It's Fall Fruit Fair time again.

The Summerland Board of Trade extends an invitation to all and sundry, from near and far, to attend the Board's third annual Fall Fruit Fair.

The big show is at the Summerland Jubilee Arena on Friday and Saturday, with an inter-community softball tournament on Sunday and Monday.

Doors open on the big show at Summerland Jubilee Arena on Friday at 6:30 with the official opening and a spectacular Queen Crowning ceremony timed to start at 8 p.m.

Queen-Elect Leona McNabb, supported by her two princesses Lynn Bleasdale and Joan Young and the Royal parties from Kelowna, Peachland-Westbank and Penticton will be crowned Summerland's 1959-60 Queen in a blazing spectacle supported by the Summerland Town Band. The PTA and Canadian Legion (Summerland Branch 22) Scholarships will be presented immediately following the crowning.

There'll be a wide range of interesting exhibits, truly Summerland's showcase, of interest to all. Fruit and garden produce displays, hobbies, art displays — refreshments will be on tap. Just outside the arena will be the midway with pony rides, merry-go-rounds and the Summerland Kinsmen will be presiding at the midway booths.

Following the crowning, the

London Gallery Accepts Paintings

Irvine Adams, Summerland artist, has had two pictures accepted for the Summermer Salon at the Royal Institute Galleries in London.

The pastel paintings, "Black Birches by the Pool," a picture of the Adams' garden in Peach Orchard, and "Noon-day Glow," a scene at Sorec Beach in Trout Creek, were exhibited at the Paris Salon last year.

FRIED SNAKE ANYONE?

Claim to sampling fried rattlesnake and finding it delicious was made by some of the group when John and Mary Dawn Grazeley, Billy Wellwood, Lorraine Milne, Everdien Wouters, Karen Lacina, Bruce Milne and Harold Weins, while hiking on Giant's Head last Thursday dispatched a three foot long rattlesnake with 16 rattles.

Crump Mill To open, Will Employ 20 Men

A sawmill operation will be started at Crump within the next two to three weeks.

Crump is about 12 miles from here on the CPR's Kettle Valley line.

Jim Rickard, a spokesman for the California Investment group, said the operation will be known as the Trout Creek Timber Ltd., and managed by Bob Patton of Penticton.

The mill is being completely renewed and will commence with a cut of 40,000 feet per day of pine, Rickard said.

The operation will just employ 20 men and as the output increases to a full capacity of 80,000 feet per day the crew will be increased to 40 men.

We welcome you to the Fruit Fair

Handi-Pak

It's good news that the popular handi-pak box will no longer be reserved for the sole use of the McIntosh apple.

This year a quantity of Delicious, Jonathans and Rome Beauties will be packed in handi-paks in an effort to sell more of these varieties on the early season market.

The handipak is a popular package with the consumer. It holds 18 or 20 lbs. of apples; the fruit consists of mixed sizes and grades; the package is a convenient size for the shopper to handle.

Regulations provide that 50 percent of the apples in the package be fancy or better, and this means that half the fruit can be cee grade.

There is no doubt the handi-pak has been a life saver for the Mac grower inasmuch as it has enabled him to market a large quantity of cee grade fruit that would have gone to the juice plant.

What it will do for the Delicious, Jonathan and Rome Beauty nobody knows. These varieties are not so well known as the Mac which (no use denying it) is a good dessert apple, good for pie and apple sauce, and is just about everybody's apple. That's why Ontario and Quebec growers have planted so heavily to Macs.

Could Sell More

Any early season sale of the other varieties put up in handi-paks probably will be at the expense of the Mac variety. It would seem doubtful that total apple sales will be increased during the usual Mac marketing season, but after Macs taper off and the other varieties are in prime condition the handi-pak could be the means of getting more apples into the hands of the consumer.

It should be worth a try with Winesaps.

If, as some think, this variety is becoming the problem child of the industry, we are going to have to make a special sales effort with handi-paks, cello bag packs and any other package that might stimulate sales.

The Alternative

The Winesap is a darn good apple. It looks good, it tastes good, it's good in pies and in apple sauce, or baked. It does not need any new fangled costly, "sleeper gas" storage to keep that goodness right through the winter until the next spring.

We should tell the public and keep telling them what a good apple the Winesap is. Then if we still cannot sell our Winesaps we had better pull them out and plant McIntosh! On dwarfing rootstock for early production and high color,

We Wish We Had Some Loose Cash

This paper is by no means committed to Social Credit, but we are getting awfully tired of the constant and carping criticisms of political opposition groups, whose credo seems to be — no matter how good it may be, if its Social Credit that's doing it, it's wrong, black, dead wrong.

The opposition groups do not like the B.C. Social Credit Government's latest plan for financing in part the operations of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway by offering five percent parity development bonds to the people of British Columbia.

But what is wrong with that? What is wrong with giving the people of British Columbia a chance to invest in one of their own assets? Aren't we being constantly warned that we're losing our country to foreign investors?

We don't think there could be a safer investment than bonds which, so states the announcement are "unconditionally guaranteed by the entire resources of the province and redeemable any time at full purchase price."

No, we can't see anything wrong with keeping thousands upon thousands of dollars which would otherwise flee the province in capital and interest payments, right here at home, for circulation at home.

Of course, people who do not believe in the PGE may not approve of the Government borrowing more money to put into the railway's extension and expansion, but our thinking is that even if the PGE is fated to run in the red for all time, that it would be nothing to be unduly worried about, for it seems that the development of vast hinterland tributary to the railway, a development brought about in very large measure by the railway, will result in the return of many dollars to the provincial treasurer for every dollar which may be lost by the railway.

Not to believe in the PGE is not to believe in the future of B.C. and so we think the bonds being offered by the provincial government are a sound investment, moreover the government is to be commended, not criticized, for giving the people of this province such an excellent opportunity to participate at a profit in the development of their own backyard.

The 60 Mile Speed Limit

We also feel strongly about what appears to be efforts to make Highways Minister Gaglardi out to be nothing more or less than a murderer. We here in the Okanagan have sixty-mile-an-hour stretches of Highway 97 and if these stretches are driven at that speed, with notice being taken of the warning signs, it is a safe speed. Most of the danger there comes from the too slow drivers who should be summoned, fined and have their licenses endorsed in no less degree than the speedsters, for in actual fact the slow driver is more of a peril in this day and age than is the speedster.

But why blame Highways Minister Gaglardi for the faults of the drivers? It is quite possible that deaths have resulted from the increasing of the speed limit — but that doesn't mean to say because some people must either travel too slow or too fast — drink while driving, or drive carelessly, that the highways or the Highways Minister are responsible.

According to the Mood . . .

By SID. GODBER

Congratulations to the Junior Red Sox on their semi-final win over Kamloops Jay Rays here Sunday. It would be nice to picture that team coming up together and graduating into senior company, but it doesn't work out that way. Come to think of it, that is what is wrong with Summerland, we are a community of young and old with no real in-between. Trouble is there's little or no future in Summerland for about 95 percent of our school graduates. Some go to higher education and then there is nothing to lure them back to Summerland, except the girl friend, and in that case the return is only temporary. Others are forced by the sheer economics of making a living and so we lack that link between young and old.

The Summerland Macs illustrate the point. They need new blood, but they can't import it and the young, up and coming players, with the odd exception, just can't afford to stick around.

It's a situation that short of a few industries locating here or of orcharding being made worthwhile enough to appeal to the sons of orchardists that we'll have to put up with.

Watched Sam Snead shoot a 63 on All Star Golf, Sunday night. Nine under par — no fuss, no strain. All Snead does is drive anywhere between 260 and 300 yards, punch his second onto the green and then sink 20 footers for birdies on par four holes.

He had seven birdies on Sunday and then with the course record already busted he cut loose on the 18th hole was on the green in two and sank a 22 foot putt for an eagle, two under par, and an extra $500 bucks.

Maybe it was watching Snead do it, oh-so easy, or it may have been this talk hereabouts of reviving golf, but up betimes I found myself digging out my golf-clubs.

Out on the lawn I addressed an imaginary ball and went into the back swing — there was a horrible creaky sound. Clubs must have dried out, I thought, before realizing that steel shafts don't dry out and that creaky sound was me. A couple of swings and my sides ached, my breath came in schoolboy pants (short ones) and generally I was tuckered out.

Seems that if we revive golf hereabouts that I'll be doing my playing at the nineteenth hole. — come to think of it I always performed brilliantly on the 19th.

I was surprised though at how musty the old joints have become. Tentatively tried to touch my toes and made it within a foot.

Now will have to combine diet and exercise.

This a.m. scales registered an even 200. I'm winning — I can see myself a slim 165 — rejuvenated so to speak — able to bend over and touch my toes — but come to think of it who wants to touch their toes — and I suppose the reward for enduring this gruelling, spartan regime will be the admonishment from the sweet young things to "act your age grandpa!"

So, it's back to school next week for the up-and-coming generations, and so, a reminder to motorists to watch out.

Incidentally a lot of sympathy from readers over my collision with John Law in Kelowna — but the pain of parting with fourteen bucks still lingers.

And this is the week of the Summerland Fall Fruit Fair. There'll be lots to see, lots to do. Don't miss the Queen Crowning spectacle Friday, and the Queen's Ball which follows and on Saturday the Japanese Tumblers. It's a big show. Summerland's Showcase, but without the support of the community, without your attendance, it would be a bust.

See you at the Fruit Fair. Summerland Jubilee Arena, Friday and Saturday, September 4-5.

No Support For Longer Pheasant Hours

Decision of the management of Game District 8 (from Trout Creek north) to maintain pheasant hunting hours from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., was upheld by Summerland Rod and Gun Club.

There was no support among club members for extending the hours one half hour past sunset, because it was felt, this would not give the pheasants a chance to feed.

The club is also anxious not to disrupt the friendly co-operation between sportsmen and farmers which the extended hours might do.

The club also agreed to enter a display in the Summerland Fruit Fair this weekend.

Improvements Made To Rotary Beach

In accordance with plans decided upon last year, the improvements to the Rotary Beach have been carried out with great success. A forty-two foot addition has been built unto one of the existing wharves with a projection of thirty two feet, making an F shaped pier which accommodates three swimming classes at one time, beginners in the first section, juniors in the middle part and intermediates or seniors in the deepest division. Also, a high diving stand with two levels has been started which will be completed next year. Modern toilets and changing rooms have been built and a parking area has been cleared adjacent to the beach.

These improvements have greatly facilitated the swimming and water safety program. All classes were held in the morning this year, thus avoiding the problem of the very crowded conditions which existed during the afternoon owing to the growing popularity of this small, but well equipped beach area.

Three hundred and nine children were enrolled ranging in age from 5 to 14 years. They were divided into 8 beginner classes, 8 junior classes, 7 intermediate classes, 2 senior groups and one special class for older children who hadn't had the opportunity of learning to swim and were a bit shy about being in a class well above their age group.

To help cover the cost of this project, parents enrolling their children were asked for a registration fee of 25 cents or a small donation. This source raised $90.50 towards the $1.80 per child which the classes cost.

Three Dance Students Attended Banff School

of the Canadian School of Ballet were not resting on the laurels they gained at the Festival and also in the Royal Academy examinations; some of them went to study at the Banff School of Fine Arts with Gweneth Lloyd and Betty Farrally.

For six weeks Brenda Parker, Elaine Dunsdon and Jennifer Penny worked a minimum of three hours a day at their ballet.

In the midst of the beautiful mountains and on the third campus of the University of Alberta, Brenda, Elaine and Jennifer not only worked but had the honor of seeing Her Majesty the Queen and Prince Philip who watched the ballet classes there.

In the evenings they rehearsed for the Banff School ballet which performed twice in Banff and once in the new Jubilee Auditorium in Calgary.

As a reward for especially good progress during the course Jennifer Penny was awarded a $50 scholarship for next season.

Summerland has a reputation for its interest in the arts and the successes during the past season should inspire many potential dancers to avail themselves of the opportunities offered in this most delightful of pastimes, and at the same time, improve their poise and co-ordination.

The Royal Academy of Dancing rightly names its childrens' work "Ballet in Education", not only is there a sound technical basis given by its qualified teachers, but the dancing is related to the students' academic work in school. Geography is helped by national dances, history by period deportment and music by a sound understanding of fundamentals of rhythm, form and interpretation. Examinations are held at regular intervals by examiners from England for those who wish to confirm their achievement of the various stages of the work.

Paragraphs Omitted From Letter to Editor

(Certain paragraphs of a letter written by Roy Wellwood of West Summerland to a give-away sheet from Pentiction were omitted. We print the paragraphs here without comment. They speak for themselves.)

Don't worry about Summerland. It will never be a big industrial or tourist town. But we too are growing and we do get a fair portion of good things, including many Pentiction workers and business people who prefer to live in Summerland. I am sure it will always retain its deserved prestige in the Okanagan. Remember, Summerland was a small thriving community while Pentiction was still a cow pasture.

I would say Pentiction needs Summerland more than Summerland needs Pentiction. I am sure your business houses will agree they would not want to lose the Summerland trade for a good balancing factor year in and year out. Frankly we don't worry about Pentiction. There is much in Pentiction we enjoy and really we are quite fond of our neighbors to the south. But for the size of our town we give most services, and our stores carry a good choice of merchandise. Naturally we do not have the selection you have with many more and larger stores. But our prices (though many of even our lopeople do) are more than comcal residents do not realize it - but quite a few Pentictionpetitive. The prices of our goods and services including Real Estate, Rent and Utilities are lower and the best. We have most of the entertainment, cultural and spiritual and recreational facilities and leadership to make Summerland a desirable place in which to live. Our people take great pride in our community, our homes and our businesses. And we do work together generally.

Pentiction too has its place in the Okanagan valley. It is too bad it has not found it yet. It has the potential to be the biggest and best city in the valley. In area you are, but in industry and bigness of heart you are not. But unless your sense of values and fair play improve it is going to be a long time attaining this position.

For your information, Summerland never was and never will be a "Suburb of Pentiction" as one of your Real Estate advertisers stated in the same copy. We know you would like it that way but we are proud of our well governed, friendly, efficient little town. We know your advertising sheet and other mediums in Pentiction would like us to lose our identity. The pressures being exerted on the peoples of this area through high advertising are great and the blanket coverage of Summerland by your sheet - free - is evidence of this. Why? The answer is evident. Summerland is valuable to Pentiction. Your loud talk, and suggested scare tactics and insinuations do not scare us. But your editorial did not improve public relations in Summerland. We feel sorry for anyone who would write such a ridiculous article.

Valley Fruit Stand Regulations Clarified

Sale of Okanagan fruit at roadside stands in adjoining areas was defended yesterday afternoon by A. G. DesBrisay of Penticton, BC Fruit Board member, and A. R. Garrish, BCFGA president.

Their comments followed a statement by T. A. J. King of Cawston who gave dissatisfaction with fruit marketing policies as one of the reasons he resigned from the position of secretary treasurer for the BCFGA's Southern District Council.

"I'm quite convinced that the manner in which fruit is being marketed at the moment is bankrupting the farmer Mr. King declared.

He said the Natural Products Marketing Act makes it illegal to take fruit out of one trading area for sale in another. Yet Oliver - Osoyoos fruit is sold at Keremeos road side stands.

"If they can bring fruit in here from Oliver and Osoyoos we should be able to take ours to the Fraser Valley," Mr. King declared.

Mr. DesBrisay's reply was that fruit from one trading area can be sold in fruit stands in the adjoining area under permit from the Fruit Board.

He explained that the Natural Products Marketing Act empowers the Fruit Board to regulate fruit sales at roadside stands. Under the board's regulations, a stand operator at Keremeos can get a permit to haul fruit from the South Okanagan for sale at his stand.

"This doesn't work the other way around," Mr. DesBrisay emphasized. "South Okanagan growers are not permitted to haul their fruit to the Similkameen and look for a market there. Fruit from one trading area can be sold at stands in the adjoining area only if the stand operator gets a permit and comes to pick up the fruit."

He said there was nothing new in the fruit stand regulations. They have been in effect for several years "at the wish of the growers."

Mr. Garrish also noted that fruit can only be transported for sale in an adjoining area by the stand operators, under permit from the Fruit Board.

"We've got to recognize that fruit stands have a function and it would be absurd to prevent them from getting a sufficient variety of fruit when it's not available in their own area," Mr. Garrish said.

"The Fruit Board regulations are an attempt to make the situation as workable as possible and not impose a strait jacket on anyone."

Commenting on the reasons for his resignation from the Southern District Council post Mr. King said the fruit stand situation was only part of the story.

"I disagree with a lot of the policies to which the grower is forced to submit," he said. "I don't think the law is being enforced equally. At the same time, I was representing growers who were not satisfied with the work of my organization, so I resigned."

Visiting with Mrs. George Gubelot during the past two weeks was Mrs. Anne Wehr and over the week end the Gubelot's entertained Mrs. Gubelot's brother in law, Mr. Pat Hegarty and his son, Desmond and Bruce Simpson, all of Vancouver.

Red Sox Win Semi-Finals

The Summerland Review
WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1959

SPORTS

Before the largest crowd of the season, the Junior Red Sox came up with a 4-3 win on Sunday over the Kamloops Jay Rays, to take the semi final series for the junior championship two games straight. They now go against the Vernon Essos for the John Norwood trophy.

Behind the steady 2 hit pitching of Sheeley and the all around good play, of the rest of the team, the Red Sox came through with the chips down. McCutcheon was the hero of the game, both in the field and at bat. His driving catch of a line drive over second base that he turned into a double play, was the fielding play of the year. His squeeze bunt in the ninth inning brought in the winning run.

DeWitt who had to hurry his throw. It took a bad bounce and hit Lemke in the mouth. In the confusion the man on the last man fled out to Gillard. In the Red Sox ninth, Main was hit by a pitch, the next two men walked to fill the bases and then McCutcheon laid down a perfect bunt to win the game.

Carl Sheeley pitched his best game of the year, striking out 12 and allowing only two hits and two walks.

The first game of the finals will be against Vernon on Sunday, September 13 at 2 p.m. in Summerland. The club wishes to thank the large number of fans who turned out and hope they will all be back for the finals.

Duck Limits For B.C. Not Changed Too Much

British Columbia duck hunters may not suffer as much as other Canadian hunters from the declining duck population, but reductions in bag limits are necessary to conserve the duck supply, the Canadian Wildlife Service announced recently.

The only encouraging reports on duck population came from Alaska, where surveys indicate good breeding conditions and a larger duck population than usual, some of it possibly made up of birds who have fled the dried up sloughs and potholes of the prairies.

There is some prospect that the Pacific Flyway will be less affected by the duck decline than areas to the east of the mountains.

New migratory bird regulations for B.C. set a daily bag limit on ducks of eight, two less than last year, and a possession limit of 32, eight less than last year. Except for Newfoundland, Labrador, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, B.C. has larger bag and possession limits than any other region of Canada this year.

Limits on other birds remain the same. Daily bag limit on geese is five and possession limit 10 except for the black brant for which the daily bag limit is three and the possession limit six; rails and coots, 25; Wilson's Snipe 8; band-tailed pigeons 10.

The hunting districts have been changed this year. No. 1 is the area west of the summit of the Cascade Mountains and south of the electoral district of Atlin except the Queen Charlotte Islands, Vancouver Island and part of the Skeen River watershed.

No. 4 is the electoral districts of Yale, Similkameen, North Okanagan, South Okanagan and Grand Forks - Greenwood. District 5 is Northern B.C. north of the 57th parallel and District No. 6 is the rest of the province.

No. 1 District's seasons are: Oct. 3 - Jan. 6, 1960, ducks, geese except black brant and snow geese, and coots; Jan. 16 - Feb. 29, 1960, black brant; Dec. 5 - Feb. 29, 1960, snow geese; Oct. 3 - Nov. 30, Wilson's snipe; and Sept. 1 - Oct. 11, band-tailed pigeons.

No. 2 District seasons: Oct. 10 - Jan. 13, 1960, ducks, geese except black brant, coots and snow geese; Jan. 16 - Feb. 29, 1960, black brant; Oct. 10 - Nov. 30, Wilson's Snipe.

No. 3 District season: Oct. 10 - Jan. 13, 1960, ducks, snow geese and coots; Jan. 16 - Feb. 29, 1960, black brant; geese except black brant and Dec. 5 - Feb. 29, 1960, snow geese; Oct. 10 - Nov. 30, Wilson's snipe; Sept. 1 - Oct. 11, band-tailed pigeons.

No. 4 District seasons: Oct. 3 - Jan. 6, 1960, ducks, geese coots, black brant and snow geese; Oct. 3 - Nov. 30, Wilson's snipe; and Sept. 1-11, band-tailed pigeons.

No. 5 District seasons: Sept. 1 - Oct. 31, all species except band-tailed pigeons on which there is no open season.

No. 6 District seasons: Sept. 12 - Dec. 16 for ducks, geese coots, black brant and snow geese; Sept. 12 - Nov. 30 Wilson's Snipe.

Helpful Rules About Plastic Bags

Those polyethylene bags which preserve your food, keep dry cleaning and laundry dustproof and serve many useful purposes in the home, should never be left near children.

As with so many products of recent scientific progress, thin plastic should be treated with wisdom and caution. Just as electrical fixtures, refrigerators, patent medicines and cleaning fluids, which have been such a boon to comfort and health in recent years, have become a normal, useful part of every household, so will plastic, if the same reasonable precautions are taken to ensure the safety of children.

No plastic material ever attacked a child. Instances of suffocation by plastic in every case have been due to misuse by an ADULT. In some instances, mothers have re-used plastic material originally intended to protect dry cleaned clothing, as crib mattress or pillow coverings. In others, plastic bags were actually given to children as play things, or left around the home where they could obtain them.

Here are some basic, common sense rules for safe use of plastic in your home:

1. Thin plastic film such as that used by dry cleaners to protect garments and blankets should never be used as a makeshift cover for crib mattresses or pillows. Special covers of heavy gauge plastic are designed for this purpose and available at most stores.

Danger to children lies in the fact that plastic is completely air tight. If placed in an infant's crib, the thin fabric may be attracted to the baby's face by static electricity, and cling there, cutting off air intake and causing suffocation.

2. Keep thin plastic bags away from children, the same as you would poisons, matches or knives. It is not a toy.

New Variety Of Macs Here From England

A new variety of McIntosh apple that has several advantages over the popular kind grown in Canada today has been developed in England and released on a limited trial basis to commercial growers in this country.

Known as Tydeman's Early Worcester, or Tydeman's Red the variety is a cross between McIntosh and Worcester Pearmain made in 1929 at the East Malling Research Station, England.

It matures three weeks earlier than McIntosh and bears a close resemblance to the parent fruit. Unlike other early McIntosh apples, such as Early McIntosh, Tydeman's Red possesses good flesh firmness, sizes well and appears annual rather than biennial bearing in fruiting habit.

The new variety ripens in the same season as Early McIntosh. It has been held successfully for two months at 32 degrees F although normally it would not be held under refrigeration but would be sold to satisfy pre McIntosh market requirements.

Tydeman's Red was named and introduced in 1945 and sent for further trial to 400 English growers. It has also been tested at the Summerland Research Station, says Dr. D. V. Fisher and in Nova Scotia and New Zealand.

Favorable reaction to this variety induced BC Tree Fruits Ltd. to release it to B.C. interior fruit growers for commercial trial. If Tydeman Red maintains its promise it will fill a long-standing market need for a firm, good quality, red apple preceding the McIntosh harvest. Growers are advised not to go overboard for it however, until further testing has taken place.

Editorial

The Summerland Review wishes to point out that there is a new broom at the High School.

The new school principal is a young man and he comes to us with a good reputation.

On his behalf The Review bespeaks parents to give him their unqualified support. Over the past years there has been a schism between school and parent and it appeared that parents were more inclined to stand behind their offspring than the school.

This was an unhealthy situation and what aggravated it was that most of the criticism of the school was made on street corners, to such an extent that the School Board never received official complaints which would have allowed it to prove or disprove the allegations.

In the interests of the community, in the interests of the student body and in the interests of the parents and equally in the interests of the teaching staff this situation must not be allowed to develop again. If parents are not satisfied with progress, behaviour and treatment of their offspring then they should take their complaint to the principal first and then, if satisfaction is not forthcoming that complaint should go to the School Board and if not satisfied then they should bring the complaint to this newspaper and we'll give it a public airing.

The new principal has already stressed to us the need for parental understanding of what the school is trying to do and to this end he has invited parents of High School students to a meeting in the High School Auditorium at 8 p.m. next Wednesday. The meeting has a two-fold purpose (1) to give the parents opportunity to meet the teaching staff and (2) to hear from the principal himself of the new courses offered and of changes in school policy.

It is up to all parents of High School students interested in the welfare of their offspring to attend this meeting. Next Wednesday, September 16, in the High School Auditorium at 8 p.m.

A new operating table was added to the list of equipment at the Summerland General Hospital Tuesday, thanks to the generosity of Ed Matchett, who on presenting the operating table stated that the care and attention he had received in the Summerland hospital was unequalled in some of the larger hospitals in the United States.

The gift was received on behalf of the hospital by Robert Alstead, chairman of the hospital board, and in paying tribute to the gift Mr. Alstead presented Mr. Matchett with a life membership in the Hospital Society, the first award of its kind.

The $1500 operating table, suggested as a needed piece of equipment by Dr. W. H. B. Munn is not the first gift made by the donor to the hospital.

Present at the pleasing ceremony were: hospital board members, Mrs. T. B. Lott, John Betuzzi, G. C. Johnston, Les Rumball, Harvey Wilson, S. A. MacDonald, Mrs. Clarence Adams, representing the Ladies Auxiliary, Mrs. Don Clark, president of the Ladies Auxiliary and J. E. O'Mahoney, hospital administrator.

Winter Works Project Survey For Summer'd

Summerland's Municipal Council is definitely interested in participating in the Federal Government's winter works scheme, a plan whereby to promote winter employment, the federal government will pay 50 percent of labor costs.

Superintendent Ken Blag-borne reported to council on Tuesday that government regulations appeared to be more reasonable this year, insofar as regular projects could be included in the work scheme.

Superintendent Blagborne indicated that he was making a survey of park work which needed to be done and could be done in winter. Other projects mentioned were winter flume work and building of retaining walls.

The Federal Government's participation starts December 1 and continues until April.

Council Opposed to Leases on Foreshore

Municipal Council on Tuesday voted unanimously against issuance of foreshore leases.

The decision followed a long discussion of a letter from the Inspector of lands asking council to express an opinion on the application of R. B. Pretty and G. Parker of Trout Creek, to lease the foreshore extending 250 feet in the lake.

Council felt that such a lease would be contrary to public interest, but in opposing a lease council stressed that it had no objection to boat channels, provided adequate and safe crossings were provided and access maintained.

Summerland's Peach Orchard park and Mr. and Mrs. E. Langbell, who look after the park, were warmly praised in a letter to Municipal Council read at Tuesday's meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Caddick of Victoria, wrote that they were very impressed with the beauty and location of the park and by the way Mr. and Mrs. Langbell looked after the campers.

"This pleasant atmosphere makes camping worthwhile and enjoyable and as a result extended a one day stop over to three days."

Keremeos troubles

Much as we sympathize with the financial difficulties of Keremeos growers, their attitude on the recent fruit stand issue is wrong.

Keremeos orchards were hard hit by spring frosts which cut heavily into the peach crop and also reduced some other crops.

Keremeos is the first fruit district for coast tourists coming into the Interior to buy fruit. Fruit stands in Keremeos do a big business in this trade.

This year with a short crop of peaches it is my guess that Keremeos growers hoped the law of supply and demand would result in high returns for their peaches sold to fruit stand operators.

It did not work out that way. Peaches were bought at cheap prices in Oliver and Osoyoos districts and trucked to Keremeos fruit stands.

Keremeos growers are sore and declare that if Oliver and Osoyoos growers can truck their fruit to Keremeos and sell it there, Keremeos growers have a right to haul their fruit to the Fraser Valley and sell it in that area.

Priced too low

They are wrong of course, and they must know it, probably just talking to let off steam. So far as cheap prices go I believe Keremeos growers have a legitimate complaint. I think it is a foolish mistake for a grower to sell his peaches to a fruit stand operator or to anybody for the same price he would get at the packing house. Some growers sell for even less.

Fruit stand operators and the general public can well afford to pay more and the grower needs more unless he accepts the premise that fruit growers are second class citizens who must be content with a lower than average standard of living.

Fear complex

Growers have themselves to blame for cheap fruit stand prices. Everybody else is asking for, and getting, more money. Professional groups, trade unions, including the union that handles the growers' fruit in the packinghouse all are asking for and getting an increase in income.

But the fruit grower! It looks as though a lot of the poor devils haven't guts enough or sense enough to ask a fair price for the fruits of their hard work.

They may wake up some day, but by that time it could be too late.

All Should Pay

Council's decision to cancel bylaw no. 887, a bylaw to authorize the borrowing of $50,000 for reconstruction of Canyon Dam was a decision well taken and very much in the best interests of the community.

Even so, although Summerland is sure of an adequate supply of water for next season Canyon Dam must be reconstructed. But now there is time to explore for alternative methods of reconstruction and we also think in view of some of the questions raised at the ratepayers meeting and since put to this newspaper, that Council should, perhaps, re-examine its previously announced decision to levy the cost of the money bylaw on the irrigation water users.

At first sight it appears logical and fair enough to charge those whose immediate water needs make the reconstruction of the dam a necessity.

But times are changing in Summer-

Back To School

Each year at this time, there is the usual stampede of children back to school. The majority have been through this cycle before, but for many it will be the first time.

Whether they pass this way again depends to a large extent on you, Mr. and Mrs. Motorist.

Here is what you can do to help:

- Slow down at all intersections
- Obey the 15 miles an hour speed limits in the vicinity of schools.
- When you see a child on the curb don't guess at what a child will do, you could guess wrong!
- Slow down when driving down residential streets, particularly where cars

Discipline In Our School

Professional and lay people interested in British Columbia's educational system have followed with interest a recent court case in Castlegar.

There a school principal was charged with assault for strapping a boy on his partially bared buttocks. The magistrate, acquitting the accused, found "no evidence to show that defendant Brown (school principal William Roy Brown) acted otherwise than as a kind, firm and judicious teacher."

The ruling is important because it gives force and interpretation to that section of the school act governing corporal punishment. That section says, in effect, that a teacher shall administer discipline as a "kind, firm and judicious parent in his family," avoiding corporal punishment except where it is necessary.

No teacher worth his salt resorts to the strap as the sole means of handling difficult children. There is, however, a time and a place for it, and the Castlegar magistrate apparently believes that the case brought before him was one in which the time and place were right.

The importance of the decision rests on the conviction which has grown up in many parts of the province that a teacher could not strap a child without running into the danger of being brought to court to answer an assault charge.

Legal action can be taken by parents who believe their children have been treated with unjustified severity — and that land. Orchard acreage is being reduced in direct ratio to the mushrooming of subdivisions. And it appears that this process will continue indefinitely and so Canyon Dam, needed today to ensure adequate irrigation water will, as we see it, be needed in the future to ensure an adequate domestic supply.

There is no doubt but that the irrigation users have born the cost of the splendid reservoir system that Summerland has. Domestic water users have and do benefit from this system, which would not have been in being but for the need for orchard irrigation. So, it seems to us, that it would be much more equitable to levy the cost of reconstruction of Canyon Dam upon domestic water users and irrigation users alike.

Canyon Dam is an integrated part of Summerland's water system and, as such should, we believe, be paid for by Summerland water users as a whole.

are parked on one or both sides.

Remember: watch for the pre-school children who are left without the older children to supervise and play with them.

Being aware of these important points is only half the battle. The other half is in adjusting your driving habits before it is too late.

Parents can help by emphasizing to their children that they are not to run across any road at any intersection whether they be in a marked crosswalk or not and that they look both ways, everytime, before crossing a street.

course should remain open. There is always the possibility that an individual teacher moved by anger or by some less natural reaction, may inflict serious harm on a child through corporal punishment administered beyond reason.

But the results of the trial at the interior town should serve as a reminder to over-solicitous parents that they can be placed in an embarrassing position if they run to court without adequate provocation.

At Castlegar this week the position of the average teacher has been substantially strengthened on matters of discipline. This is no invitation to sadism or brutality. It is merely an assurance from a magistrate court that if a teacher applies judicious persuasion when and where it will presumably do the most good, the court will not interfere. — Victoria Daily Times.

According to the Mood . . .

By SID. GODBER

We often sigh for the good old days without realizing just how bad the good old days were, but as I watched the moderns doing their stuff at the Queen's Ball the other night, I found myself sighing for the good old days.

Then a waltz was a waltz and believe me brother, I could waltz — spin smooth as a top — ah me — the old one, two, three, one, two, three — that was dancing to music that was music — dum da dum, da dum da dum, da, da, da, d-a-ah.

And action, well you should have seen me doing the Charleston.

Away back then everybody did the same, if some couple took it into their heads to dance cheek to cheek, to some step of their own, while the herd was doing the Happyland waltz, the rebels were frowned upon and the emcee, in his tails, would go and invite them to sit it out.

But nowadays you take your life in your hands when you go on the dance floor.

Slim, almost anaemic looking youths become endowed with a ferocious strength when they get on the dance floor — they hurl their partners hither and yon with wild abandon, while the girls who at home find it breaks their backs to bend and pick up bobby pins, suddenly become imbued with the desire to emulate circus acrobats.

And again back in my dancing heyday, it was considered good form to show some interest in your partner — if waltzing you smiled at her and asked "where have you been all my life?" And the girl would blush prettily and smile sweetly.

Even if you got stuck with the local wallflower you pretended that this was the dance of the night for you.

And when the beat was up and you shuffled, side-stepped, hesitated, and spun, you wore a smile, you laughed, you were having fun — as the young say today, you were having a ball.

But nowadays it seems to be a point of etiquette with the youngsters to look as if they'd lost a dollar and found a penny.

It's also bad form today to let on you know your dancing partner.

Boy grabs girl's hand, tries to twist off girl's arm, girl is hurled arms length, hauled back, then they go off on their own for a while doing weird steps and mystic arm wavings that seem like a ritual from some pagan day. Then, still frozen faced, they come together again, eyes averted.

There are some adults who make a good job of this modern day dancing — I still don't know whether it's rock 'n roll or jitterbugging, or whether they're one and the same thing. But one adult who can shake a mean hoof a la the kids is Summerland Councillor Norman Holmes — but he betrays his years every time he goes on the dance floor he lets on that he's enjoying it by wearing a wide grin and beaming at his partner — the younger set must shudder at this heresy.

But gimme the good old days when a waltz was a waltz and when you got the girl in your arms she stayed there for the duration.

Government Prepares For Codling Moth War Recently

Draft regulations have been prepared to permit codling month areas to be declared.

Mainly, when an area is declared, it will allow apple and pear growers to seek government assistance and action if neighbors don't tackle infestation in their orchards.

It will also allow government action to spray or other wise control abandoned orchards which become infested.

Week end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. McKee were Mr. McKee's sister and brother in law, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Buchan and son Rickey of Vernon.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Biollo for a few days last week were Mr. Biollo's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Don McFaddin of Portland Oregon.

Nicholson-Faasse Wed Here

On the afternoon of Saturday, August 29, a very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Free Methodist Church, stitched publication

West Summerland, when Marie Betty Faasse of Calgary, daughter of Mrs. Willemina Faasse, became the bride of David Nicholson, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Nicholson, of Brantford, Ontario. Officiating at the ceremony was Rev. J.

H. James assisted by Rev. W. Sooter.

Before an altar decorated with a large heart flanked by two small hearts covered with gladioli and dahlias, the bride was given away by her brother Mr. Gordon Faasse. The bride wore a nylon net white gown with its bodice and skirt inserts of lace, and matching lace gloves. Her veil was embroidered nylon net gathered to a pearl covered caplet. She carried a bouquet of three red roses surrounded by white carnations trailing to a comma.

Her sister in law, as matron of honor wore a sleeveless gown of pink embroidered net over taffeta, ballerina skirt and long white gloves. She carried a bouquet of yellow mums similar to the bride's. Miss Margaret Graham as bridesmaid wore a sleeveless blue chiffon over net and taffeta with rounded neck and ballerina skirt, with matching headband. She carried a bouquet of copper mum similar to the bride's bouquet. Diane and Donna Prior, nieces of the bride, as flower girls wore floor length dresses of yellow organdy with lace and rosettes and matching headbands. They carried copper baskets with trailing mums.

Robert Faasse was best man and William Faasse and Harry Faasse acted as ushers.

The groom sang "Because" as the bride advanced up the aisle. Mr. and Mrs. W. Prior sang "O Perfect Love" for the dedication song, and during the signing of the register they sang "The Christian Wedding Song." Miss Carol James was pianist.

A reception was held on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Graham for 75 guests, who were received by the wedding party. The wedding cake, decorated by Mrs. James, was centered on a table beautifully arranged with begonias and mums.

Mr. John Graham proposed the toast to the bride which was responded to by the groom. Telegrams from Brantford, Ont., Calgary and New Westminster were read by Rev. James. During the reception a duet was sung by Mr. and Mrs. Prior, a solo by R. Killick accompanied by Mr. Prior on the violin and Miss Carol James on the accordion.

For going away the bride wore a red worsted wool suit with beige accessories, and a corsage of cream gladioli. They travelled by car to London, Ontario, where they will reside while attending the Theological Seminary for one year after which they will enter the ministry.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton of Williamstown, Delaware, are visiting at the home of the latter's father, M. M. Stephens

Mr. Joris von Dop of Lulu Island spent the week end visiting at the home of Mr and Mrs. Nich Buddingh.

A largely attended wedding took place in The Church of The Holy Child, West Summerland on Saturday afternoon, August 29, at 1 p.m., when lovely, dark haired Darlene Marie, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Bonthoux, became the bride of Jack Pohlman of HMS New Glasgow, Esquimaux, son of Mrs. Herb Pohlman and the late Herb Pohlman.

Rev. A. M. Meulenbergh performed the ceremony in the presence of 180 guests. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with large bouquets of pink and white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a distinctive wedding gown of white organza over taffeta worn with a hoop. A fitted bodice had long lily point sleeves. A round neckline edged with scalloped lace and iridescent sequins was made with a slight V in the back.

The skirt had circles of sequins and black interest in the deep V at the bottom of the long skirt topped with a flat bow of self material disclosing ruffles of white net. The bride wore a chapel length veil appliqued with flowers and caught to her head with a bonnet type bandeau. Three attendants, the bride's sister, Miss Lorraine Bonthoux, as maid of honor, and Miss Patsy Menu and Miss Lydia Appigi of Penticton, a cousin of the bride, were similarly and charmingly gowned in Wedgwood blue taffeta with full short skirts having big bows and sashes at the back. These were worn with crownless matching blue pleated taffeta hats with blue streamers and shoes in the same lovely color. They carried pink and white carnations.

Don Gilbert of New Westminster was the best man and the ushers were the groom's cousin, George Pohlman and Dallas Jones of the RCN.

Miss Linda Betuzzi was organist and Mrs. Eric Smith, the soloist.

A reception followed at 5 p.m. in the IOOF Hall, West Summerland when members of the Catholic Women's League prepared the dinner.

The hall was decorated with pink and white streamers. A three tiered wedding cake was trimmed in white with pale pink roses and topped with wedding bells.

William McElheran was the master of ceremonies and John Tamblin proposed a toast to the bride. Tom Jomori gave the toast to the attendants and the best man replied. Father Muelenbergh spoke.

Assisting in serving were the bride's friends, Miss Janie Smith, Miss Phyllis Fabbi, Miss Irene Tycholaz, Miss Barbara Baker, Miss Jacqie Watson, Miss Margaret Lott and ladies of the CWL.

On their return the young couple will make their home in Victoria.

Kelowna, Westbank
As reported September 2nd, rather conditions have been conducive to good coloring in McIntosh, Spartan and other later varieties of red apples. Adequate sizing of McIntosh has not reached early expectations in some lots even these should reach minimum requirements by the time harvesting commences at mid-September. Picking Bartlett pears should be nearly finished by the week. Peaches are about 75 per cent harvested. Early prunes cleaned up while late picking is now under way.

Late season mites on apples now spotty and threatening trouble in only a few cases. Similarly, pear psylla require a spray application in a few Anjou blocks, otherwise pests are generally under control.

Weather conditions during August were too cool for curing the heat loving vegetable crops. As a result, tomatoes have been slow to ripen and shipments have not lived up to expectation. Fall planted onions and Silverkin clematis are pretty well cleaned up. Spring seeded onions now being pulled and early lots are reaching market. Bean harvest is completed. Most of late corn is in full grain.

Summerland
As reported September 1st: weather during the past weeks has delayed marketing of V peaches and Bartlett pears. Peak of harvesting for both these fruits is now being approached. In general, fruit sizing is good. Bartlett pears are running on the small side. Honeydew and King from pear psylla is showing reduced grade and size in many lots. However, fruiting with a good volume of water is being used to good effect on many lots. McIntosh apples are showing good color and size. Delicious have shown on color this past week, size is medium. The Newton crop has sized well and is very good.

Woolly moth damage so far much lighter than last year. Pear psylla has been suppressed by constant spraying throughout the season. Damage from European Red and McDaniel Mites is severe in some apple orchards. There has been little further development of Apple Scab or powdery mildew. One or two orchardists are having a bad time with Fire Blight in pears

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Wylie of Calgary have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Harper of Trout Creek during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Wilburn had as their guest Mr. Wilburn's nephew, Private Keith Wilburn who is with the PPCLI, now stationed in Victoria

CORRUGATED CONTAINERS RATE HIGH IN COOLING AND STACKING TESTS

Recent findings of the Research Station at Summerland, B.C., show that now, instead of taking the standard SEVEN days required, fruit in corrugated containers cools to 32 degrees . . . safely in only FIVE days. And new, durable, water-resistant glues plus increased stiffness of materials permit the stacking . . . using advanced methods . . . of corrugated boxes to full warehouse height without fruit damage.

Summerland's Junior Red Sox will battle for the valley junior championship here on Sunday when they meet the Vernon nine in the first of a best of three series at the Summerland Athletic park. Game time is 2 p.m.

The local hopes advanced into the final by knocking off a strong Kamloops Club, taking two straight.

The game which attracted the largest baseball crowd of the season was a thriller diller with the fans on their toes through nine hectic innings.

Now the chips are down, can the Junior Red Sox bring a championship to Summerland?

Fan support will help. 2:00 p.m. Sunday at the Summerland Athletic park.

Juniors Second at Merritt

The Summerland Red Sox came out second best in the tournament held in Merritt over the week end. Vernon took first money and Kamloops third.

Vernon defeated Kamloops 11-2 and Summerland took a combined Naramata-Penticton team 12-6 to enter the finals.

The final game played in a down pour of rain was a thriller all the way. Both McMechan and Sheeley pitched good ball with the Vernon niner with a sharp single to hurler holding the edge. DeWitt was robbed of a home run on a spectacular catch by the Vernon centerfielder but came through in the last in-drive in both of Summerland's runs. McNabb got the only other hit for the Red Sox.

Final score was Vernon 4, Summerland 2.

A Child's World Of His Very Own - His Room

The pale pink nursery is not decorated to please baby, it is planned to please the young mother. Because babies can respond only to vibrant colour, with red their instinctive choice, tests indicate clear red has always been number one on the colour hit parade from tots to teens.

Red and white is an ideal color scheme for the baby and it has the double advantage of being a color combination he won't quickly outgrow.

Walls might be a flat finish, washable white. (There is a new paint on the market that can be written on with chalk and then erased).

Because children's eyes are sensitive to light, lined draperies that will pull across the window are recommended. However, the draperies can be short, just to the sill, and in a coarse, bright fabric such as a gay red and white striped sailcloth.

In selecting patterned fabrics, stripes are excellent for youngsters and so are huge coin dots or balloon patterns. Design with detail tends to confuse them, keep the decorating bright and bold.

A long, low bench for the little tot to sit on is easily made from a length of plywood with screw-on legs. It might have a long, flat cushion upholstered in tough, red denim. A play table can be made from an old door or a piece of three-quarter inch plywood. The legs of both bench and play table can be changed for longer legs so that they can grow with the child.

If your child is inheriting a potpourri of old furniture you might give all the pieces uniformity by painting them a hard wearing white enamel.

To paint stripes on the drawers of the furniture first apply a coat of your main color. When thoroughly dry use masking tape in long strips and then paint on the contrasting color. When the second coat is dry, peel off your tape and you have perfect stripes!

You might want to invest in a linoleum floor or cover the existing floor with a long wearing craft fibre rug.

If you are decorating for a little girl, you might prefer to substitute softer, more feminine fabrics such as dotted Swiss or drip-dry organza at the window and striped cottons for cushion upholstery.

But whether it's a boy or girl, lucky the youngster who has his own room. And luckier still, if his parents have decorated it especially for him!

Fruit Fair

strolled about viewing the 3rd annual board of trade Fruit Fair here last Friday night. A number of people stopped to hear Reeve F. E. Atkinson address the crowd and officially open the fair.

Mr. Atkinson thanked all who made the fair such a success and lauded the custom of friendly competition in a community fair. He hoped it continued to grow and become a local tradition.

The crowd watched again while tall, fair-haired Leona McNabb was crowned queen of Summerland for the 1959-60 season by last year's queen Elsie Karlstrom who came from Calgary for the ceremony.

The Summerland Band under W. A. Steuart's baton played a fanfare as the royal party entered and walked up the to the dias. Queen Leona was attended by her two princesses, Lynn Bleasdale and Joan Young. In the party were royalty from Kelowna and Oliver and the other Summerland candidates for the offices.

Joe Biollo, president of the board of trade, spoke briefly

Fred Schumann, fair convenor, was master of ceremonies. The stage was beautifully decorated streamers and gladioli making a striking setting for the ceremony.

Fruit was displayed in abundance, with brilliant exhibits by the pomology section of the Research Centre and by the BCFGA local.

The Fish and Game Club showed a map with their project of building a road to Penask Lake. Gallop's greenhouse had tropical plants on exhibit.

Examples of excellent handicrafts were seen in the Women's Institute show of handmade quilts.

Pottery by Peg and Des Loan was much admired. Some of this was made from Summerland clay. Other local potters also showed their work.

The Girl Guide Association had an interesting collection of 20 dolls in the Guide uniform of the country they represented. Mrs. Ross McLachlan, president of the LA and Mrs. W. H. Durick, division badge secretary, were in charge.

Woodwork by W. W. Borton and Harry Amundsen of Naramata were other points of interest.

Summerland WI conducted a fruit pie contest while Summerland Art Club set up a French street scene.

Industrial and mechanical exhibits also attracted much attention while the free peach stand proved a popular spot.

Lorne Perry, secretary of the board of trade, had the difficult job of co-ordinating the whole show.

Kiwianians arranged bingo and Kinsmen games of chance. There were pony rides and giraffe rides for children outside the building.

Winners of the various competitive exhibits were:

and there was a wide discrepancy in rates ranging from a high of $24.50 per acre up Kaleden to a low of $8.61 at Vernon. Average for the entire Okanagan Valley $15.21 and the Summerland rate, $15.64, which shows commended Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith that we're "right on the button."

Council authorized placing of five lights at a cost of $285 on Jubilee Road. These lights have been requested by residents for over two years.

A request signed by eight residents for street lights on Campbell Crescent cannot be fitted into this year's program, Council indicated.

Councillor Walter B. Powell, acting reeve, presided over Tuesday's Council meeting in the absence of Reeve F. E. Atkinson who is in Oregon.

Need for Hotel Here Again Debated at B of T

At the monthly meeting of the Board of Trade on Thursday evening, reports of the various committees were heard and discussed and many ideas were brought forward for the improvement of the annual fall fruit fair.

The financial report of the fair held on September 4 and 5 showed a paid attendance of 1904 which resulted in a very satisfactory profit after expenses had been deducted. Alex Watt, chairman of the agriculture committee, expressed satisfaction with the number of entries in the junior section of the fair. The seven first prize winners, our girls and three boys, will be treated to a day at the Armstrong fair September 19.

No common ground

Union of farm and labor groups under one political banner is a pipe dream that will never come to realization.

From time to time there is talk of such amalgamation, of how much in common the two groups have, of the wisdom of joining forces for the good of the common cause.

For years labor has tried to woo farm support by this kind of talk and it came up again at the recent CCF conference in Winnipeg.

I can see only one thing labor and farm groups have in common, each wants to improve its own financial position. From there they go separate and opposite ways.

Basically they are poles apart in the economic picture for the farmer is a capitalist who owns a farm factory and hires workers whereas labor is an employee working for daily wages.

Labor wants more money for the work it does — a bigger share of the employer's profit. The bigger share the employer gives labor the less he has for himself. The only other way both can gain is by increasing efficiency, producing more goods with the same outlay of expense.

Pay high wages to labor it has been argued and labor will spend it all and thus help make everybody more prosperous. That doesn't hold true for the farming industry.

Labor has made tremendous gains in wages and buying power during the last few years. In contrast to that the farmer has suffered great economic losses during the same period of time until all branches of the farming industry with one or two exceptions are in the depths of a great depression.

Costs go up

One reason for the period of adversity now being experienced by the farming industry is the rapidly increasing cost of production without a corresponding increase in income. Everything the farmer buys costs more and more money, but he gets no more, or very little more, for what he sells.

Local example

Labor HAS been getting more and more buying power. Many labor groups get substantial increases every year or two. Right there is one reason why farm costs have gone up.

Taking a look at our own packinghouse operation we can see what happens. Packinghouse labor will receive a wage increase this year. That increase comes directly out of the grower's pocket because all packing house costs are paid by the growers but he has no way of adding those cost increases to the price of his fruit.

The Issue Is A Hotel

Summerland's need for a hotel has again been raised at a Board of Trade meeting and as in the past divergent views were expressed.

There is a reasonable unanimity of opinion regarding the need of a first class hotel even though small and it is generally agreed that the summer use of the arena will enhance that need.

It is when the fact is faced that a hotel means a licensed establishment with a beer parlor or cocktail lounge, or both, that hackles rise and willy nilly the board and for that matter the community splits into factions, three factions, the wets, the dries and the don't cares.

So, Summerland must face up to it. It is extremely unlikely that any good Samaritan will build us a hotel in Summerland without being reasonably assured of getting a license. So the question is, will Summerland vote in favor of such a license being issued?

Frankly we cannot go along with the thinking of those who would deny Summerland a hotel because it means having a licensed premises within the community.

Summerland in the year 1957 (the 1958 totals are not yet issued) spent $123,000 in the local government liquor store. That is a lot of money and does not bespeak a "dry" community. Admitted some of that $123,000 was visiting money, but likewise Summerland people spent a lot of dollars on liquor on the road, particularly in Penticton, so it is quite fair to put Summerland's liquor bill at $123,000.

Summerland has a liquor store, it has a Legion Club which is licensed. Summerland residents and visitors can go 10 miles north to Peachland or south to Penticton and enjoy a sociable drink, or they can make hogs of themselves, according to their inclinations. Alternatively they can go to the liquor store and pick up a case or a bottle and drink at home, or if they have club membership, or a friend who is a member to sign them in, they can go to the Legion.

So Much By So Few

Summerland's third annual Fall Fruit Fair is history and, on the whole, pleasant history. True there were, as usual, many shortcomings, but in view of the "let George do it attitude", which curses the Summerland Board of Trade it is surprising indeed that the show turned out as good as it did. Again Mr. Board of Trade Lorne Perry was the king pin of the Fall Fair, as he has been since its inception, and of course there were others, the Queen Crowning Committee, the agriculture committee and so on, but in the aggregate, pitifully few.

And now it appears to us that it is time to take another look at the Fall Fruit Fair. It is now a well established event — it is not a glorified commercial extravaganza, but truly a showcase of the community, which can be enlarged and more polished in each succeeding year.

The Review is of the opinion that it is time that the Fall Fruit Fair was divorced from the Board of Trade and taken

The point of all this is that intoxicating beverages are already on sale in this community and they are readily available in neighboring and nearby communities.

Annually Summerland loses a lot of tourist money because we haven't a hotel and annually, Summerland loses a lot of local trade because folk drive north or south to where they can enjoy a sociable drink in pleasant surroundings.

Why then, object to another outlet?

Ironically enough Summerland people who do drink are not particularly concerned over the issue of whether or not Summerland should have another liquor outlet — they can do all the drinking they will ever want to do if there should never be another outlet, but they certainly cannot understand why Summerland should cut off its nose to spite its face by voting "no" to a license for a hotel.

And that is the position The Review takes on the matter. We are not debating the evils of liquor, we simply take the view that a first class hotel, even with a beer parlor, or cocktail lounge, or both would be an asset to the community as a whole.

We do not believe that such an establishment would increase to any appreciable degree the amount of money spent locally on liquor, other than that we would have more visitors.

The argument we have heard that it would encourage our youngsters to drinking hardly appears valid in a community of 4,000 people which spends, give and take, $123,000 annually on liquor.

We have every respect for the opinions of those who sincerely oppose the sale of alcohol in any form, anywhere, anytime, but we do honestly believe that in objecting to another outlet in Summerland, thus opposing efforts towards an hotel, that they are, in effect, closing the stable door after the horse has been stolen — for Summerland is very definitely not dry.

over by a Fall Fruit Fair Association. It is not rocketing off to the moon to suggest that Summerland's Fall Fruit Fair could become the outstanding agricultural fair in the south Okanagan.

And here's a mean thought — why not claim by right, the title of Peach Festival — after all we did and do have in quantity, peaches at our fair.

Hogg-Huva Rites Held in United Church Here

Miss Esther Huva of Penticton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Huva, of West Summerland, was united in marriage with Ernest Simpson, Hogg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar G. Hogg, 1101 Redlands Road, Penticton, in a late afternoon double ring ceremony on Saturday, Sept. 5, in Summerland United Church at 5:30 p.m. Rev. Philip Louie officiated.

Gladioli in lovely autumn tones shading from white through yellow, gold and orange were banked at the front of the church accenting the bride's traditional white gown and complementing the attendants in shades of blue.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and had chosen a gown of peau de soie, floor length, fashioned in princess style with a bateau neckline, the bodice overlaid with lace and having long lace sleeves. Three pointed lace inserts in the hooped skirt were trimmed with a peau de soie rose.

Tulle in a crown shape with mother of pearl sequins held the French illusion veil and the bride carried yellow roses. She wore the groom's gift, a single strand of pearls with matching earrings.

Mrs. Larry Lemke, of Chilliwack, the bride's sister, was matron of honor attired in dark turquoise, ballerina length, with a matching head-dress and gloves. She carried orange colored gladioli.

Bridesmaids were another sister of the bride, Mrs. Edwin Leki of Summerland in a shade of turquoise lighter than the matron of honor with matching hat and gloves and Miss Fay Craney of Penticton in light turquoise. Her hat and gloves matched her frock.

Both bridesmaids' gowns were of crystalline sheer and their flowers were orange gladioli.

The little flower girl was the bride's niece, Joanne Huva who wore orange crystalline in a short style. She had a white headband and carried white flowers.

Brian Pollock was best man and the groom's brothers in law, Adam Sabayan of Keremeos and Larry Lemke of Chilliwack were the ushers.

While the register was signed Miss Alice Lockhart of Penticton sang "Because". Organist was K. M. Storey of Summerland.

At the reception held in the IOOF Hall, Adam Huva proposed the toast to the bride with a response by the groom. The toast to the attendants was given by the best man, Edwin Leki was master of ceremonies.

The lovely three tiered wedding cake was made by the groom's mother and decorated by Mrs. Ralph Gibbard, Summerland with pink rosebuds on the white background.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Mel Gregory, Mrs. Rudy Vogel, Miss Barbara Clue, Miss Joan Bertram and Miss Pat Conley.

The honeymoon is to be spent in the States. For going away the bride wore a white flannel suit with orange hat and accessories, brown shoes and bag. Her corsage was orange.

The couple will make their home in Penticton on their return.

Out of town guests were Mrs. M. Weist, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lemke of Chilliwack, Henry Huva, Williams Lake; Miss Norma Arndt, Mrs. Gus Lemke, and Gordon of Calgary; Miss Pat Conley, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. W. Tennant, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Tennant, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hancock, Naramata.

Apple Blossom School is again in operation in the Anglican Parish Hall. Mrs. Leibert, assisted by Mrs. Farrow, is in charge. Although the enrolment is small, important work is being done.

This school is made possible by generous donations from the people of Summerland, and assistance from the Department of Education.

The local sponsoring organization was formed two years ago, in an effort to provide training for handicapped children until they can become a regular part of the school system. The provincial government, at its last session, passed the enabling legislation, and the school district can now incorporate this group under the regular school system.

Building Down From Last Year

Building has slowed down in Summerland this year, in comparison to last year. The August building report issued by building inspector Roy Angus shows only 12 permits were issued in August this year for a value of $12,070 as compared with four permits in August 1958 to the value of $10,700.

For the eight months this year building permits value of $265,120 were issued as against $339,630 for the corresponding eight months of 1958.

The old clothes line with its tattle tale grey washing will soon be as extinct as the Dodo if the trend to dryers continues. On Tuesday Municipal Council approved installation of three dryers, one for the United Church.

RATES ESTABLISHED

Electrical workers rates were established under the new two year contract with the IBEW at $2.73.

Fruit prices are determined by the law of supply and demand and the price of competitive fruit on the market. Pocket to pocket

If you come right down to hard facts, a wage increase under these conditions is just a case of taking it away from one group (the farmer) and giving it to another (labor). I don't begrudge labor a fair wage but the fact is labor gets more but the farmer gets less.

It looks like quite a problem to reconcile the opposing interests of labor and farmer and hitch them as a team to the same political wagon.

Urges Hunters to Respect Access Signs

The farmers of B.C. can expect more gentlemanly hunters this year, a survey made by B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs has shown.

The federation, parent body of all fish and game clubs in B.C., has been studying access to farm and forested land for several months and has found that the highest level of friendly relationship between landowner and sportsmen exists in the farm and ranchland of B.C. and the forests of Vancouver Island. In interior B.C. the cordial understanding has reached new high levels this year. Members of the Kelowna & District Rod & Gun Club actually protested that the pheasant shooting hours were too long and that hunting after 4 p.m. would annoy orchard workers. They are asking hunters to stay out of the orchards after that hour.

Arrangements for access to farmland in the Interior in many cases, hinges on the sportsman being a member of a fish and game club and carrying group liability insurance, which generally goes along with membership. On some land, access is limited, but a special series of signs informs the sportsman as he enters the farm gate. In the Fraser Valley, hunters are expected to ask permission before venturing on any farm land, even if it is not posted. This, the Federation reminds, is only common courtesy.

A committee of executives of the Federation is currently studying access problems in B.C. and will make recommendation to government and land owners as soon as its findings are complete. Meanwhile Federation president Bruno Reimer, of Trail, has asked that every hunter treat the 1959 season as a crucial one in which the sportsmen's behaviour will count toward future access to recreational lands.

waters. Nine enthusiastic boys attended the camp under the leadership of Rob Towgood and Dr. D. V. Fisher with assistance from Jim Towgood. # Your Kitchen is a Tattle-Tale

What does your kitchen tell about you? Make no mistake. To the expert who can read the signs, your kitchen tells quite a story.

Do you have a refrigerator, and a freezer but are indifferent to a dishwasher? Then you take pride in the meals you serve and rarely begrudge the hours you invest fussing with your family's food.

Perhaps you can do without a freezer, but you do yearn for a dishwasher. You are not lazy, but you tend to feel trapped doing kitchen clean-up jobs. Possibly you like to be free to share the activities and hobbies of your husband and children or you have a creative talent that pulls you away from the kitchen.

Recently I visited three model kitchens, all exactly the same size, all equipped with the same basic appliances. But what a difference in mood and theme.

One was sunny, one was soothing and the last of the tell-tale trio was sophisticated.

What about your kitchen? Is it spanking white? It would be considered austere and clinical by one woman, but efficient and spotless by another.

Whatever the color choice, this is your room; it tells more about you than any other room in the house.

We little think as we go father and grandfather.

I wish to thank all the kind eyes, flowers and visited and a 345 ft. home run over the centre field fence by Don Main.

The Red Sox left little to be desired in their defensive work and when Chapman did get in trouble a couple of times catcher Warren Parker picked two men off 1st base with perfect throws.

If stars were given out they would have to go to Chapman for his pitching, Parker with his flawless catching and Don Main with 3 for 5 at the plate including a single, a double, and the long home run.

The season will wind up a double header if necessary next Sunday in Vernon with it is hoped that part of Sunday's large crowd will make the trip and watch the Summerland boys win the cup for the first time since 1955.

has come for the building of a hotel, and that the Board of Trade should endeavor to approach the provincial government to hold a plebiscite for dissenting voices were heard regarding the liquor outlet, so a motion was placed before the meeting authorizing the New Developments Committee to investigate the possibilities of securing the hotel with the liquor outlet issue to be brought forward at a later date, if necessary. Mr. Stoll also advocated more outside exhibitors should be asked to put in displays, especially those firms selling orchard and fruit harvesting equipment. Such displays would not only add interest to the fair, but they would also help to increase the revenue.

After completion of the business of the evening, program chairman Bill Gilmour introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Vern Lockwood, who gave a very interesting and informative talk on his travels in Eastern Canada and the United States. The journey to Quebec was made by dome car, and from there Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood sailed on the first boat to go through the St. Lawrence Seaway. Slides were shown to illustrate the many points of interest visited by the Lockwoods during their three months holiday.

According to the Mood . . .

By SID GODBER

It's thoroughly disheartening — I've been on the run all week — and done more in the nature of physical work this week than I have for some time — but those bathroom scales registered a gruesome 205 pounds this a.m.

Did a double check on one of Charlie (Young's Electric) Minter's scales in the hope that ours was lying — but there it was, me, 211 pounds clothed.

Maybe I'm one of those guys who should eat, drink and be merry — for why diet, thirst and be morose for no purpose?

I would have thought fuming impatiently at the Americans would burn up some calories and I'm certainly fuming at that great nation south of the border.

This silent treatment they're giving Soviet Premier Khrushchev, seems to be a dandy way not to put him in a good mood for his talks with President Eisenhower, talks which could decide the fate of the world to come.

The Americans are like weathervanes. Only a few weeks back they were writing Eisenhower off as a very lame duck president, then, because he gets a tremendous, almost hysterical welcome in Europe, even from the more phlegmatic Britons, the Americans go off on another hero worship binge. Ike does it again.

What the American people do not seem to realize is that the welcome Ike got, showed beyond doubt the deep seated fear of war that abides in Europe. The same thing with the welcome extended Vice-President Nixon in Russia and Poland. The Russians, the Europeans know war. It is still less than 20 years since their cities were destroyed and men, women and children died, less than 20 years since the greatest atrocities of all time were committed by a civilized nation.

Does Eisenhower refuse to shake hands with leaders of that nation, with so much innocent blood on their hands?

Does Eisenhower refuse to shake hands with Chiang Kai Chek, another one whose hands are stained with blood and corruption.

So, he has to get finicky with the man who almost with a nod could destroy the world.

The American people don't know war — sure they contributed, but only a very small percentage, to the killed and maimed, of the last two world wars, but they still don't know war. In fact, with their gold star mothers and the feverish excitement they whip up — Americans are more inclined to look on war as something of a lark.

The peoples of Europe know first hand of what war means. That is why the Russians and the Poles went overboard for Nixon — they saw in the very presence of the enemy on their soil a glimmer of hope that war could be avoided.

Premier Khrushchev may be guilty of a lot of bloody crimes but the Americans have some bloody doings on their record too. Indian massacres, the excesses of the American Civil War — and they did drop the first Atomic Bomb. The people of Hiroshima cry out just as much as do the Hungarians.

Seems to me that President Ike Eisenhower and the American people would do well to take the same attitude towards Premier Khrushchev as the Russians and the Poles took towards Nixon — that here in his (Khrushchev's) presence on U.S. soil is a glimmering of hope for world peace.

We're betting that the Russians will give Ike a warmer welcome than their own premier is getting in the States today and that won't be from any particular love or admiration of him as a person, but simply because his presence holds out hope for peaceful co-existence.

And the Russians who have just demonstrated they can hit the moon, equivalent of a rifleman shooting out the eye of a fly at six miles, will not be cheering Ike from weakness, but in the deep seated knowledge that the Americans of today have yet to realize, that war, as one of their own generals said, "is hell."

Egely Benefit Game Sunday, Red Sox-Macs

Can the youngsters beat the oldsters?

Can the champions of the Okanagan Junior League, the Summerland Red Sox, beat the senior Summerland Macs?

That juicy question will be decided here on Sunday when the Juniors and Seniors will clash at the Athletic Park, game time 2:30 p.m.

But it is more than the promise of a good ball game which should bring out the crowd by the hundreds — it's the long-awaited Ollie Egely benefit game.

It is an opportunity for Summerland sport lovers to pay tribute to a veteran Summerland athlete who some weeks ago was struck by a pitched ball necessitating complicated and expensive surgery and medical treatment in Vancouver.

Today Ollie Egely still does not know whether or not he will recover the sight of one eye and his hearing. The money raised so far falls far short of meeting medical expenses, let alone compensating for lost work time.

Summerland can help Ollie by turning out in force for the big benefit game Sunday at the Athletic Park and it looks like good weather for it.

Junior Red Sox Win Valley Baseball Title

The Summerland Red Sox defeated the Vernon Essos 4-1 in Vernon Sunday to win the interior championship and the John Norwood Memorial Trophy in two straight games.

Since the playoffs started a month ago the local boys have a record of 5 wins and no defeats against Penticton, Kamloops and Vernon.

The Red Sox have now taken the championship 5 times, Kelowna 3 and Vernon 2 times since the league was formed 11 years ago.

The game in Vernon was close all the way and a better game than the first one. Summerland got a two run lead in the 3rd on a double by Lemke, a single by McCutcheon and a Vernon error. They increased the lead to 4-0 in the 8th on two walks, and a long double by Dewitt. The Vernon team threatened on several occasions and twice had the bases loaded only to have Sheeley bear down and get strike outs for the third out. Vernon scored their only run on two hits and an error in the last of the 9th.

If stars were given out the whole team, including

Ask Regarding Liquor Plebiscite

Two groups interested in the matter of liquor licences waited upon council last night. The first was headed by L. A. Smith interested in regulations governing a club license in the event the Yacht Club built a club house

George Stoll with Joe Biollo asked what the situation was regarding a plebiscite and on the suggestion of the Reeve will make a formal request to council for a plebiscite. There is money available for a hotel Mr. Stoll asserted.

Unless the Summerland Hospital is brought up to date, to meet the standards of the Federal Government there is a danger that it may be turned down and we would lose the hospital.

That warning was given council last night by a delegation from the Hospital Board of Directors along with an itemized list for renovations and new equip-

Hospital must be maintained

Reeve F. E. Atkinson said the hospital certainly should be maintained and that we did not want to lose it, but pointed out that it was impossible for council to give a firm answer on expenditure of this size without serious consideration but council did not object to the

Elevator key to using space

Big item is a tentative estimate of $20,000 for installation of an elevator. This is the key to opening up the basement level providing space for laboratories, X-ray room, storage space and also for additional bed accommodation.

Other items were $1,300 for laboratory renovations, $1,000 for laboratory equipment to bring it up to standard.

ment of which Council's share was tentatively estimated at between $15,000 to $20,000.

Robert Alstead, chairman of the hospital board, Harvey Wilson, chairman of finance, and J. E. O'Mahony hospital administrator, waited upon council, explaining that they had to record proposed improvements, with the BCHIS by October 1.

proposed improvements being recorded with the BCHIS.

The hospital is big business, Mr. Alstead told the Council, it is being increasingly used and is now filled to capacity and there is every indication that we will need more space in the near future.

New visual call system at a cost of $4,500 for the nurses and provision of a proper nurses station.

Equipment room $750.

New X-ray machine $7000

Walk-in refrigerator.

Total estimated expenditure around $38,000 which it is thought would be shared three ways — between the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

School Accreditation to be Discussed at PTA

One of the questions frequently asked by parents and a question that has been rather insistently asked of late is why Summerland High School is not an accredited school.

Parents interested can get the answer to this question at the next regular meeting of the PTA, Thursday, October 1, when Schools Inspector C. E. Clay will speak on the topic "Your School and Accreditation."

A large attendance is expected at this meeting judging by the more than 200 parents who attended last week's meeting called by the new High School principal A. J. Longmore.

Mr. Longmore and the district superintendent, Mr. Clay, both spoke.

Mr. Longmore outlined the policy in the high school where basically university and general programs are separate graduating streams of education.

A brief asking Council support for reconstruction of the former nine hole golf course on municipal land was submitted to council last night by a delegation headed by W. Gillard and including Robin Wright, Don Cristante and Don Clark.

Council was interested in the possibility of the project being included in the winter works program under which 75 percent of the labor costs would be borne by the Federal Government, 50 percent, the provincial government 25 percent.

Municipal Clerk Gordon Smith was instructed to explore this possibility and Councillor Norman Holmes was delegated to meet with the golf course committee to discuss the matter more closely. The brief follows in full:

Gentlemen:

Judging from comments in the local newspaper recently, it appears that there is no need to try and sell this council on the desirability of a sporting, scenic golf course for Summerland.

This interest of council is shared by many, as indicated by the fact that with the

Schools To Get More Equipment

The large enrollment at the Summerland schools has necessitated the purchase of more desks and other school equipment, the school board explained to Council in a letter read at last night's Council meeting. The school board asked for a release of $1700 in bylaw funds to pay for the equipment.

He said that the school is continuing the policy of probation if required for students who do not work diligently or become a discipline problem to the extent of disrupting teaching. Department of education policies of requiring 85 credits to register in grade 12, and giving the principal the prerogative to withhold or withdraw credits in courses where the students have not worked diligently or has not completed assignments or necessary examinations, were also explained.

Parents were interested in vocational, technical and business opportunities available to high school graduates and asked questions concerning them.

Mr. Clay and Mr. Longmore spent time explaining the various fields of vocation.

Congratulations to the Champs

Summerland's Junior Red Sox blazed Summerland's name on the sporting scrolls of the province on Sunday when they defeated a strong Vernon junior nine to win the Norwood Memorial Trophy, emblematic of Junior Baseball supremacy in the Interior.

This is sport at its finest — home grown athletes, our own youngsters, no imports, no big payroll — sport played for love of the game and for the honor of the community.

This is the kind of sport which should win the community not only in the heat and color of playoffs but through the season.

Anyway the Red Sox won — we hope some form of community recognition will be given the youngsters who, on Sunday, reminded the valley that Summerland can still raise a winner.

Winter Works

The winter works assistance program of the Federal Government now supplemented by the Provincial Government's offer to pay 25 percent of the labor cost is one that few municipalities can afford to ignore.

Here in Summerland our Council is wide-awake to the situation but there are limitations to what Council can do unless it is to borrow money. The golf course project submitted to Council last night is a case in point. Summerland could have a substantial winter payroll, for which it would only pay 25 cents on the dollar, and acquire a golf course which would be a substantial asset to the community and which in the long run would be one of those projects so dear to the heart of Premier W. A. C. Bennett, a self-liquidating one.

But to implement the golf course project and other substantial winter works, Council would have to borrow.

The question is, would borrowing be justified? Our opinion is yes, provided the project is one that has to be done and would eventually be done in the ordinary scheme of things or, as in the case of the golf course, the project would be self-liquidating.

We also think Council should ask the Okanagan Valley Municipal Association to approach the federal government and request a change of regulations insofar as they apply to the valley, to allow employment of distressed orchardists, for many orchardists, through no fault of their own, are worse off than those employed who have unemployment insurance to lean on.

According to the Mood . . .

By SID. GODBER

If President Ike Eisenhower had made the speech that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev made before the United Nations last week, it would have been hailed as a great and humanitarian speech — the greatest contribution to peace in our time — man oh man, wouldn't the Americans have gone to town on that one. But alas, Ike didn't make it, that roly-poly man from behind the Iron Curtain made that speech and, in consequence, our so-called great statesmen, our superior diplomats are twisting or, trying to twist, the Soviet leader's words, cast doubts on his sincerity and, it seems to me that every time they open their mouths, they make Khrushchev a bigger man.

Khrushchev has put Eisenhower and the free world on the griddle.

The question he has posed is something like asking a man if he has stopped beating his wife.

What Khrushchev has asked the free world is "do you want peace?"

Our Free World leaders must be doing some soul searching to answer that one. Judging by the reaction to the Khrushchev speech which seems to indicate that our leaders are more afraid of Khrushchev with a dove of peace in his hand than of a Khrushchev with a sword.

If they are not afraid why this effort to belittle and to destroy the peace offer?

It would be a simple matter for the Free World to cry out a joyful acceptance of the principle laid down by Khrushchev — then it would soon be learned if there is sincerity and goodwill behind the offer.

Everybody seems to be harping on this matter of controls. "Controls" is the key word in this belittling of the peace offer, but unless words no longer mean what they say I don't know how Khrushchev could have laid it down any clearer.

Said the Russian leader: "We are in favor of general disarmament under control, but we're against control without disarmament."

What could be plainer — what could be more of a commitment to accept control, which means inspection. Certainly the Free World cannot buy total disarmament without adequate controls, but unless Khrushchev is lying in his teeth Russia is prepared to accept control.

But the Free World condemns the offer out of hand. Pie in the sky — Alice in Wonderland, say the diplomats, dodging hither and yon — but they can't escape it — that speech of Khrushchev's has gone out around the world — and the millions of the uncommitted have heard it — the millions of the underprivileged have heard it and the western world, the free world, must face up to it.

Sure there are stinging nettles to grasp — the free world is going to have to face up to the long overdue recognition of Red China — the free world is going to have to settle the Berlin question — as for the nations such as Hungary, and others, Russian occupied or Russian dominated — well it seems that the Russian armies will be going home and will become non-existent, so each nation will keep its own peace and eventually have the government of its choice.

The west instead of carping and trying to look under the rug should have hailed Khrushchev's offer as the beginning of the end of the cold war.

The onus of peace or war seems to have been placed on our shoulders — if we don't go along with the Russians, if we don't call their bluff, if it is bluff, we'll be tagged the guilty party, and the uncommitted and underprivileged nations will fall into the communists' lap and then it will be only a matter of time before the big bang and the end of the world.

Missionary Speaks to Women's Federation

The September meeting of the Women's Federation of the United Church opened in the church hall at 2:30 Thursday, September 17, with the president, Mrs. K. Dunsdon in the chair.

The favorite hymn of Mrs. Evelyn Gould was sung, then Mrs. Melvin Pollock led the devotional, with Mrs. S. A. MacDonald reading the Bible lesson and Mrs. Dunsdon leading in prayer.

The new minister, Rev. Phillip Louie and his wife, were special guests and introduced by the president. Mr. Louie spoke of their pleasure at being present.

Mrs. Dunsdon introduced the guest speaker, Miss Kathleen Anderson, a retired missionary, who worked in nearly all the provinces of Canada, as well as in China for ten years. Just before her retirement, Miss Anderson was the WNS hospital visitor in Winnipeg, where her home is.

Miss Anderson spoke first of how she has fallen in love with Summerland after spending the past two months here.

The particular subject of Miss Anderson's talk was the establishing of a nursing service in 1929, by the WMS in the little community of Gypsumville in Manitoba and of the opening of of church there in 1932. The only sources of employment were the gypsum quarry and the fishing in Lake Winnipeg. No medical services were available; closer than Winnipeg, there were no roads in only three trains a week. Two nurses established a hospital in an old house. A Sunday School, Explorers and CGIT were started in the school. In 1932 Miss Anderson arrived as a full time church worker and by this time the basement for a church was dug. It was finished in April 1933. Miss Anderson told of the great success of the first White Gift service held to teach the children the joy of giving something from all that they had been given to help others.

Many interesting incidents were related to illustrate the work performed by the church and hospital and of how the church became the centre of community life. Now a doctor comes to Gypsumville once a month to hold a clinic, but the nurse supervised the birth of 35 children in three years, with no doctor in attendance.

Miss Anderson stressed the fact that this work is only possible because of the gifts of all the individual groups of Women's Missionary Societies in Canada. Mrs. Wallace Boothe thanked the speaker on behalf of the members and Mrs. Ward presented a lovely bouquet of fall flowers to Miss Anderson.

The regular business of the meeting was then carried out and after closing with the Mizpah benediction tea was served by Mrs. Halquist, Mrs. Ritchie and Mrs. MacDonald to thirty members and three guests.

SERMON TOPIC

"Your religion... a steering wheel or a spare tire?" is the topic of the sermon to be delivered by the Rev. Lyle Kennedy of the Summerland Baptist Church on Sunday.

The theme — For many people who profess themselves as followers of Christ, their religion has definitely the place of the spare tire. It is something to have along in case of a blow-out on the road of life. In case of emergency it is good to have on hand. We hope and pray that we will not have to use it, but just in case, it is packed with the other gear of life.

Early Fall Wedding for Kranz-Raincock

A lovely early autumn wedding took place in Summerland United Church on Saturday evening, September 12, at seven o'clock. Rev. Philip Louie officiating. Carol Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Raincock was the bride, and the groom was Alexander John Kranz, of Trail, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kranz of Fruitvale.

Gladioli in glowing shades of pink were arranged with white glads to decorate the church.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was in gleaming white satin, floor length, simply fashioned with a deep V neckline, long lily point sleeves, the slim waist line in a V at the front and back. The skirt made in deep unpressed pleats, fell in graceful folds.

A chapel length veil was held with a pearl encrusted coronet and the bride carried a shower bouquet of shaded pink roses. Her jewellery was an heirloom bracelet which had been in the Raincock family for 150 years.

The bride's two sisters, Miss Arlene Raincock, just home from England, and Miss Elinor Raincock, were the attendants, the former latter as bridesmaid. Both as maid of honor and the were charmingly gowned in identical frocks of pink embroidered cotton satin, afternoon length.

A hint of the season of the year was indicated in their pink feather and velvet hats and shower bouquets of white and pale mauve chrysanthemums.

Ray Nuttall of Naramata was best man. Ushers were Harry Lewis of Trail and Terry Partridge of Naramata.

Mrs. Delmar Dunham was the organist for the service and Mrs. Noel Green was the soloist.

At the reception following in the IOOF Hall, in West Summerland, Mr and Mrs. Raincock and the groom's parents were assisted in receiving by the bridal party.

Catering and serving was by the Faith Rebekah Lodge of Summerland and the maid of honor and the bridesmaid served the wedding cake.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth made by the bride's grandmother Mrs. Edith Raincock, of Penticton. The three-tiered wedding cake centred table decorations and silver candlesticks with pink tapers complemented it.

Adrian Arnold proposed a toast to the bride to which the groom responded. George Moxham, Trail, gave a toast to the bridesmaids with response by the best man.

The couple left for a camping, hunting and fishing trip to the Peace River area and to Edmonton.

For motoring the bride wore a beige and blue plaid suit with beige hat and brown accessories.

On their return they will make their home at 1388 Birch Ave., Trail.

Use Green Fertilizer

Almost any garden soil, when left to its own resources will soon become short of humus, so this should be added each year. Although well made garden compost or rotted manure may be best, other kinds may be used, one of which is called "green manure."

This is provided by digging a quick growing crop into the soil before it is fully mature, i.e. when it provides the greatest bulk. The green plants decay in the soil and provide the humus which is so essential to fertility. Humus, by the action of bacteria in the soil, is further reduced into fertilizing salts, so green manuring may be regarded as a method of holding plant foods in the soil.

On light soil this holding power becomes of high importance because, light porous land, that lies idle for any length of time is apt to lose its soluble food matter through the action of rains.

The green manure plants, however, use these soluble plant foods by absorbing them into their tissues and, by forming a root system, hold those that they cannot absorb in their hair like roots.

In heavy ground the holding of fertilizing matter takes second place to the benefit derived from the humus, as bulky plants dug into heavy ground, break up the still soil, leave it more porous and friable and tend to warm it by the heat of decomposition.

As animal manure becomes scarcer each year, green manuring should be practised regularly when part of the garden becomes vacant. On vacant ground not needed for a whole season, as many as three crops can be turned back into the soil. Immediately before turning it under, apply a light sprinkling of sulphate of ammonia; this helps it to decay quicker and replaces nitrogen in the soil.

The seed must be cheap and the plants must grow quickly to provide bulk. The plants most often grown are rye, vetch, rape and mustard. Roughly an ounce of seed to each square yard is used.

Vetch is often recommended, because like all leguminous plants it has the power of fixing nitrogen in the nodules on its roots.

Golf Course

surface barely scratched; we have a list of 55 residents who have given a firm promise to take out membership.

At the instigation of Mr. W. Gillard, a meeting was called of a skeleton group to seek ways and means of rehabilitating the old golf course, organizing a club and in general to restore concrete block pump house to house the pressure pump.

The next item is not in-golf to the community.

We believe that to make the golf course playable, with grass greens, would require a minimum capital investment of $10,000.00, which works out to $1,000 per green, including a water system, with $1000 for the always unforeseen extras

It is our hope that this capital could be raised by the sale of shares, $100.00 a share to one hundred investors. These would be offered at a reasonable rate of interest, with the shares retirable after two clear years of operation on the basis of so many shares a year, the number to be decided by the membership in accordance with the club's financial status, the payees to be decided by lot.

The shares would be issued on a monthly payment plan of not less than $5.00 a month spread over eighteen months.

We believe that this amount of money could be raised, but we also recognize that it would take time to finance the project completely in this manner and therefore we approach Council with the following suggestions.

Council will, we are sure, agree that in making a bid for membership and before offering shares we should have a concrete plan to offer, a plan which would permit the promise of golf on grass greens within a year. (Early next fall, 1960).

To do this we must depend in full measure upon Council's interest and co-operation, in implementing a project which will add to the attractiveness of the community for residents, would most certainly help to attract new residents and a project which would stimulate the tourist industry in Summerland. Further and of considerable importance to the community as a whole, this project would provide for substantial winter work which we believe would quality under the winter works program in which labour costs would be shared 50-25-25, 50% from the Federal Government, 25% from the Provincial Government and 25% from the Municipality.

Which means that if ten men were employed 12 weeks on the project at $1.50 per hour for a 40 hour week that the Municipality would get $7,200 worth of work for the cost to the Municipality of only $1,800.

Council will note that projects outlined below can utilize man power to a great degree.

(1) The digging out and removing of the oiled sand constituting the present sand greens.

(2) The replacing of this sand with top soil of the type and quality required for growing good grass cover.

(3) Simultaneously with number two the preparation of temporary greens, when feasible, ready for seeding in the spring to allow for golfing in the early fall of 1960, thus allowing the permanent greens to be properly developed before being open for play.

(4) Digging of a trench and required laterals to serve greens and fairways and tee off points in preparation in the spring of 1960 for plastic water pipe lay-

(5) Building of a small cluded in the estimated $10,000.00 expenditure, but is included here as an ideal project for winter employment as it is more a matter of man power than materials and machinery.

(6) The construction of a golf club house. This would be of log on stone or concrete foundation. The finishing of this house would be left to the club membership, such as the installing of windows, doors, partitions, except the basic log division walls. We would also suggest that a large stone fireplace and chimney again largely a labour cost be included in the work by the Municipality.

(7) General cleaning up of the course, mowing fairways and so on.

In making the foregoing proposals we are conscious of the fact that Council must operate within the Municipal Act and is also responsible to the taxpayers as a whole and that these facts must be considered.

In this regard we wish to point out that first, anything that is good for Summerland is good for all of Summerland; two, in the long run this project would not cost the taxpayers of Summerland the proverbial red cent.

We propose as one alternative that Council would take over the project as a municipal venture and lease it back to the golf club at an annual rental designed to reimburse Council over a period of years, to be mutually determined and furthermore that Council would take all green fees until such time as the debt is fully repaid.

We suggest that while these proposals are sketchy they do provide a basis for discussion. And we do feel that if the development can be brought under the winter works contributory program that Summerland can acquire a sporting, scenic golf course that will do much to make Summerland a better place in which to live, work and play.

All of which is respectfully submitted by the Golfing Committee, pro-tem.

W. Gillard,
Chairman.

Eddie Matsu, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Matsu left on Sunday to return to UBC.

Volume 14, No. 40 Wednesday, September 30

Election fever has now shifted to junior ranks with the following candidates campaigning for office on the Junior Council: for president, Judy Betuzzi, Teresa Keys, Janet Groat; for vice-president, Mike Lopatecki and Gary Grycon; for secretary Anne Powell and Don Delves. The post of treasurer is by appointment. Election day for the Junior Council is Monday.

"Bud" Steuart Takes Over High School Band

Summerland's famed High School Band will appear under a new baton when next it makes a public appearance.

High School Principal J. E. Longmore announced today that the school band will be taken over by W. A. "Bud" Steuart as an extra-mural activity.

John Tamblin, vice-prinicipal of the school, said he was happy indeed that such an able instructor, musician and conductor had been secured to carry on with the band, which has been under Mr. Tamblin's instruction for the past seven years.

"Since taking over as vice principal I have found it increasingly difficult to give

Dental Clinic For School Children Opens

The School Board is planning a preventative dental program for pupils of grade 1 in MacDonald and Trout Creek schools, commencing the third week in October. This plan will be operated in co-operation with the South Okanagan Health Unit and Dr. J. P. Ratzlaff, local dentist. The purpose will be that children will receive dental treatment at a critical age at nominal cost to the parent.

Two hours will be allowed for treatment of each child during the year and the number of appointments will depend upon the need of the individual child. Parents will be notified of the time of each appointment and will be expected to provide transportation to the dental office. The treatment to be given will be of a preventative nature and will not include emergency or chronic cases.

Registration and consent forms will be sent to parents of Grade 1 pupils from the principal's office, MacDonald School, and these

Fruit Industry Tribute to Summerland Reeve

The Valley fruit industry paid tribute last Friday to F. E. Atkinson for the part he has played over the years in development of fruit processing.

R. P. Walrod, General Manager of B.C. Tree Fruits and B.C. Processors, spoke on behalf of the industry, presenting Mr. Atkinson with the highly-coveted certificate of a Fellowship in the Agricultural Institute of Canada. The announcement of the honor accorded Mr. Atkinson was made in July but the presentation was made at a meeting of the Provincial Council of Agrologists and Agricultural Institute of Canada held last Friday in the IOOF Hall following a dinner at which more than 30 agrologists attended.

President of the organization is Sherley Preston of the B.C. department of agriculture, Prince George.

Registrar is Campbell Hackney of Vancouver.

Members of the executive council are J. W. Lee, Kelowna; C. L. Wilkinson, of Kamloops; Dr. C. A. Hornby and Dr. Howell Harris of the UBC department of agriculture, and Mills Windram, Vancouver.

Mr. Walrod's tribute to the head of the Summerland Regional Research Centre of the Canada Department of Agriculture at Summerland follows:

The fruit industry recognizes the service rendered to it by F. E. Atkinson, which has extended over a period of some thirty years. During all of this time he has shown unusual initiative and imagination in the

.22 Disposes of Big Cougar Near Fish Lake

A big mountain lion, seven foot, five inches long, was knocked out of a tree by a well aimed .22 bullet, fired by Jake Ennis of the Fish Lake camp.

Mr. Ennis treed the cougar about two miles south of Fish Lake. His smidge of a dog (see picture) made enough racket to scare ten cougars.

The cougar bounded away into the brush and Mr. Ennis was reluctant to follow armed only with a .22, but the smidge of a dog did not stop to consider that a wounded cougar at bay could be a nasty customer and it bounded into the bush. Shortly after the little smidge announced finding the cougar.

Mr. Ennis moved in cautiously, but the cougar was dead. That one .22 bullet had done the trick.

Badminton Starts Thursday

A sure sign that winter is on the doorstep is when George Fudge puts away his tennis racquet and takes out his badminton gear.

Mr. Fudge, president of the Summerland badminton club announces that the badminton season will officially open on Thursday (October 1) at 8 p.m. in the Badminton Hall.

Indications are for a good season, but there is room for many new members. Coaching is available to new members. A junior section will again be operated.

Neighbors in trouble
Down in the state of Washington fruit growers are having a rough time of it. We used to hear stories of the high prices our neighbors were getting and we looked with envy on the high measure of prosperity which had come their way. Well, the story is different today.

The American northwest fruit growers have gone through two disastrous marketing seasons and now this year they have started off by having to accept a low cannery price for their peaches and pears.

B.C. growers are selling their peaches to canners this year for $87.50 to $100 a ton. We can imagine the cry of anguish that would go up if the price was only $47.50.

That's the price Washington growers settled for, and they are most unhappy about it, too. Also they are not cheering about their cannery pear price which is $65 compared with our B.C. price of $102.50.

Okanagan growers can give full credit for these higher cannery prices to the fact that they have a well organized one-desk marketing system — something that Washington growers are now wishing they had.

The Goodfruit Grower, published in Yakima, Washington, calls attention to our B.C. one-desk system and says, of their own fruit industry: "Organization on an industry wide basis is the only answer to the marketing problems of the Northwest fruit industry. And if it means giving up some 'freedom' to gain an association with your neighbors, it must be done! As it stands now, the only freedom left the unorganized grower is the freedom to go broke."

We sometimes hear a lot of squawking about our B.C. marketing agency, about restriction of freedom, and about handcuffing the individual grower so that he can't sell his crop as he pleases.

But a lot of clear thinking men in the fruit industry just across the border in the state of Washington see in our one-desk plan the only way to save their industry from disaster.

We have complications and we have problems, but I hate to think of the hopeless situation we would be in, were it not for the one-desk control.

Today's youngsters don't leave footprints on the sands of time — just tire tracks.

In Praise of Mr. Gaglardi

The Honorable Phillip A. Gaglardi increasingly commands our respect.

We liked his firm stand on the 60-mile-an-hour speed zones and we certainly admire his efforts to eliminate the 15-mile-an-hour school zones.

We believe along with the Minister of Highways that 60-mile-an-hour is a reasonable maximum on some stretches of highway; if not, why spend millions of taxpayers' money on building highways to accommodate the automobile of today? As we see it the modern car doing 60 on a modern highway is safer by far than the cars of a couple of decades ago doing 40 and 50 on roads of the horse and buggy era.

Now the Minister of Highways has abolished the 15-mile-an-hour limit in school zones on provincial highways. Again the Hon. Mr. Gaglardi is under fire, but he isn't backing down.

We think the new regulations sensible and, if anything, provide for greater safety. It is absurd to crawl through a school zone at 15-miles-an-hour during classes but quite often 15-miles-an-hour is 10 miles an hour too fast when the kids are crowding in or out of school.

School traffic patrols, well marked crossings and ample warning of an approaching school zone will we believe give our children more protection than a rigid 15-mile-an-hour speed limit.

What we think should be a matter of concern now is the lack of conformity. Here in Summerland, for example, we have the 15-mile-an-hour school zone and it is a matter that comes under the Municipal jurisdiction. At Peachland, the provincial regulations is in effect as it is in Penticton, where the schools are on provincial highways.

Such contradiction is bound to create confusion for the motorist, particularly the strangers within our gates, and we think could increase the hazard to our children. We believe the municipal governments concerned, (including Summerland) would be well advised to consider abolishing the 15-mile-an-hour zone in favor of conforming with provincial regulations.

Even so we tip our hat to the Hon. Mr. Gaglardi for having the guts to implement and to stand by the changes, both of which by their nature leave the Highways Minister very vulnerable for, of course, a traffic fatality in a 60-mile-an-hour zone, is blamed on the increased speed and likewise any accident in the new school zones, no matter how far removed from the new regulations, will be placed on Mr. Gaglardi's shoulders.

Fortunately for progress Mr. Gaglardi has very broad shoulders.

Better Parenthood Week

Do you take an interest in the school activities of your children? If you are not already numbered among the 53,000 members of PTA in British Columbia who are taking an interest in what is going on from day to day in the school lives of their children — you may immediately join the parents in your community and in whatever capacity you may have to offer — pool your contribution with the other parent-teacher members. You don't have to be a super money raiser, an executive type, a militant spirit — you just need to be a mother, a father, or a teacher with the same interest in enriching your child's school life as the interest you most certainly have in providing for your child the best possible home.

Better Parenthood Week was observed from September 20 to 26, in each of the 635 parent-teacher associations in the Province of British Columbia. The objective of each association is to enroll the interest and secure the membership of many parents who are not yet associated with parent-teacher work. There are 53,000 members of PTA actively engaged in the several facets of parent-teacher work, dedicated to the welfare of children.

Parent-teacher associations in British Columbia enter into all community projects which affect the health and welfare of children. Representatives sit on local, municipal, and provincial committees that consider such matters as school education, crime comics, television, civil defence, health, and recreation. During Better Parenthood Week the Parent-Teacher Federation emphasizes the responsibility of both parents, the father and the mother, to the child, and brings before the community the work of "Parent-Teachers" towards the mental, moral, spiritual, social and physical development of the child.

The objectives of "Better Parenthood Week" are simply stated as follows:

1. To promote more co-operative understanding between parents and teachers, and between the school and community at large.

2. To lend active support to all community efforts for better schools, children's health, recreational facilities, vocational guidance and prevention of delinquency.

3. To encourage the formation of groups for study and discussion.

4. To make fathers and mothers more fully aware of the importance of using the best possible methods in the care and training of their children, and to acquaint them with the many sources of help and information available. Every parent in our province should take advantage of the privilege of joining Parent-Teacher in furthering the welfare of all children in British Columbia.

Cancer Poster Contest for Students

High school students in B.C. are invited to compete for more than $600 in prizes in a poster contest sponsored by the B.C. Division of the Canadian Cancer Society.

The theme of the posters should be: "Join the cancer team — help science find the cure."

Students in grades nine to twelve can take part. Deadline for mailing entries is November 16.

School principals are asked to do the preliminary judging in each school and forward the three best posters to the B.C. Division. Members of the Vancouver Art Directors' Club will do the final judging.

A grand prize of $50 will be awarded along with first and second prizes of $25 and $10 in each of sixteen districts. The contest is part of the Division's year round education program, and is held in B.C. high schools every second year, alternating with an essay contest.

Students who wish to learn more about cancer before starting their posters can get the latest cancer pamphlets from their school principals.

According to the Mood . . .

By SID. GODBER

It ain't so — it just ain't so.

False advertising, that's what I call it.

For months I'd been toying with the idea — indulging in romantic dreams — but I just couldn't get up nerve to go into the drug store and buy a tube.

Then there it was, a tube of the stuff in the bathroom cabinet, how it got there I still don't know. Anyway there it was, I pondered it, examined my somewhat thin thatched pate — then swift decision, I reached for the tube — remembered the jingle "just a little dab 'll do yer" and there it was, my hair — what's left of it — sleek, shiny and, according to the advertising, loaded with sex appeal.

I sauntered regally down stairs. Mom gives me a brief glance, snapped, "I put a clean shirt out for you, why didn't you put it on?"

I stroked my hand over my sleek, shiny hair (what's left of it.)

Mom says, "Will you remember to bring some toilet paper home."

Wee daughter comes rushing downstairs. A brief, Hi Dad, have you got 50 cents for lunch and I've got to buy two pencils and pay whatshername back the five cents I owe her.

I handed over the 50 cents with one hand, stroked my slicked down locks with the other.

Daughter grabs 50 cents and is gone.

Oh well, I thought darkly, so that's what they think of me around here — but just wait until I get out. Good job, I mused, as I was driving to the office that our bookkeeper is on holiday, it would be embarrassing to start the day being chased through the backshop by a female with that look in her eye.

I hesitated about going out on the street. Any night you can see fellows on TV with just a dab on their hair being chased all over the lot by pretty girls.

Well, if those guys on TV stand it, I could and I took my slicked down shiny hair out onto the streets of Summerland.

It took real nerve to go into Macils — women to the right of me, women to the left of me, women in front of me, and women behind me, and me with Brylleream on my hair.

Now, according to the advertising those women should have just let out screams of rapture and huled themselves at me.

But it didn't happen — just business as usual and Mrs. White said "no advertising this week."

So it went on all day with nary a tumble for my bryllereamed locks. That's why, I'm back on the old water routine.

And that reminds me — by golly time marches on and I've just got to get in for a haircut before October 1 when the price goes up 25 cents.

Red Cross Workshop Now Open

The Red Cross Work Room opened Tuesday, September 22, with 21 present. There is still space for workers to knit, sew and quilt. Local disasters (that is for all of B.C.) accounted for the distribution of 228 quilts, 56 of which were from the local workroom. Fifteen crib covers made locally, were also used.

Letter to Editor

Dear Sir:

A recent circular from B.C. Tree Fruits Limited advises peach growers to let their fruit rot on the trees as there is no market for it.

On September 1st I watched a clerk in one of the largest Vancouver chain stores laying out WASHINGTON PEACHES about 2 1/2 inches diameter for sale at 55c per dozen and when I asked him if there were no peaches grown in B.C., he told me he was unable to get any Okanagan peaches that were ripe enough for sale.

This morning, I returned from the Cariboo and I can assure you that anyone taking a five ton load of peaches up the Cariboo Highway could sell every box at 10c per lb. before he got past Lac La Hashe, and another load between there and Keithley. I have been asked by very many housewives to bring them peaches for canning.

In Kamloops stores peaches are offered at 6 for 49c or 2 lbs. for 49c, Bartlett pears, which are small and almost rotten, 21c per lb. and at Clinton, 100 mile and Williams Lake the price is much higher. Apples, Macs are offered at $2.50 for 20 lbs. Is it not time that something is done to allow the Cariboo housewife to buy fruit at a reasonable price for canning instead of letting it rot on the trees?

There appears to be something operating between Cache Creek and Prince Rupert which holds the price at the top and the quality at the bottom.

Books at the Library

By Freda Storey

The Okanagan Regional Library van visited Summerland again this week, bringing a new selection of books covering a variety of subjects. For the teenagers and younger children, there are a number of new biographies and non-fiction dealing with such hobbies as boat building, manufacturing jewelry, or making model aeroplanes out of balsa wood. There is also a plentiful supply of new fiction by such well known authors as Blyton, Tunis and Terhune.

For adults there is a cosmopolitan selection; India, Egypt, Germany, Tibet, Africa, England, America and Canada each provide backgrounds for a variety of tales, some fiction and some non-fiction.

"Doctor from Lhasa" by T. Lobsang Rampa is perhaps outstanding among the non-fiction. Readers may remember "The Third Eye", by the same author, which created a sensation when it was published a year or two ago. In "Doctor from Lhasa" Lobsang Rampa continues his story, telling of his great journey to study medicine in Chungking, the troubles which befell him there leading on to what must have been the most terrible atrocities committed by the Japanese in World War II. This book makes startling and instructive reading, and I'm sure it will be in great demand.

"Elephant Hill" by Robin White, is a 1959 Harper prize novel. Set in India, it tells the story of Beth Sumner, a 35 year old spinster, who with her teaching career, and one romance behind her, goes out to visit her sister, a medical missionary's wife in Kasappur. Enroute she encounters Mr. Alagarsani, poet, merchant, a widower, whose son has been adopted by Beth's sister. East and West have come together in the child Matthu. In him they have already fused. A much more painful process is in question, in the meeting of his elders who must make their way past failures of communication, misunderstanding, and the opposing aspects of two very different civilizations. But as eyes and hearts are opened together, a way opens through the maze of custom and prejudice.

For those interested in Africa, Gwyn Griffith has written a second novel "By the North Gate." Here he handles with deft assurance a theme which is deeply symbolical of the torments that have wracked every part of that country during the last decade.

Egypt is represented in "The Fiery Night" by Joan Vatch, a story packed with excitement, telling of Englishmen, Englishwomen, Americans, and the flower of Egypt itself, swept by ambition, intrigue and corruption toward outrage and a blazing holocaust.

Concerning Germany, there is "Watch on the Bridge" by David Garthl and of London, England, Norman Collins has written "Bond Street Story."

There are just a few of the new arrivals at the Summerland Library this week. Many of the books requested during the past weeks have been sent down also. You are invited to come along and make your choice.

Our circulation showed an increase again last month. Two thousand six hundred and ninety books were issued during August, approximately four hundred more than during the same period last year. It is interesting to note that 836 of these were children's books, an increase of 200 on last year's figure. Our membership too is still on the upgrade. There were thirty-one new registrations last month. Of these, seventeen were children and fourteen adults.

Promenade Notes

In most areas night school classes in square dancing get underway this week. Beginners class in Penticton under the direction of Les Boyer started Monday. Intermediate classes in the High School Cafeteria under the instructorship of Bob Emerson of Omak will commence on Saturday, October 3. All dancers are invited to these classes.

It is planned to hold a beginners and an intermediate class in Summerland and dancers should contact Don Hermiston to enroll in these classes.

On September 27 the Okanagan Square Dance Assoc. held an executive meeting with representatives from 6 clubs present. Main business of this meeting was a brief which will be presented to the Callers-Teachers Assoc. on "walk throughs" at party nights. It is recommended by the Association that callers at party nights endeavor to call dances that can be easily enjoyed by all levels of dancers. No difficult squares which require several walk throughs should be called. Following the meeting a workshop was held and three dances were taught.

Hosts for the next workshop on October 25 will be the Totem Twirlers of Peachland.

In Your Orchard

by Alec Watt,
District Horticulturist

At least one long range forecast suggests that wet weather will be the rule in Western Canada during October. If this proves true we could be in for more rain during Newtown and Winesap harvesting time.

It will be remembered that heavy rains prevailed during the 1958 Newtown harvest. Following this in April of 1959 stored Newtowns were found to have a seriously high incidence of Bull's Eye Rot. This outbreak was far and away the worst in many years.

The Bull's Eye Rot organism is a fungus. The same organism causes Perennial Canker. When wet harvesting conditions occur the spores of this disease are carried into the boxes by rain dripping from the infected trees. At first no sign of the Rot is seen but later on the fruit develops rotten spots the size of a dime and re-packing may be necessary. Thus, although the rot develops in storage it originates in the orchard. Excluding rain from boxes and bins during Newtown and Winesap harvest will do much to prevent the development of Bull's Eye Rot later on.

In the case of boxes, remembering to place an empty on top of each stack will help, but a canvas thrown over the whole pile is probably more effective. With bins it should not be too costly to provide covers for a day's pick. One suggestion would be to use plywood sheets cut in half. Covers for 12 bins could be made for a material cost of approximately $17.28 if D grade 5-16" plywood is used. The labour involved would be negligible.

Of course the value of prompt removal of picked fruit from orchard to packing house storage must not be forgotten. The longer picked fruit remains in the orchard the greater are its chances of being contaminated with rain water containing the spores of Bull's Eye Rot. It may well be that if Newtowns are picked in dry weather and promptly moved to storage that is all that is necessary to protect against rot. However, should picking be necessary in intermittent rainy weather such as occurred in 1958 then covers could be most helpful.

The Summerland Macs and the Red Sox battled it out on Sunday in a benefit ball game for Ollie Egely, and after the smoke had cleared the Macs were on top by a 7-6 score. A large crowd was on hand to honor the popular Macs third base man and donated $186.50 to help with his medical expenses.

The Macs started with their "all star" line up, including "Five ball" Bill Evans on the mound. "Dirt in your eyes" George Clark behind the plate and Dr. Wilf "Stretch" Evans on 1st. "Scooter" Babe Kuroda played in the field.

They all looked good and the Macs could have us them during the regular season.

The Red Sox bolstered their team with three players from the Babe Ruth team. They were Len Trford on short, Dennis Lekey on 1st and Jim Sheel pitched three innings. They all looked good and will be heard from in junior baseball next year.

Babe Ruth League to Meet October 8

Babe Ruth baseball wound up its season with the opening of school. Due to the lack of support they did not enter league play this year but they did end up with a team of hard playing boys of whom the coaches were proud.

Acknowledgements should go to W. Schwab, E. Brennan, J. Heavysides and J. Browitt who coached the boys throughout the season and to Mrs. N. Reid who did so much to help.

The team played 4 exhibition games against Nar-amata, winning 3 of them.

It is a point to remember that these boys are the future players who hope to uphold the victory won by the Juniors this year and keep Summerland's name at the top in the field of baseball. Several of the players will be too old for Babe Ruth baseball next season but a new crop is coming up to join those still of age to play.

A meeting will be held on Thursday, Oct. 8, at 8 p.m. in room 12 of the High School for all parents who boys wish to play next year and any other interested persons. Without more support Babe Ruth baseball will not continue. The age for boys eligible to play this league will be 13-15 of August 1960. It is sincerely hoped that enough parents will turn out to enable the sport to continue and to enter in league competition next year.

Plywood, mosaic tiles, adhesive, and you're on your way to owning the most beautiful table in your neighborhood.

You will be familiar with the small one inch mosaic tiles. You have seen them on the floor of bathroom, kitchen and hall of many of our finest homes.

But the application that appeals to the creative woman is the current use of these adaptable little tiles as table tops for dining tables, end tables or coffee tables.

First, buy a slab of three-quarter inch plywood. Now buy your adhesive. Be sure the label says for ceramic tile. A linoleum spreader will be handy for smoothing on your adhesive.

Finally, select your mosaic tile. Canadian made mosaic tiles are available in a rainbow range of colors which are color coordinated to other Canadian made products for the home. The little tiles are mounted on square sheets when you buy them — this facilitates the ease and speed with which you lay them. Purchase the number of sheets of tile you require to cover your plywood surface.

First, lay the sheets of tile on the floor and, if you want to build a design, pick out the tiles you want to replace and drop a tile of the alternate color in its place.

Now spread your adhesive on the plywood and, one sheet at a time, turn your tiles face down on the adhesive. Permit the adhesive to take hold, then dampen the paper backing and peel it off.

Leave for 24 hours. Next you need a supply of white powder for "grouting".

Simply prepare a moist paste by mixing the grouting material with water and with a sponge, smooth the white material into the cracks between your little tiles.

Put a wood moulding around your table, screw your legs in the bottom and apply a wax or stain to finish the wood.

It's completed!

Super Race of Grizzlies

A super race of grizzly
bears has been discovered in an Alberta highway, recently opened up as one of the country's hottest oil-prospecting areas.

The huge beasts are believed to be remnants of the plains grizzlies which once moved with the buffalo herds across the prairies and were thought to be extinct before the turn of the century.

An article in the September issue of Imperial Oil Review reports that discovery of a valley of the giants in the Swan Hills area 150 miles northwest of Edmonton poses an intriguing zoological riddle for naturalists throughout North America.

The bears are of eye popping proportions. They measure up to 10 feet from nose tip to hind paws, and weigh up to half a ton. In the bear kingdom, only the Alaska Kodiak tops that.
Fewer than 400 of the shy

monsters are believed to have survived in an 8,000
square mile domain of woods babbling streams, and small mountains which, until recently, was one of the continent's few primeval spots.
Today oil has been found in Swan Hills, and more than 100 drilling and seismic crews are operating in the region.

The Swan Hills grizzlies are not Rocky Mountain or coastal grizzlies, nor do they appear related to any other type of bear now living on the continent. However, their skulls are strikingly similar to those of the plains grizzly exhibited in the National Museum in Ottawa.

Michael Oendry and other early explorers reported seeing thousands of "big bears" 1 1 1 1

"I would, through the Review, like to take this opportunity of thanking the band students and their parents for the loyal and inspiring support they have given me during my years of association with the band", Mr. Tamblyn said.

Although an extra mural activity, band practices are being held from 3:15 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesdays and from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Thursdays. It is still part of the curricular and credits will be given, the High School principal explained.

Mr. Longmore said, "It hardly appears necessary to list Mr. Stuart's qualifications for the job, as he has demonstrated his fitness by his long career with the Summerland Town Band, which he has conducted to top honors at the Okanagan Valley Music Festival and which is always in demand. Mr. Stuart has had training in harmony and theory and has served for 12 years as musical director of the Summerland Singers and Players. I don't think we could have found a better man than Mr. Stuart to succeed Mr. Tamblyn in this important post."

Atkinson

Continued from page 1. Successful application of scientific principles to many problems of this industry, more particularly, but not exclusively, in the fruit processing field. The effect of his leadership, both direct, and indirect, has been of primary importance to the economy of the Okanagan Valley.

Thirty years ago cherry production in British Columbia had exceeded the demand to a point where the fresh markets were unstable. Mr. Atkinson not only did important technical work in the modification of processes for glacing cherries, but promoted the utilization of these processes by the fruit industry and the food manufacturers. Through the development of this alternative outlet for a portion of the cherry crops, marketing was stabilized and the grower return elevated.

During the past twenty years the apple by-products development in British Columbia has grown from a small-scale salvage operation into a substantial and vitally important industry, capable of utilizing that portion of the crop which has appeared in excess of fresh market demand, and which in some years has amounted to in excess of 25 percent of the total production. The processing arm of the industry converts the fruit into a number of items such as Apple Juice, Dehydrated Apples, Sauce, Pie Fillings and Cider. The processes in some cases and even the equipment being used in the manufacture of all of these products have been also developed, perfected or introduced by Mr. Atkinson or his staff. He has played a similar role in the development of stone fruit surpluses.

Of indirect benefit to the fruit growers has been his influence on the canning industry in encouraging and persistently pressing for high standards of quality and operating efficiency. Mr. Atkinson has also rendered important service in establishing criteria for harvest maturities of stone fruits for both fresh sale and processing. His standing as an authority in both the scientific and practical fields of fruit technology is recognized by the primary producers, canners and processors of fruit and vegetables in British Columbia.

The Magic of Microwave

Communications in Canada took an epochal step forward on July 1, 1958, when the Trans-Canada Telephone System's coast to coast microwave relay system went into operation.

The communications "sky way", built jointly by seven of the eight major telephone systems which comprise the Trans-Canada telephone system, made possible an all-Canadian transcontinental television network.

Comprising 139 relay points often located in forest or mountain sites, stretching from Atlantic to Pacific, at a cost of about 50 million dollars, the network is a major engineering achievement unparalleled in Canada's history.

The huge task of spanning almost 4,000 miles of the Canadian landscape got underway in 1954. In Ontario and Quebec, Nova Scotia and the prairie provinces, the network was constructed.

Spurs to many Canadian cities not on the main backbone route have already been built. The spur to CHBC-TV is the first in BC. The nearest relay station to the Okanagan is located on Lost Horse Mountain, near Hedley. To bring the microwave network signal from the Hedley site, a new relay station was built atop Elsentok Mountain, near Summerland. The signals from this relay station are then transmitted to the microwave "dish" on the roof of CHBC-TV studios and then to the station's master transmitter on Blue Grouse Mountain.

This is the magic of microwave!
