintaining high standards of performance in all phases of the school program.

To instill in all pupils respect for high standards of work and an approlation for the efforts of others.

To teach pupils some common manual skills as a means of helping them become practical and useful citizens.

To give pupils some guidance in the choice of career and some op portunity to begin preparation for occupational life.

THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1956

The Prime Minister pointed out that it was not intended to prevent the free flow of ideas across the border. Canada experiences a very large deficit in her trading with U.S. It is felt that some agreement should be reached whereby more equitable trading could take place.

Another subject that will be discussed will be the large amount of U.S. funds now being invested in Canada. This form of investment has penetrated every avenue of Canadian trade and in-

The situation has been criticized in parliament, some members going as far as to say that we are being sold down the river to the U.S. interests.

Other speakers strongly in favor of outside capital developing our resources in the business as no enthusiasm was being shown by Canadian investors.

In the house this American tendency was under discussion in connection with small loan companies who operate in Canada the bulk of their capital being held by American interests.

The same criticism was levied at the proposed pipe line that seeks to borrow money from the government. It too is controlled by American interests. However, they are matters that will be ironed out in the next few weeks. The visit of the Prime Minister is timely and will no doubt produce some good results.

Several speakers on the budge, debate have asked the government to reconsider its treatment of municipalities with regard to taxation of federal buildings.

At present there are only about 100 municipalities throughout the whole dominion receiving taxes because their percentage of federal property in relation to their general taxation is such that it meets with the government formula for paying taxes.

Others felt that it is time that the government pay taxes on all its government buildings such as the post offices in Kelowna, Penticton, Princeton and other places in the valley.

Jubilee Janes' Will Do Their Part To Add Colorful Touch to Jubilee

Spirit of galety which has infected the community with the approach of the jubilee celebration reached out and touched the distaff side of the community with a meeting Tuesday afternoon of a group of women interested in promoting a move to have the members of their sex turn back the calendar on fashions and revert to turn-of the century styles when celebration time arrives.

Attending the meeting were the wives of West Summerland merchants who chose officers and representatives to meet with representatives of other interests and areas in the district to plan a community wide participation in the "Jubilee Janes" movement.

Chairman of the newly-formed AOSWWADTP,T - Association of Summerland Women Who Are Doing Their Part, Too - is Mrs. H. R. Hodgson and secretary is Mrs. W. A. Laidlaw. Members of the committee designated to prowide information to those interested in participating are Mrs. Gordon Crockett, Mrs. Hilly Smith. Mrs. Wm. Milne, Mrs. N. Holmes, and Mrs. C. Wade.

Those present, numbering about 30 favored start of costume wearing about June 1 and hoped that every person in the community ,would join into the spirit of the occasion.

It is amticipated that the old time dress, coupled with the variety of unusual beards sprouting in the community, will result in considerable publicity for the district through press, radio and TV coverage.

Various suggested styles were considered at the Tuesday AOSWWADTP,T meeting and Gibson Girl fashions found most popularity for simplicity in making. Others, however, favored more elaborate styles so there is a guarantee of almost as much variety as there is in beards.

Legion to Stage Jubilee Carnival

Legion Branch last night decided to stage a carnival, probably on two nights, to highlight the Summerland jubilee celebration in June. Members at the regular meeting approved taking on the project and a committee will be named to develop arrangements for the gala affair.

During the meeting C. E. Bentley presented to the branch a recently designed president's badge and pinned it on the current president, Nat May.

Named as delegate to attend the provincial convention in Vancouver early in June was L. L.

The branch also approved plans for the award of a $250 scholarship to the son or daughter of a veteran to further university or vocational training each year.

Summerland ratepayers on Saturday, May 5, will go to the polls to voice an opinion on whether the school board will go ahead on a $110,000 program of school expansion. In the program is included extension to the high school and the proposed two-room school at Trout Creek.

This vote will be different from previous ones on school capital projects in that it will be a referendum rather than a money bylaw vote. Under the present system of school financing, the money will be raised by the province rather than by local bond issue. Of the $110,000, 75 per cent will come from provincial grants and the remaining portion will be advanced by the province to be repaid by the municipality over a period of 20 years.

The matter of how the vote should be taken came in for considerable discussion at Tuesday's council meeting when there was a difference of opinion between councillors and School Board Chairman R. M. McLachlan on whether the issue in the project should be voted on separately. This meeting was followed, however, by another meeting of the council with the full school board and School Inspector E. E. Hvndman yesterday afternoon and in Trout Creek at which 55 out from it came the decision to include all items of the project in one vote.

A ratepayers' meeting will be held late this month to explain the details of the project.

In the council meeting Tuesday, Reeve' Atkinson voiced strong opposition to the omnibus referendum, stating in his opinion that ratepayers should have the privilege of accepting portions of the program without having to accept it all. He made it clear that his opposition was not to any phases of the program but rather in the method it was being put before the ratepayers.

Mr. McLachlan explained that this was the procedure now favored by the educational department and since the province is paying 75 per cent of the cost he felt that procedure should be followed. He stated the reason for having the project presented in one vote was to avoid sectionalism and pointed out that in separate votes, a small area in a district might not get fair treatment with the majority of ratepayers turning down any proposed expenditures for the minority sec-

In a cordial exchange between the reeve and school board chairman, Reeve Atkinson stated "The reason for the single referendum is that you fear the Trout Creek school might fail by itself."

Said Mr. McLachlan: "We don't think it should be given an opportunity to fail because we think it is needed there."

"But," asked the reeve, "If the majority don't favor it, shouldn't they be heard?"

"I question that," replied Mr. McLachlan, "The school board has studied the problem and should know what is needed. We got the opinion of 90 per cent of the people affected and they were in favor of it." He explained this opinion was obtained at a meeting of 60 favored the plan."

The $710,000 project is made up of $61,500 for extension of the Junior-Senior High School, including installation of a ventilation system in the auditorium, $30,000 for Trout Creek school; $6,000 for equipping the high school extension; $2,500 for equipping Trout Creek school; $4,500 for plans and supervision and $5,500 for contingencies in raising the funds.

John Dunn appeared before council Tuesday to seek approval of a plan to construct low-rental duplexes on his lot adjacent to Living Memorial park, Problem is that the lot is presently zoned as park site and he was advised to apply for re-zoning of the lot and the matter would then be considered.

Mr. Dunn expressed the opinion that if the lot was to remain zoned as, a park site, then the municipality should purchase it. He was told that he could continue to use it for an orchard as at present but could not change

Many Canadians have the mistaken impression that economic eleitricity producing atomic power stations are just around the corner for this country.

Nothing could be farther from the truth. The most optomistic forecast by responsible scientists is that this goal will not be reached until at least 1963 or 1964.

Belief that we have reached the era of economically priced atomic power apparently has been increased by announcements that Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States are planning to build atomic power plants. It has report that the Soviet already has a station operating.

Of Many Things

By Ambrose Hills

My father used to make me pretty mad when he talked stariffs. At eighteen, I was an ardent free trader. How in the world, I wondered, could father favor tariffs when free trade sounded so good, so liberal, so progressive?

I remember some of his reasons. "The Indians had Free Trade," he would snort, "and look what we did to them-sold them trash and took their treasures. They paid hundreds of dollars in fur for ten dollar rifle. Uncivilized countries import bawbles; civilized countries build their own industries and protect them too."

Then he would shake his head and continue, "I can't mee why we should be the ones to holler for free trade. We're young and need to grow. We'd build a dike against floods; but when our whole economy is threatened by a flood of stuff from starvation wages lands, we're all out with our dippers, trying to scoop up a gain. Some day if we neglect our own industries, we'll pay through the nose for everything we import."

Father had other arguments, but at that age I wasn't easy to convince. I think he'd be glad to know that now - in my sober forties - I have changed my mind.

I still wish we could have free trade through out the world; but, I don't thinke counties like Califada can afford to lead the parade. Every hundred jobs in industry breats 260 other jobs. They support, for example, 28.5 farmers, 1.6 cleaners. 2.6 carpenters, 2.2 stenographers and typists, and so on. If we want these jobs for Canadians, we can not afford too many so called bargains imported from low wag, countries.

Wonder how many strange notions my father had that I'll come to agree with by and by?

the riches of the harvest of fruits, tied it all up together and added a sufficient quantity of sugar to make sure that it would keep against the cold days of winter when fresh fruit was not available.

She used it up during the winter, but in her thrifty habits as housewife and gardener she still had, year after year, the fruits from the well tended bushes from which to make her "conserve."

The preservation of these natural resources is the first duty of those who are organized these days under the banner of Conservation. They will make good farms, fine forests, beautiful parks which will be used and still preserved for generabions to come. They will be the fruits of the Conservation movement "done down" for the perpetual use and enjoymen, of Canadians.

In This Corner

By Lewis Milligan

Addressing a group of diplomats in Valican City, Pope Pius XII warned them to be on their guard against "militant materialism." The real hope for peace, he said, is a recognition that "man is in the first place a spirit." When I read that in the news, this present article had already been written, including the above title, and I was happy to find myself in such distinguished company.

In my last article replying to a readers' question, "Can a Christian be a Socialist?" I cited historical facts to show that Socialism was based on the assumption that mankind was so much animated material that could be planned and moulded into a cast iron system of society and stay there. I pointed out that all the originators of Socialism were materialists. I am now asked, "What is materialism?" That is a large order.

The materialist reverses the Christian idea of creation and claims that the world and all forms of life, including man, are entirely the products of matter. Frederick Engels, the friend and financial sponsor of Karl Marx, declared that "Matter is not the product of mind, but mind is merely the highest product of matter." Stalin exxplained it thus: "Thought is a product of matter which in its deyelopment has reached a high degree of perfection, namely, in the brain, and the brain is the organ of thought."

That is pure, or rather, crass materialism. It puts the "cart before the horse" and renders both mind and matter static and ridiculous. If mind is merely the product of matter, what then is matter the product of? Sir James Jeans, the great British astronomer, said: "The universe has not always existed, it had a beginning and is still expanding." If that be true, matter itself did not exist at one time and there must have been a mind to create it. Matter itself is a mystery, and modern science has revealed that it is not what it

The Bible says: "In he beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was without form and void." Scientific materialists would agree with the latter part of that statements for it aptly describes the nebula from which they claim the earth was evolved. They reject the first part because God is a spirit, and there can be nothing spiritual in materialist's universe. That was the stumbling block of the materialistic evolutionists of the nineteenth century. They tried to explain away the Creator by physical laws in matter and by such terms as "natural selection" as the origin of all forms of organic life. Evolution to them was an automatic process void of any preconceived design or innate intelligence. The whole process was a sort of hit and miss affair,

Charles Darwin, who demonstrated the process in his books, "The origin of Species" and "The Descent of Man", was not a professed material int, but he would have committed himself one way." or the other. He rejoided however, in Professor Huxley's materialistic explanations of the Darwinlan theory. Yet Darwin kept an open mind, and the nearest he came to believing in a divinity operating in nature was in his atudy of flowers, per-ticularly probids. He glosted over them and was am-axed at not only the marvelous coloring and design of the erchid, but especially at the apparent intelligence of that strange flower.

Woodsworth had previously said that "the meanest flower that grows" gave him thoughts that "lie too deep for tears". Darwin had no love for moetry, he was an anlyst, and he virtually admitted that orchids avoked a mystery too profound for materialistic analysis.

Reading recently Duff Cooper's autobiography "Old Men Forget," I made a note of the following statement: "Man can make a machine, he cannot make an organism because an organism is life, and the creation of life remains a mystery which baffles science." Dutt Cooper was a politician, but in that brief statement he has founded the materialists of both science and politics.

It is not sold by grade in the shops but quality veal has certain characteristics which the consumer should learn to recog-

Similar cuts of veal may vary greatly in color and size for they come from animals of different maturity and weights. The meat from younger animals is greyishpink and is less firm than the pinkish brown meat of the more ter added and cooked in a modermature veal. The bones in young yeal is more porous and more reddish in color than those from older animals.

All good quality veal is finetextured and velvety. It has much less fat than other meats but what there is may be white creamy-white or tinged with pink. Although it comes from younger animals veal has a considerable amount of connective tissue and requires long, slow cooking to make it tender. It is a mild- flavored meat which combines well with many foods and seasonings and its delicate flavor is enhanced by cooking in well seasoned

Because veal contains little fat a roast will be juicier if it is covered with slices of bacon, salt pork or other fat strips during cooking. The fat should be removed during the last hour of roasting so that the meat will brown evenly.

Like other meats, veal shrinks less and has a better flavor when cooked at a low temperature. The roast should be placed on a rack in an uncovered pan with no waately slow oven (325), until it is well done. The meat is cooked when it is fork tender and greyish in color, with no trace of pink remaining, or, if a meat thermometer is used, the internal temperature of the roast is 180 F.

civil defence notebook

By I. E. PHILLIPS Civil Defence Officer

The End of Isolation'

What has brought about crea tion of a civil defence service as an almost permanent feature in the everyday life of so many advanced and mature countries of the world today? Certainly no clear thinking person would at tribute this to the mere whim of a government or of a people. Changing conditions and bitter experience has indeed forced the decision on us.

It used to be that an army and a navy were our only sentinels and the civilian could still sleep soundly in his bed. Jus, as the advent of the airplane heralded the beginning of a new era, so also it marked the end of an era.

With the rapid advances in de sign and construction of aircraft made over the years there is nov no chance or opportunity of liv ing in isolation.

Not that the breaking down o such isolation in itself is a, all : bad thing, it could be that thi could eventually prove to be the world's salvation.

It is true that by personal con tact and mixing with other peoples of all creeds and color one finds the other fellows problems. and it may be added fears, much like ones own.

On the credit side the airplane has done and is doing just that. However, much as we dislike it we have in the interim to take into account the past, the possibiliy and probabiliy of the perverted use of aircraft in the future. Should a cloud turn into a storm the front line would be just where an enemy chose to make it. A sweeping assertion to make, but it isn't really when one reflects on the lesson of Pearl Harbor. :

an uncertain world, surely it is country's production.

true that all of us wish to live in peace and reasonable security, free from the horrors of war and the onslaught of nature in her worst moods. It would be unwise, however, not to prepare and to guard against possible inundation by forces that threaten our way of life, our homes and our children. Such a threat could materialize from an emergency in the shape of fire, flood or tempest.

The writer vividly recalls the scorn, sarcasm and sometimes laughter that the civil defence volunteer had to contend with in the early stages of its formation in the United Kingdom. Many of these critics later joined civil defence and many others had good cause later to be thankful and grateful for its guidance and help.

These days people are more enlightened, realizing that civil defence is passive defence and essential in the life of the com-

Memory conjures up a recruiting poster much displayed during the early days of the first world war, when the great Kitchener was forming his first volunteer army. Depicting soldiers going over the top on a night patrol, the caption read "Come over and help; us."

Sufficient Interest For Extension Courses

For the past four or five years various university extension courses have been given a, Trout Creek Point. The most poular of these was the home rejuvinating course. The popular instructor for this course was Miss Eileen Cross who is the home economics teacher at the new Nelson High School this year. As she has not been replaced this course was not available this

S. A. MacDonald Receives Honor For Service to Teachers' Society

A Signal honor came to a prominent Summerland citizen recently, when a life membership in the British Columbia Teachers' Federation was voted to S. A. MacDonald by the provincial convention of the teachers' organization held in Vancouver during Easter holidays.

The honor is in recognition not only of Mr. MacDonald's charter membership in the organization he joined it 37 years ago, when he first came to Summerland as school principal - but also of his many services to the profession during those 37 years.

He has always been a booster for the BCTF, encouraging teachers to join it in the days when membership was voluntary, and so helped to build up the strength which has made the federation a power for good to teachers and to education generally.

In the local branch of the provincial body, the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Association, Mr. Mac-Donald has always taken a prominent part. He is a charter member of it too, and was president of the organization in 1927. In those early days of poor roads and unreliable cars, traveling up and down the valley to association meetings was not easy, but Mr. MacDonald was noted for his faithful attendance and helpful counsel.

It is expected that formal presentation of this honor to Mr. _MacDonald will be made before the end of this school term.

Accident Victim Pays Court Fines

Apearing before Magistrate Robert Alstead this week, Fsederick Teitsu Matsune was found guilty on two driving charges and fined a total of $250 and costs. On the first charge of driving while his dicense was under suspension, he wan fined $100 and on the second, of driving while his ability Rites Yesterday was impaired by alcohol, he was fined $150.

The charges came as an aftermath to an accident on March 20 when Matsune drove his car into the path of a Chapman's Transfer trailer truck at the intersection by the Lutheran church Damage to the truck amounted to . $90 while Matsune's car was completely demolished and Matsune has been in hospital for nearly a month as a result of injuries received in the accident.

Beard-Growing Highlights

Reaction to outsiders to this beard-growing community offered several interesting highlights this week:

A commercial traveller, laden down with a sample case was noted pausing to don a false beard before entering the store of a bearded customer.

A hypnotist was in Summerland Monday to try and arrange for a show here this week. Distinctive feature about his appearance (anywhere else) was that he was wearing a beard. Apparently the competition looked to be too much. He didn't stay.

Penticton square dancers arrived for a dance at the Youth Centre wearing full-blown - if phony - beards of many varied

Rink Association Meeting Friday Night

One of the most important meetings in the history of 'the Summerland Rink Association will be held Friday night. It is the annual meeting of the association and beside the election of officers, policy regarding operation of the rink will be decided and plans laid for the coming season.

The arena, when the cement floor is completed next month, will be more than just a place for winter sports and the association will be out to develop full possible use of the building. The meeting Friday night will decide for what other uses the premises may be put. The meeting will be held in the IOOF Hall at 8 o'clock.

Funeral rites were held yesterday afternoon for Henry Baldwin, a resident of Summerland for the past 32 years, who passed away Sunday in the Summerland General Hospital. He was 74 years of age.

Services were held from the Summerland Baptist Church at 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Lyle Kennedy officiating and interment 2nd Scout Troop was in Peach Orchard cemetery. Mr. Baldwin was born in Kappla, Ontario.

He leaves to mourn his wife. Helen Mary, four daughters, Mrs. W. L. Sherwood, Mrs. Flora Bergstrome, Mrs. Roy Wellwood and Mrs. Edith Sayers, all of Summerland; three brothers, three sisters Hall.

Present Inventories Close to Last Year

B.C. Tree Fruits today reports that movement to Canadian markets has been light over the past week but improved inventory poings of 380,000 boxes are only with prize money. about 80,000 more than this date a year ago.

Movement of Washington apples has exceeded last year's rate during the past few weeks but with the surplus of Delicious and Red Delicious on hand, there seems to be little likelihood of any price advances until later in the season when these two varieties have been completely sold.

Tree Fruits state the last car of Red Delicious to the U.S. moved out this week and the present time shipments to those marand some Staymans.

School Band's Potluck Concert New Idea for Entertainment Program

A new type of entertainment will be featured in the High School Tuesday night at 8 o'clock when the High School Band will present a "Pot Luck" evneing. The band is in the middle of an energetic campaign to raise muchneeded funds and has asked the various Summerland organizations to present a 15 or 20 minute item which will feature the members of each of the organizations.

The response has been very gratifying and a pleasing, wellrounded program is assured. From the closely guarded meetings informants have been able to find out that the entertainment provided by some of these groups in Summerland.

Those organizations definitely taking part are Rotary, Kiwanis, Catholic Drama Society, Legion and Legion Auxiliary, The Scandinavian Society, Square Dance Club. Singers and Players, Town Band and other groups. This will be welded into a fast moving interesting show that is shaping up to be one of the entertainment. highlights of the season.

Tickets will be on sale by members of the School Band and also at the door. All seats will be rush.

Among the acts already assured are two plays, a band concert by the Summerland Town Band, vocal numbers by several outstanding Summerland singers, some fancy dancing numbers by members of the Square Dance Club and several other novelty numbers which will be interesting to say the least.

Stages Banquet

Scouts of the Second Summerland Troop and their fathers were entertained on Friday, April 6, at the annual father and son banquet held in the United Church

The occasion was marked by a coming up coremony for new scouts being advanced from cubs and guest speaker for the occasion was C. McNaughton who gave an interesting talk on snake hunting, showed, speciments and also a film on the subject.

Chairman for the event was "Jack Wilson and guests included Doug Campbell, District Scoutmaster Gordon Blewett, G. A. Trade Board Will Have Permanent Float

Work started this week on Summerland's permanent float chassis with Nels Charlton providing the labor in getting it

Purchase of an old truck chaslast week by the Board of Trade is about $20,000. and the permanent platform which was constructed by the board last year, is being built on the chassis Mr. Walker said he was prepared and the motor is being recondition by Mr. Charlton.

With this permanent motorized float, the board of trade may will be like nothing else ever seen give consideration to entering it in float parades other than just the Penticton Peach Festival.

Former Residents Victims In Fire

Victims in a fire at Red Rock earlier this month were former Summerland residents Mrs. Vera

Mrs. Harrison is a daughter of West Summerland, who were in the inquest and funeral of their bration. daughter and grandchildren.

Only member of the family to escape the fire was Mr. Harriwakened at 1 a.m. to find the ground floor of the house and room enveloped in flames. He was barely able to make his way out of the house. The other members of the family were all sleeping upstairs and apparently had no chance to escape.

Cause of the blaze is a mystery since there were no fires burning in the house at the time. The house was not wired for electricity and there were no lamps burning.

Whether Mrs. Harrison could have escaped if awakened before the fire gained too much progress is doubtful since she was recuperating from a highway accident several months ago which left her badly crippled. In that accident, a man riding in the same car as Mrs. Harrison gave his life by throwing himself in front of her and protect her in the crash. Mrs. Harrison and her daughter, also in the accident, were to have been witnesses at a manslaughter hearing arising from this accident.

During the war, Mrs. Harrison then Mrs. Thomas Vickers, made her home in Summerland while her hushand was overseas.

Inquest into the triple fatality was adjourned last week and will resume on Monday.

Another point raised with the district inspedtor was the matter the municipality of Summerland. Mr. Walker advised tat the situation is not peculiar to Summerland but is a matter of governmen, policy that where there is more than one post office located in the same municipality the drop letter rate does not apply between the districts unless there is a mail carrier service.

Mr. Walker said that when tota. annual business of the two office es in Summerland reaches $25,00 one will be declared a staff office and the other will become a sub office and drop letter rate will then go into effect. School Players Score Success

Summerland High School Drama Club gave one of its most outstanding performances last Thursday night with their presentation of the hilarious three-act play Our Hearts Were Young and

The story relates the adventures of Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimborough as a pair of young girls on an unchaperoned trip to Paris and was an ideal vehicle for the youthful players. Directing the performance was Mrs. Ethel McNeill.

Deftly handling the two lead roles were Carole Allison and Isabel Reinentson. Others in the cast were Ron Wilson, Anne Solly, Ken Bissett, Walter Uegame, Eileen Wilcox, Richard Davis, Arthur Turnbull, Anne Beggs, Pauline Hoffman, Bob Schultz, Irene Tycholz, Patsy Menu, Irene Carey, and Ray Blagborne.

In the behind the scenes operation, stage settings were arranged by Clarke Wilkin, Jack Ganzeveld and Ron Wilson.

Athur Turnbull was stage manager and lighting was handled by Jack Ganzeveld. Costuming was under direction of Mrs. A. K. Macleod and properties were arranged by Lois Harbicht and rate. FEDERAL GOVERNMENT HANDOUTS

One would think, from the briefs mission, that the question upper most in the minds of all provincial municipal and educational authorities in Canada today is how to persuade the dominion government to provide them with all the money they need or think they need and thus relieve them of the unpleasant task of taxing their own people for it.

NEWSPAPER AND THE SHRINKING DIME

Not so long ago an advertiseing representative of long experience wrote that if the weekly newspapers today got what they than brains, because the average man can see bet deserved for their product the public would be paying 25 cents a copy for their local papers.

That may seem slightly astronomical but when it is taken into consideration that many youngsters today have the money for comic books handed out to them not once or twice in a month but sometimes frequently in one week, the statement falls into its proper proportions. As it is, even a dime a copy for a weekly newspaper soup to guest): It looks like rain. would be thought high by many readers who set a low value on like soup. all community activities.

The dime, as everyone who handles that small bit of currency knows is steadily shrinking and shrinking. A major fire would be the greatest calamity that could strike this district. No person has a right to take the chances involved in starting a grass fire without first taking the proper precautions to keep it within safe confines. There is far too much at stake for anyone to take any gamble.

It should not be necessary to list the precautions that should be taken before starting to burn grass or prunings. Every orchardist knows them well—but perhaps the thought that carelessness can cost him a lot of money should it spread beyond his own property will cut down on the rash of call for the fire department that breaks out annually at this time of the year.

PARTY POLITICS

I often think it's comical

How nature always does contrive That every boy and every gal,

That's born into this world alive, Is either a little Liberal,

Or else a little Conservative.

So wrote W. S. Gilbert in the Victorian period, and Arthur Sullivan set it to music in his opera Iolanthe. There is more truth than poetry in that rhyme. As one born in England, I have seen it confirmed repeatedly. Younger members of a family usually accepted the political views of In Christ, we can indeed, be more than contheir parents, particularly those of the father. The in is get your money and be away. querors over sin and death. As Matthew Henry, mother, in those days, took little interest in politics. She didn't have a vote anyawy. As the family dispersed and its members began to think for themselves they gravitated to the party

> Gladstone was an outstanding example. He was not only born into a strong Tory family, but he entered parliament and held several cabinet positions in Conservative governments before he realized that he was a born Liberal.

Churchill's father, Lord Randolph, was a staunch Conservative and his son follow in his sire's footsteps. But Winston was too much of an individualist with a mind of his own. In the early bwenties he transferred to the Liberal party. During the First World War his native Tory instinct revived and he re-entered the Conservative party in a fighting spirit. But, like his father, he was always inclined to kick over the party traces. Neither party trusted him and he spent a long time in the political wilderness between the two world

In that period politics, got mixed up with coalitions. The then little Labor Party took advantage of the situation and slipped into office by minority votes draws mostly from the leftist Liberals. During the Second World War, British party politics were suspended in a united effort to resist a powerful enemy and save the life of the nation itself. Although it eventually succeeded, that united front with its great sacrifices left the country in a state of bankruptcy and the people in poverty. The Liberals and Conservatives were willing to continue in coalition for a period of reconstruction but Labor leaders saw an opportunity to capitaldze on the national distress. They went all out for Socialism with Communist Russia as their ideal. They fooled the war tired and poverty stricken people with promises of eternal peace and plenty under social and economic planning and nationalized industries, with a "brotherly" attitude toward Soviet Russia. Churchill, who had led the nation and the Western World to victory, was deposed and forgotten.

The fragments of the Conservative and Liberal parties were helpless in the face of Labor's overwhelming majority. The Socialists had an open and free field in which to fulfil their utopian promises. After seven years of Labor government the last state of the country was worse than the first. The majority of the British people had had more than enough of Socialism, and the Conservadive party, with a remnant of Liberals, were returned to power with Churchill at the head. The Conservatives have in a few years put the nation on its feet economically and the people of Britain are now more prosperous than they had been for

It is doubtiful whether the Liberal party can ever be revived sufficiently to compdte in an election. Britain is now back in the two party system with Liberalized Conservatives on the one hand and Conservatized Labor on the other. The country has survived a political revolution and, is fordunate in having avoided the and fate of France with its multiple parties and instability of government. Henceforth nature will have to contrive to have every boy and every gal born little Laboritos or little Conservatives.. What she will do shout the little Bovanites is another question.

Human Traits The plumage of male birds is not always brighter than the plumage of the females. A notable exception among our native species are phalaropes, a small family of shore birds. In this instance, the female is brightly colored in contrast to the male who is sombrely clothed. The reversal however, is not confined to plumage, but includes certain habits as well. For instance it is the female phalarcpe, not the male, who does the courting. It is the male, too, who, for the most part, brings up the family while the female has a good time with others of her sex.

The inventory of Canadian forests being carried out under a five year agreement between the federal government and seven provincial governments is approximately three-quarters finished.

Canadian participation will include some contribution and a full share of the benefits. Techniques developed by Canadian laboratories will be used when required. New varieties of tree fruits developed by Canadian horticulturists can be submitted to the repository for safe keeping.

Materials from the repository will be released to government workers in Canada as readily as to workers in the United States. United States authorities have adopted this generous attitude because they believe the use of a single repository for the continent will avoid unnecessary duplicattion and provide wider standardization. This is a fine example of international goodwill and cooperation.

There's a big junior dance this Friday. The "Hag's Drag". It sounds like it's going to be a lot of fun, so let's have a full turn out from the juniors.

Grad pictures have been taken in caps and gowns, and the order is in for the rest of them. School pictures are also in.

The senior boys' soccor team will soon be playing Oliver for the soccer championship.

Easter exams are being written by the seniors this week. Good luck to everybody!

Arrangements for the Grad Tea which will be taking place May 19 are being made.

Well, in spite of the absence of news for the past month, that seems to be all the high school activities for this week.

I'll tell you about trip to Victoria next time.

BROWNIE CHATTER

Hello Brownies! Calling Elves, Fairies, Pixies and Sprites of the 2nd Summerland Pack — Aren't we having lovely sunshiny days? I'm sure you are bouncing with joy and so happy to be outdoors al the time.

Did you tell your mother how much fun we had last week making our Fairy Ring outdoors? And how we learned to build and light a fire? 'And of course, little people must always have a grown up with them if they want to light a fire. This Friday we hope to have our meeting outdoors again. Constable Ernie Proke said he will teach you how to care for your bicycle and all about trafficerules when you are riding your bikes Then Corporal Piers will visit our Pack on another day testing any Brownie who would like to earn the Cyclist Proficiency Badge - for this a Brownie must own a bicycle of her very own.

And now to bring the mothers up to date on the Brownies' good turn. The girls of the 2nd Pack have been busy doing all kinds of jobs to earn money so that they can help a little baby. And so from these jobs such as delivering papers, washing dishes. gunning errands, dusting, lawn raking, etc., they have gathered $4.77. Together the 1st and 2nd ,Packs bought two dozen disners. one knitted jacket and three viyella flannel jackets and as Mrs. Blagborne said last week this will make a very nice parcel and so to all the Brownies and to all those kind folks who provided the jobs for the girls, we say thank you. The next project coming up in our Brownie life will be Cookie ,Week — but more about this at our meeting next week. Happy appropriate thought - very or- for a two story west wing to iginal, too! — for Jubilee year, match the central two story and it certainly applies to Summerland's schools.

You don't need to go back 50 years, either. Only 15 years ago we had eight classrooms in the elementary school, with special rooms and special teachers for music and manual, and no thought of overcrowding. The high school comprised just three classrooms, plus home ec room, as cosy as a fat family in a Volkswagon.

After the war the buildings began to bulge a bit, but when we enlarged the elementary school to 12 rooms in 1948, and built our present nine classrooms plus three special rooms, junior senior high school in 1949-50, most people thought that our school pupils would have ample room, maybe too much, for decades.

Now just look at us. The elementary school, even with grades seven and eight lopped off it, has overflowed those 12 classrooms into two additional basement rooms and many of its classes are so crowded that teachers cannot give pupils the amount of individual attention they would like. Except for a couple of small basement playrooms, there are no spare rooms for art, music, or any of the special subjects, and no special teachers for them. The library is housed in the rooms and in the hallway, the pupils eat i. the classrooms or trek over to the high school cafeteria. Over 500 pupils where in 1942 there used to be 205 in the same six grades.

The high school started off with around 300 pupils in 1949; now is has 416, and may have 500 in a few years. Each grade is split into two, sometimes three, divisions. The classrooms are full, the library has to be used as a classroom, which largely detracts from the purpose for which it is designed, and there is often an overflow into the auditorium.

The Home Economics and I dustrial Arts rooms which seemed so spacious, so magnificently equipped when they were builtremember? - cannot cope with the crowds of pupils, and several classes have to do without the instruction in these subjects to which they are entitled.

It worries the teachers to see the pupils cut off from the opportunities they should have. It worries the school board. Hence the school building program which was announced in last week's Review, and in a circular lette from the school board to all p

The plan is to build a small elementary school in Trout Creek, and an addition to the present high school in West Summerland.

The former will save many pupils the long bus trip twice a day and because classes will be smaller, each pupil will get more of and Mrs. C. F. M. Guernsey. the teacher's time for his special problems. The department of edcentralization and smaller school throughout the province for these very reasons.

How things change. That's an together, last winter, on a plan wing. This would have contained the three classrooms and the addditional Home Ec room which are the crying needs of the present, and three extra classrooms for future expansion. There was talk, too, of a basement for storage, of a special music room for band practices, and even of building an extra Industrial Arts shop. As soon as high school enrolmen. hits 500, the government allows. grant toward one, and that de not appear to be very far away

But the department of education refused to sanction any more than is immediately necessary and they put up most of the cost So unless some local tycoon, with or without beard, is willing to kick in to the tune of five or six figures — don't crowd, boys, jus form a line — we'll be getting one-story, three classroom wing plus a storage room and a ne Home Ec. room. No baseme though that's only a thousand or so extra. It will take care of overcrowding for the time being.

Present population of Mac Donald school does seem to be leveling off, with around 90 beginners each year; but the tida1 wave is still swelling and expanding in the upper grades. Eventually, more rooms in the Trout Creek school, and in the high school will probably have to be

And in the MacDonald Schoo too? That is uncertain; as men tioned, the number of beginners seems to have stopped increasing The question is whether this lev eling-off is permanent or tem porary; and you'll probably have to check the maternity rooms of local hospitals for the answer.

The early fall freeze and subzero temperatures during the latter part of January and mid-February injured fruit trees in all fruit growing areas in Canada. The extent of injury usually de ties may appear to suffer more pends upon the stage of maturity than other. Fortunately the reof trees caught by the fall freeze. Recovery will depend of course, on the amount of damage done, but also to a great extent on the gan- followed. eral condition or vitality of the

A large leaf area in early spring will help many fruit spurs recover quickly which might otherwise have dried out and died if the recovery process from frost dam age had been slow. Therefore light pruning is recommended for winter damaged trees to insure ar ample supply of leaf buds. As young fruit spurs have been injured less than old weak spurit is evident that pruning should be confined mainly to the removal of the weak and older wood.

Ringed, heavily injured trees may be left unpruned until summer when the extent of recovery is evident. Trees that have been "ringed" by frost damage in crown and trunk and show a sparse growth in late spring possibly should be pruned in the summer Such trees should be cut back

In contrast to other fruits, mature and old peach trees should be given a normal pruning, to encourage a reasonably vigorous growth for the next year's crop. Large cuts should be avoided if injury is in the frame and trunk of the tree.

Recovery of frost injured tree requires a relatively large amoun. of nitrogen for building up the new tissues. Injured trees, however, should not be over-fertilized but some nitrogen should be made available in early spring with the beginning of activity in the roots and buds.

Winter damaged trees should receive an adequate supply of waheld on Sunday preceding a regiter particularly during the early part of the growing season. It is A rummage sale has been plan-precommended that irrigation bestarted early and that growers do vened by Mrs. Reg. Kersey. Mrs. not let the soil approach the wilting point within six to nine inches

The fruit grower can assist the from the surface during the summer. Stone fruit trees that have been injured in trunks and limbs should have a continuous flow of water made available as the conducting tissues of the tree may be restricted. A restriction of this naure would cut down the supply of moisture to the foliage and fruit consequently water should be made available at all times. Frost injury may seem serious in certain areas, and some variecovery power of a tree is greater than many fruit growers realize, if good management practices are

READY CASH ADVANCED BY B OF M FOR ESSENTIAL HOME IMPROVEMENTS

"A stitch in times saves nine" holds particularly true about improvements and repairs to your home. It is false economy to postpone them even if you are short of ready cash. A low-cost Bank of Montreal loan, made now, may well save you the extra costs which often come from long-neglected repairs.

Whether you need money to paint your home, plaster the ceilings, or replace the furnace, it will pay you to chat with Ivor Solly, manager of the West Summerland B. of M.

Home Improvement Loans at the B of M cost only 514 per cent a year and are regayable in easy instalments. And you pay inderest only on the amount still owing. Thus, if you borrow $100 and repay mentily ever a year, the cost is less than 25 cents a month. You can borrow mere or less for shorter or longer periods, at proaccidenately the same cost.

If yu need money for home improvements, don't hesitate to cell on Mr. Solly, "Lending money is my business," he says, "When for a B of M loan, you do not ask a favor."

Clever Cooking

Canadian have borrowed a lot of traditions from the Dutch. The custom of planting tulips in the garden and "showering" a bride with gifts both originated in Holland many centuries ago.

The Dutch have some food customs too which Canadians should consider borrowing. The conventional method of baking a cake in Holland consists of spreading the dough in the pan and then topping this first with fruit and then with boiling water or a combination of boiling water and fruit juice. The dough rises to the top to form the cake while underneath there's a ready made fruit sauce when the finished product comes from the oven. This pudding can be made with whatever fruit you have on hand cooked dried apricots, raisins, cherries, canned pineapple, fresh or canned peaches, apricots, or whatever combination of fruit delights your family and stays on good terms with your budget. You can heap ready-prepared fruit pie fillings on the batter to add flavor and interest if you like. Once you have tried it you're sure to agree it's an old world delicacy that's out of this world to

First Steps in Civil Defence

The foundations of civil defence can be said to have been War 1. Although no organization existed at that time, in any way United Kingdom before, and during the second war, events amply demonstrated that such a body was needed. At that period there was the occasional Zeppelin and naval raid which resulted in quite a number of casualties amongst the civilian population.

The first real indication, however, of the urgency and the vital importance that such an organization might have to play in the future, was evident to all those who had eyes to see, in the years 1936, 37, 38. The invasions of Austria, Albania, Abyssinia and the like, all these were pointed and indeed full dress rehearsals for events yet to follow.

Looking back over these eventfhl years and with the knowledge acquired later, it is apparent to atudents of history, that many of the world's leaders at the time fully realized the danger in spite of much misrepresentation.

For instance the Munich Agree ment which was thought, and in fact was described by many, as laid in the early days of World a policy of appeasement was in fact, a bid to buy precious time in which to build up the defence: emparable to that set up in the of the democratic nations. Aithough inadequate, a valuable 12 months were gained and used to the utmost advantage.

> In the United Kingdom before the declaration of war, there was of course a fairly strong civil defence organization comprising trained wardens, special constables, auxiliary firemen, ambulance brigades, the women's volunteer services and other allied services.

A nationwide appeal was launched by the government, by press, radio, posters and by varjous other approaches. Each house. holder received a booklet mailed to him or her, personally. Within of services urgently needing volunteers.

week month in and month out. Schools were utilized for training and courses, warden's posts prepared and organizations tested and overhauled. Thus it was that when hostilities eventually broke out the nation had at least formulated some system of passive defence to minimize the anticipated attack.

Actually a day or so before the war, when it was obvious that in espite of last minute efforts, the storm was about to break, the mass evacuation of children from the industrial areas thought at that time to be vulnerable, com-

By and large, however, many, in fact the majority of the girls and boys adopted themselves quite quickly to the changed conditions and were well and happy, as has been proved by the lasting friendships that were made and have since been maintained over the years.

In the recapitulation of events that is now almost ancient history and enlarging on other matters appertaining to civil defence in fluture notes; it is not the purpose of the writer to dwell on the past, only in so far as to focus attention on the lessons that can be learned from the civil defence service in the United Kingdom during the war years.

sure of it.

Mr. Walden had been in apparent good health and in excellent spirits and was about to drive Mrs. Walden down town. Waiting by the house, Mrs. Walden heard the motor of the car racing in the garage and when she investigated, she found her husband slumped over the wheel with his foot pressing down on the accelerator.

Over the week-end Mr. Walden had been working in his garden and the night before took part in ceremonies at the IOOF Lodge of which he was a member for 35 years and was past noble grand and district deputy.

Mr. Walden was 76 years of age and came to Summerland in-1920 and entered business here with E. R. Butler when they bought out the Summerland Supply Co. and operated under the name of Butler & Walden. The partnership lasted to become the oldest established retail har ware store in the Okanagan when they sold out last fall.

Mr. Walden always played a very active part in community activities and last year was awarded a life membership in the Summerland Board of Trade as public recognition of his services.

Although crippled for many years by rheumatism, even his three children, Mrs. Dave Nesbitt closest friends were unable to recall of him complaining and his consistently happy disposition was always a source of inspiration to the many people with whom he came in dally contact.

Mir. Walden was born just out. side London, Ontario, and was married in London in 1902. Two years later he moved to Yorkton, Saskatchewan and it was there in 1908, after moving away and returning, that he first entered the retail business. Mr. Walden was a cousin to the wife of his former partner and it was through family correspondence that he learned of the business opportunity here and the family moved to Summerland.

Mr. Walden's eversatile interests led him into a variety of community activities, St. Andrew's Church being among the chief. He Summerland Rink Association at the annual meeting Friday night revealed a profit of $3,537.34 for the season just ended. Bulk of the profit, however, did not come from the few weeks of operation with artificial ice. Of the total profit, $2,734.93 the association made by actinglas conractors in doing much of the work in connection with the artificial ice installation.

New president of the association is J. P. Sheeley who takes over the office from C. H. Elsey who was not present Friday because of illness. Regret was expressed at Mr. Elsey's inability to continue in office and tribute was paid to him for his work in helping negotiate for the installation of the artificial ice plant. The meeting passed a vote of thanks to Mr. Elsey and coupled with it best wishes for continued recovery from his illness.

The substantial profit showed by the association on the contract work was made possible by the considerable amount of volunteer labor available to the committee while the work was in progress.

Mr. Sheeley, who last year was yice president, reported to the meeting on the year's activities which saw ownership of the arena pass from the association to the municipality and the installation of artificial ice making equipment. Because work on this installation was in progress most of the season, there was only about two months of skating at the end of the season.

Rink manager George Stoll spoke of the work still ahead and reminded members there will be need for a lot more volunteer effort before the rink work is completed. Project in the immediate future, he said, is laving of the concrete floor over the pipes and it is intended this work will be completed so the arena will be available during Jubilee week. Project to follow that will be the construction of seating accommodation at the east side of the rink extending over the curling rink.

Mr. Wilson told of plans being made by the association to join with local service clubs in sponsorship of giant bingo. Arrangements for this, he said, are well in hand and they expect to be able to go ahead with it soon after the floor is laid.

H. J. Wells, who has been employed by the municipality as inspector during the installation of equipment at the rink, spoke briefly and made recommendations to the association regarding a safeguard against the engine room being flooded.

Sunday morning there will be a certain number of people who arrive at church just in time to join in the closing hymn - that is if a certain number of people hold true to form.

Saturday night at midnight is the time when everybody is supposed to advance timepieces one hour for daylight saving time.

The ones who forget will probably at least get a chance to join in on the closing hymn.

Vancouver Rolls Out Red Carpet To Welcome School Band Members

Saturday Business Nets $180 For Band

There were few dirty cars in the district last week-end after members of the high school bana had processed about 100 at the three wash stands set up in the West Summerland district and while the boys were busy cleaning up on cars, the female members of the band were vending home cooking at three stands and realized a profit of $80.

The two ventures swelled the band funds by about $180. Business in the car washing business was brisk all day with ears waiting at the high school stand when the boys arrived at 8:30 am, They were also operating at Granville Motors and during the afternoon at Smith & Henry.

Some extra business developed because of road construction. A car with Alberta license tags turned up at the school early Saturday morning. The driver said when he discovered he could not proceed until 11:30 a.m., he returned to Summerland to get a car wash while waiting. This gave the boys an idea for business so they asked the road signalman to advise motorists stopped at the road blook where they could get a wash job while waiting for the road to open. Having advertised free oar wash to bearded lady drivers, the hoys were approhensive that they might have some trouble with false beards or female impersonators but there were no claimants for free wash jobs during the day.

The girls were almost out of the home cooking husiness by noon hour after a husy morning manulon. Their operations were carried on at Roy's Men's Wear, Super Valu and Groceteria.

To commemorate this jubilee year, Summerland's poet lau-

Parliament Hill

By O. L. JONES

A speech made by retiring US Ambassador, R. Douglas Stuart, in Vancouver, roused the ire of Conservative and CCF members of parliament. Mr. Steuart was merely justifying the large US investments in Canada and justifying the American domination of Cansources. He criticized Conservative leader George Drew. He also expressed surprise that Canadians should be concerned over realization that nearly 50 per cent of our manufacturing industry is controlled by US interest; 50 per cent of the mining industry is under the same control, but 70 per cent of the Canadian petroletrol of US capital.

Mr. Fulton speaking on this matter said it would indeed be extraordinary if Canadians were not concerned over this situation. Mr. Fulton said that much of the present trouble arises from the subconscious conviction of Americans that the North American continent belongs to them. He charged the government with using the Ambassador as a tool to advance its own political interest claiming that the remarks were inspired from Ottawa.

He compared the situation of Canada to that of Mexico some years ago, when American capital also controlled the resources of that country, particularly the oil He did not wish to see the drastic and violent action which government to change its fimorous policy and encourage Canadians to own and develop their own resources.

Taxmanship, therfeore, holds great promise for Canadians who wish to demonstrate to them. selves and to the federal government their resourcefulness and ingenuity. The remark of former U.S. Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews that the personal income tax is "the greatest potential that anyone has ever thought of for making us a nation of liars and cheats" may be as true in Canada as in the United States.

Parliament, when debating the budget, might note this fact and give heed to the consequences of high taxation for Canadian morality.

This work of a genius is a guide and handbook for the present generation of the Soviet Union that is building the Communist society for which Stalin labored all his life. It analyses the today and the tomorrow of the peoples living in socialist society and charts the sure road to communism. This is the guide too for Canadians and all peoples still living under the yoke of capitalism"

It is reasonable to suppose that Mr. Buck and the LPP will find it possible to adjust themselves to the Kremlin's "new look" at Stalin, but at the moment there must be a good deal of embarrassment.

By Lowis Milligan STALIN THE TERRIBLE

The visit of Soviet ex-Fremier Malenkov to Britain appears to have been a happy one for himself and some of the people. He was all smiles and kisses - something which he never bestowed upon his own/people when in power. No doubt it was a great relief for him to get away from a country where his every movement was under the eyes of ubiquitous police. As successor to Stalin he was confined to the Kremlin, and his affability was that of a prisoner who had escaped into freedom.

Malenkov is fat, and there is an old saying that "Everybody loves a fat man." Stalin probably picked him as his lackey for that reason. He may have remembered those words of Julius Caesar: "Lot me have men about me that are fat; - youd Cassius has a lean and hungry look; he thinks too much: such men are dangerous." Stalin himself was lean for a Russian. He had the sinister look of one who was preoccupied with left hand thinking and scheming when he was shaking hands with the right at Yalta.

It is all very well for Khrushchev and his fellow collective dictators to denounce Stalin personally, but what about his double dealings with Churchill and Roosevelt at the close of the war? If the new rulers of Soviet Russia are sincere in their hatred of Stalin and all his works, let them show it by withdrawing from the occupied countries in Europe as was mutually agreed upon. Let them renounce the Stalin policy of spreading propaganda of hatred and stirring up strife in the Far and Middle East against the Western World. The evil that Stalin has done is living after him, and while his successors are perpetuating it their smiles are false and treacherous.

Stalin was not the first, man to wield despotic power over the Russian people. There have been many revolutions in Russia and history has repeated itself in that of Communism. Russia was overrun by the Tartars under Genghis Khan and the people lived for centuries in a state of serfdom. The revolution under Ivan the Terrible in the 16th century was very similar to that under Lonin and Stalin. Ivan was the first Tsar and he took over the government himself. With systematic terrorism and "levelling" he killed off 5,000 boyars (nobles) and did much to improve the lot of the common people. It was he who instituted the idea of a Messianic Holy Russia which was to rule the world. That idea has been revived in Soviet Ruswith the objective of communist world revolution under the control of Moscow.

Viewed against that historic background, wo san well understand the rise of Stalin to absolute personal power and the serf like submission of the Russian people. They have for so long lived under depotism that they do not know what freedom means; it is an uttorly foreign idea to them and communism is just another form of the tyranny they have been used to, only more plausible and promising.

Socialism is a very plausible economic system because it promises the people security. But, as Sir David Kelly, the British diplomat who served in Soviet Russia put it: "There seems to be an eternal tendency to lapse into servitude in return for security A strong case can be made out for State Socialism, or for personal dictatorship but not for the belief that either of them can be reconciled with personal freedom and the rule of common law for everyone," Socialism, in order to be workable, must continually expand its regulations and controls of the lives and even the thinking of ordinary citizens. That explains the need for dictatorship and the rise of Stalin to absolute personal nower.

OUR POLICY...

Most people receive their introduction to business methods of a funeral profession at a time when they are too absorbed in grief to be able to thoroughly understand what services are provided by the funeral home they have chosen. We wish therefore to acquaint the public with some of the details of the profession as it is practiced by us.

To ensure our clients are not confused by having separate fees for various services, our full fee is included in the price quoted for the casket. This includes all our services. The cemetery fees, of course are extra. Our schedule of rates starts at one hundred dollars and we are pleased to state the fees of this establishment are as reasonable as any in this province.

When we refer to our services, we include fully-trained personnel, finest quality merchandise, and excellent equipment. Use of limousines and hearse is also included.

We are specialists in our profession and devote our attention solely to funeral direction.

So the clubs actually are service clubs, rendering service to the public and the government alike. Youth is served, and so is age, because every once in a while a club activity will call for an entry fee, and up will be the sign "pensioners free."

The members are all pretty good fellows, and you'd be surprised at the number of ladies present! It's easy to join, the rates are ridiculously low in all clubs, and usually include a personal liability insurance which covers the sportsman while afield. Most clubs meet once a month, and visitors are not only welcomed, they are considered honored guests, with the privilege of getting into any discussion.

BETTER SOIL AIDS SEEDS

Soil under old stands of timber tends to become poor through the accumulation of a deep layer of undecomposed organic material on the surface. This undecomposed material is known as "raw humus" and is gradually built up by the slow accumulation of leaves and twigs. When the timber has been cut the ground is exposed in your local fish and game club to the action of rain and sunlight and the raw humus soon decomposes, restoring the soil to its original state of fertility and providing a good merium for seed germination.

Former Resident Weds at Coast

A wedding of interest to many Summerland friends was solemnized at St. Michael's Anglican Church in Prince George on April 14, when former resident Gerald Adams took as his bride, Deirdre Warburton of Prince

The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Adams of Summerjand while the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Warburton of Prince George.

Rev. Thomas Allan officiated at the evening rites.

The church was decorated with spring flowers for the occasion and attendants to the bride were Miss Phyllis Adams of Quesnel as bridesmaid and Misses Paula and Barbara Warburton of Prince George as junior bridesmaids.

Groomsman was Donald Adams and ushers wer_e Ralph Gardiner and Alf Keibel.

The bride was becoming in an ivory floor length gown of embossed taffeta, topped by a bolero jacket. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a nylon headpiece. She carried a prayer book with dark red roses fastened to it with long streamers.

About 50 guests were present at the reception which followed at the Civic Centre.

The newlyweds will make their home in Prince George.

Parents of the groom were among the out of town guests attending the ceremony.

United Church WA Hears of Conference

At the regular meeting of the United Church W.A. held Monday, April 16 reports on the B.C. conference were given by delegates Mrs. J. C. Wilcox and Mrs. A. J. McKenzie.

Conducted visits were made to supply depots, relief centres and stores-terminus for area west of Winnipeg. Various speakers dealt with this United Church relief work, indicating its organizational and financial success as well as providing jobs for otherwise "unemployable" folk. Delegates heard luncheon speakers talk on such topics as Naramata, Fairhaven, Burnaby Girls" Home, and the Deasoness' Home.

Mrs. G. A. Laidlaw and Mrs. Alex Klasoff were on the recep tion committee.

The devotional period was led by Mrs. L. Wright. For her theme she used Easter Gladness and Victory over Death: Psalm 16 contains the keynote, "In Thy presence is fulness of joy." Mrs. J. Mayne read the poem "Dogvood," which was relative to th theme of the devotional.

The successes of the AOTS and "Internation" Suppers were report ed by Mrs. Chalmers and Mrs. E. E. Bates.

Fall bazaar committees reported on progress thus far and indicated success and busy times ahead. , A "Shower Tea" will be held on April 28. Potentially useful bazzar items will be accepted.

After the Mizpah Benediction a social period followed and refreshments were served under convenerahip of Miss Louise Atkinson.

Outstanding Woman Violinist Heard In Community Concert Series Monday

Camilla Wicks, who appeared in the Community Concert Series on April 23 at Penticton High School Auditorium is already regarded by many discerning audiences in the concert halls of the Auditorium world as the "greatest woman violinist of today".

Although American born and trained, Miss Wicks began her ex tensive concertizing in Europe, choosing to test her ability to interpret the European "Masters" compositions before their own audiences. This was a noble experiment: she left the United States that first time with only one assured booking, in Oslo, Norway. It was also a successful experiment: she played a total of 87 additional concerts before the conclusion of that tour! When she was in Finland, Jan Sibelius heard her performance of his vi-'olin concerto, and immediately extended an invitation oto visit him at his home — a rare privilege. Since then she has recorded this concerto with the Stockholm Radio Orchestra in Sweden, which has been released internationally -by Capital Records in America.

Following this initial Europear tour, Camilla Wicks has returned four times to repeat its triumph playing a total of almost 300 ad ditional concerts. She went most recently in 1955. She has record ed more than 20 compositions, on the labes of HMV (Victor), Cupo' Mercury and Capital records. She has been soloist with the London Symphony Orchestra in Royal Albert Hall, with the Concerts Colonne Orchestra in Paris and with the leading orchestras of the other major European countries.

In April of 1953 the young violinis, completed her first coast to coast' American tour, which included a Carnegie Hall appearance under Dr. Bruno Walter with the New York Philharmonic Symphony, playing the Beethovan Vioin Concerto, and numerous recitals and solo appearances with others of this country's leading orchestras.

A native Californian, Camilla Wicks began her musical, studies with her violinist father and her planist mother when she was only three and a half years old, and made her first appearance with orchestra at the age of eight, in Los Angeles. At 10, she moved to New York to continue her training with Louis Persinger and to study as a fellowship student at the Juilliard School of Music. At 13: she made a successful recital debut in New York's Town Hell, and at 7 made her New York debut with Orchestra at Carnegie Hall, playing with the New York. Philharmonic Symphony under Artur Rodzinski: During these years she also played numerous recitals and appeared with such orchestras as those of the Hollywood Bowl, Chicago, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

Miss Wicks plays the famous "Duke of Cambridge" Stradivarius dated 1752.

civil defence notebook

By I. E. PHILLIPS Civil Defence Officer

The Time of Test

In last week's notebook the early steps and growth of civil defence in the United Kingdom was reviewed. The point was then made, that due to various factors a valuable respite was granted to the government and the people, to build up its defences in the face of the gathering storm.

It is of interest to note, that alhough civil defence existed prior to 1939, it was only when the war was actually imminent that awoke to the peril.

the easy going British public It is strange, or is it, that many of these world shaking events during the years 1937, 38, 39 took place at week-ends and at holiday times.

It will be recalled, that in these early days chemical warfare was considered to be almost a certainty. With the issue of masks, the public became very gas conscious and the warden service was at that time fully extended. | ment in the press the following Fortunately this threat never | day - On June . . . tain, when the few hurtled from the skies the many, and the scores at the end of each day read much like the close of play in an all important test match.

At this time, civil defence really came into its own. The training teams of firefighters went on all the day and far into the night.

Few indeed, were the men and women who had failed to take this important part of training.

Events proved how wise was anticipation, when the baskets of incendiaries descended from the skies. As they fell they were dealt with by the fire watchers, many being quickly cleared from the roofs of buildings and houses.

In this connection women played a prominent part in the controlling of fires kindled by the incendiary bomb. The writer has sad cause to remember this type his sister and nephew being last seen extinguishing such bombs in treating to the house when high their garden, and afterwards reexplosive bombs began to fall. Cotton, in shirt with crisp bow neck and broken gray stripes on white makes up into a dashing little push-up sleeves. With it, a skirt of gray flannel with unpressed pleats and flapped pockets. Half lined, the skirt has lines that keer nicely even if the wearer is seated during much of the day.

Kingdom at that time were much the same as those approved and adopted here in Canada. In addition, there was the Cuckoo signal which was often used denoting enemy aircraft directly over head: Many times, this, signa not it proved that muddy or dusty would be given without any previous alert and more often than clothing was the lesser of two

It would be idle to deny that as the time passed, the shortage of a varied diet, the stress and the strain and the lack of rest began to tell. However, the will to win through remained as steadfast as ever. It was plain that at this stage of the war, the enemy was going all ou to break the moralc of the civilian population, in addition to his main effort to disorganize industry.

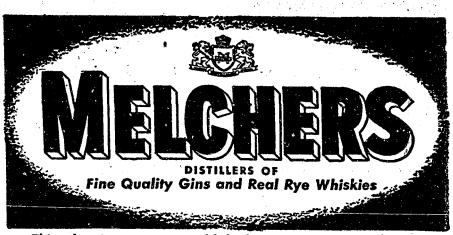

With direct aid from civil defence personnel, almost every street was organized on a good neighbor basis. First aid treatment, the provision of clothing, shelter for the bombed out victims and rest and food. All these wer, freely pledged and given.

Here was a demonstration that civil defence was no closed shop, the concern of few, but the business of every member of the community who hoped to survive. Lastly the Buzz Bomb or the Doodle Bug as it came to be known and the Rocket, both of these being used in a final effort to destroy morale, always recognized as one of the most important factors in any emergency.

WEASEL NOT SO BAD

Weasels have few enemies be cause of their alertness and swift movements. They are preyed upon perhaps only by hunger driven carnivores.

Some weasels are taken by trappers each year while trapping for mink and muskrat, and their small pelts bring higher prices than those of the raccoon, opossum, skunk or fox. While it is bad for weasels to take domestic fowl and birds, and other/valuable creatures, it must be remembered that they also take unlimited numbers of harmful destructive rats and mice.

Many farmers who own land in such booming areas as Toronto and Hamilton are cashing in on their properties now at prices that seemed fantastic a few years ago. Gus Plitz, shown with sons Gus and Edward, sold a plot of land bought for a few thousand dollars during the depression, for $120,000, and neighbors are being offered equally high prices. Summerland Loses League Opener 9-5 to Princeton Here Sunday

Curtain-raiser on the OMBL at Living Memorial Park on Sunday saw the Macs open up with fine form and hold the lead right up to the eighth innings but then come apart at the seams long enough for Princeton to bring four runs across the plate and go on to finish up on top of a 9-5 score. Billy Eyre was on the mound for the disasterous eighth inning, which opened with the locals leading 5-4, and the visitors picked up four singles, a sacrifice and a base on balls to push into a three-run lead.

Lefty Gould led off for the Macs and held Princeton to five hits in the same number of innings. In the ninth, Eyre, with only one out and a single and a double against him, and one run over the plate, turned over the chucking duties to Cristante who retired the next two baters.

Clifon went the whole way for Princeton and was touched for eight hits by the locals.

Brightest star in the Summerland constellation was Bobby Parker, up from the juniors for his first game, who belted out two triples and accounted for two of the runs. Geordie Taylor was also good for a three-base

The Macs started off with a Richardson rf good showing for their first appearance on the diamond this year and held the Princeton nine scoreless for four innings. Meanwhile they had drawn first blood in the opening inning when Daryl Weitzel made his way around the circuit after taking a base on balls, and Parker had accounted for a second run in the third with his first three-bagger.

Princeton tied it up in the third when Clifton and Sidoni both scored but Macs were ahead again in the bottom half of that Meeting Tuesday inning with a run by Hooker.

Sixth inning saw the visitors ahead only briefly with runs by Ceccon and Ralph Anderson but Macs quickly recovered the single run margin in the same frame, Weitzel and Parker both scoring.

Eighth saw Princeton runs brought in by Olson, Ceccon, Clifton and G. Anderson while Olson added the final one in the ninth.

The Summerland Review Completes Thesis For Doctorate

On April 21, J. L. Mason, soils and plant nutrition expert at the experimental farm, Summerland. completed all his requiremens for degree of doctor of philosophy at Oregon State College, Corvallis, Oregon. At that time he presented his thesis at an oral examination at the college. This was favorably received and Mr. Mason will receive his degree at the spring convocation.

Mr. Mason was born at Birkenhead, England, coming to Canada in 1930 where he was farming from that time until 1941 at Kitscoty, Alberta. He served with the RCAF from 1941 to 1945 as pilot in England, the Middle East and India, flying over Burma for 12 months.
