Giant's Head road project approved by Corporation

Summerland Council met with the Centennial Committee Friday night and accepted their recommendation that a road be constructed to the top of Giant's Head Mountain. This opens the way for the application to be made to the Centennial Commission for final approval by the provincial and federal authorities. The official acceptance was made at the council meeting yesterday.

Officials from Victoria inspected the project a month ago and said it was possibly the best and the most original idea proposed in the province.

Reeve Holmes at the council meeting, was concerned regarding rumours he has heard to the effect that council was not co-operating with the committee and that they did not have confidence in their judgment. "This is not true," he said, "we were at no time against their recommendations. It is true that we did fear that they would not be able to put the road in—but we didn't oppose them."

"We were being cautious" Councillor Powell added, "not opposing them."

A unanimous vote of confidence was accorded the committee. They were also authorized to carry on with the celebration arrangements. "They are a good committee and will do a good job" the Reeve said.

Jim Schaeffer said the committee has spent about 2,000 hours on Centennial work. "They have travelled around inspecting roads" he said "and have found that the road they propose is superior to many now used by the Parks branch."

The committee's second choice was a Jubilee Arena Annex and third a Municipal Library annex. Consideration was given the development of a beach park at the foot of Peach Orchard Gulch, but felt this would be done by the community in the course of the next few years.

The committee stated that the road to Giant's Head was discussed 50 years ago but the cost was a big factor. The road was suggested by two district pioneers, Magnus Tait and Walter Wright.

They contacted Don Agur who has had a lot of experience in mountain road building and after many Sundays measuring angles and projecting a roadbed on the north face of the mountain, he reported a road with a maximum grade of 15 percent could be constructed for not more than $10,000. They noted that the road from Prairie Valley to the Mountain View Home has a Grade of 15 per cent.

The road which will be one and a quarter miles long at an average width of 20 feet ranging from 12 feet where blasting is necessary to 24 feet.

At the start heavy logs would be used for guard rails but possibly in the future concrete guards would replace them.

An essential factor in the estimated low cost of the road is the fact that fill and shale are on the site and would be used as required.

The road would stop at a point about 200 feet from the summit where a well graded trail would extend to the top. Parking would be available at the end of the road for fifty cars and picnic tables and toilet facilities would be provided.

Native trees and shrubs would be used for landscaping. They suggested Western larch, Saskatoon Berry, Lodgepole Pine, additional yellow pine and Douglas Fir as well as Mahonia, snowberry, mountain maple and sumac. Guard fences would be provided at danger points.

Points of interest would be designated on a sign burned in heavy cedar planking. At the highest point would be a cut-stone cairn on which would be a bronze plaque commemorating 100 years of confederation in Canada.

This highly imaginative project that "will provide a more inspiring view of all that is typical of the countryside, could be completed at a cost within the projected budget" according to the report.

They suggested that it is high time Canadians gave more thought to their heritage and this project would "probably insure a striking landmark against the defacement of the area."

Good Turnout At Carnival

Although there were not as many at the Kiwanis Carnival on Friday night as last year, it was termed to be a good average night by chairman Doug Campbell and "we are happy with the support from the many non-members who helped so much" he said.

"We do appreciate what the Kiwanis Club did for us too" he added. "They were in charge of the hamper draw and are turning over all the profits to us." Proceeds will go towards community projects in Summerland.

The draw on the hamper was won by Ralph Girard and the draw for the lawn set, sponsored by the Kinsmen was won by Bob Tingley.

Beach Rd. residents seek parking

Mr. Sam Howe addressed the Summerland Council at their regular meeting yesterday, requesting they dig in the existing surface water line to his property so it may be used all winter.

Clerk Gordon Smith had written Mr. Howe, stating that at the time of construction of that home, a warning was given to the effect that the domestic water supply would not be adequate and that the corporation would dig in his surface line at a cost of $390 but suggested he install a pressure pump at an estimated cost of $150 to $175.

Mr. Howe did not feel the pressure pump would do the job, and because he was paying full water rates, he should be entitled to the service being dug to his property line.

The surface line was put in for irrigating and he was given permission to hook on to this line for domestic use, until freeze-up.

Reeve Holmes explained to Mr. Howe that they have instances where it would cost $3,000 to bring water to property "and we just can't do it".

The standard cost to the corporation is $140 for each hook up so this was offered to Mr. Howe, the balance of $390 would be paid by him. This will be confirmed by letter. Mr. Howe said he "would think it over."

He said "yesterday I couldn't even get a kettle of water out of the domestic system and since there is another line there (the surface line) it should be made available to me."

He was told it would be, but he would have to pay the difference in cost.

Residents on a portion of Crescent Beach Road have no parking place on the road—in fact they have no parking at all. Mr. Blagborne is going to cost out placing a retaining wall on their property making the road wide enough for them to park. Due to the fact that the work will be done on private property, the cost of the work will have to be arranged through the property owners.

Prince Rupert man is named school superintendent here

Mr. G. M. Paton was named District School Superintendent for Summerland School District No. 77 and for Penticton School District No. 15.

The announcement was made public late last week.

Mr. Paton, 40, held the same position in Prince Rupert. He will reside in Penticton.

He succeeds Mr. L. A. Matheson who passed away in June of this year after holding that position for two years.

Rotary International president to visit clubs in local area

There were visitors from as far away as Windsor, Ont. and Dawson Creek, B.C. at the regular meeting of the Summerland Rotary Club.

A Summerland man of many years, Tom Ritchie was a guest and president Jock Johnston in welcoming him said "I am very pleased to welcome Tom Ritchie—Tom is possibly the best citizen in Summerland."

Al Lougheed of Kelowna won the weekly draw and donated the proceeds to the swimming instruction fund.

District Governor Ted Atkinson, in a letter to the club stated that International Rotary President, Dr. C. P. H. "Sput"

Teenstra of Holland will be travelling the area and will be in Penticton at 2:45, Aug. 20 and at Kelowna at 6:30 for a joint meeting of the Summerland and Kelowna Clubs. He will address the members and their wives at 8:00 p.m. This will take place at the Aquatic Pavilion.

Those planning to go to Kelowna with their wives that night should register with the secretary at Friday meeting.

$220 has been taken in to date in the swimming instructor fund. Club members should send contributions in as soon as possible.

Dr. Munn of Summerland was honored at a lawn party Thursday where he received a number of gifts from those he worked with over the years. On the left is Mr. Frank Haar, Hospital Board director who gave the doctor a certificate of life membership to the Hospital Society and on the right is Mr. Jock Johnston, Society vice-president, who presented him with a variety of fishing equipment including a reel, a rod and case. Dr. Munn is seen holding the reel and rod. After serving the district for 21 years, the Doctor officially retired at the end of July.

DR. MUNN RETIRES AFTER MANY YEARS OF PRACTICE

Dr Blanchard Munn is honored at lawn party

After twenty-one years of faithful service to the Summerland community, Dr. Munn will make his calls only to the fishing stream in the future.

As a tribute from the community and the hospital, a lawn party was held in his honor Thursday afternoon when members of the hospital board, auxiliary and many friends met to honor him.

It was a complete surprise to him. He was telephoned to answer a routine call at the hospital. He drove up, got out of the car with his satchel and all and it wasn't until he took a few steps that he was aware that the crowd on the lawn was there to wish him well in retirement.

Jock Johnston, vice-president of the Hospital Board was the first to make a presentation and said "It is a pleasure and an honor but a regret that I am the one to wish you goodbye." He added, "The board and the staff will feel a great loss." With this he presented Dr. Munn with a quantity of fishing equipment.

The doctor said "This is very timely and it will be put to good use". One from the crowd said "Now you will be able to bring home the big ones, Dr. Munn with a quantity of fish."

"I have enjoyed these twenty years very much, and especially the people. I could change my mind yet you know".

The 2nd Vice-president of the Hospital Board, Frank Haar presented Dr. Munn with a certificate indicative of Life Membership to the Summerland Hospital Society.

Mr. Haar said "This is a bitter sweet occasion. We are sad at the possibility of losing the benefit of your wisdom but we are happy that you have many years to enjoy ahead of you. We are grateful for your long association with the board and we wish you a long and happy retirement," he concluded.

Harvey Wilson, Hospital Secretary-Treasurer spoke for, and made a presentation on behalf of the staff, of a lovely lawn set consisting of a reclining chair and two lawn chairs.

"It has been an extreme pleasure working with you", he said, "your sense of humor will be missed and we extend a lifetime invitation to attend our coffee breaks to live things up", Mr. Wilson said.

Mrs. Munn was presented a bouquet of flowers, on behalf of the staff, by Mrs. Gertrude Butler, Superintendent of Nursing at the hospital.

99-YEAR LEASE AT $100 PER ACRE

Reserve land near Kelowna for college site

An agreement was signed Monday with principles of a syndicate representing members of the Tsimlikoptum Indian band providing for a 99-year lease on approximately 65 acres of reserve land, and a 5-year option on an additional 35 adjacent acres.

The choice of the site was made after exhaustive studies by U.S. professor F. T. Giles and his associates who gave careful consideration to 21 sites in the Kelowna area and designated the reserve land as the "best single location" for the development of a first-class institution to meet the needs of the youth and adults of the Okanagan region.

The agreement is actually an "option" whereby the Okanagan Regional College Council has the right to purchase the property at any time before July, 1966. A referendum is expected to be presented to property-owners in the nine-school district area prior to that date asking for approval for construction of the college and outlining the specific costs and curricula.

The selected site is part of an area in excess of 600 acres which Indians of the band hope to develop into a select residential and commercial area, and a syndicate for the purpose has been formed by members of the band. The 65 acres does not include lake-shore property, nor an area of about 18 acres immediately west of the Okanagan Bridge lookout point. It extends westward almost to the intersection of the old road to the ferry, and up to but not including the old ferry wharf.

The syndicate formed by the Indian band, known as "Westbank No. 10 syndicate", is headed by D. C. L. Ursaki of the firm of D. C. L. Ursaki Management Ltd. Ursaki is a grandson of an Indian Chief of Spences Bridge, B.C., and the principle developer of a successful business development on reserve land there.

Other members of the syndicate are Chief Norman Lindley and Noll Derriksan of the Tsimlikoptum band. The specific property is owned by nine members of the band, and one parcel owned by the band.

Ursaki has said the syndicate has approval in principle from the Department of Indian Affairs regarding the syndicate approach to development of the area, and states he is negotiating with a well-known and well-financed development firm, and with several smaller firms, regarding financing and assistance for the entire 600-acre tract.

Regional College Council members unanimously approved the agreement with the syndicate Monday and a formal signing ceremony took place. The agreement provides for an annual rental of $100 per acre with escalator clause tied to the cost of living index, plus an additional rental for a limited period to cover the cost of water and sewage services and mains. The utility costs are limited to 25% of the cost of providing the service to the 600-acre tract, or $180,000, whichever figure is smaller.

The agreement also provides for a "green-belt" surrounding the college area to ensure against unsuitable developments, and provides for arbitration of disputes of a technical nature.

The college will have the option to install its own water and sewage services if the syndicate fails to further develop the area and provide the services.

65-acre tract on the west side of Okanagan Lake and immediately north of Highway 97 has been selected as the site for the proposed Okanagan Regional College.

Penask Lake Fishing

Sandy reports that the Willow Leaf and worms trolled deeply are ok as usual and Yellow Flatfish and Red Spots are used.

The fishermen have all mentioned Dr. Spratley, Black O'Lindsay, Silver or Red Body Carey when they came in to be successful files.

Campers would be well to bring their own drinking water when they go to Pennask.

Girl Guides at Camp

Twenty-eight girls attended Camp Mewata last week. The girls were broken up into patrols named after popular television programs and each night two of these patrols performed for the group at campfire. Sunday evening, being the last night of camp the Vancouver visitors took charge of the campfire and taught the Summerland Guides new songs and campfire ideas.

The Guides made pictures which will be on display at the Guide booth at the Fall Fair.

A very interesting hike was led by Miss Enid Maynard, Mrs. Bill Laidlaw on Saturday morning. They hiked up to see Bishop Stocks' grave and the old homestead. They found many wild flowers and raspberries and on return to camp a cool swim was enjoyed.

The leaders of the camp were Gladys Pool, Mema Laidlaw, Enid Maynard. Alice White was camp nurse. Barbara Thomson of Naramata served as camp lifeguard and Algo Bourne was camp cook.

Vancouver girls attending the camp were: Pam Farish, Pat Farish, Susan Westman, Jean Kingston, Penni Stafford, Margaret Watson;

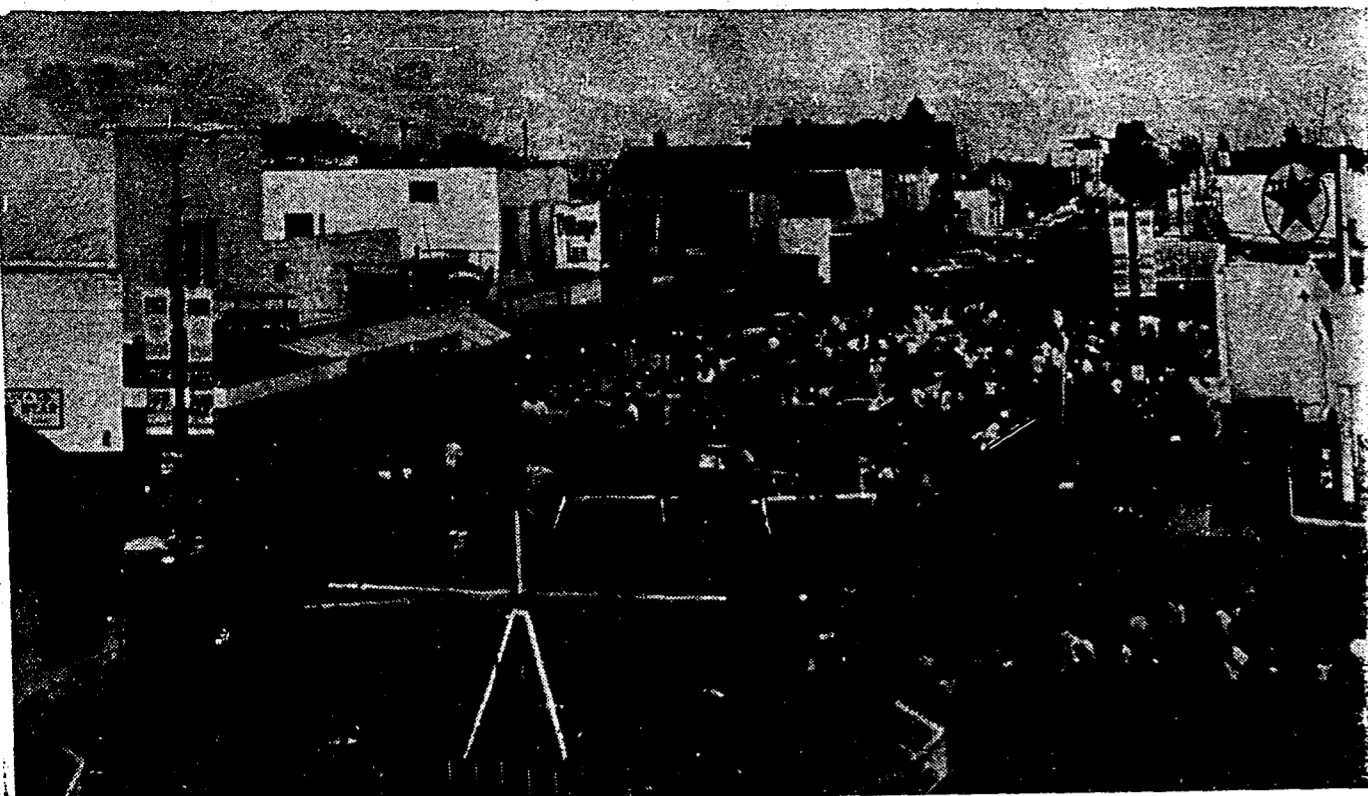

From Penticton: Diane Lane, Debbie Thortensen and Linda Joyce.

All the girls appreciated the extra food donations. These added to the campfire.

After the Girl Guide camp six Vancouver girls were billeted with Eileen Smith, Eileen Millmore and Magda Fenwick.

They visited the Experimental Farm, had an afternoon beach party at Crescent Beach then served a barbecue prepared by Mrs. G. Smith, Mrs. Berry and Mrs. W. Laidlaw and were then taken to a Ranger meeting in Penticton in the evening.

On Tuesday they were served a luncheon at Fenwicks' cabin and Thursday morning they left for Vancouver by bus.

It's not an auction sale, it is the Kiwanis Street Carnival, when they roped off one block on Friday night to offer fun and games to Summerland residents and travellers alike. It takes a lot of people to put on a Carnival, more than just Kiwanis members and chairman Doug Campbell had a lot of praise for the co-operation they received from many non-members who assisted greatly. (Photo by Bert Simpson)

Summerland Review — 3

Postal Strike

It is unfortunate that the effect of strike action has to be felt among our elder citizens. Many of those who depend on their pension cheques found it necessary to stand in line for hours in order to wait until the sorting was done in Toronto. According to news reports, there were those who had not eaten for a couple of days as a result of the delay of delivery of their only monthly paycheque.

However, the blame cannot be placed at the doorstep of the unions involved. The government in Ottawa did not take any positive action until it was too late. The Union demands are not unreasonable. Their pay scale is not in line with the standards of living in many centres.

The top wages being just over the $4,000 mark is not enough for the employees to keep their families comfortable — especially in cities like Vancouver where living costs are not low. Many of the postmen found it necessary to find a second job to keep the wolf from the door.

We do not support the demands of unions in some cases, but in this area we feel a payraise is justified. Unions have a very important role to play in our society and deserve respect. Apparently Ottawa did not feel this way about it and could not believe the postal employees would not tie up the mails as they did.

It is interesting to note that opposition Leader Diefenbaker has plenty to say about what the Liberals should or should not have done to avert the strike but as we recall it, the postmen were not getting rich when he was prime minister.

It is taking our government a lot longer to give these civil servants a small increase than it did to double the M. P.s salaries.

A Few Comments . . .

We were wondering how long we would be writing this column in Summerland before dogs would be the subject . . . This is a problem that comes up in every town and it looks like it is here now. Reports of them killing chickens and raising havoc with livestock have come in.

According to the by-law, all dogs must be under control at all times or they will be picked up. But catching them is not as easy as it seems. They do not cooperate too well with the dogcatcher.

It is difficult to keep dogs in town and have them under control at all times, but this must be insisted upon or they will rove the streets in packs — and a dog pack is dangerous. Children have been mauled and even killed by dog packs. They wander across flower beds and gardens and become a general nuisance. It is the responsibility of all citizens to keep their dog in check.

The Kiwanis members will be glad their street carnival is over for another year. Many hours of planning go into such affairs to say nothing of the physical labor. The night went off very well and much credit should be given Doug Campbell and his hard-working crew for a job well done.

Congratulations to Richard Randall on his 87.5 percent average on his 1965 Grade XIII exams. This is an accomplishment of which he can be justly proud. No doubt mother and father are pleased too.

Best wishes are extended to Dr. Munn who retired from active medical practice in Summerland at the end of the month. The amount of respect and warm feelings towards him was shown at a lawn party held in his honour last week. The fish in surrounding lakes may not be too pleased however.

The Summerland Auction is a busy place each Thursday night when everything from chickens to chesterfields are offered each week. It was packed to the doors with onlookers and bidders last week.

The Rotarians have had $220 sent in as a result of their drive for funds for the swimming instructions. Doesn't seem like too much for the number of people taking advantage of the lessons. Possibly some have not sent their cheque as yet.

Transportation allowance allowed to far-away students

The trustees of the Summerland School Board have arranged that only two school busses will operate this year rather than three.

This move was made because of the few students in the Faulder - Meadow Valley districts where they do not have enough children riding to school to bring that route eligible for the provincial school bus grant.

According to the act, to receive a grant, there must be at least eight students within a two and one-half-mile area to establish and maintain a bus route.

The parents in Faulder and Meadow Valley were given notice by the school office of this and were told that they will be open to receive a transportation assistance grant in lieu of this. They were invited to meet with the transportation committee to discuss arrangements.

The bus will go as far as the Henry corner and the children will be brought to school from there.

Secretary-treasurer Jim Hack said the financial assistance for this transportation is ample and will not present a financial hardship if all concerned work out proper "pool car" arrangements.

This has been approved by the provincial department.

Unauthorized solicitors at work in B.C.

Local Centennial Committees, merchants, and others are again advised to be wary of unauthorized persons claiming to represent the Canadian Centennial Committee of British Columbia in the solicitation of advertising or the sale of Centennial souvenir items such as pins, pen-holders, medallions, magazines, books, etc.

The Committee is already aware of some such solicitation taking place. In future it will advise all local committees when an individual or company has been authorized to solicit on its behalf, and provide the solicitor with a letter of identification.

MR. AND MRS. ALBERT ERNEST GOVE

Mary Bruce and Albert Gove wed at St. Stephen's Anglican

St. Stephen's Anglican Church in Summerland was the scene of a petty wedding on Saturday, July 24 at 6:30 p.m. when Rev. Norman Tanner united Mary Susan Bruce and Albert Ernest Gove.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Ray Bruce and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Albert Gove all of Summerland.

The church was decorated with multi-colored gladiolas and candles on the altar made a beautiful setting.

The bride, given in marriage by her father looked lovely in a flower length gown of lace bodice with lily point sleeves and a very full skirt with embroidered lace panels, net over taffeta, trimmed with pearls and sequins. She wore a chapel length veil nylon net held by rose and lily of the Valley sprays. The bride's flowers consisted of a yellow rose cascade.

The bride was attended by three sisters, Susan, Rosalie and Anne Bruce. Best man was Mr. Vern Dunsdon and the ushers were Mr. Brian Eden and Mr. Terry Turnbull.

During the signing of the register, the organist played "Because".

Following the wedding a reception was held in the IOOF Hall where the bridal party received 111 guests. The hall was decorated in yellow, white with blue.

The head table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake trimmed with silver and pink roses.

Mr. Stan Taylor of Summerland was Master of Ceremonies and proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom responded. Mr. Vern Dunsdon toasted the bridesmaids.

Mr. Pete Stolz and his orchestra provided the music for a dance following the reception.

For travelling the bride wore a pink lace over taffeta two-piece dress with white accessories and she carried a corsage of white and pink carnations.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Rod Bruce of Kamloops; Mrs. Edith Vilene, Hope; Mrs. Bert Gove and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gove of Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Gertz of Vauxhall, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. John Cameron and Allen of Hays, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Westland and family, Vancouver; Mr. Tom Brown, Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Caldwell, Tar Island, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. Terry Turnbull, Edmonton.

After the honeymoon, the happy couple will reside in Summerland.

Visiting at Mr. and Mrs. Fred MacInnes were Rev. and Mrs. C. N. Howard and children Terry, Janet and Diane.

Trailer caravan here on Friday

J. E. Philpott of Summerland, a man who enjoys travelling in a trailer has formed an organization consisting of other B.C. enthusiasts, to make up a provincial branch of a large U.S. group.

At a meeting in Haney, a few trailer travellers got together and formed what will be the B.C. branch of the Wally Byan Caravan Club International Inc. and Mr. Philpott was elected president and Clayton Stewart of Trail, secretary treasurer.

Mr. Philpott became interested at Princeton, N. J. last year, and found their aims to be very commendable so promoted the B.C. organization. There are over 30,000 members in the parent group, and B.C. starts with 12. More are expected to join at a meeting to be held in Birch Bay on Sept. 4.

To become a member, all you have to have is an "Air-stream" trailer.

"It is a fun club" Mr. Philpott says "and we promote friendship among travellers and wherever we stop. We assist the government in keeping parks up to standard and help to maintain them."

A caravan of 400 to 600 are expected to arrive in Penticton and the new B. C. president will bring a group of them to Summerland Friday, Aug. 6.

Street Carnival liked by public

A few very fine comments were related to Gerry Hallquist previous to this year's Kiwanis Street Carnival. He passed them on to the membership at their regular meeting held in the Yacht Club Thursday night.

One adult had said that she saw friends she didn't see all year at the carnival and enjoyed every minute of it.

Gerry asked two who were buying tickets on the patio set why they liked the carnival and they said it was because they liked the games they operated and they knew they weren't going to get gyped.

Jack Towgood had a lot of praise for the thought and management ability shown by two, three or four men in the club. He noted that the organizational work was very heavy and said "we should all get in there and pitch for them."

Ten Commandments for boat owners

By PEARL REID

1. YOU MUST: Check your boat thoroughly and never leave your mooring until you have done so.

2. YOU MUST: Carefully observe wind, surface, tide, and current conditions before starting. Plan for emergency harbours on long hops.

3. YOU MUST: Never overload your boat. At all times be especially careful about non-swimmers and children.

4. YOU MUST: Carry life preservers for every person on board. Be sure they are worn on deck duty in rough weather.

5. YOU MUST: Carry filled fire extinguishers, lights, signal apparatus and ground tackle according to the law.

6. YOU MUST: Exercise extreme caution when filling fuel tanks—no smoking—turn off all fires and electric accessories—close all hatches, ports and doors—hold filling nozzle firmly against fill pipe (ground it)—wipe up spillage. After gassing, before restarting motors, thoroughly ventilate engine compartment and all enclosed spaces.

7. YOU MUST: Keep to the right when meeting another boat and give the right-of-way to vessels approaching on the starboard (right side)—the boat on your right always has the right-of-way.

8. YOU MUST: Always be courteous, careful and competent. Watch your wash. Slow down to 5 m.p.h. in harbours. Keep away from large vessels, which are not as maneuverable as smaller craft. Keep away from sailboats—small ones may be swamped by the wash from a powerboat, and large sailing yachts do not have the maneuverability of a power boat. Keep away from swimming areas.

9. YOU MUST: Never make a turn at high speed. Small craft can easily be and have been swamped by their own wash.

10. YOU MUST: Approach a dock or mooring against the wind or current, whichever is stronger.

New program seeks to provide students with basic skills

By The Hon. L. R. Peterson,
Minister of Education

(This is the fourth in a series of articles by The Minister of Education describing the new senior secondary school curriculum.)

Young people planning to make a career in industry should be aware that there is a steadily decreasing demand for unskilled labour.

We live in an age of mechanization and technology in which, to an increasing extent, specialization seems necessary.

Therefore the new Industrial Programme, which will be available in September in most senior secondary schools, will place emphasis on vocational oriented education. Its purpose is to provide the student with basic skills and an understanding of basic equipment and processes, with specialization to come later through apprenticeship training which combines learning on the job with additional training in a regional vocational school.

As in the Academic-Technical Programme and the Commerce Programme which were described in the two previous articles, students will take four common-to-all general education constants—two courses in English, one in social studies and one in guidance and physical education.

The second element of their education is formed by programme constants taken by all students in the Industrial Programme. These two courses are applied mathematics and general business.

The third element is formed by specialty courses. You will remember from last week that students on the Commerce Programme has a choice of secretarial, accountancy or clerical specialties. In the Industrial Programme the choice is from construction, mechanical, and electricity and electronic specialties.

Students who take the construction specialty will take three courses in construction—one dealing primarily with machine-woodworking and design, one with present and developing techniques in the industry, and one with a study in depth of some specific areas. The remaining courses to be taken will be draughting, industrial power and science.

In the mechanics specialty, these last three will also be taken along with three courses in mechanics. The first course in this latter group will give an introduction to the main processes. The second and third courses will be built on this introduction and will deal with the technology of the several metal and allied trades and with its application to practical situations. The student will be given a variety of exploratory experiences in the various fields of the specialty, so that he may not only gain skill but also enough background to choose wisely among them.

In the electricity and electronics specialty, the main objective will be to give the student an understanding of the essential principles underlying the industries concerned so that he is prepared for further study or for apprenticeship training. With two courses in electricity and one in electronics, in addition to either a course in industrial science or an advanced course in draughting, he should be well prepared for initial employment.

All students on the Industrial Programme who have entered Grade XI without deficiencies in their junior secondary grades will also have the opportunity to take two free electives. These may be chosen from among any senior courses offered in the school and will enable the student either to deepen or widen his studies.

The chief advantage of the more general vocational work, the Industrial Programme is that it forms better foundations for further training. Industry is already experiencing the displacement of certain trades or crafts through automation. This process is likely to accelerate. The man at present trained for one specific occupation may quite readily find in the future that the need for his particular skills have disappeared. If his basic training is broad enough to give him an appreciation of the field of work he can readily absorb training for a specific occupation on that base, yet be equally ready to train for another specific occupation in the same field should that be necessary. In addition, he is much more likely to be adaptable and therefore of greater value in even his original occupation.

This newer concept of vocational education is therefore turned to modern needs and what we can forecast of future conditions. The graduate should be well educated at the level he has reached, have salable skills, and have the potentiality for further education and training.

Here is a fine picture of Giant's Head Mountain — now somewhat famous as far as those who have taken the Jeep trip up are concerned, but will be much more renowned if the Summerland Centennial Committee plans become real. They are proposing to build a road suitable for automobiles up to Giant's Head. When this is done, the beautiful view will be enjoyed by thousands from all parts of the world. Believe it or not, there is room for a good sized park up there too.

Tenders for school addition to go out early in the fall

The drawings are complete for the addition to the Junior-Secondary School addition in Summerland. The 30-day quashing period is up and the application has been made to the Department for their approval.

Application has also been made for the approval of plans and specifications for conversion from coal heat to gas.

The tenders for the addition and conversion should be able to be advertised by the middle of August or the first of September. They hope to have the conversion complete before the cold weather strikes as they have been having difficulty in keeping the west wing warm during the winter. The MacDonald School is now heated with gas.

The cost of the addition will be around the $228,000 mark, the heating change $5,300 and an addition to the school office $10,000.

One charge leads to another

It cost Lee Moyls of Summerland $75 and costs when he went before Magistrate Johnson on July 27th.

He pleaded guilty to driving without due care and attention which cost $50 and costs and another $25 plus costs for not having insurance on his vehicle.

The second element of their education is formed by programme constants taken by all students in the Industrial Programme. These two courses are applied mathematics and general business.

Prime Minister Pearson to open Pacific National Exhibition

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson is going to spend a day at the fair Aug. 21 when he comes to Vancouver to officially open the 55th annual Pacific National Exhibition.

The prime minister will arrive in the city Aug. 20 the day before the opening of the fair, which runs from Aug. 21 to Sept. 6 and salutes Vancouver: City of Lights and Flowers.

More than a quarter of a million people will see Prime Minister Pearson when he rides in a convertible car in the two-mile long P N E parade through downtown Vancouver.

Bands, floats, armed forces marchers, horses, drill teams and clowns will take part in the glamorous 90-minute parade, which gets underway with a boom from the Stanley Park gun at 10 a.m. The route will be north on Burrard from George to Hastings, and east on Hastings to Vernon Drive.

In the afternoon, the prime minister will come to the PNE grounds to officially open the fair in a ceremony at 3 p.m. at the outdoor theatre.

An hour later the prime minister and PNE officials headed by president Capt. H. J. C. Terry will go to the new armed forces centre, north of the Agrodome, where Mr. Pearson will declare the display open to the public.

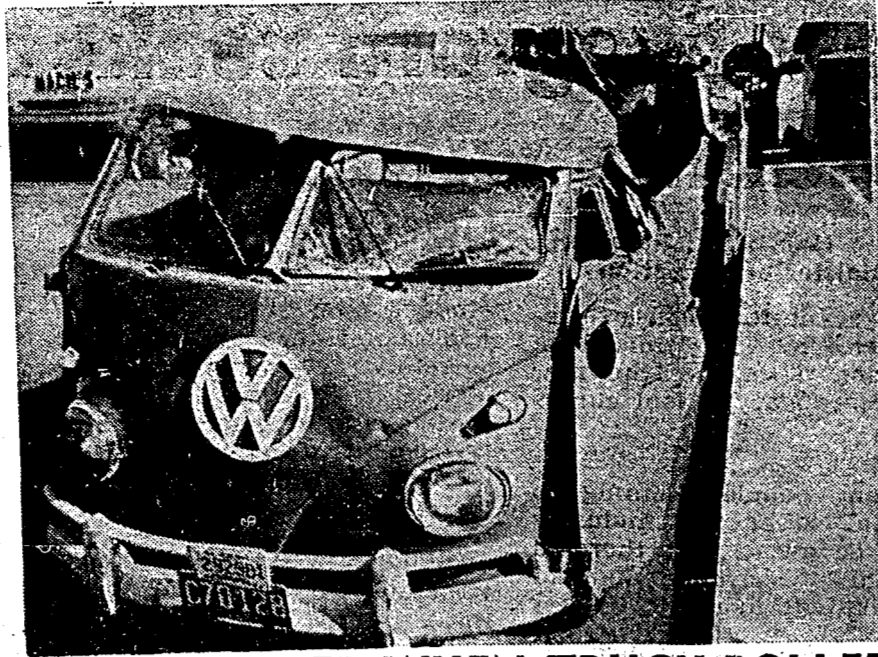

More than one million people are expected to attend the fair this year.

Some of the many fine attractions at PNE 65 include: the grandstand Show of Shows, which runs the length of the fair in Empire Stadium; the dazzling Shrine - PNE Circus, which runs from Aug. 27 to Sept. 6 the Dog Show in the Forum from Aug. 21 to 25; the 4-H Clubs' exhibits on display from Aug. 23 to 28; the livestock and display buildings; Playland and the midway; the Craft and Hobby Show; the Teenage Fair; horse racing at the new Exhibition Park track and many free acts that will delight young and old alike.

GIRL INJURED WHEN TRUCK ROLLED

Angela Taylor was the driver of this light truck when she lost control and rolled over in the ditch Thursday morning.

Eighteen-year-old Angela was on her way to work at the telephone office in Penticton where she is an operator. The accident happened two miles south of Trout Creek. She suffered a bad break of her arm and a cracked ankle. She is in the Summerland Hospital.

Bird not hurt -- cars crash

A Vancouver man hit the brakes to avoid hitting a large bird on Highway 97, seven miles north of Summerland — but he got it in the end himself.

Mr. Dieter Lutz of Vancouver was driving north when the bird appeared and Mr. Frank Duff of Calgary did not realize what was going on and ran into the back of him.

The damage was estimated to be $120 to both cars. According to Summerland RCMP who investigated, there were no injuries and no charges laid.

Plans patiently awaited for addition at Trout Creek School

There will be three rooms added to the Trout Creek School this fall, but it won't be without the trustees losing a few hairs over the progress of construction.

The Board met with the provincial architect in November requesting plans and specifications which were to be ready by May 21.

Since that time, contact has been made weekly to ascertain when they may be expected and last call Secretary-Treasurer Jim Hack was assured they would arrive here early this week. Tenders will be called for the construction immediately when they arrive.

Ken Boothe said that department is understaffed and cannot cope with the amount of building programs throughout the province.

As a consequence, the Trout Creek addition will not be ready for use when school opens.

The plans are now to bus one classroom and teacher to Summerland elementary school where there is one classroom available until construction is

ORCHARD RUN

Help On a Business Basis

No plan to assist financially distressed fruit growers can be completely equitable, but any plan that is put into effect should approach that objective as near as possible. The proposed plan of a grant to every grower doesn't come very close.

Here of course we can enter a field of discussion where opinions may differ widely as to what is more nearly equitable and what is not. My opinion is the grant is the wrong way to deal with the problem.

The main idea behind the grant was to provide immediate relief for growers who had lost their crops and their trees. The policy was to go after the money first, and later decide how it was to be distributed.

Weeks have passed and no money or promise of money is as yet forthcoming. The grower who needed immediate financial relief is not getting it.

According to my information one plan for distributing the grant money, if and when received, is to divide it up among all growers on a basis of each person's crop returns over the last few years whether he really needed the money or not. The bigger his returns the bigger chunk of money he would get.

There are growers who have suffered heavy losses due to weather conditions during the last few years. Now many of them have lost not only most of their crop, but also their trees. These growers are badly in need of help, but they will get a very thin slice of aid based on their crop returns for the last few years.

There are other growers who have been harvesting heavy crops of apples. This year their crops are small, not because of last December's sub-zero freeze, but because in the natural course of events their trees were due for a light crop following two or three heavy crop years. Something one cannot positively prove, but it has been historically nature's way.

If the grant goes through these growers will receive a substantial handout for reasons that are not related to the winter freeze.

Then there are growers who will have an average crop of apples this year. They have had no "bad" years recently, but they, too, will get a handout.

This sort of thing makes the whole deal look like such a scandalous piece of business that we would never hear the end of it.

I believe the best solution to the problem is not a grant, but a long term loan large enough for the grower to rebuild his orchard, and with interest and repayments delayed until the orchard is back into commercial production.

Such a loan would be based on sound business practice. It would help those who need it the most without giving a handout where not needed.

The growers' committee working on the financial problem hasn't lost sight of the values of a loan program, but if the two governments come through with a cash grant they might very well decide the fruit growers are too greedy in asking for both grant and loan, and we would end up with something for today but nothing for the hungry tomorrows.

The Summerland Fire Department was called to put out a fire in this small converted house (to a garage) owned by Mr. Scot Rand Friday night. There was a quantity of rags stored in the building which made it a little difficult to put out according to Fire Chief Joe McLachlan. It didn't take but a few minutes to check the fire, but it took an hour to get it dead out. The alarm sounded during the Kiwanis Street Carnival so there were plenty of on-lookers on the scene.

ment from commercial exploitation. It could be enjoyed by every citizen in the country. It would not cost much for up-keep—only some renovations."

They pointed out points against the project as well—such as it may discourage timid drivers and of course the road would not be open in the winter months.

It is possible that there will be no water at the picnic site, unless they are able to drive a well in small glen near the summit. They suggested that eventually it may be found desirable to pump a small flow of municipal drinking water in a series of lifts.

In concluding their 11-page report, the committee said, "the members of Summerland's Confederation of Canada Centennial Committee are well aware that many a Canadian community will commemorate 100 years of confederation by constructing a public building of some sort. Doubtless the choices will be logical. Only one Canadian community is blessed with a Giant's Head.

Summerland zoning bylaw changed in agricultural area

The way was opened for those wishing to stay on their orchard in retirement, or for any other reason, and not have a large tract of orchard to look after. This was done when the Summerland Council gave the final reading to Bylaw 1061 following a public meeting yesterday.

The bylaw permits those in G1, Agricultural zone to continue living in their dwelling, cutting it off from the farm unit, provided there will be at least three acres remaining. The lot must be at least one quarter acre and the owner must have a farming unit of at least five acres to proceed. The five acres do not necessarily need to be at the same location but his farming unit must total five acres.

Previously, when the dwelling lots were subdivided it was required that they be on two acres.

It was also approved to have the public tent and commercial tent and trailer section of a previous by-law taken from the recreational zone to section R5 which has to do with trailer and mobile homes.

The property at Summerland Building Supplies was changed from central commercial to distribution commercial which will enable that firm to make additions and renovations.

COUNCIL MEETING

Councillor Powell felt that the minutes of last week's meeting should refer to the centennial project as not being the building of a road up Grant's Head, but rather that it read that the plans are to build a park at that location, the road being only the means to arrive there.

Councillor Ritchie, on behalf of the Fall Fair Committee asked permission to erect signs at the entrances to town advertising the fair about two weeks previous to the date, September 11 and 12. This was approved.

Permission was also granted the committee to use the area surrounding the arena for Trail Rider events. It was understood that they must clean the area up after the fair.

Mr. Blagborne explained that the road equipment is presently working at the dams. It was brought to the attention of council that a resident has two horses on their property and according to the present by-laws, they do not have enough area to pasture horses. Those concerned will be written and informed of this.

Mr. Blagborne suggested that a hydraulic lift be purchased out of the tool fund so concrete flumes and other heavy objects they handle can be easily moved. Although authority was not necessary when making a purchase from the tool fund, he wanted council to know what their thinking was. The cost of this equipment is $330.

Powell Beach Plaza, L. Kirkby, made application to install a neon sign at his property line on Highway 97 at Trout Creek. According to their by-laws, such signs must be at least 25 feet from their property line. Mr. Kirkby said if this were done the traffic from the north could not see it.

Council felt that a sign on the property line would make it difficult for motorists proceeding on the highway from Trout Creek to see oncoming traffic. In any case, they felt that they could not allow the sign without changing the by-law.

Twenty-five feet from the property would bring the sign in the middle of their parking area so council suggested they go right back to their buildings with it.

Utility companies announce expansion

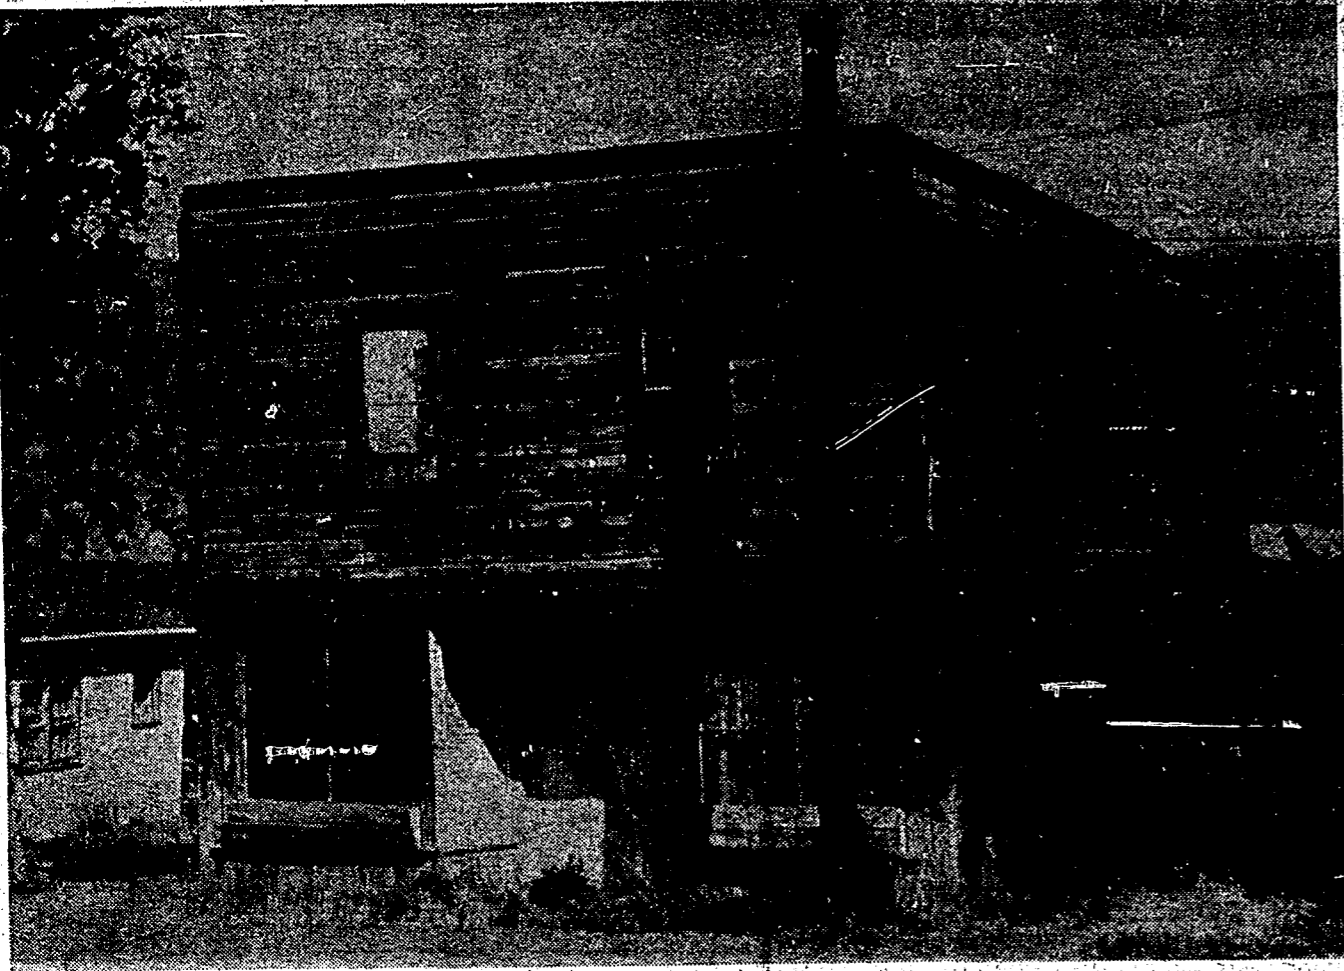

PORTLAND, Ore.—Four Canadian companies are contributing some $30 million worth of construction to the current $190 million expansion and improvement program of private electric power companies in the region.

The Northwest Electric Light & Power Association reported that the 12 investor-owned commercial systems in the region had 1965 construction programs totalling $8 million more than estimated at the start of the year and $25 million more than last year.

Most of the capital investment this year is for increasing the capacity of lines and substations in distribution systems needed to deliver increasing amounts of energy being used by the 1.9 million electric customers served by the companies.

Each of the companies is working on high-voltage transmission lines and several are putting up segments of a $21 million, 570-mile high capacity network that will provide additional links between five systems in the inter-mountain area.

West Kootenay Power and Light Co.'s construction budget is set at $8,000,000.

A. B. ELLIOTT'S GENERAL STORE

Soon it will be just a memory. The building known to all oldtimers as A. B. Elliott's General Store is being torn down to make room for a modern home.

The store was opened by A. B. Elliott in August, 1908, and was managed by Mr. Elliott until he opened another store in the building now occupied by Holmef and Wade. His brother-in-law, Lee McLaughlin managed the business in the original store until after World War Two, when Keith Elliott, who had taken over his father's business, decided to close it. Since then it has been used as a private residence.

Maybe, the little creek that flowed beneath it for over half a century will sing a requiem for the old landmark whose days are fast coming to a close.

PROUD ROYALTY DISPLAY TROPHY

Summerland float classed 'best' in category

"That's what makes all the work worthwhile." Those were the words of Vic Smith when the judges announced that the Summerland Fall Fair float took first prize in the community class of 10,000 and under in the Penticton Peach Festival parade.

The float was built by the Summerland Elks Lodge with some financial assistance from the Chamber of Commerce. Chairman of the committee was Charlie Denike with Andy Nielson, Bill Clark, Vic Smith and Ed Lloyd helping him.

Many others came forward to lend a hand, too, including the ladies of the Royal Purple. The float was in a parade in Salmon Arm the previous Saturday when Vic Smith towed it up. It will also be in Kelowna this week.

Summerland Fall Fair queen elect Pat Ryman and her ladies in waiting Rosalie Geres and Donna Jean Taylor, who added much to the beauty of the float were very pleased. It goes without saying that Mrs. Jock Johnston was equally happy.

The Chamber of Commerce assisted financially with the making of the float and it will be turned over to different organizations each year. This is the first year such arrangements have been made.

There are many hours involved in making a float and after the eight hour trip to Salmon Arm, there was much fixing to do to make it ready for the Penticton parade.

Senior curlers honor couple

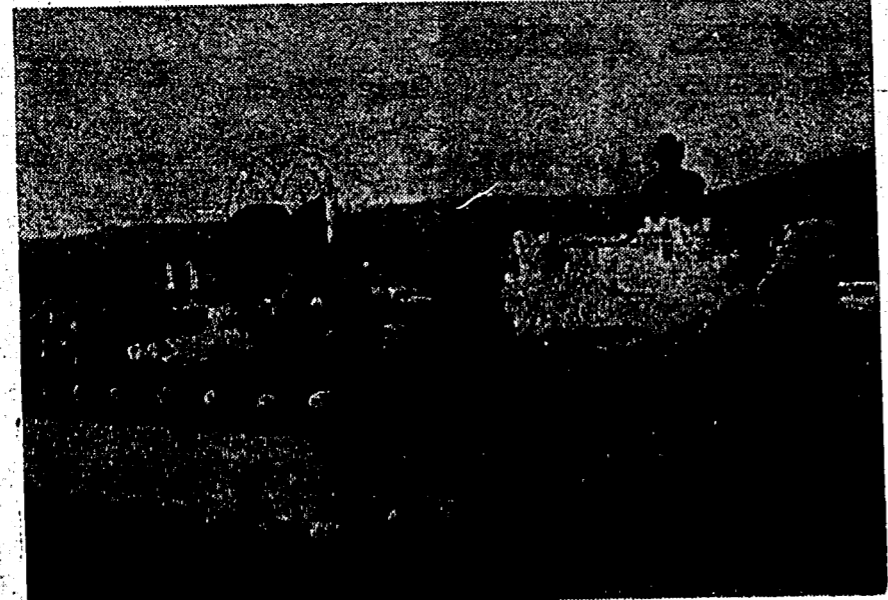

The Summerland Senior picnic supper on Monday evening on the spacious grounds of curlers held their annual the home of Harvey and Mrs. Eden.

There were over 50 curlers and friends present, including several new-comers to the district. The weather was ideal.

A special event was the presentation to Herb and Mrs. Adams who have just celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in Calgary where they were married in 1915.

Gavin Paterson, president of the senior club, presented two lawn chairs on behalf of the members, and related the high-years of happiness and leisure lights of their married life. Everyone wished them many years of happiness and leisure

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ritchie have been visited by Pete and Francis Kronewitt of Kelowna; Joe Fitzgibbon of Kelowna, Ralph, Isabel and Jimmy Coy of Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Miller of Los Angeles, Calif.; Brigadier and Mrs. Wm. J. O'Donnall, of Calgary; Frank and Dora Guy and family of Edmonton.

Here is the Summerland Fall Fair float that took the first prize in the community 10,000-and-less category. Queen Pat and her ladies in waiting do much to decorate the labors of the Elks Lodge and their ladies. Mrs. Jock Johnson was in charge of the lovely ladies.

Students asked to get their poster entries in by September 1

The Summerland Fall Fair committee have asked to remind students of the poster contest sponsored by the Summerland Rod and Gun Club.

The poster may depict any phase of the conservation of Canada's natural resources such as forests, wildlife, water, minerals, etc., and is open to any child or student attending school in Summerland as of June 10, 1965. There are four groups — Grades 1 to 4; 5 to 7; 8 to 10; and 11 and 12.

There will be three prizes in each group, the first being a trophy and prize and the second and third prizes. The poster cannot be any larger than six sq. ft. It is time for the students to get to work on them as they must be in to Doug Taylor at his sports shop by Sept. 1.

A panel of three judges will make the awards at the Summerland Fall Fair, September 11 and 12.

The entry forms were passed out at the school in June but if you have lost yours, you can get another one at the Sports Shop.

'65 Summerland Fall Fair committee wrap loose ends

A meeting of the Fall Fair Committee under the chairmanship of Jim Marshall was held Monday night to tie up loose ends and to discuss problems brought up by the various committee heads. The Fair will be held Friday and Saturday, September 11 and 12.

It was decided to give cash prizes in Junior and Intermediate Horsemanship entries of $10.00, $5.00 and $2.50 in the following classes: Grooming and showmanship (junior and intermediate); equitation (junior only), which is training and riding; Bareback Challenge which is a timed event when the contestants must make six jumps and go around six poles (intermediate only).

Prizes will also be offered the 4H entries. John Dunn, in charge of this entry and was given the opportunity to offer $10.00, $5.00 and $2.50. The various classes will be decided between Mr. Dunn and the South Okanagan 4H Club. The club has members from Summerland south to the border. Three members are from Summerland.

The fair book was distributed among the members and it was noted that the prizes in the various classes were $1.00 for first and 50c for second. This was changed to 1st $2.00; 2nd $1.00 and 3rd 50 cents respectively. These are the basic prizes, but many more are offered by business firms in the way of trophies and cash.

Scottie Ritchie will distribute the books in Summerland as well as to neighboring communities. 2400 were printed.

Eric Tait offered to help on the entertainment committee, and Fred Shannon will be asked to assist him.

Three Penticton bands have indicated a willingness to come. They are the City Band, Terry Parrott's Accordion Band as well as the Junior Cadet Pipe Band. Many Summerland people are members of these groups.

Ralph Downing, head of the Yacht Club will be contacted regarding a display among the exhibits and the South Okanagan Sailing Club will outfit a boat in full sail. This may be used as a backdrop on the stage if it is convenient to do so for all concerned.

The Power Squadron will have a boat, correctly outfitted for safety and will have safety literature to distribute.

The VIP's to officially open the fair has not been decided upon but chairman Marshall will make contacts this week.

This will possibly be the last meeting of the committee before the big show.

Conditions perfect for the Summerland Regatta

Leighton Lopatecki said the South Okanagan Sailing Association held the best Regatta of the year at Summerland over the weekend.

Eighteen boats took part in the competition and they included some youngsters who had received instruction for only two weeks under the guidance of Dave Storey. There were two spills during the races, but neither of these were the younger set. The wind gusted up to 20 knots.

Dr. David Boyd, Penticton won the Western Jollyboat Championship on Saturday followed by Dave Storey who placed second. The Association Commodore, Charles Tyndall of Naramata came in third.

George Kirkwood of Kelowna won the Senior Enterprise Trophy and David Ley of Winfield came in second and Dr. M. Lattey of Vernon was third. In the Junior division it was two Summerland youths. Gina Storey with the Junior Enterprise Trophy first and Mike Lewis second.

The Summerland Mug went with George Kirkwood to Kelowna as a result of him winning the handicap event and Dr. Boyd and Sue Workman of Naramata tied for the Fairley Marine Trophy.

Mr. Lopatecki, a real sailing enthusiast, told the Review they are hoping for more senior members in their organization and Dave Storey has indicated he would be pleased to conduct night classes. The association have six sailboats that can be used for instruction.

"Some instruction is necessary" he said "it is not like a power boat where anyone can get in and operate it." The instructions for adults could possibly be for three evenings a week.

He said the location of the club at Summerland is the best in the country. The winds and location on the lake is perfect according to Mr. Lopatecki.

GAP BETWEEN VOCATIONAL, ACADEMIC

"Re-think" education outlook, says Chant

Canadians must "re-think" their concept of higher education, Dean S. N. F. Chant told members of the Okanagan Regional College Council at a meeting Monday in Kelowna.

The Dean, who is chairman of the provincial Academic Board and author of the "Chant Report" on education in British Columbia, stressed the role of Regional Colleges in filling the gap between vocational and university education.

He explained the Academic Board's function as an accrediting board to "guarantee educational standards" so that Regional College students would be able to transfer with full credit to other universities, and to enable colleges to be eligible for certain federal grants.

Many high school graduates, he said, have abilities which are not primarily academic but who can excel university graduates in other ways... such as "dealing with other people", practical affairs, artistic and music careers, good sense and judgement, and "for getting things done". These students, he insisted, "should have the opportunity to follow a program which is appropriate to their abilities".

For many years, he explained, students and parents have looked on universities as the only alternative to a high school education... "sometimes with a certain snobbishness". He said one of the most urgent of the new fields is between vocational training and straight academic studies... a kind of "applied" field of study... and that there is an urgent need for people who are skilled and knowledgeable in the technical field.

"It isn't enough simply to multiply the number of universities", he stated, "because they all provide the same basic programs and the abilities of high school graduates differ more than is provided for in a university education".

He explained how the Chant Royal Commission has recognized the need for a revision of educational policies in the province to provide for a wider choice of education.

Many students, he said, can profit more from a college than from universities, and many find university "not what they thought" and drop out after a few months. "A college can avoid some of this and students will have a better change of progressing forward... It can bring about a new concept... a fusion of academic and applied technology... and can deal with matters of great and broad influence on our life."

The dean said the present "immediate emergency" of a need for technicians is now being met by bringing in immigrants, but "we should train our own people to fill these important positions."

Colleges, he said, can be built at a lower cost and maintained more economically, and dispersed throughout the province. Some students unwilling or unable to spend four or five years at university can equip themselves for adult life who otherwise would not be able to do so.

Turning to the specific subject of the proposed Okanagan Regional College, he termed the selection of the Kelowna site "a very fine one" and a "big problem solved". He suggested that a principal should be retained as soon as possible to enable him to participate in the planning and development, and offered the help of the Academic Board and the universities in the selection of a suitable candidate. Quality of staff, he stressed, is one of the most important considerations... "It sets the tone for the development of the college."

Recommending an "open door" policy the Dean recommended that students from outside the college area should be admitted but should pay higher fees. Students he said, should be treated in a more adult manner than in high school, and should be encouraged to participate in a wide scope of college activities.

He said admissibility should be more flexible than at universities, because students would be both academic and technical, and that young people could still change their education objectives after starting college without severe loss of time.

The academic program would "pretty much follow" the "basic" program already established at universities because of the need for full transfer credits. Applied studies, he said, should merge with academic courses as much as possible to produce a combination of the two in some cases.

Safety belt prevents greater injury on 'suicide corner'

Mary Deacon of Vancouver lost control of her car on "suicide corner" four miles north of Summerland on August 4 at 9:30 a.m. which caused $450 damage to her car.

She was proceeding south and when she went into the curve she met a light truck that was driving over the white line. She swerved to the right to miss him and hit the guard rail and skidded on the wet pavement to the right and hit the rock bluff.

She suffered minor cuts and bruises. No charges were laid.

The truck was unaware an accident had happened and went on.

She was wearing a safety belt she would have been injured much worse had she not worn it. She was bounced around in the car quite a bit according to Summerland RCMP.

Ewen Knott, Keremeos was charged with speeding at Trout Creek and paid a fine of $30 and costs and Richard Norman Bangmaa of Summerland paid $15 and costs for failing to produce insurance coverage.

It cost David Reid Gilliam, Peachland $25 and costs for each of two penalties. Operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license and for not having insurance.

Use of domestic water for irrigation worries Blagborne

(Held over from last week)

Summerland Council news from a regular meeting held Tuesday, August 3rd:

Concern was expressed by Ken Blagborne regarding some residents with large lots in Trout Creek using a great quantity of domestic water for irrigating their lawns. "They may have to be put on irrigation because we could run into trouble in the future."

Superintendent Blagborne said he is waiting for a break in the hot spell before he goes ahead with the change-over to the new chlorinator. "The present system is adequate for the present and it would make it safer if we waited for a rainy spell," he said.

Councillor Powell and Mr. Blagborne will attend an Irrigation Field Day sponsored by the Okanagan Agricultural Club.

The report of the dams indicated there is a good supply of water.

John Dunn speaking for the South Okanagan 4-H Club asked permission to use the lot at the north end of the arena the Saturday of the Fall Fair (Sept. 12). They will bring calves in and construct temporary corrals. This was granted.

The privy bylaw was given the last reading and written in the books as law.

A by-law authorizing temporary borrowing an additional $30,000. Councillor Schaeffer said the school needed additional money a little early this year and the labor costs have been more than anticipated.

A special use certificate authorizing Mr. Fabbi to install his services in his trailer on Crescent Beach Road for a period of six months.

Council will meet with the Advisory Planning Commission on August 30.

QUALITY WORKMANSHIP MARK OF GOOD BUILDER

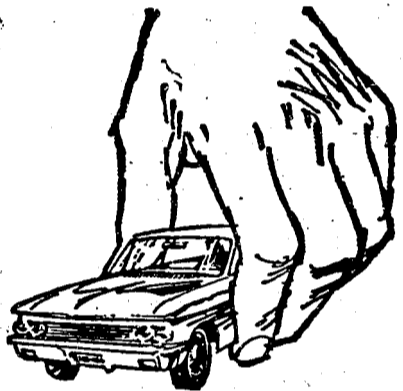

A new house reflects not only the ability of the architect who designed it but also the skill of the builder who put it together. Choosing a builder who has built up a reputation for good workmanship means that you will not have to worry about the quality of the construction. From basement to roof every small detail will meet the standards of quality he has set for his homes. The subcontractors will also have to live up to a reliable builder's exacting demands. The simplest and most practical way of establishing in your own mind a builder's credentials is to inspect some of the homes he has already built. Of course the cost factor is also an important consideration when buying a home. But the builder who makes the lowest bid is not necessarily the one who is offering you the best deal. In fact, a prospective homeowner should be doubly careful when he is offered a "bargain" home. A new home costs money to build properly and, though quality and price are not necessarily synonymous, the cost of a home remains a fairly safe indication of its value.

SUMMERLAND REVIEW

Grapes recommended on unsuitable land for trees

By late June growers had planted 2,500 acres of grapes for wine in the Okanagan Valley. Dr. D. V. Fisher of CDA's Research Station in Summerland thought the total this summer might ultimately be nearer 4,000 acres.

"Land suited to grape growing, but unsuited for tree fruits is available in both the Okanagan and Similkameen Valleys", he points out. "Because grapes don't need as much water as most other fruit crops and because they thrive on sandy or gravelly soils, large areas that are now unproductive can be used to advantage as vineyards". A full selection of high quality wines have been developed by British Columbia wineries. These range from dry white and red table wines, through champagne and rose wines, to sweet dessert types. They are usually made from a blend of local and imported fruit to minimize the high acidity and "fxy" flavor of the local varieties.

Lewis family home for birthday

Mr. W. M. (William) Lewis celebrated his 80th birthday August 8. He was born in Manchester, Tennessee. He farmed at Fort Assinaboine, Alberta, until 1944 when he moved to Summerland and has been resident here since and retired ten years ago.

He has ten children, eight of whom were here for a party held Saturday, August 7. A banquet and reception was held at the IOOF hall to which the Eagle Aerie catered.

There were 33 members of the family present who were as named below:

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Eckert of Dawson Creek, B.C., and Dean Hengley of Bonanza, Alberta and her daughter two boys; their daughter Mrs. Deana who is Mr. Lewis' great-granddaughter; another daughter Mr. and Mrs. Jim Berger of Prince George completed the Eckert family. Mr. and Mrs. Eckert were celebrating their 25th anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lewis of Prince George, B.C., Mrs. Marie Wiese and two daughters of Edmonton, Alta. field and two sons of Midway, B.C.

Mr. Orville Lewis of Summerland, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ackley and children of Prince George.

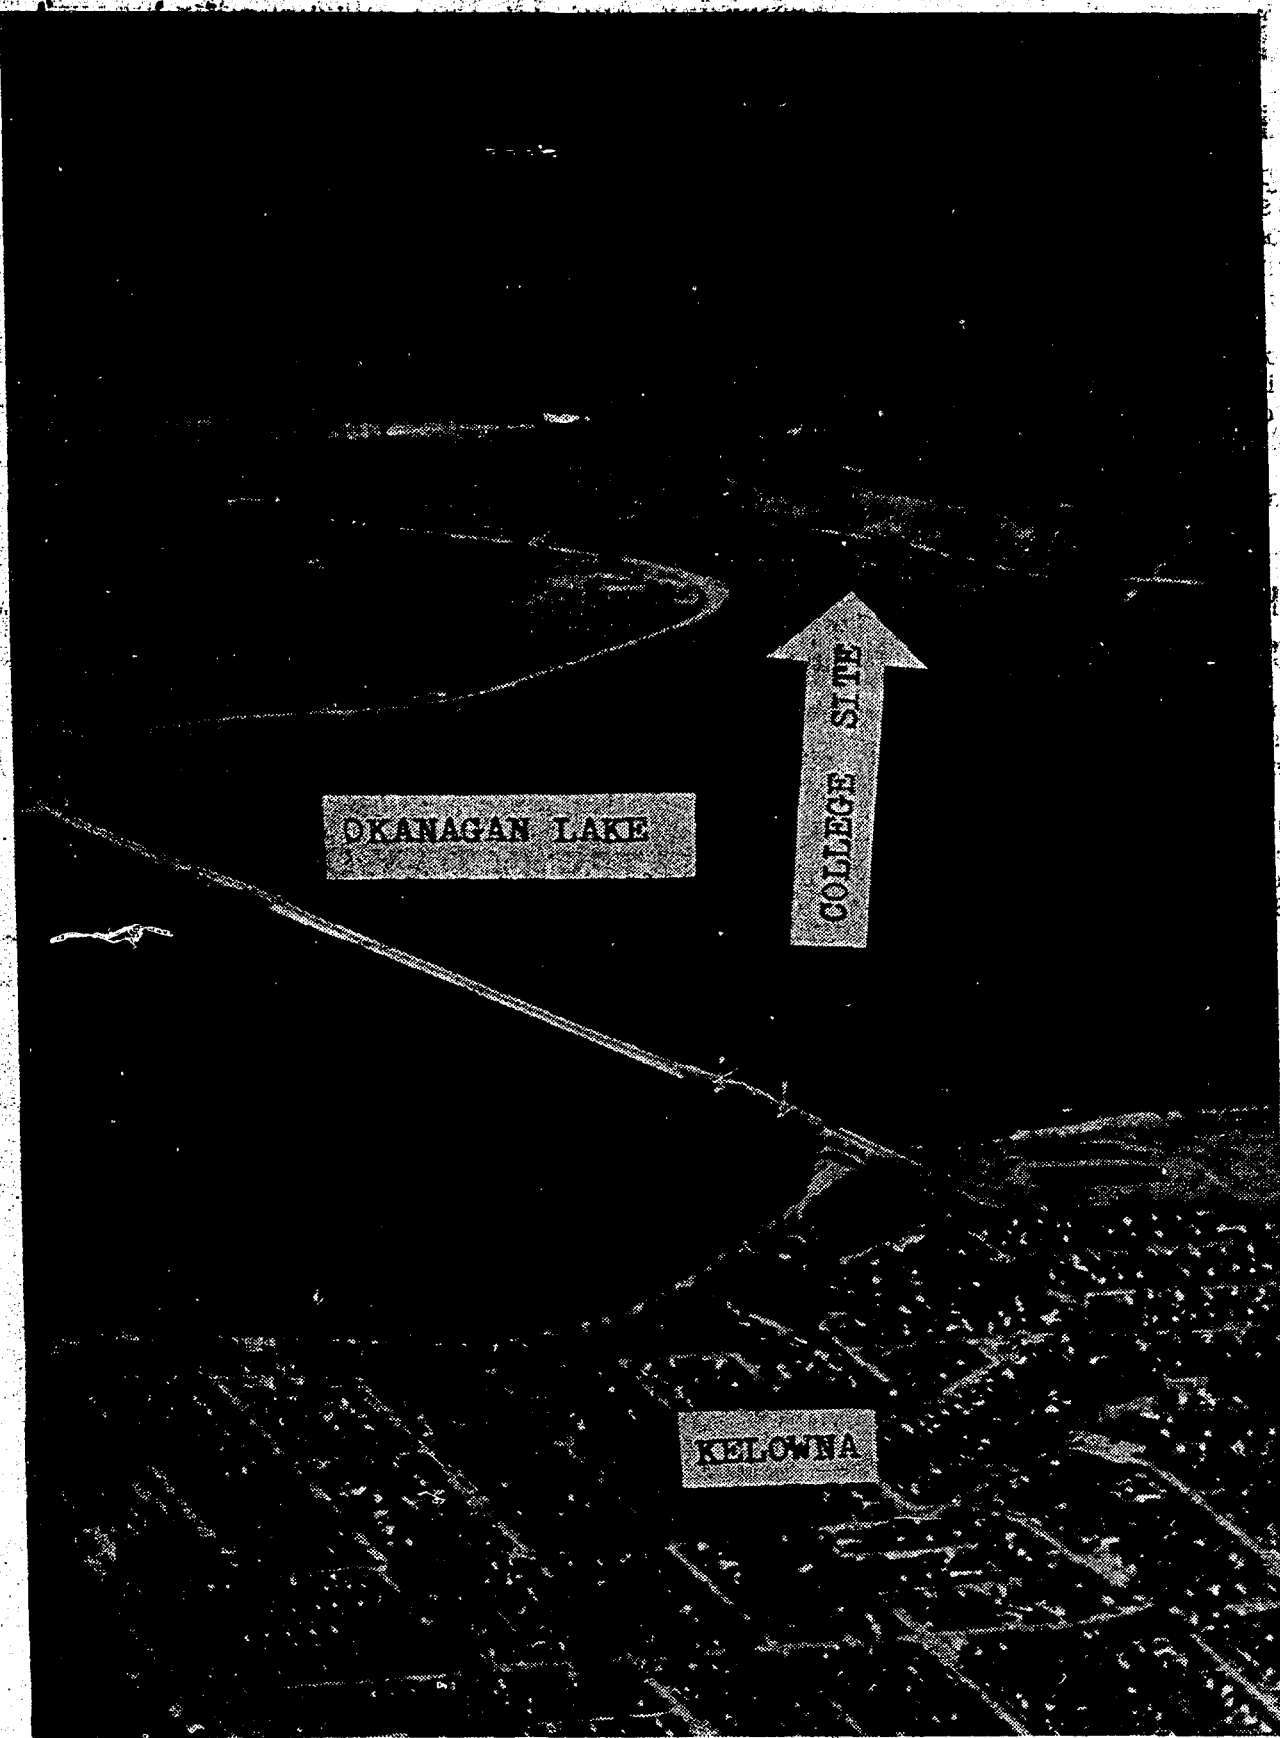

Mr. Bill Lewis of Summerland. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson and four children from Princeton, B.C.

Mrs. Kay Plum of Toronto, Ont., and Mrs. Roy Sewart of Valleyview, Alta. were not present.

SAVINGS UP 6 PER CENT IN CANADA

Personal savings deposits in Canada's chartered banks amounted to $9,410,000,000 at the end of June, an increase of 6.8 per cent over the mid-year figure in 1964; the Bank of Canada reported.

both for wine and table use. A long growing season and high summer temperatures enable all but the late maturing varieties to ripen. Early experiments showed that most European grape varieties were not hardy enough, nor did they produce sufficient fruit for use in the Okanagan. Most of the original commercial plantings of grapes were of the American or Vitis labrusca type, characterized by a "slip skin" and "foxy" or Concord flavor. Recently attention has been focused on new hybrid varieties which have qualities closely resembling the European or Vitis vinifera type and which may be dependably hardy in the Okanagan climate.

65-ACRE SITE ON INDIAN RESERVE on west side of Okanagan Lake opposite Kelowna has been selected as location of Okanagan Regional College. Additional 35 acres is available under terms of five-year option.

Community Service program included in new curriculum

By The Hon. L. R. PETERSON
Minister of Education

(This is the fifth in a series of articles by The Minister of Education describing the new senior secondary school curriculum.)

So far these articles have discussed the content and purpose of secondary school programs designed to prepare students for university or an institute of technology, or to employment or further training at a vocational school in the general fields of commerce and industry. Another important program known as Community Services will also be offered, though I must warn again that not all programmes will necessarily be offered in all schools.

The objective of the Community Services programme is to provide for employment or further vocational school training in a range of occupations related to basic human wants — the preparation and serving of food, the provision of shelter and the selection, construction and wearing of clothes.

These are among the fastest growing groups of occupations and are filled by men as well as women.

Students who select the Community Services Program will take the same four general education constants as do all other senior secondary students. These are two courses in English, one in social studies, and one in guidance and physical education.

The program constants, taken by all students in the Community Services Program, are the same as in the Commerce Program. They consist of two courses in general business, one covering the economic geography of the province and the other legal matters affecting personal and commercial life.

Assuming that all Community Services students require the same general education and program constants, provision is then made for the three broad fields of endeavour which the students may enter. These are the foods, textile and home and industrial services specialties.

The food specialty is for those seeking vocations in the various food industries or services, and the textile specialty for those expecting to enter the textile and clothing field.

The home and industrial services specialty is designed to provide basic preparation for a wide range of occupations including home making, the accommodations industry and child care. All three specialties require one basic course on food, one on textile, and one on management dealing with employment possibilities and management principles in relation to both employment and use of time, energy and resources. In addition, girls in all three specialties take an advanced course in child care to help them with their own children or in occupations involving the supervision of children.

Girls pursuing the food specialty must take two additional and more advanced food and nutrition courses, and those in the textile specialty two additional and more advanced textile courses covering manufacture and design of garments.

Boys are not required to take either the basic textile course nor child care and may substitute appropriate courses such as bookkeeping and typing from the Commerce Program.

The third specialty, home

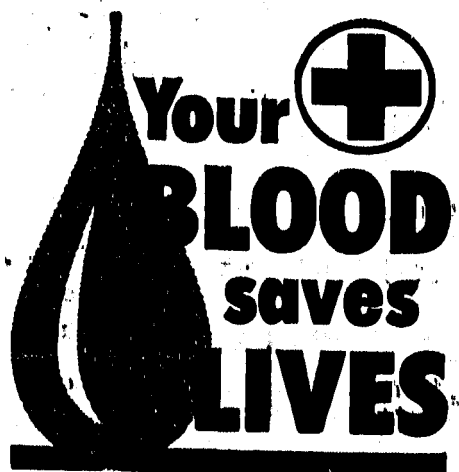

NATURE'S SCRAPBOOK

Dogs will die in about five days without sleep. On the whole, there is little bed making among birds and animals. An exception is the gorilla, which goes to a lot of trouble making its nightly nest, although it rarely sleeps in the same place two nights in succession. A small man could sleep with comfort in one of these one-night stands. In the famous Munich Zoo, monkeys were supplied with a blanket each to see what they would do with them. The animals soon learned to use them just as human beings do, and one of the popular sights of this Zoo was for visitors to view the monkeys wrapped up in their civilized bed-covers.

and industrial services, cuts across both the others and involves either one of the advanced courses in foods and textiles or a course in bookkeeping as well as its own major study. The last-named, Home and Industrial Services 12, spends over half of its allotted syllabus on services for public accommodations, and divides the rest between job opportunities, construction projects, and home nursing.

In this last specialty it is also possible to take a course in community recreation which, when fully developed, will lead to useful training for those who wish to enter that growing field of employment.

In addition to those who actually enter the Community Services Program, it is expected that many girls and perhaps some boys from other programs will enrol in food, textile and child care courses as electives. The personal values of such electives to girls, no matter what career they follow, have often been demonstrated in the past. They are also suitable electives for those who intend to take university or other training with eventual specialization in such studies as home economics or nursing.

$4 million grant to Interior fruit growers in offing

Frank Richter, Minister of Agriculture, announced Tuesday of last week that the provincial government will provide a rehabilitation grant of $4,000,000.00 for the fruit and grape industry.

The grant, according to the agriculture minister will be conditional on the federal government providing a matching dollar for dollar grant.

The central executive of the British Columbia Fruit Growers Association in co-operation with the provincial government prepared and presented a brief to the federal government several months ago outlining the damage of the December freeze and the need of assistance to the growers and asking a substantial grant to ease the growers' plight.

The minister's announcement follows a meeting held by the Southern District Council of the B.C. Fruit Growers Association with Richter in Penticton. At that time district delegates expressed strong criticism of the government's plan of assistance to growers who suffered severe financial loss due to the December freeze.

Following their meeting with Richter, Danny Roberts, vice-chairman of the Southern District Council, claimed that the government's offer of assistance was almost useless.

Richter, in his statement last week pointed out that the new program of assistance will replace the tree replacement program previously offered by the government.

The minister disclosed that the British Columbia Fruit Growers Association will act in an advisory capacity and be responsible for providing necessary information and calculations from their records in relation to the distribution of the grants to individuals. "This," he said, "will be done within the terms of reference set out by the provincial government." Art Garrish, president of the British Columbia Fruit Growers Association felt he could not make any comment on the new offer of assistance until the federal government announces its plans regarding assistance. They have indicated that they would help and I'm optimistic that they will share in the program."

Real Estate Sales sustain record pace

Okanagan-Mainline Real Estate Board reports that property sales for July through the board's Multiple Listing Service continued at record levels.

In July, 70 properties were sold valued at $2,537,076, the highest volume recorded for July since MLS was established. Last year July sales were $2,407,996 for 146 individual transactions including several large commercial properties.

M.L.S. sales for 1965 are 30 per cent ahead of last year at $11,227,632. During the first seven months of 1964 sales were $8,646,163. To date this year 879 properties had been sold compared to 708 in the same period last year.

Listings, the number of properties offered for sale through M.L.S., totalled 2,813 for the year to date, up from 2,153 in the same period of 1964.

BUSINESS FAILURES DROP

In the month of June, Canadian business failures fell below the 200 mark, to 195, for the first time this year, reports Dun & Bradstreet. This represents an impressive 13.0 per cent decline from the 224 failures in May. Commanding greater prominence is the 14.3 per cent increase in the liabilities accumulated by these unsuccessful businesses. In comparison with May liabilities of $14,702,000, the losses of June amounted to $12,596,000.

John Hext, delegate of the Council, reported that federal agriculture minister H. Hays, in a press conference in Ottawa, stated that the federal government would match provincial assistance dollar for dollar.

John Luthy, BCFGA executive director, commented only, "Let's wait and see what the conditions are regarding the allocations of aid to growers hit by the December freeze."

Kiwanis Carnival net down slightly from last year

Kiwanis chairman Doug Campbell reported to the regular meeting of the club Thursday night, and said the net profit of the night would be around the $750 to $780 mark but would have a definite figure following the next executive meeting. This he said was down about $100 from last year.

"I think you all noticed there were less local people at this Carnival", he said, "possibly due to conditions."

He thanked the members and non-members for their assistance. Many of them were guests at this meeting.

Jerry Halquist, (a hard worker on the committee himself) moved a vote of thanks to chairman Campbell for his good work and said that had it been a peak canning year, he could not have done it.

"It is a week's job, eight hours a day to be in charge of a carnival", he said, "hundreds of phone calls and contacts must be made."

Mr. Campbell is the manager of a local cannery. President Lloyd Shannon and Doug Campbell indicated that they would be available to go to the annual convention in Richland, Wash. Aug. 29, 30 and 31.

Fishing is good

The report from Headwaters Camp this week is that fishing is good in spite of the hot weather.

Ken Moore said Roy Johnson of Penticton caught a five-pounder on a willow leaf and golf tee and the Bendix family took 18 fish up to 14 inches in four hours.

June unemployed total remains same
Employment increased seasonally by an estimated 191,000 between May and June, but the unemployment total remained at 257,000 in June, a little change from the May estimates of 256,000.

In previous years, unemployment has usually registered a sizable decline during the period. Between May and June, the labour force increased by 183,000, an above-average increase for the month.

As in the previous three years, there was a heavy influx of teenagers into the labour market during this period. An estimated 118,000 teenagers entered the labour force during the month. Some 79,000 persons in this age group found jobs, but 39,000 were unable to secure immediate employment, thereby slowing down the decline in total unemployment.

Compared with a year earlier, unemployment was down 25,000. In recent years, teenagers have accounted for an increasing portion of the unemployment total. In June 1965, persons in this age group accounted for 39 per cent of the total, compared with 21 per cent in June 1961.

Summerland Elks aid deaf students

The local lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of Canada and its ladies auxiliary, the Order of the Royal Purple, will financially assist deaf students in this province. The scope of the Elks national Purple Cross fund, supported by contributions from the lodge in this community, has widened to include aid for students afflicted by deafness.

An $18,000 a year bursary fund will provide $1,500 annually for a deaf high school student wishing to further his education from each of the ten provinces, the Yukon and North West Territories.

The decision came at a gathering of 1,500 Elks and Royal Purple delegates from across Canada attending the annual three-day dominion conventions of the two orders held in Lethbridge. Summerland delegates attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Croft, representing the men's lodge and Royal Purple, as well as Mr. and Mrs. R. Bengma.

W. J. Alton of Powell River, B.C., chairman of the committee set up to administer the fund, told the record turnout of delegates from this area that "there is no provision in Canada to financially assist the deaf who wish to acquire advanced learning on the university level."

Summerland Review — 3

Centennial Confidence

It is encouraging to know there are men like those on the Centennial Committee with foresight and optimism in our community.

When the suggestion to build a road up the Giant's Head came to their attention by pioneers Magnus Tait and Walter Wright, they no doubt thought the cost would be far out of reach.

But they didn't toss it in file "19". They contacted one who knows — Don Agur. He had a good look at it and found an adequate road could be constructed within the budget. Mind you, this will be no four lane highway — but it will be one the family car can use with little difficulty.

No doubt this was somewhat of a surprise to the committee because they said "the proposal had a new look".

The Giant's Head view is one that should be shared with all. The visitors during tourist season will have witnessed a sight that cannot be equalled. They will tell their friends. They will come to Summerland.

Possibly this is looking at the monetary angle of the project but you can rest assured that if we do not take advantage of this opportunity a private investor will — and who could blame him.

What could be a better Centennial project for Summerland than to offer a breathtaking view of our little part of Canada. It not only will give us a feeling of pride in our community, but pride in our country.

The provincial Centennial officials took a trip up the mountain recently and said it was a project with "more imagination than they have ever seen" so there is little doubt about it being approved.

It was assuring when the Summerland Municipal Council endorsed the project unanimously. They have been accused of being in opposition. We were not here at the time the proposal was suggested but no doubt council were being cautious for the same reason everyone else was. Financial. They are the watchdogs of public money and it is their duty to get all the facts before they travel in any direction. They got the facts and voted in favor. We join them in saying that Jim Marshall and his committee are a good committee. They will do a good job.

A Few Comments

A glowing tribute was paid Ted Atkinson for his long service to community and country in the August issue of the Orchardist. Ted has accomplished much for the fruit industry. It is no doubt a wonderful feeling to have made such an impressive mark in your chosen vocation. You may justly feel that you have done a job beyond the call of duty. When you turn the key of your career for the last time on September 15th we know you won't quit altogether Ted, but whatever you do we hope you will enjoy it to the fullest.

John Khalembach, Building Inspector said there were as many homes constructed in Summerland during the first seven months of 1965 as there were all of '64. This is very impressive and encouraging. Of the total of almost half a million dollars in building permits issued $94,000 of this was for the Summerland Co-Op Growers' Ass'n. What we need now is more industrial expansion. Some promotion in this regard is necessary to round out our economy.

According to a bulletin received by a local agency, drivers under 25 were again the cause of an adverse loss ratio in car insurance and they are finding it necessary to increase rates once more.

You have heard the song "Gotta have another Cigarette". Well a fellow in the 707 Jet plane that caught fire and lost half a wing over San Francisco recently didn't want another cigarette — he wanted another picture. He was James Kric. Although death seemed sure, he took a picture of the flaming wing. It paid off too. Life used it in a recent issue, and likely paid Krick plenty.

eW understand RCMP Const. Best forgot he had his own personal car when he parked it in a space reserved for RCMP cars during the Peach Festival. We understand it was towed away. Congratulations to the Summerland

Elks Lodge and their ladies. They put a beautiful float together and it took first prize in the big Pentiction parade. Add three lovely girls — Queen Pat and her ladies-in-waiting and the judges couldn't help but award it the best in the community of 10,000 and less class. Like Vic Smith said "It makes all the work worthwhile." Vic has seen plenty of this float. He made an eight-hour trip to Salmon Arm with it for a parade that lasted 15 minutes. Too far for such a short parade. The boys doubt if they will go that far next year. The Chamber of Commerce helped with the float financially as well.

People by the hundreds are enjoying Powell Beach these days. Sundays they are packed. Looks like we will be running out of beach space before long. We consider this one of the finest beaches we have seen in this valley. Trees for shade and nice sandy beach.

Congratulations to the Orchardist on the new look of their monthly magazine. It is edited by a former Review editor, Sid Godber.

"Age Of The Buffalo", a National Film Board production, has won the Wrangler Trophy as the outstanding western documentary film of 1964.

The film tells of the almost complete extinction of the buffalo and of the decimation of the American Indian who relied on the animal for his very existence.

The Wrangler Trophy, to be presented June 25th in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, is sponsored by the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and the Western Heritage Center.

In its fifth season, the Western Heritage Award represents "the year's best efforts in preserving the proper image of the American West and the people who are responsible for developing it".

ORCHARD RUN by Wally Smith

Representation by Population

After years of complaints, prodding and criticism, the Victoria government is at last taking steps to revise the provincial electoral districts.

A commission has been appointed to conduct a survey of the province and bring in recommendations.

Main complaint of those demanding redistribution is that the cities do not have enough representation in the legislature, and that one rural vote is equal to several urban votes. The district of Atlin is cited as a horrible example of this inequity.

Atlin has 1574 voters who send one member to Victoria. The lower mainland urban Dewdney district also elects one member, but Dewdney has 38,638 voters. There does seem to be room for an argument here all right.

While I think most voters will agree that some revision of electoral district boundaries is necessary because of population shifts since the last revision more than 30 years ago, I doubt very much if the cities are being badly done by under the present arrangement.

"The Boy Friend" at Summer Theatre

An English "pastiche" or spoof of roaring twenties

A boundary revision on a basis that more nearly approaches representation by population would give the cities a few more seats in the legislature, but what else would it give the cities that they haven't already got?

They have all the massive public buildings, the majority of public employees, the headquarters of all the big banking, manufacturing and merchandising businesses. The cities are centres for all forms of transportation, and they have all the higher institutes of learning.

The cities, in fact, dominate the economic life of the whole province, and gather wealth produced by the forests, the mines, the sea, the cattle ranches, the cultivated fields—yes, even wealth produced by the orchards.

If the cities are given further representation in the provincial government I wonder what they will do with it besides satisfying their ego.

musicals is the third and final production of the Pentiction Summer Theatre for this season. The rollicking musical "The Boy Friend" features the bouncy music of the Charleston, combined with delightful ballads and a spectacular tango in a format that is designed to entertain young and old.

It opens August 9, and plays until August 21.

"The Boy Friend" has been often repeated since its Broadway debut early in the fifties when a young, unknown, English actress named Julie Andrews made her first U.S. appearance and won acclaim. Starring in the Summer Theatre version will be another young, rising star, Miss Christine Anton, who is currently seen on the CBC TV show "Chorus, Gentlemen". Producers Ben Kopelow and Max Power along with director Michael Foster, choreographer Virginia Harrison, and musical director Marge Adelberg, were in complete accord in selecting Miss Anton for the role. "She has the youth, the loveliness, a nd talent for the part Polly demands," stated Mr. Foster.

TIMELY FARM TOPICS

To help improve beef herd

By J. F. Carmichael, P. Ag., SASKATCHEWAN 4-H CAMP, FIRST IN CANADA

Agriculture Minister Harry Heys has offered new financial assistance to help beef cattle farmers take part in a bull progeny test program to be carried out at approved commercial feeding lots.

At the same time he announced his Department has succeeded in bringing about agreement in principle on uniformity of testing and reporting at bull testing stations, which are operated by the provinces.

Both innovations are part of the governments' efforts to help the $650 million beef industry to select the best beef breeding stock through testing procedures.

The bull progeny testing program which the federal government is promoting, is intended to assist the producer who owns a bull, buys the services of a bull or buys semen from an Artificial Insemination unit to test the suitability of that bull for building up his beef herd. The records on the sons and daughters will show the ability of the sire to pass on desirable performance characteristics to his progeny.

At the feeding lots records will be kept of the calves' rates of gain per day and ability to make the best use of feed. At marketing age they will be slaughtered and the carcass evaluated. The owner will pay for the upkeep of his animals and will receive the price they fetch in the market.

The federal contribution to this sire progeny testing will amount to about one third of the extra expenses incurred by the owner in entering his calves for the test. It will be based on yardage and administrative costs plus a fixed sum for management expenses incurred before testing, and will not exceed $25 per head.

Mr. Hays said perhaps no more than $5,000 will be spent in the first year but he hopes it will be enough to ensure participation on a wide enough scale to have real value to the beef industry. The main purpose of all "record of performance" programs such as these is to choose the best foundation breeding stock for the nation's herds and to eliminate inferior lines. The calf-to-carass progeny test was the final and necessary part of "ROP" beef testing.

Mr. Hays said he was glad that agreement had been reached among the provinces to establish uniform testing and reporting procedures at their bull testing stations. These tests are performance tests of bulls as distinct from the progeny test of bulls. Both are valuable programs which will fit much better into the overall record of performance testing of beef cattle for the whole country if uniformity of operation is assured.

Building figures very impressive

Building inspector John Khalembach reported another big increase in building permits issued during July in Summerland. Except for a small commercial alteration, the increase came in residential building.

A total of $55,000 in four permits were issued for residential new construction and three permits totalling $5,700 for alterations and additions. Two accessory building permits were issued for a $2,000 total and $500 was spent for alterations or additions in commercial and institutional. The total for July was $63,200 compared with the same period last year of $18,330. Construction value for the first seven months this year is up $239,902 over the same period last year. The average British Columbian worked 42.6 hours weekly in 1944, compared to 36.6 in 1963.

Most damage was reported in the vicinity of the government camp where large stones were witnessed. The ground was white at the campsite. Some damage claims to apple crops are expected.

Trailer travellers attend Rotary

There were visitors from far afield at the regular meeting of the Summerland Rotary Club Friday night. They included two from Texas and one from California. Edmonton and Penticton were also represented.

Danny Makale of the Edmonton club outlined a project their organization is active in, and that is the distribution of school text books to all parts of the world.

"In Alberta," Mr. Makale said, "the schools have a system of book rental to the school children. There always comes a time when some books are no longer used in the schools and are discarded. The club found out that these books are destroyed so we decided to make a good use of them."

"The authorities co-operate with us and we now bundle them up and send them to schools all over the world," he explained. "Such a project does not require money, only help on the part of the members."

Joe Winkelaar of Penticton was a guest as well as Bernie Holt, a Rotary director from Lanesa, Texas, and another Texan with a record of 25 years perfect attendance, and a past district governor Floyd Stark of Seminole. E. F. Ronson of Romona, Calif., was also a guest. The Americans were members of the trailer group staying in Penticton. They are members of the Wally Byam club.

Mr. Holt outlined their activities.

This group had left Wyoming on June 25, where they attended an International Rally of the club at which 2,590 members gathered.

To belong to the club you must have an Airstream trailer and the company sponsors four-tours a year.

"Canada has really rolled out the carpet for us," he said. "We have been treated royally ever since we arrived." He invited the Summerland members to Texas "where we still have some Southern hospitality left".

When the group stays at a point, they are anxious to pay their own way. In Penticton they only charged them "around $50" for utilities, so they donated $500 to the retarded children fund and their church collection each Sunday goes to charity. There were 490 trailers in Penticton.

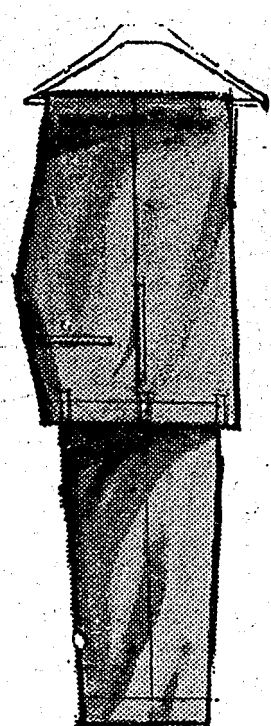

One of the early members of Summerland Rotary, Bernie Holt, installed Keith Bergh as a new member.

President Jock Jonhson announced that wives would be able to attend the joint dinner meeting to be held in Kelowna August 20 when International President Dr. C. P. H. Teenstra of Holland will be there. A nose-count of those planning to attend will be made at this week's meeting.

Charlie Greenough was the winner of the draw but left early. Harvey Wilson spoke for him and donated it to the swimming instruction fund.

SUMMERLAND REVIEW

THE Summerland Review

Vol. XX—No. 29 Summerland, B.C., Wednesday, August 18, 1965 8 Pages — 5c per Copy

This Fall Fair float skillfully put together by the Summerland Elks has attained an impressive record on the road this year.

It was learned by a report in Salmon Arm paper that it has earned first place in that parade. In Penticton it took first in the communities under 10,000 class and went to Regatta parade in Kelowna and received honorable mention. The float went through a rainstorm on the way to Kelowna which dampened the hopes of those in charge but it came through with honor for Summerland. It will be seen next at the Summerland Fall Fair September 10 and 11.

The lovely queen and her princesses added much to the appearance of the beautiful float.

Rotary swimming fund growing at rapid pace

Four Hundred and Thirty dollars has been collected towards the swimming instruction fund. This was reported at the regular meeting of the Summerland Rotary Club Friday night. The amount is almost double that of two weeks ago and it is hoped there will be more on the way.

Mel Hyde, chairman of the Swimming Instruction Committee, was not present but Gordon Beggs, speaking for him, said the Red Cross Water Safety Branch will be conducting examinations on Monday, August 23.

The following Friday the instructors and their students will present a water show for the Rotarians and their wives. This is an annual practice.

The members will not meet at their usual place for a dinner meeting. They will eat at home and go to Rotary Beach about 8:30 p.m. They will bring their wives.

Guests at this meeting were K. McKay and Maurice Trumppour, both of Penticton; Walter Marshbank, Oliver; and Gunnar Baardsen of Nanaimo. They were introduced by Charlie Denkie.

Mr. Baardsen outlined some of their club's activities which are assisting with the maintenance of a swimming pool and upkeep of a park in co-operation with the city council. They also furnished a hospital room, the cost of which was $800. When he said this, Summerland Hospital administrator said "Listen carefully, boys."

Mitch Lamb won the weekly draw and donated the proceeds to the swimming instruction

Kelowna club next Friday at Kelowna when International President Dr. C. P. H. Teenstra of Holland will attend the regular dinner meeting and will address the group in the evening.

District Governor Ted Atkinson urged as many as possible to attend this meeting.

Summerland members and their wives will join with the Flying hood off schedule

While Fred Field was cutting a gentleman's hair in his barbershop the other day, the customer said "Look the hood of that black car just blew up in the air and landed on the top of that red one." Fred looked up. The red one was his. There was a big wind that day.

By the time Fred got there, the proprietor of Bud's Service was there with a face the color of Fred's car. "We were going to take the motor out of this car and put it in another until we found that it too was no good. We parked it out here and if the wind had have waited another half an hour, we would have had it hauled away." It was an old model car.

Those of you who know Bud will realize he felt as bad as Fred about the deal.

It bounced off the top of the car and ripped chrome off the side. About $150 should fix it up.

Joe Akitt wins volume trophy

A Summerland insurance man won the Frank Gower Trophy for being top man in the life insurance field for his company during the month of July.

Joe Akitt not only sold the most life insurance for the Travelers Insurance Co., he also came in second in total premiums for all types of insurance.

The Vancouver manager, Mr. Wm. Lister, brought the good news to Joe this weekend when he and his wife spent some time with the Akitts.

The Frank Gower Trophy is contested each July. Mr. Gower, a manager in Vancouver for 40 years, now retired, will make the presentation at a company function in Vancouver February 20.

96 was high temperature for July

The weather statistics were released by the Summerland Research Station for the month of July.

The highest temperature was reported on July 30 and 31 when the thermometer reached 96 and the lowest recorded was on the 19th when 49 was read. The mean maximum was 83.74 degrees and the mean minimum was 59.68 with the average temperature being 71.71. There were 316.7 hours of sunshine.

BIDS HIGHER THAN ANTICIPATED

Summerland School acquire more land

The tenders for the addition to the Trout Creek School were opened at a meeting of the Summerland School Trustees Thursday night and they were higher than anticipated and it was referred to the Department.

W. H. Taylor Construction Ltd. tendered $82,655 and John Berg Construction, Summerland $68,655.

The board had figured $49,000 for the building so they will contact provincial architect H. A. Jordan and will act on his advice. There was a possibility voiced that they will have to curtail part of the construction.

Until the construction is complete, the largest room, being Grade 5 and part of Grade 6 will be busied to Summerland. This is Miss G. Evans' room.

Five acres immediately north of the present school grounds have been purchased from Mr. Dunham. School now has 17 acres which is the proper proportion on a per pupil basis for playground area.

Trustee Dr. McIntosh reported that his experimental plot to plant grass in the north end of the playgrounds is cultivated and grass will be planted in the fall.

He suggested that watering not be done in this area because it was nothing but weeds and it was costing unnecessary expense. He put this to a motion, but it was defeated on the grounds that they felt grass would be forthcoming and would take over if watering is carried on.

Trustees Ken Boothe and Dr. J. E. Miltmore were absent from this meeting and were busy elsewhere at other school committee meetings.

Secondary School Principal John Tamblin said there had been an improvement in the passing grades of Grade 12 students in their Departmental Examinations. The past year over the previous year and a vast improvement over the year before. He expressed hope that this trend would continue.

A letter was directed to council that children in the elementary school take part in the "Save The Children Fund".

Boxes or tins would be provided the children which they would use to collect pennies Halloween night and they would be returned the next day of school.

There was considerable hesitation approving this because of the fact that all the board was not present so the motion by Dr. McIntosh could not find a second to get approval so it was lost.

R. L. MacNabb, Trout Creek Principal, said his school would gladly take on the project if MacDonald school did not wish to. Principal J. Cooke, of the MacDonald school was not present but indicated to Secretary Treasurer Jim Hack he would co-operate if the Board approved.

Authority to proceed with the working drawings of new heating system at the Summerland school was received and was forwarded to Victoria for final approval. Tenders expect to be called and will be opened at the next board meeting on August 26.

It was pointed out that there

The Municipal Council discussed the present commercial sign by-law and will contact planner John Northey regarding possible changes.

Powell Beach Plaza had made application for a sign to be placed at their property line last week but this could not be allowed as their by-law calls for them to be at least 25 feet from the line.

Councillors Powell and Barkwell had inspected the plaza and thought in this case the by-law was too rigid and should be possibly revised.

The owner Les Kirky was present and said he had contacted the highway department and they would authorize a sign of 20 sq. ft. at each entrance if it is at least 13 feet from the edge of the blacktop.

Mr. Kirky suggested that a sign off the highway would present more of a hazard because motorists have to take their eyes off the road to see it.

A more workable by-law will be considered.

Mr. Nandor Molnar requested rezoning a small portion of his property from agricultural to residential.

The move was not recommended by the planning commission in that it would create a new area in the middle of an agricultural area. The utilities would be difficult to supply as well as there is not adequate water supply in the area already. Council did not approve it.

A delegation representing a newly formed lawn bowling club proposed a brief regarding assistance in getting a court but after discussion it was felt more investigation between them and the council should be carried on before the final presentation is made.

According to the financial statement on Parkdale Place showed a deficit of $4,000 so far this year.

It was explained that the increase in cost of vegetables and less donations of fruit was a factor but the increase in staff and increase in wages was the main difference.

Assistant clerk Jerry Goddard was asked to contact neighboring homes to see if Summerland fees charged the residents is in line.

It was estimated that the deficit would rise to $7,000 before the end of the year.

Reeve Holmes pointed out that the deficit has never been greater than the principle and interest payments on the home and felt they could not expect the first 20 year residents to pay for the home alone.

This was agreed upon but it was also pointed out that 20 years from now there would be more upkeep so that fixed cost would not be completely wiped out.

A Family Court will be established in Summerland for juveniles and family counselling. It will be located at the Health Centre. It will be open on the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

The CNIB was authorized to carry on with their annual tag day on Saturday, October 2. They will use the Health Centre as their headquarters.

Mr. Charlie Crozley requested council to set a price on nine acres of land he is presently leasing. He owns one acre and has developed a successful chicken business on his spread and now wishes to buy the land he now leases.

Council authorized a 15-cent per capita contribution to the Area Development Plan for this year.

This money will be used to attract industry to the Okanagan in co-operation with other points in the valley. All other centres had approved this.

It was suggested that next year the assessment be 20 cents for towns of 5000 and under and 40 cents for those with greater population.

Superintendent Blagborn will make a study of possible projects that could be done under the winter works program.

Notice was given council that D. Chapman & Co. was intending to increase shipping rates. Reeve Holmes said he had been in contact with Tom Manning, President of the Chamber of Commerce and action will be taken by that group.

C. V. Armour requested rezoning some of his agricultural property as motel interests would like to build a motel complex. $150,000 will be spent on the new construction including a swimming pool, dining room, etc.

The planning commission did not recommend the change but council felt that the way should be clear for this development.

"The motel would be located between the ball park and the golf course and I think it would be ideal", Reeve Holmes said. "We can be too strict and lose a lot of expansion", he concluded. This will also be taken up with Regional Planning Consultant John Northey.

Friends call on J. E. Jenkinson on occasion of his 88th birthday

Mr. J. E. Jenkinson celebrated his 88th birthday on Tuesday, Aug. 17. Mr. and Mrs. Hans Moors held an open house at their residence for his friends and neighbors.

Mr. Jenkinson is a long-time resident of Summerland and was born at Ingersoll, Ont. in 1877. He was a member of the Militia at Port Arthur, Ont. and was called for duty on the first day of the first World War and served throughout that and the Second World War. He was mentioned in Dispatches to London, England for Meritorious Service and retired with the rank of Captain.

In Summerland he served as president of the Canadian Legion. Also as president of the Kiwanis Club, the Conservative Association and as Elder in the United Church.

He still takes an active interest in community affairs.

Summerland RCMP investigated both accidents.

Two more cars came together near Bay View Motel north of Summerland at 1:00 a.m. Sunday.

Stephen Sillpant of Summerland apparently came across the centre line while making a curve and he sideswiped a car driven by Vincent Edward Gobel of Penticton. There were no injuries but estimated damage to both cars amounted to $750. Sillpant was charged with driving without due care and attention. This cost him $25 and costs when he went before Magistrate Johnson yesterday.

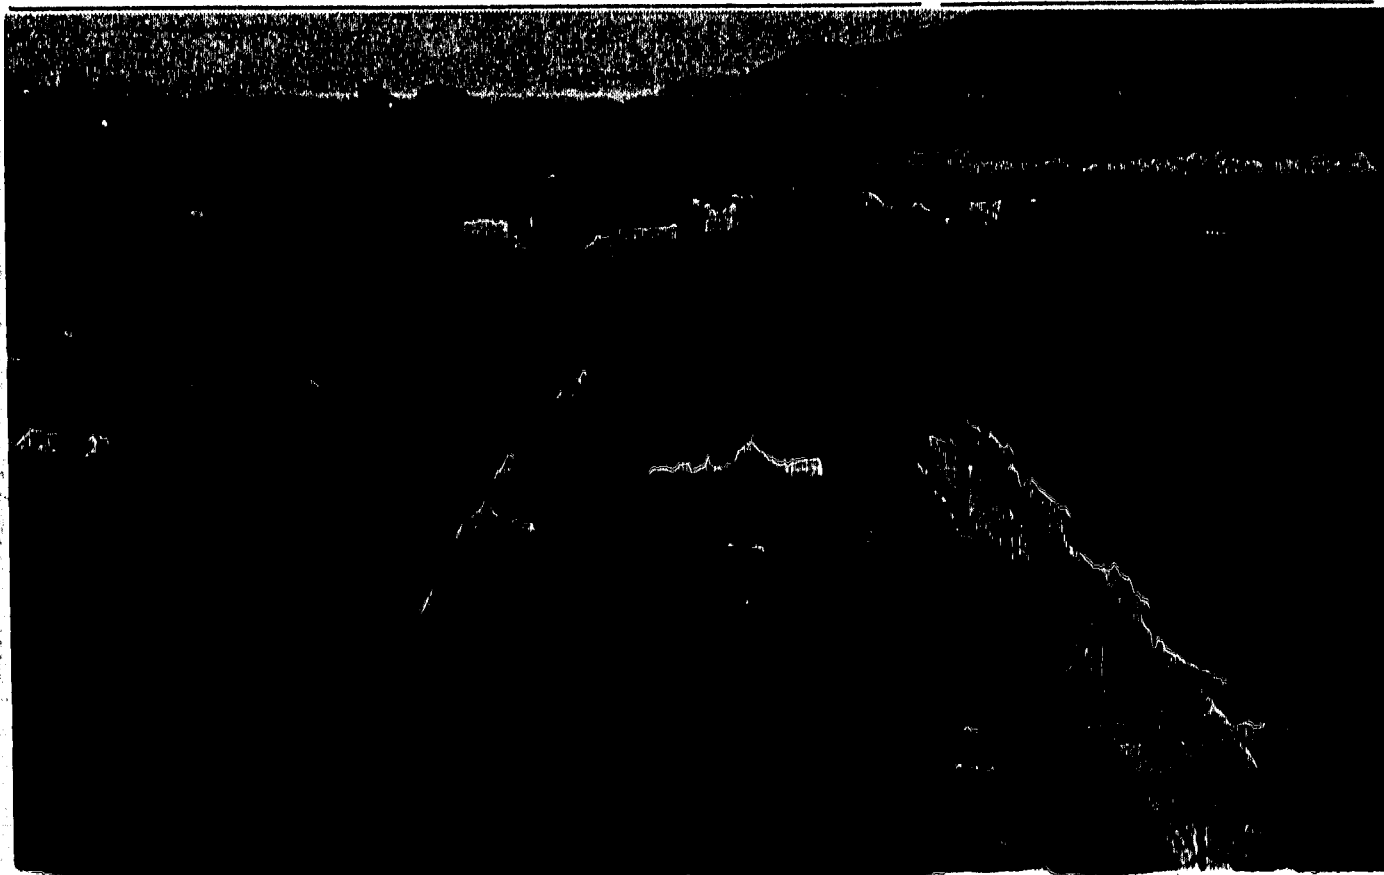

The only injury was to Mrs. Evans who was taken to the Kelowna Hospital but released the same day. Mr. Evans was charged with passing when it was unsafe to do so. Total damage to cars was estimated at $700.

Three motorists found out the hard way that it was not possible to go three abreast on Highway 97 Friday afternoon, eight miles north of Summerland.

All cars were proceeding south. Jack Zeigler, Newhall, California was in front followed by Trevor Evans of Victoria. Bringing up the rear was Jack Dietz of Vancouver.

Dietz pulled out to pass the two cars shortly before Evans got the same idea. These two cars hooked rear and front fenders and Evans lost control and sideswiped Zeigler who also lost control and went in the ditch and turned his car over.

SUMMERLAND ON THE LAKE

Summerland on the lake is one of the beauty spots of the Okanagan. It is a mixture of the very old and the very new. This was where Summerland started at the turn of the century and although this section of town suffered two major fires, some of the original buildings are still standing. When the railroad came in west of here the business section moved in that direction leaving the original site to industry and homes. Prospective homeowners could not resist the beautiful lakeshore or the view up on the benches — hence past history is mixed with modern trend in Summerland On The Lake. Our tourists would enjoy the drive through this section of town. (Photo by Bert Simpson)

Report from Parkdale Place

By AUGUSTA EMERY

The summer of summers is gradually drawing to a close. Days are shortening, leaves on some of the trees are taking on a golden tint—gentle reminder that autumn days are not too far away.

But how delightful those hot summer days were for the younger set and for the tourists enjoying the Okanagan sunshine at the various beaches. For the older folk, perhaps a little oppressive, but the air-conditioning in the home gave the residents great relief on the hottest days. Meals to suit the weather conditions were served by our competent staff, so all was well at Parkdale.

The matrons, staff and residents are pleased to join the Summerland community in wishing Doctor Munn many happy years of retirement.

A special thank you, doctor, for your faithful service in caring for the sick members of our home. We have greatly appreciated your kindness over the years.

Our garden has been a real beauty spot. Roses bloomed in profusion, geraniums made a grand showing and the shy little rock garden flowers gave us the greatest surprise. The lawns have been kept in fine condition. For this great pleasure we are grateful to the Parks Board and to the men who worked untiringly caring for and watering our lawns and plants.

One of our residents, Mr. Brown, slipped quietly away for a three weeks' holiday. We thought he had decided to enjoy a visit in Vancouver, but greater ambition took him farther afield. To our surprise a card was received from Honolulu. He was relaxing on the balcony of the Reef Hotel in Waikiki just watching the breakers roll in from the Pacific.

Several birthdays were celebrated since our last report. Mrs. McClement gave a party to honor Mrs. Mowat. The matron, Mrs. Scouten, and the lady residents were present to offer greetings to the celebrant. Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. G. Robertson were the life of the party. Mrs. Allan and Mrs. Colin McKenzie were invited guests. The preparations were ably carried out by Mrs. Clark and Mrs. M. McKenzie.

Mrs. McClement celebrated her 90th birthday at a dinner party given by her granddaughter, Mrs. H. Smith. Some of our residents and many Summerland friends assembled to greet her. "Granny Mae" as she is known to young and old, will always be remembered for her kindness to every one.

Mr. Mead celebrated his birthday in the local hospital. The nurses made the day a very happy event. He was well remembered by his family and by the residents of Parkdale.

A party was given by Miss Lily Verrier to greet her niece, Mrs. Keller. She and her family have spent a very enjoyable holiday at the home of Mr. W. Verrier, Mrs. Keller's father.

Congratulations to Mr. John Ellis who was honored recently when presented with a life membership in the Summerland Legion. He has been in hospital several days—we hope to hear good news of his recovery.

Thirty-two have visited Parkdale during the past month from almost every Canadian province— from far away Florida and California. All were charmed with the beauty of our surroundings, with the comforts we enjoy.

From our generous Summerlanders we have received many donations during the past month. We are very grateful... our sincere thanks.

Flowers: Mrs. Houghton, Mr. Joe Akitt, Mr. T. Ritchie, United Church, Mrs. K. Blagborne.

Beets: Mr. H. Hanson, Mr. Dunham, Mr. Logan.

Apples: Mr. Dunham, Mr. Gallop.

Green beans: Mr. Bill Austin.

Cucumbers: Mr. Dunham, Mr. Jackett.

Mr. Moody gave potatoes, corn, cabbage, beets.

Corn and marrow were left by one of our Summerland residents.

A TRIBUTE TO OUR RETIRED DOCTOR

Time to go fishing, doctor, to sit in a boat
Or wade in a stream,
To wear an old hat, an old coat
And maybe — dream.

Time to go fishing; away from the town,
To depart from the shore,
Every burden put down
And be humble again.

Time to go fishing; pride's vestments to leave
On a hook or a shelf,
To drop all the shams that so often deceive
And just be — yourself.

Summerland Legion donates to St. John's Ambulance

President Dugal MacGregor presided at the monthly meeting of the Summerland branch of the Royal Canadian Legion on Wednesday evening. The executive recommended to the general meeting that a donation of $10 be made to the Penticton branch of the St. John's Ambulance Brigade because of their fine demonstration given in mouth to mouth resuscitation. This was approved.

The resignation of Howard Shannon as chairman of the Canteen committee was given the executive at their Aug. 9 meeting and passed on to the members for approval. It was accepted with regret. Billy Smith, E. Bonhous, and D. MacGregor will carry on with these duties until the end of the year.

The Armistice banquet on Nov. 11 will be catered to by a local ladies organization so the members will be free to enjoy the evening.

The annual picnic will be held at Powell Beach on Sunday. Light refreshments will

Summerland Review — 3

The consumer is the goat

It is not very encouraging to read our daily papers these days with headlines like "Strike Pact Unfavorable" or "Nation-Wide Strike Hinted", "Dockers Want Slow-Down".

In recent years, commercial and industrial companies have stressed the importance of good public relations between them, and the distributor and consumer and have employed high salaried experts to work in that field.

It seems that there should be more concentration on good public relations between employee and employer so innocent people would not suffer physically and financially as a result of these two factions carrying on a battle of wits to outdo each other in wage negotiations.

It has become a game with each side bargaining with sharp pencils while the public suffers. The consumer is the victim who says nothing and pays the piper.

If they do say anything they are shouted down by expert sand told they know nothing about the situation.

All blame cannot be placed at the feet of labor or of management. We can recall cases where both have been unreasonable. It seems our business world has become an arena in which the two sides are continually battling for position. As soon as labor receives a boost, they immediately make plans for the next drive and management goes into their corner in defence.

There must be more consideration for the consumer or we shall fall from within.

Unfortunately the human being is basically selfish and living is getting more and more to be a race for the buck. Management and labor must work more closely together. If they do not, inflation will surely result.

A Few Comments . . .

Everyone is talking about the extensive damage done at Mountain View Home. Police have been investigating but apparently have come up with little in the way of leads. The youth of our town are getting the blame for the destructive deeds but this is assuming much without proof. Be it the younger or older set responsible for the damage — the owners must admit that they left the building wide open for such a thing. A building left unattended in what may be classified as an out-of-the-way location makes fair game for those with such tendencies. Acts such as these cannot be condoned. It is hoped the RCMP will come up with those responsible so they may be brought to justice.

The Negroes have done nothing but harm to the cause of all American Negroes by rioting in Los Angeles. They have detained their own cause by years possibly. Mob rule never results in anything but heartache and sorrow.

It is encouraging to hear what T. C. Douglas had to say about a small group of members at the recent New Democratic Party convention who suggested the nationalization of all industry in Canada. The proposer, he said were "a bunch of screwballs".

Figure this one out. We do have an unemployment problem in the west but there is a fear in the valley that there won't be enough apple pickers around because of the fact that there has been less overall picking this year and they won't come our way. . . . On the prairies there is a fear that due to heavy crops there won't be enough help around.

What makes the smack-on-the-hand even more interesting is the fact that since Premier Bennett first took office, Flying Phil has been a solid member of the big three: Bennett, Bonner and Gaglardi.

Though never seriously regarded as a possible successor to Mr. Bennett—Robert Bonner has that slot tucked safely away—old timers recall that when Mr. Bennett was elected party leader the man he beat was Phil Gaglardi . . . by one lone vote!

FROM THE CAPITAL CITY

By Jim Hume

EDITOR'S NOTE: Many readers will recall the writings of Jim Hume at the time he was Managing Editor of the Penticton Herald. At present he is the Business Editor of the Victoria Times and is the Victoria Correspondent for the Edmonton Journal.

Jim is a writer that speaks from the shoulder and adds humour to his copy and the Review is pleased to say he will be a regular feature reporting legislative goings-on and other topics of provincial and national interest.

Premier Bennett may have been flashing his broadest grin when he popped into Kelowna last week to open the world-famous regatta, but behind the facade lay some troubled thoughts.

Earlier in the week he had been forced, for the first time since taking office, to rap the knuckles of Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi . . . and in public at that.

Usually the benign image of Mr. Bennett remains unruffled when his cabinet ministers step out of line. But Mr. Gaglardi's $91 million bridge and tunnel complex to relieve the traffic across the narrows at Vancouver proved too much.

After Flying Phil announced his solution, Mr. Bennett snapped a terse "ridiculous—an engineer's dream", and brushed aside the asphalt king's vision into limbo.

Distant observers may have written the incident off as jolly sparring between friends but not the political observers who daily prowled the silent corridors of the legislature.

The whisper from under the dome is that the public rejection of the Gaglardi plan was nothing to what went on in the soundproof cabinet room.

What makes the smack-on-the-hand even more interesting is the fact that since Premier Bennett first took office, Flying Phil has been a solid member of the big three: Bennett, Bonner and Gaglardi.

Though never seriously regarded as a possible successor to Mr. Bennett—Robert Bonner has that slot tucked safely away—old timers recall that when Mr. Bennett was elected party leader the man he beat was Phil Gaglardi . . . by one lone vote!

Okanagan fruit growers are not the only agriculturalists with troubles this year.

Potato growers on the rich Saanich Peninsula here got the bad news this week that the ban placed on exports when Golden Nematodes were found on a Saanichton farm may remain for years.

The nematode destroys root crops and is as feared among potato growers as foot and mouth disease is among cattle raisers.

The total embargo went on all root crops the day the nematodes were identified. With the ban came strict disinfecting rules for machinery moved between farms and a massive scientific check to try to find out how widespread the disease was.

Scientists are still battling the bug in an aircraft hangar converted to a huge laboratory at Patricia Bay Airport, but so far without any hope of the no-export ban being lifted.

Mining circles at the coast are buzzing with the rich silver strike hit at Keremeos by Horn Silver (Utica Mines Ltd.).

Back in the 1920's Horn Silver, high on the hills 17 miles from Keremeos along the Richter Pass Road, gave up more than half a million dollars in silver.

A cable-car system was used to move ore from 2,000 feet up the hill to the road below, but a fading vein and falling prices forced the operators to give up their claim.

Two years ago Utica took over, drove several tunnels above and below the old workings, hit the main vein right on target and are now removing ore with values of up to 118 ounces of silver a ton.

By Christmas the mine should be in full production supplying its own mill—to be built this fall—with 200 tons of ore a day.

In the meantime ore is being stockpiled to await mill construction. That is, some of the ore is being stockpiled. Some of it is of such high grade that it is being boxed for direct shipment to the smelter.

For Keremeos the mine and mill with more than 40 employees working two shifts will prove a godsend in a year when peach and apricot growers can only lament their disastrous winter loss.

Funeral services are held for Mrs. Blanche Stevenson

A Summerland resident since 1943 and a Saskatchewan pioneer, Mrs. Blanche Stevenson passed away in the Summerland General Hospital on August 12. She was the beloved wife of Mr. Curtis Stevenson, Summerland.

The Summerland people will recall Mrs. Stevenson as being very active in the work of the Trout Creek Church of God, putting in many hours on projects connected to relief funds for the underprivileged, and she held an active interest in the work of the church and community. She loved to work with the youth of the community.

Besides her loving husband, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Couzens, Moose Jaw; Mrs. Grace Fox, Cawston, B.C.; Mrs. Edith Mitchell, Summerland; two sons, Leonard, Summerland, and Lester, Issaquah, Washington. Fourteen grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were held from the Trout Creek Community Church of God on Monday, August 16, with Rev. Eric Berg officiating. Interment followed in the family plot at Lakeview Cemetery, Penticton. Wright's Funeral Home was entrusted with arrangements.

Born in Towner, North Dakota, she was married in July, 1909, and they came to the Wood Mountain district of Southern Saskatchewan in 1913 where they farmed and ranched until moving to Summerland in 1943.

May I take this opportunity of introducing myself. I, like many of you, am one of those addicts which frequent the fairways of our valley golf courses. So I will attempt to keep you informed as to what is taking place and of coming events in your own club and elsewhere.

Thursday evening I had the pleasure of playing Sumac Ridge golf course and I must congratulate Vic Parker on a splendid job. The course is in beautiful condition and very sporty. My partner in this endeavour was Penticton's Jack Partington, last year's club champ., and he fashioned a one over par 36, nice golf on a time basis.

I was surprised to see so few on the course on such a beautiful evening. If you local people have not yet played this course, I advise you to do so. Not only will you find the course exciting, but the view from some holes is worth the visit itself. Also Vic and his staff are more than helpful and give out with real Southern hospitality.

Being a new course, members are needed, so come on you Summerlanders, get on the band wagon. This is something of which you can be proud to be a part of.

The very attractive club house is a two storey chalet like building although not complete, is a comfortable and impressive structure. For those members who have established handicaps I approached Vic with the idea of an inter-club with Oliver Cherry Grove and we will try to set this up for late September.

Once again my congratulations on a very fine course. Looking forward to meeting you all personally at the club.

RED CROSS MADE THIS POSSIBLE

Mrs. L. Traviss is shown above being given a demonstration ride in a new wheelchair donated to the Pentiction and Summerland Red Cross loan-cupboards by the pupils of MacDonald and Trout Creek Schools in Summerland and MacNicholl Park School in Pentiction.

Presenting the wheel chair are Ken Nielsen, Summerland; Mark Rawkins, Pentiction; Earl Miltimore, Trout Creek.

In Summerland the money was raised by Mrs. P. Carter's grade five class and in Trout Creek funds were collected by Mr. R. McNabb's grade five and six class. The project, sponsored by the provincial Junior Red Cross Association, was called "Project Wheeler - Dealer".

Many such wheel chairs were donated throughout the province to various loan-cupboards where there was a need. Mrs. Traviss reports that Pentiction already has several wheelchairs on loan and that perhaps the ideal place for this new chair is in Summerland.

The Pentiction branch of the Red Cross is having a plaque engraved to be attached to the chair. Mrs. Traviss has much praise for all the members of the MacDonald and Trout Creek Schools' Junior Red Cross clubs for their fine effort.

S'm'land men feed hungry dancers

Two Summerland Kiwanis members fed almost 2,000 hungry square dancers the finished product of 12 twenty-five pound sacks of pancake mix one day last week in the Safeway parking lot.

Safeway puts on the breakfast each year for the square dancers and they rent the grill belonging to the Summerland Kiwanis.

Gerry Halquist and Locke McKillian went with the grill to do the cooking.

They were given much credit for their efforts at the club's regular meeting Thursday night.

Some members indicated they would attend the District Convention in Tri-Cities, Washington, on August 29, 30 and 31. They were Walter Toevs, Scottie Ritchie, Pres. Lloyd Shannon and Doug Campbell.

Several volunteered to repair the bus shelter located at Paradise Flats.

Scottie Ritchie gave a brief report on his recent trip to New York.

BRIDGE PROBLEM

This interesting hand was dealt and played at the SOCBC monthly master point evening. It illustrates two strong points of bridge.

First the unusual jump to game when a trump suit has been established and a weak hand with ample or more than usual number of trumps to support partner. The second point of hand is the interference bid after Blackwood has been called. Also the main one, that of the sacrifice bid to reduce your loss. This hand will show east - west vulnerable and sure of a game and possible slam assuring them of at least 710 points and a possible 1710 thus anytime you can hold your loss below you are playing good bridge. Profits and Taxes

The co-operatives across Canada are now anxiously awaiting the outcome of an enquiry into income taxation as it affects co-ops. The findings and recommendations could have a powerful influence upon the activity of co-ops in the future.

Strongly supporting the enquiry is an organization called the Equitable Income Tax Foundation which claims that co-ops do not pay their share of income tax; that co-ops should be taxed the same as any other business enterprise.

They are, says Roy Staples, president of the Co-operative Union of Canada, in a recent issue of the Canadian Co-operative Digest. The whole issue of the Digest is devoted to arguing favoring co-ops, and explaining the coop side of the income tax story.

Co-ops are very strong in many farming communities in Canada, so the income tax issue is of vital importance to farmers.

It seems that many co-op members are not familiar with income tax as it affects co-ops, and are inclined to go along with the anti-co-op element within the Retail Merchants Association who say income tax regulations favor co-ops; co-ops should pay income taxes like any other business.

Which brings us back to Roy Staples and his terse "They do." If you want to know "how come", consider these four points presented by Mr. Staples:

1. Most co-operatives in Canada pay income tax.
2. The only co-ops in Canada which pay no income tax are those which have no income.
3. The tax rates are the same for all corporations, similar in size and type, both co-op and non-co-op.
4. No co-op can acquire general reserves out of savings without paying income tax.

There is one exception to this: a truly new co-op in its first three years is exempt from income tax. New mining companies have the same exemption.

That's all very well, says the anti-co-op group, "but you should pay income tax on the dividends (rebates) you distribute at the end of each year. That is profit, and profits are subject to income tax."

But are co-op rebates really profit? We say no. Let's take a look at the reason for organizing a co-op.

The basic purpose underlying the formation of a co-op is to enable the members to do something as a group that they cannot do as individuals.

The farmer who operates several thousand acres can buy his fertilizer in very large quantities at a special lower price. Small farmers cannot do this as individuals because of the smaller purchases, but if they form a co-op and buy in large lots they get their fertilizer at the lower figure.

Should these farmers be taxed for doing something as a group that the large land owner can do tax-free as an individual?

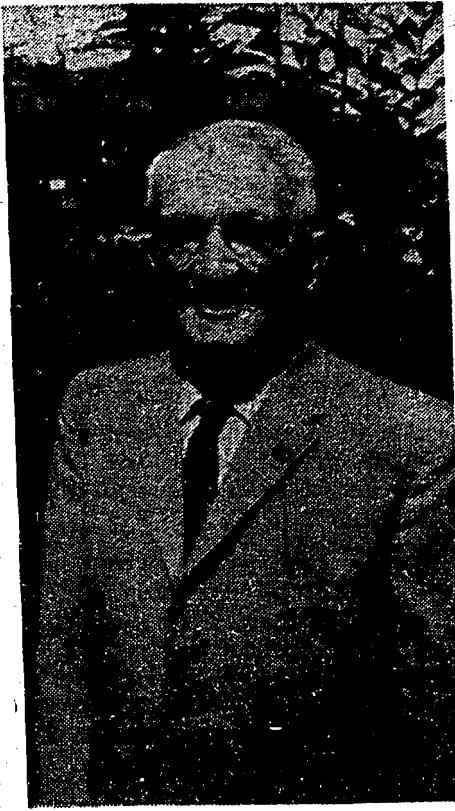

A retail business makes regular purchases of goods from a number of wholesale supply firms. If these accounts are paid by a certain date the retailer receives a discount on the purchase price.

Should these discounts be classified as profits and be subject to income tax? No, of course not. But is there any real difference between these monthly discounts and the year-end discount the co-op returns to its members?

Co-ops are organized to supply their members with goods or services at cost. To make sure there is no loss the co-op must follow sound business principles and charge the member a little more than estimated cost. At the end of the year the real cost can be determined, and the amount the member has overpaid is returned to him.

This is called a rebate, but the anti-co-op people want to call it a profit and make it subject to income tax.

When co-ops sell goods or services to non-members, they do make a profit, and they do pay income tax on this profit just the same as any other

W. M. (WILLIAM) LEWIS

Wm. Lewis marks 80th with family

Mr. W. M. (William) Lewis pictured above, celebrated his eightieth birthday on Aug. 8th. Eight of his 10 children and their families attended a banquet and reception held in the IOOF Hall on August 7th.

There were 33 members of the family present, including his wife Mrs. Bessie Lewis of Summerland.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eckert of Dawson Creek and their four children, Mrs. Fay Hengley of Bonanza, Alta.; William Eckert of Prince George; Mr. and Mrs. Berger of Prince George; Bobby of Dawson Creek. A great-granddaughter Deana Hengley was also present.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lewis of Prince George; Mrs. Marie Wiese and two daughters of Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wakefield, Midway, B. C. and two sons Arley, Prince George; Daunallen of Midway;

Mr. Orville Lewis, Vernon; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Akerley and children, Prince George; Mr. Wm. (Billy) Lewis, Summerland; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson and four children, Princeton, B. C.

The following were unable to attend. Mrs. Kay Plum, Toronto; Mrs. Ray Seward, Valleyview, Alta.; Mrs. Lena Shelton, Huntsville, Ala. and Mr. J. D. Lewis of Columbian, Ala.

The count at the banquet, including friends was forty-seven.

VISITOR AT BERGH HOME

Calling to see the Bergh family this week were Mr. Bob Shypitka, Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. Hec MacLean, Fairview; Mr. and Mrs. Art Christianson, Strathmore; Mr. and Mrs. Nick Helfrich, Rockyford; Mr. and Mrs. Wes Houchen, Bowden; Mr. and Mrs. Slim Christensen, Carlsland; Mrs. Charlie Scott, Strathmore; Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Bobroski, Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. K. Campbell, Edmonton.

corporation.

And co-ops also pay income the same as any other business tax on general reserves just enterprise is obliged to do.

So why the hue and cry against the co-ops in the income tax field? I think it is because co-ops are growing steadily, gathering in new members, branching out into new fields, increasing business every year.

Capital is beginning to worry about this situation. They can see the profit of capital shrinking in direct proportion to the growth of co-ops, so they have seized upon the income tax theme in the hope of checking the growth of co-ops and thus maintaining their own profit.

Co-ops loom large on the farm scene. We want co-ops to prosper because they help make a prosperous farm community.

Tribute to "Ted" Atkinson

SUMMERLAND REVIEW — 6
Wed., August 18, 1965

TRIBUTE TO "TED" ATKINSON from R. P. Walrod

Few men have made a greater contribution to the B. C. Fruit industry than F. E. "Ted" Atkinson. While his good work is recognized nationally and internationally as well as locally, those of us who have been associated closely with him over a period of many years are perhaps in the best position to judge the extent and importance of his contribution.

His record of service to the B. C. fruit grower extends over a period of 35 years. During all this time he has shown unusual initiative and imagination in the successful application of scientific principles to many problems of this industry, and more particularly but not exclusively in the fruit processing field. The effect of his leadership both direct and indirect has been of primary importance to the industry's ple products now being produced, have been either developed, perfected, or introduced by Ted Atkinson and his staff working in co-operation with industry personnel. He has played a similar role in the development of an outlet for stone fruit surplus.

Indirect benefit to the fruit growers has been Ted Atkinson's influence on the canning industry in encouraging and persistently striving for high standards of quality and operating efficiency. He has also rendered important service in establishing criteria for harvesting maturity of stone fruit in this area both for fresh sale and processing. More recently his contribution to the Peach study represents a further example not only of his readiness, but his eagerness to bring about improvements within the fruit industry.

A unique aspect of both Atkinson's philosophy and his work has been the strong orientation to the growers' economic interest.

While officially retiring from his position at Summerland's Research Station in the immediate future, it is to be hoped that his experience and wise counsel will continue to be available to the fruit industry for some years to come.

Thirty odd years ago the cherry production in British Columbia had exceeded the demand to a point where the fresh markets were unstable. Ted Atkinson not only completed important technical work in the modification of processes for glacing cherries but promoted the utilization of these processes by the fruit industry and the food manufacturers. Through the development of this alternate outlet for a portion of the cherry crops, marketing was stabilized and the grower returns elevated.

During the past twenty-five years the apple by-product development in B. C. has grown from small-scale salvage operations into a sizeable and vitally important industry now capable of utilizing up to one-third of the present apple crops if and when they may appear in surplus to the fresh market capacity. This large secondary market has been built through the successful development of a number of processed products for which new consumer demands have been created or extended. The process required, and in some cases even the equipment used in the manufacture of the ap-

Rifle association reopen events

By Herb Simpson

After a lapse of six years the Rocky Mountain Rangers Rifle Association of Kamloop is reviving its annual invitational shoot.

The shoot was discontinued when the Keremeos rifle range was closed down, so the members decided to use the newly-renovated West Bench Range at Pentiction.

Many good prizes and trophies will be awarded to the winners of the competitions at 200, 500 and 600-yard ranges. Rifles of .303 or .762 calibre will be used, and ammunition will be issued free of charge.

Shooting will start at nine o'clock Sunday morning, Aug. 22, and will continue all day. Members are asked to bring their own lunches.

The R. M. R.'s are very anxious to see a good turn out, and are especially hoping to see some of the veteran shooters from Summerland taking part in the meet.

PIRATE GOLD IN OUR DOLLAR'S FAMILY TREE

No one knows for sure, but our modern dollar sign, $, is believed to have originated with the figure 8 stamped on "pieces of eight" which Long John Silver and others of his breed coveted as they scoured the seas in bygone days.

Whether this is a tall tale or a true one, we do know that the $ sign was in use in the United States before the introduction of federal currency and before our own decimal monetary system began in 1853.

But more interesting to most of us than the $ sign itself, are the figures that come after it, especially if those figures are in a savings account passbook from the Bank of Montreal. It's quite a thrill to watch them grow and grow as we save regularly. Interest payments of three per cent also help to swell the amount.

It makes sense to save regularly at the B of M and it makes for success in life, too.

To start your own "success fund", visit the Summerland branch of the Bank of Montreal soon. Bob Evans, the accountant there, will show you how easy it is to open a B of M Savings Account. It takes just three minutes and one dollar to start. Advt.

SUMMERLAND REVIEW

THE Summerland Review

Vol. XX—No. 30 Summerland, B.C., Wednesday, August 25, 1965 8 Pages — 5c per Copy

It's not a joyous task to lower the body of the son of a fellow worker and friend to a waiting ambulance but this was the lot for members of the Summerland Search and Rescue crew and other volunteers on Monday noon after the body of Neil Hachey, 13, of Summerland was dug out of a collapsed cave. They are from left to right, Joe McLachlan, Jerry Polesello, Bruce Blagborne head of the Search and Rescue Squad, Fred Dunsden and Tom Jomori. With his back to the camera is Joe Akitt, ready to guide the stretcher into the ambulance. The picture below was taken before the body was found. It shows how they're frantically shovelling clay away. They worked in shifts so they could go at top speed. (See story elsewhere.) — Review Photos

13-year-old Summerland lad dead as clay bank caves in

The dark cloud of tragedy hung over Summerland on Monday when the Summerland Search and Rescue crew were called to dig a boy out of a clay cave that fell in on top of him.

Neil Stanley Hachey, 13, and two other Summerland youths, his brother Craig, 11, and Anthony Brummelhuus also eleven were all in a cave above Rotary Beach and along Highway 97.

All but Neil crawled out of cave and were on their way down the 60-foot bank when Craig looked up and saw the clay bank cave in on his brother.

They ran up but quickly saw they could do little so Craig ran to the Bill Evans residence on the beach for help.

Bill and a guest Mr. Jim Potter from London, England ran to the cave in but saw they wouldn't be able to do too much so they called to Mrs. Evans who put in a call for the Search and Rescue crew.

This crew, with the help of Municipal workers dug with great haste taking turns at the shovels. The boy was uncovered about 25 minutes after the call went in.

Dr. Fred MacInnes, Summerland was on the scene and went to work on the boy immediately but it was too late. Although there were some indications of life, the doctor didn't feel that the boy was actually alive when taken out of the clay grave.

Neil was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hill of Summerland.

Ironically, Mr. Hill was one of the men assisting with the digging — not realizing that it was his son they were trying to save. When he learned this he immediately went home to tell the sad news to Mrs. Hill before his younger son reached home.

The rescue squad under the direction of Bruce Blagborne, had nothing but praise for the efforts of Dr. MacInnes.

Change in Shannon Trophy award

The Fall Fair Committee wishes to point out that this year the Shannon Trophy will be awarded to the Summerland student (not in Grade 5) having the most points in Section 3, Vegetables.

Formerly the Shannon Trophy was awarded for a display of vegetables by a student, but this has been discontinued. Holders of 1965 Prize Lists should note that the Shannon Trophy is now written up in Section 3 on Page 27.

The rules regarding Shannon Trophy at the foot of Page 33 should be crossed out.

Accidents mount on Highway 97

Highway 97 took its toll again last week with two accidents involving damages of approximately $700.

On August 17th, two miles south of Peachland a car driven by Grace Ellen Ward of Kelowna was sideswiped by one driven by John Thomas Tennant of Penticton.

Tennant was following another car who passed the Ward car safely but when Tennant followed through to pass another car was coming from the other direction and he had to swing over to the right to prevent a head on collision and sideswiped the Ward vehicle.

Damages to both cars amounted to $700. There were no injuries but Tennant paid a voluntary fine of $15.00 on a charge of passing when unsafe to do so.

On August 19 at 5 a.m. Gerald Ian Butler of Penticton flipped his car over on the Peachland bypass.

He was going into an "S" curve and went off on the shoulder of the road — drove along for a short way then when he pulled the car back on the road he went right across and hit the concrete guard rail and overturned. The car landed on its roof about fifteen feet below the road.

Car damage amounted to $500 and he was charged with driving without due care and attention.

Mr. J. H. FOOT
Mr. J. H. Foot, Farm Adviser in Pomology for Tularo County, California, has been spending his sabbatical leave in the Pomology Section at the station since February 15, 1965, and plans to return to California shortly.

Following overseas service with the U.S. Army, Mr. Foot graduated from the University of California in pomology in 1950. He has also taken further training in field plot design, plant pathology, entomology and pomology.

Mr. Foot is married and has two children, Scott 5 and Carylou 11, who accompanied him on his leave. The Foots have been living in Mr. J. A. Kitson's house on the lake at Trout Creek. The Foots have enjoyed the different activities and life in this part of the world, especially fishing.

The Summerland Municipal Council did not approve any by-law change to enable Powell Beach Plaza at Trout Creek to place a sign on their property near the highway. The application was denied.

District Planner Mr. John Northey was present and recommended that if a change is made that they do not change the by-law, but rather change the zoning to C1 which would enable signs to be placed near the road. He did not feel this would be wise either because the area should be left local commercial which calls for the blending of business places with the area.

Councillor Barkwill suggested it be placed near the north end of the property, 25 feet back. He felt that at that location it would be seen better by oncoming traffic. He had been out and looked at it.

Mr. Kirkby, owner of the Plaza, said he wanted it near the road in the middle of the property to indicate that in addition to a service station, he also has a restaurant and grocery store. "Twenty-five ft. in from the property line on the north end of the property would put the sign through the roof of the adjoining fruit stand", he said.

Mr. Northey said the sign would be better on the top of his buildings. This Mr. Kirkby took exception to because the motorist would have to take his eyes off the road for a few seconds.

"They are supposed to go 40 through there — but they don't. They are going 50 and 60", he said. "You just come down and watch the traffic turn in our place. They screech in to make the turn because they haven't seen our signs," Mr. Kirkby explained.

The Municipal by-law states that all signs in local commercial property must be at least 25 feet in from the property line.

Mr. Northey said in any case there should not be a flashing sign. He also suggested there were too many signs on the property now.

Kirkby reminded council that he has stated that he would take the other signs down when he got one real good one up.

Councillor Schaeffer suggested a device which would save homeowners electricity and installation costs. It would automatically shut off certain appliances when an overload is placed in the line. In addition to saving electricity, it would save putting in heavier installation as appliances are added.

Councillor Ritchie, reporting on a meeting of the Parks board warned of the danger of boats and skiers getting within the swimming area at Powell Beach, and suggested that a by-law be drafted so convictions can be made for offenders.

Councillor Schaeffer confirmed that the danger did exist, but anytime he noticed offending boats, they were not local people.

It was suggested that better bouys be put in the water, with signs on top indicating the swimming area.

Reeve Holmes said the children move them around and they drift all over the place. A study of the situation will be made, keeping in mind that new bouys may be necessary.

There was one report of two children almost being run over by a boat.

Councillor Ritchie also said there were too many dogs running at large. "We should let the people know that we have a pound by-law and that we are going to enforce it completely," Ritchie said. "Some have them tied up all day and let them bark."

No conclusion to flag mystery

By Keith Bergh
This reporter takes pride in publishing nothing but what he understands himself & makes the supreme effort to pass the news on to the reader in such a way that they will not be confused at the conclusion.

We do not claim to know much about what follows and we expect to be as confused as you when you finish reading this. Now, if you think that doesn't make sense, read on, it's worse.

There was a flag—the new flag—the one that is red and white with a maple leaf in the middle.

Now, the Summerland Rotarians and Kiwanians both meet above Mac's Cafe—except during the summer when the Kiwanis meet at the Yacht Club.

It seems that the Rotary Club bought a new flag and used same one meeting. The next meeting it was gone. Someone had stolen it.

Now the Kiwanians had instructed Bill Laidlaw (who is in charge of the "stores" department) to order a new flag for them about the same time.

This was just before they moved down to the Yacht Club for the summer—and a member (yet unnamed) went and got the gear belonging to the Kiwanis Club, saw this bright new flag and thought Bill had done his job with great haste—and took it to their summer quarters.

When the Kiwanians met for their first time at the Yacht Club, Bill saw the flag and saw nothing of it other than he figured someone else had obtained one. They must have because he hadn't got his order in yet. He said nothing.

Now, let's see... where do we go from here.

Oh, yes. Up to this time (three weeks later) members of both clubs are still speaking to each other and one Rotary member happened to mention to Doug Campbell that some "so called so and so" had stolen their new flag. Doug offered his sympathy and after informing him that they have theirs proudly on display, went on his merry way.

That week Bill Laidlaw was wondering who ordered the flag and no one knew. Then comes the dawn—days later, but too late.

The town isn't so big that you need a newspaper for all communications. Rotary president Jock Johnston got wind that the Kiwanians had one Maple Leaf flag in their possession and didn't know where it came from, but Jock being a banker and able to add two and two... did.

We were at one Rotary meeting and it was announced that RCMP Cpl. Bud Stahl was going to bring a guest (on handcuffs) to the next meeting, namely Lloyd Shannon, the top dog in Kiwanis. Lloyd got wind of this and conveniently arranged a cargo for the Peace River country and took off.

Now it has taken an hour to get this far and if all our stories took this long to write you would never have a paper more than every other week, and I am still not sure how to end it.

I do know that both clubs now have a Maple Leaf flag. Who bought and paid for which one we don't know and possibly no one else does either.

At Kiwanis Thursday night the members were complaining theirs was too small, so possibly they will give this one to the Rotary Club who already bought another one—wait until dark night and steal their new one (if it is bigger) and away we go again.

The matter is still not settled—but no doubt the presidents will have a marshmallow duel at twenty paces in the near future, the winner receiving a Red Ensign.

We don't claim all the above to be fact. Only close.

Chief Instructor Darleyn Ducommun is giving her intermediate class last minute instructions previous to their taking their final examinations on Monday. The classes, given at Rotary Beach, are sponsored by the Summerland Rotary Club. The girls in the front row are Jill Pruden, Dale Chrales, Shirley Pruden, Pat Clark, Berit Rasmussen and Sharon McNabb; back row: Stephen Richards, Jackie Bullock and Peter Nan.

QUALITY WORKMANSHIP
MARK OF GOOD BUILDER

A new house reflects not only the ability of the architect who designed it but also the skill of the builder who put it together. Choosing a builder who has built up a reputation for good workmanship means that you will not have to worry about the quality of the construction. From basement to roof every small detail will meet the standards of quality he has set for his homes. The subtradesmen will also have to live up to a reliable builder's exacting demands. The simplest and most practical way of establishing in your own mind a builder's credentials is to inspect some of the homes he has already built. Of course the cost factor is also an important consideration when buying a home. But the builder who makes the lowest bid is not necessarily the one who is offering you the best deal. In fact, a prospective homeowner should be doubly careful when he is offered a "bargain" home. A new home costs money to build properly and, though quality and price are not necessarily synonymous, the cost of a home remains a fairly safe indication of its value.

"SPRING HUNGER"

Every Dollar
You Spend "At Home"
Helps Our Community to Grow

Just think about it for a minute

A good part of every dollar you spend with our local business goes directly into circulation in our own community in the form of salaries and wages, and taxes which make possible the improvement of educational, health and recreational facilities.

That's why it makes such good sense to spend those precious dollars "at home", especially when quality, style, selection and price of the merchandise and services offered compare quite favorably with those in the "city".

The local businesses depend on your support, just as you depend on them for convenience, and for the contribution they make to the betterment of our community.

Summerland Review — 3

Industrial Development

Summerland has much to gain in taking advantage of the federal grants available for the encouragement of industrial development.

The Summerland Council voted money toward the advertising and promotion last week at their meeting. They realize the value of the proposal and we are sure they will follow it through to the utmost.

It is easy to take the dog-in-the-manger attitude and say "What is the use — Penticton, Kelowna and Vernon will get it all anyway."

It possibly makes a lot of sense too but if Summerland can come out of it with increased capacity of their present operations the campaign will be worthwhile. Of if we receive a small industry or two employing fifty persons it will mean an additional payroll of $150,000 to $200,000 per year. Payroll that will be distributed among the merchants — to pay taxes — to build new homes and to pay for services.

The program is one to encourage industry from Salmon Arm to the border and from Princeton to Greenwood. The grants can amount to as much as one third of the capital cost of establishing an industry and will last three years.

Judging from recent meetings, all the councils and chambers of commerce are ready and willing to give it their all.

It will be a co-operative effort to get companies to "think" Okanagan — then of course individual communities will make their individual bids for a place in the sun.

Summerland must work together with this group. It will bring results.

Election Talk

Prime Minister Pearson has made few definite statements since coming in to office — at least few that he did not have to retract so he is now enjoying the "when is the election" game to the utmost. He is answering questions by asking more, teasing the press and the opposition with the greatest of pleasure.

It should be reasonable to assume that if the answer is no, it wouldn't be too tough for him to say so instead of keeping the people of Canada dangling on the hook so it is fairly reasonable to assume there will be one in the offing soon.

It is a fair assumption that at the end of another election, there will be little change. Although the Liberals have suffered setbacks in government, the Conservatives under the present leadership have not the power to form a majority. This is not a proud position for them to be in because all things being equal it should take but a nudge to oust a government that has had so many charges and allegations placed at their feet.

The only party that has been getting along fairly smoothly is the NDP and it is a good bet they will receive any gains that the "big two" may expect and as a consequence get the balance of power.

An election will do nothing but cost the taxpayers millions of dollars. Five in eight years is plenty.

POTATO SAMPLES FOR GREENHOUSE TESTING

The B.C. Department of Agriculture, Field Crops Branch, will continue to supervise the potato seed testing programme his winter and has arranged for greenhouse testing space.

The fee for conducting and testing will be $5.00 for each sample of 200 seed pieces as in previous years.

Previous testing in the greenhouse has indicated that samples planted early will grow quicker and give a better reading than later plantings. All varieties will be planted in the greenhouse as soon as they are received by this Branch. They are prepared to receive test samples any time from September 15 to October 31. In order to complete readings by the end of the year all samples must be submitted to arrive no later than the end of Oct.

Growers must fill out application forms and forward them to the Field Crops

Branch before September 15th. Shipping instructions will be sent when your application is received. Only growers of Certified and Certified Foundation seed are eligible to apply. Your co-operation in making prompt application and submitting your sample early will be appreciated. If you need any application forms get them from your District Agriculturist.

NEW PUBLICATIONS

A number of good new publications are now available free of charge from the office of your District Agriculturist at Grand Forks. The following, and dozens more on other topics, are yours for the asking: "Purchasing A Sprinkler Irrigation System?" "Construction & Management of Small Greenhouses", "Chemical Weed Control Guide 1965-66", "Care of Farm Dairy Equipment", "Algae Control With Copper Sulphate".

IRRIGATION WORKSHOPS OFFERED TO FARMERS

After a trial run at Vernon early last spring which proved very valuable to the farmers participating, further Workshops on designing sprinkler irrigation systems are now being offered by the B.C. Department of Agriculture Personnel from the Agricultural Engineering Division will provide the irrigation.

These Workshops are offered free of charge to those farmers who are thinking of installing new irrigation systems for the 1966 season. The requirement for the setting up of a Workshop is a minimum of six farmers who wish to design their systems and are willing to devote two one-day sessions to the training and planning necessary. These days will be one month apart.

Workshops can be arranged for dates this fall or in the late winter-early spring season. If you are interested in participating in such a Workshop kindly get in touch with others in your area who might also be interested and have each of them send a letter to their District Agriculturist, Box 129, Grand Forks expressing their wishes. He will then make the necessary arrangements for the workshop to be held.

POSTERS PREPARED TO PUBLICIZE BRITISH COLUMBIA'S two years of celebrations, 1966 and 1967 are displayed by Mrs. Ella Cawley, left, and Miss Dorothy Hosie of the Provincial Centennial staff. The two posters are the first of a series of five being distributed within the next year by the Canadian Centennial Committee of British Columbia. The first 15,000 will cover British Columbia as well as points in the United States and abroad. The fishing scene is symbolic of thousands of fishermen's hide-aways where steelheads lurk. The totem poles are in Thunderbird Park at Victoria, B.C. The Empress Hotel can be seen in the background. (B.C. Centennial Photo)

Blood donor clinic arranged for Summerland on October 22

There were two guests at the regular meeting of the Summerland Kiwanis Club on Thursday night.

One was from across the border - Clint Larame of the Key Club.

A letter was read from W.A. Freeman, Divisional Director of the Blood Donor Clinic with headquarters in Vancouver stating that the plans were to hold a clinic in Summerland on Friday, October 22.

The evening was hot and Doug Campbell made note of the fact that there were three members with ties on and suggested they be fined. This was done. He also suggested that Bill Laidlaw pay the same penalty because he had sold one of them.

Bill protested that he shouldn't pay a fine until the tie was paid for but he received no sympathy.

FROM THE CAPITAL CITY

By JIM HUME

There are times when Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark becomes an insufferable boor.

Though a brilliant economist, Mr. Loffmark sometimes permits his desire for headlines to cloud his judgement.

Readers will recall his statement of some weeks back when he shocked his fellow cabinet ministers and Premier Bennett by suggesting that the quickest way to remove tariff problems at the Canada-U.S. border would be for Canada to become part of the United States.

He was quickly squelched—or at least his suggestion was—by the premier and several cabinet ministers.

Last Thursday, after a long period of political silence, he emerged from his office with another dandy.

A decision of the National Energy Board to permit the Alberta and Southern Gas Company to boost its gas purchases from Alberta will, he claimed, "set back the industrial development of this province 15 years."

Then he rambled on with claims that B.C. had been "torpedoed" by the NEB and implied that the whole thing was a dastardly attempt by the powers that be in the east to sabotage B.C.'s boom.

Mr. Loffmark got his space in the newspapers, but he didn't make much sense.

To review the situation briefly:

Alberta and Southern is an American company which has for many years purchased vast quantities of Alberta natural gas for re-sale to domestic consumers in the States, principally California.

Last fall it applied to the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board for permission to boost its exports to meet growing demands in California. The Manning government granted that permission.

The next step was to obtain the endorsement of the federal NEB, a body keeping a careful eye on Canada's natural resources.

It was at this point that the government of B.C. in the shape of Attorney-General Robert Bonner, stepped in to protest that California was a B. C. mare.

There is no criticism of the bid for if B.C. could win the California market it would be a rich plum indeed. But it had little hope of success and Mr. Bonner knew he was pleading for a lost cause.

He was, in effect, asking the NEB to say to Alberta and Southern, "you can no longer buy your gas from your long-time supplier Alberta. You must buy it from B.C. where the price is considerably higher and the service not so good."

He was also asking the NEB to say to Alberta: "You have lots of gas, you have old and well tried customers, you have a wonderful delivery pipeline system—but you can't sell to them anymore because B.C. wants the market."

It was not surprising that the NEB rejected the B.C. case and added rather pointedly: "It appears to the board that to encourage development of gas resources in one part of the country rather than another in spite of competitive disadvantage would be to impair...rather than assist orderly development of the gas industry."

In other words, "Alberta has developed its natural gas industry far more rapidly than has B.C. It has built pipelines and distribution systems and sought out customers. And it would be most unfair for the board to now rule that to give B.C. a boost we will forbid further sales from Alberta to California."

Mr. Bonner took the news of the rejection calmly. He said that B.C. would now have to seek out Japanese markets (natural gas can be moved economically by refrigerated freighters) where the demand for energy was great and ever-growing.

Mr. Loffmark, possibly miffed because the press sought out Mr. Bonner to ascertain B.C.'s next move, petulantly pouted and screamed "foul".

As minister of industry he would be better off applying himself to the problem of persuading oil companies to step up exploration in northern B.C., and to finding a way of breaking what is now a one pipeline monopoly from the north country to the coast.

No it isn't bomb destruction, but as is evident in the picture, it would appear that this building was within the range of a blockbuster or two. It is the southeast corner of the Mountain View Home after a summer of being on the receive-ing end of thrown rocks. It would appear that the culprits were not satisfied with breaking windows and went after the frames, jamba and all. The home is vacant and become prey for hoodlums.

Junior garden judging provides stiff competition

Judging of the junior garden contest has been completed and the following are the winners:

In the girls' division: 1st prize, Monica Schaeffer; 2nd prize, Mary Lou Dunn; 3rd prize, Lynne Shannon.

In the boys' division: 1st prize, Chris McIntosh; 2nd, Alan Fisher; 3rd, Chris Parish. Prizes will be awarded at the Fall Fair.

According to the judges, the finalists in the contest all had very fine gardens. It was difficult to choose between them. There were no walk-away winners. Over 30 children, all in Grade V, took part in the contest. A few dropped out during the summer.

The Junior Garden Contest is sponsored every year by the Summerland Chamber of Commerce. A. W. Watt is convener of the project. Seeds are provided through the Summerland Research Station and the Chamber of Commerce.

This year the judges were Mr. and Mrs. John Berg, Mrs. Jim Schaeffer, Mr. and Mrs. John Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kirk, Mr. C. Bernhardt, Mr. Walter Ward and Mr. Watt.

The committee wishes to remind the children taking part in this contest that they are entitled to enter the produce from their gardens in the junior section at the Summerland Fall Fruit Fair. Exhibits should be taken to the arena and set up before 10 p.m. on Thursday, September 9th.

THE BLACK BEAR

Black bears are found over a large part of North America where forest cover is present. They live in climate as diverse as those of Florida and Alaska. This wide distribution indicates a wide range of adaptability. This is shown by the behaviour of bears at the northern and southern extremes of their range. The bears of Florida, for example, sleep for only short periods, while those that live in the far north sleep as long as four to six months of the year.

The size of trucking companies in Canada has expanded to such an extent that some companies now operate as many as 1,000 vehicles.

Controversial program to be offered in some B.C. schools

This is the sixth in a series of articles by The Minister of Education describing the new senior secondary school curriculum.)

By The Hon. L. R. PETERSON
Minister of Education

Probably the most controversial of the new programs starting in September is that designed to provide basic education leading to either employment or further training in the visual and performing arts.

The Visual and Performing Arts Program has been criticized on the grounds that there is no employment for persons trained at the secondary school level in these fields, and that such training opens no doors to further training. Both criticisms are ill-founded. Investigation has shown a wide variety of occupations in sales, technical and design fields applying to art. Existing vocational schools do give advanced art training and so will the new community colleges. In music and drama the existing sources of further training are less numerous but the future will see them develop.

Frankly, I do not expect many schools to offer the whole Arts Program in the immediate future. Some will though, and others will have some of the courses available as electives for students who have a personal interest in the subjects.

Where the whole program is given students will take the same general education constants as all other senior secondary students — two courses in English, one in social studies and one in health and physical education.

The program constants consist of a general business course relating largely to commercial law and one course in the fine arts at the Grade XI level. This course must be taken from another specialty to the one the pupil is taking to create a better understanding of the interrelation of the arts.

The three specialties in the Visual and Performing Arts Programme are art, music and theatre. Each specialty requires six courses in addition to the general education and programme constants.

In the art specialty the six consist of courses covering the theory and history of art, drawing and painting, and applied commercial and graphic design. The musical specialties include two courses in musicianship, two in instrumental survey and two in either choral, orchestra or band work. The theatre specialty, for those who want a background which will lead to further training aimed at a career in theatre or television, provides courses in acting, stagecraft, theatre background, writing and directing.

Values of the individual courses in all specialties of the Arts Programme go far beyond the narrowly vocational. Students who wish to develop their own aesthetic appreciation may be well advised to take one or more senior courses chosen from the field in which their chief interest lies, as electives. Skill developed may be of only personal or recreational value but will nevertheless contribute to the total education of the individual.

Some courses may be of distinct value in quite a different career. The potential teacher, for example, will find courses in any of the three specialties of great benefit.

It is the vocational aspect of the arts that has been stressed, however, at this level. This is done in the firm belief that the artistic world offers occupations at many levels of developments and that opportunities in it are certain to increase as the work-day becomes shorter and man more affluent.

CENTENNIAL MEMOS
In November 1865 a miner named Martin tried to take $1,000 in gold dust out of British Columbia without paying the export tax. He asked an Indian woman to carry it aboard a Victoria-bound ship. Government agents found it hidden in her clothing and it was confiscated.

Valley couple exchange vows at St. Paul's United Church

On August 6th at 7 p.m. Lorraine Joyce Krasuin of Summerland and Roland Alfred Martin of Kelowna were united in marriage at St. Paul's United Church in Kelowna. Rev. F. H. Golightly was the officiating clergyman. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle Mr. Allan J. Gould. The bridesmaid was Beverly Bye of Summerland and the groomsmen Garth Rizzieto of Kelowna.

The bride chose a bouffant floor-length gown of peau de soie with round neck and lily point sleeves. She wore a shoulder-length veil held by a rhinestone coronet. Her only jewelry was her mother's pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of red velvet roses and white stephanotis.

The bridesmaid wore a waltz length gown of pink lace with bodice of peau de soie. A reception for about 30 people was held at the future home of the young couple. Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Martins, the groom's parents, of Abbotsford; Miss Linda Grundland of Port Coquitlam; Mrs. E. Lausen and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gould and daughters, Mrs. F. Healy, Miss Sheron Elliott and Dorothy Inglis, all of Summerland; and Miss Patsy Jackett of Penticton.

ORCHARD RUN by Wally Smith

Welfare for Fruit Growers

No formula has as yet been announced for the distribution of a cash grant to distressed Okanagan fruit growers who suffered heavy losses following last December's sub-zero freeze.

Growers have been assured some help will be forthcoming through a joint effort by provincial and federal governments, but as to the size of the grant, the only figure mentioned is $4 million by the provincial government if Ottawa will match it.

That adds up to $8 million, or an average of almost $2300 for each of the 3500 fruit growers in the valley.

Obviously it would not be a fair division to cut up this huge pie into equal pieces of $2300 and hand one to each grower.

There are growers with just one or two acres, and other growers with 20 or 30 acres; some with even larger acreage. There are growers who depend entirely upon farm income, and other growers who receive a regular and substantial pay cheque from away from the farm employment and just play around with a few acres of fruit.

This poses the question: What is a fruit grower? When is a man who grows fruit not a fruit grower in the sense that fruit growing is his occupation?

There has been a suggestion that the cash grant be distributed on a basis of the individual grower's returns from the 1965 crop as compared with his average returns for the last few years.

This begins to approach a basis of equity, but it could still be far from an equitable solution for many growers.

For example, the man with a 5-year block of peaches has received virtually no returns from them since they were planted. He would therefore receive little or nothing as his share of the $8 million cash grant despite the fact that his peach trees would have produced a good crop this year had it not been for the big freeze.

Growers who lost heavily because of spring frosts these past two or three years are in a similar position. Their average returns stack up very small, so they will get little of the cash grant if based entirely on past returns.

Then there is the grower with old peach trees past their prime, going down hill fast and due for removal. His trees would not have produced more than half a crop even under the best of weather conditions, but under the past performance formula this grower will receive a substantial sum of money based on a full crop.

What will we do about the grower who has been selling half or more of his crop over the fruit stand or to a fruit stand operator?

Packing house returns show this grower with very little crop during the past few years. Will his share of the cash grant be based on his packing house figures, or will it be based on fruit returns as shown on his income tax report... if he has one?

Pears and prunes are down in production this year; also apples in some orchards. Extreme winter temperatures can affect these winter crops, but even under normal winter conditions there can be a wide fluctuation in yield from year to year.

This year there are apple orchards in the Oliver district carrying their largest crop in years, and other apple orchards nearby with a very light crop. Who is to say the light crop is a normal condition following two or three years of heavy production, or whether the light crop is the result of last December's freeze and therefore this grower should get a fat slice of the government cash grant?

There are men who own orchards, hire help for all the orchard work, and are themselves employed in another occupation. Some of these people receive a very handsome income from their year-round employment. In some cases the wife is also employed away from the farm, either part or full time.

If the government grant is for the relief of distressed growers, could these people properly be called financially distressed?

Is it quite all right to hand over public money to people not in distress just because they happen to dabble in the same business as other people who are suffering real distress?

These questions bother me, and I daresay they bother the committee responsible for the distribution of the government cash grant if and when it comes through.

The grant alone will not be sufficient to finance an orchard re-building program so badly needed by a majority of growers in all districts. Such a program will require much larger sums of money.

I think an interest-free or low interest loan would do everything for the grower the cash grant is expected to do in the way of immediate financial relief, and at the same time it would avoid most of the awkward problems associated with a cash grant paid out to all growers.

NATURE'S SCRAPBOOK

Dogs will die in about five days without sleep. On the whole, there is little bed making among birds and animals. An exception is the gorilla, which goes to a lot of trouble making its nightly nest, although it rarely sleeps in the same place two nights in succession. A small man could sleep with comfort in one of these one-night stands. In the famous Munich Zoo, monkeys were supplied with a blanket each to see what they would do with them. The animals soon learned to use them just as human beings do, and one of the popular sights of this Zoo was for visitors to view the monkeys wrapped up in their civilized bed-covers.

Fall Fair fun is arranged

Eric Tait said the entertainment committee has their department all lined up for the Summerland Fall Fair. There will be programs on Friday and Saturday nights September 10 and 11.

Previous to the Queen Crowning ceremony the Pentiction City Band will play for an hour. This band, which has won high acclaim throughout the country is no stranger to the community.

To give the evening a Scottish flavor, there will be two pipers on hand, piping the Queen to her throne.

All this will be held in the arena which will be housing a capacity number of exhibits.

On Saturday evening, the entertainment will start off with Terry Parrott's Accordion Band as there are many younger children members of that group.

This will be followed by the Pentiction branch of the British Columbia Dragoons Pipe Band.

To add variety, Mr. and Mrs. Shane Mihalick will entertain with a few Western numbers.

GLOWING EYES IN DARK

One of the commonest subjects for argument around the campfire is the question, "Why do some creature's eyes glow when darkness falls?" The light is not like the miner's headlamp that guides his steps. On the contrary, the owner of the gleam has no knowledge of it and the gleams differ greatly in color and size. The coon's light is yellow, the coyote's golden, as are some of the bears', and the wildcat's gleam is green. Even the reptiles may show an orange glow and the stork gives out a silver gleam. Creatures that hunt in the dark may be carrying a beam for their mate or their young. No other reason can be given, for the light should not reveal the hunter. The different glows are interesting, but they seem to be of no benefit to the wanderers in the dark.

THE DIFFERENCE between these two children is striking. Yet only a short time ago, the happy well fed boy looked exactly like his miserable counterpart. The miracle was performed by the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, a voluntary overseas relief agency. USC Headquarters at 56 Sparks Street, Ottawa 4, is currently appealing for $840,000 in funds and gifts in kind to help more of the world's children.

Summerland Fair book reaches out to cover the vicinity

The Summerland Fall Fair books have been distributed in quantity to neighboring communities again this year.

Fair book chairman Scottie Ritchie has mailed 600 to rural routes out of Penticton as well as over 100 to each of the Peachland and Westbank.

Business places in Summerland have them on display as well so there should be no difficulty for anyone wishing one to obtain one. Twelve hundred were distributed in Summerland.

Rotary head expresses gratitude for good attendance

Summerland was well represented at the official visit of the president of Rotary International to Kelowna on Friday night.

According to District Governor Ted Atkinson, all clubs of the district were represented but one. District 507 extends from Kamloops into Washington.

The international president, Dr. C. P. H. "Sput" Teenstra is from Holland and comes from farming parents. After graduating in the field of medicine he spent some time as a surgeon on ships to the Orient.

He met his wife, who is of Swedish descent, on one of these trips and when they married he started work in a TB Sanatorium in Holland where he was responsible for increasing the bed capacity from a 40-bed hospital to 250.

He was introduced to a crowd of 325 consisting of Rotarians and their wives by District Governor Ted Atkinson. Dr. Teenstra has been a member of Rotary since 1940 and has attended 75 district conferences all over the world.

He spoke in very fluent English with an accent he claimed to be "somewhere between a Texas drawl and an Oxford stutter".

His command of the English language was brilliant and made many feel slightly ashamed when it came to singing the Netherlands National Anthem that they couldn't even follow it on the printed program let alone read or sing it.

"I wanted to visit Canada," he said, "because I have a strong recollection of the last month of the war when the Canadians liberated us."

He stressed that this and every other organization should "pay more attention to international problems. The world is getting smaller every day and we are becoming more and more dependent on each other."

He encouraged the clubs to continue their active community participation but not to forge the needy countries of the world such as India. He told the members that "not only is it a right and a privilege to be a member of this organization—you also have an obligation to the community and to the world."

District Governor Atkinson made a presentation to the

Legion's annual picnic Sunday

Some over a hundred attended the annual picnic sponsored by the Summerland Branch of the Canadian Legion at Powell Beach Sunday.

Sports from baseball to horseshoe were featured under the direction of Mill Milne. Sandy Caldwell was in charge of the program with the help of Mrs. Phil Smith.

A highlight of the afternoon was when Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hickson were presented with gifts in appreciation of services rendered during their stay in Summerland. The Legion and their Auxiliary each made presentations.

Mr. Hickson is the former secretary-manager of the Summerland Legion and is now holding that same position in Mission City.

He took over there on July 1.

President, and Mrs. Atkinson to Mrs. Teenstra.

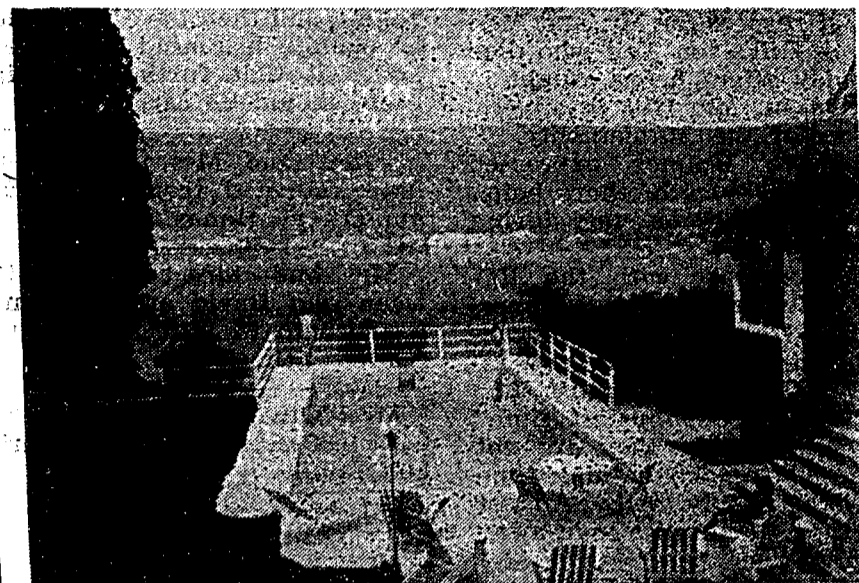

MC for the evening was the Kelowna president Ted Dodd.

After asking members from the various points to stand up he expressed his appreciation towards them all, but especially to those from across the border who travelled so far.

Premier Bennett was invited to the gathering but expressed his regrets by wire that he was unable to attend.

Rotary members were present from Saskatchewan, Alberta, Washington — and even one stood up who was from England—besides the good turnout from B.C. clubs.

them run at night when they chase chickens and livestock." Councillor Barkwill said "We must be strict but fair to both sides".

DANGEROUS DUGOUT

Superintendent Blackburne reported that he had been inside a cave dug by children undermining the entrance to Peach Orchard Cemetery.

"I wasn't happy to go in" he said, "but I did and measured it and it is 15 feet high and the road is cracking above it."

He suggested they use a back-hoe and break it down and repair it. This will be done.

The municipal crew will not work on Wednesday morning out of respect for Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Hill's son Neil who died Monday after being caught in a cave in Mr. Hill is an employee of the Municipality.

Reeve Holmes expressed concern because of there being one less RCMP on staff during August.

The contract with the RCMP calls for two for Summerland and one for the unorganized district. One man was taken to Penticton August 1.

"This is our busiest time" the Reeve said, "they are not supposed to take holiday time off during July and August and then they pull a man away from us."

REZONING CONSIDERED

Council will negotiate with property owner Mrs. Amour and the prospective builder before further action is taken to rezone an area between the golf course and baseball park for a motel.

District Planner Northey did not recommend that any action be taken until more notice of intent to build is evident.

He also said he did not approve of zoning one specific area without having an overall plan. He referred to this as "spot zoning".

He said the developer should have all his plans laid out before council and drawings of what he intends to do.

Reeve Holmes, who has spent many hours with the developer, said you couldn't expect a man to go and spend a lot of money before he is given a reasonable assurance that it will be rezoned.

"The area in question is no good for agriculture and he wants to spend something like $125,000 to $150,000 for a motel and we should be able to take advantage of it. We must be able to give him some assurance that we will rezone it."

Holmes said.

Northey said the cost of roads and services must be taken into consideration. "This is a policy issue, not a specific one", he explained. "Where would he build one, tell me that?" the Reeve asked. Northey pointed out that an area on Beggs property has been designated and "judging from the interest shown in the past seven years for motel building it would appear that this is adequate."

"If we go along for the next seven like we have for the last seven we still won't have anything", Mr. Holmes suggested.

He did agree that he didn't want the situation of them rezoning and then have the builder change his mind however, and felt that further negotiations should be carried out.

S'm'land wins tennis match

Sponsored by the Summerland Athletic Association, tennis division, a match between juniors of Summerland on one side and Naramata on the other, was played in Naramata Wednesday.

Previous to this the top four junior players were ranked by matches at both centres.

In Summerland, Lindsay Strachan defeated Dave Stuart 6-1, 6-3 and in the final match Lindsay Strachan defeated Bob Stuart 6-1 and 6-2.

Playing for Naramata were Ted Ritchie, Paul Aikins, John Faure and Jane Ritchie.

The Summerland vs. Naramata contests were played on Mr. Fred Ritchie's court in the morning and on Mr. Carroll Aikins in the afternoon, both located in beautiful setting.

An enthusiastic audience of friends and relative of the players followed the games.

All matches were so well played the tourney took eight hours to play and at that two singles matches had to be called a draw having two sets, each side winning one and no time left to play the third deciding sets.

The tourney was so successful it will likely become a yearly event, amplified with a return match on the Summerland courts.

RESULTS
Singles—Ted Ritchie (N) defeated Bob Stuart (S) 6-1, 6-2; Lindsay Strachan (S) defeated Paul Aikins (N) 6-2, 6-2.

The draws: Jane Ritchie 6-4, Gina Storey 6-5, Dave Stuart 6-5, John Faure 6-4.

Doubles: Lindsay Strachan and David Stuart defeated Ted Ritchie and John Faure 6-5 and 6-2. Gina Storey and Bob Aikins 6-4, 3-5, 6-4. Thus Summerland won three matches and Naramata one.
