

School Board Ends Year With Deficit

A new plan to overcome the education department's refusal to contribute to its own former policy of centralization of school plants has been put forward by the Summerland Board of School Trustees. This was disclosed by School Board chairman W. A. Laidlaw, in his report to the ratepayers at last week's annual stewardship meeting.

Mr. Laidlaw said the board is preparing a submission to the department of education, which proposes construction of an activity room or assembly room at the MacDonald School and classrooms on the school grounds rather than locating individual one-room schoolhouses in remote parts of the municipality, such as is now favored by the department.

If the education department approves the plans, at an estimated cost of $80,000, the government would contribute 73 percent of the building cost.

Mr. Laidlaw reported that although the school budget was the largest in Summerland's history, amounting to $281,873, the board would end the year with a $7,000 deficit. The deficit results from increases in teacher salaries, made after the budget had been finalized.

Mr. Laidlaw expressed the view that too much time was taken up in negotiating teacher salaries and that some other method of settlement should be sought.

The school district's population is now 1,062 with 455 in the High School, 528 in the MacDonald school and 79 at Trout Creek school.

Finance Report Given Meeting

Except for a small deficit in the waterworks department budget, the Summerland Municipal Council balanced its budget, Councillor Norman Holmes, chairman of the financial committee, reported to the more than 50 ratepayers who attended last week's stewardship meeting.

Councillor Holmes spoke with pleasure of the fact that the $40,000 money bylaw to finance the electrical system changeover had been subscribed by residents. The finance committee chairman stated that if re-elected he will continue his efforts towards allowing all ratepayers to make early payment of their taxes at a discount so that the municipality can finance its operations throughout the year without recourse to borrowings at a high rate of interest from the banks.

Rotarians Hear Talk On Navy

Lieut. Dennis Colgrave, RCN., gave an interesting and informative address on the Canadian Navy when speaking to the Summerland Rotary Club Friday.

Canada's Navy is the best equipped navy in the world for anti-submarine warfare the speaker told the Rotarians. Lieut. Colgrave concluded his talk with a film showing the complete voyage of HMCS Labrador, through the Northwest passage.

No Water Shortage Ratepayers' Are Told

There is no danger of a water shortage and the sprinkling regulations imposed during the past summer were not the result of water shortage but of the inadequacies of the water system which could not carry the volume required to meet the extra-heavy demands of the hot summer, Councillor F. M. Stewart told those who attended last Thursday's annual ratepayers' meeting.

Councillor Stewart expressed his appreciation of the way residents had co-operated in obeying sprinkling regulations.

The waterworks committee chairman reported that 23,000 feet of concrete flume had been installed during the year and that 1,000 feet was in stockpile.

Fire Brigade Kept Busy

Reporting on the Summerland Volunteer Fire Department at the annual ratepayers meeting, Councillor F. M. Stewart said the brigade was kept busy with 34 fires during the year.

Strength of the brigade was 17 and a high average of attendance had been maintained at fires and at practices.

Council had accepted with regret the resignation of Fire Chief Ed Gould after many years of faithful service.

High School Class Fast On Fire Alarm

The Summerland High School observed the start of National Safe Driving Week by holding an assembly at which RCMP, Corporal Brown, spoke to all the students.

Sharing the assembly was Fire Chief Joe McLachlan, who impressed the students with the need of taking even greater care in the matter of household fire hazards, especially in the winter season. The Chief gave the students a slogan, "Don't give fire a place to start." He suggested that the students discuss with their parents what steps should be taken in the home to prevent fire and what to do if it occurs.

In regard to the tragic school fire which claimed the lives of 87 children and three nuns in Chicago, this week, it is worthy of note that an unexpected fire alarm resulted in the emptying of the school in the short space of one minute and fifteen seconds.

St. Stephen's W.A. Bazaar Saturday

St Stephen's Anglican Church Christmas Bazaar is to be held on Saturday, December 13th, at the IOOF Hall at 2:30 p.m.

Afternoon tea will be served and there will be a great variety of Christmas decorations, table centre and wreaths, also a fishpond, aprons, novelties and homecooking.

Intermediate Hockey Sunday

Intermediate hockey comes to Summerland Arena on Sunday afternoon when the Summerland Macs, the 1958-59 edition, make their season's home debut against the Kamloops Elks.

Manager George Stoll has lined up quite a powerhouse, as the team demonstrated in two exhibitions at Prince George.

Here is the lineup which will face off against the Kamloops Club at the Summerland Arena on Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

Goal, Don Moog, who needs no introduction to Summerland hockey fans, likewise Jack Durston, former Penticton Vee defenceman; Janny Rizzo, George Travis, Bill Capman, round off the defence.

Forwards are, Allan Hooker, George Taylor, Robert Parker, Jerry McLennan, Jack Howard, Miles Gillard, Doug Moore, Harry Tomlin, Bob Roberge and L. Lukinowski.

The road department used 600 feet of cement pipe and 4031 feet of pressure pipe was used for sprinklers.

A problem harrasing the waterworks department is the number of subdivisions, for which the domestic water system is not geared. This problem will have to be faced and very soon, Alderman Stewart warned. Asked what progress, if any, was being made on designing a domestic water system for Trout Creek, Alderman Stewart said the committee was working on it and considering various methods. "It could be that we will run a line direct from the reservoir to Trout Creek," the waterworks committee chairman said.

WEST SUMMERLAND, B.C.

Summerland Growers Marking Time; Only Two Resolutions

Acclamations Fill Vacancies

On Council, School Board Here

There will be no civic elections in Summerland this year. When nominations closed at noon Monday there were just sufficient candidates to match the number of vacancies.

Summerland's Municipal Council will retain the same personnel as last year with Councillor Norman Holmes and Councillor Walter B. Powell both re-elected by acclamation. The 1959 council will consist of Reeve F. E. Atkinson, and Councillors Norman Holmes, F. M. Stewart, Walter B. Powell and Eric Tait.

On the school board, the 1958 chairman, W. A. Laidlaw declined to seek another term. Trustee Harvey Wright went back by acclamation as did S. E. Brinton, a chemist technician at the Summerland Experimental Station, and J. H. Bennest, orchardist.

Ken Boothe and T. S. Manning are the other two trustees.

Decision On Senior Citizens Home Deferred

A resolution, which if passed would have signified general ratepayers' approval for immediate submission of a $60,000 money bylaw and an early start on construction of a senior citizens boarding-house type home, at an estimated cost of $90,000, was tabled at the annual Stewardship meeting, held here last Thursday.

Reeve F. E. Atkinson in explaining the delay on this project pointed out that council had not yet given up hope of securing federal government assistance.

Representations made by the Summerland Council have been endorsed by the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association and by the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

E. H. Bennett, chairman of the Council's senior citizens' housing Committee reviewed the history of efforts to secure a senior citizens home here and he emphasized that from the beginning a boarding house type of home had been favored and that a subsequent questionnaire requested by council had confirmed this, with 29 out of 53 questioned favoring the boarding house type as against 13 wanting the self contained unit and 11 prepared to accept either type of accommodation.

Mr. Bennett contended that the project would be self-liquidating. The home would accommodate 22 residents and, judging by the operations of other homes, investigated by the Summerland committee, would obtain sufficient revenue to take care of principal and interest payments on the monies borrowed under bylaw.

"This resolution" said Reeve Atkinson is asking council to submit a $60,000 money bylaw. It was finally agreed to table the resolution, in view of the lateness of the hour and the many ramifications to be considered. A meeting is planned for early in the New Year at which the project will be fully discussed.

Estimated cost of the project is between $85,000 and $90,000, with the provincial government committed to putting up third of the amount.

Art Exhibit And Auction In Penticton

This Thursday, December 4, Toni Onley, well-known local artist is holding an exhibition and auction at the Legion Hall in Penticton. The display was opened to the public at 2 p.m., today and continues through the afternoon and evening. The entire exhibit will be auctioned by Doug Smithson at 7:30 P.M. The paintings cover a period extending from 1951 to 1958 and mark an interesting transition from orthodox through modern, impressionist, abstract to non-objective.

Scores Civil Defence Apathy

Summerland's Civic Defence Committee chairman, Ivan E Phillips, reporting at the annual ratepayers' meeting, last Thursday, scored the apathy and indifference of people towards civil defence, and he laid stress on the gigantic task that the people of this reception area would face if atomic war broke out.

Mr. Phillips, however, reported that a strong skeleton organization was being built up by the co-operation of key personnel drawn mainly from employees of the corporation. Statistical records of billeting accommodation and of available machinery and transit vehicles had been or was being compiled so that there is a degree of readiness today.

Foreshore Lease

Municipal Council on Tuesday instructed the Municipal Clerk to proceed with the necessary steps to secure foreshore lease in Summerland on Okanagan Lake south of Shaughnessy Creek, which is to be developed as a yacht basin for the Summerland Yacht Club area.

To Discuss TV In Classrooms

We hope many parents with children in the Elementary and High School will turn out for the meeting this Thursday. Science has helped us in almost every task we undertake; now let us see what it can do for the classroom.

During Education Week last year year, Mr. Tamlyn gave us a short demonstration aid in the classroom, and we wished we could have seen more. Now Mr. Pollock from the department of Education, is to speak to our meeting, perhaps to show us how we can put T. V. to work in the classroom.

Hope that parents have not forgotten that the Royal Commission on Education is coming to Penticton in the spring, and that they will take the opportunity to make known any helpful ideas they may have. We are still waiting to hear of any particular subjects parents may like to hear discussed, any questions they would like answered. If a question is sent in writing, we attempt to invite a person most qualified to answer it at a future meeting.

At the February meeting the resolutions to go before the convention will be brought up for discussion. We have a resolution in there, and we surely ought to be able to find someone able and willing to go to the convention which is to be held in Burnaby next April.

Only two resolutions were submitted at the annual meeting of the Summerland Local of the BCFGA, held in the IOOF Hall, last Thursday. More than 50 growers were in attendance. Summerland growers went on record as favoring the setting up of a committee to study the possibilities of having a magazine published that would deal exclusively with the fruit industry. The meeting also approved a resolution favoring an industry grant of $2,500 towards the cost of research project to determine the most efficient type of packinghouse assembly, grading and sorting equipment.

J.G. Mayne was unanimously re-elected president; Hans Stoll was elected vice-president; and J. W. Caldwell continues on and on, as secretary.

Delegates to the annual convention are Paul Charles, F. R. "Tiny" Ganzeveld, Ed. Krause, and Harvey Eden. Alternates are John Bennest, Coli Mckenzie, Dennis Kean, W. Gallup, J. Y. Towgood, Charles Bernhardt and John Holman.

A. R. Garrish, of Oliver, was nominated for a sixth term as president of the BCFGA, with Eric Tait, Summerland and John Luther, Oliver, nominated for the BCFGA executive. Jim Wells was again nominated to the Board of Governors as was W. O. June, Naramata and Gordon Wright of Oliver.

Gordon DesBrisay, Penticton, and Jim Campbell, Salmon Arm, were nominated for directorship on the Fruit Board.

Jack Kirk, Farm Placement Officer, reported that last season there was a steady movement of labor right up to the office closure on October 17. The general quality of labor was good, he said, the workers seemed prepared to give a days work for a days pay.

Some orchard workers wanted thinning by contract and this seemed to be a good idea, Mr. Kirk reported.

This was challenged and it was claimed that contract thinning is more costly.

Satisfaction with the local Fall Fair effort, in co-operation with the Summerland Board of Trade was expressed and a hearty vote of thanks was extended to W. F. Ward, Bill Gallup and to others who contributed so much to the display.

In moving a resolution to the effect that the growers give consideration to the possibility of a magazine to be devoted exclusively to the tree fruit industry, Hans Stoll contended that the Country Life magazine to which the growers now subscribe did not give the full news of the industry, and that a recent editorial, regarding deficiency payments had been destructive of the grower organization efforts.

Mr. Stoll envisioned a magazine that would give full news of the industry and would present an open forum for grower discussion. Eric Tait thought the idea a good one and suggested the magazine might carry the Quarterly report and, perhaps, save the growers some money.

The general idea received approval of the meeting with instructions that the resolutions be worked over and made more definite.

Colin McKenzie, Speaking in support of his resolution for research into the best type of packinghouse equipment suggested that the MacPhee report would be critical of the present-day packinghouse equipment.

We should seek to find the best there is in existence, not only in Canada and the U.S. but elsewhere in the world, Mr. McKenzie argued. He proposed that application should be made to the department of agriculture for an agricultural engineer to be assigned to the research project and the growers vote $2,500 towards the cost of financing the project.

Walter B. Powell pointed out that some years ago the manufacturing of grading and sorting equipment had been something of a monopoly and little progress was made, but now with several firms in the business, Mr. Powell thought that, perhaps, the prodding for new and better designs should be done in that direction.

The resolution was then approved for submission to the annual convention.

The vexed question of how to secure complete spray protection in orchards surrounded by subdivisions created a serious problem in spraying for the orchardist. The meeting mulled over what the responsibilities of local government in this regard and it was suggested that the municipality should, perhaps, stipulate that apple trees on subdivision must be removed before lots are sold before the subdivision can be approved. The meeting then went on to decide to set up a committee to investigate and report on this difficult problem.

"Tiny" Ganzeveld wanted to know what progress was being made in the matter of starting control, but this seemed to be a question no one appeared prepared to cope with.

Suggestions ranging from tin cans on wires to men blowing fish costumes blowing horns, but the problem of the starling is still to be solved.

Small Bore Rifle Club Meets Mon.

The Summerland Small Bore Rifle Club will hold its annual meeting on Monday, December 8, at the Barkwill Cannery, at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting originally scheduled for last week, was postponed because of the absence of the president. Those who turned out last week enjoyed the first practice shoot of the season.

Adieus Said To Mr., Mrs. Smith

A social evening was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orman, where neighbors gathered to bid adieu to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith, who are leaving Garnett Valley after 20 years residence there.

The Smiths were presented with the gift of two pictures of the district. After lovely refreshments were served everyone joined in the singing of "They are jolly good fellows" which brought the pleasant evening to a close.

Many New Park Developments In '58

Improvements to Peach Orchard Park, Powell Beach and development of little league ball park at the Summerland Athletic Park and drastic steps to eliminate weed growth at Peach Orchard Cemetery, were reported by Parks Board chairman Ernie Bennett at the annual stewardship meeting last week. Mr. Bennett said the little league park, occupying a former parking area in the Athletic Park, was being built in co-operation with the Summerland Kinsmen Club, which is sponsoring Babe Ruth ball next season. If need be the parks board retains the right to use the area for parking.

Peach Orchard Park continues to increase in popularity. In 1957 there were 1,221 campers, in 1958 there were 1,676, Mr. Bennett said. This produced a revenue of $1,676. Total parks expenditure during the year was $8,700.

ORCHARD RUN

by WALLY SMITH
The British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association will hold its annual convention in Vernon next January and locals now are preparing their resolutions for presentation at this growers' parliament.

But a lot of zip will be missing when the delegates meet in session because of the late release of the MacPhee Royal Commission report. Too late to act upon at this convention.

Growers expect Dr. MacPhee's findings, said to cover 1,100 typewritten pages to contain an analysis of all branches of the Okanagan fruit industry with every phase from production to recommendations concerning ev-marketing.

There is not sufficient time for thoughtful study of the report before the convention. The report, in fact, has not been made public at the time of this writing.

However, it is expected to be in the hands of the growers sometime in December. When delegates meet in Vernon next January there will be little talk of the MacPhee report on the floor of the convention, but in the caucuses and back room sessions it will be the main topic of conversation.

Members in all locals are hoding back on resolutions because the subjects they cover may be seen in new light when the contents of the MacPhee report are revealed.

Thus we have Dr. MacPhee's findings, even before they are made known, exerting a strong influence on the forthcoming convention.

The delegates will elect a slate of officers for 1959; various resolutions of minor importance will be passed; there will be other nice little complimentary resolutions, a banquet and speeches and all together the whole affair will be a nice social gathering. But the job of grappling with the major problems that confront the tree fruit industry will have to be left to a later date.

It will be advisable to call the delegates together again in another session, possibly in March to deal with the findings of the MacPhee report.

Growers are hoping that Dr. MacPhee will point the way to the solution of some of our problems. Perhaps some of these problems have no solution and we'll just have to learn to live with them as they are.

Reeve Atkinson Back On Job

Reeve F. E. Atkinson presided over Tuesday night's regular council meeting, for the first time in over two months. The Reeve, who along with Mrs. Atkinson spent two months in Europe, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and Britain, studied European methods of fruit processing and cider making.

Reeve Atkinson expressed his appreciation to Acting Reeve Norman Holmes and to the other members of council for carrying on during his absence.

"For Their Work Continueth"

Summerland's annual ratepayers' meeting was a dull affair — no fireworks — no criticisms — no probing questions — just mundane report after report, but nevertheless the story of a job well done.

Yes, Summerland's annual stewardship was a very dull, routine affair and by that very dullness testified and eloquently to the satisfaction and confidence the ratepayers of Summerland have in their elected representatives.

Council School Board and Parks Board and the library committee gave their reports of their stewardship and the sum total of reports told of a community that is growing in stature thanks to sound and honest administration.

These things don't just happen, those short reports presented to the ratepayers last Thursday were the essence of long hours of planning and effort, and that planning and effort done for the most part in what to most people is leisure time.

Summerland is fortunate in the calibre of men who take public office, and judging by the dull ratepayers' meeting and the nominations on Monday, it appears that the people of Summerland are content that they carry on.

And so The Summerland Review takes upon itself the pleasant task of extending, on behalf of the community, a heartfelt "thank you" to the men and women who served the community in public office this year, and, although we have quoted the following lines before — we do so again as we think they are timely and carry within them the tribute to which our Councillors, School trustees and Parks Commissioners have fully earned.

Wrote Rudyard Kipling:
" . . . For their work continueth,
Broad and deep continueth
Greater than their knowing."

Could Be Dangerous

The long shadow of the MacPhee report hovers over the industry. This is evident in the small number of resolutions being submitted at the annual meeting of the BCFGA locals.

Here in Summerland, only two resolutions were submitted, some locals are not submitting any and most of those which are submitted are more routine and certainly not aimed at out-guessing the MacPhee report.

The recent announcement that because of the expected release of the MacPhee report this month, that resolutions will be accepted up to January 8, and will be treated as ordinary resolutions, is to our mind confusing and the policy somewhat dangerous.

It appears that these resolutions will come from individuals, and will be forwarded, insofar as we are aware, independent of the BCFGA locals.

This means the resolutions will not be winnowed as they usually are by being discussed at the grass root level of the BCFGA locals.

This procedure then, first of all denies one of the fundamentals of the BCFGA organization which provides that every registered grower, prepared to accept the privilege and responsibility by attendance at his BCFGA local meetings, can have a voice in the shaping of BCFGA policy.

We, furthermore, suggest that the policy is dangerous, insofar as without the hurdle of the BCFGA locals' approval to surmount, the crackpot, the disgruntled and the ever present destructive element can get their blatherings on the floor of the convention — certainly to be voted down by the delegates — but not before they have been widely publicized to give a distorted picture of the industry and of the thinking of the growers.

How easy this can happen was illustrated by a recent editorial in valley newspaper which, commenting on the failure of a growers' meeting to secure a quorum, apparently accepted the opinion of one or two growers to come out with the statement that growers stayed away because they didn't like the way the BCFGA was running things.

This while patently absurd, insofar as any grower making such a statement was saying in effect, that he didn't like the way he, himself was running things, for the BCFGA is the grower and the grower is the BCFGA, nevertheless, did give the impression that the grower was discontented with his organization. Discontent there is, discontent over poor returns—discontent over increasing costs without a corresponding increase in returns—yes there is discontent within the fruit industry, but that discontent is not aimed at the BCFGA or its officers.

Proof of this is that most of the locals so far heard from have nominated BCFGA president A. R. Garrish for a sixth term and it appears there will be few changes in the roster of officers elected for 1959.

That fact, we think, refutes any claim of discontent with the BCFGA and its officers, for only fools would continue to re-elect the same man year after year, if they did not like the way they are running things, and the growers are not fools. So in view of the parlous condition of the industry today, we consider these renominations of officers a striking testimonial to the thinking growers' belief in their organization and in the men they elect to run it.

Not that we believe the executives are perfect or that they cannot make mistakes and to get back to what this editorial began about, we think the executive is making a mistake to allow resolutions based on what, at the best, can only be superficial reading of the MacPhee report, to come to the floor of the convention:

The MacPhee report, some two years in the compiling, deserves and will, undoubtedly, require much more than a superficial reading and much careful weighing of the pros and cons before resolutions on the report are framed.

There is, we believe, danger in the policy of allowing late resolutions, based on the MacPhee report to come to the floor of the January convention, particularly resolutions which have not gone through the mill at the BCFGA locals' level.

Christmas Seals

Fifty years have passed since Canadian editors began urging the public to buy Christmas seals. It all started in Toronto in 1908 when the old Globe ran an editorial on its front page announcing something new — the sale of Christmas stamps to provide funds for anti-tuberculosis work. The idea was new to this country, said the writer, but Denmark had been using it since Christmas 1904 with splendid results. Surely Canadians were as willing as the Danes to launch a campaign to wipe out tuberculosis.

The special virtue of the scheme, which had been the inspiration of a Copenhagen postman, was that it gave everyone a chance to help. Up to that time the general idea was that doctors were the only ones who could do anything about disease. This opened up a way for everyone to take a hand according to their abilities. Men, women and children could help, rich or poor, young or old.

The editorial finished by saying from that day (December 9th) until the day before Christmas there would be news on the front page about what was happening.

Replies poured in from as far east as Saint John, N.B., and as far west as Regina, from a little girl of 8 and a woman of 80. Tuberculosis was the leading cause of death and many thought it incurable, but there were people ready to gove battle and do their bit.

Every Christmas since Canadians in growing numbers have bought Christmas Seals to help stamp out tuberculosis. Time showed that what had once seemed hopeless is possible if we stay on the course. We have not wiped out tuberculosis yet but we know it can be done.

There is still a very saleable job of prevention to be done, and it is for preventive ser-pice that Christmas Seal funds are used. Between now and a month from now, there will be about 50 new active cases found in B.C. It adds up to about 600 people learning in 1959 that they have an illness that will keep them in hospital for the best part of a year or longer.

If you think 600 new cases of tuberculosis in B.C. is too many you can do something right now. You can buy and use the Christmas Seals

More Physical Jerks In Open

'Tis often said that a healthy mind requires a healthy body — this we take with a grain of salt — as history records some of our greatest minds were burdened with unhealthy bodies, even so we have no wish to decry the value of physical education in our schools, provided that physical education is kept within bounds, and that neither the cost nor the intrusion into actual class time is excessive.

We note that at the Parent Teacher Association meeting here last Thursday that complaints were aired to the effect that facilities were lacking for adequate elementary school physical education.

Frankly, we cannot go along with that opinion.

A gymnasium, with all the trimmings, is not a necessity in body building.

Here in the Okanagan, especially all that is necessary to build sound bodies is teacher know-how and the wide open spaces of the school yard. Physical education, like many other features of our schooling today, has got out of hand, too many trimmings.

Every teacher, according to his or her physical fitness, should be able to teach and drill their classes in the basic body building exercises.

School sports should be playground rivalry with inter-class competitions played during recess and should not interfere with the regular curriculum. Nowadays it appears that all the costly gymnasium buildings and paraphernalia are mainly for the use of the outstanding student athletes, the bumbling student, no matter how enthusiastic, is shunted to the sidelines and becomes a spectator.

We believe that a school should have its competitive athletes, if only for the reason that it helps build school Esprit-de-Corp, but we believe that too much emphasis can be placed, and is being placed, on the student who is a natural athlete at the expense of the student body as a whole.

In our opinion we do not need more gymnasiums and more gymnasium equipment, what we need is more down-to-earth physical exercises in the open air — the student should be led to play more energy burning and body developing games.

In our day we recall leap frogging around the school yard as many as fifty jumps at a time and keeping this up throughout the recess. And how many of the "kids" today can do a hand stand or turn a cartwheel, almost a universal accomplishment in the "good old days."

There is nothing, of course, more boring or more conducive to lip curling contempt than for an adult to talk of "when I went to school, things were different," but any adult will recall that he and his school mates developed their own physical training program and it is safe to say that he left school a better physical specimen, and with a deeper urge to participate in team sports than does the youth of today.

In those days we organized our own teams and used our own pennies for the privilege of playing team games outside school hours, although with teacher supervision.

What we would like to see is the entire student body of each school begin school morning and afternoon with a brisk fifteen minutes of mass exercises, under one good instructor, with teachers, unless excused for age or physical reasons, leading their respective classes.

Physical fitness is something to be desired, but costly gymnasiums and the development of individual stars are not going to help the average boy or girl to attain it, either, physical fitness or knowledge of how to play the game.

Promotion For Summerland Men

WINNIPEG, Nov. 21 — Flight Cadet Tom Campbell of West Summerland is a recent graduate of the RCAF Air Observer School in Winnipeg. He received his Air Interception Wings from Air Commodore E. M. Reyno, AFC, CD, in ceremonies held at Winnipeg on November 21.

The graduation marks more than a year of intensive Aircrew Training for the graduates. In addition to receiving wings, the graduates are granted a commission in the RCAF, and are promoted to the rank of Flying Officer.

Flight Cadet Campbell was educated in West Summerland, and joined the RCAF in September 1957. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Campbell reside in West Summerland.

Members of the Summerland Overture Concert Series were able to attend the concert given by Miss Fredel Lack, violinist, in Kelowna Monday night given through the reciprocal arrangement made with the Kelowna Civic Concert Association.

Gas Circulating Heaters Solve Many Problems

Inexpensive modern gas circulating heaters now are very compact units that provide quick heat needed for cool morning and evenings and steady controlled heat for long periods of cold weather. The circulation of clean, warm air that does not come in contact with the fuel or flue-products is quietly and thermostatically delivered from today's attractive units built, like central furnaces to rigid "AGA" and "CGA" standards of safety and efficiency.

Gas circulating heaters are style conscious these days! Blending in with the room's decor, they make an attractive addition to the furnishings of the room. Some models look like fine cabinets, while some have that added feature — a radiant front which provides some of the eye appeal of a glowing fireplace. Wall heaters also match the color schemes, coming in decorator colors or in neutral base to be painted to suit the room's decor.

Because of its basic simplicity, the small home gas heating unit has the lowest initial cost and enjoys the same free utility 24 hour burner service as the full, central heating furnace. These versatile gas units, enjoying dealer finance plans, can bring automatic heating comforts to the smallest home; from the playroom to the hard-to-heat corners of the larger, older dwelling — and all in a most economical manner.

It was November 19, when this picture was taken, 1956, the day when V. M. Lockwood made history in Summerland by being the first to sign up for Natural Gas. It was some months later that the big line crept down KVR road into the heart of Summerland. Today natural gas has reached lower Summerland. The Summerland Experimental Station, the hospital, the canneries, packinghouses are all using natural gas along with hundreds of homes.

Gas Heating Now Available For Everyone

New Low Cost Heating Units Bring Gas Heating To Smallest Homes!

Room heaters, wall furnaces and floor furnaces are generally found in smaller homes or where individual rooms are heated separately. Being smaller, less complex and less expensive than a central system, they represent a smaller percentage of the total home investment. Properly installed, they very adequately do the job they were designed for.

Because of the flexibility of natural gas, heating units using this fuel are available in many types, models, and capacities. A natural gas heating unit is tailored to suit each home or room, regardless of its size. A gas heater, therefore, should be selected on a basis of rated output. The smallest will normally heat a 12' by 12' room with an eight foot ceiling.

The wall heater is a space saving development. It takes up no floor space and can be placed to direct heat into 2 or 3 rooms. Such heaters are built to fit between normal stud spacings. Wall furnaces can be equipped with manual control or with built-in or remote-type temperature control. Automatic operation with thermostat is recommended for convenience, healthfulness and operating economy.

Dump That Sawdust Scoop and Coal Shovel

Manufacturers of modern natural gas conversion burners are said to have originated the saying, "No shovel was ever made to fit a woman's hand", and then it's said they set out to make it come true!

Today's gas conversion burners can adapt most older, warm air, hot water and steam heating units to fully automatic natural gas equipment, and do it in a matter of hours! A very high degree of efficiency can be enjoyed, providing the old equipment is in good repair and originally of adequate size for the heating job required. The ambition of the manufacturers so it seems is to enable every lady of the house to control the heating plant with fingertip thermostat control, and donate the old coal and sawdust scoop to the museum. Their success in the prairies, where conversion burner sales and installations run into the thousands, seems likely to be repeated in the interior of B. C. This will likely be true of the older home owners who do wish to completely revamp their entire heating system, yet would like to immediately enjoy the cleanliness and space saving of gas fuel.

Matching the hundreds of commercial conversion burners now in operation throughout the interior of B. C. in bakeries in hotels, restaurants, etc., are the domestic conversion burners especially designed for the home owner. These burners come in several sizes. The unit needed would depend upon the size of the furnace fire box and consultation with the utility or a local conversion burner dealer will develop the proper burner size required.

"I have a smaller home... but it's GAS-HEATED and mighty comfortable!"

I am the SPACE HEATER that does the job in this house so well... so inexpensively! I provide full automatic heat to every room in his house. I'm compact and space-saving! I give all the cosiness and draught-free heat that this small house can use. Cost-wise I'm extremely practical too! My initial out-lay expenses are kept to an absolute minimum — no vents, no pipes!

We WALL HEATERS can also do a wonderful job in smaller non-basement homes. We're especially efficient where there is limited floor area. These days you can buy me, or one of my many cousins, in varying sizes and varying heating capacities — from the equivalent of a small space heater to a medium size furnace. And as for beauty we've come a long way since the old days! Now, we're elegant in both design and colour — or if you prefer a chameleon — ready to blend and disappear into any number of colour schemes or finishes.

If he'd had an old-style solid fuel furnace in the basement, a CONVERSION BURNER, like me would have filled the bill — and so inexpensively too! The complete job runs from about $150.00 up! We CONVERSION BURNERS give you all the benefits of modern automatic gas heating without the need to buy a complete new gas furnace. We can be installed in practically any type of furnace and can use the existing ductwork and venting system to circulate the warm air. And installing me in your home is a simple matter — just ask your local gas equipment dealer whether I or one of my cousins is best suited to your needs — then quick as a wink I'll be there, heating your home before the house has time to cool off.

Ready For Winter

Before Winter really gets a grip on your house, make sure the house can fight back to defend you and your family. Here are the measures you can take now to insure your comfort and cut down fuel bills.

THE ROOF

SHINGLE REPAIRS — Check your roof for signs of loose, raised or broken shingles. Asphalt shingles can be mended but badly damaged ones can be replaced by removing the old pieces and sliding new ones into place. Then surface nail them with broad-head shingle nails and coat nail heads with asphalt. Preheat the asphalt to make workable in cold weather.

Small breaks in shingles can be patched by spreading roofing asphalt over the opening and the nail heads.

Wood shingles, if split or broken can be split with a chisel along the grain to break them from the nails. Using a tire iron, slide it under the shingle above and rest on nail heads. Then tap the handle of the iron to drive down the protruding nails. You can then slip in a new shingle and surface nail it with copper or coated nails.

Tiles are handled in somewhat the same manner, breaking out the damaged tiles with a hammer, then setting the nails as with wood shingles. To hold new tiles in place set a strip of copper sheeting of tile width where the old tile was removed, nail it to the roof then curl the lower edge up over the reset tile and crimp over the edge to hold the tile in place.

GUTTERS, EVESTROUGHS

Clean these now and protect against debris by tacking a strip of rust proof screen wire to the roof so it extends across the top of the gutter. Water goes through but leaves and sticks go over the roof edge.

WINDOWS AND DOORS

Cracks around windows and doors, lack of storm sash, absence of weatherstripping add up to high fuel bills and low comfort. For windows a flexible weatherstripping with fabric edge is easily nailed into place around both windows and doors.

Weatherstripping is a must. A quick job with plastic backed felt goes on readily. A tack hammer and scissors are the only necessary tools. Full-scale metal stripping can be applied if you don't postpone the job too late. Where casing joins the frame, you need a tight joint with gun-applied caulking compound. The drip cap should be similarly sealed. Storm sash should be tightly fitted.

DOORS
Doors should likewise be weatherstripped, particularly the track beneath the door. Adjustable weatherstripping to fit irregular sills are available quite cheaply to avoid cold floors.

Storm doors should be provided for each entrance and they should be well fitted.

SEPTIC SYSTEMS

Make sure your septic system is in working order in the fall. Cold weather slows bacterial action, causes sluggishness. Lay in a supply of septic tank stimulant for winter use. Clean drain fields chemically in the fall so they will not become clogged in cold weather and cause back-up of house drains. It is a good idea to flush the drains at this season to avoid frozen pipes. Introduce septic system stimulant in house drains, drainfield cleaners in distribution boxes beyond the tank.

CHIMNEYS

Check your chimney cap. If it's the type where tile liner extends above the masonry, the angle between liner and masonry edges should be filled with cement tapered to the outer edge to shed rain. Mortar joints between the bricks should be pointed up with 1 part cement 2 parts sand, since leaks result in poor draft in the chimney.

Promenade

Square dancers will be well advised to mark the following dates on their calendars.

Dancers from the southern interior will be heading to Penitction on Saturday, December 6th, to attend the party at the High School cafeteria, sponsored by the Peach City Promenaders. Ed Stebor will be the emcee; the Kelowna Wagonwheelers are also on Saturday, December 6, holding a dance in the new Memorial Arena Hall. Guest callers are welcome: Bring a sack lunch.

On December 13, French's Twirlers of Oliver will sponsor a subscription dance for the SQUARE DANCE magazine: For $1.50 per couple you get a one year subscription to the magazine, plus free dance and a free lunch. This is a good deal and you can also be sure of an entertaining program: Bill French will be the emcee and callers are invited to bring their records.

On December 20, the Pairs and Squares will hold their Christmas party: Plans are now underway for a program and further developments will be included in a later column: Also next week we hope to have a report of the monthly executive meeting.

The next and last lesson before Christmas will be held on Tuesday, December 9, at the Youth Centre, 8:30 p.m. Come and have fun and keep square dancing alive in Summerland!

W.A. United Church Christmas Bazaar Held

The annual Christmas Bazaar and tea of the United Church W. A. was held on November 29 and was pronounced a complete success by all. General Convener Mrs. C. L. Wright, spent many hours organizing committees and working with the seven Circles.

The new Sunday School hall was turned over to the various booths and the increased space made it possible to display articles to much greater advantage.

The Okwesu Circle with a colorful array of aprons displayed on a Carousel was convener by Mrs. C. Denike, assisted by Mrs. A. Gronlund, Mrs. R. Oxley, Mrs. W. J. Stewart, Mrs. L. L. Fudge and Mrs. G. D. Lund.

The Century Circle handled the novelties booth which featured a variety of cushions. Mrs. Edith Scott was convener, assisted by Mrs. L. Shannon, Miss Minnie Ritchie, Miss Louise Atkinson, Mrs. Vera Foser and Miss Joanne Ritchie.

A new feature this year handled by the Lakeside Circle, was a White Elephant stall. Co-conveners Miss Mary Scott and Mrs. C. B. Snow, were aided by Mrs. D. Orr and Mrs. M. McKechnie.

The semi-circle's candy booth was a complete sell-out, thanks to the efforts of convener Mrs. Jack Stewart and assistants Mrs. B. Brandon, Mrs. F. Mallett, Mrs. S. Blazeike and Mrs. L. Rumball.

The most recently formed group, the Mariposa Circle, had a new attraction for the children, a Christmas Tree with appropriate prizes for boys and girls. Ms. K. Williams was convener, assisted by Mrs. C. Morgan, Mrs. C. Bishop and Mrs. J. C. Wilcox.

Home Baking, always a popular item, was handled by the Magic Circle with convener Mrs. David Munn. Special attractions this year were Christmas Cakes made by the circle and home made bread and buns which were generously donated. Assisting at this table were: Mrs. M. McGibbon, Mrs. A. Kean, Mrs. J. Mayne, Mrs. J. R. Leiner, Mrs. A. D. Gately and Mrs. M. Cousins.

Tea was served in an atmosphere of Christmas trees, angels, colored lights and candles burning on each table. Mrs. A. D. Wilson headed a committee composed of a representative from each Circle to decorate for this event.

Hostesses were Mrs. J. H. Holman, W. A. President, Mrs. C. O. Richmond and Past-President Mrs. J. C. Wilcox.

The Just-In Circle with conveners Mrs. G. A. Laidlaw and Mrs. S. W. J. Feltham arranged the delicious tea and refreshments. Pouring were Federation members: Mrs. Jack Dunsdon, Mrs. S. A. MacDonald, Mrs. A. McLachlan and Mrs. O. J. Lazenby. Mrs. Cecil Wade and Mrs. W. H. Durick were kept busy replenishing tables, and serving were: Mrs. G. Washington, Mrs. A. J. McKenzie, Mrs. H. Hackman, Mrs. C. B. Hankins, Mrs. Hazel Cole, Mrs. Ken Heales, Mrs. M. D. Proverbs, Mrs. K. Boothe, Mrs. W. R. Chalmers, Mrs. A. Cowan and Mrs. W. Mortimer.

Mrs. Frank Young made tea, an assisting her in the kitchen were: Mrs. Colin Campbell, Mrs. W. Milne, Mrs. J. Marshall, Mrs. F. Dumont, Mrs. W. J. Broderick, Mrs. W. B. Powell, Mrs. G. McArthur and Mrs. C. Reinertson.

Trout Creek P-TA Meets

At their regular monthly meeting on November 20th, Trout Creek P.T.A. members were given a full account of the progress made by the Cub Pack started in September under the leadership of Dr. McArthur. At present there are 14 members, 6 cubs and 8 cnums. Recently the boys canvassed the district for bottles and received a most generous response. They realized around $60 from the sale of these bottles.

Due to the interest of the boys in their pack and the expansion of it, Dr. McArthur urgently needs an assistant. Any lady or man interested in assisting, please contact Dr. McArthur.

Mr. Brandon reported that approximately $67 had been made from the "shell-out" tickets sold by the school children on Halloween. Some of this has been used to purchase basketball hoops and balls. The remainder will be used for other play-ground equipment.

Following the business period Dr. Bishop of the Experimental Station showed slides, and gave an interesting talk on his native province, Nova Scotia.

There will be no meeting in December.

Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Bill McElheron on their Silver Wedding anniversary on Thursday, November 27, Mr. George Washington, on behalf of the staff of the Summerland Co-operative Growers Association presented them with a silver serving tray.

Miss Darlene Bonthoux spent the weekend in Summerland, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Bonthoux.

TELEVISION

Background To T.V. Show

The Bat Masterson series, with Gene Barry starred as Bat, is seen every Wednesday night at 9:30, following Milton Berle in the Kraft Music Hall. The background of this fabulous western hero is related below:

MASTERTSON THE MAN
We begin with the end.
Damon Runyon wrote this tribute to Bat Masterson in his New York American column: "His death was a strangely quiet closing to a strangely active career. . . . It was the loss of a personal friend, and of one of the most indomitable characters this land has ever seen. He was a 100 percent, 22-carat real man. . . . Bat was a good hater and a wonderful friend. He was always stretching out a helping hand to some down-and-outer. He had a great sense of humor and a marvelous fund of reminiscence, and was one of the most entertaining companions we have ever known. There are only too few men in the world like Bat Masterson, and his death is a genuine loss."

A Name Is Born
"Bat" was born William Barclay Masterson on a farm in Iroquois County, Illinois. He was the second of six children. Although devoted to his family, the prankish youth realized he couldn't go through life following a plow and looking at the rump of a horse. He ran away from home at the age of seventeen to launch a career as one of the west's most famous gun-fighters and lawmen. Eager for adventure, he wanted to see the frontier, and then return home. He never did. The trail towns, gambling saloons, Indian campaigns, shootouts, and general hellraising held too much fascination for the lively good-natured Masterson.

By the time he was twenty-one Masterson had been a railroad builder, buffalo hunter, and Indian fighter. He was one of the authentic heroes of the battle of Adobe Walls. He had scouted for Federal troops across the Staked Plains and rescued the Germain sisters from the murderous Cheyennes. Ironically, when he killed his first white man, Bat suffered the wound that gave him his name.

A notorious bully, Sergeant King forced a shootout over the affections of blue-eyed, raven-haired Molly Brennan, hostess at Dodge's Lady Gay. The enraged Sergeant pulled his gun and started firing. Molly threw herself in front of young Masterson and took the .45 bullet in the abdomen. Another slug smashed into Masterson's pelvis. As he started to fall, Masterson hauled out his gun and fired once! Sergeant King fell dead with a bullet in his heart.

Molly died. The smashed bones in Masterson's pelvis resulted in a slight limp which stayed with him the rest of his life. The capper Masterson began carrying a cane which, as a peace officer, he often used instead of his fists when dealing with unruly celebrants. Over the years many a cowtown jail was filled with saddened characters sporting a bruise or laceration on the forehead. Masterson became so adept in the art of batting a quarrelsome client on the brow before he could reach for a gun, he earned the highly regarded name of "Bat".

Personality
From the start, Bat was an easygoing enforcer of law and order, refusing to take a man in unless he was definitely out of hand — invariably from the effects of the forked lightning sold for whiskey — and a menace to himself and others.

The reason for much of this popularity was that Bat did not take himself too seriously; there was little of the gimlet-eyed killer about him. He proposed to relax in between jobs of shooting it out with desperate characters or leading man hunts across the prairies. Bat was a familiar figure in all the bars and gambling establishments — and his numerous romances indicate he was not one to shun feminine company.

Rules For Living

Masterson was no superman who believed that his sixshooter placed him above natural and human law. There were many men who killed more of their fellows; there were others who were probably deadlier in a gunfight, and others whose killer instinct was honed to a much finer edge. Masterson, as a matter of record, never killed anyone for the sheer pleasure of killing.

The three qualities a man needed to live by the gun in the West, according to Masterson, were courage, skill at handling his weapon, and, not the least, the ability and coolness to make the first shot count.

Curling

The big Totem Spiel is over for another year. Because of the Grey Cup game the same time there are always a lot of curlers there from the prairies. Reg Stone of Trail came out on top, beating out a lot of big curlers on the way. Bill Croft went out with Dick Topping from Oliver, Birch and Rozarder from Pentiction. They report some good curling but didn't make the prizes.

The local curling club are holding a chicken and ham curl on Sunday at 1 p.m., December 7. We would like everyone to turn out. I think especially the lead players should come because you have three chances to draw to the button and I'm sure the leads in both the ladies and mens club would find it lots of fun.

Val Trippe and his men so far have't lost a game in the round robin. It will be a change to see some new names in "A" section. I saw Val throwing some draw rocks the other night and he may go home with some ham and chicken on Sunday.

The Men's Zone Playdowns will be held in Peachland this year so get your team practised up.

You may now come to the curling rink and watch your favorite program on TV while you watch the curling.

Big Attendance Speakers' Club

The Summerland Speakers' Club got off to a good start last Tuesday, 26 members attending, far above the minimum requirement of 15. In view of large attendance it is possible that two classes will be set up, in order to operate to the best advantage.

Several former members are taking a refresher course and they will assist in the work.

Plans are now set for the conduct of public meetings, presentation of illustrated addresses, procedure for presiding at banquets and at other affairs where citizens are called upon to take part.

No MacPhee Report Until January 15

Growers who have waited and waited for the MacPhee report will still be waiting at year's end.

Word received from the Hon. Newton P. Steacy, B.C. Minister of Agriculture today, is that the MacPhee report will not be available to the growers until January 15, 1959.

16-YEAR OLDS NOW PERMITTED IN POOLROOMS

Up and down the valley, in Armstrong, Vernon, Kelowna and down in Osoyoos, where there is no age limit at all, 16-year-olds are allowed in poolrooms.

In view of this general practice and, because Council is of the opinion that there is no harm in youngsters enjoying themselves in well-run poolrooms, permission was granted to George Garnett, proprietor of Garnett's Billiards, Summerland's new poolroom, to allow 16-year-olds on the premises.

"But" warned Reeve F. E. Atkinson, "Council can and would rescind this ruling if it is found that the poolroom is not being run to the standards required."

BCFGA president A. R. Garrish relayed the news to the Review this morning with the comment that the executive is deeply disappointed at the delay, reason, according to the Minister of Agriculture, delay from a hold up at the Queen's Printers.

The executive has continually pressed for an early release of the report, Mr. Garrish said, and we are very disappointed that it will now hardly be possible to discuss the report at the annual convention.

The executive has been ready and is ready to wait upon the Minister of Agriculture in Victoria to accept formal release of the MacPhee report, just as soon as we get the word.

"But it now seems there is no alternative to holding another general meeting or the setting up of some method of dealing with the report, according to the wishes of the growers as expressed through BCFGa convention," Mr. Garrish said.

Council Thinks Government Aid On Projects Would Cost Money

The Federal Government's 50-50 labor cost sharing on winter works projects, a plan put forward by the government to ease the unemployment situation, is going begging in Summerland.

The Summerland Municipal Council is cold to the proposal, in the belief that because of the restriction and stipulations hedging the government's offer, that it would cost the municipality money, rather than save money.

The Government's 50-50 labor cost proposal was discussed by the Municipal Council at its meeting Tuesday, following reading of a letter from the Summerland Board of Trade, asking if the council felt it could take advantage of the work scheme in view of the unemployment situation.

Civic officials elsewhere seem convinced that this government plan is not an aid to the municipalities, but an effort by the government to get the unemployment problem off its back, without benefit to the municipalities, commented Councillor Norman Holmes.

Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith read the text of the government proposals, in which it was stipulated that only persons drawing unemployment insurance and hired through the unemployment office could come under the plan.

Municipalities cannot use municipal employees, unless currently unemployed and on unemployment insurance.

Difficulty of securing labor to suit the job within these regulations was envisaged by the Council. Councillor Walter B. Powell suggested that if the government really wanted to encourage the municipalities to do something it would offer to contribute a straight ten percent of the total cost of projects done.

Council generally was of the opinion that despite the 50-50 sharing of labor costs, the work would cost more and that the municipality would be more likely to lose money than gain, if the government proposal was taken up.

The Board of Trade will be notified of Council's viewpoint and a copy of the regulations governing the 50-50 labor cost proposal will be forwarded for the Board's information.

Five Dollars Down Then Let It Snow

To Sell Nuts To Help Kids

Summerland Kinsmen will stage a community-wide canvass on the nights of December 17, 18 and 19, selling packages of Christmas nuts.

Proceeds of the drive will go towards financing the construction of the new Little League Ball Park, which the Kinsmen are building. The Kinsmen are hopeful of receiving good support so they can continue with their ball park project and have the park ready for play when another season rolls around.

Onley Paintings Showing Sat. At Library Here

Toni Onley, whose paintings have won considerable renown will exhibit some of his work at the Summerland Branch of Okanagan Library in West Summerland, on Saturday. Mr. Onley has exhibited in Vancouver and interior points, since returning from Mexico, where he is furthering his studies in art.

Light Up For Xmas Contest

The Board of Trade will again sponsor a Christmas home light-up contest.

A handsome trophy will be awarded the winner to hold for one year, consolation prizes of merchandise will be given runners up.

The Board of Trade hopes that everyone will attempt some form of holiday lighting to add color to Summerland during the holiday season.

Assignment To Corral Santa Claus

Joe Biollo was assigned to a hazardous expedition to the North Pole at last Monday's executive meeting of the Board of Trade.

Mr. Biollo's assignment is to meet with Santa Claus and, on behalf of the children of Summerland petition him to make a firm commitment to visit under the auspices of the Board of Trade on December 24.

Summerland residents whose backs ache from shoveling out their snow-blocked driveways can avoid such aches and pains in the future, and by the simple expedient of crossing the municipal palm with silver (five dollars worth) can sit through future snow storms and howling blizzards without dread of the snow shovel.

Meeting Tuesday the Summerland Council decided, as a public service to contract for the snow plowing of private driveways at the rate of five dollars a season.

Councillor Norman Holmes, who must have acquired blisters shoveling snow this past weekend, couldn't wait to get his five dollars down. "I'm in, as of now," said Councillor Holmes, handing his five dollars to the Municipal Clerk.

It all started when Works Superintendent Ken Blagborne requested a policy directive from the Council, on the matter of giving a helping hand to residents when the snow lays round about, deep and crisp and drifted.

The municipal grader has, on occasion, while going about its lawful business, taken that extra swipe of the big blade to clear driveway entrances, and where people have been in real trouble, the grader has gone in and dug them out. "But" said the works superintendent, "if we do it for one, we are morally bound to do it for all, and then, if there is any amount of snow, we could run into real trouble."

Council was obviously sitting on the well-known horns of the well-known dilemma, it couldn't say yes and it couldn't say no.

Suggestion that the superintendent could continue to act at his own discretion didn't appeal to the superintendent, he wanted to know how he was going to draw the line.

Council then agreed that only a hard and fast policy could avoid unpleasant complications.

The custom of some other municipalities to contract by the season for plowing driveways, was cited, and it was decided that this policy should be adopted in Summerland.

The price tag of $5 for the season was thought to be very low, but Reeve F. E. Atkinson pointed out that the municipality was doing this as a public service and not to make money. If, however, it proves too low a upward revision will be made.

Council made it clear that the municipality reserves the right to accept or reject any contact applications, as there are driveways which do not lend themselves to plowing by the big 15 ton grader. Furthermore clearing of driveways will only be done after the grader has first cleared the main roads after a snow storm.

Vinegar Factory May Locate In Summerland

Prospects are bright that Summerland will get a new industry. Today the Western Canada Vinegar Co. Ltd., through their agents, Clarence Burch and Company Ltd, Realtors of Penticton, are continuing negotiations which may lead to the purchase of the former Walters Ltd., packinghouse for conversion to vinegar manufacturing plant.

If the deal goes through, and there is no doubt about the company's interest, it will be good news for Summerland and also for the fruit industry, as the manufacture of vinegar provides another outlet for cull apples.

Company directors Leo and Bill Carsley and B.C. manager M. Meredith, of Vancouver, surveyed the entire South Okanagan, including Penticton and Oliver before coming to Summerland. Walters building, plus the advantages of low taxation, low power rates, availability of natural gas, trackage and room for expansion, appealed to the industry site seekers, and they flew east leaving Burch and Co Ltd to continue negotiating.

No word is yet available of how may the plant would employ, or when, if the deal goes through, it would start operating.

Some method of supplying the factory with the required apple tonnage would have to be found, but it is believed that this can be done by making allocation to the vinegar plant as is done in allocating soft fruits to the factory.

Annual School Band Concert Here Friday

This Friday night at 8 p. m. in the Summerland High School Auditorium, the downbeat will be given to open the Christmas Concert staged annually by the High School Band.

In the past this concert has proven to be very popular, with its presentation of various types of music ranging through stirring marches, folk songs and to the music of Christmas times. The senior High School Band will again be assisted by the grade eight band, which will present two numbers, "The Christmas March" and "Santa Claus is coming to Town". The first numbers by the 80-piece band will be tied in with the Centennial celebrations, as it will tell the story of a family travelling from Europe to settle down here in the Okanagan Valley. This portion of the concert features such marches as "Liberty Bell" and the "Seventy-Six Trombones" as well as concert selections, including the "Little Norwegian Suite," "Gypsy Gaiety," and "Pacific Waves". Novelties are to be represented by "Key Rubie" "TV Suite" "Our Family Band" and popular songs, including "Laura Lee" and "Around the World". Following the intermission on hand the Senior Band will play Christmas Music as it has done in past concerts. The evening will end up with an old-fashioned Carol session with the audience and band joining in to sing many of the favorite Carols. This feature of the concert has been introduced at the request of several local residents and if it proves successful, will become a regular part of the annual program.

The student bandmen have been working hard these past months to make this concert a musical success and it is hoped that a large audience will be

Date Changed Legion Smoker Next Wednesday

Date of the annual Summerland Legion Smoker, originally scheduled for Friday, December 19, has been changed to Wednesday, December 17.

The change was made when it was found that the December 19th date clashed with the previously announced Peachland Legion Smoker and also with several other social activities in Summerland.

The Summerland Legion smoker is one of the highlights of the Legion's social events.

PTA News

At the P-TA business meeting, held last Thursday the president, Mrs. Clarence Adams announced the complete success of the rummage sale held recently. Thanks were given to all who helped in this effort. It was announced in the absence of the treasurer, that approximately $140 had been added to the P-TA funds as a result. It was proposed and seconded that $100 of this should be given for repairs to the piano. The motion carried unanimously.

We Still Think It Dangerous

The Review stands corrected. Last week we said editorially that we didn't like the decision of the BCFGA executive to allow late resolutions to reach the floor of the convention without discussion at the grass roots level of the BCFGA Locals. A. R. Garrish, president of the BCFGA took exception to the statement and said it isn't so, that in view of the anticipated release of the MacPhee report, the executive had decided to accept resolutions through the locals, which are submitted at their final meeting before the convention, to consider convention resolutions.

There will not, of course, be opportunity for the rank and file to consider these late resolutions, other than those submitted through their own locals, before they come to the floor of the convention.

We submit that this does not materially alter the Review's viewpoint of last week and although the danger of crackpot and destructive resolutions getting through appears to be minimized, we still think it is a dangerous policy to accept any resolutions based on what, at the best, can now only be a superficial reading of the MacPhee report.

We think that we can discern the BCFGA executive's thinking on the subject. The executive would be in an embarrassing position if it should so happen that the MacPhee report proved highly critical of its works and yet through a policy of no consideration of the MacPhee report, the accredited delegates were unable to clean house at the annual convention next month.

So, the executive is, we think, leaning over backwards in attempting to keep the way open for discussion of the MacPhee report if drastic action is called for.

It is our opinion, however, that the executives need not worry. We believe they will receive more bouquets than brickbats from the hands of Commissioner McPhee. And we still think the MacPhee report should not be debated at the January BCFGA convention.

Here it is December 9, at this writing, and the MacPhee report not yet in sight and the convention only six weeks away and with the Christmas and New Year's holiday season in between.

We were taken up sharply by Mr. Garrish on another point of last week's editorial, in which we said that the growers were marking time — that the locals were cutting down on their resolutions under the shadow of the impending MacPhee report.

Mr. Garrish informed us, to the contrary, that there are actually two more resolutions submitted, so far, than were submitted for the 1958 convention and that these resolutions concerned every phase of the industry — that we do find surprising, as it has seemed to us from various reports of BCFGA local meetings that few resolutions were being submitted.

One resolution that we are happy to see, comes from the Osoyoos local — this resolution pays tribute to the work of the Summerland Experimental By-Products Laboratory and the B.C. Fruit Processors in developing and marketing new products made from low-grade fruits.

This is a timely resolution as there seems to be a lack of appreciation of the work being done by the Experimental Farm and B.C. Fruit Processors in turning valueless and near valueless tree fruits into products that return hard cash to the grower.

Most grower critics of B.C. Fruit Processors look simply at the admittedly small returns they receive from their processed fruit and condemn the entire fruit processing set-up. They don't stop to consider that, in the first instance without the processors, even that small return would not be coming to them, and furthermore they do not stop to consider that it isn't the Fruit Processors that are at fault, but the fact that fruit for the processors costs so much to get delivered to the plant as to cut down to microscopic proportions what should be a fairly healthy financial return to the grower for his processed fruit.

We think the Osoyoos resolution of "appreciation" to the B.C. Fruit Processors and to the staff of the Experimental Laboratory should receive unanimous approval at the convention, and, we hope, it will also spark fruitful discussion on means of getting fruit to the processors at a cost that will ensure a substantial final return to the grower.

'Teaching through visual aids' was the subject of a most entertaining lecture, addressed to members of the Summerland P-TA in the High School Library on December 4.

The speaker was J. R. Pollock, director of visual education in B. C. and he illustrated his talks with films and charts and caricatures adroitly produced on the blackboard.

"Experience is the first abstract basis of learning", he said, and the film affords 'canned experiences of space and time'. It is a medium of mass communication, and artistry, skill and sensitiveness combine to produce a maximum of effect. To illustrate this, he showed a film of life on the Pampas in Argentina and pointed out that natural sound adds to the realism of experience.

The film is also used for reconstruction. Historical events may be re-enacted, or recorded and reproduced. "The Rise of Adolph Hitler" was shown to stress this point. It was also mentioned that many American historical films had been made in Europe, against a background of early English fortresses, or ancient French Chateaux.

After experience, explanation is of the utmost importance in a normal education. The learning situation cannot be created by visual aids alone. Communication between child and teacher, based on sympathy and understanding is necessary and the child should always be given an opportunity to ask questions.

Disney's film "our Friend the Atom" illustrated how the more difficult subjects may be put across. The concept of fission is not easy to explain verbally, but with the aid of a visual reproduction, the student's curiosity may be kindled, and the learning situation made more inviting.

At the discussion which followed, TV in schools was a topic introduced. Mr. Pollock explained that whereas TV is a useful medium, at present it is impractical for use in schools. In order to accommodate 'intermediary' programs, which are considered to be one of the outstanding features of TV, the whole school curriculum would have to be altered at very short notice and the school program would be thrown off balance. An extremely expensive business. Roger Kirkham, producer and assistant to J. R. Pollock, joined in the discussions and much was learned of the work of the Visual Education Department, whose prime aim is to assist teachers in the schools of B. C.

Changeover Big News Of 1958

Major undertaking of the electric light and power department this year and continuing into next year is the changeover of the power distribution system from 4,800 volts to 8,300 volts, Councillor Eric Tait, chairman of the electric light and power committee reported to ratepayers last week.

Power consumption is steadily increasing with a peak month consumption of 844,394 kwh. Total consumption in kilowatt hours, 8,308,798.

Councillor Tait stated that Summerland with 58 space heating units had probably the largest number of space heating connections of any community in the valley.

Santa Claus is coming to town! At least Santa is coming to square dancers this weekend at Oliver. French's Twirlers are holding a subscription Dance in the Community Hall, with Bill French as emcee. This is three-way package; a subscription to the SQUARE DANCER for one year, an evening's dancing and entertainment and supper, all for the price of $1.50 per couple. The Square Dancer is a very worthwhile Canadian square dance magazine, with interesting dances and pointers for beginners as well as experienced dancers.

Also, this weekend, at Westbank the Westside Squares are holding a party with Ray Fredrickson as emcee. Bring along something to snack on and it will be served pot luck style.

December 20th, the Summerland Pairs and Squares will hold their Christmas Party. A program along the Christmas theme is planned and gifts will be presented during the evening. Refreshments will be served by the club.

The Pairs and Squares plan to hold two dances per month after the New Year. The first Tuesday of each month and the

A warning against the dangers involved through the use of faulty Christmas tree lights has been issued by the St John Ambulance.

Every Christmas, fatal accidents are reported due to frayed wires and amateur splices.

Trees placed near radiators or wet surfaces in an attempt to keep the tree moist can complete a ground circuit and result in electrocution.

The St. John group urges all groups setting up Christmas trees to take extreme care.

Library Notes

It is gratifying to note that Summerland residents are taking full advantage of their Centennial Project—the new Library Building. Since its opening on July 21 this year, there have been 125 new registrations, bringing the total membership to well over one thousand, an extremely large percentage if it is considered that the total population is only 3892.

Electrical Service League Formed

Representatives of the electrical industry from the South Okanagan and Similkameen area organized the Southern Interior Area Chapter of the Electrical Service League of British Columbia at a general meeting held in Penticton, Thursday evening, November 20.

The aims of the organization are to promote and carry out at the local level the Adequate Wiring program of the League, to co-ordinate and sponsor industry activities, principally those of educational and promotional nature, and foster good relations within and between each section of the industry.

Elected to serve on the executive are Roy Clarke, Phil Cooper, Gilbert Laycock and Alan Amundson, all from Penticton.

Directors elected are W. Maywood, Princeton; K. Blagborne, Summerland; W. Osborne and H. Eckert of Penticton, Joe Schmidt Oliver; R. Rattray, Osoyoos, and W. Ritchie, Cawston.

Report on the library was presented by Mrs. A. W. Vanderburgh, Council representative to the Okanagan Valley Library Association.

During the past month 2,653 books were borrowed, and of these 712 were children's books. This is approximately two hundred more than during November last year, which beat all previous records.

The reference books too, are subject to considerable use, and the most recent addition to these are the Everyman's Encyclopedia, 1958 edition. The Women's Institute have also donated a copy of their Centennial Cook Book, for the use of patrons of the library.

Recently we sent out an appeal to all members, to search their homes, and return any overdue books. "Book Return" boxes were placed in the Municipal Office building, and The Summerland Review offices, for this purpose. The response has been good, but there are yet people who still have not answered our appeal. PLEASE RETURN YOUR OVERDUE BOOKS AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE. The boxes will remain for one week more.

Irrigation farmers may soon have an instrument that will tell them when to irrigate and how much water to apply. This instrument, known as an evaporimeter, provides a measure of, and rate of, water evaporation.

Studies are now under way at Summerland Experimental Station to determine the amount of water used by grasses, legumes, fruit trees and tomatoes. From this information, simple factors can be established for each crop and used in conjunction with evaporimeter readings to determine water use by plants and, subsequently, the amount of irrigation water needed.

To apply this technique successfully to individual farms, Dr. J. C. Wilcox of Summerland, says, the farmer must know: (1) How much water the soil will hold; and (2) How much water the crops can safely use from the soil before irrigation is needed. When this is established the evaporimeter will indicate when to irrigate and how much water to apply.

Several different types of evaporimeters are in use across Canada but a small, convenient type called the Bellani plate has come into general use.

It is constructed of baked porous material and has a horizontal, black evaporating surface only three inches wide. It is held at a height of four feet above the ground and is fed by water from a reservoir.

Orchard Run

By Wally Smith

Sid. Godber, Editor of the Summerland Review, has warned that the MacPhee report, although it should prove of great value to the fruit industry, will not be the cure-all which, so it seems, some growers are eagerly anticipating.

This column agrees with Mr. Godber.

During his investigation Dr. MacPhee had access to information from all branches of the industry. He got the facts, figures and opinions from hundreds of persons.

This body of information and ideas has been summarized in the MacPhee report together with the conclusions of the commissioner. It is sure to contain a wealth of information, along with suggestions designed to bring about improvement in the economic position of the fruit grower.

But if anyone is expecting the MacPhee report to provide a quick and easy answer to the fundamental ills of the fruit growing industry, he is going to be disappointed.

I would make a guess the "cure" is going to be a series of recommendations, some of which will be drastic, painful and distasteful to some fruit growers.

Whether the growers and the industry are prepared to follow these recommendations is another story.

To enlarge upon this theme—let us assume one of Dr. MacPhee's recommendations will be that fruit growers operate larger orchard units. I don't think it is assuming too much that he will make this recommendation for he did say, only a few days ago, that the day of the small farmer is gone and that farms will need to be larger in future. But where is the fruit grower on a small acreage going to find the money to acquire more acreage?

Perhaps another with small acreage, would sell but even if the money is made available it is ten to one the price would be too high to make the purchase a sound investment, or even a sound gamble.

In most cases the buyer would want the land, but not the house on it, which would represent a half or more of the purchase price.

Another very obvious suggestion Dr. MacPhee will make is that trees of poor market variety be removed and replaced with new red strains.

That change is now taking place in some orchards, and it will have to be done on a valley-wide basis to put the industry on a sound business footing.

But for the grower whose whole orchard, or most of it, has to be replaced it is a drastic move and will put him out of business for years. He will have to find himself a job with a pay cheque to meet his living expenses.

Can you blame him if he chooses to leave the orchard as it is, in the hope of making a sale to a prairie newcomer with cash in his pocket? Is the grower to be censured if he decides to keep his old trees, replant on a gradual basis, and hope for the best?

No doubt some changes for the better can be brought about in packinghouse operation and in marketing methods, but the big thing, the most important thing—the production of a high quality crop on a well managed orchard, large enough for efficient operation—this is a problem for the individual.

The operator who, through adverse circumstances, limited capital or lack of ability, fails to produce this kind of crop is making no profit for himself and probably going into the red.

About all he is doing is providing jobs for his employees and those in packinghouses and processing plants. If that's his reason for staying in business he has a larger share of magnanimity than the farmer is usually given credit for.

Students Sell Band Tickets

More than sixty Summerland High School Band members waded through Monday's snow to canvass the district in aid of Friday's sixth annual High School Band Concert.

Cars driven by students, parents and teachers augmented the students on foot, the latter organized into sections under a student captain and were assigned to certain areas.

The canvass started at 6 p. m. and by seven the first team reported back to headquarters at the High School. By 8:30 all groups had returned to enjoy hot cocoa and cookies as they turned in their money.

The High School band wishes to thank all those who helped in this most successful ticket sale, and, as a result the band is looking forward to entertaining a large crowd at Friday's concert.

Mrs. Myrtle Braseth, Bashaw, Alberta, is visiting her father, Mr. F. C. Beringer, Trout Creek.

Visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Krause, is Mrs. Krause's father, Mr. William Leach of Owen Sound.

Mrs. Ross McLachlan visited last weekend in Langley, her husband coming from UBC to join her.

Comings & Goings

Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Mott have had as visitors Mrs. Mott's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lush of Imperial, Sask.

Mr. H. Thomson left Friday to attend a meeting at Swifts in Vancouver, returning home Sunday.

Mr. W. A. Gilmour of Trout Creek is away on week's holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bleasdale were weekend visitors at the coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dinning had as their guest for a few days last week, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Manifold, of Victoria.

Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Rowe and their three children, have taken up temporary residence in the Dr. Bryan Williams house at Trout Creek.

Mrs. Bob Barkwill spent a few days last week in visiting at the coast.

Mrs. George Washington has returned home after visiting for a few days with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Washington of Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith have returned from a trip to the prairies, where they spent a week in Edmonton and three weeks in Winnipeg, visiting friends and relatives.

Nineteen women were busy at the Red Cross Centre Tuesday afternoon. Headquarters has informed the centre that as the Red Cross drive did not make its quota this year, all divisions have been asked to retrench.

Our local division has been asked to concentrate on baby wear, children's clothing to the age of 6 years and on quilts.

Next Tuesday, December 16 will be the last meeting this year. The work room will open again Tuesday, January 6th.

Curling

The chicken curl was very successful, with a fairly good turnout.

Harvey Eden and Howard Pruden each won a turkey.

Chickens were won by Leslie Conolik of Kelowna, B. Croft, R. Mackay, Harvey Eden and Bill Snow, who won two. Hams were won by Sandy Munn, W. Gillespie, Dr. Munn, Harvey Eden, F. Beavan and A. Hickey of Peachland.

Anyone wishing to enter a rink in the Xmas Spiel, please leave name at the curling rink. If you wish to curl in the spiel and are not on a rink please leave your name and we will try to get you on a rink.

Lola and Dr. Day curled here on Sunday. It was nice to see them again.

Rotarians Host Ladies

Last Friday the Summerland Rotary entertained the Ladies in a very enjoyable and at times hilarious Ladies' night. After a tasty turkey supper, Rotarian Bob Tingley gave the toast to the Ladies.

The ensuing entertainment took the form of the well known TV panel game, "One of a kind" in which the audience participated. The panel members were Reid Johnston, Ruth Wilson, Jock Johnston and Ruth Lawley. Jim Onley acted as quiz master.

Among the 100 Rotarians and wives, were guests from Summerland, Penticton and Oliver. Mrs. Ken Boothe was pianist for the evening. Program was arranged by Dr. H. McLarty and Jim Onley.

Obituary

Passed away peacefully, December 7, in her 76th year, Mrs. Alice Greenslade of West Summerland. She leaves to mourn her loss, one son, Mervyn, West Summerland, two daughters, Ivy and Nel, both in England; two brothers and four sisters, also in England and ten grandchildren and one great-grand-child.

Funeral services for the late Mrs. Alice Greenslade were conducted from the St. Steven's Anglican Church in West Summerland, on December 10, with the Rev. A. A. T. Northrup officiating. Interment was made in the Summerland Anglican Cemetery, with the Roselawn Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Bowling News

by GLEN FELL

Helen Young took full honors this week by rolling 285 and 633 for the ladies high single and the ladies high three.

Oscar Neilson bowled a 632 for the men's high single and C. Haddrell rolled a 663 for the men's high three.

All bowlers will be interested to learn that they contributed $14.91 for the March of Dimes. Also of interest is the news that Foster Cunningham is in second place standing in the Western Canada Playoffs in Penticton.

Summerland's Imperial Esso Service Station, which, although now in operation for some time, will be officially opened Saturday, December 13, is of the most modern design and matches anything they have in the big cities across Canada.

The Station, owned and operated by two well-known local men, George Clark and Bill Evans, has found ready customer acceptance and E. T. Butler, Imperial Esso Oil Limited sales representative in the Okanagan, says his Company is pleased to be able to add this modern Summerland unit to its chain of outlets.

"This station is as good as any, anywhere with the very latest in service station equipment. It represents to us," Mr. Butler said "another link in our efforts to provide fast efficient service to users of Imperial Esso Products.

"But," said Mr. Butler, "no matter how modern the station, no matter how good the equipment and no matter how good the products sold, a service station can be no better than the men who run it.

"In this regard, we are very pleased indeed that two such young and energetic Summerland businessmen have seen fit to enter into the business with us:

"It is their station, they are the owners and operators, and it is their initiative that is responsible for Summerland having this up-to-date service station at the corner of its Main Street.

"That they are the right men in the right spot as been amply demonstrated in the weeks that the service station has been in operation. Customer acceptance is the yardstick of success or failure in the service station field - the customer acceptance of Summerland's newest and most modern service station is a yardstick that makes for pleasant reading," Mr. Butler said, and he concluded, "don't forget the official opening on Saturday, December 13, drop in and say 'hello' to George and Bill, your Esso Imperial Oil dealers in Summerland."

Juvenile Delinquency

What is the answer to this serious problem facing our nation today

Here to give his answer is
Stan Hill of Los Angeles

Tuesday, Dec. 16, 8 p.m.

Plan to hear this thrilling story at the Summerland High School Auditorium
SPONSORED BY SUMMERLAND GOSPEL FILMS

Stanley D. Hill, of LaMirada, California, was converted on October 1, 1950, at the age of 24. This was 45 days before entering prison after a bullet through the neck brought him face to face with the seriousness of life, and left him confined to a wheel chair for life.

The story of his conversion from a life of daring and crime to a life dedicated to God and the preaching of the Gospel reads like a story from the Book of Acts. Hill spent four and a half years behind prison bars; 16 months in Juvenile detention homes, six months in the Los Angeles County Jail, ten and a half months in Preston School of Industry, a state reform school, and finally 15 months and one week in San Quentin Prison.

Hill has appeared in over 1,000 churches, over 400
High Schools and colleges in California, and has been sponsored by Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, by chiefs of police and high school principals.

Santa Claus is coming to town. Joe Biollo, Board of Trade liaison man between the board and the bewhiskered gentleman at the North Pole, reports after a hazardous trip, that Santa Claus will definitely be in Summerland on the afternoon of December 24. Time in Summerland 2 p.m., and in West Summerland between 2:30 and 3:00 p.m. Also, reports Joe, Santa Claus expressed the hope that Summerland homes would all light up for Christmas. The Board of Trade is again sponsoring a home lighting contest with a trophy as first prize, and second and third prizes of merchandise.

Old Age Pensioners Hosted By Rebekahs

Summerland's Senior Citizens enjoyed their annual pre-Christmas turkey dinner here last Friday, as guests of the Summerland Faith Rebekah Lodge, No. 32.

The Old Age Pensioners, 70 in number, were transported to the IOOF Hall for the happy occasion.

Greetings from the municipality were extended by Reeve F. E. Atkinson and later, Mrs. Atkinson gave an interesting talk on their recent trip to Europe, a talk enhanced by the color films shown by the Mr. Atkinson.

Group singing of Christmas Carols wound up the very pleasant evening.

At the head table were A. D. Glen, president of the Old Age Pensioners Association, and Mrs. Glen; J. McDougald, treasurer of the OAP and Mrs. McDougald; Dave Taylor, Sr. secretary and Mrs. Taylor; Mrs. H. Lemke, Noble Grand of the Rebekah Lodge, and Mr. Lemke; Harold Burdon, Noble Grand of the Oddfellows and Mrs. Burdon and Reeve and Mrs. Atkinson.

Mrs. J. H. Dunsdon was the general convener of the dinner assisted by Mrs. John Caldwell and Mrs. Frank Young who decorated the tables and Christmas tree. Mrs. H. R. J. Richardson prepared the gift candy and others who assisted were Mrs. M. W. Toews, Mrs. C. Campbell, Miss Louise Atkinson, Mrs. Ivor Nilson, Mrs. A. K. Elliot, Mrs. T. A. Walden and Mrs. H. H. Dunsdon.

McLachlans Greenhouses supplied the lovely flowers which graced the occasion.

BCFGA Official Statement On Release MacPhee Report

The official news release from the BCFGa, announcing that the MacPhee report will not be available at the earliest, before January 15, follows.

The executive of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association was informed, December 10, by the Honorable Newton P. Steacy, Minister of Agriculture, that the report of the Royal Commission on the tree-fruit industry will not be available for publication before January 15, of next year, due to delays at the Queen's Printer.

Members of the Executive are very disappointed at the news as they have been urging the Minister of Agriculture and the Premier to release the report at the earliest possible moment.

With the 1950 BCFGa annual convention slated to start on January 20 in Vernon, there will be little time for growers and delegates to study the report in advance. It now appears certain that a special convention or general meeting of the association will have to be held at a later date for consideration of the report of the Royal Commission. This will be a matter for the delegates to the annual convention to decide, together with the time and place of such a meeting.

With resolutions now in totaling two more than last year, there is a full program of business awaiting the convention in January. However, delegates may wish to defer discussion on some of the resolutions until after consideration of the Royal Commission report.

The executive, BCFGa, in a

Poolroom Age Limit Requires By-law Change

Municipal Council last week gave approval to request of George Garnett, proprietor of Garnett Billiards, that the age limit for entering poolrooms be lowered to 16.

This was announced in The Review but the heading of the story gave the impression that the new regulation went into immediate effect. Actually, a bylaw change is necessitated before Council's approval becomes law and so 16-year-olds are still barred from poolrooms in Summerland until the bylaw amendment has gone through. This will take two council meetings and so the new regulation will not take effect until after the first meeting of the 1950 Municipal Council in January. Sixteen-year-olds, please note.

Students Not Playing Hookey

Students who are observed around town during high school hours these days are not playing hookey. It's exam time at the High School and the custom is to permit students to leave when the test is completed and to drift at will until time for the next one. All of which explains the student around town during school hours and also their glazed looks.

Fire Razes Home At Trout Creek

Fire destroyed the small frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Vickers at Trout Creek early Tuesday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Vickers were forced to flee the home carrying their seven-month-old son, in their night attire.

Only thing saved was the baby's crib.

Mr. Vickers had just completed building a new addition to the home. The Summerland fire brigade responded but the flames consumed the small home very rapidly. A spark from the wood stove is believed to have started the fire.

The fire victims were given shelter by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith, next door neighbors. Neighbors have contributed clothes and the Red Cross and Central Welfare office are also assisting.

The Vickers will move to Penticton where Mr. Vickers is employed at Penticton Vulcanizing and Retreading.

The Summerland Review

VOL. 13, NO. 51 Wednesday, December 17, 1952 WEST SUMMERLAND, B.C.

Fruit Processing Is A Big Thing In Europe

"The old countries can still show us a thing or two." That sentiment summed up the opinion of Summerland Board of Trade members after hearing F. E. Atkinson report on his recent trip to Europe under the auspices of the Canadian Department of Agriculture, to study fruit processing methods in Europe.

Mr. Atkinson confined his address entirely to the subject of fruit processing. Switzerland, Germany, Denmark, Holland and England were visited.

Asked by the Review, if he envisioned the possibility of introducing any of the European methods in to the Okanagan? Mr. Atkinson said: "Yes, there are some ideas that can be worked upon, in fact, in some instances we here at the lab are already working on experiments provoked by what I saw in Europe.

"In the case of cider, I do not see any drastic changes being made in our present method of manufacture, but we are going to experiment with sterile filtering versus pasteurization and also in the adding of some bitter sweet concentrate, a derivative from English cider apples, to our own blend."

"As for wine making, the laboratory has been experimenting for two years in an effort to make a potable table wine from packinghouse culls of apricots, peaches, cherries and prunes. An idea from Europe, which we are experimenting with, is the adding of grape wine to this blend."

Mr. Atkinson went on to say that he was very impressed with one success story out of Europe, the making of "Baby Cham" a champagne-like product. To produce such a product, we are experimenting with sweetening Flemish Beauties with honey and sugar to make a perry similar to that from which Baby Cham is derived. "This is a very popular drink in England and a money maker. Yes, there is much to be learned in Europe, although not everything they do is better than we do it here and not all that they do is capable of practical application over here. We could perhaps, make something of the European use of dump trucks to handle culls, by-passing at least to some extent, the high cost of getting the culls and other low-grade fruit to the processors," Mr. Atkinson commented.

Mr. Atkinson's report to the Summerland Board of Trade follows:

One's impressions when visiting a foreign country are something like those of the two small boys, whose mother took them to the zoo. When asked by his mother, what he liked best, the smallest boy replied, that he liked the sparrows that were bathing in the pool, just as they did at home. When mother asked, the big boy said he liked the big things, that he liked the giraffe and the elephants and the hippopotamus. When adult travellers visit foreign countries, there is something of the small boy and big boy in each of them.

We are looking for the things that resemble items at home, and things that are big and new, and startling.

This was my first trip to Europe so that everything was new to me. A limited glance even for months gives only an impression.

On this trip I was especially interested in research that is being done with fruit and vegetable products, particularly juices and other juice products. Cider research and industrial manufacture was the main subject of study. In this address I will cover Switzerland and England in more detail as these are the countries which provided the greatest source of information on these subjects.

SWITZERLAND Products

1. Sweet Apple Juice
2. Apple-orange
3. White Grape Juice
4. Red Grape Juice
5. Very Dry Cider
6. 17 percent sweet juice with dry cider
7. 50-50 sweet juice with dry cider
8. A type of cider in which pears and apples are combined in pressing
9. Kirsch
10. Alcohol
11. Concentrate

Government Controlled Price Of Fruit

The Swiss government requires that no fruit be wasted. Fruit arriving at a plant is graded according to uses for which it is suitable, so that the large fruits, like Gravensteins may be sorted to provide baskets of fruit for the fresh market, while other grades are set aside for fresh juice or for alcohol. No fruit can be wasted, so the lower grade is made into alcohol, which is in turn sold to the government. The government buys the alcohol at a strength of 70 percent by volume and they sell some as brandy and the remainder for industrial purposes. This year there has been a tremendous crop—the largest in history—so prices have been reduced. At the beginning of the season the price was 8.5 francs for 100 lbs, or about $2 for 220 pounds; this works out to $18 per ton. As the season progressed the price was reduced to a point where it would equal about $10 per ton. The price of pears for concentrate was round $13.65 per ton. At the same time freshly manufactured apple juice in litre bottles was retailing for 23 centimes, or about six-and-one-half cents, in the grocery stores. This would be equivalent to a container halfway between our 20 oz. and our 48 oz. cans. This does not make money for anybody.

Growing of Apples and Pears for Processing

Apples and pears for juice products in both Switzerland and England are grown in orchards in pastures. Actually, in Switzerland the trees are scattered in pastures over the hillsides almost indiscriminately, that is they are not in rows as they are in England. They do not require any irrigation, sometimes do not receive any thinning or spraying, or pruning. The fruits vary in size from apples smaller than our crabapples to what we would consider a medium sized apple. The orchard is used as pasture nine months of the year.

When about half the fruit has dropped off the trees the rest are beaten down with long poles and most of the fruit is placed in sacks and delivered to the factory. A new development, however, is hauling in bulk in side delivery dump trucks.

FACTORIES Cans versus Glass

One quickly realizes that North America is the home of the tin can. All the apple juice retailed in Europe is packaged in glass bottles, usually with a screw cap. These bottles are returnable and with large populations within relatively short distances the bottle provides a relatively cheap container. The use of the returnable glass containers constitute the basis of the largest basic difference between apple juice factories as we know them and those in Europe. When the bottles are returned they can be refilled many times throughout a year. The sweet juice is held in bulk storage. Thus we find plants with storage of several million litres of juice under what is known as the "Boehiprocess." These tanks are usually made of steel and hold about 12,000 gallons. The fresh juice is carbonated and held under about 45 pounds pressure and refrigerated at 0 to 5 degrees C. With these factories filling of the container takes place throughout the year.

A few statistics

1. Swiss per capita consumption of sweet apple juice is 15 litres, or 3 gallons which compares to less than half a gallon per capita in Canada, and 6 of a gallon in Germany. Germany, however, is experiencing the greatest increase in consumption of any country in the world.

2. Volg - a very large co-operative at Winterthur, has established a system of buying its grape juice for wine on the basis of the sugar content. The price set is for juice of 1,080 specific gravity. For each point above 1,080 a farmer gets three additional francs premium per kilogram. For every point below, five francs are deducted.

Germany and Denmark

The Boehi process mentioned for Switzerland has been modified in Germany and Denmark as follows: The same type of storage tanks are used but they are sterilized with steam. The lines connecting the tanks to the flash pasteurizer are sterilized. Sweet juice is passed through a flash pasteurizer and cooler and through the lines to the storage tanks. The juice is thus stored in a sterile condition and does not require refrigeration or carbonation. The German operator was not cooling juice after pasteurization but storing it hot. With this type of juice this did not result in a very poor flavor. Continued on Back Page

Gaglardi And I

The news spread like wild-fire—but, instead of sympathy, instead of bitter railings against the authorities—folks laughed, great big horselaughs. Ladies Auxillaries whipped up potato salads in celebration—Godber had got his—a ticket for overparking.

Seems I have no friends, everybody and their uncles apparently stood on Hastings Street last Saturday afternoon and watched as the RCMP Constable chalked artistically on my tire.

But did anyone of them, or their uncles, come in to say better get them wheels turning Bud—or else! Nary a one—pardon me, there was one friendly soul, but his warning came too late, much too late, for although I rushed out, hatless and coatless, to beat the rap, there was the ticket. A polite invitation to pay or else.

I knew about it—I knew that Works Superintendent Ken Blagborne, in one of his more "ornery moods" had complained to Council about the tie-up created by this chronic overparking. I heard him complaining with my own ears, and saw him point an accusing finger across the Council chamber at me and I heard him say, "there's one of them." All that I heard, and saw with my own eyes.

Even so, I thought, Council and the police would be gentlemen about this thing and at least give official warning, a ticket saying this time you get away with it, next time you don't but all I got was a ticket, pay or else. Ah well! Me and Gaglardi, victims of persecution.

Trophy For Xmas Lighting Contest

Judging of the Board of Trade's Christmas Light-up contest will be made between the Christmas and New Year holidays. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of artistry, originality, lighting technique and ingenuity.

The trophy for annual competition has been donated by Reeve F. E. Atkinson; second and third prizes will be $10 and $5 in merchandise.

Any contestant in outlying districts is requested to phone the Board of Trade at 5566 to ensure judging.

CARS CANVASS

Grand total received through the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society canvass in Summerland now stands at $1,005.52, with receipt this week of a further $46. Members of the Rebekah Lodge who annually make this canvass, wish to thank all those who contributed to this cause.

Curling

Curlers! please hurry, get your names in for the Christmas Spell, starting on Saturday or Sunday, depending on the number of entries.

Bill Snow got lucky at Peachland on Sunday and won a turkey. Several local curlers went to Peachland and reported a nice time.

Walt Toews, H. Eden, H. Lemke, and B. Munn played in the cash bonspiel at Penticton last Saturday. They got to the finals but lost out on the eleventh end.

We would welcome non-members and members to curl in a mixed Saturday night draw, to start on January 3. We hope to get twelve rinks. They have a Saturday league in Penticton and a good time is had getting together once a week in this manner. Would anyone interested please get in touch with Sandy at the rink if wishing to enter this event.

Vinegar Plant Still In Prospect

Negotiations for purchase of the former Walters packinghouse in Summerland, by the Western Canada Vinegar Co. Ltd. are continuing with every indication that the deal will go through.

One of the points which the would-be-purchasers require to be satisfied upon before the deal can be closed is assurance of the availability of cull and cee grade apples for processing into vinegar.

HOCKEY GAME SUNDAY

The Summerland Macs Cafe Aces will don their skates on Sunday to make their debut at the Summerland Arena against a team from Greenwood. Game time is 2:30 p.m.

So Late - Could Be Later

When the MacPhee report was not available by the end of November, the Review was firmly of the opinion that the report should not be acted upon at the January BCFGA convention.

Our opinion was, and still is, that the monumental report should be given long and careful study before any action is taken on its recommendations.

In view of this opinion, The Review, without in any way excusing what we consider deplorable delays in getting that report to the growers, is not unhappy about this latest delay which, in view of its anticipated release on January 15, less than a week before the BCFGA convention date, should almost certainly place the report outside the convention jurisdiction.

We cannot help but think that the growers have been treated somewhat shabbily by the responsible parties. It should not have been beyond the powers of Commissioner MacPhee and the B.C. Minister of Agriculture to speed things up, to the extent the report would have been issued at least a full two months before the annual BCFGA convention.

But, as things now stand, we believe it would be better for the business of the convention and for the industry as a whole, if the report is not released until after the convention.

And for those unduly suspicious souls who are looking somewhat askance at the tripartite contract, it might be comforting news to them that the form of contract now being submitted to the growers has been approved by Commissioner MacPhee and the Department of Agriculture.

via the Panama Canal by the millions of tons. In those pre-war years, Europeans used to eat 15 million bushels of American apples a year. Today only from one-third to one-half of that amount goes for export.

"The size of the export market now depends on the size of Europe's crop. Last year Europe had a poor crop, so five million bushels of American apples were shipped in. This year Europe's crop was good; American export will probably be half of last year.

"The drop in Europe's use of U. S. apples is no reflection on the quality of our fruit. It's just that since the war Europe has doubled its fruit acreage. The United Kingdom itself raises 40 million bushels.

"The European market has been valuable for to it has been sent that fruit that is hard to sell in the United States.

"The Europeans like the little Winesaps that go begging here.

"Because Europeans are producing more and more apples every year, and because cost of production in this country continues to rise, there is little chance that the apple export market, as we knew it before the war will ever return. But . . . five million bushels a year. . . It's not much, but last year Europe took five percent of the United States crop.

"Every little bit helps."

Other People Sell Apples In Europe

The United States exports to Europe apples equivalent to the whole Okanagan crop. This fact was brought home to us by an editorial in the Wenatchee Daily World. The Washington paper points out that while five million bushels is not really very much, "every little bit helps."

Commenting on the export market, particularly to Britain, the Wenatchee World said:

Great Britain's ban on import of apples sprayed with a stop-mold preparation was relaxed almost as soon as it was put on.

"The tolerance of 10 parts per million established by the British now will not keep any Washington apples from entering the country. Under U.S. Food and Drug Administration regulations the tolerance on the product in this country has varied from five parts per million to 25 parts. And apple men say there will be no difficulty in passing the British test.

"The original action will have had no effect on the Washington apple export situation at all, except that it has reminded us that there is an apple export program of some economic consequence to the fruit industry.

"It's nothing like the program that existed before the war. In those years the refrigerated ships of the Fruit Express Line—slim and yacht-like freighters that cruised loaded at 17 knots—carried Washington apples to Europe

Last Rites Held For W. McBurney

Funeral services were held Monday, December 15, from the Summerland United Church, for William Reid McBurney, 78, of West Summerland, who died in Penticton General Hospital on December 12.

Mr. McBurney, a retired CPR agent, who served 34 years of his 40 years at Kennedy, Sask., was a member of the Masonic Order for 48 years in Composite Lodge 103, GRS&F&AM, Kennedy, Sask., and Regina Lodge of Perfection. He was also a member of Regina Chapter of Rose Croix, of HRDM, and of the CPR Pioneer Social and Service Association of Vancouver.

He is survived by his wife, Ada; a son Arthur, in Montreal; a daughter, Mrs. Jean Glover of Windthorst, Sask., and five grandchildren.

Rev. C. O. Richmond officiated at the services. Interment was made at the Lakeview Cemetery, Penticton. Roselawn Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

6 Shopping Days To Christmas

Stuck... with last-minute Christmas shopping problems?

HERE'S A TIP FOR BUSY SANTAS...

If your gift-list doesn't seem to be getting any shorter, make a quick trip to your local B of M branch. See if you don't agree that it's the ideal gift shop for those "hard-to-buy-for" people on your list.

For the cradle and classroom sets . . . there are special passbooks designed to make a hit with the young fry. With a nice balance inside, they make a perfect extra gift that will grow with them through the years. And just watch their eyes when they see the gay Christmas passbook cover.

...and adults, too. You can take the worry out of shopping for the hard-to-please by giving festively-decorated B of M Christmas cheques in their Christmassy folders and envelopes. Practical B of M money orders in holly-decked envelopes save you needless guesswork when buying for out-of-towners.

and if you are an employer . . . brighten up your staff's bonuses by using colourful B of M Christmas cheques.

Why not drop into your neighbourhood B of M branch today? One short visit will soon restore that cheery chuckle to your Christmas giving.

GOLDEN WEDDING

New arrivals to Summerland, Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Cook, formerly of Calgary, Alta., celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary on December 2.

Joining them in the observance at their home in Victoria

Gardens, were Mr. and Mrs. Doug Ewing, Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Burrows, North Vancouver, their two daughters and their husbands, along with two grandchildren Dale and Maureen and Mrs. Woodward from Vancouver.

Mrs. Fenwick To Head W.I.

The regular monthly meeting and the annual meeting of the Summerland Women's Institute was held Friday afternoon at the Anglican Parish hall. President Mrs. L. W. Rumball was in the chair and led the group in singing a number of Christmas Carols. Mrs. Gordon Ritchie was the accompanist.

Generous donations of foods were brought for the Christmas hamper and a turkey will be added before the hamper is given to the Central Welfare Committee for delivery.

One hundred and fifty Centennial cook books have been sold in Summerland, it was reported.

A short recess was held while tea was served and memberships paid, followed by the annual reports and election of officers. From a slate of 11 nominees, submitted by Mrs. H.C. Whitaker, nominating committee convener, the following officers were elected: President Mrs. A. A. Fenwick; Vice-president, Mrs. E. M. Tait; Secretary treasurer, Mrs. W. S. Rothwell Directors - Mrs. A. C. Fleming and Mrs. H. R. McLarty.

It was announced that Mrs. Fenwick, who formerly lived in Edinburgh, Scotland, will be visiting there during the summer of 1959 and plans to attend the conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World.

The Summerland Institute will celebrate the 50th anniversary of its organization in 1959 and will be hosts to the District Rally in May and the International Picnic in July.

The next meeting on January 9, will be a pot luck supper with husbands the invited guests.

Regular Meeting of AYPA Last Wed.

The regular meeting of the AYPA was held in the Parish Hall last Wednesday. Prayers were said and followed by the business section of the meeting. The Christmas party was again brought up for discussion and the decision was reached to hold a toboggan party with a get-together at the hall after. The meeting also decided to invite the United Church H.C.'s and the Pentecost AYPA members. A committee, headed by Ken Bissett was named to plan the affair for Boxing Day.

On Sunday, December 14 the AYPA members attended their church for the installation of officers. On Sunday, December 21, there will be a Corporal Communion at 8 a. m., this will be followed by a Breakfast Party in the Parish Hall, where last minute details will be discussed concerning the toboggan party. All members are urged to attend.

Orchard Run

By Wally Smith

MY argument with the beavers started way back about 1940. Up until then the animal appearing on Canada's coat of arms I admired as a model of thrift and industry.

Now I know the beaver as a destructive pest, capable of untold mischief and tremendous damage to farm property. A few other farmers have also learned this to their sorrow and, as I have done, taken measures to protect themselves.

A model of ambition and industry, eh? Around this fruit farm they are referred to as those web-footed, chisel-toothed paddle-tailed so-and-so's. But let me tell you how I got that way.

My 15 acres of Okanagan Real Estate is bordered on the west by Highway 97 and on the east by the meandering west channel of the Okanagan river.

At one time some 35 years ago this streambed actually was one of the Okanagan River Channels, but one spring, flood waters and erosion so deepened the east channel that the west channel no longer carried any Okanagan river water.

However, it did remain a watercourse, numerous springs throughout its three-mile length supplying it with a flow of clear, cold water that flows winter and summer with no more than an inch or two of variation in water level from one year's end to the other.

Along the banks of this quiet little stream, poplar, willow, cottonwood, alder and black birch grow in abundance and provide an ideal habitat for the animal that was once the backbone of the early Canadian fur trade.

When I arrived in the Fall of 1934, I found three old beaver dams in the creek, but no sign of recent beaver activity. It was apparent that the beavers had left or had been trapped out some years before.

The higher ground in my lot is irrigated by water supplied from the government irrigation project but I found that three acres of low-lying land could be irrigated by a waterwheel on the creek.

Construction of the waterwheel and its installation is a story in itself, but let it be sufficient to say here that the 14 ft. diameter waterwheel was lifting water for three acres of young apple trees by the spring of 1937.

All went well for a while. The thrust of the current turned the wheel night and day, three revolutions a minute. The buckets on the wheel's rim dipped the water out of the creek, hoisted it 11 ft. and spilled it into the flume to be carried to the rows of young Winesap and Delicious apples.

Three summers came and went and the young apple trees thrived on a diet of sunshine and irrigation water.

Then, in the middle of the summer of 1940, the trouble started. Going out one morning to do the usual pre-breakfast irrigating, I found my flume dry, the waterwheel stopped. A quick inspection revealed three or four sticks jammed in under the paddles and between the spokes of the wheel. The fresh teeth marks on the sticks could only have been made by one animal—a beaver.

I was annoyed, but also somewhat amused at the antics of a beaver tilting at a waterwheel. I replaced a smashed paddle, spliced a broken strut and got the wheel going again.

When the beavers stopped the wheel the next night and the next, and every night for two weeks, it wasn't amusing any longer.

Every morning it took me an hour or more to repair the battered and broken wheel. Every night the beavers came during the dark hours and did their dirty work.

Trees which were supposed to get their irrigation at night were not getting enough water and I was losing a lot of time making repairs.

Finally I was forced to discontinue the night irrigation and I enlisted the help of Manuel Louie, chief of the Inkaneeq tribe, to get rid of the beaver. Manuel caught one beaver a few days later and that was the end of the waterwheel trouble that summer.

The beavers didn't cut down any of my young trees that summer, but when a pair came up the creek and settled at my place a few years later they not only attacked the waterwheel but they began cutting down my young apple and pear trees and started building new dams.

When I put a collar of 3-ft. stucco wire around the trees for two rows back from the creek I thought I had the beavers beaten. Three days later I found one of those wired pear trees neatly cut off eighteen inches above ground level. The stucco wire had been pulled down like a loose sock.

I beat this game by anchoring the top of the wire with a couple of nails driven into the tree trunk. Then the beavers went a little further into the orchard so I had to wire up another row of trees. The animals must have had a great fondness for fruit tree bark for there was an abundance of poplar and cottonwood near the water's edge.

While this was going on the beavers were building their dams higher and raising the water table under my orchard. Fruit trees cannot stand "wet feet" and one area containing about 25 trees was threatened by this rising water table.

When after ten years of use I scrapped the waterwheel for an electric pump and sprinkler system there was no further interference with the irrigation water, but the threat of a high water table remained and the trees unprotected by stucco wire were still in danger from far-ranging beavers.

The summer of 1957 my orchard was unmolested by beaver probably because a neighbor trapped four of the animals in the early spring of that year.

This year of 1958 I was again up to my neck in beaver trouble. A pair came upstream in early summer and settled in the old haunts of earlier generations. They cut down a couple of young pear trees and spent a busy sum-

Square dancers are welcomed to Summerland this weekend for the Christmas Party, sponsored by the Summerland Pairs and Squares. The party will be in the Youth Centre Hall West Summerland, starting at 8 p.m. Callers are invited to bring along their records. Refreshments will be served.

Also on Saturday is the formal party in the High School Cafeteria, put on by the Wheel-N-Stars Club in Penticton. Men in white shirts and black ties and ladies in their prettiest prettiest dresses.

Next week there is a Boxing Day dance at Vernon and I believe the invitation says to bring along some lunch. Les Boyer will be the emcee at this event which promises to be something to look forward to.

On Saturday, December 27 Peachland's Totem Twirlers are holding a Low Level Party Night. This dance will be emceed by Ray Fredrickson and Chuck Inglis. All beginners and advanced dancers are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

mer building up five dams on the creek adjacent to my orchard property.

Fed up with these shenanigans and growing impatient for action I decided to try my own hand at trapping this fall.

After obtaining a permit from the provincial game department to trap "offending" beaver (that is what it says on the permit) I set a steel trap and caught one of the animals.

The mate, if there was one disappeared and now with all the dams cut, the creek level is down to normal again.

That beaver I recently trapped was turned over to L. J. Bettison, a not too distant neighbor, who is having it stuffed and mounted for display in his museum, which is now under construction on Highway 97, a mile north of Oliver.

Around Home

It's very frustrating when you can't get the 'phone on account of somebody else is using it, but just let it get out of order and stay that way for a couple of days as the party lines in our neighborhood did this past weekend and you'll learn to appreciate it, taking turns and all!

WHAT! NO TELEPHONE! — and there are last minute calls connected with the bazaar. Weekend hunting trips and curling games to be arranged by the men. The teenagers having to commute to and from neighbors, not on the same line, to use the 'phone and sometimes having to do so ON FOOT! wondering the while how many Romeos have been foiled and how many invitations missed. Invitations extended to people who might be interested in seeing the Grey Cup game on TV. Information to be gathered for the meeting. Of course, you've had all month to do it, but now the meeting's Monday night! Social and "just thought I'd give you a buzz" calls went by the board, and it was lucky there were no fires or other tragedies.

There are other props in our lives that are pretty reliable too, but do occasionally have a breakdown, as witness the subject of the following poems—author unknown, but could have been "One Who Knows".

WHEN PA IS SICK

When Pa is sick, he's scared to death,
And Ma an' us just holds our breath,
He crawls in bed, an' puffs an' grunts,
An' does all kinds of crazy stunts,
He wants "Doc" Brown and mighty quick,
For when Pa's ill he's awful sick,

He gasps an' moans, an' sort of sighs,
He talks so queer, an' rolls his eyes,
Ma jumps an' runs, an' all of us,
And all the house is in a fuss,
An' peace and joy is mighty skeerce . . .
When Pa is sick it's something fierce.

WHEN MA IS SICK

When Ma is sick she pegs away,
She's quiet, though, not much to say,
She goes right on a-doin' things,
And sometimes even laughs and sings.
She says she don't feel extra well,
But then it's just a kind of spell,
She'll be alright tomorrow sure,
A good old sleep will be the cure,
An' pa he sniffs an' makes no kick,
For women folks is always sick,
An' Ma, she smiles, let's on she's glad . . .
When Ma is sick it ain't so bad.

Even if your key didn't unlock the treasure chest and win you a prize, still, it's nice to shop in Summerland now that Christmas is near!

INADEQUATE WIRING ONE OF NATION'S TOP FIRE HAZARDS

"The fire was caused by faulty wiring." How often have you read this at the bottom of a newspaper account of some fire?

It's inevitable, perhaps, in this electrical age, that circuits in many older homes should become overloaded with the many appliances in use today. A good idea is to call in your electrician and get him to check over the wiring in your home. And now is the time to do it, when he's not tied up with outdoor construction.

Of course, there's always the chance that you haven't the ready cash to repair or replace your present wiring. That's where Jock Johnston, manager of the West Summerland branch of the Bank of Montreal, might help you with a home improvement loan.

Home improvement loans are available at the B of M at the lowest rate — one half of one per cent interest per month — and can be used for all kinds of worthwhile repairs and improvements. If you have wiring worries on your mind, it will pay you to have a chat with Mr. Johnston at the B of M today.

The Board of Directors of the Okanagan Telephone Company this week approved the spending of more than two and a quarter million dollars for the Company's 1959 operations throughout its 20-exchange system.

Included in this amount, and subject to the approval of the Public Utilities Commission, the Telephone Company plans to make capital expenditures totalling $1,330,128 — the largest in its 51-year operating history.

A breakdown of this major sum indicates that $718,586 is for new automatic exchange and Long Distance dialing equipment; $469,042 is for the construction of additional plant facilities, with $88,000 earmarked for the installation of additional subscribers telephones and equipment with a further $57,000 to be expended on minor additions to the Company's system.

The maintenance and operation of the existing plant and equipment will require a substantial $709,300 out of the Company's operating expense for the year.

The conversion of all dial telephones to 2 - 5 Numbering is scheduled for March and the first step in the four-stage plan for the Direct Distance Dialing of Long Distance calls by subscribers will be completed during 1959.

Detail of major projects scheduled for each of the Company's exchanges will be announced early in the New Year.

Snowplowing Private Driveways

The Municipal Council has agreed to snowplow private driveways for the balance of the 1958-59 Winter season at a cost of $5.00 per driveway. Payments must be received at the Municipal Office before December 31st to be eligible for this service.

The snow plowing will be done at the discretion of the Municipal Superintendent and the main municipal roads will always have the preference. The Municipal Superintendent reserves the right to refuse to do any driveways that might be a hazard to equipment or property. The Municipality will exercise all possible care while working on private property but will not be responsible for any damage.

Try This Plum Pudding Recipe

It's not a bit too early to make your holiday plum pudding. Like fine fruit cakes, plum puddings are better in flavor when let mellow for several weeks.

Fresh apples adds a special delicacy to this traditional pudding and the recipe allows for a little imagination in the combination of fruits used. Use any combination of raisins, currants peel and candied cherries you want - you might be able to use up the surplus from fruit baking this way.

If you don't have regular pudding molds, use coffee or shortening cans, or even the (3 1/2 cup) tomato cans. The mixture is just the right amount for two of the latter.

- HOIDAY PUDDING
- 4 to 5 cups mixed candied and dried fruits.
 - 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind.
 - 1-2 cup apple cider juice
 - 1 cup chopped toasted almonds
 - 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 - 1-2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1 teaspoon allspice
 - 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 4 eggs
 - 1-1/4 cups brown sugar
 - 1 cup dried bread crumbs
 - 2 cups ground suet
 - 1-1/2 cups chopped pared Combine fruits, pour apple cider over mixture. Sprinkle nuts on top. Sift together dry ingredients. Beat eggs, add brown sugar, bread crumbs, suet and apple. Combining with the fruit mixture. Spoon into greased molds filling about 3/4 full. Cover with double thickness of waxed paper or foil, tie with string. Place on rack in kettle, having boiling water to half depth of mold. Cover tightly, steam six hours, adding more water occasionally. Turn out of cans, brush with brandy or wine. When cool, wrap in waxed paper and keep in cool, dry place.

School Concert Thrills Audience

Summerland's High School Bands, senior and junior again worked their annual Christmas magic, under the baton of conductor, John Tamblin, who directed his bandsmen and band-girls with a shiny brand-new baton, a gift from the band students, presented in a pleasing little ceremony by Barbara Fudge

The High School Auditorium was packed to capacity for the big pre-Christmas event, which paid tribute to B. C.'s Centennial year in music which amusingly told of the travels of an immigrant family coming from the Old Country to the Okanagan Valley.

A new innovation was the carol singing, heartily enjoyed which was lead by Ken Storey

Fruit Processing

Continued from Front Page but with the type of juice that we have here the flavor would be very unattractive.

ENGLAND
There are three success stories in England: Namely:

1. Perry-Showerings, Limited, Shepton Mallett, Somerset.
2. Cider-Bulmers Limited, Hereford.
3. Black Currant Juice - Beechams, Limited, Coleford, Gloucestershire.

Perry
There are 2,980 acres of Perry pears in England: The fruit from this acreage is made into perry and 375,000 gallons of pear juice concentrate are imported from Switzerland. The pears in England bring from 14 to 18 pounds (sterling) per ton, that is on the basis of $2.80 per pound, $39.20 to $50.40.

Baby Cham
The only product manufactured by this company is a sweet perry called Baby Cham, which is supposed to resemble a cheap champagne—three fillers, 7,000 dozen per hour, 84,000 bottles an hour. The company uses 132 trucks, its method of marketing requires no storage space. The factory is located in a beautiful setting, enhanced by an artificial lake. This Baby Cham retails at one shilling and threepence, about 17cents.

Cider
There are 41,296 acres of cider apples in the United Kingdom.

1. H.P. Bulmer and co. Ltd., uses 45,000 tons of apples a year, the plant has a 10,000,000 gallon capacity. Its steel tanks have a 550,000 gallon capacity. Nine hundred tons of apples are crushed per day in two mills. Average price of cider apples, range from 12 pounds 10 shillings to a high of 15pounds.

The company operates the year round, with 110 employees. The average farmer makes about 300 pounds per acre from cider, about $840 and he can get his acreage planted with 6 ft. high trees for 39 pounds an acre.

Current Industry:

2,500 acres under 10-year is also a big item in Germany. M manufacturing process. This Basic price 115 pounds. Gross value of pack at plant 2,750,000 pounds.

Yield 1 1/4 tons to 2 1/4 tons per acre. Growers paid every Saturday morning for all fruit received up to the previous Wednesday night.

The company provides 5 field officers, 1 technical officer to serve the growers.

Varieties are divided into Early, Mid-Season and late varieties.

They are also classified according to their ascorbic acid content.

Mechanical picker. Nursery stock is being provided through a 4-year contract with young growers to grow.

Merry Christmas

From The Staff Of

The Summerland Review

Wednesday, December 24, 1957 VOL. 13, NO. 52

WEST SUMMERLAND, B.C.

Christmas is Here

What a bright and shining day is Christmas! Children, agog with wonder, see their dreams come gloriously true. Grown-ups recapture the magic of life's happiest hours as Time wings swiftly back o'er the years. To all, we wish a Christmas rich in fulfillment of their dearest hearts' desires.

Youngsters Keep Xmas Tree In White House

Teddy Roosevelt almost rode roughshod over the Christmas tree in his drive to conserve the nation's forests. But two little boys put the Christmas spirit—and the tree—back in the White House.

The Christmas tree was well established in the United States when Theodore Roosevelt became president.

A Harvard professor named Charles Follen set up the first known Christmas tree in 1847.

But some scrooges convinced Roosevelt that the cutting of Christmas trees would deplete the nation's forests. So, T. R. promptly banned the tradition at the White House.

However the old Roughriders forgot to ask his young sons Archie and Quentin cared very little about presidential edicts and less about conservation. They smuggled a tree into the mansion on Pennsylvania Avenue and set it up in Archie's room.

The president relented and ever since the White House has had an indoor Christmas tree.

Christmas The Year Round

The season of giving is once again upon us — and the joy that stems from unselfish giving is shining in the eyes of young and old.

That is what makes Christmas such an outstanding event, the event of the year, insofar as its observance does much to lay the evil of selfishness, selfishness and greed, which, in the final analysis is the root of most of the evil which inflicts mankind.

And so, in this season of giving — this season of Peace on Earth and Goodwill to Men, we take pleasure in paying tribute to those many people who do not start and stop their giving by the calendar. This thought struck us when reading the annual reports of Summerland Church groups and the sum total of their activity and of their giving throughout the year is inspiring.

We read of the collecting of used clothing for use by the destitute of big cities. We read of parcels to Korea; of donations to missionary work; of donations to their own church work; yes, it is truly an astounding list of accomplishment — of unselfish giving.

And when one comes to think of every church with its many groups, of service clubs and of the many organizations which exist in good fellowship engendered by the spirit of goodwill to men — then the magnitude of their efforts and the sum total of the good they do, beggars the imagination.

We think it is a pleasant thought to have with us this Christmastide that, when the annual torrent of goodwill, released by the Spirit of Christmas dries up, that these many organizations will meet early in the New Year to plan another year of giving.

And it is a thought for us to carry with us into the New Year that if all of us clung to the spirit of Christmas the year round — not in the giving of costly baubles — but in the true spirit of Christmas summed up in the Commandment, to Love Thy Neighbor — then indeed the world would be a much, much better place to live in.

Christmas and Easter

On Christmas Eve a shining star foretold His coming birth;
On Christmas Day a manger stall proclaimed Him Lord of Earth;
On Easter Eve a broken cross spoke of His death and strife;
On Easter Day an empty Tomb
acclaimed Him Lord of Life.
A shining Star, the symbol that God still reigns above;
A manger-stall the witness,
of His unending love;
A broken Cross the symbol,
of man's full pardoned sins;
An empty Tomb the witness,
That Christ is King of Kings.
Therefore lift thine eyes and gaze,
upon this wondrous Star;
And daily, on thy bended knees
pray by the Manger-bar;
And always at the broken Cross seek pardon for thy sin;
Then at the Empty Tomb each day,
meet Christ thy Lord and King.

Premier Bennett Reads Both Ends But Not The Middle, Council Learns

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, who, incidentally, is MLA for South Okanagan, which constituency embraces the Municipality of Summerland, gave the brush off, cool and unmistakable, to a bid from Summerland's Reeve F. E. Atkinson, who sought to secure the Premier's backing, as the local member, for current efforts to have the Department of Highways install lighting on Highway 97 to mark the entrance to Summerland.

Following notification from the Department of Highways that it is not the department's policy to install such lighting, Reeve F. E. Atkinson wrote to Premier Bennett. In the first paragraph he informed the premier that a copy of the letter had been sent to Highways Minister Gagliardi.

In the closing paragraph Reeve Atkinson extended season's greetings to the premier. In between the reeve expounded his arguments to the effect that it should be general government policy to install light markers at entrances to communities by-passed by new highway construction. The reeve pointed out that Summerland came in this category; that Summerland had been co-operative in agreeing to the route of the new highway, more co-operative than many communities, but that the highway relocation had hurt business in both Summerland and West Summerland — so argued the Reeve. The highways department should do a spot of lighting up at the entrance to both Summerland and West Summerland.

Then came the season's greeting and, subsequently, came the premier's reply, which was read at Monday night's Council meeting.

Premier Bennett took note of the fact contained in the first paragraph that a copy of the letter had been sent to the Highways Minister — he took warm note of the season's greetings in the last paragraph, but completely ignored the meat of the letter.

Reeve F. E. Atkinson and council were in agreement that it was a brush off but Council has not yet struck its flag, but no further action will be taken until the Highways Minister's response to the copy of the reeve's letter, sent him has been received.

Bowling News

In league play this week the Kingpins took four points off the Beehops, the Cackleberries took three points off the hobos, the Hilltoppers lost out to the Albertans 4-0, the Highlighters and the Misfits split their games, the Northern Lights outbowled the Spudniks 4-0, the Les Bums took three points from the Baby Austins, the Occidentals and the Pentics split honors, the Diehards outbowled the Rollaways 3-1, and the Whizbangs took four points off the Trout Creekers.

League Standing
 Occidentals, 34; Whizbangs, 33; Kingpins, 30; Diehards, 29; Misfits, 28; Beehops, 27; Pentics, 25; Rollaways 24; Hilltoppers 23; Baby Austins 23; Northern Lights 22; Cackleberries 22; Highlighters 22; Les Bums 20; Trout Creekers 19; Albertans 19; Hobos 16; Spudniks 16.

Mary Stuart won double honors by bowling a 315 and a 692 for the ladies' high single and the ladies' high tree. Bill Heperle also won double honors by rolling a 302 and a 735 for the men's high single and the men's high tree. Congratulations to both of you. Incidentally Mary's 315 is the highest single so far this year.

A couples' tournament will be held on Sunday afternoon, December 28.

This will be my last column of 1958 and Eileen joins me in wishing one and all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Sparked by the stellar goal-keeping of young Pushkarenko and Warren Parker's hat-trick, Summerland's Macs Cafe Aces made a sparkling debut at the Jubilee Arena on Sunday by defeating Greenwood hockey team by a decisive score of 10-4. Macs Cafe Aces will play at the Summerland Arena every third Sunday.

Parks Board Will Continue

Summerland will start 1959 with an appointed parks committee as against an elected parks board, as presently constituted, but other than the addition of a councillor to the park committee and park work being under the direct supervision of the works superintendent, there will be no change in operation, nor of personnel.

Meeting with the Municipal Council, Monday, Parks Board chairman Ernie Bennett and Commissioners Lionel Fudge and Bill Snow, whose elected terms expire at the end of the year, agreed to carry on under the new set-up and they left it up to council to lay down the terms of the commission.

Council is taking the Kelowna bylaw as a pattern, but changes suggested by the parks commissioners, such as allowing the parks commissioners to name their chairman and for the appointments to be on yearly basis to bring the parks committee, were tentatively approved by council.

Sum effect of the change is to put the Parks Committee into the same relationship with Council as are the roads, water works and electric light committees.

Orchard Run

By Wally Smith

WORK FOR ALIVING

It's not surprising that a great many fruit growers in the South Okanagan are working out away from their orchards. Many growers are finding that the income from fruit is not enough to meet the family budget, so they, and in many cases their wives, are obliged to take a job that gives them a monthly pay cheque. Often the orchard suffers in consequence.

NICE HANDOUT

A good way to help keep the fruit farm going is for the grower's wife to work in the packinghouse and then draw unemployment insurance after the packing season ends. Other women are doing it, so why shouldn't a grower's wife get that sugary handout? Some of them are, and it helps a lot.

SEIL IN B.C.

The higher freight rates that are bound to come following increases in railway workers wages are sure to have a restrictive action on the marketing of B. C. fruit. Okanagan growers are going to find it necessary to market more of their crop near home.

LAME DUCK REPORT

Just about every organization but the Girl Guides (and I don't know how they overlooked it) has written the provincial government urging haste in the release of the MacPhee report.

All these proddings will not do any good. The Queen's Printer in Victoria will publish the MacPhee report when he gets around to it and not before. After several previous postponements the latest release date announced is January 15, of next year. Don't count on it, there could be another postponement.

It's a shame. With a little hustle and by making the best use of modern methods of photography and offset printing the MacPhee report could have been in the hands of the growers six weeks ago.

LAW OF AVERAGES

Somebody remarked recently they hoped to have a good crop of peaches next year. I always hope for a bountiful harvest, but I have learned not to count on it, for in my district you can expect the loss of a peach crop every few years.

The weather pattern in the past shows that we get a winter freeze that kills the buds on peach trees about every five or six years. I remember many years ago when we had two crop failures in succession. That was in 1935 and 1936 when only trees near the tempering influence of the lake had enough peaches to call a crop. If we are to go by the record of performance we can expect another big winter freeze any year now. A pessimistic outlook? Not exactly, let's call it recognition of the grim facts of nature.

CUP THAT CHEERS

Over in France they like their apple cider. This year France used 170 million bushels of apples, in cider making. This is more than the total crop in the United States which was 126 million bushels. World crop was 630 million bushels.

Bright HOLIDAY WISHES

May your holiday happiness glow brightly this Christmas and may its warmth remain with you forever.

Work Progressing On Kinsmen Little League Ball Park

The Summerland Kinsmen Club, with the full co-operation of the municipality is going ahead with the development of a Little League Baseball Park at the Athletic Park.

The newly organized Kinsmen Club of Summerland will sponsor Little League or Babe Ruth ball next season.

The youngsters' ball park occupies a former parking area at the Athletic Park. This has already been graded by the municipality and the Kinsmen are only awaiting good weather to put on work drive to prepare the area for seeding. Grass is to be planted and a fence will be constructed around the area as the park is gradually developed.

In the true spirit of the Yuletide season, we wish you a rich abundance of health, happiness and contentment.

Women's Federation Hold Regular Monthly Meeting

The United Church Hall presented a seasonal appearance on Thursday, December 18 when the members of the Women's Federation met for their regular monthly meeting. Decorations of Angels and Cherubs, a gaily decked Christmas tree and the attractive wall decorations set the stage for the end of the year meeting.

The opening Christmas hymn is a favorite of Mrs. B. Lott a shut-in member. Mrs. Hemmingway read the 90th Psalm and Mrs. H. B. Mair closed the devotional service with prayer.

Mrs. S. A. MacDonald read the minutes. Mrs. R. Chapman's financial report proved that the organization is in excellent financial condition, with all allocations met. Donations were granted to the junior and senior choirs, the Manse fund and Board of Stewards, assistance given a local student to attend a month's course of study at the Naramata Christian Leadership Training School and a contribution was made to the children's Christmas party and $10 grant was made to the W. M. S. Advance Building Fund.

The supply secretary, Mrs. W. Ward, reported sending a 15 pound parcel to Korea, containing children's clothing, sewing accessories, milk powder and toilet soaps. Three quilts were sent to the Burnaby Girls Home.

The response to the appeal for men's clothing by the Central Mission of Vancouver, was answered with 200 pounds of men's used clothing in excellent useable condition.

Mrs. R. Angus, convener of the nominating Committee presented a slate of officers, which was unanimously approved. The 1959 officers are: President Mrs.

J. Dunsdon; First Vice-president, Mrs. J. Lazenby; Second Vice-president, Mrs. M. Pollock; Third Vice-president, Mrs. G. Harper; Recording Secretary Mrs. G. C. Fleming; Treasurer Mrs. R. Chapman.

Mrs. Dunsdon, continuing as president, thanked her executive and committee secretaries for their support and assistance during the past year.

The grade six girls of the junior choir, under the leadership of Mrs. L. Fudge, entertained the members with a carefully prepared Christmas chorus which was highly appreciated.

Mrs. A. C. Fleming gave an all too brief talk on her September visit to the United Nations Assembly. She began her talk with a quote from the U. N. guide book: 'The United Nations is the last sacred temple of human brotherhood. We must remain at peace with one another or die.' Mrs. Fleming gave a graphic description of the visitors' gallery, each seat furnished with an amplifier that could be switched to the various interpreters.

She showed pictures of the vast hall, taken when the assembly was in session. It was her privilege to be present when the question of Red China's admission to the U. N. was presented.

Cornwall Cannery Square Dancers Builds Extension Plan Party

Work on a $16,000 warehouse extension that is adding a 60 by 90 ft. addition to the present warehousing facilities of the Cornwall Canning Company Ltd., in Summerland is well underway.

The company with steadily increasing business was so short of storage space this past season that it rented the old Walters Packinghouse for this purpose, and filled it. The new addition will hold 90,000 cases of canned goods.

Ryan Lawley, manager of the increasing volume of business plant told the Review that with there is a possibility that the canning operation will become too large for the present plant and that the operation will have to be moved over to what now is the warehouse section.

Mrs. Fleming's talk brought home to the listeners the importance of each and every delegate to the structure of the United Nations, and of the U.N. as our only hope of peace in the world.

Mrs. Dunsdon extended the thanks of the meeting to Mrs. Fleming for her interesting and informative address. The meeting adjourned and tea was served by the hostess, Mrs. M. Pollock and Mrs. W. Ward.

A gala Square Dance Party is planned by the Kalamalka Squares of Vernon for Boxing Day. To be held in the Vernon Scout Hall, the modern square dance gathering will feature caller Les Boyer of Mak, Washington.

Commencing at two o'clock in the afternoon, the party dance will pause at 5:30 for a pot-luck supper. An evening session of dancing will follow the supper. A children's party will be held in conjunction with the dance, for the children of participants.

An invitation is extended to all other Okanagan and Mainline dance group members to attend this holiday dance party.

Dental Appointments Begin January 13

Appointments in Summerland's new school dental service begin January 13. Parents will be notified when their children are to attend the clinic. It is expected that four children will be treated on Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

Thirty-four registrations have been received so far, out of a possible 90.

Southern Council
BCFGA Meeting

The Southern District Council of the BCFGa held its annual general meeting in the Hotel Prince Charles, Penticton on December 13. Thirty-five members were in attendance.

Officers elected were G. J. Armstrong of Keremeos-Cawston) succeeding J. Tiller as chairman; H. Corbishley, Penticton, succeeding E. Hack; J. King, Keremeos-Cawston, succeeded G. Bowering of Penticton as secretary treasurer.

Gordon DesBrisay reported on behalf of B. C. Fruit Processors, that 150,000 gallons of juice (half the expected total) had already been sent to the Cider processing plant, and that B. C. Cider was now being sold in Alberta. All other operations of the Processors was proceeding normally.

Gordon Wight, chairman of the Board of Governors, reported that the sale of apples was satisfactory and in some instances was ahead of last year. Prices on some varieties and grades had improved slightly.

All current officers of the Board of Governors, Central Executive and B. C. Tree Fruit Processors were nominated for re-election with the addition of John Coe, Penticton, for the Board of Governors, R. Duncan, Penticton for the Central Executive and J.B. M. Clarke Keremeos-Cawston for the B.C. Fruit Board.

Kiwanis Bingo Well Attended

KIWANIS BINGO held a very successful turkey and ham bingo at the IOOF Hall on Saturday night. There were over 100 participants in each game. Fifteen turkeys, fifteen hams and many boxes of chocolates were won.

Proceeds of the Bingo go towards financing the many community projects, sponsored by the Summerland Kiwanians.

A HAPPIER CHRISTMAS for patients at the Children's Hospital was assured by Pacific National Exhibition Directors when vice-president F. H. Elphink and Mrs. R. S. Quinn, presented the hospital with 44 dolls—all entries in the doll dressing competition at the PNE Home Art Show. The dolls came from every part of B.C., and entries are made with the stipulation that the dolls become the property of the PNE for presentation to the Children's Hospital.

TAKE CARE DON'T SPOIL CHRISTMAS

Christmas is by no means an accident-free season, but it could be kept safe by exercise of common sense and care. The Christmas tree is often the cause of fires. When buying the tree, don't make the purchase too long before it will be used. If it is to be held over more than a week, keep it out of doors, covered with snow, if that is possible. When it is brought inside, the lower ten inches of the base should be cleared and stripped of leaves and bark and the tree placed in a container of water. This will keep the tree moist and less inflammable.

United Church W.A. Annual Meeting Held

Summerland United Church W.A. members were entertained at the annual meeting, by the 'Melodies' who presented the Christmas Story in scripture and song. Mrs. J. Mayne was the narrator.

The choir was composed of Mrs. A. McKenzie, Mrs. G. Laidlaw, Mrs. H. Milne, Mrs. K. Boothe Mrs. J. Holman, Miss Doreen Tait, Mrs. Vera Foster, and Mrs. F. Bergstrom.

Mrs. Lionel Fudge was the accompanist.

The president, Mrs. J. Homan was in the chair and secretary Mrs. S. Blazeko gave a full report on the year's activities. In the past year the W. A. has helped support the Burnaby Girls' Home, Croase Clinic apparel shop, First United Church Welfare industries in Vancouver Korean Relief, Naramata Christian Leadership Training School the Junior Choir, Sunday School and Board of Stewards of the church.

A total of 160 homes and hospital visits have been made in the past year and 150 cards have been sent to shuttins and the sick and the bereaved.

Officers elected are as follows: Mrs. J. Holman, president; Mrs. W. J. Durick, first vice-president; Drs. W. J. Stewart, second vice-president; Mrs. S. Blazeko, secretary and Mrs. S. Feltham, treasurer.

There now is a paid up membership of 84 and it is felt that since the adoption of Circles more members are taking part in the operation of the W. A.

Watch Those Lights

While Christmas tree lights are quite small, they give out enough heat to start a blaze if they are allowed to rest on the dry branches or leaves of the tree, or to touch any inflammable trimming. It is not safe to leave them alight when no one is at home.

SHARE THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS

On the night before Christmas... all through the house... there's a warm, wonderful spirit we love to share with nearest and dearest friends.

For hundreds of years since the first Christmas, families from warm Jerusalem to the coldest corner of Norway have treasured Christmas Eve. This is the shining summit of each year. Many families, in countries round the world, attend a church service. Some folks invite friends in to decorate the tree... or sing carols.

Whatever the other activity, almost every home honors the tradition of celebrating Christmas Eve with a midnight supper. Many times the menu typifies one served in the native country of the family... such as Sweden's smorgasbord. The famous Polish suppers run from seven courses up to eleven. These include: Pickled herring; a hot soup (mushroom or fish); baked fish with horseradish sauce; baked sauerkraut; fruit compote; poppy seed cake, and a pudding or pastry; nuts and candies; coffee.

When you invite guests for supper this Christmas Eve, offer them a warming wonderful feast... that won't keep you in the kitchen. As they troop in from the shivery outdoors, they'll be glad to behold a punch bowl steaming with soup. Use one of the elegant new frozen soups... ideal for this joyful occasion. Probably most traditional for Christmas Eve is buttery hot oyster stew. Or you could have the old-fashioned potato soup (now frozen)... or rich green pea with ham. Surround the soup with other holiday goodies like these:

- CHRISTMAS EVE OYSTER-STEW SUPPER
- Oyster Stew
 - Smoked Cheese
 - Crackers and Pumpernickel Bread
 - Celery
 - Pickled Peaches
 - Cranberry Sauce
 - Christmas Cookies
 - Figs and Dates
 - Coffee

GOLDEN SAUCE TOPS TURKEY SANDWICH

Creamy chicken soup (or mushroom soup) makes a glorious GOLDEN SAUCE for hot turkey sandwiches. The sauce... just soup plus milk and an egg. You heat the can of soup with 1/2 cup milk in a saucepan until it reaches the bubbling point. Meanwhile beat the egg with a fork. Stir a little of the hot soup in with the egg; then pour egg in with soup in pan. Heat slowly, stirring constantly, just until thickened. (Do not boil). This makes enough royal-rich sauce to ladle over 3 sandwiches (turkey or chicken).

May the joys of your Christmas be rich, your friendships strong, and may your future be bright as the Holiday spirit.

Management Criterion Of Success In Agriculture

E. D. MacPhee, dean of the faculty of commerce and business administration at UBC, speaking at the 25th annual convention of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture in Victoria recently, said management had become the criterion of success in agriculture, not dirt farming, long hours or willingness to grow old quickly.

He said that the individual operator today had $20,000 to $30,000 in equipment, and that this amount could not be placed in the hands of one man, whether he was the owner or a hired helper, unless there was good management.

Surveying the country-wide picture of rural trends, he gave figures on the growth of urban population and the decrease in rural areas.

This means that there is little likelihood of temporary help being available for farms when it is needed.

Most governments are pledged to do their best to provide full employment and though this was quite right, it obviously made it more difficult to find part-time help. Farmers just had to have a big enough operation to have full-time help.

The agricultural operation of the future is going to be a much larger affair, he predicted, if it is going to survive. He explained at some length that this was not a peculiarity of farming, it was happening in all walks of life. Size was the essence of all industry, and with size must go competent management.

Large farms require the same competent management as any industry and if they are less competently managed they go broke.

Two quick examples were given. A man owned 500 acres of good land and grew potatoes on all of it. His staff was only six men. This was a tenth of the help he would have required a few years ago.

In the construction industry 50 years ago a man moved three tons of earth a day, today a man can move 5,000 tons a day with one machine.

Dean MacPhee said that the farmer must never give up the idea of searching for ways and means of becoming a lower-cost producer.

He pointed out that last year in Canada there were 80,000 babies grown to one year of age who would have died 50 years ago. That not only means advances in the science of health but means 80,000 more people to feed. He stressed the need for salesmanship and for the farmer to remember that no matter how good his product is he must still tell the world about it.

The old adage "let the buyer beware" has no place in good marketing. "Canada has no future as an exporter unless we recognize that when a product is in demand, we will supply it and we will stand behind it. We need legislation to protect us from indiscriminate dumping, but we do not need legislation to prevent legitimate two-way trade, but this must have due regard to the quality of goods produced.

"Canada is the fourth trading nation in the world and in 10 to 15 years will surpass Britain. With this world power must go responsibility."

He pointed out that in Canada 80 per cent of the market is export whereas in the U.S. almost the same percentage was domestic. Unless, like the U.S., we are to get involved in $22 billion price supports meant to help the small farmer, we must continue with more research, more farm size, more management.

Many New Years To Celebrate

With a little imagination, and a lot of stamina, you can ring in the New Year with more than one celebration.

In fact, you can keep on celebrating all through the year just by switching calendars.

The World Book Encyclopedic says most of the Christian world wipes the slate clean on January 1st.

But by trading in the Gregorian calendar for the Julian you can have another New Year's party on January 14.

Take a few months to recover and you can join the Iranian celebration on March 21st. If that doesn't wear you out, you turn over a new leaf in Autumn
when the Jews welcome the New Year.

If you want to cut down on travel time, you can confine your party hopping to India.
The Hindus are divided into many religious groups, and each group marks the beginning of the New Year on a different date.

GREETINGS

May you rejoice in the gladness that ushers in the season of Peace and
Good Will to all.

Message From The Premier

I AM GLAD TO HAVE THIS OPPORTUNITY, ONCE AGAIN OF EXTENDING MY SINCERE COMPLIMENTS OF
THE SEASON TO THE GOOD CITIZENS OF MY HOME CON-STITUENCY OF SOUTH OKANAGAN.

Wherever I travel during the year throughout our vast Province, I am never far in my thoughts from this beautiful valley, but its charm and friendliness are particularly appealing at Christmas-time when the white snow blankets the sleeping orchards and the Yule logs crackle cheerily in every fireplace.

MAY I WISH YOU ALL A MERRY FESTIVE
SEASON AND THE HAPPIEST OF NEW YEARS

W. A. C. BENNETT.

The Spirit of Christmas

In all the hustle-bustle of our happy
Holiday preparations, let us never forget the true spirit of Christmas, so beautifully expressed in those carols of beloved memory.
Let us dedicate ourselves to the ideal of which the Angel sang: "Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Men."
