J. W. Jones, M.L.A., Is Not Satisfied With Water Act

South Okanagan's Member would Bring About Government Ownership at once.

Victoria.—“You cannot indefinitely pile bricks upon the settler's back and expect him to continue carrying the load,” said Mr J. W. Jones of South Okanagan in offering some criticism of the new Irrigation Bill in the House. The member pointed out that there were four classes to be considered in government legislation, and apparently none of them had been taken into account. They were the company shareholders, company bondholders, the water users, and the private investors who had loaned money on orchard mortgages.

Mr Jones said he was glad to know that Hon. Mr. Patullo proposed to tour the dry belt district during the coming summer. As a result it was to be hoped that the government would go ahead with its plank of government ownership of public utilities. The speaker detailed the history of progress in irrigation in the Okanagan, explaining that nearly three million dollars had been invested in the systems, some of which contained from thirty to forty miles of waterways. Since 1907, as a result of their establishment, remarkable progress had been made in the Valley, and shipments had risen from a few dozen cars to thousands of carloads of fruit and vegetables.

The position of the irrigation companies had been excellent until the arrival of the dull times accompanying the war outbreak. Then water revenues fell behind, land sales ceased, bond floatations were dropped, and some of the companies lost their sinking funds, which had been invested with concerns that crashed.

PRESENT POSITION.

At the present time, of the seventeen water systems in the Okanagan Valley, two were municipally owned, five were mutually owned by the land-holders, three of which were in difficulties; one was a water company and was in trouble, and nine were water and land companies combined. Of these latter five were in difficulty.

Mr Jones declared that the new bill imperilled the shareholders, bondholders and water-users. It meant that if the government guaranteed or loaned any money for repair purposes it took a first mortgage on private lands, served by the systems which was unfair to the landowners and the mortgage investors already holding charges. It also took first charge on the revenues of the company. In the clause providing for the confiscation of company systems there was apparently no protection for other bondholders or shareholders. Those people had invested money in an industry designed to increase production and should be given consideration. Government ownership was the only solution he thought. Under the proposed bill the position of the landholder served by a system in poor condition and requiring heavy expenditures would become unbearable.

“Who will bear the cost of repairs if the landowner does not pay?” asked Hon. Mr. Patullo.

“That is why I urge government ownership.”

“Who will pay for government ownership?” returned the minister. “I will be prepared to discuss

Will Erect New Office Building.

Bank of Montreal so Decides. Site Near Campbell Block.

The Bank of Montreal will commence at an early date the excavating preliminary to the erection of an office building on Lots 1 and 2 in Block 59 in the West Summerland sub-division. Information of the decision to erect its own office building, rather than lease premises, was received to-day by the local manager, Mr E. B. May, from the Inspector of B.C. Branches of the Bank of Montreal.

Plans are now being drawn by an architect in Montreal, and the intention is that operations will be commenced as soon as the necessary details are completed.

The site of the new bank building is the two lots on the corner just east of A. B. Elliott's store in the Campbell block, there being two 25 ft. lots between the latter and the new bank property. The lots were purchased from J. C. Wilson.

That the building will be of brick veneer and designed in the usual architectural style used in all the office buildings of this institution is the opinion formed by Mr May from the preliminary designs submitted. The building will be much like that of the Bank of Montreal office at Pictou, but with wider front.

A Business Change.

A transfer of business that has been under negotiation for some weeks was completed last week-end when the meat market operated for the past year or more by Coun. J. R. Campbell, was purchased by C. E. Rennie, who has been in charge of the store for eleven months.

As announced in his advertisement, Mr Rennie will devote his whole time to the retail business, and will keep the store open during the usual shopping hours.

According to the recent statement of Hon. Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, the total vote for war measures for the past year was $10,050,000,000, and since the war began, $18,960,000,000.

that question with you when you bring in a government ownership proposal,” said Mr Jones.

LIST OF EVIL RESULTS.

He went on to say that in several cases complete repairs were necessary and storage reservoirs would have to be provided. The burden was too heavy for the companies at the present time, owing to conditions over which they had no control; and the load was also too great for the landholders, many of whom were not obtaining adequate returns as yet. He prophesied that the bill would crush the companies, provide nothing for reconstruction, stop private enterprise in the development of dry belt areas, eliminate the chances of the companies selling bonds, indicate that obligations to bondholders were not being dealt with in an honorable way, thus hurting future bond sales of other provincial interests, municipal and otherwise, put in a secondary place the present land mortgages held by investors, add additional charges upon the lands of water users without their consent, force the water companies to increase their rates and fail to provide any adequate means for rate collection.

Dr K. C. McDonald of Vernon moved the adjournment of the debate.

Road Repairs Greatly Needed

Board of Trade Members will Again Give Assistance.

Better Lighting Is Still Live Subject.

Will Ask Council to Install Street Lights and Help With Sign Posts.

Good roads, better lighted streets, direction and danger signs, and the policy of our provincial and municipal governments towards municipal roads were discussed at some length at a well attended meeting of the Board of Trade on Tuesday evening at Hotel Summerland.

One outcome of the talk on roads was the offer of volunteer work for improving the Doherty hill at the upper end of Prairie Valley. This road, leading, as it does, to points outside the municipality, it was pointed out by R. V. Agur, has been considered in the past a trunk road, and as such has been kept up by the province. Several car owners present, and also Mr Wheeler of the Summerland Lumber Company, told of the impassable condition of the Doherty hill, and Mr Wheeler offered to send a team for two days to help repair it. Messrs. English and Agur also offered similar assistance for a day each, provided the Municipality gave aid and took charge of the work. A committee, including the two councillors present, Couns. Johnston and English, were named to go further into the matter with the Council.

Councillor Johnston told the Board that all the time that the team could be spared from the hauling of lumber to build flumes was being put on the roads. The present shortage of funds prevented the Council doing much needed road work now, just when the most could be accomplished. He said the Council would gladly co-operate in any work undertaken by volunteers.

A letter from Mun. Clerk Logie was read in which he stated that the Council could not accede to the request of the board that some nine lights be put at places considered dangerous for night driving, as all the spare power would be needed to supply current for the proposed extensions to the domestic service. This reason was not very well received, the president stating that had the council pleaded shortage of funds it would have been better received, and could have been met in part by private assistance with the labor, etc. He had been advised that the current needed for those few extra street lights would be a small matter, and, in fact, could be nearly made up by shutting off the lights in the bandstand.

That the citizens should first be protected before private houses are supplied was the opinion of S. M. Young.

Mr Agur also favored the proper lighting of the streets first. This, he said, would enable those who have no prospects of current to their homes to enjoy some of the privileges of the municipal plant.

G. A. MacLaine, W. H. Haynes, and R. E. White were named a committee to get further information on the subject and put it before the council.

The subject of erecting posts at forks and corners of our roads, and danger signs at inconvenient positions approaching dangerous turns, or other places where caution is advisable had been discussed at previous meetings.

Not Enough Dairy Cows

Incomplete Data Leads to This Conclusion.

Creamery and Jam Factory Discussed.

Well Attended Meeting of Board of Trade Consider a Number of Live Subjects.

Prospects for the early establishment here of a creamery and for the reopening of the jam factory were two of the topics of discussion at the regular meeting of the Board of Trade on Tuesday evening at Hotel Summerland.

Considerable data had been received as to the number of cows in the district, and quite a few ranchers gave assurance that they would keep from two to ten milkers if a creamery were established. Superintendent Helmer of the Experimental Station had gathered together much valuable information on the cost of a suitable plant, and of the cost of operating a creamery. It was very apparent that there is keen interest in the movement, and that many of the ranchers are anxious to have a creamery in operation here. That there are not yet enough cows in the district was the conclusion reached, though there was not sufficient information to indicate what increase might reasonably be expected within the next year or so with the young stock now coming in.

That it is now too late to obtain the services of a good process man was the opinion of one wholesale creamery concern which had been asked to operate the jam factory. Wagstaff, Ltd., a large eastern concern which buys a quantity of our apricots, and is now considering operating at Creston, will be communicated with.

Among the correspondence read was a letter from Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, replying to a request that the lakeshore road from Trout Creek to Crescent Beach be repaired. He stated the government had no funds for this work, and inclined to the opinion that as it is within the municipal limits the road should be kept up by the municipality. However, he said, that the policy of giving assistance in such cases was being considered.

The secretary reported receiving a number of inquiries for literature descriptive of the district, and regretted he had no suitable matter to hand out. F. D. Cooper and Postmaster Hayes made similar reports. With the material assistance of W. C. Kelley and R. H. Helmer the special committee appointed for the purpose had compiled considerable information in a report to be used in support of Summerland's claim to be the logical place as the site for the up-country Agricultural College. Another committee will take this information and arrange it preparatory to getting out a descriptive folder for distribution.

Daylight saving was again endorsed, although some opposition developed. The Council will be asked to bring about the change to be put into effect from April 15th to October 1st.

A membership committee was appointed. Last year there was a membership of about an even 100, and it is desired to increase the membership to 125 in 1917. Messrs O. F. Zimmerman, G. L. McWilliams, and J. Tait are the membership committee.

The Union Bank is closing its branch in Vernon.

Car Turns Over On Passengers.

Miraculous Escape when Auto Rolls off Roadside.

Five passengers of a touring car homeward bound late on Saturday night had a most unpleasant accident and a miraculous escape from death or serious injuries. The car was the new one purchased by T. B. Young, and was being driven by him up the hill past T. J. Garnett's, and with him was his wife, his parents, and Miss Isabel Stewart. He had almost reached the summit on “intermediate” when, finding that the car would not make the grade he threw out the clutch and attempted to apply the brake, while throwing the engine into low gear. The brake failed, and immediately the car began to roll back down the hill. In the dilemma, Mr Young says, he made other attempts to hold the car, but it quickly left the road and turned completely over, pinning his wife and mother, who had been sitting in the car rear seat, beneath the car where they were held till, by a supreme exertion of strength, Mr Young lifted one side of the car high enough to let them out. Not one of the five received any injuries worth speaking of. Mr Young explains the accident by stating that the pedal of the foot brake had not been properly adjusted and brought up on the floor of the car every time he attempted to depress it. The wind shield, the steering gear and mud guards were considerably damaged.

Escapes New Pruning Knife.

Appropriation For Agriculture Will Stand.

One governmental department which will probably not feel the effects of the provincial executive's pruning knife in the course of its economical budget provisions is that of agriculture. It has been conceded that on account of the size of this province, and the extensive scope of the technical and educational work undertaken, that the approximate $100,000 annual cost of this department (including the salaries, travelling expenses, etc., of some 25 expert officials) is not excessive, especially by comparison with some other departments which run into an annual cost of millions.

The Provincial Department of Agriculture is regarded as one of the most economically operated in the entire Dominion, and while expense estimates of other departments are known to have been subjected to some extensive cuts in preparation for the budget, it is believed that the work of agriculture will not be curtailed by any lessening of the annual apportionment. In addition to the $100,000 annual cost to the province, the department receives an additional federal grant of about $45,000, but to offset this is the fact that several salaries are carried by the department under the federal grant.

Advocate Change In the Basis for Representation

Local Unions' Control of Central Based on Tonnage. Value Basis Urged.

What is the most equitable form of representation for the locals on the Central Board of Directors? Shall it be one director for each local? This is claimed by some to be the only method of carrying out the true principles of co-operation. Or shall representation be according to the tonnage handled by Central for the various locals? This is in accordance with the original arrangement, but does not meet with general favor. Still another plan, and one that has a number of supporters, is that representation should be according to the value of the output of each local. As at present a ton of hay commands as much power in the management of the Okanagan United Growers as does a ton of cherries.

Mr E. R. Simpson, President of the Summerland Fruit Union, and one of the shareholders in the Central, strongly favors the plan of representation according to the value of the output of each local. The following figures, showing the value of the crop handled by the Central last season for each local union, was kindly furnished the Review by Mr Simpson. The number of shareholders in the Okanagan United Growers and number of directors to which each local is entitled are also shown:

	Shareholders	Directors
Vernon	$273,760.45	6 2
Kelowna	166,245.32	6 2
Summerland	74,095.19	3 1
Penticton	56,216.48	2 1
Peachland	31,129.92	1 1
Armstrong	28,478.63	6 2
Salmon Arm	22,211.71	2 1
Enderby	6,846.98	1 1
Tappan	4,236.95	1 1

The vexed question was discussed at considerable length by the shareholders at their recent annual meeting, and was finally left to a committee of the full board to bring in a report on the subject. It was pointed out by Mr McDowell, who proposed that the Okanagan United Growers seek Dominion charter, that under such charter the number of directors would be limited to fifteen. It will be seen that with any great extension of the organization some of the smaller or the contiguous locals would need to unite on a director.

At the first meeting of the new Central Directors, F. W. Rolt advocated the placing of the auditor's report and the financial statement in the hands of all contract holders not less than fourteen days before the annual general meeting of the shareholders. His motion to this effect was adopted.

when Mr Hale noticed a roaring sound which he attributed to the draft of the stove, and was shutting this off when he discovered a spark on the ceiling. The noise quickly increased. Going outside he was shocked to find the roof and all the upper part of the house ablaze, and when he returned to the living room it too was on fire, and there was only time enough to save two or three articles.

It is believed the fire started from a spark on the roof, and must have been well under way when Mr Smith was walking on his way home.

Fortunately for the sufferers the loss is partly covered by insurance, Mr Hale having put on insurance last fall when he tried to enlist a thousand dollars on the house and four hundred on the contents.

THE WAR—THE CHURCHES—THE KINGDOM.

THE WAR IS DOING in a few years more than the same number of centuries might have failed to accomplish had the world continued under pre-bellum conditions. The dreams of many social leaders are being speedily realized. One has only to cite the almost bloodless revolution in Russia, and England's promise to grant the franchise to women to show the rapidity with which these things are now being brought to pass.

In the world of thought, religious and spiritual, changes are now equally rapid. Just recall, if you can, how the following would have been received by your good old orthodox father or grandfather of but a few years ago. Thus writes an army chaplain:

"We fellows know no denominationalism in the army. We worship together, pray together, commune together, and no questions are asked. The brotherhood of the army is a wonderful thing. And the men at heart are essentially religious. But how little the churches seem to understand them! Here are thousands of men, rough on the exterior, many of them, yet with a profound reverence for our Lord; approachable, self-sacrificing even to life itself for a comrade in distress, unselfish to the dividing of their last shilling, manly and brave in the defense of everything that we as a nation hold dear. And yet, oh the pity of it! The churches have but little place for them because they fail to subscribe to certain hidebound theological tenets. When will we wake up to the fact that it was not a church that our Lord came to establish, but a Kingdom, and in that Kingdom I am not sure that He meant that we must pronounce the same 'Shibboleth.' I cannot write you all that is in my heart about this, but the churches back home should be made to realize that the 300,000 or 400,000 Canadian men who will return to Canada after this awful struggle is over will shape the destiny of the nation and of the churches for weal or woe for generations to come. . . . The churches must have leaders, leaders who are in touch with men as well as with God; leaders who are not slaves of mechanical organizations, of traditions or ruts, or fearful of enterprise in new departures. Men who are in touch with their times; who have caught the Christ vision of humanity at large; who are not afraid to do their own thinking, and to phrase their thinking in their own words."

Are our churches as at present constituted going to measure up to the task that is before them? Conditions can never be the same as before the war. Will our churches throw off the non-essentials and elevate the one great reason for their existence. The leaven is at work. It is essential that it work quickly, else there is danger of the whole being discarded or so discredited that another reformation will be necessary to reinstate the church—"the Kingdom"—in the minds, hearts and souls of thinking people.

PERPETUAL DAYLIGHT SAVING.

FROM THE LIVELY REPORT which has just been issued by the Committee on Daylight Saving we learn that it recommends the adoption of daylight saving in perpetuity, but with some slight changes as compared with last year. The alteration in time is to come into force earlier and to cease earlier. The earlier the better, and we hope that the necessary act will be passed at once. The only casualties last year from the adoption of this great reform were among striking clocks, whose owners, when the country returned to Greenwich time, in Hun fashion, forgot that neither machines nor man can be made to progress backward without injury.

So greatly did the gain of daylight recommend itself that it was adopted by all the states of western Europe and by Italy and Portugal. Even the Hun introduced this conventional form of time, thus doing homage to a purely British idea. The people who used to say, nine years ago, that daylight saving was one of those things which can't be done would do well to study the chorus of praise which is embodied in this report. It is the fullest possible justification of one of our numerous campaigns in the remote ages before the war.—Daily Mail.

A SUGGESTION MADE to the municipal committee of the provincial house that municipalities be empowered to borrow on lands which had been bought in at tax sales has met with the approval of that committee, and is likely to be embodied in a bill amending the municipal act. Now, while unpaid taxes may be put up as security for loans, there is no power to so hypothecate these lands.

Makes Appeal For Co-Operation

The following is a verbatim report of an address given by Mr William Dryden at the annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Peachland Fruit Growers' Union, in which the speaker emphasized a number of reasons for co-operative selling of Peachland's fruit crop.

Mr Chairman and Shareholders:

Might I have the privilege of saying a few words on the question so vital to every one present, that of getting the best possible price to the grower for his fruit.

The condition of the fruit marketing in this Valley prior to the inauguration of the co-operative movement is ancient history, not very palatable to the growers.

Conditions since then have vastly improved, if we except the disastrous year 1914. The outbreak of the war in that year tied up the export trade of the East with the Old Country, consequently the Eastern crop was placed on the Western markets causing a complete disorganization throughout the whole of the markets chiefly supplied from British Columbia.

I say if we accept that bad year, conditions have been better for the fruit grower in this province than they ever were before.

The private shipping concerns have been forced to pay better prices to the growers, so that those who do not ship through a local union receive to a great extent the benefit of the co-operative organization.

The co-operative organization labor under the disadvantage of having to make public their returns, while on the other hand private concerns and individuals do not do so, making it difficult to get reliable information in regard to actual returns.

This is the time for the growers to discuss matters pertaining to the management of their business, and I feel sure the directors will welcome all kinds of suggestions and criticism for the betterment of the growers. Good healthy criticism is helpful in many ways, and nothing but good can accrue from it, provided it is done in the right spirit.

Misrepresented statements, innuendo, malice and selfish motives will never accomplish anything but harm. I personally would like to see this community united with the one object in view, that of working for the benefit of all.

This cannot be accomplished without some sacrifice by the individual, chiefly the setting aside of self, which is sometimes a very hard task. The question of the exorbitant charges for the packing, handling, and selling of fruit have been freely discussed prior to this meeting, in fact one grower made the statement to myself that the charges amounted to 40 per cent. I asked this grower if he had included the 3 per cent retained for the reserve fund in the 40 per cent, and he said he had. This of course is wrong, the amount retained is repaid at the end of three years with interest at the rate of 4 per cent, added thereto, therefore the 3 per cent, must be deducted from the 40 per cent, leaving the total cost at 37 per cent.

Compare this with a grower who packs his own fruit and sells it through a private concern. The box, paper, nails have to be bought, the apples packed and made ready for shipment. The cost to the grower will be, at the very least, 25 cents per box, and the grower's time for nailing up thrown in. No commission house will handle such fruit under a 10 per cent basis, some 15 per cent. Take the 10 per cent, house, and add the packing of 25 cents, this will give 35 per cent on a one dollar a box f.o.b.

Therefore we have, allowing the grower to throw in part of his time nailing up, a difference of 2 per cent on a price of one dollar a box. The co-operator has the benefit of receiving a larger sum for the better varieties of apples that is not usual in selling to the general run of private buyers.

I would suggest to the directors that if any grower wishes to pack his crop at home, that he be allowed to do so, and earn for himself the amount charged for packing, etc.

By providing the grower with a number to stamp on his boxes any claim made on his fruit through bad packing or inferior fruit could be traced and he held responsible.

I feel sure that should this concession be made to the growers, they would not be found wanting in integrity in keeping up the present high standard of British Col-

Preparing For The Fall Fair.

For the purpose of revising the prize list a special committee was appointed by the Agricultural Association some little time ago. That committee, which is as follows: R. H. Helmer, C. Craig, H. Bristow, R. C. Lipsett, and W. M. Wright, met last week and completed a part of their work, that part of the list pertaining to live stock. Another meeting will be held shortly to further the work.

The Provincial Department of Agriculture recently prepared a model prize list for the guidance of the various local exhibition societies, and this is being followed this year, varying it to meet local conditions.

The Agricultural Association have proposed to the Women's Institutes that they join with them in holding a combined exhibition. There is every likelihood that this plan will be adopted.

vious meetings of the board. Another step towards attainment was made on Tuesday night. B. L. Hatfield, of the Summerland Garage, has promised to put up two or three signs on the outskirts of the district, and Postmaster Hayes will put a sign on the Post Office upon condition that the other signs are erected. A committee, Messrs MacLaine, Hatfield, and Solly, were named to wait on the council and request assistance.

Onions are a grand specific for the complexion. They should be boiled whole in milk—drink the latter—or steamed, and eaten with bread and butter and cheese. Then they make a satisfying and nutritious meal, on which you can do brain work or manual labor. Try onions! The taste and after-smell? A mouthful of hot coffee takes away both.

umbia fruit. I speak from an unbiased standpoint, and personally wish to see the grower get the best possible price for his crop, but the grower must not forget that he has a duty to perform by co-operating one with the other for the benefit of all.

Increased tonnage means less charges, and less charges mean more money to the grower.

The growers have had an opportunity placed before them in reference to the possibility of having the Cannery in operation this year, provided they rise to the occasion and provide the crop required.

Mr Leeson said he was prepared to also include an evaporating plant in order that the cannery could be operated during the greater part of the year.

This concern is backed by a sound financial house who are prepared to pay cash on delivery should the growers wish settlement along these lines.

This proposition is worthy of the very best consideration of not only the growers of the district but of every responsible person in the place. Let us as a community rise to the occasion, and in the words of the poet Milton,

"Accuse not Nature; she hath done her part, Do thou but thine."

"The Country Doctor"

The announcement that the St Andrew's Ladies' Aid are planning to present another of their laughable plays on the evening of Easter Monday, will bring to mind the success which attended their previous efforts in this particular line. Last year "The Minister's Bride" was presented, and before that there was the "Meeting of the Old Time Ladies' Aid at the Mohawk Cross Roads," both of which proved huge successes. "The Country Doctor" to which the ladies are now giving the final rehearsals is by the same author as the two other plays mentioned above, and of the same bright nature. There are a dozen or so characters, and the complicated situations they enter into give rise to no end of merriment. The drift of the play concerns the experiences of a young doctor who establishes himself in a country town. Before long he finds himself captivated by the daughter of his landlady. Incidentally he cuts in on the attentions which a budding young lawyer is paying to the same young lady, and before the medical man wins his bride a wondrous maze of humorous developments transpire.

The play is being presented in the College Gymnasium on Easter Monday evening, April 9th, as announced in the advertising columns of this issue. The admission price has been placed very low, and it is not unreasonable to expect that there will be a big crowd on hand when the curtain goes up. The Ladies' Aid surely deserve a little commendation for the practice which they are seemingly following in making the presentation of a play of this nature an annual event.

Only the survivor really believes in the survival of the fittest.

Orchard and Farm: Topics of Timely Interest and Helpfulness in the complex Business of Farming.

To Grow Potatoes

Practical Hints by the Editor of "THE SMALLHOLDER."

Wise gardeners when they start growing potatoes turn their land over in the autumn and winter, and give the frost and air a chance to make the ground wholesome and sweet. They give the land opportunity to absorb sun heat, and, if they have a choice they select for their particular potato patch a nice sandy loam, although, of course, potatoes will grow in almost any soil, even clay. They break up the ground two feet deep if possible, smashing lumps, and producing as fine a tilth as they can, but they always take care to avoid bringing a poor sub-soil to the surface.

DOES IT REQUIRE LIME?

If the soil is too heavy they add road grit, burnt garden refuse, and decayed garden rubbish, so as to make it lighter; and if the land is otherwise poor, they also, early in the year, use liberal doses of farm-yard manure. Before they plant their potatoes they also take care to find out if lime be required. That is very easily ascertained by a simple chemical experiment. They fill a wine glass, or a cup, with the soil, add to it a little weak spirits of salts—that is hydrochloric acid—consisting of two parts water and one part acid. If there be effervescence, they know that the soil contains a sufficiency of lime if not they see that the soil is deficient, and take steps to lime it.

There is a very simple reason why they insist on deep cultivation for potatoes. All experts agree that this induces deep rooting, and that it enables more water to pass down freely in wet seasons than shallow dug land could possibly do. The roots find the manure below, and the sub-soil becomes greatly improved. They never lose sight of the fact that the potato came originally from Peru, and that it revels in heat, light (which produces starch), and air, but above all, demands moisture.

SEED POTATOES.

Practically every gardener just now is not only doing his best with his potato plot, but is putting his seed potatoes out in shallow trays in a light, cool place, safe from the frost, so that they may sprout. He knows that the ideal seed potato weighs 2 oz. or 3 oz.—in other words, is about as big as a hen's egg. If however, he finds some large tubers are included in his consignment of seed he cuts them in two, but takes care to leave each piece with two sprouts. If there are more than four eyes he rubs off all the weak ones, leaving not more than four.

THREE PLANTINGS.

Nowadays every gardener should make three plantings of potatoes—one early in March for a very early crop, another at the end of March for a mid-season crop, and a third the second week in April for a main or storing crop.

The advantages of splitting the planting season up in this way are many. In the first place, early crops are more valuable. In the second they occupy the land only a very short time, and the ground becomes again valuable for other crops. Nevertheless it must be recollected that to grow really good early potatoes the soil cannot be too rich or too well aerated or sweetened by exposure to the air, and the crops throughout must be carefully tended.

There are three popular methods of planting potatoes—with a dibber, in a drill, or by cutting out sections of the plot 3 in. to 5 in. deep, 16 in. apart, and in rows 2 ft. 6 in. apart. This last method is held to be the best. The work, however, is not then finished, as many suppose, by ridging up and by keeping the ground free from weeds. In cold districts and seasons it is a wise plan to draw soil over the shoots as they appear.

Hints On Orchard Spraying

BY BEN HOY.

No one orchard operation pays better than spraying, but large sums of money are sometimes lost, both from spraying too much and not spraying enough. Some of the causes of loss are—

Not knowing what the spraying is for.

Not having a thorough understanding of the pest to be destroyed.

Spraying at the wrong time.

Spraying with the wrong mixtures or mixing sprays that do not combine with each other.

Discarding old sprays for new, untried mixtures.

Use of improper outfits, wrong kind of nozzles, etc.

Lack of thoroughness.

There is not any single spray or any one time of the year for spraying that will control all of our orchard insects and fungus diseases.

The kind of spray to use, the number of times to spray and the correct time to apply the spray is governed by the type, life history, and habits of the pest to be destroyed, and to some extent by the species of tree attacked and weather conditions.

Lime sulphur, arsenate of lead and forty per cent nicotine sulphate (black leaf 40) and soap are the chief sprays used in this district and will control practically all of the orchard insects and diseases existing here that can be controlled by spraying.

Lime sulphur is useful in controlling the following pests found here: scale insects, apple scab, pear leaf blister mite, peach leaf curl, peach twig borer (found in apricots, peaches and prunes), and red spider.

Arsenate of lead is useful in controlling bud moth, pear and cherry slug, codling moth and practically all other leaf eating caterpillars.

Forty per cent nicotine sulphate (black leaf 40), and soap is effective in the control of aphids and summer spraying for scale and other sucking insects.

MIXING SPRAYS.

It frequently happens that the time to spray for some sucking or biting insect coincides with that for a fungus disease. It is therefore possible by combining certain sprays to make one operation do the work of two or three. Lime sulphur, arsenate of lead and black leaf 40 will all mix readily without impairing the efficiency of either one. Soap must never be used in any spray containing lime sulphur.

TIME TO APPLY SPRAYS.

For scale insects, peach twig borer, pear leaf blister mite, apply lime sulphur testing 32 degrees Baume, 1 gallon of lime sulphur to 9 gallons of water just before the buds open.

For apple scab: First spray, lime and sulphur 1-30 when the blossom clusters have expanded and the blossoms are showing pink. Second spray, lime sulphur 1-35 just after the petals have fallen. Third spray, lime sulphur 1-35 two to three weeks later. If aphids are present black leaf 40, 1/2 pint to 100 gallons of water, the above mixture may be added. For insurance against codling moth add arsenate of lead 2 lbs to 40 gallons when putting on the second or calyx spray.

For peach leaf curl, lime sulphur 1-9 two weeks before the buds swell.

For red spider, lime sulphur 1-80 when the insects become numerous.

For bud moth, arsenate of lead 2 lbs to 40 gallons water just before the buds open.

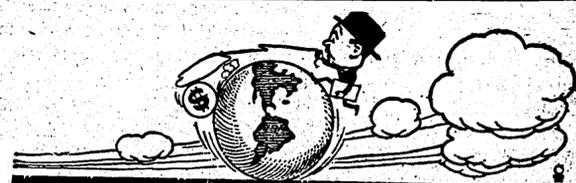

For codling moth, arsenate of lead 2 lbs. to 40 gallons water just after the petals fall.

For pear and cherry slug, arsenate of lead 1 lb. to 40 gallons of water when the insects first appear.

For aphides, black leaf 40, 1/2 pint and 4 to 5 lbs of soap to 100 gallons of water. When aphides first appear, usually with most species just as the buds are opening, is the most effective time to spray for them.

All sprays recommended above are well tried out, reliable sprays, but for good results high pressure must be used, and all parts of the trees thoroughly covered with the spray.

Anyone wishing further information about any of the above mentioned pests or any that are not mentioned, write your District Field Inspector or to the Horticultural Branch, Department of Agriculture, Kelowna.

Women's Institute Hold Successful Session.

The regular session of the local branch of the Women's Institute was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Unity Club parlors.

There was the usual sheaf of correspondence to handle, and the usual amount of business. Then followed the feature of the meeting, a good, sound, and thoroughly practical talk on "Poultry for Profit," by our well-known poultry man, John M. Schreck.

Mr Schreck showed how with a little care hens may be brought to lay at 5, 6, 7, and 8 months, when eggs are eggs. That is when nobody else can supply the market.

In concluding he made an offer to the ladies to cause to be hatched out in his incubator, young chicks which he will supply to the members of the Institute for the nominal sum of five cents each, limiting this to 15 chicks to any one person. Several of the ladies went home more determined than ever to have May chicks and December eggs.

Mr John McLean of Summerland was a visitor to town for a short time this week.

Mr J. M. Myers has the honor this year of turning the first sod. This occurred on Saturday at the fruit farm of Mr Fred Simpson.

Mr and Mrs Hunt, who have been looking after Rakadome ranch during the absence of the proprietor, Mr C. C. Atkins, will shortly return to their own ranch home at Glenmore near Kelowna.

An epidemic of la grippe appears to have hit upon Naramata citizens for its next batch of victims, to judge from the number of people at present laid up. Space and delicacy precludes the mentioning of names.

Friends of Harry J. Pitman will be pleased to learn that the report current here some weeks ago that the young soldier had lost an arm is not according to fact. He is still in hospital suffering from the effects of his wounds, and while it was feared that his arm might have to be amputated, it is now believed that recovery will be certain.

Mrs Panrucker and Mrs Mitchell of Alix, Alta., after several weeks stay in town took a trip out to the Coast this week, making New Westminster their permanent stopping place amongst friends of the latter. During their stay in Naramata the ladies were entertained at the home of Mrs Rayner. Before returning home it is likely that they will be back to Naramata for another short visit.

The formation of a local live stock association in order to introduce a pure bred stock of cattle, is one of the matters now engaging the attention of a number of citizens. It is hoped to secure the necessary signatures at an early date. The question is a community problem that should be solved at the earliest time, and this year would be a good year to make a start. Another community problem is that of the telephone. An effort should be made right away to get the telephone company to extend their system so as to serve a greater number. Manager Atkins of the Summerland Telephone Company was in town on Monday to attend to some pressing business in connection with the system.

Doings of Peachland

Mr W. L. Williams was a passenger to Kelowna on Thursday, returning home on Monday.

Mr J. Winger returned home from Demuth's mills on Thursday as the weather was too cold to do the work he went to do.

Mrs Roe of Naramata, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs Hughes, and her granddaughter, Miss Noyes, came up on Friday to visit her sister, Mrs H. McDougall. They returned home on Monday.

Mr J. McKinnon has contracted to grow 15 acres of tomatoes for the cannery.

Rev. A. Henderson of Summerland spent Friday in town arranging for care of his lot for the season.

G. Robinson made the trip to Penticton in his car on Friday.

Mr Stabler with his wife and daughter arrived on Friday night from Vancouver. Mrs and Miss Stabler have come for the summer, and Mr Stabler will be in town as often as his business allows. They have taken Mr Pope's cottage on the lakeshore road.

The Philathea Class met in the reading room of the Presbyterian Church on Friday evening. After the routine business had been transacted light refreshments were served consisting of apples and peanuts.

Mrs Clarence visited Summerland on Saturday returning on Sunday.

Mr A. Town returned from the Coast on Monday where he went as a delegate from Peachland to the Prohibition Convention in Victoria. He reports that the convention was a great success, and that it is generally felt that something will be forthcoming from the legislature as result of the meetings. One of the by-products of the convention was the meeting of old friends. On the return trip from Victoria to Vancouver he discovered in one of the delegates an old friend from his native town in Ontario whom he had not met for thirty years.

Mr Nuttall was a passenger south on Monday night on his way to Seattle.

Mr Cousins returned home from Penhold, Alberta, on Monday night and expects to spend the season on his ranch at Trepanier.

Owing to ill health Miss Whitworth was obliged to go to her home in Sardis, B.C. on Monday, for a complete rest. Her many friends wish for her a speedy recovery and return to school. Miss Leone Morrison is supplying for her during her absence.

School Board Meets

The regular monthly meeting of the School Board was held on Monday in the board room of the school. Miss Whitworth was granted leave for this week as there is a suspicion that she might be contracting typhoid fever. In the meantime the Board secured Miss Morrison as a substitute.

The following committees for the year were appointed on Monday: Finance—Hogg and Houston; Management—Central School—Hogg, Williams, and Town; Management—Trepanier School—Drought and Houston; Grounds and Property Committee—Central School—Williams and Hogg; Grounds and Property Committee—Trepanier School—Houston and Drought. The Finance Committee was authorized in the usual way to make payments for the Board.

The Management Committee was authorized to get earth hauled and prepare the grounds for planting.

The following trees and plants are to be sent in from the government nurseries: 14 trees, including 6 box, 2 cedars, retinospora and golden feather cedar (plumosa aurea); 18 roses—6 climbing roses and 12 ordinary; 24 columbines, 12 campanula, 12 delphinium (hardy larkspur), 12 funnkia (day lily), 12 spiraea.

Accounts were passed to the amount of $504.40.

A thing of beauty is a joy for ever, until the cost of it leaks out.

Current Events OF Town & District

To-morrow, being Good Friday, the school will be closed.

Mr E. R. Simpson of Summerland was a visitor to town and the district on Friday last.

Mr G. Hume of Kelowna spent the week-end at Naramata, returning to his home on Monday morning.

Tells Of Old Days In The Valley.

London Newspaper Prints Some Recollections.

In a recent number of the London Daily News appears an article, written by Frederick Niven, giving a rather picturesque description of Penticton, the writer claiming to have visited the town during its early days. The article, which is given a prominent position on the front page, has a good deal to say about the peaches grown in the district, and after a little general chat on the nature of the country, its inhabitants, and its real estate men, the writer goes on to discourse as follows:

Not many years ago, when I ambled through that country with blankets and frying-pan, flour and bacon (more to be mistaken for a hobo than for a tourist), there was no Peachland, there was no Summerland, and now there are landing stages for both of these obviously-named places, and one looks down from the stern-wheel steamer deck on a kaleidoscope of parasol tops and flounces, and on the crowds of many Stetsons or straws. There was a place called Kelowna even then, upon the east shore; but when people wished to refer to human habitation upon that side of the lake, they seldom mentioned Kelowna. It was just "Mission."

In these recent and yet how far-off days, the dust of milling cattle rose all day at round times on the rolling hills where now the peach blossom foams. Old-timers, with a sprinkling of kids from England, premiums paid by their folks at home—although the boys surely deserved wages, so keen were they—sparsely peopled the Valley, with their decorated "chaps" (Spanish Chaparreros), striped cotton jackets, and spurs a-jingling. The fringed leather chaps, or woolly ones, are certainly in the minority now.

As I pen this they may be gone wholly, so quickly does the west change. But I know the peaches as well as I know the punchers, and although I am the wrong person to write boosts for the real estate man, and can't tell how many tons of fruit they export, I know that the peaches are juicy. Eat one in the pagan fashion, and the juice runs down your chin and into your neck. Quality rather than quantity, I lean to; and the people who sell land talk in tons and dollars instead of in juice and sunshine.

A military journal relates the story of a Highlander who, on being shown over a man-o'-war for the first time in his life, was keenly interested in all he saw. The marines seemed particularly to impress him, and going up to one, he pointed to the badge on the marine's cap and asked him what it was. The marine, anxious to score off the visitor, looked at him in surprise. "Don't you know what that is?" he asked. "Why, that's a turnip, of course." "Man," replied the Scot, impatiently, "I wasna askin' about yer heid."

It will pay to make a careful test of all seed purchased this season, for much poor seed is on the market. The test is easily made by placing a few seeds of each variety between small sheets of blotting paper kept moist and in a warm corner. Dr W. H. Sutherland, M.L.A., for Revelstoke, in a speech last week in the local house, made a novel suggestion that should have consideration. He said that he would like to suggest to the Minister of Public Works that the government should take steps to secure from the C.P.R. their abandoned right-of-way between Revelstoke and Golden, which, with the construction of a few additional miles of road by the government, with that required between the former city and Malakwa, would make a through highway from Calgary to the Okanagan, and felt sure that this highway would be the most wonderful from a scenic standpoint, in America.

The Greenwood Ledge is not a large paper as papers go these days, but it is one of the landmarks of British Columbia journalism. It is in its twenty-fourth year, and at present consists of a single sheet printed on both sides. "Colonel" R. T. Lowery, its "editor and financier," is well-known throughout this end of Canada at any rate as a profound mining authority and a newspaper man whose style is best described by saying he invariably "calls a spade a spade," and doesn't say much more about it. He was recently cartooned in the Vancouver World "Popular Profile" series. The cartoonist's legend under the picture is very apt: "Knows whole lore of ore. Is a colonel by courtesy, more militant than military. Wields a pungent pen, in a crisp, racy and concise style. One of his obituary notices in full, read: 'Old Bill... died Christmas Eve. Too much booze.' Once described Phoenix as 'the place so near to heaven the people there can snowball the angels.' A prominent lady in Greenwood who sought a free advertisement of a church bazaar in The Ledge, because the funds aspired for 'were for the church,' was stunned to hear the response: 'Can't do it, can't do it. Our rate is fifty cents an inch straight—to saints or devils, and no discount.'"

An indication of "better times" is the statement that the hotels of Vancouver have experienced an increase of business of 50 to 100 per cent during the past year. These are good times for the creamery business. The capacity of the Grand Forks creamery is to be doubled, and the Kelowna creamery will be considerably enlarged.

An exchange says that the government is seriously considering not granting marriage licenses to "fit" young men, except on condition that they enlist.

The Advertised Store or Product Wins.

Before an audience of more than a hundred interested Manitoba retail merchants, Secretary Albert Myer, American National Association of Optometrists, delivered a highly instructive address recently on "The Standardization of Prices in Business," his remarks earning the comment from the president of the Manitoba Retail Merchants' Association that he "could not recall ever before having heard such an informative address in so short a time."

Dealing with the relations of manufacturer, retailer and consumer the speaker pointed out the serious loss of energy incurred by the retailer who elects to spend his time in pushing the sale of some unadvertised brand of product when the general public has already evidenced its confidence in and preference for the brand with which they are familiar. "How many of you would buy an anonymous make of automobile?" queried the speaker by way of emphasizing his remarks at this juncture. He traced the relation between increased volume of sales and the accompanying decreased unit cost to the consuming public.

As to whether or not the local retail merchant desired to retain his identity in any community the speaker thought it was largely a matter of individual choice.

It was unreasonable of the local merchant to expect his townfolk to bestow their patronage upon his store in preference to buying of the mail order house when the latter used aggressive advertising methods and the local merchant refused to advertise to his own people that he had the goods for them right at home.

In travelling the thousands of miles that his official duties occasioned, the speaker's observations had led him to conclude that the mail order houses made their greatest progress in those localities where the local merchant was indifferent to his own best interests—where the stores were poorly kept, poorly lighted, inanimate, and providing little of changing interest to those from whom their trade should logically be derived. He deprecated those practices of local merchants by which they encouraged the public to "sponge" upon them, to give free of just charge such services as must necessarily involve a great loss annually to the merchant himself, services which necessitated the investment of considerable sums of money in skilled labor, wages, in mechanical equipment, etc. "Let the customer understand what such a service entails to him," remarked the speaker, "and the vast majority of them are prepared to pay reasonably for it."

A Soldier Poet.

Life in the army has its effects on the civilian soldier according to his temperament. For one young Summerland Bantam it seems to have intensified his poetical proclivities. Here are only two of a number of his literary efforts that he has recently sent home:

Tho' the tide of the hours is rolling,
And the reaper's drawing nigh,
When the curfew starts its tolling,
I will not give a sigh;
For I fought for my King and Nation,
And I'm wounded in the lung,
Yet I'll laugh at that last station
If I feel that the Kaiser's stung.

He tried to conquer England,
Jove, the thought of it makes me mad,
But a Kase like Kaiser Billy's,
Sure must make the world feel sad;
And he tried to conquer Russia,
But he got pulled "on the hair,"
So the eagle of old Prussia,
Is eclipsed by the Russian Bear.

G.C.D.

I'm in the Army now,
No more I'll chase the cow;
But such is life
Without a wife,
I'm in the Army now.

I'm fond of bacon, and
The tea all full of sand;
It's weary as sin
To ever be in
The Army of the land.

But, never you mind,
You'll always find
Some hearts of purest gold;
I've found some here,
Be of good cheer,
Remembrance ne'er grows old.

Summerland Supply Company, Limited.

This Newspaper is the "Trade-Journal" of the Buyers of Home Supplies for this District

A MAJORITY of the women who read the Review READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS IN IT WITH EVEN GREATER INTEREST THAN THEY GIVE THE NEWS. For, after all, the news is interesting in an abstract way—usually; while the advertisements are interesting in a directly personal way.

The Review conducts a persistent campaign of education for its readers as to the value and interest to them of the "ads" in the paper. It suggests the value of the SERVICE which the merchants render to them in their advertising.

A business man, engaged in a distinct kind of business, has his "trade journal," a publication devoted to that interest, keeping him in touch with all that is going on in his line. Often his trade journal saves him appreciable sums of money through the facts and tips which it gives to him.

Every woman, who is the "buyer" for a home, is engaged in a very real "business." It is a complex one, and one in which much money may be unwisely spent—and in which economies are nearly always possible. To those buyers for the home the Review comes—with its "store news"—as an indispensable TRADE JOURNAL.

The merchant whose business is not advertised in this trade journal of the home, "buyers" may expect very little attention from those buyers. The merchant whose advertising is fullest and most informing may expect, and receive, the largest share of their attention and favor.
