Town Bulging at Seams With Jubilee Crowds

A religious service Sunday afternoon followed by a massed band concert and community picnic drew more than 1,500 people to Memorial Park and touched off the gala four-day celebration to mark Summerland's golden jubilee.

The Sunday afternoon service was a fitting opening for the celebration as members of the community with a note of reverence turned their thoughts back half a century to pay tribute to the pioneers who forsook the comforts of populated areas to settle here and by the foundation of this community.

Clergy of various denominations in the district participated and also taking part was a massed choir of more than 100 voices recruited from all church choirs in the district and under the direction of Lashley Haggman.

Principle speaker was Rt. Rev. Philip R. Beattie, Bishop of Kootenay.

Prior to the service Reeve F. E. Atkinson extended a welcome on behalf of the municipality and officially opened the jubilee celebration.

Scene at the park readily recalled the times of 50 years ago with many in costume of that era and a solid sprinkling of beards dotting the crowd.

The service opened with the call to worship by Rev. C. O. Richmond of Summerland United Church, and this was followed by the singing of the Doxology. Invocation prayer was read by Rev. J. E. Shannon of West Summerland Pentecostal church and the massed choir sang "Ye shall dwell in the land."

Scripture reading was by Rev. Joseph James of Free Methodist Church, followed by the hymn, "Faith of our Fathers." Prayer was offered by Rev. A. F. Irving of Trout Creek Church of God, and all joined in repeating The Lord's Prayer. Rev. A. T. T. Northrup of St. Stephen's Anglican Church introduced the Rt. Rev. Beattie.

The choir was heard in its second anthem, "The Lord is my Strength and my Song", and this was followed by the hymn "Lord of the Lands". The service closed with a benediction by Mr. Richmond.

Record Crowd See Beards on Parade

A record crowd of close to 800 jammed the high school auditorium Monday night and many were unable to gain admission for what was probably the most rollicking performance in Summerland's 50 year history as beard growers exhibited the results of three months effort and put judges to the test to determine who sported the finest looking brushes.

Following "Beards on Parade" was another program equally enjoyed by the audience, "The Gay Nineties" revue. This included a variety of songs popular 50 years ago and a one-act "meller-drammer" which saw the audience join right in the spirit of the event and the villain in the person of Ken Heales drew hisses and boos on each appearance while the pure-hearted hero (Bill Laidlaw) was received with cheers and applause.

"Beards on Parade" brought together under one roof the greatest collection of fuzz probably ever assembled under one roof and more than 150 wearers crossed the stage of the auditorium to show off their mush brush.

Ladies who had declined to enter the competition on the grounds that beard growing was not considered a ladylike pursuit were ashamed by the appearance at the beginning of the program by a full-bearded Susie Mallett. Ladies regained their composure later when they noted a marked resemblance between "Susie" and male competitor Fred Mallett.

Audience came close to rioting at the beginning of the beard showing when master of ceremonies, Gordon Crockett, himself a competitor, announced impartial judges would be three members of his immediate family. He quickly changed his mind when the crowd started heating tar and collecting feathers and replaced the family judges with Mrs. Ted Piers and Mrs. Art Crawford.

The two judges fearlessly threw themselves into the jungle of whiskers and armed with rulers, tweezers, magnifying glass and sundry other implements for beard testing they endeavored to sort out the sheep from the goats. Even with all their testing equipment, it was necessary on occasions to call upon audience assistance by the measure of applause they received.

One of the highlights of the program was the appearance on the stage of one of Summerland's first citizens, Harry "Pop" Dunson, complete with beard, and his six bearded sons.

Two youngest contestants in the race were Bob Metters and Dennis Martin, both 17 years but the former won out by being younger by a month.

The party got underway at 6:30 o'clock when the crowd settled down to a box supper.

Various boards exhibitors were awarded favors by the judges but main prizes will be handed out Wednesday night at 10 o'clock at the Rotary Jubilee carnival in the arena. Winners, complete with boards, must be on hand to qualify.

Taking part in the revue were Mrs. Ken Boothe, Mrs. Flora Bergstrom, Mrs. J. P. Sheeley, Mrs. G. A. Laidlaw, Olive Atkinson and Delmar Dunham. Roy Wellwood was producer of the performance.

In the meller-drammer, members of the cast were Ken Heales, Bill Laidlaw, Mrs. Lorne Perry, Mrs. Allan Butler, Mrs. J. F. O'Leary and Mrs. Howard Shannon. Director was Allan Butler.

Kiwanis Club handled a portion of the program with several hilarious song routines and the well-disguised performers were Frank McDonald, Scotty Ritchie, Jerry Hallquist, Joe Sadlar, Jack O'Mahony and Bob Baird.

An instrumental number was provided by Keith Sayers and Bernie Roberts.

Accompanist was Mrs. Lionel Fudge.

Most popular spot in town since Saturday has been "The Friendly Centre" and over the week-end more than 1,000 registered there. When rain drove the crowd out of the park late Sunday afternoon, The Friendly Centre was crowded to the doors and again on Monday night crowds unable to gain entrance at the high school settled in there to enjoy the hospitality.

The Friendly Centre has been transformed into a mammoth family album with collections of pictures depicting early life in the community on display all around the room. Refreshments are served during the hours the centre is open and it has been a popular spot for old timers to gather and renew old acquaintances and reminisce about the "good old days".

Tonight will see the crowds that have been pouring into Summerland during the past three days headed for the arena for the mammoth Rotary carnival which will be highlighted by drawing for a deepfreeze and several other prizes and awards to the winners in the beard growing competition.

Also this evening will be two dances. Square dancers will gather at the high school auditorium and modern dancing will be at the Youth Centre.

Public dunking in the horse trough was the penalty of Trade vigilantes hit the trail to bring down any who paid last week by clean shaven Ken Blagborne when Board failed to grow whiskers to help celebrate the jubilee.

Old-fashioned car shared the spotlight with old-fashioned clothes last week as Mrs. Alex Inch and Mrs. Allan Butler had a gay time in the popular touring car of an earlier day.

Cheating just a bit was Blake Milne as he hid behind bushes whiskers while recording the historic celebration with the movie camera.

Symbol of the jubilee celebrations are old-timers like Harry (Pop) Dunson, 83, who has been here since 1892. His six sons joined him in sporting a chin crop for the celebration.

"Pioneers" Ivor Solly and Earl White stepped out in their Sunday best to join in jubilee celebration hi-jinks.

By O. L. JONES

Since my last weekly letter, Parliament has dealt most exclusively with procedure regarding the pipeline bill. Tempers flared and bitter words were tossed across the floor as speakers denounced the tactics of the government in closing debate.

Forty votes were forced on the house by the opposition each one being carried by the government majority with the assistance of the Social Credit group, who are supporting the government on the pipeline bill and all in connection with it.

The highlight of the turmoil came when Mr. D. Flemming, Conservative member Toronto, was expelled for the remainder of the day. The feeling ran very strongly among the opposition members that the chairman of the committee and the speaker of the house, both of whom were elected as Liberal members were biased in their decisions. It was rather strange that arguments raised by the opposition received no replies from the Liberal cabinet ministers.

Mr. Howe, the prime minister and Mr. Harris all leaving it to the speaker to answer the criticisms. While actually the speaker and chairman of committee, who are supposed to act as impartial referees, should have listened to counter arguments from members of the government. But such it was felt they were acting as were not forthcoming, therefore, advocates and judges on behalf of government party.

Actually, Mr. Drew sought to have a resolution of censure passed against the Deputy Speaker but it was ruled out of order for that day. He may yet come through the orthodox channels to have this matter discussed in the house. Mr. Coldwell suggested that such a debate should be allowed to take place in view of the serious charges made against the deputy speaker. These charges should be substantiated or proven incorrect.

The public, including several visitors from British Columbia, have thronged the galleries all week listening to the hectic debates indicating great public interest. To many of us, we feel no government should have the arbitrary power to close down a debate as has been done during the passage of this particular bill.

As one member said, the government has two powers they could exercise, that is, its majority and the rules of the house, while the opposition has to rely on the rules of the house only. But the member pointed out in this case even the protection afforded by the rules of the house are being denied the opposition members.

The question of American control over our natural resources has become a side issue during this debate but will again emerge during the last few days of the discussion.

It was pointed out in debate the American companies sponsoring Trans-Canada Pipeline have a combined capitalization of two billion dollars and a member found it hard to understand why a group controlling such assets had to come to the federal government for financial assistance.

Mr. Diefenbaker said, that if Trans-Canada Ltd. were a good risk it wouldn't have to go begging all over the country for help and then finally come to the government. He also had a heated argument with Mr. Howe regarding the price to be charged to consumers for gas, if and when it is ready for sale.

Adding to the confusion is the fact that an application to import this gas into United States is still being fought before the courts of that country.

Apparently competitive interests in US object to the importation of Canadian gas especially at the present time. Without a licence to import gas to the U.S. it is doubtful if this company would go beyond the Winnipeg distribution centre, claiming that without exporting a portion of this gas it would be uneconomical.

The CCF on the other hand claim the government should take over the pipeline at the present time, and build it to Eastern Canada to serve Canadians ignoring the US market.

Further confusion was added to the debate when some members claimed that Eastern Canada has already sufficient power for its

Fiftieth Jubilee . . . and a time to look to the future

SO MUCH has occurred to transform our world during the past 50 years that people now seem to be overwhelmed by it all and to be unsure of themselves. Will a return to a simpler way of life and the simple virtues be the fruit of the next 50 years in the atmosphere of the things we have succeeded in creating?

Summerland's golden jubilee falls about midway through a century of unprecedented change. Thus it is that the quiet life of a frontier community has been transformed by the very forces at work generally in the world. Summerland's progress has not been apart from it all but very much a part of it all. The backwoods has gone.

We have come from the horse age to the car age and well into the age of flight; from coal and steam to electricity and beyond the threshold of atomic and nuclear power. Politically, monarchies have been succeeded by republics and, far worse in some instances, by tyrannies. But we see our own democracy remaining steadfast, thriving by patient example, not precept.

Socially, institutions have increased in all directions, grouping society into men's, women's and children's units as never before. Industrially, amalgamations and mergers, seemingly without end, broadening pattern has been accompanied by internationalism has grown but we are not altogether ready to forsake nationalism and are not at all certain this would be wise.

We enter our golden age determined to play our part in furthering what have been the best features of life throughout the centuries, especially since the Christian era began.

Here in Summerland we have much for which to be grateful. We are never more aware of it than when visitors come, look, and sigh that this is where they would like to live — and an increasing

Orders were received by provincial road foreman Joe Arkell early this morning to re-open the road between Summerland and Peachland. This road has not been used except in certain sections for several years and was abandoned by the provincial authorities when the Lake Shore drive between the two towns was completed. The exceptionally high water in Okanagan Lake is playing havoc with the shore road.

Census enumerators W. C. W. Toabery and R. Purvis started work on Wednesday morning on taking the census of Summerland and Mineola districts. At Peachland J. C. Vicary is enumerator. Mrs. M. E. Smith received the appointment for Naramata and J. Painter for Westbank.

Nellie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Thompson, is in the hospital suffering from a bullet wound in her foot. She was the victim of curiosity with a .22 calibre rifle which discharged the bullet through the bone of her foot puncturing the bone but not breaking it. Her first aid lessons stood her good stead in stopping the flow of blood from a severed artery. She is in Summerland hospital making satisfactory recovery.

Tenders for erecting the frost-proof storage building of Summerland Storage Co. have been invited and separate contract was made for the foundation which was awarded to a Vancouver firm. The contractors will be required to complete the building by September 1 at an estimated cost of $80,000. The existing building will be used for packing soft fruits and later for shipping and storage. Manager J. Lawler is presently engaged in procuring more up to date graders and machinery.

number are rapidly swelling our community by making these dreams come true.

It is fitting that on this 50th jubilee that we should pause to count our blessings and re dedicate ourselves to the continued advancement of our community — industrially and aesthetically.

Our blessings are not hard to enumerate because so many of them come so readily to mind. Our geographic location in one of the world's most beautiful valleys; the fertile soil which provides our bounty; the abundant supply of water; the unlimited natural resources surrounding us to provide recreation; the host of recreation facilities for young and old; and most important, the people whose enthusiasm for living and close co-operation in advancing community projects insure the future prosperity of the district.

It is a time for looking back and contemplating the scene that greeted the pioneers whose foresight in establishing their homes and building a community here gives us the many advantages we enjoy today. These were rugged individualists and they begat hardy stock to continue the job they started. To those pioneers we are grateful and today we honor those who are still with us and recall with affection those who have laid down their tools and gone to their reward.

And it is a time for looking forward. Looking forward to the great future that lies ahead for this district. Those who are returning now after long absences have been startled by the many changes that have taken place in Summerland. Those who return in 10 years will be similarly startled and when another great jubilee rolls around another half century from now, pictures of Summerland as it is today will not be recognizable to those who will be looking back to this occasion.

During the first 50 years, a strong community foundation has been built in Summerland. In the years ahead, we will go forward and build on that foundation.

Mid-Week Message

Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift. (II Corinthians 9:15) Read II Corinthians 9:12-15.

Once I visited a woman in dreadful agony of mind. Her husband had committed suicide. No words could console her. She knew she was responsible, for by her continual nagging and faultfinding she had goaded him beyond endurance. She said: "I did not realize what I'd done until I saw him die. Then it was too late."

Every day we sin in thought, word, and deed. We do not see what sin is like until we realize that it was sin just as ours that brought Jesus to His death.

By our stupidity, fickleness, and blindness we crucify Him afresh. When looking at Him on the cross we see what our sin is like and what it does. We may feel horror-struck and ashamed.

We need not despair because of the shameful thing our sin has done. Greater than our sin is Christ's love. In His all-conquering love we can know pardon and deliverance from sin and the power to lead a new life. We can share individually in His victory that overcomes the sin of the world.

PRAYER

O God, we praise Thee for the giving of Thyself to us through Thy son, Jesus Christ. In faith help us to accept Him that we may share in His victory over sin and death. In His name we pray, as He has taught us: "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

OTTAWA FOLLY

It's a strange and confusing age we live in, and recent events in Ottawa make the doings of the Hollywood stars seem restrained and normal. The prima donnas of Ottawa heave money around so freely they make even Cecil B. de Mille's press agents look like pikers.

A recent example is the Trans-Canada Pipeline deal, in which the Minister of Trade and Commerce has elected to star. The "chosen instrument" of the government of Canada is dominated by Tennessee Gas Transmission Company, and has a record of broken promises as long as both my arm and leg. It has let down Mr. Howe himself and all the people of Canada. It ought to be tossed off the set and new cast of players selected; but apparently Ottawa — once engaged in an act of folly — will never, never retract.

Unless the people demand it! Unfortunately for the Ottawa prima donnas it is now pretty generally known that a new cast of players is readily available. Those in the know claim that the Frank McMahon interests, which built the successful West Coast Transmission line, offered to build the pipeline from Alberta, through Winnipeg, over top of the lakes to Montreal, without any government financing or guarantee of any description. It is rumored that Mr. McMahon was willing to post a half-million dollar bond that he'd complete the whole line by 1958; that he'd build the line as far as Winnipeg this winter.

But the prima donnas hate to admit they've been let down by their "chosen instrument." Now, on top of all the other inducements they've offered to Trans-Canada, they propose to lend $80,000,000 of public money to get started.

This sort of activity has generated a good deal of heat and dismay, even among Liberals. A Manitoba M.L.A., Jack St. John, has asked Ottawa for an explanation. Liberal newspapers, too, are beginning to ask mighty sharp questions. Manitoba is convinced it could have natural gas flowing through Winnipeg by next winter without a cent of public money expended, and without further dilly dallying with the Tennessee people, in whom they have lost all confidence.

The Summerland Review

Winter Injury Continuing to Show In Stone Fruit Trees; Apples Better

Summerland
Westbank and Peachland

As reported May 28: Since the issue of our last news letter the weather has been mostly warm and dry. A few showers fell on May 26, but since then there has been a return to warm dry conditions.

During the past two weeks many stone fruit trees have died. Cherries, apricots and peaches are the most severely injured types. It now looks as though a large percentage of the Bing and Royal Ann cherry trees in this area will not last through the season. There is also considerable loss of Moorpark and Tilton apricot trees and peach trees of all varieties. Younger apple trees which were severely injured in the trunks and at ground level are holding up fairly well so far. Present expectations are for a very light apricot and cherry crop, less than a half a crop of peaches and a lower than average prune crop. Pears should have a near normal crop. Apple prospects appear somewhat better than expected earlier. However, no drop has yet occurred and the picture may change drastically when the June drop sets in.

The cold winter has had little effect in reducing the pest situation. If anything, this has been one of the more active years for insect pests so far. Warm dry weather experienced through April and May are probably responsible for the increased activity. Blister mite and fruit tree leaf roller have been very prevalent in pears and apples. Lecanium Scale and Cottony Maple Scale are widespread on peaches and apricots. This is the first year these scales have threatened to become a major pest on stone fruits. European Red Mite and Clover Mite have been observed on apples and peaches. Fungus diseases such as Apple Scab and Powdery Mildew appear to be at a low ebb.

A few hot house tomatoes have already been shipped but peak volume will not be reached for several weeks. Planting of field tomatoes in the Westbank area is about completed. Cutworms have been causing trouble in many fields. Asparagus cuttings in the area is about completed.

Several young orchards have been planted out in the Westbank area this spring. The trend in planting these lots is definitely towards apples and away from stone fruits.

Penticton - Naramata
Kelowna - Okanagan Falls
Keremeos - Cayston

As reported May 29: in contrast to a year ago, the weather has been comparatively warm and dry. A few showers of rain did occur, however, on May 28. Temperatures have generally been in the 70's and the low 80's, although a high of 88 degrees was registered on May 17, which is the highest on this date in 45 years.

Pears have not set in proportion to the amount of bloom, and the crop will not be as heavy as anticipated. The cherry picture remains unchanged although some trees appear to be showing signs of improvement. Peach and apricot trees are showing more decline and crop prospects tend to be getting poorer. Some orchards in the Okanagan Falls area, however, are showing some good potential apricot crops. The apple crop prospects remain unchanged since the last news letter.

Growers are now applying first cover sprays for codling moth control. Disease problems are at present negligible, but insects, particularly lecanium scale on soft fruits, blister mite and leaf roller are causing considerable concern. Some pear psylla is showing up and where no ovotran was used in the pre-blossom period, mites are becoming evident.

Oliver - Osoyoos

As reported May 29: With the exception of a few small showers last week the weather has remained warm and dry. Rainfall from April 1 to date totals 0.37 inches.

It now appears the only crops which are generally good are peaches and prunes. Winesaps vary from a good crop to a fair one with a few poor crops. Some of the fruits that appeared to be set ten days ago have since fallen. Lambert cherries have set a good crop on many of the lots but Bings are generally light. Other crops now look to be only fair. Since the last report very few trees have died but a number of them have not made any more growth which would tend to indicate they might not survive the next hot spell. This is particularly true of peaches in older blocks and apricots. Although the terminal growth on apples is good as to terminal length and size of foliage on the older wood is small.

The second cover of apples will commence this week. Pear psylla, peach aphid and lecanium scale have been causing the most concern during the past two weeks. The last named pest has become much more widespread during the past season and the infestations appear to be much heavier than previously. As was stated in last report, the disease situation is still very satisfactory.

Ground crops look very satisfactory at present. Although the cutworm population was quite high this spring, the growers did a good job of controlling the pest so there was little loss. Recently the green peach aphid has been moving from the peach trees into the tomato fields, necessitating a spray on some locations.

Kelowna

As reported May 30: The weather since the last report has been exceptionally fine and warm in contrast to 1955, when it was reported the weather at this time continues abnormally cold and windy with frequent showers. The season is now nearly three weeks ahead of last year.

All sound fruit trees are making excellent growth while injured trees, especially stone fruits, are deteriorating rapidly. A large number of young trees killed to Sole Favorite . . .

But Not Only One

"We can Cook, Too!" is an unique new cook book just published which the Fisheries Council of Canada has drawn to our attention for the appealing, fish and seafood recipes—it contains an example of these is a quick and simple recipe for delicate Sole which follows. The cook book was published by the Montreal Branch, Canadian Women's Press Club, PO Box No. 21, Montreal, P.Q. and costs $2. As well as the tempting fish ideas this attractive cook book contains all manner of recipes such as tempting appetizers and unusual soups, speedy main dishes, elegant company suggestions and special occasion desserts. There are ideas for every one. As well as the favorite recipes of the press women, who prove they can cook as well as write, the book includes some unusual recipes contributed by well known Canadians and charming illustrations from the pens of outstanding artists in the country.

Delicious apples will be light. Soft fruit crops will be very light and grapes will be down sharply. Of the insect pests, leaf roller has been particularly bad. Bud moth has been troublesome in a few orchards. Codling moth has been active for 10 days. Diseases are of no concern at present. No apple scab or fire blight has been reported.

Vegetable crops are responding to the generally warm weather which has prevailed throughout May. Nearly all anticipated vegetable acreage has now been planted. Asparagus production is slightly down this year. Many of the spears are hollow and malformed, this condition apparently being caused by frost damage to the crowns during the winter. Cannons report they have passed the peak canning period for asparagus. Pole beans have emerged and tomato plants are showing first blossoms. Potatoes are up and growing well. Most growers have applied at least one irrigation. Some spring-sown onion fields have shown spotty emergence, but fall planted onions have made good growth. Cutworms have been troublesome on some tomato and asparagus fields where preplant applications of insecticide were not made.

5 Building Figures Drop During May

Building figures for this year dropped behind those of a year ago in May with a total of $14,900 during the month failing to come anywhere near the bumper month of $53,955 of May a year ago.

Total for the year is now $137,610, compared to $142,905 for the first five months of 1955.

Last month, 10 building permits were issued, two for new dwellings to the value of $10,000 and six for alterations valued at $4,000. Remaining two were for commercial premises for work estimated at $900.

Construction figures and comparison with a year ago were contained in the monthly report of building inspector Roy F. Angus.

OPR station, sit on a wharf piling and think of the good times, or while doing our stint at the Co-op. how we loved to soak up the Indian summer sunshine while eating our lunch on the south side of the station. Now they've grounded it! What a shock after all these years. I wonder what became of the lifebelt with "Summerland" printed on it, that used to hang on the eastend of the wharf?

Gone are the days of the lovely leisurely rides up and down Okanagan Lake on the paddlewheelers and the thrill of seeing them arrive or depart with the searchlight at night seeking out a guiding mark on the claybank. It fills one with nostalgia to walk around the S. S. Sycamore now and see her lying gutted, shorn of her former glory. But I suppose her heart is glad knowing a job was well and faithfully done, and in a different way she is still providing pleasure to many.

Yes, gone are the days but not forgotten.

Reflections on 'Good Old Days' Prove They Were Pretty Good, Too

MARY GARTRELL ORR
Gone are the days when we all used to go down to the mouth of Trout Creek and light a big bonfire and rake kickanines out of the water as they came up in the Fall. We'd get buckets or sacksfull as desired to get fresh and salt down for later use. The Indians would be there too, and go around selling the fish.

When Bill and I used to go out in a rowboat with Dad after the evening chores for an hour or two, and bring home half-a-dozen 12-inch lake trout strung on a willow branch.

When we young folks used to spend the long summer afternoons or evenings at Siwash Bay, our favorite beach, with its southern exposure and soft, clean sand, both in and out of the water.

When we used to go bob-sleighing from Trout Creek through Summerland, up around Garnet Valley in a big farm sleigh with the box lined with straw and blankets, with songs along the way to the accompaniment of the sleighbells, and hearty refreshments at the end. How the sparks used to fly up when the runners or the horses "shoes" hit a pebbled We had cozy buckboard or cutter sleigh rides in the moonlight, too.

When we used to go skating on the ponds in Grandad Gartrell's orchard.

When we helped (or did we get in the way) at goose-picking bees, cider-making bees and honey extracting time. Oh the sweet juiciness of the warm honeycomb as it was sliced off to expose the honey!

When we used to watch the horses being shod — the fire in bellows, and the smell of the forge being fanned by the hoooves burning.

Gone are the days when we sat around the table and did our homework by lamplight. Gone, too, are the days when we were taken to and from school in horsedrawn vans, sometimes by sleigh in winter.

Gone are the days when the old Methodist Church (since demolished) and the nearby parsonage were centres of activity. Besides the religious and musical training received there we had the use of the gymnasium and hall for games, parties, concerts. That must have been 35 years ago. Even longer ago how intrigued we were, when visiting Grandpa and Grandma English, by the Milne's Store across the street — one side had hats, ribbons, laces, thread, gloves, etc., and the other side was the candy shop — five cents bought quite a few horhound candies or teddy bears or lozenges with printing on that said nice things like "I Love You" or nasty things like "Kick Me". Away back then it was quite an adventure to go down past Elliott's Store, past Milne's, then John Tait's Horticultural office, Shield's blacksmith shop, English's livery barn across the street, the Drug store where Mr. Hogg was, the Summerland hotel with a few loungers on the porch and the handstand across the way. Next was the Empire Hall, the Summerland Supply Company Store, Mr. Rover's Shoe Repair shop and up the hill a way to the telephone office where my aunt worked for awhile.

Gone are the breathlessly hot nights the summer used to bring accompanied by thunder and lightning storms.

tection with look-out stations and. Gone too, thanks to forest proattendants, are the days and nights of choking, smoky, hot air from fires across on the mountain.

Gone are the days when younger brother, Lloyd, used to go over to the corner at the foot of Sandhill Road by the big maple trees and pick a lovely bouquet of wild bluebells (the only ones to be found around the Point) every Spring for Mother on Mother's Day. A wider road was needed for traffic so beauty had to be sacrificed.

Gone are the days when we used to go out to the icehouse, got a block of ice out of the sawdust with the tongs, wash it, put it in a grain sack, break it into pieces by hitting it with the broad side of an axe and use it along with coarse salt to freeze the creamy rich ice cream to be eaten by the soup plate full!

Gone are the days of haying in the fall. There were Indian helpers to cook for ebsides our regular family, and between meals we youngsters would take food and lard pails full of drinks out to the field. I remember especially the "water on oatmeal ones," real thirst quenchers. The source of one of Uncle Arthur Day's favorite stories told on Bill was the time he had to go barefoot through the stubble field and how he cried because of the "stickers."

No more long hours of anguish waiting for Lloyd, a little fellow then, who was gone to the faraway Garnet Valley Range on his pony to round up and bring in the cattle to be kept in and fed over winter.

I can see Grandad Gartrell yet on sports' days, for which he had a passion, sitting on an apple box in the shade of the nut trees waiting for some kind soul to come along and take him to Pentiction to the horse races and ball game.

Gone are the days when we used to walk or ride around the

Macs Climb to Top of Valley Loop In Week-end Shuffle of Standings

After a week end of wild baseball in the OMBL the Summerland Mac's by downing the Oliver OBC's 10 4 find themselves at the top of the heap with a 4-2 record.

Kamloops fell to second place as they lost to the Kelowna Ori-hapsless Princeton nine 19-3. As predicted earlier in the season top spot wasn't too far away and now that the boys have started to hit they should remain the class of the loop.

Cristante came up with his fourth win in as many starts to lead all pitchers in the league. The Summerland boys were hitting the ball and got a total of 12 hits including home runs by Hooker and Taylor. The Mac's win over Oliver and Penticton's win over Princeton sets up next Sunday's game here in Summerland against the Penticton team as a natural. It is reported that Raptis, Drossos and Burgort are the three back playing and this alone will make for an exciting game for the fans.

BROWNIE CHATTER

Six Brownies were central figures in a "fly-up" ceremony to Girl Guides on Wednesday, May 30 and they were received into the senior group before a large attendance of parents at the Youth Centre.

The girls who had earned their golden hand badge before their 11th birthday and were honored in the ceremony were Anthea Morgan, Darlene Shannon, Carol Williams, Norma Hankins, Sharon Geres and Darlene Campbell.

The hall was decorated for the occasion with the "magic woods" and beautiful arches by the members of the Guide Association under direction of the president Mrs. C. E. Piers.

Forming the tunnel through which the girls passed on their way to Guides were 16 new tweenies. The new guides received their wings from District Commissioner Mrs. Bruce Blagborne, who is also Brown Owl of the first pack. Mrs. Lashley Haggman is Brown Owl of the second pack.

The ceremony was followed by Brownie and Guide games and then refreshments were served by the members of the association.

Others felt with the advent of thermo-nuclear power which is on the brink of being developed the use of gas would become obsolete.

When the bill is through the commons it has still to go before the senate. As that body is composed of all Liberals excepting seven Conservatives and one Independent, it is doubtful if it will be held up for a long period.

In any case, the government is determined to have this bill enacted into law by June 7. One or two Liberal senators, like Senators Croll, Crerar and Power have already expressed objection to anything that throttles the democratic process of government and they might exercise their right of independence during the passage of this bill through the senate.

Banking Offers Career-Seekers A Sound Future

Today, ambitious young men are finding that banking, as a life work, offers a greater scope than ever before.

In recent years, leading banks like the Bank of Montreal have revolutionized the working conditions of their staff members. An increased use of mechanical aids has banished much of the dull routine work.

Opportunity for promotion comes to promising young men far more often than it did to their forefathers. Finally, banking salaries now compare favorably with those in most other occupations. An even more favorable comparison can be made for the bank's pension plan.

That banking can be a satisfying vocation is emphasized by Ivor Solly, Manager of the West Summerland B of M. "Good bankers", Mr. Solly points out, "get plenty of opportunity to be of real service to the community in which they live".

If you are interested in banking as a career, drop in for a chat with Mr. Solly tomorrow. He will be glad to outline the B of M picture for you and answer any specific questions you may have.

Monster Float Parade Highlight of Celebration

A 45-minute float parade surpassing anything of its kind ever witnessed in this district was highlight of Summerland's jubilee celebration last Wednesday and streets were thronged with visitors from all over the valley as well as more distant points to participate in the mammoth celebrations.

One of the outstanding floats in the parade, and winner of the first prize in the non-commercial section was the entry of the Japanese-Canadian Citizens. It depicted a Japanese setting complete with trees from that country and hanging Japanese lanterns. Riding on the float were a number of girls of Japanese origin dressed in the costume of their homeland.

Judges of the floats, which were classes in four sections, were Mrs. G. J. Rowland of Penticton; Alderman Jack Treadgold of Kelowna and Maurice Finnerty of Penticton.

Among the visitors riding in the parade were Hon. Wesley Black, provincial secretary representing the premier, and Alderman Doug Southworth representing the mayor of Penticton.

Three bands marched in the parade, the Summerland Band, Summerland High School Band, and the Lester Pearson School Band from New Westminster.

Other prize winners in the non-commercial section were Summerland Board of Trade, and Summerland Branch of the Canadian Legion. Honorable mention in this section went to Penticton and District Peach Festival Association and the Summerland Hospital Society.

Prize winners in the commercial section were Summerland Co-Op Growers and Summerland and District Credit Union.

Tops as comic and original were Summerland Teen Town, Summerland Square Dance Club, and Summerland Rotary Club.

Special awards went to Summerland Art Club.

Also taking part in the parade was a display of some of the municipal equipment of earlier years, along with that in use today.

Marching were cadets of the high school corps, Boy Scouts, and Guides. Also participating were a group of Summerland women who had donned turn-of-the-century garb for the occasion.

In the evening, residents had their first look at the recently-completed arena permanent cement floor as they trooped into the rink for the Rotary Jubilee Carnival to participate in the various games and witness presentation of prizes to the winning beard growers.

In a drawing at the carnival, first prize of a deepfreeze went to Harold Cameron of Vancouver. A mantle radio was won by Mrs. Fred Mallett and an electric coffee percolator by W. R. Chalmers.

At two other locations, jubilee celebrations were being wound up with dancing. Square dancing at the high school auditorium and modern dancing at the Youth Centre.

Centre of interest during the four days was the Friendly Centre at the IOOF hall and more than 2,000 registered there during the celebration.

Tuesday night the Gay Nineties performance at the high school for the second time drew a capacity audience. For the second performance an additional act was an orchestra composed of Fred Gale, Mrs. Jean Dunsdon, Marcel Bonthoux and Wally Cook. Mrs. Dunsdon also provided piano music between acts of the revue.

Scenes from the earliest days of Summerland's history were re-enacted last Wednesday in colorful pageant which captured a note of authenticity that gave more than 2,000 spectators the feeling that they were watching actual history in the making.

Bulk of the credit for the impressive performance went to Mrs. A. K. Macleod who was responsible for the organization of the pageant.

Legend, as well as fact, had a part in the animated portrayal of Summerland's development and presented as the first to look upon this land was a slithering Ogo-pogo. Following him came the Indians who had camped overnight at the park and next the first settlers arriving by covered wagon and horseback.

Then the town of Summerland started to take shape with the erection of a wharf, the Empress Hotel and the Summerland Supply Co. Store. The scene changed as methods of transportation advanced from covered wagon to democrat and finally to the horseless carriage.

Many old-timers recalled their own arrival in Summerland when a replica of the paddle-wheeler steamer "Aberdeen" came into sight footing its whistle and sending out a column of black smoke and pulled into the wharf to discharge its passengers dressed in the styles of the day.

The pageant was narrated by R. S. Oxley.

Victor Blewett animated Ogo-pogo. Barclay Ranch boys were played by Chester Reinertson, Jake Heichert, Irma Anderson, Don Hermiston, Billy Wilkinson, Emil Bonthoux, Jimmie Royer, Steve and Doug Dunsdon, Paul and Wally Littau, Keith Sayers, Charlie Wilkinson, Clive Atkinson and George Stoll, Jr.

Ferdie Brent acted as the prospector. Those who were at the Lower Town included Miss Marian Cartwright, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wilkin, Linda and Marcia, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wouters, Magda, Bela, Deewet, Everdine, Annalise, and Eleanor, Ivor Solly, Mrs. Lionel Fudge, Ken Heald, Mrs. J. P. Shelley, Mrs. Flora Bergstrom and Breen, Mrs. K. L. Boothe, Jack McDiugald, Isabel and Carol Reinertson, Mr. and Mrs. Doney Wilson and Bonnie, Anne Macleod, Marjorie Campbell, Carole Allison, Lenore Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. Tom McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lloyd-Jones of Peachland, the former is a nephew of Dr. Lloyd Jones who owns the 1906 car, Mrs. George Forster, Harry Dunsdon, Mrs. Jim Dunsdon, R. M. H. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wellwood, Billy, Cherie, Peggy, Lee, Ida and Michael, Mrs. W. Sherwood and Garth, Mrs. R. H. Bleasdale and Mary, Linda Rumball, Mrs. W. G. Gillard and Diane and Louise Shannon.

Dancers were Kay Agur, Don Hermiston, Nettie and Lloyd Shannon, Goldie and Paul Charles, Hilda and Harvey Eden, Harold Doml, Mrs. Ed Martin, Muriel and John Holman, Pauline and Channon Snow, Harold Williams, Ione Charles, Albie and Andy Fasse, and Florence and Phil Pelletier.

Crew of the Aberdeen was made up of Sandy Jomori, Bruce Gately, Ole Egely and George Taylor.

Working on the pageant committee with Mrs. Macleod were Miss Marian Cartwright, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdie Brent, Mrs. J. Y. Towgood, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Reinertson, Mrs. Lionel Fudge, assisted by Stan Gladwell, Miss Doreen Tait, A. D. Gately, Fred Beavis and others.

An outstanding feature among the long list of many friendly gestures of Summerland to the Old Timers, those residing here now and before 1900, was the municipality's invitation dinner, held on Tuesday, June 5, in the United Church hall. Over 150 guests were seated.

After singing O' Canada, Reeve F. E. Atkinson greeted warmly those attending. He stated that Summerland was always particularly concerned for its citizens' progress and traced its planning for their comfort and mentioned the many modern facilities offered to its residents. He assured the gathering he was exceedingly pleased to welcome back so many who came in response to the invitation.

He elated among those present especially, Fred Gartrell here in 1885, Mrs. Hayman, of Naramata, daughter of J. M. Robinson the founder of Summerland as a fruit growing entity. Then Mrs. Hayman and Mr. Gartrell cut the large birthday cake with its great circle of lighted candles, as the gathering sang "Happy Birthday".

The revee then introduced Mr. Gartrell who came here by schooner treok across the prairies in 1885; Harry Dunsdon who came in 1891; Granville Morgan 1893, R. M. H. Turner here in 1895, Mrs. James Ritchie 1905 and Mrs. Hayman.

Other special guests Mrs. White-pioneer of Osoyoos, Dr. Kathleen Ellis, daughter of Tom Ellis pioneer cattle rancher of the south Okanagan, Mrs. Alice Wright, daughter of Mr. Allison after whom Allison Pass was named, Fred Anderson, prominent in early sporting circles, Mrs. Miller of Peachland who came in 1898. He regretted exceedingly that Mrs. H.

Expresses Thanks Of Jubilee Committee

With the jubilee celebrations over, the community this week settled back to routine but still busy in the steering committee which co-ordinated the activities. Appreciation of the community to the many who contributed to the success of the anniversary was expressed this week by the chairman, H. J. Barkwill in a letter to the editor of The Review.

Following is the text of Mr. Barkwill's letter:

Dear Sir:

On behalf of the Jubilee Steering Committee, I would like to thank all those who worked on the Celebrations held last week. There is no doubt the Celebrations were a success and this success was due to the whole-hearted effort put forth by all concerned from old-timers to newest arrivals. This has been truly a community celebration and the Steering Committee deeply appreciates the support received.

H. J. Barkwill,
Chairman,
Jubilee Celebrations
Steering Committee.

Management of Summerland Review Changes to Sid Godber on July 1

Summerland Review at the end of this month will be under new management with Sid Godber of Penticton taking over from the present publisher W. Gordon Crockett.

Mr. Godber is well known in the Okanagan Valley having been for the past six years editor of The Penticton Herald.

C. C. Strachan Named to Morden

Dr. C. C. Strachan, senior food technologist at the Experimental Farm, Summerland, for the past 20 years has been appointed superintendent, Experimental Farm, Morden, Manitoba.

Dr. Strachan has played an important part in the development of the processing industry in British Columbia, and particularly the Okanagan Valley. He has seen the development of, and been closely associated with, vitaminized opalescent apple juice, dehydrated fruits and vegetables, glazed cherries and, more recently, a complete line of fruit pie fillings.

Dr. Strachan was born in Portland, Oregon, and at the age of three moved to Saskatchewan. In 1915 he moved to Tranquille where his father was superintendent of the Sanitarium ranch. All of Dr. Strachan's public education was taken in Kamloops. Following this he studied at University of British Columbia, graduating with a BSA degree in 1931. Immediately following graduation he became assistant at the experimental farm here, and in 1935 won his master of science degree in food technology from Oregon State College. On returning to the experimental farm he became closely associated with the fruit and vegetable processing laboratory and F. E. Atkinson, head of that laboratory. In 1940 Dr. Strachan won his doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Massachusetts, again in food technology.

Dr. Strachan is well qualified for his new duties, having had considerable experience not only in the fruit and vegetable processing field but also in general horticultural work at Summerland. Some of his early work dealt with color strains of apples. The experimental farm at Morden emphasizes horticultural work, particularly tree fruit and vegetable breeding. They also have a fruit and vegetable processing laboratory that is fostering processing of horticultural crops in the southern Manitoba area.

Dr. Strachan and his family of two boys and a girl plan to leave Summerland toward the end of July and Dr. Strachan will take up his new duties at Morden, at the beginning of August this year. Mrs. Strachan, the former Miss Kay Lacey, is also a graduate in agriculture from the University of British Columbia.

Mr. Crockett, who has been publisher of The Review for the past three years, will be leaving Summerland later this month for Vancouver where he will assume duties as western representative of Class "A" Newspapers.

G. CROCKETT

The new editor is well-known in Summerland through his regular column, According to the Mood, and also for his coverage of the Penticton Vee's, who he accompanied on their travels to world hockey supremacy.

Mr. Godber brings to The Review a wealth of newspaper experience. He started in the business before he came to Canada from England and worked with both The Province and Sun in Vancouver as well as with a number of weekly newspapers in the province. One thing both the present and new editor have in common is that both served as editor of The Powell River News. Mr. Godber left Powell River when he assumed his present position and he was succeeded there by Mr. Crockett.

Mr. Crockett took over The Review a little more than three years ago from J. R. Amstrong, who was one of the founders of the Summerland newspaper in 1948, and T. McKay.

Mrs. Crockett with two children, Ian and Douglas, left today for Vancouver. The present editor will be on the job until Mr. Godber takes over July 1.

Unveil Plaque To Rev. G. H. Daly

A pioneer Summerland minister was honored during jubilee week with the unveiling of a plaque to the memory of Rev. G. H. Daly in the front vestibule of Summerland United Church on Sunday morning.

Mr. Daly was minister of St. Andrew's United Church here from 1912 to 1916 and the plaque was presented by a group of old-timers who remembered him as a friend and admired his work in ministering to this district. Mr. Daly served the district at a time when it was necessary to travel by foot to reach many of the surrounding camps in the area to conduct services.

Present for the occasion Sunday morning were two sons, C. M. Daly of Roseland and Dr. J. F. Daly of Trail.

Registration Forms Distributed For Rotary Free Swimming Classes

Application forms went out this week to all homes in the district for youngsters to register for free swimming classes sponsored each year by Summerland Rotary Club.

Eligible for the free swim classes are children 6 to 15 years of age and instructors of classes this year is Mrs. Lavender Hyde.

Each youngster will receive two 40-minute instruction periods each week for about six weeks.

Rotarian heading the swim class committee again this year is Gordon Beggs.

Swim classes will be held for the first time this year at the new Rotary Beach formerly known as Louis' Beach at Evans' Point. Rotarians have been busy with work parties under the direction of Les Rumball for the past couple of months constructing a wharf and getting the beach ready for the classes.

Transportation to the beach will not be provided for the children but the Rotary committee is endeavoring to form car pools among parents so that each will only have to make the occasional trip to transport the youngsters.

The registration forms distributed this week should be completed with the required information, signed by the parent and left at either Daniel's Grocery, The Family Shoe Store or Holmes and Wade.

The registration forms must be in before next Thursday noon and then each registrant will receive a card advising the hour and days of classes.

By O. L. JONES

The pipeline bill has finally become history as far as parliament is concerned. Its passage through parliament produced the most hectic period of debate ever witnessed in the house of commons. The speaker and his deputies, who presided, were charged with unfairness and partisanship, which was very noticeable when the OCF and Progressive Conservative speakers, particularly Stanley Knowles and David Fulton, brought up questions on procedure that were well argued.

No one on the government side got up to reply leaving the matter to the speaker and his deputies to rule on. Unfortunately, they had no alternative but to represent the other side of the house. The presentation which should have been made by one of the Liberal members was made by the speaker then after presenting his point of view he inevitably ruled in favor of his own understanding of the procedure. This, of course, filled the opposition to such an extent that at one time even mild-mannered M. J. Coldwell asked the speaker if the opposition were ever sometimes right in their contention.

Mr. Drew went further and moved a vote of censure on the speaker. Which as I write this letter is now in the course of being debated and will eventually be voted on by the house.

The outcome is predictable as the Liberal majority will see to it that the speaker is absolved of blame. Unfortunately the bitter criticism of the actions of the speaker and his deputies has already lowered the esteem in which they were held by all parties.

Many of the rulings were made under extreme pressure in order to meet the deadline of June 7th for final passage of Trans-Canada bill. No doubt many of the decisions made during this debate will have to be revised when order is once again restored to the house, otherwise parliamentary democracy has reached a very low ebb.

The government are very much to blame for leaving this bill standing on the order paper until the very end of session.

They had placed it there in January and consequently refused to discuss it until finally they took the unprecedented step of invoking closure. The last was on Tuesday night, June 5th, when we debated the bill until 20 minutes after 3:00 Wednesday morning when the last vote was taken.

All during the debate the galleries had been crowded and crowds remained until the very last when members were leaving the house at 3:30 a.m. They were cheering some of the members and hooting others in no unmis-takable terms.

After the commons finally passed the bill it went before the senate the next morning but this large liberal body had already agreed to expediate its passage in one day. The seven Conservative members of the senate were naturally out-voted but I understand are prepared to fight to the limit.

Supplementary estimates were totalled today, and they boosted the proposed federal spending for 1956-57 fiscal year to $4,874,125,518 the highest in peacetime. An increase of $173,612,513 over the estimated spending for the last year. It is still likely that further supplementary estimates will be proposed before the end of the fiscal year.

The government does not include old age pensions in its estimates, these are financed by special taxes and paid from a special fund of approximately $870,515,000 in the current year.

Osoyoos Board of Trade expressed anxiety over the level of the Osoyoos Lake. Its present concern with the high water was it may cause a health problem.

For the information of my readers who also may be worried I got in touch with Brig-General Carrier, chief engineer of the department of public works here in Ottawa, who is fully conversant with the situation but pointed out that complete control over various lake levels in the Okanagan will not be arrived at until Okanagan flood control project is completed. He pointed out there is still quite a bit of work to be done. He also reminded me the provincial department of public works is in charge of the project with the Federal department co-operating. ## Valedictory Address

The Valedictory Address given by Neil Woolliams at the Summerland High School Graduation Exercises

SOME ARE born great; some achieve greatness; and some have greatness thrust upon them.

Nevertheless, I feel it an honor to be the Valedictorian for the graduating class of '56 — to have the privilege of publicly expressing our appreciation and gratitude to all who have encouraged us thus far — and especially to the teachers who have so patiently worked on us, with us, and for us for the past twelve years.

A good many of us began together in grade one. Miss Banks was our first teacher. We remained together until Christmas, an unwieldy class of 70, when, for the first time in this area, Summerland had two grade one classes.

By the time we had reached grade seven, the Summerland Jr.-Sr. High School had become a reality. It was a great day for all of us when we carried our books over to this fine new school. And now we are proud to be the first class to graduate from this school, having completed all our high school courses under this roof.

But in entering Junior-Senior High School, one privilege was denied us. We had all looked forward to being taught by Mr. MacDonald but were unfortunately unable to have this experience.

Somehow, our high school years have passed

even more quickly than did those in elementary — And here we are today, hardly able to believe that our school days are over.

In our years at school, our teachers have taught us, through participation in sports, drama, band, student government, and most important, through studies, to prepare ourselves for the future.

Our education is intended to prepare us to take our places in the world. How well we have learned, and will be capable of applying our lessons only time will tell.

To you, the teaching staff and Mr. Macleod, principal of Summerland High, who have with patience, perseverance, kindness, firmness, and forbearance, worked with us over the past six years, we offer our heartfelt thanks.

We would also like to thank the members of the community for whose support we are grateful.

We would thank our parents for the constant encouragement and backing we have received during our years at school.

To you all, we say good-bye. It is the sincere hope of all of us that in the years to come, we will render useful service to God, our country and our fellow man.

Jubilee Celebration

(Contributed by Alex Steven)

WE ARE SURE that it will not be accepted as a statement of heresy when we claim that Summerland at the beginning of last week had hailed and passed through its "finest hour", and as citizens, we are now sitting back in the afterglow, as it were, and reflecting upon all that had been crowded into so short and so joyous a period, and vainly trying to capture the full meaning of . . .

Picturing all tradition bears,

Of what we owe to fifty years.

From the moment when such a celebration was first mooted to the last dance on Wednesday evening, the entire program of events as carried out has proved an unqualified success. Nay, we might just as well strike an emphatic note and describe it as a triumph of organization for so small a community, and reflects the utmost credit of every single committee-member from the general convenor downward. They had given of their best, and the resulting success is surely confirmation complete.

To particularize would appear invidious, but when we begin to think afresh of that mammoth parade, a mark of justifiable commendation is surely pardonable. Here, we are given to understand was the contribution of the local Kiwanis — a service club indeed that leaves nothing to chance.

In that outstanding spectacle we appeared to see weeks of careful conception, deliberation and effort. From the tandem bike to the Japanese entree the entire pageant spelt success all the way. That Nipponese float indeed gave us a new thought. Not only was it noteworthy but in addition it was a striking local symbol of racial integration and universal brotherhood.

Yet beyond all that the eye had seen and what the lips had uttered was the spirit revealed by the return "home" of so many of our absent ones, many of them after an absence of three or

Mid-Week Message

This is the victory that overcomes the world, our faith. (I John 5:4, R.S.V.) Read Hebrews 11:32-44.

The object of the Christian's faith is God. We say boldly, "I believe in God, the Father Almighty." Also the object of the Christian's faith is Jesus Christ. Paul said, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."

Annually many people visit Thomas Jefferson's mansion. The guide shows them three things at this historic place: the weathervane on top of the mansion; the old clock in one of the rooms; and the compass on the floor on the porch. The guide explains that the weathervane changes with every changing wind, the clock with every tick of time but that the compass never changes. East is always east, west is always west, south is always south and north is always north. So some things in life never, never change.

God never changes. He is always the same heavenly father. Christ never changes; He is "the same yesterday, and today, and for ever."

PRAYER

Our heavenly Father, Thou art the object of our faith. We believe in Thee. We also believe in Jesus Christ, the hope of our salvation. In these days of change and uncertainty, sustain us this day to walk forth by faith in Him. In His blessed name we pray. Amen.

four decades, and who had in their time shared with us the bridge paths of yesteryear. Here in evidence was the homing instinct — the strangest of all human emotions. They had returned to break bread with us afresh and to relight their store of incense by the altar of remembrance.

For such manifestations of regard, for the tributes which you of the succeeding generation have thus tendered us, we resident Old Timers are particularly grateful. We accept your plaudits in the same spirit in which they have been extended, not only for ourselves but in respect for the memory of those who throughout the years had made their contribution and withdrew from the stage of time, leaving with us the consciousness of the grip of faith and the symbol of the eternal torch.

And so while the curtain is still descending upon so memorable a pageant, let us reach for the climatic thought of Gilman before Harvard in 1836, substituting the name only —

Fair Summerland, Thy songs to thy Jubilee throng
And with blessings surrender thee o'er;
By these festival rites from the age that is past
To the age that is waiting before.

Pioneer Days

From Early Files of The Review

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

JUNE 10, 1921

Ballotting on the school by-law has been postponed. This became necessary by discovery that the petition asking council to resubmit the by-law should have been presented after expiration of 60 days instead of within 60 days as has been understood. There were many present who were in a critical mood and closely questioned the architect as well as other speakers on many phases of the question.

Summerland is to have a three-day Chautauqua course in September. Some 22 citizens of Naramata and Summerland are getting behind the movement. Season tickets will cost $2 for adults and $1 for children consisting of three evenings and two afternoons of entertainment.

Municipal clerk F. J. Nixon has been advised of the appointment of Wm. Ritchie to a position on the Summerland board of police commissioners.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Wright at Renfrew, Ontario, on May 28, Audrey Jean.

That section of Lakeshore Drive between Summerland and Peachland has been officially closed on account of damage done by the unprecedented height of Okanagan Lake. For some days the road has been in a more or less dangerous condition because of cutting away by water. On Monday, wind squalls occasioned further damage and the road was closed that evening.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

JUNE 18, 1926

Old residents of Summerland were shocked to hear of the sudden death last Thursday at Sugar Lake of George Nevil Barclay, a pioneer of Summerland district. The late Mr. Barclay was the first fruit rancher on the Summerland benches. It was from him that J. M. Robinson of Naramata purchased the land for the townsite of Summerland.

Hampers by the absence of the regular catcher, Alf Johnston, who is out of the game owing to an accident — the local baseball team lost to Oroville by a score of 15-6 on the Flat diamond.

Two thousand valley residents gathered at the experimental station for the annual "picnic". The committee in charge — headed by John Tait — is highly gratified at the success of the picnic.

H. Lumsden has disposed of a portion of his Prairie Valley property but at present will operate it for the new owners.

Mr. McKenna and the two Misses McKenzie of Manilla, New South Wales, Australia, are guests of Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Bolly.

The packinghouse of Walter's Ltd. is now practically completed and fruit is being received daily. The driveway allows trucks to come right up to the receiving door.

Red Cross Holding Water Safety Classes

The 1956 Red Cross Water Safety Program is under the direction of Dr. Max Howell, with Mr. R. Killam as chairman.

Instructor schools which teach the Holger-Nielsen method of life saving, as well as swimming and lifesaving techniques are now being held. June 15 through 17, school will be held in Prince George.

On June 24 through 27, it will move to Vancouver Island with a school at Courtenay. Kelowna school for the Okanagan district will be held July 29 through to August 2. Schools will wind up in Trail July 5 through to 8.

Candidates must be 18 years or over and able to pass a senior swimming test and have a sound knowledge of water safety principles and practice, as well as possess leadership qualities. It is then understood that the candidates who pass the school will teach swimming in their own localities. The Red Cross does not teach swimming, it teaches instructors.

Gardening for Gold New Mining Venture

There is a common weed growing in British Columbia that might be worth $200 a ton. In fact the ashes produced by burning a ton of this weed may be exactly that amount.

The weed is known as the horse tail and is sometimes known as the scouring rush, or to be technical Equisetum Arvense.

The secret of its value lies in the fact that when growing in light sandy soil with a low gold content it concentrates the gold in its leaves and stems. When these are heated and burned the ashes from a ton of them may yield as much as six ounces of pure gold. Both the stems and creeping rootstocks from which they grow harbor gold. Some commercial mining companies are toying with the idea of putting the weed to work so that it may have commercial possibilities.

If you find where the horetail grows you might be lucky enough to reap a fortune if you go gardening for gold.

Manufacturing now employs one out of four working Canadians, the same proportion as in the United States.

It is now time for application of the second codling moth spray. The second codling moth spray is often a good spray in which to apply minor elements to the trees since the foliage is by now well developed and can readily absorb these elements. All fruit trees should receive an application of boron annually in the spray if they are not getting ground applications. Five pounds of soluble boron compound per acre is the recommended amount for the spray application.

In addition, many apple trees lack magnesium, a spray application of 20 pounds magnesium sulphate per acre is recommended for all apple trees in this area. Where a serious deficiency of magnesium occurs the apple leaves turn yellow and brown in August. In such cases much greater amounts of magnesium may have to be applied to correct this condition. Magnesium sulphate may be applied with the second codling moth spray or in a later spray. Both boron and magnesium are compatible with DDT and may be applied with it. They have also been applied with most of the summer insecticides and fungicides with no apparent ill effect. It is, however, advisable to avoid "shotgun mixes" as much as possible. Quite often the spray schedule can be arranged so that the mineral additives are introduced at a time when the only insecticide being used is DDT.

While on the subject of mineral deficiencies, what about zinc and manganese? A lack of zinc causes little leaves and rosettes of larger leaves on apple trees. Where these symptoms occur a special dormant spray of zinc sulphate may be necessary. A lack of manganese causes yellowing along the veins of foliage particularly on the older leaves. Up to eight pounds of manganese sulphate may be needed in one spray to clear up this deficiency. These two latter conditions, zinc and manganese deficiency, often occur in seepage locations or areas with a high water table. They are often quite localized in valley bottoms and near stream banks or lake beds. It is for this reason that no general recommendation can be made for the regular application of these elements. They are elements which should be applied when the symptoms warrant and careful diagnosis shows that a deficiency prevails.

Finally, this is not a good year to recognize mineral deficiency symptoms. Many trees are suffering from a general foliage yellowing brought on by winter damage. The best that can be said for this year is that where deficiencies were known to exist in the past the treatment for them should be continued.

Deer as part of the landscape, can look most picturesque but the damage they do to cultivated crops can offset any natural beauty they have. It is gratifying to know their eating habits can be checked by the use of deer repellent but the size of the deer population and local habits are factors which must also be considered.

During the summer of 1955 one or more deer in a small apple orchard were causing damage to trees. While no deer were ever seen, their presence was easily detected from hoof marks and the persistent browsing on the new terminal growth of apple, pear, peach and holly trees and loganberry canes. The use of a repellent to stop this eating seemed worthwhile so some benzene hexachloride was dusted lightly on to the terminal growths. No further eating in dusted areas was noticed until there were several inches of new growth on trees. When feeding was again started a further dust application was given and the value of the product was again proved.

Benzene hexachloride is a commercial insecticide and can be obtained as a five per cent dust at about $2.50 for 20 pounds. When applied lightly to terminal growth of trees only a few pounds would be needed for an acre, considering rain and new growth, up to perhaps six applications would be needed in a season. The feeding habits of deer change but whenever possible it is desirable to drive them away before a persistent visiting habit has become established. They also may change their areas of feeding so for considerable periods of time there may be no deer present and then quite suddenly they may move in and do their damage.

Benzene hexachloride will not damage plants when applied lightly but it may cause an objectionable taint to edible portions if applied within a month of harvest time. When used on vegetables or bearing fruit trees this should be kept in mind.

There are numerous other deer repellent products on the market such as Zip, Diamond Brand Deer Repellent and Bone Tar Oil. Some of these products repel by smell and some by taste. Manufacturers' instructions are usually detailed and give the various instructions that should be considered. There are mechanical devices such as periodic gun explosions, and electronic devices, such as the Deer Fly.

Mr. Keith Talley, of Allstate Insurance Company (left) presents University of British Columbia president Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie with a $5,000 cheque to cover costs of a three-week driver education course for prospective teachers of high school driver training programs. Course will be given by the UBC Extension Department July 9 to 27.

Experiment in Grass Control Methods To Aid in Combating Mice Damage

Apple growers know from experience with mice and winter injury that grass should not be allowed to grow unhindered around the base of apple trees. Many growers hoe or chop grass away in the fall creating low areas around the trees. These low spots hold water and rapidly fill with suckers which require constant attention. The growing interest in the sod-mulch management system is aggravating the problem still further since grasses thrive in most mulch materials. A search for some practical chemical method of grass control in apple orchards has been underway for some years by research workers at the department of agriculture experimental farms.

Apple growers know from experience with mice and winter injury that grass should not be allowed to grow unhindered around the base of apple trees. Many growers hoe or chop grass away in the fall creating low areas around the trees. These low spots hold water and rapidly fill with suckers which require constant attention. The growing interest in the sod-mulch management system is aggravating the problem still further since grasses thrive in most mulch materials. A search for some practical chemical method of grass control in apple orchards has been underway for some years by research workers at the department of agriculture experimental farms.

Among the chemicals tested, Cyanamid, water soluble Cyanamid, and more recently dalapon, should be mentioned. Dalapon shows excellent promise as a grass suppressant when applied shortly after grass growth begins in late spring. Such commonly used grasses as orchard grass, the fescues, Kentucky blue grass, and twitch grass or couch grass were completely suppressed for the entire season when dalapon was applied at 10 pounds per acre (1.5 oz. per tree). Dalapon did not appear to affect the apple trees and caused very little change in the growth of broad-leaved plants such as dock, dandelion, alfalfa and ladino clover. For the control of grasses in the vicinity of the trunk dilute five pounds of dalapon in 100 gallons of water and apply half gallon of the solution by means of a watering can or low pressure sprayer. Where it is desired to control all grass growth in the mulch area beneath the tree no more than two gallons of the prepared solution should be applied to the tree area. The tank and equipment should be washed thoroughly after the chemical has been applied.

5 Missionary to Tell Of Holy Land Tour

A cordial invitation is extended to the people of West Summerland to see and hear Rev. Cyril Hutchinson, former resident of here, now principal of the Berean Bible College in Calgary.

Rev. Hutchinson spent five months last year touring the Mission fields of India, Nigeria, Africa and the Land of Palestine and was able to get some excellent pictures of the places and people in these various countries.

On Sunday June 17, at 7:30 p.m. Mr. Hutchinson will present the pictures of the Indian and African fields in the Church of God, Trout Creek. Monday, June 18, at 8:00 p.m. he will present his program at the Free Methodist Church, West Summerland. He will show the pictures taken of notable places in the Holy Land including Calvary and the Empty Tomb which many regard as the site identical with the scriptural description of the place where Christ was buried.

Many of the scenes make current news most vivid. Whether the Arabs or the Jews will control Palestine is the most significant question of the headlines today. This presentation is of interest to everyone both from a political and a religious viewpoint.

Teen Town Topics

BY RUBY GRONLUND

I hope everyone noticed on our jubilee entry the sign "Comic, 1st prize." We would like to thank Don Cristante, Mrs. D. Wilson and the Custom Body Shop for making this entry possible. The entry consisted of Miss Teen Town - 1956, Darlene Bonthoux and her two princesses Patricia Boyd and Nella Huva riding in a modern convertible. Behind this was an old convertible decorated in almost every color. This vehicle carried Miss Teen Town 1906, Don Campbell and Mr. Teen Town 1906, Jack Ganzveld. Complementing this were four paper heads in comic design.

Teen Town has nothing definite on the agenda for the summer but as plans are developed I will keep you posted.

The Empress of England will go into trans-Atlantic service between Montreal and Liverpool in the spring of 1957.

Tree Fruits Officials Will Discuss Problems at UK Growers' Sessions

Officials of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. left last week end to attend the commonwealth fruit conference in the United Kingdom. Fruit industry representatives from Australia, New Zealand, United Kingdom will meet in South Africa, Canada and the London to discuss matters of mutual concern. The Canadian contingent will include R. P. Walrod and J. B. Lander for British Columbia, Rod McSweeney and Roland Sutton for Nova Scotia while Ontario and Quebec interests will be represented by the secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Horticultural Council, L. F. Burrows of Ottawa.

A matter of grave concern to Canada is the growing opposition to imports of apples from North America by apple interests in the United Kingdom and the increasing competition from European countries such as Italy and Holland. The United Kingdom, which at one time purchased approximately 50 per cent of British Columbia production, is rapidly becoming self sufficient but is still a vital market for Canadian dessert apples in the smaller sizes, which have little demand on the domestic markets. Strong representation will be made at the conference for continued purchases of Canadian fruit.

An opportunity will also be afforded to call on importing trade in England and Scotland to obtain first hand reaction to the deliveries of B.C. fruit received during the past year. Support and co-operation will be enlisted from the trade to retain this all important outlet despite the scarcity of dollars which, since World War 2, has been a limiting factor in United Kingdom purchases.

At the request of the BCFGA Mr. Walrod will meet with Mark Hudson, president of Canadian Horticultural Council in Ottawa, to press the government for an early review of the request for a royal commission to investigate the Canadian fruit industry, previously submitted by the council. While overseas he will also continue investigations into both fresh and processing methods, including controlled atmosphere storage and cider manufacture.

The board of governors has authorized B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. to proceed with investigation into the use of controlled atmosphere or gas storage for apples. Pioneered in the United Kingdom, controlled atmosphere storage is coming into wider use on this continent, particularly in the United States. Recently such storages have been brought into operation in Eastern Canada.

Limited quantities of McIntosh apples from both Eastern Canada and United States are currently being sold on Western Canadian markets at premium prices.

Apples stored in controlled atmosphere remain in prime condition much longer than those held in conventional storage.

The possible location of an experimental C.A. operation for this coming season is now being sought in the Kelowna area by technical personnel of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. and the Summerland Experiment Station. Current plans are to convert a suitable section of existing cold storage to controlled atmosphere. It is hoped that facilities can be provided to accommodate a total of about 20,000 boxes. The entire operation will be directed by B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd.

Should Consider Rain In Irrigating Plans

Irrigation procedure normally recommended in semi-arid sections of B.C. is to irrigate the whole field, then hold off irrigation until the soil at the starting point is dry enough before starting the next irrigation. The question arises as to whether this procedure is satisfactory in case of heavy rains.

Tests with soil moisture blocks at the Summerland Experimental Farm show that care must be taken to adapt the irrigation procedure properly to rainfall. In a semi-arid climate, of course, it pays to ignore light rains and to carry on the usual irrigation schedule as if they had not occurred.

But what about a heavy rain? If the irrigator ignores a heavy rain, he may be applying irrigation water to soil that is already wet. In doing so he can easily cause water-logging of a heavy soil; and he can wash out the nutrients by applying excessive amounts of water to any soil.

On the other hand, the irrigator can run into trouble if he waits until the soil has reached the danger point of dryness at the irrigation starting point in the field. Following heavy rains the soil may be well wetted over the whole field. It will then dry out at approximately the same rate over the whole field; so that if irrigation were delayed until the soil was dry at the starting point it would be necessary to irrigate the whole field within a day or two to avoid danger from wilting and crop damage from drought.

The best procedure to follow after heavy rains has been found to be (1) wait only a day or two after the rains before starting to irrigate, (2) apply a light irrigation at first, then (3) increase amount of water applied, as required to wet the soil down properly. In this way the field is covered before the far side of it dries out too much, yet excessive applications of water are avoided.

With the assistance of his 14 year old sister Pauline, Paul Booth, of Galt, Ontario, displays just two of the many trophies he has won as Canada's youngest motorcyclist. Ever since he was three years old, Paul now nine, has been riding a smaller edition of the 'big bike' on a special track laid out by his father among the fruit trees in their backyard. The youngster rides only in the yard and in exhibitions at motorcycle track meets. His ambition when he grows up, is naturally to be a racer.

RECENT RCAF GRAD

Among the recent graduates from the medical assistants school at RCAF Station, Aylmer, Ontario was AWI Ruby Jomori of West Summerland. The MedA School instructs the students in basic duties that are necessary in order to be an assistant to the medical officer and nursing sisters of the RCAF.

If water delivery to the farm is such that the amount of water used cannot be varied properly it may be advisable to start irrigating soon after the rain stops even though excessive amounts of water are applied.

TREE EMBLEMS

Unfortunately, a tree is only a tree to most of us. If we were able to distinguish one from the other, they might be more widely used as emblems. Prince Edward Island is the only province which has trees in its provincial arms. A large oak with three smaller ones underneath.

Tree motifs are to be found in abundance in English heraldry with the oak most common. The borough of Tottenham, London, uses a crest displaying seven elms. Since Canada is one of the largest forest-covered areas on the globe, we should make more use of our trees in the field of design; wallpapers, fabrics and so forth.

Arrangements are being finalized for the circuit assembly of Jehovah's witnesses to be held in Summerland on June 22 through 24 at the High School Auditorium. George Jones of Oliver will be in charge of the cafeteria where hundreds of witnesses will enjoy food prepared under supervision of Bill Warren of Summerland. J. R. Prior is arranging music for the assembly. He announced that his 12 piece orchestra is spending many hours of rehearsals and will be in fine trim to present music for the enjoyment of those attending as well as bring honor to Jehovah, God's name. Summerland visitors are being asked in personal visits by the witnesses to provide moderate-priced rooms for the attending ministers and their families. The response has been splendid and appreciated although many more rooms will be required. Available hotel and auto court rooms have been booked in Summerland and surrounding towns. It is expected that over 800 will attend from Kelowna to Osoyoos and Similkameen valley as far as Princeton.

Spread in US-Canadian Interest Will Likely Determine Exchange

The exchange rate between the Canadian dollar and US counterpart in 1956 will likely be determined by the spread in interest rates between the two countries, states the Bank of Montreal in its latest Business Review. Under the heading, "The Canadian Dollar," the B of M notes that, after twice dipping to a discount in the late months of 1955, the Canadian dollar has hovered at level marginally above that of the US for the past five months. This stability of the exchange rate and the narrowness of the fluctuations for this period of time are unparalleled since the Canadian dollar was set free in 1950. This performance is all the more remarkable, the review continues, in that one of the main sources of pressure which caused the sharp drop in the exchange rate from a one and half per cent premium in September to a discount in November, namely the deficit in the balance of merchandise trade, has persisted and in fact been accentuated in recent months. Another contribution to the drop in the premium of the Canadian dollar, the B of M notes, has been a decline in the net inflow of long-term capital into this country. This decline was concentrated in the sale of new securities in the United States by Canadian companies and provincial and municipal governments. Observing that long-term capital financed less than half of the current account deficit in 1955 the B of M says that, "The remainder of the necessary foreign exchange was supplied by capital movements that are essentially short-term in nature." It adds, however, that such transient shifts cannot be relied upon to move heavily in one direction for any length of time. Taking into consideration the fact that Canada has likely continued to experience a sizeable deficit on current account in first quarter of 1956, the B of M says, "it is more reasonable to assume the Canadian dollar has been supported by an increased inflow on the scale evident in the final quarter of last year." The bank believes the greater inflow of long-term funds has been derived from externally-owned companies participating to the full in expansion of Canadian economy and suggests there may well have been a net inward movement of funds arising from new issues of Canadian securities. One appreciable result of the near-par value of the Canadian dollar, the review believes, is that there is greater inducement for the Canadian borrower to turn to the New York market this year than last, because there is little loss involved in bringing in to Canada the proceeds of securities sold in New York. "Moreover," the B of M states, "the relative levels of interest rates in the New York and Canadian markets are also more conducive to the issuance of Canadian securities in the United States than was the case throughout most of 1955." The increased inflow of long-term capital may be a logical objective of Canadian monetary policy, necessary to provide foreign exchange for an enlarged import bill, says the B of M, which notes the sharp expansion in new plant, equipment and housing, as well

A. Solly could not attend for she was a pioneer of many local organizations and wife of the second rector of St. Stephen's church. He was deeply sorry that C. E. Bentley could not come for this occasion to which he had looked forward for so long a time, a councillor and former reeve he had many interesting pioneer stories to recount. He also called J. R. Campbell to stand, one who had been councillor of Summerland for 19 years and reeve for four years and last year's winner of the Good Citizen cup. A special place had been reserved for those who had been awarded the Reid-Johnston, Good Citizen Cup and they were named and asked to stand. He then called on S. A. MacDonald to address the gathering. He had, he said, responded to the eastern Canada slogan, common 45 years ago — "Go West young man, go west." He had followed the trend and took a trip west on the then famous "Harvest Excursions". Among many interesting things he spoke of was that Summerland was the first B.C. community to have installed the central school system. In concluding his address he introduced a novel toast and asked the pioneers present to stand and drink a toast to the pioneers of Summerland.

The reeve then called on Walter M. Wright to speak about "Our Pioneer Jubilee". He referred to early pioneers and their work, leaders he had known and what they had done, J. M. Robinson, Jas. Ritchie, W. R. Powell all former Reeves. Then pointing to chances for progress that were and things desired for some time, he mentioned three that had been dealt with in a half-hearted way so far. He cautioned against slackness in which leaders might indulge and suggested that now besides looking back, the Jubilee Year is also a time to look forward, pressing for desired objectives.

as in employment and the buying power of Canadians, points to a strong and growing demand for a variety of goods and services.

The B of M also suggests the strength of demand in the United States and Western Europe, together with an increase in production in Canada, should result in larger exports.

However, despite this promise of increased exports, it "appears doubtful," says the B of M, "whether the rise in exports will match that of imports. There could thus be an increased deficit in Canada's international transactions on current account."

Three possible trends in the exchange rate are suggested by the B of M. Firstly an increased current account deficit would tend to force the Canadian dollar downward. Secondly, a strong capital inflow might outweigh this effect and force it upward and, thirdly, these countervailing pressures may prove of equal effect so that the Canadian dollar will remain close to par with the US dollar for some months to come.

"But the main factor determining which of these alternatives will come to pass," the review concludes, "is likely to be the spread in interest rates between Canada and the United States, a factor that will, in turn, reflect the relative tightness of the monetary policies pursued in the two countries."

Protective tariffs to promote the growth of domestic industry were first introduced in Canada in 1850. Only six men have served as Prime Ministers of Canada since 1900.

A precedent will be set by the appearance of the Old Fort Henry guard of Kingston, Ont., at the Royal Tournament in England from June 6 to 23. For never before has a Canadian corps been invited to this demonstration of pageantry. Seventy-four students from Queen's university form the non military drill squad which wears uniforms of 1867 era, even the mascot — Fusiliers have had a goat mascot for centuries. The invitation to the tournament stems from a visit to Kingston last summer by Gen. Sir Templar, chief of the imperial general staff. He was so impressed during one of their daily shows that on his return, he spread the word that Canada had a crew which might surpass the world famous marines.

in sharing the cost.

I suggest if any other community is worried about possible flood conditions they should get in touch with provincial deputy minister of public works in Victoria or Mr. Walkey, federal engineer, Begg Building, 110 West Georgia Street, Vancouver. Between them they share the full responsibility for the Okanagan flood control project and the interim condition that may be causing some worry.

I also received a telegram from one of our prosperous firms in the interior who claims present bank credit restrictions have curtailed their operations way below last year. This particular firm Trump Limited, of Oliver, exported most of their production to the United States last year.

For the information of other firms that may have the same difficulties over credit restrictions I would like to quote from a letter received by me on June 1, from J. E. Coyne, Governor of the Bank of Canada. He points out that:

"In attempting to moderate the increase in its commercial loans, in total or in respect of any particular category of borrowers, each chartered bank operates on its own responsibility having regard to the general credit situation and the circumstances of its own loan account. No specific restriction has been placed on any category of loan and should be very surprised indeed to learn banks were restricting credit in such a way as to interfere with normal production of any Canadian product, whether for export or domestic use." Bank loans in general have shown an increase in recent weeks and months.

Mr. Coyne goes on to say: "Nothing that has been done or said by the Bank of Canada requires any such action on the part of any chartered bank, which, as said above, deals with its own customers on its own responsibility in such a way as it thinks best in the circumstances." Therefore I am just pointing out it is up to your local bank on how far the credit restriction applies.

Canada's population was estimated to be 15,792,000 at December 1st last, an increase of 382,000 from a year previously. Increase in the preceding 12-month period was 405,000.

Change Set-Up Of Public Works

In a reorganization of the municipal public works department this week, Ken Blagborne, former foreman of irrigation, becomes the superintendent of works.

Formerly roads and water were under separate departments and the appointment of a works superintendent is designed to integrate the operation of these two departments and facilitate the interchange of personnel as required.

Les Gould will continue to be foreman of roads and John Khal-embach will be in charge of irrigation and George Geres in charge of domestic water.

Another municipal appointment to take effect July 1 is that of M. W. Smith to the staff of the municipal office. Mr. Smith was a former member of the accounting firm of Rutherford, Bazett, Smith & Co.

Will Conduct Clinic On Play Programs

Arrangements have been made to have Miss Doreen Fowler of New Westminster conduct a two-day clinic in Kelowna on June 29 and 30. The program, although not complete to date, will include such items as the following:

- Planning programs
- Best use of available facilities
- What to do on rainy days
- Age groups
- Type of activities for different activity organization
- How to maintain playground interest.

Other subjects will be added and those attending are asked to bring questions and problems which they have encountered in any sphere of playground work.

This clinic will be very valuable to playground workers and should make it a must to send Pentiction, Kelowna and Vernon their summer staffs to this clinic. All communities are asked to have someone attend if possible. It will be valuable not only to playground workers but to all those working with groups in any type of recreation program. Teachers and community workers should be able to acquire many good pointers at this clinic.

Within the next two weeks forms will be forwarded to every commission and to the people in the community responsible for the playground program.

Recreation commissions are asked to do all they can to have their community represented.

Local Students Pass Conservatory Exams

Seven Summerland pupils of Kay Hamilton were included in the pass list of the Toronto Conservatory of music exams, the results of which were announced this week.

Winners of first class honors were Ruth Lapins in Grade 5 and Lynne Bleasdale in Grade 4. Honors winners were Carol James Grade 8, Lorna Charles, Grade 6, Marjorie James, Grade 5, and David Woollams. Winner of a passing mark was Bruce Ronnie in grade 5.

Also winner of first class honors was Lynne Boothe in Grade 7 piano and pass marks were obtained by Joy Derringer, Grade 6 and Gail Henker, Grade 8.

Lowell Laidlaw obtained a pass mark in Grade 5 violin.

P-TA Will Sponsor Variety Concert To Introduce Community's New Piano

Summerland's new concert grand piano will be introduced to the community next Wednesday night at a recital to be given by an outstanding piano artist who is now making her home in Kelowna. She is Wilma Stevenson Dohler who achieved a notable reputation in Eastern Canada before moving to the Okanagan several years ago. Among her achievements while in the east, she was a soloist with the Toronto Symphony.

The concert piano on which Mrs. Dohler will perform was obtained for the community several months ago but the introductory concert has been delayed because of the pressure of jubilee celebration arrangements.

The piano is housed in the high school auditorium and at the time it was purchased, Summerland Rotary Club, P-TA and the Student's Council each agreed to underwrite a third of the $300 annual payments. The concert next week is being sponsored by the P-TA.

Funds for the down payment on the piano were collected largely from former students of the high school who started a piano fund

Largest office structure in Northern British Columbia, the new quarter-million-dollar Trail Building at Dawson Creek, has been opened as the first full scale Imperial Oil Ltd. exploration office in the province. P. J. Mulcahy of Victoria, chief commissioner of the Petroleum and Natural Gas Act, (shown at right above, with D. B. Layer Imperial's western regional exploration manager) officially opened the building and declared its construction is an expression of confidence in the future of oil exploration in B.C.

Construction of Extra Bleachers Will Complete Building at Arena

With the permanent floor now completed at the Jubilee Arena members of the Rink Association are now setting their sights on bleachers for the east side of the rink and that will be the next major project to be undertaken by the association.

Cost of the proposed construction is estimated at about $5,000 and two architects have submitted tentative sketches for the bleachers which will seat about 500 and bring seating capacity in the rink to about 1,200.

The association has on hand funds with which to start the

Horticultural Group Plans July Rose Show

Popular Pentiction baritone Bud Huva will also be on the program.

Kelowna Teacher Is CCF Nominee

Walter Ratzlaff, teacher on the staff of Kelowna Junior High School was the successful nominee for CCF candidate in the next provincial election, to contest the riding of South Okanagan.

With the exception of war years Mr. Ratzlaff has been a teacher in Canadian schools since 1927. During the war he joined the RCAF as an instrument mechanic, but was transferred to the education and intelligence branch. In 1944 he was posted to the army where he worked on a selection team which taught German prisoners of war, English and democracy. By the end of the war he was chief intelligence officer at a re-education camp for war prisoners in Quebec.

Elected to the campaign committee were: campaign manager, Miss Doreen Craig; official agent, A. S. Hughes-Games; and campaign secretary, Mrs. B. S. Bedell.

The convention was followed by a public meeting, at which Miss Doreen Craig, vice-president of the association took the chair. Mrs. G. D. Herbert introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Laura Jamieson of Vancouver.

"The need for socialism and co-operative living was never greater than today," said Mrs. Jamieson in her opening remarks. "We need socialism on the moral front as well as in the fields of economics and politics. We need socialism to combat the materialism and 'buy, buy, buy' of the capitalist society. Young people in particular were becoming too easy a target for the 'easy living without working too hard' propaganda of the business world. They were losing their perseverance, moral fibre, and strength of character in the process. Big corporations will subsidize the radio, TV and music. The distilleries will subsidize anything to prevent people from using their own brains and initiative, either singly or in co-operation."

"Since the problems of production have been largely overcome in the western world, they seek to lull us to sleep with the pretence that there are no problems left to solve. Socialists must be aware of that comfortable kind of thinking. The problems of distribution face us more severely than ever. Capitalism has never solved that problem with justice or equality, and it remains to challenge every thinking adult and teenager."

"The problems of scarcity of food, clothing, and shelter in the backward countries are a constant threat to us as well as to them. Only good socialist planning within and between various countries can spread our abundance and democratic ideas to them and help them solve their problems without recourse to dictatorship or war."

On behalf of the interested audience, Rev. J. A. Petrie thanked Mrs. Jamieson for her "thoughtful and challenging" address.

Witnesses Here For Big Assembly

A. F. DANLEY

Hundreds of delegates are expected to arrive in Summerland this week end to attend the semi-annual circuit assembly of Jehovah's witnesses, June 22, 23 and 24, at the high school auditorium. A similar assembly was held in Vernon last week-end with 1,000 attending.

A. F. Danley, district supervisor from Toronto, arrived in town on Tuesday. He will appear as principle speaker at the event and will deliver the keynote address "Consulting God on World Affairs" on Sunday at 3 p.m. at the high school auditorium.

C. H. Werdan, supervisor of congregations in the valley, is in Summerland. Mr. Werdan announced the free showing of a new movie film "The Happiness of the New World Society" on Saturday evening at 7 p.m. In technicolor, scenes will be shown of larger assemblies held last summer in many principle cities across North America, including Vancouver, through Europe and Africa. "The picture portrays the unity and tremendous growth of the organization," commented Mr. Werdan. "It shows how hundreds of thousands of people of all races can happily work in unity, with no racial prejudices, having God's word the holy bible as the unifying force."

The first session will commence Friday evening; morning, afternoon and evening sessions will continue through Saturday and Sunday. The purpose of these assemblies is for bible study and coordination of the ministry world wide in over 100 lands.

VISITING HERE

Summerland Drops to Third Spot After Pair of Losses to Kamloops

The Kamloops Okanots took over top spot in the Okanagan Mainline base ball league and pushed the Macs down to third spot in the standings after taking both ends of a double header in the northern city on Sunday. Christians pitched good enough ball to win most games but errors saved the way for the first defeat of the season. In the first game Summerland of the queen by retiring Queen Frances Atkinson.

Winners of Sunday ball games will play for the big prize immediately after the crowning.

Chairman of the celebration is Cecil Wade and in charge of the queen crowning is Mrs. George Washington.

Orchard Notes

BY ALEC WATT (District Horticulturist)

Apple Scab
Sufficient rains have occurred in the past three weeks to start a scab outbreak. In view of this it is thought advisable that ferbam, ziram or maneb be included in the cover spray now being applied. The spray calendar gives details.

Tree Fruit Thinning
Despite the light crop this year quite a lot of thinning will have to be done to ensure adequate sizing and acceptable quality. This is because frost damage does not thin the trees evenly but leaves many trees untouched while others have the crop cleaned off completely and others may have a heavy crop on top and nothing in the lower half of the tree.

It is well to remember that early thinning is far more effective than late thinning. In fact, it would be ideal if all thinning could be done within 40 days of the full bloom date for the variety being considered. This would afford the maximum opportunity for fruit to size and would also allow for the fullest possible development of next year's fruit buds.

Another point to remember is that the larger fruits now are going to remain larger and will be the large ones when the fruit is picked. Thus the thinner can eliminate a lot of small fruit simply by pulling off the small fruits now.

Where trees have a crop this year there is actually a danger that not enough thinning will be done. There are several reasons for this: First and foremost is the fact that many trees are weakened, have small leaves or fewer leaves per foot of branch or have yellowing inefficient leaves. Any tendency to under-thinning in conditions like this could easily result in small fruit. Secondly, the set, particularly on pears and apples, is rather patchy giving the impression that no thinning is needed - whereas, in fact, thinning of the clusters still needs to be done. It is important to remember if marketable fruit is desired, fruit in clusters will have to be thinned no matter how sparse the set on the rest of the tree. Thirdly very few apples were spray thinned this year. Thus they missed that initial boost often given them by the thinning chemicals. Finally, less pruning than usual was done this past winter and reduced pruning can have a depressing effect on size.

One question that is frequently asked has to do with two Bartlett pears on a spur. The thought is if the pear set is generally light the odd spur could be left with two fruits on it. Most growers will agree that in the long run this is unwise. It seems that no matter how few or scattered the pears are on the tree there just isn't enough food supplied through a single spur to adequately size two pears.

Summarizing here are some Do's and Don'ts

1. Do compete the thinning early. The end of June this year is approximately 42 days from average full bloom of apples.
2. Do thin off the smaller fruits favoring the larger ones.
3. Where foliage is small, sparse or pale in color DO thin heavier than usual.
4. Don't leave more than one apple or pear to a spur.

took a three run lead in the third on a home run by Al Hooker with two men aboard. The Okanots came back in their half of the third doing the same thing. J. Fowler connected with two men on to tie the score at 3-3. The Macs scored again with singles in the fourth and fifth Kamloops got one back in the fifth and then with only one out

By O. L. JONES

The government found itself in further difficulties on June 11th. In this case it was matter of being unable to meet cheques payable on the 15th of this month to civil servants and members of the armed forces. As they have failed to provide for this credit earlier in May we found the Prime Minister humbly approaching the house for co-operation in getting the money vote passed.

Both the Conservatives and CCF group took the stand the government, through their own folly found themselves in this particular dilemma pointing out they should have passed this vote sometime in May as had been done for the 16 previous years. But they were so anxious to get the pipeline bill through they would not allot the necessary time.

After the Prime Minister promised the work of parliament would be carried on without an abrupt break all parties agreed to accept the proposition.

True the opposition started off by demanding the dissolution of parliament claiming the present government were afraid of the electorate owing to their conduct during the pipeline bill.

The much challenged early election was not accepted by the government who pointed out that they alone could decide the time for a general election. So a matter that could have developed into a first class debate petered out in less than two hours of discussion.

With all the work that still has to be done it is quite possible we shall remain here until the end of July unless some other problem interefexes with the present plans.

The prime minister himself is leaving June 22 to attend the Conference in London, England. Commonwealth Prime Ministers He will travel by air to meet External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson who has to attend other meetings in Paris and London immediately before the Commonwealth meeting.

No other cabinet ministers will attend unless some subject is brought up at the conference calling on the head of a department for explanation.

The object of the commonwealth meeting is to bring about closer relations between the various countries composing the group.

No agenda has been formally determined for the meeting but the prime minister said that the time would be principally spent giving consideration to the general world situation, including Cyprus.

The prime minister hoped that parliament would be able to complete its work before the end of July.

A private bill was introduced by J. D. Fulton which sought to limit the period during which the income tax department could investigate the affairs of a taxpayer. At present, books and other information must be kept for six years and the department can at any time investigate income tax returns for the six-year period.

Mr. Fulton, supported by the Conservatives, the CCF and Social Credit members, requested this period be limited to three years.

The Honourable J. J. McCann speaking on behalf of the government said the principal of the bill had some merit and the government would give consideration to it.

Not satisfied with this answer the opposition demanded a recorded vote which was taken with the government supporters turning it down.

It does seem to me if a taxpayer has to gather all information and compose it for a return early in the year the government should be able to give that person or company a clean bill of health within three years.

Possibly I should go further and suggest the income tax department should clean all accounts up within 12 months after the returns are made, they then would be ready for the following year without cluttering up their desks with the six years accumulation of uncleaned income tax returns.

The object of the bill was to relieve taxpayers of the necessity of keeping records for such long periods. One difficulty would be with farmers and fishermen who have an average system covering Continued on page 6

Swimming Safety . . . water tragedies can be averted

ALTHOUGH the last few days haven't felt too much like summer, nevertheless, we can expect it to burst out just about any day now and soon Summerland beaches will be entertaining throngs.

A refreshing dip in the delightful water of Okanagan Lake to escape the heat is a pleasant interlude to contemplate but it can have its tragic side also. Last year, more than 100 people drowned in British Columbia. Many of these deaths could have been avoided through knowledge of simple swimming and water safety rules.

Before the season gets underway, there are a few simple water safety rules that can stand a little thought and — most important of all — parents should carefully instill them in the minds of youngsters. This simple act can very well avert tragedy this summer.

Here are the basic rules of water safety advised by the Red Cross and community programs branch of the department of education.

1 Learn to swim well. This does not mean the ability to swim 50 feet but at least 100 yards without fatigue; to tread water or float for at least five minutes.

2 Never swim alone; never go out in a small boat alone.

3 Never disobey the rules governing the area in which you swim, boat, fish or hike, etc. They are for your protection.

4 Stay away from currents, weeds, rocky areas, industrial areas, boating areas when swimming. As much as possible swim only at supervised beaches and pools.

5 Never take a dare or a chance. If you have any doubt as to your ability to do certain things in the water — then don't do them.

6 Never permit a non-swimmer in a small boat, that is a canoe, row boat or small sail boat. Life preservers offer no excuse for permitting such people in a small craft.

7 Make sure your small craft has the safety equipment that the law requires. Remember a wooden boat will not sink. If it capsizes use it as a life raft and call for help.

8 Never approach a drowning person unless this is absolutely the only means of saving him. The clutches of a frantic drowning person spell death for both. Use anything handy to reach out to them, such as an oar, towel, short rope, etc.

9 If you are a parent make sure your children learn to swim and also learn to respect the water at as early an age as possible.

10 Irrigation flumes, home fish ponds, pools and ornamental gardens containing water requires constant supervision. They can provide a serious hazard if there are young children around.

Democratic Action? . . . the roots are in tradition

RECENT events in the house of commons serve as a grim reminder that parliamentary democracy is a tender plant, whose survival is contingent upon the depth of democratic tradition of the Canadian people and their elected representatives.

Parliamentary democracy rests on constitutional conventions of conduct, on precedent and tradition, and upon the rules of parliamentary procedure. The recent events cannot fail to cause thoughtful Canadians to ponder whether the roots of democracy in this country are deeply rooted in the minds of the men who compose parliament, or whether in fact there are not those in parliament who would put party before parliament itself.

Does parliamentary democracy really exist when the prime minister of Canada remains silent in his seat in the house of commons while bedlam reigns?

Can parliament serve as a vehicle for carrying on the nation's public business when Mr. Speaker does nothing to silence the ugly din of a government majority which, when a member rises to a point of order or of privilege, chants, "Hail, hail, the gang's all here, what the hell do we care now?" What manner of men are those Liberal MPs who bordered on blasphemy by singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" merely to drown the voices of opposition members and to make a mockery of parliamentary democracy?

The tragic figure in the recent tempest in parliament is Mr. Speaker himself, for upon him rests the prime responsibility for upholding the traditions and conventions of the house of commons and for seeing that the rules and precedents of procedure are not violated.

The righteous indignation of the Conservatives and CCF opposition members is understandable. Yet the scent in the commons on "Black Friday", when CCF leader Coldwell, standing before the mace which is the symbol of authority in parliament, liament, shook his fist at Mr. Speaker, while other opposition members, Conservatives and CCF alike, milled about the centre aisle of the commons, cannot be lightly condoned.

Parliamentary democracy in Canada has been deeply wounded by such events as these. It might be said that parliament has ceased to function in the manner essential to preserving democratic traditions. That does not mean, however, that democracy may be judged at the ballot box. They have already been judged by leaders of public opinion and by the press, and the judgement rendered in the editorial columns of leading newspapers, large and small, regardless of party allegiance, has not been flattering to the government or to the Liberal party. As the Winnipeg Free Press puts it, "Our parliamentary system of government is more important than a pipeline. And the government is now doing violence to the real fundamentals of that system."

The Lighter Side

Dr. Pullman, the socialist dentist, was on the seventeenth floor of a Madison Avenue skyscraper with his comely nurse, Ruth Gordon, in attendance, when a sharp cry gave them a start. Rushing to the window, they saw a good friend who had an office some floors above them go hurtling past.

A couple of moments later, another friend burst into office. "Did you hear about Johnny Jones?" he gasped. "He jumped or fell thirty floors. He's lying down there on Madison Avenue and he looks terrible." "I can't understand that," said Miss Gordon. "We saw him go by just a minute ago and he looked wonderful."

Mid-Week Message

"Men of Galilee, why do you stand looking into heaven?" (Acts 1:11. R. S. V.) Road Act 1:6-11.

This was the question two men in white robes asked of the disciples who had just witnessed the ascension of Jesus. The pointed inquiry seemed to break in rudely on the disciples' rapturous mood. But the question had a purpose. I think it was this:

During these years you disciples have had the Master with you in intimate friendship. You have had rich and rewarding association with him. He has given you understanding of His way of life. He has opened to you the wellsprings of redemptive love. Now He has ascended into heaven. His purpose is not served by your gazing after Him in rapturous joy.

The time has come for you not to look up but to look around. You are not now merely to enjoy a heavenly bliss; you are to look about for earthly ministries, doing them in the ascended Savior's name. You are now to become Christian witnesses.

For every Christian in our generation also the rapture of the ascension must be translated into the ministry to souls.

PRAYER

Our Father God, we thank Thee for Christ and for what He means to us personally. Make us to know that our joy cannot be contained in the vessel of self, but that it must flow out into other lives. In His holy name. Amen.

Rust Mite Reported Widespread In District Delicious Orchards

Summerland Westbank and Peachland
As reported June 12 — Since the issue of our last news letter the weather has been cool and two heavy rains have occurred. A cloudburst at Westbank on May 31 dumped hail along the lake-shore and front benches causing damage in some orchards. Approximately one inch of rain fell June 3 and 4 and a later rain on June 10 registered .64 inches.

Growers are now applying the second codling moth spray. Rust mite are becoming widespread particularly on Delicious apples and Italian prunes.

In the Westbank area there is a considerable reduction in vegetable acreage this year. Tomato acreage is only two thirds of last year and similar reduction apply to most other vegetables. There is a corresponding increase in acreage devoted to alfalfa hay.

Penticton - Naramata
Kaledon - Okanagan Falls
Keremeos - Cawston

As reported June 12 — The prolonged dry spell of weather was broken on June 3 and the weather since that time has been unsettled. Generally, lower temperatures and very strong winds were experienced. In addition, a heavy fall of rain occurred on June 4 and another on June 10.

It is still difficult to make predictions for the cherry crop as there is considerable premature coloring showing up. Lamberts appear to be holding their own, but Bing and especially Royce Anne trees are showing marked effect from the winter. Some Black Tartarians are expected to be ready in Penticton in a week to 10 days time. Little change has been noticed in apricots, while the set on peaches appears somewhat spotty in many instances where one branch is heavily loaded and an adjacent branch has no fruit. The spotty pear set, noted in the last news letter, has been further aggravated by extensive damage from leaf-rollers and russeting from a light mid-May frost. Apples are generally sizing well.

While no drop has yet occurred it now appears the McIntosh crop will be greater than last year and Winesap crop will be similar. There are some good Rome Beauty and Jonathan crops showing up in some orchards, while the Delicious picture varies so considerably in each orchard that here again it is difficult to make crop estimates.

Spraying schedules have been badly disrupted by the unsettled weather, and many growers are still trying to apply second cover sprays. Rust mites are very prevalent and one serious case of Yellow mites has been detected. A few European Red mites are in evidence, while caterpillars and grasshoppers are causing some concern. Diseases continue to be negligible, but following the June 4 rain the possibility of some apple scab showing up exists. A chlorotic condition, similar to that caused by iron deficiency, has shown up on a good number of trees.

Oliver and Osoyoos
As reported June 12—From the time of last report to June 3 the temperatures ranged in the high 80's nearly every day. Since then temperatures have been in the 60's and 70's. One inch of rain was recorded in Oliver during the period. On June 4 hail fell on one small area five miles south of Oliver seriously bruising the Winesaps in that section. Hail also fell in Osoyoos on the townsite and a broad area east of the lake but caused little damage. On June 10 another storm in Osoyoos hit the area from the border to a mile north of town on both sides of the lake. Extensive damage to Winesaps within two miles of the border occurred on the west side of the lake. Other fruits suffered much less damage. The rains during this period ruined the Bing cherry crops which were turning pink on many of the ranches at the time. Other varieties were not seriously split. Trees suffering from winter injury continue to show up. The fruit on the healthy trees appears to be growing quite well. Thinning

Clever Cooking . . .

There's a party in the air when you see these hearty looking pastry shells filled with chicken a la King.

And it takes only 20 minutes—just long enough to heat. Yes, Chicken a la King is a new comer to the ranks of frozen foods. And this freezing magic seals in all the fresh-made flavor.

This a la king takes its place amongst convenience foods like a bee to honey. It features a real cream base temptingly flavored with the faint fragrance of spices (Plump juicy mushrooms, red and green flashes of sweet peppers and lots and lots of tender chicken). It can be served many ways as an ai entree. Especially good are these hot chicken sandwiches . . . made in minutes.

Chicken A La Kingburgers
1 can (10 oz) frozen chicken a la king
4 hamburger rolls
4 thin slices ham or canned luncheon meat

1 pkg. (12 oz) frozen asparagus cooked

Heat chicken a la king. Meanwhile broil ham and rolls on both sides (under broiler). Arrange a piece of ham and a few hot asparagus spears on each toasted roll. Pour steaming a la king over top of each.

Home Style Chicken a la King

1 can (10 oz) frozen chicken a la king
1 cup, drained cooked green pea
Dash ground thyme
1 cup uncooked spaghetti or macaroni
1/2 cup butter or margarine
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
Heat a la king, peas and thyme together over low heat. Meanwhile cook macaroni or spaghetti in boiling water. Add melted butter or margarine and chopped parsley. Arrange in a ring on platter. Pour a la king in centre. 4 servings.

Census Will Provide Information Valuable in Marketing Planning

The census taken in June this year will provide much information which will be useful to business firms. Included in the population count will be questions on age, sex, marital status, relationship to head of household and whether living on a farm. The resultant information will furnish valuable clues to the change which has taken place in consumer markets since 1951. The sale of different kinds of goods is related to the number of people with definite characteristics, for example, children's shoes and age groups. Census returns will show the number and location of Canadian families, and since families rather than individuals are the important consumer unit for some firms, this information will be of particular value to them.

Data from the population census — it is easy to see — furnish an essential background for marketing policy. Two cities with equal population will differ in the market potential for a commodity because the average age of the population of each differs. One city would be a better market for children's clothing because the lower age of its population reflects the fact that it has more children. The city with the higher average age would be a better market for commodities needed by adults.

This sort of analysis can be applied broadly over the whole of Canada. The constituent elements which make up our population have an important influence on the character of markets in different areas. The fact the 1956 census will provide a count of the population according to characteristics such as age, sex, and family, and by small geographical areas, means that a vast amount of detailed information will be available about the population to assist business men in the analysis of potential markets, the organization of production and sales programs, location of retail outlets and arrangement of sales and advertising quotas. In order to plan intelligently for production and sales, business must know the size and salient characteristics of its market, and underlying every market survey is the census information. The considerable shifts which have taken place in the location of the Canadian people since 1951 have drastically changed the market picture. The 1956 census will bring basic aspects of it up to date.

The census of agriculture will furnish important information for many business firms who are concerned with farm market. One of the important benefits for such firms lies in the fact the census will furnish five-year benchmarks for all Canada on which annual estimates of farm production are based. Hitherto they were available only once in ten years for provinces other than those on the prairies. Five-year benchmarks permit more accurate annual estimates to be made.

WA Hears Delegate on United Church Work

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's WA was held on Monday, June 18. The meeting was opened by saying, "The Woman's Creed," followed by the singing of a hymn. Lona Washington read the devotional, choosing as her theme "The Social Conscious." Mrs. A. C. Fleming sang the solo, "Beyond the Dawn".

The minutes were read by Caroline Durick, who was substituting for Joan Zimmerman. Business arising from the minutes was a report by Eileen Wright, who along with Bessie Wilcox convened the WA's part of supplying refreshments at the "Friendly Centre" on Jubilee day. Seven parcels were taken to the coast by Joan Zimmerman to be distributed at the First United Supply Depot and Crease Clinic Apparel Shop.

Correspondence was read and discussed. A letter from Suma Ono was read, requesting a snapshot of the group. It was decided each member would bring a snap of herself to the September meeting to make up an album to send to Suma. Reports were given by the different committees.

New business was the Thanksgiving Dinner which the group will undertake again this year. The executive suggested an idea for the summer of having an "Ice Cream Sundae Social and Bake Sale", to be held at Caroline Durick's sometime in July. The executive will plan this. The business meeting was closed with the saying of the Mizpah.

The guest speaker was A. C. Fleming who gave a very interesting talk about the conference held in Vancouver during May. He gave information about lay work, WA, WHS, and other groups.

and christian education work that is being done throughout the province. Following the guest speaker refreshments were served.

Miss Pearl Bolton Honored at Shower

Miss Pearl Bolton, bride-elect of Gordon Anderson, a TCA pilot, was honored at a shower Thursday evening at which Mrs. D. L. Milne and Mrs. Blake Milne were co-hostesses. The entertaining games were followed by the presentation of gifts by Mrs. D. L. Milne attired in Hawaiian hostess gown or mumu. The gifts were placed in a grass-skirted basket drawn by a TCA plane and a Hawaiian lei was placed around the neck of Miss Bolton.

A parting gift of two pictures of Summerland were presented to Miss Mary Fast who is also leaving Summerland to be married at the coast the end of June.

Guests attending were Mrs. Howard Milne, Mrs. C. Bolton, Mrs. J. Brown, Mrs. A. Brown, Mrs. W. Bloomfield, Mrs. L. Bloomfield, Mrs. J. Ritchie, Mrs. Rau, Miss B. Braun, Mrs. M. Bolton, Miss P. Sherwood, Miss E. Dale, Miss V. Banks, Miss M. Banks, Mrs. J. Mott, Mrs. T. S. Manning, Mrs. V. B. Durain, Miss Corbey, Mrs. B. A. Tingley, Mrs. O. Brown, Mrs. R. Jaster, Mrs. A. Arndt, Mrs. J. Institute Holds Final Season Meeting In Attractive Garden Setting

Women's Institute members enjoyed their last meeting of the summer in the form of a garden party held in Mrs. A. Inch's garden in Prairie Valley on June 15, and before and after the business meeting members strolled around the large garden enjoying the lawns and flowers and the wonderful view.

The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. Eric Tait reading a poem written by a WI member for the convention.

A presentation of a WI pin was made to Mrs. H. R. McLarty with the thanks of the membership here for good work accomplished and best wishes for a happy trip abroad. A letter of farewell and good wishes was sent to Mrs. Kathleen Strachan who had also been a valuable member.

Plans for the autumn meetings were made and the variety sale tentatively fixed for October 20. The president thanked those members who had worked for the jubilee, especially Mrs. Inch and Mrs. E. C. Bingham for their arrangement of the float.

It was announced that Lois Harbicht had won the WM silver rosebowl for home economics and was also given a silver jubilee spoon engraved with her name.

The main interest of the afternoon centered on the report given by delegate, Mrs. L. W. Rumball to the convention of the B. C. Women's Institutes, held in June on the campus of UBC, with delegates billeted in the women's building.

The new president for B.C. is Mrs. Roylance of Greenwood and she spoke of finding new interest among the younger women in the W.I.

Mrs. R. C. Palmer was elected one of the four board members who direct the work in this province. There are now more than 240 Institutes in B.C.

Many resolutions were brought before the convention covering social services and other matters relating to women and children.

The various bursaries and scholarships for UBC given annually by the WI were reported on and discussed.

William Ireland, provincial archivist gave advice on the writing of village histories.

The president of the association, Countrywomen of the World with which the WI is affiliated was present on her world tour, and Mrs. Rumball was very struck by Mrs. Berry's forcible personality and friendly interest in all the nations in the organization. The newest member is Lebanon.

At the coming convention of Country Women of the World to be held in Ceylon, B.C. will be

HOME AGAIN

Mrs. L. W. Rumball, Sr., is home after attending the WI convention held recently at UBC. She was official delegate for Summerland.

On Tuesday the troop had the last meeting of the season except for a meeting later in July to complete arrangements for summer camp. Several Scouts were absent with virus pneumonia and the troop wishes them a speedy recovery.

several years.

Following this bill Mr. Campney introduced a bill making slight alterations in the defence act, dealing with punishment and details on a member of the force being discharged.

General Parkes suggested that servicemen should be subject to a garnishee by business men or others who have dealings with them. He felt the government should do something to protect the merchants and others by preventing servicemen from defaulting on civilian debt. He pointed out some servicemen on being transferred victimize those who have sold them equipment for their homes, clothing or any other supplies they needed on easy payment plans or may be just straight credit.

Another criticism was levied by Clary Gillis, who pointed out that when a members of the armed forces died in the service his pension contributions are returned to his widow or other survivors by the defence department.

Then the national revenue department come and demand income tax on the full amount of the pension. He claimed this a pretty rank piece of injustice and it could not possibly be considered as income.

Mr. Campney promised to give the matter consideration, although it was actually in the field of the revenue department and not defence. After some minor criticism the bill passed through the house. It does not materially alter the present status of the serviceman.

Another bill that received support in the house was the gold mining assistance act. Under this act gold mines on a marginal profit basis are encouraged to produce gold and principally to create employment and guarantee a decent wage for miners employed in the mines.

Sums are given to the mining companies according to a very complicated formula based on the price of gold and the cost of operation resulting in a small profit being assured on the year's operation.

A subsidy enable about 50 or 60 companies to remain in the productive field. The books and operations of each company are subject to very strict surveillance by government inspectors. In spite of this assistance many gold mines find themselves unable to carry on and have to close. Concern was expressed for those people living in mining towns where the mines are usually the sole industry close down.

It was suggested part of the subsidy should be used to rehabilitate the victims of a closed down mine.

Fire destroyed 81 million cubic feet of forests in Canada last year; insects and tree diseases destroyed 500 million cubic feet.

Honor S. A. MacDonald On Close of School Career

One of Summerland's most respected and beloved citizens was acknowledged on June 20 when a banquet was held by the teachers and school trustees of Summerland to honor S. A. MacDonald on his retirement.

This year Mr. MacDonald finishes 37 years as principal of Summerland's elementary school, and to make this record more exceptional, he served 30 of those years without missing a single day. He has been such an excellent teacher and principal that when the elementary school was renovated and enlarged in 1949, it was renamed MacDonald School after him. Always prominent in both the British Columbia Teachers' Federation and the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Association, he was president of the latter in 1927, and for several years on the executive. The vigorous part he has played in community affairs is well known, and Mr. MacDonald was one of the first choices when Summerland instituted its "Good Citizen" annual award.

Among the 86 people who sat down to the meal served in the Anglican Parish Hall by the ladies of the Hospital Auxiliary, were all members of the Summerland School Board and Summerland Teachers' Association, with their wives or husbands, and numerous special guests. These included Miss Hilda Cryderman, past president of the BCTF from Vernon; Charles Bruce, president of the OVTA and Mrs. Bruce, of Kelowna; Inspector C. E. Clay and Mrs. Clay of Grand Forks; Inspector A. S. Metheson and Mrs. Metheson of Kelowna; R. P. Guidi principal of Oliver Elementary School and Mrs. Guidi; D. P. O'Connell, principal of Penticton Elementary School and Mrs. O'Connell, and H. K. Bearst, principal of Vernon Elementary Schools. Inspector E. E. Hyndman of Penticton was unable to be present and sent his regrets.

Nearly all the special guests were old friends of Mr. MacDonald. The chairman, C. J. Bleasdale, was a former pupil of Mr. MacDonald, parent of a present pupil, and a former chairman of the school board. After introducing the guests, he read telegrams of regret for their absence, and praise for Mr. MacDonald from Hon. Ray Williston, Minister of Education; K. P. Caple, Regional Director of the CBC and a former colleague of Mr. MacDonald's; Jack Beech, supervising principal of Prince George; and a letter from Howard Daniels of Lester Pearson High School in Vancouver. Both the latter taught under Mr. MacDonald.

There was a short but pleasing program consisting of a violin solo by Viola Ganzveld, and a piano solo by Carol James. Four presentations were then made to Mr. MacDonald with an honorary life membership in the Teachers' Provincial Association. Mr. Bruce then presented a life membership in the OVTA, of which he is president. Both Miss Cryderman and Mr. Bruce spoke feelingly of Mr. MacDonald's contributions to education. Miss Ruth Dale then presented Mrs. MacDonald with a beautiful corsage.

Ross McLachlan paid tribute to Mr. MacDonald, both as chairman of the School Board and as a former pupil, and presented him with a travelling bag, and Mrs. MacDonald with a matching case. Finally Bert Stent spoke appreciatively of Mr. MacDonald as a teacher and principal and on behalf of the Summerland Teachers' Association presented him with an engraved silver tray. To each presentation Mr. MacDonald replied with reminiscence, appreciation and humor, and at times had his audience rocking with laughter. The whole evening moved along briskly under Mr. Bleasdale's capable guidance and Ted Weeks' careful planning and a spirit of good fellowship was very apparent.

Vandals Strike At Kingdom Hall

Vandals struck at Summerland Friday evening as approximately 600 hundred Jehovah's witnesses gathered at the High School Auditorium for their semi-annual circuit assembly. Slogans were painted on the door of the Kingdom Hall, signs were torn from cars and placed on the steps of the Roman Catholic Church. Roadside signs were thrown down. This is the first action of its kind in Western Canada officials of the convention report.

A. F. Danly, district supervisor from Toronto, deplored "the activities of untrained juvenile hoodlums" and expressed appreciation of the local officials who have cooperated fully in all convention matters. He reports a very successful convention with over 451 attending the opening session on Friday evening, then with the showing of the free film "The Happiness of the New World Society" over 600 responded with resounding applause as scenes were shown of the expansion of the organization world wide. Assemblies in America, England, France, Germany and Africa were viewed with over 400,000 attending. Sunday afternoon 804 assembled to hear the widely advertised talk "Consulting God on World Affairs."

Secreds Lay Plans For Election Fight

Enthusiastic Social Crediters from a wide area converged on the little town of Osoyoos, on Saturday to give attention to matters relating to the Okanagan Federal Riding.

It was decided that the seat be contested at the next election. The newly formed Women's Auxiliary of Osoyoos supplied refreshments to the delegates many of whom had traveled over 80 miles to be in attendance.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were: W. B. Carter, Penticton, president; Alex McGibbon, Oliver, Tom Reece, Westbank, Mr. Weatherly, Greenwood, E. R. Owen, Kelowna and Lloyd A. Miller, Summerland, vice-presidents.

The election was conducted by Frank Richter, MLA for Similkameen. F. M. Garland acted as secretary, and W. B. Carter chaired the meeting.

Entries Will Compete in 14 Classes At Annual Summerland Rose Show

The Summerland Horticultural Society is holding its annual rose show this year on Saturday, July 7th, at the Anglican Parish Hall. Quite a large number of rose bushes in the district were killed during the winter but the society feels that there will be sufficient bloom on those that survived and on those planted this spring to ensure the success of this popular event.

A cordial invitation to exhibit blooms is extended to anyone in this district who will have either roses or any other kinds of flowers mentioned in the prize list. The classes listed are as follows: (1) Four named varieties, one bloom each, named, four containers. Containers are supplied by the society for this class. The winner will be awarded the Summerland Rose Cup; (2) best individual bloom named; (3) Three blooms, three varieties, named, one container; (4) Three blooms, three varieties, one container. This is a novice class and open to anyone who has not won a prize previously in a rose show; (5) vase of roses, decorative, own foliage; (6) Bowl of roses, own foliage; (7) bowl of roses, (floribunda) own foliage; (8) Artistic

Reports Color Scheme Helping in Sorting

Grade regulations for most tree fruits include certain color requirements. Sorting for color, which is carried out manually, is a demanding task requiring quick, accurate discrimination on the part of the sorter. Adequate light intensity having the spectral quality to show the true color of the fruit is therefore desirable for accurate, uniform grading and inspection, says S. W. Porritt, at the experimental farm here.

The Society of Illuminating Engineers report that lighting for fruit grading should provide about 100 foot candles intensity on the grading surface. In order to minimize glare that occurs where sharp contrasts in light intensity exist, the general lighting in the sorting area should at least be one-fifth the supplementary light on the sorting table, that is 20 foot candles.

Light with a color quality very similar to daylight is ideal and can be obtained with certain combinations of fluorescent lamp and filter combinations. However, if lighting is to be standardized and kept reasonably simple and inexpensive a single light source is necessary. Recent improvements in the fluorescent light make it the most suitable artificial light for fruit grading.

A survey of packinghouse lighting in this valley showed while some lighting installations were quite satisfactory, considerable improvement could be made in many of the packinghouses.

Few sorting tables were adequately illuminated with even distribution of light. In extreme cases, parts of the table received less than ten foot candles of light and general lighting in the area was less than five foot candles. Some sorting belts were illuminated by fluorescent and incandescent lamps as well as skylights. This caused considerable variation in both quality and quantity of light with consequent difficulty in grading to a uniform standard particularly with soft fruits such as cherries.

The use of suitable paint may make a considerable contribution to the general lighting effect and avoid eye strain. In many of the packinghouses, lowering the ceilings over sorting tables to eight or nine feet and painting ceiling and walls with suitable paint would provide for good light reflections, increase the efficiency of the lighting and reduce contrasts in light intensity.

Proper lighting for fruit grading provides for efficiency of workers with minimum fatigue and close adherence to a uniform color standard.

Bonthoux Hurls No-Hit No-Runer

With a no-hit no-run performance at Lumby on Sunday, Bobby Bonthoux led Summerland Junior Red Sox to a 9-0 win over Lumby Loggers and chalked up a staggering total of 22 strike-outs.

In the full nine innings, Bonthoux faced only 29 batters. The two who reached base were Shumka who made it on an error by Campbell and Ewechaski who was hit by a pitched ball.

Losing pitcher was Shumka who gave up 14 hits and walked four. Bonthoux also took laurels in the scoring department with three runs. Biollo and Brake were each good for a pair and Shooley and Birtles accounted for the remaining two.

Award Contracts For New School

Contracts for construction of the Trout Creek Elementary School were opened at a recent special meeting of the Summerland School Board District 77.

Lowest tender was that of John Borg, Summerland, in the amount of $24,000 and the board has recommended to the provincial department of education that this be accepted and has asked permission to sign a contract.

It is hoped to have the school ready for occupancy by September. Other bids were received from William Schmunk, Penticton for $20,102.05 and from Loyd Campbell, Summerland for $25,411. Department of education policy is to accept the lowest tender.

Tender for clearing the site was awarded to Parker Construction Co., Penticton in the amount of $1,897.50.

Ship First Cherries From Southern Area

The first straight carload of cherries was shipped from the Oliver-Osoyoos area on Saturday, June 23, followed by a second car on Tuesday of this week. Last year our first cherry car was shipped on July 9, indicating that the season is some two weeks earlier than in 1955. Depending to some degree on the weather during the next week or so, we expect the peak of the 1956 cherry season will be reached towards the latter part of next week. Condition reports on arrivals thus far have been satisfactory.

The light cherry crop in Washington was further reduced by splitting and the rainy weather unfortunately also seriously affected available tonnage from southern districts.

The Ontario sweet cherry crop is also light, although they report a good crop of sour.

Cabbage
Early cabbage has not been maturing as rapidly as it should and supplies insufficient to meet the present demand.

Cucumbers
As a result of continued cool weather deliveries of cucumbers have been delayed with only LCL quantities available this week. With the return to more seasonable temperatures carlot volume could be started during the first week in July.

Stage All Set For Big Week-end

Stage is set this week for the monster two-day holiday celebration in Summerland with the Board of Trade sponsoring a junior ball tournament starting Sunday afternoon and continuing on Monday with children's races, family picnic, queen selection and band concert.

Candidates as queen are Joyce Dunsdon, Darlene Bonthoux, Margaret Marshall, Anne Solly, Nella Huva, Bill Rumpf, Connie Gibbard, and Donna Eeden.

In the junior ball tournament, first game Saturday will be between Summerland and Grand Forks with second match between Vancouver Murphy's and Vernon Silver Stars.

The visiting ball players will be billeted with Summerland families over the week-end and anyone willing to accommodate any players have been asked to contact Tiny Hankins or Joe Sheeley.

Councillor Wright Tenders Resignation

Municipal Council Tuesday accepted the resignation of Councillor O. M. Wright who has served on the council since last December when he was elected by acclamation on his first entry into civic politics.

Mr. Wright is an engineer and has accepted a position on the construction of the natural gas pipeline and his work will keep him absent from Summerland for some time.

Tree Fruits Officials Report Continued UK Market for Apples

Good news for Okanagan apple growers was received this week with the announcement from B.C. Tree Fruit officials, R. P. Walrod and J. B. Lander, that an agreement was reached at the Commonwealth Fruit Conference held in London, England, assuring of continued export of Canadian apples to the United Kingdom. Mr. Walrod and Mr. Lander, who attended the conference do not, however, expect the British dollar allocation for Canadian apples to exceed the allocation made last year.

Strong protest was raised last year by the United Kingdom growers when a drop in market prices coincided with the announcement by the U.K. government Canadian apples prior to January 1, 1956, was increased from 1/6 to 1/3 of the total dollar allocation. Through their organization "The National Farmers' Union" U.K. growers argued that with rapidly increasing home production and abundant supplies available from soft currency countries there was no need to weaken Britain's dollar position further by purchasing North American apples. The real fear of the U.K. growers was that with a drop expected to run from 28 to 30 million bushels this year, early shipments of Canadian apples could upset or disturb the vital pre-Christmas markets.

The Canadian delegation argued strongly that its apple industry, which had been built on former

An expedition of two has set out from Lumby, B.C., to track down live specimens of the abominable snowman in the mountains of British Columbia. Reports of people claiming to see the giant, hairy wild men have reoccurred in the province for many decades. Most of the mountain monsters down to the Chehalis range, 100 miles east of Vancouver, where they are referred to locally by Indians as "Sasquach". The expedition is comprised of Rene Dahinden, at left, a Lumby sawmill operator and Anton Ruesch, a logger, who like his partner is a veteran mountain climber from Switzerland. The men plan to spend two to three months in the Chehalis mountains where "we hope to get pictures of the Sasquatch if we do nothing else."

Sheeley Draws Four Game Suspension For Part in Penticton Fracas

A stern four-game suspension was handed out this week to Umpire Joe Sheeley as an aftermath to a hassle at a ball game last Wednesday night in Penticton, and the Penticton coach, Jack Durston, who was responsible for that particular phase of the flare-up, got off with a two-game suspension.

The uproar occurred in the sixth inning of last week's game between Summerland and Penticton in Penticton. It developed out of a call by Base Umpire Tiny Hankins which Red Sox manager took exception to. Durston along with a number of Penticton players converged on Umpire-in-chief Sheeley and demanded he reverse Hankin's decision. They refused to listen to Sheeley when he pointed out he had no authority to question the decision of the base umpire and finally Durston was waved out of the game for holding it up unnecessarily.

Durston started to leave the field and then after talking to Bill Raptis returned and started arguing again with Sheeley. The two were standing with their faces only inches apart and Durston spit in Sheeley's face. Sheeley replied with a punch to Durston's shoulder and in the fracas which followed, Sheeley was knocked down and Penticton players under the pretence of trying to pull Durston off Sheeley managed to leave him with marks from spikes on the wrist, arm and abdomen and also with a large bruise on the temple resulting from a kick.

As this fight was being sorted out, Penticton catcher Gerry Barber waded into Al Hooker and when the smoke cleared, both Durston and Barber were out of the game.

Decision on the suspension for the umpire and manager was handed down this week by L. M. McKinnon, president of the league.

Sheeley would neither confirm or deny reports that he is quitting umpiring over the incident and inferred he would continue. "I don't intend to let any team get the idea they can drive an umpire out of the league just by using roughhouse tactics."

Last week's clash brought readily to mind an incident precipitated by Penticton manager last year, Sam Drossos, during a game here in which he started a hassle with Umpire Sheeley.

Summerland Mac's Manager George Stoll yesterday switched his usual stand and asked fans not to support future games in Penticton. In a letter to the editor of this paper, Stoll expressed appreciation of the ball club for the support it has been given but said in the light of past events they could give no assurance that fans could expect any display of sportsmanship from the Penticton team and asked that local fans withdraw their support of future games in Penticton.

Art Dunsdon Tops With Two Possibles

Shooting a possible 35 points at 200 yards and again at 500 yards, Art Dunsdon took undisputed top position at the rifle range on Sunday morning. His aggregate score for the three ranges was 103 out of a possible 105 points. This score gives Art possession of the gold button for the highest score shot during June. Also shooting a possible 35 at the 200 yard range Steve Dunsdon scored an aggregate of 97 points for the three ranges. The medal awarded monthly to the highest shooter with a season average of 85 or less was won by Wayne McCargar with a score of 82 points, shot on June 17.

Other scores recorded at the range on Sunday morning were as follows: G. Dunsdon, 97; A. McCargar, 94; H. Simpson, 92; R. Blagburne, 89; Ted Piers, 88; Ron Dunsdon, 77; Dick Dunsdon, 76; W. McCargar, 76; P. Richardson, 72; C. Shannon, 70; C. Dunsdon, 40.

By O. L. JONES

The Conservatives intend to continue to demand the resignation of Trade Minister C. D. Howe, as a member of the ministry or as the executor of the 66 million dollar estate of the late Sir James Dunn. This subject was first brought up by Mr. Fleming, who claimed that it was against public interest and public morality to have a minister of the crown also an executor of a large estate who will be negotiating playments of succession duties to the crown.

Mr. Howe had made it quite clear that he will have nothing to do with these negotiations but he is interested in the disposal of one of Canada's largest steel industries which is controlled by this estate. Mr. Howe and Sir James Dunn had been close friends for many years.

The parliament library was reopened last week after being closed for over two years undergoing renovations following the fire. The total cost was approximately $2,250,000. All the shelves in the new library are steel replacing the old wooden ones and the platform supports and floor have all been rebuilt with steel and concrete.

The new library will be turned over a lot of its valuable books and manuscripts to the new national library that is to be built commencing this fall. So that the parliament library would revert to its original function that of a reference library for the use of members of parliament and the senate.

Many of my constituents have written about the setting up of a Canada Council on Arts, Letters and Science. For their information the Prime Minister announced that the long delayed appointment of such a committee was the result of many implications that have to be carefully studied. He pointed out there is a large body of public opinion in favor of setting up the committee and another body of public opinion which fears that it would be an intrusion into the domain of education that is properly a provincial jurisdiction. These are some of the considerations that have to be studied before such a committee could be set up.

There will also be the difficulty of getting suitable persons of really influential people who would command the respect of the whole community. From that information it would appear that there is no intention of setting up the council this year.

The Honourable R. C. Campney minister of national defence tabled a white paper on Canada's armed forces. This white paper forecasts an increase in the strength of the air force and the navy which will be at the expense of the army.

This follows the lead given by several other countries that are gradually building up an atomic age form of defence. It also disclosed the need for modern planes and guided missiles.

No discussion took place on the white paper, this was deferred until the estimates of the defence department are before the house. Efforts were made to have all these expenditures for Canada's defence placed before a special committee of the house, but so far the government have refused to consent to this request.

This department is very difficult to deal with as all questions relating to huge expenditures totaling nearly two billion dollars are passed through with very little detail.

Usually the minister replies to an inquisitive member in a stock phrase "that it is not in the public interest to give the information." Therefore, it is not difficult to know and difficult to prove if there is waste in our defence effort.

It was to overcome this aversion of the minister to answer questions that the suggestions were made that defence expenditures should be over-hauled by this special committee. In that case head of departments, deputy ministers and other administrators could be called before the committee to give evidence. This is impossible when the estimates are merely before parliament when it is in committee.

Have Fun at Home . . . week-end celebration ahead

ON SUNDAY, July 1, Canada will celebrate its 88th birthday — a ripe old age by human standards but still tender years in the family of nations.

Dominion Day is one of the most important days on Canada's calendar of holidays but for too long many Canadians have regarded it only as a convenient day for a shopping expedition below the border since stores are all open there on that day.

Our country's natal day should mean more than that. It is a day for rejoicing within our own borders — a day for honoring those foresighted men who were able to weld into a single union a country stretching 4,000 miles from the Pacific to the Atlantic oceans.

Each year as Canada continues to steadily grow in stature, we have greater reasons to be proud of our country—for its position at the world council table.

This year, Summerland will mark Dominion Day week-end with a two-day program of festivities designed to bring all members of the community together to celebrate the anniversary of our country's birth.

If everyone supports the Board of Trade by participating in the festivities, then the board will be able to go ahead and plan for bigger and better celebrations for future Dominion Days.

Have fun at home this holiday week-end.

A Chapter Closes . . . our best wishes to the new editor

TODAY'S issue of this newspaper marks the close to another chapter in the history of The Summerland Review. With this issue, the editor and publisher for the past three years ends his association with the newspaper and next week the masthead will carry the name of Sid Godber as publisher and editor.

The people of this community can feel assured that their newspaper is in competent hands. Mr. Godber has behind him a lifetime of experience in the newspaper business and is an editor of exceptional ability. He will not need too much introduction to the community because he has made his home in this valley for the past six years and has a wide circle of friends in this district.

In any community, the local newspaper is the most important single factor in community development—and whether it is a useful instrument in speeding progress or of little consequence depends entirely on the people of the district it serves.

A newspaper occupies an unusual position in community life. It is a private business and at the same time a public service. But the extent it can operate as a public service depends entirely on how successful it is as a private business enterprise. So it is axiomatic that the extent to which the newspaper can engage in public service is gauged not by the publisher but rather by the extent of support he receives from the people he serves.

It is the ambition of every publisher we know in the business to produce a newspaper of the highest quality the community can afford but we know of none who are willing or able to pour personal funds into the operation just so they can perform greater public service.

When an individual, organization or business concern takes its advertising and printing business to the local newspaper they are, in addition to receiving immediate value for their money, helping to build their newspaper which in turn will help make it a better community in which to live. But the cycle must start with the members of the community. If they want to spend their advertising dollars in media which contribute less than nothing to the community or send them outside, then they have no cause to complain when they are refused support for a community project.

Summerland is capable of supporting a much healthier newspaper and can have it if the community support is given fully. It is our hope that the new publisher will receive that full support of the district and we are confident that he will show his appreciation in the form of one of the finest small town newspapers that will be found anywhere.

In his new venture we wish him every success.

Pioneer Days

From Early Files of The Review

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
JULY 1, 1921

Summerland now has restricted telegraph service over government lines via Kamloops and Canadian National. Some months ago it was announced that a direct service would be given from government telegraph office here. This is now established, connection being given with all points except Vancouver, New Westminster, and Vancouver Island and The Review is informed this territory will be covered shortly.

An intimation that Australia proposes to put an embargo on all B.C. apples from the districts affected by blight has been received by the Fruit Inspector W. H. Lyne.

In order to expedite the distribution of the better housing fund the municipality of Summerland was asked by wire this week to accept $6,000, the money to be taken up by the municipality as soon as it becomes available to the province from the dominion. As a reply was required by telegraph the reeve instructed the clerk to ask if a larger sum would be available, stating the smaller sum offered would not justify the expense incidental to handling this found.

Ralph Brown and Miss Hessie Phinney, two former Summerland residents were united in marriage recently at the home of the bride's parents at Penticton.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. T. Charity merland hospital.

At the last meeting of the directors of the Summerland Telephone Company, C. J. Huddleston was elected to the vacancy on the board occasioned by the resignation of S. M. Young.

Complaint was made by James Fyffe to municipal police that some of his cattle had been killed and buried close to the railway track where it crosses the Shingig Creek road. It was found the carcasses were outside the municipal limits and he was advised to take the matter up with provincial police.

THIRTY YEARS AGO
JULY 2, 1926

Dr. Allen Harris has been appointed a Fellow of the Canadian National Research Society. The society has also offered the Summerland boy an $1,800 scholarship with travelling expenses and incidentals paid, provided he spends a year in Paris, France and Sweden carrying on research work. As Dr. Harris has accepted the position as assistant professor of chemistry at UBC he declined the offer. He has received word the offer will be postponed for a year at which time he will take advantage of the offer.

The Old Timers' Picnic will be held July 8, with supper at 6 o'clock. The Scouts will sponsor a dance in the evening.

Mid-Week Message

He humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross. Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him. (Philippians 2:8, 9) Read I Peter 5:1-7

Once in a place where I worked, we had a boss who was one of us. He never ordered us around. He worked quietly along with us. He said "please" when he wanted something done. What ever he asked us to do, any of us did gladly. He was loved and honored by everyone in the shop.

Daily his spirit and actions reminded me of Christ. Jesus made Himself of no reputation. He took upon Himself the form of a servant; He humbled Himself. He became obedient, even to sacrificing His very life on the cross. Wherefore God highly exalted Him.

If we humble ourselves, learning of Christ who meek and lowly of heart, we learn respect, love, and trust of God and men. Even then, the humble of heart give God the honor and glory due Him, for in ourselves we are unprofitable servants.

PRAYER

Heavenly Father, cast out our pride and clothe us in humility. We know the servant is not greater than his Master. Though Jesus was reviled, He blessed others; though threatened, He healed the afflicted. Implant His mind in us. In His name. Amen.

Of Many Things

ADVERTISING

I've seen a bank manager reform and he has done his town a lot of good. Here's how it happened.

The editor of a fine little weekly paper was not having too much luck. Merchants in his town were pretty conservative about advertising, especially when business was slow. Apparently, the bank manager in that town gave a lot of advice. He'd been telling those merchants, who were short on cash, to cut expenses — particularly their advertising. Quite a few merchants followed his advice.

Then the bank manager got instructions from head office to put up a sign if they sent him about money orders and traveller's cheques. They also sent an advertisement to the paper. The bank manager thought it foolish, because "there's not much call for those services here."

Much to his surprise, the sign and the advertisement increased business. Farmers who had been going to the city with cash in their pockets started using traveller's cheques instead.

Next time a merchant found business slow the banker changed his advice. "Why not run a sale," he suggested. "Put an ad in the local paper and a sign in your window." His advice was followed and business picked up.

Today that weekly is no longer little. It has plenty of circulation and much more business. It is enlarging the trading area of the town, and it's bringing shoppers in to the point where parking is a problem.

Not all bank managers reform as fast as this one. I'd suggest to the head offices of all banks that they educate their branch managers on the subject. Many small towns lose trade to nearby cities because the merchants aren't advertising. Bankers contribute to this decline when they include advertising in their "out expense" advice!

Must Re-Register If Certificate Old

RCMP Corporal C. E. Piers this week issued a reminder to owners of hand and automatic weapons that it is necessary to have a registration certificate dated subsequent to January 1, 1952 for these weapons.

The regulations apply to all revolvers, pistols, and fully automatic weapons but do not include ordinary types of rifles, shot guns or air guns.

Cpl. Piers states a large number of owners responded to publicity a year ago to have weapons re-registered but there are still a number who hold certificates dated prior to January 1, 1952, who should take prompt action to properly register their firearms.

To obtain the new certificate owners have been requested to forward all copies of certificates in their possession which were obtained prior to 1952 to The Commissioner, RCMP, Ottawa, for attention of the Identification Branch. The new certificates will be returned by mail.

In the event that copies of certificates have become lost or mislaid, the registered owner would submit by letter the description of firearms in his possession, quoting the make, caliber, serial number, number of shots and barrel length.

Cpl. Piers also pointed out that any person wishing to purchase a revolver or pistol or to receive it by gift, loan or any other means, must first obtain authority from the local police office before receiving the firearm.

Shirley Burnell Wins Hidden Score Prize

The bowlers rolled the exact hidden score this past week at the Bowadrome to make themselves likely winners of the pin-up lamp, donated by Young's Electric for last week's prize.

Shirley Burnell and Ted Clark with the B.C. Forest Service, both bowled a 154, finding the hidden score. They played off for high score this week. Shirley bowled the highest game winning the lamp.

The Hidden Score Contest will be running throughout the summer, with different merchants donating prizes each week. A number is chosen at the beginning of each week and sealed on the contest board. Anyone who bowls the exact score during the week or nearest to it, is winner.

Game Warden Tells AOTS Session Of Wildlife Conservation Importance

Members of Summerland AOTS Club were given an opportunity at the June meeting of hearing a very interesting and informative address on "Management and Conservation of Wildlife" given by Mr. Tyler, game warden, of Penticton.

Text of his address was: "Wildlife is dependent on plant life and a country cannot support more than its carrying capacity of game. The purpose of management and game laws is to conserve species that may be dwindling; to provide hunting in season for sports minded people; and to keep the balance of nature from swinging from one extreme to the other."

He further stated "Our wildlife has increased noticeably in the last two decades and is a sizeable contribution to our national economy."

Mr. Tyler highly recommended Rod and Gun Clubs to all hunters and fishermen.

This was the last meeting of the fiscal year and reports and election of officers were the principle items on the agenda of the meeting, which followed. Retiring president, Jack Wilcox was unable to be present but his written report showed the club had a busy and successful year with a number of worthwhile projects accomplished.

The nominating committee presented a slate of officers for the ensuing year which the meeting elected.

New officers are Rev. C. O. Richmond, Honorary President; Jack Wilson, president; Will Jenkinson, 1st vice-president; Lew Wright, 2nd vice-president; Fred Bevis, secretary; John Dunn, treasurer

Officers were installed by Rev. C. O. Richmond.

The club plans to hold an AOTS picnic to include wives, families and friends, sometime during the summer.

Forsee Big Jump In Buying Power

The average Canadian income will increase by at least 18 per cent in terms of buying power, by 1961, according to recent research. The resultant increase in the standard of living would be a natural progression of the expanding economy of Canada.

Increased productivity is a basic factor in our economic development. The productivity of our manufacturing industry has been increasing about three per cent a year in relation to the employed workers. On this basis, the gross national production per employed worker will increase from the current $4,962 to $5,830 in the next six years.

Canada's economy has emphatically shifted from agriculture to industry. One out of every four Canadians now works in manufacturing enterprise, and one out of every three dollars that make up our national income is derived from manufacturing. Canada has invested about 20 per cent of her gross national product in capital goods in the post-war years while the US figures for the same period indicated a 14 per cent investment.

Canada's economic prosperity has been overwhelmingly financed by domestic resources. The necessary capital investment for our progress since the war is 85 per cent internal while only 15 per cent has come from outside sources.

YOU LEARN THE Big difference

IN INSURANCE
WHEN YOU SUFFER
A LOSS!

The big difference in insurance is service. By that we mean... the amount of attention that is paid to your needs at the outset to make certain you are adequately protected later.

Service may not seem as important as price right now. It will prove to be all-important later, when you suffer a loss and find you are not covered and cannot collect. That is why we urge you to buy insurance through a local, independent insurance agent.

Translation of Single Word Gives Witnesses Basis for Teachings

Last week-end hundreds of Jehovah's witnesses converged on Summerland for their semi-annual circuit assembly. The week-end before a similar gathering was held in Vernon with 1,000 attending. In July and August larger district conventions will convene at Victoria, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, North Bay, London, Ont., Montreal and Saint John, N.B., as well as 27 assemblies in the United States and yet others in England, Scotland and Wales. The combined number attending these Christian gatherings will mount into hundreds of thousands.

Why do these people display such zeal for their religion? Why are Jehovah's witnesses ranks expanding until today they are recognized as the fastest growing religion in the world? What makes their organization outstanding for efficiency? How do they get things done? Because the zeal, determination and organizational ability of these people has earned world-wide recognition from all ranks of society, your editor has taken the opportunity to ask some questions.

Think of a religion with no paid clergy, no class distinction between clergy and laity, everyone, young and old enrolled in a strenuous ministerial educational program that turns out ministers not members, and organizes a new congregation somewhere in the world every day of the year. Their religion is intellectual. They speak, think and act in terms of world movement. With what could one compare the Witnesses? They do not compare — they contrast!

Witness officials point out that Christians across 19 centuries have been outstanding for their firm conviction backed by activity and unity. From Abel the first Christian martyr down to Jesus, who gave his life as a ransom for dying mankind, even to modern times servants of God have suffered and died because of unorthodoxy and refusal to compromise the Word of Almighty God. Through lethargy and opposition and war, the truth of God's word, indifference and violence, peace has shone across these centuries illuminating the path of mankind.

It was in the late 19th century that Charles Taze Russell organized the legal corporation of the Watch Tower Bible & Tract Society and in 1879 he published the first issue of the Watchtower. Distribution began with 6,000 copies, a circulation that has spiraled until the Watchtower now has a reported semi-monthly distribution of 2,550,000 copies in 43 languages. Witnesses claim for the Watchtower the distinction of a greater circulation than any other religious periodical on earth.

Russell began to disagree with orthodox religions on the topic of Christ's second coming. By a diligent search of the Bible using all the available translations, he noticed that the Emphatic Diaglott translation of Matthew 24:3 rendered the Greek word "parousia" as "presence" instead of "coming". This led to an extensive study of this subject as well as the ending of the prophetic Gentile times and the days of tribulation spoken of by Jesus. Thus it was announced that the prophecies pointed to 1914 as a time of great trouble and at that time the presence of Christ invisible in the heaven would be a reality. This prediction of fulfillment of prophecy became evident about 40 years later with the outbreak of World War I followed by ever increasing distress of all manner.

On October 31, 1916 Charles Taze Russell died while on a United States speaking tour and J. F. Rutherford succeeded him as president of the Watch Tower Bible & Tract Society. The days of his presiding were bright ones in many ways as the organization continued to expand. However, stormy times came too and toward the end of World War I, Rutherford and the other officers were sentenced to long terms in prison. Following complete exoneration, they were released and once again the vast campaign was set in motion. Assemblies began to be organized, the largest of that era being in 1922 with 20,000 attending.

Individual ministry was stressed, required to study the bible diligently and preach publicly. The end, every baptized witness being

Federation Hears Of Work Up Coast

The members of the United Women's Federation enjoyed an outdoor birthday tea for their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. O. J. Lazenby recently.

The guest speaker, Luther Schutze of Keremeos told of his eight years work among the Indians at Bella Coola, a beautiful inlet 250 miles north of Vancouver. He told of how under the leadership of Chief Sam Poodles, who spoke broken English and could neither read or write, the people built a large hall and church which they later moved across the river when the water was low.

He told further of how the Indians take special care of their people, excel at games of prowess and are excellent fishermen. Their theory in life is "The more you give away the greater you are."

Nurses of the United Church Hospital participate in community endeavors and one boy completed four grades in two years.

The thought left by Mr. Schutze was they are indeed worthy of our love and care.

Mrs. R. Chapman expressed the appreciation of the members for the interesting insight into the native Indians of Bella Coola.

The CGIT girls, accompanied on the piano by Lynne Boothe, sang "When Sun's Rays Crown the Pine Planted Hills."

A birthday cake, donated by Mrs. Hemingway centered the tea table on the lawn and a social hour was enjoyed. Mrs. W. F. Ward, Mrs. W. Powell, Mrs. H. B. Mair and Mrs. L. C. Lockhart served refreshments.

work continued to advance. In 1920 there were 8,400 active ministers. Today over 600,000 Witnesses unitedly carry their message through 158 lands.

Other channels of communication were pressed into use. In 1924 Watch Tower Society opened their own radio station WJBB in New York. Hundreds of radio stations were used expanding to an international network of 408 stations broadcasting the "Good news of God's Kingdom" through six continents.

In 1913 the group, assembled in Columbus, Ohio, adopted the name "Jehovah's witnesses" based on the scripture at Isaiah 43:10-12. More than ever before the importance and significance of God's exclusive name "Jehovah" was stressed, setting Him apart from all other Gods. His purpose to restore the earth to Edenic grandeur populated with righteous mankind became a firm Witness belief. Years passed quickly and the organization grew and prospered spiritually. In 1942 J. F. Rutherford died and Nathan Homer Knorr was installed as president.

It was evident that much training was needed. An advanced course in theocratic ministry was introduced and has been carried on in all congregations, instructing male witnesses, in studying preaching and primarily public speaking. Those appearing on a platform at Summerland this past week-end are all trainees of this course. The Watchtower Bible School of Gilead at Ithaca, N.Y. was opened in 1943. The program there offered 26 weeks of intensive higher level training equipping students for assignments at home and abroad. Gilead has been officially recognized and approved by the United States government at Washington D.C. as a competent, professional school. Over 2,500 students have graduated and served in over 60 countries. Among these are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Littau of Summerland.

Jehovah's witnesses have become highly trained through the years, indeed skilled with the bible as well as organizing for their many conventions. Almost every newspaper and radio station in America and many in other lands carried news of the largest eight-day Christian assembly ever held. In New York in 1955 over 165,000 witnesses and persons of good-will attended.

Jehovah's witnesses are truly one nation although living in all nations. They have survived Nazi and Fascist concentration camps of horror, bans and proscriptions in many lands, and even today thousands are held as slaves under Communist dictators. This only adds to their confidence that they now live in the "last days", that Christ now reigns in the heavens.

So this happy, zealous group tirelessly call from house to house with the bible, make return visits and conduct free bible studies in thousands of homes. Their halls are open to the public. Their meetings are free. A collection has never been taken in the history of the organization. Jehovah's witnesses are happy to see people inform themselves

Pearl Betty Bolton Becomes Bride Of L. G. McKenzie at Baptist Church

A lovely wedding was held at the Summerland Baptist Church on Saturday evening, June 23, when Pearl Betty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellwood Bolton of Summerland became the bride of Leslie Gordon McKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Duncan McKenzie of Montreal.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Lyle Kennedy, pastor of the Summerland Baptist church, which was decorated in pink and white peonies, and blue delphiniums for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Patricia Goulay of Vancouver and maid of honor Mary Stewart of Summerland as bridesmaid and three junior bridesmaids, Betty Brown, Julie Brown and Margaret Brown, with petite little Alice Brown as flower-girl.

The groomsmen were John Davidson of Vancouver, the usher, Kenneth Hanson, Vancouver. Arthur Bolton of Lumby was the ring-bearer.

The bride was attired in a floor-length lace dress with a pleated skirt, over taffeta, having a cathedral floor length veil, gathered in a pearl-beaded coronet. The length taffeta gowns trimmed with lace tops, had white circular headresses and carried pink and white carnation bouquets, matching those carried by the bride.

The organist for the ceremony was Miss Ruth Dale, the soloist, Mrs. Flora Bergstrom, who sang

Some Helpful Tips For Travel Packing

When packing a suitcase, don't overlook the space inside shoes. You'll be surprised at the quantity of belts, brushes, and other small items they'll hold. By the way, dirty soles won't soil clothes if each pair of shoes is put into a polythene bag. You can buy them in many sizes but if you want to be thrifty the bags that carrots come in are ideal!

Travel accessories are catering to the easy washability of today's wardrobes. This year stores are offering lightweight plastic clothes pegs, little envelopes of detergents for the nightly wash, and even travelling clotheslines for hotel room use.

Clothes take the journey better if packed systematically. Shoes and other heavy articles should be at the bottom of the case so their weight doesn't crush the other clothing. Lingerie and sweaters can be tucked into corners. Suits and dresses travel smoothly if folded flat just under the lid.

A polythene soap dish is an excellent travelling case for jewellery. It is a handy size, weighs almost nothing and the soft plastic cannot harm fine jewellery.

Pearson Tops Bowlers In Kit-Kat League

The high score for three games in the High School Kit-Kat league was captured again this week by Allan Pearson, with a total of 535. Allan also won honors by rolling the highest score for the evening, a 208.

Sheila Bennison was the high girl bowler with a total of 466, high game being 166. These top bowlers helped set the pace for their team II, which rolled the most points to win the Kat part of the league play Friday.

The Kits showed a lot of improvement on both teams last Friday, which created a close battle for them. Team I came out ahead, but only seven pins to the good. High score for Kits was bowled by Brian Adams, who rolled a 153. Ron Derosier gained the high triple title with a total of 401.

iciency of this warning line has been questioned but again we know very little more than we read in the newspapers about it.

Mr. Campney said that no major reductions can be expected for some years. He also claimed that our defence strength and organization of our armed forces is now more effective than ever before in peacetime history this high standard must be maintained for some years to come.

Many other interesting sidelines were discussed in this white paper such as allotting money to experiment with clothing which will resist thermo-atomic radiation. Research work carried on by the RCAF in this connection has boosted 50 per cent to a total this year of 70 million dollars.

The Navigable Waters Protection Act was amended allowing the minister of public works to personally place contracts under $5,000 without consulting with his cabinet colleagues. Prior to this the limit was $1,000.

Powers were given to remove certain obstacles to navigate that have been built in navigable waters with or without the permission of the public works department.

Criticism was leveled at the public works department for taking control of wharves jetties and other construction works on navigable waters while on the other hand the minister of transport gov-

Flichel Holds Orioles to Three Hits To Lead Summerland to 5-1 Victory

In a good fast ball game played in Summerland on Sunday afternoon the local team came up with a well-deserved 5-1 victory over the Kelowna Orioles. As no other teams in the league played that day, it leaves Summerland in third place in the league standings with an even .500 average.

The game was played in less than two hours and had a good crowd on the edge of their seats all the way. A following of Kelowna fans present added to the excitement and enthusiasm of the game.

Morley Flichel was on the mound for the Mac's and pitched a great game, allowing only three hits, only one man reached third base for Kelowna and except for the second, third and ninth, they

It was also suggested that a committee be set up to deal with obstacles composed of three ministers interested public works minister the transport minister and the minister of fisheries together with a cabinet member from the province being dealt with on any particular occasion. It was claimed that those three departments are vitally interested in any proposed obstruction on our navigable waterways.

went down in order. The Mac's made a bad day of it for Kelowna's ace hurler, Jack Powers. They made 12 hits and looked good all the way. Hooker and Hayes with three for four were the big guns and each drove in two runs. Kielbiski got two of Kelowna's hits, one of them a double. Robert looked good for the Mac's on third, making three put-outs and four assists look easy. Bob Parker's throw from deep right field to catch Ito going into third was the fielding high-light of the day.

FOREST FIRES

During the last ten years there have been more than 14,700 forest fires in British Columbia. Of this total 9,700 (65 per cent) were of the man-caused variety. Of this 9,700 4,500 fires were caused by campers and smokers.

A seminar on human relations for religious organizations will be held at the university of British Columbia July 16 to 20 inclusive. Sponsored by the UBC Extension department and the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, Western Division, with the co-operation of Vancouver Civic Unity Association, the seminar's purpose is to help participants become more effective in dealing with organizational problems in religious organizations. The actual problems considered will be decided upon by the people attending.

Lecturers and discussion group leaders will include Prof. Albert Morris, Dept. of Sociology and Anthropology, Boston University; Dr. Roby Kidd, Dr. Elda Lindenfeld, Miss Anne Furness and Dr. Kaspar D. Neagele.

The seminar co-ordinators Miss Marjorie V. Smith, Group Development Service, UBC Extension, Dept. and C. Roy Brookbank, Director of Western Division, Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, with a planning committee of 12 leaders of representative Vancouver religious organizations have set out the objectives of the seminar as follows: to increase the effectiveness of religious and social agencies by developing insights into problems and possible solutions; to give participants in-

Forest Conservation Subject of Workshop

Something new in forest education will be introduced in British Columbia this summer with the opening of the first Teachers' Forest Conservation Workshop under the joint sponsorship of the Canadian Forestry Association and the faculty of Forestry of the University of British Columbia.

To be held at the University Research Forest Camp at Loon Lake, near Haney, B.C., August 13-20, the workshop is designed to acquaint school teachers with the basic principles of forest management and conservation.

Although emphasis will be placed on forests and forestry, consideration will also be given to the other natural resources of water, soil and wildlife. Since practical demonstrations are essential to the proper visualization of the conservation story, field trips will form an important part of the seven-day program.

Topics to be dealt with by lecturers drawn from the top ranks of the forest service, the faculty of forestry and the forest industries include: geographic and climatic aspects; resource management; forest utilization; botany, ecology, etc; tree and plant identification; planting and thinning operations; soil studies; forest administration in Canada and B.C.; forest measurements, timber cruising and growth studies; sustained yield concept and forest management; protection of forests from fire, insects and disease; multiple use concepts.

Teachers planning to attend this unique workshop should communicate with the Canadian Forestry Association, 550 Burrard Street, Vancouver 1, B.C. for further details.

formation arising out of recent research in human relations and to encourage understanding and co-operation among religious communities on common problems—without religious discussion or compromise.

Enrollment will be limited to 40 students, drawn from the clergy, lay readers in religious organizations and social workers in religiously organized agencies. Registration fee is $3 and students will provide their own meals, lodging and transportation.

Applications are invited from anywhere in B.C. and should reach the Extension Dept., University of B.C. by July 1.
