Were you a member of the Pacific Coast Military Rangers? Walter M. Wright is preparing a display for Summerland's Museum of this home guard and would appreciate receiving parts of the PCMR's uniforms or a picture of the Summerland detachment. He particularly wants a signal key used by the group.

Bryan Hiebert of Calgary president of the Baptist Youth organization for Western Canada, will be guest speaker at the Summerland Baptist Church Sunday morning. Mr. Hiebert will be accompanied by representatives from each of the western provinces. The young people are in the Okanagan to attend the Baptist Youth Camp which is meeting at the Maple Springs Camp at Peachland for the Labor Day week end.

During the past week the research station reports 69 inches of rain and 40.8 hours of sunshine.

Total building permits for August were 13 for $31,423, reports building inspector J. F. Khalembach. This is slightly down from the same period last year when six permits were issued for $33,600.

Total permits for the first eight months of 1964 is $257,471, compared with $2 for $237,740 last year.

During August four permits were issued for new dwellings for $21,249, and nine permits for alterations amounting to $10,174.

Over 40 members and friends of the Free Methodist Church gathered at the parsonage last week to welcome their new minister, Rev. Norman Ion and family.

After a social evening a luncheon was served.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Watt have returned from a six week tour of Britain. Their two children, John and Elizabeth, accompanied them. Most of their holiday was spent in England and Scotland with a brief visit to France and Holland before the flight home.

While in Holland the Watts called on Arnold Boerboom's parents.

In England Mr. Watt, Summerland's district horticulturist, visited the research stations at East Malling and Long Ashton.

THE SUMMERLAND REVIEW

Summerland, B.C.

Volume 19, No. 24

5c Per Copy

For the past ten years, the class of District Agricultural Exhibits at the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver. The Okanagan Valley entry in the exhibit this year has once again been awarded the Dewar Shield. The entry is made up of products from the entire Okanagan Valley.

Bands - Parade - Prizes - more of everything for fair

Indications are that the 1964 Chamber of Commerce Fall Fair will not only be the best yet held by the community in point of entertainment and displays, but also that it will be the most representative. While final entries will not be known until next week, there is advance indication that these will be more plentiful and more varied even than in 1963 which set new marks.

Prize lists have been sent to every household in Summerland, and a record number of entries is expected. Extra copies of the prize list are available at The Review office.

The committee in charge of the coronation has been working hard to make the queen crowning ceremony on Friday evening a very impressive occasion. The crowning of the new queen will start at 8:30 preceded by a variety program at 8.

Now an important part of the fair, the children's pet and costume parade will commence its march at 2 p.m. Saturday led by the Penticton Junior Pipe Band. Entrants will gather at the Memorial Park playground at 1 p.m. Judging at 1:45.

Gov and Mrs. Pearkes will visit the fair at 8 on Saturday Saturday the School Band will play from 3 to 4 and the Penticton Civic Band from 7 to 8.

Bumper crops going over grader

Summerland packing houses are beehives of industry with all three running at peak capacity to handle the tons of fruit which is coming in from morning to night. Extra graders have been started in order to get the fruit ready for market. According to local officials, fruit sales are brisk with prairies and coast housewives snapping up the fruit as it reaches the market.

Orchardists and packers are not without problems as cloudy skies and wet weather hampered picking of the bumper crop during the past week. Lack of any extended length of sunshine has hampered ripening of fruit.

One packinghouse official told the Review that due to improper maturing, tons of peaches are being dumped. He said that although the fruit is a good size it hasn't had the required sun to ripen it well and lacks keeping qualities.

Pears, which this week have been coming out of the orchards dripping wet, are low on sugar content, which will affect their keeping qualities.

Average hours for sunshine in August is 277.5 hours. Last month only 249.6 hours were recorded. However in 1960 the sun shone only 220 hours in August, with 1961 away up to 308; 1962 made a low of 212 hours and 1963 251 hours.

The difference this year is that while we had sunshine, it was scattered during the month with none of the sustained periods needed to ripen fruit. Only 16 clear days were recorded in July this year.

August rainfall for this year totalled 1.02 inches.

Trail Riders enjoy night outing

Summerland Trail Riders had their first moonlight trail ride on Sunday, August 23 with 21 riders taking part. The ride was led by Isabel Jeffrey.

The group rode through Conklin Mountain and stopped near Trout Creek Bridge where coffee and sandwiches were served around a bonfire.

When the moon came up over the mountain it made a beautiful ride home.

The trail ride for August 30 was cancelled because of poor weather. The next ride will be on September 13 at 1:00 p.m.

must be placed by 10 p.m. or Thursday. Judging will take place Friday morning.

Flower entries can be made as early as Thursday evening, but will be accepted up to 11:30 on Friday morning. Exhibit items must be left in place until 10 p.m. Saturday.

Entries in the WI fruit pies section will be accepted to noon Friday.

There are special garden and agricultural classes for juniors with good prizes for winners Junior and senior handicraft and hobbies sections are also listed.

New teachers on secondary school staff

Five new teachers will be on the staff of 24 of the secondary school this year.

A former Penticton teacher, Ed Danallanko will teach Industrial Education. The junior Industrial Education course will be taught by Desmond Burke of Williams Lake.

David Hamilton of Prince Rupert will instruct the junior boys in physical education and French.

Mrs. E. Lott of Prince George teacher and Miss Gwen Rea of Cranbrook will teach the girls' physical education courses.

Approximately 480 students are expected in the secondary school this year.

Mr. Lott will be the senior French

Exhibitors win many PNE events

Summerland exhibitors at the PNE made a good showing this year.

Des Loan, who operates the Okanagan Pottery Studio on Giant's Head Road took all the prizes, awarded in the pottery section. Mr. Loan entered six pieces in the show: a tea pot in Chinese style, a large vase carved prior to firing, a flat slab plate, a medium sized vase and a round wheel thrown plate in a blue-green shade. All of the stoneware was in shades of burnt brown, except for the plate.

Another major PNE winner was the Summerland Women's Institute. Two cotton dolls, crocheted by Mrs. George Ing. His won third in the home art textile division. A bed coverlet hand-appliqued by Mrs. H. J. Mott received first prize in the home art division, and a yarn rug hooked on canvas by Mrs. William Engel took first prize.

Verticillium Wilt of stone fruits

Reduction of fertilizer is the unusual control recommended for Verticillium wilt of fruit trees. The disease has also been an unusual one for orchards, until quite recently.

The research station here is studying Verticillium wilt of stone fruits because, said plant pathologist G. E. Woolliams, it has begun to appear important in these crops in B.C. It has long been recognized as serious in other plants such as tomatoes, hops, strawberries and potatoes.

Mr. Woolliams says the only effective control so far known is to give the trees less fertilizer or manure. Tests at Summerland show that fruit trees are frequently given more fertilizer than they need for normal growth and fruiting, and that such trees are more susceptible to the Verticillium wilt disease. In one of the tests it was found that reduction of ammonium nitrate application to two pounds per tree (from 6 to 7 pounds) didn't reduce terminal growth but did allow recovery from the disease.

The fungus that causes Verticillium wilt lives in the soil. It enters the plants and trees through feeding rootlets, and spreads to upper parts of the plants through their water carrying vessels. In cherry, apricot and peach, the symptoms show first during hot weather usually in August. Leaves on one or more branches of a tree will turn yellow, wilt, dry up and fall off. Trees may recover the following year, but often the affected branches produce only small sparse leaves or remain leafless and eventually die.

Verticillium wilt can be distinguished from other wilt diseases of fruit trees, because it causes brown discontinuous streaks in the woody tissue that can be seen if the bark and outer layers of the wood are removed by cutting.

Work at Summerland has shown that the casual fungus is harbored not only in other cultivated plants that may be grown near the trees, but in some wild plants and a large number of the common weeds

RCMP officer transferred north

Corporal R. Hunter who has been in charge of the Summerland RCMP detachment for the past year, has been transferred to Inuvick, in the North West Territories. This town was recently built to replace Aclavik which due to its location, had to be moved.

The new town of Inuvick, built by the federal government, is situated on the Mackenzie River and has a population of 2,000. Corporal Hunter will head a detachment of 10 RCMP officers. He and Mr. Hunter and their eight month-old daughter, Roberta will leave for the northern post this week.

Constable Bud Stohl, formerly stationed with the Penticton detachment, will be in charge here. Other officers are Constable E. Best and Constable Robert Campbell.

Now's The Time to Plan For Your Child's College Career

Like everything else these days, the cost of getting a college education keeps going up. If you wait until your son or daughter is ready to start college, money required might well be beyond your means.

That's why the practical plan is to start saving systematically while your youngster is still very young. Many parents who can afford it begin by earmarking their family allowance cheques for a special educational fund at the Bank of Montreal. They find it adds up tremendously over the years. Cheques for one child saved in a B of M account until the age of 16, total more than $1,700, including the interest, the bank says. And of course, the money is always available in case it is needed for some unexpected emergency.

Jock Johnston, manager of the Summerland branch of the Bank of Montreal, will be glad to give you a copy of the B of M's folder designed to help you calculate the cost of your youngster's higher-education program. What you save today can do a good deal towards improving your youngster's chances to get the best possible start in life when high-school days are over.

Employment opportunities still reported favorable

Employment opportunities throughout the area serviced by this office remained at a high level during the month of August, reports Irvine Moss, manager of the Penticton National Employment Office.

The apricot harvest was completed during the month. A heavy demand for pickers was met with some periodic difficulty.

The harvest of pears and peaches is now underway. To date the demand for pickers has been met; however, there is a slight shortage of experienced pickers and a surplus of inexperienced help available.

There is increased demand from canneries and packing houses at present, as a number of high school students so employed are preparing to return to school. A serious shortage of these workers is anticipated over the next week. The National Employment Service and the Industry are asking female workers, even if inexperienced, to register at the Local Office for this work, which could run well into December. This condition applies throughout the areas where packinghouses and canneries are located.

Packers are in short supply at present and any experienced worker should have no difficulty in finding employment.

Take a Part

Everyone who visits a fair looks through the vegetable and flower exhibits. And everyone should take a part in these exhibits also.

How about you? Have you decided what to exhibit in the fruit, vegetable or flower section of next week's fall fair?

Gardens were good this year, vegetables grew to good proportions, probably due to the cooler weather and the fair committee is expecting a good showing of vegetables. We hope that every family with a garden will make a showing in one department why not in all. There are good prizes to be won in every event.

The fall fair committees under chairman Eric Tait have spent many hours planning to make this one of the biggest fairs held in Summerland. Now it is up to us to ensure its success by entering the events and joining in the fun next week end.

SUGAR AND SPICE

Things Were Hectic!

BY BILL SMILEY

How I envy the fellow who has two weeks holidays! He takes his family to a cottage, or on a motor trip, or out camping, and that's all there is to it. He can then go quietly and sanely back to work.

Things are always pretty hectic around our place in the summer, but this was the hecticest ever. As a teacher, I'm almost frantic for school to start so I can get off the ferris wheel.

Five weeks at summer music school for Hugh. Three weeks at a different summer music school for the old lady. Two weeks at camp for Kim. Two weeks refresher course in English and two weeks as a weekly editor for me.

Now this doesn't sound so bad, when you say it quickly. But all these things were going on in different places at different times. The result was a combination of the Grand Prix, Musical Chairs, Who's Been Sleeping In My Bed? and Let's Break The Bank.

My wife gets home every Saturday night, heads for the basement with a huge armful of soiled clothes, and we don't see her until it's time to get in the car late Sunday and charge off once again in all directions.

Last Sunday, for the first time in six weeks, the four of us were under the same roof together. We were all a little uneasy at being with these strangers.

Hugh came through virtually unscathed, despite the trembling and trepidation of his parents. He talked us into extending his stay at the summer school from three weeks to five, in a letter emphasizing the "inspiration" he was getting there.

After deep and midnight consultations, we reluctantly sent off the requisite extortion for the extra two weeks. Soon after, another letter arrived. In this one we learned he'd been out for dinner — steak and mushrooms, Chianti, the works — with a Yank girl whose father was an English teacher.

er, was divorced, and was having an affair with the daughter of the bartender in the place they'd eaten.

Hugh's momma was ready to call out the militia, declare war on the U.S., and invade if necessary to snatch her boy back to safety. His father was trying to soothe her fears and at the same time, remembering, with not a little sadness, what he was like at that age.

However, he surprised us. He arrived home the day he was supposed to. Even more amazing, he had some money left. Completely astounding, he looked only slightly deprived. In those five weeks, he had: become 17, fallen in love at least twice, bought a pipe and tobacco, cooked for himself for two weeks, living mainly on pabulum and cheese, and been in a beer joint.

None of this bothered me too much, although his mother gave him an interrogation that would have done credit to Inspector Maigret.

Perhaps the most rugged two weeks of the summer were those I spent as a weekly editor. It all began with a wedding — my partner's, and very nearly ended with a funeral — mine.

is being a weekly editor. And how doubly devastating it is to be a weekly editor in a tourist town, where every old-friend cottager within a radius of 40 miles is hell-bent on wrecking your marriage, your constitution, and the next day, with his hospitality.

Oh well, the worst is over. There remains only a gritting of the teeth, a girding of the loins, and a hardening of the resolution, to get through the last week of summer — the weekly newspaper convention. When that's over, and I come home, a shambling skeleton, a shadow of the fine, healthy young fellow I was on the first of July, my plans are made. I phone a sanatorium, take my 20 days sick leave, and resume living about the end of September.

Parkdale Place Report

by Augusta Emery

The beautiful summertime is nearly at an end. Already there is a feeling that autumn is not far away. But that season has a special appeal when the trees change to their lovely autumn tints.

The Memorial Park has been specially attractive this summer thanks to the constant care of the municipal crew and the frequent showers. Our own garden with a magnificent showing of roses, the lovely rock garden, the fine display of mixed flowers in the planter, has given the residents a great deal of joy. We are very grateful to all who have helped to make Parkdale a real beauty spot.

It's a great pleasure for us to take a walk along Summerland's main street, gay with hanging baskets of flowers and banners of bright colors. Visitors to Parkdale admire the beauty of our surroundings. They express their thankfulness, not only for the fine accommodation provided by the management of the L and L Motel but for the many additional kindnesses.

Mrs. Mabel Atkinson had the pleasure of a visit from her nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith of St. Catharines, Ont. They were charmed with Parkdale and the lovely Okanagan Valley.

We wish to congratulate Anne Powell and Michael Lopatecki, two of our secondary school students, who attained first class honors in grade 12 departmental examination. One half the fees for their first year at UBC will be paid. We wish you both continued success as you "ascend the next mist-enshrouded crest".

John Ellis and W. R. Brown both South African War veterans, received a letter of appreciation from Queen Elizabeth on the occasion of their 62nd-annual reunion recently. We all join in congratulating our "worthy boys".

We were very pleased to welcome back on our staff, Mrs. Edna Day, after two months leave of absence. We hope that Mrs. Parry will be with us in the near future.

Mrs. Howis joined our ranks this month. May she spend many happy years in our midst.

The very best that can be wished for our August celebrants — Mrs. Sloper, Mrs. Parry and Mrs. Emery.

A special blessing this month to all Summerlanders who have decorated our shelves with beautiful flowers and fruits and vegetables. Our pantry shelves are being replenished with jams and preserv-ved fruit, thanks to your generosity and the work of our matron and staff.

For the flowers, our hearty thanks to T. Ritchie and the Anglican and United Churches. Our gratitude to those who supplied us with fruit: R. Ackles, John Dunn, Miss Bertha Bristow, W. T. Ward, Bud Stewart, J. Ellis and G. Fosberry.

Vegetables were supplied by Gordon Ritchie, J. Ellis, the Misses Ritchie, Colin McKenzie. We enjoyed those good, homemade cookies brought in to our tea room from Mrs. F. Stuart for our pleasure at afternoon tea gatherings. Thanks for your kind thoughts.

With wars and rumors of wars, here is something for our fishermen to ponder over as they sit peacefully on the banks of a lake waiting for a catch.

"Oh, that the problems of the world could be settled on the bank of a stream or the quiet of a lake! Where the powerful could talk as men and equals. Where selfishness would be quelled by the greatness of the surroundings, and man would see the puny nature of his misunderstandings in the tremendous plan of the Universe".

Open house for missionary

Dr and Mrs. Ken A. Stark and three children, missionaries from Transvaal, Africa, have been visiting with his brother in law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. Davis.

On Thursday, August 27, an open house was held for friends of the Starks

Dr. Stark is serving under the Canadian Nazarene Medical Missionary Board. He is superintendent of the Rawleigh Fitkin Memorial Hospital. Mrs Stark is an X-ray technician in the hospital.

The hospital has 310 beds, with five other doctors working with Dr. Stark. Eighty-one student nurses are in training at the hospital, which performs over 2,000 operations annually.

Daily it handles 305 in-patients and 150 out-patients. It has a large maternity wing with 1,500 babies born yearly. The hospital operates 14 country clinics and a leper colony.

A daughter of the Starks, Linda, is still in Africa finishing her nurses' training at a hospital in Johannesburg.

On their trip to Canada, the Starks toured through the Holy Land, Italy, Rome and other places in Europe.

DEAR DORIS — My brother-in-law always wants to kiss me whenever we are alone. Now he has as much as told me he wasn't getting enough sex from his wife, so he chose me and I should be proud of it!

He's quite rude to my sister, he has an awful temper and they very seldom see eye to eye. They have three children.

My sister might have to go to the hospital and I'd be looking after the children then. I'm scared to stay alone with him but I can't refuse to help my sister.

AFRAID

DEAR AFRAID — It seems your self-loving brother-in-law takes what he wants from life by some sort of not-too-divine right. Do you want him to take you?

He needs his face slapped. He needs to be told that YOU don't choose HIM! And in no uncertain terms. You hurt your sister a great deal more by keeping the peace then by airing it all, if he won't promise to keep his hands and lips to himself.

DEAR DORIS — Please tell me what to do about big feet. I am 11 years old and have size eight in shoes and runners!

BIG FEET

DEAR BIG FEET — Walk on them. Be glad nobody made you squeeze them into shoes too narrow or too short; or bound them when you were a baby, as the Chinese used to.

I once had a boy friend who said my feet ran along the ground a long way before I sprouted upwards. If you get teased explain that are big enough.

Your feet got ahead of you. Keep on wearing shoes that

DEAR DORIS — For the past five years my youngest son and his wife have come home for holidays at the same time my husband takes his. I am expected to wait on them hand and foot besides looking after all the children while they gallivant. I get so played out I hardly know what to do with myself.

I asked my husband if he figured I was getting a fair deal but got no answer, as he figures that they are entitled to a good holiday. He goes off with them, leaving me by myself.

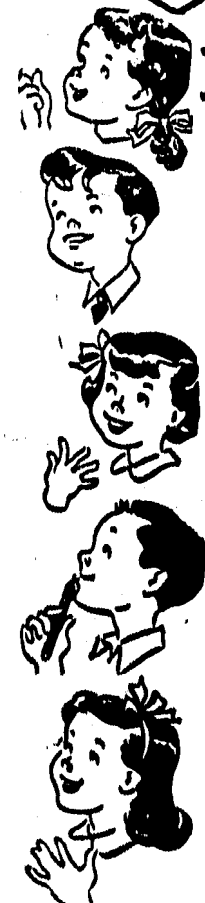

As soon as they leave he starts helping me and tries to make up with me, but it doesn't go over. I feel if a husband forgets his wife when others are around he isn't much of a man.

A VERY UNHAPPY PERSON.

DEAR UNHAPPY — Right! They all need straightening out — by mother. This means you! First, talk with your too-carefree hubby, ahead of time. Ask him when did you two stop pulling together? Then a conference, on arrival of the pack. Jobs assigned according to mutual agreement. Baby sitters. And a ticket for Mom to what ever holiday-hop Pop has!

Canadian character dolls feature display at fair

A fascinating set of Canadian historical character dolls will make their first appearance in the Okanagan at the fall fair September 11 and 12.

The display is sponsored by the Summerland Women's Institute under convener Mrs Joe McLachlan assisted by Mrs Vera Barrs.

The set comprises 21 dolls each representing a character or type, from Canadian history — from Frontenac, Governor of New France, to Queen Elizabeth II, looking as she did when she opened Parliament in Ottawa in 1957.

The dolls are approximately 10 inches high and each one is in costume, not only of the period to which it belongs, but also to the class of society.

For example, the little United Empire Loyalist is dressed in taffeta, with velvet cloak and is replete with handbox and bird cage, whereas the family of Mennonites (father mother and child) are in simple homespun, both parents in the simple, black costumes of their strict sect.

An intrepid early French-Canadian voyageur is in buckskin, knitted toque and sash and strapped to his waist are fur pelts. An early prospector panning gold in British Columbia in striped shirt and red neckerchief. Pauline Johnson Indian postess, born in Outarior and buried in Vancouver's Stanley Park, is represented by a figure in Indian costume, actually giving one of her famous readings on stage, with the book of her poems on the miniature lectern in front of her.

Explorer Henry Hudson and his small red-headed son who accompanied him on his fateful Arctic journey in the early 1600's, is recreated in costume of doublet and hose in rich blue velvet. Louis Riel, on the other hand, the fiery rebel leader, is holding forth from a soapbox, arms swinging wide to give his oratory a flourish.

Sir John A. MacDonald, the Father of Confederation, and one of the cleverest characters, is elderly, tired, but immensely dignified in frock coat and carrying his stove-pipe hat.

Two other favorites are feminine heroines beloved of children who first met them in school readers. Little Madeline de Vercheres, the 14 year old who kept maurading Indians at bay until her parents returned to their fort on the St. Lawrence; and Laura Secord, in dainty sprigged muslin and straw sunbonnet.

The dolls, entirely handmade, are the creations of Kashi Carter, artist, of Clarkson, Ontario, and were researched in the public library.

To give the dolls a stage-like setting, each doll or group of dolls, has a three-sided backdrop, hand painted by another Canadian artist, which depicts the scenic setting of each historic figure.

The collection was conceived by the Office Overload Company and any community organization may borrow the set at any time, at no charge.

The collection has raised money for retarded children, Guide and Browns projects, churches, the IOOE, W's, and were on exhibit by request, in the Women's Building at the Canadian National Exhibition.

So popular have the dolls become across Canada that three sets are in constant demand; one in the west, one in the east and one in the province of Ontario.

Of Fables and Fabrics

There is a lovely old French fable wherein the prince, in order to win the hand of the beautiful maiden, as well as the kingdom, searches for a year to find a magic cloth so fine it can pass through the eye of a Venetian-lace needle.

And there is the German tale, told by the Brothers Grimm, of a dwarf named Rumpelstiltskin who had the power to spin straw into glistening gold.

Modern alchemists still can't spin straw into gold, but they have accomplished something Old Rumpelstiltskin wouldn't dream of trying. They have created Crepe Tricot, a magical fabric which is transformed by Hollywood Vassarette into exquisite lingerie certain to win the heart of every woman.

Crepe Tricot looks and feels like Crepe Georgette, and performs like nylon. It is delicately sheer and silky soft, but has all the easy care advantages and the wash 'n wear qualities of nylon.

Hollywood Vassarette enhances this beautiful fabric with gossamer imported lace that is hand cut and-applied in a collection that reflects the elegant look of hand made lingerie.

Mac's Cafe Aces Capture Ball Title

Mac's Cafe Aces are again Senior Men's Softball Champions of the Inter-City Softball League, beating out Penticton in the finals. They receive the Adams Trophy, the fourth time in its seven year history.

The Aces had a very good year, winning the league pennant, plus all home games and losing only three games all season.

The team received good pitching from Corporal Hunter and Vern DeWitt. The whole team played heads-up ball during the season and ended up with a .300 batting average.

Team members would like to thank the fans who supported them and also the school for letting them play on their very good ball park.

"I am a Druggist!"

"To best serve the people of this community I maintain a stock of carefully selected merchandise. To be able to recommend the best product for every need, it is part of my training to know the standards of quality and measures that have been established by science and experience. When I order goods my selection is based on the known merits of these widely recognized standards.

"Then I advertise to give people the news of my store. Because I know that nearly everybody reads a newspaper I use newspaper advertising regularly. When people pay for newspapers they read them carefully for all of the news that is interesting to them. When my ads are newsy and contain useful information I know that people will read them because they are news."

Another fact that merchants like about newspaper advertising is that they can buy it on the basis of known values that are just as definite as the measures of weight and quality that apply to merchandise which they handle.

Businessmen cannot afford to speculate with advertising. When they buy newspaper space they can make their investments on the strength of circulation facts and figures that are verified. It is good business practice to buy advertising by such methods just as it is good business to buy and sell merchandise on the basis of known standards.

This helpful information is available from reports issued by the Audit Bureau of Circulations, a cooperative, nonprofit association of nearly 4,000 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies.

At regular intervals the A.B.C., of which this newspaper is a member, sends an experienced circulation auditor to make a thorough inspection and audit of our circulation records. The FACTS established by his audit are published in an A.B.C. report which tells you: How much circulation we have; where it goes; how obtained; how much people pay for our paper; and many other FACTS that you need in order to KNOW what you get for your advertising money.

This newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Volume 19, No. 24

And then the whining schoolboy, with his satchel, and shining morning face, creeping like snail, unwillingly to school. — Shakespeare

Lower speed limits around Summerland schools are now

Students must enroll

Summerland Secondary School pupils are reminded of the policy of recent years that those students not in attendance by September 15 must apply in writing to the School Board for admission to classes.

Since class numbers must be established and school work starts immediately, any delay in attendance works a decided hardship on the individual student. School authorities are authorized to accept resignations up to September 15.

Students are also reminded that anyone not in regular attendance during the year may not be eligible for recommendations in June.

Any student not in attendance at Summerland Secondary School but planning to attend should get in touch with school authorities immediately.

Many exhibits, displays expected at fall fair

A special feature of the Summerland fall fair will be the Saturday night appearance of Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Pearkes, who will be here to officially greet Summerland citizens. The vice-regal couple will be at the arena at 8 p.m. following a civic luncheon, and fair officials are expecting a large chowd to be on hand to greet them.

Entertainment following the queen crowning Friday night has something for all ages. Two Kelowna dance groups will thrill the audience with their artistry, a group of young dancers in authentic Scottish costumes and dancers in native costumes from many countries are among the entertainers. Ed Burnett of Kelowna will present several vocal numbers, Ron Walker and his group from Penticton will be here with their instruments, and several local people will present variety numbers. Several good comedy acts have been lined up.

Locally manufactured products will be on display, including a display from Georgian Bay Rustic Furniture; items from apricot and juniper wood made by John Rathjen; and Summerland Welding and Machine Shop hopes to have a display of large pieces of equipment made at their plant.

Another new Summerland plant, Mark Ornamental lawn and patio pieces will be on display in the WI tea garden.

A new trophy cup to be awarded annually in memory of the late Nat May, is to be given for the best individual dahalia in the flower show.

Members of the Camera Club will present two slide shows every hour in a special booth.

The United Church Women will be presenting pancake suppers both evenings, topped with delicious Summerland Sweets syrups.

Concern voiced over park changes

E. H. Bennett waited or council Tuesday to discuss any plans they might have for widening the road past the Memorial Park.

Mr. Bennett said that he had heard unofficially that the municipality was planning to widen the road and further that they planned to remove the row of weeping birch trees which had been planted along the road 17 years ago. Mr. Bennett said these trees were very much admired by the community and he hoped they would not have to be touched.

Councillor W. S. Ritchie said that the parks board, which he heads, had made tentative plans to plant another row of trees set well back from the present row, as the board feels more shade is needed in the park.

Mr. Bennett also expressed concern that a wider road would bring the cenotaph too close to the edge of the road and ruin the attractiveness of the setting.

Council told Mr. Bennett that only very tentative plans for yet whether Miss McCutcheon will be able to take her place at the crowning ceremony or Friday.

road changes in this area had been discussed, and Reeve Norman Holmes assured him that a great deal of thought would be given before any changes were made.

Works superintendent Blagborne said that stakes now in place in the park indicate new planting areas.

Hospital Auxiliary will purchase new incubator

Ladies of the Hospital Auxiliary attended their first fall meeting this week.

Chairman Mrs. E. Macintosh announced the special fund is growing steadily and it is expected to order the Isolette soon. This is a special incubator which is the Auxiliary's project this year. An asset to the hospital nursery, this unit among its many features, allows the nurse to care for an infant while it lies snug and warm inside. The hospital is presently studying several models, and the Auxiliary was told that the medical staff will soon make a decision on the unit suitable for this hospital.

This will be added to the long list of contributions that the Auxiliary has made toward keeping hospital equipment up to date.

The group's prime project and money maker, the Thrift Shop, will put warm winter clothing on sale about the middle of this month.

Sale of Christmas cards, a yearly Auxiliary project, will be convened by Mrs. R. Oxley. The cards are sold at parties and teas. Other items on sale are the souvenir stationery featuring artwork by Irvine Adams; and calendars from the Marpole Infirmary.

The Auxiliary meets again in the first Monday in October.

IN MEMORIAM

MAY — In loving memory of my dear husband, Nat, whom God called home September 8, 1963. "Two tired hands are resting, The voice I loved is still; The one who did so much for me, Is resting at God's will." — Remembered always by his wife Annie.

MAY — In memory of Nathaniel Ferguson May, who passed away on September 8, 1963. The blow was great, the shock severe, We little thought the end was near, And only those who have lost can tell The pain of parting without farewell. More each day we miss you, Dad, Friends may think the wound is healed, But they little know the sorrow That lies within our hearts concealed. — Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Maureen, Paul and family.

Locals

Visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Graham were his brother and sister in law, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Graham of Vancouver and also two sisters Mrs. Margaret Graham and Davinia Graham of Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mott have left for a prairie holiday.

Don Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, a PGE employee in northern B.C. spent the week end at home.

Visiting with Mr and Mrs W. Setter were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bridger and family and Mrs. Bridger Sr. of Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Glenn have returned from a motor trip to Banff and Calgary.

Mrs. Fred MacInnes will go to Vancouver to represent the Summerland Hospital Auxiliary at the provincial convention this week.

Mrs. Viola Turnbull of Victoria is visiting Mrs. E. C. Bingham.

Mrs. Gwen White and Miss Tina Trass of Langley spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Inch.

DEAR DORIS — I am 60, twice widowed, and in the past three years have nursed my husband, then my mother and father, through painful long last illnesses.

This spring I travelled to England and on the trip over I met a widower, 67. He was most congenial and we returned on the same boat. In Montreal he wanted me to stay with him but I said if he wanted that kind of person he could go his own way and I mine.

He has been sick. He smokes 50 cigarettes a day, has a chronic cough and high blood pressure. I believe, in spite of any faults I see in him, I care for him.

Now that I am back home I am depressed. Life is so empty. Sometimes I wonder what is there left for me? All my loved ones are gone.

LOOSE END

DEAR LOOSE END — Over three years you have spent yourself unstintingly. Now the anti-climax of nothing to do, nowhere to go, is well-nigh unbearable.

Perhaps you do care for this man, but this is no time to fall into his arms. All too soon he might reverse the roles by falling into your — with his own chronicle, debilitating illness.

First, readjust your life with a new, life-giving interest. Deliberately set out to find a new circle of friends. Sources? Your church, or the Y.W., volunteer work, or a club whose project dovetails with your talents.

Then take another look at him.

DEAR DORIS — I want to put an ad in the paper and from this ad I will be expecting much correspondence. I don't want to use my real name because I am quite well known here and I don't want people phoning or visiting me. Can I change my name in a situation such as this?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING — You could use a "nom de plume". But a box number is the usual thing, in your case. The newspaper will be glad to oblige.

DEAR DORIS — I'm 15 and am in love with a boy 17 years old. The trouble is he is English and I am German and father does not want me to go with English guys. Another boy 16 years old likes me and he is German.

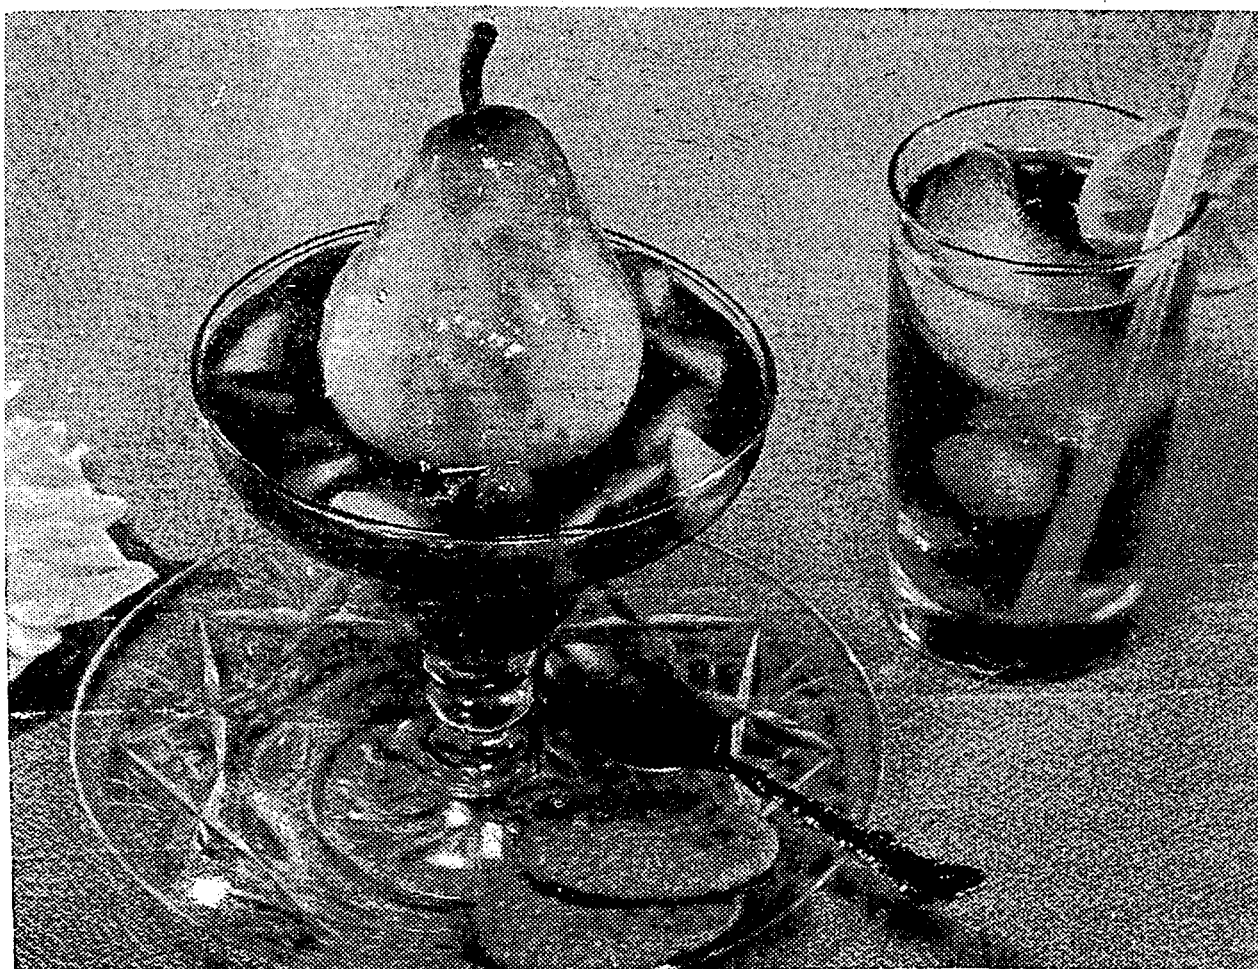

Every time the boy I love comes past our house and waves I get in trouble with my father. What should I do? I can't break up with him because I care too much about him. I don't like the other guy at all, but my family can't get it through their heads.

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP — Your Old Country father is shocked by your Canadian? flirting. And I am shocked because in making the change-over from German to Canadian teen-age ways, you have gone overboard. You are not in love.

If you could take on a little more poise, and your father were to get his citizenship papers, there might be some chance for compromise.

It's pear eating time, and once again housekeepers have the opportunity to provide their families with this luscious late summer fruit for filling empty corners in the inner man.

Don't forget pears must finish ripening off the tree, so while they're sitting at room temperature, set aside half a dozen to try this interesting cool dessert.

Pear Elegance

6 pears, peeled but with stem on

- Lemon juice
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 2 cups water
- 1 stick whole cinnamon
- 1 tbsp lemon juice
- 2 pts. raspberries (or)
- 2 pkgs. frozen berries.

Peel pears and sprinkle with lemon juice. Prepare a syrup by simmering together sugar water, vanilla, cinnamon and the tablespoon lemon juice. Let simmer for 5 minutes in a deep pan. Cook pears in this syrup until tender but still firm. Remove from pan and cover pears tightly with foil. Boil remaining syrup to reduce to 1 cup. Remove cinnamon. Add raspberries and boil rapidly until sauce turns red and thickens. Strain and pour over pears, the foil having been removed. Cover and chill, turning pears often. Garnish each serving with diced pear and more sauce.

Will live in Penticton

St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church in Penticton was the setting for the August wedding of Margaret Elaine Jones of Penticton and Barry Edward Parrish of Summerland.

The wedding principals are the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Jones of Vancouver and the son of Mr and Mrs G. E. Parrish of Summerland.

Rev. Anthony MacDonald officiated at the 4 p.m. wedding.

The bride entered the church with her father, choosing a lovely floor length gown of pure silk organza, dramatized by a train of matching lace. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of pink roses. Her four tiered veil was held in place by a crown of crystals and pearls.

Bridal attendants, Mrs. Frank Thorson of Edmonton, as the matron of honor and Miss Winifred Bowen of Ponoka Alberta and Mrs. John Wilcox of New Westminster, as bridesmaids, chose identical gowns of deep turquoise in formal length. They carried bouquets of chrysanthemums and gladioli.

Harry Derosier of Calgary was groomsmen, and ushers were Brian Parrish of Summerland, Robert Lindahl and Garth Fowles.

Penticton Elks Hall was the scene of a wedding reception following the ceremony.

For a honeymoon to points on the coast, the bride chose a suit of champagne lace with complementing accessories.

The couple will make their home in Penticton.

BANK OF MONTREAL UNIVERSITY EDUCATION PROGRAMME

A comprehensive, life-insured plan for financing a college education for boys and girls now in high school

If you are like most parents with children in high school, you are probably wondering how you are going to meet the costs of financing your youngster's college education. To help parents solve this problem, the Bank of Montreal has introduced its University Education Programme—the first life-insured plan of its kind in Canada.

Under this comprehensive programme, parents, guardians and sponsors of high-school students can spread the cost of a university education over periods of up to nine years, thus keeping monthly payments to amounts they can afford without hardship. And the cost to the parent is only a fraction of the interest paid on a straight loan programme.

HOW THE PROGRAMME WORKS
Under the basic plan, the parent agrees to make monthly payments to the Bank starting, say, two years before the student enters university, and terminating one year after graduation. In return, the parent receives an annual sum from the Bank at the start of each of the four university years.

VARIANTS OF THE PLAN

Several optional plans are available under the programme, and these vary as to the number of years in which the parent wishes to make monthly payments, as well as to the amount required annually for university expenses. Plans are based on objectives ranging from $1,000 to $8,000 payable to the parent in four annual instalments.

Here is an example of how one of the basic plans can be varied to suit your needs:

OBJECTIVE: $4,000

To be paid to the parent in four annual amounts of $1,000 each

OPTIONS	YOU PAY MONTHLY	PERIODS OF PAYMENT	YOUR PAYMENTS BEGIN
Plan A	$49.55	7 years	2 years before university
Plan B	42.78	8 years	3 years before university
Plan C	37.56	9 years	4 years before university

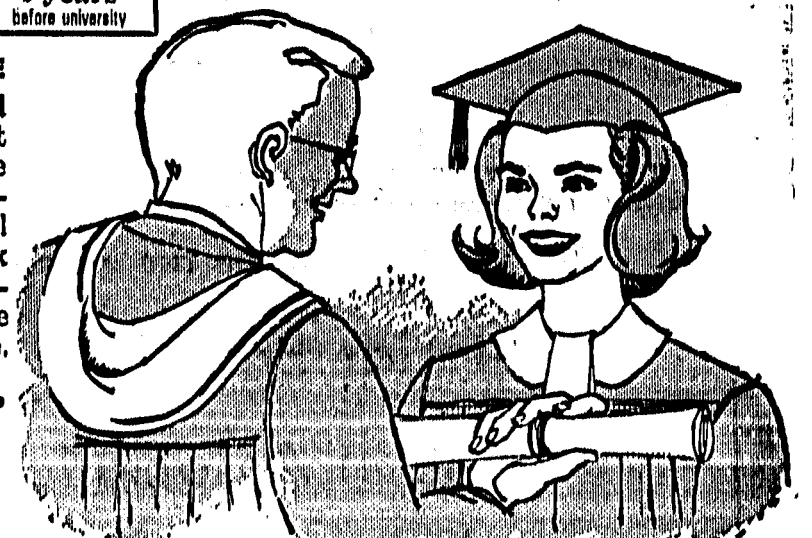

LIFE-INSURANCE FEATURE

If the parent concerned should die after the start of the programme, the funds for education specified in the agreement will be advanced by the Bank each year without any further payments being made by the family or the estate.

HOW TO JOIN THE PROGRAMME

See the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch. You will receive a warm welcome from a staff who will be pleased to give you further details and to help you select a plan suited to your needs. Ask for your copy of the Bank of Montreal University Education Programme folder.

P.S. If you need help in financing a student already in University—or planning to register this year—talk to your B of M Manager. Chances are he can arrange a tuition loan with extended payments adapted to your circumstances.

Summer: Who Needs It!

BY BILL SMILEY

Waning summer is a sad time, in a way. The halcyon days are nearing an end. The sun has lost its burning, baking strength. The nights come sooner, and cooler.

Young lovers who have had a summer affair part with a last embrace, desperate promises to write, and a great heart-wrenching, a feeling that something is going to be lost, irretrievable. And they're right.

There is a slightly forlorn, lonely air about the beaches and the resorts and the summer places. They have acquired a certain air of shabbiness that goes with the end of summer.

Canadians fall asleep every year, in June. Lulled by the whispered, scented promises of that lush and lovely month, they dream of dazzling beaches, pine-scented woods, fun and sun, health and happiness.

And then the dream turns into the reality. The sizzling irritation of the July heat wave, when they have decided, for a change, to take their holidays in August this year. And the cold, wet blanket of August, which turns camping trips into shivering family feuds, cottages into miniature mental institutions, and resort owners into wild-eyed neurotics.

But don't let this end-of-summer sadness bother you. It's phoney. Canadians are not really sad as summer ends. At least, they're no more sad than I am, when I dream I'm flying to Hongkong with Elizabeth Taylor, and I've just drifted off with her head on my shoulder, and she shakes me gently and leers into my eyes and says, "I think I WILL have a double brandy", and I suddenly wake up and the Old Battleaxe is shaking my shoulder, the one with the hirsutis in it and mumbling, "Gemme a drinka wodder".

Summer in this country is an absolute fantasy, something in which no sensible

Canadian would put any more faith than he would in his Irish Sweepstake ticket, or his old Aunt Ethel who has changed her will six times.

Summer in this country is a fraud, an illusion. Every time I lie out in the backyard, on the green grass, with the green trees enclosing a circle of blue sky above me, I shake myself and pinch myself, until I know it's a dream, and that if I tried the same thing four months later, I'd be buried under three feet of snow.

That's why I feel no real sadness as summer draws to a close. The Canadian summer is about as real as Gilbert and Sullivan.

In fact, I am elated at the thought that another two months of muddling around with visiting relatives, irrational golf balls, reluctant fish and lippy kids is at an end.

As any true, red-blooded Canadian knows, fall is the time when we begin to live again. We love it. We come alive. We stop dreaming.

We look at our kids with clear eyes, after the opium-dream of summer, and find they've grown four inches. We look at our stomachs, after two months of barbecued chicken, french fries and dairy queens, and find they've grown two inches.

We look with loving eyes at our schools and realize with some joy that it's only a few days until we can take advantage of our position as taxpayers, and get rid of the kids for the best part of each week.

We look at our country and see it with new eyes. It's beautiful. Not a tourist in sight.

We look at our soft, soppy, silly summer selves, and realize that this is not what life is all about. And we give a dim silent Canadian cheer for the fact that it's all over once again, and we can get back to the serious things of life. Like having a baby or running for the school board.

Report from Parliament Hill

by David Pugh, MP

The flag debate has gone in to its twentieth day, and in all probability it will continue for some time unless some arrangement is entered into by the two major parties. There is now a more than even chance that this will come about. Such a proposal might well put the matter in a select committee. My understanding is that the only stumbling block relates to the time the committee will spend before reporting back to the House. A suggestion was made that four weeks should be ample time and that then, when the matter came back, the House would consider the report for another week, at which time a vote would be taken. Another suggestion was made that no time limit should be put on the committee's deliberations but that once they reported back, the House would decide on suggested terms for a plebiscite. It is to be hoped that a decision is made shortly so that the committee could report before a committee, the House will close now, and committee deliberations will start with the Fall Session.

While all this is going on, we have spent each Friday examining Departmental Estimates. On the last Estimates brought forward I asked that the Government pay particular attention to Tariff negotiations under GATT on any changes which might affect the farmer and the grower of fruits and vegetables. Downward changes in specific duties could affect growers of potatoes, onions, asparagus and tomatoes, and in the fruit industry, soft fruits. During the last Administration specific duties were raised and quotas established, with the result that we received a great deal of protection on imports. I also pointed out last summer the quota on turkey imports had been changed and that our markets were being flooded, to the detriment of our turkey producers. The same type of thing might well occur if we change our quota or change our duties and quotas on soft fruits and certain vegetables.

Safest route to school

With summer holidays ended, thousands of youngsters are now taking their first days at school or kindergarten, reminds the B.C. Automobile Association.

BCAA says the wise parent will study the different ways of going to school to find out which is the safest route for their child. The parent should then go with the child over that route until the child knows it by heart.

The youngster should be made aware of any dangers along the route; what to do at traffic signals, stop signs or other places where protection is provided.

Where an intersection is guarded by school patrol members, the parent should co-operate in safe-guarding the child by not starting him to school too early to take advantage of this protection, says the BCAA. The child should also be taught not to loiter on the way home so that he may cross in safety before the patrols have left their posts.

The auto club warns that the responsibility for the safety of a child going to school cannot be left solely to the motorist. It is up to the parents to educate their child before letting him venture to school alone.

Let your child's first step into the future be a safe one!

Small towns can play important part in Centennial

Canada's small towns can do more to make Canada's centennial a success than can the major governments, Centennial Commissioner John Fisher told weekly newspaper editors last week.

In a rousing speech to the 45th annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, Mr. Fisher called upon weekly editors to take an active part in promoting enthusiasm for the Centennial in cities and small towns across the country.

This is not just a Centennial for Ottawa and Toronto and Montreal, said Mr. Fisher, but a Centennial for all of Canada. We have a unique opportunity to celebrate our birthday in a way which will make Canada a much more attractive place for Canadians and others alike.

Centennial projects need not be expensive, but they should be imaginative, he said.

Many towns will build prosaic things like police stations and fire halls as their centennial projects, he said, but others will show more imagination and undertake projects which wouldn't be done otherwise, campaigns of beautification and community improvement which will be of value both to the resident and the visitor.

Many things in our home towns offer themselves as worthwhile projects if we have the wit and the energy to tackle them, he said. We can achieve greatness in our Centennial celebrations if all of us work towards their success.

New course offered for unemployed

The Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association has invited any unemployed worker who is interested in the sawmill industry to attend night school courses on lumber grading. These courses are designed to give students a background knowledge in theory and practical grading which is an essential first step in becoming a grader.

Accurate grading of lumber has become more and more important in recent years, so that a good knowledge of grading is necessary in almost all sawmill jobs.

The course will commence early in September and continue until Christmas, with review classes and examinations in January or early February.

The class in Penticton will start on September 14 at 1:00 and 7:30 p.m. in the Loughheed Building.

Further details may be obtained from the nearest Unemployment Insurance Office, a local sawmill, or the Adult Education Department of the School Board. Courses are sponsored by the Interior Lumber Manufacturers' Association, in connection with the local School Board and the Department of Education.

Normal fees for the course will not be charged to unemployed persons.

John Vielvoye, summer assistant in the Summerland horticultural office, has returned to UBC, where he will continue his studies.

Fair Queen Pat McCutcheon is expected to be well enough to attend the Rock Creek Fair this week end. She will be accompanied by her two princesses, Jean Stevenson and Maureen Hardie. W. S. Ritchie will drive the group to the fair.

Miss Jo-Ann Ongaro daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ongaro of Summerland was among the graduates of the Royal Inland Hospital School of Nursing at Kamloops receiving diplomas at the Graduation Exercises held on September 4. Her parents and other relatives throughout the Okanagan Valley attended the colorful ceremony.

Theatre Group to play here

The Summerland Kiwanis Club was announced that it will sponsor the appearance of the B.C. Holiday Theatre group here on October 9.

The play, Shakespeare In Orbit, will be performed under the direction of Miss Joy Coghill.

Miss Coghill's theatre group was in Summerland two years ago, and presented a Shakespearean play to the secondary school students, which was very well received.

Time to apply fall sprays

by A. W. Watt
District Horticulturist

Ian Jack, entomologist with the B.C. Department of Agriculture at Kelowna, advises that adult Shot-Hole Borers are now emerging from stone fruit trees and now is the time to apply the fall spray for these pests. 50% wettable DDT at the rate of 12 pounds per acre in concentrate sprayers or 1 1/4 lbs. per 100 gallons in gun sprays is recommended.

The fall spray for Coryneum Blight of apricots and peaches is now going on in local orchards. Fixed copper at 8 lbs. per acre or 1 1/4 lbs. per 100 gallons is recommended. Where both Coryneum and Shot-Hole Borers are found, fixed copper and the DDT can be applied together. A fall application of fixed copper on peaches will control Peach Leaf Curl as well as Coryneum Blight thus eliminating the need of a dormant lime sulphur spray on peaches.

Over 1,200 school registration

Registrations at Summerland schools has reached a total of 1,212 students this term. This was announced at last week's school board meeting. The secondary school population has remained almost static with last year with the elementary schools showing a small increase.

At the meeting, district superintendent A. L. Matheson outlined various methods of testing students and the findings on examination results over the past years.

Also at the meeting A. B. Brandon, science teacher at the secondary school was granted leave of absence to attend the National Science Teachers Association conference in Banff this September.

The school photographer will be at the school all day Friday to take student pictures. These pictures are available to the students later in the year for a nominal charge.

The Interscholastic Christian Fellowship group will hold its first meeting this week. The club provides Christian fellowship throughout the school and is sponsored by Preston Mott and J. Burke.

Soccer has started under the direction teachers Don Puddy and David Hamilton. Miss G. Rae has organized a girls grass hockey team.

Noon hour activities are being organized for students who stay at the secondary school over noon hours. Teams are organized and compete in various sports during the year.

SHOWS CALF AT 4-H FAIR

Rollie Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn, entered his calf in the Cloverdale 4-H Fair this week. He placed second in the South Okanagan 4-H Calf Club competition and sixth in the overall competition. The Grand Champion was owned by a Keremeos boy. It weighed 1,030 pounds and sold for $1.11 a pound.

Projects outlined for Centennial Committee

During the summer months the Summerland Centennial Committee has been meeting to discuss the various projects submitted earlier this year as Centennial projects. Chairman Dr. James Marshall admits the choice of a project will be a difficult one, as many of the ideas presented have a great deal of merit both as community and centennial projects.

Ideas reviewed to date by the committee include:

The Summerland Art Group asked that consideration be given to extending the present library facilities to create a story and study area and more room for children's books. They feel the present facilities will soon be overtaxed and that the children's section is now too small.

The Summerland Recreation Commission asked the committee to consider the building of an indoor swimming pool. The idea has been studied extensively by the Commission, and although it is considered the best would be in excess of the monies available, the Commission felt the idea was one of great merit for Summerland young people.

An imaginative program to create a park area south of the present Paradise Flat road, leaving it much as nature intended, except for a small oasis with plantings and picnic areas, was presented by Alf Kohlhauser.

Walter M. Wright asked the committee to consider a park area on the top of Giant's Head Mountain.

Another project in a similar vein, proposed by Don Agur, was that a road be built to the top of Giant's Head Mountain. Mr. Agur took the committee for a ride by jeep over the proposed route.

The Summerland Museum Group asked the committee to consider building an addition to the library where articles of historical interest might be displayed.

A playground area along the lake shore, south of the Yacht Club, with picnic tables and a swimming area with a diving stand, was envisioned by Mrs. Fred McInnes and Mrs. P. Reid.

E. H. Bennett asked that a park and picnic site along the lake from Peach Orchard Park to Windy Point be considered.

Mrs. Eric Williams asked that the idea of a recreation hall for the use of young people be examined.

Crown Queen in hospital

Fair officials estimate nearly 1,500 paid admission to the fall fair on Friday and Saturday, with approximately 500 youngsters also attending. These figures are well up over last year. Greater interest in the fruit, vegetable and horticultural sections was also shown when a record number of entries was received in nearly all classes.

Retiring Queen Vonda Wade crowned the new queen, Pat McCutcheon, not in the arena before hundreds of spectators as in past years, but in a room of the Summerland hospital where Pat is recovering from car accident.

Her two princesses, Jeannie Stevenson and Maureen Hardie received their tiaras at the regular ceremony in the arena.

The municipal council held a smorgasbord at the Yacht Club before the crowning to entertain visiting out of town royalty and members of the fair committee.

Chamber of Commerce president F. E. Atkinson officially opened the fair, and W. A. Gilmour was master of ceremonies for the queen crowning.

A guard of honor was comprised of candidates for the offices of queen and princesses, Susan Mallett, Lillian Hankins, Wendy Toews, Dorelyn Ducommun, Breen Bergstrom, Jean Coates and Carol Clifford.

Train bearers for retiring Queen Vonda were Susan Beulah and Margot McInnes. Darlene Shannon substituted for last year's princess, Betty Ann Dunsdon, who is out of town, and Princess Anne Marie Bonihoux was in attendance.

The royal party and guests were piped into the arena by the Pentiction Junior Pipe Band.

A variety program was provided after the crowning ceremony.

Major-General the Hon. Geo. Pearkes, VC, Lieut. Gov. of British Columbia and Mrs. Pearkes visited the fair Saturday night following a civic dinner at the Rosedale Room. They spent about two hours viewing the exhibits and chatting with various residents.

Princesses Jean Stevenson and Maureen Hardie presented a box of Summerland Sweets to Mr. Pearkes and a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Pearkes.

Education courses offered through employment office

Some time ago, the National Employment Service conducted a survey of all job applicants in its offices across Canada to learn how much education each unemployed person had. The results of that survey showed that the unemployed had much less education than most workers.

Persons who dropped out of school after completion of only grade 8 or 9 are unlikely to get anything but unskilled jobs with low rates of pay, and the number of such jobs reduces every year. Over the past ten years, there has been a decrease of 23% in unskilled job opportunities and over the next five years a further reduction of 35% is expected.

Reports from National Employment Service offices indicate that it is extremely difficult to place applicants with less than grade 10 education and that many applicants for jobs as industrial workers or office workers are not sufficiently qualified. Also, as a grade 10 level is an essential, pre-requisite for many vocational courses, these applicants are unable to upgrade their qualifications.

The South Okanagan Adult School, which is operated by the Adult Education Department of Penticton School District No. 15, is again offering the Basic Training for Skill Development Course to Grade 10 level. This will enable applicants to upgrade their educational qualifications and apply for admission to Vocational courses requiring Grade 10 as a minimum level of education.

This course has been approved for financial assistance under the Federal/Provincial training agreement and classes will commence as soon as sufficient students have been accepted for training. Applicants for the course must have a definite vocational goal in mind for which the Grade 10 equivalency would be required.

Admission to the course is not limited to residents of the Penticton area but is available

Vernon artist's work on display at library

A Vernon artist, Miss Janet Middleton, CPA, will have a display of her paintings in the regional library for the next two weeks. Miss Middleton, an artist-teacher, is highly regarded for her high standards in painting.

She has spent many years studying both painting and sculpture and won a Bronze Medal for her work at the Winnipeg School of Art. She was later granted a British Council bursary to study at the Slade School in England.

Miss Middleton spent 13 years with the University of Alberta in the extension department and seven years at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

One of her more recent works was a new type of stained glass window for the Grace Memorial Church in Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lacey of Trout Creek had as their guests, Mr. Peter Alcock from Wiltshire and Mr. David Wells from Bristol, England, students of the University of Bristol, travelling across Canada and the U.S.A. Mr. Alcock is Mrs. Lacey's second cousin.

QUESTIONS about the CANADA STUDENT LOANS PLAN?

...talk to the B of M NOW

Details of the new Canada Student Loans Plan have been released. And your local branch of the Bank of Montreal has the information on how to apply.

The Plan will provide bank loans to students who need financial help for full-time studies towards a degree or diploma at universities or other educational institutions above high school level. No security is required, and repayment will not begin until six months after you graduate, or discontinue your studies. Up to that time, all interest will be paid by the Federal Government.

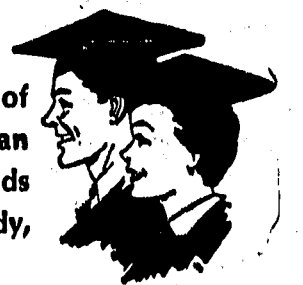

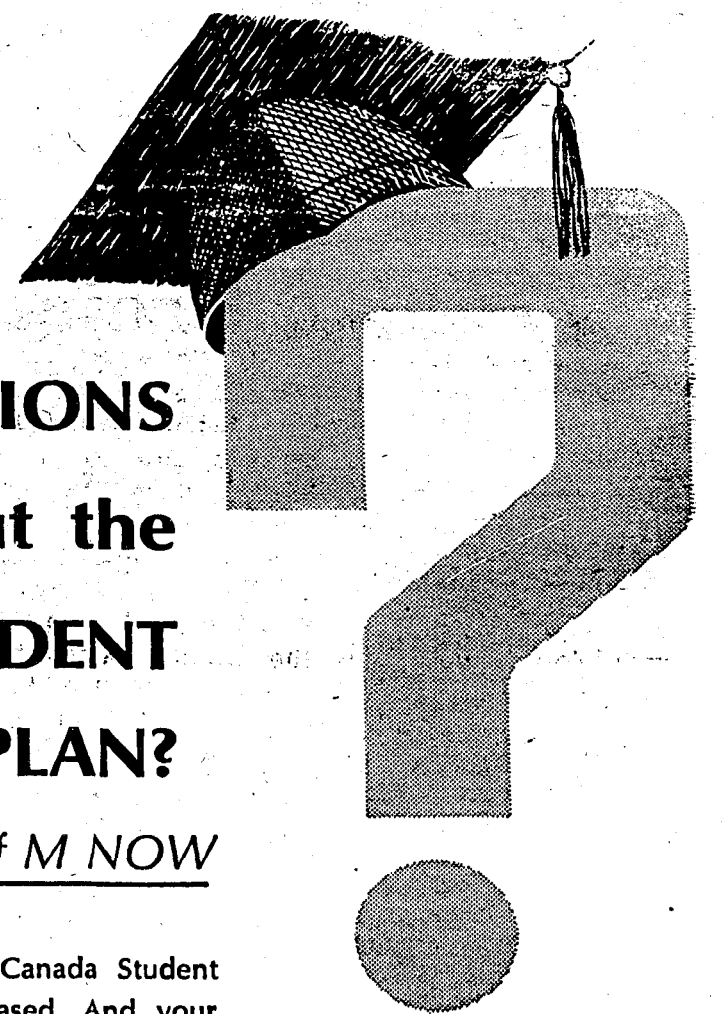

In a recent statement on the Plan, G. Arnold Hart, President of the Bank of Montreal said, "Support of education has long been an established principle of the B of M... Any practical measure that extends the educational horizons of young Canadians will always find a ready, sympathetic response from Canada's first bank".

If you'd like to learn more about this new Plan, call on the Manager of your local branch of the B of M. He has all the details and he can give you a folder on the subject. Why not see him now?

BANK OF MONTREAL
Canada's First Bank

P.S. for Parents. If you have youngsters in high school, you will be interested in the Bank of Montreal University Education Programme—a comprehensive, life-insured plan to spread the cost of a college education over periods up to nine years. Your B of M manager has details on this, too.

More in '64

The fall fair for 1964 is now over, and nature added to a very pleasant occasion with perfect Okanagan weather, a rarity this summer.

Several new commercial displays were entered this year, a good indication of progress in the community as well as growth in the fair.

Attractive displays by a local building contractor and furniture manufacturer added to the brightness of the arena, and allowed residents to gain more information about services offered right here in Summerland.

The Summerland Camera Club's slide show was one of the biggest crowd pleasers, along with the Women's Institute's fabulous character doll display, with its intricate details of costumes.

Flowers, fruits and vegetables were of prime quality this year again, with the encouraging sign of more exhibitors giving a good cross-section of the community's agricultural prowess.

The visit of Lt. Gov. Pearkes and the crowning ceremony (although minus its chief star) were added highlights.

A most successful and pleasing fair, and well worth the efforts put into it by the hard-working fair committee.

Happy in the harem

(An editorial from The Financial Post)

King Solomon and King David led very wicked lives. They had several hundred concubines and umpteen hundred wives.

But later on in life they both had qualms. So King Solomon wrote the Proverbs and King David wrote the Psalms.

Evidently the Emir of Kano, who has a harem in Northern Nigeria, had some qualms about his concubines and wives. They were becoming bored. So he let them become Girl Guides. Lady Huxley, wife of Sir Julian Huxley, the eminent scientist, tells this story about her experience in the Emir's harem. Not on the staff, just visiting. "There were some two dozen concubines there, all Girl Guides," says Lady Huxley. "The oldest and chief concubine, who had the most marvelous 'jewels' was the Guides' Assistant Commissioner. It was a beautiful place but once the girls entered the harem, and the Emir liked them young, they were in for life. Time hung heavily on their hands, so my friend, who was the wife of the local English District Commissioner, suggested they should all be Girl Guides. The Emir was pleased because it gave them something to do." Lady Huxley adds: "They were not terribly good Girl Guides. (Apart from the little badge and tie, they hadn't much uniform. But when I left, they all gave me a wolf howl."

It could be that Lady Huxley was unduly harsh and there was one good Girl Guide in the bunch. But it was to protect young girls from just such risks that The Financial Post recently refused the advertisement of a lady from Buenos Aires seeking "one diplomated Canadian gentleman for the purpose of later to wed."

Bingo Bango

We are reminded once more of the cabinet minister (in a civilized country) who predicted that people would learn to live with the sonic boom. This is the boom that a faster than sound aircraft drops on the human race.

For a while the debate about this noise concerned only its effects on human beings. So it looked as if the noise might win.

But now there are signs people may become chance beneficiaries of concern for the boom's effects on animals, and on their owner's pocketbooks. Also, those of us who value peace and quiet may be assured some respite from the sonic boom because of its possible effects on bingo players.

Research into such problems is reported from Britain. Hens frequently startled by sonic booms are said to lay fewer eggs. Cows that jump over the moon every time a supersonic plane goes over the barnyard yield less milk.

Obviously human beings can now expect to ride on the cow-tails of this new research.

Even more notable — in its own special way, is what might be called the bingo bang — which is a response by players of this game to the rival noise that descends on them periodically like some last judgement. If this causes them to make mistakes — like shouting bingo because a supersonic plane just went bango — there may be financial claims from people who think they would have won a packet if there had been less racket.

So the gamut of our civilization runs. And if one can just keep up with it a little longer, who knows what grim new invention will next become the mother of sweet necessity? — The Christian Science Monitor

The new national Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association president, Ken Patridge of Camrose, tries his hand at guitar-strumming during the final dinner at this year's convention in Toronto. He must have struck a wrong chord, if we are to judge by the expression on the face of CBC radio star Tommy Hunter who is protesting with Ken's gavel. The Tommy Hunter Show originated from the convention hall as a wind-up to the national conference.

Report from Parliament Hill

by David Pugh, MP

The House heaved a sigh of relief when all Parties agreed to send the whole question on the flag to a Special Committee for consideration and report. The important features are that the Committee will not sit more than six weeks, and will be composed of 15 Members — 7 Liberal, 5 Conservative and one each of the NDP, Social Credit and Creditists.

Should the Committee be fairly unanimous, then it may bring in a report at any time, putting the same before the House. No time limit has as yet been set on argument before the House. I have talked with many Members of all Parties, and I can honestly say that most would hope that a non-political compromise will be reached. I have felt from the beginning that the flag question was unnecessarily diverse to Canada at the present time. My views are shared by many. Should the Committee not be able to agree with a reasonable majority, then when the question comes back to the House the Debate will in all probability continue for some time.

There is very little indication that the House will close shortly. It was expected that a short adjournment would follow, but on being questioned, the Prime Minister stated that "Perhaps we ought to see how we get along with our business next week, and in the light of the progress we are able to make we can then decide whether we deserve a holiday". To my mind this has become a marathon Parliament without too much direction. It has a day to day feeling, with very little sense of order. A short pause at this time might do it a lot of good.

On the Estimates for Mines and Technical Surveys, I spoke once again in favor of the construction of an optical telescope as a Centennial project of some note, to be constructed in the Okanagan or its near environs. I pointed out that our area has all the elements necessary to make the enterprise a technical success, and also that it would be a boon to tourist traffic. The Minister gave his assurance that no site has yet been chosen, and that he hoped that the project would not be hampered in any way but that as yet all studies were preliminary only and that no money has been voted for construction of the estimated eight million dollar unit.

New books at the library

by Kay Dunsdon

Among new fiction to come to our library is Jan Dobraczynski's To Drain The Sea, a strong and imaginative story of a nuclear explosion which destroys most of Europe, and brings together in a survival camp, three cardinals of Rome, a novelist and a small girl. These survivors try to re-assess their old values and to set up a new world.

Taylor Caldwell's new novel is told through the eyes of a young girl, Rose, listening while her grandmother dines the local priests, and they recount their unusual experiences. To See the Glory is good reading.

Shadow of a Sun by A. S. Byatt, is a first novel with well drawn characters. The setting is in England.

In The Life of Rupert Brooke, Christopher Hassall has given us a well rounded biography of this twentieth century poet, cholera and socialist partisan of the Victorian era.

This is Music, by David Randolph, has attempted to explain the elements of music and how to listen and enjoy it. He succeeds so well that the average layman will enjoy the book, and gain in his understanding of music and the pleasures of listening.

The Sino-Soviet Conflict 1965-1961, by Donald S. Zagoria, tells of the friction between the two Communist countries, Russia and China. Donald Zagoria is a member of Social Science Division of Rand Corp. and analyst of Communist politics for the United States government, and so has first hand knowledge of these affairs.

Ernie Bradford has sailed from one Greek island to another and through the years has come to know them well. He gives us delightful scenes and facts from history, to lure us to these delightful islands in his book, Guide to the Greek Islands.

SUGAR AND SPICE

Gone With His Guitar

By BILL SMILEY

This column will be made up, for the most part, of excerpts from letters from my son. The first one was found, in the breadbox, one morning a couple of weeks ago.

I'd sat up until midnight with Hugh, convincing him that for financial and political reasons, his ambition to spend a couple of weeks in Quebec, on his own, was foolish.

The letter read "Dear family: this is not a suicide note. By the time you read this, I will be sailing along the highway towards the midnight sun (or noonday moon). I'm off to where the grass grows greener still."

"Don't think that I've run away from home. I'm a little too old for that and anyway the idea's revolting. I may be disillusioned and be back on my doorstep by dinner hour, but if everything goes as I plan, I will spend the next two weeks in Quebec, learning French and discussing crucial topics with fiery French radicals. I know you think I'm a romanticist and will probably wind up in jail or hospital, but believe it or not, I'm quite capable of handling myself away from home.

"Now, don't dare send the Mounties after me. I'd be so embarrassed I'd run away from home for good. Besides I have my supply of heroin with me. Have yourselves a swingaroo at the convention."

There was more to the letter, but that was the gist of it. You can imagine the ensuing scene.

His father was ready to horse-whip him, or call in the police and charge him with something-or-other.

His mother was ready to have a good cry, cut him off without a cent, or run down the highway in her bare feet, calling after him.

His kid sister was interested but not impressed. Her comment was, "What a dope!"

Then society intruded, as always. What will the neighbors think if he comes home in a police car? What will the neighbors think, and ask, if he doesn't come home at all? Why did he do this to us? Has he no gratitude for all we've done for him?

And so on. Kim merely repeated, "What a dope!"

People are tough. We cooled off, we realized there wasn't a sensible thing we could do about it, and we went to the convention. But not before we'd done some checking, and found he'd cleaned out his bank account, taken his guitar, and, to his mother's extreme mortification, absconded with only two clean shirts.

Back from the convention, we received two letters. Excerpt: "Two really friendly ladies drove me from Kingston to Ottawa and bought me a sandwich and milkshake. I insisted on paying, of course, but they told me just to do the same for somebody else some time."

Excerpt: "I am going to Grand'Mere, Quebec, to spend a couple of weeks with a French family. I met the boy at the station in Ottawa. He is 19, his name is Michel, and he's going to U. of Montreal in the fall."

Excerpt: "I am staying with the Ricards. He is a painter (in houses). Mrs. Ricard is 40 and rather pretty, a bit taller than her husband and doesn't speak a word of English. They are all extremely friendly and hospitable. At first, I could not understand a thing. They have an accent which pronounces mere, mire, and soeur, sire; moi is moee and toi, Tooee."

Page 4 and 5 of this letter are missing. P. 6 begins, "Just like you, Mom," which is driving my wife crazy.

There's a lot of other stuff, then: "Last night, Michel and I double-dated with one of his girl-friends and her sister (they are both really cute). We went to Shawinigan for a band concert. There were about three times as many boys as girls and they all stood 'bumper to bumper' on each side of the path while the couples walked between them. Soon it started pouring, so we went to a dance."

Well, the kid's getting some sense. He knows enough to get in out of the rain. There was a little message on the outside of the envelope of his last letter. It was the least literary thing he'd written. It said, "Please send $10."

When the whole thing started, I was ready to send him to jail for 20 years. Instead, I sent him the 10 dollars.

Dear Doris

Have a problem? Write to Canadian social worker Doris Clark in care of this newspaper.

DEAR DORIS — My wife and I have raised our niece since she was two, although her parents refused to let us adopt her. Everything was fine until she was ten and she realized the difference between her parents and her aunt and uncle.

She started to change towards us. Now at 18 she is self-willed and mean. Worst of all she has come between my wife and me. My wife has set her affections on her instead of dividing them and there is always a strain between us.

I'd give anything to sit down to meals without the feeling of animosity in the air, and to know that my home was running smoothly again.

ON EDGE

DEAR ON EDGE — Your niece's initial shock made the world fall out from under her. Her parents rejected her. She needed strong reassurance about how much you both wanted her. Needed to be talked to.

Now your wife's overleaning affection is seen for what it is: an apology. While the girl accepts it, it is still not good enough. And your wife, in turning the blame onto you, has lost her perspective.

Your life partner is unhappy too. Could you take her back a few years in conversation and help her to see what has happened?

DEAR DORIS — My parents hope to visit my aunt and uncle soon, and I know my cousins very well. One has started a hope chest which she prizes very much.

Would it be all right for me to send a gift for her to put in her chest? How much should I spend on it?

COUSIN BOB

DEAR BOB — Yes. Not more than a towel, a card table cover, a novelty ash tray, per haps.

DEAR DORIS — When you hire someone to cater for a wedding, do they supply the waitresses or do the invited guests have to serve?

HAPPY HATTIE

DEAR HATTIE — Not unless you want it that way. Caterers usually bring along their helpers.

DEAR DORIS — With your encouragement I was able to handle my situation. My sister asked me to stay and take care of the children when she went away to see a sick friend. Her husband was home and naturally he got smart again.

Well, I told him that if he so much as laid a hand on me I was going to do something about it. Anyway, he didn't think I was brave enough so at 2.30 a.m. I called the police over. They gave him warning that this would be the last time.

I told him that if it weren't for my sister and the kids he'd be in jail right now. He has behaved ever since.

GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL — Good for you for standing up to him!

Confidential to Widower — If you are "full of fun, good natured, drink very little", you needn't sit alone every night. Take the plunge into social life by going once to the church group or community club which has others your age in it. Spruce up first, and when you get there think, not about how strange you are, but how you can help. First thing you know, you'll be into it, hook, line and sinker. Good luck!

JUDGING A HOUSE

When you are considering buying a house already built, it is important to know what to look for as signs of quality and value. On first inspection, it is easy to judge the house by its exterior only. Paint, decoration and minor repairs may look attractive but they could also be hiding defects. Often the real value of the house is in the foundation, framing, bracing, insulation and other less obvious parts.

This is one of a weekly series of articles on Housemanship designed to give you helpful pointers on buying, remodeling and maintaining a house.

LOANS FOR STUDENTS

Guaranteed by the Government of Canada

Purpose: The purpose of the Canada Student Loans Act is to facilitate bank loans for students who need financial help to continue full-time studies beyond secondary school level at Universities and other educational institutions.

Who can apply: Any Canadian citizen, or anyone resident in Canada for one year who intends to live in Canada after completion of studies, may apply for a loan under the Act. An applicant must be enrolled or intend to enroll as a full-time student at an educational institution approved by provincial authorities, and must meet the standards of academic qualification and financial need established by the student loan authority in the Province in which he applies.

Amount of loans: Depending upon individual circumstances and financial need, loans up to $1,000 a year may be made, with a maximum of $5,000 during a student's academic career. The Provincial Authority receiving applications and determining eligibility will issue a certificate to each eligible student stating the maximum amount the student may borrow. This Certificate of Eligibility is required before a student can arrange a Government Guaranteed Student Loan with the bank of his choice.

Repayment: Interest-Free and Delayed Repayment Period
To assist students, the interest on loans during the period a student continues full-time studies, and for six months thereafter, will be paid by the Government of Canada. During this same period no repayment of principal is required, nor will any service charge or fee be payable by the student.

Method of Repayment
Borrowers will begin to pay interest and to repay loans six months after they cease to be full-time students. The current interest rate to students is 5¼% per annum. Normally the repayment period will be five to ten years. Borrowers have the right to repay loans in part or in full at any time without penalty.

Life Insured
In the event of the death of a borrower responsibility for repayment of the loans will be assumed by the Government of Canada.

Where to apply: Students resident in British Columbia, regardless of where they intend to study, should apply for a Certificate of Eligibility to:

British Columbia Student Aid Loan Committee,
c/o Department of Education,
Victoria, British Columbia.

The above notes are based upon the Canada Student Loans Act 1964 and are for reference only. All applications and loans are subject to the full terms and conditions of the Act.

Meet Mr. A.B.C.

- He Works for our Advertisers

He is one of the experienced circulation auditors on the staff of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.* Just as a bank examiner makes a periodic check of the records of your bank—so does Mr. A.B.C. visit our office at regular intervals to make an exacting inspection and audit of our circulation records. The circulation facts thus obtained are condensed in easy-to-read audit reports which tell our advertisers: How much circulation we have; where it goes; how it was obtained; and many other FACTS that tell advertisers what they get for their money when they advertise in this newspaper.

*The Audit Bureau of Circulations, of which this newspaper is a member, is a cooperative, nonprofit association of nearly 4,000 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing: A definition for paid circulation; rules and standards for auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

Under the Giant's Head

The CBC-TV program, Country Calendar this Sunday will feature peach picking in Summerland orchards.

The program will be seen on CHBC-TV at 4 p.m. This is the fourth in a series of programs on peach growing in the Okanagan, which has been filmed by the CBC in an effort to bring the problems the peach industry is facing to the fore. The programs to date have been considered very informative.

The lost and found department at the Summerland RCMP office has a number of items waiting to be picked up. It includes two boys bicycles, both red, one with white fenders and the other with no fenders; three lawn chairs, which were found in F. R. Ganzeveld's orchard; a 25 lb. pail of grease picked up on Prairie Valley Road; and a camp cooking unit found in Peach Orchard Park.

David Kraus, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kraus, Prairie Valley, will leave September 29 for New Delhi, India, where he will attend the India Agricultural Research Institute for two years.

David was awarded a Commonwealth Scholarship from the government of India.

He graduated from UBC in June with his Bachelor of Science Degree in Honor's Botany. He will receive his Master's Degree after his two years study in India.

Say it quick on telephone

Effective at 8:00 a.m. Monday, September 28, the Okanagan Telephone Company will bring Conversation Timing to all four and eight party lines serving Summerland.

It affects local calls only, originated by four and eight party line users. Long Distance service is not affected, nor are calls originated by individual and two party line users.

Local calls (within this Exchange area) originated by four and eight party line users only, will be automatically terminated approximately eight minutes after a connection is established. A warning tone will be heard 40 seconds prior to automatic termination.

Automatic Conversation Timing has been in operation in some other Exchanges operated by the Okanagan Telephone Company and has been very favourably received. It is regarded as a boon to party-line users.

B.C. riders will compete with top-flight contenders from Western Canada and the Northwestern U.S. at the Northwest International Horse Show in the PNE Agrodome at Vancouver, September 30 to October 3. Seen above, champion rider Karen Burdon of Sidney, clears the fence aboard Kelley's Dream. More than 300 horses, some worth $40,000, will compete in the glittering show to be opened on Wednesday, September 30 by Mayor William Rathie of Vancouver and Thursday, October 1st by Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

year's festival were (left to right): Miss Anne Wallace of Cambie Street, Vancouver; Miss Barbara Boyd of Vancouver; and Miss Barbara Beaven and Miss Wendy Wright, both of Summerland. The girls travelled together via the Orient and the Suez Canal to Britain.

After a few days sightseeing in London they hired a car and drove to Edinburgh up the East Coast of England. In Edinburgh they explored the ancient and historic city and attended festival concerts and plays. They plan to tour Scotland for a week, seeing the Trossach mountains and Loch Lomond, then travel through the Lake District to Wales and return to London.

Miss Wallace, Miss Boyd and Miss Beaven plan to work in London for about a year and continue their touring next summer, but Miss Wright, who has visited Britain before will return home to Summerland this October.

They are pictured on the esplanade during a visit to Edinburgh Castle, where they learned some of the building's turbulent history from Rifleman Livingstone of the Cameronians on duty at the castle drawbridge.

The Cameronians are performing in the spectacular Military Tattoo which takes place on the esplanade of the castle during the festival.

Charged after accidents

Several accidents of a minor nature occurred in Summerland during the past week.

Domenic Elia of Hospital Hill tipped his car over, when he was attempting to start it by using the down grade on Hospital Hill. The car, falling to start, went out of control, subsequently rolling over. Damage amounted to about $200.

In September 18, Michael Jones of Westbank and Larry Kehler of Saskatoon were involved in a rear end collision. The Saskatchewan driver was charged with driving too close. The accident, near Peachland, caused about $700 damage.

On September 21 at Peachland, two cars, both turning contrary to law, were involved in an accident which caused $350 damage. Both of the out-of-town drivers were charged with driving on the wrong side of a double solid line.

On September 18, Burke Crowdes of Summerland appeared before magistrate Reid Johnston on a common assault charge. Found guilty he was fined $25 and costs. The charge arose following a fracas in a Summerland motel.

On September 17, William

McElue of Port Coquitlam was fined $15 and costs for passing on a double solid line.

Pickers needed as harvest of apples reaches peak

All available pickers are being called out this week to harvest Summerland's apple crop. The past few days of good weather, although too late to add any size to the apples, has made picking easier and pleasanter.

Poor growing conditions and lack of warmth for finishing of the apples has left its mark on this year's crop, with a higher incidence of disease and smaller fruit which is not acceptable for Canadian markets. The overseas markets seem to prefer the smaller apple, but home consumers like them big.

A sharp increase has been forecast for Ontario's 1964 crop of Bartlett pears. According to estimates, this year's yield will exceed the

CBC dash hopes for low-power radio transmitter

A reply to a letter sent to the CBC a few weeks ago, asking for a low power radio transmitter for this area, was read at Monday night's council meeting. The broadcasting corporation indicated in its letter that the chances for a transmitter in Summerland are fairly small. They pointed out that both the Penticton and Kelowna radio stations now contract for 31 hours a week of CBC programs, while there are still many small areas without any CBC coverage. Council will continue to investigate.

Attending the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention in Burnaby this week are Reeve Norman Holmes, Councillors W. S. Ritchie and J. H. Schaeffer and municipal clerk G. D. Smith.

Councillor W. B. Powell and Works Superintendent Ken

Blagborne will go to Victoria shortly to gain more information from provincial authorities regarding the initial plans for ARDA irrigation projects for Summerland.

The red panel truck which was stolen from the municipal yards some months ago was found in Revelstoke recently. It was not damaged and is now back in operation.

A letter of appreciation for municipal assistance to the fall fair was received. The fall fair committee expressed appreciation for the work done during the fair by members of the municipal staff.

The annual court of revision of the voters' list will be held November 2. Appointed to sit on the court are Reeve Norman Holmes and Councillors W. S. Ritchie and J. H. Schaeffer.

New appointments to the Advisory Planning Commission are D. B. Hill and J. B. Hack, whose terms will run until 1966.

F. R. Ganzeveld top prize winner at Armstrong fair

F. R. (Tiny) Ganzeveld was the major Summerland winner in the fruit section of the Armstrong Interior Exhibition last week. Mr. Ganzeveld won 24 firsts and eight second prizes. His brother, Jake Ganzeveld, won five firsts and three seconds. Mrs. E. C. Bingham won seven firsts, 14 seconds, and 11 thirds, while W. F. Ward won nine firsts, seven seconds and nine thirds.

F. R. Ganzeveld placed first in the Better Fruit Special; W. F. Ward, second; Mrs. E. C. Bingham, third; and Jake Ganzeveld, fourth.

F. R. Ganzeveld was also awarded the Dr. Palmer Trophy, the P. A. Thornton Trophy. He received the most points for his displays in apples, pears and peaches; best plate of apples in the show, and the most points in boxed fruits.

Jake Ganzeveld received the most points for displays of plums and peaches.

Instruction planned for drama group

Drama teacher, Mrs. Earl H. Deeder, is anticipating that the night school courses offered here will again include a drama group.

Mrs. Deeder told the Review that interest in drama is very keen this year, and she is planning a fairly intensive training course for students.

She plans to start out the year with a three act comedy, and will give regular drama lessons along with work in plays.

It is hoped to hold the Okanagan Drama Festival in Summerland next May. Last spring, Summerland's entry in the festival, which was held in Vernon, made a very good showing, and Mrs. Deeder is now planning for another festival entry from the Summerland group.

MLA asks for increased education assistance

The MLA for Oak Bay, Alan Macfarlane, called for a crash programme on education in British Columbia when he spoke at a public meeting in Osoyoos Saturday night. Outlining B.C.'s vast development which has seen an average increase in provincial revenue of 30 million dollars a year for each year since 1959, and considering B.C.'s population is increasing faster than California's, Mr. Macfarlane pointed out that surely money is available for the province to take great strides in education. He said the provincial government should be financing junior and regional colleges, taking advantage of the 54 million dollars of federal aid which is available to B.C.

Speaking on the proposed Bank of British Columbia, Mr. Macfarlane said most people favor the establishment of further banks in B.C. Most people favor the Bank of British Columbia. The major objection to the bank as presently proposed is that it might become a politically dominated bank, a massive political instrument. Mr. Macfarlane called on Premier Bennett to agree to have the government withdraw from the bank, if it receives the full public subscription. Surely, he said, it is in the interest of British Columbia, that the Premier give this undertaking.

The Liberal MLA for Oak Bay, a riding next door to the Parliament Buildings in Victoria, said everyone should be aware of the tremendous development going on in the province today, and realize that great strides in education and social services should be taking place now when money is available.

New wine crops recommended

Several promising new grape varieties are recommended for limited trial by growers in the Okanagan, reports Dr. D. V. Fisher, in a release from the Canada Department of Agriculture's research station here.

It is good news for growers in the area, where interest is running high in new varieties which will produce fruit suitable for roadside sales or for wine.

Growers are urged to try as many of the new ones as possible to determine those suited best to their soil conditions, says Dr. Fisher.

The new varieties and their characteristics are as follows:

Schuyler — This blue grape variety ripens during the first week of September, producing tight bunches of grapes of medium size and high quality. The fruit, although excellent for eating, is too bland for wine.

Buffalo and Bath — Maturing three to four weeks later than Schuyler, these varieties produce large, attractive bunches of high quality blue grapes that are suitable for eating or making wine. Bath is especially attractive because of its heavy yield and the excellent wines made from it.

New York Muscat — This variety produces reddish black fruit of high quality and good sugar content. Maturing a little earlier than Buffalo, the grapes are suitable for eating or wine. Although New York Muscat is not as productive as some other varieties, Dr. Fisher foresees an important role for it in the production of muscatel wines.

Seibel 9549 — Yielding blue grapes suitable for wine, this variety ripens well in growing season and is the most promising in terms of yield, hardness, and resistance to mildew.

Seibel 13053 — Another blue wine grape, this one matures

Lost its art

A year ago it seemed that the issue of a flag for Canada was important. Then, the only symbol we had to represent us at the top of our flagpoles was the one that had happened as a sort of historical afterbirth. Nobody had had either the courage or the inclination to suggest anything better.

Then along came Mr. Pearson. He vowed to give us a flag. Perhaps the most of us didn't take him seriously, but serious he was. And when he revealed his plan he must have felt like Adam did when he was looking for his first fig leaf.

Now it is raining flags. Mr. Douglas and his band of foresters have cut down two of the leaves and insist on one. Mr. Diefenbaker will have none of it. He will have neither the forest nor the trees. For the Tories it's Rule Britannia in the form of the red ensign kissed by les canadiens with a sprig of the fleur de lis.

For weeks parliament has been filled with much wind and hollow words. While the wick quickly smoulders under the rest of the world, Diefenbaker and Pearson drift away clinging to a bag of semantic hot air.

Theodore Roosevelt said that politics was the art of the possible. With all good sense gone, politics in Canada has lost all its art and become impossible.

Safety in distance

The U.S. television version of "That Was The Week That Was" will continue this season but with some changes made. The producer of the show was quoted in the press the other day. He stated: "You can say anything you like about Germany, France and England. Domestic topics are touchier". If privately owned TV faces this dilemma in the U.S. how much more delicate is the position of the government-owned CBC. The furore over the "Mr. Pearson" film is only one of many examples that have occurred in Canada over the years.

The Truro, (N.S.) Weekly News pointed out when the CBC was being pilloried over the effort to record a day in the life of a prime minister that the CBC is "damned if it does and damned if it doesn't simply by virtue of the fact that it is a crown corporation." The Fowler inquiry could find the logical solution but whether or not it would recommend it once found is another question. Meanwhile the CBC might safely undertake Mr. Mao, Mr. Nasser or Mr. Willi Brandt, but not Mr. Pearson!

ODDLY ENOUGH

REFRIGERATION

Quick frozen foods were first introduced to the public in March, 1930. Since that time our menus have been revolutionized by the wide variety of seasonal foods that are now available year-round. Butt-welded steel pipe is used in the freezing chambers of food processors to keep the temperature at a frigid -10° to -40° F.

Flowers for milady are also kept fresh by refrigerants flowing through sturdy butt-welded steel pipe. While the flowers are not frozen, low temperatures of 40° to 50° F. keep the natural beauty and just-picked freshness of the flowers for many days.

In every modern meat packing plant butt-welded steel pipe carries refrigerants to keep temperatures healthily low. That juicy steak you had for dinner was kept fresh and appetizing through mellowing and seasoning at temperatures just above freezing.

Consider the Lilies

by Rev. F. W. Haskins

Flower gardens have certainly looked most attractive during the past weeks. The flower display at the Fair was a joy to behold. The flower beds at the Summerland Research Station have been an outstanding local attraction for visitors, even on days when the weather has not been at its best. Few places can offer the visitor more beautiful and well arranged floral contrasts against such a scenic background.

The beauty of flowers is noted in the Bible. A flower design was included in the branches of the golden candlestick which was used in worship and a lily design was used on the columns of the temple.

"Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin," said Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount. The Master referred to the fact that the beauty of flowers is quickly passed. He asked: "Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which today is, and tomorrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?" Here is a reminder that one's life should not be governed by worries and concerns for the future. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, said Jesus, "and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

Both Job and the Psalmist use flowers to teach a lesson on the brevity of life. Job tells us that "man cometh forth like a flower and is cut down" and Psalm 103 says "As for man — as a flower of the field, so he flourisheth. For the wind passeth over it, and it is gone. But the mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him."

It is a sensible and prudent thing to reflect on the lesson of the flower garden which is bright with beauty in its season and lo, after the frost "it is gone". Human life is on a higher plane than the things that grow in the field.

Jesus encouraged men to have faith in God and seek His righteousness and receive the offer of eternal life.

SUGAR AND SPICE

It's The Happiest Day!

By BILL SMILEY

Everybody happy now that school has re-opened? You should be. With the possible exception of Christmas Day, it's the happiest and most exciting occasion in the year, for a large part of our population.

When I was a kid, we all hated going back to school. And it was real. Schools were grey and grimy. Classrooms were stuffy and poorly lighted and smelled. Teachers were maiden ladies of eighty or ninety years old, and crabby as hell.

Nowadays most youngsters are thrilled to enter the portals in September. They've had enough summer. They want to get back with their peers, and gossip, play, work, stretch their minds, find somebody to hate besides their parents.

Nothing is quite so charming as the gosssoons entering Grade 1. Shined and curled and starched beyond recognition, they march off on opening day with the new schoolbag, clammy hand clutched by a disgusted older brother, or pompous sister. They're as scared and excited as a pilot on his first solo flip.

Next in sheer delightfulness, I think, are the kids entering high school. Last year they were the big wheels in Grade 8, the monitors, the safety patrol members, the seniors. Suddenly they are plunged into a vast high school where they are nothing, the youngest of the young, the rookies, the chickens just out of the nest. Their bewilderment is something to behold.

Mothers either weep or breathe a sigh of purest relief on opening day, depending on whether they have lost the first of their nestlings, or have just got rid of the last of the little horrors who have been nudging them towards an institution for the past twelve years.

Fathers, too, heave either a sigh or a groan, depending on the age of the kids. If the students are young, it means the old man at least knows they're in school and safe, not being buried alive at the sandpit, or falling into the water-filled ditch, or running out in front of speeding cars to get their ball. If they're university age, he breathes heavily and grunts with a mingling of pecuniary pain and wild elation as he signs the first of many cheques for tuition fees, plus room'n board.

The "drop-outs" are happy as morons. They quit last Easter, took a job, the job petered out, and now they fervently agree with their mother, who said they were too stupid to make a living unless they had a university degree. So they've dropped back in, to keep warm for another winter.

The school board is happy. The long dull summer, with nothing to do but make money, is over, and they can get back to the fascinating topics of how much the new boiler will cost, how lousy the new teachers are, how much they dare submit to the council in their budget, and how different things were when they were at school.

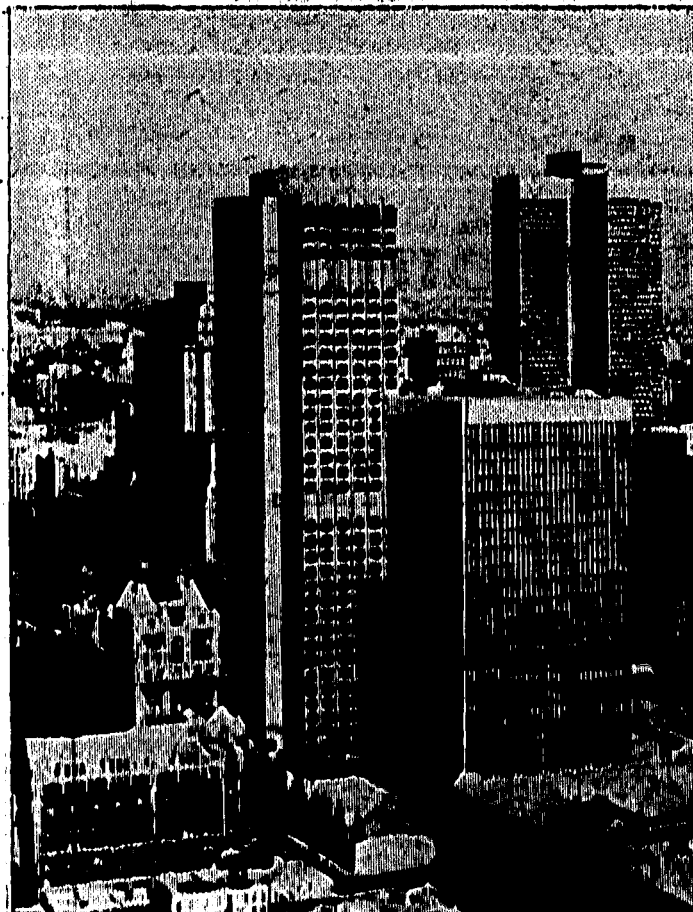

The caretakers are happy. After all, it's rather frustrating to spend all summer washing, waxing and polishing, with nobody to appreciate. Now, their two months' hard work vanishes in a twinkling, and they can go back to 10 months of grouching about dirty kids and sloppy teachers.

The merchants are happy. Their "Back-to-School" advertising campaign went over pretty well. Now they can relapse comfortably into criticism of the stupidity of the school board, the hours and salaries of the teachers, and the manners and morals of to-day's students, compared to those of their own generation.

Theoretically, the teachers are happy. They return to school clear-eyed, refreshed, bushy-tailed, dedicated, after their long vacation, which they spent lying on the beach, pounding a golf ball, or touring Europe.

In reality, most of them totter in, red-eyed, wrung-out and broke, after seven weeks of summer school and one dreadful week visiting relatives, during which their kids were holy terrorists and it rained every day.

Fall setting for marriage in St. Stephen's Church

St. Stephen's Anglican Church was the scene of a fall wedding on Saturday, September 12, uniting Sheila May Waterhouse and Keith Charles Taylor. Rev. Norman Tannar officiated at the 7 p.m. ceremony.

The principals are the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Thomas Herbert Waterhouse, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Charles Taylor, all of Summerland.

The groom is a steward in the Royal Canadian Navy and is stationed on HMCS St. Croix, at Esquimalt.

For the ceremony, the church was decorated with pink and white blooms on the altar and chancel steps and white satin ribbon entwined on the chancel rail.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white silk brocade, with a V-neckline and lily point sleeves. The graceful skirt was styled with deep unpressed pleats at the back, extending to a chapel train. Her dainty headdress of tiny white lilies and seed pearls held a four-tiered veil of nylon illusion and she carried a spray bouquet of pink roses, stephanotis and white satin ribbons.

Matron of honor was a sister of the bride, Mrs. Ben Draper of Crawford Bay, and the bridesmaid was Miss Linda Nygard of North Surrey. Flower girls were Cynthia Waterhouse, sister of the bride, and Leana Taylor, sister of the groom.

All four attendants were dressed in identical ballet-length gowns of turquoise brocade styled with fitted bodices, short sleeves, rounded necklines and full skirts. The senior attendants wore headpieces of turquoise nylon illusion held by a brocaded rose to match their gowns. They carried a bouquet of pink roses and heather. The flower girls wore ruffled headbands of brocade and carried noseyay bouquets of pink and white daisies.

Bryan Charlton of HMCS Aldergrove was best man, and ushers were Michael Waterhouse, the bride's brother, and Raymond Woite, the groom's cousin. Organist was H. J.

Lupton.

At the reception following in the Parish Hall, the mother of the bride received wearing a beige linen sheath with matching jacket, coral hat and accessories and a matching corsage of gladioli. The mother of the groom wore a beige brocade sheath in shades of pale pink, blue and yellow with a beige hat. Her corsage was in pink tones.

The bride's table was centered with a lace cloth made by the bride's great-grandmother. A crystal bowl of flowers and crystal candlesticks holding white candles completed the table decorations. The 3-tiered wedding cake was on a separate table decorated with red roses.

The toast to the bride was given by Douglas Taylor, the groom's brother, and the toast to the bridesmaids by Bryan Charlton.

For a honeymoon trip by car to Spokane the bride wore a peacock blue wool dress with black patent accessories.

The couple will make their home at 4491 Bensmore Rd., Victoria.

Out of town guests included Fred Walton, Hammond; Mrs. Lacey Fisher, Salmon Arm; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Draper, Susan and Binnie, Crawford Bay; Miss Linda Nygard, North Surrey; Robert Taylor, North Surrey; Bryan Charlton, Aldergrove; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Mitchell, Kaleden; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mc. Gilmour-Atkinson wedding Saturday

St. Stephen's Anglican Church was the scene of a quiet wedding Saturday, September 19, at 11 a.m., when Gweneth Helena, younger daughter of Mrs. Robert Hebblewhite Atkinson of Summerland and the late Mr. Atkinson, was united in marriage with William Andrew Gilmour, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hannan Harold Gilmour, formerly of Vancouver and Summerland.

Rev. Norman Tannar performed the ceremony.

For the ceremony, the altar flowers were of coral and cream colored gladioli, with a large basket of the same flowers on the altar steps.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Clive M. Atkinson of Summerland, wore a short white Irish lace sheath with matching lined collared jacket with elbow length sleeves. Completing the ensemble was a small white feathery hat, white gloves and shoes. Her flowers were yellow Tallman roses fashioned into a cascading bouquet. She wore a gold heirloom pearl-set lavalere worn by her mother on her wedding and also by her sister at her wedding.

The sister of the bride, Mrs. H. J. Barkwill of Summerland, was matron of honor, and wore a rosy beige two piece suit of fine wool with matching hat and a bouquet of pink toned rosebuds.

Best man was Dr. W. E. Mason of State College, Pennsylvania, brother in law of the groom.

Following the service a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's brother in law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Barkwill.

The bride's mother wore a turquoise light wool suit, with white hat and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table was laid with a drawn thread linen cloth centred with a 3-tiered wedding cake and lighted by white tapers in crystal candlesticks, and small crystal vases of pastel shaded asters. Mr. Barkwill proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon trip to the Kootenays the bride wore a brown Morlaine wool suit with matching peau de sole trim, a French model brown velvet hat with brown-toned feathers, brown accessories and a mink jacket, with a corsage of small yellow Phalaenopsis orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilmour will reside at Trout Creek.

Dear Doris

Have a problem? Write to Canadian social worker Doris Clark in care of this newspaper.

DEAR DORIS — There are three of us brothers baching it; the oldest 25, the next 21, and me 14. I consider myself rather dense. My oldest brother likes to emphasize it and he likes to pick on me.

For instance, ever since I've come here he's always tried to find something wrong with what I've done, or if something happens he's on my back before I get a chance to explain.

What shall I do — go back home or stick it out here?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED—It is a funny thing, but we tend to be like what people think we are. If someone pats us on the back when we do well, this makes us want to do better. And most of us can.

On the other hand, if someone who matters to us bats us down all the time, we start thinking, "What's the use?" A person — even a grown-up can only stand so much beating down before he gives up entirely.

You aren't dense. Your letter was well written. You have a fine future ahead.

Have a serious talk with your oldest brother. Ask him to notice when you do well and tell you about it. Show him this letter. He has it in his hands to help you become a fine, capable young man, if he loves you enough and has enough will power and understanding to do it.

DEAR DORIS — My son and his wife want to hold a reception for us on the occasion of our golden wedding. What bothers me is that my husband is not good at making speeches.

Would it be proper for me to say something to my guests? I don't know what I could say, other than thank them all for coming.

OLD FOGY

DEAR O.F. — Why not. No point in trying to make a public speaker out of your loving spouse at this late date!

Welcome friends, thank them, say how you've prized their friendship over the years. Make special mention of any there who were present at the original event.

If there's a gift to open, would Hubby do that? And at least stand up to say thanks, and if he had it all to do over again, he'd do it.

And let me be the first to congratulate you.

To Tongue Tied—Write in for my Tips on Talking, enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Once you learn how to get the conversational ball rolling it's easy to gain momentum!

Hunter safety objective of all

High visibility in the woods is still the hunter's greatest safety factor, Ken Hodgson, president of the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs, said today in announcing the 1964 Hunter Safety Week in British Columbia. The Federation's annual safety drive will run from September 27 to October 3rd.

Mr. Hodgson said that of six fatal hunting accidents in the 1963 season, four might never have happened had the victim been highly visible to the person with the gun. He said that one man was shot when an American hunter saw what he thought was a moose, another shooter saw a white movement and thought the victim was a white tailed deer; a third was shot on a moose hunt, and a fourth was mistaken for a deer. The remaining two fatalities involved a self-inflicted wound and a drowning.

The official safe color for hunting in British Columbia is fluorescent blaze orange, a color highly visible to all normal sight and also to most persons who have any form of color blindness. It is visible over tremendous distances and rarely, if ever, blends into the fall landscape.

"Most firearm accidents are not serious," Hodgson added, "but we are out to eliminate both the minor and the major form of firearm mishap due to carelessness, and our program is working well. In 1962 there were ten fatal accidents, and the number of accidents per 10,000 hunters is going down year after year through education and training in B.C.

"Our Junior Firearms Safety Training Course which is available in almost every community of B.C. has instructed thousands of young people who are interested in guns and hunting. It is not intended to make expert shooters of these young people, but merely to train them in the safe handling of guns. This it has done.

"During the past year Kamloops introduced Junior Firearms Safety training to its schools and introduced more than 500 young people without any interference with their normal studies. We hope this will spread all over the province before too long, since there is an excellent spot in the school curriculum at grade 7 to teach gun safety."

The Federation will install fluorescent blaze orange bumper strips on thousands of B.C. cars in the next week and these will bring home the message to travellers all over the province that hunting is a safe sport and can be kept that way through constant vigilance while afield.

"We consider hunter safety and good gun manners as part of the ethics of the outdoors," Hodgson concluded. "Hunting is a very safe sport and its accidents get far too much public hysteria attached to them. If automobile accidents were treated the same way, most people would be afraid to step into their cars.

"Thank God our hunters are better trained than our drivers."

1st Summerland Troop
Monday night was our second meeting with 20 boys present. Next week five Cubs from the Pack will have their "Going-up Ceremony" to the Troop. We are fortunate this year in having two new leaders, J. B. Hack, a former member of the Troop, and D. R. Heinicke who was formerly Scoutmaster of the Trout Creek Troop.

This fall the Troop is emphasizing the 1964 theme "Fitness Through Scouting" adopted by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of Canada. Our objective is to have every Scout win a Personal Fitness Badge. Dr. Heinicke is especially looking after this aspect.

This past week all boys received their new Scout catalogue, and it should be pointed out that most items in the catalogue are available at catalogue prices through Len Hill Mens Wear in Penticton.

Patrol scores are Buffalo 40, Beavers 30, Eagles 30 and the Hawks 22. Duty patrol next week, Hawks.

— D. V. Fisher, Scoutmaster.

JUDGING A HOUSE

Older, well lived-in houses are more difficult to judge than newer houses. Poor location, a small lot or dated appearance can make the house obsolete. Often plumbing fixtures, cabinets, trim or heating system require modernizing. An old house can usually be remodelled if the foundation is firm, framework rigid and floors and walls are level and straight with no sagging or decay. Finally, decide if the desired improvements can be made economically.

This is one of a weekly series of articles on Housemanship designed to give you helpful pointers on buying, remodeling and maintaining a house.
