

New students asked to register

In order to have new students placed in their proper classes by school opening, it is requested that any Grade 8 to 12 students new to the district register at Summerland secondary school between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. next week.

School authorities would appreciate having new students bring former report cards with them so that the registration may be completed and timetables filled out. By doing this a delay in starting classes may be avoided.

Building values continue to rise

Building values continued to rise during July, with 10 permits issued for $18,330.

Total permits this year are 71, valued at $225,948, compared with 76 in the same period last year that totalled $204,140, an increase of $21,808. Last July 11 permits were issued for $47,885.

Permits last month were 4 for new dwellings estimated at $16,380; four for alterations and additions $1,300; and two commercial, $650.

The report was issued by building inspector J. F. Khalemback.

MacDonald Elementary School will re-open 700 students are expected to register for Tuesday, September 8 at 1:00 p.m. when over the new term.

Elementary enrolment up, over 700 students this year

Enrolment in MacDonald Elementary School will probably be around 625 pupils when classes go in Tuesday, September 8 at 1 p.m. Trout Creek Elementary School is expecting 90 pupils this year, principal John Cooke reports. These figures are up slightly over last year.

Twenty-five teachers are on staff in the two schools, including five new teachers: David Dreidger of Abbotsford, grade 5; Miss Faye Reeves, Trail grade 4; Mrs. Ilona Hatton, Surrey, grade 4; Miss Laura Griffiths, Cranbrook, grade 3; Miss Loretta Colette, Penticton, grade 2; Mrs. Tom Davies, Summerland, opportunity class. School books are now on sale at local stores and youngsters are preparing themselves for the fall term. Lists of requirements for each grade are posted in the stores. A book rental fee of $4.50 is required for grade 7 students, this money entitles the student to use all the necessary schoolbooks for the year's work.

Three school buses, under contract from Smith & Hill Ltd. will carry the students in outlying areas to the schools. The number of students carried fluctuates greatly day by day depending a good deal on the weather.

Students from grades 1 to 2 may ride on the bus if they live over 2 1/2 miles from the school. Grades 4 to 12 must live three miles away.

Some exceptions are made if a bus is constantly running with a small load, pupils living closer, in may be given a ride, but this occurs only if the load is well under maximum. Another exception is when a child is physically incapable of walking the distance to a school when special permission may be given.

Pupils in lower Summerland are all bussed to school. It was decided some years ago that due to the stiff grade and highway crossing all pupils should be transported. The cost for this service is borne locally.

Presently eight runs are maintained, covering 121 miles a day. Last year the total cost for the bus service was $11,460, which is partially shared by the provincial government.

Road accidents increasing 10 already for August

RCMP report 10 accidents in this area since August 1. While most of the accidents have caused a great deal of damage to the vehicles, there have been no serious injuries.

A local girl, Theresa Keys was driving on Summerland Hill August 15 when she lost control of her car and the vehicle overturned. Her sister Ruth Keys, and a Vancouver girl, Jean Thompson, and the driver all escaped serious injuries in the mishap. The small car was a total wreck.

An out of town driver, Murray Rosner of Vancouver, lost control of his car on the Peachland by-pass on August 14 and plunged down the embankment totally wrecking his 1954 model car. One passenger, Alan David Robson of Vancouver, suffered a broken back, and another passenger, Robert Anthony Marmor had minor injuries. The car was a total wreck.

Gains reported in camper attendance

Temperatures here, especially in the evening, have set everyone's teeth chattering, but despite what local people consider a cool summer, the camper and trailer crowd continue to crowd in.

Jim Moore, custodian of the provincial government's Okanagan Lake Campsite, told us that many campers are here because of more inclement weather in other parts of Canada. They are enjoying the weather, swimming and fishing, and everything else the Okanagan has to offer. We're coming back here again, seems to be the general consensus of opinion, said Mr. Moore.

Excellent marks given to swimmers

How lucky can we be in Summerland? The day selected for the examination of members of the Rotary Red Cross Swimming and Water Safety Classes couldn't have been more beautiful. Exams got underway at 9 a.m. Monday, August 17. Roger Lancaster and our own Barbara Fudge were the examiners.

Much to the satisfaction of the instructors: Dorelyn Duccommun, head instructor; Linda Munro and Becky Downing, assisted by Elaine Charles and Marjorie Porritt, results were almost what they had expected.

Seven out of eight Seniors, 11 out of 17 Intermediates; 24 out of 27 Juniors successfully met the requirements. In the Beginners section 27 out of 30 were successful.

Total registration was 430, being divided into: Beginners and Non-Float, 215; Juniors 94; Intermediates 53; and Seniors 33. (Many of these were too young to take the exam.) Intermediate Life Saving 11; and Bronze Medallion 22.

On Monday the Life Saving and Bronze Medallion classes were examined with all entrants passing.

A display of water safety and swimming skills will be held at Rotary Beach this Friday starting at 7 p.m. At that time Harvey Wilson, a member of the Rotary Club's swim committee will make the presentation of certificates.

Passing in the various groups were:

Beginners: Deborah Blumhagen, Coleen Croft, Olwen Killick, Heather Mann, Marilyn Munro, Kenneth Powell, Douglas Green, Bonnie Inglis, Michael Naylor, Ralph Johnson, Joe Nau; Rosanne Rehbein, Rodney Hickson, Jean Peeters, Jeff Cline, Joe Harrison, David Lenzi, Paul McMechan, John Spalding, Beverley Stein, David Brambly, Michael Brambley, Eric Munn, Don Shigeoyshl, Aileen Wardle, Shelagh Welsh.

lie Dunn, Ronald Hack, Sharon McNabb, Sharon Ramsay, Susan Wardle, Elizabeth Giannotti, Donna Bourne, Ian McLutosh, Frank Pool, Greg Hultgren, Bart Stevenson.

Summerland fire chief Joe McLachlan is attending the B.C. Fire Chiefs convention held in Quesnel. He and Mrs. McLachlan had been holidaying in the Fort Nelson area and attended the convention on their way home.

The fire brigade was called out this week when Mrs. Geo. Inglis, who lives in lower town became concerned when her stove pipes overheated and called the brigade. The problem was quickly brought under control.

Attempting to show his son from the coast what big fish there are in Okanagan Lake, Jake Heichert came up with an eight pound, 29 inch Kamloops Trout on Sunday. He caught the fish off the provincial campsite north of town.

Municipal yards serving as refueling stations

Works superintendent Ken Blagborne reported to council last week on his concern over the wholesale pilfering of gas from vehicles parked in the municipal yards. Blagborne said that persons have been observed walking boldly in under the lights, and although the main offenders names are known, they have not been caught in the act.

He also commented that the offenders usually help themselves to a piece of hose from any of the handy neighboring garden and haul the gas out in five gallon tins. He asked council's consideration of putting a chain link fence topped with barbed wire around the entire premises. He estimated the fence would cost about $2,000.

Councillor W. B. Powell said that although this move would protect municipal equipment, it would just drive the offenders to another place for gas. He said that consideration should be given to having the RCMP do full night duty.

Tony Hancock gets bad news, as usual, on an episode of his comedy series, seen each Saturday on the CBC-TV network. Some of Britain's top character actors appear with Hancock each week.

Dear Doris

Have a problem? Write to Canadian social worker Doris Clark in care of this newspaper.

DEAR DORIS : My boy friend and I are both 21 and we plan to be married in two years. But my mother doesn't like my Victor. She thinks he is cheap and tells this all over the neighborhood.

The reason she says this is because he was out of work at the time of my birthday and could not afford a present for me. She said she felt horrible when anyone asked her what Vic gave me for my birthday. How does she think he feels?

He helped Dad build an addition to the house and always fixes little things that go wrong with the car. He has done countless errands for the family.

LOVING HIM

DEAR LOVING : You know what such talk makes her, don't you? A cheap future ma-in-law! Help with building, doing errands, fixing the car - all are good husband-habits. If he's also making hay about a career, get your Dad on your side and stick with your man.

DEAR DORIS : A letter has come telling me of the death of a girl I wrote to quite often. I sent a letter to her mother. But I would like her parents to know I have not forgotten their daughter and would like to send flowers for her grave on her birthday or Christmas, but she was cremated. What do you suggest?

IN MEMORY

DEAR IN MEMORY : Say it with flowers - to the living! A bouquet or plant sent at Christmas time with a card: "To Mr. and Mrs. Brown, with loving memories", would be a nice way of saying you miss your friend.

DEAR DORIS : Ever since we were married my husband has placed his mother between us. We were living with her and I had to leave because the doctor was afraid of a nervous breakdown.

My dear husband stayed with mother. "Mental cruelty" are the only words I can use in our marriage.

I need to get the courage to live and, really, I don't know how to go about it.

LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME : Your Mama's Boy thought he promised to love and cherish, not you, but his mother. Until he gets free of the apron strings you are wise to go it alone. Find the job or the service that can express your talents, and deliberately lose yourself in it. The hurt will get less with time.

DEAR DORIS : In being bridesmaid is it proper to wear high heeled shoes when your best man is going to be slightly shorter than yourself? Would lower heeled shoes be better on such an occasion?

TALL ONE

DEAR TALL : You might find a compromise in a not-quite-spike heel. But don't spoil your costume trying to shrink.

SUGAR AND SPICE

The Last Surrender

BY BILL SMILEY

I was badgered into attending a wedding this summer. They are events I normally avoid as carefully as I would a leper colony.

But this was a special one. My old partner, after fighting the good fight for forty years, had finally been snared. I looked upon it more as a historic event than a mere exchange of nuptial vows.

For years, my wife and every other married female he came in contact with had bullied him, pleaded with him, urged him, pushed eligible young women in front of him, in that great and noble feminine vocation known as Don't let a Single One Get Away.

During the process, I and the husbands of these other harpies maintained a discreet silence, our sympathy indicated only by the rolling of eyeballs heavenwards. Secretly and unanimously, we cheered him on to greater heights of courage, stubbornness or insanity, depending on your point of view.

Anyway, he finally took the plunge, or got out of his depth or something, after four decades of incredible fortitude. But trust him. He didn't just get hitched and start raising a family and going through all the horrors that involves.

Nope. He married a charming widow, and when the last vow had been taken, he became an instant husband, father and grandfather. The rest of us go through twenty-five years of unmitigated hell to achieve that same height.

Well, as I started out to say, weddings, to me and to most men, are just a big pain in the arm. I'd rather go to a good funeral, any day.

If women are different, they take to weddings like cats take to dinner. There is something almost morbid about their fascination with that production which most men consider a minor traffic jam.

You should have seen the nonsense we went through getting ready for this one. I figured we'd get dressed up, shine our shoes, buy the happy couple a crock of scotch or a carving knife, and that's all there was to it.

Well, that's all I did to prepare for it. But my old woman started operating at least a month before the ceremony. Though I kept reminding her that she wasn't the bride, she was in and out of practically every dress shop in the province, before she got the right dress and hat.

Then there was a big thing about her gloves. They were just a shade off the off-something-shade of the rest of the rig. Tears. Dye. Dye remover. More dye. Thank goodness I went in my bare hands.

And then there was the gift. I could have bought something useful and suitable, like an ironing board, in about twenty minutes. But she dragged me in and out of stores until I felt more like dropping than shopping. And the prices! Oy!

However, we made it, and I finally realized why women like weddings so much. First of all, it gives them a chance for a good cry without some callous kid saying, "Hey, Dad, what's Mom bawling about NOW?"

Second, it affords them the opportunity of wearing some crazy hat they haven't enough nerve to wear to church normally. And which item will be carefully stored away in a hat-box until it is thrown away by their grand-daughter some day.

And finally, there is that delicious aftermath, when it's all over, when they don't have to worry about makeup any more, when the shoes come off and the hair comes down, and they can get at the real business of the wedding - tearing to tatters the costumes, manners and reputations of all the other women at the wedding.

Report from Parliament Hill

by David Pugh, MP

With the exception of the Government's proposal for a new flag, Parliament has now completed all items of business for this part of the present Session. I know that throughout the country many people have a definite impression that the business of the House was held up for the sole purpose of delaying the flag. This, of course, is not so. We are in the middle of August, but had we started in January, as Parliament normally does, we would be well ahead of schedule.

In any event, from now on no other business is contemplated; thus, until recess the time spent here will be taken from that time in which Members usually go about their Constituencies. To my mind, it is important that we stay here to thresh the matter out. As I am against an impetuous decision, I would have preferred to have the question stayed until the fall.

Just how long the flag debate will take is unknown. Prior to the resumption of the debate yesterday, a total of six days only had been taken up. Members participating were eighteen each from the two major parties, the three minor parties putting in three apiece. This is a reasonable proportion.

The White Paper for the Canada Pension Plan has been brought down, and already a violent reaction is setting in. An independent Tax Foundation feels that the plan will cost far too much, and in setting up the large fund necessary to maintain the plan in good standing, far too much capital will be withdrawn from Canada's booming economy. In other words, more capital will be withdrawn for strictly governmental purposes as against our normal industrial requirements. The feeling behind this, of course, is that Canada should be participating more in her own financial setup. The second main objection is that it will be necessary to increase taxes heavily, both on a corporate and personal basis. This again provides a further load on the cost of living, and as the Tax Foundation points out, cannot help but lead to inflation. As it is not intended to bring this legislation forward until next Fall, there will be considerable time to review the proposals.

We had a most interesting debate on Canada's position in Cyprus, and the authority given to our troops under UN Command. This is a very difficult problem which has faced the Government. I rather think that it is a little uneasy on the whole situation. It was good to give the matter an airing, and it may well be that as a result, Canada's Peace-Keeping Force may be given more authority. Much trouble seems to stem from restriction imposed by the Cypriots headed by Archbishop Makarios.

Letters to the editor

The Editor,
The Summerland Review.

Dear Sir:
I would like to use your column to publicly thank the International Order of Oddfellows and the Rebekahs of Summerland, Oliver, Penticton and Princeton, for sponsoring me on my recent trip to the United Nations. These organizations do this work largely unlauded by the press or any other medium. The Oddfellows and Rebekahs over the whole of North America send over 1,000 fortunate students each year on the trip that I have made.

The goal of the Oddfellows' United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth is to make the young people of today aware of today's problems by giving them the opportunity of travelling to the "meeting place of the nations" and listening to the people who are working constantly to make the world a better and safer place to live.

The local Oddfellows and Rebekahs finance a delegate to the United Nations each year from this area and it seems a pity that the public is not more aware of the hard work and effort they put in over the whole year to send one student on this trip.

In conclusion, I should just like to, once again, thank the International Order of Oddfellows and the Rebekahs very much for giving me the opportunity of sharing in such an experience.

Dear Sir:
I read with a great deal of interest the account last week of applying for a CBC radio transmitter for Summerland.

I have just returned from a prairie holiday and most of the time we listened to CBC radio station. I was amazed at the variety and quality of the programming. They have something for everyone, highbrow and low, and I heartily endorse the idea of such a station for Summerland.

Witnesses meet at Trail

The four day convention of Jehovah's Witnesses came to a climax at Trail on Sunday afternoon when 1783 present heard Clare E. Statton of Toronto who spoke on the subject: Peace Among Men of Armageddon - Which?

On Friday morning Eric Nelson spoke on the necessity of dedicating oneself to serve Jehovah. Following the discourse, 20 ministers were ordained by the ceremony of water baptism.

Dick Marsh, Assistant Congregation Overseer here said: This was the largest religious convention ever held in Trail. The people and officials of the Silver City were very cooperative and this added to the success of the convention.

B of M Personal Chequing Service Cuts Banking Costs in Paying Bills

Paying for goods and services by personal cheque is safe, convenient and inexpensive method of handling household and personal expenses. Now it's been made even more economical by the introduction of Bank of Montreal personal chequing accounts, which reduce the cost of each cheque to only ten cents.

Instead of writing cheques against your savings account, or business-type current account, you can now operate your own personal chequing account at a lower rate. With this new type of personalized account, you are charged a set rate of only ten cents per cheque cashed, thus eliminating extra book-keeping, making it possible for the bank to pass on the savings to you.

The B of M also provides you with quarterly statements instead of a passbook and makes no charge for deposits as in the case of a current account, where ten cents is charged for each entry. Why not take advantage of this new service by visiting the Summerland branch of the Bank of Montreal. Don Carmichael, the accountant, will be glad to explain all the details and to help you open your personal chequing account if you decide you want one. It's the no-hassle way to pay your bills, and your cancelled cheques, which are held by the B of M for twenty years, are always readily available as perfect receipts for your budget records.

Former sec.-treas. Tingley gives gavel to school board

At the regular school board meeting last Thursday, B. A. Tingley, former secretary treasurer, presented the board with an engraved gavel, commemorating their years of working together. Chairman John Benest, thanked Mr. Tingley.

District supervisor L. A. Matheson said that the Summerland Secondary School examinations results were slightly higher than the provincial average. He said the results were also up over last year's average.

A five acre property adjacent to the MacDonald school grounds will possibly come up for sale shortly, chairman Benest reported. The trustees spent some time discussing the feasibility of purchasing this property for future expansion. The possibility of two or three room schools around the district was, they felt, not likely for this small compact area as the build-up of housing in accordance with the latest zoning plans will not be in the greenbelt farming areas, but rather in the residential areas where the schools now exist. It was pointed out to the board by sec.-treas. J. Hack that, according to department of education estimates, Summerland schools are now four acres under the required acreage.

The board moved to pay $100 to the Regional College Board. This is Summerland's share of the cost of setting up this board and starting work toward publicizing the November plebiscite. At that time it is anticipated the people of this community will be asked to cast a vote regarding the building of a regional college in the valley.

Each year new up-to-date equipment is purchased and this fall the Summerland schools will have added an overhead projector and a micro projector. Mr. Matheson recommended these as useful teaching aids.

Films, six in all, for the Physics course, at a cost of $400 will be purchased. Trustee Dr. James Miltimore suggested the board look into the use of TV for showing films such as these. The board felt there was merit in the idea of having only one set of films which could be shown over TV for all schools within broadcasting distance.

Accident toll continues to rise

Emil Kluzack of Summerland is seriously injured in Hope hospital following an accident on the Hope-Princeton Highway. No details of the accident are available yet but Mr. Kluzack has undergone surgery following the accident. His wife is in Hope with him.

Between August 18 and 22 RCMP received six individual reports of youngsters leaving home. The children range in age from 10 to 16 years. All but one child has been accounted for.

A car driven by Nils Neustrom of Kelowna landed in the lake near the bottom of Summerland hill this week. This is the second vehicle to take the plunge near this spot this summer. The Neustrom vehicle passed a car driven by Allen R. Clark of Revelstoke, cut in too close and hooked the front bumper, both vehicles going out of control. Mrs. Neustrom was taken to hospital for attention to minor injuries.

On August 24 a multiple rear end collision occurred near the provincial campsite when a parka truck driven by Vern DeWitt of Summerland slowed to make a left hand turn up to the Ranger Station. A car and trailer following him, driven by a Seattle man also pulled up. A third driver failed to stop and rammed the trailer, followed by another vehicle which plied into the first three. Total damage amounted to $2500. RCMP are investigating.

A black and white puppy owned by the Julian Ask family on South Victoria Road was found poisoned on Tuesday. The type of poison has not been ascertained as yet.

A late model car owned by Arthur Matsu was stolen on Sunday evening. The car was found in Kelowna the next day.

Attending hockey school at UBC

Warren Parker, coach of the Summerland Legion Juvenile hockey team is attending a school for coaches and referees at UBC. Father David Bauer is one of the many top coaches working at the school. Its aim is to teach hockey fundamentals to the coaches so they can bring the knowledge back to their teams.

Telephone rates increased due to growth

More telephones in Summerland means a further hike in rates to the subscribers, council was informed by the Okanagan Telephone Co. Tuesday night.

There are now 1,580 phones in this exchange which moves the community into a higher rate bracket. Another increase of this nature will not come until over 3,000 phones are installed.

The new rates mean an in-

Approval given to keep horse

Mrs. Mae Hyde was given special permission by council Tuesday night to keep a horse on her lower Summerland property.

At a previous meeting council had turned down a written request from Mrs. Hyde. This week she appeared before council and pointed out that the property is approximately four acres, and after hearing the measures planned in confining the animal, council granted its permission.

crease of 70 cents per month for business phones, and home phones up to 30c per month.

Mrs. E. G. Woolliams and her brother, G. E. Baynes attended council Tuesday night to discuss the zoning of properties they own in the Trout Creek area.

Mr. Baynes, a Vancouver contractor, and a member of the B.C. Community Planning Association, is widely known throughout B.C. for his interest in town planning. He spoke to council briefly, commending them on their efforts in planning the community, also on the attractive beaches and streets maintained here. He went on to say that he was concerned over the possibility of multiple dwelling buildings being built in the Trout Creek area saying he felt that such dwellings would eventually cause sewage disposal problems and would eventually lead to the community having to consider the building of a sewage system.

Drawing on his many years of experience as a contractor, Mr. Baynes said he felt this would be a tremendously expensive program. He quipped: "As a contractor, I'd love to get the job of putting it in, but as a ratepayer I'd hate to help pay for it."

Mr. Baynes, Mrs. Woolliams and Dr. and Mrs. Canou of Abbotsford, all Trout Creek property owners, asked that their area be kept single family zoning. The request will be forwarded to the town planner.

Former teachers here married on Saturday

Former members of the teaching staff at MacDonald School, Miss Helen-Louise Farrow and Austin Melvern Raham, were married in the Summerland Baptist Church on August 22, at 2:30. Rev. F W Haskins officiated.

The principals are the daughter of Mr and Mrs B. C. Farrow of Cranbrook and the son of Mr and Mrs. C M Raham of this district.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a floor length white satin gown fashioned with a small train. The simple bodice featured a softly rounded neckline and the sleeves were lily point style. She wore a small chapel veil and carried a bouquet of red roses.

The bridal attendants, her sister, Miss Marilyn Farrow, Miss Mary Popow, and the groom's sister, Miss Elva Raham, wore similarly styled gowns of a soft pink shade with matching hats and accessories. They all carried white carnations.

David MacMurray was best man. Soloist was Rev. M R Schultz, pastor of the Church of God.

Over 100 guests attended a reception in the Pilgrim House, Penticton.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. A. Matheson of Kelowna was among the guests.

Later the bridal couple started on a lieurely drive to Fort St. John where they are on the teaching staff.

Misses Diana and Faye Rothwell of Calgary are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rothwell

Mr and Mrs J. S. Kirk have returned from Olympia, Washington, where they visited with friends.

Dear Doris

Have a problem? Write to Canadian social worker Doris Clark in care of this newspaper.

DEAR DORIS — One night when our friend Jane was baby sitting a car stopped in front of the house. A man got out, and standing in front of the lights so you could see only from the waist down, pointed to some very personal parts

Then months later it happened again. The drapes were drawn and he stopped right in front of the picture window. Before, Jane thought she was imagining it, but this time you could see distinctly what he was doing.

Jane won't phone the police. She is scared that if he is put in jail he will be given a light sentence, if any, and then, since he will know who sent him to jail, will come back and scare her more.

ANXIOUS FRIEND
DEAR ANXIOUS — Jane is understandably upset. But such a man exposes himself only when he has an audience and ordinarily is not out to harm anyone.

She or you should tell the police; who will certainly stop him, and may be able to persuade him to get help for his problem. Then Jane should keep her drapes drawn, resist the impulse to peep out, and forget the whole matter.

DEAR DORIS — How should an emotionally disturbed child be treated? Would it help if I stayed home to give him the attention he seems to want so much? He screams if he doesn't get his own way at home, or goes to his bedroom and lies in bed for the rest of the day.

Sometimes he gets a blank look in his eyes and blinks his eyes and shakes his head. If he is talked to or bothered then, he screams. He seems very jealous of his younger brother.

Yet he is a lovable boy and loves to be hugged. We are trying to get help for him but it takes so long to get an appointment.

PERPLEXED MOTHER

DEAR PERPLEXED — I'd suspect your boy finds his dream world more satisfying than the real one, where his young brother has (in his eyes) usurped his mother's attention and where she now (as he sees it) deserts him all day long.

Professional care is essential. But you work in the right direction when you find the time to engage him in a sociable, creative activity which will improve his opinion of himself.

DEAR DORIS — I went with a boy who broke up with me over my saying "Hi" to his cousin. I went out with the cousin; and then the ex-boy friend went to his aunt (the boy's mother) and told her nasty, untrue things about me.

Well, his aunt wrote and told me I couldn't see her son until I proved these things weren't true. So I went to a doctor and took some tests and I was a virgin, which I knew I was anyway. The doctor said he would write to her and tell her.

I don't want her son to think I'm a cheap bum. What do I do now?

DEPRESSED

Preparing show on peaches

CBC-TV technicians were in town on Tuesday to shoot a sequence for the Country Calendar program seen every Sunday.

The program under production is part of a series on the peach industry in the valley. Farm Labor Officer Frank Hunter and Summerland grower Rob Towgood were featured in an interview in Mr. Hunter's office. Filming the sequence were producer Dick Bocking, cameraman Bob Reid, sound man, Bill Terry and lighting, Terry Hudson.

The film presently under production will be televised on September 27. It features the harvesting aspect of the peach crop, and, as in the previous part of the series is designed primarily for grower information, as well as being informative for the general public.

The series is a co-operative venture between the BCFGA, the provincial government extension department, Summerland Research Station and the Vancouver CBC. District horticulturist Alex Watt and Dr. D V Fisher of the research station have been acting as advisors for the series. Many local growers and their orchards as well as orchards in the Naramata and Penticton area have been photographed. Before coming to Summerland on Tuesday the TV crew had spent a day in Naramata on the orchard of John Coe. They left Summerland to travel to Kelowna for an interview with officials of BC. Tree Fruits to discuss peach marketing.

A fitting punishment

No doubt by now everyone has seen the oily trails on the sidewalks of Summerland's main street. The oil was apparently dribbled out of a can, or presumably two cans, as in many areas there are two oily marks running parallel. What sort of stupidity is this? The oil has sunk into the porous pavement and is now gathering a black film of dust which will probably show for a long time. In many cases, those responsible went into store fronts and around light standards.

It is beyond us to fathom a mind that will do such a thing and it seems doubly a pity, since with the street banners up and the flower planters at their very best, our town is one of the most attractive in the valley.

In many places in the States, offenders caught at acts such as these are given scrubbing brushes and soap and made to wash up the whole area. What could be a more fitting instance for such a punishment?

SUGAR AND SPICE

'A Summer Place'

BY BILL SMILEY

When I was a kid, the tourist business was in its infancy. Oh, there were quite a few American licenses around in July and August. Everybody thought tourists were a good thing and something should be done about them. A few people with large houses and small incomes, like my mother, put up "Tourist Accommodation" signs and were not only flabbergasted but delighted to rent huge, immaculate rooms, with breakfast, for the improbable sum of $2.

But on the whole, the tourist business was just a little extra gravy. The small town drowsed through the summer. The merchants lounged in the doorways of their quiet stores, waiting for 6 o'clock to come around, so they could get home, gulp supper and get to the ball park.

What a difference from the slam-bam-thank-you-mam atmosphere of the modern tourist town.

Today, the tourist business, for many towns, is not just a little extra gravy. It is the cream in the coffee, the cheese with the apple pie, and the quick holiday in the south during February, along with a lot of other indigestible and useless, but pleasant luxuries.

It is, for many a small town merchant, the difference between survival of the fittest and getting along nicely, thank you.

For merchants, the tourist season is a mixture of exhilaration and exhaustion. The harmonious jingle of the cash register is offset by the discordant scream of aching feet.

It is pure bonanza for the skilled men of town and district. Electricians and plumbers, carpenters and painters, who had a dim time of it all winter, suddenly find themselves courted like courtesans.

Aside from the economic impact, the tourist season has an emotional effect on the small town. When the first visitors begin to arrive, early in summer, they inject a color and excitement into the town, with their different clothes and accents and mode of life.

Old friends drop by, have a little yarn about what they did last winter, and like as not, urge, "Now you be sure and come up to see us at the cottage, y'hear. We'll have a cold one."

The June trickle becomes an avalanche and by mid-summer the whole town is throbbing with this heady addition to its bloodstream. Thousands of cute kids, brown and round. Thousands of their sisters and mothers, in skin-tight shorts and beautiful tans and smoked glasses. Thousands of their fathers, in hairy calves and pot bellies and crazy hats.

By this time you can't find a place to park shopping taken three times as long, and you can scarcely cross the street for constant, crawling traffic. And by this time the tourist town has almost lost its identity and individuality.

As August nears its end, there is a little sadness in the air. New and old friends among the campers begin heading out of town with their sun-blackened children and their piled-high cars.

When Labor Day arrives, and the avalanche again becomes a trickle, the tourist town becomes a town again, and not just a shopping centre. The citizens slow down stretch their aching backs, look around and see their friends.

Within a week, they have forgotten the scramble and the rush and the sheer foolishness of making money, and, full of renewed interest in their town and themselves get down to something serious, like planning a hunting trip, or having a party.

The tourist season is a lot of fun. For the tourists.

Library Report

by Kay Dunsdon

Among new books added to our library is a new one by Roger Pilkington. Another of his successful tales of travel, with his family in his boat, the Commodore, through the canals of France.

We Like It Wild, by Bradford Angier, who wrote, Living Off the Country, is a good story of wilderness living in the Northland, and of how he and his wife made a final break from a large city and responsible but frustrating jobs, to the slow but satisfying pace of the outdoors.

Peking and Moscow is a journalist's view of the state of affairs between China and Russia. Klaus Mehnert is well qualified to write on this large subject, having lived many years in both countries, and speaks their languages fluently. He is a professor of political science, and commentator on world affairs for South German Radio.

If you are a crossword puzzle fan, you will enjoy Anatomy of the Crossword by D. St. P. Barnard. He is Britain's leading crossword expert and compiler for the London Daily Telegraph.

Mountain of Victory is a new look at Paul Cezanne, a biography by Laurence Hanson, in which he reveals the boy who resists his father's plan for him to become a banker, and how his compulsion to paint brings him suffering and privation, but final victory.

Several new books on ideas for interior decorating or remodelling have come to our library. Make the Most of Your Home is a new book of practical ideas on painting and color by W. A. G. Bradman.

Also more than a dozen new fiction books have been added to our shelves.

Letters to the editor

The Editor,
The Summerland Review.

Dear sir:
I have been lazy around the different resorts and beaches along the Okanagan for the last three days and nights. I have enjoyed myself immensely. What beautiful scenery and accommodation all the way. I imagine I am enjoying it more than most of the folks as I have never been in British Columbia before.

It reminds me so much of my native Norway. I am sure there must be a lot of Norwegians around here.

I have an uncle living here somewhere, I believe. I used to correspond with him of and on. The last time I heard from him was in 1955. He was then in Summerland. His name was John Pederson. He was a dynamite blaster with General Construction over a long period. Maybe with other companies as well. He will be an old man, in his 80's now. But he was a very healthy man.

If anyone around Summerland reading this should know about him, I would appreciate hearing from them. He might, of course, have died. I still would like to know.

He might also go by the name of John Ellerwold, Norwegian of course.

If by chance anyone that has known him, or knows him, reads this, I would greatly appreciate hearing from you.

Mrs. Margaret Loulin,

A fire about 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday saw about eight tons of hay on the farm of William Hill, South Prairie Valley Road go up in smoke. Because of the close proximity of the hay stack to the barn and outbuildings, both fire pumpers were taken to the scene within minutes of each other.

Due to the quick action of the fire brigade and the volunteer help of neighbors, the fire was prevented from spreading. Only one calf was near the fire and it was taken to safety.

The fire was started by a child playing with matches.

How about starting the day off with a cheery note with a nourishing breakfast like this: oatmeal cereal with milk and maple syrup; hot jam-filled muffins; a side dish of crisp bacon, served with lots of milk and hot coffee. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, advise adding a chilled glass of vitaminized apple juice to complete this breakfast.
