

Co-op Chairman Steps Down; Manager Resigns

The Directors of the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Association, announced Tuesday that they had accepted with regret, the resignation of their manager, George Washington, who has been with the association for 17 years, serving as manager for 12 years.

Mr. Washington gave much to the development of the Lakeside plant, J. Y. Towgood said, in making the announcement and when that plant was destroyed by fire on March 9, 1957, Mr. Washington was closely associated with the planning and development of the new packinghouse and cold storage plant in West Summerland.

Mr. Towgood, asked by The Review if it was true that he had resigned as chairman of the Board of Directors, said this was so, but that his decision had been made before Mr. Washington's resignation and was based on personal reasons, plus the fact that he had been active with the association for 27 years and that he now thought it was time new blood was introduced. "I had planned to resign long before now, but the destruction of the lakeside plant by fire kept me going," Mr. Towgood said.

Mr. Washington, asked what his future plans were, said: "No comment."

Summerland Fruit and Vegetable Processing Expert F. E. Atkinson addressed recent Ottawa Food Preservation conference on technical aspects of Plant Sanitation. Mr. Atkinson (extreme right) is seen asking a question of Dr. A. H. Jones (white coat) Food Microbiologist, Food Processing and Storage Section, Plant Research Institute, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, who explained the various aspects of the application of the Burri method for processing plant sanitation and for determining the microbial content of frozen vegetables. Left to right: F. J. Perry Chief, Processed Products Inspection Section, Production-Marketing Branch, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa; R. B. Marshall, H. J. Heinz of Canada, Leamington, Ont.; Dr. A. H. Jones; Dr. J. C. Woodward, Assistant Director-General, (Program) Research Branch, Canada Department of Agriculture, and Mr. Atkinson.

"Scottie" Ritchie was installed president of the Summerland Kiwanis Club at impressive ceremonies held in the IOOF Hall last Thursday, with Lieutenant Governor Vern W. Llewellyn, Division five, of Tonasket, Washington, officiating.

Other officers installed were: Bob Alstead, vice-president; Hilly Smith, secretary; Bill Laidlaw, treasurer, and Jack O'Mahoney, immediate past-president. Directors are George Henry, Percy Wilson, Jack Stewart, John Tamblin, Russ Varty, Ken Heales and Walter Toews.

Retiring President Jack O'Mahoney outlined the many activities of Kiwanis carried out during the past year and expressed his deep appreciation of the support given him by the executive and general membership. Toast to the ladies was proposed with wit and poetry by John Tamblin and replied to neatly by Mrs. Velma Stewart. Ken Heales gave the toast to Kiwanis and the retiring president introduced the guests, representative of neighboring Kiwanis Clubs and from Washington, USA, and representatives of other local service clubs.

High School Drama Club to Present Hilarious Play

The High School Drama Club will present its annual play in the High School Auditorium, Friday, February 20 at 8:30 p. m.

This year's choice is "Cheaper by the Dozen" the hilarious play taken from the equally hilarious book of the same name by Gilbraith and Carey. Here two of one man's twelve children describe the original, educational and, above all, efficient methods used by their father in raising his family of twelve.

The play, featuring Father, (David Krause) and Mother, (Magda Wouters) deals with the rebellion of the eldest daughter, Anne, against the rigid rules of behavior laid down by Father. When Anne (Gloria Tilbe) begins to wear short skirts, silk stockings and rouge, bobs her hair and acquires a boy friend, Father objects, loudly, strenuously and uselessly, for Anne is supported by her brothers and sisters who realize that she is breaking the ice for them. The time was the roaring twenties and some of the audience will be vividly reminded of their own foolish youth, which, of course, was not nearly as foolish as that of today.

Assisted this year by Mr. John Warren, Mr. Loan is producing his third High School Drama Club production. Those who have seen the school plays of previous years can feel confident that in "Cheaper by the Dozen" as interpreted by the Summerland High School Drama Club they will be seeing a superior effort.

Board of Trade

Summerland Board of Trade will hold its first meeting under 1959 President William Gillard on Thursday, February 12 at a dinner meeting at 6:30 in the C.O.F. Hall. A membership campaign is now underway under the chairmanship of Roy Wellwood. Guest speaker will be Mr. Allan Hughes of Vernon who is the sales engineer and maintenance supervisor for Okanagan Telephone Company. Mr. Hughes will speak on the 2-5 numbering system and Toll Dialing. These subjects are timely topics as the 2-5 numbering system will go into effect next month and the toll dialing later this year.

CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN—and here they are the hilarious dozen and their parents who guarantee to keep you in stitches on Friday, February 20, when they will present that sparkling comedy, "Cheaper by the Dozen" in the High School Auditorium. Members of the High School Drama Club, Back row, left to right, Nancy Young, George Northrup, Bela Wouters, John Downton, David Krause, Vickie McKee and David Woollams. Centre: Sheila Greene, Anthea Morgan, Gloria Tilbe. Front row: Neil Mason, Micheal Lopptekle, Magda Wouters, John Woollams, Mary Cuthbert

THREE OF THE LEADING CHARACTERS IN the High School Drama Club's presentation of "Cheaper by the Dozen" are the trio above, rebellious daughter Anno, Gloria, Tilbe, and mother Magda Wouters, seated and FATHER, John Woollams.

Dept. Approves School Board Budget For '59

School Board budget for 1959 was given approval, without reduction, when Summerland Board of School Trustees of District 77 submitted the tentative budget to Department of Education officials at Penticton Tuesday.

The amount remains confidential until submitted to the Municipal Council in the near future.

The Board of School Trustees is awaiting with eagerness the promised visit of the B.C. Minister of Education, after the current sitting of the Legislature, when the Board will discuss proposed building of a four classroom addition at MacDonald School in opposition to the policy of decentralization now adopted by the Department of Education, which would entail building of small schools in isolated areas.

T. S. Manning, chairman of the school board, has named the following committees for 1959: Finance, K. L. Boothe; personnel, K. L. Boothe; sec. treas., B. A. Tingley; building, Harvey Wright, John Bennest; grounds, John Bennest, Eric Brinton; health, John Bennest; representative to Okanagan Regional Library, Eric Brinton; transportation, Harvey Wright, Eric Brinton; elected to the Okanagan Branch Trustees' Association T. S. Manning. Mr. Manning is ex-officio on all committees.

Municipality Purchases New Five Ton Truck

Council on Tuesday night authorized purchase of a Ford Heavy Duty five ton truck at a cost of $7,160.

This was the lowest tender of six submitted. Truck will be supplied by Valley Motors of Penticton.

Other tenders submitted were Durmin Motors, Chevrolet truck $7,315; Parker Motors Ltd., Penticton, Dodge, $7,325; Howard and White Motors Ltd., Penticton, $7,425; Hunt Motors, Penticton, $7,741 and Grove Motors, Penticton, $8,163.

The Girl Guides of Summerland are anxious to make money for the camp site and will be appreciative of any odd jobs you can put their way. Please Phone 6161 or 2690.

What I Learned About Prayer

Reprinted from Christian Life, Nov. 1957

By Marvin S. Procter

Nothing is needed so much today as one thing; the spirit of prayer among Christians. This is vastly more important than getting sinners saved, or more preaching or more revivals. We will see visible results in saved souls when God sees visible results from us. We will see the great need is that every converted Christian will pray until they pray as they should—until the Holy Spirit invades the saved world.

You hear much talk about the need for unity among Christians today. I believe that such a major need can only be met through the work of the Holy Spirit in an all-out program of prayer, carried out by Christians in the many divisions of Christendom.

Prayer is the only common ground where the redeemed can stand together. Only an intensified program of prayer carried out simultaneously by great sections of the redeemed will bring the red-hot power of the cleansing Holy Spirit.

Why do I say we must have morning prayer? What good will it do to find out about a journey of a day when the day is done? We must see Him in the morning, constantly, continuously and daily.

Such a program of drastic prayer cannot be relegated to the old saints of the church nor to the women nor to the slightly odd ones who are slow of understanding. It must be adopted, delineated and bravely and doggedly carried out by the hard core leaders of God's Church. Too many leaders take care of the organizational and clerical work of the church lead in services and departments, attend business meetings thus avoiding square encounter with such a spiritual, desperately needed program of prayer.

That is why the Reedsburg Church of God is in its third year of prayer each morning. When we follow a road of prayer long enough to love Him, God will visit us.

The author of the foregoing, the Rev. Martin Procter, will be the speaker at the Trout Creek Community Church of God, starting on Monday, Feb. 16 and through to Sunday, Feb. 22, with the exception of Saturday, Feb. 21.

Playground, Zoo Planned Locally

What to do with restless kids after a long drive should be no problem for tourists travelling Highway 97 this summer, when they hit this district.

John Dunn proposes to establish a children's playground and zoo, on a three quarter acre tract of ground he has purchased from J. M. Landry. This is a triangle cut off from the Landry property when the new highway went through.

Mr. Dunn found Council interested and sympathetic toward the new venture, indicating that subject to the opinion of the Town Planning Commission, it will be approved.

He Left His Mark

When a man who has served an organization for 17 years and for most of those seventeen years in a top executive capacity, the news of his resignation comes as something of a shock.

Whatever lies behind the resignation of Mr. George Washington from his position as general manager of the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Association packinghouse, we think it is fitting at this time to express appreciation for what we believe his severest critic will not deny, his aggressive leadership.

The Summerland Co-op's lakeshore plant, destroyed by fire in 1957, was expanded considerably under Mr. Washington's management and he was undoubtedly the sparkplug in the planning and building of the Coop's new packinghouse, one of the most modern on the continent.

Altogether, Mr. Washington has left his mark on the community, and we wish him well

Two-Fold Remedy

Seeing to it that seasonal unemployment is held in check is the business of every Canadian. None of us—including those who have a steady, year-round job—can feel secure if it isn't.

But what can we as individuals do to "Keep Canadians Working?" The question was answered, simply and succinctly by Mr. Ian F. McRae, President of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in a national radio address on behalf of the federal Department of Labour.

After detailing the responsibilities of management, labour and government, Mr. McRae went on:

"But the solution of winter unemployment is largely in the lap of the general public—you, the consumers, male and female, right across the country.

"You can do two specific things.

"First, you can make a habit of scheduling certain kinds of work and purchases for the winter months, particularly major items such as home improvement projects—things like interior decorating and painting. These things can be just as easily done now instead of waiting until next summer. What's more, they may well be cheaper.

"Secondly, you will do much to help keep yourself and your fellow Canadians employed by buying Canadian-made goods and services in every season of the year."

Mr. McRae concluded: "As I have said, this problem of winter employment, whether we realize it or not, has personal implications for everyone of us. I would only repeat that it will be largely solved if enough of us do the things I have spelled out in the last few minutes."

Mr. Fleming well knows. Indeed, the need is for greater, more tangible rewards for enterprise and hard work, not stiffer penalties. But if there are a few carrots—in the shape of tax reliefs—for distribution this year, at least the punitive stick should not be applied with a still heavier hand.

There is no entirely painless cure for the deficit, but an expanding economy surely offers the best remedy. A larger working population and substantially increased corporation profits would automatically swell government revenues in the next fiscal year. Such a highly desirable solution can best be achieved by allowing the natural growth factors present in the economy to re-assert themselves, and, no less important, by retrenchment in government spending.

As to this last, it is inconceivable that there is not some room for curtailment of non-productive outlays which do not of themselves add to the sum total of national wealth. However, a firm decision to permit no further increase in commitments would be something.

The extent to which federal expenditures have soared from one year to the next over the past decade is, after all, little short of astounding, and explains a lot.

Back in 1948, the then Finance Minister, Mr. Abbott, needed to budget for revenues of hardly more than $2 billion, whereas Mr. Fleming must think today in terms of $6 billion. Thus, in a matter of ten short years federal spending has trebled, while in the same period the gross national product—the value of all the goods and services we turn out annually—has, in current dollars, hardly doubled.

Who will wonder that 1948 dollars are today worth less than 75 cents? And who will say that the time has not yet come to call a halt to this Rake's Progress?

Mr. Micawber's Ghost

If, in the course of preparing his 1959-60 budget, Finance Minister Fleming is haunted by the ghost of that celebrated Dickensian character, Mr. Micawber, it surely will not be altogether surprising.

Mr. Micawber, it will be remembered, on being asked to define between happiness and misery, obliged thus: "Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure nineteen pounds nineteen and six, result happiness. Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure twenty pounds ought and six, result misery."

Any housewife will get the point. And Mr. Fleming, in his capacity as Canada's chief accountant, can certainly be expected to respond with a fervent "hear, hear!" For the Minister's lot as he drafts his annual statement of national accounts, is, like the policeman's, not a happy one.

It is not happy because he is confronted with a huge deficit, federal expenditures this past fiscal year having exceeded federal income not by sixpence but by several hundred million dollars. Government has spent freely in fulfilment of its election pledges, and in a vigorous effort to mitigate the effects of the economic recession to which it fell heir on first taking office eighteen months ago.

Now, with the country recovering from the recession, Mr. Fleming must make a start on getting the national accounts out of the red. Must, that is, if government credit is to be sustained and the threat of worsening inflation—or the straightjacket of controls—averted. (It is precisely because there is a point beyond which inflation cannot be tolerated that no Canadian can afford to be in the least complacent about an unbalanced national budget.)

All this is not necessarily to imply higher taxes. Taxes on both industry and the individual are high enough in all conscience, as

1958 Good Citizen

The honor of being named a Summerland Good Citizen is an honor not easily come by. The award represents a recognition of a devotion to the community over many, many years. Take the 1958 award winner, Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony, pictured above. Mrs. O'Mahony helped organize the Girl Guide and Brownie movements in this district and taught them first aid and home nursing. She was, for many years, South Okanagan Camp Adviser. A nurse by profession, the 1958 award winner naturally gravitated to the Red Cross during the war and was responsible for "Victory Bundles". She was also active in civil defence work and taught first aid and home nursing to C. D. classes. Mrs. O'Mahony started nursing in Naramata and conducted first aid classes in Peachland, while continuing her community activities here. She has worked for the Board of Trade in the staging of the Queen's Ball. A member of the Canadian Cancer Society for 28 years, Summerland's Good Citizen for 1958 worked with the late Dr. Andrew to form a local unit of the society in Summerland. Mrs. O'Mahony's work in the Cancer Society brought her recognition when in 1936 she was named a director of the Canadian Cancer Society, Vancouver, for seven years, and of the Cancer Foundation for a period of four years. Mrs. O'Mahony still continues with first aid exams, both at the High School and for other classes. She is also an active member of the Kiwassa Club.

Aux. Holds Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Summerland Ladies' Hospital Auxilliary was held on February 2. The new president, Mrs. Don Clark was in the chair.

The following appointments, 1959 were announced by the president.

- Dime fund, Mrs. J. Marshall
- Catering to nurses' monthly meetings, Mrs. Bert Berry and Mrs. C. E. Emery
- Greeting Cards, Mrs. S. Fabbi
- Memo Calendars, Miss D. Tait

It was decided at the meeting to have the rooms and corridor in the Van Allen wing painted and new light fixtures where needed. Also painting of counter tops in the dispensary.

Miss Mabel Henderson, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Henderson, for the past three and a half months, has returned to her missionary field of labor in Cuba.

Miss Mildred Tedder of Osoos visited with her grandmother, Mrs. James Dark, over the weekend.

Mrs. A. H. Crooks has returned from a three-week's visit to relatives in Vancouver.

Mr. Bill and Bob Barkwill have returned from Vancouver where they attended the B. C. Canned Food's Convention.

Mrs. W. R. Cook of North Vancouver is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Barkwill for ten days.

LIVE BETTER - Electrically!

This Is National Electrical Week - February 8 to 14

February 8th to 14th is National Electrical Week, marking the 112th anniversary of Thomas Edison's birth. Edison brought electricity out of the laboratory and into practical use for the benefit of all mankind. He worked untiringly to develop the first practical electric light bulb, and with it, the equipment needed to bring it into our homes. Edison founded an industry that has become one of the nation's largest and most vital . . . an industry that has put the magic of electricity to work in a thousand ways that contribute to the strength and prosperity of the nation. An industry that continues to play an increasing part in Canada's development — providing equipment for four-fifths of all work in manufacturing for example. Yes, from forest and farm to end-products "electricity builds jobs."

So, during National Electrical Week this year, we salute the world's most versatile servant . . . electricity. Electricity keeps you warm in the winter, cool in the summer. It turns night into day at the flick of a switch. It brings you entertainment, cooks your food, does your washing and in so many ways makes your life easier and more enjoyable. Have you ever thought just how inexpensive all these electrical servants are. The average-size living room can be vacuumed for about half a cent. With the flick of a switch electricity does a week's wash for the average family for less than a nickel.

National Electrical Week has been officially declared by many of our Premiers and Mayors — a salute to the 175,000 skilled Canadians of the electrical industry whose products and services are designed to serve the highly specialized needs of our growing nation.

Horticultural Society Appoints Committees For Coming Year

The Horticultural Society executive held a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ward on Thursday, February 5 to set up committees for the coming year.

Dave McIntosh will be in charge of programmes for the meetings, and has already lined up some interesting subjects. The February meeting will feature a talk by Alec Watt on shrubs to plant when landscaping a garden. This should be of great interest to those in town who are starting new gardens and they are invited to attend whether members of the society or not. The March meeting will be talks by local people who have small greenhouses. They will tell what their houses are like and what can be done with the various types.

Meetings will be held as usual, on the third Friday of each month, except for one or two months in the summer, at the Anglican Parish Hall.

Alec Watt will be chairman of the show committee and the entire executive are also on this. In order to get more members interested in showing flowers a plan is underway to distribute bulbs to members with the idea that the flowers will be exhibited in a special class.

It was decided to drop parLOUR shows after the February meeting as not enough members are taking part in them.

Mrs. Lew Wright will be in charge of the teas and Doreen Tait will be responsible for press reporting and advertising of meetings.

The Peach City Promenaders were hosts to beginner dancers on Saturday night. Ed. Steber had a very interesting program arranged with both advanced and beginner dancers having an evening of fun. Our hats are off to Ed. and Irene for a very interesting and worthwhile evening. It was very encouraging to see so many new dancers from this area all dancing together and executing very intricate figures. Looks like we have some very good dancers coming up into the square dance field.

This weekend the Peach City Promenaders are hosts at a Valentine Dance in the High School Cafeteria at 8 p. m.

Callers are invited to bring their records. Also bring a snack and coffee will be provided by the club.

W.I. Holds Valentine Tea

A Valentine Tea and birthday party was enjoyed by 40 members and guests of the Summerland Women's Institute following the regular meeting at the Anglican parish hall on Friday afternoon. A large, beautifully decorated cake and Valentine decorations added to the celebration in honor of the founding of Women's Institutes in 1897. A delicious tea was served by the executive.

During the business meeting, president, Mrs. A. A. Fenwick was in the chair. Mrs. Gordon Ritchie, convener of Home Economics, reported that the project of layettes for Unitarian Service Committee has been very successful and many donations have been made by members and non-members. Many of the finished articles were on display at the meeting and more will be added before shipment is made to the U. S. C. for distribution to Arab relief.

Mrs. Fenwick reported that the desk, which was made to specifications, has been presented to the Summerland Library and is now in use. This desk is to be the Jubilee project of the local group in celebration of its organization 50 years ago in November, 1909.

Mrs. A. C. Fleming was delegated to represent the W.I. at the annual meeting of the Summerland branch of the Cancer Society which was held last night.

The next meeting of the W.I. will be held Friday, March 13. Dr. R. K. Gordon of Naramata, as guest speaker.

Member Reports

David Pugh, M. P.

Friday marked the close of a most interesting week for two reasons. First, there have been many good speeches from all parts of the House and second, certain pronouncements of far-reaching effect have been made. The estimates tabled in the House by the Minister of Finance indicates the Government's policy on spending. Last year the Government favoured construction programs to provide employment and this has been furthered this year in an effort to provide winter work. It is the opinion of experts that the estimates show that the government is preparing to deal with inflationary pressures along with the unemployment situation. Fairly large cuts on controllable spending show a saving of $3,100,000. However, expenditures cannot help but show an increase because of statutory spending. Statutory spending includes those items required by the law such as the hospital insurance program, public debt charges, family allowances and unemployment assistance. Main savings were in the Department of Defence, $72,000,000; Public Works showing a decrease of $15,000,000 but this is taken up with increased Department of Transport works such as airport and air terminal expansion.

Again the government added $250,000,000 in mortgage lending power for the Government's housing agency, Central Mortgage and Housing Agency, Canada's housing is at an all-time high and the Government intends to do everything in its power to maintain further construction. The only fly in the ointment is rising costs of house building.

Justice Minister Fulton's New York speech and later statements in the House received approbation. He gave a blunt and forceful warning to Washington to stop meddling in what are purely Canadian economic affairs. The United States had launched an anti-trust action Canada feels is completely unjust insofar as it relates to Canadian subsidiaries. In the House Mr. Fulton warned that in all probability this will not be an end to the matter but that at least our views and feelings have been made well-known to the United States.

I saw an important constituent, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, in Ottawa, and he informed me that his talks went well. Perhaps some of you saw the hour-long C. B. C. Television program on the Columbia Power, in which the premier seemed to make two conflicting statements. However, one was a statement taken last summer and the other this month. The future of this river development is far too important to British Columbia to be the subject of political shilly-shallying.

The Canadian Horticultural Council meets in Ottawa on Monday the 16th. An appointment has been arranged with the Prime Minister, the express purpose of which is to discuss fair value for duty. I will be attending along with Mr. Stuart Fleming, M. P. for Okanagan-Roseville.

IS YOUR HOME GETTING THE CARE IT DESERVES?

Failure to make repairs to your house immediately can be downright expensive. One piece of falling plaster that's overlooked or left to take care of itself so often leads to another. And then the final expense is much greater.

If your house is in need of improvements — repairs, paint jobs and the like — and your ready cash can't take care of the cost, see Jock Johnston, manager of the Summerland Bank of Montreal branch about a Home Improvement Loan. H.I.L.'s are available at the 'B' of 'M' for all kinds of worthwhile purposes about the house.

They're inexpensive, too — the interest is less than one half of one per cent a month — and you repay in easy monthly instalments, plus interest. So, if you have repairs or improvements on your mind, call on Mr. Johnston at the 'B' of 'M' tomorrow. He will be glad to show you how a Home Improvement Loan can help you.

ORCHARD RUN

by WALLY SMITH

A MILESTONE

Last month's 1959 convention will go down in the records as marking a milestone in the history of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association.

Not that anything outstanding was accomplished at this year's meeting of the growers' parliament, but the session was momentous in that Dean E. D. MacPhee was there to give the growers a brief outline of some of the more important points in his just-off-the-press report on the Okanagan fruit industry.

This report could mark a turning point for the Okanagan fruit growers, or it could be wasted effort if a majority of growers ignore warnings and disregard the advice contained in its 810 pages; the result of more than 18 months of enquiry and investigation.

UP TO GROWERS

What happens in the Okanagan fruit industry during the next few years will depend largely upon what action the fruit growers take on the recommendations contained in the MacPhee report.

As a result of his comprehensive survey, Dean MacPhee is critical of a number of things he found in the operation of the orchards, varieties of fruit trees, suitability of soil and location, packhouse amalgamation and others.

All growers may not agree with Dean MacPhee's recommendations and non-growers, too, may disagree, as witness the Social Credit member for Esquimalt, who is reported to have said Dean MacPhee's recommendations for bigger loans and bigger orchards was not a satisfactory solution.

Brusch said it is another step by which the little fellow is being squeezed out. It smacks of socialism.

Nevertheless, the majority of persons directly connected with the fruit industry or not, will accept the MacPhee report as a fair analysis of the industry, and the recommendations as being reasonable and likely to bring about beneficial results.

THIS IS IT

To implement some of these recommendations will require help from the government. If this is forthcoming and fruit growers fail to make a definite move in the direction Dean MacPhee suggests they go, they will have lost a wonderful opportunity to improve their economic status. At the same time they will also lose the sympathy

Choose Lighting Mood, Inspire Homes Decor

You've spent considerable time — and money — in making your home a pleasant and attractive place to live. Make the most of it with the kind of lighting that shows your color and furniture arrangements to the best advantage — and of course, the kind of lighting that is good for your eyes.

A dramatic new concept of home lighting is called "Inspiration-Lighting". Simply stated, the theory says you should plan for (1) general lighting, (2) local lighting, and (3) accent lighting. By switching individual fixtures on or off, you can thereby create the lighting mood you want.

When you plan your lighting look for the new concepts and ideas available today. The trend this year is to cluster fixtures, available in luxurious brass, a combination of rope and brass, opal glass, and an exciting cluster of three vinylite bubbles, which create a Far East mood in decorating.

In addition there is a wide variety of the popular reel-type pull-downs. You can find lighting fixtures to blend and complement any decorating period. The term often used to describe many of the new lighting fixture designs is "Transitional" which means the fixtures will blend with decorating of any period or style.

One group, called "Cordette Casuals" includes fixtures for practically any lighting job. With this co-ordination of lighting fixtures the home decorator will have no trouble in combining the various phases of a lighting plan to make a home more comfortable, convenient, and livable.

BUSINESS OR HOBBY

On the basis of present-day orchard returns that price would have to be a figure considerably lower than what the seller would hope to get.

As a business proposition an orchard is worth in direct proportion to its earning power or its potential earning power. But to a man of means who desires to live in this wonderful valley of ours and grow a few acres of fruit as a hobby, that same piece of orchard property could be worth twice as much.

Chances are the grower with an off-the-farm job and four or five acres of trees isn't going to sell unless he gets a darn good price. Who can blame him?

His neighbor has 10 acres and wants to buy more land but he can't afford a "darn good price" for he has to operate the orchard as a business proposition and not as a hobby or a means of creating income tax deductions there seems little likelihood of these two neighbors getting together on a business deal.

Forty percent of the Okanagan orchards are five acres or less and I can see no immediate hope of reducing this percentage. It could, in fact, increase as some of the older growers sub-divide and sell to go on a payroll and become week-end farmers. There will be some enlarging of orchards, but these will not be numerous.

Resignation of Mr. George Washington, as manager of the Summerland Co-operative packinghouse, has touched off something of a controversy and The Review has been, to put it mildly, pressured to dig deep and open up on the issue.

The Review, however, after considerable "digging" has come to the conclusion that the resignation of Mr. Washington is a matter outside the public weal. If there is a strong difference of opinion on the matters which led up to Mr. Washington's resignation, these differences should be ironed out by the members of the association.

However, from what we have learned this past week we are inclined to believe that all growers of the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Association would be well advised to accept what is now a fait-accompli — a matter of water under the bridge, for no amount of patching now, could restore the status quo, if that is to be desired.

Mr. Washington has, as we have learned during our extensive enquiries during the past week, built up an enviable reputation throughout the valley. It follows Mr. Washington will not be long without position.

What matters now, insofar as Summerland is concerned, is that members of the Co-op close ranks.

There are many issues pertaining to packinghouses which need grower consideration and grower action. The MacPhee report and the MacPhee recommendations demand action by the growers on many problems of the industry, arising from the packinghouses.

This is certainly not the time to let sentiment run wild when the fundamental issue of the growers' very survival is paramount.

Boating Fever High Yacht Club Meet Shows

Summerland Yacht Club is planning to build a 500 foot pier at a cost of about $1,000 to provide ultimate accommodation for 60 or more boats with anchorage for many more behind the breakwater which is to be built by the Federal Government early this summer at an estimated cost of $18,000.

Interest in boating is definite on the upswing judging by the attendance at Monday's annual meeting, at which affiliate membership with clubs across Canada was discussed.

L. A. Smith was re-elected club commodore with Clarence Lackey continuing as vice-commodore and R. S. Oxley as treasurer, while a secretary will be appointed to replace Mrs. Pearl Reid, who resigned because of ill health.

Directors are: Norman Holmes, Ken Heales, John Kitson, Harry Dracas and Alfred Johnston.

Annual membership fee was set at the low figure of $2. Moorage fees are $50 to each member wanting an option on a bay with $15 a year rental. This option entitles the member to the use of that bay as long as they want it and the $50 charge will be refundable, less $5 per year for each year it has been held. Moorage in the bay with piles fore and aft to tie to, will be available at $7 50 a year. The bays are not transferable, but it is possible to sublet this space.

Guest speakers at the meeting were Dave Roegele the commodore of the Pentiction Yacht Club and vice-commodore John Glass.

Local Board of Trade Thinking About Women

Dr. J. C. Wilcox Cancer Soc. Prexy

Dr. J. C. Wilcox was re-elected president of the Summerland branch of the Canadian Cancer Society at the annual meeting held in the Health Centre last week.

Other officers re-elected are George Lewis, vice-president; E. R. Butler, treasurer; and Mrs. J. E. O'Mahony, secretary.

Mrs. Eric Smith is welfare director. Directors are Reeve F. E. Atkinson, C. Denike, W. Brown, Mrs. A. C. Fleming, representing the Women's Institute Mrs. George Lewis, representing the Canadian Legion Ladies Auxiliary, Nat May, for the Legion and J. E. O'Mahony, the Summerland General Hospital.

Regret was voiced that Summerland High School students had not entered the Cancer Essay contest this year.

Good Citizen Mrs. O'Mahony as provincial director for the South Okanagan told of the new research building planned for building at the UBC and that a $35,000 electron microscope is being installed at UBC to aid in cancer research.

Dr. W. H. B. Munn addressed the meeting, talking on "Virus and Its Relation to Cancer."

Phone Conversion Sunday, March 8th

Summerland will be converted to the two-five numbering system on Sunday, March 8, however the whole Okanagan system will not be converted until March 28 and subscribers should hold onto their old phone until that date. Summerland's office name will be HYacinth and, the code HY4. It was pointed out that in dialing local numbers, because of the type of automatic equipment we have, that we will have to dial one more digit than most other centres. For example to call the Review, the number will be HY4-8406.

Mr. Hughes was introduced by the Summerland Okanagan Telephone Company representative, Joe Blollo, vice-president of the Board of Trade and he was thanked for his interesting and informative talk by Board President, William Gillard.

One of man's last strongholds in Summerland is under assault. At last Thursday's regular meeting of the Board notice of motion was given, the motion, to open membership in the Board of Trade to the ladies. Present rules confine membership to males of the community.

Roy Wellwood, chairman of the membership committee report that from the first contacts made in the membership canvass, indications were that the Board of Trade may secure the largest attendance in many years during 1959.

Speaker at the dinner meeting was Allan Hughes of Vernon sales and maintenance supervisor of the Okanagan Telephone Company Ltd. Mr. Hughes traced some of the significant strides made in telephone service and equipment since the first telephone call was placed in 1870. He mentioned the carrier system which here in the Okanagan enables 12 conversations to be carried on one wire. In the Okanagan system there has been direct toll dialing by the operator since 1952.

The next step is subscriber direct dialing which requires a vast investment in time, money and equipment. The Bell Telephone Company has taken the leadership in organizing Canada and the U. S. A. for direct dialing. B. C. is a separate area with the code number 402. The two-five numbering system will provide a possible 760 million different telephone numbers in North America. Mr. Hughes explained how computers at Pentiction will arrange our long-distance calls and record the information for billing.

By dialing 112 Summerland subscribers will be connected to Pentiction, they will then give their number and from then on the operation is automatic. The speaker stated that there will be no layoff of personnel as a result of this automation and he cited the company's experience in Pentiction where they now have more operators to look after long distance calls than were formerly required to operate the old manual system before the advent of the dial phones. Direct distance dialing will be ready in Summerland-Pentiction area about a year, from now, in other valley centres at six months from then.

Growers Can Listen, But They Can't Talk Back

A capacity house, a section of which is pictured above, watched the finals of the "A," "C" and "D" events played off simultaneously on Sunday night to wind up the highly successful annual bonspiel of the Summerland Curling Club.

44 Rinks Compete In Seventh Annual 'spiel

Summerland's curling rink resounded to roaring rocks through three hectic days and nights last week as the club's seventh annual bonspiel with 44 participating rinks was run off.

Summerland curlers more than held their own against keen competition from outside.

School Popcorn Sale

Kids do their own reporting too.

Last Thursday evening, February 12, 1959, just about every pupil in Mr. Stent's room in MacDonald School was busy cooking fudge or popping corn.

Next morning at school, groups were taking turns bagging the popcorn or popping it, while lessons were going on.

We had two electric poppers, one electric frying pan, and for a while we had two girls popping popcorn at their grandmother's place.

One of the two popcorn poppers had a slight mishap, but was able to continue popping.

All this was for a sale which took place at noon hour, and was very successful. We sold 250 bags of popcorn and sold 50 bags of fudge. We got $21.38, but the expenses cost $5.20, so we made $16.00 for the Red Cross.

Volunteer Fire Brigade Holds Annual Banquet

Members of the Summerland Volunteer Fire Brigade sat down to their annual banquet Monday night in the Catholic Church Hall, fully satisfied that they are a needed organization in Summerland. Twice that day the brigade had responded to the wailing of the fire siren, first to a chimney fire at the home of Miss Carrie Harvey on Giant's Head Road and in the afternoon to a fire at Bonthoux Motors. Both blazes were soon brought under control without extensive damage. At the banquet Reeve F. E. Atkinson, who along with Mrs. Atkinson was a guest of the brigade paid tribute to the value of the department to the community.

Other guests were Municipal Works superintendent and Mrs. Blagborne; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Arkell and George Ryman, Mrs. Ryman was unable to attend. Joe McLaughlan is Fire chief and Fire Marshall, with Joe Blollo deputy fire chief and Fred Dunsdon is third in command.

Summerrland's Norm Holmes chalked up a seven-ender, as did the Eden rink. They will play off for the prizes.

Copping the "A" event was Dick Topping of Oliver, who cutis out of Summerland. The Topping rink won out in close battle coming from behind to tie the score in the eighth end and going on to win 8-4 over the redoubtable Carse rink from Pentiction.

On the winning rink were: Casey Davis, lead; Roy Conrad, second; Bill Hopkins, third and Dick Topping, skip. A packed gallery witnessed the thrilling final played off Sunday night.

Clow of Kelowna took first place in the "B" final, defeating Williams of Pentiction. Trovior of Pentiction and McKilligan of Summerland finished third and fourth in the same event.

It was an all Summerland final in the "C" event, Hallquist outscored Edon to take first place with Solly of Summerland third and Garraway of Peachland fourth.

Hinos of Pentiction knocked Lemke of Summerland over in the final match of the "D" event with Caldwell of Summerland placing third and Parmley of Pentiction finishing fourth.

Over forty rinks took part in the spiel which was under the sponsorship of the Summerland Curling Club.

Summerland growers have been circularized to the effect that Okanagan-Kootenay Co-operative Growers Association will hold a meeting at Maes Cafe tomorrow night, Thursday, February 19. This group held a meeting in Peachland last night, Tuesday, February 17, as reported below.

"Shut up—or get out!" that ultimatum was hurled, believe it or not, at a meeting of a supposedly democratic group, at BCFGGA executive member Eric Tait, when he attempted to ask questions at a meeting of the Okanagan-Kootenay Co-operative Growers Association held in Peachland last night.

Groundwork for that ultimatum was laid at the start of the meeting by Alf Biech, secretary and chief spokesman, of the group when he bluntly told some 40 Peachland and Westbank growers that "this is my meeting — we have no intention to debate anything — if you want to say anything go and hire your own hall."

Having thus made sure that his statements could not be questioned Mr. Biech took off for the stratosphere and indulged in a rapid-fire address in which he damned most everything that has been achieved by the growers through long and often painful years of constructive endeavor.

Chairman of the meeting was Charlie Hauser of Pentiction, but apart from calling the meeting to order Mr. Hauser left it to Alf.

Contended Mr. Biech the Sanford Evans report should be the basis of reform, not MacPhee report. The MacPhee report is so much brainwash — the Dean was hoodwinked — the report isn't worth anything. Growers shouldn't sign the three-party contract — they should be free to sell fruit to anyone. Mr. Biech did however concede that the wholesalers should be given first chance.

The audience was restless under the tirade — but Mr. Biech would not allow questions. He told Mr. Tait that he had no right at the meeting, that he didn't belong to the local and had not been invited.

A surprise speaker was Tommy Reece who said the grower didn't need to sell a single apple on the fresh fruit market that cider making could absorb the crop and should bring big returns to the grower.

Mr. Reece contended that a ton of apples produced $932 in cider at $4.00 a case and claimed that the grower wasn't getting a rightful share, at about $22 a ton for apples.

Mr. Reece did not figure out costs of transportation, of processing and manufacture, of bottling, and the cost of bottle and cartons and the costs of distribution and retailing.

Commented B. C. Tree Fruits Governor Jim Wells who attended the meeting: "It was all very edifying, every grower should listen to Mr. Biech just once, he would learn from Mr. Biech that he is stupid, gullible, incapable of thinking for himself and that only Mr. Biech and his handful of supporters and Mr. Sanford Evans of the famous and long discredited and very superficial report, know the answers!"

Show 'Pygmalion'

Shaw's "Pygmalion" is coming to Pentiction on February 25 sponsored by the Pentiction Rotary Club. "Pygmalion" the delightful story of a young Cockney flower girl who is turned into a graceful and cultivated lady by a professor of the English language, will be staged in the Pentiction High School Auditorium by the Canadian Players Ltd. of Stratford, Ont. Tickets are on sale in Pentiction at Knight's Pharmacy, the Pentiction Music Centre and the Harris Music Shop.

Basically Sound

So much has been spoken and written by experts, pro and con, regarding Premier W. A. C. Bennett's financial policy that we find ourselves hard put to separate the wheat from the chaff. Politics being politics one must, in the search for truth, discount much of the "sound and fury", both pro and con, in arriving at a conclusion. Consequently it is always gratifying to come across what is comment from a completely neutral, yet well-informed source, that sheds some light on the subject. Such a comment reached our desk this week, a newspaper column taken from the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, written by its political writer. The article, reprinted below, deals with Washington State's bonded indebtedness and its related problems. The striking thing about this article is that it substantiates to a high degree the arguments advanced by Premier Bennett for his financial policies. Perhaps the Opposition is right when it claims that Premier Bennett is juggling figures, perhaps the Opposition is right when it says the Premier is starving social and welfare services in his overriding determination to wipe out the province's direct debt. Perhaps the Premier is straining credulity with his bookkeeping claims, but we have long felt that the Premier's basic financial policy to retire the provincial direct debt, that is debt which is a first charge against tax revenue, as against self-liquidating debt, is a sound policy. The following comments on financial problems, aggravated by the weight of millions in tax revenue going to meet interest charges, certainly is a strong argument in favor of the financial policies of the B. C. Social Credit Government, even though there may be good grounds for criticism of some facets of its application. And now read an independent view:

(By Stub Nelson)
Seattle Post-Intelligencer
Political Writer

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan 3. One of the many financial problems facing the incoming Legislature which convenes here one week hence, is the fact that it will cost more than 30 million dollars to "service" the state's huge bonded indebtedness in 1959.

This directly affects the key general fund, which is grinding inexorably toward a record deficit.

Since 1949, authority to issue $436,400,000 in state tax supported bonds has been granted by the people in various elections and by the legislatures.

Not all the bonds authorized have been fully issued and some bonds have been retired during the past decade. But the bonded indebtedness today is in the neighborhood of $250,000,000.

The wholesale issuance of bonds for many state projects and buildings means, bluntly, that public officials have temporarily taken the easy way and postponed the day of reckoning.

Yet bond issues must inevitably be paid off.

And meanwhile there are terrific interest charges which cut into current revenue and reduce the money available for current operating expenses.

The nonpartisan fact finding Washington State Research Council has just released a comprehensive report on the state's tax supported bonded debt. Later the Council will make public a separate report on the non-tax supported bonds such as those under the jurisdiction of the State Toll Bridge Authority, the Capitol Building Committee and institutions of higher learning.

The report is timely, but it does not make for pleasant reading. The situation is serious and demands a long and careful look by all legislators.

The report states: 'From 1950 to 1958, the state's requirements to service its tax-supported bonded debt pyramided from $4,200,000 annually to $24,600,000. If currently unissued but authorized bonds are issued, the annual debt service will reach $33,100,000 in 1959, an increase figured by the Council at 688 percent above the 1950 level.

Estimated 1959 service requirement will be the equivalent of 7.7 per cent of the estimated state revenue—up from 2.1 per cent in 1950.'

The Council warned that it is an 'inescapable conclusion' that the state is 'rapidly exhausting its capacity to borrow money.'

Factors listed for that statement were explained as the increasing share of current revenue required for debt service, the state's inability to meet current expenses from current revenues as is evidenced by its substantial general fund deficit, the general opposition to increasing taxes and the restrictions upon use of other new major tax sources.

A rare treat is in store for members of South Okanagan Community Association when Lola Montes and her Spanish Dancers appear here on Thursday, February 19, at the High School Auditorium.

Headed by the lovely Lola, the company presents a wide range of authentic Latin dances, from lovely Spanish classical dances or the fiery Flamenco to traditional dances of the natives of many Latin countries in the New World.

Senorita Montes, although only in her early teens, burst upon the dance world when she made a sensational debut with Carmen Amaya and her celebrated dance company. She was immediately signed as a regular member of the troupe and toured Europe with mounting success for several seasons.

Talented in many directions, the brilliant dancer creates the choreography for many of her dance numbers.

ORCHARD RUN

by WALLY SMITH

TIME BRINGS CHANGES

Recent developments in the for ahead in this fruit growing processing industry go to show how difficult it is to see very business. Change and discovery are going on continuously and these can have a serious effect on the welfare of the man who grows fruit.

Some years ago the Jonathan was a popular and profitable apple and the valley did a brisk business with the United Kingdom. he overseas market, in fact, took most of the Jonathans grown in the Okanagan.

Came a change and the United Kingdom market dried up there was little sale for the variety in this country and the name Jonathan became closely associated with red ink in the fruit growers' ledger. Jonathan was taken off the recommended list and the growers were advised to replace the mwith a better paying variety.

That's just what a great many growers did, but now the picture is changin' again, and it looks as though the processing industry has found a definite place for the Jonathan and some other "off" varieties.

SAVE THAT TREE!

The life-saver for the grower who still has Jonathans may be the new apple cider industry. Half the juice used in the manufacture of cider is extracted from the Delicious variety. But Delicious juice alone is unsuitable; it must be blended with other varieties. The Jonathan has been found ideal for this purpose. Some other varieties may also be used.

These off variety trees are the processing industry needs them prompt action should be taken to save them.

The grower can't be expected to continue growing these varieties at a loss just for the fun of keeping the cider keg full. He should be able to sell these orchards direct from the orchard to the processing plant at a figure that will make it profitable.

Such a possibility was in mind when BCFGA delegates at the last convention passed as amended, resolution No. 27A. This provided that industry officials "... explore the advisability of direct shipment for that portion of the Duchess and Wealthy crop, and any further variety that B. C. Fruit Processors may require."

MORE TO COME

Who knows but what this may save the life of the Winesap grower, a few years hence? Presently enjoying a good sale on the into season fresh fruit market, the Winesap may be in danger of a squeeze at the tail end of the March to May market due to pressure from McIntosh, Spartan and other varieties kept in good condition by the now controlled atmosphere storage.

The Winesap rates high for juice blending. If it suffers from market squeeze the apple profitable diversion for a portion of the crop.

For The Scouts

It is that time of year again — this week Summerland residents will be receiving a letter in the mail, a letter they receive every year around this time, asking them to help keep the Scout movement in good financial health.

This is the annual appeal which serves to provide the finances required to operate the Scout movement from the top down, through national and provincial commands.

There is nothing new to be said for this cause. And year in and year out the Scouts themselves demonstrate their worthiness — your dollars, invested in the Scout Movement are dollars invested in the future of Canada, for they go to build good citizens.

Experiment With New Apple Stock

A Russian apple variety may play an important role in the development of a more winter-hardy Canadian apple tree. This is the conclusion of Canadian Department of Agricultural officials after 20 years' observation of the Antonovka variety at the Fredericton Experimental Farm.

Various test winters since 1938 have shown that Antonovka trees topworked to the varieties Bancroft, Edgar, Kendall, Linda Red Spy, and Sandow have done better than when the trees are grown on their own trunks.

Singleworked, or standard trees of Kendall, Linda, Red Spy, and Sandow practically all perished during a series of test winters, while doubleworked trees of the same varieties, while injured to some extent, largely recovered and bore good crops.

The Antonovka wood that makes up the trunks and lower portion of the scaffold branches was not injured.

Split-Level Pool for Backyard

LATEST FASHION NOTE in home swimming pools is this handsome "split-level" spa which is designed to fit into almost any backyard. Made of reinforced redwood, the Living Pool—so-called because "it grows with the family"—is built both above, and below the ground, and can accommodate itself to even rocky or slanting terrain. Generous California redwood flanking on all sides provides a family recreation area adaptable to sunbathing, outdoor barbecues, games, lounging, entertaining. High walls offer shy swimmers or portly papas the ultimate in backyard bathing. Locking doors and other special pool features insure maximum safety. A final touch, not shown here, is a plastic sun roof which will permit swimming in any kind of weather. This newest Esther Williams pool is modestly priced for the average-income family.

Chautauque Reports

Talks by Horticulturists of the B. C. and Canada Departments of Agriculture covered a wide range of subjects at the growers Chautauque, held here last month.

Frank Morton, District Horticulturist, Kelowna, reviewed the progress being made in converting to bulk handling of fruit. He estimated that the present number of bins in use and on order, if used three times in 1959 could handle 4.5 million bushels of fruit. Mr. Morton showed slides covering all phases of bulk handling. He stressed that it was not necessary for the grower to make big outlay for lift equipment. A simple fork lift attachment costing less than one hundred dollars was all the grower needed. Various commercial haulers could handle the loading of bins on to trucks leaving the grower free to work in his orchard.

An interesting development was an experimental shipment of apples to Britain in bins. These apples were checked by the head fruit inspector, Mr. Lee, on their arrival in the U.K.

A prototype collapsible bin is now in existence which could be folded flat and returned to point of origin.

Charles Lapins, Pomologist, at Summerland Experimental Farm, dealt with the question, Dwarf, Semi-dwarf, or Standard trees?

Mr. Lapins stressed the importance of realizing and recognizing the great differences which exist between various rootstocks.

The dwarf and semi-dwarf types of Malling Rootstock 1X, IV and V11 are sensitive to soil and must be planted in good fertile soils, he pointed out. These types of trees will not stand competition from old trees and should not be planted in old blocks. These types also required clean cultivation or mulching and would not well if left in permanent grass sod. Malling 1X and IV definitely require support and occasionally Malling V11. None of the Malling stocks are frost hardy. A newer series of dwarfing stocks is now being introduced called the Malling-Merton series. These stocks are generally better anchored and may be harder than the old Malling roots. Of these, MM 100 is semi-dwarf and MM 104, FF100 and MF111 are semi-standard trees, similar to EM 11.

To get around the problem of poor anchorage and still have a semi-dwarf tree, the Pomologists have developed the stump-piece or interstock tree. This consisted of a standard root with a piece of dwarfing stock grafted on it and the variety grafted on that. In this way the advantages of a strong root could be retained while still having a semi-dwarf tree. An example of this is Clark Dwarf which is actually Malling 8 inserted as a stem piece.

Mr. Lapins compared estimated yields on standard seedling trees. In the first 20 years the cumulative yields per acre on EM 1X and EM 11 greatly exceeded the yield on standard trees. Number of trees per acre was: standard 48; EM 11, 70; EM 1X, 360.

A. W. Watt, District Horticulturist, Summerland, dealt with Cultural Methods in Orchards. He emphasized the importance of applying the right amount of fertilizer to trees. The amount of lateral terminal growth put on each year is a reliable guide to fertilizer quantity. On apples, pears and cherries this should be 10-12 inches and on peaches and apricots, 18-20 inches. Late fall is the best time to apply fertilizer and failing that very early spring.

A relatively high level of nitrogen is required for tree growth and fruit set early in the spring, but the level should be low in the fall. Any excess amount of nitrogen in the fall will interfere with coloring and prevent the tree from going into dormancy. Some growers who use minor elements have been able to cut down on the nitrogen. Growers should be sure and watch this.

Mr. Watt pointed out that allowing a grass cover crop or sod to grow up undisturbed except for mowing was a very effective way of using up excess nitrogen in the late summer. Avoidance of summer cultivation also helps in this respect.

Mr. Watt developed a comparison between permanent grass cover crop and clean cultivation. This showed the permanent sod to be superior in many respects, such as level of organic matter, erosion control, convenience, winter protection and dormancy of trees.

In connection with young trees, Mr. Watt stated that although clean cultivation was recommended for good growth, it should be ceased in mid-summer otherwise trees would fall to go dormant in time.

Various crop cover systems are suited to different situations. For mature red apples, grass sod, with summer mowing was suggested. The log urnes, such as alfalfa and the clovers are best suited to young orchards where there is more light to get them established. Alfalfa is good for opening up an old orchard soil and restoring fertility, but old trees must be removed first, Mr. Watt stated.

During the afternoon session M. P. D. Trumppour, District Horticulturist, Penticton, dealt with the changes in the insect control sprays on the 1959 spray calendar. D. A. Allan, District Horticulturist, of Oliver, dealt with the disease control angle and changes in spray recommendations for disease control.

Turbett-Wright Rites Held

Audrey Jane Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Wright and Charles Hugh Turbett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Royston Turbett of Lilyfield, Winnipeg Manitoba, were married on Saturday, February 7 at 7 p. m. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Gordon Walker in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Winnipeg which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with brown and white chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of ice blue brocade nylon sheer, the bodice fashioned with sweetheart neckline outlined with crystal and pearl embroidery, the skirt, over crinoline, featured a pleated panel flowing to a short train. Her finger tip illusion veil was held by a coronet incrustated with sequins and pearls, at her throat she wore beautiful pearls, the gift of the groom, and carried a cascade of fashion rose buds and white carnations.

Bridal attendants, Miss Olga Billyk of Winnipeg and Miss Sharon Locke of Kelowna, a neice of the bride were dressed alike in gowns of orange ice crystal charm, designed with draped bodice and waltz length circular skirts over crinolines. Their headdresses were of matching tulle, with circulets of velvet bows and they carried heart shaped bouquets of white carnations.

Mr. Jack Rocky of Carman was best man and Mr. Keith Ryan was usher. The Rev. Mr. Walker proposed the bridal toast at the reception.

The bride's going away costume was a dress and jacket of natural shade heavy raw silk, with which she wore a pink rose corsage. Her close fitting hat was of shell design in tones of natural through yellow to bronze. Blonde accessories and brown shoes completed her ensemble.

After a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Turbett will live at their new home in Lilyfield, Manitoba.

Larry Young, skipper of the Summerland Legion sponsored Pee Wee hockey team, receives the magnificent trophy, emblematic of Okanagan Pee Wee hockey supremacy, from Art Fisher of Penticton, a man who has done more to organize and maintain minor hockey than perhaps any other in the valley. "You have a right to be proud of your team," said Mr. Fisher. "They are a fine bunch of young athletes."

Legion Pee Wees Win Okanagan Valley Title

Summerland has a championship hockey team, not a team of high-priced talent drawn from here, there and everywhere, but a team of home brews, they might be called the first fruits of the community policy which saw the Memorial Arena built and artificial ice installed.

The team is the Legion sponsored Pee Wees who on Sunday before a handful of fans, very decisively defeated Vernon 6-3 to cop a total goals, two game series, by the count of 10-5.

On Saturday the Legion Pee Wees, smart as whips in their patty dark blue uniforms, and coached by Bill Chapman under the managerial eye of John Selinger, took a two goal lead in the series against Vernon and on Sunday here they turned on the heat to win the proud title of Pee Wee Okanagan champions. Now, the local champs will play Kamloops for the Okanagan-Mainline title, first game at Kamloops on Saturday return game likely here on Sunday, March 7.

Goal scorers here Sunday were Anderson who went berserk to run in four goals. He and McAdam made a deadly combination with McAdam slipping them across for Anderson to plug home. McAdam picked up a goal and three assists. Selinger and Biagoni teamed up for three goals, Selinger scoring two and one assist with Biagoni scoring one and getting two assists. Beggs and Young were also credited with assists. Vernon put up a spirited battle but the Summerland defence and Summerland net minder, Clinton Skinner, didn't give them any leeway, although Vernon led in the first period 2-1.

Civil Defence Course Starts Here Next Week

The Summerland Branch of the Civil Defence organization under the command of Ivan E. Phillips send out an earnest appeal to the public to enrol. A complete St. John Ambulance first aid course is being offered at no cost to those taking part.

The course commences on Thursday, March 5, at 8 p.m. in the basement of the Municipal Hall, and will be conducted by Mrs. Eric Smith, R.N.

This appeal is directed to every responsible citizen who is interested in learning how to help in time of emergency. Quite apart from the fact that those who enrol will acquire a very useful knowledge which can be applied in their every day lives, they will become an asset to their families and community in times of distress.

Nurse Smith, who has just completed the Civil Defence Orientation Course for graduate nurses, states that no one will be tied down to tedious exercises but will receive a very thorough and useful training, so that in time of emergency they can be located and their knowledge put to its best use where it is needed most.

Your Civil Defence Officer urges everyone to 'Be Prepared'. To enrol, phone Mrs. E. Smith 3634 or Ivan Phillips 4747.

The Chanticleers, above, best-loved and liveliest of American concert Quartet, will be the next attraction, number two, in current Overture Concert series. The famed vocal group now in its sixth season of existence and making its third consecutive coast-to-coast tour. It will be at the Summerland High school auditorium in this city on Friday, March 6.

What The Grower Built Some Would Tear Down

(By Sid Godber,

A Would-be growers Moses, anxious and willing to lead the fruit growers out of their bondage to the organizations that the growers, themselves, have built up over the years, appeared in Summerland last Thursday night in the person of Alf Beich, secretary-manager of the Okanagan-Kootenay Co-operative Growers association. Mr. Beich put on a colorful one-man show, protested that he allowed freedom of speech at his meetings, then denied the Summerland Review story of last week, which headlined the fact that "Growers could listen to Mr. Beich, but could not talk back". Mr. Beich later admitted to this reporter that he did tell BCFGA executive member Eric Tait to 'shut up or get out'. Mr. Beich also went to great pains last Thursday to bolster his right to muzzle questioning. "If you want to talk," he told Mr Tait and Jim Wells, a member of the B. C. Tree Fruit Board of Governors, "go and hire your own hall." Then he went on to elaborate with a sum on the blackboard to illustrate that with over 3'000 growers paying in $13 a year the BCFGA had plenty of money to hire their own halls.

This kind of repartee went over big with most of the 47 attending the meeting and must be recorded that Mr. Beich won a clear cut victory over Mr. Tait and Mr. Wells in the matter of slick comebacks, but still questions were not answered for the simple reason that they were smothered by Mr. Beich's clever technique of hectoring and smart alecky quips of the demagogue. But it was clever and Mr. Beich undoubtedly carried most of the audience with him.

A good question that could and should have been asked, that I believe would have been revealing was: How many of those present were men who make their living entirely out of fruit growing and how many could be classified as good growers, producing good quality fruit?

At this point, to avoid any misunderstanding, I am on record as being competely and utterly opposed to Mr. Beich and his organization.

One thing I will grant and that is that Mr. Beich is a sincere man, a dedicated man, and it is those two factors more so than anything else which makes Mr. Beich dangerous to the well-being of the growers.

"Compulsion," screams Mr. Beich at his meetings — "compulsion" — but Mr. Beich when attacking the three-party contract as complete surrender to the B.C.F.G.A. and the various legislature controls, neglects to explain that the growers themselves asked for controls in their own interests, and that the majority support them. There is compulsion, no one can deny there isn't, but that compulsion is at the wish and the request of the majority of the grower body. Mr. Beich, in his screaming against compulsion neglects to point out that the compulsion exercised in the fruit business is no more than compulsion exercised in laws and regulations governing everyday life, laws and regulations which must be obeyed in the best interests of the majority — laws and regulations, without which, there would be anarchy. And what Mr. Beich is preaching spells anarchy for the fruit industry.

This reporter, incidentally, is taking a leaf out of Mr. Beich's own book. "This happens to be my paper, and so I'm talking back."

Early on Mr. Beich tangled with Hans Stoll and in the exchange the MacPhee report was branded by Mr. Beich as valueless. At one point Mr. Stoll

High School Thespians Score With Comedy

Miss Hazel Merritt, R. N. Baptist Missionary on furlough from Bolivia, will be the speaker at the West Summerland Baptist Church on Friday, of this week, February 27, at 8 p. m. Miss Merritt will be showing colored slides on Bolivia. She will also display many curios from that country. Miss Merritt is a very fine speaker. Everyone is cordially invited. A fellowship gathering at which refreshments will be served following the meeting.

A capacity house thoroughly enjoyed "Cheaper by the Dozen" presented by the Summerland High School Drama Club on Friday night.

The curtain rose on an excellent set of the period 1920, complete with floral wallpaper, overstuffed furniture and the inevitable picture of "The Boyhood of Raleigh."

The large cast created a delightful picture of a big happy family. What they lacked in experience and acting ability they made up in enthusiasm.

There were several high spots I particularly liked the eldest daughter's telephone conversation with her first date, assisted by the family.

It was difficult to single out individuals, though I would like to mention the quiet, sincere performance of Mother (Magda Wouters). Her make-up too, was excellent.

Father (John Woolliams) gave a clear, robust portrayal of the super-efficient Mr. Gilbreth.

The general costume and make-up was very good indeed, particularly in the characters of the Doctor, Miss Brill, Cook and the Cheerleader. The Prompter was, happily, out of a job.

I found the attack a little slow in places, but the crisp picking up of cues is a very difficult thing to accomplish in such a large cast of teenagers.

I would like to give a very special word of praise to the directors. The grouping, movement and audibility of this big cast was quite an achievement. Teenagers are not the easiest material to work with, but the final result on Friday night must have been a rewarding experience to Mr. Loan and Mr. Warren.

I would like to see a little more use made of the sound equipment. An audience should never be left in a silent theatre. It is so easy, with the hundreds of suitable recordings available, to first create the appropriate atmosphere and then maintain it during the intermission. A curtain should rise on a musical fade-out, and fall on a swelling of the theme.

In conclusion, may I say "Thank You" for a most enjoyable evening.

Jim Onley.

CALL GENERAL MEETING

Directors of the Summerland Co-operative Growers' Association have cancelled a meeting called for this week to call a general meeting.

asked, are you calling the man (MacPhee) a liar?

"Yes", fired back Beich, then he qualified this by saying that Dean MacPhee had said things in there, pounding the report, about his organization that had not been said, at least he had not told him and he had not heard anyone else.

The MacPhee report was almost contemptuously dismissed by Mr. Beich who preferred to go back into the dusty past and he ricocheted from the Evans Duncan and McGregor reports, reports that had long ago had their day and which received the same consideration by the industry as is now being given to the MacPhee report.

The Oliver grower went on to paint a picture of grower freedom in which apparently the Okanagan fruit grower would be converted into road-stand peddlers of fruit. There would be freedom to sell, not one box or two, but any amount of boxes, the entire population of the metropolitan mainland would come out to the Okanagan, the wicked wholesaler would apparently starve from lack of commodities to wholesale, while the grower would wax fat on good returns.

Mr. Beich also advocated the setting up of an opposition group, his own, to the BCFGA. Every grower would have a ballot — every grower would have a choice of candidates, put up for the respective offices by the BCFGA and the Opposition.

This being a case of a boring from without after years of boring from within.

The question that any thinking grower must ask himself is Why, if what Alf Beich stands for, makes sense, has he not in many years of agitation been able to gain ground for his beliefs through the democratic channels provided by the growers' organization.

Are the men who are elected by the growers at the BCFGA locals' levels to represent them at the annual BCFGA convention all villains or fools? Is the organization, rounded by a man, Dean MacPhee, who is a solid free enterpriser, after two years of thorough investigation, to be basically suited to the needs of the industry, to be destroyed?

These are questions growers will have to decide for themselves.

P-TA To Discuss School Uniforms

School uniforms will be the subject of discussion at the next regular meeting of the Summerland P-TA to be held next Thursday, March 5. The subject promises to spark a lively discussion as several students will air their views on what is one of the most controversial issues of school life.

Pruning Bud damaged Peaches and Apricots

How to prune apricots and peaches which were bud damaged in early January? This is a question going the rounds these days.

First of all let's look at the damage. In Summerland the Moorpark apricot is pretty badly thinned down. In many blocks there is less than a crop left. This applies to Perfection also. Tiltons are somewhat better and a crop is still expected from this variety.

In general the peach crop is still intact though most places have had some help on their thinning. Peaches in cold spots at higher levels may have less than a crop.

In all this there is great variability. It is highly likely, for instance, that orchards of Wenatchee Moorpark with full crops may show up when the buds begin to really swell and a general survey can be made.

What to do about pruning? The experience of past freezes should be kept in mind. With stone fruits, omitting the pruning or drastically reducing it nearly always causes trouble the following season. Peaches and apricots which go unpruned for a year fail to put on satisfactory new growth for next year—become dense in the tops and tend to fruit only in tops the following year. This increases the height of the bearing surface and turns a young convenient sized tree into a tall old tree.

It is necessary, therefore, to give the stone fruit tree a moderate amount of pruning every year. Can this be done and still leave the maximum possible number of buds for a crop on damaged trees? The following modifications to the pruning program should help:

1. When in doubt delay the pruning until the buds have swelled sufficiently to see the potential at a glance.

2. If the number of live buds left is less than 25 percent on apricots pruning can usually be modified to favor those areas of the tree where the most live buds are located. For example on apricots live buds can often be found at the younger end of the two-year-old wood or spurs. In this case the pruner should pay attention to cutting out spurs and trying to stimulate growth further back in the tree. He could leave more of the new wood in.

3. Very careful judgment should be used in pruning each individual tree. For example there are many older apricot trees which grew very little last year and which have practically no live fruit buds. What crop they have will amount to a bushel or so. Leaving those trees unpruned in the hope of getting more fruit this year would be most unwise. The thing to do with these trees is to give them a thorough pruning, making plenty of cuts well distributed over the tree. This will stimulate new growth and provide bearing wood for the future.

4. In the main peaches are not sufficiently thinned down to warrant any modification of pruning and should be pruned normally. Where the buds are badly thinned out (less than 10 percent alive) the pruner should leave rather more of the pencil sized wood than usual. This amounts to doing most of the work with the long-handled shears and very little with the snips.

5. Finally, in the cases where there is no worthwhile crop left the pruner would be wise to prune thoroughly in order to induce growth and fruiting wood for the following year.

Small Grower Can Help Himself

On January 20, little more than a month ago, the Canadian Legion Hall at Vernon was shaken to its very foundations by the thunderous applause of a packed-to-capacity audience, who for three hours had listened with concentrated attention to a quiet-spoken man whose name has become a household word in the fruit industry, the man, Dean E. D. MacPhee, whose monumental report compiled from the probings of two years into the very vitals of the fruit industry, is still very much current reading in the Okanagan.

But, despite that standing and thunderous ovation which Dean MacPhee received from delegates and others attending the BCFG convention, the Dean is by no means every grower's darling.

Particularly disgruntled are the small orchardists, particularly those with five acres and less. Many of them believe that in his Royal Commission report, the Dean slammed the door on their operation.

We don't agree with this conclusion. True Dean MacPhee refuses to approve of assistance from the public purse for what he is convinced are uneconomic units -- likewise, he does not approve of assistance from the public purse for operators large or small who are not good managers and good growers.

But growers in those categories cannot, in reason, expect such assistance. No one has the right to expect government to throw good public money, derived mostly from across the board taxation, after bad.

But Dean MacPhee doesn't suggest that the small operator should throw up the sponge. What the Dean does say bluntly and plainly is —that the small grower cannot hope now, or in the foreseeable future, to be able to live off a small acreage.

But we are confident that no one would be more delighted than the Dean if the small growers got together, grouped their holdings, pooled their machinery and, in effect, created big orchard operations out of many little ones.

It surely didn't require the MacPhee report to open the small grower's eyes to the fact that he wasn't making a living from his holding, but judging by what we hear, the small grower and, for that matter, plenty of bigger ones are disappointed, not with the Dean telling them what they already knew, but because he did not come up with a scapegoat.

The smaller grower can, if so minded, increase his orchard earnings by reducing his costs, costs can be reduced by pooling machinery and labor with other nearby small growers. There is nothing, for example, to prevent the setting up, right here in Summerland, of a machinery pool, the machines to be leased out.

The small grower cannot, regardless of what he does, expect to make a full living and a full life out of his small acreage, but by pooling machinery and labor, by improving the strains, and by standing solidly behind the recommendations of the MacPhee report and seeing to it that they are implemented, a small grower could earn for himself bigger dividends than he is now getting from his orchard.

In actual fact the MacPhee report and the MacPhee recommendations should be looked upon by growers large and small as a foundation from which they can rebuild their industry.

Conflicting Events

Summerland's very aliveness often compels conflict of events, but we think that some effort should be made to ensure that as far as is possible, these conflicts of events are avoided.

Last Friday, just as one example of many, there was the annual pot-luck supper and annual meeting of the Summerland Credit Union, and this event, which took more than 130 Summerland folk out of circulation for some hours, conflicted with the presentation of the High School Drama Club's "Cheaper By The Dozen."

It is reasonable to assume that both events would have had better attendance had they not fallen on the same evening.

What is required is for some individual, or organization, to volunteer for the onerous task of setting up a clearing house. Organizations would list their events with this clearing house and we can hope that an unwritten law would prevail, decreeing that the first to register had priority on the date.

Not all conflicts could be avoided and there are numerous events that are not affected by other affairs being held simultaneously, but where some event has a wide appeal, such as the school play, every effort should be made to avoid competition for attendance.

But to do this it is necessary that organizations know what is coming up and the only way this can be achieved is by having a clearing house. Success of such a system would, of course, depend upon how religiously the various organizations listed the dates of their coming events and also on the willingness of all concerned to abide by the simple rule of first come, first served, unless, of course, the clearing house could arrange a switch.

Golden Anniversary of Powered Flight in Canada

Fifty years ago, on February 23, J. A. D. McCurdy flew his Silver Dart (inset) at Baddeck, N.S., marking the first powered flight in Canada. Since that historic event, development in aviation has taken tremendous strides. Another milestone will be reached later this year when Trans-Canada Air Lines takes delivery of the first of its six huge DC-8 Jetliners which will fly at 650 miles an hour and carry 127 passengers. Mr. McCurdy will be taking part in many of the Golden Anniversary celebrations throughout Canada this year.

NO FAIRY GODMOTHERS NEED APPLY FOR THE JOB!

Everyone has his own special dream — a place in the country, a trip back home, college for the boy. But, for many people it's just plain hopeless

But there's no magic involved to make your particular dream come true. You don't need a fairy godmother to do it — just a little determination.

Simply plan to set aside part of your income in a Bank of Montreal savings account. Do it regularly, and watch the balance grow. Watch the B of M's two and three-quarters per cent interest help swell the amount too.

Regularity is the secret, as hundreds of thousands of the B of M's more than two million customers know. They save as much as they can spare each pay-day, and their dreams are turning into reality.

Ask Earl Smith, accountant at the Summerland branch of the Bank of Montreal about it. He'll show you how easy it is — and how profitable — to open a savings account. See him soon!

United Church Women's Federation

Regular meeting of the Summerland United Church Women's Federation was held last Thursday with 25 members and one visitor in attendance and welcomed by Mrs. M. Babcock. President Mrs. J. Dunsdon opened the program by singing "Lead Kindly Light" a favorite hymn of Mrs. Alderson.

The devotional service was arranged by Mrs. M. Pollock. Mrs. A. McLaughlin read chapter 13, First Corinthians and Mrs. J. Steeds read a splendidly written article on the devotional theme "Charity which is love". Mrs. J. Clark closed the service with prayer.

It was decided to give $10 to the board of stewards to help toward the cost of painting the church hall and eight dollars, the federation's portion, be given to the Indian hospital fund. This is the fund sponsored by women's organizations from several of the churches in Summerland.

The secretary, Mrs. A. C. Fleming gave a resume of the conveners' reports for 1958 and the "thank you" cards and letters were read.

The convener of supplies, Mrs. W. Ward, reported a number of articles on hand for the Korean Parcel. She was instructed to buy material to line the two quilt tops she had on hand.

Funds raised by the sale of special dainties at each meeting and intended to be spent on the church kitchen will be given to the friendship convener to be used for cards and small gifts for sick and shut-in members.

Mrs. Fleming read a most interesting and informative letter from the federation's Prayer partner Miss Elsie Bunner, missionary to Northern Rhodesia. She told of the extremely difficult situations in which the missionary is placed as a result of social differences created by the "color line" and racial discrimination.

Mrs. Babcock was asked to be a delegate to the W.M.S. Presbyterian to be held in Kelowna, February 24 and 25.

Mrs. J. Lazenby, Mrs. H. B. Mair and Mrs. C. Richmond gave interesting papers on the year's study subject, "Concerning our Neighbors." The neighbors under study this month were the people of the Caribbean Islands from the Bahamas to Trinidad. Again social discrimination and government by the majority are the burning questions of the day in these Islands where colored people predominate.

Members were reminded by the president of the spring bazaar and tea on April 4.

Tea was served at adjournment by Mrs. H. Dracas and Mrs. Babcock.

Helen Joyce Dunsdon Becomes Soldier's Bride

The sun shone brightly in Calgary at 3:30 p. m. on Friday February 20th, as Helen Joyce, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Dunsdon, West Summerland, exchanged marriage vows with Frederick Wellington Armitage of the Queen's Own Rifles. The ceremony was performed by Padre Horne in St. George's Chapel at Currie Barracks.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride's bouquet of red roses with shower of tiny rosebuds contrasted with the white of her floor length wedding gown. A lace jacket was worn over the dress, which was fashioned from lace over satin, with a long, form fitting bodice and featured a full flaring skirt of white net. She wore her mother's bridal veil and headpiece.

Attending her sister as Maid of Honor, Alice Dunsdon wore a full skirted dress of blue net posed over taffeta and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

As Bridesmaid, Miss Lorna Nelson of Calgary wore a similar dress in green and carried white carnations. Both wore flowered headdress, matching their costumes.

Pte. Clark Hall supported the groom and the ushers were Mr. Leonard Belanger and Mr. Jack Green.

A small family reception was held at 1722-12th Ave., and a buffet supper was served from the table centered by a three tiered wedding cake. The cake was topped by the decorations from the Golden Wedding cake of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Boviar, who celebrated their 50th Anniversary last year.

After a honeymoon at Banff, Pca and Mrs. Armitage will take up residence at 1722-12th Ave., Calgary.

Comings & Goings

Miss Eileen Arndt left last week for California with her brother, Herb. They were accompanied by Mr. Robert Towgood.

Dr. and Mrs. M. Welsh had as their guest for the weekend Mr. Wm. Mann of Vancouver.

Miss Wilma Rabel is on a holiday for two weeks, visiting relatives in Camrose, Alberta.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Smith were in Vancouver recently, where they attended the Boat Show.

Miss Elizabeth Edwards was presented with a wooden sandwhich plate, a product of the Okanagan Valley, by a few friends and co-workers at the Summerland Research Centre, when she was entertained at a "no host" dinner at the Hotel Prince Charles, prior to her departure for the east. Those attending were Miss Jean Zimmerman, Mrs. W. Setter, Mrs. J. Wilcox, Mrs. George Ryman, Mrs. McDonald, Miss Dorothy Britton, Mrs. C. Bishop, Mrs. Ruth Stoney, Mrs. Jean Eddie and Mrs. Emily Cockell.

Flt. Lieut. George Young, PCAF Station, Cambridge Bay, NWT., has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Y. Towgood.

Comings & Goings

Miss Doreen Tait, Vice-President of the Summerland Branch of the Red Cross, left Monday to attend as delegate from this community the Annual Convention of the Canadian Red Cross, meetings being held in the Hotel Vancouver February 24 - 25.

Visiting at the home of Mrs. T. A. Walden last week were her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Nesbitt. Also visiting over the weekend were her granddaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Don Fisher, all of Kamloops.

Mr. and Mrs. McNab, of the Okanagan Village Auto Court have returned home after spending several weeks in Ottawa.

Summerl'd Credit Union Makes Big Strides In '58

Summerland's Credit Union continues to grow, both in membership and assets. This was reported to the annual meeting which followed hard on the annual Pot-luck supper at which 130 sat down.

Following a successful pot-luck supper, President of the Board of Directors F. R. Ganzeveld, introduced the visiting officials from neighboring Credit Unions, J. Blogg, President of Keremeos Credit Union and President of the Southern Interior Chapter Area H. J. Purdue, President, Lloyd Read, Treasurer, and J. L. Bowering, a director, all of the Penticton Credit Union.

Evidence of the phenomenal growth is in the 260 new members enrolled last year. The directors' and manager's reports showed a total membership, at the end of 1958, of 1,929 with a share investment increase of 12%, a chequing account increase of 37%, and total assets of $1,133,000, an increase of 8%. The Endowment Policy plan, which provides members up to age 55 with $4,000.00 life insurance, was responsible for some increased interest.

The directors' recommendation of 3 1/2% dividend on shares (an increase of 1/2 of 1%) was approved by the meeting.

Three hundred and eighty six loans to the value of $336,475., were made last year, a sharp increase over 1947 of more than $25,000.

First education bursary of $100 inaugurated last year to assist a student member in furthering his or education on graduation from high school, was awarded to Miss Kathleen Greenslade, who is now taking teacher training.

It was also reported that a Savings Club, started at Trout Creek with Mrs. Philp Munro, treasurer, has a membership of 30.

During the election of officers J. M. MacArthur gave a very interesting talk on the history and growth of our Credit Union since Mel Munro first started it in 1944. The charts and graphs used by Dr. MacArthur to illustrate his talk, showed that the building of our own office and the introduction of the chequing service, had resulted in a notable increase in assets and business.

New president is J. Litchenwald succeeding F. R. "Tiny" Ganzeveld, who held the position two years. Other officers are L. W. Shannon and directors are Dr. J. L. Mason, Dr. J. M. McArthur, W. E. Gallop and E. F. Weeks.

Credit committee is composed of G. R. Beggs, Herb Lemke and E. F. Smith.

Supervisory committee consists of K. O. Lapins, elected for a three year term, Ken Hickson for a two year term. Other supervisory committee members are Ken Williams, Ian McCuaig and Walter M. Wright, a veteran of the Credit Union movement in Summerland.

Education Committee: Harry Hackman, Miss Doreen Tait, Mrs. L. W. Shannon, Charles Miller and J. Prior.

W. Bleasdale reported on the work of the Credit Union League, B.C. Central Credit Union and the C. U. & C. Health Services Society, which latter provides members with an excellent coverage for medical expenses.

Brownies Enjoy Birthday Party

A most enjoyable birthday party meeting was held on Thursday by the Brownies in memory of Lord Baden-Powell. In this special Thinking Day ceremony the Brownies had as their guest the Divisional Commissioner, Mrs. B. Blagborne, the District Captain, Mrs. A. Fenwick, and the Brownies Fairy Godmother, Mrs. Wm. Durick.

The Brownies, representing all the Brownies in countries of the world, lighted the candles on the special birthday cake, decorated with the Guide World Flag. Mrs. Blagborne then cut the cake assisted by the two youngest Brownies and made a special wish for Guiding. The cake was then enjoyed by all.

After a delightful story by Mrs. Durick and a few words from Mrs. Fenwick the Brownies each added their link in the World Chain. The World Friendship fund was collected.

A "coat hanger" blitz will be held this Saturday morning, so if anyone has any spare coat hangers the Brownies will call for them.

Pensioners

The Old Age Pensioners held their monthly meeting in the Oddfellows Hall on, February 17 at 2 p.m. Thirty-one members were present. President Glen opened the meeting with "O Canada". Secretary D. Taylor read the minutes of the previous meeting, and Treasurer Macdougald gave the financial report. A letter was read from the secretary of the B.C. Provincial Council of what takes place in other clubs in the province. A short discussion followed about the funds of the club. As the Oddfellows Lodge allows the pensioners free use of the hall for meetings a motion was passed to send the Lodge a letter of appreciation for their kindness.

Four new members joined up. Happy birthday was sung for one member. Mrs. Bancroft played the music for the meeting.

After God Save the Queen, Mr. N. Solly gave a talk on rules and ways to run an airplane, then showed aerial photos of a trip he made last summer to northern parts of B.C.

A splendid lunch was given by four ladies of the Kiwanis Club, Mrs. Solly, Mrs. Ritchie, Mrs. Alstead and Mrs. Henkes.

A hearty vote of thanks was given the ladies and Mr. Solly for the entertainment.

PREMIER BENNETT RIGHT ON B.C. FINANCES...

The independent firm of Wood Gundy & Company Limited has just released its annual booklet, "Canadian Government and Municipal Financial Statistics," in which the net debt position of the ten Canadian Provinces is summarized.

Prepared from the latest reports of the governments concerned," the figures prove conclusively that the method used by the Government of the Province of British Columbia to compute its Net Public Debt is the same as that used by all other Provinces of Canada.

The figures below are taken from the Wood Gundy report. They show a comparison of the Net Public Debt of the Province of British Columbia with that of the Province of Ontario over the past ten years; also figures pertaining to the B.C. Power Commission and the Ontario Hydro Commission.

Growers Warned To Guard Against "Vertical Integration"

(By Wally Smith)

NEW THREAT
This vertical integration thing is shaping up as a serious threat to the welfare and traditional independence of the man who farms for a living.

Vertical integration (or contract farming) is the tool of Big Business, which is getting bigger and stronger at the expense of the small business operator, and that certainly includes the man who operates a family farm.

Big Business today is in a dominating position in many lines, including food store business. It is said that more than 80 percent of retail food sales in the United States and Canada are supplied through large and small chain stores, with the big chains getting control all the time.

The big chains are not just retailers; they are also wholesalers and even reach right back to the factory and farm production of some food items sold through their retail stores.

ASSURANCE OF SUPPLY

The old method of buying carloads of fruit, vegetables, eggs and so forth on the auction market, with its widely fluctuating quality and prices, is not good enough for these highly efficient business corporations.

It is only natural that they should look at vertical integration as a means of assuring a continuing supply of good quality farm produce. They know approximately how much farm produce their stores are going to sell during the next 12 months, so to be sure to get the quality and quantity they, or their subsidiaries, make contracts with the farmer for a specified quantity of eggs, broilers, hogs, fruits, vegetables etc. Usually, the price is the market price at time of delivery or a fraction higher.

If the farmer is a small operator and cannot finance the production of, say, 50,000 broilers, the integrator (the feed supply company, of the big chain) will set him up in business by erecting buildings, supplying baby chicks, feed and expert direction to ensure quality.

Thus the farmer is reduced to nothing better than a hired hand on his own farm, with the integrator giving the orders.

Of course the farmer has a guaranteed market for his produce, and in spite of his big added load of debt he may, for a while, make a little more money this way than he would operating on his own in a small way, but not for long.

MARKET GLUT

What happens to the farmers who stayed out of this integration deal, but continued to produce, or perhaps increased their production of hogs, eggs, etc. what have they? Who is going to buy their produce? Certainly not the big chains, who sell more than 80 per cent of all food purchased by the nation, for -remember- they have already arranged for their supplies by contracting with a dozen little farmers down the road and converted them into big operators.

With only 20 per cent of the market left for them and a big surplus of farm produce to dispose of, the independent producers are forced to sell at whatever figure they can get. Market prices fall for the independent farmer, and the contract farmer gets the low price too.

At Vancouver last fall, broiler prices dropped to a figure below cost of production when big shipments were brought in from the southern United States where vertical integration had resulted in huge surpluses.

The public got the benefit of the low prices, the chains made their profit, and the producer took a beating.

Naturally you couldn't expect anything else from vertical integration. A lot of small producers are converted into a lot of large producers (incidentally with a large mortgage hanging around their necks, and quite naturally the result is a big surplus and low prices. It may work for a year or two, but the ultimate end is bound to be bad for the farmer.

UNITY NEEDED

Vertical integration is here now with all the cold-blooded efficiency of big business. It hasn't reached the fruit business yet, so far as we know, but it will. There doesn't seem to be anything to stop it except farmer co-operation. Big business is organized on one side the farmers will have to organize on the other.

Okanagan fruit growers are in an excellent bargaining position to deal with the threat of vertical integration. Their one desk marketing system handles more than five million boxes of apples a year and a lesser quantity of other fruits.

Over the one desk they can supply the buyer, be he big chain or small wholesaler, with quantity and quality throughout the season.

That's exactly what the big chains want. It's when they can't get that kind of deal that they go in for vertical integration.

DIVIDE AND FAIL
It is unfortunate, therefore to see at this time a group of dissident growers called the Okanagan-Kootenay Co-operators' Association lining up in opposition to the BCFGA and

B. C. Tree Fruits Ltd., campaigning against the signing of the new contract, and attempting to discredit Dean E. D. MacPhee and his Royal Commission report on the B. C. fruit industry.

Growers are bound to have some differences of opinion as to detail or procedure, but if ever there was a time when they should stick together on over-all general principles that time is right now.

If they don't stick together they may have to go it alone and the go-it-alone system was a flop years ago and it's not working worth a hoot in Eastern Canada or the U. S. A. now.

Labor is organized and puts up a united front under the union banner; manufacturers and wholesalers have their associations and combines, the fruit growers will have to do likewise or they'll be tossed to the wolves.

Horticultural Society Ends Parlor Shows

The Summerland Horticultural Society held its regular meeting on Friday last. Suggestions for future meetings were discussed. Members were asked to bring cuttings of house plants to the March meeting to exchange. These will be grown and then brought to a later meeting, possibly in November, to make a display.

It was also suggested that members bring gardening books and magazines to lend or exchange.

In the parlor show, judged by Mrs. H. Whitaker and Nat May, the winners were:

Class 1. Pot of flowering bulbs
1. D. Tait;

Class 2: Miniature arrangement
1. Mrs. E. C. Bingham;
2. D. Tait.

Over the year point getters in the parlor shows were, 1. Mrs. E. C. Bingham, with 17 points; 2. Mrs. A. Inch, with 10 points; 3. D. Tait with 9 points. This will be the last of the parlor shows for awhile.

Angloxina plant was won by Mrs. W. F. Ward.

District Horticulturist Alex Watt gave a talk on "Ornamental Trees", and divided the trees into three groups; flowering, shade trees and evergreen.

Trees have various uses in landscaping. They can be used for their beauty alone or to shade a home or to give it privacy. They can form the background for a garden or screen of woodsheds or garages.

Mr. Watt has made a list of the various trees and will have it mimeographed to be available for those interested.

The next meeting on March 20 will feature the members telling of their experiences with small greenhouses.

Mrs. L. Wright and Mr. W. May served tea to end an interesting evening.

Many From Here At Witnesses Meet

Returning delegates from the convention of Jehovah's witnesses in Kamloops, reported a very successful assembly. Jack Prior, presiding minister here reports that 1,275 attended the public discourse on Sunday. Among those were 78 from Summerland.

At the opening session on the Friday, 816 were in attendance to hear the welcoming remarks of Dr. Saltmarsh. During the course of the evening meeting talks and demonstrations on improved methods of Bible teaching were given. A Baptismal service was held on Saturday at which 32 new ministers were immersed in water, ordaining them to be ministers.

Member Reports

David Pugh, M. P.

Friday, February 13th, saw the close of another interesting week in Parliament. It was announced that the President of the United States would join Her Majesty the Queen for the purpose of opening the St. Lawrence Seaway on June 16. No doubt you have read about this but I make mention of the fact because of the very warm feeling shown by all members. Canadians are proud of their Seaway, and justly so. Many felt that the opening might well take place in the international section and might even have been dominated by American suggestion. As it is now President Eisenhower will join the Queen and the Seaway will be opened at Montreal at the last lock before the sea.

The whole picture of parliament during the week of February 9-13 has been filled with overtones of the CBC-TV French network strike. The Opposition has done everything in its power to embarrass the government for, as they put it, not actively entering negotiations to settle the strike. Unfortunately a certain amount of nationalism has entered the picture because the Opposition Quebec members feel, and openly state that, had this strike been on the English network, the matter would have been settled forthwith. Labor Minister Starr feels that the interested parties are making headway and that the government would be interfering unjustifiably if they entered the picture.

It looks as though we are finally going to get somewhere on Dominion-Provincial relations. I hope that when the conference is called, the plight of the municipalities will receive its full share of examination. The committee known as the Committee of Eleven, comprises the ten provincial finance ministers and Mr Fleming the Federal Minister of Finance. The committee will choose the agenda. This will not be a short matter nor can it be started immediately. It is felt that the earliest time will be at the conclusion of the sessions now being held by provincial governments.

To Attend Convention

Norman Holmes and Cece Wade, owners of the Marshall Wells Store in Summerland are planning to attend the Marshall Wells Convention and Hardware Show to be held in Vancouver March 2, 3 and 4. This gala event will be held in the Exhibition Gardens, Pacific National Exhibition Grounds and will be attended by dealers from all the Western Provinces.
