

Accuracy To The Mood

By Sid Godber

Chin-wagging the other day and launched off into one of my experiences to illustrate where my point of view came from. One of the group, perhaps bored, asked: "Is there anything you haven't done Sid?"

The answer to that question is, of course, plenty. I haven't, for example, tried to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel, nor have I made a parachute jump and I have no hankering to do either.

I have packed a lot of memories away. I came to Canada to get first hand knowledge of the conditions faced by British immigrants and to write about those conditions and so I went through the mill; I worked on a prairie farm, built roads across prairie sloughs, homesteaded, worked on the CPR bridge across the Saskatchewan River at Nipawin, Sask., worked in logging camps and was on a river drive.

MIRROR REFLECTS BANDITRY

Some of those diversified occupations were sought for, others were thrust upon me. Like the time I got on the river drive. I came out from the homestead country almost broke and was sitting in a Chinese operated cafe in Nipawin, wondering where the next dollar was coming from and if I was going to crawfish and cable the paper back home for money.

I was at the counter and the mirror at the back reflected two men sitting opposite each other in a booth. One was a weasly-eyed little man; the other a giant, very obviously a logger and very obviously drunk, very, very drunk.

The story was plain to read, the big logger was down from the winter camp with his stake. He had greenbacks stuck in his hat band and a wad of notes bulging out from the breast pocket of his check shirt. He was laying down the law to the little man and he leaned his massive bulk across the table to emphasize his argument.

Concentrating on my own somewhat gloomy thoughts, I didn't grasp for some time what I was seeing reflected in the mirror. Suddenly it registered. Every time the big logger leaned over the table the little man deftly extracted, one or more bills from the drunken one's pockets.

I watched it happen twice more and also noted more things about the logger, one was a huge scar, unmistakably a shrapnel scar, down his cheek.

Then I slewed round on my stool, waited for the moment, jumped across and nailed the little man's wrist, just as he had extracted another bill.

A GREAT SHATTERING OF GLASS

The logger, drunk as he was, got the idea right away. He let out a roar that shook the cafe. His gargantuan hand reached out. He plucked the little man up by his shirt front. Swung him upside down and shook him vigorously and bills of all denominations up to ten, snowflaked onto the table. Then, with one mighty heave the giant logger hurled the squealing wretch through the cafe door. There was a great shattering of glass, and much bewailing from the Chinamen who came running in surprisingly large numbers at the sound of the disturbance.

The big logger silenced the Chinamen with a handful of money to pay for the damage and then he slapped me down in the booth. I was his pal, his buddy, never would we part.

I learned his name, at least the only name I ever knew him by, "Scarface Slim". The shrapnel scar was a memento of Vimy Ridge.

Over and over again Slim reiterated his pledge of life-long friendship. I gathered that Damon and Pythias would have nothing on us when it came to being buddies.

Interruption came in the form of a square-jawed man, very much a man of the woods. "Looking for you Slim . . . time to hit the pike."

"I'm not going without my buddy," says Slim, indicating me with a big hand.

The square jawed man looked me over. "Ever been in the woods?" he asked.

I shook my head.

"Never worked on the river eh . . . sorry I can't use you. Come on Slim we've got to get moving."

The man I learned later was Mac MacDonald, walking boss for The Pas Lumber Company and river drive boss.

But Slim was stubborn. He wouldn't go without his buddy. But MacDonald wanted Slim, he was one of his best rivermen and so, to get Slim to move, he agreed to take me.

A CANT HOOK AND A RAINY MORN

That was how I found myself at 4:30 a.m. on a rainy morning standing with a cant hook at the front end of a huge pile of winter cut logs that had to be rolled into the Saskatchewan river. On the opposite side was my buddy "Scarface Slim". A whistle blew and Slim twirled his cant hook and a big log rolled, plunged over the bank and dived into the swollen waters of the river.

I've worked hard in my day, but never before, or since, have I worked as hard as I did on rolling the logs. We ate six times a day, meat, potatoes, vegetables, pie, cake, washed down with huge gulps of coffee. Except for the evening and noon meal we ate on the fly, during ten minute breaks.

Logs rolled, came the rearing. That was salvaging logs stranded by the fast dropping river. This entailed tramping out far into the river, the two cant hook men at the front of the log having to go waist deep in water and mud before the log could be floated off.

Slim, who kept his cigarette makings in his hat band, always waded out up to his neck, first thing in the morning arguing that if a man gets good and wet to start the day off with he wouldn't be bothered with trying to keep dry.

Slim had a lot of other ideas. He believed in giving a fair day's work for a fair day's pay. I learned this when the drive boss sent Slim back up river for mavericks. Slim of course wouldn't go without his buddy, so MacDonald paired me off with Slim. It was a bleak day and tired and wet I suggested to Slim that we build a fire and take it easy for a couple of hours. "No one would ever know," I said.

Slim looked down at me as if I was something that crawled. "Listen mister," he growled, "you're my buddy, but don't go bringing them Limey ideas to Canada. Here, mister, we work honest. If you want to do any camping on this job do it where the boss can see you, but when you're out of sight you do what you've got to do, now come on."

They don't come any finer than Slim. He was his own worst enemy. His life a round of hard work interspersed with three or four binges a year, but it was he and his kind who wrote the imperishable story of Canadian arms in the first world war. It was he and his kind who tamed this great country of ours. I was proud to be buddy of "Scarface Slim".

Orchard Labor Situation Here Matter For Concern

The local labor situation as far as pickers go is a pretty difficult one, according to W. J. Beattie of the Summerland Farm Labor Office.

There are no transients and the type of labor obtainable often leaves much to be desired, Mr. Beattie reports.

Some high school boys are doing well, but the labor officer expects a big rush during the Mac period. One grower alone has asked for 35 people to help harvest his Mac crop so more difficulties are expected when the Macs start rolling.

Executive of the Summerland Board of Trade met on Monday night and considered a letter from the B.C. Department of Agriculture which pointed out the possibility of a shortage of pickers in view of the plenty of employment in other fields. The department asked the co-operation of the board in meeting the situation.

The executive decided to seek information from the local BCFGA and other related authorities in learning the seriousness of the situation and, if the situation warrants action locally, the board will co-operate in every way possible in conjunction with the farm labor office, in seeking to provide an adequate supply of orchard labor.

At a recent meeting in Kelowna which the Summerland labor office head attended, Ben White of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, Vancouver, said he didn't know where help for fruit farmers would be obtained with construction so active and high wages paid for industrial jobs. Mr. Beattie says that once the Macs are in boxes, local labor worries will be more or less over.

ACRES OF PIPE are stacked along the shores of Kamloops Lake ready for British Columbia's natural gas pipeline to the coast. From this point, Inland Natural Gas Co. Ltd. will take gas into its line which will service the Okanagan and Kootenays. Inland's plan includes spur lines in the Cariboo and distribution systems in communities along the route of the line from Savona to Nelson. All will be completed in 1957.

Proposed Postal Change Would Benefit Majority

Long time efforts of the Summerland Board of Trade to secure a drop letter rate for the entire area by amalgamation of the two postal areas of Summerland and West Summerland have failed.

The Board of Trade has been notified by O. L. Jones, M.P. for Okanagan Boundary, that, "Summerland and West Summerland must be considered as two separate postal areas and, therefore, the drop letter rate cannot be extended."

In view of the foregoing, the Board of Trade executive, meeting Monday, gave consideration to other means of alleviating a situation it considers works a hardship on the majority of business houses in the area and decided to support a plan which would entail changing the starting point of the rural route from Summerland to West Summerland. This would extend the benefit of the four cent rate to the majority of residents in the municipality, although it would mean that those using the Summerland post office would be deprived of the benefit of the lower rate of postage on mail addressed to patrons on the rural route.

W. J. Turnbull, Deputy Postmaster General, in a letter sent to Mr. Jones, M.P., indicated that the department is prepared to make the change in the starting point of the rural route, provided "there is not too strong objection."

Majority opinion of the Board of Trade executive, although not unanimous, lower town members opposing the proposed change, feel that as the suggested changeover is in the interests of the majority, it should be implemented.

F. E. Atkinson, officer-in-charge of the Lab, who has been associated with Dr. Strachan since 1920 when he worked in the Farm orchards, as a student, and through the years since, spoke of their work together in developing outlets for surplus fruit, and reminiscence with amusing stories.

L. J. Kelly of Kelowna, president of the B.C. Canned Foods Association, told of Dr. Strachan's contribution to the entire canned fruit and vegetable industry in B.C. in which he has done not only research work but has held evening schools, checked quality of canned goods, and many other contingent things. On behalf of canners of British Columbia he presented the scientist with a large engraved silver tray and an engraved silver serving dish.

Dr. T. H. Anstey, superintendent of the Experimental Farm, spoke for the combined services at the Summerland Research Centre, voicing his pride that a member of the Summerland staff had been chosen for the Morden post.

Dr. Anstey presented an original oil painting by Vaughan Grayson, Mrs. A. J. Mann, a lovely . . .

Final Farewells Said To Dr. C. C. Strachan

After 25 years as a member of the staff of the Fruit and Vegetable Processing Laboratory, Dr. C. C. Strachan has left to go to Morden, Manitoba, where he has been appointed superintendent of the Experimental Farm, which is developing a vegetable processing plant of importance. The Morden Farm along with that at Summerland and at Kentville, Nova Scotia has been known for outstanding work in horticulture.

Powell Beach Party Costs Money

A group of people from Pentiction participated in a noisy party at Powell Beach on the night of July 17.

Some of them appeared in police court in Summerland on Tuesday morning before Magistrate R. Alstead and were fined for consuming liquor in a public place.

Patrick Kearns, Flagman, Killed On Highway 97

A flagman, Patrick Earl Kearns, aged 60, with Dawson and Wade Construction Co., was struck by a Euclid truck on Friday afternoon at 2:55 p.m. and pronounced dead at the scene of the accident. This occurred about 10 miles north of Summerland on Highway 97. The truck was travelling in reverse when the fatality happened.

A postmortem was held that evening in Pentiction Funeral Home. Saturday morning an inquest was held before Coroner, Dr. W. H. White. A verdict in which no guilt was attached to anyone was returned.

The accident victim had lived in Pentiction for several months since starting to work with the Construction Co., on the road.

ONE-LANE TRAFFIC has been re-opened on the cut-off from the Sand Hill to Highway 97.

Stupid!

Seems that someone or other doesn't like flowers. Specifically the flowers at the high school, for Mr. Murphy reports that the other night four plants had just been pulled up and left to die, which seems a sort of stupid act with no reason to it.

Eight Students Clear Exams 7 Have Sups

CCF Picnic Sunday Afternoon

On Sunday afternoon those in the South Okanagan who are interested in the CCF are holding a Basket Picnic at the home of Mrs. Colias at Crescent Beach.

Walter Ratzliff, CCF candidate for the South Okanagan in the next provincial election, a Kelowna school-teacher, will speak during the afternoon.

Summerland Logger Killed

Richard Rudolph Johnson, aged 24, was killed in a logging accident at Bathfield, about 15 miles west of West Summerland, on Tuesday afternoon.

It is thought that a windfall fell on him striking the side of his head. He was dead on arrival at Summerland General Hospital.

Funeral will be held Friday, August 3 at 2 p.m. from Pentiction Funeral Chapel. Rev. E. Rands officiating. Interment, Lakeview Cemetery, Pentiction.

The late Mr. Johnson is survived by his wife and two small sons, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Johnson, and three brothers, Noel, Raymond, and Carl, all of Summerland.

Story Of Our Jubilee To Be Told In Color

Colored films of the Summerland Golden Jubilee celebrations will be shown in the Youth Centre on one or possibly two evenings, during the last week in September.

Decision to hold the showings was made by the Summerland Board of Trade executive at a meeting Monday.

Featuring the show will be films by Blake Milne and George Washington, with shots from many other cameras, including colored stills.

Those in the know say that the film collection being gathered together by the Board of Trade for the big showing gives a complete picture of the Jubilee Celebrations in all their color and glory.

THE PEACH ORCHARD MILL has been marked with 30-mile an hour speed limit signs.

Will Not Send Float To Regatta

Owing to construction work on Highway 97 between Summerland and Kelowna, the executive of the Board of Trade decided, with regret, Monday not to send its Jubilee float to the Kelowna Regatta. The Summerland Queen and her Princesses will, however, attend the Regatta in their official capacity.

The board executive decided to enter the Summerland float in the Pentiction Peach Festival later this month. Summerland's Regatta will also be in attendance.

By O. L. JONES

The Provincial-Federal tax sharing plan was approved in principle in the Commons. The main purpose of this plan is to improve the financial position of the less wealthy provinces and bring their economy as close as possible to that of Ontario and British Columbia. For this purpose they have devised a formula considered to produce the results required. Only by putting the plan into effect could we find out if it will accomplish the financial equalization intended.

Several speakers claim that the 5-year tax plan does not give the provinces enough. Mr. Diefenbaker claimed that the federal government has taken the position of the Federal Lord denying the provinces a chance to negotiate terms. True, the government said that the provinces did not have to accept the federal offer but apparently they have no alternative — as half a loaf is better than none. The take-it or leave-it attitude of the government was severely criticized on the grounds that the federal, provincial and municipal governments should have had a conference to discuss their needs at which conference the federal government should have been willing to discuss revenues on a national basis. When the vote was taken or approved in principle, that is the second reading, by a vote of 128 to 45, the CCF group joined with the Liberals in support and the Social Credit joined with the Conservatives in opposition.

The Small Loans Bill which I discussed in this column some time ago, has recently been before the Banking Committee. The progress of the bill has been very slow and it would appear to some CCF members of the committee that delaying tactics were used in preventing the bill from returning to parliament for final approval.

R. R. Knight of Saskatoon, and Erhart Regier of Burnaby, pressed the chairman of the committee to report the bill back to the commons immediately. This was refused but allowed the complainants to appeal to the Speaker of the House. This being done the Speaker ruled that the committee itself must decide procedure. Mr. Knight insisted that the majority of the committee members present don't want the bill passed this session. This bill would widen the federal control over interest rates on small loans to cover loans up to $1,500 instead of $500 at the present time. It would also fix the sliding scale of flat maximum interest rates that may be charged.

This committee has been getting evidence on the interest rates being charged by small loan companies. One witness, a leading member of one of the businesses, admitted that on occasion interest rates and penalties can reach as high as 85 percent. Naturally, with information of this type before it some members of the committee are anxious to have the bill passed for operation this year. Its fate still hangs in the balance pending on the remaining term of this session.

Mr. Ross Thatcher, a former CCF member who became an independent, sometime ago, has finally joined up with the Liberal party. His actions for the last few years would indicate that he was not in sympathy with the members of the CCF as for instance he strongly opposed giving the Old Age Pension without a means test. He also objected to several other benefits that the taxpayer received in times of stress such as subsidies to the wheat growers, apple growers, maple sugar producers and others. He has also been a severe critic of the party to which he now belongs claiming that they have been extravagant in administration. He will find it rather difficult to adjust himself to a group that he has been denouncing for several years.

Mr. Fulton in a very witty speech needed Mr. Thatcher by reminding him of statements that he had previously made and which were recorded in Hansard regarding the inefficiency of the Liberals in government.

The Department of National Defence had their estimates approved last week but not until Mr. Champney and his staff had been severely criticized by the Opposition. This department at the moment is the one that spends most of the taxpayers money. This year, it was approximately one and three-quarters billion dollars or nearly half the total expenditure.

Shopping at Home . . .

is self-interest

BRITISH Columbia's provincial government is currently spending $100,000 on an advertising campaign aimed at persuading the people of British Columbia to buy British Columbia products and, in particular, British Columbia grown agricultural products.

There has been some criticism of the government's expenditure, mainly on the grounds that some of the products the people are being urged to buy are in short supply and some people are also urging that the money should have been spent in giving direct relief to the farmer.

For our part we can see nothing wrong with the government's campaign, for the complex business of merchandising today is based upon advertising, advertising that creates the demand which enables producers to produce more and better quality goods.

No, we are not critical of the government's advertising campaign to sell B.C. products to the people of B.C., but we can not help but feel some wonderment at the sorry fact that people should require to be exposed to such a campaign which, in effect, is only urging them to do something it is in their best interests to do. It makes sound economic sense to buy at home and for Canadians the term home can be applied, according to degree, to the national home front, the provincial home front and to the community home front.

It would be hardly logical, for example, to urge the people of this, or any other province to buy whenever possible provincially produced products while condoning shopping outside of Canada for goods and produce which we manufacture and produce in other provinces.

The argument also applies at the other end of the scale. It applies to each and every community.

By buying at home we help ourselves, help build our community, our province and our nation.

The government is spending $100,000 on a campaign which unfortunately seems to be needed. We can only hope that the lesson of the campaign will be learned and that people of B.C. will apply it not only in the buying of B.C. products, but in buying whenever possible, first at home within their own communities, then within their own province and beyond that by buying Canadian.

We Want a Diagnosis . . .

AT A TIME of almost unparalleled prosperity in Canada and at a time of unprecedented prosperity in British Columbia we are faced with the anomaly of a fruit industry that is depressed, an industry which is hanging on the ropes, staggered by the one-two-punch thrown from two widely different directions in the form of nature's unkindly handiwork and uneconomic returns to the producer.

It is only natural that in such circumstances fruit growers should be restless, highly critical and that their voices should be raised ever louder in demanding that the government set up a Royal Commission to probe the industry's ills.

Man can do little about the ravages of nature, but fruit growers are certainly justified in wondering why governments should regard floods and similar destructive manifestations of nature as being Acts of God, for which compensation should be paid out of the public purse, while they remain blind and deaf to the plight of growers resulting from unseasonable frosts which, although not so spectacular, are nevertheless as destructive and more lasting in their effects than are floods. It takes a matter of months to rebuild a home and only about a season to restore the flooded land, but it takes near a decade to replace a fruit bearing tree.

The growing demand for long-term, low interest loans for the fruit industry is one that the governments, provincial and federal, should recognize and accede to without undue delay.

But while the fruit industry appears to be the stepchild in the agricultural family, insofar as governments are concerned, the plight of the growers should not be blamed entirely upon the government nor should nature's ravages be unduly blamed.

There is something radically wrong with an industry which returns less to its primary producers than it costs them to produce.

Someone sooner or later must put their finger on what is wrong, otherwise the industry as we know it today will go to the wall. That is why we think all concerned with the well-being of the fruit grower will join with the growers of Penticton and Kaleden in urging Minister of Agriculture K. W. Kiernan to hold his offered inquiry into the Okanagan Valley Fruit Industry.

A doctor ignores the ranting and ravings of a delirious patient and makes his diagnosis before prescribing treatment.

That is what we want, an economist, a commission if you will, but a man or group who will study the industry with an objective and impartial eye, ignoring or sifting wild talk for kernels of fact, so that perhaps he or the commission can tell the industry of its sins of commission and omission and make suggestions as to what can be done about them.

Such an inquiry is long overdue . . . it could be productive of much good. It certainly can do no harm, so The Review which considers its economic well-being as closely related to the fruit industry as is that of the producer, joins in urging a speedy diagnosis of what ails the industry.

The patient is very sick.

Mid-Week Message

Thou God seest me. (Genesis 16:13.) Read Psalm 34:18-19 or Mark 4:35-41.

To me, as a child, God's eye was very real. I had the belief that it was an eye critical of my failures and shortcomings. I thought of it as an eye intently watching to catch me in some evil act. It was, to my thinking, an eye without love, without compassion. It made me feel uneasy and fearful. From it I could not hide.

As an adult, I still feel the eye of God upon me. But He watches in a different way than I believed He did when I was a child. While He does not always look upon me with approval, I know He is kind and understanding. He is still there, but watching always to protect me, to sympathize with my weaknesses; He knows the future. He encourages me by His steadfast watchfulness.

His is the eye of a loving Father. "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him."

PRAYER

Dear Father, we thank Thee for the peace that comes to our hearts when we think of Thee as a loving Father who yearns to help us. May we this day enjoy that blessing. Use us in Thy service, to bless others. In His name, Amen.

Arlene Embree, in Grade 9A when this essay was written, would like to acknowledge that most of the data and accounts of early days in Summerland which she tells about, were obtained through the courtesy of Mr. Granville Morgan, who as a very young man, migrated from London, England, to Summerland in 1893, living at Trout Creek Point, where he still resides.

REMINISCENCES OF SUMMERLAND'S EARLY DAYS

In taking our minds back, even before fifty years ago, we would find Summerland only a tiny settlement with its people pioneering and trying to make a way for future progress.

Summerland, then, consisted of only five families who made their living by cattle raising. They were Barclays, Lloyd Joneses, James Gartrells, the Garnett Brothers and Dunsdons. The cattle were of Rossland, which had a population of five thousand people. Cattle raising continued until John Moore Robinson came to the Okanagan.

LAKE TRANSPORTATION

In April 1886, the vessel, "Mary Victoria Greenhow" was launched, due to the enterprise of two men, Captain T. D. Shorts and Thomas Greenhow. She was built at the head of the Okanagan by Hamil and Pringle of Lansdowne. Previous to this, a row-boat which Captain Shorts ran, was used to ship freight. He said he was so used to the oars, he could row all day without feeling fatigue. Then in June, 1893, the CPR's Okanagan Lake Boat made her maiden trip down the lake. It made a trip from Vernon South every Monday, Wednesday and Friday and went back to Vernon every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The CPR's first boat was not only a means of transportation but also of communication. It carried Trout Creek mail to the wharf at Trout Creek Point, which was called Gartrell Point, while Summerland mail was delivered to a tent where people came to purchase groceries and pick up their mail. This store was run by Tommy Moore. A first Post Office named "Gartrell" was opened in 1910 in Trout Creek with S. F. Sharpe as postmaster. This was another Post Office "Balcom" in the Prairie Valley was closed in 1914 when the rural mail was inaugurated.

HOTEL ACCOMMODATION

In 1902 the Summerland Hotel, which was situated in Lower Summerland, was opened. This was a very up-to-date hotel with all the conveniences. Also, in the same year, the lakeshore road between Lower Summerland and Trout Creek was constructed. Previous to this, people had to go from Lower Summerland, up over Siwash Flat, as West Summerland was called then, and down again to Trout Creek.

THE GARTRELLS ARRIVE

Jim Gartrell, in approximately 1890, was the first to plant fruit trees in Summerland. These he brought from Washington and Ontario. One could almost say that from these experimental efforts, came the main industry of Summerland. After J. M. Robinson had tasted peaches, grown at the Gartrell ranch in Trout Creek, he had an inspiration which changed the occupation of many people. Knowing that the Niagara Peninsula was the only source of such fruit in Canada, Robinson realized how important peaches, as well as other fruit, could be to the Okanagan. It was then that J.M. Robinson bought the Barclay ranch of 4,000 acres. He subdivided this land into five and 10 acre lots and offered them for $100 per acre. Those who bought these lots had to pay $10 to $25 for the irrigation water to supply 10 acres. Even then, the tiny trees had to have water in order to grow and still today irrigation is essential. By 1903 people were busy planting out fruit trees and by 1910 settlers began to harvest small crops off their young orchards. Then in 1912 with the aid of the Kettle Valley railroad coming through the district, Summerland turned into a thriving community.

SUMMERLAND DEVELOPS

The first buildings were in Lower Town and they were, a few stores, a hotel, a Post Office, a butcher shop and the Empire Hall which was used for entertainment. Summerland had a fine band and they entertained people from a bandstand which was situated where the Fish Hatchery is now. Lower Summerland was and still is supplied by an overflowing spring. This spring stayed at a temperature of 52 degrees and still does all year around. The town progressed famously and was beginning to be populated well, when in 1923 a disastrous fire swept through and destroyed most of the business. This fire was followed by another in 1926 which burned the hotel, and in 1927 still another fire swept through the Empire Hall and destroyed it. After these unfortunate mishaps, Lower Summerland carried on almost a ghost town and business moved almost wholly to Siwash Flat which James Ritchie

SOCIAL PIONEER HAMBURG

Take a bed of red coals, a green stick as thick as your thumb, and a handful of hamburger which has been mixed with egg and corn flakes. Mould the hamburger around an end of the stick which has been heated over the coals. Then hold the stick over the hot coals, slowly turning it, until the meat is sizzling and browned to taste.

You will have a camp favorite — a "pioneer drumstick".

Eat it at a campfire surrounded with laughing campers, the fresh sound of waves slapping on the shore, the quiet respect of a well-sung grace, the sweet tang of pine. This is food you will remember.

For there is more to camp cooking than the food. Camper cook-prise, adventurous spirit, friendship, carefree mirth, are basic seasonings.

There are two days about which nobody should ever worry, and these are yesterday and tomorrow. — Robert J. Burdette.

had acquired from the Indians in a trade for 160 acres at Shingle Creek.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM

In 1914 a portion of Indian Reserve, south of Trout Creek was set aside for the establishment of an Experimental Station. This has played an important part in solving Summerland's agricultural problems.

The Summerland Hospital was burned in 1919, and the Felix Hotel as well as the Donald Orrs' home were used in the emergency. The next year the present hospital was built and has been in use ever since.

In 1906 Okanagan College was erected under sponsorship of the Baptist organization. The college was opened the next year with Dr. Everett M. Sawyer as principal. It was then possible to give secondary education to local students. The old college is now called.

Mountain View Home and cares for a number of aged persons.

EARLY CHURCHES

In 1898, an Anglican Church was started and then by 1906, the Methodist Church was commenced in Lower Summerland, on the hill across from the Fish Hatchery. Then, as more people came into Summerland, Saint Andrew's Church was started in West Summerland with Rev. Hood as minister. Also there was a Baptist and a United Church. More churches have been added to these in recent years.

In 1907, the Lakeshore Telephone Company was formed. It was a one-wire magneto system and covered the Municipality of Summerland, and branches were constructed to Penticton and Peachland.

MUNICIPALITY FORMED

In February 1903, a scrool district was formed that took in the whole municipality of Summerland. On December 1, 1906, the District of the Municipality of Summerland was incorporated and in the elections held on January 1, 1907, the following were elected: J. M. Robinson, reeve, James Ritchie, J. R. Brown, R. H. Agur, and C. J. Thompson, councillors. J. R. Logie was appointed clerk of the new Municipality. Little did the people know that, fifty years from then, the citizens of Summerland would be celebrating this date.

On June 6th, there will be reunion of old timers in Summerland. Accounts of pioneer happenings will stir the hearts of those who take interest in our home, Summerland.

Mann-Hack Ceremony On Friday Afternoon

A quiet midsummer wedding was solemnized on Friday afternoon, July 27, at half-past two with Rev. S. McGladdery of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Pentiction, officiating, when Norma Muriel Henry, daughter of Mrs. Loretta Hack and the late William Hack, was united in marriage with Lancelot Edgcombe Mann, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Mann of Athabasca, Alberta.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's mother in Victoria Gardens with 17 relatives and close friends present.
For the occasion the bride wore a lovely Copenhagen blue afternoon gown of corded bengaline in princess style with white accessories. Complementing her costume was a bridal corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held. Mrs. Hack had chosen a pretty baby-pucker nylon frock for the event and wore bright red roses en corsage. Mrs. Mann, the groom's mother, was in a smart spice colored linen frock with all-over embroidery in white. Her flowers were dark red roses in a corsage arrangement.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth centred with a large square wedding cake. Roses were tastefully arranged in low bowls.

L. M. Rumball proposed the toast to the bride and groom to which the groom responded.
Congratulatory telegrams were received from Mr. and Mrs. H. Peterson, Miss Fleur Mann and Marland Mann, all of Winnipeg. Members of Faith Rebekah Lodge No 32, served.

For a short trip to Kamloops by car the bride changed to a white orlon frock figured with small brown flowers and having a brown bolero trimmed with matching material. With this, white accessories were worn.

Out-of-town guests were the groom's mother, Mrs. H. S. Mann of Athabasca, Alberta, and the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. Lundberg of Beaverdell.
Mr. and Mrs. Mann will make their home at West Summerland.

CWL Serves Breakfast To Communicants

The catechism class of The Church of the Holy Child was served breakfast in the Parish Hall following communion last Sunday. Linda Betuzzi was organist for the church service and a children's choir sang.

After church the children all went to the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Betuzzi at Crescent Beach where games and swimming were enjoyed.

Proceedings for the day were under the direction of the CWL and over 50 parents and children attended.

ODDS and ENDS BY M. VANDERBUEGH

Following the publisher's lead, could be that lots of new people may not know the hikes and drives around Summerland where a whole family may have a nice outing with practically no cost.
There's an easy climb up the north slope of Giant's Head, starting from behind the Mountain View Home and the view from the top is a wide one, showing the valleys of Summerland and away up and down the lake. Take water along. In the evening the sky may be magnificent.

A climb that has always been popular and not too difficult is up Snow Mountain, the snow-capped one west of Summerland. (Brent's Mountain is the official name). Take the road out through Prairie Valley to Shingle Creek as far as the old Brent Ranch, now the home of the Gardiners. Trail goes up from there, and isn't too steep. First week in August snow is usually almost all gone except for maybe a little snowbank here and there in the hollows. Mr. P. G. Dodwell, his sons, and their friends have made the trip an annual one for years. There is a crystal spring not too far from the summit, and a lookout house atop as a shelter from the winds which can be keen and cold. Panoramic view takes in several Okanagan lakeside towns, and at night there's the feeling of being on top of the world. Mountain meadows are red, white, and blue with Indian paint brush, lupin, and daisies, now everything is knee-deep in summertime. Some prefer to get horses and ride up. In any case take lots of food. Air at an altitude of over 7,000 feet makes zesty appetites.

For the easiest picnic of all with plenty of lawn for the babies to roll on and a good putting green, the Experimental Farm is the local Stanley Park. It's beautiful all year round, and believe it or not, there are ever so many families that haven't been there for years. Facilities are provided for boiling a kettle — even the kettle is there, tables and benches, too, and shelter from the wind if needed. In these days when many of the taxes are hidden, it seems we're lucky in Summerland to be able to use freely this delightful spot provided by the government.
Then there's Deep Creek at Peachland, their municipal park, and the three points between Summerland and Pentiction developed by the Forestry Department, Socrimpt named after an Indian Chief, Pyramid named of itself, and Kikinnee after the fish of that name.

It's Those Two Again; Summerland vs Pentiction

SPORTS

They meet again.
The weatherman has been conspiring to keep the Summerland Macs and Pentiction Red Sox apart of late, but at long last, with the weather outlook good, the two teams are scheduled to come together again.

Fishing News

BERT BERRY
Fishing this last week has slowed down. This is general on large and small areas of water. Hot weather and feed conditions seem to make the fish lose interest in feeding and their feeding periods are of short duration and less frequent. Good catches can be made if you are in the right spot at the right time, and present lures the fish want at that time.

Okanagan Lake—Not too much active trolling, best luck has been in the late evenings. Rock fishermen have not been too successful but have seen good sized ones swim past their lures so the fish are there.

Fish Lake Camp—Not many reports from here last week. Strong winds and rough water made it tough to fish but upper lakes have produced some good catches.

Headwaters Camp—Same as most mountain lakes, strong winds this last week made it tough to fish. Crescent Lake is reported much improved however, at this camp.

Silver Lake—No reports from here but if on, should be O.K.

Brenda Lake—Some big fish taken here but slow.

Bear Lake—Some good catches made at times but has slowed down in general.

Esperan Lake—Crossed up the general rule here, and best fish were caught on flies with few being caught on hardware. Small spoons also used with luck as well.

The time, 2:30 p.m., Sunday, August 5.

The place, Summerland's Memorial Park.

The prediction, Macs to win. The brawling Red Sox need a win to break a deadlock with Oliver for second place, and the fourth place Macs need a win to keep the Kelowna Orioles out of their hair.

So, with the two hottest rivals in the league slated to play ball here Sunday a big crowd is looked for.

It is believed that Sambo Drossos, another firebrand will make his first appearance of the season on the Summerland diamond. Drossos came out of retirement to bolster the Sox who were beginning to sag a little.

Macs Rally Falls Short Lose 7-1

Summerland Macs are still in third place, but they're being nudged by the Kelowna Orioles. The Orioles shortened the gap between them and the third place Macs last Wednesday when they surprised the Macs and themselves by winning an OMBL fixture 7-6. The win marked the snapping of an eight game losing streak for the Orioles, but it was close. Macs had the tying and the winning run on bases when Al Hooker with two away was caught off base and the Orioles walked off the field pinching themselves.

opening gun scoring three runs in the first inning. Macs didn't really pull up their sox until in the fifth when they got four runs across the plate and threw the game wide open.

It was free wheeling game, winning pitcher Jack Power yielded six hits while losing pitcher Fliohel was nicked for 11 and there were some big hits. Gordie Taylor led the hitters, smashing out a home run, two doubles and a single. Al Schaeffer and Joe Kaiser also poled four homers.

Ontario Hockey Conditions Compared With Those In B.C.

BY GEORGE STOLL
With reduced spectator attendance at senior hockey games last season in the Ontario senior hockey loop reaching an all time low, both hockey club executives and arena commissions are interested in a proposition that is being discussed in the various towns. It is not only the clubs and arenas that are worried about the situation, Mr. Hockey Fan—the chap who pays the shot is worried too. He likes his hockey in this part of Canada like no other fan in the world. But he is getting pretty well fed up with the type of hockey being dished up by some of the players on the various teams. He is fed up to the extent that he is either selling his booster ticket, an unheard of thing in northern Ontario for the past six years, or he is losing them outright and not bothering to renew them.

Undoubtedly there are several factors which are causing the drop in attendance figures at hockey games not only in Ontario but in all of the remaining amateur circuits in Canada. Television for one thing is keeping many a fan at home. Drive-in movies, bingo games and other cheap entertainment has cut down attendance. To meet the challenge those in charge have to overhaul the entire set-up. For some years now old pros, no longer able to continue with their clubs have been reinstated as amateurs. They are immediately linked to a contract at anything from $125 to $200 or more per week. As a result the average junior player who is a good hockey player, but could not quite make the jump to a pro loop, is left on the sidelines and the older, more experienced pro walks in. Good juniors have nowhere to go, as the field for Junior A is limited to a few clubs sponsored by the National Hockey League. The hockey fans have been looking forward to good hockey from the retired pros, but the opposite has been the case. The game of hockey in the senior loops has deteriorated to such an extent that several branches of the CAHA have no entries in Allan Cup play-downs. The reason is plain to see, if any community wants to get in, or even dreams of winning the Canadian Amateur Championship they are practically forced to pay a stupendous weekly salary to get the players. The clubs just can not do it, those that do, invariably go in the red to the tune of several thousands of dollars. The hockey situation in Ontario seems to be exactly the same as we have it here in B.C. Next week we will give an outline of what Maxie Silverman, the Silver Fox of hockey, intends to do about it in Ontario.

Kelowna's Weeks Tops In Shoot

Marksmen from Interior and Coast clubs took part in a very successful meet on Sunday at the Garnett Valley Rifle Range. Sixty-two marksmen, including 29 cadets from the Jericho Camp in Vancouver, competed for the numerous prizes and trophies.

The Dunsdon Shield for high aggregate score was won by R. S. Weeks, Kelowna, with 100 out of a possible 105, after a shoot-off with E. Work, also of Kelowna. Miss Yvonne Cousins, Summerland Rifle Club, placed third in the top award.

The Summerland Cup for high score, 200 yards, went to R. S. Weeks with 34 out of 35. A shoot-off was again necessary, as Ted Piers, Summerland, also scored 34 points.

At 500 yards, the Sports Centre Cup was won by G. Farquharson, Kamloops with a possible 35, Y. Cousins placing second with a 34.

A possible 35 at 600 yards gave E. Work, Kelowna, possession of the Rose Cup. H. Simpson, took second money with a score of 33. Tyro aggregate was won by Ted Piers with 96 points, R. Ranson, Vernon, placing with 93.

Summerland's No. 2 team won by two points over the local No. 1 squad by a score of 468 to 466. Kelowna placed third with 464, the Mission team fourth with 458, and the cadet team fifth, 441 points. Members of the winning team were: Yvonne Cousins, Al McCargar, Ted Piers, Ron Taylor and Herb Simpson.

Okanagan Baptists Camp At Trout Creek

Sunny skies, warm weather, clean sparkling water, have been ideal camp ingredients for July. Okanagan Baptists are hoping that they continue as they hold their various camps during the month of August at Camp Sorec at Trout Creek Point.

First will be a Leadership Camp from August 1-5, directed by Rev. S. Liddell, Pentiction, when speakers will be the Rev. Ron Watts, principal of the Baptist Leadership Training School at Calgary; Capt. Don Knipfel of Winnipeg, a padre in the Canadian Army; Rev. Kutch Iwayoshi of Nelson; and Mr. Liddell.

The daily program will include Bible study led by Mr. Watts, and talks entitled, "Do You Know Your Church?" by Mr. Knipfel.

On Thursday Rev. and Mrs. Bert Wingblade of Kelowna will be at the camp to assist at campfire; Friday Mrs. Watts will speak and Saturday evening, Ron King of Kaleden will help.

Families are invited to attend the Leadership Camp. Mrs. Watts will supervise smaller children during camp instruction periods. Leaders of other camps are urged to attend.

From August 5-12, junior boys and girls, ages 9 and 10 years will be in Sorec with Rev. Bert Wingblade, Kelowna, director, and Rev. Orville Gatty, a missionary from India in attendance. The next week, August 12-19, intermediate boys and girls, 11 and 12 years will have Mr. Gatty as leader, and Rev. Lyle Kennedy, Summerland, director.

For the next 10 days, 19th to 29th, the senior boys and girls, 13 and 14 years are to be instructed by Miss Mary Epp, also a missionary from India. Miss Vera Coss, Pentiction, is camp director for this age group.

Final camp for this season is from the 29th of August until Labor Day, Sept. 3, with the age group 15 years and up; speaker, Rev. Edgar Roberts.

Anyone interested will be welcome to attend any individual sessions.

T. S. Manning, of Summerland is chairman for the camp projects, with Ron King of Kaleden, co-ordinator. Mrs. V. Durnin, Summerland, is the secretary, and there are representatives from the various Okanagan Baptist churches on the executive.

typical Okanagan scene showing the blue lake and a pine tree.

R. P. Walrod, general manager of the B.C. Fruit Processors, Ltd., and general manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., spoke citing many instances of lab research by Dr. Strachan and the staff of the Fruit and Vegetable Processing Laboratory which had resulted in development of outlets for surplus fruit products and a processing industry worth many millions of dollars to the grower.

Ian Greenwood of the B.C. Processors, Kelowna, was present and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hastie of Burnaby, the former from the American Can Co.

Delicious refreshments were served by Miss Dorothy Britton, home economist at the Farm, assisted by the staff of the Fruit and Vegetable Processing Lab.

Dr. Strachan graduated from UBC with a degree in agriculture in 1931. He obtained his masters' standing from Oregon State College in 1935, and his doctorate from the University of Massachusetts in 1940.

Kelowna's Golden Jubilee Regatta, to be held Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 8, 9, 10, 11, promises to eclipse all predecessors by a wide margin.

The regatta committee has extended a special invitation to all Okanagan Valley Communities to "help us celebrate our Golden Jubilee."

There are several outstanding events this year. For instance, the Canadian Water-Ski championships — senior and junior — will be underway at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, August 8. This is the first time the nationals have ever been held in the West and it's quite a feather in B.C.'s cap.

Canada's two top drivers, Bill Patrick, Calgary, and Irene MacDonald, Hamilton, will be among the competitors in the Canadian North-West Diving Championships.

Bela Wouters Has Accident

Bela Wouters, aged 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henk Wouters, is in Summerland General Hospital as a result of a bicycle accident on Friday.

Bela's bike overturned on the Giant's Head Road and his head struck a cement wall at the Milnes.

He suffered a severe concussion and was unconscious for a several hours following the accident.

His condition is reported to be good.

A woman who makes a match for her daughter usually intends to referee it as well.

OVMA Asks For Low Interest Loans

When the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association met last Tuesday afternoon a Summerland resolution was passed that the UBCM approach the provincial government for low interest loans to be made available through the government to assist in financing urgently needed projects in rapidly growing areas of B.C.

Money formerly available through the Federal Municipal Improvement Assistance Act has not been forthcoming recently, therefore it was pointed out, by Reeve F. E. Atkinson, who spoke to the resolution, that the provincial government should be prepared to help.

Mr. Atkinson said that under present town planning systems larger building lots are required to prevent overcrowding. This means greater extension of various services such as water, sewage, and light, all of which are expensive. The cost of these services which, although eventually self-liquidating are often too expensive for municipalities to finance now. So these low interest rate loans would seem to be the answer.

NOT RUBBER STAMP

Increasing powers of the PUC were strongly disapproved, Ald. Harwood of Vernon saying that "municipal governments will soon be nothing but rubber stamps."

The meeting recommended control of public cemeteries to be taken out of the hands of PUC.

A Vernon resolution was passed asking that the Municipal Act be amended to provide remuneration to aldermen and councillors in an amount equal to 50 percent of that paid to mayors or Reeves.

Another Vernon resolution asking that a council may act as an appeal board was tabled. Ald. E. A. Titchmarsh of Penticton doubted the right of councils to legislate and act as judges as well.

A third resolution from Vernon was passed that the UBCM in annual meeting request one or both of the Public Utilities Act and the Municipal Act be amended to enable municipalities that so elect to be placed outside the scope of the Public Utilities Act. This was strongly supported by Vernon who by order of the PUC have to supply city water outside the city tax area. Kamloops spoke for this resolution, too.

The Evening Branch WA catered to a luncheon prior to the meeting in St. Stephen's Anglican Church parish hall.

OKVSTA MEETS HERE PREPARES RESOLUTIONS

The Okanagan Branch of the B.C. School Trustees' Association met in Summerland High School on Wednesday afternoon with about 20 present.

The meeting prepared resolutions to present to the annual B.C. School Trustees' Convention to be held at Cranbrook the middle of September.

Tea was provided by the local school board with catering by Summerland LOEBA.

ON COLUMN WRITING

Somebody has pinned a clipping on the wall above my typewriter, which reads: "The function of an editorial page is to point with pride, view with alarm and occasionally recommend."

So much for the editorial page. Now I wish someone would pin a clipping on the wall telling me just what is the function of a column.

There are of course, columnists and columnists. Some columnists can get away with anything, others duck for cover after every column. Some can use the big "I" approach without a kickback, others, and yours truly is among them, are always being told that they write too much about "I".

The Vancouver Sun's Jack Scott is a fellow who can use the I, I, I, I, I, and the personal experience angle without, apparently, annoying his readers. Take his "I" have quit smoking racket. Off again, on again, off again Scott, has played the same I have quit smoking record about ten times and then hasn't had the backbone to stay with it. But he's made big capital out of it, through easy come by columns.

But me, from being almost a lifetime smoker, a three pack a day man, I quit cold. Nary a word did I write about it until I had been a total abstainer for a year then I wrote one column about the agony and right back comes a letter from a reader asking what I had to brag about, that the letter writer had quit smoking two years back and hadn't seen the necessity of shouting about it from the housetops.

Mind you, I didn't preach about the evils of smoking, which I'm inclined to think are somewhat exaggerated, in fact, I am somewhat in sympathy with whoever wrote:

"Tobacco is a dirty weed: I like it.
It satisfies no normal need: I like it.
It makes you thin, it makes you lean.
It takes the hair right off your beard;
It's the worst darn stuff I've seen:
I like it."

No, this column writing isn't all beer and skittles. Sometimes they're hard come by. Sometimes even the typewriter balks at recording a columnist's thoughts, like mine did yesterday. The question is not, so much what to write about. There's always lots to write about, but it is a question of what the readers want. If I write anecdote columns some people tell me to put the bull back in the barn. If I don't write anecdote columns, readers write asking, why not? If I state an opinion, I'm being too self-opinionated. If I don't express an opinion, I'm chicken.

One thing only seems to be reasonably certain about this column business and that is that columns are read, for, as someone once quipped, "you've got to be read to be wrong."

So, as it is impossible to please all of the people all of the time I'll have to carry on as I have been doing and write according to the mood.

Here we are, well on into August and that means we're next door to Fall and, if current reports are to be believed, Okanagan television is on the doorstep.

TV is something I could well do without, but there's nothing going to stop it. Nature did give the Okanagan a break by making it tough for the would-be invaders of our home privacy, and we're lagging about two years behind the rest of Canada, but man seems to have conquered nature again and for the Okanagan that means television.

Television is, of course, a wonderful invention, a tremendous tribute to the ingenuity of man, but why such a great medium of education, communication and entertainment should be reduced to the level of a low burlesque house and of cheap literature is beyond me.

It was three years ago that I first experienced the effects of TV. Visited old friends in Niagara Falls. It had always been a treat to visit them and their well-behaved children. But I barged in in the middle of a TV show. The greeting was perfunctory as everybody kept one eye on the screen.

The well-behaved kids I had known became raging demons when the parents said bed time. Half an hour and three hidings later the kids were peeking from the hall watching a horror show while the parents pretended they weren't there, until finally "Uncle Sid" as they called me, became highly unpopular by herding them back to bed.

I thought we'd get down to renewing old friendship at breakfast the next day, but not so. The TV, its screen pale and ghostly in the morning light, was going full blast.

Mama, poppa and the kids kept their eyes glued on the screen while cereal, toast, bacon and eggs made hazardous trips from plate to mouth and there was many a slip, twist cup and lip. But no one seemed to mind. Conversation boiled down to nothing but a series of grunts.

I became allergic to TV on that trip east and nothing I've seen of it since has cured my allergy. Visiting in Vancouver I find the same state of affairs. Everything seems to be subjugated to the evil glowing eye. True there are good programs and it is thrilling to watch a ball game being played in Seattle from an armchair in Vancouver and one can see more and hear more than if in the best spot at the field.

But what TV offers cannot offset, at least in my opinion, its effect upon ordinary sociability and particularly its effects upon the minds of children.

Recently in Vancouver I sat watching what was supposedly a children's show, in which the boy hero and his faithful dog tackled the villain, the dog chewed and the kid was using both feet on the man and a fence stake.

The little girl of the house was absorbing all this. I spoke to her. She gave an impatient gesture without taking her eyes off the brutal goings on.

Then I got up and turned off the set. The youngster's eyes blazed and she came at me with both feet. I warded her off, and told her she shouldn't watch that kind of show. She protested angrily. It was a good show, that was the bad man who was getting beaten up.

Presumably anything goes with the child, provided it is the bad man who is taking it. A sadistic outlook for a child.

Television is coming to the valley. Nothing can stop it and actually we shouldn't want to. It is a marvellous medium of entertainment but I'd like to see every parent in this district make up his or her mind to not letting TV become a habit, not to let it dominate their homes. There are good programs, worthwhile programs to be had on TV. There are good programs, not necessarily highbrow which the kids can enjoy. But TV like everything else should be taken in moderation and above all, parents should make up their minds now that TV fare will be carefully selected for the small fry and that time for TV viewing will be strictly rationed.

ITS KELOWNA REGATTA TIME AGAIN and this year it's extra special, being Kelowna's Golden Jubilee Regatta. A highlight of the Regatta was to have been the Gold Cup race with such boats as the one pictured above, Miss Gail IV from Detroit, in competition, but there has been a hitch and the Gold Cup races have been cancelled. Disappointing, but there will be boat races galore, inboards and outboards on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Tenders For $60,000 High School Addition May Be Called In Sept.

Building Active, Up $58,200 More Than Last Year's Figure

Total permits for the first seven months, according to the report of building inspector, R. F. Angus, were 70 amounting to $236,120 while in the same period last year the 68 permits were for $177,920, which brings an increase this year so far of $58,200.

There were 14 permits issued this year in July; six last year. Breakdown is four dwellings in the amount of $21,000; two commercial and institutional (including the school) $25,250; and eight alterations and additions to dwellings.

Building permits issued for the month of July were boosted to $51,000 with the erection of the new elementary school in Trout Creek, as compared with July 1955 when estimated building costs were $27,435.

Summerland School Board, District 77, expects to have plans this week for the new $60,000 addition to the junior-senior high school. Architects are Roy Meiklejohn and Associates, Penticton. After the board has gone over the plans they will be forwarded to Victoria for approval by the department of education.

It is hoped that tenders for the new part of the school will be called by September.

The new addition which is to be one storey with provision to make it into two storeys, if necessary, will be parallel with the present classroom block. Three standard classrooms will be contained in it, and a sewing room for home economics students, making accommodation for present sewing needs and for the time when a second home economics teacher may have to be added to the staff.

A traffic room in the new addition will be used for storage which is needed in the high school.

Progress is reported by the board in the erection of the Trout Creek Elementary School, which it is hoped, will be ready some time in September.

The Summerland school board has asked the department of highways for a school crosswalk near the Trout Creek Service Station to be ready by the time the Trout Creek school is opened.

Death By Drowning

In an inquest held on Tuesday morning in Penticton a verdict of death by drowning was returned following a sad car accident which took the lives of two young Penticton girls, Deanne Keehn, aged 14, and her cousin, Darlene Keehn, aged 17.

Occurring at approximately 2:15 a.m. Monday morning, the jury report was that the car failed to negotiate a turn on Highway 19 between Landry's and Evans' Point, about one and a half miles south of Summerland due to excessive speed.

The small English car was travelling north.

RCMP Collections Over $500 In July

Total fines and costs collected by the Summerland detachment of the RCMP for July were $546.50.

Seventy-three complaints were answered during the past month.

A car driver employed by Dawson & Wade Construction was fined $25 and costs in Summerland Police Court by Magistrate R. Alstead on Friday morning for not having a driver's license, $15 and costs for not having a chauffeur's license and Dawson and Wade was fined $15 and costs for hiring this person without proper licenses.

The same morning a motorist from Kelowna was levied $20 and costs for driving without due care and attention.

This Saturday Night Is Kiwanis Carnival Night

The sixth annual Kiwanis Street Carnival is to be held Saturday night.

Summerland Municipal Council has given permission to the Kiwanis Club to use part of the main street for their summer evening of fun for everyone.

Town Band Gives Enjoyable Concert

Summerland Town Band gave a fine concert in the Memorial Park Playground on Saturday evening starting at 8 p.m. under the baton of the new conductor, W. A. Steuart.

Lovely cool lawns of the park and the varied entertainment provided by the band selections contributed to a pleasant evening for adults and children.

It is hoped by many that this type of concert will be repeated perhaps with a little more advance notice, as there were quite a number of people who had not heard about it and would have enjoyed attending.

Proceedings start when the Summerland School Band strikes up at 7 p.m., and the committee of which Gerry Hallquist is the president, has promised that the whole show is to be "bigger and better than ever." Committee members are George Henry, Doug Campbell, Frank McDonald, George Clark and Ken Heales.

For the kids there are pony rides, Trump giraffe rides, and a fish pond.

Klwasas members will sell home cooking and refreshments will be available.

Prizes to be given away are a GE electric coffee maker; a GE electric frying pan; and an automatic pop-up toaster.

President of the Summerland Kiwanis Club is E. F. Smith.

Fossilized Tree Discovery

If there's nothing new under the sun, right here in Summerland there's something very old that has come to light recently. On Highway 97 about a mile north of Summerland near the far end of the rock-out there is a petrified tree which has been brought into the open through the rock work made necessary for the new highway.

C. Davis, formerly of Osoyoos, who has bought and is renovating the Weston place in Jones' Flat, discovered the fossilized giant of a forest of long ago, photographed it, and brought the picture into

The Review office. Part of the tree is embedded in the rock. The section of the trunk that is showing is three feet or more in diameter and about six feet up from the ground. Bark markings are plain.

This would, no doubt, be quite a tourist attraction, if a sign, "Petrified Tree - 500 yards ahead", or something of the sort were erected. Parking space near it would have to be found, as it is a pity.

Mr. Davis thinks that the tree could be removed intact and perhaps placed in another spot.

Summerland Scouts Paint Youth Centre

First Company Summerland Boy Scouts are real busy today and having a lot of fun at the same time.

They're painting the Youth Centre as part of the 1956 National Scout project of "Conservation."

Not only have they long ladders but W. S. Ritchie is there donating the use of his Trump giraffe which is mighty handy for painting high buildings like the Youth Centre.

L. A. Smith, who with E. R. Butler, donated the paint for the job, is also right on the job directing the work and instructing the boys how to do it well.

By noon today they had finished the north end.

Dr. D. V. Fisher is Scoutmaster of the 1st Summerland Co.

Picks Peas Unaware Of Rattlesnake Coiled Near Patch

Picking peas seems to be an uneventful job, but last Saturday Mrs. K. M. Blagborne was surprised when Mr. Blagborne came out to scythe. He found, all coiled up in the cool long grass right beside the pea patch, a rattlesnake.

After it was despatched, it was found to have six rattles, and to be about three feet long.

Mr. Blagborne who lives near the entrance to Garnett Valley says this is the first time they have seen a rattler nearby.

Rotary, Red Cross Swim Classes Are Paying Off

Mothers of the 300 children taking the Red Cross swimming instruction as organized by Summerland Rotary Club, report wonderful progress since the lessons started.

Mrs. M. Hyde, who is in charge won her instructor's badge at Kelowna before the swim classes started, and the bronze medallion of the Royal Life Saving Society of which Queen Elizabeth is a patron. It is awarded only to those who pass the Life Saving Test.

Mrs. Hyde has two assistants, Barbara Fudge, who also won the bronze medallion at the Kelowna instructor's course, and Amy Berry who obtained the leader's award badge.

Instruction is given five days a week from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and every day is a busy day.

Present plans are to hold exams on August 17, and a swim demonstration and regatta is planned for the next week, when presentations will be made to the children who have participated.

The older girls have organized a synchronized swimming class with Miss Beverley Fleming, who has her instructor's badge, teaching.

Jubilee Booklets Still Available

Jubilee booklets with envelopes for mailing are available free from Summerland Board of Trade at the office of the secretary, Lorne Perry. Visitors and many Summerland people will be glad to have these for publicity purposes, as well as for the information contained, and as a memento of 1956, Summerland's 50th anniversary year.

By O. L. JONES

The Joint Parliamentary Committee dealing with lotteries has filed its report which suggests drastic changes in the present handling of bingo games and give-away programs. They propose a $5,000 limit on the value of prizes offered in any one year by organizations, sponsoring bingo games and lotteries. They suggest that these games should be licensed by provincial authorities and could only be carried on when the proceeds are turned over to charitable, religious and community purposes. All these proposals would be on a friendly basis and no money would be paid to promoters, and operations would have to be audited and reported to the licensing body. The law would not only apply to bingo games and lotteries but would also be applied to radio jackpot programs, draws, give-aways, photo-nite contests, and similar affairs now promoted by commercial enterprises. The report went on to say that all types of advertising contests in which chance plays any part should be clearly prohibited. The present law would be completely changed and the provincial authorities would have full power to control these limited lotteries which is not possible at the present time. Suggestions had been made to the committee that Canada should operate state lotteries for charitable purposes as is done in Australia and possibly the Irish Sweepstakes would come in this category. But the committee opposed such a suggestion and urged enforcement of the law governing sale of lottery tickets including those distributed by the Quebec Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association, Irish Sweepstakes and so on. They also urged that prizes received by holders of such tickets should be confiscated. The law as it stands forbids the sale of lottery tickets and in some cases sellers have been heavily fined. It has always seemed strange to me that a winner of a large sum of money will have his or her picture in the paper and all details in connection with the winning of the prize made public proving that in the purchase of that ticket the purchaser had broken the law yet nothing has ever been done about it. So that an effort to clarify the law regarding lotteries is needed. Everyone will welcome a clearer understanding of what can and cannot be done. Unfortunately this report cannot be adopted during the present session as it was filed too late for action. It does not necessarily follow that the government will adopt all or any of the suggestions made. Already there has been expressed strong opposition by large organizations in the East to the curbing of their present method of raising substantial funds for charitable enterprises. The estimates of the CBC had rather a rough passage through the House last week, disclosing a rift in the Liberal ranks regarding this government sponsored organization. Mr. Russell Reinke, the Liberal MP for Hamilton South, issued a strong blast against the CBC as well as the privately owned press and radio. He charged them with producing strongly slanted news items during the pipeline debate wherein he claims efforts were made to hurt the Liberal party. His statement received the endorsement of the Liberal members in the house. Two western reporters were particularly mentioned by Mr. Reinke, that is Stanley Burke of the Vancouver Sun and Mr. Letterman of the Vancouver Province, both of whom he claimed had produced slanted reports. The Conservative party speakers also attacked the CBC. This party has always opposed the CBC policy in spite of the fact that it was a Conservative Prime Minister, the Hon. R. B. Bennett, that gave life to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Dr. McCann in presenting the estimates anticipated a deficit of the current fiscal year of $20,000,000. The Board of Governors has extensive plans for improving radio and TV programs throughout Canada. This calls for still more capital outlay which may or may not be made available in the near future. Both the Conservatives and private broadcasting stations have been urging the government to appoint a controlling body over both radio and TV along similar lines to the Board of Railway Transport claiming that the pre-

It's The Start That Counts . . . but get going

AN OPPORTUNITY, no matter how great, is of no value unless someone grabs it.

It is like the road that runs past your house. It may have run there for years, but useless, leading nowhere, because you haven't used it.

Drive your car out onto it, however, and start for somewhere and you find it leads everywhere.

There is scarcely a place in the world that you cannot reach, once you start. Without the start you could spend your lifetime in that same spot.

The opportunity was there. You just didn't grab it.

An apple fell, and Sir Isaac Newton saw it fall. In his brain was started a train of thought that led him to his theory of gravitation, and the laws that govern it.

A burst of steam lifted the lid of a tea-kettle and a young man saw it lift. This particular burst of steam opened up a trail of thought that led him to the invention of the steam engine.

A tiny needle scratch on a piece of paper started Edison on a line of thought that led to the invention of the phonograph. Thousands of others had seen similar scratches, but ignored them. It was a trivial thing — why bother with it. They didn't, so it led them nowhere, although the opportunity was there to be grabbed.

The longest journey in the world can start from your driveway.

Getting from there out onto the road is the important part.

That road that runs past your home can be a pathway to the world if you so want it. Or it can be just something to be crossed to reach an empty plot on the other side, as it is to most of us.

Letters to the Editor . . . short and sweet

LETTERS to a newspaper give a cross section of public thinking and as such The Summerland Review is glad to receive them, even though we may not agree with them.

There are some exceptions, however.

First, they must be signed by the writer. An anonymous letter is never used. We get some of these, and if you are wondering why you haven't seen your letter in print or heard from the editor about it, this may be the reason. We can't answer an anonymous letter. Whom would we mail it to?

Another must is that they must be about a subject that is of general interest. Some letters we receive are purely personal discussions between the writer and another individual. Since they would, in all probability, be of interest to only two or three people, they are not used. The editor uses his best judgment about these, and may make mistakes, but he does his best.

Then a letter must not be libelous. Many writers of safety valve letters do not realize that a newspaper publishing a libelous letter is responsible regardless of who has signed it. A writer may think that some person or recognized group is crooked, and is entitled to his opinion. Putting it in print, however, is another matter.

A letter that is defamatory against an individual, or a group, obviously must be omitted.

Then there are the crank letters, usually written by those who have an axe to grind — in most cases a very special axe.

A safety valve letter should be as short as possible. Space is limited and long letters just cannot be printed. Some writers send in long ones and specify "do not cut". A writer can say a good deal in 200 words or less if he has it organized.

A difficult problem for an editor in cutting a letter, or omitting one when too many are received about one subject, is what to leave out.

So keep your letters coming, and if you want to sit down and write one right now "getting us told" about this editorial, go ahead and do it. We'll publish it, if it meets the above requirements.

Mid-Week Message

Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and he shall sustain thee. (Psalm 55:22.) Read II Corinthians 1:3-7.

The story is told by Bishop William A. Quayle of a young man who had more than his portion of cares. Out of his modest salary he supported his aged mother and the family of his widowed sister. He was a liberal supporter of a struggling church. Many people came to him with their worries and anxieties.

One day the bishop said to him: "Son, I don't see how you do it; you must be loaded down."

"No," said the young man, "I'm loaded up." There is a difference. God has provided us with a simple way to lift the heaviest load. We can rely upon His help and strength. If we call upon Him in prayer. He shifts the emphasis from weight to power. God increases our strength to enable us to bear our burdens.

Has not the Master said, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest"?

PRAYER
Our Father, Thy strength is greater than the cares that oppress us. Thou art nearer than our hands and feet. Thou art more patient than the dearest friend. Grant us this day strength equal to the weight of our cares. In the name of Christ. Amen.

Tourists Like Custom Cannery

Bates' Custom Canning has performed a useful service to local residents and to tourists for several years.

Establishing it in the basement of his home, Mr. Bates set up a small cannery and did the processing. He undertook to supply cans and sugar if needed for people who wanted to come in to do their own fruit, or he would do it for them.

For two years in succession the Ritchies from Prince Rupert came to prepare a winter's supply of canned goods. They took orders in Prince Rupert and the Bates' filled them. Mr. Ritchie is an alderman in the northern city and in the stevedoring business.

People have come from Edmonton, Calgary, and Vancouver, and many other smaller places. There are very few from the States, though they could take canned fruit across the border duty free if they were 24 hours in Canada.

Peaches supply the biggest bulk of the operations, but cherries, cots, pears and tomatoes are canned in season.

During the year 10-15,000 tins are processed and three or four people are called in to help.

The Custom Canning supplies several big ranches at Merritt through the Clark Jacksons. These include that of Steffan Bros., and of the Guichons.

Mr. Bates thinks that this might be the last year that they operate the business, since they find it too large a project in the small quarters which they have converted to the purpose.

If so, a number of Summerland housewives and tourists will miss doing their fruit in this way, or having it done for them.

ODDS and ENDS BY M. VANDERBURGH

For drives we like the Shingle Creek one out west of Summerland from Prairie Valley to the old Green Mt. Road, in to Penticton and home again, maybe with supper by the creek. Or go the other way and have supper at Upper Trout Creek. Nice little shady indentations made by the creek, ideal for a little bonfire with the water tinkling along and the piney scent all around. Shingle Creek hills are the color of tanned hides, tawny, hot and dry these days.

It's a nice jaunt out to Fish Lake. In the spring the road may not be too good, but in the fall it's pretty fair. Along the way little spinneys of cottonwood and birch will soon be full of bright color against the blue sky. Always seems a bit of an adventure going to Fish Lake. Using it as a base there are the lakes in the hills above it for fishing and lazing.

Another popular junket is to Headwaters. Everyone should go there, if for no other reason than to know what a long distance our domestic and irrigation water travels coming to us and to see the big dams that are part of Summerland's irrigation system. Besides that the fishing is good, and recently the lupins were a big wave of blue in front of one's eyes. Way there is to go almost into Peachland, turning at an acute right angle up the hill behind Garraway's house, and following the signs from there.

Take a tent and try a little exploring. It's lots more fun than the main roads. That's what the Harvey Wilsons and their family did a week or so ago.

Since we've been talking about picnics and outdoor activities, have you tried getting hamburgers ready at home, wrapping them individually in aluminum foil, then cooking them on the coals by a campfire. They can either be cooked singly or (still wrapped) put on a sheet of foil which makes a wonderful, easily disposable pan. The hamburgers when unwrapped are juicy and delicious. A whole onion skinned and cooked the same way has so much more flavor than an ordinary boiled onion that it's a good idea to cook them that way in the oven at home, too.

It was good ball while it lasted . . . and it lasted fourteen innings. It was such good ball that who won and who lost became almost the secondary consideration to the fans who crowded the bleachers at Summerland's Memorial Athletic Park last Sunday.

Mac's Aces Lose To Penticton 8-1

As it happened the home team, the Summerland Macs, lost to the Penticton Red Sox 5-4, but it was anybody's game as the game stretched and stretched through five extra innings. It was in the top of the fourteenth that Sambo Drossos, newly back to the baseball wars, drove in the winning run for the Red Sox.

Some of the longest hitting in local softball history was witnessed at the Memorial Park Playground on Sunday evening when Mac's Cafe Aces bowed before the Penticton All Stars 8-1. It was anybody's game until the sixth when the visitors leading by a score of 2-1 went on the rampage and scuttled the locals' hopes of a rally with a five run splurge.

It was a big day for Drossos as his circuit clout in the second proved the big hit which kept the Macs in the game.

The game was marred by an unfortunate accident of the freak variety. A lustily swung bat, broke and freakishly boomeranged over the heads of the front row fans to strike a spectator on the forehead. The injured man, Tom Varty, who is visiting with his son, Russ Varty, local hardware merchant, was rushed to hospital for treatment.

It was the kind of stuff one would expect to see in a National all American league park, but hardly in a bush league. The infield work of both teams was also spectacular . . . in fact as a ball game, Sunday's clash between the Summerland Macs and Penticton Red Sox had everything.

Junior Red Sox Lose To Murphys

It was a tied ball game until the seventh with the score riding at 1-1 for three innings, then the Macs went on the rampage. They bunched four hits, including a home run smash by Barber with two men on bases and when the dust settled the Macs had three runs in and the score board read 4-1.

Summerland's Junior Red Sox bowed 4-0 before the powerful Vancouver Murphys in a week-end game played in Vancouver.

Macs with their backs to the wall repited by scoring in the seventh, eighth and ninth to tie the score. It was a breath-taking tenth inning as the Macs loaded the bases but couldn't capitalize.

It was a close game all the way with winning pitcher Dell yielding only five hits while McNab and Bonthoux for Summerland allowed six.

Come to the top of the fourteenth and Barber got a free pass to first and Sambo Drossos poled out the hit that enabled Barber to scamper home.

Driving the players to the coast city were J. P. Sheeley, Tiny Hankins, Albert Coffey and Tommy Campbell.

Softball Final Series Opens Here Tuesday

Macs Cafe Aces and the Provincial Public Works Department softball teams will pool forces to field a team against the Occl-dentals in a best of five championship series.

Last night the Macs and Works Department team played off, the Macs winning 13-11, but as neither team could muster full strength, it was decided to amalgamate for the playdown.

First game of the best of five series is scheduled for next Tuesday. Game time 7 p.m. at the Summerland Memorial Park Playground.

Fishing News

BERT BERRY
The general reports on fishing seems to be slow. Feeding periods are slow coming around and when they do the period is of short duration. Nothing cool weather won't cure.

Okanagan Lake — Slow again this last week. Some nice fish were landed but boats were only getting singles or doubles at most. Should improve especially spinning off the rocks.

Fish Lake Camp — No reports from here this week but the upper lakes should be coming on from now on.

Headwaters' Camp — Quite a few fish being caught here with fish up to 14 inches being taken.

Silver Lake — No reports but may be worth a try.

Brenda and McDonald Lakes — A couple of reports from these lakes show slow fishing but a few nice ones were launched.

Garnett Valley — Some of the boys have found some good spots here and landed a few big east-erns on bait.
Espran Lake — Slow but the odd big one still being landed.
Bear Lake — One pretty good report from here and a nice catch was made.
Tee Pee Lakes — One report in from here and it was good, both fly and troll.

Here's what Imperial does with its money

Of every dollar Imperial Oil took in last year, more than half went to buy raw materials, such as crude oil.

Operating and administrative costs, depreciation, and the wages of Imperial's 13,500 employees took about a quarter.

Just over a tenth went in taxes, not including the road taxes in the various provinces.

Just under nine cents was Imperial's "profit", of which five cents was re-invested in the business.

So, of every dollar Imperial took in last year, just over four cents went in dividends to the company's 45,000 shareholders.

ESSO IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED

Historically Speaking

This is an interesting essay by Wesley Schindel, grade 8A, telling in a concise way of the steps which established adequate domestic and irrigation water in Summerland so that a hot summer can be faced without qualms by those in charge of the municipal water department.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF SUMMERLAND'S IRRIGATION SYSTEM

In the early days, the first attempt at irrigation was made by George N. Gartrell and Duncan Woods who, with the help of neighbours built a crude dam of logs, boulders and stones at the mouth of Trout Creek Canyon. The water thus impounded was released in the summer to irrigate their land by flooding.

In 1892, Harry Dunsdon and Frank Woods built a dam for Lloyd-Jones on Aeneas Creek. This well constructed piece of work was said by some to be the first real irrigation project in the valley. At first, no flumes were used, but the Creek was tapped on Siwash Flat, and the water was diverted by a ditch which took it to the Lloyd-Jones' property at a lower level. Harry and Jim Dunsdon built another dam in 1895 below the first to store water for their own pre-emptions.

PRAIRIE VALLEY RESERVOIR

In 1902 all available land was acquired, surveyed, and a supply of irrigation water from Trout Creek was planned. In 1903, many men were engaged to build dams on some of the headwater lakes of Trout Creek. The impounded water was then diverted into the reservoir in Prairie Valley. From there, it was carried by two main ditches, and then by flumes of diminishing sizes to the individual lots. A flume was built in 1906 from the dam in Garnett Valley.

In 1910, the Garnett Valley Land Company's irrigation system, and the irrigation system of the Summerland Development Company became municipal properties, and Summerland Municipality which had been incorporated on December 1, 1906, had the honor of being the first community in the Okanagan Valley to have a publicly owned irrigation system. In this transaction, the Co-operative Irrigation System of Trout Creek Point was not included.

SUMMERLAND SELF-SUPPORTING

As fruit trees grew older, more irrigation water was required. As the seepage from ditches and wooden flumes was considerable, concrete ditches and metal flumes were gradually introduced. This meant an increase of capital and administrative costs, and the irrigation districts of the valley ran into financial difficulties. The provincial government loaned money to certain districts, but Summerland can be justly proud because it was able to master its irrigation problems without outside help even though there was an increase in rates.

While Summerland was more fortunate than many districts with its supply of irrigation water, there were, nevertheless, shortages during very dry years. Growers criticized the use of irrigation water that was diverted to operate the hydro-electric plant which supplied electricity to only a fraction of the population. Others criticized the amount of water that went to the Summerland Experimental Station.

A small amount of irrigation water was saved when the West Kootenay Power and Light Company undertook to supply all necessary electric power. Shortly after 1923 the dominion government acquired certain water rights on the watershed of Trout Creek, and constructed a dam on Crescent Lake. Even with this additional supply of irrigation water, the supply was frequently inadequate towards the end of the season.

FARM PUMPING PLANT

Eventually, negotiations with the Summerland Experimental Farm resulted in an agreement that the Experimental Farm would assign all its water rights and $10,000 to the Municipality of Summerland if the latter would provide a suitable pumping plant capable of supplying an all-season amount of irrigation water from Okanagan Lake. This was done, and the system of pumping irrigation water worked perfectly. Besides this an additional supply of water was obtained by constructing a dam on Canyon Creek, a tributary of Trout Creek. Another dam was built in 1940 - 1941 on Trout Creek at Thirsk. These two dams gave a reserve supply of irrigation water fairly close to Summerland.

Since then numerous improvements and changes have been made. Other modern equipment has been installed to bring Summerland's irrigation system up to modern standards.

I congratulate Summerland and the people who have helped develop the fine irrigation system we have now.

Paradise Flat School Bus Route To Be Extended

Summerland School Board has approved an extension of a bus route which will serve 14 children in Paradise Flat area. Following a delegation to the board meeting last week when Mr. Harvey Mitchell and Mrs. Julia Johnson asked that the line be extended, the board investigated the matter, and decided to have the bus turn right at the railroad tracks just near the KVR station, and proceed to Paradise Flat making a turn around a Sandy Fenwick's place. The action is subject to approval by the department of education. This extension has been sought several times before, but with fewer children involved, and consequently no change was made.

Premier Bennett Is Renominated

A celebration known as "May Bennett Day" was held in Kelowna on August 1 when all the Social Credit WAs in the Okanagan assembled to celebrate the fourth anniversary of Social Credit as the Government of British Columbia.

The afternoon session was ably presided over by Mrs. Florence Cresty of Kamloops who is the British Columbia president of Social Credit Auxiliaries. Mrs. Cresty was introduced to the audience by Mrs. Bennett, the wife of the Premier. In turn Mrs. Cresty introduced the W.A. presidents to the capacity audience seated in the beautiful hall in Kelowna's Aquatic Building, and later it fell to the lot of the Premier to introduce Mr. Gagliardi, the minister of highways, who reminisced about the conditions which existed when Social Credit took over four years ago. He made it clear that the B.C. government was a government of action as they faced a legacy of problems and reduced them to a minimum, in solving them to the satisfaction of the people of British Columbia.

Tea was served to upwards of five hundred people.

In the early evening Premier Bennett was nominated as the candidate to carry the Social Credit banner for South Okanagan, amidst a cheering crowd of his constituents and friends throughout the Valley. In accepting the nomination the candidate spoke for a few minutes to the people who had made it possible for him to hold high office as premier of B.C.

Later in the evening a public meeting was held, with an estimated 1,000 filling every nook and corner of the hall. On the platform for the occasion were J. J. Ladd, Mayor of Kelowna; Frank Richter, MLA for Similkameen; Allan Reed, MLA for Salmon Arm; Don Robinson, MLA for Lillooet; Hugh Shantz, MLA for North Okanagan; with the Hon. P. A. Gagliardi and the Premier, W. A. C. Bennett. The preliminaries having been disposed of by Mr. Owen, South Okanagan president, called up on the Constituency Secretary Mr. Northrop to make a presentation which he proceeded to do in a humorous speech which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The presentation was made to the Hon. Mr. Gagliardi and consisted of a suit hanger draped with a pair of trousers and named the "swinging trousers" indicating that the Minister's trousers were never off his person long enough to stop swinging a tribute to the dynamic energy of the man in charge of our Highway Transportation system.

Following this hilarity Mr. Gagliardi in a fitting tribute to the Premier introduced him as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Bennett gave an excellent address as he dealt with matters of government and pointed out that the present government in Victoria was catering to youth, advanced, and old age.

No election date was hinted, but legislation was forecast for the next session which would financially benefit every home owner in the province. Continuing the Premier said that the opposition groups did not want an election, in fact, they were scared of an election for the obvious fact that many of them would be missing from the legislature after the next election. He appealed to all Social Creditors to act as become true Social Creditors, and asked that those who hitherto opposed Social Credit consider the accomplishments of the present government and give them their support.

He said, the slogan for the next election will be "Progress not Politics," declaring that there would be enough opposition within the party itself to ensure fair and equitable legislation.

The huge birthday cake which sufficed for the large crowd was cut by the Premier and Mrs. Bennett, assisted by Mrs. Gagliardi and Mrs. Pendleton.

The proceedings closed with "God Save the Queen".

Orchard Notes

BY ALEC WATT
(District Horticulturist)

Codling Moth
Second brood codling moth larvae are now entering fruit. Some infestations are already alarmingly high. Reports from other parts of the valley all indicate an upswing in moth activity this year. Warm weather in May and the reduced spraying effort are combining to make the situation dangerous for any who might have omitted a second brood DDT spray. Incidentally, it is still not too late to apply a second brood DDT spray as worms will be entering the fruit for several weeks yet — particularly if the weather remains warm in August and early September.

Mites
Most European Red Mite infestations have now declined and it is difficult to find any quantity of Red Mite in the orchards at present. Entomologists have noted this decline each year and have come to expect it around this time of the summer. However, other species of mites are still active. Among these are the Two Spotted Mites and the Yellow Mites. This group normally does more damage in late summer than earlier. This was the case last year when a heavy infestation occurred on McIntosh and Delicious towards the end of August. Appearance of orange and yellow patches on the lower surface of the leaves and a yellowing of the foliage on the inside of the tree are the first signs of these pests. If these mites are detected early they can be controlled by spraying with either Aramite, or Malathion. However, late detection means that a great deal of harm has already been done to the finish of the fruit and to make matters worse, control sprays cannot be applied because of the danger of unsightly or toxic spray residue on the fruit.

High School Band Penticton, Friday

A program of entertaining summer band music especially selected for outdoors will be presented this Friday evening in the Penticton Bandshell. It will be a varied evening's entertainment designed to move quickly and give a series of numbers that everyone will enjoy.

The Summerland group have 102 members during the regular school year and were well received at the Provincial Band and Orchestra Conference held in Victoria last May. While at the coast, the group was given a civic reception and entertained at a civic luncheon by the mayor of Vancouver.

A number of novelty pieces are arranged for the Penticton concert on Friday and some of the band members who have appeared through the valley will present solos. The snappy appearance of the group along with the majorities has been well received in the past.

CCF Nominee Speaker At Party Picnic Here

CCF members of the South Okanagan, meeting at the annual picnic on Sunday afternoon at the Crescent Beach home of Mrs. M. E. Collas sent a message of greeting and appreciation of work done to O. L. Jones, federal MP for this riding.

Following boating and swimming some 40 or more adults and children heard Walter Ratzlaff, recently nominated provincial candidate for this riding, speak.

The candidate is a Kelowna school teacher who has taught since 1927. He said he became interested in the CCF movement when attending University in Vancouver and working with the CCF in Burnaby, in organization work. After coming to the Okanagan Mr. Jones asked him to continue with CCF activities in the Okanagan.

He said if Premier W. A. C. Bennett had announced an election date he would not be in the field as a candidate at the present time. Since no announcement was forthcoming the CCF party proceeded to nominate candidates in all areas.

Mr. Ratzlaff said that although the CCF manifesto may have changed somewhat the humane principles behind the movement are the same as they always have been.

This was his first speech since accepting candidacy.

Jack Snowsell of Kelowna, an executive member for South Okanagan, introduced and thanked the speaker.

After the address a picnic on the lawn concluded the event.

The Summerland Review

Summerland Golden Jubilee 1906 - 1956

Vol. 11, No. 33. WEST SUMMERLAND, B.C. WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 15, 1956 5c per copy

According To The Mood

By Sid Godber

There's a believe it or not, about 25,000 printed words in this edition of The Summerland Review. That's an approximate, could be more, could be less, but the point I'm trying to get over is that it takes a lot of words to make up even a small paper. A goodly proportion of those 25,000 words are picked up by ear, then set down on paper by the scribe. From the typewriter the copy goes to the linotype machine and is translated into raised impressions on lead slugs. It takes about 150 of these lead slugs to make up a column. To make corrections from the proof the type has to be read, upside down.

Elementary stuff... sure... but what a wide margin for error. In a lifetime of newspapering I've never ceased to marvel at the comparatively few mistakes which do get through, but usually the mistakes which do get into print are lusus.

Gremlins haunt every print shop and invariably they are possessed of a malicious sense of humor and most of them, judging by what they do in the way of transposing lines and letters, appear to be prurient-minded. For example they laugh themselves silly when they come upon the word bridge, and change it to read bride and even hardened printers blush at the result.

And it is amazing how the Gremlins can transpose lines and yet leave them reading sense like the transposition we had in The Review last week, but which fortunately was caught in the page proof.

Remember that story about the rattlesnake being discovered near a pea patch?

Well, when the Gremlins got through with it, it came out in cold print to the effect that Mrs. K. M. Blagborne, out picking peas was surprised to find all coiled up in the cool long grass beside the pea patch, not a rattlesnake but her husband.

The story when straightened out read that "Mrs. K. M. Blagborne was surprised when Mr. Blagborne came out to scythe and found, all coiled up in the long cool grass right beside the pea patch, a rattlesnake.

The error rather fascinated me. I've always been a bit hipped about the power of words and here, to me at least, was an example of word power.

Mrs. Blagborne, or any other understanding woman for that matter, may be mildly surprised to suddenly come upon friend husband lying in the long cool grass beside the pea patch. "That man gets lazier every day," the lady might say, to herself and go on with her pea picking. But for a woman to come upon her husband all COILED up in the long, cool grass — ugh! There seems to be something repulsive about a husband lying all coiled up anywhere, any place, anytime.

Anyway I'm glad that we caught the transposition and got the rattlesnake all coiled up beside the pea patch instead of one of our highly respected citizens.

Remarkable though how words can paint mental pictures. That word "coiled" regardless almost of how it is used is a shuddery type of word. And some innocent enough words can be made shuddery by the way they're mated. There's nothing repulsive about the word triangle or in the mental picture of the clean lines of a triangle but when Edward Kingling took the word triangle and used it to describe a snake, moving in "OOZING TRIANGLES" then the mental picture of those oozy triangles becomes almost obscene.

HERE WE GO AGAIN

Dunno whether Premier WAC Bennett expected to surprise anyone with his announcement Monday that there would be a general election in the fall, but I doubt if anyone, not even his political opponents, were surprised. The premier has been telegraphing this particular punch for weeks and weeks and weeks.

I've got a dollar that says the Soered will go back with an increased majority.

Reeve Will Take A Busman's Holiday

Reeve F. E. Atkinson leaves on Saturday to fly to Hamilton, Ontario, where he will be a delegate from the Okanagan Municipal Valley Association at the four day convention of the Canadian Association of Mayors and Municipalities.

Reeve F. E. Atkinson leaves on Saturday to fly to Hamilton, Ontario, where he will be a delegate from the Okanagan Municipal Valley Association at the four day convention of the Canadian Association of Mayors and Municipalities.

Mr. Atkinson, Officer-in-charge of the Fruit and Vegetable Processing Lab at the Summerland Experimental Farm, expects to be away three weeks and while in the east will visit the Campbell Soup Co., at New Toronto, the American Can Co. plant at Chatham, Campbell Soup, Libby's and H. J. Heinz Co.'s at Leamington, Stokely Van-Camp at Essex, and Green Giant Canning Co. at Tecumseh.

At Harrow, Ontario, he will go to the Experimental Station and Clark's plant.

In the state of Michigan he is to visit four cherry processing areas, and to meet with Dr. Kenworthy of Michigan State University at East Lansing. Cherry processors at Benton Harbor and Grand Rapids are on the itinerary, as well as other stops in the Niagara peninsula at Vineland Experimental Station and the new food processing laboratory there. The Reeve returns by plane September 1.

AWARDED BURSARY. Miss Sheila Bennison has been awarded an 100% unrestricted bursary of $100 for further education.

Will Release High School Students For Mac Picking

ROYALTY of the Penticton Peach Festival, (centre), with her gracious princesses, Miss Patricia Eagles (left) and Miss Joyce Lunn. The three day event opens tomorrow and Queen Val Vedette IX, Miss Maureen Gibson continues Friday and Saturday.

It is expected that co-operation of the Summerland School Board, District 77, in the matter of allowing high school boys to work in the orchards if a crisis arises at the peak of the Mac picking season will ease the labor situation considerably in Summerland.

At a meeting called Monday night in the municipal council chamber by local BCFGA officers and W. J. Beattie, labor placement officer, discussion took place regarding immediate and future needs in the local labor field.

Present were John Holman, chairman local BCFGA, John Caldwell secretary and H. J. Wells, governor B.C. Tree Fruits, Ltd.; W. J. Beattie, labor placement officer; Reeve F. E. Atkinson, representing the council; T. B. Young, president Summerland Rotary Club; N. O. Solly, Kiwanian; K. L. Boothe, president, Summerland Board of Trade; Nat May, president, Summerland Branch, Canadian Legion.

Reeve Atkinson and Mr. Holman went as a delegation to explain to the school board, in session at the same time. They returned reporting co-operation if and when the need arises.

It was stressed that only students of grade 9, 10, 11 and 12, who will be picking will be allowed out. Registration and check will be kept through Mr. Beattie and the high school principal, A. K. Macleod. Students living, at home present no accommodation difficulties, another point in favor of this scheme.

The labor officer mentioned that high school boys who helped last year are improving all the time and doing a commendable job.

Opinion of service club representatives was to carry along with this plan until further need is felt, then if necessary, they would contact members of their club asking for assistance.

Mr. Beattie is anxious to obtain names of anyone able to help even for short periods, and the times when they will be available. In an ad appearing elsewhere in this paper he is asking for registrations.

It was thought there was some labor leakage among growers who could help others in their off times.

That there will not be too much difficulty in harvesting peaches and pears was the consensus of opinion. Pears are expected to start August 17.

Members of the BCFGA committee promised all help possible in recruiting pickers.

Large Poultry Farm For Paradise Flats Acreage

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Grazley, formerly of Alberta, are planning to establish a poultry farm in Paradise Flat and are renting 15 acres from the municipal council on a ten year lease.

Acreage involved is on the east side of the Bangma property. One acre will be subdivided and sold to them for a residence they plan to build. The remaining 14 acres and available water rented at $140 per year. The acre with the residence will have water, and two other acres have definite irrigation. The water situation will be reviewed by the council each year. Over a period of time the water supply may be improved.

Survey costs will be divided 50-50 between the council and the lessees.

Suggestion at Tuesday's council meeting was that two crops of alfalfa might be grown on the irrigated part of the land each spring.

Letters Are Seldom Lost

It wasn't in the dead letter office. It was in the Armstrong postoffice for nine years, (we think).

Anyway Bert Bryden got a letter from the postoffice at West Summerland dated Armstrong, August 5, 1956. It was re-addressed to Archie Bryden, KVR Road, Summerland, and had been posted in Penticton on December 22, 1947. In the first place it was addressed to Archie Bryden at Armstrong where, presumably, it has been ever since.

It wasn't for Bert Bryden and he doesn't know of an Archie, although the spelling of Bryden is the same as his own.

The real payoff was that the envelope containing a Christmas card, had "Eight Cents Due" stamped on it.

Annual Kiwanis Street Carvinal Again Success

The Kiwanis Carnival on Saturday night with perfect weather for outdoor entertainment was a great success with a large crowd participating.

Music of the Summerland High School Band was an invitation to anyone to attend as it played early in the evening.

Jerry Hallquist was general convener of the event with a great many sub-committees.

The electric coffee-maker was won by Wm. Grant of Penticton; the pop-up toaster by Jim Clark of Keremeos; and the electric fry-pan by A. D. Powrie, KVR Road.

The chrome table and chair set, was won by Jack Bennison of Vancouver, visiting at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennison, to whom he presented it.

Mrs. J. Retzner, Mrs. Frank McDonald and Mrs. W. A. Laidlaw convened the Kiwanis home-cooking stall, and the Bennett girls lent their horses and looked after pony rides for the children.

Doug Campbell was convener for the corn roast, a popular Continued on page 8.

T. B. Young Installed Rotary Head

T. B. Young was installed as president of Summerland Rotary Club by district governor John Coe of Penticton in a ceremony held last night on the S S Scamoux, Penticton.

Installation took place following a dinner attended by Summerland Rotarians and their wives, and Oliver members and their wives.

Other officers installed were R. S. McLachlan, vice-president; R. F. Angus, secretary; B. A. Tingley, treasurer; and Harvey L. Wilson, Les Rumball and A. D. Coggan, directors.

Mrs. K. L. Boothe and her daughter, Miss Lynna Boothe entertained charmingly in a costume duet from "The Chocolate Soldier". Miss Boothe played a piano solo from Mozart.

Later guests from Summerland and Penticton joined the party for dancing.

Register To Vote

Election Day is September 19. If you wish to vote and are not registered you must register before Tuesday, August 16, at one of the following places: West Summerland postoffice; Peachland postoffice; Naramata postoffice.

Entomologists Go To Montreal

On Monday Dr. James Marshall, Dr. M. D. Proverbs, Dr. Don Chant, Norman Anderson and C. V. G. Morgan of the Entomology Laboratory left to attend the 10th International Congress of Entomology being held at Montreal August 17-25.

Mrs. Morgan accompanied her husband and will attend the congress and visit relatives in the east.

Enlargement Peach Orchard Park Planned

Popularity of Peach Orchard Park is causing the municipal council to make plans to enlarge facilities there before next summer and to engage a full-time caretaker for the months it is used. There is a part time caretaker now.

At Tuesday's council meeting thought was given to extending water stand pipes and lights and to charging campers $1 per night. Councillor H. J. Barkliff said 40 tents were up one night, and another evening Reeve F. E. Atkinson had counted 37. The Park resembles a little village most nights, and installation of the new washrooms has improved accommodation.

Demolition of Ellison Hall was considered, and the use of the material in it for municipal purposes. There was debate regarding roofing the basement so that it could still be used as a rifle range by the cadets.

Dept. of Education Refuses To Allow Bus Route Extension

The Department of Education has refused to agree to an extension of the Giant's Head bus route towards Paradise Flat on a shareable basis as there is only one rural home more than two miles from the present nearest bus stop at the CPR station.

Since any extra mileage cost would now have to be borne entirely by the school district, the school board is not making any change in this bus route.

By O. L. JONES

Last month I spoke on behalf of veterans who are settled at Cawston and who suffered severe frost damage last year. An error crept into the Hansard report instead of Cawston the town of Creston was referred to. I had drawn the situation to the attention of the Minister of Veterans' Affairs some time ago. The department has taken certain steps to overcome the difficulties faced by veterans in this particular project.

We are now drawing towards the end of a very lengthy, busy session probably one of the stormiest in Canadian history, especially during the pipeline debate when every rule in the book was broken. In the oppressive humid heat of Ottawa one can understand the urgent haste to terminate the session. In two days we passed more government legislation than the previous two months, even the controversial Small Loans Act and the excise tax on periodicals passed the house with little debate.

The bill providing equal pay for women doing equal work as men passed with the full support of the whole house, although one or two members wondered if there will be discrimination because employers might favor male employees if they had to pay the women the same rates.

One bill did cause some discussion, this bill allows the Postmaster General to transfer mail delivery contracts for an unexpired term. In other words, should a contractor decide for some reason or other to give up his contract before the terminal date or should the contract holder die the Postmaster General has the power to transfer such a contract without calling for tenders. At first it sounded very simple because the Postmaster General in talking about the bill kept referring to rural mail carriers whose contracts run from $1,000 to $4,000 a year but on being questioned in committee later it turned out that some of these contracts run into hundreds of thousands of dollars and the aggregate of the contracts for instance, in the city of Montreal, amounts to one million dollars. Following this information opposition members raised objection to granting such powers to one individual and it was felt that opened a door to the old-time patronage that this particular department indulged in some years ago. On the other hand the situation will not be changed as the practice has been going on for generations. The new bill merely legalizes what the Postmaster General has been doing all along. The Indian Act was again revised bringing it a little more up to date but it still leaves the Indian as a ward of the government which some members feel makes second class citizens of these people. Mr. Fulton suggested that the Indians be given the right to appeal to the courts against all cabinet and ministerial order affecting their rights or interests. Mr. Pickersgill agreed with Mr. Fulton. He claims that they already have that right. It is still doubtful whether they have or not and it was to clarify that situation that Mr. Fulton wanted the right to appeal included in the act to remove any doubt. However, the majority turned down the proposition. The act also extends the Indians' liquor rights. They now can have access to liquor stores in exactly the same way as the white members of society. Several criticized this action on the grounds that the Indians were not yet ready to have the full freedom of access to liquor as it was claimed they cannot take care of themselves when drinking. Colin Cameron said that Indians could look after themselves as well as white men but the reason they drink to excess he claimed was owing to their bad housing conditions, lack of education and in general the type of living they have to live on the reserve. This particular clause does not automatically grant the Indian full liquor privileges as the matter has to be approved by each provincial government, the responsible administrators of all liquor laws in Canada. This was the most contentious part of the bill which was carried with a good majority.

The Unemployment Insurance Act was changed with a full endorsement of all parties enabling the commission to bring Canada's 72,000 commercial fishermen under insurance protection. They also reinstated for insurance bene-

Penticton Must Act . . . or be sorry

CONSTRUCTION of a Penticton bypass road from Eckhart Avenue bridge through to the foot of Kruger's Hill would, in the opinion of The Summerland Review, do far more harm, economically speaking, to Penticton than the saving in time, gas and oil and tires to valley motorists would warrant.

Penticton, we believe, is becoming more and more dependent upon the tourist dollar and anything which would reduce the flow of those dollars is a matter of urgent and right-ful concern to the people of that community. The suggestion thrown out by Summerland's Reeve that a bypass could be constructed and left unmarked, so that valley folk could use it, while tourists could continue to follow the existing Highway 97 into and through Penticton, strikes us as being an excellent suggestion in theory, but hardly the answer to the problem. Sooner or later a bypass would be incorporated as a part of Highway 97 and labelled as such and, inevitably, a large percentage of gypsying tourists would zoom past Penticton to the detriment of that community's economy.

The answer to the problem lies, in our opinion, in the willingness of Penticton to provide, not a bypass, but an alternate route which would enable through traffic to avoid traversing the centre of the city and also the school zone, but a route which would also give tourists opportunity to see what Penticton has to offer.

However, the suggestion contained in a recent editorial in The Penticton Herald, to the effect that valley folk travelling north and south could avoid going through the heart of Penticton by following the old Fairview road through the Penticton Indian Reserve, using either Hastings Avenue, Winnipeg Street or Eckhardt Avenue, is to say the least, a lame brain suggestion.

The Herald, forsooth, is surprised and considers it significant that few valley folk choose to follow this route, described by The Herald as an "existing bypass". Says the editorial: "Apparently they prefer to pass through the city despite their protestations." It could be that The Herald editorial writer, writes in ignorance, not having travelled the tortuous route in question, not having jounced over pot holes and over gravel washboard and through clouds of dust.

But what we find most disturbing is the inference contained in the editorial that now Highway 97, from Kruger's hill to the Forks, within Penticton's boundaries, is being re-surfaced that the matter of the bypass is settled and now Penticton doesn't have to lift a finger to alleviate a serious and growing bottleneck caused by passage of Highway 97 through the heart of a busy and congested city.

The Herald's attitude appears to be that danger of the government constructing a bypass is now far removed and it couldn't care less about through travellers. Let them avoid the city if they want, they can do so by taking to the dust and the washboard and who cares if they're stalled at the railway crossing, immediately south of the CPR depot, certainly not The Herald.

The Herald seems to have forgotten that there are strong arguments in favor of a bypass road from the foot of Kruger's Hill to Eckhardt Avenue bridge. Such a bypass would be to the advantage of every community in the valley with the exception of Penticton and, of course, it would be to the advantage of all through travellers not interested in Penticton.

The arguments against such a bypass are based solely on the economic well-being of Penticton. The Review feels that some thought and some consideration should be given to Penticton's situation and that other communities in the Okanagan should ask themselves how they would like it if the main highway were to be so drastically diverted from their communities in the manner advocated for Penticton.

If the Penticton bypass is constructed as is proposed, we have no doubt that Penticton would suffer. We do not believe Summerland is particularly anxious to hurt a sister community, but one thing is certain if The Penticton Herald's editorial thumb-nose attitude is indicative of the feeling of the people of Penticton on the matter, then; we can only say let their misfortunes be upon their own heads.

To keep from being bypassed Penticton must provide an alternate route, and a good one, enabling through traffic to miss school zones and congested areas. If Penticton doesn't see fit to act in this regard, there is no doubt that the people of the valley will unite in demanding construction of the short stretch of road from Eckhardt Avenue bridge to Kruger's Hill, isolating Penticton, but making travel up and down the valley speedier and easier.

No peach which packs more than 96 to the box can be graded as No. 1 fruit. In several instances the inspectors have found the cases going as high as 102 being shipped out as No. 1. While 96 is the minimum size any No. 1 peaches may be packed, this does not apply to all varieties. Some of the larger varieties call for a minimum of 84. Following are some of the chief varieties grown in this district with the respective minimum sizes for No. 1 grade: Alexander, 96; Art Beauty, 96; Belle of Georgia, 84; Greenboro, 90; Hale's Early, Imperial, Sneed, all 96; White Cling, 84; Yellow Cling, 90; Dewey, Early and Late Crawford, Fitzgerald, Triumph, Yellow St. John, all 96; Elberta, 90.

Mid-Week Message

He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings thou shalt trust; his truth shall be thy shield and buckler. (Psalm 91:4.) Read Psalm 91:1-4 or Ephesians 2:4-10.

As a storm approached, I watched a hen and her chicks. In a few seconds they were all quietly concealed under her sheltering wings.

God's goodness is as real as that. He is ready to give us the protection of His love and mercy. His goodness finds expression in a companionship which makes us unafraid in the face of danger or disaster.

Jimmy was ready to go home after attending his friend's birthday party. His friend said: "It is dark. Will you be afraid to go home alone? Shall I ask someone to go with you?" "No, thanks," answered Jimmy, "I'm not afraid. My father will be waiting for me up the road." He said this with confidence. He knew his father would not break his promise to meet him.

God's goodness is like that. By accepting the promises of God, the merciful Father, we find security in faith. We no longer have cause for fear.

PRAYER

O God, Thou art our Father whose faithfulness is from everlasting to everlasting. Grant us faith to trust that the wings of Thy love enfold us. Help us to come to Thee. In the name of Christ, who loved us and gave His life for our redemption. Amen.

Following is the local Horticultural News Letter as reported August 6:
Harvesting of cannerly apricots is practically completed. Fisher peaches have been picked and the growers are starting Rochesters. The main harvest of V peaches is not yet ready but picking should start on these in about a week. Thus the season remains around two weeks ahead of last year. Sizing of all tree fruits was slowed down severely during the late July hot spell. Quite a few more peach trees, mainly Valiant, started wilting back due to winter injury during that time. Sizing of Bartlett pears was slowed and is just picking up now.

Second brood Codling Moth entries are being found. Some orchards have quite large numbers of entries already. European Red Mite populations have declined during the past 10 days. However, Rust and Yellow Mite are showing up in greater numbers as the summer progresses. High temperatures during the latter part of July combined with mite injury to produce a scorching and blackening of the foliage on Bartlett and Anjou pears. Apple Mildew and Scab are difficult to find this year. However, Fire Blight is showing up increasingly each day.

Easy Recipe For Summer

Here is a delectable dessert that is quick and easy to prepare and ideal for these hot summer days.

- 3 cups raspberries
 - 18 (1/4 lb.) marshmallows
 - 1/2 cup icing sugar
 - 2 teaspoons lemon juice
 - 1/2 cup coconut
 - 1/2 cup whipping cream
- Wash raspberries and place in refrigerator to chill. Cut each marshmallow into eight pieces or use 100 of the small marshmallows, and dust with icing sugar to keep pieces separate. Just before serving, whip the cream. Combine raspberries and lemon juice, then add coconut and separated marshmallows. Fold in whipped cream and serve in sherbert glasses. Yields six servings.

"When you buy something for a song, look out for the accompaniment."

Harvesting of early potatoes has been completed in the Westbank area. Tomato harvesting is in progress throughout the area.

Warm weather appears settled. In the Penticton area early peaches, including Redhaven, Spotlight and Fisher, are now moving and Rochesters are starting. Some V's are expected next week. A substantial drop of peaches is occurring in a few orchards. Clapp's Favorite pears will be ready this weekend, and some Bartletts are expected to move about the middle of this month. Size of pears is extremely variable at present. Size of apples on trees in good vigor is good, especially on McInosh. The prune crop so far shows good promise although a drop is occurring.

Little change has developed since the last News Letter with regard to the insect situation. However, a mite, tentatively identified as McDaniele, has caused serious damage in a couple of orchards and may cause more concern before the season is over.

READY-MADE PLANT SITTERS — It is no longer necessary to find a "sitter" for your plants when you go away for a holiday. All you need is a polythene bag. This will keep the plant sufficiently moist for as long as two weeks. Water the plant thoroughly, then slip the pot into the polythene bag, tying the top of it around the stem of the plant. This leaves the flowers and leaves free to breathe while the polythene bag holds moisture in the soil.

Bob Miller Marries In Kelowna Rites

Gladioli and fern made a lovely setting for the late afternoon wedding in Kelowna, August 2, of Miss Gertrude Miller, of Kelowna and Robert Miller of Trout Creek.

The wedding took place in Evangel Tabernacle with Rev. Cameron Stevenson officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Miller of Kelowna. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Miller of Summerland. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a full-length gown of lace and tulle over satin. Rhinestones enhanced the lace bodice which featured an Elizabethan collar and lily-point sleeves. Tiny buttons trimmed the back. The full hooped skirt featured a wide inset of lace below which the skirt was daintily pleated. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a tiny crown of rhinestones and sequins. She carried a bouquet of yellow Elizabeth roses centered by three orchids.

Miss Dorine Miller was her sister's maid-of-honor. Miss Vera Miller, sister of the groom, and Miss Erica Steinke were bridesmaids.

The maid of honor wore a gown of turquoise net over taffeta, topped by a small cape. Her shower bouquet was composed of white gladioli.

The bridesmaids wore similarly styled gowns, Miss Miller in pink and Miss Stenke in blue. They carried bouquets of gladioli. Their headdresses were white flowers and tulle to match each dress.

Groomsmen were Maynard Embree, the groom's cousin; Ben Arndt, and Leonard Miller.

Ushering were Bill Stratton and Don Gale. Mrs. Stevenson played wedding music and Aubrey Brooks sang "Till Walk Beside You", during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony about 150 guests attended the reception held in the church annex. Pink dahlias graced the bride's table, which was centred by a three tiered wedding cake decorated in white with yellow roses.

After the honeymoon spent on Vancouver Island and Victoria Mr. and Mrs. Miller will take up residence in Summerland.

Miss Margaret Johnston Honored At Shower Party

Miss Margaret Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Johnston was feted with a lovely party on Wednesday evening. On the occasion she was showered with many miscellaneous daintily wrapped gifts, a prelude to her marriage which is to take place in Vancouver next month.

Mrs. Lorne Perry and Mrs. M. C. Robinson were co-hostesses of the event which was held at the home of the Perrys.

Parcels were given in a large box which had been decorated amusingly by Mrs. Wim Snelgrove, a visitor in Summerland from Vancouver.

Mrs. W. R. Powell was asked to pour the tea and coffee at refreshment time from a flower-decked buffet table. The honoree cut her shower cake which was decorated in white and pink.

Invited were the mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. R. A. Johnston, her sister-in-law and niece, Mrs.

R. M. Johnston and Miss Judy Johnston from Mission; Mrs. W. R. Powell, Mrs. J. W. Mitchell, Mrs. C. P. Evans, Mrs. C. G. Bennest, Mrs. W. R. Boyd, Mrs. Walter Wright, Mrs. A. W. Mrs. Nelson Home

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Young and Mrs. Isabelle Nelson returned on Friday from a three months' trip to England and Scotland, France and Italy, having enjoyed all of it.

Mrs. Nelson visited Carluke in Scotland to see her grandmother's house in which she was born, and was interested to see the house where her father was born near there.

In Edinburgh they visited the parents of Mrs. W. A. Laidlaw of Summerland, meeting her sister and children, all of whom were pleased to hear news from the Okanagan. They were in many parts of Scotland and into the Highlands.

At Stratford-on-Avon they spent a day with Miss Hookham who drove them through the delightful countryside and they renewed acquaintance with E. R. Hookham.

In London they saw the Queen riding at the spectacular Trooping of the Colors ceremony.

Devon and Kent were particularly beautiful to them and they went to Torquay and other famous resorts.

Blue of the Mediterranean is not exaggerated at all, Mrs. Nelson reports, and one of their well-remembered days was that in which they went to the Isle of Capri and had tea in Grace Fields' tea-room there. They were fortunate enough to be there on a day when Miss Fields came to the tea-room herself and graciously gave her autograph and posed for photographers.

Here

Summerland Macs did their arch rivals the Penticton Red Sox a heap big favor on Sunday by knocking off the third place Oliver OBC's 11-10 to keep the Oliver club from replacing the Sox in second spot.

As the league moves into the home stretch the Kamloops Elks are still well out in front. Penticton and Oliver are in a neck and neck race for second place. Summerland Macs are in third spot with the suddenly revitalized Kelowna Orioles treading on their heels. Trailing the league is Princeton.

Upset of the week end's OMBL play was Kelowna Orioles surprise 3-2 win over the league leading Kamloops Okonots.

At Summerland's Memorial Athletic Park the visiting OBC's made a spirited attempt to come from behind after the Macs had made early hay garnering their 11 runs in the first four innings. Merry-go-round started in the second when the Macs added four runs to the one tallied in the first inning. A free wheeling third inning saw the Macs romp five more runners around the circuit.

The winning run was tallied in the fourth. Crisante poled out a double and pitcher Eyre won his own ball game by clouting a three bagger to drive in what proved the winning run.

OBC's trailing 11-4 got down to cases, closed the gap with two runs in the fifth, a single in the sixth and then staged a three run rally in the seventh to make the score 11-10.

Ont. Shamateurs Thinking Of Turning Pro

BY GEORGE STOLL

At a meeting held some time ago in Sudbury, Ont. representatives of the Ontario Senior A loop also arena officials, press, radio, and television personnel discussed the possibility of forming an outright professional hockey league. Max Silverman and Jim Hendy coach of the Cleveland Barons.

They were: all clubs would have furnished certain facts which answered many questions and doubt by a club would own the right to a reserve list of their own, where a certain number of players. A club would have the right of sponsorship of one other club, a working agreement would be made with existing pro clubs. Pay rolls would not be any higher than at present. Steps would be taken to prevent certain types of players auctioning themselves off to the highest bidder.

A much longer schedule could be played due to the fact that the clubs would not have to be eliminated as is the case now in Allan cup competition. There would be play-offs on an all Ontario pro championship, to be followed up with games against the winners of the Quebec pro loop.

Both the clubs and also the arenas concerned throughout Ontario would fare better financially. No one arena would sit idle at a time when the fans like their hockey the best, the season would last at least six weeks longer. All clubs would get younger players, which would mean faster and better hockey.

Mr. Clarence Campbell assured those present that the salary limits could be kept very close to what players were getting in the so-called amateur league.

There is one other way which I will write about next week.

Botanists Find Many Rare Plants In Exploration of Okanagan Area

All sorts of activities are going on in British Columbia in the summertime that one hears little about.

On Monday three men from the Canada department of Agriculture, botany and plant pathology unit, were busy in a cabin at West Summerland Auto Camp, arranging specimens of rare plants that they had collected last week in the Cathedral Lakes district. The party was headed by J. A. Calder, botanist, assisted by Jack Parmelee, mycologist, and Roy Taylor of Olds, Alberta, who attends university in Montreal.

With the group on the trip was S. R. Cannings, official Experimental Farm photographer who recorded flora and fungi in pictures.

Garney Willis, father of Tom Willis, superintendent of the range station at Kamloops was the guide. Dr. W. H. B. Munn went in with Mr. Willis and was with the expedition for the first two days.

All of the men were high in praise of the hospitality of Herb Clark whose cabins they used.

The scientists were here for several reasons. One is that B.C. is more poorly represented than other provinces in federal plant collections. More than one specimen is collected and these plants are filed in the department of agriculture herbarium at Ottawa. They are exchanged with other countries in Asia and Europe since the department has a worldwide collection.

The botany department identifies plants, native and cultivated varieties. The plant pathology department works with plant diseases.

It was noted that Saskatoon bushes hereabouts have rust parasites of the same type that causes rust in wheat. It affects the berries and plants.

It is a 14 mile hike from base camp to the Lake area. They drove to The Forks, nine miles from the main highway between Keremeos and Hedley, then started to climb on foot. Four pack horses took in their equipment.

The height at the Lakes is 7,000 feet, the surrounding mountains go up to 8,600 feet. This is interesting country and the extreme northern limit of the Cascade Range coming up from the States. Some plants grow here that do not grow anywhere else in Canada.

Some of the rare plants found were Lewisia pygmaea; Eriogonum schroelimum; Saxifrage adscendens; Phacelia sericea; Gentiana glauca; and Dodecatheon dentatum, the latter a pure white shooting star.

All of the men claimed that the Cathedral Lakes district is the most beautiful part of southern British Columbia. Mr. Parmelee declared, "It's a Hollywood photographer's Paradise."

Mr. Taylor, the prairie man, still had reserves which he kept for Alberta scenery.

In 1953 and 1954 the scientists were working on similar surveys in other parts of B.C.

Preceding them at the camp was Wayne Fry, a geologist from Ottawa, who was studying volcanic ash, and collecting fossilized plants.

Historically Speaking

Nan Solly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Solly, and granddaughter of pioneer residents, Mrs. H. A. Solly and the late Acheadon Solly, first resident rector of St. Stephen's Anglican Church writes in an easy style of:

EARLY DAYS
It has been almost fifty years since our little town of Summerland was first officially recognized as a full-fledged municipality. Incorporation Day was December 1, 1906. Since that day great progress has been made in the town's development. I think it would be very interesting if we could go back half a century in time and see how it all began.

BUTTER BY EVENING
The first pioneers to settle in Summerland were James Gartrell and his family who travelled over a rough mountain trail in a covered wagon from Stratford, a town in Ontario. Many stories are told of their adventures on this trail. One tells how, after milking the cows in the morning the milk was poured into pails which were attached to the bottom of the wagon. By evening the jolts caused by the rough road would change the milk to butter. Another tells of how, when crossing the Columbia River, everything and everybody that could lighten the load by floating or swimming was made to do so. "Everyone", including Mrs. Gartrell who, while holding on to her horse with one hand, clutched in the other her youngest son, Fred, who was then only a baby. Mr. Gartrell settled in Trout Creek, procured a pre-emption from the government and built his home, the barn of which is still standing. He proceeded to clear some of his land, and besides a vegetable garden and a patch of grain, he planted some apple trees. On a trip back to Ontario he brought more fruit trees along with the Valley's first angle worms. A trapper sent him some peach stones from Washington and he procured other fruit off these trees to several all mining camps and so it was that James Gartrell raised the first commercial orchard in the Okanagan Valley.

WILDLIFE ABOUNDED
The wildlife at this time in Summerland's history was much more plentiful than it is today. During a bad winter a young pioneer Englishman riding towards Trout Creek considered it great sport to chase the great number of hungry deer which had gathered along the roadsides. At the homesteads these deer proved a great menace as they liked to eat the new shoots of the fruit trees. One family is reported to have lost count after shooting 300 of the animals. As they could not possibly eat all the meat they killed they cooked it and fed it to the hogs. At this time there was a huge flock of Trumpeter Swans on the lake. Later they were noticed to be dying of some form of paralysis. A dead specimen was sent to Victoria for analysis and it was discovered that they had been eating the lead gun pellets which had fallen into the water when the people were hunting or shooting at clay pigeons.

ENTERTAINMENT
There was plenty of hard work in those days hewing a livelihood out of a new country but with all the hardships they found time to enjoy things too. Most of them could manufacture a tune, be it on the mouth organ, fiddle, or the accordion, and they had wonderful times dancing to these instruments at their respective homes. They laughed at and with each other and held concerts. On one memorable occasion the concert was held in a tent. The chairman seated on the shabby stage became so engrossed in the program that he edged his chair more and more forward until he fell off, headfirst into a pile of sawdust. These early people often organized fishing trips into the hills. One party managed to stow away everything on the pack horses except two enormous pots of jam. They couldn't possibly leave these behind so they slung the two pails on a wire over the horse's back. The horse had not been fully broken and he liked neither his rider nor the two jam pots. As a result he began to act up, bucking, kicking, and running between the other members of the party. Somewhere during the performance both his rider and the lids of the jam pots fell, and strawberry jam was generously splattered on everybody and everything that happened to be in the way.

LAND TAKEN UP
By this time quite a few more people had arrived in Summerland. Besides the Gartrells the main landholders were the Garnetts, the Dunadons, the Lloyd-Jones, the Barclays, the Darkes, and Dune Woods. Then, from the less inviting climate of Manitoba, came J. M. Robinson. He was an educated man who had a remarkable personality. He immediately fell in love with the Okanagan and it was he that really brought about the production of fruit in the Valley. After a successful excursion in Peachland he moved to Summerland and proceeded to make it into a thriving community. As he desired to populate Summerland with hand-picked people he sold to many famous personages that were mostly Sirs, Honourables, Senators, or Counts. From the prairie came a large number of settlers while many people migrated from Great Britain. Often an enthusiastic newcomer would act as an unwitting salesman when writing to his friends.

Summerland's first school began in the year 1903, and at the end of that year had a total enrolment of 24 pupils. By 1908 there were three other primary schools in operation. Later, however, they were all united into one central school. In 1906 the main building of Okanagan College was erected. In the following year classes were begun and dormitories were provided for the out-of-town boy students.

SERVICES INSTALLED
Summerland was the first town on the Okanagan Lake to have electric lights. It was also early in the development of a telephone system. Although there were four ministers residing in the town only one denomination boasted a church. It was situated where the Anglican cemetery is now located. The reason that only one church had been built was readily explained by the public. The town was growing so fast that they were afraid that as soon as the building would be erected it would be too small.

Then, on December 1, 1906, the District Municipality of Summerland was incorporated and in the following month J. M. Robinson was elected as the town's first reeve.

ALWAYS AN ACTIVE PLACE
By this time Summerland participated in a great number of sports. Her baseball team was not beaten all season while both her football and cricket teams ranked high. There was also an active tennis club, a canoe club and a Civilians' Rifle Club, while in the winter skating, hockey and curling were enjoyed on the ice of the reservoir. In August, 1908, the first Summerland Review was published. The advertisements in these early

How To Remove Ink From Carpets

Reviews are particularly interesting, especially where prices are listed. For instance, in those days a man's suit could be bought for only six dollars.

Since those pioneer days Summerland has grown and flourished until there is now a population of almost 4,000 people. Throughout the years the main industry has continued to be fruit-growing and we now boast about 450 orchards. Due to extensive irrigation a dry desert has been turned into a veritable Garden of Eden. A fine community spirit still prevails. This year, Summerland's Fiftieth Anniversary we pause to recall earlier days and to honor those pioneers who laid the foundations for our community.

Have you ever spilled ink on a carpet and wondered what you should do for the fastest and best removal of the spots?

A rug cleaner advised that a housewife can help with the ink removal before it is picked up by the cleaning firm. Dissolve 1 tsp. of a detergent in 2 cups of lukewarm water. Take a clean rag and wipe the spot thoroughly with this detergent solution. Do not soak the rug, however. Then take another dry, clean rag and lay it over the dampened spots. Walk on the cloth, grinding your foot into the tufts.

A laugh is worth a hundred groans in any market. - Charles Lamb.

Junior and senior majorettes were featured and surprise numbers added interest.

Motor Failure Held Suppliers Responsible
After conferring with electrical superintendent, George Graham, and considering the claim of a number of Trout Creek residents for the cost of repairing a pump motor which was burned out on July 18 through low voltage, Summerland council Tuesday decided it was the responsibility of the company supplying the equipment.
It was noted that hot weather is hard on automatic devices for controlling these motors.
There was no evidence of fault on the part of the municipality which delivers the electricity, nor of negligence on the part of the electrical crew.

I'm agin it. I'm agin leaders of political parties having to run for election.

It never has seemed right to me, although brought up to the system, that the heads of political parties should be compelled to take to the hustings at election times.

It's not that I think the Bennetts, the Finlaysons, the Laings and the Strachans of this world are too good, or too high and mighty to be exposed to the voters, but I can't see that much, if anything, is gained and leadership itself is cheapened.

Here in the South Okanagan constituency we have as Social Credit candidate none other than the boss man himself, The Rt. Hon. W. A. C. Bennett. Mr. Bennett, judging by past performances, will win the South Okanagan handily, but let's stretch a long bow and imagine Mr. Bennett defeated, while his party went on to victory.

If that happened some Sacred back bencher in a good, "safe for Social Credit" constituency would resign to allow Mr. Bennett to get into the legislature by the back door, so to speak.

So, apart from piling up jeer ammunition for the opposition nothing would be gained and most certainly leadership would be impaired.

It has happened that way before. The Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, a great Canadian, was exposed to the humiliation of losing his seat in the Prince Albert, Saskatchewan Riding, although his party was victorious and what happened? A safe seat was speedily found so that Mr. King could continue as Prime Minister.

Usually leaders of political parties are men of high calibre, men who can ill be spared. They should not have to battle for a seat at election time. It is the voters who decide which party they wish to govern, but surely the party is entitled to choose its own leadership without the leaders having to stomp as individuals.

Voters are notoriously influenced by matters outside the realm of politics. A candidate can lose out these days because the women folk don't like the way his hair curls. A local issue, meaningless in the broad scheme of government, can and often does lead to defeat at the polls for candidates, regardless of their ability or how impressive their political stature.

Some people will say that to give party leaders a free ride into government is a negation of democratic practice. Maybe it is, but at least it is not thumbing the nose at democratic practice such as is done when a defeated party leader is found a safe seat so that he can continue leadership either from the government side of the house or from the opposition benches.

To me the whole process appears cheapening.

One of Those I'll Never Forget Stories

Quick trip to the coast last week. Seems I can still thrill to the sight of the sail chuk. Saw a flat-bottomed skiff perched on a bit of rock above the tide. It was an old boat, the flat-bottomed double ender type that was once the model used by gillnet fishermen. Seeing that skiff reminded me of the time I went to try my luck as a gillnetter.

There was another green Englishman just out from the old country also trying his luck. He was a fabulous character. Red-haired and puny looking, but wiry for all that like most Cockneys and he was sure enough a Cockney, born within the sound of Bow Bells.

Friendly fishermen warned us of the many pitfalls of gillnet fishing but it seemed that "Red" as we called him, had to always try things out and if there were a wrong way to do anything he would be sure to try that way first.

We were warned of old Baldy. Baldy is an almost round rock in Smith's Inlet. At medium tides it is out of water but high tides cover it with about two feet of water. We were warned not to drift onto Baldy. "Wrap your net around Baldy and you'll lose it sure", we were told.

Came the morning I looked to see where "Red" had drifted during the night set. No "Red" in sight, so having got in my net I rowed round the other side of an island.

It was dead low tide, and there was old Baldy towering twenty feet above sea level. But Baldy was different on this day. Baldy during the night had acquired a hat. It was Red's skiff perched at a jaunty angle on the round pate of Baldy and over the side of the skiff, a ghastly tangle, trailed Red's gillnet.

Other boats came around and we hailed, louder and louder. "Red" was one of those people who die when they go to sleep.

At last our whooping and hollering penetrated the lean-to canvas shelter, called by the fisherman the "dog house". Up over the gunwales like the rising sun came Red's flaming mop. Then his freckled face. We gave a big holler but Red was trying to orient himself.

Slowly he rubbed his eyes and looked around and then blurted out: "where in 'ell is the bleedin' ocean?"

Municipal Council Plans Senior Citizens' Housing

Long Walk For Water In A Fur Coat

Brown bears get thirsty too, these hot days it seems! Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. J. Heichert, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young, and their grandson, Grant Spelzberg, were driving north on Highway 97 when they saw a brown bear weighing approximately 100 pounds.

It was about 50 yards up on the hill above Miller's Point, and Mr. Heichert thought it was heading for Okanagan Lake.

Grant, who was being taken home to Peachland after a visit here, thought the bear was a big dog.

Bears are seldom seen on Highway 97 between Summerland and Peachland.

31st Annual Flower Show Today Is A Riot of Color

There was quite an air of excitement in the high school auditorium as competitors arranged their entries for the 31st Annual Flower Show which opened at 3.00 this afternoon and continues until 9 p.m. when trophies and other awards will be presented.

A quick glimpse of cups being unpacked, splashes of color revealed as one car after another drove up with containers of lovely summer blooms, gave some idea of the work involved in staging such a show.

Dahlias, zinnias, gladioli, salpiglossis, roses, nasturtiums and begonias, are all entered. Unusual flowers noted were two red blooms of anthurium, a native Hawaiian plant, labelled, "This is real", gave thought of horticulturists in other countries.

Tea is being convened by Mrs. M. E. Collins, afternoon and evening, with many willing assistants.

A. F. Calder is president of Summerland Horticultural Society. A full account and list of prize winners will appear in next week's Review.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE HEAD IN SUMMERLAND

Harry H. Hamper, provincial representative of the St. John Ambulance Association met with Summerland members last night in the municipal council chambers.

Mr. Hamper is travelling through the province to assist the various centres with problems. He goes from Summerland to Dawson Creek to help organize an instructional class.

Pipeline Route Will Not Delay Gas Coming

Regardless of the route followed by the natural gas pipeline Summerland will have natural gas by the fall of 1957 or even earlier unless something entirely unforeseen arises to delay the entire project.

The foregoing assurance was given to the Summerland Review by an official of the Inland Natural Gas Company Ltd., in reply to a query from The Review as to what effect the proposed re-routing of the pipeline down the east side of Okanagan Lake would have on the plans for the distribution of natural gas in Summerland and other westside lake communities.

Original plans called for the pipeline to cross the lake at Kelowna, but the lake depth, plus discovery of easier terrain down the east side of the lake to Penticton has caused the company to reconsider its routing plans.

If the east side route is eventually decided upon then the company plans a spur line up to Summerland, the company spokesman told The Review, and also that

For some time there has been interest in establishing accommodation in Summerland for senior citizens and various ideas have been discussed.

A solution seems to be in the offing inherent in the announcement from the municipal council which follows:

Some weeks ago John Dunn approached the council with a request that his property, formerly owned by Charlie Wharton, and adjacent to the Memorial Playground Park be zoned as residential. This request has been proceeded with through the normal channels to the point of passing a council bylaw. Mr. Dunn's intention was that he would build small cottage type cabins that he would rent to senior citizens. The council has been sympathetic to this project but feel that it is more the responsibility of the community as a whole to develop this land might serve community development better in future years if it were under municipal control. Consequently the suggestion has

Vote Registration Quite Active

The municipal office was open until midnight last night for registration of voters, and G. D. Smith, municipal clerk reports that enough people signed right up until closing time to make the effort worthwhile.

Registrations were taken at The Summerland Review until 5 p.m. yesterday and here registering was quite active during the short period available to would-be voters.

Storms Contracting Co. plans to be in the Peachland Summerland area this fall to do road surfacing according to word received by

It's provincial election time in British Columbia and Summerland will know it tomorrow when the ebullient Minister of Highways, the Hon. Philip A. Gaglardi, will open the campaign for Social Credit speaking at the Youth Centre on behalf of Social Credit boss, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, member for South Okanagan.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m.

Only other party with a candidate for the South Okanagan in the field so far is the CCF which recently nominated Walter Ratzlaff, Kelowna school teacher, to carry the CCF banner.

South Okanagan Liberals meet at Kelowna tonight when it is expected they will nominate a candidate to challenge Premier Bennett.

The Progressive Conservatives have scheduled a nomination convention for Friday, also at Kelowna.

In the Similkameen Frank Laird a governor of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., has been nominated to carry the Liberal standard in that riding. Frank Richter, Social Credit MLA, will defend his seat. Penticton Alderman J. D. Southworth will battle for the Progressive Conservatives.

The Similkameen CCF Association has yet to name a challenger. The Socials are fighting the election on the record of accomplishments while the opposition parties are concentrating their fire on the charges levelled against former Lands and Forests Minister Sommers.

United Church Holds Service Crescent Beach

Summerland United Church congregation held a service at Crescent Beach on Sunday afternoon at 4.30 conducted by the minister Rev. C. O. Richmond.

Accommodation was provided through the hospitality of members of the congregation, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McCutcheon, Mrs. C. J. Amm and Mr. and Mrs. A. McLachlan.

Following the service a picnic supper was enjoyed on the beach.

Jubilee Float Places Second at Festival

Summerland's Golden Jubilee float captured second prize at the Penticton Peach Festival in the under 5000 population class.

This lovely float was sponsored by the Summerland Board of Trade and put into shape for the Festival by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wellwood, Mrs. Walter M. Wright and Earle White after being kept for the ten weeks since the Golden Jubilee Parade in June.

They, with others planned and made the imaginative float originally. It depicted the development of Summerland from rock and sage brush country to a land of production. Miss Louise Atkinson, the figure at the back played her part well. An inscription at the back, "The Years Have Been Good To Us" was a tribute to those who developed this district with so many amenities unusual for a place of this size.

Historically Speaking

A hospital is an asset to any community and Summerland has been fortunate in having one since quite early days.

These is a deep contrast in the hospitals of yesterday and today. This story will show how much advancement has been made in the hospitals.

In December, nineteen hundred and nineteen, Summerland's first hospital was destroyed by fire. The patients were all rescued but the nurses lost all their personal belongings.

It was decided that a two storey concrete building would be erected on the original site. In this building there would be room for twenty patients, including children.

The new hospital was officially opened in June, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, by Doctor McLean, the provincial secretary.

There is a big difference between the diathermy and cartery merland hospitals, as you will see in the following information: the first incubator was hand made, and was heated by light bulbs.

The first diathermy and cartery machine has been replaced by a more modern machine used for diathermy and inductotherm treatment, and the old one is used only as a cautery.

The growing population of Summerland demanded a larger hospital, so a new wing was added in 1947. At the same time a modern nurses' residence was built to accommodate seven nurses.

Over the course of the years many matrons served in the Summerland Hospital. Some of these were: Miss Winnifred Marshall, Miss Gertrude Allen, Miss Snow, Miss Winnie Yule, Miss May Bennett, Miss Ellis and Mrs. Wamsley.

The present nursing staff consists of Mrs. J. R. Butler, matron and ten nurses, a domestic staff of seven, and an administration staff of two, and a panel of 12 Directors.

As the community of Summerland has progressed and grown, so has the hospital, and it shows a promise of further advancement in future years.

Those Funny Things People Do... do you?

PEOPLE are funny — by which is meant of course is that the other fellow is funny. He does do the funniest things.

We've been reading a magazine on psychology which tells about some of the funny things we all do — er, beg pardon — we mean the other fellow does.

Suppose you were renting a room at a hotel and the check-out time was 3 p.m., but you were all wound up and ready to leave at 9 a.m.

Would you stay until 3 p.m. just to "get your money's worth?"

Suppose you put a nickel in a parking meter intending to stay there an hour, but changed your plans and are ready to leave in five minutes.

Would you sit in your car the remaining 55 minutes just to get full value for your nickel?

Pig In A Poke Election... like it or lump it

MUCH of the sound and fury emanating from Messrs Strachan, Laing and Finlayson, belaboring Premier W. A. C. Bennett for calling an election, smacks of defeatism.

Since the premier's far from surprise announcement of an election made last Monday, the three opposing party leaders have been hurling angry denunciations which can only be considered in the light of the pot calling the kettle black.

There is nothing wrong, politically speaking, with any party choosing what it considers the most favorable time to go to the people. Opposition parties, for that matter, spend a lot of their time planning strategy which they hope will result in defeat for the government on the floor of the House, thus forcing an election.

Only recently and for long, wearying weeks the people of Canada witnessed the determined efforts of the Progressive-Conservatives to force a dominion election over the gas pipeline issue. The Progressive-Conservatives considered the time favorable to the party. The incumbent Liberals, however, thought it the better part of wisdom to maintain the status quo and refused to accede to the opposition clamor for an election.

So, any denunciation of Premier Bennett's "snap election" which comes from the opposition groups can only be considered window dressing or, perhaps, camouflage designed to hide what appears to be something akin to panic in the opposition parties ranks.

Actually, as we see it, the opposition parties have only themselves to blame if they are caught as that vulgar, but expressive phrase has it, "with their pants down."

It is surprising indeed that the Liberals should, after their experience in the Vancouver Centre by-election, have allowed themselves to be caught napping a second time.

But while we cannot feel a smidge of sympathy for the wailings of the opposition groups, we must also confess to looking with a jaundice eye on Mr. Bennett's 1956 election. Surely, even the most fanatical of Social Crediters must be asking themselves why the election now, and wondering if opposition charges that the government is afraid that the truth about the Sommers-Sturdy affair

Mid-Week Message

Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal (Matthew 6:19.) Read Matthew 6:19-25.

When he entered a barber shop, a boy asked if he could open the window near the barber's chair. The barber asked why. The lad said, "My bicycle is just outside the window, and I want to watch in case someone tries to steal it." The barber said, "Bring it to the front of the shop. I'll watch it for you while you're in the chair." After doing so, the boy's mind was at ease.

How often we keep our eyes on our possessions when we should look to God who is always ready to help us! He wants to relieve us of our anxieties relating to material things. He wants us to entrust ourselves and whatever we possess into His care and keeping. Christ reminds us that He will watch our worldly possessions for us if we will but trust and go about the business for which we are placed upon this earth.

PRAYER Dear heavenly Father, many times we have failed Thee by being too concerned with worldly treasures. Give us faith to trust in Thee and to place our affection on the treasures of heaven. In the name of the Master who would have us pray, "Our Father who art in heaven... Amen."

Maybe it cost 10 cents to drive the extra distance, but they had the ride. Psychologists, who make a business of studying and analyzing the human mind and behaviour say most of us do funny things like that.

would, if aired before the election, seriously imperil Social Credit's chances of being returned to power, are more than wishful thinking.

It does appear from Premier Bennett's political manoeuvring that there is some truth, perhaps a lot of truth in the opposition's accusations — but the bewildered voter is not to know, unless the opposition has the courage to defy the courts and invite contempt action by discussing a case that is held sub judice.

So, in truth, what Premier Bennett is asking the electorate of British Columbia to do is to buy a pig in a poke. And that, come September 19, is exactly what we think the British Columbia electorate will do.

40 YEARS AGO - AUGUST 25, 1916

Mrs. A. Stark will receive next Wednesday afternoon, August 30, from 3 till 6 in honor of her sister, Miss Hazel Hayes.

James Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mitchell, has obtained a position in the engineering department of the Kettle Valley Railway Co. He went to Penticon this week to commence his new work and has been sent up the line to the west of Jura for a month, after which he expects to be in Penticon.

Members of the Ambulance League are reminded that the League begins its third year this month, and all who wish to continue their membership and obtain wool are asked to pay the yearly subscription of 25c.

The ladies of St. Stephen's WA are planning to hold a Water Fete on Wednesday afternoon, August 30, at the Agur boathouse.

E. N. Rowley's fast launch, "LIP" proved that she has lost little of her speed by winning the motor boat race at Kelowna Regatta in spite of a handicap. So far as can be learned that was the only success that can be credited to Summerland.

30 YEARS AGO - AUGUST 20, 1926

Miss Marie Klingsell has returned home from Seattle and will stay here for a few weeks.

Two young men, Messrs Parry and Hennes of Seattle paddled down the lake from Okanagan Landing on Monday, then shipped their canoe from Penticon to Hope, where they intend to negotiate the difficult Fraser Canyon on their return to the coast. They shipped their canoe from Seattle to the Landing, and are enjoying a vacation in the interior by canoe.

The rainfall this week has put a different expression on the growers' faces as well as on the appearance of the orchards. We are not greedy, but we can take even a little more and agree to smile in proportion if we get it. Several people have estimated it means $25,000 to Summerland.

Mr. Wm. Beattie's daughter, Kitty, has just received the official records of the cow, Valley Home Georgia. They proved even better than before and she is well on the way to lead the province.

20 YEARS AGO - AUGUST 20, 1936

Miss Edna Smith and her sister, Miss Amy Smith, caught a glimpse of Ogoopogo off Crescent Beach the same afternoon that Bill Gartrell and Don McKinnon saw it from Naramata last week.

Mr. D. G. Tate, clerk of North Vancouver City and district with Mrs. Tate has been visiting with Mrs. Tate's sister, Mrs. Dave Taylor. While bowling on the Legion green he met several former acquaintances, among them Constable Hemmingway and Harold Smith. Others who were in the same battalion with him overseas are clerk F. J. Nixon, Noel Higgin, Humphrey Fiske, Reg Verrier, Ted Logie and H. Whitaker.

Trees Source of Motor Fuel, Food

Industrial Revolution Envisioned For Rural B.C. Under Forest Plan

British Columbia's great forests, already the raw material for a growing list of fibres, plastics and chemicals, may one day become a source of motor fuel. From B.C.'s trees it is possible to produce millions of gallons of industrial alcohol or high protein food for animals or even human consumption. These and other possibilities, if a rural development plan is envisaged by M. J. Foley, president of the Powell River Company, pioneer B.C. pulp and paper industry, in an address to the Vancouver Rotary Club.

T. B. Young Gives Some Notes From A Recent Trip Abroad

Here are just a few rambling remarks from T. B. Young concerning a rather wonderful trip abroad that he and Mrs. Young and Mrs. Isabelle Nelson enjoyed during the past three months.

"Enroute a couple of days stop-over was made in Winnipeg and another day in Montreal. There was specially fine weather in both sea passages, going and returning, no excuse for anyone to be sea sick.

We spent between six and seven weeks touring England and Scotland from Torquay at the south of Devon and on up to Inverness in Scotland making several excursions our headquarters from each of which we took side tours.

Another three to four weeks was taken up in touring France, Switzerland and Italy, including Venice, Rome, Sorrento and the Isle of Capri. While on the continent we were on a "Cook's" conducted tour where transportation, hotels, meals and even tips were all taken care of in advance.

Except in Switzerland, European exchange is badly deflated. The Italian lira is worth now about one sixth of a cent and the French franc between a quarter and a third of a cent.

This however, is no benefit to the tourist, as the natives can spot us a mile off and have the hook and the axe out ready for us.

In England and Scotland when the Labor Party took over the public utilities, they wound up by putting on about seven men to do the work that about four did before. The resultant losses, of course, have to be borne by the taxpayer.

They claim this is good business because it gives employment to more people. As a result of this there are now too many people earning too much money, with too much to spend. And so when the demand exceeds the supply, there is bound to be inflation, and that is what is happening in England and Scotland today.

We noticed that prices on every thing had upped alarmingly since last we were over in 1953. It takes no practiced eye to see they are heading for trouble.

Among other notables we were fortunate to see the Queen and the entire Royal Family. We also saw the Pope in Rome and Gracie Fields at the Isle of Capri.

You have to go away to enjoy a trip but one of the best parts of it is to get home again amongst your "Ain Folk."

Carl Agar Gains Fame After Council Refusal

When Summerland council ten years ago this summer turned down Carl Agar's application to buy part of the Peach Orchard Park where he wanted to build first class tourist accommodation in cabins, and other developments which included some ideas he had for improvements along the lake-shore, they probably did him a great service. It benefited not only Mr. Agar, but Canada, and has had international significance.

A licensed pilot with the DFC, Mr. Agar was then just out of the air service.

The story of his starting a flying school in Penticton, seeing the possibilities of fruit spraying, and helicopter development in Canada is an amazing story. He had never flown a helicopter in 1946. Few people had then, but he thought it would be the ideal vehicle for spraying trees.

He went down to the Wenatchee Valley to see how these weird birds were flown. Full of enthusiasm he returned to the Okanagan determined to buy one.

All he needed was money. At this point he had some luck. A retired financier who had a home just out of Penticton, Douglas Dewar, and O. St. P. Aitkens, president of Okanagan Investments Ltd., were instrumental in raising the necessary capital. This backing made the start possible, and their unfailing interest and support has carried the Okanagan Helicopters Ltd., to the place which it holds in the world today.

Al Stringer, an old friend of Agar's from airforce days was in the business from the start, in charge of maintenance. His energy and direction matched Carl's on the flying side.

Glenn McPherson, a pilot and lawyer with ten years of work in financial and government circles joined the company as vice-president and secretary-treasurer. His entry gave the strength of management needed to supplement the operational team of Agar, and Stringer.

The assets at the end of 1947 were one helicopter and an overdraft of $13,644.

Today it's a continent-wide group with over 100 employees, 31 helicopters, and an annual income exceeding a million and a half dollars — all in less than ten years — proving again the power of faith and vision coupled with technical knowledge.

Tasks considered impossible, or so costly as to be impractical are routine to Okanagan Helicopters Company.

Agar, it was, who surveyed the virtually impassable mountain route for the Alcan Transmission Lines. A team of pilots and engineers then made it possible to erect towers by landing steel and other construction materials in otherwise inaccessible areas.

The Okanagan group assisted in building part of the Trans Mountain Oil Pipe Line between Edmonton and Vancouver and has contracted to patrol the entire line every ten days.

Timber cruisers, topographical and geological survey men have been flown for approximately four months within a few hundred miles of the North Pole.

Geological surveys including the use of airborne scintillometer; flying ambulance; aeromagnetic surveys; fire and pest control, are only a few of the things they do in every province in Canada.

The Okanagan Helicopters Co. has assisted in the construction of one of Canada's major defence lines.

Carl Agar has been awarded the coveted McKee Trophy of Canada, and the Captain W. J. Kossler Award for his "contribution in the practical application and operation of rotary-wing aircraft," the first person outside the United States to receive this recognition.

He has trained more helicopter mountain pilots than any man alive, for the Okanagan Group has carried out advanced and specialized training for the United States Army Transport Command, the French Air Force and the Indonesian Air Force.

Pilots have been trained for the RCAF and for industry.

Agar is one of the acknowledged world authorities on helicopters and through an associated company, Agar Helicopter Consultants Ltd., one of his many projects has been to act as advisor to the government of Dutch New Guinea and K.L.M. on helicopter operations.

A busy man is Carl Agar but not too busy to ensure that the Okanagan group and Canada retains the lead with this amazing new vehicle, which the Wall Street Journal, with typical restraint comments upon as follows: "This peculiar form of transportation is exciting; it exists; it is expanding."

B.C. Nurserymen Meet At Farm

Summerland Experimental Farm was the locale on Saturday afternoon for the first general meeting of the British Columbia Nurserymen's Association most of whom were interested in growing fruit trees or ornamental trees.

Dr. T. H. Anstey, superintendent, welcomed the visitors.

A conducted tour of ornamental plantings was given by Nat May, head gardener.

Dr. D. V. Fisher, head of the pomology section, took the party to see scion wood nurseries, peach and apricot varieties, and dwarfing root stock work.

In the late afternoon the Association drove to Oliver where they were guests of Wilcox Nurseries, and held an evening meeting.

The Okanagan group had a session prior to the general meeting. Among those present were Don McLachlan, West Summerland; W. Simms, F. Apolze, Penticton; M. McPhee, Kamloops; G. F. Wilcox, Oliver; L. Smith, Burnaby; S. A. McPherson, Dave Hunter, V. Johnston, Vancouver; R. Gilbert, Capilano; N. Oriesky, Kinnaird; and V. Vrugtnaw, curator of the Botanical Gardens. UBC.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Perry and their children and Mrs. Perry's father, Major B. Rees, who is visiting here from Wales, have motored to the coast for a holiday.

Searchlight Tattoo At Vernon

The Searchlight Tattoo given by the Royal Canadian Army Cadets at Vernon on Wednesday, August 15, was a spectacular event according to Reeve and Mrs. F. E. Atkinson and Councillor and Mrs. F. M. Stewart who represented the municipality on the occasion in Vernon and were entertained in the Officers' Mess prior to the evening performance.

It was staged in the natural amphitheatre made by the hills at the south of Vernon where so many encampments have taken place since and during World War 1.

Floodlights and searchlights directed above the thousands of people who attended, lighted the far banks of Kalamalka Lake.

Massed cadet bands played including the Royal Canadian Engineers' Military and the McIntosh Pipe Band. The pipes were reported to have specially fine notes as they were heard among the hills.

Conclusion of the program was depiction of the arrival of Bonnie Prince Charlie.

Summerland Macs can make life easier for their loyal fans by winning tonight's ball game against the Penticton Red Sox, thus ending the uncertainty about a playoff position. Nudging the Macs for that fourth playoff spot are the suddenly come to life Kelowna Orioles who, strange as it may seem, could conceivably nose out the Macs.

The Kelowna Orioles have an easier row to hoe than have the Summerland Macs. Orioles are scheduled to play two games with the bottom-placed Princeton Royals and they're top heavy favorites to win both games. So, the Macs need a win to be sure of staying out in front.

The Macs have two games left to play, both with the Penticton Red Sox who are currently riding high, wide and handsome and who are now nursing the thought that a double win over the Macs could possibly land them in top spot over the Kamloops Okonots who of late have been slipping.

Kelowna grabbed at a playoff spot last Sunday by knocking off the Okonots 7-4. Summerland though stayed out in front by whipping the bottom place Princeton Royals 21-10 at Princeton and while this was going on the Sox took Oliver into camp 10-1 to narrow the gap between second and first place to a margin of one game.

One thing sure, if the Macs can step into the offerings of the Penticton hurlers tonight anything like the way they murdered 'em at Princeton last Sunday they'll win in handy fashion.

Macs pounded the horsehide for 19 big hits including two home runs and four two baggers.

But it was far from a lopsided game. The Royals were well in the game up to the seventh inning and they were leading up to the fifth with the score reading 9-8. Then in the seventh the Macs pulled out the stops, piled in six runs in two innings without a reply from the home team and then soared out of sight with a six run grand finale, final count 21-10.

Al Hooker started on the mound for the Macs and was credited with the win. Sharing the pitching chore were Morley Fichel and Bob Bonthoux.

Geordie Taylor and Lloyd Hayes goled out the Macs' two home runs with Princeton's Fritz, the losing pitcher and Anderson putting out two circuit clouts for the home club.

Results of last week's play are as follows: High team: Dusters 2942. Ladies high three, Pam Stevens, 511; ladies high single, Carol Christmas, 200. Men's high single and high three were bowled by George Williams with scores of 258 and 651.

Mac's Cafe, Occidentals Playing tight series

Looks like being a long, long summer if summer lasts as long as it appears the softball play-offs, Occidentals vs Macs Cafe Aces, are going to last.

The teams have now met twice and haven't got any place in trying to declare a winner. Both games, one played Monday night, the other played last night were tied with scores of 5-5 and 1-1 respectively.

Highlight of the series to-date was the almost unbelievable steal home pulled by Joe Bullock last night to score the run that tied up the game for the Macs.

Occidentals were nursing a one run lead scored by Taylor in the second when playing manager Bullock went to bat in the third. He got a walk and sort of kept on walking to cross the plate with what proved the tying run.

It was a wide open game on Monday. Macs had five runs on the scoreboard and led the Occidentals 5-4 until the fifth when Austin hit a home run to tie up the game.

So with two games played of the best of five series the series is all tied up. Next game is scheduled for Tuesday at Memorial Park Playground, game time 6:30

Fishing News

BERT BERRY

Just fair fishing again last week. A few good catches but mostly slow conditions. Nothing but cooler weather will bring better fishing.

Okanagan Lake - fair, not many fish being landed. Just one and two catches and not too large - 1p to two pounds. Rock fishing reports good from Wilson's Landing.

Fish Lake - slow but lots of fish caught in Upper Lakes. 12, 14 inches the average.

Headwaters' Fishing Camp - lots of fish but none over 14 inches caught this last week.

Silver Lake - no reports. Brenda and McDonald Lake - slow but the odd one, 2 lbs or better landed.

Bear Lake - the odd good catch landed. OK if you can hit a feeding period.

Tea Pee Lake - fair reports from here with fish over 2 lbs. being landed.

Better Power For Okanagan

The British Columbia Power Commission has announced that a new high-voltage power line interconnection is expected, which will mean marked improvement in the availability and supply of electrical energy for the Okanagan, Kamloops, Naksup and intervening areas.

The government has authorized B. C. Power Commission to enter into an agreement to interconnect with the power systems of the West Kootenay Power & Light Company and the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, between South Slocaan and Whatshan. Under the anticipated arrangement the Power Commission will purchase a block of power from Consolidated Mining & Smelting at South Slocaan, for distribution in the North Okanagan power district.

At the same time, West Kootenay Power & Light will be able to transmit over the interconnection additional power from its Kootenay river system to areas it serves in the Okanagan and Similkameen districts.

All this will be made possible by a new 138,000 volt transmission line to be built jointly by the Power Commission and the West Kootenay company.

West Kootenay company will construct the section from South Slocaan to Koch Creek. The Commission will build the other section from Koch Creek to its Whatshan generating station on Lower Arrow Lake.

The Commission's part in the project will involve expenditures totalling over $1,000,000, which includes: (1) Installation at its Vernon terminal station of a 25-600kva transformer, together with auxiliary and control equipment; (2) Construction of a new switching station at Whatshan generating station; (3) Construction of the 138,000 volt transmission line from Whatshan to Koch Creek.

School Population Here Going Up and Up and Up

The school officers are busy these days registering new students and planning for school opening on September 4. At the junior-senior high school, the principal, A. K. Macleod reports today that 10 new pupils have registered and it is interesting to notice where they formerly resided, and that so many new families are coming into the district.

Following are their names and the places from which they came: Marjorie Johnson and Rosemary Robertson, Penticton; Dallas Stoney, Victoria; Barry Brodie, North Burnaby; Lorna Dixon, Stettler, Alta.; Burnis Nilson, Sedgewick, Alta.; Linda Stark, Transvaal, South Africa; Sidney Slobbe, Chilliwack; David Petrichuk, Midway; and Helen Miller, a former student returning from Moose Jaw where she attended high school last year.

At the MacDonald School, J. Cooke, principal, just returned from holidays, reports registration at 476, with a possible 500 expectancy. Mr. Cooke reports 45 on the Trout Creek elementary school roll.

These numbers add up to 965 in the rapidly growing school population in Summerland for which the Summerland School Board, District 77, is making accommodation with the new alterations and additions to the high school and construction of the new school at Trout Creek.

Tenders have been called for Contract No. 2, Kelowna Bridge. This contract will consist of the floating structure, piers and abutments of the Kelowna Bridge across Okanagan Lake in South Okanagan District.

MORE ABOUT GAS

gas would be available here simultaneously with Penticton.

The line will also serve the West Bench VLA development.

Westbank and Peachland will be served by a low pressure line crossing the lake by the bridge now under construction. It was the inability of engineers to build a suspension bridge across Okanagan Lake which necessitated a change of company plans as a high pressure line could not be used on a floating span affected by the constantly changing lake level.

Tangible evidence that the company regards Summerland as on the early first for natural gas was also forthcoming this week with the visit here of two company officials Hank Laub and C. E. Truscott who are interested in seeing that new structures and any revamped old ones are planned for natural gas.

Wilbert Perritt, Funeral Monday

Funeral services were conducted from Summerland Baptist Church by Rev. Lyle Kennedy on Monday afternoon, at 2 p.m. for the late Wilbert Perritt, aged 64, whose death occurred in Summerland General Hospital on Thursday, August 17.

A blacksmith by trade, the late Mr. Perritt and his family came to Summerland eight years ago from the prairies.

Surviving are his wife, Georgia and nine children Bertha and Roy of Edmonton; Shirley, LAW. St. Hubert, P. Q., Mrs. Don Williams (Bernice) of Penticton; Kenneth Wilbert, Clifford, Tim and Barbara Ann at home.

Interment was in Peach Orchard Cemetery with Roselawn Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

LITTLE THINGS CAN GET BIG

K. M. Blagborne, superintendent of works for Summerland Municipality is a busy man at any time. At last week's council meeting, it was reported that besides his ordinary duties 200 small things had been brought to his attention and he had dealt with 150 of them already.

Dept. of Highways Radio Station On Wildhorse Mt.

The department of highways is planning to install a radio station at the north end of Wildhorse Mt. which would be in contact with their trucks all up and down the Okanagan Valley.

Summerland council has had inquiries from the department of highways regarding obtaining electrical power for this station, which would be north of the Summerland Rifle Range.

The council has suggested that the department negotiate directly with the B.C. Power Commission for electricity.

been made that the council could purchase this property next year from surplus in the electric light department account. To do this the ratepayers as a whole would have to ballot on this project, possibly at the December elections.

The council, however, would not favor purchasing the property unless a strong group of local citizens was also willing to administer the project in the same way that the Hospital Society administers the local hospital. One-third of the cost is available from the provincial government; one-third through NEHA on a loan basis; and the municipality would have to contribute one-third.

As the reaction of the general public is required to this project a meeting has been called for September 5 at 8.00 p.m. in the library of the Junior-Senior High School. The action that the council takes will be dependent upon the interest shown at this meeting.

New Memorial Park Exit Will Eliminate "97" Hazard

A sum of $1,900.00 is to be received by Summerland municipal council to improve road conditions at the Memorial Athletic Park. Word to this effect was received from the department of highways at the regular council meeting held last night.

Work is to be done by the municipal road crew and the money will be forthcoming on the completion of the job.

The money will be used to construct an exit road through the Croft property. The present way into the park off Highway 97 will be an entrance only. This will remove the danger to cars leaving the ball park which now have to cross the busy thoroughfare of Highway 97 to return to West Summerland or other parts of the municipality.

Summerland council has asked the department of highways previously to rectify this exit bottleneck at the park caused by the construction of the new highway. When the Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, minister of highways spoke here last week, he promised help, though this sum of money was not mentioned at the time.

Acting Reeve F. M. Stuart was in the chair in the absence of the Association of Mayors, tending the Association of Mayors Reeve F. E. Atkinson who is at and Municipalities annual convention at Hamilton, Ontario.

BIGGEST BIG GUN of the British Columbia Social Credit Party, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, will be the speaker at a public meeting to be held here next Wednesday in the high school auditorium, starting at 8 p.m. This week was a big week for the premier who took part in last spike ceremonies preceding the inaugural run of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway over the newly completed North Vancouver-Squamish section. Premier Bennett is shown above receiving a presentation at the hands of George C. Lipsey, vice-president of the Britannia Mining and Smelting Company Ltd.

According To The Mood

By Sid Godber

This is one of those weeks when I would like to emulate the late Robert Benchley. Benchley, faced with the task of writing a column, sat before his typewriter for a long, moody interval and then his face lit up and he rapidly tapped out "t'hell with it," and went off fishing, or something.

See where Jack (Vancouver Sun) Scott has gone back to the weed. I sure feel sorry for the guy... I'd hate to have to advertise myself as a gutless wonder. Evidently he was sneaking drags behind the desk for weeks before he admitted it. Remembering his anti-tobacco columns and the holier than thou attitude he adopted, is a laugh. Scott, deposed president of the Never Touchem's Club was more bitter in his condemnation of tobacco than one of the English Stuarts who is supposed to have described smoking as "a custom loathsome to the eye, hateful to the nose, dangerous to the lungs, harmful to the brain and in the black stinking fume thereof nearest resembling the horrible stygian smoke of the pit that is bottomless."

Anyway, Scott is back smoking and he'll be rhapsodizing about it like the eminent character who raved "tobacco divine, rare, super-excellent tobacco, which goes far beyond all panaceas, potable gold and philosopher's stones a sovereign remedy to all diseases."

Some columns back I claimed that the "Cat and the Fiddle" in Derbyshire was England's highest (altitude) public house. Back came Bill Beattie of the Farm Labor Office here, to say that I was all wet and that the highest pub in England stands in Kirston Pass in the Ullswater District. Could be, but as Robbie Burns might have said "A pub's a pub for a' that."

Automobile drivers are often not as up-to-date as their cars. Tommy Young came back from his overseas trip with a brand new car. It balked on Hastings Street and Tommy got a lot of free advice from the gang at the Summerland Grocereria, including the suggestion that Tommy should buy a horse. It took a push to get the new Rotary Club president on his way in his new car. So, the next day when Tommy came purring along on Hastings, Jimmy Heavysides hollered "whoa" and lo and behold, automatically Tommy Young stood on the brake.

It just goes to show that behind the glittering facade of many a modern automobile sit men who would still enjoy driving hay burners.

About the only sure thing about the Okanagan Senior Hockey League this winter is that it is going to be different. Talking to Penticton Hockey Club president Bill Nicholson the other day, Bill seems to think that the Vees will have a team capable of holding its own in the league, although he admits that it will certainly have a new look. There'll be no announcement about the Vees coach until it's all out and dried. Says Bill, Possibility exists that Summerland's arena will provide practice ice for the Vees for a brief while during October while the Pench City hosts the UBCM convention.

A lot of conjecture round and about as to whether the Warwicks, My guess is that they'll all be wearing the Sudbury Wolves' colors this coming season. I certainly don't think we've heard the last of the Warwick line.

Many Swimmers Trained Red Cross-Rotary Class

Skies cleared on Sunday and the early afternoon was sunny and pleasant for the Swimming Meet. The concluding event of the Red Cross-Rotary classes which have been conducted most successfully during July and August.

Mrs. M. Hyde has been the instructor, assisted by Miss Barbara Fudge and Miss Amy Berry. T. B. Young, president of Summerland Rotary Club, was present to give out awards, pins, and certificates, assisted by J. R. Butler, chairman of the swim project for the Rotary Club.

There were races, novelty numbers, an exhibition of water skiing by Bobbie Shesley, and a display of Mykiss swimming by a group of girls trained by Miss Bev Fleming.

A complete list of the 139 who were given awards of one kind or another, and of those who won cash prizes is inside.

ELECTRICAL CONSUMPTION EXPANDS CONSTANTLY

Electrical applications were granted to H. Selinger, C. G. Latta, Mrs. Lillian James, W. S. Ritchie, L. G. McCrea, C. J. Bleasdale, Mrs. A. M. White, T. Harris, A. H. Baker, J. R. Bentley, A. M. Kostanuk, C. D. Maddrell, O. M. Weidenmann, H. C. Hatton, and C. E. Grasley at last night council meeting.

Review Will Not Publish Until Thursday Next Week

Owing to the September Holidays on Monday, September 3, The Summerland Review will not publish until Thursday of next week. This setting back of publication date will also allow The Review to bring to its readers a full report of Premier W. A. C. Bennett's election campaign speech, which he is scheduled to present on Wednesday evening in the School Auditorium. The Review will resume its regular Wednesday publication the following week.

Official School Opening Wednesday September 5

Although some pupils of grades 9-12 with supplementals will report to school Tuesday, September 4, to write their exams, all others will report at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, A. K. Macleod, principal advises.

Geologist Here To Report On Fossilized Tree

H. Nasmith of the Department of Mines, was in Summerland on Sunday to have a look at the fossilized tree on Highway 97.

Mr. Nasmith thought it was a striking example and that it belonged to the Tertiary Glacial period. He was interested especially in the pockets of gravel which show here and there in the tree, which are called clastites, and are typical of other Okanagan geological findings.

The geologist has been working in the Okanagan Valley surveying sands, gravels and silts from the border to Armstrong.

He had been advised by Dr. W. Black, provincial secretary, to have a look at the tree while in the area, following a report appearing in The Summerland Review as given by C. Davis, formerly of Osoyoos, now living in Jones' Flat.

G. M. Weiss, BSA Appointed To Farm Research

The appointment of G. M. Weiss as Research Officer under Dr. D. V. Fisher, head of the Fomology Section, of the Experimental Farm, is announced today by Dr. T. H. Anstey, Superintendent. Mr. Weiss will be responsible for research on tree fruit propagation. continued on page 8

The usual practice, Mr. Macleod says, is to have registration on the first day, arrange groupings of pupils, issue free and rental text books, collect various fees, give lists of supplies to pupils and dismiss them early with instructions to return the following morning at nine o'clock with all the necessary equipment and school supplies.

As school opening this year is on Wednesday and stores will be closed, part of the reason for early dismissal, particularly at the junior levels, has gone. Consequently Principal John Cooke of the Macdonald and Trout Creek schools will operate a full day's program for his pupils.

In the High School where the situation is complicated further by the handling of various fees, by problems of course selections, and by the need for additional time for supplemental exams, Mr. Macleod expects the pupils will be dismissed at an earlier hour.

So that pupils may have all their equipment before reporting to school on Wednesday, lists for the various grades have been placed in the hands of all local merchants. The stores will be prepared to supply the items required in the different classes, and it is thought they are relieved at the prospect of escaping the flood of $50 or more eager purchasers in a single afternoon.

HIGH SCHOOL PAINT WORK

Prior to school opening the Junior-Senior high school is being freshened with a new paint trim job in cream. As the red paint was found to fade quite badly,

No mention of the frost damaged Okanagan was made by Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, minister of highways, speaking for the Premier on Thursday evening in the Youth Centre. Plenty was heard about the boom in every other part of the province.

Calling the Social Credit party "trail-blazers", the minister of highways asked the audience of 200 or more to judge the Social Crediters on what has been done.

Citing the PGE he said it would make a million dollar profit this year and bring unprecedented industry to the province. BOHIS was mentioned as the continued on page 8

Liberals Will Hold Nomination Meeting Friday

South Okanagan Progressive-Conservatives last Friday nominated Kelowna barrister Bryen Weddell to contest the South Okanagan Seat in the September 19 provincial election.

This leaves only the Liberals without a candidate in the field and this situation is expected to be remedied at the nomination meeting of the South Okanagan Liberal Association to be held in Kelowna on Friday.

Standing for Social Credit is Premier W. A. C. Bennett, and for the CCF, Walter Ratzlaff, Kelowna school teacher.

Anne Solly Wins Scholarship

Miss Anne Solly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Solly, who will be attending UBC this fall has been awarded the Summerland Kiwanis Club Scholarship which amounts to $200.

Magistrate In RCMP Radar Car Last Saturday

When the RCMP Radar Car was in Summerland on Saturday afternoon Magistrate Bob Alstead went out with the RCMP on Highway 97 two miles of West Summerland to see the machine in action. RCMP have been travelling through the province taking magistrates and other interested persons out to see how it works.

Mr. Alstead reports that it is a most efficient apparatus and accurate to a degree. If one car is travelling faster than it should it records it at once, but if another car should come along going at a still higher speed, the machine would switch and record the faster moving car.

While the party was out on Saturday a car came along, the machine registered 68 miles per hour, and the driver was stopped. When shown the radar equipment, he was so interested that he pleaded guilty at once and was fined $25 and costs in Summerland Police Court later.

Summer Band School Concert And Party Here

The Summer Band School will end its session by presenting a concert in the Kiwanis Band Shell in West Summerland Thursday at 8:00 p.m. Following the concert a party will be held for all members of the summer school in the Anglican Church garden.

The concert will present numbers which the band has given in Penticton this year and it has been proven that the light, fast moving type of program is very well received by both young and old alike. Accompanying the group will be the newly formed Junior band who will make their first appearance in Summerland. Most of this group started lessons last month and are fast learning to handle their instruments.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance to encourage these young people as there seems to be nothing to replace encouragement to motivate these youngsters to greater effort.

The senior band, which will be presenting most of the evening's entertainment, will present numbers ranging from the old masters to modern numbers, novelties and favorite marches. Although the 'ain all of the regular band members Summer Band Classes do not consider there have been over a hundred students turning out faithfully every Tuesday and Thursday evenings since early July.

After this, the final concert of the summer, all the members of the summer band school will retire to the grounds of the Anglican church where hot dogs, pop and ice cream will be served.

Historically Speaking

An early Summerland romance is the story written for the Jubilee competition by Barbara Fudge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Fudge, as she tells of THE FIRST WEDDING IN SUMMERLAND

It was in the historical town of Harrow, England, that a romance started between two neighboring children and culminated in the first wedding to take place in Summerland. Annie Beatrice Stevens and Harry Dunsdon were married in tiny St. Peter's Anglican Church (later burned down) on June 1, 1904.

HOMESTEAD

Mr. Dunsdon had come to Summerland in 1892 and took a homestead at the top end of Garnett Valley where he has lived ever since. In 1902, Mr. Dunsdon began to find a bachelor's life dull and lonely, so he went back to England for a visit and to see all his old friends.

ROMANCE

While there he fell in love with his childhood playmate, and persuaded her to become engaged. After he came back to Canada, the next year-and-a-half of waiting seemed endless, but finally the old steamship, (S. S. Aberdeen) chugged into the dock at Lower Summerland with his Annie on board.

WED AT GARRELL'S

Mr. and Mrs. James Gartrell were the first settlers in Summerland, and their home was always the centre of every important community event which took place. Naturally, it was in their home that the wedding reception which followed the ceremony conducted by Archdeacon Greene of Kelowna, took place, the attendants being the late Mrs. Bob Faulder and the late Mr. Jim Dunsdon.

MANY GUESTS.

It was attended by everyone from miles around. They came by truckboard, horseback, boat and any other means of transportation available. Finally, after hours of feasting and celebrating, the young couple set off by horse and buggy for their new home in Garnett Valley, no doubt accompanied by the usual shower of rice and old shoes.

THEIR FAMILY

The Dunsdons lived happily with their family of six boys and one girl, all of whom have made their homes in Summerland. It is regretful that Mrs. Dunsdon passed away in the early twenties, however, Mr. Dunsdon still takes his place in the community, and is affectionately known to all as "Pop".

What About Agriculture... political hot potato

NEXT week, on Wednesday evening, September 5, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Social Credit leader and again Social Credit candidate for the South Okanagan, is scheduled to address a public meeting in the Summerland High School auditorium.

Premier Bennett will, undoubtedly, have a fine tale to tell, a tale of truly remarkable progress made under his administration. Indeed it is questionable if any previous provincial premier has ever placed before the people such an impressive record of big things accomplished as the record which Premier Bennett will display for the benefit of the voters of this district at next Wednesday's public meeting.

Something of these achievements as they pertained to roads were boasted of by the Hon. P. A. Gagliardi, minister of highways, who opened the election campaign here last week, but we hope that Premier Bennett will not omit, as did his highways minister, to touch upon the plight of the agriculturist.

It is a sad anomaly that at a time when

British Columbia is riding the crest of the biggest boom in its history, at a time when the country as a whole is booming, that the fruit industry upon which the well-being of the Okanagan depends should be in a near-depressed condition.

Summerland and district voters are well aware of what is being done by magnificent highways being built (we have one on our own doorstep), of the bridges and the tunnels and the railways.

Here in Summerland we are fully aware that the province is booming but that knowledge is poor solace to the grower and to all of us who depend in large measure upon the fruits of the growers' labors when our own industry is sore stricken.

It is only natural that Mr. Bennett will place considerable stress upon the achievements of the Social Credit government, but what has been done and what is to be done is of small moment to the people of this district. What they want to know is what the government intends to do about agriculture, which, despite a booming economy is on the ropes.

Liberals, CCF and Progressive Conservatives have pin-pointed the sorry state of agriculture in B.C. as one of the weak spots in the Social Credit's armour. We hope that Premier Bennett, speaking here next week, in his own riding and in a district predominantly agricultural and consequently depressed, will tell us what Social Credit intends to do about it, if returned to office on September 9.

Mid-Week Message

I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel. (Luke 7:9). Read II Corinthians 4:1-7.

One night on a winding highway, a bus was running at such a rate of speed that most of the passengers were afraid. They feared for their lives. One passenger, a boy at the back of the bus, lay fast asleep.

The man sitting beside him awakened the boy and said: "Wake up, son. Don't sleep. Our lives are not safe. Aren't you afraid?" The boy replied: "No, I'm not afraid; my father is the driver. He knows that I am with him, and he loves me."

The faith of that little boy in his father drove away all fear and overcame all worry.

The world needs the kind of faith in God that the little boy had in his father. Victorious living depends upon faith in the merciful Father, the living Father of all people of every race, nation, and social condition.

Childlike trust in the measureless love of God helps us to possess a great and victorious faith.

PRAYER

Gracious Father, Thou knowest that we are creatures possessed by fears. Help us to turn to Thee in childlike faith so that we do not become victims of our fears. Help us that we "be not faithless, but believing." In Christ's name. Amen.

Several Philosophies

Mirth is like a flash of lightning, that breaks through a gloom of clouds, and glitters for a moment; cheerfulness keeps up a kind of daylight in the mind, and fills it with a steady and perpetual serenity — Joseph Addison.

Be as careful of the books you read, as of the company you keep; for your habits and character will be as much influenced by the former as by the latter — Paxton Hood.

Prosperity is the touchstone of virtue; for it is less difficult to bear misfortune, than to remain uncorrupted by pleasure—Tacitus.

Books are the quietest and most constant of friends; they are the most accessible and wisest of counselors, and the most patient of teachers—Charles W. Elliot.

Benefits are only acceptable so far as they can be repaid; beyond that point, instead of gratitude they excite hatred—Tacitus.

Angling for a "compleat" car?

Two pets—both frisky! "Dachy's" tricks are fun, but this Pontiac has some tricks up its fenders, too. Pleasant tricks with your budget... and some startling road performances. Your dealer can show you.

Best catch of the day! Oh, we're not talking about the fish... it's only average. It's that Pontiac, and the smiles are for the car, not the fish. See it at your dealer's.

Seems like everyone's looking for the perfect... the "compleat"... car! And it's no farther away than your nearest Pontiac dealer. You'll find proof that Pontiac combines grace, beauty, prestige and performance and reasonable price... a "compleatness" that goes far, far deeper than mere looks or accessories!

Then—Enjoy a Demonstration Drive in this car of cars. Believe us, you'll relish the way it hugs the curves, slides smoothly up or down hills, takes every straightaway with supreme confidence. The ride's the thing... and with Pontiac what a wonderful ride it is.

All this is very exciting... but the best part of all in this "compleat" Pontiac is its price. With all of Pontiac's pleasure and prestige, it's still easily within anyone's budget, priced right down with the lowest. Yes—just like a trout to a "Royal Coachman"... that's how you'll rise to a Pontiac. Be sure you do—soon!

Johan Bergstrom Back From Trip To Colorado Music Camp

This summer, Johan Bergstrom, a local music student, attended the 23rd Gunnison Summer Music Camp established by Western State College of Colorado. Johan's trip was the result of a scholarship program financed by the Summerland Kiwanis Club in February of this year.

The scholarship of $50 was to be used to further music studies, so Johan, her mother, Mrs. Flora Bergstrom, her brother, Scott, and sister, Breen, motored to Colorado by way of California. While at Gunnison they camped at a National Park and Johan took private piano lessons. They returned last week, full of enthusiasm for summer music camps.

Each summer thousands of people enrol at music camps located the width and breadth of the United States. One of the largest music camps in the USA is the Western State College Music Camp at Gunnison, Colorado.

First annual music camp opened there in June, 1934 with a registration of 109 students. On August 8, 1956, the 23rd annual music camp had a registration of 1,045 students.

Music students and teachers from grade school, high school and colleges, band directors, choir directors, private teachers and students, baton twirling instructors and students all gather to improve their knowledge and techniques and to evaluate their individual musical standards.

At the camp this summer was Howard Denike of Victoria, president of B.C. Schools Instrumental Teachers' Association, a friend of the high school bandmaster, John Tamblin. Mr. Denike was at the Tamblins on Saturday.

He teaches at the S. J. Willis

Junior High School, and his band won the Canadian Junior Band title this year for bands 18 years and under at the Waterloo Music Festival in Ontario. His band took a 6,000 mile trip and played in all the major cities in Canada.

Mr. Denike said that the two provinces having the best developed instrumental programs in Canada are B.C. and Ontario. In Ontario the main growth, he noticed, is in the cities, but in B.C. the first main developments were in smaller towns where much local support was present. This has been the case in Summerland where music activities have been accelerated by the school board establishing a school band, the Town Band, Singers and Players' Club, and the Summerland Kiwanis Club.

Summerland WI Win PNE Prizes

Summerland Women's Institute has won 11 prizes in the Home Arts and Textiles division for competitors at the PNE, four of them first prizes.

Mrs. C. Orr won first prize for a hooked rug made from wool rags on burlap. Mrs. Orr has won several other prizes for her hooked rugs; designs for which she makes herself, and at the recent Peach Festival in Penticton captured another first.

Two top places were taken by Mrs. George Inglis, also a consistent prize winner, one for crochet, two cotton articles, 14" maximum size, the other for two articles including one handkerchief.

For leather work, Mrs. Walter M. Wright's hand-made gloves and wallet were awarded first.

Mrs. James Darke placed second with a patchwork quilt, hand quilted, and Mrs. Orr, was in the same place with an applique quilt, hand quilted.

Other seconds went to Mrs. V. Charles and Mrs. Tony Holler for two articles of plain sewing entered jointly, and to Miss Phyllis Hill for a cutwork luncheon cloth not less than 26" square.

In the thrift class, Mrs. Charles won third with two articles, and Mrs. W. S. Rothwell was third with a rug, other than the one mentioned before.

With two articles, hand woven one in wool and one in cotton Mrs. W. R. Powell won fourth prize.

High School Band Penticton Monday

When the High School Band made its second appearance in Gyro Park Bandshell, Penticton, on Monday night, three young Summerland dancers, Elaine Dundon, Audrey Beggs, and Dianne Haggman, did the Sword Dance and a Riding Dance with Mrs. Lionel Fudge accompanying.

Eddie Matsui played a trumpet solo of a theme from "Picnic" and Walter Uegama sang, "Canadian Serenade."

Miss Lynne Boothe was another soloist singing a delightful number.

John Tamblin, bandmaster, conducted novelty band numbers.

Although the skies were threatening all day and the evening was cool there was a good crowd, but somewhat smaller than the previous concert.

LUNCH BOX TIME

In the lunch box have milk, fruit, cheese, meat or vegetables, bread and a protein food.

Muffin Tin Artists To Show Work

During the summer a number of small boys and girls with large portfolios were busily painting every Saturday morning in the Muffin Tin School of Art established by Mrs. Gwen Penny.

Now they are to have an exhibition of some of their pictures. It is to be on Saturday afternoon from 3-5 p.m., at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh, Crescent Beach.

As a treat for the children, Donnie Bryant of Penticton is bringing his puppets to amuse them.

Tea will be served. Anyone who wants to swim may do so, and all adults and children are invited, whether of the school or not. The occasion is being sponsored by the Summerland Art Club.

Macs Spirited Bid For Playoff Berth Shattered By Red Sox

They went down fighting. The baseball season ended abruptly Sunday afternoon for the Summerland Macs when they lost a ten inning duel with the Pentiction Red Sox 4-3.

It was a disastrous game for the Macs to lose, as down at Princeton the Kelowna Orioles were making hay between showers, winning a double-header 11-0 and 5-1 to leadfrog over the hapless Summerland team into fourth place and a playoff spot.

Also on Sunday the Okonots triumphed over Oliver OBC's to win the Okanagan-Mainline Baseball League championship. In Pentiction Wednesday the Macs started the plunge into baseball oblivion when the Pentiction Red Sox pounded the Macs all over the lot for a final score of 10-1. Summerland spectators came away from the game with a bitter taste in their mouths and their comments on the umpiring were far from complimentary.

On Sunday both sides were on their toes from the first pitch. George Drossos started what looked like the beginning of a merry-go-round in the first inning with a two run circuit clout, then the Macs closed the ranks, but it wasn't until the ninth that the Macs caught up and tied the score at 3-3.

Top of the tenth was a thriller for everybody in King's Park. Eyre poked out a beaut to right field that looked as if it was headed over the fence for a homer, but Barber pulled a spectacular catch. Then Egely hit a crisp ball to left field and Richards for the Sox did a one handed pickup that spelled finish for the Macs.

A base on balls, a single, a sacrifice and some weird umpiring boosted Richards across the home plate for the winning run to end the game and the season for the Summerland Macs.

Fishing News

BERT BERRY
Nothing to get excited about this last week. Spotty reports from mountain lakes and the larger bodies of water, but a definite trend towards better fishinv. Fish live best in water temperatures of between 55 and 60 degrees. Surface temperatures are around 78 now and in the Okanagan Lake you have to go down 40 feet to get the temperature. Deep fishing is the best bet right now.

Okanagan Lake—A few good catches but trolling deep and slow. Fishing off the rocks is spotty with nice catches being made on grasshopper and fly.

Fish Lake Camp—Some limit catches on the upper lakes with fly and troll. Biggest size reported last week was a 16-incher.

Garnett Valley Dam—Some good ones landed on minnows in the deep holes.

Silver Lake—Only small fish reported caught last week here.

Headwaters Camp—a busy camp with lots of fish but not many big ones landed.

McDonald and Brenda Lakes—One report from here. Fishing deep with troll the best.

Bear Lake—Pretty good reports from here and should improve.

Espron Lake—No report, but the fishing should pick up from now on.

I would like to comment on this next weekend. Most established fishing camps are booked solid, so before you take off to fish make sure you have reservations. It might save a disappointment or extra miles of travel.

Handi-Pak Carton Designed to Put Macs In Homes

Next month will see the launching of an ambitious sales campaign on B.C. McIntosh apples in the convenient, easy-to-carry Handi-Pak carton—a campaign timed to put a Handi-Pak of B.C. McIntosh apples into nearly every home West of the Lakehead, by Halloween. This is the objective of B.C. Tree Fruits Limited, the central sales agency of the tree fruit growers of British Columbia.

Trainloads of red, juicy McIntosh, Canada's favorite all-purpose apple, will start moving out of the Okanagan and Kootenay Valleys in early September, and right through October, bound for all points in Western Canada. It is planned to set down at least one car of these crisp, aromatic apples in every sizeable shopping centre on the Canadian Prairies and in British Columbia.

This carload shipment plan has met with the approval of most major wholesalers in Western Canada, and wholehearted support has been promised. Such a merchandising plan means lower freight charges than on less-than-carload shipments, thus assuring the consumer of lower prices.

The Handi-Pak carton has been chosen for the first B.C. McIntosh apples of the 1956 crop year for several reasons.

1. This type of container is quickly packed, and part of the pressure is taken off the packinghouse at a time when fruit is rolling in fast. It will contain an orchard run, thus eliminating slicing and wrapping, and will give the consumer a mixture of Extra Fancy, Fancy and Coo grade apples in various sizes.

2. The Handi-Pak carton is comparatively small and compact—easy for Mrs. Consumer to handle when she does her shopping.

ODDS and ENDS

BY
M. VANDERBURGH

Having occasion to scrub two small people these days or to see them getting scrubbed I marvel all the time at the useful practicalness of ordinary skin. I'm convinced that it's a much better covering than scales, fur, or feathers. It is so easily cleaned with just ordinary care; doesn't wear out; accommodates itself to stretching and bending; if cut, heals easily; if burnt, renews itself.

It wrinkles, unfortunately, but only after long and constant service. You'll probably be able to think of lots of other reasons why we are lucky to have such a convenient covering.

Coming up the Peach Orchard Hill every day I have been admiring the gardens of Mrs. Vern Charles, Mrs. Advocate, and Miss Mary Scott. Petunias tumble over the road under the big pine tree at Mr. Lawler's place, and are a constant delight going up or down the hill. Mrs. Charles has added a red cement retaining wall which points up her garden, complements the grass and holds together the rioting colors of the flowers. Poppies in terraces were tumbling down in showers at Miss Scott's.

Gardeners work because they love it, but they do give a great deal of pleasure to other people, too.

Peach Orchard is full of gardeners. R. M. White's collection of iris and other rare plants is famous and known to many outside Summerland. The G. A. Browns are developing their place, and at the old Walters' home there is the most beautiful copper beech tree in Summerland.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Charles, children are busy making houses, dressing up and generally having fun on the lawn under the shady trees.

Then there is Mrs. J. J. Blewett's new garden, and the noted "Japanese tea-garden" one that she and her husband developed in their former home where the son-in-law, and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Watson live. It has a bridge and clear-running stream.

There are lovely glimpses of lawn at the Tibbes and interesting indications of the Brittons' unique garden spot.

The Walter Charles inherited Mrs. E. M. Hookham's large and lovely garden when they bought their home from her.

A daily drive can be quite rewarding, especially appreciated when it's compounded with interest from other people's efforts.

The Suitcase In The Pram Mystery? Here's The Answer

A tall lady, wearing glasses, and pushing a baby carriage containing a suitcase has aroused the curiosity of many people around West Summerland.

The lady is Miss Margaret W. Liggett, a teacher and worker for the blind for 32 years, in the province of Saskatchewan. Miss Liggett taught Braille, typing, handiwork, and found solutions to general home problems for blind people, mostly those who had lost their sight beyond an employable age.

In 1954 she was superannuated. Last year the Canadian Council for the blind gave her the award of merit medal and an honorary life membership in the Council.

During the years she developed an asthmatic condition which the cold weather of the prairies aggravated so she decided to try the Okanagan climate. She chose Summerland because it was about the size she thought she could manage in the work she planned to do.

Presumably retired, she goes about with the suitcase in the pram filled with cotton house dresses which are made in the CNIB factory in Winnipeg by blind girls. She sells these on a commission basis, so even in her superannuated time she is still helping those without sight.

Registered as a legally blind person herself, Miss Liggett explains that "legally" blind means

Freight Rates To Winnipeg Are Reduced

Effective August 23, the Canadian railways granted a reduction of 18 cents per hundred weight on shipments of apples from B.C. to Winnipeg. Word to this effect was received last week by B.C. Fruits Limited from Winnipeg railway rate officials. This can be regarded as a satisfactory conclusion to a competitive situation which has prevailed in Southern Manitoba during the past year.

This time last year there was a difference of 50 cents per hundred weight in transportation costs for apples from B.C. to Winnipeg as compared with a haul 65 miles further to Noyes, Minnesota — a point just south of the International Boundary below Winnipeg. Manitoba receivers took advantage of the cheaper transportation by unloading cars of B.C. apples at Noyes and trucking the fruit 65 miles back to the Winnipeg market. This program continued when later rate adjustments narrowed the spread between Winnipeg and the border point to 43 cents last fall.

Rate granted today is $1.68 to Winnipeg as compared with previous rate of $1.86.

Some Recent Experiences With Bartlett Pears Throw New Light On Old Problems In Handling

BY DR. D. V. FISHER

Wherever they are grown, Bartlett pears are a cause of worry to the grower, shipper, distributor and consumer, owing to their tendency to ripen and break down sooner than expected. It is well known, for example, that Bartletts should be picked within a certain pressure range and stored promptly at a temperature of 32 degrees F. Moreover, experience has shown that this fruit ordinarily will not withstand cold storage for periods in excess of two and one-half months and still ripen satisfactorily when removed to room temperature. However, despite this knowledge, situations frequently occur in which it seems difficult to determine just why an otherwise normal looking lot of pears may ripen too fast or not last as long in cold storage or after removal from cold storage as might be expected.

Experiments have been conducted on the harvesting and storage of Bartlett pears in all the important pear-growing sections of the world for many years. There has been a particular emphasis on storage work with Bartlett pears in the Pacific Coast States of the United States, and in British Columbia, where very heavy tonnages of this fruit are grown. The industry in British Columbia has formulated some very good rules for handling Bartlett pears, which have gone far to insure the delivery of a sound product to the market. Thus it has been recommended that pears be picked at firmnesses of 19 to 17 pounds, delivered to the packinghouse from the orchard within 24 hours of picking, placed immediately at a temperature of 30 to 32 degrees F., and reduced to this temperature within a period of less than one week.

Despite these recommendations and precautions, pears are sometimes mishandled with the result that they remain at orchard temperatures for more than 24 hours before they reach storage, and yet these pears sometimes have stood up very well. This ability of Bartlett pears under certain conditions to withstand delays at high temperatures before entering storage led to work by the Summerland Experimental Station (which has also been confirmed elsewhere) which showed that there was an important relationship between the firmness of pears at picking and their storage performance. These experiments have been conducted at different times during the past 20 years, but the most interesting data were developed two years ago when pears were picked from three representative orchards at firmnesses of 19, 17 and 15 lbs. at harvest. Samples of this fruit were placed immediately in cold storage, and other samples were placed at 32 degree storage after delays of 24, 48 and 72 hours from picking. Furthermore, samples of each lot were held at 70 degrees and pressure tested daily to determine how much they softened when held at a high temperature. Later the fruit was removed from cold storage to a temperature of 70 degrees F for ripening and examination after approximately 7, 9, 11 and 13 weeks of refrigeration.

It was found that pears picked at a firmness of 19 lbs. and stored at 70 degrees F underwent a period of physiological inactivity and did not commence to soften or show an increase in respiration for from 5 to 8 days from time of picking. Fruit picked at a firmness of 17 lbs. and held at 70 degrees did not commence to soften until 2 to 4 days after harvest and fruit picked at 15 lbs. commenced to soften slightly over a day from the time that it was picked. These data showed an unexpected degree of leeway in the handling of Bartletts picked at firmer pressures, but this information should not be taken as an excuse for careless handling of the crop. What this experiment does serve to emphasize most clearly is that fruit picked at low pressures, such as 15 pounds, must be moved with the utmost speed into cold storage in order for it to stand up under commercial handling.

When fruit from these different pickings was removed from cold storage and ripened at 70 degrees F., it was found that pears harvested at firmnesses of 19 pounds and held at 32 degrees for two months or more showed no deterioration in keeping life as a result of delays of up to three days at 70 degrees F. before entering cold storage. Fruit harvested at a firmness of 17 and 15 pounds, however, was generally

Horticultural News Letter

Summerland, Westbank and Peachland

As reported August 21: Since the issue of our last News Letter we have had more very warm weather with temperatures ranging in the low 90's for several days. A rain, which fell on the evening of August 15 brought an end to the very warm spell. Since the weather has been for the most part quite warm with cooler nights.

Rochester Peaches are cleaned up and growers are starting to pick the three V's. The peach crop is smaller than originally anticipated due to the large number of winter damaged trees. Premature drop and shivel have been noted in a number of peach blocks. Peach Silver Mite is becoming widespread and is very prevalent on Rochester this year. Bartlett pear harvesting is getting into high gear throughout the area. The size is medium. The total pear crop, including Flemish and Anjou is expected to exceed last year's tonnage. McIntosh apples are beginning to take on some color following Wednesday night's rain. The size of this variety is quite variable. Old trees tend towards mixed sizes on the same branch — whereas younger trees have uniformly good size. The Delicious crop looks heavier than originally expected. However, size appears to be only medium so far. Considerable sun scald is showing up in this variety.

Apple trees which were heavily pruned last year are seriously infested with green apple aphids. Where control sprays have been applied and growth is moderate green aphids are not a serious problem this year. Red mites have slackened off in activity. Two spot and yellow mites are becoming noticeable in the suckers and lower growth of apple trees. Fire blight continues to be a worry in vigorously growing pear blocks.

best hospital insurance on the North American continent; education costs up to 80 percent are paid by the government, he declared; social services and assistance have been expanded, including help to municipalities.

Mr. Gaglardi said the government at Ottawa is studying that of B.C. and he stated that the Liberal government at Ottawa had not had a new idea for 50 years and there never would be any until Social Credit gets there.

Reduction of the provincial debt, 79 million was claimed for the CCF party. Paving of one-third of the existing roads in B.C. was another accomplishment related, and the highways head said that there would be 18 million in highway expenditure this year in B.C.

In the local field the minister promised that the new construction in the Okanagan on Highway 97 would be paved this year if the weather holds, and for Summerland he promised a new entrance to replace the dangerous one on Highway 97 into the Memorial Athletic Park.

Mr. Gaglardi prophesied that Premier W. A. C. Bennett would be re-elected even if he didn't appear in his own constituency, or ask for backing.

The highways minister gave three reasons for calling an election: 1. It is customary to call an election after four House sittings and the Social Credit party has finished four sittings. 2. There may be a federal election next year, and if there were a provincial election as well the whole year would be wasted in elections. 3. So that the program already started may be continued in high year next year.

The CCF party was held up by the speaker as the only real opposition; it was said that the Liberals can only go to the people on a smear basis; and as for the Conservatives, Mr. Gaglardi said, "When you see Dean Finlayson going down the street, there goes the Conservative party."

Lloyd Miller of the local Social Credit group was chairman, and present were Roy Owen, president of the South Okanagan Social Credit Association, and Mr. Marr, the premier's campaign manager.

Golden Jubilee Feature At Annual Flower Show

The 31st annual Flower Show accented Summerland's Golden Jubilee Year by having the insignia designed by H. C. Whitaker on the programs and having a special place in entries for a Golden Jubilee arranged basket of yellow or gold flowers in a decorative wall type.

Prizes for this were won by Wm. Snow and E. H. Bennett who entered flowers worthy of the occasion in golden shades.

There were 200 individual entries put in by 28 exhibitors, rather less than one-half of the members of the Society putting in entries.

Grand aggregate and the W. R. Powell Memorial trophy was won by K. McKay of Naramta who won the most points.

Judges were F. V. Hutton and E. Gregory of Kelowna. A. F. Calder of the Summerland Horticultural Society spoke briefly in the evening thanking exhibitors for their cooperation and Dr. D. L. McIntosh, show convener, presented the awards.

Delicious refreshments were served afternoon and evening by a committee headed by Mrs. M. E. Collas.

A complete list of awards and prizes is on Page 3 of this issue.

unable to withstand a delay of more than one day without serious reduction in later storage life, although there were exceptions to this statement. The satisfactory keeping life of 15-pound pears, with or without a one day delay in entering cold storage was only a little better than six weeks.

From the standpoint of fruit quality and handling it would seem that a firmness of 17 pounds at picking gave fruit of a good size and quality, and with a reasonable leeway in speed of handling. Pears picked at a firmness of 19 pounds, while a very good storage product sometimes did not ripen normally, or show the best possible flavor. On the other hand, pears picked at 15 pounds had excellent quality but were often gritty in texture and had to be handled with the greatest of care.

We should be careful to get out of an experience only the wisdom that is in it — and stop there; lest we be like the cat that sits down on the hot stove lid. She'll never sit down on a hot stove lid again — and that is well; but also she will never sit down on a cold one any more.

Any money the government spends comes from the taxes you pay. Don't let anyone tell you any differently.
